

U.S. Ambassador Feared Lebanon Kidnap Victim

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — American Ambassador Francis E. Meloy Jr. disappeared today while crossing the dangerous front line between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors and was feared kidnaped, the U.S. Embassy reported.

Meloy, who arrived in this war-torn city last month, was on his way for his first meeting with President-elect Elias Sarkis in the Christian-held Hasmiyah district. He left the seaside U.S. Embassy in the Moslem sector of Beirut in his bullet-proof Chevrolet.

Embassy spokesman Christoffer Ross said he was escorted part of the way by an embassy guard car. But the car left him and economic attache Robert O. Waring with embassy chauffeur Zohair Moghbrabi to continue the crossing in the ambassador's car.

sides reportedly were participating in the search for the missing ambassador.

Meloy was to see Sarkis at 11 a.m. — 4 a.m. EDT — the embassy said. Lebanese journalists quoted officials in Sarkis' entourage saying the president-elect telephoned the embassy to inquire about Meloy's whereabouts about three hours after he was scheduled to arrive.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman confirmed that Meloy and Waring "have been missing since late Wednesday morning ...

"The two men were traveling by car to make an appointment with President-elect Sarkis but failed to reach their destination. We are making every effort to locate the two men and are in touch with governments in the area."

Meloy is a 59-year-old career diplomat who just finished a two-year stint as ambassador to Guatemala. His admirers view him as a man who can handle any situation.

Meloy was born in Washington, D.C., on March 28, 1917, and joined the foreign service at age 29. In between stints in Washington, he served in Paris, Saigon, London and Rome before becoming ambassador to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

While in Guatemala, Meloy oversaw the extensive U.S. relief effort that followed a disastrous earthquake last Feb. 4. His performance caught the eye of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who visited Guatemala three weeks after the earthquake.

In Beirut, Meloy succeeded ailing Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley.

Found With Slain Parents

ORPHANED — Mary Locklear, 2, is being helped into police car by Dallas police officer after her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Locklear were found slain in their Dallas, Tex., home Tuesday. The Locklears were apparently slain

Saturday and discovered Tuesday by a neighbor. Mary and her 3-year-old brother, Billy, Jr., were found in the home, their clothing covered with blood. Their parents had been stabbed numerous times and beaten to death. (AP Wirephoto)

Parrott Will Head United Fund Drive

Bill Dansey, president of the Pitt County United Fund for 1976-77, announced that Don Parrott has accepted the chairmanship of this fall's fund drive.

Parrott is a partner in the accounting firm of John C. Proctor & Co. of Greenville.

"Having worked with the United Fund the past two years, I am very much aware of the need for a successful campaign," the new chairman observed in accepting the key role.

He added, "The monies that are pledged during the coming months are greatly needed by extremely worthwhile organizations. Having seen the generosity of the people of Pitt County in the past, I am sure that they will not fail us this year."

Parrott said that he is "looking forward to the challenge of meeting our goals and helping the agencies that make up the United Fund."

An Oxford native, Parrott attended Oxford High School and earned his associate arts degree in 1963 from Louisburg Junior College prior to attending East Carolina University where he received his degree in accounting in 1963.

He joined John C. Proctor & Co. immediately after graduating from ECU and became a partner in the firm in 1971.

A member of the United Fund's board of directors, Parrott served this past year with Bill Duckett as co-chairman of the Goal Buster Division of the campaign.

Parrott is active in the Greenville Jaycees, serving as vice president and director. In 1973, he received the Outstanding Young Layman Award from the club and in 1976 was the recipient of the chapter's highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award.

The chairman is also a member of the University City Kiwanis Club and is a past president, past vice president, and current treasurer of the Pitt County-Greenville Boys' Club. He was listed in the 1975 and 1976 publications of "Outstanding Young Men of America."

Parrott and his wife, Helen, have three daughters and reside at 303 Glasgow Lane.

The family attends Oakmont Baptist Church.

Sullivan Voted SBC President

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Dr. James L. Sullivan of Nashville, vice president of the Baptist World Alliance, was announced the winner today in balloting for the presidency of the Southern Baptist Convention, the largest protestant denomination in the country.

Sullivan, 66, is a well known Baptist leader and retired executive secretary of the Sunday School Board. He pastored churches in Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee and finally the First Baptist Church of Abilene, Tex. before taking over the Sunday School Board post.

Sullivan, considered a moderate, said before election results were known that, "If people are really modernists in the sense that they no longer believe the Bible, they no longer believe Christ is divine and heaven is real, they will leave Baptist ranks in a hurry."

"You don't have to deal with them. They will depart from us, because they can't feel at home in the conservative stance that we have."

Sullivan was elected on the first ballot. Slightly more than 18,000 messengers have registered at the Norfolk Scope Coliseum, which seats only 11,1 as a result, many messengers have viewed the proceedings via closed-circuit television at adjacent Chrysler Hall and a third facility in nearby Virginia Beach.

Arrest 14 In Morning Raids

CARTHAGE, N.C. (AP) — Fourteen young Moore County residents have been arrested in an early morning drug raid.

Carthage police said the raid was the result of a four-month undercover drug investigation.

Sheriff C.G. Wimberly said the arrests began about 4 a.m. Monday at the suspects' homes and continued through the day.

Most of the youths—who ranged in age from 18 to 28—were charged with felony possession and possession with intent to sell or distribute a controlled substance.

Donors Urged

Union Carbide Corp. has issued an invitation to the general public to take part in the Bloodmobile visit scheduled at the plant Thursday.

The firm urged the general public to donate blood at the plant during the 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Bloodmobile visit.

A visit for employees at Procter & Gamble is scheduled for Friday at the P&G plant from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Income Rate Keeps Rising

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The personal income of Americans increased at an annual rate of 10 per cent in May, its third straight month at that pace, the government said today.

In another economic report, the Commerce Department said current international trade transactions slipped into an $80 million deficit, the first such deficit in more than a year.

The personal income report indicates consumers, who have provided the primary support for the nation's economic recovery, continue to have a substantial flow of income.

Personal income advanced at an annual rate of $11.1 billion in May to an annual rate of $1,357.2 billion, the Commerce Department said. Personal income had climbed $10.1 billion at an annual rate the month before.

Per capita personal income for May worked out to $6,313, compared to $6,264 in April.

The advance at an annual rate of 10 per cent in the last three months has been well above the 7.9 per cent advance over all of last year.

The measure of current account transactions in foreign trade replaces the department's balance of trade figures as the government's primary indicator of the nation's international trade position.

Some economists inside and outside the government said the old measure had become misleading.

The $80 million deficit was the first since a $169 million deficit in the fourth quarter of 1974 and contrasts to a $3.09 million surplus in the last three months of 1975.

Commerce blamed a sharp deficit in the nation's merchandise trade.

But it was countered somewhat by the fact that capital flowed out of the country slower than it flowed in during the first quarter. The outflow came to $4.5 billion.

Capital flowed out of the United States $5.2 billion faster than it flowed in during the last three months of 1975.

The international flow of capital was noted separately from the measure of current account transactions.

Oil Spill In River

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Overflow of a tank being filled was blamed for several hundred gallons of No. 5 fuel oil that spilled into the Tar River Tuesday.

The state Department of Natural and Economic Resources said the spill occurred between 2 and 3 a.m. and identified the owner of the tank as Summerfield Industries, a textile firm.

Efforts were made to catch the fuel downstream, but rain caused much of it to get past the oil trapping device, the department reported. No fish kills or other problems were reported.

The company could be liable for any damages caused by the spill and could also be subject to a fine if negligence is shown to be responsible, the agency said.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy Friday through Sunday with scattered thundershowers along coast Friday and Saturday. Warm the three days with highs in the low to mid-80s.

Accreditation Of Hospital Reported

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

There'll be no trip to Chicago for Pitt Memorial Hospital trustees and administrators this year as the hospital has been given a year's accreditation unreservedly, it was reported at a hospital board meeting last night.

Last year it was necessary for representatives of the Board to visit the Joint Committee on Accreditation headquarters to defend the hospital's position.

The Board accepted the resignation of Lewis Renn of Jacksonville, who asked to be released from his duties as a trustee because he is finding himself unable to attend meetings. The request was forwarded to the County Commissioners who will ask the UNC Board of Governors to recommend a replacement.

A letter of commendation on the work of Dr. Ira Hardy on a special House and Senate subcommittee on professional liability insurance was noted. The letter was from the N. C. Hospital Association praising the efforts of Dr. Hardy, who is a neurosurgeon on the Pitt Memorial staff.

A lease with purchase option for radiology equipment for the new hospital was approved. The deal is with General Electric Company and the cost per month will be $8,227.84, the Board was told.

Kim Taylor, Community

Relations Secretary of the East Carolina University Student Government Association was unanimously approved by the trustees present to serve on the New Hospital Gifts Committee. She was recommended by H. G. Leslie, chairman of the Gifts Committee.

Hospital Construction Manager Ralph Hall reported that the moving of equipment into the new hospital probably will have to be delayed from about July 1 to the first of August. He said he sees no prospect for the delay of full occupancy near the end of December, however.

Bids on the equipment for the hospital will be opened June 24 at 2 p.m. at the courthouse. Hospital Materials Manager Bob Barnes reported. He said bids

Six Dead As S. Africa Police Battle Rioters

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police battled 10,000 black high school pupils in a segregated township outside Johannesburg today and at least six persons were reported killed and 33 others injured.

Some 300 police armed with guns, tear gas and dogs and supported by helicopters moved in to seal off the rampaging pupils protesting the mandatory use of the Afrikaans language in the schools. The language, derived from Dutch, is used by descendants of the Boer settlers.

Police said the violence was spreading in the massive Soweto township reserved for over one million Africans about eight miles south of Johannesburg.

"The whole situation is escalating and it is impossible for me to tell you exactly what's going on," said an official at Soveto police headquarters.

An official of the Johannesburg ambulance department said the bodies of two policemen and two children had so far been removed from the riot area.

A white man and an elderly black man also were reported killed in the rioting. The ambulance official said his men were harassed by rock-throwing crowds.

Of the 33 so far known to have been injured and taken to Baragwanath Hospital, at least 19 had bullet wounds, a hospital spokesman said. Four or five policemen were reported among the injured.

The South African Press Association said the casualties occurred after police opened fire to break up the riot.

Brigadier R. Le Roux, who was commanding police operations, said the situation was "very bad." He said houses, cars and other property was being burned and stoned.

Some of the pupils reportedly seized a policeman and were using him as a hostage to order police to withdraw from the riot area.

The rioting began when high school pupils began congregating at several points in Soweto to march on Phefeni Junior Secondary High School, focus of a five-week-old protest by some 800 Soweto pupils against the use of Afrikaans in schools.

PARK NUMBER

I am planning a camping trip to Linville Falls National Park in the western part of North Carolina at the end of this month and the first couple of days of July I want to make a reservation for a campground but I have been unable to reach the forest ranger there because his number has been temporarily disconnected. Is there a number I can call to find out how to get in touch with the people there and make a reservation? L.W.

Hotline called the National Forestry Service closest to Greenville, Croatan National Forest in New Bern. The ranger told us that a number to call at Linville Falls National Park is (704) 652-4841. If there is no answer call (704) 258-2850, ext. 601, the office of the Forest Supervisor.

Hot Summer Of Racial Tension Faces Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain faces a long hot summer of racial tension that already has produced clashes in several cities. Five men, three nonwhites and two whites, have been killed in London in the last three weeks.

The Observer, one of Britain's leading Sunday newspapers, warned of "a time bomb ticking away" in the ghettos of West Indian, African and Asian immigrants.

"The situation is like a powderkeg," said Ravi Jain, leader of the National Association of Indian Youth. "All it needs is a match."

There is a nationwide surge of sentiment against black and brown immigrants from former colonies because of fears that the economically troubled country will be swamped by them. White rightists of the militant National Front and nonwhite youths supported by white leftists have battled in London, Bradford, Blackburn and other cities.

"We're afraid to walk on the streets," said one militant Asian. "We don't advocate violence, but if it comes to our door we won't turn our backs on it."

Two weeks ago, police officers battled with young Asian rioters in Southall, a West London district where half the 50,000 population is Asian, after whites stabbed a young Sikh to death. Angry Asians later marched through the streets chanting "We want blood."

The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, condemned recent demonstrations against nonwhite immigrants as "a disgrace to Britain, likely to do incalculable harm to community relations."

"We're racing against time," Cmdr. Peter Marshall, head of Scotland Yard's community relations division, said in an interview.

Styed Alav Rasul, general secretary of the standing conference of Asian organizations, warned, "We may not be able to keep the lid on in Asian communities indefinitely in the face of violent racialist attacks."

Sir Robert Mark, London's outspoken police commissioner, warned last week that black militants in the British capital are becoming more violent, and that white policemen are their main targets.

Trouble has been brewing for years in the black ghettos, especially in London, because of discrimination in jobs, housing and education. Unemployment among young blacks is about 20 per cent, twice the rate for young whites. The police claim the crime rate is rising alarmingly.

Things To Do This Summer For Enjoyment Officers Named At Convention

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Recipes for an enjoyable summer can include anything from painting pictures on the bottom of your swimming pool to saving money on your electrical appliances. Here are some reminders:

... To get a big yield from your vegetable garden, rotate your crops so you can freeze and can the produce at different stages, making the work easier. (In packing allow head-space for expansion in freezing. An inch-or-so in a quart container or a half-inch in pints should provide enough space.)

... If you do not have air conditioning, keep your windows and doors closed until evening if the indoor air is cooler than the outdoor air. To reduce kitchen heat use your range early in the morning and after 6 p.m. Consider fans for spot cooling. Showers use less water than baths.

... Store aerosol paint cans in shaded, cool areas if the can lacks proper storage directions.

... Keep children away from outdoor machinery such as mowers and try to destroy poison ivy before it becomes a problem. If it is burned it can irritate eyes. Glasses should be worn outdoors to protect eyes from fumes, pesticides and small chips of wood, rocks or other debris that might fly off chain saws and mowers.

... Keep swimming pools clean. Accidents can occur when leaves and debris cloud the pool and the bottom becomes slippery. If a lot of swimming takes place the filter should be run often, perhaps all day to keep the pool at maximum cleanliness.

... For an artistic pick-up consider painting the bottom of the pool in simple designs. Designs might include big wavy lines, fish, or flowers.

Large designs are more attractive than little ones. Transfer the strokes you have made on paper to the grid you've marked off in the pool. In choosing colors, blues and greens with white come off best. It might be a temptation to use some hot colors, but cool colors are really more soothing.

... Wavy designs provide a nice rippling effect, stylized fish in elliptical shapes can be drawn as if they are in a school and in shades of blue and green for an easy but effective art adventure.

... Adding a few lights to your home grounds may improve your summer enjoyment tremendously. Lighting can provide magical effects on a summer evening especially if you are entertaining. (Planning parties during the full moons can be helpful too.)

... You can even use the fishing line of the family fisherman to bolster a few areas outdoors. Among the 100 or so tips related to non-fishing subjects that have been sent to one company (Newton Line) are these:

... In the garden you can train vines with the line because it is invisible and doesn't detract from the view; use it as ties for plants, garden section markers and to suspend bird feeders (it deters squirrels who slip on the smooth finish). It may also be used for tent and awning repair.

... Inspect the outdoors for containers that might serve as breeding grounds for mosquitoes. Pails that catch water, old tires, tin cans and even a child's toy truck can hold standing water. The insects also like to nest in tall grass so keep as much of the lawn mowed as possible.

... Children should get a lesson in ecology before you see them stomping on earthworms that enrich the soil by permitting the penetration of water and air. If the season is damp more earthworms may be found near the surface. A dry spell will keep them well below ground as they seek moisture.

GREENSBORO — The North Carolina Council of the American Postal Workers Union and Auxiliary held its fifth annual convention at the Four Seasons-Holiday Inn here Thursday through Saturday.

Mrs. Wanda Wiseman of Greenville was elected president of the auxiliary to serve for the next two years. She is presently serving as president of the Greenville Chapter of the Auxiliary to the APWU, a post which she had held for the past three years. Mrs. Wiseman served as secretary of the Greenville Chapter for three years prior to being elected President.

On the state level she served three years as vice president and was elected to finish out the president's term of office at the auxiliary's Spring meeting held in March in Salisbury.

Other state officers elected were: Secretary-Editor, Deloris Moore, Winston-Salem; Treasurer, Georgia Wood, Winston-Salem; First Vice President, Martha Perkins, Winston-Salem; Second Vice President, Judith Stancill, Greenville; and Third Vice President, Sue Adams, Greensboro.

Delegates to the convention from Greenville were Sybil Hardee, Ray Hardee, Ruel Stancill, Joe Wingate and David Wiseman.

Mrs. Wiseman and Mrs. Stancill were installed in their respective offices Saturday by Mrs. Louise Lindsey, national vice president of the Auxiliary of APWU, from Eastpoint, Ga., and Thomas J. Coffey, regional coordinator, from Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Stancill is presently secretary-legal representative for the local Greenville Chapter and had held the office of "Tattler" editor and secretary on the state level.

Couple Honored Sunday Afternoon At Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis of Greenville were entertained Sunday afternoon at a reception in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The surprise reception was given by their sons, Charles Jr., Tony and Wayne, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Evans of Greenville.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Evans and invited into the dining room. The refreshment table was covered with an off-white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons, fuji mums and pompons with lighted candles.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Stanley Peaden, Miss Judy Nobles, Mrs. Fountain Evans, Mrs. K. B. Dickerson and Mrs. Gorman Dickerson.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Hugh Alan Stox on a table decorated with wedding bells and an arrangement of snapdragons.

The honoree wore a floral printed dress complemented by a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Hilda Alexander and Mrs. Edward Holland presided at the guest register.

The couple was married June 9, 1951.

Approximately 85 guests called during the afternoon.

NEW PLANTS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Newly bought houseplants need special conditioning to adjust to a home environment, say Cooperative Extension specialists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Without gradual conditioning to lower light intensity and humidity, new plants may lose their foliage within a week or two. To prevent this, the agents suggest placing the plants in a south window for about two and a half weeks, then in an east window for the same length of time before moving it to a permanent location.

In addition, water should be allowed to filter through the planters' drainage holes to remove excess fertilizer or salts that cause leaf drop in combination with lower light intensities.

Often recipes call for as little as a tablespoon or two of tomato paste and you have a good deal left over in a can you have opened. Store the remaining tomato paste in the freezer and it will keep well.

A Sure Tipoff For Teenage Drivers

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer is here, I notice so many teenagers driving much too fast and recklessly.

Two years ago I clipped the enclosed editorial from our local newspaper and showed it to our teenage son and daughter, and after they read it they became two of the most sensible drivers alive.

Please print it, Abby. It may do the same for others.

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: It's well worth an entire column. Who wrote it? And for which newspaper? I want to credit the author.

PLEASE GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off—going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled, I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17, I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please...somebody...wake me up! Get me out of here. I can't bear to see my Mom and Dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can barely walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And, I can't believe it either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17!

