Carter Hints At Tough Conservation Programs

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says the government should get tougher about requiring gasoline-saving automobiles, because "the price of energy is going to go up very rapidly."
Reporting that one of his first "fireside chats" as president will be an appeal to Americans to conserve energy, Carter said Monday that while nuclear power plants must be built as oil becomes scarcer and more dear, he wants to place greater reliance on coal, solar energy and conservation to meet the nation's energy problems.
"Although I don't like to frighten people, I think the price of energy is going to go up very rapidly," Carter said.

Carter made the remarks in a lengthy interview with CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite.
Carter said he feels the government has not been firm enough about requiring auto makers to build "more efficient cars." Asked if that meant smaller vehicles, he replied, "In most instances, yes."
The president-elect said nuclear power plants are necessary but he contended the government has wavered in fixing rigid safety standards. And he argued that there should be greater standardization of nuclear plants so fewer of them fall into the experimental category.

In the nearly two-hour interview, Carter also said:
—"I can't foresee any need for mandatory wage-price controls." But he said he "has sent word" to steel producers that he hopes they will roll back price hikes because higher steel prices would give foreign oil producers "a good excuse" for boosting their prices.
—"Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is a 'supurb negotiator' who might be enlisted 'on an ad hoc basis' to help in negotiations in such parts of the world as Africa, Panama or the Middle East.
—"He said he 'would like to have President Ford help me' and hopes to call on him for assistance "on occasion."

—"He has made no decision to replace FBI Director Clarence Kelley. But, 'as a general principle,' he believes the heads of the FBI and the CIA, because of secret assignments involved, should change with the administration 'rather than setting up a continuing hierarchy."
—"He will make his first cabinet-level appointment within a few days, naming Atlanta banker Bert Lance to be director of the Office of Management and Budget or possibly Treasury secretary.
—"Averell Harriman, who reported Monday about his mission to Moscow at Carter's behest, won't have a full-time administration job at age 85, but his service as "ambassador at large or some other capacity would be almost inevitable," Carter said.

—"Carter said his "first preference" in combating unemployment is to rely on the private sector, but a public works program will figure in the effort and, in Carter's view, housing activity and construction jobs can be increased with "a very minimum investment of the taxpayers' money."

Windmill Tests

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — The world's largest windmill — 12 stories high with 200-foot blades — will be built next year by General Electric Co. to see if wind can make cheap electricity.

GE's Space Division here received a $10 million government contract to assemble two 1,500 kilowatt wind turbine systems. Each is expected to produce enough energy to supply over 500 homes.

The test program is sponsored by the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Its purpose is to determine the economics of large wind turbines when connected to electric power grids, and whether they can help meet the nation's electrical needs in the final two decades of the 20th Century.

The windmills will be located at sites where winds average 18 miles per hour. Two filamentwound, fiberglass, composite blades, 200 feet in diameter, will rotate at 30 to 40 revolutions per minute to drive the gear trains and generator assemblies.

ERDA has 17 sites under consideration. Two will be selected by mid-1977 and the windmills will be operating by 1978.

Candidate sites include Boone, N.C.
A GE spokesman said studies by the company indicate that "wind turbine generators could be cost effective in the future with further development and in selected areas with high winds."

GE engineers recently estimated that about 55,000 square miles in the United States experience sufficiently strong and constant winds to make wind turbine generators practical.

Say Jewish State Accepted By PLO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Palestine Liberation Organization is willing to accept the existence of "a Jewish state in Palestine," but won't say so publicly, an official of a Jewish organization says.

Herman Edelsberg said Monday that two PLO officials told him and other representatives of U.S. Jewish groups at a private meeting here two weeks ago that the PLO would "accept in principle a Jewish state in Palestine alongside an Arab state."

But Edelsberg, director of the B'nai B'rith International Council, said he and other Americans at the meeting were skeptical because the PLO officials made it clear they were not willing to make the statement in public.

The PLO officials were Dr. Isam Sartawi and Sabri Elias Jiryis.

Jiryis was rebuffed last week by the State Department when he sought permission to open a PLO information office in Washington.

The State Department ruled that Jiryis, a writer and lawyer born in Palestine, must leave the United States by today, when his current visa expires, because he "gave false information" on a visa application.
Jiryis said on forms submitted to the Foreign Agents Registration Office on Nov. 18 that he received $10,000 in Beirut on Oct. 18 to open a PLO information office in Washington. But he made no mention of his purpose when he applied for a visa to enter the United States.

Sartawi already had left the country, the State Department said.

The United States does not recognize the PLO, which is allowed to keep an office in New York in connection with its observer mission to the United Nations.

Edelsberg said the two PLO officials met with the Jewish group representatives in an effort to develop American support for their cause.

Await Carter Policy

By JOHN GALE
Associated Press Writer
THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) — The leaders of the European Common Market agree that they cannot deal with many of their pressing economic problems until Jimmy Carter is inaugurated and the oil-exporting countries decide how much they are going to raise the price of crude oil.

Because of this, the nine Common Market countries generally agree that the so-called North-South conference between the industrial and developing countries, scheduled to open Dec. 15 in Paris, should be postponed. Foreign Minister Garrett Fitzgerald of Ireland told reporters Monday after the first day of a two-day meeting of Common Market presidents and prime ministers.

The participants in the Paris talks are the United States, seven other industrialized countries and 19 developing nations. The Third World nations hope to obtain help with their foreign debt burden and guaranteed prices for their raw materials as the first step toward a new world economic system. But a year of technical-level negotiations has made no progress.

"It makes absolutely no sense to push ahead" when U.S. policies may change after Jan. 20, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told a news conference.
Fitzgerald said the European leaders favor a delay until February or March.

There have been rumors that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) might delay its price-raising meeting scheduled for Dec. 15 until after the start of the North-South conference to see if the industrialized world offered the poor countries any concessions. But the pressure from Iran, Iraq, Venezuela and some other oil countries for a price increase is so great that a long delay seems unlikely.

The Middle East Economic Survey said the "reshuffling of dates is a reflection of the intricate poker game now being played between the industrialized nations and the OPEC. Third World grouping, neither of which wants to show its cards until it has seen the other's hand."

OPEC is expected to raise prices of crude oil between five and 15 per cent. The present basic price is $11.51 per barrel.

New York State In A Standstill After Snowstorm

By The Associated Press
A fast-moving storm dumped up to two feet of snow on western New York State today, bringing both air and highway traffic to a virtual standstill and leaving hundreds of motorists stranded.

At least 12 inches blanketed Buffalo, where the sun broke through shortly after 8 a.m.

More snow was forecast. Traffic came to a halt in some areas as hundreds of automobiles became stuck and were abandoned on expressways and city streets, as well as along roads throughout the wide snowbelt area.

Schools by the scores were closed.

The State Thruway was shut down from Lackawanna, on the outskirts of Buffalo, to the Pennsylvania state line. The section was reopened in mid-morning.

In northern Chautauqua County, about 500 motorists took refuge in fire halls and schools as up to two feet of snow fell in less than six hours.

The Buffalo Airport in suburban Cheektowaga was closed to all flights. Officials said that once the snow ended it would take two hours or more to clear the runways.

One motorist, whose car skidded into the snow-laden center mall of the Kensington Expressway on the northern edge of the city, credited a prayer with helping him get started again.

"I was bogged down for a half hour," he said. "I had no power. Then I prayed, my motor started and I managed to drive out."

Later, when he was stopped by a traffic jam, he brushed the snow from his car and rear window.

His snowbrush uncovered several bumper stickers. One read: "I Pray to Jesus."

Crime Forces Church To Keep Doors Unlocked

LINCOLN, N.C. (AP) — Because of burglaries, the Trinity Lutheran Church is not locked anymore to save the doors from being damaged.

And, "We don't leave money or valuables in the church, says the Rev. Al Mullen.

Mullen said the church has been burglarized three times in recent years, twice this year. And six other church burglaries have been reported in Lincoln County this year.

In each burglary at Trinity Lutheran, the communion wine was stolen and the pastor's office ransacked.

In the latest burglary, last month, the thieves also stole the public address system.

Mullen complained publicly in the form of an editorial in the local newspaper that two young men charged with a July 26 break-in were not dealt with promptly by the courts.

"I was just real disgusted the way a citizen is treated in our courts," Mullen said. "I'm thinking about starting a court watching group here. It seems that something needs to be done."

Mullen said he was complaining because charges were dropped against one of the defendants and the other was not tried.

After the complaints were voiced, Benny Workman, 19, of Vale pleaded guilty in Superior Court. He received a five-year sentence in a youthful offender's camp.

Charges were initially dropped against a second man. But Dist. Atty. Hamp Childs Jr. said a bill of indictment would be presented against him before the Lincoln County Grand Jury.

Use Prize For Victims

By ERIK A. WOLD
Associated Press Writer
OSLO, Norway (AP) — The two women who inspired Northern Ireland's peace movement say they will use the $325,000 Norwegian "People's Peace Prize" being given them tonight for projects benefiting the children and unemployed of their war-torn homeland.

Mairead Corrigan, 23, and Betty Williams, 32, will receive the unofficial substitute for the 1976 Nobel Peace Prize at a ceremony in Oslo's seaside town hall. Then they will be honored at a torchlight parade.
Miss Corrigan and Mrs. Williams are Roman Catholics, but Miss Corrigan told a news conference the money will be used to help both Catholics and Protestants. She said a trust fund will be set up to provide care for children, to create jobs by establishing small factories and to begin other community projects.

"We are the change in Northern Ireland," Mrs. Williams said. "It may take many years to solve the problems, but it was in 1976 the process was started. We are no petticoat brigade. We want to build a new society from grassroots level based on love and trust."

The two women organized weekly peace marches by thousands of Protestants and Catholics in cities of Northern Ireland after Mrs. Williams saw three children killed by a runaway car whose guerrilla driver had been shot by British soldiers in Belfast. Miss Corrigan was an aunt of the children.
Extremists threatened the women, but they have pressed on with their campaign. They also went to the United States and made a television appeal to Americans to stop sending money to the warring factions to buy guns and bombs.

Many Norwegians thought the two women deserved the Nobel Peace Prize, but they did not start their campaign until August, after the deadline for nominations for the 1976 award. When the Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament announced that no Peace Prize would be given this year, a newspaper editor proposed a prize fund be raised for Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan. A goal of $145,000 was set, but the contributions swelled to far beyond the goal.

Ayden Youth Is Charged

A Rt. 2, Ayden youth was arrested Monday by Pitt County deputies and charged in connection with an early November break-in at Chicod Elementary School on NC 43.

Deputies arrested Clifton Earl Guion, 16, of Rt. 2, Box 514, Ayden, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, and charged him with breaking into the school on Nov. 7 and taking some $430 worth of stereo equipment.

Sheriff Tyson said that all of the stereo items reported stolen in the incident were recovered.

Bond for Guion was set at $200 with a first appearance hearing scheduled for today in District Court here.

LOST EVERYTHING

The family of Matthew and Lene Belle Darden lost everything they owned Thanksgiving night when their home on Rt. 1, Winterville burned.

The family is in need of household goods and clothing, according to a friend who called Hotline. Darden would wear a 14 and a half shirt and pants about 31 in the waist, his friend estimated, and his wife would wear about a size 18-20.

The Dardens' children are Ray, nine; Audrey, six; Keith, five; Larlie, four; and Shawanda, three.

