

Report Decrease In N.C. Violent Crime

RALEIGH (AP) — Violent crime reported in North Carolina is decreasing for the first time in at least eight years.

A report issued today by the state Department of Justice showed the rate of violent crimes against persons—murders, rapes, aggravated assaults, robberies—went down 6.6 per cent in the state in 1975. The data available for 1976 shows the trend continuing.

The Justice Department could not immediately say when the last decrease was reported. Its records went back only as far as 1968, and there was an increase in every year during that period.

The 1976 data covers only the first six months in the state's five largest cities—Durham, Raleigh, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, and Charlotte. It shows a 19 per cent decrease in violent crimes from 1975 levels for that period.

At the same time, however, the report showed continuing increases in the number of reported crimes against property. That type of crime—including burglaries, larcenies, etc.—was up 14.6 per cent across the state in 1975. It was up 7.7 per cent in the cities for the first six months of 1976.

A spokesman for the state's Police Information Network cautioned that the figures sometimes do not accurately represent the actual number of crimes committed. They merely show the number reported to the PIN.

In 1975, he said, there was a 30 per cent increase in reported crime over 1974. That was at least partially due to a larger number of police forces reporting to the PIN. The number of crime reporters leveled off in the past year.

The reported number of rapes may be another example. Reported rape, alone among the violent crimes, increased in the cities during the first six months of this year.

PIN spokesman Bob Banks said the increase was probably due at least in part to the increased willingness of women to report rapes.

The figures are probably most reliable for murder, which is nearly always reported accurately.

The data for the first six months of 1976 shows a decrease from 85 to 62 in the five major cities. Robberies decreased from 929 to 706 and aggravated assaults declined from 2,104 to 1,719.

Of the non-violent crimes, only larcenies actually went up. They increased from 16,026 to 19,098. Burglaries went down from 9,172 to 8,272. Motor vehicle theft declined from 1,422 to 1,287.

Major Bills Are Victim Of Calendar

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill and six other major pieces of legislation may not make it through Congress this year even if the legislature adds to the 24 working days left on its present schedule.

An eighth proposal — overhaul of the food stamp program — likewise may fall victim to the calendar, but the Democratic leadership is not yet publicly conceding that one.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., indicated at a news conference Monday that the Humphrey-Hawkins measure, a prime target of attack in the Republican platform, may not even be debated in that body.

"I'm for bringing it up, but I don't know whether we'll get to it or not," said Albert, who is retiring at the end of the year.

The speaker also said the tax revision bill that was sent Monday to a Senate-House conference committee "is really dragging."

Sixty of the 81 Democratic freshmen have asked the leadership not to bring up the costly employment-boosting bill, because it might hurt their reelection chances.

Its principles are a key point in the Democratic national platform and are endorsed by the party's presidential candidate, Jimmy Carter.

The Republicans at their national convention used it as a prime example of what they considered the Democratic congressional majority's penchant for reckless spending and expanded government.

The Democratic leadership for a year has planned an Oct. 2 adjournment, to allow members a month of campaign time.

The Humphrey-Hawkins measure was among seven major bills conspicuously absent from a list of "must" legislation placed in the Congressional Record two weeks ago by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., also retiring this year.

The others missing were: —One to force the major oil companies to divest themselves of retail and other subsidiaries.

—A compromise measure to deregulate the price of natural gas.

—National health insurance.

—The Carter-requested postcard voter registration bill passed by the House but stymied by a Senate dispute over committee jurisdictions.

—A measure to control the use of hand guns.

—The omnibus revision of the federal criminal code, with its much-disputed provisions affecting press freedom, freedom of information and release of government secrets.

Mansfield said Monday that, because of the shortness of time and the controversial nature of the bills, he felt it made little sense to try to move them into law this session.

Storm's Threat Ended

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Emmy, heading away from land after threatening the Leeward Islands and Puerto Rico, is expected to become a hurricane over the Atlantic Ocean.

"It's clear of the islands now," forecaster Joe Pelissier said late Monday at the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "People in the islands should look for improving conditions. The rain showers will end, and the seas will subside."

At midnight, Emmy's winds were blowing at 65 miles per hour. The storm was about 725 miles south of Bermuda moving northwest at about 15 m.p.h.

"It's pretty much holding its own now," Pelissier said. "Maybe it'll take a little while, but I think it will strengthen eventually."

Some of the weather researchers are planning to fly through the storm in search of information that someday may help control hurricanes.

Dr. Robert Sheets, chief of the hurricane group of the National Hurricane and Meteorology Laboratory in Miami, said the path of a hurricane can be predicted but that too little is known about forecasting its strength and development.

Candice, the season's third hurricane, was expected to dissipate today. On Monday it moved over cooler waters about 200 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Forecasters said Candice was moving northeast at 15 to 20 m.p.h. with winds of 75 m.p.h. — just above the threshold of a hurricane.

Screen Door No Barrier To Him

RODNEY, Ind. (AP) — A 15-year-old Decatur County youth wasn't about to let something as trivial as a screen door stand in the way of his love life.

At least, that's what sheriff's deputies surmised when they arrived at Betty Kuntz' home in this southeastern Indiana community. What they found was a smashed screen door — and a love note attached to the bedroom door of Mrs. Kuntz' daughter, Becky.

Police said the youth, whose name was withheld, probably will have to pay the estimated $10 damage to the door.

His Stone Wall Said Stolen

SHICKSHINNY, Pa. (AP) — A New York land owner wants state troopers to find his 150-foot stone wall, which he claims was stolen from his property in Luzerne County near here.

But police said Monday they don't have much to go on.

The 50 tons of field stone from the property of John Levayak of Long Island had no identifying marks.

Skyjackers Claim Libyan Leader Was Behind Plot

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — Three Arab hijackers whose attempt to pirate an Egyptair jetliner to neighboring Libya was foiled by disguised paratroopers said Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy promised them $250,000, Egypt's prime minister reported.

The Libyan government denied the accusation. It counter-charged that the Egyptian intelligence service staged the hijacking in an attempt to discredit Libya.

Two of the three armed hijackers were injured Monday when the Egyptian paratroopers, dressed as mechanics, overpowered them and freed passengers and crew members of the Boeing 737 at the airport in the southern city of Luxor, officials said.

Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem, who flew to Luxor after the hijacking Monday, said the trio confessed their mission was ordered by the militant Libyan leader who Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has accused of waging a campaign of subversion and terrorism against his regime.

The hijackers said Khadafy promised them $250,000 if they forced the pilot to fly the plane to Libya, Salem reported. Interior Ministry officials said they also demanded the release of three Libyans and two other Arabs jailed in Egypt and threatened to blow up the plane if their demands were not met.

The Egyptian government charges that Libya was responsible for the recent bombing of the Alexandria railway station, in which eight persons were killed and 60 were wounded, and the bombing of a government building in Cairo. Libya has denied these charges also.

Salem said one of the hijackers carried a Jordanian passport, one a Kuwaiti passport and the third had a Palestinian identification card. He said two of them were armed with guns and the third had a dagger and a suitcase he said contained explosives.

They commandeered the planeload of tourists — mostly French and Japanese — Monday morning during a flight from Cairo to Luxor, 448 miles to the south.

Korea Commission Meets Wednesday

By M.H. AHN
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korea today agreed to a meeting on Wednesday of the joint Korean Military Armistice Commission to discuss the safety of Americans in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

The United States demanded the meeting and proposed that it be held today. But North Korea proposed a delay until Wednesday afternoon, and the United States agreed.

The United States asked for the meeting in Panmunjom, the truce village in the demilitarized zone, to seek assurances from North Korea that there would not be a repetition of the clash last week in which North Korean guards killed two American army officers.

State Department spokesman Robert Funseth said the United States would demand assurance that "our people will not be harmed."

The American aircraft carrier Midway and four escorting warships were maneuvering off the coast of Korea. American forces in South Korea were reinforced by two fighter squadrons from Okinawa and the United States, and American, South Korean and North Korean forces on the peninsula were all on precautionary alerts.

But the State Department made a conciliatory gesture with a new comment on a statement by North Korean President Kim Il-sung terming the incident at Panmunjom "regretful."

"We recognize that the North Korean statement expresses regret over the incident and we consider this a positive step," Funseth said. "Nevertheless, this does not change the tragic fact that two American officers were brutally beaten to death without provocation."

Another State Department spokesman said on Sunday that the statement was unacceptable because it did not acknowledge responsibility for the slaying of the two Americans.

Funseth added that assurances from North Korea that Americans would be safe in the future "would improve the climate" in Korea.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said the United States "is anxious to cooperate in relaxation of tensions, but we want to make sure there is no miscalculation concerning our firmness in the area."

The North Korean Communist party newspaper, Rodong, charged that the Midway task force had entered North Korean waters. Pentagon sources in Washington said the Midway task force was off the coast of South Korea, well south of North Korean waters.

Bitter Division Among South Africa's Blacks

By LARRY HEINZERLING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — At least seven persons have been killed in clashes between blacks trying to enforce a three-day work boycott and other blacks in Soweto, the World newspaper reported today. A senior police spokesman said he could not confirm the report.

The World, which has black reporters and contacts in the black townships around Johannesburg, quoted a 17-year-old girl saying some 20 club-swinging Zulus turned on other blacks who molested workers returning from Johannesburg Monday night.

The Zulus, a tribal group, were harassed on their way home after work and were given a police escort to their hostel, the paper said, then came out "and attacked people indiscriminately."

"As the Zulus waded into the crowds with their weapons they shouted 'Where is your black power, where is it?' the girl was quoted as saying."

The World said all of the dead were men, some of them youths.

Police said they were determined to protect workers who wanted to get to work in the metropolis eight miles north of Soweto and acknowledged that police killed one black "intimidator" Monday night.

A split has been developing in recent weeks between black youths wanting to use strikes and other demonstrations to protest South Africa's racial policies and older blacks who prefer to continue working.

Some employers reported a substantial increase in the number of blacks reporting for work today, and many others said they were adopting a "get tough" attitude and would no longer pay the thousands who stayed away.

But spokesmen for the city's industry and commerce said the absenteeism rate was only slightly less than Monday's 30 to 100 per cent.

Tentative Pact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers union reached a tentative agreement on a three-year master contract today that could end the 126-day-old strike, the company reported.

The tentative agreement provides for a general increase of $1.35 hourly over three years, a cost of living allowance and "substantial boosts" in pensions and other benefits, Goodyear said.

INSURANCE DISCOUNT

I read recently that some insurance companies give discounts on life insurance policies for nonsmokers. I think some companies also give discounts on homeowners' policies. Do you have any information on this? G.S.

The article you read, you told us, was in the August, 1976 issue of McCall's magazine. We wrote to the address given for a list of companies offering discounts for nonsmokers.

The list we received deals only with life insurance companies. It was published in the 1976 edition of "Who Writes What" by the National Underwriter Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The companies listed offer life insurance at rates varying from a few cents to several dollars per $1,000 of insurance lower than the standard rates. Reduced rates are available for cigar and pipe smokers. Participating nonsmoking adults must have abstained from smoking cigarettes one year or more to qualify.

Some companies offer a special plan; others apply a discount to standard plans. Usually the insured person must sign a statement of abstention to qualify for the discount or the special plan. In most cases discounts apply only to a limited number of plans.

HOTLINE has the list of participating companies and will furnish it on request. None of the companies are based in North Carolina but some may have policy owners in the state.

The list is also available by writing to Information Services, Institute of Life Insurance, 277 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Information was not available on homeowners' insurance discounts, but the McCall's article did state that some companies do offer special rates or discounts.

We do not know if discounts are given on automobile insurance by any companies.

Group Says U.S. Population Above Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. population, including illegal aliens, is 222.2 million, or 6.5 million higher than the official government estimate, a private group contends.

The Environmental Fund also claims that both the birth rate and the death rate are lower than the government has reported. The fund was founded in 1973 to draw attention to the problems of world population growth.

The fund's population figures were based on U.S. Bureau of the Census figures. The fund argued that the bureau, in estimating the U.S. population at 215.7 million recently, did not include 5.3 million persons whom the bureau said in 1972 were overlooked in the 1970 census.

Also omitted were illegal aliens, believed to number more than one million, according to the fund's population consultant, Robert Cook.

The actual birth and death rates are lower because the Bureau of Vital Statistics based the rates on the lower official population figure, Cook said.

He said that births exceeded deaths by 1.3 million in the past year, boosting the population by .59 per cent. With immigration added, U.S. population growth exceeded 1.2 per cent during the year, he said.

The Environmental Fund favors immigration restrictions and lower birth rates to reduce the nation's population growth.

The fund, using figures from the Census Bureau and the United Nations, also estimated that the world's population reached 4.24 billion in midyear. The Census Bureau's estimate is 4.069 billion. The difference was primarily due to a higher fund estimate for the People's Republic of China — 964.4 million.

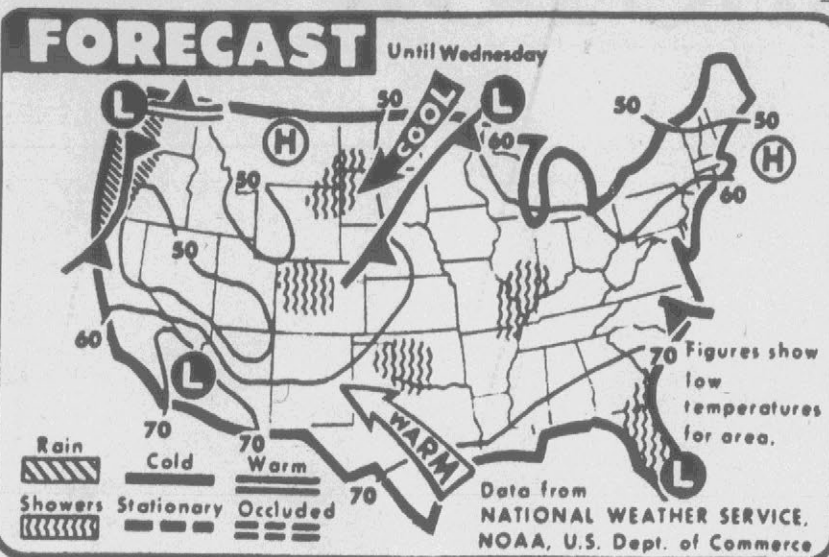

The fund claimed that "nearly all population estimates, including those of the UN and Census, have erred on the low side for more than two decades."

