Designates Choice As Chairman

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter asked members of the Democratic National Committee today to elect former Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine as party chairman.

Carter also designated Sidney Harman, a manufacturer of hi-fidelity equipment, as his choice to be undersecretary of commerce. Harman is chairman, president and chief executive officer of Harman International Industries Inc., which embraces his original firm, Harman-Kardon Inc.

The President-elect made these announcements prior to an afternoon meeting with Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale, five prospective Cabinet members and chief economic adviser Charles Schultz to draft a program for fighting unemployment, inflation and a slack economy.

The selection of Curtis, who was governor of Maine from 1967-75, came as no surprise. Curtis was here last week and told reporters that it was "accurate speculation" to guess that he was Carter's choice to succeed Robert Strauss as Democratic national chairman. In a statement, Carter said: "I have been impressed with Ken Curtis since we were governors together in 1971 ... I know he shares my strong belief that the Democratic party must belong to the people and not just the political figures. He also shares my admiration for the remarkable job Bob Strauss has done as chairman."

Curtis is expected to be elected to the party post when members of the Democratic National Committee meet in Washington Jan. 21 to elect new officers. Strauss is leaving the post he held for four years to return to his Dallas law practice.

Harman, the President-elect's choice for the No. 2 job in the Commerce Department, has had no previous experience in government. A Carter announcement said he "has worked on the development of work humanization programs within his factories and on programs of human development within industry and labor."

Carter's choice to head the department is Juanita Kreps, a Duke University economist and administrator.

Block Community College Role

By STUART SAVAGE

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday, because of a tied vote, failed to endorse a resolution that Pitt Technical Institute be accorded community college status by the General Assembly.

The vote was taken — by secret ballot — on a motion by Commissioner Bob Martin, "to adopt a resolution to support the proposition that Pitt Technical Institute be given community college status by the General Assembly."

Commissioner Burney Tucker seconded the motion, while board member Ed Warren voiced support for the proposal by saying a change in status for the school would enhance the educational opportunities available in the county.

The PTI Board of Trustees, on November 22, adopted a resolution endorsing the change in the status of the school and requesting that the Board of County Commissioners, "give their support and approval" and asking that "such support and approval be expressed in a resolution by the County Commissioners."

In order for the General Assembly to take action on the request for a change in status for PTI, endorsement by the PTI board, the Board of County Commissioners, the State Board of Education, the Advisory Budget Commission and the Governor, is required.

The vote yesterday, three for and three against the resolution, effectively rejected the method of changing the status of PTI.

Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners said following the vote that he was not opposed to the change in status of PTI, but was in opposition to the method. He indicated he would support a referendum on the question being put to the voters of the county.

Commissioner Bruce

Strickland said he, too, was not opposed to PTI becoming a community college, but added that he favors a vote of the people on the question.

Historically the county board has favored community college status for PTI.

In 1963 commissioners endorsed and requested community college status for PTI, but it was later discovered that a referendum on the question would be rejected.

Several years later voters rejected the proposal. However, at that time, the referendum included the authority to levy up to seven cents per $100 valuation to support the school.

Officials indicated that if a referendum were to be held now, that it would not require authorization for any additional tax support.

Plans For Enclosed Mall Told At Wednesday Meet

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The first public disclosure of plans for a new regional shopping complex here, including an enclosed, air conditioned mall, was made last night in a request for rezoning before the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission, in a unanimous vote, gave its endorsement to a request by Ernest Hahn Inc. and Goodman Segar Hogan Inc. for rezoning some 81 acres near the southwest quadrant of NC 11 and US 264 from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to Shopping Center. The board will recommend City Council approval of the request.

Representatives of Ernest W. Hahn Inc., the California-based developer, and Goodman Segar Hogan Inc., agents for the developers, were on hand for the meeting and discussed their plans for the complex.

The total development, it was pointed out, will involve just under 500,000 square feet and include the enclosed facility, several buildings on the outside, and a smaller shopping center.

The complex would be served by an entrance on 264 and four access points on NC 11. The major entrance to the facility, mentioned by the developers as represented by Washington, Tyrell, Dare and Hyde Counties.

The shopping complex will be a one-level development centered around at least two major department stores with projections of 135,413 square feet and 91,500 square feet.

Total capital cost of Greenville Mall, according to figures prepared by Stanton's firm, would be $25,953,100.

Water and sewer costs involved in the project will be paid by the developers, according to Charles Horne, who indicated that the complex would create more of an electrical load demand than water and sewer.

Stanton said that the facility will be built in such a way that expansion will be possible and he added that it is conceivable that the expansion could take place before the center is finished.

A representative of the Hahn company, based in Hawthorne, Calif., presented a series of slides showing other malls and shopping facilities developed by the firm. The company holds an equity interest in 15 operating regional centers which it also manages.

The spokesman said that another nine regional and specialty shopping centers are under construction, and 17 others are in various planning stages.

Commission chairman Mrs. Ruth Trevathan commended the developers for the location of the proposed development.

Karl Faser, a member of the board, said that he is "delighted to see a covered mall" proposed. The commission voted to waive the customary 30-day tabling period on rezoning requests and approved a recommendation for the Council to rezone the tract without delay.

In other business on the joint agenda, the board voted to recommend that the Council approve the request of LANCO Realty Inc. for rezoning of 2.76 acres on the north side of US 264 adjacent to Lawson's Trailer Park from RA-20 to Shopping Center in order to convert the existing structure to a variety store.

The matter was tabled at the last meeting and the request was changed, following discussion with commission members, from Highway Commercial to Shopping Center. Oscar Edwards, representing LANCO, said that the CS zone would allow for the utilization of the property and still be more restrictive.

Faser pointed out that the site proposed for rezoning is across the street from residential development and even though

Official Voting Tally Made By Congress Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's time to count the votes in the 1976 presidential election and declare a winner.

There hasn't been much doubt about the outcome since the morning of Nov. 3 when the bulk of the popular vote had been counted in each state. But the election really isn't official until today when Congress makes its own count of electoral votes.

Every four years, members of the House and Senate hold a joint session and make the official tally of the votes of presidential electors. Then the Congress declares one candidate the winner.

This year, the tally will give Jimmy Carter 297 electoral votes, Gerald Ford 240 and Ronald Reagan 1.

Wrong Question

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Marshall G. Cummings Jr. has no one but himself to blame for his less-than-successful court appearance.

Cummings, 25, accused of purse snatching, was acting as his own attorney Wednesday.

As he cross-examined the victim, he asked her: "Did you get a good look at my face when I took your purse?"

A state jury convicted Cummings of attempted robbery by force and gave him a 10-year prison sentence.

LOST EVERYTHING

Bobby and Sandra White lost everything they had when their mobile home in Kenland Manor Trailer Park burned Tuesday night.

Fortunately, they and their six-months old daughter, Charlene, were away from home and uninjured.

White, who works for the City of Greenville, wears size 36 pants and a medium to large shirt. His wife, who had been staying home taking care of the baby, wear an 11-12 dress. The little girl wear size 12 months clothes. They are living with Mrs. White's parents temporarily, but are in need of a place to live.

