Third Day Of Violence In Cape Town Erupts

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Gunfire was heard today in nearby Nyanga township and a large crowd of dissident blacks tried to set fire to a medical clinic as racial violence broke out in the Cape Town area for the third straight day, police said.

At least 29 blacks have been killed and some 100 injured in rioting that began Wednesday in the segregated black townships around Cape Town.

They have been the worst disturbances since bloody riots in mid-June throughout South Africa took at least 176 lives, almost all of them blacks. Black demonstrators have been protesting the white government's apartheid policies of racial separation.

"We have patrols out in the area and a radio message just received said crowds were gathering at the clinic at Nyanga and there have been attempts to set it alight," a police spokesman said. Police said gunshots were heard in the area.

There was no immediate word on possible new casualties.

Earlier in the day, a general calm had been reported in the townships. A railway official said commuter trains were bringing black workers from the Nyanga, Langa and Guguletu black ghettos to work in Cape Town without interference.

After the first two days of violence, arms and ammunition dealers reported a rush by whites to buy weapons.

A police spokesman said there were no major incidents in the three townships during the night. But the national police commissioner, Gert Prinsloo, said a nationwide police alert remained in force.

The police announced that six blacks were killed Thursday, raising the toll from racial violence to at least 218 dead since violent black protests began June 16 in Johannesburg's Soweto township. All but three of the dead were black.

At least 176 persons were killed during the first wave of violence, which lasted for a week in black districts around Johannesburg and Pretoria. Thirteen more persons were killed in the Johannesburg area between Aug. 4 and Aug. 9, and then the violence broke out Wednesday for the first time in the Cape Town area, 800 miles southeast of Johannesburg.

Police on Thursday arrested about 80 white students from the University of Cape Town as they marched from their campus to one of the townships to demonstrate their sympathy with the blacks. The government said they were held for violating a ban on public assemblies.

Three of the blacks who died Thursday were shot at a police roadblock on the outskirts of the Langa township. It could not be learned how the others were killed.

QUESTIONS CREDIBILITY

Our family is considering sponsoring a needy child in a foreign county for $15 per month through the Compassion Inc. program. We would like to make sure that this is a creditable organization, however, How can we check this? Mrs. C.B.

The Solicitation Licensing Office of the State Division of Facility Service can tell you about any organization that seeks funds in North Carolina. Compassion Inc. was licensed in July, Mattie Giammarco says. A good amount is put into the organization's program — 79.36 per cent, she read from verified information given the licensing office. Some 11.43 goes for administration. An October, 1975 law provides that any organization licensed in this state devote at least 65 per cent of its collections to its program and that not more than 35 per cent be fundraising costs, she explained.

BASKETWEAVERS

June 10 a Hotline appeal for someone to do basket weaving was run. Pat Parker of the N. C. Division of Services for the Blind checked with two of his clients for permission to provide their names to us. They agreed.

He told us that Valnora Stanley of East Street in Bethel does this kind of work as does Betty Singleton of 1304 N. Washington St., Greenville. Mrs. Stanley's mailing address is Box 802, Bethel, 27812; her phone number is 825-3531. Ms. Singleton's phone number is 758-4837.

Winterville Bd. Approves Bids For Fire Truck

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Town Board approved bids for a new fire truck Thursday night. A bid was awarded to Howe Fire Apparatus totalling $34,374.36 for the truck and the extra equipment. This was not the low bid for the truck, but was the only bid which included the complete specifications. The bid for the chassis was awarded to F&D. Motors for $8,944.77.

The fire truck will be paid for by the Rural Fire Association and the Town of Winterville. Each will pay half of the cost. The town's share will be funded by federal revenue sharing. The truck will be delivered within one year.

Feared A Bomb In Manson Mail

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Charles Manson, convicted mass murderer of actress Sharon Tate and others, received a package that prison officials initially feared was a bomb — but turned out to be a teddy bear and a Polish travel book.

A checking device at a state hospital indicated Tuesday that the package contained wires. Then, a "bomb-sniffing" dog went into a "classic alert" position that suggested a bomb.

The five-by-eight-inch package, with a return address in Poland, was carted to a nearby orchard, where police opened it, authorities said Thursday.

Manson, 41, has been at Vacaville since May for psychiatric study.

Ford Team Resists Pressure To Unveil His Choice For VP

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Ford's convention managers contend it would be poor politics for him to tip his vice presidential hand in advance, despite signals of Republican unrest about some of the names in his catalog of prospects.

A Southern GOP leader said a White House official told him not to worry, that the eventual choice will have mainstream Republican credentials and won't alienate conservatives.

"But they always say that," said Clarke Reed, the Mississippi chairman, who protested the consideration of liberal Republicans as possible Ford running mates.

There were complaints from the North, too, on a different score. John Linnell, the Maine chairman, said eight Ford delegates there were considering withholding their support from Ford unless they are assured he won't choose John B. Connally for the vice presidency.

The manager of Ronald Reagan's campaign argues that there is growing pressure on Ford to disclose in advance who will be his running mate if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

John P. Sears said it is increasingly likely Ford will have to do so.

Dean Burch, a top convention strategist for Ford, said he won't. "I simply don't think the delegates to this convention are in the business of wanting the President to play poor politics," Burch said. "... He's trying to choose somebody who

Ford supporters won Thursday night on one clear-cut issue between the candidates. The Platform Committee voted 57 to 47 to endorse ratification of a constitutional amendment to assure equal rights for women. Ford favors the amendment. Reagan said he favors equality but not the amendment.

But that was only a warmup for the real contest, for the nomination that will be awarded next Wednesday night.

The Associated Press delegate count showed Ford 1,106; Reagan at 1,032, with 1,130 needed to name a nominee. There are 121 uncommitted Republican delegates. The count includes delegates who are publicly committed or legally bound to a candidate.

James Baker, Ford's chief delegate hunter, said the President now has 1,134 commitments for the nomination. Sears has refused to disclose a figure, saying that Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes when the roll is called next Wednesday night.

Sears said he would argue with any count that put Reagan under 1,100, and he forecast defections from the Ford ranks. He said the Ford count includes some Republicans who couldn't afford to be identified with the challenger in advance but who will vote for Reagan when the roll is called.

Burch scoffed at that. "We have absolutely no concern that the President will not be nominated on the first ballot," he said.

'Revenge' Pledged By PLO And Allies

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestinians and their leftist Moslem Lebanese allies threatened today to avenge the fall of the Tal Zaatar Palestinian camp and vowed that Lebanon's civil war would continue.

Palestinian leader Farouk Kaddoumi said his men would "avenge Tal Zaatar elsewhere in Lebanon." Leftist papers said the Moslems might "escalate fighting in Christian-held mountain areas," through which Moslem villages are still scattered.

"Lebanese will have to brace for a protracted war," said Kamal Jumblatt, the Moslem leader of the Lebanese leftists. "We must brace ourselves for more shocks, similar to that of Tal Zaatar."

"Our prime duty now is to set up a strong popular army to resist the Syrian invasion and to liberate captured areas. We will have to resist partition, because a Christian state in our midst would turn out to be another Israel in the heart of the Arab region."

The fall of Tal Zaatar Thursday removed the last Moslem stronghold from Christian East Beirut and consolidated the area with the Christian hinterland north of the capital.

Christian militiamen fought mop-up actions today against isolated pockets of defenders in the 74-acre camp. Palestinian sources said scattered hand-to-hand fighting continued but admitted that the camp had been conquered.

Hours after Tal Zaatar fell, Moslem gunmen of the Am-bushers militia laid siege to the Assyrian quarter in the heart of Moslem West Beirut. The Ambushers accused the quarter's 3,000 Christians of supporting "Christian atrocities" against refugees from Tal Zaatar.

Street fighting escalated during the night along the dividing line in Beirut and nearby mountain towns. An incomplete count of casualties by security officers and hospitals showed at least 186 persons killed 215 wounded. The war has taken more than 34,000 lives since it erupted in April 1975.

Leftist sources said Christian militias supported by Syrian forces were "opening a new front" in mountain areas southeast of Beirut. They said the Syrians had reinforced positions near Jezzine and Dhahr Ramleh, east of the Moslem port of Sidon, with 40 tanks equipped with long-range cannon.

Christian leaders estimated that 200 to 300 Palestinians were still fighting from underground bunkers, slit trenches and the ruins of houses in Tal Zaatar.

Hunt Asks A 'Mandate' To Initiate Programs In Rally Speech Here

Jim Hunt asked eastern friends and supporters last night for a "mandate" to initiate programs and changes as governor that will "make North Carolina again the most progressive state in the South."

The Wilson Democrat, addressing an enthusiastic rally in his honor here, asked voters from the area he termed, "my home section of the greatest state in America," to give him the opportunity to take action and "make some decisions" in the areas of crime reduction, utilities rates, education, the economy, jobs, and preservation of rural programs.

The lieutenant governor, winding up a vigorous, costly campaign, told the gathering that, "This is where it all started and I'm counting on you to help me finish the job."

Calling his effort to win the Democratic nomination a "people's campaign," the candidate reported that a record 21,000 citizens contributed to his campaign in contrast to only "1,500 total contributors" to the other four aspirants.

"This shows that you don't have to be wealthy or supported by big money in order to be elected governor," he contended.

Hunt asked, "Can we call on our tradition and heritage to help us build a better future?"

"Can people work together to solve our problems?"

"I believe we can," Hunt said. Citing a need for action against the state's crime rate, he said that citizens "can depend on me to push for a speedy trial. He asked, "Will you give me a mandate to reduce crime in North Carolina?"

Hunt said that people of the east can also depend on him to reorganize the State Utilities Commission and appoint commissioners who will hear the side of the consumer.

Saying that improvements are needed in the field of education, Hunt contended that "if a child doesn't learn to read, that child has lost its future." He asked, "Will you give me a mandate to change our system so that every child will learn to read?"

The candidate said that he wanted a mandate to improve the state's economy and provide "good paying jobs" for the people of the state.

Rural and agricultural tradition must be preserved, he said, calling it the "Backbone of our state."

Hunt said that in recent years, the state has "been slipping" and he said that a "new beginning, a new spirit" is needed to

Wayne Hayes Has Decided To Withdraw

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hayes, whose relationship with Elizabeth Ray sparked a congressional payroll-sex scandal in Washington earlier this year, today withdrew as a candidate for re-election.

Hayes, 65, submitted his resignation as a candidate to the Columbiana County Board of Elections here. The resignation was confirmed by his district office.

The resignation means the Democratic congressman, former chairman of the House Administration Committee, will leave office when his term expires in January.

Earlier, Hayes had said he might drop out of the race if he felt such a move might wipe out Miss Ray's chances for more publicity.

"The polls show I'd win," Hayes said in an interview, "but I don't want to give that (woman) another chance to make an appearance. If my not running would wipe out her publicity, that would be a factor."

Miss Ray touched off a Capitol Hill sex scandal when she accused Hayes of keeping her on the House Administration Committee payroll primarily to be his mistress.

The scandal forced Hayes to resign as chairman of that committee and chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Hayes acknowledged that he had an affair with Miss Ray but denied misuse of the payroll, saying she did committee work for her pay.

Hayes has asked for a House Ethics Committee investigation which he says he is confident would vindicate him.

But Hayes said Thursday he would not want the investigation to give Miss Ray an opportunity to make a public appearance and get more publicity.

Miss Ray reportedly testified before a federal grand jury last week on her charge against Hayes.

Hayes said there is no truth to speculation that he has been plea bargaining to settle her accusation quickly so that he could decide by Saturday to stay in his re-election race.

"I'm not plea-bargaining," he said.

Jaycettes Contribute To New Hospital Pediatrics

Sandy Walton and Judy Rivenbark, co-chairman of the Greenville Jay-C-Ettes Pediatric Committee, presented Bill Glidewell, treasurer of the Gifts Committee for the new Pitt Memorial Hospital, with a check for $2,000 Wednesday night at the Jay-C-Ettes August meeting.

The check was given to fulfill the club's pledge in May, 1972 to the Pediatrics Ward of the new hospital. Other guests for the presentation were past presidents Etsil Gordon, Dot Fisher, Karen Turner and Linda Ashbell. Betty Cox, president, presented each with a carnation. Judy Capello, Debra Barrington and Ann Griffin were welcomed as new members. Guests were Donna Tripp and Martha Bradshaw. Valinda Jackson and Linda Ashvell, co-chairmen of the ways and means committee, gave a report on the upcoming candy sale. Proceeds from this sale are used for crippled and handicapped persons in Pitt County.

Many Factors Dictate Choice Of Refrigerators

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Major appliances are a significant investment, so when the time comes to replace a refrigerator — or buy your first one — knowing what to look for can pay dividends. Begin by asking questions — of yourself or others — so you can determine your needs objectively, suggests the Consumers Institute of General Electric here.

Begin with the size of your family. Will it grow, remain stable, or will older children begin "leaving the nest" in a year or two? What style of refrigerator will you want? In top-freezer models the freezers are eye-level and are the same width as the fresh food section, generally from 28 to 33 inches. In side-by-side models, the freezer section is narrower, but extends from top to bottom of the unit. Side-by-side models offer easy access to frequently-used items from both fresh food and freezer section.

If you entertain often or are simply convenience-minded, you may find models that deliver crushed ice or ice cubes through the door a worthwhile investment. What other features would you like? —Adjustable shelves give a refrigerator added flexibility for storing bulky seasonal items such as holiday turkeys or summer watermelons. —Large freezer sections help in planning meals and give you the opportunity to stock up on seasonal or sale items. —You won't move your refrigerator often, but when you do — for spring cleaning or when you're painting the kitchen — you'll be glad if you have a model with wheels so you can roll it out from the wall rather than wrestle it out.

—A Power Saver switch controls heaters that prevent water condensation or "sweating" around the door seals. In low humidity conditions, such as in air conditioned homes or during the winter, such heaters are not needed and can be turned off to reduce electricity consumption. Be sure you understand the difference between frost-free and cycle-defrost. A cycle-defrost model is one in which the fresh food section is automatically defrosted but the freezer must be defrosted manually. The no-frost or frost-free type eliminates defrosting and prevents the buildup of frost in the freezer, which can rob you of as much as 20 per cent of usable freezer space.

When choosing a dealer, ask friends, relatives or the local Better Business Bureau. Consider the manufacturer's reputation, examine the warranty and check into the availability of nationwide repair service. Your neighborhood repairman may be fine right now, but he won't follow you if you move to another city.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a terrible problem. I nagged my mother to get me contact lenses (I wore glasses), and three months ago she finally got me some. Now I can't wear the contacts because they are just too hard to get used to. They irritate my eyes and I can't keep them in. (They are the hard kind, not soft. It is just terrible, Abby. Kids shouldn't be allowed to get hard contacts because they hurt too much.) I don't know how to tell my mother. She will get mad at me because she spent a lot of money on them and she didn't want to get them in the first place, but I begged so hard she gave in. Please help me, but don't write back because my mother might get the mail first. Thank you.

DEAR RED EYES: Tell your mother. She'll take you back to the place you bought your contacts for a consultation. Others have become accustomed to the hard lenses, and you probably can, too, if you follow instructions. But first see your eye doctor to find out whether your problem is with your eyes or the contact lenses.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a guy for three years off and on. I've tried to break up with him, but every time I make the attempt, he cries, begs and carries on. He's even threatened to commit suicide, so I get soft-hearted and change my mind. If he were to kill himself because of me, I'd never be able to forgive myself. I have begged him to go with other girls, but he won't. I've even gone out with other guys, hoping he'd date other girls just to get even, but it hasn't worked. He says if he can't have me, he doesn't want anyone.

Now he's pressuring me to marry him. I don't really want to, but I feel so sorry for him, I'm tempted to say yes. He's not a bad guy. In many ways he's really nice, and I'm sure some girl would feel lucky to have him. I have told him that I am not in love with him. But he says he doesn't care because he loves me, and after we're married I'll learn to love him. He's 26 and I'm 22. What now?

DEAR TRAPPED: Do yourself (and him) a favor and tell him it's not fair to either of you to continue the relationship. Then break it off, once and for all. If you allow him to play on your sympathy, he may eventually wear you down to the point of marriage. Then YOU will be the one who will need the sympathy.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my mother died 10 years ago I have been wearing her wedding band on my key chain. It will fit my little finger, but I am wondering if it would be proper for me to wear it. I'm afraid it might provoke a lot of questions. Then what would I say? I don't want to appear a sentimental fool.

