

Partial Stoppage Of Flu Shots In County

One type of swine flu vaccine, the bivalent type recommended for persons 60 and over and chronically ill persons, will not be given by the Pitt County Health Department until further information is obtained about deaths of persons who took the vaccine in Allegheny County, Pa. recently, Health Director Roger Barnaby announced this morning.

Barnaby said the decision to suspend the administering the bivalent type was reached by Medical Consultant Dr. Earl Trevathan and Board of Health Chairman Dr. Charles Fitzgerald "merely as a precaution."

The administering of the monovalent type to healthy persons under 60 will not be interrupted, the Board chairman and medical consultant decided. No directives have been issued to private physicians who have both types of the vaccine in their offices to give their patients as they see fit.

"We feel virtually sure, based on information released so far by the Center for Communicable Disease Control, that there is no problem," Barnaby said. "But we want positive proof."

One-hundred-sixty-one doses of the bivalent have been given so far as the Health Department and its satellite clinics. Personal Health Division Director Tillie Cullipher said.

There has been no problems with the monovalent type anywhere in the country, and there is a good chance the problems of patients who received the bivalent were coincidental rather than cause and effect," Mrs. Cullipher said. "I had mine (monovalent) yesterday afternoon," she added.

Verdicts Confirmed For Three Of Four

convicted on New Year's Day of 1975 along with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, second from right, and two men who once were Nixon's closest advisers, John D. Ehrlichman, second from left, and H.R. Haldeman, right. (AP Wirephoto)

Stress No Evidence Swine Flu Shots Fatal To Three

By The Associated Press
Federal officials say there is no evidence that swine flu shots killed three elderly Pennsylvanians whose deaths have prompted authorities in eight states and the Pittsburgh area to suspend the inoculation program.

But if reports continue to link vaccinations with deaths of other elderly persons, the program started two weeks ago "will come to a screeching halt," Dr. J. Donald Millar, an official at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, said today.

States where the program was suspended were Texas, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Vermont, Maine, New Mexico, Alaska and Illinois — except for Chicago.

The shots still were being given in at least 18 other states, including most of Pennsylvania.

The CDC said samples of the batch of vaccine used in the Pittsburgh area would be tested at the Bureau of Biologics in Rockville, Md.

"The continued emphasis on what is an expected phenomenon ... is going to have a deleterious effect on the program," Millar, director of the CDC's bureau of state services, said in a telephone interview.

Reports of several other elderly persons dying following vaccination surfaced after the partial shutdown Tuesday of the nationwide effort.

Millar said most of the 500,000 doses of the vaccine given out thus far had gone to persons over 65. And he said evidence thus far indicated that elderly persons who were vaccinated were less vulnerable to death than those who refrain from being inoculated.

"We have no evidence to suggest that these deaths (in the Pittsburgh area) were caused by vaccine or the vaccine programs," said Dr. David Sencer, head of the CDC. "Nevertheless, this is a highly unusual cluster of deaths and requires a full investigation."

Sencer said the deaths are "going to make our job much more difficult," in convincing Americans to participate in the program.

In New York, Michigan and Utah, where the program continued, health officials suspended use of vaccine shipped in the same lot as that given to the three persons who died in Pennsylvania.

Those three victims — two women and a man, all in their 70s — died within several hours of getting vaccinations at a public health center in Pittsburgh, according to the county coroner. The Allegheny County coroner said the three had his-stories of heart or lung trouble.

The type of vaccine received by the three victims was produced by Parke Davis & Co. of Detroit and was part of lot A913339A. Sencer said about 1 million to 1½ million doses were in the lot, which was distributed mostly in the East.

Health officials in some states said they intended to go ahead with the vaccination program using dosages from that lot.

The three who died in Pennsylvania received a combination vaccine for elderly and high risk patients designed to prevent both swine flu and Type-A Victoria flu, which was prevalent last winter.

The Pennsylvania victims were Charles Gabig, 71, Julia Bucci, 75, and Ella Michael, 74 — all of suburban towns.

Chinese Troops Round Up Radicals In Peking Univ.

LONDON (AP) — Chinese troops rounded up a number of radicals at Peking University in an apparent extension of the purge that began with the arrest of Mao Tse-tung's widow, the London Daily Telegraph reported today from Peking.

Daily Telegraph correspondent Nigel Wade, who sent the first news report from Peking of the purge, said sources in the Chinese capital told him troops on Tuesday surrounded a university building in which leftist writers lived and worked. He said it was not known how many were arrested.

Japanese reports from Peking said Mao's 62-year-old fourth wife, Chiang Ching, and more than 30 other leaders of the radical faction of the Chinese Communist party have been arrested in a purge by Premier Hua Kuo-feng that began last Thursday.

The Japanese reports said the radicals were accused of trying to make Chiang Ching her husband's successor as Communist party chairman by forging his will and directives issued under his name during the last six months of his life.

Utilities Agree To Serve Planned Industrial Park

By BETTY SANDERSON
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday night voted to provide water and sewer service to the proposed Tucker Industrial Park on N.C. 11 near Pitt Technical Institute. The vote was based on a City Council decision not to allow Winterville to provide services, as the land was within Greenville extraterritorial limits.

The developer will pay full cost of water mains and services, sewer collector lines and services, and a sewage pumping station. The GUC will pay a lump sum of $8,000 toward the cost of the pumping station; it will pay for cost and installation of a sewage force main to reach the Westhaven Subdivision (about $13,800), and the differential cost of making the well deeper than necessary for the developer's property but needed for future service in the surrounding area (about $20,000).

The commission will also assume ownership and responsibility for service of the mains and pumping station. Utilities Director Charles Horne noted that this was "unusual" for an area not directly within city limits.

The estimated cost to the developer is $52,000. The project may be divided into three phases, with the first costing about $30,000.

In other business at the monthly meeting, the commission was informed by Horne that utility bills for October should be reduced by an average of 15 to 20 percent from September. This is due to lower winter rates, lower usage and reduction in the fuel charge from $2.30 per thousand (KWH) to negative 62 cents per thousand.

A request to extend a water main along Meadowbrook Drive was approved by the GUC at an estimated cost of $6,500. The current policy provides for out-of-city extension costs to be paid by the developer. Sewer extension, which may be considered at a later date, would cost about $27,000. A similar request for a water main off the Pactolus Hwy. was tabled.

Horne reported that the 201 Wastewater Treatment Facilities Plan has been approved by the City Council and Pitt County. Copies are being sent to state and federal agencies for study and approval.

Sewer extension to serve the rear third of the Raynor-Forbes-Clark Warehouse on Hwy. 264-A was denied by the commission. The estimated cost was $6,000. Commission members noted that the property owner should provide such service or be responsible for the connection to existing city lines.

A low bid of $13,612.80 was awarded to Bill Haddock Dodge for four pick-up trucks (including trade-in of three old units). The amount budgeted was $15,500.

A low bid of $27,250 was accepted from Utility Service Co., Madison, N.C., for cleaning and painting the Jarvis Street water tank. The GUC authorized Horne to open bids for cleaning the N. Greene Street tank, an unbudgeted item.

The GUC was informed that the City Council has approved use of a new site for an operation center. Acquisition of the land is being completed. A committee appointed by the commission has begun consideration of architect/engineering services.

An audit contract for 1976-77 was accepted from John C. Proctor and Co. for $4,600. The Local Government Commission has recommended that audit contracts be executed early in the year to better coordinate the accounting practice during the year with an approved auditor.

Horne told commissioners that all customers with multipliers on their meters have been notified and that the multipliers are displayed on each meter.

A workshop on the sewer rate study was scheduled for Oct. 26 at 7:30 p.m. Responses from major users are expected by Oct. 15.

An initial meeting has been held concerning the computer service study with Mike Smith, a representative of A. M. Pullen Co. Further work is being conducted.

Jones, Graham Point To Carter's Tobacco Views

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
First District Congressman Walter Jones and North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, on the campaign trail for Democrat presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, said here this morning that the former Georgia governor supports the present tobacco support program.

At a press conference at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, Jones read a letter addressed to him, from Carter, in which the presidential candidate expressed his views on the support program for tobacco.

Carter's letter said, in part: "I am well aware of the importance of the tobacco program to hundreds and thousands of small farmers. Nearly 600,000 farm families receive a large portion of their income from tobacco sales. Tobacco is one of the few crops that can still utilize family farm labor and provide a reasonable income on a small farm.

"If the tobacco program were abolished, tobacco prices and land values would drop sharply. Many growers would be forced off their farms. The entire economy of the tobacco producing areas would be devastated."

The Carter letter continued: "I am not sure what the Republican's 'free market' policy for Agriculture has in mind for tobacco farmers. As you know, former Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz in two consecutive years tried to weaken the tobacco program by trying to drive prices down.

"I personally see no need to do away with a program that costs the government next to nothing while enabling so many hard

Ford Paused To Visit Humphrey

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford interrupted his campaign to visit Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., who is recovering from cancer surgery at a New York City hospital.

"He is doing extremely well," the President said doctors told him of Humphrey during Tuesday's 10-to 15-minute visit.

Humphrey, 65, who had his bladder removed last Thursday, is expected to remain in the hospital for another two to three weeks.

Moratorium On Area's Building

The City Council has adopted an ordinance declaring a moratorium on the issuance of building permits in the identified floodway areas in the city and its extraterritorial planning and zoning jurisdiction.

City Manager Jim Caldwell said that the moratorium, which will continue in existence for 30 days, was established to insure compliance with the Floodway Regulation Law, the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 and subsequent amendments, and the rules and regulations issued by the Federal Insurance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

According to Caldwell, the prohibition on the issuance of all building and related construction permits will apply only in those areas identified by the Army Corps of Engineers and the FIA as having a flood hazard potential due to location in the identified floodways or in the 100-year flood plain as presented to the city on Sept. 30.

The moratorium was established to allow the city to develop an ordinance to insure the interest of public health, safety, and general welfare, by regulating the type and location of uses in the identified floodways of the city and its extraterritorial jurisdiction.

The Council action took place at the Oct. 7 regular meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford had twice as much campaign money left to spend in the last five weeks before the election as Jimmy Carter, according to finance reports made public today.

Through Sept. 30, Ford had spent only $3.5 million of the $21.8 million he is allowed to spend in the general election under federal law. Carter, however, had spent $12.5 million of his identical allotment.

That left Ford with $18.3 million spending room compared to $9.3 million for Carter — an edge that could prove critical in the final days of advertising

Report Ford Has Ample Funds For Final Weeks

bitzes and other last-minute efforts to win what is regarded as a close election Nov. 2.

However, the reports filed with the Federal Election Commission do not show whether, for example, Carter may have already spent money for media advertisements which have yet to appear, or whether Ford may have already incurred obligations for which bills had not yet been received.

Both candidates' campaign committees are operating with federal funds for the first time in the nation's presidential election history. By accepting the taxpayer money, the candidates are forbidden from receiving any private contributions and are bound to the $21.8 million spending limit.

Each national party, however, can spend an additional $3.2 million on behalf of its presidential candidate.

During September, Carter was on the campaign trail much of the time while Ford ventured out only occasionally — one factor presumably leading to the difference in expenditures.

Carter also won his party's nomination five weeks earlier than Ford, meaning he's had more time in which to spend his funds so far.

Costs of each candidate's running mate campaign also come out of the same allotment.

Commandments For Visiting The Sick

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You and I see eye to eye when it comes to visiting the sick. I've put these thoughts into ten commandments which might be helpful to your readers:

1. Always call first.
2. Never come early. And if you're going to be late, call and ask if it's convenient to come later.
3. Keep your conversation cheerful. Never bring bad news or talk about sickness and death.
4. Don't tell long-winded stories about people the person doesn't know.
5. Don't ask for details about the person's illness.
6. If the person appears tired, make an excuse and leave early.
7. Don't bring small children.
8. Don't smoke.
9. Don't make promises you can't keep.
10. Don't stay and expect to be served a meal.

HELPFUL: Your commandments are indeed helpful to patients recuperating at home. The biggest favor you can do hospital patients is to send them cards. They need rest—not company.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you print this so a certain guy will see it and realize a few things.

I have this buddy who's going steady with this super chick. But he treats her like dirt. He's been going out on her with his ex-girlfriend, for example.

I think a lot of this chick and would love to take her out myself but not while she's going with my buddy. Abby, if he loves her as much as he says, why doesn't he spend more time with her? (She really loves the guy and is being hurt by all this.)

Sooner or later, someone else is going to come along and she's going to leave. It'll be too late for him and me both. What can I do to help out?

CONCERNED: Tell your buddy what's happening. Lay it on the line. If he doesn't get the message, it will be open season on chicks, buddy or no buddy.

DEAR ABBY: You recently nixed the idea of a college son bringing home a girl he's living with on campus, and sharing a bedroom with her under the parental roof. You said the girl would be a guest and should live by the rules for such.

Parents who would impose such conditions are kidding no one but themselves. My middle- and upper-middle-class friends who are parents would disagree with you on the bedroom issue. Pursue that policy, and the grown kids won't come home at all!

I know of some parents who "disowned" adult children who live with lovers. The parents wound up alone and bitter, eating their hearts out over their estranged children.

In their hearts, parents would prefer the company of their children—lovers and all—to cold, righteous loneliness.

MOST PEOPLE: Sorry, but I don't think parents should be asked to turn themselves inside out culturally or morally to accept the lifestyles of their children. Each generation should give a little in bridging the old and the new ideas and values.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The People Make It Possible

This is National Newspaper Week, and that is usually a time when editorial writers sing the praises of Freedom of the Press.

We think, though that National Newspaper Week should be a time when we newspapermen, rather than expecting praise for our efforts, should express our appreciation to the citizens of this nation who have made Freedom of the Press possible.

These are cherished rights in the United States, guaranteed for us by the nation's founders. These rights have been shaped and sharpened by court decisions through the years, decisions that were brought on by our citizens, strong commitment to a free society. We think a free people and a free press are synonymous. Justice Felix Frankfurter has said, "Without a free press, there can be no free society."

Some great and good changes have been brought about by newspapers in the 200 years that our nation has existed. None of it would be possible, however, without the commitment that the citizens of our country have to the basic freedoms.

So during this National Newspaper Week, we should be thanking all the citizens of this country for their great love for a free society which makes newspapers, as we know them, possible.

New Paths For Learning

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Most of the material in the 281 pages of guidelines for a "Course of Study" in North Carolina's public schools is pretty routine stuff.

There is a lot of philosophy and idealism, numerous goals and course descriptions.

But from that book which is now being circulated in draft form for review by principals, teachers and superintendents around the state, there are a couple of glimpses into the schools of tomorrow.

Some New Ways
Many courses continue on a recognized track. But in library/media area, foreign languages, and mathematics there are some interesting paths being opened.

Why did they change the name library to media center, anyhow, many of us have wondered. That reason is made clear in the introduction to that section of the "Course of Study."

... some 500 years ago, the invention of the printing press revolutionized the storage and retrieval information. Printing and reading of print became the primary means by which civilization's knowledge was stored and transmitted to succeeding generations.

"Schools in which children could be taught to read and to write became an essential institution..." write the educators from the instructional services division of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Then came the technological explosion of the past century, with communications leading in that swift change... movies, TV, records, radio, computers, etc.

Knowledge is growing by leaps and bounds, in all fields, with "civilization's total raw knowledge calculated to more than double with each passing decade.

"Thus it is no longer a logical or feasible course of action to seek to pass on to our young people the total of all information needed in adulthood. Instead provision must be made to equip today's youth with fundamental skills for coping with the proliferation of current as well as forthcoming information."

How To Find
In sum, the schools are aiming at teaching youngsters how to find information from the multiple systems in which it is stored and how to use the sophisticated equipment coming on line.

In foreign languages, the "Course of Study" points the way to useable skills rather than memorizing of defunct rules in a dead language. Latin, while not discarded, is to be presented as the language from which much of our speech derives. It is no longer required for college entry, and in the words of the study outline, "There is now less stress on pronunciation and speaking, writing Latin, transliteration, memorization of a large number of seldom used passages in Latin. There is greater stress on rapid reading comprehension, English word derivatives, and cultural, historical, and literary values."

Modern foreign languages stressed are French, German, and Spanish, with detailed grammar and sentence construction growing out of conversational learning. Many schools now start languages in the seventh grade.

And in mathematics, the guide suggests that in addition to math in commerce and physical sciences, students need to learn math in behavioral sciences, computers, decision-making, probabilistic math, "in all areas from business to medical research to quantum mechanics."

Recognizing the growing importance of math in all fields, the guidebook suggests, "The mathematics program must also provide students with the knowledge which will enable them to distinguish fact from opinion, relevant from irrelevant data, and experimental results from proven theorems."

By ART BUCHWALD

A Georgia Rose Garden

WASHINGTON — One of Jimmy Carter's main complaints about running for President is that his opponent, Jerry Ford, is hiding in the Rose Garden of the White House. While Mr. Carter is being covered 24 hours a day by the media he says Mr. Ford has been avoiding the press—and, therefore, is not open to the ruthless public scrutinizing any candidate should undergo.

Mr. Carter may be right, but that is one of the few advantages of being an incumbent President and there is only one solution to the problem.

The answer is that Mr. Carter must build his own

Rose Garden in Plains, Ga., and use it in the same manner that the President uses his.

There is no problem erecting a rose garden on the peanut farm behind his house, and Mr. Carter could get his workers to design one that looked exactly like the one Mr. Ford uses for his public appearances.

All he would need besides rosebushes (Jackie Onassis could help him select the varieties) is a table, a chair and a large cup filled with ball point pens.

Mr. Carter would declare the rest of his farm off limits to the press and television. He would also refuse private interviews with Playboy, reporters Norman Mailer, Doris Kearns and everyone else.

Twice a day he would come out to his Rose Garden and start signing bills.

Since Mr. Carter does not have the authority to sign congressional bills, he could sign household bills and bills that have been sent to him for the upkeep of his peanut farm.

A certain amount of staging would have to be done to simulate President Ford's visits to his Rose Garden.

First the press would be alerted that Mr. Carter was going to sign some very important bills. The photographers would set up their cameras as would the television technicians. Then the Secret Service would escort the reporters into the Rose Garden where Mrs. Carter, Miss Lillian, Amy and the Carter sons would be waiting. The beneficiaries of the bills would all be placed behind Mr. Carter's chair to applaud when he signed a bill.