The group claimed that the world's population was growing at 2.2 per cent a year. At that rate, it would quadruple in 57 years while the U.S. population was doubling, fund President Justin Blackweider said. He said it will be impossible for the world to feed that many people.

"The world has already passed its carrying capacity, which means that death rates will rise until they equal birth rates, and population growth will stop," said Blackweider.

"Starvation, pestilence and war" will take an increased toll unless birth rates are cut, he warned.

Insect Zoo Fills Entire Room

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's new, creepy, crawly and wriggly, a world of bugs billed as the nation's first insect zoo.

Big bugs, little bugs, hairy bugs, fuzzy bugs, slimy bugs — they fill a room at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History, fluttering, burrowing, hopping, hissing — and sending chills down the spines of scores of tourists who wandered through the display when it opened Monday.

"We try to get insects doing their thing as they do in nature," said Bruce Daniels, 25, of Watertown, N.Y., one of the display's two zoo keepers whose main job is to keep the bugs healthy and well-fed.

ZOO KEEPER Bruce Daniels, 25, holds a Giant Lubber Grasshopper in Washington as the nation's first Insect Zoo officially opened in Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

His brood includes dung beetles, which roll manure into little balls in which the females lay their eggs; burying beetles that bury dead animals like mice; and leaf-cutter ants that chop flower petals, haul them back to the nest, lick the specimens clean, defecate on it and then eat the fungus that soon grows.

There's also a hive of honeybees, and tarantulas, butterflies and caterpillars, all housed in brightly-lit plexiglas containers with screens and particularly tight-fitting lids to prevent escape.

The main idea of the display, Daniels explained, "is to get people to come and touch and see the insects and leave with a better attitude towards them. These are things you often find in your backyard."

Daniels plucked a four-inch long lubber grasshopper from the head of romaine lettuce it was devouring. "They're neat," he said, petting the shiny black creature as he might a kitten and holding it up for three-year-old Jason Evens of Hampton, Va., to inspect.

"Nooooo," cried Jason, who burrowed into his father's shoulder and watched in terror as the leggy bug was allowed to trek up his mother's arm. "Nooooo," he cried again as she held it up for him to inspect.

Neighbors of the grasshoppers are the hissing cockroaches that measure as long as your thumb and, as their name implies, hiss a lot.

Political Aura Seen In Event

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Rep. Jim Martin has postponed his annual summer conference for the elderly until after the November elections. A question has been raised whether it is a political event.

But the general counsel of the Federal Election Commission, John G. Murphy Jr., recently told Martin the conference should be treated as political.

Martin has asked for a ruling from the full election commission.

"There are those who argue that the very fact that I am there makes it a political event," Martin said. "But everything I do has some political impact — down to whether I brush my teeth or not in the morning."

Murphy said money spent on the conferences "should be treated as an expenditure made for the purpose of influencing a federal election."

Martin said that about $100,000 is spent. He said about 700 persons attended last year.

Martin said he intends to continue the conferences, even if he has to reschedule them and revise the format to meet election commission guidelines.

Martin, a Republican, is running for a third term in the 9th District. He has contended the meetings are part of his duties as a congressman. Elderly persons meet with him and with representatives of city, county, Social Security and other agencies.

Better Leaf Aids Prices

Increased quality attributed to a record average Monday on the Greenville Tobacco Market, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the local Tobacco Board of Trade.

Bryan reported that better grades of offerings resulted in a market average of $117.73 per hundred pounds yesterday as warehouses sold 1,039,714 pounds for $1,224,009.

Offerings still consisted of cutters, leaf and lugs, he continued, with a small amount of primings and non descript tobacco continuing to show up on warehouse floors.

Top practical price paid here on Monday was $1.21 per hundred pounds, the spokesman noted.

Stabilization receipts dipped to only two per cent to total sales, according to Bryan.

For the season, the Greenville Market has sold 17,375,015 pounds for $18,279,771, an average of $105.21 per hundred pounds.

Five-Item Agenda

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning & Zoning Commissions will consider a total of five items during Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The joint board will consider the preliminary plat of Tucker Industrial Park located in front of Pitt Technical Institute on NC 11, and also the preliminary plat of North Park Industrial Center located south of State Road 1579.

Business on the agenda of the city board includes: preliminary plat of Section IV of Johnston Heights to withdraw a street from dedication;

Final plat of North River Estates, Section II; and a site plan for 117 units of public housing on South Evans Street between 16th Street and Arthur Street extended.

Former POW To Be Running

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ray Schrupp, the former prisoner of war in Vietnam who spoke at the Republican National Convention, plans to run for Congress in 1978.

The 44-year-old retired Army lieutenant colonel drew a standing ovation after calling for continued interest in the fate of Americans still missing in Vietnam. He was a delegate to last week's convention.

Schrump now runs a service contracting business in Fayetteville. He said Monday that as a candidate he would continue to talk about Americans missing in Vietnam but it would not be his primary issue.

"I will talk about that and take care of that in my own time," he said.

Schrump would be a candidate in the 7th District, which is now represented by Democrat Charles Rose of Fayetteville. It is too late for Schrupp to run this year.

He said he thinks many congressmen do not represent their constituents and do not communicate with them.

"I see this shield invariably put up between people and their representatives. I've been so infuriated by back-room decision making," he said.

Schrump said he had considered seeking political office before the convention but felt it would have been difficult "without any credentials."

He said delegates at the convention, and local supporters, have urged him to run as a Republican candidate.

State GOP chairman Bob Shaw said after the convention he would like to see Schrupp run for office. He said Schrupp was "the most impressive" person he saw in Kansas City. Shaw said he "could sweat blood and guts for a guy like Schrupp."

Marriages Said Stable In Pre-Marital Births

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Couples who conceive a child before they wed do not have a significantly higher breakup rate than those who wait until after the marriage ceremony to start a family, a government report shows.

The report said that 81.6 per cent of women in the last half of the 1960s who married after becoming pregnant still were with their husbands at the time of the 1970 census, compared to 85.5 per cent of women who were not pregnant when they wed.

"When I was growing up, girls were urged to keep their bodies pure and those who represented themselves as the moral arbiters of society enforced this feeling," said Henry Smith of the Census Bureau.

"Here the statistics seem to suggest that a girl who becomes pregnant before marriage and marries the father seems to make out as well as the girl who kept her body pure," he said.

The figures were contained in the Census Bureau's first report on premarital childbirth. The report shows also that 52.6 per cent of first children born to black mothers in 1969 were illegitimate, compared to 10.1 per cent of first babies born to white mothers.

The survey also shows that illegitimate first babies increased in recent years among blacks but remained nearly stable among whites.

About 18 per cent of black women between the ages of 15 to 50 reported having their first child out of wedlock. Of black women 25 to 30 years old, 38.2 per cent reported illegitimate first births.

Among white women in the 45 to 50 age group, 5.7 per cent reported having their first child while single. The figure was 6.4 per cent for white women of the younger 25-to-30-year-old generation.

Demographers, sociologists and social psychologists say that economic, social and cultural differences, and the availability of birth control methods explain differences in premarital child conception among races.

Mrs. Joy Dryfoos of a Planned Parenthood's research group, the Alan Guttmacher Institute in New York, said that illegitimacy rates will drop as birth control becomes more widespread.

"The conventional wisdom is that the black culture is more accepting of illegitimacy than the white culture," she said. "I would also suggest that the differences are related to the availability of birth control, abortion and sex education. I would expect a decline in black illegitimacy in the next report because our studies show that blacks are using abortion services more than we expected."

Anyone who finds a bug may bring it to the zoo for inspection, Daniels said. "We encourage people to bring in interesting ones."

No Explosion In Wreck Of Propane Gas Tanker

ANGIER (AP) — Nearby residents were evacuated and the driver was killed Monday when a tank truck loaded with 6,000 gallons of highly flammable propane gas wrecked near Angier.

The Highway Patrol identified the victim as 32-year-old Carl Gilbert of Dunn. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Nearly all the gas escaped after the wreck, but there was no explosion and no other injuries were reported.

Witnesses to the wreck included Gilbert's father, J.C. Gilbert, also of Dunn.

Highway Patrolman J.C. Anderson said that Gilbert, driving a truck belonging to Tart Gas Co. of Dunn, was southbound on N.C. 55 about two miles from Angier when he met his father coming the other way.

The officer said the younger Gilbert apparently waved at his father and then lost control of the truck which overturned several times as the elder Gilbert watched in his rear view mirror. Young Gilbert was pinned in the wreckage and died shortly after rescue workers arrived.

According to Anderson, the escaping propane gas "was coming out in a white cloud" when officers arrived moments after the accident. Rescue workers were forced to leave Gilbert's body in the wreckage of the truck cab for four hours until the gas flow subsided.

Harold Johnson, a passing motorist, who works for a Fuquay-Varina propane dealer, ran to 12 nearby tobacco barns to shut off open flames which authorities feared could ignite the cloud of gas hovering in the area.

"It was really the best possible conditions if you had to have something like this," Johnson said. "The sun was hot enough to evaporate a lot of the gas and the wind was just right to blow it into a low area away from danger."

Anderson and other highway patrolmen on the scene quickly evacuated all persons within a half-mile radius, including several golfers on the Hidden Valley golf course and set up road blocks a mile on either side of the accident scene.

No Charges In Mishaps

An estimated $2,500 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from an 11:37 a.m. mishap on N.C. 11, 20 feet North of the N.C. 33 intersection involving cars driven by Velma M. Stalls of 134 West Gum Rd. and Esther Bowen Baker of 201 West Gum Rd.

Police, who made no charges, estimated damage at $600 to the Stalls car and $1,200 to the Baker auto.

The second mishap occurred about 1:44 p.m. at the intersection of Greene and Moore Streets and involved vehicles driven by Alice Whitaker Harris of Route 5, Greenville and James Lee Dixon of 205 Greenfield Ter.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Harris car and $400 to the Dixon vehicle.

No charges were reported.

The Natural Look Isn't Strong

By JEANNE LESEM
UPIN Family Editor

The natural look is all very well for young people and adults as fall's new fashion trend, but it is not expected to be strong in school dressing for one very good reason.

The mother who buys a schoolgirl's dress also has to take care of it. She may even have to wash it after each wearing, say manufacturers and retailers, so she looks up the garment that can go from washer to dryer to the wearer's back without a stop for ironing.

What this means is lots of polyester and blends of cotton or wool with synthetics that require little or no pressing after washing or dry cleaning.

"There is some reflection of women's naturals," said Terry Reynolds, fashion director for children's wear for a nationwide retail and catalog sales chain. "Cottons for children are always important. For one thing, colors come up much brighter. But there's no great surge in cotton because parents want easy care fabrics.

They're also budget conscious, and cotton fabric now often costs more than synthetics, reversing a longstanding trend. "Styles reflect junior styles," Miss Reynolds said. She defined juniors as girls from their late teens into their 20s.

As in women's fashions, the ladylike look is important this fall. Dresses for the secondary school set never really went out of style, said Stanley Love, president of a children's wear firm.

"Little girls always have worn dresses. Middle America is based on the family, and the family is children," said Love. "Mothers want their little girls to look like little girls. It is very important to have an identity today."

The big change Love sees is in colors, an acceptance of camel, beige and brown that never would have been used years ago for young children. Tartans, grays, plums and tweeds also are popular.

Designs are mostly small scale versions of young adult and adult fashions: T-shirts, T-type bodices, lots of patchwork and appliques, big turtlenecks and mock turtlenecks, hooded jackets and coats, cuffed pants, jumpsuits and a return to classicism: white dresses for first communion, pleated skirts and jacket dresses.

Yet ethnic trends have accelerated, too. Love expects spring trends to include the Russian ballet look, North, South and Central American Indian motifs, the middle Europe gypsy look, country French and earthy African.

"Pants still make up the major portion of any child's wardrobe," said Miss Reynolds. "Jeans are always there. What is done with jeans makes them different. The bulk of the market is classic designs, the faded or the Western look. But there also are casual pants in faded denims, dark work clothes denims, engineer stripes."

Bermudas, culottes, gauchos and jumpsuits, even knickers will be seen in school this fall. And long pants that tie at the ankle. The gauchos and culottes tend to be boot height. The tunic look so popular for adults is used for shirts or jumpers.

To carry out the ladylike theme, models we saw wore mostly Mary Jane slippers, but some were in clunky looking natural leather T-strap with platforms that added an inch or more height.

Easy care carries over even to outerwear. Many bulky looking coats this fall have real lamb trim that is removable. Others are made from or trimmed with washable pile.

Looking ahead to spring, Miss Reynolds expects playsuits, jumpsuits, cuffed shorts, bermudas, culottes and gauchos to remain popular. Colors will be bright and clean, she said, with sharp prints on white grounds, clashing colors in stripes of varying widths, florals and large print borders.

She said important fabrics will include engineer and ticking stripes, white on white, dish towel and dish cloth effects, dual prints and all types of checks, stripes and plaids.

Operation Sunshine Girls Given Awards

Two girls enrolled in the Operation Sunshine summer program were given special recognition by the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville Monday morning.

Named most optimistic and outstanding members were Michelle Whichard and Patricia Black. The girls were given engraved medallions by Mrs. Charles Ross, projects chairman for the Opti-Mrs. Club. Mrs. Curtis Howell, club president, told the girls about the annual project.

The awards have been presented to the most outstanding and optimistic girls for the past five years. The winners were selected by Operation Sunshine members on the following guidelines—kindest, cheerful, most optimistic and most helpful.

The Operation Sunshine program is for girls ages seven through 13 and the enrollment for this summer has been approximately 55 from the Newtown and West Greenville Centers.

Mrs. Mary Jenkins, acting director for Operation Sunshine, listed the following activities held during this summer: arts and crafts; summer camp; swimming; movies; bowling; sewing; a trip to King's Dominion. The girls have also made three quilts, which have been given to the local nursing home.