DEAR ABBY: My very good friend and neighbor helped my husband care for our two small children last year while I was hospitalized for two weeks. I thought I would never be able to repay her for her kindness, until three weeks ago when my husband broke down and confessed that during that time, they had had an affair. He said it was all over now and he is terribly ashamed, and he begged my forgiveness. (Yes, I forgave him.)

This "friend" doesn't know that my husband has told me, and now I cannot stand the sight of this two-faced woman. What should I do when she appears at my door with her sweet smile and a chocolate pie—my husband's favorite? We own our home, and I don't want to move.

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: I presume that your husband knows this woman well enough to speak to her, so ask him to tell her that he has made a full confession. If you can't find it in your heart to forgive her, as you did him, your actions will reveal it, and she'll know whether or not to present her sweet face and chocolate pie at your door again.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Better Buying Is Taught To Consumers Through Pilot Program

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

The director of four suburban New York cooperative supermarkets who tried to discourage his customers from impulse shopping said his stores "took a real beating."

The co-op members didn't get their usual rebate that year, said Gerald Rosenstrauch.

"We lost about $200,000 in stores that do about $12 million a year in business," he said.

Rosenstrauch's comments were made at a meeting of the Consumer Law Training Center, a pilot program in consumer education. Its aim: training community leaders and social service workers to help their members become better buyers of goods and services.

The federally funded program is administered and taught by

New York Law School, the New York Public Interest Research Group, Inc. and Brooklyn Legal Services Corporation B in New York City as a pilot for communities all over the United States.

Most who attend the sessions are fulltime staff members of antipoverty organizations in the New York City metropolitan area.

Helen Coady is an attorney and VISTA volunteer with an Italian-American consumer group in south Brooklyn. Mrs. Coady said she and a colleague, Annette Gula, signed up because "there isn't that much literature in consumer law, except in newspapers that carry consumer columns. Even sophisticated people can be in the dark about law."

Mrs. Coady said the Congress of Italian-American Consumers is staffed primarily by VISTA volunteers. Among the problems they handle are mediation of disputes between members and merchants over defective merchandise or repairs.

"If they need an advocate in small claims court or the rent control office, we also try to act in that capacity," she said.

Another participant is Jeffrey Abrandt, a second year law student from Flushing in the Queens borough of New York City, who made a study of supermarket shopping for the CLTC program.

He found about half the purchases of an average supermarket customer are made on impulse, buying items not on the shopper's list.

Abrandt said some impulse items are high-markup products such as razor blades, candy and photographic film that are cheaper in discount drugstore or variety store.

He criticized end displays as manipulative: candy, soda and snacks are displayed at child's eye level to coerce adult shoppers into buying unwanted, and often low-nutrition, high-cost products.

End (of aisle) displays of large numbers of a product give the impression of a sale of nonsale items, he said. Overflowing bins are used for the same reason.

Merchants who coordinate advertising with store displays can increase their sales 15 to 25 per cent, he said.

Abrandt said many market recipe planners and weekly meal plan literature, more often benefit the store than its customer because the material usually requires the purchase of products not on sale. It helps a merchant get rid of hard-to-sell items, he said.

He said meat departments also are traps for the unwary. Stores hike prices substantially when they cut or trim meat or poultry, "something you can do at home just as well as they can," he said. "The more you do for yourself, the better off you'll be."

He said family packs in the meat department often are a device to get rid of inferior cuts of meat, and they frequently cost more per pound than individual meat cuts.

Abrandt said cuts of meat similar in taste and quality rarely are displayed together because their separation discourages shoppers from comparing prices and selecting the best buy, he added.

He warned against nonsale specials and featured items.

"Check to make sure it is a sale price. You could beat the system if you bought only specials in each supermarket."

Cookbooks Are Being Aimed At Singles

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It has been said that the only thing that will drive some of those who live alone into the kitchen is the threat of starvation. But more and more cookbooks are being aimed at them and childless couples, with recipes geared to their needs.

For one thing singles, especially men, are learning that cooking is no big deal, even if you have a full time job. No longer can they say that the march to the kitchen scares off more bachelors than the Wedding March. Many food books today are dedicated to the proposition that any single can eat and entertain well and even elegantly without spending a year training at some school for gourmets.

Frozen foods and other conveniently packaged items have also made the problem of cooking simpler for the single person or couple. Foods sold in individual portions further simplify things for small householders. Most supermarkets today package chicken parts for one or two, and small steaks and single chops are no problem. And you can usually get the butcher to make up a small amount of hamburger.

Such vegetables as fresh artichokes, potatoes, tomatoes and cucumbers can be bought on whatever scale you want. If you are buying fresh peas, green beans or limas, go ahead and get several pounds, shell or snap what you need and freeze the rest in plastic bags.

Roasts are the biggest problem for single persons or couples. Most of us have discovered at some time that a mini-roast tends to get tough and dry. Far better to buy one of about four pounds and plan ahead what you want to do with leftovers. The remnant of a leg of lamb can make a delectable curry or stew. And roast beef leftovers can be transformed into a delicious meat pie or hash if chopped up with onions and potatoes.

Leftovers have many uses. You can use vegetable scraps in a salad or chopped into a dip as an appetizer. And scrambled eggs remaining from breakfast can be added to such soups as oxtail or stuffed into tomatoes. Stale bread is a natural for

NEW TAPESTRY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first American exhibition of a new tapestry by artist Joan Miro opened recently at The World Trade Center here.

The tapestry, which will be on exhibit until July 5, was loaned through the Galerie Maeght in Paris. The untitled work is 35 feet long, 20 feet high and weighs three tons. Vibrant shades of green, red, orange, yellow and black predominate the wool and hemp tapestry. It hangs on an off-white marble wall in the lobby mezzanine of the South Tower Building, where it is visible from the Trade Center's outdoor plaza.

When a recipe calls for orange-flavor liqueur, you can use Grand Marnier, Triple Sec, Cointreau or Curacao.

Here is a chicken liver saute for a single person.

- 1/4 pound chicken livers
- 2 tablespoons chopped onions
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon mixed Italian herbs
- Salt to taste

Saute liver and onions to desired doneness in butter. Add seasonings and salt and serve on a piece of hot toast. Good with chilled white wine.

Casual Look For Summer

SUPER NATURALS—Topping it off for warmer weather are a whole range of big tops, often with flared or roll-up sleeves in a variety of fabrics from natural gauze and crinkle cotton to dish towel stripings. At left, pared down big tops in soft, gauzy fabrics have a touch of Mexican inspired embroidery. At right, belted or loose, the look is casual in easy-care polyester and cotton and just great over country pants or city skirts. (Fashions by Ship'n Shore.)

Future Drop In Tobacco-Use?

A survey by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health of the Center for Disease Control indicates that the percentage of adults in the nation who smoke cigarettes has fallen during the past six years.

The conductors of the survey say it also shows that attitudes against public smoking are strong now in the country.

The CDC says that of males 21 or older the percentage who smoked in 1975 was 39.3 percent, compared with 42.2 percent in 1970, and 52.8 percent in 1964. For women the figures were 28.9 percent in 1975 and 30.5 percent in 1970 and 31.5 percent in 1964.

The report claims that 70 percent of the respondents feel that smoking should be allowed in fewer places, 56 percent said cigarette advertising should be stopped entirely (it is not now allowed in the broadcast media).

Despite all this, the survey found that 57 percent feel they will, or probably will, be smoking five years from now.

It is difficult to comprehend what these figures mean for the tobacco industry in which our area has such an important interest. The tobacco industry worldwide still seems to be doing quite well, but if the survey figures are meaningful we could see a drop in total use of tobacco in the years ahead. This is particularly true if the population growth levels off, as many observers feel it is doing.

We have long felt that smoking should be a matter of individual choice and unduly restrictive advertising bans, or punitive restrictions on where one may smoke are an infringement on freedom of choice.

We think the tobacco industry will be around for a long time. In the meantime many cigarette companies have diversified into new fields, and the tobacco growers should keep their options open to turn to other crops and farm products at some time in the future.

If Others Can, So Can Boston's People

Busing of school children has brought severe trouble to Boston where 21,000 pupils are being moved about each day to achieve integration.

This week the Supreme Court decided not to review the order by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity, Jr. which provided for the busing plan.

It is a difficult situation for Boston school patrons, but many other cities have found the answers to the violence which accompanied school desegregation. Boston can, too.

THIS AFTERNOON

Court Costs Are Going Up

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A day in court will cost you more beginning in July.

The increased fees will provide nearly $2 million statewide to provide 155 additional court clerks in 96 counties to help meet the increased paperwork falling on court employes as part of the requirements of the Criminal Procedure Law.

A host of other changes will also take place July 1 to relieve some of the confusion and paperwork which have caused court clerks, magistrates and law officers to moan about lengthy delays in their work routines created by the required procedures.

Costs Increase

But the most visible impact will be those court costs: for the average District Court criminal case such as a traffic offense the rate goes up only $2, from $25 to $27. That will break down to $19 for the court, $2 arrest fee, $3 facility fee, and $3 for the law officer's retirement fund.

District Court civil cases will go up from $16 to $24. No arrest fee or retirement fund money is involved in the civil total, but a great deal of the new paperwork is concentrated there.

Criminal cases in Superior Court will cost the defendant $48 instead of $40, with $28 going to the court, $2 arrest fee, $15 facility fee, and $3 to the retirement fund. Upper court civil cases go up from $26 to $34.

About $1.6 million of the increased court costs will go to hire and equip the 155 additional deputy court clerks which court personnel have insisted are needed not only to meet demands of the criminal procedures law, but other new duties such as handling child support matters in the courts, and a flurry of new forms coming from the state Administrative Office of the Courts.

A committee of the General Assembly chaired by State Rep. Liston B. Ramsey, D-Madison, looked into the numerous complaints from court and law enforcement people prior to the May session of the General Assembly. Representatives from the Criminal Code Commission which authored the revised Criminal Procedures Law worked with Ramsey's committee to help iron out problems with the revised rules.

Most of the major problems were ironed out by the legislature in May, but Ramsey will submit a report with additional recommendations to the 1977 General Assembly.

To The Cell

Meanwhile, effective July 1, one of the big complaints heard recently will be eliminated: drunk or violent people just arrested can be taken immediately to the lockup instead of having to appear before a magistrate first.

There had been several cases in which furniture had been destroyed by such defendants. Additionally, law officers had complained of spending long hours waiting on such arrestees to calm down and appear before the magistrate before taking them to a cell.

As to paperwork, which court people said was literally drowning them, the revised law not only provides additional help, but trims the record keeping. Where four or five different forms were required in processing a defendant on arrest, those have been simplified and consolidated.

Where the law required that a transcript of the pre-trial hearings and other court processes be made and transcribed, the new law requires only that the recording be made and "preserved" for use in event it is needed. The typing can be delayed till then.

Causing some trouble for lawyers is another change which says a person in a mental health facility will have any court proceedings at that facility rather than in the county where the original commitment took place. That keeps sheriff's deputies from having to ferry the people about the state for court proceedings, but requires prosecutors and defense attorneys to travel instead.

Ramsey hopes the immediate changes will at least relieve the crunch, and with other changes in 1977 resolve the problems resulting from the Criminal Procedures Act which was adopted to guarantee speedy court hearings for defendants and to make sure none got lost in the shuffle between booking, jail, and courtroom.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Henry, SALT And Apples

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

Fulfilling longtime expectations of his critics inside the administration, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told a recent top secret meeting he is pondering one last effect for a SALT II agreement in 1976—timed to surface only after President Ford clinches the presidential nomination.

Kissinger reopened the new SALT prospect the first week in June at a hush-hush meeting, one of very few held lately, of the National Security's (NSC) Verification Panel, top policymaking body on strategic arms limitation talks (SALT). Without setting a date, Kissinger said the Verification Panel would meet again soon to hear a new U.S. initiative—perhaps this week.

Any initiative apt to interest the Soviet Union would enrage Republican conservatives. Consequently, some careful SALT-watchers feel Dr. Kissinger will keep everything secret until Mr. Ford has clinched the nomination against Ronald Reagan. That might not come until the August convention in Kansas City.

This tends to confirm the explanation of one critical high-ranking government official several weeks ago as to why Kissinger has been so quiet about SALT: "He's like a kid looking at the apple stand, waiting to swipe one when the cop leaves, and the cop is Ronald Reagan." The departure of Reagan has been delayed far beyond the imagination of anybody in the Ford administration.

For his part, Kissinger feels a SALT II agreement is necessary now both in the interests of long-term U.S. security and to control the global arms race. What's more, the President's political advisers agree with the seventh floor of the state Department that a signed SALT II deal would help Mr. Ford in the general election.

The problem is what it would take to get such a deal. In the forthcoming Verification Panel meeting, Kissinger really has two general options: one is the NSC-approved proposal turned down flat by the Kremlin; the other is Kissinger's softer version which raised a storm in the NSC last January. The softer version, hard-liners argue, gives away too much in permitting the Soviet Backfire bomber and restricting U.S. cruise missiles.

Even if Reagan has been eliminated as the cop on the corner by the time Kissinger's new plan surfaces, there would be important opposition within the NSC. However, the decision ultimately is not the NSC's but the President's, and administration hard-liners have little faith he could keep his Secretary of State, backed by his top political advisers, from grabbing an apple.

Rhodesia Backfire
The full measure of Republican fury at those Reagan-the-war-monger commercials came not only in California, where the spots were aired non-stop, but also in Ohio, where they never were used at all.

The California commercials, incorrectly depicting Ronald Reagan as ready to send U.S. troops to Rhodesia in Vietnam style, may have contributed to the President's unexpectedly low popular vote in Ohio and surely generated bitterness in Republican circles there. Indeed, during President Ford's late Ohio campaigning, two at-large members of the state's Ford delegation—one delegate and one alternate—wired the President in Dayton warning

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Experts Proved Wrong

SAN FRANCISCO—Now and then—not often, but only now and then—one's simple faith in the ultimate wisdom of the people gets reaffirmed.

This faith was pleasantly reaffirmed in California a week ago.

It was especially pleasant because you rarely expect to encounter common sense in California. If you ran a mile-and-a-half race to determine the looniest state in the Union, California would win by a mile and a quarter. This marvelous part of the country often seems to be populated chiefly by giddy starlets, crazy professors, hippies, yuppies, food nuts, nudists, cultists, beach boys and the "Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise." At any given daylight moment, more people are in their cars than are in their homes. To contemplate lunacy, contemplate San Francisco: Nobody in his right mind would have built a city on these precipitate hills.

In view of this cheerful madness, it was therefore all the more encouraging that California's voters last week rejected "Proposition 13" by a margin of two to one. This was a referendum on the future of nuclear power. Those who supported the proposition made no bones about it: Their purpose was to halt the construction of nuclear plants. Ralph Nader said he would rather see the people go back to candles than have their lamps lighted by electricity from nuclear generation. The proponents painted pathetic pictures of the horrible risks involved in production of atomic power.

In the fertile fields of California, such horror stories are easily rooted. Hereabouts, the world end in every public park; apostles of Armageddon outnumber the purveyors of porn. Somewhere beneath these sunny hills, the San Andreas fault lies sleeping, and the thought of disaster is seldom far away. The opponents of Proposition 13 thus had a formidable task of talking sense to the people.

Thankfully, the opponents did talk sense, and the people listened. Big business teamed

Other Editors Say Red Tape Costly

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Someone once said that if Fascism ever comes to power in the United States, it will do so under the banner of Civil Liberties. Today, in the name of "racial justice," the all-powerful U.S. Department of HEW is forcing colleges and universities throughout the United States—including private, non-government—dunned schools—to march in regimented goose-step in accord with HEW mandated "reforms" in the field of education. Such is the change made in a feature article appearing in the May, 1976 Reader's Digest, and the accusation appears to be supported by the evidence.

Example: Reed College in Oregon was forced by HEW to advertise nationally for a needed few faculty members. Result: the small private college was flooded with over 6,000 job applications. Not content with that, HEW further demanded that the school keep records on all of the thousands of applicants not hired, and submit detailed reports to Washington as to race, sex, job qualifications, prior experience and why Reed did not hire them! Cost to Reed: over $40,000 for useless, wasteful paperwork. And if it cost Reed $40,000 to do the original paper, it probably cost the government another 80,000 of your tax dollars to file, sort, tabulate and otherwise fiddle around with the papers in Washington.

Other schools report the same extremism by HEW. The University of California at Berkeley spent an estimated $400,000 in paperwork and bureaucratic detailing to comply with HEW demands. Multiply those amounts by all of the colleges and universities in America, and then add the cost of Federal administration, and the total cost is beyond conception or calculation.

But the monetary penalty is only part of the story. Declares the Digest: "HEW (has) proclaimed control over virtually every aspect of college life, from admissions policy and physical—education classes to off-campus housing." When Brown University told an HEW bureaucrat that certain students did not meet the school's requirements for ancient languages in its religious—studies program, the Fed replied: "Then end these old-fashioned programs that require irrelevant languages." The American Association of Presidents of Independent Colleges declares: "A more outrageous violation of academic and religious freedom can scarcely be imagined."

Former Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon, who sponsored the original Title IX, now says that if she thought that "the legislation was designed to do some of the things which HEW now says it was designed to do... I myself would not have voted for it."

Potential Energy Said Wasted

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—While America bemoans its shortage of power, two-thirds of the potential electric energy in moving water is wasted, said David Lillenthal, an advocate of small hydropower installation.

In many instances, said Lillenthal, former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Atomic Energy Commission, small units can be producing on existing waterways and dams within 12 to 15 months.

"Every moment that moving water is not being used means that much energy wasted," he said. Hydropower now supplies 20 million people. The federal government estimates the potential at another 40 million. Lillenthal thinks its more "The potential is enormous," he said, "even though there is a curious blindness that hydro is all used up." The Energy Research and Development Administration did not even include water power in its budget.

A "manageable projects" person, Lillenthal is irritated by political rhetoric and big, long-range plans that remain stalled for years, discouraging and disillusioning people and spreading an atmosphere of defeat.

As chairman of Development and Resources Corp. he has demonstrated the opposite at sites throughout the world, including the integrated development of entire valleys—power, agriculture, education, housing, industry.

The technology of small generators is proven, he said, and in many places the dams are in place. Ecologically, the addition of small water-wheels to existing reservoirs would seem to create relatively little controversy.

"Every city and town that has a reservoir where water spills could capture it and make energy," he said in an interview. Even the locks on irrigation canals and rivers are suitable, he believes.

Meanwhile, research often is aimed at the wind and the sun, whose real potential is many years away. Lillenthal thinks coal is our best bet, but he concedes it has major environmental problems. He sees water as an immediate and practical partial remedy.

But even hydro power, "an orphan in Washington," not even being included in the budget of ERDA, is delayed by the notion that only large installations and rapidly falling water are

Tourist In East Berlin

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
BERLIN (UPI)—"You are leaving the American sector," the sign at Checkpoint Charlie warned.

Our bus rolled past the sign after we were waved by the wooden-frame Allied checkpoint building by an American GI and turned into a fenced-in compound for Communist inspection and clearance before entering East Berlin.

