

Big City Mayors Line Up For Aid Appeals Awaiting Carter

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - Mayors of the nation's largest cities today formulated a new urban battle plan calling for immediate emergency aid for jobs and creation of an Urban Development Bank.

The mayors' urban strategy will be presented to Congress and President-elect Jimmy Carter with a stern warning that federal urban programs "are almost a nightmare of confusion."

Newark, N.J., Mayor Kenneth Gibson, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, told 100 city officials here that "the Carter Administration must set a national tone of concern for urban America."

Gibson said mayors should have access to Carter, suggesting it could be "through a vice president as an urban ombudsman or a domestic council in the White House with real urban clout."

"The issue is to make the federal bureaucracy responsive," Gibson said. In an address that ended a two-day conference session to outline urban priorities, Gibson called on Carter to develop "a coherent national urban policy that includes consolidation and cohesion" of federal grant programs, which he said number 1,800.

"Federal urban programs are now almost a nightmare of confusion," Gibson said.

The cornerstone of what the conference is calling a "new national urban investment policy" is creation of the Urban Development Bank, which would provide low-cost loans to businesses for expansion and location in the cities and to city governments for economic projects.

The mayors also will seek an emergency countercyclical jobs program "to shore up hardpressed cities in deep fiscal trouble."

Gibson also said Congress and the Carter Administration would have to provide "additional federal money" to aid troubled cities.

Gibson did not say how much money the plan would cost. Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit in a television interview criticized Carter's representative here, Howard Samuels of New York, who was an undersecretary of commerce under Lyndon Johnson.

Young said the cities would be in trouble "if they have to depend on Mr. Samuels. I guess he's the man who recommended that President Ford let New York go down the drain."

In a magazine article last year, Samuels said default might be less painful for New York City than deeper and deeper budget cuts.

The mayors are hoping to influence Carter with their strategy that would provide crucial aid to troubled cities at the expense of healthier communities, if necessary.

"Carter has indicated he is going to help all the cities," said New York City Mayor Abraham D. Beame. "Some cities may need more help than others."

Absent from the discussions was Chicago's own Mayor Richard J. Daley, who, like Carter, was on vacation. Daley's reputation as a Democratic party power suffered a setback in last week's election when Illinois' electoral votes went to President Ford and Daley's hand-picked candidate for governor was defeated.

Beame, Los Angeles Mayor Thomas Bradley and Boston Mayor Kevin White all suggested that federal money be distributed according to a formula based on unemployment.

Beame said Carter already has suggested three proposals that would funnel federal aid to cities with employment problems. The proposals include benefits to firms for every person they hire from the jobless rolls, an increased commitment to on-the-job training programs and incentives to curb layoffs.

New York has laid off thousands of city workers and remains in deep budget trouble.

White said the federal Community Development program helps healthy cities more than hardship cases. "We lose and Phoenix gains," he said.

Boston will have a $150 million deficit by next spring on its $500 million budget, White said.

Israeli Nuclear Plant Off Limits

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - The Israeli government has put its secret nuclear installations in the Negev Desert off limits to a party of U.S. senators checking safeguards against the manufacture of atomic weapons, a leading newspaper reports.

The newspaper Maariv reported the government turned down numerous requests from the 13 senators to visit the facilities built with French help in the 1950s near the town of Dimona, in southern Israel.

"We want to learn about the atomic development programs in this region and to study how supervision and control both here and in Egypt can ensure that atomic energy will be for peaceful uses only," Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., told reporters at Ben-Gurion Airport.

The senators arrived Sunday for a four-day visit in preparation for Senate action on agreements carrying out former President

March, the editor of a Washington newsletter said senior officials of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency told him at a briefing that Israel had 10 to 20 nuclear weapons "ready for use." The CIA refused to confirm or deny the report.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the senators would not pressure the Israelis to sign the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, which Egypt has signed.

"We are not here to conduct any negotiations," said Baker. But he, too, said they "want to see...how the safeguards will be carried forward."

Nixon's offers of nuclear power reactors to Israel and Egypt. Before the reactors can be supplied, the Senate must approve the safeguards against diversion of the nuclear material to the production of weapons.

Foreign press reports have said Israel has made more than 10 atomic weapons with material from the Dimona installation. Last

Flu Shots

Swine flu vaccinations are available at the Pitt County Health Department any weekday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and, in addition each Monday and Wednesday until 6:30 p.m.

"Everyone is encouraged to get his or her swine flu vaccine before we get further into the flu season," Health Department Nursing Director Tillie Cullipher said. "We especially encourage this for people with chronic diseases such as heart disease and diabetes."

The vaccine is also being given in the four satellite clinics in Ayden, Farmville, Bethel, and Grimesland.

Ford Begins 8-Day Rest

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - President Ford and his family may discuss possibilities for his future during an eight-day golfing vacation in this sunny resort town, an aide says.

The First Family arrived here Sunday from Washington and settled in at the home of U.S. Ambassador to Belgium Leonard Firestone. Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the Fords had no plans for any activities on their first night.

Army aide Robert Barret said "some options may be delineated," regarding Ford's activities after Jimmy Carter takes over as president on Jan. 20. "But there certainly will be no decisions made," Barret said.

He indicated the entire Ford family will have a role in deciding on the President's post-White House role.

Ford was expected to spend several hours a day on official business, such as budget matters and the State of the Union message he will deliver to the new 95th Congress.

When the President arrived at the airport here, he immediately plunged into an old routine - shaking hands with well-wishers.

"Wish you could stay," and "A sunny welcome to Palm Springs," read the placards as the Ford emerged from Air Force One. Perhaps from force of habit ingrained over the past two years, Ford immediately headed toward a music-making high-school band and a group of football lettermen holding a yellow-and-black banner.

After greeting them, the President "worked the fence," moving along police-erected barricades shaking hands with his well-wishers.

The President was welcomed here by his long-time friend, Leon Parma, a San Diego business executive. Several golfing partners already were lined up for him, including comedian Bob Hope and former Army football coach Earl (Red) Blaik.

Earlier Sunday, a friendly crowd of admirers greeted Ford at church in Washington, snapping pictures and seeking to shake hands with the chief executive.

Among those in front of St. John's Episcopal Church was Helen Williams, Ford's art teacher at Grand Rapids High School years ago.

"This is a real nice surprise," said a beaming President as he reached out to greet her. "She taught me art, but I was never very good at it," he explained.

Hazing Death Investigated

NEW YORK (AP) - The mock military exercise that led to the stabbing death of a 20-year-old ROTC cadet was unauthorized and showed poor judgment - but it did not necessarily amount to hazing, a spokesman for St. John's University says.

"It was probably a result of too much zeal on the part of the students in attempting to perfect their military tactical skills," said Martin Healey, the university's director of public relations.

However, police said the death Friday night of Thomas Fitzgerald of Queens, a prospective member of a Reserve Officer Training Corps fraternity at St. John's, "was part of a hazing program."

Hazing - the act of intimidation or harassment designed to humiliate a pledge - is a crime in New York State.

Luther Hodges, Sen. Morgan To Boost Stadium Campaign

CHARLOTTE - Bank executive Luther H. Hodges Jr. and Sen. Robert B. Morgan, D-N.C., today were named to chairmanships for the $2.5 million fund-raising campaign to expand Ficklen Stadium at East Carolina University.

Hodges, of Charlotte, chairman of the board of North Carolina National Bank and a member of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, was named state chairman for the drive which begins officially Nov. 15.

In a statement, Hodges said he was privileged to be a part of the fund-raising team. "I support East Carolina University because I am deeply committed to the future of North Carolina," he said.

Senator Morgan, an ECU alumnus and former chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees, will serve as national chairman. He said "the need for this additional facility - expansion of the stadium on the Greenville campus to more than 35,000 seats - is obvious and I am happy to work for it."

R. L. (Roddy) Jones of Raleigh, general chairman, and Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU chancellor and co-chairman, expressed pleasure and gratitude in introducing Hodges and Morgan at a Charlotte news conference.

Morgan, of Lillington, a long-time booster and distinguished alumnus who led legislative efforts to obtain university status for ECU, said stadium expansion is necessary to "make it more compatible with the quality of the present athletic program at my alma mater." "East Carolina's football team compares favorably with that of any other school in the state or even in the South," Morgan said. "Doubling the size of the stadium will allow more people to enjoy watching our Pirates perform."

He added that there is a "definite connection between a school's athletic and academic programs. Graduates from schools such as Notre Dame and Southern California find their degrees carry more impact because of the fame of their football teams."

Hodges, a graduate of UNC-Chapel Hill in economics and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, is the son of the late former governor. As chairman of the board of NCNB, he is responsible for North Carolina banking operations, trust and investment management, and the marketing functions of NCNB. He also oversees NCNB Financial Services Inc., Trust Company of Florida, NCNB Tri-South Corporation and the communications and public policy activities of NCNB Corporation. In 1962, he served on the faculty of the School of Business Administration at UNC-Chapel Hill.

"I sometimes think we tend to look at our state in terms of what is or is not good for the particular region in which we happen to live," Hodges said. "Rather, I feel we should judge region developments from a statewide overview, from the perspective of what will be best for all of North Carolina in the long run."

"The Ficklen Stadium project on the campus of East Carolina University should be treated in this manner."

"Eastern North Carolina is growing rapidly and will continue to do so. The East possesses all of the resources that leaders of business and industry look for as they consider moving to the sun belt. Desirable new industry is good for eastern North Carolina. And such economic development will have beneficial consequences for the rest of our state. Consequently, it is essential to transform the limitless potential of the East into the reality we all want to see."

"One of the best ways to encourage sound development in the east is by fostering an institution of higher learning that can serve as a stimulant to growth and, therefore, contribute significantly to the quality of life for our people."

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Two of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's assistants left for Washington today to report to their boss on the deadlocked Rhodesian conference.

Tremors

By The Associated Press

Earthquakes hit Iran, the Philippines, Greece and Japan and one was reported in China during the weekend and today. A volcano erupted in Indonesia. Casualties reported were 17 dead and 32 injured in northeast Iran.

A duty officer at the National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said he believed there was no connection among the weekend quakes.

The Iranian quake occurred Sunday morning (11:01 p.m. EST Saturday) and registered 6.2 on the Richter scale. Most of the casualties were reported in the mountain village of Vandik, 400 miles northeast of Tehran, where all of the 150 mudbrick houses collapsed.

At least 10 more tremors were reported in the area today and another at Lorestan, in southwest Iran, the national radio and television said. No further casualties or damage was reported.

STOPPED PAYMENT

I am a former Miracle Maid cookware dealer. I quit last February. I was to pay $42 to the company to make the difference on a sample set of cookware between the original cost of it and the credit toward it I'd received for the dinners I'd conducted. I wrote them a check, but then got mad and stopped payment on it. Now, though, a letter from the collection department of the company in West Bend, Wisc. says I owe $376.03. How could $42 turn into this much? H. H.

Hotline called the area manager, L. B. Mazingo of Eureka. He said that you did indeed stop payment on a check after he had believed he had your credit on the sample set settled. So $340 of the charges against you is the full price of the cookware set. Hotline asked him if there was any possibility that the settlement originally arranged could be stood by, having you still owe the company $42 on the cookware. He promised to call the company and pose this question, and also find out what the additional $36.03 charge was.

He called back about an hour later to say that the company is willing to accept the $42 and let you keep the cookware, if you send them a cashier's check or a money order - not a personal check. Make it to the attention of R. D. Edgar, Collection Department, since he is familiar with the situation.

$6.03 of the $36.03 charge is for a balance you owed the company as of November, 1975. $30 is charged back to you because you received an initial payment of this amount from a potential customer whose credit was found not to be good enough to enter into a credit arrangement with the company. The company subsequently refunded the customer's money and charged it to you, as was part of your contract with the company.

Charged With Gun Slaying

WILSON, N.C. (AP) - John Henry Evans, 26, of Wilson, was in custody today, charged with murder in the slaying of James Barnes, 23, Sunday night.

Police said an argument preceded the shooting in Evans' home.

Pitt Firemen Kept On The Run During Weekend

Pitt County firemen were busy throughout the weekend, fighting numerous grass and woods fires and also more than one home fire.

