

Light Turnout Across State As Tar Heel Voters Have Their Say

By The Associated Press
Early reports indicated a light to medium turnout today as voters cast ballots for governor, lieutenant governor and a host of other races in North Carolina's primary election.

The weather was sunny. The polls opened at 6:30 a.m. and close at 7:30 p.m.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said scattered reports from over the state indicated a fair to moderate voter turnout.

A spot check of some polls in Yadkin, Surry and Yadkin counties showed voting light to moderate in the early hours.

In High Point, voting was above what was expected in a check of six precincts.

Bill Culp, an elections board official in Charlotte, said, "Indications are there will be a pretty brisk voting day because there was a substantial number of people standing before the polls opened."

In Cumberland, a check of 14 of 50 precincts showed the voting light to medium. In only one precinct was the voting heavy.

Predictions of a light vote appeared to be accurate in Guilford County. Officials reported that only one to two persons were waiting at some precincts when the polls opened. Early voters were able to move in and out of the voting booth quickly.

A report from Asheville indicated the turnout was light to heavy at 14 of 50 precincts checked.

Campaigning in a primary that is notable for its blandness concluded Monday with some small amount of politicking continuing today, mostly in the form of last gasp radio and television appeals for votes aimed at those who haven't been to the polls yet.

Elections officials predicted a light turnout: only 670,000 to 700,000 of the state's 1.76 million Democrats and 160,000 to 171,000 of the 572,000 Republicans.

Raleigh drew most of the Democratic gubernatorial candidates Monday as the campaigns wound up. The city was visited by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

George Wood, Ed O'Herron and state Sen. Thomas Strickland. On the GOP side, only David Flaherty was in the Capital City.

Hunt, who flew around the state, said he is hoping to gain a victory today so there won't be a runoff. But, he said if he gets less than 50 per cent of the vote, he is planning to "beat the pants off" the other runoff contender.

Hunt also said he was hoping for a mandate to make North Carolina a progressive state.

Wood predicted that he would finish second, but did not offer a guess about his percentage of the vote.

He visited state workers during the day and reiterated his promise to try to bring state salaries up to the level of private industry. He and his campaign workers handed out ice cream cones on Capitol Square at noon.

O'Herron also made an air tour of the state. He said his "trend is certainly upward" and said he could finish first.

Strickland toured several state buildings to shake hands with workers. He also released a statement that some of the promises made by other candidates are not realistic and promised to try to make existing programs work better.

Flaherty said he was worried that a divisive GOP national convention could hurt the chances of Republicans being elected in North Carolina. He also said state GOP candidates are hard pressed for money because Tar Heel Republicans gave heavily to President Ford and Ronald Reagan.

Campaigning in the western part of the state, GOP contender Coy C. Privette called for resigning the agencies in the Department of Commerce and abolishing the department.

Jake Alexander, another GOP candidate, took his low-key campaign to Rowan, Burke and Henderson counties.

Also on the GOP ballot is Wallace McCall and J.A. "Andy" Barker is the fifth Democrat running.

In the Democratic contest for lieutenant governor, seven men and one woman struggled for a spot on the likely runoff. Former Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee is the only black seeking statewide office and has tried to convince voters that he's not running as a black, but as a candidate who just happens to be black.

A number of others in the race say Lee will finish in first or second place today.

House Speaker Jimmy Green of Bladen County wants to lead the Senate and has run on his political experience. Waverly Akins, an ex-FBI agent, put on a strong last-gasp television campaign.

State Rep. Herbert Hyde of Buncombe didn't advertise on television because he didn't have the money. John Jordan advertised and hoped his name—his father was a U.S. Senator—would win him a spot in a runoff.

C.A. Brown Jr., E. Frank Stephenson Jr. and Kathryn McRacken continued their low-budget personal campaigns.

Vying for Republican nomination are Odell Payne of Greensboro and Bill Hiatt of Mt. Airy.

In the Council of State contests, veteran Secretary of State Thad Eure faces a tough Democratic challenge from George Breece. The winner will face the winner of the GOP contest between Asa Spaulding and C.Y. Nannery.

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, elected just four years ago, faces tough competition from Joe Johnson who admits that the industry has bankrolled his effort. Johnson is an insurance professor at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro who says he would make the office more responsive to all sides. Ingram has accused him of being an industry tool, which Johnson denies.

Ingram was hospitalized in Raleigh Monday suffering flu and exhaustion. He was to be released today, a spokesman said.

State Treasurer Edwin Gill is retiring and has endorsed his deputy Harlan Boyles. Putting up a determined fight is R. Lane Brown III, a lawyer and state representative.

Ford Said Near Victory As First Battle Begins

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — With party rules and platform planks as the issues, Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan are heading into the first critical test of their delegate strength at the 1976 Republican National Convention.

Reagan and his strategists chose the issues on which the key votes would be taken tonight, but as the time for balloting drew near Ford's delegate total in the contest for the presidential nomination moved to within three votes of the 1,130 needed for victory.

The latest Associated Press survey, based on legal commitments and publicly stated preferences, gave Ford 1,127, Reagan 1,036, with 96 uncommitted.

For weeks the Ford camp has claimed the President had 1,135 votes, while Reagan's managers have said the former California governor was certain of 1,140 votes on the first ballot for the presidential nomination.

But those claims were viewed largely as part of the intense political, psychological warfare the two men aimed at each other and at the uncommitted delegates who hold the key to the aspirations of both men.

The roll call votes tonight, occurring just 24 hours before the presidential balloting, will be taken as a clear sign of which man will leave Kansas City as the Republican nominee for president.

A decisive victory for either man could cripple the other's chance for the nomination.

The Reagan forces are geared for a floor fight tonight on their proposal to require that each presidential candidate name his proposed running mate before the balloting on the presidential nomination.

Reagan backers call it the "right to know" rule. The Ford camp describes it as Reagan's attempt to force the President to endure an uproar similar to that which Reagan encountered when he named Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as his choice for the vice presidential nomination.

Ford's backers called the Reagan proposal the "misery loves company" rule.

The other major fight planned by the Reagan camp involves the foreign policy plank in the Republican platform which will be presented to the convention for approval.

Entitled "Morality in Foreign Policy," the Reagan amendment to the platform would insert a statement implicitly critical of the policy of detente with the Soviet Union pursued by Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The Reagan statement would put the Republican party on record as supporting many of the criticisms of Ford foreign policy that the former California governor used as campaign issues.

Nonetheless, some Ford advisers were recommending that the President accept the amendment and avoid a divisive floor fight, according to sources close to the campaign.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Ford's convention floor manager, said a final decision on how to deal with the proposal probably wouldn't be made until Ford strategists could assess the vote on the rules, scheduled to come up before the platform committee report.

The proposed plank include the following statements:

"Ours will be a foreign policy which recognizes that in international negotiations we must make no undue concessions; that in pursuing detente we must not grant unilateral favors with only the hope of getting future favors in return."

"Agreements that are negotiated, such as the one signed in Helsinki, must not take from those who do not have freedom the hope of one day gaining it."

"Finally, we are committed to a foreign policy in which secret agreements, hidden from our people, will have no part."

Ford signed and Reagan assailed the Helsinki agreement on future East-West relations in Europe.

Another platform fight is likely to occur on the abortion issue. But that does not involve a test between Ford and Reagan supporters. Some platform committee members plan a floor fight to delete an endorsement of "the efforts of those who seek enactment of a con-

Lee Promises Advisory Group

Howard Lee, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, promised yesterday to initiate a lieutenant governor's advisory cabinet if elected.

Lee stopped in Greenville as part of a one-day plane tour of the state.

"The lieutenant governor's advisory cabinet would consist of chairpersons of all standing Senate committees, chairpersons of all joint committees and the Speaker of the House," said Lee.

"The cabinet would assist the lieutenant governor and the speaker in preparing for subsequent sessions of the General Assembly."

Lee cited his experiences as mayor of Chapel Hill as valuable.

"My experiences as mayor have enabled me to preside in executive areas," he said.

"As adviser to the Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen, I was able to engage in legislation."

"The lieutenant governor needs to be involved in the legislative and executive processes, and I feel my experience makes me the most qualified man for the job."

Lee responded to rumors that he planned to endorse a gubernatorial candidate.

"I will not endorse a candidate for governor," he said.

"I have great faith in the voters in North Carolina, and it is not my role in any way to even attempt to influence."

"I fully intend to work with whoever is in the governor's office."

Lee said he was "extremely pleased with and proud of" the media in the state, and thanked his campaign workers across the state.

"We are here in the twilight hours of the campaign," he said.

"I'm still convinced that the nomination should be in our grasp tomorrow when the polls close."

"I want to point forth a new sense of hope for this state, where people who run for office have an atmosphere of warmth and freedom."

My eight-month-old baby loves to play with the newspaper. I have heard that the colored inks are dangerous, and I wonder if the black ink is harmful, too. The baby sometimes puts the paper in his mouth. S. A.

We related your question to D. J. Whichard, Jr., chairman of the board for the Reflector. He said the black ink is composed of petroleum oil and lampblack (carbon). The ink, while not "poisonous," cannot be recommended as a steady diet, he commented.

Mr. Whichard said the real danger in letting your child play with the paper comes from the fibers which make up the newspaper. These fibers can enter a child's respiratory tract and choke him. Perhaps it would be a good idea for the child to be watched very carefully to prevent him from putting the paper into his mouth.

BIRTHDAY APPEARANCE?

How would I go about getting Greenville's Clown Alley to my son's birthday party? H. J.

Hunt Winds Up Campaign Here

By SUSAN QUINN

"We are travelling across the state today trying to review the campaign theme," Democratic Gubernatorial candidate, Jim Hunt said Monday at the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

"We are seeking a mandate from the voters of North Carolina to restore progressive, people-oriented leadership in the governor's office," Hunt said.

"We are seeking a mandate for high light bill reform, a mandate to cut down crime, a mandate to allow every child to read and a mandate for more jobs, ideas and programs. We want to make this the most progressive state in the South and we can," Hunt said.

Hunt said that he is proud of his campaign and the response that he has received throughout the state.

"I am proud of this campaign and the ideas we have offered for what we can do to solve some of our problems. Over 21,000 people have contributed to our campaign. I believe that we have shown that you don't have to be personally wealthy and you don't have to be indebted to big money to be elected governor of North Carolina," Hunt said.

"We are just looking for 50.1 per cent tomorrow, but if we don't get it then we will beat the pants off of anyone that runs in the runoff," Hunt said.

Hunt toured the state Monday in a series of plane stops.

A sampling of polling places this morning showed a light voter turnout for today's primary election, although most registrars said they believed voting would pick up later in the day.

Esther Newman at Greenville's eighth precinct said 126 persons had voted as of 8:30 this morning.

"Voting is going slower than I expected," she said.