Persons wishing to contribute any household goods or clothing may leave items at the Winterville Baptist Church Recreation Room or contact Mr. or Mrs. Kenneth Dews, 756-3721. The Darden's mailing address is Rt. 1, Box 152-A, Winterville, N.C. 28590.

NOMINATED SPEAKER — State Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, was nominated as speaker at a caucus of House Democrats yesterday. He will be formally elected when the General Assembly convenes Jan. 12. (AP Wirephoto)

State House Speaker Nominee Looks Toward Significant Bills

RALEIGH (AP) — State Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, newly nominated speaker of the North Carolina House, says the 1977 legislative session "will deal with more significant legislation than any two previous sessions combined."

Stewart, seeking an unprecedented second term as House speaker, was nominated Monday at the House Democratic caucus. He will be formally elected when the General Assembly convenes Jan. 12.
Stewart said he supports constitutional amendments that would give the governor veto power and allow the governor to succeed himself. He told reporters he would appoint a constitutional amendments committee favorable to sending such legislation to the full House. Such bills have previously died in committee.

"I doubt I am among a majority, but I have some obligation to make sure that major constitutional issues come out of...committee." Stewart said he would appoint some industry members to such committees as banking and insurance, "but the banking committee is not going to be chaired by a banker and the insurance committee is not going to be chaired by an insurance man."

Stewart predicted the upcoming session will be lengthy, "at least six or seven months." He told a news conference he would have committee assignments and chairmanships ready by the opening day of the session.
Stewart's opponent for the House speakership, Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, seconded the nomination that Stewart be nominated by acclamation. However, Watkins remains in the race for the 1979 speakership. Stewart told reporters he was "right at the point of having commitments to two terms...in fact, I expect to have it before the day is over, it's that close."

Watkins, however, disputed that and said he was still in the race for 1979 and "I've got it."

'Country Bank' Seeks Recovery Of Penalties

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — "The Northwestern Bank was a country bank and it was run like one...and did not depend upon careful, polished legal documents," say the plaintiffs in a federal suit pending here.

But the plaintiffs are officials of the bank's parent company, Northwestern Financial Corp. The corporation is seeking recovery of $9.36 million from the Internal Revenue Service. The corporation contends that the money is tax overcharges, interest and penalties levied by the IRS. The IRS, holding to its policy of silence, has never made public its reasons for levying penalties against the North Wilkesboro-based bank during recent years. So the suit, filed late last month in U.S. Middle District Court here, answers accusations that have never officially been made public.

Details of the suit have been reported by the Winston-Salem Journal, based on court documents and unnamed sources. The paper said among accusations which the suit deals with are:

- That Northwestern Bank, the state's fourth largest bank,

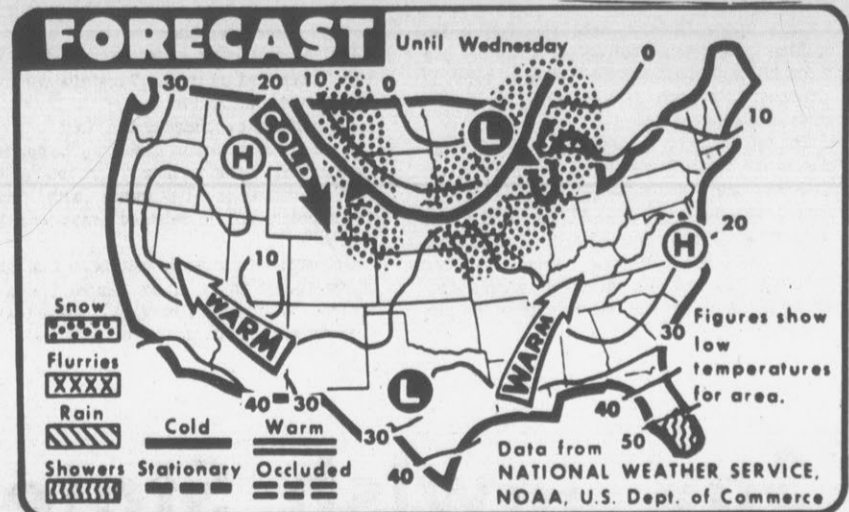

- grew too fast to manage and control its own affairs.
- That key officials at Northwestern and its subsidiaries were considered for indictment for tax fraud.
- That it made some bad business deals, such as lending $1.5 million on a land venture for what turned out to be a part of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.
- That the bank used cashier's checks instead of bookkeeping entries in its business.
- That the bank diverted its - insurance commissions into a separate company to finance a fleet of airplanes for use by bank officials.

- "Beginning in the 1960s," Northwestern says in the suit, "the bank underwent a period of tremendous growth that really outstripped its ability to manage and control the huge entity created by both acquisition and internal growth."
- The Journal said the IRS conducted an investigation in 1973 and 1974 into whether top officials of the parent corporation

- and its subsidiaries conspired to commit criminal tax fraud. The paper said the probe led the IRS office in Greensboro to recommend federal charges against the bank with the parent corporation being named as an undicted co-conspirator.
- IRS officials in Washington turned down a recommendation for criminal indictments and instead decided to seek civil fraud penalties and the bank had to pay more than $2.7 million in fraud penalties, the paper said.

- In the suit, which has accumulated a two-inch-thick stack of papers, Northwestern denies that there was "any intent to evade federal income tax."
- "In hindsight some of the transactions of the bank have been poorly structured or handled in an informal way," the suit says.
- One transaction discussed in the suit is a $1.5 million loan for a 60,000-acre land venture in Ashe County. "Unfortunately," the suit says, "the bank was a victim of fraud...The land was actually claimed by the United States Government and designated as the Great Smoky Mountain National Park."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is expected today for the Great Lakes region as well as the central and northern Plains states. Showers are predicted for the southern tip of Florida. Cold temperatures are to prevail across most of the nation. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Record cold gripped North Carolina before sun-up today. And it will be even colder early Wednesday morning.

Skies will be mostly sunny. There will be some cloudiness in the mountains and along the coast.

At 5 a.m., temperatures ranged from the single numbers in the mountains to around 30 degrees along the coast.

Arctic air will continue to cover the state tonight and Wednesday.

Snow flurries fell in the mountains Monday and continued in some places there today.

Snow flurries were reported Monday in downtown Asheville.

Highs today ranged from the 20s in the mountains to the 30s elsewhere, except for some 40s along the coast.

The mercury will plunge early Wednesday to colder readings than this morning. Most overnight lows will be in the teens in the west and 20s in the east.

The leading edge of the Arctic air mass moved through North Carolina on Monday. It passed the Raleigh-Durham Airport around noon and moved off the coast in late afternoon. Colder air moved in behind it.

High readings on Monday occurred during the early-morning hours over most of the state. The warmest was 73 degrees at Wilmington.

About all sections received rain during the 24 hours ended at 2 o'clock this morning.

Winds will abate somewhat today. A small-craft advisory continued along the coast and sounds this morning, but the National Weather Service planned to discontinue it later in the day.

EquitableHQ In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Equitable Life Assurance Society, the nation's third largest insurance company, has chosen Charlotte for regional headquarters for a dozen Southern states, the Chamber of Commerce announced Monday.

Charlotte was chosen over another finalist, Nashville, Tenn., in a year-long effort of Southern cities hoping to win the corporate plum.

Although Charlotte has nearly a million feet of vacant office space, Herbert Clegg, Equitable's agency manager in the city, said the company plans to build a structure tailor-made to its needs. It is to open April 1, 1978.

Company sources said 175 persons will be employed initially, and the number could grow to 500 within five years.

Equitable, with three million policyholders, is exceeded only by Prudential and Metropolitan.

The Charlotte headquarters will serve a region from Virginia to Texas.

"They looked at 20 or 30 Southeastern cities, and we won," said banker Luther Hodges Jr., chairman of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce. This "brings us into a new league," he added.

Equitable is decentralizing its New York administrative operations into five divisions.

It established a Western Division in Fresno, Calif., more than a year ago. More recently, it chose Des Moines, Iowa, for its Midwestern headquarters. Two other divisional headquarters are to be named.

Space Launching Pads Are To Be Destroyed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Once, they were the focus of national attention as millions of people watched America's manned space program get off the ground. Today, they're rusting relics that are being destroyed and sold for scrap.

A demolition team from Fort Bragg, N.C. was to begin work today on the 250-ton, 110-foot tall gantry on Complex 14 from which Mercury astronauts John Glenn, Scott Carpenter, Walter Schirra and Gordon Cooper soared into orbit.

The gantry was used for Glenn's first orbital flight Feb. 20, 1962, and also was used for other Mercury flights and satellite launches. But it has been rusting in the salty air since the last Atlas Agena launch in 1966.

Ruined by corrosion, the gantry has become a hazard because of falling debris, space agency officials said.

On Wednesday, the team will topple the gantry and a tower on nearby Complex 12, the site of many satellite launches and probes to the moon and planets. It was from Complex 12 that Ranger 4 was launched on its trip to the moon.

Although local officials 10 years ago expressed a desire to maintain Complex 14 as an historic site, no funds were ever appropriated by the government for restoring and maintaining the area. Air Force officials estimated it would have cost $300,000 to restore the Mercury launch pad and about $100,000 per year to maintain it.

Over $10 million was spent in construction of the two complexes which include the launch pad, gantries and blockhouses. The blockhouses are not being destroyed and will be used by space agency officials.

The gantries were used in preparing the Atlas rockets and their payloads, including space capsules, for flight into space. The complexes were completed in 1957, in time for the first Atlas flight from Complex 14 in the spring of that year.

Holshouser To Be 'Roasted'

RALEIGH (AP) — Friends and political allies will "roast" outgoing Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser at a dinner Saturday night.

The organizer, Jim Godfrey of Raleigh, says about 400 persons are expected. The dinner will be closed to the public because some of those who will roast Holshouser don't want to see their comments in print.

Money also will be collected for a new Cadillac to be presented to Holshouser when he leaves office in January.

Godfrey said any money left over after paying for the dinner and the Cadillac will be given to Holshouser to help pay for his $13,000 television broadcast before this month's elections.

Holshouser told of the accomplishments of his administration.

Godfrey said that although about 400 persons are expected to attend the dinner, invitations to the black-tie optional affair have been mailed to about 1,100 Holshouser friends, county-level political workers, and beneficiaries of the the governor's appointments.

Phyllis' Mother Dexter Stricken

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Judith Lowry, best known as the tart-tongued "Mother Dexter" on the TV show "Phyllis," is dead of a heart attack at 86.

Mrs. Lowry, taking a Thanksgiving holiday from the filming of the CBS comedy series in California, was walking on a Greenwich Village street Monday with her son, Semmes, when she collapsed and died.

In Los Angeles, Ed Weinberger, producer and creator of "Phyllis," said when told of her death:

"We loved her. She never ceased to delight and amaze us with her talent, her humor and her spirit."

On "Phyllis," which stars Cloris Leachman, Mrs. Lowry played a widow who delighted in shocking the other characters by sprinkling her remarks with profanity and speaking frankly about sex.

Mrs. Lowry, who called New York home but also maintained a residence at Studio City, Calif., was to have returned to the coast to resume filming of the series Wednesday.

A spokesman for the show said she had appeared in 16 segments filmed so far this year, only eight of which have been broadcast.

Mrs. Lowry also was seen in the movies "Valley of the Dolls," "Sweet Charity" and

"The Anderson Tapes," and on television in "Studio One" and "Maude."