No visit to Berlin could be really complete without a look behind the wall the Communists built through the city. Even though time was short, our West Berlin hosts arranged for a half-day tour on the other side for our party of American journalists.

"Passports, please," said a blank-faced uniformed inspector as she boarded the bus and moved down the aisle. Photographs were checked carefully, and our names compared to those on a list on a clipboard before the documents were returned.

Two East German soldiers inspected the bus itself, looking under the hood and inside baggage compartments. (Inspection was even tougher on the way out, with one soldier checking the interior of the bus while another examined the underside with a mirror mounted on wheels.)

Cleared, we zig-zagged slowly through a maze of anti-refugee obstacles. A barrier was lifted, and we rolled down Friedrichstrasse in East Berlin.

After a short drive through nearly deserted streets, we stopped to pick up our East Berlin guide (West Berlin guides are barred), who introduced herself as Mrs. Krueger and welcomed us to the capital of the German Democratic Republic.

Mrs. Krueger was informative and interesting, even though her commentary contained frequent plugs for the Socialist way of life and the tremendous economic and other progress she said was being made under the hammer and sickle.

As West Berlin is a showplace for democracy, so has East Berlin become a showplace for Communism.

A few World War II ruins remain, but most of East Berlin

Semi-annual pension checks for 26 widows of Civil War veterans have been received at the offices of Clerk of Court J.F. Harrington and are being distributed to the wives of the old soldiers, but not a single veteran is living in Pitt County.

Franklin Jackson was the last veteran to receive a pension check from the clerk's office here, the files show. He received his last pension payment in June, 1933.

Pension checks being delivered here total $1,500.

Strength For Today

THE SIGNIFICANT SMALL THINGS

It is amazing the extent to which little things can cause trouble in the world. Doctors tell us that the clot which causes a stroke or a coronary occlusion is sometimes no larger than the head of a pin. A speck of dirt in the injector can bring a great diesel engine to a stop. Fatal disease germs are so small that they can be seen only through a microscope, and some of the most deadly agents of destruction defy detection even by this means.

We pay a great deal of attention to the big things of life and all too little attention to things which at first glance appear to be insignificant. Newspapers periodically carry accounts of tornadoes and earthquakes which cause much loss of life. Yet every year more people are killed by insignificant household accidents than by natural disasters. The little things in life have a tremendous significance. The wise know this and act accordingly.

Tobacco Industry Said Target Of SEC Probe

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating the tobacco industry for possible illegal contributions and overseas bribes, the Charlotte Observer says it has learned from industry lobbyists and other sources.

The reported investigation comes on the heels of disclosures of illegal payments by R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc., parent firm of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., and the Loews Corp., parent firm of the Lorillard Co.

The newspaper said the SEC would not comment on the probe.

Reynolds and Loews voluntarily told the SEC recently that some of their executives had used corporate money to make contributions to politicians, which is illegal. Both companies also said they had made "questionable" payments overseas.

The Observer, in today's editions, quoted sources as saying the revelations by Reynolds and Loews stirred the interest of SEC investigators. One source was quoted as saying the SEC knew about the oil industry but did not know about the tobacco industry.

Companies coming forward voluntarily with disclosures of past violations have been getting off without further SEC scrutiny, but the SEC is giving the tobacco industry a closer look, the paper said.

Following the May 28 disclosures by Reynolds, SEC investigators contacted the Tobacco Institute, an industry lobby group in Washington, according to the newspaper account.

Confirmation of this came from John F. Mills, senior vice president for governmental relations of the Tobacco Institute.

Mills was quoted as saying lawyers from the institute have been talking with lawyers from the institute's major members, including Reynolds, Lorillard, Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., Liggett and Myers Inc. of Durham, N. C., and Philip Morris Inc. of New York City.

Lobbyist Control Bill Approved

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major attempt in 30 years to increase federal regulation of lobbyists faces attempts in the House to dilute or kill it after the plan won lopsided Senate passage.

Legislation, passed 82 to 9 Tuesday in the Senate, would provide for strict disclosure requirements for the lobbyists who seek to influence legislation or the award of government contracts or grants worth more than $1 million.

The bill would extend lobbying registration and reporting requirements to executive branch activities for the first time in history.

The executive branch was included because of disclosures that certain large aerospace and defense contractors routinely spent large sums entertaining military and civilian officials responsible for contract awards, research, development and procurement.

Common Cause, the public interest group, lobbied for the bill, while Ralph Nader's associates, traditional allies of Common Cause, were vehemently opposed. They say the bill would hit hardest at small, public interest groups with limited resources. They are expected to fight it in the House.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., floor manager of the bill, said the hearings by his committee revealed that while "10,000 persons may be paid at any one time to engage in lobbying efforts ... under 2,000 of these lobbyists are now actually registered."

These are the major requirements in the Senate bill:

—That an organization register as a lobbyist if it made 12 personal contacts with a member of Congress in any quarter, spent more than $250 to hire a lawyer to lobby for it or spent more than $5,000 on a campaign to have citizens write their congressman.

—That all registered lobbyists file quarterly reports outlining their total lobbying campaign.

—That the reports include major issues in which the organization was interested, all persons in Congress it had contacted, all substantial gifts to members of Congress, total amounts spent and sources of contributions over $2,500.

So-called home-state organizations which only make contact with that state's representatives or senators are exempted.

Fred Wertheimer, a Common Cause spokesman, said the bill would cause disclosure of the true dimensions of lobbying in Washington.

But Public Citizen, a lobbying arm of Nader's Congress Watch, called the legislation "anti-democratic."

Business Notes

NAMED AS AGENT

Ed Warren, president of Candlewick Estates Inc., announced that Whitley & Associates Real Estate here has been chosen as agents for the subdivision.

As agents for Candlewick Estates, the real estate firm will handle all sales involved in the subdivision.

GBPW MET

The Greenville Business and Professional Women held their regular meeting recently at the Ramada Inn with Jerry Lotterhos, director of the Alcoholism Training Program at East Carolina University as guest speaker.

Lotterhos, who spoke on "Women, alcohol-use and abuse of Magic Spirits," told the gathering that since women have begun working more away from home, increased schedules and contacts indicate an increase in the intake of alcoholic beverages.

All members who have moved to new voting precincts were reminded to register by July 19 in order to be eligible to vote in the upcoming elections.

PROFILE AWARD

North American Fiberglass Corp. of Greenville was featured on the radio program PROFILE over Station WPTF in Raleigh recently.

Graham Flanagan Jr., president of the firm, was interviewed on the 15-minute program and received a Profile Award on behalf of the company from WPTF and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina, sponsor of the program, for its contribution to the industrial growth and development of the state.

SALES INCREASE

Radio Shack's consumer sales in the U. S. and Canada for the month of May were $59,400, an increase of 43 per cent over comparable sales of $41,600,000 during the same month last year.

Tandy Corp., parent company of the Radio Shack store chain, announced that sales from continuing operations during the month exceeded $64,600,000, a gain of 40 per cent over comparable sales during May of last year of $46,000,000.

Radio Shack has over 4,500 stores and dealers in all 50 states and Canada.

BUILDING AWARD

Ronnie Cubitt, manager of Moore's store in Greenville, was one of the managers in Moore's chain notified that Evans Products Retail Group, of which Moore's is a division, has won the first Building Materials Retailer of the Year Award from Building Supply magazine.

The Evans Group was elected tops in the large chain category, doing 75 per cent of its $400 million annual gross sales with consumers. Winners were picked by industry associations, manufacturers and wholesalers participating in the magazine's poll.

No Settlement On Medicaid

RALEIGH (AP) — A dispute between the state and the company which is under contract to pay all of North Carolina's Medicaid claims remained unresolved today despite a five hours of meetings behind closed doors Tuesday.

Tuesday's meeting was aimed at laying out "all the facts and the options available," said Jack Childs, Gov. Jim Holshouser's press secretary.

In addition to Holshouser, those attending the meeting included Human Resources Secretary Phil Kirk Jr. and officials of Health Application Systems (HAS), the California-based company handling the data processing and claims payment portion of North Carolina's Medicaid program.

The company has threatened to cancel its two-year contract with the state unless it gets more money to cover unexpected expenses it has encountered. The contract, which took effect a year ago, calls for the company to pay all Medicaid claims for a top price of $405 million.

State officials appeared reluctant to discuss what transpired in the session.

A meeting planned for Monday was postponed because too many people—about 25—showed up, Kirk said. Nine attended Tuesday's session.

Kirk said last week he intends to hold the company to the contract. In a letter to the company, he said, "The state of North Carolina will not substantially amend or change the current contract because it would void an agreement which the state finds to be workable and viable."

The state recently made an advance payment of $3 million to HAS after the company said it was out of funds to pay hospitals and nursing homes.

The company contended the state should pay an additional $5 million to reimburse it for increased payments to nursing homes and Medicaid recipients incorrectly certified by the state.

'Rookie Of Year' Named

Miss Sarah Dixon of the Pitt County Health Department has been named "Rookie Sanitarian of the Year" by the Northeast Environmental Health Section of the N. C. Public Health Association.

Recalled Washington As Man Who Never Smiled

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the six last survivors of the Revolutionary War remembered George Washington as "a fine looking man, but you never got a smile out of him."
Another recalled that Martha Washington was reduced to using thorns instead of pins on her clothes during the terrible winter at Valley Forge.

These and other memories of men who actually fought for the nation's independence were set down in 1864 by the Rev. Elias Brewster Hillard of Hartford, Conn., grandfather of poet and former Librarian of Congress Archibald MacLeish. Hillard interviewed the six veterans, had them photographed by now anonymous photographers, and published the results in a 64-page book entitled "The Last Men of the Revolution."

Excerpts from the book due to be published in the July issue of Popular Photography magazine indicated that the old soldiers — ranging in age from 100 to 104 — had retained their vigor and mental faculties to a surprising degree. Samuel Downing of Antrim, N. Y., cut down a hemlock tree five feet in circumference on his 100th birthday.

"(Gen. Benedict) Arnold was our fighting general, and a bloody fellow he was," recalled Downing. "He didn't care for nothing; he'd ride right in. It was 'come on, boys!' 'Twasn't 'Go, boys!' He was as brave a man as ever lived."
Downing did not forgive Arnold's treason but observed

Anticipate Rise In Pork Supply

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Pork supplies may increase as much as 16 per cent during the last half of 1976, causing a drop in prices.

A livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said prices for market barrows and gilts should range from $46 to $48 per hundredweight through mid year, then drop to about $40 to $42 during the later part of 1976.

"he ought to have had Burgoyne's sword (which was surrendered instead at Saratoga to Gen. Horatio Gates).
"But he ought to have been true," Downing added. "We had true men then; 't'wasn't as it is now."

Downing described Washington as an unsmiling but beloved man and said the Father of his Country took a no-nonsense attitude toward traitors — "Hang 'em to the first tree."

Alexander Milliner of Cortlandt County, N.Y., was Washington's favorite drummer boy and remembered him as "a good man, a beautiful man."

"He was always pleasant; never changed countenance, but wore the same in defeat and retreat as in victory," he said, adding that "Lady" Washington also was "kind-hearted and had a motherly care "when she visited the camp hospitals."

Milliner recalled her using thorns for lack of pins and described her as a "short, thick woman."

Lemuel Cook of Utica, N.Y., told Hillard Washington ordered "there should be no laughing at the British" at the Yorktown surrender because "it was bad enough to have to surrender without being insulted."

"The (British) army came out with guns clubbed on their back," he recounted. "They were paraded on a great smooth lot, and there they stacked their arms. Then came the devil—old women, and all (camp followers). One said, 'I wonder if the d—d yankees will give me any bread.' The horses were starved out. Washington turned out with his horses and helped 'em up the hill."

Others interviewed for the book were the Rev. Daniel Waldo of Syracuse, N. Y., who was a prisoner of the British for two months and was well treated; William Hitchings of New Castle, Maine, who displayed a lively interest in the progress of the Civil War.

Popular Photography said the album print photographs and the reminiscences in the book were the world's first example of photo-interviews.

A REDISCOVERED BOOK, excerpted in the July issue of Popular Photography, contains actual photographs and interviews with the last six survivors of the Revolutionary War. Left, Lemuel Cook, was present at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown; and Samuel Downing (right) fought under Gen. Benedict Arnold. (UPI Photo)

Adults Find It's Never Too Late To Play Piano

CHICAGO (AP) — Across America, adults by the thousand are taking piano lessons and missing it out on as kids — and loving it, no matter what their age, according to the National Piano Manufacturers Association.

A good example is the 91-year-old student whom veteran Buffalo, N.Y., piano teacher Irving Shire has recently taught to improvise on the instrument.

"He was my student when he was 88," says Shire. "I told him he was just the right age to study piano." He is just one of thousands of adults across the country who are discovering that their age is the "right" age.

The piano has long enjoyed the honor of being the most popular instrument in the United States. More than 200,000 new pianos are sold every year, according to the association, and of the nearly 38 million amateur musicians in this country, 47 per cent are pianists.

It is not surprising, then, that adults who turn to music in their leisure time often turn to the piano.

When they do, they're in for a very pleasant surprise. Gone are the endless scales and exercises once thought to be the only starting point for beginning piano students.

"I start right in teaching little pieces to my adult students," says Eva Rautenberg of Buffalo. "There are special books for adults who have never had lessons, with adaptations of familiar compositions."

To their delight, many adults who have studied a fairly short time find themselves in demand at parties. "People are really anxious to find someone who can play in social situations," says teacher Carol Murray of Minneapolis. "They like to stand around and sing,

The way piano is taught today, students can play at parties, even transpose from one key to another, in a short time — if they've been taught properly."

Group piano is another fairly recent innovation in adult piano teaching methodology. It originated with great success in the elementary schools, and has been steadily growing in popularity as an ideal way to teach students of all ages.

Fred Colby, 64, of Crystal Lake, Ill., began playing because an old grand piano came with a house he bought. "Then, about three years ago," he recalls, "I was walking past a music store and saw a sign, 'Piano Lessons Given.' I didn't stop to think. I just went in and signed up."

Colby has long since traded in his old piano for a brand new one. He takes lessons every week and says he loves to play semi-classics and old favorites. "I try to practice an hour a day. I get entranced with my own music, and suddenly the hour is gone."

Piano teachers who work with them realize that adults' practice time is limited. "If an adult is going to pay out his own money for lessons, he's going to put all the time he can into practicing," says Chicago teacher Muriel Bufton, whose pupils include housewives, doctors, cab drivers, carpenters and secretaries.

"Self-discipline isn't a problem with adult students. If one of my adults hasn't practiced, I know that something pressing probably came up during the week."

Teachers and students agree that one of the most exciting things about studying piano as an adult is the feeling of achieving the unexpected.

"I don't know why I started taking lessons," says 29-year-old Chicago loan officer Terry Woolums. "I just felt compelled to do it. But it's not a whim. I expect to be playing 50 years from now."

Psychiatrist Dr. Karl Willrich, president of the medical staff at Forest Hospital near Chicago, says that piano playing is especially rewarding because "we live in a mechanistic, materialistic age."

Administrators Plan Own Body

GREENSBORO (AP) — Public school administrators who feel they are outnumbered and lack influence in the North Carolina Association of Educators (NCAE) are splitting away to form their own organization. Nearly 200 of them from across the state will meet in Greensboro next Monday and Tuesday to do so.

Robert E. Lee, superintendent of the Moore County schools and temporary chairman of the new organization, says it plans to decide on a name and adopt bylaws and a constitution at the meeting. Alma Teeple of Durham, NCAE president, said teachers compose 90 per cent of the traditional state educators' association. Mrs. Teeple said that this make-up, and recent conflicts between the NCAE's Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee and administrators, sparked the split.

"I know the main ones who have worked to get this organization started have been people disturbed by PR&R cases. They say NCAE takes the side of the teacher over the administration," she said. "That's not true. PR&R takes the side of the person wronged and the association defends anyone who is a member."

Lee said plans for the new organization evolved during the last two or three years and it now has 180 members registered to attend next week's meeting. He said 225 administrators were present at an organization meeting April 30.

Lee said 43 states have separate professional organizations for teachers and administrators, and four other states are organizing separate groups now.

Teeple said that regardless of the new group's formation, the NCAE "will continue to work for the benefit of all school personnel, including administrators."

Kilpatrick...

(Continued from page 4) with big labor to fight the paranoid environmentalists. In Sacramento, the legislature helped out by passing three relatively rational acts in the name of atomic safety. The opponents mounted a sober, rational campaign, and in the final three weeks virtually all of those who had been "undecided" made a wise decision: They voted "no."

The big issue was safety. A neutral observer, having no predispositions, may be inclined to wonder how it got to be an issue at all. These nuclear electric power plants cannot "blow up" in some holocaustic atomic explosion. No way. The risk of a catastrophic "meltdown" is almost immeasurably small. The prospect of some terrorists' overpowering the guards and stealing the fissionable material is demonstrably absurd; you don't just bust into one of these plants, point a pistol, put plutonium in a suitcase, and run to a getaway car.

Yes, there is a problem in transporting and disposing of atomic waste, but it is no insurmountable problem. In any event, the risk to the public health and safety of nuclear power is minuscule compared to the risks of pollution that accompany coal and oil-burning plants. If we are to have electric power at all — and how many Americans truly want to join Mr. Nader in a calc-lit world? — we must assume certain risks. Nothing can be made absolutely safe, but on the record, and in the view of thousands of reputable scientists, the nuclear plants are as close to perfect safety as we are likely to get until we harness the wind and the sun.

Other nations know this truth. On the day that Californians were voting on Proposition 13, the Edison Institute was meeting here. Members of the institute heard reports from all over. Germany now gets 9 percent of its electric energy from nuclear plants; by the late 1980s, the figure will be 45 percent. France expects to get 68 percent of its power from nuclear plants by 1985. In Japan, which might be expected to shudder at the very idea of atomic fission, almost half the generating capacity will be nuclear by 1990.

The case in favor of nuclear power suffers from this inescapable handicap: It is not as sensational as the case against it. The thought of Armageddon gives us the nice goose bumps. But the thought of simply turning on the living room lights is not a thought that merits time on the evening news. Californians talked the whole thing over last week; and they provided a fine example for other states to follow in referenda of their own.

Linden trees are growing again on Unter den Linden, once Berlin's grandest and gayest boulevard that runs from the Brandenburg Gate on the East-West border to the River Spree. More pedestrians and vehicles were there, but the streets generally lacked the bustle of West Berlin.

Restored also to most of its former splendor is the 18th century Deutsche Staatsoper built for Frederick the Great, and the famed Humboldt University, whose students included Karl Marx. New construction includes several hotels, high-rise office buildings, a new international trade center, department stores and giant housing blocks. Mrs. Krueger said nearly 50 per cent of East Berlin's 1.1 million population now lives in modern flats.

New also is the 1,100-foot-high Television Tower, second only to Moscow's in Europe (naturally), with an observation room and revolving cafe in a glass and metal bubble about halfway up. At certain times of the day the reflection of the sun forms a cross on the bubble. West Berliners call it "the Pope's Revenge."