At exactly the appointed time Mr. Carter would walk out of the back door of his house and seat himself at the table. He would read a short statement.

"I am happy to sign this fertilizer bill today, sent to me by the Americus Fertilizer and Feed Company of

THE INSIDE REPORT

Jimmy Relying On Daley

By ROWLANE EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
CHICAGO — Who was present and who was absent when Jimmy Carter paid his second fall campaign visit to Illinois Sunday will show that Carter's campaign, after private hesitation, has irrevocably cast its lot with Mayor Richard J. Daley to deliver this state's 26 electoral votes.

Present at Carter's side was Secretary of State Michael Howlett, running far behind for governor as Daley's handpicked candidate. Absent was a Carter advance man who was fired for trying to keep Howlett at arm's length during Carter's first Illinois visit a month ago.

That points to prudent calculation by Carter: whatever aura of defeat is rubbed off from Mike Howlett, the risk of the Daley organization cutting Carter at the top of the ticket is incomparably more dangerous.

In Illinois, a state carried by every winning President since 1916, the contest has resolved itself into these terms: with neither Carter nor President Ford generating enthusiastic support, Carter depends on a parlay of economic trouble and Mayor Daley's clout.

Reliance on the Daley machine seemed unlikely a month ago when the fact Carter was running worse in Illinois than in most other major states was attributed to Howlett's reverse coattails (a judgment substantiated by some private polls). Accordingly, the advance man for Carter's Illinois trip tried to keep Howlett away from Carter — out of camera range, out of his car, off the speaking program.

The advance man's partial success produced grumbling from the organization but was not successful enough for some in Carter's inner circle. One key adviser in Atlanta suggested that, on his next Illinois visit, Carter campaign as he had in winning the state's primary seven months ago — the non-organization man, unnumbered by regulars.

That risky scheme was scuttled in part by an unlikely opponent: the Rev. James Wall, an old McGovernite on leave as editor of the Christian Century to work fulltime in Carter's headquarters here. Having earned the confidence of suspicious city hall stallwarts, Wall made clear to Atlanta that if Carter even hints at snubbing the beleaguered Howlett, city hall will cut him off at the knees.

So, Wall has been traveling downstate (often with Howlett at his side) boosting both Carter and Howlett at regular Democratic gatherings. When Carter spoke to a Polish-American dinner in Chicago Sunday night and marched in the Columbus Day parade Monday, Howlett and Daley were his constant companions. And, the regulars have been informed, that errand advance man has been sacked.

Even so, the organization's joy over Carter is well contained. Its older generation is still shocked by the indiscretion of Carter's Playboy interview. Shrewd regular Democrats feel his renovated New Deal campaign line appeals to the poor, certain Democratic voters, instead of middle-class swing voters. "Carter says nothing to the $19,000-a-year man we've got to get," one Daley Democrat told us.

Considering the lack of Carter enthusiasm here, the mayor's support seems essential — but is not an unmixed blessing. It does not solve Carter's ethnic problems, considering the Daley organization's own current trouble with Polish voters. Nor will the Daley label help Carter's softness with the state's Jewish vote, which deeply worries Democrats.

All this would put Illinois in the certain loss column for Carter were it not for the virtual absence of a Ford campaign. There are no visits from the candidate, no campaign literature, no volunteers, no excitement. Television commercials are the only evidence that Mr. Ford is running in Illinois.

Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, state Ford chairman, and former U.S. Atty. James Thompson, frontrunning Republican candidate for governor, have pleaded for two or three Ford visits. Ogilvie's staff mapped out a proposed first visit on

To the editor:

It is tragic that accidents such as Sandy Wurth-Hough's happen again and again in this lovely town of Greenville.

Having recently moved from congested, smog-laden New Jersey I have been surprised, yes, even shocked to find that I have somewhat the same sense of fear on Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive. Although it is a relief no longer to have to be annoyed by blowing horns and aggressive, discourteous drivers, the feeling of constant danger is ever-present here, almost as much as it was in New Jersey. I agree with Miss Wurth-Hough that the speed limits must be lowered, not only for trucks but for all of us. We might then reach our destinations a minute or two later, but the rewards in peace of mind and in reduction of costly, tragic accidents would be beyond calculation. Why not reduce the speed limit on Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive to 35 and to 25 on other city streets? I'm sure we all want our town to be a happy, safe place for ourselves and for future generations.

Economists Eye A Year Ahead

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Association of Business Economists seems to think the current economic weakness is merely a pause in the recovery, but that a more pronounced slowing of growth might occur a year from now.

The 1977 consensus forecast is for continued expansion at a fairly even rate "at least through the second or third quarter," but accompanied by a sharp, 10 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index. "Curiously," they announced, "the consensus forecasts a continuous decline in the unemployment rate throughout the year 1977."

Meeting in San Francisco, the economists announced that an analysis of their forecasts showed them to be expecting a 1977 final-quarter decline in the rate of increase in real Gross National Product, profits, housing starts and spending for personal big ticket items. The economists, whose forecasts were made more than a month ago, have had an uneven record. While they credit themselves with a fairly good forecast for 1976, the one for the preceding year, in their words, "is better forgotten."

Here is the breakdown: —Gross National Product in current dollars will rise from $1,697,000,000 in 1976 to $1,855,600,000 in 1977. Those figures, however, included inflation.

Using 1972 dollars so as to measure both years by the same standard, the economists expect growth to be from $1,268,000,000 in 1976 to $1,332,700,000 in 1977.

—Profits. Corporate profits before taxes are forecast to rise to $166.9 billion from $148 billion in 1976. That would be a 12.8 per cent increase.

The economists expect that profits will strengthen during the second and third quarters of 1977, followed by a marked decline in growth during the final three months.

—Industrial production. The rate of growth will tend to rise through the second quarter of 1977. "A marked decline in the rate of increase is forecast thereafter."

—Private housing starts are expected to grow only slightly in the first quarter, more strongly in the second quarter, rather weakly in the third quarter, and to decline, in absolute terms, in the final quarter of 1977.

The Economists expect the number of starts for the year to total 1,656,000, compared with an estimated 1,480,000 for 1976.

Rally Hails Nobody

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They held a presidential campaign rally in front of City Hall — and Nobody showed up.

But that was fine with Wavy Gravy and the rest of the crowd from the Nobody for President campaign, who kicked off a national tour under a warm October sun in Civic Plaza on Tuesday.

The arrival of the candidate was strategically timed for late in the rally. The candidate's motorcade, a battered sports car, drove across the sidewalk with a bunting-festooned wooden chair mounted on the trunk. Nobody was sitting in it.

Around the improvised stage were hung banners carrying slogans such as "Nobody loves the poor," "Nobody will end war," and "Nobody will lower your taxes."

Gravy, a San Francisco Bay area counterculture hero who said he's Nobody's Fool, was smeared with white clown makeup for the occasion. He told the estimated 200 people gathered around the reflecting pool that Nobody would address the crowd.

Then, a pair of plastic wind-up teeth chattered into the microphone in response to questions on foreign and domestic issues.

Gravy, along with other anti-establishment figures of the 1960s and early '70s, ran the Hog Farm commune in Sonoma County north of San Francisco. The group became known for rock music festivals and carnivals and for a variety of zany antics centered on the area's counterculture lifestyle.

Paul Krassner, editor of The Realist magazine and himself a substantial counterculture figure, told the crowd he wanted to see Nobody get elected.

40 Years Ago Today

October 13, 1936
Determined government resistance today checked the insurgent advance of Madrid. At San Martin de Valdeiglesias three government bombing planes rained shells on fascist concentrations enflaming some Moorish cavalry troops; killing their mounts and wrecking several buildings.

The Madrid war ministry asserted its forces had repulsed a strong insurgent attack, blocking the fascist drive toward El Escorial, a strategic base for the attack on Madrid.

Communiques announced government troops also had resisted several other fascist attacks.

Visitors by the thousands streamed through the gates of the State Fair today as the weather continued fair and cooler, to see the thrills offered by Lucky Teeter and his "Hell Drivers" and the many other thrilling attractions booked for the fair.

Although the opening day of a State Fair is not generally regarded as a very big day, the crowd at the fair grounds, yesterday was one of the largest for a "first day" ever recorded. If the weather continues to be favorable, the attendance for the week is expected to pass the 200,000 mark.

Strength For Today

JOHNNY APPLESEED
"Johnny Applesseed" had one of the most singular careers in American history. About 150 years ago he started down a stream in western Pennsylvania with two canoes lashed together carrying thousands of apples which he had collected from his own orchard and from nearby cider mills.

Also he sowed the Word of God. He carried Bibles along with his apples and distributed them in the wilderness to people who had none. If the people could not read, he spent long hours reading the scriptures to them. Today one can find memorials to Johnny Applesseed in most of the north-central states.

Every man to his taste in human service. Only let us be sure that we plant some kind of a seed to make the world better.

Key Test Awaits Zoning Laws

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Does a virtually all-white community have to alter its zoning laws so low-income minority families can move in?

The Supreme Court's answer to that question may carry far-reaching consequences for suburban areas now closed to racially integrated public housing. The court was to hear arguments today in the case of an affluent Chicago suburb that claims it has no such obligation.

The Arlington Heights, Ill., board of trustees, is asking the high court to overturn a Seventh U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that the board was guilty of racial discrimination when it refused to rezone a 15-acre plot of land for a low-income housing project.

The board had refused in 1971 to rezone the property to allow construction of Lincoln Green, a federally subsidized development of 195 townhouses.

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., a non-profit organization set up in 1968 to build low-income housing, then sued the board.

The appeals court, ruling in favor of Metropolitan, said Arlington Heights had violated the constitutional equal protection rights of prospective minority-group residents of the planned townhouses.

The community's trustees appealed to the Supreme Court and argued that the appeals court's decision would "give special privileges in housing and zoning to low-income persons, 'regardless of race.'"

"No zoning ordinance in the United States will be sustained in the face of an argument that a higher percentage of minority group or poor people generally could occupy an area if the zoning were downgraded," the board said.

According to 1970 census figures, Arlington Heights had almost 55,000 residents and 27 of them were black.

pealed to the Supreme Court and argued that the appeals court's decision would "give special privileges in housing and zoning to low-income persons, 'regardless of race.'"

Arlington Heights could not show a legitimate, compelling interest why the land in question shouldn't be rezoned.

If the justices accept that rationale, municipalities may find that similar legal tests will be applied to their future zoning decisions.

Conductor Will Go To Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Antal Dorati, in his seventh and final season as conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, reportedly will become conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The Detroit News said Tuesday that the Hungarian-born Dorati would succeed Aldo Cecato as Detroit Symphony music director starting next season. Dorati, 70, who also is principal conductor of London's Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, is expected to serve at least three years.

Detroit Symphony President Robert Semple would neither confirm the nor deny the report.

The highest recorded speed by a sailing ship is 22 knots.

Georgia. As you know fertilizer is very important in the growing of peanuts and roses and I would hate to think where this country would be without it. This is not the exact bill that I requested, but I believe the advantages it provides outweighs the disadvantages and therefore I am signing it." (Applause from officials of the Americus Fertilizer and Feed Company.) Then Mr. Carter would hand out ball point pens to the executives of the company as well as the accountant who sent him the bill.

Occasionally to make the simulation of what goes on at the White House more realistic, Mr. Carter could come out of his house to the Plains Ga., Rose Garden and announce he was vetoing a bill.

"I just received a bill for my signature from the Georgia Power and Electric Company which I consider highly inflationary and against the best interests of all Americans who use electricity. I am refusing to put my signature on this bill because I feel that if I sign it, it will just encourage the Georgia Power and Electric Company to raise rates which would force me to charge more for my peanuts. I hope the GP and E big spenders who have no sense of fiscal responsibility will have the good sense to sustain my veto."

With both men campaigning from their respective gardens, I believe the election would be much fairer, and it would be easier for the American people to decide which man they want to tend the White House roses for the next four years. While President Ford has said on many occasions he never promised the Democrats a rose garden, there is nothing in the election laws that says Jimmy Carter can't build his own.

LUNCH PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An average of 25.6 million children took part in the federal School Lunch Program during the 1975-76 school year, including one million in Puerto Rico and the territories.

The USDA's September report on the national food situation said this represents an increase of a half million children over the previous school year in the 50 states. Participation in Puerto Rico and the territories remained essentially unchanged.

The appeals court, ruling in favor of Metropolitan, said Arlington Heights had violated the constitutional equal protection rights of prospective minority-group residents of the planned townhouses.

Last Tuesday afternoon, Ogilvie received news from Washington that Mr. Ford would come to Illinois Oct. 15 for a train trip starting in Joliet and extending through heavily Republican central Illinois to St. Louis. Neither Ogilvie nor anybody else here was consulted. "Insanity!" exclaimed one party leader. "But we've gotten used to that from the Ford campaign."

"Insanity," coupled with two unexciting candidates, could make the Daley organization decisive in Illinois. That's why Carter is keeping close to Howlett, hoping that his aura of defeat won't rub off.

Even Democratic hopeful Jimmy Carter gave Nobody a boost on one visit to San Francisco, Krassner said, when he told the throng assembled to see him that "nobody has all the answers."

"We all cheered and he didn't quite know why," Krassner said.

The cross-country tour is scheduled for stops in Los Angeles, Albuquerque, N.M., Austin, Tex. and Washington, winding up in New York's Washington Square on election day, Nov. 2.

Gravy, Nobody's manager on the campaign trail, said his candidate has a good chance to win the election. He pointed out that 40 per cent of eligible voters in the last presidential election voted for nobody.

NEW TELEPHONE COMPLEX — Officials recently announced the construction of a new building to be located on Hooker Road. The new building will have 12,544 square feet and will have room for expansion in two directions. The foundation will also be capable of a second story for future expansion. The new facility is expected to be ready by May, 1977.

Moose Clothing Bank Drive Begins Monday

The Greenville Moose launch a seasonal drive next Monday night with the collection of used, but still useable, clothing to be distributed among Pitt County's neediest people.

Community Service committee chairman Billy Barnes says the collections will begin at 7:00 p.m. Monday night. Moose members will be assisted by Boy Scouts of lodge-sponsored Troop

362. "We hope that people who have clothing to contribute will telephone the Moose lodge (756-4370) well in advance," says Barnes, "giving their name and address so our pickup teams will be able to locate the donors and their contributions."

Acceptance of gifts of used clothing will be on a continuing basis, according to Barnes: "but as of right now our Clothing Bank is relatively bare, and it will take some time for the Women of the Moose to sort the items, arrange for minor repairs and cleaning, and set things up for orderly distribution. So it is important we get off to a good start Monday night."

Lodge Junior Governor A. W. Diehl noted "this is the time of year when families are sorting out their cold weather wardrobes, and some may have become outgrown or replaced . . . or have a minor defect that can be repaired and used by the less fortunate in our community."

In past years donations to the Moose Clothing Bank have been generous, and literally hundreds of people have been helped when they needed it most. This service project is regularly undertaken by many lodges in the United States and Canada.

"If reassurance is needed," said lodge secretary Arthur Sisk, "the articles of clothing that we distribute are given out only on the recommendation of responsible sources. We often get calls for children's wear . . . perhaps because of observant teachers . . . and cold weather clothing for children is usually among the scarcer items made available to the Clothing Bank. I hope prospective contributors will have that in mind when sorting out the items they feel can be of further use."

Women of the Moose will be in charge of the distribution, and target date for that service is tentatively planned for early November and continuing through the winter months.

Officers Elected By Circulation Men

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — W. Herman Phillips of the Richmond (Va.) Newspapers was elected president of the Mid-Atlantic Circulation Managers Association as the group wound up a three-day meeting Tuesday.

Phillips succeeds Harry Cogins of the Greenville (S.C.) News Piedmont Co.

The meeting was attended by 178 circulation managers and wives. The association includes circulation managers from the Carolinas and Virginia.

Other new officers elected were J.K. Davis of the Columbia (S.C.) Record, first vice president; Bonnie Ray Hardee of the Daily Reflector of Greenville, N.C., second vice president; Marvin Clements, Landmark Communications, Inc., Norfolk, Va., convention secretary; and Frank W. Arnold, The News and Observer Publishing Co. of Raleigh, secretary-treasurer.

New director elected for three-year terms were Jack Doyle, Knight Publishing Corp., Charlotte; Robert L. Childress, Times-World Corp., Roanoke, Va.; and Joe D. Ivester, Independent Publishing Co., Anderson, S.C.

The group's next meeting will be October 1977 in Richmond.

Says Economy Building Base

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The economy is on track toward a sound recovery and is building a base for solid future growth, says President Ford's chief economic adviser.

The adviser, L. William Seidman, said Ford's "steady as you go" policies, restraints on federal spending, and reliance on the private sector had brought inflation under control.

Seidman, executive director of the Economic Policy Board and assistant to the president for economic affairs, spoke Tuesday to the Charlotte Blue chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

He conceded there still are some economic problem areas, like unemployment. But he said that despite what some voters may see as a deterioration of the economy in recent weeks, the President will not propose any "quick fix" measures to gain support between now November.

ter, "There is nothing you could do to affect the economy between now and the election," said Seidman, former managing partner of the accounting firm of Seidman and Seidman.

The speech was not billed as political. But Seidman said his expenses were being paid by the President's campaign committee.

"If there's the least question about one of these things, the committee pays for it. I like it that way because this entitles me to close my speech by telling everybody how much better off they are now than they were 26 months ago," he said with a smile.

Malfunction In Phone Gear

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An equipment malfunction caused 18,000 telephones in Charlotte to go dead for a minute during several periods Tuesday.

The Charlotte and Mecklenburg County police telephone lines were affected. But police spokesmen say the interruptions caused no serious problems.

$122.85 Day On Market

Price average increased Tuesday on the Greenville Tobacco Market as local warehouses resumed sales after Monday's holiday.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the local Tobacco Board of Trade, reported that the market sold 962,490 pounds yesterday for $1,182,393, an average of $122.85 per hundred pounds.

Bryan said that the average brought the season figure to $115.38 per hundred pounds on the basis of 41,911,602 pounds sold so far for $48,357,637.

Stabilization receipts were down to 2.49 per cent of total sales, he said.

Top practical price paid Tuesday was $1.30 per pound with some of the higher grades of leaf going to the buying companies for $1.31 to $1.41 per pound.