Born in Fort Sill, Okla., she was the widow of actor Rudd Lowry, who died in 1965. She is survived by nine children, 27 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

She began her acting career in 1913, appearing in a stock company in Washington, but she retired to raise her family. She resumed acting in 1952 and appeared on the stage as well as in films and television.

The corporation's suit says the planes were owned by Certified so Northwestern would be protected from liability in case of a crash.

In addition, the board will consider the preliminary plat of the Clara H. Bland Mobile Home Park consisting of some 26 acres and located east of Floral Park Subdivision on State Road 1523.

Business on the city board agenda includes: final plat of Mills Subdivision, Section II; rezoning request of Harold D. Taunton for four acres located on the east side of Hooker Road from RA-20 to Highway Commercial in order to construct a musical instrument repair shop and provide for future commercial development;

Investigate Swine Flu

ATLANTA (AP) — About 20 Missouri residents who became ill after coming in contact with a man health officials said had swine flu should learn within a week what virus they contracted, the national Center for Disease Control said Monday.

"The epidemiologists are now going over the information they have from the other contacts and the laboratory is going over specimens from the residents and trying to put that together," said Katherine Lord of the CDC. "We would hope we would have some information within the week."

Doctors have been gathering data on the illness which hit Larry Hardison, a 32-year-old telephone worker in Concordia, Mo., she said. They also have been examining those who came in contact with him to determine what virus they contracted.

State specialists felt sure Hardison had swine flu based on bloods tests, Elmer R. Spurrer, head of the Missouri Health Department, said.

Good tests showed "a four-fold" increase in swine flu antibodies in the four weeks after Hardison became ill, said Betty Hooper of the CDC. But she said the CDC wanted to do more than confirm the Missouri tests before ruling on the nature of Hardison's illness.

"We have confirmed the lab work," she said last week. "We have not investigated beyond the lab work. We have sent a team to investigate it."

Arrest Two For Break-In

HOLLYWOOD — Pitt County deputies arrested two Greenville men Monday on charges of attempting to break into a vehicle at the D.H. Conley High School parking lot here.

Charged with the break-in attempts were Roger Johnson, 18, of 201 Stutz Street, and Herbert Smith, 18, of 1493 Fleming Street, it was reported by Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The sheriff said that one of the men was arrested at the parking lot and the second subject was apprehended in nearby woods.

The vehicle, a van, was owned by Larry Bruce Cole of Rt. 3, Greenville, Sheriff Tyson said.

Bond for each man was set at $500 with a hearing scheduled for Dec. 15 in District Court.

Two Charged In Drug Case

Two young men were arrested by Greenville Police Sunday night on drug law violation charges, Chief Glenn Cannon reported this morning.

Cannon identified the two as Terry Randall Pierce, 18 and Tony Michael Sutton, 16, both of Route 4, Greenville.

Cannon said the two were taken into custody about 10:30 p.m. in a parking lot on Reide Circle, between Cotanche and Evans Streets.

Pierce, the chief said, was charged with possession of marijuana and phenobarbital, while Sutton was charged with possession of methamphetamine and amyltal.

In addition, according to Cannon, Sutton was charged with assault on an officer.

Sheets Can Be Used In Home Decorating

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Not every art major will be lucky enough to marry a structural engineer as Marlene Siff did 17 years ago, but it is a great combination for home-making, she says. She is an artist and designer.

"Any woman can have a great home if she learns to make decisions with her mate — that's the secret," she advises. "Planning together is important. My husband gets just as much fun out of making plans for our house as I do and he helps carry out my ideas," she said in an interview in her unusual home in Westport, Conn.

While Marlene's handwork is all over the house, the house is also full of her husband's structural contributions. The middle part of the house is an A-frame, and there are rooms jutting here and there, which makes it particularly interesting.

On walls are her oil paintings and laminated plaques that are a commercial enterprise, and she has enveloped their bedroom in sheets she has designed. When she wears a cat-tan made out of a sheet, she could fade right into the walls, chairs, ottoman, draped tables and headboard that are slipcovered with it. The blue and white sheets, a sophisticated arrangement of stripes and cornflowers she calls Tailored Elegance, are also laminated to the stock white shades. Stripes taken from the sheets border the beams at the ceiling.

"Sheets are a wonderful way to decorate economically," she says in her exuberant way. "You can buy old chairs, tables, ottomans, whatever, and cover them with sheets, and they are washable." She puts glass over the covers on some tables.

The kitchen, too, carries her handwork in tiles on counters and range top — she designed and glazed it herself — and the wall plaques that combine food with recipes. Her husband designed a dumb-waiter that goes from kitchen to garage where groceries can be loaded. The dumbwaiter might have cost $1,000, she explained, but he rigged up "a garage door opener, turning it on its side," at a cost of about $80. He also designed a small, stowaway, folding kitchen stepladder that holds up to 4,000 pounds, which has become another of their commercial ventures.

At one end of the kitchen is a den-like pit with fireplace, red leather banquettes and bookcases. Off the kitchen is a big glassed-in room furnished in white wicker and colorful upholstery. Its skylights provide so much light it gives the illusion of an outdoor setting.

The unusual gardens, swimming pool and tennis courts have been designed for maximum privacy, and provide a lot of togetherness with the couple's two sons, 11 and 14. A shower room off the outdoor play area adjoins a large room with built-in sleeping areas for the boys' guests.

Walls of the long hall that lead to that area downstairs are covered with the bedroom sheet pattern in brown, one of three Marlene has designed for J.P. Stevens. Another sheet was a butterfly design and her newest one, Wind Flowers, is a pattern of anemones. The sheet was pasted to the wall with wheat paste, she said.

"A king-size sheet can cover a lot of wall and the stripe can be applied to other things — a square topper to be used over the draped tablecloth made out of a sheet and a lapkin, an oversized napkin that is made out of a pillowcase. I also cut flowers out of the Wind Flower sheet and apply them to cover sheets, towels or whatever," Marlene has done so much with sheets that she has been accused of having "textile fever," she said.

"Some of the best designs today are going into sheets," says Marlene, who believes more fine artists should become involved in designs for the home. In fact, she is planning "something really special for children's sheets," she said.

She has a B.A. in Fine Arts from Hunter College, and six years ago began a gift business. She has 50 different laminated plaques for kitchen, bath and other rooms.

"I was always breaking into tears when I sold a painting, so my husband suggested that I should do something that could be reproduced, like the plaques," she explained.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

We have one child who is misunderstood... literally. From the day he uttered his first word, "Bweaba" (meaning there's a rainbow around my diaper) to present day, no one seems to know what he's talking about.

I don't know why, but I'm the only one in the family who can translate. When he was a toddler, he stood for hours at his father's elbow shouting, "Me no, na, noo noo" and his father would shrug and say, "What's he want?"

"Well, what do you think he wants?" I'd say irritably. "He's either telling us the dog hates cold spaghetti, he hates the encyclopedia we bought for him, or he just swallowed his pacifier."

"He is trying to tell you he dropped his cookie down his drawers. I mean, how dense can a father be?"

As he got older, things got worse. "That kid has to have his mouth fixed," said my husband.

"What now?" "He just told me he has to know all of his bowels by tomorrow because the teacher is having an English elimination."

"He's always had trouble with his V's," I said. "That isn't all he has trouble with. If he goes around talking like that, they're going to put him in a class where he makes recipe holders out of wooden blocks and clothespins all day."

family and he doesn't know how to pronounce the words yet."

"I'll say," said his brother. "He told the whole bus the other morning that you were a syndicated Communist."

"And he told everyone his teacher had hubcaps put on her teeth so they would look better," said his sister.

"And he told a client of mine on the phone the other night that I couldn't come to the phone because I was unapproachable. Really, something has to be done. At a football game the other night he yelled out, 'All we need now is one perversion and we win the game.'"

"What's the matter with that?" I snapped. "I told him myself one player had a mucilage separation in his shoulder and another was having trouble with his nymph gland and with the quarterback having a sensuous shoulder, we needed all the perversions we could get!"

You should have seen my family sit up and look at me. I guess it's because I don't lose my temper too often.

Little Red Stocking Appeal Is Announced

The annual Little Red Stocking appeal of The Children's Home Society of North Carolina Inc. was launched this week with a goal of $125,000, according to Jere A. Ayers, CHS president.

In announcing the appeal, Ayers commented, "During this week, which has been proclaimed by President Ford as National Family Week, public attention is drawn to the children in our state and nation who are waiting for the security of a permanent home and family. Our Little Red Stocking has traditionally been a vital source of funding the society's statewide service of bringing children and families together through adoption. We are relying heavily upon reaching the goal of the 1976 Little Red Stocking appeal in order to maintain this service."

Each year the society places more than 200 infants and older children in permanent, adoptive homes. Through its seven offices, located in Asheville, Chapel Hill, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Greensboro, Greenville and Wilmington, the services of this statewide, non-sectarian, voluntarily-supported agency are available everywhere in North Carolina.

The society provides temporary care for infants for whom adoption may be needed, homefinding and adoptive placement for infants and older children, casework service to couples seeking to adopt, and counseling and related services for women with problem pregnancies.

Approximately 30 per cent of the society's annual operating budget is derived from allocations from the United Ways across the state. Direct contributions to the agency account for more than 45 per cent of the society's funding, with the remainder coming from public monies.

"Every child has a fundamental need to be loved," stated Ayers. He continued, "A child has a basic right to a home and family. Since 1903 The Children's Home Society has been securing for many children each year the permanency of an adoptive home. We solicit the help of citizens, who are concerned about the children without homes, in reaching the goal of our Little Red Stocking."

Subject Of Wills Interest Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Women are becoming more interested in knowing about wills. They are asking more questions about them and are discarding the superstition that "if you talk about wills or make one, you'll die very soon."

That's the observation of Myrna Liebowitz, president of the Women Stockbrokers Assn., who gives seminars for women entitled "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Finances But Were Afraid To Ask."

"The women want to know about the laws covering wills, what the average cost of making one is, what will happen to them if their husband dies without a will, or if he doesn't protect them in a will," she reports.

"More women are now demanding that they sit in with their husband when he makes out a will and ask him to sit in when they make one out," says Miss Liebowitz, a registered representative with Wall Street's Herzfeld & Stern.

Since women have become so eager to acquire knowledge on the subject of wills, she has added May Glazer, an estate planner, to her panel for the seminars.

Man-Tailoring Is Mandatory

AMERICANS CALL it a knicker suit; the French call it the Pied de Poule, and fashion calls the two-piece ensemble at left a must for fall and winter. In a tiny houndstooth check of wool, it features two-button blazer with front and back yoke and moderately full knickers slightly gathered just below the knee and fastened by two buttons on three-inch cuff. Cowl-neck sweater in cashmere is finishing touch. At right, extremely man-tailored double-breasted coat with peak lapels and two patch pockets, of English flannel. With it a striped English flannel vest and matching skirt with front pleat, plus cotton blouse of matching gray with white collar and cuffs. (Fashions by Ted Lapidus.)

Baby's Gifts Can Be Pretty And Practical

NEW YORK (AP) — The baby of the family may not have been born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but that's a technicality easily overcome, advises the Jewelry Industry Council, which has some pretty and practical gift suggestions for doting parents and relatives to give the heir apparent.

About that silver spoon — there are elegant, baby-size silverware sets to start the little one on good table manners early. They can often even be matched to the sterling pattern the grownups use.

