

ECU Med School Opening Delayed

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

A decision has been made to delay the opening of the East Carolina University School of Medicine till September, 1977, Dean William E. Laupus said today.

In answer to inquiries by The Daily Reflector, he said "after careful evaluation of the total development of the School of Medicine and after consultation with University officials, I have recommended to Chancellor Jenkins and President Friday that our request to the Liaison Committee on Medical Education for an official accreditation site-survey visit should be made this fall in time for an LCME review at its February, 1977 quarterly meeting. This schedule for accreditation purposes will enable the school to enroll its first class in September, 1977."

Dr. Laupus said he has just concluded a series of conferences with the staff of the LCME to whom he reported the progress of the School of Medicine since the staff's consultation visit in early March.

"The LCME staff was informed of the recent authorization action by the UNC Board of Governors to permit planning for Ph. D. programs in several of the basic medical sciences in the School of Medicine," he said.

"My report indicated completion of faculty recruitment necessary for the basic teaching program in the first two years of the four year medical school curriculum. I also reported the status of our planning toward the establishment of residency programs in primary care fields—family medicine, internal medicine and pediatrics. Key clinical departmental chairman have already been appointed in pathology, pediatrics and psychiatry, with the selection of the chairman in Internal Medicine, to be announced soon. Our internal medicine and pediatric residency training programs will move from the planning to application and review cycle level. Full approval of the residency program in family practice is anticipated later this summer and planning for the residency program in psychiatry will begin soon.

"As was indicated in the LCME's report following the early March consultation visit, the achievements above will be expected to be at near-operational status before an accreditation site survey can be scheduled."

Ragsdale Hall on the ECU campus has been renovated for use by the School of Medicine and additions are being made to the new Pitt Memorial Hospital now under construction to accommodate the School. A $3.7 million bed tower for the hospital, also to facilitate teaching in the new hospital, has been promised to be a budget item before the next General Assembly.

Laupus said members of the media are invited to Greenville at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, July 8, for a thorough review and briefing on the School of Medicine's present status and plans for future development.

PRISON FIRE — Crews from McDowell and Burke counties fought a fire at the McDowell County prison unit last night in which four inmates died and 27 others were injured. The fire was limited to one of two dormitories in the nine-building complex. (AP Wirephoto)

Tax Sources?

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina municipalities may ask the 1977 General Assembly for permission to tax payrolls or impose levies on hotels and motels.

Leigh Wilson, executive secretary of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, said the two tax sources would be the heart of a league proposal to the legislature.

Wilson said a league review committee is considering proposals that will form a suggested tax package for municipalities. He said the committee's recommendations will be presented to the league's convention in Charlotte next October.

The state's cities and towns now rely mostly on the property tax for local revenues. Wilson said the property tax base is eroding, inequitable and unresponsive to inflation.

Wilson said the league's plan would offer cities the option of a hotel-motel levy or a payroll tax if the voters of a municipality approved.

Wilson said a city like Asheville with its tourist industry might choose the hotel-motel tax while cities like Winston-Salem and Eden with many workers who live outside the city limits might opt for the payroll tax.

Balloonist Is Safe

HALIFAX, Canada (AP) — Search and rescue headquarters said today missing balloonist Karl Thomas was picked up aboard a safety float by a Soviet merchant ship about 300 miles south of Halifax.

Thomas was trying to become the first man to fly across the helium, had not been heard from since Sunday night.

The Soviet vessel was reported to have told the United States Federal Aviation Administration by radio the American balloonist was in good condition and will be dropped off in Rotterdam, Holland, on July 8.

Thomas was trying to become the first man to fly across the Atlantic by balloon. He took off from Lakehurst, N.J., Friday night.

The armed forces air-sea rescue center said the ship De-kabrisk picked up Thomas at midnight Wednesday night.

A major search had resumed today after a Coast Guard C-130 plane searched for him Wednesday and returned after 10 hours in the air without sighting him.

Abortion Consent Erased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that states may not require a woman to obtain the consent of her husband, or a girl under 18 to receive permission from a parent, to get an abortion.

The decision struck down the parental and spousal consent provisions of a 1974 Missouri law but upheld a provision requiring the woman to give her written consent before the operation can be performed.

The ruling was the court's first major decision relating to abortions since it ruled 7 to 2 in 1973 that states may not regulate abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

The 1973 ruling also blocked states from prohibiting abortions until after the fetus is capable of "meaningful life" outside the mother's womb, which generally occurs during the sixth or seventh month of pregnancy.

Hijackers Free More Hostages

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Diplomats said pro-Palestinian guerrillas freed 100 more captives at Uganda's Entebbe Airport today as Israel, abandoning its traditional refusal to deal with terrorists, said it was ready to talk about releasing prisoners held in Israeli jails.

Israeli government sources in Tel Aviv said Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin was empowered to "negotiate with readiness to release prisoners" in exchange for freedom of Israelis held since a French airliner was hijacked over Greece Sunday night and flown here.

Diplomats said the hostages were taken from a disused terminal where they were held for four days to a new terminal where they joined the French ambassador to Uganda.

An Air France plane was expected from Nairobi, capital of neighboring Kenya, to take the group to Paris.

The hijackers said they would continue to hold about 100 persons, including Israeli citizens, the crew of the airliner and persons of dual nationality.

ported in serious condition. Several prison staff members suffered burns and minor injuries attempting to rescue inmates, he said, but none were hospitalized.

Kautzky said the tragedy could be linked to a "very limited equipment replacement budget" because the blaze erupted in old foam mattresses that he described as volatile.

"We're paying the price for dereliction," he said. "Special monies have been requested for years to replace those mattresses because of volatility."

Kautzky refused to identify inmates believed to have started the fire.

"Possible criminal charges are pending," he said.

None of the 67 prisoners housed at the Marion facility escaped during the incident, but one inmate attempted to escape from an ambulance, Kautzky said. Highway patrolmen stopped him.

Uninjured inmates were transferred early today to the Western Correctional Center in Morgantown and scheduled for later removal to prison units in Avery, Shaywood, Burke and Buncombe counties.

Kautzky said the prison suffered structural and roof damage and severe smoke damage.

"It is not habitable," he said. "But it is repairable."

He declined to make an estimate of the amount of damage, saying a team of department engineers was enroute to investigate.

Thirty-three inmates were housed in the dormitory where the fire was started.

Lt. Mack Wilson said he, Sgt. Elmer Macopson and three guards were on duty when they spotted smoke coming from one of two dormitories in the nine-building complex about 8 p.m.

Macopson said he ran to the dormitory and saw either two or three mattresses smoldering atop a table. He and Wilson ordered the inmates to smother the fire, he said, but the inmates said the guards would have to do it.

Then the inmates began tossing blankets and other bedding on top of the smoldering mattresses, he said.

Inmates from the adjoining dormitory were permitted to help carry casualties from the burning building.

The injured were taken first to Marion Memorial Hospital and then transferred to the Asheville hospital.

State Prisons director Ralph Edwards said the incident should "deter any intentional setting of dormitory fires."

The Marion fire, he said, was much like an earlier incident at Craggy Prison near Asheville, "except that was a conflict between inmate factions. No one died in it, but it was a very dangerous situation that got out of control."

Ceasefire Call Being Ignored By Both Sides

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian militiamen today stepped up their bombardment of the last major Moslem holding in southeast Beirut, the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp. Both sides ignored a Pan-Arab appeal for a cease-fire in the civil war.

Arab foreign ministers meeting in Cairo issued the appeal for a cease-fire at midday. They also urged an airlift of troops from Arab counties to begin separating the warring Lebanese factions.

About 1,300 Saudi Arabian and Sudanese soldiers left

Damascus today to join the 800 Syrian and Libyan troops sent to Beirut last week as the vanguard of the Pan-Arab peace-keeping force. The Syrians and Libyans have stayed away from the firing lines.

As the cease-fire deadline passed, heavy rockets roared from Moslem areas headed for Christian positions. Shelling from the Christian side set several fires in the Moslem neighborhood of Tariq el-Geddeh.

An all-night rocket and artillery pounding of the camp set a number of fires in the refugee camp.

SPEEDOMETER CALIBRATION

A patrol officer stopped me for speeding when my car was registering 55. He told me I needed to get my speedometer calibrated, but I can't find the place to have it done. No one seems to know. Mrs. J.O.

We called a number of persons at car dealerships and all told us the same thing, that they knew of no one since Ben Roberson of Ben's Auto Service died early this year.

One suggested we check with the Highway Patrol Garage here. The Mr. Gaskins we talked to there confirmed that there is no business here which offers this service. We then checked with someone at the Kinston Highway Patrol Station, who told us he believes there is a place in New Bern, but he does not know the name of the firm. Someone at the Highway Patrol Station in New Bern finally gave us the answer we sought—Lester Gaskins' Auto Service at 2206 Neuse Blvd. there offers the service.

We called Gaskins and learned that they do indeed offer the service and believe themselves to be the only station "between here and Raleigh" which does. The phone number is 637-4461, but no appointment is required, he said.

$5 is the charge for calibration and a notarized statement, he said. There are a few foreign cars and one type of '68, '69, and '70 Oldsmobiles which cannot be calibrated successfully, he warned.

O'Herron Plan Aims At Traffic Law Violators

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Ed O'Herron, in what he termed a major policy statement, proposed that many traffic law violations be removed from the court dockets and handled administratively by a system of hearing officers instead.

O'Herron's plan was announced here this morning as he campaigned in Pitt County.

The candidate indicated his proposal is a double-barreled plan designed to provide swifter, punishment for traffic law violators and at the same time reduce congested criminal court dockets.

"As governor, I will work to have removed from the court dockets minor traffic law violations," such as improper turns, lesser speeding violations, improper lane changes, tailgating, signal light violations and failure to yield right-of-way charges, he said. "More serious violations such as vehicular homicides, driving under the influence, reckless driving, driving after license has been suspended, hit and run and the major speeding violations would remain on the court dockets," O'Herron emphasized.

The lesser violations removed from the court system, according to O'Herron, "would be handled administratively by a system of hearing officers."

"The officers could impose fines, place points on driver's records and impose other punishments such as attending safe drivers schools. But the officers could not impose prison sentences," the candidate explained.

Drivers not satisfied by the actions of the hearing system could use an appeals process to gain access to the formal court system.

O'Herron said during 1975, 717,200 moving violations charges were sent to district courts in the state. "That meant a court record had to be set up for each of those cases, resulting

'Kitchen Cabinets' Are An Alexander Priority

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

A system of "kitchen cabinets" to provide local input into state government is a top priority for Republican gubernatorial candidate Jacob F. (Jake) Alexander.

According to Alexander, the "kitchen cabinets" would be composed of about 30 occupationally varied people in eight geographic areas who would consult with the governor at least twice yearly to discuss local problems.

"The cabinets would include people of all economic levels to really, literally get citizen input into the governor's office," he said.

"For once, we would not just be paying lip-service to the concept. These would be people I can consult with and who are free to consult me on problems their areas are facing."

Alexander was in Greenville yesterday on an eastern campaign swing. A former secretary of the Department of Transportation, Alexander said he would draw on his business background to increase efficiency in government.

"You can apply business principles to state government," he said.

"Over the years, so many lower and middle echelon employees have moved up into management positions by using their political clout."

"They have not been trained to use their two greatest resources: money and people."

Alexander noted that as Secretary of the Department of Transportation, he had initiated programs to train employees in sound management.

"As governor, I would train government employees to use management principles to improve efficiency and cut down on waste," he said.

Alexander said he favors an impartial study done by an out-of-state consulting firm to consider the feasibility of a U.S. 264-64

Miss Anna Harper Weds Dennis K. Liles Sunday

SNOW HILL — Miss Anna Lanette Harper and Dennis Keith Liles were wed at Calvary Memorial United Methodist Church here Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Roger E. Thompson performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Harper of Snow Hill.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Henry Ray Liles and Mrs. E. J. Myatt of Snow Hill.

A program of nuptial music was presented by George Mewborn, organist, Sheila Wade, flutist, and Connie Taylor, soloist.

The bride wore a formal length white gown of polyester organza and Venice lace. The V-neckline, empire waist, and trumpet sleeves were adorned with Venice lace entwined with white satin ribbon. The A-line skirt, edged in matching Venice lace, was attached to a chapel-length train. Her mantilla of silk illusion bordered with matching lace was attached to a capulet and flowed into a cathedral length train. She carried a formal bouquet designed with white roses and baby's breath entwined with a lace handkerchief.

Miss Winifred Harper of Snow Hill, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue floral dress with an empire waist and square neckline accented with a bow in the back. She wore a picture hat with beige ribbon, and carried a nosegay of shasta daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Laura Harper, cousin of the bride, Miss Amy Liles, cousin of the bride, Miss Missy Welfare and Miss Kim Mewborn, all of Snow Hill, Miss Debbie West of Stan- tonsburg, and Miss Loede Harper of Grifton, cousin of the bride. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, and carried nosegays of shasta daisies.

Miss Jean Flynn Harper of Snow Hill, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Miss Lu Anne Dixon, Miss Judy Mooring and Miss Sue Oakes, all of Snow Hill, and Miss Sheila Sutton of Hookerton were honorary bridesmaids.

Ushers were Darryl Mills, Stevie Williamson, Tim Butts, Chuck Harper, cousin of the bride, and Joe Heath, all of Snow Hill, and Mike Gay of Walstonburg. Kenny Hicks of Willow Spring was junior usher.

Horace Liles, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Wedding director was Mrs. W. C. Mercer of Farmville.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained with a reception at the Colonial House, Farmville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ray Liles hosted an after-rehearsal dinner.

The bridegroom is employed with Serve Well Supermarket, Snow Hill.

The bride is a sophomore at East Carolina University. Both are graduates of Greene Central High School.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Snow Hill.

Tell Tightwad To Pay Up

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For the past three months, I've been dating a guy I'll call Brad. He's 27 and I'm 24. Brad has a good business; so I know he's not hurting financially. In fact, he's very well off.

Well, he is the tightest man I've ever known. Abby, he's never taken me to a really nice restaurant. It's always a quick hamburger somewhere, and his idea of an entertaining evening is going to one of his friends' apartments and watching TV.

He took me to an opera once only because someone gave him some tickets. I work and am not exactly loaded, but I find myself leaving tips at the diner, paying for parking and "lending" him a dollar or two—which he never pays back.

If I ask him to pick up a pack of cigarettes for me, he'll hand them to me and say, "Gee, cigarettes have sure gone up—they're 65 cents a pack." (Translation: "You owe me, so pay up.")

I enjoy his company, but his stinginess irritates me. Should I continue seeing him, hoping he'll change, mention my feelings or just call it quits?

MS. F. IN N.J.

DEAR MS. F.: Mention your feelings and don't pull any punches! If he cares about you, he'll make an effort to change his ways. If he doesn't—who needs him?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old girl with a very complicated problem. The "Mom" and "Pop" who raised me are really my grandparents. My real mother, whom I was taught to call "Sis," wasn't married when I was born so her parents raised me as their child.

When I was three, "Sis" (my real mother) married my real father who was 26 years older than "Sis" and a family man. (I called him "Bruz.") Sis had gone to work for him right out of secretarial school. It took Bruz three years to get a divorce and marry Sis.

Soon after they were married, they adopted a new-born baby girl because Sis wasn't able to have children. They told everybody this child was their own. She is nearly 18 now and doesn't know she's adopted. Me, their very own blood child, they don't even claim!

That's not all. Two months ago Bruz dropped dead of a heart attack. He was worth a lot of money. I got nothing, but his adopted daughter is sitting pretty with a big trust fund. This is all true. My aunt told me.

Don't you think I'm entitled to something? And how can I get it? Both my grandparents are in a rest home now, completely off their rockers.