"In the first hour, we had less than 60 persons to vote."

The Farmville polling place reported 290 voters as of 10 a.m., and Roger Barefoot labeled the turnout "very light."

Voting in Winterville was "slower than expected," according to Rommie Mallison, with 139 voters as of 10:15 a.m.

Beulah Allen, registrar at Greenville's seventh precinct, reported that 229 persons had voted as of 10:15 a.m.

"It's picking up, though," said Ms. Allen.

"Although there's not a big rush, people are coming in pretty constantly."

"The turnout is about what was predicted. Things are going pretty well, but it's not been too heavy so far."

In Bethel, 125 persons had voted as of 10:30 a.m., and registrar Irma Carson said voting was going along "fairly well."

"We're doing fine right now, but I know we're going to have a light turnout," she said.

Voting was "fairly slow" at Grimesland's first precinct, with 35 voters as of 10:15 this morning, according to Jean Wilson, registrar.

"Sometimes we only have 150 voters in a whole day," said Ms. Wilson.

"Things are going pretty much as expected. Voting should pick up later in the day."

Johnny Dills, registrar at the Fountain polling place, said the voting was "running pretty good for this time of day."

Dilda reported that 55 persons had voted as of 10:30 this morning.

Registrar John A. Guy at Greenville's fourth precinct reported that 90 persons had voted as of 9:30 a.m., and labeled the turnout as "normal" for the precinct.

"There was a projection that turnout would be relatively light," said Guy.

"but it should get heavier during the day."

Mark L. Turnage, 93, voted at the fourth precinct this morning, assisted by his nephew, Les Turnage.

Mark Turnage has been voting since he was legally able in 1904 and says he "very definitely believes in voting."

"I started voting when I was 21," he said.

"I've been voting for a long, long time. My endurance has been remarkable, hasn't it?"

Mr. Turnage said he would probably vote for Jimmy Carter in the November presidential election.

"I've always voted the Democratic ticket unless I thought the other man was better," he said.

City Schools Okayed For Aug. 31 Opening

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville City Schools will open on the originally scheduled date of Tuesday, August 31. That will be a part day pupil orientation date with the first full day of school to be on Wednesday, September 1.

At the regular meeting of the Greenville City School Board last night, the decision to go ahead with the August date was made possible on the basis of an August 13 letter from Greenville Chief Inspector Alton Warren, in which he states . . . "In my opinion, all of the schools except Third Street can reopen on August 31, 1976."

Third Street School, condemned 12 days before the close of the 1975-76 school year, has been scheduled to reopen for the 1977-78 school year following necessary renovations.

In a similar letter, dated August 16, City Fire Marshal Jerry McLawhorn noted he and others "made an inspection of E. B. Aycock Jr. High School, Elmhurst Elementary School, Agnes Fullilove, and Sadie Sautler Elementary School. I found that most of the fire hazards have been corrected . . . with the exception of Third Street Elementary School. I do not see any reason that these schools not open at the scheduled time."

School board members went on record to have Supt. Glenn

Cox procure from McLawhorn a letter for record stating specifically that all the schools (except Third Street) meet fire requirements for reopening on August 31. This is to eliminate any possibility of misunderstanding since McLawhorn mentioned by name only four schools in his approval letter.

In connection with school opening, the board also approved the school's administration making a request for an exception to the state board for conducting the Greenville kindergarten program on a daily schedule of 8:10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The 1:30 p.m. daily time is one hour shorter than the state recommended 2:30 p.m. end of school day hour for kindergarten and primary grades.

(A full schedule of operating hours for the entire school program will be carried in this paper at a later date.)

Acceptance of bids for providing bread and milk for the city schools was approved. Low bid for bread products went to "Dainty Maid." The low bid accepted for milk and ice cream products was that made by Carolina Dairies.

Also approved was the annual schedule for the School Food Service free lunch policies. The schedule is identical to that adopted by the county schools.

Cox announced results of the previously board directed action to have various Greenville banks handle Central Office funds on an annual rotating basis. The schedule of rotating banking services are: 1976-77, Planters National Bank; 1977-78, Wachovia Bank and Trust Company; 1978-79, Branch Bank and Trust Company; 1979-80, N.C. National Bank; 1980-81, Bank of North Carolina; and 1981-82, First State Bank.

A school board budget workshop has been scheduled for August 30. At that time, board members will make a final review of the total budget so that any recommendations for changes can be made to the County Commissioners. Under existing laws, school boards are authorized to make changes within each individual budget item that amount to no more than ten per cent of the total amount for each item. Any amount beyond the ten per cent that may be recommended has to be approved by county commissioners. Cox said presentation of any request for budget amendments by the board would be considered on the September 7 agenda of the county commissioners.

In an executive session, the board considered pupil reassignment requests for eight out-of-district pupils. Two of the six were accepted for assignment to city schools based on medical reasons. The requests for the other six were not approved.

Free Lunch Schedule Set

The Pitt County Schools and the Greenville City Schools recently announced their policy for free and reduced-price meals, and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following chart of family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

For example families with only one member with an income of 0-$3,680 may receive free meals and with an income of $3,681 to $5,730 may receive reduced-rate meals.

Family Size	INCOME
	Free	Reduced
1	0 - 3,680	3,681 - 5,730
2	0 - 4,830	4,831 - 7,530
3	0 - 5,980	5,981 - 9,320
4	0 - 7,130	7,131 - 11,110
5	0 - 8,190	8,191 - 12,770
6	0 - 9,240	9,241 - 14,410
7	0 - 10,200	10,201 - 15,910
8	0 - 11,150	11,151 - 17,390
9	0 - 12,010	12,011 - 18,740
10	0 - 12,870	12,871 - 20,090
11	0 - 13,730	13,731 - 21,430
12	0 - 14,590	14,591 - 22,770
Each additional family member	860	1,340

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of the family income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child and disaster or casualty losses, are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits.

Under the provisions of the policy the principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Thomas L. Craft, Jr., Associate Superintendent, P.O. Box 778, Greenville, phone 752-6106 for the county schools and Glenn Cox at the Greenville City Schools office, phone 752-4192 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes the family should contact the school to file a new application.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Each school and the administrative offices of the Pitt County Schools and the Greenville City Schools has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Thirty-Three New Teachers

Resignations of ten Greenville City School teachers; one maternity leave request; and election of 33 new teachers were approved at the Monday night regular monthly meeting of the board.

Two of the ten resigning are tenured teacher personnel. J. T. Perry of the Rose High School faculty has resigned to accept an assistant principal position at Snow Hill. Leroy Winstead, Jr. formerly at Agnes Fullilove, has resigned to accept an assistant principal post in one of the county schools.

Of the 33 new teachers elected, 30 are female and three are male. The elected teachers are mostly to fill positions in the elementary schools.

An organizational chart that reassigned some areas of responsibility; establishes the food service as one of eight major divisions; and reinstates the two-year lapsed position of Director of Federal Programs was presented by Supt. Glenn Cox to the board.

Under the new organization, the eight divisions and the name of division directors are: Buildings and Grounds, Robert (Bob) Stewart; Financial Affairs, Mrs. Naomi Edwards; Food Service, Mrs. Carolyn Gwaltney; Federal Programs, Fraeger Sanders; Elementary Education, Charles Ross; Secondary Education, Mrs. Audrey (Kay) Whitehurst; and Pupil Personnel and Exceptional Child, Mrs. Ann Harrison.

Board members also heard a petition from the Elmhurst PTA requesting that Mrs. Betty Sue Forrest be returned to the position of principal at Elmhurst for the 1976-77 school year.

Cox has assigned Mrs. Forrest as principal at South Greenville and has assigned Joseph Smith, formerly principal at Third Street to Elmhurst.

The petition, noting that the PTA had met in two special sessions, on August 12 and 16, asks that a policy be established that would give contract and notice of assignment in writing at the end of each school year.

School Board chairman Henry Dunn, expressing appreciation for the concern of the group presenting the petition, added "we accept the petition as presented to us."

In response to questions from the audience seeking to know why the issue could not be discussed in detail, Dunn and school board member Miles Frost explained that under state law, a matter concerning an individual need not be discussed in public meetings.

"We (the school board) charged Cox to evaluate and assign personnel on the basis of meeting the needs of the schools. This he has done," Frost commented.

It was added that only Mrs. Forrest had the prerogative to request that the superintendent and or the school board reconsider the assignment.

Moslem Leader Vows Fight To The Death

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt today vowed a fight to the death against Christian and Syrian forces trying to drive his Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies from the mountains east of Beirut.

"We will not withdraw as much as one iota," Jumblatt declared. "We will defend our positions in the mountain area because it is for us a battle for survival."

The Libyan undersecretary for foreign affairs, Abu Zeid Dourdab, conferred with Jumblatt and Palestinian chieftain Yasir Arafat. The Moslems' Beirut Radio said he told them Libya would continue its "unlimited support" to their forces. Jumblatt's statement defied an ultimatum from Christian President Suleiman Franjeh, who in a broadcast Monday night said the Christians would not stop fighting until the Palestinians returned to their 15 refugee camps and observed long-dead agreements restricting their military activity in Lebanon.

Since the fall of the Tal Zaatir camp last week, the Christians have been massing forces in the Meten area 18 miles east of the capital with the announced intention of ousting Moslem and Palestinian forces occupying traditionally Christian towns and villages in the mountains.

The Christians claimed that Syrian troops occupied the town of Hammana, cutting a key supply route to the Moslems and Palestinians on the mountain front. A Christian broadcast said a second Syrian column advanced into the mountain town of Bhamdoun, 12 miles east of Beirut, and took over an intersection commanding another supply route to the leftists. The report said Moslems and Palestinians tried in vain to stop the Syrian advances with artillery, mortars and rockets.

Palestinian officials denied the Christian claims and said the action was still confined to artillery and rocket exchanges that were no more intense than usual.

Western reporters who visited the area Monday saw no large Syrian troop movements. But some reports said the Syrians advanced during the evening after the reporters left.

Jumblatt and the Palestinians are demanding withdrawal of Syrian forces from Lebanon as the price for their own withdrawal from the mountain positions.

Meanwhile, fighting continued with machine guns, mortars and hand grenades in Beirut's devastated commercial sector and between the Chiyah and Ein Rummaneh suburbs. The night's casualty toll was estimated at about 70 killed and 100 wounded.

Scouts Set Open House

The First Annual Scouts of America Crafts and Crime Prevention Open House will be held at Saint James United Methodist Church Wednesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Greenville's Boys Scout Troop No. 340 will show its crafts and explain that tools they use in making the crafts.

The program will include the marking of any valuables belonging to the public by the Greenville Crime Prevention Department and the Greenville Police Cadets.

Other scouts are invited to display their crafts at the show.

For further information contact the program coordinator, Henry Tate at 756-3296.

