

Priorities Agreed Upon For School Renovations

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

An outline of first priority renovation work and a number of suggestions to give more space at Third Street Elementary School were generally agreed upon at a workshop meeting of the Greenville City School Board Monday night.

Although official action cannot be taken at workshop meetings, a series of such meetings have been and will be held by school board members to give guidance to architect William (Bill) Friend and city schools Supt. Glenn Cox on Third Street renovation so that the school can meet standards and re-open for the 1977-78 school year.

Friend and Cox, reporting on current work, said that at this time concentration of efforts is on flooring work. School board members concurred in plans to remove cloakroom walls from individual classrooms to make the rooms larger.

Friend explained he had worked out a sequence of steps for work that will be based on a time period of November this year to June of next year.

The next steps, after completion of flooring work, will be work on gutters, windows, cross ventilation arrangements, toilet repairs, ceiling work, and extensive work on the electrical system. Much of the discussion centered on internal arrangement of classroom and other areas. "Space is the key to our entire planning," Cox noted. "We need to come up with the best utilization of space possible without additional construction at this point."

One suggestion, made by member Dr. James Bearden which other board members feel will be advantageous, is that of placing a double modular unit structure to the rear of the main building for use as a library.

Bearden cited the placement of a similar, attractive unit at the Allied School of Health building. By using a modular unit for a detached library which would be joined to the main building by a covered runway, this would leave the present auditorium free for continued use as an auditorium.

The kitchen-cafeteria area also was the subject of extended discussions and planning.

Suggestions included upgrading the kitchen by adding a dishwasher (at a cost of about $6,000) to bringing in food prepared at another school to serving meals in pre-packaged meals in disposable units. Board members concurred that further study needs to be given this subject before reaching a final decision.

Renovation work is being supervised by Friend and is being done on a cost plus basis, with the exception of replacement of present wooden windows by aluminum frame windows. "The windows can be let on bids," Friend remarked.

As planning now stands, 12 classrooms will be maintained, eight in the east-west wing and four in the north-south wing; the kitchen-cafeteria area will be maintained with improvements that can be made within this year's budget; a more compact administrative-teacher lounge area is being looked at favorably; an effort will be made to keep the auditorium intact for continued use; and toilet facilities will be improved.

Relative to the possibility of air conditioning in the future, Friend said that the fortunate factors present in the design of the building, with a pitched roof and generous space beneath the floors, would simplify installation of air-ducts. Mention was also made of the fact that an effective, inexpensive attic fan system of cooling is highly feasible at Third Street because of the ample attic space.

Cox and Friend both informed board members that all the work required to correct deficiencies which resulted in condemnation plus additional improvements

UF Kick-Off

The kick-off luncheon for the 1976-77 Pitt County United Fund drive will be held Friday at the Candlewick Inn.

Campaign chairman Don Parrott said that the various division chairmen and workers who will take part in the upcoming fund drive have been invited to attend the session.

Parrott said that the luncheon is scheduled for 12:15 p.m.

The United Fund board has adopted a fund goal for this year's drive of $248,418.45, compared with $222,044 for last year.

Conferences Begin For African Rulers

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian nationalist leader Jshua Nkomo is to leave for neighboring Botswana today for more talks with black African leaders on the changeover from white to black rule in Rhodesia.

Also headed for the Botswana capital of Gabarone are U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's top Africa aide, William Schaufele, and British Minister of State for African Affairs Ted Rowlands.

Rowlands will begin talks on setting up a constitutional conference demanded by the leaders of the five "front-line" black African states as the next step in transferring power from Rhodesia's 278,000 whites to its 6.4 million blacks.

Nkomo is considered a top candidate to be Rhodesia's first black prime minister. He denied Monday that the five "front-line" black African presidents who met in Lusaka, Zambia, last week, had rejected Kissinger's plan for a transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia.

"They have rejected nothing," he said, adding that all they had done was insist that Britain is the only power that can call a conference of Rhodesian leaders to work out a new constitution.

"What they did was remove serious flaws which were in the document that is generally known as the Kissinger plan," he said. Nkomo said the presidents had produced a "workable document" in their meeting, but he would not disclose what it contained.

The presidents of Zambia, Botswana, Zaire, Mozambique and Tanzania issued a statement after their meeting saying they would not accept the plan for an interim government in Rhodesia outlined by Prime Minister Ian Smith. Smith said the transition administration should be evenly divided between whites and blacks. The five black leaders said it must be dominated by blacks.

Rhodesian Foreign Minister P.K. van der Byl said the black leaders' statement showed "unreliability and irresponsibility." Smith said he was waiting for clarification from the United States and Britain.

The Rhodesian leader added that "it looks as though the Communists are calling the tune in those parts." But in Washington, William D. Rogers, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said African leaders had sent diplomatic messages emphasizing that they have not rejected the over-all British-American plan for resolving the Rhodesian crisis, although they disagree with details.

Rogers said the plan — which emerged after an 11-day round of shuttle diplomacy by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger — was still "on track." He stressed that the Africans had agreed to attend a conference without preconditions.

"The process is going to require major adjustments by both sides," Rogers told reporters.

The British mission, headed by Minister of State Edward Rowlands, moved up its scheduled departure by 24 hours because London views the situation as urgent.

Rowlands and other officials were to meet in Botswana with Presidents Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, Samora Machel of Mozambique, Agostinho Neto of Angola and Sir Seretse Khama of Botswana. Then the mission is to fly to Dar es Salaam to confer with President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania.

Cooperation by the five black presidents is considered vital to a peaceful transfer of power in Rhodesia. The five have supported the black nationalist effort against Smith's regime, and the guerrillas fighting in Rhodesia are based in Tanzania and Mozambique.

Index Signals A Slowing Economy

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to anticipate future economic trends fell during August for the first time since the current recovery began, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators fell 1.5 per cent in August, due primarily to a higher layoff rate in manufacturing and reduced business spending.

The drop is the first since February, 1975, and the largest since the 3.4 per cent decline a month before that.

A decline in the index is generally a signal of slower growth in the economy. The initial report is subject to substantial revision, so that the initial figures are not necessarily solid. Most economists consider a three-month drop or increase in the index to be necessary before they consider a change in direction for the economy is indicated.

But the index drop does come after three consecutive months of a rising unemployment rate despite growing employment and in the midst of what administration economists consider a lull in economic growth.

Administration economists have been contending that the lull is only temporary.

The August decline follows a five-tenths of 1 per cent advance in July and leaves the index, which is at 108 per cent of its 1967 average, precisely where it was in May.

The leading indicator index is composed of a dozen individual economic statistics selected for their position in the forefront of economic trends. Of the 11 statistics available in time for computation in the August index, eight pointed downward.

The layoff rate in manufacturing jumped to 1.5 per cent in August after registering a 1.1

per cent rate in July. The volume of contracts and orders for factories and facilities slipped 12.5 per cent after marking a 1.8 per cent advance the previous month.

Other factors contributing to the August decline were a shorter average work week for factory workers, a slower growth in assets held by consumers and business, a slower formation of new businesses, lower stock prices, a smaller amount of money in circulation after adjustment for inflation and a smaller volume of new orders received by manufacturers of consumer products and their suppliers.

Upward influences in the index were higher prices for key wholesale materials, a larger number of building permits issued and slower deliveries by suppliers.

Worried Over 'Antagonizing' Saudi Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The actions could lead to an increase in the world price of oil, the Saudi "have been holding the line" against an oil price hike within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the oil cartel.

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman John Sparkman of Alabama agreed Monday to have the committee reconsider its Maverick resolution after Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said the Ford administration was "greatly disturbed" about the impact on U.S.-Saudi relations if the missile deal is killed.

Most of those committee members who voted against the sale said they were concerned that the missiles might someday be used against Israel.

Meanwhile, the State Department and the Saudi Arabian embassy here denied a report Sunday by the Middle East News Agency that Saudi Arabia had warned American officials there would be a new oil embargo if Congress enacts legislation aimed at weakening the Arab boycott.

However, the report sparked sharp comments from some congressional figures. Acting Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., declared that Congress should not "react to threats or bow to pressure from the outside," and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said President Ford should personally reject "out of hand" any such threat.

Foreign Aid Bill Waiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5.1-billion foreign aid bill that is $684 million below President Ford's request is awaiting final congressional action in the Senate.

The House approved the appropriation for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 by a 216 to 155 vote on Monday.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., the bill's floor manager, said House-Senate conferees knocked out a House-passed prohibition against any U.S. aid for Angola or Mozambique.

But he said there is no money in the bill for either of those countries and that conferees provided there can be none unless Congress approves a specific request for some next year.

The bill includes $22 million for Spain under terms of the new treaty for keeping U.S. bases there.

The $5.1 billion includes $4.1 billion for traditional U.S. foreign aid. That is comprised of $2.7 billion for military aid and loans and $1.4 billion for economic aid.

The rest is for such related items as $80 million for the Peace Corps and for U.S. contributions to the three major international development banks.

Savage Lebanon Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Savage fighting was reported today as Syrian troops and tanks launched a new offensive to dislodge Palestinian guerrillas from mountain strongholds overlooking Beirut.

A flurry of Palestinian communiques said their antiaircraft batteries were in action against "unidentified enemy planes" making low passes over a string of seven Palestinian-held summer resort towns 12 to 18 miles east of here.

The top Christian militia commander said Christian forces had joined the Syrian attack and that the entire Christian enclave north of Beirut has been put on a state of alert.

Diplomats Are Calling On Ford

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to do some scene-setting for his second televised debate with Jimmy Carter by conferring at the White House with a procession of visiting foreign ministers.

Ford's next debate with Carter, in San Francisco on Oct. 6, will deal exclusively with foreign policy and national security issues. Between now and then, the White House will march a variety of foreign dignitaries into the Oval Office to show Ford dealing with world affairs.

Hans-Dietrich Genscher, foreign minister of West Germany, was to start the parade to the Oval Office today.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Italy and other unspecified nations would follow Genscher.

To help underscore his claim of on-the-job experience, Ford met with Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress at the White House today to discuss efforts to promote racial peace in southern Africa.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who returned from Africa last week after spearheading the attempted negotiations, briefed the lawmakers and, at a subsequent meeting, the full Cabinet.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said Kissinger "as a whole, gave an optimistic report on the progress being made. The plan is still in the making — in the negotiations."

LOCAL FIRM OMITTED?

Today in the mail we received a letter from the Greenville City Schools informing us that our child had passed the Selma Musical Aptitude Test and perhaps would like to enroll in the school band program. It contained information on instrument rental from W.C. Reid Music Company. This all was written on Greenville City Schools stationery. Also included was a second sheet entitled "The Typical Instrument Trial Plan" which was evidently written by that store promoting their three-month trial plan for renting band instruments. I would like to know why on school stationery, a Rocky Mount music company is being promoted when there is a store in this town that has a very competitive and excellent band instrument rental program. The deadline for voters to register for the Nov. 2 general election is drawing near, reminded Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt County Board of Elections.

Miss Register said that citizens who have not yet registered have until 5 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 4 to get their names on the books.

"New residents of the county who have not registered, as well as persons who have changed their names and addresses since the last election should make sure they are properly registered," she urged.

People who have had name or address changes need to fill out a short form that insures they are now registered in the precinct in which they live, Miss Register added. Also, persons who did not vote in the last general election need to check to find out if their names are still on the books.

Miss Register announced special extended registration hours "to give the widest possible assistance to voters." The Greenville office, located at 201 E. Second Street, will remain open on Thursday, Sept. 30, and Friday, Oct. 1, until 7 p.m., she said, and on Saturday, Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Regular weekday hours at the local office are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

She explained that voter registration may also be made at the following places in Pitt County: town hall during office hours in Ayden, Bethel, Fountain, Grifton, Grimesland and Winterville; Building inspector's office in Sheppard located at 123 N. Main Street; and at Fairview Memorial Library, East End Library, Carver Library and Library mobile unit in Greenville when the appointed registrar is on duty.

Special registration will be conducted throughout the county on Saturday, Oct. 2 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the following locations:

Arthur Fire Station; building inspector's office in Farmville; town halls of Ayden, Bethel, Fountain, Grifton, Grimesland, and Winterville; and in the Board of Elections office in Greenville.

Persons needing additional information should contact Miss Register at 758-4683.

Deadline Approaches For Voter Registration

Agency Gives Old Items New Life

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The kind of merchandise being offered at home tag sales was once given away to worthy organizations, observed William D. Harwood. He was, until recently, president of Goodwill Industries of Western Connecticut.

"The average home tag sale may check about $200 in a day, a spot check has shown, selling the kinds of things organizations used to get. Now Goodwill is asking for the leftovers of the tag sales, which it can sell by moving them to a broader population than one might get at a neighborhood sale," Harwood said.

The organization has had to find new ways to build sales. They have even rented tables at flea markets, tag sales and antique shows to sell their merchandise on occasion, he said.

There are 157 Goodwill Industries in the United States. A vocational rehabilitation agency, it serves persons who are physically handicapped, mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed, using the income in many ways. Sixty per cent of it might go to the handicapped who work in the industry. In Connecticut the remainder is used for such things as operating expenses, work adjustment programs, human service programs and the like that are in part supported by the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Salable things that are needed but do not come their way include clothing, especially children's, for which they've always had a big market, and dishes, pots and pans, as well as the toasters, irons and other things that might be recycled. Small appliances, jewelry and books are also in short supply these days.

"Those are the kinds of things people would give away so it has had its effect on the volume of material available because the things are sold easily — everybody has an interest in them," Harwood said.

The effect on sales has been significant since most of Goodwill's income comes from sales in its retail stores, which are a supporting arm of the agency. As a result, they've reprogrammed their sales displays and rearranged the floor structure in shops. They have tried to find out which items are popular in each store — because some stores need more clothing than others.

Although many people complain that they can't get organizations to pick up their contributions, Goodwill has collection centers placed in convenient sections of towns because it is the most economical way for them to pick up small items. Many agencies are not equipped to pick up big sofas or refrigerators. There is no market for certain refrigerators and they are cumbersome to handle. As for sofas, they are often unusable unless they are in good shape.

"When a sofa is offered, the contributor is asked whether it can be sold in its present condition. If so, it is picked up. Some items, such as pianos, are too difficult to handle. Most helpers on trucks are handicapped with disabilities that might be aggravated by such jobs," Harwood explained.

On the other hand, many Goodwills have upholstery shops and can repair sofas, even battered ones. In the Connecticut area they repair furniture and toasters and make minor repairs to lawnmowers and the like. Major repair work was given up mainly because the total cost had gotten completely out of hand, he said.

"For example, a lot of imported and mass manufactured furnishings do not stand up quality-wise. Much clothing made overseas is not as sturdy as our used American clothing and major repairs are often too time-consuming."

In the radio and television shop where five handicapped people work it has been found practical to repair only table televisions. People don't buy old consoles so Goodwill must watch how much time is invested in them, Harwood noted.

Their response to the growth of tag sales has been to divide their products into three categories: there are antiques and near antiques. There is the regular Goodwill merchandise that the majority of shoppers is seeking — household wares, shoes and so on. There are the objects that are called "as is" — items that need repair but have some marketable value — a metal outdoor chair that is rusty, "too good to throw away, but not too bad to fix up," so it can be sold as it is. Ditto pots and pans, a very popular category in the world of recycled household effects.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There was an impassioned plea by Maryland's Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., recently to save the brown lunch bag.

"That brown bag had its imperfections," he acknowledged. "Some kids carried roast beef, others had peanut butter. I have no way of knowing if all those brown bags contained 'nutritionally adequate diets,' but I do know those brown bags and those lunch pails symbolized parental love and responsibility."

Do you know what my kids called all that parental love and responsibility, Senator? Leftovers. And they traded them at lunchtime for a breath mint and a picture of Johnny Bench. I gave some of the best years of my life threading toothpicks into little napkins and transplanting raisin eyes to little circles of bread only to see the same lunch in a solid state when the kid cleaned out his locker at the end of the year.

Just when it seemed I was at last to be replaced by the school hot lunch, my husband decided to brown bag it.

I didn't take packing his lunch seriously until one day through the mail I received a 30-page cookbook on packing lunches facetiously called "How To Make It In The Sack" and authored by Jane George.

I thumbed through it to read such practical luncheon suggestions as papaya stuffed with chicken salad (we didn't serve anything that fancy at the wedding) and skish kebabs of cold roast beef, cherry tomatoes and marinated mushrooms.

"She's kidding," I said slapping a piece of bologna between two slices of frozen bread. Then I read a chapter where she really got my attention. "One lazy day you hear that some gorgeous girl with deep cleavage has slithered into his office for work and they hired her!"

"There is an enemy out there. It's time to reconnoiter, get out of the rut, sharpen your wits, shorten your bra straps and put intrigue back in the sack."