FEELS CHEATED

DEAR FEELS: I am not qualified to give legal advice, which is what you need. Engage a lawyer. You could have a good case.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Students Participate In Food Services Program

Two students in the East Carolina University Department of Food, Nutrition and Institution Management are acquiring professional experience in food service management this summer.

Beverly Jo Sanges of Albemarle and Lisa Gerretson of Annapolis, Md., were among university students selected for participation in the Food Service Management Training Program, sponsored by the Association of College and University Housing Officers and the National Association of College and University Food Services.

Eight weeks in length, the program provides opportunities for young men and women to observe and assist in the supervision of professionally trained personnel in preparation for a career in food service management.

The students learn more about such aspects of a food service operation as sanitation, personnel procedures, purchasing and cost accounting, and administrative procedures.

Ms. Gerretson, who will be assigned to a Long Beach, Calif., food service operation, is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron honor society in home economics and has served as secretary of the ECU Student Dietetic Association.

Ms. Sanges, assigned to work with a food service operation in Boulder, Col., is a student member of American Home Economics Association and Phi Upsilon Omicron. She was recently elected president of the ECU Student Dietetic Association for the 1976-77 academic year.

Miss Carson Entertained

Bride-elect Margaret Carson was honored at a floating miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. Smith Jr.

Hostesses were Mrs. Cathy Crawford and Miss Becky Smith.

The honoree was remembered with a corsage of miniature carnations and baby's breath.

The refreshment table centerpiece was floating gardenias. Assisting in serving were Miss Laurie Smith, Miss Camille Smith and Mrs. Karen Jeffreys.

Miss Carson will wed Bud Greer on July 31.

ECU Dean To Attend Meet

Dr. Miriam B. Moore, dean of the East Carolina University School of Home Economics, is a delegate of the 67th annual American Home Economics Association convention, Minneapolis, Minn., June 27-July 2. She is an AHEA Agency Member Unit Representative for Accreditation and a member of the organization's Center for the Family Advisory Committee.

If your home prepared French fried potatoes are soggy or greasy, you may not have the frying fat hot enough. Temperature of the fat should be 375 to 385 degrees, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Bridal Shower Held Friday

GRIFTON—On Friday night Miss Dawn Thomas, whose marriage to Richard Hanson of Raleigh will take place on July 25, was honored at a floating bridal shower at the First Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Hostesses were Mrs. Herman Smith, Mrs. Jim Hardison, Mrs. Maxwell Waters, Mrs. Horace Hudson, Mrs. Jack Whitt, Mrs. Ralph Thaxton, Mrs. J. B. Sasser and Mrs. Charles Craft.

A pink and white color scheme was noted in flowers and other decorations. Mrs. Hudson greeted guests and presented them to the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Linwood Thomas. Miss Thomas was remembered with a white carnation corsage and a gift of china from the hostesses.

Mrs. Smith poured punch, and Mrs. Hardison served decorated cake squares. The table, covered with a white lace cloth, held a silver bowl of mixed white and pink summer flowers flanked by pink candles in silver holders.

Mrs. Thaxton presided at the gift table, which was decorated with a miniature bride, wedding bells, small white Bible with wedding ring. Guests were registered by Mrs. Hardison.

Approximately 50 guests attended.

Very Good Home For Old Salts

We hope the shock of moving from Staten Island in New York to Sealevel, N.C. won't be too much for the aged sailors who occupy Sailor's Snug Harbor. Once they get settled, however, we think the old sailors will find the North Carolina coastal area quite enticing.

Polluted air was one of the complaints about Staten Island, but we believe the 81 seamen will find the air at Sealevel crisp and clear as was the ocean air when they once sailed around the world.

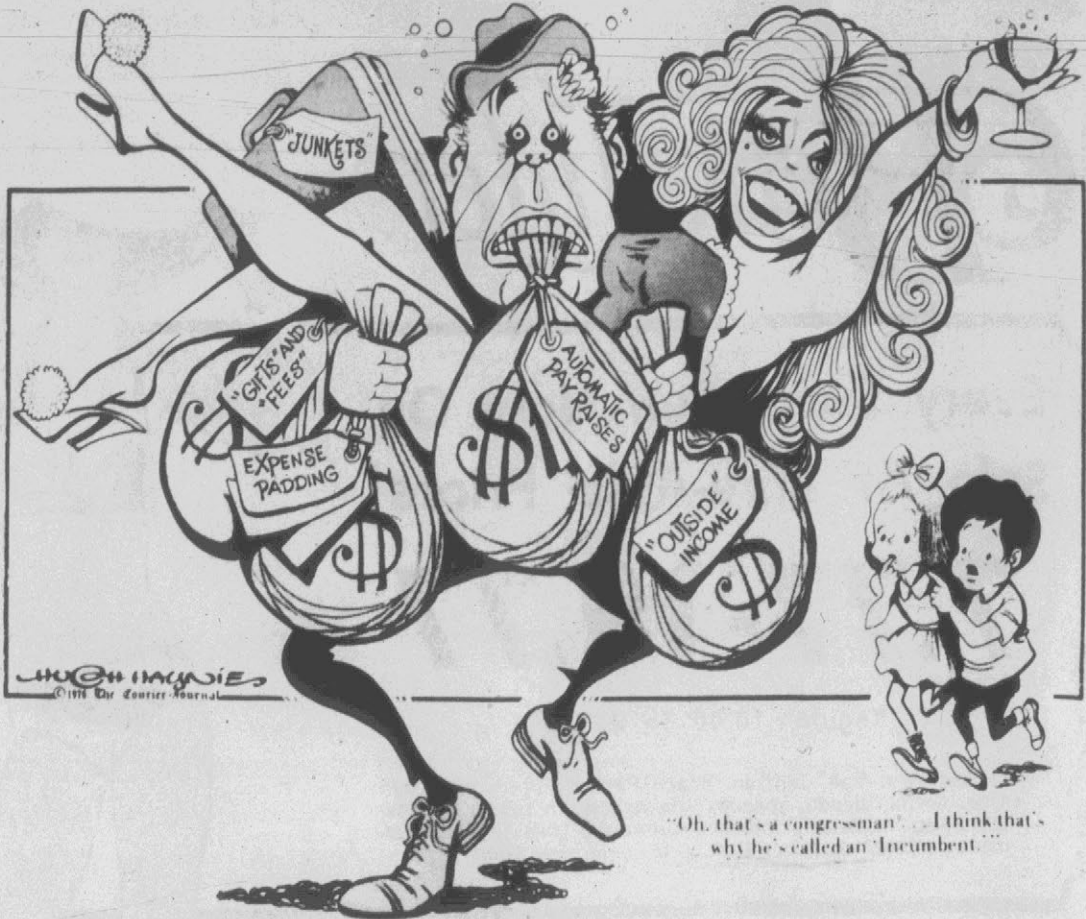

North Carolina is fighting pollution of its coastal waters with everything it can. We all hope that the efforts in our state are early and effective enough so that our coast won't suffer some of the problems that more populated areas already have.

At any rate we think the sailors will find the waters off Sealevel as clear and refreshing as any they might have found anywhere in their travels.

Of course, there won't be millions of people around as there were when the seamen were on Staten Island, but then we have an idea that the sailors were accustomed to the lonlier life of the sea and the slower pace of Sealevel might be more suitable to them.

Medical care should be good because of the Duke University Medical Center's acute care Sealevel hospital.

For an aging sailor Sealevel can be a very good home and we think these new residents will come to love North Carolina's coastal areas, just as we who have lived near them many years do.

Fund-Raising For Carter Is Now Easier

A fund raising dinner for Jimmy Carter in Asheville last week had its promoters smiling. The $1,000 a plate dinner brought in $232,000 in cash, it was announced. Wallace Hyde, chairman of the dinner said he thought it was the largest of any campaign so far. Carter has the Democratic presidential nomination virtually assured and it is obvious that fund raising becomes easier under those circumstances.

THIS AFTERNOON

Stakes In Medicaid Fight

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—There's more at stake in the battle over Medicaid payments than what will happen to the North Carolina contract.

Right now, most attention is turned to weaknesses in the government-private enterprise contract, who's responsible, and how to fix it. That is important, naturally.

But the real struggle is over future billions of dollars—not the piddling couple of million being argued about in this state. Those billions are the reason a private firm rushed to sign a contract to handle the state's payments to welfare-eligible Medicaid recipients, and there was even competition for that business.

Foot In Door
Private enterprise was anxious to get a foot in the door for such Medicaid contracts in other states, but even more importantly to stake an early claim to the ability of private insurance firms to manage the overwhelming work (and dollars) when National Health Insurance comes into being.

The $200 million-per-year contract which Health Applications System signed with North Carolina is in truth a testing ground for what most experts consider the certainty that National Health Insurance is on its way; if not next year, then the next, or one year soon.

The administration of Republican Gov. James E. Holshouser is anxious to demonstrate that private enterprise can do the job. So is Health Applications Systems, and other private firms. But amidst much confusion and a contract measuring a foot thick, there was room for a lot of slips.

Then entered liberal interests from the federal level; both in Congress and in the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Those interests have a stake in this: the bureaucrats because their domains would be sharply reduced should private enterprise prove successful; the liberal Congressmen because success would prove that big government is not always the best solution to problems.

Probe Results
In a short time, the in-depth probe of the North Carolina contract carried out at Congressional insistence by the watchdog General Accounting Office should be made public. It will undoubtedly portray a lot of problems with the present contract, as already demonstrated by the hassle taking place almost daily in Gov. Holshouser's office between state officials and the private firm.

It is clear that it would be to the benefit of the opposing sides to reach a friendly and workable short-term solution. A long-range solution will prove neither simple nor quickly available.

With North Carolina as the proving grounds in the great battle of Government-Versus-Private Enterprise, then, two knotty problems have been unveiled:

1. There is no control over eligibility. If a person meets whatever criteria are established, he must be paid. Thus, the rolls continue to expand.
2. There is no control over the major expense item: money paid to health care providers for services rendered. The guideline is that charges must be usual and customary—and charges keep going up sharply.

When Health Applications System said it could do the job better than government (and cheaper) it meant it could cut administrative overhead, hold down payrolls by hiring fewer people, use computers to weed out cheaters and double payments. All that done, the amount has proved terribly insignificant in the face of rising numbers of eligibles; and escalating payments to hospitals, doctors and nursing homes.

Can government let private enterprise define eligibility; set rates for health care providers; limit payments to those eligible for various reasons? The answer obviously is no.

But government can establish those limits itself, and that may be the direction in which things will head in coming years, especially as National Health Insurance broadens the eligibles to include every man, woman, and child.

Hot Time In High Court

The Supreme Court's 5-4 decision last week in the states' rights case left Mr. Justice Brennan "incredulous." He could not believe what his erring brothers had done. By contrast, the decision left some of the rest of us delighted.

The majority ringingly affirmed the doctrine that state sovereignty survives. Judicially speaking, to be sure, the ring was a somewhat hollow ring, for a 5-4 decision lies on the law books like ice on summer seas. This ruling may not last past the second year of a Carter administration.

But while the opinion prevails, it is good news for all us old-fashioned fellows who cling to the Tenth Amendment. It is immensely encouraging to those who believe the states never delegated to Congress a power to control their own most intimate affairs. The opinion suited me fine.

Speaking through Mr. Justice Rehnquist, the majority ruled that Congress may not impose upon the state governments, as public employers, the minimum wage and maximum hour laws that apply to private employers. The states and localities, in brief, cannot be compelled by federal law to pay overtime after 40 hours to a teacher or a trooper; they cannot be compelled to pay minimum wages to the janitor who sweeps a capitol's floors.

The majority's reasoning is that the "power to regulate commerce," which the states delegated to Congress under the Constitution, is not an unlimited power. In the name of regulating commerce, said the majority, Congress cannot take from the states the power to make "fundamental employment decisions."

This holding did not suit Brennan at all. He wrote a sizzling dissent in which White and Marshall joined. Mr. Justice Stevens added a peppery dissent of his own. It was like old times on the high court. Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter must have been chortling in their graves.

Brennan began mildly, by saying he found the decision "surprising." Then he warmed up. His brothers had repudiated principles that had been settled since the time of John Marshall. They had engaged in "patent usurpation" of the legislative powers of Congress. They had manufactured an "abstraction without substance." Neither the words of the Constitution nor any judicial precedent could support their cavalier action.

The more Brennan thought about it, the madder he got. Parts of the majority opinion were "absurd." His brothers had engaged in mere "sophistry." They had exercised "raw judicial power." They had dealt a "catastrophic judicial body blow to Congress' power under the Commerce Clause." Brennan saw "an ominous portent of disruption of our constitutional structure implicit in today's mischievous decision."

"I cannot recall another instance in the Court's history," said the infuriated Brennan, "when the reasoning of so many decisions covering so long a span of time has been discarded roughshod." The opinion, he said, reflected "nothing but displeasure with a congressional judgment." His brothers, he reminded them, were not "at liberty to erect a mirror of their own conception of a desirable governmental structure." They had no right to trump up "a transparent cover for invalidating a congressional judgment with which they disagree."

This is heady stuff. What Brennan was revealing, as he flung moderation to the winds, was the essential phronesis of a great American myth. The myth tells us that "ours is a government not of men, but

Tourist Frills Added

By WERNER VOLLMANN

VIENNA (AP) — Fiddling gypsies, classical plays performed in the moat of an old fortress, and rooms in an 18th century castle have been added as attractions in Austria's drive for more foreign tourists.

A major effort is being made in Austria's easternmost Burgenland province, which so far has not had an equal share of the tourist boom that has especially benefited such provinces as Tyrol and Salzburg.

In the Burgenland, they even teach visitors to handle, serve — and drink — wine.

There are "wine seminars" in the scenic village of Donnerskirchen near Lake Neusiedl, and elsewhere. The courses are reported to be a great hit.

They teach what wines go with what food, how to differentiate among wine tastes, and how to establish your own wine cellar.

THE INSIDE REPORT

That Mississippi Windfall

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
JACKSON, Miss. — While Ronald Reagan was dispensing the conservative gospel to Mississippi's national convention delegates here last week, this state's informal unit rule was in its death throes—a fatality with possible consequences for Reagan ranging from merely damaging to absolutely catastrophic.

Reagan's national strategists had hoped for a majority within Mississippi's split delegation to deliver a 1,130 votes for Reagan at the convention under the unit rule. But after last week's developments, at least four or five delegates will break the rule to vote for President Ford and thereby deprive Reagan of a convention-week psychological boost. More startling, the Ford total could easily reach eight or conceivably even 10 or 12, perhaps providing the margin of victory in a closely contested convention.

This raises the staggering prospect of Mr. Ford being saved by a breakthrough in what was once considered the heart of Reagan country. Even Ford supporters here privately concede Reagan is vastly more popular at the Mississippi grass roots and stands a much better chance against Jimmy Carter. In a role-reversal, Reagan's delegate problems here stem from the bad luck and miscalculations that plague the Ford campaign elsewhere.

Mississippi's source of trouble for Reagan is that Reaganites Clarke Reed and W. D. (Billy) Mounser, longtime state chairman and state finance chairman, respectively, are not absolute leaders of the Mississippi Republican party today as they were a decade ago.

With electoral success, the party has developed a fairly liberal wing—currently pro-Ford—led by Gil Carmichael, nearly elected governor last year, and 29-year-old Jackson city commissioner Doug Shanks.

Had Reed and Mounser chose to fight it out, they surely could have elected a unanimous Reagan delegation. Instead, they avoided bloodshed and opted early this year for a harmony delegation, where hard Reagan strength barely exceeds 50 per cent. That decision was based partly on the mistaken belief that the presidential nomination would be decided in the primaries. But Reed and Mounser felt secure in the unit rule, first adopted here in 1960 and passed again, 3 to 1, by this year's state convention in April. Why not magnanimously allow Ford backers on the delegation when their vote would not count anyway?