Offerings consisted of leaf, smoking leaf and cutters, with some lugs, primings and non descript tobacco still on the floors.

Income Tax Forms Late

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changes in the federal income tax code will delay the mailing of the basic tax forms used by most citizens this year.

The forms will come two weeks later than usual this year, in January instead of December, the Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday.

Traditionally, the IRS mails out Form 1040 and 1040A tax packages at Christmas time. The 1040 is the long form used by people who itemize deductions and have other special deductions for income. The 1040A package is the short form used by people who take the standard deduction and have a relatively simple tax return.

But the IRS said the packages won't be ready until early January this year, due to the changes in the tax code contained in the bill signed recently by President Ford.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander said to look for the form 1040 packages between Jan. 3 and Jan. 11. The short form packages should be delivered by Jan. 7, Alexander said.

Carter, Reagan In Twin-City

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Jimmy Carter plans to campaign for Rep. Steve Neal in Winston-Salem next Tuesday morning.

Ronald Reagan also will be in the Twin-City that day, on behalf of Wilmer Mizell, the Republican opposing incumbent Democrat Neal in the 5th District.

Reagan's plans were made beforehand, and it's believed he and Carter will not cross paths.

Spain's Royalty In Celebrations

CARTAGENA, Colombia (AP) — King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia of Spain attended Columbus Day celebrations in this Caribbean city and heard Colombian President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen praise Spain's contributions to the new world.

"Spain gave us a culture, cities, a language . . . and today's Spain still can offer Latin America much more of its talents," the president said Tuesday.

Tuesday Saw 5 Collisions

Five collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police resulted in an estimated $1,770 property damage.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1:52 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 800 feet west of the Granville Drive intersection involving cars driven by Curtis Thomas Butler of Route 2, Ayden and Michael White of Havelock.

No charges were made by officers who estimated damage at $75 to the Butler car and $100 to the White auto.

Stewart Marvin Leggett of Route 1, Washington was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of a 1:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and 14th Street.

Police said the Leggett car collided with an auto driven by Hannah Batson Gaylor of Ayden causing an estimated $300 damage to the Gaylor car and $60 damage to the Leggett vehicle.

James Arthur King of 1102B North Washington St. was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and no operators license after his vehicle collided with a parked car owned by James Arthur Brown of 435A Bonner's Lane about 2:15 p.m. at the intersection of Albemarle Avenue and South Alley.

Damage was set at $200 to the Brown vehicle and $100 to the King car.

John Maxwell Hill of Greenville was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Jarvis Streets.

Investigators reported the Hill car collided with a car operated by Kevin Mark Leutgens of 205 North Jarvis St. causing an estimated $100 damage to the Hill vehicle and $175 damage to the Leutgens car.

No charges were reported following investigation of a 10:45 a.m. mishap on Skinner Street, 47 feet East of the Dickinson Avenue intersection involving a truck operated by Lynn Harold Smith of Route 2, Kinston and a car driven by Jessie David Godley Jr. of Route 4, Greenville.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $10 to the Smith truck and $350 to the Godley car.

Close-To-Home Issues Also At Stake In November

By The Associated Press
The spotlight in the 1976 election is on the presidential race, but voters in November also will be deciding close-to-home questions involving everything from nuclear safety to state-regulated slot machines.

Some of the proposals are in the form of constitutional amendments offered by state legislatures. Others have been placed on the ballot as a result of voter initiatives and petition drives.

An Associated Press spot check showed that the nuclear safety issue has generated the most interest, followed by proposals to ban or restrict nonreturnable beverage containers.

California residents voted against a proposal on the June primary ballot to limit development of nuclear power plants and impose restrictions on the operation of those already in existence.

Similar measures now are on the ballot in a number of states, including Oregon, Montana, Ohio, Washington and Arizona.

There are about 60 atomic power plants already in operation and another 40 plants are expected in operation by 1980. Critics of nuclear power say that safety controls are not strict enough.

The proposals under consideration would:

- Set specific safety standards for builders.
- Provide for safe storage, transportation and disposal of nuclear wastes.
- Require legislative approval of all new plants.
- Urge Congress to suspend the limit on liability insurance in case of nuclear accidents.

The outcome of the vote is expected to be close in most states and both sides have been fighting hard. Opponents of the measure in the State of Washington have a fund of more than $340,000, but a poll published by the Seattle Times in August showed 44.1 per cent of those surveyed were for the measure, 23.9 per cent were against and 32 per cent were undecided.

Here is a look at some other issues under consideration around the country:

RETURNABLE BOTTLES AND CANS
Massachusetts, Maine and Michigan are among the states trying to limit the use of nonreturnable containers. Under the Maine proposal, which is typical, all beer, ale and soft drink containers sold in the state after Jan. 1, 1978 would have to have at least a five-cent deposit. Cans with flip-top openers would be banned, as would plastic rings used to hold the cans or bottles together in a

UTILITIES
Voters in some states will decide on measures that could affect electric and gas bills. In Massachusetts, a proposal would require the same per-kilowatt charge for all customers in contrast to the current practice of lower rates for big users. The governor and the state Department of Public Utilities contend that the measure would hurt industry. Ohioans for Utility Reform — OUR is pushing a measure requiring utilities to offer low-cost "lifeline" rates, with a minimum charge for a minimum amount of power. A measure on the ballot in Missouri would prevent utilities from including construction work in progress as one of the ongoing costs in figuring rate increases. Supporters of the measure say it's not the job of a utility customer to finance long-range construction projects.

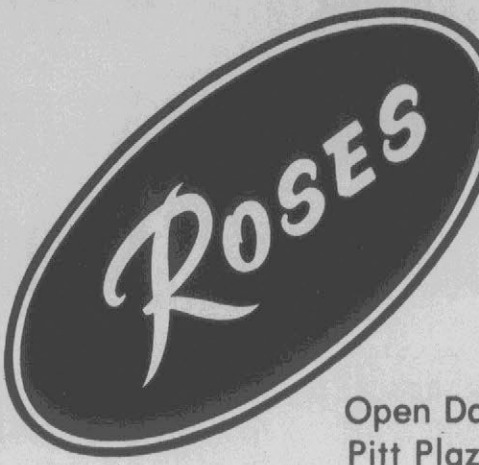

GAMBLING
Legalized gambling of one form or another is under consideration in several states. The biggest fight has been in New Jersey where there is a proposal to okay casino gambling in Atlantic City. Two years ago, a plan for casino gambling throughout the state was rejected by a 3-2 margin. The Eagleton Institute of Politics of Rutgers University said a late-September poll showed 59 per cent of those questioned favored the proposal, 36 were against and the rest were undecided. In Delaware, the issue is whether the voters favor state-regulated slot machines. In California, the controversy is over greyhound racing. And in Oregon, a proposal on the ballot would allow charitable, fraternal and religious organizations to run bingo games.

SPENDING—MONEY
Two measures on the Michigan ballot specifically deal with money. One would limit state spending to 8.3 per cent of total personal income in the state; the other would remove the state's constitutional prohibition on a graduated income tax. Massachusetts voters also will decide whether to permit a graduated income tax — an idea that has been turned down three times in recent years. In Missouri, there are proposals to increase the state's sales tax by an eighth of a cent, but remove it from food and prescription drugs. North Dakota voters are faced with a plan to reduce the sales tax from 4 to 3 per cent. The drive is led by a businessman critical of the state's $180 million general fund surplus.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION
Jimmy Carter has made his reorganization of the Georgia government a key issue in the presidential campaign. Another kind of reorganization — involving the state constitution — is on the November ballot. A key proposal would rearrange the constitution to put similar subjects under the same articles. Officials say it would be the first step toward an article-by-article constitutional revision in the future. Another measure on the Georgia ballot would allow a governor to succeed himself for a second four-year term. In Montana, residents of 156 counties, cities and towns will vote on proposals for new forms of local government. The new ideas generally would increase power at the local level.

STATE CAPITAL
The biggest issue on the Alaska ballot is where to put the state capital. Alaskans voted in 1974 to move it from Juneau and created a commission to propose three alternative sites. The choices: Willow, about 70 miles north of Anchorage and the cheapest of the three to develop; Mount Yenlo, a wilderness area 100 miles north of Anchorage and the second cheapest to develop; and Larson Lake, 120 miles north of Anchorage and the most expensive in development costs.

MISCELLANEOUS
Oklahoma residents have another chance to vote on legalizing the sale of liquor by the drink; an Equal Rights Amendment to the state constitution and a ban on the ownership of most handguns are on the ballot in Massachusetts; and a Florida measure would strengthen the state's financial disclosure law for public officials.

For Eleventh Year, Tau Chapter Is 'Most Outstanding' In Nation

East Carolina University's Tau chapter of Phi Sigma Pi honor fraternity has been judged most outstanding chapter in the nation for the eleventh consecutive year.

A 13-member delegation headed by chapter faculty advisor Dr. Richard Todd of the ECU history faculty received the Phi Sigma Pi Outstanding Chapter award last week at the annual national convention in Washington, D.C.

The award is based on performance in service projects and achievements of the chapter as well as personal achievements of individual members.

Dr. Todd also received an Honor Citation for Service, commemorating his 27 years with Tau chapter and 23 years as a national officer. He was elected national alumni representative to serve a two-year term.

The Tau chapter delegation was joined by six alumni members and included the following student officers: Randy Doub of Pfafftown, president; John Gilchrist of Kernersville, vice president;

Jeff Wilder of Raleigh, secretary; and Jim Reid of Rocky Mount, historian.

The convention, headquartered at the Burlington Hotel, featured a banquet address by Dan Figgins, U.S. State Department official, who spoke on "The New Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs." Tau delegates also toured the city and visited the Aerospace Museum during their stay in Washington.

Phi Sigma Pi attempts to promote scholarship, leadership and fellowship among its members.

Jurors Couldn't Accept 'Insanity' In Murders

By HENRY GOTTLIEB
Associated Press Writer

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP)—Some jurors who convicted Joseph Kallinger of murder say they didn't believe Kallinger was insane when he went on his crime spree. One juror said the insanity plea "made me laugh."

The jury took six votes — one on each of five charges and one on the insanity question — and reached a unanimous first-ballot decision on each charge.

Kallinger, 39, convicted Tuesday of the stabbing death of Maria Fasching, 21, of Leonia, N.J., is to be sentenced Thursday by Superior Court Justice Thomas Dalton. The charge, under New Jersey law, carries a mandatory life sentence.

One of the jurors, Joseph Fragala, said insanity testimony by defense psychiatrists had no impact "on everybody I talked to."

"I just went by what the witnesses said," Fragala, a telephone company worker, told reporters outside the motel where the jury had been sequestered for 22 days.

Testimony by psychiatrists that Kallinger was insane in 1972 was rejected, Fragala said, "because we didn't care what he was like in 1972. We just went by what he did in 1975."

He said tearful testimony by occupants of the house Kallinger invaded was vivid and convincing and that their account of the crime influenced the jury the most.

Another juror, Joseph Baeli, said, "I think he's crazy, but he's not insane; it made me laugh — it was just an act."

After three weeks of testimony by 42 witnesses, it took the jury less than two hours to reject Kallinger's insanity defense.

Kallinger was convicted of forcing his way into a Leonia home on Jan. 8, 1975, binding and robbing six women, a child and a man, and fatally stabbing Miss Fasching when she began fighting him.

Kallinger already is serving a 30-to-80-year sentence for terrorizing four women at Harrisburg, Pa. His son Michael, 14, is serving an open-ended sentence in Pennsylvania for accompanying his father on the spree.

In addition to murder, Kallinger was convicted Tuesday of contributing to the delinquency of his son, armed robbery and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Kallinger stood expressionless when the verdicts were announced and looked at jury forewoman Anne Lukowiak as she read the verdicts.

The jurors, who had been guarded from news about the case, were unaware Kallinger had tried to kill himself twice during the trial.

Parks Is Named Visiting Scholar

Dr. Oral E. Parks of the East Carolina Department of Political Science has been named Visiting Scholar in Residence to the Institute for Research in Social Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The designation is for winter term of 1977.

Dr. Parks will be doing research on the effects of the mass media on voting behavior and political party organization.

The Institute for Research in Social Science is the oldest university-associated social research organization in the United States and provides support for research in the social sciences.

ZINC INTAKE

Probe Results In Smuggling Charge

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Continued investigation into smuggling marijuana into the country along North Carolina's sparsely populated coast has resulted in an indictment charging six persons.

The indictment was unsealed by court order Tuesday after all those named were in custody. Six men are charged with smuggling 7½ tons of marijuana into the country in the summer of 1975.

Charged in the three-count indictment handed up by a federal grand jury in New Bern, N.C., Oct. 4 were John David Steele, Ernest Hugh Mayo, Louis Gordon Wendler and Johnnie Bert Armstrong, who were already in custody on other charges, and Vernon Wilson and William Clayton Hedden who were recently arrested in the Miami, Fla., area, officials said.

Investigation into the smuggling has been a joint venture of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation.

Authorities say the smuggling operation was responsible for uncounted tons of marijuana coming into the country through the small fishing village of Mesic, N.C.

In a January raid at Mesic, federal and state officers arrested 10 men and confiscated about 22 tons of what was analyzed to be very high grade Colombian marijuana. Two of the men testified for the government and the others were convicted and imprisoned.

Some of those arrested in January were named again in this month's indictment. Authorities say ringleader of the group was Steele, 52, a former lawyer who once was mayor of Hallandale, Fla., and unsuccessfully ran for Congress. He pleaded guilty in April to the January arrest.

Wilson of Miami is also charged with accessory to murder in the shotgun killing of an unidentified man whose body was found in May in a shallow grave about 50 yards from a Mesic house trailer used as a headquarters for the smuggling ring.

The six men charged this month were accused of conspiring among themselves and with others not charged in the indictment to smuggle the marijuana into the country and distribute it. Much of the information for the indictment was supplied by George Brent Poppas, 25, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He was in prison from the January smuggling arrest when he testified before the grand jury. He was named as a conspirator but not charged.

The marijuana, according to the indictment, was taken off a cargo ship coming from South America at a rendezvous about 20 miles at sea and put on a fishing trawler. The trawler then took it to the Mayo Seafood Co.—owned by the indicted Mayo—where it was put in the house trailer, the indictment said.

Acting U.S. Atty. Carl L. Tighman said the marijuana was not confiscated by authorities.

Charges against the six men were conspiring to import marijuana, importing marijuana and possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

Each man could be sentenced to 15 years in prison and be fined.

Others arrested in January were Steele's son, J. David Steele, 24, Graydon Louis Lupton, 39, of Florida, Daniel Edward Engle, 26, of Hollywood, Fla., Michael Wayne Rowe, 30, and Danny Robert Isenhardt, 26, of Bayboro, N.C., and Mayo's son, Gary, 25.

On Dec. 5, 1876, 300 persons were killed when the Conway Theater in Brooklyn, N.Y., burned.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 30 through Oct. 1, when the 94th Congress adjourned.

House
VETO Override, 312 for and 93 against, President Ford's veto of a bill appropriating $56.6 billion for fiscal 1977 programs of the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The Senate also voted to override (see below), and the bill (HR 14232) became law.

The bill funds numerous "people programs" such as job training, medical research, aid to education and medical care for the poor. Ford said the bill, despite its "worthy purposes," is $4 billion above his budget request, and that it represented a "triumph of election-year politics over fiscal restraint and responsibility."

Rep. John Brademas (D-Ind.), a supporter of the override, said that "more than dollars and cents are at stake here. The aged, the poor, the unemployed, the sick and the disabled depend upon these programs for their subsistence and for their dignity."

Rep. Elliott Levitas (D-Ga.), an opponent, said that "the cruel hoax of trying to benefit the people by spending money we do not have must be stopped." While his view "may not be politically appealing," Levitas said, "it definitely is sound financial reasoning."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R)10) voted "nay."

REVENUE SHARING
Adopted, 292 for and 111 against, a motion circumventing the Congressional Budget Act to authorize higher federal revenue sharing outlays in fiscal 1978, 1979 and 1980. The Senate agreed to the House change, and the bill (HR 13367) authorizing a $25.6 billion extension of revenue sharing through 1980 was sent to the White House.

The budget issue arose after the House Speaker ruled that $600 million in additional outlays for revenue sharing in fiscal 1978-80 above the fiscal 1977 spending level violated the Congressional Budget Act ban on certain automatic spending hikes. This amendment allows the increase to take effect anyway through a "loophole" in the Budget Act.

Supporters said state and local governments need the extra funds to offset inflation and because of increased participation in the revenue sharing program.

Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.), an opponent, described the amendment as "a little unconscionable" because it "is just another effort to increase the budget."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

JOBLESS PAY Passed, 272 for and 97 against, the conference report on HR 10210, a bill extending federal-state unemployment compensation to about nine million additional workers in state and local governments, agriculture and domestic service. The measure cleared the Senate and was sent to the White House.

The bill also increases employer-paid taxes to replenish unemployment trust funds depleted by the recession, and establishes a study commission to review long-term needs of the unemployment compensation program.

Rep. Joseph Fisher (D-Va.), a supporter, called the program "the main bulwark against economic depression and unemployment for millions of people."

Rep. Jake Pickle (D-Tex.), an opponent, said that many local governments remain in financial trouble, and that the cost of providing unemployment coverage to their own employees "may only add to their woes."

Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson and Martin voted "nay."

VETO Override, 67 for and 15 against, President Ford's veto of HR 14232, a $56.6 billion fiscal 1977 appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The House earlier overrode (see above), and the Senate's vote by more than a two-thirds majority

WILLFUL WINE
NEW YORK (AP) — Sherry is among the oldest of wines.

According to Rand McNally's "Entertaining With Wine," all sherrys, which are made by a continuous blending of old and new wines, century after century, fall into two basic categories: the light, dry finos and the darker, robust olorosos.

enacted the bill. Sen. John Pastore (D-R.I.), a supporter of the override, said that "it is simply wrong to shortchange these, our less fortunate fellow citizens" who benefit from the many social programs funded by the bill. Referring to critics who claim the bill is inflationary, Pastore asked: "Where were these same people... when we voted a $12 billion increase over last year for the Defense Department?"

Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.), an opponent, said that despite massive spending for social programs, "problems are only solved when people solve problems, when both benefactor and recipient are joined together in charitable and mutual actions." Otherwise, Helms said, "resentment is generated among those whose funds are spent, and hostility is aroused among those who receive benefits without having earned them."