Anyone having household goods or clothing to share with the young family is asked to call Mrs. White's sister, Renae Williams, who works at the Pitt County Department of Social Services. Her work phone number is 758-2167, Ext. 217; her home phone, 752-5008. She or her husband will take the responsibility for picking up anything anyone would wish to donate. The Williams' mailing address, to which donations for the Whites may be sent is Lot 25, Oakwood Acres Trailer Park, Greenville.

Mrs. Williams said that anything given her sister's family that cannot be used by them will be passed on to the Salvation Army.

The first winter snow of 1977 fell in the Pitt County area Wednesday. Mixing with sleet and rain, snow fell in the area for several hours during the day and early evening.

Wednesday the high temperature was recorded at 37 degrees and the low temperature was recorded at 28 degrees according to the Greenville Utilities Department. Precipitation in the Greenville area was measured at .13 of an inch Wednesday. According to Pitt-Greenville Airport officials, the wind velocity measured about six miles per hour yesterday. Thursday at 8 a.m. the temperature was recorded at 30 degrees. Although sleet, snow and rain continued to fall during most of the day, few incidents of icy highways were reported, according to the N.C. Division of Highways Department.

"We received few reports of icy roads, but we did have to sand a few bridges in the Northwest part of the county,"

Charles Clark of the Division of Highways said.

According to the Highway Patrol Office there were no major accidents in Pitt County Wednesday that were attributed to bad weather conditions.

Temperatures for Thursday night are predicted to be in the mid 30's and low 40's with a good chance for rain.

Lebanon Installs Censors

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Censorship was imposed on news dispatches sent out of Lebanon by foreign reporters beginning Wednesday. Censorship of all publications inside Lebanon began Monday.

Outgoing dispatches cleared by the censors Wednesday and today indicated that only reports from the Lebanese Christians and the Syrians would be allowed to be sent abroad. These dispatches contained no information from the Palestinians or the leftist Lebanese Moslems.

The maximum punishment for violation of censorship regulations is five years imprisonment.

Vaccine Went Wrong

LONDON (AP) — Three hundred children in Britain have suffered brain damage, paralysis, blindness or deafness because of immunizations that went wrong, a Labor party lawmaker said today.

Jack Ashley, who is trying to get the government to pay compensation to the victims, said he has asked for a full inquiry into cases where vaccine is suspected of causing brain damage.

He said that happy, healthy babies were "turned into cabbages" within a few days of immunization against diseases like whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus.

The accusations came in a letter from Ashley to the Parliamentary Ombudsman, Sir Idwal Pugh, who will decide if an inquiry is needed.

The British Medical Association — BMA — said it supports Ashley's demand for compensation, but added that the benefits of whooping cough vaccination — which is blamed for nearly two-thirds of the cases — far outweigh any side effects.

"Before mass immunization was introduced in Britain in the 1950s, there was an average 160 child deaths a year from whooping cough. These have dropped to only two a year," a BMA spokesman said.

Ashley was a prominent campaigner several years ago for compensation for British children crippled by the drug Thalidomide. The drug, prescribed by doctors as a tranquilizer for pregnant women, was blamed for causing deformities in hundreds of children in several countries. The victims eventually received some money from the manufacturers of the drug.

Mother Needs Husband's Support

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We have two sons, 17 and 29. They aren't "bad," but they don't have any respect for me or anything I say.

When reprimanded, they both talk back to me and do as they please.

I've begged my husband to help me make these boys mind, but he has never been any help at all. When I threaten to leave unless he disciplines our sons, he says if I do, he'll throw them out, bag and baggage. I need help before it's too late.

NEEDS SUPPORT

DEAR NEEDS: It will comfort you little to be told that your sons have tuned you out years ago and have obviously gotten away with it.

Your husband's cop-out is shameful. Tell the boys that if they don't shape up, you will not put up with their loutish behavior one day longer than the law allows.

DEAR ABBY: Why will a married man pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, then turn around and treat his wife (who is a lady) like a tramp?

MINNIE

DEAR MINNIE: A man picks up a tramp because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company he doesn't feel inferior. He rewards her by treating her like a lady.

He treats his wife (who is a lady) like a tramp because he feels that by degrading her he will bring her down to his level. This makes him feel guilty, so to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please check this question with your medical advisers? I can't face my doctor with it and it has me worried.

Is it possible for damage to be done to a child if conception occurred while the parents were on a sandy beach and a grain of sand entered the woman's vagina and was carried into her womb with the sperm?

This didn't take place in a public area. It happened in private, but I have been worried about it ever since. Thank you.

WORRIED IN HAWAII

DEAR WORRIED: My medical advisers told me to tell you not to worry. (P.S. If it's a boy, name him "Sandy." If a girl, "Sandra.")

Cyprus Reviving Old Lace Craft

By SUSAN DEFORD NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Bureaucrat Theodoros Kanthos' office in the Cypriot government's ministry of commerce and industry is crowded with filling cabinets filled with lace tablecloths and bedspreads.

As the ministry's consultant on handicrafts, Kanthos collects and studies Cyprus embroidery and the past to rejuvenate and end deterioration of the centuries-old art form.

"What you see now in the shops is the art of the merchants," Kanthos asserted. "It is not the art of the women. What we must do is revive the truth between material and design."

The tradition of "Lefkari-tika" lace goes back to the 15th century, when Leonardo da Vinci is believed to have traveled the mountain village of Lefkara in 1481 and purchased lace for the altar of Milan Cathedral.

Lefkara, in the southern range of the Troodos Mountains, continues to be a center for the island's exported embroidery.

Until the 20th century, the lace was embroidered on Cyprus-made linen, either white or caramel-colored.

"The function of the dowry was the starting point for Lefkara lace," Kanthos explained. "When women presented their dowries, people would look at the linen and praise the inventiveness of the bride. Creativity was the main purpose of the women."

It was not until the late 19th century that Lefkara lace merchants, usually husbands or brothers of women in the village, began traveling abroad with wares from their mountain home of 1,000 residents.

"After the '30s," Kanthos explained, "merchants wanted to reduce their costs and imported cheaper material and thread. The women were able to embroider more quickly with cheap material, and merchants also introduced poorer designs that were easy to embroider."

To revive Cyprus' traditional folk arts, including embroidery, weaving, pottery, wood carving and metal work, the Cypriot government approved funds for an experimental handicrafts workshop in January 1976.

Kanthos, a prominent Cypriot artist, said, "We are moving from the function of folk art, which is an individualistic style, to handicrafts, which is typified and can be produced in volume by several women."

The workshop's small office staff recruits women from Nicosia and neighboring areas, including refugees from the northern part of Cyprus now occupied by Turks. Certain designs that "meet the aesthetic and practical needs of the modern home" are taught to the women according to standardized procedures.

Kanthos, who has visited 25,000 homes in Cyprus to study their owner's folk art pieces, selects the embroidery motifs to be reproduced in the workshop.

"We take a simple, sound element of one design and develop a procedure that is very easy and continuous so no one will make a mistake. We can't produce things that are as elaborate as the older pieces because it is too expensive and no one would buy them," he said.

The first group of women to participate in the workshop teach embroidery in the island's secondary schools.

Other workshop-related projects include an upcoming study of the possibility of reviving Cyprus linen production. According to Kanthos, Cyprus

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

We got a call the other day from our tax man, who said he was having problems with some of the figures on our return.