Reagan leaders were still hoping for 30 to 0, until last week when Commissioner Shanks, chairman of the state Ford committee, declared publicly he would break the unit rule on the floor at Kansas City and record his vote for Gerald R. Ford. Although Reagan forces still believe Shanks is bluffing and will not risk his political career in Mississippi, the signs are unmistakable that he has burned his bridges.

What's more, he has some company. Although Carmichael had promised to honor the unit rule, Shanks convinced him that this was a dead issue once one delegate broke it. So, endangering his future ambitions for governor or Senator, Carmichael will join the rule-breakers. So will the state's two black delegates, Gloria Beal and Bill Dease.

That total of four could climb to five if Miki Cassidy, a pretty young housewife from the Mississippi Delta town of Marks and a staunch supporter of Carmichael, feels Mr. Ford needs her vote. Three others delegates, now uncommitted, told us they may decide to back Mr. Ford and, if they do, also may break the now-shattered unit rule. There is enough doubt about four other delegates to raise the Ford total to a maximum of 12.

Thus, the Reagan campaign can no longer think about a Mississippi sweep but

Other Editors Say Johnny Mercer

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

In the late 1930's a very famous entertainer returned to his home town of Savannah, Ga. He did not go back to receive a special honor, to help in a local celebration or to visit his relatives and friends. Rather his mission was one of a very personal nature.

The man's father had been a very successful businessman in Savannah until the great depression at which time he lost everything. His obligations were in the neighborhood of $150,000.00 which was a ton of money at that time, and the son was returning home to pay off those debts. To the best of his knowledge he paid off every debt his father owed and returned to New York and Hollywood to take his place among the famous and near famous. The fellow's name was Johnny Mercer, and his contribution to the popular American music scene will last forever.

Who will ever forget such songs as "Laura," "Blues in the Night," "Achy, Topeka and Santa Fe," "Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening," "Goodie Goodie," "That Old Magic," "Moon River," and "Days of Wine and Roses." And of course you will remember "Hard Hearted Hannah, the Vamp from Savannah." Johnny Mercer was one of those who did smell the 'wine and roses'; yet during the 66 years of his life he never forgot the humanness and frailty of man. His words, for the most part, were only an expression of his basic philosophy. For example, he told friends that he wrote, "You've Got to Accentuate the Positive, Eliminate the Negative, Latch on to the Affirmative, Don't Mess With Mr. In-Between" for the psychiatrist. What he was trying to get the psychiatrist to tell him in several sessions, he told the psychiatrist in four lines.

Johnny Mercer was genius with lyrics, yet after those lyrics will have faded into dusty memories, we will still remember that visit he made to Savannah, Ga. in the late 30's to repay some surprised friends of his father.

One of the largest votes ever cast in a runoff primary is expected Saturday as runoffs are held between the Democratic contenders for governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of state.

Dr. Ralph W. McDonald and Clyde R. Hoey will run for their party's gubernatorial nomination. W. P. Horton and Paul D. Grady will compete for the lieutenant governor nomination, and Thad Eure and Stacey Wade will vie for secretary of state.

Many observers believe that 400,000 votes will be cast in this primary due in part to the high level of competition between Hoey and McDonald.

The Greensies boosted their lead in the Coastal Plain League by defeating Snow Hill 7-6 in a home game yesterday.

HAPPINESS SPRUN
THE SEEKER

The Roman emperor, Tiberius, came as near to ruling the whole civilized world as any man who ever lived. At the height of his power he betook himself to one of the most beautiful spots of the Mediterranean, and in a softly delicious climate built a great castle and plunged headlong into every form of voluptuous luxury. Someone has written of him that he tried the experiment of achieving maximum happiness by pressing the world's most absolute authority and the world's guiltiest indulgences into the service of a completely selfish life.

Yet, when he had everything the heart could desire, he wrote in desperation to the Roman Senate, "What to write to you, or how to write to you, may all the dogs and goddesses destroy me worse than I feel they are destroying me if I know."

Happiness is never achieved if we seek after it, and the more gross the indulgence, the less satisfaction does it yield.

Rising Doubts Over Govm't Data

NEW YORK (AP)—Doubts about the accuracy of official government economic indicators exists among what appears to be a growing number of concerned Americans, including economists and even government officials.

Revisions, changes in concepts, weighting and seasonal adjusting help raise the doubts, as does what would seem to be an element of human expectation in interpreting or announcing the figures.

In January, for example, just days prior to the Gross National product report for the final quarter of 1975, a government official indicated the rate might be as high as 7 per cent, in marked contrast to some private forecasts of a 4 to 5 per cent increase.

The actual figure turned out to be 5.4 per cent—strong, but not nearly so strong as that projected by the official, alluded to in some other statements by officials, and circulated widely by the media.

The inflation rate, as measured by the GNP deflator, was reported at 6.5 per cent, which was called an improvement over the revised 7.1 per cent rate for the previous quarter—originally announced at 5 per cent.

But even as the encouraging figures for the third-quarter GNP were revised earlier, so were the fourth-quarter figures destined for the same fate this February. GNP growth was lowered to 4.9 per cent; the inflation rate was upped to 6.8 per cent.

Revisions continue in the name of greater accuracy. Some advances may appear even larger because comparison figures for the preceding periods were simultaneously revised downward, often with very little notice made.

In May of this year the Commerce Department announced that April retail sales were almost unchanged from March. But that statement could be made only after a downward revision of the March gain, from 2.8 per cent to 1.3 per cent.

The potential impact of such revisions, unintentional though it might be, could be to produce the impression of a series of vigorous advances when in fact the advances were moderate.

The search for refinements, which consequently results in revisions, almost never ends. The well-known Index of Leading Indicators, a barometer of things to come, is revised each month; that is, even though it is a forecast tool, the index for each month is revised each month, month after month.

To illustrate, the index for June 1975 was announced in July 1975 as having advanced 2.10 per cent. Thereafter it was revised during 1975 to read 3.22 per cent, 3.30 per cent, 3.52 per cent and 3.60 per cent.

The highest figure occurred in both November and December and may have been, as were several figures in that period, overstated. In January 1976 that June 1975 figure was lowered to 3.46 per cent and in February to 3.33.

It isn't only the revisions that disturb critics, whose rage includes some states, the City of St. Louis, the American Hospital Association, the AFL-CIO, statisticians and laymen too. Some numbers may be misleading to begin with.

Prof. Richard Ruggles, an economist at Yale University, is examining the scope and quality of the Wholesale Price Index, under a grant from the Council on Wage and Price Stability, with the cooperation of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

of laws." There is scarcely a word of truth in it. When it comes to interpreting the supreme law of the land, our government is emphatically a government of men.
If Hubert Humphrey had defeated Richard Nixon in 1968, we would not have had last week's decision. It is a fair surmise that a President Humphrey never would have appointed such justice as Burger, Rehnquist, Blackmun and Powell. We would have had other men instead, and these men would have taken a liberal view of Congress's power under the Commerce Clause. This was a June decision, but it carries a thought for this coming November.

A cold front moved across the state today. Skies were fair in the west and partly cloudy in the east. Showers and thunderstorms fell along the southern coast after the front passed that area.

Highs today were from the upper 70s in the mountains to the upper 80s in the southeast. That also will be the range Friday.

Lows tonight will range from mid 50s in the northwest mountains to near 70 on the Outer Banks.

Showers and thundershowers were scattered across the state Wednesday. The rain started in the late morning over the southwest mountains. It reached the central and eastern sections by afternoon.

Highs Wednesday were mostly in the 80s. The warmest was 91 at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

A small-craft advisory went into effect at 6 o'clock this morning for offshore waters. Southwesterly winds from 15 to 25 knots blew ahead of the cold front. When the front passed, the coastal winds shifted to a more westerly direction and decreased. Waves were from two to four feet today. They will decrease to between one and three feet tonight.

As to the gypsies, nearly every community of a certain size has a gypsy band. Since there are not enough gypsy fiddlers around locally, a number are imported from neighboring Hungary.

The classical plays are performed in the impressive Forchtenstein castle mmat. The plays are by Franz Grillparzer, an Austrian dramatist who is little known outside of the German-speaking countries.

Austria, according to statistics, is the country with the highest per capita tourist income in Europe, followed by Switzerland, Denmark and Spain, and it badly needs the cash from the tourists to help offset an unfavorable trade balance.

Last year, tourists spent some 48 billion Schillings (U.S. $2.6 billion) in Austria.

Austrian tourist officials say there is room for many more tourists, and that the ceiling has not been reached by far. They say there is room enough for tourists to enjoy a quiet, undisturbed holiday if they want that.

This year's official tourist poster shows a man lying in the grass and the slogan "why don't you let your soul go for a ride?" (Lass' Deine Seele baumeln.)

But the officials know that just lying in the grass might not please everybody. That is why they have come up with as many attractions as possible.

Tourists can move in with a farmer, they can live in style in old castles — where the price sometimes is as high as $100 a day — they can rent rooms in fortresses with arms and torture instruments in the hallways if they want to experience a change from a hotel room. The tourist can also rent horse-drawn buggies.

"Even those who never held reins in their hands before will get along well with the horses," a tourist official said. If tourists don't take his word, they can hire a coachman with the buggy.

must worry about averting catastrophe by individually wooing uncommitted delegates. With the unit rule in terminal condition, dealing with this state's Republican power brokers is no longer adequate.

Reagan's visit here last week showed that his managers do not fully comprehend the new reality. Instead of the formal question-and-answer session they were given, delegates would have preferred intimate conversation with the candidate—congenial desire of the uncommitted. The Ford campaign plans such intimated talk on a presidential trip to Mississippi or, more probably, a White House visit from the entire delegation. Uncommitted delegates. Mr. Ford would encounter are as varied as Jack Lee and Odell Tucker.

Jack Lee is a 25-year-old Chevrolet dealer and rookie delegate from Union, Miss., who had been leaning toward Mr. Ford but wants a winner in November and now regards Reagan as a superior campaigner. However, should he decide on Mr. Ford, Lee would not hesitate to join the unit-rule breakers.

Odell Tucker, a 61-year-old truck stop owner at Greenwood (in the Delta) who describes himself as having no more than a 10th grade education, is counted on by Ford backers, mainly because of his close association with Carmichael. But Tucker insists he is uncommitted, looking for someone to lead the nation out of crisis. If he decides on Mr. Ford, would he break the unit rule? He says he might but does not know.

These names are important only because of young Doug Shanks. He has infuriated erstwhile patrons (especially Mounger, who financed his city council campaign) and antagonized much of the state party. But, in the present dead heat for the nomination, he might turn out to be the salvation of Jerry Ford.

Carter Cutting VP List On Weekend

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter has indicated he will narrow his list of possible running mates to three or four candidates this weekend and will interview his choices next week.

"This decision will be made by me about whom to contact during this weekend," Carter said Wednesday. He told reporters during a stop in Washington that he is now considering seven or eight persons.

Carter made his comments after discussing vice presidential possibilities with AFL-CIO president George Meany.

The probable Democratic nominee did not receive Meany's endorsement, and the labor leader made himself unavailable for questioning by not showing up for a scheduled picture-taking session with Carter.

The AFL-CIO did not plan to make any political endorsement until after a meeting of its executive committee following the Democratic convention, which starts July 12, Carter advisers say.

"It was a very good, very congenial conversation," Carter said of his talk with Meany. "I didn't specifically ask for (his endorsement). But I think Mr. Meany knows I would like to have it."

Also Wednesday, Carter attended fundraising affairs in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Washington, raising $350,000 for his campaign chest, aides said.

He ended the day in Houston, where he will meet with Mexican-American leaders and attend a fundraising function today.

Carter told newsmen that adviser Charles Kirbo spent Wednesday on Capitol Hill interviewing prospective vice-presidential candidates and getting advice from members of Congress.

The former Georgia governor, who has emphasized his aloofness from Washington, has said his running mate probably will have Washington experience. Speculation centers on several senators, including Frank Church of Idaho, Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

Carter said he probably will meet with Kirbo and other advisers Friday, and then decide which possible running mates to interview. He said interviews would be intensive, lasting several hours.

Near Enacting Weapons Bill

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $32.5-billion military weapons procurement bill authorizing a production go-ahead on the new B1 bomber and a record $6.7-billion Navy shipbuilding program is nearing final congressional approval.

The Senate is expected to vote today on the compromise measure that resolves initial House and Senate differences.

The House passed the bill, some $2 billion under Ford administration budget requests, by a 339 to 66 vote Wednesday.

The final version imposes no restrictions on the spending of $1 billion for the first three operating models of the B1 bomber, provided the funds actually are appropriated in a defense money bill to be considered later.

The Pentagon plans to place production orders for the first of a planned fleet of 244 B1's in November. The supersonic bombers are intended to replace the Air Force's aging B52's at a total estimated cost of nearly $22 billion.

The Senate initially voted to prohibit obligation of any funds for the B1 until next Feb. 1 and then only if the newly inaugurated president certified that production of the plane was in the national interest.

The restriction was deleted in a House-Senate conference, and no move was made in the House to restore it.

$200 Short Of Its Goal

The Pitt County Council on Aging is $200 short of its goal of raising $1,000 in matching funds for a transportation program for senior citizens.

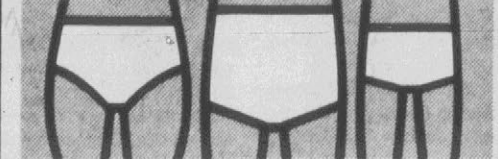

Program Coordinator Elizabeth Stedman said today.

The Council has secured a $10,000 grant to be used for the program which would provide transportation for senior citizens residing in the county, but must provide $1,000 in matching funds. A local church has offered the use of a van, as well as the services of volunteer drivers, Ms. Stedman said.

The Council has an office on the second floor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, 510 S. Washington Street. Anyone wanting information about the transportation programs or any services for senior citizens should contact the office at 752-1717.

In the Senate, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee defended the conference decision of the Navy shipbuilding program. That includes 17 new ships and advance procurement for a fourth Nimitz class nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

Although the final bill rejects President Ford's request for a new nuclear-powered strike cruiser, Stennis said the recommended program "provides about all the Navy can handle in the way of a new shipbuilding program for fiscal year 1977."

HENDERSON, N.C.(AP) — Vance County Sheriff Lynwood B. Falkner says he has made no special security arrangements for the murder trial of Mrs. Sandra Dupree of Scotland Neck which is scheduled to begin in Henderson Monday.

Falkner said he would handle it "just like any other court." He added that if he were taking special precautions "I wouldn't let everybody know what's going to happen."

Mrs. Dupree, white, is charged with the fatal shooting of Harry Lee Dickens, 21, black, in Scotland Neck March 11. Dickens was shot after Mrs. Dupree's 14-year-old son, Mark, complained of being harassed by blacks near the Dickens home.

The trial was transferred from Halifax County after widespread publicity and demonstrations. Vance County officials tried unsuccessfully to have it moved elsewhere.

Barricades To Raleigh's Firefighters Return To Discussions

Motorists in the downtown Greenville area Saturday and Sunday may be faced with a number of barricades at various locations—erected to keep vehicular traffic out of areas where events are being held in connection with the city's Fourth of July celebration.

Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning that vehicular traffic will be kept out of the Reade Street area Saturday and out of the First, Second and Reade Street areas on Sunday in an effort to make the areas safer for pedestrians attending the holiday celebration events and participants in the bicycle race.

Noting that some of the barricades will be moved from time-to-time, depending on the location of events, the chief said barricades may be expected to be located on First Street at the Holly, Cotanche and Greene Streets intersections; on Second Street at the Greene and Reade Streets intersections; on Third Street at the Washington and Cotanche Streets intersections; on Third Street at the Reade Street parking lot; on Fourth Street at the Reade Street intersection; at the Reade Street intersection of Baroni's parking lot; at the intersection of Fifth and Reade Streets; at the intersection of Fourth and Holly Streets and on Third Street at the intersection of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church Parking lot.

