

Ford Expected Accept, Sign New Tax Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to sign the tax bill that continues some existing income tax cuts and makes major revisions in the nation's tax laws. Congress approved the bill Thursday.

and Means Committee, suggested more is possible in simplifying the tax law.

"It is my hope that we can move in a quantum leap toward simplification in the next Congress. But this bill does simplify the tax returns for the average taxpayer in a very meaningful way," Ullman said, such as condensing tax tables for the basic tax form 1040.

Ullman also pointed to changes involving the standard deductions. Millions of persons "who now go through the tortuous process" of dealing with their deductions, Ullman said, would be put "into the standard deduction category where they will get a better tax break — so this is major simplification here."

The bill would make permanent the present temporary boosts in minimum and maximum standard deductions, used by those who do not itemize on their tax returns.

Multibillion-dollar general income tax cuts enacted last year to fight the recession would be continued through 1977, worth $180 to a typical family of four making $15,000 a year. Across-the-board business income tax cuts also would be extended.

Some wealthier persons would find a mixture of tax increases and decreases, including hikes of $1 billion a year under the so-called minimum tax on the rich, for example, but cuts of roughly that amount through a sweeping overhaul of gift and estate taxes.

For the first time, many housewives could qualify for tax-deferred pension plans. And a family's tax bills would be cut by as much as $800 a year for parents who must hire a babysitter so they can hold their jobs. A simpler, more generous tax-cutting credit would go to the elderly. Investors would discover their tax shelters are disappearing.

In all, during the five-year federal budget period beginning next month, tax cut extensions for individuals and businesses will cost the Treasury a total of $54.6 billion, another $4.2 billion will be lost through estate and gift tax changes, while other tax revisions are gaining $9.9 billion for the government.

By making so many changes across such wide stretches of the tax fields, this bill is considered by veteran congressional tax experts to be the most sweeping revision in roughly two decades.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others in Congress were looking forward to more tax changes next year.

"It is a step forward, but only a small one," Kennedy said. "There is plenty left for the next Congress and (Democratic presidential nominee) Jimmy Carter to do on tax reform, and I hope that we shall be starting on the task as early as possible next year."

Arsonists Hit Johannesburg During Strife

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Arsonists struck in downtown Johannesburg for the second day and unrest continued in Cape Town today in advance of a two-day visit by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Heavily armed police here and in Cape Town patrolled black and mixed-race townships. Kissinger was due to arrive at Waterkloof air base outside Pretoria in midafternoon.

Arson attempts and stone-throwing incidents were also reported in Soweto, the huge black township outside Johannesburg, and sporadic violence continued in colored and black districts around Cape Town, where at least eight persons have been killed and 41 injured in a day and a night of disturbances.

In the Athlone colored township near Cape Town, a crowd halted a food truck, looted it and set it on fire. Attempts were also made to set shops and cars alight in the Manenberg and Athlone areas.

Bus service to Soweto, resumed earlier today for the first time this week, was interrupted again and buses were running only as far as the township's outskirts. Police erected road blocks on all roads leading to Soweto and whites have been banned from entering the township.

In downtown Johannesburg, two fires were started in the offices of the Star newspaper among reels of newsprint and in the staff canteen. The fires were quickly put out and little damage was done.

"This could be a protest from the left or a protest from the right," said editor Harvey Tyson. "At this stage we don't know."

A department store was firebombed in Johannesburg on Thursday. During the night attempts were made to start fires in two buildings at the University of the Witwatersrand, police said.

"We believe this type of attack may be the first of many planned to coincide with Kissinger's visit," a police spokesman said. "We are worried but we will take all necessary precautions."

Kissinger has scheduled talks with Prime Minister John Vorster on the future of Rhodesia and the South African-controlled territory of South-West Africa.

Public hearings were the order of business Thursday night as the City Council met for the second time this month to consider several requests for rezoning and annexation.

The only item that resulted in much discussion involved a request by Joseph E. Thomas for rezoning, from Medical Arts to Shopping Center, of approximately five acres located on the corner of Stantonsburg Road and Memorial Drive.

Council members, with Mrs. Mildred McGrath voting against, concurred with the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission and approved the request.

Mrs. McGrath, in stating her opposition to the matter, said that she felt the Council should take a hard look at the situation before cutting off some of the Medical Arts zoning that was approved in the Medical District Development Plan some 18 months ago.

"My contention is that we shouldn't be looking at his (Thomas) plan," she added, noting that the city's overall comprehensive plan should be considered.

Mrs. McGrath said that if this request is approved, then the next request for changing Medical Arts zoning would have to be treated the same way.

Mayor Percy Cox said that he feels he has the privilege to use his own wisdom in rather than feeling obligated to approve all requests if one is approved.

The property owner explained that original plans for the tract called for 20 to 22 access points on Stantonsburg Road and Memorial Drive but after discussing the matter with the Department of Transportation, it was decided that the only way the property could be utilized with reduced access points would be to build a self-contained shopping complex.

He said that in order to develop the self-contained concept, with four access points as opposed to 22, an additional 200 feet of Shopping Center zoned depth would be needed.

Cox said that the Council had to "look at what we are accomplishing by giving up the extra 200 feet." He contended the Council can not look at the matter from the standpoint of what is planned for development but whether or not to allow 200 more feet of Shopping Center zoning.

The mayor said he feels the additional depth and consequent reduction in access points makes the plan safer.

Councilman John Howard said that as the law is now written, the owner, in order to fully develop his property, would have to provide individual driveways for each parcel. By adding the 200 feet in depth, he added, an internal network for maneuvering could be utilized with reduced access points on the highway.

In other matters involving rezoning, the Council approved all but one section of a request by Phil Carroll for rezoning of some 47.1 acres on the west side of NC 11 and US 13, north of the Belvoir Highway. One section was deleted from the approved package due to an error in advertising and that section will be readvertised and considered at the Oct. 7 meeting.

Youth Killed By Shark

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A Tennessee teenager who police thought had drowned actually was killed by a shark, authorities say. His brother, who was swimming with him, is missing.

The body of Mike Harold Karras Jr., 16, of Knoxville, Tenn., washed ashore a few miles south of here Wednesday, and a medical examiner said Thursday there was no doubt that he had been killed by a shark.

"The bite in the left shoulder and another in the right leg were 10 inches in diameter," said Dr. Peter Lipkovic. "The teeth marks were like a shark's. No other fish is like that."

Mike and his brother, Ricky, 15, disappeared Sunday from the rough Atlantic Ocean surf off the Northeast Florida coast here. They had been staying at a nearby motel with their parents.

Police Chief Paul Brown said there had been no reports of sharks Sunday, and he added, "We were surprised when we learned he had been killed by sharks."

Brown said that nobody on the beach reported seeing the boys, and no lifeguards were on duty at the time because it was off-season for this resort area.

Council members gave their approval to the rezoning of Tracts I, II, and IV of the Carroll request, involving: Tract I, 2.5 acres from Unoffensive Industry to Highway Commercial; Tract II, 6.3 acres from R-9 (residential) to Highway Commercial; and Tract IV, 21.5 acres from R-9 (residential) to R-6 (residential).

Tract III, it was discovered, was advertised for rezoning from Unoffensive Industry to R-9 (residential) rather than to R-6 as it should have stated. Tract III contains 12.5 acres.

Approval, following a public hearing, was also given to a request by Taft, Blount, and Rivers, agents for D. G. Nichols, for rezoning of approximately 98 acres on the southwest side of State Road 1417, 1800 feet west of NC 11, and 126 acres located to the northwest of Greenfield Terrace. The petitioners sought rezoning from Unoffensive Industry and RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to R-6, R-9, Highway Commercial, and R-6 Mobile Home.

Individual tracts approved for rezoning included: Tract

I, 24 acres from RA-20 to R-9; Tract II, 47 acres, from Unoffensive Industry to R-9; Tract III, 42 acres from Unoffensive Industry to R-6; Tract IV, 12 acres from Unoffensive Industry to R-6; Tract V, 13 acres from Unoffensive Industry to Highway Commercial; and Tract VI, 88 acres from Unoffensive Industry to R-6 Mobile Home.

Councilman Clarence Gray said that the developers involving both the Carroll and Taft requests met with residents of the neighborhoods involved to explain what is planned. He said that the residents are in agreement with the proposals.

Approval was given, following a public hearing, of a request by Louis W. Reel and Ollie Harrington for rezoning, from Neighborhood Commercial to Shopping Center, of property located at the northwest corner of US 264 Bypass and 14th Street.

A request by Jeannette Cox Agency for rezoning from R-6 to Downtown Commercial Fringe of approximately 5,610 square feet located at the southwest corner of 14th and Broad Streets was also

Confirm Totals

Thursday's canvass by the Pitt Board of Elections of returns from the runoff primary on Tuesday confirmed the totals published by The Daily Reflector.

Margaret Register, the Board's executive secretary, said that the official canvass of Pitt's second primary totals revealed no discrepancies from those figures tabulated by the Reflector.

The canvass, as required by law, was held in the District Court room at the Courthouse.

DIRECTORIES TO DONATE?

In checking about the availability of phone directories from past years, Hotline learned that Sheppard Memorial Library has these as well as Greenville City Directories, but there are some missing years for each.

Librarian Miss Elizabeth Copeland said the Library would appreciate the donation of city directories for the years prior to 1916, for the years 1918 to 1925, for 1940-41, and for 1973-74 the last of which was stolen only recently.

Phone directories for the years prior to 1961 would also be appreciated. Inquiries may be made at 752-4177.

SCV MEMBERS SOUGHT

J. Roger Alvis, commander of the N. C. Division of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, has asked for an appeal for persons interested in forming an SCV Camp in this area.

"All male descendants of those who honorably served in the armed forces or civil government, direct or collateral, and are at least 16 years old are eligible for membership," Alvis said. "Research assistance will be provided applicants if needed."

A charter can be obtained with a minimum of 10 members, he said. The SCV is not affiliated with, nor linked to any organization," Alvis said. "It is not political, denominational or sectional."

Interested persons should contact J. Roger Alvis, 18 Jasper Road, Midway Park, N.C. 28544.

World Trade Surge Forecast At Ass'n Meet

Signs are that the United States "is moving into a new era" and "will probably emerge within the next decade as the foremost trading nation of the world," the Coastal Plains World Trade Assn. was told Thursday.

The speaker at the first workshop meeting of the newly organized CPWTA, J. A. Rigney of North Carolina State University, Raleigh, predicted that for U.S. business this means "we will produce for specific overseas markets, and that as a people we must become as international minded as the British or the Dutch were 40 years ago."

"We must have business men and government agents who know the customs, language, traditions, culture of other countries, Rigney said. Rigney, dean of International Programs at NCSU, said, "our universities must gear up to provide this education both in academic courses and in continuing education."

This, he said, "is a tall order given the present neoisolationist posture of our general public."

In North Carolina, Rigney said, "we have outstanding institutional support for the identification and development of market potential." He called for additional support by universities to stimulate more trade through assistance in a large number of practical matters. He cited technology, technical assistance, study of political climates, attitudes toward foreign investment and the like.

"You businessmen have the right to expect your universities to provide you with this type of analytic understanding of the countries around the world. They have not developed this capability very well as yet, primarily because there has been little need or demand for it." I would urge you to knock on their doors and insist on this kind of help from them.

North Carolina business "has depended heavily on its state-supported institutions — both in government and educational institutions for service and support in its domestic activities," Rigney said. "It can and should expect equal or better service in its international activities."

"Your educational and government leaders need to hear from you in this respect . . . the legislature must be made aware of the fact that the next decade will see North Carolina move strongly in the international scene and they must support the programs appropriate to that development," he said.

The CPWTA is the fifth regional chapter of the World Trade Assn. chartered in North Carolina and this state is the only state in which WTA chapters are coordinated statewide. CPWTA was given organizational impetus by East Carolina University and ECU chancellor Leo W. Jenkins, Jenkins' assistant, Gol. C. R. Blake, is a director of the CPWTA.

Award Grant To Grifton Center

GRIFTON—The North Carolina Bicentennial and the American Revolution Bicentennial Administrations have awarded the Town of Grifton at $5,000 grant for equipment and supplies for a museum-arts-cultural center, according to Mayor Dave Bosley.

The grant will be used to purchase display cases, card catalogs, movie projectors, a copying machine and other equipment appropriate for educational use of the proposed museum of Grifton history. The museum will be housed in a portion of the old school building on Creek Shore Road. The museum will also be used as a public meeting room.

Two rooms at the complex are already being renovated for a health clinic and two others for arts classrooms.

Collectors of Indian artifacts have pledged donations of some of their items to a permanent educational display. Donations of other historical items from other periods of history will be welcome for the museum, according to Mrs. Janet Haseley who is in charge of the museum project.

Dr. John Ellington, administrator of the N.C. Museum of History has been working with the Grifton Museum leaders and will meet with the museum planners today in Grifton.

More About Tax Reform Impact

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new tax bill that Congress approved Thursday makes major changes in the federal gift and estate taxes and in general would reduce those levels. On the other hand, the bill also whacks away at some of the current tax shelters used by wealthy individuals to cut their taxes.

Here is how the new provisions would work:

GIFT AND ESTATE TAXES

Present law taxes separately the gifts made during a person's lifetime and what he leaves behind when he dies. The first $60,000 of an estate is exempt from taxes. Another $30,000 is tax-free if given away during the owner's lifetime. In addition, half an estate is exempt from taxes if it is given to the spouse.