The summer hours were from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Newtown and the same hours were held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at West Greenville. The program will be conducted at the two centers from 3-5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays after the beginning of school.

The girls were also given a party by the Opti-Mrs. Club members including, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Joe Johnson and Mrs. John Trotman.

Members of the Board of Directors for Operation Sunshine are: R. B. Johnson, chairman; Ennis Chestang, vice chairman; John Bizzell, Powell, James W. Grimes; and treasurer; Mrs. Sam T. White II, Mrs. Raymond Williams. Various civic clubs and churches in Greenville are represented on the board by committee

In-Laws Advised To Forget Birthday

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For several years now we have sent our son-in-law a check for his birthday. We used to buy him gifts, but it is so hard to pick out a gift to please a 28-year-old man, we thought a check made more sense.

We have never received a thank-you, verbal or written. He and our daughter live here in town, and we see them fairly often, so it would be a simple matter for him to say, "Thank you for the check."

The only way we know that he has received these checks is because they come back cancelled with our bank statement.

Our son-in-law is not dumb. He went to college. He has a birthday coming up soon, and I'm considering sending him a card so he won't think we've forgotten him—but no check this time. His money is easier to come by than ours. Or should I just forget his birthday altogether?

DEAR PUZZLED: I would.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who is reasonably intelligent and quite attractive, so I'm told. My problem has to do with boys. I have no trouble getting dates with guys my age or a little older.

The problem comes when I am with some boy I like and we are out on a dark country road, or for that matter on the couch in my living room. I am not a virgin, but I'm not a tramp by any means.

I don't want to say no. I want him to go on and on, and never stop. I know I should stop him, but when I do, I feel so frustrated afterward, I want to die.

Why shouldn't I enjoy myself? I don't mean with every guy that comes along, only the one I feel something special for. "This time I'll keep it innocent," I tell myself, but kissing and cuddling build up until I am desperate to have the boy make love to me.

Is lust normal at my age? What is really wrong with going all the way if you really care for someone?
NORMAL AND HEALTHY AT 17

DEAR NORMAL: "Lust" (which is another word for sexual desire) is perfectly normal in all healthy teenagers. But if you expect me to give you permission to go all the way, you're asking the wrong person.

When you are sufficiently mature in your judgments to make your own decisions, take full responsibility for your actions and handle the consequences, you won't ask me (or anyone else) for advice.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too dumb to answer. I am a 12-year-old Catholic girl who goes to church every Sunday and I would ask my priest, but I'm afraid he would laugh at me. I have always wanted to be an altar boy.

Is it possible for a girl to be an altar boy or not?
HOLY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR HOLY: Traditionally, only boys can be altar boys, but the Catholic church has made many changes this past decade, and perhaps you will live long enough to see girls serving the Mass.

Bride-Elect Entertained

AYDEN — August bride-elect Patsy Loftin was honored at a floating tea and miscellaneous shower at the home of her aunt and grandmother, Mrs. Joyce Langston and Mrs. Sally Buck, Saturday night.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Langston and presented to the honoree and her mother. Miss Karen Tyson registered guests.

The refreshment table was covered with a bridal cloth and centered with lighted tapers tied with wedding bells. Mrs. Johnny Buck poured punch.

AYDEN — Miss Patsy Loftin was entertained at a bridesmaids luncheon Saturday by Mrs. Jane Buck and Sharon at their home.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white flowers.

The bride was presented a white carnation corsage which complemented her white, green and red dress.

The honoree was remembered with gifts of china and crystal in her chosen patterns.

Meals For One Or Two Need Not Be Skimpy

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Mrs. Ruth Buck, foods and nutrition specialist at Penn State University, warns those who cook for one or two against eating skimpy, monotonous meals.

With planning and careful shopping, she said, a variety of appealing meals can be prepared with the foods needed daily for good health. Mrs. Buck's suggestions for small-scale shopping to add variety to the diet include buying only as much food as can be used easily.

A large package, even though it is more economical, is no bargain if the food becomes stale or spoils, she said. Small-size cans of fruits, vegetables and seafood, and single-serving cans of fruit and vegetable juices often are the best buy for small households.

At the same time, larger packages of loose, frozen vegetables can be a good choice because individual portions can be removed and cooked as needed, while the remainder stays frozen.

Dry milk is inexpensive, takes little storage space, and can be used in cooking and drinking, said Mrs. Buck.

If carrying groceries home is a problem, a package of dry milk is much easier to tote than cartons of fresh milk. Nonfat dry milk contains the same protein, calcium and riboflavin as fresh milk, Mrs. Buck said, but not as many calories, and the fortified vitamin A and D forms are added bonuses.

Dried vegetables, fruits, soups and mixes may be better choices than fresh ones because they are easy to keep and prepare in small amounts. TV dinners, individual poultry pies, and frozen entrees have improved in quality and are good to have on hand when heating may mean the difference between eating and not eating.

Don't hesitate to buy larger cuts of meats and whole chickens, Mrs. Buck said. Simply cut them into smaller pieces and freeze in meal-size packages the parts you won't use immediately.

Breads, crackers and cookies become stale easily, so they should be bought in small amounts if possible. Bread freezes well and can be defrosted a slice at a time, or as needed.

Now, Sustain The Momentum

Last week's planning session by the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce touched a lot of bases in contemplating needs and aspirations for creating a better future.

The input was literally tremendous in scope and exhilarating in its portents. The gathering illustrated once again that there are many concerned people who want to share in the processes of development.

Looking back, one could count a score or more of thought-provoking proposals well worth further analysis and exploring.

In the end, of course, value of the meeting will be determined by its fruits. Somehow the momentum of that gathering must be preserved.

Community improvement is not a field to be left to governing bodies alone. Day to day governmental affairs coupled with such extraneous matters as earning a living and fulfilling family responsibilities keep them (municipal and county officials) preoccupied.

So there is more than enough room, and need, for civic-minded businessmen and businesswomen to apply their individual expertise to a host of problems beyond the scope of governmental functions.

All of which leads to one more observation: Greenville and Pitt County can claim a treasure in talents, imagination, know-how and vision in the university community, the business community, the professional community and agricultural community. These resources have been tapped in the past, but not nearly approaching the degree which is possible.

The Chamber of Commerce is the most logical instrument for bringing together the multi-faceted components of our social structure and putting them to work.

We think the groundwork has been laid for accomplishments overshadowing anything that has gone before. A start has been made; and if the momentum can be built up and sustained, the possibilities for our people are absolutely unlimited.

And that's a fact!

Ford-Carter Debates Appear Assured

There seems to be no argument about a series of televised debates between Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and Republican Pres. Gerald Ford.

Ford issued the challenge in his address to the GOP Convention. Carter took up the challenge before the evening was over.

Thus we can expect to see the two candidates debating the issues prior to the November election. We think that will be healthy for the campaign.

THIS AFTERNOON

Continuing Money Trouble

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)
RALEIGH — Before his four-year term is up, the next governor of North Carolina may well be wishing they had given the office to the low-vote getter instead of the high.

The problem is money. Whatever else his predecessors have had at their command, they have had dollars to spend in sizable proportions for new and sometimes exciting programs. Some have been visionary and done that, some haven't. But the resources were there.

This time it is a different story. The state must still pay the piper for the free-spending actions of the 1976 rump session of the General Assembly.

Although revenues increased smartly and the outgoing Republican administration of Gov. James E. Holshouser came up with some $30 million in unspent funds after balancing the 1975-76 budget, what is happening in this fiscal year is uncertain.

Broke
Some fiscal experts mulling conditions predict about enough money left over at the end of fiscal 1976-77 to buy a hamburger and soft drink — small soft drink.

By speeding up collections of withholding to produce a windfall of around $70 million to cover raises for teachers and other state employees, the General Assembly actually cut into the income which will be due in following fiscal 1977-78.

To take up that slack, they must take the next step, most experts agree: speed up the withholding collections even more by reaching further down the scale to firms employing smaller numbers of people. Also, the logical extension of that will be to speed up collections of corporate taxes.

Those steps will be essential just to continue the raises provided, and to continue funding the fully implemented public school kindergarten program.

The 1977 General Assembly, then, will be told that just to continue present spending with no tax increases is going to be a touch and go situation.

What about new spending?
The lines are already clear; the priorities are being set by outside forces. And the figures are astoundingly high.

Five Areas
Top priority must be given to just five areas:

Medicaid — the private venture has failed; no ceiling could be placed. The state will have to come up with perhaps $20 million this fiscal year to cover costs. There goes the surplus, and in the coming two years expect costs to soar upward by $500 million over the present $450 million. The state's share of that hike, $125 million if the federal level of funding holds firm.

Prisons — federal courts and state pressures will demand spending $100 million, and depending on how the cost is spread, it will take from $20 to $40 million in the first two years of the new governor's term.

State Salaries — Employees will turn the screws for more pay, and politicians will yore to the political clout. Each one per cent hike will cost between $14 and $15 million — the result is obvious.

Enrollment Increase — both community colleges-technical institutes and public senior colleges expect major enrollment growth — accompanied by demands for more space and personnel. Cost is unknown, but $50 million a year is conservative.

Mental Retardation — If federal courts rule that state must provide full services for the mentally retarded both in and out of schools, then new buildings and personnel will increase at the rate of about $20 million per year.

In two cases, federal courts hold the key; in one, federal rules on Medicaid are critical; in another, political clout of state employees is the factor; and in another, the need to provide increased education for youngsters provides the pressure.

In each case, almost uncontrollable, outside influences will demand the state response rather than the desires of the new governor, the wishes of the General Assembly, or the will of the people.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Same Old Faces Stay On

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
KANSAS CITY — Some 24 hours after the convention authenticated his leadership of the Republican party, President Ford made a typically belated effort to put a cosmetic new face on his campaign by pleading with John B. Connally to become Republican national chairman.

Connally was not interested in the cosmetic business. A proud man, he was aware of thunderous silence from the White House during personal attacks that doomed his vice-presidential hopes. Besides, he told friends, the time to start that job was eight months ago. So, meeting with Mr. Ford in his Crown Center

Hotel office here for 40 minutes Thursday evening, Connally had one answer: no.

If dynamic, masterful John Connally would not take the job, the President's alternative was for non-dynamic, non-masterful Mary Louise Smith to keep it. She was reelected to a two-year term Friday morning by a national committee unanimous in its vote but caustic in some private comments. "This is not the hour for white-haired Iowa grandmothers," snapped a Southern committeewoman.

Mrs. Smith's retention fits a pattern. After a pre-convention campaign that only narrowly nominated an incumbent President, the post-convention effort begins a monumental uphill climb against Jimmy Carter with essentially the same team. Similarly, the campaign theme stressing accomplishments of Mr. Ford's two years in office, though ineffective in the primaries, is retained for the general election.

On the even of the convention, one of Mr. Ford's shrewdest regional lieutenants predicted a face-lifting for Mrs. Smith and Ford campaign manager Rogers Morton. Insiders knew better. "I know, in my heart," predicted one who has pushed hard for change, "that the President won't do it."

Final decisions are being made by the President in Vail, Colo. But Morton seems sure to stay on as manager, though largely as a figurehead.

Williams Timmons, following a magnificent performance as Ford convention manager, was asked to take over the chief operating role under Morton for the fall campaign; Timmons instead is returning to his Washington lobbying firm. The apparent second choice is a holdover: James Baker, Mr. Ford's highly effective chief delegate hunter in pinning down those last 100 delegates.

But wooing uncommitted delegates is not quite adequate preparation for running an uphill 50-state campaign. So, old Republican pros question whether on-the-job training for Baker, an ex-Houston corporation lawyer new to politics, can work quickly enough. These politicians would have preferred a familiar face — veteran strategist F. Clifton White, Reagan campaign manager John Sears or old pro Ody Fish of Wisconsin.

With the same faces still on board, there is talk of using them more efficiently. That means more power for White House chief of staff Richard Cheney. Real control of the campaign, then, would be in the hands of two clever political neophytes: Jim Baker and Dick Cheney.

EVERY MAN TO HIS DUTY

The famous statement of Lord Nelson just before the Battle of Trafalgar has come down across the generations to inspire Englishmen and people of all countries who believe that doing one's duty is an important goal in life.

On the morning of the battle, Nelson instructed his lieutenant to announce to the fleet that England expected every man to do his duty. By means of flags the signal went from ship to ship. It was one of those simple statements which seem to grip men's hearts and instill a new confidence.

Trafalgar was won. Napoleon was far from defeated, but the naval battle made certain that the triumph in which he then gloried was destined to come to a bitter end.

"England expects every man to do his duty." As the British seamen pondered this statement it probably conjured up a vision of the people back home looking out to sea, confident of the fidelity of their sons, brothers, and husbands.

Ronnie Made It A Fight

KANSAS CITY — Ronald Reagan's campaign doubtless was doomed from the start. He had to cope with his own image as an extremist. He had to confront the immense weight of Gerald Ford's incumbency. He was running against the rule that no party rejects its own sitting president. But, by golly, he made a superlative fight.

Ford properly gets the headlines now. Losers are yesterday's news. But before "our next president Ronald Reagan" drops out of sight, there is a word to be said in farewell. There's a backward look to be taken.

This correspondent made his farewells once before. This was five months ago, when Reagan's effort appeared to have foundered. Ford had then won five primaries in a row; Reagan's own people were getting long-faced. It seemed a good time to say so long, Ron, and good show. But March 23 saw him launched all over again. He beat Ford in North Carolina by 52.4 to 45.9, and steamed on to Kansas City. There he sank Wednesday night.

Reagan has great credit coming. He met the President of the United States head-on in 22 contested primaries. He won 10 and lost 12. In the presidential mile run, he finished only a yard behind. He carried 22 of the 50 states Wednesday night. And from start to finish, he waged a clean campaign.

He had Nancy with him every step of the way, and there's a special word to be said for her. Campaigns are hell on wives. Men grow too old to cry; wives never do. To have worked so hard, to have fought so long, to have come so close! Nancy Reagan wept last week. She gave her husband's effort everything she had.