DEAR BOY: Go ahead and wear it. And what's wrong with being sentimental? If anyone inquires, tell them the truth. I think it's a beautiful idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

New Exhibition Spurs British Interest In American Quilts

By GREGORY JENSEN LONDON (UPI) — The common thread of culture which binds the United States and Britain together is broad enough even to cover beds, to judge from a new London exhibition.

"The American Quilt Tradition," which opened recently, matches 200 years of American quilts against similar British examples.

It's an instance of a dawning British awareness — something Americans have long known — that quilts can be more than homely, useful objects splashed with bright color.

"Interest in quilts began to take off about 10 years ago," said Sheila Betterton in the new show she organized. "We thought the Bicentennial was a perfect occasion to bring them to the attention of a wider public."

Coinciding with the museum show, a commercial London art gallery is exhibiting the comparatively somber quilts made by Amish women and offering them for sale at 160 to 485 pounds ($288 to $875). One of the most expensive sold within minutes.

In addition, a recently published book gives new respectability to early American quilts by comparing their designs with "avant garde" 20th century abstract art. Jean Lipman's "Provocative Parallels" finds remarkable similarities between quilt designs and paintings by artists like Victor Vasarely and Bridget Riley.

The Commonwealth Institute exhibition, which runs through Sept. 2, stresses quilt patterns which are echoed on both sides of the Atlantic.

Quilts were around for centuries, Mrs. Betterton's catalogue says, before "the women of North America developed them, in ways which had never been known before, into a unique art form."

But in doing so, the earliest American needlewomen used fabric made in England and produced quilts much like English ones of the time.

"Even after the War of Independence," Mrs. Betterton wrote, "England was the source of taste and design for well-to-do Americans," and this went for quilts.

American conditions, however, prompted innovations.

American women invented the technique of making quilts in individual "blocks" or squares — faster, easier and more economical than making a coverlet in one piece — because the high cost of textiles dictated the use of small scraps.

Patterns were borrowed from England, but also moved across the ocean the other way. Similar designs in British and American quilts hang side by side in the show.

"One of the fascinating things about quilts is that every one seems to have a story connected to it," Mrs. Betterton said. "I've included some of these stories in the catalogue."

"That fan quilt, for instance, has a rather poignant tale," she pointed to a black satin quilt appliqued with brilliant silks, brocades and satins in fan patterns.

"See the initials in the corner

— R.B.W. Rachel Boone Wintersteen made this quilt in 1900 for her hope chest," Mrs. Betterton said. "She was a Quaker, and wanted to marry a man of another religion."

"This was not allowed, and Rachel never married. So this quilt stayed in her hope chest and has never been used."

Sheila Betterton is the textile expert at the American Museum in Britain, a wide-ranging collection of Americana founded 15 years ago near Bath, 110 miles west of London. Its quilt collection is one of the best, and much of it is in this show.

Its quilts begin before the American Revolution and go up to two "friendship" quilts hot off the quilting frame, both made in the American Museum itself.

One is a professional design using floral emblems of the original 13 states, plus those of Britain. The other is even more in the "friendship" tradition, with individual blocks made by different persons to be joined into a commemorative quilt.

Women in the United States contributed some of this quilt's 56 blocks, choosing specifically American themes — a U.S. mail box, Indiana's flowers, New England pine trees.

The American Museum's guides made the rest. Usually the guides depicted a favorite item of Americana from the museum room they describe to visitors.

The result is everything which this exhibition shows that a good quilt should be — bright, skilful, colorful, sewn with affection and memories, and above all beautiful.

PTA President Tells Of Plan For Parents

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK UPI Education Editor

If Carol Kimmel has her way, Moms and Dads will do a lot more than attend back-to-school night during the new academic year.

According to an action plan described by the president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers parents will:

— Get involved in collective bargaining when teacher contracts come up for renewal.

— Help fight shows featuring violence on television.

— Attend school board meetings and make themselves heard on the issues.

— Push for compulsory courses in "parenting education" to make tomorrow's families stronger.

"Adequate funding for education has always been a PTA priority — to provide equal educational opportunities for all children," she said.

"In these times of economic squeeze, schools are caught in the reduction of state and federal funding for education, and the difficulties in passing local school referenda."

To make education for parenthood and family life a compulsory subject in the public school curriculum, the PTA has been conducting a series of parenting conferences throughout the country.

These meetings, in cooperation with the National Foundation-March of Dimes, the birth-defect agency, make parents and educators aware of the need for adequate preparation for parenting.

"With some 250,000 babies born to girls 17 and under in a single year (1974), the problem of high-risk infants becomes an awesome reality," Mrs. Kimmel said.

Research shows with such babies there is a higher chance of birth defects, due to the mother's poor nutrition; higher chance of being raised in a single-parent home; and greater likelihood of child abuse and inadequate emotional support of the child.

Authorities say all this can lead to serious behavioral problems later in life.

On involvement of parents in the collective bargaining process, Mrs. Kimmel made the following points:

"At the present, parents have little or no input into this process, although they are the very individuals affected by the outcome, through the expenditure of their tax dollars for education and the quality of education which their children receive.

"As the number of teachers' strikes increases — (203 were called last year by both the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers) — parents feel powerless to cope with the disruption created."

"They believe they have a right to expect a competent teacher in charge of the classroom and a good educational program in which the child can grow and learn."

"However, the facts indicate otherwise, for parents feel shut out of the vital decisions which affect their children's education, with teacher negotiations being one of the primary areas of concern."

Reports Given To Auxiliary

Several reports were given at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary. A covered-dish dinner was served and members of the Post No. 39 Executive Board were guests.

The poppy program was discussed. Mrs. Sarah Ashton and Mrs. Lois Dail reported on the convention they attended in Raleigh. The also attended the Department Executive Board meeting and reception for the department president in King's Mountain.

Mrs. Dail, First Division president, announced that the First Division meeting will be held in Washington at Post No. 15 Home Oct. 16 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Ashton recognized the guests of Post No. 39, Mrs. Estelle Tucker and Miss Mary Ruth Fleming.

The dinner committee included Mrs. Mamie Roper, Mrs. Rosa Whitehurst, Mrs. Martha Forrest, Mrs. Hazel Jackson and Mrs. Audrey Andrews.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m. The Girls State representatives will give a report on Girls State which they attended held at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

U.S. 264 Plans Just Sit There

It's difficult to determine just what is going on in highway planning in Raleigh.

Back in March Tom Taft, president of the U.S. 264 Highway Association, said a study of the U.S. 64-264 limited access highway route had been let to a Raleigh consulting firm and he would welcome the opportunity to sit down with the firm representatives and DOT representatives to present some facts.

The next day a Department of Transportation official said the contract to the Raleigh Firm had not been let and, instead, an out-of-state firm from Memphis, Tenn. was being considered.

Secretary of Transportation Jacob F. Alexander wanted an out-of-state firm to conduct the study "to eliminate any possible pre-conceived notions," the official said.

Later, on July 1, Alexander — then a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket — on a visit to Greenville said. "When I discovered that consultation was not being done by an out-of-state firm, I told them to stop. No contract was signed."

All that is fine, but from what we could surmise about highway planning the U.S. 264 work may have been changed drastically by the present Republican administration.

It was generally understood for several years that the Zebulon bypass would be completed as a limited access route, a U.S. 264 connector would be constructed and a new U.S. 264 limited access route would be constructed to I-95 at Wilson.

From there we heard unofficially that a new U.S. 264 corridor was being planned from Wilson to Greenville. Then the plans were to move U.S. 264 to the Pactolus highway and dual lane that road, non limited access, to Washington.

Enough of this has happened to make us believe that was the plan at one time.

The Zebulon bypass and the U.S. 264 connector have been built. Contracts were let for a new limited access corridor to I-95 but mysteriously only one lane is being constructed in that corridor. We assume there are no plans now for a U.S. 264 limited access corridor from Wilson to Greenville.

U.S. 264 was moved to the Pactolus highway and the road was dual laned for several miles east from Greenville. There it stops, with no immediate plans that we know of to extend it on.

The only answer that seems to be forthcoming as to why the U.S. 264 plans were not carried out is that it is "too expensive." That is an answer that is all too familiar to easterners when anything is proposed south east.

There is no doubt that U.S. 264—with several major cities along its way—should be upgraded to a limited access highway. There is much evidence that this was planned at one time. The thousands of taxpayers along the U.S. 264 route should demand that this work be carried out.

Find The Drug-Prone Early

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — In dealing with people on drugs, most of the attention to date has been focused on law enforcement and rehabilitation.

Some effort has been directed toward secondary prevention — known as intervention — in which anti-drug people try to catch a case early and effect a cure.

Little is known about primary prevention. But that is the area in which North Carolina could do some important work, Dr. Jonnie McLeod thinks.

The Charlotte pediatrician and associate professor in human development at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte is looking at some ways to encourage development of human capabilities which protect an individual from drug-prone disorders and disabilities.

Early Signs

In short — what are the signals which raise a red flag about a possible future drug abuser, and what can be done to help that person keep from going that way?

Dr. McLeod, chairman of the state Drug Commission which draws up the overall policies and channels state and federal funds into local community action programs, says she never thought she would enjoy burying her head in computer printouts — but has learned to love it.

That is what she has been doing with the voluminous studies of 30,000 Mecklenburg school children carried out by the Institute of Government in an effort to pinpoint drug-prone children, and to suggest ways to treat such individuals.

Dr. McLeod thinks the answer may be in a humanistic (or, life skills) program in the schools — focused on moving the individual out of categories that are high-risk for drug abuse.

Other attempts to move such a person off track have failed:

"The scare tactics didn't work — the ex-addict who comes in tells all about how he shot up and how bad it was, then drives off in a pink Cadillac," says Dr. McLeod.

Neither has the "information" approach worked — the providing of data on the premise that the drug-prone would make good decisions on the basis of that information proved counterproductive.

The need, then, is to pull into group sessions of various sorts the drug-prone and through individually-tailored approaches provide improvements in attitude and behavior — not just drug-related, but overall.

Charlotte Test

The approach was tested in Charlotte. Here, the conclusions:

- Groups attempting to change a student's attachment to school did well;
- Groups most successful used group-generated projects, had a humanistic orientation which focused on improving interpersonal relationships and self-awareness;
- Least success came in groups specifically drug-oriented with a lot of time spent talking about drug usage and abuse; not using techniques of group-generated projects.

Successful group efforts to improve school attachment showed less absenteeism, students raising grades and passing more subjects, and fewer failure of subjects among participants.

How do you spot the drug-prone? Studies indicated that such youngsters have a poor self-image, have poor parent-child communication (or communications with all adults for that matter), lacks an attachment to school, suffers boredom, shows rebellion, and lacks a sense of humor.

Dr. McLeod is pushing for funding through the State Board of Education for local coordinators in the public schools to help implement programs to spot the potential drug abuser and get him or her into those types of group sessions which are proving successful in warding off trouble ahead.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Schweiker Hasn't Helped

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—Ronald Reagan's selection of Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania as a prospective running mate has neither hurt nor helped him in terms of support among Republican and independent voters nationwide.

Reagan continues to trail the President among both groups of voters and by about the same margins as recorded in a late July survey conducted prior to Reagan's surprise choice of Schweiker, a liberal Republican. The current survey, based on interviewing completed Monday, shows Ford leading Reagan 57 to 37 per cent among Republicans and 48 per cent to 39 per cent among independents.

The July survey showed Ford leading 58 to 36 per cent among Republicans and 50 to 41 per cent among independents.

Reagan has been unable to overtake the President among Republicans and among independents, as determined by surveys going back to February. The closest race Reagan has given Ford this year among GOP voters was in late February when he trailed the President 41 to 51 per cent. In terms of the support of independents, Reagan's closest run was in mid-June when he trailed 38 to 46 per cent.

This question was asked to determine the relative support for the two contenders:

"Suppose the choice for President in the Republican convention this year narrows down to Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan. Which one would you prefer to have the Republican convention select?"

Here are the latest results and the trend among Republicans nationwide:

Ford vs. Reagan (Choices of Independents)

Strength For Today

A NEW SENSE OF DIRECTION

An inventor recently designed a compass which can be used by the blind through a sense of touch.

In religious discussions we often hear people referred to as being blind and lost. What does this mean? It means primarily that they have lost their sense of direction. They stand in the midst of a universe dominated by moral law. But having no compass, these people do not know which way to turn.

Too often we think that being spiritually lost has only the limited, specific meaning of going to hell. But it means also experiencing hell in this world as well because of that sense of uncertainty, frustration, and lack of self-control which comes to those who have not made final decisions with reference to the demands of moral principles.

It is only when people get their sense of direction again—as they do from the Word of God and prayer—that they may proceed on the journey of life with contentment and enthusiasm.

Medical Advice Is Free

WASHINGTON—If you ask Americans what bugs them the most besides death and taxes, they will usually answer, "the high cost of medical care." It has become the major domestic issue in the country, and almost everyone you talk to is furious about it.

I say almost because my friend Hopewell claims he has solved the problem. "The reason people are paying so

Prison Argot Cynical

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — He's in the big house for all day and night, a new fish jammed into a drum with a cribman who's acting like a kazoonie. It's gonna be a long, long time before he beats the bricks back to his main lady.

If those words sound strange to you, it's probably because you've never been in jail.

According to a new dictionary of prison argot, this is the translation:

He's in the federal penitentiary for a life sentence, a new prisoner jammed into a cell with a safecracker who's acting like a passive homosexual. It's going to be a long, long time before he gets out of prison on parole to go back to his wife.

The slang terms commonly used in prisons "trace fear and frustration, cynicism and desperation," wrote John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, editors of the "Dictionary of Desperation."

Both are officials of the National Alliance of Businessmen, which has published the volume as part of a program to teach employers about problems of inmates and encourage firms to hire ex-convicts.

They said writing the volume was "an attempt to find out more about the men, women and children behind bars in this country in an effort to get a picture of what they are thinking and feeling as revealed by the words they choose and invent in their restricted lives."

Sources for the slang terms were inmates in prisons, prison volunteer workers, social workers and journalists, they said.

Like the dialect of any society or region or social class, the argot of the prison changes with the times, the editors found.

The jail used to be the "cooler" or the "jug"; now it's the "slammer." One's house or apartment still is called a "pad," but the newer term is a "crib."

40 Years Ago Today

August 13, 1936

Collapse of the fascist revolt against Madrid's communist-Socialist regime within a few hours was forecast today by the Spanish government.

Advances against the rebels, who have fought for almost four weeks to establish a dictatorial government in Spain, and repulse of rebel offensives on various fronts were pictured in official quarters as heralding the end of the war.

But in a surprise attack on San Sebastian, fascist rebels scored direct hits on several important points and the cruiser Almirante Cervera lay off shore prepared to throw shells into the beleaguered town.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, prominent in local political circles for the past decade, today verified rumors that she had the support of gubernatorial nominee Clyde R. Hoey for the vice-chairmanship of the state Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee will meet in Raleigh tomorrow night to name its officers and map plans for the fall election campaign.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

In this day and time of people complaining of agency's wrong doing and lack of interest, I would like to say something nice about the Department of Human Resources of North Carolina. These people are some of the best people I have ever had contact with. This letter is a way of showing someone appreciates the work of this agency. Sometimes people get in too big a hurry and wrapped up to say thank you. This agency took a 40-year-old man and pointed and helped him and gave him a goal and future when no one else would. I can say because before this I was going nowhere.

The time and extra efforts of Pat Parker, Pitt Technical Institute and their fine teachers, Mrs. Fran Churchill, Services for the Blind, were above the call of duty sometimes for this person and others. There were more people in this department that helped, but I can't mention them all. I can just say thank you.

The only thing I can say to these people complaining about the way things are run is: STOP, take time and speak and act as if you care and people in state or other agencies will respond positive. (That goes for all people, agencies or not.) These people are your friends and will help you if given half the chance.

I don't know about the rest of the public but this ole boy can say thank you and I appreciate the time, money, and concern.