Friday at 10:24 a.m. Station House fought a mobile home fire in Colonial Trailer Park. The residence of Bob Harrell was heavily damaged.

Friday at 12:45 p.m. Farmville answered a call to a grass fire on the Chinquapin Road. At 3:10 Eastern Pines went to a woods fire between Bell's Fork and Worthington's Crossroads.

Friday night fires include a house fire near Langs Crossroad on Highway 264A reported at 6:59 p.m. The call was answered by Farmville.

At 6:22 p.m. Grifton went to a woods fire.

At 5:35 p.m. Fountain went to a house fire. Minor damage was reported, but no information about whose house it was.

Saturday at 2:43 p.m. Grimesland went to a fire near where Highway 33 crosses the railroad just outside Grimesland.

At 2:54 p.m. Grifton went to a woods fire near Grover's

Store. Saturday at 3:17 Farmville went to a woods fire. Saturday at 7:34 p.m. Winterville went to a woods fire near Renston.

Sunday at 1:59 a.m. Belvoir was assisted by Falkland in fighting a fire at John Dunn's residence on the Old River Road. At 4:27 p.m. Black Jack answered a woods fire call near the Voice of America site. At 2:58 p.m. Belvoir, assisted by Station House, fought a woods blaze near the Barrus Construction Company site on State Road 1402. At 1:43 p.m. Red Oak went to a grass fire on the Allen Road, and at midnight Black Jack responded to a tobacco barn fire near Qin Quinerly's Crossroads. The barn was owned by Lucille Dail.

At 10:32 a.m. Eastern Pines went to a woods fire near Highland Trailer Park off Highway 33.

Pitt County Fire Marshal said the large number of woods and grass fires over the weekend points to the need to be careful about fire during this dry and windy time.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Afternoon

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY JOHNSTON JR.

BURLINGTON—Miss Nancy Lou Gibson and William Henry Johnston Jr. were united in marriage Sunday at 3:00 p.m. at Hocutt Memorial Baptist Church here. The Rev. Robert Medlin presided at the ceremony.

Music was presented by Mrs. Francis Stanley, organist. Miss Paula Boswell sang "The Wedding Prayer" and Sam Horne sang "The Wedding Song."

The bride wore a silk satin finished gown with a mandarin collar and long full sleeves. The bodice was finished with pearl beaded trim from the shoulders to the waistline, accented with pearl buttons down the front and at the cuffs of the sleeves. The back was enhanced with a full built-in train, flowing chapel length.

Her matching cloche headpiece, accented with two rows of pearls, was attached to a fingertip illusion veil. She carried a colonial cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Cordes B. Finger of Burlington, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Michael Bass of Greenville, and Miss Wanda Clary of Raleigh were bridesmaids. The attendants wore full length green satin dresses with ruffled necklines. They carried colonial cascades of yellow and bronze flowers.

The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers were Cordes B. Finger of Burlington and David Johnston of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social hall.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Johnston Sr. of Greenville, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the wedding party at a buffet dinner at the Holiday Inn, Burlington, following the rehearsal Saturday night.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Gibson of Burlington. She received a B.S. degree in business administration from East Carolina University and is presently employed in the management training program at J.C. Penney Co., Greenville.

The bridegroom received a B.S. degree in law enforcement and corrections from ECU and is presently employed by Piedmont Technical Institute in Person County as a criminal justice instructor.

More On Sitter And The Single Man

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: A reader wrote that her husband's 24-year-old brother, "a nice young man," was their houseguest. They had all planned to go out that evening, but the man and wife were leaving earlier, so the houseguest would have been left to shower and dress while a 13-year-old neighbor girl sat with the children.

The wife demanded that the brother-in-law shower and dress quickly and leave the house with them so he and the young sitter wouldn't be alone in the house. The brother-in-law was insulted and the husband thought his wife was crazy.

She asked my opinion, and I said she owed the young man an apology. I received 289 letters telling me I was wrong! Not one letter in my defense! I then asked my readers if there wasn't somebody out there who agreed with me. The response was heartwarming, but my mailman isn't speaking to me. Letters poured in by the thousands, and I'm pleased to report that my mail is running about 300 to one in my favor. Here's a sampling of the responses:

DEAR ABBY: I'm in the U.S. Navy and all the guys aboard the carrier MIDWAY agree with me that you were right. Hang in there, Abby.
MARK, S.C.: U.S. NAVY

DEAR ABBY: Pull in your horns. You're wrong. No man is a good man. In the back of his mind is always the thought of what he can get off a woman. This includes fathers, stepfathers, brothers, uncles, neighbors and your best friend's husband.
CAREFUL IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: We are a retired couple who commend you for pointing out to your opponents the paranoia, suspicion and evil-mindedness of their views. You have our 1000 per cent support.
MR. AND MRS. J. C. T., OAK BLUFFS, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Here's one Lutheran pastor who hopes you get some support for your trusting attitude. If not, don't worry. Your advice is helpful even when it's not popular.
W. W. WARRENTON, TEX.

DEAR ABBY: Unless the 13-year-old girl was Lolita, or the 24-year-old man was a potential rapist, I cannot agree that they could not have been trusted alone together. I strongly suspect that those who wrote to protest could not themselves be trusted in that situation—the old psychological phenomenon of "projection."
J. McCANN

DEAR ABBY: If I had been the houseguest, I'd have informed my sister-in-law that she needn't worry about my alleged depravity anymore because she wouldn't be seeing me again unless I received an apology.
JACK L.G. IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: Sorry, you're wrong. If there's a one-in-a-million chance that the sitter could be molested, it wouldn't be worth the risk. Back down, Abby.
FATHER OF THREE, SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: Whatever happened to the principle, "Innocent until proven guilty?" Stick to your guns! I'm 83 and read you daily.
ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

DEAR ABBY: I must vote against you, Abby. I'm also guessing that you have no daughters—only sons.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

DEAR ORLEANS: Guess again. I have one of each.

DEAR ABBY: What's this world coming to? If that wife can't trust her own brother-in-law with a 13-year-old kid, what makes her think she can trust her own husband?
APPALLED IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: I doubt that a 24-year-old man would have any interest in a 13-year-old girl. It's the immature boys you have to watch out for. When I was 18 years old and did a lot of babysitting, a little 10-year-old boy actually made a pass at me!

Program Gives On-Job Training

By PETER MATTIACE
Associated Press Writer
WESTVILLE GROVE, N.J. (AP) — If you stop at the Harp Room here, ask Becky for a cheese steak, french fries and coffee.

At the next door down, Bill can sell you raisin bread or a pepperoni and cheese loaf. It's good. On your way out, ask Lenny for a pound of imported ham or some swiss cheese.

Becky, Bill and Lenny are mentally retarded.

But their boss, John Misci, says they're ready to go to work and he'd hire them himself if he wasn't phasing out his Turnersville restaurant to instruct them at the St. John of God Community Services center here.

The center, run by the Irish Brothers of St. John of God, is offering its 12 most advanced retarded students a chance at learning the food business as part of its vocational training program.

And any weekday lunchtime, the public is invited to drop in to their school in this Gloucester County community to see what they can do — and to have lunch, too.

"I had a good business before I came here," said Misci, who had three restaurants when he found out four years ago that his daughter was mentally retarded.

Now, he's teaching other mentally retarded students how to bake doughnuts, rolls, danish pastry and specialty loaves. They're also learning how to slice cold cuts, make salads, bus tables and wash dishes with commercial equipment.

Misci believes his students, most of whom are in their 20s, can one day become food specialists in hotel kitchens.

"It's gratifying to motivate students who once only watched television. If I still had a place of my own, those kids would be my employees," Misci said.

There are some things his retarded students can't do, Misci explained.

For that reason, the menu at the Harp Room is simple. Patrons circle their selections from a long list ranging from soup du jour to cheeseburgers to honey dipped chicken.

Students, serving as waitresses, set tables, take orders and pass them to the cooks — Misci's professional aides — who work the grill.

Waitresses fill the simpler parts of the orders and do the serving. Later, other bus the dirty dishes and clean the tables.

In an adjoining bakery, rich with the sweet smell of fresh bread, Misci's students work from scratch. Their fare includes french bread, raisin bread, rolls, buns and ham and cheese or pepperoni and cheese loaves.

Nearby, other students work slicing machines and serve up a wide range of cold cuts. They sell their baked goods and meats over the counter. So far, sales to the public have been only a small part of the students' trade. The Harp Room doesn't advertise and there are no signs for the shop out front on Delsea Drive.

But sales to nearby parishes for church events, for center functions and daily trade to other student and staff members have boosted the Harp Room's gross to more than $750 during some weeks.

"We want people to come in here for the bakery and the restaurant," one center official said, quickly adding, "We also have cold cuts."

And at 50 cents for a big loaf of raisin bread, you can't go wrong.

RUTH CONRAD BATEMAN'S
CURRY ZUCCHINI SOUP

One of the most successful recipes we have tried.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 large onion, chopped

1 apple, peeled, cored and chopped

2 teaspoons curry powder

1 quart chicken broth

¼ cup uncooked white rice

2 cups diced, unpeeled zucchini (2 to 3 medium)

½ teaspoon salt, or to taste

1 cup milk

¼ cup heavy cream (optional)

1 tablespoon thinly sliced natural skin almonds,

toasted

Heat butter in heavy saucepan or soup kettle. Add onions and apples and cook, stirring frequently, until they are soft.

Sprinkle with curry powder, and stir and cook a few seconds. Pour in the chicken broth. Heat to boiling, drop in rice and zucchini. Season with salt (the amount depends on the saltiness of the broth). Cover pan and simmer until rice and zucchini are soft and tender, about 30 minutes. Pour into blender (in 2 batches, if necessary) and whirl until smooth. Return to pan and add milk. Heat until flavors blend. Taste and adjust seasonings as needed. Stir in cream, if used, just before serving. Ladle into warm bowls and top each with a few almond slices. Makes 4 to 5 servings. Before Columbus, Celts May Have Settled Here and perhaps 500 years before Christ parts of North America were settled by Celts from Portugal.

By HAL DAVIS
NORTH SALEM, N.Y. (UPI) — Barry Fell's theory: Before Columbus, before the Vikings

They clustered in Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York's Hudson Valley. They built rude stone chambers that combined religious ceremony with accurate sightings. They worshiped the sun.

And they became — or married into — the Algonquin Indians.

Fell, a Harvard zoologist, specialist in ocean currents and epigrapher, bases his theory on the discovery of these dank, rectangular or beehive-shaped structures.

Often overgrown and hidden by trees, they are still around the mountainous New England countryside.

People store preserves in them. Hikers take shelter in the mound-like structures. What appear to be monuments are near some of them.

American Ancient History
Fell calls the discoveries the "first skeleton of an American ancient history." He bases most of his findings on inscriptions found in the mounds. But he recently said the dating is tentative.

"It's guesswork," he said in a telephone interview from Cambridge, Mass. "I'm not going to stand firm on those dates."

Fell first thought the settlers dispersed and joined native American tribes when the colonies lost touch with Europe after Rome fell, about 480 A.D. He now thinks there may have been contact up through, say 1492, because of what he terms an Arabic script called Kufi, inscribed on stones in Texas. He dates it at 1200 A.D.

A Question of Dates
"In Europe we know the sequence of how the word symbols changed, but in America they were isolated. Old characters and manners of writing that went out of style in North Europe and Spain stayed on in America."

"In some areas, they were still using the old system when Columbus arrived."

In his book "America B.C." (Quadrangle, November), Fell dates the Celtic-Iberian arrival at 500 B.C.

"In my sequel I'll have to propose later dates for everything," he said. "On the other hand, the archeologists want to push them back to 2000 B.C., based on the similarity of architectural styles to the European structures."

"They could have been built before there was writing."

Dolmen Discovered
John Williams, 26, an amateur archeologist, took part in a dig last year on Mystery Hill in North Salem, N.H., where Fell and some colleagues examined a dolmen — a boulder laid across five upright stones — near a group of beehive chambers about seven feet high and 10 feet wide.

