

Filibuster Threat Posed Before Restless Senate

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As the 94th Congress works to wind up its work, the Senate is facing the threat of a filibuster that could kill legislation extending the deadline for auto makers to meet tough exhaust standards.

Sen. Jake Garn's pledge to talk all night and into next week to prevent a vote on the bill could delay final congressional adjournment. Both the House and Senate hoped to conclude business today and adjourn for the year to allow time for some political campaigning. Garn, a Utah Republican, wants to kill legislation that would give a one-year delay, until the 1979 model year, for auto makers to reduce carbon emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons. Prohibitions against "significant deterioration" of air quality in relatively smog-free areas of the country are also included.

Garn claimed the auto industry needs a longer postponement and that the other provision would impede economic growth.

The bill is the product of a House-Senate compromise following two years of congressional hearings. The House may take up the proposal today if it clears the Senate.

The Senate is also to consider a doubling of the unemployment tax on employers and extending jobless benefits to all state and local government workers. The House must also vote on the bill.

The House plans to debate and vote on a grain standards bill designed to halt the abuses of the federal grain inspection program uncovered in recent investigations.

The House may also consider a resolution offered by Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., seeking the expulsion of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., because of Hinshaw's bribery conviction.

On Thursday, Congress overrode President Ford's veto of a $56.5-billion appropriations bill and passed an extension of the revenue-sharing program that Ford has promised to sign.

The appropriations money is for the departments of labor and health, education and welfare. Ford had objected because the proposal was $4 billion more than he had requested for the agencies.

The final version, which Congress enacted with the override votes, contains a limitation on the use of federal money for abortions except where the life of the woman is endangered.

The $25.5-billion revenue-sharing compromise would return federal tax money to states, counties and local government units through 1980. Ford had linked passage of this bill with his action on two jobs bills. One would provide $3.7 billion in public works jobs and the other would extend 260,000 public service jobs in state and local governments.

The President announced that he would sign both bills after the revenue-sharing measure passed.

He also said he would accept a second version of legislation authorizing $3.3 billion for construction at military bases and other military facilities. He vetoed an earlier version because it contained provisions that would have delayed for a year any actions to close or realign major military installations.

Congress took these other actions Thursday:

LAW ENFORCEMENT

The House and Senate passed and sent to the President a three-year, $2.5-billion extension of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the program designed to help state and local governments fight crime. Some $15 million a year would be set aside for community anticrime programs.

This bill also limits an FBI director's service to a single 10-year term.

COPYRIGHT

Congress approved a substantial revision of U.S. copyright law, the first such revision since 1909. The measure, which now goes to President Ford for action, gives authors and composers copyright protection for their lifetimes plus 50 years. The current maximum term of a copyright is 56 years. Sponsors said the updating was necessary because of technological developments like radio and television, computer storage and copying machines.

ENERGY

The House agreed to a bill giving Congress veto power over the presidential decision on where to build a pipeline for transporting Alaska natural gas to the lower 48 states. The Senate must act on the bill before it can go to the President.

It gives the Federal Power Commission until May 1, 1977, to study pipeline routes and make recommendations to the President. Public comment would be accepted until July 1, when the Council on Environmental Quality would be required to hold public hearings before submitting its own recommendation and report to the President.

CENSUS

The Senate authorized a population count every five years beginning in 1980. The bill, which now goes to the House, provides for a mid-decade census every 10 years to go along with the regular decennial census.

PUBLIC LANDS

Final legislative approval was given to a limited resumption of clear-cutting in national forests. Both the House and Senate acted on the bill repealing an 1897 law that has been interpreted as a ban on clear-cutting. Entire stands of forests are leveled in the clear-cutting process instead of felling trees selectively.

Their Love Story Is 67 Years Long

MILWAUKEE (AP) — This is a love story.

Lew Morrison is in love with his wife, Estelle — and has been for 67 years — and nobody is going to split them up.

Morrison, 91, and his wife, 89, have shared a room at the Woodland Health Center in suburban Brookfield for the past two years.

But Morrison's health is failing, and nursing home officials suggested that he move from the couple's present room in the ambulatory wing of the home to another area for intensive care patients.

"It started out as an ultimatum," Morrison said. "They were going to move me away from Estelle, and that was it."

But Morrison, former outdoor sports writer for the Milwaukee Sentinel and a former world flycasting champion, wasn't going to leave his wife of nearly 67 years without a fight.

"I don't care how old I am. I'm not about to take a horse-riding from anybody. I talked real plain and they started listening," said Morrison, whose language ranges from peppery to profane.

So he complained to the district attorney, the sheriff and the mayor.

"We're getting along in life, and we've spent all this time together," he said. "We should be left to have our last years together, too."

Nursing home officials have agreed, at least temporarily, to allow the couple to remain together despite a strain on staff members who have to give extra care to Morrison because of recent illness.

"It's a hell of a note," Morrison said. "I'm getting to the point where I'm losing my eyesight and my hearing and I can hardly walk, and they're trying to break up my home."

However, he said he is satisfied, at least for the moment, with the decision of nursing home officials to leave the couple together.

The bond, he said, is love.

"Sure, we love each other," he said. "Oh, we fight a lot, too. Always have. But after nearly 67 years, this has to be the longest fight on record, and I'm not willing to end it."

Deposit Drop Is Robbed

MT. AIRY, N.C. (AP) — The FBI is probing the reported larceny of at least $14,000 from a night-deposit drop at a branch bank of the Northwestern Bank.

A Northwestern official said Thursday that any deposit slips put in the drop would have been stolen along with the money.

Jim Whittington, an FBI agent in Charlotte, said the money was netted in a plastic pouch fastened inside the drop. He said the pouch, which bank officials discovered, was weighed down into the drop—and concealed—with a roll of pennies.

"It was a fishing operation whereby they were able to retrieve deposits," Whittington said.

He added the same method had been used in larcenies at other banks in the state in recent months, but he declined to say which banks or where they were located.

The assistant manager of Winn-Dixie supermarket at Mayberry Mall said the store had deposited in the drop Saturday about $14,000, mostly in checks, that the bank never received.

Spokesmen for two other business at the mall said they also made deposits Saturday that were also apparently stolen, but declined to reveal the amounts.

Sat. Watched Impending Crash

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Julie McDowell knew that a runaway bowling ball bounding down a hill toward the glass front door of her office meant trouble.

"I saw the ball coming, rolling under a truck," said Miss McDowell, 19. "But I had this man on the phone and he just kept talking. I didn't know what to do."

She did the only thing she could. She watched the ball crash through the glass door and thud into her desk.

Morehead City Docks Picket Line Honored

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Striking dock workers formed a picket line today which was honored by longshoremen when they set out to load a bulk phosphate ship.

The action in the three-day-old labor dispute came as U.S. District Judge John Larkins postponed a hearing on the matter, tentatively until Tuesday.

"We were hoping to get that hearing today," said Gene Merritt, a spokesman for the State Ports Authority. "We're very disappointed."

Merritt said the hearing will be in response to the authority's petition for an injunction that would force the workers to "honor the contract."

Supervisory personnel had been handling cargo on the docks since the dispute over overtime regulations erupted, but contracts with the International Longshoremen's Association require that longshoremen be aboard a ship for loading and unloading.

"This morning the dock workers threw up a picket line in front of our gates," said Merritt. "We have a ship — a 10,000 ton bulk phosphate ship — that is supposed to be loaded this morning."

Barbara Helms, secretary-treasurer of Local 1850 of the Dock Workers and Warehousemen Union, confirmed the presence of pickets.

"There are two signs," she said. "One says 'unfair labor practices' and the other says 'Local 1850.'"

Demo HQ Will Open Monday

The opening of Pitt Democratic Headquarters at 3012 Memorial Drive is scheduled for Monday at 4 p.m., according to Betty Speir, county Democratic chairman.

Mrs. Speir said that Congressman Walter Jones has been invited to attend the opening ceremonies and has indicated he will attend if Congress is not in session.

She reminded area Democrats that pictures taken with Mrs. Emily Dolvin, aunt of presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, at the recent Democratic rally here will be displayed at the headquarters.

Mrs. Speir urged all area Democratic candidates to be present for the opening of the county headquarters.

ACCUMULATION OF TAXES

When you list your personal property for the purpose of city and county taxes and you become delinquent in these taxes, why are they allowed to accumulate from year to year without being paid? Why don't the city and county governments make these correctible instead of accumulative? Why isn't it mandatory that they be collected? D. H.

City tax collector Floyd Little said the reason for allowing taxes to accumulate is a statute which makes them collectible for 10 years back from the present tax year. He said his office does not have the personnel to collect on taxes as soon as they become delinquent; he has only one employee to assist in collecting. However, they can use the methods of garnishment of wages, levy and foreclosure when necessary.

County tax collector W. R. (Bill) Smith said his office does make several efforts to collect delinquent taxes from each individual. A tax bill is sent to all registered property owners sometime at the end of August. In February a bill is sent to all delinquent tax-payers (from the current year back); the same thing is done again in April.

Smith said that, with 35,000 to 45,000 taxpayers in the county, "it is impossible for me to call all the names." His two deputy tax collectors assist by making personal visits, telephone calls, etc., in an effort to collect back taxes. In many cases they use garnishment of wages (almost daily) and levy; they also try to set up payment plans for persons who cannot pay the full amount at one time.

He noted that anyone who knows of a delinquent taxpayer should call him at 758-1539, and his office will begin work on the case immediately if they have not already done so.

Prime Minister Fears Fiscal Policy Failure

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister James Callaghan says Britons haven't earned their standard of living for years, and the crisis over the pound means that the nation is "now coming to the crunch."

Britain's freedom as well as its fiscal welfare may be at stake in the struggle to solve the country's economic woes, Callaghan said in a radio interview Thursday.

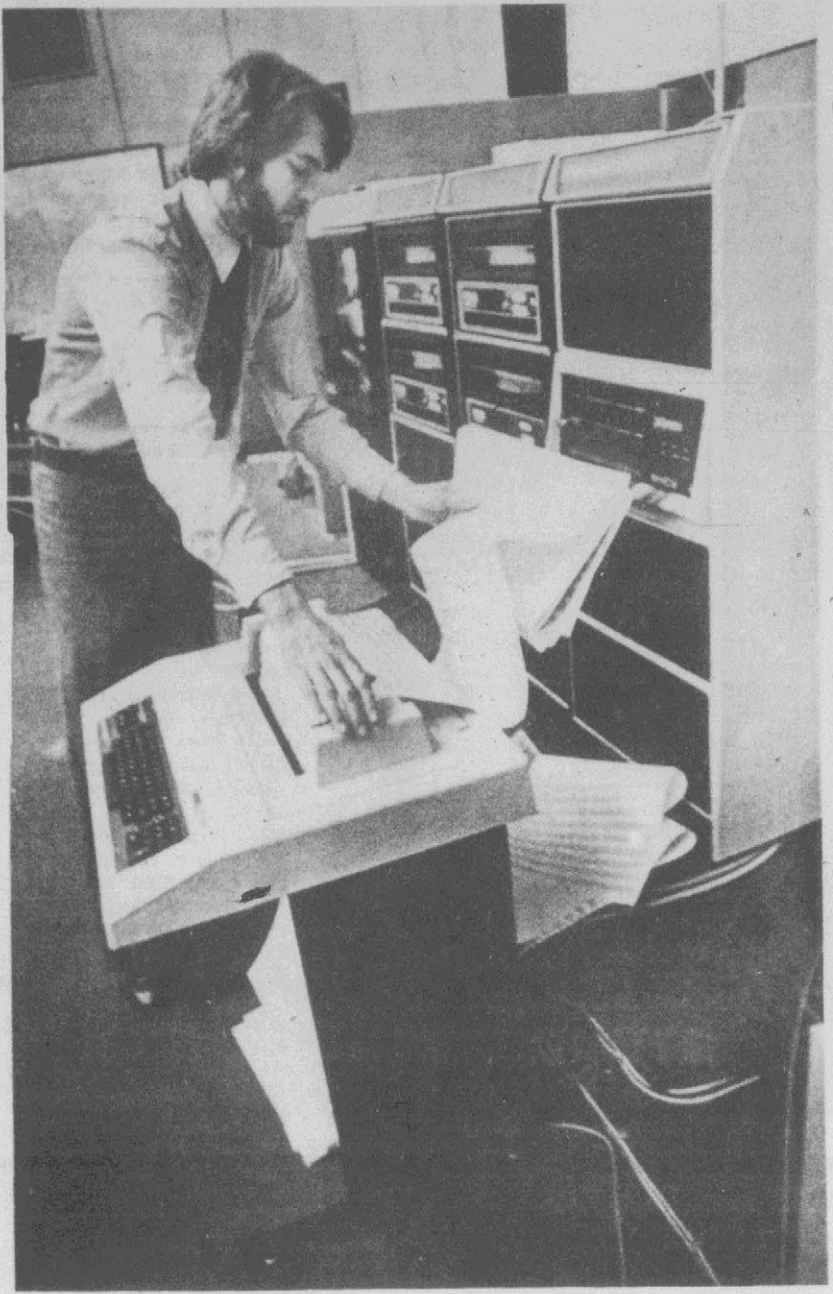

"If we were to fail, I fear it would lead to totalitarianism of the left or right," the prime minister said. He did not elaborate.

The pound showed little movement on foreign exchange markets Thursday, closing up slightly at $1.6660. The currency slipped to a record low of $1.636 Tuesday before regaining nearly three cents on Wednesday.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey received both hissing and applause in Blackpool when he told a Labor party conference that further Socialist measures will have to be curbed in order to promote economic recovery.

He warned that demands for more nationalization of industry and more government spending could knock millions of pounds off

Swine Flu Project Is Launched Today

By DEAN LOKKEN
Associated Press Writer

America "rolled up its sleeves" today for the first swine flu shots, the largest immunization program in the nation's history. But some state health officials said they were uncertain when and whether they would get all the vaccine they need.

The national Center for Disease Control said the first shots would be given "officially" at a health fair in Indianapolis, but they were scheduled also for at least one other state. Patients at the Maristhill Nursing Home in Waltham, a Boston suburb, were to get the first of the vaccine in Massachusetts.

"The first priority will be with the high risk — such as people in nursing homes, the chronically sick and diseased," said Dr. Stuart H. Shapiro, deputy director of the state Department of Health.

An Associated Press survey of state health officials showed that most of them said they had initial shipments of vaccine from companies contracted by the federal government. Some complained that their allocations arrived piecemeal, and many were worried that future irregular shipments might prevent continued orderly administration.

Congress allocated $135 million for manufacture and nationwide distribution of the vaccine, and the Atlanta-based CDC made sure that initial shipments of it got to pickup points.

A spokesman at the CDC said the federal center expects 177 million doses will be available at state health departments by late November, with more of it being manufactured. About 25 million doses have been shipped to states so far, he said.

In Wisconsin, there were 100,000 doses on hand and an additional 410,000 doses were expected by week's end. However, William Schatz of the state Department of Health and Social Services predicted that much of the vaccine would arrive too late to do any good.

He cited an estimate that Dec. 15 is the last day a person can take the vaccine and expect it to be effective in preventing the flu, which has been traced to the same disease that killed 500,000 Americans in 1918-19.

According to the present delivery schedule, Wisconsin will have less than two-thirds of its promised 4.1 million doses by then, he said.

The massive immunization campaign was prompted by an outbreak of swine flu at Ford

Dix, N.J., last winter. Eleven army recruits became ill with the disease early last January. Doctors at the University of Virginia Hospital have reported that a 55-year-old radio announcer from New York also contracted the disease, possibly from another human.

N.C. Has It

RALEIGH (AP) — One-fifth of an expected 2.7 million doses of swine flu vaccine North Carolina is to receive arrived Thursday. However, it will not reach county health departments until next Wednesday at the earliest.

The first 510,000 doses were received at the State Division of Health Services in Raleigh. There they will be prepared for distribution to the 100 counties.

The vaccine probably will be taken next week to five distribution points across the state where counties will pick up their shares.

Dr. J.N. MacCormack, head of the state's Communicable Disease Branch, said the vaccine could reach county health departments by late Wednesday. However, he pointed out that many counties are likely to postpone mass inoculations until more of the vaccine has arrived to avoid spot shortages as public demand for the shots peaks.