State Officials Plan For Swine Flu Shots

RALEIGH (AP) — State health officials are preparing for a massive program to inoculate up to 4 million North Carolinians against swine flu in as little as 40 days.

Dr. J. N. MacCormack, head of the communicable disease branch of the state Department of Human Resources, said a schedule will be set as soon as he knows when the vaccine will arrive.

"We're training people to operate the air guns that will be used to give the shots, we've put the flyers in the mail and we have a schedule of sorts," MacCormack said.

He added indications were the vaccine would arrive in mid-September at the earliest. Once the vaccine arrives, health officials will begin a west-to east, county-by-county sweep of the state, starting first in Cherokee County.

MacCormack said the west was chosen as the starting point for basically three reasons. "First of all, we wanted to be out of the mountains before bad weather hit; we wanted to start there because people down East will still be busy with tobacco and might not come to the clinics; and thirdly we had to start somewhere," he explained.

Clinics will be set up in several locations in each county and up to four days will be spent in the more populated counties like Wake, Mecklenburg, Forsyth and Guilford. MacCormack said less time will be spent in smaller counties.

He added that the program will involve health officials at all levels.

Sales Snap All Marks

FARMVILLE—Due to an increase in better grades of tobacco sold on the Farmville Tobacco Market Monday, averages broke all records, according to Louis Williams sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"The quality of tobacco was outstanding and the demand was strong Monday. Offerings of more leaves and smoking leaves were greater than any previous day this year," Williams said.

"The volume of primings and nondescript grades was the highest of the season. Stabilization receipts accounted for only 1.65 per cent of the gross sales as compared to 29.51 per cent of the gross sales on the same sale day last year," he said.

The Farmville Tobacco Market sold 688,190 pounds Monday for $812,522 with an average of $118.07 per 100 pounds. To date it has sold 8,518,932 pounds for $8,751,351 for an average of $102.73 per 100 pounds.

Steiger Is At Home

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Oscar-winning actor Rod Steiger is convalescing at home after being released from a hospital where he underwent cardiac bypass surgery a week ago.

Steiger, 51, left Daniel Freeman Memorial hospital Sunday, 10 days after he checked in. Officials said he was making a rapid recovery.

Steiger won an Academy Award as best actor for his performance as a Southern sheriff in the film, "In the Heat of the Night." He starred recently as W.C. Fields in "W.C. Fields and Me."

120 Pints Collected

Only 120 pints of blood were collected at the Red Cross Bloodmobile which was at the Greenville Moose Lodge yesterday.

Two hundred were needed. Red Cross Blood Committee Chairman, Bob Whichard said. Nine people willing to give were deferred for health reasons.

"We hope to do better today and tomorrow," Whichard said. The Bloodmobile will be at the Moose Lodge again today till 4 p.m. and will be at the Burroughs-Wellcome plant tomorrow.

Contradictory Trends Seen In Dining Halls

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Two seemingly contradictory trends are growing in college and university dining halls: more fast food such as hamburgers and french fries, and better balanced meals.

The trend toward better nutrition actually started a few years ago when dramatic increases in food prices began, say food industry sources and an executive of the National Association of College and University Food Services.

The situation is "causing us to take a harder look at what we are doing (on campus)," said Kent Dohrman in a telephone interview. Dohrman is immediate past president of the Michigan-based food services organization and director of food and residential services for the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana, which feeds about 9,500 students per meal 20 meals a week in seven residential dining halls.

"Several campuses have contracted with fast food operators," he said. One state university, which Dohrman declined to identify, has developed its own McDonald's type operation.

He said the popularity of burgers and other fast foods has had a definite impact on student union dining services and even a minor impact on the board plan that for a flat fee provides a set number of meals per week for a student.

"Students are very receptive to fast foods. They're no different than they were eight or 10 years ago. They're still in a hurry to eat," he said.

Dohrman said some campus food services consequently offer a burger or hot beef sandwich line in their board plan at lunch or at night in their regular menu.

He sees a very positive response among students to better nutrition: to nutrition education, whether it is based on the Basic Four concept of dairy, meat, vegetables and fruit products or on the nutritional value of individual foods. He said students also show great concern about food waste. He expects that concern to spill over into the restaurant industry when the generation now in college enters the business and professional worlds.

"I think more and more restaurants are going to offer different size meals," Dohrman said. Dining halls already do so on some campuses, by popular request.

He sees no noticeable impact so far by students cooking, legally or illegally, in their rooms with portable electrical appliances.

"It's illegal, but everybody has hot plates, toaster ovens and electric frypans," said Rosey Mizner, who will be a sophomore this fall at the University of Buffalo in western New York State. "We're allowed to rent a 2-by-3-foot refrigerator to use in our rooms. We keep a few basic things in it."

Rosey, who described dining hall food as "cotton and air and grease," said:

"I'm used to pretty good food and some of my friends are nutritionists." Her mother heads the test kitchen at a New York City public relations firm that has many food accounts.

"A friend got a wok for her birthday, and we've been making lots of Chinese vegetable dishes," she said.

Rosey said she uses some processed foods, such as dried kosher soup mix, but adds extra meat and vegetables.

Popular though they are, burgers and french fries have not cut into the growing tastes for some foods that were taboo just a few years ago.

"Nine years ago we couldn't sell liver. Now it's popular with men and women. Spinach, too," said Joseph W. Bogart, vice president and general manager of Saga Food Service's educational division. The Kalamazoo-based company's customers include colleges and universities in 44 states.

"It's almost mandatory at dinner to ask for two vegetables and a green salad," Bogart said.

He said Mexican foods are widely popular on campuses, and not just in the Southwest.

"The deli (delicatessen) concept has really taken hold — sandwiches made to order while the student watches. Campus feeding reflects the way the population in general eats away from home."

If that's the case, some meal habits are changing. Edward Engoron, marketing vice president of Mannings, a San Francisco-based contract feeder, said students these days are just as likely to eat burgers for breakfast and eggs for dinner, instead of vice versa. He also said a marketing survey showed men prefer salads more than women do and women eat more sweets than men.

Thomas-Williams Vows Spoken

The marriage of Zelda Ruth Williams and Rickey Gerard

Thomas, both of Brooklyn, N.Y., was solemnized in the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church Sunday, Aug. 8.

The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. B. Felder following the morning worship service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Willie Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Eunice Thomas, all of Brooklyn, N.Y.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Hal Williams of Brooklyn, N.Y., wore a traditional floor length gown of bridal lace and net over a slip of taffeta. The gown was fashioned with a round neckline and long sleeves. The bodice was overlaid with lace which extended to points on the skirt.

Her three-quarter length veil was attached to a lace and pearl covered headpiece and her bouquet was of pink roses and baby's breath tied with white streamers.

The best man was David Barnhill of Greenville.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Selina Forbes.

After a wedding trip to Washington, the couple will reside in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The bride and bridegroom are both students. She attends Brooklyn College and he is a student at Westchester University.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Vandella Alston, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Alston honored the couple at a luncheon on Monday.

Couple Weds In Ceremony

ALBANY, N.Y. — Miss Vivian Diana Wilkins became the bride of Roy Jenkins on Saturday, Aug. 7, at the Mount Olive Missionary Baptist Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William H. Wilkins of Albany, and the late Mr. Wilkins, formerly of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins of Albany, N.Y.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Odell Wesley Surgick. William Curtis Wilkins gave his sister in marriage.

Mrs. Roy Jenkins

The bride is a graduate of Albany Senior High School and attended the Junior College of Albany. She is presently employed by the Albany Medical Center.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Phillip Schuyler High School and is presently employed at the Research Foundation of State University of New York.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. Department of Agriculture study shows about one out of every five Americans does some home sewing annually. At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Around this time of year, a lot of people complain that reruns are getting through to them. They say they feel the side effects of watching the same TV shows again. Again. Again.

I don't know what they're talking about. I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off, to give people a chance to see something they've missed, and of course to keep the cost down.

A friend of mine confessed that he watched "The Wizard of Oz" for the 18th time the other night and this time when the tornado sucked up Toto and Dorothy, he actually cheered.

I don't know what they're talking about. I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off, did I say that before?

When "The Maltese Falcon" was being shown again recently, I set a tuna casserole in front of the family and handed out TV trays.

"We had this casserole two nights ago and once last week," the family complained.

"But I always serve my tuna casserole when 'The Maltese Falcon' is being shown. It's traditional."

Some people contend reruns will eventually rip the American family to shreds. They cite the case of a viewer who isn't quite sure if he has seen a segment of "Medical Center" or not.

"Is this the one where Joe Gannon has the rich Arab for a patient who wants to buy him a hospital, but falls in love with the mother of a kid on a dialysis machine?"

"No, no. This is the one where the young girl patient is put in a home for the elderly and incites them to riot."

"I got it now. It's the one where the girl doctor makes a play for Joe, but she's got this mental problem and he starts the car and drags her in his car door a mile and a half down..."

"No! No! It's the girl who leads the old people to protest."

"Then I've never seen it before."

"You'll love it. The girl dies in the end."

One of the most dangerous side effects of reruns is that people tend not to watch them as closely as they did the first time. This can lead to all kinds of situations.

"When did your hair turn gray, Doris?"

"Sixteen years ago, Fred. You mean you're just noticing?"

"This is the first time I've looked at you since 'Gunsmoke' went into reruns."

I don't know what they're talking about. I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off, to give people a chance to see... did I say that before?

Dear Abby

Child Deserves The Very Best

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old stepdaughter became pregnant five months ago. (She was actually only 13 them.) She is very immature, but insists that she wants to keep her baby. My wife and I managed to get her into a good "home" close to where we live, and she seems to be maturing some, but not nearly enough to raise a child.

Her 16-year-old boyfriend has completely dropped out of the picture.

We've considered keeping the baby and adopting it, but we have five other children, my wife isn't well and I can't see our taking on this added responsibility.

I have a medium income, but money isn't the biggest problem. We're more concerned about the future of our daughter and her unborn child. It seems unfair for the child to be raised by an unwed mother who isn't even through the eighth grade.

Please tell us what you would do.

HEAVY-HEARTED DAD

DEAR DAD: I would choose the alternative that would be best for the baby. Every child deserves to be wanted instead of accidentally conceived and raised by a mother who herself is still a child.

For you to adopt a baby you don't really want would be unfair to you and the child. Your daughter needs to grow up before assuming the responsibilities of motherhood.

Thousands of couples are waiting to give that baby every advantage in life. I vote for adoption.

DEAR ABBY: I'm tired of the ignorance of those who insist that the word "man" applies only to males. My dictionary has several definitions of which the first two are:

MAN: (1) A human being; person, whether male or female. (2) The human race; mankind.

So why don't we stop all this asinine changing of words, such as "mankind" to "personkind," and "chairman" to "chairperson?"