Basically, Cannon said, the barricades will close Reade Street to all traffic—including cross traffic—during the period of the events, including cross traffic—during the period of the events, including the Saturday night street dance.

The barricades will also close off First and Second Streets from Greene to Reade Streets and Third Street from Washington to Reade for the bicycle race Sunday.

The chief urged motorists to cooperate with officials in an effort to make the July 4th holiday events safe for the participants and spectators.

RALEIGH (AP) — Firemen returned to their jobs today in Raleigh following a one-day strike for higher pay after the city agreed to begin a round of discussions with the Raleigh Firefighters Association.

Fire Chief Rufus E. Keith said the city has a full staff on duty. The firemen stayed away from their jobs in large numbers Wednesday in a "sick-in" aimed at pressuring the city into giving them a larger pay increase. They are asking for a 3.5 per cent raise beyond the 5 per cent granted all city employees.

Hubert Altman, secretary-treasurer of the association, said the strike was called off to give the city and the firemen time to reach a peaceful settlement. He added the firemen also did not want to alienate the public by being on strike during the July 4 bicentennial weekend, a time of increased fire hazards.

"We are going to back off of our strike until we get a chance to talk to the city to see what we can come up with," Altman said.

The firemen's association

Three Die As Car Rams Trees

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Three young Clinton residents were killed early today when their car crashed into a clump of trees, the North Carolina Highway Patrol said.

They were identified as Kenneth L. Hairr, 20; Douglas Jordan, 17; and Julian Merritt, 21.

Trooper Larry Harrington said the vehicle left a rural paved road in Sampson County shortly after midnight and was destroyed on impact. He said parts of the car were strewn over a wide area.

The ones which remained open were manned with 22 supervisors, inspectors and a few city employees.

The association also is seeking creation of a higher paying job classification for veteran firemen.

Under a pay increase approved last week by the City Council, a fireman earns between $688 and $978 a month. A driver earns $760 to $968. The pay scales are lower than Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Durham but above the Greensboro scale.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina hog market was steady to 50 cents higher today with only two markets reported. Wilson 49.50-50.50; Salisbury 50.00. The remainder were either unreported or closed.

Some North Carolina hog markets will be closed Friday, and all are expected to be closed Monday, July 4.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady today with supplies adequate, demand good and weights desirable.

The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 44.44 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,321,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—A wave of selling in chemical issues blunted an early advance in the stock market today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up about 2 points in the early going, was off 2.13 at 1,000.65 by 11:30 a.m. Losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was fairly active. Major contributors to the Dow's decline were Du Pont, down 3 1/4 at 136 1/4, and Union Carbide, off 1 1/4 at 65 1/4.

Another big chemical stock, Monsanto, dropped 2 1/4 to 91. Analysts traced the pressure on the group to comments of Irving S. Shapiro, Du Pont's chairman, in a published interview.

Shapiro said the company expected a "good year," but added that it had no plans at the moment to restore its dividend to the levels of the last two quarters of 1974.

The executive said business was strong in most areas of the company's operations. But he added that fashion changes had created excess supplies of polyester textile fibers, with "serious deterioration" in prices resulting.

Richardson-Merrell was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/4 at 24 1/4. A 123,400 share block traded at 23 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .03 to 55.68 in the first hour. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .07 to 105.25.

Ford Again Urging A Larger Tax Cut

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

Delegates Unchallenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in recent history, there apparently will be no challenges to the credentials of delegates attending the Democratic National Convention.

At the conclusion of a three-day Credentials Committee session marked by unity and an eagerness to compromise, 50 challenges from 22 states were reconciled without any indication of appeals to the full convention in New York City July 12.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the committee chairman, said this was "certainly the first time in modern history that no challenges have gone to the convention."

He said the harmony was partly because of the consolidation of most Democrats behind the candidacy of Jimmy Carter. But party rules that have been refined over 12 years, including some that saw the most bitter intraparty struggles focused on those rules, also were to be credited, Cranston said.

Carter's representative at the committee sessions, Robert Firth, said his campaign was "very halpy with the results. No minority reports are going to the convention. This is the first time since 1960 that there has not been a challenge to the Mississippi delegation."

Boost Price Of Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is now charging millions of Medicare recipients 50 cents more a month for the insurance that covers their doctor bills and out-of-hospital medical costs.

The increase, which went into effect today, boosts to $7.20 the monthly premium for Part B of Medicare, which covers 24.6 million elderly and disabled Americans.

There is no monthly premium for Part A, which pays hospital and nursing home bills. All Social Security beneficiaries receive Part A coverage automatically, while Part B is optional.

The premiums for most of those covered under Part B are deducted automatically from their Social Security checks. State Medicaid agencies pay the premiums for more than 3 million poor persons.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford is appealing again for bigger tax cuts now that a two-month freeze on payroll tax withholding rates is in place.

But there appears little chance that Congress will go along with Ford's proposals, first offered last October.

A bill preventing a hike in payroll withholding while Congress finishes work on a broad tax revision bill was signed by Ford Wednesday night, just five hours before the rates would have risen.

Ford's signature means workers will not have to face an immediate increase of $3 to $6 a week in withholding. By the time the freeze expires on Sept. 1, Congress is expected to have passed a bill making the tax reductions permanent or at least extending them through June 30, 1977.

In signing the legislation, Ford noted that he had urged Congress 10 months ago to make permanent the 1975 antirecession tax cuts, worth about $15 billion a year, and to reduce taxes by another $10 billion.

"Now, nine months later, the response from the Congress is typical of their failure to face the issues," Ford said. "The Congress, after waiting until the last possible day, has enacted a two-month freeze of withholding rates rather than cutting taxes another $10 billion as I had requested."

Ford's plan called for a $10-billion reduction in federal spending to offset the additional tax cut. But Congress made it clear it would not accept the President's call for domestic spending cuts while he insisted that the defense budget be left intact.

Cites Progress For Bulletin

A three-year progress report on the Bulletin of the Calculus Mathematical Society has been released by the Bulletin's editor, Lokenath Debnath, professor of mathematics at East Carolina University.

The report covers the period from September, 1973, to May, 1976, and summarizes the activities of Dr. Debnath's editorial office. Among the items reported are research papers received for publication, processing of membership applications, and correspondence with other scientific societies.

Dr. Debnath is assisted by a ten-member editorial board which includes Nobel Laureate P. A. M. Dirac of Florida State University and mathematicians from England's Cambridge University and the University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne; Moscow University and the Moscow Mathematics Institute; and Colorado State, Michigan State, Maryland and Kentucky Universities.

PREACHING FRIDAY
BETHEL — The Rev. David Daniel of Simpson will preach at Bethel Chapel Church Friday at 7:30 p.m.
The public is invited to attend.

Congress already has gone on record in favor of using the $10 billion for recession-fighting and job-creating programs, rather than cutting taxes further.

O'Herron . . .

in a tremendous amount of paperwork."

Of that total, he said, 479,100 cases were handled by waiver when the defendants pleaded guilty, waiving their rights to trial. "The simpler hearing examiners system would have required much less paperwork," he suggested, and added, "police officers would lose less time in appearances in the hearing system than is now the case in court appearances."

O'Herron said "If something isn't done to relieve the crowded dockets in our district and superior courts, we will face the possibility of a near collapse of our judicial system." Under his proposal O'Herron said "the regular court system would have more time to handle the really serious traffic cases and criminal cases. . . . The courts, he said, could then schedule cases more efficiently and could avoid many of the delays which now are commonplace."

The candidate noted he believes that it would be less expensive and more efficient to employ hearing officers and set up a hearings system than to increase the number of judges and prosecutors needed to handle the growing court dockets.

O'Herron explained that New York has such a system, which takes thousands of cases from the criminal court dockets. For example, O'Herron said the Brooklyn office held more than 150,000 hearings in 1974 with eight hearing officers and 24 support staff.

The New York system has computerized driver records, according to O'Herron, which allows the hearing examiners, after hearing the case and making a decision, to call up a driver's record and add points to it then and there.

And under its new budget procedures, Congress has virtually locked out any chance that taxes will be cut anywhere near the $10 billion Ford proposes.

It is expected Congress will agree to extend the tax cuts through all of fiscal 1977, which ends on Sept. 30, 1977. That would be three months longer than the tax-writing Finance Committee recommends.

Because of considerable sentiment for the extra three months of tax cuts, it came as a mild surprise Wednesday when the Senate on a 55 to 35 vote, rejected a proposal that would have raised enough money to pay for the additional extension.

That proposal would have imposed a 15 per cent tax withholding on all interest and dividends, in much the same way that taxes now are withheld from workers' paychecks.

Without the freeze on tax withholding rates, a family of four earning $6,000 would have faced a $445-per-year increase. The increase for a four-member family earning $15,000 or a single person making $25,000 would have been $180. A couple with no children and earning $10,000 would have faced a $204 increase.

North Carolina, the candidate noted, already has a system under which traffic charges are put on a computer and suggested the capability is already available for use in a hearing examiner system.

"Traffic safety will have a very high profile in my administration," O'Herron emphasized. I will seek stricter enforcement of all major traffic laws . . . no one is going to be above the law. Any driver who deserves a traffic ticket will get it."

He added too, that the State Highway Patrol "is a professional organization. It must be operated in a professional manner by professionals, void of any political interference."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina hog market was steady to 50 cents higher today with only two markets reported. Wilson 49.50-50.50; Salisbury 50.00. The remainder were either unreported or closed.

Some North Carolina hog markets will be closed Friday, and all are expected to be closed Monday, July 4.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady today with supplies adequate, demand good and weights desirable.

The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 44.4 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,321,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—A wave of selling in chemical issues blunted an early advance in the stock market today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up about 2 points in the early going, was off 2.13 at 1,000.65 by 11:30 a.m. Losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was fairly active.

Major contributors to the Dow's decline were Du Pont, down 3 1/4 at 136 1/4, and Union Carbide, off 1 1/4 at 65 1/4.

Another big chemical stock, Monsanto, dropped 2 1/4 to 91.

Analysts traced the pressure on the group to comments of Irving S. Shapiro, Du Pont's chairman, in a published interview.

Shapiro said the company expected a "good year," but added that it had no plans at the moment to restore its dividend to the levels of the last two quarters of 1974.

The executive said business was strong in most areas of the company's operations. But he added that fashion changes had created excess supplies of polyester textile fibers, with "serious deterioration" in prices resulting.

Richardson-Merrell was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/4 at 24 1/4. A 123,400 share block traded at 23 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .03 to 55.88 in the first hour. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .07 to 105.25.

Ford Again Urging A Larger Tax Cut

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

Delegates Unchallenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in recent history, there apparently will be no challenges to the credentials of delegates attending the Democratic National Convention.

At the conclusion of a three-day Credentials Committee session marked by unity and an eagerness to compromise, 50 challenges from 22 states were reconciled without any indication of appeals to the full convention in New York City July 12.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the committee chairman, said this was "certainly the first time in modern history that no challenges have gone to the convention."

He said the harmony was partly because of the consolidation of most Democrats behind the candidacy of Jimmy Carter. But party rules that have been refined over 12 years, including some that saw the most bitter intraparty struggles focused on those rules, also were to be credited, Cranston said.

Carter's representative at the committee sessions, Robert Firth, said his campaign was "very happy with the results. No minority reports are going to the convention. This is the first time since 1960 that there has not been a challenge to the Mississippi delegate."

Boost Price Of Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is now charging millions of Medicare recipients 50 cents more a month for the insurance that covers their doctor bills and out-of-hospital medical costs.

The increase, which went into effect today, boosts to $7.20 the monthly premium for Part B of Medicare, which covers 24.6 million elderly and disabled Americans.

There is no monthly premium for Part A, which pays hospital and nursing home bills. All Social Security beneficiaries receive Part A coverage automatically, while Part B is optional.

The premiums for most of those covered under Part B are deducted automatically from their Social Security checks. State Medicaid agencies pay the premiums for more than 3 million poor persons.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford is appealing again for bigger tax cuts now that a two-month freeze on payroll tax withholding rates is in place.

But there appears little chance that Congress will go along with Ford's proposals, first offered last October.

A bill preventing a hike in payroll withholding while Congress finishes work on a broad tax revision bill was signed by Ford Wednesday night, just five hours before the rates would have risen.

Ford's signature means workers will not have to face an immediate increase of $3 to $6 a week in withholding. By the time the freeze expires on Sept. 1, Congress is expected to have passed a bill making the tax reductions permanent or at least extending them through June 30, 1977.

In signing the legislation, Ford noted that he had urged Congress 10 months ago to make permanent the 1975 antirecession tax cuts, worth about $15 billion a year, and to reduce taxes by another $10 billion.

"Now, nine months later, the response from the Congress is typical of their failure to face the issues," Ford said. "The Congress, after waiting until the last possible day, has enacted a two-month freeze of withholding rates rather than cutting taxes another $10 billion as I had requested."

Ford's plan called for a $10-billion reduction in federal spending to offset the additional tax cut. But Congress made it clear it would not accept the President's call for domestic spending cuts while he insisted that the defense budget be left intact.

Cites Progress For Bulletin

A three-year progress report on the Bulletin of the Calculus Mathematical Society has been released by the Bulletin's editor, Lokenath Debnath, professor of mathematics at East Carolina University.

The report covers the period from September, 1973, to May, 1976, and summarizes the activities of Dr. Debnath's editorial office. Among the items reported are research papers received for publication, processing of membership applications, and correspondence with other scientific societies.

Dr. Debnath is assisted by a ten-member editorial board which includes Nobel Laureate P. A. M. Dirac of Florida State University and mathematicians from England's Cambridge University and the University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne; Moscow University and the Moscow Mathematics Institute; and Colorado State, Michigan State, Maryland and Kentucky Universities.

PREACHING FRIDAY
BETHEL — The Rev. David Daniel of Simpson will preach at Bethel Chapel Church Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Congress already has gone on record in favor of using the $10 billion for recession-fighting and job-creating programs, rather than cutting taxes further.

Williams Goofs; Has To Start Wrong Pitcher; Fines Self $100

By HERSCHEL NISSEN

AP Sports Writer
Ross is a four-letter word.
So is Ryan.
And so was what California Manager Dick Williams must have said when he inadvertently wrote Nolan Ryan's name on his line-up card and then had to start the fireballer against the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

"It was three or four minutes after the National Anthem when Williams came up and told me I had to pitch," said Ryan, who had just rejoined the club after having his tender elbow examined. "I was just sitting down getting ready to watch the game. I didn't even have my spikes on. I had to go into the clubhouse to get my glove. By the time I started warming up the game had already started."

Ryan, who has hurled a record-tying four no-hitters in his career, pitched perfect baseball... for both of his two pitches. Chicago's Chet Lemon grounded the second one to shortstop and Ryan promptly gave way to Gary Ross, the scheduled starter, who pitched 7 2-3 strong innings as the Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the Texas Rangers nipped the Oakland A's 3-2 and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-4. The New York-Detroit game was rained out while Cleveland and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

It was a colossal goof, plain as that," Williams said. "I was talking with the trainer about Ryan and penciled his name in, I just fouled it up. If that man Lemon would have gotten on and scored, it would have cost me $500. Now it will just cost me $100."

Who fined him?
"I fined myself. Hell, yes, I had to. If it would have been one of the players I'd be on him. I was more angry than embarrassed. It was just sheer stupidity."

Royals 4, Twins 2

Major league batting leader George Brett scored the go ahead run and then drove in an insurance tally two innings later. Brett, who enjoyed his 16th three-hit game of the season and boosted his batting average to .361, tripled and scored in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie. His RBI single in the eighth boosted the Royals into a two-run lead.

