Separate Incidents; 39 Deaths

Two U.S. Air Force Transports Crash

THE C141 STARLIFTER . . . shown in this file photo, is the type of transport involved Saturday in two separate crashes. The first was near

Peterborough, England. The second occurred in Greenland. (AP Wirephoto)

By United Press International Two giant U.S. Air Force StarLifter transports, both attached to a New Jersey airlift wing, crashed in separate, unrelated accidents while trying to land in Britain and Greenland Saturday, killing 39 of the 45 persons on board. Eighteen persons were killed in one crash and 21 in the other.

An U.S. Air Force spokesman at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., headquarters for the Military Airlift Command, said all 14 crew and four passengers aboard the StarLifter which crashed in England had been killed. He said the Air Force originally reported only 13 crew on the plane but that there was one late crew addition.

The spokesman said six survivors from the fiery crash in Greenland would be airlifted to San Antonio, Tex., to the Army burn treatment center. The first plane was carrying a group of 18 Americans from New Jersey back to the U.S. air base at Mildenhall, England. The second was on a flight down the western coast of Greenland from Thule Air base to Sondrestrom and carried 27 Americans and Danes.

Both planes belonged to the 438th Military Airlift Wing headquartered at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

U.S. Air Force spokesmen at the Pentagon and in New Jersey said the survivors from the crash in Greenland but they did not know how many.

A Danish liaison officer at the Sondrestrom air base said 21 of the 19 passengers and eight crew on board the StarLifter in Greenland died in that crash.

Danish sources said the passengers included both Americans and Danes and that three of them were children.

The liaison officer said seven persons were rescued from the fiery crash, but one of them died later in a hospital.

Greenland radio said the StarLifter appeared to stall during landing at Sondrestrom, fell tail first on the runway and exploded.

Lt. Col. John P. Richmond, spokesman for McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., said "there are survivors (in the Greenland crash), but the number is unknown at this time."

"The circumstances of these accidents are entirely different and it is believed there is no connection between them," Richmond said.

Both the British Defense Ministry in London and the Pentagon in Washington said there were no survivors among the crew of 13 and four passengers, apparently civilians, in the other StarLifter crash in a field alongside a major highway as it approached Mildenhall for a landing.

The names of victims in both crashes were withheld pending notification of relatives.

A witness to the crash near Peterborough, England, said the plane, a four jet, long range freighter and troop carrier, may have been struck by lightning.

Heavy thunder and lightning swept the crash area near Peterborough, 80 miles north of London, as the StarLifter approached for a landing at Mildenhall Air Base.

Witness David Taylor, 53, said, he believed the aircraft was hit by lightning at about 2,000 feet.

"It came down very slowly covered in flames. It seemed to come apart in the air. When it hit the ground there was quite an explosion which I assume was the petrol (gas) tanks bursting," he said.

Americans Working In Iran Killed In Ambush

By CHARLES BERNARD

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Three California missile experts working on a secret project for the Iranian Air Force were ambushed and shot to death Saturday as they were being driven to work during the morning rush hour.

Police identified the victims as William Cottrell, 43, of Los Gatos, Robert Krongard, 44, of Sunnyvale, and Donald Smith of Yorba Linda. All worked for the U.S. Rockwell International electronics firm.

Iranian authorities said the three—all married and two fathers—were ambushed by members of a terrorist group calling itself the Islamic Marxist Guerrillas, a group Iran has accused of being financed and armed by Libya.

Police said the three men were being driven to work by an Iranian driver when their car was cut off by a second vehicle. Several men jumped out of the second car, ordered the Iranian driver out of the way, then sprayed the three Americans with automatic weapons fire, police said.

The incident marked the first killing of American civilians in Iran. Two U.S. Air Force colonels were killed in Tehran May 21, 1975, in a similar ambush by terrorists.

The three had been assigned to work with the Iranian Air Force by Rockwell International's Anaheim, California headquarters. A company spokesman would not say what their specific job was but friends said the three were experts in missile weaponry for aircraft.

The friends said the three Americans lived in the same neighborhood in the northern section of the city and that they were driven daily from their homes to their office at Iranian Air Force headquarters. They said the terrorists had undoubtedly studied the Americans' travel habits before planning the ambush.

The three men were attacked at a traffic circle on a busy road in the city. The operation was carried out quickly and the killers made their get away in the heavy morning traffic.

Cottrell had two children and Krongard three.

companies doing defense contract work for the Iranians immediately alerted their employees against following set routines in traveling to or from work or gathering socially in a conspicuous manner, a source in the defense community said.

Clean Bill For Pesticide Plants RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's 94 pesticide manufacturing plants have been given essentially a clean bill of health, although some violations were found.

Sentenced For Girl Throwing LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP) — Harry Stegall, 23, who was fired from the Highway Patrol two weeks ago, has been given a suspended sentence of 30 days for allegedly throwing his former girl friend into a lake.

His attorney gave notice of appeal to Superior Court. Stegall, son of a former Charlotte police major, was convicted in state District Court Friday of one count of assault on Kathy Brook, 19, of Laurinburg.

Labor Candidate Campaigned Here

By BARBARA MATHEWS Reflector Staff Writer The U.S. Labor party is a major factor in this year's presidential election, according to Marion Porter, Labor party candidate for the Sixth District Congressional seat.

Ms. Porter was campaigning in Greenville on behalf of Labor party presidential candidate Lyndon LaRouche. "We are probably, both in terms of program and in terms of mathematical support, one of the major third party movements ever," she said.

"We think that we actually have a chance to win the presidential election this year.

"We have the best program, one based on high technology as the U.S. Labor party is the key to industrial improvements, and it is being taken by factions all around the world as their program."

According to Ms. Porter, the Labor party's optimism is based on the premise that 85 third world nations will refuse to make debt payments, thus causing the New York banking system to collapse.

"We must cancel the current debt payments and re-establish production," she said. "Then we can re-negotiate. This will not, of course, be acceptable to the Rockefeller faction, who will go bankrupt. But they invested the money poorly in the first place.

"Third world countries are demanding a moratorium on these debt payments. If this happens, the New York banks will collapse, and we may win the election."

Ms. Porter said the Labor party is pro-socialist, but is running on a capitalistic program. "Change is happening so fast that it must be planned," she said.

"The question of whether or not there will be socialism in the United States will be posed to the public, not imposed on them."

The U.S. Labor party is on the ballot in 24 major industrial states, including North Carolina.

Don Parrot, chairman of the Pitt County United Fund campaign, announced that Les Turner and Don McGlobo have joined the fund drive as co-chairmen of the Business II Division.

"I am especially pleased to announce the appointment of Les and Don as co-chairmen of the Business II Division for the 1976-77 campaign," Parrot commented.

"We are glad to add the experience and talent of Les and Don to the growing pool of young men and women on our team," he added.

Turner, who is associated with First State Bank in Greenville, is a native of Duplin County where he graduated from B. F. Grady High School in Albertson. He graduated from East Carolina University with a B.S. degree in business education.

The co-chairman is also a 1970 graduate of the Carolina School

By N.C. Human Resources $210 Million Increase Wanted

RALEIGH (AP) — Even though a top state official holds little hope that it will be granted, the state Department of Human Resources will ask for a $210 million budget increase for the next biennium.

Phillip J. Kirk, human resources secretary, said Friday he believed such an increase would be needed, but he guessed the legislature would reject about half the request.

If the agency's total request were to be granted, its budget—including federal funds—would go from the $777 million this fiscal year to about $1 billion by the 1978-79 fiscal year.

Taking the largest portion of the agency's expansion requests was the Medicaid program. The state recently cancelled a contract with a private firm that was supposed to save the state money by handling Medicaid payments more efficiently.

Kirk said the agency is asking for an additional $32 million to cover rising costs in that program.

The budget request will go to the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission which will present a budget proposal to the 1977 General Assembly. Among the remaining increase requests were: —$23.6 million, considered the agency's top priority request, for an increase in state aid to local health, social services and mental health departments.

—$20.4 million to upgrade the state's mental health program with most of it going to hire 673 additional persons.

—$10.5 million to upgrade and expand the program for fetal and infant care. The agency wants to improve the state's record which now ranks 5th in infant deaths.

—$8 million to construct facilities for local social services agencies.

—$6.5 million to meet rising costs in the vocational rehabilitation program.

—$3.5 million to expand what the state calls its sight conservation program.

Functioning Artificial Gene Created

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Scientists for the first time have made a gene that works normally in a living cell, opening a new door to understanding the basic unit of heredity that determines everything from the color of a person's hair to the shape of an apple.

Transferred to the realm of applied science, the achievement might make possible the fashioning of man-made genes to provide new functions in living organisms. It might also be possible to correct diseases caused by malformed genes by substituting "healthy" man-made genes in the living body.

The creation of the man-made gene was reported by researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The development culminates nine years of research by Har Gobind Khorana, a Nobel Prize winner for his earlier genetic studies and now the Alfred B. Sloan professor of biology and chemistry at MIT. Two of his assistants planned to outline their findings Monday at a meeting in San Francisco of the American Chemical Society.

The Cambridge City Council, fearing the creation of dangerous, unknown substances, has temporarily banned construction of a Harvard University lab for studying recombinant DNA.

Making genes artificially is very different from the controversial research known as recombinant DNA. In recombinant DNA research, DNA from different organisms is joined together to create organisms that do not naturally exist. DNA, deoxyribonucleic acid, is the long, double helix shaped molecules composing the fundamental genetic material in all living cells.

What Khorana and the MIT researchers did was link together minute bits of common chemicals to make an exact copy of the gene of specific bacteria, then transplanted their creation to living bacteria of that type. They then watched as, for the first time, an artificial gene helped regulate the bacteria's living processes.

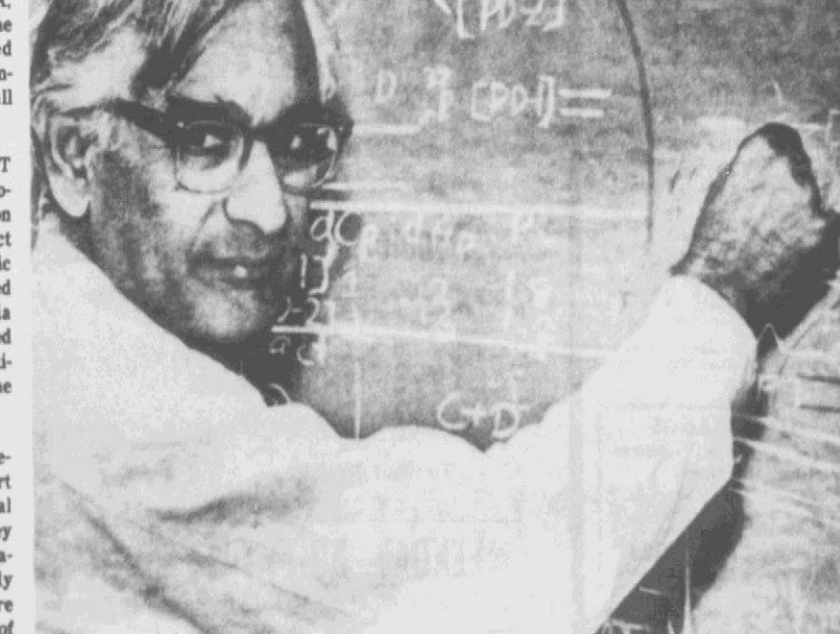

The next step, the MIT researchers said, will be to start shifting around the internal chemistry of the gene. They will be searching for information on why genes function only at the precise moment they are needed in the development of life.

This gene, however, was incomplete and could not function in living cells.

Each gene contains instructions — like the dots and dashes of Morse code — for making a single kind of protein. Genes are linked together in long strands of DNA, and each is made up of four separate, complex chemicals called nucleotides.

The scientists said they are far from being able to duplicate the genes of humans. The bacteria gene has only 126 nucleotides, while a single human gene contains millions of them.

MAY HAVE CREATED GENE—Har Gobind Khorana, Nobel laureate shown at work in his MIT laboratory, may have created a gene, the basic unit of heredity. His findings are to be brought before the American Chemical Society meeting in San Francisco Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

Nurses Needed
WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Warren General Hospital in rural Warren County of north-eastern North Carolina is having trouble staying open because it can't find enough nurses. Advertisements in major newspapers haven't helped.

"I think we have trouble recruiting the younger nurses in rural hospitals because they want to be near where the action is, the larger towns," says the hospital administrator, Herman Anderson.

Pay is also a factor. He said Warren General starts nurses at about $10,300 a year, and starting salaries of $12,000 and $13,000 are not uncommon elsewhere.

Russians Sentence Americans

MOSCOW (AP) — As part of a campaign to stamp out the "Moscow connection," the drug route through the Soviet Union, a court has sentenced three American heroin smugglers to labor camp terms ranging from five to eight years.

Their Russian lawyers said after the sentencing Friday that they would file an appeal with the supreme court of the Russian federated state. But observers said there was little chance of a reversal.

Italians Free Suspects

ROME (AP) — Seven years after Italy's deadliest terrorist attack, two of the last suspects are being freed from prison because the government has failed to win any convictions in the case.

Today's release of alleged right-wing extremists Giovanni Ventura and Franco Freda has renewed public debate on the problems of the Italian justice system and the government's inability to deal with terrorism effectively.

Viking Landing Set For Friday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 2 spacecraft has made a final course adjustment in preparation for a landing attempt next Friday on a field of Martian sand dunes named Utopia.

The orbiting command ship, clutching a robot lander that will make the touchdown, fired a short rocket burst Friday. The blast shifted the orbit slightly so Viking can come directly over the landing site and begin vertical photography of the area this weekend.

Twelve Dead In Mexican Storm

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police Saturday said 12 persons died in a violent hail and rain storm which swept the city Friday night, causing flooding, the collapse of slum buildings and traffic tieups.

Eight Killed In Copter Crash

BELIZE CITY, Belize (UPI) — A British army spokesman Saturday said eight soldiers of the British Forces garrison in this self-governing British colony were killed in a helicopter crash.

He said a Puma helicopter of the Royal Air Force crashed Friday night in the Toledo district near the Columbia Forest Station. There was no immediate indication of what caused the crash, but an investigation was underway, he said.

Reports 36 Guerrillas Killed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesia Saturday said its troops killed 36 black nationalist guerrillas and lost one dead in the past 48 hours—the highest death toll this year in the guerrilla war.

The government also presented what it said was "conclusive evidence" a camp it attacked inside Mozambique was a guerrilla base.

Kinston Firm Subject Of Probe Family Of Five Killed By Inmate

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — A Small Business Administration official Saturday confirmed the agency is probing allegations a ranking employe channeled contracts to a North Carolina minority business reportedly run by two whites.

Wiley S. Messick, SBA regional director in Atlanta, said in a telephone interview that assistant regional procurement officer John T. Scruggs has been directed to refrain from any further involvement with the firm, Lenoir Contractors of Kinston.

He also confirmed the FBI is looking into allegations concerning Scruggs, but said an earlier SBA probe involving Scruggs, the Kinston firm and other matters found "no wrongdoing whatsoever at that time."

He described Scruggs as "a very highly respected government procurement specialist" with 35 years of experience, adding, "these statements should be looked at strictly as allegations" until the issue is settled.

If Scruggs "has been improperly maligned, we want that brought out, too," he said.

The Miami Herald reported the existence of the probe Friday and identified the two men said to run the contracting firm as brothers Fred and Reece Gardner of Kinston. Scruggs has denied granting any favors to the firm.

Reece Gardner, identified by the Herald as president of Lenoir, ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1966 and 1968 as a Republican. Neither of the men, who operate Gardner Construction Co., could be reached Saturday.

The Herald reported John Henry Skinner, a black listed as a Lenoir stockholder and vice president, told the paper his job was "to look over cement." He was quoted as saying he had not spent a day in the office, did not know its street address and was unaware he was a corporate officer.

Messick said questions had been raised about control of the firm, adding, "apparently the dominant business force has been the experienced majority race partners."

Traditionally, he said, firms in the program have had white participation in ownership and in providing financial and technical assistance.

He said the agency would not close its investigation until it had received the FBI's report. Messick declined to comment on a report by the Herald that the FBI probe centered on allegations Scruggs attempted to get a black contractor in Jacksonville, Fla., to share several SBA contracts with the construction firm operated by the Gardners.

He said the Lenoir firm has received 37 SBA contracts under the minority business program in the past five years, more than any other construction firm in the South, but said "by dollar amount that would be far from accurate."

Under the SBA minority business program, certain federal contracts are held out for firms run by minorities and the contract price is negotiated rather than being put to bid. Messick said the SBA was "reviewing the situation to determine whether or not we will award any more contracts" to the firm "which is owned by some minority and some majority (race) stockholders."

Witnessed the stabbing of another inmate at the penitentiary.

Late Thursday or early Friday morning, officials said, Turner killed Hardin, 37; his wife, Toni, 35; and the couple's three children, Laurie, 15; Carol, 13, and Jim 3.

The county coroner said Mrs. Hardin and the two daughters had been raped. He said one of the victims had been shot in the head, but the bodies of the other four were so badly battered he could not immediately determine the cause of death.

A telephone repairman investigating a report that the family's phone was off the hook found the bodies of Hardin, a reserve penitentiary guard, and his wife in their garage Friday morning. He notified sheriff's deputies, who found the bodies of their children in the house.

Officials issued an alert for Turner, who fled in the Hardin's 1972 pickup truck.

No Assurances

By PAUL SHIN

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — North Korea Saturday refused to give assurances for the safety of United Nations Command personnel in the Panmunjom truce village, but both sides agreed to hold talks on revised security procedures.

Despite the lack of assurances by the Communists, the agreement on future meetings appeared to ease tensions created by the Aug. 18 slayings of two U.S. Army officers on a tree-pruning detail by 30 ax-wielding North Korean guards.

At the 381st meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, both sides agreed that secretaries of the armistice commission should meet at an unspecified date to consider methods of separating troops and preventing clashes.

Emmy And Frances

MIAMI (UPI) — As erratic Hurricane Emmy again turned toward the United States Saturday, a concentrated system of shower squalls whipped its winds up to tropical storm strength 1,000 miles east of the Lesser Antilles.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said Emmy's shift probably was temporary and the storm probably would not reach land — at least no time soon.

The season's sixth tropical — investigated by an Air Force reconnaissance plane — was named Frances.

Adjustment Boards Met On Thursday

The Greenville Board of Adjustments denied one request for a special use permit Thursday evening and tabled action on another request for 30 days.

The board, after holding a public hearing on a request by Harold D. Taunton for a permit in order to construct a building to do musical instrument repair work at 1503 Hooker Road, denied the request on the basis that the proposed use would not satisfy requirements of Section 32-75 (A and D) of the City Code.

A request by the Pitt County Mental Health Department for renewal of a special use permit in order to continue operation of the school for the mentally handcapped at 1600 E. Greenville Boulevard was tabled.

The City-County Board of Adjustments, also meeting Thursday, denied a request by Em's Antiques and Collectibles for a special use permit in order to operate an antique shop and in order to erect a principal use sign on the lot located one mile from Lake Ellsworth on the Farmville Highway.

In denying the request, the board ruled that the proposed use would violate Section 32-11 of the City Code which prohibits more than one principal use on any one lot.

One of the final battles on the platform was over the abortion plank. On a show of hands, the delegates rejected an amendment that would have put the party on record as opposing abortion, but deleted specific support for a constitutional amendment forbidding it.

AIP opposition to the income tax came in a plank supporting the "liberty amendment" to the Constitution. That proposed amendment, among other things, would prohibit the federal government from taxing "personal income, estates and or gifts."

The busing plank says the party "strongly condemns the practice of forced busing and

Regular Inspections A Must

After a hectic summer the Greenville School Board has decided to go on with the originally scheduled Aug. 31 opening day.

The opening will take place without the availability of Third Street School which was closed 12 days before the end of the 1975-76 school term. The closing of Third Street School took place after it was condemned by the city building inspector who found structural problems which he deemed made it unsafe.

Action to open the city schools on schedule was taken after the school board received a letter from Chief Inspector Alton Warren stating that "in my opinion, all of the schools except Third Street can reopen on Aug. 31, 1976."

The board also received a letter from the city fire marshal clearing all the schools except Third Street for opening.

Following the Third Street School problems the school board found extensive repairs and renovations were needed to other buildings to put them in acceptable condition. Planning is underway for many of these repairs and hopefully most of them should be carried out in time for the opening of schools.

In the future there should be careful inspection of all city and county school buildings and repairs should be made as they are needed to insure that the facilities are absolutely safe.

We trust that regular inspections will be made by school staffs as well as building and fire inspectors. We can't afford unsafe buildings.

Jimmy Carter Early Target For Dole

It is already clear that GOP vice presidential nominee Robert Dole will have the major task of attacking the Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

Last week Dole was scheduled to speak at the American Legion convention and the Iowa State Fair following Carter addresses.

Carter has already said he will answer attacks on himself only if they come from President Ford.

Vice presidential nominees are often given the job of playing rough while the presidential nominees take a more statesmanlike role. It appears that Dole will be on the attack this year.

Funds For Juvenile Work

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Counties in North Carolina are now trying to come up with plans for local programs dealing with young people in trouble—a way to keep more from being sent to the juvenile training schools.

At mid-year, 1977, a state law will go into effect which eliminates the "status offender" from the training schools—keeping out of the institutions children who are school truants, discipline problems at home, runaways, and otherwise in trouble, but not involved in "criminal activities."

The alternative is community treatment programs, and most of the state's counties have decided to draw up plans for such.

The Governor's Commission on Law and Order has set up guidelines for making available to the local programs a total of $2.2 million in Law Enforcement Assistance Act money for such programs, and broad outlines of those which would qualify have been sent to members of Boards of County Commissioners.

New Approach

Donald R. Nichols, administrator of the Law and Order Commission, calls the approach a rare chance to take part in a "significant new area of services to the public."

But he also warns that federal funds are for a one-year period only, and the "counties should expect to assume the continuing costs of these efforts during the second year" and thereafter.

Four Ways

The four basic types of community programs approved for consideration are these:

—Non-residential services for children living at home; must offer individual or group therapy, counseling, and treatment for the entire family of the child; and can provide medical, rehabilitation, and educational aid.

—Shelter Care is for children needing more intensive work and for a longer time; involving such things as foster care, street workers, temporary shelter to keep them out of secure facilities such as local jails, or subsidies to existing programs of that sort.

—Group Homes are for those in danger of getting deeply into the juvenile justice system; should provide rehabilitation and counseling either as an alternative to the child's appearance in juvenile court, or as ordered by the juvenile court if the child has been there. Local agency support and a local advisory board are required to set up a group home.

—Specialized Foster Care is an approach for children who are in trouble in their own homes but would not do well in a group home.

Those close to the juvenile system, however, expect conflicts over funding which will require attention from the General Assembly next year.

The federal funds are channeled through a division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources and the commission is made up of both local representatives and state agency heads. It is chaired by Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr. In recent months there has been much debate about the conflicts and competition of state agencies to control the funds, and clear indications that state agency interests often take precedence over local desires.

Involved are the court system which claims counseling and supervisory jurisdiction in certain areas, the Department of Human Resources which operates the training schools and several rehabilitation approaches, the Department of Corrections, the Department of Justice and several divisions of these often competing for the funds and for jurisdiction.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Abzug's Selective World

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Rep. Bella Abzug of New York rose on the floor of the House July 21 to dramatize a remarkable world view which makes her Senate primary duel with Daniel Patrick Moynihan a test of opposite poles in the Democratic party.

That day was the annual observance of "Captive Nations Week" during which Congressmen denounce tyranny by Communist governments, a ritual that Mrs. Abzug has disdained in the past. This time, obviously because of New York's Sept. 14 primary, she participated. The heart of her remarks follows:

"We must not forget the suffering generated as a result of the totalitarian regime gaining control in Germany in the 1930s. We should not forget the lesson of Vietnam, and the suffering caused by support for a totalitarian regime there. We should also not forget the lesson of India, and the recent events of this past year, during which individual rights were virtually abolished."

Mrs. Abzug mentioned no other country, ignoring the entire record of Communist oppression in Eastern Europe, Asia, the Soviet Union itself. The omission shocked not only conservative Congressmen but her fellow liberal Manhattan Democrat, Rep. Edward Koch, who that same day called "50 million killings in the U.S.S.R." equal to Nazi genocide.

The reticence of Mrs. Abzug to criticize Communist governments has been characteristic of her six years in Congress as her vote against every single defense bill during that time. Thus, as the Democrat most conspicuously on the extreme left, she is the antithesis on national security questions of her principal opponent in the primary, the equally flamboyant Moynihan. Since the five-way Democratic race has now boiled down to an Abzug-Moynihan dead heat, their struggle defines the basic polarity within the Democratic party that was finessed by the party platform and Jimmy Carter's candidacy.

Although she has restrained her usual bravado in campaigning for the Senate, Mrs. Abzug's recent public utterances reflect the same pattern of the past six years: ignoring the fact of Communism rolling over the globe, but playing the alert watchdog on behalf of human freedom everywhere else (while maintaining a jaundiced eye toward U.S. defense expenditures).

On May 19, she criticized military aid for "authoritarian regimes" in South Korea and Chile. On May 26, she attributed the Navy's planned increase in shipbuilding to a "well-financed Pentagon public relations effort" that claimed rising Soviet strength. On June 2, she attacked the moderate post-Franco regime in Spain as "oppressive" and boycotted King Juan Carlos's address to Congress that day.

Shortly thereafter, Mrs. Abzug played a leading role in drafting the Democratic national platform's foreign policy plank, successfully helping defeat a declaration favoring U.S. defense as "second to none" and unsuccessfully attempting to limit the platform's criticism to pro-Western South Korea, not Communist North Korea.

Dr. Moynihan, an old-fashioned anti-Communist liberal, cannot say much about his opponent's refusal to criticize Communist oppression, lest he be accused of "McCarthyism," an unpardonable sin to New York liberals. Nevertheless, he is harping on Mrs. Abzug's astonishing failure ever to vote in favor of defense spending. To key Moynihan supporters, this constitutes a test of whether a hardline defense stand can survive in the nation's most liberal Democratic state primary.