One of Berlin's oldest churches, the 15th century St. Mary's, stands at the foot of the tower. Services still are held in the church that houses a wall painting dating back 500 years.

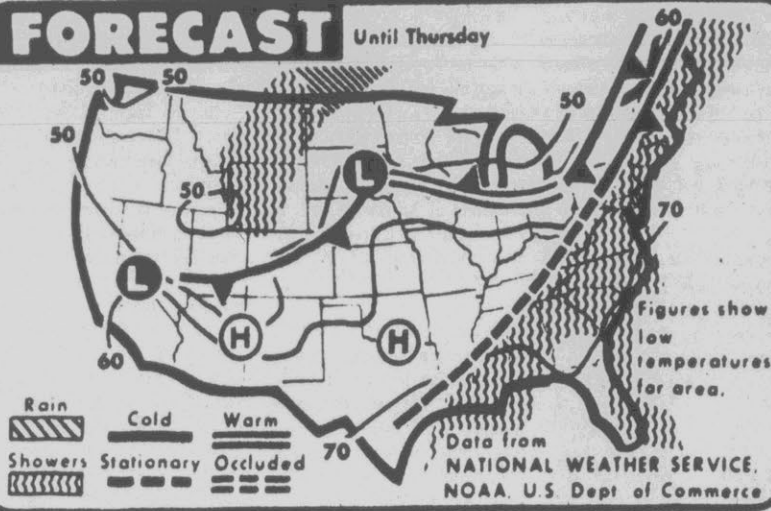

It's only a short drive, or walk, to the island in the Spree where most of East Berlin's finest museums are located. Most popular is the Pergamon Museum, named after a spectacular Greek altar from 160 B.C. that fills a huge hall. Also on exhibit are priceless structures, sculptures and other treasures from ancient Babylon, Persia, Assyria, Rome and Greece.

The Bode Museum contains a fine collection of Egyptian antiquities, while the National Gallery features paintings and sculptures of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Worth visiting also is the impressive Soviet War Memorial in Treptow Park, where 5,000 of the 20,000 Red Army soldiers who fell in the Battle of Berlin are buried in common graves.

Americans need only a valid passport to enter East Berlin. There is no entry fee, but visitors (except by bus) must exchange five West German marks (about $2) for five East German marks. The East German marks must be spent; it is forbidden to take out Communist currency.

How's The Weather?

(Continued from page 4) him that if the commercials were not withdrawn they would resign from the Ford slate after they were elected.

The delegate was Lois Leggat, president of the influential Ohio Federation of Republican Women. The alternate was Dale Davis, a longtime party worker and friend of Republican state chairman Ken McGough. The two did not quit because the commercials were not aired in Ohio, where there was no Ford media advertising at all.

Nevertheless, the spillover from California cost the President heavily in Ohio. Party leaders, using polls and field reports, expected Mr. Ford to run about 60-40 over Ronald Reagan; in fact, his margin in a state shunned by Reagan until the last weekend was 55-45.

Stuart Spencer, Mr. Ford's national deputy campaign chairman and a product of the California Republican school of hard-nosed politics, cleared the proposed spot, before it was even taped, with several leading Republicans around the country. One was

Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, whose reaction was positive. Hearing no warning about possible overkill, Spencer approved the cutting of the tape. The unexpected result: a backlash further poisoning the divided party and threatening major defections by Reaganites from Mr. Ford this fall if he is nominated.

It was warm and humid again in North Carolina today. Thundershowers cooled things off a bit in many areas. Highs were in the 80s, except for the 70s in the mountains. A low-pressure trough which was along the southeast coast Tuesday morning unexpectedly moved into the Piedmont during the day. The result was that the rain belt moved further inland in the afternoon and evening, mainly into the southern and eastern counties. Goldsboro had almost an inch and a quarter of needed rain.

There was another benefit. As the trough came in from the ocean, it cleared out the haze which covered the state. Maximum temperatures continued mostly in the 80s Tuesday. The highest was 90 at Raleigh. Hatteras and Asheville reached 82 and Rocky Mount and Elizabeth City 87.

The moisture and clouds during held temperatures up early this morning. Readings were in the mid 60s to low 70s. Light showers fell in the parts of the state.

The heat and humidity will continue into Thursday. Thundershowers will be set off by the combination of afternoon heating and an upper-level disturbance approaching from the Midwest.

Winds were southerly 10 to 20 miles per hour today, higher in gusts near thundershowers.

Extortion Plot Behind Threats And Letter Bombs

New Coordinator For Pitt Council On Aging

Elizabeth Stedman has been hired as the new program coordinator for the Pitt County Council On Aging. Ms. Stedman, a 1975 ECU graduate began her full time duties Tuesday.

She will coordinate the activities of the Pitt County Council on Aging and inform the senior citizens in the county of the opportunities that the council has to offer.

Her position will be temporary for three months until additional funds are made available. The position is presently funded by CETA through the Mid-East Commission Area Agency On Aging.

Ms. Stedman will attempt to reach all of the senior citizens in Pitt County in some way through her new position. She is presently introducing her position and the Pitt County Council On Aging to civic groups within the county. She is also helping in the planning of a transportation program which will be offered to the senior citizens throughout the county beginning in July.

According to Kathy Donoghue of the Mid-East Commission Area Council on Aging, Pitt County is the first county in the Mid-East Commission region which has a full time coordinator, but others are planning to have staffers in the future. "This county is setting precedent by just setting up the council and working to set up the transportation program and continued involvement with senior citizens," Ms. Donoghue said.

Ms. Stedman's office will be located on the second floor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and her office hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Anyone who wishes to know additional information about the Pitt County Council On Aging should call 752-1717 during weekday mornings.

Police Check 2 Collisions

An estimated $1,625 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 10:05 p.m. mishap on Cotanche Street between Ninth and Tenth Streets involving vehicles driven by Danny Ray Williams of 1017B Chestnut St. and Patricia Rose Smith of Route 1, Greenville.

Investigators, who charged Miss Smith with driving with no headlights, estimated damage at $500 to the Williams truck and $800 to the Smith car.

Frances Webb Glisson of 113 Chipaway Dr. was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 6:20 p.m. collision at the intersection of Crockett and Polk Drives.

Officers reported the Glisson car collided with a vehicle driven by Betsy Green Overby of 2612 Crockett Dr. causing an estimated $150 damage to the Overby car and $175 damage to the Glisson auto.

No Place For A Weatherman

NEW YORK (UPI) — If man ever builds colonies on the moon, weathermen won't be needed.

The moon has no weather as we know it. According to World Book Encyclopedia, the moon has no clouds, no rain and no wind. Astronauts on the moon must use radios to communicate because there is no air to carry sound.

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is trying to determine who tried unsuccessfully to extort millions of dollars from 200 corporations and later apparently mailed 13 bombs to the firms or their executives. One target says the demands did not contain revolutionary rhetoric.

Twelve of the bombs received Monday did not explode, but one did detonate at the Merrill Lynch Inc. brokerage in New York, injuring four persons.

An extortion note delivered last October to Beatrice Foods Inc. of Chicago, one of the 200 companies receiving notes, demanded $16 million to be paid over eight or nine months, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

"It was supposed to be paid to someplace in Mexico," the spokesman said in a telephone interview.

Company officials never considered meeting the demand and turned the note over to authorities soon after it was received, he added. Beatrice received a letter bomb Monday.

The spokesman said company officials don't recall the exact content of the threatening letter but believe it contained none of the rhetoric common to the better-known revolutionary organizations.

At a news conference Tuesday, FBI Director Clarence Kelley described the letters as "a terrorist attempt to evoke fear in the hearts of everyone." But he said the FBI doesn't know who is responsible.

"We do not know as yet just what is the genesis of this. It could be a single person or it could be an organization," he continued.

Kelley refused to say whether the extortion demands might be the work of revolutionary political groups. He declined to elaborate on the evidence linking the letter bombs to the extortion demands.

"Over a period of several months," he stated, "numerous large corporations in the United States have received a series of extortion letters wherein demands have been made for large sums of money to be paid with the threat of terrorist tactics unless these demands were met."

The letter bombs "appear to be part of this continuing crime," he added. "They are substantially the same as far as the context and the demands."

Kelley said none of the corporations complied with the extortion demands, which he said totaled "millions of dollars."

Kelley said all 200 recipients of the extortion letters have been warned to expect letter bombs. An FBI spokesman said extortion notes were received by all 13 companies which later were sent mail bombs.

He refused to name the recipients of the letter bombs and the extortion notes. Other officials said bombs were delivered to executives or corporate offices of:

The Bunge Corp. of New York and Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, both grain handling companies; the DuPont Co. of Wilmington, Del.; the Exxon Building in New York; McDonald's Systems Inc. in Oak Brook, Ill.;

Marathon Oil Co., Findlay, Ohio; Exxon Pipeline Co., Houston; Proctor & Gamble Co., Cincinnati; and the Combined Insurance Co. of America office in Worthington, Ohio, as well as Beatrice Foods and Merrill Lynch.

Noncontroversial Platform For Candidate Carter

Charge 'Many Crimes' By Angola Mercenaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter wanted a noncontroversial campaign program that would offend neither the left nor right in the Democratic party, and the party's platform committee has given it to him.

If Carter wins his party's nomination for President in July, as expected, he'll run on a platform that should go a long way toward uniting his party behind him. There was so little disagreement in two days of meetings that ended Tuesday that the platform panel adjourned a day early.

"It's the first time in 16 years that the Democratic party has been so united," said a jubilant Stuart Eizenstat, the Atlanta attorney who was Carter's top representative on the committee.

He said there was nothing in the 89-page platform that Carter couldn't support. But he quickly added, "This is a Democratic party document, not a Jimmy Carter document."

REVIVAL SCHEDULED

Revival services will be held at Pactus Holy Church June 21-25. Services will begin at 7:30 each night. Guest speakers will be Rev. Johnson of Newport News and Elder Rosa Bud.

The key features of the platform are support for a national health insurance program, minimum income guarantees for all poor Americans, a program for full employment in three years and a strong national defense while also pursuing détente with our "traditional adversaries."

All spending programs would be phased in gradually, and only as the nation returned to full employment. If there is not a return to full employment, then the programs would not be fully implemented, party spokesmen have said.

There was no breakdown on what the individual programs would cost, but party officials have said the cost of all the programs, excluding national health insurance, would be about $30 billion.

Party spokesmen say that the cost of the national health insurance program — to be financed through a combination of an em loye-employer payroll tax and general revenues — would not exceed the $130 billion now being spent on health and medical care in the United States.

The delegates approved a proposal to delay any decision on production of the controversial B1 bomber until February 1977 at the earliest, a proposal that is before the House this week.

The unity on the 153-member platform committee was never more evident than after it handed the Carter forces their only significant defeat — approval of a proposal favoring a general pardon for persons who opposed the Vietnam war.

Supporters of the general pardon, after winning the vote, followed up with an amendment that would provide that pardons for deserters be considered on a case-by-case basis. Carter forces embraced the conciliatory gesture.

The platform committee easily defeated proposals to legalize marijuana and measures advocated by gay rights groups. Platform statements on busing and abortion did not go beyond simple expressions of support for court decisions on these highly controversial issues.

Mayor John Poelker of St. Louis, an uncommitted member, said the Carter supporters brought pressures on delegates to influence key votes, but he added that most delegates appeared willing to cooperate, not wanting another election-day debacle like that of 1972.

"We're in much better shape because the various constituencies of the party were willing to give on both sides to come up with a platform that a candidate can support without being hurt by it," he said.

Rep. Yvonne Burke of California, a supporter of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and who frequently advocated a more liberal stance on issues, said Carter representatives

"did some pushing, but they needed to push."

"We didn't want to get into the same divisive debates that hurt us so much in the past."

The platform is still subject to formal approval by the Democratic National Convention in New York in July, but it is unlikely there will be substantial changes.

In the pardon showdown, the committee voted 55 to 44 on a roll call vote to support a general pardon for persons in legal or financial difficulty because of peaceful opposition to the Vietnam war.

Eizenstat had taken the floor to say it was "unacceptable" because it would apply to deserters, as well as draft-evaders. Carter supports a pardon for draft-evaders but not for deserters.

However, former antiwar activist Sam Brown, now secretary of state of Colorado, who pushed through the pardon plank, then followed up with the amendment providing that pardons for deserters be considered on a case-by-case basis. Brown said he was offering the change as a conciliatory gesture, even though he personally opposed it.

Eizenstat said the change, approved by voice vote, meant party members "will go out of this room united on one of the most emotional issues we have."

Carter supporters backed a move by delegates representing Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., to put back into the platform some of the firm language on national defense that was eliminated by liberal members of a party task force Monday.

It calls for rejection of any international arms agreement that doesn't permit the United States the same over-all limit of "intercontinental strategic forces" as the Soviet Union. Approval was by a 58 to 39 roll-call vote, one of only two such votes during the meeting.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Prosecution witnesses accused the 13 white mercenaries on trial in Luanda of mass murder, looting and robbery during the Angolan civil war.

Fernando Baires told the People's Revolutionary Court Tuesday he saw Daniel Gearhart of Kensington, Md., one of the three Americans on trial, "threatening some FNLA soldiers with death." Under cross-examination by defense attorney Bob Cesner of Columbus, Ohio, the Angolan admitted he might have seen Gearhart wave a gun but couldn't have understood what he was saying because he didn't understand English.

The FNLA was the National Front for the Liberation of Angola, the Western-supported faction for which the mercenaries were fighting in northern Angola. It was defeated by the Popular Movement, or MPLA, which is now the ruling faction in Angola.

The other two American defendants, Gary Acker of Sacramento, Calif., and Gustave Grillo, a native of Argentina from Jersey City, N.J., were not mentioned in testimony on Tuesday, the fifth day of the show trial. The other 10 defendants are British, and most of the testimony concerned their leader, Costas Georgiou, the British Cypriot mercenary commander known as Col. Callan.

Alfonso Carlos told the court he saw white mercenaries loading 70 black prisoners on trucks outside the San Salvador jail. He said black soldiers told him later all the prisoners were killed.

Carlos said he saw Georgiou kill a boy who tried to keep Georgiou from taking the boy's sister away with him.

Henrique Moises, an FNLA sergeant who fought alongside the mercenaries, testified that Callan and his chief assistant, Andrew McKenzie, made him and 16 of his men strip and line up.

Moises said Callan told the men, "When I say one-two-three, run." He said when they ran, two were shot.

"You lying bastard!" McKenzie shouted.

Baires and schoolteacher Joao Leitao told of a looting spree by Callan and his men in San Salvador.

"They looted the safes in the finance department and the post office, lit their cooking fires with the currency, burned piles of money and tore up stacks of bills," Leitao said.

Old Vienna Faces Change From Building Of Subway

By WERNER VOLLMANN
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA (AP) — For the second time in as many centuries, Vienna is undergoing a profound change.

The medieval downtown area is now a huge construction site. Vienna is building a subway. In off-center districts, work is being carried out on a huge complex to house United Nations organizations, on a new general hospital and on a new bed for the Danube River.

In 1857, the Vienna city fathers had ordered the city wall to be torn down. Eight years later a mighty avenue, the Ringstrasse, was opened on the site of the walls.

In 20 more years, the new City Hall, the Parliament, the University, the Vienna State Opera and scores of other buildings lined the Ringstrasse.

This time, Vienna hopes to complete most of the huge construction projects in a much shorter span.

There are gaping holes in front of the landmark St. Stephen's Cathedral and near the deluxe Sacher and Bristol hotels.

Farther away from downtown—near the northern bank of the Danube, a huge multi-million-dollar project is taking shape.

It will be the future U.N. City, to house the U.N. Industrial Development Organization, the International Atomic Energy Agency and probably some other U.N. subsidiaries.

Close by, baggers and caterpillars tear a new Danube bed out of the ground: The stream is to be divided and will flow by 1982 in two channels past a 12-mile manmade island to provide ultimate flood control.

Although final plans for the island's layout are not yet ready, it is almost certain that recreational facilities and sports grounds will have priority there.

Costs were estimated to be as high as four billion schillings ($222 million).

In Western Vienna, another structure of concrete and steel is growing skywards.

It is the new General Hospital, offering some 2,500 beds at an estimated cost of 17 billion schillings ($999 million).

It will take at least until 1985, however, until the hospital — one of the biggest in Europe — will be completed.

If everything turns out as planned, Vienna will look much better four years from now when most of the projects are finished, including three of the four subway lines.

The fourth subway line, connecting the main West Railway Station via the Simmering district with the Air Terminal, is still in the planning stage.

The three lines at present under construction cost 11.4 billion schillings ($633 million).

Cutting in a North-South and East-West direction, they are probably responsible for the biggest eyesores and the most dust at present.

While some sections were finished with the help of underground digging machines, others had to be handled in the open pit method.

Main downtown intersections, such as the Karlsplatz and Schwedenplatz squares, where lines will run on different levels, caused the most expensive and longest construction sites.

An extremely touchy area, however, was the subway construction in front of St. Stephen's Cathedral.

In an effort not to harm the historic landmark dating back to 1137, the ground around it at first had to be hardened with concrete injections.

TOUCHY JOB—Building of Vienna's subway system has created this huge construction hole in front of St. Stephen's Cathedral. In an effort to avoid harming the historic landmark dating back to 1137, the ground around it was first hardened with concrete injections.

Dr. Howard Gradis and Dr. Julian B. Coleman will begin work in the hospital emergency room July 1, it was reported. Two more physicians are needed so there can be full-time emergency coverage. The hospital is applying to the Program on Access to Health Care for a grant of $20,000 per physician per year to finance e. r. coverage. This cannot be counted upon, but, of course, would be quite helpful if it is granted.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Cattle auction sale for North Wilkesboro with 648 head cattle and 20 hobs sold: slaughter cows utility and commercial 24.00-28.50; vealers (150-240 pounds) good 38.50-43.00; slaughter calves (325-550 pounds) good 32.25-35.25; feeder steers (300-600 pounds) good 36.25-43.00; feeder heifers (300-500 pounds) good 30.50-31.75; market hogs (180-240 pounds) 47.50-48.00; sows (300-600 pounds) few 35.00-38.50.

The budget for the fiscal year which begins Oct. 1 is being worked on now. Hospital Director Jack Richardson reported and is expected to run about $10 million a year in the new hospital, as opposed to $8 million in the present one. The rough draft will be ready in time for the next meeting it was reported.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina graded feeder pig auction for Wallace-Chadbourn with 2,205 sold: 40-50 pounds No.1 and 2 92.25, No.3 84.75; 50-60 pounds No.1 83.25, No.2 80.56, No.3 74.25; 60-70 pounds No.1 and 2 72.25, No.3 60.00; 70-80 pounds No.1 and 2 65.75, No.3 60.50.

Thanks to the efforts of Hospital Reimbursement Officer Warren McRoy, Medicaid money owed the hospital has been reduced from $189,000 to $116,000, Richardson reported. He said the hospital is the "going to be in the hurt section" if the company paying Medicaid bills for the state refuses to come through.