And what about the word "woman"? It has "man" in it, too.

FRANK M. IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR FRANK: I'm willing. I think the most asinine of all is calling a manhole a "personhole."

DEAR ABBY: Concerning FOREVER SORRY, whose mother never let her forget that she (the daughter) "disgraced" the family because she had been a pregnant bride: Although fortunately I was never in that situation, I, too, was the victim of such "holier than thou" preachings.

However, in tracing our family history, I discovered that my extremely pious grandmother gave birth to her first child six months after her marriage!

This was documented by her marriage certificate and the child's birth certificate. The problem was neatly solved by changing the "birthday" of the child to a more "proper" date.

Luncheon Given Miss Cavendish

Mrs. Mike Cavendish of Laurinburg and Miss Brenda Murray of Greenville honored Miss Pat Cavendish, bride-elect of this month, at a bridal luncheon at the Three Steers Restaurant on Saturday.

As the guests arrived, they were greeted by Mrs. Cavendish and her daughter, Betsy.

The honoree, her mother and Mrs. John A. Conway Jr., mother of the bridegroom-elect, were presented corsages of yellow daisies.

The dining table was centered with an autumn dried flower arrangement, which was given to the bride-elect. Miniature antique bottles filled with dried flowers were used as place cards. Miss Murray proposed a toast to the bride-elect.

Miss Cavendish remembered her attendants with gold engraved lockets.

Democratic Party Is United

A final chapter was written in the Democratic presidential nomination race last week when California Gov. Jerry Brown announced that he would support Jimmy Carter in his race for the presidency.

Brown described Carter as the only person who can give leadership to the nation.

"I want to assure him of my help and all the energy I have in making sure that he wins in November and gets a good start in January," the young California governor said.

Brown visited Plains, Ga., last week and was a house guest of Carters.

It will be recalled that Brown was a late comer among the multitude of candidates who opposed

Carter for the Democratic nomination. Brown made a creditable showing in some primaries but was quickly overwhelmed when the delegates began casting their ballots at the Democratic national convention.

Even now, he says there are very real differences between him and Carter, primarily concerning the continued economic growth rate of the nation.

Now, however, the differences are being put aside and Brown is clear in his intention to support Carter for election to the presidency in November.

The Democratic party is as united as it has been for a long time.

Hays Congressional Career Is At End

As many observers predicted, Rep. Wayne L. Hays has withdrawn as a candidate for the House of Representatives in the wake of the sensational congressional payroll sex scandal charges.

Hays troubles involved charges by Elizabeth

Ray, who was on the House Administration Committee payroll.

It is regrettable that a man who had reached the heights of serving in Congress should be brought down by such a scandal, but it is the price one pays for serving in high public office.

THIS AFTERNOON

Picture Of 1990 Worker

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Candidates have made economic development one of the major topics of discussion in this campaign.

With the 1980 census just four years away expected by most experts to prove that North Carolina is 10th largest state in the nation in population — a major producing and consuming state — good jobs, and good-paying jobs, become ever more important to North Carolinians.

Whoever sits in the governor's mansion, the framework of future development has been drawn in broad outline by a combination group involving state industry experts and researchers at the Research Triangle Institute.

Whatever route is traveled to bring about growth, think-tank experts have drawn a portrait of the 1990 Tar Heel workers.

Blue collar and service workers will increase in numbers, but their relative share of the employment totals is expected to decline.

White collar workers will increase greatly.

Factors

A host of factors are seen in this development: fewer people will be leaving the farm to take jobs in town because most have already done that who intend to.

Fewer unskilled workers — women and blacks particularly — will be landing jobs because the market will become saturated.

Those factors put the burden on the state's schools to help people be ready: "The educational system must produce both long range and more immediate improvements in educational attainments. The public school system must provide more workers with high school degrees," says the report on economic development produced by the task force of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

"Extension type educational activities must assist out-of-school workers so they may remain competitive as employment requirements change over time," the researchers believe.

Here are some of those changes foreseen by the study group:

Professional and technical workers will increase from some 235,000 currently to nearly half a million in 1990; managers and administrators will remain about the same at seven percent of the work force.

Sales personnel will increase only slightly: up from 124,000 now to 182,000. Clerical work will increase some, as will skilled craft work.

The big shift to "white collar" jobs will mean a corresponding decline in labor categories.

The Farm

The farm, undergoing rapid change today toward large acreage and highly mechanized production facilities, will lose many workers: farm laborers are expected to drop from 66,100 now to 28,300; farmers and farm managers will drop from 88,700 currently down to around 37,000. Increased incomes and leisure time should set the stage for increased employment in service fields — foods, recreation, household and hotel service. Employment is expected to climb from the present 265,500 to 321,000.

With a recent study showing that North Carolina is among the top three states in the nation as a favorable prospect for locating a new or expanded industrial operation, and with the emphasis on industrial development certain to come in the next four years, the experts expect to see a continued decline of the relative importance of the "Big Three" industrial operations in the state: textiles, apparel, and furniture and fixtures.

The direction foreseen by both industrial prospects and state experts is toward continued dispersal of development into rural and small town settings, following the governmental philosophy of getting jobs where people are; and the business philosophy of looking for the most willing and cooperative labor force.

"As FBI Director, I must confess that my agency may still be committing burglaries and other illegal acts... behind my back, of course."

Doctors, Heal Selves!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Why is Utah's Senator Frank Moss leading this fight? Why isn't the medical profession out in front instead? And why is the Justice Department lally-gagging on the job?

The questions come insistently to mind as one examines the dismaying record of ripoffs in the Medicaid and Medicare programs. Moss has been digging into these scandals for months. He has had mighty little help from any source.

Moss lays out evidence that cannot be brushed aside. A number of practicing physicians are little more than common thieves. They are swindlers, racketeers, con artists and plain crooks. They are stealing money as surely as if they were engaged in bank robbery or embezzlement. And virtually nothing is being done about it.

The senator emphasizes repeatedly that the number of such contemptible characters is relatively small. Only 4 percent of the nation's doctors are involved in fraud. But in a profession as respected as the practice of medicine, 4 percent should be a matter of acute concern. Obviously the situation concerns Senator Moss. If it acutely concerns the American Medical Association, the AMA's outrage somehow has escaped this correspondent. Perhaps the AMA has made more than mere murmuring noises, but no crusade is taking shape.

Moss is the crusader.

Through a Senate subcommittee, he has worked relentlessly to expose the crooked doctors. He has compiled volumes of hard evidence — damning evidence — of kickbacks on laboratory business. Two weeks ago, he revealed the transcript of a conversation between two New York doctors, surreptitiously taped, in which one of them describes in lip-licking detail his techniques for defrauding the Medicare program.

The techniques involve charges for patient visits that are never made, charges for lab work never done or never required, faked invoices, and faulty memory. Ripoffs from Medicaid, which serves welfare clients, are far worse than ripoffs from Medicare, which serves those on Social Security, but the differences are only differences in degree.

In a recent appearance before the Senate Finance Committee, Moss outlined half a dozen cases of typical Medicare fraud. The cases came from across the nation: New Jersey, Missouri, Texas, Colorado and California. The cases involved a couple of osteopaths, a podiatrist, a surgeon, a dentist — all of them licensed practitioners. These were flagrant cases, involving the theft of thousands of dollars in public funds. Not one of the defendants served as much as a day in jail.

It is a great racket, this Medicaid-Medicare fraud. Looking at the Medicare program only, Moss notes that since 1969, Medicare's investigative unit has uncovered 20,000 apparent cases of possible fraud. Of these, 459 have been referred to Justice for prosecution. Of the 459, only 210 actually have

He's An Unlikely Rebel

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — John P. Sears is an unlikely rebel, but more than any other man the soft-voiced lawyer in the conservative suit is the architect of upheaval in the Republican party.

Without him, Ronald Reagan's challenge to an incumbent Republican president might be an empty, conservative gesture. With him, there is still a chance that Reagan can make President Ford the first incumbent since 1884 to be denied nomination by his party.

For more than a year, Sears has been the man behind the Reagan campaign. The title is executive vice chairman, but the job is running the show.

Ford is ahead, but narrowly, and his managers are keeping nervous watch on Sears, ready to take up the defense against any new gambits to rock the Republican boat.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen calls Sears "Reagan's bogeyman.... He's always jumping out from behind trees saying, 'Gonna get your delegates.'"

Sears declines to give any figure on his current count of Reagan votes for the presidential nomination, his silence a tacit confirmation of tallies that show Ford the leader at this point. But Sears says Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes — and the nomination — after the roll is called on Wednesday night.

He maintains there are delegates in the uncommitted and Ford columns who can't afford to be identified in advance with the challenger, but who will cast their lot with Reagan when the roll is called.

Meanwhile, Ford was saying he would, as the Republican presidential nominee, offer Sears an important post in his general election campaign organization.

Sears is no ideologue, and while Reagan's is a conservative challenger, Sears could have been on the other side.

Sears, greying at 36, is a

Backing To Victory

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
Backing To Victory

KANSAS CITY — With the non-arrival of the long-awaited bandwagon for President Ford, his agents here were still merchandising the shopworn, scarcely credible Ford-Reagan ticket to lure Southern and other conservative delegates just two days before the presidential balloting.

Sentiment among the President's advisers runs heavily and vehemently against Ronald Reagan for Vice President, and Mr. Ford is one President who listens to his advisers. Renewed chatter about a Ford-Reagan ticket, therefore, is a counterplot to the vice-presidential ploy by Reagan campaign manager John Sears. With Sears trying to force Mr. Ford to name his running mate before Wednesday night's balloting, Ford operatives argue disingenuously that this would eliminate a Ford-Reagan ticket.

Such tactics are required because additional delegates, in the candid description of Ford campaign manager Rogers Morton, are going to the President in only a "trickle." Indeed, the trickle is Ford-to-Reagan in an instance or two. Although Mr. Ford's delegate lead seems insurmountable, he is backing into the nomination with no bandwagon surge.

The indefatigable Harry Dent, Mr. Ford's Southern delegate chaser, has been lobbying here against proposed rule 16 (c) requiring advance notice of the Ford running mate by resurrecting the Ford-Reagan fantasy. An effective public presentation of this argument was made Sunday in the Rules Committee by Dent's fellow South Carolinian, Sherry Shealy Martschink.

Mrs. Martschink, a fiery young housewife from Charleston, described herself as an uncommitted delegate in denouncing 16 (c). Her oratory, privately called "another Checkers speech" by admiring Republican state chairman Thomas Milligan of Indiana (a Ford backer), pleaded for a Ford-Reagan ticket. In fact, Reagan delegate counters believe Dent long ago nailed Mrs. Martschink as a Ford backer.