"While you are knee-deep in mush in your faded plisse nightgown, she's in front of the mirror."

I didn't for a moment believe any of it but that day I put buttermilk pecan chicken, tomato salad and lemon nut bread in my husband's brown paper bag.

Maybe the Senator is right. Maybe that little brown bag is the last chain that links a child (or a husband) to his home. I know this. I'm not going to let another bag get ahead of me.

Cooking Is Fun

ZUCCHINI CARROTS
A vinaigrette sauce is used on the hot vegetables.

1 quart thinly sliced pared carrots
1 1/2 cups boiling water
Salt
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced zucchini
1/4 cup olive oil
3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
White pepper

In a medium saucepan, covered, boil the carrots and the water with 1/2 teaspoon salt until partly tender — about 5 minutes; add the zucchini and continue cooking until both vegetables are tender — about 5 minutes longer. Drain. Beat together the oil and vinegar with 3/4 teaspoon salt and pepper and stir into the vegetables. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

OES Officials Visit In Grifton

GRIFTON — The official visit of Emma Lou Johnson, Worthy Grand Matron, and G. Thomas Bullard Jr., Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, was held at the Grifton Masonic Lodge last week.

The visit was hosted by Grifton Chapter No. 134 OES, Neuse Chapter No. 347 and Grimesland Chapter No. 350. Prior to the meeting, a dinner honoring the distinguished guests was held. The Worthy Matron's theme and colors were used in decorations.

John L. Glenn Jr., Worthy Patron of Grifton Chapter, served as master of ceremonies. The invocation was by Phil Shoulars, Past Patron of Neuse Chapter. Jean Jackson Creech, Worthy Matron of Grifton Chapter, gave the welcome and the response was given by Helen C. Mason, Grand Warder.

Introduction of distinguished guests was by Louise J. McCotter, who was the first Worthy Matron of Grifton Chapter when it was constituted. Special music was by Stella Long of Neuse Chapter and a reading was given by Jean Creech.

Presentation of gifts to the Worthy Grands were by Shelby Tyndall, Worthy Matron, and Johnny Ervin, Past Patron of Neuse Chapter. The benediction was given by Latta Smith of Neuse Chapter. Following the dinner, guests and members assembled in the lodge room.

The chapter was opened with Worthy Matron Jean Creech and Worthy Patron John Glenn presiding. Formal introductions and proper courtesies were accorded the Worthy Grands, Associate Grant Matron Glenn Whitfield Garner, Grand Warder Helen Mason, Grand Chaplain Rowell Lane, Grand Electa Edna Bullard, Grand Representatives, District Deputy Grand Matrons and Patrons, Worthy Matrons and Patrons, Past Matrons and Patrons.

Following the addresses of the Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron they were presented honorary memberships in the three host chapters. The grands both expressed thanks for all courtesies extended them. A social hour followed in the dining hall. The refreshment table was covered with a white cutwork cloth Williamston, Trenton, Cove City, Mount Olive, Chadbourne, Cape Fear and a guest from South Carolina.

Dear Abby

Not All Animals as Smart as Mink

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Can animals count? I used to see horses in the circus obey their trainers by picking up their feet and putting them down according to the number the trainer called out. My father said there was some kind of trick to it. But listen to this. We raised a female mink on our farm last year and she had a litter of five. Every day at feeding time this mother mink would make five little patties from her scoop of ground meat, then call her offspring to eat. She never made six, and she never made four. Always five. So wouldn't you say she could count?

TERRI

DEAR TERRI: I would say that your mother mink could indeed count. But not all animals are as smart as the mink. What other female owns a mink coat as long as she lives?

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "Pat") is a musician, and he works evenings. We have a small child, but occasionally I like to see Pat work, so I get a sitter, and Pat's Uncle Joe and Aunt Mae take me. (They're about the age of my parents.)

One night Uncle Joe and his wife took me to hear Pat, and when they brought me home, Uncle Joe walked me to the door. It was quite dark, so he grabbed me and kissed me hard on the lips, and then he pinched my behind. I was so shocked I dropped my key!

The next day as soon as Pat left for work, Uncle Joe came over to see me. I didn't like the look in his eye, so I picked up the baby and went into the bathroom with her and locked the door behind me.

He kept calling to me to open the door, but I wouldn't do it. Finally he left.

Abby, I don't know whether to tell my husband or not. I don't want to put a strain on their relationship, but I really am afraid Uncle Joe will make a habit of coming over, and he frightens me.

BIG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Tell Uncle Joe if he comes over again while Pat is gone, you will tell Pat EVERYTHING. Then follow through.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is all the time bringing home nuts, candy and gooey pastry even though he knows how hard I'm trying to lose weight.

He's lucky. He can eat anything and not gain an ounce. If I just LOOK at a piece of candy, I gain a pound.

My husband has made dirty cracks about how fat I am, so why does he tempt me with all that fattening stuff? He knows I don't have any willpower.

NO HELP FROM HUBBY

DEAR NO HELP: He tempts you because: (1) Consciously or unconsciously he wants you to be fat. (2) He's unkind and inconsiderate. (3) He enjoys sweets and figures that your lack of willpower is your problem, not his.

PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP) — At first glance, Patricia Hearst's new home seems to be a modern college campus, with casually dressed young men and women lounging on patios, sunbathing on lawns or reading on dormitory steps.

But surrounding it is a tall wire mesh fence, designed to make sure that the forgers, air pirates, drug smugglers and bank robbers don't leave the relaxed surroundings before their graduation date.

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons on Monday assigned the newspaper heiress to the two-year-old Federal Youth Correction Center at Pleasanton to serve her seven-year bank robbery sentence. She becomes eligible for parole in 16 months.

Prison spokesman Bill Meko says that after a sort of freshman orientation, Miss Hearst will be given a private, air conditioned room in one of the four dormitories. Each room is equipped with a bed, desk, dresser and toilet. She can decorate any way she wishes and is responsible for keeping it clean. The room has a window without bars.

Miss Hearst has been in a hospital room here since her sentencing last Friday.

She was taken Monday to the Alameda County Courthouse for secret testimony before a grand jury investigating her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping. She was expected to identify Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris as two of her abductors, as she did during her bank robbery trial.

Another witness was Miss Hearst's former fiancé, Steven Weed, who was with her at the time of the kidnaping.

Prison officials here say Miss Hearst will be treated just like the other residents of the 10-acre "campus," as the staff calls the prison.

The progressive facility is designed to be as close to the outside world as possible, mainly so prisoners can readjust smoothly to society when released.

The former University of California coed can wear street clothes.

In her spare time, she will have access to the dorm recreational facilities — television, shuffleboard and billiards.

"She will get a job assignment," Meko says. "It might be, for example, in the kitchen, as a clerk in the business office, in the mechanical services as a plumber or electrician, depending on her interests and our needs."

"If she wanted, she could take college courses here to continue her education or correspondence courses."

And she will be free to socialize with the 100 men and 135 women residents between the

Polling C-Of-C On Election Of Board

A referendum is being conducted among members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce to poll opinions concerning the election of members of the Greenville City School Board, according to Ed Walker, vice president of the Chamber.

The State and Local Affairs Committee of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce recently voted to ask the Board of Directors of the Chamber go on record as endorsing the election of the Greenville City School Board and present this decision to the Greenville City Council.

"It is my understanding that the Greenville City Council had asked for input concerning the issue from the Chamber. We felt that the entire membership should be given an opportunity to voice its opinion before the Board sets a policy. After the poll is taken, the Board of Directors will present the decision to the City Council," Don Collier, president of the Chamber of Commerce said.

"The Chamber of Commerce is interested in total community development in government. We are concerned with governmental matters that affect our livability and profitability such as the schools. The chamber is vitally interested in education and we have an Educational Committee that will meet with local school officials," Ed Walker said.

"The deadline for the referendum is 12 noon Wednesday and the board of directors will present its policy to the City Council probably at its next meeting," Walker said.

Caught With A Bicycle Showing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dion S. Bailey was caught with his bicycle showing, police said.

Two FBI agents were rushing to the scene of a reported bank robbery on Wilshire Boulevard Monday morning when they saw Bailey's bike hanging out the back end of a taxicab, said Police Sgt. Ronald Bear.

Employees at Los Angeles Federal Savings and Loan had reported that their masked bandit escaped westbound pedaling a 10-speed bike and carrying $4,065 of their money.

Bailey, 27, of Los Angeles, hailed a cab not far from the bank and put his bike in the trunk, Bear said.

When they arrested him, the FBI agents also took as evidence a Halloween mask and a pellet gun, the sergeant added. He was booked by police for investigation of robbery.

Revenue-Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees reached agreement early today on a bill providing $25.5 billion in federal revenue-sharing funds to states, cities and counties through 1980.

The compromise bill is expected to be given final approval by the House and Senate this week. It then would go to President Ford, a supporter of revenue-sharing.

Ford's expected signature would assure governors, mayors and county officials a welcome prize only a few weeks before the Nov. 2 election. Although revenue-sharing is not universally accepted among federal officials, it is a big favorite among state and local governments because it provides revenues without the necessity for tax increases.

The bill would remove most of the few strings attached to the federal grants but tighten antidiscrimination provisions in the five-year-old revenue-sharing program.

Revenue-sharing has provided $30.2 billion to states, cities and counties over the last five years with few restrictions on its use. The payments are made to about 38,000 local government units. On the average, revenue-sharing provides 3 to 4 per cent of these governments' total revenues.

Without an extension, the program would die on Dec. 31.

British Pound Sinking Lower

LONDON (AP) — The ailing pound hit all-time lows against the dollar and other major currencies today and Laborite Prime Minister James Callaghan declared that Britain must get back to a system of profits, high productivity and balanced books.

After falling 1 1/2 cents to $1.6665 before Callaghan's speech to the Labor party conference, sterling plunged an additional 1 1/2 cents to the $1.6510 level before recovering to around $1.6550.

That was more than 2 1/2 cents below Monday night's record low closing of $1.6810.

One dealer said foreign exchange investors were disappointed that Callaghan did not announce any firm measures to counteract the slide of what was once the world's stablest currency. A burst of selling from Switzerland was reported by another dealer as a factor in the collapse.

"Speculators are trying to take the pound down as far as it will go," said one dealer. The pound's decline dragged down prices on the London stock exchange and by midday the Financial Times industrial index was down 12 points at 332.6.

Addressing 1,000 delegates to his party's annual conference at Blackpool, Callaghan said Britain can no longer borrow from abroad to pay for social welfare at home.

"We will fail," he said, "if we pay ourselves more than we produce."

For too long, he said, Britain has been living on borrowed time by not grappling with these fundamental problems.

Confidence in the British currency has been drained by record-high unemployment, a huge balance of payments deficit, 13.8 per cent inflation, and concern that Callaghan's efforts to moderate wage demands will falter.

"The cozy world which we were told would go on forever, where full employment could be guaranteed by a stroke of the chancellor's pen, cutting taxes and deficit spending, is gone," Callaghan said, answering party calls for the Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey to alter his economic strategy.

Britain's 6.2 per cent unemployment, with nearly 1.5 million persons out of work, is "quite simply and unequivocally caused by paying ourselves more than the value of what we produce," said Callaghan.

Puts Emphasis On Home Development

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Parents and the home are more important in a child's development than teachers and school, says a pediatric researcher.

"We have a tremendous amount of evidence that the parents' involvement with the child has the greatest impact on his achievement, curiosity, persistence — even his creativity," says Dr. Earl Schaefer.

He is senior investigator at the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center. Findings of the center, named for a late University of North Carolina president, indicate that the most important place parents can help children learn is in the home. And that children who do best in school are those whose parents see themselves as their child's most important teachers.

Schaefer and his staff now are working on ways schools can help parents teach children.

"In the past, the objective has been all on getting parents to support the schools, when it should be the other way around," he said. "Schools should be supporting education in the home."

"Schools perform a very necessary role in a child's education. But we give schools too much blame for child failure, and we give them too much credit for child success."

"This country is committed to equal educational opportunity. I think this project is telling us that we'll never achieve equality of educational opportunity by trying to provide it in the classroom alone."

His comments came in a recent interview with the Winston-Salem Journal.

The study is included in a three-year project paid for by a $231,112 grant from the U. S. Office of Child Development.

Raleigh Hotel To Close Doors

RALEIGH (AP) — The Carolina Hotel, which has served Raleigh for 47 years, plans to close its doors.

Officials of Milner Hotel Co. said Monday the firm would not renew its option with the city to operate the hotel when the lease runs out Thursday.

The city will regain full control of the nine-story hotel, most likely using several floors for municipal offices and sealing off the remaining floors.

Company president E. Ronald Milner said the hotel was not making money because of low occupancy.

The city is expected to operate the hotel for a week or two to give the residents time to find new lodging.

He explained that the grant will be used to train 30 target area individuals in pre-vocational and vocational classes in three centers; assist 100 families by providing equipment and supplies for home gardens; and to provide outreach, referral, follow-up and transportation.

Lots Of Presidential Rhetoric

The first of a series of debates between Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter and GOP President and candidate Ford didn't produce any sensational insight into the two men's thinking; it was, however, more spirited than we expected.

Carter and Ford met at the Walnut Street theatre in Philadelphia. The president seemed relaxed and at ease as if involved in a presidential news conference, something he has done many times.

Carter, on the other hand appeared a little nervous at the outset but soon warmed up to the attack.

Both men, in a presidential sort of way of course, took shots at the other—Carter at Ford's record while in the White House and Ford at Carter's while he was governor of Georgia.

They both engaged in political rhetoric. Carter said, "I owe the special interest nothing. I owe everything to you, the people of this country."

And Ford came back, "A president shouldn't promise more than he can deliver; a president should deliver everything he has promised."

And, "A government big enough to give us everything we want is a government big enough to take from us everything we have."

Both men weathered a 25 minute interruption in the debate which was caused by a sound failure. They maintained their standing positions at podiums. When the sound returned after much confusion, Carter finished the answer to his final question and both candidates then offered their final summations. To us, that's poise.

Two more debates are schedule for Oct 9 and Oct 22. We think there was enough fire in the first one to bring the public back for the next two presidential candidate appearances.

Inflation Tempers The Tobacco Prices

As the season moves along tobacco seems to be selling very well particularly on the Eastern markets of the Bright Belt.

Friday, for instance, Farmville sold 354,108 pounds for $451,712 to average $127.56. Greenville sold 956,391 pounds for $1,188,898 to average $124.31.

These are clearly record prices, although they are tempered somewhat by the effects of inflation.

The entire belt for the season was averaging $111.70 through Friday. Good tobacco still seems to be highly in demand and that is what is saving the tobacco farmer.

Selfish In Funds Debate?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Public college administrators are trying to scare help away from private college students, and the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina is "selfish," charges former Gov. Terry Sanford.

Now president of Duke University, a private university, Sanford has jumped strongly into the running debate over whether private colleges ought to receive more state funds.

They should, he believes, and that is the only way to save the freedom of choice for students, and freedom of action for the schools which a dual university system presents.

receive a grant never larger than half what the State pays for students in public colleges... it should be $1,000."

Presently, the payment is $400. But Sanford argues that taxpayers subsidize students at public colleges to the extent of $2,000 per year. That is why private colleges with low tuition can continue to grow and expand, while private colleges suffer, he said.

There are empty places at many private schools, and while enrollment in undergraduate work has increased by nearly 34,000 students in the past 10 years, Sanford said, enrollment in private colleges and universities increased only four students — up from 24,635 to 24,639.

Sanford believes the obstacles raised to state assistance are "straw men, fashioned by honest and good citizens whose primary interest, not surprisingly, is a public college or university."

Payments are not direct state aid, but scholarships for North Carolina students who want to attend a private college within their home state. It is, he said, a "tuition equalization payment."

William A. Johnson, chairman of the Board of Governors, recently raised the issue of whether such state aid might lead to loss of independence for the private schools. Sanford spoke to that.

"Governing boards of private colleges are not likely to be less responsible and meticulous than State administrators. State government and the members of the N. C. General Assembly do not want to take over direction of private college. They believe in the values of independence and duality."