The odds might be poor for Moynihan were it not for Israel, an overriding issue in a primary with a Jewish vote of over 40 per cent. Although both Moynihan and Mrs. Abzug take an excessively pro-Israeli stand, he poses this unanswerable question: how can she consistently advocate giving Phantom jets to Israel that she voted against building in the first place?

The real difference on national security questions between Pat and Bella is now becoming the central issue of the campaign, not the question whether Moynihan acted properly in filling many posts for Republican Presidents Nixon and Ford. The general feeling among politicians that Mrs. Abzug has not drawn blood on this score is confirmed by private polls.

"Oh, dear-dear! You're a frightful mess... now hurry and tidy up for the big celebration!"

Sunday Morning Notes

"City Girl Meets Chinese Geese" could very well be the title of a true life episode involving The Reflector's fledgling reporter Barbara Mathews, born a city girl in Pittsburgh, Pa. and arriving in Greenville via several years living in Charlotte.

This past week, accompanied by staff writer Jerry Raynor, Barbara went out on a feature assignment to the farm home of Eugene Rouse.

At the farm, Barbara was captivated by the graciousness of Panamanian born Mrs. Maria Rouse and her two young children, Ellen and David; intrigued by the variety of feathered things, chickens, guineas, ducks, turkeys populating the farmyard; and immediately lost her heart to eight half-grown Beagle puppies and a couple of barn kittens.

But the long-necked Chinese geese were another matter. Barbara took them for granted at first, zeroing in for some shots. At that point, a couple of the geese decided to show their affection by raising their wings, hissing and making a grab for one of Barbara's legs with strong yellow bills.

Despite assurances by Mrs. Rouse, her children, her brother-in-law Robert and Raynor that this is merely the way geese have of showing their acceptance of people, Barbara is steadfastly maintaining an attitude of skepticism.

She avows their demonstration had nothing to do with feathered diplomacy, and that so far as she's concerned, detente with the aggressive birds is absolutely out of the question.

40 Years Ago Today

August 29, 1936

Aerial bombs exploded in downtown Madrid today in the first successful air raid on the city proper.

Several people were wounded as the bombs shattered windows, but did little actual damage to buildings in the city. Previously, government war planes repulsed a rebel attempt to bomb the capital.

The attempted bombardment was the fifth of the week but involved two rebel planes and a squadron of governmental fighting ships.

On the northern front casualties were estimated at "thousands" as the rebel forces stormed Fort San Marcial, key to the city of Irun.

Government forces admitted their ammunition was running low after the fourth day of fighting in that sector.

Holding the Greenies to four well scattered hits while his teammates were slaughtering the offerings of three Greenville pitchers, Woody (Lefty) Upchurch today hurled the Ayden Aces to a 13-0 victory to send the Aces into the championship series for the Coastal Plain League.

To the editor:

Again it is the peak season of the year for most of Greenville. We have enjoyed a humid summer, but one most will remember for years to come.

Our tobacco season, again a united success, is an example of what people can do working together.

We have in Greenville the potential for a modern city and one of a highly educational background—one of a kind, so to speak.

We have a city which has been built by all our hands working together, hand to hand, giving birth to this, Greenville, the city of 1976.

Because we have such a city, we ought to tap the resources that we have. There is ECU. There are parks — although they are in the making.

In downtown Greenville, we have an outstanding library. On the 264 Bypass, we have a boat launch.

Recently our streets have been paved and now we are working on better parks and the planting of trees and shrubs. These efforts have been given to be appreciated by one and all. Most of these efforts go to help you, the citizen, to enjoy the cleaner more modern city which we all wanted. It is time for the young people to follow and maintain a beautiful city to raise our 70's heritage in. It takes a united effort.

You will have helped a people who are obviously proud of a job well done.

Give a hoot and stash that trash.

Will Cleveland

The harried young clerk in a local store breathed an exasperated sigh, after a surge of customers had left.

"I'm going to get married so I don't have to work anymore," she declared.

"Who are you going to marry?" someone asked.

"I don't know," she answered. "Anyone, so I don't have to work."

OK, housewives. Will marriage get you out of work?

And a female office worker was looking through a catalogue and comparing prices of this year with those of last year.

"Can you imagine," she commented, "The price of that couch has gone up $54 in one year."

She shook her head sadly. "I'll never be able to quit work."

Sure she can. She can just forget about the couch.

Foreign Investors Like South

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Hundreds of foreign manufacturers are building factories in America and are finding the South — or, more precisely, the so-called "Sunbelt" states stretching across the nation's lower tier — a favored place to build them.

Rural communities that once hungered for industry are now humming with it, and loving the sound.

Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd., of Britain, built a plant in North Carolina, a $6 million brick complex standing amid tobacco fields and country churches. It employs 62 people and takes on an extra 40 or 50 college students during the summer.

Next on its expansion agenda is a $90 million pesticide plant in Bayport, Tex.

In South Carolina, Michelin, the French tire manufacturer, built a plant in Greenville that produces six million tires a year. It gets its raw materials from Michelin's rubber-mixing and cord plant at nearby Anderson, which in turn has the capacity to supply three additional plants. One, in Spartanburg, S.C., will be producing truck tires by mid-1978. The firm also has bought land in Laurens County, S.C., to build a research and development center. Total investment to date: $500 million.

The American Hoechst Corp., a subsidiary of Hoechst AG of West Germany, has bought land in South Carolina, Texas and Louisiana for its textile operations. Hergeth KG, a German textile machinery manufacturer, has a plant in South Carolina. Japan's Sony is producing electronic equipment in San Diego and is soon to start up a plant in Alabama.

The latest government figures show that foreign direct investment totals more than $25 billion and represents more than 18 per cent of all investment in manufacturing in the United States. In 1972, the figure was less than $15 billion.

"This is a good thing," said Milton Berger, director of the Commerce Department's Office of Foreign Investment. "It means thousands of new jobs."

A government survey found that 95 per cent of the jobs in foreign companies based in America are held by Americans.

The General Accounting

Office recently calculated that foreign manufacturers have brought 19,750 direct new jobs to South Carolina alone, representing 5.5 per cent of total manufacturing employment; more than 40,000 new residents; about $70 million in new retail sales; and $122 million to $172 million in added personal income.

"Before this industrial influx our people were chronically underemployed," said George Dean Johnson Jr., chairman of the South Carolina State Development Board.

Throughout the Deep South, per capita income has risen from 63 per cent of the national average in 1959 to 83 per cent today. In Dixie's ongoing resurgence, foreign capital surely has played its part.

THE SACREDNESS OF DUTY

A number of architects were invited, some years ago, to submit plans for a large cathedral. One of the architects, a devout Christian and a pronounced mystic, arranged his drawing table in such a way that he would always be on his knees as he worked on his design. He felt his work to be of such religious significance that he wanted to maintain the posture of devotion as he worked out his plans.

How much better life would be if people could look upon its everyday tasks as sacred duties toward which they must maintain a reverent devotion. It lightens the drudgery of housework when women realize that this humble service results in a happy home for their loved ones. When men look upon their jobs as a means of serving God, or practice a profession with a deep sense of responsibility to the Most High, they get real happiness out of their work and do a real service for the world.

Any task worth doing is worth doing on one's knees.

South Gives Carter Edge

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J. — The latest nationwide Gallup Poll, completed Monday, following the GOP convention, shows the presidential race to be virtually neck-and-neck outside the South, with Jimmy Carter winning 44 per cent of the vote to President Gerald Ford's 43 per cent.

Nationally, as reported Thursday, Carter now leads Ford 49 to 39 per cent, with the President having reduced his rival's lead by almost since the previous survey, conducted prior to the Republican convention.

The President's improved standing is due in considerable measure to his gains outside the South. The pre-GOP convention survey showed Carter with a wide 55 to 33 per cent lead in the non-South states, compared to today's virtual tie.

Over the same period of time, however, Ford has made almost no inroads on Carter's support in the South, where the Democratic nominee continues to hold a better than 2-to-1 margin.

South Has Been GOP Stronghold

Ironically, the South, now so firmly in the Carter camp, has been a GOP stronghold in recent presidential elections.

In 1964, for example, Sen. Barry Goldwater's strongest regional showing was in the South in his contest against President Lyndon Johnson.

In 1968, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama siphoned off support from both major party candidates, but Richard Nixon nevertheless won a plurality of the vote in that region. In 1972, Nixon's strongest region by far was the 13-state region of the South.

Defection Rate Among GOP Voters Is Down

In surveys taken prior to the GOP convention, Ford suffered a record defection rate, even exceeding the rate of Republican defection in the 1964 election when 20 per cent of Republicans voted for Johnson.

The rate of defection among Republicans in the latest survey, however, is considerably lower with 14 per cent of Ford supporters opting for Carter, a rate of defection which is know at about the same level as the Democratic figure.

The following table shows the latest trial heat results by party affiliation and the change since the previous survey:

Strength Of Support

The outcome of the election in November will depend in large measure on the final choices of those voters who are presently uncommitted or lukewarm in their current candidate preferences.

The latest survey indicates that a fourth (24 per cent) of Carter backers say they may change their minds between now and election day or are unsure of their status. This proportion, however, is more than offset by the percentage of Ford supporters (27 per cent) who indicate they may switch their votes at some point during the campaign.

These findings are based on the following the test election question in presidential election years:

"Are you pretty certain how you will vote (that is, for Carter or Ford) or do you think you may change your mind between now and the election in November?"

The results:

Soft vs. Hard Vote

	Certain	May Change	Don't Know
Carter supporters	70%	24%	6%
Ford supporters	66	27	7

This question was asked to determine test election choices: "If the presidential election were being held today, which candidate would you vote for — Ford, the Republican, or Carter, the Democrat?"

One-Party Rule: Government Without Brakes

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Much of the Republican rhetoric in Kansas City, like much of the Democratic rhetoric in New York, was hokum, bunkum and balderdash. Here and there, at both conventions, the orators served up some solid stuff. John Connally in Kansas City had a passage worth our thought.

The Democrats, Connally noted, already control roughly two-thirds of the seats in both House and Senate. It would have been tactless to say so, but he might have added that the Democrats almost certainly will retain majorities — or larger majorities — when the next Congress convenes. The Democrats now are arguing, said Connally, "That they should be given final, absolute and total dominion over all the power in this system by control of the executive branch of the federal government."

He said: "I believe that is an argument which thoughtful Americans must view with grave alarm. For I say to you it is time — it is long past time — that we must awaken to the reality that our system is in danger of losing the very balances which assure its success and our personal freedom."

"Not in the lifetime of any present here — not in the lifetime of the Republic itself — have we been so near as we are now to subjugation of the system under the rule of a single party... Is this the party which the people want to hold all power over them without a President in the White House willing and able to exercise restraint over that party's willful excesses?"

Connally's point merits sober reflection. We have had 39 Congresses in this century. The Republicans have controlled both houses in 14 of these, the Democrats in 25. But with the sole exception of the 75th Congress in 1937-38, the minority party always has clung to at least a blocking third in one chamber or the other. And in 1937-38, though they held only 16 seats in the Senate and 89 in the House, the Republicans had a solid base in state governorships and legislatures.

Recent years have wrought enormous changes. The Republicans today hold only 13 governorships. They cling to barely 31 percent of the seats in state legislatures. Only in Kansas does the GOP claim the governor's office and both houses of the legislature. Depending on which poll you believe, only 18 to 22 percent of the eligible voters identify themselves with the Republican party.

Other changes have greater bearing on Connally's statement. There was a time when the old Southern warhorses, commanding key committee chairmanships, exercised a restraining influence upon their own Democratic party. Most of that power structure has been swept away. Half a dozen Southerners still hold chairmanships in the Senate; a handful of Texans hold similar positions in the House, but their authority has eroded.

Granted, party labels are not the be-all and end-all. Even with their overwhelming majorities in the present Congress, the Democrats have been able to override only 10 of Ford's 55 vetoes. It is the power of veto, as Connally observes, that now provides the principal brake against absolute one-party rule.

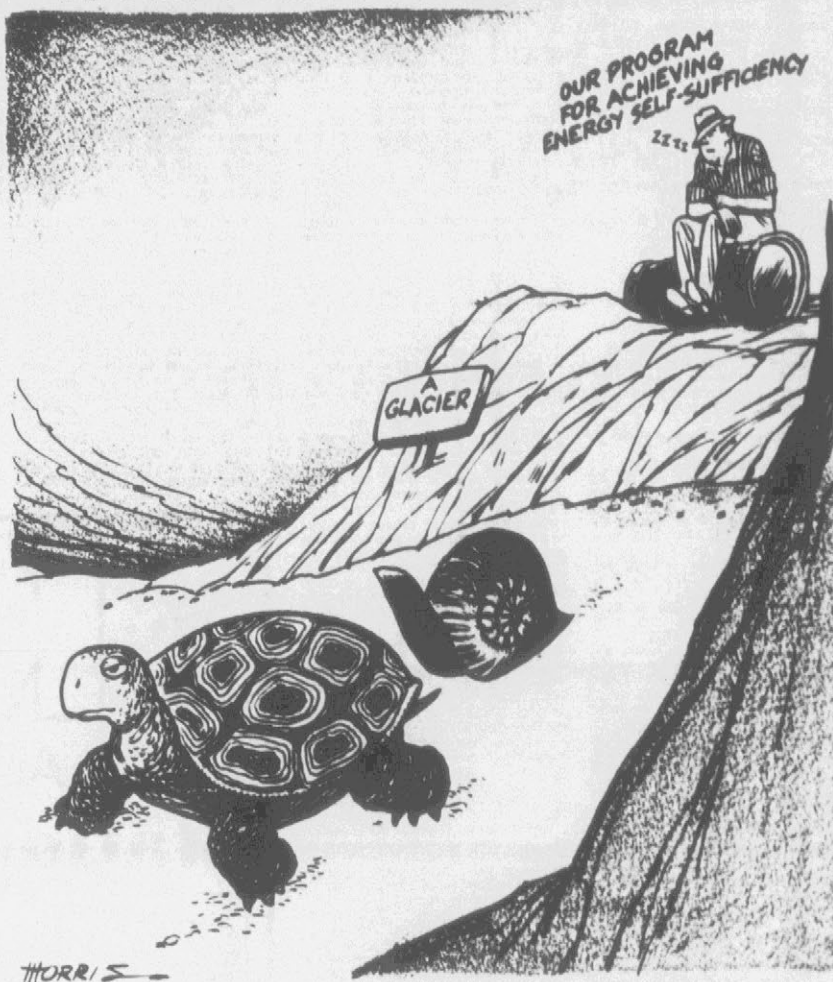

Perhaps the American people, by electing Democrat Jimmy Carter in November, will want to throw that brake away. It would be an act of reckless folly, and I would say the same thing if the situation ever were reversed. Our political system depends upon checks and balances. Discard these, and the system collapses.

This is the danger, in my own view, that ought to be studied. The Democrats, of course, argue that the division of power between a Republican

White House and a Democratic Congress produces only stalemated and stagnation. The Democrats chafe at the vetoes; they are impatient with obstacles in their way. With Carter they could "get the country going again." On major domestic issues, involving health, education, welfare, labor and regulatory power, they would have it all their own way.

If that is a glorious prospect in liberal quarters, it will leave the rest of us uneasy. "Beware of energetic governments," warned Jefferson. "They are always oppressive." When power is divided, a President has a brake — in the veto, in the power of Supreme Court nominations, in the naming of departmental heads. When power is consolidated under one-party rule, we have a government that is all throttle, with no brake at all.

KEEPING A FIRM GRIP ON FOURTH PLACE

By GAIL MICHAELS

Rice And Weddings Go Together Very Well

My sister-in-law, Marty, got married last weekend. Perhaps you remember Marty from past columns. She's the one who fainted when I got my ears pierced and whose efforts at baking Christmas cookies dyed my kitchen floor red and green and produced some rather unusual creations that even Phillip wouldn't eat. The only consolation was that for two months after her agile handling of the decorations, whenever I was in a hurry I could roller skate from the sink to the oven on little silver sugar balls.

Marty's culinary prowess was the subject of one of the toasts at her rehearsal dinner. Her sister, Gail, who was intrepid enough to let Marty cook for her one whole summer, said that there was only one kind of toast that would suit the occasion — burnt. Instead of wishing the couple a long and happy life, she wished them frequent nights of eating out.

Now Gail, Phillip, and I, from entirely altruistic motives, of course, got to talking about Marty's ineptitude in the kitchen and decided that the nicest wedding present we could give Marty and Brant would be a year's supply of a nutritious food staple — rice. And since we naturally didn't want to embarrass the bride by giving it to her outright, we decided to store it in a few of the less obvious places — like her shoes, her bags, her pocketbook, and her underwear. We even put some in her umbrella for a rainy day. We also wanted to put some in their car, but for some unfathomable reason, they had hidden it from us. So we, with the help of the remaining philanthropist in the Michaels' clan, Gregory, set out to find it.

First, we asked Brant's parents. We just wanted to give them a little present, we said; we wouldn't hurt the car. "Well, I would," his mother said. "I want to get back at him for all the things he's done to my car. Let me know if you find it." My heart was cheered. This woman was definitely worthy of being a Michaels' in-law.

Returning to our list of possible informants, we found someone whom the bride was stupid enough to trust — her father. "It's in Farmville," he confided gleefully.

So as soon as the reception started, Phillip and some cousinly benchmen set out for Farmville, while the rest of us stayed behind to keep up appearances. We knew that Marty wasn't as cool as she appeared to be when she swallowed the story that Phillip was in the bathroom the whole time the pictures were being taken.

But she was cooler than Gregory gave her credit for being. When in an attempt to unobtrusively follow the getaway car to Farmville and then take a shortcut to the other car, four bridesmaids in aqua chiffon and an usher in tails stuffed into a brown Mustang II with four bouquets of flowers on the dash ran a stop sign right in front of the getaway car, Gregory said. "Maybe they didn't see us."

They did, but it was okay because it was too late to change plans, and they had a lovely welcoming committee when they arrived at the apprehended vehicle, where, needless to say, the decorating committee had not restrained themselves to rice.

Which all leads into my belated toast to the couple: May your years together be as numerous as the balloons we managed to get in your car, and may your love for each other be as deep as the Mahatma rice in the floorboard.

Facing South Selina Burch Also Has Instincts Of A Tiger

ATLANTA — A stranger, upon first acquaintance with her, would be hard put to guess that Selina Burch is a labor leader. She looks and sounds like a middle-aged Georgia schoolteacher. She has the instincts of a teacher, she says in a soft voice. Teaching is what she does best.

She also has some of the instincts of a Bengal tigress, and the ability to work like a field hand. All three qualities have served her well in her rise to the position she holds today, at 48 — administrative assistant of the regional vice president of the Communication Workers of America (CWA).

The tone of an affectionate aunt slips into Selina's voice when she speaks of the members of her union — the switchboard operators, linemen, cable splicers and computer programmers employed by the Bell Telephone System. "The kids," she calls the younger members. A large part of her career has been the teaching of these "kids." She was an instructor for Southern Bell when she was elected president of the Charleston, S.C., local; she has directed many job steward training programs throughout the South; most recently, she revamped a CWA leadership school at the University of Georgia to include courses in race relations and sex discrimination.

She has not forgotten that she began as a switchboard operator herself, age 17, in Dublin, Georgia, her hometown. She recalls joining in a strike against Southern Bell in 1947 when she had been working for two years.

"We could have swamped the switchboard with calls and driven the company nuts. But we did not want to inconvenience Mother Bell in any way. It was part of our Southern upbringing: we respected authority at all costs."

Quote

"Mean and mighty, rotting together, have one dust." — William Shakespeare.

In the 29 years since, Ma Bell has not always behaved like a Southern lady and neither has Selina Burch. In 1955, at age 27, she became the youngest person ever to join the CWA staff. She was sent as a troubleshooter to Louisiana where Southern Bell employees were poorly organized. A nationwide strike earlier in the year had left the company bitter toward CWA. Southern Bell had fired 248 workers — 40 of them Louisianans — who had participated in the strike. Selina was a young woman and a stranger to Louisiana. She was anxious to prove herself, but Southern Bell ignored all her requests for a hearing of the grievances of the discharged workers. Leaders of locals in North Louisiana began to question her competence and authority. She was shouted down at a meeting of the Monroe, La., local. Cornered, the Georgia "schoolteacher" fought back.

"I learned that the one thing that made Mother talk was money." In Louisiana,

In private, Moynihan has deflected the Nixon stigma in Democratic political circles by telling of a post-1968 election luncheon with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy at Locke-Ober's in Boston in which he revealed President-elect Nixon's offer of a White House post. Kennedy made no objection. If he had, says Moynihan, he would have turned down the job.

Whether Moynihan should have spent the Nixon years as an outside Democratic critic or an inside Democratic moderator is a murky question breeding honest disagreement. But there is no fuzziness in the starkly different ways in which Bella Abzug and Pat Moynihan see transcendent questions of human rights, world peace and national survival. The Democrats of New York have a rare chance to choose between their party's opposite poles.

Americans elect the president of the United States, but the rest of the world has to live with him. What the Japanese fear most would be a U.S. president with whom they have had no previous contact, and who is ignorant of the Far East.

Foreign office sources say the roster of people Carter consults about foreign policy is reassuring. It includes former Undersecretary of State George Ball, Columbia University Professor Zbigniew Brzezinski and Cyrus Vance, former Army secretary and diplomat.

All are personally known to Japanese government leaders and diplomats. All have shown a strong grasp of the Japanese-American relationship.

Carter himself has taken a practical interest in Japan in a way the Japanese like. It began during his 1971-75 term as governor of Georgia when Carter was anxious to promote foreign investment in his state.

In 1972 he got an introduction to then Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira, who was visiting in Washington. Carter surprised Ohira with a request that Japan set up a consulate in Atlanta. He won Ohira's agreement, and Chiba was sent to Atlanta to open the office in 1974.

Carter later authorized a full time office for the Georgia State Bureau of Trade and Industry in Tokyo. More than 30 Japanese companies now have enterprises in Georgia.

Carter paid his first and only visit to Japan in May, 1975, after he left the governor's office and was actively campaigning for the Democratic nomination.

He came under the auspices of the Trilateral Commission, which promotes informal contacts among business and political leaders in advanced countries.

American Army Saved By Unsung John Glover

By SID MOODY

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Brooklyn, N.Y., came close to being a temporary if not final resting place of the Revolution of 1776.

After the Battle of Long Island, George Washington, to put it charitably, had his troops in a wringer. The remains of his Long Island army were penned on a small beachhead just south of where the Brooklyn Bridge today comes ashore. It had been raining for two days, and the soldiers' powder was too wet to flash.

Just over the muddy parapets were 20,000 waterproof British and Hessian bayonets. The 9,000 Americans had hardly any.

To make matters worse, the Commander-in-Chief, in another outbreak of un-wisdom, had brought in reinforcements from New York to Brooklyn instead of evacuating vice versa.

The only things that saved him from his folly were Sir William Howe's baffling forbearance and a continuing northeast storm that kept Howe's hungry warships at bay.

Fortunately it did not take Washington long to recognize that a retreating army was preferable to no army at all. He summoned Colonel John Glover and his regiment of Marblehead seamen. He told Glover to assemble the "hay boats, canoes and batteaus" to bring over some troops from Paulus Hook (Bayonne-Jersey City).

But when Glover reached the waterfront, he found the boats empty. The Brooklyn troops were coming off, God and the British willing. Glover would do the job.

Glover's story tells much about why this war was being fought, about why it was all but inevitable, about the sort of men who fought it and about why it could be won.

Glover was born in 1732, the same year as Washington. He held a rum license and made enough money to become a ship owner and merchant. His first vessel, a 60-ton schooner, took fish and lumber to Barbados in 1763, and the next year brought rum and sugar in from Jamaica.

When Britain closed Boston after the Tea Party, Marblehead stood to profit handsomely at the expense of its sister port. But her seamen and merchants agreed to comply with Congress's embargo. Any ship entering Marblehead had the choice of sailing back to Britain or having her goods auctioned off by a Committee of Inspection (of which Glover was a member) and the profits turned over for Boston relief.

Lord North's Restraining Act which closed the Grand Banks to New England fishing was only a final postscript for a town in revolt.

After Lexington and Concord Glover was made a colonel on July 22, 1775, and marched to Cambridge with the regiment of 505 Marbleheaders he had raised.

When the wind changed at about 11 p.m. on Aug. 29, giving the British a chance to take Brooklyn from behind, Washington had until daybreak to disembark his men.

"To move so large a body of troops across a river a full mile wide, with a rapid current, in the face of a victorious, well-disciplined army nearly three times as numerous as his own, and a fleet capable of stopping the navigation so that not one boat could pass over, seemed to present most formidable obstacles," wrote Colonel Benjamin Tallmadge of Connecticut, who was there.

Washington would try. By 10 p.m. the troops began filing back to the landing, leaving a few men to feed the campfires and echo sentry calls. At 2 a.m. the next morning an American cannon mysteriously exploded, but the British did nothing.

Just as British pickets were beginning to nose close to the American lines, the weather gods bestowed their first of several blessings on George Washington. A fog lingered over the harbor.

Washington, who had not slept in three days, was almost invisible as he rode back and forth on a gray charger hurrying the men into Glover's boats.

About 8 a.m. the fog began to lift. Graydon looked across the river and could see the first astonished British troops climbing over the defenses. No one was there, only a few cannon.

Glover had taken off every last man, the very last being George Washington.

Texas County Has Oil, Gas; No Water

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
MENTONE, Tex. (AP) —
Welcome to Mentone, home of 20 or so good ole boys, a surly old sheriff, Newt's beer palace and a treasure chest of oil and natural gas.

degree, oil deposits. Its poverty is measured in drinking water — there is none.
Despite an estimated tax base of $26 million this year, there is not enough money to purchase a pipeline capable of serving the county's scattered inhabitants.
It would appear, however, that if the property value were evenly distributed among the 112, each could winter on the Riviera.
And maybe a Rolls Royce for the sheriff.
"Everything here is unique," said a courthouse sage.
"Course, there ain't a helluva lot here."

what is known as the West Texas Desert ... It is the least populated county in the United States, with 112 people in an area covering 647 square miles.
(That computes out to more than five square miles per person, although a third of the population is clustered in Mentone.)
Other than a handful of children, almost everyone is either a rancher, an oilfield worker, a county employe or retired.
"Mentone ... has a post office, schoolhouse, courthouse, a service station and a cafe. The county has no doctor, no hospital, no Chamber of Commerce," the legend discloses.