The value of the $60,000 exemption has been badly eroded by inflation. And small farmers have especially complained. While land values have soared, income from small farms has failed to keep pace. Thus, many family farms and family owned businesses are being sold each year so survivors can afford to pay inheritance taxes.

The pending bill would replace the basic $60,000 and $30,000 estate and gift exemptions with a gradually increasing credit that would be subtracted directly from tax owed.

The bill also exempts property willed to the spouse up to $250,000 or half the estate, whichever is higher. Combining all the benefits, the first $525,000 of an estate willed to a spouse would be tax-free.

Presently, only the wealthiest 7 per cent of estates or about 127,000 estates a year, are taxable. The bill would cut that figure to 3 per cent, or 50,000 a year.

For the estates of persons who die in 1977, the credit against taxes under the pending bill would be $30,000, the equivalent of a $120,677 exemption (compared with the current $90,000 combined exemption for estate and gift taxes). In 1981 and thereafter, the credit would be $47,000, equal to a $175,625 exemption.

Under the new provisions, the lowest tax rate — for the smallest estates — would be 30 per cent of the value. The top rate would be 70 per cent. Taxes owed would be computed by multiplying the value of the estate by the tax rate and subtracting the tax credit.

Another provision in the bill is of special importance to family owned farms. Current law requires that the value of land be figured on the basis of its highest use, which in the case of farm land generally means how much the property would be worth if developed commercially.

Under the bill, if certain conditions were met, farm land would be valued as farm land, which generally would mean lower taxes.

Most of the changes in estate and gift taxes would mean lower taxes. The most controversial part would raise taxes on heirs who sell inherited property.

Existing law generally requires a person to pay a tax when he sells an asset, such as stock or land, for more than he paid for it. The difference in the buying and selling price is a capital gain. In most circumstances, half the gain is tax-free; the other half is taxed at the person's usual income tax rate.

Assuming a person bought a piece of land for $10,000 and sold it 10 years later for $50,000, half the $40,000 would be taxed, according to the capital gains rule.

If the owner, instead of selling the land when it was worth $50,000, willed it to a relative, the donor would avoid any tax.

If the heir later sold the land for $60,000, he would be taxed under present law only on half the $10,000 increase since he acquired it. The increase in value between the original $10,000 purchase price and the $50,000 at the time the land was given away would escape tax.

This would change under the pending bill, which would tax the increase in value from the tie of any original purchase after Dec. 31, 1976, to the final sale.

Other major changes in the estate tax would allow payment of taxes over a 10-year period under certain conditions, but would make it more difficult for wealthy families to avoid taxes by willing property to one generation (a child, for example), and the income from that property to a succeeding generation (a grandchild).

MINIMUM TAX

The minimum tax is imposed on certain individuals and corporations in addition to a regular income tax paid. The purpose is to ensure that a high-income person pays some tax no matter how many deductions he takes.

The minimum tax has not been all that successful, as evidenced by the fact that 224 persons earning $200,000 a year or more paid no income tax at all in 1974.

The minimum tax is really a tax on nine large deductions, known as preferences, chief of which is the tax-free half of capital gains.

Under present law, a taxpayer adds up his preferences, subtracts a $30,000 exemption and whatever regular income tax he paid, and pays a tax of 10 per cent of the remainder.

The bill would raise that tax rate to 15 per cent and allow an exemption of either $10,000 or one-half regular taxes paid, whichever is higher.

The net effect of the changes would be to raise the tax rate on those 40,000 persons already subject to the minimum tax, extend the tax to 230,000 individuals and bring the government about $1.3 billion a year in new revenue.

MAXIMUM TAX

This sets a 50-per-cent ceiling on the amount of tax a wealthy person pays on his earned income, such as salary and fees. The top tax rate of 70 per cent still applies to "unearned income," such as interest and dividends.

Under present law, the amount of earned income to which the tax ceiling applies is reduced by tax preferences (the biggest one is the untaxed half of capital gains) above $30,000.

The bill would help the wealthy by extending the 50-per-cent tax ceiling to pensions. But they would be hit harder by elimination of the $30,000 exemption. Thus, the income protected by the maximum tax would be reduced dollar-for-dollar by total preferences.

By 1981, these changes would cost the wealthy an extra $43 million a year.

TAX SHELTERS

Persons earning more than $50,000 a year often use tax shelters to cut their taxes. Shelters are investments aimed at providing quick deductions that a taxpayer can use to reduce taxes on his regular income, such as doctors' fees or executive salaries.

In a typical shelter, four doctors might form a partnership for the purpose of investing in construction of a commercial building worth $500,000. Each of the four would put up $25,000 cash; the remaining $400,000 would be covered by a "nonrecourse loan" taken out by the partnership.

Although none of the four would be personally liable for repaying the loan, each doctor would be deemed to have a $125,000 interest in the $500,000 project. Thus, each could deduct "losses" of up to that amount.

In a real estate tax shelter these losses generally are fast depreciation of the building and a deduction for interest paid on construction money and for taxes paid during the construction period.

It would be possible for each of the doctors to wipe out a big chunk of taxes on his regular income by using the artificial losses from the investment to reduce his regular income.

The bill would not wipe out tax shelters altogether. But it generally would limit deductible losses on an investment to the amount each person actually risked.

Thus, each of the doctors in the above example could shelter no more than $25,000 of his regular income by deducting losses from the investment.

The bill also would limit the deduction that could be taken for interest paid to finance an investment. That limit equals investment income plus $10,000.

Solicitation Request Okayed

Carryover Tobacco Can Be Stored Until 1977

Flue-cured growers throughout the flue-cured tobacco area can deliver their carryover tobacco on hand at the end of the marketing season to Flue-cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation for processing and storage until the 1977 marketing season, according to Stacy J. Evans, manager of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The USDA Tobacco Loan Program was amended in 1973 to provide loans on flue-cured tobacco carried over by growers from one marketing year to another to avoid marketing in excess of the applicable farm quota. This will help alleviate many of the problems encountered with carry-over tobacco stored on the farm such as insect damage and deterioration in quality.

The program will operate basically in the same manner as in previous years. Growers will deliver carry-over tobacco to the CO-OP at designated receiving points in the area, at which time the tobacco will be weighed and graded into a Standard USDA Grade by an Inspector of the Grading Service. Sheets will also be exchanged at this time.

A record will be prepared showing full identification of the grower, weight of each sheet, the USDA grade and total weight of delivery. A copy of this record will be given to the grower and a copy forwarded to the state ASCS Office.

The tobacco will then be processed and stored in the same manner as regular tobacco, with the exception that all carry-over tobacco will be kept separate and market as "Carry-Over" tobacco.

Since carry-over tobacco is not eligible for sale or loan until the next marketing season which begins on July 1 each year, no payment or settlement can be made to growers until after July 1, 1977. At that time the tobacco will be offered for sale. Any tobacco that does not bring an acceptable price will be placed in the regular loan inventory at 1977 loan rates. Proceeds from the sales and/or loans advanced, minus expenses incurred during the carry-over period, will be distributed to growers after July 1, 1977.

Plans for location of receiving points where growers may deliver their carry-over tobacco will be determined and growers will be notified as to scheduling deliveries at such designated receiving points at the close of the marketing season in each belt.

'Bivalent' Flu Vaccine For High Risk People

ATLANTA (AP) — Children from 3 to 18 years old and high flu risk adults should be immunized against flu with bivalent vaccine, which protects against both swine flu and A-Victoria flu, the national Center for Disease Control says.

Children should receive the vaccine in split-virus form in two doses four weeks apart, the adults in whole virus form in one dose, the CDC said.

"The split-virus vaccine is processed the same as a whole virus vaccine but is treated to break it up in little pieces which reduces its potential for reaction," a CDC spokesman said.

"Therefore, it is important that parents of children at high risk be informed of the inadequacy of a single dose and be urged to see that their children receive a second dose," a CDC report said.

The general adult public should receive monovalent A vaccine which protects only against swine flu.

Adults and children considered to have high risk of serious illness if infected with influenza include those with an inability to form antibodies; chronic bronchopulmonary disease such as asthma or cystic fibrosis; heart disease; chronic renal disease; diabetes and other chronic metabolic diseases, the CDC said.

Other high risk groups include children with chronic neuromuscular disorders and malignancies and persons over 65 years old.

Studies of recommendations for children younger than three years of age are incomplete, the CDC said.

The center has said that children and adults who are highly sensitive to egg protein should not be given the vaccine except under close supervision of a physician.

"The virus for the vaccine is grown in embryonated eggs," a spokesman explained.

The center also has recommended that influenza vaccine not be administered with other vaccines and that persons with fever wait until it subsides before receiving the vaccine.

Pregnant women should be considered healthy adults and should receive the vaccine unless another illness is present, the center added.

"Women who are pregnant should be considered as having essentially the same balance of benefits and risks regarding influenza vaccination and influenza as the general population," the CDC said.

Another vaccine, monovalent B, will be available through regular commercial channels for persons in the high risk group for whom annual influenza vaccination is regularly recommended, the CDC said.

Monovalent B vaccine is designed to prevent the Hong Kong strain of influenza, the CDC said.

Makes Gift Of Writer's Work

GLENVIEW, Ill. (AP) — A long-time friend and consultant of Erle Stanley Gardner is donating his collection of the mystery writer's books to Northwestern University.

Paul E. Klopsteg, professor emeritus of applied science, said Thursday that "whenever science entered one of Gardner's plots, he asked me to review the story to assure that it was properly presented."

For example, Klopsteg said, he rewrote two pages "to straighten out" the plot of "The Case of the Fugitive Nurse."

Among the 138 books are 12 written under the pen name A.A. Fair. Klopsteg said Gardner "adopted the pseudonym to see whether his books were selling because of his reputation or because they were good." Gardner dropped the pseudonym after the Fair books sold well.

Fall Fashion Show Held At Country Club

Tree leaves changing colors and football games are reminders that autumn has arrived. The annual fall fashion show and luncheon, sponsored by the ladies of the Greenville Golf and Country Club, was held yesterday.

The fashion show was opened with a model wearing a floor length plaid skirt highlighted by a white blouse and black blazer. Other ensembles included golf attire, dress suits, gaucho pants with a bolero jacket as well as an evening gaucho fashion, pants suits, jump suits, formal gowns, coats, sportswear, tennis dresses and a sweater dress.

Models for the event were

Eloise Howard, Barbara Wilkerson, Pat Judge, Kathy Hume, Sue Creech, Ruth Green, Nancy Williams, Sandy Vincent, Deobrah C. Jones, Nell Webb, Holly Ludwick, Joyce McNeil and Jo Allison Smith.

Fashions were shown from Brody's, H.L. Hodges, Greenville Country Club Golf Shop, Snooty Fox, College Shop, C. Heber Forbes, Blount Harvey, Country Vogue, Dak's and Susan's.

Pat Koontz and Gloria Tipton served as co-chairladies for the show and were assisted by the following: Tickets, Helen Taddiken; Special Projects, Joan Shappley, Myrtle Leslie, Helen Taddiken, Anice Tripp, Mary Warren Mann; Decorations: Jane Blount, stage; Pat Burnette and Anne Brewer, tables; Jo Smith and Alice Moore, models; Beverly Reid, favors; Diane Land and Ann Herrin, appetizers.

The fashion show narrator was Nancy Middleton and Camille Hite provided a program of background music at the piano.

Officers of the Ladies of the Greenville Golf and Country Club for 1976 are: Mary Warren Mann, president; Genia Lanier, vice president; and Joan Warren, secretary-treasurer.

Oceanside Rally Held Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Speight of Farmville entertained Saturday at their Emerald Island home. James B. Hunt Jr., Democratic candidate for governor, was the honored guest.

Among the 2,700 registered guests were 200 state senators and representatives from across North Carolina and several visitors from Tokyo, Japan. Others present were Sen. Robert Morgan and Congressman Walter B. Jones, and representing the Council of State in addition to Lt. Gov. Hunt were Attorney General Rufus Edmiston, Auditor Henry Bridges, Secretary of Agriculture Jim Graham, Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips and Democratic nominee for state treasurer, Harland C. Boyles.

Seafood, barbecue and chicken, Brunswick stew and slaw were served from tables placed on the lawn of the Speight home during the afternoon. Two bands played alternately during the afternoon and there was music for street dancing Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Speight entertained guests arriving early for the rally. Dinner was served under an oceanside tent for approximately 75 guests.

Garden Club Holds Luncheon

The Grass Roots Garden Club held its September meeting Wednesday at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evans.

Following the luncheon, a business meeting was held and programs for the year were discussed. Plans were made for the annual husband and wife Christmas dinner party.

Mrs. Carl Crawford and Mrs. Robert Barlow were welcomed as new members.

A workshop making calico flower pots was held during the afternoon, and members exchanged plants. Mrs. John D. Langley was the instructor for the workshop.

Mrs. Thurston Wyne was presented a hanging basket for her outstanding work as club president last year. Mrs. Langley received a dried flower arrangement for her work as program chairman.

Mrs. Amos Evans, club president, conducted the meeting and was also hostess.

Chapter Board Meeting Held

Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, honorary sorority for women educators, held its first executive board meeting of the new year in the media center at Agnes Fullilove School Tuesday.