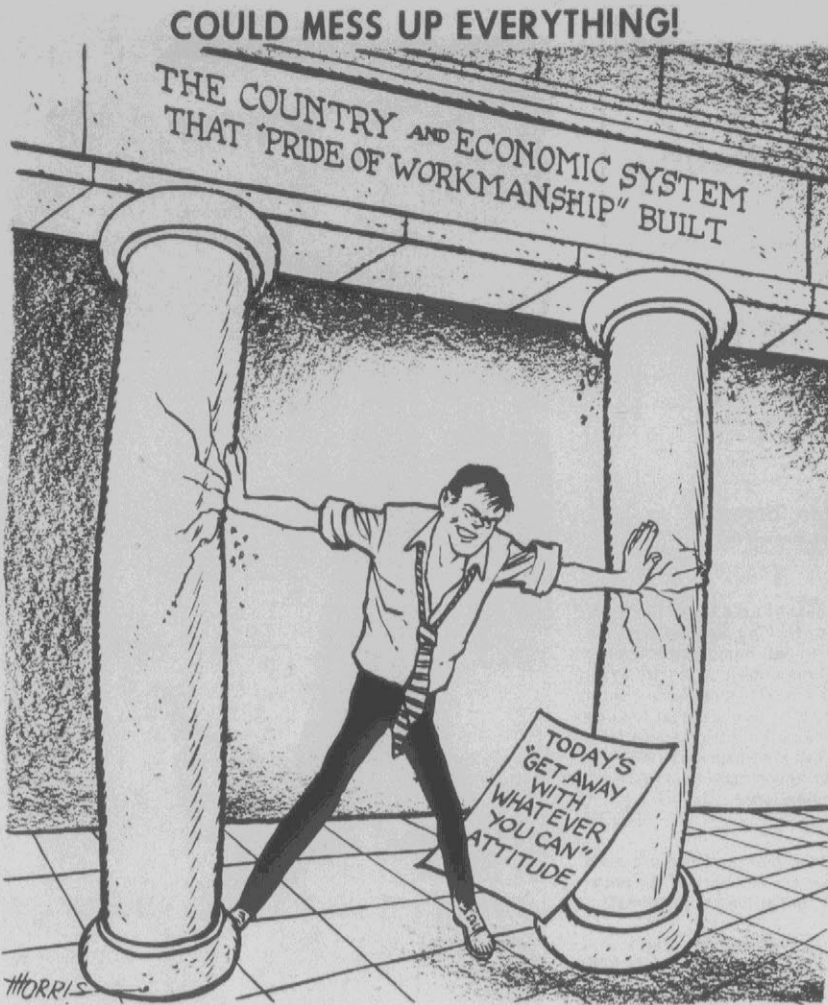

Self-Protection
Who is worried about accountability? Such talk comes from "the administrators of the public colleges who hope this will scare away help for the private college student," Sanford said.

"It is not unnatural for representatives of public institutions to seek as much tax money going elsewhere... When a student chooses to go to a State college or university it costs the taxpayers about $2,000 per year... When a student chooses to go to a private college, it saves the taxpayer money... Sanford said state law requires that the University Board of Governors encourage economical use of the state's resources, and use private institutions to the best interests of the State. The private college resources are not being used, and that is fiscally regrettable, he thinks.

"I am beginning to think it was a mistake to give this authority to the re-organized Board of Governors. In all candor, they have not lived up to the implications of this statute... they intend to allow private colleges to founder, to languish with empty places which... many young people prefer to occupy," Sanford said.

That is "neither an economical use of these educational resources, nor a utilization of them in the best interest of the state. It is, to be blunt, selfish," he said.

Congress, Heal Thyself!

It was the fashionable thing, a few years ago, to complain about the "imperial presidency," and to urge that the legislative branch be strengthened. Editors, columnists and professors of political science were calling on Congress to restore a balance. The trouble is, Congress listened.

The results are appalling. While the executive agencies have been putting on weight the Congress itself has come down with a bad case of bloat. The Senate has two enormous office buildings and is erecting a third. The House has three and is planning a fourth. The morning and evening traffic jams on Capitol Hill surpass the peak-hour frenzies of Manhattan. Whatever the problems of the legislative branch may be, they are not problems of money or staff.

Senator Jesse Helms, North Carolina's Republican gadfly, has been pulling together some figures. His particular concern is the proliferation of committees and subcommittees. These have multiplied like hamsters. By Helms's count, the Senate alone has 174 subcommittees. The House has 170 subcommittees, 25 of them created in the current Congress. It is only a matter of time, says Helms, before the subcommittees spin off subcommittees of their own.

Senator Dale Bumpers, the Arkansas Democrat, also is raising cries of alarm. Bumpers recently commented upon the skyrocketing increase in appropriations for running the Senate. These have more than doubled over the past six years, from $55 million in 1970 to $127 million in 1976.

The picture is substantially the same on the House side. In 1976 the figure was $229 million. For fiscal '77, the House last week hit the taxpayers for $241.7 million. Six years ago the House had a payroll of 6,767 persons. The current payroll lists 10,481.

In this jungle of committees and subcommittees, the members rush from tree to tree. Says Helms: "We have more meetings and hearings to attend than is humanly possible." He himself is a member of two standing committees, one joint committee, one select committee and eight subcommittees. The typical senator serves, after a fashion, on 14 subcommittees. Some senators serve on 20.

The House has a similar confusion. Last year the standing committees of the House held 895 meetings; the subcommittees held 3,075. Even the most conscientious members cannot keep up with the crowded schedule.

A number of senators — Helms and Bumpers, Moss of Utah, Goldwater of Arizona — are whacking away in the upper chamber. Various proposals are being advanced, on both sides of the aisle, to consolidate committees and to reduce the number of subcommittees. Under one plan, which seems to be attracting bipartisan support, the Senate's 31 committees would be cut back to 12. Each senator would be limited to two committee assignments. The number of subcommittees would be cut to perhaps 80 or 100.

Any such reform, of course, would demand an exhibition of sacrificial statesmanship not often seen on the floor of either house. A chairmanship carries perquisites; it embraces the power to hire

Prizes Go To Losers

Do you board the wrong plane, get on the wrong freeway, put on one red sock and one blue, brush your teeth with shaving cream?

Well, then, loser, they're holding a special attraction just for you at Hollywood Park this week. It's called Loser's Week, and all you have to do is pick the last-place horses in the Western Harness Racing meet each night to win.

But even if you win you lose, because the prizes being offered aren't exactly things you'd rush right out and buy, even on sale.

For example, tonight's prize is a $25 gift certificate for use only toward a loan at former boxer Art Aragon's bail bond agency.

If you're a winner on Wednesday night the prize is a Thanksgiving Dinner for two at the Midnight Mission, not one of Los Angeles' classier dining establishments.

Another prize is a swine flu shot and the live swine to go along with it.

And the grand prize: a condemned two-bedroom house in the path of the yet-to-be-built Century Freeway. The winner must move the house to a location not in the path of a proposed freeway, the cost of which has been estimated at $519.07.

However, the grand prize winner may also accept a check for $519.07 in place of the Five nations were joined today in the break-up of Europe's gold bloc and the march toward currency adjustment led off by France under the protection of a "monetary equilibrium" agreement with the United States and Great Britain.

While the socialist government of premier Leon Blum won a majority in its first parliamentary test of the French devaluation program, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Latvia and Greece were listed as embarking on new currency stabilization programs.

Meanwhile from Moscow came denials by the Russian state bank that sales of British pounds were intended as an effort to force down the British currency rate.

The series of financial developments sent the price of bar gold up to 75 cents an ounce on the London exchange.

An inspection of all eating places in Pitt County made recently by E. B. Roach and W. Murray Linker of the state Board of Health revealed that only nine rated grade A, 16 grade B, 19 grade C and eight places which received a score of less than 70 were ordered closed.

THE INSIDE REPORT

The Polish Loan Struggle

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The unprecedented intercession of a high Pentagon official into the world of international finance has intensified Ford administration pressure on the Export-Import Bank to grant a long-delayed machine tool loan for Communist Poland's General Motors truck plant.

A confidential letter from Deputy Secretary of Defense William Clements pitched hard on national security grounds for the nearly $200 million loan to finance Poland's purchase of American machine tools for a new GM plant in Poland. Clements' argument to Ex-Im Bank president Stephen DuBrul Jr.: the poor state of the U.S. machine tool industry threatens national defense.

With the bank's second three-month extension of its "preliminary" loan commitment to Poland due to run out Sept. 30, the logjam over interest rates delaying the big Polish loan has to break soon. Otherwise, Poland will turn elsewhere, probably to France or Japan, for the prized machine tool contract.

At issue is one of the most politically sensitive loans ever handled by the Ex-Im Bank. Poland asked for the loan almost one year ago, but it is still in doubt because of the bank's demand that Poland pay 9 per cent interest. Furthermore, opposition by organized labor to U.S. financing of overseas truck production adds another combustible political element.

But the Pentagon's intervention undercuts claims by opponents of the loan that transfer of machine tools abroad can be dangerous for U.S. defense. Clements wrote: "For some years, the machine tool industry, a major element of the defense industrial base, has suffered erosion of its relative position due primarily to the competition of members of the European Economic Community and from Japan."

Clements' letter was the first ever written to influence the Ex-Im Bank for reasons of national security. Combined with pressures from Capitol Hill and the White House, that would seem likely to generate a response, but it has not done so yet. Clements has not even received a reply to his letter, sent DuBrul more than four weeks ago.

Both administration and congressional pressures on DuBrul and the bank have been intensifying — faster than counter-pressures from the AFL-CIO labor lobbyists have warned Congress that the GM trucks to be built in Poland might be exported to the U.S. market, underselling domestic trucks because of low wages paid in Communist Poland.

That warning did not impress Congressmen from Midwestern districts where the bulk of this country's machine tool industry is based. In a private letter to DuBrul this summer, Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, warned that the bank "may be setting conditions that could jeopardize the $200 million in machine tool orders and 6,000 jobs which are at stake."

With unemployment close to 8 per cent, the prospect of 6,000 new jobs in the industrial swing states of the Middle West on the eve of the election has obvious political merit. But the Ex-Im Bank, under the direction of tight-fisted bankers, has so far flatly refused to reduce its interest rate below 9 per cent.

This has infuriated such influential Congressmen as Anderson and Democratic Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois. Their campaign against DuBrul has been quietly assisted by William Seidman, President Ford's

Other Editors Say Progress In Reverse

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

A college diploma does not mean as much as it did 10-15-25 years ago. If you're bright, can get along with your fellow man, and if you are willing to work you might be better off without that college degree. That high school diploma, though, is still most important, and for this reason when a person is awarded a high school degree in these modern times he should have satisfactorily completed all the requirements. Our public schools are graduating students by the thousands who really can't pass the work. It is sad for the system. It is sadder for the student. He thinks he is qualified to hold down a job when the school system has, in reality, made a mess of his life. It has promoted him from the early grades right out of high school in order to make room for students needed to take up the space. He has no education and no place to go. He has been led down the primrose path. How tragic.

Public school educators held a meeting in Denver last spring on this very serious problem. People from 32 states were on hand to compare notes on competency-based education. Virginia, Oregon and Arizona have already passed legislation requiring that high school seniors measure up to certain educational standards before they are awarded a high school diploma. Similar legislation is pending in Kansas, Pennsylvania and Tennessee. We know that North Carolina educators are concerned with the problem, and we hope they will work closely with our legislature to resolve it.

An employer should have the right to expect certain things of a high school graduate. When he can't read or write or understand arithmetic, the whole system stays fouled up. If my peers are correct, the chances for being proficient in "reading," "riting and "rithmetic" were better in the pot-bellied stove, one-room school house than in our modern facilities. Progress in reverse is no progress at all. Let's get to the heart of the matter and clear up a tragic situation.

more accessible to our customers. We must identify better with them and their needs. We simply must serve them better."

But all this came after Murphy related equally candidly and revealingly some views that seem to have wide acceptance in business today, and which, some might judge, colored his later admissions.

"What has prompted Americans to modify their traditional suspicion of government and to favor the costly and dangerous intrusion of the public sector into the private?" he asked.

Murphy said he didn't think educators were directly at fault, but he left little doubt that he believes they contributed to the public's low opinion of big business, which he said was the problem to be dealt with.

The idea that competition is passe really took root in the more numerous and crowded

PRAYER HELPS THE PRAYER-ER

If for no other reason, people should pray because of the effect it produces on the one who prays. Prayer not only has an effect upon the Great Power who can grant prayer, but it has a reflex action upon the pray-er himself.

We see this phenomenon in the story of the Transfiguration. We are not told that Jesus was petitioning God to grant him any particular thing. But we are told that as he prayed, his countenance was changed.

The disciples were amazed and almost terrified as they looked upon the transcendent loveliness that had come into the Master's face as a result of prayer.

In a more limited fashion, the same effect is produced upon people who pray today. There often comes an uplifting sense of gladness, a clear penetration into the meaning of certain bewildering situations, an all-pervading peace, a mighty experience of new power, a will to do all that life requires.

Business Disenchanching Many

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A large segment of the public is disappointed, dissatisfied and disenchanted with the everyday performance of American business, especially big business, said the speaker.

"There are the difficulties of mass production, wide distribution, heightened expectations, disinterested workers and other causes," he said. "You know them and I know them..."

He wasn't through. Credibility requires that business shouldn't ignore or excuse demonstrated instances of misleading advertising, misrepresented warranties, and other questionable practices, he said.

Moreover, "we cannot overlook the admitted wrongdoings of some of our country's largest and most respected corporations."

Business, big business, must be more attentive to customers. It must correct mistakes "promptly and fully."

The speaker: Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of General Motors Corp., world's largest manufacturing enterprise, at a meeting a few days ago of the Associated Industries of New York.

Murphy's speech was remarkably candid and expressive in delineating what he perceives to be the weaknesses of big business and the measures needed to correct them and thus avoid more government regulation.

The marketplace, he said, is a better regulator than government, but business has failed to communicate this to the people who are urging more regulation.

"To me, the lesson is clear: We in the community of bigger businesses must be campuses of the late 1960s, he said. This was the war-baby generation, "different students — different in that there were more of them, and different in that they came from a broader spectrum of our society."

Some of them were strongly influenced by the "competition is passe" views. "Others found in college an intellectual base for antibusiness attitudes they were developing."

Many of these students are today's teachers, Murphy said. "And their syllabus includes the antibusiness concepts learned in their college days, attitudes which have worked their way into the conventional wisdom of our society."

Question: Is the bad image of business a consequence of its irregularities or a result of biased communications that begins with college instructors?

Funds Await Energy Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — Now that the funds are available to come up with plans, North Carolina could get about $2.5 million in federal money to help hold down energy used in the state.

The state energy division, under the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, announced Monday it has been awarded $106,000 to plan a statewide energy conservation program in line with the federal Energy Policy and Conservation Act enacted last December.

The goal is to hold the state's energy consumption in 1980 to at least 5 per cent less than the Federal Energy Administration has projected that the state will consume that year. FEA projections are based on current use plus growth estimates.

Included in an energy program would be voluntary and mandatory methods of cutting energy use. Under the federal act, participating states are to implement energy saving policies such as setting thermal efficiency and insulation standards for new and renovated buildings, limiting lighting levels for public buildings and encourage car pooling and public transportation.

State officials say that if North Carolina's plan is approved, the state could get $2.5 million in the next three fiscal years to implement the provisions of the plan.

See College Enrollment 'Stabilizing' In 1980s

ATLANTA (AP) — College enrollment in most southern states will stabilize by the early 1980s, then begin to drop, a study projects.

The way to prevent the decline is to admit more high school graduates and old students into the college classroom, according to "The Fact Book on Higher Education in the South," published by the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB).

A major reason for the decline is the shrinking college-age population, the study said. The South, however, will have less of a decline because the region should continue to grow faster than the rest of the nation, the study said. Other findings included: The largest and most rapidly growing sector of public higher education in the South continues to be community colleges, where fulltime enrollments grew by one-third between 1973 and 1975.

The enrollment of black students increased 10 per cent from 1972 to 1974. It represents 13.3 per cent of the total.

The increase in the number of doctorages has slowed considerably, although the slowdown was not as great as the nationwide decline.

Despite increases between 1973 and 1975, private college enrollment continues to decline; it accounted for 15 per cent of the South's total in 1975. State appropriations for colleges increased 34 per cent from 1974 to 1976, a rate well ahead of the 28 per cent national increase.

The study also projects that: Of the southern states, only Florida will show a college enrollment increase of more than five per cent between 1980 and 1990.

Arkansas, Georgia, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and Texas are expected to have stable college populations between 1980 and 1985.

Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, West Virginia and Tennessee will have college enrollment decreases of more than five per cent during the same period.

Three Collisions In Greenville Monday

More than $1,200 property damage resulted from a series of three collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 1:20 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard near the Hooker Road intersection involving cars driven by Emmitt Junior Napier of 202 Allendale Dr., Walter Glenn Brown Jr. of Charlotte and Frank Scott Alderfer of Fayetteville.

Damage was estimated at $135 to the Napier car, $175 to the Brown auto and $300 to the Alderfer vehicle. No charges were made.

Gregory Vincent Moore of 505 Watauga Ave. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Ficklen Street.

