Green, Flaherty, Brooks And Bridges Win Runoff Races In North Carolina

By The Associated Press

Except for the Democratic contest for the labor commissioner nomination where Raleigh lawyer John Brooks bested Jessie Rae Scott, North Carolina voters pulled no big surprises in Tuesday's runoff primary.

The Republican voters gave David Flaherty a landslide victory over Coy Privette, the Baptist minister who proclaimed throughout the state that he was the only Republican who could defeat Democrat Jim Hunt in the November General Election. Flaherty had been expected to win big since he lacked only a handful of votes of grabbing the prize in the first primary.

House Speaker Jimmy Green won handily over former Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee in the contest for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor as North Carolina voters demonstrated they are not yet ready to put a black in the line of succession for the state's highest office.

Veteran State Auditor Henry Bridges received his sharpest challenge since he became auditor in 1947, but it would have been a big upset if he had not survived the challenge of consumer advocate Lillian Woo.

Brooks' victory over Mrs. Scott, North Carolina's former first lady, was an upset because she led a field of four candidates in the first primary by a substantial margin and many observers had expected the Scott family's political clout to carry her to victory.

Brooks, who lost a bid for labor commissioner in 1972, won despite the fact that he spent much of the second primary campaign under a cloud after a Superior Court judge ordered him investigated on suspicion that he had concealed evidence of perjury.

The voters apparently got the message that Atty. Gen Rufus Edmisten had cleared Brooks of any wrongdoing.

After the returns were in, there were the usual congratulations by losers and pledges of unity in the November election.

Privette, president of the Baptist State Convention who resigned a Kannapolis pastorate to make the race, forgot some harsh things he had said about Flaherty during the campaign as he congratulated the winner and said, "We're on the same team. Only the Republican Party is going to bring responsive government to North Carolina."

Flaherty, a former furniture factory executive who resigned as human resources secretary to make the race, told a throng celebrating his victory, "I think the Republican Party can be reunited and win in November."

Lee, the son of a Georgia sharecropper, made an appeal for Democratic Party unity and said, "I believe we will be victorious in November."

Green, a conservative and wealthy tobacco warehouse operator from Clarkton, congratulated Lee for waging "a hard, clean, tough campaign."

"There will be a place in government for Mayor Lee," Green told supporters who gathered for his victory celebration.

By The Associated Press

Here is a capsule of the runoff election results, based on complete but unofficial tabulations from all precincts:

GOVERNOR-Rep.

Flaherty 45,372 or 60.3 per cent.

Privette 29,926 or 39.7 per cent.

Flaherty, Green Won Pitt Votes

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County voters in yesterday's runoff primary cast their ballots in line with the rest of the state, giving nomination victories to Republican gubernatorial hopeful David Flaherty, and Democrats James C. Green, a contender for the nomination as lieutenant governor; John C. Brooks who is seeking the Labor Commissioner's post; and incumbent State Auditor Henry Bridges.

In the Democrat camp, Green polled 5,253 votes in Pitt as compared to 3,824 for former Chapel Hill mayor Howard Lee, giving the veteran legislator 57.9 per cent of the Pitt vote.

State-wide, Green captured 56 per cent of the votes cast in the race.

Incumbent Auditor Henry Bridges took 53.5 per cent of the ballots cast in Pitt. He polled 4,620 votes to 4,014 votes for Lillian Woo, a new-comer to North Carolina and to the political arena of the state.

State-wide, Bridges got 52.5 per cent of the vote as compared to Mrs. Woo's 47.5 per cent.

Greenville native John Brooks, now a Raleigh attorney, won a close race state-wide against his opponent Jessie Rae Scott for the nomination as Commissioner of Labor. North Carolinians gave Brooks a 50.8 percent to 49.2 percent edge state-wide.

However, Pitt voters cast 4,872 votes for Brooks and 3,551 votes for Mrs. Scott — the wife of former N.C. Gov. Robert W. Scott — giving Brooks 57.8 per cent of the ballots in the county.

In the GOP contest for the nomination as governor, David T. Flaherty received 444 Republican ballots in yesterday's voting as compared to 207 votes for his opponent Coy Privette. That gave Flaherty 68.2 per cent of the votes cast in the race.

State-wide, Flaherty won handily over Privette by taking 60.3 per cent of the Republican ballots.

Even though the voting in Pitt and the voting state-wide produced the same results, none of the winning candidates took all 26 precincts in the county. Lee and Privette both took five precincts, while Mrs. Woo won six Pitt ballot boxes. Mrs. Scott won in four Pitt precincts.

Lee, the son of a Black Georgia sharecropper, led an eight-candidate field in the primary last month state-wide. He placed second in Pitt—behind Wake County native Waverly Akins — and ahead of Green who ran third in the August voting.

In last month's voting, Akins took 3,403 votes, Lee got 3,014 ballots and Green took only 1,887.

The other candidates in yesterday's runoff maintained the same position that they had in the August contest, in Pitt.

Utilities Audit Offered At Commission Meeting

By BETTY SANDERSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Copies of the 1975-76 fiscal year audit report were presented to members of the Greenville Utilities Commission last night at their regular monthly meeting.

The audit, made by John C. Proctor Co. of Greenville, will be published soon in a condensed version by the GUC.

The report shows the GUC with total assets of $30,941,895.19 for the year.

Figures for the individual funds are: 1) electric fund — actual revenues $17,453,459.89, expenditures $16,103,204.26; 2) water fund — actual revenues $995,695.15, expenditures $1,079,072.87; 3) sewer fund — actual revenues $905,107.24, expenditures $706,588.69; and 4) gas fund — actual revenues $1,381,244.56, expenditures $1,195,667.39.

A decrease in electric rates is expected in October, according to GUC director Charles Horne, after the electric deferred fuel surcharge (.224 cents per KWH) is dropped Oct. 1. Other factors in the decrease are application of winter rates, a negative charge of about .060 cents per KWH (60 cents per 1,000 kilowatt hours) and decrease in usage.

The surcharge was added by the GUC Dec. 1, 1975, in response to a retail deferred fuel charge added by VEPCO from Oct. 22, 1975 to Sept. 1, 1976. GUC has collected a total of $840,514.67; $252,200.55 has been paid to VEPCO, leaving an estimated balance of $645,799.45.

The commission authorized members James Caldwell Jr. (city manager), Thomas Shea and Horne as a committee to start plans for a new operations center site. The committee will select an architect-engineer firm to prepare preliminary plans and a cost estimate.

Options have already been secured on an area of about 21 acres for the site. Total cost of the land, located on Mumford Road between that and the Pactolus Hwy., is about $61,500. The Greenville City Schools system owns 13.2 acres at the site, property valued at $39,000.

The City Council is expected to consider the land use at its meeting Sept. 16. Plans for the operations site are contingent on Council use concurrence. The present site has been used since 1903.

Another item of business was discussion of plans for a review of contract computer operations versus in-house costs. A.M. Pullen Co. was chosen to make the review at a cost of $6,350. Current contract operations (conducted outside the GUC) cost about $70,000 per year and may run as high as $80,000 according to Curtis Howell, GUC secretary. The review will study the costs of necessary equipment from IBM, NCR and Burroughs compared to contract costs.

The commissioners approved additional capital expenditures in the electric fund budget at a total estimated cost of $221,600. The improvements include $99,600 for work near the Northside substation (Empire Brush-Greenfield Terrace area) and $122,000 for work near the power plant substation (Falkland-Black Jack-Clayroot area). Additional income from retained earnings may be used later to modify the budget if necessary.

FARMVILLE — William S. Pollard last night repeated in a public hearing his presentation of his consulting firm's proposals for the four-laning of Highway 264 from Wilson to Washington and Highway 64 from Rocky Mount to Williamston to handle east-west traffic flow in Eastern North Carolina.

He had earlier made the presentation in a meeting in Farmville "for area officials and leaders" last Wednesday and in a similar public hearing in Williamston.

The Tennessee-based firm has completed only about 60 per cent of its study of Eastern N.C. traffic needs, he emphasized.

Request by SOBALCO Inc. for rezoning of 7.03 acres located adjacent to University Condominiums from R-20 to R-6;

Request by Joseph E. Thomas for rezoning from Medical Arts to Shopping Center of approximately five acres located on the corner of Stantonsburg Road and Memorial Drive;

Request by Phillip E. Carroll for rezoning of 47.1 acres on the west side of NC 11 and US 13, north of Belvoir Highway, from Unoffensive Industry and R-9 to R-6, R-9 and Highway Commercial;

Request by Taft, Blount and Rivers for rezoning 98 acres on the southwest side of State Road 1417, 1,800 feet west of NC 11, and 1126 acres located to the northwest of Greenfield Terrace from Unoffensive Industry and RA-20 to R-6, R-9, Highway Commercial, and R6-Mobile Home;

Petition by Eastern Realty Co. for annexation of 20.54 acres located adjacent to Club Pines Subdivision;

Petition for annexation of Elizabeth Heights Subdivision located on Evans Street Extension and consisting of approximately 3.6 acres;

Amendments to the 1976-77 Community Development Program; and Construction of a Utilities Operations Center to be located on the north side of Mumford Road, some 2,800 feet east of the intersection of Mumford Road and North Greene Street, just beyond the city limits, and running north to Parker's Creek, being some 425 feet in width on Mumford Road and comprising a total of 21 acres.

World Trade Officers Will Be Installed Here

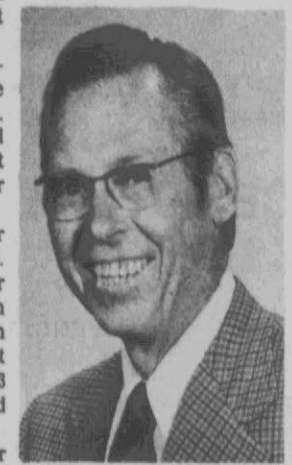

Jackson A. Rigney, dean of International Programs at North Carolina State University, will address the Coastal Plain World Trade Assn. (CPWTA) at a meeting here Thursday night.

Officers of the newly-organized CPWTA are to be installed at the dinner meeting. An initial organizational meeting was held at East Carolina University here earlier in the summer.

Rigney has been dean for International Programs at N.C. State since 1968 and served for six months in 1975 as interim Acting Chancellor of the Raleigh school. He served as department head of statistics at State for 13 years before becoming involved with international programs.

He spent two years as leader of the NCSU Agricultural Mission in Peru and later was campus director of the project for three years. He has been on

Summer Reports Given At League Meet

Committee reports telling of summer activities were given at the first fall meeting of the Greenville Service League. Mrs. Leon Moore, president, welcomed the members.

The following reports were presented:

Mrs. Alfred Ferguson reported that 113 league volunteers worked 496½ hours during a six-day visit of the bloodmobile and collected 817 pints of blood. She announced that the next bloodmobile visit will be on Oct. 19-21 at ECU. Mrs. Frank Lane will assist Mrs. Ferguson as co-chairman.

Mrs. P. L. Goodson, Laughinghouse Hospital Fund chairman, reported that three patients at Pitt Memorial were assisted and that three memorials were added to the fund.

Mrs. M. T. Simpson announced the Gift Shop schedule for the full term and named Mrs. Don Bailey as her assistant.

Mrs. Clay Burnette, Lending Chest, answered one call for equipment during the summer. Mrs. Donald McGlohon announced that 150 tray favors were prepared for July 4.

Finance chairman, Mrs. Eddie Smith, named Mrs. Gerald Cname as overall chairman for this year's annual Charity Ball, which will be held Feb. 18.

Mrs. Ercell Webb announced that a Bi-Polar Cautery has been purchased for Pitt Memorial Hospital as a gift.

Nocturnal Pool Parties Are Problem

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How do you deal with next-door neighbors who have a swimming pool and hold noisy pool parties well into the night?

Our bedrooms are on the side of the house near their pool and it's impossible to get any rest while they're partying.

Their parties don't start until 10 p.m.—just when we're turning in. They are nice people and we like them, but their nocturnal pool parties are a problem for us.

Can anyone offer a solution? I can't very well sell my lovely home and move away.

PERPLEXED IN BINGHAMPTON

DEAR PERPLEXED: The best approach is to pay your neighbors a visit (during the day) and tell them frankly what you've told me. Much depends on the kind of noise they make, and for how long. Loud music can be turned down. Boisterous guests can be asked to tone down.

Do they party every night or once a week? There are laws against disturbing the peace, you know, but "nice" people shouldn't be forced by law to consider their neighbors.

DEAR ABBY: This is one for the books, but I swear it's true. After 40 years of marriage, my mother-in-law left her husband and ran off with a younger guy.

She just wrote to tell us that she and her fellow are coming through town and would like to stay with us for about a week.

My husband (her son) says whatever I decide is okay with him. We have only one guest room to put up the two of them.

What do we do? Our teenage kids know about Grandma and her boyfriend, but can we have them sleeping together in our home?

In the past you've told parents if their college kids who are shacking up away from home want to bring their roommates home for a visit, they have to abide by the house standards. But how do you handle a shacking-up Grandma?

STICKY WICKET

DEAR WICKET: The same way you'd handle a shacking-up college kid.

DEAR ABBY: Every time you advise someone to "get counseling," I pray that your advice will be followed because I am living proof of how much good counseling can accomplish.

I learned through counseling to know myself and to accept myself. I discovered that what I felt, good or bad, was real and okay. I learned that approval was fine, but it wasn't necessary in order to feel good about myself.

I keep a motto on my desk at work that explains my attitude about life now. It says: "I WONDERED WHY SOMEBODY DIDN'T DO SOMETHING. THEN I REALIZED THAT I WAS SOMEBODY." (Anonymous)

Thanks for listening. God bless you, Abby, and all the people who listen to you.

MARLENE

DEAR MARLENE: You are indeed somebody, and the motto you valued sufficiently to keep on your desk proves it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

INFORMAL SUPPER

Frankfurter Frittata
Waldorf Salad

Pound Cake Coffee

FRANKFURTER FRITTATA

6 tablespoons butter

1 medium onion, thinly sliced

½ green pepper, minced

4 frankfurters, cut into very thin rounds

6 eggs, beaten

½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

2 tablespoons minced parsley

Heat butter in a large, heavy frying pan and cook the onion and green pepper in it for 3 minutes or until soft. Add the frankfurters. Cook over low heat, stirring often, for 5 minutes or until the frankfurters are golden brown. Add the eggs, Parmesan, salt, pepper and parsley. Mix well. Cook until the eggs are set. Cut into wedges and serve at once. Makes 4 servings. From "What Shall I Cook Today?" by Nika Hazelton with Marjorie P. Blanchard (Bobbs-Merrill.)

Never substitute a 30 pound food can for a waterbath canner or other large, deep pot. The weight of the water needed makes the cans unsafe because the cans' bottoms can sag.

Luncheon Meet Held By Greenville Garden Club

The Greenville Garden Club held its first meeting of the year Friday with a luncheon at the First Christian Church.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway, first vice president, introduced Mrs. Kay Shorter and the guest speaker, Mrs. Woodrow Ham of Rocky Mount, district director.

The General Federation of Garden Clubs have a garden club in every state in the United States. There are 1,000 members in North Carolina said Mrs. Ham. The general over all theme is on growth.

She emphasized three things — glowing, grooming and growing. In glowing you are passing on ideas. Grow and groom out young people and glow.

Mrs. Paul Davenport, president, opened the meeting and encouraged members to attend the meeting and tea in New Bern Wednesday when Sir Walter Raleigh's portrait will be presented to the N. C. Board of Garden Clubs.

On Saturday, Sir Peter

Ransbothan, British ambassador to the U. S., will dedicate the newly created rose garden at the Elizabethan Garden in Manteo. Sir Walter Raleigh's portrait and other gifts will be placed in the gate house at the garden.

