Peking Announces Mao Is Dead After 27-Year Rule

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tsetung, who led the Communist revolution to victory in China in 1949 and dominated the world's most populous nation for the next 27 years, died early today, Peking announced.

He was 82 and had been slowly failing for many months. Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said the founding father of the People's Republic of China died at 12:10 a.m. (12:10 p.m. EDT Wednesday) "because of the worsening of his illness and despite all treatment, although meticulous medical care was given him in every way after he fell ill."

The broadcast did not give the nature of the final illness.

The announcement of Mao's death was delayed for about 16 hours, the same length of time that intervened before the death of Premier Chou En-lai was announced last Jan. 8.

The White House and the U.S. State Department in Washington had no immediate comment on Mao's death.

Mao's death was expected to intensify the power struggle that has shaken Peking intermittently for years and that flared up with renewed intensity after Chou's death.

There has been no designation of his successor as chairman of the Chinese Communist party, the country's most powerful post, which he had held since 1955.

Presumably Premier Hua Kuo-feng is next in line since he was also named first vice chairman of the party when he was raised to the premiership five months ago. But his elevation is not assured.

Others who appear to be in the running are Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, a leader of the radical faction of the party; her proteges, Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, Wang Hung-wen and Yao Wen-yuan; party vice chairman and defense minister Yeh Chien-ying; and Chen Hsi-lien, commander of Peking units of the 3½-million-man Liberation Army. Wang also is a vice chairman of the party.

The party constitution provides that a plenary session of the 195-member Central Committee elects the new chairman.

Hsinhua said Mao's body would lie in state in the Great Hall of the People for one week beginning Saturday for Chinese leaders and the masses to pay their last respects.

All recreational activities will be suspended until Sept. 18, when a solemn memorial rally will be held in Peking's Tien An Men (Gate of Heavenly Peace) Square, where almost 27 years ago Mao announced the founding of the People's Republic.

All factories and neighborhoods will arrange for the population to listen to or watch live radio and television broadcasts of the rally, Hsinhua said, and at exactly 3 p.m. (3 a.m. EDT) all Chinese "wherever they are" should stand at attention for three minutes in silent tribute, "with the exception of those whose work cannot be interrupted." Trains, ships and factories are to sound their sirens at the same time.

Hsinhua did not mention burial arrangements. It said no "foreign governments, fraternal parties or friendly personages" would be invited to send representatives. A Japanese correspondent in Peking said crowds gathered in Tien An Men Square soon after Mao's death was announced. A huge portrait of Mao was displayed and many of the mourners wept, the reporter said.

A peasant's son who became one of the 20th century's greatest revolutionaries, Mao not only deeply influenced the lives of his countrymen but also became a model for revolutionaries in many of the backward regions of the earth.

A classical poet, calligrapher, hard-headed politician, guerrilla strategist and audacious thinker, he led the long struggle which ended with the triumph of communism in China and then broke with the Soviet Communist party in a schism that split the Communist world. His passing raises the compelting question of how long his own brand of communism — called Maoism — will survive in China. Much will depend on how those who follow him interpret and apply his ideals and teaching.

A believer in the masses and permanent revolution, Mao spearheaded many revolutions during his long and turbulent lifetime. In one, he trampled upon and sought to destroy the rule of the centuries-old elite — the landlords, rich merchants, intellectuals, officials and warlords — whose privileges were defended by 25 centuries of Confucian thinking.

He aimed to turn over this power to the poor peasants, city workers and soldiers. Besides ripping up the tightly sewn fabric of Chinese rule, he tore great rents in its long dormant society, insisting that the new proletarian overlords revolutionize their personal lives.

Highway 264 Body 'Pleased' By Data

By BETTY SANDERSON
Reflector Staff Writer

"The Highway 264 Committee was extremely pleased with the preliminary findings reported by the out-of-state consulting firm," said Tom Taft, committee president, of the committee meeting held yesterday morning in Farmville.

"The facts, figures and other supporting information all tend to support the need for four-laning 264 from Washington to Wilson as an immediate priority," Taft told the Daily Reflector today.

"However, there were several areas of subjective judgments and viewpoints that we take issue with and we will make a written statement concerning these to the Dept. of Transportation."

Taft was among many concerned Greenville citizens who attended the meeting concerning the possibility of four-laning Hwy. 264 and Hwy. 64.

At the meeting William S. Pollard, of William S. Pollard Consultants in Tennessee, focused on current and projected growth in the study area, which is bordered by Greenville, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Farmville, Washington, Tarboro, and Williamston. He offered seven possible alternatives, with stress on the first three as being the most feasible.

1) four-lane Hwy. 64 from Rocky Mount to Williamston — estimated total cost $83.3 million, estimated length 44.5 miles;

2) four-lane Hwy. 264 from Wilson to Washington — cost $93.2 million, length 54 miles;

3) four-lane both 64 and 264 — cost $181.5 million, length 98.5 miles;

4) create a new four-lane highway from Rocky Mount to Washington (by-passing Greenville) — cost $82 million, length 46.6 miles;

5) four-lane parts of some highways (through Wilson, Rocky Mount, Greenville and Washington) — cost $144.3 million, length 78.6 miles;

6) four-lane parts of several highways (by-passing Greenville) — cost $194.5 million, length 105.4 miles.

Pollard stated that, while current highways are capable of handling traffic flow sufficiently, by the year 2000 only a few will be up to the minimum acceptable level. He suggested that highways 64, 264 and 258 by four-laned and that the section of 264 around Greenville between Hwy. 11 and Hwy. 43 be six-laned to handle projected traffic flow.

The traffic flow in the study area is currently heaviest around Greenville, on Hwy. 264, with the second heaviest traffic on Hwy. 301 north of Wilson. Projected estimates for 2000 indicate relative increases, with Greenville still being the site of heaviest traffic.

Pollard noted that in the year 2000 (design year for the study) the economic base of the area will be centered on Greenville, Rocky Mount and Wilson. Out-migration is currently stabilizing and will be a factor in increased population. Increasing trends toward manufacturing should also affect the population increase which began in the 1960's.

By 2000, Pollard said, 51 percent of the area's population will be within urban areas and these people will generate most of the traffic flow. In 1975 the

Taping Device In Wallace Bedroom; 'Domestic' Item

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)

Gov. and Mrs. George C. Wallace were to host a reception today for Rosalynn Carter, the wife of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, despite Wallace's disclosure Wednesday that the discovery of a taping system in his bedroom is purely a "domestic matter between my wife and myself."

At a hastily called news conference Wednesday, Wallace confirmed reports that a recording device had been discovered in his bedroom at the Governor's Mansion. He also disclosed that a number of tapes had been discovered, emphasizing that there was no political motive for the taping.

"This happened in my bedroom between me and my wife," he explained. "What happens between me and my wife, as long as it doesn't affect the state of Alabama or my service as governor, remains the business of me and my wife."

Wallace refused to answer reporters' inquiries regarding specifics. His brief impromptu remarks came in response to reports a day earlier by a Montgomery television station, WSFA-TV, and a Birmingham radio station, WSGN, that an extensive taping system had been discovered by state troopers at the mansion.

Both stations, quoting unidentified sources, reported the system had been installed without Wallace's knowledge but apparently with the knowledge of his wife, Cornelia.

WSFA-TV further reported that Wallace, when informed of the taping system and hundreds of recordings of his business and personal calls, ordered his wife out of the mansion, threatening her with divorce.

Those reports stoked smoldering rumors of marital difficulties between the governor and his wife, and, more specifically, of a discovered tap that she had placed on his phone.

Rumors that Mrs. Wallace plans to run for governor in 1978 when her husband's term expires have also swept through the capital this summer, and the state's First Lady hasn't discouraged such speculation.

At Wednesday's news conference, Wallace haltingly noted, "There were some tapes and a device...purely domestic...all that was involved...no one harmed, no one hurt." At no point, however, did he specifically say that his wife had any knowledge of the "device."

The governor said it was "a business between my wife and myself" and there was "no politics involved." He added that the tapes had been destroyed.

He did not acknowledge any strained relationship with his wife as a result of the incident. He said, "I think we can better resolve our differences, if any, if the press would accept that this is purely a domestic matter."

Wallace prefaced his remarks with the observation that "being in politics is very difficult...more difficult since I was shot in Maryland in 1972."

The 57-year-old governor expressed appreciation to his 37-year-old wife for her aid and support following the assassination attempt at a Laurel, Md., shopping center during his campaign for the presidency.

That attempt left him paralyzed from the waist down. At a recent birthday celebration in his honor, Wallace admitted that his confinement to a wheelchair handicapped his campaign for the presidency again this year.

Wednesday he said it is "difficult to solve domestic matters under all the trying circumstances, especially if you are in politics."

About rumors that his wife is considering a race to succeed him as governor in 1978, Wallace said he "would be as strong for her as I was for my first wife."

A Capias For Jimmy Carter

Ayden officials issued an invitation to Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter to appear at the community's Collard Festival this weekend, but Tuesday, Carter campaign headquarters said the former Georgia governor would not appear.

A capias—an order of the court for an individual's arrest and appearance—was issued for Jimmy Carter by Chief District Judge J. W. H. Roberts here yesterday.

But it was not the presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, that the capias was issued for.

Judge Roberts issued the order for Jimmy Carter of Route 1, Ayden, who failed to appear in court to answer a worthless check charge scheduled for trial Wednesday.

HEADS THE LIST

My mother has been trying since 1972 to get into public housing in Greenville. Now her landlord's going up on her rent again and she feels really desperate. We just can't understand why the long delay. D. D.

HOTLINE talked to Sallie Streeter, director of tenant affairs with the Greenville Housing Authority. She said your mother was once offered a two-bedroom apartment, but turned it down because she was ill at the time. (This was verified at the time, she said.) Her status then changed when her daughter and grandson moved out of the home, Mrs. Streeter understood and she was put in the one-bedroom waiting file. One bedrooms are much more difficult to obtain, since most of these are occupied by elderly persons who just don't move. Mrs. Streeter said there have been only four one-bedrooms vacated in the past four years. Recently, though, she went on, your mother let the Authority know that she again has a grandson living with her and so she was again put on the two-bedroom list. She is at the head of this list now, she said, and hopefully will soon be notified of a vacancy. It's in her favor, Mrs. Streeter said, that she's willing to live in any of the public housing areas in the city.

Rosalynn Says Jimmy Probably The Underdog

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Rosalynn Carter, wife of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, said today she believes her husband will be the underdog in nationally televised debates with President Ford, but will be armed with a few surprises.

"The President can practice in the White House but Jimmy can't do that. He's got to be out campaigning," she said. "The President knows the workings of Congress and all, but Jimmy knows the people. I think the President will be surprised with what Jimmy knows."

The first of three televised debates between Carter and President Ford is scheduled later this month in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Carter campaigned briefly in the Charlotte area today before departing for Columbia, S.C. and Montgomery, Ala.

Asked her feelings about Republican Vice Presidential nominee Robert Dole showing up where Carter campaigns, she replied, "He's shown up everywhere Jimmy's gone. I think (press aide) Jody Powell made the comment that it's tacky. I think that might be appropriate. We'll campaign our way and see what happens."

Mrs. Carter said those opposed to abortion have a right to stage protests where her husband is campaigning. She reiterated, however, that her husband would oppose a constitutional amendment prohibiting abortions, while at the same time he is personally opposed to abortion.

She said the abortion issue has stirred dissension for the Carter campaign for 20 months.

Earlier this morning, Mrs. Carter toured a kindergarten program at Pawtucket Elementary School in northwest of Charlotte. There she greeted teachers and spoke with several of the 112 five-year-olds in the large room.

"It's just so important to see that these children are prepared for the first grade," she said later, "I had heard about your statewide (kindergarten) program here and wanted to see it."

Defecting Soviet Pilot Is On His Way To U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet pilot who landed his supersecret MIG25 jet in Japan left today aboard a commercial airliner for asylum in the United States.

U.S. officials accompanied the defecting Soviet air force flier, Lt. Viktor I. Belenko.

Soviet sources said the pilot left a wife and daughter in the Soviet Union. They said Mrs. Belenko expressed disbelief that her husband had defected.

His flight Monday in the world's fastest warplane touched off a diplomatic row between Moscow and Tokyo. It also gave the United States and Japan an intelligence bonanza, the chance to examine thoroughly the Soviet Union's most advanced fighter aircraft and to question the pilot about his training.

Kensuke Yanagita, a Foreign Ministry spokesman, said Japan is fully entitled to inspect the MIG25 since it entered Japanese territory illegally.

Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Polyanski charged today in a meeting with Foreign Ministry officials that Japan had shown an "unfriendly attitude" toward the Soviet Union by refusing to return the defector and his plane immediately. Moscow had lodged six previous protests.

After refusing for four days to speak with Soviet officials, the 29-year-old pilot was persuaded by Japanese authorities to meet with representatives of the Soviet Embassy shortly before he left for Honolulu and the U.S. mainland.

There was no indication of what transpired at the meeting, but Belenko smiled and waved to reporters as he walked out of a police station afterward.

A Soviet official reported that Polyanski, in an hour-long meeting with Foreign Ministry officials, said the Japanese government has met none of the Soviet demands since the pilot made a "mistaken" landing Monday.

He claimed that the Japanese government "fabricated" its announcement that Belenko wanted political asylum. The ambassador contended that some television film and press photographs showed force being used to restrain the pilot because he was handcuffed in a patrol car and police pushed his head down.

'Harmless' Fantasy Is A Harassment

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If I were a Catholic, I'd go to confession and get this guilt off my conscience, but seeing as how I'm a Baptist, I'm writing to you instead.