To the editor:

This is the first response I've made to any paper regarding statements by Lillian Woo, but her quoted comments are so inaccurate and untrue I felt compelled to answer.

The State Auditor's office began raising serious question on the Medicaid (HAS) contract when it was being negotiated in 1974. The legality of this unprecedented action was questioned by us. The Attorney General agreed with us that it was illegal under the then-existing law. Enabling legislation was introduced. During the committee hearing of this bill, we warned the General Assembly of the inherent dangers of such a contract. Even so, legislation permitting DHR to sign the contract was passed. Even after passage we requested Rep. John Gamble of Lincoln County to introduce an amendment to require the Advisory Budget Commission to approve the final contract. This provision made all conditions and terms of the contract subject to the scrutiny of key legislators as well as the executive branch.

Since the contract was signed we have cooperated with GAO auditors and DHR's internal auditors assigned to the project to the fullest extent possible. In addition, our auditors are in the process of reviewing Medicaid transactions at HAS and DHR in connection with the Social Services audit.

So, instead of sharing the blame as stated by one of my opponents in the August 5th issue of the Daily Reflector, the facts reflect my opposition, my warnings, and my diligence in the entire matter. In fact, the reported statements are completely absurd.

Politics Remain In U.S. Mails

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate developer who serves as a campaign fundraiser for President Ford is being handed a "plum" job on the Postal Service board of governors, five years after politics was supposed to have been eliminated from the Postal Service.

Hung Wai Ching, finance chairman for Ford's campaign in Hawaii, is being named to the board, at least partly because of his efforts on behalf of the Republican party, according to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who recommended him for the postal job.

The post could pay Ching, a Honolulu developer, up to $13,600 a year for attending 12 meetings. Ching was confirmed by the Senate without debate last week.

Fong, asked about his part in the Ching appointment by Ford, said, "I did recommend him. That's politics. I have known him since high school and I know him to be a man of integrity."

Fong, who five years ago was one of the supporters of a bill designed to remove the Postal Service from the influence of politics, was asked if politics had anything to do with the selection of Ching as a member of the board of governors.

"Oh, yes," Fong replied. "He's worked very hard for the party. That was one of the things I thought of, along with his other activities."

Fong, in urging Senate approval of the bill to reorganize the Postal Service in 1971, vowed in an Aug. 30, 1970, Senate speech that "this bill will eliminate politics from the Post Office Department as we have seen it operate."

Since then, Fong, the ranking Republican on the Senate postal committee, has acknowledged selecting White House nominees to the board and to the Postal Rate Commission.

Fong, in a January speech, boasted of "recommending and helping place qualified people from Hawaii in high government posts."

He included in this group Dr. John Y. Ing, a Honolulu dentist and real estate developer who served two stints as a Postal Service governor. Ing failed to attend 17 of the 20 board meetings during his tenure, board records show. The meetings he did attend totaled 14 hours and 15 minutes, for which he was paid $17,066, records show.

Ching replaces Ing on the board.

One of the stated goals of the postal reorganization of 1971 was to remove politics from the mail service. Previously, members of Congress controlled appointments of postmasters in their districts and the job of postmaster general frequently was a reward that went to the president's campaign manager.

The Postal Reorganization Act also established the board of governors. The governors meet once a month. They are paid $10,000 per year, plus $300 for every monthly meeting attended.

Insurance Office Sees Contest

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A young college professor who has made a career of teaching insurance courses is mounting a determined campaign in his effort to unseat John Ingram as state insurance commissioner. And because Joe E. Johnson of Greensboro has the backing of some insurance agents, Ingram is trying to tag him as the handpicked candidate of the insurance industry. "The real issue in this campaign is whether the people of North Carolina or the insurance industry will control the commission of insurance," Ingram said in a recent statement. Ingram described Johnson as a "rubber stamp candidate who received a $300 monthly salary from the insurance industry in addition to his paycheck as a professor."

This was a reference to the fact that until he took a leave of absence recently, Johnson received a salary as president of the North Carolina Insurance Education Foundation. He described the foundation as a non-profit organization "supported by all facts of the insurance industry."

Although he admits to some ties to the insurance industry, Johnson says, "I'm nobody's candidate but my own." He says that as insurance commissioner he would listen to the industry position, but would make decisions "based on facts and through the use of a trained staff."

When a newsman asked him about letters some insurance agents have written soliciting contributions to his campaign, Johnson said, "I am happy to have the support of the insurance agents of North Carolina as well as the support of the other citizens of the state. These are knowledgeable people on insurance matters, and their support leads credibility to my candidacy."

Explaining his entry into the race, Johnson said there was a "need for somebody who is qualified from the technical standpoint."

It comes as no surprise that people in the insurance industry are backing Johnson. Ingram's career as insurance commissioner has been marked by endless wrangling with the industry. It has appealed every important decision Ingram has made to the courts, and in virtually every case the courts have ruled against him.

The 34-year-old Johnson has taken a leave of absence from his post as head of the Department of Business Administration at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. Teaching insurance courses was his specialty. He cites this background of insurance knowledge in his campaign.

The Johnson campaign appears to be well-financed. He has opened a state headquarters in Greensboro and has steering committees working for him in Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem. His billboards have appeared over the state.

"I think the prime issue in the campaign is the record of the incumbent, the fact his administration has been a failure," Johnson said. "After four years we still have age discrimination in auto insurance ... He has consistently failed to hear and approve rate decrease requests. As indicated by the court of appeals, he has consistently exceeded his statutory authority."

Ingram says he made two promises to the people when he campaigned for insurance commissioner in 1972 — to abolish the assigned risk plan under which many motorists had to obtain their auto liability insurance and to abolish age and sex discrimination in automobile insurance.

"Laws have been written on the books fulfilling those two promises," Ingram said. "Even after the General Assembly changed the law and I approved the only plan ever to abolish age and sex discrimination, the insurance rate office delayed the plan by court appeal."

Johnson pointed out that the insurance industry's rate administrative office filed a plan last year that "did comply with the law and would have eliminated unfair discrimination."

But, he said, Ingram rejected the industry plan and "ordered his own pet plan into effect. It's a simple case of following his own passions rather than seeking a workable solution."

The other candidate for the democratic nomination for insurance commissioner is Jerry L. Waters of Lenoir, a vocational education teacher and former insurance agent. Waters points to this background as qualification for the post.

He says he would solve the problem of rate discrimination against young drivers in liability insurance by proposing a plan under which young drivers who maintained a record of no accidents or traffic violations for three years would receive a refund on their insurance premiums.

George Little, the incumbent Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, has no opposition for the Republican nomination.

Grifton Allows Building's Use

GRIFTON — The Grifton Town Board voted to allow the Winterville-Ayden-Grifton Child Development Center to locate its office in the old school building that the school now owns on Creek Shore Road at its meeting Tuesday night.

The center serves moderately mentally retarded preschoolers, and is a part of the Pitt County Mental Health Center. The center will be charged a rental fee for the office.

The board voted that the property owners of property on the south side of the creek could receive sewer service if they would pay all back taxes, interest and penalty and tapping of waterlines.

The board voted to provide garbage pick-up service in the Grifton Golf and Country Club area for $8 per pick-up monthly. Steve Rogers was appointed as a delegate to the Mid-East Regional Development Commission and Linwood Outlaw was appointed an alternate to the commission.

The board voted to continue the second-year funding of the Crime Prevention Program. The Town of Grifton will pay 30 percent or $3,500 of the cost which is $14,000.

In other business the board voted to buy an advertisement in the Ayden-Grifton football program and reports were presented by Ralph Thaxton, building inspector, Gene Coley, utilities superintendent; and the police department.

Youth Died After Rescue

ELKIN, N.C. (AP) — A 16-year-old youth who had been rescued from a river by a state highway patrolman Thursday died this morning.

He was Jeffrey Price of Rt. 3, Elkin.

He died in Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Trooper M.J. Williams was on his way to a wreck near Copeland in Surry County when two youths flagged him down. They told him that their brother had jumped into the Mitchell River for a swim, and had not resurfaced.

Williams ran down a hill. He shed his gun, shirt and billfold, jumped into the river, found the Price boy, and brought him to shore.

He gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage. When the boy came around, he was taken to Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital in Elkin, and then to Baptist Hospital.

He had a gash on his head, which may have contributed to his death.

A high proportion of the slang words reflect the prisoners' familiarity and involvement with drug use and trafficking.

In the outside world, drunk means intoxicated. In prison, it means high on drugs. The dozens of words for specific drugs include some commonly used on the street. For example, "smack" means heroin, "angel dust" or "rocket fuel" means phencyclidine, an anesthetic for animals that produces a "high" in humans.

The cynicism comes through in the terms inmates use to describe their surroundings and ways to get out of them.

The "Waldorf Astoria," name of the luxury hotel in New York, is a term applied to a solitary confinement cell with no furnishings at all.

The inmate who regularly goes to chapel and pretends other signs of reform is said to be "working the glory road."

Dozens of terms for homosexuality reflect the episodes that occur frequently when large communities of men or women are permitted no physical contact with the opposite sex.

An aggressive homosexual male is a "jocker," a passive one may be a "kazoonie" or a "girl." An effeminate homosexual male may be called a "gal boy." In a curious derivation, French toast is considered "gal boy bread" in some regions.

"You've got a Johns Hopkins Medical School right in your own family," I told Hopewell.

"Every family does. The trick is when you go to the doctor ask a lot of questions, and then file away the information so you can help all your relatives. You can't imagine how much money you can save in medical bills. I have a brother who goes to a psychiatrist once a week. A month ago I called him up and told him about a dream I had in which I was stuck in a cave and taxis kept going by, but not one would stop for me.

He told the shrink the dream as if it was his own, and then called me up the following day and said, 'You forgot to pay your telephone bill.' I saved $40 on one lousy dream. With a family like mine, who needs Medicare?"

Two Bodies Wait For Indentifying

SUMTER, S.C. (AP)—They were both young — late teens to early 20s.

Both were slender. He was about six feet tall and weighed between 150 and 160 pounds and she was about 5-5 and weighed about 100 pounds.

He had shoulder-length brown hair and brown eyes and she had medium length brown hair and bluish-grey eyes.

He was wearing faded blue jeans, a red T-shirt with "Coors" on the front and "Camel GT Challenge Sebring '75" on the back, and a pair of brown strap sandals. She wore cut-off blue jeans, a pink halter top, a white blouse, and a pair of wedge sandals with hot pink and purple straps.

He had an appendectomy scar, but she had no scars on her body.

He wore a Bulova Accutron watch with a brown Twist-O-Flex band and a 14-carat gold ring with a gray linde star stone, a worn florentine finish and the initials J.P.F. engraved on the inside.

She was wearing three rings, all sterling silver, believed to be either Mexican or Indian costume jewelry. One ring was jade with a black setting, one was a feather ring with a jade insert, and the third had a red, white and blue setting.

Their bodies were found Monday morning by a man on his way to work.

That much is known.

What is unknown is who the two young people were and how they ended up dead of multiple gunshot wounds beside a dirt road in the eastern end of Sumter County.

Investigators know how they died — they were both shot several times.

Where they died is also known — on a dirt road known as Locklair Road, between I-95 and S.C. 341, about 25 miles east of Sumter.

But until identification of the two bodies is made, the search for their killers has been stalled.

Investigators have been fielding telephone calls from people as far west as Texas and as far north as Rhode Island — people who want to know if they might know the two victims, but hoping that the people they are missing weren't the ones who were found dead.

An all-points bulletin containing the descriptions of both victims has been sent nationwide, to every police and sheriff's department with teletype machines.

Fingerprints have been sent to the FBI in Washington in the hope that they might have records in their files that would identify the victims.

Dental charts on both persons have been made.

Investigators are asking that anyone who knows of anyone fitting the description of the victims or anyone having any information about the case call the Sumter County Sheriff's Dept. at 803-775-1133.

Permanent Prexy Named

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Dr. Merrimon Cuninggim, interim president of Salem Academy and College, has been named permanent president of the schools.

The move by the school's board of trustees Thursday was unexpected since Cuninggim earlier had eliminated himself from consideration, citing his age, 65.

Earlier in the summer, Cuninggim had said he hoped the school would have a permanent president by the end of the summer, not expecting to get the job himself.

"The only clothes I have here are summer clothes, and as a St. Louis resident, I just made my annual contribution to the United Way in St. Louis," said Cuninggim. "So, yes, it was a bit of a surprise."

Cuninggim, who assumed his interim duties June 1, was given a three-year contract, which includes options for one-year renewals until he reaches Salem's mandatory retirement age of 70.

He succeeds Dr. John H. Chandler, who resigned earlier this year to become president of Scripps College in California.

Gov. Brown To Support Carter Despite Difference

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — California Gov. Jerry Brown says Jimmy Carter is the only person who can give the nation leadership and he will support him despite a major difference over the direction the country is headed.

Brown sidestepped when reporters questioned whether he might challenge Carter for the presidency in 1980 if Carter wins the White House this fall.

He said he feels Carter still has real but surmountable problems among Catholics, ethnic groups and large segments of the population in the northeastern United States.

"I want to assure him of my help and all the energy I have in making sure that he wins in November and gets a good start in January," Brown said.

Brown flew to Plains Thursday afternoon to be Carter's overnight house guest and the two were to answer questions at a news conference early today.

Carter spent a busy day Thursday as he and running mate Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., were briefed more than four hours by CIA Director George Bush, talked political issues and strategies with Gov. Brown and heard a small delegation of Italian Americans demand a stronger voice in government for the 25 million Americans of Italian descent.

Bush's briefing came as Carter staff members circulated a memo listing Bush as one of several top federal officials who allegedly got their jobs as rewards for carrying the GOP banner in losing political contests.

Bush, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, was an unsuccessful Senate candidate in Texas before being appointed ambassador to the United Nations, chief U.S. envoy to the People's Republic of China, and head of the CIA.

As he waited for his Army helicopter to return him to nearby Ft. Benning for his trip back to Washington, Bush said his CIA team of experts had conducted a thoroughly professional briefing and that neither he nor they were affected by the Carter staff memo.

Earlier Thursday Carter said he is eager to debate whomever the Republicans nominate if the details can be worked out.

He said that holds true even if the GOP candidate is former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, whom Carter said might have a head start in any debate because he is "a former movie actor who is a master of television media."

At his airport news conference, Brown said he had suggested to Carter that he visit Plains on his current three-day swing through the East in support of Democratic congressional candidates.

"Since I intend to play a very strong role in the campaign, of course I want to get a little bit better acquainted with him so as I go throughout the state and anywhere else that I may be between now and November I will be able to make a very strong and convincing case for his election," Brown said.

When asked about the continuing differences between himself and Carter, Brown implied that Carter believes the nation will be able to maintain its energy and resource base at its current rate of economic growth, while Brown holds the view that continued expansion is not probable.

"I tend to incline to the view that we do not have the resources to continue the rate of economic growth that we have known in the past and that's traditional in politics and because of that I believe there will be really profound changes in this country between now and the end of the century," Brown said.

He said "other people" are more optimistic that science and technology can keep the economic growth rate moving ahead.

When asked specifically if he would run against Carter four years from now if the former Georgia governor wins the presidency in November, Brown replied, "I'm not even sure I'm going to run for re-election."

"I may just return to the monastery to try and figure out what all this business is all about," he said.

Bike Rider Is Hurt In Traffic Mishaps

One bicycle rider was injured and a total of $1,735 in damages resulted from four city traffic accidents yesterday and today, according to Greenville Police Dept. records.

Jerry Lewis Daniels, 519 Vance St., was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday morning by Rescue Squad personnel after the bicycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a car driven by Davey Fleming Harper, 401 Forest Hills Circle. The accident on Hooker Rd., 253 feet north of Arlington Dr. did $10 damage to the auto and $50 to the bicycle.

A stolen car, driver unknown, was found early this morning on Old River Rd., 250 feet south of Airport Rd. The vehicle, owned by Audrey Obriant and Judy Faye Nelson, had sustained $1200 in damages.

Vehicles operated by Jewell

Lee Melton of Woodruff, S.C., and Denise Carrow Rouse, Rt. 5, Greenville, were involved in a rear-end collision yesterday afternoon on N. Greene St., 200 feet south of Church St. Damages were $50 to the Melton auto and $200 to the Rouse car.