This past Wednesday, John Sears held his regular press briefing in a crowded hall at Municipal Auditorium. As Reagan's campaign manager, Sears had labored long and arduously — some critics said too arduously — to keep his candidate in the race. Now Sears' face was puffy with fatigue. He had lost the crucial test vote Tuesday night on an amendment to the rules. It was effectively all over. Sears knew it. Everybody knew it.

In a mood of rueful reminiscence, Sears spoke of the "small things" that had made so large a difference. Mississippi's delegation had caucused Tuesday morning on the proposed amendment. The vote was 31-28 for the Ford position. Under the unit rule, all of the state's 30 convention votes therefore would be cast against a good. Prices of industrial commodities are turning volatile, and may cause problems. After rising an average of only 0.3 per cent in the first three months, prices of these basic commodities have almost doubled — to 0.6 per cent in May, 0.5 per cent in June, and 0.6 in July — producing "some concern" in the White House.

Curiously, as prices rise the economic advance is turning a bit sluggish. The annual rate of growth for the Gross National Product was 9.2 per cent in the first quarter, and less than one-half that in the second.

Consumers apparently have developed a wait-and-see attitude, and retail sales as a consequence have been flat since spring. Some manufactured goods are building up in inventories rather than being sold to consumers.

Political analysts note that only presidents have managed to overcome temporary lulls in the economy near election time because voters had confidence in their ability to "get things moving."

However, Ford probably will have the added problem of dealing with a rise in the Wholesale Price Index in the midst of his campaign, a rise that could have less to do with economics than with politics.

London 50 Yrs. Later

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — "The last time I stood here," said Louis Alter, "was 50 years ago."

He was in the courtyard of St. James Palace looking up at the windows of what once was the apartment of the Prince of Wales, long before the Crown Prince Edward met an American divorcee and died in self-exile in France as the Duke of Windsor.

"The prince liked to play the drums, you know," said Alter. "He used to ask me to come along and play the piano to his beat. The windows look empty now but they were always blazing with lights in those days. They are all gone, aren't they? The prince and all his beautiful people."

This is a sentimental journey for Alter, 74, who toured Britain in 1923, 1924 and 1926 as accompanist to the greatest singer of her time, Nora Bayes, before he went on to fame himself as a songwriter.

He composed the enduring symphonic jazz classic Manhattan Serenade at the request of Paul Whiteman and a string of hits for Frank Sinatra, Louis Armstrong, Bing Crosby, Bea Lillie, Joan Crawford, Fannie Brice.

Somehow, although his career really started here and he always planned to come back, the decades slipped by while he worked mainly in his New York apartment with fairly undiminished creativity.

"Is Kim Manchester around?" he asked. "He was a great friend of mine."

The Duke of Manchester, he was told, now lives in Kenya. "Well," he said, "I won't ask about Jack Buchanan or Gertrude Lawrence. They're gone."

"I would have liked to have seen Noel Coward. He used to beg me to get him an appointment with Nora so he could play her his songs. I liked him and especially the way he

The Queen Mary claimed the blue ribbon for a record crossing today after speeding from Cherbourg, Breakwater to Ambrose lightship in four days, seven hours and 13 minutes.

Despite fog off New England, Cunard White Star lines officials said the Queen Mary lowered the Normandie existing record.

The Queen Mary broke the Normandie's record for the westward crossing last July 26 but did not claim the blue ribbon then because her course was slightly shorter.

Residents of Greenville who viewed a triangular shaped object here yesterday were divided as to whether it was an old Indian arrowhead or the tooth of some prehistoric animal.

It was found in a canal near Greenville by Mercer Simmons and William McBrown. It was reported that a number of Indian relics have been found in the vicinity.

Some who examined the object were reasonably certain it was a tooth from some animal, however. The object is about an inch long, with its sides being made like a saw with very small teeth.

Terrible Irony In Price Boosts

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — If true, what a terrible irony for President Ford. If what is true? That businesses are raising prices in fear of price controls later.

Such a practice could only hurt Ford, who is relying for much of his appeal on his economic record, of which a sharp decline in the rate of inflation is the keystone.

Most nobody believes Ford would use controls, and that's the irony. They fear Jimmy Carter might do so, if elected, and those fears are multiplied by polls that show the Democrat is a strong contender for Ford's job.

The potential consequence isn't difficult to assess: Carter's threat to Ford becomes magnified as prices rise, even though the price increases might be a consequence of Carter's politics rather than Ford's economics.

The evidence so far is only empirical, meaning that nobody has come out and confessed to raising prices because they fear controls, but that certain prices are rising a bit ominously, and maybe oddly.

U.S. Steel has raised prices three times in the past year and twice since June, even though some members of the industry have been quoted as saying the most recent, to take effect Oct. 1, isn't justified by demand.

Despite a weak construction industry and a tendency toward lower prices in summer, lumber and plywood prices have risen sharply. Two-by-fours that sold for $135 per thousand board feet a year ago and $145 in June, are now listed as $175.

Though camouflaged somewhat by pleasantly stable food prices, the Wholesale Price Index doesn't look good. Prices of industrial commodities are turning volatile, and may cause problems.

After rising an average of only 0.3 per cent in the first three months, prices of these basic commodities have almost doubled — to 0.6 per cent in May, 0.5 per cent in June, and 0.6 in July — producing "some concern" in the White House.

Curiously, as prices rise the economic advance is turning a bit sluggish. The annual rate of growth for the Gross National Product was 9.2 per cent in the first quarter, and less than one-half that in the second.

Consumers apparently have developed a wait-and-see attitude, and retail sales as a consequence have been flat since spring. Some manufactured goods are building up in inventories rather than being sold to consumers.

Industrial production rose 0.2 per cent in July, the smallest gain of the entire year to date, leaving it still below the level of almost two years ago, when the recession was near its worst.

It is very unlikely that President Ford can do much about nourishing the economy between now and election day, other than possibly building up more enthusiasm among consumers.

Political analysts note that only presidents have managed to overcome temporary lulls in the economy near election time because voters had confidence in their ability to "get things moving."

However, Ford probably will have the added problem of dealing with a rise in the Wholesale Price Index in the midst of his campaign, a rise that could have less to do with economics than with politics.

Carter Campaign In N.C. To Have Ties With Hunt

RALEIGH (AP) — Joel McCleary, North Carolina manager for Jimmy Carter, is gearing up his campaign machinery in the state and says he plans to work closely with the organization of Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the Democratic nominee for governor.

Working out of Democratic headquarters in Raleigh, McCleary has already begun conferring on campaign strategy with Joseph W. Grimsley, manager of Hunt's statewide organization.

The Carter forces closed down their North Carolina organization soon after the presidential primary last March in which the former Georgia governor decisively defeated Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. For the past two weeks, McCleary has been traveling the state reorganizing the Carter campaign in North Carolina.

McCleary said the Carter campaign would operate in North Carolina with eight or nine paid staffers, bolstered by volunteers. He said five of the staff members will be assigned as coordinators for specific congressional districts. A headquarters operation will be located in Raleigh.

McCleary said the Carter forces planned to coordinate their efforts with Democratic candidates for Congress and with other state Democratic campaign activity.

He said the plan is "to really work as a slate...Jimmy can help every single candidate in this state."

McCleary also said he expects both Carter and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, to make campaign appearances in North Carolina. He said the campaign schedule would be set largely by Carter's polls showing where the Democratic campaign needed a boost.

"The less we see of him, the better job we're doing," McCleary added.

He said that the North Carolina campaign planned to stress Mondale's "strong agriculture roots" in Minnesota as a way to counteract criticism of him as a liberal. "We want to bring him (Mondale) in and expose him to the people here," McCleary added.

In separate interview, Hunt and party Chairman Jim Sugg confirmed that the state Democratic campaign effort would be built largely around the Hunt organization.

"We're all going to run together under the same roof, under the same banner as a team," said Sugg. "He (Hunt) is the titular head of the party. He is the man who will be calling the shots in North Carolina."

Phone Service Knocked Out; Relying On Radio

MEBANE, N.C. (AP) — Mobile radio units, ham radios and CBs are being used for communication in Mebane and surrounding areas where telephone service has been knocked out by a fire.

Service is expected to be out at least a week. The fire destroyed the wiring in the Mebane telephone exchange building Monday evening. An estimated 5,500 telephones in the town of 2,000 and its surrounding area are without service.

Several firemen were overcome by smoke. Others were treated for eye irritation caused by smoke from the burning plastic insulation on the wiring.

The building served telephones in the 918-563 exchange in an area about three miles to the west of town, five to seven miles to the east, three to four miles to the south and seven to eight miles to the north.

The cause of the fire was not learned immediately.

Authorities set up mobile radio units in the area, one at the Mebane Police Department and the others in familiar locations in the surrounding area.

Television stations within a 50-mile radius of Mebane, a textile and furniture manufacturing town near Burlington, were asked to get the information on how to proceed in emergencies to residents whose telephones were knocked out.

The telephone equipment building, operated by the Home Telephone Co., is beside the Mebane Volunteer Fire Department.

W. R. Hupman, president of the company, said he had no immediate estimate of the financial loss. There was no one in the building when the alarm was sounded about 6 p.m.

Mebane firemen were assisted by volunteer firemen from Swepsonville, Haw River, Elon College, the Alamance County fire marshal's office, and the Alamance County rescue unit.

The blaze was under control within about an hour and a half.

Indictments For Former Official

RALEIGH (AP) — The Wake County Grand Jury has indicted James C. Hastings, former state director of travel and promotion, on charges of insurance fraud and embezzling state property.

Courthouse sources said the indictments are related to an investigation which resulted last June in charges against Jerome H. Louchheim III, a Holsouther administration figure whose agency held the state advertising contract until July 1.

Hastings was accused of embezzling a tape recorder and a "red, white and blue PGA golf bag bearing a facsimile of the Great Seal of the State of North Carolina" on April 18, 1975.

A third indictment charged that around November 30, 1973, Hastings fraudulently submitted a claim to Great American Insurance Co. for the loss of a red, white and blue golf bag.

The 33-year-old Hastings withdrew as a Republican candidate for the state House on July 1, three days after Louchheim was indicted on charges of overbilling the state for advertising to promote tourism and industrial development.

When court adjourned for the day Monday, Hastings had not been taken into custody and could not be reached for comment.

Hastings, a former president of the North Carolina Jaycees, was director of travel and promotion from February, 1973, until April, 1975.

William W. Phillips Jr., administrative assistant in the Wake District Attorney's Office, said that an investigation was "continuing both in regard to the Division of Travel and Promotion in the Department of Natural and Economic Resources and in regard to the state advertising contract."

Guardsmen Commissioned

Two Greenville National Guardsmen were among 35 commissioned as second lieutenants this past weekend at the North Carolina Military Academy at Fort Bragg.

Receiving their gold bars during commissioning ceremonies were Walter D. Ezrell Jr. and Gary A. Tew, according to John J. Tolson III, Secretary of the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs.

Tew was one of four earning honor graduate recognition, Tolson reported.

TO GET RID OF LIMOUSINES — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter gets out of a limousine on his arrival for a speech at the Town Hall Forum in Los Angeles Monday. Carter said that if elected president he plans to get rid of most of Washington's government limousines, keeping only those necessary to protect a few officials in sensitive positions. He said longtime Washington politicians have lost touch with grassroots Americans because "they stay in power too long and ride in limousines too long and eat expensive meals in private clubs too long." (AP Wirephoto)

Viking Soil Report Lessens Odds Of Finding Martian Life

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A laboratory report from Viking 1 has increased the odds against finding life on Mars. But scientists say the possibility still exists, and they hope Viking 2 will have better luck in the search for life at its slightly more favorable landing site.

Monday's report on data sent to earth from Viking 1 was discouraging. Dr. Klaus Biemann said Viking was unable to detect any organic material — the carbon-based material that is evidence of life — in the pinch of Martian soil studied in the latest analysis.

"It is certainly difficult to reconcile the absence or very low level of organic material with the presence of appreciable numbers of actively living micro-organisms," said Biemann.

But biology team leader Dr. Harold Klein was unwilling to abandon all hope.

"Sure, we feel a lot worse than we did before the results came in," he said in an interview. "But there are models by which you could have microbial organisms in the soil that are below the limit of detection of the instrument."

For example, he noted that chemical processes speculated to be at work in the soil could be constantly removing organic matter before it is detected.

Viking 1 will not abandon its search for Martian life because other tests have yielded data that do not rule out life.

The Viking team at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory expected results today from a repeat of one inconclusive biology experiment.

Project officials have said that Viking 2 will send its robot lander to a touchdown on Sept. 3 in Mars' northern latitudes, about 4,000 miles from the rocky plain that is Viking 1's home.

Because it is farther north — just short of where the planet's polar ice cap reaches in winter — the landing place is believed to be considerably wetter. That makes it more likely to harbor life.

The site is an oval-shaped target zone in a rugged plain called Utopia. Utopia is believed to be covered by a blanket of windblown sand at least 12 yards deep, and possibly twice that.

The Viking 2 site is about as risky for a smooth landing as Viking 1's was, said Dr. Harold Masursky, leader of the landing site team.

Employees of Georgetown County positioned a 45-foot boom crane on anchoring mounts Monday at the end of a boat-launching ramp near where the vessel is located.

The project's director, Dr. Newell Wright of the University of South Carolina Institute of Archeology and Anthropology, said divers probably will have the cradling straps to lift the boat in place by late today or early Wednesday.

Newell said 20 straps and a steel frame to be lowered around the vessel will be used in the lifting. "We have 16 of the straps in place and probably could have had the others around the keel if it hadn't been for the weather over the weekend," he said.

The crane could not be positioned until workers had cut trees and limbs along the sides of the boat ramp to give the 45-foot boom room to operate.

Charlie Whitaker, a retired Navy diver, took a look at the crane once it was in position and said, "Nope, it ain't going to work."

Whitaker, who spent 20 years as a Navy diver, said he feels the boom was at a poor angle to lift the ship. He said it should be directly over the vessel. He also said the crane has a lifting capacity of just 5,000 pounds.