Mrs. Ben Harrison spoke on the handicapped and retarded. She reported on dish gardens from three groups and how essential it is for every handicapped person to have garden therapy.

It was suggested to reorganize a junior garden club for handicapped and retarded persons.

Mrs. Richard Forrest distributed horticultural information. Mrs. R. V. Keel told how to obtain materials and care for dried flowers. Mrs. Galloway reviewed the new club book.

Mrs. Thelma Harris gave the invocation.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. R. Carrington, Mrs. Preston Cannon and Mrs. Keel.

Enlarged Stadium A Real Goal

An important fund raising drive opened with the beginning of the fall quarter at East Carolina University.

Dr. Leo Jenkins announced the beginning of a campaign to raise $2.5 million. The funds will be used to expand Ficklen Stadium to seat 35,000 people. A new press box will also be added to the facility.

Such outstanding citizens as Roddy Jones of Raleigh, Tom Willis of Farmville and Dr. Ray Minges of Greenville have been prevailed upon to take positions in the campaign organization and we firmly believe that the goal will be met.

The project carries the endorsement of the university board of trustees and the enlarged stadium would be used, not only for football games, but other events where a large outdoor stadium would be needed.

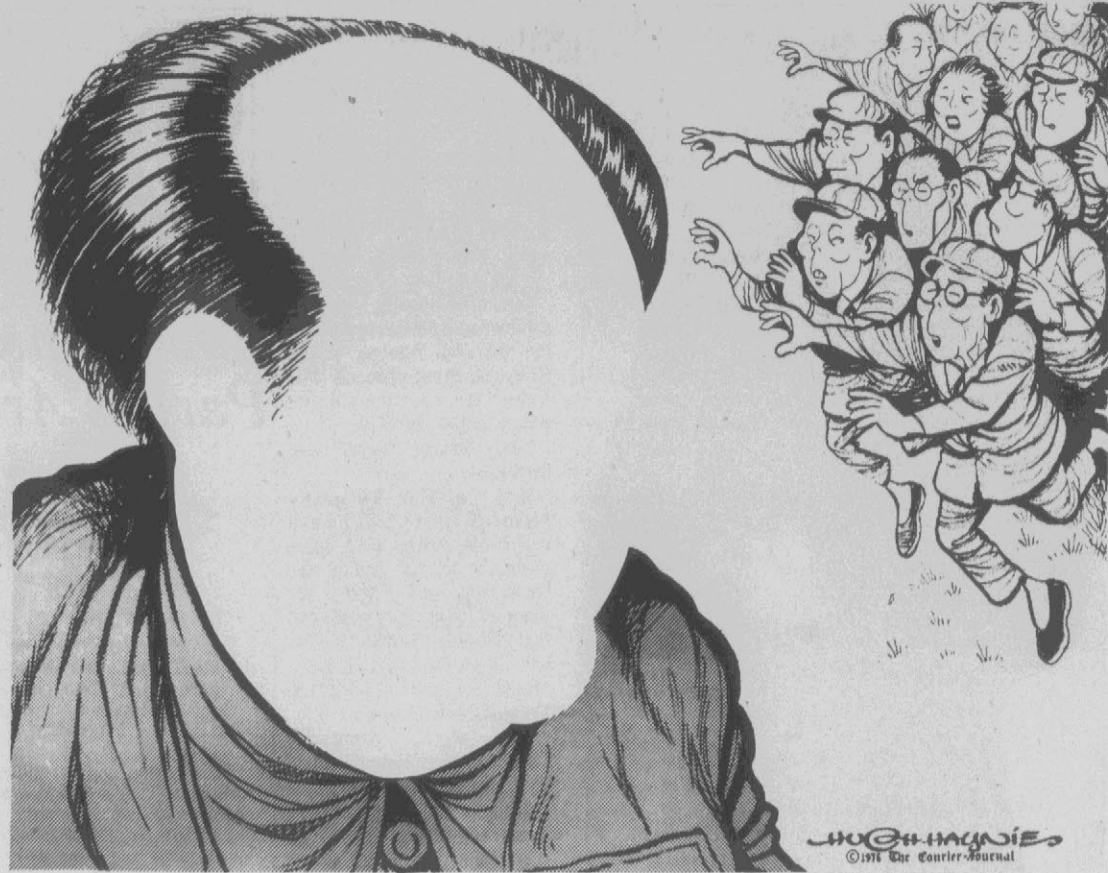

Ficklen stadium was begun with the construction of the south stands, through a public solicitation campaign. Later the south stands were constructed through a bond issue financed by student fees. Last year a new lighting system was installed using bond funds. Now we have the opportunity to make the stadium the largest in the east and one of the state's largest.

The near full house at the football game between ECU and Southern Mississippi should add impetus to the campaign to enlarge the stadium. So, too, should the prospect of bringing teams of Atlantic Coast Conference Calibre to Greenville.

We dare to dream when the first section of Ficklen Stadium was built more than a decade ago. Now the full dream is about to come to fruition. We cannot fail in this campaign to raise funds for expanding Ficklen Stadium. The returns will be many times what we invest.

We are well aware of what it cost a farmer to operate today.

Agriculture is an exceedingly important part of area economy, and we expect it will be for the foreseeable future.

"Let a thousand flowers bloom... let two thousand hands reach out to fill the void."

Agriculture To Continue Major Role

A Salute to Agriculture held at the fairgrounds, Sunday brought out a large crowd.

Larry Land, president of the Pitt Agribusiness Association, said the event "opened a lot of eyes as to the amount of money a farmer has to spend to succeed today."

THIS AFTERNOON

'Careers Debate' Is Ahead

By BILL NOBLITT (Second of Two Articles) RALEIGH — Before things proceed much further in the running debate over career education in North Carolina, it is likely that the General Assembly will become involved.

That legislative body, after all, is supposed to be the arena in which major policy matters affecting the state are argued and resolved.

The State Department of Public Instruction is now set to develop a short-range and long-range plan for implementing career education in the state's public schools.

While the State Board of Education has been cautious in moving that way, top state educators led by State Superintendent A. Craig Phillips are committed to pursuing career education, and are pushing hard.

In materials prepared to gain the federal funds to do the plan, state officials outlined the philosophy of career education for North Carolina as "learning to live, learning to learn, and learning to make a living. These three aspects cut across discipline lines at every level of development and have as a basic objective relating the real world to the development of basic skills and academic motivation.

"Activities vary with the student's developmental level, but roughly take the following form: K-3, awareness; 4-9, exploration; 10-12, preparation and specialization."

State position arguments further call for teachers in all subjects to use student interests, aptitudes, and abilities as "vehicles for teaching the content of the curriculum. By-products of the process include improved ability to utilize basic skills subject, enhancement of self-concept, clarification of value systems, enhanced decision-making skills, and improved ability to cope with change."

In simple terms, then, educators hope to bridge the gap between vocational programs and academic programs, calling on community involvement, curriculum development, and professional development to make school work more real, to relate learning to life, and to remove the stigma which has attached in many instances to the public school student on a non-college track.

Further, state school officials say many local systems are already moving into career education fields, but without benefit of state support and an overall plan or philosophy.

Timetable
The timetable now is for a plan to be drawn up during the present fiscal year; pilot projects in several sections of the state in 1977-78; and further implementation through 1981-82 with modification as more schools adopt and implement the plan.

But will North Carolina go as far as U. S. Congressman Carl Perkins hopes. Perkins sponsored the federal career education legislation, and sees it as "a comprehensive approach to education from the early elementary grades into the adult years, providing people with an idea of the types of jobs available in society with guidance and counseling to determine what jobs they are most suited for, with assistance in securing these jobs, as well as with specific job training."

The debate is likely to reach the floor of the General Assembly in 1977 through some proposals from the Department of Public Instruction currently being passed about in draft form.

The proposed law would make vocational education "an integral part of the educational process and authorize and direct the State Board of Education to administer a comprehensive vocational education program in grades 7-12, in the public schools of this state."

The purposes are defined as preparing individuals for jobs; preparing individuals for enrollment in advanced skill training; helping students make informed and meaningful occupational choices; and preparing them for the responsibilities of homemaking and making consumer choices.

It is proposed that public schools offer job training for dropouts, for people seeking new jobs, those wanting to upgrade skills, and for homemakers, outside of the regular academic program and schedule, but with cautions not to infringe on the Community College program.

Won A Place In History

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

When the story of the Dominican Republic's revolution unfolds, you may hear about a great, unsung hero whose name is Sidney.

Nobody knows Sidney's last name, but the whole course of the revolution would have been changed if it hadn't been for him.

Sidney was an American tourist visiting Santo Domingo when the fighting broke out. As you may remember, President Johnson sent in Marines to protect Americans who could possibly be hurt. Unfortunately, the evacuation went off so fast that in 24 hours there wasn't an American left in the capital except Sidney.

When Sidney showed up at the pier to be taken on board ship, he was stopped by a Marine colonel who said, "I'm sorry, you can't leave, sir."

"Why not?" Sidney wanted to know.

"Because we've been sent here to protect Americans and you're the only American left. If you leave, we'll have to pull out."

"Nuts to that," said Sidney. "I want to get out of here. They got a bunch of crazy people in this town."

"My orders are to keep you here, sir. We made a mistake in evacuating the Americans too fast and now we need you more than you need us."

"That's not my problem," Sidney said. "I want to go on that ship out there."

Two Marine sergeants raised their guns. "It's not possible, Sidney," the colonel replied.

"If the OAS arrived and found no American here for us to protect, we would be in a very sticky position. But you'll be perfectly safe. President Johnson is sending in 10,000 more troops to protect you."

"To protect me?"

"Yes, sir. We're going to build a nine-mile perimeter around you so nobody can get near you. I assure you nothing can go wrong."

Sidney took his bags and went back to the hotel.

The next morning he was visited by the general in charge of the paratroopers. "Are you okay, Sidney?"

"Yeah, I'm okay. But I want to go home."

"Just be patient and everything will be all right."

While the general was talking, a platoon set up a machine gun on the balcony. Two tanks were parked in front of the hotel and an antiaircraft gun was placed on the roof.

"What's all that for?" Sidney wanted to know.

"Just to see that no one hurts you. You're very precious to us."

"Yeah, well, if I'm so precious, why don't you get me the hell out of here?"

"We will as soon as we feel it's reasonably safe. For the moment you're the only humanitarian reason for our being here."

"I don't know what's going on, but all I know is I'm being held as a hostage."

"Sidney, have you ever heard of the Monroe Doctrine?"

"Yeah, I guess so."

"Well, you're part of it. Your name will go down in history books with Teddy Roosevelt and Admiral Dewey. When schoolteachers ask their pupils who saved the Dominican Republic from going Communist, the children are going to have to

Reopen Italian Debate

By MICHAEL J. DUFFY Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — The Italian parliament takes up the issue of abortion reform again with the Vatican standing fast in opposition but the advocates of liberalization strengthened.

Abortion, a major campaign issue in the U.S. presidential election, played a big part in the fall of the last Italian government, in April.

40 Years Ago Today

September 15, 1936

With determined rebel vanguards stretching out toward Madrid, Spain's fascist commander-in-chief General Francisco Franco today was reported to have pledged 25,000 more men to the Talavera march on the capital.

This report, the Madrid government announce, came from a fascist deserter who said the insurgent chieftains with headquarters at Talavera had told Franco: "The militia is braver than we are."

The socialist government contended it was successfully checking advances both on Madrid and on Toledo and coined a new watchword: "They shall retreat."

High government financial quarters disclosed today that budget estimates for the next fiscal year probably will call for national defense expenditures topping the billion dollar mark.

This report, was circulated as government departments engaged in a last minute rush to file estimates for the 1938 fiscal year with Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget bureau.

Officials said that the national defense estimates would rise above the $920,000,000 outlay projected in the current year because more money will be necessary to carry on a program of expansion already underway. —Barbara Mathews

THE INSIDE REPORT

Myth-Breaker Moynihan

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — The reason Daniel Patrick Moynihan's campaign for the U.S. Senate will profoundly affect the Democratic party's course in New York and perhaps across the nation was underlined at 9 p.m. last Thursday in the steamy auditorium of P.S. 105 in the Bronx.

Halfway through his speech to a largely Jewish audience, the coatless, perspiring Moynihan declared high defense spending is necessary to preserve "the things we stand for in the world." Deriding his principal opponent, Rep. Bella Abzug, for "never voting a dime for any defense bill," Moynihan warned: "As our position in the world goes down, the Western democracies are more and more isolated." He concluded by saying, "I'm not one of those Democrats who are ashamed of this country," adding that Americans must "be prepared to stand up for it and defend it."

The attentive audience loved it. Not since the Vietnam war started has any candidate dared throw such raw meat at the Democratic primary voters in New York—or any major Northern industrial state. In stressing the necessity of arming the nation to its teeth, Moynihan defies the im-

Accordingly, the New York outcome shall clearly point the party's future course. If colorful and famous Pat Moynihan cannot win a plurality against three left opponents — Mrs. Abzug, former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and city council president Paul O'Dwyer — no centrist New York Democrat will try again anytime soon.

Actually, private polls giving Dr. Moynihan a narrow lead and the mere fact he is running at all shatter myths that only a few months ago seemed to insure the New York Democratic party continuing its suicidal way: the nomination of yet another left candidate to run against Conservative—Republican James Buckley.

One smashed myth is that any New York Democrat is doomed if opposed by black political leaders; in truth, aside from frightening Gov.

Hugh Carey away from Moynihan's corner, black opposition has been ineffective and, of late, invisible. Another smashed myth is that Moynihan is too elegant a Harvard don for rough-and-tumble New York campaigning; in truth, he is handling fatigue and boredom unexpectedly well in long campaign days.

But the validity of the most important myth—that a pro-defense position is forbidden in the Democratic party—will not be determined until the balloting. That myth was so totally accepted by Moynihan's managers that he wasted the first weeks of his late-starting campaign by censoring his natural hawkish rhetoric and sounding like dozens of other Democrats in demanding government-generated jobs.

The result: well through August, Moynihan seemed finished. Mrs. Abzug, subduing both her ferocious

To the editor:

Labor Day marked the beginning for this November's elections. Both political parties have each been politically divided into liberal and conservative wings. One group wants to do too much and the other not enough. And we as taxpayers have to foot the bill for a wishy-washy, do-nothing government.

The Congressional race in the First District has not seen any aggressive leadership development. We need a representative in Congress with the courage to run on a platform of action—and when elected, one that will stick to his guns. The "politics as usual" Congress that we have now is corrupting our way of life to the core.

In my opinion, our type of government will only change with the constant weeding out of its members. To accomplish this, I would like to see our candidates for Congress put these items in their campaigns: Limit the members of the Supreme Court to 12 years on the bench. Allow senators only two consecutive terms in office, with six consecutive terms for members of the House of Representatives. Allow only one term in office for the President and Vice President, with the candidates for these two positions to be chosen by the vote of all the people.

For our country's situation to change, we as voters have to change the way our government leads us. This can only be done when we as citizens have more control of the government, instead of the other way around.

They say a picture is worth 1,000 words—this is probably true, and if it is, your editorial cartoon appearing in the Sunday, Sept. 12 Daily Reflector is a shameful message. It is shameful for the implied simplicity of the problems of quality public education. The cartoon reveals no insight, no creative understanding, and no truth. Any illiterate caged in by the biases of common folklore could produce as much!

The editorial cartoons in The Daily Reflector are usually worthless, this particular one is destructive.

REACHING FOR THE STARS

Epictetus, the Stoic philosopher, asks in one of his Discourses where a man can be found who will love his enemies, forgive his oppressors, or die that others might lead a fuller life. He declares that he has found no such person among the Stoics of that day.