President Betty Speight announced committee chairpersons for the biennium. Programs and hostesses for 1976 and 1977 were discussed.

It was announced that the President's Council Meeting will be held in Gastonia Oct. 8-9. International Alpha Delta Kappa Week is Oct. 10-16 and a District V workshop of N. C. Alpha Delta Kappa will be at the Moose Lodge Nov. 13.

Members were reminded of the North Carolina theme "Remember Our Heritage, Renewing Our Commitment."

Girlfriend Feels Unwanted In Her Steady's Home

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17 and have been going steady with a guy I'll call David for two years. He's 17, too. I'm really in love with him, and his folks know we plan to be married in a couple of years.

The problem is his mother. When I'm at his house, she treats me like an outsider. If I happen to be there during mealtime, she never asks me to join them. She makes me feel unwanted. David's father and grandparents seem to like me, but his mother doesn't.

I've never said anything to David about my hurt feelings because he and his mother are very close, and I don't want to start trouble between them.

I'd like for his mother to make me feel like one of the family, Abby, but I don't know how to go about it. Can you give me your views on this matter, or some good advice?

OUTSIDER

DEAR OUTSIDER: David's mother is communicating to you in non-verbal language that she is not pleased with your relationship with her son. Perhaps she feels you are both too young to be thinking of marriage—even "in a couple of years." You say, "If I happen to be there at mealtime she never asks me to join them." You shouldn't be there at mealtime unless you were invited. My advice is to avoid going where you are made to feel "unwanted."

DEAR ABBY: Here is a suggestion for parents to help safeguard their daughters during their courting days. First, make a rule that your daughter cannot go out with a young man unless he comes to the house so you can meet him first.

When he shows up, the mother should entertain him while the father goes outside and takes down his license number and a good description of his car. Color, model, etc. During the evening, if the daughter has any trouble with him, she could say, "My father took down your license number and will call the police if I am not home at the time they specified." This is foolproof protection for any girl.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: And what happens if a creep with evil intentions shows up in a taxi?

DEAR ABBY: We would like to have your advice on this problem. Our friends and two lawyers say that we are wrong in trying to control the disposition of our estate after we are deceased.

We want to put our money (approximately $100,000) into a trust fund or something similar for each other so that we can't get the principal, only the interest. Thus, we would be protected in our old age if we should become incapable of managing our affairs. When we both die, our two children will be able to get the interest, but not the principal—which they don't need because they have a good income now.

When we die, they will get the interest from it for the rest of their lifetime. Then, when they pass on, the principal will either be divided up among their children (our grandchildren) or left there for the interest, whichever way our children decide is best.

Do you think that we are wrong in wanting to do this? Or, what would your advice be? Thank you.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: It's your money, not your lawyers' or friends'—so I advise you to plan for the disposition of your estate in a manner that will please YOU.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

TOPTON, Pa. (UPI) — About 4.5 million Americans are expected to contract this year to have their kitchens remodeled at a total cost of more than $10 billion, says Arthur Oxenberg, president of a building and home modernization company on Long Island, N.Y.

Now To The General Election

The second primary election was held Tuesday and it settled once and for all the candidates who will represent the Republican and Democratic parties in the November general election.

David Flaherty is now the Republican Party's nominee for governor, swamping his challenger Coy Privette. Flaherty's final vote was 45,372 to Privette's 29,926.

There was no run-off for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. For lieutenant governor, however Howard Lee, the front runner in the first primary was defeated by Jimmy Green. There is little satisfaction in losing, but Lee, who is black, made a credible showing in his bid to win election to the state's second highest office.

State Auditor Henry Bridges was in a close race with Lillian Woo but he pulled ahead to win 249,810 votes to Woo's 225,745.

Perhaps the most startling results of the evening was Greenville native John Brooks' victory over Jessie Rae Scott for commissioner of labor. Mrs. Scott, wife of former governor Bob Scott, has powerful political backing through the Scott family.

Brooks faced potential disaster during the campaign when a Superior Court judge ordered him investigated on suspicion of concealing evidence of perjury.

It is very much to Attorney General Rufus Edmisten's credit that he expedited an investigation which cleared Brooks of any wrong doing over the weekend, in time for voters to get the information before election day.

As it turned out the entire matter may have given Brooks' campaign a boost, with some possible sympathy votes developing for him.

Now the intra-party squabbling is over and the chosen candidates must get on with the campaign which will lead up to the general election Nov. 2. We hope the issues will be fully debated.

Strike Can't Be In The Nat'l Welfare

The auto strike which United Auto Workers has called against Ford Motor Co. can't be good for the nation's economy at a time when it is just pulling out of an economic slump.

There are still too many unemployed people in the nation and a prolonged auto strike will just put more people out of work. On the other hand, an inflationary settlement of the strike might be more harmful to the nation, and therefore should be guarded against.

THIS AFTERNOON

Local Income Tax Wanted

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Local county and municipal officials across North Carolina appear united in a major push for permission from the 1977 General Assembly to levy a local income tax.

At the annual meeting of the statewide Association of County Commissioners last month in Pinehurst, a resolution was adopted urging the shift in methods of financing local governments.

In October, the state's League of Municipalities will gather in Charlotte, and is expected to endorse a committee report calling for similar changes. The difference between the two is that city officials also want a hotel-motel room tax.

Both organizations of local officials are already at work lobbying their legislators to support the change in financing procedures. For some 20 years, the idea of allowing expanded local revenue sources has been pushed from time to time. The upcoming session of the Legislature will see a united and aggressive move for more money for local governments for the first time.

Changed System

While the purpose of the action is ultimately to produce more local revenue, it is equally designed to bring about a significant change in the state's philosophy of taxation.

The attitude of the General Assembly has traditionally been that local governments are the creations of the state, and should be allowed to collect only those taxes not reserved to the state. Thus, the state has jealously guarded both the income and sales taxes from encroachment by local governments.

But after 11 years of intensive work by city and county officials, the state allowed several years ago the local option collection of a penny sales tax (stop the state's three-cent tax) for local use.

Having broken the system in that instance, local officials feel the time is now ripe for further change.

The County Commissioners' Association will seek either a share in the state collections of income taxes, or authorization for local governments to impose a tax on incomes on a local option basis. Or, as the resolution spells out, "any other method by which the income tax base can be made available to local governments."

Signs point toward city officials moving in the direction of a local option income tax system, with the additional option for towns which have facilities for conventions, trade shows, and tourism to levy a room tax to help promote and support those endeavors.

Hlt Commuters

In both cases, local governments figure they are spending large sums of money for hospitals, parking facilities, roads, libraries, parks, and law enforcement to serve people who don't even live in the communities.

Commuters from other counties, or states, earn their livings in particular communities, but pay nothing to help support the community, local officials argue. A local income tax, with offsetting provisions benefitting local property owners who pay property taxes, would relieve the problem.

On other legislative matters coming up in 1977, the county commissioners will seek a return of the primary elections to May, instead of the August and September dates used this year. The group asked for a staff study of the lack of uniformity in state procedures for approving fund grants submitted by local units.

The only resolution contested during the session was one calling for the General Assembly to pass legislation requiring sale of refundable containers only for soft drink or beer, and to ban the detachable pull tabs.

The "bottle bill" is designed to reduce roadside litter by eliminating the no-return containers, and has been adopted in several states. A major fight would anticipated if the General Assembly moves in that direction, since bottlers and container manufacturers have launched massive lobbying assaults on such proposals elsewhere.

The GALLUP POLL

Near Tie On 'Peace Issue'

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—The Democratic party holds a wide advantage over the GOP as the party voters see better able to keep the nation prosperous, while the Republican party is in a virtual tie with the Democrats as the "party of peace."

In every election in this century, peace and prosperity have been the overriding issues. Surveys in recent decades have shown that the party with the lead on both these issues at election time has seen its candidate elected.

Democratic partisans maintain that recessions or depressions occur under Republican administrations while Republican loyalists counter that wars occur under Democratic administrations.

The latest survey shows 47 per cent of voters saying the Democratic party can do a better job of keeping the country prosperous, while 24 per cent think the GOP would do a better job.

These findings closely match those recorded in the spring of 1974, when the Democrats led 49 to 19 per cent on the "prosperity issue," but represent a sharp drop for the GOP since October of 1972, just prior to the presidential election. That survey showed the Republican party with a marginal 38 to 34 per cent lead as the party voters thought would do a better job of keeping the country prosperous.

The Democratic party has "owned" this issue for most of the quarter century covered by Gallup Poll measurements.

The 'Peace Issue'

The question of which party can maintain peace has been the other key issue in most elections. Although foreign policy is currently in the background as an issue, maintaining peace can be considered to be a constant concern of the electorate.

President Ford has the advantage of being the first President since Dwight Eisenhower in 1956 to be running at a time when American troops are not engaged in fighting overseas.

The GOP has also lost ground on the peace issue, but the loss is marginal, with both parties currently showing about equal strength in terms of the party voters believe better able to keep the nation out of a third world war.

Currently 28 per cent see the Republican party as better for peace, compared to 33 per cent for the Democratic party.

In the fall of 1972, 36 per cent thought the Republican party and 26 per cent the Democratic party better able to keep the nation at peace. By spring of 1974, however, the Democrats had gained a 33-24 per cent lead on this question.

The Republican party was consistently regarded as the "party of peace" between 1951, when measurements on this issue were begun, and 1962. The Democratic party held the advantage between 1962 and 1966. The GOP then regained the lead and has retained it most of the time since 1966.

Following are the questions and results, nationally and by party affiliation:

"Looking ahead for the next few years, which political party—the Republican or the Democratic—do you think will do the better job of keeping the country prosperous?"

	Party Better Able to Keep Country Prosperous?			No Opinion
NATIONWIDE	47%	24%	15%	14%
Democrats	75	5	10	10
Republicans	8	66	13	13
Independents	30	24	27	19

"Which political party do you think would be more likely to keep the United States out of World War III—the Republican party or the Democratic party?"

Strength For Today

NO COMPROMISE ON PRINCIPLES

Almost every martyr who has died for a good cause could have saved himself if he had been willing to compromise just a little.

The early Christians were asked only to cast a pinch of incense on the altar of the emperor. That would have been easy, particularly considering that the alternative was lions, torture, and death. George Wishart and Patrick Hamilton in Scotland needed only to hold their tongues in order to live unharmd. Instead they preached the gospel and died at the stake.

Sir Thomas More could have raised a finger in assent and maintained his honorable position, but he would not violate what he believed to be right, and so was beheaded.

The Bible message about compromise is very clear. We are to compromise continually on policy, but never on principle. To do that is to affront the Almighty in whose nature all principle originates.

EXCALIBUR!

By ART BUCHWALD

Pop Art Fame Fleeting

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

One day the Canadian authorities refused to allow 80 wooden crates, which looked like cartons of Brillo soap pads, Kellogg's corn flakes and Mott's apple juice, to go through customs as works of art. The cartons, painted by American pop artist Andy Warhol, were not, said the Candians, works of art but merchandise, and subject to $4,000 duty.

I think the Canadians are all wet. A few days after the incident in Canada, I sent down to the supermarket to buy some groceries for my wife. On the way home I stopped in at an art gallery where they were holding a pop art exhibit. Unfortunately, the carton of groceries got heavy, and I left them on the floor.

Then, being so moved by what I saw, I left the gallery and went home.

"Where are the groceries?" my wife demanded.

"Oh, my gosh," I cried, "I left them at the art gallery."

"Well, you'd better get them if you want any supper tonight."

I rushed back to the gallery, but I was too late.

The groceries had been awarded first prize in the show.

"We've been looking all over for you," the gallery owner said. "Why didn't you sign your work of art?"

"It's not a work of art. It's my dinner for tonight."

The gallery roared with appreciative laughter. "He's not only a great sculptor, but he has humor as well," a judge said.

"You can see that in his work," another judge added. "Notice how the bottle of Heinz catsup is leaning against the can of Campbell's pork and beans."

"I'll never know how he was inspired to put the Ritz crackers on top of the can of Crisco," a lady said to her escort.

"It's pure genius," the escort replied. "Notice the way the Del Monte can of peaches is lying on its die. Even Warhol wouldn't have gone that far."

"I think the thing that really won the prize for him was the manner in which he crushed the Sara Lee cheese cake on the bottom of the box."

"It makes Picasso look sick."

"Look," I said, "I'm very grateful for all these honors, but my wife is waiting for this stuff and I have to get it home."

"Get it home?" the gallery owner said in amazement. "I've just sold it to that couple over there for $1,500."

"The groceries cost me only $18," I replied.

"It isn't the groceries. It's what you did with them. You have managed to put more meaning into a box of Rinsol than Rodin put into 'The Thinker.' Nobody will ever be able to look at a can of Franco-American spaghetti without thinking of you. You have said with this bag of groceries in one evening what Rembrandt tried to say in 1,000 paintings."

I blushed modestly and accepted his check. That night I took my wife out to dinner, and the next day I sent back to the supermarket and bought another bag of groceries, much more expensive than the previous ones, which I immediately took to the gallery.

But the reviews were lousy. "Success has gone to his head," said Washington's leading art critics. "Where once he was able to produce

Chile's Many Idle

By WILLIAM R. LONG
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — In Chile's legions of jobless, many of the hardest hit are victims of political vendetta. And their future looks bleak.