Police estimated damage at $200 to each of the two vehicles. Ben Austin Bishop of 300 Queen Ann Rd. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of house if desired. The way to enter: pick the last-place finishers in the first six races each night. The person with the most losers is the winner. Or loser, depending on how you look at it.

Western Harness Racing officials dreamed up the gimmick a year ago and found it successful. This year anyone who picks at least one loser in one race will receive a pair of grandstand tickets good through Nov. 6 and on Oct. 2, the night of the grand prize contest, the first 11,982 patrons through the gates will get free Western Harness Racing T Shirts.

Asked the reason such an odd number of shirts would be awarded, a spokesman said, "that's how many we bought." Simple question, simple answer.

In case, you're wondering, last year's grand prize loser was Dan Crowley. He got a 1959 Edsel.

Terrorists See Selves As Political Prisoners

By ED BLANCHE Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — "The men behind the wire," 1,200 convicted terrorists in Northern Ireland's prison camps, are in virtual revolt because the British government has abolished their special category status.

The mainly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army's

"Provisional" wing and its two main Protestant rivals, the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) and the Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF), have vowed they will not surrender what they consider their "political prisoner" status without a fight.

The British plan is aimed at stripping the prisoners of the political respectability they claim is the reason for their acts. These range from assassinations and bombings to theft and intimidation.

The British plan also means that anyone convicted of terrorism from hereon will be placed in a cell, along with common criminals, instead of war prisoner-style compounds.

The fate of the men behind the wire—so named after a song written by an ex-prisoner—has long been an emotional issue among extremists on both sides in the province's sectarian conflict.

The prisoners are hailed as heroes by their coreligionists. The IRA, fighting to end British rule and Protestant domination in Ulster, consider their jailed men as prisoners of war. The Protestants, who want to remain British, view the Protestant prisoners as patriots fighting rebels opposed to Queen Elizabeth II.

Both sides are bitter about the government's campaign to portray their men as criminals and gangsters.

Since the British last December phased out internment without trial of suspected terrorists, which put more than 1,000 other men in prison, both sides have seized on the abolition of special category status as an issue to keep the war-scare in the province on the boil.

The extremists regard their so-called political prisoner status as a hard-won right. The system was introduced in mid-1972 by William Whitelaw, then Britain's Northern Ireland secretary, after several hunger-striking prisoners, demanding special treatment, nearly died. Whitelaw also did so to induce the IRA to declare a cease-fire. But the truce was short-lived.

Special category prisoners in the two main prison camps are kept in prisoner-of-war style compounds, rather than in the cells in which ordinary criminals, including rapists and muggers, are locked up.

Convicted terrorists are permitted weekly visits instead of the monthly visits the ordinary criminals are allowed. They get extra food parcels, are excused from prison work and can wear their own clothes instead of prison uniforms.

staff; chairmen get their names in the papers. Asking a senator or congressman to give up a chairmanship is like asking Idi Amin to give up his medals. Wholesale reform isn't likely, but desperation may drive the members to some modest improvement.

Helms has another idea. He is a great dreamer. He urges a revolutionary change that would permit members of the minority party to serve as subcommittee chairmen. This is heresy; it is the unthinkable thought. At present, only one Republican senator — Hruska of Nebraska — serves as a subcommittee chairman. The majority generously has permitted the venerable Nebraskan to head a subcommittee on federal charters, holidays and celebrations.

Helms's idea is sound. All senators are supposed to be equal. By excluding minority senators from every leadership position, the Democratic majority does violence to the constitutional principle of equal representation among the States. This violence, alas, is certain to continue. A little reform may be forthcoming; some small part of the blot may be reduced. But neither chamber has the will to stick to the no-starch diet required for a healthy body.

economic aide.

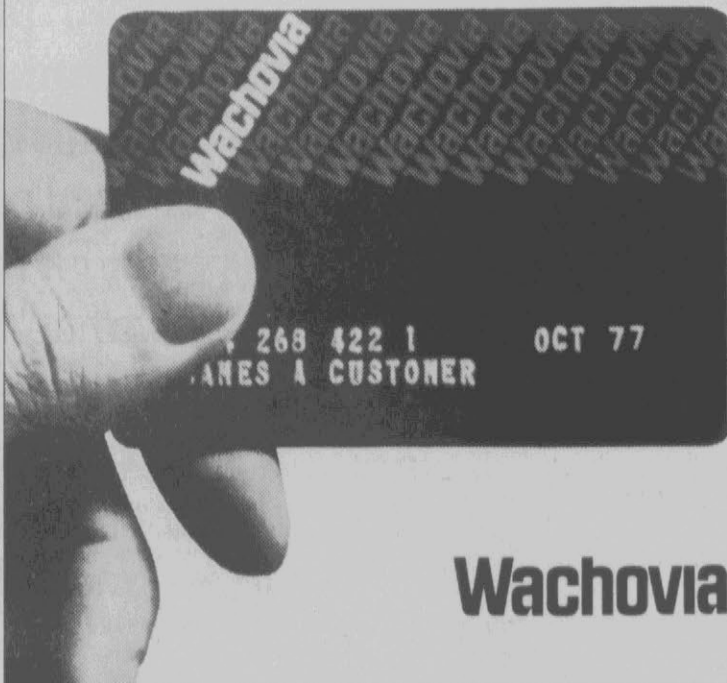

Anderson's midsummer letter to DuBrul warned that "failure to complete this (loan) would necessarily invite a congressional review of the decision making and policy structure at the bank." DuBrul replied with a long defense of 9 percent, claiming the bank's overall proposition to Poland was "competitive when all the facts are taken into consideration."

Such hard-nosed banking procedures under a federal charter calling for terms competitive with foreign banks have nothing whatever to do with the transfer of American technology that might conceivably aid a future enemy. Only a few of the tools needed for the new GM plant would even need an export license.

Far more important is what happens if the Poles refuse further compromise and, despite their obvious preference for U. S. tools, turn elsewhere. Poland's deputy prime minister for foreign trade, Kasimir Olszewski, visited the Ex-Im Bank here last week. Immediately thereafter, administration officials indicated the Warsaw government was looking toward France, Japan or West Germany, all with far lower interest rates, as the most probable supplier if the U.S. deal collapses.

That is precisely the fear of the Pentagon. The rapid buildup in machine tool capacity of Japan and Western Europe, plus the long recession here, has made a depressed industry out of the once dominant U.S. machine tool industry. To U.S. defense officials, that is more important than interest rates.

Come in and cash in on the 'fun money' you'll receive operating First Federal's new Prestige Machine during the introduction of the Key Account.

THE FIRST 2500 PEOPLE WHO COME IN FOR A FREE DEMONSTRATION WILL RECEIVE A FREE 'FUN MONEY' COUPON FROM THE PRESTIGE MACHINE THAT THEY CAN SPEND AT McDONALD'S.

Use your First Federal 'fun money' coupon for one of these free McDonald's products: Big Mac™ cheeseburger, hamburger, Filet-O-Fish sandwich, fries or soft drink. Offer expires December 31, 1976.

Banks use the money in your checking account to make money. Why shouldn't you do the same? Introducing First Federal's Key Account.

First Federal Savings proudly announces an entirely new concept in personal money management: the Key Account. It earns interest, retains your checking convenience, and provides six important services.

The Key Account is better than a checking account, better than a savings account — because it combines the best features of both. It lets you control every extra dollar of your cash to keep it hard at work earning 5% daily interest. And that includes the money you use to pay your bills and for day-to-day expenses.

Unlike a conventional savings account, your First Federal Key Account keeps your money readily available. Instantly. Around the clock.

Here's how the Key Account works.

Instant telephone access to your Key Account and checking account is one of the primary benefits.

When you open your Key Account at First Federal Savings, you retain your checking account at the bank. But instead of putting all or most of your salary into checking, and drawing it down slowly as you pay bills and handle other expenses throughout the month, put your paycheck into your Key Account instead.

Then, whenever you have a few bills to pay or need cash for daily use, just telephone a special First Federal Savings number. Tell us how much to transfer to your checking account to cover those bills or expenses. We'll transfer the money to the bank for you — and that includes any bank in the Pitt County area — and will send you a receipt showing your old balance, the transfer amount and your new balance. (We also record the phone call, for your further protection.)

An important part of the Key Account concept in cash control is that you can make these transfers to your checking account, or from your checking account back to your Key Account, just as often as you need to. Daily, if you like. Twice a week. Whenever you need only a few dollars or a sizeable amount for bill-paying from your checking account. There's never a charge for any transfer.

And you can phone us any time of day or night, any day of the week. If you call before 11:00 a.m., your transfer will be handled by your bank the same day. If you call later, it will be handled the next business day.

The main objective is to keep as much of your cash as possible working continually for you, earning 5% daily interest, in your profitable Key Account.

You receive a monthly statement of your Key Account that lists all deposits, withdrawals, transfers, interest earned and your present balance.

Your statement is issued automatically. You don't have to waste time coming in to have your account updated.

You get a personal Prestige Key Account Card that identifies you as a Key Account holder. It speeds up your personal transactions at your First Federal Savings office.

Out-of-town Prestige Emergency Cash and free travelers checks are extra benefits of your First Federal Key Account.

First Federal Savings will issue you free travelers checks before you go on a trip. If you need more cash along the way, you can get it from your Key Account—without charge—through any of 3,300 savings and loan locations across the nation.

Ford Finds Strength In South

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — From the Natchez to Mobile, President Ford tuned his campaign themes to the conservative Deep South, and his strategists said those overtures to Jimmy Carter's neighbors showed that the President can win there in November.

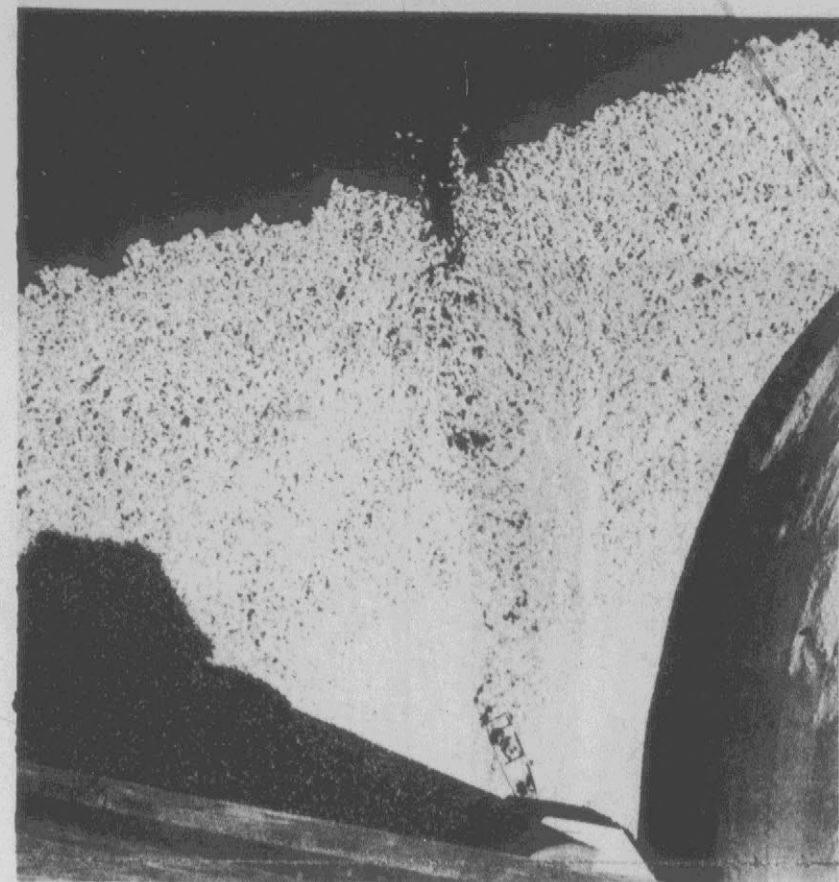

Ford said after his first Southern campaign swing that he expects to score some surprises in Southern states. A spokesman said Monday night the President thought his three-day trip was "just terrific." Ford talked of a strong, high-budget national defense; scorned federal gun control; and added a tough law-and-order message in his Miami windup on Monday. It seemed to play well in deepest Dixie. There were thousands of Southerners to listen and cheer in the levee rallies Saturday during his Mississippi River cruise on the sternwheeler Natchez, more thousands on the President's route across the Mississippi Gulf Coast on Sunday. But the cheers and crowds of September don't necessarily mean votes on Nov. 2. Ford and his advisers say that they will, arguing that Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, is too liberal for the tastes of his own Southern homeland. But Carter also emphasizes conservative positions in the South — and he does it in a down-home drawl. That could be a tough combination to beat. Ford advisers said the President was tailoring his emphasis to his audiences. He raised no new issues. His call on Monday for a crusade against crime, with tough measures against repeat offenders and violent, streetwise youths, fit the same pattern. By White House estimates, Ford saw or was seen by 113,000 people during his heavy campaigning on Saturday and Sunday. But there was no gauge to determine how many people were there to see a president of the United States, and how many were there to applaud a campaigning Republican politician. "You'd have to say that perhaps 25 per cent of the crowds came to see a president of the United States," said William Greener, deputy chairman of Ford's campaign committee. But Greener said that some who stayed to listen might well have been persuaded about the candidate, too. Greener and White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said there are no firm plans now for further forays into the Deep South. Nessen said decisions on later campaign targets have not been made yet. He said they will depend on polls and other soundings so that Ford's personal vote-hunting can be concentrated on states where his chances are best. Ford said as he traveled that he is writing off no state. "We thought it was a very good trip," Greener said when it was over. "It proved some things — and one is that we are not writing off the South."

FISH KILL—Arizona Game and Fish Department officer Dale Dundas photographed fellow officers examining thousands of dead fish below Coolidge Dam. The expected die-off of carp, catfish and largemouth bass occurred when the level of San Carlos Lake dropped with irrigation of eastern Arizona farmland. Many of the dead fish floated into the Gila River while others will deteriorate to form plankton and other nutrients, said Al Essbach, state fisheries director. (AP Wirephoto)

Report Some Progress In UAW Negotiations

DETROIT (AP) — Union sources say some progress has been made in negotiating an end to the two-week old United Auto Workers strike against Ford Motor Co., but not enough to bring about an immediate settlement. "There has been some movement, but not the kind it takes to end a strike," one high-level union source said Monday. But he added, "They've discussed all the issues and the dam could break at any time.... I can't say when." Another UAW source said he was not hopeful of a settlement until next week at the earliest. "My guess is I'll still be here next Monday," the source said outside the bargaining suite at Ford's headquarters in suburban Dearborn. Negotiators held a morning subcommittee session on health insurance and a formal main-table session for about an hour Monday afternoon. The group later held another subcommittee session to discuss group life insurance, before recessing for the day. A UAW spokesman said today's schedule remained open, although he expected the two sides to resume discussions in the morning. Ford and the UAW are trying to forge a master three-year agreement covering a total of 700,000 workers at the Big Four U.S. auto companies. Bargainers have said publicly they have not resolved any of the major issues which sparked the Sept. 14 strike by 170,000 Ford workers. But union and company sources indicated Monday that a weekend of informal talks involving only a handful of top-ranking negotiators for each side was constructive and could provide the basis for an imminent settlement.

Eavesdropping Commonplace

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of companies, and some governmental agencies, legally eavesdrop on their employees' telephone conversations. Most of the listening equipment is leased from the Bell Telephone System, the Charlotte Observer reported in today's editions. The paper gave this account: The equipment is used by airlines, insurance companies, newspapers, telephone sales and polling firms, the Internal Revenue Service, beauty parlors, hotels and many other businesses. No one knows how many calls are being recorded. No figure on the number of companies using Bell and non-Bell equipment is known.

ment with Bell to tell you if your business calls are subject to service observing. The Observer could find no evidence that employees of service-observing businesses are not being notified. But the possibility exists that a personal call, say between husband and wife, made over a business telephone could be overheard by a third party, or recorded.

Created UFO As Prank On Neighbor

"Unfortunately, we forgot to inform one group of people — the police." And Hutson said he telephoned police. "I tried to tell the police operator I was a rational man, but that I had this weird, screaming, lighted thing in my back yard. Police traced the wires to the garage and found the pranksters. No charges were filed. The only remaining mystery, Hutson said, "is what I will do to get even."

Candidates Ford, Carter Return To 'Home Bases'

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Both Jimmy Carter and President Ford are back at their home bases, with Ford resuming the role of White House incumbent and Carter re-evaluating campaign strategy.

Ford returned to Washington on Monday after his first extensive campaign trip of the season, a three-day tour of the South.

And he began laying plans to portray himself as a world leader in advance of his second debate with Carter, scheduled for San Francisco on Oct. 6.

Carter, who has seldom been off the campaign trail in the past month, was at home in Plains, Ga., today for two days of rest and to re-evaluate his strategy for the remainder of the campaign.