"The Rondo Mills 4-H Club and the Loving County Historical Survey Committee are the only civic organizations."
Mentone, incidentally, derives its name from a homesick surveyor from Menton, France. And the county is the namesake of Oliver Loving, a Kentuckian who succumbed to a Comanche bullet in 1867.
The two teachers of the Loving County Independent School District hold court daily for about a dozen children in grades one through six.
The 17 junior high and high schoolers attend class at Wink, 31 miles east in Winkler County.

The Pecos River water is salty almost to the point of being brine.
Although most livestock can drink the water, ranchers as well as residents must haul fresh water from as far away as Pecos.
One of the problems, too, is that most of the Loving County land owners live elsewhere. They lease the mineral and surface rights to ranchers and oil companies.
Few inhabitants have enjoyed overnight riches.
A lucrative natural gas discovery some two years ago, coupled with skyrocketing gas prices, aroused new and vigorous interest by major petroleum companies.

They do not seem overly concerned about the water problem. Nor is Newt Keen.
Scratching his short cropped, reddish gray hair, Newt allowed as how it might be nice to have a water system, but not if it brought sweeping changes to Mentone.
"I'd just as soon it stay like it is," he said. "Really, though, I guess I just don't give a damn."

Most Railroad Track In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas has the greatest mileage of railroad line in the United States.
The Association of American Railroads says Texas has 13,306 miles of railroad tracks, followed by Illinois with 10,572 miles, Pennsylvania with 8,020 miles, Ohio with 7,727 miles, Kansas with 7,616 miles and Iowa with 7,587.

Someone put it this way: "Only those things, animal or vegetable, that can withstand dry weather, blazing sun and blistering wind survive and thrive ... You got to be someone raised in these red hills to live here."
Other than a trillion dollars worth of oil and gas, and Newt's oasis, there's not a great deal that can be said for Loving County and its lusty little capital city.
The closest thing to a brochure says:
"Loving County is located in

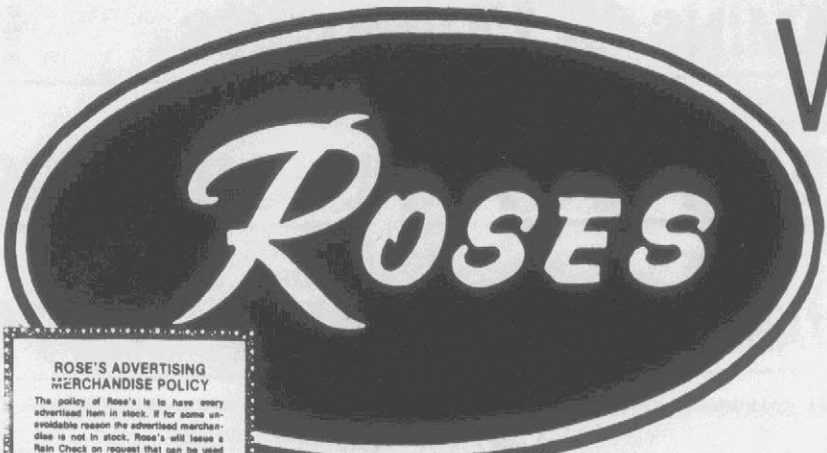

Fireman, 83, Finally Retires

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 54 years as a fireman, George Washington Ryst, 83, retired recently.
He joined the department in 1922, became a lieutenant in 10 years, and captain in another eight. For the past 22 years, he has worked at fire prevention.
When San Francisco made retirement mandatory at 65, those already working for the department were exempted, so Ryst stayed on.

Many of the county officials, while maintaining legal residences in Loving County, find it more convenient to live in Pecos, 23 miles to the south, or Kermit, 32 miles to the east.
The problem is the water. Not quantity but quality.
An ample supply of underground water exists, but it contains gypsum mineral deposits. Oldtimers say there are only four "good" wells in the coun-

Red Sovine's Payoff Cut Off By Fall

By ELIZABETH A. HARRIS NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Red Sovine, his leg encased in a 20-pound plaster cast, fidgeted in his wheelchair and winced.

It was difficult to tell if the grimace was due to a dull, constant ache in the leg, broken in two places, or the thought of losing $10,000 a week in canceled engagements.

Sovine, a country music veteran, tumbled off a make-shift stage in Deadwood, S.D., during a concert Aug. 7. Since then, he has been recuperating at his modest brick bungalow in a working-class Nashville suburb.

The fall ended a lucrative tour intended to capitalize on his No. 1 smash "Teddy Bear," a tear-jerker about a crippled boy, his CB radio and some good-hearted truckers.

Confined to a wheelchair, the scrawny, knobby-kneed singer has had time to think about the bitter events that have soured the summer of his greatest success.

His wife of 36 years died in early June and did not live to see his song zoom to the top in Billboard in a record five weeks.

"That just took all the sting out of 'Teddy Bear' because she wasn't here to enjoy it with me," he said, removing his thick-lensed hornrim and brushing tears from his eyes.

The instant success of his song left him little time to grieve until the accident in Deadwood. A simple, intensely sentimental man, he has tried to find an acceptable explanation for the abrupt turn of events.

"I may be stupid, but I think there's a reason for this," he said thumping the bum leg. "I got up on that stage all right, but something made me go off it another way and I went flyin'."

"Now I had to be in Cadillac, Mich., the next day and the day after that in San Antonio. I can't help but think there could have been a tractor-trailer out there waitin' to hit my van."

Sovine, 58, is an old-school country singer who has a hit about once every five years and it is difficult for him to disguise his frustration and bitterness.

"What gets you is you struggle along to get a smash like 'Teddy Bear' and then this happens to you," he said, his deep voice quavering with emotion.

But Sovine, born in Charleston, W. Va., of stubborn Irish stock, is already making plans to recoup his losses.

"I'm gonna hire me two big ol' boys to pick up the wheelchair and carry me around for the next couple of months. And I'm gonna get me a bus so we can get back on the road. I won't play no clubs, 'cause they're too dark and I could bump into somethin'."

"But if the doctor says it's okay, I'll be playin' fairs and outdoor concerts startin' back this weekend."

"I might as well. It's silly to sit here and waste it."

Signals Bounce Off The Moon

COLLIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — In the multitude of communication media, Paul Wilson has utilized one of the most unusual forms.

From his home here, Wilson manipulates a homemade, 18-foot metal "dish" atop a 35-foot platform in his back yard and bounces radio signals off the moon.

Wilson, a TV technician, constructed the radio device from surplus U.S. Army communication parts in a span of three years.

After completion of the transmitter in 1964, Wilson said, he was able to bounce his microwave signals off the moon and another amateur radio hobbyist in Maryland picked them up.

"It was the first time any amateur on this frequency had made contact like that," Wilson said.

group musicianship classes for students age 8-18; (2) Music for mini-classes for children ages 5-6; (3) Beginning group for children ages 7-8; and (4) Keyboard musicianship classes for students of junior and senior high school ages.

Registration deadline for the programs is September 3, with classes to begin September 13.

Persons interested in enrolling children are asked to contact Nagode at 757-6852 or 758-5672 for additional information and for the schedule of fees to be charged for the lessons.

Gym Team To Perform At ACC

THE DANISH GYM TEAM... opens its 1976-77 U.S. tour with a performance on campus at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, September 8. Admission is 50 cents for students and $1.50 for adults.

The Danish Gym Team will begin its 1976-77 tour of the United States with a performance on the campus of Atlantic Christian College, on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 8 p.m., in Wilson Gymnasium. The event is to be sponsored by the ACC Concert and Lecture Committee.

The team performs a variety of modern Danish gymnastics for men and women and a selection of Danish folk dances in colorful native costumes. Most of the program is accompanied by music and the folk dances are performed to old Danish folk songs.

The young men and women of the team, most in their early twenties, are selected from the most skillful gymnasts in Denmark and perform without salary out of their dedication to physical education. The team is a non-profit organization approved by the Danish government.

The Danish Gym Team has performed in many countries around the world and has received enthusiastic reviews wherever it has appeared since its beginning in 1939. The team had the honor of performing at the closing ceremonies of the Mexico City Olympics in 1976.

Tickets will be available at the door. The public is invited.

Kenansville Events

The Tar Heel Fine Arts Society, in conjunction with the James Sprunt Technical Institute of Kenansville, has announced three events for the 1976-77 Concert Series.

On Thursday, November 18, the De Cormier Singers will appear in a concert entitled Folk Song USA. A fully staged, lighted performance, the concert relates history to traditional American songs. Music covers the Revolution period, the western expansion and the Civil War, and continues through the time of the Dust Bowl, along with the blues and spirituals of Black America.

The second event will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, January 4, 1977 and features the Glenn Miller Orchestra. Music of the big band era of the 40s will bring back songs like Chattanooga Choo-Choo, String of Pearls, I'm Getting Sentimental Over You and the famous "serenade," songs of the old Miller Band—Serenade in Blue, Sunrise Serenade, and Moonlight Serenade.

On March 29 at 8 p.m., the final performance for the season will be that of The Sky Blue Water Boys. The five musicians making up the band will present their own brand of Texas swing and country. Formerly a rock group, the band now has gone to country music and will be heard in songs like Lonesome Fugitive, Pretend I Never Happened and Little Wing.

Tickets, which include membership in the society, are $7.50 for adults and $3 for students age six and older. Children under five are admitted free. These are available from The Tar Heel Fine Arts Society, P.O. Box 428, Kenansville, N. C. 28349.

—A Review—

Views On Seven Authors

Seven Founders of American Literature. By Carla Hancock. Winston-Salem, 1976. John F. Blair, publisher. Illustrated. 207 pps, $8.95.

The seven American writers of the 19th century covered in this admirable brief survey were not complacent, settled men with deep community roots to sustain their literary energies.

While Carla Hancock offers nothing new, biographically, on the lives of the seven writers, her selective, touch-of-freshness approach makes this a book ideal for young readers and a compact, informative source book for readers of all ages.

The seven—beginning with Washington Irving, born in 1783, ending Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), born 1835, were all born within a time span of just a little more than half a century. Between Irving and Twain are James Fenimore Cooper, 1789; William Cullen Bryant, 1794; Edgar Allan Poe, 1809; Herman Melville and Walt Whitman, both 1819.

The author leans heavily on biographical data in each sketch, yet she provides salient observations of the history of the times and how it affected the lives of the writers and the reading habit of 19th century Americans.

Comparisons of similar factors shaping the lives of the writers confirm the old proverb that the road to achievement is paved with many rough stones. For each, money or rather lack of it spurred them to write more, even when circumstances for being creative were not ideal.

Restlessness too was a marked trait in each of their lives, the characteristic American restlessness that meant changing jobs and moving from place to place. All seven traveled considerably.

Irving tramped to Canada and later went to Europe for his health, living in England and in Spain. Later in life, with an international reputation as the first great "American" writer, Irving served as Minister to Spain.

Cooper traveled in Europe, alienating Europeans (and many Americans) with his outspoken anti-British attitudes.

Poe lived in England and Scotland as a child, where school assignments of copying tombstone inscriptions undoubtedly influence his melancholy bent.

All who ever read Melville's fiction are familiar with his voyages which he translated into exotic novels such as "Omoo" and "Typee."

Whitman, the greatest poet of the seven, was the only one of the group who never traveled abroad. Yet his life was one of wanderlust, of changing occupations and indecisions. Whitman, like Irving, remained a bachelor all his life.

Of the seven "founders" of new styles and departures in American literature, only Mark Twain lived into the 20th century. It is revealing that Twain, more than any of the others, exhibited the dominant American urge to succeed for monetary rewards.

As a collective group the seven 19th century writers who are the subject of Seven Founders of American Literature were men driven to creative fullness by the hovering shadow of necessity. That they managed to find the time and will power to give their own and all succeeding generations a legacy of American literature is something of a miracle of achievement.

The story of their lives raises some interesting speculations. One is whether given different and easier circumstances, would their individual sparks of genius have flowered as fully? Ms. Hancock has given us fascinating clues to possible answers.

Seven Founders of American Literature should encourage readers to discover or re-discover the literature these seven writers gave America in the 19th century.

SUMMER CLOUDS . . . with their changeable shapes of light and dark are good photographic subjects, for black and white or color shots. Framing clouds with branches, buildings, an open window or some other framework adds to the effectiveness of cloud pictures. Inclusion of more foreground would have been helpful here.

Big Apple Can Be Inexpensive

NEW YORK ON $15 A DAY (1976-77 Edition). By Joan Hamburg & Norma Ketay. Arthur Frommer. 201 Pages. $3.95

This compact little book proves conclusively you can still take a bite of the big apple without going broke.

It is a gold mine of useful tips for visitor and New Yorker alike, pointing the way to inexpensive restaurants, out of the way little shops, and the more conventional tourist attractions.

The title, however, is a misnomer. The $15 refers only to accommodations, and three more-or-less square meals a day. So, if you are planning to "do" New York on just $15 a day, you'd better be prepared to do nothing more than walk through the city — which isn't such a bad way to see New York anyway.

But having said that, let me add that this is a book which every visitor to New York would do well to study. While it emphasizes the city's less expensive features it also points out some of its most glittering places — just in case you feel like splurging.

And the list of tourist attractions, museums, shopping areas, bars and even children's sights is both exhaustive and meticulously compiled by the authors, who personally check out every site mentioned in each edition of the book.

They have been doing it for 16 years, and as they say in the introduction, "we were in love with New York then, and now, 16 years later, we still are."

Her love for the city, its sights, its smells and its people, comes through on every page, infecting the reader with a desire to share their enthusiasm.

But this is not just a book to whet the appetite for a visit to New York. It is also a strategic planner for those who are already there.

Even the dyed-in-the-wool New Yorker who thinks he knows all there is to know about the city can discover new restaurants in its pages and learn about shops and services he never realized were available — with name, address and phone number.

These women lost their lives in the Colorado flood...

*Terri Bissinger

*June Fujiwara

*Rae Ann Johnston
Crystal, North Dakota*

Barbie Leyden Monroe, Michigan

Cathie Loomis Seattle, Washington

*Precy Thonogdo
Quezon City, Philippines*

Carol Rhoad Grantville, Pennsylvania

But they are still alive. They have a message for you.

On July 31 these women hastily left a weekend retreat in the Colorado Rockies. They had been warned to flee a flash flood which was roaring down the canyon. They started out, but never reached the bottom of the canyon alive. More than 100 others also lost their lives in the Big Thompson Canyon that same night.

A tragedy, people say. It is certain that these seven women who were part of the staff of Campus Crusade for Christ International will be deeply missed by family, friends and fellow staff members.

But what these women and their families would want you to know is that they are more alive than ever—in heaven. That they lived a full and wonderful life on this earth. And that they now are better off in the presence of the loving God and Savior whom they served.

If you were to die today, do you know for certain that you would go to heaven? Would you spend eternity in heaven with Christ or separated from Him forever. For those who have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, death's sting has been taken away. God is our refuge and strength. A very present help in trouble.

He reaches out in love to all men and women, offering His forgiveness, peace and comfort through Jesus Christ. So there is no reason to fear life or death.

Jesus said, "I am the resurrection, and the life; whoever believes in Me shall live even if he dies, and everyone who lives and believes in Me shall never die" (John 11:25,26).

A personal relationship with Jesus Christ doesn't begin at death—but it is available to you now—in life. Twenty-eight other women leaders of Campus Crusade for Christ International left that retreat with these seven. They are still alive—physically as well as spiritually.

But they also have a more keen awareness of the delicate balance between life and death. And more than 5,000 other staff of Campus Crusade for Christ have a keener awareness of life. For them, life is Christ. For the women who died, Christ is life. The message that follows explains what these women want you to know—how you can find new life in Jesus Christ. They had committed themselves to sharing this message in life or in death.

Just as there are physical laws that govern the physical universe, so are there spiritual laws which govern your relationship with God.

LAW ONE

GOD LOVES YOU, AND OFFERS A WONDERFUL PLAN FOR YOUR LIFE.

(References should be read in context from the Bible wherever possible.)

God's Love

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

God's Plan

(Christ speaking) "I came that they might have life, and might have it abundantly" (that it might be full and meaningful) (John 10:10).

Why is it that most people are not experiencing the abundant life? Because...

LAW TWO

MAN IS SINFUL AND SEPARATED FROM GOD. THEREFORE, HE CANNOT KNOW AND EXPERIENCE GOD'S LOVE AND PLAN FOR HIS LIFE.

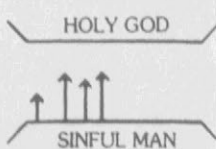

Man Is Sinful

"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).

Man was created to have fellowship with God; but, because of his stubborn self-will, he chose to go his own independent way and fellowship with God was broken. This self-will, characterized by an attitude of active rebellion or passive indifference, is evidence of what the Bible calls sin.

Man Is Separated

"For the wages of sin is death" (spiritual separation from God) (Romans 6:23).

This diagram illustrates that God is holy and man is sinful. A great gulf separates the two. The arrows illustrate that man is continually trying to reach God and the abundant life through his own efforts, such as a good life, philosophy or religion.

The third law explains the only way to bridge this gulf...

LAW THREE

JESUS CHRIST IS GOD'S ONLY PROVISION FOR MAN'S SIN. THROUGH HIM YOU CAN KNOW AND EXPERIENCE GOD'S LOVE AND PLAN FOR YOUR LIFE.

He Died in Our Place

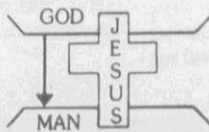

"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).

He Rose from the Dead

"Christ died for our sins... He was buried... He was raised on the third day, according to the Scriptures... He appeared to Peter, then to the twelve. After that He appeared to more than five hundred..." (1 Corinthians 15:3-6).

He Is the Only Way to God

"Jesus said to him, 'I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me'" (John 14:6).

This diagram illustrates that God has bridged the gulf which separates us from God by sending His Son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross in our place to pay the penalty for our sins.

It is not enough just to know these three laws...

LAW FOUR

WE MUST INDIVIDUALLY RECEIVE JESUS CHRIST AS SAVIOR AND LORD; THEN WE CAN KNOW AND EXPERIENCE GOD'S LOVE AND PLAN FOR OUR LIVES.

We Must Receive Christ

"But as many as received Him, to them He gave the right to become children of God, even to those who believe in His name" (John 1:12).

We Receive Christ through Faith

"For by grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not as a result of works, that no one should boast" (Ephesians 2:8,9).

When We Receive Christ, We Experience a New Birth.

(Read John 3:1-8.)

We Receive Christ by Personal Invitation

(Christ is speaking): "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any one hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him" (Revelation 3:20).

Receiving Christ involves turning from self to God (repentance and trusting Christ to come into our lives to forgive our sins and to make us the kind of person He wants us to be. Just to agree intellectually that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that He died on the cross for our sins is not enough. Nor is it enough to have an emotional experience. We receive Jesus Christ by faith, as an act of the will.

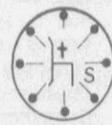

These two circles represent two kinds of lives:

SELF-DIRECTED LIFE

- S—Self on the throne
- †—Christ is outside the life
- Interests are directed by self, often resulting in discord and frustration

CHRIST-DIRECTED LIFE

- †—Christ is in the life and on the throne
- S—Self is yielding to Christ
- Interests are directed by Christ, resulting in harmony with God's plan.

Which circle best represents your life?

Which circle would you like to have represent your life?

YOU CAN RECEIVE CHRIST RIGHT NOW BY FAITH THROUGH PRAYER

(Prayer is talking with God)

God knows your heart and is not so concerned with your words as He is with the attitude of your heart. The following is a suggested prayer:

"Lord Jesus, I need You. Thank You for dying on the cross for my sins. I open the door of my life and receive You as my Savior and Lord. Thank You for forgiving my sins and giving me eternal life. Take control of the throne of my life. Make me the kind of person You want me to be."

Does this prayer express the desire of your heart?

If it does, pray this prayer right now, and Christ will come into your life, as He promised.

Monday, Morales Paces Chicago To 5-2 Victory Over The Braves

By JOE MOOSHL, AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Monday rapped three hits, including his 24th home run, and Jerry Morales knocked in three runs with a single and his 15th homer Saturday, leading Steve Renko and the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Monday homered in the third, singled home a run in the fifth and scored on Morales' two-run single in the fifth which kayoed starter Dick Ruthven, 13-13. Morales homered in the eighth off reliever Mike Marshall.

Renko, 6-7, yielded only three hits and struck out nine, tops for a Cubs pitcher this season but was relieved by Bruce Sutter after seven innings. Ruthven singled off Renko with two out in the third and Willie Montanez beat out an infield single in the fifth and scored ahead of Ken Henderson's 12th home run. Renko did not allow a hit after that, and struck out five of the next six batters.

Mick Kelleher opened the Chicago fifth with a single, and Renko also singled before Monday stroked an RBI single. Jose Cardenal walked, loading the bases before Morales singled, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Cincinnati Rallies To Nip Philadelphia, 8-7

By NORM CLARKE, AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning lifted the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in Saturday's nationally televised game.

Concepcion, who drove four runs, lined the game-winning hit to left center off Ron Reed, capping the ninth inning uprising after the Phils had scored three times in the top of the inning for a 7-6 lead.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez opened the ninth with singles off Tug McGraw, 6-5, and after Perez went to second on the throw to third, Reed issued an intentional pass to Cesar Geronimo, loading the bases. Concepcion then delivered his winning hit.

Rawly Eastwick, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, got credit for the victory, raising his record to 9-4.

Dave Cash and Larry Bowa opened Philadelphia's ninth with singles off Manny Sarmiento, Maddox greeted Eastwick with a triple to right-center. Mike Schmidt's sacrifice fly drove in Maddox.

Jay Johnstone hit a two-run homer in the eighth for the Phils.

Pete Rose wiped out a 1-0 Philadelphia lead in the third with his 10th homer of the year, his sixth hit in seven at-bats against Jim Lonborg this season.

Joe Morgan slammed his 26th homer of the season in the fifth, boosting his RBI total to a career-high 96. He is four shy of becoming the first second baseman in 26 years to drive in 100 runs.

Patek Leads Kansas City

By PHIL CANADAY, AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Shortstop Fred Patek drove in two runs and Kansas City relievers stopped Boston Saturday as the Royals downed the Red Sox 8-3.

Buck Martinez hit a home run, Jim Wohlford collected three hits, while Patek, Amos Otis and Cookie Rojas each had two hits for the American League West Division-leading Royals.

Otis had a pair of doubles, Patek and Rojas one each and Wohlford slammed a triple.

Yastrzemski drove in a run in the sixth with a single, but Kansas City got it back in the seventh when Patek doubled and scored on a single by Al Cowens. The Royals added three runs in the ninth. Martinez hit a solo homer, and three hits and a Boston error produced two more.

Toronto Is Champ

SEATTLE (AP) — Eusebio boomed home a direct free kick in the first half and his Toronto teammates added two more goals in the second half to take a 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Kicks Saturday in Soccer Bowl '76, the North American Soccer League championship.

The Metros, playing before a record championship game crowd of 25,765 in the Kingdome and a national television audience, became the 10th different NASL champion in as many years.

Dierker Leads Astro Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Larry Dierker fired a five-hitter and blasted a fourth-inning home run Saturday, helping the Houston Astros beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.

Dierker, 13-12, survived a two-run St. Louis first-inning in posting his seventh complete game of the season. Cardinals starter Bob Forsch, 5-10, allowed all four Houston runs.

Raymond Floyd Pulls Into Share Of Lead As Rain Suspends Classic

By BOB GREEN
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Masters champion Ray Floyd birdied the 12th hole and moved into a share of the lead Saturday just before play was halted in the storm-delayed and uncompleted third round of the $200,000 American Golf Classic.

Floyd, Australian David Graham and Jerry McGee, all tied for the lead and all among the 26 players stranded on the course, marked their positions and will return at 8:30 a.m. Sunday to complete their rounds.

A series of violent thunderstorms forced a 2 hour, 55 minute delay early in the afternoon and rolling thunder that signaled the approach of still another one finally called a halt to the day's play at 6:01 p.m. EDT.

Officials held up play at that point and 29 minutes later finally called it off for the day.

Australians Earn Berth In Federation Finals

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Singles triumphs by Evonne Goolagong and Diane Fromholtz powered Australia to a victory over Great Britain in the semifinal round of the $130,000 Federation Cup tennis tournament Saturday.

The Australians thus earned a finals berth against the winner of The Netherlands-United States match Saturday night.

Miss Goolagong clinched the series for Australia with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Virginia Wade. It was the sixth straight time the Australian star has defeated her British opponent in tournament play this year.

Miss Goolagong, the 1971 Wimbledon champion, attacked Miss Wade with sharp, low drives and precision volleys to capture a 3-0 lead while allowing only three points in the first set of her match.

Miss Wade won her only game with an overhead smash that halted service at love. But Miss Goolagong took the next three games, running seven straight points, and ending the match with a service ace down the center.

In the opening match, Miss Fromholtz fought back from a 5-1 deficit in the second set to out Sue Barker 6-2, 7-6.

Miss Fromholtz won five straight games to take a 6-5 lead in the first set. But Miss Barker's forehead shots threw the game into a tie-breaker.

The Australian team won the tie-breaker by winning seven straight points.

The Australians completed the sweep when Miss Goolagong and Kerry Melville Reid defeated Miss Wade and Miss Barker, 6-1, 6-3.

The Goolagong-Reid team won the first eight games of the match but had to come from 4-3 in the second set.

Mrs. Reid ended the match with a return of service down the wing. Miss Barker let the ball go but it dropped in.

Earlier Saturday, the United States advanced to the semifinals by blanking Switzerland as Rosemary Casals and Billie Jean King won singles matches and teamed for a doubles victory.