This philosopher was born about thirty years after the crucifixion of Jesus. Whether he had any actual knowledge of the early Christian movement we do not know. But if he had looked around him in the town in Asia Minor in which he lived, he would have found men who, following the example of Jesus, were trying to love their enemies and to do good to those that spitefully used them. If he had inquired of any of his Christian neighbors, they would have told him of a Man who had died for the good of others several generations before.

When the Word became flesh, men beheld in living form the moral ideas of which the world's greatest thinkers had caught but a faint glimpse.

Individual Investors Wanted

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Individual investors account for nearly three-quarters of its public orders, claims the New York Stock Exchange. Why, then, is the exchange so concerned about getting more individual investors?

Because on some days the concentration of trading among institutions almost replaces the individual volume that is so necessary for competitive pricing.

This seeming paradox has led to more than a few friendly discussions that evolved into arguments and ended up with bets, still unresolved. The explanation is to be found in the meaning of the terms:

"Orders" refers to all transactions, large or small. "Volume" refers to the number of shares involved in those orders. Individuals sometimes order 50 shares; institutions sometimes order 100 times that amount.

The consequence is concentration, the coagulation of trading among institutions, a malady that can be corrected only by injecting more red blood cells in the form of individual orders.

If more of the public, source of random buying-selling, cannot be induced back into the market, the flow of transactions could become spastic, with fewer traders meaning bigger price gaps between transactions.

Individuals do remain, or course, but not in the numbers desired. In 1970, the exchange estimates, there were 30.8 million shareholders; in 1975 the estimate was only 25.3 million.

Declines were noted in almost every occupational category between the two years. Only the farmer and farm laborer category, smallest of all, rose. The number of professionals, craftsmen, clerks and retirees declined.

While direct individual ownership of stocks fell, institutional ownership rose, from 14.5 per cent in 1949 to 22.7 per cent in 1965, to 32.7 per cent in 1974 and 32.9 per cent in 1975

The exchange concedes, however, that this official figure is incomplete because of difficulties in obtaining data on some institutions.

"If it were possible to estimate the amount of NYSE stock held or managed by these groups, total institutional holdings would most likely be in the neighborhood of half the NYSE list," the exchange fact book states.

answer, 'Sidney.'"
Just then the phone rang. The general picked it up.
"It's the President, Sidney. He wants to speak to you."
"Yes, sir, Mr. President. No, I'm just fine. I'll stay here as long as you want me to. That's nice of you to say. You're a good American, too."

FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — The Army is declaring war on millions of California ground squirrels because of concern that the animals may spread bubonic plague.
The problem involves two facilities near Ft. Ord: the 166,000-acre Hunter-Leggitt reservation and 42,000-acre Camp Roberts.
Both posts are overpopulated by the Beechey ground squirrel, one of 11 species of ground squirrels, which look like chipmunks.
Army officials claim they have an emergency on their hands because the population of squirrels, which may harbor fleas that carry bubonic plague, has jumped from 1 million to 10 million since 1972.

No cases of the plague have been reported, but the Army said the ground squirrels still are a problem because they have undermined the land so seriously that an earthen dam collapsed. Army officials say farmers also complain that the ground squirrels eat their launched until spring because the animals are about to go into hibernation.

The Army had announced it would seek an exemption from a federal order issued in 1971 which bans use on federal land of poisons, such as Compound 1080, that could be passed from one animal to another.
This plan drew opposition from environmentalists and reached the halls of Congress. The chairman of the wildlife committee for the Sierra Club's local chapter, Betty Davis, said Compound 1080 had been banned for the "good reason that it is not only highly effective in killing ground squirrels but is violently toxic to other wildlife as well, both directly and indirectly, both game and nongame."

Rep. William Whitehurst, R-Va., has urged President Ford to deny the exemption for the poisoning. Whitehurst, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said one ounce of Compound 1080 could kill more than 100 humans.

He said the Army's problem squirrel population in check.

temper and her lifelong radical left doctrine and running as a pork-barrel Democrat, was clearly in the lead. It was then that Moynihan heeded advice of longtime advisers (led by Commentary magazine editor Norman Podhoretz).

Beginning Aug. 25, Moynihan sounded the new theme that being a liberal Democrat does not mandate Mrs. Abzug's refusal to support defense or condemn Communist aggression. "We don't want the issue of liberty in the world to be the property of the right wing," Moynihan tells audiences. Nor does he give the right exclusivity over the crime issue. Moynihan says at rallies that crime results partly because "we started thinking about criminals too much and their victims too little."

Such rhetoric, so foreign to ears of New York Democratic voters, helped build a slim Moynihan lead and provoked Mrs. Abzug into her self-damaging refusal (later partially retracted) of support for Moynihan if nominated. Yet, she has not unleashed Abzug broadsides on the national security issue, possibly because of the newly perceived connection by Jewish voters between defense and Israel's survival.

Instead, Mrs. Abzug has relentlessly stressed Moynihan service to Republican Presidents Nixon and Ford. At one four-candidate debate last week, Mrs. Abzug even claimed Moynihan's welfare reform plan was part of Nixon's Southern strategy. ("In the name of God," replied Moynihan, "how come the Southerners (in Congress) voted against it?")

But even Abzug supporters admit that they have not made the Nixon-Moynihan connection stick. Faced with the New York Times endorsement of Moynihan and an unmistakable rise of Ramsey Clark's support biting into Mrs. Abzug's liberal backing, last weekend's Abzug television blitz stressed what she is counting on: Mrs. Abzug being the only woman in the field—a woman who claims to have produced $6 billion in extra federal funds for New York. Her old left ideology goes unmentioned.

Moynihan's comparatively skimpy eleventh-hour television package, in contrast, stresses the adjectives "hard" and "tough" in describing him. A spot highlighting his brief, flamboyant tenure as United Nations ambassador declares: "How much we need men who are not afraid." The success of such flaunting of hawkish credentials will be watched closely by Democratic politicians as a guide to their future.

proposals sponsored by the Socialists, Social-Democrats, Liberals and Radicals.

The Communists, the second largest party, were expected to present a bill legalizing therapeutic abortions recommended by a doctor, a practice approved by a recent court ruling.

Earlier this year, the ruling Christian Democrats needed the support of the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) to defeat a proposal to allow therapeutic abortions in the first three months of pregnancy. The Socialists, who led the pro-abortion movement, withdrew their support of the government, leading to its collapse and the June general election.

The election strengthened the entire left flank in parliament and gave seats for the first time to the Radical party, which is more militantly pro-abortion than the Socialists.

Another factor expected to influence the debate this time is the situation in the northern Italian town of Seveso, where a cloud of poisonous gas from a chemical plant led to some 20 therapeutic abortions on women who feared birth defects in their unborn children.

A law adopted during Mussolini's dictatorship to ensure an increasing population for empire-building forbids abortions under any circumstances. But the constitutional court ruled this year that a woman can interrupt pregnancy if it is a threat to her health.

The nation's Roman Catholic bishops renewed their fight against abortion Tuesday with a statement.

Referring to the Seveso situation, they condemned "the disordered development of industry which does not always discipline itself responsibly and puts its search for profits above the primary requirements of human existence." But they proclaimed "with renewed firmness the inviolability of the right of the unborn to life."

United Nations officials estimate that 1.2 million illegal abortions are performed each year in Italy, which has a population of 55.6 million. Some health officials believe 2,000 to 5,000 women die each year in these clandestine operations, but only 300 to 400 persons are arrested each year in connection with abortions.

Saw 3 Collisions In City Yesterday

An estimated $6,700 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5:07 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Hooker Road involving a truck driven by Stephen Bruce Smith of Ivy, Va., and a car driven by Chester Gray Edwards of Raleigh.

Investigators, who charged Smith with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage from the collision at $400 to the Smith truck and $2,000 to the Edwards car.

John Wilson Everett of Columbia was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 4:01 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Second and Cotanche Streets.

Police identified the driver of the second car involved as Debra Lynn Meekins of 107 Alexander Cir. and estimated damage at $950 to the Everett car and $1,800 to the Meekins auto.

Martha Sutton Eubanks of Route 2, Greenville was charged with following too close as the result of a three-vehicle mishap about 4:52 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard near the Eastbrook Road intersection.

Officers identified the drivers of the two other cars involved as Martha Evelyn Williamson of Route 9, Greenville and David Anthony Neese of 1112 Cotanche St.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Eubanks car, $1,000 to the Williamson auto and $250 to the Neese car.

Farmville Mart Prices Steady Says Supervisor

FARMVILLE — Grade for grade prices were steady on the Farmville Tobacco Market compared with previous days, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"Offerings consisted of more primings and nondescript grades than any previous days in the past month. Leaf and smoking leaf accounted for most of the volume," Williams said.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only .24 per cent of the gross sales. The Farmville Market sold 694,653 pounds for $865,603 with an average of $124.61. To date the market has sold 16,833,867 pounds for $18,774,388 for an average of $111.53 per 100 pounds as compared to $96.97 per 100 pounds last year on the same sale day.

Mrs. Dole To Resume Job

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The wife of Sen. Bob Dole said Tuesday she intends to resume her job as a member of the Federal Trade Commission even if her husband is elected vice president.

"There is no legal barrier to this," Elizabeth Dole said en route from San Francisco to St. Louis for another campaign stop.

"I intend to return to the FTC following the election," she said.

Previously Mrs. Dole, who is one of the five FTC commissioners, said there was no reason for her to give up her post during the campaign. She is still on the payroll but is returning the money to the federal treasury.

Say CB Misuse Annoying, Can Be Deadly

By CHRIS FRENCH
Associated Press Writer
Good neighbors outnumber bad apples on the CB channels, but police say misuse of citizen band airwaves can be annoying — and sometimes deadly.

An Associated Press national survey of state and local police indicates that for the most part the estimated 6 million CBers in this country have been helpful. And the police say this even though CBers are fond of reporting highway patrol cars trying to catch speeders. Police say that practice results in traffic slowing down.

But there have been grim incidents:
—A woman kidnap victim was killed by her abductors after CBers interfered with a ransom drop.

—A vigilante posse of citizens band operators chased the wrong truck for 75 miles thinking it had sideswiped another vehicle.

—A Pennsylvania man shot another CB enthusiast after an argument on the air over use of a channel.

—In California, officers monitoring the CB network found that during a civil disturbance those involved were using CB radios to protect their flanks.

Florida Highway Patrol Sgt. Paul Gracey said citizens band operators are becoming an increasing influence on law enforcement operations — both good and bad.

"Like every other part of life, some people abuse CB radio," he said. Mostly, "They report traffic congestion, disabled vehicles, accidents and extent of injuries. It can save three minutes getting to the scene. It doesn't necessarily save anyone's life, but it does get help sooner, and you don't know what might have happened."

But he added, "There are some sick ones who make false accident reports."

"The big problem with CBers is overreaction," said David Arnold, a New York State trooper. "They overreact and get all excited in an emergency situation. But I don't think they are a nuisance."

Other law enforcement agencies reported that the CB operators have helped foil burglaries and car break-ins, made reports that resulted in the arrest of a man wanted for the slaying of a police officer, the capture of another sought for killing his wife, and helped gather clues in the Cowchilla, Calif., kidnaping of 26 children and their school bus driver.

One parent of a child aboard the bus said he first learned the children were safe from a citizens band operator.

But CBers can also be an annoyance. "Sometimes they feel that having a CB unit makes them nearly a policeman," said Sgt. Robert Marshall of the Little Rock, Ark., police department. "Their intentions are good, but mostly they are a nuisance, being in the way."

An example given by Marshall was the woman who thought she heard a robbery plan being discussed on CB, called police and detectives went to a motel where they found two persons, searched them and found no evidence of wrongdoing.

"We were lucky they were understanding," said Marshall. "We left red-faced."

In Ohio, Richland County Sheriff's Capt. Gene Hart said that his department has had good experiences with CB operators.

"When a Mansfield policeman was killed last February, a CB spotted the getaway car," Hart said. "We've gotten tremendous cooperation from them."

"It's an absolute asset to law enforcement," said Sheriff Bernard Grysen of Ottawa County, Mich. Grysen said the deputies monitor the CB channels, and there have been numerous cases where citizen band operators have helped in recovering stolen cars and catching traffic violators.

"It's been tremendously successful," said Lt. Roderick Moore of the Michigan State Police. "I've got to believe many of those possibly intoxicated drivers would have gotten away if it had not been for the CB reports."

In Alabama, Capt. John Henderson of the state patrol said, "They have helped us solve several crimes and capture several armed robbers."

Henderson said the only interference by CBers with law enforcement are the "Smokey reports" — "Smokey" being CB slang for a highway patrolman. But even the reports on the location of the patrol cars have helped to slow traffic in the area, he said.

Henderson said a robber escaping from a service station holdup recently was bottled up by CB-operating truckers until the highway patrol could arrive and pull the getaway car over.

But in Livingston County, Ill., Sammie J. Geham was ticketed on a charge of interfering with a police officer after being stopped for speeding. The state police said Graham got back in his car after getting the speeding citation and broadcast the location of the police cruiser.

"I have a very positive feeling toward the ability of the officer to communicate with the citizen," said Lt. Col. Alton Crystal, assistant chief of the Iowa Highway Patrol. But he said troopers have to be wary of CB reports and make their own cases.

"The day we start making arrests on the basis of CB transmissions is the day we'll be in court for false arrests."

In Idaho recently, a CB operator whose camper-truck was sideswiped by a pickup, broadcast a description. The result was a 75-mile high speed chase which ended when police intervened. The CB chasers were chagrined to find they had been pursuing the wrong truck. The pickup driver was charitable enough not to press charges, police said.

"We've had a few isolated incidents where they were playing vigilante," said Al Brockway, assistant police chief in Helena, Mont. "One involved a person allegedly using foul language on the air, and some CBers took it on themselves to find this person. A fight ensued and it turned out it was the wrong man."

As for the use of CB radios directly in criminal activity, police differ on their effectiveness.

"There are just too many people on the air for criminals to use CB radios to coordinate activities," said Lt. Don Moore of the Colorado Highway Patrol. "I would think that would be virtually impossible. There are just too many ears out there."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell again today with a strike under way at Ford Motor Co.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down about 3 points in the early going. Declines outnumbered advances by about a 9-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

A walkout of 170,000 Ford workers nationwide was called by the United Auto Workers union Tuesday evening as contract negotiations remained stalemated.

Wall Street had had several days to brace for the strike. But analysts nevertheless noted some continuing concern that it might last long enough to present a new obstacle to the economic recovery.

LTV was among the early volume leaders, down 1/2 at 13%. The company said late Tuesday it expected its third quarter earnings to show a decline from the second quarter.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 4.65 to 978.64, stretching its loss since the start of the week to 9.74 points.

Losers held a 5-3 edge on gainers in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 15.55 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .31 at 102.33.

Banquet Slated To Honor Frinks

A banquet, honoring the National Program Director of the Southern Christian Leadership conference Golden Frinks, has been scheduled for the old Elms High School gymnasium September 24.

The 7:30 p.m. event is being sponsored by the North Carolina Chapter of the SCLC, as the Rosa Parks Award Banquet.

It is being held in recognition of Frinks' being presented with the Rosa Parks Award for his many years of service to the cause of the civil rights movement and equal administration of justice, SCLC spokesmen said.

Persons wishing further information about the banquet may contact Gloria Goddard at 756-1130, extension 34.