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea."

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

ADJOURNMENT Tabled, 36

for and 33 against, an amendment to postpone adjournment of the 94th Congress from Oct. 1 to Oct. 2, to allow the House and Senate time to pass a compromise bill easing auto emission standards and setting new controls for stationary pollution sources.

The amendment was proposed to S Con Res 211, providing for Oct. 1 adjournment. The "clean air" bill died with the 94th Congress.

Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.), a supporter of tabling and thus killing the amendment, said that in regard to the bill's chances of clearing Congress, he doubted that the extra day "would change the situation here one whit."

Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Maine), an opponent of tabling, said the sole purpose of the amendment was "to provide additional time for debating the Clean Air Act in the hope that we may be able to enlighten those senators who feel they still have not had enough time, after two years, to understand it..."

Morgan and Helms voted "yea." WILDERNESS Rejected, 32 for and 38 against, an amendment to keep the 6,000-acre home of North America's largest herd of wild bighorn sheep out of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

The amendment was proposed to S 1026, a bill including the Wyoming parcel among federal lands in 13 states which would be added to the wilderness system administered by the U.S. Forest Service. The bill was passed and sent to the White House.

The amendment would have retained the Wyoming land's present designation as a primitive area — a less restrictive classification also administered by the Forest Service.

Sen. Clifford Hansen (R-Wyo.), sponsor of the amendment, noted that state authorities feed the increasingly rare sheep and trap some of them for re-location in other mountainous areas of the nation. Because of the wilderness designation's curbs on use of motor vehicles, these activities may be curtailed by the bill, he argued. The amendment, Hansen said, would insure management of the 6,000 acres at Whiskey Mountain "to protect and enhance that bighorn sheep population."

Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.), an opponent, said that approval of the amendment would mean sending the bill back to the House for its agreement, and that the delay in the late hours of the 94th Congress could mean that "the whole bill will go down the drain..."

Helms voted "yea." Morgan voted "nay."

Medal Winners Have to Wait

JACKSON, La. (AP) — Winners of the recent national police olympics here have to wait for their medals.

Officials who conducted the track and field events for policemen found that the gold, silver and bronze medals they ordered were all inscribed "third place," and "Phoenix, Ariz." was written on the back.

The error occurred because a sample medal from last year's event at Phoenix was sent to the manufacturer with instructions for changes, but the changes weren't made.

New medals were ordered, and they will be mailed to the winning policemen.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

WALT WHITMAN'S BIRTHPLACE, BUILT IN 1810 by his father, was used as a basis for this exterior design. The design of the original was simple and direct as was the construction. This plan is up-to-date for contemporary living. The entrance foyer is centrally located. Off of it are the living room and the kitchen and dinette. The second floor has three bedrooms and two baths. Plan HA954P, designed by Samuel Paul, has 1,474 square feet. Those wishing further information may write the architect—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 107-40 Queens Blvd., Forest Hills, N.Y., 11375.

Stately Pace Maintained In The Palace Of Peace

By BARRY JAMES
THE HAGUE (UPI) — The building which houses the International Court of Justice obviously was constructed on the principle that justice must not only be done, but be seen to be done.

It is flamboyant to say the least. It is this capital's most distinctive landmark — a giant brick pile surmounted by a clocktower. It would make an ideal setting for a Gothic novel.

When it was built in 1913, there was no clear conception of what a world court should be — some critics say there still is not — and the so-called "Palace of Peace" is therefore quite impractical.

The architect, a Frenchman, was under the impression evidently that a lot of lobbying would take place. His original designs show generals in full dress and ladies in long gowns promenading up and down the ceremonial staircase.

Corridors, in fact, take up more than half the available space with the result that the 15 black-robed judges have insufficient space to work and an annex is now being built for them in the garden.

The wood-paneled courtroom itself is tiny in comparison with the size of the building, with a long bench for the judges and seating for about 200.

It's dominated by a painting entitled "Allegory to the Triumph of Peace" and dated July 26, 1914 — two days before the outbreak of World War I.

Fortunately, the court employs only about 30 staff members. There is hardly room for any more.

Antique Bandbox A Likely Place For Finding Odd Bit Of History

By DR. H. G. JONES, Curator North Carolina Collection For The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A reader of this column, Mrs. James H. Phillips of Durham, has identified the "Mr. Boghart" who taught Susan Dimock when she was a young girl in Washington, North Carolina.

He was, in fact, Gilbert Boghart, and he was Mrs. Phillips's great-grandfather. Boghart came to North Carolina from Princeton, New Jersey, and taught for a while in Edenton. Then he founded a private school in "Little Washington." Later he helped the local public school system get on its feet by the donation of land for a building and for paying teachers' salaries. Several of his descendants still live in the area.

These boxes were often decorated with colorful papers and pictorial scenes on the outside, and sometimes newspapers were cut and pasted to the interiors.

Upon inspection of the interior of one of her bandboxes, Mrs. Phillips observed a copy of the New York American published in 1836. In it she found quoted a letter from Jesse Speight, congressman from North Carolina. Addressed to an anti-slavery group, the letter read, "I herewith return you your protest, enclosing, as a testimony of my regard for your necks, a piece of rope. You will no doubt duly appreciate my motives."

The furnishing of a piece of rope with which his political enemies might hang themselves reflected the intensity of Congressman Speight's feelings against the abolitionists who had protested a portion of President Andrew Jackson's message concerning the issue of slavery.

Hundreds of petitions against slavery flooded Congress, and Democrats in particular became alarmed.

Some members of Congress, like Senator John C. Calhoun, felt obliged to refuse to accept the petitions, but this procedure allowed debate on the floor, thus providing a forum for the abolitionist point of view. Senator Bedford Brown of North Carolina, however, proposed that the petitions be received and immediately tabled, a procedure that prevented their discussion in the Senate.

Speight, who had been in Congress from North Carolina's fourth district since 1829, was a strong Democrat, a loyal Southerner, and a supporter of Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren. His suggestion that the abolitionists hang themselves was perhaps illustrative of the passions of the proslavery forces at the time.

Jesse Speight was born in 1795 in Greene County, the son of Seth Speight, a Methodist minister. He received only the little schooling available in his county, and not much is known of his youth.

From 1841 to 1844, Speight served in the Mississippi Senate, and in the latter year he was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. Speight was also a delegate to North Carolina's constitutional convention in 1835.

After eight years as congressman, Speight chose not to run for reelection. Shortly thereafter, he moved his family to Plymouth, Loudes County, Mississippi. Soon he was drawn into politics in that state.

Senator Speight died at Columbus, Mississippi, in May, 1847, and was buried in Friendship cemetery there. He was one of several North Carolinians who moved to the deep South and attained high office during the antebellum era.

VEPCO Wins Surcharge Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeal is planned to the full Federal Power Commission after an FPC judge ruled that Virginia Electric and Power Co. (Vepco) may impose a $3.4 million fuel deferral surcharge on its wholesale electric customers.

Electricities of North Carolina, which represents 16 Tar Heel municipalities that buy wholesale power from Vepco, said it would appeal the decision of Judge Michael Levant. The surcharge took effect in May subject to refund.

In his ruling, Levant said Vepco's surcharge was not retroactive ratemaking but a lawful recovery of funds that would otherwise be lost.

Marshall Lancaster, executive director of Electricities, announced the appeal and said Levant's decision "goes against the FPC's own attorneys and staff and against the testimony of our witnesses."

Vepco claims the surcharge is necessary to make up for money it would lose. The company contends there was a shortening of the time between its incurring fuel costs and billing its customers for the costs.

Electricities, however, is arguing that the losses claimed by Vepco are not real, but simply accounting losses. Also, the organization has argued that the surcharge is retroactive ratemaking, which is illegal. Vepco, Carolina Power and Light Co. and Duke Power Co. were granted similar fuel charges by the North Carolina Utilities Commission more than a year ago. That decision is still under appeal by the state attorney general's office which has presented an argument similar to that of Electricities.

Municipalities served by Vepco are Ayden, Greenville, Winterville, Tarboro, Washington, Elizabeth City, Oak City, Windsor, Edenton, Hertford, Hamilton, Hobgood, Robersonville, Belhaven, Enfield and Scotland Neck.

Wed 34 Years, Win A Divorce

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., and his wife of 34 years have been granted an uncontested divorce.

Judge Philip Gregg of Arapahoe County District Court issued the decree Tuesday on the basis of a joint petition that Haskell, 60, and his wife, Eileen Nicoll Haskell, filed on January. Under Colorado law, grounds for divorce are not required when a joint petition is filed. The Haskells have three daughters.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild weather is forecast in the Pacific Northwest and snow expected in the Southeast but cooler weather is flurries in the St. Lawrence Valley. (AP due for most of the nation today. Showers are Wirephoto Map.)

By The Associated Press
It was mostly sunny and mild today in North Carolina. Highs ranged from the mid 60s in the mountains to the mid 70s on the lower coast.
Similar conditions will prevail Thursday as the fine October weather continues.
Skies were mostly clear early this morning. Some fog did develop in the mountains and along the higher ridges of the Eastern Slopes and Foothills.

Also, some patches of clouds formed over the Outer Banks. The patchy cloudiness evaporated soon after sunrise. But the fog in the mountains, particularly in the valleys, didn't burn off until late in the morning.
Some cloudiness may form over the mountains with the passage of a cold front early Thursday.
The overnight lows will fall into the mid 30s in the mountains. They will range to near 50 along the coast.
Winds were light and out of the northeast today.
The extended outlook is for generally clear skies over the weekend, with a warming trend. Lows will be 40s and 50s on Friday and mostly in the 50s on Saturday. High temperatures will be in the 70s across the state by Sunday. All rivers and streams are within bankfull.

Food Service Sales To Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of every three dollars spent for food goes for food away from home. The Hospitality Industry Foundation of New York City, Inc., predicts food service sales will total $80 billion this year, and an annual rate of $100 billion within two years. The food service industry currently is the largest retail employer in the United States, with more than eight million persons on its payroll. The foundation represents hotels and restaurants in metropolitan New York.

N.C. AAUP Here For 2 Days

North Carolina members of the American Association of University Professors will meet here Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15-16, for the state AAUP annual fall convention.

Friday's schedule includes an executive meeting, sectional caucuses, and a dinner at the Candlewick Inn featuring addresses by representatives of gubernatorial candidates Jim Hunt and David Flaherty. Chapter presidents will meet Saturday morning before a business meeting in the Willis Building.

State Sen. Katherine Hagen Sebo of Greensboro will address the gathering at a Sunday luncheon at the Holiday Inn. Now on leave from Guilford College, where she is an assistant professor of political science, Sen. Sebo holds a PhD degree from American University's School of International Service. She has been active in the AAUP as well as the American Civil Liberties Union, the Women's Political Caucus and other organizations.

The daughter of missionaries, Sen. Sebo spent much of her childhood in South India. Among her research interests are international relations, Asian politics and the current women's movement here and abroad.

Before joining the Guilford College faculty, she was an instructor at Wake Forest University.

Pate Named Ass'n Head

W. M. PATE

Willie M. Pate, clinical assistant professor of environmental health at East Carolina University and director of environmental health with the Pitt County Health Department, has been elected president of the Environmental Health Section of the North Carolina Public Health Association.

He was chosen to head the 400-member professional group at the Association's 63rd conference held recently in Greensboro.

A 30-year veteran in the field of public health, Pate is credited with developing the first successful rabies control program in North Carolina.

He has been with the Pitt County Health Department since 1950.

Quality Leaf Is In Demand

FARMVILLE — Quality tobacco was in great demand on the Farmville Tobacco Market Tuesday according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"The demand for quality grades continued to be strong Tuesday. Medium grades were stronger than Thursday. Quality leaf and smoking leaf grades accounted for most of the high prices and volume. Stabilization receipts accounted for 1.78 per cent of the gross sales," Williams said.

Friday Holiday For Area Pupils

The Farmville Market sold 352,610 pounds Tuesday for $434,163 for an average of $123.13 per 100 pounds. To date the Farmville Market has sold 25,791,569 pounds for $29,891,012 for an average of $115.89 per 100 pounds as compared to $100.17 per 100 pounds last year on the same sale day.

Sponsored by the ECU Department of Environmental Health, Jackson's speech "The Kepone Tragedy," begins at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the School of Allied Health and Social Professions. The public is invited.

Friday, October 15 is a teacher in-service day for teachers in both the Pitt County and Greenville City School systems. Friday will also be a student holiday in both school systems for all grades.

To Discuss Kepone Case

Dr. Robert Jackson, assistant commissioner and state epidemiologist of the Virginia State Health Department, will visit East Carolina University Thursday, Oct. 14 to discuss his role in the Kepone investigation.

Dr. Jackson directed the investigation by the Virginia State Health Department that revealed the presence of the Kepone pesticide in the James River. His study also included the effects of Kepone on the community of Hopewell, Va., where the chemical was manufactured.

Friday, October 15 is a teacher in-service day for teachers in both the Pitt County and Greenville City School systems. Friday will also be a student holiday in both school systems for all grades.

Sen. Dole Was Guest Of Honor But Howard Baker Stole Show

By MATT YANCEY
Associated-Press Writer
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole was the guest of honor, but it was Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., who captured the most applause at a GOP rally here Tuesday night.

It was the first time Dole and Baker had shared the platform since President Ford picked the senator from Kansas as his running mate at the GOP convention in August. Dole received moderate applause only three times during his speech lambasting Democrats Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale to about 700 Republicans at a $10-a-plate fundraiser at Maryville College.

However, he was given a warm welcome and an ovation at the end of his talk.

Baker, discounting reports there were hard feelings over the choice of Dole instead of himself for the second spot on the GOP ticket, said he was the one who fought for an appearance in Tennessee by either Ford or Dole.

"That's a bunch of nonsense," Baker said. "There are no wounds. Of course I would have liked to have run, but it was not a crushing disappointment."

Baker predicted that when results of the latest polls are revealed, they will show Ford and Carter are only two percentage points apart three weeks before the election.

Dole attacked Sen. Mondale, D-Minn., the Democratic vice presidential nominee, as being more liberal than Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., the 1972 Democratic standard bearer.

And, he called on Carter to release a list of contributors to his 1970 gubernatorial campaign in Georgia.

"The public has a right to know this information and the press has a right to ask," Dole said, citing computer printouts mentioned by accountants in Carter's 1970 campaign.

Carter's officials have said the printouts also contain the names of supporters who did not give money and there is no way to differentiate the contributors from the noncontributors.

"Mr. Carter's whole house of cards is built not on what he tells the people but on what he refuses to tell them—such as how he's reorganize government and how he'd reform taxes," Dole said. "You can add his corporate contributors to the list of items Mr. Carter is afraid to reveal."

The largest applause from the audience in this Republican stronghold since 1852 came when Dole attacked Carter and Mondale as liberals while saying he and Ford represent the views of moderate-conservative Americans.

"I haven't selected my make-up man for Friday night," he said referring to the upcoming televised debate between him and Mondale. "But you can bet he's got his, it's George Meany."

Meany is president of the AFL-CIO.

Dole said he doesn't know what will come out of the debate, but he noted it is prob-

Empress Will Mark Birthday

ROME (AP) — Empress Farah Pahlvi of Iran celebrates her birthday Thursday, and the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization has chosen that day for the release of the new Ceres medal featuring the empress, FAO said Tuesday.

The Ceres medals depict distinguished contemporaries as

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 5 points in the early going, and advances outnumbered declines by a moderate margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was brisk. Brokers said the market was responding mainly to internal forces that often arise when stocks are "oversold", in Wall Street parlance.

They said word of the agreement on a new contract between striking auto workers and Ford Motor also was a plus.

Ford shares rose 1/2 to 56 1/2. On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.47 to 932.35, extending its loss for the past 11 sessions to 80.78 points.

Losers outpaced gainers by about a 5-2 margin among NYSE issues, and the exchange's composite index was down 45 at 53.87.

Big Board volume totalled 18.21 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .76 at 97.96.

Operation Santa Drive Is Launched

Mrs. Allen C. Darden and Miss Elizabeth Lang, County Chairmen, officially launched the 1976 Operation Santa Claus

Campaign when they met with the area chairmen at a luncheon Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. This is an annual project sponsored each year by the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

The following chairmen were introduced: Mrs. Rita Bosse, Ayden; Mrs. Willis Vandford, Mrs. Connie Sutton, Bell Arthur; Mrs. Leighton Blount, III and Mrs. Robert Young, Bethel; Mrs. Joe Rouse, Chicod; Mrs. Ruth Watson, Falkland; Mrs. W. Charles Joyner, Mrs. W. H. (Bill) Farrior and Mrs. Wiley P. O'Brien, Farmville; Mrs. James E. Pollard, Belvoir; Mrs. Hattie G. Thompson, Simpson; Mrs. Lucille J. Sledge, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. Jenny Kilpatrick, Mrs. Harry E. Wilson and Mrs. John M. McConney, Greenville; Mrs. A. Douglas Moore, and Mrs. Robert Talbot, Fountain; Mrs. Ann Bosley and Mrs. Paul Connor, Grifton; Mrs. Herbert Randolph, Mt. Pleasant; Mrs. Nathan Smith, Pactolus, Mrs. Raymond Fuchs, Stokes; and Mrs. Linwood Hooks and Mrs. Paul Hunsucker, Winterville.

of Volunteer Services, Cherry Hospital, spoke on the meaningfulness of Operation Santa Claus to the patients. Each patient will hopefully receive a package of five gifts which are selected, with the aid of staff members, to best suit the individual.

Mrs. Melba Howard, past-president, PCMHA, Mrs. Nora Lee Craft, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Robert Klein, secretary were also introduced. Mrs. Darden expressed appreciation to all chairmen for their willingness to help with such a worthwhile project and challenged the group to make this the best year ever for Operation Santa Claus.

Letters have been mailed to clubs and groups across the county suggesting that gifts be brought to the November meeting. It is important that gifts be in the Mental Health Association office by December 10 in order to reach Cherry Hospital and Caswell Center by the deadline date. One may contact the chairman in his area about collection points.

Mrs. Darden introduced Mrs. Juanita McCarthy, executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association who reviewed the guidelines to follow and stressed the importance of this project in making people aware of mental illness.

Massage Law For Caldwell Countians

By The Associated Press
The Caldwell County Board of Commissioners unanimously passed an ordinance Tuesday which restricts the operation of massage parlors in the county.