It was reported that a letter has been received from Hugh Cannon, chairman of the Government and Finance Committee of the UNC Board of Governors, assuring the Board that the $3.8 million for the Pitt Memorial Hospital bed tower for use by the medical school will be in next year's proposed budget.

A change in the Trustees' bylaws to provide for four trustees and four medical staff members on the Joint Conference Committee was approved. This change merely brings the trustees' bylaws in line with the medical staff bylaws and is already being practiced anyway, it was pointed out.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in on Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped about a point and a half in the early going, and losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said a tendency toward profit taking was aggravated by an unsettled reaction to the Senate Judiciary Committee's approval Tuesday of a bill to break up the nation's 18 largest oil companies.

Observers generally rate the bill's chances of eventual passage this year as small. But investors nevertheless seemed to have been put on their guard.

General Public Utilities was the early volume leader among NYSE stocks, down 3/4 at 16 1/2 in a 200,000-share block trade.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 5.32 to 985.92, ending a sharp three-session rally.

Losers outpaced gainers by a 4-3 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index lost 23 to 54.04.

Worker Was Hurt When Ceiling Fell

A construction worker was injured yesterday when a suspended ceiling at the front of the Burroughs Wellcome Co. plant here gave way and fell, about 1:15 p.m.

Ray Lewis, 27 of 803 East Third St. was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of back injuries he received when struck by the falling debris.

B-W Officials said Lewis, an employee of GASCO Construction Corp. of Raleigh, was working under the overhang at the front of the building when the mishap occurred. The site, the spokesman explained, was being prepared for expansion of administrative offices at the pharmaceutical plant.

Officials said the ceiling across the entire exterior front of the building gave way "due to vibration or preliminary work of same nature," although the exact cause has not been determined.

Plant operations were not affected at all by the mishap and only Lewis was injured.

Spokesmen said the portion of the ceiling that collapsed would have been torn out as work progressed on the expansion project.

The Town Has Had It

TELLURIDE, Colo. (AP) — No firemen's fireworks display. No tavern business. No drinking in the streets. No gambling, either. Telluride, historic mining town of about 1,100, has had it with Fourth of July celebrations.

The town itself has three officers. "We're not closing the town," said Luhman. "Some essential services — like gasoline and groceries — will still be available."

"We are just trashed out," says Rich Luhman, president of the Telluride Chamber of Commerce.

But the city's parks and campgrounds will be closed.

For years the town offered one of the most exuberant July 4th celebrations in the West. But as the years went by, word spread and the town's citizens found themselves outnumbered 5 to 1 by rowdy visitors, who cut down trees — for firewood or fun — and carried on as though they owned the place.

The town's two weekly newspapers — the Telluride Times and the Telluride Examiner — support the council's action. Tony Hebron, who writes for the Times, is one of the residents opposed to it.

Town fathers conducted a poll of the residents and found that more than half didn't want a celebration this year, despite the fact that visitors account for half the annual gross sales during the holiday.

"It's a tourist town and the reaction by government in the past has been bad," he said. "They're not reacting to the problem."

So the town council canceled the annual fireworks, ordered the bars closed, borrowed five police officers from neighboring jurisdictions and signed up 13 volunteers to keep the peace.

Hebron said the town shouldn't be trying to close down festivities, especially this year, the Bicentennial. Instead, he said, the city should make certain of the "type of police presence."

Hebron said despite the council's action, his wife will keep her boutique open for business on the Fourth.

As for the rowdies, Luhman admits there is no effective way to keep them out, but he says there will be less for them to do — and six times the manpower to keep the peace.

No Greenville Votes On Pitt Education Board

The amendment also includes a section that notes: "For the purpose of this act, no person residing in a city or town or county school administrative unit unless such person resides within the boundary lines of that administrative unit."

Miss Register said that the section becomes effective July 1, 1977 but since the term of Douglas Jones, Greenville representative on the county

Set Summer Meetings

The Governing Body of Jehovah's Witnesses has revealed in New York completion of plans for 94 district conventions of the religious group in the United States during the summer.

C. L. Corey, spokesman for the Greenville Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said two conventions are scheduled for eastern Virginia and North Carolina at Hampton Coliseum. He said each convention is expected to attract approximately 8,000 delegates. Corey said a delegation would represent Greenville at the first of the two meetings, July 15-18.

The theme of the meetings is "Sacred Service" and the program will be comprised of Bible lectures, symposiums, discussion periods and full-costume dramas. Baptismal service will highlight the program Friday, July 16.

OFF TO THE EAST COAST — Former Oakland A's teammates Joe Rudi (left) shakes hands with Vida Blue after they were traded to east coast teams yesterday. Blue went to the

Finley Moves Stars In Surprise Trades

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Charles O. Finley is $3.5 million richer, but his once mighty Oakland A's are three more star players poorer and calling it the end of the championship line.

"We don't have much of a team anymore," conceded Sal Bando, an unclaimed item in the biggest one-day sale in baseball history. "But he built it. I guess he has a right to tear it down."

"There's no way those three can be replaced," said Gene Tenace, another survivor of the Tuesday night housecleaning in which Finley peddled left fielder Joe Rudi, relief pitching star Rolie Fingers and left-handed starter Vida Blue.

Rudi and Fingers were sold for $1 million each, moving from the Oakland clubhouse to the Boston locker room two hours before the game against the Red Sox, which the A's won 3-2 on the strength of Tenace's two home runs including one leading off the bottom of the ninth inning.

Blue went to the New York Yankees for, according to Finley, $1.5 million. Just before baseball's midnight trading deadline, the Yankees acquired Ken Holtzman in a nine-player deal with Baltimore, thereby reuniting the A's former pitching big three of Catfish Hunter, Blue and Holtzman.

Rudi, Fingers and Blue were among the seven unsigned players on the A's roster, and Finley said, "I made every effort to sign them, but when it got down to the last day, I had no alternatives."

When asked what he was left with, besides cash, Finley replied, "I don't even want to talk about that."

He sounded like a beaten man, one who had lost $3.5 million rather than gaining that amount. But later in the evening he vowed, "I'll rebuild. I'm going to use the money to buy players and I'm going to do it immediately."

Bando, Tenace and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the only remaining front-line players from the team that won world championships in 1972-73-74.

Hunter was the first to go, being declared a free agent after the 1974 season on the grounds Finley had breached his $100,000-a-year contract. Second baseman Dick Green retired, predicting correctly that the A's couldn't win another title without Hunter.

A few days before this season began, Finley traded slugger Reggie Jackson and Holtzman, both unsigned, to Baltimore for pitcher Mike Torrez, first baseman-outfielder Don Baylor and pitcher Paul Mitchell. Baylor is unsigned, as are Bando, Campaneris and Tenace, so could play out his option this year and move next spring.

"I can't see any reason to sign now," said Tenace.

Manager Chuck Tanner defended the owner's decision to sell, saying, "He did the best thing."

But Bando said, "I was shocked more than anything over the fact he took money instead of players. But he might have financial problems we don't know about."

And, shaking his head, he added, "He got $3.5 million for just three guys. They're paying $9 million for the new expansion teams."

Todd Dry paced Buck's with 5½, while Ryner Bullock had 4½. Belinda Barnes led Smith-Waldrop with four.

In the other match, Jefferson Standard downed J. H. Hudson, 28-8. Davidson Johnson and Mitchell Wingate each had six, while David Schlienz had 5½, and Karen Green had five. Gray Finnegan had 3½ and Robert Stancil, three, for Hudson.

Jefferson Standard is now 3-1. Smith-Waldrop Jerry's are both 1-3, and Hudson 0-4.

Diamond Darlings Are The Best

By WILLIE PATRICK
Special To The Reflector
East Carolina University has its first national championship team.

Think about that sentence and the ramifications involved therein.

You think you may have missed the ticker-tape parade down Fifth Street... you haven't as of yet.

You think the local news media must have reported it earlier, when school was still in session, but you missed the news. You didn't miss any report, as of yet.

And you wonder about the "National championship" phrase, since somewhere it would seem that East Carolina has done likewise before.

The Pirates have had national championship teams in the past. The 1961 East Carolina baseball team, coached by Jim Mallory, were National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics champs. Ray Martinez' swimming teams won the title in 1957 and 1959 in the NAIA.

So the new story unfolds: As announced in COLLEGIATE BASEBALL, June 5 edition, the East Carolina University "Diamond Darlings," a team of batgirls, usherettes scoreboard operators, softball players, hostesses, etc., were chosen as the All-America Bat Girl team for 1976.

The newspaper is a national publication dealing with baseball in the high school, junior college and university division ranks. The contest, a yearly event, is sponsored by the newspaper and Hillerich & Bradsby of Louisville, Ky.

According to Rose Pavlovich, wife of the editor of the newspaper, the girls were selected on the basis of "the listed duties they performed, not as a distraction, but as an aid to promoting the Pirate baseball team."

"A nice appearance is essential, but the panel leans more heavily on what sort of activities the girls do that aid the team."

The "Diamond Darlings"

1st Federal Takes Game

Horace Barrett's three-run home run in the top of the fourth provided the winning run as First Federal beat Pepsi-Cola, 8-2, keeping First Federal's fleeting hopes of a tie for the Tar Heel Little League title alive.

First Federal scored once in the first and second innings for a 2-1 lead over Pepsi which had scored in the bottom of the first. Barrett's homer capped a four-run rally and First Federal added two in the sixth for the six-run margin.

Cliff Warren pitched the win fanning nine and walking two. He gave up two hits.

First Federal scored its first in the first but Pepsi tied it on a homer by Scott Wilson. Randy Warren scored when Marty Radford reached on a fielder's choice getting the lead again for First Federal.

Mont Carter walked and fielder's choices by Mike Holloman and Keith Stocks loaded the bases. A balk scored Carter and Barrett drove in the other two runners.

Holloman scored on a passed ball and Cliff Warren scored on a single by Randy Warren rousing out the scoring, in the sixth.

Dwight Garrett reached on an error, moved up on an out and stole home in the fifth for Pepsi's second run.

First Federal 110 402-8 6 2
Pepsi 100 010-2 2 3

were engaged in a number of activities during the 1976 season. At Harrington Field, the duties included about everything from raising the flag during the national anthem pregame ceremony to sweeping the bases, chasing foul balls, handing out programs, keeping the scoreboard and helping the fans provide support and encouragement for the team.

During special events held at Harrington the team served as hostesses for special guests, babysitters for children of special guests (Alumni Baseball Day), and participants in the "Media vs. Diamond Darlings" Foley, Fairmont; LeAnne Coker, Benson; Susan Downs, SRO (Sullen, Rotten, Obnoxious) crowd of 13.

For their efforts, the "Diamond Darlings" will receive individual trophies and the university will receive a huge plaque from Hillerich & Bradsby to denote the honor.

A Hillerich & Bradsby spokesman said Tuesday that the plaque and trophies are to be shipped to East Carolina University within three to four weeks.

Three of the "Diamond Darlings" are from Greenville. They are Loretta Adams, Karen Mills and Trudy Porter. Other winning teams members are Paula Godard, Williamston; Patsy Mills, Goldsboro; Lynn Norris, Whiteville; Sharon Foley, Fairmont; LeAnne Coker, Benson; Susan Downs, Jacksonville; Susan Rimmer, Hurdle Mills; Debbie Bryant, Salisbury; and Karen Russell, Asheboro.

Carroll Has No-Hit Victory

David Carroll hurled a no-hitter at Planters Bank for Carolina Dairy last night as the Dairy men won their seventh Babe Ruth game in eighth starts, 11-0.

Carroll faced just 26 batters in seven innings. Three reached on errors and he walked two and hit one. He recorded six strikeouts.

The victory kept Carolina Dairy atop the league with its 7-1 mark, well ahead of second place Pepsi-Cola, at 4-2. Planters Bank is now 3-5.

The Dairy men picked up four runs in the first inning to put the game on ice. Bobby Woronoff walked and so did Peter Pace. Mike Williams also walked, loading bases. Rufus Sutton singled in two runs, and Williams scored on an error. George Wilson reached on a fielder's choice and Carroll singled to score Sutton.

Two more came in during the third. Howard Tucker was hit by a pitch and Sutton doubled. Wilson hit a sacrifice fly to score Tucker, and an error let Sutton come over.

The final five came in the fourth. Woronoff singled and moved up on an error on the play. Pace was safe on an error as was Williams, scoring Pace. Tucker walked to load them up, and Wilson hit another sacrifice to score Pace. Marshall Heath walked to reload the sacks, and Carroll singled in Williams. Skip Hill singled to score Tucker and a hit by Woronoff brought in Heath.

Carroll led the Dairy hitting with four, while Sutton and Woronoff each had two. Planters Bank 000 000 0-0 0 6

Leaders Take Wins

Coca-Cola and Buck's Gulf continued to roll along in the Junior Putters of America matches yesterday at the Greenville Putt-Putt.

Coke downed Jerry's Sweet Shoppe, 19-17, while Buck's took a 25½ to 10½ win over Smith-Waldrop. The two leaders are now 3-0-1 for the season.

Rob Ericson led Coke with six points, while Rodney Speight added five. Joel Mauger and Raleigh Bland each had 5½ for Jerry's.

Todd Dry paced Buck's with 5½, while Ryner Bullock had 4½. Belinda Barnes led Smith-Waldrop with four.

In the other match, Jefferson Standard downed J. H. Hudson, 28-8. Davidson Johnson and Mitchell Wingate each had six, while David Schlienz had 5½, and Karen Green had five. Gray Finnegan had 3½ and Robert Stancil, three, for Hudson.

Jefferson Standard is now 3-1. Smith-Waldrop Jerry's are both 1-3, and Hudson 0-4.

THE END OF A CAREER IN THE RING — George Foreman crashes a right off the chin of Joe Frazier, sending him to the canvas for the second time in the fifth round of their bout Tuesday night. Referee Harry Valan stepped in to stop the fight, awarding Foreman the win on a technical knockout. Frazier later announced his retirement from boxing. (AP Wirephoto)

Foreman Takes Joe In Fifth

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — "I can whup any man I can hit — the Lord's always with the puncher — and the man I want now is the champion."
Was Muhammad Ali, winging across the Pacific for his $6-million travesty against westler

Antonio Anoki, listening? The measured, confident words came from the unmarked lips of a new George Foreman after the one-time juvenile delinquent from the streets of Houston hammered dead-game Joe Frazier into retirement with a fifth-round knockout Tuesday night at the half-filled Nassau Coliseum.

The end of the ballyhooed brawl between two slugging ex-champions came with stunning suddenness. The bull-strong, 27-year-old Foreman nailed Smokin' Joe with a whistling combination of punches midway in the fifth round, sending him to his haunches. Moments later, Foreman landed a left to the chin followed by a thunderbolt right.

Frazier said after Tuesday's defeat, which ended his ring career. "I begged Eddie to let me go on but Eddie always knows best."
Some 45 minutes after the fight had ended and the crowd had poured out of the Long Island arena, Frazier emerged from his dressing room, a patch covering a stitching job over his right eye, and announced:

has ever lost — and he admits the memory of it tears away at his innards.
"I want to be an active fighter, I'm ready to take on anybody, but I think I should fight the top challengers," the 6-foot-3 contender said.
"The man I want — and I think I deserve to get — is Muhammad Ali."

After Ali's burlesque act with Inoki in Tokyo June 25, the heavyweight king has a Sept. 28 date at Yankee Stadium with an old adversary, Ken Norton, who split two decisions with Ali, once breaking his jaw.
Ali is now 34 and beginning to show signs of advancing age. Assuming he gets by Norton and doesn't retire, as he has sometimes threatened, it is unlikely he could duck the rejuvenated Foreman without following Frazier's path into retirement.

Jack Looms Over The Pack

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) — Over them all, on the eve of the 76th United States Open Golf Championship, looms the menacing presence of Jack Nicklaus.

There's Hale Irwin, that fiercely competitive man with the burning desire and happy habit of playing the difficult courses so very, very well.
There's Tom Weiskopf, the enormously talented man tip-toeing on the edge of greatness, restrained only by a temperament that defies control.

There's Johnny Miller, the golden gun from the West, capable of reaching in his bag and jerking out a 63, or a 62, or even a 61.

There's Ray Floyd, the reformed playboy who celebrated his sobriety with a record-setting, runaway victory in the Masters and fully expects "to have a very good tournament here."

There's Hubert Green, the year's leading money-winner, author of a rare sweep of three consecutive titles earlier this year.

There's Ben Crenshaw, the dynamic young man who now, at last, is fulfilling the bright promise of his fantastic start.

There's John Mahaffey, who almost won last year, and Lou Graham, who did, and British Open champion Tom Watson.

There are the kids, seemingly immune to pressure, unawed by the great stars and the great traditions — Tom Kite, Joe Inman, Mark Hayes, Jerry Pate.

There are the veterans, seeking a last hurrah in the most important golf tournament of them all — Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Billy Casper, Gene Littler, Don January, Al Geiberger.

There are the longshots, whose counterparts in other years on other courses have written so many surprises into the Open history — Jerry McGee, Mike Morley, Lee Elder.

But over them all — the greats, the near-greats, the once-greats, the not-yet-greats — there's Nicklaus.

"Nicklaus is the greatest player of all time," said Weiskopf, who has spent his career in Jack's shadow.

"He hasn't had that great a year this season. But he's had a lot on his mind. He's been awful busy working on that new (Memorial) tournament of his."

"Actually, I've played pretty darn good all year," Nicklaus said. "I haven't won as much as I have other years, but I've been in contention almost every tournament I've played."

His chief opponents on the Atlanta Athletic Club course — a 7,015-yard, par-70, heavily-wooded layout that serves as the host to the first Open ever held in the South — appear to be Irwin, Miller, Crenshaw, Green, Weiskopf and Floyd.

Irwin, Green, Miller and Crenshaw — the nucleus of the group that's taking over domination of the tour — all are multiple winners this year. All are eminently qualified, but Irwin's history of success on tough, demanding Open-type courses may make him the pick of that group.

Floyd's late-blooming maturity, his excellent play in recent weeks and his overwhelming triumph in the Masters, make him a major factor.

And Weiskopf, who had his best tournament of the year only last week, is simply too talented to ignore.

Merger Talks Continue Between Rival Leagues

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — The National Basketball Association's Advisory Board, having met with representatives of the American Basketball Association, was expected to continue merger talks with the young league about accepting four teams, although an ABA owner suggested that a six-team concept would make far more sense and eliminate many problems.

The top officials from both leagues met for about 2½ hours Tuesday night and both sides emerged from this session with mixed feelings.

One NBA source said his league's Advisory Board was not satisfied with the ABA's proposal and financial status and would present a negative report to the NBA's Board of Governors.

However, Jim Keeler, assistant to ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere, was far more optimistic. Keeler said the leagues had narrowed the estimated 100-110 issues in dispute between the NBA-ABA as described by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien to about 20-30.

"I feel the meeting was very meaningful," said Keeler. "I am very encouraged."

Bill Alverson, owner of the Milwaukee Bucks and a member of the NBA's five-man Advisory Board, echoed Keeler's sentiments.