SPECIAL PERMIT
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Prince Abdorreza Pahlevi, brother-in-law of the Shah of Iran, has been issued a special permit to shoot two Columbia black-tail deer in the Trinity National Forest for his country's national museum.

made by J.I. Morgan of the 264 Association, by Lawton Nisbet of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and by Don Bradley, a representative of Beaufort County. Farmville citizen W.A. Allen also made an off-the-cuff statement.

Morgan and Nisbet questioned the projected population data the firm provided, suggesting that perhaps the consultants had not taken into account the growth potential of the Greenville-Farmville area, and the impact of the medical complex developing in Greenville.

Bradley questioned whether 264 would not be more greatly used than is accounted for in the report once it is improved. He said many people from the Beaufort County area now use Highway 33 and Highway 222 to get to the Wilson area and beyond now, whereas they would switch over to 264 were it four-laned. Morgan also questioned the usage figures, saying that many people now take "back roads to work" but would use an improved 264 once it became available.

Pollard said all the points made are valid, "but these are political rather than engineering concerns," he said. "They're essential considerations for getting the improvements approved, "but our firm has to deal with figures that make sense in the light of statewide growth patterns." He pointed out that the capacities of the proposed 264 and 64 once they are four-laned would be such that either could easily handle two to three times the traffic flows his company has projected for the year 2000. Therefore, if population greatly exceeds the projected figures there will be no problem. If not, the thoroughfares will be good for years beyond the turn of the century.

Pollard promised that every question raised by anyone in the public hearing would be answered in detail by the consultants. All four speakers praised the work done by the firm so far.

The hearing was called by the N.C. Department of Transportation which commissioned the Pollard firm study.

Evacuate In Toxic Fire

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Authorities averted evacuation of 5,500 citizens from this northeastern North Carolina town Tuesday night when firemen brought a potentially dangerous toxic fire under control.

Authorities said a smoldering fire began on an embankment along the Meherrin River when employees of the Smith-Douglas fertilizer warehouse tried to burn debris and weeds. Asphalt, fertilizer and peanut hull wastes beneath the surface of the embankment caught fire, sending up billows of toxic smoke, authorities said.

Firemen wearing protective air packs launched two boats and tried to fight the fire from the river as it smoldered within 30 feet of the warehouse, where fertilizer and assorted chemicals were stored, authorities said.

Evacuation of the town's residents was planned in the event the fire reached the warehouse and its contents, they said.

Authorities declared the blaze under control by 9 p.m. and abandoned the standby evacuation plan. However, volunteer firemen maintained watch through the night.

No injuries were reported and the warehouse was not damaged.

Small Engines Course Offered

Pitt Technical Institute will offer a Small Engines Repair course beginning Thursday, September 16 at 7 p.m. in room 23 on the Pitt Tech campus.

The Small Engine Repair class will emphasize training that will prepare an individual to tune-up, repair and overhaul four cycle engines such as lawnmowers.

All interested persons should attend the first class meeting. For further information contact the Division of Continuing Education at 756-3130, ext. 38.

of transformers were awarded as follows: Hesco, Inc., $31,200; Westinghouse Electric Supply, $8,799; Eastern Electric Supply, $13,100; and RTE, $4,881.

A sewer rate study will be presented to the commission in mid-October at a workshop session. The study is related to an imminent change in sewer rate charges from the current decreasing rate to a flat rate expected to be required by the Environmental Protection Agency. Copies will be sent to local industries for comment.

A bid of $11,600 (plus trade-in) was awarded to R. W. Moore Equipment for a tractor backhoe with front-end loader. Half of the funds will come from the water fund and half from the Sewer fund.

A report on the 201 Wastewater Facilities Plan, pending completion in October, will be reviewed in final draft form by the GUC at a special called meeting Oct. 4. It will then be sent to the County Commissioners and the City Council for approval before it can be presented to state and EPA offices.

The GUC was informed that parts of the city water system had been flushed recently in an attempt to clear out sediments resulting from mixing plant water with well water, and that flushing might be necessary on a regular basis. They were also told that the first federal gas pipeline safety audit was made in August, receiving an overall favorable report.

Grifton Board Hears Complaint

GRIFTON — A Lenoir County resident accused the Town of Grifton of prejudicial action against him concerning furnishing sewer services to his house at the Grifton Town Board meeting Tuesday night.

James Braxton, a resident of the Lenoir County part of Grifton, told the board that he felt that it was unfair for him to pay 10 years of back taxes before he could receive sewer services from the town since some of his neighbors who are now receiving sewer service did not have to pay back taxes.

Mayor Dave Bosley said that the problem of omitting sewer services for Braxton was an engineering oversight. Mayor Bosley said that the town would furnish sewer facilities for Braxton, if he will pay his back taxes. He explained that the cost of installing the sewer service now would be approximately $15,400. No action was taken concerning the installation of the sewer service.

Police Chief Linwood Outlaw presented his police report and recommended the employment of John Robert Hoover as a new police officer. The Board hired Hoover who will begin work immediately.

The Winterville-Ayden-Grifton Day Care Center proposed to pay $1,350 for nine months of rent in advance so that the bathrooms may be installed in the part of the old school building which it has leased from the town. The board agreed to accept the rent in advance.

An amendment assessment resolution for Cottonwood Lane and Lewis Drive was adopted by the board.

Olin Smithson presented a plan for preliminary subdivision plat to be considered by the Planning Board. Smithson also requested permission for a Disabled Veterans "Forget-Me-Not" Sale to be held in Grifton September 24 and 25. The board agreed to allow the sale.

The board voted to pave Lenoir Street on the south side of the creek and Mill Branch Circle with Community Development Funds.

In other business the board: —Voted to install street lights on the corner of Church Street and Fairway Drive and to provide lighting for the bicycle path.
—Received a report on plans for the museum from Jan Haseley.

Pressure On A's As Days Dwindle Down

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

With time running out and a stalemate developing in the American League West, the pressure rests squarely with the Oakland A's, and Manager Chuck Tanner is beginning to feel it.

"We just have to win," Tanner said after splitting a pair Tuesday with Minnesota — winning the first game 4-2 and losing the nightcap 4-3. "I don't know what Kansas City is doing but we have to win."

Tanner should know what the AL West-leading Royals are doing — the same thing as his second-place A's. Starting last week, the two teams have been pacing each other, almost step-for-step.

A week ago today, Kansas lost to California, and Oakland lost to Chicago. On Thursday, both teams won; on Friday, they both lost. Both teams again won on Saturday and Sunday. On Monday, Oakland was rained out, and Kansas City split a pair with Chicago. The Royals have won four of their past eight games, including a 2-1 victory Tuesday over Chicago. Oakland has won five of eight.

The A's now trails Kansas City by 4½ games, a very small improvement on the five-game deficit they faced a week ago.

"We have six games left with them (the Royals), and that will have a lot to say about who wins," said Tanner.

Judging from the way things are going now, they'll probably split the series 3-3.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees thumped Cleveland 8-2, Baltimore beat

Detroit 9-7, California clipped Texas 6-4 and Milwaukee edged Boston 3-2 in 10 innings.

Vida Blue, 15-12, scattered eight hits, including Dan Ford's home run, and Gene Tenace smacked a two-run homer in the eighth inning for Oakland's opening-game victory. It was the first time the A's had beaten Minnesota in Bloomington this season.

Ford's ninth-inning single scored Jerry Terrell, giving the Twins a victory in the nightcap. Dave Goltz went the distance for the Twins, scattering 11 hits and evening his record at 13-13.

Oakland's Claudell Washington and Minnesota's Mike Cubbage homered.

Royals 2, White Sox 1

Andy Hassler, 5-10, tossed a five-hitter that led the Royals over the White Sox, and he called it the highlight of his season.

"I have never been in a similar situation — battling with a team for the pennant—and we just couldn't afford to come out short today," he said.

Hal McRae scored the decisive run in the fourth inning off reliever Terry Forster, 2-11. He led off with a double and raced to third on a bounce to the mound by Al Cowens. Cowens stole second, and McRae scored on catcher Jim Essian's wild throw.

Yankees 8, Indians 2

The Yankees' victory, which marked the first start by left-hander Grant Jackson since September, 1971, kept them 9½ games ahead of Baltimore and cut their magic number for a championship to 10 while mathematically ending defending AL champion Boston's bid for repeat honors.

Roy White, with four hits in five at-bats and an RBI, led the Yankees' 13-hit attack. Jackson, who pitched seven innings before yielding to Dick Tidrow, picked up his sixth victory in seven decisions, holding the Indians to one run on four hits.

Pat Dobson, 14-12, started for Cleveland and lasted only 21-3 innings, giving up six hits and the first five New York runs.

Orioles 9, Tigers 7

The Orioles scored four runs in the seventh inning, two on Detroit right fielder Rusty Staub's throwing error after he caught a bases-loaded foul fly, and came back from a 6-0 deficit to beat the Tigers.

Doug DeCinces hit a three-run homer for the Orioles and Dennis Martinez, in his major league debut, picked up the victory in relief.

Angels 6, Rangers 4

Jerry Remy's two-run single in the top of the ninth inning rallied California over the Rangers as Paul Hartzell, 7-4, scattered nine hits in going the route.

Brewers 3, Red Sox

Robin Yount's 10th-inning single scored Darrell Porter from second base to boost the Brewers past Boston. The Brewers had taken a 2-0 lead in the seventh on run-scoring singles by Von Joshua and George Scott.

Danny Frisella, 5-2, got the victory in relief while reliever Jim Willoughby, 2-12, was the loser.

OUT OF BRETT—Kansas City Royals' George Brett is tagged out by Chicago White Sox pitcher Larry Monroe during a rundown in the first inning in Chicago Tuesday afternoon. The Royals picked up half-a-game on the Oakland A's, beating Chicago 2-1, while the A's were dividing a twin-bill with Minnesota. (AP Wirephoto)

Choo-Choo Justice Never Forgot Linemen Helped Him Be Great

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

For a man who is without a doubt a "living legend," Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice doesn't have any use for the athletes who think they are the greatest.

And he's also not going to call this year's version of the North Carolina Tar Heels great-not yet at least.

"I get peeved at these athletes who think they are the greatest," he said. "Nobody is worth $1 million on any team. They're eventually learn that they're going to have to do something besides play a sport, and they better have some friends then."

Justice explained that, at least, in football, you had better be friends with the people up front if you are a highly-touted back. And he said he was friends with a lot of the linemen when he was a star in the late 40s for the Tar Heels. "We were a very close-knit team, and that's one of the reasons we were so successful."

Justice, who spoke before the Greenville Sports Club on Tuesday, told the group that when he was just a young boy his brother got a lot of high school awards. Right then, he decided that was to be the life for him.

Then, in his first high school game in Asheville, he got into the game twice. "The coach called me over and told me to go in and run back a punt. I did—for 64 yards and a touchdown. Later he sent me in for another play, and I went 25 yards for a touchdown. So naturally I thought that this was an easy game."

He recalled how he strutted around the next day, until he was collared by his brother. "He told me that I was nothing if it weren't for the people up front who block for me. He said my sister could have run those touchdowns with the blocking I got."

Justice recalled his playing days in the Navy, when he almost wasn't allowed to play because of his size. Finally, after he punted the ball 75 yards in practice one day, he got his chance and played in a game against the then champion Washington Redskins.

"Well, I scored the only touchdown, intercepted two passes, made three tackles, and punted for a 25-yard average. The coach told me he was glad I could do something beside kick, or else I would have been headed for seaduty."

Throughout his playing days, Justice had respect for all of his teammates, he said. "It's still true today. Take someone like David Thompson. Now he knew that he was a star, but he was also a gentleman. He knew that without those other four guys out there helping him, he would be nothing."

Turning to this year's Tar Heel team, Justice said that the North Carolina team had the potential to be a great one. "They have an outstanding offensive line, and a good defensive line. They are still a little weak on the pass defense, but they were very lucky Saturday (against Florida). I really don't know how good they are, so I'm not sticking my chest out yet."

Commenting on the East Carolina game with N.C. State next week, he said, "I'd hate to be the Pirates going into that game. State's going to be awfully fired up for sure."

Next week, another North Carolina personality will be the featured Sports Club speaker, as Tar Heel basketball coach Dean Smith visits Greenville.

CASEY'S MAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel had to see Billy Martin's spirit as a hustling ball player only a few games to know he had a man who would go all out to become a winner.

"I first saw Martin in 1947 when I managed Oakland and he had just turned 19, and he played for me that year. And in 1948 when we won the Pacific Coast League flag Mr. Martin played all the infield positions and I used him in 132 games," said Stengel a few years ago.

Stengel once recalled that he could have brought Martin up to the Yankees in 1949 when he became their manager. "But I had Jerry Coleman, a fine rookie at short or second at age 24; Billy Johnson (he hit .294 in '48) on third; Phil Rizzuto on short and George Stirnweiss on second or third," says Casey.

PIRELLI CINTURATO P3

THE STEEL BELTED RADIAL THAT BEAT THE MURDEROUS PAN AMERICANA FROM ALASKA TO CAPE HORN

A single set of P3's completed what is believed to be the toughest tire test in the world without a single failure. Mounted on a VW Rabbit, the P3's covered 19,000 rugged miles in all types of weather over bushland, muddy trails, and rocky roads. They even forded flooded streams in 94 tire killing days to take more of a beating than most drivers could give them in a lifetime.

If you drive an import or an American compact, stop in and let us show you why the Pirelli Cinturato P3 was able to stand up under all that punishment... and why it should be on your car... even if you don't intend to drive the Pan Americana.

Phils Win; Pirates Lose; Gap Widens

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

just a chosen few are contenders, a loss can be a disaster. Time's running out on us," said Pittsburgh's Jim Rooker after the second-place Pirates were knocked off by the New York Mets for the second day in a row.

The Mets won 4-3 with a pair of runs in the ninth inning, sending the Pirates to their fourth defeat in 19 games. The last time the Pirates lost twice in a row was Aug. 20-21.

And this was not the best time for the Pirates to turn cold, especially since the Phillies' flame seems to be rekindled. The Phillies beat Montreal 3-2 for their third straight victory after losing 13 out of 15. The last time the Phillies won three straight was Aug. 22-24.

Tony Taylor, in his 40th September, stroked an important single in the three-run fifth inning that carried Philadelphia over Montreal.

The Phillies, fading fast just three days ago, now hold a six-game edge over Pittsburgh in the race for the National League East title. The two Pennsylvania rivals open a two-game set in Philadelphia tonight.

"Our hands are full, but they've been full all year," said Rooker, who yielded Ed Kranepool's run-scoring single and Bud Harrelson's RBI grounder in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the NL, Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 9-0; San Francisco nipped San Diego 7-6; the Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis 6-3, and Houston and Atlanta split a doubleheader, each team taking a 4-3 victory.