"It's your expenditures," he said. "They're way out of line. For example, you spent $15.36 on entertainment last year."

"That much?" I observed, peering over his shoulder.

"Taxes on purchases only ran $48.12."

"That sounds right," nodded my husband.

"Your bank shows they paid $3.16 interest on your savings. So, where did all the money go?"

My husband took a deep breath and said, "We're the sole support of a 16-year-old driver who is insured."

"Oh, I am sorry," said our accountant, removing his glasses. "I didn't know."

"It's all right. We don't tell a lot of people. It's awkward when they press money into your hand and offer to help."

"A church group even offered to send us a basket."

"How much coverage do you carry?" asked the accountant.

"Liability, uninsured motorist, medical payments, collision, $50 deductible, and comprehensive..."

"Good Lord, man, why didn't you say something? Property is one thing, but comprehensive..."

"At first, when we applied for the insurance, I didn't think it was going to be this bad. Then the agent said, 'Does your son make good grades?' The kid only passed one test all year. His eye examination. Then he said, 'Does he smoke?' Is he kind to his mother? Does he belong to a book club? I thought two out of three wasn't bad, but he tacked on another fee."

"Does he live at home? That helps."

"Yes, but he drives a Z-28 Camaro."

"Don't say that!" said the tax man. "I've known presidents of corporations who can't afford the tab on a Z-28 Camaro."

"We tried to get him to marry just to lower the rates," I interrupted, "but there was only one girl he was interested in and he ran over her foot in the school parking lot."

"The premium on the tape deck was extra," said my husband sadly. "So was the CB radio."

Tobacco Protein Good For You

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smoking may be dangerous to your health, but eating tobacco protein is good for you, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

The good-eating part of tobacco is a high-quality protein, which could become human or animal food, the department said.

The protein can be removed from leaf tobacco in a process known as homogenized leaf curing, developed by Dr. T.C. Tso of the agriculture department's research service at Beltsville, Md.

Removing the protein doesn't hurt tobacco flavor and removes some undesirable elements from the smoke, officials said.

The new curing process was developed as a means of saving labor and improving quality.

But it also was able to remove Fraction-1-Protein.

The protein is tasteless, odorless and colorless. It is stable and easy to store. Its nutritional value, based on amino acid composition, is comparable to milk and higher than soybeans.

It can be made into a gel-like form that looks much like soybean curd.

Another by-product is Fraction-2-Protein, a mixture of many soluble proteins, which also has potential for use as food.

Leaf tobacco contains three groups of compounds, Dr. Tso said: those that add to smoke quality, those that add nothing and those that damage the taste of tobacco smoke.

It's the last two groups that provide the potentially useful proteins — which are wasted during smoking.

Those last groups also contain by-products which may be useful in pesticides or medicines.

Fraction-1-Protein is the major soluble protein in all green plants. But scientists have not been able to crystallize the protein from any major crop except tobacco.

Dr. Tso's process makes it economically feasible to do so.

He estimates 20 to 40 pounds of protein per acre could be obtained at current yield levels.

He projects worldwide tobacco yield of 12.5 billion pounds by 1985 and 20 billion pounds by 2000. This could provide 750 million pounds of the proteins by 1985 and 1.2 billion pounds by the year 2000.

That, he said, is enough to meet the needs of 33 to 63 million people — or one-third of the United States' population.

"It would not be economically practical to raise tobacco as a source of protein," Dr. Tso cautioned. "A tobacco plant contains 12 to 17 per cent protein, compared with 42 to 44 per cent for soybeans."

The homogenized leaf curing process involves soaking the tobacco in a liquid, then crystallizing the liquid in much the same way that table sugar is made from sugar water. The leaves then can be dried for use in smoking products.

The process saves 30 to 50 per cent of the hand labor now used to process tobacco.

Studies are under way in North Carolina, Kentucky and Maryland to simplify removal of the proteins.

Dr. Tso said by the year 2000 researchers hope to have uses for the proteins and other by-products "that otherwise will literally be going up in smoke."

Iowa Farmers Still Are Suffering Big Drought

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's worst drought in the 104 years since weather records first were kept has farmers hauling water to feed livestock and worrying that there will be small corn, soybean and hay crops if the rains don't come soon.

"You're at the mercy of the weather and praise the Lord. That's all you can do," said David Loutzenhiser, who farms 500 acres near the southwestern Iowa town of Blockton. "Last year, we got sufficient subsoil moisture built up in the spring. We haven't had any fall moisture at all this year."

The same combination of drought and severely cold weather is beginning to worry farmers all the way from the Midwest to the Russian Ukraine.

U.S. Government crop experts say it is too early to tell what effect this weather will have on 1977 wheat harvests, but indications are not good. December temperatures around the Northern Hemisphere were among the coldest recorded in more than 100 years.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that growing conditions were similarly bad in the bread basket areas of the American Great Plains and the Soviet Union's Ukraine, North Caucasus and Lower Volga regions.

The drought conditions are particularly damaging to winter wheat, which is sown in the fall and harvested in late spring. Normally, a blanket of snow protects the young plants from the most severe winter weather.

But there has been little or no snow, or precipitation of any kind in the plains of Kansas or the Ukraine. The crop is exposed to winds and storms and is vulnerable to severe damage.

The current USDA forecast for the American winter wheat harvest is 8 per cent lower than last year's, due partly to smaller plantings by farmers who are distressed about prices.

The huge harvests of the past two years have pushed U.S.

surpluses close to a billion bushels for the first time since the 1960s, and the country could withstand a poor wheat harvest this year.

The severe cold has diminished the chances that the soil can be refilled with water. In Southern Illinois, for example, the temperature never rose above freezing for 19 days in December. In Chicago and Rock Island, researchers had to dig back to the records for the 1870s to find a colder December.

That means that the ground is frozen solid, and whatever moisture does fall will not be absorbed.

That could mean that when spring planting season comes, the farmers will have to plant less corn, soybean and hay, said Iowa's state climatologist, Paul Waite.

Possibly Inaction Due Critics

President Ford had planned Tuesday to announce the decontrolling of gasoline prices, but the action was postponed. That is fine with us. Apparently the action was postponed because of mounting opposition to it and we hope the president will forget the whole thing in the time he has remaining in office. The White House says that the decontrol would have little impact on pump prices for gas, but the Federal Energy Administration says it could mean an increase in unleaded gas of two cents per gallon. Apparently this country can do little about the oil producing nations, through OPEC, raising the price of oil until it wrecks the United States', and other nations', economically. It is, however, adding insult to injury when our government allows the private companies to use domestic oil prices to do the same thing. If the president should act, fortunately Congress can undo the action, and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., is one of those who says he will fight decontrol. He said such an action would be a "belated Christmas gift to the oil industry." Hopefully President Ford won't act on this matter, but if he does Congress should override the gasoline price decontrols.

Tough Standards For The Appointees

President-Elect Jimmy Carter has some tough ethical standards for his appointees to live up to. They must disclose their personal wealth and dispose of holdings which might conflict with their positions.

As a start Carter proposes to place his own holdings in warehousing and farming into a special trust. In our opinion requiring high appointees to disclose their holdings and to dispose of conflicting holdings is not too much to ask.