A few hours after the Rules Committee temporarily defeated rule 16 (c), word spread through this city's hotel lobbies that Reagan had arrived from California to repudiate the Sears ploy — implying he really wanted to be Mr. Ford's Vice President. The rumor, traceable to Ford sources, was not only untrue but bore the earmarks of disinformation.

Disinformation is a necessary technique by Ford agents because Republicans failed to stampede for Gerald Ford when he neared the clinching 1,130 delegates as the Democrats had for Jimmy Carter in June. Instead, the stubborn discrimination by key delegates which has prevailed for seven months continued in Kansas City.

So, when the Ford-controlled New York delegation caused Sunday night, the minority of Reagan delegates sought to provoke Republican state chairman Richard Rosenbaum, the tough — and easily provokable — "Iron Chancellor." When Rosenbaum beat down the Reaganites, without mercy, Brooklyn delegate Adelle Haines made a Ford-to-Reagan switch on the spot.

Simultaneously, the unruly Mississippi delegation did not make the commitment for the President which had seemed certain two weeks ago. Rather, that delegation's flow has been slightly back to Reagan in recent days. Gail Healy, a Natchez, Miss., housewife, who had been truly uncommitted, became so perturbed at Ford pressure that she endorsed Reagan.

This constitutes no Reagan tide. Mr. Ford has at least half the Mississippi delegation that Reagan once considered his own. Moreover, while needing most of Mississippi, Reagan also must gain in Northeastern states to defeat Mr. Ford — even if he wains Tuesday night's rule 16 (c) fight.

That means Sen. Richard Schweiker has to deliver on his claimed 13 additional votes from his Pennsylvania delegation into the Reagan camp — a claim disbelieved by Reagan head counters.

To the editor:

I read in Saturday's News and Observer where comedian Bill Cosby merited his Ph.D. in Education from the University of Massachusetts. It is uncommon that an individual who is so renowned decides to pursue and attain another zenith. For this achievement, I congratulate Bill Cosby. Moreover, Bill Cosby's conquest should indicate to all of us that life is thrilling and productive when people participate fully in what this country and this state offer.

Today the state of North Carolina holds a primary election in which most Council of State positions will be selected. Over the past few years, many Americans have believed that any election only provides for the continuation of "nothingness" in government. Even though the choice (s) of candidate(s) may be for the best of the least desirable(s), this logic holds no credence for one not participating in the freedom of franchise which America guarantees.

Regardless of whom you feel is the best candidate for the various offices, I urge all citizens to care about our state and indicate their preferences by voting. Bill Cosby was not satisfied with where he stood; he involved himself so that he may be better prepared for possible alternatives.

Strength For Today

In 1745 the great English evangelist, John Wesley, became the center of a hurricane of excitement and hatred. The people of his village in Cornwall were determined to make an end of this fearless preacher.

Wesley was a short man of slight build. Deserted by all of his friends, he waited alone in his house while a mob gathered outside. Finally, shouting threats and imprecations, the mob broke down the door of his house and rushed inside. Without a sign of fear Wesley passed through their ranks and walked out into the street.

Quietly he began to talk with the members of the mob who were nearest him. Then gradually he shaped his conversation into a sermon. Soon the mob which a few minutes before had been determined to lynch Wesley was listening intently.

Wesley later wrote in his journal, "I never saw before the hand of God so plainly shown as here." The hand of God was there because of Wesley's trust in God.

Economic Decisions Are Not Easy

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't only the Republican party delegates at Kansas City who are faced with difficult decisions these days, although you might temporarily believe that to be so this week.

Businessmen, job-seekers, investors, home-buyers and many individuals identified by various other labels in the economic fight for survival are at present faced with very ticklish decisions.

The 1970s have been identified as a decade of transition, in which the country moves from the certain if potholed pathways of the 1960s, when self-confident Americans plunged ahead rather than pondered.

When we emerge from the transition, where will we be? Who knows. That's what makes decisions so difficult today.

In the early 1960s, if you thought like many other Americans, you were confident that your future would be brighter. Wasn't that the way it was? But in the 70s, well, you just don't know, do you.

Businessmen large and small haven't yet regained their confidence after the devastating recession, and the recent weakness in retail sales hasn't helped resolve their doubts. Capital spending plans remain rather weak.

Students no longer have the same confidence that their studies will pay off materially or culturally. There are PhD's doing clerk's work today because the once burgeoning educational system has begun to shrink.

Investors in the stock market are filled with doubts, and well they should be, considering the nation's energy problems, the constant references to the dawn of the no-growth age, the persistent inflation, the uncertain politics.

Savers don't have it much easier. More conservative than investors, and often smaller too, savers seek certainty, but they don't get it — not with inflation threatening to destroy their bank accounts and insurance policies.

The insecurity of the times is demonstrated also by the reluctance of many people to change jobs, although a rising percentage of the jobless rate is made up of people doing just that. Not enough to suggest confidence, however.

Young families are faced with problems as difficult as any. Should they rent for the time being and try to save money for a down payment? Or should they borrow from relatives and make the plunge right now?

Will the old days come back? If they do it might be worth waiting a couple of years for lower down payments and more acceptable interest rates.

But what if prices keep going up? Then the young couple is caught in a situation in which the savings accumulated in the bank might never be adequate for the down payment. Marriages have been ruined by less.

Over all, the big difference is that we have once again learned that the economic cycle can't be totally controlled and put into our service, even by the best minds of academe, business and government.

40 Years Ago Today

August 17, 1936

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, feeling much better after a night of rest, left by train today for his home in Detroit.

The priest's address to his national union of social justice was halted yesterday when he was overcome by illness during a denunciation of the Roosevelt administration.

Father Coughlin slept comfortably after he was stricken by what doctors called exhaustion and a nervous disorder.

One of the bloodiest battles of Spain's month-old civil war was being fought late today in the ancient western province of Entremadura, with 20,000 government troops and militia men trying to break a rebel blockade along the Portuguese frontier.

Reports that rebels in taking Badajoz had executed 1,500 government adherents spurred the government forces into a merciless drive to "completely exterminate" the rebels in the west, authorities said.

Clevelands Explodes To Rout Of Minnesota, 31-7

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell treated the home crowd to a sensational fireworks display at halftime Monday night, but it didn't compare to the explosion by the Browns. They stunned the partisan throng of 44,336 in Cleveland Stadium by charging to three touchdowns in the second quarter and completely overpowering the vaunted Minnesota Vikings 31-7.

With Greg Pruitt leading the way, the surprising Browns amassed 235 yards rushing and a total offense of 333 yards, while the rejuvenated Cleveland defense stopped the Vikings cold. Playing without regulars like quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running backs Chuck Foreman and Brent McClanahan, Minnesota gained 245 yards, only 76 on the ground. In Monday's other NFL exhibition, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Diego

Chargers 20-10 in Tokyo in the first professional football game ever played away from the North American continent. "I believe we're for real," Pruitt said in the happy Cleveland dressing room. "We have a good winning attitude. The team is hungry and anxious to redeem themselves from last year." Browns, Coach Forrest Gregg also believes the improvement is real, but cautioned, "They didn't start all their regulars... they had a lot of good football players on the bench." Bud Grant, Minnesota's stonewalled coach, was unmoved. "We weren't able to do much," he explained. "Fumbles and penalties hurt us. We didn't have the ball enough in the second quarter to keep them from establishing the tempo."

Folks Believing Stockton Now

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Dave Stockton predicted three days before the end of the PGA national championship that he would win. Few believed him. "I'm a positive thinker," said Stockton, a student of psycho-cybernetics, the science of mind over matter. "I play well in the PGA more often than not."

round to be held on Monday. In the last two rounds, Stockton needed only 51 putts — 25 on Saturday and 26 on Monday — which he said was about normal for him. He needed the hot putter, however, because his driver went awry. Stockton, who had rounds of 70, 72, 69 and 70, gained an advantage when three earlier leaders — Charles Coody, Jack Nicklaus and Don January — suffered double bogeys on the final round. Masters champion Ray Floyd and the veteran January tied for second — they were watching by the 18th green hoping to gain a playoff spot — at 282. January had a 72 on the final round, Floyd a 71.

Defending champion Nicklaus, Australian David Graham, John Schlee and rookie Jerry Pate, the U.S. and Canadian Open champion, were another stroke back at 283. Tom Weiskopf, Ben Crenshaw, Jerry McGee, second-round leader Dr. Gil Morgan and Charles Coody, who led at the beginning of the final day, were at 284. All had a chance to win the PGA, the last of the year's four major international tests of golfing greatness. All failed. At the news conference, he kidded one newsmen by saying: "I gave you an exclusive three days ago when I told you I was going to win it. You blew it because you didn't use it."

Nicklaus' failure to mount a late charge deprived him of a major championship for the year and brought from him the admission that 1976 — no matter what may happen in the ensuing four months — was "a disappointment."

Michigan State's Wolverines play their first five 1976 football games at home. Dayton plays seven night football games this season. The first four are at home.

Braves Put Hurting On Cincinnati, 11-3

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The Atlanta Braves have been a beleaguered tribe since the All-Star break — seven players on crutches and a myriad assortment of ailments and injuries.

"At one time it looked like we were fighting the Civil War again," says Manager Dave Bristol. With all these walking wounded in Atlanta uniforms, one might suspect that the Cincinnati Reds were caught off guard Monday night. The National League West leaders were ambushed 4-3 by the Braves. Adrian Devine proved to be the undoing of Cincinnati. Just when the Reds attempted an uprising in the eighth inning, the Braves' relief pitcher put out the fire. It was his fourth save of the season and his third in his last three appearances. "He's one of the seven guys we've had on crutches since mid-summer," acknowledged Bristol.

Pete Rose reached some plateaus for the Reds, his 7,000th career hit and his 100th run scored this season. Still, he would have traded both of them for a victory. "I should have tried it sooner," said Rose of his bunt single in the eighth inning that ignited the rally that drove Carl Morton to the showers. "We were dead. We needed something to get us going." In the only other National League games Monday night, the San Diego Padres outscored the St. Louis Cardinals 11-7 and the Chicago Cubs whipped the Houston Astros 5-3.

Morton, 3-9, allowed five hits in 7 1/2 innings, overcoming the 10-strikeout pitching of Fred Norman, 11-3, whose lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium dropped to 32-8. After Morton gave up two runs in the eighth that cut the Atlanta lead to 4-3, he was tagged for a two-out triple by George Foster. Devine came on at this point and forced Tony Perez to ground out and retired the Reds 1-2-3 in the ninth. It was the Reds, third straight defeat, matching their longest losing streak of the season.

Padres 11, Cardinals 7
Willie Davis smacked a two-run double and Enzo Hernandez a bases-loaded triple to highlight an eight-run ninth inning that carried San Diego over St. Louis. The outburst by the Padres, at the expense of four Cardinal pitchers, nullified a five-hit performance by St. Louis, Lou Brock.