In Charlotte, meanwhile, a federal judge said he would issue a preliminary injunction blocking part of a city ordinance which regulates massages.

The Caldwell County ordinance became the second massage ordinance passed in the county. Earlier this month, the town of Granite Falls adopted a regulatory ordinance.

The Caldwell County law requires persons who want to open a massage parlor to submit to a background investigation and to pay a $100 licensing fee for the business and $50 for each employee. The law also forbids massaging of sexual organs and it bans massages of persons of one sex by persons of the opposite sex.

In Charlotte, Judge James B. McMillan said he would block a part of that city's ordinance which bars "out-call" services.

In an out-call service, the massage is given at a customer's home or motel room.

The injunction was requested by two massage parlor owners who have filed a suit opposing the city's ordinance. McMillan said the injunction concerning out-call massages would stay in effect until a hearing could be held in the suit.

McMillan's injunction would not affect other provisions of the city ordinance which include requiring licenses and medical certificates for persons operating or working in massage parlors, and prohibiting massages given by members of one sex to members of the opposite sex.

Syrian Tanks Hammer Palestinian Defenses

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian tanks hammered through Palestinian guerrilla defenses east and south of Beirut today in an offensive that killed an Arab League effort for a cease-fire in Lebanon's civil war.

The two-pronged attack took shape when Syrian tanks and infantry opened a second front against guerrilla mountain strongholds east of the capital. This came 24 hours after they launched an assault toward the port city of Sidon in south Lebanon.

In Cairo, Arab League Secretary-General Mahmoud Riad announced suspension of attempts to arrange a cease-fire. He said mediator Hassan Sabry el Khly was asked to return to Cairo to report on his difficulties to an Arab foreign ministers conference scheduled to meet Friday.

Syrian jet fighters streaked low over guerrilla lines round Sidon in apparent intimidation or reconnaissance passes, the Palestinian command said. It reported no bombing.

Palestinian sources said Syrian ground forces stormed through guerrilla positions on the northern and eastern edges of Bhamdoun on the Beirut-Damascus highway. The assault was led by tanks behind a barrage of artillery and rocket launchers.

A communique from Yasir Arafat's guerrilla high command said another major target of the mountain offensive was the summer resort town of Aley.

Bhamdoun and Aley are 12 and 10 miles east of the capital. They form the last strongholds guerrillas and their leftist Moslem civil war allies hold on the vital highway to Damascus.

Guerrilla strategists said the Syrian mountain assault appeared aimed at storming through Aley into the suburban presidential palace of Baabda, six miles east of Beirut and then knifing down to the Mediterranean coastal town of Damour, 15 miles south of the capital.

Five other villages between Bhamdoun and Aley are under heavy Syrian pounding, a guerrilla communique said. "Our forces are savagely fighting off the attackers," it added.

Collision At Rail Crossing

PACTOLUS — Three vehicles and a Seaboard Coast Line Railroad train were involved in a collision at a rail crossing just East of here on U.S. 264 Monday about 7 p.m.

Investigating Highway Patrolman John Brinkley said cars driven by William Jeffries of Greenville and Alice Boyd of Washington were stopped at the crossing for the approaching train.

He explained that a truck driven by Herman Bowden of Lucama failed to stop, swerved in an effort to miss the engine, collided with the train anyway and struck the Boyd car almost head-on. The force of the impact shoved the Boyd car back into the Jeffries vehicle.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the truck, $1,200 to the Boyd car, $50 to the Jeffries auto and about $800 to the train engine.

Three persons in the Boyd car received minor injuries in the collision. Trooper Brinkley said. No charges were made.

Jones, Graham . . .

working families to earn a living."

Jones, in reading the letter, said the Carter statement was "the most important announcement to be made in this campaign."

The Congressman, chairman of the House Sub-committee on Tobacco and Peanuts, noted that he has served on the Agriculture Committee with the Republican's vice-presidential candidate Robert Dole. Dole, Jones said, "has no conception of the problems of Southern farmers any more than a six-year-old child."

And, according to Jones, Pres. Ford has vetoed a farm bill that would have increased support prices for tobacco.

Graham, in a prepared statement distributed to newsmen, said "the election of Jimmy Carter . . . and the entire Democratic slate, is the most important election in recent history. For the family farmers of North Carolina it is vital to the financial health of our industry."

Graham said "it is a fact Congress has attempted to bring target prices" for commodities such as corn and other crops, "in line with the cost of production, only to have them vetoed by the recent Republican administrations."

He said too, that embargoes placed on agricultural exports by recent Republican administrations are "equally bad."

Graham continued, "When supplies are short and prices good, they have embargoed crops killing deserved farmer profits. When supplies are good and prices low, they do nothing to aid farmers. This is wrong."

The state agriculture commissioner said "tobacco is a basic industry to the nation and especially North Carolina. Its production cost ranges up to $1,800 per acre. Yet it generates $6 billion annually in federal, state and local taxes. Compared to the insignificant cost of the tobacco program, it is absurd to consider its abolishment. Those who do are not competent."

Without these programs, Graham said, "North Carolina would suffer severe financial loss.

"The plain fact is this," he continued. "It is time we had a farmer in the White House. That man is Jimmy Carter. He knows what it's like to work in the fields all day fighting the hot sun, the elements on one hand and high costs on the other. We need a man that knows what rural life is all about.

"It's time we put a Southerner in the White House who knows and understands Southern problems; a former governor who knows how to administer government, but can see it from the states rights level; a man who knows how to balance a budget and get a dollar's worth of work for a dollar of tax money."

administration, said "I'd rather be Commissioner of Agriculture in North Carolina than Secretary of Agriculture . . . anywhere. All I want is to know who is Secretary of Agriculture so I can call him. He's the man I want to work with to help improve conditions for farmers in North Carolina."

Farmville, Aycock Meet In Key Tilt

Farmville Central's Emerson Hobgood

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
Two of the Eastern Carolina Conference's top three teams will play each other this Friday night in a game that could go a long way towards determining the conference championship.
C. B. Aycock and Farmville Central will be putting identical 3-0 conference records on the line when they meet this week in Farmville and the winner will emerge with a stronghold on the top spot.
Ayden-Grifton is the only other undefeated team in the conference and the Chargers play host to Greene Central this week in another important conference match-up. Greene Central is currently in a tie for fourth behind the three undefeateds, with a 1-2 conference record.

In other games, the other two teams tied for fourth, D. H. Conley and Southern Nash will play at Southern Nash and the ECC's two winless teams, North Lenoir and North Pitt will face off at North Pitt.
Last week's action saw Aycock beating Greene Central, 30-6; Ayden-Grifton downing North Lenoir 15-8; North Pitt falling victim to Southern Nash, 28-18 and Farmville running over Conley, 49-8.

This week's game with C. B. Aycock is "the big one," according to Farmville Central

DHC's Bernard Hawkins

Coach Gene Brewer. "It will probably be the first real test we've had in the conference."

Brewer said his team shouldn't have any trouble getting ready for the contest because "they beat us over there last year."

Aycock will be tough on offense, Brewer said. "They've got some outstanding running backs and most of their offensive line is back from last year."

Brewer said Aycock's Jackie Dunn is an excellent ball-carrier. He also said Shelton Robinson is a good runner, although there is some doubt as to whether he will play due to an injury received last week.

Brewer said he doesn't anticipate making any changes in his team's play for the game.

Of last week's win over D. H. Conley, Brewer said, "The defense probably had their best ballgame of the year. Offensively, we took advantage of what they gave us."

Brewer said the Jaguars' entire defense played well and running backs Ted Dunn and Ken Farrow, along with quarterback Carroll Griffin, played well on offense. "Both backs ran well and Griffin did a good job of running the option."

Ayden-Grifton Coach Claude Kennedy said, "We were real fortunate to win" last week's game over North Lenoir.

"We didn't have a good ballgame, although we played good defense," Kennedy said.

"They (North Lenoir) were well-prepared and did an outstanding job defensively."

Kennedy said his offensive line did not block well and almost cost the Chargers the game when North Lenoir scored after blocking a punt.

Kennedy said running backs William West and Terry Morris did outstanding jobs for Ayden-Grifton. Morris, who played practically the entire game going both ways, had his best game of the season, Kennedy said.

He also cited Ogden Braxton, a split end who set up the winning touchdown with "a super catch." Kennedy said Braxton is out for the season with a broken thumb. "That's going to hurt us quite a bit."

Defensive linemen Larry Taft, Mike Teachey and Mike O'Neal also had a good game along with center Markham Wheatley.

Kennedy said this week's game with Greene Central is an "old rivalry and always a big game, no matter what the records."

Greene Central is "well-coached and they'll be mentally ready for us. They always have a good defense, they play hard and they come at you 'till the final gun."

"It will take a good effort on your part to win," according to Kennedy.

He said linebacker and running back Jefferey Warren and quarterback James Best are players Ayden-Grifton will have to look out for this week.

Kennedy said Mike O'Neal will probably start at split end in place of Braxton and Paul Setliff will assume Braxton's kicking-off duties for the Greene Central game.

D. H. Conley Coach Chuck Dunn said of his team's 49-8 loss to Farmville Central, "We didn't play well, obviously. We had a lot of problems. There's not much you can say when you get beat that bad."

Dunn said his defense "just didn't play. They didn't hit anybody."

On the offensive side, Dunn said quarterback Jeff McDaniel and receiver Randy Edens "did a good job, under the circumstances."

As for this week's game with Southern Nash, Dunn said, "It's always a tough ballgame down there. We've never had a good game down there; it's kind of like playing in "Death Valley" at Clemson.

"Southern Nash just changed offenses and won last week. They're big and they're quick. Their running back, Greg Farmer, had a good night against North Pitt and is about as good as any in the conference."

Dunn said the Vikings will make "wholesale" changes this week on both offense and defense to prepare for Friday's game.

Winless North Pitt and North Lenoir meet this Friday and North Pitt Coach Pat Smith said, "Somebody's finally going to win one."

Smith said North Lenoir has "some pretty good athletes. They're bigger than us and their defense is supposed to be strong." He added that Wayne Jackson is a good linebacker and running back.

As for last week's loss to Southern Nash, Smith said, "We had a fairly good effort, our guys just got tired at the end. I thought we had every break that a team can get."

Smith said Calvin Carmack ran the ball well for the Panthers. Quarterback John Hunt had a good game and receivers Virgil Pilgreen and Tim Corey caught well as the Panthers completed nine of 12 passes in the game, according to Smith.

Counterpart Important To Farmville Tennis

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
Jennifer Counterpart joined the girls' tennis team at Farmville Central High School her freshman year, the first year Farmville Central had a girls' team. In the three years since then, Jennifer and the team have grown and improved together.
The team started with less than ten matches a year. This year they play 17 and are looking for a 15-2 record. Jennifer, a 17-year-old senior, is the team captain and number one player.

She has gone from a 5-4 singles record in 1974 to a 9-1 record so far this year. Her coach, Don Dempsey predicts Jennifer will finish at 16-1 this year.

"She is probably the best tennis player in eastern North Carolina, with the exception of Susan Hollar of Wilson," according to Dempsey. "Her only loss was to Hollar. If Jennifer were to concentrate on tennis, she could beat Susan Hollar."

Concentrating on tennis is bound to be a tough assistance for Jennifer. In addition to her position on the tennis team, she plays trumpet in the Farmville Central band, plays on the girls' basketball team, is a library assistant, a top-notch golfer and does interviews on Saturday mornings on a sports show for a local radio station. In addition, she is active in her church choir (First Baptist in Farmville) and its youth program.

On the subject of personal goals, Jennifer said, "Each individual player always looks to an undefeated season, but sometimes things happen that prevent this." In that case, Jennifer said, players try to win as many matches as they can 6-0, 6-0.

Jennifer has a chance to be seeded in the sectionals tournament in Wilson next month, according to Dempsey. She said a sectionals berth is also a goal.

The team's goal this year is to finish with a 15-2 record, Jennifer said. "We have lost two already, but feel like we can win the rest."

After high school, Jennifer may try to pursue a professional golf career or she may go to college and play tennis, golf or basketball. "I would probably go to East Carolina University or the University of North Carolina University or the University of North Carolina at Greensboro; or possibly UNC-Chapel Hill because they (UNC-CH) have a pretty good golf program."

If she works as hard in college or the professional golf world as she does in Farmville, Jennifer should have no trouble being a success, wherever she goes.

Wilson Downs Rose

Wilson High School continued to plague the Rose High School tennis team yesterday, taking a 6-3 victory over the Rampettes.

It was only the second loss of the year for the Rose girls, both at the hands of the Titanettes.

The match was a hard-fought one, with Rose taking the first three singles, and Wilson coming back to win the final three. Wilson then swept the doubles to achieve the victory. Four of the singles matches went into third sets, and one of the doubles took 18 games to decide.

Rose is now 6-2 overall and 3-2 in Division I play. The Rampettes travel to Elizabeth City on Thursday.

In an exhibition doubles match, Wilson's Sharon Wilson and Cathy Cook beat Helen Whitehurst and Nancy Garrett, 8-6.

Summary:
Serena Matney (R) defeated Mitzi Corbett, 6-2, 6-1.
Marty East (R) defeated Ann Jeannette, 4-6, 7-6.
Karen Jeffreys (R) defeated Lou Hackney, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.
Rhonda Winstead (W) defeated Margaret McGlough, 6-2, 6-3.
Elizabeth Raspberry (W) defeated Cindy Talbert, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1.
Linda Lafferty (W) defeated Christa Dunn, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.
Hollar Gibbons (W) defeated Matney-East, 8-3.
Corbett-Diller (W) defeated McGlough-Jeffreys, 10-8.
Hester-Jeannette (W) defeated Caroline Bruton-Pam Talbert, 8-0.

Pick League Officers

Odell Welborn and Dr. Emmett Walsh Jr., were elected to the presidencies of the Greenville Little Leagues this week.

Welborn will head up the North State Little League. Other officers for the league include Lon Williford, vice-president; Mrs. C. H. Rand Jr., secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Phil Goodson, women's auxiliary president; and Dr. C. H. Rand Jr., safety officer.

Dr. Walsh will lead the Tar Heel League. Joining him as officers are Robert Allgood, vice-president; Leon Murdock, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. H. L. Austin, women's auxiliary president; and SDR. A. H. Austin, women's auxiliary president; and Dr. A. H. Woodworth Jr., safety officer.

Dan H. Gordon was named supervisor and player agent for the 12th straight season. The new officers will be installed as of 1, 1977.

Bucs Place Second

BUIES CREEK—Campbell's Jim Brombley fired a second round 72 for a two-day total of 141 Tuesday to win the first Atlantic Christian—Campbell College Bicentennial Collegiate Golf Invitational.

The Campbell College "A" team captured the team championship with a two day total of 779. East Carolina finished in second place just two strokes behind with a 781 total. UNC-Charlotte finished third with 395 followed by Campbell's B team at 405 along with Pembroke State also at 405.

Keith Hiller of East Carolina shot a second round 74 to go along with his first round total of 73 to finish second at 147. Campbell's Carl Matthews finished third at 150 while Tim Charpek of UNC-Charlotte and Tim Benton of Methodist finished tied for fourth at 153. East Carolina's David Brogan finished fifth with rounds of 77-77-154.

Other East Carolina scores were Mike Buckmaster 79-77-156, Ernie Massel 92-81-173, Donnie Owens 78-82-160, and Ben Gilliam 84-81-165.

The Pirates will travel to Duke University November 7-8 to compete in the Iron Duke Fall Invitational.

Team Scores: Campbell 779, East Carolina 781, UNC-Charlotte, 796, Elon 801, Pembroke State, 818, Campbell B 819, UNC-Wilmington, 834, Atlantic Christian 836, Methodist 837, Fayetteville State 849, UNC-Greensboro 862, Virginia Commonwealth 897.

Chargers Clip N. Pitt

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's volleyball team took a 2-1 victory over North Pitt yesterday, keeping its title hopes alive.

North Pitt captured the opening game, 15-6. The Panthers slowly built up a 7-1 lead, then Purvis served up seven straight points to give North Pitt a 14-1 edge. Ayden-Grifton came back with five in a row, but North Pitt then closed it out with the winning point.

Ayden-Grifton won the second game, 15-7. Vivian Ellis served six in a row for A-G right at the start for a 6-0 lead, and the Chargerettes held onto their lead until Karen Haseley added four straight for the 15-7 victory.

The Chargerettes wound up with a 15-10 win in the match game. Ellis opened with four straight, but North Pitt tied it up twice, at 9-9 and again at 10-10 before Ayden-Grifton ran off the final five points to win it.

In junior varsity action, North Pitt won two straight, 15-8 and 16-14.

Ayden-Grifton is now 6-3, while North Pitt is 1-7. The Panthers are slated to face Roanoke today, then close out Thursday with Conley. Ayden-Grifton travels to Farmville Central for its final regular season match on Thursday.

Roanoke Tops DHC

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School moved closer to clinching the Eastern Carolina Conference volleyball title yesterday with a 2-0 victory over D. H. Conley.

Roanoke won the first game, 15-4. Sheila Hoskins led the Roanoke scoring, serving up five straight points. Alice Costen had three straight to pace Conley.

In the second game, Roanoke came away with a 15-12 victory. Again, Hoskins was high for the Squaws, scoring five in a row. Costen led the Conley attack with six.

Roanoke is host to North Pitt today in a make-up match, then closes out in a match at Greene Central on Thursday. A win in those two would clinch the title for the Squaws.

Conley is now 4-5, and closes the season at North Pitt on Thursday.

Ayden Golf Bowling Results

AYDEN — A Mixed Scotch Foursome was held Sunday at Ayden Golf and Country Club.

Ray and Pat Joyner took loss gross honors with an 86 while Gary and Donna Lane posted the low net score with a 68.

Low put honors went to Elaine and Glenn Gullege with 30 while Dean and Mary Lou Wingate took the award for the most strokes on a Par Five hole, with eight.

Stasavich Named To Hall Of Fame

The man most associated with athletics at East Carolina University and Lenoir Rhyne College will be inducted posthumously into the East Carolina Sports Hall of Fame October 30. That man, of course, is Clarence Stasavich, the master-mind of the single wing offense for 24 years between the two institutions.

Stasavich will be only the fifteenth person inducted into the three-year old Hall of Fame. This marks the first time only one person has been selected for induction.