They are the Communists, Socialists or members of other now-outlawed parties that supported overthrown Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Others are members of the large Christian Democratic party which, while it opposed Allende, has also been in conflict with the ruling military regime.

This past winter has seen the greatest unemployment since the armed forces seized power in September 1973. The government's Institute of Statistics figured that 19.1 per cent — nearly one in five — of all workers in greater Santiago were jobless at the end of June.

Along with the first blossoms of spring, there is hope that better times are coming for "los cesantes" — the idle ones. But more available jobs will not necessarily mean better prospects for the unknown percentage who were "selected out" of work because of their political past.

The latest statistics, from a special survey made by the University of Chile in July, showed that the jobless rate had dropped to 16.3 per cent in Santiago.

The metropolitan area is the home of about one-third of Chile's 10 million people. Unemployment rates in the provinces generally are estimated to be somewhat lower, but many rural workers are underemployed, averaging only a few hours of work a week.

In the decade before the 1973 coup, unemployment of 4 per cent was considered normal in Chile. After the coup, the rate began to rise rapidly as the government cut public payrolls and the private sector fell into economic depression.

Authorities say the government cutbacks were necessary to reduce deficit spending administration. They say the de-

40 Years Ago Today

September 16, 1936

The agricultural economics bureau reported today that North Carolina's 1935 gross income from farm production increased more than $11,000,000 over that of the preceding year.

The 1934 production was given at $281,761,000 as compared to $292,829,000 for 1935.

Basing the figures on 78 crops and 13 livestock items, the bureau reported virtually all of the state's increase was in the latter class of farm production.

Duke University's Blue Devils are having all the chances they need for a good case of over-confidence—the most dangerous ailment a football team can have.

They are being picked far and wide to win state and conference championships and are even being rated among the top-notchers of the country.

Whether the team will stack up as "the team to beat" will be answered in the games for the next two Saturdays with Davidson and Colgate.

'Special Interest' Of Millions

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the view of William Batten, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, Americans of late seem to spend a good deal of time battling their own interests.

Batten's concern, deep but unemotional was directed to the position taken by many people that the corporation is the enemy, the fortress of special interests, and that it must be so constrained that its productivity is sapped.

"Too much of the time we seem to be developing to a greater degree an adversary relationship between the people and business," he said. But in his opinion it isn't a matter of two camps but one. In such a battle there is no winning, he said.

Neither Batten nor anyone else is likely to claim he doesn't have a special interest because, as head of the world's largest exchange he supervises trading in the shares of many of the world's largest corporations.

But Batten the citizen has a point. "A very important part of the population has a direct interest in the health and viability of business," he said. How many? At least 115 million Americans, he stated.

But aren't there only 25 million shareholders? True, but through membership in pension plans, ownership of insurance policies, enrollment in colleges and the like, the exchange says there are 115 million indirect investors.

"Anything that adversely and unfairly affects business also affects all these people," he said. Their pensions, insurance costs, tuitions, taxes, profitsharing, stock purchase plans.

Is this appreciated? "No," he replied. "There is the feeling that people can benefit at the expense of business and business at the expense of the people."

Batten's concern about this was the motivation for his earlier remarks. Institutional activity — that is, the ownership and trading of shares by pension funds, banks, insurance companies, college endowments and others — is growing.

On any given day the majority of activity on the exchange is by institutions rather than individuals, and the exchange is disturbed. It wants both but it feels it has little control over the situation.

Institutional growth, Batten feels is "inevitable," because pension funds and insurance capital and bank deposits — some of which become stock investments — are continuing to grow, naturally and understandably.

Direct individual ownership of stock, however, has fallen during the 1970s from nearly 31 million to just over 25 million, producing problems of liquidity — smoothness of trading — because orders come in large blocks rather than randomly and in small units.

Moreover, it suggests at least to some degree the alienation about which Batten speaks. It removes the individual from a sense of participation in the economic process and perhaps encourages the feeling of being a mere pawn.

Viewing this as unhealthy, Batten and his staff produce the 115 million figure.

Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — She sits in her cell, crocheting, reading away the hours and, according to her attorney, apprehensively pondering her future at the hands of the court. Soon she will know.

A federal judge in San Francisco ordered Thursday that Patricia Hearst be brought here from her San Diego prison for sentencing a week from today on bank robbery charges. The announcement came two days before the anniversary of her capture on Sept. 18, 1975.

Miss Hearst was convicted March 20 of armed bank robbery and use of a firearm in a felony. The months since the end of her trial have brought changes in her, and in the persons whose lives she touched.

"She's apprehensive about her sentencing," attorney Albert Johnson said recently from the federal prison in San Diego. "She is very hopeful, as we are, that the judge will understand the fact that the whole thing was caused by a violent and brutal kidnaping. We will urge credit for time served and probation."

Judge William H. Orrick Jr.'s choice ranges between that minimum and the maximum of 35 years' imprisonment. Since her conviction, Miss Hearst, 22, has been in San Diego undergoing psychiatric testing that Orrick will use in reaching his decision.

Miss Hearst's celebrated eight-week trial disclosed details of her 19 months with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her 2½ years ago. Now, there are signs that she is looking ahead to a more normal existence.

"She'll be able to have a normal, useful life, although there are some individuals who'd like to do her harm," her attorney said, noting that Miss Hearst was listening as he spoke on the phone. "There would be problems with the security situation. But she has indicated she'd like to return to school and finish her education."

"She'd like to participate in magazine enterprises of her father and probably do writing. She's tending toward journalism and probably business. She has in the past indicated an interest in law but has to expose herself more to it."

Meanwhile, Miss Hearst reads and crochets scarves and caps for her parents and other family members who visit her weekly. She often talks to Johnson, her most frequent visitor, about personal and legal matters such as the appeal being prepared.

"I hope no one has to ever go through what I've had to go through," Johnson quoted her as saying.

There are signs that her parents, too, anticipate more tranquil times.

During the trial, Miss Hearst's father, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, spent little time at the newspaper.

"Randy is returning to more daily concerns at the newspaper," says Tom Eastham, former Examiner executive editor and currently Hearst correspondent in Washington.

"Increasingly, he's at the paper. He's returning to a routine, supervisory corporate role. He has a healthy, constant interest in the paper now."

The day fugitive Patricia Hearst was arrested, her mother was attending a University of California Board of Regents meeting. She has not been to one since.

Attorney William Coblenz, a family friend and UC regent, said: "Randy's adjustment is better than Catherine's. When you talk to Catherine, she goes ... well, she's still preoccupied with the case. I don't know what kind of routine she's in, but she ain't in the routine of going to regents meetings."

Two of the petite heiress' former loves — one from the underground and one from her college days — also are rebuilding their lives.

Steven Soliah, the house painter who was her lover in her last months underground, is free after acquittal in a trial for a fatal Carmichael, Calif., bank robbery.

"He's now trying to get his own life in order, as Patricia Hearst probably is trying to get hers together," says his attorney, Sheldon Otis. "He's painting houses, spending time with his parents, traveling, camping, getting together physically and reviewing the past few years."

Steven Weed, Miss Hearst's jilted former fiancé, is now a published author. The publisher says Weed's account of his romance and life with her, "My Search for Patty Hearst," has sold more than 85,000 hard-bound copies and is continuing to do well.

"Steve is not married as some people speculated, but he has a great girl and is planning to go back to school," says his friend and coauthor, Scott Swanton. "I think someday he'll be a philosophy professor of some repute."

Swanton, now trying his hand at screen writing in Hollywood, said the strain of the kidnaping and book writing were so corrosive to his own marriage that he and his wife, Mimi, separated and planned to divorce.

The past year has changed the lives of some trial participants, too.

Chief defense attorney F. Lee

Bailey, the flashy Boston trial lawyer, long had been in demand on the talk show and lecture circuit, but it's a new experience for U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr.

Browning has had dozens of speaking engagements since the newspaper heiress was convicted.

"The interest in this Hearst case is just phenomenal," he says. "I would think they would be getting sick of it, but they aren't."

Miss Hearst remains unpopular in the defense camps of her former underground companions in the face of reports that she has been cooperating with government prosecutors and may take the witness stand against onetime comrades in exchange for legal considerations.

SLA members William and Emily Harris — sentenced last month to 11 years to life in Los Angeles on a kidnaping, armed robbery and auto theft conviction — also face trial in Alameda County on charges of kidnaping Miss Hearst, their untied codefendant on the Los Angeles charges.

Wendy Yoshimura, a Japanese-American artist who shared an apartment with Miss Hearst here before her arrest, faces trial in connection with a 1972 Berkeley bombs cache. She has been living with a Japanese-American family in Berkeley and preparing her defense.

FEISTY LADY — Zig-zagging like a ski racer, new destroyer Hewitt shows off her maneuverability in recent U.S. Navy acceptance trials. She is the fourth of 30 advanced, multi-mission destroyers of the Spruance class being built in the Ingalls shipbuilding yards in Pascagoula, Miss., and is scheduled to be commissioned September 25. The ship displaces 7,800 tons and is 563 feet in length. (AP Wirephoto)

Consultant Role For Librarian

Dr. Eugene A. Brunelle, director of library services at East Carolina University, has been appointed consultant to the government of Algeria, which is building a new Petroleum and Geology Library and Museum in Algiers.

Dr. Brunelle will be making several trips to Algeria later this fall.

The Algerian library project is under the general supervision of the American Geological Institute, which is working with the architectural firm of Mies Van Derohe.

pression is a result of damage done to the economy by chaos and irresponsibility under Alende.

No one doubts that a great majority of the cuts in public and private employment were made for economic reasons. But some analysts contend that political considerations have been most important in deciding who should be sacked.

Labor sources say that after the coup, blacklists of employees with political or union records were used in cutting back public and private payrolls. The sources say job candidates still are screened with help from intelligence agencies.

Once a worker is dismissed for political reasons, he has little hope of finding another job, the union sources say.

Some of the idle ones lost their jobs after being detained by authorities in roundups of suspected leftist resisters. More than 7,000 persons have been detained under the state of siege in effect since the coup.

No Deliveries In 15 States

A strike by 18,000 Teamster Union members against United Parcel Service has halted small parcel delivery in 15 eastern states.

"Our offices are still open. But there are no deliveries at all, we are completely shut down," said a spokesman at the company's Greenwich, Conn. headquarters.

About 80,000 shippers, mostly businesses, normally send 1.6 million packages by UPS to 800,000 parties each day in the 15 states hit by the strike, the spokesmen said.

Warehousemen and deliverymen from South Carolina to Maine, except for most of the New York City metropolitan area, walked off their jobs Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Union and company officials refused to discuss specifics in the dispute, saying they did not want to conduct negotiations in the press.

The average UPS wage is about $7.00 an hour with some local variations.

John Zancanaro, a federal negotiator in Washington, said both sides have been meeting since February trying to reach an agreement. He said no further talks were scheduled.

"We have maintained close contact and will call a meeting as soon as it seems appropriate and we feel it might be productive," he said.

UPS said in a statement it had offered the union the same wage increase as one that ended a strike in the Midwest.

The states included in the strike are South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, the District of Columbia, Maine, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and New York except for New York City, Long Island and Westchester County.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

Homecoming and Quarterly Meeting services will be held at Reid's Chapel Church Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. The morning service will be presented by the pastor.

The Rev. Lynch, formerly pastor of Reid's Chapel will conduct the 2 p.m. service. Dinner will be served. The public is invited.

REVIVAL PLANNED

Revival services will be held at the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Bethel Monday, September 20 through Friday, September 24. Services will begin each night at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. James Leggett, formerly of Williamston will be the guest evangelist.

THE PIONEERS

SINGING AND LIVING THE GOSPEL

The pioneers are a very talented and most dedicated group, very eager to spread the "Good News" of Jesus Christ. It is more than their singing to which people are especially attracted. It is their sincerity of dedication which has proven itself in the Transformation of lives everywhere they have appeared.

They Love the Lord that they are singing about and want to share him with a lost and dying world. When they sing, they are singing about Christ, but more important than that, as they live they live lives that reflect the presence of Christ.

three-million-member denomination about women priests was pointed up by the narrow margin of just over 50 per cent by which the change was accepted in bloc votes both by lay and clergy delegations.

The church moves "forward with a divided mind," commented the Rev. George F. Regas of Pasadena, Calif., stressing the need to "heal our wounds." A "divided church," the Rev. Gordon R. Plowe of Mitchell, S.D., called the results.

The Rev. Homer Rogers of Dallas saw possible challenges to bishops in civil court if they refuse to ordain women. He had urged provisions that, he said, would guard against such pressures.

However, representatives of the church's governing convention Thursday turned down

Call Meeting Of Church Members

Paul's Chapel Church on Rt. 1, Greenville will have a special call meeting Saturday at 11 a.m. Only members are asked to attend, according to the pastor, the Rev. Grover Payton.

the added clause, which several maintained was superfluous and unnecessary.

"Our understanding is that no one can make a bishop ordain anyone he doesn't want to," observed the Very Rev. David Collins of Atlanta, head of a convention Committee on the Ministry.

About 40 per cent of the bishops of the church's 114 dioceses opposed adoption of that new policy, and 37 of them joined in an explicit statement of conscience that they would not accept it, but would stay in the church. About 80 clergymen and laymen signed a similar statement of dissent after it was read in the convention by the Rev. Kenneth E. Trueman of Wauwatosa, Wis.