And you might consider a silver mug for the baby's milk and a silver porringer for pabulum with a whimsical bear face in the bottom of the bowl.

If you think that such gifts are too pretentious, the council points out that silver tableware for baby is quite practical. Should the wee eater decide to send the appesauce into orbit, silver won't smash and it only takes on a richer patina with use. While you think of it, pick out a silver napkin ring and have the child's name engraved on it.

Other gift ideas grandma or grandpa may want to put on their list include silver baby banks. They come in an imaginative selection this year — from silver replicas of baby shoes to whimsical nursery rhyme pigs.

Dear Abby

Swinging Single A Grandpa Groupie

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I know a 52-year-old divorcee who hangs around with senior citizens, pretending to be their age. She plays up to all the men (especially the rich ones) in hopes of snagging herself a husband. Isn't this unfair competition to the women who are 65 and older who are also in the market for husbands?

She doesn't tell her age, but goes to all these senior citizen affairs and just eats up the compliments when people tell her how "young" she looks.

I and a lot of women here in St. Petersburg, Fla., would appreciate your comments.

SIXTY-SIX AND LOOKS IT

DEAR SIXTY-SIX: Sorry, but age has never entered the ground rules in the mating game. All is fair in love and war, from St. Petersburg to St. Peter!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is hung up on self-hypnosis and reaching the subconscious mind through sleep suggestion. He is now determined to play a tape to our 12-year-old son (only child) every night for an hour, shortly after he has fallen asleep.

My husband has cut that tape, using his voice, transcribing informational and soothing words of encouragement. He believes that it will help our son develop his intellectual capacities.

I think that while there is much to be said about sleep suggestion, and it may be the answer for some people, a child's God-given sleep should be undisturbed.

Our son is a very good student, and he's active in sports. He somewhat fears his father, and I don't believe my husband should assail the boy's mind night and day.

What are your thoughts?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: If the boy is emotionally secure, a good student and active in sports, I'm for leaving his subconscious mind alone. It's not the taped suggestions per se that can harm the boy, but rather your husband's determination to impose his influence on his son night and day.

DEAR ABBY: ON THE SPOT wrote in to say she works with women who ask her where she bought her dress, shoes, etc., and then how much they cost. I have the perfect answer. When people I know ask me a similar question, I tell them it was either the Salvation Army or Goodwill, but I'm not sure which.

They usually chuckle and ask me again, but the answer is always the same. Finally they realize that I am not going to tell them, and they quit asking me.

Meanwhile I chuckle to myself because when I was young, most of my clothes did come from the Goodwill Resale Shop, and people were always complimenting me on my wardrobe.

Program Not Yet A Failure

Even with the possibility that a swine flu case has been found this year, the inoculation program is lagging. But it appears that the program to carry out a mass public inoculation program is not a failure.

Health officials say that 25 million persons had been inoculated as of last week. And there has been a substantial increase each week since the program began, an official at the federal Center for Disease Control said.

"We certainly have a long ways to go, but the figures are encouraging," Don Berreth, information officer said.

Some 6,186,866 received shots during the week ending Nov. 20 alone. That was an increase of a million shots over the previous week. Rural areas are participating better than urban areas, but blacks and the poor are lagging in getting the shots.

There was a report of a possible swine flu case in Missouri which might spur many people to go on and get their shots.

The inoculation program is available to everyone. The figures show that progress has been made in carrying out the mass inoculation program, but there is still much to be done.

Moves Imply A Political Power Shift

The Associated Press recently reported that the nation's population is flowing south and west, something that could mean strong shifts in political power.

A census bureau report showed Southern states grew more than the other three regions of the country combined from 1970 to 1975.

That, of course, has implications as to where the nation's political power will be in the years ahead. It could spell the end for the so-called Eastern Establishment rule which has dominated during this century.

THIS AFTERNOON

Who Will Get Out Of Jail?

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Is a victimless crime really victimless? That nagging question will have to be answered before a lot of people in the criminal justice system agree to swing open the doors.

Governor-elect James B. Hunt, Jr., is suggesting that around 3,000 inmates can be released from the state's overcrowded prisons, as one of several steps designed to bring that exploding population under control.

But at a recent discussion of who to free held among members of the Commission on Correctional Programs, the matter of victimless crimes came right down to an individual case.

Bad checks, for example, are usually labeled a victimless crime — they should be handled in civil courts, not criminal, say some.

Bad Check
A prison official told of a 19-year-old inmate sent to Central Prison on a two-year sentence on conviction of bad check writing.

The teen-ager is in the prison hospital with both legs cut off because he has cancer — and he has 90 days to live.

Why should this man be sent to prison for two years? Send him home to die, the prison official suggested. But the judge who sent the man to prison said that was his reaction when the youngster first came up on a charge of writing 12 bad checks. He sent him home to die. The inmate went straight out and wrote 24 more bad checks, and the judge decided he had to go to prison.

Not all inmates in prison for victimless crimes are involved in such aggravated cases, of course, and that area is where members of the commission chaired by Charlotte attorney and former state senator Eddie Knox are looking. Knox, incidentally, was state manager of the Jim Hunt for Governor campaign, and most observers expect the recommendations of that commission to gain considerable support from the governor.

Large Number
There are, according to Assistant Prisons Director W. L. (Kip) Kautzky, about 1,800 people in prison for such victimless crimes as bad checks, motor vehicle violations, gambling, minor drug possession, prostitution, etc. People "Who have done more of a disservice to themselves than to the community," he said.

In addition, about 600 inmates serving felony convictions have no history of criminal behavior but are in for technical parole violations, or for one-time involvement in a crime such as assault.

From the prison population, Kautzky says officials can identify and provide the record on 1,000 who are considered likely parole prospects. But that will not guarantee action by the Paroles Board — prison officials previously sent up 540 such cases recommending parole, and only 70 were set free.

Members of the Paroles Board say it is a different matter when you must review the file and find objections to parole by the judge who sentenced the person, families of the victim, or local law officers who don't want that individual back on the streets.

Another approach is to use the many new county jails across the state to help clear the prisons first, by letting prisoners being held for trial or on appeals remain in county jails, and by sending between 1,600 and 3,500 people to live in local lockups while on work release.

Local officials are resisting that effort on grounds they lack adequate staff and facilities to handle such loads.

Meanwhile, says Central Prison Warden Sam Garrison, "The system is breaking down... we have stretched as far as humanly possible... We are just warehousing bodies, and jamming them up."

Gary Gilmore's Final Days

Now and then a story comes along so rich, so ripe, so totally yecch that a greying newsman wants only to sit back and marvel as events unfold. Such is the story of Gary Mark Gilmore. My bones ache to be saying once again, hello, sweetheart, give me rewrite.

By the time this gets into print, Gilmore may be dead. If he isn't, or if a Utah firing squad doesn't do its work soon, the story will lose its savor. I mean, the guy's gotta go. He's gotta go with a bang, not a whimper. Think of the royalties! A reprieve could cost his legatees a cool hundred thou.

Stripped to the naked, brutal facts, there is nothing at all funny in the life and times of Gary Mark Gilmore. He launched into a career of crime at 14. He is now 35. He has spent 18 of those ensuing 21 years behind bars. Last July he went murderously berserk. He robbed a gas station and killed 24-year-old David Jensen, a law student at Brigham Young University. The following night he robbed a Provo motel. He ordered the clerk, Bennie Bushnell, 25, to lie on the floor. As Bushnell lay there, Gilmore put a pistol to his victim's head and slew him in cold blood. Gilmore, on the record, is a vicious, merciless killer.

Further for the record: Jensen and Bushnell were both married; both had infant sons; Mrs. Bushnell is pregnant. But the New York Times, reporting briefly on the ruined lives of the two young families, had the right headline: "Gilmore's Victims Fade in Drama."

When full account has been given to the personal tragedies, the mordant attraction remains. Gilmore was tried and convicted for the murder of Bennie Bushnell. The court imposed a death sentence. The sentence was upheld on appeal. Whereupon the hoopla began.

First there was Gilmore's refusal to seek clemency or to invoke the law's delays. He wanted, he said, "to die like a man."

Such is the boozey stuff of which legends and ballads are made.

Given his choice of death by hanging, or death by firing squad, Gilmore chose to go with the guns. The press descended upon State Prison Warden Samuel Smith, demanding the grisly details. Gilmore would be seated in a wooden chair, strapped by the neck, arms and legs. There would be a black hood over his head, a circular black bull's-eye .30-cal. Winchester hunting rifle. One of the rifles would be loaded with a blank. Hello, sweetheart...

Warden Smith acknowledged that he had been deluged with applications from volunteer marksmen wanting to serve on the squad. Each of the executioners would be paid $175 for his service. When the warden told a press conference that state law did not permit journalists to witness the execution, the reporters shouted objections.

While Utah's Governor Calvin Rampton hesitated, waiting on a Board of Pardons hearing, the story ripened with the appearance of Gilmore's moll, the beautiful Nicole Barrett, 20, mother of two. They had enjoyed a stormy affair in the early summer. She was eager to marry him now. She went to the prison, where a matron gave her a "strip search" for contraband but found nothing. Somehow, Nicole had secreted Seconal tablets which she passed to Gilmore. They separately tried suicide. They recovered. He sent her a single yellow rose. Rewrite! Gimmee rewrite!

About this time, the cast was enlarged by the Dickensian figure of Dennis Boaz, a lawyer with a fine eye for the main chance. Gilmore named him as his business agent to handle the offers for books, paperbacks, and interviews that came flooding in. The Times reported their contract: a 50-50 split of the take. Gilmore pledged 60 percent of his share to his mother.

The great American dream unfolds: Inevitably there will be a Ballad of Gary and Nicole... a musical... a movie... T-shirts bearing his sinister face... execution

Sit In Gallows Shadow

40 Years Ago Today

November 30, 1936
France, Great Britain and Belgium have formed what virtually amounts to a three-power military accord, informed sources in Paris said today, interpreting the projected pact as signalling a new western European alliance.

French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos will announce the rapprochement Friday, these sources said, returning Britain's assurance of last week that the powers will come to each other's aid to repel unprovoked aggression.

President Roosevelt, acclaimed by hundreds of thousands, reached Buenos Aires this afternoon for the opening tomorrow night of a 21-nation peace conference which grew out of his initiative.

The cruiser Indianapolis, which carried the President on his 12-day trip, docked amid the cheers of a huge throng on shore and the shrieks of whistles on hundreds of vessels in the harbor.

The cruiser reached the flower-decked dock at 1:34 p.m.

James Roosevelt, the President's son, was the first ashore. He shook hands with Argentine president Augustin Justo and others in the reception group.

The visiting President descended the gangplank holding the arms of his son, who had reboarded the vessel.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter's Nuclear Choice

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A wave of cold fear spread among manufacturers of nuclear power plants and the utilities that use them as word leaked out last week of three names being considered by President-elect Carter for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC).

The industry's consensus was voiced by one major utility: if these three take control of the five-member NRC as Carter appointments over the next 18 months, there is no future for nuclear power in this country. Indeed, if just one member of the lethal trio were named to an existing vacancy on the commission, one major electrical reactor says it will consider shutting down its reactor development program.

Actually, Carter is barely into formation of his cabinet and nowhere near deciding any regulatory commission nominations. Nevertheless, there is no doubt the three names generating frenzy in the nuclear industry are—along with many others—on Carter's list. The fact that they are there is enough to cause the utilities and manufacturers to reexamine future plans.