Rangers 3, A's 2

Light-hitting Jim Sundberg delivered two run-scoring singles to back the clutch pitching of Gaylord Perry and reliever Steve Foucault as the Rangers remained 3½ games behind Kansas City in the AL West. Sundberg only had 10 runs batted in going into the game and was batting just .230 when he victimized Mike Torrez with run-scoring hits in the fifth and seventh innings.

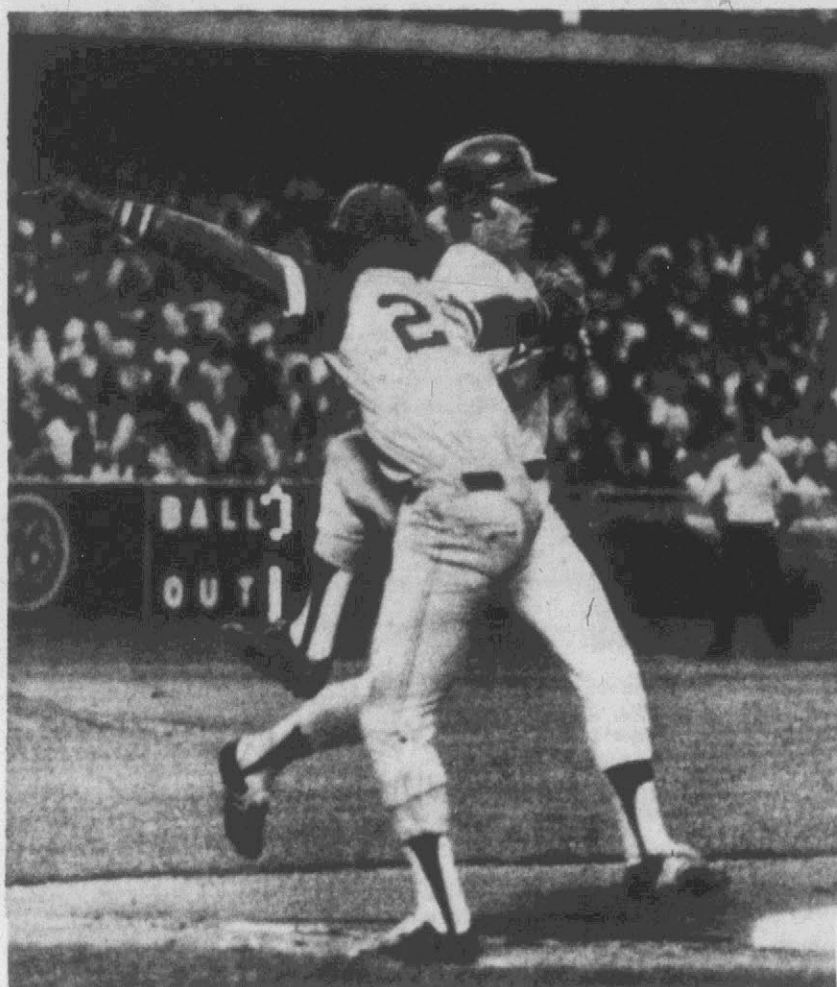

Red Sox 6, Orioles 4

Fred Lynn collected four straight hits and Jim Rice belted a tie-breaking two-run homer as the Red Sox made it three in a row over Baltimore. Shaving cream was sprayed and water and ice thrown around in a clubhouse scene reminiscent of a pennant-clinching victory after the Red Sox handed eight-game winner Wayne Garland his first loss.

SLIDING FOR AN OUT — Paul Blair, Baltimore Orioles center fielder, has the tag put on him by Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk in the third inning of their game at Fenway Park Wednesday.

Baltimore's Rick Demsey hit to centerfield and the throw by Boston's Fred Lynn to Fisk caught Blair. Umpire Nestor Chylak is in on the action. Boston won the game, 6-4. (AP Wirephoto)

THE TAG DOESN'T FOOL RUSSELL — Atlanta Braves first baseman Willie Montanez puts the tag on Los Angeles Dodger infielder Bill Russell during

Wednesday night action at Dodger Stadium, but he came down without the ball and Russell went to second. (AP Wirephoto)

Carolina Dairy Ends With Win; Pepsi Rolls

Carolina Dairy wound up the 1976 "regular" Babe Ruth season with a 3-2 rally past NCNB last night. The victory gave the league champs a 14-1 record for the season.

It was also the closing game for NCNB, which finished with a 7-8 mark.

Earlier in the evening, Pepsi-Cola staked itself to a big lead and took an 8-4 win over Planters Bank to keep its hopes of a second place finish alive.

Pepsi pushed over three runs in the first inning of the opening game. With one down, Marty Worthington walked and moved up on a passed ball. Will Sanderson singled and moved up on the relay.

Calvin Parker then reached on an error, scoring Worthington. A passed ball scored Sanderson, and a hit by Ashley Taylor brought Parker over for the 3-0 lead.

Pepsi picked up another in the second. Bob Morehead doubled and came in when Worthington reached on an error.

The final four Pepsi runs crossed the plate in the third. Randy Lorimer walked and Todd Galloway singled. Morehead got another double, scoring Lorimer. Worthington singled in both Galloway and Morehead, and Sanderson reached on an error, scoring Worthington.

Planters Bank finally got a rally going in the fifth, scoring three runs. William Sneed led off with a walk and Calvin Jones singled. Al Alston reached on an error and Roger Clemmons singled to score Sneed. The ball was misplayed in the outfield, and both Jones and Alston came around on the play.

The final run crossed in the sixth. Mac Stokes doubled and David Holley singled. Sneed reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Stokes.

Jones led the Planters hitting with two, while Morehead and Sanderson each had a pair for Pepsi.

Joey Mattheis of NCNB and Mike Williams of Carolina Dairy were locked in a pitching duel for the second game. Mattheis allowed just three hits, while he walked eight and struck out five. Williams gave up four hits, walked seven and struck out ten.

NCNB did all its scoring in the third inning, getting both runs. Cliff Fearrington reached on an error, moving to second on the play. He stole third and scored when Mark Shank singled. Walks to Will Barrett and Mattheis loaded the bases and another to Mike Campbell brought in Shank.

Carolina Dairy came back with one in the bottom of the third. Peter Pace walked and stole second. He moved to third when Marshall Heath reached on an error. Heath was then caught in a rundown while trying to steal, but Pace came in on the play.

It stayed 2-1 until the fifth when Carolina Dairy pushed over the other two for the 3-2 edge. Pace reached on an error and Howard Tucker was safe on a fielder's choice. Heath singled to load them up and walks to George Wilson and Rufus Sutton brought Pace and Tucker in to give the Dairy men the victory.

Exchange In Opening Victory

Gordon Douglas' single and Jimmie Jones' sacrifice in the bottom of the fifth inning drove in two runs and lifted the Exchange to a 3-1 win over the Lions and into a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three series for the City Little League Championship.

The game had been tied in the third as both teams put up a run. The Lions had a change to take the lead in the fourth putting two men on but failed to score. Exchange got a man to third in the second but left him there.

Billy Kittrell pitched the win for Exchange. He gave up four hits but struck out only two batters. He walked three. Scott Galloway pitched for the Lions fanning eight, walking eight and scattering two hits.

Both teams put runners on in the first but failed to score. Roderick Harrell drew a one-out pass in the Exchange second, took second on a wild pitch and went to third on an out but died there.

Galloway reached on an error with two out in the top of the third and moved to second on the play. Ed Frazier doubled off the right-center field wall driving in Galloway.

Chip Cayton opened the Exchange half with a walk followed by walks to Billy Kit-trell and Billy Bost. Jones drew a walk forcing in Cayton with the tying tally.

Chris Smith walked and Jim Whitehurst singled in the fourth for the Lions but could not move around. The Lions also put a man on in the fifth.

Kittrell walked to start the fifth for Exchange and Timmy Norris also walked. A pass to Bost loaded the bases, Douglas singled scoring Kittrell and Jones sacrificed scoring Norris with the winning runs.

The Lions had a run choked off at home in the sixth. Roger Williams doubled but was thrown out trying to score on a mix-up on the relay following Troy Hudson's fly out.

The two teams meet again today for the second game of the series at the Elm Street park. Game time is 6:00.

competition, but did not announce withdrawal from the Davis Cup organization.

Two American-backed resolutions which would have suspended nations which backed out of the tournament rather than play an opponent for political reasons had been narrowly defeated by the 55 countries taking part in the Davis Cup meeting.

The resolutions needed a two-thirds majority for passage.

The vote was 32 in favor, 21 against, and two spoiled ballots. This meant that the resolutions failed by one vote.

Stanley Malless, of Indianapolis, president of the United States Tennis Federation, had announced before the second vote that America would withdraw from both the competition and organization if the vote went the same way.

On a secret ballot, the outcome was the same.

Britain and France then announced that they supported the United States and would withdraw from the 1977 competition. Both indicated that a decision would be taken later on whether to pull out of the organization.

The issue came to a head because Mexico refused to play South Africa in both 1975 and 1976. South Africa won the 1974 Davis Cup competition by default when India refused to play in the final against the South Africans.

A proposal to impose sanctions on Mexico because of its attitude was overwhelmingly defeated. This vote was taken after the other motions had been defeated and was preceded by almost no debate.

The committee then voted 27 to 23 to accept South Africa's entry for the 1977 tournament.

A vote on accepting Rhodesia's entry for 1977 for 18 in favor and 23 against, but the entry was accepted because a three-fourths majority would have been necessary to exclude the Rhodesians.

The Rhodesian delegate said, however, that if any country was unable to play against Rhodesia because of visa difficulties or other problems, the Rhodesians would withdraw.

Blen Franklin, president of the South African Tennis Union, said his country will reconsider its position in the light of the action by the United States, Britain and France.

Franklin said: "I think it's a tragedy the (American) motion wasn't carried because the Davis Cup will continue to have political interference."

Marshall Helps Atlanta Top Dodgers Doug Moe To Coach Spurs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They're playing Mike Marshall's tune at Dodger Stadium. No, not the organist - the boobies.

"Really, I consider it the same as an ovation when I come here as a visitor and get booed," says the artistic relief pitcher.

Marshall, once a Cy Young winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, is doing his thing these days for the Atlanta Braves. Facing his former teammates for the third straight game

Wednesday night, the burly right-hander pitched nearly spotless relief to help the Braves beat the Dodgers 8-3.

During Marshall's performance, he got an unpleasant earful from the Dodger fans. He considered the boos a compliment, however.

"After all, those fans don't want to see me in there at all," said a logical Marshall.

Marshall was used to the fans' abuse, anyway. Even when he pitched for the Dodgers, he had gotten a steady stream of jeers because of his frequent clashes with management, teammates and the press.

In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the San Francisco Giants buried the Houston Astros 10-2. Two games were postponed by rain - St. Louis at New York and Philadelphia at Montreal.

Earl Williams and Willie Montanez each hit three-run homers to back Marshall's clutch relief pitching. Williams slugged his homer in the fifth, breaking a scoreless duel between Atlanta's Phil Niekro, 8-4, and Burt Hooton, 5-9, who has now lost four straight decisions.

An inning later Montanez hit his sixth homer as the Braves took a 6-0 lead. The Dodgers ended Niekro's bid for a shutout, scoring twice in the seventh. But Marshall took over to cool Los Angeles, rally and allowed only one hit to his former team, a ninth-inning home run by Steve Garvey.

Padres 3, Reds 1
San Diego left-hander Randy Jones won his 14th game of the season by stopping Cincinnati on six hits. Jones, 14-3, baseball's winningest pitcher, notched his 13th complete game while beating the Reds for the second straight time and the sixth time in seven outings.

Pirates 7, Cubs 5
Richie Zisk's two-run triple highlighted a four-run sixth inning and Pittsburgh held on to defeat Chicago.

Giants 10, Astros 2
Gary Thomasson drove in three runs with a double and a single and Ed Halicki scattered seven hits, leading San Francisco over Houston.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Doug Moe, new head coach of the San Antonio Spurs of the National Basketball Association, says he plans to pattern the club after the Denver Nuggets. Moe was an assistant coach with the Nuggets until the announcement Wednesday naming him Spurs head coach.

"We basically want to control the tempo of every game," the 37-year-old Brooklyn native said. "This way we can create opportunities and shots.

Club President Angelo Drossos said the "the selection of Doug comes after a month of intensive investigations. We interviewed 15 to 20 possible coaches and Doug seemed to have the winning characteristics of a coach and player."

Moe played collegiate basketball for the University of North Carolina where he was twice named to All-Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

After playing pro ball two years in Italy, Moe played two years for the American Basketball Association in New Orleans, Oakland, Virginia and Carolina. An injury ended his playing career.

Prior to signing with the Spurs Moe had been assisting in the selection of players for the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

TREVINO EXERCISES BACK — Lee Trevino exercises his sore back Wednesday before teeing off on the 17th hole during a round at Tuckaway Country Club in preparation for the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tour-namment. He finished with a two-under-par 70, but said he had not decided whether he felt well enough to play. The back problems have kept Trevino out of the past four tournaments. (AP Wirephoto)

Escalera Successful In His Title Defense

By DON SAWATO
NARA, Japan (AP) — Alfredo Escalera of Puerto Rico, using his long reach to fend off Japanese challenger Buzzsaw Yamabe's attacks, defended his world junior lightweight boxing championship in a unanimous 15-round decision Thursday night.

The verdict fortified Escalera's claim to be superior to Yamabe, who he beat on a controversial knockout ruling April

1. In the previous fight, Yamabe was still standing and punching and the referee did not count 10 before stopping the fight in the sixth round and awarding it to Escalera.

In Thursday night's rematch, American referee Rudy Orteza scored it 146-140 for Escalera, Puerto Rican judge Ismael Fernandez had it 146-141 and Japanese judge Hiromitsu Inugai had it 147-140.

There were no knockdowns as Yamabe tried constantly to attack and Escalera kept him at bay with long punches.

One exception came in the 10th round when the two 130 pounders stood toe to toe and slugged it out like heavyweights.

In the course of the fight, Yamabe opened cuts above both of Escalera's eyes, but lost points for low blows.

The return bout was Escalera's fifth defense of the title he won from another Japanese, Kuniaki Shibata, by a second-round knockout in Japan in July 1975.

Escalera, a heavy favorite, and Yamabe, the World Boxing Council's fourth-ranked contender, entered the ring at the division limit of 130 pounds.

The championship fight at Kashiwara City Gymnasium was watched by a crowd of 4,800.

Yamabe, who fights out of Honolulu, lost one point in the seventh round for head butting and another point in the 10th for a low blow.

Dino Martin On Net Tour

CHATTANOOGA, TENN. (AP) — Like his famous father, Dean Martin Jr. is in show business. But it's a whole new ball game for Dino.

"Tennis is show business," says young Martin, now in his third year on the professional tennis circuit and ranked 280th in the Association of Tennis Professionals.

"Anytime you walk out on a court for a bit match," he adds, "it's essentially big show business."

Dino, best known for his rock-singing group some eight years ago, was in Chattanooga to play in the Tennessee Valley Invitational. He lost 6-2 6-0 to unseeded Mark Joffay.

"I was really out of it, first of all," he smiles. "I was overhitting everything."

"It's my first time back on clay in quite some time and it takes a while to readjust to clay. It really takes you years to learn how to play on clay, and I don't know how to do it yet."

The 24-year-old bronzed netter plans to play in the Southern championships next week at Raleigh, N.C., then travel along a series of tournaments called the Eastern circuit.

After that, he plans to spend six months learning to play on clay courts in Europe.

Martin freely admits that he's not making much money in a sport which offers gigantic purses for its top netters.

The heat's on! Save $1 during the PRESTONE® anti-boilover sale.

Flush out loose rust and help protect against boilovers in two easy steps. And get a $1 refund by mail when you buy PRESTONE II Coolant and one of our other PRESTONE Cooling System Products.

Think of it as protection money. Because we're paying you to help protect your car from corrosion and boilovers this summer.