I'm a grown woman, but I've been acting like a schoolgirl about a man in town. I became infatuated with him two years ago, and I haven't been able to leave him alone since.

I've sent him anonymous love letters, cards and poems, and I've even called him on the phone to hear his voice, but I always hang up right away.

I've waited on street corners just to catch a glimpse of him, but I've never spoken to him. He knows someone has a crush on him, but he doesn't know who.

Abby, I can't get this man out of my mind. I even dream about him. Is it wrong to enjoy a little harmless fantasy?

Sometimes I hate myself for pestering him like I do, but I can't seem to help myself. Just writing this has made me feel better. Thanks for listening.

FULLY GROWN CHILD

DEAR CHILD: It's not "a little harmless fantasy" to call a man on the phone and hang up. And sending anonymous letters, cards and poems can make him feel threatened and uncomfortable.

You are guilty of harassment—which is punishable by law. I urge you to leave the man alone, for his sake and me. I'm 23 and he is 27.

I have a 6-year-old brother who my husband feels should say, "Yes, Ma'am" and "No, Ma'am" to me, and "Sir" to him.

I strongly disagree, Abby, I don't want a brother of mine saying "Ma'am" to me, no matter what age he is.

I've asked a lot of people how they feel about this "Ma'am and Sir" business and have gotten mixed reactions. I'd like to know how you feel about it.

NOT "MA'AM" IN MOBILE, ALA.

DEAR NOT: In Iowa where I was raised, children addressed adults with "Ma'am" and "Sir" to show respect for their elders.

Senior Citizens Now Have International Organization

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT GENEVA (UPI) — Olivier Jan, an airline sales manager, worried about his parents. His father, 83, and mother, 74, felt lonely and cut off from society. The children had long since left home and had little time to visit.

Jan's job took him around the world but especially to the United States, where he organized group tours for senior citizen clubs.

"I saw that while such clubs exist in many countries, they are solitary units," he relates. "There should be a way for them to communicate with each other, to know what the others are doing, to exchange information and advice."

With two friends, similarly concerned, Jan decided to establish such an organization.

"The World Association for Senior Citizens Union," or WASCU, has now been officially registered as the latest addition to Geneva's long list of international organizations. In September, it will receive recognition as an international nongovernment body, with the same status as such organizations as the International Red Cross or World Council of Churches.

Jan, 44, a Frenchman — his parents live in Marseilles — is the first president. His unpaid contribution is his time and overall organization.

Jean Pierre Munier, 42, the son of a wealthy French banker and owner of a Geneva investment company, contributed an office and a secretary.

Frank Olivier Hay, 30, son of Alexandre Hay who was formerly president of the Swiss National Bank and who is now president of the International Red Cross, is the third member of the committee. A jurist, he is treasurer and legal counselor.

"We are totally voluntary and above all will never become just another international organization of highly paid functionaries," Jan said. "We ourselves charge no expenses other than for sundry items such as typing paper and postage. Our monthly newspaper will be financed by just enough advertising to cover printing costs."

WASCU has already received membership applications from 20 senior citizen associations with a total of six million members, mostly in the United States. "That's where such associations are best organized at the moment," Jan said.

But individuals can also join, with annual dues set at $10. For this they will receive the monthly newspapers in English, French or German containing general information, advice, news on what various associations are doing, advantageous travel opportunities and the like. They will also be registered in the central file.

"In this way we can arrange a pen-pal relationship between retired persons all over the world," Jan said.

"We will also arrange for exchange visits," he continued. "A retired person or couple, say in the United States, can write to us saying they would like a vacation in Europe but can't afford it. The same can be done by senior citizens in, say, Europe. We will put them in touch with each other and they can arrange to exchange their homes for a vacation. Thus, they will have only the travel costs."

Chapter Meet Held Recently

Alpha Nu chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, honorary sorority for women educators, met last week at the Ramada Inn with Mrs. Anne Hardee, president, presiding.

Mrs. Lois Haddock, chaplain, gave the devotion centered on influence.

Miss Alya Taylor gave highlights from the Southeastern Regional Conference held in Richmond, Va. She noted that District V, which encompasses the Greenville, Alpha Nu Chapter, and other eastern Carolina chapters, had the greatest number of sisters in attendance.

Ideas for publicizing Alpha Delta Kappa during ADK week were discussed. Possibilities included radio spots, television time, school bulletin boards, and newspaper articles.

The next meeting will be with the Alpha Iota Chapter Oct. 26 at Houston's.

Jan conceded that all this organizing will eventually mean a large staff — "perhaps as many as 50 people in five years time."

"But apart from a few fulltime employees — secretaries, translators and so on — the staff will be made up of at least 90 per cent retired people. The salaries will be small," he said.

"We aren't going to pass the hat around, getting other people to do something for the elderly. We want them to help themselves.

"We hope that the costs, which will be kept as low as possible, can be met through donations from foundations or large companies.

Emphasizing that WASCU is "nonpolitical, nonreligious and nonracial," Jan said that between 18 and 20 per cent of the population in western countries are people more than 65 years old.

"Ways must be found to make them feel they are useful, feel they are doing something constructive," he said.

"We are not just one more organization created to organize leisure time or settle personal problems. The fundamental purpose is to pool, by being a clearing house, the efforts of every existing association and individual for a general aim."

There will be an annual world congress — the first to be in nearby Lausanne next year — bringing together sociologists, psychologists, doctors, city planners, government officials and other experts as well as representatives of senior citizen associations.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I don't know how to tell you this, but I am not what I seem to be. There's a flaw in my personality. I have to be loved by everyone. This is because of a basic insecurity that people will not accept me just the way I am.

For example, I pretend to like big dogs. Even when I see them sectioning off my body with their eyes, I swagger up, pat them lightly on the head and say, "Killer doesn't want to play today, does he? It's too hot." I find myself lying to my host as I climb into the trunk of the car and shout, "Let Swat sit by the window. It's too much air on me anyway."

I also feel obliged to make every baby I meet not only smile, but giggle until his plumbing leaks. I inflate my cheeks, cross my eyes and dangle my car keys in front of the kid. When he starts to scream, I say something brilliant like, "Are you going to cry?" This is followed by a disgusting bit of dramatics in which I smack the car keys and say, "They're bad and they have to be punished for making baby cry." I feel like a fool, but who has the guts to turn their backs on a baby?

For years I have come out of the supermarket and felt this compulsion to tell the carry-out boy in complete detail why I am parked two and a half miles from the door when the parking lot is vacant. As his teeth fall asleep, I patiently explain that when I arrived the lot was full. However, the moment I hit the store, the cars hit the exit like a caravan. He doesn't believe a word of it.

Shameless is the word used to describe how I fawn about when in the presence of housewives. To creep into their little hearts, I will say things like, "Making bread is comparable to a religious experience with me." (When in fact the last time I baked bread I lost an election bet by predicting Dewey would be our next President.)

I've done a lot of compromising in my time in the name of security, but the other night at a movie, a couple hundred people were waiting in a line for 45 minutes. My varicose veins looked like they had just been starched and hung out to dry. Just as the doors opened and we began to inch in, two guys who had just arrived hopped in line just in front of me.

"What do you think we're waiting for? A bus? The end of the line is a half mile back. That's where you belong!"

As the applause from the line reached my ears, I have to admit—I never felt so secure or so loved in my life.

Ford 'For' Abortion Amendment

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he fully endorses the Republican party's position on abortion, although Ford's interpretation of that plank differs from what was widely assumed to be the GOP position on the volatile campaign issue.

"My position is that of the Republican platform," Ford told reporters Wednesday. "I have had the position for some time that there should be a constitutional amendment that would permit individual states to make the decision based on a vote of the people of each state."

But the Republican platform makes no mention of a return to the days when states determined the legal question — days ended by the 1973 Supreme Court ruling that struck down state laws flatly prohibiting abortion.

The platform states that the GOP "supports the efforts of those who seek enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life for unborn children."

Antiabortion leaders have interpreted that plank to refer to current efforts to adopt a constitutional amendment that bars abortions. But a White House spokesman has come forward to say it's not necessarily so.

After Ford said he endorsed the Republican platform, the White House spokesman said the GOP abortion plank encompasses the views of those persons who want a constitutional amendment banning abortion and those, like Ford, who want an amendment that would allow individual states to take charge.

The spokesman said that the word "restore" in the plank "means to go back to states' rights as it existed before" the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions under specified conditions.

While the Republican platform favors some kind of constitutional amendment, the Democrats do not.

The Democratic plank said that "while recognizing religious and ethical concerns, it (the party) opposes any attempt to amend the U.S. Constitution to overturn Supreme Court decisions upholding the legality of abortions."

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, who was jostled by a crowd that included screaming antiabortion demonstrators in Scranton, Pa., Tuesday night, has expressed his personal opposition to abortion.

He said he would do everything possible as president to cut federal spending for it. But he said he won't back any constitutional amendment to outlaw it.

The former Georgia governor's wife, Rosalynn, said Wednesday that her husband has agonized over the abortion question. "While Jimmy was governor we had to write a new law and we wrote the most conservative law the Supreme Court would allow," she said.

Ford told reporters that his and Carter's views on abortion differ and that the issue is a legitimate one.

"I think the American people ought to get an answer from Gov. Carter and myself on this issue, just like any other," he said.

Leaf Prices Held Steady

Prices held steady on the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday as local warehouses averaged $122.33 per hundred pounds for the sales day.

Wednesday's sale, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here, resulted in total poundage of 716,468 that brought $876,472.

The season average climbed to $109.74 per hundred pounds as the market sold 24,827,630 pounds for $27,245,290, Bryan reported.

Top practical price, as offerings consisted of leaf, smoking leaf, cutters and lugs, was $1.25 per pound with a range of $1.26 to $1.30. Some primings and non descript tobacco still showed up on warehouse floors, he said.

Stabilization receipts totaled only 1.82 per cent of total sales.

Two Are Killed As Brakes Fail

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP) — Two women were killed and four others injured late Tuesday as they returned from a funeral home and a visit with grieving friends, according to the state Highway Patrol.

The victims were identified as Ruth Weeks, 74, of Rutherfordton, and Johnnie Mae Shytles, 50, of Spindale.

Patrolman D.R. Saunders said the brakes on the car driven by Mary Lewis Martin, 52, of Rutherfordton, apparently failed, causing the car to slide into the path of a large truck.

Saunders said the car was entering a steep right-hand turn on N.C. 226 north of Marion near the McDowell-Mitchell County line when the brakes failed. The vehicle swerved across the road, struck the bank of a ditch and then slid back across the road before slamming into a tractor trailer. Saunders said the car then tumbled down a steep embankment.

Mrs. Weeks and Mrs. Shytles were riding in the back seat of the automobile, Saunders said.

Mrs. Martin was hospitalized with serious injuries along with two other Rutherfordton women — Mrs. Mae Walker, 61, and Mrs. Purnia Lewis, 58. They were all reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday.

Mrs. Elli Mae Mitchum, 61, was treated and released at the hospital.

Mrs. Lee Gregory, wife of the pastor of the church where the six women were members, said the women had gone to a funeral home in Spruce Pine Tuesday night to visit a church member whose mother had died.

Planning For 20 Years Ahead

A Memphis consulting firm, hired to make recommendations on highway needs in the U. S. 64-264 area, appears to be leaning toward the dual laning of both routes.

William S. Pollard of Pollard Consultants, said at a meeting in Farmville Wednesday that U. S. 64 from Rocky Mount to Williamston could be dual laned at an estimated cost of $83.3 million. Highway 264 could be four laned from Wilson to Washington at a cost of $93.2. The two projects would involve a total of 98.5 miles.

Pollard said studies show that U. S. 264 between Farmville and Greenville will be carrying traffic over its capacity by the year 2000. The same would be true for the highway between Rocky Mount and Tarboro and a section of U. S. 264 between Farmville and Wilson. This suggests that both highways need to be dual laned.

Of course, we are a long ways from coming to a final decision on what will be done in the U. S. 64-264 area, but we think the dual laning of both routes is the most feasible way to proceed. There are growing cities along U. S. 64 and we in this area know of the great growth in Wilson, Farmville, Greenville and Washington communities. We are planning highways for at least 20 years — and more — into the future and we know that an improved U. S. 264 is needed right now.

Planning and development of a dual laned U. S. 264 was underway at one time. This planning must be resumed and the work carried out. Too much time has been lost over the past four years.

Auditor Can Find No Fault

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—State auditors have determined that per pupil expenditures from state funds in local public schools does vary sharply, but found valid reasons for that.

"The difference between the highest (Madison County) and lowest (Washington County) . . . amounted to $245.65.

Madison received $876.48 per pupil in state money; Washington got $630.83.

"As a result of our examination we concluded that total per pupil expenditures is not a fair way to compare the equitableness of State funds allotted to local school units.

"Furthermore, we believe there are logical and justifiable reasons for the differences in per pupil expenditures.

"Therefore while per pupil expenditure is a useful and interesting statistic, differences between the various school units does not necessarily indicate that each unit did not receive a fair share of State appropriations," the auditor's report concluded.

A Measure
Per pupil spending has traditionally been a popular method of measuring the growth—and tangentially, success—of North Carolina's school system.

Last fiscal year, for the first time, that spending level passed the $1,000 mark for a statewide average. The State Department of Public Instruction made much of that milestone figure; pointing out that the total represented a combined state, federal and local supplemental amount.

Close study of the county-by-county spending reports disclosed that while the state average was above $1,000 per pupil, many school districts fell far below that figure, while others soared above it.