Hunt 'Helps' In Selection

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Governor-elect James B. Hunt, Jr. is "helping" his successor as presiding officer of the North Carolina Senate pick the right people to head critical committees for the coming session. Some insiders insist the activity signals the end of an almost certain power showdown between Hunt and Lt. Gov.-elect James C. Green, before things even get heated up. While the spotlight has been on center-stage where Hunt has been naming cabinet officers and preparing for this weekend's inaugural, a lot of backroom strategy talk has been going on about how to get things in order for the General Assembly session which convenes January 12. Senator Royall himself talked among close friends of running for governor. Earlier this year Royall was a prime mover in efforts to strip the lieutenant governor of powers to appoint committee chairmen and members. He would have emerged as a principal leader if the senate had gone to a "committee on committees" to handle that important task. When that effort fell through, it was widely assumed that Royall would be named chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the important job which entails passing judgment on all state spending; controlling the budget bargaining process. But Hunt has turned thumbs down on that job for Royall, insisting instead that the chairmanship go to State Senator Harold W. Hardison, D-Lenoir, a loyal Hunt man. Green reportedly bristled at the idea of the governor-elect telling him who to name as chairman of a committee. Besides, Royall was due a major post for past loyalties.

Hunt's strategy people then gave approval to creation of a super, new Ways and Means Committee of the Senate over which Royall would preside. All Senators That committee would provide an overview of state income and spending, with apparent dominion over both the Appropriations (which handles all spending) and the Finance (which handles all income) committees. But the Hunt people also demanded — and got — a stipulation that all 50 members of the State Senate be named to the Ways and Means Committee, thereby assuring control by Hunt people, since it is now assumed from confidential nose counts that Hunt does have better than a majority of loyalists in that chamber. Royall, meanwhile, won a narrow victory in his bid for election as whip of the senate, second in command to President Pro Tempore John T. Henley. On the Finance Committee, signs point toward State Senator J. J. (Monk) Harrington as chairman. Hardison, Henley, and State Senator James B. Garrison, D-Stanly, are considered Hunt's lead men among the "old bulls" of the Senate. Hunt also has widespread support among younger senators. The critical question among strategists has been just who had the most clout: Hunt or Green. At stake is the shape of a lot of political decisions in coming years for North Carolina, for on the one hand, Hunt has come to represent a new, progressive, urban-oriented leadership; while Green and his principal supporters are described as the "old guard" or "courthouse" breed of politician — more conservative, rurally oriented, and more attuned to power plays than open government. What did Hunt surrender to Green to gain the senate control? Some insiders say nothing — that he simply demonstrated that he has more power. Others say to watch for the lieutenant governor's office to be included on an upcoming Constitutional amendment allowing two terms for the governor.

JIMMY GREEN'S PLANS Senate Will Be Geared Up

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — When the legislature convenes Jan. 12, the Senate will be ready to begin working almost immediately. At least that's what Jimmy Green, the new lieutenant governor, has planned. By opening day, Green told The Associated Press, the Senate committees will have been appointed. That means bills introduced opening day can get immediate attention. In the meantime, however, Green is meeting with each of the 50 senators individually before making committee assignments. "I want them to be relaxed in their attitude toward me... I want to find out from those I don't know so well what they believe their particular expertise is. I will also ask them where they think they can serve best," he said. Green's plans are in sharp contrast to his drawn out appointments two years ago when he took office as speaker of the House. In 1974 he was criticized for taking several weeks to name his committees. But, he defends his action then as being "extremely careful" in his choices which came only after he had met individually with each of the other 119 House members. "I think structuring these committees is a most important task," Green said. The diminutive public official, who earned his fortune tobacco, both as a Bladen County grower and warehouseman, leaned back in his big white executive chair and contemplated his upcoming four years as the leader of the state Senate. "I think it's a big job and I'm not going to say I'll be the best lieutenant governor this state has ever had. But I will say that Jimmy Green will be the best lieutenant governor Jimmy Green is capable of being. I think I owe it to the millionplus people who elected me." On his duties as president of the Senate, the 16-year veteran legislator said: "The work that I see myself doing here is a close parallel to the work I've done all my adult life in earning a livelihood—working with people, representing people, representing their year's work on the tobacco warehouse floor." While Green's rough edges have smoothed somewhat since the election, he still harbors a wary feeling—possibly a dislike—for the media, particularly newspaper reporters. For example, he still smarts over some newsmen two years ago calling him a rural legislator who puts rural interests first. "I think that's terribly unfair—not unfair but untrue—when the press says that I governed with cronies or that I gave the choice appointments to the rural legislators. I tried to pick for key positions those people I thought were best qualified." Green said he will try to coordinate his appointments with those by Rep. Carl Stewart who has been nominated speaker of the upcoming session. That way, Green said, there will be greater coordination between the committees of the two legislative chambers. There will also be an attitude of cooperation with Gov.-elect Jim Hunt, Green said, discounting the importance of reports that he and Hunt were unable to work cooperatively during the 1975-76 session. Often, he said, the reported differences between Green and Hunt were primarily differences between House and Senate committee chairmen. "I don't know when or where there will be a matter which the governor-elect and I disagree but as I told him and as he has agreed, when those occasions arise, we will sit down like reasonable men and discuss the issue and come up with a reasonable approach." On the whole, veteran senators predict a good working relationship with Green. Sen. Kenneth Royall Jr., D-Durham, who is assistant majority leader and a Green backer, said, "I think he'll work very well. His interests are the state of North Carolina, not individual personalities." Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, one of the most experienced senators, agrees that Green and the senators will probably work well together. "I don't think he'll rule the Senate like he did the House," Scott added. A long time supporter Hunt and a supporter of Howard Lee, a Green opponent in the Democratic primary, Scott also predicted, "If it comes to a showdown fight between him (Green) and the governor, I think the

Strength For Today

Do you not see how necessary a world of pains and troubles is to school our intelligence and make it a soul—a place where the heart must feel and suffer in a thousand diverse ways? As various as the lives of men are, so various become their souls, and God makes these into sparks of his own essence."
Do not put into this world to be rich or happy, but to grow souls and to prepare ourselves for an eternal destiny in fellowship with God Himself.

Penance Of 20 Years

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
Some years ago, in response to a request by Barney Kilgore of the Wall Street Journal, I wrote some perfectly terrible things about women in journalism. Since then I have spent twenty penitential years taking it all back, and would like to take back a little more today. This further remorse is occasioned by publication of Shana Alexander's new book, "Talking Woman." It is a collection of pieces she wrote for Life and Newsweek magazines, some of them dating as far back as 1961. If this book isn't made required reading in every journalism class in the country, something is wrong with the journalism teachers. As my brother editors know well, those of us in the writing business are forever getting letters from aspiring young writers. They beg for guidance on "how to write." A couple of years ago, my advice to the novice was to buy a copy of Annie Dillard's

"Pilgrim at Tinker Creek" and to read it slowly, ten times over. Let me add Shana's "Talking Woman" to the reading list. This is because Annie Dillard and Shana Alexander are possessed of the two talents that matter. These are the gifts that raise a reporter's craft to the writer's art: The ability to see, the ability to transform. When the two are combined, you get—magic. You get not only the original image but something more besides, the three-paneled mirror of metaphor, the stereopticon simile that adds a dimension. The woman as poet and the woman as novelist have been around since the time of Emily Dickinson and the Bronte girls. No one remarks women's success in these fields. But the woman as journalist—as the chronicler of contemporary affairs—is relatively new on the national scene. At the time I delivered my regrettable screed to