That first NRC appointment by the new President is awaited with intensity not for what one mere commissioner could do but what it tells about the new President. On this, as on other issues, the 22-month campaign left unanswered questions: Is Carter a pragmatic engineer who appreciates there can be no solution of energy problems without nuclear power? Or does he side with ecological reformers who would reduce living standards rather than exercise the nuclear option?

The latter possibility, suggested by Carter's campaign rhetoric, grew in the eyes of the nuclear industry as these three names began circulating as NRC possibilities:

Anthony Roisman, 38, a Washington lawyer (and close associate of anti-nuclear activist Ralph Nader) who has tried lawsuits to block atomic power plants. Roisman operates actively with the anti-nuclear Natural Resources Defense Council and is nationally known in the movement to block atomic power. The most militant of the three possibilities, he is also the least likely to be appointed, according to Carter transition officials.

Dr. Dean E. Abrahamson, 42, a University of Minnesota professor teaching "energy policy." While one key Carter adviser considers Abrahamson a "moderate" who might well be an NRC appointment, his past writings seem basically immoderate. In 1974, he declared "nuclear fission is not an acceptable means of producing energy." In 1975, he wrote that only a federal police force could maintain security at nuclear power plants, adding: "The response to nuclear power will be the garrison state."

Harold P. Green, 54, a Washington lawyer associated with the National Law Center at the George Washington University and an expert on legal problems affecting atomic energy. Green, less well known and less radical than Roisman and Abrahamson, considers himself a middle-roader on nuclear power problems. But industry views him with scarcely less apprehension than the other two possibilities.

One of the President-elect's energy advisers told us he considers the surfacing of the three names as an industry pre-emptive strike to kill them off as possibilities. In truth, however, corporate officials were not playing a sophisticated Washington game but reflecting genuine fear derived from Carter's studied ambivalence regarding nuclear power during the campaign.

That ambivalence succeeded in convincing both sides in California's fiercely fought anti-nuclear referendum (which lost as did every other such state vote this year) that in his heart he was on their side. During the Oregon Democratic primary, he endorsed that state's anti-nuclear initiative; facing a broader Oregon electorate in the fall, he declined to help the referendum.

Carter's frequently stated position, echoed in the first presidential debate, is that he would use atomic power "as a last resort only." If so required, he would insist on safety measures, which he then listed—measures obviously spawned by his experience as a naval nuclear engineer but considered 15 years out of date by experts.

Campaigner Carter was playing the nuclear engineer who opposes nuclear power (supplementary to the Southerner who supports racial integration and the Annapolis graduate who

Other Editors Say Urging Morgan

(The Wilson Times)

This Democratic Congress is beginning to realize the big issues and prepare to support or defend them, whichever the conditions require.

We are speaking now of the right-to-work law. If Carter allows AFL-CIO lobbyists to launch an attack on state right-to-work laws, he will find himself without the support of North Carolina Senator Robert Morgan, who helped put North Carolina in the Carter win column on election day. In a letter to the North Carolina senator, Reed Larson, president of the National Right to Work Committee, warned that Big Labor spokesmen will "insist" that Congress and the new president destroy the 20 state laws banning compulsory unionism and also legalize coercive "common situs" picketing in the construction industry.

Ten of the one-time Confederate states are primarily responsible for the Nov. 2 election of the former Georgia governor, according to Larson. He wrote: "Gov. Carter owes a substantial debt to voters in the right-to-work states of the South. If they had refused to support him, as they refused to support then vice president Humphrey in 1968, he would have been defeated."

"The people of the right-to-work states are determined to preserve their existing protection against compulsory unionism," Larson said. "Their determination was reflected by the Nov. 2 election returns from several states. The people of Wyoming and Utah, ousted U. S. Senators who favored repeal of the right-to-work laws."

"Arkansas voters crushed a union-sponsored proposal which would have destroyed their right-to-work law," Larson pointed out. The Arkansas vote was 2 to 1 against the repeal measure.

Praising the North Carolina senator as "an uncompromising champion of the North Carolina right-to-work law," Larson called on him to dissuade the president-elect from supporting legislation which would "give greater power to union officials at the expense of wage-earners and the general public."

Northeast Seeks Retain Power

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Worried that something has gone wrong, politicians from the Northeast are forming pressure groups to recapture the economic leadership that once was their region's unquestioned right.

Since last summer, congressmen, governors and state legislators have linked together in coalitions they hope will accumulate enough political power to slow the slide of their beleaguered region.

So far, the groups exist mostly on paper. And even the organizers question whether their members can look beyond their immediate interests to work for the health of the entire Northeast.

But even if these groups fail by themselves to find solutions for the Northeast, their supporters say they will at least start people talking about the region as a place with special needs and problems of its own.

"It's now a matter of consciousness-raising," says Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass. "These groups focus attention on the inequities."

The unfairness described by Harrington and others centers on the federal government. Washington has failed, they say, to shift its economic help to the region that now needs it most—the Northeast.

The Sunbelt states—the Southeast and Southwest—are throbbing with new industry, and yet the northeastern congressmen maintain these states get a disproportionate share of federal money.

They cite studies showing that residents of the six New England states plus New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania get back only 85 cents for every dollar they pay to the federal government in taxes. At the same time, residents of the South get back $1.14, while New Mexico citizens receive $1.93.

Yet the Northeast lags far behind the Sunbelt in the growth of its population and manufacturing.

Harrington has been one of the Northeast's chief advocates. The liberal congressman has stirred up attention and helped organize the beginning of a response to the region's economic dilemma.

His most ambitious undertaking has been uniting about 200 congressmen in the Northeast-Midwest Economic Advancement Coalition.

So far, the coalition has provided a chance for congressmen to talk about the economic woes of the Northeast. Members are holding a series of hearings in New York, Boston and Detroit. But even Harrington, who is chairman of the coalition, doubts how much impact it can have beyond this.

The limitations are built into the way congressmen work. Ordinarily, they are considered to be doing well if they attract contracts, grants and other government money to their own districts.

Harrington says it will be difficult to convince these politicians they also should worry about favors for distant states that happen to be in the same geographic region.

"This flies in the face of traditional standards of congressional success," Harrington says.

Strength For Today

ONWARD, CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS

When Baring-Gould, the great hymn writer, wrote these words in 1865, he was giving expression to an important aspect of the Christian faith. Christians are often thought of as meek, submissive, and yielding. Christ himself is often pictured as an ascetic, withdrawn, other-worldly figure.

But this is a distortion of our faith. Christians, as Baring-Gould says, are soldiers. They have before them a series of perhaps never-ending battles. Filled with determination, they are never submissive to evil. Their meekness, far from being cowardly submission, becomes a terrifying weapon against the forces of evil. The cross, their battle standard, is not only a reproach to a wicked world but a challenge to evil itself.

In all this Christians imitate Christ himself, who was a virile man, possessing strength, courage, and magnetism. A true world conqueror, he recruited an army ultimately of millions, starting with twelve Jewish peasants and fishermen.

Moose Vote To Fill Top Republicans Plan Policy Panel Post By Appointment

The Greenville Moose last night voted to accept the recommendation of their board of officers and fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Governor Thomas Jamieson by appointing Junior Past Governor James Fleming to serve out the incomplete term.

The action, said Junior Governor Arthur Diehl, would require a special dispensation from Mooseheart; but, Diehl added, it was expected such dispensation would be granted.

Fleming served as Governor during the 1975-76 Moose year. The lodge concluded its 26th anniversary observance Sunday morning with a breakfast and candle-light enrollment of 15 new members. A dance for the membership and candidates for enrollment was held Saturday night.

State Director Nandor Kozmo and District 13 President Fred Jarvis were special guests for the occasion.

Moosehaven board member and former Secretary of the Irish Republican Army.

No one has been executed by the Irish government since 1954, and a woman has not been sent to the gallows since 1925. The prospect of a double hanging has aroused widespread controversy, both over capital punishment and the effect sparing the Murrays might have on the government's campaign against the extremists of the Irish Republican Army.

The Supreme Court is expected to rule soon on the couple's appeal against the death sentences. They contend the capital punishment provision for murder of a police officer should not apply to them because their victim was off duty, was not in uniform, and they did not know he was a policeman.

In Ireland, the death penalty applies only to the murder of a head of state, diplomats, police and prison officers and killings by members of illegal organizations for political ends.

If the Supreme Court rejects the Murrays' appeal, Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave and his cabinet could spare them by recommending a presidential reprieve. But two political murders since their trial may have hurt their chances for reprieve — the land-mine assassination of British Ambassador Christopher Ewart-Biggs on July 21 and the booby-trap killing of a police officer last month.

Both those killings were blamed on the IRA.

"There is a strong body of opinion in government circles that relieving the Murrays will undermine the government's drive to smash the IRA and other organizations that threaten security," one well-placed source reported.

Noel and Marie Murray were married three years ago. They met through a mutual interest in Gaelic, Ireland's ancient tongue, as well as Irish nationalism and civil rights. Marie was working in the government's Gaelic section.

They drifted into left-wing politics and eventually into Ireland's tiny anarchist community. Both had minor brushes with the law over a robbery linked with their political activities. But they didn't become public figures until they held up a Dublin bank in September 1975.

The robbery was seen by police officer Michael Reynolds while he was taking his wife and young daughter for a drive on the wet Thursday afternoon. He chased the getaway car down a dead-end street and jumped Murray. Mrs. Murray shot the policeman in the back of the head with a pistol.

wants defense cuts). But organized labor's forceful advocates of nuclear energy believe Carter as President will face the inescapable necessity of nuclear power to reduce reliance on foreign oil.

Whether the new President's labor allies are correct in this forecast will be tested quickly by how he fills the existing NRC vacancy. If Carter chooses ecological dogmatism over energy pragmatism, the business decisions in the nuclear industry will be duly affected in a way that could only further reduce options for handling the nation's unsolved energy problem.

Greenville lodge, Edwin M. Baldree, who was honored at the Sunday morning ritual, welcomed the new enrollees into "one of the largest fraternities in the world" as well as into the Greenville lodge.

His advice: become involved.

"Your lodge owes its success to community involvement," he told his listeners. "As new members you share in the benefits the lodge provides, as fully as long-time members of the Moose. The more you put into any organization, the more you in turn will gain; the Moose will gain and your community will gain."

The speaker described anew the roles of Mooseheart and Moosehaven in the life of the fraternity as well as the possible sources of help they represented in times of crisis for Moose members.

New members enrolled Sunday were: Robert F. Barr, David A. Boyd Jr., Robert L. Clark, Jose E. Diaz, William E. Draper, Gerald K. Forrest, Jimmy McRoy, James B. Olorog, Shelton Olorogee, Wesley A. Pridgen, Leonard D. Sawyer, Johnnie W. Simmons Jr., Phillip L. Smith, Preston K. Turner and William R. McLawhorn.

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — At President Ford's suggestion, Republican leaders are drafting plans for a new policy panel to guide the party and speak on the issues after Democrat Jimmy Carter moves into the White House.

A Republican source said Ford has indicated he would take an active role in such an operation, patterned on the party committee that set and spoke policy a decade ago, during another GOP rebuilding effort.

Mary Louise Smith, the resigning national chairman, told Republican governors Monday that she is exploring the possibility of setting up "a policy committee of Republican leaders whose specific task would be to harness ideas and set directions."