Further, the study disclosed the wide variance in actual State dollars spent per child, reflecting the same differences reported in the auditor's report. Those figures were first reported in this column last June.

Auditors carried out a detailed study of seven school systems to determine if the differential existed, and if so, why.

The study found many variables go into the spending patterns in each system, and auditors felt that while "the number of students is certainly the most important single basis for fund allocations . . . showing expenditures on a per pupil basis may be misleading."

The Variables
Some of the variables, Some of the variables, previously reported and again report, included salaries which may vary due to people with more experience or higher certification from one district to another; heating costs which are higher in the mountains than they are in the east; transportation costs which also vary due to geography; and existence of special programs.

The auditor's also concluded that, "although it is difficult to cite examples of this factor, the efficiency of (local) management and the effective utilization of available resources at the local level certainly play a part in the cost of education and thereby affect per pupil costs."

For the seven school systems studied, the report gives a complete breakdown on per pupil spending, with explanations for the differences.

In Madison County, for instance, transportation costs $110.62 per pupil (in the system, not on the bus) per year; in Washington, Cumberland County, Harnett County, and Fayetteville, the cost is from $27 to $35 per pupil. In Polk County the cost is $60 per child.

Plant operation does not reflect the wide variance in cost which had been previously indicated by school officials—from a low of $23.78 in Washington to a high of $29.68 in Madison is only a $6.44 per child differential.

Salaries reflect the biggest differential, with per pupil spending for teachers running $403.14 in Cumberland to a high of $492.38 in Tryon city schools.

'Cotton Wool Syndrome'

When it comes to diagnosing the ills that afflict our body politic, certain signs and symptoms provide a useful clue. They indicate the insidious presence of the cotton wool syndrome, one of the most debilitating of all political diseases. It's cropped up again.

This time, in upholstered furniture.

The cotton wool syndrome may be readily identified. There is first of all The Human Problem. This is pursued by Expert Studies. The studies are followed by Proposed Rules and Regulations. And these in turn are succeeded by Binding Orders.

The key element is that The Human Problem must always be Somebody Else's Fault. In its most familiar form, the syndrome eliminates personal responsibility altogether. The government does not look kindly upon the notion that freeborn citizens should take care of their own health, nutrition or safety. The government regards freeborn citizens as so many imbecile children, incapable of tying their shoes or wiping their noses.

In the case at hand, The Human Problem is that some persons carelessly let lighted cigarettes fall into upholstered furniture. In some instances, the upholstery smolders and at last ignites. Some houses burn down. Some persons are injured or killed. These are tragic happenings. They ought not to be treated lightly.

But, let us reflect upon the matter as a whole.

No one seems to know how serious The Human Problem is. The furniture industry produces and sells about 20 million upholstered items a year. The industry's own studies indicate that probably 300 million such pieces are extant, in homes, offices and public buildings. After long investigation, Expert Studies conclude that there "could be" as many as 6,187 "deaths and injuries" annually from such fires. These are not what you would call solid statistics. If the figures were offered as hard evidence in court, the data would be rejected for want of probative value.

Obviously, some person do die as a consequence of upholstery fires. Some persons are injured. And whose fault is this? In any rational view, the fault for these tragedies lies squarely upon the careless smokers themselves. But it is not the business of bureaucracy to take the rational view. Can you imagine whose fault this is? It is the fault of the upholstery manufacturers.

Therefore, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has commissioned Expert Studies. The studies have led to a Proposed Standard for the Flammability (Cigarette Ignition Resistance) of Upholstered Furniture. Under the Proposed Standard, the 1,500 firms manufacturing upholstered furniture would be forbidden to use any fillings and fabrics that failed to pass the government's test regulations.

The regulations run on for 40 pages. Fabrics would be classified into four categories, A, B, C and D, depending upon their ability to withstand a smoldering cigarette. Manufacturers would be required to make prototype mockups of various

Policy Action Friday

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford faces a key foreign policy decision on whether to veto a Vietnamese bid for United Nations membership.

While not ruling out the possibility of a U.S. abstention when the vote comes up Friday, officials suggest that American dissatisfaction with Vietnam's policy toward U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action probably will lead to an American veto of Hanoi's bid.

The consensus among officials is that a veto would most likely help Ford in his goal of trying to consolidate support among those voters who would be alienated by any kind of gesture toward Vietnam. Last year, the United States vetoed the admission of what were then two Vietnams.

In what it described as a signal of goodwill, the Vietnamese government last Monday gave the American Embassy in Paris the names of 12 U.S. airmen it said had been killed in the Vietnam war.

The move apparently was tied to Vietnam's campaign for U.N. admission, but Ford called this a "limited action" and said it was "callous and cruel" of the Vietnamese not to account for the remaining 800 MIAs.

Although the United States has often subscribed to the theory of universal membership in the United Nations, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated last week that American policy in the Vietnamese case is being governed by Hanoi's attitude toward the MIAs.

40 Years Ago Today

September 9, 1936

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today proclaimed a four year program of aggressive colonial demands aimed at the goal of making Germany economically independent of the rest of the world.

The proclamation, sounded before 800,000 Nazis who were assembled at their fourth national convention, disclosed that Der Fuehrer has signed decrees reorganizing the national economy and hiking the planned production of all industrial and agricultural products.

In the proclamation Hitler declared the directness of Nazi principles had been demonstrated by "our continually recurring successes" in the midst of a troubled world.

A vehement campaign culminated today in a Georgia primary of national interest, while political observers followed the returns from five other state primaries and the travel plans of the Democratic and Republican nominees.

The Georgia balloting will be a test of strength between Governor Eugene Talmadge, emphatic critic of the New Deal, and Sen. Richard B. Russell, Jr., upholder of the Roosevelt administration.

Both are fighting for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

The GALLUP POLL

Americans Quite Religious

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — While religion continues to play as important a role in the lives of Americans today as it did 25 years ago, Christianity appears to be in trouble in the Western European nations.

This is one of the major findings to emerge from a 60-nation survey conducted by Gallup International. This survey, the first on a worldwide basis, covered two-thirds of the world's population and nearly 90 per cent of the inhabitants of nations that permit opinion surveys. The study sought to learn how people in various parts of the world see themselves and their lives including their religious beliefs and practices.

In the United States, 56 per cent of all adults in the current survey say that their religious beliefs are "very important" to them. By contrast, only 27 per cent in Western Europe say their religious beliefs are "very important."

The only major nation in which the importance of religion exceeds the United States is India. Eight persons in 10, 81 per cent, in India say their religious beliefs are "very important."

Regarding specific religious beliefs, sharp declines have been registered in most Western European nations since 1948, when an earlier survey covered many of the same issues. At that time, 61 per cent of the people interviewed in the Scandinavian countries said they believed in life after death; the figure from the present survey shows only 35 per cent holding this belief. By contrast, in the U.S. 68 per cent reported they believed in life after death in 1948; in the present survey the figure is 69 per cent.

Similarly, in the case of the existence of God or a "universal spirit," 94 per cent of Americans profess belief compared to 89 per cent in Canada, 88 per cent in Italy, and 78 per cent in Western Europe and 38 per cent in Japan.

Nearly All Identify With A Faith

Nearly all people in the nations surveyed report being identified with some church or faith, and throughout the non-Communist world there is widespread belief in the existence of God or a universal spirit. A majority of the free world believes in life after death.

The Scandinavian countries, among the developed nations, stand lowest in belief in God excepting only Japan.

Belief in life after death has also remained fairly constant among Americans since 1948, but in Canada there has been a 34 percentage point drop over this period of time in the proportion who believe. In the Benelux nations (Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg) a 20 percentage point drop has occurred and in the Scandinavian countries a 26 point drop.

(Cartaret News-Times)

Despite the lack of a formal complaint and the decision of the State Board of Elections Friday not to investigate whether a reported political agreement between state Rep. John M. Jordan and House Speaker James C. Green violated state law, the doubt that surrounds the purported deal will not help either Mr. Green or Mr. Jordan.

Mr. Jordan, defeated in the Aug. 17 Democrat primary for lieutenant governor, has publicly stated that he endorsed Mr. Green, the runner-up in that primary, over front-runner Howard Lee of Chapel Hill, in part because Mr. Green agreed to publicly support him if he decided to seek another political office in the future.

Unbeknownst to both Mr. Jordan and Mr. Green, the 40-year-old Corrupt Practices Act, makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment or fine at the discretion of the court, "for any person to give or promise, in return for political support or influence, any political appointment or support for political office."

The agreement that Mr. Jordan apparently attempted to make and did smacks of kingmaking.

The Greensboro Daily News comments that "Ordinarily there would be nothing unusual in Mr. Jordan's endorsement. Horse-trading in campaigns is one of the staples of political life. Where Mr. Jordan went astray was in offering his endorsement to both Green and Lee in exchange for future political support and possible appointment to a state board or commission. The appearance is unavoidable that Mr. Jordan did not throw his support to Mr. Green on any grounds of principle or mutual respect, but in respect simply sold it to the highest bidder. In the process Mr. Jordan has set a poor standard for the conduct of politics in North Carolina."

Commenting that he was unaware of the law, Mr. Jordan has suggested that he was being punished for telling the truth. "When you are honest, you are hung by your toes," he said.

It remains to be seen whether this will have any effect in next Tuesday's runoff. It won't be surprising if it does.

Food-For-Work Idea Promising

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Once the world's symbol of starvation, Bangladesh could become self-sufficient in food in five years time thanks to an innovative food-for-work program, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization — FAO — reports.

Under the food-for-work program started by the government at the start of 1975 to reduce food handouts, a worker is paid six pounds of wheat for each ton of earth he moves in the dredging of canals and the construction of levees. Some two million men and boys took part in the program this year.

FAO, a principal sponsor of the program, reports some 1,500 miles of canals and 1,850 miles of embankments already have been completed. All this is being done to control the disastrous flooding that occurs each year during the monsoon season and use the water instead for controlled irrigation of one of the most naturally fertile delta regions in the world.

The eventual success of the program could mean life itself for hundreds of thousands of the 80 million people squeezed into this country the size of the State of Iowa.

"It is really amazing what the country has done in such a short time. More earth has been dug up for the canals and embankments than was dug for the building of the Panama Canal," says Trevor Page, world food program adviser in Bangladesh. "At this rate, and with increased food production and crop surpluses, Bangladesh could become self-sufficient in food in five years."

The country's dependence on foreign food imports has, in fact, begun to drop. Rice and wheat production increased from 10.1 million tons in 1974-75 to an estimated 11.9 million tons in 1975-76. This cut imports from 2.3 million tons to 1.5 million tons.

Food-for-work provided useful occupation for one out of four of the country's seven million unemployed and contributed to a change in direction for the nation's economy. The FAO said for the first time since Bangladesh became independent from Pakistan in 1971, the gross national product rose in 1975-76 by an estimated 12 per cent and per capita income went up 9 per cent, although the average income is still under $100 per year.

Bangladesh lies on a delta formed by the Ganges and the Brahmaputra rivers as they flow down from the Himalaya mountains. The rivers deposit some 2.5 billion tons of silt each year, making the delta one of the world's most fertile regions but also filling up river and canal beds.

From June to October each year, the rivers are flooded by monsoon rains, causing death and destruction. A 1.74 flood covered two-thirds of the country and killed 2,000 persons, and scores of persons have died this year in less serious flooding.

By February, when crops can be grown without the danger of floods, water becomes so scarce that crops cannot flourish.

"Water is our major problem. Either we have too much of it or too little," said an official in Dacca. "If we can control our water, we can avoid the disasters that periodically bring so much misery and suffering to our people."

Strength For Today

GOD SEES TO THE DETAILS
God has a plan for our lives—down to the smallest detail.

He does not compel us to adhere to that plan. Fatalism teaches that things which are to be shall be. But Christianity knows nothing of fatalism. The Bible teaches that God lays out a plan for us and will help us to achieve it. We can follow that plan or some other. Or, in other words, we can take it or leave it.

Many people leave it. They have plans of their own which seem infinitely better than the apparently stern plans of God. But there are two difficulties about rejecting God's plan: First, when we get into trouble we have no powers but our own to help us out. Second, when we come to the end of a self-planned life, there is a bitterness about it which sends us down to the grave with tears and sorrow.

God's plan may lead us through many a dark valley, but it takes us at last into green pastures and still waters.

Extensive Choir Program Slated

Dr. David Foster, minister of music at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, is prepared to conduct an extensive choir program this fall for children and young people in the community and surrounding towns to include singing, dancing, rhythm instruments, musical games and creative activity.

The choir program is open to four-and-five year old kindergartners and students in grades 1 through 12. Registration is Saturday, Sept. 11, at 10 a.m. in Jarvis' Fellowship Hall. As a special attraction during registration, a full-length Walt Disney film, "Make Mine Music," will be shown.

The program is designed to stimulate the enjoyment of music, provide musical education and vocal training to youth in the area. A special recorder class will also be provided for interested students. During the fall, the choirs will join together in performing "It's Cool in the Furnace," a biblical musical.

The fall schedule is as follows: Kindergarten ages four and five can attend each Monday from 2:30 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. beginning Monday, Sept. 13;

Students in grades one and two can attend each Tuesday from 3:30 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. beginning Tuesday, Sept. 14;

Junior girls, ages 8 through 11, will meet on Wednesday afternoons from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. beginning Wednesday, Sept. 15; and Junior boys, ages 8 through 11, will meet on Friday afternoons from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. beginning Friday, Sept. 17.