Williams returned to his job as a high school English and history teacher in Danbury, Conn., and began to wonder about a nearby landmark that reminded him of the New Hampshire site.

In New York's North Salem, amid rolling hills just across the Connecticut border, lies "Balanced Rock," a 90-ton boulder that rests on three stones.

A sign, planted at the rock by the North Salem Historical Society, says "Glacial Era," but Williams doubts it.

Burial Sites?
"In Europe there are thousands of this sort of construction, and underneath many are burial sites," he said.

"The caves are built in proximity to the dolmens, Celtic memorials to the dead, and there are 15 of them within two miles of here. There are 60 chambers of this type around on hilltops," Williams said. "Sun worshippers."

He took a reporter to a cave in Ridgefield, Conn., he believes was designed to catch the first rays of sun on the Spring equinox, March 21.

Sun Signs
"On that day, I observed the sunrise from inside the chamber. It was probably off by a couple of degrees, but the sun cast a light on a triangular niche on the back of the interior wall."

The Celts started the new year on May 1, 35 days after the equinox, "They used March 25," he said.

The inscriptions? Williams, citing Fell, says they are Ogam, a form of stone engraving invented by Phoenicians and used by ancient Celts. Ogam involves a horizontal line with vertical scratches above and below. "Not a language," Fell has noted, just as Roman letters are a form of writing used in different languages.

A Tinfoil Reading
Just south of the equinox-catching cave, Williams stopped on a dirt road, climbed up a small embankment and tamped a brush on tinfoil spread over a stone set in a wall.

"The stones were often moved and used to make those New England stone walls, and here's an example." He climbed down, leaned on the car and examined the foil.

The inscription on the stone was upside down, he said. A natural ridge in the rock was used as a horizontal line, and vertical lines carved above and below the ridge showed as clear trails in the otherwise pleated foil.

To an untutored eye, the lines on the stone itself, with white discoloration in the grooves, were not too distinct. Williams said they were carefully carved and straight; the carved angle

BALANCED ROCK, in North Salem, N.Y. has been an object of speculation since the area was settled. John Williams theorizes it is a memorial to Druid priests, constructed by Celts who, he believes, inhabited northeastern United States 3,000 years ago. (UPI Photo)

Program Trains Special Police For Role As 'Hypnotechnicians'

By JAMES J. DOYLE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Policeman James Van Pelt was shot in the stomach while struggling with a suspect. He was on the critical list for days and when he was finally able to speak he could not definitely identify his assailant.

Dr. Martin Reiser, a clinical psychologist and head of the Los Angeles Police Department's Behavioral Science Services, hypnotized Van Pelt.

Soon the officer was looking at a "television screen" in his own mind. On the mental screen, he saw a man rushing at him, then a quick burst of gunfire. He was able to describe the assailant in detail, including his dress and odd manner of walking.

Awakened from his "sleep" and shown an artist's version of the suspect, he said, "That's him. That's the guy that shot me."

The suspect was subsequently found, still carrying the officer's .38 caliber weapon.

Hypnotism has been used sporadically for several years by many police departments in investigations of murders, kidnaps and rapes — mostly to help witnesses and victims remember details.

Reiser is now training a special cadre of high ranking police officers as "hypnotechnicians."

"I had been requested on occasion over the last five or six years by investigators to use it in major crime cases," he said. "It's mainly to enhance recall of significant details, car descriptions, license plates, whatever might be useful."

The word got around. He got more and more requests for his help.

"They were saying, 'Hey, this really works. We've got a lot of information and it helped solve the case.'"

Van Pelt decided to look into the possibility of training professional investigators in the basic techniques, "to share the burden and to establish what I felt was a legitimate area of application in a criminological sense."

Eleven lieutenants and two captains, all longtime police investigators, were trained to use hypnotism.

"We felt, because this was a pilot, pioneer type project, in this country at least, we should use fairly high level investigation people so the lieutenant level was set as a minimum."

The program, after a year of research, started in June, 1975. After one year 70 cases were used to make up a data base for the study.

"I can only report," Reiser said, "in a tentative observational way, that it's been very successful. There have been many cases cleared as a result of adding hypnotism to the investigative process."

"We had one case where a lieutenant was called to testify and was qualified by the court as an expert witness in this

The Federal Environmental Pesticides Control Act of 1972 regulates the use of pesticides to protect man and the environment. Among the many provisions of the Act is the requirement that all pesticides be classified for general use or restricted use. Restricted use pesticides may be used only by or under the supervision of certified applicators; or, are subject to such other restrictions as the EPA may determine.

The Act requires that certification of farmers be done before October 1977.

To help farmers comply with the Act the Agricultural Extension Service will provide instruction by the following schedule:

Date	Time	Township
Nov. 15	10:00-3:00	Winterville
Nov. 15	4:00-9:00	Ayden
Nov. 17	10:00-3:00	Grifton
Nov. 17	4:00-9:00	Chicod, Swift Creek
Nov. Grimesland, Greenville
Nov. 18	4:00-9:00	Pactolus, Carolina
Nov. 22	10:00-3:00	Bethel, Belvoir
Nov. 22	4:00-9:00	Fountain, Falkland
Nov. 23	10:00-3:00	Farmville, Arthur

Times include hour for participant to eat.

The instruction will include information on laws, labeling, choosing, use and care of chemicals and equipment along with methods used to identify and control pests. How to use pesticides so they will not harm you or the environment is the major purpose of the training.

If you have any question on the subject of farmer certification, come by or call the Agricultural Extension Office, 758-1196.

Farmers should attend the class on the day scheduled for the township in which he lives. For example, a grower living in the Ayden township should attend the 4-9 p.m. class on Nov. 15.

All classes will be held at the Pitt County Farm Bureau Building, 402 Greenville Blvd., Greenville.

Gerald Ford Fulfilled A Duty

There's not much comfort in losing for a man who is sitting as president of the United States. And our current president is in that position today. President Gerald Ford knows that in January he will no longer be president—defeated by the Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter.

It cannot be a happy time for the president. Still one did not have to support Ford or vote for him in the recent election to say that he has the respect of the nation.

Ford was called upon to become the nation's vice president during one of the darkest times in our government's history. The elected vice president had resigned in disgrace. President Nixon was under the dark clouds of Watergate, and yet it fell to Nixon to nominate a new vice president who could be confirmed in Congress.

Obviously Nixon had to pick someone who was highly respected in Washington, one who was regarded as totally honest and incorruptible. He turned to Gerald Ford and it is a tribute to Ford that he was confirmed.

Then the unthinkable happened as Nixon resigned under the pressures of Watergate. Ford assumed the office of president with all its awesome powers. It was a governmental crisis such as this nation had never known before.

President Gerald Ford brought a reasonableness and honesty and calmness to the White House that saw our nation through this trying period and helped to some extent to restore faith in our government. We think he will be recognized in history for this. Certainly all of us alive today owe him a debt of gratitude for his efforts.

Planning Conference For Civic Roles

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a planning conference at Wrightsville Beach next weekend to which Chamber members and civic leaders have been invited. Panel discussions and group meetings will be held to help formulate guidance for the area's future growth.

It seems a good project to us and we hope that many ideas will be advanced to make Greenville and Pitt County a better place to live.

THIS AFTERNOON

Say Arena Worth Effort

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Despite numerous stumbling blocks, a legislative commission feels a major sports arena for North Carolina is worth pursuing.

Where it would be, what its main uses would be, how much it would cost, how it would be financed are questions which remain up in the air.

But on one thing the study commission can agree: the idea is worth an investment of time and dollars in research.

"We ought to look to the future...to dream a bit...for our children in North Carolina," says State Rep. J. Guy Revelle, D-Northampton, chairman of the Sports Facility Commission.

State Senator Julian R. Allsbrook, D-Halifax, sponsored the legislation authorizing the study. He confesses the subject is "a dream...but you don't move forward by staying in the same rut...but by dreaming."

All-Purpose
The senator envisions a major sports arena—not confined to any one sport, but possibly flexible enough for football, basketball, baseball, ice hockey, soccer, concerts.

Admittedly, such a project would cost millions, and would be years away...perhaps 1985 or 1990. But some members of the study group believe now is the time to move forward in getting started toward such a future date.

What kind of facility? In the minds of several commission members is the North Carolina Tobacco Bowl: an enclosed stadium seating at least 48,000 (perhaps as many as 80,000) and located at the Research Triangle Park centrally near to Chapel Hill, Durham, and Raleigh, as well as accessible to Interstate Highways 85 and 40, and the Raleigh Durham Airport.

That being the center of intercollegiate athletics involving Duke University, N.C. State, and UNC Chapel Hill, and still close enough to Greensboro and Winston-Salem (Wake Forest), and also accessible from the east where East Carolina University promises to join the state's Big Four (or Five, as the case may be), would appear a natural location to some.

State Senator Marshall A. Rauch, D-Gaston, is the only member of the study group living outside eastern or central counties. He cautioned not to make premature judgments on location or service area, and after much discussion commented that he "came in all gung-ho to build the biggest stadium in the nation. Now, I'm not so sure."

Some Doubts
Rauch and some others had doubts created by comments at a recent meeting from Bill Cobey, athletic director at UNC, and Gene Hooks, his counterpart at Wake Forest. Massive stadiums have run into severe financial problems elsewhere, in both construction and operating costs, Cobey said. But recent innovations in cloth domes supported by cables and air have sharply reduced cost.

But university people are cautious about committing themselves to a facility away from their own campuses, worry about the cost of putting on games in a rented facility, and warned that an arena big enough for football or soccer puts the spectator too far away from basketball action.

Further, the university people fear a major stadium would lead to professional teams in the state, and worry that such a move would cut into the intercollegiate program.

Edwin T. Barnes of the State Treasurer's Office pointed to the financial problems of some other facilities as a drawback in finding money...selling bonds for such a massive project would have to be done outside of North Carolina, and "due to failures elsewhere these bonds are not seen as very attractive."

An alternative, some suggested, would be a smaller arena designed primarily for basketball, seating perhaps 30,000 people.

Further study by the legislative group is ahead before a decision is made either to go ahead with a proposal, or to drop the whole idea.

How They Went Wrong

WASHINGTON — After every election the fickle media tend to interview the winners. No one seems to care about the losers. It has always been my policy to stay with the losers and find out why they blew it.

This year I talked to several of them. The first was George Merchantile, an incumbent congressman who was defeated handily by Carter Crawfish in what many people said was an upset.

Merchantile told me, "I believe my biggest mistake was not communicating with the voters. Instead, I did most of my communicating with my press secretary, Lizzie Poivron, never suspecting that she would tape all our conversations at the Holiday Inn Motel. My opponent decided to use these private conversations against me which I consider despicable. I should have been suspicious when I kissed Lizzie on the ear and discovered a small microphone stuck in it. But when you're in the heat of a campaign you don't think about those things. Besides, I promised Lizzie no more and no less than I promised the voters. Most of what the public heard about the tapes was taken out of context. All they read was what I promised Lizzie, and not what I promised the country."

Archibald Blandanna, who lost his seat in Congress, was another bitter loser. "I would have won it if my opponent had played fair. But he made capital out of the fact that I had accepted a $50,000 gift in cash from the South Korean government. The truth is that I turned down the gift, so Tong Pong Long, a very dear friend of ours, gave it to my wife without my knowledge. I had warned my wife never to accept expensive gifts from a foreign government, but she maintains I never said anything about cash. Had she told me about it I would have made her return $20,000 of it immediately."

Robert Quovadis, who lost a close governor's race, was more philosophical than bitter. "Well all make mistakes. I imagine mine was posing chained in the nude in Hustler magazine being whipped by three women wearing black boots. I thought at the time I could reach the blue-collar workers who do not necessarily read the newspapers, but apparently I was wrong. If the same picture had appeared in Family Circle I'm certain there wouldn't have been an uproar. I'm not saying that this photograph made me lose the election, but it put me on the defensive in the final weeks and no one was interested in what I had to say about the new school bond issue I had proposed for the state."