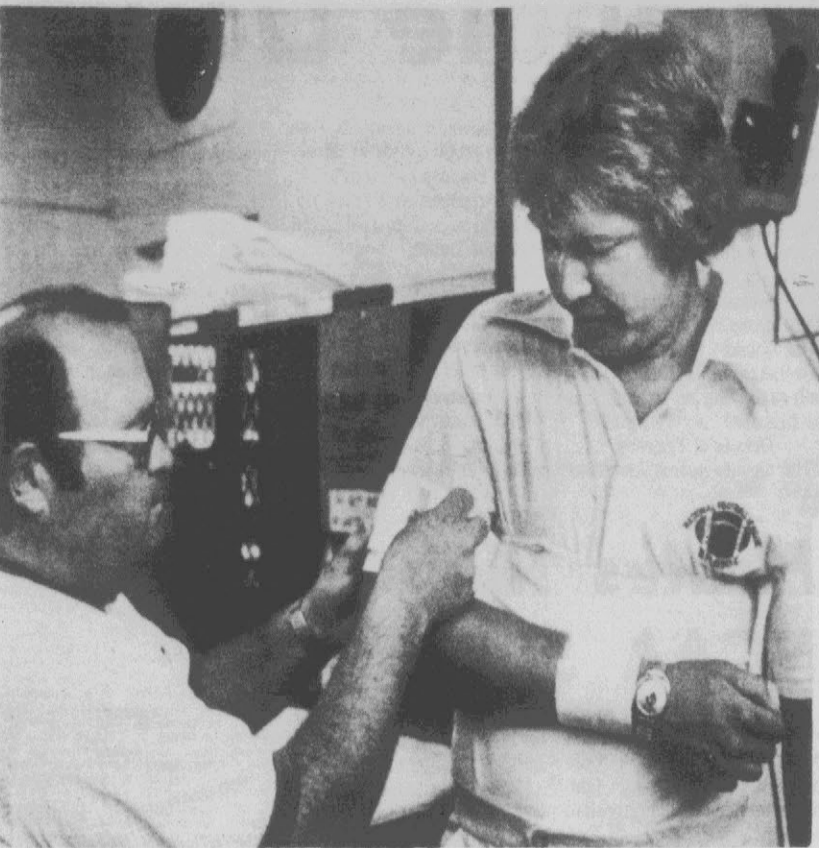

Taylor was a 28-year-old regular 12 years ago when the Phillies blew a big lead and the NL pennant. In perhaps his last time around, he's doing what he can to get into the first World Series of his 18-year major league career.

Dodgers 9, Reds 0
Tommy John's chances to win the "Comeback of the Year Award" are about as good as Cincinnati's shot at the NL West flag. John has mystified medical science by pitching this year with a reconstructed throwing arm. In a major offseason operation, a tendon from his right arm was implanted into his left elbow.

John, 9-10, extended his lifetime record over Cincinnati to 5-1, scattering 10 hits. The Dodger victory snapped a seven-game losing streak to the Reds and stalled Cincinnati's magic number for clinching the NL West title at eight.

Giants 7, Padres 6
Bobby Murcer clubbed a pair of two-run homers, and one of them rallied San Francisco over San Diego in the ninth inning. Murcer, whose first homer put the Giants ahead 5-0 in the fifth, regained the lead with his one-out shot in the ninth.

Joe Wallis contributed three hits to a 12-hit Chicago attack that carried the Cubs over St. Louis. Rick Reuschel spaced nine hits to raise his record to 13-10.

Dankworth Selected As College Back Of Week

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mail was pouring in and the phone was ringing incessantly, and Jeff Dankworth, who describes himself as "not super outgoing," wasn't sure yet whether he liked all the attention.

"But," said the UCLA quarterback, "it's nice for the people back in my home town to finally know that I'm still alive."

Dankworth had left his home in Reno, Nev., five years ago to play football at UCLA. He had hardly been heard from since, as he redshirted one year and spent the others on the Bruin bench.

But last Thursday night, Dankworth was heard from in a big way, as he deftly led the Bruins to a nationally televised 28-10 upset of Arizona State.

Dankworth ran for 155 yards on 19 carries, completed three of four passes, and scored the Bruins' first two touchdowns, a performance that earned him Associated Press College Back of the Week honors.

"I'm overwhelmed," said the shy, soft-spoken senior who dwelled in the shadow of Bruin quarterback John Sciarra for the past two years.

"Being from a small town like Reno, I think it really means more to me. I'm sure a lot of people there were wondering what had happened to me, and I guess they know now."

But Dankworth said the instant acclaim that goes along with being a "football star" has its bad points, too.

"I didn't get much rest over the weekend," he said. "The phone was ringing, there are letters I have to answer. I'm not the type of guy who'd choose the spotlight, but I guess it's something I'll just have to adjust to."

The 6-foot, 209-pound senior said his play against Arizona State was probably easier than it looked.

"Arizona State felt that they had to watch our two half-backs, thought they were a little more of a threat than me since they run 9.4 and 9.6 for the 100 and I run 10-flat. That, combined with our superlative offensive line play, made it a field day for me."

Roanoke Wins, 2-0

LITTLEFIELD —Roanoke High School, playing for the first time, handed Ayden-Grifton a 2-0 defeat in volleyball yesterday.

Roanoke took the first game, 15-13, then came back with a 16-8 win in the second contest.

Patsy Respass served seven straight points for Ayden-Grifton to put the Chargettes into a 7-1 lead, but Sheila Hopkins paced Roanoke back with another seven in a row for a 8-7 lead.

The two teams jockeyed back and forth after that until Ayden-Grifton lost service with a 13-10 lead. Sheila Knight served up five in a row for Roanoke after that to get the win.

The Squaws again for seven in a row for Hoskins in the second game for a 7-1 lead that Ayden-Grifton never overcame.

The win gave Roanoke temporary sole possession of first place in the Eastern Carolina League with a 1-0 record. Ayden-Grifton is 0-1. Matches between Greene Central and Conley; and Farmville Central and North Pitt were postponed until later in the season.

HODGES IN PAPERBACK
BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) — The name Gil Hodges still carries on in baseball. And Sid Loberfeld, the attorney-sportsman who knew the late New York Met manager from Hodges' Brooklyn Dodger rookie days, is still active on behalf of the former first baseman's residuaries. That includes "The Game of Baseball," a book written by Hodges with Frank Slocum.

Pirates Get Nod; Carolina Favored

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the rich old grad once told the poor old coach, "We're with you ... win or tie."

Here then are some thoughts on wins and ties ... courtesy of some winners and tie-ers.

Ron Meyer of Southern Methodist, a 34-14 winner over Texas Christian: "We buried TCU in the grave at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. You can only enjoy a victory a sweet 24 hours."

Tom Osborne of Nebraska, a 6-6 tie against Louisiana State: "A tie at this stage might look discouraging, but at the end of the year a tie in the first game will look much better than a loss."

So will a win in the second game. Nebraska's upcoming opponent in their home opener is none other than Indiana, losers of last week's Upset Special, as well as this week's non-upset special ... Nebraska 38-0.

Last week's score was 37 right, 25 wrong and two ties for a .597 percentage.

Southern Methodist at Alabama: Meyer told the Mustangs early in the week "not to board the plane if they don't feel we can beat Alabama." Only trouble is the last time Bear Bryant lost two regular-season games, much less two in a row, was in 1970 ... Alabama 35-7.

Ohio State at Penn State: Woody Hayes and Joe Paterno, two of the great names in football, get together for only the sixth time with Ohio State ranked second — one measly point behind Michigan — and Penn State No. 7 ... Ohio State 21-14.

Stanford at Michigan: Last year, this ended in a surprising 19-19 standoff. The Wolverines won their 1976 opener and avoided getting caught up in last week's wave of upsets but yielded 27 points to Wisconsin. Since the Cardinals have an explosive attack, let's try this on for size as the Upset Special of the Week ... Stanford 24-20.

Pitt at Georgia Tech: Hey, there, Pepper Rodgers, with your afro, shoulder bag and open-toed sandals, I know you even through your disguise ... Pitt 30-13.

California at Oklahoma: Barry Switzer says he's never faced a passer like Cal's Joe Roth in 10 years at Oklahoma. On the other hand, the Sooners probably have the best secondary in the country ... Oklahoma 28-21.

Arizona at UCLA: Having already taken apart one team from Arizona, the Bruins are about to pick on another ... UCLA 31-17.

Illinois at Missouri: You don't usually consider Illinois a breather, but how else can you describe a team which falls between Southern Cal and Ohio State on Mizzou's schedule ... Missouri 28-14.

Maryland at West Virginia: The Terps dance their way to another terpschorean triumph ... Maryland 27-7.

Oklahoma State at Arkansas: The Porkers lead the series 25-

15-1 but they've dropped the last three and they only won the 1972 clash by one point. The momentum has swung towards ... Oklahoma State 20-17.

Kentucky at Kansas: Says Kentucky's Fran Curci: "I think Bud Moore has finally put together the talent he wants for his offense and he has three super football players and a whole case of other great players. They've got a very well-conceived offense and defensively they're a lot more experienced." We're convinced ... Kansas 35-21.

Oregon State at Louisiana State: We're happy to welcome the Bayou Bengals and Charlie McClendon back to the Top Twenty. They should stay there awhile ... LSU 28-6.

Northwestern at North Carolina: Tar Heels are one of the country's surprise clubs, having knocked off two ranked teams thus far. Northwestern isn't ranked ... North Carolina 34-20.

Purdue at Notre Dame: For the championship of Indiana ... Notre Dame 21-14.

Memphis State at Tulsa: This could be one of weekend's better games ... Tulsa 38-35.

Stephen F. Austin at Northwestern Louisiana: You may be wondering why this game is listed this high. Well, folks, S.F. Austin is in Nacogdoches, Tex., and Northwestern is in Natchitoches, La. One hesitant vote for the bionic team ... Steve Austin 21-20.

Texas Tech's Howard Top Lineman Of Week

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech Coach Steve Sloan doesn't go overboard on superlatives.

It comes from his hard-rock days of playing quarterback for Alabama's Paul "Bear" Bryant.

But Sloan saw something in Texas Tech's 24-7 rout of Colorado Saturday night that rated with his all-time collegiate football thrills.

It was "the best game I ever saw a linebacker play," concluded Sloan.

The linebacker was 6-foot-2, 208-pound senior Thomas Howard, who can run faster than most backs and has professional teams like the Cleveland Browns, New England Patriots and Dallas Cowboys drooling at his doorstep.

Howard's performance against Colorado earned him The Associated Press College Lineman of the Week award.

Howard intercepted two passes, made 11 solo tackles and six assists against the Buffaloes.

"Thomas is one of those great athletes who is just as fast as most people's backs," said Sloan. "He runs a 4.6 in the 40 and that's movin'. He's physical ... and if you run away he'll just run you down."

Howard added, "We've really worked hard in the fall and now all those long drills are paying off. We paid the price and it was worth it."

Howard intercepted a screen pass to set up Tech's first touchdown and blunted a Colorado drive with a fourth-down interception deep in Red Raider territory.

Sloan compares Howard, who can bench press over 300 pounds, to All-American Paul Crane, who played with the Tech coach at Alabama.

"Paul and Thomas are similar but Howard is faster," said Sloan. "Howard ran a 13.7 in the 120-yard high hurdles — the fastest in the nation when he was at Lubbock Dunbar High School."

Howard was moved from defensive end when Sloan took over the Texas Tech job in 1975.

"He's our team leader now — one of those guys you count on for leadership by his actions," said Sloan.

Howard was picked over linebackers George Stuart of Mississippi, Blake Whitlatch of Louisiana State, Peter Cronan of Boston College and defensive tackle Wayne Sparks of Marshall.

STEINBRENNER EXPLAINS

NEW YORK (AL) — George Steinbrenner, generally called the owner of the New York Yankees, explained in a recent broadcast (WMCA) with Mel Allen that the Yankees were forced to buy pitcher Vida Blue from the Oakland A's. "We had to counter the Boston Red Sox deal for Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers made the day before the June 15th trading deadline," Steinbrenner told Allen.

"The deal with Boston was made 24 hours before we bought Blue," said the Yankee boss. He said he learned of the Boston deal from his Yankee president, Gabe Paul, the day before it was announced.

Howard's performance against Colorado earned him The Associated Press College Lineman of the Week award.

Howard intercepted two passes, made 11 solo tackles and six assists against the Buffaloes.

"Thomas is one of those great athletes who is just as fast as most people's backs," said Sloan. "He runs a 4.6 in the 40 and that's movin'. He's physical ... and if you run away he'll just run you down."

Rules

For Playing Bingo Bucks

- Get a FREE Bingo Bucks Master Card on request at the end of the checkout or at store office. Get on FREE Game Ticket every time you visit a participating Piggly Wiggly Store. No purchase necessary to participate. Adults only eligible to play.
- On each Game Ticket there are four Bingo Bucks Markers. To reveal the Markers, simply punch out the perforated portions of the Game Ticket, then separate the punched out portions and you will have four Markers. Each Marker corresponds to a square in one of the Games on your Master Game Card.
- When you have revealed the Bingo Bucks Markers, carefully place them in their appropriate squares on your Master Game Card. EXAMPLE: If one of your Game markers is a B-58 in the $1 Game, insert that marker in the square numbered B-58 in the $1 Game. When you complete any row in a game, you may have a winner. In some games, you will find squares marked FREE and it is unnecessary to collect a marker to be placed in such FREE squares. FREE squares are not transferable.
- When you have a winning card which has been verified by authorized personnel, you will, after furnishing your name and address, be awarded your prize. A Federal Trade Commission rule requires that the names and addresses of all winners be posted in all participating stores. When turning in your winning card all your Bingo Bucks Markers which are not part of the winning row may be removed and transferred to a new card. Only one prize will be awarded per game on any one Master Game Card. All Bingo Bucks Markers in a winning row must be initialed on the back by the customer in the presence of authorized personnel. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winner.
- All game materials will be rejected and judged void if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of any of the game pieces is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Game material void where taxed or prohibited by law.
- Game will end upon distribution of all Game Tickets. All prizes must be claimed within five (5) days after announcement of termination or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such times as the verified claims for prizes in any category equals the number of prizes advertised for that category, then the game as it relates to that specific prize category shall immediately terminate without notice, and any unverified claims at or after that time shall be automatically rejected.
- Game materials valid only for this game. All Game Tickets, Bingo Bucks Markers and Game Cards must have the same series number. EXAMPLE: If you have Master Game Card Series # 33, all of your game pieces must have Series # 33.

Historic Pittsburgh Neighborhood Is Being Saved

By WILLIAM P. MOORE
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Urban decay almost robbed Pittsburgh of one of its most fashionable and historic neighborhoods, the Mexican War

Streets. But a restoration project is now well on its way to reclaiming the group of simple but elegant row homes erected on the city's Northside in 1848 and named after such battles and personalities of the Mexican War as Buena Vista, Monterey, Resaca and Palo Alto. The War Streets prospered until the early 1900's when middle-income families began to migrate to the suburbs, and urban decay set in. Today, a major restoration project is paying off, and the once exclusive district has been resurrected.

Ellen Malone, assistant for community relations at the Pittsburgh History and Landmarks Foundation, said the War Streets renovation is aimed at preserving the neighborhood's character, as well as its structures.

"The terrific thing about this project is that we are not dislocating present residents," Malone said. "Most restoration projects involve someone buying up all the property, and dislocating families, most of them black."

"We are not dislocating. There is some regular neighborhood turnover, but primarily we are trying to renovate the neighborhood for the people already there."

Malone said the War Streets restoration district is one of the first containing families of both races, and varied economic backgrounds.

Unrestored homes along the narrow streets can be obtained for as little as $3,500, and most run under $15,000. It takes a bit of work to restore them to their former grandeur, but many have taken that course with pleasant results.

Resaca Place is well on its way to complete restoration. Freshly painted brick facades, flush with the sidewalk, and lush trees that form a partial canopy over the street, give the illusion of times past.

The architectural designs encompass most styles popular in the late 1800s, including Victorian, Greek Revival, Richardson Romanesque and French Second Empire.

Forgotten architectural features like Gothic turrets, arched windows, stained glass doors and pilasters are all in evidence.

The restoration began in 1966, with initial funding from the Sarah Scafe Foundation. The PH&LF bought up several of the more deteriorated homes, restored them, and sold them. The PH&LF at the same time encouraged long-time residents to fix up their own homes, and the reaction was encouraging. In 1969, the Mexican War Streets Society was formed to shift responsibility to residents.