Miss Casals defeated Monika Simmen 6-1, 6-1 and Ms. King downed Petra Delhees, the Swiss junior champion, 6-2, 6-1.

The Americans completed their sweep when Casals-King team defeated Miss Simmen and Susi Eichenberger 6-0, 6-1.

Miss Simmen got only eight points in the first five games of the set but fought off three set points to win the sixth game before giving up the set. In the second set, Miss Casals dropped the third game, then won the match by breaking service in the seventh game.

Ms. King built up a 3-0 lead in the first set and 4-0 in the second set before giving up games to Miss Delhees.

It appeared that Ms. King and Miss Casals would have to carry the burden for the United States in the tournament. Chris Evert, who had hoped to be here by the weekend, was still undergoing treatment in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for an inflamed tendon in the right hand.

Meanwhile, tournament officials Saturday scotched a report that Indonesia had withdrawn from the competition. Four other teams—Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and The Philippines—pulled out earlier to protest the presence of teams from Rhodesia and South Africa.

Mien Gondowidjojo, the Indonesian team captain, said the team had not been instructed to withdraw from the tournament. Word of the withdrawal came Friday from the Indonesian mission to the United Nations which said it opposed the apartheid racial policies of the two African nations.

Switzerland eliminated Indonesia in the opening round Tuesday, 3-0, and Indonesia also dropped a 3-0 consolation round to New Zealand Wednesday.

Floyd matched two birdies with as many bogeys on the front side and then moved into a share of the lead on the back nine, a surge that was stopped by the second storm.

"I had momentum," he said. "And momentum is important in every sport. But there's nothing you can do about it. They (the officials) made the right decision. It was lightning out there, and lightning is dangerous."

"I've now played 29 holes without a bogey. Not bad for me," he said.

Bertie Downs Roanoke, 25-14

WINDSOR—Bertie Senior High School took advantage of numerous penalties to pull off a 25-14 victory over Roanoke High School Friday night.

The Redskins rolled up 135 yards in penalties, as opposed to just 52 yards against the Falcons.

The Falcons got fine passing from quarterback Jack Curlings and outstanding running from Jerry Cooper, who blazed out 173 yards during the evening.

Bertie scored on its second possession of the first period. Logan Bass did the honors, taking a 25-yard pass from Curlings for a 6-0 lead.

Roanoke came back early in the second period to tie it up. Amache Burnes got the score, diving over from the two yard line.

But Bertie quickly roared back, scoring on the second play from scrimmage after the kickoff. Again, it was Curlings taking to the air, hitting Linwood Bazemore for a 71-yard bomb.

Bertie held a 12-6 lead at the half.

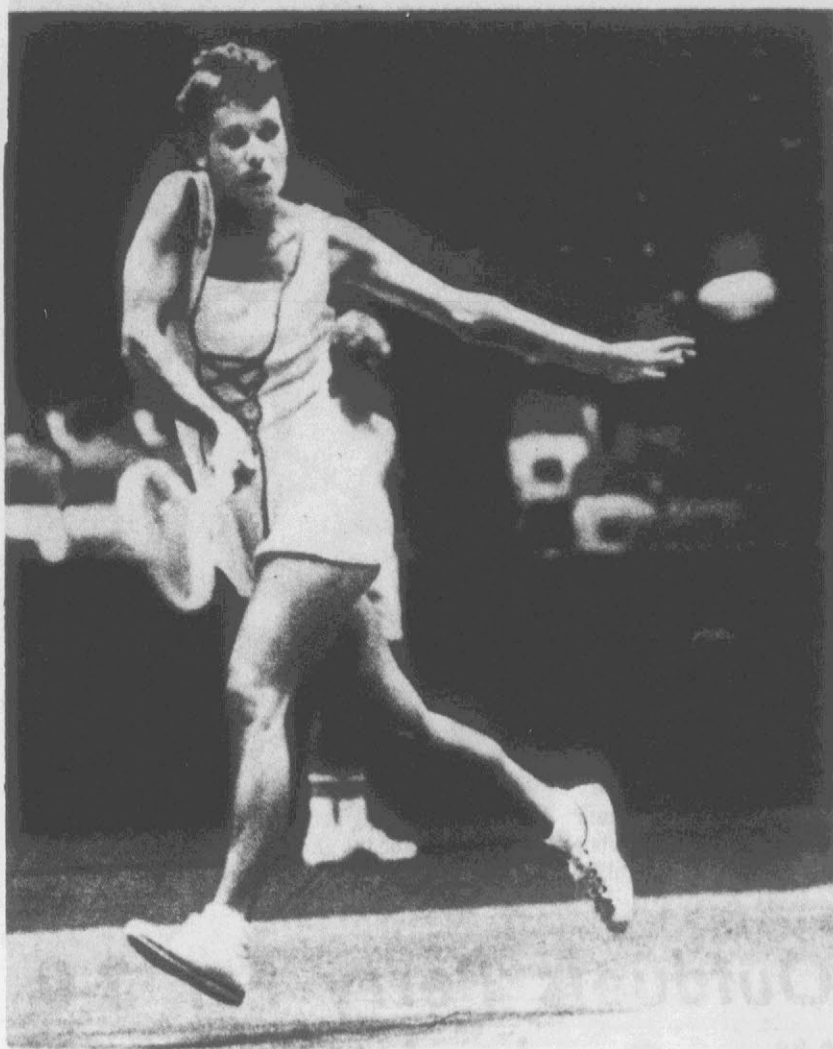

In the third period, the Falcons scored first on a four-yard run by Cooper, with Timmy Parker adding the PAT. Roanoke came back on a three-yard run by Williams, and a two-point conversion by him to trim the lead to 19-14, but that was to be it.

Bertie added one more score in the fourth period, as Curlings scored on a 13-yard run.

Roanoke travels to Rock Ridge on Friday for its first Eastern Plains Conference encounter.

Renee Richards Handed Defeat

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK Associated Press Writer SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Lea Antonoplis, battling from behind, outlasted controversial transsexual Renee Richards 6-7, 6-3, 6-0 in a semifinals of the Tennis Week Open played in hot and humid weather Saturday.

Miss Antonoplis, 17, of Glendora, Calif., repeatedly overcame break points.

In the eighth game of the first set she trailed love-40, but won five straight points to win the game to make it 4-4.

In her first public showing of outward emotion, Dr. Richards, 42, who last year underwent a sex change operation, threw her racket down in disgust after she netted the final point.

Miss Antonoplis, ranked number 3 nationally in the 18-and-under category, broke Dr. Richards' service to take a 6-5 lead. But Dr. Richards broke back in the next game to send the first set to a 12-point tiebreaker, which Dr. Richards won 7-3.

There was only one service break in the second set, by Miss Antonoplis in the sixth game, but the high school senior held on seven times when Dr. Richards was receiving for breaks.

Dr. Richards, an eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Calif., whose entry here led to the withdrawal of 25 women players, seemed to tire after the fifth game of the second set. She conceded the final point of the second set, and Miss Antonoplis clearly dominated her in the finale. In that final set Dr. Richards managed to win only eight points.

Miss Antonoplis will face Marise Kruger, South Africa, in Sunday's final. Miss Kruger beat France's Florence Guedy 6-3, 6-2 on Saturday.

In men's semifinal action, Ilie Nastase of Romania came from behind to beat Balazs Taroczy of Hungary 2-6, 6-1, 6-2 to advance to the finals.

Jake Dove Setting His Goals Higher In 1976

"Last year, my goal was to try and make All-Conference. This year, I'm aiming for something higher."

That's the feeling of defensive tackle Jake Dove of East Carolina. It might be more of a warning to Pirate foes this fall.

Dove, a 6-2, 240-pound senior from Havelock has already proven his talents on both sides of the line. After coming to East Carolina as a tight end, he was switched to defensive tackle.

The following spring, when graduation opened up some holes that found no willing candidates, Dove was moved again, this time to offensive tackle.

Finally, last year, the defensive line was cleaned out by graduation, and Dove again found himself on the "Move" list, ending up at the defensive tackle spot again.

Jake just might have been in tough situations to keep things going."

Dove knows about this, since he was once the younger player himself. "I've been on the other side. It's good to have someone who's been through it all before when you're tired or behind late in the game. That's when good examples are set. Some things a coach can't teach unless he's played a position. There are things that happen which coaches might never see that an experienced player will know how to react to."

As the big lineman wraps up his final collegiate year, he's thinking about the future too. "I would like to try pro ball if I get a chance. If that happens I'll play ball in season, then go to graduate school." A psychology major, Dove plans to go into counseling.

"I would like to help people with their problems. Most seem to start when people are kids as a result of their environment. I would like to think that I could help them see their way through the difficult times."

This year, however, Dove is going to be the problem himself—to those across the line from him.

Williamston Romps To 42-6 Win Over Gates

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School opened the 1976 football season Friday night with a smashing 42-6 victory over Gates County.

The Tigers dominated just about every phase of the game, as they ran up a 21-0 lead by halftime and matched that output in the second half.

Gates' lone touchdown was set up by a break play that should have been another Williamston touchdown according to Coach Dink Mills.

That came in the closing minutes of the third period. After forcing Gates into a punt formation, the Tiger defenders broke through and blocked the kick. One runner scooped up the ball and carried it in for a supposed score.

But the game officials threw a flag against the Tigers for roughing the kicker, returning the ball to Gates, with a first down at the Gates 43. Mills argued in vain that a player can't rough the kicker if he blocks the punt.

Gates drove 57 yards after that, with Richard Hinton pushing over from the one.

The Tigers used the reliable arm of Tim Hardison to get on the board after a scoreless first period. Early in the second frame, Hardison capped off a 64-yard drive with a 16-yard pass to Barry Wallace for the first score. Grady Winstead added the first of four PAT kicks for the night.

Just minutes later, Randy Freeman grabbed off a Gates pass, returning it to the 19. From there, Williamston drove to the eight, and Hardison carried it over himself from there.

Following a poor Gates punt, Williamston got the ball back late in the half, and ended a 36-yard drive with Mike Koesy taking an eight-yard pass from Hardison for a 21-0 lead at the half.

The Tigers promptly made it 27-0 as Tony Speller ran back the second half opening kickoff 87 yards for another Williamston

Waltrip Sits On The Pole

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Chevrolet driver Darrell Waltrip has won the pole position for a Gand National stock car race for the first time at Bristol International Speedway, but he faces a number of old hands in his bid for victory in Sunday's Volunteer 400.

The Daytona Beach, Fla., driver cracked the Volunteer 400 qualifying record Friday with a speed of 110.307 miles per hour over the high-banked track and just missed the speedway mark of 110.727 m.p.h. held by Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C.

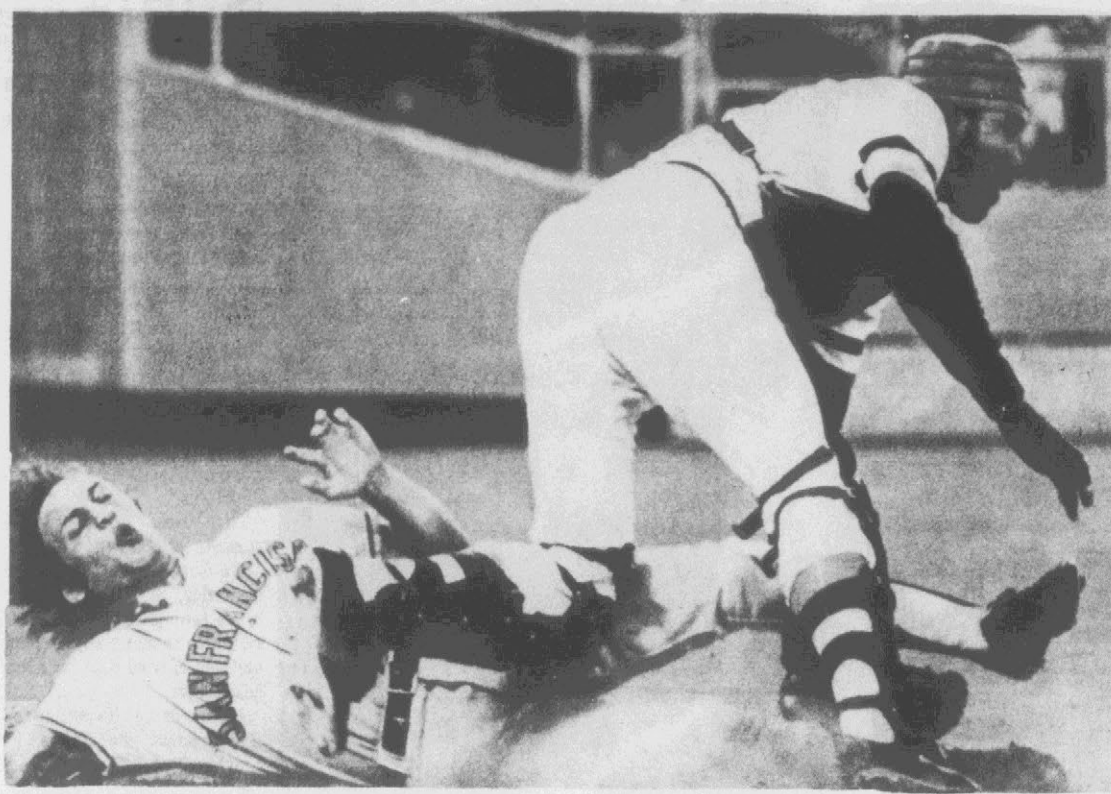

Second behind Waltrip as the first 10 drivers earned spots in Sunday's race was Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., who not only held the old qualifying record but already has won the other race here this year — the spring Southeastern 400.

Yarborough's speed in a Chevrolet was 110.123 m.p.h., compared with his old mark of 110.162 m.p.h. And Baker was third in a Ford with a speed of 109.401 m.p.h.

Chevrolet driver Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., earned the fourth spot with a speed of 109.314 m.p.h., and Dick Brooks of Porterville, Calif., was fifth in a Ford at 109.308 m.p.h.

Defending Volunteer 400 champion Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., qualified ninth in a Dodge at 108.217 m.p.h. Petty and Yarborough each has won the pole position for five races here.

Jones Finally Gets His 20th

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Randy Jones, the San Diego Padres' nervous left-hander finally took the pressure off himself and applied it to the Montreal Expos.

The result was that he choked off the Expos 2-0 on six hits Friday night and earned his 20th victory of the season—the first major leaguer to reach that plateau this year.

His game was to rely on his usually reliable sinkerball. And the plan worked to near-perfection. He retired 23 batters on grounders in handing the floundering Expos their 12th consecutive loss.

It also took Jones three tries to win his 20th last year.

Jones handcuffed the Expos in one hour, 38 minutes for his 22nd complete game of the season and his ninth under two hours.

In other NL games, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the New York Mets 5-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the San Francisco Giants 5-2, the Houston Astros edged the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, and the Chicago Cubs walloped the Atlanta Braves 9-4.

Reds 4, Phillies 1

Joe Morgan drove in two runs and stole three bases, Pete Rose scored twice and Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon combined on a seven-hitter, keying the Reds' victory in the battle of division leaders.

The Reds had not been going good recently, having lost eight of their previous 12 decisions. Their latest victory kept them eight games ahead of Los Angeles in the NL West.

Dodgers 5, Mets 2

Steve Yeager snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run double in the eighth inning, then scored Los Angeles' final run on Bill Buckner's single as the surging Dodgers won their 10th game in their last 11 starts.

Don Sutton, 16-8, pitched a five-hitter and struck out seven for his eighth victory in nine decisions.

Pirates 5, Giants 2

Richie Zisk drove in three runs with a triple and a home run, while Larry Demery stopped San Francisco on eight hits for his first complete game of the season. It was the third straight game in which Zisk homered.

John Montefusco, the Giants ace who had expressed a desire to be traded last Sunday, was battered for nine hits.

Astros 2, Cardinals 1

Rookie Bo McLaughlin, knocked out after one inning in his last start against St. Louis, stopped the Cardinals on five hits this time. "I had a little better stuff than the last time I faced them," he quipped. "I made up my mind I was going to challenge them."

Bob Watson's two-run double in the fourth was all the batting support McLaughlin needed.

Cubs 9, Braves 4

Jerry Morales, recovering from a back injury, rapped three singles and a homer for his first four-hit game of the season, and drove in four runs, powering the Cubs attack. Joe Wallis scored three runs and had two RBI for Chicago, helping Bill Bonham register his first victory since Aug. 2.

Looking For Track Boosters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The International Track Association isn't dead, it's just looking for someone with money who appreciates professional track and field.

Wednesday's announcement that ITA was suspending operations for 1976 was met in some quarters by skepticism that the pro track tour would ever be resumed. But Mike O'Hara says he is pointing for 1977.

"We are searching for a backer who believes in the same concept we do—that pro track has a place," said ITA's president and founder. "Our thrust this year was that ITA was going to put on quality meets or wasn't going to put them on at all."

O'Hara had visions of signing a handful of top-name track stars after the Montreal Olympics which ended Aug. 1, but the string of European track meets, with their lucrative "under the table" money offers, torpedoed his chances of signing the stars.

"Without more quality athletes, we were not able to put on quality meets, and I just thought it would be better for our image to wait until 1977."

He said that the bulk of the world's track talent went to Europe after the Games and will compete there through September. He said the lure of high expense money cut into his signing plans.

Palmer Outduels Perry For 3-0 Oriole Win; Gaylord Whiffs 11

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Jim Palmer's no All-Star... he's just the best pitcher in the American League.

Left off the AL All-Star team this year, the 1975 Cy Young Award winner captured his 18th victory of the season Friday night with a seven-hit, 10-strikeout performance in Baltimore's 3-0 win over the Texas Rangers.

"When I heard Palmer was pitching I knew I'd have to pitch a great game to beat him," said Texas hurler Gaylord Perry, who allowed just seven hits and fanned 11.

Palmer was miffed when he was left off the AL All-Star last month. At the time, last year's Cy Young winner was leading the league in victories.

In other AL games Friday night, Boston defeated Kansas City 9-4, Cleveland downed Minnesota 7-3, the Chicago White Sox stopped Milwaukee 5-2, Detroit clobbered Oakland 8-1 and the New York Yankees exploded in the 15th inning to stop California 5-0.

Yankees 5, Angels 0

Mickey Rivers slid under a tag at home plate to score the game's first run in the top of the 15th inning and New York added four more runs on Chris Chambliss' single and Willie Randolph's double to defeat California.

Both starting pitchers, Frank Tanana of California and the Yankees' Catfish Hunter went 13 scoreless innings, Tanana striking out 13 and scattering seven singles while Hunter surrendered 11 hits while fanning eight.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Mercer, N.J., Titans of the Atlantic Collegiate Baseball League won the league title for the first time in the history of the 10-year-old organization.

The six-team ACBL is a summer league for college baseball players. More than 130 former players have signed professional contracts and four have gone on to the major leagues, including Dennis Leonard, the ace of the Kansas City Royals pitching staff.

California Wins Title

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — North San Gabriel Valley, Calif., getting timely hitting from Catcher Todd Gauntlett, came back from a first game loss for a 6-0 victory over Mobile, Ala., in the nightcap Friday night to win the Babe Ruth World Series baseball championship for 16-18-age players.

Two games were required for the title as Mobile took the night's first game, 7-4, handing the California team its first loss of the double elimination tournament.

In the night's second game with the title at stake, North San Gabriel Valley scored in all but the first and fourth of the seven innings, getting two runs in the fifth, where Luke Lynch reached first on an error, and scored on a double by Gauntlett, who then scored on Richard Krol's single.

Wayne Stone hit a solo homer in the third.

Gauntlett was the batting leader of the series with a .500 average.

In the first game, Mobile came from behind, scoring five of its runs in the sixth. Joe Sharpless had a three-run double in the rally.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — The month-long National Rifle and Pistol Championships title ended Friday with Fort Benning, Ga.'s Army Marksmanship Unit High-power Rifle Team the final winner.

The Georgia unit fired 79 X-ring hits and 2,870 points of the possible 3,000 to win the National Trophy Team match.

The Army reserve team placed second with 66 X's and 2,862 points, trailed by the Army Eastern team at 59 and 2,857.

DETROIT (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidyrych will talk to the ball in a 30-second advertisement, his first, aimed at packing customers in at an appliance company.

The advertisement is the Highland Appliance Company's answer to the question, "What's the Bird really saying to the ball?"

The commercial will be aired during today's Tiger game according to Fred Doner of W.B. Doner & Co., the advertising agency which produced the spot for Highland Appliance.

Film for the commercial was shot at last Saturday's game at Tiger Stadium and footage also was shot at an appearance Fidyrych put in at the appliance store in Livonia.

TWO LEVEL HOME PROMISES LIGHT, PRIVACY

By Jerry Bishop

Two levels of modern livability are encased in an eye-catching exterior that manages to protect privacy while providing plenty of light in today's featured home. A roomy three bedroom design, the Four Winds offers a number of desirable extras, including semi-private double decks, a first floor utility room, and two and one half baths.

An angular exterior with steeply sloping roof is accented by tall, narrow windows, well-placed to capture light without sacrificing privacy. Most notable of the interior elements is the self-zoning floor plan, radiating from the foyer and central stairway, that gives each activity area its individual corner of the home.

Entry is into a spacious foyer, focal to the plan, that outlines a coat closet and faces stairs to the upper level. Set in the middle of a T-shaped room arrangement, the foyer connects to hallways to completely eliminate cross-traffic. To the left of the foyer is the 17-ft. living room, windowed on three sides and adaptable to quiet conversation or lively entertaining. Moving clockwise from the living room, the substantial kitchen unites work and dining functions with a handy snack bar. Sliding glass doors connect the kitchen with a triangular deck, an ideal spot for family cookouts. The dining room is also joined to the deck.

A half bath is conveniently set off the foyer and is backed by a first floor laundry room for convenience.

Upstairs, each sleeping unit maintains quiet with the same zoning patterns as below. The master bedroom highlights the level and exhibits an airy room, closeted dressing area, and full bath. Another full bath serves the remaining bedrooms. A natural choice for secluded sunbathing, the upper level deck is open to two of the bedrooms via sliding glass doors.

With less than 1700 sq. ft. of living space, the Four Winds boasts a home design that stresses light, privacy, and ample space for family living.

In choosing any hand tool, electric or not, be sure it "feels" right when you pick it up and move it around a bit. If it doesn't, the chances are you will soon tire of it or it will make you tired.

This standard advice for the purchasers of tools for the home workshop is especially important for those selecting a portable circular saw. It is a tool that must be used carefully at all times, which can only be done with a machine that feels comfortable and doesn't interfere with your concentration. When used in this manner, it cuts wood building materials easily and quickly and, fitted with appropriate blades or wheels, also cuts stone, ceramics, fiber glass, metal and almost every other kind of material.

Sizes for home use are designated by the diameter of the blade which it will take. The most popular size probably is the 7 1/4-inch model, with other "general use" sizes being 6 1/2, 7, 7 1/2, 8 and 8 1/4. The work capacity of a saw can be judged by its depth of cut vertically and at an angle. A 6 1/2-inch saw usually cuts at least 2 inches vertically and about 1 1/4 inches at a 45-degree angle. Larger blades cut deeper, but depths are not consistent with blade sizes among different brands because of variations in tool design. So, if the depth of cuts will be important in the type of work you do, be sure to check a model's maximum depths of vertical and 45-degree angle cuts before you make a purchase.

When two saws appear to be identical, but one is priced more than the other, compare their special features to know what you are getting. Some saws have slip clutches or other devices to prevent motor burnout if the saw blade sticks and to reduce the likelihood of kickback and loss of control. If you should get an economy model without such an arrangement, work at a slow pace to guard the motor from overheating, especially when cutting tough materials. All models should have a non-locking trigger switch that instantly turns off the power when released.

Look for the symbol of an independent testing organization, such as Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. It indicates that the tool is manufactured to conform to established electrical and mechanical safety standards. If there is a manufacturer's association seal, such as that of the Power Tool Institute, it means that the tool not only meets safety standards but has been inspected under power at the factory and has instructions for safe use in the carton. Be especially sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions for grounding the tool. Most manufacturers these days are eliminating the need for special grounding by providing the tool with an extra layer of electrical insulation.

'A Stitch In Time Saves Nine'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Sometimes it is the little chores that drive us to distraction, especially when we've let the jobs lag during the vacation season.

Copper, carving boards, tile, marble, plastic, wood floors need care. Short cuts may be taken by giving these things more frequent care which may seem a bore, but in the long run it will pay off.

If you let a copper hood in the kitchen get very tarnished and greasy, it becomes a super cleaning job. But if it is washed regularly and shined with a soft cloth, it is a small chore. A neglected hood must be scrubbed with soap and water and dried before it is polished. Non-tarnish copper cleaners will keep a hood clean for a long time, and are great time savers if there is a large expanse of metal.

Wood cutting boards may warp, to the dismay of many housewives. That may be controlled by turning the board every once in a while. In fact, the underside should be scrubbed, dried and lightly oiled. Cooking oil has been tried successfully. It just happened to be at hand and it worked.

If the board warps a bit, scrub the underside well, let it dry — if you can put it outdoors all the better — and then apply a little oil. If it is mildewed in spots, it may require a light sanding before you apply oil. Then it should be reversed for use. Sometimes a board will get beyond the turnover stage with many mildewed stains, and you will want to use only one side of it. Even then the underside must always be kept clean.

No matter how careful you are, liquid and specks of food may be found under the board, so it should be tilted each day and the area underneath wiped with a dry cloth. Wiping it with a wet cloth will merely increase the chances of mildew, unless it is dried thoroughly each time.

As for ceramic tile, on countertops you may need to use an abrasive cleaning powder. Some people clean the grout lines with a toothbrush, making a paste of the cleaner. A mixture of chlorinated bleach and a little water can be used on the grout and blotted quickly, one woman advises. There are special tile cleaners in paint stores and these work well, although some women use little soap pads as they do on bathroom tiles.

Advice on the care of clear plastic may be obtained from craft shops where the material is carried. It has been said that acrylics respond well to automobile polish which is rubbed on with a soft cloth. Scratches can be smoothed with a little buffing tool and pumice which are available in the craft shops.