The break in campaigning for Carter had been planned for some time. Aides had long said the Democratic presidential nominee was planning to take some time off near the end of September to decide how he could best spend his time for the remainder of the campaign.

Carter aides said the decisions made in Plains in the next few days will determine where Carter will spend the

Commission Podiatrist

WALSTONBURG — Dr. Duane E. Kratzer Jr. of the Greene County Health Care Inc. here was sworn into the U. S. Public Health Service yesterday as the first commissioned podiatrist in the nation.

A podiatrist is a physician who provides health care for the human foot. It is one of four licensed health disciplines in N. C., along with medicine, osteopathy, and dentistry, which has the legal authority to make independent judgments and administer medical and surgical treatment.

Dr. Kratzer practices in Greene County Health Care's medical centers in Walstonburg and Hookerton and at area nursing homes and home health agencies. The Snow Hill center will open later this year.

Dr. Clem Block, director of medical services of Greene County Health Care, administered the swearing in. The ceremony was attended by Dr. Samuel Thomas, president of the N. C. Podiatry Society; Merle Adrian of the American Podiatry Association; and members of the GCHC executive committee.

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, took Monday off. Ford running mate Sen. Bob Dole was campaigning in the Midwest.

Ford's plans are to remain at the White House, meeting with a procession of visiting foreign ministers to set the scene for the second presidential debate. The subject of that debate is foreign policy and national security, and Ford's plans call for holding numerous meetings with the foreign leaders to portray him as working on world affairs.

Republican strategists plan for Ford to claim in the San Francisco debate that he is experienced in global diplomacy and that he has conducted a successful foreign policy. On the other hand, Ford will portray Carter as having never dealt with representatives of foreign nations in any official capacity other than as governor of Georgia.

And to help underscore his claim of on-the-job experience, Ford summoned Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress to the White House to discuss Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peacemaking efforts in Africa.

Ford returned Monday night from three days of campaigning in the South, where he toured Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

Record Day On Market

Another record average was posted on the Greenville Tobacco Market Monday, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here.

Bryan said that the market had its best average so far yesterday as Greenville warehouses combined to record a $125.96 per hundred pounds figure.

Sales totaled 963,592 pounds and brought $1,213,757, the sales supervisor reported.

Top practical price paid on the first sales day of the week was $1.30 per pound, Bryan said, with the buying companies taking a few offerings for $1.31 to $1.40 per pound.

Stabilization receipts amounted to only .77 per cent of total sales.

For the season, the market has sold 34,811,479 pounds for $38,910,584, an overall average of $113.81.

His schedule calls for him to remain away from campaigning and in the White House until Oct. 4, when he leaves for an extensive Western tour leading up to the debate in San Francisco.

Ford wound up his Southern campaign trip with a speech to some 2,000 policemen, where he vowed to spend the first 100 days of his administration, if he is elected president, in a crusade against crime.

He said his crusade would include a drive to place career criminals and "violent and street-wise" youthful offenders behind bars.

But Carter campaign director Hamilton Jordan leaped on the Ford speech immediately.

"That is a strange promise from a man who has been president for more than 700 days already. But perhaps it is a necessary one, since the record of that 700 days shows serious neglect of the crime problem," Jordan said.

The Carter campaign said that under Ford a key program for jailing drug dealers on tax evasion charges was dismantled, the Drug Enforcement Administration was neglected and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration was so mismanaged that Congress has only extended it for one year on a sort of probation.

Carter spent the weekend campaigning on the West Coast, winding up in Evansville, Ind., on Monday night before flying home to Plains.

Earlier, in Portland, Ore., Carter said Ford's economic policies placed another 2.5 million Americans — for a total of 25.9 million — below the official poverty line last year and have created a new class of poor.

Meanwhile, Dole was trying to shore up what Republican strategists acknowledge is sagging support in the Midwest.

In Moline, Ill., Dole said support in the farm belt has been disappointing.

"We don't have the comfortable margin we need," Dole said, adding that Carter "has a good lead in the South."

In seeking the farm vote, Dole said Republican farm policy is superior to anything the Democrats can offer, citing "our efforts to expand exports to keep government interference off the backs of farmers."

Directory Has Phony 'Nation'

NEW YORK (AP) — The new city telephone book lists it as "Office of the Grand High Commissioner For The Shanghai Concession" of the "Government of Montmartre." And there are at least 16 other listings for various offices of Montmartre. But try to find the country.

"Part of it's in Europe and part in Manhattan," explains the voice at the receiving end of one of the telephone number listings. Here's where you start to wonder.

The voice describes in detail how citizens of a small French town seceded from France in the 1920s and how some Montmartrians were the original settlers of Manhattan, reaping and sowing in the midtown area that would later be known as Hell's Kitchen.

"The Dutch never asked us for permission to sell out to the Indians," says Barry Richmond, who identifies himself as the president of the Republic of Montmartre.

And by now, you know. One could travel high and low and never find Montmartre, except in the phone book. Barry Richmond is a man without a country.

According to today's Daily News, the imaginary nation was given birth by the mind of Richmond, a 44-year-old Manhattan lawyer. He reportedly contrived the gimmick to promote a theater venture and performances of several plays.

Reached through one of the 17 separate listings for Montmartre on page 949 of the telephone directory, under the title "Residence of the Ambassador," Richmond insisted that the listings did not represent a hoax and, "There is a government of Montmartre, a republic, with thousands of citizens."

There is a well-known community in Paris called Montmartre.

The News article said Richmond and another lawyer, Barry Feiner, and a public relations man, George Fenmore, pay over $30 extra a month for various listings he has scattered throughout the phone book under an East Side address.

Richmond was described as a highly accomplished and apparently wealthy prankster, a Columbia University graduate who is also a stage actor, inventor, set designer and director.

Heart Damage To Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., House Ethics Committee chairman, is expected to remain hospitalized this week after suffering minor heart damage.

His office said the Georgia Democrat entered Bethesda Naval Hospital last Thursday with chest pains. However, his aides said he had not suffered a heart attack.

He was kept in the coronary care unit through Sunday and was expected to be moved to a regular room by mid-week.

Flynt's aides said he had only minor evidence of heart damage and was expected to make a full recovery.

"Cash-Flow" and your lifelong battle of income vs. outgo.

That first paycheck can seem pretty big, until you start paying for your own food, clothes, and housing.

The median price of a home in the U.S. today is $39,300. something to consider when you need room for kids.

Sending kids through four years of college can cost anywhere from $10,000 up, depending on where they go to school.

In a working life, you make hundreds of thousands of dollars. So you shouldn't have money worries when you retire.

Over your lifetime, you'll have a lot of money coming in. And a lot of money going out. Sometimes, you'll have more than you need. Other times, you won't have enough.

And, in this lifelong battle of income vs. outgo, a bank can help you in a lot of ways. By looking at things more from your point of view. And less from the bank's point of view.

NCNB INTRODUCES LIFETIME "CASH-FLOW" BANKING.

"Cash-Flow" is a new way of banking designed to work for you, whatever your situation.

Whether you're a 20-year-old with your first job, or a couple planning your retirement. It considers more than just the banking business you do; it also considers all the things that affect your financial life. So we've put together booklets covering eight different situations.

They're designed to help you with everyday finances, long-range planning and putting NCNB services to work for you.

Then, our people are trained to do more for you than open an account or make you a loan. They'll answer your questions and help you find the best way to handle things. (If they can't answer your questions, they'll find someone who can.)

Finally, our services have been designed to be flexible enough to help you make the most of the money you make.

HOW TO START GETTING THE MOST OUT OF A BANK.

One of our booklets fits your situation right now and it's yours for the asking.

So stop by any NCNB office and pick one up. Or just call our toll-free number, 800-822-8855 and we'll send you a copy.

Either way, do it soon.

With all the money you earn, save, spend and borrow over a lifetime, it pays to get the most out of your bank.

And, we think you'll get more when your bank is NCNB.

Jones Named Player Of Week

RESTON, Va. (AP) — East Carolina fullback Raymond Jones and The Citadel safety Ralph Ferguson today were named the Southern Conference football offensive and defensive players of the week.

Jones, a 210-pound native of Norfolk, carried the ball 22 times for 109 yards and scored two touchdowns in East Carolina's 20-19 squeeze past William and Mary. Jones is seventh in the conference in rushing with an average of 65.3 yards per game.

Pirate Coach Pat Dye said "Jones, along with Pete Conaty, really won the ball game for us." Conaty kicked two field goals in the second half, the game-winner with 3:22 left.

Ferguson, a senior who was an All-Southern choice last year, had eight primary tackles, four assists and intercepted two passes in The Citadel's 17-16 decision over Furman.

His first interception set up a touchdown and his second was on Furman's final possession and clinched the victory.

"Ferguson played the greatest game of his career. He kept the defense together all night," said Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel.

Roger Chewed Out On Sunday

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — It was Roger Staubach's finest statistical day in a Dallas Cowboys uniform Sunday and he still got chewed out by Coach Tom Landry. Such is the life of a National Football League quarterback.

Staubach completed 22 of 28 passes for 339 yards in a 30-27 victory over Baltimore and it was almost like the Cowboy quarterback's arm was hooked into a guided missile radar unit — except for one pass.

With 1:53 to play, Staubach missed a wide-open Billy Joe DuPree on third down and Landry was waiting with some choice words when the former Navy All-American shuffled to the sidelines.

One writer said Landry uttered a bad word.

"I wanted Roger to go to Billy Joe real quick in the seam (of the Baltimore zone)," said Landry. "He was waiting for him to break a little more before he threw. The only thing I was talking to him about was that I thought he could get it over there before a linebacker could cover it."

"It almost cost us the game because we didn't make a first down."

Properly fired by Landry's "pep talk," Staubach moved Dallas from its own 32-yard line to the Baltimore 14 in 17 seconds with two sideline shots to Drew Pearson and an interference penalty.

Efren Herrera then kicked a 32-yard field goal with three seconds left for the victory.

Later, Landry gushed forth with superlatives for his quarterback.

"Roger just had a perfect day," said Landry. "Each week he keeps doing better."

Staubach, who threw two touchdown passes Sunday, averaged 12.2 yards per pass and is over the 70 per cent completion mark for the season. Somewhere 50 and 55 per cent is considered the norm for an NFL quarterback.

"On that last drive, we probably wouldn't have gone for the touchdown if we had been inside our 25," said Staubach. "But we were in a position if we would have had a tipped pass or an interception, they still would have had a pretty good way to go."

"I felt good all day. It just felt good when I released the ball. I guess I never had a better day."

Aussies Ousted

By ENRICO JACOMINI Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — John Newcombe is the former hero and present nemesis of the Australian Davis Cup tennis team.

The 32-year-old Newcombe, whose past is filled with triumphs, lost all three matches he played as Australia was eliminated from this year's competition.

Italy beat Australia 3-2 at the Foro Italo Sports Center, with Adriano Panatta scoring the decisive victory Monday, and qualified for the Davis Cup final against Chile Dec. 12-19.

The Italian Tennis Federation immediately squelched all talk of a possible boycott by Italy against Chile, saying only an unlikely intervention by the government could stop the team from playing. The Chileans reached the finals after the Soviet Union refused to play them in protest against the right-wing regime of Augusto Pinochet in Chile.

The Australian wins here came from 25-year-old John Alexander in his two singles matches. Newcombe lost his two and teamed with veteran Tony Roche to lose the doubles.

Newcombe then announced he would no longer play in the Davis Cup, opening the way for younger players to pick up the responsibility he has long held.

Newcombe opened play on Friday bowing surprisingly to 23-year-old Corrado Barazzutti 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Alexander bounced back with an upset win over Panatta 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

On Saturday, Panatta and Paolo Bertolucci teamed to beat Newcombe and Roche, five times doubles champions at Wimbledon, in straight set 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

In both matches Newcombe played poorly, troubled by a sore arm and shoulder and by tonsillitis.

On Sunday, Alexander outlasted Barazzutti 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2 and the 3½-hour match probably cost Australia the match.

Citadel Tickets

Tickets for the East Carolina-North Carolina football game in Chapel Hill have been sold out, officials at East Carolina said today.

"We've been bombarded with rumors that more tickets were available, but as has already been announced, the game is a complete sellout. We have no more tickets and will not be getting any, and there are none available in Chapel Hill," the official said.

He added, however, that tickets for this Saturday's home game with The Citadel were still on sale. "We urge people to get their tickets in advance and come early on Saturday to avoid a pileup at the ticket booths. Last home game, we still had people buying tickets well into the second quarter."

A special fireworks display will be featured as part of the half-time show. A salute to the U.S. Bicentennial will be performed by the East Carolina marching band during the half.

Game captains were named yesterday by Coach Pat Dye. They will be Cary Godette, Jake Dove, Pete Conaty, Raymond Jones and Randy Parrish.

Shoe Is On The Other Foot For Dorsett, Pittsburgh These Days

By GARY MIHOCS Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tony Dorsett remembers leaner years when the University of Pittsburgh football team would get especially aroused to meet a highly ranked foe.

"Now the shoe is on the other foot," Dorsett said Monday after Pitt jumped from third to second behind Michigan in The Associated Press college football poll.

"A few years ago, Pitt had no ranking and no respect," added Dorsett, who has 4,540 career yards rushing going into Saturday's game at Duke.

"I remember how it was always easy to get mentally fired up when we played teams like Notre Dame, Southern Cal and Oklahoma."

"Now other teams feel the same way about us. Beating Pitt can make their season, and they all come after us. Our being No. 2 will just make them try harder."

Dorsett was a senior at nearby Hopewell High School in 1972 when Pitt labored through a 1-10 season.

The Panthers of Coach Johnny Majors are 3-0 this year after victories over Notre Dame, Georgia Tech and Temple.

Unranked Temple led 7-6 at halftime Saturday before Dorsett keyed a second-half surge that rallied Pitt to 21-7 triumph. And the feeling at Pitt was that the Panthers might slip a bit in the rankings.

However, previously second-ranked Ohio State was beaten by Missouri, and Pitt was voted into the second spot — the highest the Panthers have been since 1963.

Pitt hasn't won a national title since it went 9-0-1 under Coach Jock Sutherland in 1937.

"I don't believe our players are getting too excited right now," said Majors.

Ohio State suffered a 22-21 upset defeat to Missouri on Saturday and a demotion from second place to eighth in the weekly balloting. Unbeaten Oklahoma, the defending two-time national champions, received three first-place votes — one more than Pittsburgh — and held third with 912 points after topping Florida State 24-9.

UCLA was 40 points further back in fourth after stomping Air Force 40-9, then Nebraska rounded out the top five on the strength of a 64-10 rout of Texas Christian.

Georgia, 20-12 victors over

South Carolina, held sixth place with 597 points. Seventh-rated Maryland, which popped Syracuse 42-28, was 106 points back.

Kansas, which was idle last Saturday, followed Ohio State in ninth, while Alabama took 10th after trouncing Vanderbilt 42-14.

Louisiana State, Missouri, Southern Cal, North Carolina and Boston College were followed by Mississippi, Texas Tech, Notre Dame, Florida and Penn State in the Second Ten.

Arkansas and Illinois dropped out of the ratings while Missouri made its return with the Ohio State triumph and Notre Dame and Florida also reappeared after two-week absences.

Cale Ups His Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough is going strong down the stretch in pursuit of his first national driving title in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

His Martinsville, Va., win Sunday was his four in the past five starts, pushing his point total for the year to 3,865.

Second place Richard Petty, champion the past two years, has 3,786 points and Benny Parsons is third with 3,584.

Other leaders are Bobby Allison 3,542; Dave Marcis 3,313; Lennie Pond 3,193; Buddy Baker 3,125; Richard Childress 2,991; Darrell Waltrip 2,925; and J. D. McDuffie 2,821.

Five races remain in the grand national season.

Petty continues to lead in money winnings with $264,530. Yarborough is second with $254,515 and David Pearson has $223,230.

Then come Parsons $179,665; Baker $164,655; Allison $161,885; Marcis $153,505; Waltrip $151,305; Pond $92,705 and Richard Brooks $73,935.

The next race is the Wilkes 400 at North Wilkesboro, N.C., Sunday.

South Carolina, held sixth place with 597 points. Seventh-rated Maryland, which popped Syracuse 42-28, was 106 points back.

Kansas, which was idle last Saturday, followed Ohio State in ninth, while Alabama took 10th after trouncing Vanderbilt 42-14.

Contest Winners

Mitzi Woodside of 1206 Drexel Lane took first prize in this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

She correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games listed. She won first, however, on the basis of her point pick, with a guess of 71.

The actual number points scored was 74, scored in Nebraska's 64-10 win over Texas Christian.