URBAN DECAY almost robbed Pittsburgh of one of its most fashionable and historic neighborhoods. Here a worker climbs ladder to do restoration job on upper floors of a building. (UPI Photo)

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to take care of health needs. Study carefully all papers, documents and reports for accuracy. Try to improve home surroundings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be more careful in handling money matters. Don't neglect treating a health problem that may be bothering you. Show courtesy toward others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to spend some time in improving health and appearance. Get busy with projects at hand since this is not a good day for the social.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Problems at home need to be handled diplomatically. Be sure not to criticize others so much. Wait for a better day to entertain.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Show more appreciation for co-workers and do not offend them in any way. Get dull routines done early so you free time for what you like to do. Avoid one who wants to hurt you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid arguments with friends since they are apt to be in a tense mood and there could be serious disagreements. Be careful you do not overspend. Insure present security.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use direct methods if you are to settle some personal problems, but study them well first. You have put off paying a debt and should take care of it without further delay. Avoid a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget that plan you have that would take so much time and give poor returns. A day to take it easy, since there is danger in many avenues of your endeavor. Make evening a happy one at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at your own work and avoid friends who can be in an annoying mood and could give trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have special duties needing attention and should get busy with them. Pay no attention to some associate who is unreasonable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attend to chores first before you consider going out for fun. Do what you can about a health matter you have been neglecting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look into new interests that look profitable after you have finished tasks that are important to your welfare. Steer clear of one who is not your type of individual.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to use particular care in association matters otherwise there could be serious arguments. A family affair could be annoying so handle it carefully. Try not to be extravagant in any way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have to be taught early to be more careful and cautious in dealing with others. Success can come in any kind of profession that requires being precise and paying attention to minute details.

By The Associated Press
It will be Daniel Patrick Moynihan, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, against James Buckley in the race for the U.S. Senate from New York.

On a day in which such national figures as Edward Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey and William Proxmire were easily renominated for their Senate seats by the Democrats in their states, Moynihan edged Rep. Bella Abzug on Tuesday in New York's Democratic contest and Buckley won as expected on the Republican side.

Moynihan, 49, who quit last year as ambassador to the United Nations, held a narrow lead throughout the evening, doing well in working-class and lower middle-class communities in the New York city boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island.

Mrs. Abzug refused to concede defeat, saying she would wait until an official canvass, routine under state law, is completed next week.

Unofficial returns, with 99 per cent of the state's election districts counted, showed her losing to Moynihan by about 8,000 votes out of more than 900,000 cast for five Democratic candidates.

Moynihan had 324,906 votes, or 36 per cent, to 316,216, or 35 per cent, for Mrs. Abzug.

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, New York City Council president Paul O'Dwyer and businessman Abraham Hirschfeld trailed far behind.

Despite widespread predictions of voter apathy, the heated Democratic primary race attracted a 25 per cent turnout, about the norm in New York.

But the Republican primary, first statewide contest for the GOP in over 50 years, produced only about a 15 per cent turnout. Buckley, 53, won it 70 per cent to 30 per cent for Rep. Peter Peyster of Westchester County.

Voter turnout in 11 other state primaries was light, with estimates running from 17 per cent to 33 per cent.

In another race of note, Gov. Philip Noel of Rhode Island was near defeat in his race for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Democrat John O. Pastore. He trailed auto dealer Richard Lorber by 361 votes in the final, unofficial tally, but there were 3,111 absentee ballots still to be counted.

Noel has had problems nationally since publicity last spring on some derogatory remarks he made about blacks.

But his trouble in the primary is believed to have stemmed more from discontent among Rhode Island voters with the status quo.

There were also some noteworthy results in New Hampshire, where outspoken conservative Gov. Meldrim Thomson was renominated for a third term by Republicans. The most startling result was a victory by a man named John Adams, who won a GOP congressional primary for which he didn't campaign at all.

Here is a state-by-state run-down.

COLORADO: Rep. Frank Evans, a Democrat, was the only incumbent challenged. He won renomination for a sixth term.

MASSACHUSETTS: Kennedy turned back two anti-busing candidates, and Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, in line to be speaker of the House, easily won his primary contest.

MINNESOTA: Humphrey piled up a margin of 10-1 over

Richard Bullock, a political unknown who didn't campaign. Gerald Bekke, a college professor, won the GOP nomination.

NEVADA: Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon won renomination against GOP opposition.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: Harry V. Spanos, a former leader in the state senate, won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and will face Thomson in the November election.

NEW YORK: Buckley, as expected, easily defeated moderate Republican challenger Peyster to qualify for the race against Moynihan. In Democratic races, Rep. Herman Badillo fought off a challenge to renomination and Rep. Shirley Chisholm won renomination in a tight race with New York City Councilman Samuel Wright.

NORTH CAROLINA: Howard Lee, former mayor of Chapel Hill, lost the Democratic runoff for lieutenant governor to James Green, speaker of the North Carolina house. Moderate Republican David Flaherty won the GOP gubernatorial nomination over Coy C. Privette, a Baptist minister and antiquor crusader.

RHODE ISLAND: In addition to the Lorber-Noel race, two incumbent Democratic congressmen, Fernand St. Germain and Edward Beard, fought off challenges.

UTAH: Orrin Hatch, a lawyer, defeated former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Jack Carlson for the Republican Senate nomination. He will oppose Democratic Sen. Frank Moss. Business consultant Dan Marriott received the GOP bid to challenge Democratic Rep. Alan Howe. Airline pilot Joe Ferguson was the Republican choice to meet Democratic Rep. K. Gunn McKay. Atty. Gen. Vernon Romney, 52, cousin of former Michigan Gov. George Romney, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while lawyer Scott Matheson, 47, won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Gov. Calvin Rampton.

VERMONT: Gov. Thomas P. Salmon defeated Scott Skinner, former head of a public interest group, for the Democratic nomination to oppose Sen. Robert T. Stafford, who easily won the GOP Senate contest.

WISCONSIN: Proxmire overcame token write-in opposition to win a Senate nomination.

WYOMING: State Sen. Malcolm Wallop won the Republican nomination and will face Sen. Gale McGee, who was unopposed. Democratic Rep. Teno Roncalo also won renomination.

Record Day In Greenville

Another record day was posted on the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday as local warehouses combined to tabulate an average of $124.95 per hundred pounds for Tuesday's sale.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade, said that the record average, achieved on the 32nd sales day of the season, brought the season average for the market to $111.09 per hundred.

Bryan said that the market sold 957,768 pounds Tuesday for $1,196,715 in recording the best average of the year. Season poundage and sales now stand at 27,456,835 for $30,502,935, he added.

Top practical price paid was $1.28 to $1.30, according to Bryan, with quite a few pounds bought by the tobacco companies for $1.33.

Offerings consisted of leaf, smoking leaf and cutters, he noted, with a decreasing amount of lugs, primings and non descript tobacco. Quality was up considerably, he said.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only .86 per cent of total sales.

But the Republican primary, first statewide contest for the GOP in over 50 years, produced only about a 15 per cent turnout. Buckley, 53, won it 70 per cent to 30 per cent for Rep. Peter Peyster of Westchester County.

Voter turnout in 11 other state primaries was light, with estimates running from 17 per cent to 33 per cent.

In another race of note, Gov. Philip Noel of Rhode Island was near defeat in his race for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Democrat John O. Pastore. He trailed auto dealer Richard Lorber by 361 votes in the final, unofficial tally, but there were 3,111 absentee ballots still to be counted.

Noel has had problems nationally since publicity last spring on some derogatory remarks he made about blacks.

PWP Plans Hold Supper

The Greenville Area Chapter of Parents Without Partners will hold a pot luck supper at St. Paul's Episcopal Church tonight at 7:30 p.m. All members and prospective members are invited.

A Board meeting will precede the supper. It begins at 6:30 p.m. Friday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. members may bowl at Hillcrest Lanes. Saturday an adult dinner-dance will be held at the Ramada Inn. Members should meet in the lobby at 7:30 p.m.

Parents Without Partners' membership is open to all single, divorced, separated or widowed parents. All eligible persons interested in learning more about PWP and enjoying the fellowship of the group are invited to attend three functions without obligation to join.

For further information one may call 756-7763 or 758-4952.

Addition To Faculty Named

The Department of Library Science at East Carolina University has announced appointment of Dr. Veronica S. Pantelidis to the faculty.

Formerly employed by the Research Library in the Florida Department of Commerce in Tallahassee, she holds undergraduate degrees from the University of Florida and the University of Miami. At Florida State University she earned Master of Science degrees in library science and adult education, and the Ph.D. degree in instructional design and development.

At East Carolina Dr. Pantelidis will be teaching courses in technical services and library automation and will be conducting a seminar on library personnel.

ECU Librarian Prexy Of Unit

Anne Shelton Briley of the East Carolina University library services faculty is the new president of the N. C. Conference of the American Association of University Professors.

Prof. Briley, as president-elect, succeeded Perry Robinson of UNC-Chapel Hill who resigned office to become the national organization's Associate Secretary for Collective Bargaining.

An associate professor of library services at ECU, Prof. Briley has been active in AAUP for several years. She will preside at the state conference set for Greenville Oct. 15-16.

both declarers turned their attention to it.

The first South led a low heart from dummy. West won the eight and continued with the jack of diamonds, forcing out the queen. Since West had to regain the lead with a heart, he was able to cash two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

The successful declarer realized that he had to keep the danger hand, West, from twice gaining the lead. To this end, his first heart lead from dummy was the nine. West won the jack and again forced out the queen of diamonds, but now there was an important difference in the position.

Declarer led his remaining heart and, when West followed with the eight, the ten was played from dummy. East won the queen, but the heart suit could now be brought in without surrendering a second trick to West.

Declarer was not yet out of the woods—he had only eight tricks when the hearts broke, and still needed the club finesse. Fortunately the king was with East, and the contract rolled home for a well-deserved game swing.

Notice that it would not have helped East to rise with the queen of hearts on the first round of the suit because he could not continue the attack on diamonds.

When this hand was played in a team championship, the two declarers had the same idea about the play of the hand. Slightly better technique by one South resulted in a rich harvest for his team.

The bidding was identical at the two tables. Both Norths showed their good hand by reversing into spades at their second turn. Both pressed on to game when South rebid no trump to show that he had stoppers in the unbid suits and some values.

At both tables West led his fourth-best diamond, which was ducked in dummy and won by East's king. East returned the suit to dummy's ace. Obviously, the heart suit would have to be established for the tricks needed to make game, so

They Import Jumbo Crabs

BALTIMORE (AP) — It may seem like carrying coals to Newcastle, but crabhouses here are importing six tons of the crustaceans every day from Gulf Coast cities.

"We're just not selling Maryland crabs any more," said Ben Groff, owner of the Crackpot, a restaurant specializing in steamed crabs. "People today want a big crab, one that provides a lot of meat and is tasty."

Bud Paolino, who runs Bud's Restaurant, says he buys 20 to 30 boxes of Southern crabs a day. His eatery sells about 1,000 bushels of steamed crabs each week during the summer.

Paolino said he charged $12 to $14 a dozen for Louisiana jumbo crabs "and people can hardly taste the difference after seasoning and cooking. They like the fact that instead of picking through a dozen or two, you can eat maybe six of the Southern crabs and be full. It's less work."

In Ocean City, Md., the House of Crabs also uses imports in the spring when local crabs are in short supply and on summer weekends when demand is greatest, according to its owner, Ed Altvater.

"We've had some Southern crabs that weigh a pound each," he said. Talmadge Simmons, head of Delta Airlines' freight office at Baltimore-Washington International Airport, said between 150 and 230 boxes of Gulf Coast jumbo crabs arrived at the terminal each day from New Orleans and Houston.

A box usually contains about six dozen crabs. They sell at the terminal for $40 a box, Simmons said.

"They are caught the day before and cooled until they are packed for shipping," he said. "And they're here the next day."

While the "Southern connection" may be supplying restaurants here with bigger, more plentiful crabs, seafood specialists said they don't see the practice as a threat to Maryland's crab industry.

Dallas Had An Earlier Tragedy

DALLAS (UPI) — Even before President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963, tragedy involving a U.S. president occurred in Dallas.

When William Taft visited the city in 1909, a spectator tried to break through a police line to get a better look at the president and was bayoneted to death by the militia.

Elderly Find Good News In New Tax Legislation

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new tax bill could mean a savings of hundreds of dollars a year for elderly Americans with modest incomes and provide an extra break for persons over 65 who sell their home.

Other sections of the bill contain some good news and some bad news for those concerned about capital gains. Perhaps the biggest change in capital gains is a lengthening of the time period required for an asset to be owned.

The new credit for the elderly would replace an existing tax benefit that is so complicated, according to some estimates, that half of the eligible retirees do not claim it.

Congress is expected to take final action on the bill this week and it is expected to become law later this month.

Here is how the changes for the elderly, along with the tax treatment of capital gains, would work:

ELDERLY CREDIT

The pending tax bill would provide a maximum $375 tax credit for single persons and $563 for couples 65 or older — and it would be much easier to get than under the present credit for the elderly.

Credits are subtracted directly from taxes owed. Under the best of conditions, the existing credit is worth a $229 annual tax saving to a single person and $343 to a couple filing a joint return.

If the tax bill becomes law, the new elderly credit will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976. This means it would be used in computing 1976 taxes next April.

Under the new system:

—A single person 65 or older could subtract from taxes 15 per cent of any income — including that from part-time jobs as well as pensions, etc. — up to $2,500 a year in income. For couples filing a joint return, the maximum income subject to the tax credit is $3,750.

—The base figures — $2,500 and $3,750 — would be reduced $1 for each $1 of Social Security benefits received by either spouse.

—If penalty total income — earnings as well as pensions, etc. — rose above $7,500 for a single person and $10,000 for a couple, then the amount of income eligible for the tax credit would be reduced $1 for each $2 income above the limit.

For example, if a couple had income totaling $12,000 a year, the maximum tax credit would be 15 per cent of $2,750, rather than 15 per cent of the usual $3,750.

This would focus maximum benefits of the tax on low-income and middle-income retirees.

Perhaps more significantly, the tax credit would be simple to compute. Here is how:

First check a box showing your marital status. If you are single, or married and only one spouse is 65 or over, the base figure to start with is $2,500; for a 65-year-old or older couple filing jointly, the figure is $3,750; for a married person 65 or older filing separately, the figure is $1,875.

That figure goes on line 1 on the new form. Lines 2, 3 and 4 are for adding Social Security benefits and total income above the limit and subtracting them from Line 1. The difference goes on Line 5. The tax credit is 15 per cent of Line 5.

The old retirement-income credit was written into law to try to help those persons who are not covered by Social Security. Although Social Security benefits have been raised several times in recent years, the benefits under the retirement credit basically have not changed since 1962.

Current law allows persons 65 or over to avoid taxation on a portion of their retirement income — such as pensions, rents, interest and dividends.

But the catches are numerous:

—If you have no pension or other retirement income, you get no benefit. A wealthy retired executive with a generous pension qualifies for the tax break, but not the person who has to work past 65 to make ends meet.

—In fact, that working person, even if he has a small pension, is penalized. The amount of his pension that could qualify for the tax break is reduced if he earns more than $100 a month.

—Even if you have a pension, you don't qualify for the tax benefit unless you earned at least $600 a year over the past 10 years before retiring. (If you are a widow or widower, you qualify if your spouse meets this test.)

—If you qualify for the tax benefit, the amount of retirement income subject to the special treatment is cut $1 for each $1 of Social Security or other tax-exempt pension you receive.

If, after all those qualifications are met, there is any benefit left, the retiree might lose it by muddling through the extremely complex, lengthy, three-column schedule required to compute the credit.

SALE OF HOME

Present law requires that a person pay tax on the net profit when he sells an asset — such as a share of stock or an acre of land — for more than he paid for it.