PRESTONE II, with its exclusive silicone-silicate formula, will not only fight boilovers, but will help protect all the metals in your cooling system against harmful corrosion.

And corrosion can lead to serious damage to your engine.

So follow the easy PRESTONE two-step system. It's a once-a-year job that shouldn't take you longer than twenty minutes. Here's what to do:

Step 1. Flushing
Pour PRESTONE 10-Minute Radiator Flush into your radiator, run your engine for 10 minutes and drain.

For thorough flushing, we recommend the unique PRESTONE Flush 'N Fill Kit. With it installed, you can reverse flush your entire cooling system in about 5 minutes.

And keep in mind that reverse flushing is the most effective way to flush your entire cooling system — engine, heater, and radiator.

Step 2. Put in 50% PRESTONE II Coolant
Check your owner's manual for your car's cooling system capacity and pour in enough PRESTONE II (2 gallons for most cars) for a 50-50 mix with water.

That solution, combined with 15 lbs. of pressure on the cooling system, raises the boiling point of your coolant to 265°F.

Now bring on the hot weather. You're ready for it.

And we're ready to send you a $1 cash refund by mail. Read the coupon below for details.

And look for PRESTONE Cooling System Products at your favorite store.

corridor.

"Last year, I said I would select a committee to study this problem," he said.

"When I discovered that consultation was not being done by an out-of-state firm, I told them to stop. No contract was signed.

"I still favor the impartial study, and feel that consultation should occur with the municipalities along both routes."

According to Alexander, it is "ridiculous" that the governor of North Carolina has no veto power.

"I question, considering the present makeup of the legislature, that they would ever grant it," he said.

"They have taken powers from the counsel of state and the Cabinet that should be left with the administrative branch.

"The governor can arouse public sentiment on this issue by presenting this issue to the people. After all, North Carolina is the only state without it."

Alexander said he feels more discretion is called for in inviting industry into the state.

"I think the mistake we have made in North Carolina is in having an 'open arms' policy when inviting industry into the state," he said.

"Of course, it is better to be employed at low wages than to be on welfare, but I think we need to use more discretion and invite high-paying industry into the state."

He also challenged the suggestion that these seeking industry be moved out of the control of the Department of National and Economic Resources (NER) and moved directly under the governor.

"That would be a mistake, because there are environmental concerns to be considered," he said.

"The NER has used good judgment in inviting industry into the state. If that group is moved to the governor's control, I'm afraid it will lose that sense of balance."

Alexander, who has served on the Salisbury city school board for several years, said he is concerned with the present quality of education in the state.

"I have seen the trend that education has taken, and the thing that disturbs me the most is that discipline is not allowed in the classroom," he said.

"I feel there should be some kind of statutory protection available to teachers and principals so they do not live in constant fear of a court case if they do try to impose discipline.

"Quality education has suffered because of this removal of discipline from the classroom to the courtroom."

He also favors capital punishment.

"I still believe capital punishment is a deterrent," said Alexander.

"The alternative of absolute life imprisonment used by states that have abolished capital punishment can be argued to be more cruel and unusual than death."

He expressed concern for the overloaded court dockets and overcrowded prisons.

"I feel those inmates who are within 90 days of the end of their sentence who have been shown to be non-dangerous to society should be released," he said.

"That would release about 600 of the 3000 extra persons now in prison.

"Also, I would consider the possibility of decriminalization of some offenses, such as public drunkenness.

"Alcoholics are not criminals; they have an illness. It is ridiculous to run them through the overcrowded courts when they could be treated for much less cost and with more effectiveness."

Alexander also would utilize existing facilities such as juvenile facilities and various types of hospitals to serve as minimum-care facilities.

"In the prevention area, we must begin very early in our schools to teach children the responsibilities of being a citizen in a free society," he said.

"We must teach them respect for the rights and possessions of others."

ALL 12 RESIGNED

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP)—All 12 sheriff's deputies in Caswell County, North Carolina, resigned today after county commissioners refused their pay demands.

Summertime and your electric bill.

When temperatures soar into the 90's, a lot of us turn to our air conditioners for relief. And this means higher electric bills unless we do something about it.

The peak load.

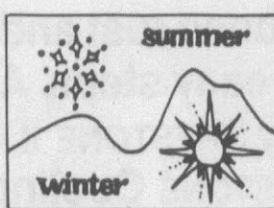

For us here at Vepco, it will mean that virtually all generating equipment will be needed to provide this electricity. And this is expensive.

This heavy demand for electricity is called peak load and it's one reason why residential electric rates for customers using more than 600 kilowatthours per month are higher in the summer.

Let's take a closer look.

How peak load affects your rates.

Because customer demand for electricity is greater in the summer than the winter, we must have generating equipment and facilities to provide their needs. Even though this equipment may operate fully only during this peak load period, we still have to pay for it throughout the entire year—for things like taxes, interest payments on the money that we borrowed to build it, and labor costs. Therefore, to offset these costs, higher rates are charged to customers who contribute to the heavier summer demand.

How to take the peak out of the load.

Peak loads generally occur on weekdays, rather than weekends or nights when many industrial and commercial operations are shut down.

The biggest way you can help is by shifting your heavy weekday consumption of electricity away from the peak times of the day.

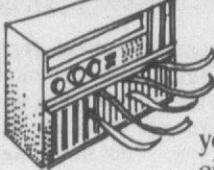

When that hot "peaking" summer day arrives, it will help if you can try to do some of the big home jobs before 10 a.m. or after 10 p.m. Things like laundry, dishwashing or anything using hot water or heavy appliances that put a heavy load on your electricity. If they can be rescheduled so that they do not occur during the hottest part of the day or just when everybody gets home from work, you can cut down the impact of the peak load.

If the peak load can be cut, the need for additional electrical generating equipment and support facilities won't be as great. Which means that less money would be needed for future construction of facilities to meet your needs.

Ways to help during a peak load period.

Temperatures in your home are very important, especially with your air conditioner running. 78 degrees is the recommended setting in most cases. However, when it gets super hot, remember never to keep the inside temperature more than 15 degrees cooler than the outside.

Air conditioners are a blessing, but make sure yours gives you its best. Keep filters clean. Dirty filters will run up your cooling costs. Also, be sure large pieces of furniture aren't blocking your air conditioner's circulation of air.

Buying an air conditioner? Be sure to buy one with a high Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER). It'll save you money on operating costs. An EER of 6 to 7 is fair, 8 to 9 is good, and 10 or higher is excellent.

EER

Refrigerators and home freezers are big energy users. Keep door openings to a minimum and avoid overchilling. 40 degrees is the recommended setting for refrigerators. 0 degrees for freezers.

Check door gaskets. If a dollar bill doesn't fit snugly when the door is closed, it needs replacing. And defrost the units before the frost is one quarter inch thick.

Dishwashers should be used only when there's a full load. So wait till it's full and then run it late at night or early in the morning. And to reduce costs on your dishwasher, turn it off when it starts the drying cycle.

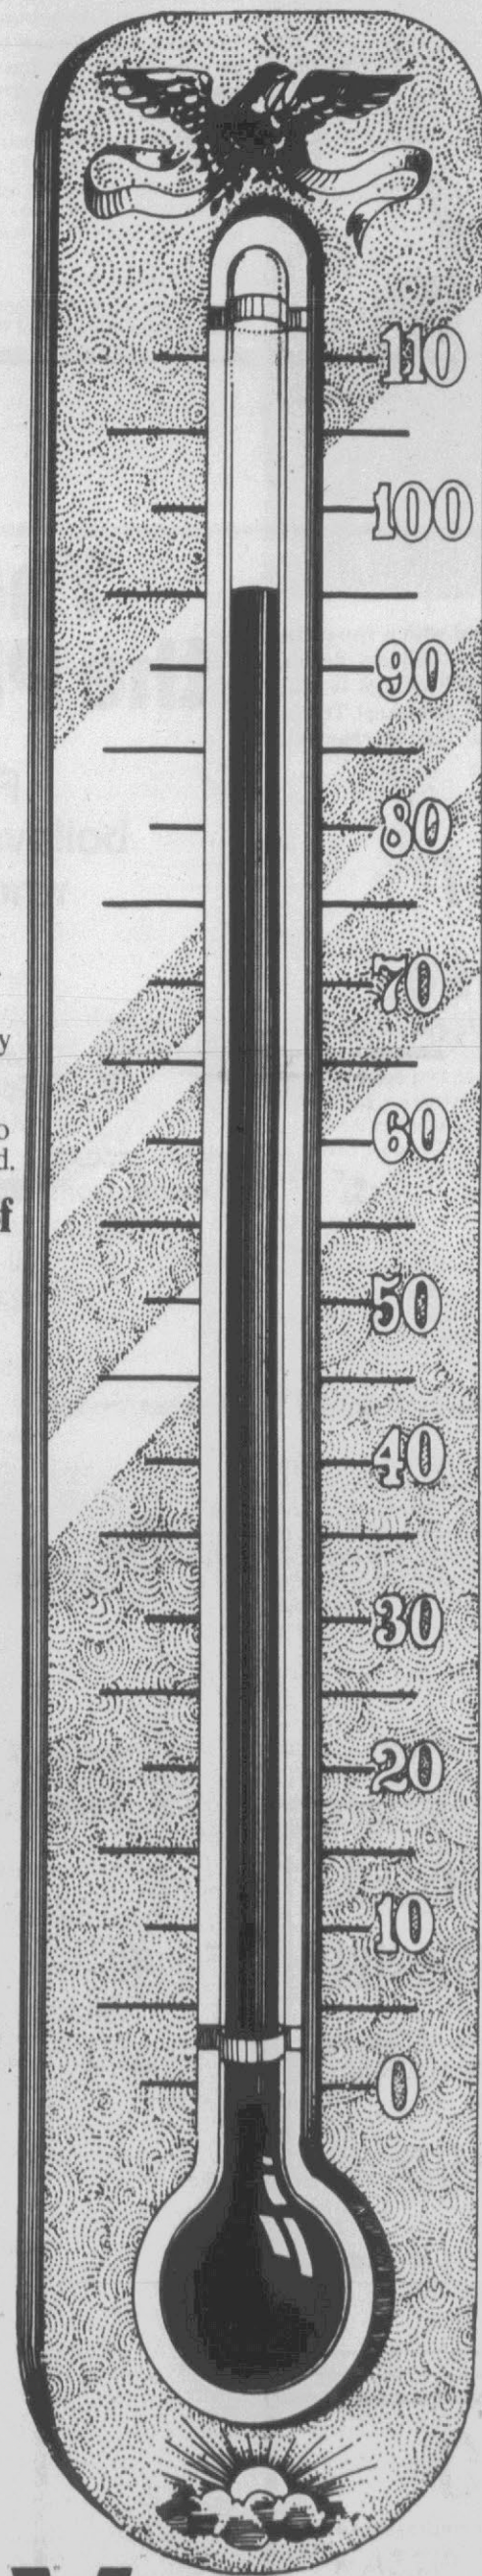

Laundry is most economical when you use cold water detergents and full loads. Also, on weekdays use your washer and dryer early in the day or late at night.

Showers generally use less hot water than tub baths. But don't let your youngsters stay in there for 15 to 20 minutes. That's a lot of hot water—and money—down the drain.

One final reminder, on weekdays try to use your electricity as much as possible before 10 a.m. and after 10 p.m., when the weather gets really hot.

By following these simple tips, you can help reduce peak loads—and help control your electric bill.

Special Certificates For Those Married Or Born On July 4

Celebrating Three Days

SOUTHPORT—Located at the mouth of the Cape Fear River with huge live oaks shading the broad streets, Southport provides a typical All-American setting for the 1976 Bicentennial Fourth of July Festival. Southport's is a three day celebration, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The history of Southport's Fourth of July Festival dates back as far as 1795 when ships lying at anchor in the harbor would discharge salutes from their cannons at day-break and throughout the day, with the ships officers and town officials sharing companionship toasting the young nation's independence.

Southport has been designated by the North Carolina General Assembly as the Official North Carolina Fourth of July Festival.

Docked at the City Pier in the Cape Fear River will be the Naval Ship the "USS Fortify," an ocean-going mine sweeper which will be on hand for the festival. In addition to sidewalk art shows, children's field events and musicians performing, there will be go cart races, tennis tournaments, puppet shows, All-Star baseball games, The Donkey Ball Game, and a Blue Grass Festival wrapping up the first day of events on Saturday July 3rd. Sunday July 4th will begin with the 11 a.m. church services at the "Revolution" amphitheater.

This year, the First Annual Fourth of July Shrimp Boat Race will take place. This will include local shrimp boats drag racing in the river for trophies. Also at the Waterfront on Sunday July 4th, will be a Gospel Sing featuring many Gospel groups.

Monday July 5th will be the biggest day with a 50 gun salute at the flag raising on the Waterfront at 10 a.m. At 11 o'clock the North Carolina Fourth of July Parade begins. There will be a high school band concert on the garrison lawn overlooking the mouth of the river Monday afternoon and also a waterskiing performance by the Cape Fear Water Skiing Club.

At 2:15 p.m. the U.S. Naval Parachute Team will perform an exhibition at the Waterfront followed by the U.S. Naval Underwater Demolition Team performing in the mouth of the river. At 9 p.m. the Fireworks display will take place over the water at the Riverfront followed by a Street Dance featuring a local band.

A special Bicentennial commemorative certificate will be available for persons married or born on July 4, 1976, according to Liz Fentress of the North Carolina Bicentennial Commission.

These certificates are available through the county Register of Deeds and can be obtained in Pitt County.

All necessary information and application forms were sent to the Register of Deeds in each county of the state, said Ed Warren, of the Vital Records division of the N.C. Dept. of Human Resources. Each Register was asked to participate in the program, which was designed to be free of cost and require little effort.

The Register of Deeds office for this county is participating in the certificate, program said Deputy Register Olivia Southerland.

Each couple planning to be married July 4 should receive an application they are to be married. The couple then fills out the form (or someone in the Deeds office does it) and returns it to the Deeds office with the license forms after the wedding. The Register of Deeds sends the application and license forms to the appropriate state authorities, and later the verified license and certificate are sent to the couple.

Commemorative birth certificate applications are obtained at the hospital and the verified certificate is later sent to the parents.

These commemorative certificates are gray and white, with burgundy ink overprinted, according to Ms. Fentress. A picture of the flag is on the back and the certificate bears the governor's signature.

Bible School Begins Monday

WINTERVILLE—Vacation Bible School will be held at Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church beginning Monday and continuing through July 9.

"God's Love Is Jesus" is the theme for the school to be held each week night from seven to nine o'clock.

Classes will be offered from nursery, ages two-three, through youth.

BIRD HOUSE

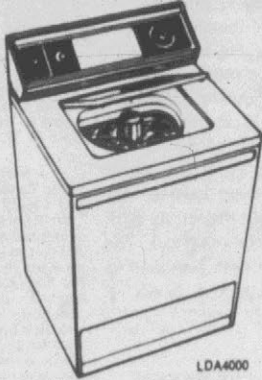

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Zoological Society has received a $600,000 grant which will be used to construct an aviary housing hundreds of birds from around the world.

Ego Trip For Entertainers In Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE — Why do TV and movie stars lend their talents and prestige to political campaigns? Most seem motivated by conviction, but some enjoy the ego trip of traveling with a man who might be president.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I learned a lesson from Watergate that I don't want to learn again. Too many of us were sitting still while our liberties were being trod upon. That was a close shave, too close for me.

I decided I must do something for my country." Actor George Peppard speaks with fervor as he addresses audiences from Alloua, Pa., to El Paso, Tex., in behalf of his candidate, Jimmy Carter. Peppard, star of "How The West Was Won," "The Carpetbaggers" and television's "Banacek," typifies the campaigning celebrity, much prized by candidates. Once mostly a glamorous adjunct to campaigns, the celebrity in politics is now a vital figure. Lyn Nofziger, campaign aide for Ronald Reagan and a veteran of California politics, explains: "Celebrities help bring out the crowds. They're also good as surrogate speakers when the governor can't attend an event; they are well-spoken and can appeal to crowds. "People can identify with their favorites in films and television, and that kind of identity can rub off on the candidate." Nofziger added that movie and TV stars also help attract money, which is what campaigns run on, especially in this television age.