Second place went to Mrs. Helen Burton of P.O. Box 301, Grifton, who also had 25 correct picks. She was further off the point total with a guess of 68.

The two tie games were counted wrong on all cards since it is possible to pick a tie.

The next contest appears on the following pages.

Duo Takes Net Title

Doug Getsinger and Wes Hankins captured the Greenville Tennis Club's Men's Open Doubles Championships on Sunday.

The duo topped top-seeded Jim Bailey and Jim Gaskins in the finals of the club's tournament, 6-4, 6-4.

Bailey and Gaskins downed Gil Hensgen and Ed Spiegel, 6-4, 7-5, in the semi-finals, while Getsinger and Hankins beat Madhu Balachandran and Tom Sayetta, 6-1, 6-2.

The 35 and over men's singles will be held this week, with the finals slated for 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Elm Street Courts. The women's events also begin this week, with the mixed doubles slated for the week of Oct. 21.

Entry forms for the women's events may be obtained from Becky McDonald, club president.

Royster, McGee Get ACC Honors

By The Associated Press

Duke linebacker Carl McGee and Wake Forest defensive back James Royster have been named defensive players of the week by a panel of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association for their roles in winning performances last Saturday.

McGee, a sophomore from Cincinnati, Ohio, contributed eight solo tackles and eight assists to a defense that allowed Virginia only 182 yards in total offense as the Blue Devils won 21-6 in a conference victory.

Also, McGee intercepted the third pass of his career to stop a Cavalier drive.

"Carl continues to play outstanding football," said Duke coach Mike McGee. "This was his finest game of the season."

The 6-3, 212-pounder started every game after the opener last year as a freshman and was recognized on two occasions for his efforts — once as the defensive back.

Wake Forest's Royster is another sophomore whose experience gained as a first-year player now is reaping dividends. During the Deacons' 13-0 shutout of Kansas State, he made six primary tackles, intercepted one pass and broke up two others.

Wake coach Chuck Mills said Royster "graded over 100 per cent" for his play, reacting correctly to each situation. The 6-0, 165-pound Oxford native switched to strong safety this season from the cornerback position.

Tigerettes Win Match

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School won its opening Northeastern Conference tennis match yesterday, downing Tarboro, 7-2.

Williamston won four of the six singles matches to take a commanding lead in the match. They finished it off by sweeping the doubles. The singles didn't come easy, however, as four of the six matches went to a third set.

The Tigerettes are now 3-2 overall and 1-0 in league play. They travel to Plymouth on Wednesday.

Summary:

Lisa Robertson (W) defeated Kendall Winchester, 6-7, 6-4, 6-3.

Trudy Simpson (T) defeated Kristi Rogerson, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

Joanne Lilley (W) defeated Toni Brock, 6-4, 6-7, 6-0.

Terry Hopkins (W) defeated Elaine Strickland, 6-1, 6-0.

Marty Brooks (T) defeated Lisa Roebuck, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Susie Orton (W) defeated Leigh Herring, 6-2, 6-3.

Robertson-Lilley (W) defeated Winchester-Denny, 8-1.

Rogerson-Hopkins (W) defeated Brock-Strickland, 8-2.

Orton-Beth Boyd (W) defeated Rose Rackley, 8-5.

Rampants Take Win

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School edged past Rocky Mount yesterday on the way to a 26-35 Division I victory in a cross-country meet.

Jesse Baker took first place in the meet for the Rampants, finishing the course in 13:26. J. Jones of Rocky Mount finished second in 13:46.

Rocky Mount's D. Osterkamp finished third in 13:55, followed by Rose's Cliff Hagans in 14:09, and the Gryphons' D. Jones in 14:12.

Roe took all five places in the second five and that won the match for them. The order of finish was Mickey Finn, sixth in 14:13; Til Jolly, seventh in 14:18; Johnny Evans, eighth in 14:34; Walter Kortschak, ninth in 14:42; and Robert Vick, 10th in 14:53.

Other Rose finishers included David Daniel, 11th in 14:55; John Lawler, 15th in 15:14; Steve Blackwell, 16th in 15:36; Jim Hunt, 17th in 15:52; and Steve Saieed, 21st in 19:07.

Rose, now 3-1, plays host to Northern Nash on Thursday.

WEEKLY PRIZES

1st PRIZE

$15.00

2nd PRIZE

$10.00

CONTEST RULES

1. Thirty-two football games are placed on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per person per week. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: FOOTBALL CONTEST, P.O. Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted.)

Allen Claims 100th Victory

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Washington Redskins presented Coach George Allen with his 100th National Football League victory and the veteran coach's quick thinking on the sidelines had more than a little to do with the triumph.

Mark Moseley booted a 29-yard field goal 12 minutes and 49 seconds into a sudden death period of Monday night's nationally televised game to give the unbeaten Redskins a 20-17 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles. But there would have been no sudden death, no victory without Allen.

The 54-year-old Allen, in his 11th season as a NFL coach, made himself a factor in the game with 12 seconds left in the first half. The Eagles led 10-3, and had a third-down-and-six at their 35-yard line.

Washington's defense started to leave the field figuring the clock would run out, but Allen, ever alert, waved his defenders back and shouted for a time out.

"I called time out and told them to blitz, try to hit them on the exchange of the ball," Allen explained. "I felt that with 12 seconds left if we stopped them there, we'd go for the blocked punt."

The Skins blitzed and Harold McClinton and Dave Butz hit Eagles' ball carrier Herb Lusk like a couple of trucks. Lusk fumbled the ball in the air, and Washington linebacker Brad Dusek picked it off and raced 32 yards for a touchdown. Moseley kicked the point and it was 10-10 at halftime.

Sixty-two seconds earlier, the Redskins had a fourth-down-and-10 at the Eagles' 33. Moseley set up for a field goal. The Eagles didn't charge, so holder Joe Theismann picked up the ball and ran 16 yards for a first down at the 17 on the fake kick. The Skins wound up with a 27-yard field goal.

Thus, Allen's quick strategy resulted in 10 points in 62 seconds and turned a 10-0 deficit into a tie. The Skins had been outrun, outpassed, outthrusted for 30 minutes, but not outthought or outscored.

In the third period, Mike Thomas ran 27 yards to wrap up a six-play, 57-yard drive and send the Skins ahead 17-10. Then the defense took over. Twice the Eagles drove to the Washington 10, and twice they were frustrated with end zone pass interceptions. Former Eagle Joe Lavender picked off one, and Pat Fischer the other.

Moseley's winning kick was set up by an interception by Eddie Brown, who returned eight yards to the Eagles' 22. Calvin Hill carried twice for 12 and 6 yards to the four. A holding penalty set the Skins back 10, and then Moseley, also a former Eagle, kicked the winning points.

Philadelphia took a 10-0 lead with a 22-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann in the first period and Art Malone's second-period 16-yard TD run. After the Eagles fell behind 17-10, quarterback Mike Boryla directed a nine-play, 73-yard scoring drive. The march started with 2:09 to play and ended on a 41-yard TD bomb to Charley Smith with 1:07 on the clock, sending the game into sudden death.

Best, Beast Brought Out In Final Series

By ERIC PREWITT

OAKLAND (AP) — The opening of a do-or-die series with the Kansas City Royals brought out the best in the Oakland A's and the beast in some of their fans.

"It was a tough game, a big one to win. But it means nothing unless we win the rest of them," Phil Garner said early today after an 8-3 victory which left the A's 3½ games behind first-place Kansas City with six games to go in the American League West race.

The start of the Monday night baseball game, which drew a crowd of 37,914, was delayed more than an hour because of rain. Two fights, one on the field between the players and the second between fans and Kansas City players, stopped play in the decisive sixth inning.

The Detroit at Cleveland game was postponed because of rain. No other games were scheduled Monday.

"Things are tense and any little thing can set off something like that," said the Royals' George Brett, referring to the brawl which broke out on the field after Dennis Leonard hit the A's Don Baylor with a pitch.

"I thought everyone was coming out to shake my hand because I hit a homer," Sal Bando joked later. His leadoff home run gave the A's and pitcher Vida Blue, 18-12, a 5-3 lead and Baylor was hit by the next pitch from Leonard.

"That's one of those things that happen in a close game," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog. "But the bad part was what happened in the bullpen. The fans were throwing beer, and they use the worst language in the league in this ballpark."

Catchers Bob Stinson and John Wathan leaned into the stands and slugged it out with some of the beer-throwing fans in seats behind the Royals' right-field bullpen and teammates helped out in the battle before things settled down. Then the game resumed and the A's scored three more runs, two on a double by Garner, off four relievers before the sixth ended.

"We went dead after the fighting. It seemed like it went on forever," said Brett, and the Royals learned after the game that reliever Steve Mingori came out of the brawl with an injured knee.

The Royals had tied the score at 3-3 with two runs in the fifth, one on Brett's double. But Ron Fairly, who had homered to break a 1-1 tie in the third, doubled to open the bottom of the fifth and scored from third on a groundout for the go-ahead run. He threw out Al Cowens at the plate on a brilliant fielding play in the sixth, protecting the 4-3 lead.

Winning Meant A Lot To L.A.

"I wanted to pitch a no-hitter for him," said Don Sutton. "I've played for the guy 11 years and he has been honest with me every minute of it."

Sutton, like most of his teammates on the Los Angeles Dodgers, was deeply moved by the announcement Monday that Walter Alston was retiring after 23 years as manager of the team. For him, beating the Houston Astros Monday night was especially important.

And he showed his feelings for his long-time mentor by turning in a brilliant four-hit shutout, pitching the Dodgers to a 2-0 victory over the Astros.

"He's the only guy I've ever known more stubborn than I am," Sutton said. "I guess that's what I've needed all these years. I respond to an honest relationship rather than a lot of patting on the back. He tells it to me up front and sticks to it. If he has told me something, I found it to be true."

"The best way to describe him is that he's an honest man. I'm glad to have won this one."

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, the New York Mets pounded the Montreal Expos 10-3, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the St. Louis Cardinals 9-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

Sutton, 21-9, struck out three and walked two in posting his fourth shutout of the season and the 44th of his career, most among active National Leaguers. He allowed just one runner past second base. It was his ninth consecutive victory and 14th in his last 15 decisions, and it was an emotional one.

Bill Russell singled home Steve Garvey in the seventh inning to break a scoreless duel between Sutton and Houston's Dan Larson, 5-8. The Dodgers added a second run in the eighth inning when Dave Lopes walked, stole second — his second stolen base of the game and 61st of the season — and came home on Bill Buckner's single.

Mets 10, Expos 3
John Milner drove in six runs for the Mets with a pair of homers, a two-run shot in the third inning and his third grand slam of the season in the sixth. Milner now has 15 homers and 78 runs batted in this season, the latter a career high.

Jon Matlack, 17-9, scattered seven hits, pitching his 15th complete game of the season.

Phils 9, Cards 1
Jerry Martin hit his first home run of the season and Greg Luzinski, Larry Bowa and Ollie Brown drove in two runs apiece as the Phils posted their ninth win in the last 11 games. Jim Kaat, 12-14, posted his first victory since Aug. 21, snapping a personal six-game losing streak.

Padres 5, Reds 3
Doug Rader dropped a bloop double on the foul line in short right field to drive in two runs and snap a 3-3 tie as San Diego rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to beat the Reds. Tom Griffin, 8-6, scattered seven hits to pick up the win.

Alston Bringing Career To Close

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — After 23 consecutive one-year contracts to manage the Dodgers, Walter Alston has stepped down, saying, "There comes a time when you need to take a little rest."

The 64-year-old Alston, known as the "Quiet Man" from Dartmouth, Ohio, made his decision Monday. After a round of golf, he told Los Angeles Dodgers management and it was announced at a late afternoon news conference during which Alston said he would remain with the National League club in a front office capacity.

"Baseball has been good to me," he said. "But there comes a time when you get enough of everything. This has been quite a day. It's the first time I ever got three birdies playing golf in one day and I'm retiring."

Thus ends one of baseball's greatest chapters, one which started in 1954 in Brooklyn at the end of Jackie Robinson's career, continued to the team's first world title in 1955, through the opening of the West to baseball in the late 1950s and then through the years of glory with Sandy Koufax and a succession of teams that rarely scored yet won championships.

No successor was named immediately, but Walter O'Malley, chairman of the Board of the Dodgers, said his son Peter, General Manager Al Campanis and Alston would sit down soon and decide on who will become the next Dodgers' field boss.

"What do they say? The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat? I've had my share of those," said Alston. "Announcing it now gives Peter a chance to find someone else."

Peter O'Malley serves as club president.

Almost to a man, the Dodgers' players said it was a sad day.

"I'm disappointed," said Don Sutton. "I've played for the man for 11 years and he's been honest every minute of it. There are so many opportunities to be up and down in this game, but he's stayed on an even keel, and that imparts consistency to the ball club."

"He set the standards for all other managers to match," said first baseman Steve Garvey, the NL's most valuable player in 1974, Alston's last pennant year.

Alston won four World Series titles and seven pennants for the Dodgers and only two men in the history of the game have managed one club longer — Connie Mack, 50 years with the Philadelphia Athletics and John McGraw, 31 with the New York Giants.

The Dodgers, despite massive attendance no matter how they did on the field, finished 20 games behind Cincinnati in 1975 and were 10 games behind the Reds when Alston made his announcement.

"It's a shame 30 guys didn't bust their butts for him this season," said catcher Steve Yeager. Alston took a lot of the blame for the team's poor showing in 1975 and 1976.

Walter O'Malley, who hired the then-unknown Alston to the newspaper crisis of "Who?", later said Alston would manage until the day he decided to retire.

Monday that day came.

Ali Doesn't Want To Go Out As A Loser

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "This is the end of my career," says Muhammad Ali, who puts the heavyweight championship on the line against Ken Norton tonight.

"I don't want to lose it." Ali didn't mean that this will be his last fight but that he was getting down that road toward retirement. The champion is 34. And he is the 8-5 favorite to keep that road open by beating Norton in their third meeting — each won a split 12-round decision in 1973 with Norton breaking Ali's jaw in the first fight.

"You must remember that those first two fights weren't for the title," said Ali, who retained the championship by knocking out George Foreman Oct. 30, 1974, seven months after Norton was stopped in two rounds by Foreman in a bid for the title.

The weigh-in was scheduled for noon today at a hotel overlooking Central Park. Ali was expected to scale about 221 pounds and Norton 215. Each is 6-foot-3 and has an 80-inch reach.

The fight was scheduled to start in Yankee Stadium at 10:30 p.m., EDT, with the closed-circuit telecast to open at 9:30 p.m., with a 10-round heavyweight bout between Ernie Shavers and Henry Clark.

Wednesday night was the rain date.

A crowd of about 40,000, the promoters' estimate, was expected for the first fight at the famed ballpark since Ingemar Johansson knocked Floyd Patterson down seven times and stopped him in the third round to win the heavyweight title June 26, 1959. The worldwide television audience could reach 500 million — it will be seen on closed circuit at 300 locations in the United States and Canada and on a live and delayed basis in 57 other countries.

Prices at Yankee Stadium ranged from $200 down to $25, with $20 the average price of a closed-circuit television ticket.

Ali is guaranteed a record $6 million plus $100,000 expenses and will get 50 per cent of all income over $9 million. A victory would set him up for a rematch with Foreman where his purse reportedly could hit $10 million. Norton is guaranteed $5 million plus $100,000 expenses and five per cent of all income from the start.

"It shall not go over five," said the 34-year-old Ali, who is three years older than Norton.

"I will make him quit," said Norton.

"I beat myself when I get beat," said Ali.

"I made you a success and I'm gonna destroy you," the champion said he will tell Norton when they get into the ring.

"He knows I can reach him and I can hurt him," said Norton.

The fight, promoted by Madison Square Garden, Inc., and Top Rank, Inc., apparently will smash the all-time live gate record of $2,658,660 paid by a crowd of 104,943 for the second Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey fight at Soldier Field Chicago Sept. 22, 1927.

McGuire Is Released

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Frank McGuire, head coach of the University of South Carolina basketball team, has been released from Baptist Hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for a stomach ailment.

A university spokesman said Friday physicians had diagnosed McGuire's illness as gastritis and a "very small, healing ulcer."

The spokesman quoted doctors as saying McGuire was completely well and ready to go home. The coach was admitted last Wednesday and spent two days in the hospital's intensive care unit.

McGuire will begin his 13th year at South Carolina and his 27th season as a head coach in October.

At the halfway mark of the 1976 major league baseball season, 13 American League pitchers and seven National League hurlers showed 10 or more victories.

Seventh And Eighth Graders Get Help In Fighting Smoking Habit

By JIM KENDELL
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — For three weeks a group of 7th and 8th graders at the Shenandoah School held an after school meeting. The group had nothing to do with sports, dances or stamps. The kids are all trying to quit smoking.