Cubs 5, Astros 3
Rob Sperring's two-run single with two out in the ninth inning broke a 3-3 tie, lifting Chicago over Houston. Bruce Sutter, 3-3, hurled the final two innings for the Cubs to gain the victory. Houston starter Larry Dierker, 12-11, absorbed the loss.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — All doors at the Alabama Legislature swung open Monday to Auburn sprinter Harvey Glance in honor of his gold medal performance at the Summer Olympics at Montreal. The 19-year-old Phenix City, Ala., native, a member of the United States, winning 400-meter relay team, was given free access to both the House and Senate floors Monday — the final day of the 1976 session. Glance told the state lawmakers he was proud to have represented the United States and the state of Alabama at the Olympic Games and said his sights are now set on the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

NEW YORK (AP) — An award in honor of Pele will be presented annually to the top American or Canadian player in the North American Soccer League, it was announced Monday. The award, which is being sponsored by Pepsi-Cola, will carry with it a $10,000 prize. A panel of soccer writers and broadcasters from the 20 NASL cities will vote on the award, to be presented Aug. 27 in Seattle, one day prior to the NASL championship game, scheduled at the Kingdome in Seattle.

PEABODY, Mass. (AP) — Brockton's Tony Lopes will defend New England welterweight crown against "Irish" Beau Jaynes of Lowell at the Golden Banana nightclub in Peabody next Monday night. Lopes, a Brockton High School senior, holds a 3-1 edge over Jaynes in their previous clashes. Jaynes is a former New England featherweight, junior lightweight, lightweight and welterweight champion.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Candelaria, the Pittsburgh Pirates left-hander who pitched a no-hitter against the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named today by the National League as its Player of the Week. Candelaria's performance put him at 11-1 for the season and was the first no-hit, no-run game

Williams Fans—Out of The Box

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
For it's one, two, three strikes you're out of the old ballgame... as Billy Williams learned Monday night for the first time in his brilliant 17-year career.

Williams, who had already fanned twice and grounded out, stepped to the plate in the eighth inning with runners at first and third and two out and the Oakland A's clinging to a 3-2 lead over the Milwaukee Brewers. Danny Frisella pitched, Billy Williams watched and umpire Bill Kunkel said, "Strike one."

"I figure I know the strike zone pretty well and that first pitch was high and inside," Williams insisted. "I complained. I have a reputation for not complaining, so I guess I'm not supposed to."

Frisella pitched again, Williams watched again and this time Kunkel said, "Strike two." "The second pitch was on the ground," Williams said, "but because I had complained, it was called a strike. I complained again and he ordered me back into the box. But I wasn't ready to get back in because I figured anything Frisella threw anywhere near the plate would be called strike three. I wasn't ready to be called out that way."

But that's the way it was. Kunkel told Frisella to pitch even though Williams was out of the box and strike three it was, an automatic call in such cases.

What hurt even more was Von Joshua's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth, lifting the Brewers to a 4-3 victory that snapped the A's nine-game winning streak and dropped them eight games behind Kansas City in the American League West.

Elsewhere, Kansas City beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees downed Texas 5-1, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 8-4 and Boston whipped the Chicago White Sox 12-5. Detroit and California were not scheduled. Royals 6, Indians 1

Amos Otis and Tom Pquette hit two-run first-inning homers off Jackie Brown as Kansas City whipped Cleveland behind Marty Pattin's three-hitter, including George Hendrick's 20th homer.

Otis has socked four homers in the last seven games and the latest was the 100th of his career.

Yankees 5, Rangers 1
Mickey Rivers and Fred Stanley homered, Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a double and single and Chris Chambliss slammed a run-scoring double as the Yankees unleashed a 13-hit attack in support of Catfish Hunter's seven-hit pitching.

Orioles 8, Twins 4
Ken Singleton's three-run homer off Tom Burgmeier capped Baltimore's five-run fifth as the Orioles won their fourth in a row to remain 9 1/2 games behind the Yanks. Mark Belanger doubled home the first two runs while Ross Grimsley won for the fifth time in his last six decisions.

Red Sox 12, White Sox 5
Dwight Evans drove in three runs and a shaky Luis Tiant picked up his 13th victory as Boston snapped a three-game losing streak. Tiant allowed nine hits and four runs in five innings before giving way to Bill Lee.

Returnees Johnson, Ruff, Make Citadel A Threat

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
If there is to be a darkhorse candidate for the Southern Conference football title in 1976, it must be The Citadel.

up just 97 points during the year. Nine starters return to the defense, so it is expected to be improved over the past season. "Ruff is a very fine football player," Ross said. "He has speed, strength and size. He also means a lot to us as a team leader. He's an intense player." Sophomore Kenny Caldwell will handle the other linebacker position, but Ross admits that he has weakened the position somewhat by moving a top reserve, Felix Hooks, to fullback.

Anchoring the line are two veteran guards, Tony Starks and David Sollazzo, both of whom have almost the same regard from Ross as Ruff has. Greg James and Randy Johnson have the best shots at the tackle positions, while Ronnie Easterby and Alan Turner appear to be the top choices at ends.

The secondary returns intact from last year, with Ralph Ferguson at safety, Tony Kimbrell and Stan Yarborough at the halfbacks. But these latter two might find themselves benched by others as a battle appears shaping up here. "Our defense played more than we like for it to last year," Ross said, "and we hope to get the offense on the field more this season."

With Johnson in good shape, the likelihood of that is increased. "We have to improve in the offensive line," the coach said.

"And we have to have more continuity on offense." The receivers are all back from last year. Dickie Regan is back at tight end, Mile Riley at split end and Doug Johnson at flanker.

The front line has three back who started in the final game last year, tackle Bruce Cafasso and guards Stan Brooks and Nick Cannata. Center Al Kennickell, who started five games is also back. Sidney Wildes, a backup last season, may grab the other tackle position.

Johnson will get some rest by the use of Alvin Perkins, while Hooks and Jim Wilkinson will alternate at fullback. The biggest question may be at quarterback, where the top two graduated after last season. Joe Sumrall is untested, having no experience in a varsity situation. Marty Crosby, a transfer from Florida State, also has little experience, but could end up with the job before the season starts. Mike Condon, rated as the better runner of the three, also is a possibility.

The kicking game will be strong. Caldwell returns to handle the punting, and Paul Tanguay, who missed last season with an injury, will handle the placements. Ross has two goals. One, naturally, is to win the Southern Conference title. The other is to record seven victories. If Johnson stays healthy, it's a possibility.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cooler weather is forecast Tuesday for the Northeast and most of the West. Warm weather is expected for the remainder of the country. Showers are forecast for the Pacific Northwest, from Minnesota to the Midwest, southern Texas and southern Florida. (AP Wirephoto)

By The Associated Press
A thunderstorm uprooted trees and tore off roofs late Monday at Calabash, a coastal town south of Wilmington famous for its fish camps. The water situation improved in Raleigh. Weekend showers raised the Neuse River to its highest in a month and brought the capital city from the edge of enforced water conservation. Wilmington had almost two and one-half inches of rain Monday and New Bern had two inches. Hickory received one-third inch and Asheville a little over one-tenth. It was mostly sunny today. High temperatures were in the comfortable range of from the mid 70s to the lower 80s. On Monday they had ranged from 77 degrees at Greensboro to 80 at Wilmington. A cold front moved south-eastward over North Carolina Monday night and was off the coast and over South Carolina early this morning. High pressure from the Great Lakes now will dominate the North Carolina weather the next few days. This system will bring mostly clear skies and lower humidity. Temperatures will be below average for mid August. Highs will range from the mid 70s to the mid 80s. A small-craft advisory was put into effect this morning for northwest winds 15 to 25 knots, and waves increasing to four to six feet.

Carter Studies Energy Problems

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP)—After intensely watching the opening of the Republican National convention Monday night, Jimmy Carter planned to study the country's energy problems today, aided by leaders of the energy industry and the environmental movement.

While the Republicans slug it out over their presidential nominee in Kansas City this week, Carter is consulting in Plains with experts on domestic social programs, energy and international economics. The sessions are a continuation of an earlier series of issue briefings which dealt with defense, economics and foreign policy matters. In keeping with the statesman-like image Carter would like to project this week, his aides said Monday before a press conference that he would not answer any questions dealing with politics, only those concerned with his briefings by experts on social programs.

The wide-ranging list of participants in today's energy briefings includes Thomas Sigler, vice president of the Continental Oil Co.; Gerald Decker of Dow Chemical Co.; Wilson Clark, director of the Environmental Policy Institute and Gov. David Boren of Oklahoma. Carter aides said the Democratic presidential nominee spent much of Monday evening watching the convention, including the attacks on him and the Democrats by various GOP leaders. He has said he will have no comments on the convention until it is over.

On Monday, Carter met with 14 top educators, administrators and medical leaders to discuss social programs, including social security, unemployment compensation, welfare, medicare, education and manpower programs.

At a press conference at the Plains railroad depot after the briefing, Carter denied an often-repeated Republican assertion that his proposed changes in social programs would result in serious inflationary pressures.

As a late summer thunderstorm raged around the depot, the Democratic candidate said that he and the experts agreed that "we can meet the commitment I have made to the American people" and still emerge with a balanced budget at the end of a Carter first term in 1981.

If elected president, he said, he hopes to maintain federal government expenditures at the current level, about 20 to 21 percent of the gross national product. The nominee, dressed in a brown sports shirt and tan slacks, said he and the briefers also agreed that any improvements in social programs would have to be accompanied by a reorganization of the government bureaucracy, a another Carter objective.

The group decided that "the present bureaucratic mess was an almost insuperable obstacle" to better implementation of the programs, he said.

Carter added that he would try to spell out before election day his proposed social programs and what they would cost.

In discussing the briefing, Carter reiterated his position on major social programs, including welfare and busing.

He said he favored removing from welfare rolls those persons who are able to work and instead would try to match them up with jobs. He added he favored one uniform payment to welfare recipients and said the cost of welfare should be shifted from local government to federal government.

On busing, he said participants in the briefing generally agreed with his position that "arbitrary rules and formulas are perhaps an improper way to approach the subject."

Carter has opposed mandatory busing to achieve integration and advocates a voluntary plan. But he has said he would not support a Constitutional amendment outlawing busing.

Among those participating in the domestic program briefing were Wilson Riles, the black superintendent of the California school system; Ed Weaver, executive director of the American Public Welfare Association, and Robert Ball, former Commissioner of the Social Security Administration.

Well Built

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope entertained 15,000 persons at a fairgrounds to raise money to restore an historic hotel.

"Whew, they build those things strong, don't they," Hope said after he needed help this past weekend in wielding a sledgehammer to whack a corner out of the old Nimitz hotel.