Wright had said earlier that the vessel was estimated to weigh 8,000 pounds. "But that's just an estimate," he said.

Alter cautioned against a "tear stained" report of his visit.

"I've always been working," he said. "I've just finished the music for Budd Schulberg's dramatization of 'The Disenchanted' by F. Scott Fitzgerald. Budd's working on the lyrics so I took the opportunity to see whether anyone of the old gang was still around in London."

In May, Alter was elected to the Songwriters Hall of Fame, the ultimate honor of his craft, and recalling this brought forth a flood of memories: playing jazz with violin virtuoso Jascha Heifetz, writing My Kind of Love for the audition that won Bing Crosby his first film contract, President Franklin D. Roosevelt confiding that Home on the Range wasn't his favorite song — it was Alter's Twilight on the Trail.

Alter said he liked the best of rock and of any other new music.

"There's only one yardstick," he said, "and it was as valid in Beethoven's time as it is in the era of the Beatles. Music is good music or it's bad music."

$118.81 Day At Farmville

FARMVILLE — All grades of tobacco were steady with few exceptions yesterday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"The top price Monday was $1.28 per pound on several sheets of quality leaf grades," Williams reported. "The top practical price was $1.20 per pound."

"Offerings for leaf and smoking leaf showed a sharp increase in volume. A few sheets were primings and nondescript grades."

"The stabilization receipts were less than one percent of gross sales," Williams said. "This was the lowest of the season."

The Farmville market sold $331,508 pounds for $393,867, an average of $118.81 per 100 pounds.

To date the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade has sold 10,586,923 pounds for $11,163,409, a season average of $105.45 per 100 pounds.

motion to amend.

Mississippi's 30 votes were critical. In a matter of minutes, word of the decision swept across the city. Delegates cupped their ears and listened. They sensed that imperceptible moment when a tide turns. By ones and twos, by threes and fours, those who had been wavering stopped wavering. Delegates have the instincts of spawning salmon. They swam to Ford. No one could have expected them to do anything else.

Two votes in a single delegation! Two votes! Such a switch might not have saved Reagan in the test vote Wednesday night, but the 31-28 poll in Mississippi was the last "small thing." Reagan's candidacy fell down like a kite that has lost its wind.

There had been other "small things" all along. The Reagan team lost New Hampshire by only 1,587 votes in 112,000 cast. They lost Tennessee by fewer than 1,700 votes in 242,000. They lacked quite enough money to make a big campaign in Michigan. They could not make even a minimal effort in Pennsylvania. If only, if only, if only!

The small things, as well as so large a thing as the Richard Schweiker selection, steadily drained the campaign of momentum. Reagan kept trying to the very last day, but he never could regain his speed.

Yet it surely was not a vain campaign. Reagan can see his conservative stamp on nearly every page of the party platform. For eight months he articulated conservative positions to an attentive nation. Because of the Reagan effort, the Ford campaign organization has been tested and tempered. The Republican party, however divided it may appear, has presented an image of scrappy vitality.

At 65, Reagan must now put his own political ambitions aside. He has no place to go on the national scene — not to the White House, Not to the Senate. He will have a newspaper and radio forum, and these are fine forums, but they are not the same. About all he and Nancy can take back to the ranch with them is a sense of satisfaction. They made the good fight, they ran the good race. No one else could have done any more.

also calls for better utilization of the same old theme: reminding voters how bad things were, economically and spiritually, back in August 1974, before Mr. Ford took over. The President played this theme in his excellent acceptance speech Thursday night, but even some Ford advisers believe he is claiming more for his two years than the American people can accept.

Although old faces remain in command, important new faces have been introduced at the high technical level: the campaign management team of Doug Bailey and John Deardourff, running Mr. Ford's media, and pollster Robert Teeter. All three have been successful counseling moderate-to-liberal Republicans in large Northern states.

Since all three now function as top Ford advisers, it is no coincidence that campaign planning has become geared to maximum effort in a central belt of industrial states — Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania — with considerably less emphasis on the South. As this becomes clear, Southern party leaders will be most unhappy. Indeed, some conservatives blanched when Deardourff turned up on the convention floor Thursday night wearing a Ford staff button.

A new face to mollify the Southerners would have been Connally, which explains Mr. Ford's 11th-hour effort to enlist him as national chairman. But Connally's refusal produced easier breathing by White House aides accustomed to handling the pliable Mrs. Smith. Their attitude, in fact, is one cause of the Ford campaign's chronic problems.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose today but began to show weakness as the session developed. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up more than two points early in the session, was ahead only .92 at 972.41 by 11:30 a.m. Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange led those declining, but the margin began to deteriorate shortly before noon.

The market's upswing had started late in Monday's session when the Dow was at the low end of the narrow range in which it has fluctuated for more than six months. Brokers said a decline in short-term interest rates had helped turn the market around Monday, and Treasury bill yields slipped lower today.

But investors have been weighing that development against reports of a slowdown in the economy and second quarter profits. Federal National Mortgage, up 1/4 at 15 1/2, was the Big Board's most active issue.

Dere & Co., which reported sharply higher third quarter profits, was up a point to 66. But gold stocks continued to drop with the price of bullion. ASA Ltd., one of the more active issues, was off 1/4 at 12 1/2; Homestake Mining was off 1/4 at 25 1/2; and Dome Mines was down 1/4 to 37 1/2.

Ayden Collard Festival Begins September 10th

AYDEN—The Second Annual Ayden Collard Festival has been scheduled for September 10, 11, and 12, according to Willis Manning, vice chairman of the festival.

The festival activities will begin Friday night. A square dance will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. in the Police parking lot and a street dance will follow in front of the town hall. At 10 p.m.

a 20 minutes fireworks display will be held at the Ayden Elementary School baseball field.

The Saturday festivities will include a bicentennial costume contest, a photo contest, collard cooking contest, parade, skateboard contest, pet show, an arts and crafts exhibit and contest, piano concert, beauty pageant, and karate and ju jitsu demonstrations.

The collard cooking contest is open to anyone who brings a pot of collards. Registration will be at the town hall at 9:45 a.m.

The parade will be held at 11 a.m. It will begin at the Ayden Grammar School. Anyone who wishes to have an entry in the parade should contact Don Russell, parade manager.

The pet show will be held at 2 p.m. and the skateboard contest will be held from 3 to 5 p.m.

In front of the town hall different games and booths will be arranged along the midway by the railroad during the Saturday activities.

Sunday activities will include an antique car show at a local automobile dealership and a horse show at 1 p.m. at North Hills Stables for persons 19 years old and younger.

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford plans to meet with key White House advisers and top campaign officials in his first formal strategy conference for the fall election.

Ford, midway through a week-long vacation, summoned the aides to his Rocky Mountain retreat for today's campaign session, which comes nearly a week after he secured the Republican presidential nomination.

The Saturday festivities will include a bicentennial costume contest, a photo contest, collard cooking contest, parade, skateboard contest, pet show, an arts and crafts exhibit and contest, piano concert, beauty pageant, and karate and ju jitsu demonstrations.

Found Drowned In Swim Pool

WILLIAMSTON — A young man of Rt. 1, Washington, drowned in the swimming pool of the Ross Motel in Williamston early Sunday night.

The body of Alvin Roberson was discovered about 8 p.m. by another guest. Reportedly, Roberson's body was lying motionless on the bottom of the pool. The Williamston Rescue Squad was summoned and the victim was taken to Martin General Hospital, where Dr. Frank Sheldon, medical examiner for Martin County, conducted a preliminary check.

It was stated no foul play was suspected in the drowning.

Several guests reported having seen the victim swimming alone in the pool prior to the discovery of his body there.

The President will hold similar sessions in his rented home near the foot of Vail Mountain every day until he departs for Washington over the weekend, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

But the agenda for the talks was secret, and Nessen said he would have little to say about the outcome. "We're just not going to stand up and announce our strategy to Jimmy Carter," he explained.

White House staff chief Richard Chaney held a series of meetings with presidential aides earlier in the week to discuss the campaign, including the still-vague plans for televised debates between Ford and his Democratic rival, Carter. Nessen indicated that arrangements for the debates — including the format, sponsorship, times and places — still were up in the air.

Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Ford's vice presidential running mate, is now expected here Thursday night. Dole originally planned to come sooner, but Ford has dispatched him to speak at an American Legion convention in Seattle Wednesday and at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines Thursday. Carter is speaking at both events.

"It just happens to be a coincidence," a grinning Nessen told reporters.

Despite the campaign session and a modicum of official business, Ford doesn't plan to break his habit of getting in 18 holes of golf daily during the vacation, Nessen said.

Dole, prior to being named to the GOP ticket, told Time magazine that Ford might be wasting valuable time by taking a Vail vacation with only 70 days left before the Nov. 2 election.

Nessen commented Monday that "there's going to be a lot of work done here this week — as Sen. Dole will find out when he gets here."

In Washington Monday, Dole told reporters, "I probably didn't understand it was a work week."

Ford, who missed his customary spring vacation at Palm Springs, Calif., because of the primaries, held a brief round of staff meetings Monday morning, carded an 89 on the golf course in the afternoon and dined at a French restaurant with Mrs. Ford, friends and aides.

With A Few Good Breaks, Conley Could Be In Thick Of The Race

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

HOLLYWOOD—The Vikings of D. H. Conley High School enjoyed one of their best years in football last season when they put together a break-even 5-5 record.

This year, however, Coach Chuck Dunn is hopeful that things might be even better.

"Right now, we've got the same problems as everyone else—tobacco and work. When we've had everyone at practice, the progress has been pleasing," Dunn said.

With about 35 out for this year's team, Dunn is happy, but not greatly. "I'd certainly like to have more, but if we can finish up with 35, I'll really be pleased."

The Vikes were fourth last year in the league with a 3-4 record, and Dunn feels that with the breaks, they can do as well or better. "It's hard to say how the league is going to be this year. We have some new coaches. Aycock has about everyone back and Ayden-Grifton has some good people back. Greene Central lost a lot of people, but they're always strong. Farmville Central is always tough, too."

For the Vikings, a lot will depend on how rapidly some of the younger players come along. "We have a real young team, the youngest since I've been here," Dunn said. "We have 15 or 16 sophomores and 10 juniors. If they come around in time, we could be very competitive."

Only three starters return from last year's offensive unit and an equal number on defense. "We have only 12 lettermen, so we really don't have a lot of experience."

On offense, the Vikings will operate from the veer formation. "Our backfield is the strongest part of the offense. We have good solid running backs, and a good passer at quarterback."

The quarterback is Jeff McDaniels, a senior starting on offense for the first time, after playing defense for two years. The running backs are veteran Nugie Worthington and the last of the fleet Hawkins brothers, Bernard. Both of them are juniors.

The flanker position will probably have an inexperienced starter, either Gary Conleton or Tim McClanahan. Charles Nobles will probably handle the split end slot, with Randy Edens at tight end. Edens is the only one of the three who returns from last year's starters.

"Our receivers will be adequate. We've had some outstanding receivers in the past who've made our quarterbacks look good, but this year, the crew isn't quite that good overall."

The offensive line may be the weakest link of the team. "We'll probably have a couple of sophomores at tackle and our guards will both be new. One of them is a senior, but he's out for the first time since he was a freshman," Dunn said.

Currently Allen Meeks and Sam Allen are handling the tackle spots, with Trent Knight and Kevin Adams at the guards. Charles Little returns to the center spot, where he started last season.

"I think our offense will be a pretty balanced one. We should be able to throw or run equally well," the coach said.

Defensively, Conley is switching to a 4-4 lineup this fall. "We are going to have a number of people going both ways, and this will be a problem in our early games. But I think we'll have the depth to be able to rest them enough."

"This is a new defense for us, but I feel that we can play it. We have a scrimmage game on Thursday, so I guess I'll find out then," Dunn added.

One of the tackle spots on defense is up for grabs between five or six people, the coach says. The other will be handled by one of the returning starters, senior Lo Carmon. "I really don't know now who will start at the other tackle spot," Dunn said.

The ends will be Edens, who returns from last year, and Broderick Best, another veteran starter. Behind the line Conley will probably start Mike Phillips and Worthington on the inside, with Adams and Kenny Phillips at the outside linebackers.

Jonathan Waller and Hawkins will handle the halfbacks, with either McClanahan or Jeff Allen at safety.

Conley will have a new placekicker in Mike Phillips, who was the backup last year. McClanahan will probably handle the punting, and Dunn looks to him to give the Vikings some consistency in that part of the game. "Consistency on our punts is something we've been lacking for the last couple of years."

"We can have a good season," Dunn said. "It's going to depend a lot on how quickly our young players come along. We have the potential for a winning season, that's for sure."

Brian Sipe May Have Won Battle But He Might Not Win The War

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Brian Sipe directed three touchdown drives in the Cleveland Browns' 21-7 National Football League exhibition triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles Monday night, but the former San Diego State star appears to be fighting a losing battle in his bid for a starting job.

Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg said Sipe, who completed 12 of 16 for 157 yards and two touchdowns, played a good game but he's still the backup quarterback.

"Brian moved the football team real well and got us 21 points on the board," said Gregg. "But he knows he's our backup quarterback. I would never consider playing both because that has a tendency to divide a football team."

Mike Phipps still is Gregg's fair-haired boy, although the five-year veteran quarterback was unable to move the Browns in their scoreless second half. Phipps completed five of 10 passes for 49 yards. Phipps led the Browns to a 31 record last year, Gregg's first as head coach.

The Browns got moving after a psychological ploy backfired on Eagles' Coach Dick Vermeil.

The Eagles had a fourth-and-one early in the second quarter of a scoreless game. He could have tried for a field goal and put three points on the board. But Vermeil is trying to instill confidence in his winless team. He felt a touchdown would fire them up. The Eagles ran and lost two yards.

The Browns took the ball and moved 86 yards on 11 plays with rookie Mike Pruitt driving over from the one to take a 7-0 lead. Sipe paused 15 to Paul Warfield, and then 21 to the one-time All-NFL receiver who returned this year from the defunct World Football League. A 33-yard pass from Sipe to Larry Poole put the ball on the three.