Harlan Hathaway, who was running for attorney general of his state, blamed his defeat on his speech writers. "When Earl Butz resigned," Hathaway told me, "I hired the fellow who wrote jokes for him. I thought they were very funny and so did all the guys at the country club where I play golf. But when I started to tell them in ethnic neighborhoods, the people just didn't laugh. So then I switched and came out for the death penalty. They didn't laugh at that either. I never saw so many uptight voters in my life as I did this year."

Probably one of the saddest losers was Floyd Harmony, who ran for the school board in Dutchess County.

Floyd put up $3 million of his own money, most of it for television commercials. "The trouble was I saturated the state with the commercials and everyone thought I was running for senator. I got one million votes for senator and only 30 for the school board. Mother is very angry with me because I used up the entire family's trust fund and she

Women Gained Seats

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Women increased their ranks in state legislatures from 8 per cent to 9.1 per cent in last Tuesday's election, for a net of 685 seats.

"It's progress — but not very fast progress," said Betsy Wright, director of the National Women's Education Fund, which has been compiling statistics on women at state and local levels since 1974.

"We've got to discover some way we can go from 9 per cent all the way up to 25 per cent in one election period," said Ms. Wright, who prefers that designation.

Only then, she said, will women have enough of a base to make significant inroads on statewide and national offices.

The number of women in the U.S. Congress declined by one as a result of Tuesday's elections, from 19 to 18 out of 435 House members. There are no women in the 100-member Senate.

Ann Zill, director of the Women's Campaign Fund, said one breakthrough in 1976 was that for the first time women have begun to contribute money for women's campaigns.

The campaign fund collected almost $63,700 for women candidates, and the National Women's Political Caucus raised another $30,000.

"The sum of $100,000 for women candidates is indeed paltry," said Ms. Zill, who also prefers the feminist designation, compared to the total of $400 million which analysts estimate is spent for all levels of campaigns in a year such as this.

The National Women's Education Fund has given intensive campaign-skills seminars in various regions of the country since 1974 to more than 500 women who want to manage campaigns or run for office.

In the elections, the number of women rose in 22 state legislatures, held even in 10 and lost strength in 11. Seven states did not hold legislative elections.

Alaska lost the most women, from 9 to 4 state legislators. California made the biggest

THE INSIDE REPORT

Dole Picked As Scapegoat

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While President Ford appeared to pull even with Jimmy Carter on the closing weekend of the campaign, his senior aides even then were privately assigning the blame for possible defeat to Sen. Robert Dole.

"I would say very frankly that Bob Dole has cost at least two percentage points, and that might just be the ballgame," a Ford insider told us three days before the election. Those points were lost, the Ford high command believes, by Dole turning off liberal-to-moderate Republicans and energizing partisan Democrats in Carter's behalf.

No doubt, Dole is one of those rare vice-presidential candidates who made a difference — in his case a negative difference. Yet, the Ford operatives seeking to transform Dole from hatchetman to scapegoat are obscuring the point. The principal blame lies with Ford campaign managers who selected Dole and then failed to develop an orderly role for him.

Dole, therefore, stands out as the one strategic blunder since Mr. Ford's nomination in a campaign that otherwise became effective and intelligent. The reason may be that Ford managers accepted the conventional wisdom that vice-presidential candidates are irrelevant to an election's outcome.

Actually, preceding the Republican convention when the polls showed Mr. Ford 25 to 30 percentage points behind Carter, some innovative thought was applied to the vice presidency.

Deputy campaign manager Stu Spencer, seeking a running-mate who would bring along some votes, was responsible for speculation about Anne Armstrong, Ambassador to Great Britain.

Two factors crushed Spencer's efforts. First, polling data — of dubious value in this case — showed no running — mate would help and as a woman would hurt. Second, the President's senior advisers wanted an orthodox Republican universally acceptable to the evenly divided national convention.

The report that the defeated Ronald Reagan dictated Dole's selection is sheer myth. Rather, Dole ended up as the survivor in a process of elimination as better known candidates were scratched off as unacceptable.

Once Dole was nominated, nobody in the Ford high command took seriously official propaganda that he would help carry the farm belt (with the possible exception of his native Kansas). "That's the last any of us will ever see of him," said a Ford insider, only half-facetiously, pointing to Dole on the rostrum at Kansas City the night of his acceptance speech.

Since Dole's assignment was merely as a cheerleader for gatherings of the Republican faithful during the Rose Garden phase of Mr. Ford's campaign, the White House ignored Dole's continued hardosed sarcastic style — effective with partisan audiences but inappropriate for a vice-presidential candidate. Nor was there concern that Dole, a witty and charming man in private, was at sword's point with reporters accompanying him.

These oversights would not have mattered had not Republicans acquiesced in the League of Women Voters' proposal for a vice-presidential debate. Dole, unresponsive to White House advice, rejected an offered practice question — and answer session. But Ford strategists, regarding the debate as an irrelevancy, did not press the point. Dole's absurd disinterest of the Pearl Harbor controversy was made possible by inattention from the President's men.

Today those men ruefully assess the impact of the vice-presidential debate as greater than the three presidential debates combined. (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

THE LION'S DEN
Dr. John MacNeil, a great Scottish preacher, once met a man who derided the idea that Daniel had been miraculously preserved in the lion's den. The next Sunday MacNeil preached a sermon on the career of Daniel which none of his hearers ever forgot.

He declared his firm belief that Daniel had been miraculously rescued, but he further declared that as far as the moral teaching of the story was concerned it made no difference whether Daniel came out of the lion's den alive or not. The important thing was that he had gone in. He could have continued in the king's favor and lived a pleasant life if he had cared to compromise his religious principles.

The choice between comfort with compromise or fidelity with suffering confronts us today as it confronted men thousands of years ago. The ravaging lions we encounter are the temptations to trim our principles for social favor or personal advancement, or to cry "peace, peace," when there is no peace.

The People Were Closer To It

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The black vote, the solid South, the strength of organized labor...all these and many more have been mentioned as reasons why Jimmy Carter snatched the big job from President Ford.

Albert Sindlinger, the researcher, has another reason: Ford tried to tell two-thirds of the American population that things were getting better because one-third of Americans had emerged from the recession.

This, he suggested, must have been received by millions of voters with incredulity and perhaps resentment: "If the President really feels I am doing well," they may have said, "there is little I can expect from him."

The majority of American people, said Sindlinger, do not believe they have recovered from the economy's stumble, and they do not care one whit about those statistics that show an economy gradually improving.

They know, said Sindlinger. In his view, nobody tells the ordinary person anything about what he knows best — that is, the state of his own pocketbook. No, not even the president of the United States.

Sindlinger has claimed throughout this year that most Americans have remained to one degree or another plagued by economic problems. One-third of Americans doing very well, he observes, can distort the general average.

Where does this information come from? From the people themselves. Sindlinger's company, based in Media, Pa., calls 1,100 families each week. Unlike the special election surveys and the straw votes which last for days or weeks or months, his polling goes on seven days a week by telephone, year after year.

The findings aren't based on impressions. Instead, specific questions are asked about jobs, income, business conditions, ability to buy, expectations about the future. Same questions day after day.

On Oct. 7, Sindlinger & Co. reported that a new recession was under way. And long before that he had countered the bullishness of some of the highly publicized indicators by saying the best one of all, the assessment of the people, was falling.

In his opinion — which is based on the opinions he hears expressed over the telephone — a tax cut, as President Ford had promised and President elect Carter has suggested, won't turn the tide. "People would just bank it," he says.

What, then, would help restore the ability of people to buy, and give them confidence to buy? Considering the involved suggestions commonly offered, his reply was remarkably simple: "Lower prices."

Perhaps more offensive to many people was the President's insistence that the job situation was improving when, as the government's statistics showed, unemployment was rising, to 7.9 per cent from 7.3 earlier this year.

Inflation also is very much with us. The Wholesale Price Index rose at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent in October. Like the jobfigure, this too was released immediately after the election.

In Sindlinger's view, the President tried to tell the people something about which they had better information. Instead, he said, they told him.

Three Fires Kill 8 People

By The Associated Press
Eight persons died in three fires in the Southeast on Sunday, four in a Birmingham, Ala., boarding house blaze, three in a mobile home near Lookout Mountain, Ga., and one in a fire at a Marietta, Ga., gasoline station.

Cobb County law enforcement officers said Angela Kay Cardians, 15, was killed Sunday night in a fire in a utility building behind her father's gasoline station.

Police said the girl had crawled through a window into the building, which was used as an office and had a lock on the outside of its door.

The cause of the fire was under investigation.

A Birmingham fire official said a heater ignited bedding, causing the rooming house fire.

Found dead in their second-story bedrooms were 4-year-old Angella Boley; Elet W. Wright, 50; and Don W. Wyatt, 32, said Birmingham fire inspector Bob Young.

Charles Holley, 38, ran from a bedroom on the ground floor but died later in a hospital.

The 55-year-old house was ablaze "from top to bottom, front to back," when firemen arrived, Young said.

The victims of the mobile home fire near Lookout Mountain were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Danny Buckles and their 2-month-old daughter, Amy.

Officers said Bennie Marler Jr., 21, of the Wildwood community, was badly burned when he saved 3-year-old Shawn Buckles and went back to try rescuing the others.

Marler was listed in "fair" condition in a Ft. Oglethorpe hospital Sunday night with burns on his hands, face and neck.

Dade County Sheriff Charles Morgan said cause of the blaze which destroyed the mobile home was unknown.

YDC Celebrated Party's Victories

CHAPEL HILL — The Young Democrats of North Carolina held a victory celebration here this past weekend in honor of Governor-elect Jim Hunt and President-elect Jimmy Carter as well as the other Democratic elected candidates in the state.

The celebration took place during the Young Democrats' annual mini convention, presided over this year by state YD president Carl Darden of Greenville.

The purpose of the convention, according to Darden, was to adopt the Young Democrats platform for 1976-77.

The platform adopted by the organization included planks calling for the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, giving the governor veto power and one term gubernatorial succession, and opposition to the death penalty.

The Young Democrats will lobby at the next session of the general assembly for the gubernatorial veto and succession and ERA, according to the president.

Delegates from Pitt County, voting at the convention included Pitt YD president Noel Robbins, past president Tom Eamon, and past president John Pevette.

Sen. Bill Whichard of Durham County delivered the keynote address.

Greenville attorney Tom Taft served as chairman of the mini convention, attended by some 300 Young Democrats throughout the state.

N.J. Post For James O. Page

James O. Page, former chief of the Office of Emergency Medical Services for the State of North Carolina has been named executive director of the ACT (advanced coronary treatment) Foundation with offices in Bridgewater, N.J.

Page, a former battalion fire chief with the Los Angeles County Fire Department and technical advisor and script writer for the television program "Emergency", most recently has served as director of an emergency medical services project in Western New York state.

The ACT Foundation, supported by many of the nation's leading pharmaceutical manufacturers, including Burroughs-Wellcome Co., has as its goal the improvement of emergency medical services and the inspiration of citizens to learn to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

Arrested 5 On Charges

WINTERVILLE — Five persons were arrested for drug related charges and one case of vandalism was reported by the Winterville Police Department over the weekend.

According to Police Chief G. I. Jones, Angela Fay Garris of Greenville was charged with possession and transporting tax paid whiskey with the seal broken, simple possession of marijuana, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, driving 50 m.p.h. in a 35 m.p.h. zone and driving under the influence Friday night when the car she was operating was stopped for speeding on Cooper Street. Also charged with simple possession of marijuana were Jeffrey Barwick of Ayden, Jo Ann Covington of Winterville and two juveniles. The five persons were released under bond.

Four tires were slashed at the home of G. W. Williams Sunday morning. Two of the tires were Williams' personal vehicle and two tires were on a Winterville Police Department vehicle. Chief Jones estimated the damage at $200 for the four tires. Investigation is continuing.

Alumnae Assist Santa Project

The Greenville Alumnae Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority met at the home of Rebbe Crandol Saturday.

Tokens of cheer were collected by Patricia Johnson for Operation Santa Claus, a project of the Pitt County Mental Health Association to provide gifts for Pitt County residents of state mental hospitals. Plans to remember residents of rest homes and nursing homes in Pitt County were made.