Barney Kilgore (I had been eating too much Mencken and was full of gas), it would have been hard to name a woman writer whose reputation had not been achieved in poetry or fiction. No such difficulty presents itself now. Here in Washington the two most gifted writers (not the most gifted reporters, but the most gifted writers) are Meg Greenfield of the Post and Mary McGrory of the Star. If you wanted to add a third, add the name of Elizabeth Drew, whose "Washington Journal" is a beautiful work. Who is the finest court reporter of our time? After you have nominated Rebecca West for her coverage of the Nuremberg trials, you can let the nominations close. All of them begin with a finely honed skill—the skill to look intently. Listen to Shana Alexander, covering a bail hearing that preceded the trial of Patty Hearst: "I saw her first from the back, facing the judge, one tiny hand hooked in her jeans. Standing before the high bench, she looked slouching and tough, a transvestite Dead End Kid in lilac tee shirt and dyed red hair. The only way I could see her at all in the packed courtroom was to rise on tiptoe for a quick peek. Other spectators did the same, and throughout these tense proceedings the surface of our dense human throng rose and fell like a pot of bubbling oatmeal." The trick is to see, and to transform. Shana Alexander saw the senior Hearst: "Night after night they appear at regular intervals like Dresden clock figures in the doorway of the mansion." They were "as stoic as Grant Wood's gaunt couple in 'American Gothic.'" She looked intently at Drs. Masters and Johnson, after they put away their white coats and began to get chatty on TV. She saw "a happily married middle-aged couple, just plain Bill and Gini, the Ma and Pa Kettle of gynecology." She interviewed an evasive Marlon Brando: "He is as comfortable in ambiguity as a sailor in a hammock." She looked intently at Robert

Other Editors Say It's Largely Talk

(Henderson Dispatch)
From both Federal and State sources one hears promises that there will be no tax increase in 1977. But don't you believe it. In some areas at the national level it is in the cards and is sure. There is less certainty as to what the upcoming North Carolina Legislature may do. It is most likely that more money will be spent. Practically all workers pay Social Security taxes. Individuals in the lower brackets will not feel the bite as much as those with larger incomes. Social Security benefits increased in 1976, and money to underwrite those gains must come from somewhere. And "somewhere" admits of only one source, the pockets of the people. That is a special tax, designed now or in the future to benefit everybody. If the system does not in the meantime bankrupt the government, even younger persons of today will eventually reap benefits. As heavy as the burden is, it is not Social Security that cuts deepest into incomes. It's the overall Federal spending, at least some of which is extravagant and could and should be ended. Taxpayers will be fortunate indeed if they escape tax increases at either or both Federal and State levels, and conceivably down to local governments. They also tax and spend. In all instances, the public pays whether it benefits or doesn't. Talk of tax relief is a sop to voters at election time, and too often is forgotten after inauguration day. One thing the country needs is a brass tacks examination into outgo, with the purpose of easing the dig into the pockets of citizens. Those who pay do not speak loudly enough in their oppositions to be convincing to those who hold the purse strings. Nor is real relief likely until they do make themselves heard.

40 Years Ago Today
January 6, 1937
Soviet Russia and Socialist Spain launched bitter new accusations at Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany today, while France considered rushing troops to her Spanish border and Britain shifted 172,000 tons of fighting ships to the Mediterranean. Another Soviet steamer, the ninth, was seized by insurgent sea forces in the Straits of Gibraltar. The Spanish government protesting dual violations of her sovereignty by Italy and Germany, sought League of Nations action. President Roosevelt called today for an "enlightened" interpretation of the Constitution to harmonize Congress and the courts in meeting "present national needs." Standing before a joint session of the 75th Congress, Roosevelt said a "liberal interpretation" rather than "alteration" of the Constitution was needed. He reaffirmed his belief the NRA objectives were sound. "The statute of NRA has been outlawed," he said. "The problems have not been met, however. They are still with us."

Restoring The Service Image

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — One immediate effect of President-elect Carter's new code of ethics might be to make government service more like service—a service to be performed rather than an opportunity to be seized. And because often there is a perverse side to the general rule, it might also discourage some of the nation's best talent from offering their services in Washington. In regard to the former, it has been widely recognized among the smart men on the move that a good degree, important contacts and a spell in Washington is a formula for success in the commercial world. Law offices are loaded with attorneys who spent just enough time near the seat of government to learn the pressure points, the personnel and endless maze of corridors. To the corporations that more and more are being regulated, advised and even dictated to from Washington, an experienced hand—especially if he dealt with the company's specific problems while in government—is invaluable. In some instances the individual continues in almost the same work but from the opposite side of the desk once he joins a corporation. The examples are numerous. Graduates of the great governmental university have moved rapidly into top jobs in transportation, utilities, philanthropy, consumer affairs, financial institutions and securities. Recent heads of both the New York and American stock exchanges, for example, once

Canada Is Early Issue

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost as soon as he takes office, President-elect Carter will face some key decisions likely to influence the United States' uneasy relationship with Canada for years to come. The issues that will face Carter immediately range from joint air defense needs to the disputed ownership of islands in the Arctic and off the eastern seaboard, diplomatic sources say. Other problems have been smoldering in the background for years and quick settlement by the new administration plainly could provide a basis for wider agreements between the two neighbors. U.S. defense arrangements are more extensive with Canada than with any other country and the Carter administration will have to make some early decisions on their continuation. The two governments work together within the framework of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), which exercises operational control over U.S. and Canadian air defense forces and provides early warning information in case of air and missile attack. Extensive NORAD radar networks operate in Canada. Officials of the two countries are due to discuss current air defense needs and costs late this month. Then a policy decision will have to be made in Washington and Ottawa about meeting these needs and sharing their costs. Another immediate contact between Canada and the new administration is a Jan. 17 meeting in Los Angeles where negotiators will meet to put into place 200-mile fishing zones. The aim is to coordinate the zones in ways designed to head off possible conflicts. The Canadian zone was set up formally Jan. 1. The U.S. zone comes into being March 1. Each is designed to protect depleted fish stocks. But certain overlapping difficulties inevitably have arisen

Mecklenburg Says 'No' To Secession Movement

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) —
J.C. Jennings is a resident of Mecklenburg County but if he wants to call the county police, it's long distance.

And if his children went to Mecklenburg County schools, they would have to ride a bus through part of another county to get there.

Jennings' family is one of about 20 on Mecklenburg Neck, a 710-acre peninsula cut off from most of the county by Lake Norman. To get from the neck to the rest of the county, residents have to trek through 16 miles of Iredell County.

It is that isolation, and what residents say is a lack of services provided by Mecklenburg, that prompted Jennings and other residents to band together.
They want to secede from Mecklenburg and join Iredell County.

Although most of the residents are for it, and Iredell officials say they are agreeable, Mecklenburg officials have scoffed at the idea that they would give up the neck and the $63,000 in taxes which it brings in annually.

Mecklenburg commissioners rejected a petition for release of the area at a meeting this week.