The denomination, one of 22 independent national branches of the worldwide Anglican Communion of 47 million members, traces its priestly line back to the time of Jesus' apostles, as do Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy.

As for the impact on other churches in that tradition, Sister Kathleen Keating of Springfield, Mass., president of a Roman Catholic organization of nuns, the National Assembly of Women Religious, said it would aid efforts toward accepting women priests in her church.

Three other Anglican denominations in Ireland, New Zealand and Canada, have authorized women priests, with the Canadian church scheduled to begin ordaining women in November.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, F. Donald Coggan, spiritual leader of the worldwide Anglican Communion, here to address both houses of the U.S. church's convention, has supported the idea of women priests.

Defying previous Episcopal rules, 15 women were irregularly ordained in 1974 and 1975. Their status remained uncertain, although the convention may later take some action about them.

Asks Stand On Human Rights

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet physicist Andrei D. Sakharov has asked President Ford and Jimmy Carter to speak out against the violation of human rights around the world.

In separate letters to the U.S. presidential candidates, the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner said, "There is no place for isolationism and national egoism in the defense of human rights."

Eighty-four Soviet Jews also signed the letters and asked Ford and Carter to pressure Soviet authorities to end restricted emigration. Most have been denied permission to leave the Soviet Union.

$95,000 Failed Make Readers

RALEIGH (AP)—A $95,000 reading program has taught only two or three of North Carolina's illiterates how to read, but Gov. Jim Holshouser says the long-range effect "will be measured in the future."

Holshouser told a news conference Thursday in prepared remarks that the program is "dramatic proof that the way to solve a problem is not by throwing dollars at it, but by enlisting people who will throw their heart and soul into it."

Later, however, he told one reporter that maybe his statement about "dramatic proof" was a bit strongly worded.

When Holshouser was asked how many people had actually been taught to read by the program, he turned to John Hawes, director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina.

Hawes said one phase of the program had been the installation of a telephone which illiterates could use to call to find out where to get reading help.

In six months, he said, about 100 persons called. Follow-up studies showed that half that number actually sought help. Hawes said that two or three completed their training, able to do the reading required to get by in society.

He said educators feel that 38 per cent of North Carolina's adult population, or one million people, is functionally illiterate. He added that the estimate came from the number of people who never went beyond the eighth grade, and not from actual testing.

Holshouser told a reporter he wasn't sure he agreed that one million persons in the state did not know how to read.

He said the reading project "is not really an action program," but rather an effort to stimulate interest in reading education among parents, teachers and others in the community.

Cadet's Scandal A Catastrophe

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer
WEST ISLIP, N.Y. (AP) — From the time their only son was born, Kenneth and Ann Curley wanted him to be a West Pointer. They were not disappointed.

They wanted to savor his successes — the medals, the awards and the trophies. Again they were not disappointed.

They wanted him to be a leader, at the top of his class. He was.

Now he is a convicted West Point cheater, and Ken and Ann Curley say it is the worst thing that's happened since they lost one of their five children to crib death syndrome.

The cheating charge has created what Mrs. Curley calls a "living nightmare" of recriminations from their family, pointed comments from friends and telephone calls from cranks.

The plaques on the walls of their modest Long Island home are a testament to the hopes they had — still have — for Kenneth Jr., a strapping lacrosse and football player whom all four service academies courted.

He was once among the most promising leaders at West Point and in line to become fourth-ranking cadet in the entire corps. Now he has a clouded future. His stripes are gone and his pride bruised. He should be punished less lightly than what amounts to a year's suspension, they say. The honor system, they contend, isn't working.

"I love the place, but you look at it now, there are so many problems up there and the institution won't face it," young Curley said, expressing his determination to graduate nonetheless. He is destined to do so, his family says.

While still hospitalized after her son's premature birth — he weighed three pounds then, compared with 156 now — Mrs. Curley happened to watch "The Long Gray Line" on television. Then and there, she said, she decided: "This is where he was going to go."

The film was on several nights, and mother and father watched it at home. So it seemed natural enough that toy soldiers and tanks would grace his first Christmas. When the boy turned nine, the movie came on again. And his father let him stay up for it.

"As long as I can remember from that time on, that's where I wanted to go," the cadet recalled, idly thumbing the 760-page transcript of his hearing by the board of officers that convicted him.

He was always a leader, his parents said. When the Curleys moved to this pleasant community on the south shore, neighboring children mostly fished for play. But soon they played baseball and war.

"He organized this block," beamed the trim mother of three other children. "They were his army."

At high school, where he graduated 161st out of 800, Curley was captain of his football and lacrosse teams. By the time he was in the 9th grade, his mother said, he was already getting calls from West Point.

Young Curley wanted to go there so much that he didn't even answer the letter when the Navy invited him on a recruitment trip to Annapolis.

He has excelled at West Point. Seventh in his class of more than 800 in leadership. Ninth in physical education. Picked to be executive officer in charge of summer training at the academy's Camp Buckner.

"I think, based on Kenneth's ability to get along with people and his dedication toward his profession and doing a good job, he could be commissioned right now as an outstanding officer," his tactical officer testified at Curley's hearing.

Added a history professor: "I think Mr. Curley has more natural leadership ability than any cadet that I know ... There is no doubt in my mind that I would want that young man as a lieutenant in my company."

Even Col. Jack M. Pollin, the president of the officer board that convicted Curley, asked West Point's superintendent to allow him to remain at the academy, despite the mandatory penalty of expulsion.

Curley subsequently testified at a congressional hearing on the cheating scandal. Then the scandal came home.

Before she hung up, abruptly, Curley's grandmother had cried into the phone about the family's "disgrace," saying, Mrs. Curley said, "What about my senior citizens club? What am I going to tell them?"

Ann Curley said she even asked her employer whether she should quit because of the notoriety. The offer was rejected. An out-of-work electronics buyer, she now works as a waitress to pay $300-a-month telephone bills she says accumulated in the cadets' defense.

"Everybody's turning their back on these cadets," said Mrs. Curley, who has stopped wearing her West Point necklace. "I don't think it's fair. What I'm angered at, if something doesn't work, you ought to change it."

Said Mr. Curley, a 46-year-old industrial artist: "I think he's going to be a better officer because he went through this." And his son agreed: "There's not a guy involved who hasn't done a lot of growing up."

Not everyone stands behind their sons like the Curleys, the cadet said. He said one Long Island cadet was disowned by his Army captain brother.

"A lot of guys are afraid to go home," he said.

Geese follow them around the 200-year-old farm buildings, whose huge oak beams are functional architecture at its most beautiful. Chickens scratch in the dirt and dung of a cobblestoned farmyard and there is a scent of hay from the hayloft.

Tranquility hovers over the museum's wooded hills 160 miles west of London. There are no wires to be seen, no motors or machines to be heard. Often the loudest sound is the cooing of multicolored pigeons on the newly thatched roof of a shed housing rare pigs along with the sitting goose.

"Luckily, this farm was never modernized," said McCabe, a balding and quick-spoken man of 40. "So it was perfect for us."

"We're hoping to cover the whole range of farming practice as it was before electricity and petrol (gasoline) engines came along. But you can't imagine the questions we still have to answer."

"Is the equipment still available? Is the seed available? Is there anyone who knows how to do it?"

"We even have to train the horse, because the horse doesn't remember how to do it."

The museum's land — now 24 acres, but 80 acres soon — is part of the 1,200-acre estate of Landowner Tom S. Acton, whose family has been here since the 1300s — the village of Acton Scott was named for it.

Tom Acton's stone manor house, built in 1580, is only a hedge's length behind the museum's cow barn and stable.

The stable's stalls are king-sized, big enough for the enormous Shires which are the world's biggest breed of horse. Shires worked this farm regularly until 1950. Now they're back to pull wagons and plows and cultivators and threshers.

But nostalgia for farming's good old days gets a sharp setback from one of the museum's educational pamphlets. Old-style farming, it says, was "a life of almost incessant toil."

Dozens of volunteers help McCabe with this toil. He is appealing for more.

"Old style farming was simply profligate with labor," he said. "These days farming that way would cost a fortune."

Old-Style Farm, With No Wires, No Motors

By GREGORY JENSEN
ACTON SCOTT, England (UPI) — Not many museums find it necessary to caution visitors with a hand-written sign warning: "Danger. Goose sitting eggs. Please keep clear."

Not many farms these days deliberately reject electricity, gasoline engines and all the labor-saving devices of the 20th century.

But the brand-new Acton Scott Working Farm museum is that kind of museum, and that kind of farm.

"We're trying here to create a working farm to demonstrate farming as it was before the turn of the century," said curator Geoffrey McCabe as a giant English Shire horse plodded by.

"It will take three years to put the clock back. This is the first year."

The Shropshire county government finances Acton Scott to illustrate what local farms were like 100 years ago. The museum will rotate its crops on "the old four-course system," McCabe said, and its livestock "is what it would have been on a farm this size."

New as it is and with meager publicity, the museum already attracts 2,000 visitors a week. They are rewarded with a peaceful reminder of a more gentle age.

Area Retirees Had First Fall Meeting

Greenville Chapter No. 2016 of the American Association of Retired Persons held its first meeting of the fall season Monday, in the Fellowship Hall of Memorial Baptist Church.

After greetings were extended to members and guests, Mrs. Katherine Cottle introduced Joseph Laney, executive director of the Greenville Housing Authority, who spoke about the progress and the status of the housing project for the elderly in Greenville.

President Mildred D. Southwick presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Sue May, home economics agent of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office, gave a program about the services and literature available from her office and of the knowledge of these which might benefit retired persons and others to whom they wished to be of service.

Mrs. May announced that senior citizens are invited to a special program at the Pitt County Fair Exhibit Hall Oct. 6 from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Cottle, Miss A. Turner and Miss O. Zahniser.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the same place.

Collected Rare Instruments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Curt Janssen collection of historic musical instruments at Claremont College comprises more than 400 rare instruments encompassing the full range of brass, woodwinds, strings and percussions from throughout the world.

Music historians from across the United States and many foreign nations come to the school to study the rare and often priceless instruments collected by Janssen, who was a trumpet soloist with the John Phillip Sousa Band.

Many of the instruments, such as the Tibetan temple horn, are centuries old.

EVER-WELCOME WATER IN ENGLAND — Mrs. Lesley Bulman gets her first bucketful of water as stand-pipes go up in Tedburn St. Mary, near Exeter, this week. Water taps in private homes were cut off in parts of southeast England in the toughest measure so far in fighting Britain's worst drought in 500 years. Annoyed householders began trekking with buckets to hydrants in the streets. (AP Wirephoto)

Missouri Is Over-Powered

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Missouri has energy to spare — from coal (compared to 45 per cent for the U.S. average) and about 10,000 years worth. In 1975, 85 per cent of the state's electric power came from a slice of the 6-billion tons of recoverable reserves in the state that will take an estimated 10,000 years to deplete at current rates.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to gain today in a follow-through of its last two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks showed a gain of 1.33 to 989.28 at 11:30 a.m., and advances led declines about 4 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market was up nearly six points in early trading but backed down by late morning. Brokers said they sensed some market uneasiness over a rumor this morning, later denied by the White House, that an attempt had been made on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's life. Kissinger is in Pretoria today for a third round of discussions with the South African prime minister.

The market has been gaining for two days. Brokers credited the early advance today to hopes that the Federal Reserve would ease its credit policies following another drop in the nation's money supply this past week.

Brokers also said many investors expected Citibank to lower its prime rate today but the bank left it unchanged at 7 per cent.

Stocks gaining more than a point today included Johnson & Johnson, and Phillip Morris, up 1 1/4 to 59 1/2.

The NYSE composite index rose 29 to 56.44 at 11 a.m. and the American Stock Exchange Market value index rose .23 to 103.05.

Farmville Mart Prices Steady

FARMVILLE — Prices yesterday for top quality tobacco were steady compared with other days this week, says Louis N. Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Less desirable tobacco was not in demand as on previous days. Nondescript grades accounted for a large per cent of volume. Good clean grades of lugs were in strong demand. The market sold 683,305 pounds for $846,348 for an average of $123.32 per hundred pounds. To date the market has sold 18,201,038 pounds for $20,464,067, for a season's average of $112.43, compared with $96.68 a year ago. Stabilization receipts accounted for 1.07 per cent of gross sales.

endorsed by the Council following a public hearing.

The Council voted to approve a request by the Athletic Club for rezoning, from R-6 to R-20, of approximately 6.4 acres located on the east side of Evans Park on Arlington Boulevard and west of the Seaboard Coastline Railroad. No opposition was stated in the public hearing.

The recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission was followed by the Council in denying, following a public hearing, a request by SOBALCO Inc. for rezoning, from R-20 to R-6, of approximately 7.03 acres located adjacent to University Condominiums.

A petition by Eastern Realty Co. for annexation of 20.54 acres located adjacent to Club Pines Subdivision was approved after no objections were voiced during the public hearing.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday reported that the proposed annexation area is contiguous to the city limits.

Arrangements have been made for water and sewer services to be provided for the area, it was noted.

An ordinance of annexation was also adopted involving a petition for annexation of Elizabeth Heights Subdivision located on Evans Street Extension and consisting of approximately 3.6 acres. Arrangements for utilities have also been made in the Elizabeth Heights area.