That was the concept of the Republican Coordinating Committee, which charted GOP policy when Lyndon B. Johnson was president.

It included congressional GRAND MARSHAL NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Kitty Wells, who was inducted last month into the Country Music Hall of Fame, will be grand marshal for the Nashville Christmas parade Sunday.

leaders, including Ford, governors, former presidential nominees and other party officials, and spanned GOP ideology from right to left.

That was not the only familiar formula advanced on Monday as GOP governors, only 12 of them surviving, discussed the Republican plight and future. Their two-day meeting winds up today.

The governors and other party leaders spent Monday talking of broadening GOP appeal, shelving ideological disputes and turning to a master organizer to lead rebuilding efforts for the next election.

In similar circumstances 12 years ago, their predecessors settled on much the same prescription. There were 17 Republican governors then, and Sen. Barry Goldwater had just lost a landslide to Johnson.

"The basic problem here is to broaden the base. That's the thing to be dealt with," said George Romney, the former Michigan governor, who was on hand Monday as he was in 1964.

Now, as then, the Republicans are in need of a new national party chairman and, as before, the governors want a voice in the selection.

John B. Connally, the Republican convert who once was a Democratic governor of Texas, told them the GOP needs a spokesman at the party helm, then added at a corridor news conference that he might be available for the job.

His evident interest did not produce any swell of support among the governors. Several are pushing their own state chairmen for the job. Others are awaiting Ford's suggestion on a successor to Mrs. Smith.

In other conference developments: —Connally urged advocacy of a change in the tenure of federal officials. He proposed a six-year term for presidents with a one-term limit, one eight-year term for senators and four-year terms for the House with a two-term limit. Current officeholders would be exempt.

—Mrs. Smith and former Oregon Gov. Tom McCall dismissed suggestions by Ronald Reagan and other conservatives that the party change its name. "We don't need to change our name. We need to live up to it," Mrs. Smith said. McCall said somebody had proposed that if the GOP wants a new label, perhaps it should be called the Neo-Pachyderm Party.

Resume UPS Strike Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the Teamsters Union and the United Parcel Service are talking again in efforts to settle a 71-day-old strike.

The talks were continuing here today after resuming Monday for the first time in more than a week.

Sources said the company submitted revised contract proposals Monday, but there was no indication on the union's response.

Both sides have maintained a self-imposed news blackout.

Some 17,000 UPS employees struck Sept. 15, shutting down company facilities in 15 states from Maine to North Carolina.

The strike at UPS — the nation's largest private carrier of packages — has more than doubled the amount of bulk mail handled by the U.S. Postal Service in the East, with the load expected to increase as the Christmas season approaches.

A company proposal to replace fulltime warehouse workers with parttime help is the main issue in the dispute.

Tar Heels Win Scholarships

CHICAGO (AP) — Scholarships have been won by three more North Carolina 4-H members at the 55th National 4-H Congress.

Scholarships were announced Monday for Chuck Keller of Kings Mountain who won a $1,000 scholarship in the automotive program; Kathy Kearns of Asheboro who was awarded $800 in the clothing division; and Karen Griffin of Marshville who won an $800 scholarship in foods and nutrition.

Six adult leaders are attending the congress with 36 Tar Heel 4-H members.

Plane Found In Granville County

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — "There wasn't a piece as big as a fender" said a deputy sheriff of the wreckage of a single-engine plane which crashed near here, killing all four aboard.

They were students at the Embrey Riddle Aeronautical University at Daytona, Beach, Fla. They were returning to the school from Thanksgiving vacation. They had started the flight at Wilmington, Del., and were to have made a stop at Savannah, Ga.

They were identified as Lawrence Vital, 21, of Lexington, Mass.; Richard William Scleppi, 20, of Floral Park, N.Y.; Robert Valsecchi, 20, of Westbury, N.Y., and Steven Allen Doener, 23, of Wilmington, Del.

They had flown home last week in the plane, rented from a commercial operation in DeLand, Fla.

Granville County Deputy A. R. Thomerson said the Cessna 210 disintegrated on impact Sunday evening in a field of straw and honeysuckle. The wreckage was found Monday.

A spokesman for National Warning Center at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois said Vital was the pilot.

Civil Air Patrol authorities said the plane disappeared from radar scopes at Lawrenceville, Va., 30 miles north of the Virginia-North Carolina border, at 6:05 p.m. Sunday, while flying at 6,000 feet.

Although the plane was found a mile and one-half from the Henderson-Oxford airport, authorities said there was no radio contact between the craft and the airport.

A Civil Air Patrol spokesman said their organization was notified Sunday night that someone in the area had heard an airplane and what sounded like a crash. The CAP began the search shortly after midnight.

Ground crews, led by CAP Capt. Richard Matthews of Henderson, found the wreckage at 11:45 a.m. Monday. He said the plane, which did not burn, was identified by three serial numbers on a scrap of wreckage.

Some rode the train on the final trips both from and to Washington.

At Charlotte, ticket agent Bill Stogner, called out, "Hey Zeb, I'm needing help with the tickets."

However, Southern had told the Interstate Commerce Commission that it had lost $817,000 in the year of operation of the train.

The death of the Piedmont leaves only one passenger train, the Crescent, making stops here daily along its route from New York to New Orleans.

Raymond Young, a porter who has worked at the Greensboro terminal for 37 years, noted there had been big crowds in the depot Wednesday and Thursday for holiday travel on the Crescent. "That shows that the passenger train ain't entirely dead or a thing of the past here, no stree," he said.

Pirates Hold Off 'Dogs By 68-65

East Carolina's young Pirates survived a ten and a half minutes drought that saw them score only four points, as they hung on to take a 68-65 victory over UNC-Asheville last night.

The game was the opener for the Pirates. While UNC-Asheville saw its record drop to 3-2. The loss snapped a three-game winning streak by the Bulldogs.

The Bucs roared out to as much as a 14 point lead in the first half, and held a 12 point spread with 17:30 left in the contest. But during the next ten and a half minutes, the Pirates managed just four points on two baskets as shot after shot just missed. During that time, Asheville came back on the shooting of George Gilbert to cut the lead away and take a one-point lead, 57-56.

But the Pirates regained the lead at 60-59 on two Larry Hunt free throws, and seconds later, Louis Crosby stole the ball and dunked it to push the Bucs into a three-point lead. That was the cushion they needed, and they were able to hold off Asheville after that.

"I'm very proud of them," Coach Dave Patton said afterwards. "They had the chance to lose their poise, but they didn't do it. They held on and did the things they were supposed to do. This is a young team and it played like it at times. But they did well. I'm very proud of them."

The Pirates worked the board well in the game, pulling off 50 while the Bulldogs got but 36. Hunt led the way with 16, while Tony Bumphus pulled down 10 for the 'Dogs.

with just a 41.7 shooting percentage for the game. After a 50 per cent showing in the second half, Asheville finished with a 41.9 mark.

Free throw shooting also hurt the Pirates. They made but four of nine in the first half, but improved to a perfect four-for-four in the second.

East Carolina got the opening lead on a jumper from the circle by Billy Dineen and they quickly built that out to an 7-0 advantage. Gilbert broke the ice for Asheville with a free throw after nearly two minutes, but the Pirates continued to pull away until they had upped the lead to 11-1.

Asheville cut back on the lead to as little as six, but the Pirates again pulled out, this time to as much as 14 points. That came at 22-8 on a shot by Herb Gray with 9:57 left in the half. Asheville put on another rally, however, and sliced the lead back to four points at 26-24 with 4:37 to play, as Gilbert continued his hot hand. East Carolina inched back out, however, and held at 42-34 margin at intermission.

In the second half, the Pirates quickly moved back out to as much as 12 point edge. That came at 48-36 when Dineen hit with 18:45 left. Two more times, the Pirates made it 12 before hitting their dry spell. That started after the Bucs made it 52-40 on two free throws by Greg Cornelius with 17:30 left.

During the next ten plus minutes, the Pirates went cold, and Gilbert got even hotter, hitting near impossible shots for the Bulldogs. His shooting helped the Bulldogs slice away at the lead, until Bam Jones hit at 8:18 to move Asheville ahead, 57-56.

Dineen connected to put the Pirates back out, but a basket by Gilbert returned the lead to Asheville with 6:34 to go.

Hunt canned two free throws at the 5:48 mark to put East Carolina back in front, 60-59, and Crosby's steal followed to run it to 62-59. Asheville twice cut the lead back to one, but a basket by Herb Krusen with 13 seconds left swept it up, giving the Bucs their 68-65 edge.

Dineen led the Pirate scoring with 13 points, while Krusen had 12 and Hunt and Crosby each had 10. Gilbert had 24 to pace Asheville, while Jones added 12 and Bumphus hit 10.

East Carolina will entertain Western Carolina on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in their second outing of the year.

All But Appalachian Claim Opening Wins

By The Associated Press ... Three more teams eligible for the Southern Conference basketball championship have opened their campaigns with victories, leaving Appalachian State's Mountaineers the dubious honor of suffering the only season-opening defeat.

William and Mary's Indians hung a 105-51 drubbing Monday night on previously unbeaten Christopher Newport, The Citadel's Bulldogs edged Wofford 83-77 and East Carolina's Pirates hung on for a 68-65 decision over UNC-Asheville.

But Appalachian State was drubbed 84-61 in its debut at Auburn, and Coach Bobby Cremins — his team having taken a 50-30 beating off the boards — observed that "every time I looked out there, it looked like the ball was going up."

William and Mary, rated a strong contender for the conference title, went on an 11-point run early in the second half to boost a 46-30 halftime lead to 65-32 and never was in trouble again.

Ron Satterthwaite had six of his 12 points during the run, but the Indians' scoring was led by Matt Courage with 15 and Rocky Copley with 13. Billy Harrington and John Kratzer added 10 each as William and Mary shot a blistering 69.9 per cent in the second half.

Courage and freshman Ted O'Gorman grabbed 10 rebounds each against the outclassed Captains, who fell to 2-1. Steve Brown led Christopher Newport with 15 points.

The Citadel, with Rick Swing and Chris Davis combining for 35 points, overcame an early 21-9 deficit. Bob Jacobs had three field goals in a 10-2 spree that broke a 58-58 tie midway the second half. Swing finished with 21 points and Davis with 14.

Larry Hunt scored 10 points and grabbed 16 rebounds as East Carolina built a 22-8 lead in the first half, then had to come back from a 57-56 deficit with 8:18 left. Billy Dineen had 13 points, Herb Krusen 12 and Louis Crosby 10 for the Pirates.

Appalachian chopped a 14-point deficit to three at intermission, and Auburn Coach Bob Davis said, "They're gonna have to repaint that locker room in there after I talked to them at the half."

Mike Mitchell had 17 points, Pepto Bolden 16 and Eddie Johnson as the Tigers pulled away in the second half. Calvin Bowser had 14 points and Darryl Robins 12 for the Mountaineers.

"We had a great first half, but we're a young team and when they came out in the second half with their zone trap, we got a little nervous and panicked," said Cremins.

Jay Lassiter scored 28 points as he led title-ineligible new member Western Carolina past Mars Hill 80-73. But another new member, Tennessee-Chattanooga, dropped a 64-60 decision at Grambling.

Tonight's only action has Davidson's Wildcats, 1-0, playing host to St. John's, N. Y., at Charlotte, N. C.