"They acted as if this was something ridiculous, that they were almost outraged at the suggestion," Jennings said Wednesday.

One commissioner, Ed Peacock, told residents of the neck that he had little sympathy for their plight because they were aware of the neck's situation when they moved there.

Jennings told another story.
"When we considered moving up here from Charlotte, my wife checked with the county commission and they told her it would be no problem to become part of Iredell County," said Jennings, who has lived on the neck for a year and a half.

"They said all we would need would be a petition. On the strength of that we decided to move here."

Jennings said Mecklenburg officials have hardened their position in recent months, and he thinks it is because they realized they would lose the $63,- 000 tax contribution.

Residents of the neck, which protrudes from southwestern Iredell County, have struggled with their isolation since Lake
Norman was created in 1963.
Many of the homes are vacation houses, but the few full-time residents of the neck say they are faced with a lack of police and fire protection and other county services.

"The county police do not come up here," Jennings said.
"There have been a number of people who called the police and they didn't arrive until hours later. Then they couldn't find the places because they're not familiar with the area."

The neck is served by a volunteer fire department and by the Iredell County Ambulance Service. Many residents shop and attend church in nearby Mooreville.

"The only thing Mecklenburg County does is send a school bus down here," Jennings said.
He takes his children to Iredell County schools.

At the meeting this week,
Mecklenburg commissioners
asked for a list of complaints about county services, and they promised to make improvements for residents of the neck.
Iredell County Manager John Smith, who attended the meeting, said he thought Mecklenburg commissioners would consider giving up the neck when they learned how much it would cost to upgrade services there.

Jennings echoed the sentiments.
"I think when they make a true effort to give us the same services as the rest of Mecklenburg County, they'll find it's not a profit-making situation," he said.

"Frankly, it shouldn't be.
What difference does it make where we live? We ought to get what we pay taxes for."

Epidemic Of Rabies Feared

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Police in this border town have orders to "shoot to kill" any dogs acting suspiciously as authorities fear a rabies epidemic that has killed at least 20 dogs is likely to spread further.

Seven persons, including two children under 10, have been bitten by rabid dogs and 14 other persons have been exposed.
All started getting antirabies shots before the incubation period ended, and none has contracted the almost invariably fatal disease.

"Certainly 20 cases is an epidemic," Jose Gonzalez of the Laredo-Webb County Health Department said Wednesday.
"Because of the nature of this disease — the incubation period of 20-60 days — the tremendous possibility of secondary infection means we are going to be facing quite a lot more cases before this thing is through ...

"This is the first case (in the Laredo area) in 29 years. But we are very concerned, since we haven't reached a peak yet," he said.

So far only two of the rabid animals have been shot by police. Most of the dogs have had "dumb rabies," meaning they usually don't bite but drool all the time. The saliva has the virus in it, and many owners are exposed to it when they put their hands in their pets' mouths to ease the choking.

According to the federal Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, only two persons are known to have survived after contracting the disease before the painful shots could be started.

Rabies is a form of encephalitis, which causes an inflammation of the brain. An initial nervous reaction is followed by hydrophobia, a fear of water. When it reaches that stage, death is almost certain.

The CDC said the Mexican border is practically the only area of the United States where rabies in dogs has not been governor will beat him."

Royall agreed Hunt would probably win a showdown, largely because Democratic governors have usually had their way with the legislature. But, he said, a showdown is unlikely because "I think Green and Hunt are pretty well together (on the issues)."

Green campaigned on his conservative fiscal philosophy and his insistence on careful budget deliberation during 1975-76.

Green set up a Base Budget Committee which did a line-by-line examination of previous spending in a search for fat. Several million dollars were cut.

Green has pledged a similar approach in 1977. But, rather than have three money
committees—base budget, finance and appropriations—he has named a ways and means committee, will have two chairmen and two vice chairmen with those four being his appointees to the Advisory Budget Commission, he said.

and, pending a settlement of

have been freed from the obligation of having to be licensed

In parallel with these talks, the two governments will be trying to resolve other maritime and territorial boundary disputes. They have rival claims to major fishing grounds on Georges Bank and the Strait of Juan de Fuca between Washington State and Vancouver Island.

Additionally, the ownership of several small isles off their east coasts is in dispute. So, too, is Canada's claim to sovereignty over certain Arctic islands and the waters surrounding them where oil and gas deposits in the seabed are believed to exist.

Then, during February, the Carter administration will need to make another key decision to avoid the possibility of a one-sided Canadian action over St.
Lawrence Seaway tolls.

Canada wants these tolls raised substantially and has been pressing to negotiate changes in existing agreements to remove the all-Canadian Welland Canal from joint Seaway toll-fixing arrangements.
Canada also wants to provide for an annual review of toll levels.

Record Crowds Awaited For Jim Hunt's Inaugural

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The largest crowd ever for a North Carolina inaugural ceremony is expected in Raleigh Saturday to see Jim Hunt sworn in as the 96th Tar Heel governor.

The crowd will assemble in the Bicentennial Plaza, between the Capitol and the Legislative Building, at noon to see Chief Justice Susie Sharp of the North Carolina Supreme Court administer the oath to Hunt. Also to be sworn in are Jimmy Green as lieutenant governor and members of the Council of State.

Bert Lance, director-designate of the federal office of Management and Budget who will represent President-elect Jimmy Carter, will head a list of visiting dignitaries.

Others will include Govs. Julian Carroll of Kentucky and Ray Blanton of Tennessee, representatives of six foreign consulates based in Atlanta, and six lieutenant governors. Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be represented by his brother, Jack Wallace, a circuit judge in Clayton, Ala.

After Hunt and his family attend communion services at the Peace College Chapel at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, the inaugural party will assemble at the Executive Mansion around 11:30 a.m. to see Gov. Jim Holshouser accorded final military honors. Then they will proceed on foot to the inaugural site.

After Hunt delivers his inaugural address, the party will shift to a reviewing stand in front of the Capitol where the new governor will review a parade of about 140 units, including National Guard, ROTC, Army and Marine units, about 47 high school bands and floats from about 40 counties which will feature the inaugural theme, "A New Beginning for North Carolina."

The formal transfer of power from Republican Holshouser to Democrat Hunt will be symbolized by a ceremony in the Capitol around 3 p.m. when Holshouser will turn over to Hunt the Great Seal of the state.

A reception at the Executive Mansion will follow. Hunt, Green and members of the Council of State, will greet the public.

Agents of the State Bureau of Investigation, Highway Patrolmen and Raleigh police will be on duty for the inaugural festivities, but spokesmen said that no more than normal security precautions will be taken.

Saturday's inaugural events, which will be free, will follow the Inaugural Ball Friday night. It will be held at Reynolds Coliseum and the Student Center at North Carolina State University sponsored by the Junior League of Raleigh and the North Carolina Symphony Society.

More than 4,000 persons will pay either $25 or $50 to attend the ball, witness an elaborate entertainment program with TV comedian Andy Griffith as master of ceremonies and dance until 1 a.m. They will nibble on refreshments and drink a champagne substitute, Catawba Sparkling Grape Juice. It tastes and fizzes like champagne, but it's strictly non-alcoholic. The Hunts requested that no alcoholic beverages be served.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Continuing cold weather is to prevail today for most of the nation. Sunny skies are expected for most areas. Showers are forecast in the Southwest and from the eastern Gulf to the mid-Atlantic region. Snow flurries are expected in the lower Great Lakes. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A developing low pressure system was bearing down on North Carolina today with rain that was expected to spread over the state during tonight and Friday.