The landmark was built by the late Adm. Chester Nimitz' grandfather in 1886, and the Nimitz Commission plans to renovate it to its old "steamboat" appearance.

Yard Sale Scheduled

A yard sale sponsored by the Progressive City Kiwanis Club will be held Saturday, September 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan building on the 284 by-pass.

All persons interested in donating items to be sold should take them out to the sale site for pricing the morning of the sale. All proceeds of the sale will be donated to local charities. All items not sold will be given to the Salvation Army.

No Charges Against Congressman Young

By BRIAN B. KING
Associate Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleen Gardner says she is "totally bewildered, totally floored" by reports federal prosecutors have decided against pressing criminal charges on her accusations that her congressman-boss demanded sex in return for continued employment at premium pay.

The congressman, Democrat John Young, said in a statement from his Victoria, Tex., office Monday that he was "pleased but not surprised at the position taken by the Department of Justice relative to the allegations made against me."

Young's Washington office simultaneously was disclaiming knowledge of such a decision, even though the Victoria office had distributed a copy of one of the reports. It had been published in the Washington Star.

A Justice Department spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny the reports that the prosecutors will recommend dropping the probe for lack of evidence of fraud. Young had called the allegations "poppycock" from the beginning.

A lawyer close to the prosecutors said that they "never thought they'd find much there as far as a criminal indictment, anyway.... She did do some work, after all," so government payroll funds would not have been fraudulently disbursed.

Asked about the possibility of sexual extortion as a charge, he replied, "That was never charged."

Told of that, Mrs. Gardner said Monday night, "That's very strange. I thought that's what I was charging."

She indicated that prosecutors told her one hour's work a month could satisfy the fraud law under the unique working conditions for congressional employees.

Employees of members of Congress are specifically exempted from most federal labor laws and serve at the pleasure of the official.

At the time she went public with her story two months ago, Mrs. Gardner said she was doing so in the hope other women and men who suffered under that system would come forward and force it to be changed. No others have.

Mrs. Gardner, 28, lives in suburban Virginia with her 12-year-old child from her former marriage.

She went to federal prosecutors with testimony and tape recordings to describe what she said were almost five years, in two segments, of "humiliation and abuse" by Young. She quit his staff this past March.

Specifically, she alleged that the 10-term congressman would not let her use her office and occupational skills to capacity, that he instead pressured her into staying available for sexual acts as a requirement for keeping the job and a premium salary.

He eventually paid her $28,000 a year, considerably higher than the average salary for women professionals on Capitol Hill staffs.

chain-smoking, high-tension politician, but a man of mild manner, an easy laugh. His political credentials date back a decade when as a junior lawyer in a Wall Street firm he went to work for one of the bosses, Richard M. Nixon.

In June 1967 he became executive director of the Nixon for President Committee and managed the Nixon primary election and state convention campaigns in 1968.

But he never got along with John Mitchell, and after Nixon's nomination Sears was exiled to Spiro Agnew's vice presidential campaign.

Sears became a special White House counsel during the first year of the Nixon administration, but that didn't last, either.

Sears had his problems, too, with H.R. Haldeman, the Nixon chief of staff. From his campaign days on, Sears counted political reporters among his close friends. Then, and now, he joined them for a late evening drink.

Such behavior was suspect in the Nixon White House, and it was later disclosed that Sears was among the staff members whose telephones were tapped during the first Nixon administration.

gone to trial. Of the 210 trials, 150 have resulted in conviction. Of the 150 convicted defendants, three got two-year terms, two got one-year terms, and nine got sentences from 30 days to six months. The rest went effectively free, with no more than fines or probation.

The answer to this racket would appear to lie in revocation of a crooked doctor's license to practice. Such a procedure is more easily urged than fulfilled. State licensing boards commonly are under-financed and under-staffed. No mechanisms exist that parallel the bar's mechanisms for disbarring a crooked lawyer. The worst punishment a local medical society can impose is to deny the thieving doctor membership — and the crooks rarely are members anyhow.

The scandal has reached massive proportions. The Medicaid program is so shot through with fraud that Moss cannot hazard an estimate on the total ripoff. His findings on Medicare are reasonably solid: About $1.5 billion of the $15 billion spent annually on Medicare is siphoned away by fraud. Of that $1.5 billion, an estimated $300 million is stolen by physicians.

Surely thefts of this magnitude warrant the alarmed attention of both the medical profession and the Justice Department. But the honest physicians are busy, and federal prosecutors have more glamorous cases to attend to. So the fraud goes on — and its continuance ought to make the good doctors ill.

Schweiker so far has produced only three of those 13 delegates and turned off one uncommitted delegate by whispering that the private Reagan is considerably more liberal than the public Reagan; that helped convince the delegate to endorse Mr. Ford.

Nevertheless, continued delegate resistance to the President on the brink of victory is remarkable. Since there is no consensus that Reagan would run appreciably better than Mr. Ford, delegate reluctance stems essentially from doubt about the President's true allegiance to conservatism — or any other ideology.

To ease conservative doubt, the phantom Ford-Reagan ticket has been resurrected and is being peddled to delegates by Ford operatives who privately admit they would do all in their power to block Reagan for Vice President. That tells a little about what ails the Ford campaign.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are logical in your thinking today so take advantage of it. Finalize some plan for the future. Be expansive.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are now able to help others gain their ambitions and they in turn assist you with your own. Take that little trip so you can gain information you need, and then use it wisely. Be alert while driving.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now understand how to add to your present income appreciably so that you need not worry so much in the future. Cut down on some expenses, also. Avoid a spendthrift who could turn you into one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are charming today and can make headway with others, especially higher-ups. Cultivate only those friends you like and admire.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put more thought to what you want in the future. Contact those who have the data you need and will give it to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use a positive approach in whatever personal aims are yours and get right results. Be charming with new contacts and gain their favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care of annoying tasks early in the day. Later, a visit with a bigwig proves helpful. Make the evening a sociable, effective one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good ideas come to you, but you are apt to toss them aside instead of doing something constructive about them. A new ally could prove quite helpful to you. Socialize in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep promises you made conscientiously and gain the goodwill of others. Make a loved one happier and be happier yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talking over policy affairs brings good results today and in the future. Be alert to new conditions and know how to profit from them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Tackle chores early and efficiently and you have more time later to renew your energies for the rest of the week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans early for amusements that appeal to you so that all goes smoothly later. Show more affection for your closest tie.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make improvements at home that you have been contemplating for a long time. Entertain a bigwig who is able to help you in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will understand what is going on around him or her, so be sure to plan the finest education you can for this gifted child. There is an inventive mind here also that should be encouraged for greater success.

Violence Climbs On Paris Subways

By DAVID ZIMMERMAN

Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Muggings and other crimes of violence are escalating in the Paris subway, known here as the Metro. A recent shootout between security men has left some passengers more jittery than ever.

"It's a jungle and the first responsibility lies with the armed men the government is sending there," a leftist group charged after a policeman and a subway guard died in a shootout near the Eiffel Tower, Paris' premier tourist attraction. An autopsy showed the guard had been drinking. The guard, in plain clothes, was checking to see if two passengers at the Trocadero station had paid their fares. An argument broke out, and other passengers ran and got two uniformed policemen. When one of the officers tried to intervene, the guard opened fire, killing him. The policeman's partner then shot and killed the guard. Subway officials said the guard's job was to protect subway property but not check on whether passengers had paid their fares. That task belongs to 300 other plainclothes and uniformed policemen sent into the Metro to counter muggings and other crimes which have escalated 33 per cent in the past year to more than 1,200.

The officers routinely check passengers for identification, sometimes manhandling young men and others they consider obstinate.

A young couple in blue jeans was stopped along with dozens of other passengers the other day at the Gare du Nord, a main trouble spot on the Metro, then released when their documents were found satisfactory.

"It's a show of French police power," the young man said afterwards. "They do it all the time just to show their muscles. To tell you the truth, I'm more afraid of them than the robbers."

Despite fears of police overkill, the No. 1 problem on Paris' Metros and buses is mugging, and some victims are arming themselves with blinding chemical sprays, iron bars and wooden clubs.

"They've robbed me four times, so Saturday nights I lock the cabin door and I go," said one subway engineer. "What happens, happens. Look, I've got five kids and I'm not getting my throat cut." While the problem is far below the proportions of New York City, which reported 3,949 attacks in its subways last year, it is much greater than London, which estimated 400 violent incidents in 1975; Tokyo, which reported only 10 violent crimes; and Munich, which keeps no figures because it considers the situation "unnoteworthy."

Paris mugging victims say most of their attackers are 15 to 25 years old, armed with knives or clubs, and mixed 50-

50 between French and non-white foreigners.

Reasons cited for the hike in muggings are chronic unemployment among French youth, Justice Ministry regulations which free criminals for "good behavior" after serving only a minor portion of their sentences, and the replacement of about 3,000 mass transit workers over the last four years, leaving subway platforms bare of personnel.

"Those who can, do; those who can't, teach or write" is an old adage, but not always true. This was proved at the 5th World Bridge Olympiad, where the Bols Brilliancy Prize, instituted this year by the Dutch distillery, was won by Ron Klinger of Australia, who is a prominent bridge teacher, writer and editor.

Klinger now found the only defense — he exited with the king of diamonds! This shattered declarer's communications. After winning the ace, the only way to get back to his hand to draw the last trump was with the jack of diamonds. But then there was no way to return to dummy to enjoy a discard on a high diamond. No matter how he wriggled, declarer had to lose another trick for down one.

HEALTH SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE TO PHYSICIANS

State of North Carolina
 Department of Health, Education and Welfare
 Division of Health Services Administration
 Notice is hereby given in accordance with Section 1152(g) of the Social Security Act (42 USC 1320c-1 (g)) that the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, prior to the designation of a conditional Professional Standards Review Organization (PSRO) within any PSRO area located in the State of North Carolina, is conducting a poll of all the doctors of medicine or osteopathy who are engaged in active practice in each PSRO area to determine whether such physicians in each area support a change from the present local Professional Standards Review Organization area designations as stipulated in 42 CFR 101.27 to a single statewide area designation. This notice appeared in the Federal Register on August 16, 1976.

Each such doctor in the PSRO Areas will receive a ballot on which he shall indicate whether he supports a change from the present local PSRO area designations to a single PSRO area for the entire State of North Carolina. Any licensed doctor of medicine or osteopathy engaged in active practice in the PSRO Area who has not received a ballot within five days after this notice appears in the Federal Register, may request in writing a ballot prior to the expiration of the polling period from the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, P.O. Box 1588 FDR Station, New York, New York 10022. Only those ballots postmarked no later than 30 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register and returned in the stamped self-addressed envelope provided to each individual doctor will be considered valid.