ATHLETIC BROTHERS

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP2) — Wyoming's star defensive end, Francis Chesley, comes from a highly competitive Washington, D.C., family. He is one of 10 children. His six brothers are regarded as fine athletes.

One (Walter Chesley) played basketball at Boston U. Another (Al) plays linebacker at Pittsburgh. "Watch out for my younger brothers," says Francis Chesley. "They have more trophies than all their older brothers combined."

Jackson Inks Yankee Contract

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the end, it was Owner George Steinbrenner's salesmanship and the lure of playing in the media capital of the world that led Reggie Jackson to the New York Yankees.

"The reason I'm a Yankee is that George Steinbrenner out-hustled everybody else," said Jackson, who reportedly accepted a $3 million, five-year deal Monday to join the American League champions.

"Steinbrenner's like me," said Jackson, "a little bit crazy and a hustler."

And because the Yankee owner has a good deal of charm to boot, Jackson settled for less money from the Yankees than he could have had elsewhere.

"Four clubs offered more money than the Yankees," said Gary Walker, Jackson's agent.

But none of those teams had Steinbrenner doing the offering. The Jackson agreement came 10 days after the Yankees paid a reported $2 million for a six-year contract with another free agent, pitcher Don Gullett.

That $5 million investment rivaled the amount spent by the California Angels as top dollar in the free agent sweepstakes. But the Angels came away with three players for their money — outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor and infielder Bobby Grich.

Originally, Grich had been one of the Yankees' high priorities in this auction of some of baseball's top talent. President Gabe Paul wanted him to solve the Yankees' shortstop problem.

But Steinbrenner preferred Jackson, a home run slugger with charisma. And Jackson, as it turned out, preferred New York.

"Other clubs offered more money," said Jackson. "But I think certain things are a lot more meaningful than money."

There were other factors, of course. The Yankees are defending AL champions, a proven winning team with the Most Valuable Player, Thurman Munson, heading a solid lineup. They would seem to have a good chance to be back near the top next year and Jackson enjoys the spotlight that follows a winning team. He could not have had that with the two other main contenders for his services, the Montreal Expos and San Diego Padres.

"I was envious watching the World Series last October," said the slugger, who served as a television commentator during the Series. "I should still have been playing. I think I can alleviate that feeling playing for the Yankees, riding on Munson's shirt-tails."

Munson, who attended the Jackson announcement along with outfielder Roy White and Yankee Coaches Yogi Berra and Elston Howard, flashed a wide grin at the remark.

"It will be exciting playing in Yankee Stadium," said Jackson. "I can't imagine what it will be like to put on pinstripes. It will be exciting hitting home runs in Yankee Stadium as a Yankee."

Jackson has hit them there before. His 281 career homers are third best among active American League players, behind only Carl Yastrzemski and Boog Powell. He needs just 19 more homers to become the 38th player in baseball history to reach 300.

Maryland Goes After Its First Victory

By The Associated Press
Duke, which has a history of losing close basketball games, won one its last time out, a confidence-building 84-82 over North Carolina State, and will try to do some surgery on Johns Hopkins at home tonight.

One other Atlantic Coast Conference team, Maryland, which lost 80-79 to Notre Dame in overtime Saturday, will be playing tonight. The Terps are home to Ball State of Indiana.

Duke's victory was the first over N.C. State since 1972. It gave the Blue Devils third place in the North Carolina Big Four Tournament.

Duke, at 13-14, was the only losing team in the ACC last season, but seven of the losses were by three points or less.

It looked like "here we go again" after the 81-80 loss to Wake Forest Friday in the opening round of the Big Four in Greensboro.

But the Blue Devils came back against the N.C. State Wolfpack.

Wake Forest won the tournament for the third year in a row by beating North Carolina 97-96 in overtime.

Jerry Schellenberg, who was named the most valuable player in the tournament for the second straight year, also has been chosen as the ACC player of the week. In the two tournament games, he scored 39 points and had eight rebounds and nine assists. The 6-foot-6 senior switched in the tournament from the backcourt to the forward slot he filled as a freshman.

Also liked for player of the week in the voting by a panel of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association was center

Wayne "Tree" Rollins. He led the Tigers to the championship of their IPTAY Tournament. He scored 42 points, had 30 rebounds, and blocked 10 shots in the victories over Yale, 104-50, and Florida State, 108-92.

Mike O'Koren, North Carolina's 6-7 freshman center, has been named ACC rookie of the week for his 35 points and nine rebounds in the two tournament games.

Also figuring in the rookie voting were Mike Owens of Virginia, who helped the Cavaliers win the Virginia Invitational championship, and Mike Gminski of Duke, who had 22 rebounds and blocked eight shots in the Big Four Tournament.

After leading Wake Forest past North Carolina, Schellenberg asked Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith, "Why didn't you pick me for the Olympic team?"

"As if I could pick him," said Smith, who coached the United States to the gold medal in the summer games at Montreal.

Dorsett Is Top Candidate

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In what is rapidly becoming one of the worst-kept secrets of the season, Pitt's Tony Dorsett, the most prolific running back in college football history, is expected to become the winner of the 42nd annual Heisman Trophy today.

The Associated Press learned that Dorsett was due here this morning for the Heisman announcement expected around noon at the Downtown Athletic Club, which presents the award annually to "the outstanding college football player in the United States."

Meanwhile, neither Ricky Bell of Southern California nor Rob Lytle of Michigan, the likely challengers, was alerted to stand by for a possible trip to New York.

Others expected to finish high in the voting include running back Terry Miller of Oklahoma State and quarterbacks Vince Ferragamo of Nebraska, Tommy Kramer of Rice and Gifford Nielsen of Brigham Young. Only three players other than quarterbacks and running backs have ever won the Heisman Trophy — two-way ends

Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949 and flanker Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska in 1972. Running back Archie Griffin of Ohio State, who captured the Heisman in 1974 and 1975, is the only two-time winner.

Although the Downtown A.C. says it will count all ballots received until 9 a.m. today, the outcome became virtually a foregone conclusion when Dorsett closed out the regular season Friday night by carrying 224 yards in No. 1-ranked Pitt's 24-7 victory over Penn State.

That gave him an all-time NCAA single-season record of 1,948 yards — Bell had 1,875 a year ago and 1,417 this season although he missed one game with an injury and played hurt in several others — and also made Dorsett the first 6,000-yard runner in history with a four-year total of 6,082.

San Francisco Defense Proves Too Much For Minnesota, 20-16

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' Delvin Williams and Wilbur Jackson pierced Minnesota's proud defensive unit for 309 yards, leaving some of the Vikings speechless.

"What can I say? Anything would sound like sour grapes," All-Pro tackle Alan Page said, the sour taste of a 20-16 loss to the 49ers still in his mouth after Monday night's nationally televised National Football League game.

"We got our backsides kicked," said the more talkative Fran Tarkenton. "We've been getting our backsides kicked the last six weeks, even though we've been winning."

The 49ers took a four-game losing streak against the play-off-bound Vikings, and rookie Scott Bull was at quarterback in place of injured Jim Plunkett to direct the offense which totaled a mere 83 yards a week earlier against Los Angeles.

"We wanted to run at them and that's what we did. We ran it straight up the middle," said Williams, who totaled 153 yards despite sitting out most of the last period with a sprained ankle.

"Our plan was to run the ball and to pass as little as possible, to keep the pressure off Scott," added Williams who, with 1,012 yards for the season, is within 37 yards of Joe Perry's team record of 1,049 yards, which has stood since 1954.

"The line doing the job it did made things easy," said Jackson, whose 30 rushes netted 156 yards.

Bull, in his first NFL start, passed only eight times and completed three for 32 yards. He appraised his performance as "good, considering the game plan."

With their running success, the 49ers made their record 7-5, and at least postponed their elimination from the National Football Conference West race. The NFC Central champion Vikings are 9-2-1, no longer claiming the best record in the conference.

The 49ers' first touchdown drive, ending with Jackson's two-yard blast into the end zone, was accomplished on eight running plays. A 24-yard run by Jackson set up Steve Mike-Mayer's 45-yard field goal which made the score 10-0.

"But we got the pass when we needed it," former Arkansas star Bull noted, referring to his 16-yard completion to Gene Washington on a 83-yard drive late in the second period.

Tarkenton's second-quarter touchdown passes of 18 yards to Sammy White and eight yards to Ahmad Rashad had given the Vikings a 13-10 lead. The 49ers went ahead to stay when Bull leaned into the end zone 41 seconds before the half.

The only second half scoring came on field goals by Minnesota's Fred Cox and the 49ers' Mike-Mayer. The Vikings' Chuck Foreman, whose 93 yards put him at 1,035 for the year, was stopped on a fourth-and-one situation at the 49ers' 15-yard line with two minutes left, and the game ended when Tarkenton overthrew Rashad in the end zone on a 33-yard pass.

Pittsburgh Is Nation's Best

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The University of Pittsburgh finished the regular college football season as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll today, but the Panthers must get past fifth-ranked Georgia in the Sugar Bowl to nail down their first national championship in 39 years.

Pitt defeated arch-rival Penn State 24-7 and wound up with an 11-0 record. The Panthers celebrated their fourth consecutive week at the top of the ratings by polling 45 first-place votes and 1,128 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of 58 sports writers and broadcasters.

The national championship will be released Jan. 4, following the postseason bowl games.

Behind Pitt, runner-up Michigan widened its lead over third-place Southern California while unbeaten Maryland slipped past Georgia into fourth place and Houston inched ahead of UCLA for the sixth spot.

Michigan, which finished its regular season a week ago, received eight first-place votes and 998 points while Southern Cal, a 17-13 winner over Notre Dame, earned three first-place ballots and 931 points. Last week's spread among Pitt, Michigan and Southern Cal with 62 voters participating was 1,172-1,050-1,046 in points and 39-13-7 in first-place votes. Michigan and Southern Cal will meet in the Rose Bowl.

Meanwhile, Maryland, which finished 11-0 a week ago, received the remaining two first-place votes and climbed from fifth to fourth with 749 points. The Terrapins nosed past Georgia, which slipped from fourth to fifth with 747 points after needing a last-minute field goal to turn back Georgia Tech 13-10.

Houston clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl — with a 42-20 rout of Rice and rose from seventh place to sixth with 526 points. Idle UCLA dropped from sixth to seventh with 510 points.

Oklahoma remained eighth after a 20-17 triumph over Nebraska and Texas Tech held onto ninth by crushing Arkansas 30-7, but Nebraska fell from 10th to 13th. Replacing the Cornhuskers in 10th place was streaking Texas A&M, a 27-3 winner over Texas.

The Second Ten consists of Ohio State, Colorado, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Alabama, Rutgers, Baylor and North Carolina, with Mississippi State and Penn State tied for 20th.

Last week's Second Ten was Texas A&M, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Colorado and Oklahoma State tied for 14th, Penn State, Rutgers and Alabama, with Mississippi State and North Carolina tied for 19th.

No team dropped out of the Top Twenty but Baylor moved in with a 24-19 victory over Texas Christian that raised its record to 7-2-1.

Young, Inexperienced Rampants Set To Open Basketball Season

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sport Writer

Rose High School's cagers open their season Wednesday night, traveling to Kinston, and new coach Jim Brewington is hopeful that the Rampants will be able to improve on their record of last year.

This year's team will be a young one, with only two back who played last year. "I want to be optimistic," Brewington said. "But we've had no scrimmage, so I'm really in the dark as to what we really can do."