There was a possibility the precipitation would begin or be mixed with snow or sleet in the northern and western counties.

The National Weather Service said there might be accumulations of one to three inches in the northern mountain areas before the snow tapers off to flurries during Friday.

North Carolina had a variety of wintry weather Wednesday, with sputtery light rain across the southern tier of counties and a mixture of snow, sleet and brief freezing rain across northern counties. High temperatures Wednesday ranged to 51 degrees at Wilmington but got no higher than the 30s and 40s elsewhere.

Low readings this morning had Raleigh coldest with 26. Rocky Mount followed with 27, Elizabeth City and Hickory 29, Asheville, Greensboro and Goldsboro 30, and Charlotte 35.

Temperatures were expected to reach the 40s in most places today, dropping tonight to the 20s in the northwest mountains and ranging to the 30s elsewhere.

Temperatures Friday are expected to reach the 30s in the mountains and climb to the upper 40s and low 50s elsewhere.

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The occurrence of cancer varies geographically for nonwhite persons as well as for whites, a new federal study says. That finding provides further support for theories that cancer risks are linked to local environmental factors.

The National Cancer Institute report issued Wednesday said the findings hopefully will encourage researchers to look for local factors that may contribute to cancer in specific geographic areas.

The study covered cancer deaths among nonwhite Americans and is similar to one on whites released in 1975 that also showed geographical differences in cancers. Both are based upon death certificate figures for 35 types of cancer from 1950 through 1969.

The studies not only showed that death rates for different cancers vary geographically, but also that incidences of certain cancers vary among racial groups.

Scientists who wrote the report said the reasons for these varying rates and geographical distributions were unknown and that more research was needed.

The combined nonwhite death rate for all forms of cancer is slightly higher than for whites, the scientists said. While death rates for most minority groups other than blacks were lower than for whites, the large number of blacks in the total non-white category raised the overall figure above that of whites. Cancer mortality rates per 100,000 population of all races were higher for males than females, the report said. Over-all death rates for the 35 cancers surveyed were 189 per 100,000 for black and Chinese males, 174 for whites, 158 for Japanese and 100 for Indians.

For females, blacks had a cancer death rate of 142 per 100,000, compared with 130 deaths for whites, 109 for Indians, 91 for Chinese and 83 for Japanese.

Looking at geographical patterns, the report said, for example, that both whites and nonwhites showed generally higher rates of cancers of the breast, colon, esophagus, ovary and bladder in the North and lower rates in the South.

Tax Shelter Curbs Are Rejected By Wm. Simon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed curbs on tax shelters extensively used by high-income individuals have been withdrawn by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Simon said the measures had been formalized without his knowledge and he wanted to discuss them with Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander and Charles Walker, assistant Treasury secretary for tax policy.

Simon acted Wednesday within hours of publication of the proposed regulations in the Federal Register. Such publication is routinely the first step in implementing such proposals.

The proposals would have substantially toughened the tax treatments of limited partnerships. They were designed to make it much more difficult for tax shelters that function like corporations to get the special tax benefits of partnerships.

The regulations were approved Dec. 29 by Alexander and William M. Goldstein, then-deputy assistant Treasury secretary for tax policy. Goldstein now is in private practice as a tax lawyer.

In a telephone interview with the Washington Post, Walker said it never occurred to "Bill (Goldstein) or me that the secretary would have an interest" in the proposed regulations.

Walker said many protests came from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other real estate interests. Many HUD low-income project are financed through limited partnerships.

Under existing regulations, most real estate developers gain special tax advantages by forming a limited corporation. Housing interests maintain this is the only way money can be raised to build low-income projects. Critics contend the rules are too generous. nLimited partnerships give investors the advantage of taking losses from depreciation, start-up costs or interest as write-offs on income derived from other sources. At the same time, such investors get the advantage of limited liability of a corporation. And owners can change, but the venture remains a partnership.

If the venture was determined to be a corporation, the losses for tax purposes would remain in the corporation itself.

Claudine Tries 'Block Out' Parade Of Jurors

By BILL PARDUE
Associated Press Writer
ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, saying she tries to block out the parade of potential jurors who think she killed her lover, will seek to prove her innocence by describing his last moments alive.

"To me this is all total despair," the 35-year-old French-born entertainer told reporters softly as she left the courtroom Wednesday in this posh Rocky Mountain ski resort town.

Miss Longet, bundled in a rabbit-fur coat, said she bore no ill will toward her fellow Aspen residents for their views. "I appreciate their honesty," she said.

The only bright spot for her in three days of jury selection came Wednesday when a broadcasting executive called as a possible juror said he hopes Miss Longet is acquitted for her children's sake.

"It was the first sign of compassion that I've heard here," said Miss Longet, who has two sons and a daughter by her former husband, singer Andy Williams. He accompanied her to court on the first day and has been subpoenaed by the prosecution.

Miss Longet is charged with recklessly slaying champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who was shot fatally on March 21 in his $250,000 mountain-side chalet.

She told reporters she was cheered by "those people who come to me in the town and say, 'We're with you.'"

"I have gotten a tremendous amount of support on the street,"

Defense attorney Charles V.

Weedman said Wednesday that Miss Longet would testify at the trial that the shooting was "a simple tragic accident and nothing more."

A 12-member jury has been tentatively seated and is expected to be sworn in by the start of next week.

If convicted, Miss Longet could spend 10 years in the state penitentiary and pay a $30,000 fine.

In the Pitkin County Courthouse, her only support among potential jurors was from Rev. Bill Fox.

"I have to be candid," Fox told state District Court Judge George E. Lohr. "This is not based on fact or fiction. There is a gut feeling I just hope that Mrs. Williams as the mother of three children is not found guilty ... I'm a very strong family man."

Hydroelectric Dam Is Approved For VEPCO

WARM SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — More progress has been made by Virginia Electric & Power Co. in its effort to reduce dependence on coal and oil to generate power for its customers.

It has won approval from the Federal Power Commission to operate a $738 million hydroelectric dam project in Bath County. The FPC issued a license for the project on Tuesday.

A spokesman for the federal regulatory agency said Wednesday that Veeco will receive the license as soon as it's printed.

Veeco applied for the license in 1973. It plans to build a pumped storage facility on Back Creek that will produce 2.1 million kilowatts of electricity.

Sam C. Brown, Veeco vice president for power station engineering and construction, said the company was pleased that the commission granted the license. But he reserved further comment until Veeco officials have a chance to study the license.

A Veeco spokesman had said earlier that if the FPC issued the license early this year, the first three turbines could be in operation in the summer of 1983 and the final three a year later.

Veeco officials still are not sure when construction of the two dams will begin. A spokesman noted that the company's board of directors hasn't yet approved the proposed construction budget.

The Bath County facility will operate in close coordination with Veeco's new North Anna nuclear power plant. Since a nuclear reactor operates at a constant level during slack periods, power from the nuclear plant will be used to pump water upstream above the hydroelectric project for storage.