American Cancer Society, which conducted the "kicking the habit" clinic, were surprised by the number of students seeking help in giving up smoking. The 38 students represented nearly one-third of the 13-and 14-year-olds at the school.

"I was a little surprised that 38 were heavy smokers who said they wanted to (quit), but could not," said principal Nola Mae Morgan, an ex-smoker and initiator of the program.

More than a "little surprised" was Elke Moses, director of professional and public education for the American Cancer Society here. "I was just amazed when she (the principal) called me," Miss Moses said.

The smoking problem isn't a new one for Dr. Morgan, whose office in past years was often graced by youthful smokers.

"You mean you can't wait till recess or lunch?" she asked them. "No," came the reply, "We need help."

So for the past three weeks the 120 seventh and eighth graders at the school have attended an assembly once a week to hear a lung specialist, a neck surgeon and a psychologist talk about smoking.

Twice a week, the 38 students who signed up for help in quitting smoking attended "rap groups" given by a local counseling center.

"Most youngsters at this age group smoke from peer pressure. It's the 'in' thing to do," Dr. Morgan said. "Sophisticated people smoke, they think, and they want to be a little more grown up."

Dr. Morgan said not all the school's smokers signed up for the program, just those who wanted to quit. Miss Moses explained that for the program to work the students had to want to quit.

Though a preliminary evaluation won't be completed for a few weeks, Dr. Morgan said the program has already had some effect. At least three quit "cold turkey" and others were cutting back.

Expect Burley Tobacco To See Record Prices

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State agriculture officials are expecting a top quality burley tobacco crop that should set a record price.

Agriculture Commissioner Tom Harris said Monday he expects the 1976 crop to bring "$1.20 per pound or better." He was basing his prediction on the way burley is selling in the southern flue-cured market.

Tobacco support price for burley is $1.09 per pound, he said.

He is confident the market will be good for Kentucky burley when the warehouses open in late November, because there will be "a good quality crop."

Harris attributed that to the excellent curing conditions this year.

Burley needs dry weather with a little moisture to cure properly, Harris said.

Too much damp weather subjects the tobacco to "house burning," which darkens the leaf color and takes weight out. On the other hand, if the weather stays too dry, the tobacco will get "piebald," or have yellow streaks, he said.

About 95 per cent of the tobacco crop is already in the barns, and the current rainy weather should hurt only the small percentage still in the field, Harris said.

The most recent U.S. Department of Agriculture forecast Sept. 10 estimated Kentucky burley production at about 432.4 million pounds, a slight increase from 1975 poundage. The USDA's next report will be released just prior to the opening of the market season, Harris said.

He expects the actual poundage to be lighter than the USDA projection.

One reason is that many farmers let their burley bloom out too far before breaking the tops out. Harris said that takes the growth into the bloom instead of the leaves and results in a smaller plant.

He said he didn't understand why farmers had let the bloom go so far, but he said perhaps they are trying to add some weight to the plant by letting it grow longer.

However, the smaller plants were also the result of dry weather during the growing season. Harris said the lug — the bib end of the tobacco plant — didn't get enough moisture.

The early good weather prompted many farmers to set and harvest their burley early, and the early cut doesn't weigh as much as that harvested later, Harris said.

Plan Retry 2 Policemen

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Justice Department has decided to retry two Charlotte policemen on civil rights charges. They alleged acted brutally toward two citizens while they were off duty and in civilian clothes last Dec. 6.

A mistrial was declared when a jury was unable U.S. District Court jury was unable to agree in August in the case of policemen Burton Helle, 29, and Jimmie Macom, 27.

They were in one car and got into an argument with the occupants of another car, Edward Wayne Braddock, 21, and Michael Broome, 24. Both sides maintained the other tried to run them off the road.

The officers testified that Braddock came out of his car wielding a knife, and that when he was told to drop it, he threw it to Braddock. Braddock denied this.

Macom testified he threw Braddock to the ground and kicked him three times after Braddock tried to escape and tried to kick him. However, Braddock maintained that Macom kicked him repeatedly without provocation, urged him to try to escape, and threatened to shoot him.

Broom testified that when he told Macom to stop kicking Braddock, the officer kicked him, too. Neither man said Helle kicked anyone.

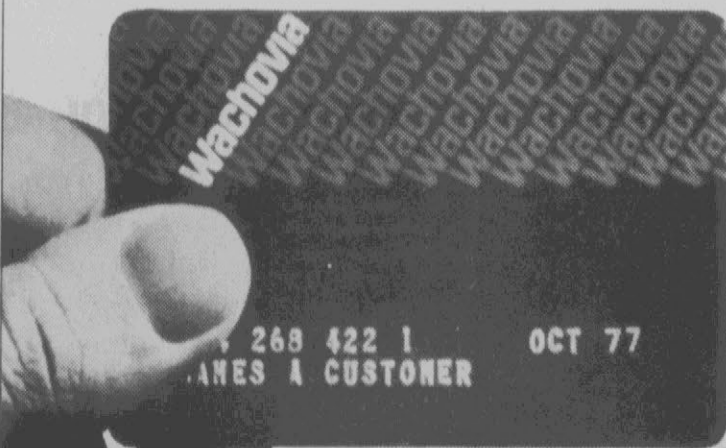

Leaf Quality Is 'Best Yet'

FARMVILLE — The best qualities of the season were represented on the Farmville Tobacco Market in Monday's sales, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

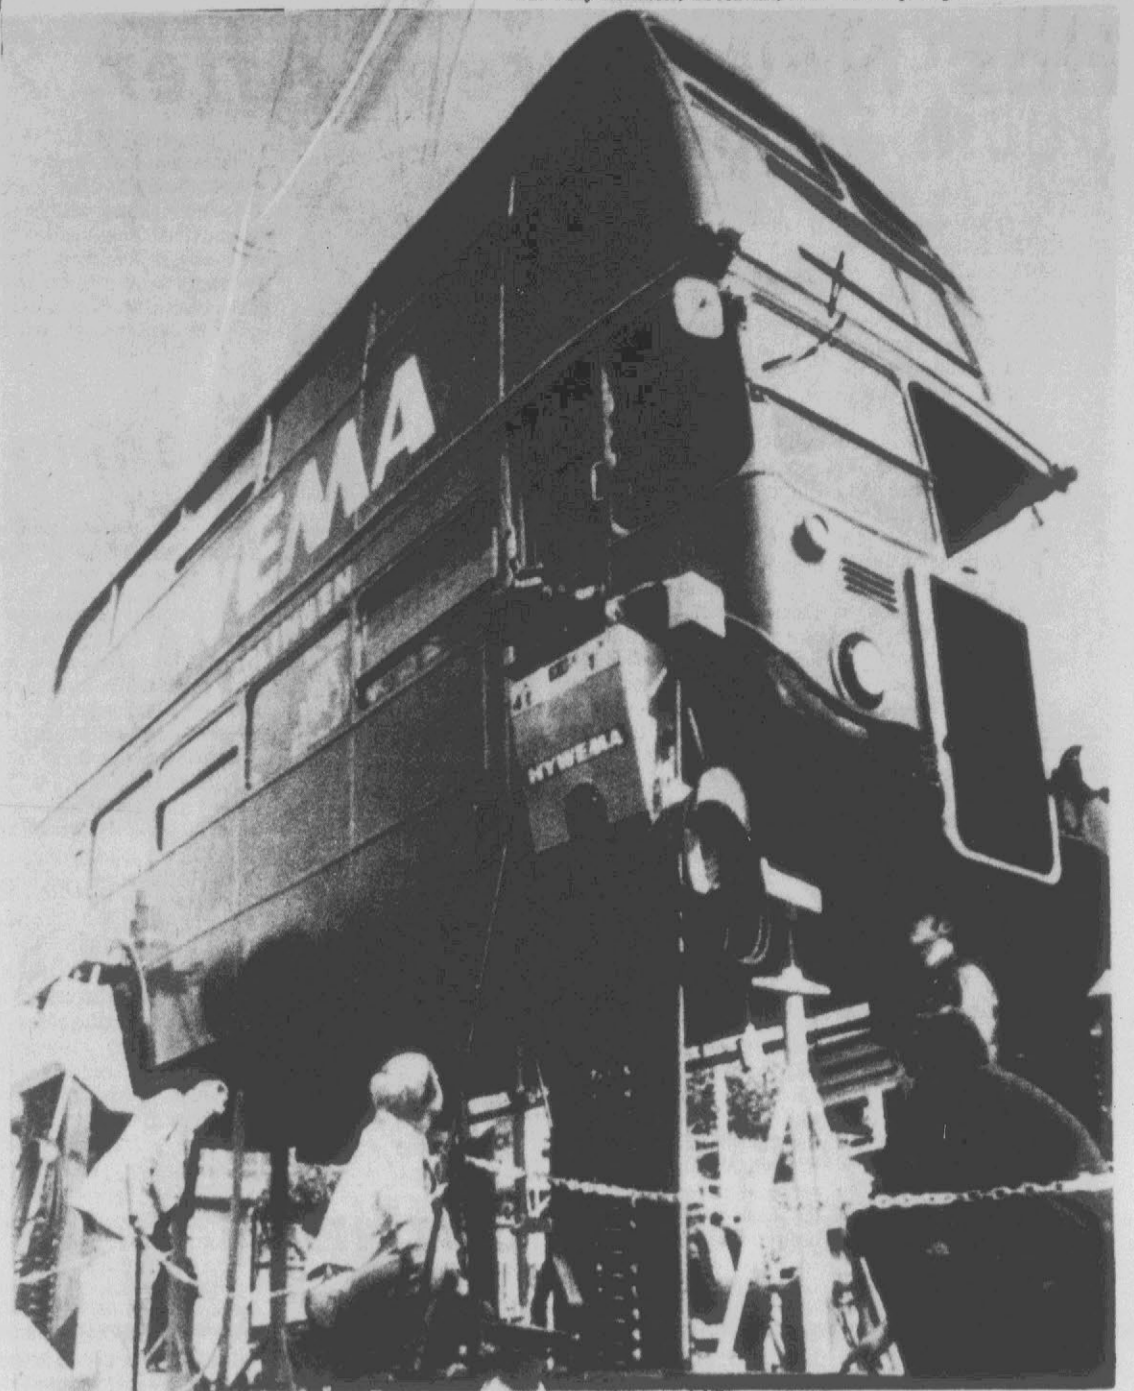

"The quality of tobacco last Thursday and yesterday were the best of the season. Top price was paid for several sheets of choice leaf and wrapper which sold for $1.40 per pound. Leaf and smoking leaf accounted for most of the volume. There were very little nondescript grades in yesterday's sales," Williams said.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only .77 per cent of the gross sales. The Farmville Tobacco Market sold 683,980 pounds Monday for $866,349 with an average of $126.66 per 100 pounds. To date the market has sold 20,974,803 pounds for $23,944,590 for an average of $114.16 per 100 pounds as compared to last year's season average of $98.14 per 100 pounds on the same sale day.

Has New Career After 21 Years In Chinese Prison

A NEW CAREER—John T. Downey, China, has started a new career as a lawyer. (AP Wirephoto)

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer
WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—John T. Downey, who spent 21 years in a Chinese prison as a U.S. spy, says he doesn't feel embittered toward either his captors or U.S. officials, because he was "caught in an enormous clash of opposing politics."

After the "frustration" of early imprisonment, he said, "I came to change my attitudes towards China and the Chinese vis-a-vis the United States as to how much of a threat, if any, they posed to us." Downey, 46, reflected on his past as one of America's most celebrated cold war prisoners in an interview Monday with The Associated Press. The interview ended three years of self-imposed public silence following a single news conference on his return in 1973.

During most of his captivity from 1952 to 1973, Downey said he felt the policies of both nations made personal intervention in his behalf almost impossible.

"I definitely felt that I was caught in an enormous clash of politics.... That probably was one reason I didn't feel embittered in terms of thinking somebody should have done something for me, because I felt it had gone beyond that point," he said.

Now, with three successful years of Harvard Law School behind him and word Friday that he had passed the Connecticut bar examination, he leaned back in the conference room of his new law firm, fidgeting as he answered questions. He is reported to have received upwards of $400,000 in back pay from the Central Intelligence Agency after his release from prison, but he refused to disclose the exact amount.

He also declined to answer most questions about his feelings towards the CIA and former President Richard M. Nixon, who played a role in his release.

Downey did say that he joined the CIA in 1951 after graduating from Yale University because, with the United States becoming involved in the Korean conflict, "it was a glamour thing, a prestige thing."

He and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., were in a plane that was shot down a year later over Manchuria in northern China while on a CIA mission. Fecteau was released in 1971.

Downey has said he was not physically abused by his cap-tors except for being held in leg irons during his first 10 months in prison, but he said he was subjected to persistent ideological pressure.

Although sentenced to life imprisonment for espionage, he said he was given subtle reasons to hope he might be released. Those hopes reached fruition when he learned of plans for Nixon's historic visit to mainland China.

His release followed Nixon's admission that Downey had been working for the CIA. The United States also asked for his release to join his critically ill mother, who is now confined to a nursing home.

He has returned to his birthplace and joined the "general small town practice" of childhood friend John A. Carozzella, a former state legislator, and an attorney in this New Haven suburb.

He expects to be sworn in as a lawyer early next month, "something I wanted to do since I was a kid," he said.

Evening Classes In Sports Skills

East Carolina University will offer evening courses in basketball officiating and scuba diving this fall. The courses are open on a non-credit basis to interested and qualified adults.

"Basketball Officiating" will meet Mondays, Oct. 11-Dec. 6; "Basic Scuba Certification" will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 7-Nov. 2; and "Advanced Scuba Certification" will meet Wednesdays, Oct. 27-Nov. 10.

The basketball officiating course is approved by the N.C. High School Officials Association and will provide a working understanding of basketball rules, mechanics, positions and interpretations for officiating in junior and senior high school games.

Course instructor will be John Grimsley, owner of the Trophy House in Greenville and booking agent with the Northeastern Officials Association.

The scuba courses will offer training on two levels to good swimmers who wish to improve their underwater skills. In addition to the weeknight sessions, several weekend sessions will be scheduled to enable the class to dive at a coastal location.

Robert Eastep, noted scuba instructor, will direct both courses, which have been approved by the Professional Association of Diving Instructors and the Los Angeles County Underwater Instructors Association.

Further information about these and other fall non-credit course offerings is available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. or telephone 757-6143-6148.

Justice Dept. Suit Is 'Incredible' To Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chrysler Corp. says it's "incredible" that the Justice Department is suing the company for $91 million in damages for alleged violations of the Clean Air Act.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court here, alleges that Chrysler sold more than 9,100 Dodge and Plymouth autos in 1976 that were equipped with improper emission controls.

"The Justice Department's action is incredible," said the auto maker. "It seeks to punish Chrysler for a simple, unintentional human error made in reports to the Environmental Protection Agency. This mistake had no effect on air quality. In fact, Chrysler production tests show that the cars involved beat government standards by a good margin.

"Nevertheless, when Chrysler discovered the error, it notified the EPA, straightened out the problem in production, recalled the cars and corrected them to conform to the reports made to EPA.

"The problem simply is that the part (EGR vacuum amplifier) used was not the part described in the report to EPA. The two parts are virtually identical."

According to the suit, Chrysler equipped autos with a device known as an exhaust-recirculation amplifier for certification tests by the Environmental Protection Agency, a test that is required by law to insure that autos meet federal clean air standards.

The cars cited in the suit were not equipped with the device, the government alleged, thus violating the law prohibiting the sale of any new vehicle unless it is covered by a certificate of conformity issued by EPA.

The suit asked the court to prevent future violations and for civil penalties of $10,000 for each vehicle that did not meet the certification standard.

The autos that allegedly failed to contain the emission device included Plymouth Vallants, Dusters, Furies and Volares, and Dodge Darts, Coronets, Aspens and Chargers. All were equipped with a 225 cubic-inch engine and manual transmission, the government said.

NAACP Pinning Hopes On Wednesday Hearing

By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A nationwide fund-raising drive has failed to provide enough money for an appeal of a $1.2-million damage judgment which could bankrupt the NAACP, says a civil rights lawyer.

Attorney Frank Parker said Monday the NAACP was pinning its hopes on a court hearing Wednesday in Jackson. The organization has requested a reduction of the $1.6-million appeal bond or a rehearing of the judgment arising from a 1960s boycott of white merchants in Port Gibson, Miss.

The hearing will be presided over by Chancellor George Haynes, who awarded the $1.2 million on Aug. 19 to the merchants.

"There is no possibility that we will raise the bond in time," said Parker, who will argue for the NAACP at the hearing.

The $1.6 million is needed because, under state law, an appeal bond must equal 125 percent of the damages. The bond must be posted by Friday.