The youth in grades 7 through 12 will meet on Sunday afternoons from 5 to 6 p.m. beginning Sunday, Sept. 12.

Earlier registration may be obtained by calling the church office, 752-3101, or by calling Dr. Foster's home, 756-7721.

A similar program was sponsored by Jarvis Church this summer in a one-week Vacation Music Workshop. About 160 students in Greenville and the surrounding area attended the workshop. As a service to the community and the area, Jarvis is offering the first fall program of its type for young people of all denominations.

BACK TO SCHOOL — means lines, lines and more lines to students returning to ECU for the fall quarter, which began Wednesday with registration. This line may have been more

Rescuers Find 2 Safe After Crash

EAGLETOWN, Okla., (AP) — The two-man crew of an Air Force reconnaissance jet were located unharmed early Tuesday, about three hours after they parachuted to safety moments before their craft crashed near this southeastern Oklahoma community.

The men, on a routine training flight from Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex., were found by rescuers combing the area near the crash site.

The pilot of the RF4C was identified by officials at Bergstrom as 1st Lt. David Engbreton, 26, of Clarksville, Ind. The navigator was identified as 1st Lt. Larry Powers, 26, of Lumberton, N.C.

They were awaiting the arrival of military investigators after being checked over by medical authorities.

The small military aircraft, a version of the F4 jet fighter, went down about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in a hilly, heavily wooded area about seven miles north of this tiny community near the Arkansas border.

Authorities received first reports of the crash from citizens band radio operators. First rescuers to reach the scene found only burning remnants of the aircraft and speculated the crewmen had ejected.

Oklahoma Highway Patrol officials said the crewmen were located about three-fourths of a mile from the crash site. The men had reportedly used flares to attract searchers.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane left Bergstrom at 7:50 p.m. on a routine training mission and was to return to the base at 10 p.m. combinations of filler and fabric. Then lighted cigarettes would be inserted. The best method specifies the length of the type of cigarette. It is required that cigarettes be relit if they go out.

Some tests would require six cigarettes per piece. Other tests may require 21 cigarettes. The Upholstered Furniture Action Council says the tests will consume more than a billion cigarettes annually and will cost approximately $2.1 billion. The Proposed Standard will increase manufacturing costs by 10 to 30 percent, depending upon volume of production.

This is not the only price that would be paid. About 60 percent of upholstery fabrics fall into the "D" classification. These include most decorative fabrics, such as velvets, cotton prints and linens. The industry says that if the compliance test is imposed in its present form, "these fabrics would be eliminated."

This is the prospect: Purchasers of upholstered furniture would pay substantially higher prices for a much smaller choice of items. The taxpayers — all of us — would pick up a heavy cost for enforcement of the Proposed Standard. A number of small manufacturers could not survive the expense of the testing program. And the pieces of furniture, in the end, would not be perfectly flameproof anyhow. This is the cotton wool syndrome. If it doesn't make you ill, it should.

tions, Kissinger said "the issue of missing-in-action is of course a key issue, and we want to see whether any progress can be made there."

Officials refused to comment on whether they expected any additional accounting of MIAs by Hanoi before the U.N. debate on Vietnam opens Friday. One U.S. source said American acquiescence to the Vietnamese bid would deprive Washington of one of the few levers with which it hopes to extract concessions from Hanoi.

He said there was little sentiment within the administration for the argument that a U.S. decision not to block the Vietnamese application could inspire a more flexible attitude by Hanoi on the MIA issue.

Other officials, expressing the minority view, said Vietnam's behavior since the collapse of the U.S.-backed Saigon government 16 months ago is much better than Washington had expected.

Since that time, they said, Vietnam has normalized relations with all non-Communist nations in Southeast Asia, offered its friendship to Washington, called for expanded trade with the Western democracies and treated supporters of the old Saigon regime with restraint.

LUNCHEON MEETING
The Greenville Garden Club will hold a luncheon meeting at the First Christian Church on Friday, at 1 p.m.

Parents Claim Commune Children Developing Well

Editor's Note — This second of three articles on the new communes focuses on commune children.

DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer
They are children who sometimes know several adults as their parents. They are children who at an early age perform household and community chores. They are children who take part in decisions long before others their age.

Commune kids: Youngsters who live with their parents, brothers and sisters and other adults and children under one roof much in the tradition of an extended family. Some are the sons and daughters of the counterculture generation of the past decade. Others are offspring of very straight middle-class parents.

But they all share one thing in common: they are being raised in an unconventional way because their parents no longer think the traditional, two-parent household works.

And though communal living may seem fraught with pitfalls, especially to those raised in the classic nuclear family, some social scientists say the commune youngsters are developing well. They believe these children often are more self-sufficient, realistic and better-behaved than children raised in traditional ways.

Commune parents couldn't agree more.

"The commune has been really good for her," said Tilda, the mother of 2½-year-old Shana. "She gets a lot of different things from different people — things George and I couldn't give her. She already has a broad background, not because she's a genius child, but because of the diverse people in her life."

Shana and her parents live with four other adults in a 20-room house in a New York suburb. The house members, like many commune dwellers, shun publicity and did not want their entire names used.

Matthew Harris is the 6½-year-old son of a social worker and a university chaplain. They live on a 100-year-old farm overlooking orchards and fields in northern Maryland. Three other adults and a boy Matthew's age also live in the 10-room, Victorian farmhouse.

Matthew is puzzled when he visits his grandparents, because they don't share chores around the house as his group does.

"He's had a chance to experience very broadly and test skills with a variety of people," said Kathryn Harris, his mother. "He's self-confident and knows it and can explore new situations with a confidence I never had."

"Matthew's a very self-sufficient child. He usually has something to say about decisions regarding him, and his opinion is taken with varying degrees of credibility."

Part of the reason it may be surprising that commune children seem to be thriving, is the free-love and drug image the word "commune" evokes from the general public. Certainly it's an unconventional way of life and the number of youngsters being raised this way is small.

But the "drug freak" image of communes is a hangover from the 1960s. It no longer applies to most.

Some have developed into homes for everyone from banking executives and ordained ministers to schoolteachers and dress designers.

In fact, the Special Approaches in Juvenile Assistance program in Washington, D.C., places runaways in many urban communes.

"Most communes set limits," said Dr. Kenneth Keniston, chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children. "They may not be traditional ones, but they set limits."

At The Farm, an agrarian commune of 800 or so in the rolling foothills of southwestern Tennessee, children are raised in a rather old-fashioned way: respect your parents and walk the straight and narrow.

"We tell our kids where it's at," says Stephen Gaskin, the bearded San Francisco dropout who founded the 1,800-acre community over six years ago. "I think the idea of letting kids go crazy until they're 6 years old and then putting them in public school where they have to snap to right now is a funny way to treat a kid."

Children on The Farm, when not in the commune's state-accredited school, are free to play most of the day if they're tiny tots. They work with the group's many crews if they are older.

Mail is delivered daily by 16-year-old Barbara MacQueen on horseback.

"It takes me a couple of hours to deliver all the mail," she said. "There usually are stacks and stacks of pieces."

She lives in a large compound with others her age. Two married couples live there to help guide the young adults.

"A lot of teens come there from the outside who don't have parents, so we really need the presence of a family," she said.

Over at the stables Katherine Moore, 13, gently coaxed a mare from a stall so her day-old foal could be fed.

"We lived in Berkeley, Calif., before we moved here," said Katherine, who has warm, brown eyes and ready smile. "I never even touched a horse there."

That was three years ago. Now she can shoe a horse and helps give riding lessons to other farm members.

This is not to say that there aren't problems for commune children. Some commune observers report children living in such isolation they barely know what plumbing or electricity are, have never watched television or heard a radio and don't know how to shop with money because they've never been to a store.

And there are even a few celebrated horror stories. John Rothchild and Susan Wolf, authors of "The Children of the Counterculture," tell of children who experience sex before age 12, either with an adult or each other, take drugs and become bored and listless from too much time and too much freedom with none of the limits Dr. Keniston and other psychologists say children must have.

But, adds author Wolf: "In the many communes we visited, we saw no skirt-clutchers or thumb-suckers, no leg-biters or couch-hiders, no victims of stage fright, no children for whom parents gave the apology, 'It takes them time to warm up to strangers.'"

There are few limits for the children of Yea God, a spiritual commune of 40 in the lush hills of New York's southern tier. Yea God children may wander around the 70 acres of mostly undeveloped land, swim in the large-fresh water pond or sit in the sandpile near the great communal dome. They do not read books, listen to music or watch television.

"I like it here," said 6-year-old Sunshine, who lives in a teepee with her mother. "I can stay outside as long as I want. But I like the pond best."

Sunshine, a name given to her when she joined the commune, does not use her real name. She said she sometimes pulls weeds from the large vegetable garden near the front gate or goes exploring in the woods with other children her age.

She wore a long, cotton floral dress that almost reached her bare feet. Large, red marks from insect bites dotted exposed parts of her body.

Medical History Made By N.C. Woman Doctor

By Dr. H. G. Jones,
For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Susan Dimock's application for membership in the North Carolina Medical Society in 1872 set off a lengthy and sometimes heated debate. Only one state had recognized women physicians before that year, and the doctors weren't anxious to make North Carolina the second.

Several leading physicians, however, supported her application, and after long discussion Susan Dimock was approved as an "honorary member." This was not satisfactory to the young woman, so she made medical history in Massachusetts rather than in North Carolina.

Susan Dimock was born in 1847 in Washington, North Carolina, the daughter of Henry and Mary Owens Dimock. Her father was a lawyer and editor of the "North State Whig," and her mother was a teacher and manager of a local hotel.

The young girl was taught by her mother and later attended a school conducted by a "Mr. Boghart." At an early age she demonstrated particular interest in scientific subjects.

The Union army occupied Washington in 1862, and two years later Henry Dimock died. Arrangements were made under which his widow and child were allowed to sail for Massachusetts where they lived with his relatives.

At the age of seventeen Susan entered a course of study at the New England Hospital for Women and Children at Boston. When the following year she sought admission to the Harvard Medical School, her application was rejected. Even Harvard wasn't ready for women doctors.

Determined to study medicine, Susan had to turn to Europe, and 1868 she entered the University of Zurich. She graduated three years later and then spent several months training in European hospitals.

It was at this point that Susan apparently decided to return to her native state, but the refusal of the North Carolina Medical Society to grant her full membership influenced her to return to Boston instead. There she rejoined the New England Hospital for Women and Children as resident physician.

Though she exhibited unusual surgical skills and the hospital's clientele grew, Dr. Dimock was paid only $300 per year at first. Her contract, however, allowed her to practice privately, and soon she developed a practice that was the envy of many male doctors.

Though her medical practice was noteworthy, her more important contribution was the development of the first graded school of nursing in the United States. She spent much of her time teaching the principles and techniques of nursing and in emphasizing the importance of hospital workers other than doctors.

With a flourishing private practice and with an increasingly influential position in the hospital, Susan Dimock could write in 1875, "I have not one wish unfulfilled."

Shortly afterward she and two friends happily boarded the "Schiller" for a voyage to Europe. Off the coast of England, near islands ironically named Schilly, the vessel struck a reef during a dense fog.

the ship was hit by wave after wave, and hundreds of passengers were swept away.

mock was washed ashore and later returned to Boston for time her name became per- burial. The young native of North Carolina had lived only twenty-eight years, but in that time her name became per- burial. The young native of North Carolina had lived only cal history of the United States.

Reward For Dishonesty

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Somewhere in Gaston County, a man is living with a $1,300 mistake.

He tried to bilk the electric company by tampering with his meter, but he botched the job and was rewarded for his dishonest efforts with a $1,300 utility bill.

The unidentified consumer was appropriately shocked and probably has deserted the swelling ranks of "meter cheaters," says a spokesman for the Gastonia utilities department.

"We knew the bill was wrong, but just for the heck of it, we sent it to him," said Blair Wilson.

Increased meter tampering the last three years has accompanied a sharp rise in electric rates, Wilson said, adding that statistics on the number of cases usually are unavailable.

Gastonia is one of 23 North Carolina cities that buy electricity from Duke Power Co. and resell it to their residents. Their wholesale rate has climbed 42 per cent, excluding the fuel-cost adjustment price.

Meter tampering has become such a problem in Gastonia that the City Council Tuesday adopted a law enabling the utilities department to collect from customers suspected of the offense.

The new law authorizes mailing a letter to suspected cheaters, asking them to come to City Hall to discuss an adjustment. If they don't show, their actual electric consumption is estimated and a second letter includes a bill for that amount.

NEW YORK (AP) — Disappointment over the failure of another run at the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average pushed stock prices lower in fairly quiet trading today.

The Dow average of 30 blue chip stocks was down 4.16 at 988.78 at 11:30 a.m.

Losers held a 7-4 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow moved to the verge of the 1,000 level early in Wednesday's trading. But it stalled there, repeating the pattern of a dozen previous occasions this year.

Brokers also noted some uneasiness over a Wall Street Journal article which said oil exporting countries might post a larger price increase at year-end than had been expected earlier.

Among international oil stocks, Exxon slipped 3/4 to 53 1/2; Mobil was off 1/2 to 59 1/2, and Texaco lost 1/4 to 27 1/4.

Held In Robbery Of Bank

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — A 27-year-old Rocky Mount man was arrested this morning and charged with robbing at gunpoint a branch of People's Bank and Trust Co. just 10 minutes earlier, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

An FBI spokesman said Sammie Lee Nicholson was being held in the Rocky Mount police department pending a hearing later today on a federal armed robbery charge. Agents said Nicholson was arrested by Rocky Mount Police Det. Sgt. E.Z. Luper just a few blocks from the north office of the bank, which was robbed at 10:10 a.m.