United States Senator Jesse Helms will be the guest speaker at the Twenty First Annual Meeting of Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors from the Northeastern (Area V) of North Carolina Tuesday, November 9. The meeting will be held at the Moose Lodge in Greenville at 6:30 p.m. Lloyd Bunch of Edenton, Area V Chairman, will preside at the meeting.

Sen. Helms took office on January 3, 1973. He is the first Republican elected to the United States Senate from North Carolina in this century. He is a member of the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry; the Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs; and the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations.

The Northeastern Area V Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts from 20 counties will have 600 people at the dinner meeting, according to Chairman Lloyd Bunch. The invocation will be by Rev. John Farmer, Pastor of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. Entertainment will be music by the Melody Makers of Black Jack. Greenville Mayor Percy Cox will extend the welcome. United States Congressman Walter B. Jones will also address the meeting. Guests will be recognized by Ralph C. Tucker, Soil Supervisor from Pitt County.

Reports will be presented by Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh, State Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service; Joseph L. Williams of Rose Hill, President of the State Association of Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors; S. Grady Lane of Raleigh, Director of the North Carolina State Soil and Water Commission; and Mrs. Joseph L. Williams, President of the State Association's Ladies Auxiliary. Senator Helms will be introduced by Robert G. Little of Grimesland, Chairman of Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District which is hosting the meeting.

Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Area V are: Albemarle District (Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Pasquotank, and Perquimans Counties); Beaufort District; Bertie District; Edgecombe District; Fishing Creek District (Halifax County); Gates District; Hertford District; Martin District; Nash District; Northampton District; Pamlico District (Dare, Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington Counties); Pitt District; and Wilson District.

Pork Barbecue and fried chicken will be served at the dinner-meeting.

Voices Regret For Depiction

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, expressed his regret to Mayor Takeshi Araki over a recent show in Texas simulating the atomic attack on Hiroshima in 1945.

"Many Americans, including myself, regretted that such a show was held while stockpiling of nuclear weapons was continuing," Gravel told the mayor Sunday. Hiroshima was the first city in World War II to suffer an atomic attack.

During the meeting, Gravel said he would cooperate with the mayor in his campaign for a total nuclear weapons ban when he visits the United Nations late this month.

Gravel was visiting Japan as a member of an Alaskan trade mission.

Hunt Promises No Widescale State Job Shakeups

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Many Democrats in top and lower level state jobs were bounced after Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser took office in 1973, but Gov.-elect Jim Hunt has promised he won't go that deep.

Patronage jobs are part of the political process and rewards of being governor.

Some North Carolina governors have wielded a heavier hand than others in handing out appointments.

Just how far Hunt will go in replacing personnel is not quite certain, but it won't be a wholesale house cleaning.

"He is definitely going to have his team in there," said Gary Pearce, Hunt's campaign press aide. "He will have his staff and top level of the departments how ever deep that is. But there won't be any wholesale cleaning out."

Pearce said the last four years of the Republican administration "created an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty among state employees. People can't work in a situation like that."

He added, "If state employees are not in a top policy making position and are doing a good job, they'll stay."

Hunt wants his team in the "important jobs."

Pearce said the governor-elect hopes to have his department heads appointed "and ready to go when he is inaugurated." Several appointments may come next month.

Hunt, who scored a lopsided victory over Republican David Flaherty, has at least one government reorganizational change in mind.

"He talked during the campaign of splitting up the Department of Natural and Economic Resources," Pearce pointed out. "He wants to take Economic Development and put it in the Department of Commerce under a board similar to the old Conservation and Development Board. That's the only way we're going to get economic development back in the front seat."

A Democratic controlled General Assembly will be awaiting Hunt and the program he plans to offer for the first two years of his term.

Interviews with legislative leaders show that the lawmakers are anxious to get to work on his programs and some proposals that have been lying dormant for the last four years.

The 65 per cent vote Hunt received in the election is regarded by legislative leaders as strong public support for the proposals he advocated in the campaign.

Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, who is expected to be elected speaker of the House, predicted "an active and productive session." He said, "We literally have scores of bills and proposals waiting in the departments of state government which have been lying dormant the last four years and which will now be resurrected and sent over to the General Assembly."

Stewart said he looks for a six-to-seven-month 1977 session because there are "so many things to be done." This will be followed, he said, by a session of about three months in 1978.

"I just don't think the governor can get all of his proposals through the legislative process in the first six months of 1977," Stewart said. He noted it will be necessary to review the budget and consider important new proposals the second year of the biennium.

Holshouser had difficulties with the legislature. They didn't see eye to eye on certain things. Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, summed it up by saying, "You can't agree on priorities with opposing parties. What we (Democrats) may consider the No.1 priority, he (Holshouser) may consider No. 17. You really have a hard job to do when you've got it like that."

"I don't think there's any doubt that the legislature and executive branch have been at each other's throats in the past four years," said Stewart. "There's great relief that that's past and there's great exuberance."

State Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, said that in the past four years "the legislature has had to operate in a vacuum." He thinks Hunt will be "sending over something new all the time."

Sen. Wesley Webster, D-Rockingham, predicted the legislature will approve Hunt's programs.

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — A collision of two Seaboard Coast Line freight trains here Sunday injured two men and caused a derailment, authorities said.

Joseph Merrill, 56, of Rocky Mount, and Jerry Brown, 45, of Stantonburg, were injured in the 10:30 a.m. accident, according to local rescue squad workers.

A spokesman for Wilson Memorial Hospital said Sunday night that Brown was in fair condition. The spokesman said Merrill was not admitted.

Merrill reportedly was engineer of one of the trains but it was not known what Brown's job was or whether the men were in the same car.

Seaboard officials would say only that a wrecker was summoned from Rocky Mount and the wreckage was expected to be cleared late Sunday night.

Company officials, police and firemen were summoned to the scene of the accident, which was about 50 yards from a bridge over four-lane U.S. 301.

Authorities said two box cars which slid over an embankment stopped short of a natural gas company site where propane gas tanks had been placed in the open.

Preliminary reports indicated one train was passing the second train which was standing idle on a sidetrack when one engine apparently sideswiped the other.

Firemen began spraying one wrecked engine because it was leaking diesel fuel, and straw was ordered spread over the area to soak up the fuel.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Getting out of Richmond with a victory was something Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina was glad to do Saturday.

Beating the Spiders hasn't been easy for him. It was his first win over the former Southern Conference rival in his three years at East Carolina. That leaves only Appalachian State as a thorn in his side.

The win came, appropriately enough, on Dye's 37th birthday. It was, by the way, Richmond Coach Jim Tait's 41st birthday, too.

After the game was over, the team presented him with the game ball, a birthday cake, and a victory shower. After getting the ball, Dye suggested that it be given to Reggie Pinkney, to "let him hold it for a while."

It was a good-natured jab at Pinkney, who had intercepted a pass and returned it 98 yards, only to fumble it just prior to stepping into the end zone. It went for a touchback for Richmond.

"I felt the ball slipping and I was trying to get a better grip on it," Pinkney said afterwards. "I didn't know where I was until the official said I was on the two when I lost it."

Quarterback Mike Weaver also thought it was a touchdown. Weaver holds for extra points, and when he saw Reggie break into the clear and knew there was no stopping him, he turned and picked up the kicking tee, and trotted out to his place. "The official put the ball down on the two, and I asked him if he hadn't misplaced the ball. (It goes on the three for PATs.) I didn't know til then that it hadn't been a touchdown."

"We made it difficult on ourselves all day," Dye said in afterthought. I'm just happy to be standing here a winner. Richmond has a very good team and they had a good plan on offense and defense."

Dye said the Bucs had a lapse in the second period on defense and that helped the Spiders. "We were more aggressive and played harder."

"It was very frustrating, some of the things that happened out there," the coach said. "I don't ever like to say anything about the officials, but we never got a call until the game was decided. We were playing 16 men out there today. But I thought our team showed real class under the conditions. They could have easily lost their composure with the way things were happening."

Turning to Pinkney's long run with the interception, Dye noted: "The officials said he was juggling the ball when he got in the end zone and did not have control of the ball, and then lost it out of bounds. But I want to know how you can run 100 yards with the ball and not have control of it."

The win, however, was sweet, and could have been much worse. If Pinkney's score had been good, it would have put the Bucs up at least 13-0. Then, a short time later, the Bucs fumbled at the Spider 19. A touchdown there could have put it out of reach.

East Carolina needs to win only one of their remaining two games to get one of the goals they have for the year—winning the Southern Conference championship.

They want this badly. William & Mary's win over Appalachian State put the Pirates into a situation where a victory over Furman Saturday would end the title race.

But getting it will not be easy. Furman has a good team—they tied Appalachian and beat William & Mary. And the Paladins have always been up for the Pirates.

Should be some kind of game.

Shue Says 76ers Will Get Better

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers are supposed to be one of the heavyweights in the National Basketball Association this season — but so far, they haven't been knocking out too many opponents.

Despite the 1-2 punch of Julius Erving and George McGinnis, the 76ers have been taking it on the chin recently, and Sunday night, they suffered a 98-91 loss to the Seattle SuperSonics.

"I'm not worried about our performances in our last two games, we'll straighten out," said optimistic Gene Shue, the Philadelphia coach.

The 76ers, whose acquisition of Erving from the New York Nets earlier this season gave them two of the best forwards in basketball, have a modest 4-4 record thus far. Sunday night's loss was their second straight on a current road trip. They were roughly handled by the Portland Trail Blazers Friday night, losing by 40 points.

Shue dismissed the losses with no detection of panic.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the surprising Portland Trail Blazers continued their early-season success with a 119-93 decision over the New York Knicks; the Atlanta Hawks handed the Cleveland Cavaliers their first loss of the season with a 107-97 beating; the Los Angeles Lakers stopped the Kansas City Kings 107-96, and the Detroit Pistons defeated the New Orleans Jazz 115-107.

Leonard Gray scored 23 points, nine in the final period, as Seattle held off Philadelphia. Gray's layup with 25 seconds remaining put the Sonics safely ahead 96-91. Philadelphia, topped by McGinnis' 24 points, trailed by as many as 18 points at one stage.

Blazers 119, Knicks 93

Portland outscored New York 38-12 in the first 11 minutes of the third quarter and rolled past the Knicks. Lionel Hollins and Bob Gross each scored 22 points for the Blazers as they won their fourth game in a row and solidified their lead in the Pacific Division. The Trail Blazers have a 6-1 record, all six victories coming at home.

Hawks 107, Cavaliers 97
John Drew scored 26 points, leading Atlanta over Cleveland, snapping the Cavaliers' eight-game winning streak. Austin Carr was top scorer for Cleveland with 23 points.

Lakers 107, Kings 96
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar pulled down 24 rebounds and pumped in 24 points to lead Los Angeles over Kansas City. The Lakers, trailing 49-45 at halftime, put together a hot-shooting third quarter to take control of the contest.

Pistons 115, Jazz 107
Bob Lanier scored 30 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead Detroit over New Orleans.

Recreation Soccer

The Rowdies defeated the Cosmos finished the year with a 2-5-2 record. Steve Midget scored two goals for the Hotshots and Bryan Hicks added another to lead them over the Kicks. Tim Sullivan scored the Kicks only goal.

The Kicks, who finished second, dropped a 3-1 decision to the Hotshots.

The score of the Rowdies-Cosmos game was tied 2-2 at the end of regulation play. William White scored both the Cosmos goals and Jeff Jordan and Kirk Berry scored goals for the Rowdies.

In a sudden death overtime, Jeff Jordan scored on a penalty kick to win the game for the Rowdies.

Christmas Comes To Dye On His 37th Birthday

By MARSHALL JOHNSON, AP Sports Writer

Christmas came early for East Carolina football Coach Pat Dye in more ways than one — and on his 37th birthday.

While Dye was less than happy with the officiating in his Pirates' 20-10 victory Saturday over Richmond, he couldn't complain about the Spiders' generosity — five lost fumbles and two pass interceptions in a game marred by 13 turnovers.

But the most important gift was provided by William & Mary's Indians, a 23-22 squeeze past Appalachian State's Mountaineers that all but handed East Carolina the Southern Conference championship.