Many methods are used for cleaning marble. Some work. Some don't. Knowing that made the stains makes the job easier. Light stains and rings may be removed with a mixture of hydrogen peroxide and ammonia which should then be removed with clear water, advise experts at the Weiman Co., makers of marble polish.

They claim fine scratches on marble may be sanded lightly and the entire surface repolished whenever necessary with putty powder applied on a damp cloth by hand or with an electric polisher. More serious stains should be treated with a poultice made of white blotting paper, paper napkins or cleansing tissues which may be soaked in the solution that is needed for the particular stain. Organic stains — tea, coffee, soft drinks that have no citric acid, wet bark and flowers — should have a poultice of the peroxide and ammonia. Oil stains — butter, milk, cream, hand cream, modeling clay and the like — should be wiped with a cloth dampened with ammonia, and a poultice of equal parts of amyl acetate and acetone, and then a poultice of the hydrogen peroxide and ammonia.

Old pieces of marble and fire-stained marble fireplaces should also respond to that treatment. Once restored or if it is new marble, it may need only regular care about twice a year. Remove surface dirt with a detergent and fibre brush. If dirt remains, make a thick paste of an alkaline cleaner and water and spread it over the marble with a trowel. Retard the drying action by covering it with a damp cloth for 24 hours, then let it dry for another 24. The mixture can be saved and reused. When all stains are removed, sand and polish it with putty powder.

If chlorine bleach is handy, you may want to try this method suggested by Clorox experts. Mix three-fourths of a cup of liquid chlorine bleach with a gallon of warm water, wash marble, rinse and dry. If stains persist, keep marble moist for five to eight minutes with a cup of bleach solution. Rinse and dry. As for wood floors, a light coating of corn oil used in an emergency on oak flooring worked well in removing a greyish film and stains left by potted plants.

Gardening Questions

Q. How can a person control annual bluegrass (Poa annua) in a lawn? (Mrs. G. C., Asheboro)

A. Use a pre-emergence herbicide in the fall. There are no post-emergence herbicides that you can use on annual bluegrass in the home lawn. Any of the pre-emergence crabgrass herbicides sold for use on lawns will give a degree of control. The best time to apply them in your area is between Aug. 25 and Sept. 15. The amount of control that you get will depend on moisture conditions and when the annual bluegrass germinates. (W.M. Lewis, extension agronomist)

Q. How can I get my Christmas cactus to bloom at Christmas, instead of Thanksgiving or Easter? (Mrs. W.R., Cordova)

A. Get a cutting from a plant known to bloom at Christmas. (Not all varieties do.) During month of October, withhold water entirely; keep plant in a cool, dark place. In November, place plant in a sunny window at a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees. Water moderately and feed with a liquid fertilizer. (Henry J. Smith, Extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. Will Blue Spruce, which grows so beautifully in Minnesota, grow in North Carolina. (J. G. Durham)

A. I have seen Colorado blue spruce growing as an ornamental in yards in Kitty Hawk and in Murphy. However, the most favorable growth is on fertile, moist, well-drained soils and the best looking blue spruce are to be found in the foothill and mountain areas of the state. They retain their needles for several years and the blue colors fade to a dull blue green as they age. Blue spruce which is so strikingly beautiful in early life is often unsightly when quite old due to loss of lower branches and too little growth. (William M. Stanton, extension forest resources specialist)

Q. Under what conditions should superphosphate be fed to plants? Is it generally needed where a person has used a complete fertilizer, such as 10-10-10? (L.C., Roanoke Rapids)

A. Superphosphate in addition to that found in a complete fertilizer may be beneficial under special conditions. Examples are in the rootzone for newly germinated plants, in the rootzone for newly transplanted plants, and near bulbs, corns and tubers. Extra phosphate should not be applied to established plants unless the need has been determined by a soil test. (Carl Blake, extension agronomist)

Challenges Legality Of Gas Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Interstate Commerce Committee report has challenged the legality of the recent natural gas price hikes granted by the Federal Power Commission.

The hikes amount to a 760 per cent increase in prices first imposed on interstate shipments of natural gas by the FPC 11 years ago. The cost to consumers is an estimated $1.5 billion to $2.2 billion in the first year.

The report compiled by committee staff members said the new rates may be illegal because the commission based them on industry-supplied data never reviewed or audited by the FPC and because they do not reflect the actual costs of drilling.

Major Change To Save Millions

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury will save $134 million a year from a major change in taxes on capital gains that House and Senate conferees have agreed to.

Conferees agreed Friday to increase the length of time an asset such as land or stocks must be held to qualify for the favorable capital gains tax treatment, from the current six months to nine months in 1977 and to 12 months in 1978 and thereafter.

At the same time, the conferees agreed to raise the amount of capital losses that a taxpayer can deduct from ordinary income each year. Currently, tax law allows a person to use the investment losses to offset up to $1,000 of salaries and other regular income. The conferees agreed to raise the limit to $2,000 in 1977 and to $3,000 in 1978.

In three days of work, the conferees now have reworked the conflicting tax bills to the point where the compromise version would net the U.S. Treasury an additional $500 million, including the $134 million saved on capital gains.

The tax bill approved by the House would have increased tax revenues by $1.6 billion, but the Senate measure would have reduced revenues by $300 million.

Capital gains, or increases in the value of investments, receive favorable tax treatment in that half the gain is tax free. Proponents see this as an incentive for the risks of investment.

But critics had complained that six months was too short a time for profits to qualify for the tax break because the incentive was available to speculators as well as investors. Thus they favored the longer period to qualify the gain for the tax break.

In other action, the conferees: —Dropped a Senate provision to allow a family tax credit of up to $250 for each child in college. House conferees assured Senate backers that the provision would be put to a separate vote in the House. The credit would eventually cost the Treasury an estimated $1.1 billion.

—Dropped a House provision allowing a tax credit of $7 on the first $100 spent on home garden tools. This was seen as an incentive to start more home garden plots and would have cost the Treasury an estimated $24 million.

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter has said he wants to tax capital gains at regular rather than reduced rates.

The conferees still have before them a variety of differing tax shelter provisions, and the provision affecting most Americans, the extension of existing tax cuts, which is costing the Treasury $14.4 billion.

Phosphate Company Wins Port Access

RALEIGH (AP)—A second Eastern North Carolina phosphate mining company has won access to the phosphate loading facility owned by the State Ports Authority at the port in Morehead City.

At its meeting Friday, the Ports Authority said North Carolina Phosphate Corp. access equal to that enjoyed by Texasgulf Inc., now the only company mining phosphate in the state. Both companies own phosphate rich land in Beaufort County but for more than a decade Texasgulf has been mining the rock which is primarily used in fertilizers.

North Carolina Phosphate is planning a $250 million mining operation in Beaufort County, said Ward Grosz, president of the firm. The company is seeking permission to cut a 4½-mile channel through South Creek to a 10-acre turning basin and loading dock and from there the rock would be taken by barge to the port for shipment, he said.

If all goes as planned, the company will begin shipping phosphate in the fall of 1979, Grosz said.

Also, the current port facilities are more suitable to the needs of North Carolina Phosphate than to Texasgulf, Grosz said, adding that Texasgulf has agreed to a plan that would have North Carolina Phosphate spend about $10 million to build new facilities for Texasgulf.

Grosz also told the authority that some environmentalists were concerned about the company's plans destroying natural habitats of the canvasback ducks, but such worries were groundless because the project will instead create additional habitats.

N.C. Court Blocks Stockholders Meet

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court has blocked a special meeting of stockholders of the All-American Assurance Co. It has done so until the state Court of Appeals can review the insurance company's protest against an order by Superior Court Judge B. T. Falls Jr. in Charlotte.

He had found that the company mailed out what he called misleading and illegal proxy material. He ordered new proxy material before a Sept. 15 meeting, including the names of those nominated by directors by a dissident group of stockholders.

The shareholder who complained about the original proxy material is Norman Swenson of Charlotte, former president of Pyramid Life. This Charlotte-based company was acquired by All-American Assurance of Baton Rouge, La., in 1971. The combined company went through a six-month rehabilitation period this year under the supervision of North Carolina Insurance Commissioner John Ingram.

TARHEEL TOYOTA'S 100,000 MILE WARRANTY

For 100,000 miles or 3 years we guarantee the motor, transmission, and rear end of every new Toyota we sell. This warranty is in the form of a legal document and supplements the new car warranty of Toyota Motor Sales, USA. Commercial vehicles are excluded.

USED CAR WARRANTY 12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 30-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

CANNING TIPS

An electric deep fat fryer filled with water instead of oil makes a good blancher for vegetables and fruit being prepared for canning or freezing because the thermostat keeps the water at the proper temperature at very little cost in fuel energy.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There has to be some future for CB radios other than flushing out the hiding places of Smokey (the police) and broadcasting to a breathless audience that you're on the way to Grandma's for pork chops.

As usual, I've thought deeply about the possibilities and it occurs to me CB conversations could be an absolute godsend for families trapped in a car with a driver who says, "Tell me when you see a place to stop and eat."

Some men are wonderful about pulling off the road every three or four hours, but some of us are married to robots. They require no food. No liquids. No breathers. Their stomachs never bloat. Their vision never becomes blurred from hunger. Their legs never cramp. They consider a key in a gas station as a wall accessory.

CB radio communication might just be the answer if women all over the country would seize control of the speakers.

"This is Famine 4, calling anyone. Famine 4 calling anyone. Come in anyone. May Day! May Day!"

"Break Famine 4, this is Cactus Patch (Phoenix). What seems to be the problem? You need a Tijuana taxi (wrecker)?"

"Negative, Cactus Patch. Got a crazy buffalo (husband) at the wheel who won't go to 100 (restroom stop), stop to get groceries (eat) or for that matter make a pit stop (gas). He just keeps his foot on the hammer (accelerator) at double nickel ($5 mph). If you're a hard ankle (trucker) please identify."

"Positive, Famine 4. You're the 15th May Day I've received today. How many survivors are there?"

"Just Mama (me) and three bubblegummers (teenagers). Anything we can lay an eye on (anything in sight)?"

"How about a chipped tooth beanery on old 48?"

"He had toenails in his radiator on that one" (speeded by).

"Hey, Famine 4, this is Boston Beans here. We've got four muskrats (children) in a pregnant roller skate (VW). Know your problem. You're just four miles from Grease City. Let your flaps down (slow down). Good luck."

This is Hungry Mama here. Anyone want to organize? Ten four.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Dr. Marion D. Clark of Henderson, former pastor of the bride. Organist, Mrs. Ruth Taylor of Greenville presented a program of nuptial music. Dr. Robert W. Moyal of Raleigh sang "The Greatest of These Is Love" and "A Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional gown of candlelight satina with a high empire waist, pearled alencon applique bodice and attached train. The bodice had a V-shaped neckline with peek-a-book applied fitted sleeves. The hemline was bordered in alencon lace as was the cathedral train.

The bride wore a cathedral length mantilla of Venise lace attached to a Juliet cap of candlelight satina, an heirloom of the bridegroom's family. Her bouquet was a cascade of creamy white roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and fern.

Miss Lilly Bryan Andrews, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Rodney Meredith Owen, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Their formal gowns were of candlelight embroidered eyelet in pinafore styling. The off-the-shoulder bodice featured a square neckline and was complemented by a wrapped waist with full skirts which were flounced at the sides. They carried natural style bouquets in earth tones.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Davis Andrews Jr. of Farmville, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Eva Carol Smith, sister of the bridegroom, both of Farmville, Miss Nancy Jean Higginson of Charlotte, Mrs. Charles Allen of Matthews, and Miss Adrainne Gardner of Fountain. The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of aqua silk with a chiffon organza capelet with a floral embroidered border. The mother of the bridegroom selected a chiffon shirtwaist dress of jade green.

The chancel of the church was decorated with a fifteen branch candelabra draped with greenery and white bows. Palm trees and seven branch candelabra enhanced with greenery and bows were placed on each side of the altar. Family pews were marked with white satin bows. The couple knelt for the benediction on a single prie-dieu decorated with greenery and white satin bows.

Tell Boy's Parents About Stolen Money

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a tough one for you: Some friends came to visit my husband and me the other afternoon, and they brought their 13-year-old son along to play with our son, who's about the same age.

After they left, our son discovered that a $5 bill was missing from his desk drawer. He said he was sure it was there that morning. We are almost positive this visiting boy took it, but of course we can't be sure unless he confesses.

Should we mention this to the boy's parents? There is more than just the $5 loss involved here. If the boy is a thief, I think his parents ought to know, don't you?

DEBATING

DEAR DEBATING: If he were your son, wouldn't you want to know that he was suspect? After a thorough search for the $5 has been made to preclude the possibility of a false accusation, I think the boy should be questioned. And in the absence of any real proof that he is guilty, he should be presumed innocent.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son-in-law who is so money-hungry it's positively disgusting! Two days after my husband died, he went to our lawyer and asked, "How much is there in it for me?" Every time my daughter comes to visit me, she asks if I've decided what I'm going to do with my jewelry when I die, and if I have put it in writing.

My daughter changed completely after she married this nut. He's a schoolteacher, and he either hypnotized her or brainwashed her. She never lacked for a thing before she was married. What on earth causes such greed? I hardly know how to handle it.

DISGUSTED IN ARIZONA

DEAR DISGUSTED: In your daughter's case, it obviously wasn't poverty. And if I were you, I wouldn't go boasting or mouthing-climbing with this pair. And if they invite you over for dinner, better take a food-taster along.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a widow who makes a practice of calling on bereaved families every evening when close friends and relatives come to pay their respects? This woman has little more than a nodding acquaintance with most of these people, but she shows up night after night as long as others come.

She probably figures it's a good way to get into homes where she'd never be invited. Also, there are always plenty of good eats and people to socialize with, and she likes to talk.

Since it's kind of an open house for a week after the funeral, I don't suppose anybody can keep her out, but it seems to me that there should be some way to keep people like her from taking advantage of other people's sorrow. This is a small town, so please don't say where this letter is from.

FRIEND OF THE FAMILY

DEAR FRIEND: I know of no way to turn away even a nodding acquaintance who comes to pay a condolence call, but anyone who is so desperate for company and a cup of tea has my sympathy.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Food Additives Affect Some

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hyperactive children who were placed on a diet free of artificial flavors and colors improved significantly, say their teachers. Research showing this was funded by the National Institute of Education.

Teachers who observed the children for 12 weeks noted about a 15 per cent reduction in the symptoms of hyperactivity. The teachers did not know when a child began a new diet or whether the child was on the control or experimental diet.

Right Lock A Deterrent

NEW YORK (AP) — Burglary doesn't always occur at the other person's home. Every 15 seconds a home is burglarized in this country and you could be next, warns the Insurance Information Institute.

Cylinder deadlocks on all entry doors can help deter potential burglars, says the institute.

Various types of deadlocks are available. For advice on the type that will do the best job for you, contact a qualified locksmith or the police.

On doors with glass panels, such as sliding glass doors, install double-cylinder deadlocks that lock from either side with a key, the institute advises.

Burglars are thus prevented from breaking the glass and reaching in to unlock the door.

Another effective method of securing your sliding door is to place a metal or wooden rod, such as a broom handle, into the sliding jamb at the bottom of the door. For additional protection, the institute recommends drilling a hole through the top channel into the top portion of the door frame and inserting a pin or nail.

Do not overlook windows. They, too, must be securely latched. A stoplock is available which limits window openings to ventilation spaces too small to permit entry. Although an alarm should not be relied on to take the place of proper locks, inexpensive battery-powered alarms are available which produce a loud, startling sound at any attempt to force open a door or window.

better understanding with them. Use tact with others who do not think as you do. Avoid strife of any kind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy solving career problems that have been vexing you for some time, but don't irk a higher-up in the process. Take care of that legal matter and relieve the pressure it has caused you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Good day to make needed changes so that you can expand your horizons. Cultivate friendships that help you advance. Enjoy more prosperity.

SHOWTIME

For The Week Of August 29-September 4, 1976

'Johnny Cash Show' Airs Sunday

CASH ON SUNDAYS — Singing star Johnny Cash will be joined by his lovely wife, June Carter Cash, The Carter Family and a lineup of top name guest stars on the "Johnny Cash Summer Show," airing for four consecutive Sundays beginning August 29 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-11.

Clark Is Roberts' Guest

Grandfather Mountain is a cool, green peak rising majestically from the heart of North Carolina's "green country." For the past 52 years it has lured thousands to "Singing Mountain," a day-long religious music festival that takes place annually in late June.

This year's festival had a special touch. It became the site of Oral Roberts' latest one-hour television special which will be seen Tues. Aug. 31, at 10 p.m. on Channel 3N, 7.

Special guest for the hour is country music favorite Roy Clark and his family, backed up by Buck Trent, and for the third straight show, comic Jerry Lewis lends his directing talents to the Roberts program.

Mr. Roberts has titled his special, "Don't Park Here." That admonition went virtually unheeded as nearly 30,000 people braved stormy skies and intermittent rain to hear the music and message that became the nucleus of the famous evangelist's seventh location shoot. Previous sites include Japan, Hawaii, London, Alaska, and other scenic and historic areas of the U.S.

This is Clark's third appearance on an Oral Roberts special. He is a close personal friend of the family and like Roberts, is Tulsa based. Clark recently purchased a home there, where he is also part owner of a country music radio station and a cattle ranch.

Already phenomenally successful in the United States through records, guest appearances, road shows, and the syndicated television show, "Hee Haw," the versatile musician added an international flavor to his fame by completing a tour of the U.S.S.R. last winter. He records on the ABC-Dot label and is consistently at the top of the country music charts.

Richard and Patti Roberts, also featured on the special, give outstanding performances and are joined by their young daughters Juli and Christit in a musical segment. The World Action Singers and Reflection from Oral Roberts University complete the cast.

SPOKEN TALENTS

Tawny Godin, Miss America of 1976 who will crown her successor at the 56th annual Miss America Pageant Sept. 11, is an accomplished linguist.

Nashville, Tenn., is without question Music City, USA. It has, in great abundance, a thriving pride in being the home of country music, boasting some of the most knowledgeable and versatile musicians in the business.

Recently, 4,500 fans jammed the Grand Ole Opry, aware that some of the best country musicians were going to entertain them at a taping of "The Johnny Cash Show," to be presented Sundays, 8 to 9 p.m., for four weeks, beginning Aug. 29, on CBS Ch. 3N-11.

The musical director, working from giant sheaves of music on his piano, turns to the men in the pit, indicating they should change the key from E to B-flat. Thirty musicians do his bidding, the lights go out, and suddenly a tall, familiar figure appears in a single spotlight saying, "Hello I'm Johnny Cash."

The applause is deafening. The enthusiasm is generated by the presence of one of the most comfortable entertainers in the world. There is no distance between Johnny Cash and his fans. He entertains in cavernous auditoriums and it is as though you are sitting in his living room.

He and his wife, June Carter, are like family to any aficionado of country music, and their fans are legion.

The present international popularity of American country music had its beginning in 1925 when, in the fifth-floor WSM radio station studio in Nashville, Uncle Jimmy Thompson, an 80-year-old fiddler who boasted that he could fiddle the "taters off the vine," was the featured performer on the first broadcast of the "WSM Barn Dance." Two years later, it was named the Grand Ole Opry.

In between, the number of fans began to grow. This led to the construction of Studio "C" to accommodate 500 fans. When the crowds grew too big they moved to a converted movie theater, then again to a huge tabernacle where, although the floor was covered in sawdust and the splintery benches were crude, the audience outgrew the location in two years.

In 1939, the show moved to the War Memorial Auditorium and an entrance fee of 25 cents was imposed, in an effort to curb the crowd. It didn't work. The weekly crowds averaged better than 3,000 persons.

The move to the Ryman Auditorium in 1943 was a necessity, and that became 'home' until the construction, in 1972, of the $15-million Opry house and adjacent 369-acre "Opryland USA" amusement park billed as "the Home of American Music."

All the broadcasts of "Johnny Cash and Friends" will originate from the Grand Ole Opry, but each of the four programs features Cash in a musical tribute to memories of country music immortals on the darkened stage of the old Ryman Auditorium.

Waitress Becomes A Star

When TV's new season begins, viewers will see detectives, pilots, millionaires, journalists and doctors. They'll also see a waitress — "Alice." The situation comedy, based on the film, "Alice Doesn't Live Here

Any more," will premiere later this month on CBS. Alice, a recently widowed singer, works as a waitress in a Phoenix cafe where pandemonium is the menu's Blue Plate Special. To further compound the matter, Alice is the sole supporter of her 12-year-old son Tommy, a wisecracking pre-teenager who is unnervingly aware of the facts of life — especially Alice's life.

Linda Lavin, the brown-eyed brunette who portrays Alice, sees a lot of similarity between herself and the character she'll be playing. How much of Linda will there actually be in Alice?

"The total me," she responded. "The more I know who Alice is in relation to who I am, the better. She will be as much of my personal truth that she can possibly be. The work of an actress is to develop a character based on who she is.

"I have more options than Alice does," she continued. "I've been on my own, she hasn't. I have a profession, she doesn't. In the story, suddenly she's alone, and has no skills. But, she does have wit, intelligence, drive and a dream. However, she doesn't know what to do first. She has one foot in the past and one in the future."

Alice will also be the same age that Linda is, 32. "Being a waitress is very special to me," she added, "because Alice is TV's only waitress."

Since Alice hopes to hit the 'big-time' with her singing, there will be a chance for Linda to sing in the series, much to her delight. Before she changed to drama, she had chartered her course in the direction of a musical career.

"I like all kinds of singing, but I think I like jazz best. One day I want to sing opera, and "Carmen' comes to mind." She would also like to direct.

Linda Lavin attended the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., and appeared in numerous productions while a student there. Her first professional job came the summer following her freshman year when she was a member of the chorus of New Jersey's Country Music Circus.

"Alice" is her first series on TV. She did a pilot two years ago, and then joined the cast of "Barney Miller's Det. Janice Wentworth." "But I never knew it was going to become a regular part until 'Wham!,' there it was. I had to choose when this series came up, and I chose 'Alice.'"

Linda, who's husband is actor Ron Leibman, just has one complaint where the new series is concerned:

"My tennis. I played the other day and it's just gotten real "stinking!"

ALICE — Linda Lavin (center) stars as Alice Hyatt, waitress and would-be singer, with Beth Howland (left) as Vera, Vic Tayback as Mel and Polly Holliday as Flo, her co-workers in a Phoenix cafe where pandemonium is the specialty of the house, in "Alice," a new half-hour comedy to be presented on Wednesdays beginning this fall on the CBS-TV Network.

Patterson, Slezak Make Stylish Couple

Viewers of "One Life to Live" see Joe and Vicky Riley as a vibrant and strikingly handsome couple. They are stylishly dressed, entertain in a fashionable manner, live in an attractive house and, in today's words, are very 'with-it.'

Off the set and away from the glare of the tv cameras, Lee Patterson and Erika Slezak are very bit as 'now,' but there definite differences. For 'openers,' they aren't married to each other or to anybody else.

Lee is a confirmed bachelor who says his goal in life is "living, not stardom." In spite of this, however, he has achieved stardom on "One Life to Live." Before deciding to become an actor, Lee held a wide variety of jobs. At one time or another, he was a miner in Northern Quebec, a caddie at Baff, a sailor on the Great Lakes, a waiter, gold prospector, sculptor, painter, cartoonist, and lumber mill worker.

Ruggedly handsome, he first became familiar to TV viewers as Dave Thorne, the agile private investigator on "Surfside 6." Prior to this, he had made over 25 movies, many filmed in Europe.

Lee says New York is his "home base. In my apartment I have antiques and art objects, many that reflect my interest in the sea. One item is a sextant used for ship navigation in the nineteenth century."

As a bachelor, Lee says he sometimes gets lonely. "That's one of the prices you pay for choosing this way of life." But the price evidently is not too high, because he's not often lonely. "I'm having too much fun!" he laughs.

Erika Slezak also lives alone in her New York apartment and says that basically she is a "homebody." She likes to cook, especially for her friends and her family. "I really consider myself an old-fashioned girl, and although I've been divorced for several years, I'm a firm believer in marriage." Sadder but wiser from the results of her marriage, she is looking forward to the day when "the right man comes along."

Her father is the noted actor, Walter Slezak, who never pushed his daughter into an acting career. But Erika can't recall a day in her life when she did not want to act. When the time came to make a definite decision about a career, her father helped plan her training. "He made sure I had no illusions about an acting profession, explaining that it was going to be harder for me because I had a famous father. I would have to prove myself more than others and, as usual, he was right!"

Perhaps the most obvious likeness between Lee and Erika off-camera is a quality that penetrates through their roles as Joe and Vicky Riley; a vibrant enthusiasm for life. And it's this enthusiasm that has made them one of the most popular couples in day-time TV.

Lets The Blemishes Hang Out

Joe Blasco, makeup artist for the "Barney Miller" series, says that he stresses "the natural look" in preparing the series' regulars for their appearances before the camera.

"The idea is to make sure that beards and blemishes show through, Blasco confides. "That means we never powder down the performer and we use very little of the oil stick makeup."

"Rosemary's Baby," the blockbuster movie made from Ira Levin's terrifying tale of witches, Satanism and an innocent mother-to-be in modern Manhattan, will be rebroadcast as the "ABC Sunday Night Movie" Aug. 29, 9 to 11:45 p.m., on Ch. 3W-5-12.

Mia Farrow and John Cassavetes star as the young couple who move into the Bramford, a beautiful building with an ominous history. Ruth Gordon (in an Academy Award-winning performance) and Sidney Blackmer are their neighbors, who manifest an unnatural interest in Rosemary's pregnancy. Maurice Evans is the friend who warns them that "at the Bramford awful things happen a good deal more frequently than 'now and then.'" Ralph Bellamy is Dr. Sapirstein, whose medical methods are hardly orthodox.

opened its record-breaking engagement in 1968, after the book had sold almost three million copies, Time magazine said "Satan is not dead. Old Nick, along with a covey of attendant diabolists, is making Rosemary's life miserable in a film version by Director Roman Polanski. Even readers of the book who know how 'Baby' comes out are in for a pleasant surprise... superb suspense."