"The selection committee felt this was a very special case," said committee chairman Dr. Clinton Prewett. "Clarence Stasavich meant so much to athletics at East Carolina and meant so much to students, fans, the administration and just people in general that we were unanimous in our decision that he should stand alone for induction."

Stasavich came to East Carolina in 1962 as head football coach. He held that position for eight years and compiled a 50-27-1 record, tying Jack Boone as the winningest coach in ECU history. That followed a 16 year stay at Lenoir Rhyne where he had a record of 120-37-7.

With a combined career record in coaching of 170-64-8, Stasavich retired in 1969 as the third winningest active coach in the country, ranked behind Bear Bryant of Alabama and Johnny Vaught of Ole Miss.

During his eighteen years as a head coach, Stasavich won nine conference championships for Lenoir Rhyne, seven straight from 1955 through 1961, the NAIA National Championship in 1960 for Lenoir Rhyne, had three consecutive bowl teams at East Carolina in 1963, 1964 and 1965 with records of 9-1 each year and tied for the Southern Conference title the first year East Carolina was in the league. His devotion to the Southern Conference resulted in the annual football championship trophy being named the Clarence Stasavich Memorial Trophy, that is to be effective this year for the first time.

In 1963, Stas assumed the role of athletic director for East Carolina and became the main driving force for the development of a Division I, major university athletic program. Under his guidance, East Carolina was classed a Division I school in football in 1966, following the induction of the Pirate program in 1964 into the Southern Conference.

Facilities development changed the total complexion of the ECU campus. Minges Coliseum was built, along with Ficklen Stadium, Scales Field House, Harrington Field and the Bunting Track during the Stasavich era.

In 1969, Stasavich relinquished his duties as head football coach to devote all his time to the athletic directorship. He served in that capacity until his death on October 24, 1975, the day before his longtime dream came true. That was a victory over the University of North Carolina in football, which the Pirates got on October 25 in Chapel Hill, 38-17.

His accomplishments as a coach resulted in his induction into the Helms Hall of Fame and the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame.

He was twice honored as National Coach of the Year, in 1959 at Lenoir Rhyne and in 1964 at East Carolina. Five times he was named District Coach of the Year.

Stasavich was born February 9, 1913, in Georgetown, Ill. He graduated from Georgetown Township High School in 1931 and earned an AB Degree in science from Lenoir Rhyne College in 1935. He received his MA Degree from the University of North Carolina in 1946.

Stasavich is survived by his wife, the former Helen Warwick of Hickory, two daughters, Rebecca and Mary, and one son, Walter.

The ECU Sports Hall of Fame originated in 1974, with ten initial inductees. Four were inducted in 1975.

Stasavich's induction will occur during halftime activities of this year's Homecoming game against Western Carolina University.

Cincinnati Gets Three Runs In Ninth To KO Philadelphia

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are like bottled lightning. You never know where or when they'll strike.

Manager Sparky Anderson's Reds looked like a beaten team in the ninth inning of Tuesday's third game in the best-of-five National League playoff game against the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phillies led 6-4, and had ace reliever Ron Reed out there to assure their first victory in the series and stave off elimination. It certainly appeared that the Reds' fourth National League pennant clinching in six years would have to wait at least one more day.

But as Phillies' shortstop Larry Bowa would say later, the Reds never quit. First they bombed Reed for consecutive homers by George Foster and Johnny Bench. Then they bled the Phillies for the winning run in a 7-6 pennant clincher.

Reed left after those two shocking homers sent a Cincinnati crowd of 55,407 into a frenzy. Gene Garber came in and gave up a single to Dave Concepcion. Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark lifted Garber and sent in 22-year-old Tommy Underwood.

Underwood, chewing bubble gum nervously, walked Cesar Geronimo on four pitches.

"I let them sacrifice the runner without an out," Underwood said after the game.

Pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister sacrificed the runners to second and third, and Pete Rose was intentionally walked. Ken Griffey, who lost the league batting title on the final day of the season, stepped to the plate.

"Be patient, just get the ball you want to hit," Anderson told Griffey.

Recreation Results

The Eagles picked up a flag football victory, while the Kicks won a soccer victory in Recreation Department programs yesterday.

In flag football, the Eagles beat the Redskins, 14-6. It was the Eagles first win in three starts, and the second loss in three games for the Redskins.

Tony Clemmons scored on a 21-yard run for the Eagles in the first period, with Mike Iaboni scoring the PAT. Jay Miles got the lead to 7-6, scoring on a 25-yard pass for the Redskins.

Iaboni pulled in an 84-yard pass for the Eagles in the fourth period, with Clemmons adding the PAT to close the scoring.

Willie Jones with eight "tackles" and Clemmons with an interception led the Eagles on defense, while Steve Holloman with an interception paced the Redskins.

In the opening soccer game, the Hot Shots and Rowdies played to a scoreless tie. The Rowdies are now 1-0-1, while the Hot Shots at 0-0-2. The game featured tight defense by both sides all the way.

The Kicks took a 5-2 win over the Cosmos. The Kicks are now 1-1-0, while the Cosmos are 0-1-1.

Tim Patterson scored for the Kicks after 7:53, with George Iaboni adding another goal at 9:16. Lewis Robbins hit for the Kicks with 14:15 showing, and William White got the first Cosmos goal with 16:10 on the clock.

Robbins got another goal for the Kicks in the second half, while William White hit for the Cosmos.

Lady Jags Beat Ewes

SNOW HILL — Farmville Central rolled to an 8-1 victory over Greene Central in a tennis match yesterday.

The Lady Jaguars swept the singles event, then came up with wins in the first two doubles before bowing in the number three event.

The loss dropped Greene Central to an 0-4 record. The Ewes travel to Camp Lejeune on Thursday, while Farmville Central entertains C. B. Aycock.

Summary:
Jennifer Counterman (FC) defeated Delores Nethercutt, 10-0.
Diana Gordon (FC) defeated Lisa Morris, 10-0.
Courtney Lancaster (FC) defeated Terri Wade, 10-0.
Lynn May (FC) defeated Teresa Harris, 10-0.
Margaret McGaughey (FC) defeated Nancy Edmondson, 10-0.
Cara Burnett (FC) defeated Crystal Pittman, 10-0.
Yelverton Courterman (FC) defeated Cindy Harrison Nethercutt, 8-1.
Gordon-Lancaster (FC) defeated Morris Harris, 8-0.
Pittman-Wade (GC) defeated Lou Ann Eason Beth Balton, 8-5.

And this is the tale of a double by Lou Piniella — a ball that got past Brett and started a Yankee comeback that wiped out a 3-0 deficit and beat the Royals in the pivotal third game.

"The ball was catchable," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog.

"Definitely catchable," agreed Brett. "This year, I missed this one and a moment later, Chris Chambliss walloped a two-run homer that put Yankees back in the ball game.

Two innings later, New York overtook the Royals, rallying for three runs as Herzog paraded four relief pitchers to the mound, trying to stop them. Thurman Munson and Elliott Maddox had key doubles in the comeback inning but it was a ringing single by Nettles that delivered the go-ahead run.

Lady Bucs Defeated

FAYETTEVILLE—Methodist College swept four of six singles matches and two of three doubles matches to capture a 6-3 win over East Carolina in a women's tennis event on the winners' courts.

Susan Helmer and Vicky Loose were the only singles winners for ECU and Cathy Portwood and Dorcas Sunkel added a win in the number one doubles position.

The loss dropped the Lady Pirates record to 4-3, while Methodist remained unbeaten at 3-9.

The next match for ECU is Thursday at home against UNC-G.

Summary:
K'Infa Otterman (M) def. Dorcas Sunkel (ECU) 6-3, 6-1.
Kay Crawford (M) def. Cathy Portwood (ECU) 7-6, 7-5.
Elsaine Lewis (M) def. Leigh Jefferson (ECU) 8-2, 8-0.

Louis Cartier Remembered With 2-Week Exhibit

A ZIPELOE ERA? — Results of a college sociology experiment may convince the U.S. Postal Service to enter the Zipeloe era with this new envelope design. The envelope, designed by Frederick Staup, has 162 small boxes in which the destination and return addresses must be printed or typed. Staup says his total system to handle Zipeloe will save the government millions of dollars. (AP Wirephoto)

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI) — The big three "names" in jewelry design in the past 500 years have been Benvenuto Cellini, Carl Faberge and Louis Cartier.

The creations of Cellini are treasured by museums. There have been many retrospective exhibitions of Faberge's works. But Cartier, born in 1875, will not have been given a one-man show until Oct. 13 when Cartier-New York will open a two-week exhibit.

The show is entitled "Retrospective Louis Cartier — 101 Years of the Jeweler's Art." It will mark the Renaissance of the famed Cartier jewelry firm which now girdles the globe with retail stores, a $51 million-a-year wholesale business (mostly cigarette lighters), and 36 franchise boutiques called Les Musts de Cartier.

"Cartier was a great innovator," said Ralph Destino, president of Cartier-New York, in an interview in his third floor office in Cartier's palatial Fifth Avenue headquarters. Photographs of kings, queens and maharajas weighted down with Cartier jewels gave silent witness to the firm's glamorous past.

"He was the first to use platinum for jewelry. He designed the first wrist watch in 1907 for French aviator Santos Dumont. He created the still popular Tank watch in 1918 as a tribute to the officers of the American Tank Corps in France. And he invented the clip-on brooch that can be transformed into earrings."

Destino came to Cartier-New York in February after the firm was purchased by French industrialist Robert Hocq, who had acquired Cartier-Paris in 1972 and Cartier-London in 1974. Thus the three firms which had slipped from the hands of the Cartier family in 1962, 20 years after Louis' death, were reunited.

"The exhibition will be a celebration of this reunification," said Destino, an American who previously headed Cartier's Far Eastern and Australian interests.

"Some of the displays are owned by Cartier, but many are on loan from museums and private collectors. Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, has sent two brooches made by Cartier for the coronation of King Edward VII."

Some 150 items will be displayed in vitrines designed by Louis Cartier in 1923 but never constructed until now. The showcases of surprisingly modern simplicity are made of beveled elm edged in beveled mirror and are works of art in themselves. They will remain as permanent installations in Cartier's redesigned gallery of "high jewelry," as adornments incorporating precious gems are called in the trade.

"We are aggressively buying back as much Louis Cartier jewelry, clocks and objets d'art as we can and we will deal in them," Destino disclosed. "We have one member of our staff who does little else. In addition we will place on sale this month $60 million dollars worth of new high jewelry made in Paris in the style of Louis Cartier. These are updates, modifications of his designs."

The store also has reproduced all 26 models of watches designed by Louis Cartier, including the Santos Dumont and Tank, which both Churchill and Hitler wore in World War II.

Destino said Cartier was a compulsive sketcher who never threw away any designs. Hocq has gathered these from boxes, vaults and files in various Cartier establishments and is having them catalogued. Designers are working from original sketches, some of them done on the tablecloths of restaurants where Cartier dined.

The jeweler lavished his talent, not only on diadems, necklaces, brooches, bracelets and rings, but on umbrellas and handles, vanity cases, ceremonial swords for members of the French Academy, cigarette boxes, chatelaine watches and elaborate crystal clocks with invisible works. He utilized a wide variety of semi-precious stones including jade, agate, jasper, coral and lapis lazuli in designs derived from Japanese, Chinese, Indian, Persian and Mexican art and was an influence on the development of Art Deco.

Cartier was a third generation jeweler whose family fortune was made when Empress Eugenie became a client of the firm in the 1850s. When Louis Cartier, handsome and charming, joined the firm in 1898, it was essentially a French business. Under his aegis it became jeweler to 20 royal families and went international. New York Cartier opened in 1908 to cater to the Goulds, Vanderbilts, Rockefellers and their ilk.

The firm still is a family one. Hocq's daughter, Nathalie, 25, is creative director of the high jewelry side of the business, operates Cartier's European stores, and has overseen production of the Louis Cartier updates. The management team of Cartier worldwide averages about 30 years of age — "a grande dame in young hands," as Destino likes to say. "Sometimes the other executives chide me for bringing the age average up," he said with a laugh. "I'm 38."

Navajo Nation Clings To Past

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Navajo Nation is America's largest Indian group. Hundreds live in isolated areas of the sprawling 16.5-million-acre reservation. An estimated $443 million in federal grants and contracts are spent yearly on programs for the 150,000 people who live on the reservation. Yet deprivation exists. An Associated Press reporter traveled 1,200 miles during a week's tour of Navajoland. Her story follows.

By ANN IMSE
MONUMENT VALLEY, Utah (AP) — The Navajo reservation is a world apart. The sun's hot glare blazes into the deepest recesses of natural sandstone canyons. Even the insects seem to have forsaken this desolate land, for the silence can be complete.

Occasionally, a small herd of sheep tended by a young Navajo or an elderly woman will pass into view, in search of further grazing among the scattered tufts of grass and desert bushes.

Navajoland covers 25,000 square miles across three of the United States: Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

But it is more like a poor, underdeveloped country of the Third World, struggling with the same problems of poverty, drought, illiteracy, lack of decent roads. Its language is obscure, making education difficult. Many of its people trust the old ceremonies and medicine men more than doctors.

Many of the people still live in mud-and-log huts called hogans. They say these are cooler in summer and warmer in winter than conventional-style houses.

Susie Black lives in a hogan in Monument Valley, an isolated, beautiful area of sandstone monoliths on the Arizona-Utah border. The area has often been used as a backdrop for television commercials and Westerns.

Susie Black has six children to raise in this octagonal one-room hogan. A small barrel converted to a stove provides heat. Light streams through the smoke hole and door. There are no windows.

The metal beds, overstuffed armchair, wooden shelves and gas stove look out of place on the dirt floor, against walls of skinned juniper logs. A tiny propane tank is stuck into the mud that covers the outside of the hogan.

Susie Black must travel 30 miles over rutted dirt and sand roads for water and supplies.

Many houses of Navajoland are not much better than Susie Black's hogan. Only 18 per cent are large enough for all their inhabitants (usually six or seven), and have water, electricity and access to a road, according to Bureau of Indian Affairs figures.

Navajos live in this largely desolate reservation because it is their ancient homeland, because they were born here, and because the government put them here.

Much of the Navajo reservation is desert scrubland. During the hot summer months, it is rare to find water in the streambeds, baked and cracked from the blazing sun.

But in the mountainous areas, the pine forests are cool and green.

The chief form of transportation is the pickup truck, often battered into premature old age by the rugged roads. Only four per cent of the reservation's roads are paved, mostly by the federal government.

There is nothing tangible to prevent the Navajos from crossing the reservation border to try to make their way into middle class America. In fact, tribal leaders are trying to bring middle class America to the reservation with modern housing, supermarkets and some industry.

The transition is difficult. Lack of experience with such modern skills as business management has resulted in federal investigations of the tribe's finances.

No one pays property taxes, for the Navajos do not own their land. The tribe does. Only those who live in tribal housing pay rent.

Characteristics and customs instilled by the Navajo culture — alien to the rushed and competitive life of the rest of the United States — hinder the Navajo's way into the white man's world.

Navajos teach their children deference and cooperation. They try to reach their decisions by consensus.

In the white man's world, these characteristics come across as extreme shyness, lack of competition, indecisiveness. Non-Indian teachers find that children will neither ask questions in class nor volunteer answers.

There is enough tribal and federal scholarship money available for every Navajo who wants to go to school to be able to do so on a full scholarship, said Thomas Jackson, president of the College of Ganado, a private junior college on the reservation.

New Hook For Sewing Machine

CARLSTADT, N.J. (UPI) — A new sewing machine attachment makes it possible to stitch with three different colored or blending shades of thread at a time, using one needle. The patented full rotary snap-out hook with seven millimeter zig-zag width can be used for decorative sewing on such articles as vests, waist cinchers, jeans and shirt yokes and other wearing apparel. The hook fits three models from the New Home Sewing Machine Co. here.

But he added that few do. "If you've been herding sheep all your life, the possibility of your dreaming to be an airline pilot is very remote," he said.

Virtually every Navajo, from shepherd to secretary, still participates in the religious ceremony, part medicinal and part social.

Friday Kinlicheene, 81, is a Navajo medicine man. He specializes in the Night Way, or Yeibichai Dance, a ceremony for mental illness. Medicine men specialize in only a few of the more than 50 ceremonies, for they are complicated. In the nine days of the Yeibichai Dance, Kinlicheene will sing 576 songs and supervise four sand paintings and four ceremonial dances.

One of the sings is designed to cure Navajos of afflictions brought on by contact with non-Navajos.

Progress is moving into Navajoland, bringing such attendant problems as pollution and alcoholism. The ceremonial sings will probably survive, for like Polish weddings, everyone enjoys them.

But there is much more to being Navajo. And while these people want to live in the more comfortable, modern world, they do not want to become aggressive enough to go out and grab it.

Traffic accidents claimed more than 45,500 lives in the United States in 1975, according to the American Safety Belt Council.

Found Pilot Up A Tree

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — When rescuers who had been told a helicopter had crashed near the Raleigh-Durham Airport got to the scene Tuesday, they found the pilot sitting high in a tree beside his wrecked chopper.

Warren Lee Simmons, 29, of Monroe, was unharmed. He told Highway Patrol Trooper Jack Weatherly that his chopper had a faulty gauge and he ran out of fuel then crashed trying to put the craft down in a field.

"It's a miracle he walked away from there alive," Weatherly said. One of the helicopter's rotor blades wrapped around the tree some 30 feet above ground and the craft's engine dug into the tree trunk, he said.

"He was perched on a limb beside the helicopter with his flashlight and log book in his hand waiting for rescuers to come when I arrived on the scene," Weatherly said.

Airport firemen arrived and brought the shaken, but uninjured, pilot down from the tree.

LOTS A BIRDS.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turkeys will be plentiful this fall, after nearly two years of being listed in the merely adequate supply category. The U.S. Department of Agriculture said new crop marketings in September were expected to be five per cent above the previous year, and nine per cent above the September 1973-75 average.

Plastic Cover For Old Site

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Tourists will have to walk the last yards up the Acropolis hill and the Caryatid Porch will be wrapped in plastic later this year.

The measures are designed to protect the ancient monument from pollution, according to Constantine Trypanis, minister of culture.