In all, North Carolina is due to receive 1.6 million doses of "bivalent" vaccine, which is designed to protect the chronically ill and persons 60 years old or older, and 1.1 million doses of "monovalent" vaccine, for persons 18 to 60 and in good health. A variant of each type has been manufactured for children and accompanied Thursday's shipments which included 300,000 doses of monovalent vaccine and 210,000 doses of bivalent vaccine.

Britain's reserves "in a minute."

When the pound's rate against the U.S. dollar goes down "it can add to the price of the goods in your shopping bag," Healey said.

As Healey spoke, there were shouts of "resign" along with hissing and booing from some delegates, but his address was followed by vigorous applause.

The speech helped to win a show of hands in favor of a party executive statement approving the government's policy of trying to reduce the budget deficit by $5.1 billion, holding down wage settlements and granting capital investment incentives.

Another aim behind Healey's appearance at Blackpool was to silence opposition to the government's request for a $3.9-billion loan from the International Monetary Fund. Britain already has borrowed nearly $2 billion from the IMF since last December.

Main factors contributing to the pound's slump are Britain's 13.8 per cent inflation rate, high unemployment, industrial productivity that ranks among the lowest in the West and a serious deficit in its international balance of trade.

Business, Pleasure For Joan Mondale

JOAN MONDALE, wife of the Democratic vice presidential nominee, campaigned in the Raleigh area Thursday. (AP Wirephoto)

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Joan Mondale is an art lover who has combined pleasure with political business while visiting the Carolinas.

The wife of Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter "Fritz" Mondale has opted to visit places of artistic merit as well as those of political benefit while barnstorming the Carolinas Thursday and today.

She began her tour at noon Thursday with a speech to about 300 persons at the Wake County Democratic Women's Club in Raleigh. She then toured a cigarette factory in Durham and stopped at the party headquarters in Chapel Hill.

On the way to the headquarters—which was filled to overflowing before she arrived—Mrs. Mondale and her entourage stopped at the William Hayes Ackland art museum.

For about 20 minutes, Joan Mondale the candidate's wife and campaigner became Joan Mondale the art lover as she viewed and commented on art works ranging from 20th Century B.C. Roman bronze.

After the tour she told a newsman she thought the museum was a superb teaching facility and said she thought the collection well worth her visit.

On today's schedule, Mrs. Mondale has taken a major portion of her time to visit the North Carolina School for the Performing Arts in Winston-Salem and Old Salem, an historical section of the city now being restored.

A Democratic party worker commented that the schedule may not produce a lot of votes, but it shows Mrs. Mondale's interest in the arts.

In her basic speech which she gives with some variation at each appearance, Mrs. Mondale zeroes in with soft voice her on what she sees as shortcomings of the current Republican administration and strengths of Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter and her husband.

But in interviews, Mrs. Mondale's intense interest in art takes prominence. At every scheduled news conference she was asked what she would do as wife of the vice president and she always said she would promote the arts.

Author of the book, "Politics in Art," Mrs. Mondale tells reporters that arts stimulate the economy as well as the individual. A concert or play, she says, brings people to town. They may go out to eat and if they came from a distance, they may stay in a hotel, she says.

The candidate's wife also says she would work for greater federal support of the arts. The cost would be minimal, she said, because the government now spends less supporting the arts than is allocated to the Department of Defense for public relations.

Mrs. Mondale earned a college degree in history and art and has broadened art knowledge through work at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Minneapolis Institute of Arts and the National Gallery of Art in Washington. She has also taken up pottery as a hobby, she said.

On the political side, each of Mrs. Mondale's speeches was to a large partisan crowd, the largest being in Haw River where about 700 persons turned out for barbecue and speeches sponsored by former Gov. Bob Scott.

In rural Haw River, Mrs. Mondale emphasized the farm angle, noting that Carter would be the first farmer elected president since Thomas Jefferson. She also defended the farmer, saying higher food prices are not his fault.

At each stop, she called for new leadership in Washington.

"Our country has been disappointed too many times in the last eight years. People are not anti-Washington, they are anti-incompetence. I think we are ready for a leader who inspires confidence," she said.

She also praised Carter as having compassion.

Louise Sees Psychiatrist

NEW YORK (AP) — Louise Lasser, star of the television comedy-soap opera "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," says she is seeing a psychiatrist rather than attending drug rehabilitation classes after her arrest for possession of cocaine.

In an interview taped for this morning's NBC-TV "Tomorrow" show, Miss Lasser explained that "the judge said it would, in effect, be penalizing me for my celebrity" to order her to attend the classes.

Miss Lasser, ex-wife of comedian Woody Allen, was placed in a six-month drug diversion program by Beverly Hills Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolf last June.

She was arrested in Los Angeles in May when a shop manager complained to police that she was making a disturbance over the shop's refusal to accept her credit card.

A routine search by police turned up a vial in the actress' purse which contained eight milligrams of cocaine.

Seer Picks The Loser

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — His name is Jake C. Venus. And he will stake his reputation as a seer on his prediction that Jimmy Carter will lose the second televised debate with President Ford next Wednesday because his biorhythms are on the downbeat.

"Carter's biorhythms will be at their worst positions for the debate, and it could cost him the election," says Venus.

His biorhythm theory, which he says is based on years of self-study, is this: "People discharge energy in three different cycles of varying lengths. The intellectual cycle spans 33 days, the emotional cycle 28 days and the physical cycle 23 days.

"I always knew that people had good days when they could do anything within their capabilities and bad days when everything went wrong," said Venus. "Only later did I understand that these days were related to biorhythms. It's not anything that you can prove in a test tube...It takes a person with an open mind to accept this."

The cycles are mathematically exact, he said, and can be tracked from a person's birth date.

His own calculations on Carter's biorhythms indicate that "Carter should stay in bed Oct. 6. His intellectual cycle will be at its worst possible position.

"His physical and emotional cycles will be on a critical day. Carter will not have the assurance and quick thinking he had Sept. 23."

President Ford's three cycles, on the other hand, will all be thumbs up in October, Venus claims.

Two Complete Advanced Study

Two staff members of the Wilson County School System have completed requirements for special Sixth-Year Programs from the East Carolina University School of Education.

They are Edith C. Roberts, Director of Staff Development for Wilson County, and Elizabeth H. Eller, Wilson County Reading Coordinator, grades 1-8. The degrees will qualify them for Level II certification in school administration and educational supervision.

Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Eller undertook advanced studies in the Sixth-Year Program curriculum over a period of several years. The program involved study and research in the fields of administration and supervision.

Yoga Classes Begin Oct. 6

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will hold beginning Yoga Classes starting Wednesday, October 6.

The classes, conducted by Rhoda Leshansky, will meet at the new Senior Citizens Center located at the corner of Fourth and Green Street from 5 p.m. until 6:00 p.m.

All interested men and women are asked to wear loose clothing or leotards and bring a mat. There will be a $15.00 charge for the six lessons. To register come prior to 5 p.m. Wednesday. For further information call the Greenville Recreation Dept. 752-4137, ext. 251.

Will Speak At Conference

Dr. Lionel Kendrick and Carol Ann Tucker, both of the East Carolina University Regional Drug Program, will be featured speakers at a conference entitled "Human Growth and Development through Primary Prevention."

The state-wide conference will be held at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte Sunday through Tuesday. It will focus on techniques of preventing the development of emotional problems.

Following a joint presentation describing their programs, Ms. Tucker will present material on classroom management and Dr. Kendrick will lead a workshop on design skills in the area of learning.

Five Accidents Here Thursday

Five collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday resulted in an estimated $3,950 property damage.

Police said heaviest damage resulted from an 8:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Sunset and Hillcrest Drives involving cars driven by Connie S. Harrell of 213 North Warren St. and Nora Elizabeth Shackelford of 305 Harvey Dr.

No charges were made by officers who estimated damage at $300 to the Harrell car and $1,000 to the Shackelford auto.

Sharon Lynn Nock of 401 Eastbrook Apt. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:26 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles Street.

Investigators reported the Nock car collided with an auto driven by Audrey Harris Strickland of Route 9, Greenville causing an estimated $300 damage to the Strickland car and $700 damage to the Nock vehicle.

Vehicles operated by Ethel Cherry Gardner of 806 Ward St. and Walter L. Fleming of Tarboro collided about 3:20 p.m. at the intersection of Moore and Railroad Streets causing an estimated $600 damage to the Gardner car and $200 damage to the Fleming Truck.

No charges were made. John James Patterson Jr. of 314 Hooker Ed. was charged with following to close following investigation of a 10:37 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 250 feet West of the Sherwood Drive intersection.

Mrs. Vivian Mills reported on Founder's Day activities. The Alpha Nu chapter will join Alpha Iota for a special meeting on Founder's Day.

The Alpha Iota Chapter voted to support the North Carolina Foundation for Autistic Children as another altruistic project.

Mrs. Speight announced that a District V workshop will be held November 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Approve 90 Units For Eastern N.C.

The North Carolina Housing Finance Agency in Raleigh has approved 90 units of newly constructed Section 8 public housing for the three eastern North Carolina communities, according to the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority. Winterville will receive 20 units, Fountain will receive 20 units and Windsor will receive 50 units.

The allocation is now waiting for final approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. After HUD takes action the Housing Authority will obtain financing and then advertise for bids.

The Central Office of the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority is located in Washington, N.C. and serves Beaufort, Hyde, Washington, Bertie, Martin and Pitt counties. The Authority currently operates 340 public housing units in these counties.

According to William I. Cochran, Jr., Executive Director of the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority, additional housing units may be obtained later this fall.

Program Sunday Evening

The Philipp Young Adult Choir, of Philipp Christian Church of Greenville, will sponsor a fashion show and special entertainment Sunday.

The program will begin at 5 p.m. and will be held at the Moyewood Center, Third Street. Tickets, which are $1.25, may be obtained from choir members or at the door.

Circle Sponsors Special Service

The Missionary Circle of Wells Chapel is sponsoring a special worship service Sunday at 11 p.m. at the church.

District Missionary Mary Green, a member of the Revival Center Church of God in Christ of Kinston, will be the speaker. The public is invited.

Old-Fashioned Revival Series

An old-fashioned revival is in progress at the Church of God at the corner of Skinner and Spruce Streets here.

The featured speaker is Evangelist Larry Poole of Charlotte. Prayer for the sick and afflicted will be offered along with special music in the services which begin each evening at 7:30. The public is invited to attend the services which are scheduled to continue through Sunday, Oct. 10.

Reports Thefts During Thursday

BETHEL — Police Chief Walter Gray has reported the theft of items valued at approximately $700 from the mobile trailer home of Jessie B. Lassiter, South Main St. in Bethel.

Among items which Gray says reportedly were taken from Lassiter's home sometime during the day Thursday are an electric guitar and amplifier, a stereo tape player, a television set and two 12-gauge shotguns. The theft was discovered by Lassiter late Thursday afternoon when he returned home from work.

Gray said investigation of the matter is being made.

The Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plain Development Association meeting was held here yesterday at the American Legion Home.

A program on the Developmental Evaluation Clinic, East Carolina University, highlighted the meeting. Representing the DEC were Dr. Malene Irons, Dr. Newsom Williams and Mrs. Jake Hadley. Slides were shown of the areas of work and functions of the DEC.

The purpose of the clinic is to provide a complete multidisciplinary evaluation of individuals with developmental disabilities and to develop a means to treat them more effectively. This process involves training for professional persons in cooperation with the university, coordinating and developing community resources and providing in-service training for communities.

Admission policies including age, appropriate referrals, residence, appointments for services, procedure and fees were discussed by Dr. Irons, Dr. Williams and Mrs. Hadley.

It was pointed out that the DEC was open in 1964 and covers seven counties—Wayne, Greene, Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Hyde and Beaufort. A question and answer period followed the program.

Mrs. R. A. Davis of Pitt County, chairman, conducted the meeting. She announced the new officers of the Home Economics Division as being: Mrs. Earl Sigmon, Halifax County, chairman; Mrs. Earl Wooten, Edgecombe County, vice-chairman; and Mrs. J. T. Benthall, Hertford County, secretary.

Mrs. Davis also reviewed the objectives of the Home Economics Division. The devotion was given by Mrs. Nathan Smith and Mrs. Sigmon introduced guests. The minutes were read by Mrs. Wooten. The four committees included in the Home Economics Division, food, clothing, housing and publicity, held sessions following the program.

Reports from the committees included: Housing, a plaque for outstanding beautification was awarded to Wilson County; projects, plans and goals for next year were reviewed; Publicity, an awards program has been established to select the best overall committee in the Home Economics Division to recognize and the work of the four committees, which will be based on judged yearly reports.

Clothing, 271 dresses were turned in to be distributed at Cherry Hospital and dresses for Caswell Center will be a project; Foods, announcement was made of the North Carolina-Virginia Peanut Trade Show will be held at Farmers Warehouse, Ahoskie, in February; a feature of the trade show will be "Cook A Peanut Contest" and entry blanks were distributed at the meeting.

Announcements included that the January meeting of the Home Economics Division will be held in Wilson County. The Coastal Plain Development Association annual awards banquet will be held in Greenville at the Moose Lodge Nov. 18. The annual North Carolina Arts and Crafts Fair will be held in Rocky Mount Nov. 11-13. Guided tours of the Developmental Evaluation Clinic were held during the afternoon.

Counties comprising the Coastal Plain area are: Beaufort; Bertie; Edgecombe; Halifax; Hertford; Martin; Nash; Northampton; Pitt; and Wilson.

Mrs. Davis also reviewed the objectives of the Home Economics Division. The devotion was given by Mrs. Nathan Smith and Mrs. Sigmon introduced guests. The minutes

Cocido: It Comes From Spain

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Cocido, a Spanish soup-stew, has recently come into great favor at our house. Once you try it, you too may want to offer it regularly.

We enjoy serving Cocido for a light supper during the week or on Sunday. It's so easy to have ready, to heat and put on the table. With the Cocido you need lots of crusty bread and sweet butter; after it, salad and perhaps cheese, then dessert.

Yams or sweet potatoes are often used in Cocido and classic recipes call for adding them to the pot during the last 20 minutes or so of cooking. When we tried this, we found the solid pieces in the soup-stew stuck to the bottom of the pot. Now we steam the yams separately and add them along with their sweet juices. You'll find directions for doing this in the following recipe which is strictly our own version of the dish.

COCIDO U.S.A.

- 1/2 pound chorizo, sliced 1/4-inch thick (pork sausage, specially seasoned, available in some supermarkets and specialty food shops)
- 1 1/2 pounds chuck beef for stew, 1-inch cubes
- 1 large (3/4 to 1 pound) Spanish onion, coarsely chopped
- 2 medium carrots, pared and thinly sliced
- 1 can (1 pound) peeled plum tomatoes, undrained
- 2 tablespoons instant beef granules dissolved in 5 cups water
- 1 can (1 pound, 5 ounces) chick peas, undrained
- 3/4 to 1 pound yams (pared and cut into 2-inch chunks), steamed according to note below

Salt and pepper to taste

In a 5-quart saucepot lightly brown the chorizo; remove with a slotted spoon. To drippings in saucepot add beef and brown briskly; just before beef has finished browning, add onion and stir to brown lightly. Add carrots, tomatoes and beef bouillon; simmer, covered, until beef is tender — about 1 1/2 hours. Chill; remove some of the hardened fat according to the note below. Add chick peas and the steamed yams and their juices plus salt and pepper; reheat. Serve in large soup bowls as a main dish. Makes 6 servings.

(Note: For steaming the yams you need a steamer with a solid bottom or you need to concoct one. The steamer we use was once called a "bungalow cooker," and it was the late Elsie Masterton (author of the Blueberry Hill Cookbooks) who first sang its virtues. This steamer has an upper pan with a solid bottom and perforations at the top of its sides. However, there are many ways to improvise a solid-bottom steamer. Mary Greene, our recipe tester, uses our recipe for Cocido at home and improvises this way: she puts a rack in the bottom of a large saucepot and stands a heatproof bowl on the rack. Into the bowl goes a colander (with legs or a pedestal bottom) and the yams go into the bowl. She pours water into the saucepot, making sure there is enough for steaming but not so much that it will flow into the bowl. The pot is covered tightly and the water is kept boiling while the yams cook. Yams, pared and cut into 2-inch chunks, usually take from 10 to 20 minutes to steam.