Variety's critic called it "an excellent film version of Ira Levin's diabolical chiller... Polanski's adaptation is excellent, matched by his superior direction of an excellent cast. A slow-building terror as the audience becomes solidly aligned behind Miss Farrow, the lone victim of a conspiracy... genuine cliff-hanger interest."

Besides its own success as a novel, "Rosemary's Baby" was the fore-runner of a new interest in stories of the occult.

ROSEMARY'S BABY — Mia Farrow stars as the innocent mother-to-be who makes the terrifying discovery that her husband (John Cassavetes) has made a pact with the Devil in the blockbuster film, "Rosemary's Baby," on the ABC Sunday Night Movie, August 29 (9-11:45 p.m.) on Channels 3W-5-12.

'Summer Magic' Part II To Be Presented

Part II of "Summer Magic" will air Sunday, Aug. 29, from 7 to 8 p.m. on "The Wonderful World of Disney," NBC Channel 6-7.

Following the arrival of orphan cousin, Julia Carey (Deborah Walley) whose pseudo-sophisticated air disrupts the new Carey household in the Maine countryside, Nancy Carey (Hayley Mills) competes with Julia for the affection of the town's new school teacher (Jim Stacy).

Meanwhile, postmaster Osh Popham (Burl Ives) continues his charade of allowing Mrs. Carey (Dorothy McGuire) and her three children to live rent-free in Tom Hamilton's (Peter Brown) mansion. Osh's wife (Una Merkel) threatens to expose him if he doesn't notify the vacationing Hamilton of the family's presence and also level with the Careys. It's not that Osh hasn't written to Mr. Hamilton; on the contrary, he has, but he's never mailed the correspondence!

When Hamilton unexpectedly returns from his trip abroad to find the former Bostonians living in his run-down mansion, he looks to Osh for an explanation. Popham hems and haws and eventually produces two stacks of unmailed letters, his own and those Nancy had written.

At a Halloween party to unveil a picture honoring Mr. Hamilton's dearly beloved mother, one of Osh's contrived plans to keep the Careys in the 'yellow house,' Mr. Hamilton attends and introduces himself as just Tom.

As Nancy goes on with the ceremony, Osh squirms and fidgets, especially at the mention of Tom being likened to the yellow peril for fear of swooping down and snatching the house from the Careys.

Carpet Tips
We installed a nice piece of carpet back last year that apparently thought it was trying to shed its winter coat. Balls of fluff kept coming up. Needless to say, the owner was worried.

Well, hear this. There's no alarm. Sometimes it'll take six months for loose bits of fiber to surface. Some yarns, in fact, will shed continually, but don't feel your carpet is either defective or disappearing. Neither your carpet life nor its quality is affected.

So much for fluff! Come see us, you hear?

McCloud Wears A Hat

Marshal Sam McCloud (Dennis Weaver) becomes "The Man With the Golden Hat" when his hat figures in a million dollar conspiracy in a "McCloud" segment of the "NBC Mystery Movie" to be colorcast Aug. 29, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

Don Ameche, Jaclyn Smith, Robert Webber, Philip Carey, Roger C. Carmel and Rick Weaver (Dennis's son) guest star in this drama, which also stars series regulars J.D. Cannon as Chief Clifford and Terry Carter as Sgt. Broadhurst.

McCloud's supper is disrupted suddenly by Hank Cook (Mills Watson) who boldly steals the marshal's hat and meets an untimely death. An investigation starts with a search for ballerina Margaret Hart (Smith), who asked for Hank just prior to the theft. When McCloud finds the dancer, she leads him to Rene Jauvert (Ameche), who later arranges to steal McCloud's hat before he, too, meets accidental death. It becomes apparent to the Marshal that his hat is the missing link to something big.

Two Comedies Amuse Viewers

"Making It" and "Newman's Drugstore," two half-hour comedies, will give viewers a chuckle or two Monday, Aug. 30, from 8 to 9 p.m. on NBC Ch. 7.

Alvin Kupperman, Ed Begley Jr., Ben Masters and Evan Kim star as four pre-law students faced with breaking up the not-so-happy home they share in "Making It" (8 to 8:30).

When Steve (Begley) takes offense at his roommates' teasing and their lack of interest in his future, he announces that he is moving. Unfortunately for the others, the lease is in Steve's name and this is exactly what their landlady has been waiting for—to get them out.

Herschel Bernardi stars as Charlie Newman, a Depression-era druggist who also serves as the neighborhood social leader, philosopher and doctor in "Newman's Drugstore" (8:30 to 9).

Newman and his teen-aged son, Woody (Michael LeClair), are struggling to survive during the Depression, as is everyone else who comes into Newman's drugstore. But Newman's sister-in-law, Cheryl (June Gable), and her husband have escaped the economic disaster and want to raise Woody with "all the benefits" of their relatively wealthy environment. Charlie and Woody soon discover, however, that love is far important than money to a growing boy's well-being.

TEMPTED — Herschel Bernardi (r), starring as Charlie Newman, a struggling Depression-era druggist, is tempted with an offer by Murry, his sister-in-law's rich husband, to raise his son Woody with "all the benefits" of a wealthy home life in "Newman's Drugstore," a comedy to be colorcast, Monday, Aug. 30 (8:30-9 p.m.) on NBC Channel 6.

Andre Previn Series To Air

World-renowned conductor Andre Previn, new music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, will stage eight music specials with the Orchestra over PBS next year. The programs will be scheduled on Sunday evenings beginning early in 1977.

The specials will originate from Heinz Hall, the concert home of the Pittsburgh Symphony, now celebrating its golden anniversary season, and will include guest artists of the Orchestra. The new series will be tailored expressly for American audiences, since Andre Previn is anxious to produce a "custom-made" series for viewers.

This will be Previn's first series on U.S. television. In addition to conducting the Pittsburgh Symphony in concerts of classical works, he intends to create shows with the Orchestra, highlighting the life and times of various composers (well known as well as obscure), and featuring people from the world of music to illustrate current musical trends.

Andre Previn, 47, has earned world acclaim over the past six years as Principal Conductor of the London Symphony on a number of international tours. A galvanic personality, he has guest conducted most of the major symphony orchestras in the world, including those of Berlin, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, New York, Paris, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Prague and Rome, also at the Edinburgh Festival. He has also recorded extensively with the LSO. Previn has a long term contract with BBC Television and has built up a large following for his series in England. He won the British Critic Award for TV Music Programs, and he was won four Academy Awards. On the lighter side, he composed the Broadway hit, "Coco."

According to A.M. Doty, president of Alcoa Foundation which has underwritten the series, "The news that Andre Previn is coming to Pittsburgh has focused national attention on our city and on the Pittsburgh Symphony. Alcoa Foundation is privileged to be associated with two outstanding Pittsburgh institutions, WQED (the TV station producing the specials) and the Symphony, in presenting this great orchestra to the nation during the first season of leadership by this talented and internationally-acclaimed musician."

The Previn specials will air as part of PBS's Sunday evening symphony programming. Lawrence K. Grossman, president of PBS, noted: "Andre Previn and the Pittsburgh Symphony will be a welcome addition to PBS's widely acclaimed portfolio of cultural programming. Previn's numerous appearances on television, both in this country and overseas, have proven him to be an accomplished TV personality. We're confident that public television viewers will receive this new series with enthusiasm."

Comedy-Adventure

Airs As A Late Show

Robert Wagner and Raquel Welch star in "The Biggest Bundle of Them All," a comedy-adventure film on "The CBS Late Movie" Monday, Aug. 30, 11:30 p.m., on Channel 3N-9-11. Godfrey Cambridge, Vittorio De Sica and Edward G. Robinson are featured in important roles.

Harry Price (Wagner) and an inept crew of amateur criminals kidnap Cesare Celli (De Sica), an exiled American gangster living in Italy, in order to collect a hefty ransom. When none of Celli's friends will ransom him, he conceives the idea of a five-million-dollar platinum robbery as a way of buying his release. Despite the bungling methods used by Celli's accomplices, the robbery is successful until an unforeseen accident occurs.

Raquel Welch plays Price's girl friend. Edward G. Robinson is seen as a veteran gangster of the Dillinger era and Godfrey Cambridge appears as a musician plagued by alimony woes.

'Medical Center' Has Two Part Episode

A two-part episode concerning the unusual decision taken by a physician who deems himself to be a misfit as a husband and father, begins on "Medical Center" Monday, Aug. 30, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11. Starring in the series are Chad Everett and James Daly, with Audrey Totter in a recurring role.

Everett as Dr. Joe Gannon, head of student health services and associate professor of surgery, and Daly as Dr. Paul Lochner, hospital chief of staff, wage their deadly battle against illness and injury amidst the varied background of a large university campus. With the able assistance of Nurse Wilcox (Miss Totter), the pair of physicians not only deal with the physical problems of patients, but also are drawn into other vital issues of their lives.

The segment, entitled "The Fourth Sex — Part I," is the first of a two-parter dealing with the decision of a noted doctor who decides to change his sex because he feels he is a failure in his life relationships. Guest stars are Robert Reed, Salome Jens, Dennis Cole, Gary Frank, Alan Oppenheimer and special guest star, Louise Sorel.

In part one, to be followed by part two next week, Dr. Gannon is shocked to discover the reason for his distinguished colleague's return to University Medical Center.

Thelma Finds Role Easy

BerNadette Stanis readily admits that the success she now enjoys in her role as Thelma in "Good Times" (Tuesdays, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV) came to her easily, with little or no effort on her part. "I really didn't 'suffer' at all. I was studying at Juilliard School of Music and, to help pay my tuition, I tried to get work in commercials. I didn't find anything, but someone referred me to a CBS casting director. "Good Times" was being cast at the time, and they were looking for someone to play Thelma."

When she was approached about taking the part, BerNadette was asked if she'd leave school to join the cast. "I said, 'and how!' I never dreamed they'd take me - but they did!"

She also says that being black was a definite asset in getting established ("Needless to say, I would never gotten the part had I been white!"), but she wonders about the future. "There just aren't many scripts for black women. It bothers me, but I'm young. Maybe, in a few years, the situation will change."

BerNadette, now 22, is often asked about the 'N' that's stuck right in the middle of her name. It came into being one day during a boring eighth-grade history lesson. "I was indulging in my favorite pastime - doodling - and wrote my name a variety of ways. Because I wanted to be different, I felt like having an odd name would help. After a few experiments, I decided I liked it better with a capital 'N'."

Two years ago BerNadette married an architect she'd met four years before. "There was something - and wrote my name a variety of ways. Because I wanted to be different, I felt like having an odd name would help. After a few experiments, I decided I liked it better with a capital 'N'."

Two years ago BerNadette married an architect she's met four years before. "There was something about him that got to me. I think what originally attracted me is that he respected me which I liked. He's fun-loving, has a marvelous sense of humor, except when he's tried - then he's evil!"

BerNadette, who spends her spare time playing tennis, horseback riding, reading, and attending dancing classes, pursues two unusual pursuits. One is visiting different houses of worship, to see how other faiths conduct themselves. "I'm a Catholic," she says, "but I do like learning about other faiths."

The other is visiting schools: Children are dear to her heart, and wherever she can, she sits in on classes and talks to the children. She is particularly concerned with under-privileged youngsters and is the United Negro College Fund's National Celebrity Chairman for 1976.

Joins 'Pops'

It's an evening of classical music, popular music and, naturally, jazz when Sarah Vaughn joins Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops. It's "Evening at Pops '76," Sunday, Aug. 29, at 8 p.m. and Tuesday, Aug. 31, at 9 p.m. on PBS.

The Pops Orchestra plays two Richard Wagner compositions for openers, followed by "Hora Staccato." When Ms. Vaughn enters, the lights dim, the stage darkens and she captures the audience with the beautiful song "Wave." Then, with just her trio for backup, Ms. Vaughn swings into "Day In, Day Out," followed by a slow, poignant rendition of "Rainy Days and Mondays." It never sounded quite so sad, quite so mellow, quite so good.

"The summer knows/ the summer's wise/ she sees the dust within our eyes," she sings. With the full Pops Orchestra behind her, the blues number "The Summer Knows" is like a new song.

COUNTRY STAR — Roy Clark and his family join Oral Roberts in his special "Don't Park Here," airing Tues. Aug 31 at 10 p.m. on 3N,6.

1:00 a.m. (5) Mission Impossible (60 min)

An unusual blend of story, format and characterization provides the talent of Alan Alda with a rare showcase on "MASH," Tuesday, Aug. 31, 9 to 9:30 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

For the first time in four seasons of the irreverent comedy series about the Korean war, Alda, as the wisecracking, cynical surgeon Hawkeye, delivers every line of English dialogue in a virtual one-man show. And the result is an Alda tour de force.

This comes about when Hawkeye wrecks his jeep, returning from a forward aid station. Suffering a concussion, he is rescued by a Korean farm family, which does not speak English. To stay conscious, he launches a non-stop stream-of-consciousness monologue, one that draws on all his theatrical skills.

First, he's an adolescent Hawkeye, experiencing the first pangs of juvenile puppy love.

Harold Lloyd's Mansion In Film

Joan Blondell descended the spiral staircase to the long, dimly-lit corridor, where the walls held probably the greatest collection of autographed photos of Hollywood celebrities in the world.

Long years had passed since Joan had been there, but her photo was still displayed — a glamorous likeness — and as she walked down the line of pictures signed "To Harold..." from Harlow, Jolson, Fairbanks, DeMille, Gaynor, and so many others, she gently tapped each photo with a freshly picked carnation and offered a loving word that would put the face in a time and place recalled. A gentler touch of her carnation brushed the photos of Dick Powell and Mike Todd, her former husbands.

The photo gallery was in the magnificent old mansion of the late Harold Lloyd. The famed 16-acre estate in the heart of Beverly Hills becomes a star in its own right as the setting of the motion picture, "Death at Love House," which tells the story of the spirit of a long-dead movie queen of the 1930s. The film will be seen as "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Sept. 3, 9 to 10:30 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.

Robert Wagner, Kate Jackson, Sylvia Sidney, Dorothy Lamour, John Carradine, Bill Macy and Mariana Hill, along with Ms. Blondell, are the stars.

Dorothy Lamour's photo was in the hall. Sylvia Sidney's was not. "I was just one of those funny little stage actresses from New York; I hadn't been accepted in that world as yet," she said.

Robert Wagner's photo was not there, but he had been there in person many times in his youth as a friend of the Lloyd's children.

Outside, Joan stood on the terrace of the 44-room mansion, looking across the lush gardens (a little ragged now as the two gardeners could not sustain what eight formerly achieved) and said, "It's sad to see this lovely place so lonely when it was once so exciting, with those lavish parties with all the great stars. It seems to be waiting." Her view swept through the empty gazebo, that once shaded musicians on warm afternoons, to the tennis courts that now were quiet. The linesman's chair seemed to be mutely waiting for the return of the beautiful people to enjoy a beautiful time.

But that will never be. Harold Lloyd stipulated in his will that his beloved Greenacres should become a film museum of the history of Hollywood. But that will never be either, unless a miracle happens. The city, caught up in a financial crisis similar to cities across the nation, could not accept the estate.

Shortly after "Death at Love House" was filmed, the tearful Lloyd daughters, having lost a long legal battle, auctioned off all the cherished mementos, art treasures, cars and furniture. Then the estate itself fell to the auction block. A business syndicate purchased the entire estate for $1.6 million — $400,000 less than what the house cost to build in 1929.

Like the mysterious figure in "Death at Love House," Greenacres is making its final, haunted appearance.

NBC Signs With Hi-Way Patrol
 Negotiations between NBC and the California Highway Patrol have been finalized, giving the network the 'go-ahead' to develop a one-hour action pilot about two young CHP motorcycle officers. Sanctioned by the CHP, this is the first time in 28 years that they have been involved in a projected television series.

The pilot will be produced by Rick Rosner, who is an active Deputy Sheriff for the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department. He works one 8-hour shift one night a week.

Scott Stars As Rancher

George C. Scott stars as a rancher driven beyond the breaking point when his son is killed and his whole of life destroyed by Army chemical warfare experiments in "Rage," an encore movie presentation Tuesday, Aug. 31, 9 to 11 p.m., on ABC Ch. 3W-5-12.

Scott directed the film - his first outing as a movie director - which also stars Richard Basehart as the family doctor. Martin Sheen is featured as the doctor who helps to hide the truth from the distraught rancher.

The story, reminiscent of an actual incident in Utah several years ago, concerns a deadly strain of nerve gas that accidentally leaks from an Army helicopter, infecting sheep rancher Dan Logan (Scott), his son (Nicholas Beauvy), and his sheep.

Logan doesn't know about the lethal cargo of the helicopter that passed overhead, and rushes his son to the hospital when he discovers the boy in a coma the following morning.

The military does not want word of the tragedy to leak to the press, and Logan is told nothing - even though he is also doomed by the "accident."

When Logan learns of the lies and deceptions surrounding him he responds with the only weapon left - rage.

RAGE — George C. Scott stars as a rancher driven beyond the breaking point when his son (Nicholas Beauvy) is killed and his whole way of life destroyed by Army chemical warfare experiments in "Rage," an encore movie airing on ABC-TV Tuesday, August 31 (9-11 p.m.) on Channels 3W-5-12.

Education Made The Difference

One minute he is discussing "1601," an obscure book by Mark Twain, and the next, he's holding forth on a brilliant catch he saw during a ball game. That's the way Richard Burton rushes from one subject to another.

Ideas, opinions, entire concepts flow from him like bullets from a machine gun. He says all Welshmen are great talkers, but there aren't many whose ranges include Southeast Asia, the American civil rights movement, 17th-century poetry, method acting and the political situation on the island of Haiti.

His knowledge of Haiti came in handy while filming "The Comedians," the exciting screen version of Graham Greene's best-seller which will be rebroadcast as "The CBS Late Movie" Thursday, Sept. 2, 11:30 p.m., on Channel 3N-9-11. He appears in the film with Elizabeth Taylor and Alex Guinness, Peter Ustinov, Paul Ford and Lillian Gish.

Were it not for his determination to educate himself, Burton might today be a Welsh coal miner, as were his father and six brothers. But a scholarship to Oxford University and a subsequent part in an Emylyn Williams play gave him a good start on the road to theatrical stardom.

Burton likes joking about his humble background. During the shooting of "The Comedians" in Dahomey, West Africa, Burton was housed in an ultra-plush villa, normally reserved for visiting heads of state. After he had moved in, Alec Guinness facetiously asked him if he found his accommodations satisfactory.

Equally facetiously, Burton replied, "It's just like the house I grew up in."

Although he has a firm hold on the world of the theatre and films, Burton remains a hard worker, spending hours over a script, with the result that he knows not only his lines but those of practically every other performer in the case. And, although his voice is probably among the finest of living actors, he still spends 20 minutes each morning doing vigorous exercises in the shower to make certain that Welsh doesn't creep back into his accent.

TOGETHER AGAIN—Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello, who teamed romantically in a number of 60's "beach party" movies, are reunited on the variety series "Easy Does It—Starring Frankie Avalon," Wednesdays (8:30-9 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-9-11.

Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello spoof their beach-party movies of the 60's when they don bathing suits to play a couple who have survived the ultimate nuclear explosion, in "Easy Does It — Starring Frankie Avalon," new comedy-variety show, Wednesday, Sept. 1, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

Film clips from the beach movies open the sketch, in which Avalon and Miss Funicello believe they are the last two people on earth.

Miss Funicello will also make special guest appearances in the remaining two shows of the summer series, which concludes Sept. 15.

Singer-dancer-comedienne Liz Torres offers an off-beat look at the opera, with a vocal medley, done disco style, including "Twist and Shout," and then ages rapidly to play Avalon's mother in a biographical talk-show sketch that bores two television executives.

Avalon pays tribute to Stevie Wonder with a medley of his songs, "All in Love Is Fair," "Ma Cherie Amour" and "You Are the Sunshine of My Life."

Miss Torres also joins in the zany blackout comedy routines when she plays a Southern hash-house customer whose vocabulary is right out of the Citizens Band radio craze.

The War Babies, the show's resident comedy group, do a "Celebrity Boxing" sketch in which "Edith Bunker" (Marsha Meyers) tackles welterweight champion "Muhammed Sharif" (Tim Reid).

Please Don't Wrinkle The Material

The wardrobe ladies on the set of "Most Wanted" cringed as they watched petite Jo Ann Harris, playing a plainclothes cop, being manhandled by a couple of heavies who then tossed her into the back floor of a car. "She may be a plainclothes cop," they said, "but her clothes are anything but plain." They had been to the finer shops to outfit the young star.

'Banjo Hackett' Colorcast

Don Meredith stars in the title role as a horse trader who rescues his young nephew from a grim life in an orphanage and takes him along on his travels around the West in 1880 in "Banjo Hackett," to be colorcast on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies," Sept. 1, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

Ike Eismann costar as Jubal Winter, Banjo's 9-year-old orphaned nephew. Church Connors, Daniel O'Herlihy, Jennifer Warren, Anne Francis and Slim Pickens also star in key roles.

Banjo frees Jubal from the evil clutches of Mister Creed, the stone-hearted orphanage director. The two then set out to find Banjo's present to the boy, a prize mare which has disappeared along with a shifty

Meanwhile, Banjo renews his friendship with Mollie Brannan, a young widow who runs a dairy farm and is as wary of marriage as the horse trader.

Meredith, famous for many years as one of the most knowledgeable and articulate football players in the professional ranks, has provided expert sports commentary for both ABC and NBC, and has guest-starred in television series.

A two-time All-American at Southern Methodist University, he joined the Dallas Cowboys in 1960. By 1966, the young quarterback had led his team to the NFL Championship Game, only to lose to the awesome Green Bay Packers in the final seconds.

One of the few pro football stars ever to have retired while still in his prime, Meredith called it quits after the 1968 season — a year in which he was the second-ranked passer among NFL quarterbacks. He felt he had lost some of his competitive edge and was reluctant to play if he could not give the same 100 percent mental and physical effort he had always given.

One of the most courageous athletes ever to play the game, Meredith suffered innumerable ailments throughout his distinguished career, ranging from nose, rib cage, knee, ankle, hand and arm injuries to a shoulder separation, pneumonia and stomach disorders.

At SMU, he set an NCAA record for career accuracy by hitting 61 percent of his passes during his three year stay (1957-59), completing 241 of 395 attempts for 3,130 yards and 25 touchdowns.

The talk around Hollywood these days is that Chad Everett's new prescription for another TV success will be "Medical Center's" Chad Everett."

TRAIL OF PROMISE — Rod Taylor and Blair Brown co-star as a newly married couple who undertake the perilous 2,000 mile journey by wagon to the Pacific northwest during the late 1880's in "The Oregon Trail," to be rebroadcast on "NBC Thursday Night at the Movies," Sept. 2 (9-11 p.m.) on Channels 6-7.

Family Heads West

Rod Taylor stars as Evan Thorpe, head of a pioneer family who pull up stakes, pack their belongings and head west, seeking free land and a better way of life in "The Oregon Trail," airing as the "NBC Thursday Night at the Movies" Sept. 2, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

The action adventure drama also stars David Huddleston, Blair Brown, Douglas V. Fowley, G. D. Spradlin, Andrew Stevens, Tony Becker, Gina Marie Smika, and Linda Purl. Shortly after widower Evan Thorpe remarries he takes his new wife, Jessica, his father, and his three children —

William, Andrew and Rachel — along with their most precious belongings and heads westward in a wagon to start a new life.

Joining other families that share the same dream, they follow a trail that stretches from the Missouri River to the Willamette Valley, a 2,000 mile trek over plains, deserts, canyons and mountains. They encounter the hardships of the trial-Indian attacks, illnesses, and the loss of loved ones. But despite these hardships, they persevere. When others in the wagon train give up hope and turn back, Thorpe considers the risks and dangers to his family and entertains thoughts of joining the returnees.

Rare TV Appearance
Charles Bronson and his wife, actress Jill Ireland, will be making a rare TV appearance together soon. They are slated to co-host "The Mike Douglas Show" for two days.

Portrait Is Intimate

Alec Wilder, composer of big-hit songs like "I'll Be Around" and "While We're Young," is a shy man.

The promise that he could talk about anything he wanted was not enough to get him into a television studio. The promise that two of his best friends, jazz pianist Marian McPartland and jazz observer Tom Hampson, would be there, was.

The resulting program, "Such Good Companions," Thursday, Sept. 2, at 10 p.m. on PBS, is an intimate portrait of the reclusive, nomadic Wilder.

Although Wilder respects Ms. McPartland's talent for improvisation, he feels improvisation sometimes works against a well-written piece of music. Composers, he explains, work hard over each note of a really great song.

When the conversation turns to the several types of popular music. Ms. McPartland frequently blends in on the piano to prompt a discussion or musically illustrate a point made. Songs played include "The Clothed Woman" by Duke Ellington, Wilder's "Homework," "Girl Talk" by Neil Hefti, "Happiness Is a Thing Called Joe" by Harold Arlen, "I'm Just Wild About Harry" by Eubie Blake and McPartland's "Ambiance."

Curiously, and quite indicative of Wilder's character, much of the talk revolves around music other than his own. He expresses his admiration for Harold Arlen, and his envy of Jerome Kern's ability to turn out an immense volume of music at a rapid pace. With one telling phrase he explains his unwillingness to join the ranks of Hollywood songwriters: "I can't stand the thought of the wrong people waiting for the right music."

HOLLYWOOD — Don't necessarily believe the reports that Henry Winkler has found his "true love" in the person of Cassie Yates, the girl Henry met this summer while touring Ohio in the stage play "Room Service." Henry's arrived at more than one private social function recently with someone other than Cassie, who followed Henry to Hollywood after the play closed.

James York was in the role of Doctor Dante on "General Hospital" less than a week before he was replaced by Michael DeLano. At the same time, Lee Warrick has joined the cast as Mary Ellen Dante.

David Bowie is so frightened of flying that when it was necessary to film a brief scene for "The Man Who Fell To Earth" in New York, Candy Clark flew to the city, put on David's clothes and did the scene for the singer-turned-actor. That scene is in the movie, but Candy's disguise was so good it's almost impossible to detect.