The intersection of Howell St. and S. Pitt St. was the scene of an accident yesterday afternoon involving vehicles driven by Burnice Lee Oneal, 1903 Norcott Circle, and Harold Richard Stroth, 210 W. First St. Damages were $200 to the Oneal car and $25 to the Stroth vehicle.

GAVEL-MAKER — Kansas State Rep. Earl D. Ward works in his home workshop in Kansas City with gavels that will be presented at the Republican National Convention. Wood for the gavels came from his childhood home near Emporia, Kansas, and will be used as the official gavel of the convention which opens Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

Hearing Set On Palmist

HICKORY (AP) — Mrs. Paula Rochel Miller, 25, a palmist, has been charged with obtaining $500 by false pretense from a woman who wanted a spell removed.

Mrs. Virginia Tracy told Catawba County Sheriff's Dept. detectives that she was ordered by Mrs. Miller to bury $500 in a cemetery to remove the spell cast on her by three persons.

"She never told us what kind of spell was cast on her," said detective M.J. Dellinger. "But her husband was killed in a truck accident and she had a substantial amount of money."

Mrs. Tracy, of Glen Alpine, told detectives her children encouraged her to stop by a sign reading "Palm Reader" and she said her first encounter with Mrs. Miller led to several other episodes.

She said procedures to remove the spell involved buying nine church candles at $5 each, paying for two men's suit on which a deposit had been given, and wrapping two $20 bills around an egg and writing a name on either the egg or the money.

Detectives quoted Mrs. Tracy as saying that finally she was told to bring $500 to a cemetery or to Mrs. Miller. Allegedly, the money was wrapped in a paper towel, rubbed over Mrs. Tracy's body and then burned.

Mrs. Miller is scheduled for a preliminary hearing on Aug. 25.

How's The Weather? Buckley Weighs Serious Race

WEATHER FORECAST — Cooler weather is due today for the Pacific coast and from the upper Great Lakes to the Dakotas. Seasonably warm temperatures are forecast for the rest of the country. Showers are expected on the Gulf coast and in Florida; the Great Lakes and Northeast, and portions of the central Plains and Midwest. Rain is forecast for the north Pacific coast. (AP Wirephoto)

By The Associated Press

Last weekend's Hurricane Belle was not all bad. She improved salt water fishing in North Carolina, as do most major coastal storms.

One theory is that wind-tossed waves re-oxygenate the water, triggering off the feeding instinct in fish. Another is that the rolling seas stir up the bottom, breaking loose or uncovering food sources.

Rainfall at Raleigh-Durham Airport in April through July was only 8.52 inches, the least in 40 years for those four months. The previous low was 10.99 inches for April-July in 1936.

It was more humid in North Carolina today than Thursday. Highs today were in the low 90s, except for the 80s in the mountains and on the Outer Banks. Scattered showers were too light to do much good.

High pressure that has been dominating for the last few days will be weakening somewhat. And a cold front from the upper Midwest will be nearing the state around the middle of the weekend.

Surface winds have become more southerly, therefore the increased humidity. This increase in moisture, combining with the approaching frontal system, produced more cloudiness and the scattered thunder-showers.

There was a lot of sunshine Thursday. Temperatures reached 90 or into the low 90s in many areas. Raleigh, Durham, Rocky Mount and Wilson hit 92. Charlotte, Fayetteville, Greensboro and Hickory reached 91.

Mrs. Ingram On Campaign Visit

Gini Ingram, wife of incumbent Commissioner of Insurance John Ingram, campaigned in eastern North Carolina yesterday for her husband, saying "The people know John has worked hard for them the past four years."

"When he campaigned for this position, he told them he was a people's candidate," she said.

"I think his record speaks for itself."

"He has abolished assigned risk and age and sex discrimination in liability insurance."

"The only reason people under 25 have not received the benefit

GININGRAM

"We're just trying to spread his materials to voters to help us to bring victory for our special candidate," she said.

"We've always campaigned as a family. We didn't enter into the race for this post four years ago until we had a round-table discussion."

"If you believe in what your candidate has worked for so strongly, it is no problem to hit the road every day."

Promotion For Mrs. Harrell

Mrs. Norma S. Harrell of Greenville has been promoted to the position of Associate Attorney for the Agency Services Section of Attorney General Rufus Edmisten's Office.

Mrs. Harrell has served on the staff of Attorney General since January 1975. For over a year she directed the staff of the Administrative Procedures Section of the Attorney General's Office. In February 1976 she was transferred to the Anti-trust Section. Recently she was selected to work in the Agency Services Section of the Attorney General's Office.

Rate Cuts

RALEIGH (AP)—Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has approved insurance rate reductions requested by 52 companies in North Carolina.

The reductions—which will vary from 5 to 30 per cent—will go into effect next month.

Ingram approved the reductions this week. They will allow companies to charge lower than standard rates for fire, crop hail, homeowners, farmowners, automobile collision acbm-comprehensive and commercial property coverage insurance.

Ingram said Thursday there was nothing "political" about the timing of the rate reduction announcement since the new rates will go into effect in September.

The commissioner is up for reelection in the Aug. 17 primary. He is being challenged for the Democratic nomination by Joe Johnson of Greensboro.

PARTY ON THURSDAY

The Elm Street Senior Citizens' Club will hold its annual Birthday Party Thursday at 5 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Harriet Roseveare, president. Members should take a birthday gift to exchange.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley said today that if he enters the Republican presidential race it will be as a serious candidate and not merely as a symbol of conservatives' dissatisfaction with the two major candidates.

There also have been suggestions that a Buckley candidacy might be aimed at preventing President Ford from winning a first-ballot victory, thereby giving Ronald Reagan a chance to take the nomination on later ballot.

But Buckley said today, "If I allow my name to be put in, it would be a candidacy, pure and simple."

But he continued to insist that he has done nothing to encourage any movement to make him a possibly deadlock-busting candidate at the GOP National Convention which begins Monday in Kansas City.

Buckley, on the NBC "Today" show, said he had "zero commitment" to go any further to advocate his own candidacy, and added, "I have done nothing to promote this, to search out support or anything like that."

Outside of Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, who has mentioned Buckley as a possible third candidate, Buckley continued to keep in confidence those Republicans in both the Ronald Reagan and President Ford camps he said urged him "not to slam the door" on a possible candidacy.

Meanwhile, Rep. Peter Peyser, his Republican primary opponent in the New York State senate race, saw the Buckley candidacy move as "a very deliberate attempt to split and destroy the Republican party" by the Conservative party, which first nominated Buckley for election to the Senate six years ago.

"The Conservative party has taken the same action in New York State that is very effective and is now moving on the national scene," Peyser insisted.

Buckley, a strict conservative, is the first New York State Republican in the last 15 years to be mentioned as a presidential possibility whose name is not Nelson A. Rockefeller.

And top officials of the state GOP, still largely controlled by the former four-term governor and now vice president and which supports Ford's presidential bid, were busy Thursday trying to pressure Buckley into killing any further presidential speculation.

Veiled threats came from party chairman Richard Rosenbaum, a Rockefeller appointee, state Atty. General Louis J. Lefkowitz and others.

Rosenbaum and Lefkowitz

both warned Buckley that a presidential move could cost him party support in his Senate re-election race.

Democratic and Republican opponents.

This year, however, the state GOP endorsed Buckley's re-election bid — and got Conservative party endorsements for crucial legislative races in return.

None of the party leaders seemed to take Buckley's move seriously. But they disliked the "upsetting" nature of it and the possibility that enough delegates might vote for Buckley on the first ballot to force a second where Ronald Reagan's chances against President Ford might be stronger.

Buckley said Thursday that he would not comment on the remarks by Republican leaders. "I am not a spoiler," he said.

Buckley supporters countered by pointing to the tremendous publicity he is getting from the presidential speculation. These conservative backers, who admit to thinking in national terms for 1980 if their man gets re-elected this fall and the national GOP ticket is disgraced, think Buckley already has all he needs from the state Republican leadership.

Several days of national television exposure are worth more to them than the grudging support of Rockefeller appointees, whose influence is on the wane anyway, they said.

Buckley, running as a Conservative party candidate, won his seat in 1970, benefiting greatly from a three-way race in which he was pitted against

Charge Women With Arson In Jail Fire

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Durham county officials have charged three women with first degree arson in connection with a Wednesday night jail fire.

Durham County Dist. Atty. Anthony Brannon said the women could be sentenced to life imprisonment if convicted.

The fire was set, jail officials said, by lighting mattresses stuffed in the bathtub of the cell occupied by the three women.

Authorities said the cell was damaged by smoke and water and reported that five inmates suffered smoke inhalation—none seriously.

Brannon identified the charged inmates as 16-year-old Margaret Jackson, her 19-year-old sister Kathryn and 19-year-old Wanda Abrams. The Jackson sisters were in jail on theft charges and Miss Abrams had been arrested on a shop-lifting charge.

The proposal was submitted to the union members for ratification.

CT&T employs 4,500 employees in all and provides telephone service in 38 eastern North Carolina counties.

Questions And Answers On Flu Project

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The swine-flu vaccine being prepared under the federal inoculation program is particularly recommended for persons over 65 years old, diabetics and those with chronic illnesses, heart, kidney and lung diseases, a government spokesman says.

The program, which overcame a major hurdle Thursday when President Ford signed into law an insurance plan to protect vaccine makers, will make the vaccine available to all Americans at no charge.

Here, in question-and-answer form, are details about the program, with the answers provided by Mike White, a public information officer in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Q. Where may I receive the vaccination?

A. Individual state and local health departments are setting up their own vaccination sites. Check with local health departments to determine specific locations and times. Private physicians may also administer the vaccinations.

Q. How much must I pay for the vaccinations?

A. The vaccine is being provided free and each project administering the shots is being called upon to set up sites where they will be given at no charge. However, some may ask for contributions. Private physicians will also receive the vaccination at no charge but may charge patients for administering the shot or for the office visit. Government contracts are still being negotiated with manufacturers but $105 million has been appropriated to pay for the vaccine.

Q. What are the possible adverse reactions?

A. Fever, ranging from 100 degrees to 104 degrees for several days, soreness in the arm, and redness around the location where the vaccination is administered.

Q. When will these symptoms occur?

A. Within 48 hours after the shot is administered.

Q. What are the chances of developing an adverse reaction?

A. In clinical tests, 1.9 per cent of those administered the vaccine developed a fever.

Q. What are my chances of developing swine influenza from the vaccination?

A. None.

Q. Are the side-effects worse than the disease?

A. According to tests, they are not.

Q. Who would be most likely to develop an adverse reaction?

A. People who are allergic to eggs, because the virus in the vaccine is cultured in eggs.

Q. Who should not receive the vaccination?

A. People who are allergic to eggs, as well as those with fevers. Persons with questions about whether a particular medical condition might mean they should not receive the vaccination should consult with their personal physicians.

Q. Are there any groups of persons for whom the shot is particularly recommended?

A. Yes. They are persons over 65 years old, diabetics, and those with chronic illnesses, heart, kidney and lung diseases.

Q. Should pregnant women receive the vaccination?

A. Physicians recommend that they be treated as any other members of the general population and receive the shot. They say the vaccination poses no danger to the fetus.

Q. Should children be given the vaccination?

A. The vaccination is being recommended for everyone over 25 years of age, with only one shot required. Researchers are still trying to determine dosage for persons under 25, for whom a vaccination and a booster shot may be required.

Q. How effective will the shot be?

A. Tests indicate it will be 85 per cent effective, meaning that 85 per cent of the persons receiving the vaccination will have sufficient immunity to be protected from swine influenza.

Q. Are there any special precautions, such as not eating, that I should take before receiving the vaccination?

A. No.

Q. What if my personal physician advises me against receiving the vaccination?

A. The swine-flu office would assume the physician has good medical reasons for such advice and will not give advice on this question.

Q. How soon can I get the shot?

A. The swine-flu office hopes the vaccine will be available by late September for the general public and that the vaccinations can begin at that time.

Q. For how long will the program continue?

A. No termination date has been set, but it will most likely continue into December.

Q. How many people will receive the vaccinations?

A. The government is preparing to make them available to all 215 million Americans, but no one is sure how many will seek them.

Q. Will other influenza vaccinations protect me against swine flu?

A. No, and by the same token swine-flu vaccine will not protect against other flu viruses.

Q. Are any states not taking part in the program?

A. Washington state has indicated it may not and Massachusetts has indicated it would recommend the shots only for persons who are in the high-risk population — those over 65, diabetics and those with chronic diseases.

Q. What are the chances of swine influenza occurring?

A. This is completely unpredictable. There is a possibility it will not occur. The greater the number of people who are inoculated, the less chance the disease has to spread.

NAACP To Fight Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Top NAACP leaders have decided to fight to overturn a state court ruling requiring its Mississippi chapter to pay $1.25 million damages for a 1966 black boycott against 12 white merchants.

The decision to fight was made Thursday at a meeting here of NAACP officials, including Executive Director Roy Wilkins, board chairman Margaret Bush Wilson, and Chief Counsel Nathaniel Jones.

"We have decided to mount a major legal counter attack," said Jones after the meeting.

Jones said legal action would include an appeal to Mississippi's Supreme Court, or "seeking federal court relief." He said he and attorney Charles Carter, who fought the 7-year-old lawsuit which resulted in the award, would go to Mississippi on Monday to explore the options.

Even before the NAACP decision was announced, the American Jewish Congress wrote Wilkins offering its legal assistance for an appeal.

"We believe the precedents established in such a decision are extremely dangerous, not only to the NAACP but to all groups involved in using social action to protect constitutional rights and to achieve social change," the AJC letter said.

In the meantime, Jones said, Wilkins and other NAACP officials will start fund-raising efforts to meet the expense of the coming legal battle. He estimated that the NAACP would have to raise about $2 million to post a bond covering 125 per cent of the damage award as required under Mississippi law for appeals.

Jones said the NAACP leaders were confident that the damage ruling could be overturned because "we feel that the (court) record contains gross error."

Over 4 million youths are members of the Boy Scouts of America.

Has Answer In 'Energy Stamps'

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The idea came during a sleepless night. Food stamps help people who can't eat, reasoned Charles Hopkins, but what about people who go cold because they cannot pay fuel bills?

The answer was "energy stamps," and the Lorain County Community Action Agency, which Hopkins heads, now is taking applications.

Low income residents pay $25 for stamps worth $75. The money comes from a $7,500 trial grant from the federal Community Services Administration. The grant will provide stamps for 150 to 200 persons.

Fifteen people signed up Thursday, the first day of the program. Quite a few other "obviously ineligible" people showed up, said Hopkins.

To be eligible, one first must meet the federal low-income standard, an income of less than $5,500 a year for a family of four. The next decision is whether an actual emergency exists, Hopkins said.

For example, he said, there is an actual emergency when a family has shutoff notice in hand or a major overdue gas bill that means shutoff is just around the corner.

The stamps will be accepted at their $5 face value by Columbia Gas of Ohio, which provides service in this largely rural and agricultural county of 28,000 on the Lake Erie shore. They will be sold in booklets of 15 for $25, but those who cannot afford that will get them free.

Many of those who will receive the stamps will be elderly, as were about half of the first applicants, Hopkins said.

"I think they are the hardest hit," he said, recalling a woman getting Social Security benefits of $220 a month and a gas bill of $110.

Hopkins said the energy stamp idea stemmed from two winters filled with calls for financial help in meeting fuel bills. His agency could provide no assistance.

"So one night I thought of the food stamps that help people who have trouble paying for food, so I figured we needed something like an energy stamp," he explained.

The Community Services Administration agreed it was worth a try. The agency, a unit in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, directs the program that remains from what was formerly the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Carter Nephew Fears For Life

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter's nephew says he fears for his life and wants to be transferred from the state prison where he suffered superficial stab wounds.

But prison officials said Thursday they were uncertain whether William Carter Spann, 29, was attacked or if he inflicted the wounds himself.

Spann, the son of Carter's sister Gloria, said in a letter to the Oakland Tribune that he was jumped and stabbed twice in the shoulder and that a friendly inmate who came to his defense also was wounded.