Council members, after holding a public hearing, endorsed the construction of a Utilities Operations Center to be located on the north side of Mumford Road, approximately 2,800 feet east of the intersection of Mumford Road and N. Greene Street, just beyond the city limits, and running north to Parker's Creek. The location is approximately 425 feet in width on Mumford Road and comprises 21 acres.

City Planner John Schofield discussed several amendments to the 1976 Community Development Program calling for a total 1976-77 budget of $2,269,320.

Schofield explained that the new figure includes the original $1,909,000 entitlement under the CD program, as well as $162,000 in carryover from Newtown as funds not used in the project, and $198,000 in unprogrammed CD funds that were not used last year.

New activities added to the CD funding application in the amended version include: purchase of 350 acres for a site for a new sewer treatment plant; purchase of a

Denies Libel Suit By Ray

MEMPHIS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Court Judge Harry W. Wellford has denied a libel suit filed by James Earl Ray, confessed killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray is a public figure, subject to media comment and speculation about noteworthy aspects of his life, Wellford said Thursday in a written ruling.

Ray had sought $50,000 in damages from Time, Inc., and six other defendants for allegedly lying about him or compromising his rights.

The suit, filed in June from a prison cell in Nashville where Ray is serving a 99-year sentence, named Time magazine, authors William Bradford Huie, Gerold Frank and George McMillan, former assistant state Atty. Gen. W. Henry Haile Jr., U.S. Dist. Court Judge Robert M. McRae Jr. and the judge's court reporter, Mrs. Brenda Pelicciotti.

The lawsuit did not seek damages against McRae.

Ray claimed articles or books by the authors and actions by the others damaged his chances for a fair hearing before the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals earlier this year.

The appeals court upheld McRae's refusal to grant Ray a new trial for the 1968 murder of King in Memphis.

In dismissing the suit, Wellford noted that Ray had been convicted of being a "habitual criminal." The ruling concluded that Ray would stand little chance of proving that his reputation was damaged and that he is by now, "libel proof."

"All the circumstances indicate this action is frivolous," Wellford said.

Kissinger Flies To South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger took his diplomatic shuttle to South Africa today in an attempt to end the racial confrontation in southern Africa.

Kissinger flew into Waterkloof air base outside Pretoria from Lusaka following talks with Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda.

End Ties With March Of Dimes

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The medical director of the Chattanooga Birth Defects Center says his center is breaking off its relationship with the national March of Dimes effort.

Dr. Walter Boehm said Thursday the center will turn to community support to continue its work.

Boehm said the action is being taken because the March of Dimes is placing emphasis on research and post-and prenatal care of children with birth defects.

The Chattanooga center takes a different tact, emphasizing patient care, he said.

Boehm said he rejected an offer by the March of Dimes to give $500 per patient per year.

Gloria Wanted Fan's Age, Too

SEATTLE (AP) — When a fan asked actress Gloria Swanson how old she is, the actress demanded to know the fan's age first.

"I'm 77," said the fan. "Well, that makes us both the same age," said Miss Swanson, who first rose to fame starring in silent films with Charlie Chaplin in 1914.

Stylishly dressed, Miss Swanson stood for more than an hour in a Seattle department store, handing out her autograph and pushing her husband William Duffy's book, "Sugar Blues."

You Are Invited...

To Participate In The Winterville Community Development Programs

Consider this your invitation to get involved in Winterville's Community Development Program. It is issued on behalf of the Winterville Town Board of Aldermen to all individuals, organizations, and neighborhood groups in the town.

Each individual citizen, group of citizens, neighborhood organization or civic club has some ideas about what they want Town Government to do . . . or not to do. Most of us have an idea of what kind of city or neighborhood we want to live in and about which needs are most important. The best ideas in government have always come from the people. The Town of Winterville believes they still do.

Your opportunity to express your personal or group views as to the community needs of Winterville will be to attend the public hearing of September 27, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall.

For further information, call or write to the Winterville Town Clerk, P.O. Box 431, Winterville, North Carolina 28590. The telephone number is 756-2221. We want to hear from you!

Bucs Seek To Bounce Rebounding State

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Everyone knew that the day would come. The day when an East Carolina University football team would be favored to defeat the N. C. State Wolfpack. But nobody, including Pat Dye, the Pirate mentor, expected it to come so soon. "If we're favored, I guess it means that we have more of a chance to win than in the past," he said. Whether the Pirates can fulfill the forecasts is another thing. One thing is certain, Dye isn't looking for a runaway like he witnessed last Saturday night when the Pirates beat Southern Mississippi, 48-0.

Perhaps the most astounding thing about this Saturday night's game in State's Carter Stadium is not that the Pirates won their opener so convincingly, but that the Wolfpack comes into the contest with an 0-2 record.

No one thought the Pack would lose to Furman, but it did, 17-12. Then, most felt the State team would rebound against Wake Forest, but again, they took it on the chin, 20-18.

Now comes Saturday's game with the Pirates, and some die-hard State fans are certain that this is the time. Just as certain are most of the Pirate fans that this is their time, too.

Dye approaches the game the same way he did last week's, with cautious optimism. "We didn't look good Tuesday (in practice) and the rain hurt us Wednesday. We needed Thursday's practice very badly to finalize things," Dye said. "But I'm going to be very disappointed if we are not ready to play come game time Saturday," he added.

Asked about the possibility of some showers on the game, Dye said he really didn't care what kind of weather it was. "We'll play either way."

The Bucs are all in good health, with no injuries suffered during the Southern Mississippi game. "This was one of the happiest things about Saturday's game," Dye said, "except for the score, of course."

Dye looks for this contest to be a lot tougher than last week's. "They need a win real bad. They haven't won this year. But we need it bad too 'cause we've never beaten them. By 'we' I mean me and the players on this team." East Carolina has won one of the six previous meetings, back in 1971.

"Just like always, in every game, it's going to depend on our ability to keep them from getting the big play offensively. This will be a big factor in the game.

"They return kicks real well, and they have a good kicking game. They are very dangerous offensively, no matter what they do. They have a good offensive line, with quality skill people who can break a game open any time," Dye said.

"Defensively, they play with a lot of emotion and enthusiasm. They held Wake to 272 yards despite losing to them."

The loss was caused largely by penalties and turnovers (82 yards, two interceptions and two fumbles lost), according to Dye. State rolled up 410 yards in total offense. "The amazing thing about the Wake game is that State had the ball for 90 plays to Wake's 52," Dye said.

"This is going to be the toe-to-toe, kill-or-be-killed type of game, and whether it's a high or low scorer will depend on how well each team plays defense."

State comes into the game with the Atlantic Coast Conference's number two offense, averaging 357.5 yards a contest. They are picking up 234 on the ground and 123.5 through the air. Defensively, State stands third in the league with a 329.5 average. They've given up 221 on the ground and 108.5 through the air.

Quarterback Johnny Evans is the leading offensive threat, picking up 182 yards a game. Running back Ted Brown has rushed for 102 yard a game to lead in that department. In passing, Evans has hit 19 of 35 passes, but had three picked off. His passes had covered 247 yards.

Evans is a triple threat man, handling the Wolfpack punting too, booting the ball an average of 43.7 yards a kick.

The Bucs, meanwhile rushed for 416 yards and held Southern to just 61. Through the air, the Pirates got 56 yards while allowing 112. That's a 472 yard total offensive average for the Bucs and 173 for their opponent.

Eddie Hicks leads the rushing with 133 yards, while his H & H Trucking Co., Inc. partner, Willie Hawkins has 128 yards. General Manager Mike Weaver has rushed for 55 and passed for 53 more.

As always, Dye says the game will be won along the lines, and in the kicking game. If the Pirates can prevent the Wolfpack from getting the long plays, and pick up a few of their own along the way, those forecasts might come true.

"I don't foresee anything that might see an outcome like last week's game," Dye said. "There's no way that could happen. State's not going to panic if they get down. It's going to be a hard-fought game all the way."

Kickoff is at 7 p.m. at Carter Stadium, and one of the largest, if not the largest ever there, is expected.

Pressure On Keydets In Second Loop Start

By The Associated Press

The pressure will be on Virginia Military's secondary Saturday when the Keydets play host to Appalachian State in the Mountaineers' first Southern Conference football outing of the season.

VMI's secondary proved vulnerable last week as the Keydets dropped a 34-20 conference decision to William and Mary's Indians in the season opener for both.

The Mountaineers are more of a running team. But the Mountaineers have had remarkable success with halfback passes off their potent wishbone offense.

Of the four aerials thrown by Appalachian halfbacks in a 21-10 defeat by South Carolina and a 44-3 romp over East Tennessee State, three have been complete and two have gone for touchdowns.

The Appalachian-VMI encounter is the only one this week that counts in the league standings and is one of just three in the afternoon involving conference teams.

William and Mary goes to Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference and Davidson's title-ineligible Wildcats open their season at home against Colgate.

Headlining the six-game night schedule of nonconference scraps is one that sends East Carolina's title-favorite Pirates, who routed Southern Mississippi 48-0 in their opener, to N. C. State of the ACC.

State already has lost to Furman's Paladins of the Southern Conference and to Wake Forest inside the ACC.

Meanwhile, Furman will go for its third straight victory at home against Presbyterian. After the 17-12 upset over State, the Paladins last week whipped Tennessee Tech 17-7.

The Citadel's Bulldogs, 0-1 after a 10-7 loss to Clemson of the ACC, try to get back on the winning track at home against Delaware with split end Mike Riley probably out for the season with a knee injury.

The league's three new members, who have a combined 5-0 record with Marshall having received a forfeit of its 31-14 season-opening loss to Morehead State, all play under the lights.

Western Carolina, 2-0, is at home against Murray State; Marshall, 2-0, goes to Illinois State; and Tennessee-Chattanooga, whose only start was a 24-0 romp over Illinois State, entertains Western Kentucky.

"Appalachian runs the wishbone offense as well as anybody we'll play," says VMI Coach Bob Thalmann. "They are a well-balanced football team and have a stable full of good running backs."

That stable is so full, in fact, that sophomore Scott McConnell and senior John Craig rank behind only last year's rushing leader, Emmitt Hamilton, in running the ball. They're ahead of last year's next two top runners, halfback Calvin Simon and quarterback Robbie Price.

Aycock In First Win

WILSON — E.B. Aycock Junior High School rolled to an 18-3 victory over the Wilson Raiders yesterday. It was the first game of the year for the Jaguars.

After a scoreless first period, Aycock took the lead as Alfred O'Neal scooped up a fumble and raced 27 yards with it for a touchdown. That gave the Jags 6-0 lead at the half.

Aycock came back with two second half scores, one in each period. Calvin Paige scored both, on runs of 49 and 25 yards.

Wilson's lone score came on a 21-yard run in the final 10 seconds of the game.

Aycock had another threat, coming after Mark Shank returned a punt to the 10 yard line, but the drive stalled. Wilson also got inside the 20 one other time.

Goldsboro visits Aycock next Thursday.

Royals Zig Out As Oakland Zags Back

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's had a notion about gaining ground on Kansas City in the American League West race, but Ford had a better idea.

Dan Ford, that is, Ford, a former A's farmhand, hit a pair of two-run homers to back Bill Singer's four-hit pitching and give Minnesota a 4-0 victory over Oakland Thursday night. That loss, coupled with Kansas City's 2-0 triumph over California, dropped the A's 4½ games behind the front-running Royals in the AL West.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas trimmed the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Boston edged Milwaukee 4-3. New York at Cleveland was rained out, while Baltimore and Detroit were not scheduled.

Ford homered off Stan Bahnsen, 8-6, in the fourth inning with Rod Carew on base and rocked Bahnsen again in the sixth, this time with Lyman Bostock aboard. Seven of Ford's 19 homers this year have come against the A's, who traded him to Minnesota after the 1974 season.

"They caught me in a hot streak," said Ford, who also homered in a 4-2 victory over the A's Tuesday. "I guess you could say I play a little harder against Oakland. I signed with them, but never got a chance."

Ford spent four years in the A's farm system before he was obtained by the Twins in a trade for utilityman Pat Bourque.

"It bothered me at the time," said Ford, "but it actually worked out for the best."

Ford won a starting outfield berth with Minnesota in 1975, batting .280 with 15 homers. This year he's hitting .273 with 19 homers and 80 runs batted in.

Singer, 11-9, recorded his fourth shutout of the season and his third since joining the Twins in June in a deal with Texas. He allowed just four singles and two walks.

Royals 2, Angels 0

Kansas City, held hitless by Frank Tanana for five innings, came on to beat the Angels on Buck Martinez' two-run homer in the seventh inning.

Anderson Could Pass Jurgensen

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Sometime Sunday, probably in the second period of Cincinnati's game at Baltimore, Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson will drop back, look over the defense and throw a pass.

And with that aerial, his ninth of the game, he will reach 1,500 pass attempts for his National Football League career. The significance of that particular pass is that the 1,500 plateau will qualify Anderson for the all-time passer rankings.

Anderson's 85.8 rating will put him in first place, ahead of the current leader, Sonny Jurgensen, who completed his career with an 82.8 ranking.

Jurgensen, however, will not be on hand for Anderson's accomplishment. The ex-Washington quarterback will be in Philadelphia instead, as a television commentator for the Eagles' game against the New York Giants.

Elsewhere Sunday, Cleveland plays at Pittsburgh, Houston at Buffalo, Miami at New England, the New York Jets at Denver, San Diego at Tampa Bay, Atlanta at Detroit, Chicago at San Francisco, Dallas at New Orleans, Green Bay at St. Louis, Los Angeles at Minnesota and Seattle at Washington.