Removing fat: Enough of the fat must be left to give good flavor without having the soup-stew greasy. We remove most of the fat, then add more as the cocido heats, tasting and observing, until there is just the right amount.)

Mom's House Habits A Sign Of Illness

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26 and the mother of two boys, ages 3 and 5. My mother, a widow, lives about an hour's drive from me, but I refuse to visit her again because of the condition of her house.

She NEVER washes her kitchen and bathroom floors! The toilet doesn't work, and the stench is unbearable. She has so many cats running around you can't count them, and you can smell their urine even before you open her front door. (She burns candles to mask the odor.)

I don't claim to be a perfect housekeeper, but I can't tolerate filth and germs. I'm so afraid my children will pick up something there. My oldest son refused to sit on her toilet. I cleaned up the place a year ago but she hasn't done a thing to it since. The last time we were there she wanted to give us dinner, but we lied and said we just ate. (My husband won't even have a glass of water there!)

Abby, I've done all I can. I feel guilty not visiting her, but I just can't stand the way she lives. Am I wrong?

ONLY DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes! Your mother must be sick to live with the conditions you describe. Please pack her up immediately and take her to a doctor for a thorough physical and mental examination. She should not be living alone!

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell your ex-mother-in-law who insists that you are still part of her "family" that you don't want to be?

I hate to come right out and insult the woman, but I may have to. I have been divorced from her daughter for three years and am now married to another woman, but whenever my former mother-in-law sees me, she calls me "Son." She keeps trying to be friendly with my present wife, telling her that she is also now part of her family.

This irritates me to no end, Abby. There is no religious reason for her ignoring my divorce since she is an atheist.

BOtherED IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR BOTHERED: If she wants to consider you and your wife part of her "family," let her. YOU know better, but nothing will be gained by insulting her or making an issue of it.

FATTIES DIET FOR HUNGRY KIDS
NEW YORK (AP) — A total of 40,423 pounds of fat was converted into $60,000 by dieters in the United States and Canada who lost weight to earn money to feed starving children in countries that CARE, International serves.

More than 1,000 overweight persons participated in a Diet Workshop Lose-a-Thon for Care, earning the money by enlisting sponsors to make a contribution for each pound lost.

School Site Patterns Change

Our school system has changed radically in the past 15 years, and with it has come a change in where schools need to be located.

Last week the city school board declared two parcels of property surplus and put them up for sale with the proceeds to go toward the construction of the new middle school. One was in Meadowbrook and the other in Lynndale. Both were intended for elementary schools at one time. There was a total of around 25 acres in the two parcels.

With the present attendance patterns in the school system it was deemed that the two sites would not be needed for additional schools.

Then also last week the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Committee voted to request that a new middle school be constructed in the area of the Ayden-Grifton School. It would serve sixth, seventh and eighth grade students of the Ayden and Grifton communities.

The combined middle school was seen as an opportunity to provide programs which are not available in two separate schools.

It wasn't so long ago that the question was whether to combine the Ayden and Grifton High Schools in one major high school. This was done and obviously has worked to the benefit of both communities.

We think the city board is taking a logical step in selling the now unneeded school sites.

And the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Committee has shown foresight in recommending a new combined middle school to serve the general area.

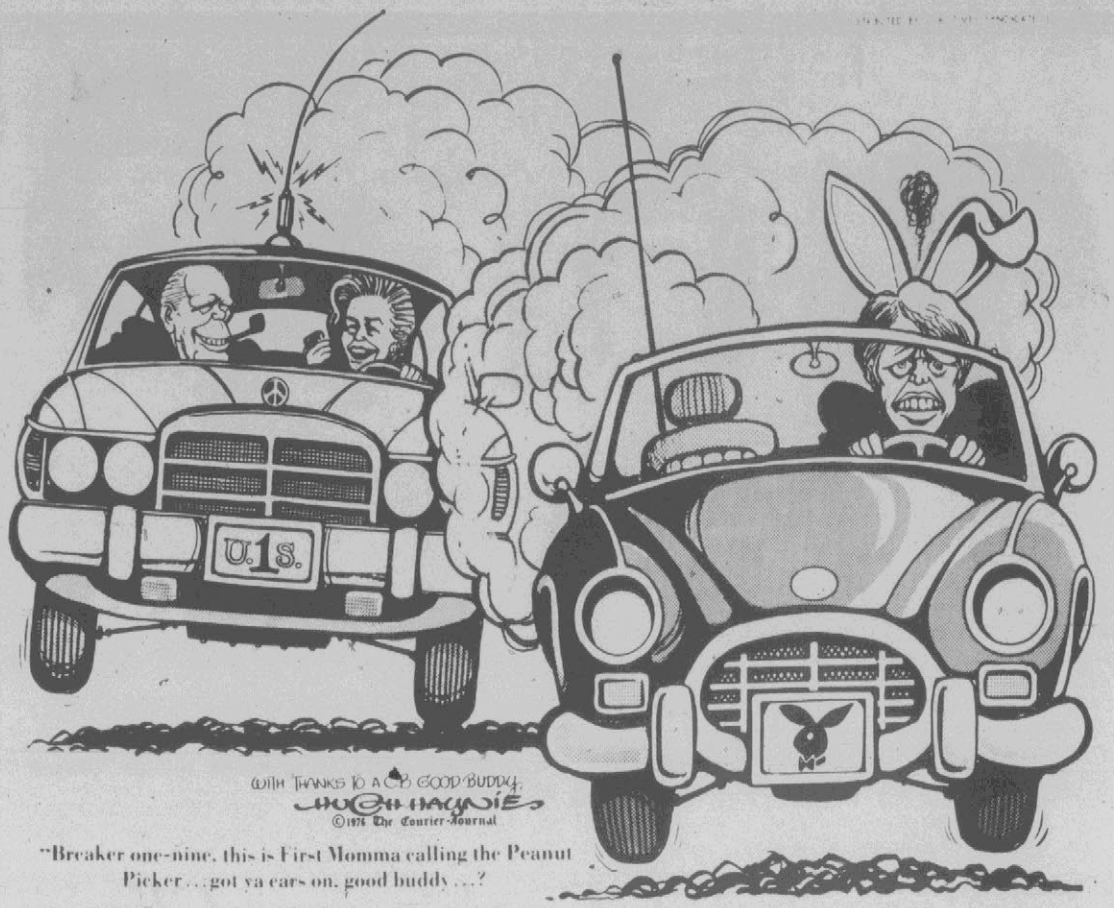

Membership Offers More Resources

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce has become a member of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

A membership certificate was presented to the local Chamber by Frank Melton of the U. S. Chamber. It was accepted by President Don Collier.

The membership should give the local chamber resources that it did not formerly have. We think U. S. Chamber membership will be good for the local chamber and for the entire community.

Hollywood Is Interested

WASHINGTON — Hollywood has suddenly discovered Washington, D.C., as a source for situation comedy. Those of us who live here have known for years there was more situation comedy in the capital than in all the 50 states combined. But it was only after Watergate that the TV moguls realized how many laughs you could get out of this town.

A week doesn't go by that I don't receive a call from a television producer on the coast who is planning a situation comedy on Washington and asks for help in developing a series. I've been giving it a lot of thought, and here are just a few of the ideas that I think could work.

A CIA agent (hopefully we can get Dick Van Dyke) is having an affair with the wife of a congressman (Hope Lange?) who is miffed because she knows her husband (Don Adams?) is having an affair with his secretary (Mary Tyler Moore?)

One afternoon the congressman comes home and finds Dick in the congressman's bathrobe and Hope in her nightie. He is immediately suspicious and demands to know what Dick is doing in his bathrobe. Dick thinks fast and says, "I'm bugging your phone on orders of Henry Kissinger."

This infuriates the congressman who says he's going to call Dick before the House Ethics Committee. He hands Dick what he thinks is a subpoena, but it turns out to be a photograph of his secretary swimming nude in the Tidal Basin. This embarrasses the congressman and he begs Dick not to give the photo to The Washington Post.

Just then the nosy neighbor from next door (Nancy Walker?) comes in to borrow Hope's hair dryer. She reveals that the CIA agent has been at the house every afternoon for two months.

"Then you didn't come to bug my phone?" the congressman says.

"No," replies Dick, "I've been having an affair with your wife."

"Wow," says the congressman, "what a relief! I thought the bathrobe was just a cover."

Everyone laughs at the congressman's stupid mistake. He drives off to vote on a tax bill, with Dick and Hope waving goodbye to him from the door.

Another situation comedy that could work because it has an adult theme has to do with a show about a presidential candidate's daughter. She's 8 years old and she's always getting in some kind of trouble. One day she's out selling Girl Scout cookies and happens to walk into an abortion clinic.

One of Jack Anderson's people spots her and leaks the story that the candidate's daughter is going to have an abortion. When the presidential candidate hears about this, he immediately goes on television and announces he's changed his mind on abortion from his previous position which, as everyone knows, was much clearer than that of his opponent.

Cheap Soviet Mails

By TOM KENT
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — While the cost of mailing a letter has risen in the United States from 3 cents to 13 cents since World War II, the price of a first class stamp in the Soviet Union has remained for all those years at 4 kopeks, or 5 cents at the current official exchange rate.

In addition to that, the Soviet post office claims it isn't losing money. The U.S. Postal Service lost nearly a billion dollars in the 1975 fiscal year.

But the Soviet balance sheet benefits from government ownership of the air and rail lines that carry the mail and from much lower salaries for postal workers. A mailman here is said to earn the equivalent of $105 a month as opposed to more than $14,000 a year an

40 Years Ago Today

October 1, 1936
The French chamber of deputies late today gave final approval to devaluation of the franc, adopting the monetary measure with the compromise clause on price-fixing decreed by a vote of 354 to 217.

The vote meant that only the promulgation of President Albert LeBrun is necessary to make reduction of the gold content of the franc a law.

Before the final ballot, the chamber had adopted the compromise senate clause which provides a check on efforts by the government to control the cost of living.

THIS AFTERNOON Handle On Federal Cash

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — State legislators trying to get some handle on federal funds spent in North Carolina — and they find out just how complex that situation is.

There are more than 1,000 federal assistance programs now being offered to state, county, or city governmental agencies, nonprofit organizations, and even private citizens.

Best estimates are that well over $6 billion per year in federal funds are funneled into North Carolina — and the state doesn't even have a system to determine how that money is spent, or even for certain how much money is being spent.

But it is clear that with federal dollars totalling well over three times the spending level of the entire State General Fund budget ($2 billion) the impact is great.

Seek Answers
The Intergovernmental Relations Study Committee of the General Assembly has been working through the summer to find out the situation, and to come up with some ideas for solving the problem.

Two suggestions are currently being debated by that study group:

1. That the flow of federal dollars into state and local programs and agencies be taken into account in the budget process of the General Assembly. At this point, legislative information is purely hit-or-miss.

2. That a permanent commission be set up with both state and local government represented to study and recommend improvements in the system, and seek equitable use of federal funds across the state.

North Carolina is not alone in this dilemma. To date, 13 states have set up some legislative systems for trying to monitor federal spending.

The most effective approach, according to State Senator E. Lawrence Davis, D-Forsyth, chairman of the Intergovernmental Relations Study Committee, is one requiring a payback system.

When a legislature approves state funds for a particular agency or program, a provision is written in that should any agency obtain federal funds, it will have to give back to the state an equal amount of state dollars. That money is put into a reserve fund for future use in the state budget.

Such a procedure would at least eliminate the problem in which agencies are drawing down funds from two or more sources without either knowing about the other.

Other Problems

But it would not work against the variety of other problems seen in the present system — or lack thereof. A major problem for local governments is the practice of setting up programs using federal funds which are designed to expire in a year, or two, with local officials expected to keep the project going with local money.

Another concern is the federal tendency to reward "grantsmanship." Agencies which search the catalog, discover available funding programs, and write up the best application may get the money, while another with genuine need gets nothing.

And then, there is the "easy flow" of federal funds, and the effect that has on both state and local officials. People tend to treat federal dollars as free money — money which should be sought without restraint and used without the same fiscal controls which govern local taxpaid dollars.

With an unknown number of local and state agencies (both public and private) competing for federal funds through a host of competing and conflicting state agencies operating under the 1,000-plus federal grants programs, the legislative study commission is investigating the idea of a full-time state commission with staff support to try to bring order out of the federal-dole chaos.

The District Misses Ford

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The Republican's really miss Gerald Ford — they miss him in Michigan's 5th Congressional District seat which he held for 25 years. There's a Democrat there now.

The GOP hopes the Democrat won't be there much longer, and want to replace him with Harold Sawyer, 56, who became a millionaire in private law practice before his appointment as Kent County prosecutor.

But overturning Rep. Richard VanderVeen, 54, who also became wealthy practicing law before taking office, will be difficult.

The two parties insist their side will win the seat which Ford vacated when named vice president in 1973. Both sides cite polls showing they hold the lead, though neither will provide poll data to justify their claims.

The only poll to surface is one conducted for the state GOP by Market Opinion Research. That early September poll, according to Sawyer's campaign manager, showed VanderVeen leading by 14 percentage points. Twelve per cent were undecided, he said.

VanderVeen's record during 2½ years in Congress has been the main issue raised so far. Federal spending and a claim that the Democrat has voted to override every one of President Ford's vetoes are two of Sawyer's main targets.

Sawyer has compared VanderVeen's voting with that of New York's liberal Democratic Rep. Bella Abzug.

"His (VanderVeen's) record has not been consistent with what I would judge to be the majority of the people of this district on a whole lot of issues," said Robert Eleveld, 5th Dist. GOP chairman, repeating a favorite Sawyer theme.

Eleveld says that votes against Ford's vetoes and for a congressional pay raise will "haunt" the Democrat. He also says VanderVeen's record on abortion will hurt in a district with so many Christian Reformed and Catholic voters.

Watergate is another — if seldom discussed — campaign issue.

"The Nixon pardon (by Ford) is still a very live issue in this community," said Bob Kleiner, the district's Democratic chairman.

Still to be assessed is recent disclosure that the Watergate special prosecutor has subpoenaed a decade's worth of records from Kent County GOP headquarters. The target of that probe remains a mystery.

District voters' sentiments were indicated in a poll taken by the Grand Rapids Press shortly after VanderVeen's victory in a February 1974 special election to succeed Ford.

The poll showed a majority of voters surveyed considered VanderVeen's Republican opponent best qualified to be their man in Congress. But 67 per cent said they felt the Watergate scandal was that campaign's biggest issue.

Sawyer also faces questions from that period. He backed VanderVeen publicly then, siding with the Democrat's call for Nixon to leave office.

This year's campaign has been conducted mostly through appearances at events such as neighborhood parades and speeches before civic groups. Both men limited their early campaigning because of their jobs. No face-to-face sessions have occurred, although three are scheduled for October.

President Ford plans to be in the district election eve in order to vote at his East Grand Rapids polling place

Strength For Today

MAN-CENTERED OR GOD-CENTERED?

There have been generations which were God-centered in their thinking, others in which people were thought-centered, and others which were pleasure-centered.

The thirteenth through the sixteenth centuries were God-centered. Religion held men's minds with a mighty grip. In the days of the Greek philosophers many people were thought-centered. In the decadent period of the Roman empire, generation after generation passed its days in a search for sensuality and pleasure.

We live in an age which is different from those of the past in that it is man-centered. Science for the last 150 years has been revealing the increasing power of mankind to control the environment and make all things work together for men's welfare.

But this emphasis on man can be disastrous if it is not counter-balanced by an emphasis on the power and purpose of God. In controlling the environment man is polluting it. The power to create a better life is spawning even greater powers for destruction.

Examining 'Economic Pause'

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — We are now examining the economic pause, wondering if it is the exhaustion of a tired old cycle or the pacing of a young and vigorous expansion that will soon reassert itself. We don't know.

What we are certain of is that economic activity has slowed, and not just in scattered areas or in particular industries. The manifestations are found broadly, in sales and stocks and consumer attitudes, to name a few areas.

The index of leading economic indicators ceased advancing in August for the first decline in 18 months. Durable goods orders fell in August for the second month in a row. There are layoffs in steel.

Should we therefore bury hopes of a continued advance? By no means. To do so would be to produce the consequence we hope to avoid. There is still lots of hope, and even some bullishness.