This profit is called a capital gain. Generally, if the asset was held for more than six months before being sold, one-half the gain is not taxed.

There are special provisions governing the sale of a home. If you sell your principal home and within 18 months invest the net selling price in a new home, you pay no capital gains tax.

If you are 65 or older, you get an even better deal. You have been allowed a tax-free profit of $20,000, even if no new home is purchased.

The new bill raises that to $35,000. For example, if you bought a house in 1965 for $25,000 and sell it in 1977 for $75,000, you could avoid tax on $35,000 of the $50,000 profit.

As under the present law, half the additional $15,000 gain also would be tax-free. The other half would be taxed at the same rate applied to the taxpayer's other income.

This provision would become effect next Jan. 1, meaning it will not apply to sales this year, but will apply next year.

CAPITAL GAINS

A majority of Congress favors special tax treatment for capital gains, in addition to those involved in the sale of a home, as an incentive for investment. Some liberals view this $15-billion-a-year incentive as overly generous.

The tax bill takes one major step to liberalize that incentive but another restricts it.

First, the period for which an asset must be held before it qualifies for capital-gains treatment would be increased from six months to nine months in 1977 and to 12 months in 1978 and thereafter.

Second, investors would be able to use net capital losses — meaning sale of property at less than its cost — to cut the taxes on more of their regular income, such as wages or fees.

Currently, net capital losses can be used to offset $1,000 of ordinary income each year. Thus, if a person paid $10,000 for a piece of land and sold it later for $8,000, he could use part of that loss to avoid taxes on $1,000 of his wages.

The bill would raise the maximum income that could be offset to $2,000 in 1977 and $3,000 in 1978.

Assassination Bill On Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is expected to vote on whether there should be a new investigation into the slayings of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy.

A resolution authorizing the probe has not drawn much interest from the House Rules Committee, which must approve it for action on the floor by the full House. But the measure now has support from among the Democratic leadership.

The Rules Committee, which had pigeonholed an earlier, more limited measure, put the resolution on its agenda today. However, controversial legislation was ahead of it and it was uncertain when the committee would act.

Speaker Carl Albert gave the resolution his blessing Tuesday, saying there are lingering doubts about the killings and "it is reaching the point where there is so much interest that Congress will probably have to do something about it."

The resolution would set up a special House investigating committee, limited to the life of the present Congress, which goes out of office in January. But if preliminary inquiries showed cause for a full investigation, the investigative committee would presumably be re-created in the new Congress.

The House leadership had been cool to an earlier proposal for a special committee to reinvestigate President Kennedy's death. But it yielded to requests from the Congressional Black Caucus for establishment of a committee empowered to also go into the King case.

Idea Results From Rain Dripping Off A Tin Roof

DISTRICT HEIGHTS, Md. (UPI) — Harry Thomason is a crusading solar pioneer, father of perhaps the first economical system to heat houses with sunlight.

Thomason — wiry, intense and graying a bit at the age of 55 — lives in a four-bedroom rambler in this Washington suburb that looks like it has a greenhouse on top.

That "greenhouse" is a bank of solar heat collectors 16 feet high and 60 feet long on the tall, sloping south roof. It provides from 75 to 90 per cent of the house's heat, keeping it a comfortable 68 degrees Fahrenheit even in freezing weather. Supplemental heat comes from an oil furnace, but even at today's high prices Thomason's winter fuel bill stays under $100.

The house and its solar heating system are Thomason's own design. Since that house was completed he has built three others in the Washington area, each better than the last.

The newest needs only an oil-fired water heater to supplement the solar panels.

There are almost 200 other Thomason-designed homes scattered across the nation from Bend, Ore., to Colorado Springs, Col., to Woonsocket, R.I.

Some were built by individuals who bought the plans for as little as $25 through the Edmund Scientific Corp. Others were put up by developers who passed Thomason's rigid screening to win their licenses.

Royalties from the licenses, from the plans, from solar seminars and from books he has written bring Thomason an income of about $25,000 a year. But it was an uphill battle to get where he is today.

Bureaucrats and industrialists scoffed at Thomason's inventions. Even today he is a controversial figure within the solar community, especially among advocates of more complex systems.

"At first the government disbelieved what Thomason was trying to tell us," William Hirsch of the Energy Research and Development Administration told UPI. "But as time goes on, it's beginning to look like he really has something."

Thomason's switch from Patent Office employee to solar pioneer began in 1956 during a summer thunderstorm at his wife's home in North Carolina.

Dashing into a barn to escape the cold rain, he felt warm water dribbling from the rusty sheet metal roof onto his head. The idea was born like "a flash of genius," he said. Run water down a sun-baked surface, catch it in a container and use its warmth to heat a house.

At the time Thomason, who held a physics degree from Catawba College in North Carolina, was supporting his wife and five children with his regular work and was going to law school at night. A rule barring Patent Office employees from applying for their own patents caused Thomason to switch to a job at the Pentagon.

Working weekends and nights, he progressed from dream to reality. In October, 1959, he and his family moved in.

That first heating system and, with refinements, those that followed were the essence of simplicity:

— Solar panels of black-painted, corrugated aluminum backed by insulation and covered by a single sheet of glass or plastic.

— A system to pump water to the roof, let it course through channels in the solar panels where it becomes 10 to 20 degrees warmer, and collect it in a 1,600-gallon tank in the basement.

— Twenty-five tons of fist-size stones packed around the tank to hold in the warmth.

— A fan to blow air across the stones and into the house.

— A revolutionary way to eliminate costly metal air ducts by blowing warm air up through the walls and out at ceiling level, then collecting cool air from between the floor joists.

Today Thomason reverses the solar heating process in summer to provide solar-powered air conditioning. He holds some 20 solar energy patents — more, he says, than any other inventor.

Thomason's was not the first solar heated house. But Thomason's designs are more efficient, getting a minimum 50 per cent solar heat in the coldest climate. At $4 per square foot of solar panel they also cost far less than competing models with double glass covers, copper or steel heat collectors and complex ducts that cost from $7 to $20 per square foot.

"It appeared just absolutely impossible to get the cost down equal to conventional furnaces at $3,500 to $5,000," Thomason said. "But about a year ago we made a breakthrough in economics and did it."

Thomason estimates a four-bedroom house in an area with cold winters where half the days are cloudy can get 75 per cent of its heating and cooling from the sun for $3,500 with eight or 10 64-square-foot solar panels and a two-ton air conditioner.

HARRY THOMASON is a crusading solar pioneer, father of perhaps the first economical system to heat houses with sunlight. Here he displays a model of a four-bedroom rambler in which he lives, that looks like it has a greenhouse on top. (UPI Photo)

Brazil's Colleges Just Can't Take All Hopefuls

By MARY LENZ
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Getting aspiring students into universities in Brazil is like getting a camel through the eye of a needle — too much bulk and too little space.

Brazil, with a population of 110 million, has about 1 million university students, with places for 350,000 freshmen. The United States, by comparison, has 6.4 million university students out of a 212 million population, with more than 800,000 freshmen enrolled.

"Ideally you should have a system of education where everyone can go to school," explained a 23-year-old female history student. "Since we don't have this yet, we have the vestibular."

The vestibular is the Brazilian version of a college entrance examination. In the United States, college entrance exam scores, plus recommendations, personal interviews and a student's secondary school record are used by colleges to determine who will be accepted.

In Brazil, getting into both the college of your choice and the field of study of your choice depends purely and simply on the vestibular.

"The vestibular demonstrates two basic forms of incompetence," said a professor from one of Rio's most prestigious private colleges. "That of the government which cannot provide enough places for people to study and that of first and secondary levels of education which don't give students necessary background to pass the test."

Students interviewed generally agreed that "anybody who is intelligent" and has been to a private high school can pass the vestibular but that the test is as much of an evaluation of knowledge as a toss of the dice.

"It's aimed at eliminating as many students as possible," said Jose Antonio Chaves, 23, an economics student. "There are some people who simply mark answers at random."

The test is multiple choice and is not corrected against haphazard guessing. It is, apparently, students who attended public schools who find the test a problem. The history student commented that "if you've gone to good schools you pass, but if you went to poor schools you may not."

Sergio Costa Ribeiro, academic staff coordinator for the vestibular foundation, said, "What is tragic is not so much bad teaching we detect from test results — but no teaching at all." He said test scores show students "are receiving high school degrees without having heard of certain basic facts."

Students from both public and private schools often enroll in "cursinhos" — private classes specifically aimed at getting students through the vestibular.

Friedrich Niedner, a student at a Catholic university in Rio de Janeiro, passed the vestibular in physics. He said that since his secondary school background was good he might have been able to pass anyway, but he took a "cursinho" for a year to prepare for the test, paying $30 (U.S.) a month for it.

Critics say that since the test is multiple choice, students no longer feel the need to learn how to write Portuguese correctly. They also say students don't learn anything else they know won't be asked on the vestibular.

Ribeiro explained that, in the past, far more students were able to pass exams given individually by colleges than were able to find places in school. This touched off protest demonstrations, sit-ins and confrontations with the police in which some students were killed, Ribeiro said.

The standardized vestibular was adopted by ten schools in 1972, with 40 of 67 state, federal and private universities using it today. There is no specific score a student must make to pass. Instead, a percentage of those who make the highest scores win places at universities.

"But the scores on the tests are lower every year," Ribeiro said. "It's the result of poor high school teaching."

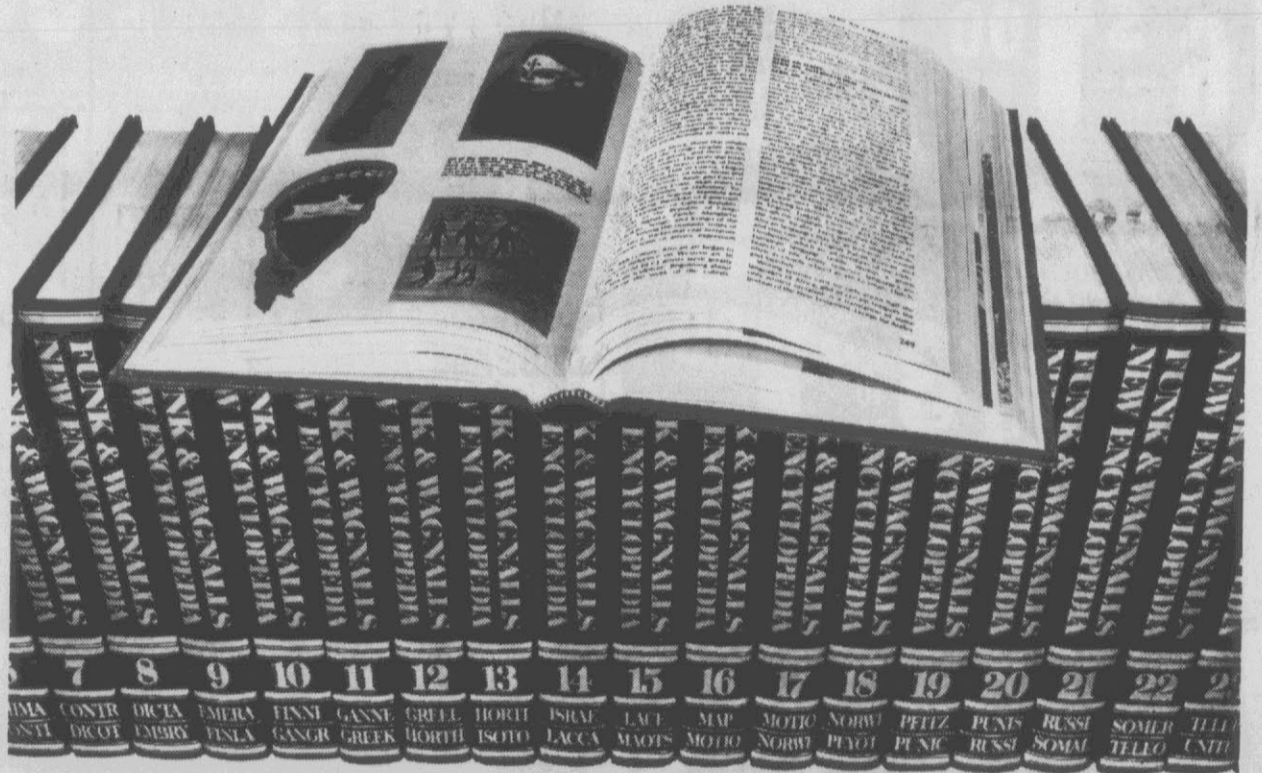

Another professor summed up with the glum statement that "the government is interested in statistics and the number of students enrolled, but not how the educational system works once past the numbers."

Transit System A Major Factor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Due to its centrality as the U.S. crossroads in terms of location and population, Missouri's transportation system is a significant factor in beckoning new and expanding industry.

It claims the nation's busiest port on the inland waterways (St. Louis handles 18-20 million tons of cargo annually); two international airports (St. Louis and Kansas City); 3,200 common carrier truck lines and the second and third busiest rail centers (St. Louis and Kansas City) in the U.S.

Introducing the Centennial Edition of Funk & Wagnall's New Encyclopedia.

The best way to get information is to go to the source. And that's exactly what Funk & Wagnall's has been doing since 1876, when they began publishing reference books.

Their sources for this new Centennial Edition include hundreds and hundreds of prominent people. Each a recognized authority in his, or her, field of knowledge. Many with Nobel and Pulitzer prizes to their credit. And while they're too numerous to list here, you'll find they're all listed in Volume 1.

The result is a comprehensive, accurate home reference center with over 193,000 indexed subjects. (That's as many subjects as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more contain.)

And each article is written in clear, simple English that gets to the heart of the subject without going over your head.

Try Volume 1 for 49¢. It'll sell you the rest of the set.

To introduce you to Funk & Wagnall's New Encyclopedia, we sell Volume 1 at the remarkable introductory price of only 49¢.

So instead of going through a salesman's sales pitch, you just go through Volume 1 and let it convince you to buy the rest of the set a volume or two a week.

That way, you find out if it's the right encyclopedia for your family before you pay for the whole set. And you save two ways.

First, because Funk & Wagnall's sells their encyclopedias through supermarkets instead of through salesmen there's no commission to pay. Second, because supermarkets can sell in great volume, Funk & Wagnall's can afford to charge you less per volume.

Volumes 2 through 27, $2.49 each.

So stop by the Funk & Wagnall's display in any of our supermarkets and pick up Volume 1. It's one of the smartest purchases you can make these days.

Buy Vols. 2 & 3 and get a free dictionary in the bargain.

You get Funk & Wagnall's 2-volume Standard Desk Dictionary free when you purchase Vols. 2 and 3 of the Encyclopedia.

Seed Money For Markets

By DAVID LAWSKY
SEATTLE (UPI) — There was no doubting the poignancy of the yellowing newspaper photograph.

The clipping, taped to a wall, showed an old, poorly dressed man waiting patiently in line for free food at a food bank.

Near it was a poster. "Hunger doesn't go away when you take a picture of it," it said.

Deborah Bowler looked at one and then the other.

"People can relate to a picture of a hungry man, but not to the changes that have to be made so that there's no more hunger," she said. "In this culture, if you don't have money, you don't have food."

Ms. Bowler is one of the three persons who operate the Hunger Action Center. The idea for the center grew out of the food banks, which gave away food to anyone who asked. Now the food banks are mostly gone and those which remain have curtailed hours, because donations and grant money are down.

The center, operating on a $350,000 grant from the federal Community Services Agency, is looking for other ways to get good food to those who cannot afford it.

It has started projects to help people learn to grow their own food, rejuvenated a system of farmers' markets and started consumer and producer cooperatives. And it has told people about their rights to help from federal food programs.