Oakland plays at Kansas City Monday night.

Anderson, in his sixth NFL season, recognizes his own limitations.

"Each NFL quarterback has his own attributes," he said, "I don't do things the way Frank Tarkenton does. I can't throw as hard as Terry Bradshaw. I don't set up as quickly as Joe Namath and don't have as quick a release. But I know what I can do with my physical ability and I have to get the job done the way I can. I like to think I'm a consistent quarterback."

Anderson is considered one of the NFL's best young passers and he will face another Sunday in Baltimore's Bert Jones. Both rallied their teams with passes for first-game victories, the Bengals beating Denver 17-7 and Baltimore downing New England 27-13.

Jones completed 17 of 23 passes for 190 yards against the Broncos and Anderson hit 17 of 25 for 147 yards against the Patriots. The leading American Conference passers after the first week's games were the Cleveland duo of Mike Phipps and Brian Sipe, who combined for 18-for-25 and 183 yards against the Jets. Sipe will get the call against Pittsburgh's "Steel Curtain" defense this week, with Phipps nursing a separated shoulder.

In the NFC, the first week's passing leader was Minnesota's Tarkenton, who completed 15 of 23 for 221 yards against New Orleans. He could have a tougher time this week against Los Angeles. The Rams are down to their third-string quarterback, Pat Haden, with Ron Jaworski and James Harris both injured.

The NFL's leading rusher will be in action in Buffalo where the Oilers meet the Bills. But it's not O.J. Simpson. He managed 28 yards in five carries against Miami after returning to the Bills on the eve of the season's opener. The first week's rushing leader was Houston's Ronnie Coleman, who had 142 yards against Tampa Bay. He will try the rebuilt Bills this week.

Robinson and his agent, Ed Keating, met Thursday with Indians President Ted Bonda and General Manager Phil Seghi, but Bonda said "nothing definitive was decided."

Bonda added, "We met and talked, that's all. A decision (about Robinson) has not been made either way, and it's still our desire to wait until the season is over, unless circumstances force us to do so sooner."

Bonda, Seghi and Robinson offered no other comment.

Keating said, "It is up to the Indians to make a decision. When that'll be, I don't know because Phil (Seghi) keeps saying it's his policy to wait until the end of the season."

Baby Jags Win First

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central junior varsity romped past Southern Wayne 24-0, yesterday in its initial outing of the 1976 season.

The Baby Jaguars scored in each of the first three periods in taking the victory.

Donald Reid scored twice, getting the first and the last score. He went in from seven yards out in the first period, then added a 45 yard scoring run in the third period.

Conley Tops Lady Jags

FARMVILLE — D.H. Conley's Valkyries opened the volleyball season yesterday with a 2-0 victory over Farmville Central.

Farmville was also playing its first match of the year.

Conley captured the first game, 15-3, then came back to pull out a 15-11 win in the second contest.

Further details were unavailable.

Rampants Win Race

Rose High School's cross-country team nearly pulled off a sweep yesterday in rolling up a 19-51 victory over South Lenoir.

Rose took first place in the meet as Jesse Baker finished the course in a time of 13:29. South Lenoir's Tony Warren was second in 13:48, but was the only member of his team in the top five.

The Rampants took the next four places to nearly pull off the sweep. Til Jolly was third in 14:28, followed by Cliff Hagen in 14:30. Johnny Evans finished fifth in 14:33, followed by Mike Norfleet in 14:35.

Lady Jags Net A Win

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's girls' tennis team won its second straight victory with a 7-2 breeze past Northeastern High School yesterday.

The victory boosted the Lady Jaguars' record to 2-1 for the season. Farmville won four of the six singles matches, and took all three of the doubles events to wrap it up.

In exhibitions, Lou Ann Eason and Jill Cutler of Farmville Central each won singles matches from Pam Hales and Paula Lassiter, respectively.

Will Robbie Be Back?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Contract negotiations between Cleveland Indians Manager Frank Robinson and the club's front office are under way, but they haven't shed any light on whether Robinson will be back next season.

Robinson and his agent, Ed Keating, met Thursday with Indians President Ted Bonda and General Manager Phil Seghi, but Bonda said "nothing definitive was decided."

Bonda added, "We met and talked, that's all. A decision (about Robinson) has not been made either way, and it's still our desire to wait until the season is over, unless circumstances force us to do so sooner."

A-G Girls Take Win

SNOW HILL — Ayden-Grifton rolled up an easy first game victory, then struggled to a second one for a 2-0 volleyball victory over Greene Central yesterday.

Ayden-Grifton took a 15-4 win in the opening game, then scored a 15-12 victory in the second.

In the opener, after each team had scored two points, Karen Haseley served up 12 straight points for the Chargerettes to push Ayden-Grifton into a 14-2 lead, leading to the easy victory.

In the second, L. Ginn picked up eight in a row for the Greene Central team, putting the Ewes into an 11-4 lead. Patsy Respess came back to serve up four in a row for Ayden-Grifton, cutting the lead to 11-8. Ayden-Grifton later cut it to 11-10, then pushed into a 13-11 lead before wrapping it up.

The Chargerettes, now 1-1, play host to Conley on Tuesday.

Cubs Fall To Kinston

Rose High School's junior varsity suffered its third straight loss yesterday, bowing to Kinston's JVs, 20-0.

The defeat was also the third straight shutout for the Rampant Cubs. They travel to Jacksonville next Thursday.

Kinston scored in the second, third and fourth quarters, the last one coming on the final play on a pass interception runback after time had elapsed.

FOOTBALL Carolina style TAR HEELS

vs. NORTHWESTERN

Saturday, September 18th, 1:30 PM

See the Tar Heels battle one of the most explosive offensive teams in the famed Big Ten Conference. The Wildcats have the Big Ten's second leading passer, Randy Dean; the league's leading receiver, Scott Yelvington; and the school's all time leading rusher, Greg Boykin, who had 1,105 yards a year ago. Nine of Northwestern's 48 returning lettermen were defensive starters last year, so that area will be solid. There should be plenty of fireworks in Kenan Stadium for this big matchup. Tickets available at the Record Bar locations in N.C., Carmichael Auditorium and at gates.

Pirates Picked; Kinston Chosen

Things get no easier for the Daily Reflector's so-called panel of experts this week. Despite having a week to look over the teams, and two weeks in some cases, there is still a lot of long pauses over some before the picks were finally made.

Some of the games listed this time around could go either way, despite past records.

First, we'll take a look at the high school scene, where we posted a 5-2 mark last week, bringing the total to 10-5 for the year so far.

D. H. Conley, surprisingly 2-0 at this point, travels to Havelock, where the Vikings will get a real test. If they come out of this one with a win, then the rest of the Eastern Carolina had better watch out. Havelock is strong, having won three in a row without being scored on. That's enough for me. I'll pick Havelock.

Ayden-Grifton goes to Washington, still looking for its first win. But the two previous foes aren't of the caliber of Washington. Things will be easier on the Chargers, and I look for them to pull this one out.

Jamesville hosts Belhaven in a Tobacco Belt game, and this should be another bad weekend for the Bullets. They've improved, but not enough to win this one.

Farmville Central entertains Plymouth, and there should be no mistake about this week's pick here. Farmville came alive to down strong Eastern Wayne last week, and Plymouth should not be nearly as much competition.

North Pitt travels to 2-0 Lillington. The Panthers showed that they should not be taken for dead last week, nearly upsetting West Craven. But the long trip will probably be enough this time, and Lillington will win.

Strong Williamston is host to Murfreesboro. The Tigers may not really get a test until conference competition. They should win here.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Roanoke is still seeking its first win, and plays host to Elm City. The Redskins should be smarting from their defeats, and this may be enough to snap the string. We'll go with Roanoke.

Finally, Southern Wayne is at Greene Central. The Rams showed improvement last week, but it still won't be enough for this game as Southern should win.

Our panel got off to a so-so start last week. This writer managed the best record, 8-4, while Barbara Mathews, Jack Whichard and George Holland were one back at 7-5. Joe Jenkins and Tom Baines limped in with 6-6 marks.

The Rose-Kinston contest could be a key one in deciding the Rampant future. Kinston has been strong on defense, and Rose has looked good in this phase of the game also. Breaks may decide it—the home field advantage. Our panel is split, going with the Vikings on a 4-2 decision.

East Carolina travels up to N. C. State, favored by most for the first time in history. Now all the Bucs have to do is win and prove that they are for real to a lot of doubters outside Greenville. There are none on the panel it seems. There is a 6-0 solid backing of the Pirates. But don't expect a 48-0 decision. It could go right to the wire.

Other consensus picks see Delaware over The Citadel; Furman over Presbyterian; Georgia over Clemson; Maryland over West Virginia; Vanderbilt over Wake Forest; Appalachian State over VMI; William & Mary over Virginia; South Carolina over Duke; North Carolina over Northwestern; and Notre Dame over Purdue.

Penn State Gets Chance To Show It's Ready For National Crown

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

Penn State football Coach Joe Paterno figures this is the time for his Nittany Lions to make a major bid for a national championship.

Penn State, rated seventh in the week's Associated Press poll, hosts second-rated Ohio State and it is not hard to figure what would happen if Paterno's team beats the Buckeyes in the regionally televised game.

Also scheduled to be shown on regional television are ninth-rated Georgia at Clemson, Colorado at Washington and Yale at Brown. Paterno, the winningest coach in college football over the past decade (94-18-1) says, "It's a great time for us to play Ohio State."

"We're coming off a win (15-12) over a good team (Stanford). Ohio State won its first game. It's on regional television. It's an incentive to our people."

Paterno is not overestimating his team's strength.

"We're a good football team, but certainly not outstanding, not yet. I'm pleased with the defense. The offense is a little slower coming around. We're about at where I figured we'd be. It may take three or four more games to be pretty good," he said.

Paterno has indicated that his team may be the best he has had going into a season since the 1973 team. That club was 12-0 and beat Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl.

Paterno has his team passing more. Its most important play still is the fullback running inside, but the attack forces defenses to be more careful.

Ohio State passed the ball twice last week against Michigan State, completing one. The Buckeyes won 49-21.

This week Stanford tries to be a real giant killer as it tries to upset the nation's No. 1 team, Michigan.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler knows his club will be challenged by quarterback Mike Cordova, who passed for 290 yards when the teams got together for a 19-19 tie last year. He'll be facing a defense that gave up 268 yards in a 40-27 triumph over Wisconsin last week.

Schembechler called Cordova "a passer — a REAL passer ... You and I know they're gonna get 200-300 yards passing Saturday."

In other afternoon games involving members of the Top Ten, California visits fourth-rated Oklahoma, sixth-ranked Missouri hosts Illinois, No. 8 Nebraska tries to avoid an upset at Indiana and Maryland puts its No. 10 rating on the line at West Virginia.

Third-rated Pitt and Heisman Trophy hopeful Tony Dorsett are at Georgia Tech and Arizona goes against fifth-ranked UCLA in two of the top night games.

Other top nonconference games include Kansas State at Texas A&M, No. 11 in this week's poll; Kentucky at Kansas, No. 13; Southern Methodist vs. No. 14 Alabama; Northwestern at North Carolina, No. 17; Tulane at Mississippi, No. 20; Oklahoma State vs. No. 12 Arkansas; Oregon State at No. 16 Louisiana State, and North Texas State at No. 19 Texas.

Pirates Take Second Straight From Philadelphia; Lead Is Four

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Where there's a Willie, there's a way for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're not giving up," says Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. "We have the will to continue, no matter what the circumstances."

Stargell sounded Pittsburgh's homestretch battle cry after blasting a home run to help the Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 Thursday night and cut their National League East lead to four games.

It was 15½ games at one point last month, but the swaggering Pirates have chopped most of it off by winning 17 of their last 22 starts — including five straight against the Phillies.

The teams played through a long rain delay and the Pirates blew leads of 5-0 and 6-4 before pulling it out on Rennie Stennett's dramatic ninth-inning double.

"I've been hitting line drives at people," said Stennett. "Luckily this one found the gap."

While the Phillies and Pirates were making the National League East more interesting, Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 4-2 and moved closer to winning the West.

Elsewhere in National League play, Atlanta trimmed Houston 5-3; the New York Mets turned back St. Louis 4-1 and Montreal nipped the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Stennett doubled home pinch-runner Miguel Dilone in the ninth inning off ace reliever Ron Reed. Losing early by five runs, the Phillies woke up after a one hour and 22-minute rain delay in the bottom of the fifth. Philadelphia finally tied it 6-6 in the seventh on a two-run single by Bob Boone, who came up without a hit in his last 19 at-bats.

Duffy Dyer started the Pirates' ninth when he was hit by a Reed pitch. Dilone went in to run and reached second on a sacrifice bunt by Omar Moreno. Pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick flied out before Stennett doubled into center field for the winning run.

Reds 4, Dodgers 2
Cincinnati left-hander Don

Gullett, finding his 1975 form after a month of inactivity, won his second straight start by beating Los Angeles with a seven-hitter. The victory reduced Cincinnati's "magic" number to four. Any combination of four Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats will give the Reds a second consecutive National League West pennant.

Braves 5, Astros 3
Dave May keyed a four-run eighth inning with a two-run triple after Jim Wynn had tied the score with a pinch home run, giving Atlanta its victory over Houston. Phil Niekro, 15-11, was the winner.