In their public statements, businessmen continue to be optimistic. As expected, the salesmen on Wall Street are convinced the economy is merely resting itself for a gigantic leap. And the econometric model makers assure us their numerical reconstructions of the economy produce a very positive answer.

While their efforts are understandable, their impact has been small. Fabian Linden, consumer director of The Conference Board, put it as well as it can be put. "We appear to be in the middle of an awesome yawn," he said.

"Our measures of consumer sentiment and buying plans are going nowhere," he added, and "none of the economic indicators are telling us with conviction where the economy might be heading."

Linden's comment was made before the latest report on leading indicators, which showed a drop of 1.5 per cent in August, but they still might hold. One month doesn't make a quarter.

It takes at least three months of declines to establish a downturn, said John Kendrick, chief economist of the Commerce Department. "If there are further drops in the index for September and October, the economy is in trouble."

Kendrick expressed some optimism that components that make up the index might be improving this month, but the mere fact that they dipped, even if only briefly, suggests some weakness.

The coincidence with the pause of the political conventions and the presidential and congressional races hardly can be ignored, suggesting possibly that the uncertain future of political economics might be playing a role.

In a consumer society, of which the United States is the leading example, the role of individual attitudes toward spending, and the role of leadership, are paramount economic considerations.

Perhaps then the pause is really a suspension, a suspension of economic activity while people assess the candidates and determine the directions that leadership might take. With that made clear, conceivably the pause could end.

But come to think of it, we might also be left bored and listless and, as Linden said, "in the middle of an awesome yawn."

Ford Disclaims Personal Gain In Campaign Funds

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Their debate on foreign policy is less than a week away, and Jimmy Carter and President Ford are using different tactics to turn attention toward their stands on world affairs.

Carter, continuing a strategy that has had him moving briskly about the country, was in the Northeast on Thursday, where he attacked Ford's policies in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, Ford continued his strategy of remaining at home in Washington where he was meeting foreign ministers at the White House.

But Ford's problems with a federal investigation into his congressional campaign finances kept surfacing. Ford had been under pressure from Carter and from Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale to meet with reporters and answer questions about the special prosecutor's probe of records of the GOP organization in Ford's home district in Michigan.

So at a quickly called news conference Thursday, Ford vowed to reporters that he had never diverted any campaign funds to his personal use and expressed hope that the Watergate special prosecutor would complete his investigation quickly.

Ford said "no money ever went to me personally" from his political campaigns.

Carter, campaigning in Boston, said he was willing to accept Ford's statement and, as far as he was concerned, the matter was closed.

But late Thursday, the Justice Department said it was Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and other top department officials who told the Watergate special prosecutor there were allegations involving campaign money irregularities in Ford's home congressional district. That started the special prosecutor's probe.

Ford's running mate, Sen. Bob Dole, had been attributing the special prosecutor's investigation to political motives.

But a Justice Department spokesman said the allegation was made to the FBI by an informant and that the FBI referred the matter to Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler. It was Tyler who sent the matter in July to Watergate special prosecutor Charles Ruff.

The department spokesman said Tyler at the time was unsure whether the allegations involved Ford.

"The allegation was that there might have been some violation of the election laws, some laundering of money that was used as contributions in Kent County or Grand Rapids," Tyler said, according to the spokesman.

Published reports have said the unidentified informant told the FBI that Ford illegally diverted campaign funds to his own use. The reports say the money was contributed by maritime unions to the Kent County GOP organization and then was funneled secretly to Ford.

At his news conference Thursday, Ford also was asked about reports that he accepted golfing weekends from four major corporations while he was a congressman. He said he saw nothing improper about accepting the corporate hospitality.

Carter, touring the Northeast, was critical of Ford's reliance on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and on the tone of U.S. foreign policy under Ford.

In Portland, Maine, he said Ford had abdicated his foreign policy duty to Kissinger and that U.S. policy now "is conducted in secret by one person who is not the president and who has no regard ... for morality."

And he said U.S. foreign policy "in the last few years has been amoral in nature. There's been no commitment to truth. There's been no constant search to correct the deprivation of human rights ... there's been no openness because there's a lot to be concealed." In Boston, Carter rapped the sale of offensive missiles to Saudi Arabia and Ford's approach to the Arab boycott of U.S. firms that do business with Israel. He said if he is president an oil embargo by Saudi Arabia or other oil-producers will bring retaliation in the form of an embargo on sales of all U.S. goods to that country.

In regard to any Arab boycott, he said it is "a disgrace when a foreign country can tell a U.S. company it can't do business with them if they have a Jew on their board of directors. We can't afford any more to yield to that kind of blackmail."

He said the Ford administration "has consistently opposed strong enforcement of the antiboycott laws now on the books, and it is doing everything in its power to keep needed new legislation from being passed."

Earlier, at Buffalo, N.Y., Carter pledged to try to send a delegation to Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos to attempt to account for Americans still listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Mondale was in Pennsylvania on Thursday, suggesting that a Carter administration could save the nation $10 billion by removing "special shelters that unjustifiably protect income from taxation."

He later backed off that figure, saying, "I cannot be specific. I used a very general ballpark figure of $10 billion. It's somewhere in the neighborhood of that. What I used that figure I was not using it as a figure I totaled up."

Mondale did not specify what shelters he was discussing, but in the past he has said they include such things as tax allowances for oil companies and deferrals that postpone taxes on overseas income.

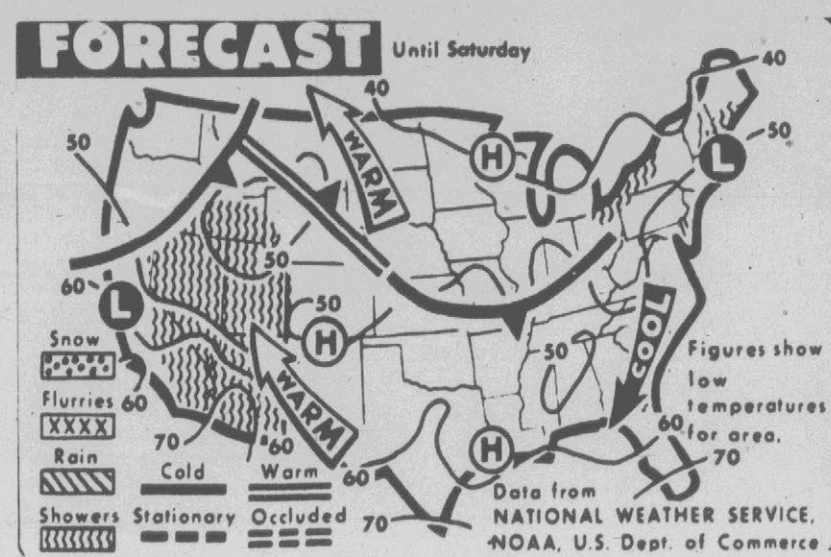

Dole returned to Washington late Thursday after a campaign trip during which he said Carter appeals to prejudices against rich people. The GOP vice — presidential nominee called Carter a man of "wild ambition and one we can ignore only at our own peril."

Dole also acknowledged that 10 pages were ripped out of a ledger of his 1973-74 campaign finance records. The ledger was examined by federal prosecutors during an investigation into illegal Gulf Oil Corp. political contributions.

But Dole, who says he received no Gulf money, illegal or otherwise, said prosecutors did not seem concerned with the missing pages.

early on election day. Thus far, there is no indication the President will stump for Sawyer.

Two years ago, VanderVeen survived a personal appeal which Ford issued in Grand Rapids three days before the November election. The President said he wanted his old district back in the GOP column.

But VanderVeen almost doubled his victory margin over the February race.

Things have changed in the 5th District. The district, stretching east from Grand Rapids into Ionia County and scattered rural townships of four other counties, is diverse both economically and politically.

Grand Rapids and the suburban cities nearby ringing it contain about three-fourths of the district's residents and much of its industry.

Politically, there has been a growing tendency toward ticket splitting, especially in Grand Rapids and its Kent County suburbs. Democrats now have many legislative and county commission posts, although most countywide and local offices remain in Republican hands.

Then he comes home and discovers that his daughter not only wasn't going to have an abortion, but sold all her Girl Scout cookies to women who were.

"Most of them were famished," his daughter tells him.

The candidate then goes back on television and says he is reversing himself on the abortion issue and going back to his original position which was that, while he personally was against abortion, he didn't think people who wanted them should be deprived of Girl Scout cookies while they sat in the waiting room, unless Congress voted against it.

A widowed general (Tony Randall) stationed at the Pentagon accidentally stuffs his 12-year-old son's homework assignment into his briefcase and takes it to the office. The composition concerns a death ray the son has written about that can kill people from outer space.

The general's aide, a dumb colonel (Jack Klugman), submits the homework assignment to the Joint Chiefs of Staff who vote to spend $100 million developing the new weapon.

When the general realizes his mistake he tries to get his kid's composition back, but it's been marked TOP SECRET.

In desperation the general gives his son a report written by the Rand Corporation on the cruise missile. The kid gets an F from his teacher, because the assignment wasn't handed in on time.

To make it up to him the general takes the kid to the Super Bowl on a Lockheed private jet, provided by the company because it got the contract to build the death ray.

American letter carrier makes. The average factory worker's wage in the Soviet Union is $195 a month.

The Soviet post office refused to grant an interview to talk about the postal service, so no official claim is available about the quality of postal worker performance. One Soviet source said the average Soviet post office employee is 2½ times less efficient than his American counterpart, largely because of a lack of automation.

Test mailings by The Associated Press found it takes only two or three days for ordinary letters to travel from Leningrad to Moscow, a distance of about 430 miles.

But letters can take up to five to seven days to travel about 800 miles from the Crimea on the Black Sea to Moscow.

Letters traveling across the United States can be delivered in two to three days.

In major cities, the mail carrier, often an old woman, comes seven days a week. Service includes same-day delivery of newspapers and usually 24-hour delivery of letters sent within city limits.

The country has no junk advertising mail and most people pay their bills in person, not by post. But balancing this is the sheer size of the country, the government's effort to keep a permanently staffed post office in every settlement of 200 or more people and the need to serve countless arctic and military outposts.

Published figures show the Soviet post office had to handle 48 billion items in 1974 (an average of 19 items for every citizen), compared to 89 billion in the United States (an average of 440 items for each member of America's smaller population). More than three-quarters of the Russian system's load was newspapers and magazines; in the United States, about 12 per cent of mail consists of periodicals.

70s elsewhere.

Lows tonight will dip into the 40s in the mountains and some sections of the eastern slopes. They will be in the 50s elsewhere.

Highs Saturday will be in the 60s and 70s again. Sunday and Monday look good. But a frontal system approaching from the north may bring showers Tuesday.

High temperatures will be in the 70s on Sunday, warming to the 80s by Tuesday.

A low-pressure area and associated frontal system moved across the state Wednesday. Actually two lows moved across, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Severe weather developed ahead of the second. Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued by the National Weather Service because of a solid line of thunderstorms in the northern Piedmont.

Marble-sized hail fell for about half an hour near Taylorsville. Another storm was accompanied by wind gusts of over 40 miles an hour near Charlotte. There was street flooding in southern Virginia, where three inches of rain fell in under an hour.

The most rain in North Carolina was about 2½ inches at Hickory. Cape Hatteras had just over two inches. Other amounts were generally under an inch.

The rain was good news for the Raleigh area, which gets its water from the Neuse River basin. The river got drenched by a line of heavy thunderstorms.

Highs Wednesday ranged from 65 at Asheville and Greensboro to 84 at Jacksonville.

WHEN THE SPIRIT HITS YOU... When prior planning, but simply reacting on the spur of the moment, half a dozen East Carolina University students decided to do something for Greenville. The result was a volunteer clean up period on the vacant lot west of Reade Street and south of East Fourth Street. "You might say it's a clean-up of the Thursday night debris," one student remarked. Another student, saying "we're concerned about trash," added, "We're thinking about doing this at different spots around town." The six students, five men and one woman, were joined in this effort by two young non-student men. A man passing by voiced his pleasure about what he feels is "a fine thing for these young people to be doing." (Reflector photo by Jerry Raynor)

Prison Inmates Include Some Seeking Religion

By HENRY GOTTLIEB
Associated Press Writer
RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — As a house of worship it attracts few holy men. It has barbed wire and gun turrets to keep parishioners inside and one of the ministers is a bank robber.

But the maximum security state prison here does have religion. There are inmates desperate for something to believe in. And there are those struggling to use a few minutes of prayer to escape in their minds from the grim surroundings. "I can't think of any place where there's more need for faith," says Pat Barrett, director of social services for the New Jersey prison system. Rahway State Prison is a maximum security jail. It is the Sing Sing and San Quentin of New Jersey — filled with 1,100 felons mostly produced by the ghettos of Newark, Passaic, Trenton, Paterson and other industrial towns. The prison population is 80 per cent black. "The overwhelming majority of those here are not religious in any organized, systematic way," says Protestant Chairman William Barrett, no relation. "When a man seeks faith, the peer group here doesn't say, 'Oh gee you're a Christian, how great." Nevertheless, about 50 persons attend Barrett's services on Sundays, and 25 take part in a special study group every Tuesday night. Most have sought the comfort of prayer since entering prison; few ever attended services before they were incarcerated, Barrett says. Barrett has been chaplain for two months and has hopes for growth. "Right now we have a group of people who come to church, but it's not really a community," he says. "They come to church for the same reasons those outside do — they are people for whom Christ is the center of life. After they have been here a while they see that clearly." The largest organized religious group in the prison is the Nation of Islam, which attracts about 200 inmates to its Saturday services. "If the people here had followed the teachings of religion before they came here, they wouldn't be here," says W.E. Rabb, elected by his fellow Muslim inmates to be their minister. Rabb, serving a 12-year sentence for bank robbery, leads prayers in the chapel. His sermons preach the evils of drugs and homosexuality and he reports to his listeners on the progress of efforts to persuade prison authorities to drop pork from the menu. The effort, made on religious principles, has been unsuccessful so far. "We try to teach ourselves to rule our emotions, and not let the gangster mentality that put us here to control our lives," says Rabb. Rabb also acknowledges that the Muslim organization serves two purposes — religious and political. Rabb is co-chairman of the inmate grievance committee, a position he achieved with the votes of his adherents. As a bloc, the Muslims are a force to be reckoned with in the complex prison social order, Rabb says, describing his group as an "assist to the authorities."

Homecoming At Will Serve Church Sunday

The annual homecoming will be observed at Pleasant Hill F.W.B. Church, located on Highway 43 near Calico Crossroads, Sunday beginning at 10 a.m. with Sunday School. Morning worship services will be held at 11 a.m. followed by lunch on the grounds at 12:30. All former pastors, members and friends are invited. A song service will be held during the afternoon featuring the church choir, quartet and other participants. The Rev. Graham Lane will conduct a fall revival beginning Monday and continuing through Oct. 9. Services will start each evening at 7:45. The public is invited.

MELVIN CLARK
Clark comes here from a church in Tulsa, Okla., where he served in the same position for the past two years. Originally from Chocowinity, he is a graduate of Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn. and has done graduate work at the University of Tulsa. A missionary candidate, he has served short terms in Puerto Rico and Mexico.

Revival Planned October 4-9

Revival services will be held at Deliverance Tabernacle Church of Christ at Winterville Rt. 1 October 4-9. Evangelist Betty Gardner will be the guest speaker at the first service October 3 at 11 a.m. The following are guest speakers for the revival services which will begin nightly at 7:30 p.m.: Evangelist Vanestine Bankes, of Ayden, Monday; Evangelist Innitta Fleming of Greenville, Tuesday; Eldress Joanna Garris of Ayden, Wednesday; Eldress Norma Becton of New Bern, Thursday; Eldress C. L. Horton of Rocky Mount, Friday; and Elder C. D. McNeill of Kinston, Saturday. The public is invited.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

WINTERVILLE — Immanuel Free Will Baptist Church will observe homecoming Sunday. Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m. with classes for all ages. The Rev. Adam Scott of Homerville, Ga., founding pastor of Immanuel, will bring the homecoming message at the 11 a.m. hour. The congregation will assemble at the Winterville Community Building for the noon meal and will then return to the church for an afternoon singing service to begin at 2 p.m. featuring the Melody Makers of Black Jack. The pastor, Rev. Alfred Cates, extends an invitation to the public.