"I think we could have a real good season if we get off on the right foot," he said. However, Rose must open against Kinston, then play New Bern and Washington, three of the better teams in the East.

"Our conference is strong this year too," Brewington said. He rates Rocky Mount, which returns all of its starters, as the top team, with Bertie close behind. "I really think we have a chance to battle for third place," he said.

One thing which has hurt the Rampant preparation has been that William Barnes, 6-6, the tallest Rose player, has not been able to fully participate due to back problems. The other veteran, 6-5 Derek Brewington, still isn't in shape, but reportedly is responding better.

"We have good shooters," the coach said. "It all depends on how well we can coordinate things. We're going to run and shoot and we're going to play pressure defense all the way."

If both Brewington and Barnes are available, the Rampants will have average height. But without one or both of them, they will be a short team. After Brewington, the next tallest is 6-4 Billy Williams, followed by 6-2 Anthony Bryant.

"We're got some kids who, in time, could be super players—James Hawkins, Greg Guthrie and Jackie Payton—but they are all guards. Guthrie could be one of the best in the league before the season is over. He'll probably be our point guard. Hawkins will also play a lot and may start if we go with a three-guard offense."

Lorenzo Owens might be one of the forwards, as could Curtis Crandall, Larry Speight or Michael Joyner. At guards, further depth is provided by William Haynes, James Shoe and Perry Worthington. "Overall, we have about 10 who could start at one time or another," Brewington said.

The only sure starters at this point appear to be Bryant, Brewington and Guthrie. Rebounding is a question mark right now. "We have the people who can do it. It's just a question of getting ready, and being aggressive. We have to try and get a winning attitude back."

Brewington feels that the team has good shooting. "We're really too pass conscious right now," the coach said.

Last year, Rose won two games. "We want to show a lot of improvement on that, but I'm really shooting for a break-even season. We will have come a long way if we can do that."

The likelihood of a conference championship is little more than a dream for the Rampants this year. The idea this season is to get the program back on a winning note, then build from there.

Carolina Falls, Wake Is Ranked

By The Associated Press
Michigan, returning most of the team which finished second to Indiana in last season's national basketball championships, has grabbed an impressive lead in the first Associated Press college basketball poll of the regular 1976-77 season.

The Wolverines, 1-0, and rated No. 1 in the preseason poll, received 38 first-place votes in outdistancing runner-up Marquette, 896 points to 772.

In balloting Monday by 48 sports writers and broadcasters across the country, Marquette, which has yet to play this season, received three first-place votes.

UCLA, 2-0, edged Indiana, also 2-0, for third place, 613 points to 603, while Kentucky was fifth with 503.

Others in the Top Ten, in order and including records and point totals, were Nevada-Las Vegas, 1-0, 417; Louisville, 0-0; 401; Notre Dame, 1-0, 316; North Carolina, 1-1, 284, and San Francisco, 2-0, 279.

Besides Michigan and Marquette, other teams receiving first-place votes were Indiana and Louisville with two each, and Kentucky, San Francisco and Cincinnati with one each.

The Second Ten was led by Arizona, which needed an overtime to edge intrastate rival Arizona State. Cincinnati was 12th, followed, in order, by Alabama, Wake Forest, Tennessee, Maryland, Southern Illinois, DePaul, Rutgers and North Carolina-Charlotte.

The records include games through Sunday.

Heart Attack Claims Godfrey

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer
BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Godfrey Cambridge, the black comic-actor who wanted his movie roles to transcend color lines, has died of a heart attack after collapsing on a movie set. He was 43.

Cambridge collapsed Monday night while playing the role of Ugandan dictator Idi Amin on the set of the ABC television film "Victory at Entebbe." The movie portrays the daring Israeli commando rescue of hostages at the Entebbe, Uganda, airport last summer.

"Godfrey did two small scenes earlier today and was doing a simple walk-on scene, speaking to the hostages," said producer Bob Gunnette. "The scene was not even begun, Godfrey was waiting for a cue and he collapsed."

"There was absolutely no forewarning, he just went down. I think it was apparent to most of us around that he was gone."

Gunnette said Cambridge had arrived from his home in Ridgefield, Conn., earlier in the day.

The actor was taken to nearby St. Joseph's Hospital, where a team of doctors pronounced him dead on arrival.

Cambridge, rotund during much of his career, was a constant dieter who shed 170 pounds after ballooning to nearly 300 pounds. His weight had caused fluid-retention problems that required hospital treatment in 1972.

"White or black," he once said in an interview, "when I look in a mirror I still see me. 'But I've made 'em one concession to white — I add a 'g' to my verbs."

Cambridge was raised in New York's Harlem by parents who emigrated from British NEWTON, N.C. (AP) — Thieves — professionals who knew how to avoid alarm systems, police say — ransacked a jewelry store during the weekend and made off with about $250,000 worth of diamonds, watches and jewelry.

They got the loot from a six-foot-high steel safe which they pried open. There were more diamonds in stock than usual because of the Christmas season.

Police Chief M.H. Harrell said they avoided alarm systems at Lenoard's Jewelers in downtown Newton by entering through the roof, going halfway down the stairs from the second floor and breaking through the wood-and-plaster wall to the main floor.

Harrell said if the thieves had gone to the bottom of the steps, an alarm would have sounded.

Alfred C. Lanier of Charlotte, owner of the store, said about $400 was taken in addition to jewelry items. He said the robbery occurred sometime after the store closed at 5:30 p.m. Saturday and before watch repairman Glenn W. Crawford arrived at 8 a.m. Monday.

Lenoard said the store's contents were insured.

The hole in the roof allowed rainwater to drain into the store, and store officials said water damage may run as high as $25,000.

Local authorities were joined in the investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation.

Start Own Post Office

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Rochester couple who set out to do better than beat rain, sleet, snow and gloom of night is being investigated for possible violation of the postal law.

U.S. Atty. Richard Arcara said Monday that an investigation of J. Paul Brenna, 37, and his wife, Patricia, 23, for delivering letters in the Rochester business district was "still under review."

The Brennans said in September they were delivering on foot 500 to 600 letters a day, charging 10 cents a letter. They said most of their customers were lawyers and businessmen.

Mrs. Brenna said she conceived the service in March after it took 13 days for a letter to reach her from a friend in Idaho.

"We've never lost a customer and never had a complaint and that's something the postal service can't say," she said.

The private express statute of the postal law bans private parties from delivering first class mail, postal officials said.

"Somebody is going to beat that statute," said Mrs. Brenna.

Guiana. Graduating from Hofstra College in 1955, he worked as an airplane wing cleaner, judo instructor, maternity hospital ambulance driver, hot rod racer and cab driver, while trying to break into acting.

He got his first role in 1956 as a bartender in an off-Broadway revival for which he earned $15 a week. He won critical acclaim — and an Obie Award for Best Performer of 1961 — for his role in Jean Genet's savage drama about racial hatred, "The Blacks."

Once he had become established in movies by playing black roles, Cambridge insisted on acting parts that depicted him "as a man, rather than as a Negro." He played an Irishman in "The Troublemaker" (1964), a CIA agent in "The President's Analyst" (1967), a gangster in "The Busy Body" (1967), a Jewish cab driver in "Bye, Bye Braverman" (1968), and a white bigot who gets turned into a black man in "Night The Sun Came Out" (1969).

Pay For Gas Emergency?

RALEIGH (AP) — Residential customers may be required to help pay the cost of emergency gas supplies needed to fuel some North Carolina industries this winter.

That question was left unanswered Monday when the state Utilities Commission authorized natural gas companies to buy emergency gas supplies if necessary to keep plants that are without alternate fuel supplies open this winter.

During three days of public hearings that concluded Monday, the three major gas companies in North Carolina said they will have adequate gas supplies to serve residential customers but must buy about 12.5 billion cubic feet of the higher priced emergency gas to supply their industrial customers that cannot use alternate fuels. Extra cost of the emergency gas was estimated at $15 million.

Tenny I. Deane Jr., chairman of the commission, said Monday that the commission intends to allow the gas companies to pass along the higher cost of the emergency gas, but "there is a question of who pays how much."

The gas companies argued in the hearing that that since all gas customers benefit by the higher priced emergency gas, all should help bear the cost of it.

Part of the proceeds will be used for a scholarship for a wildlife management at North Carolina State University.

Raquel Cautious Meeting Press

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Raquel Welch, the press release said, is a guest star on Mac Davis' NBC Christmas special, which airs Dec. 15.

She is game, the press agent said, to doing a few interviews about it.

"I am game, I told him, to interview her. It is not every day one gets to interview a sex goddess. In due course, I wound up in the living room of her Beverly Hills home, but minus my trusty photographer.

Her press agent had said no dice to picture-taking, which was strange, as Miss Welch is one of the world's most-photographed women.

Raquel Welch came downstairs, a surprisingly slender woman, clad in dark green velvet pants and a bulky sweater. She gave a warm smile and we adjourned to the sunporch to commence the interview.

Why no pictures? A feeble query, but the first that came to mind. She smiled and spoke in a gentle, well-modulated voice.

"Oh, I don't usually do it that way," she said. "I don't really enjoy being photographed that much. And quite frankly and professionally speaking, I like to see it done well."

"And that means I have to give special time to it. I just don't like doing that today."

Miss Welch, 36, born in Chicago, raised in California, mother of two children aged 16 and 14, sounds as if she packs a tight suitcase where her career is concerned. She does, which is why she's still a star.

She proved gracious, friendly — and very cautious, no doubt having been burned a few times in interviews. She gave safe, innocuous replies to now-familiar queries about growing old while remaining a sex symbol.

She also spoke of searching for "that definitive dramatic role," talked of doing a record album, and why she put together a nightclub act. Interview ended, lunch began.

The conversation, which earlier included what she is doing on the Mac Davis show in this Christmastime of 1976, somehow turned to what she was

Wildlife Art Is Being Displayed

A wildlife art exhibit will be held December 2-4 at the North Hills Shopping Center in Raleigh.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Wake County Wildlife Club, and will feature about 100 wildlife paintings by more than 20 southeastern artists.

Part of the proceeds will be used for a scholarship for a wildlife management at North Carolina State University.

Find Love At Gas Station

MOUNTLAKE TERRACE, Wash. (AP) — Had Jeanie Meza, 27, not been a do-it-yourselfer she might not be a bride today.

As she tells it, last January she paid in advance for gasoline at a convenience store's self-service pumps but that when she went to get it Tom Carson, 32, was helping himself to her fuel.

She complained. He responded, "I love you."

They were married last weekend at the place they found each other — right under the sign that says "Premium 59.9."

Will Register Pre-Schoolers

Pre-school registration for students in the Winterville school district will be held December 2 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon at W. H. Robinson School.

All parents who have children who will be five years old before October 16, 1977, are requested to register their children. Birth certificates and immunization records should be taken to the registration session.

Wishes He Could Keep It

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Clifford McElhinney thinks the $1,252.60 tax refund check he received from the Wyandotte County Commission would have made a great Christmas bonus — if he could have kept it.

The refund because he had been assessed for three parcels of land at 86 1/2 per cent of taxable value instead of 24 per cent set by the county board of equalization.

The Kansas Board of Tax Appeals granted the Lathrop, Mo., resident the reduction and the commission approved the refund.

But then they found out that McElhinney owed $1,181.07 in back taxes on the land.

He got a second check — for $71.53.

Only $1.29