With federal laws restricting cash contributions to candidates, fund-raising affairs featuring big-name performers have taken on a new importance. The Allman Brothers raised $50,000 for Carter at a Providence, R.I., concert. Barbra Streisand, Simon and Garfunkle, Nichols and May, and others have brought thousands of dollars to political campaigns in recent years.

Some stars admit they enjoy the ego trip in traveling with a man who may be president. Brown has made use of pop music performers in his campaign. Ronnee Blakely and Keith Carradine, who appeared in the film "Nashville," performed their songs at Maryland rallies. The Eagles, Linda Ronstadt and Jackson Browne starred in a fund-raising concert for Brown, and the group Chicago added its endorsement with two fund-raising shows. Cary Grant, like Peppard, is a newcomer to politics. He escorted Betty Ford to campaign affairs in California, and he explained his reasons for supporting the President: "We are at sounds like the truth." I followed his progress and read his position papers and biography. Then I called Atlanta and said, "I'd like to help Governor Carter." He himself called back and said, "I need money. I need votes. I need help." Californians listened to a parade of celebrities speaking for candidates in the June 8 primary. Henry Fonda appeared on TV to plug his son-in-law, Tom Hayden, for the Senate, as did Will Geer, grandpa of "The Waltons."

James Stewart has campaigned in the East and in California for Reagan. Others who have rallied to Reagan are John Wayne, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Ken Curtis and Lloyd Nolan.

Committed to the Ford camp are Cary Grant, Glenn Ford, Sonny Bono, Zsa and Eva Gabor, Hugh O'Brien, Ed Nelson, Ron Ely and Jayne Meadows.

On the Democratic side, Brown has attracted Candice Bergen, Warren Beatty and Jack Lemmon. With his obvious appeal to younger voters, Brown has made use of pop music performers in his campaign. Ronnee Blakely and Keith Carradine, who appeared in the film "Nashville," performed their songs at Maryland rallies. The Eagles, Linda Ronstadt and Jackson Browne starred in a fund-raising concert for Brown, and the group Chicago added its endorsement with two fund-raising shows.

Cary Grant, like Peppard, is a newcomer to politics. He escorted Betty Ford to campaign affairs in California, and he explained his reasons for supporting the President: "We are at asked me to appear for him. Albert Lasker, who was head of the advertising agency Lord and Thomas, advised me not to. 'Everybody buys Pepsodent (Hope's radio sponsor) — Republicans and Democrats,' he said.

The use of entertainers in campaigning has been going on since the earliest days of the republic. Minstrel shows at torchlight rallies attracted voters in the South, Broadway stars performed for Tammany in New York, dance hall girls provided the come-on for politicians in the frontier West.

With the advent of radio in the 1920s, politicians recognized the value of using entertainers in the mass media. Al Jolson went on the air to plug his candidate, Warren G. Harding.

The use of movie and radio stars accelerated in the 1930's, when many of them became enamored of Franklin D. Roosevelt. "He was the first president to invite actors to the White House — for his March of Dimes birthday parties," the late Humphrey Bogart, an FDR supporter, once observed. "He was also the first president to ever give actors a break — with the Federal Theater Project." Bogart and other liberals were assailed as "pinkos" during the McCarthy era; still others found themselves blacklisted. As a result, the stars tended to avoid political activity until John F. Kennedy made it fashionable again.

Opening lead: Nine of ♦.

There are a lot of rules to remember during the play of the cards, such as "eight-ever, nine-never," "third hand high," etc. However, these rules are meant to be guidelines, not commandments. Special situations call for special solutions. Let your bridge intelligence be your guide, not rote.

East's weak two spade opening bid would be considered eccentric even by the most ardent users of that weapon. Although vulnerability was in his favor, our distaste for his action on such a bad suit with a side four-card major cannot be expressed too strongly. South and East had nothing to contribute, but North correctly elected to balance with three diamonds. South was delighted at this turn of events and converted to three no trump.

East's bid did have one practical advantage in the play—it steered West to a spade lead, which did not help declarer's cause. Dummy's king was won by East's ace, and the crux of the hand was reached early. It was obvious from looking at dummy that if declarer's side had a weakness, it was likely to be in hearts. In fact, any return other than a heart would have allowed declarer to coast home easily. East did find the heart shift. Unfortunately, though, he remembered that you should lead fourth-best of a suit and shifted to the three of hearts. Declarer covered with the nine, and now there was no way he could be stopped from making his contract.

It was apparent to East, when he won the ace of spades, that he was in for the first and last time. Once he decided to shift to hearts, he should have returned the jack to cater for the actual lie of the cards. This would have allowed the defenders to score four heart tricks in addition to the ace of spades. It's true that by leading an unsupported honor, East might have caused his partner to go wrong if the cards were distributed differently. However, it was his best chance to beat the contract and he should have seized the opportunity to violate a bridge "rule."

Visualizes Bells Tolling Across Nation

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Unlike some people, public-spirited citizen Michael Thomas of New York City expects to get nothing but a thrill out of his Bicentennial idea. In fact he gets goose pimples, he says, when he thinks of it.

What he has been trying to promote through friends and some patriotic organizations is a mass demonstration of patriotism by having church bells and home bells toll all over the United States on July Fourth — sort of a "Liberty Bell Day."

"As I visualize it we would all synchronize our clocks so the bells would be rung at the same time across the country, perhaps for 5 to 10 minutes. The time could be adjusted to noon in each time zone. The great ground swell of patriotism should give us all a united feeling of togetherness on this great day."

Thomas, former president of a jewelry firm and now president of his own public relations firm, has no thought of commercializing the venture in any way. He says he abhors the little plastic bells that are being promoted as Bicentennial souvenirs, and he would like to see all bells in some handsome metal. But he thinks it would be great to ring any bell you can get your hands on to celebrate.

"The Bicentennial has been a series of hit-and-miss celebrations for the last year. But I have a feeling towns will give their all to the Fourth of July with their bands and floats, parades and parties and that will be the big Bicentennial day if ever there is to be one!"

Lots of bells make beautiful music, he says. All a bell needs to be a bell is a cup shape and to give off a tone when its clapper strikes.

Bells were known in China 2000 years before Christ. And throughout man's history they have been treasured over the world. In Ireland a tiny bell, 6 inches high and 5 inches wide, is inscribed 1091. In the 13th century bells were being made for monasteries. By 1400 there was a six ton liberty bell in Paris and some made for other countries — China and Russia — were even larger.

But size has been no clue as to whether a bell rings in the name of liberty or tyranny. Our own Liberty Bell is a mere one ton but its ringing signified the birth of a free nation.

Churches for the celebrations of the bells can ring their carillons on the 200th birthday celebration. But many towns may have no carillon or carillonneur (who hits the keys with a closed hand, protecting his fingers with guards), who bring out musical tinkles or great thundering roars from such bells. In such a setting bells can be mighty.

In such a setting bells can be mighty.

Edgar Allan Poe's poem devoted to bells says: "... from the molten golden notes all in tune - what a liquid ditty floats While Ophelia reminds us in her lament about Hamlet that bells "should be musical. His were "... sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh ..." as she put it.

The best of bells can lose their tunes and even become Bell. But the message can still cracked like our own Liberty ring out clear and true.

Inducted Into Honor Soc.

One hundred and twenty-four outstanding students at East Carolina University have been inducted into the campus chapter of Gamma Beta Phi honor society. They are residents of 46 North Carolina counties, four other states and the District of Columbia.

The students were invited to join the society after completion of one quarter's course work with academic grade point averages in the top 20 percent of their classes.

Gamma Beta Phi society encourages academic effort, recognizes achievement, and attempts to improve education as a whole. During the year its chapters aid their communities through service projects.

New members from Pitt County, who were inducted in a recent ceremony, are: Debbie Smith and James W. Parisher from Ayden; Linda Blackwell, Wanda Nunn, Sylvia Ann Hunt, Johnny Edwards, Joe Wilson, Judy Talbert Cook, Cheryl Adams, Ava Ann Ceczy and Jane Lawrence Smith, all of Greenville.

Radio Airing ECU Music

Recorded performances by two instrumental ensembles of the East Carolina University School of Music will be broadcast in July by WGH-FM, Newport News-Norfolk, Va. (97.3 Mhz).

The station will air concerts by the ECU Symphony Orchestra as part of its bicentennial programming. WGH-FM can be received in several eastern North Carolina locations.

The "Chancellor's Bicentennial Concert," performed by the Wind Ensemble last fall, will be aired on Saturday, July 3 at 8:15 p.m.

The ECU Symphony Orchestra's spring concert, a bicentennial program of American music, will be broadcast July 25 at 12:10 p.m. Robert Hause is conductor of the orchestra.

The taped programs were produced and arranged for broadcast by James L. Rees, Director of Radio Services at ECU.

Col. Sam Colt And Big London Shootout

By ROBERT MUSEL - UPI Senior Editor
LONDON (UPI) — It depends on the way you look at things but the greatest shootout of them all was not the Wyatt Earp-Clanton Boys bloodletter at the O.K. Corral or Wild Bill Hickok gunning down three men or 10 — according to whether you believe fact or fable — in the Incident at Rock Creek.
No, friends, those imperishable classics of the Old West owe a lot to a little known duel that took place, of all improbable locales, in London 125 years ago come September.
That duel, between the handguns of Sam Colt of Hartford, Conn., and Britain's Robert Adams, ended in a hometown decision and loud Yankee cries of foul.
The Colt-Adams battle for supremacy in the handgun field — at a time when rifles were slow-loading and inaccurate and a good revolver a sort of life insurance — has been unearthed over the past 20 years by a pertinacious British research and author named Joseph G. Rosa.

Rosa's "Colonel Colt London" has just been published by the Arms and Armour Press and Fortress Publications of Ontario with many hitherto private details of the years from 1851 to 1857 when Colt opened a factory in Britain, which had given him his first pistol patent at the age of 21.
From the book Sam emerges as a resourceful inventor, industrialist and showman who needed all these qualities to overcome his wily British rival, Adams.
Colt couldn't spell a lick.
"The treasury du allow the few specimens of unfinished work I had at the world fare to be used in England for the perposes of teching the workmen..." he wrote.
But Sam was only 48 when he died and his estate was estimated at more than $3 million. A lot of good spellers left far less.

Rosa is an extraordinary man who was so moved by Gary Cooper in the film "Wild Bill Hickok" that he produced the definitive biography of the western hero without leaving Britain or his job as a teleprinter operator. He wrote hundreds of letters to kindly Hickok sources in the United States.
For "Colonel Colt London" he dug through bales of obscure documents here, in Hartford and elsewhere. He is now communications supervisor of a company associated with Lloyds of London.

Sam's venture in London and the showdown with Adams came about because of the American's desire to exhibit his pistols at the World's Fair of 1851.
The tight circle of British gunmakers shook with alarm and not only because they knew the Texas Rangers were using .36 caliber Colts with nine-inch barrels.
They were more worried that the American's mass-production methods would swamp their hand-made few. But one was unafraid and that was Adams who, said Rosa in an interview, "patented improvements to pistols in a remarkably short time."
"Colt's revolver was single-action, the hammer had to be thumb-cocked for each shot," Rosa said, "but Adams' was cocked and fired each time the trigger was pulled."
"Adams' revolver was quickly adopted as Britain's answer to Colt and the stage was set for their no-holds-barred rivalry."
"Make no mistake. Sam Colt was not intimidated by Adams but he was no fool either and he was equally capable of every trick in the book. Adams, on home ground, was ruthless and as unscrupulous as Sam could be in Hartford. Both were attacking during the comparatively long time it took to reload a musket. The Colt cancelled out that advantage.

The real breakthrough came when Colt was invited to address the Institution of Civil Engineers on Nov. 25, 1851. The talk was a triumph in itself but the American Minister gave yeoman support by asserting from the floor that the British would never defeat the Kaffirs without Colts.
Adams was present and, Rosa says, apparently made a gentlemanly presentation of his own weapon but a version was quickly circulated in London alleging that the Briton had been so inept as to "embarrass" the distinguished audience.
Sam had learned fast — from then on his gun had fairly clear sailing.
The final cachet — not that it was needed — came on Aug. 4, 1855 when The Times said of the Colt:
"Had the Light Brigade been so equipped, even the desperate valour of their famous Balaklava Charge might have been justified by a triumphant result."
And Punch Magazine with poetic license wrote:
"Oh! Colonel Colt, a thunder-bolt
"I'd buy — for no small trifle;
"But that can't be, and so let me
"Get your revolving rifle."

products of their time."
As an example Rosa cites tests made with pistols for the British ordnance department which omitted the Colt.
Sam got the American Minister to intercede with Lord Anglesey, the Master General of Ordnance, for his pistol also to be tested.
Anglesey agreed but referred to the Colt in a letter to his subordinate as "the curious American pistol."
The shootout took place Sept. 10, 1851 and although the results were never officially published, The Times said the Colt was "very good."
Adams immediately circulated an account alleging not a single misfire from his gun and 10 misfires from the Colt. It was a masterly job of throat-cutting and Sam took legal advice but finally decided to do it his way.
Realizing Adams had support in high places and equally aware of the lure of a beautiful weapon to almost any man, Sam began to present Colts to the people who could do him the most good, such as Prince Albert, Consort of Queen Victoria, and the Prince of Wales.
Before long he also had considerable influence and, even better, some of his guns had found their way to the Cape war against the Kaffirs who were using the Sioux Indian tactic of waiting till the British had fired and then attacking during the comparatively long time it took to reload a musket. The Colt cancelled out that advantage.

The real breakthrough came when Colt was invited to address the Institution of Civil Engineers on Nov. 25, 1851. The talk was a triumph in itself but the American Minister gave yeoman support by asserting from the floor that the British would never defeat the Kaffirs without Colts.

Hobbies Are A Way Of Life

LONDON (UPI) — British bird watchers tell with reverence the story of one of their number who was so intent on creeping up on wild swans that he fixed an artificial bird to his head and put heavy weights in his pockets to keep him submerged.
He drowned — but that's a minor point.
What is important is his devotion to his hobby, a dedication he shared with another bird watcher who was so oblivious of other forms of wildlife he was eaten by a crocodile.
Hobbies, conventional or bizarre, have always played a considerable role in British life, through the lean years and the fat. The present depression has had little effect on extracurricular pursuits except for a faint increase in the more practical pastimes — weaving or lace-making or cooking out of the freezer.
A very slight increase has occurred in students immersing themselves in medieval music or archaeology or other escapes into the security of the past, yet nothing that would suggest a trend, says Erek N. Hadden of the Inner London Education Authority.
Gardening is about the only hobby really tied into the current economic stringency. Many persons are going in for cabbages and potatoes and other edibles instead of the old English garden standby, roses. Most local councils outside of London rent quarter-acre plots, called allotments, at nominal fees to residents. The waiting list this year is probably a record.
Many applying for the first time say they do so because of the soaring price of vegetables.
A sizable slice of local budgets in Britain is spent catering to desires for adult education. Each area arranges its own program. Hadden's is the most populous. In the past four or five years, Inner London has seen its crafts and hobby students grow steadily from 298,238 to 329,270.
"Most of those attending the Adult Education Institutes are doing classes for the sheer fun of it," he said, "though there are those, of course, who hope to put it to practical use. A few years ago we had a lot of students who wanted to take up crocheting. It was in fashion at the time."
Now the fashion is for dietetic menus, yoga, beekeeping (the price of honey has trebled), antiques and dowsing. Dowsing is water-divining.
"Where the difficulties lie is that we're in a no-growth situation," Hadden said. "We can't spend more due to the economic situation. Within that allocation all principals (of institutes) are reviewing their position. We have to place greater emphasis on literacy. Dyslexia or word-blindness was only really discovered in recent years, so the more we spend on this remedial work, the less we have for something else."