Multi-Billion Dollar Error Stirs Census Bureau

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversy over an alleged multibillion-dollar error in a vital statistical indicator of economic strength is stirring the U.S. Census Bureau.

The error, alleged to have been covered up for nearly four years, conceivably could have led to faulty government and business decisions by badly understating the backlog of unfilled orders at the nation's factories.

As a consequence of believing orders were weaker than they really were, manufacturers may have cut production and hastened the descent into the recession of late 1973 and 1974.

If correct, the allegations by a bureau statistician would suggest the economy was stronger than the statistics showed both before and through the recession and that the strength of the current recovery may be overstated.

A high Census Bureau official conceded there were errors, but he said they were not of the magnitude or the consequences claimed and said no coverup existed. On the contrary, the official said, revisions are under way and corrected statistics will be released before the end of the year.

John Kendrick, Commerce Department chief economist, promised a statement on the allegations shortly.

The controversy was set off by John Bullock, a survey statistician (economist). He said in an interview that his repeated requests, through channels, for a public warning about the so-called M-3 series, which measures the backlog, were ignored.

Bullock, 29, said the figures were understated by perhaps 50 per cent or more. He claims that errors have obscured the recovery's degree of dependence on a backlog of already existing orders.

The errors, Bullock said, are the consequence of a systematic bias resulting from faulty estimates and statistical adjustments, that have accumulated at a 4 to 5 per cent rate over 14 years. He said he uncovered the defect in 1972.

Rather than being an actual count based on reports from manufacturers, the unfilled orders series is an estimate based on replies from a percentage of the nation's manufacturers.

It is in this statistical procedure, Bullock maintains, that there has been a "slippage."

Over the years, he said, the standards of these estimates have not been maintained, until now "you cannot compare the series to itself." That is, the current series cannot be intelligently matched against earlier estimates, he said.

Asked about the allegations of statistical errors, a spokesman for the House Subcommittee on Census and Population, Donald Terry, said flatly: "Bullock is right. There is a gross understatement."

Terry said: "Regardless of the basis of the allegations, they are substantial and should have been checked out. It poses the question: Why not four years ago?"

Bullock said repeated requests that his findings be examined led only to frustration until this spring when, he said, an examination revealed them to be essentially correct.

Nevertheless, he said, his efforts to have a public warning issued were denied, despite complaints to Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson and Vincent Barabba, then chief of the Census Bureau, and assurances from Kendrick that revisions would be made later.

Shirley Kalleck, the bureau's associate director for census fields, disputes Bullock's claims that he was ignored. She said the bureau consulted with the American Economic Association and the American Statistical Association and that the National Bureau of Economic Research was now under contract to correct the figures.

"There are some errors in the level of unfilled orders," she said, "but nothing of the magnitude that Mr. Bullock is talking about. He's been talking about this for four years."

She said Bullock has "many, many problems with the bureau" and that "before this, he was complaining about another survey."

Miss Kalleck said that while the level of unfilled orders is in error, the month-to-month changes are basically reliable. Bullock claims the monthly changes also are misleading.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Col., chairman of the House subcommittee on census and population, said she was considering public hearings to determine who is to blame and what the economic consequences are.

Terry said he had discussed Bullock's claims with two statisticians "of considerable repute." After they indicated Bullock might be correct, Terry said, he contacted Barabba. Barabba replied, according to Terry, that Bullock "may have something" and said the bureau was checking into the claims.

Attempts last week to reach Barabba or Robert Hagen, his deputy, were unsuccessful. Both were reported to be in all-day conferences and could not be interrupted on Sept. 22, 23 or 24, Barabba's last day in office before assuming a position with the Xerox Corp.

Bullock maintains his attempts to examine and correct the figures led to threats that he would be charged with insubordination. He also believes he was denied a position super-viewing the preparation of weekly statistics for the President.

Bullock concedes that his repeated attempts to obtain a review and issuance of a warning resulted in frustration that probably made him somewhat "nasty."

Trout Streams Not Depleted

RALEIGH (AP) — A study by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has concluded that the state's liberal trout fishing season has not depleted trout streams.

In fact, the department said, trout populations have increased in some streams since the longer season was adopted two years ago. Under the new regulations, streams under "general" and "native" rules are closed only during March and "trophy" streams are open all year.

Wild Rice Harvest Can't Wait

WILD RICE HARVEST — Thousands of people take to canoes in northern Minnesota late each summer to harvest wild rice, using the same methods of Indians centuries ago. (AP Wirephoto)

By J.D. WILSON
Associated Press Writer
WALKER, Minn. (AP) — Judy Weiss and a companion lugged the canoe to the lakes of northern Minnesota, loaded it with a pair of 30-inch rice flails and a duckbilled pole and shoved off.

Four hours later they were back with aching muscles, dirty clothes, blistered hands and 162 pounds of wild rice. Later, they sold their harvest for $113.

Miss Weiss, a secretary, and her companion were among the thousands who take canoes and rice boats into the lake country late each summer to harvest wild rice. They use the same methods the Chippewa Indians used centuries ago.

It's simple. A one-pound flail sweeps the rice stalks into the boat. The second flail knocks the blackish rice grains out of the stalks and into waiting receptacles.

Miss Weiss and the others like her — they call themselves ricers — say they harvest for the money. But they concede the call of the rice is as strong as the lure of the dollar.

"It's a necessary part of my income," said Roy Outhoudt, who closed his outboard motor repair shop to join the harvest. He said he expected to make up to $500 in the two-week season.

"The motors can wait until evening," he said. "The rice can't."

Minnesota tops all states in wild rice production, turning out about 1½ million pounds of finished rice each year. Agriculture officials estimate the state furnishes 75 per cent of the wild rice sold in grocery stores throughout the nation.

More than 1,500 persons paid the $4 fee at the Cass County Courthouse in Walker for the right to rice in state-controlled waters this season. Another 2,400 permits were sold to those who wanted to gather the grain on the Leech Lake Indian Reservation nearby.

"It's a damn love-hate thing," said Cass County Sheriff Louis Chalich, one of the big rice buyers in the area. "It's hard work but there's something about it."

Each afternoon during the rice season, Chalich is at home, his two-stall garage a rice-buying station. Ricers, some under verbal contract, drive vans and cars into his driveway, sweep leeches and worms from their rolled up trousers and hang rice sacks on a scale. Chalich pays 70 cents a pound.

Chalich said he will buy 25,000 pounds of rice, selling it to different retailers. He is one of about a dozen buyers in the county.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Jeannie Berg said ricing is a necessary part of the county's economy. "In a small town like this, most people have two or three deals going to keep alive and make enough money," she said. "Ricing is part of that."

Darrow Gibbs, who owns

Gibbs Wild Rice Plant at near-by Deer River, said more than half the 1.5 million pounds of unfinished rice he will buy will be from paddy growers who use machines to harvest the crop.

"The paddies are giving the market stability," Gibbs said. Chalich shrugged and agreed that some day rice paddies and plants like Gibbs' will run him out of business.

"Eventually they will do away with little guys like me," he said. "My days are numbered."

Research Role Under Survey By Europeans

By CARL HARTMAN ...
BRUSSELS (AP) — European experts calculate that real spending on scientific research and development in western Europe rose by 20 per cent in the first half of the 1970s, and not at all in the United States.

But the Europeans still had a good distance to go to catch up with spending on American science. In the 12 months ending June 1975 there was about $91 spent per citizen in the United States. In the European Common Market it was only about $56 a head during the calendar year 1975.

The Europeans point out that the United States has been active in some research for years, where they have only started dipping a toe — space, for example.

Amounts spent on research and development — r & d, in the bureaucrats' jargon — are an important indicator for the future. Today's laboratory experiment is the basis for a manufacturing plant next year — or 10 years from now.

The report says that the United States spends most of its federal research money on defense — 52 per cent. The Europeans spend only 22 per cent. Since 1970, U.S. spending on defense research has remained about level, when inflation is taken into account. In western Europe there has been a slow but steady drop, except in Britain.

American officials point out that research on weapons often produces results that benefit civilian industry.

The Europeans say research on human and social projects has been getting increased attention both in Europe and the U.S., compared with the attention given to technology. In the U.S. there has been a decline in the amount spent on technology since 1970, due in part to the decline in money for the space program since the landings on the moon. In 1970 the U.S. spent 23 per cent of its research money on space. In 1973 it was down to 13 per cent.

In the same period, American spending on energy research almost tripled, with about 5 per cent of all federal money for research going on energy in 1975. The rise in western Europe was somewhat smaller.

In Europe the biggest rate of increase was for investigation of social problems. The U.S. placed more emphasis on energy, basic technology and natural resources.

Within the Common Market itself, there was much variation in the spending on research. Italy, for example, devoted only .38 per cent of its gross national product in 1975, while West Germany put out over three times the proportion — 1.22 per cent — and the West Germans are much wealthier than the Italians.

Godfrey Refuses To Eat Grits

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur Godfrey says he'll be "darned if I eat any grits" during his stay in Dixie.

Godfrey, 73 and approaching his 47th year in broadcasting, is in Nashville to host a show which will be telecast later this season on the syndicated program "Music Hall America."

"Most of these motel restaurants serve you grits at a meal before they do the water. I'm not knocking Southern cooking, but I don't like grits," Godfrey said.

"I think grits is, are, a terrible thing to do to an ear of corn."

Godfrey added, "I've done a great many things in this business since that Oct. 5 night in 1929. I'd like to host another TV series and do some movies. I get some nibbles, but not too many catches."

George III Retreated To His Tiniest Palace

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — By one of history's little ironies, once King George III had lost the American colonies, he retreated to the tiniest, most frugal royal palace of them all.

That wasn't the intention. George wasn't doing some kind of penance.

But his choice of Kew Palace as a royal residence after the Revolutionary War left a remarkable legacy for this Bicentennial year.

A new restoration of Kew Palace has stripped two centuries away. To walk through it now is to feel as if the sick old King and Queen Charlotte have just stepped out to some royal function.

Partly this is because of personal reminders which the recent restorers found, some of them by accident.

In a bare little dressing room King George used for private devotions — he was singularly devout — a tiny closet came to light. It was the king's wig closet, and now holds powdered wigs again.

Inside a corner cupboard in the pages' waiting room, a faded list was discovered. Study showed it was in Queen Charlotte's handwriting — her reminder to the pages of how many tugs on which bell would summon them to which room.

It is still where she put it 175 years ago. Lists of the Prince of Wales' gambling debts kept turning up in odd corners. One room is set up for a harpsichord concert like those King George loved — a painting nearby shows one in progress in the palace. Another room is arranged for a game of queenly whist.

Tiny Kew Palace has been on public view for years, but recently the Department of the Environment moved in to restore it according to a new idea.

"Now we do far more meticulous research from documents," said Howard Yexley, the department's historic buildings architect, "and try to restore the predominant character of the building at the time of its principle use."

"At Kew we have tried to recreate the intimate little country house of about 1800 to which the king escaped from affairs of state."

The same-new notion has been used lately to restore Kensington Palace in central London, where King George's grand-daughter, Queen Victoria, was born.

Next to get the treatment may be the Queen's Cottage, a delightful thatched summer cottage which Queen Charlotte built in 1772 for tea parties in a corner of the park where Kew Palace stands.

That riverside park is now Kew Gardens, Britain's greatest and most famous botanic garden. King George and Queen Charlotte spent part of the American Revolution period at Kew in a palace called — ironically enough — the White House.

George acquired the house next door, a little Dutch-style building dating from 1831, as overflow housing for his 15 children. He and Charlotte moved in, re-naming it Kew Palace, when the White House was torn down and a grandiose new palace was begun but never finished.

George and Charlotte were the only king and queen to live at Kew. It was not always a happy house.

Infinity is a quantity that is greater than any assignable quantity.

British Currency Crisis Has Elements Of Disaster

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The plunge in the value of British money heralds a period of austerity for most Britons but is a boon for bargain-hunting American tourists, with dollars to spend on tweeds, silver and cashmere sweaters.

The steady decline in the value of the pound sterling against the dollar and major West European currencies has made Britain one of the cheapest vacation spots in Europe. For an American it means British goods — such as cars, shoes and clothing — are cheaper, and will continue to be so until prices go up, as everyone expects them to.

The pound's slide promises to make virtually everything more expensive for the British consumer — from home loans to toilet paper.

The pound — worth $5 in 1931, $4 in 1945, $2.80 in 1949 and $2.40 in March, 1975 — fell below $1.65 this week. But then it was buoyed a little by the announcement Wednesday that Britain is seeking a $3.9-billion loan from the International Monetary Fund. At the close of trading Thursday, the pound was worth a fraction above $1.66.

Politicians, businessmen and average Britons, meanwhile, were trying to assess the cost of a continuing decline of the currency, once the symbol of Britain's worldwide dominance.

But for an American it meant that the 100 pounds he bought for around $200 earlier this year now cost him only $166. Americans living in Britain and paid in dollars found the slide of the pound has meant an immediate rise in their living standards. But as with previous falls in the pound, these gains can soon be equalled out by rising prices.

The Confederation of British Industry (CBI) estimated that every time the pound drops one per cent it brings a rise of one-quarter per cent in the retail price index. A 13 per cent inflation is one cause of the pound's decline. Others include low productivity, trade deficits, government spending and unemployment.

Businessmen said that while previous declines in the pound's value made British exports more competitive abroad because they were cheaper to buy, the latest slide would mean this advantage would be outstripped by increased prices for the raw materials that go into their products.

British Petroleum, Britain's biggest oil company, said the average cost of Middle Eastern crude oil had risen by about four pounds ($6.80) a ton in the past two weeks because of sterling's slide.

Last year, Britain imported 85.8 million tons — about 63.8 per cent of its consumption. And with the present monthly average running at about 7 million tons, estimated The Times of London, the latest slump of the pound means that the oil import bill has been pushed up by about 28 million pounds, or $47.6 million, a month.

That works out to about 336 million pounds ($571.2 million) added to Britain's annual fuel bill. The increases will inevitably be passed on to the consumer in higher prices.

Since Britain imports about half its food and pays for it with foreign currency, food prices are also bound to go up.

"We are very concerned about the latest crisis," said a spokesman for Tesco, a supermarket chain. "We haven't got over the effect of the drought. Not all food is bought through the dollar, but I'm afraid increases will be inevitable."

Reg Stanley of Safeway, another supermarket chain, said that a week ago a case of 48 7½-ounce cans of imported red salmon cost 35 pounds (about $59.50) and now it costs nearly 38 pounds ($64.60).

With other imported goods the story is the same. Higher prices for imported iron ore will raise the cost of finished steel, and then of cars, washing machines and other manufactured goods using the metal. Higher prices for imported tin will add something to the cost of canned goods. More expensive timber from Canada and Scandinavia will increase the price of houses and of paper products from newsprint to toilet tissue.

The price of borrowing to buy a home is also expected to rise. There's speculation that the nation's building societies, or savings and loan associations, will raise their interest rates on mortgages to a record 11½ per cent to keep in step with corporate lending rates forced up by the government to make the pound more attractive.

About the only people deriving any comfort from the sliding pound are the thousands of tourists — most from Scandinavia and continental Europe — who are flooding into Britain in search of bargains.

"There's been a slight fall-off in American visitors, and of those that do come, more are coming on the very cheap charters and staying in boarding houses to save money," commented Edmond Swinglehurst of Thomas Cook, Britain's largest travel agency.

"What is growing enormously is traffic from Europe. They're pouring into Britain to buy clothes and just about everything else."

Goods ranging from liquor to clothing can be bought in Britain for a quarter to a third of what they would cost in Sweden, for example. Swedish travelers say food is about half the price here.

The story is much the same from other European countries. The ferry boat ride or short flight across the English Channel or North Sea is cheap enough so money saved by buying in Britain makes it all worth while.

California's Right-To-Die Bill Becomes Law

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed into law legislation giving the terminally ill the right to die without medical treatment — the first such law in the nation.

The Democratic governor considered the historic bill for more than a month before he signed it moments before the Thursday midnight deadline for a veto, signature or passage without his signature.

Brown, who often stages news conferences in his office when he signs precedent-setting measures, avoided making any immediate statement on bill, which opponents said was the first step toward euthanasia.