The Pirates are 3-0 and can wrap up the title this weekend by winning at Furman. If they slip up there, there's still the season finale at home against the Mountaineers, 2-1-1.

William & Mary, now 6-3 overall in a season in which the Indians were picked to lose every game, had to share the spotlight with Virginia Military's resurgent Keydets, who were 1-5 three weeks ago.

The Keydets made it three straight with a 30-14 romp over The Citadel's Bulldogs and climbed to fourth place in the league standings at 2-3. The Citadel fell to 1-3 in the league and 5-4 overall.

Only new member Western Carolina was successful of the four title-ineligible teams. The Catamounts closed out a 6-4 season with a 38-6 rout of Lehigh Rhyne.

New member Tennessee-Chattanooga, 4-4, was mauled by Louisiana Tech 49-7; New member Marshall, 5-4, lost to Villanova 23-10; and Davidson, 2-4-1, was humiliated by Delaware 63-0.

The passing of sophomore Tom Rozantz, the running of junior Jim Kruis and a missed field goal with 56 seconds left by All-Southern place kicker Gary Davis were the ingredients in William & Mary's victory that dropped Appalachian to 6-3-1 overall.

Rozantz hit seven of 14 passes for 98 yards, including scoring strikes of 17 and 38 yards to Ken Cloud, and Kruis ran 24 times for 100 yards. Keith Fimian had 78 yards and one touchdown and Bill Watson kicked a 27-yard field goal for the Indians.

Appalachian, once down 17-7, went ahead 22-17 in the third period on scoring runs of one and 54 yards by John Craig, who finished with 103 yards. After Rozantz passed the Indians back to the lead, he fumbled at his 34 to give Davis his shot at the game winner. But the kick was wide to the right. "The official said it missed, so it missed. The best team on the field won," said Appalachian coach Jim Brakefield.

The Indians in one stretch lost two fumbles and an interception, and coach Jim Root said, "We made enough errors on offense to blow it, but the kids kept coming back. The defense was just great."

Sophomore Robbie Clark threw scoring passes of eight yards to Johnny Garnett and six yards to Steve Oddi, and freshman Craig Jones kicked three field goals for VMI. Tailback Andre Gibson's 100 yards on 21 carries included a 19-yard run that wrapped up the scoring.

Despite 194 passing yards by sophomore Marty Crosby, The Citadel got its two scores on a blocked punt and a 52-yard run by Lonnie Ford, whose fumble set up VMI's first touchdown. "Our quarterback is getting better and better, but so is the entire offense. Our people are just getting better and executing," said VMI coach Bob Thalman. "This is a gutsy team. Folks counted us out when we were 1-5, but this squad has guts."

Bulldog Coach Bobby Ross said, "I thought we played terrible, and I have no explanation. This is the most disappointing loss of my coaching career. I'm going to examine myself and the job I'm doing."

Dye wanted to examine the officials at Richmond, especially after Reggie Pinkney picked off a Spider pass, ran the length of the field and then was ruled to have juggled the ball and lost possession just before he went into the end zone. It was called a touchback.

"I want to know how you can run 100 yards with the ball and not have control of it," said Dye, whose Pirates — now 8-1 overall — were hit for 95 yards on eight penalties.

After the two teams traded touchdowns, Johnnie Jones gave the Spiders a 10-7 halftime lead with a 45-yard field goal. But a Richmond fumble at the Pirates' 19 later turned into disaster, and Mike Weaver hit Clay Burnett on a 51-yard pass play for East Carolina.

The long strike set up Raymond Jones' one-yard go ahead scoring run, and Weaver iced it with his second touchdown, an 18-yard run in the final period.

"The offensive turnovers just killed us. You can't miss a field goal, throw interceptions at the goal line — you just can't do those things against a good football team," said Richmond coach Jim Tait.

It was Dye's first victory in three tries against Richmond, although he said, "We made it difficult on ourselves all day. I thought the last two years that Richmond beat us physically, and today I thought it was the other way around."

PGA Rookies Take On Veterans—And Win

By BOB GREEN, AP Golf Writer

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Bill Kratzert, a raw rookie on the pro golf tour, stood in the middle of the fairway facing perhaps the most important shot of his young career.

He and partner Woody Blackburn were on the third hole of sudden death playoff against a couple of titled veterans, former Masters champion Gay Brewer and former PGA king Bobby Nichols. At stake was the title in the National Team Golf Championship, $40,000 and — for the rookies — an exemption from qualifying for next year.

Brewer had just put his approach four feet from the cup and appeared set for a sure birdie, probably the end of the playoff.

"I just got over the ball," Kratzert said. "It's a muscle-memory thing. I hit it. I knew it was close. The crowd yelled."

The crowd yelled because Kratzert, still wearing sunglasses despite the gathering darkness, had hit it inside Brewer. He'd put it about six inches from the cup with the five iron.

Nichols missed his putt from about 18 feet and Kratzert opted to putt next. He tapped in for birdie. And Brewer, his 44-year-old nerves twitching in the growing pressure, needed to make it from four feet to stay alive. And he missed.

"Dog-gone it, I missed two short putts and that cost us the tournament," the bitterly-disappointed Brewer said.

The four-footer on the third playoff hole was one of them. The other came on the final hole of regulation play.

He'd made a six-footer for birdie on the 71st hole to give him and Nichols the lead alone with one hole to go. Kratzert and Blackburn had finished. Nichols and Brewer needed only one more par to do it and, since the scoring in this unique event is based on the better ball of each two-man team, they had two chances at it.

But Nichols drove into the woods and lost his ball.

"Probably the most stupid thing I've ever done," he said.

Brewer also drove into the rough then put his approach into deep grass on the lip of a bunker. He hit a great chip to about six feet, studied and stalked it as if it were a coiled rattler and finally stroked it. It was short.

Surprises, Mistakes Abound In NFL

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

There were almost as many surprises as there were mistakes in National Football League action Sunday.

It started with O.J. Simpson getting thrown out of a game for fighting. It continued when a referee apparently cost the Chicago Bears a victory, and went further with a premature touchdown celebration by a Minnesota receiver. Then it was capped with Seattle's 30-13 victory over Atlanta, the first by an expansion team over one of the NFL establishment.

Simpson, in his eighth season as Buffalo's premier running back, traded swings with New England defensive end Mel Lunsford in the first quarter of the Patriots' 20-10 victory over the Bills.

they recovered from a fumble by receiver Sammy White, who began celebrating a touchdown before he reached the end zone.

After hauling in a Fran Tarkenton pass and breaking behind the defense, White hoisted the ball above his head — only to fumble it when hit by Detroit's Lem Barney on the Lions' three-yard line.

McKay smoldered after Denver, 5-4, exploded for 38 second-half points against his 0-9 Buccaneers. He refused to shake hands with Broncos Coach John Ralston when the game ended, accusing Denver of running up statistics against his injured expansionists.

Miami's defense under Coach Bill Arnsparger helped the Dolphins, 9-4, beat the Jets, 2-7.

Steelers 45, Chiefs 0

"We don't start playing for a shutout until the two-minute warning," insisted Pittsburgh defensive tackle Joe Green. The Steelers, 5-4 and charging after a 1-4 start, recorded their third shutout in a row by whacking the Chiefs, 3-6.

It was the first shutout against Kansas City in 179 regular season games since 1963.

"The whistle had blown and the play was definitely over when that guy slung me down on my head," Simpson said after the first ejection of his career. "I don't mind taking legal shots, but I'm going to let the man know when it's not a legal shot."

The Bears remained in their game throughout, but lost 28-2 to Oakland because an "inadvertent whistle" by referee Chuck Heberling cost them a touchdown.

Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler had gone back to pass but was hit by Chicago's Wally Chambers. The ball popped loose, was scooped up by Roger Stillewell and returned 50 yards for what appeared to be a Bears touchdown.

In the other NFL games, the Miami Dolphins blasted the New York Jets 27-7, the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Philadelphia Eagles 17-14, the Green Bay Packers nipped the New Orleans Saints 32-27 and the Pittsburgh Steelers walloped the Kansas City Chiefs 45-0.

Also, the Dallas Cowboys clipped the winless New York Giants 9-3, the Cleveland Browns bested the Houston Oilers 21-7, the Denver Broncos blitzed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 48-13, the Baltimore Colts downed the San Diego Chargers 37-21, and the Washington Redskins got past the San Francisco 49ers, 24-21.

Both teams are 6-3.

Seahawks 30, Falcons 13

Seattle, with the National Conference's worst defense, recovered two Falcons fumbles and picked off four passes in beating Atlanta, 2-7.

The expansion Seahawks, 2-7, collected two touchdowns within 18 seconds in the second period.

Raiders 28, Bears 27

Though Ken Stabler threw three touchdown passes, including two to Cliff Branch of Oakland, 8-1 — and despite the referee's mistake — the Bears, 4-5, still had a chance to win with 15 seconds left when Bob Thomas attempted a 31-yard field goal. The kick hit the upright and bounced back onto the field.

Cowboys 9, Giants 3

The Giants displayed a defense that belies their 0-9 record, holding an admittedly flat Dallas team to 257 yards total offense. New York missed a chance to win in the closing minutes when they lost a fumble on the Dallas five-yard line.

This game, too, featured an oddity. The Packers were awarded a safety when New Orleans guard Terry Stieve was called for clipping defensive tackle Mike McCoy in the end zone during a scramble by the seven with 4:47 remaining

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FINDS — Trapezoidal forms in windows found in structures discovered by Bolivian archaeologists in the ruins of what they believe to be a previously unknown culture that existed 500 years ago and whose architecture was based on the trapezoid. (AP Wirephoto)

Odd Trapezoidal Ruins Found By Archaeologists In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Archeologists have uncovered the trapezoid-shaped ruins of what they say is a previously unknown culture that disappeared some 500 years ago.

"We've come across an extremely original form of architecture and we still don't know how it developed," said Carlos Ponce Sanjines, director of the National Institute of Archaeology.

The institute is showing an exhibit of photographs of the ruins of Iskanaway, a citadel discovered in mountainous jungle about 190 miles north of La Paz. The pictures show clearly the dominance of trapezoid-shaped buildings, doors and floors.

"This is something completely new in archeology,"

Ponce Sanjines said. A trapezoid has four sides, but only two of them are parallel. For centuries the rectangle has been the basis for most architecture.

Iskanaway covers about 34 acres and is among the largest pre-Hispanic citadels in South America, rivaling in size the Inca stronghold of Machu Picchu in Peru, Ponce Sanjines said. He said the citadel was the center of a "collectivist-styled" community of some 3,001 persons.

Scientists estimate that there was a population of about 10,000 at Iskanaway and neighboring citadels. The culture flourished from about 1200 to 1480, and drought and starvation may have been responsible for its disappearance.

The Iskanaway citadel was built on the eastern slopes of the Andes at about the 5,000-foot level. It was surrounded by terraces 10 to 45 feet wide used for growing grain and for supporting houses. Aqueducts up to two miles long watered the crops.

Ponce Sanjines said in an interview that extremely careful calculations went into the construction of the houses, but nobody can explain the use of the trapezoid. He said using right angles would have been much easier.

"We're having to study the structures slowly to see whether the culture based its architecture on some rare geometric conception, or whether it was based upon the climate or other characteristics of the region," he said. "Perhaps it's a combination of factors."

Death Uncovers 2 Families Left By Man In S. Dakota

By CHARLOTTE PORTER Associated Press Writer SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — When South Dakota's director of economic development died three weeks ago, he left a wife and four children in Pierre. He also left a wife and five children less than 200 miles away in Sioux Falls.

Bob Martin's double home life surfaced because attorneys for both families inquired about his estate after he died of a heart attack on Oct. 16 at the age of 52.

State Atty. Gen. William Janklow confirmed the arrangement Sunday and said an investigation was under way, although he said he had "mixed feelings" about it.

"All it's going to do is wreck the innocent kids. And on top of it, their father's dead," he said.

Patricia Martin, the Sioux Falls wife, said Sunday that she did not know there were two families. Someday, she said, she would like to talk to the wife in Pierre.

"I feel very sorry for her also," she said. "It was just as much a shock to her."