Another subject Inner London would like to be able to spend more money on is preparation for retirement. Like the other courses, it is economically priced. Lectures are as low as 10 pence (17 cents) a session.
Many Britons go in for highly individual hobbies of their own without the aid of experts. A man named Tony McCable made his name jumping on and off eggs without breaking them.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

STONE COLUMNS, ARCHES, multi-level roofs and large windows give this house a dramatic appearance. Inside there is a large foyer and a two-story ceiling that allows a curved staircase to appear to hang in space. The second floor has four bedrooms and two baths. The "L" shaped hall actually is a balcony overlooking the family room below. Plan HA940M, designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern, has 1,253 square feet of floor space on the first floor and 1,111 on the second floor. For further information write Matern—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 89 E. British Tea Planters Are Replaced In Sri Lanka

Awards Go To Two Teachers

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Two Pennsylvania State University faculty members have been presented the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Awards for Distinguished Teaching.

They are Dr. William Merrill Jr., professor of plant pathology, and Philip Klass, professor of English. The awards consist of a plaque and a check for $1,000.

$600,000 Grant For Bird House

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Zoological Society has received a $600,000 grant which will be used to construct an aviary housing hundreds of birds from around the world.

The grant was from R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.

By JOHN NEEDHAM
NUWARA ELIYA, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Nationalization has come to the tea fields of Sri Lanka and people with names like Ormsby and Telford are leaving, to be replaced by the Wickramasinghes and the Jayakodys.

Now, on a Saturday night, only one couple uses the cavernous dining room of the century-old Hill Club and climbs the highly polished wooden stairs to spend the night in a room with a Royal Doulton sink and a picture above the fireplace of poet John Milton's cottage.

"Years ago there were hundreds, or thousands, of (British) tea planters around here. Now I can think of only nine," says Lind Wickramasuraya, who retired as a colonel in the Sri Lankan army to manage the Hill Club.

The government last year nationalized the tea plantations — which are called estates — and this year agreed on compensation for the British owners.

By next year the few remaining British who stayed on to help run the estates are expected to have packed their bags and moved on. For some it will end a way of life practiced by father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

The Hill Club, nestled among the tea estates, was built by British tea planters, men who lived in what are called "bungalows," but which would more aptly be styled "villas." From their homes they could look down the carefully terraced hills with row upon row of the ankle-high, shiny green-leaved tea plants and be confident in the knowledge they were masters of all they surveyed.

Things have now changed for the club, as they have for the British.

Opposite the portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, hanging next to the fireplace, is a portrait of Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the Prime Minister of Sri Lanka and widow of a former prime minister.

The name of the island was changed from Ceylon in 1972, 24 years after it became independent of the British.

The billiard tables downstairs are seldom used and there are few visitors to walk past the picture of the "Ceylon Mounted Rifles Final Parade Prior to Disbandment, Colombo, 24 Sept. 1938" — six days before the signing of the Munich pact, a precursor to World War II, the postwar end to colonialism and the vanishing era of the tea planters.

Tea became a major crop of the island in the mid-19th century, after the coffee crops went bad because of blight.

Col. Wickramasuraya tells of "tough Scotsmen and Irish" who came out to Ceylon to make a new life for themselves.

"The first son went into the army. The second son went into the navy, the third son into the church and the fourth son out of the country," he said.

Several of the few British still here declined to discuss the changing state of affairs. Their relations with the government are sometimes tenuous and they prefer to do the job as best they can in what little time they may have left.

At the nationalized and completely Sri Lankan-run Pedro Factory in Nuwara Eliya, foreman C. H. Dharamaratne is also unsure what nationalization may mean for tea.

"We are the guinea pigs in this revolution," he said during a tour of the factory where the tea is processed after picking.

"We'll have teething problems at first, of course. The problem is who will follow us. To run a factory you must know physics, biology, chemistry, be an electrician, a mechanic, know law, accounting, be a jack of all trades."

He worries that "African nations can get two and three times the yield" of tea from their estates that Sri Lanka can and says, "A lot of Britons have cleared out and headed for Africa."

Like many Sri Lankans, he contends the British agency houses "swindled" the country and at the end didn't take care of the tea plants as they should have. The British deny it and tell of reports that since nationalization twigs and stems are showing up in some teas.

Dharamaratne also reflects the prejudice of the natives of the island, the Sinhalese, against the Tamils, who came in from southern India to work the estates.

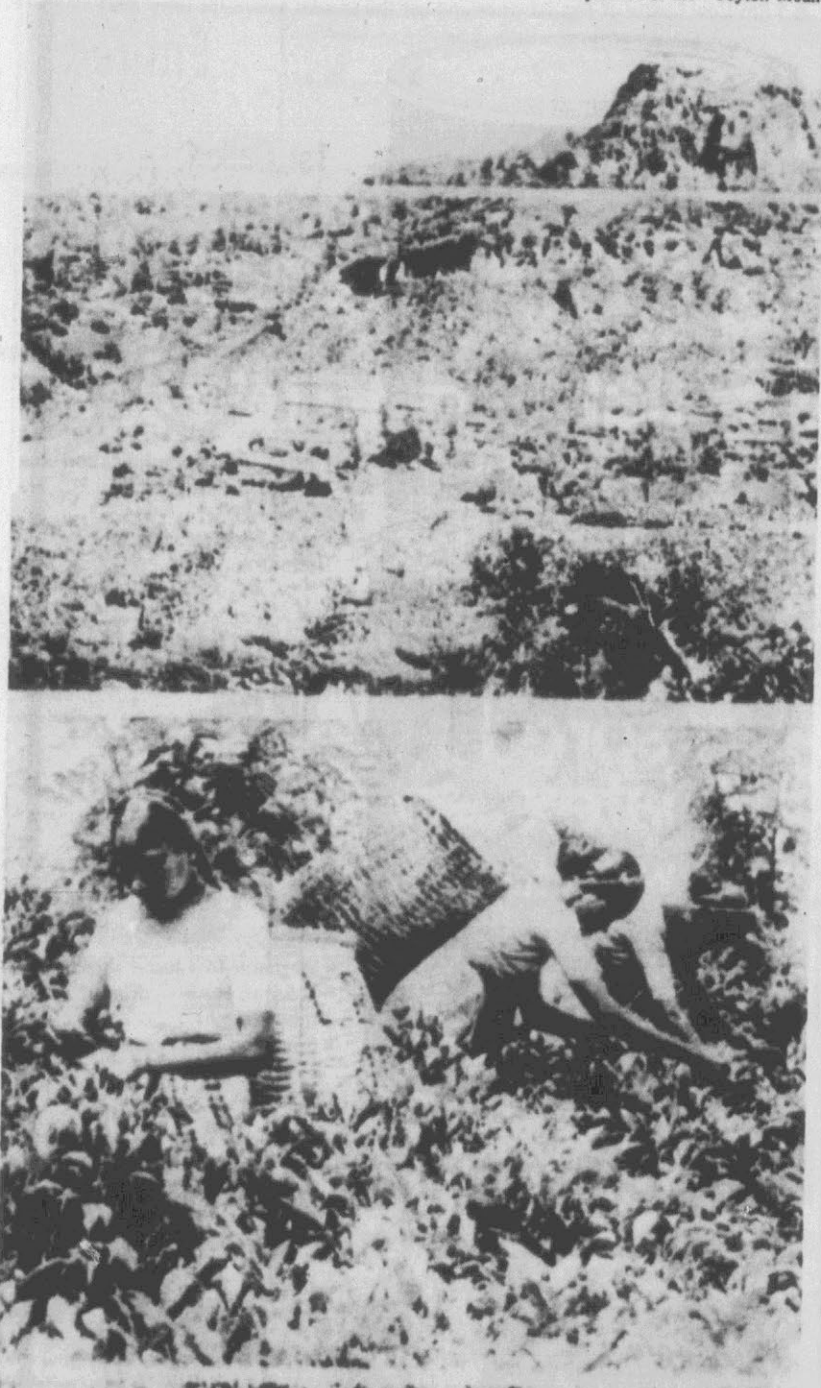

"The Tamils can't run sophisticated equipment," he said.

By Dharamaratne's account, a woman can pick 25 pounds of tea a day, earning 10 cents a pound for her labors — the rough equivalent of 30 cents per day.

Tea accounts for nearly 60 per cent of Sri Lanka's foreign export earnings, so much hinges on how well the nearly 600,000 acres given over to tea are run after nationalization.

Most of the tea exported is still sent to Britain, followed by Iraq, Pakistan and the United States. It is "black tea," said to be the best, but Dharamaratne says tea from plants grown within a few feet of each other can vary enough so that all the tea, no matter how good by itself, is blended.

Minneapolis Can Teach New York Thing Or Two

By LOTTE SEIDLER
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Minnesota's Orchestra Hall, acclaimed for its outstanding acoustics, is chalking up another claim to fame.

Cyril Harris, the New York consultant who created the hall's acoustics, is currently engaged in developing Avery Fisher Hall, the home of the New York Philharmonic in Manhattan's Lincoln Center, along the same sound wave patterns.

Harris, who was instrumental in the construction of the Metropolitan Opera House and Washington's Kennedy Center, said in a telephone interview that "nothing could be done short of tearing it down."

When Avery Fisher Hall is rebuilt it will resemble Orchestra Hall in many aspects.

Until Orchestra Hall opened in October 1974 the Minnesota Orchestra suffered from similar ills. The acoustics in Northrop Auditorium on the University of Minnesota campus were poor. The Minnesota Orchestra also tried to improve matters on a piecemeal basis. There was reconstruction. Acoustical shells were placed in strategic spots. But matters didn't improve much.

Along came Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, the conductor of the Minnesota Orchestra since 1960, who kept demanding a new hall. Along came the local benefactors who raised most of the $11.3 million needed to build the new hall. Along came Harris.

He and the architects — Hammel Green and Abrahamson, Inc., of St. Paul and Hardy

Holzman Pfeiffer Associates of New York — created what in reality is two buildings.

One building is the auditorium itself, made of concrete and red brick. The structure contains only one room — the music area, which is finished almost entirely in the traditional concert hall materials of wood and plaster and seats 2,573 — plus wraparound passageways.

The second outer building, emphatically contemporary and featuring glass and aluminum panels, houses everything else: the halls, administrative offices, rehearsal space.

For acoustical reasons, Harris insisted there be no concrete and practically no metal in the performing chamber. The only metal is in parts of the seats, in light fixtures and in heavy sound proofing doors. The hall's floors, seat arms and backs and walls are oak. The ceiling, balconies and other elements are plaster. On the ceiling and on the wall behind the orchestra seating space are irregular plaster cubes set at various angles to disperse sound.

There are special lockers in the hallways where women are urged to leave their fur coats so the furs won't muffle the sound.

Orchestra Hall has served Minnesota audiences very well since its inauguration a year and a half ago. Activities have expanded at a record pace. This past February there was at least one event, not necessarily a concert, every single day. As many as three events have been scheduled on one day. The Minnesota Orchestra now works 50 weeks a year. This compares with 40 weeks not so many years ago.

Along with increased activity has come less formality. In summer stepped-flooring equipment is installed over the main level seats for the rug concerts. Four were played last summer. This summer 10 are scheduled.

There has been some criticism of Orchestra Hall's outer building: its exposed pipes, its rough concrete. But somehow the building's character seems to have contributed to the new informality at concerts. Young people, sometimes dressed in jeans, stroll and drink at intermission. At Northrop drinks were out — no liquor on a university campus — and jeans were rarely seen.

There also was some criticism that the stage could not be seen from some of the seats in the balcony tiers. The seats in question were removed and replaced with movable chairs.

But these, after all, are minor criticisms. What prevails is the magnificent sound.

"I can feel it through the soles of my feet," said a recent visitor from Hawaii.

A spokesman for the hall said, "You can hear the rustle of a dollar bill on stage in the last row."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days in a long while to handle difficult duties by conscientious application. Also, an excellent time for making long-range plans for the future. Use spare time for improving your health.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discuss future plans with co-workers, and combine your efforts more intelligently and increase production.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan early for recreation you want to enjoy after your work is done. Express your creative talents. Be more content.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Showing family members more devotion will bring far better results now, and add to harmony. Sidelstep a troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Contact those who can give you the data you need. Take time to make peace with friends and relatives.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more efficiency in monetary matters and add a great deal to your present income. Contact an expert for advice.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to gain personal aims today and can assist others to do likewise. Find new avenues of social enjoyment. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend to private matters early in the day so you will have time for important business later. Show more devotion to loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Meet with allies at group meetings and discuss joint affairs. Attending a social affair can be most productive at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Bring your finest skills to the watchful eyes of higher-ups. Also, be more active in public affairs and gain recognition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to study new interests that are appealing and for which you have little time later. Avoid a doublecrosser.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle matters of debts and credits more carefully today. Find better ways of pleasing mate. Be less inclined to anger.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A day when you and associates can communicate much better and can accomplish much more. Be a more active person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who likes to cater to others and to please them in a most unassuming way. Teach to discriminate more carefully. Prepare your progeny with the finest education you can afford. Don't neglect the all-important spiritual training.

By OLGA TELLIS
BOMBAY, India (UPI) — The pretty girl, obviously in the last stages of pregnancy, rushed up to the foreign woman with a desperate look in her eyes.

"Memsahib! memsahib! baby coming! baby coming!" she cried, clutching her tattered skirts.

"Memsahib! memsahib! no money for taxi to hospital!" added an old but equally tattered crone — probably the girl's mother.

Anxious and sympathetic, the foreigner stuffed several dollars into the girl's hands and the pair rushed away.

The following day, the woman spotted the same pair on a nearby corner — acting out the same drama with obviously similar success.

Tourists and foreigners are key targets of the estimated 5 million beggars in India.

Flocks of beggars materialize suddenly outside shops catering to tourists. A beggar often will follow a shopper for blocks, occasionally nudging her arm, whispering "baksheesh, baksheesh (alms, alms)."

Some women beggars "rent" scabby, emaciated infants to carry in their arms to enhance the pithos.

The beggars of India live by their wits and have proven that they can outsmart not only tourists but also their own government.

Last March, police in Bombay, India's financial center, launched "Operation Beggar" — an attempt to round up the estimated 75,000 beggars who plague this city of 6 million.

Some 3,000 beggars were immediately hustled off the streets and taken to special camps.

Under new laws passed by the Maharashtra state government, adult beggars were to be put to work on irrigation sites. Juveniles, an estimated 5,000 of the total, were to be given training in agriculture.

But a beggar who used to make at least 10 rupees a day (about $1.10) begging, was less than happy working eight tough hours daily digging irrigation ditches for 3 rupees (about 33 cents) a day.

"Where's the nearest railway station?" was the first question many asked.

Within two weeks, more than 900 had escaped and were back on the streets — ignoring threats that they could be jailed for up to two years if caught begging again.

One newspaper, commenting on "Operation Beggar," said the state was taking on more than it was equipped to handle.

"It is obvious that in attempting to eradicate beggary, the state government has put the cart before the horse," the Indian Express newspaper said.

"It should have provided a sufficient number of rehabilitation centers where the neediest section of the population could be taught simple skills to enable them to earn a living. Social problems do not lend themselves to 'instant' solutions..."

Despite the setbacks, the Maharashtra government looks on "Operation Beggar" as a long-term program and officials appear undaunted by the lack of results so far.

Sharad Chandra Gokhale, assistant secretary for Asia of the International Council of Social Welfare and head of the government-sponsored Committee for Rehabilitation of the Distressed, says the govern-