Agents said an undetermined amount of money was recovered.

Officials said a man carrying a small caliber handgun entered the bank and demanded that a teller fill a paper bag with money. He fled on foot after receiving the money, agents said.

Luper, responding to the robbery alarm, spotted a man running down a street carrying a bag and chased him on foot, the FBI said. Luper later found the man hiding in a ditch, agents said.

The FBI said it was the 38th bank robbery of the year in North Carolina.

population of the area was only 40 percent urban.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday night at the Farmville Town Hall to allow public reaction to this information. Several Greenville groups, including the 264 Committee and the Chamber of Commerce, are expected to make statements at the meeting.

Don Collier, Chamber president, said the Chamber's streets and highways committee will meet Monday to prepare for the public hearing. The Chamber will request at the hearing that Hwy. 264 be considered a top priority.

More Layoffs For Burlington

BURLINGTON (AP) — "Alamance County Day" was supposed to attract new industry and jobs to an area of high unemployment. Instead, it brought news of more layoffs by Burlington Industries Wednesday.

County promoters and industrial executives at a Burlington motel were told that the textile giant would close two factories: Plaid Mills Weaving Plant and Burl-Craft Plant.

About 420 people are employed at the two plants. The Plaid Mills plant is being closed because of Burlington's efforts to consolidate its industrial glass fabric manufacturing operations. The Burl-Craft operation was deemed expendable because of the sagging market for coarse double-knit fabrics.

Alamance County's unemployment rate was over 7 percent before the layoffs were announced.

filling in the information needed, and mail the application, along with the $1 fee and the license will be returned by mail.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon cautioned today that bicycles operated on the public streets of Greenville must be licensed as required by the Greenville City Code.

He said the licensing program is designed to allow officers to identify the owners of lost or stolen bicycles and to help apprehend bicycle thieves.

Cannon emphasized that the licensing requirement applies to students at East Carolina University if the bicycles are operated off the school campus. He noted, however, that university students who ride their bicycles only on the campus, are not required to have the vehicles registered.

from the City Hall for a $1 registration fee. He noted that the licenses can be picked up in person or persons wishing to secure a license may send their name, address, name of bicycle, serial number, size, and $1 to: Bicycle Registration, P. O. Box 1905, Greenville, N.C. 27834. A license will then be returned to the purchaser by mail.

Rampants Entertain New Bern In Home Opener; Seek First Victory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Rose High School returns to action Friday night, opening its home schedule with hopes of a brighter evening than last time out.

"It's difficult to teach when you lose," Coach Dave Bumgarner said this week. "You learn, but when you lose, you still lose."

The Rampants, the defending state 4-A champions, were beaten in their opening game Friday by strong Goldsboro, 27-8. The lone Rose score came late in the game on a four-yard run by fullback Curtis Little. Goldsboro was held in check throughout the first period of the game, and Rose's offense stayed in Goldsboro territory throughout the period. But as the second quarter started, Goldsboro mounted its first drive of the evening, pushing in for the opening score. Rose came back with a long drive that finally was halted on a fourth and one situation. Goldsboro turned that into another score, then got another late in the period on a long run following a long punt return. That put Rose into a 21-0 hole that the Rampants never recovered from. "Goldsboro has got a real good football team," Bumgarner said. "We had no doubts about their passing ability, and we tried to do what we could to stop them, but we were not able to." Goldsboro went six for seven in passing for two touchdowns. "Having to watch the pass hurt us defensively up front too. Then, we had a lot of poor tackling."

Bumgarner said that on the offensive side, the Rampants suffered from poor blocking in the line. "Not necessarily the whole line, but a few places that hurt us. Picking up 180 yards against a team like Goldsboro isn't a bad job, and I think if we'd played someone else, we might have come out a whole lot better off. Goldsboro was a very tough team to open up against."

The coach feels that the young Rampants will improve as time goes by. "They just need playing time. I guess that's one reason why I'm not totally unhappy with the game. We did do some things well. If we had been able to convert a couple of times on fourth down, it might have been a different story. That comes from inexperience. We'll learn that. We just have to get our people used to seeing different kinds of defensive looks and knowing what to do about them."

Bumgarner said he was extremely pleased with the running of the backs, along with their blocking. Little, who came off the bench, picked up 59 yards to lead the rushers, while Mike Joyner had 52 yards and Robert Williams had 51 yards.

"Bryant Morton did a good job on defense, as did our two sophomore defensive backs, Robert Morehead and Ronnie Chapman, considering it was their first varsity game."

One further piece of good news is that fullback Mike Joyner did not break his leg as was first feared during the game. "It was just a bad sprain. He should be ready to go this Friday," Bumgarner said.

This week's opponent is New Bern — and like Goldsboro, the Bears have two games behind them to Rose's one. But unlike Goldsboro, the Bears haven't fared as well.

They bowed in their opening game to Havelock, 31-0, and then managed to tie West Carteret, 14-14, last week.

"They are much bigger than Goldsboro," Bumgarner said, "but they are not real quick. They do have quick running backs, a big quarterback and a big fullback. They have a good defensive club, and a good punter. He can really boom 'em."

Bumgarner added that he thought the Rampants had a good kicking game against Goldsboro. "We ran the ball back well against them. Prior to the start of the season, I really thought that the kicking game might be a problem area, but it hasn't been so far."

Bumgarner noted that the long punt runback by Goldsboro followed three straight punts by kicker Jeff Aldridge. Each time a flag was thrown. The first time, Goldsboro did not return the kick, and the second time, they were thrown for a three-yard loss. "After that, our guys were just worn out from so many trips up and down the field."

As far as lineup changes this week are concerned, Bumgarner plans to start Gene Pittman at center for Rocky Butler, who went both ways last week, also playing middle linebacker. "We need to keep him fresher," the coach said.

Little will probably also see more action at fullback and probably will start in place of Joyner. Chapman is also to see less action as a wide receiver since he also is playing one of the secondary starting positions.

"This could be a real good game for us," Bumgarner said. "We're still learning, but a victory could do us a whole lot of good."

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday in Ficklen Stadium.

Minges To Head Local Stadium Drive

SWIM CLUB WINNERS—Kenneth Johnston and Suzanne Wille received the Coaches Award for the Most Improved Swimmers of the Greenville Swim Club in the 18 and under category Tuesday night at award ceremonies. (Reflector photo by Susan Quinn)

Dr. Ray Minges of Greenville will head the East Carolina University Stadium Expansion Campaign for Greenville and Pitt County, it was announced today by R. L. "Roddy" Jones, Chairman for the $2½ million fund raising drive.

"Ray Minges has been a friend of the University and its athletic program for many years," Jones commented. "We are very fortunate that he has agreed to 'go to bat' for us in Pitt County in our efforts to enlarge Ficklen Stadium."

Jones stated that Minges, a retired surgeon, is expected to play a key role in ECU's efforts to expand the stadium in time for the 1977 season. He said the plans include enlarging the present facility to 35,000 seats and enlarging the press box. Ficklen currently seats about 18,000 people.

"East Carolina University is important to Greenville and all of Eastern North Carolina and as long as I am able to help, I want to see the University grow," Minges stated.

"Just think of the impact that ECU has already had on this area. There are more professional people offering medical, legal, and business services than ever before."

We've got better shopping and more industry moving in. People are attracted to cultural activities, recreation, and sports that are available in a university community and the development of these aspects of the University will insure the future economic growth of this region."

The appointment of Minges followed an announcement today by R. L. "Roddy" Jones, Chairman of the Stadium Expansion Committee, and Dr. Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina University, who is Vice Chairman, that the statewide campaign to raise the $2½ million had begun.

"We've been planning this campaign for several months and now we're getting into high gear," remarked Jones, a Raleigh businessman, ECU alumnus, and former chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees.

"We will distribute brochures and information throughout the State and we are appointing chairmen to lead the campaign in their local areas. These appointments will be announced soon."

He said that he expects to raise the money by the end of the year. The plan to enlarge Ficklen Stadium received unanimous approval earlier this year from the ECU Board of Trustees following a comprehensive study by the Board's Athletic Program Committee. The ECU Trustees also approved the Committee's recommendation that ECU leave the Southern Conference at the end of the 1976-77 season and begin scheduling games with larger schools.

Jones and Jenkins were then appointed by the Board to serve as Chairman and Vice Chairman, respectively, and they later named Tom Willis, Director of East Carolina University Regional Development Institute, to direct the fund raising efforts.

"It's a lot of money to raise," Willis stated, "but when you think about what it will do for Eastern North Carolina, it becomes an insignificant amount. When you get a few people together with some $1000 bills and a few together with some $100 bills, it won't take long."

He explained that the stadium would be expanded into a horseshoe design that would nearly double the present seating capacity. "It will become the largest gathering place for people east of Raleigh," Willis commented.

Leo Jenkins, ECU Chancellor and Vice Chairman for the campaign, said a larger stadium would bring more sports and other outdoor activity to Greenville.

"We want to be able to invite teams like North Carolina and N. C. State to play here, but there is no way we can do that with our present facilities," Jenkins said.

"If we are going to upgrade our athletic program, and that is what our Board of Trustees has told us to do, we are going to need a larger stadium and better pass facilities. Historically, in great universities across American, academic and athletic progress have gone hand in hand," Jenkins remarked.

classification, but that is predicated upon the expansion of the stadium." The target date for completing the fund raising campaign is January 1, 1977.

"Scheduling has to be completed several years in advance," Jones continued, "and booking of the larger schools into Greenville cannot be accomplished without the assurance of a larger stadium."

"Of course, building costs are increasing rapidly, and the sooner the stadium is enlarged, the less expensive it will be," he said.

Jones said the expansion of Ficklen Stadium can only be financed with private contributions. Gifts to the Pirates Club, Alumni Association, and the ECU Foundation cannot be used for capital building programs.

Open Looks Like Same Old Story

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — At Wimbledon, it was Evert and Goolagong. Four times on the women's pro tour this winter, it was Evert and Goolagong. At last year's U.S. Open, it was Evert and Goolagong.

It always seems to be Evert and Goolagong — and the 1976 U.S. Open Tennis Championships is shaping up the same way.

Top-seeded Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and second-ranked Evonne Goolagong of Australia took another stride on the road toward their expected showdown in the women's singles final by scoring easy quarter-final victories Wednesday.

Miss Evert overwhelmed Natasha Chmyreva, the 18-year-old Russian, 6-1, 6-2 in an afternoon quarter-final match, while Miss Goolagong beat gritty veteran Rosie Casals 6-1, 6-2 in the featured night match at the West Side Tennis Club.

In men's action, top-seeded Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill. overpowered Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 7-5, 6-3, 6-1 and third-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina wore down plucky Eddie Dibbs of North Miami Beach, Fla., the No. 9 seed, 6-1, 2-4, 7-6, 7-6 in a two-hour, 57-minute marathon. Connors will meet Vilas in one men's semi-final Saturday.

The remaining men's semi-final berths were to be determined today, with No. 2 Bjorn Borg of Sweden playing No. 6

Manuel Orantes of Spain, the defending champion, and No. 5 Ilie Nastase of Romania facing unseeded Dick Stockton of Dallas.

Miss Evert's victory was her 99th in a row on clay or slow artificial surfaces, a streak which dates back to the Western Championships in July, 1973 — when she lost to Miss Goolagong.

After the customary disclaimers about playing one match at a time and not looking too far ahead, both distaff rivals conceded they never are far from each other's thoughts. "Playing Evonne is always something special," Miss Evert said. "It's always in the back of my mind that we may meet in the finals, and I know she thinks the same way."

"I really don't like to look ahead," Miss Goolagong said with a smile. "But it would be nice to beat Chris, especially here in the U.S. Open, and on clay."

Standing in the way of a rematch between the tennis queens are a pair of upstart-minded 20-year-olds, Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and Dianne Fromholtz of Australia. Both breezed into the semis, Miss Jausovec beating her doubles partner, Virginia Ruzici of Romania, 6-2, 6-1, and Miss Fromholtz defeating pig-tailed, 16-year-old Zenda Liess of Daytona Beach, Fla., 6-1, 6-3.

Neither was expected to do much in this tournament. Both are happy to have gotten as far as they did — and hopeful of getting further.

Confidence Big To Mighty Jack

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was talking about confidence.

"I'd hit my second shot to the right of the green in a bad lie and I still just knew I was going to make four."

"I didn't hit a real good chip, left it about 20 feet short but I told myself it didn't matter. 'So you've got a 20-footer,' I told myself. I just knew it didn't matter. I knew I'd make the 20-footer."

"And I did. "It was a tremendous feeling of confidence. I don't know what makes it come and go. But at that time I certainly had it. A tremendous feeling."

That was on the 13th hole of the final round last week when Nicklaus scored his second victory of the season, in the World Series of Golf, acquired $100,000 as his first prize and moved into his customary position atop the season's money-winning list with $261,769.

And, armed with that refound confidence, Nicklaus was a heavy favorite to win again, in the $200,000 World Open Golf Tournament that began today Tuesday on the 7,007-yard, par-71 No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

"You always expect to win," Al Geiberger and Arnold Palmer he said. "You don't go into any tournament expecting to lose. You always expect to win. It doesn't always happen. It's about one out of four."

But his record on this famed old layout in the Carolina sand-hill country is much better than that: One out of two. He won this event last year and lost in a playoff in 1974.

And he fully expects to improve on that record. "There's no reason I can't win again," Nicklaus said. "I played reasonably well in spots last week, and putted very well. (Pinehurst) No. 2 is a course I feel I can play pretty well."