California Department of Corrections spokesman Phil Guthrie said Spann, serving time at the California Medical Facility for robbery, was treated Sunday for "several superficial puncture wounds on one shoulder."

The weapon was two plastic chess pieces melted together, Guthrie said. No other inmates were accused in the incident.

"The possibility of anyone getting to him is very remote," Guthrie said. "In institutions, it is quite common for people to inflict wounds on themselves to get sympathy or to try to get some change in their assignment or to get to the hospitals. But we are not saying this is the case" with Spann.

Spann, who described himself in the letter as "Jimmy Carter's black sheep nephew," said he wants to be transferred to another state preferably to a federal prison.

"I did an armed robbery with a gun — I deserve to do some time," he wrote. "I just want to live long enough to experience the world out there. That's all I want."

The young convict said that as a member of the Carter family he is an attractive target in prison. "That would elevate anyone who got me," he wrote. "Prison is sick."

Spann, serving a 10-year sentence for two armed robberies in San Francisco earlier this year, has been held in an isolation cell after voicing concern about threats purportedly stemming from testimony he gave in an armed robbery trial in San Francisco.

Parachuted To Safety In Crash

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (AP) — All three men aboard, including Lt. (j.g.) William Rodman of Wilmington, N.C., parachuted to safety when a $10 million Navy electronics plane crashed shortly after takeoff Wednesday night.

A Navy public relations officer said it might be three or four weeks before investigators report on why the Grumman EA6B crashed. It came down in a field at the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock market was mixed today while investors settled down to await developments at next week's Republican convention. Trading was light.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 Industrial stocks was down .75 at 986.37. The utility and transportation averages also declined.

But gainers clung to a slight lead over losers in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said uncertainty over the Kansas City convention's outcome was helping keep investors in a cautious mood.

Another inhibiting influence was the government's report this morning that business inventories jumped $3.32 billion in June for their sharpest rise in 18 months. Missouri Pacific was the most active NYSE issue, unchanged at 35. A 100,000-share block traded at that price in the over-the-counter market.

Signal Cos. fell 1 1/2 to 21 1/2 in active trading. Dresser Industries said Thursday it was withdrawing a merger offer for Signal.

Dresser shares eased 1/4 to 44 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was off .01 at 55.64 after the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .08 to 103.70.

Tobacco Crop One Of Biggest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has forecast that this year's tobacco crop will be 2,052 billion pounds, the second-largest since 1964.

Last year's output was the largest since then. The prediction is for about 6 per cent below last year's.

The major decline in prospective production is in flue-cured types, where a drop of 9 per cent, or 128 million pounds, is expected, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Flue-cured production was estimated at 1.287 billion pounds, about 63 per cent of the total. All types of flue-cured were planted to fewer acres this year. Yields as of Aug. 1 were found to be off by 9 pounds an acre, to 1,964 pounds.

Burley tobacco output was forecast at 629 million pounds, or 1 per cent below last year, with production in the major state, Kentucky, virtually unchanged.

Other estimates included 28.75 million pounds of Southern Maryland, up 32 per cent; 15.8 million of dark-air-cured, up 7 per cent; and 36 million of fire-cured, down 4 per cent.

Estimated flue-cured production for 1976, by type and belt, compared with 1975 production, was:

—Type 11, Old and Middle Belts—North Carolina, 316,800,000 pounds, compared with 306,090,000 last year; Virginia, 120,750,000 and 112,200,000.

—Type 12, Eastern North Carolina Belt: 430,000,000 and 493,495,000.

—Type 13, North Carolina Border and South Carolina Belt: North Carolina, 112,200,000 and 134,230,000; South Carolina, 157,850,000 and 189,000,000.

—Type 14, Georgia-Florida Belt: Alabama, 1,088,000 and 1,190,000; Florida, 29,025,000 and 28,080,000, and Georgia, 119,000,000 and 150,750,000.

Another Southern Bell Executive Is Charged

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A tenth Southern Bell Telephone Co. executive was charged with falsifying company records Thursday, capping what North Carolina Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten described as "our first endeavor" into allegations against Southern Bell. George Paul Wesley Harmon, 40, of Marietta, Ga., the division accounting manager for Georgia, was the first out-of-state Bell executive to be charged. A former Bell executive has also been charged.

Indictments against Southern Bell officials came from a Mecklenburg County grand jury investigation into allegations that Bell officials diverted $142,000 into bogus expense account vouchers during 1972-1973.

Neither Edmisten nor Mecklenburg County Dist. Atty. Peter Gilchrist III have said if more indictments are expected.

They have declined to discuss specifics in the case. Gilchrist Thursday cited two court-imposed "gag" orders, a state law and "professional ethics" for not commenting.

Much of the information about the arrests have come from warrants released after the men were processed at the Mecklenburg County jail.

According to the warrants, the men were charged with

"falsifying employee's travel expense statements and...miscellaneous expense statements with the intent to injure, defraud and deceive officers of (Southern Bell)."

Three State Bureau of Investigation agents were listed on warrants as witnesses.

Gilchrist said grand jury testimony which led to the indictments and specifics such as how much money was involved are "evidence" and may be kept legally secret until the trial.

Harmon, who works in Bell's Atlanta headquarters, was arrested in Charlotte but it could not be learned why he was in town.

The series of arrests began Saturday, with seven local executives and one former officer booked and released on their own signature with bond set at $5,000. Two other local executives were arrested Monday.

Southern Bell issued a statement Monday saying it "stoutly supports" those indicted in the case. The company said its employees had cooperated fully in an internal investigation into the alleged falsified records, including some making "full restitution." The company said it was "distressed and surprised" by the arrests.

A Bell spokesman in Atlanta said Thursday that the company was standing by its earlier statement.

Officials said Monday that the men indicted would be arraigned Aug. 25 in Mecklenburg Superior Court.

Hunt Asks...

"mesh together the good things from the past and the things we want for the future."

He said, "Our campaign for progress is proving what a people's campaign can do."

Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, told the rally in introducing Hunt that the lieutenant governor is a "man who does not want to see the people of eastern North Carolina continue to be conned."

Jenkins said that easterners are "tired of being told that things will someday be better. We want things better now."

The chancellor called Hunt a "long time friend" of ECU and the east and added, "we need him as governor."

Jenkins was introduced by former Raleigh mayor, Tom Bradshaw. Hunt's wife, Carolyn and their two children were also on hand for the rally, as were his parents.

Last night's rally, held on the grounds between Minges Coliseum and Ficklen Stadium, was the last in a series of four scheduled statewide prior to Tuesday's primary.

The size of the gathering was estimated at over 4,000.

Ford Host To Hadassah Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—Betty Ford greeted about 160 representatives of the National Board of Hadassah at a White House reception and praised the women Zionist organization for its humanitarian efforts and "magnificent medical work in Israel."

Mrs. Ford spent three-quarters of an hour greeting each of the women individually at the reception Thursday in the Blue Room.

Arrest Man For Armed Robbery

David Earl Evans, 20, of 1203A Myrtle Ave., was arrested yesterday morning in Ayden by Greenville policemen on a charge of armed robbery.

Evans allegedly robbed the Mr. Clean Cleaners, 1501 Dickinson Ave., July 12 and injured Betty Brickhouse.

'New' Weiskopf Leading PGA

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf said he was stalking off the course in the Westchester Classic last month — his fourth pullout of the year — when his attention was arrested by a small boy walking behind him.

"There was this kid — it wasn't anything he said or did," explained the talented but highly volatile pro from Columbus, Ohio, "but I made a vow to myself right there I would never walk out of another tournament unless I was very ill or badly injured."

"I thought of my two kids — 5 and 3 years old. I realized I was a man in a fishbowl. I am in the public eye. I have to be careful what I say and do."

"I made another resolution — I would never backhand a putt again as long as I live."

It's a new Tom Weiskopf — all the tempests, temper tantrums and blowups behind him, he says — who carried a one-stroke lead into the second round of the 58th PGA Golf Championship today over the long and exhausting Congressional Country Club course.

"I don't know whether I will win or not," he said. "But I assure you I am playing this tournament with an entirely different attitude. I have prepared in a different way. I have not practiced much. I have worked on my concentration, armed myself with positive thoughts."

Playing brilliantly but making a couple of what he called "silly shots," the 6-foot-3 former British Open champion fired a five-under-par 65 to edge young Tom Kite of Austin, Tex., and little known optimist Dr. Gil Morgan from Wewoka, Okla., tied at 66.

On a muggy day which saw Congressional's par 70 broken 11 times and tied by nine men, Lee Elder, the first black to play in the Masters, pleased his sometime golfing partner, President Ford, by tying Charles Coody and Jerry McGee at 68.

Five players were at 69, including rookie Jerry Pate, the reigning U.S. and Canadian Open champion; former U.S. Open king Hale Irwin; Mark Hayes, and rank outsiders Bob Zender and Mike Morley.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, gunning for his 17th major crown, shot a 71 as did the man he succeeded at the pinnacle of the game, 46-year-old Arnold Palmer, who has never won a PGA title.

"Seventy-one is not a bad score for the first round," Nicklaus said philosophically.

"My mind went blank," said Palmer, describing a double bogey six on the 14th hole that robbed of a sub-par round. "I find myself having doubts that I never had when I was winning. I am too cautious. I can't hold my momentum."

Palmer hasn't won a major title since the 1964 Masters and his last tour victory was the 1973 Hope Classic.

IT'S A BIRDIE — Tom Weiskopf jumps into the air after sinking a birdie at the 13th hole to go six-under-par during the opening round of the PGA Tournament Thursday at Bethesda's Congressional Country Club. The round gave Weiskopf a one stroke lead. (AP Wirephoto)

Gus Andrews Named Pirate Club Director

The East Carolina University Pirate Club has announced the appointment of Gus Andrews, Jr., as its new Executive Director effective August 25th.

Andrews is a native of Tarboro, a graduate of N.C. State University and a former coach at Wilson Pike High School and N.C. State. He most recently held the position of Assistant Division Manager for Russell Hosiery Mill in Star.

"The Executive Committee interviewed approximately 20 real good candidates for the position," said Pirate Club president Norwood Crawford of Raleigh. "We feel Gus will relate to all our members and feel he will help in achieving our goal of more money for the East Carolina University athletic program. We also took into consideration his athletic background and work in the past with fund raising."

"We are all most pleased to have Gus join our Pirate Club program and feel he will be a great asset to us."

Andrews has served as Assistant Division Manager of Russell National Sports Socks and territory salesman of the southeastern United States with Russell Hosiery Mills, Inc., since 1972. He was the prime instigator of the sports socks division at Russell Hosiery.

The 1962 graduate of Tarboro High School has an outstanding athletic background. As a senior at Tarboro, Andrews was named to the Wigwam High School All-American Team, composed of the top 77 players in the United States.

Upon graduation from high school, Andrews received a football grant-in-aid to attend N.C. State University. He played graduated in 1967 with a B.S. in recreation and park administration, and received membership in Kappa Phi Kappa, an honorary education fraternity for high academic achievement.

Andrews joined the Wilson Pike staff in 1967 and assisted current ECU coach Henry Trevathan while Fike won three consecutive state championships behind the running of Carlester Crumpler.

In 1970, Andrews returned to his alma mater to become an assistant coach for two years. His prime duty was a reorganization of the State recruiting program.

"I look forward to the challenge ahead of me," said Andrews. "I think East Carolina is one school that is going to move forward, grow and develop into what we all want to see."

"I really wanted back in athletics and this will give me a chance to get back with fans, players and coaches of all sports. I'm just thrilled at the opportunity."

Andrews is married to the former Barbara Check of Tarboro. They have two children, Gus III (6) and Ashley (3). Andrews is 32-years old.

Nothing Wrong With LaCorte On Thursday

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank LaCorte was a frustrated young man. The Atlanta Braves pitcher was 0-6 with a 7.14 ERA.

LaCorte recalled how he'd go home at night and say to his wife, "Honey, I know I can pitch. What's wrong? She'd say she didn't know, and I'd get mad."

Well, nothing was wrong for the 24-year-old LaCorte Thursday night. He limited the Philadelphia Phillies to four hits and two runs in 5 2-3 innings, and two relievers protected the lead for LaCorte's first major league victory, a 4-3 decision.

There were just two other National League games played Thursday. Cincinnati rocked the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and San Diego blanked the New York Mets 3-0.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead in the first three innings of Phillies' loser Jim Lonborg, 12-8. Singles by Jerry Royster and Darrel Chaney and a double play ball accounted for a first-inning run. Cito Gaston had an RB double and Willie Montanez socked a two-run homer in the third.

The 6-foot-1 LaCorte gave up a run in the fifth on a single by Larry Bowa and pinch-hitter Bob Boone's double.

In the Philadelphia sixth, LaCorte got in a jam and was relieved by Mike Beard. Garry Maddox opened the inning with a single. LaCorte got the next two outs, but he walked Ray Johnstone and Tommy Hutton and that was it. Beard walked pinch-hitter Ollie Brown, forcing in the run and making it 4-2.

LaCorte retired to the dressing room where he lived and died with each play as Beard and then Adrian Devine battled to save the rookie's first big league win. The ninth was a lifetime for LaCorte.

It was the kind of an inning designed to drive pitchers mad. Bowa bounced out to start the Phils' ninth, but Jerry Martin, Dave Cash and Maddox singled in succession for one run there was the tying run at third and the winner on first with one out.

All Devine had to do was retire Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski, two of baseball's best sluggers. Schmidt struck out.

"I was saying, 'please, it's so hard to get this first one (win),' " LaCorte related.

With Luzinski at bat, Maddox stole second. A single could win the game for Philadelphia. But Luzinski popped up.

LaCorte went ape. He stood at the door and shook each Brave's hand as the team filed into the dressing room.

Reds 8, Cubs 3
George Foster slammed two home runs and drove in four runs for the Reds. Foster now has 102 RBI — tops in the majors. Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan also hit home runs for Cincinnati. Pete LaCock drove in two Chicago runs with a single and a homer.

Padres 3, Mets 0
Rookie Rick Sawyer, 3-0, bested Tom Seaver, 9-8, with an eight-hitter. Seaver, who has not won since July 8, gave up all three runs in the second inning — two on a single by Fred Kendall and the other on a single by Sawyer. After the game it was announced that the Mets have extended Manager Joe Frazier's contract for another year.

Robinson Knew Man For Job

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
The situation called for a clutch hitter and Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson knew just the man for the job.

"It was a tough situation but I knew the pressure wasn't going to bother me," Robinson explained. "I was the man for the situation."

Robinson sent himself up as a pinch-hitter with one out, the bases loaded and the score tied in the bottom of the ninth inning against Texas Thursday night. And he made himself look good with a line single to give the Indians a 5-4 victory over the Rangers.

"If you're going to be a winning ballclub, these are the games you have to win," said Robinson. "I just felt I could make contact."

Elsewhere in an abbreviated American League schedule, the New York Yankees pounded Minnesota 12-5, Oakland shaded Milwaukee 4-3 and Boston edged California 2-1 in 10 innings.

Boog Powell ripped a three-run homer in the third inning to help the Indians to an early 3-2 lead, but two walks, a pair of errors and a sacrifice fly by Roy Howell accounted for two runs and put Texas on top 4-3 going into the ninth.

The Indians tied it on a double by John Lowenstein and a single by Larvell Blanks. Then Rick Manning doubled, Rico Carly was intentionally walked and Robinson came up against Mike Bacsik. After failing on a squeeze bunt that just kicked foul — "That's the first time I've tried a squeeze bunt in 21 years," said Robinson — he lined the game-winning hit.

Lefty Dave LaRoche fired two innings of hitless relief to gain his first victory of the season. "I'm glad I finally got one," said LaRoche. "Some guys gave me a hard time for making the All-Star team without a win."

Jeff Terpko, 3-3, the fourth of five Ranger pitchers, took the loss.

Yankees 12, Twins 5
Chris Chambliss drove in three runs and Mickey Rivers and Carlos May had three hits and two RBI apiece as New York upped its lead in the AL East to 10 games. Catfish Hunter, 13-12, posted his first victory since July 21. The Yanks pounded Steve Luebber, 3-3, and four successors for 16 base hits.