The law, effective Jan. 1, allows a doctor to shut off life-support equipment for a patient whose death is imminent if the patient signs a "living will" authorizing the action.

The bill was prompted by the widely publicized Karen Ann Quinlan case in New Jersey.

She lay in a drug overdose coma for more than a year while her parents sought the right to let her die.

A court has permitted her respirator to be disconnected, but she is still alive. The bill would not affect a case such as hers.

Brown's executive secretary, Gray Davis, said the governor "received several hundred communications, both here and in our Los Angeles office. They were divided."

"I think the real question in his mind was today's reality (whether) the way attending physicians and terminally ill patients resolve the difficult problem was preferable or less preferable to the procedures set forth" in the bill.

Opponents said the measure was a step toward mercy killing of the aged, but the author, Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, said dying persons have the right to choose.

"Will they spend their last few days in a manner befitting human dignity or be kept alive with respirator, pumps on their hearts, pumps on their lungs, pumps on every part of their body?" he asked.

Keene cited the case of Miss Quinlan, but noted that his bill would not have affected her case because only the person whose life is at stake can make the decision.

The living will can only be signed by healthy or sick adults, and with two witnesses who can't be relatives. It must be renewed every five years.

Doctors who acted under provisions of the bill would not be liable for the person's death.

Says Hunt To Need Tax Hike

RALEIGH (AP) — Doubt that the programs advocated by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jim Hunt could be financed without a tax increase has been expressed by Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser.

"It appears highly doubtful and probably impossible for Mr. Hunt to fund them without a tax increase," Holshouser told a news conference Thursday.

The governor expressed the opinion Hunt "will make a liar of himself" by promising new programs without tax increases.

Programs endorsed by Hunt would cost about $145 million. They include a special reading program for the schools and salary hikes for state employees.

On the other hand, Holshouser said the salary hikes and tax breaks for the elderly proposed by Republican candidate David Flaherty might be financed within the present state tax structure.

The governor did not present specific figures for the programs of either candidate. "It's going to be a leaner time in the state budget than what faced this administration when it began," Holshouser said of the next administration.

In discussing other matters, the governor said, he is proposing that North Carolina 54 between Research Triangle Park and Chapel Hill—called the state's most dangerous highway—be widened four feet and resurfaced this fiscal year at a cost of about $600,000.

Holshouser said he approved the improvements after it became apparent that Interstate 40 will not be completed to Chapel Hill in the near future.

Holshouser, who is southern campaign coordinator for President Ford, said he would barnstorm for the President in North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and probably South Carolina, Florida and Mississippi.

Holshouser said polls show Ford is running neck and neck with Carter in the state, primarily because of Ford's showing in the televised debate and Carter's Playboy Magazine interview.

Language Teachers Attend Conference

About 60 teachers of the Spanish and French languages gathered at East Carolina University Saturday for the annual eastern regional conference of the N.C. Council of Teachers of Foreign Languages.

The conference, whose theme was "Conversation and Personal Development," opened with a welcoming speech by Prof. Marguerite Perry, chairman of the ECU Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures. Robert Miller of Shelby, Council president, directed the program, which included a business session and three workshops.

Workshop leaders: "Literature and Conversation" — Jeanne McPherson, Hoggard High School, Wilmington (French) and Delores Jones, Pembroke High School (Spanish);

"Grammar and Conversation" — Nell Kahdy, Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh (French) and Raymond Johnston, Northwoods Junior High School, Jacksonville (Spanish);

"Affective Learning Activities in the Language Class" — E. Wayne Figart, Hoggard High School (French) and Dr. Jane T. Mitchell, assistant professor, UNC-Greensboro (Spanish).

Assisting in arrangements for the conference were Manolita Buck, Esther Fernandez and Luis Acevez, all faculty members of the ECU Dept. of Foreign Languages and Literatures.

See Better Leaf Quality

FARMVILLE — The quality of offerings on the Farmville Tobacco Market Thursday was better than on the previous day due to a smaller per cent of nondescript grades, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"Averages were better than Wednesday. Prices on leaf grades continued to keep the daily average higher than last year. Some medium grades sold for slightly higher than Wednesday," Williams said.

The Farmville Market sold 347,062 pounds for $428,927 Thursday for an average of $123.59 per 100 pounds. To date the market has sold 22,708,928 pounds for $26,082,181 for a season average of $114.85 per 100 pounds as compared to $98.96 per 100 pounds on the same sale day last year.

Scrappy Bulldogs Invade Pirateland

Linebacker Harold Randolph

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The Dynamic Duo, as everyone knows, is the team of Batman and Robin. But around Charleston, S.C., the Dynamic Duo is Brian Ruff and Andrew Johnson.

Ruff is The Citadel's All-America linebacker, while Andrew Johnson is a speedy running back that will probably be the first in the Southern Conference to rush for over 3,000 career yards.

Saturday evening, they and their teammates invade Ficklen Stadium in a game that has all the traces of an old-fashioned dog fight.

And East Carolina Coach Pat Dye says that these two are not the only ones to be feared. In addition there is Sophomore quarterback Marty Crosby, safety Ralph Ferguson and guard Tony Starks.

"These five are super players," Dye said. "They have a good team overall, but these five are something special."

Both teams come into the game following one-point Southern Conference wins on the road last week. East Carolina went through the motions and escaped with a 20-19 win over William & Mary. The Citadel, outgained, nipped Furman, 17-16. In both cases a missed extra point was the difference.

"I feel better about this game than last week's," Dye said, speaking of his team's preparedness. "We've had an excellent week of practice. We still have some people who are banged up, but everyone should be ready to go."

Dye added that the Pirates have had more full-speed contact work during the week than in some time. "It's something we badly needed after last week's exhibition."

The coach is also hopeful that last week's game will be a good object lesson to the Pirates — that everyone is punning for them, and that they better be ready. "It's the mark of a good team that something can be learned from a victory as well as a defeat. I hope we learned something from our win. We had only four winners on the offensive and defensive units last week."

In the Bulldogs, Dye sees no weaknesses. "They have a well-balanced offense and a good defense. They have a good kicking game, too. They have good players, and they're well coached."

The Citadel will present similar problems to those faced by the Pirates last week. Crosby, like William & Mary's Tom Rozantz, is an accomplished passer. He's hit 37 of 67 attempts for 431 yards, but oddly enough hasn't connected for a touchdown. Tight end Dickie Regan is his top target with 12 receptions for 144 yards.

Then, Johnson's ability as a runner are similar to those of N.C. State's Ted Brown and W&M's Jim Krus. He's rushed for 224 yards on 72 carries, scoring five touchdowns.

Ferguson, the safety, was Southern Conference player of the Week on defense last week. He already has four interceptions and 81 yards in returns. He's also a dangerous kickoff returner, and can handle punts also.

Ruff and Starks lead the defensive linemen. Ruff has 54 tackles, while Starks had 47 so far this year.

"There's no question this is the best defensive team we've played this year," Dye said. "And it may well be the best defensive team too."

The Bulldogs are running up 285 yards a game, 141.3 rushing and 143.7 passing — a very balanced setup. They've allowed 312.3 per game, including 197.7 on the ground and 114.7 through the air.

More important, the 2-1 Bulldogs have given up just 41 points, and all three games have been decided by a total of six points.

East Carolina, now riding a nine game winning streak, second longest in the nation, is grinding out 373 yards a game, 286 on the ground and 77 through the air. They've allowed 241.3 per game, with 105.7 of that on the ground and 102.3 through the air.

The Bucs have scored 91 points and allowed just 33.

Willie Hawkins leads the rushing with 224 yards, while Eddie Hicks has 205. Raymond Jones is close behind with 195, while Mike Weaver has 132. Weaver's also completed 11 of 19 passes for 228 yards.

Dye doesn't feel that the winning streak is that important. "I haven't really thought about it; we're taking it one game at a time. I don't think it means that much to the players. We just want to win all of our conference games, and as many of the non-conference as we can."

Oddly enough, the streak started last year with a 3-0 win over The Citadel.

Dye feels it will be a close game. "Having us 14 or 17 points over The Citadel just shows how stupid the computerized indexes are. They're going to be sky-high for the game, and I think we'll be up too."

"It should be the type of old-fashioned game that you like to be a part of. And it's going to be good to get home after two weeks away."

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

Northern Nash Tops Rampants

Northern Nash High School spotted Rose High School first place in a cross-country event, but downed the Rampants, 23-38 yesterday.

Rose had only one other finisher in the top five, and just three overall in the top ten spots.

The defeat was the second in five starts for Rose.

Jesse Baker captured first place for the Rampants in the time of 15:58, well ahead of second place Bernard Smith of the Knights, who ran the course in 16:30. Donald Earl of Northern followed him over the finish line in 16:33. Rose's Til Jolly was fourth in 16:35, but Rose didn't have another finisher until Mike Norfleet crossed the line at 17:20 for tenth place.

Johnny Evans, 12th in 17:33; Walter Kortschak, 13th in 17:37; Mickey Finn, 14th in 17:46; Steve Blackwell, 15th in 17:52; Robert Vick, 17th in 17:56; John Lawler, 18th in 18:03; Jim Hunt, 19th in 18:10; and Steve Saieed, 22nd at 21:41.

Rose travels to Wilson on Monday.

Greene In 2-0 Victory

SNOW HILL — Greene Central gained a 2-0 victory over the D. H. Conley volleyball team yesterday.

Greene Central won the first game, 15-10. Greene Central's Lori Brann had the only long serve, a four-point spree.

In the second game, the Ewes downed Conley, 15-11. Pam Manning had five straight serves and Lexann Keeter four in a row for Conley, while Cindy Creech each dished up four in a row for Greene Central.

Greene Central also took the JV match, 2-1, on 16-3, 2-15, and 15-10 scores.

Greene Central is now 2-3, and Conley 3-3.

Farmville Tops Pitt

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's volleyball team gained a 2-0 victory over North Pitt yesterday.

Farmville captured the opening game, 15-13, and then came back to roll to a 15-3 win in the second game.

Farmville also took a 2-1 win in a junior varsity match, beating North Pitt, 15-8, 4-15 and 15-7.

Farmville Central is now 3-3, while North Pitt is 1-4.

Rampettes Nip Sanderson, 5-3

RALEIGH — Rose High School's girls' tennis team gained a 5-3 victory over Raleighs Sanderson High School yesterday.

The Rampettes were ahead by that score with the number one doubles match still underway when a downpour washed out that final match. Rose's Serena Matney and Marty East held a 2-1 advantage in that match when the rains came.

Rose had already sewn up the win, however, taking four of the six singles and one of the two completed doubles events.

Rose 4-1, returns to Division I Conference play on Tuesday, traveling to Northeastern.

Summary:
Serena Matney (R) defeated Nancy Aschenbrenner, 6-7, 6-4, 6-1.
Marty East (R) defeated Cindy Bowling, 6-7, 6-3, 6-1.
Karen Jeffreys (R) defeated Nancy Lach, 6-2, 6-2.
Margaret McElhannon (R) defeated Liz Kenan, 6-4, 6-4.
Lee Hines (S) defeated Cindy Talbert, 6-2, 6-3.
Judy Rutherford (S) defeated Christa Dunn, 6-2, 6-1.
Jeffreys McElhannon (R) defeated Fist Holloman, 6-1.
Kena Hines (S) defeated Pam Talbert Caroline Bruton, 8-2.

Reid Ross Rips Cubs

FAYETTEVILLE — Rose High School got off to a good start, but their hopes of an upset against unbeaten Reid Ross in junior varsity football quickly vanished last night, as the Cubs fell, 56-7.

Rose's Durwin Clemons ran the opening kickoff back 70 yards to put the Rampants Cubs into a 7-0 lead. The Cubs then recovered a fumbled kickoff on the next play, but Rose was offside.

That turned the tide, and from there on out, Reid Ross was in firm control, rolling up the easy victory.

Baby Jags Win Again

SNOW HILL — Farmville Central captured its third straight junior varsity football game yesterday, downing Greene Central, 28-9.

Greene Central took the lead in the first period, scoring on a safety, and then adding a 22-yard touchdown pass.

Farmville cut it to 9-7 on a run by Roosevelt Joyner, then went out on a 42-yard punt return for a score by James Tyson. Donald Rogers scored on a six-yard run, and Jackie Norris on a 42-yard interception return to complete the scoring.

The Baby Jaguars held Greene Central to minus 17 yards rushing, while running for 134 themselves.

Farmville played Roanoke next week.

Edens In Title Fight

A Greenville man will appear on national television Saturday, fighting for the world championship in karate.

Gary Edens will meet world champion Bill Wallace in a full contact karate match in Los Angeles, Calif., Saturday at 4 p.m. The event will be shown nationally on CBS Sports Spectacular.

Edens is a student of Bill McDonald of Greenville. "Gary is a fine athlete and is ready for this grand match," McDonald said.

"But it should be pointed out that no one has ever gone the distance with Bill Wallace."

Pirates Picked Over The Citadel

There are not going to be many changes in the standings of our panel this week. Only three differences appear on the whole card, two of them in one game.

So the standings will be about the same when it's all over.

Our high school picks last week turned out almost as predicted, with just one miss in the seven games. That brings us to a 22-8 record on the season.

There are only six games this week, so let us get to them.

Conley travels to Greene Central. The Rams haven't won, but this could be their best chance to date. Conley, 3-1, has the chance to really show that the Vikings have arrived in the conference. It could go either way, but we'll stick with Conley to win.

North Pitt is at Ayden-Grifton, also looking for its first win. The Chargers got their first one last week, and should be ready for the Panthers, who upsets them two years ago. No upset this time, however, as Ayden-Grifton will win.

Aurora visits Jamestown in a battle of winless teams. Is home field may be the difference here, but it's a tough one to call. We'll go with Aurora in this one.

Southern Nash is at Farmville Central in a key Eastern Carolina game. The Firebirds need it badly to get back into the race, while the Jaguars need to flex their muscles and gain an early lead on most of the rest of the league. It might eventually decide the title, and we'll stick with the Jags to win it.

Washington visits Williamston in the Northeastern Conference. The Tigers barely got past Roanoke Rapids last week, but they should be motivated this week. Williamston to win.

Finally, Saratoga visits Roanoke. The Redskins are suffering through one of their worst seasons, and now is a good time for them to reverse it. Saratoga should be no pushover, however. Still

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

we will pick Roanoke to win.

Our panel currently finds this writer with a three game lead over the pack with a 27-7-2 mark. There is a three-way deadlock for second at 24-10-2 between Joe Jenkins, Tom Baines and George Holland. Jack Whichard and Barbara Mathews bring up the rear with 22-12-2 marks.

There is little disagreement in this week's picks. They go almost down the line in order.

The two big ones, of course, are Rose and East Carolina.

The Ramparts meet Reid Ross in a game that could be a carbon copy of last year's meeting between the two. This time, however, it's all just the opposite. Reid Ross is the unbeaten and is the ranked team. Think this one might be 38-0 in favor of Rose?

Well, unfortunately, the panel doesn't think so. Right down the line, it's a 6-0 slate for Reid Ross.

The Pirates entertain The Citadel, and while there was little hesitation among the group on the first game, there was quite a bit on this one—mainly due to last week's performance.

This could be quite a game. It pits two fine offensive units against two well-tuned defensive ones. Which will be the one that breaks? The panel goes 6-0 again—for the Pirates.

Other consensus picks: Virginia Tech over William & Mary; Pittsburgh over Duke; Missouri over North Carolina; Georgia Tech over Virginia; Appalachian State over Western Carolina; Furman over VMI; Tennessee over Clemson; Maryland over Villanova; Indiana over State; and Michigan over Wake.

Ali Says He's Retiring From Ring; Will Spread His Faith

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali said today he is quitting fighting to devote himself to spreading the Moslem faith throughout the world.

"As of now," Ali told a crowd of reporters and photographers, "I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

Ali said his decision to end his boxing career came at the urging of Wallace Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslim community in the United States, who is also in Turkey at the invitation of the pro-Moslem National Salvation party.

Ali, who successfully defended his title Tuesday night in New York against Ken Norton, made his comments at a news conference in the Istanbul governor's office.

"Mark my words and play what I say right now fully," Ali said. "At the urging of my leader Wallace, I declare that I am quitting fighting as of now and from now on I will join in the struggle for the Islamic cause."