The drive appeared to take the starch out of the Eagles. After the kickoff, the Browns' Thom Darden intercepted a Mike Boryla pass, at the Eagles' 19. In four plays the Browns had another TD, Sipe passing three yards to rookie Brian Duncan and it was 14-0.

Philadelphia came back from its 21 after the kickoff to a first down at the Browns' 16, but couldn't move and Horst Muhlmann booted a 36-yard field goal with 2:02 left in the half.

Sipe showed his cool, operating the Browns' two minute drill to perfection. He took the team 69 yards on seven plays, the big one a 40-yarder to Warfield. Sipe finally threw to Dave Logan for the score, then Jon Cockroft kicked his third conversion and it was 21-3.

Phipps came on in the second half and the Browns died offensively. The Eagles engineered two drives for final-period touchdowns, but it was too little too late to avoid their fourth straight loss. James McAllister scored once from the two and again from the one to make it close.

Victory Meant A Lot To Lee

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

When you fail to win as a starting pitcher between Aug. 24, 1975, and Aug. 23, 1976, a victory makes you forget some — but not all — of your aches and pains.

"It was my right leg, it was hurting, probably a hamstring," Boston's Bill Lee said after pitching the Red Sox to a 7-3 triumph over Nolan Ryan and the California Angels Monday night but coming out after seven innings.

"But it was everything. I was hurting all over. I'd had enough. I just want to get my arm in good enough shape so I won't need surgery. I have a spur, a calcium deposit, which causes inflammation and irritation. It's the reason I won't be able to brush my teeth in the morning."

But how does Lee really feel after going one day short of a full year without winning as a starter?

"I feel good," he admitted. In other American League action, the New York Yankees pounded the Minnesota Twins 9-4; the Oakland A's blanked the Baltimore Orioles 3-0; the Cleveland Indians nipped the Kansas City Royals 4-3; the Detroit Tigers edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4, and the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Texas Rangers, 6-2.

Lee, who missed six weeks of the season after injuring his pitching shoulder during a brawl in New York with the Yankees' Graig Nettles May 21, was making only his eighth start of the season.

Carl Yastrzemski hit his 17th homer and Jim Rice drilled a two-run single for the Red Sox while Lee worked seven innings and allowed seven hits and two runs. The Red Sox chased Ryan in the sixth, when they scored six times.

Yankees 9, Twins 4

Meanwhile Nettles, Lee's antagonist, walloped two doubles, a single and his 21st home run and slump-ridden Thurman Munson drove in three runs with two singles as the Yankees snapped a three-game skid. They pounded 17 hits off Bill Singer and three relievers.

A's 3, Orioles 0

Sal Bando hit his 24th homer and Don Baylor his 14th in support of Vida Blue's six-hit pitching as the Oakland left-hander continued his 1976 mastery of Baltimore. Blue hurled his eighth complete game in his last nine starts and posted his fifth shutout of the season. He is 3-0 against Baltimore, allowing only three runs in 36 innings.

Indians 4, Royals 3

An infield hit by George Hendrick with two out in the ninth inning drove in the winning run. Dennis Eckersley stopped Kansas City on seven hits and struck out 12.

The Indians loaded the bases against Steve Mingers with one out in the ninth on a pinch single by Ron Pruitt, a double by Rick Manning and an intentional walk to Rico Carty. Manager Frank Robinson forced Pruitt at home but Hendrick followed with his infield hit.

Tigers 5, White Sox 4

Rookie Mark Wagner delivered a decisive two-run single as the Tigers broke open a tight game with three runs in the sixth inning. That made it 5-1 but Chicago rallied on homers by Jim Spencer and Chet Lemon off Ray Bare, who pitched only his second complete game in 17 starts.

Brewers 6, Rangers 2

George Scott drove in three runs with a homer and two doubles and Gorman Thomas also homered to pace Milwaukee's 13-hit attack.

Duck, Goose Dates Are Set

RALEIGH (AP) — Migratory waterfowl hunting regulations that permit shooting through the latest possible date in the Atlantic Flyway, while affording early season enthusiasts a few days of shooting in October, were adopted Monday by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

The commission voted at the same time to abandon a controversial point system that has governed the daily bag limit for the past two years. It chose instead from options offered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service a daily bag limit of five ducks that wouldn't include more than two wood ducks and one black duck.

Both the duck season and the Canada goose season were split. The first part of the duck season will open at noon on Oct. 6 and close at sunset on Oct. 11, while the second part opens at noon Dec. 8 and runs through Jan. 20. The first part of the Canada goose season will open Nov. 24 and run through Nov. 27. The second part will open Dec. 6 and run through Jan. 20 while sea ducks may be shot from Oct. 6 through Jan. 20.

The commission kept the bag limit for Canada geese at one per day. The bag limits for snow geese is two per day.

Under the point system, each species of duck was assigned a number of points ranging from 10 to 79 and the hunter was permitted to shoot until his total number of points exceeded 100. Some hunters attending the meeting said this allowed too many ducks of some species to be killed.

Generally hunters attending the meeting favored the latest possible hunting, but they agreed to the October hunting season because some species such as bluewing teal and pintails are en route through the state then. They favored the split in the goose season in order to allow hunting for geese during the Thanksgiving holiday season.

In addition to the daily bag limit of five ducks, hunters will be permitted a bonus of two bluewing teal during the early part of the season.

TWO BIG TESTS

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The 78-night summer-fall harness session which opened at Yonkers Raceway July 19 will feature two rich stakes. Besides the $200,000 Yonkers Trot, 3-year-old pacers will go to the post in another $200,000 test — the Cane Pace — on Aug. 21.

The Cane represents the first leg in pacing's Triple Crown which includes the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 23, and the Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, N.Y. Oct. 30.

Morris Looks For New Home

MIAMI (AP) — "I really can't see them paying $135,000 for me to run two plays every other series," an unruined Mercury Morris says of his being placed on waivers by the Miami Dolphins.

But Morris, a running back second only to Larry Csonka in career rushing for the Dolphins, may be alone in not being surprised by Coach Don Shula's move Monday.

The action capped a dizzying week of roster activity brought about by — or sometimes forced upon — Shula.

It came a few hours after All-Pro safety Jake Scott was taken off suspension and while apparently successful talks were under way to bring back the retired Nick Buoniconti to beef up an injury-riddled linebacking corps.

Morris, a third-round draftee out of West Texas State in 1969, led the Dolphins' ground attack last year with 875 yards and three 100-yard games. His career yardage of 3,877 includes the 1,000-yard 1972 season, when the Dolphins first went to the Super Bowl.

Shula evidently believes he can do without Morris because of other backs the club has acquired. But his only comment about the waiver came in a prepared announcement.

"Mercury Morris has had a great career here," he said. "But as we analyze the running-back situation, we like the young backs we have."

The only "young back" Shula mentioned was Benny Malone, a speedy third-year man from Arizona State. He may have also been thinking of rookies Don Testerman from Clemson and Clayton Heath from Wake Forest.

Shula also said he had explored for possible trades for Morris but did not say with whom.

"We're hopeful Mercury can catch on with another team," he added.

Morris said that should be easy enough.

"There's 28 teams in the National Football League and this is just one of them. There's 27 more . . . 27 more opportunities."

Morris has had past differences with Shula and demanded hotly last year that he be traded, saying he wasn't being used to his full ability. But he showed no rancor about being put up for grabs.

"I'm sure it was a tough decision for Shula to have to make," he said. Then he laughed, and added, "I'm definitely going to come back to be somebody's nemesis."

Scott, whose stormy relationship with Shula appeared to be calming earlier this preseason, returned to camp Monday after a week's suspension for refusing to take a pain-killer in order to play in an exhibition game.

He said it was a legal decision, not Shula's, that brought him back.

Buoniconti, who retired to a blossoming legal practice this summer after missing last season with a severe thumb injury, could not be reached for comment about a report on Miami television station WTVJ that he would rejoin the club.

WTVJ sportscasters said they learned of Buoniconti's decision but not the details while at a party with him late Monday. He had been doing the color for WTVJ's telecasts of the Dolphin's four straight preseason victories.

Rice will play his first five football games at night this season.

Memphis State will play 10 of its 11 football games at night this season.

First Action Pleases Dye

East Carolina University Coach Pat Dye welcomed well over 100 footballers to the first of the fall drills Monday, and described the first workouts as "routine."

"I don't believe that we have any problems that can't be solved," he said after watching three conditioning type drills. "There is a great deal of improvement in our first day over the past two years, and this is as it should be."

Dye credited the improvement to the fact that the players have been together for three years now with him and his staff and know what to expect. "And we have more real football players too," Dye added.

"Mike Weaver couldn't help but catch your eye with his passing and the way he is running the option," the coach added. "Actually all three of our quarterbacks are looking good."

Dye also said that some of the freshmen looked very good, but he would mention no names at this time. "There are some who are definitely going to be helping us as early as the first game."

Another big worry, the punting game, also got off to a good start, with a number of people kicking the ball well. "We also found some snappers for the deep plays, and this was another area," the coach added.

The Bucs will continue three-day drills through tomorrow then work twice daily, aiming for the September 11 opening against tough Southern Mississippi.

Ozark Not Thinking Magic Number—It's 26

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark claims he is not yet thinking about the Phils' "magic number" for clinching the National League East pennant, but if he were to do some fast arithmetic he would know the figure is 26.

The Phils, the East leaders since May 9, moved closer toward winning their first championship since the 1950 "Whiz Kids" captured the NL crown, beating the Atlanta Braves 4-2 Monday night. The victory was the Phils' sixth in their last seven games and gave them an 81-41 record for a 14½ game lead over runner-up Pittsburgh. The Pirates, East champions five of the past six years, bowed to the San Diego Padres 5-4, and fell to 67-56.

For the Phils to win only their third pennant in history—their first was in 1915—they need a combination of 26 more victories or Pittsburgh defeats. Philadelphia has 40 games remaining and the Pirates have 39.

In other NL games, the St. Louis Cardinals battered Cincinnati's West Division leaders 9-5 in a game televised in most of the country, and the Los Angeles Dodgers saddled the Montreal Expos with their ninth consecutive loss, 6-3.

"This is a good way to start the road trip," Ozark mused after the Phils had overcome a 2-0 deficit with four runs in the eighth inning against former teammate Dick Ruthven. "I have not even thought about a magic number yet."

Atlanta held a 2-0 lead on Ken Henderson's second-inning homer and Rod Gilbreath's run-scoring single in the seventh before the Phils rallied. A walk to Bob Boone and singles by Bobby Tolan and pinch hitter Tim McCarver filled the bases, then Dave Cash's two-run single tied the score. Larry Bowa followed with a sacrifice fly and Greg Luzinski singled in the final run.

Padres 5, Pirates 4

"As it stands at the moment, unless I falter, I don't see how I can't win the Rookie of the Year Award (in the National League)," said San Diego's unbeaten rookie Butch Metzger after pitching three perfect innings against the Pirates for his 13th save.

San Diego won the game with two runs in the sixth, the first on Tito Fuentes' single and the other on a bases-loaded walk to Dave Winfield by reliever Dave Giusti.

Cardinals 9, Reds 5

"Age has nothing to do with it. That kid can play," Cincinnati's Joe Morgan said about Garry Templeton—the NL's youngest player at 20—after St. Louis' swift rookie had helped wreck the Reds by scoring four runs and driving in two.

Ted Simmons and Keith Hernandez each collected three hits and drove in two runs as the Cards ended the four-game winning streak of Cincinnati's Jack Billingham. Morgan smacked his 24th and 25th homers of the season for the Reds and knocked in three runs.

Dodgers 6, Expos 3

Los Angeles' Tommy John scattered eight hits for his first victory in a month and got batting support from Bill Buckner, who homered, and Steve Yeager, who had three RBI.

Baseball clown Max Patkin says there's a renewed interest in minor league ball, especially when he puts on his pantomime act. He recently played before 4,200 fans in Norfolk, Va., during an International League game.

Patkin is already lining up off-season dates and may make two Long Island appearances next January prior to the annual New York Baseball Writers show Jan. 30.

Dooley: UNC Is A Contender

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Despite some injuries and a 3-7-1 record last season, North Carolina "can definitely be a contender" for the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown, says coach Bill Dooley.

"Overall, we're improved offensively and defensively," said Dooley, beginning his 10th year at UNC.

"Our defense the last two years has been a little poor," he added. "Potentially, our secondary could be the best that we've had in years."

The Tar Heels suffered a blow Saturday when veteran defensive tackle Rod Broadway suffered torn ligaments in his right knee during scrimmage and will be out for the season.

Sophomore quarterback P. J. Gay suffered a torn cartilage in his left knee last week and underwent successful surgery. He is expected to miss some of the early games.

Veteran tailback Mike Voight is suffering from tendonitis in his right leg, but it is not considered serious. Voight, ACC player of the year in 1975, heads nine offensive starters from last year's team.

"Our players are going to put their feet to the fire in a hurry," Dooley said. He pointed out that the Tar Heels open Sept. 4 at home against tough Miami of Ohio and play Florida Sept. 11 in Tampa, Fla.

Dooley went over his deuph chart and had praise for the offensive line. Walker, Lee, 169-pound junior, is the starting split end. Brooks Williams, another junior, is the No. 1 tight end and an excellent pass receiver.

The starting tackles are manned by two husky seniors, Mark Griffin, 240-pounder, and Tommy Barkett, 270. Craig Dunk, 230, a starter last year, and Mike Salzano, 240, will be at the guards. Mark Cantrell, a senior and described by Dooley as "one of the finest," is the starting center.

In the backfield with Voight are quarterback Johnny Stratton, fullback Brian Smith and wingback Mel Collins.

"Stratton is a steady player and a good runner and passer," Dooley said.

Ken Sheets, who started half the games last year as a freshman, and Bill Perdue are the No. 1 defensive ends. Dee Haridon, 250-pounder termed by Dooley as "one of the best defensive linemen in the conference," will start at left tackle. Sophomore Steve Junkman, 245, is expected to step into Broadway's place at right tackle.