A's 4, Brewers 3
Pinch-runner Larry Lintz stole second and scored the tie-breaking run on a single by Gene Tenace in the eighth inning as Oakland pulled within eight games of front-running Kansas City in the AL West. Doubles by Billy Williams and Phil Garner helped the A's score three runs in the fifth. Rollie Fingers, 8-7, won it and Bill Castro, 3-2, lost it, both in relief.

Red Sox 2, Angels 1
Fred Lynn's broken-bat RBI single in the 10th won it for Boston and Luis Tiant, 12-10, bested Nolan Ryan, 9-15. Rick Burleson scored the first Boston run when he raced home on the back end of a double steal in the third. Bob Jones' sacrifice fly in the seventh drove in the lone California run.

FORCED OUT — Atlanta Brave infielder Jerry Royster jumps on third base to force out Phillies Tommy Hutton in the seventh inning of Thursday night's game in Philadelphia. The bases were loaded with two outs at the time, and the Braves went on to win, 4-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Greenwood Wins Against Naber

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After beating Olympic hero and Southern California teammate John Naber in the 200 meter freestyle, Mark Greenwood felt good. And that's the big reward for any swimmer.

"Swimming, if you don't do good, is a waste of time," the 20-year-old Greenwood said. "It's only good when you do good because so much sacrifice is involved."

Greenwood's sacrifice paid off Thursday night at the AAU National Swimming Championships at Kelly Pool here. He swam the 200 in 1 minute, 52.21 seconds in the outdoor long course championships to make up for a dismal performance in the Olympic trials.

Only one championship record fell. The Central Jersey Aquatics Club, clocked in 4:22.99 in the women's 400 medley relay, erased Misson Viejo's old mark of 4:24.07 set in 1975.

Olympic Kim Peyton, competing in her last national tournament, won the women's 200 freestyle and 14-year-old Jesse Vassallo defeated Brian Goodell to win the men's 400 individual medley.

But Greenwood's defeat of Naber was the biggest surprise of the night as times again were well below the world record paces.

Greenwood, swimming sevenths of a second faster than he had ever done before, turned in a 1:55 in the Olympic trials and failed to make the team. "I bombed out at the trials," said Greenwood. "I just wasn't mentally prepared. I was thinking too much about the other swimmers and not enough about myself. Tonight I swam my own race."

Paced by Wendy Boglioli and anchored by Kathy Heddy, the Central Jersey team raced to a comfortable victory. And helping the team was the big motivation for the 21-year-old Boglioli, the winner of 100 butterfly on opening day.

Peyton was clocked in 2:03.01 in the 200 freestyle. Brenda Borgh of Newtown Square, Pa., was second in 2:03.82. Vassallo, timed in 4:28.34, beat Misson Viejo teammate Goodell by 2 1/2 seconds.

In other action Thursday, Donnalee Wennerstrom of California's West Valley Swim Team took the women's 400 individual medley in 4:57.74.

The Santa Clara A team took the men's 400 medley relay. With Dan Stephenson swimming anchor, the team finished in 3:51.34.

Mission Viejo has the over-all team lead in the tournament. The California club has 276 points, with Suburban Swim Club of Newtown Square in second with 173.

Today's events include men's and women's races in the 200 butterfly, the 200 breaststroke, the 100 backstroke and the 800 freestyle relay.

Longley Suspended After Decking Roger

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
"I guess it was his way of saying 'goodbye,'" said Dallas starting quarterback Roger Staubach after he was slugged by teammate Clint Longley.

Longley, the Cowboy's No. 2 signal-caller, was suspended after the one-punch fight that resulted in stitches over Staubach's left eye.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Staubach "will be able to play Saturday night" when the Cowboys play host to the Denver Broncos in a National Football League preseason game.

"Danny White, of course, will play the second half instead of Longley," said Landry.

White, who chose to play in the World Football League after the Cowboys made him their No. 3 pick in the 1974 draft, connected on 10 of 21 passes for 101 yards in last week's loss to the Los Angeles Rams. He also appears to have solved part of Dallas' kicking problems, punting four times for a 47.5 average last week.

Before the Longley-Staubach episode, the Cowboys, a perennial contender in the National Conference, have had their problems. Dallas has yet to win in two outings. But they have been playing the cream of the NFL crop.

Denver has posted a 1-2 record, losing last week to San Francisco 17-7 as Broncos rookie Craig Penrose impressed with six completions on 11 passes for 75 yards, including a 22-yard TD strike to Bill Van Heusen. Denver starter Steve Ramsey was nine of 15 for 113 yards in the first three periods.

The long NFL weekend begins tonight when the New York Jets play their second game in 48 hours, taking on the Oakland Raiders at Yankee Stadium. The Jets, 0-2, lost 16-14 to the New York Giants Wednesday night on a 34-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining in the game. The contest had been postponed from Monday because of Hurricane Belle.

In another game tonight, New Orleans, 1-1, travels to Buffalo, 0-2.

Besides the Denver-Dallas collision, Saturday games will pit Pittsburgh at Washington, Los Angeles at Seattle, Baltimore at Chicago, Detroit at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Miami, the New York Giants at Houston and Tampa Bay vs. Atlanta at Jacksonville, Fla.

Sunday, Kansas City travels to San Francisco and Green Bay plays at New England. On Monday, the St. Louis Cardinals and San Diego Chargers will play the first NFL game to be staged outside North America. The two teams will meet in Tokyo at 6:30 p.m., Japan time. It will be 5:30 a.m., ECT.

Also Monday, Minnesota will be at Cleveland.

The Raiders will continue to trot in their stable of quarterbacks against the Jets. Starter Ken Stabler will begin, but Oakland will take long looks at Dave Humm, Larry Lawrence, Mike Rae and Jeb Blount: The Jets will start Joe Namath, who went all the way in the loss to the Giants, but Coach Lou Holtz says rookie Richard Todd will play "90 per cent of the game."

Carl Summerell, former East Carolina University football star, has quit his professional career with the New York Giants.

Summerell, who had been absent without explanation from the Giants camp following an outstanding performance in the first game, reportedly wrote to the Giants earlier this week, resigning from the club.

In this third year of professional football with the Giants, Summerell was the number two quarterback, and many observers felt he had a future in the game.

It is believed that a number of personal and family problems brought about the resignation.

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram got his first victory at the helm of the Saints and a slap on the wrist from owner John Mecom for his liberal spending on "non-football related items." The Saints are looking for their first preseason victory over the Bills, who are still looking for someone to replace O.J. Simpson at running back.

Pittsburgh and Washington will square off in NBC's nationally televised game Saturday night. The defending Super Bowl champion Steelers are 3-0 while Washington is struggling with a 1-1 mark after losing to Baltimore last week.

The Los Angeles Rams, fresh from their 26-14 victory over Dallas, will take on Seattle in the Seahawks' Kingdom.

Rookie quarterback Pat Haden may see duty after Ron Jaworski and James Harris tore apart the Dallas secondary with their pin-point accuracy. The expansion Seahawks have yet to win in two games.

Barring a tie, at least one undefeated team will not be that way when the Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears finish the game. Both teams have perfect 2-0 records and the Colts have yet to surrender a touchdown.

Cincinnati has won five straight preseason games from Detroit and carries a 2-0 record into their encounter Saturday. Detroit is 1-2, but is delighted with the performance of top draft choice James Harris, who ran a kickoff back 97 yards for a touchdown in last week's loss to Miami. The Bengals are equally delighted with running back Archie Griffin, the two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State. Griffin scored on a 49-yard run against Buffalo last week.

Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil expects to get his first look at veterans Art Malone, a running back, defensive end Will Wynn and wide receiver Harold Carmichael when the Eagles meet Miami. Dolphins Coach Don Shula may give quarterbacks Bob Griese and Earl Morrall, both injured in 1975, their first game action.

Tampa Bay and Atlanta both are seeking victory No. 1.

CLOWN PRINCE — Tennis player Jimmy Connors complained he was tired returning the high serves of Victor Amaya during the second round of the U. S. Open Clay Court tournament in Indianapolis Thursday, so he sat on the lap of an unidentified line judge. Connors, the top seed, won his match, 6-2, 7-5, with an ailing back that slowed his serve. Charley Lau Credited With Aiding Hitters

By DOUG TUCKER
KANSAS CITY (AP) — One night before, a fastball had slammed into his head and knocked him unconscious. Now a dull ache throbbed behind his left ear as Hal McRae stood nervously in the Kansas City Royals dressing room, unsure for the first time in his life whether he wanted to put on a uniform. Charley Lau watched and swept it all in. Quietly, without attracting attention, Coach Lau spoke with McRae in private. He told him there must be no hesitation. "Take the first pitch," Lau said. "No matter where the ball comes, just watch it coming. You'll be all right." McRae watched that first pitch sail over the plate without flinching a muscle. Then, visibly more relaxed, he went out and batted four hits. Four years earlier, a raw rookie named Joe Rudi asked Lau, then a first-year batting instructor at Oakland, if he had any future in baseball. Lau assured him he did, and afterward the two were seen daily at the batting cage, working hour after hour, Lau observing from every angle and making suggestions in his soft, level voice. This June, shortly after an abortive trade set Rudi's market value as a baseball player at $1 million, he told a writer, "I'd be driving a truck in Modesto today if it weren't for Charley Lau." MONTREAL (AP) — The Hamilton Tiger-Cats have claimed running back Doyle Orange from the Toronto Argonauts, a spokesman for the Canadian Football League team said Thursday. Orange, who gained 1,005 yards for the Argos last year, was dropped from their roster to make room for Anthony Davis. LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have traded rookie guard Jim Kregel to the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed future draft choice. Kregel, a 6-foot-1, 245-pounder from Ohio State, was Pittsburgh's 10th-round pick in the 1974 National Football League draft. He spent the past two seasons in the World Football League. His trade left the Steelers with 61 men in camp, including three College All-Stars who don't yet count against the NFL roster limit. COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A University of South Carolina graduate with 17 years in professional and collegiate baseball has been named head baseball coach at his alma mater. June Raines will take over Sept. 1 as coach of the Gamecocks, according to an announcement Thursday by Harold "Bo" Hagan, the school's athletic director. Raines, 37, succeeds Bobby Richardson, the former New York Yankees' star second baseman who has resigned to run as the Republican candidate for Congress from South Carolina's 5th District. Hagan said Johnny Hunton, interim head coach since Richardson resigned in May, will remain as assistant baseball coach. DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings will open their 80-game National Hockey League season October 6 with a home match against the Washington Capitals. Red Wings General Manager Alex Delvecchio released the 1976 schedule Thursday, noting that Buffalo, New York Islanders, Toronto and Chicago will fill out the October home ice schedule. A total of 40 games will be played at Detroit's Olympia Stadium, Delvecchio said. Staubach Surprised By Attack

By MILLER H. BONNER JR.
Associated Press Writer
THOUSANDS OAKS, Calif. (AP) — THE "Mad Bomber" has struck again. Reserve Dallas Cowboys quarterback Clint Longley, who gained the nickname after an errant pass bounced off a coaching tower, aimed a not-so-errant right at the head of right at the head of team captain and starting quarterback Roger Staubach Thursday. Roger said he reeled against the standup scales in the training room, sustained a gash requiring stitches over his left eye. He called Longley's assault a "gutless deal." "He waited 'till I had my shoulder pads up over my head and couldn't even see him," recalled Staubach from Dallas' National Football League training camp. "He hit me over the eye...I got the cut when I hit the scales. I was stunned, then some teammates held me back from going after him." Staubach said Longley's frontal assault was strictly a hit-and-run affair. The "Mad Bomber" immediately left camp and Cowboy officials said he was suspended "without pay or benefits." "It was his way of saying goodbye for now. He had his bags already packed and all his money with him," said Staubach. "It's unbelievable and it was premeditated. He had refused to attend a team meeting earlier and had refused to answer any questions." Longley had been quoted as saying Staubach provoked Thursday's one-punch fight by pushing some chairs at him. "That's a complete lie," responded Staubach. The two strong-armed quarterbacks had also engaged in a round of fisticuffs Tuesday, with Staubach declared the winner. He was on top of Longley when assistant coach Dan Reeves intervened. Staubach said Tuesday's encounter occurred because of something Longley said to Drew Pearson, a wide receiver. "I wouldn't even repeat it," said Staubach. "Drew couldn't even hear him and I confronted him (Longley) about it. That's when it really started." However, Staubach revealed that the storm clouds had been gathering for some time between the two literally battling quarterbacks. "Clint started off in June and refused to communicate with me or Danny White," revealed Staubach referring to the first-string punter and the now second-string quarterback. "He wouldn't work out with us in Dallas and he refused to communicate with me." Staubach said he thought

Longley might be affected by pressure from White. "This guy's going to be one of the premier quarterbacks in the National Football League," said Staubach. White will get a chance to strut his stuff Saturday night when the Cowboys entertain Denver in Dallas' home opener. Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry said Staubach, sporting stitches, will start the contest, with White scheduled to replace Longley as the second-half quarterback. "Danny White will, of course, play the second half instead of Longley," stated Landry before commenting on Longley's immediate future. "Longley has apparently made his feelings clear as to what he wants, that is, to be traded," said Landry. "If that is so, I will try to accommodate him."

Designated Hitters Set For World Series

PHOENIX (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cast the crucial vote in a decision to permit use of designated hitters for the first time in the 1976 World Series. Then Kuhn came up with an encore later Thursday with another tiebreaker vote at the summer baseball meetings here to endorse bonus payments for the players, "subject to discussion with the Players Association." Kuhn's first shot came when American and National league club owners emerged from their separate caucuses with opposite views on use of designated hitters. The AL, which has used an extra hitter for the pitcher since 1973, wanted to use them not only for the series but for all postseason, all-star and exhibition games with NL clubs. NL owners opposed it altogether. Kuhn couldn't buy the whole AL platform, but he went along with the DH rule for the World Series in alternate years. "I cast a vote with the American League proposal to use designated hitters in alternate years in the World Series, beginning in 1976," said Kuhn. Kuhn named a six-man committee consisting of the league presidents and four others from both leagues to "come up with a formula for uniform use of the designated hitter throughout both leagues." The AL owners had proposed using the designated hitters in World Series games in their own parks. "Designated hitters will be used in every game of the 1976 World Series," Kuhn declared. He said the DHs would not be used in the 1977 series, but would return in 1978 and in alternate years thereafter. Kuhn also supported the AL proposal, over solid NL opposition, for expanded performance bonuses to deserving players. Kuhn said the performance bonuses, subject to player approval, would be allowed for batters, based on hitting average, runs batted in, homers, slugging percentage, stolen bases, runs scored, total bases and bases on balls. For pitchers, the bonuses would be tailored to games won, earned run averages, saves and winning percentage. The 24 club owners also endorsed a resolution to compensate Kuhn and other baseball officials in case a federal court awards a judgment to Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley. Finley filed the suit after Kuhn blocked his $3.5 million sale of players Joe Rudi, Rolie Fingers and Vida Blue.

Japanese Accept Welfare As Help, Not A Right

By MARIANNA OHE
TOKYO (UPI) — For 73-year-old Hana Hayashi (fictitious name) welfare is not a right to which she is automatically entitled, but a benefit, a real help in times of trouble, to be accepted reluctantly when everything else has failed.

She holds the traditional Japanese view that to be given something or helped is a bad thing. You must do it yourself. "My son is constantly bedridden with a very bad lung disease. I want to put him into a hospital, and so I came to the welfare office for consultation," she explains.

Her tan, lined face is sad and her tiny, frail body seems almost to sag under the burdens life has piled on her shoulders. Still she radiates dignity. And she doesn't believe anyone owes her a handout.

"The welfare system gives us barely enough to survive," she says. "I know the government is spending quite a bit of money on welfare, but maybe they could spend a little bit more, especially for free medical care. I have to care for my son full time. There's no one in our household to earn money while he's sick."

The idea of cheating on welfare out of desperation is as foreign to Hana as robbing a bank.

"People on welfare are those who almost went down to the bottom, who struggled and tried hard but didn't succeed, so they go to welfare," she says.

The other side of the Japanese welfare picture is 82-year-old Soichi Konuma who pays 350 yen ($1.16) per night for a room in a cheap inn in Tokyo's Sanya district.