"That doesn't mean I'm saying I will win. But there's no reason that I can't." His chief opponents in the 150-man field chasing a $40,000 first prize include Hale Irwin, a two-time winner this year and runner-up to Nicklaus last week; Hubert Green, the year's only three-time winner; Ben Crenshaw; Masters champion Ray Floyd, and Jerry Pate, the rookie who won both the U.S. and Canadian Opens.

Other major contenders include PGA champion Dave Stockton, Australian David Graham, Tom Watson, J.C. Snead and Tom Weiskopf.

Johnny Miller, Lee Trevino, Al Geiberger and Arnold Palmer are not competing.

Sun Devils Get Tough Testing

By JIM HATTLEY
Associated Press Writer
TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University puts its highly-touted offense up against a strong UCLA defense tonight as the No. 3 and 17th-ranked teams, respectively, launch their 1976 football seasons before a national television audience.

"It should be a heck of a ball game," promised Frank Kush, named Coach of the Year by his peers last year after the Sun Devils went 12-0, including a 17-14 upset victory over Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl.

UCLA, meanwhile, hopes to improve on last season's 9-2-1 record, which included a 23-10 Rose Bowl triumph over then top-ranked Ohio State.

"The Bruins are extremely sound defensively," said Kush. "In fact, they are about as sound as anybody we've seen. They don't make a lot of mistakes."

At the same time, UCLA Coach Terry Donahue is impressed by the Devils offense, which is keyed by junior quarterback Dennis Sproull, a product of Los Altos High School in Hacienda Heights, Calif. The Devils offense also features fullback Freddie Williams, who will be eying his third 1,000-yard rushing season, and split end John Jefferson, whom Kush lauds as a "gifted athlete."

The Bruins, meanwhile, are led offensively by halfback Wendall Tyler, who is closing in on the all-time school rushing mark. In 1975, he rushed for a school record 1,388 yards.

Replacing gifted John Sciarra at quarterback for UCLA will be senior Jeff Dankworth, who is considered a good passer and runner.

While the Bruins are rated strong defensively, Kush feels his defensive unit leaves something to be desired.

"The secondary is weak at the strong safety and the right corner spot," he said.

A sellout crowd of over 50,000 fans is expected. The weatherman is forecasting a temperature of about 100 degrees at game time, with a slight chance of thundershowers.

Expansion Ups NFL Attendance

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
More than six weeks after fans began paying regular-season prices for their tickets, National Football League teams will begin playing regular-season games for those tickets this Sunday.

More than 3.5 million fans paid their way into the tuneup games that Commissioner Pete Rozelle labels preseason games and almost everyone else calls exhibitions.

The total attendance of 3,534,713 was up from 1975's figure of 3,365,147, but that was because expansion teams in Seattle and Tampa Bay swelled the total number of games played from 79 last year to 86 this season. The per-game average suffered a small decline from 42,597 in 1975 to 41,101 this year.

Ticket policies throughout the league vary from team to team. Some hard-liners require season-ticket holders to purchase all preseason games as part of their package. Others require one or two exhibition purchases. Some offer option plans and a few even separate the preseason games from the regular-season ticket package entirely.

Many NFL teams claim that the only way they can turn a profit is with income from preseason games. And that is the explanation they offer for the six-seven weeks of exhibition games.

But there is not too much fan enthusiasm for paying full price to watch games that don't count. Attendance dropoffs have caused some teams to seriously question the length of the preseason.

Phloundering Phillies Phall Again

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates' Richie Hebner couldn't have picked a better time to come out of his slump.

"I went 0-for-5-months," said Hebner after driving in four runs Wednesday night and leading Pittsburgh to a 6-1 victory over the floundering Philadelphia Phillies.

"Suddenly I love coming to the ballpark again," Hebner said. "Two weeks ago I was hoping to beat the Mets out of second place. "Then, all of a sudden, it was nine games behind, eight games, seven games, and now here we are, right back in the thing." Pittsburgh's 13th victory in 14 games has cut the Phils' National League East Division to just 4½ games. Sixteen games ago, Philadelphia, which has now lost 11 of its last 12, led the Pirates by 15½ games.

The Phillies' slump is reminiscent of 1964, when Philadelphia lost a 6½-game bulge when they dropped 10 in a row and the St. Louis Cardinals finished in front.

In other NL games Wednesday, the New York Mets bombed the Chicago Cubs 11-5, Montreal swept a doubleheader from St. Louis 7-5 and 8-7, Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0, Atlanta nipped San Diego 3-1 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings.

Hebner, batting .234 going into the game, slapped a two-run single in the second and drove a two-run double into the right field corner in the third to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

Jim Rooker held the Phillies to nine hits to pick up his 13th victory in 20 decisions, while Steve Carlton, 16-6, suffered the loss.

Reds 3, Astros 0
Gary Nolan and Rawley Eastwick combined for a four-hitter and Tony Perez and Johnny Bench blasted solo homers to give Cincinnati its victory over Houston. Nolan, 12-8, didn't allow an Astros runner to reach third base in the first seven innings. Eastwick came on in the eighth and picked up his 20th save of the season.

A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Darrell Evans in the 11th inning boosted San Francisco over Los Angeles. Gary Thomason opened the inning with a double, took third on Mike Sadek's sacrifice bunt and came home on Evans' fly to left. Ed Halicki, 12-1, and Gary Lavelle combined to limit the Dodgers to five hits.

Home runs by Lee Mazzilli and John Stearns led a 16-hit barrage as New York routed Chicago. Mazzilli, in his second major league at-bat, slammed a pinch-hit three-run homer to cap a six-run ninth inning that salted away the victory for Tom Seaver, 12-10, who needed relief help from Rick Baldwin and Skip Lockwood.

Playing without suspended Manager Dave Bristol, Atlanta topped San Diego by scoring two runs in the 10th inning. Rod Gilbreath singled home Willie Montanez with the tie-breaking run and errors by shortstop Hector Torrez and catcher Fred Kendall led to the Braves' final run.

Expos 7-8, Cardinals 5-7
Montreal rallied for come-from-behind victories in both games against St. Louis. In the opener, Barry Foote slapped a two-out pinch single in the ninth to knock home the tying and winning run. In the night-cap, pinch-hitter Jose Morales' double capped a two-run winning rally in the eighth. Joe Kerrigan, 2-4, was the winning pitcher in both games, hurling two scoreless innings in each.

Kansas City Loses, But So Does Oakland

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The way they're playing, the Kansas City Royals could sure use a little outside help.

They got it Wednesday night from an unexpected source — the Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox, who are going nowhere this season, slowed up Oakland's express with a come-back 6-5 victory over the A's.

That left staggering Kansas City still in command of the American League West with a five-game lead over Oakland, despite a 2-0 loss to the California Angels — the Royals' fourth straight and ninth defeat in 10 starts.

"I woke up this morning and we were five games behind and in a pennant race," said Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner, who saw his team blow a five-run lead. "When I wake up tomorrow, we'll still be five games behind and in a pennant race. The only difference will be that there's one less game to play."

While Tanner was bemoaning a game that could have brought Oakland within four games of the Royals, Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog was looking for answers to his team's sudden impotence. In a month's time, the Royals have lost seven games of their once-formidable 12-game lead.

In an attempt to shake the Royals out of their lethargy, Herzog dismissed batting practice before Wednesday night's game and rearranged the lineup.

In other AL games, the New York Yankees moved a step closer to the East pennant with an 8-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Cleveland Indians 3-1; the Boston Red Sox stopped the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and the Minnesota Twins whipped the Texas Rangers 3-1.

The White Sox, behind 5-0 in the first inning, got fifth-inning home runs from Bill Stein and Jim Spencer and scored three runs in the eighth to pull out their victory over Oakland.

A breakdown by reliever Rollie Fingers and left fielder Joe Rudi helped the White Sox score their eighth-inning runs. Fingers, 11-10, took the mound after Paul Lindblad allowed a single by Jorge Orta leading off the inning. Fingers walked the first batter he faced, Lamar Johnson, and later allowed a sacrifice fly by Jack Brohamer, and run-scoring hits by Bucky Dent and Sam Ewing.

Dent's hit, however, was a fly ball to left field which Rudi misjudged, starting back towards the wall before reversing his field and coming in too late to make a catch. Rookie right-hander Chris Knapp, 2-1, got the victory by hurling 8 1-3 scoreless innings in relief. The A's got five runs in the first off Chicago starter Rich Gossage with a triple by Rudi scoring two of them.

Angels 2, Royals 0
Gary Ross and Dick Drago combined on a six-hitter as California beat Kansas City. Ross shut out the Royals on one hit through the first three innings before George Brett's liner off his ankle forced him to leave the game in the fourth. Drago, 6-7, went the rest of the way against the punchless Royals, allowing only four singles.

Yankees 8, Brewers 0
Ed Figueroa pitched a three-hitter for his 17th victory of the season and Graig Nettles slammed his 26th home run as New York routed Milwaukee. Figueroa, 17-8, struck out six and walked only one as the Yankees reduced their "magic number" to 15 for winning the AL East.

Orioles 3, Indians 1
Jim Palmer, with home run support from Reggie Jackson, pitched Baltimore over Cleveland and became the season's first 20-game winner in the American League. The 30-year-old Baltimore ace, the league's Cy Young Award winner in two of the last three seasons, allowed seven hits while reaching the 20-victory level for the sixth time in seven seasons.

Red Sox 4, Tigers 3
Veteran Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs with his 20th homer and an infield pop single and rookie butch Hobson collected three hits in helping Boston beat Detroit.

Twins 3, Rangers 1
Lyman Bostock smashed four hits, scored two runs and batted in another to lead Minnesota over Texas in a game called during the eighth inning by rain.

Palmer In 20th Win

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Posting a 20th victory just doesn't mean as much to a pitcher who has reached the coveted plateau in six of his last seven seasons.

"It's a milestone, I guess," Baltimore ace Jim Palmer said after pitching a 3-1 seven-hitter over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night. "But when you have 19 by the end of August, you kind of feel you're going to win 20."

"People judge you on 20 wins," Palmer said while teammates drank the champagne he supplied for the occasion. "But what's the difference in win-ing 19 or 20? It's like a batter hitting .299 instead of .300.

"Actually, there's not much difference between winning 15 or winning 20. It depends on how many times you go out there, the breaks you get, and how the team plays. You need luck and consistency."

The 30-year-old right-hander, the American League's Cy Young Award winner in two of the past three years, said both he and the Orioles had been a might inconsistent when his record was just 6-7 through mid-June.

"Since then," he said, "I've pitched as well as I could have, except I've lost about a foot off my fast ball since pulling a back muscle on July 31."

"The back just won't get well between starts," Palmer said, "so the main thing is not to favor my arm and change my motion. I haven't done that, but it's scary not being able to do what you want to do."

Palmer, who has lost 12 this year, gave up a first inning run when John Lowenstein tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Larvell Blanks. Just two Cleveland runners reached second base after that and one, Lowenstein, was picked off by Palmer.

Judge Says NFL Draft Illegal

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says the National Football League must find another way to keep its 28 teams competitive because the present system of drafting college players is illegal.

In a decision that's sure to chase NFL owners and attorneys into huddles all over the country, U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant said the draft violates antitrust laws.

Bryant said the essence of the draft is an agreement among team owners "that the right to negotiate with each top quality graduating college athlete will be allocated to one team, and that no other team will deal with that person."

He called the arrangement an "outright, undisguised refusal to deal," and said it "constitutes a group boycott in its classic and most pernicious form, a device which has long been condemned."

Bryant's ruling Wednesday was made in the case of former Washington Redskins defensive back James "Yazoo" Smith, who contended in a 1970 suit that the draft stifled the marketing of his football skills.

A spokesman for the NFL in New York, Don Weiss, said the league would have no comment "until our attorneys have had a chance to study the decision and confer with us."

He added: "If it's like the news accounts say, we expect we would appeal it."

Attorneys for the NFL and the Washington Redskins, named as co-defendants in the Smith case, argued unsuccessfully in the non-jury trial before Bryant that the college draft was exempt from the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts because it was part of a collective-bargaining agreement between the NFL and the players.

If there were no draft, the attorneys argued, the more talented players would go to the richest teams or owners, or so-called glamor cities such as Miami, Los Angeles or New York.

But Bryant ruled that the draft is much more restrictive than necessary.

"It leaves no room whatever for competition among the teams for the services of college players and utterly strips them (the players) of any measure of control over the marketing of their talents," he said.

Smith, the 12th player picked in the 1968 draft and the first choice of the Redskins, contended in his suit that he might have been able to sign for more money if he had not been bound to the Redskins.

He also contended that he would have been free to negotiate a contract that would have protected him against losing his pay when he suffered an injury that ended his playing career.

A star player for the University of Oregon, Smith was signed by the Redskins for a $23,000 bonus, a promise of an additional $5,000 bonus if he made the team and an annual salary of $22,000.

He sustained a neck injury during his rookie season and never played again.

Judge Bryant ruled that Smith suffered actual damages of $92,000 and, under the Clayton law, awarded him triple damages of $276,000 plus all court costs and attorneys' fees.

Football Traffic Routes Are Same As Last Year

FOOTBALL TRAFFIC PATTERN . . . Football fans driving to East Carolina University home games in Ficklen Stadium should follow the traffic pattern outlined in the map above while moving into parking areas at the stadium. Vehicles will re-trace their routes when leaving the athletic facility parking areas after the games are over.