"They (the ABA) came to play ball," said Alverson. "But a merger is by no means certain. We are going back to our Board of Governors for direction."

Approval by 14 members of the 18-man Board of Governors is necessary to accept any new members. O'Brien, who had said earlier Tuesday he believed that a four-team merger plan was most acceptable to both leagues, emerged from the late high-level session with little comment.

"We're still working at it," he said tersely.

DeBusschere was more effusive but little more enlightening on the subject. "I can't say I am terribly optimistic and I can't say I am terribly pessimistic," said the young ABA commissioner. "I am in the middle. I don't know what is going to happen."

The four-team plan would involve taking in franchises from Denver, Indiana, New York and San Antonio for the 1976-77 season, leaving Kentucky and St. Louis-Utah in the cold.

Ozzie Silna, principal owners of the St. Louis-Utah club and an uninvited guest at these NBA summer meetings, said, "The easiest thing for both parties, would be a six-team deal."

"There's no way they are going to work out a four-team deal," insisted Silna, while pinpointing all the problems that would exist if such a plan was adopted.

Silna, in the process of moving his franchise from St. Louis to Utah because of the Spirits' failure to attract fans last year, said the roadblocks included a lawsuit by the ABA Players' Association, two suits by the city of Buffalo against the NBA, the problem of dispersal of ABA players from the two franchises not included in the four-team plan, and other pending litigation.

But over them all — the greats, the near-greats, the once-greats, the not-yet-greats — there's Nicklaus.

"Nicklaus is the greatest player of all time," said Weiskopf, who has spent his career in Jack's shadow.

Clifton Rolls Past Kiwanis

Bill Clifton Insurance romped to an 11-1 victory over University Kiwanis in the Senior Babe Ruth League last night.

The lone Kiwanis run came in the opening frame. Howard Vainwright singled and moved up on an out. Jay Chenier doubled him in.

Clifton pushed into the lead in the second frame, scoring two runs. Nuggie Worthington singled and Roger Jenkins singled. A passed ball let Worthington score, and another let Jenkins come in.

Another run scored in the third. Mike Phillips doubled and Donnie Cox walked. The two pulled a double steal, scoring Phillips.

Four more runs came in the fourth. Quinn Morris doubled and Curtis Clemmons reached on an error. Phillips doubled in two runs, and scored on Kevin Adams hit. Adams stole second and third and scored on a passed ball.

The other four came in the sixth. Phillips singled and Adams doubled. Eddie Bunch walked to load them up and Cox crashed a grand-slam home run.

Roger Jenkins and Morris each had three hits, while Clifton Clemmons, Phillips and Adams each had two.

Auto Specialty Rallies To Win

Auto Specialty picked up six fifth inning runs and stormed from behind to take a 9-8 victory over Pitt Plaza yesterday in the Babe Ruth Prep League.

Auto Specialty took an early lead with a run in the first. Larry Talbert walked, stole second, moved up on an out and scored on Arthur Fletcher's hit.

But Pitt Plaza came right back to pick up four in the bottom of the fourth. Steve Hall walked, as did Van Warren and Billy Dough, loading them up. Scott Southerland walked to force in Hall, and a balk scored Warren. Dough scored on a wild pitch and Southerland came in when Andy Smith reached on an error.

Auto Specialty came back with a run in the fourth. Burt Singleton walked and Jamie Byrd reached on an error. Walks to Talbert and Mark Douglas brought in the run.

Pitt Plaza came up with four more in the fourth to take an 8-2 lead. Danny Moore walked and Hall was hit by a pitch. Warren reached on an error and a walk to Kelly Kee brought in Moore. Dough sacrificed in Hall, and Reggie Morris doubled in Warren. Kee scored on a balk.

In the top of the fifth, however, Auto Specialty came up with six to tie it up. Singleton reached on an error after two were out and Byrd walked. Woody Whichard singled in Singleton and Bill Dawson walked. Talbert singled in Byrd, and Douglas reached on an error, scoring Whichard. Fletcher doubled in the other three baserunners to knot it at 8-8.

Then, in the sixth, Auto Specialty won it with a run. Barry Tyson walked and Singleton was safe on an error. Byrd singled and Whichard reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Tyson.

Favorite Is Beaten

By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Arizona State came to the 30th College World Series with 19 straight baseball victories, the favorite tag and a team batting average of .348.

Eastern Michigan left-hander Bob Owchinko changed all that in a little more than two hours Tuesday night with a masterful seven-hitter to give his club a 2-1 victory over top-rated Arizona State.

"Owchinko was just a much better pitcher than we've had to face in some time," said Arizona State Coach Jim Brock. "When you sit back and analyze it, it was probably a super performance by him."

The victory left Eastern Michigan, 46-14, the only unbeaten among the four remaining series contenders and ended the possibility of an Arizona and Arizona State title game.

Arizona State, 64-9, tangles with Maine, 29-8, in a elimination game Wednesday night, while Arizona, 53-17, will try to stay alive against Eastern Michigan.

If the two Arizona schools are victorious, they would battle Thursday night and Eastern Michigan would receive the bye into the title game.

Eastern Michigan gave Owchinko plenty of support in the field, including three double plays.

All the game's runs came in the first three innings and what proved to be the winning tally came on an error.

Golf Winners

WASHINGTON — Several local women were among winners in a Four-Club Golf Tournament held in Washington this week.

Maxine Hawley took low net in the first flight, while Mirian Martin took the same honors in the second flight. Evelyn Ward won low gross in the third flight.

Ellen Fleming won the putting prize for her group.
All four women play out of Brook Valley Golf and Country Club.

IT'S ALL OVER — Joe Frazier, former heavyweight champion, bleeding from a cut by his eye and on his lip, tries to get up after a second knockdown at the hands of George Foreman in the fifth round of their fight in Uniondale, N.Y. last night. Foreman won the bout seconds later on a technical knockout. (AP Wirephoto)

Perry Sixth On Strikeout List

How would you like to have Catfish Hunter, Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman in your starting rotation?

The New York Yankees do. The Oakland A's don't. How would you like to have Joe Rudi in your line-up and Rollie Fingers in the bullpen?

The Boston Red Sox do. The Oakland A's don't.

All the A's have is five consecutive American League West titles to look back on, plus a 3-2 victory over the Red Sox Tuesday night on a pair of home runs by Gene Tenace, one of the last remaining stars from the dynasty that Charlie Finley built ... and then destroyed.

Elsewhere amidst the wheeling and dealing on the final trading day, the Kansas City Royals slaughtered the Detroit Tigers 21-7, the Texas Rangers edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2, the New York Yankees downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the Baltimore Orioles snapped a nine-game losing streak by blanking the Chicago White Sox 4-0 and the California Angels nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0.

The evening began on a startling note when Finley sold the A's ... one by one. First, he peddled Rudi and Fingers to the Red Sox for $1 million apiece. Then, Blue went to the Yankees for $1.5 million.

Thus, Finley got rid of some more malcontents, a streak that began when he lost Hunter following the 1974 season through a technicality in the pitcher's contract. Move No. 2 came just before the season started when the controversial Oakland owner shipped Reggie Jackson and Holtzman to Baltimore in a six-player swap.

And following Tuesday night's action, the Yankees acquired Holtzman in a nine-player trade with the Orioles to join Hunter and Blue. Also moving from Baltimore to New York were pitchers Doyle Alexander and Grant Jackson and catcher Elrod Hendricks while the Yankees gave up pitchers Rudy May, Tippy Martinez and Dave Pagan, catcher Rick Dempsey and minor league pitcher Scott McGregor.

Tenace, one of Oakland's few remaining stars, hit his second home run of the game leading off the bottom of the ninth inning to give the decimated A's a victory over the Red Sox and Ferguson Jenkins.

The Red Sox took a 2-1 lead in the eighth when Glenn Abbott, starting in place of Blue, gave up his first hit, a single by Jim Rice, and Carlton Fisk followed with a homer. The A's tied the score with an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth.

Royals 21, Tigers 7
Amos Otis drove in five runs and Dave Nelson four as the Royals won by a score more common to football than baseball. The game was halted by rain with none out in the top of the ninth following doubles by Tom Poquette and Jamie Quirk that gave the Royals a club-record 24 hits, 18 in the first four innings.

Rangers 3, Indians 2
Gaylord Perry moved into sixth place on the all-time strikeout list by handcutting his former teammates on six hits. Perry passed Bob Feller and Warren Spahn with six strikeouts for a career total of 2,586. Mike Hargrove of the Rangers slashed run-scoring singles in the first and third innings off former teammate Jim Bibby as Texas snapped the Indians' five-game winning streak.

Yankees 4, Twins 2
Thurman Munson slammed four straight hits, including a game-tying homer in the sixth inning and a tie-breaking two-run single in the seventh. The game was overshadowed by the Yankees' new acquisitions. "It definitely makes us stronger," said Manager Billy Martin, "but Boston got two great players, too."

Orioles 4, White Sox 0
Lee May's two-run homer and a pair of run-scoring doubles by Mark Belanger backed the five-hit pitching of Jim Palmer as the Orioles snapped a nine-game losing streak.

Angels 1, Brewers 0
Nolan Ryan hurled the eighth two-hitter of his career and Bobby Bonds drove in the only run with a seventh inning single. Ryan, winning for only the second time in his last 10 outings dating back to May 1, yielded singles to Don Money in the first inning and Gary Sutherland in the eighth. In authoring his 25th career shutout and second of the season, he struck out nine and walked only one and retired 17 Brewers in a row at one stretch.

Finley . . .

what we wanted and they got what they wanted."

When asked where he'd use Rudi, with Jim Rice, Fred Lynn and Dwight Evans now comprising the outfield and Carl Yastrzemski holding down first base, Johnson replied, "I haven't had a minute to think about it."

The Yankees acquired pitchers Doyle Alexander and Grant Jackson and catcher Elrod Hendricks from Baltimore and Holtzman in exchange for pitchers Rudy May, Tippy Martinez, Scott McGregor and Dave Pagan plus catcher Rick Dempsey. The sale of the three A's and the nine-player deal between Baltimore and New York were the big personnel shifts in baseball, but there was more shuffling.

Outfielder-infielder Reggie Smith was sent by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Los Angeles Dodgers for catcher-outfielder Joe Ferguson plus minor leaguers Bobby DeThrage and Fred Tinsdale.

The Texas Rangers purchased outfielder Joe Lahoud from the California Angels.

The Chicago White Sox sold Pete Varney to the Atlanta Braves and purchased former A's pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom from Richmond of the International League, placing him with Iowa of the American Association.

The Red Sox sent catcher Andy Merchant and Steve Dilard to Pawtucket in the International League to make room on their roster for Rudi and Fingers.

And the New York Mets activated outfielder Mike Vail, optioned pitcher Rick Baldwin, placed catcher Ron Hodges on the disabled list and called up catcher Jay Klewin.

FAST FINISH

NEW YORK (UPI) — J.P. Paris's goal 11 seconds into overtime in the 1975 preliminary round of the Stanley Cup playoffs was the fastest extra-session post-season score.

Gregory, University of Mississippi; Dave Fuller, University of Florida, and William McCabe, Eastern Illinois University.

They will be inducted in January, 1977.

with a single.
Reds 6, Cubs 4

Pinch hitter Bob Bailey delivered a run-scoring single in a three-run eighth inning to break a tie and lift Cincinnati over Chicago for the fifth straight time this year and 16th in the last 17 meetings between the clubs.

Braves 5, Cardinals 4
Earl Williams slugged his seventh home run and Ken Henderson slammed a two-run double to help Atlanta hand St. Louis its ninth loss in twelve games and 15th in the club's last 20 games at home.

The Braves' Rowland Office extended his hitting streak to 20 games, the longest this season in the National League.

Mets 2, Dodgers 11

Dave Kingoan's two-out single off Burt Hooton in the eighth inning brought in the winning run for New York, giving Jon Matlack his eighth triumph of the season and his seventh in a row over Los Angeles since June 14, 1974.

Padres 2, Expos 1
Alan Foster's six-hitter led the San Diego victory. Foster gave up a solo homer to rookie Gary Roenicke in the third, but the Padres tied it when Tito Fuentes scored Enzo Hernandez from first with a double in the fifth and went ahead on a sacrifice fly by pinch hitter Gene Locklear in the sixth.

Deluge Washes Out Game—At Astrodome

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

There are 20 people in Houston today who will have a unique story to tell their grandchildren. They have the rain checks from a game at the Astrodome.

Some 11 years ago, when the massive indoor arena was being celebrated as "The Eighth Wonder of the World," the publicity had been that a game never would be postponed by rain.

That's over now, gone the way of nickel beers and horse-drawn wagons, thanks to seven inches of rain which flooded the dome's surrounding area and prevented the umpires — and just about everybody else — from getting to the ball park for the Astros-Pittsburgh Pirates game.

"It wasn't exactly a rain-out," an Astrodome spokesman said, "it was a rain-in."

"We were bone dry inside. The Pirates and Astros put up banquet tables on the infield and sat down to dinner."

That's because there wasn't going to be a game Tuesday night.

The players had arrived hours early, beating the deluge. But about 20 others, "just a handful of real diehards," according to the spokesman, canoed to the Dome to watch baseball.

Those who made it were treated to a meal in the Astrodome cafeteria; the club picked up the bill.

In the five games that were played, Philadelphia bombed San Francisco 10-2; Cincinnati topped Chicago 6-4; Atlanta tripped St. Louis 5-4; New York nipped Los Angeles 2-1, and San Diego clipped Montreal 2-1.

Phillies 10, Giants 2
Jay Johnstone and Garry Maddox each drove in four runs as Philadelphia blasted San Francisco.

Johnstone drove in his four with a pair of bases-loaded singles. Maddox drove in three of his runs with a home run. Tommy Hutton also delivered a run

Sports Briefs

By The Associated Press
BRANDON (AP) — The board of governors of the Western Canada Hockey League voted Tuesday to allow the Winnipeg club to move to Spokane, Wash., for the 1976-77 season.

WCHL president Ed Chynoweth said the move is contingent on approval from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association.

The team is to be called the Spokane Americans. But Tom Hodges, president, coach and general manager of the Spokane Flyers of the Western International League, said legal action may be taken to prevent the move.

BOSTON (AP) — Forward Clayton Pachal of the New Westminster, B.C., Bruins, the top draft choice of the Boston Bruins, has been signed by the National Hockey League club.

Pachal, expected to play left wing and center for Boston, had 41 goals and 57 assists in leading his junior club to the Memorial Cup finals.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) —

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has approved a request by Worcester Polytechnic Institute to be shifted to a smaller college sports category.

The school requested the shift from Division 2 to Division 3. A school spokesman said the change would give WPI a better chance in national tournaments.

CALGARY (AP) — Three Americans left camp Tuesday as the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League conducted their second day of preparations for the 1976 season.

Defensive backs Dennis Moorhead of Pittsburgh and Ed Poole of North Carolina State, and defensive tackle Tom Serfuss of North Carolina decided to go home, the Stampeders said.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The American Association of College Baseball Coaches (AACBC) announced Tuesday that four former coaches have been elected to its Hall of Fame.

The new inductees are Owen Carroll, Seton Hall; Paul

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THE GARAGE ON ONE SIDE OF this Cape Cod home of frame construction balances the living-dining wing on the other. The three dormers provide a break in the roof line while the shutters maintain contrast. Inside, a center hall prevents any room being used as a hallway. The family room has a fireplace flanked by a door and windows, while the living room has a backyard exit for patio entertaining. Plan HA938G has 1,517 square feet of floor space on the first floor and 835 on the second. It was designed by architect Carl E. Gaiser. Collecting Is Income Bonus

MOUNT VERNON, Wash. (AP) — John Ball was 70 when kidney surgery mandated his retirement three years ago as a heavy duty mechanic. But he wanted to work.

"Well," Ball decided, "I can still walk." And he does — some 20 miles a day along the highway to collect enough bottles and aluminum cans to add $100 to his Social Security income each month.

"At first I just collected bottles," said Ball. "But then I heard Reynolds paid 15 cents a pound for aluminum cans." That's 121 cans.

The walking is good for him, but he can't do much bending. So he made a hook from a gaff, fastened it to the end of a long pole and fashioned a large basket of plastic over a frame.

Bottle and can gathering is a fulltime job, says Ball.

"I even went out one winter day in 1974 when it was snowing a blizzard," he said. "I picked up 31 cases of bottles! Sure, I got cold, but at 50 cents a case, I made $15.50, and I could have just been home, sitting in front of the fire, not doing anything."

Ball gets a little help from his friends — the state Highway Patrol.

Three Qualities Outranked Sex

NEW YORK (UPI) — Love, respect and friendship outranked sex by a considerable margin in a survey conducted by a magazine among 75,000 women. Those interviewed were young, mainly middle class married women who completed a questionnaire published by the magazine.

Sweet, But No Tooth Decay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dental researchers in Finland have tested a natural plant sugar that tastes sweet but prevents tooth decay.

They found that test subjects not only developed significantly fewer new cavities when they used products containing xylitol, but that some of their old precavity conditions cleared up.

Red, White And Glue Illustrates Spirit Of Kids

BICENTENNIAL SALUTE—Amy Schwendimann, 10, of Richardson, Tex., won a prize in a nationwide contest on "The Spirit of '76" with this cigar-box house showing Betsy Ross and the Revolutionary-era flag.

NEW YORK (AP) — One million of the nation's junior craftsmen from 40,000 schools have illustrated their concept of "The Spirit of '76" by glueing such material as bread dough, clothespins, matches, cigar boxes, pennies, popsicle sticks and paper mache for entries in a national Bicentennial contest.

George Washington crossing the Delaware, using papier mache, mirror chips, cotton balls and twigs. Coffee colored the boat for Washington and his blue-coated soldiers.

Amy Schwendimann, 10, of Richardson, Tex., won $1,000 as second prize. She built a cigar-box house showing Betsy Ross with the Revolutionary-era flag, using popsicle sticks for logs, bread dough and clothespins in her salute to the nation.

Third national prizewinner was Justin Lang, 10, of Lakewood, Colo. The 4th-grader won $500 for his head of Benjamin Franklin, made with papier mache features on a cardboard tube.

The three national winners also received a trip to New York and Washington with their mothers and teachers.

Tara Martinez, 9, fourth-grader of Gonzalez, La., made a mouth-watering white birthday cake that looked as though it were topped with flaked coconut. Circular, it was covered with torn tissue flakes with red and blue stars glued on each "slice."

As each piece is lifted out crayoned scenes are revealed, such as the Capitol, the Liberty Bell, the Statue of Liberty and Betsy Ross and the flag.

A Liberty Bell of overlapping copper pennies to give a three-dimensional effect, mounted on a plaque, was the work of Charles B. Merrill Jr., 8, of Swainsboro, Ga.

Paul Miller, 8, of North Miami, Fla., won a $2,000 U.S. Savings Bond as first prizewinner in the competition sponsored by Elmer's Glue. He created a diorama of

Fewer Children In 1985's Home

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American household in 1985 will have 40 per cent fewer children than in 1965, and 20 per cent fewer than last year, says John S. Chamberlin, vice president and general manager of the housewares and audio division of a major manufacturer.