He said a transparent plastic cover will serve as temporary protection for the six-column, fifth century B.C. porch until the Caryatids — the marble statues of young women that form the columns — can be moved to a new museum and replaced with copies.

Fumes from automobile exhaust and from oil burners heating homes in the area have combined with moisture in the air to form sulphuric acid, which causes flaking of the marble, Trypanis said. As one precaution, tourist buses will be banned from the historic hill, he said.

Hard Water Can Irritate Skin

NEW YORK (AP) — According to the British Medical Journal, hard water may cause hands to become dry and sore. It is the mineral content of the water, particularly calcium hardness compounds, that acts as irritant. Because more soap must be used with hard water to obtain a lather, this can be a further source of irritation.

To counteract these effects, the Journal recommends installing a domestic water softening system which removes the troublesome calcium. A similar improvement can be achieved by the use of some packaged water softeners.

Political Direction Of The New South Is At Stake

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

Beneath the contest between Jimmy Carter and President Ford in the South is another struggle. It may determine the political direction of the New South and the chances for a new Republican majority.

By nominating a native Southerner for president, the Democrats have done two things crucial to the future of the region:

—They have ended a long free ride for Republicans in the South in national elections.

—And they have made it possible for many Southern Democrats to stop doing their own thing at the local level while ignoring the party's presidential ticket.

Ever since the Dixiecrats bolted the party in 1948, the once Solid South has been eroding for the Democrats. Dwight Eisenhower made inroads in 1952 and 1956, and Richard Nixon held some of the new ground in 1960. Barry Goldwater took five Southern states in 1964 despite a Texan heading the Democratic ticket.

In 1968 only Texas stayed with the Democrats. What George Wallace didn't win with his third party bid, Nixon got. And in 1972 Nixon took them all.

The split began over civil rights, but it spread to other issues on which Southern voters generally concluded that the Republican presidential nominees were more conservative, and therefore closer to their own traditions, than the national Democratic party.

Local Democrats, meanwhile, most of them just as conservative as any Republican, simply ignored the national party, or even denounced it while campaigning back home. They ran on their own strength and voting habits older than the Civil War.

At the same time they continued to call themselves Democrats, keeping their seniority in Congress and other benefits of national party support. They had the best of both worlds.

But a couple of things happened which threatened this comfortable accommodation. For one thing, once Southerners had dared to vote against the party of their fathers at one level, it was an easier step to the next. Southern districts began sending Republicans to Congress for the first time since Reconstruction.

Sensing a trend, some newcomers decided to enter politics under the new banner, and some lifelong Democrats, like Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who had first defected as Dixiecrats, completed the switch and became Republicans.

But just as the conservative mood of the Old South was leading it to what was seen as the more conservative party, the old patterns were being broken by the 1965 voting rights act, which brought thousands of new black voters onto the rolls.

Segregationists were no longer automatically winning elections. Blacks began to be elected to public office. And white New South politicians, able to draw from both constituencies, began to appear, men like Carter in Georgia, Reubin Askew in Florida, Dale Bumpers in Arkansas, Wendell Ford in Kentucky.

Now, one of the New Southerners is heading the Democratic ballot.

"The South sees him the kind of presidential nominee they have been asking the Democrats for," said an early Carter backer. "For the first time they have a candidate who is nationally acceptable and whom they can accept and identify with."

"Most local candidates for the first time are proud to have the national ticket tied to their campaigns," said David Dunn, Carter's Florida campaign coordinator.

If Carter makes the national Democratic party respectable to Southern voters, the main advantage the Republicans had in the South will be wiped out. And most of them know it. Ford workers say they are surprised at the way Ronald Reagan's conservative Republican backers are pitching in to save the Ford campaign in Dixie.

The kind of Southerners who are sticking with the GOP appear to be in large measure those who would have been Republicans all along if they had lived in another part of the country — businessmen, professionals, white collar workers, suburbanites.

This is a growing class in the South and could provide a reasonable base for a growing Republican party no matter who wins the presidency — if the GOP can adapt its approach and cultivate these voters.

On the other hand, one of the things which has stumped Ford's strategists is the way the rural South and the growing urban industrial working class is sticking with Carter.

Despite their conservative bent on social issues, these people are closely affected by the basic economic issues which have always been the strength of the Democratic party. Recession and inflation influence them just as much as voters anywhere else.

That basic Carter strength has not been lost on the Democrats of the old school. While Ford is picking up some Democratic support in the South, he is not getting it in the measure that Nixon, Goldwater, and Eisenhower did. There are people lining up behind Carter who haven't backed the national ticket in two or three decades.

If this means embracing a liberalized New South in the person of Jimmy Carter, most of them seem willing to do it. This was graphically illustrated when Sens. James Eastland and John Stennis accompanied Carter to Mississippi for a public anointing. Even Ross Barnett, who was perhaps the most famous of Mississippi's segregationist governors, is on Carter's steering committee in the state.

Ford's hopes of saving the South for the GOP lie in trying to convince Southerners that as a conservative he holds greater right to their loyalties, even though Carter was born and raised in their midst.

"He may talk like us but he doesn't think like us," said Haley Barbour, the young Mississippian who is Ford's Southern coordinator. And that is the heart of the strategy, that the South "will vote principles instead of geography."

Carter's hopes lie in the belief that the New South retains its traditional regional pride while it tolerates new ideas.

"We don't think Jimmy's out of the mainstream of the South," said Phil Wise, Carter's Southern coordinator. "A lot of the pride of the South is at stake in this race."

Some Carter supporters see his candidacy as a kind of vindication of the South, and this has made a lot of Southerners protective of Jimmy Carter.

After his Playboy interview appeared some Carter campaign offices received calls from people asking just which verses of Scripture he had been referring to in his explanation of pride and lust.

"Now these people know the Bible," said Dunn. "They weren't asking for their own instruction. They wanted the right verses to defend him with."

One problem Ford has in campaigning in the South stems from the very nature of Republican party growth in the region. It has been based largely on the appeal of a national ticket which sold itself and never built a local base independent of coattails.

In some Southern states — Louisiana is a good example — the Republican party has been run more like a private club than a political party. It lacks the organization and machinery for delivering the vote.

Ford must necessarily depend largely on direct appeal from the candidate to the voter through media or through central telephone banks, both highly expensive.

Nevertheless, Ford has potential in some areas of the South, primarily because of the ideological appeal his campaign is trying to press.

Although the national polls show Carter's regional lead over Ford as great as 20 percentage points, local polling and a field survey by The Associated Press show Ford within striking distance in Louisiana, with its large Catholic vote and pockets of high conservatism; in Mississippi, with its conservative nature; in South Carolina, home state of Thurmond and a Republican governor, James Edwards; and in Florida, where Ford strategists say they are six points behind and gaining.

Texas and Virginia, where Republicans have shown consistent strength in recent years, are considered toss-up states.

Carter's headquarters disagrees with the Republican claims and says Carter is leading comfortably throughout the South. The futures of a lot of Democrats are riding on this confidence.

PLODDIN', BUT PEACEFUL — Melvin Luepke, of rural Courtland, Minnesota, cuts grass and enjoys the slower pace of horses than with a noisy tractor. Using horses is his hobby, says Luepke, and he uses a tractor on heavier jobs. (AP Wirephoto)

Storm Field Confident Some Day He'll Be Top Weatherman On TV

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Field grabs her remote control channel-changer each night about 11:25 and positions herself in front of the television at her home on Long Island. She switches between Channel 4 and Channel 7 as many times as she can during the 90 seconds or so that each station presents its nightly weathercast.

Joan Field isn't interested in getting the most up-to-date forecasts, she just wants to watch both of her favorite TV weathermen, who are on the air at the same time.

On Channel 4 — NBC's flagship station in New York City — the forecasts are delivered by her husband, Frank Field. On Channel 7 — ABC's standard-bearer — predictions come from her son, Storm Field.

Twenty-seven-year-old Storm was hired last March as WABC medical-science reporter — a position his father holds at WNBC. A trained meteorologist, like his father, Storm stepped in front of the cameras as a weatherman for the first time when Hurricane Belle struck in August and WABC's regular weatherman was ill.

Storm did such a good job that the station asked him to continue doing the 11 p.m. and weekend forecasts.

Storm admits that when he was faced with that first on-the-air weathercast, he relied on the methods and mannerisms he had seen his father using for so many years.

Both believe in straightforward presentation of the weather, eschewing gimmicks and wisecracks that they say many untrained weathermen use to cover up lack of knowledge about what's in store.

Before joining WNBC in 1959, the elder Field, 53, served with the U.S. Weather Bureau, as general manager of Weather Forecast Co., as president of International Weather Corp. and as consulting meteorologist for the Department of Air Pollution Control. He does the station's 5-7 p.m. and 11 p.m. weekday weathercasts.

He also holds an O.D. degree from the Massachusetts College of Optometry and worked hard to convince TV station operators there was a need for medical-science reporting as well as weather forecasting. He eventually pioneered such reporting on the air.

Today, he has a half-hour weekend show that explores major modern scientific and medical advances. He occasionally does reports for NBC's "Today" show and innovative pieces for the local news program. One was a live telecast of a kidney transplant that won him an award as best public affairs program by a New York City television station. It prompted responses from 4,000 prospective kidney donors.

Storm's background is essentially the same as his father's. He practiced optometry for several months in Portland, Maine, before returning to New York. Through his father, he met the head of a television features syndication firm and was invited to do some features on medicine and science. After some of his work appeared, an independent station hired him as a free-lance reporter.

While the independent was trying to decide whether to give him a contract, ABC offered him the medical-science reporter's job.

Storm believes that much of his success is due to "being in the right place at the right time." But he also gives credit to his father — a role model he emulates both personally and professionally.

The name on his birth certificate is Elliot David Field, but he has been called Storm since he was a baby. He says he was born on a stormy Thanksgiving night and was "very active in the womb — the doctor kept saying to my mother, 'That's such a stormy child.'"

He believes the most important thing in his business is to "tell the people the truth ... If the people out there like me ... if they believe what I'm telling them, then I'll be successful."

Frank's philosophy for presenting the weather and medical-science stories is simplicity — "bringing it home to the viewers."

Despite their good father-son relationship and similar philosophies and mannerisms, the Fields consider themselves in competition.

"There's no doubt about it," says Frank. "We don't work together, we compete. Sometimes you try to give him a nudge if he needs it, of course, but if you're working on something big you don't tell him."

Storm doesn't bat an eyelash when asked who's the best weatherman, who's the best medical-science reporter on television: "My father."

He leans back in his chair for a minute before adding with a smile, "But come back and see me again in five years."

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The McClellan-Kerr Arkansas River Navigation System, which includes the Arkansas and Verdigris rivers, was completed in 1970 at a cost of $1.2 billion.

The system, which was authorized by the River and Harbor Act of 1946, is navigable from the Tulsa Port of Catoosa to near the mouth of the Arkansas on the Mississippi River.

It is the largest civil works project ever undertaken by the Army Engineers.

Tallest 'Sign' Promotes Drive

DETROIT (AP) — The collection progress in Detroit's United Fund Torch Drive is being measured on what is billed as the "world's tallest sign."

The "sign" actually is 24 stories of lighted windows in the city's new Renaissance Center riverfront complex.

Blue lights in office windows in the Center's unoccupied northwest tower have been turned on in the pattern of a gigantic "U-F." As the drive progresses toward its $36.1-million goal, the blue lights will be replaced by red ones.

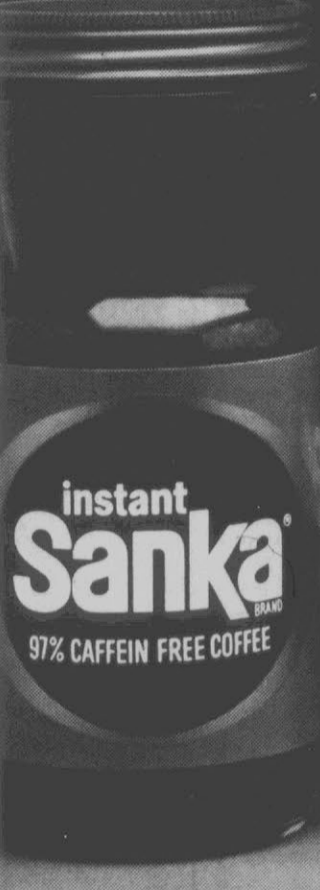

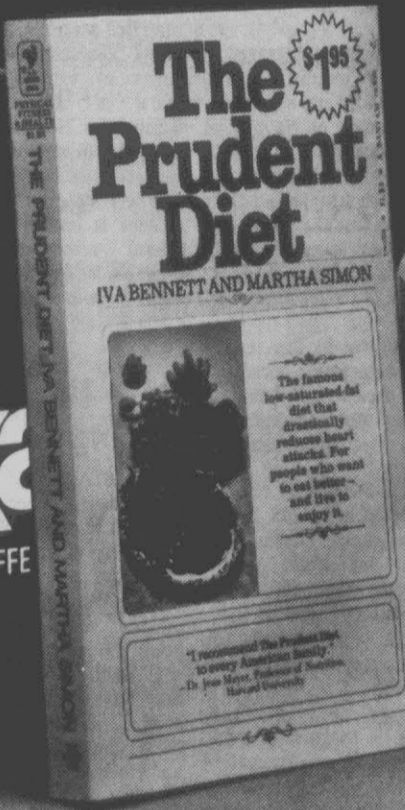

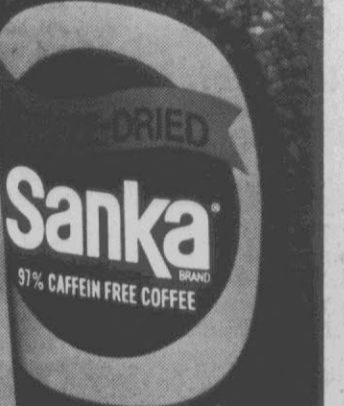

The annual drive helps finance the activities of some 140 health and community service agencies.

Drug Cult: To Peace, Love And Pot—Add Heroin

BY RUTH E. GRUBER
BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — It is more than a decade since the first hippies proclaimed their doctrine of peace, love — and pot. The drug culture they spawned lives on, firmly entrenched in modern society.

"Drug-taking is now a part of our culture," said one British official. "If people can't get one thing, they'll use something else."

Often the "other" thing is heroin. In much of Europe, authorities are worried by an alarming rise in the use of and traffic in heroin — which in many places seems to be replacing the "soft" cannabis products (marijuana and hashish) as THE drug to get high on.

"We're particularly concerned at the moment because of reports of very increased amounts of heroin coming into Europe from southeast Asia and the Far East. It seems that heroin ... that used to go to America via Marseille is now finding its way into Western Europe," the British official said.

Official attitudes and laws in Europe, as in America, have changed over the past 10 years as cannabis use has become more common.

More and more authorities are creating sharp distinctions between "hard" and "soft" drugs and tend to leave private drug takers alone to concentrate on cracking down on users and international traffickers who have made trading in narcotics, and especially heroin, a big business.

Most heroin entering Europe finds its way to Amsterdam.

"The Netherlands has become the center of the international heroin trade," Dutch Justice Minister Andreas Van Agt told parliament earlier this year.

Two publicized instances during August illustrated his point. French police arrested a middle-aged Briton who landed in Paris after a flight from Hong Kong via Bangkok carrying more than six pounds of heroin in a false-bottom suitcase. He said he was to have taken the drug to Amsterdam from Paris on the train.

And in the Soviet Union, three Americans were sentenced to lengthy jail sentences after being caught in Moscow trying to smuggle more than 62 pounds of heroin from Malaysia to Amsterdam.

In both cases the men said they were working for a Chinese drug-running ring.

In Amsterdam as in another narcotics trade center, London, rival Mafia-style Oriental organizations called "triads" have cornered the market and engage in vicious, sometimes bloody, trade wars.

The hard drug trade in Amsterdam is centered in the Chinese quarters of the Red Light district where police have long turned a blind eye to Chinese-only opium dens and gambling houses.

Holland's position as a drug center is partly due to its huge ports and air, land and sea communications and partly to its traditionally lenient narcotics laws.

But the new, sharp surge of heroin trade has forced the Dutch parliament to pass a new drug law designed to fight it.

The new law increases the maximum sentence for trading in hard drugs from four to 12 years. At the same time it reduces the possession of a small quantity of soft drugs for personal use from a criminal to a civil offense.

Today in Holland there are music clubs where cannabis is sold openly by a "house dealer." And, on a weekly radio show, Koos Zwart — the son of Holland's public health minister — broadcasts current market prices of soft drugs and warns young people about the dangers of hard ones.

Technically the use or sale of drugs at the clubs is illegal, but police see the clubs as allies in the fight against hard drugs. So they tolerate and maintain close contact with them.

Not all countries are as easy-going as Holland. But most European countries' drug policies are evolving in the same direction.

"Criminal authorities are mainly efforting to get hold of the big pushers," said Lars Hultstrand, a Swedish health and social affairs ministry official. He said hashish still dominates the drug scene in Sweden and heroin did not begin appearing in any quantity there until last year.

Official West German policy also is to cut off the flow to drug users rather than throw the users in jail. Switzerland, where police say the amount of heroin seized since 1970 has gone up 100 per cent, has recently passed a law with similar emphasis.

"The number of heroin addicts has considerably increased in the past five years," said Swiss Justice and Police ministry spokesman Andre Hubacher. "At the same time, the number of casual consumers — those who try marijuana or hashish just once — has declined. The attraction of marijuana has diminished a great deal."

French police tell a similar story. Rene Georges Query, head of the Paris narcotics squad, says heroin use is spreading radically throughout France — not just in the big cities — even with the dismantling of the "French connection" through Marseille. Most of the heroin now comes from Amsterdam.

In 1973 only 7 per cent of all persons brought in for questioning on narcotics offenses used heroin. Today the figure has risen to an alarming 45 per cent, Query said.

He said the large-scale international pusher of any type of drug is the prime target of the law, and simple dealers users or smalltime local dealers are almost never prosecuted.

"Judges are much more lenient with the smalltime heroin dealer who is an addict himself than the big international hashish pusher, odd as it may seem," Query said.

Austria has long had a drug law which provides up to 10 years in jail for trafficking. Those convicted of possession usually get off with fines but in 1970 — set far greater penalties can be sent to jail for up to six months.

Since 1971, prosecutors have had the option of sending time possession offenders to health authorities instead of court.