The center staffers try to figure out who needs food and what should be done about it.

"People always want hard numbers," Ms. Bowler said. "And nobody can quite agree how many people have food problems. We use a rule of thumb based on a study which shows that one-half of the families below the federal poverty line are hit by hunger and malnutrition." By that measure, 168,000 persons in Washington State have food problems.

One way to get food is to grow your own. The grange in Elk, north of Spokane, received a small grant from the center to give 25 food bank recipients chickens and pigs — and to teach the art of raising animals. Half of the butchered crop went to the families. The other half was sold to finance the next year's program.

In Ellensburg, poor people were taught how to raise rabbits. They started a growers cooperative. Several are now in business for themselves.

The center has also looked for ways to hold the line on rising food prices.

Farmer's markets were a cheap way to buy food. But they lost out to supermarkets after World War II. Even the landmark Pike Place Market in Seattle — the last remaining farmers' market in the state — attracted fewer and fewer farmers each season.

The center has turned that around. All that was needed was seed money to pay organizers because, as J.B. McCrummen, the center director, put it, "A farmers' market basically needs only three ingredients. Those are farmers, consumers and a place for them to get together on a regular basis."

Now there are new farmers' markets in Spokane, Ellensburg, Colville, Olympia, Kent and Tacoma. And McCrummen said the idea has been tried out in other states including Texas, Illinois and Vermont.

On Feb. 26, 1870, the first subway, the Beach Pneumatic Underground Railway, was opened in New York City.

BY JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jesseca James, daughter of Conway Twitty, is a girl in a hurry.

She's only 17 — too young to sign a recording contract without the signature of a parent. But she's under contract and her first single, "Johnny One Time," has just been released. She's currently on an eight-week national tour promoting the record, even though she doesn't have a credit card.

While most girls her age are entering college or getting their first full-time job, Miss James is striving for stardom.

She's a talkative, outspoken, 4-foot-11 pixie who is the reigning world's "Ideal Miss." She giggles, dream of having 10 children and is called "Jesse the Kid" by her producer.

Her real name is Kathy Twitty, but she doesn't want to use her famous name as a crutch to success. Her professional name was chosen by her father with the help of a baby book.

"People have a tendency to compare, and I don't want to be compared with my dad," said Miss James, who just recently quit her job as a counter clerk at a bowling alley. "I believe in individuality. I want to be able to say I did it myself."

Of course, her father helps guide her career. "Dad is critical — most critical — of me. But when he says something is good, I believe him. He's had the experience to know what he's talking about. He's a good teacher by knowing what to do. But I want him to be a daddy to me, not a boss or a producer."

She's frank almost to a fault. About hard rock: "A lot of it gets way too deep for me; it's loud and I can't understand the words."

About hard country: "I turn off some kinds of country music when I hear it on the radio. I don't identify with songs about drunks in bars."

She describes "Johnny One Time" as a kind of middle of the road country song. It was recorded previously by Brenda Lee.

"It's about a guy who takes a girl's pride away from her," she said. "It's happened to me."

She admits she feels some pressure but vows to be realistic about her career. "I sometimes feel people expect too much. Some guys I have dated don't know how to handle it because I have a famous father. Actually, I was raised to enjoy the simple things."

"If things don't go right, I'll go to college and maybe be a lawyer. I hope I'm smart enough to know when to get out. I AM stubborn."

Her father helps guide her career. "Dad is critical — most critical — of me. But when he says something is good, I believe him. He's had the experience to know what he's talking about. He's a good teacher by knowing what to do. But I want him to be a daddy to me, not a boss or a producer."

His Career: News Vendor

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Herman Bullock began selling papers for the Shreveport Times when he was eight-years-old and liked it so much he made it his profession. Since that early beginning, Bullock, now 62, has worked for more than 100 newspapers the last 20 for the Atlanta newspapers.

Bullock, nicknamed "Turo" when he worked in San Antonio, recalls that once he tramped down the street hollering "Murder! Murder!" A woman ran from her house to buy a paper, and queried "Who got murdered?" Turo answered, "I'll get murdered if I don't sell any papers." He says the name of the game has always been to sell fast. "If you didn't sell them you had to take salt and pepper and eat them."

The last "extra" he remembers is the day President Kennedy was assassinated and people were willing to pay as much as 50 cents to read all about it.

Herman Bullock doesn't complain about his lot in life and says, "I could have had a blue collar job years ago, but you got to do what you want to."

And Bullock does what he wants—selling papers.

Long Emphasis On Education

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Missouri's quality of life is reflected in its long and continued emphasis on education.

St. Louis University received the first university charter west of the Mississippi in 1832. Seven years later the first state university west of the Mississippi was founded at Columbia.

Can Cover Up Lawn Problems

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — A turfgrass specialist says homeowners who use too much nitrogen fertilizer on their lawns may be covering up some serious lawn problems.

"Grass invaded by weeds, weakened by insect or disease attacks, or showing the effects of thatch accumulation may be boosted temporarily by nitrogen fertilizer," Dr. Richard Duple, a specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

"However, unless the primary problem is diagnosed and solved, the addition of nitrogen will only add to the problem."

Here's How They Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 2 through Sept. 8.

House
LAWMEN'S RIGHTS Rejected, 148 for and 213 against, an amendment requiring state and local governments to adopt within two years a "bill of rights" for law enforcement officers, as a condition of receiving — federal crime-fighting funds. The amendment was proposed to HR 13636, a bill authorizing $900 million in fiscal 1977 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds. The bill was passed and sent to conference with the Senate.

Rights to participate in politics, have legal counsel when subject to investigation, and receive adequate notice before facing any disciplinary action are among those guaranteed by the "bill of rights" proposed by the amendment.

Rep. Benjamin Gilman (R-N.Y.), a supporter, said that violence and disregard for law have "assumed epidemic proportions," making it "essential in these troublesome times to provide our policemen with an additional cloak of protection — namely, a restatement of the basic rights of police."

Rep. Charles Wiggins (R-Calif.), an opponent, said that "under the rubric of a bill of rights . . . we are talking about employe benefits which police officers would like to obtain." And he objected to "deciding a matter of normal labor bargaining by statute."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1) and W.G. Hefner (D-8) voted "yea." Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), James Martin (R-9) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5) and James Broyhill (R-10) did not vote.
CLEAN AIR Rejected, 156 for and 199 against, an amendment to weaken proposed new "clean air" standards for factories and other stationary pollution sources. The amendment was proposed to HR 10498, a package of amendments to the Clean Air Act of 1970. Final passage of the bill was pending.

Supporters of the amendment objected to the bill's requirements that "significant deterioration" of clean air must be prevented, even if that deterioration would not pull air quality in a region below minimum standards.

The amendment would have deleted these provisions and established a national commission for a year's study of the impact of this "non-degradation" policy.

Opponents of the amendment agree with the bill's tough new standards. The bill is generally supported by environmentalists and opposed by businesses such as electrical utilities.

Rep. David Satterfield (D-Va.), a supporter, said that without the amendment the bill embodies a policy of "locking industry into those areas where there is the greatest amount of pollution," and will cause "limited growth which must ultimately lead in time to a situation of no growth whatsoever."

Rep. Richardson Preyer (D-N.C.), an opponent, agreed that the "non-degradation" provisions help "seal off the escape hatch by discouraging industries from moving to areas of clean air." But he said this will stimulate anti-pollution technology "that is going to be the long-run answer."

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Neal, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea." Preyer and Rose voted "nay." Henderson did not vote.

Senate
PAY RAISE Rejected, 25 for and 46 against, an amendment to give congressmen as well as federal judges and top bureaucrats a cost-of-living pay raise effective Oct. 1. The amendment was proposed to HR 14238, a legislative branch appropriations bill later passed and sent to conference with the House.

The Senate had earlier agreed to allow the pay raise to take effect automatically for the federal judges and top executive branch employes, while retaining in the bill a Sept. 30 freeze on congressional pay at its present $44,600 level. A hike of at least $2,000 in congressional pay would have taken effect Oct. 1.

Sen. William Scott (R-Va.), a supporter, said that federal pay should remain competitive with the salaries in private industry, and he asked, "If we are going to accept the comparability concept . . . why should it not apply to U.S. senators and members of the House of Representatives?" He added that many senators opposing the pay hike for congressmen "are millionaires."

Some opponents felt congressmen are already adequately paid, and others objected to the procedure of tying congressional salaries to those of other federal employes. Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) said that inflation "hurts almost all people who pay congressional salaries with their tax dollars," but approval of the cost-of-living raise would mean that "inflation will not hurt congressmen and senators."

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea."

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

ELEVATOR OPERATORS Adopted, 51 for and 30 against, an amendment to reduce from 125 to 62 the number of elevator operators assigned to automatic elevators in the Capitol and congressional office buildings. The amendment was attached to HR 14238, a legislative appropriations bill (see above vote).

Supporters said the amendment will save more than $500,000 per year in salaries. Sen. Richard Schweiker (R-Pa.) noted the recent manual-to-automatic conversions of many elevators, pointing out that when congressmen "see people reading books instead of operating elevators . . . we ought to have enough courage to clean the situation up ourselves."

Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.), an opponent, said that "if there is one thing that elevator operators have done, it is to provide humanity to the Senate office buildings in telling people where, how, when and what have you." Constituents visiting the Capitol complex, Hollings added, "are ordinarily lost."

Helms voted "yea." Morgan voted "nay." OFFICE SPACE Rejected, 28 for and 53 against, an amendment to authorize purchase of an additional building for senators and their staffs, at a cost of about $35 million. The amendment was proposed to HR 14238, a legislative appropriations bill (see above vote).

The building, on North Capitol Street adjacent to the Capitol grounds, has 500,000 square feet of office space and 948 parking spaces.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.), a supporter, said that hundreds of highly-paid Senate staffers work in "cramped quarters," and that "I simply do not believe that the people of this country would begrudge us the purchase of this building."

Opponents said that proper planning had not been done for Senate expansion and that the building was overpriced. Sen. John Culver (D-Iowa) said the building, if purchased, would be a "white elephant."

Morgan voted "yea." Helms voted "nay."

ANTITRUST Passed, 69 for and 18 against, a bill (HR 8532) giving federal and state authorities new antitrust tools in areas of corporate mergers and business price-fixing. The bill was sent to the House.

The bill gives the Justice Department greater powers to obtain information from businesses in antitrust investigations, and requires large corporations to give notice of merger plans. State attorneys general would be empowered to bring triple-damage suits against price-fixers on behalf of their citizens.

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), a supporter, said the bill will help consumers and businessmen who are "trying to comply with a free and open economy and not be submerged by anticompetitive actions."

Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.), an opponent, said it is unproven that the bill "will confer a significant benefit on anyone other than the antitrust bar." He said it did illustrate the need for a "Truth in Legislative Labeling Act."

Morgan voted "yea." Helms voted "nay."

Vodka Gains American Sales

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the continuing growth in sales of vodka, which is the largest selling liquor type, nationwide, bourbon was still the leader last year in 19 states and blends in 11 other states.

Vodka led in 12 states last year, having added Maryland and Georgia to its list, and Canadian whisky became the leader in six states, picking up Minnesota, Montana and Alaska.

FOOD WAITS IN WEEDS — Dale Miller, director of Food in Ghetto Homes and Tenements, looks over the "poor people's garden" at the old Summit County Home grounds near Akron, Ohio. Ten acres were planted, a third of which was strangled by weeds; but despite the weeds, tomatoes, zucchini, eggplant, watermelon, peppers, lettuce, corn and soybeans are thriving. The food will be distributed to general relief recipients and anyone who needs it. (AP Wirephoto)

More Sturgeon Means Caviar For The West

BY HOWARD A. TYNER
MOSCOW (UPI) — Good news for caviar lovers: the sturgeon is alive and well again in the Caspian Sea.

That means gourmets with fat wallets and a taste for the salty "black pearls" should enjoy an uninterrupted supply for quite a few years. Caviar is the roe, or eggs, extracted from female sturgeon.

The fish's fate is of some importance since more than 80 per cent of world caviar production — now about 350 tons annually — comes from the Soviet Union and specifically from the landlocked salt waters of the Caspian. (Iran is the other major producer and exporter of caviar.)

Until recently, a combination of overfishing, falling water levels, pollution and the construction of hydroelectric dams on tributary rivers had threatened to turn the huge, ugly sturgeon into an extinct species.

So sharp was the decline in its fortunes that the Caspian catch fell from 40,000 tons per year around the turn of the century to 21,500 tons in 1936 and 15,000 tons by 1956. Officials say the total hit bottom not long ago at 1,000 tons.

But now all that is past. Ivan Nikonov, head of the Caspian Sea's Sturgeon Fishculture Office, told Tass news agency recently that the 1975 harvest had climbed back to 25,500 tons and "we are planning to increase the catch even more this year."

Planners aim confidently at an annual take of 50,000 tons before long, he said. New regulations on the method of taking the sturgeon was one reason for the turnaround. Sea-fishing was banned and limited fishing zones declared on rivers. Another step was the installation of nearly 1,000 purification stations to eliminate industrial effluent that was contaminating the seabed where sturgeon feed.

Experts also have been experimenting with the use of controlled underground nuclear explosions far to the north in Siberia to divert more water into the Caspian.

The sea's level has dropped 18 feet in the past 150 years because of a gradually sinking bottom and the use of its waters for irrigation, with the result that the water in many river mouths, where the sturgeon go to spawn, has become too shallow for them to enter.

Special lifts or elevators which carried the sturgeon around the power stations were built, but to little effect. So experts instead chose to construct a dozen giant fish hatcheries. They substituted artificial sturgeon reproduction for natural breeding.

According to Nikonov, these "fish factories" dump as many as 100 million small fry into the Caspian every year. As a result the sea's sturgeon population stands at about 200 million — roughly the same as it was in the 1930s.

The object of all this attention is hardly a pleasure to the eye. Reaching a length of 13 feet and weighing up to 1,000 pounds, the Caspian sturgeon is covered with heavy guard scales and has a mouth set well back beneath its long snout. It takes 20 years for the largest type of sturgeon, the beluga, to mature, although smaller varieties are capable of breeding — and thus providing caviar — in seven years.

Experimentation also is under way to cross the various breeds to come up with a fast maturing fish that can produce as much roe as the 200 pounds taken from an adult beluga female. The best caviar, actually is not the "black pearl," but the gray or light gray variety. The black is of a lower grade. In any form, however, the delicacy remains in short supply, especially in the Soviet Union. Authorities here prefer to export the majority of their caviar supplies to the West, where it fetches high prices and earns valuable western currency. Perhaps in order to satisfy the demands of the home market, researchers have set about producing an artificial product. Early this year trade ministry officials confirmed that the manmade caviar was ready for sale, but little has been seen on the market. Soviet scientists claim it is almost impossible to tell the difference between the real thing and artificial caviar, but one researcher admitted the manmade type had "the consistency of potato paste and tasted awful."

Paid $1.200 To Buy A Pigeon Communal Life Tested In Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Communal living was first tested in Texas in 1854 when a French socialist established a colony called La Reunion only four miles from the present Dallas County Courthouse.

Although the land was owned collectively, every colonist had an assigned portion of land to maintain. When the crops were harvested and sold, the profits were distributed equally among the family heads.

STOW, Ohio (AP) — With two other men, Richard Murphy bought a pigeon for $1,200 recently.

The pigeon, named "Big Red," is the second best racing pigeon in America, the grandson of Belgian champion Motta, which reportedly won $90,000 in European racing events.

Murphy, a businessman and member of a pigeon racing club, plans to use the bird for breeding. The $1,200 was the highest price paid for a pigeon at an auction of 35 pigeons to raise money for nursing scholarships.