Football fans driving to Ficklen Stadium for East Carolina University's home games this year will be routed into and out of the stadium parking areas just as they were last year, Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said this week.

Aver Cheating Is Widespread

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — They pass along exam questions at meals. They lie about attendance. They steal athletic equipment. And, according to affidavits signed by cadets accused in the U.S. Military Academy's biggest scandal, they do so with abandon.

In the 151 affidavits shown to The Associated Press on Wednesday, some 60 cadets charge nearly 700 other cadets with flaunting the honor code by lying, cheating, stealing, fixing cases before the cadet honor committee and tolerating those activities.

Two affidavits allege that a member of the Class of 1974 accepted a $1,200 bribe to return the single not-guilty vote needed to free another cadet of charges against him.

Other affidavits say mere friendship of a member of the 88-cadet honor committee is often enough to win innocent verdicts. Still others say incidents of cheating are far too numerous to list.

"It would be futile to try and document the exact times and dates that this occurred since it became habitual all the way until and including the term end exam," one cadet swore.

He referred to the practice of writing formulas, equations and various sample problems in the margins of the mathematics texts permitted during tests.

"I can remember many instances in which 'poop sessions' were given by someone who had already taken an exam. But just in case some motorists forget what to do, there will be about 45 police officers and members of the North Carolina State Highway Patrol on duty at the stadium and at busy intersections to direct traffic before and after each game.

Chief Cannon emphasized that 14th Street will be closed to through traffic from about 6 p.m. until game time for night games. For day games, the street will be closed from about 12:30 p.m. until game time.

Vehicles traveling Charles and 14th Streets West of the stadium will be routed into the parking area off Ficklen Drive, while cars approaching from U.S. 264 West and N.C. 43 will be routed into the stadium's West parking lot off Charles Street.

Cars approaching from Elm Street, U.S. 264 East and 14th Street East of the athletic complex, will be funneled down 14th Street to West Berkley Road and into the stadium parking area.

According to Chief Cannon, members of the Century Club should approach the stadium using Rosewood Drive. From there, the official said, Century Club members will be directed to the Century Club parking area.

The chief explained that 14th Street, after the game has begun, will be reopened to traffic, but will be closed again about 30 minutes before the end of each game and remain closed to through traffic until the out-bound stadium traffic has cleared.

Cars will move from the various parking areas just as they entered.

The police official said that there will be no parking allowed on Charles Street, Ficklen Drive or West Berkley Road. Cars found parked in these no parking areas will be towed away at their owners expense, he warned.

Chief Cannon cautioned motorists to drive carefully and observe all traffic rules.

He said drivers should be alert and avoid "tailgating" in the heavy traffic.

Most of the accidents in heavy traffic, he said, are rear-end collisions caused by drivers following the car ahead too closely.

The police official said all motorists should be courteous and not force the right of way, but instead, should yield to other motorists.

Members Of Greek Parliament Coming

Two Greek brothers, both distinguished younger members of the Greek Parliament, will be visiting Greenville next Thursday and Friday.

The visit here of Dr. Zacharias Kratsas, a medical doctor as well as member of parliament, and his bother, Apostilis Kratsas, will, according to Dr. Anthony (Tony) Papalas of E.C.U., be their only appearance at a university during their current government mission tour which is taking them mainly to the big cities of the north.

"Both are young, well-known politicians in their thirties," Dr. Papalas, a faculty member in the History Department said. "They are making this tour on behalf of the Greek Government, speaking on the Aegean problem."

Dr. Papalas, who is coordinating the visit, defined the "Aegean problem" as being primarily centered around the struggle between Greece and Turkey to secure off-shore oil rights. "These two men will be seeking to line up support for Greece on this question," he added. The Kratsas brothers were both elected to Parliament one and one-half years ago and are members of Premier Konstantanis Karamanlis' majority party.

They will be arriving in Greenville on Wednesday and will be meeting the public on Thursday and Friday on two different occasions.

At 4 p.m. Thursday, there will be in a conference in Room D102, Brewster Building. At 10 a.m. Friday they will participate in an open forum, first delivering a formal statement after which they will answer questions from those attending.

Students and townspeople are both invited to attend and to meet the two.

Country Music Awards Set October 11

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Waylon Jennings has been nominated for five and Willie Nelson for six of 10 categories for the 10th annual Country Music Association awards, which will be presented Oct. 11.

Jennings, a Nashville veteran, and Nelson, Austin, Tex., are in the running for Entertainer of the Year, Male Vocalist of the Year, Vocal Duo of the Year, Single of the Year, and Album of the Year.

Jennings' band, in addition, is nominated as Instrumental Group of the year.

Jennings and Nelson, longtime friends, hit paydirt with their single, "Good-Hearted Woman," and their album, "Wanted — The Outlaws," recorded with Tompall Glaser and Jessi Colter.

Two newcomers, Emmylou Harris and Crystal Gayle, are finalists for Female Vocalist of the Year, along with such veterans as Dolly Parton, Barbara Mandrell and Tammy Wynette. Miss Gale is Loretta Lynn's sister.

Here is a complete list of nominees: Entertainer of the Year: Jennings, Milsap, Nelson, Parton, Tillis. Single of the Year: "Convoy," C. W. McCall; "Good-Hearted Woman," Jennings and Nelson; "Teddy Bear," Red Sovine; "The Blind Man in the Bleachers," Kenny Starr; "The Door Is Always Open," Dave & Sugar.

Album of the Year: "Night Things," Milsap; "Teddy Bear," Sovine; "The Blind Man in the Bleachers," Kenny Starr; "Wanted — The Outlaws," Jennings, Colter, Glaser and Nelson; "200 Years of Country Music," Sonny James. Song of the Year: "I'll Get Over You," R. Leigh; "Rhinstone Cowboy," Larry Weiss; "The Blind Man in the Bleachers," Sterling Whipple; "The Door Is Always Open," Bob McDill and Dickey Lee; "Till I Can Make it on My Own," G. Richey, T. Wynette and B. Sherrill.

Female Vocalist of the Year: Gayle, Harris, Mandrell, Parton, Wynette. Male Vocalist of the Year: Jennings, Milsap, Nelson, Conway Twitty, Don Williams. Vocal Group of the Year:

Amazing Rhythm Aces, Asleep at the Wheel, Dave & Sugar, Eagles and the Statler Brothers. Vocal Duo of the Year: Bill Anderson and Mary Lou Turner, Twitty and Lynn, George Jones and Wynette, Tillis and Bryce, Jennings and Nelson. Instrumental Group of the Year: Asleep at the Wheel, Clark and Buck Trent, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, the Charlie Daniels Band, Waylon Jennings.

Instrumentalist of the Year: Chet Atkins, Clark, Johnny Gimble, Charlie McCoy, Hargus "Pig" Robbins.

The Charlie Daniels Band, which only recently made its first appearance on the Grand Ole Opry stage, is among finalists for Instrumental Group of the Year.

Dolly Parton, Ronnie Milsap and Mel Tillis round out the nominees for Entertainer of the Year. Miss Parton was last year's Female Vocalist, while Milsap won Male Vocalist honors two years ago.

Tillis also was nominated with Sherry Bryce for this year's vocal duo.

The awards will be presented

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 10, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is your best time in a long while to put in effect new plans. Make sure those you contact are of the same mind as yourself or later there could be some friction.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think over what your personal aims and then do your best in attaining them. Contact good friends who can be helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make plans that are necessary to improve your status in life. Sidestep one who is detrimental to your best interests.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find the best way to become more successful in the future. Being in the company of those you like can add to your well-being.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Acquire the appliances you need to become more efficient at your work. Show others that you have great ability.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have an outlet in the offing that should be studied carefully before making a decision. Making new contacts of worth is wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your hunches are good and should be relied upon today. Avoid one who is extravagant. Listen to what your mate has to suggest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen closely to the wishes of an associate today, since this could be most important. Be more alert in business activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You're a fine organizer and can now work out a plan that will bring you more advancement and success in the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good time to go after the new pleasures that appeal to you and bring more happiness into your life. Spend your money wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Discuss long-range plans for the future with family members. Sidestep an opponent who is trying to make trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact influential persons who can assist you in a project you have in mind. You can produce more now by being more active.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The money part of your living is very important now, so don't be too extravagant. Find a way to add to your assets.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand new ideas and will be very capable, but must be taught to use caution before jumping into anything, and then there can be much success in this chart. Consistency must be acquired or your progeny could be only a starter and not a finisher of anything.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Wettest State Take Up Brooks' Investigation

RALEIGH (AP) — A request that the state attorney general's office take over a court-ordered investigation of Raleigh attorney John Brooks has been made by Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell.

In asking the state agency to take over the probe, Mitchell said it would not be proper for his office to try to determine whether Brooks concealed knowledge of perjury in connection with a murder trial because it might have to prosecute the case later.

Brooks, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for commissioner of labor in the September 14 runoff primary, has denied he committed any crime or violated legal ethics in the case.

Brooks has urged a speedy investigation in order that the allegations "not unfairly influence the election."

Last Friday, Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey ordered Mitchell to investigate to determine whether Brooks should be charged with the felony of concealing perjury.

The order came after a hearing in which Brooks admitted he knew for nearly a year before taking action that a witness in a 1972 murder trial has signed a statement admitting perjury.

Brooks represented a New Jersey man, Wesley R. Harris, in the trial in which Harris was convicted of the 1971 shotgun slaying of Jesse Dexter Wall of Knightdale. Brooks filed a petition in July asking for a new trial for Harris. He contended that Harris had been convicted on perjured testimony.

According to testimony at the hearing, Brooks knew that a witness had signed an affidavit in August of 1975 that he committed perjury in testifying against Harris.

In asking that the state take over the investigation, Mitchell said, "Should this matter ever result in criminal prosecution, it would be necessary that one of my assistants be called as a witness either for the state, the defense or both."

Mitchell said that since starting initial research into the case, it had come to his attention that North Carolina State Bar disciplinary rules prohibited his office's participation because one of the prosecutors would be a witness. Mitchell said he had sent the State Bureau of Investigation a transcript of the hearing before Bailey. He said that he also would give the attorney general's office preliminary legal research that his staff had compiled.

Senate Votes No Pension Bonus

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants to kill a 1 per cent bonus on cost-of-living pension increases for retired federal civil service and military personnel.

Under present law in effect since 1969, federal retirees receive a 4 per cent pension increase whenever the cost of living goes up 3 per cent and remains at that level for three months. The extra 1 per cent was intended to compensate retirees for the time lag in computing cost-of-living pension increases.

But its operation led to a 72 per cent increase in federal pensions since 1969, compared with a cost-of-living increase of 56 per cent.

The elimination of the bonus was approved Wednesday by the Senate by voice vote and sent to a House-Senate conference that is deciding whether federal judges, the president's Cabinet and top federal executives earning $37,800 a year or more will get a pay raise of about 4.8 per cent Oct. 1 along with all other federal employees.

Both the House and Senate have voted to deny the cost-of-living raise to legislators. But the House went further to cut off the adjustment this year to the judiciary and top executive branch officials. Elimination of the 1 per cent kicker on federal employee pensions was proposed by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., who said it would save nearly $200 million in the next fiscal year and $3.8 billion by 1980.

Holling's proposal was adopted along with a modification by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., to replace the quarterly cost-of-living pension adjustments with semi-annual changes.

The Associated Press revealed in February 1975 that the formula, designed to keep federal pensions in step with inflation, actually propels them increasingly ahead.

When the Civil Service Commission sent its proposed new formula to Congress last May, it credited The AP for bringing the formula problem to public attention.

The House last month voted 23 to 143 in favor of a bill to end the kicker for civil service retirees, but it failed to pass under a procedure requiring a two-thirds majority.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who opposed the elimination of the kicker, said it had been an inducement to early retirement, saving the government money and making jobs available for others.

Advices Human Rights Basic Job Of Council

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — The World Council of Churches in North America slashed its United States budget Wednesday and then was told its basic job is to secure human rights.

The three-day session was to end today after a message about the future direction of the ecumenical community in North America.

"The basic task of the ecumenical community is to secure human rights," Dr. Philip A. Potter, general secretary of the World Council of Churches said Wednesday night.

"That's what the Gospel is all about and there is not a country that does not violate human rights," he said.

The United States, he said, has a special responsibility because of its power, its tendency to police the world's economic interests, its competitions with the Soviet Union and others and its "interventionism which is compoundin the violation of human rights in those countries."

Churches, he said, must provide a forum for dealing with the issues and to share resources and stand behind those struggling for dignity.

In the first business of the council's plenary session, the board of directors approved a plan outlined by the conference's central committee that will substantially cut operations in the council's New York office.

The budget was cut from $100,000 per year to $20,000 per year for the next two years. Work beyond that specified in the proposal must be paid for by the U.S. Council of Churches.

Another speaker worried about the council's image. "When people don't understand what we're doing, they resent the money their churches put in," said Cynthia Wedel of Alexandria, Va., one of six presidents of the international ecumenical organization.

"So many Americans say the council must be bad because there are people in it from Communist countries. What they don't understand is there are no Communists in the World Council, only Christians who happen to live in Communist lands," she said.

A major misconception, she said, came from reports put out by the South African government about aid to blacks of that nation.

The aid to black Christians was for humanitarian work, not military equipment as the government charged, she said.

"It has been largely the government of South Africa that has spread stories that the money went for guns and ammunition," she said. "But none of our people who have been on the scene have said it has gone to promote violence."

Attending His 21st Funeral For Himself

BURLINGTON, Colo. (AP) — Jim Gernhart, who says he's worried he won't get a proper burial after he dies, will participate Sunday in his 21st funeral — for himself.