Gene Evans, who stars as Spencer in "Spencer's Pilots" this Fall on CBS, once promised himself he'd never step foot in a small plane. But to assure himself that he knew something about planes he took a few lessons, and is now so enthralled by it that he's going after his own license.

Roz Kelly, who portrays Fonzie's girl friend on a "Happy Days" three parter early in the new season was selected for the role from a list of 150 hopefuls, and while no one's seen those shows yet, Roz has already had more job offers in the past couple of months than she's had in her nine-year career combined!

Brenda Vaccaro and Don Stroud are now each other's love. Brenda met Don when they did a film together earlier this year, just at the time the actress and Michael Douglas were breaking off their long-standing romance.

Walter Pidgeon is slated to make one of his rare appearances before the TV cameras when he guest-stars in an episode of NBC's new show, "Gibbsville." Joining him as a fellow guest-star is Jane Wyatt, who played the mother in "Father Knows Best."

Holiness Or Heresy?

Young people in America today are increasingly attracted to new religions. But critics charge that many young people — in their zeal — are being misled psychologically and financially.

ABC News examines the problem in the investigative report, "ABC News Closeup on New Religions: Holiness or Heresy?," which airs Thursday, Sept. 2, 10 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3W-12.

In announcing the program, Marlene Sanders, ABC News Vice President and Director of Television Documentaries, said the report will focus on two controversial religious organizations: The Unification Church founded by Rev. Sun Myung Moon, and The Church of Scientology, started by L. Ron Hubbard.

Tony Batten is the producer for the documentary special and Jim Kincaid is the narrator.

"There are many reasons," Ms. Sanders observed, "for this growing trend toward religiosity among young people. They are searching for certainties.

"But are they being hoodwinked and brainwashed as critics, including many parents, have charged? Is the Constitution's First Amendment guarantee of religious freedom also being used as a shield against government scrutiny and regulation?"

Wagner Stars As A Writer

The obsession of a young writer for a long-dead movie queen is encouraged by her spirit, which reaches out from her glass tomb to embrace and attempt to destroy him, in "Death at Love House," a world premiere on "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Sept. 3, 9 to 10:30 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.
 Robert Wagner and Kate Jackson star, with Sylvia Sidner, Joan Blondell, John Carradine, Dorothy Lamour, Bill Macy and Mariana Hill in co-starring roles. Kate Jackson is one of the stars of ABC's "Charlie's Angels" series, which will premiere this fall.

Curious over the relationship his artist-father had with a famous 1930s movie queen, Joel Gregory (Robert Wagner) and his wife, Donna (Kate Jackson), accept the challenge of writing a movie script about Lorna Love. They gain access to the Love mansion, occupied by a lone caretaker, and find Lorna enshrined.

In searching for the reality of the star's life, the writers hear conflicting stories from people who knew her. Meanwhile, strange incidents begin happening to Donna, and Joel becomes obsessed with the star... as if she were still alive.

WRITER—Wagner stars in "Death at Love House," the "ABC Friday Night Movie," Sept. 3 (9-11 p.m.) on Channels 3W-5-12. The possession of a young writer for a dead movie queen is encouraged by her spirit.

Psychopath Identified

A frontier lawman and his young deputies make a frantic search to identify a psychopath with a deadly vendetta against prostitutes, in "Law of the Land," airing on "NBC Friday Night at the Movies," Sept. 3, 9 to 11 p.m., on Ch. 7.

Jim Davis stars as Sheriff Pat Lambrose, a gruff veteran trying to guide and control his young deputies, who are played by Don Johnson, Charlie Martin Smith, Cal Bellini and Nicholas Hammond. Also starring are Barbara Parkins, Glenn Corbett and Andrew Prine.

The frontier town of Denver is on edge because of the murder of two young prostitutes, and the clues yield an array of suspects from a respected young army officer to one of the sheriff's deputies. He assigns a special guard to Jane Adams, a prostitute, and then hopes he can locate the killer in time to save her life.

"Law of the Land" was produced by John Wilder and directed by Virgil Vogel from a script by Wilder and Sam Rolfe.

'White House Battle' Airs On ABC Friday

ABC News will present a Presidential election campaign series, "The Battle for the White House," — seven half-hour and one hour reports focusing in depth on the candidates and the issues — starting Friday, Sept. 3, 10:30 to 11 p.m., on Ch. 3W-5-12. The programs will be broadcast on the network at various time periods through September and October.

In announcing the series, Walter J. Pfister, Jr., ABC News Vice President in Charge of Special Television News Programs, explained: "The purpose of the specials is to cover in depth some of the meaningful aspects of this vital contest. We believe our reports will be both informative and interesting. Through special interviews and polls, we also hope to make some news."

Several nationwide polls will be conducted exclusively for ABC News by public opinion research expert Louis Harris. In addition to determining popularity standings of the candidates, the polls will seek information on the issues that most concern voters. The results of the first poll will be broadcast on the opening program airing Friday, Sept. 3.

The first three specials will be anchored by Howard K. Smith and the next three by Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters. Reasoner, Walters and Smith will co-anchor the final program in the series from the set where they will anchor the election night coverage. Pollster Louis Harris will appear on each of the specials.

The exclusive Harris polls, Pfister said, will enable ABC News to compare what the public believes are the real issues with what the candidates are discussing as the main campaign issues.

"Sometimes there is a difference," Pfister commented. "Sometimes candidates do not discuss the issues which concern the public, but rather they talk about issues with which they can look good."

"The Battle for the White House" series, he added, will be based on the concept of a political magazine for television. There will be a comprehensive 'cover story' on a single subject for each report. Various categories of election news also will be regularly reviewed and reassessed for each broadcast.

"The Presidential election is really a reflection of the whole American psyche," Pfister observed. "We hope not only to get at the heart of what America is thinking, but to cover also how those concerns are reflected in the candidates' campaigns."

Other broadcasts scheduled for September will be seen Sunday, Sept. 12, and Saturday, Sept. 25.

Poetic Drama Airs On PBS

"Brother to Dragons," Robert Penn Warren's poetic drama of man's confrontation with the dark side of his nature, will be rebroadcast on "Theater in America," Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 9 p.m., on PBS.

The Trinity Square Repertory Company of Providence performs this adaptation of its own production, videotaped at historic locations in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Warren, the only writer to have won the Pulitzer Prize for both fiction ("All the King's Men") and poetry ("Poems: Promises 1954-56"), plays a small role in the play, that of the writer's father.

"Brother to Dragons" illuminates an obscure event recorded in the early days of Kentucky statehood. In 1811, in the sparsely inhabited western part of that state, two brothers, Lilburn and Isham Lewis, brutally murdered a black slave in the family meathouse. Sadistic and apparently unprovoked as the crime was, it well might have become indistinguishable from the sum total of frontier violence but for one fact: The Lewis brothers were the nephews of Thomas Jefferson.

Murder charges against the two were reported widely in the press, but so far as is known by historians, Jefferson never publicly acknowledged the horrible scandal that led to the end of his family in Kentucky.

When the play first aired on PBS last year, critic Frank Getlein, writing in the "Washington Star," said it "catches an epochal American transition... the monumentally important one which saw the beginning of the shift of the American center of social and political gravity from the Eastern seaboard to the rest of the continent."

Warren originally wrote "Brother to Dragons" as a poem in the early '50s. The title is derived from the Book of Job (30:29): "I am a brother to dragons, and a companion to owls." In collaboration with Trinity's director Adrian Hall, Warren adapted the poem for theater and it was first performed on the Trinity stage in 1968.

Not 'Hype' But True

It isn't show-biz hype to call jazz pianist Keith Jarrett "inimitable." Inspired by both American and European jazz forms, his style is wide-ranging and his approach adventurous.

Jarrett's unique brand of jazz is the centerpiece of "At the Top," Saturday, Sept. 4, at 9 p.m. on PBS.

Although Jarrett had performed with Miles Davis and Charles Lloyd, commercial success eluded him here in the states until after the release of two European albums, "Facing You" and "Bremen-Lausanne."

At 31, Jarrett is still a young performer, but critics are already speculating that he may become the major jazz figure that John Coltrane was before his death in 1967.

"... It remains to be seen," states Rolling Stone music critic Stephen Davis, "if he can or wants to fill the giant steps of Coltrane, Davis, Parker, Ellington and Armstrong as both innovator and jazz cult hero."

Lucy Is Guest On 'The Practice'

Lucille Ball has been signed to make a rare guest appearance in "The Practice," the comedy series starring Danny Thomas that airs on Friday, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on NBC. In the show, Lucy portrays a madcap clairvoyant who wreaks havoc in Dr. Bedford's office.

"Lucille Ball is truly one of the most remarkable women in the history of television, and we are ecstatic at having her appear with Danny in the show," relates Tony Thomas, supervising producer of the series.

In early 1951, Lucy debuted in "I Love Lucy" on CBS and literally began writing a major piece of television history. With the completion of the "I Love Lucy" half-hour shows in 1957, she continued to make a limited series of special one-hour shows which were televised through 1959.

After starring in the hit Broadway musical "Wildcat," Miss Ball returned to television in 1962 with "The Lucy Show" and again, for the second time in her career, became the star of another long-running series.

In November, 1962, Miss Ball became the first woman president of major Hollywood film producing company - Desilu Productions, Inc. - with an estimated yearly gross of $25 million.

Miss Ball ended her "Here's Lucy" series in 1974, but continues to star in specials. Her first special for this season is slated for November 29.

Brokaw Is 'Today' Host

Tom Brokkaw, NBC News White House correspondent who was recently named as the new host of the "Today" program, will take over that assignment Monday, Aug. 30.

Jim Hartz will become a traveling co-host of "Today" and will be an anchorman on other NBC News programs.

Brokaw has been the White House correspondent for the last three years. He was one of the NBC News floor reporters at both the Democratic and Republican Conventions this summer.

At the time of his appointment as host of "Today," Richard C. Wald, President of NBC News, said of him: "He is extremely well qualified for 'Today.' He has been the anchor man of many NBC News programs, ranging from 'NBC Nightly News' to a documentary about baseball star Henry Aaron, and his coverage of the White House has been exemplary."

"Brokaw is a newsman and the 'Today' show is and remains an important news program to explain to America, as it wakes up, what is important and interesting today in the world."

The Bunny's Been Around

For a 'wabbit,' "Bugs Bunny" (seen Saturday mornings on CBS-TV) has not done bad at all! To begin with, he's lived as long longer than his fellow furry friends.

The animated character of "Bugs Bunny" had its beginning back in the mid-'30s in a "Porky Pig" film, "Porky's Hare Hunt," directed by Ben ("Bugs") Hardaway. The hare, quite unlike the final 'Bugs,' proved popular and warranted a film of its own. "Hare-um Scare-um" was the name of the film, and it featured a re-modeled version of the rabbit. This led to another, "Presto Change-o," and in 1939, when it was apparent that the rabbit was fast becoming a star, two more films were ordered - "Elmer's Candid Camera" and "A Wild Hare." In "Wild Hare," the character most closely resembled the definitive version and first used the famous catch phrase, "What's up doc?" When the film was completed, suggestions were solicited for a name for the bunny. "Bugs," inspired by Hardaway's nickname, was chosen.

A long series of "Bugs Bunny" cartoons and comic books followed. The cartoons were released (and later reproduced) by Warner Brothers until 1969. The bulk was directed by Bob Clampett (who had written the story "Porky's Hare Hunt" was based on), Fritz Freleng, Robert McKimson and Frank Tashlin, featuring voices by Mel Blanc. The cartoons have been perennial television favorites and "Bugs" has been the subject of hundreds of toys, records, books and other merchandise.

The "Bugs Bunny" comic books began as part of the Dell Four-Color series and appeared in 27 intermittent issues before beginning regular publication in 1963. The feature also appeared

Heroine Skates

A young, mute girl, Katrina (Jan Chasmar), finds herself in serious danger when she attempts to inform an American officer that British troops have attacked her family's stockade in "The Silent Eye," to be colorcast on NBC-TV's Bicentennial series, "GO-USA," Saturday, Sept. 4, 12:30 to 1 p.m. Katrina often finds herself the object of teasing because she cannot speak, and her father, Mr. Van, the school teacher (Len Gochman), ties to help. Katrina is a champion ice skater, and when British soldiers burn the stockade, she skates across the lake, pursued by a British officer, Lt. Prescott (Joseph Lambie). Though wounded, she gets through to the American commander, Captain Martin (Timothy Crowe). Writing in the snow, and answering questions by nodding her head, she conveys the message. Also in the cast are Doug McKeon as Dyrck, Katrina's brother; Barbara Ehrhardt as Lysbet; Gerard Kelly as Pieter; and Ron McLarty as Sgt. Bull.

Orantes Defends At Forest Hills

CBS Sports, for the ninth consecutive year, will present live coverage of the United States Open Tennis Championships at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y., Saturday, Sept. 4 (12:30 - 4 p.m.), and Sunday, Sept. 5 (1-4 p.m.), and semifinals action Saturday, Sept. 11 (3-5:55 p.m.), and the finals Sunday, Sept. 12 (4 - 6:55 p.m.).

In addition, highlights of tournament play will be broadcast by CBS Sports Monday, Sept. 6, through Friday, Sept. 10, from 11:30 to 11:45 p.m.

Pat Summerall, Jack Whitaker, tennis professional Julie Anthony, and Tony Trabert, a Davis Cup captain and former Wimbledon and USLTA Championship winner, will provide the commentary.

With over 13 hours of coverage, the most ever, viewers will see the only major championship of 1976 in which all of the world's leading professional court stars are eligible to compete, including Manuel Orantes, the defending men's champion.

Orantes is a native of Granada, Spain, although he moved to Barcelona when he was two-years-old, and started playing tennis at 10. He was a ballboy at the Royal Tennis Club when he started his career, using a racquet carved from wood. Members of the club gave him a professional racket when they noticed his potential.

Thin and frail, he built his game around his spins and finesse rather than power, and established himself as heir apparent to his hero, Manuel Santana, when he became the first unseeded player in 17 years to win the Orange Bowl in 1966, the same year that Santana became the first Spaniard ever to win at Wimbledon.

But he collapsed with leg cramps during Davis Cup play a couple of years later, raising doubts about his ability to withstand world class play. He won the WCT Barcelona Open in 1971, with victories over Ken Rosewall and Marty Reissen.

He captured the championships of Italy, West Germany and Sweden the following year, but was unable to establish himself as a superstar.

In 1974, Orantes won more money than ever before - $116,250 - without winning a single tournament. At the end of that frustrating year, he took off for three months, remaining at home to exercise his chronically troubled back.

That seemed to do the trick. He quickly won the 1975 British Hardcourt and West German Open U.S. Clay and Canadian Open, powered by a forehand that is probably the best on clay, and capping the year with his Forest Hills triumph.

Among the top challengers to Orantes who are expected to play are Jimmy Connors, 1974 Open winner who went down to defeat in last year's finals, Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg, Ilie Nastase, and former Wimbledon and Open champion Arthur Ashe.

The women's international field is expected to draw

TENNIS—Manuel Orantes, Barcelona's best and defending men's champion of the U.S. Open Tennis Championship, will be among the world's leading tennis stars competing this year at Forest Hills for the U.S. Open title on Saturday, Sept. 4 (12:30-4 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Football Predictable?

As the saying goes, "the rich get richer," and the world of college football provides no exception. ABC will once again televise the College Football Game of the Week this season, and the network's gridiron experts take a look at the 1976 season on Saturday, Sept. 4, at 8 p.m.

Many contend that the reason that the so-called 'big name' schools have such success in recruiting is that obvious advantages lie in going to Alabama, Ohio State, Southern Cal, etc.

Illinois' Coach Bob Blackman recently explained what those advantages are:

"To a young man who has really good ability, the big thing in his choice of colleges is his chance of going to a Bowl game. So the schools that have been to Bowl games in the past few years have a natural advantage to begin with."

The coach also reflected on the enthusiasm and persuasiveness of players at a winning school, as well as the simple fact that everyone wants to be a winner.

One need only look at the results in the major conference races over the past few years to note an increasing dominance of a handful of teams. In the Pacific Eight, either Southern California or UCLA has won or been in a tie for the crown 10 of the last 12 years. Texas has taken the title five times in seven years in the Southwest Conference, and Oklahoma and Nebraska have dominated the Big Eight championship every year but once since 1960.

FOOTBALL—Cedrick Hardman, veteran defensive lineman for the San Francisco 49ers, will put his vaunted pass rush on the line against the offensive line of the Oakland Raiders when the cross-bay rivals meet in a pre-season contest on Sunday, Aug. 29 at 3:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Defeat The Rams?

Removing the Los Angeles Rams from the lofty perch they have grown accustomed to occupying in the National Football Conference Western Division the past three years may appear absurd. The Rams had won the division title by four games in 1973, by three games in 1974, and in 1975 they cruised in with an amazing seven-games-lead with a 12-2 record.

One team on the division's horizon that stands a chance of unseating the Rams in 1976 is their old rival and ambitious neighbor from the north, the San Francisco 49ers.

When the 49ers meet the Oakland Raiders in a pre-season telecast Sunday, Aug. 29, at 3:30 p.m. on CBS, they will be adjusting to a new coach, new quarterback, new defense and a score of other changes.

After a rapid drop from Conference Champions in 1970-71-72 to losing seasons in 1973-74-75, with no less than six starting quarterbacks over the past three years, the 49ers hired the offensive line coach Monte Clark from Don Shula's Miami staff as its skipper and obtained quarterback Jim Plunkett in a trade with New England. With a strong-armed quarterback to supplement a talented backfield and an array of fine receivers in Gene Washington, Terry Beasley, Tom Mitchell and speedster Willie McGee, the 49ers should be able to produce more points and execute greater ball control.

All things considered, the Frisco defense turned in a most credible performance last season when they finished fifth overall in the conference. Without an established quarterback, the offense sputtered and couldn't control the ball, causing the defense to spend a lot of time on the field. With a bit more rest, they're capable of bigger and better things this year.

Triple Homicide Investigated

Burt Lancaster stars in "The Midnight Man," a drama about the investigation of a triple homicide that is tied to a blackmail attempt against a prominent senator, on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Sept. 4, 9 to 11:15 p.m. Susan Clark and Cameron Mitchell co-star.

Jim Slade (Lancaster), a former police officer, returns to small town in South Carolina after serving a prison sentence for shooting his former wife's lover.

Slade finds a job as a security guard on a local college campus and is immediately called to the scene of a burglary where several potentially incriminating tapes have been stolen from Dr. Pritchett, a psychological counselor.

One of the tapes involves Natalie Clayborne, the daughter of a local senator. Within days, the girl, her boyfriend and her father's secretary have been slain.

Then, the senator himself becomes subject to a blackmail attempt. Slade rejects the confession the local sheriff pressured from a janitor and pursues the case on his own until he has narrowed his investigation down to two suspects.

'Weekend' Focuses On Prostitution Saturday

Prostitution - often alleged to be a victimless crime - is graphically depicted as a crime with many victims indeed in a filmed report to be presented by NBC News' "Weekend" Saturday, Sept. 4, 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., on Channel 7.

Filmed from concealed positions, the report zeroes in on a single city block in New York: East 30th Street between Park and Lexington Avenues.

"So-called victimless crime does have victims," says James Gannon, who produced the story. "We find, in focusing on this one block, that its residents are victims in that they must put up with violence, noise, pollution, and the aesthetic insult of watching sex, usually oral sex, performed on the street - in cars, in the parking lot, in vestibules and basement entrances. The prostitutes have virtually taken over the street."

In addition to seeing some of the street's seamy action, viewers will hear from some of

Marci Meets Challenges

To look at the high-flying Marci Wallace today, you'd never guess this slim lass once topped the scales at 230 pounds. Prior to landing the role as Bob Newhart's receptionist in "The Bob Newhart Show" (Saturdays, 9:30 to 10 p.m. on CBS-TV), Miss Wallace shed more than one hundred pounds.

the residents. "A voyeur could get his kicks just walking down the street," one says. And a homeowner says: "The residents are virtually prisoners, because they are fearful of going out on the street at night and lock themselves up in their own apartments."

"I was born fat," she says, explaining that she weighed in at 13 pounds at birth. "As a child I'd eat six or seven meals a day. I wasn't unhappy, as you might think, because I could always win friends by being funny." Once she decided to lose the weight, Miss Wallace's will power took control.

FOR ROSALYNN CARTER, wife of Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter

Last winter you had a sleek hairdo caught at the back in sort of a "French twist," which many people admired very much. Why did you change to a short hairdo?—Julie Stillman, Waltham, Mass.

● It was really a question of necessity. Being on the campaign trail is pretty hectic, and I had very little time left to go to beauty parlors and hairdressers. With as many as four or five stops a day, in all sorts of weather, I decided that this shorter hairdo would be easier to manage. So I had it cut when I was home in Georgia last March. All I need now is a comb and hairspray (I carry a can in my handbag), and I don't have to worry too much about wind and weather.

FOR TINA TURNER

Do you and Ike argue, and if you do, about what?—E.J., Durham, N.C.

● Our "differences" range from the weather to the color of a new couch to whether so-and-so has class. All trivia. Our tastes are different. I guess in some respects we're not compatible. Ike is very sensitive, and little things set him off. However, since we've been married for 16 years and we're looking forward to the next 16, I guess it can't be too serious.

FOR MAUREEN DEAN, wife of John Dean

It's been said that your letter to Judge Sirica was instrumental in having your husband's sentence reduced to four-and-a-half months. What did you say in your letter to the judge?—M.M., Harrington Park, N.J.

● I told him I was emotionally incapable of facing life with my husband in jail—that I was trying to keep myself together by receiving psychiatric treatment after being committed to a hospital following a total breakdown. I also asked Judge Sirica if he had considered the price which John had to pay for telling the truth.

FOR LEONARD NIMOY, star of "Star Trek"

Do you think life exists in space?—B.C., Amarillo, Texas

● I'm constantly amazed at why I'm considered an expert on this. I've even had reports from people who say they've made contact with beings from other planets (I always pass on these reports to the authorities). But in answer to your question: the mathematical probability is so great, I'd like to bank on it. Those civilizations might not look like ours, but they're out there all right. Take my word for it.

FOR CARL REINER

Do you think humor is inherited or acquired?—P.C., Salem, Ore.

● Intelligence is inherited. Humor is acquired. It comes from a person's environment. My kids, for example, are funny; they all have a good sense of humor.

FOR JANE POWELL

Are you often recognized on the street?—H.L., Grand Forks, N.D.

● Usually—but not always. I'll never forget the time when I did "Irene" on Broadway (succeeding Debbie Reynolds). I got in a taxi and told the cabbie to take me to the Minskoff Theater. "Are you in show business?" he wanted to know. When I nodded, the driver said, "Show business is tough. But don't worry, one of these days you'll make it—just like Debbie Reynolds."

FOR SHEILA MACRAE

As one who's always eating out, how do you manage to control what you eat and watch your weight?—C.D., Zanesville, Ohio

● Before my first child was born, my obstetrician gave me this tip: Have a low-calorie drink (like iced tea) before you eat, to take the edge off your hunger pangs. That's what I do before all my meals—have a glass of something, and it really does kill my ravenous appetite.

FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R.-Ariz.)

Because of its wilderness location, won't our Alaskan pipeline be vulnerable to sabotage?—S. E. Modin, Jacksonville, Ore.

● In my opinion, any equipment so isolated and so vital to the life structure of America is indeed a potential sabotage target. But I can assure you that our military leaders are aware of this problem.

FOR JOHNNY BENCH of the Cincinnati Reds

How many packages of tobacco do you chew a game?—Terry Tipps, Briscoe, Texas

● I chew a half to three-quarters of a pack per game.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Is Rod Steiger still married to Claire Bloom? Why don't we hear more about him?—F.G., Ft. Collins, Colo.

● Rod and Claire were divorced in 1969, 10 years and one child after their wedding. In 1973 Rod married Sherry Nelson, and they have homes in Malibu and New York. You don't hear too much about Rod because he's a very private person. ("One doesn't have to merchandise his private life to be successful.") He's choosy about his roles (his most recent film is "W. C. Fields and Me"), and he likes to gamble with his career. He has been known to turn down role after role. (He waited 18 months for his part in "The Pawnbroker.") Rod got into acting by accident. After a five-year hitch in the Navy, he joined a V.A. drama group. His buddies were so impressed, they suggested he go into it full time. Rod made his Broadway debut in his early 20's, playing a 55-year-old detective in Clifford Odets's "Night Music."

My Life After Heart Attack

By William A. Nolen, M.D.

Author of "The Making of a Surgeon" and "Surgeon Under the Knife"

When Dr. William A. Nolen, best-selling author of "The Making of a Surgeon," and other books, first experienced symptoms of heart trouble during a rugged game of racquetball last year, he ignored them. Tense, hard-driving, both at work and at play, he paused only long enough to catch his breath and allow the burning sensation in his throat to subside.

But the symptoms came back—and finally he realized he had no alternative but to go for a checkup.

The diagnosis was bad—much worse than he had expected. Before long, he was bound for Massachusetts General Hospital and massive surgery in which his chest was pried open and the arteries surrounding his heart were replaced by arteries from his leg. The operation was painful and traumatic. But just as traumatic was his "recovery" and his first tentative steps into a "new life"—the life of a heart-attack survivor.

Here, Doctor Nolen discusses the personal and emotional aftereffects so many male (and female) heart-attack victims face. It is the story of a man picking up the pieces, knowing that life will never be the same, but determined to carry on with all the vigor and enjoyment allowed him.

Most patients who have heart attacks go through a period of depression following their recovery. Usually the depression lasts about a year; then, if they are feeling good and have gone back to their jobs (or if that has become impossible, at least once again become active members of society at large), the depression dwindles away.

Patients who undergo heart surgery generally follow a similar pattern. Depression, lasting about a year, is a common sequence of the operation. The depression is caused by the knowledge that 1) you have been awfully close to death (technically, if we still defined death as "stoppage of the heart," you actually have been dead), and 2) you are never going to be quite the same again. (You will never again be "normal," anatomically speaking, as you were before the operation.)