If Haynes rules against the NAACP Wednesday, its last recourse will be to go before the Mississippi Supreme Court. Unless a favorable ruling is made by the Friday bond deadline, lawyers for the merchants could start attaching the property of defendants next week.

NAACP chief counsel Nathaniel Jones said the drive was far short of its goal and that failure to post the bond would have "the effect of bankruptcy" for the organization.

Other national NAACP officials have said loans would be sought to cover any shortfall of the fund drive. But Parker predicted that this effort also would be unsuccessful.

Haynes ruled that NAACP and 132 individual defendants were unjustified in directing their four-year boycott against the 12 businesses. He said the dispute should have been with local politicians, and he awarded damages to the merchants for losses suffered during the boycott.

An NAACP spokesman said heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali had pledged $100,000 from his title fight with Ken Norton tonight.

"We've expended all our energy meeting this emergency," said Warren Marr, editor of NAACP's "Crisis" magazine. "It could be a long time before we get back to where we were."

Investigate Two Recent Thefts Of Tobacco

Investigation is continuing by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department into two recent tobacco thefts from area farms.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies are investigating a break-in and larceny at the Carl Hardee farm Sunday night that resulted in the theft of some $10,000 worth of tobacco.

The sheriff said that 75 sheets of tobacco were reported stolen from a packhouse on the Hardee farm, located off the Grimesland Highway just beyond Pinewood Cemetery.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of approximately $3,500 worth of leaf from the James Cannon farm, located on Rt. 3, Greenville on the Gum Swamp Road.

The owner, according to the sheriff, said that the tobacco was taken from a barn.

Again Find Stolen Truck

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A truck trailer that was stolen from a Durham tobacco warehouse, recovered, then stolen from where it had been put for safekeeping, was recovered again Monday.

Caswell County officials said they found the trailer but this time the $30,000 worth of tobacco that had survived the first theft was gone. The first theft was from Durham on Friday. Officers found the trailer and its load about 3 a.m. Sunday on a roadside in adjacent Granville County.

It was towed to a nearby trucking company for safekeeping until the owner could recover it. Officers said it was still there when it was checked at 10 a.m. but by noon, it was gone and so was the tractor that had pulled the trailer in.

About 7 a.m. the empty trailer was found in North Carolina, but near Danville, Va. The tractor was still missing.

"It's a weird thing. I've never had anything like this happen to me before. You live and learn," said Granville County Sheriff's Deputy Howard Riggan.

Assault, Arrest On Mills Street

A story appearing in Sunday's edition of The Daily Reflector, saying a 12-year-old was arrested at the Carolina Grill on Dickinson Avenue on assault charges, was incorrect.

The youth, charged with assault following an argument over a bicycle which involved the use of a knife, was arrested elsewhere.

The alleged argument and assault occurred on Mills Street.

'Alice' Has Makings Of A Fine 'Sitcom' Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although "Police Woman" and "One Day at a Time" start new seasons tonight, no new series are on tonight. So on to Wednesday, and "Alice," CBS' new sitcom about hard-times love and life. It stars Linda Lavin as a 35-year-old housewife who, after the death of her husband, flees the East Coast and takes her 12-year-old son (Phillip McKeon) westward to start a new life and career.

She wants to be a professional singer. But she gets stranded in Phoenix and goes to work in a slightly greasy-spoon cafe run by a boisterous, beer-bellied gent named Mel (Vic Tayback). Two other table-tenders toil there — Flo (Polly Holliday), a good-natured, beehive-haired country gal in her early forties, and Vera (Beth Howland), a quiet, thirtyish lady who is a bit mousy.

Let us say right off the bat that "Alice" has the makings of a fine series. The regulars are first-rate, and the settings and costumes have a realistic, time-wary look to them.

Alas, Wednesday's show is more of a let's-be-relevant drama than a let's-just-laugh-comedy with a touch of relevance thrown in.

It concerns the visit of Mel's old college pal (Denny Miller), a broad-shoulder, intelligent, good-looking ex-football star who now acts in spaghetti Westerns.

The waitresses naturally go nuts over him. Particularly Alice. Flo suggests she try "the ladylike approach on him — drop your housekeys in his pocket." A date with Alice is quickly arranged.

When the guy comes calling, Alice's precocious son takes an immediate liking to him. He starts touting his mother's fine qualities, physical and otherwise, prompting the guy to say: "Tommy, you sound like a used-mother dealer."

The date is fine, but when they come home for a chat and possible fooling around, well, the guy tells her he's gay.

"You don't mean — just jolly?" she says in quiet shock.

Nope. When he says let's be friends, kisses her on the forehead and exits, she sadly sighs: "I should have known. Mel said he was a man's man."

While Mel didn't know, either, the rest of the show tries to settle all that by enlarging on a homosexuals-are-human theme.

Although it's all tastefully handled and no scene is broadly played, the various crises and jokes are too predictable and the manner of delivery too gentle to cause more than a smile.

That may pose a problem for the series. I'm not a fan of such shout-up sitcoms as "Maude," but it strikes me that "Alice" needs more of a hard edge to succeed in this noisy world.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days and evenings in some time to be very outgoing and eager to get ahead in whatever is important to you. Also fine for planning or starting a trip, expedition.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Put those ideas to work that will help you in understanding what is best for you to do to have more success. Do not be afraid to ally yourself with individuals whose ideas are different from your own.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You understand clearly now how to handle obligations efficiently. Loved one is more appreciative of you, so put your ideas across easily now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make better arrangements where partnership matters are concerned, since this is a good day for such. Avoid extravagance in any way today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Fine day to take care of chores you have been avoiding. Forget socializing tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is a particularly good day to get into any creative interests that can impress others favorably and gain you fine benefits. Get together with friends at hobbies that are mutually enjoyed.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you try to please those at home more now, you can gain their added devotion and be happier. Once your work is done, you can consider entertaining at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to be direct with others and get fine results instead of deliberating so much. A fine day to discuss mutual projects with others and reach a better understanding with them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get that plan working that will add considerably to assets in the near future. Contact experts in finance who can give you fine advice you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to handle personal problems wisely and get excellent results now. Plan some social fun of your own if you are not invited out this evening. Stay with the budget, though.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to improve your finances, but do not confide in others. Enjoy the company of a loved one later in the day. Avoid one who is a liar and could get you into trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Gain the cooperation of good friends for whatever is of real interest to you. Extend an invitation to those to whom you owe gratitude for past favors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can handle a problem well and get the results you want. Show that you are a good citizen. Avoid one who could give you trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young persons with great vision and should have the finest education possible so that there can be great success during the lifetime. Be sure to add foreign languages to the curricula and give an opportunity to travel early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Opening lead: Eight of ♠.

West led his top spade, and declarer was faced with two almost certain heart losers. However, he found a deceptive play that got by West's guard. The ten, queen and ace of spades completed the first trick. Declarer then cashed the king of clubs, drew trumps in two rounds ending in dummy and discarded a spade on the ace of clubs. A club ruff completed the preliminary work.

Now declarer led a cunning eight of hearts. West's mind must have been on some other matter, for he carelessly followed low. Declarer played low from dummy, East won the queen but was well and truly ended.

If he led a heart, it would be into dummy's A-J tenace. A club would give a ruff and sluff. A spade was no better. If East returned the king of spades, declarer would ruff, enter dummy and discard his remaining heart loser on the jack of spades; if East lead a low spade, declarer would discard his heart immediately and dummy's jack would win. The slam had to come home.

Note that declarer has no chance if West covers the eight of hearts with the ten. East wins dummy's jack with the queen, but now he can get out safely with a heart, and declarer must lose another heart trick. (Playing the king of hearts on the first lead would also defeat the slam.)

Breeding Is Controlled

DOSWELL, Va. (UPI) — The Kings Dominion animal preserve has created an animal habitat that resembles the natural environment but was unable to duplicate the balance of nature that keeps the animal population in check.

Without the balance of nature working to keep the animal population in check, parks such as Kings Dominion face a serious problem of overpopulation.

In an effort to prevent the preserve from being overrun by lions, hippos and other animals, veterinarians are implanting contraceptive hormones to allow the park to breed the animals only at desired levels.

"Both lions and hippos have become overpopulated in some parks across the country and it's not an easy task to get zoologists interested when they too have become overpopulated," a park spokesman said.

Dr. Clinton W. Gray, chief veterinarian of Washington's National Zoo, and Dr. Ulysses S. Seal, an endocrinologist in the Department of Biochemistry at the University of Minnesota, have implanted silastic pouches in nearly two dozen lionesses at Kings Dominion.

The pouches, made of a chemically inert silicone-like plastic, are placed under the loose skin on the inside of the hind leg.

"So far, infection has not been a problem, as precautionary shots of antibiotics are given at the time of the minor surgery," the spokesman said.

'Soap Opera' Goes Moddy-Bopper In Daily Story

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It reads like a script from "Days of Our Lives" gone moddy-bopper:

"Mary Ann Singleton, 25, a newcomer to San Francisco, is the secretary of Edgar Halcyon, an advertising tycoon who has learned he is terminally ill, but has told neither his alcoholic wife, Frannie, nor his unhappy daughter, DeDe. Coincidentally, the Halcyon family dog, Faust, also has only months to live."

Meet San Francisco's newest heroine: Mary Ann Singleton, coming to you five days a week on the pages of the San Francisco Chronicle.

"No other newspaper in the country would have printed it," giggles Armistead Maupin, writer of Tales of the City, a soap opera in print inspired in part by television's Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman.

Maupin, 32, laughs a lot lately as he considers the contract he's negotiating with the Chronicle, the possibility of a book version, and the television series his new Hollywood agent is talking about.

Meanwhile, Mary Ann is recovering from a "crummy affair" with DeDe's cocaine-snorting husband, and trying to accept the homosexual next door — "He likes boys. Got it?" she tells her horrified mother in Ohio.

She's also getting over the shock of learning that her high school classmate, Connie, was a victim of the "Tinkerbell" strangler who likes to leave his victims sprinkled with blue glitter.

And she's working at the Bay Area Crisis Center, talking down would-be suicides and trying to understand a one-eared masochist named Vincent.

"I think it's just trash," says Ed Bayley, dean of the School of Journalism at the University of California at Berkeley. "It's sort of imitation pornography."

"I can remember when newspapers used to run novels in serial form," he added. "Some of them were good. Some of them were nothing. None of them were this bad."

Maupin says his editors have balked at some bedroom scenes: "In cases where I've had two men in bed I've had to imply it and not say they were actually under the sheets together," he says.

Gordon Pates, managing editor of the Chronicle, said the decision to run the serial was based on "a belief that certain readers are attracted by a story of this kind rather than by news."

"I have no illusions that what your critics like are what your readers like," he added.

The readers' verdict on Tales of the City is not in yet, Pates said. "Maupin says everybody in the city is reading it. I hope he's right, but I just don't know. My seat of the pants feeling is that it's widely read."

"Nobody really wants to admit they like it but everybody does secretly," agrees Sharon Stack, a San Francisco health educator and loyal reader. "It glorifies San Francisco. It has to do with the San Franciscan's desire to hear about himself."

"I can't say it's great literature. But it only takes about 30 seconds to read, so how could it hurt you?"

Pates says editors of a dozen newspapers around the country, thinking about getting into the soap business themselves, have asked him about Tales. The New York Post is running a daily summary of the television travails of Mary Hartman, and at least one other newspaper has begun a serial of its own.

"Bagtime" is the Chicago Sun-Times' first-person story of Mike Holiday, a supermarket bag boy who lives in Old Town with his cat, Helen. Chay, his ex-wife, is involved in a bisexual thrill ring with members of the Chicago White Sox and the Chicago Bears. In a recent episode, Holiday was mugged by a thug disguised as John Cardinal Cody.

The writers are reputed to be top reporters Bob Greene and Paul Galloway.

Editor James Hoge, citing columnists like Art Buchwald, said he views entertainment as a necessary function of a newspaper.

"It really isn't impinging on other things in the paper," he said, adding that as long as that holds true and "as long as it's kept in the proper perspective, it will continue."

Both Hoge and Pates said they have received few complaints about the sometimes spicy content of the serials.

Maupin said the only heat he has taken has been from women's groups who say Mary Ann and most of the other female characters in Tales of the City are insipid and promote damaging stereotypes.

"Mary Ann had to be a dingbat at the beginning because she's a foil," Maupin said. "It isn't a political tract. It's intended to be funny."

Maupin came to the city four years ago from North Carolina as a reporter. He said he first created Mary Ann when he was trying to free-lance an article about a Marina district supermarket reputed to be a "body shop," where singles go to meet singles.

"Obviously no woman goes to the grocery store to pick up a man is going to tell you about it," Maupin said. So he made up Mary Ann.

He'll keep on writing about her, he said, as long as the readers are like hungry lions waiting to be fed," he said, paused, and added with a grin, "Raw meat."

DESCRIBES MISSILE PUSH—Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld tells newsmen at the Pentagon Monday that the Soviet Union is pushing ahead with an unprecedented missile program. Rumsfeld said the program will give them more nuclear striking power than they need "merely to deter nuclear war". (AP Wirephoto)

Attended State Convention

The following Pitt County residents attended the North Carolina Vocational Association Annual Convention September 24 and 25 at the Royal Villa Hotel in Greensboro. Mrs. Rachel Welburn, Research Committee member for Occupational Exploration, of Bethel; Kent Worthington, President of the Occupational Information and Guidance Division of the N.C.V.A., of Bethel; Mrs. Betty Speight, Occupational Information teacher of Agnes Fullilove School; Mrs. Frances Gwynn, Guidance Counselor of Agnes Fullilove School; and Mrs. Rachel Crawford.

Retiring Oct. 31

Stanley J. David, a magistrate in Greenville since December 2, 1968, is scheduled to retire October 31.

H. L. Lewis, Clerk of Superior Court who made the announcement today, said David first took office when the North Carolina General Assembly enacted legislation abolishing the Justice of the Peace office and established the system of magistrates.

David has been nominated by Lewis and appointed by the resident Superior Court judge of the Third Judicial District to the magistrates post each biennium since the post was created.

The 10 magistrates in Pitt County are supervised by Chief District Judge J. W. H. Roberts.

Lewis said David's retirement will create a vacancy to be filled for the balance of this biennium, which expires December 31, 1976.

Moose Look To Coming Events

Future programs and projects dominated matters of discussion before the Greenville Moose Lodge Monday evening.

Jerry McLawhorn, speaking for the Entertainment Committee, reminded the membership of the Burt Massengale dance on Friday evening and that very few tickets were still available. Tickets are available on a first-come first-served basis, he reminded.

Community service chairman Billie Barnes solicited help for the annual Clothing Bank drive scheduled for October 18. The Clothing Bank, of used-but-still-usable articles of clothing, is a fall program conducted by the Moose and Women of the Moose in which needed items of apparel are collected and then distributed among the most needy families of the county, referred to the service by responsible authorities.

A letter from Mooseheart, calling attention to the 26th anniversary of the Greenville Moose Lodge on November 24 was read by Past-Governor Jack Morgan. The letter reminded suitable observance of the anniversary by the lodge was in order and suggested early planning to that end. Governor Thomas Jamieson said he matter was on the agenda of the board of officers for Tuesday night's meeting.

Enrollment into the fraternity of seven new members was conducted. The new members are Mitchell Jones, James E. Stott Jr., Richard D. Turner, Bruce G. Wade, William E. Doosey, Wm. E. Helms and John B. Marks.

Hopes Preserve Zoo Atmosphere

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — Director William Hoff says hotels and restaurants around the entrance of the North Carolina zoo would create an improper atmosphere since it's supposed to be a rural zoo.

In the five months since the state started construction of the permanent zoo buildings, the rural concept has spawned a land-use argument.

The argument began when residents along Cox Road, a narrow, winding mountain road to the zoo from Asheboro, asked Randolph County officials for permanent access from their road. In the zoo's master plan, the road is only a temporary access to the zoo.

State officials plan for the main entrance to the zoo to be a parkway from Flag Springs Road and U.S. 220, with an overpass but no interchange at Cox Road.

"An interchange at Cox Road would be a complete disaster," Hoff said last week.

"We'd have to have boys up there directing traffic and it would back up for miles."

Billy Rose, state highway administrator, said last month that he favored some sort of access from the road to the zoo. He cited support for the idea from residents of Randolph County.

But zoo officials say they are worried about the traffic on Cox Road and the possibility of development there.

"This isn't one of these things like a shopping center, where you put your $4 million in and get your money back and retire to Florida," said Alvis George, a zoo architect.

Officials say it is not known where the dispute will end. They say it could end in a compromise, it could be decided by the state Board of Transportation, or the governor may have to make the final decision.