Senior Roger Shensky is the defensive guard. The Tar Heels have some talented material at linebacker, but not much experience. The starters are expected to be Ronnie Dowdy, 228-pound junior, and center Chuck Austin, moved from defensive end.

In the secondary, sophomores Francis Winters, and Bobby Cale are battling for the right halfback spot. Senior Russ Conley will be at left halfback. Alan Caldwell, quick and very aggressive, will be at strong safety and Donny Johnson the weak safety.

The schedule:
Sept. 4, Miami of Ohio; 11, Florida at Tampa, Fla.; 18, Northwestern; 25, Army at West Point, N.Y.;

Oct. 2, Missouri at Columbia, Mo.; 9, open; 16, N.C. State; 23, East Carolina; 30, Wake Forest at Winston-Salem;

Nov. 6, Clemson at Clemson, S.C.; 13, Virginia; Nov. 20, Duke.

Heat May Take Toll On Renee

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
AP Sports Writer
SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—A 15-year-old New Jersey high school junior hopes the current heat wave holds up for her match today against 42-year-old transsexual Dr. Renee Richards at the Tennis Week Open.

Caroline Stoll of Livingston, N.J., who says she doesn't consider Dr. Richards a woman, said she expected the age difference to be a key factor in the match if the thermometer once again reached 90 degrees.

Miss Stoll, who finished fifth in the national 16-and-under championship this year, beat Susan Maharaj of Sarasota, Fla., Monday, 6-1, 6-0, in 97-degree heat.

"She's bound to get tired if I keep wearing her down," she said. "Besides, I'm really ready for the heat. I've been playing all summer."

In two of nine men's first-round matches scheduled today at the $60,000 tournament, defending champion Ilie Nastase of Romania will face John Lloyd of Great Britain in the evening, while hard serving second-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., takes on Henry Bunis of Cincinnati in the key afternoon matchup on the clay-like stadium court.

In men's play Monday, third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., defeated Marty Riessen of Amelia Island, Fla., 6-1, 6-3, and fourth-seeded Vijay Amritraj of India, bested Colin Dowdeswell, of Rhodesia, 7-6, 6-3.

The 5-foot-5 Miss Stoll said she didn't think very much about playing Dr. Richards, who underwent a sex change operation last year, because she didn't expect to win her first-round match.

After her victory she was asked how she thought about playing a transsexual. "I've never played one before," she replied. "I don't know how I'm going to feel. It's going to be different. I can tell you that."

Miss Stoll said she doesn't accept Dr. Richards, a 6-foot-2 eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Cal., as a woman. "She's just too strong and too tall to be a woman," she said. "And being that she was born a man and everything, she still has that strength."

Miss Stoll said that if she were an established player she probably would have joined the boycott here by 25 women players in protest of Dr. Richards' entry. Now that she's here, Miss Stoll said, she's glad to have the opportunity to play her.

"I'm sure she's very good," Miss Stoll said.

Bear Not Looking For Anything But A Title

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — "I don't expect this team to want to be the one to break the string," says Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama.

The string is five straight Southeastern Conference football championships. And despite the loss of eight defensive starters, Bryant's Crimson Tide still looks like the class of the South again in 1976.

"As always, it will depend to a great extent on schedule luck and injuries," Bryant said. "People keep writing about what great personnel we have, and we do, but I wish they would tell me who's going to play in the secondary," he said.

Alabama's role as the favorite, however, isn't as clear cut as it's been during the last four years. There are pretenders to the throne, all quite capable of unseating the Tide. That list includes Florida, Georgia and Mississippi, with once mighty Tennessee looming as a dark-horse threat. And, Alabama meets all except Florida, each on the road.

Elsewhere in Dixie, Maryland is creating its own little dynasty in the Atlantic Coast Conference and is expected to garner its third straight title this fall, although North Carolina State and Duke could change that. Appalachian State and East Carolina appear headed for a showdown in the Southern Conference and the top area independent should come from a group including Georgia Tech, Miami of Florida, Virginia Tech and South Carolina.

Alabama, which won on defense last year, appears to have enough offensive muscle to carry on until the defense matures around returning starters linemen Bob Baumhower, Charles Hannah and Gus White.

Bryant has the runners for the wishbone, headed by quarterbacks Jeff Rutledge and Jack O'Rear, and running backs Johnny Davis, Calvin Culliver and Tony Nathan.

Ole Miss returns three starting backs, including quarterback Tim Ellis, but must rebuild its line. There are seven starters back on defense, the club's strength.

Both Florida and Georgia have 42 letter-winners on hand, 15 starters at Florida and 17 at Georgia. These two loom as the most serious threats to Alabama.

Tennessee, down last year, has 16 starters back, including two of the area's top players — split end Larry Seivers and tailback Stanley Morgan. Mississippi State heads the second division cast and could break through behind tailback Walter Packer. But the team is on probation and ineligible for the league title.

Auburn and Louisiana State should be better, but not good enough to crack the top five. Vanderbilt and Kentucky are fighting to avoid the cellar.

Doug Barfield has assumed command at Auburn where Ralph "Shug" Jordan retired after a 25-year career.

Coach Jerry Claiborne lost a dozen starters from last year's championship team in the ACC. But Maryland had rolled through 15 straight conference foes and easily could go unbeaten again. Larry Dick and Mark Manges are two exceptional quarterbacks for the Terps.

Explosive North Carolina State features talented running backs Ted Brown and Ralph Stringer and Duke returns 14 starters. North Carolina is probably the best of the rest, followed by Wake Forest, Clemson and Virginia.

The Southern Conference faces a stormy year. Richmond, last year's champion, has withdrawn to the ranks of the independents. East Carolina, Virginia Military, William & Mary and Davidson leave the conference next June.

Davidson isn't eligible for the title this year because it is a college division team. Marshall, an independent, and two college division teams — Western Carolina and Tennessee-Chatanooga — become eligible for the football title in the SC next season.

East Carolina has nine starters back on defense, headed by safety Jim Bolding, end Gary Godette and linebacker Harold Randolph.

Appalachian, operating out of the wishbone, has such outstanding backs as quarterback Robbie Price, Emmitt Hamilton and Calvin Simon.

The Citadel could challenge, featuring second team All-American linebacker Brian Ruff, last year's SC player of the year, and fullback Andrew Johnson, the player of the year in 1974 when he ran for 1,373 yards.

Furman returns 48 lettermen, including 19 starters, and is the league darkhorse. Georgia Tech is loaded with outstanding running backs but has no proven quarterback to run the wishbone with the departure of Danny Myers. The top Tech players are center Leo Tierney, linebacker Lucius Sanford and halfback David Sims.

Miami has an outstanding performer in defensive tackle Eddie Edwards. The Hurricane will be strong, but could have a losing record because of a rugged schedule that includes Colorado, Nebraska, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Notre Dame and Florida.

South Carolina returns two 1,000-yard runners, Kevin Long and Clarence Williams, and VPI has one of their own, too, Roscoe Coles.

Dalipagic Just Might Make It

MARSHFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The odds may be long on a Yugoslavian all-star becoming a Boston Celtic, but the National Basketball Association champions won't bet against it.

Drazen Dalipagic has starred in international games and Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn says, "The big question is will he be able to adjust to the difference between that and the way the pros play it."

Dalipagic, a 6-foot-6, 205-pound forward, star of the Yugoslav Olympic team, was unveiled at the Celtics, Marshfield trout camp Monday and he drew praise from he start.

A team spokesman said the non-English speaking shooter is a tough rebounder and a good jumper.

"I'd say he's going to make it," the spokesman said of Dalipagic's chances of surviving the initial tryout.

The next stop would be the Massachusetts Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay, where the Celtics open pre-season training Sept. 24.

Dalipagic and 15 other rookies and free agents are seeking an invitation to the Cape Cod training camp.

The 25-year-old Yugoslavian import has played zone defense throughout his career. In the NBA, only man-to-man defense is permitted.

Celtics officials did not talk much about that prospective adjustment for Dalipagic. But of the language barrier, Heinsohn said, "Either he'll go to Berlitz or I will, depending on how good he can play" if he makes the team.

Dalipagic arrived in this country Saturday, accompanied by his father, who is serving as an interpreter.

Dalipagic was scouted by Heinsohn, Assistant Coach John Killilea and team President Red Auerbach. They saw him score 27 points against the U.S. Olympic team in the finals, won by the Americans.

It was Dalipagic who gave U.S. star Adrian Dantley a gash above the eye in rebounding action, but Heinsohn urged a clarification.

"Dantley fouled him with his eyebrow," the coach said. "Hit him right on the elbow with it."

Celtics officials said Dalipagic is an excellent outside shooter—a quality that enticed the defending NBA champions, who did not get much scoring from their forwards last season.

However, he will have rugged competition from other rookies at the trout camp. The Celtics announced Monday they signed 6-foot-9 Norman Cook, the team's first round draft choice from the University of Kansas and the last of the rookies to sign a contract.

Dalipagic, a free agent according to the NBA, has not signed a contract.

Oregon's orange and black football team meets the Syracuse orange Oct. 2 at Syracuse, N. Y.

New Mexico State will play five teams from Texas this season. Four of the games are at night.

Interviewing TV Star Is A Part Of The Job

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reporters who often interview TV stars can develop a buzzing in the head if they aren't careful. This is because what stars talk about — usually themselves — can get repetitive.

But we got to wondering recently if TV stars also develop a buzzing in the head because questions asked them by reporters may not vary much. So inquiries were made of a few press agents who arrange star interviews.

From this came a list of questions most often asked of TV stars when the stars are publicizing their shows or series. The question and answer session shall now commence:

Q. How do you feel about having your own series?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble pays the alimony.

Q. I don't watch TV much. What's your series about?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble play a new breed of cop.

Q. How has starring in a series affected your personal life?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble no privacy.

Q. How old are you?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble more coffee?

Q. How's it feel to be a star?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble asked for autograph now.

Q. How old were you when you decided to be an actor?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble the school play.

Q. This is a bit personal, but why did you end your seven-year relationship with famed actress Nadia Cofnowsky?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble always be good friends. More coffee?

Q. Are you dating anyone regularly now?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble one lump or two?

Q. Any truth to the rumor you and your co-star are feuding?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble like one big happy family.

Q. How long have you been studying voice and karate? This is something different for you, isn't it?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble for my new Las Vegas act.

Q. Who was the biggest influence in your life?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble and of course my agent.

Q. What was your first big break?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble while skiing, heh, heh, heh.

Q. How do you stay in such good shape?

A. Jog jog jog jog pant pant pant.

Q. I know you like golf, but what are your other hobbies?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble and write poetry now and then.

Q. Really?

A. Mumble.

Q. The big question: You've been the star of your own series for 10 years, but what do you really want to do?

A. Mumble mumble mumble mumble eventually teach dentistry.

Q. I don't mean to be rude, but would you ask your press agent to stop snoring?

Opening lead: Seven of ♣.

Study this hand and then decide whether you would rather play or defend three no trump after West leads his top spade.

At first glance it might seem that you should elect to play the hand. You duck the opening lead and East wins. He cannot attack spades. If he shifts to a heart, you play low and West wins the king. Now there is no suit the defenders can profitably attack, so you have time to knock out the king of diamonds and come to nine tricks at your leisure.

However, all is not that simple. East can wreck these plans with a brilliant bit of defense. After winning the queen of spades, he can shift to the queen of hearts!

If you win with the ace, you can set up three heart tricks for your side. However, your reentry to the diamonds has been eliminated and unless you play virtually double-dummy thereafter, you will not come to nine tricks without some cooperation from the defenders. It does not help you to allow the queen of hearts to win. East simply continues hearts, and your entry will still be removed. All you have succeeded in doing is to reduce the number of heart tricks you can make to two.

But if you chose to defend three no trump after a spade lead you are wrong. The defenders need your cooperation if they are to find this spectacular defense. You can foil their nefarious scheme with a simple play at trick one—rise with the ace of spades!

The defenders are helpless. You proceed to force out the king of diamonds, and you can come to nine tricks via one spade, one heart, five diamonds and two clubs. If West returns a spade after winning the king of diamonds, you split dummy's remaining spade honors. East can win a high spade, but he cannot endanger the contract. If he shifts to a heart, his best shot, you just rise with the ace and cash out your nine tricks.

Carter Invited To Rally In Salisbury

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Jimmy Carter has been invited to a political rally here Sept. 18. One of the organizers says there are indications the Democratic presidential candidate may attend.

Fred Corriher Jr., campaign manager for Rep. W.G. "Bill" Hefner, said Carter has invited to speak at a rally for Hefner, a Democrat seeking reelection in the 8th District. Carl Eagle of Salisbury is the Republican candidate.

Corriher said Monday that Carter's Washington staff had tentatively approved the appearance but Carter's Atlanta staff would have to pass final judgement.

A spokesman in Carter's Atlanta headquarters said, "We haven't even got next week's schedule, so there's no way we can know about next month."

Corriher said Hefner's aides made the request to Carter's staff shortly after the Democratic National Convention in July.

"We feel like every day without a negative answer, the greater our possibilities are," Corriher said.

Corriher said Carter's staff has considered a Carter visit in September to the neighboring 5th District instead of the 8th District. In the 5th District, incumbent Democrat Stephen Neal faces a challenge from Republican Wilmer Mizell, whom Neal unseated two years ago.

"We've heard that Neal might have a tougher race than we do here, and it's possible that Mr. Carter might go to the rescue of Steve Neal," Corriher said. "We hope that if Mr. Carter does go to the 5th District, he'll be at least drop by here. We'll hold our rally whether he comes or not."

Located six miles east of Rocky Mount on the Old Tarboro Road is the North Carolina Swine Development Center. The Swine Development Center is part of the Upper Coastal Plain Research Station, and was opened in 1965.

The purpose of the Center is to develop and maintain a complete demonstrational swine unit. The Center aims to show a total program of recommended facilities, practices, and management. The operation will be kept up to date so that it can be used as a successful example for producers. No research is conducted at the Swine Development Center and a continued effort is directed toward profitable production of commercial hogs.