Fortunately, though I've had a few "down" days since my operation, I can't say that I've been really depressed, certainly not to the extent that it has reportedly occurred in most patients who have gone through open-heart procedures. I attribute my lack of depression in part, certainly, to the fact that my postoperative course has, so far at least, been very smooth; actually, I feel as if I am now a much healthier individual, much less likely to die of a heart attack, than was the case before my operation. The doctors who supervise my care agree.

Sometimes I have the feeling that people who know me now look at me and think, "There's Bill Nolen. He's had his heart operated on. He's not quite normal any more." The feeling that people look on me as "different" bothers me. I know it's silly, and my wife Joan assures me that my friends don't think of me in that way, and I'm grateful for her reassurance. It would upset me if I felt that in any sort of competition, physical or otherwise, my competitor felt an obligation to "take it easy" on me. I'd guess that with time I'll realize that isn't going to happen: that no one is going to give me a break just because I've had a heart operation.

Certainly, now that I think of it, no one gave Lyndon Johnson or Eisenhower a "break" in the political wars just because they'd had heart attacks. And—an idea that buoys me up even more—no woman has apparently found any reason to reject Peter Sellers as a sex partner even though his heart stopped five times a few years back. I'll have to remember that the next time I begin to feel sorry for myself.

Another thing that often happens after recovery from a major illness is that the patient goes back to the lifestyle that got him into trouble in the first place; the smoker gets over pneumonia and lights up again; the alcoholic's liver disease improves, and he starts drinking; the heart patient, once he feels well, starts eating, drinking and living just as he did before he had trouble. We have very short memories.

I haven't been a complete exception to that rule, but—particularly in the areas which seem to me most important—I haven't done badly.

I have not, for example, gained any weight. Approximately five months after my operation, my weight remains between 170 and 175, about 25 pounds lighter than I was when I first entered the Massachusetts General Hospital.

I've managed this by sticking reasonably close to a schedule. I eat three times a day and don't eat excessively at any meal. Breakfast is usually cold cereal with a banana; lunch is an omelette (made with egg substitute) or a sandwich; dinner is whatever the rest of the family is having.

I used to prefer to eat late—anywhere from 7:30 till 9:30—and while waiting to eat, I'd nibble on cheese, salami, crackers and whatever else was in the refrigerator.

"Sometimes I have the feeling that people who know me now look at me and think, 'There's Bill Nolen. He's had his heart operated on. He's not quite normal any more.'"

I'd also have three or four drinks.

Now I eat at 6 or 6:15. If I have a drink, it's iced tea. I am so used to this schedule that if I don't eat by 6:30 I get terribly hungry.

After dinner, while I sit and read, I may have a couple of scotch and waters. Drinking after dinner, for those who want to drink at all—and I do—offers two advantages over predinner drinking. First, I drink less. Second, I don't get that overwhelming tired feeling that I used to get after dinner if I'd had three or four predinner drinks. I get a lot more out of reading in the evening than I used to.

I am not as rigid about what I eat as I was in the first few weeks after my operation. My cholesterol levels are invariably in the low-normal range, so I allow myself to eat eggs occasionally, usually when I'm eating breakfast out. But since the fake eggs work well in omelettes, I stick with them when I'm home.

I've found cheeses that are 85 to 95 percent fat-free and taste pretty good, so we keep them in stock, as well as cholesterol-free mayonnaise. Joan buys tuna fish that's packed in water instead of oil. I've even found peanut butter that has neither salt nor any saturated fats. (You see, even though I know, rationally, that low-cholesterol diets aren't definitely beneficial, I can't shake the emotional bias I have in their favor.) Since I tend to run a slightly elevated triglyceride level, I stay away from sugar. Sugar substitutes are fine on cereal, and I've never been much for desserts anyway.

Actually, none of these dietary changes has bothered me at all. In fact, it has been a revelation to me to find how easy it is to stay on a low-sugar, low-cholesterol diet without making any painful sacrifices. Incidentally, a low-sugar, low-cholesterol diet almost invariably is a low-calorie diet as well.

Let me admit that I have, on occasion, gone off my diet. It's very difficult when eating out to stick to my routine. But an occasional digression doesn't do any harm. Except on those few occasions when—as in the old days—I drink too much. Then I pay, as does anyone who drinks too much, with a hangover.

On October 8, approximately three months after my operation, I had my second stress test.

I dreaded it. I knew I could run a half mile without any trouble, but I was still concerned that the electrocardiogram would show changes when I was running on the treadmill. I took a sleeping pill the night before the test.

The stress test was completely normal. In June, when I'd first taken it, significant changes had occurred after two minutes of running. This time I ran for seven minutes, got my pulse up to 140 a minute, and there were no changes at all on my EKG. The only reason I quit at 140 was that I was too tired to go on; I had no pain, no shortness of breath, none of the distress I'd had before the operation. Both Joan and I were delighted.

The day after this stress test, I played my first postoperative game of racquetball. I was back on the court where the whole nightmare had begun. I was tense at first, worried that I might have trouble, but once I got into the game, I relaxed. It was a tough match, but I had no pain and never had to take a break.

To my great delight, despite my four-month layoff, I won.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Whole Truth About Being Truthful

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. A habitual liar thinks most people are just as deceitful as he is.
2. How willing a person is to excuse a lie depends on whether he is of high or low status, a boss or an employee.
3. When you're not telling the truth, it's your face that's most likely to give you away.
4. If you're really a student of human nature, it's easy to tell whether someone is telling the truth or not.
5. How justifiable a falsehood seems is likely to depend on the sex of the perpetrator and that of the listener.
6. There are many people who never lie, and who, as a consequence, are seldom lied to.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies show that people tend to project—to attribute their own personality characteristics to others. And it has been truly observed that "It is hard to believe that a man is telling the truth when you know that you would tell a lie if you were in his place."
2. True. Studies show that the higher a person's status, the more unwilling he is to forgive liberties taken with the truth. A boss or other high-status individual is more likely to regard "bending the truth" as inexcusable than someone in a lower business or social position.
3. False. Psychological studies at the University of California have shown that when a person isn't telling the truth he gives himself away more by body movements than by facial expressions. It appears that while the prevaricator may take pains to mask or control his facial expressions, he gives little thought to altered body movements, which are more likely to alert the astute observer. And another university study showed that when a person is lying he stands farther away from the person he is addressing than he ordinarily would.
4. False. In studies at the University of Vienna, investigators conducted an interesting experiment: Tape-recorded interviews of 20 "liars" and 20 "nonliars" were presented to 21 experienced detectives, 145 psychology students and 200 high-school students. None of the three groups was more successful than the other in detecting the liars.

True or False? When you're not telling the truth, it's your face that's most likely to give you away. (See No. 3)

5. True—as indicated by studies conducted by a team of Loyola University researchers, which showed that "female subjects saw it least reprehensible when a female lied to a male and most reprehensible when a male lied to a female. The opposite trend occurred with males."

6. False. As two leading behavior specialists conclude, after summing up the findings of a consensus of studies on the subject: "The behavior of lying is something that most, if not all, of us have experienced both as listener and liar." And as one psychoanalyst observes in a definite treatise on the dynamics of deception: What we have yet to examine properly is what kind of lies we tell and under what circumstances and toward what end. There are white lies ("If that's the office calling, tell them I've got the flu or something." "I'm really only 29," etc.); malicious lies (to malign, annoy or injure); kind lies (told to spare another's feelings); and untold lies ("I suppose I should have spoken up, but I really didn't want to get involved").

Tammy Wynette:

She Just Couldn't Get Used to Being Alone...

Raeanne Rubenstein

"When the girls are home, it doesn't bother me that bad. But sometimes it's just me. And when it is, a 20-room house gets really, really big—especially after dark."

By Carol Offen

With her four daughters all in the wedding party, country singer Tammy Wynette remarried on July 18, after being divorced from former singing partner George Jones for nearly a year. In a quiet outdoor ceremony at her Nashville home, the singer married Michael Tomlin, a real estate businessman from Nashville.

This interview was conducted before Tammy had announced her wedding plans. In fact, Michael's name never came up. But the picture that emerged during the interview was of a wistful, lonely woman who—behind all the lights and glitter of her profession—was still looking for "Mr. Right." Perhaps she's found him.

FAMILY WEEKLY: How do you take proper care of yourself when you spend so much time on the road?

TAMMY: Well, you don't sleep right. Many nights I sleep two or three hours in uncomfortable hair rollers. My bus is all right, but there's just no way you can sleep like you can in your bed at home. When we get to a motel, there's maybe three hours before I play, so I'll have a hot dog or a hamburger instead of a regular meal. I take a lot of vitamins. If I didn't, I don't think I would stay as active.

FW: Do you get to spend much time with your daughters?

TAMMY: It's hard, but I do. My girls are 15, 13, 11 and 5. With the two oldest girls, it works out so well. They love to bowl, also fish—and there are lots of little things we like to do together. Now, Tina, 11, wants to work the road because she had a record out that did really well, and she wants to record again. Until she brings up her grades, though, Mama's not going to let her, because—and I don't think I'm being unfair to her—she's got to be a child first, before she's a singer. Child stars lose so much of just being a kid.

FW: Do the older girls have any interest in show business?

TAMMY: No, they hate it. They absolutely hate it. Not that they hate country music, they're just very shy, quiet personalities. And if I introduce them all from the stage when they're sitting out in the audience, Jackie and Gwen will both scrunch down [Tammy imitates them by slinking down, as if trying to hide] . . . but Tina and Georgette will take bows, throw kisses, the works. [She shakes her head and laughs.] They're the funniest kids!

FW: How do the children, particularly the young ones, react when you have dates now?

TAMMY: Well, since George and I have been divorced, they've only seen me go out three times, and each was with a different guy. No resentment, no anything. They were excited. You know—"Mommy's got a date!"

FW: Is it true that you were dating Burt Reynolds?

TAMMY: Well . . . I did go out with Burt, yes. But it was just a very good friendship. It's something I don't want a lot of publicity about because Burt is a very special person, and I don't think he deserves to have his name dragged around. All I'll say is that he's just a fabulous man, and my children loved him.

FW: What's been the most difficult adjustment since the divorce?

TAMMY: Just in getting used to being alone, really. After all, for 15 years of my life, I was married. [She had two earlier marriages.] And all of a sudden I'm not. At night, I find myself thinking—not just because George isn't there, because he and I have developed a good relationship now—not of wanting to go back to him, but of being able to see each other without fight-

"I still like to have cigarettes lit for me, car doors opened—those little courtesies. That's the way I was raised."

ing or fussin'. It's simply the fact that I've never been alone. When the girls are home, it doesn't bother me that bad. But sometimes it's just me. And when it is, a 20-room house gets really, really big—especially after dark.

FW: Have you considered remarrying?

TAMMY: Well, I did for awhile, but I don't have any marriage plans. I'm just living one day at a time right now and enjoying it.

FW: Your dress styles seem to have changed a bit. You used to wear high-necked dresses, and I've noticed you wearing lower necklines lately.

TAMMY: I have changed some, but I still like high-necked dresses because I have a very long, thin neck. There again, after the divorce I wanted to change everything completely. Not myself, but I just didn't want to wear the same clothes that I had. So I went out and bought different things and tried to coordinate my clothes with the outfits of my singing group.

FW: "Stand By Your Man" made such an impact on your image, yet people who know you probably consider you fairly "liberated." Which is the true you?

TAMMY: Well, when we wrote the song, it meant an awful lot to me. And it still does. We were criticized heavily because of Women's Lib, but we didn't write it for anything but a pretty love song. I feel if a woman loves a man, she should stand by him. If a man loves a woman, he should stand by her. But that doesn't mean take any and everything that happens.

FW: So you don't think it's all one-sided . . .

TAMMY: No, I didn't mean that just because one's a man he can do anything. I don't think that's right. I am glad to see women have a little more freedom than what they've had. But I don't fight for Women's Lib, because I don't want to climb any telephone poles and I don't want to dig ditches and do things that aren't really feminine. I still like to have cigarettes lit for me, car doors opened—those little courtesies. That's the way I was raised in Mississippi, and the way I've always lived. And I still feel that someday, somewhere, there is somebody that will make me fully believe in that song again.

"I thought I'd need a salesman's personality to be out selling Avon. Not true at all. I do fine just being myself!"

Cynthia Gravitt
Tustin, California

"I'm not the aggressive type and I'm shy about meeting new people. But selling Avon cosmetics really is a friendly business. My customers are happy to see me and make me feel welcome. It's amazing how much confidence I've built up since I became an Avon Representative.

Running my own business gives me a great deal of freedom. I'm able to work Avon around my family life. If my son Chad gets a cold, I can be with him as long as he needs me. That's the beauty of being your own boss.

All in all, Avon has made a beautiful difference in my life. It keeps me fresh and young. I'm more conscious of the way I look. And I've made a lot of new friends. Best of all, Avon has taught me I can just be myself, and everything else falls right into place."

Baseball's George Brett: And Suddenly
We Have a New Superstar!

As a youngster in Hermosa Beach, Calif., George Brett had three older brothers who were good baseball players. As the baby of the group, George had to shag flies while his elders took their turns hitting. George's one ambition was to be as good as his brothers. . . . He has achieved that ambition—and more. He is now the blue-chip third baseman for the Kansas City Royals, has maintained a phenomenally high batting average and has proved to be such a slick fielder that Manager Whitey Herzog says he may be the best all-around player in the American League. As a fielder, teammate Fred Patek puts him in the same class as Brooks Robinson. . . . Only one of George's brothers made it to the big leagues—Ken Brett, a pitcher with the Chicago White Sox. Ken has a reputation of being a great hitting pitcher—three years ago he hit four home runs in four consecutive pitching starts. But George has upstaged him. When Ken was pitching for the Yankees early this year, George faced him for the first time—and slammed a home run. . . . Still, the 23-year-old George is very close to his brother. "Ken left home to play baseball when I was only 12, so I didn't know him very well," George says. "When he pitched for Boston in the 1967 World Series, I realized just how good he was. I idolized him." . . . A sandy-haired six-footer who attracts large numbers of female fans, George says his brother's influence is an important reason why he remains single. "I see all the fun he's had and all the money he's been able to save. I decided to pattern my lifestyle after him." . . . Brett was drafted by Kansas City in 1971. His major-league debut was not auspicious. But in 1974, he did well enough to finish third in the "Rookie of the Year" balloting, and in 1975 he batted over .300, hit 11 homers and led his league in hits. . . . Brett credits Charley Lau, the Royals' batting coach, for making him a consistent hitter. Lau, in turn, says Brett is a "true artist with the bat—a player who doesn't have a weakness, and so can hit all pitchers to all fields."

Doctor's Amazing Reducing Plan Helps

DISSOLVE THE FAT RIGHT OUT OF YOUR BODY!

Yes, here it is—a Doctor's safe, effective substitute for high-powered Reducing Drugs!

Yes, lose as much as 10, 20, 30 even 50 pounds or more
 ■ without gruelling exercise ■ without starvation diets
 ■ without a single moment of ravenous hunger thanks to the most powerful reducing aid ever released for public use without a prescription!

How? By attacking the basic cause of overweight — overeating — and actually helping your body convert the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into fat!

From the office of the doctor who has taken even the most stubborn overweight cases and shown them a thrilling way to slash away pounds and inches in what seems like NO TIME AT ALL . . . comes proof of a medically proven approach that gives you the great ecstasy of slimness without the agony of gnawing hunger — yes, spectacular weight-loss results even if at this very moment you are 10 . . . 20 . . . 30 . . . 50 pounds overweight . . . or more!

NOW! TURN FOOD INTO ENERGY INSTEAD OF INTO FAT!

The secret behind this doctor's "no-hunger" eating program to a slimmer, trimmer figure . . . is a wondrous way to convert all the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into FAT! Yes, step up your body's rate of fat burn-off just like you'd step up a furnace. Actually help eliminate unsightly FLAB all over your body — by using it as a source of energy that your body burns up and flushes away. That's right . . . excess pounds and inches literally consumed by your own body chemistry . . . once you trigger the FAT REDUCING PROCESS with this proven formula for success. So effective is this doctor's medically proven program, that during the very first 3 days alone you'll see weight disappear from sight at the incredible rate of up to SIX POUNDS OF FAT AND FLUID GONE BY THE VERY FIRST 72 HOURS! In fact — and the doctor says note this carefully — depending upon how overweight you are, the more you weigh, the more you should initially lose.

Before starting this program, consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes, or thyroid disease should use only as directed by a physician. As a matter of fact, we urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this is a medically sound approach to the problem of obesity.

PROVEN ON SCORES OF PATIENTS — STARTLING WEIGHT LOSSES EVEN ON PEOPLE WHO HAD RUNAWAY APPETITES!

For years one of the most effective aids doctors used to attack the basic cause of fat build-up, overeating, was amphetamines. Only trouble: the side effects from amphetamines were so shattering it was often easier to live with the fat than to be plagued with insomnia, nervous jitters and worst of all, in some cases, even addiction. But now, suppose a doctor who has successfully treated obese patients for years told you that there now exists an EFFECTIVE SUBSTITUTE FOR HIGH-POWERED DRUGS. A fantastic program that includes THE MOST POWERFUL REDUCING AID EVER APPROVED BY THE GOV'T. FOR SALE TO THE PUBLIC WITHOUT A PRESCRIPTION. Yet so effective, that when you launch yourself on this doctor's proven capsule-program 4 things happen in your body:

■ Those gnawing hunger pangs disappear, it takes less food to satisfy you therefore you have less caloric intake.

■ The foods you do eat, instead of being stored up as fat are now converted into a source of energy that your body burns away.

■ The layers of fat that up to now seemed impossible to budge, are suddenly consumed, broken down and used by your own body chemistry . . . to provide the energy needs of your body.

■ And even though you may carve away as much as a staggering 20, 30, 50 pounds OR MORE . . . you do it without the risk of speed drugs like amphetamines, dexedrine, benzadrine. Why, do you realize what this means to you?

NOW SHRINK THE FAT CELLS IN YOUR BODY THIS DOCTOR'S PROVEN WAY

It means that now when you combine this powerful pill with this doctor's sensible, satisfying eating program, you not only lose weight starting right now, but you do not have to ever again suffer those gnawing pangs of hunger . . . ever again saddle yourself with an exhausting rigid system of exercise . . . ever again torture and starve yourself to death on some ridiculous fad diet . . . only to have your willpower snap and the pounds come rebounding back. Matter of fact, and though this may startle you . . . you are ordered by this doctor to eat 3 meals a day with such luscious foods as steak, chops, etc. You are never once asked to pit your hunger against a cast-iron willpower. For, just as he shows his own patients how to eat their way to slimmness . . . this doctor lays down his own law to you: "Never starve yourself . . . there's no need to. You can eat mouthwatering steaks, roasts, chops, etc. as I tell you . . . and take one of these tiny golden capsules one to two hours before each meal." It's as simple as that. Naturally, we don't want to kid you. You can't gorge yourself on unlimited quantities of food and still lose weight. Instead, here's the doctor's way to replace all those zany, half-baked fad-diets of the past with a high-powered pill and a doctor's sure, sensible satisfying eating program that SHRINKS AWAY FAT LIKE NEVER BEFORE!

WHO EVER DREAMED OF SUCH A THRILLING WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT?

Picture this thrilling scene: Just 3 days have passed since you have started on this doctor's sensational program and you've taken your first few capsules. You have not missed a single meal . . . not done any torturous exhausting exercise . . . just the doctor's simple nitely tone-up program that's actually pleasant to do! You've just taken your first giant step on your march to slimmness. So you step on the scale, and here's what happens.

You can't believe your eyes . . . for the first time in your life SUCCESS! Yes, you've started to win the war against fat. For what could be greater proof than the reading on your scale . . . AS MUCH AS 6 POUNDS OF FLUID AND FAT GONE IN JUST 72 HOURS. That's right! You, without even feeling it . . . without even noticing it . . . have actually discovered how to shed excess pounds and inches, like never before. And in the days and weeks to follow . . . just as gently, your body will continue to LOSE AND DRAIN AWAY, SHRINK AWAY, DISSOLVE AWAY 10 — 20 — 30 even 50 POUNDS of excess fat . . . until at long last you will have achieved your life-long goal . . . a new, slender body, a slim streamlined figure!

Proof Of Temporary Relief From Minor Arthritic Pain

PHILADELPHIA—Tests at a Philadelphia nursing home have shown that Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub brings hours of temporary relief to minor arthritic pain, and can help improve mobility. The tests were conducted at The Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Women, with an instrument designed to measure grip strength. Each woman first tested her grip; then applied Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub. Its greaseless, stainless formula warms deep, eases stiffness, soothes pain. Hours later when tested again, the grip strength of most of those tested had significantly improved.

Use as directed.

What's Smart: Did you know these facts about yogurt?

- Yogurt is very easily digested and assists the digestive tract in assimilating other food more easily.
- Yogurt is an excellent source of protein. One cup of whole-milk yogurt contains 7 grams of protein.
- Pros at the Forest Hills U.S. Open Tennis matches last year reportedly ate 8,000 containers of yogurt in two weeks.

What in the World!

CINDY WILLIAMS
Middle-class sanity

Why success won't spoil 28-year-old Cindy Williams, better known as Shirley on ABC-TV's "Laverne and Shirley": "This show has made me an overnight success," said Cindy, "but I haven't let it go to my head. I grew up in a lower-middle-class family, and that background will always be a part of me. It taught me an invaluable lesson—the ability to be happy under any circumstances. Being an actress causes you to live an extreme life at times, and you need the stability I had growing up to sustain you. Sure, I like the money because I can help my mother pay off her mortgage, but mostly money is one big headache. There's nothing I really couldn't live without. I feel just as comfortable in tacky clothes as I do in expensive ones. The only time I'm really extravagant is at restaurants. I was a waitress once, and, knowing how rotten a job it is, I overtip good waitresses."

JOHN ROBINSON AND GEORGE MACAREE
Which of these men will be the new Heavyweight Champion?

May the biggest man win: George MacAree (right) and John Robinson have decided to stand and fight it out for the title of Britain's fattest man. John has thrown down the gauntlet to George and pledges to oust him from the "Guinness Book of World Records" where George's 553 pounds have immortalized him as England's heaviest resident. George's response: "He hasn't got a chance." John, at only 497 pounds, is willing to admit there's a long road ahead. But as the Battle of the Bulge continues, he's been having a field day: "I love my food and eat everything I want to. I am now eating that little bit extra to gain more weight." (His daily diet includes eight pounds of potatoes, two dozen oysters and four loaves of bread.) He adds prudently: "If the doctor tells me this will affect my health, I'll give it up straightaway." Wise words from a model of moderation!

One of the pitfalls of selecting an All-America college football team is that some of the greatest players are young men

G. Robert Lahn

John "Fuzzy" Filliez even few experts have ever heard of. Take John Filliez of Marshall University, Huntington, W.Va. Filliez, a wide receiver known to his fans as "Fuzzy," has all the credentials for bigtime stardom. In his junior season last year, he caught 50 passes for seven touchdowns and wound up the leading active receiver in the N.C.A.A. with 128 career receptions totaling 1,466 yards and 10 TD's. If he catches 50 passes this year, he will move into fifth place among the all-time N.C.A.A. receivers. If he catches as many as 56, he will vault into third place. Fuzzy's accomplishments are all the more remarkable when you consider that he has been constantly doubled and tripled on defense and that Marshall has had the unflattering records of 4-7, 1-10 and 2-9 during his three seasons. It was Gaylen Duskey, Sports Editor of the Raleigh Register in Beckley, W.Va., who called our attention to Fuzzy and the fact that he was not included on the ballot for our annual All-America team. Our apologies to Fuzzy—and to all the other unsung football heroes who labor in the shadow of the major football powerhouses.

ANTIQUE WARY

I love the store that sells antiques,
Original or copy.
It's just a bit antique itself,
Not shop, of course, but shoppe.

It's full of items odd and old
On counter, shelf, and floor.
I find I often have to ask,
"What is it? What's it for?"

I love this little store, I say,
So cluttered and informal.
By contrast, when I leave the place
I feel more young and normal.

I SAW THEM BUT THEY DIDN'T SEE ME. OUR MANAGER BOLO IS A CROOK. HE EVEN BETRAYED MY LOVE.

HE'S ENGAGED TO ANOTHER GIRL!

WE NEVER SUSPECTED THAT THEY WERE IN LOVE, MR. TRACY, OR THAT BOLO WAS CHEATING US! OH, IF ONLY WE COULD LAY OUR HANDS ON HIM NOW!

MORE SERIOUS THAN ALL THIS, BOLO MAY BE INVOLVED IN A MURDER.

BULLET RECOVERED FROM "RIDE" VICTIM'S BODY

MISS DOWNSPLOUT, SHALL I WRITE ABOUT WHAT HAPPENED?

NO, POTEET! THAT WAR-PROFITEER HEIRESS WAS BURNING BECAUSE I WON'T DO A FEATURE STORY ON HER!

SHE WAS GUNNING FOR ME - THROUGH YOU!

-SHE HAS A B-MOVIE, CHEAP-NOVEL MIND!...

...SO-I EXPECTED SHE'D TRY SOMETHING OUT OF EARLY TELEVISION

...SUCH AS PLANTING JEWELRY IN YOUR LUGGAGE!

THEN REPORTING A THEFT - SO YOU'D BE ACCUSED - AND IT WOULD REFLECT ON THE MAGAZINE AND ME!

POTEET'S HOUSEPARTY HOSTESS TRIED TO PLANT A NECKLACE IN POTEET'S ONLY UNLOCKED BAG - WHEN OPENED, THE LUGGAGE DISCHARGED A BLAST OF BRIGHT RED DYE!

MILTON CANIFF

JUST-AH-ONE QUESTION...

WHAT IF I HAD FORGOTTEN AND OPENED THE UNLOCKED BAG?

THEN YOU WOULD HAVE DISOBEYED MY ORDERS...

-AND YOU'D STILL BE TRYING TO SCRAPE OFF THE RED DYE!

MEANWHILE....

MRS. CANYON, I KNOW YOU DON'T LIKE TO OPEN THE DOOR...

BUT THIS IS A REGISTERED LETTER FROM STEVE CANYON - AND YOU MUST SIGN FOR IT!