The Secretary has determined that there are 722 doctors of medicine engaged in active practice in PSRO Area I; 911 doctors in PSRO Area II; 582 doctors in PSRO Area III; 1,228 doctors in PSRO Area IV; 535 doctors in PSRO Area V; 573 doctors in PSRO Area VI; 1,240 doctors in PSRO Area VII; and 638 doctors in PSRO Area VIII. In the event that more than 50 percent of doctors within each of these PSRO areas respond in the affirmative to the question "Do you support a change from the present local and regional Professional Standards Review Organization area designation to a single statewide area designation?" the Secretary will then proceed to establish the entire State of North Carolina as a single Professional Standards Review Organization area.

If more than 50 percent of the eligible doctors responding in any one of the eight PSRO areas indicate that they do not support a change in the present area designations, the Secretary will not designate the entire State of North Carolina as a single PSRO area.

This poll will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of 42 CFR 101.26 (41 - FR 33436-33437, August 9, 1976).

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices inched ahead again today as investors awaited a decision from Kansas City on the Republicans' presidential nominee.

Trading was moderate. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.83 at 994.60 after a 2.58-point gain on Monday.

Advances held a very slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-list issues. Analysts said investors were waiting cautiously for developments at the GOP convention tonight and Wednesday night. Uncertainty over who will be the Republican candidate for president has been cited as an inhibiting influence on the market for some time.

Southern Co., the most active NYSE issue, rose 1/4 to 15 1/4.

Status Reports On Construction, Repairs Received By City Board

Several status reports on the new Middle School and on the progress of repairs and renovations at other schools were presented and discussed by the Greenville City School board on Monday night. The reports covered:

—Middle School — Approval of installation of three catch basins and 630 linear feet of drain line at a cost of $6,737.20. In a letter dated July 27, architect George Shoe noted this work has been recommended earlier as future work, but that in view of the area remaining soft and spongy, it would be best to do the work at this time.

Cox announced August 24 as the bid date for the Middle School building. Bids will be opened at 4 p.m. "We were unable to get the date moved up," Cox said, in asking the board to set aside time on August 25 to review the bid. The reason for the early review date, Cox said, "is because the State Board of Education has moved their September meeting date back to August 25-26, at which time they will need to review the board's decisions." State board approval is necessary before contracts can be signed. Cox added that because of the time pinch, however, Dr. Pierce of the State Board would allow interim approval with the State Board giving formal approval at a later date, so that the Greenville board would not be rushed into a hasty decision.

—Third Street School — Approval was given to Cox's recommendation that Greenville architect William E. Friend be employed as architectural advisor and consultant to develop ideas on renovations at Third Street. The board will meet with Friend on September 27 to consider ideas he will have to present at that time.

—Aycock Jr. High — A letter dated July 22 from G. Brent Elder of Dynamil Nobel of America, Inc., confirms in writing a telephone conversation "that plenum returns (a roof structural item) would have no ill effects on the Trocal Roofing System."

whatsoever as far as a new heating and air conditioning system is concerned." Buffalo, in a second letter of the same date, provides a cost estimate of "approximately $400,000" as cost and design fees for reworking the heating system at Aycock.

A final item on the Aycock roof was the acceptance by the board of a $158,885 bid by Moser Heating and Roofing Company for the immediately required roof repair at Aycock. Shoe, in a August 16 letter, pointed out that two bids were received, but that one could not be considered because the bidder's license is "a Privilege License, not a General Contractor's license, as required by law." Cox noted that since the roof bid was a re-advertised bid, it was legal to accept the single applicable bid.

—Agnes Fullilove — A letter of August 2 from Shoe informs that a July 28 inspection reveals "... the roof joists in the exposed area revealed no sign of structural damage. All joint bearings are solid and in good structural condition..."

—General reports — Cox reported that the repair and maintenance work assigned to local school maintenance personnel "is 90 per cent complete at this time."

The board also approved a motion that all mobile units "to house students be tied down." Estimated cost of this action is between $15,000 and $18,000. Member Ed Stallings voted against the expenditure. The down of mobile units, earlier listed as a building inspection requirement, was an item on which relief was given, since Pitt County law does not require this measure.

Board members asked Cox to draft a resolution to present to City Council that would provide a schedule of inspections of the city schools on a regular, specified basis.

Furth Named Department Head

Dr. Eugene D. Furth has been appointed to the faculty and chairmanship of the Department of Medicine of the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The appointment of Dr. Furth was announced today by Dr. William E. Laupus, dean. Dr. Furth's "experience in research and patient care" and his administrative ability "make him an outstanding addition" to the ECU School of Medicine, Dr. Laupus said.

Furth has been associate chairman of the Albany, New York, Medical College Department of Medicine.

He is a native of Philadelphia with degrees from Wesleyan University and the Cornell University Medical College. He served his internship, residency and fellowship training at the New York Hospital — Cornell University Medical Center.

He has held appointments in medicine and radiology at Albany Medical College, with special interests in endocrinology and thyroid disease as well as in the general field of stitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life for unborn children." The convention, the 31st in the history of the Republican party and one of the most divided, opened at 10:30 a.m., CDT Monday. In the tradition of most opening sessions of political conventions, it was devoted to a succession of speeches to which few delegates appeared to listen.

One message was clear: Fight for the candidate of your choice, but don't forget to unite once the battle is decided. And don't forget, the Democrats and Jimmy Carter are waiting around the corner.

Speaker after speaker labeled the Democrats as free spenders whose platform would cost $200 billion a year to implement — a claim Carter disputed during the day from his home in Georgia. Carter was castigated as wishy-washy on the issues.

The opening day was split between morning and afternoon sessions. The oratorical highlight was the keynote speech by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, regarded as one of the leading prospects for the vice presidential nomination on a ticket headed by Ford.

Baker opened his speech with a call for "straight talk and for common sense. For straight talk about the condition of our party, and for common sense about the needs of our nation." Baker was the senior Republican on the Senate Watergate committee and he dealt with the scandal and its effect on the Republican Party early in his speech.

Baker went on to accuse the Democrats of "running around rattling the dusty old skeletons of Watergate all over again."

What most of Baker's listeners didn't know was that the senator came under White House pressure to drop the early emphasis on Watergate.

"A lot of people were concerned about handling Watergate at the beginning of the speech fairly extensively," Baker said later. "But I thought we had to handle it and I did... You can't wish it away... because in 1976, for Republicans I think it's an inevitable issue and for the Democrats, I think it's irresistible."

Monday night's schedule also offered speeches by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Not too many years ago the appearance of those two men at a Republican convention would incite delegates and spectators to extended demonstrations of adoration or hostility. Many at this convention could recall the night in 1964 when the delegates who gave the presidential nomination to Goldwater booed Rockefeller so loudly he was repeatedly forced to interrupt his speech.

But Goldwater and Rockefeller have become party elders to be politely applauded. The delegates listened quietly as each, in turn, called for unity and warned of the consequences of a Democratic victory in November.

A potential scandal in the battle for the nomination surfaced in the Illinois delegation when Marie Goodlow of Chicago, a Ford supporter, said she was offered $2,500 to switch her vote to Reagan. Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie had said earlier he knew of two Illinois delegates who had been offered "material consideration" to switch from Ford to Reagan. Mrs. Goodlow confirmed later she was one of the delegates referred to by Ogilvie.

A spokesman for the FBI confirmed that a complaint had been lodged and that the Justice Department was considering opening an investigation. Lynn Neiziger, a top Reagan aide, called the accusation "a cheap, two-bit, last-minute effort to smear us." Reagan called it "a falsehood," and said "there is absolutely nothing to it."

Two Wrecks In City

An estimated $2,900 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11:05 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Student Streets involving cars driven by Louise Moye McGowan of 402A East Second St. and Jane Sanderlin Morgan of 114 North Harding St.

Investigators, who estimated damage at $2,000 to the McGowan car and $200 to the Morgan vehicle, reported both drivers were injured in the collision.

Mrs. Morgan was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of the collision. Stanley Cannon of 100A Fairfax Ave. was charged with following without a license after investigation of a 4:05 p.m. collision on Contentnea Street near the Third Street intersection.

Police, who reported the car driven by Cannon collided with a tree, also charged Beverly Ann Moore of 1700 South Evans St. with allowing an unlicensed person to drive.

Damage was estimated at $700 to the vehicle.

1,000 Dead In Asian Quake

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — More than 1,000 persons were reported dead or missing today in the worst earthquakes in Philippine history.

The National Disaster Coordinating Center reported tonight that at least 811 dead had been confirmed, 249 were missing and 251 were injured in two major quakes that hit the southern Philippines just after midnight Monday and just after noon today.

Unofficial counts raised the death toll to 917, with more than 500 injured and 400 missing.

Among the missing were 11 children swept away by 24-foot waves caused by the quake.

The Philippine Disaster Center said 1,290 families were homeless and 315 buildings, bridges and other structures were destroyed in only one of the areas hit by the quake, southwestern Mindanao.

A major earth tremor also hit central China Monday night, but sketchy reports from the area did not mention damage or casualties.

The first quake in the southern Philippines occurred at 12:13 a.m., when most people were asleep. It sent high waves crashing onto the southernmost coast, sweeping away fishermen's homes, and collapsed schools, hotels and stores on Mindanao, the Philippines' largest island.

The U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., recorded the first quake at 8.0 on the Richter Scale, 0.2 less than the July 28 quake that devastated the Tangshan area of northeast China.

Aftershocks continued through the morning. The Honolulu Observatory of the International Tsunami Information Center recorded another major tremor in the area at 6.8 Richter in early afternoon.

The Golden center recorded the Chinese quake Monday night at 6.9 Richter.

The disaster center said the worst damage was done on Basilan island southwest of Mindanao and on Mindanao in the cities of Pagadian, Zamboanga, Cagayan de Oro and Cotabato.

No buildings in the area hit by the quake are known to be higher than five floors, the officials said. Sketchy reports were received that the quake also triggered landslides and caused power failures.

The high waves caused by the quake lashed at least five coastal villages on the peninsula where Zamboanga is located, destroying more than 100 houses.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos proclaimed Mindanao and the Sulu archipelago a national calamity area. He ordered immediate relief and rescue efforts.

The official Chinese news service Hsinhua did not mention the quake in central China.

Greenville Sales High

Sales on the Greenville Tobacco Market were some of the highest of the season Monday according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"The sales yesterday consisted of lugs, cutters, and leaves. There were less non-descript grades and primings Monday," Bryan said.

"The quality was greatly improved Monday and the stabilization receipts only accounted for 2.61 per cent of the sales," Bryan added.

Monday the Greenville Tobacco Market sold 769,646 pounds for $896,303 with an average of $116.46 per 100 pounds. To date 13,679,637 pounds have been sold for $13,979,054 for a season average of $102.19 per 100 pounds.