In a speech at a new products lunch, Chamberlin also predicted the number of families with annual incomes of $25,000 or more would almost double between 1975 and 1985, from 7 to about 13 million, giving more families more disposable income to spend on fewer persons.

Red River Dave Unearth City That Launched Buddhism Just Stuck To 'Fundamentals'

RED RIVER DAVE—Actor, singer and songwriter, is now a preacher on Nashville's Music Row. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Red River Dave is riding into the sunset with a lariat on his hip, a Bible in his hand and memories to move a mountain. The colorful cowboy is currently a preacher on Nashville's Music Row. And the flamboyance that dotted his days as an actor, singer, songwriter and radio and television personality still stirs in his 61-year-old heart. During sermons at a Music Row hotel, he whips a lariat off his hip and does rope tricks to illustrate Bible stories. Last month, he preached a sermon in citizens band radio language. The four gospels, he said, "are up higher than the bears in the sky (police helicopters). They're in a gospel convoy with the Big Breaker in the Sky. They're truckin' for Jesus Christ and Company."

Such an unorthodox ministry seems appropriate for this silver-haired, robust former Texan who once was chained to a piano for 24 hours during a song writing contest and who now has a new bride 15 years his junior. In an age of specialized entertainers, Red River Dave McEnergy appears to be a Tex Ritter, Billy Graham, Kris Kristofferson and Lowell Thom-

By RAMESH C. PANDE
KAPILVASTU, India (UPI) — In one of the tiny white tents pitched near the ruins of palaces, archaeologist Krishna Murari Srivastava points to a camp bed laden with artifacts. "You can see, we sleep with history," he says. There are beads, bangles and bracelets, pottery, toys, bone pencils, copper rings, chisels, hammers, sickles, daggers, arrow heads and terra-cotta statuettes. But more important to Srivastava, he recently uncovered a casket containing the remains of Prince Siddharta, who became Gautama Buddha, founder of one of the world's great religions. The discovery settled a centuries-old controversy over the location of this lost ancient city.

And Srivastava, 48, believes the discovery of the Buddhist relics at Kapilvastu "is just the beginning." "We may be digging up newer sites around Kapilvastu which would throw more light on the divine life of the Enlightened One," he said. It was in this town about 2,500 years ago that 29-year-old Prince Siddharta confronted the spectacle of old age and death. He renounced his possessions and his wife and went in search of the ultimate truth. Buddhism was born. Kapilvastu, which provided the turning point in life for Prince Siddharta, took a place in history no less important than that of Jerusalem. Unfortunately, much of the history of this 3,000-year-old town was lost when the city lapsed into ruins and finally was buried. Now, 25 centuries later, a team of Indian archaeologists has unearthed several monasteries, a palace, a stupa (mound) and a rich assortment of artifacts which show Kapilvastu flourished even before Siddharta's father settled here in the middle of the sixth century B.C. The most valuable of the discoveries is a huge soapstone casket with an inscription on the lid which certifies that the casket's contents are Buddha's mortal remains — pieces of bones and ashes. Kapilvastu, surrounded by jungles and mangrove groves, is located near Piprahwa, a tiny village in northeastern India. It is less than 10 miles from Lumbini, Nepal, where Buddha was born in 563 B.C. while his mother was enroute to her father's home. Kapilvastu was named after the Hindu sage, Kapila. Buddha's father, Shuddhodhan, chief of the Sakya race, visited Kapilvastu several times before accepting Kapila as his Guru and settling in the town.

To get to Kapilvastu today, one drives through ancient bullock-cart tracks buried under mud and sand either by jeep or tractor. The team of archaeologists led by Srivastava work in 100-degree heat. The camp is a tiny cluster of white tents, nestling close to the excavated red brick and sandstone ruins of palaces and monasteries which reverberated with the chantings of prayers and hymns 3,000 years ago. Men return to the tents only at night. Their days are spent supervising further excavations around Kapilvastu. The mounds, such as the ones where Buddha's remains were found, had a funeral function, containing the ashes and charred bones of the dead collected from cremation pyres. As requested by Buddha before his death, one-eighth of Buddha's mortal remains were buried under a mound in Kapilvastu by the Sakyas.

The exact location of Kapilvastu was in doubt until 1971 when archaeologists began unearthing evidence of the lost city. Kapilvastu might have been discovered 79 years ago by an English feudal lord, William Caxton Peppe, but for his greed. In 1897, a native farmhand reported to Peppe the discovery of a "few odd objects" near a mound in Piprahwa, adjacent to the Englishman's estate. Peppe bored a crude shaft into the mound and discovered a massive sandstone coffer containing a casket and various precious objects. This casket, as later research showed, did not contain Buddha's remains, but those of a kinsman buried later. Peppe never bothered to continue his search. He settled for the treasure chest, which later was confiscated by the British government.

July 4 Will Start Drama's 3rd Season

SNOW CAMP, N.C. (AP) — "The Sword of Peace," an outdoor drama telling of Quakers who settled in Snow Camp before the Revolutionary War, has come through two years of financial problems. Supporters hope that with the new summer season beginning July 4 it will become a permanent fixture on North Carolina's summer circuit.

The season continues through Aug. 29, with performances nightly Thursday through Sunday.

"If the rain god is with us this year, we should have a real good season," said publicity director Paul Williams. Eight performances were rained out last year.

"We intend to be permanent. The Snow Camp community created this thing and has kept it going," Williams said. Snow camp is 15 miles south of Burlington and 25 miles southeast of Greensboro.

The drama is performed in an amphitheatre with a seating capacity of 850. The sponsoring Snow Camp Historical Drama Society hopes for a turnout of 15,000 viewers this season.

The production is supported by the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources, which has begun airing one-minute television commercials for the play on stations across the state. Also promoted by the department is "The Lost Colony," the state's oldest outdoor drama at Manteo.

Beginning To Worry Over Mexico City's Problems

By Matthew T. Kenny

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—As it simultaneously sinks, shakes, tilts, dries up and becomes steadily more polluted and overcrowded, Mexico City probably has more growth problems than most world capitals. Perched atop a mountain almost a mile and a half in an increasingly smudgy sky, it has changed in less than 25 years from a pleasant metropolis into a surly giant. It is on the verge of becoming a monster megalopolis — perhaps the world's biggest city — by the end of the century. And Mexicans are beginning to worry. They see a potential nightmare looming ahead. "The Federal District Is An Inferno," screams one newspaper front-page banner. "Life in the Federal District No Longer Human," intones another. "Mexico City, the world's most monstrous city in only 24 years," warns a third. Mexico City's fatal flaw is unsolicited role as a Mecca for peasants, students and average citizens seeking jobs, education, housing and a "better life." An unstoppable exodus from the countryside, beginning slowly after World War II, has gradually grown into tidal wave proportions.

If Moctezuma, Cuauhtemoc or any of the Aztecs subsequently defeated by the Spanish were to return today, the chances are they — as well as Hernan Cortes and his Conquerors — might beg instant sacrifice after first asking: "How did it happen?"

Experts are now belatedly figuring out the answer, although the phenomenon is hardly unique to Mexico. The population of Mexico City proper is now about 10 million, with the overall metropolitan district numbering some 12 million, according to Mayor Octavio Senties.

Another effort to discourage the exodus from the countryside is a recently-passed "Law Of Human Settlements" which gives the federal government sweeping controls over land use. Its aim is to prevent cities from arbitrarily taking over adjacent land areas. Whether the law will prove effective remains to be seen.

MEXICO CITY's traffic problems worsen every day. This is a typical lineup of cars, with most drivers honking horns, at mid-day on the main boulevard, the Paseo de la Reforma. (UPI Photo)

More and more, the fresh arrivals are disillusioned. But they hang on, moving into existing slums or creating new ones, multiplying the capital's problems like amoebae in a test tube.

Another effort to discourage the exodus from the countryside is a recently-passed "Law Of Human Settlements" which gives the federal government sweeping controls over land use.

There have been proposals to move the federal district, but so far the idea has drawn only lukewarm support.

In a sense, it all started with the migration here 650 years ago of the Aztecs who, following their own mystic brand of "pie in the sky," saw an eagle eating a snake atop a cactus on an island in the then-immense Lake Texcoco. They took this as divine sign to establish roots here.

The eagle and snakes have long since disappeared. Texcoco, almost gone, is a vast dusty relic of itself, now the source of violent dust storms which rake the city in the "dry" season. Cement covers most of the cacti.

Experienced In Getting Food

EMMAUS, Pa., (UPI) — The editor of Organic Gardening and Farming magazine noted recently that the Chinese on the mainland and on Taiwan were facing the future of farming confidently because of experience in the past.

The population of Mexico City proper is now about 10 million, with the overall metropolitan district numbering some 12 million, according to Mayor Octavio Senties.

Another effort to discourage the exodus from the countryside is a recently-passed "Law Of Human Settlements" which gives the federal government sweeping controls over land use.

There have been proposals to move the federal district, but so far the idea has drawn only lukewarm support.

"Their fantastically old and sophisticated society exposed them thousands of years ago to the food problems we are just beginning to think about now," Robert Rodale wrote in an editorial in his magazine's June issue. "The Chinese have also been through the problems of washing away of topsoil, using human waste on the soil, and living and producing food with little fuel...As a result, they have developed a systematic approach to getting food which, while not perfect, is permanent. Our abundance, in contrast, could be transitory."

The population of Mexico City proper is now about 10 million, with the overall metropolitan district numbering some 12 million, according to Mayor Octavio Senties.

Another effort to discourage the exodus from the countryside is a recently-passed "Law Of Human Settlements" which gives the federal government sweeping controls over land use.

There have been proposals to move the federal district, but so far the idea has drawn only lukewarm support.

Challenge Brought Him To California Vinyards

By Michael Rubin

Associated Press Writer

NAPA, Calif. (AP)—Pride is a powerful thing. It brought Bernard Portet thousands of miles from his home in France and the magic name of Lafite Rothschild to a small winery in California's Napa Valley.

knowledge in France, Portet said that when he felt ready to take on a position of responsibility — a chance to make his own wine — the worldwide wine boom had sent property prices in his native Bordeaux out of sight.

And Zinfandel, an assertive red wine exclusive to California. This contrasts with other California wineries, which turn out complete wine lists in all colors and flavors.

Portet left one of the most powerful and respected traditions in the history of wine at Lafite. His father, Andre, managed the Bordeaux chateau that makes the single best-known wine on earth.

The situation sent him on a worldwide search for a place of his own, and Portet, nodding at his winery here, said: "This is it."

And there are technical Gallic touches at the winery itself in the way fermenting wines are handled. For example, all of the barrels are made of French, rather than American, oak staves.

Portet, 32, grew up on the estate with its centuries-old tradition of fine vineyards and a collection of wines going back into the 1700s. The property is so treasured that it was set aside and protected by the Nazis as a special prize during World War II.

Portet is in complete command of the operation, as his father was at Lafite. In fact, the younger Portet designed Clos Du Val and noted: "You don't get the opportunity to build a winery from the ground up very often."

But Portet, that personal pride flashing, shuns comparisons between his California wines and those of his native France.

Portet attended France's renowned viticulture and winemaking school at Montpellier following his boyhood at Lafite.

He was, and is, highly impressed with California winemaking — especially the technology — but he hasn't forgotten his French background.

"Winemaking is winemaking wherever you are," he said. "Two batches of grapes may turn out different even if made into wine by the same winemaker. They are more different if made by different winemakers. How about wines made thousands of miles apart?"

"Personal challenge, that's why," he answers.

Clos Du Val produces only two wines: Cabernet Sauvignon, which is the primary grape of Bordeaux's red wines,

The Water Resources Secretariat says it will install 26 desalination plants in Mexico this year.

Cherokee Drama Is Annual Affair

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (UPI) — Cherokee Indians each summer present a two-month series of performances of the "Trail of Tears" drama recounting the life of the Cherokee after their forced removal to Oklahoma from the East.

The programs are presented each night except Sunday at an outdoor theater in the Tsa-La-Gi complex, a replica of a 17th century Cherokee village.

The 1976 "Trail of Tears" drama will be June 19 through Aug. 21.

Midwesterners Said Heavier

NEW YORK (AP) — Are Midwesterners heavier? They are according to figures compiled by the Diet Workshop, a group weight control program.

New members of sample classes in the Midwest had an average 56.9 pounds to lose, while the averages were 46.2 pounds for the East, 45.8 pounds for the South, and 42.7 pounds for the West.

DOUBLE OFFER FOR BARBECUE CHEFS

Then cook up your own homemade Texas Barbecue Sauce with our delicious special recipe. Discover why good cooks have been using Lea & Perrins for over a century to enhance the flavor of food. They know imitations just can't stand up to its unique, original flavor.

- TEXAS BARBECUE SAUCE
(The Original Lea & Perrins Barbecue Sauce)
- 5 oz. Lea & Perrins Worcestershire Sauce
 - ¼ cup lemon juice
 - ¼ cup salad oil
 - 2 cups water
 - 1 cup cider vinegar
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 teaspoon garlic salt
 - ¼ cup brown sugar
 - ¼ teaspoon Tabasco

In a medium sauce pan combine all ingredients. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Cool. If desired, pour 1½ cups of the sauce over a 4 pound chuck steak, cut 1 inch thick. Cover and marinate 4 to 6 hours. Drain. Broil steak 6 to 8 inches above gray coals, about 8 to 10 minutes on each side, brushing with sauce several times, or place on broiler rack 7 inches from heat source and broil about 10 minutes on each side, brushing with sauce several times.

TV Will Report On Quiet Dinner

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For reasons that elude me, the Public Broadcasting Service says it'll spend the entire night of July 7 showing public TV viewers live and taped coverage of a quiet dinner at the White House.

The dinner is to honor Britain's royal family, which is making what PBS calls a "historic bicentennial visit" here, no doubt to explain that George III acted a bit rashly 200 years ago.

PBS says its coverage, to begin at 8 p.m. EDT and end at 11 p.m. unless dessert is late, will be anchored by newsmen Robert MacNeil, Jean Marsh, public TV's most famous maid, and Julia Child, a cook.

It says the live show will include the royal family's departure from Blair House, the official receiving line at the White House, the procession to dinner, the toasts and the live entertainment.

Now we've never seen such a live TV dinner honoring a royal family, but we suspect the commentary will go something like this:

MacNeil: "The royal family is arriving and — what's this? Chevy Chase is right behind them. Whoops, he fell down. But he's getting up, he's saying 'no problem, no problem,' and the Duke is looking bemused."

Childs: "Oh, look, the soufflé just fell down, too."

Marsh: "Won't you please contribute to support public television?"

MacNeil: "Not now, Jean. The royal family is being seated, Mr. and Mrs. Ford are being seated and — what's this? Ronald Reagan is being seated. Someone forgot his chair."

Child: "Tonight's main course is — meat and potatoes?"

Marsh: "Won't you please contribute to support public television?"

MacNeil: "I said, not now, Jean. Queen Elizabeth, as we can see, is chatting with Mr.

BAREFOOT CONTESSA — Actress Ava Gardner, remembered for her film of "The Barefoot Contessa," walks in her stocking feet on the sidewalks of New York Monday during the filming of "The Sentinel." (Copyright 1976 New York Daily News via AP Wirephoto)

Ford. Mr. Ford is laughing. She must have said something funny. No, maybe not. In fact, the Queen is frowning now."

Child: "Robert, if I may interject, I believe she said, 'Would you please pass me the colonies?' and may have been misunderstood."

Marsh: "Won't you please contribute to support public television?"

MacNeil: "Jean, I repeat, this is no time for a fund drive."

Marsh: "Yes, but how shall we pay for this live coverage?"

Twelve Receive NCCU Degrees

Twelve Pitt County residents received degrees from North Carolina Central University recently.

Receiving undergraduate degrees were: Jeffrey L. Carmon, Robert L. Johnson, Sheila D. Latham, Mildred D. Sneed and Sara P. Spell, all of Greenville; Gwendolyn K. Gorham of Falkland; Rosalyn R. Jones of Bethel; Harold L. Williams of Fountain; and Eddie D. Isler of Farmville.

Charles M. Dickens and Clarence Gray, both of Greenville, received Master of Arts degrees.

Michael E. Grey of Greenville received a Juris Doctor degree.

Texas Displays Original Flag

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The original battle flag carried by Texans in their fight for independence from Mexico is now on display in the House of Representatives.

The San Jacinto Battle Flag, made by Mrs. Sidney Sherman for the Newport (Ky.) Rifle Co. and brought to Texas by her husband, was presented to the state in 1896.

It was restored in 1932, and now hangs behind the speaker's rostrum at the front of the House chamber.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you may feel you have been treated badly by certain people, but such an attitude is untrue. If you continue this viewpoint you are likely to lose out where it means the most to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to important duties ahead of you instead of running off on some tangent that could lead to unexpected trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It is best to rely on your own resources today since a friend could disappoint you now. Show loyalty to trusted friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure not to jeopardize your good reputation in the community where you live. Don't neglect an important credit matter.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Trying to escape from a responsibility you have assumed could turn one in power against you. Avoid one who gossips.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some associates may laugh at your ideas now, but pay no attention, since you have the right slant on things. Remain steadfast.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Taking the treatments that will improve your health is wise today. Use extreme caution in motion today. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend to duties awaiting you and handle them most efficiently. Sidestep a plan that a co-worker has in mind at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to be forceful with others at this time. Show increased devotion to loved one. Take needed health treatments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Control your temper at home or there could be trouble ensuing. Forget all those devious angles you have been working on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Exercise real care in motion everywhere you go today and avoid possible accident. Strive for harmony with loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't permit others to pressure you into spending too much money. Make long-range plans for future. Be logical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do something constructive about a problem you have instead of avoiding it. Show others that you are an excellent citizen.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she should be taught early in life to finish what has once been started. There is likely to be a self-pitying tendency here which can be curbed through understanding. There is an artistic talent here that should be encouraged throughout lifetime.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up YOU!

There is much discussion today of the lack of communication between people. East managed to keep in touch with his partner on this hand in order to defeat South's four spade contract. The auction was short and simple. South showed his spade suit over his partner's one heart opening bid, but when North could do no more than rebid one no trump, South's hopes for bigger things went aglimmering and he decided that a spade game was all there was in the cards.

Against careless defenders, declarer would have an easy time. If East wins the opening lead with the ace of clubs and returns the suit, declarer takes the king and draws two rounds of trumps. Now he leads the three of hearts, intending to play dummy's ten if West follows with a low heart. Since declarer cannot be prevented from reaching dummy and since West is out of clubs, declarer can discard two of his clubs on dummy's ace-king of diamonds, thus holding his losses to a trick each in trumps, hearts and clubs.

Unfortunately, for declarer, the East cards were held by Billy Eisenberg of Los Angeles, who represented the U.S. in the 1976 world bridge championships in Monte Carlo earlier this year. He unhesitatingly made the correct play at the first trick—the ten of clubs! Declarer won the king and cashed the ace and king of trumps, and Eisenberg took care to discard a low heart.