The district is filled with flop houses and cheap inns peopled by some 15,000 day laborers plus vagrants and other lost souls, some who have to settle for sleeping in the street wrapped in newspaper.

Until recently Solvhi, jobless and without family, was receiving monthly welfare payments totaling about 47,000 yen ($156). Then his welfare officer tried to put him in an old men's dormitory.

"They told me I had to go to the old men's home if I wanted to keep receiving welfare," Soichi says defiantly through toothless gums. "So I stopped coming to the welfare office. I don't want to go to the old men's home. There is no freedom in the old men's home. You have to get up at six and go to bed at nine there. I am a man who values freedom."

Without the welfare payments Soichi was reduced to digging through garbage and collecting old newspapers to survive. Finally a good friend urged him to return to the welfare office to plead his case. They went together. The results of the bargaining session still are not known.

"They tell me I should go to the old men's home, but that's because the welfare people don't know what it's like to live there," Soichi says.

Soichi's friend, a one-legged shogi (Japanese chess) club owner who lives near Sanya, is head of the 80-member Sanya Friendship Association.

For the past 20 years Shisashi Takeda has been wandering the streets of Sanya on crutches, befriending the lost souls there and helping them for free.

He writes letters for them, signs their names if they can't do it themselves, offers advice and counsel and occasionally free sake (Japanese rice wine).

"I do it out of sympathy, out of humanism," he says. "For the Sanya people, life is very hard. The welfare payments are not enough. Many suffer from tuberculosis and liver ailments resulting from too much drinking because of loneliness."

Shisashi says 70 per cent of the 4,275 welfare recipients in Tokyo's Taito ward are from the Sanya district. Approximately 123,416 people are receiving some sort of welfare throughout Tokyo.

"For old women maybe the welfare payments are enough," he says, "but for old men who smoke and drink alcohol, it is not enough. There just isn't enough money budgeted for welfare. Right now the money these men receive comes partly from the national government, partly from the metropolitan government and partly from the Taito ward office."

Shisashi says there is welfare cheating among the men of Sanya.

"There is definitely cheating. If a man works he must report the money he received. If he received 5,000 yen ($16.66) he may say he received only 1,000 yen ($3.33) because if his sickness is light he can work enough to receive good food but not medical care. But if he reports his wages correctly, he can't get free health care and may get sicker."

Shisashi's friendship club charges members 100 yen (33 cents) per month dues. The money then is used to help out members in emergencies, those who need hospitalization or are expecting children.

But for the middle classes who make up 80 per cent of Japan, welfare is something to be shunned at all cost. Rather than welfare, they much prefer working hard, and bearing deprivation and sometimes hunger with as much dignity making do with very little, and grace as possible.

Greeks, Turks Airing Dispute

By SERGE SCHEMANN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Greek and Turkish foreign ministers come face to face today in the United Nations Security Council to vent their dispute over the oil that may lie beneath the Aegean Sea.

Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil missed the opening of the debate Thursday. Speaking then, Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios urged the council to prevail on Turkey to halt what he called the "provocative" activities of a research ship probing for evidence of oil. Caglayangil was expected to argue that Bitsios' government was trying to turn the Aegean into a "Greek lake" by claiming possession of virtually the entire Aegean continental shelf. Seeking to mediate between the two easternmost members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger asked the two ministers to meet separately with him on Saturday morning while he is in New York to visit the Law of the Sea Conference.

Greece and Turkey have for years had rival claims to sovereignty in the Aegean, which is dotted with Greek islands, some within miles of the Turkish coast. The Greeks say these islands give them jurisdiction over almost the entire Aegean continental shelf; the Turks say the islands off its shores sit on the Turkish shelf.

The latest flareup in the dispute was caused by the dispatch of the Turkish research vessel Sismik I on Aug. 6 to make seismological soundings for oil under the Aegean.

Both nations badly need the oil that may lie beneath the sea, and the dispute is aggravated by the Turkish military occupation of the northern 40 per cent of Cyprus. Bitsios referred to this before the council Thursday when he charged that "Turkey decided coldly to jeopardize peace in the area while the crisis created by the Turkish invasion of Cyprus in the summer of 1974 is still unsettled."

Turkish Ambassador Ilter Turkmer replied that "from the very beginning it has been the Greek government with its impossible dream of making the Aegean an exclusive Greek lake that has created dangerous tensions in the area."

He accused the Greeks of harassing the Sismik I and of militarizing the Greek islands off Turkey's shore.

Paying $50,000 For Sewage Solution

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Winston-Salem has commissioned a $50,000 study of the problem of sewage polluting the Yadkin River and imperiling the water supply of Salisbury.

Francis Luther, Salisbury's city manager, met Wednesday with Winston-Salem officials. He will receive recommendations to be made by a consulting firm studying Winston-Salem's sewage treatment plant.

Associated Water and Air Resources Engineers, of Nashville, Tenn., will determine why sludge is settling too slowly from the plant's sewage flow.

Luther said Salisbury was forced to close its pumping facilities Sunday because of a brown pollution mass.

In the past, Winston-Salem has been billed for the additional chemicals used to purify Salisbury's water.

The Salisbury city manager said the sewage plant may have been responsible for a fish kill Sunday on the Yadkin River. But he said there was no discussion Wednesday of what was the cause of the kill.

"We'll let the state settle that," Luther said.

Fish were seen dying in Muddy Creek and in the Zadkin below Muddy Creek. But no dead fish were spotted up the river from the creek. Sludge from the Winston-Salem sewage plant ends up in Salem Creek. The creek flows into Muddy Creek, which in turn flows into the Yadkin.

Russell Radford, the state's water quality engineer for the northwestern area, said the investigation is still incomplete but a preliminary report would be filed in about a week.

Leaf Mart's Average Up

The season average on the Greenville Tobacco Market inched upward Thursday as a result of a $111.79 per hundred pounds sales day.

Yesterday's average, according to J. N. Bryan, Tobacco Board of Trade sales supervisor, brought the overall average for the season here to $101.34.

Bryan said that sales Thursday totaled 778,051 pounds and brought $869,748.

For the season, local warehouses have sold 12,909,991 pounds for $13,082,751.

Stabilization receipts amounted to 5.68 per cent of total sales.

Offerings consisted of lugs, leaf and cutters with primings and non-descript still showing up on the warehouse floors, Bryan added.

System Of 'Direct Democracy' Spreading

MECHANIZED MARVEL ON THE MOVE — "Roboteer," manufactured by a firm in San Ramon, Calif., is accompanied by employee Judy Bentley as the robot uses its own street crossing Issues ranging from legalized betting on dog racing to safety restrictions for nuclear power plants are on the ballot across the country these days in a system of direct democracy that is growing in popularity.

An Associated Press survey shows voters in at least 12 states will act on citizen initiatives in November. Election officials and representatives of citizens' groups say they have noticed an increased use of initiatives, although the rate of success varies widely.

"Maybe it's the war, maybe it's the environment, maybe it's Watergate," said Scott Fitz-Randolph, California director of Common Cause. "I think the polls indicate that while there is apathy among the general public there is more interest (in government) among the activists."

In California, there have been an average of 16 initiative drives a year for the last five years. That compares with an average six a year during the 10 years before that.

In Missouri there wasn't a single initiative petition submitted to the secretary of state's office between 1962 and 1970. Four petitions have been turned in this year and are awaiting certification.

There are a record-setting four initiatives on the ballot this fall in Massachusetts and voters in both Florida and Illinois apparently will see their first initiatives in November.

In Colorado, a spokeswoman for the secretary of state's office said, "... People are getting more and more interested. They're finding out what they can do."

Twenty-three states, most of them in the West, have some sort of system that allows voters to place laws or constitutional amendments — or both — on the ballot.

Some initiative laws limit subject matter or give legislators a veto over voter action; others are wide-open systems where the public decision is final.

"People are only limited by their imagination," says Larry Bevins, assistant manager of elections in Oregon, one of a handful of states where initiatives are heavily used.

Critics contend initiatives are a poor way to legislate, that the ballot measures are not well written and are too complicated for voters to understand. But election officials in several states say the system has worked well.

"Some of our best measures were accomplished through the initiative process," says Bill Linklater, an assistant Oregon attorney general.

Those measures include laws giving women the right to vote, instituting a workmen's compensation system and protecting scenic waterways and steelhead fish, Linklater said.

Some officials say initiative systems are too restrictive and should be opened up. Joyce Koupal, head of People's Lobby, a California citizens' group that specializes in initiative drives, agrees.

"Initiatives use to be used a lot when the system got started," she said. "Then the other side got smart and started writing laws that took it out of the hands of the average citizen."

Those laws in California included a $200 filing fee and a time limit on signature gathering.

In most states the number of signatures needed to qualify a petition is a percentage of the number of votes cast for governor in a recent election.

In California it takes 8 per cent of the vote cast for governor in the last general election to qualify a constitutional amendment and 5 per cent to qualify a proposed statute.

"The signature requirement is fairly high but for good reason," says Caren Daniels, spokeswoman for the California secretary of state. "It costs a lot of money to put something on the ballot."

Not only is it difficult to put an initiative on the ballot; it's also difficult to get it passed.

Of the 51 initiatives qualified for the ballot in Oregon since 1944 only 23 — 45 per cent — passed. In California the figure is 24 per cent over the last 10 years.

In both states the success figure is much higher — around 70 per cent — for measures put on the ballot by the legislature.

Linklater says legislative measures have a better chance of passing because they have at least a majority of the state's lawmakers behind them. That's not always the case with initiatives, he adds.

This year also marks the first time there has been a coordinated effort by citizens groups to put measures dealing with the same subject — nuclear power plant safety, for example — on the ballot in several states.

"I think what's happened is that people have begun to understand the political power that comes from using initiatives on a consistent basis," said Faith Keating, director of Western Bloc, the group promoting the nuclear initiatives.

Western Bloc is a partnership of organizations that grew out of a 1974 conference of citizens' groups held by Ralph Nader in Washington D.C. Although Nader took part in discussions that brought about Western Bloc, group officials say the organization is not affiliated with the consumer advocate.

Western Bloc groups have launched nuclear initiatives petition drives in 10 states and thus far have qualified measures in Colorado and Oregon for the November ballot.

The measures vary from state to state but all contain one common requirement: a legislative decision that nuclear power is safe before more atomic power plants can be built.

A similar measure, not sponsored by Western Bloc, was defeated in California in June.

Diahann Carroll In Brief Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer-actress Diahann Carroll, last regularly seen on TV as a nurse in "Julia," starts her own four-week summer variety show on CBS this Saturday.

Alas, the start is not too sturdy. She's a fine talent. But an advance peek at the scheduled opener indicates its two writers, script consultant, producer and two executive producers didn't quite know what to do with her talent.

They put her in a bubble bath to sing the opening number, a disco thing called "This Is It." Then they had her get dressed, say hello and do a solo comedy skit as an airline ticket agent on the telephone.

The airline skit managed the feat of crashing before takeoff.

Summer variety series often give new comics and singers, of which TV needs more, a chance to break in. Here, the authorities broke in two completely new faces, Telly Savalas and Sammy Davis Jr.

There actually was a newcomer, a singer named Jon Lucien, but he was whisked on and off so fast he could have called in the act.

Telly's top effort had him seated in a big wicker chair. His shirt was open to the sternum. He sang "Who Loves Ya, Baby," a disco song, with much more feeling than Warren G. Harding will ever display.

Telly also was in a skit with Miss Carroll, playing a computer-matched suitor. He kept glancing past her while talking, which suggested he either was reading a cue card or seeking his agent.

Sammy Davis Jr. momentarily perked up the proceedings with a rock-gospel song, "John the Baptist," but the tune lasted so long one felt Matthew, Mark and Luke would soon demand equal time.

Fortunately, Sammy later got a second chance and proceeded to light up the show with a short tap dance to an old Count Basie tune, "Cute," and by joining Miss Carroll in a well-sung medley from "Porgy and Bess."

Unfortunately, this was toward the end of the hour.

Auditor Says Many Of Woo's Ideas Applied

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Consumer advocate Lillian Woo has promised some innovations if she is elected state auditor, but Auditor Henry Bridges says most of what she has advocated he already has in operation.

Mrs. Woo, former president of the North Carolina Consumers Council and former member of the state Milk Commission, is running against Bridges and former state official Walter Fuller for the Democratic nomination for auditor. The winner will take on Michael Godfrey of Carrobo, treasurer of the state Republican Party, in the general election this fall.

In mounting the most determined primary opposition Bridges has had since he was appointed auditor in 1947, Mrs. Woo has opened state campaign headquarters in Raleigh. Steven A. Bernholz, an attorney and former member of the Chapel Hill town board, is her campaign manager.

Bridges, 68, has set up a state headquarters in Raleigh, and Joun W. Buchan has taken a leave of absence as chief deputy state auditor to manage the campaign.

"We intend to be active in all 100 counties and we already are active in most counties," said Buchan.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Woo said that a major need of the state is a uniform accounting system for all state agencies. Noting that the accounting system of all state agencies must be approved by the auditor, Mrs. Woo said Bridges had approved a number of different accounting systems for various state agencies.

Bridges said his office had been working for five years installing a uniform accounting system and the process is nearing completion. He said the system has brought much praise from state officials.

Mrs. Woo also has called for the development of performance audits by the auditor's office to supplement the financial audits. She said the legislature has authorized such audits as a means of determining how effective state programs are and whether the intent of the legislature in funding the programs is being carried out.

Bridges said that what Mrs. Woo refers to as performance audits he calls operational audits. He said his office began preparing such audits in 1975. He said he now has three men at work in an Operational Audit Division and intends to double this staff.

Mrs. Woo recently called for an increase in benefits paid to members of the Law Enforcement Officers Benefit and Retirement Fund which is administered by the auditor's office. The voluntary fund is open to highway patrolmen and city and county officers.

"I've recommended since 1973 increasing and strengthening the benefits to the law enforcement officers," Bridges said.

Mrs. Woo, 37, is a native of Honolulu and a graduate of Vassar College. She came to North Carolina in 1970 after her husband, an official of International Business Machines, was transferred to the state.

Fuller, 63, is waging a lowkey campaign. When he announced for the post, he said he planned to run his campaign from his home in Raleigh and would rely primarily on volunteers.

Fuller, an accountant, served as director of the state Department of Water Resources during the administration of Gov. Dan K. Moore in the mid 1960s.

He said he was convinced the office of state auditor "can be converted from its present method of operation to one of much greater service and return to the people of North Carolina."

Italy Quake Survivors Need Housing

By MICHAEL J. DUFFY
OSOPPO, Italy (AP) — Three months after the earthquake that killed almost 1,000 persons in northeastern Italy, the survivors are racing against time to prevent a new tragedy from winter exposure.

Their immediate goal is to provide adequate shelter for the 70,000 still homeless to prevent further loss of life in the harsh winter weather of this Dolomite Mountain area. Prefabricated wooden buildings must replace the tent cities in which they have passed the summer.

"There are no alternatives to the prefabs except to evacuate the area, and that is totally unacceptable," said Ezio Lemuzza, comptroller of Osoppo.

"The old people and the children won't make it through the winter if they have to live in tents," a volunteer worker in Gemona said.

The government had promised enough prefabricated structures by June to house 4,500 persons. But there were only a handful up by the end of July. Now a total of 8,000 family units have been promised by the end of September — close to the cold season here.

Many whose homes can be repaired have already begun the job, and some have covered the basements of their collapsed homes to provide a winter refuge if the pre-fabricated houses don't come in time.

The initial government response to the quake was $640 million in emergency aid. Other help came from around the world, including $25 million from the United States.

With damage estimates running as high as $5 billion this was barely enough to provide water, food, tents, toilets and other basics for the estimated 129 villages destroyed or damaged in the May 6 earthquake.

A close watch was kept on the way the relief money was spent. The residents of Maiano reacted bitterly when a contractor asked almost $35,000 to knock down the crumbling cathedral bell tower. They found someone else to do the job for just over $1,000.

Survivors have complained mainly, however, about what they considered the slow pace of the relief efforts. Thousands of quake victims demonstrated in mid-July to make it clear they would not become another Belice — an area of western Sicily where 10,000 people still live in shanties eight years after an earthquake there.