Portugal is only now experiencing a widespread explosion in marijuana use and so far there is little reported heroin use. Marijuana use as a side effect of five and not more than 15 years the 1974 revolution and subsequent return of refugees from former African colonies.

"The rise in drug use has been so spectacular that there is no way to eliminate the problem now," said a narcotics detective in the national judiciary police.

Even so, Portugal's first specific drug law — passed in 1970 — set far greater penalties for pushers than for private users. Greece did the same in 1970.

Some countries, of course, are still going through the agony of the first, shocked throes of the drug revolution.

In South Africa, where marijuana was legally sold until 1928, a "draconian" law passed in 1971 makes a first offender liable to not less than five and not more than 15 years in jail — whether he be a pusher or private user. By 1973 more than 70,000 persons had been convicted under the law. Officials said drug use — hard and soft — was still widespread in a country where cannabis is cheap and easily available.

The conviction of the three Americans in Moscow was the latest in a recent rash of arrests of foreigners for smuggling drugs through a "Moscow connection."

But there are indications the Soviets are worried about expanding drug use — mainly among young people in northern cities like Moscow and Leningrad who are exposed to Western culture and emulate it by experimenting with drugs.

The Soviet Union, too, makes no distinction between hard and soft drugs and toughened up its drug law in 1974.

TESTING — Maria McBane blows a sample of her breath into a machine called "Alcohol Alert" in Los Angeles. The machine, after the user deposits a quarter, according to the developer of the device, could be used in bars to let drinkers know when they've had too much to drive. The developer says the machine is as accurate a device as any used by the police department. (AP Wirephoto)

Our people make it better

Announcing Wachovia Teller II (The banking machine for people who don't like machines)

No other banking machine offers you a broader range of banking services than Wachovia Teller II. Yet no other banking machine is as easy to use.

The reason? A special viewing screen actually shows you what to do every step of the way. It shows you how to deposit or withdraw money from your savings and checking accounts. It shows you how to transfer money from one account to another, make loan payments, check account balances, or simply get some cash, in any amount from $1 to $100.

Wachovia Teller II is open for business 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Which means that now you can bank any time that suits your convenience. And there's absolutely no charge for the service. All it takes is a Wachovia checking account and a Wachovia Banking Card. If you're presently banking at Wachovia you've probably already received your card in the mail. Why not use it this week?

See Smoker As 'Addict'

PAUL WRIGHT is dedicating his life to help stamp out smoking-related diseases. (UPI Photo)

By JOHN J. SANKO DENVER (UPI) — Paul Wright has been called the "Ralph Nader of the Smoker's World." It's a title he likes.

Wright, a chain-smoker for 20 years, kicked the habit after doctors told him to "stop smoking or die." Now, he is working to help others do the same as president of the National Association on Smoking and Health.

"We're a profit-making organization but we have the success of the smoker in mind instead of our financial success," Wright said. "And I don't think there is any doubt that we have the most successful program in the country today. Our success ratio after one year is over 90 percent."

Wright, 41, was a financial planner and money manager until four years ago when doctors told him he had to quit smoking. He said his job for 17 years "was to save wealthy people money and make wealthy people wealthier."

"Then I was told that I had to stop smoking or die," he said. "They thought I had lung cancer. I went to smoking clinics, but what I found never did help me. Everytime I went, I felt ripped off."

Wright began his own investigation of the smoking problem by studying at various schools throughout Europe, including the University of London School of Medicine. The result of his work was what he called the "Seven Day Plan to Stop Smoking."

"There are 70 million smokers in America, and 45 million of them want to quit smoking," Wright said. "But they can't because they're drug addicts."

"We're not only in the midst of a national epidemic, but in the midst of a national disgrace. How the strongest nation in the world can push this under the rug and ignore it is beyond comprehension."

Wright said he first was compared to consumer-advocate Nader in a Wall Street Journal article. He liked the comparison although he lives nowhere near as Spartan a life as Nader.

Wright and his wife, Jeanie, whom he married in Geneva, Switzerland, have a spacious home where "all smoking is banned" in the foothills near Denver. When he isn't lecturing across the country, he tries to get in some fishing, golf, and skiing, and he admits he enjoys good food.

For a fee ranging from $225 to $250, he will help people quit cigarettes. He said he has been successful with smokers as young as 15 and as old as 75.

"We are the first program to ever treat the smoker as a drug addict. All smokers — or 95 percent of them if not all — are drug addicts. They are addicted to the drug nicotine."

Plastic Sheets Help Economize

NEW YORK (UPI) — Make-shift storm windows made by stapling clear plastic sheeting outside of windows can help cut heating costs, says a stapler manufacturer. A company spokesman estimates that storm windows and doors can save up to 15 per cent on heating costs. Caulking around doors and windows also helps, and can be done manually or with a general purpose electric glue gun.

"They don't like to hear that, but it's the truth. When you take their drug supply away some people shake and have tremors. They have all the withdrawal symptoms — anxiety, depression, acute dryness of the lips, headaches, insomnia and lack of energy."

Wright said his treatment involves the "total man concept" and has developed to the point where it is ready to expand. His "smoking cessation centers" are planned for Los Angeles, San Diego, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Boston.

Smokers who sign up for his seven-day program are guaranteed their money back if they don't kick the habit. The intensive program includes what Wright calls creative relaxation.

"We get them off cigarettes in 24 to 48 hours. Half of the program is based on behavioral modification. And we take all their cigarettes away when they come. It's cold turkey. No habit becomes changed until you have completely put it behind you. The tapering off system is terrible."

The program involves both private and group therapy, similar to that used by Alcoholics Anonymous.

"The buddy system helps a great deal," Wright said. "Quitting is a very lonely business. They relate their experiences to one another. For some of them, it is like having been in the doldrums of hell."

Wright said much of the program involves mind control — teaching new habits to replace old ones.

Participants discuss the positive benefits of not smoking versus the negative aspects of continuing. They try to learn why they smoke. They also are told about smoking-related diseases.

"Knowledge is power," Wright said. "If they have a knowledge of what they are doing and why, then it is no longer a problem. We can get anyone off cigarettes in a couple of days — that's easy, that's simple. The trick is to get them off cigarettes for the rest of their lives."

Rations Had Milk Powder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk powder was part of the rations carried by Genghis Khan's 13th-century Mongol hordes.

During World War II, it often appeared as a few white globs in clouded water. And the Canadian army once used frozen milk chunks to supply their soldiers.

Today, scientists are experimenting with a heating process that should allow milk to be stored for months without refrigeration. The process was invented in 1942 by Elmer Davis.

Davis' process involves a "free-falling film heater" in which the milk is heated to 300 degrees Fahrenheit for one second. It never touches a surface hotter than the milk itself and all bacteria are killed without giving the milk a sometimes unpleasant "burned" taste.

Farm wages, with room and board, have ranged from 65-75 cents a day in the 1890s to more than $10 in 1969 and 1970, according to a table in the Census Bureau's "Historical Statistics of the United States, Colonial Times to 1970."

Will Trade Or Lecture

CHARLIE EAGLE PLUME braids a long Indian-style wig he wears while on his winter lecture tour. (UPI Photo)

By DAN CHISZAR

September, he packs it up and ships it to a nearby storehouse for the winter.

Anthropologists at the University of Colorado Museum in Boulder said Charlie promised to give them $1 million worth of artifacts upon his death. But the old trader said he would include a provision in his will stating if the security at the museum doesn't improve in 15 years, the collection will be transferred to another school of his choice.

"The other $2 million worth of stuff I'll give to a couple of kids who take over my trading post. If they don't want it, I'll just give the whole damn lot to the state."

Charlie, who says he is in his 90s but looks much younger, got up to get another cigarette and hobbled over for a match. His dog, Air mail, immediately scrambled off the wooden floor and followed his master.

The dog is a cripple like Charlie, who was disabled by muscular dystrophy 20 years ago. The dog has a hip deterioration, but is still a dangerous animal.

Charlie claimed the dog killed two bank robbers in New York City and would have been destroyed if he hadn't bought him.

The dog has a habit of putting himself between his master and visitors. He leans against the visitor's leg and any sudden move toward Charlie is felt and acknowledged by the growling animal.

Above Charlie's head is a wooden shelf that runs across one wall and onto another. The shelf is stacked with books on Indian lore, artifacts, culture and history. Upstairs are more such books.

"The books I keep here are my way of answering a damn fool. Your trying to sell something to a tourist, see, and he doesn't know what he's talking about."

"So, I say let's see what an expert says on it. I just hand him the right book and he comes back quoting the authority. Never tell a customer he's wrong, son. Let him find that out himself."

Charlie said he left a Montana Indian reservation on horseback and came to the northern Colorado mountains in 1919. He made $50 a day dancing for tourists at local hotels while a partner, Roy Silvertongue, played the drums and sang.

Later, Charlie worked for O.S. Perkins at the trading post, and his widow after Perkins died. She made Charlie a partner and later retired.

Charlie received an English degree from the University of Colorado in 1942, served in the Army in World War II, returned from the South Pacific and settled at the trading post to study Indian history. He is still studying it.

"I like it up here in the mountains," Charlie said. "I like it here cause I can do whatever I damn well please. I intend to stay here for a long time — at least until the politicians reform."

Men of Asmat, New Guinea, rest on the skulls of their enemies, believing this will appease ancestral spirits.

More Intended Plant A Garden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forty-eight per cent of all American households either planted or intended to plant a garden this year, compared with only 43 per cent in 1974 and 46 per cent last year. These figures are among findings in the first of a two-phase survey under auspices of the National Economic Analysis Division of the USDA's Economic Research Service. The findings are interpreted as an indication that the interest in home fruit and vegetable gardening generated three or four years ago may be becoming firmly established in the United States.

Troubles In Dance Boom

EDITOR'S NOTE — There are numerous explanations for the new popularity of dance in America. But despite its phenomenal growth, financial woes plague many of the dance troupes.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Arts Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Long overshadowed by other performing arts, dance is now on the crest of a box-office boom.

"The fastest growing spectator sport in the country" is how one leading manager describes the surging popularity.

Even those unsure of the difference between a jete and a piroquette must be impressed by the statistical leaps recorded during the craft's remarkable decade of growth.

The audience for professional companies has soared since the mid-60s from one million to 15 million — and has spread nationwide in the process.

Back then, 68 per cent of all attendance was concentrated in New York City. Now 80 per cent of the spectators are outside the metropolis.

The Association of American Dance Companies today lists 350 members — not all of professional caliber — compared with 132 in 1966.

A record was set by the American Ballet Theater when in nine weeks this summer it grossed $1,857,990 at the box office.

Growth hasn't solved old problems, however, and some new ones may be incubating.

Charles Reinhart, a leading manager-consultant, says dancer pay scales still trail those for musicians, singers and actors.

And upswinging enthusiasm has not narrowed the gap between income and outflow which plagues all cultural enterprises.

Chronic financial woe, in fact, recently caused one of the top modern dance ensembles, the Paul Taylor Company, to announce it was disbanding indefinitely.

On the other hand, the Cleveland Ballet Guild, after years of cautious growth, metamorphoses this season into a fully professional subscription series. Up in Seattle, the Pacific Northwest Ballet, soaring from a zero to $900,000 budget in two years, has hired former ballerina Melissa Hayden to head its training program.

All sorts of explanations — from the liberation typified by Woodstock, to the emergence of superstars such as Nureyev and Baryshnikov, to growing TV and movie attention — are offered for the phenomenal growth.

The new dance display is wildly eclectic, ranging from workshop experiments to 40-week tours by major troupes. Big or little, virtually all accent the inventions of each group leader.

The pantheon of creativity includes such widely known titans as Martha Graham, George Balanchine, Jerome Robbins, Alvin Alley, Robert Joffrey, Alvin Nikolais, Merce Cunningham, Paul Taylor. Before them were the founders, Isadora Duncan, Ruth St.

Denis, Ted Shawn. Coming up rapidly are such devisers of fresh expression as Twyla Tharp, specialist in little, loose conniptions; Murray Louis, and Rod Rodgers, who takes dance to inner city streets.

Ballet is what most people think of first when dance is mentioned, and tutu companies indeed employ the most dancers. Biggest of all is the New York City Ballet, headed by Balanchine, with 94 dancers.

But the largest number of companies fit into the modern dance category, which embraces whatever isn't obviously from the ballet tradition or committed to such specialities as ethnic inspiration, precise mime or the esoteric agitations of jazz.

"The popularity of modern as a form of expression is easy to understand," says John Gingrich, president of the Association of American Dance Companies. "All that is needed are some trained bodies and a little creativity."

By general agreement, 10 years ago five companies had major rating. Reinhart puts the figure today at 20, Miss Arey reports 25 to 30.

The National Endowment for the Arts touring program has indisputably been the prime financial stimulus for putting dance on the road. Private foundation support, as in other arts, has been declining.

Half of NEA's dance allotment goes to direct support of troupes, the other $3 million to sponsors who book companies on tour.

"Until the Endowment came along," says Reinhart, "a successful dance company was one that could employ dancers enough weeks so they could qualify for unemployment insurance. That's all changed now."

A number of companies have reached an annual budget of $400,000, and others scale up to New York City Ballet's staggering $5 million nut.

Ticket sales and tour revenues, the Gingrich survey shows, cover about 55 per cent of costs. Virtually all the top companies augment income — and increase prestige — by foreign tours. Some became popular on cross-country circuits here only after being acclaimed in Europe.

How much bigger the dance audience may grow has started to worry some professionals.

"It's like what happened to a lot of mass circulation magazines," says one. "The bigger you get, the higher costs become. There's danger that some companies will get so large that they may create deficits that cannot be handled."

CAR ACCIDENTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says almost one-fourth of all injuries in car accidents result from occupant-to-occupant collision. Some happen when children are allowed to ride in the cargo area of a station wagon.

Claim Bookies

Were Overheard

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The government says three men accused of sports bookmaking were heard to give gambling odds on athletic events over wiretapped telephones.

But the defense questioned whether FBI agents could accurately identify the voices on tapes as those of the defendants.

The prosecution said in federal court Tuesday that the voices were those of Donald Eugene Honeycutt of New London, N.C., James Watson Barr of Kannapolis, and Dennis George of Rock Hill, S.C. They are on trial along with Louyn Edward Summerford of Charlotte.

FBI agents testified the tapped telephones were at the home of Fred Orr Snider of Gastonia, who pleaded guilty last Friday to running an illegal gambling business. He was put on five years probation and fined $20,000.

Bobby Bare Stirs Controversy

By JOHN NOLAN
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Take an eye-catching title, add a recognized country and western performer and mix in a little controversy.

The result: an up and coming hit single.

"Dropkick Me Jesus," written by Paul Craft and sung by Bobby Bare, stirred controversy even before it was released when a newspaper headline proclaimed, "RCA Sweats Out Reaction to Jesus-Football Recording."

But Bare, a 20-year recording veteran and owner of numerous hit songs, calls the song "one of the best I've ever recorded." "Dropkick Me Jesus" had its beginnings in Memphis, Tenn., Craft said, when someone in his audience shouted out for him to sing a song by that name.

Craft said it sounded like a great song title, and after checking to make sure no previous tune by that name had been recorded, he wrote his song. It refers to Jesus Christ in football terms.

It has attracted considerable media attention in the U.S. and Canada, has gotten some good reviews and is projected among the top 100 songs in the nation by one magazine.

But whether it sells or not "is a different story," Bare says.

"You never know. I know the people like it," said the Iron-ton, Ohio, native, who adds that he considered it "a pretty good bluegrass-type religious song" at first hearing.

Bare said any controversy about the song probably stems from its title.

"Once you get past the title and listen to it, it's a good song... leaves everybody wondering what all the talk is about," he said.

However, Larry Vaughn, music director at WSIX-FM in Nashville, has refused to allow the record to play on the station, terming it disrespectful to Jesus.

And a staff announcer at the station, Chuck Adair, called "the entire concept of the record derogatory to Jesus."

But Mary Katherine Murphy, country music director at WSM-AM in Nashville, says her station has played "Dropkick Me Jesus" for some time with no adverse reaction, even getting some requests for it from high school students. She admitted being "a little leery" of the record at first.

Poet Ran Out On Birthday Party

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Eugenio Montale — last year's Nobel Prize winner in literature — apparently doesn't like birthday parties.

Montale turned 80 Tuesday and disappeared from his apartment in downtown Milan to avoid "useless celebrations," he said in a note left in his home.

The birthday of the Italian poet was celebrated anyway at some Italian universities and in his native Liguria.

GETTING A REAL KICK — Bobby Bare has kicked up some controversy and what may turn out to be a hit record with his latest effort, "Dropkick Me Jesus." (AP Wirephoto)

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A partner could give information that could be erroneous so be sure to double check it and then handle any responsibilities ahead of you. Not a good day for signing important papers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to be more conscientious at work today, but partners can be most helpful with ideas and new plans. Show a greater spirit of cooperation for best results. Be careful of one who does not really understand you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) It may be necessary to make some changes today in order to handle problems better. Make sure you get your work handled properly. Take needed health treatments if indicated.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to handle a family problem in a sensible way, then get out to the pleasure that most appeals to you. You have creative ideas that need to be handled wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Exercise care in motion and be sure to handle any problems at home wisely, too. A new venture can be very helpful, but be cautious. Do not jump into it without proper preparation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Seek information you need, but be careful not to spend too much money. Talk plans over with associates and come to a fine meeting of minds. Avoid one who is a known troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what those of experience have to suggest for good results today. You are able to add appreciably to holdings or finances by whatever you put in motion today. Avoid one who is not thinking straight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget that private affair for the time being and get practical affairs in order. The evening is fine for social pleasure that appeals to you. Avoid one who is trying to pull a fast one on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Steer clear of a younger pal who seldom gets facts straight and could get you into trouble. Rely more on yourself. Follow your hunches which are precise just at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your friends understand your ideas and aims and can help you with them if you contact them early. Being diplomatic in public is most important now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep rooted to whatever you had planned instead of delving into some new project which would not be good for you. Some public work could be good for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Postpone handling responsibilities that are not very important at this time and concentrate on the vital. Make as many new contacts as you can which could lead to greater advancement.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will do well in the field of investigation and should have education slanted along such lines. Good spiritual training should be given early in life. Teach the facts of life early so that pitfalls may be avoided. Stress the practical side of life. A fine, interesting mind here that needs discipline early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!