Mets 4, Cardinals 1
Jerry Koosman of New York became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career when he stopped St. Louis with a four-hit, 13-strikeout performance.

Expos 4, Cubs 3
Jose Morales set two major league pinch-hitting records with a three-run double in the seventh inning that gave Montreal its victory over Chicago. Morales' pinch-hit appearance was his 74th of the year, one more than the mark set by Vic Davalillo of St. Louis in 1970. The hit was his 25th as a pinch-hitter, passing the record of 24 set by Dave Philley of Baltimore in 1961 and equaled by Davalillo in 1970.

Wake Swimmer Dies In Pool

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A freshman member of the Wake Forest swimming team died during team practice in the college pool Thursday and an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Steve Shults, 18, of Wethersfield, Conn., was pulled from the water by a teammate, Allen Lydick. He said Shults could not have been under the water for more than six seconds.

Coach Leo Ellison began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and cardiac massage immediately on the pool deck, a spokesman said. Dr. Howard Jemison, director of health services at the university, also was summoned and gave treatment.

A rescue medical team headed by Dr. Lew Stringer arrived and worked for more than an hour, the spokesman said, with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, oxygen, cardiac massage and other treatment but there was no response.

Shults was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shults. He visited Wake Forest last summer with his father, who is the Trinity College baseball coach.

Although young Shults had not received his swimming team physical examination, he had been examined at his home before leaving for school and had been cleared for physical activity, according to medical records at the school infirmary.

Shults was a sprinter as well as a swimmer, although he was not attending Wake Forest on an athletic scholarship.

The Wake Forest swimmers had just begun practice about 4:30 p.m. Thursday and after warmup drills they were starting a 1,000-yard swim when Shults collapsed.

"I saw him sliding down," said Lydick who was swimming beside Shults. "I thought he was ducking to avoid a lap. But when I made my turn, I realized he was in trouble and I pulled him out. He couldn't have been under the water more than six seconds."

Stringer said the rescue team "tried every measure" but got no response. The physician added that he could not determine the cause of death but he quoted witnesses as saying Shults could not have drowned because he was pulled from the water so quickly.

Bryan Trotter, of the New York Islanders in the National Hockey League, has been named the outstanding rookie of the NHL. He will receive the Calder Memorial Trophy next winter.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to take care of annoying chores requiring attention. Do them in an unobtrusive manner so that you do not have others around you feeling you are martyr. Evening can bring family joys.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your foundational security and know what should be done to make it better and more efficient. Wait until evening to entertain.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use more care in motion and avoid trouble. Avoid making unkind or unwise remarks. You wind up being hurt if you do.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get financial matters in good order and do not get into any agreements where you have to spend large sums of money. Improve budget and be happier. Avoid one who tears you down.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do not look to friends for help today since they have problems of their own. Rely on your own efforts. Evening is best time for social gatherings.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of chores that are hard to do during the working week. You have a credit affair that needs handling immediately.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some new plan you have in mind needs more study before you can put it in operation. A new acquaintance can get you into trouble if you permit it now. Use care and caution in all you do and say.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to do to whatever improves your position in the community. Come to a better understanding with bigwigs who can be helpful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time out today to review some plan you have for the future. Evening could bring a new contact who can be of real help to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have responsibilities that need tending. Use the most efficient means to dispose of them quickly. A loved one is in a bad mood.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Avoid arguments with associates during day when they are apt to be in an irritable mood brought on by atmospheric conditions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to achieve more harmony with those you come in daily contact with, otherwise you could lose a valued associate. Be more efficient in performing regular work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Budget your money when it comes to entertainment. Do not argue with others. Show more affection for a loved one and improve relations.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have to be taught early to deal with others in a more objective way. Otherwise your child could easily be hurt and resort to emotionalism that could lead to big trouble and little success. Slant education along lines that are commercial in nature.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Honor Achievements

DENVER, Colo. — Herman G. Moeller of the East Carolina University Department of Social Work and Correctional Services was presented the E. R. Cass Correctional Achievement Award by the American Correctional Association at its 1976 annual meeting here.

The award, one of three granted annually to outstanding professionals in the field of corrections, was also presented this year to Allen Breed, Director of the California Youth Authority, and Louis L. Wainwright, Secretary of the Florida Department of Corrections.

Prof. Moeller was cited as "a living example that a correctional practitioner can become an outstanding academician" and as "one who deserves this high honor awarded by his peers within the organization he has long and well served."

Currently vice chairman of the ACA Research Council, Moeller has also been elected to membership of the organization's Professional Education Council.

In addition, Moeller chairs the national Commission on Accreditation for Corrections which develops and applies standards for the voluntary accreditation of correctional institutions and agencies.

The Commission has released published standards for paroling authorities and is preparing standards for other elements of correctional services for publication within the next year.

Before accepting his faculty appointment to ECU in 1969, Moeller was Deputy Director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons. He has served as consultant to the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Section and was secretary of the U.S. delegation to the Fourth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Control, held in Japan in 1970.

NO ADDITIVES

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Agricultural engineer Roger Machmeier warns against using additives in septic tanks. Machmeier said some additives can plug the drainfield, where they do great damage.

The bidding:
South West North East
2NT Pass 4NT Pass
6NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

Here's a chance to brush up on your technique. Cover the East-West hands with your thumbs and see how you would fare in six no trump after the lead of the queen of hearts.

Your bidding has been simple and straightforward. With 23 points and a balanced hand, you correctly opened two no trump despite the fact you held a five-card spade suit. Partner's jump to four no trump was quantitative, asking you bid slam if you were maximum, and since you could hardly hold more, you promptly ventured to six. West leads the queen of hearts, and when dummy comes down you can count eight tricks outside the spade suit, so you need only four from that suit to land your slam. It would seem that, even if the spade finesse loses, you would still come to twelve tricks. However, if you won the opening lead in dummy and took the spade finesse, you are going to be disappointed. West wins, and when you later cash a high spade you find, to your dismay, that West shows out and East has a second trick in the suit. You have no way to make more than eleven tricks even if diamonds are 3-3.

True, you are rather unlucky. Most of the time, you will make six no trump even if the finesse fails, and if it succeeds you could easily make an overtrick. However, your main aim should be to collect twelve tricks and you have available a safety play which will increase your chances by about 3 per cent.

After winning the first trick in your hand, lay down the ace of spades. As the cards lie, this tells the king and you are home. But you are a favorite even if the king does not drop. Your next move is to enter dummy with a diamond and lead a spade to the jack. If it holds and West shows out, reenter dummy and lead another spade toward your hand. This line of play succeeds in all cases where the finesse brings home the contract and in one additional case—the one that actually exists in this hand. All you give up is the possibility of an overtrick. Never sneeze at those extra little chances you can give yourself.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Seasonably warm weather is due today for most of the nation. Cooler weather with rain is expected for New England. (AP Wirephoto Map).

By The Associated Press

Clear to partly cloudy skies prevailed Thursday night while a cold front was quietly slipping through North Carolina.

Temperatures early today ranged from 50s in the mountains to around 70 near the coast, with fog forming over many sections.

For the most part skies will be partly cloudy today, but with slow clearing during the day. The front was expected to move off the coast late this morning or early this afternoon, ending a chance of showers along the Outer Banks.

Drier and more stable air will slowly work into the state behind the front. Today's high temperatures will not change a great deal over those of Thursday and will be mostly in the 70s and low 80s.

Tonight's lows will range from the mid 40s in the mountains to the low to mid 60s over the Outer Banks. Sunny skies should cover the state Saturday with little change in temperatures.

Skies were mostly cloudy with widely scattered light showers across the state Thursday. The shower activity was confined mainly to the northern counties of the Piedmont and coastal areas. Raleigh-Durham measured .16 inch while Rocky Mount-Wilson and Cape Hatteras had .07 inch.

Ford, Carter Woo Italian Vote

By DAVE RILEY

Associated Press Writer

They gave an Italian-American dinner in Washington, and President Ford and Jimmy Carter both showed up. Ford got there for the appetizers and Carter arrived for dessert.

Both the presidential candidates got there in plenty of time to sing the praises of voters of Italian descent and the diners, with plenty of applause, appreciated the gesture.

But more dramatic gestures were being made in New York, where Ford's running mate, Sen. Bob Dole, was campaigning with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller, annoyed with a group of demonstrators, traded obscene gestures with them.

The vice president, campaigning with Dole in Binghamton, N.Y., jerked his middle finger skyward in the direction of the hecklers and, when asked about the gesture later, said, "I was responding in kind. That's what America is all about."

Asked if his actions had been dignified, Rockefeller said, "I don't think it's dignified to give the finger to the vice president of the United States."

Dole, asked if he would have responded similarly, said, "I have trouble with my right arm." He does not have use of his right arm because of war injuries.

Former New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson said after the incident, "I assumed it was a thumbs-up gesture, but he used the wrong finger."

Ford arrived at the Italian-American dinner about the same time as the antipasto, declaring that the Italian heritage is woven deeply into U.S. history "from Christopher Columbus ... to Vince Lombardi."

Carter, arriving in time for dessert about 45 minutes after Ford's departure, said he considered it unfair that no one with an Italian surname has ever sat on the Supreme Court.

It was a part of a continuing battle for the ethnic vote.

Ford and Carter were turning their attention to the South. Carter was heading South today, and Ford was planning a trip for next week.

In their struggle for the ethnic vote, both candidates made pitches last week for the Polish vote, with Ford declaring a Casimir Pulaski day to commemorate a Revolutionary War general of Polish descent.

Carter won praise Thursday from a number of Greek-American leaders after a discussion of the Cyprus issue, he wandered through an Italian neighborhood in Baltimore and earlier, in Michigan, spoke to a Mexican-American group.

Ford wound up his speech at the Italian banquet and rushed over to a Catholic Church where, sandwiched between two clergymen, he praised Spanish-Americans at a Mass for National Hispanic Heritage Week.

Carter's running-mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, also appeared before the Italian-American group.

In his speech to the Italian-Americans, Ford said Italian-American leaders have talked to him "about our need to encourage cultural pluralism without diminishing Americanism." And Ford said he agreed.

Earlier, speaking to the Greek-American leaders, Carter said there had been a lack of progress on the Cyprus issue, and that he found that "disappointing and dangerous."

He called for removal of all foreign forces from Cyprus and said Turkish armed forces must cease colonization efforts. He said the United States must pursue policies to assure that both Greece and Turkey remain U.S. allies, a part of NATO "and neighbors at peace with each other within the community of nations."

Ford's advisers in charge of his Southern strategy told him Thursday that his conservatism and a third party effort by Lester Maddox give the President a good chance to win in the South.

Ford said he received an "absolutely" reassuring report on his chances from 13 Republican state chairmen from the South. And he announced plans for a three-day tour of the Deep South beginning Sept. 25, two days after his first debate with Carter.

His adviser for Southern politics, Harry Dent, told Ford he should not rule out victory in Georgia, Carter's home state.

Dent, who also formulated the Southern strategy that helped elect Richard M. Nixon, said the Maddox campaign would help Ford.

Declaring that "the cotton South is blooming," Dent said the debates will be "very decisive" and will show Ford to be conservative while exposing "the liberal platform and stands of Jimmy Carter and when they see that, that does it in the South."

Ford cited his plans for the Southern trip as the best evidence that he plans "to seek full support from the states in the South." Plans call for Ford to campaign from a Mississippi riverboat to launch a campaign through Louisiana and the Gulf Coast area from Mobile to Miami.

Before appearing with Carter at the Italian-American dinner, Mondale campaigned in Chicago, where he spoke to truck drivers via citizens band radio as they sped along an interstate highway.

And in a speech in a Chicago slum area, Mondale said Republican administrations have ignored urban neighborhoods.

Such neighborhoods, he said, "have been a casualty of the Nixon-Ford administrations' total neglect of people's basic human needs and its total failure to honor our promises."

Karl Doenitz Is 85 Years Old

AUMUEHLE, West Germany (AP) — Former Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, Adolf Hitler's handpicked successor, has turned 85.

Doenitz, a World War I submarine commander who led the Third Reich in its final 23 days after Hitler committed suicide on April 30, 1945, "lives completely withdrawn," said Aumuehle Mayor Otto Preuss.

"He is inconspicuous, he is friendly but extremely reserved," the mayor said on Doenitz' birthday Thursday. "The grand admiral is esteemed by all."

Doenitz has lived in obscurity since his 1956 release from Spandau Prison, where he served 10 years for war crimes.

Credit Limited

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Officials at Appalachian State University have decided to strictly limit student credit after learning the school has $250,000 in uncollected student debts.

The new policy was approved this week by the board of trustees and will become effective next spring.

Ned Trivette, vice chancellor of business affairs, said the student debt "was allowed to build up because we wanted to help needy students." He said the university has "marked off" some of the money due as bad debts.

Trivette said the school had intended to begin limiting credit this fall but was unable to notify students of the change in time.

Trustees Chairman F.P. Bodenheimer Jr. of Greensboro suggested that a hearing board be set up where students who owe money could appear and explain their reasons for not paying.

"If they don't have a reason, they should be excused from attending the university," Bodenheimer said.

NO HOT WATER

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Although Texas has many natural springs none are considered "hot springs." In the state there are only five springs which run warm, having varying water temperatures ranging from 95 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit.