This is not the first time Ali has said he would retire. In June 1975, he said his upcoming fight with Joe Bugner of Britain would be his last.

But following that fight in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, Ali has fought and defeated Jean Pierre Coopman, Joe Frazier, Jimmy Young, Richard Dunn and Ken Norton. After defeating Norton earlier this week in New York's Yankee Stadium to retain his title, Ali spoke of an upcoming fight with George Foreman.

Wallace said Ali has already contributed greatly to the Muslim community in America and expressed the desire that he will devote more attention to the faith after he retires.

Turkey's deputy premier, Mecmetim Ecbaan, and State Minister Hasan Aksay, both members of the Salvation party, applauded Ali's announcement. Ecbaan wished him "a victorious result in carrying the sword of Islam throughout the world."

After the conference Ali and the entourage attended noon prayers at the early 18th century Blue mosque under the guidance of a muezzin and the preaching of Religious Affairs Minister Suleyman Ates. Ali's schedule in the afternoon included a sightseeing tour at the Topkapi Palace, once the seat of the Ottoman sultans but now a museum, and a boat ride through the Bosphorus, which separates Europe and Asia.

Ali flies home early Saturday.

Two second period scores ran the score to 20-0 at halftime. Mike Nobles scored on a nine-yard run, and Dalton Ellis from the seven during the period. Newton scored on a 13-yard run in the third period to close out the scoring.

Ayden-Grifton is now 4-0 and meets North Lenoir at Littlefield next Thursday. Roanoke travels to Farmville Central for its next outing.

Altgelt Credits New Putter With The Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Stan Altgelt made a fond appraisal of the new putter that staked him to a share of the first round lead in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

"It's a goofy-looking thing," he said, "but it gets the job done."

It certainly got the job done Thursday. Altgelt, a 27-year-old tour rookie used the red-and-white striped "Demon" putter — which features a ridge on the face that imparts a forward roll to the ball — in competition for the first time. He one-putted

10 times on the way to a seven-under-par 64 that enabled him to tie Wally Armstrong for the top spot.

"I got it going early and I managed to make some putts," said Altgelt, the first man off the tee.

"I really wasn't very motivated when I was practicing this morning," said Armstrong, who already has assured himself of a spot in the top 60 money-winners and an exemption for next year.

"I told that to my sponsor. He said, 'Well, there's $27,000 worth of motivation out there (the first place prize).' That got me to thinking a little."

With that in mind, Armstrong, a non-winner in four years on the tour, played his first nine holes in six-under-par 29 and then birdied his final hole for a piece of the lead.

Don January, a veteran who played the par-fives four under, former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and Bruce Lietzke were two strokes back at 66, five under-par on the 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course.

The big group at 67 included George Archer, R.H. Sikes, Rod Funseth, Steve Melnyk, George Burns, Tom Purtzer, Jim Mas-serio, Curtis Sifford and Bobby Walzel.

Defending champion Dave Hill could do no better than a one-under-par 70 under the blazing desert sun that sent temperatures soaring into the 90s.

British Open champion Johnny Miller and Al Geiberger, who were among the pre-tourney favorites, withdrew at the last minute. Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Ben Crenshaw, Hale Irwin and Hubert Green are not competing.

Open Trials At Wilkesboro

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Major league stock car racing's touring pros, headed by Cale Yarborough and Richard Petty, moved into the North Wilkesboro Speedway today to begin qualifying for Sunday's $70,010 Wilkes 400.

The 400-lap race over the five-eighths of a mile track is the 26th of the 30-race season. Yarborough, currently the hottest thing on NASCAR's Grand National circuit, is the favorite as well as the leader in the point standings for the Grand National driving championship, a title worth more than $100,000 in bonus awards. Yarborough has never won the title.

But the Chevrolet driver from Timmonsville, S.C., has won the circuit's past three outings, and four of the past five races for a total of eight victories this year.

His chief rival, in both Sunday's race and in the point standings, is Richard Petty, six-time Grand National champion and 13-time North Wilkesboro winner.

Petty, who drives a Dodge, is having one of his worst seasons in years. He's won only two races, a sharp contrast to last year's 13 triumphs, but he's only 79 points behind Yarborough in the chase for the coveted title.

That margin is not a big one in a system that offers 175 points to the winner of each race. The points drop three to five notches on a graduated scale based on how a driver finishes. Thus, an early breakdown by Yarborough and a

All Seven ACC Members Going Outside League For Competition

By The Associated Press
For the second and last time this season, all seven members of the Atlantic Coast Conference go up against outside football opponents this weekend, and there are a couple that recall the story of David and Goliath.

The ACC has made a fair showing thus far in its non-league appearances, reaping three victories and two ties in five contests.

But, this Saturday? Well, when has the ACC gone up against the nation's two top-ranked teams on the same day? The answer, of course, is never.

So, Saturday, Wake Forest, with its so-so 2-2 record, travels to Ann Arbor to meet the nation's No. 1 ranked Michigan. And the Duke Blue Devils, claiming two victories and one loss, play host to No. 2 ranked Pittsburgh.

Needless to say, Michigan and Pittsburgh are undefeated, with 3-0 records.

Looking at other games involving the ACC this weekend, things don't appear quite as frightening.

Maryland, another team boasting a 3-0 mark, is host to Villanova, which has won one and lost two, and Clemson, 1-1-1, visits Tennessee, which has done no better than 1-2, including a loss to Duke in the season opener.

Surprising North Carolina, which has four straight victories and no losses behind it, is at Missouri, where the Tar Heels face probably their biggest test thus far.

Missouri is 2-1, with one of those victories coming last week in a 22-21 upset of eighth-ranked Ohio State. Missouri also also can look to an upset of 13th ranked Southern California as it turns its attention to the 14th ranked Tar Heels.

The other games have winless North Carolina State, 0-3-1, at Indiana, 1-2, and similarly winless Virginia, 0-3, going against Georgia Tech in Atlanta. Georgia Tech has lost two and tied one, the tie coming last week with Clemson as the Yellow Jackets scored 11 points in the last period.

Wake Forest coach Chuck Mills has taken a stalwart attitude toward the meeting of his lowly Deacons with mighty Michigan. "We're not expected to win, but we're not going there to lose . . . our players are looking forward to it."

Kansas City Hopes To Wrap Up Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals hope to clinch the American League

West pennant tonight without the help of the California Angels, but Manager Whitey Herzog will take it anyway he can get it. "We just want it," says Herzog, "the sooner the better."

After weeks of apprehension, the Royals can finally win the West title by beating Minnesota tonight. And even if they lose to the Twins, they can still win the divisional championship if the Angels defeat the Oakland A's later in the evening.

"I'd like to see Frank Tanana go to Oakland and beat the A's," says Herzog, who has been chased down to the wire by Charles O. Finley's gallant team.

Herzog has nominated Doug Bird to pitch against Minnesota's Dave Goltz in the game at Royals Stadium. However, Herzog is still undecided about a starter for Saturday. He leans toward Dennis Leonard in the event that Kansas City is still in a pennant race.

"But, I'm not certain ... I've got some decisions to make on pitching," says Herzog, hopefully lining up his staff rotation for the American League playoffs against the Eastern champion New York Yankees next week.

Herzog's players, after several weeks of holding off a scary homestretch charge by the A's, at last seem to be breathing easier. A victory over Oakland Wednesday night gave the Royals a comfortable 3½-game lead and reduced their "magic number" to one.

The Royals are so confident of winning their first championship that some of them are looking past tonight's game. "One victory against Minnesota this weekend is not enough," says Kansas City's Hal McRae. "If we are going to keep any momentum going into the playoffs, we can't win one, lose one and win one again. We've got to keep moving again."

In limited baseball action Thursday night, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 6-4 and California trimmed the Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Tigers 6, Indians 4
A two-run double by Rusty Staub keyed a five-run outburst in the fourth inning that carried Detroit over Cleveland. Ed Glynn picked up his first major league triumph in four decisions with relief help from Steve Grilli. Grilli, who relieved the starter with two outs in the sixth, got his third save of the season.

Angels 7, White Sox 3
Rookie Ron Jackson belted a double and two singles while two other newcomers, pitchers Sid Monge and John Verhoeven, teamed up for a seven-hitter as California whipped Chicago. Jackson singled in a run in the second inning, then doubled and scored during a three-run Angels uprising in the fifth to give Monge his sixth victory in 13 decisions.

Virginia Military, Furman Fight For Early Possession Of Cellar

By The Associated Press

The last will be first and the first will be last in a pair of Southern Conference football games Saturday — an afternoon battle to avoid the basement and a night scrap for the lead.

Virginia Military's Keydets, 0-2 in the league and 0-3 overall, play host in the afternoon to Furman's Paladins, 0-1 and 3-1, with the loser taking over possession of the cellar.

A few hours later under the lights, East Carolina's title-favorite Pirates, 1-0 and 3-0, entertain The Citadel's Bulldogs, 1-0 and 2-1, and the winner will be the sole occupant of first place.

Another afternoon game between two conference teams has Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 3-1, at home against new member Western Carolina, also 3-1.

But the Mountaineers can't improve their 1-0 conference record, for games played by the three new members don't count in the standings.

In the only afternoon game in which a conference member meets an outside opponent, William and Mary's Indians, 2-1, go to Virginia Tech to face the Gobblers, also 2-1.

Saturday night action involving the other two new members has Marshall, 3-1, at McNeese State and Tennessee-Chattanooga, 2-1, at Middle Tennessee State. Davidson, 0-2, is idle this weekend.

Furman will be trying to bounce back from a 17-16 defeat by The Citadel and VMI will be coming off a 43-0 rout by former conference member Richmond.

"We've got to come back and win our remaining conference games if we are to have any chance at winning the championship," says Furman Coach Art Baker. "VMI is very strong in their own ball park. They've had a tough road and I know they'll be ready to put it together. There's no question that they'll be prepared."

Keydet Coach Bob Thalman points out it's homecoming for VMI and "we'll be ready to prove ourselves. I feel we have regained our confidence and with a good week of practice we'll be ready to play a great game."

Furman, however, leads the conference in total offense and ranks third in total defense, while the Keydets are dead last in both categories. The Paladins' David Whitehurst is first in total offense and second in passing and tailback Harry King is No. 2 in rushing.

Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina says "I've got to believe our kids were unemotional and playing without enthusiasm" in last week's 20-19 squeeze past William and Mary. "It's time to buckle up the chin straps, get in the trenches and go to war."

Of the Pirates, The Citadel Coach says "they present a lot of problems on offense and defense, and they've proven they can play with just about anyone."

After five straight losses to Western Carolina, Appalachian Coach Jim Brakefield says "I hope we're successful in breaking our jinx against them."

Lady Apps Beat Bucs

CHAPEL HILL — Appalachian State University handed East Carolina University's women's volleyball team a 2-0 setback in the opening match of the year.

Appalachian captured the first game of the set, 15-12, then came back to pick up a 15-11 win in the second game.

Coach Catherine Bolton praise the efforts of spikers Gail Kerbaugh and Linda McLelland and said Kim Clayton was good on set-ups.

"It was a stubbornly played match. We showed some inexperience, but it looks to be a promising team. This match is behind us now and we are looking forward to the next one."

The next matches are slated for Saturday at Durham, where East Carolina takes on Duke and High Point.

Duke Downs Pirates, 2-0

DURHAM — The Duke Blue Devils scored one goal in the first half and one in the second half to edge East Carolina 2-0 in soccer Thursday afternoon.

Duke halfback Edwin Agyapong scored both goals for the Blue Devils who are now 3-1 overall while the Pirates dropped their sixth straight game of the season.

Duke had 24 shots on goal while the Pirates managed only 14. It was the fourth game of the year in which the Pirates failed to score.

East Carolina will open its home schedule this Saturday against defending Southern Conference champion Appalachian State. The game is scheduled to start at 12 noon on the Minges Field.

UCLA Is A Dirty Word Around Buckeye Fans

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

At Ohio State, UCLA is a dirty four-letter word.

Whenever the subject of last season's Rose Bowl game comes up, Buckeye disciples everywhere vow vengeance.

The Bruins cost Woody Hayes' team a national championship by beating Ohio State 23-10 in the memorable Jan. 1 bowl game at Pasadena. Now it's replay time in Columbus.

"We'll be very, very positive in what we do," says Hayes about Saturday's meeting with the fourth-ranked Bruins at Ohio Stadium. "We've got to go to the field not making these mistakes we've been making."

Hayes is not only acutely aware of the return bout with UCLA's spoilers, but also of the specter of losing two straight games at home. That hasn't happened to Ohio State since 1971.

The Buckeyes, who lost to Missouri 22-21 last week, haven't been the confident buyers of past seasons. They've made mistakes uncharacteristic of Hayes' teams — piling up almost twice as many penalties as the opposition during their 2-1 start.

"Some have been earned, some unearned," says Hayes. "It could show a lack of experience more than anything else."

UCLA, although 3-0 on the season and ranked higher than No. 8 Ohio State, will play the role of underdog in this rematch of intersectional powers. And UCLA Coach Terry Donahue doesn't wonder why, considering the intimidation of Ohio Stadium.

"We don't really know how good we are," says Donahue, whose team owns victories over Arizona, Arizona State and the Air Force.

Michigan, the nation's top-ranked team, doesn't figure to have as much trouble with its opposition at Ann Arbor. The Big Ten Wolverines face Wake Forest, an Atlantic Coast Conference team of far less stature.

However, the role of prohibitive favorite has Michigan

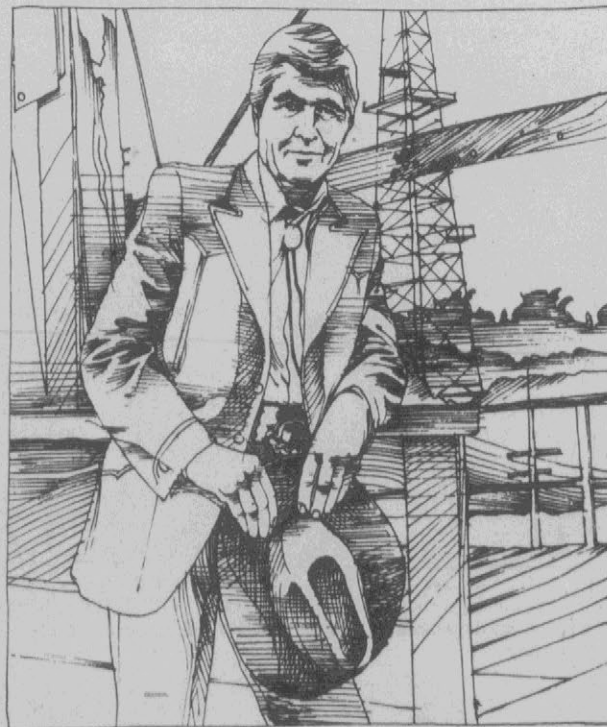

Coach Bo Schemblecher worried. Exercising an old coaching prerogative of pessimism, Schemblecher cautions: "Wake Forest is the kind of team that can be a lot of trouble for us."

Another top game Saturday will be No. 6 Georgia against No. 10 Alabama, a battle of Southeastern Conference powers. An overflow crowd of 60,000 is expected at Athens, Ga., for the game between unbeaten Georgia and once-beaten Alabama.

Elsewhere among the Top 10, No. 2 Pitt plays Duke; No. 3 Oklahoma faces Iowa State; Miami, Fla. visits No. 5 Nebraska; Villanova tackles No. 7 Maryland and No. 9 Kansas hosts Wisconsin.

Airman I.C. Degenhart, with "her" F-4 Phantom, at Lakenheath, England.

This is the way you tackle a balky power generator, above: knowhow plus a bit of muscle.

Below, once you've got your plane up there's time for a chat until she's due down again.

Crewchief At Work

The job of Air Force crewchief calls for toughness and a high degree of responsibility. Airman I.C. Cecilia Degenhart (nickname Cecil) worked hard for the job and got it last February. Now, at 20, she's the only woman aircraft mechanic working on the flightline at the U.S. Air Force base at Lakenheath, England, and she's crewchief—in charge of the maintenance—of an F-4 Phantom fighter.

The crewchief and his or her crew get their plane ready to fly, see it off the ground and receive it back. Cecil is five feet tall; being small may have its drawbacks but it has its advantages, too—Cecil claims she's the only crewchief on Lakenheath who can stand up straight in an F-4 wheel well.