Objectives of the Center include demonstration of the latest methods in swine production as well as new ideas in facilities. Recommended practices of breeding systems and herd health programs are demonstrated. The maintenance and analysis of detailed management records, along with the use of labor-saving practices and least-cost rations, serve to maximize profits. The Center also serves as a training center for special techniques or short courses.

The Swine Development Center is now designed as a 90 sow farrow-to-finish operation. Facilities include an environmentally controlled farrowing house with crates over slats, a partially slatted environmentally controlled breeding barn, and a totally slatted finishing floor. The newest facility is an environmentally controlled nursery built last year.

People interested in the latest methods of swine production, especially those producers who are planning to build new facilities or expand present operations are encouraged to visit the N. C. Swine Development Center. Visitors Day is every Wednesday and the supervising specialist is available to conduct tours. For further information, contact the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office.

Wagle, a Navy veteran, acknowledged he is a newcomer to politics and a relative newcomer to Greensboro. He earned a degree in ornamental horticulture at Auburn University, he said, and runs a grounds maintenance firm in Greensboro.

He said he opposes government intervention in such things as taxes, gun control and censorship. He also opposes military intervention abroad and further, he says, he is opposed to the government having anything "to say at all about the way a man runs his business."

China Moving Toward ABC's

By CHARLES R. SMITH
UPI Senior Editor
HONG KONG (UPI) — China has taken a major step forward in one of the most difficult and significant programs it has ever undertaken — converting its written language into a script based on the Western alphabet.

New romanized scripts, which the nation's leading linguistic scholars have been working on for 25 years, have been put into use officially for the first time, the New China News Agency reported.

NCNA said the romanized script, based on the Chinese phonetic system, officially replaced the written scripts of the Uighur and Kazakh nationalities Aug. 1 in the Sinkiang Uighur Autonomous region.

This vast northwestern region, which comprises one-sixth of the total area of China and is larger than Britain, France, Germany and Italy combined, borders on the Soviet Union and is inhabited by 13 different nationalities. The Uighurs and Kazakhs are the largest minority groups in the region.

"Based on the Chinese phonetic system, the new scripts have been adopted for use in all fields," NCNA said. "The old scripts of the two languages, treasured as cultural legacies, will be used as vehicles for the study of historical relics and data."

The first plan for new written languages for the Uighurs and Kazakhs was introduced on an experimental basis in 1960.

By November 1973, more than 1.5 million people in Sinkiang had "mastered the new written language," NCNA said.

"Schools of the Uighur and Kazakh nationalities have used the new scripts in teaching and nearly one million pupils and students have been graduated," the news agency said. "Another one million pupils and students are now studying the new scripts."

"Now the number of people who have learned the new scripts far exceeds those acquainted with the old scripts," NCNA said. "Young people of other nationalities have also learned the new scripts."

The new script also is being used by newspapers and magazines in Sinkiang, the Communist Party, government officials and the military.

Chinese linguistic experts in Hong Kong, as well as diplomats and other analysts specializing in Chinese affairs, said the language reform program initiated in Sinkiang undoubtedly was a pilot program.

Reform of China's difficult ideographic language, which was in use for many centuries before Christ, has been a high priority project since the Communists came to power in 1949.

"The written language must be reformed," Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung said in 1951. "The common direction of phoneticization for all written languages in the world must be followed."

As part of its reform program, the party has attempted to establish a standardized dialect based on Peking pronunciation and called "Pu Tung Hua," essentially the same as the Mandarin dialect.

The phonetic alphabet has been in general use, such as on store and shop signs and other public places, on a limited scale for years.

The romanized version has been used along with regular Chinese characters. The ultimate aim is to eliminate the characters, a project that will take generations to complete.

Kuo Mo-jo, president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, said that if China pursues this program aggressively, "the use of the Chinese characters will, like the ancient Greek, Latin and Sanskrit languages, be limited to a small number of specialists."

There are more than 50,000 characters in the Chinese ideographic language.

About 5,000 characters are in common use and a person must memorize at least 1,500 to be considered literate. The number in use is being reduced steadily.

An Old Idea In Trucking Field

NEW YORK (UPI) — The idea of putting automotive trailers on railroad flatcars is much older than most people think, according to trucking industry sources. As far back as the 1870s, farmers on Long Island, a suburban New York section once a major agricultural area, used to load their wagons on the flatcars and put their horses in boxcars in bringing their produce to New York City markets.

NEW MATERIALS
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Bilingual instructional material used in Texas public schools was developed under programs financed by the National Institute of Education.

More than 300,000 children — one in five — in Texas schools speak primarily Spanish. Texas had no complete bilingual curricula in use statewide until the new material was produced.

Privette Seeks Line Up Support For Run-Off Bid

TINY MELON HARVESTER — Hoisting a watermelon might be easy for a lot of people but it was hard work for Ryan Kosikowski, 4, who was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gove of Colbert, Okla., and elected to help his grandpop with the harvest. (AP Wirephoto)

Sculptor's Art Soars Into Sky

By DAN FREEMAN
Associated Press Writer
FRANCONIA, N.H. (AP) — Pastor Martelino, who says he wants to bring sculpture out of the art galleries and museums, sent his latest piece soaring into the sky. But he's afraid the Federal Aviation Administration will shoot it down.

The sculptor suspended his work — an 12-foot-wide, six-foot-high, 10-pound abstract composition made from several pieces of foam rubber — from three balloons and launched it Saturday from Portsmouth, near the Atlantic.

"It was beautiful," he said. "The last he saw of it, his creation was headed for Cape Cod in Massachusetts.

Martelino says that at the FAA's insistence he added aluminum strips to the balloons so they could be tracked by radar in case they approached heavy air traffic.

But he said that after the launch the FAA told him the strips he used just didn't do the job.

"That made me very disappointed and the FAA very upset," Martelino said. "They described it as a derelict balloon that if seen probably would be shot down."

The FAA had no immediate comment.

The sculptor said that if the balloons' flight is unimpeded, they should rise as high as 60,000 feet and stay aloft six days.

He thought the work might sail as far as Europe or South America, and he wrote to 56 foreign ambassadors about the project. He named the sculpture "TransAtlantic Won."

But even if the balloons are shot down, Martelino will chalk it up as an experience.

"It's interesting for a sculptor to provide a target for the Air Force," he said. "Maybe it will be good gunnery practice."

The launch Saturday was Martelino's first intentional attempt at airborne art. He had previously exhibited small sculptures mounted under balloons that were tied down, and he accidentally launched one last year when a rope slipped from his hands. That creation was last reported gliding over Maine.

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican Coy Privette plans to meet with western supporters in Asheville as he continues to try to line up support for a runoff gubernatorial primary against David T. Flaherty.

or 32.5 per cent; Jacob Alexander 16,138 or 13.9 per cent; and Wallace McCall 4,527 or 3.8 per cent.

The State Board of Elections is busy this week tabulating the official returns which will be announced Thursday. Privette would then have two days to call for a runoff.

Privette has said he is personally anxious to take another shot at Flaherty. A survey of some of his key supporters found none who were trying to discourage him.

Kinston contractor Frank Rouse, a past state GOP chairman, has been Privette's biggest contributor. He said Monday he has promised to support Privette again if he decides to make the runoff.

Privette's treasurer, Thomasville banker, C.P. Gilliam, said he laid out the factors involved in the race to Privette but did not try to tell him what to do.

They both gave Privette their views at a weekend meeting of supporters, held in Greensboro. Gilliam said the meeting solved at least one potential problem for Privette.

He got pledges for "enough" money to finance a runoff campaign. Gilliam said he would place the amount needed at somewhat less than the $65,000 Privette spent through July 31 in the first primary.

Gilliam said those at the meeting agreed that Privette has several positive factors working for him:

The end of the GOP presidential battle means that some conservatives who have been busy fighting for Ronald Reagan will be free to turn their attention to gubernatorial politics.

—The September 14 runoff date may catch more voters home from vacation. That, combined with the absence of Democratic competition for the voters' attention, might make it easier for Privette to boost the turnout, which was only 19 per cent in the first primary.

Meanwhile, as Alexander remained neutral about a runoff, one of his key supporters jumped into Flaherty's camp.

James Arthur Callahan, a member of the state Board of Transportation from Rutherfordton, said he was switching to Flaherty because he wanted to back a winner.

Rutherford County, where Callahan was Alexander's campaign chairman, was one of two counties Alexander carried in the primary. The other was Rowan, where Alexander lives.

Callahan predicted that more of Alexander's strong supporters from the Department of Transportation would switch to Flaherty.

Grimesland Has A New Pastor

GRIMESLAND — The Rev. Jack Jayroe has accepted the pastorate of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church here.

The Rev. Jayroe has served pastorates in St. Pauls, Roper, Vanceboro, Wallace and New Bern First. He moved to Grimesland from Morehead City, where he served for 12 years.

The Jayroes have three children. Mrs. Jayroe is a piano teacher and will be assisting the church choir.

Bring Suit On ABC Board Rule

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The U. S. Labor party has brought suit against a rule of the Mecklenburg County ABC liquor board prohibiting campaigning on its property.

Harley Schlanger, the party's candidate for Congress in the 9th District, says the ABC property is public, and the board has no authority to exclude any member of the public. He also says ABC stores and their parking lots are one of the more important weekend campaigning locations, because of the large number of people who pass through them.

The North Carolina Civil Liberties Union also is a party to the suit filed Monday in U. S. District Court.

Professor Says People Like Thrill Ride Fear

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Don Palmer has been riding roller coasters — professionally — for the past several years. Most recently he's been going over the top on a double racing ride where two coaster trains, starting side by side, race over a mile-long course, reaching speeds of more than 60 miles an hour.

"I must have ridden that ride 5,000 times while breaking it in," says Palmer, speaking of the "Rebel Yell" at Kings Dominion near Richmond, where he is rides manager. "And, you know, it's still a thrill to go over that first crest.

"You see what's coming, you tell yourself to calm down, that it's nothing you haven't been on lots of times before. And, each time, just as you reach the top, you ask yourself 'What am I doing here back on it again?'

"For a second you stop there, poised in space, right on the edge of disaster. Your eyes are tearing and you're holding on so tight that your knuckles are white. Then it starts, and you gasp for breath and your stomach is stuck someplace up in your throat. It's terrible."

Why do people pay good money to be scared witless, to have their stomachs driven up into their throats?

"People enjoy being scared; there's no two ways about it," explains Dr. Darren Newton, a social psychologist at the University of Virginia here and an expert on stress, fear and fear-inducing situations.

"People quickly become accustomed to a certain level of stress or anxiety; that's the level they learn to live with. Alteration of that level — either up or down — is very pleasurable within a certain range."

The actual thrill of "thrill" rides derives from two different components, Newton points out. One is emotional — the presence of physical sensation such as fear, excitement or curiosity. The other is an informational component; that is, the context.

"Hurling through air may be pleasurable on a roller coaster; it would be downright terrifying in a car that's out of control," he notes. "It's how you interpret the arousal sensations via the context that determines whether or not they will be pleasurable."

In today's popular theme parks, Newton says, the innate scariness of rides is teamed up with the different theme areas to provide a continuously changing context in which to experience the sensations.

"Theme parks offer an abstraction of life that's very cathartic, that provides an almost perfect emotional release. It's an artificially-arranged vacation, very compact and time efficient. In seven or eight hours, you get an 'essence of vacation' — variety, relaxation, and excitement.

"We're living in a world that's quite expert at manufacturing artificiality," continues Newton. "one where artificiality is fast becoming the norm rather than the exception. If there's a demand for something — whether it's orange juice for astronauts or the illusion of total escape — man is busy at work creating the commodity. Currently, there is just such a need for this kind of artificial variety."

Again Testify That Howe Offered $20

By BILL BEECHAM
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Two police decoy prostitutes, one of whom said she voted for Rep. Allan T. Howe in 1974, have sworn anew that it was Howe who offered $20 for two sex acts prior to his arrest in the city's red-light district.

Margaret Hamblin and Kathleen Taylor pointed to Howe in the courtroom Monday and said they were "absolutely certain" it was he who approached them the night of June 12.

Howe, a 48-year-old father of five and a Democratic freshman congressman seeking reelection, is appealing his City Court conviction and $150 fine on a misdemeanor charge of soliciting sex for pay.

State law provides for a new District Court trial with presumption of innocence when a City Court case is appealed.

A jury of five men and three women was chosen to hear testimony that could conclude the day.

"Do you have any reason to lie?" City Prosecutor Philip Palmer asked Mrs. Hamblin, a divorcee, and Mrs. Taylor in separate questioning. Both said they did not.

Howe jotted notes at the defense table while his wife Marlene sat behind him.

Mrs. Hamblin, under questioning from Howe's lawyer Dean R. Mitchell, said she thought she recognized Howe when he parked his car next to the decoys' unmarked police car near a warehouse loading dock.

"His name crossed my mind," she said, but added she didn't think the congressman would be in that part of town.

She said she recognized Howe from his driver's license as the candidate pictured on campaign posters before she voted for him in 1974.

Theft Victims Offer Reward

The co-owners of the Tree House Restaurant at 123 East Fifth St. said today that they are offering rewards for the arrest and conviction of the persons who broke into their business early Sunday and for the return of the safe and contents.

George Martin II, and Tony Vigorito said they will pay a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons who broke into the Tree House.

In addition, the pair offered a $300 reward for information leading to the return of the safe and its contents which were removed from the building during the break-in.

Hardee's Chain Earnings Rose

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — The Hardee's hamburger chain reported itself in improved financial condition today with record earnings per share for the last quarter.

Hardee's said it earned 50 cents per share in the third fiscal quarter, which ended July 31. That contributed to nine-month earnings of 77 cents per share.

Earnings in the previous year amounted to 31 cents per share.

ELDERLY'S NEEDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elderly Americans need education programs and the nation's community colleges are uniquely qualified to meet their needs, a National Institute of Education report shows.

The institute report notes that elders are looking for meaningful use of their time, while community colleges have resources and are looking for both financial and philosophical reasons to serve new groups.