The 99-year-old retired farmer says he hopes he doesn't die before then. But if he does, Gernhart says he'll be buried in Goodland, Kan., because "I wouldn't be caught dead in Burlington."

Gernhart says his concern over lack of a decent funeral for himself has caused him to hold 20 funerals in the past 25 years.

"His funeral is the biggest thing that happens here," Mayor Rol Hudler said.

On Sunday, townspeople will honor him with what is supposed to be a 100th birthday funeral parade. Gernhart actually doesn't turn 100 until Nov. 20.

However, one of the parade funeral organizers says "he's getting a little old, and we're afraid he might not even be around then."

Gernhart staged his first funeral in 1951. He bought a copper casket, rented the local armory and spent more than $15,000 on a funeral party which attracted national attention.

Gernhart has had his copper casket shipped to a mausoleum in Goodland. He says he took the action because there was so much local outcry against his first funeral.

Gernhart, who lives in a rest home, says when he isn't planning funerals, he spends most of his time "just killing time."

Twins Will Wrestle Here

THE MCGUIRE TWINS . . . are the world's largest twins, according to the Guinness Book of World Records. Billy and Benny McGuire will wrestle in Greenville September 24 in a benefit for the Greenville Jaycees. (Reflector photo by Barbara Mathews)

Benny and Billy McGuire, billed as the world's largest twins, will wrestle in a benefit for the Greenville Jaycees at Guy Smith Stadium Friday, September 24, at 8:30 p.m.

The McGuires, 29, are in the Guinness Book of World Records. Benny weighs in at 727 pounds, while his brother is a little heavier at 747.

The twins were of normal weight until a bout with German measles at the age of 10 affected their pituitary glands.

They now plan intestinal bypass operations in the next few years to reduce them to between 250 and 300 pounds, according to Benny McGuire.

Price per plate will be $2.00. Dinners will include barbecued chicken, potatoes, and slaw. For free delivery of five or more dinners call the fire house, 752-3005.

They have been wrestling professionally for eight years and have never lost a match.

Couple Again May Lose Custody Of 7 Children

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — It took six years, but Charles and Darlene Alsager now custody of their children last Christmas despite a court ruling branding them "mentally deficient." Now they face losing their children again.

Des Moines family. "Being alive in a foster home situation is better than being dead where they are," said Quenten Emery, director of the social services department.

The Polk County Department of Social Services filed a custody petition Wednesday. The department said it feared for the safety of the seven children — four boys and three girls, 10 months to 14 years old — who still live with the family. The eldest son, 18 years old, no longer lives at home.

The children were placed in foster homes, but a U.S. District Court judge last December ruled that a juvenile court hearing at which parental rights were terminated had been unconstitutional. The children were returned to their parents.

The county petition cited alleged incidences of sexual abuse and incest among the children, threats by two Alsager boys to kill two other children, a threat by Mrs. Alsager to kill the entire family and other problems plaguing the Three of the children had remained with the family throughout the long legal fight. But five of the children were taken from the family in June 1969 by a juvenile court.

Cornelia Denied Hearing 'Rumor'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — In an Aug. 26 interview with The Montgomery Advertiser, Mrs. George C. Wallace said she was unaware of rumors that she had been involved in secretly taping her husband's telephone conversations.

lied the rumors were aimed at harming her or her reputation, possibly for political reasons. There has been speculation that she plans to seek the office now held by her husband.

When asked about the rumors, Mrs. Wallace said, "I haven't heard that one."

The newspaper, citing records at the Eye Foundation Hospital, said the state's First Lady checked into the hospital in the early morning hours of July 24, registering under her maiden name, Cornelia Ellis.

After checking out of the hospital, the newspaper reported, Mrs. Wallace spent the next few days recovering at the home of the physician who performed her surgery, Dr. Gaylon McCollough.

During the same interview, Mrs. Wallace said she believed the media was being "used" by unidentified persons who circulated rumors that she and the governor had separated.

Church Bazaar Next Tuesday

St. Paul's Episcopal Church will have a bazaar Tuesday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Crafts including Christmas decorations, handwork, needle work, and macramé will be displayed and available for sale at the bazaar.

New Lottery To Get Out Voters

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lottery Director Gus Harrison says a new instant lottery game beginning next Tuesday will help get out the vote on Nov. 2.

The top prize in the game will be $1 for every vote cast for the winning presidential candidate in Michigan, and is guaranteed to be at least $1.25 million, the biggest prize ever awarded in the Michigan lottery.

Church Bazaar Next Tuesday

A Country Kitchen will be open at the bazaar featuring baked foods and frozen foods.

Sierra Club Sets Meet

The Greenville Chapter of the Sierra Club is holding a welcome back for old members and invitation to interested persons meeting on Monday, September 13, at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, corner of 14th and Elm Streets.

Ms. Myra Sexauer, publicity director of the local club, said "we're especially anxious to have townspeople and students attend this meeting to become familiar with plans for the future."

Among topics to be discussed at Monday's meeting are outings and hiking trips being planned.

Chairman of the local club is Dr. Philip Adler; Mrs. Ruth Trevathan is vice-chairman; Bob Graham is secretary-treasurer; and Ms. Margaret Henel is Conservation Chairman.

Refreshments will be served at the Monday meeting.

Fund-Raising Dinner Planned

Salem United Methodist Church will be sponsoring a fund-raising dinner Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. at the Eastern Pines Fire House, Portertown.

Price per plate will be $2.00. Dinners will include barbecued chicken, potatoes, and slaw. For free delivery of five or more dinners call the fire house, 752-3005.

Meat Increase Due Corn Crop

CHICAGO (UPI) — The large corn crop in 1975 is primarily responsible for making 1976 a record year for beef production, says the National Live Stock and Meat Board here. Total red meat production is expected to increase from 36.6 billion pounds in 1975 to 37.3 billion pounds in 1976. Most of the increase will be in beef, but pork production also will rise, the board said.

URGES STATE WATER STUDY

OXFORD, N.C. (AP) — A call for state planning and action to meet its water needs has been made by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

Speaking at a ground-breaking for a CertainTeed Corp. plant in Granville County, Hunt said "the state has no idea of our (water) needs, it has no program and no strategy for assessing or addressing those needs."

"Our cities—like Raleigh and Chapel Hill and Greensboro—are left to shift for themselves, to go begging to other cities or to the federal government for help," Hunt said.

He said the state cannot afford to continue to have water shortages because they hamper economic development.

"We've got to face the fact that North Carolina is falling in this area," Hunt asserted.

Hunt called for establishing a strong water resources development program in state government to determine the state's needs and to develop a plan for meeting them.

"And then we must aggressively seek out the federal assistance that will enable us to obtain the water we need," he said.

How Tar Heel Senators And Congressmen Voted

By Roll Call Report
 WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 26 through Sept. 1.

House
PAY RAISE Adopted, 325 for and 75 against, an amendment to block scheduled Oct. 1 pay raises for congressmen, federal judges and top executive branch employees. The amendment was attached to HR 14238, a legislative appropriations bill which was passed and sent to the Senate.

The amendment freezes the pay for these officials at its Sept. level. It nullifies a law making annual cost-of-living pay raises automatic at an amount set by the President. Congress placed its members on the automatic pay-raise system last year. Congressmen are now paid $44,600, and a hike of at least $2,000 was expected Oct. 1.

Many of the 75 members voting "nay" actually opposed the congressional pay hike while favoring the hike for judges and top executive branch officials. They explained their "nay" votes as protests against tying congressional salaries to judicial and executive branch salaries, viewing this as a politically cowardly act that was unfair to judges and top bureaucrats.

Rep. William Armstrong (R-Colo.), a supporter, said that congressmen "are largely responsible for the inflationary spiral in this country, so we ought to suffer along with our constituents and not insulate ourselves through an automatic salary increase process."

Rep. Robert Gaiamo (D-Conn.), an opponent, said it is "outrageous to ask people who earn much more than that and who could do great service to this country to sacrifice high incomes and to come to work for the federal government at $42,000 or $44,000," which is "not high reimbursement" for private sector executives.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W.G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. David Henderson (D-3) voted "nay."
COURT REFORM Rejected, 173 for and 214 against, an amendment to earmark more than $20 million in federal funds for projects to reduce case backlogs and otherwise streamline state and local criminal court operations.

The amendment was proposed to HR 13636, a bill authorizing $900 million for fiscal 1977 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) programs. The bill was passed and sent to conference with the Senate.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman (D-N.Y.), a supporter, said that "speeding criminal trials is a very important priority" and that the funds can "begin to make some progress in correcting this very serious problem that has undermined the morale of the public."

Rep. Robert McClory (R-Ill.), an opponent, said that earmarking these funds for criminal court projects "would drastically reduce the funds available for other innovative and worthwhile programs focusing on such areas as career criminals, organized crime, citizens initiatives."

Rose voted "yea."
 Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

SSI Adopted, 219 for and 146 against, an amendment to provide for 100 per cent federal reimbursement to health agencies offering services to needy disabled children below age six, under the federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program.

The amendment was attached to HR 8911, a bill authorizing $70 million for fiscal 1977 upgrading of SSI, which gives payments and services to needy aged, disabled and blind persons. The bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

Before adoption of the amendment, the bill provided for 50 per cent federal reimbursement to agencies helping eligible children up to age 13. The effect of the amendment was to kill that provision, and instead provide 100 per cent reimbursement for services given children only up to age six.

Rep. Abner Mikva (D-Ill.), a supporter, said that while the amendment does delete SSI coverage for children six to 13, it aims the federal funds "where a little help goes the furthest..."

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt (R-Mich.), an opponent, said targeting SSI aid to pre-school children "is being... heartless to those children between the ages of six and 13."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner and Taylor voted "yea."

Broyhill voted "nay."
 Rose and Martin did not vote.

SCHOOL DESEGREGATION Tabled, 46 for and 38 against, an amendment aimed at limiting court-disruptive remedies will not work. The amendment was proposed to S 2657, a federal education bill passed and sent to conference with the House.

Its sponsors said the amendment repealed language in a 1974 law which they said allowed federal judges to ignore congressional alternatives to busing.

Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), a supporter of the motion to table and thus kill, called the amendment "an effort to legislate a constitutional amendment in a law." He added that its passage "would invite a confrontation with the courts, which we have sought to avoid."

Sen. William Roth (R-Del.), an opponent of tabling, said the amendment is needed because "the courts have usurped prerogatives properly belonging to the elected representatives of the people." He said the courts "have become a super-legislature responsible to no one," by setting social policy rather than applying law.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea."

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

WATERWAY CONTROLS

Rejected, 39 for and 40 against, an amendment to limit certain Army Corps of Engineers environmental controls to those waterways navigable for interstate commerce and their adjacent wetlands. The amendment was proposed to S 2710, a package of amendments to the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act. The bill was passed and sent to the House.

The amendment was intended to rescind the power given the Corps by a 1975 court ruling to regulate, by issuance of permits, dredging and filling of all the nation's waterways. Specifically exempted from Corps controls by the amendment were farming and ranching activities affecting waterways or wetlands.

Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), a supporter, said the court-mandated expansion of the Corps permit program "involves unwarranted intrusion into the lives and activities of private citizens," while having a "minimal effect on the real problems of water pollution."

Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Maine), an opponent, said that the amendment "undertakes to jeopardize about three-quarters of all U.S. wetlands by removing them from jurisdiction of the Clean Water Act," and that waterways cannot "be arbitrarily divided into two" for regulatory convenience.

Morgan and Helms voted "yea."

His Dream: To Be State Clown

By ROD CLARKE
 WOLCOTT, Vt. (UPI) — Stephen Schneps has a goal in life. He wants to be like the Morgan horse, the hermit thrush and the red clover.

After all, Schneps reasons, if Vermont can have a state animal, a state bird and a state flower — why not a state clown?

Five days a week, Schneps — a teacher by profession — works as a counsellor for a federally funded manpower training program in north-central Vermont.

Nights and weekends, he paints his face white, dons the time-honored rubber nose, changes his name to "El Schnepo" and tries to make people laugh.

"Laughter is the world's corrective medicine," he says. Schneps thinks the time is ripe for Vermont to become the first state to establish an official state clown.

He took a step toward that goal recently when the Vermont Council on the Arts agreed to pay half his $50 fee for any non-profit organization that hires him to perform.

He also wants the governor to declare "state clown day" in state government, when bureaucrats and politicians dress and act funny.

Sorry to burst your bubble, El Schnepo, but there are those who think that's been going on for years.

Schneps, 31, got into clowning more than two years ago when a friend gave him an application to a clown college in Florida. He was interviewed in Providence, R.I., by the "dean" of the Clown College and auditioned with the Ringling Bros. what I was running away from, because a lot of clowns are running away from reality," he said.

The "dean" felt Schneps, with his masters degree in education, wouldn't be serious enough about a career with the circus. Having been judged "overqualified" to be a clown, he decided to go it alone.

That first summer, Schneps developed his character and perfected his act, working both as a clown and a leprechaun with a summer show.

Would he like to be a full time clown, and give up his regular job?

"Sure, if I could make a living so I could handle all the ramifications of being a clown — of being 'up' 24 hours a day."

Schneps went to a circus to see how the clowns lived when they weren't in the center ring.

"I saw a lot of sad clowns — a lot of lonely clowns. I saw one sitting alone in his trailer, eating a can of cold spinach. I said, 'I'm not that kind of person.'"

El Schnepo starts his performances with only a white face. The full transformation takes place before his audience's eyes.

New York City produces approximately 25,000 tons of solid waste material daily.