Among nongovernment relief efforts in the quake area are: —The people of Lazio, the area around Rome which suffered an earthquake in 1971, are sending their used barracks to Osoppo and furnishing $350,000 to erect them.

—Austrian pen pals hosted more than 50 children from the quake area for a four-week vacation from the misery of the quake aftermath.

—The Yugoslavs provided some prefabricated buildings and mobile homes for the very old and the sick.

—The Italian city of Bergamo sent a team of volunteer workers and a Belgian relief worker has been cooking for the volunteers and others who are without their own stoves.

The tent encampment here toured by U.S. Vice President Nelson Rockefeller shortly after the quake has been transferred to more firm foundations on an old airstrip used by the Germans during World War II. Each large army tent serves a single family, and many of them are outfitted with butane stoves and the furnishings of a small house.

There is a coin-operated laundry and there are sinks for those who prefer to do their laundry by hand. There's a hospital tent for men and women; several portable medical units, a commissary for the distribution of donated food and a playground area for the children.

A flower garden in the middle of the camp cheers things up a bit and a floral pattern spelling out "Osoppo will Rise Again" expresses the faith of the people in their future.

Life in some other villages seems less organized. Most of the ruined buildings of Gemona and Venzona have still not been carted off, partly because they contained art treasures from the Middle Ages.

Some smaller villages high in the mountains of the Friuli area were still inaccessible by road until recently, and much remains to be done for them.

The economic life of the area, however, has recovered remarkably well. An estimated 15,000 were left jobless by the quake, but almost all are now back at work.

The biggest employer in the area, the Snaidero kitchen factory of Maiano, suffered heavy damage. But it kept its 1,000 workers busy during repairs by sending them to work in branch plants in nearby towns.

The biggest "industry" in the area, however, was emigration, with residents of the Friuli territory going abroad by the thousands to work and earn enough money to build a house in their hometowns. The severe shortage of housing for the winter was expected to drive even more abroad.

Throughout the recent 5th World Team Olympiad, observers were impressed by the play of Pietro Bernasconi of Switzerland. Observe his defense on this deal from his country's match against France.

With hearts opened at his left, Bernasconi found the devilish attack of the ten of hearts! Looking at all four hands, it is easy to see that declarer could have made life simple by inserting dummy's jack. However, it seemed from the opening lead that East held a heart honor, so declarer chose to play low from dummy, discarding a diamond from his hand. Having scored a notable success with his opening lead, Bernasconi continued with the nine of hearts. Declarer again ducked in dummy and discarded a spade from his hand, which should have proved a fatal error.

West persisted with the seven of hearts and declarer called for the ace, hoping to drop an honor in the East hand or block the suit. When East showed out, the contract was in considerable jeopardy. Declarer had to bring in the whole club suit, and that spade discard had created some communication problems.

The ace of clubs fetched the ten from West, and the nine of clubs was led and passed. Now it was a simple matter to repeat the club finesse and score nine tricks via five clubs, three spades and the ace of hearts.

Bernasconi's imaginative defense would have paid off had his partner realized the importance of the eight of clubs. Observe what would happen if East covered the nine of clubs with the queen.

Declarer can win the king, but the suit is blocked. To score his three tricks in spades, declarer must cash the ace and overtake the jack. However, when he now leads the seven of clubs, East can play low and, though declarer can finesse, he has no way to get back to his good clubs.

Alternatively, if declarer leaves the ace of spades in his hand as an entry to the clubs, he can pick up the club suit, but he cannot return to dummy to enjoy the third spade without letting West in with the ace of diamonds to cash the setting tricks in hearts.

Son Watched Fatal Shock

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An off-duty Charlotte fireman was electrocuted Thursday when the aluminum ladder he was carrying touched a utility wire while he was on a painting job at Queens College.

His 12-year-old son was watching as Alfred Jones, 31, suffered the fatal shock. Jones was taking care of his young son, Lewis, while his wife and three other sons were out of town.

Jones was working with three other off-duty firemen, painting a dormitory at the time of the accident.

Jones was pronounced dead at Charlotte Memorial Hospital.

Acid Leak's Danger Ends

GOOSE CREEK, S.C. (AP) — The danger from phosphoric acid which leaked from a railroad tank car after a 28-car train derailed near Goose Creek is over. So says Goose Creek Police Chief Solon Lewis.

Lewis said the leak was found shortly after the derailment about 4:30 p.m. Thursday and was plugged. However, he said some of the liquid had leaked into a nearby stream and efforts would be made to see how much, if any, damage was done. Phosphoric acid's chief use is in the production of commercial fertilizer.

The derailment occurred in a relatively unpopulated area of Berkeley County.

Patrolman R.L. Barton of the Goose Creek Police Dept. said a tractor trailer truck was stalled on the tracks and the train applied its brakes to avoid hitting it. He said after the train derailed, the truck started up and left the scene.

He said a crane was to be brought in Thursday to help clear the tracks.

Ravensdal said he planned to fly to Istanbul tonight to try to find his wife.

Jury Trial For Neil Diamond

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pop singer Neil Diamond faces trial next month on a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana. He was cited June 30 after sheriff's deputies allegedly found an ounce of the drug in his Bel Air home.

A lawyer entered an innocent plea for Diamond on Wednesday in Municipal Court, where trial by jury was set for Sept. 27.

Amin Challenged To Aerial Duel

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has been challenged to a duel with pistols while hanging from parachutes. The challenge came from a Danish journalist who says Amin insulted him during a July 5 telephone call after the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport.

"Amin used four-letter words and bawled me out in a way that did not correspond to his high office. Now I have formally challenged him," newsman Jens Thomsen, 51, said Thursday.

"You know, I don't think anything could hurt me as bad as if I couldn't work the Opry again," the 72-year-old performer said later. "I'd have to leave town — just get in my car and start going."

'Saint' Says A Nobility In The Poor

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — To Mother Teresa, the poor are the great ones, the courageous, noble and kind. "Such dignity, such goodness," she says. In them she sees the Divine image. They suffer, yes, but that, too, she says, is like God.

"He made Himself the hungry one, the homeless, naked, unwanted one," she says. "We meet Him in disguise in the faces of the poor."

Mother Teresa, a small, fragile, slightly stooped nun of 67, whose work among the "poorest of the poor" in Calcutta, India, has grown into the worldwide Missionaries of Charity, seems to radiate that same selflessness which she finds in those who have nothing.

A grieving compassion lines her face, and when she smiles, it seems as if the light wells up from some shadowy, forgotten place of tears.

She was repeatedly referred to as a "saint" at last week's International Eucharistic Congress here and crowds of people trailed her about, seeking to press her hand or simply to touch her white sari, the habit of her order.

Through her, that customary Eastern impulse to share or absorb the "karma" of some holy person by getting near them seemed to have been transported into the West.

"The poor do not want your pity," she says. "They want your love. But do we see them? Do we know them? Are we with them? When we come before God, He will judge us on what we have been to the poor, on what we have done to the poor."

At the Congress, a global gathering of Roman Catholics centered on faith in Christ's real presence in the bread and wine of the eucharist, or holy communion, Mother Teresa gave several talks and interviews.

"People have told us that we spoil the poor with our work," she said. "It is good to have at least one congregation that spoils the poor because everybody is always spoiling the rich."

She told graphic stories of work with the desperately poor, of a family of eight which, on being given some rice, first shared it with hungry neighbors before eating; of a starving woman who died saying "thank you" simply for being picked up from the street and shown some concern.

"She gave me much more than I gave her," Mother Teresa said. "She gave her grateful love." Strangely, she said, that reversed giving is the case with the poor. "They give much more than we give them."

She said that while many in Asia and Africa suffer material poverty, the affluent people of America and Europe suffer from a poverty of their own. "It is not less painful," she said. "It is the terrible poverty of loneliness, of abandonment, a feeling of being lost. They want to be loved, to be somebody to somebody. It is a poverty of the spirit, a hunger for God."

As a specific example, she cited abortion. "It is very, very great poverty to decide that a child must die that you may live as you wish."

Acuff Ready To Perform Again

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music star Roy Acuff says he'll be ready to perform this weekend at Opryland U.S.A.

The 38-year Grand Ol' Opry veteran suffered a heart attack last April and made his first appearance since then on Wednesday, opening his show with his most famous song, "Wabash Cannonball."

He also did his traditional yoyo tricks and balanced his fiddle bow on the end of his nose.

"You know, I don't think anything could hurt me as bad as if I couldn't work the Opry again," the 72-year-old performer said later. "I'd have to leave town — just get in my car and start going."

"SNATCH SQUADS"—Helmeted British Army "snatch squads" arrest two youths in maintaining order during Thursday's march of an estimated 10,000 Protestants in Londonderry. Security reinforcements were ordered to the predominantly Catholic city in advance of the parade during which, military intelligence predicted, the Irish Republican Army was planning a confrontation. (AP Wirephoto)

Vaccinations In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first vaccine in the government's swine-flu inoculation program will not be available until late September, about two months before the peak of the next flu season, according to the director of the national immunization program.

Dr. W. Delano Meriwether, director of the program, said Thursday that when the immunization program is in full swing, more than one million Americans a day will get shots.

Vaccinations will be given on a first come, first served basis. They will be voluntary and the vaccine itself is free, but private doctors can charge for their services in giving the shots.

President Ford on Thursday signed a bill clearing the way for the immunization campaign and directed authorities to move quickly to make the vaccine available to all Americans. Four drug companies already have produced about 120 million doses of flu vaccine in bulk form.

The federal vaccine program, stalled for several months, now faces a race against time as the flu season approaches.

In a signing ceremony in the Oval Office, Ford called swine flu a "potential public health emergency."

He thanked Congress for responding to his pleas to pass the legislation, which provides insurance for the drug companies manufacturing the vaccine.

"Scientific and medical evidence continues to support the need for a national influenza immunization program," Ford said. "We have developed a safe and effective vaccine with a very low risk of adverse reactions."

Judge Rules No Trustee Status

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — A Micro, N.C., man who has spent each weekend during the past six months in jail found out Thursday that he's going to have to serve 216 more week-end days in the Johnston County lockup.

Darrell Jackson Bass, 32, was convicted last May of driving under the influence and felonious assault on a law enforcement officer. He was sentenced to spend 27 weekends in jail. Johnston County Sheriff Aaron Wood, however, granted him jail trustee status and allowed him to leave the jail for medical treatment and to go to church.

At a Thursday hearing, Judge A. Pilson Godwin Jr. found that Wood erred when he granted Bass trustee status.

Record Average At Farmville

FARMVILLE—The increase of volume of the quality grades of yesterday's sale was responsible for the highest average on record at the Farmville Tobacco Market according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"The demand was strong on almost all grades yesterday. Nondescript grades made up only a small per cent of the sales," Williams said.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only 1.27 per cent of the gross sales Thursday. The Farmville Tobacco Market sold 364,066 pounds for $416,379 for an average of $114.37 per 100 pounds. To date 7,830,742 pounds have been sold for $7,938,799 with an average of $101.38 per 100 pounds.

Howard Lee On Sunday Program

Howard Lee, democratic candidate for Lt. Gov. of North Carolina will appear as special guest on WNCN television's show "Together" Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

Eve Roger, hostess of the show will be talking with the former Mayor of Chapel Hill about his political views and concerns. Lee will talk about the office of lieutenant governor and its various responsibilities.

Also appearing on the show will be Mrs. Tennala Gross, president of North Carolina Women Caucus and Mrs. Janice Faulkner, East Carolina University Professor of English.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Rev. Clinton Tetterton of Washington will be the guest speaker at a service for the senior ushers of Phillippi Baptist Church in Simpson Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Sponsors of the service are Mrs. Fleeta Tetterton, Mrs. Jannette Artis and Charlie Jannette. The public is invited.

Godwin said that Wood "has failed to execute the (original) judgement" and ruled that Bass serve his 216 hour sentence again.

"In the jail means in the jail," Godwin declared.

Bass's trustee status came to light at an Aug. 3 civil hearing in Johnston County District Court in which he asked that his estranged wife be cited for contempt for not allowing him to visit their 4-year old daughter on weekends.

Bass testified then that he had been allowed out of the jail from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday since serving his first weekend.

At the Thursday hearing, Sheriff Wood's attorney, W.R. Britt, told Godwin that Bass had only been allowed out to receive medical treatment, to go to church on Sundays and once to attend a family reunion.

Britt was cut off by the judge who said sharply that the policy of the jail in granting trustee status "is not going to prevail."

Godwin's ruling stipulates that Bass serve the 216 hours in a locked cell on weekends following the completion of the original sentence on Nov. 14.

Bass was clearly upset with the decision. Standing outside the jail after the hearing, Bass asked "why can other people make trustee if I can't?"

"Man, I've been handed a raw deal," he lamented.

Plan Observing Woman's Day

Woman's Day will be observed at the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church Sunday. A women's chorus will provide the music for the 11 a.m. worship service. Ms. Jean Johnson Darden will be the guest speaker.

Recognition will be given to women who have been members of the Cornerstone Baptist Church for 25 years or more.

The youth department will be in charge of the 3 p.m. service.

Evangelist To Preach Sunday

Dr. West Shields, Jr. of Greenville, evangelist, will preach at Bynum Chapel Baptist Church Sunday. Music will be furnished by the McDowell family of Pinetops.

Services will begin at 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

EXTENDED WEATHER

Scattered showers Sunday through Tuesday. Highs mostly in the 80s, lows in the 60s except low 70s near the coast.

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon—the explosion" . . . invite that person to come to church with you and your family.

Only Half Knew They Had It

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of 23 million Americans — one of every 10 — suffers from high blood pressure, according to the Health Insurance Institute. The disease affects one of every four blacks, one of every seven adults and — an even grimmer statistic — only half of those affected by the ailment know they have it.

The family of
Mrs. Mary Vines Tyson Young will always remember your kindness and sympathy.
Perhaps you said a silent prayer,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent a funeral spray,
If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words.
That any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all.
Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much, whatever the part.

Probably Slain For Drug Links

ROUEMONT, N.C. (AP) — A missing Ft. Bragg soldier probably has been killed because of drug traffic connection, says Haywood Starling, director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Sgt. David Dale Schultz, 21, was last seen on the military base on June 24 when he checked out for a 24-day leave. The day before, he had been a defense witness at a military drug trial.

His disappearance came on the heels of a state and military drug crackdown in which 33 civilian and military persons have been charged on more than 70 counts of drug trafficking in the Ft. Bragg area.

Schultz' car was discovered in the parking lot of Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg. On July 29, Army officials asked the SBI for help in locating Schultz, citing the belief of the soldier's family that foul play was involved.

Starling, during a speech Thursday to a meeting of military lawyers and members of the state attorney general's staff, said Schultz "probably was killed because of his drug connections."

Lt. Col. Ron David, public affairs officer at Ft. Bragg, said, "We're baffled by Schultz' disappearance."

David said that Schultz was a witness for the defense in a court-martial of Frederick Slater of the 82nd Airborne Division. Slater was charged with transferring PCP, an animal tranquilizer.

Slater was convicted and sentenced to four months' confinement at hard labor.

David added that Schultz "was not connected with any heroin dealers, no kingpin. He was just a smalltime guy."

Joe Ward
For U.S. Congress

Dear Republican Friends,
The August 17th primary is approaching rapidly. Joe Ward, a family physician from Ayden is deeply concerned with the direction in which our nation is heading. He has spent most of his adult life serving the citizens of Martin, Pitt and Greene counties. Now Dr. Ward wants to serve YOU as your Congressman. We strongly endorse Joe Ward and encourage you to vote for him.

Thank You,

Mr. Herb Lee
District Chairman

Mr. Malcolm Howard
Pitt County Chairman & Former Congressional Candidate

Mr. Dixie Green
Former Pitt County Chairman

Mr. Harry McMullan, III
Former Congressional Candidate

Mrs. Faye Everette
Widow of Frank Everette, Former Congressional Candidate

Mr. John Wilkinson
Former Congressional Candidate

Direct mail to the Republicans during the Primary does little to help defeat the Democratic Nominee in November. This money can be better spent in media advertising, therefore, early in the campaign, I promise Harold Stroud that I would not use a general mailing.

Paid for by Joe Ward, Republican Candidate for Congress. Joe Ward