When declarer now led a heart toward dummy, West had no problem. He rose with the ace and continued a club. Eisenberg took three club tricks, and declarer still had to concede a trump trick for down two.

Warn Of Auto Liability Service Halt

Asks Stand Against Anti-Tobacco Group

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — Horace R. Kornegay of Washington, president of the Tobacco Institute, called on members of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association Tuesday to take a stand against what he called "antitobacco zealots."

Speaking at a luncheon session during the annual meeting economy. We all know of the distorted abuses of power and authority by many in the federal hierarchy."

Another speaker, James W. York, director of the tobacco division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, predicted that patriotic efforts would improve tobacco quality in all flue-cured leaf growing states, which include North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Florida, and a small section of Alabama.

RALEIGH (AP) — Spokesmen for several North Carolina insurance companies have warned that auto liability service could be interrupted if the firms are not granted a rate increase soon.

Also, the companies have asked that a 15.9 per cent increase request still pending from last year be dropped and a 10 per cent increase considered instead.

Paul Mize, manager of the North Carolina Automobile Rate Administrative Office (ARAO), said the companies need an overall 10 per cent increase. ARAO is the industry-owned agency that proposes insurance rates.

Tuesday, the rate office asked Insurance Commissioner John Ingram to discontinue consideration of its 1975 request for a 15.9 per cent rate increase and substitute the lower increase request.

Ingram has scheduled a conference on the request for July 12. After that he will decide whether to substitute the lower rate request. The rate office has until July 1 to file its new rate request. Tuesday's request by the rate office came at a conference to discuss a pending hearing on the 1975 rate increase. Last year, Ingram ordered that increase be cut to 13 per cent, but the rate office appealed the decision. The case was recently returned by the state Court of Appeals with an order that a hearing be held on the order.

Officials of several companies that do business in North Carolina warned Tuesday that service to insurance customers could be disrupted if "the commissioner of insurance presses his demand for costly and unreasonably elaborate financial information from companies operating in the state."

Among the companies were Great American, Kemper, State Farm and Nationwide. The warning was called "ridiculous" by Byron Tatum, deputy insurance commissioner.

"We are asking for normal financial information that a company has to have to know what its profits are. It's the same information they'd have to have to pass out to their stockholders," Tatum said.

Ingram has that the companies to provide his office with statistics on expenses, losses, loss adjustment expenses, loss and loss adjustment reserves, written and earned premiums on quarterly, calendar and fiscal-year bases for individual auto coverages.

The cost of providing the information would run from $50,000 to $75,000, the companies said.

"I've never run across a business yet that doesn't know how much it's making in a place where it's selling something," Tatum said.

First Doubt Over Swine Flu Drive

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Government officials are for the first time openly discussing the possibility that the campaign to give 215 million Americans a swine flu shot this fall may not get off the ground.

The mass immunization effort on a scale never before attempted has, they say, run into massive and perhaps insurmountable legal obstacles.

One of the nation's four influenza vaccine manufacturers is holding out for a new federal law indemnifying it for human injuries beyond its control. Organizations representing health workers, volunteers and local governments are deeply concerned about their own liability. Major newspapers are questioning the wisdom of giving flu shots against a disease that has not been seen since a brief appearance confined to Ft. Dix, N.J., early this year.

All these factors have led to an air of pessimism in certain quarters of the U.S. Public Health Service.

"Even if it does fail to fly, I think the scientific basis is sound," said Dr. Delano Meriwether, director of the National Influenza Immunization Program.

"The decision was the right one. It was the right one last March and it would be the right one next year, knowing what we do," he said.

While questions are being raised to which there are yet no answers, the government is going ahead with its plans in the hopes that the problems will be ironed out.

Bids have been advertised to the four drug companies — Merrell-National Laboratories, Parke, Davis & Co., Wyeth Laboratories and Merck Sharp & Dohme — as the prelude to price negotiations for swine flu vaccine.

Results of experimental vaccine tests on about 5,000 men, women and children will be presented to an open meeting of government scientists June 21, and that information will be presented the next day to the federal Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

Out of that session will likely come the recommendation for proper dosage of vaccine against swine flu, more properly called A-New Jersey-76, for most adults, and a combination vaccine against A-New Jersey and A-Victoria flu strains for the elderly and persons suffering from serious heart, lung, kidney and diabetes diseases.

More testing is expected to be ordered to determine the proper dosage and age cutoff for children.

The government plans to buy all the swine flu vaccine that the American companies can produce and to distribute it to state health departments which, in turn, will be responsible for getting the vaccine to public immunization clinics and private doctors.

The vaccine, being purchased with $135 million appropriated by Congress, will be free to recipients. Private physicians may charge for giving the shots in their offices, however.

Meanwhile, the Advertising Council Inc. on June 10 unanimously approved the government's $150,000 public service advertising campaign to inform Americans through television, radio, newspapers and magazines about the importance of swine flu shots and how and where to get one.

On the legal front, a draft bill indemnifying vaccine manufacturers against injury lawsuits has been written and is being actively considered. The White House has not yet given a green light to introduce it.

Some officials in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are doubtful that the bill could pass, mindful of the Senate Appropriations Committee report last April directing that "the various governmental units shall be free from liability in terms of the vaccine" and that "the drug producers should remain responsible for the vaccine, its quality and any adverse reactions directly attributable to the vaccine."

Contract language offered by HEW to the manufacturers holds the government responsible for informing patients about the benefits and risks of getting a flu shot. Three companies seem to believe that would reduce the threat of liability suits, although they know they would remain responsible for their own negligence.

Merrell, which can produce between 20 and 25 per cent of the nation's flu vaccine needs, is threatening to pull out if there is no indemnification law.

"They would all prefer indemnification, that's certainly the case," said HEW lawyer Bernard Feiner. "Whether the contract clause will be satisfactory has yet to be determined."

Even more perplexing is the question of malpractice liability for doctors, nurses and other health workers serving as volunteers in community flu vaccine clinics. The law varies in each state. Some indemnify public health workers, some provide insurance coverage and some promise government attorneys to defend against malpractice suits.

"I don't know if we can resolve that question," said Feiner. "We can't do much more than inform public employees and volunteers about their laws."

There is a prevailing belief, however, that anyone injured in an immunization program would "go after the big money" — the vaccine manufacturers or state government.

The flu vaccine is made from so-called killed viruses, which have been fragmented by chemicals and cannot give anyone flu itself. There have been only two deaths from flu vaccine and none since 1946, as vaccines became more refined.

Newsreel Library Is 'Priceless'

By ROBERT M. ANDREWS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Movietone has deeded to the National Archives its early silent film library, a priceless documentary of contemporary history from the 1920s in the form of more than one million feet of vintage newsreel footage.

Under an agreement signed recently by Movietone president Robert T. Kreiman and U.S. Archivist James B. Rhoads, the government will take accept the films after it converts them from the original, highly flammable nitrate base to acetate film to prevent further deterioration.

Neither official could put a dollar value on what Kreiman called an "irreplaceable national treasure," but a Movietone spokesman said the average rental value of the footage was about $15 million. Movietone could not estimate how much of the film is salvageable.

The more than 4,000 newsreels span the decade beginning September, 1919, with some rare additional segments dating back to 1903. The first 10-minute release included scenes of steeplejacks cleaning William Penn's statue in Philadelphia, Belgian King Albert visiting Toledo, Ohio, and Hudson Maxim, inventor of the machine gun, at Lake Hopatcong, N.J.

The National Archives already holds about 3 million feet of sound newsreels covering a 27-year period from Paramount, Movietone and News of the Day, plus 15 million feet of old March of Time documentaries. In addition, its vaults contain 45 million feet of newsreel "outtakes," unused or unedited film, from Universal and March of Time.

Since April, 1974, the archives has been acquiring television news film from the CBS under an arrangement that runs until next February.

Movietone, now a subsidiary of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., distributed two newsreels a week to theaters throughout the world from 1919 through 1963.

The newsreels, depicting contemporary history from politics and wars to social fads, died out with the advent of television news. Movietone today makes newsreels only in Europe.

When the library transfer is completed, the National Archives will make the films available to the public for research and study.

WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 3 through June 9.

House
AUTO PROPULSION — Passed, 296 for and 86 against, a bill (HR 13655) to establish a five-year $150 million program to develop more versatile and efficient automobile propulsion systems. It was sent to the Senate.

The bill directs the Energy Research and Development Administration to award grants and contracts to private firms and use government research facilities to explore such alternative auto power sources as gas and steam turbines.

Supporters said the bill provides the framework necessary for a government-industry push to get cleaner and more efficient cars into the market place. "The federal involvement will bring a new point of view to bear on an old topic," said Rep. Larry Winn (R-Kan.).

An opponent, Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. (R-Calif.), said that the program is too "undefined" in its purpose, and that existing propulsion research efforts in government and industry are adequate.

Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), David Henderson (D-3), Stephen Neal (D-5), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "yea."

WATERWAY CONTROLS — Adopted, 234 for and 121 against, an amendment to limit Army Corps of Engineers regulation of dredging and filling to those waterways navigable for interstate commerce and to certain wetlands. The amendment was attached to HR 9560, a bill authorizing $18.2 billion for fiscal 1977 and 1978 programs to improve water quality. The bill was passed and sent to the nation.

The amendment also allows dredging and filling regulations to be administered by states, and specifically exempts farm and irrigation activities from the corps' jurisdiction.

The court ruling was obtained by environmentalists who sought cleaner waterways through the expanded federal supervision. New Corps of Engineers regulations mandated by the ruling, however, generated pressure on many congressmen to legislatively oppose corps jurisdiction over local waterways.

One supporter, Rep. John Hammerschmidt (R-Ark.), said the amendment satisfied "the concerns of those who fear that the law as presently interpreted... is too restrictive" on apaties such as farmers, ranchers and fosters. Another supporter, Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.), said the amendment "will protect the citizens from needless harrassment by an overzealous regulatory agency."

An opponent, Rep. William Harsha (R-Ohio), complained of an "absolute lack of information as to just what this amendment would do," and called its provisions "merely a meat-ax approach to try to allay some of the fears that many of us have over the over-regulation and over-involvement of the federal government in our affairs."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Senate

PRICE FIXING — Tabled, 42 for and 30 against, an amendment to make a key price-fixing provision of an antitrust bill applicable only to states whose legislatures have approved it. The amendment was proposed to S 1284, which would authorize state attorneys general to initiate federal price-fixing suits on behalf of citizens, and otherwise strengthen federal antitrust laws. Final passage of the bill was pending.

The amendment sought to water-down S 1284, and those voting "yea" were generally opposed of any weakening of the bill.

As worded, the bill grants state attorneys general immediate power to bring the price-fixing actions, but allows state legislatures the option of revoking that power. The amendment would have required that state legislatures grant prior approval.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.), a supporter of the motion to table and thus kill the amendment, said that it "would have the effect of destroying the immediate effectiveness, if not the long-range effectiveness" of the bill, because he said it would take years for a significant number of states to give the new power to their attorneys general.

The sponsor of the amendment, Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.), said: "It does not take any right from anybody. All this says is that these new powers... shall not be conferred on the attorney general of a state unless the state signifies its desire to have th happen."

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea."
Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

LEGAL FEES 8 tabled, 46 for and 29 against, an amendment to provide that attorneys fees and costs be awarded defendants who win federal price-fixing suits brought against them by state attorneys general. The amendment was proposed to S1284 (see above), which would empower state attorneys general to bring such suits on behalf of individual consumers.

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), a supporter of the motion to table and thus kill the amendment, said that the bill already grants courts discretion to award such expenses, and that the financial threat to states of paying defendants' expenses "will be a very serious inhibition" to ill-advised law suits.

Sen. James Buckley (C.N.Y.), sponsor of the amendment, said that states, not defendants, "must be held accountable for the burdens created by publicly-funded litigation that proves to be unfounded." Buckley added, "The mere status of being a defendant in an antitrust action is, in terms of time, money and anxiety, more punishment that most convicted criminals ever see."

Morgan voted "yea."
Helms voted "nay."

Unemployment in this country was at its highest in the Depression year of 1933.

Sod-Covered Car In Yard

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — This is a "sod" but true story about a car covered with — a lawn.

A few years ago, a firm which makes floats for parades built a car covered with dichondra weed for a lawn firm as a promotional gimmick.

Workers drilled 1,000 rivets into a 1951 car to hold pieces of perforated angle iron, then fitted sections of dichondra sod onto the iron and held them down with chicken wire.

The car was auctioned off when the publicity campaign was over, and Archie Bard, a mushroom grower here, won the vehicle by bidding $500.

Bard has discovered that a dichondra car isn't very practical, however. It has to be clipped with hedge shears and it has to be watered daily.

"We found that the top got too much sun and the sides didn't get enough, which caused uneven growth," Bard added.

The trouble proved too much for him.

"Right now, the car is just rusting away in the yard," Bard reported recently. "The weeds have taken over."

Texas Alligator Population Up

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — About 40,000 alligators live in Texas, and their numbers increased 12 to 15 per cent between 1974 and 1975, says a state Parks and Wildlife official.

Bill Brownlee said most of the reptiles live in the state's upper coastal marshes. Federal officials have proposed removal of the alligator from the endangered species list.

The sand on the Caribbean island of Aruba's Palm Beach is so white that it once was used as the symbol of purity in the island's marriage ceremonies.

U.S.-Made Products In Soviet Life

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — At a highway underpass, a Soviet policeman surprises motorists with a black, snub-nosed radar pistol. It's made in America.

In a sports stadium at the edge of town two soccer teams battle fiercely on a field of bright green "Astroturf." Made in America.

Muscovites in the know take their suits to the one dry cleaner in town that will have them ready in 24 hours. Its machines are made in America.

The Soviet Union bought $1.832 billion worth of American goods last year, mostly agricultural products, machinery and transportation equipment.

But along with the wheat and rice and milling machines and tractors came a few oranges and lemons, some cow hides and computers and sewing needles, some tennis racquets, typewriters and pianos, and $2,075,314 worth of the almond — shelled, fried and dried.

American paper clips hold together Soviet documents, American-made soda fountains spout Russian beer and soft drinks, American cash registers sit on store counters, and in the cotton fields of central Asia one can see imported from America Eli Whitney's invention, the cotton gin, hard at work.

Soviet exports to the United States last year were $277 million, or less than one-sixth the level of imports. The imbalance is a source of concern here.

Most of the Soviet exports were fuel oil and minerals such as platinum, chrome ore, nickel and rhodium. But hidden away on the lists of raw materials are a few consumer items.

A major American import was cut Soviet diamonds, mostly of gem quality, about $15 million worth or about equal to the amount of American rice the Soviets bought.

The most visible Soviet exports, of course, are caviar, furs and vodka.

The level of Soviet-American trade has soared since the inauguration of detente with President Richard M. Nixon's visit here in 1972. But still it lags far below the expectations of the dozen American companies which sent representatives to open Moscow offices in the early optimistic days.

American exports to the Soviet Union jumped from just $200 million in 1971 to $611 million in 1973 to last year's figure of almost $2 billion.

But these jumps represent almost entirely the increase in grain trade, and the figures are still much smaller than the $10 billion trade some Americans were predicting after Nixon's trip.

One of the major problems is a Soviet cash shortage and a low American ceiling on credit to the Soviet Union. Because of this, a number of major projects here have gone to Japanese or West European companies.

On the other side, Soviet exports to the United States are inhibited by duties of up to 110 per cent on consumer goods.

Magazine With No Finances

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A magazine which started nearly two years ago with no advertising and no money to pay writers and artists is still going strong here.

"Second Spring" is a non-profit, bimonthly publication for the elderly. The magazine rejects the belief that any human being is finished once he gets to a certain age.

More than 40 writers, artists, photographers and others in the San Francisco area have donated time and work to the magazine.

Father Alfred Boeddeker, a Franciscan priest, is executive director of the magazine.

Woman Teaches ROTC In Texas

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — Maj. Eloise Dotts, ROTC instructor at Sam Houston High School, is believed to be the first woman to hold such a position in the history of the Houston Independent School District.

The student commander of the corps, where girls outnumber boys, however, is Rex Cauther, a male.

Horse Still Effective In Police Hands

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Among the few bright spots in an often dismal, tense school year were scenes of city youngsters making their first acquaintance with a horse.

Sure, they were police horses, there to control crowds in case of trouble. But to a youngster a horse is a horse.

The horse may be the oldest weapon in the police arsenal, but for crowd control it's still one of the most effective — so effective that, after years of decline, the Boston police mounted patrol is expanding.

After all, how many people will stop to argue with a 1,200-pound horse?

"Most people are by nature afraid of the horses, so a mounted officer can break up a group more easily," said Patrolman James Leavey of the mounted unit maintained by the state's Metropolitan District Commission.

"But for people who do like horses, it has a calming effect, a psychological impact," added Leavey's colleague Frank Smith.

The MDR horses augmented Boston's during the tense opening days of school last September, and both men patrolled the streets of the Charlestown section.

"The horses helped us establish a rapport with the kids," Leavey said. "As soon as they figured out we're not there to run them into the ground, the whole picture changed."

Boston's police department only a year ago had dwindled to 10 horses and riders. Now the department plans to double that, said Sgt. Alfred J. McNeil, unit commander.

McNeil's command has 17 horses and 15 riders, including the first female member of the patrol, Marie Donahue.

"Chicago beat us by about six months (in appointing a woman)," McNeil said. "It should never have happened. We're the oldest and we should have been first."

(The MDC, whose horses normally patrol two quiet forest reservations in the suburbs, stables 14 horses, but austere state budgets have forced it to drop to seven riders.)

The Boston police mounted division traces its history to 1883, when its lone horse and rider patrolled the alleys of the Back Bay section. It was the only way a patrolman could see over the high garden walls of the town houses in the area.

Now the mounted police wear the patch of the tough, elite Tactical Patrol Force. They can disperse an unruly crowd in minutes or maintain an orderly line of march for a peaceful demonstration.

When not on emergency duty at Boston school or at demonstrations, the Boston Police unit patrols Boston Common, the Public Garden, fashionable Newbury Street, the theater district at night and helps direct traffic near the city's busiest business districts.

The MDC officers estimated it costs about $75 to $100 a month to keep each horse. McNeil declined to estimate his unit's cost but added: "When you compared the expense and upkeep with the price of a motor vehicle and how often you have to repair it, it's not that much."

Bureau Receives Odd Requests

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Robert Siegel of the Toledo Vital Statistics Bureau often receives odd requests from citizens. Among recent ones:

One citizen asked the bureau to "write and let me know how many times I have been married and how many children I have had and if I have been overseas or not."

A woman describing herself as a "poor soul trying to make a living in this hard world" requested two birth certificates — one her true age and another showing her to be 10 years younger.

Another asked the bureau whether it was "legal for a woman to change her last name if she lives with a man and not be married."

Siegel said he found it difficult to answer because her letter concluded: "I wish to remain unknown so please do not try to find me."

HOW LARGE?
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — How large is the crack in the Liberty Bell? According to Philadelphia officials, it measures three-eighths of an inch.