Cecil has been an aircraft mechanic for two years. She didn't come into the Air Force with this job in mind. She started basic training as a medical administrative specialist. Then, on the strength of her mechanical scores a career counselor advised her to change to mechanics. That worked out. "Airplanes are what the Air Force is all about," she says, "and I like being right in the middle of it."

Subpoena Expert On Medicaid Fraud

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Medicaid fraud detection expert accused of receiving money from private computer companies to help them get government contracts is under subpoena to testify before a Senate investigating subcommittee.

The subpoena was served by federal marshals after Charles A. Cubbler rejected an order by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Mathews to testify voluntarily Thursday before the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations.

The acting chairman, Sen.

Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said Cubbler would be cited for contempt of Congress if he ignored the subpoena. Nunn said he considered Cubbler to be in contempt already for ignoring an Aug. 25 subpoena to turn over his books and records.

Also scheduled to testify today was Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, the parent agency of the Medicaid anti-fraud unit where Cubbler worked.

Sworn witnesses testified Wednesday and Thursday that Cubbler held a sensitive post in the Medicaid unit and had access to confidential documents.

When the documents fell into the hands of private computer companies, witnesses said, it gave them an advantage in bidding on state contracts to set up and operate data processing systems to curb Medicaid fraud and abuse.

A subcommittee investigator said Cubbler received seven checks totaling $2,552, some written in his wife's maiden name, for work performed for Health Application Systems in 1972 and 1973. A few days after the last check was received, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania awarded a $59-million contract to Paid Prescriptions Inc. to speed up Medicaid payments to pharmacists. Health Application Systems was the management, computer service and marketing agent for Paid Prescriptions.

Cubbler was described as a consultant for Health Application, moonlighting at nights and on weekends from his $32,231-a-year federal job. The investigator said Cubbler also served as chairman of the state committee that awarded the contract, and that Cubbler and the vice president of Health Application Systems prepared the state's request for bids.

Earlier, the presidents of another computer company and a consulting firm testified they paid Cubbler thousands of dollars to consult on winning bids for contracts totaling nearly $1 million and to help tutor them on how to get into the health care field.

After learning of the charges against Cubbler, HEW temporarily transferred him out of the Medicaid anti-fraud unit Monday and started its investigation in cooperation with the Justice Department.

One Brother Fails Lie Detector Test

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — The lawyer for two brothers who say they are wrongfully jailed for kidnaping has been informed that one of them reportedly failed a lie-detector test.

Most of the state's evidence against Lonnie Sawyer, 19, and Sandy Sawyer, 21, was released at a hearing Thursday so the lawyer, Carroll Matthews of Raleigh, can prepare for a post-conviction hearing. The date for the hearing hasn't been set. Matthews hopes a new trial will result from it.

The only evidence not yet available at Thursday's proceeding in Union County Superior Court was the result of an investigation into the case by the State Bureau of Investigation ordered by Gov. James Holshouser. The governor stepped in after a national television network said its investigation had shown men other than the brothers from Mint Hill in Mecklenburg County were responsible for the kidnaping.

Union County Sheriff Frank Fowler and Dist. Atty. Carroll Lowder said that Lonnie Sawyer had failed the lie-detector test, which had been given to both brothers.

Steve Davenport, SBI lie-detector specialist who analyzed the test results, wrote that he told Lonnie Sawyer he was lying in answer to the question: "Do you believe someone else kidnaped (Robert) Hinson?"

Davenport wrote that Lonnie was told he was lying "probably because he had kidnaped Hinson," an official of the Collins Department Store in Monroe. Hinson was abducted May 15, 1975, in an aborted effort to get him to open the store's safe.

Vibrations And Noise Spoil All

PLANDOME, N.Y. (AP) — A middle-aged couple says vibrations and noise from Long Island Railroad trains near their home have taken their steam out of their sex life.

While many commuters complain constantly about the railroad's slow pace, George and Ann Marie Montana say the trains' "roaring speeds" have caused them mental and physical problems. Their lawyer, who describes the plaintiffs as "in their late 50s or early 60s," says both his clients are now under a doctor's care trying to get their love life back on the track.

Meanwhile, the couple filed suit against the railroad Tuesday for $2,786,000 in State Supreme Court in Mineola. Montana claimed that he had "lost services and consortium" of his spouse because of her "nervous and physical debility."

PARTY'S NICKNAME

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Republican party's nickname, the G.O.P., is an abridged version of "Grand Old Party." According to The World Book Encyclopedia, this surname comes from "Grand Old Man," the nickname of William E. Gladstone, a liberal British prime minister of the 1800s.

Four Charged In Fraud Case

Four persons have been charged in connection with a case involving the obtaining of money by false pretenses from Fred Webb, Inc. on North Greene Street which was reported yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Larry Feemster of near Greenville was charged with issuing receipts for which no goods were received, while Johnnie Smith of Winterville was charged with conspiracy. Both are employees of the Webb firm.

The chief said both Arthur King and Andrew Smith (brother of Johnnie), both of Winterville, were charged with obtaining property by false pretenses.

Cannon explained that Feemster allegedly issued receipts for corn to Johnnie Smith, which had not been delivered to the grain elevator firm. Smith, in turn, the chief noted, allegedly gave one receipt for 516 bushels of corn to King, for which he received a check for $1,165.

Andrew Smith, according to Cannon, allegedly received a receipt for 401 bushels of corn for which he received a $898 check.

Bonds for King and the Smith brothers was set at $2,000 while Feemster was placed under a $10,000 bond.

Cannon said investigation of the case is continuing.

Another Big Days Of Sales

Another $1 million sales day was recorded on the Greenville Tobacco Market on Thursday, according to the sales supervisor of the local Tobacco Board of Trade J. N. Bryan.

Bryan reported that the market sold 977,827 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $1,190,261, an average of $121.72 per hundred pounds for the 42nd sales day of the season.

He said that the top practical price paid on Thursday was $1.30 per pound with a few offerings selling for $1.31 to $1.40 per pound.

Offerings on the warehouse floors again consisted of leaf, smoking leaf and cutters, the supervisor added, with lugs, primings and non descript tobacco still evident.

Season totals now stand at 37,090,000 pounds which have sold for $42,456,961, an overall average of $114.47 per hundred pounds.

Discuss Use For Grant

WINTERVILLE—the Winterville Town Board held a public hearing Monday to discuss plans for utilizing Community Development funds if the grant is approved. Bob Clark of the N.C. Department of Economic Resources Planning office met with the board to list citizens' priorities.

The following priorities were suggested by citizens: drainage, paving all dirt streets, the rehabilitation of old housing, clean vacant lots, the need for a Code Enforcement Officer, recreational facilities, a neighborhood library, more land for the cemetery, and bigger water lines and fire hydrants.

Clark will consider and study the feasibility of each of these projects and present cost estimates for the suggested programs at the second public hearing concerning the community development programs to be held October 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Klugman's Crime Show Making A Nifty Debut

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Klugman, the untidy half of "The Odd Couple," now is on NBC's Sunday Mystery Movie. He plays "Quincy," a hard-charging city medical examiner who does autopsies and solves crime.

He has a nifty debut Sunday in an opus that starts with him wooing his sweetie (Lynette Mettrey) on his drydocked boat. The woo wanes right at sundown when Dr. Quincy is called to study the strangulation murder of a pretty City Hall secretary at a nearby beach.

The call causes a lively 90 minutes of good humor, two more slayings and a discovery that City Hall is missing $3 million or so.

Now, Quincy, employed by the Los Angeles coroner's office, is no mere body inspector. He can detect murder most foul in the most innocent-looking subdural hematoma or myocardial infarction.

He plays detective to prove his murder theories when cops don't believe him. This playing makes the cops mad, particularly his chief disbeliever, Lt. Frank Monahan (Garry Walberg).

In the case of the late secretary, there is no doubt she was strangled to death. Even Quincy agrees to that.

Monahan has no doubt who did it, but Quincy is caught three miles from the murder scene — having been shot resisting arrest — with the handbag of the departed. But Quincy thinks the wounded thug is innocent. Why? Because the thug has small hands.

See, Quincy, while unsuccessfully trying to lift the murderer's fingerprints from the victim's neck with new techniques, has noticed the marks on said neck were made by someone with large hands.

This fails to impress the lieutenant, possible because the show has at least an hour more to go. So Quincy goes into detective mode. He visits City Hall to trace the dead girl's background and then:

—Probes the hanging "suicide" of a weak-willed city finance man.

—Suspects a City Hall conspiracy against him is afoot.

—Flies to Mexico with his lady to check an earlier possible murder of an earlier City Hall secretary (and almost gets himself and his lady killed when a baddie pushes their car over a cliff).

—Comes back to find a harbor commissioner the victim of an "accidental" drowning while scuba diving.

Fans of hard-nosed realism won't find such in this show, only a brisk pace, interesting characters and a nice tongue-in-cheek approach akin to that of "The Rockford Files."

Anne Baxter's Book Published

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I went through an earthquake that was 8.5 on the Richter scale, and there was nobody to tell about it."
Academy Award winner Anne Baxter was explaining why she and she alone — sans ghost or "as-told-to" helper — wrote a book about her Australian experiences, "Intermission" (Putnam; $10).

The earthquake was figurative, but every bit as real to her as the great San Francisco tremor. It happened when a glamorous, intellectual actress accompanied her husband to the desolate bush country of Australia and kept house for most of four years.

She writes about her impressions from her first day at the new homestead. The living room sofa and chairs had succumbed to many a crushing behind and were belching stuff. "I never knew how green could be so compelling. That green would have depressed Santa Claus."

She was up and into boots and blue jeans at 5:30 the next morning to ride to a roundup of 300 heifers 19 parched miles away.

The rest is a real-life adventure story with an unhappy ending, because her marriage to American-born rancher Randolph Galt didn't succeed. Nor did the experiment in frontier living, and she returned to America and her career.

The bush years ended in 1964, after she had given birth to daughters Melissa and Maginel (she has another daughter, Katrina, 25, by a first marriage to the late John Hodiak).

"That was not the apex of my marriage to Ran, but it was still alive in 1964," the actress recalled. "I decided to write down my impressions of the life in Australia, with no eye toward publication. It had been a rare experience, and I was damned if I would let it fizzle out."

"I didn't realize how painful it was going to be. I was still smarting from a lot of wounds, and I wrote under emotional duress. You might say that I upchucked on paper."

An agent convinced her to show the manuscript to a few people, including the late publisher Bennett Cerf. The reaction of the readers: "Did you really do all that?" Her reply: "You're damned right I did!" Cerf's response: "There's a story you're not telling." Her reply: "Of course there is. But I will not write about sweaty sheets and I will not jeopardize my marriage."

Then and now, she hears the recurring comment: "surprisingly well written for an actress."

"That infuriates me," said the granddaughter of Frank Lloyd Wright. "That is the oldest prejudice in the world, as deep-rooted as a wisdom tooth: that actresses are too dumb to write."

Miss Baxter put the manuscript away "like a fallow field" and resumed acting. Her marriage to Galt finally ended in 1970. A lifelong friend, agent Eve Brown, urged Anne to rework the book.

Returning to New York for "Noel Coward in Two Keys," the actress made contact with John Dodds, Putnam editor.

Wants To Fight A White Shark

By GARY R. PEDERSEN
Associated Press Writer
SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Dick Minns is one of those average guys who jumps off cliffs, waterskis for eight hours at a stretch and wants to fight a Great White Shark.

"Sure, I know there will be those coming to watch me die," said Minns, 48. "It's just like boxing, or a bullfight. People want that gore."

Dick Minns is aggressive. He's celebrated recent birthdays with long-distance swims, thousands of sit-ups, dives from high cliffs. Training for the shark fight has been, for Minns, hours at a time on waterskis. He gulps bowls of vitamins and has a weightlifter's physique.

Minns, who is from Houston, made millions in the health spa business. He's a former Golden Gloves boxing champ, a bull rider, an ex-newspaperman and an advertising wizard. He lives every day as if it were his last.

As a newspaperman, he said, "I got a lot of new titles over the years, but never a pay raise. Finally I went into public relations and took over the spas and ended up ahead."

"I never went out after money, but I am a competitor, and money is one way to keep score," he said.

"Now I am ready to do my thing. There's danger, and plenty of danger, but this is going to be a lot of fun and I will have a fine shark dinner," Minns said.

Minns, clad in T-shirt, blue jeans and sneakers, said the movie "Jaws" convinced him this year's act should be killing a white shark, 2,000 to 3,000 pounds.

The Houston Nut — that's what he calls himself — said he wants to prove a 150-pound man can kill a big white shark so "more and more people, maybe millions, will no longer be afraid of the ocean and can enjoy the water."

Study Possible Dike For Aurora

AURORA, N.C. (AP) — A study to determine if it would be feasible to build a 10-foot earthen dike around Aurora to reduce flooding during severe storms has been begun by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

John Garrett, head of the River Basin and Watershed Planning Branch of the SCS in Raleigh, told a public meeting Wednesday the dike would be one alternative in a study of flood and drainage problems of the Beaufort County town.

The study, he said, would take about a year and would consider other preventive and corrective measures such as levees, channel improvements, flood plain regulations and flood insurance.

Bridge Lessons Begin Monday

Sponsoring A Jazz Concert October 19

The D. H. Conley Army ROTC and the Greenville Jaycees announced sponsorship of a Jazz Concert on Oct. 19 by the Studio Band of the US Army Field Band.

The concert by the Army's official touring jazz ensemble is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the D. H. Conley High School Gym.

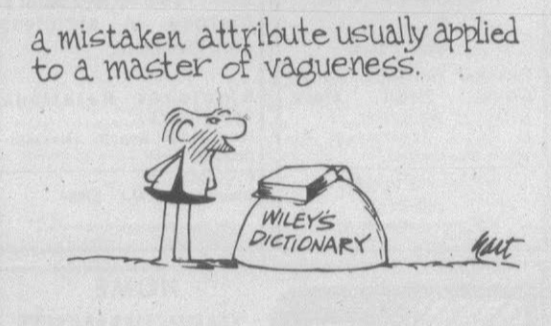

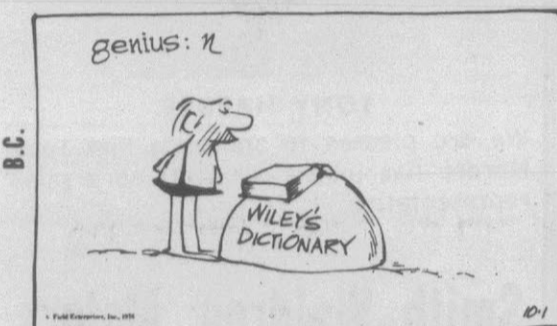

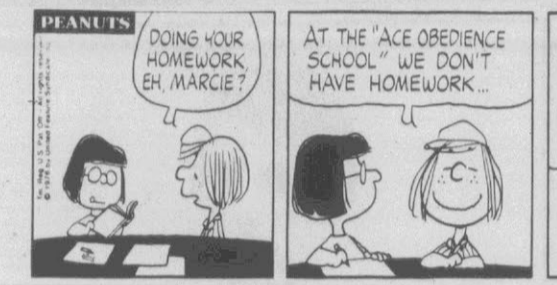

Wayne Winslow, who is serving as chairman of the project for the Jaycees, said that the concert is free to the public and persons planning to attend should obtain advance tickets by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope, along with their name, address and number of tickets desired to the principal's office at D. H. Conley, Rt. 7, Box 375, Greenville.

The fall of 1969, offers a variety of music in their public concerts and presents tunes ranging from the "Big Band" sounds of the 1930's to the most popular songs of today's youth.

Many of the Studio Band's members are composers and arrangers, it was pointed out, and their original compositions are included in the concert format.

All members of the band are chosen by competitive audition, coming from the country's top universities and major recording centers.

Winslow invited area citizens to attend the concert and urged them to obtain their free tickets as early as possible.

WE ALSO INCLUDE THE ORIGINAL TARHEEL TOYOTA NEW CAR GUARANTEE 100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world. (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota) Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've been in the factory in Japan, I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out."

Until now most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you knew you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in the Toyota.

"Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last."

Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions.

We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 miles, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, USA. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality. Toyota dependability.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel Toyota when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel Toyota and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. (Asterisk denotes warranted car.)