Mary Lou Martin, the wife in Pierre, was asked Sunday about the situation, and said:

"This is not fact." She declined further comment, and her attorney, Gary Colwill, said he planned to file for the estate on Monday. He said he had been unable to find a will.

Jack Allmon, who as South Dakota's secretary of economic and tourism development was Martin's boss, described him as a reserved and quiet man who didn't socialize much. But Allmon added that he knew the family in Pierre, and he described it as "very close."

It's not known when Martin married the Pierre woman, but the youngest of their children was said to be about 12 years old.

Allmon said a son in the Pierre family had worked in the state tourism department the last two summers.

Martin traveled frequently between Pierre — the state capital — and Sioux Falls, where his division was headquartered. He maintained an office in Pierre.

Attorney Steven Jorgensen, who represents the Sioux Falls wife, said she married Martin in 1968. He said he had not been able to find the marriage license. The youngest child of that marriage reportedly is 14 months old.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cold weather is due today in the East and cool weather will stay over the Plains and mild conditions are expected to continue from the Rockies to the west. Rain is forecast for the upper Great Lakes. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press There was frost — perhaps a bit of snow — on the pumpkins and anything else unlucky enough to be outside this morning. As temperatures dipped into the 20s in Western North Carolina and low 30s elsewhere in the state, snow flurries brought out the road crews in the Boone area.

A spokesman for the Watauga County Sheriff's Department said the flurries turned mountain roads white, but there was no real accumulation to create any traffic problems.

Brisk winds that kept the temperatures from warming very much today will diminish tonight as high pressure settles over the state. This will allow the mercury to bottom out into the 20s across the state by Tuesday morning.

Tuesday's weather looks brighter. The center of cold air will have moved off the coast giving a return flow of warmer southerly winds for North Carolina. The warming trend is expected to hold into Thursday. Cool weather will again enter the weather scene by the end of the week.

Hopeful Over

New Emphasis

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Former Black Panther Party spokesman Eldridge Cleaver says he's optimistic about Jimmy Carter's presidency because the President-elect seems to emphasize people and not corporations.

Cleaver, a 1968 candidate for president on the radical Peace and Freedom party ticket, said Sunday his political views have changed considerably since his days as the Panthers' minister of information.

Cleaver, who faces charges stemming from a 1968 shootout with Oakland, Calif., police, recently returned to this country after eight years of exile. He was here to speak at the University of Connecticut, and made the comments at a news conference.

Rep. Bundy To Raleigh Meets

State Rep. Sam D. Bundy has announced his schedule for a portion of this month.

Thursday and Friday he will attend meetings of the Advisory Budget Commission in Raleigh. Friday night he will address the York Rite Masons in Goldsboro during their Ladies' night.

Saturday he will speak at the district Ruritan Convention in Eureka. Sunday will speak at a bicentennial program at the Christian Church in Jasper in Craven County.

Doc Severinson Still Practices On His Horn Daily

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few weeks ago, millions of viewers might have thought a chap named Muffin Calhoun on ABC's "Bionic Woman" looked suspiciously like Doc Severinson. Their suspicions were right.

What action do you take?

A.—Partner's response and East's overall have improved your hand significantly, and you surely want to commit your side to game even if partner has minimal values for his action. The way to get your message across is with a cue-bid of the opponents' suit. Should partner have hearts, a slam is not out of the question even if partner has nothing but five good hearts.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—Two diamonds. As we have discussed on several occasions, a bid of two hearts would tend to suggest a six-card suit, rather than a good five-carder. You should simply continue to describe your hand pattern, and the best way to do this is to show your second suit, thereby implying an unbalanced hand.

A.—One spade. You have the strength for a jump, but you don't know where you want to play the contract so you shouldn't crowd the auction. You could have slam in one of three suits, and you will need room to probe. As far as strength goes, your hand qualifies for a jump to three no trump, but we believe that bid should be reserved for hands with a 4-3-3-3 pattern, to avoid missing a slam in a second suit.

Q.7—As South, dealer and vulnerable, you hold:
♠K95 ♠KJ82 ♠AQ6 ♠AK8
What is your opening bid?

A.—You have an opening bid facing an opening bid, so you should be in game. Since partner has a rebiddable heart suit, we wouldn't fault you for jumping to four hearts—your trump support is now adequate. However, we feel that a rebid of two spades is more flexible for it may allow you to reach a superior no trump game.

A.—You are too strong for one no trump but not good enough for two no trump, so we won't fault you if you opened one heart—your suit is biddable. However, experience shows that it is better to open with a convenient bid of one club to facilitate a response from partner and your own rebid.

What action do you take?

A.—Normally, when partner redoubles after a takeout double, he requests that you give him the courtesy of the road over the opponents' action, since he may want to double. However, with your unbalanced hand and relatively scant defensive values, you are not really interested in defending against two clubs doubled. You can convey this to partner by bidding two diamonds immediately.

A.—Partner has shown a balanced hand of some 25 points that contains a five-card heart suit. A simple matter of arithmetic tells you that you have at least 34 HCP in the combined hands, so six no trump is the standard bid—after all, you both have balanced hands, so why risk an adverse ruff or a bad trump break.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as

It was Doc. But the 49-year-old trumpeter and leader of the big, swinging band on NBC's "Tonight" show has no plans to abandon the horn he's played since childhood and take up play-acting in adulthood. "If some other part I'd enjoy doing came along, I'd do it," says the good doctor, whose previous acting experience was a "Love, American Style" show years ago. "But I'd certainly never give up my music." Doc, whose Christian name is Carl, may strike viewers as the late-hour clown prince of music with his flashy "Tonight" threads, his dead-pan sallies with Johnny Carson and the occasional crossing of his eyes after he hits C above high C during a rousing band number. But he's been dead serious about music ever since his father, a dentist in Arlington, Ore., and an excellent violinist, bought him his first trumpet almost 40 years ago. At the ripe old age of 17, even before he'd graduated from high school, he was a featured trumpeter in Ted Fiorito's band, pulling down, he says, $90 a week, which was pretty good bread for his age. After high school and the Army, he graduated into the trumpet sections of the powerhouse bands led by Charlie Barnet, Benny Goodman and Tommy Dorsey. In 1949, at age 22, he became an NBC staff musician. It's even more of a feat when you consider that Doc had no musical schooling in the academic sense, most of his training coming from big bands and a New York teacher named Benny Baker. He cites Baker's intensive training as "probably one of the reasons I didn't go to music school because I put in much more concentrated study with him. "And hell, I had to support myself and a family," said Doc, who has five kids. "College was a luxury I couldn't quite afford."

creative or different. Alas, he says a bit wistfully, his old middle-of-the-road image still persists in the minds of record buyers, even though he's been hard at work trying to go from MOR to mod. Last year, he cut a kind of disco-jazz album called "Night Journey," eight of its nine songs co-authored by him. He says it was anything but mood music. "But that's still what a lot of people thought it was, even down to the album cover," he added. "That's why they (the record company) redid the cover, because some stores put it in among the mood music. "But it really focused more on a black rhythm-and-blues audience. In fact, that's where I got practically all of my air-play, on r-and-b radio stations. "A lot of black people came up and said, 'Man, I didn't know you were into that.' But that's where I really started. "The first really important band I played with was Charlie Barnet — it was a (racially) mixed band at a time mixed was in parenthesis — and I heard the roots of all this stuff." Doc, legendary as a musician who can sight-read the most difficult arrangements and play them perfectly the first time out, still practices at least two hours a day, despite his success on the "Tonight" show.

N.C. Weekend Accidents Claimed Thirteen Lives

By The Associated Press
Thirteen persons were killed in North Carolina traffic accidents during the weekend, pushing the year's toll to 1,235 deaths. Last year's toll in the comparable period was 1,263 deaths.

The Highway Patrol reported at least six persons killed Sunday, including three who died when a car collided with a rescue squad vehicle at a highway intersection in Wayne County.

The patrol said a Goldsboro rescue squad vehicle driven by Kenneth Lee Davis, 28, of Goldsboro, was struck by a car driven by Dennis N. Reeves, 17, of Pikeville. Both men were killed along with David A. Williams, 21, of Snow Hill, a passenger in the Reeves vehicle.

Two other rescue squad members were injured in the crash. They reportedly were returning from a false alarm call in the rural area at the time of the accident.

The accident occurred three miles north of Goldsboro.

Viola Dixon Heard, 31, of Greensboro, also was killed Sunday when a car crossed a median and struck her car head-on. The accident occurred in Greensboro.

Another Sunday accident took the life of Terry Wayne Owenby, 11, of Oakley, who was killed when he was struck by a car on a rural road near Fletcher.

Thomas Albert Lehberg, 21, of Wilmington, was killed on U. S. 421 one mile north of Wilmington when his car hit a dog, swerved off the road and overturned.

Elijah Dunston, 29, of Louisville, was killed Saturday night when his car went out of control and overturned on a rural paved road four miles south of Louisville.

Donna Kay Hicks, 16, of Banner Elk, died Saturday night when the car in which she was a passenger ran off a rural paved road and plunged down an embankment nine miles west of Creston in Ashe County.

An Oxford man, Ralph Crews, 27, was killed Saturday night when he was thrown from a vehicle on a rural paved road four miles east of Creedmore.

Teresa Marie Cobb, 16, of Charlotte, was killed Friday night when the vehicle she was driving went out of control in Charlotte, struck a utility pole and overturned several times.

Michael Lance Moreno, 18, of Jacksonville, was killed Friday night when he was thrown from his car on U.S. 17, just north of Jacksonville. The patrol said the car struck a curb and went out of control.

A Hertford man died early Saturday in a one-car accident on a rural paved road six miles east of Edenton. He was identified as Roy Lee Jones, 20. The patrol said Jones was riding in a car that ran off the road, hit an embankment and overturned.

Michael W. Sebastian, 21, of Winston-Salem, was killed early Saturday when two cars collided on N.C. 67 about four miles north of Winston-Salem.

Jose Iturbi, 80, Both Pianist And Conductor

By DOLORES BARCLAY Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — His chin grazed his chest. The Spanish-born pianist lowered his arm and sprang into the allegro of Mozart's "Piano Concerto in D Minor" with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

It is not unusual for a musician to both play and conduct. But it is special when the musician is 80 years old and is conducting and playing three concertos in one program. A stamina and agility even some younger artists lack are required. Iturbi doesn't think it's difficult.

"It's something I can't explain," he said later. "I was playing a solo, sustained a chord and then cut off myself. So it's somebody else who plays — it's a dual personality."

He is a small, slightly pudgy man with silver hair and a quiet manner. His face flushed slightly as he led the Philadelphia Orchestra through Mozart, Mendelssohn, de Falla and his own composition, "Seguidillas."

Iturbi seemed unaware of his surroundings as he worked through intricate fingering patterns, sweeping the keyboard with a feathery touch. Through it all, he confessed the following day, he was plagued with one feeling: nervousness.

After performing in more than 6,000 concerts all over the world, Jose Iturbi still gets butterflies.

"Before, during and a little bit after a performance," he said with a slight chuckle.

"Why? Well if you start to think of all the possibilities of what can go wrong — you can't come back and correct it," he said, as a serious line managed to dart across his otherwise smooth forehead.

"Technically, theoretically, we should have impeccability in a performance. But not in one performance have I gone out on stage and returned and said: 'Ah, it was good.' Never."

After the concert, Iturbi went to a private reception and returned to his hotel suite about 2 a.m. The aging virtuoso practiced until 5 a.m. on the piano.

"We have a certain sap in us," he said. "It is cultivated and developed into a strict discipline. Maybe in a year, I might miss two or three days of practice."

Since the age of 14 when he first conducted in his native Spain, he has led the irregular life of the concert artist.

Once the frenetic pace had little effect on him — he says he could spend a few weeks with sleepless nights, touring and performing. Now, he must take short, afternoon naps.

But the pianist has not succumbed to fatigue. So far this year, he said he has given more than 200 concerts all over the world.

Speakers Bureau Is Offered By ECU

Civic, professional and social organizations in eastern North Carolina who need speakers for planned programs are invited to use the East Carolina University Speakers Bureau.

The Speakers Bureau is coordinated by the ECU Division of Continuing Education, and offers the services of 180 members of the ECU faculty and staff who are prepared to speak on approximately 200 topics of interest to groups.

A listing of speakers and topics is available in the current ECU Speakers Bureau bulletin, which subdivides topics into such categories as business and economics, politics, social welfare, education, fine arts headings, physical science and the environment.

A special section, "Eastern North Carolina: Heritage, Values and Future" lists presentations on the Outer Banks, the Tuscarora Indians, colonial North Carolina society, eastern N.C. folklore, religion in the east, railroad travel, the economy and ecology of the east, social change in the east, bicycling in eastern N.C. as low-cost recreation, and predictions about the region in the year 2000.

All speakers listed with the Speakers Bureau "have expressed interest and willingness to appear before groups to discuss topics in their areas of expertise," said Dr. David Middleton, dean of the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

"The programs vary in length and methods of presentation and many can be adapted to suit the specific purposes of an interested group."

The current Speakers Bureau bulletin is available free of charge upon written request to the Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University.

Gave No Reason For The Colors

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental Congress selected the 13 stars and 13 stripes as the symbol for our nation's first official flag, but apparently never left a record of why it selected red, white and blue.

An explanation was offered in 1782, when the Congress of the Confederation chose the same three colors for the newly designed Great Seal of the United States, according to "World Book Encyclopedia." The resolution on the seal listed meanings for the colors. Red represented hardness and courage. White stood for purity and innocence and blue for vigilance, perseverance and justice.

Bank Losses

ATLANTA (AP) — The future looks brighter for banks in the Southeast, which lost $305.5 million last year on bad loans, their heaviest loan losses since the depression, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reports.

Banks in Florida, Georgia and Tennessee recorded heaviest losses during 1975, accounting for 79 per cent of the total.

Losses due to bad loans this year were twice 1974's $200.6 million loss and three times 1973's $101.6 million.

A report by the Federal Reserve's 6th district headquarters said the losses were due to increased lending for real estate development, especially apartments, condominiums and commercial properties.

The highest loss ratio in the district was that of seven large Tennessee banks which charged off an average 2.04 per cent. Most district banks wrote off an average 1.19 per cent of their loans last year.

The report said Tennessee's situation was strongly influenced by two large banks with losses in excess of 3.5 per cent, one of which failed.

Lowest loss ratios were reported by small and medium size banks in Mississippi and Louisiana.

"Tight credit standards and an improving economy should boost the quality of new loans" that banks in the region are making, the report said.

RESOLUTION NO. 317
A RESOLUTION DECLARING THE PART OF THE CITY OF GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, TO BE CLOSED TO TRAFFIC AND TO BE ABUTTING THE SEABOARD COAST LINE RAILROAD, LOCATED WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CITY OF GREENVILLE, PURSUANT TO PROVISIONS OF G.S. 160A-299

WHEREAS, application has been made by the City of Greenville, North Carolina, for the closing of a portion of the street within the City of Greenville, North Carolina as hereinafter described,

AND WHEREAS, the Planning and Zoning Board of the City of Greenville considered the withdrawal from dedication and closing of said street at its regular October, 1976, meeting and at said meeting recommended that said street be withdrawn from dedication and closing;

AND WHEREAS, it is the intention of this Council to conduct a hearing at the regularly scheduled December 2, 1976, meeting of the City Council in order to permit any person who may desire to object to the closing of said street to be heard on the question of whether or not the closing would be detrimental to the public interest, or the property rights of any individual;

AND WHEREAS, that portion of Pollard Street proposed to be closed is described as follows:

Location: Located at the east end of Pollard Street north of the West Hill Webb Grain Storage facility and abutting the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad; the right-of-way line of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, approximately 140 feet to the eastern right-of-way line of Pollard Street; thence, northerly, along the eastern right-of-way line of Pollard Street, approximately 430 feet to a point in said right-of-way line; thence, westerly, along the northern right-of-way line of Pollard Street, approximately 729 feet to a point in the right-of-way line; said point being located where the eastern right-of-way line of Jule Street intersects the northern right-of-way line of Pollard Street; the eastern right-of-way line of Jule Street were projected to the northern right-of-way line of Pollard Street; thence, southerly, crossing Pollard Street, approximately 30 feet to the southern right-of-way line of Pollard Street, the point of BEGINNING.

Containing approximately 4.4 of an acre.

This description prepared by C. A. Howell, Engineer, City of Greenville tax map.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, that it is the intention of the City Council of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 160A-299 to permanently close the dedicated portion of the street described herein above described. That this resolution shall be effective one week for four successive weeks prior to the hearing in the Daily Reflector, a copy of this resolution, as so sent by registered or certified mail to all owners of property adjoining the street as shown on the tax record and a notice of this Resolution shall be prominently posted in at least two public places on the highway. That further the Council will at the regular December 2, 1976, meeting of the City Council will conduct a public hearing upon the proposed closing at which time any objection may be heard on the question of whether or not the closing would be detrimental to the public interest, or the property rights of any individual.

RESOLVED this 4th day of November, 1976.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to slide today, plagued by uncertainty over prospects for a reversal of the lagging trend in the economy.

Trading was moderate. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 7.73 at 935.34 on top of a 17.37-point drop Friday.

Losers outnumbered gainers by close to a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Gold mining stocks, which often do best in periods of investor uncertainty, posted some broad gains along with the rise of the London bullion price to the $130-an-ounce level for the first time since March.

Homestake, Dome Mines and ASA each climbed a point or more.

The Big Board's composite common-stock index fell .42 to 53.52 in the first hour. The American Stock Exchange market value index was down .20 at 95.52.

Still Among The 'Best Dressed'

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the world's best-dressed women, Princess Grace of Monaco and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, sponsored an up-to-$5,000-a-ticket tribute to the late Josephine Baker, who won fame wearing just a stem of bananas tied to her waist.

The former Grace Kelly did not attend the tribute in person Sunday, but her cochairwoman, Mrs. Onassis, greeted such performers as Muhammad Ali and Ingrid Bergman.

The benefit at the Metropolitan Opera House — which also had a few cheap seats at $15 — raised money for Variety Clubs International, a show business charity.

Josephine Baker came to Harlem from St. Louis in the mid-1920s and went on to international stardom in Paris. Vivian Reed, star of "Bubblin' Brown Sugar," which celebrates the Harlem of those days, sang a new song written in Miss Baker's honor by Marvin Hamlisch.

Support For Will Arraign Alligators

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — Affirmative action for Arkansas alligators.

It seems the large reptiles, long the target of bounty hunters and disgruntled farmers, now are needed to equalize Southern Arkansas' balance of nature.

According to the state Game and Fish Commission, in recent weeks more than 1,500 alligators have been trucked up from the southern reaches of Louisiana's swampy bayou and marshlands to several remote Arkansas locations.

Ironically, area farmers — once among the most zealous opponents of the scaly beasts — now are the loudest supporters of the 'gator immigration program.

"We have had hundreds of farmers asking for alligators because they've heard they eat up beavers and muskrats," says Andrew Hulsey, head of Arkansas' Game and Fish Commission. Beavers and muskrats plague farmers by damming needed streams and damaging crops.

The bodies of 19-month-old Laurie Jo Davies and her sister, Christine, 2 1/2, were found Friday, bound and wrapped in plastic bags which had been stuffed in trash containers in two Columbus city parks along the Scioto River.

The search was for Tonya Davies, whose fourth birthday is Nov. 28.

Police charged Margo Davies of Worthington with the murder of the younger child and held the woman without bond awaiting arraignment today. Further charges were pending, they said.

Chief Deputy Sheriff William Lavery said the girls had been bound with strips of cloth and

Support For Will Arraign Young Mother In Child Deaths

By TOM GARDNER Associated Press Writer WORTHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A 20-year-old mother faced arraignment today on a charge of aggravated murder after the bodies of two of her young daughters were found in trash containers in Delaware County for a third daughter.

Big Bootleg Operation

NASHVILLE (AP) — Cigarette smuggling from neighboring states is costing Tennessee $7 million in sales tax a year, state Revenue Commissioner Jayne Ann Woods says.

"Based on average per capita consumption, Tennessee should be getting about $7 million per year more from its cigarette tax than it is getting," Mrs. Woods said. "That indicates to us that there is a large bootleg cigarette operation in Tennessee."

She said the state collects about $60 million per year in cigarette taxes.

Mrs. Woods says the problem exists because Tennessee's proximity to Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia, three major tobacco-producing states with the lowest cigarette taxes in the nation.

She said organized crime apparently is becoming increasingly involved in cigarette smuggling in Tennessee and around the U.S.

"It's not just a pickup truck carrying a few cigarettes across a state line. It's a case of tractor-trailer trucks taking full loads on regular runs," Mrs. Woods said.

Tennessee has a 13-cent per pack sales tax on cigarettes, and in some northeastern states the tax is as high as 21 cents per pack.

North Carolina has a 2-cent per pack sales tax, Virginia 2 1/2 cents and Kentucky 3 cents, officials said.

Officials said wholesale distributors in North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky are not violating the law by selling to out-of-state buyers.

The violation occurs when the cigarettes are transported into another state without paying that state's taxes, officials said.

Mrs. Woods said her department has created a special investigation unit to track down cigarette smugglers and others involved in sales tax fraud.

Parade For Anniversary

By THOMAS KENT Associated Press Writer MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government marked the 59th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution Sunday with one of its smaller military parades that included no new weapons.

It also received a message of congratulations from China that seemed a little warmer than usual.

It took only six minutes for the armored personnel carriers, artillery pieces and missiles to roll through Red Square. For the second year in succession, no giant intercontinental ballistic missiles were shown, and no tanks or other tracked vehicles appeared.

The hardware on parade was mostly defensive, including five types of anti-aircraft missiles, a 100mm antitank gun and the Sagger antitank missile on an amphibious carriage.

The several thousand soldiers, sailors, seaborne commandos and cadets who marched past the reviewing stand dropped the traditional goosestep for a less militant step.

"The Soviet army and navy are reliably guarding the cause of revolution, socialism and peace," Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov told the marchers. He accused "aggressive imperialist circles" abroad of "trying to contain the world revolutionary process."

Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev headed the party and government officials in the reviewing box atop Lenin's tomb.

After the military parade, brigades of sportsmen and more than 100,000 workers from farms, factories and government offices marched for two hours across the square.

A somewhat friendlier tone was added to the message from Peking by the inclusion of this phrase: "The Chinese people have always cherished their revolutionary friendship with the Soviet people."

Except for this and the deletion of a proposal for negotiating the border dispute between the two nations, the message was almost exactly the same as last year's. It said differences of principle "should not prevent normal state relations" between the two countries on the basis of Peking's often-stated five principles of peaceful coexistence.

The message was the first official communication to the Soviets from the Chinese government since Mao Tse-tung died Sept. 9. Since then, Moscow has sharply reduced its anti-Peking rhetoric, and the Soviet press has published several articles about former good relations with China.

Church Title Stirs Calls

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Dick Maresh is a sheet metal worker, not a theologian, but lately he's been talking to a lot of people who want to learn about the Catholic Liberal Church.

Maresh is repairing the copper tower of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church. A telephone was installed in the tower for his convenience, but the telephone company listed the number in its directory under the heading "Churches-Catholic Liberal."

That heading has not previously been used, and no one at the phone company seems to know why the listing appeared.

"You'd be surprised how many calls I get," Maresh said. Some callers are merely curious, he said. But others "are fed up with their priest or the church and want to try something different."

He said the mixup "has become a joke" among local priests.

BUS STRIKE CHARLOTTE (AP) — An estimated 10,000 persons who use Charlotte's municipal bus system to get to work were faced with finding an alternate way this morning as a strike against the bus line entered its second day.

THE IMPORTANCE OF LOCATION
Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are: "Location, Location, and Location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice. Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your home long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and immediate neighborhood. Select a location where raw land and house values have an increasing price trend. Especially check into the zoning laws for any unfavorable change which could cause a depreciation in the value of the neighborhood and the resale price of your home in the future. Remember—you can remove, replace or remodel a house, but you can never change the location. So choose carefully.