Then, during peak periods the utility can draw on the nuclear and hydroelectric generating plants for its customers.

The seven-year construction project will bring about 2,400 workers into sparsely populated Highland County. And the utility is working out contracts with the county government to compensate it for the added services it must provide.

Can Earn More, Still Draw Social Security

People under 72 can work and earn more and still get their social security benefits starting in January, according to Mary W. Cain, social security district manager in Greenville.

"In 1977 people can earn as much as $3,000 and get their full social security retirement or survivors benefit," Miss Cain said.

"The yearly earnings limit for 1976 was $2,760. The increase keeps the amount in line with increases in general average wages."

For earnings over $3,000 in 1977, social security benefits will be reduced by $1 for every $2 earned.

"No matter how much people earn for the year, they can get their full social security benefit for any month in which they neither earn over $250 nor do substantial work in their own business," she added.

The 1976 monthly earnings limit was $230.

Different rules apply to disabled people who are getting social security disability benefits. Any person 72 and older will continue to get their full social security benefits regardless of earnings.

People who earn over $2,760 and get benefits in 1976 must send a report on 1976 earnings to social security by April 15, 1977.

The social security tax rate remains the same in 1977 at 5.85 per cent of covered wages paid by employees and employers 7.9 per cent of covered self-employed income.

Social security pays over $6.2 billion a month in retirement, disability, and survivors benefits to over 32 million people.

France Has Lost Image Of Sexuality

By JOHN VINOCCUR
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — France is experiencing a small sexual revolution that shows the country is more a sexual desert than a pleasure garden. It is also withering the myth of Gallic infallibility in the arts of love.

The revolution has not brought more or freer sex relations. But there is a new openness about sexual problems.

The Health Ministry has set up a telephone service for referrals on sexual problems; it gets several thousand calls a week. Every woman's magazine offers its version of "He's Sexually Bored: How You Can Help Tonight."

Sexual malaise and the new frankness about it are evident in a constant media drumbeat of reports, personal accounts and learned counsel.

Surveys indicate that about half the women in France are non-orgasmic. Dr. Albert Netter told a meeting of physicians the French "have sexual relations less often than in the past and an examination of their sperm count shows a weakness unknown 40 years ago." He blamed a semi-permanent state of tension in French life.

Dr. Dahlia Torchin, a gynecologist who wrote a thesis on frigidity, says the change began two years ago and the revolution is on the verbal level so far. But she says Frenchwomen talking about the sexual problems of their husbands and themselves is a major departure, although it is a long way from catching up with the Scandinavian countries or the United States.

"There is a basic, sometimes unbelievable ignorance about their bodies," Dr. Torchin said of her patients. "While the rest of the world was associating France with sexuality the way they do England with prudery, people here were just too bourgeois, too Catholic, too ashamed or too proud to talk about their lack of sexual satisfaction."

Historians and sexologists argue that the notion of French sexuality, an exported image for centuries, never reflected the reality. They say libertinism was confined to a very limited elite.

"The French relished the thought they were champions," said sexologist Benjamin Duvshani. "Now everybody is getting a look at the emperor with his clothes off and it hurts."

Harrington Heads Ass'n

The Greenville Home Builders Association held its first meeting of 1977 on Tuesday night at the Candlewick Inn with newly elected president Ollie Harrington presiding.

During the business session, Harrington announced all of the committee chairmen who will serve during the coming year.

Guest speaker Jim Bullock, a Greenville attorney, discussed the 1976 Tax Reform Act, with the major portion of his presentation dealing with the effects the reform will have on the building industry.

Harrington reminded the membership of the National Association of Home Builders convention scheduled for Jan. 21-27 in Dallas, Tex. Several local members plan to attend, it was noted.

The next monthly meeting of the association will be held on Feb. 1.

Cancer Detector Bionic Bra Is

GLASGOW (UPI) — A computerized "bionic bra" developed by a Scottish doctor could lead to earlier detection and treatment of breast cancer and bring new hope to hundreds of thousands of women throughout the world who live in fear of mastectomy, or breast removal.

Using an integral electronic circuit the brassiere records tiny temperature changes and when, at the end of a week's wear, the stored information is analyzed by computer, cancer cells show up as hot spots. The man behind the invention is Dr. Hugh Simpson, of Glasgow Royal Infirmary, who says that by studying the temperature variations carefully it should be possible to detect cancer before a tumor forms.

"The bra," he says, "looks like a normal garment, but a tiny electronic brain and thermometers are stitched into the cups."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a moderate gain today, thanks to an early round of bargain hunting after the broad declines of the past three days.

Trading was moderate. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 6 points in the first half hour, was ahead 3.99 at 982.05 at 11:30 a.m.

The average had fallen more than 26 points in the first three trading days of 1977. Gainers outpaced losers by about a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers traced the upswing to technical forces within the market. In addition to bargain hunting, they noted some short covering—the purchase of bor-some early actions in the natural resources area, perhaps including an environmental message," to begin correcting Interior's problems and to set goals.

The Interior Department is in charge of federally owned land and the fish, wildlife, parks, water and minerals included in that land. Among the department's divisions are the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Mines and the National Park Service.

The paper said that the department is perceived as unhealthy by the states, who feel their views have been neglected; by the public, which feels it has not been consulted; and by private economic interests, "who have felt that resource management policies and regulations have been uncertain and fluctuating."

In many cases, the report said, directors of field and regional offices, which account for more than 90 per cent of the department's employees, "owe their jobs to and derive their support from local congressmen or private interests in the area."

The report said because of bad administrative structure and archaic legislation governing some bureaus, recent secretaries of Interior have not been guided by any general policy in decision-making, but have tried to handle disputes one by one.

"Recent secretaries have been regarded as 'lightweights' by their peers in the executive and legislative branches."

The most recent Interior secretaries, both under Republican presidents, were Rogers C.B. Morton and Thomas Kleppe, whom Andrus will succeed.

Planning Meet. . . Agribusiness Ass'n

The request was for a small tract of land, "this is the way expansions get started."

City Planner John Schofield observed that the request in itself would probably have little effect on the area but cumulative development of the proposed type could affect the area.

Mrs. Trevathan noted that a petition had been signed by approximately 50 residents of the area who opposed the proposed rezoning and usage.

Herman Tripp, who said that he lives across the street from the site, which involves the former People's Baptist Temple facilities, said that he would like to keep the nature of the neighborhood residential.

Another resident contended that if the development is allowed, it could gradually push the residents out.

Commissioner Lyman Ormond Jr. said that he felt that the commission should pursue rezoning for commercial use all the way down to the new Red Oak Shopping Center.

Commissioners Ormond, John Moye, Ernest Harris, Ernest Eaton, C. D. Langston and J. C. Parker voted in favor of recommending approval while Faser voted against the motion.

Approval was also given to the revised final plat of the Professional Center located adjacent to the new hospital. Phil Carroll of Carroll and Associates, agents for the developers, said the revised plat involved only a minor change in the size of a lot.

Members of the Greenville planning board voted to table a request by Harold D. Taunton for rezoning four acres located on the east side of Hooker Road north of US 264 Bypass from RA-20 to Highway Commercial until clarification can be obtained on the question of subdividing land.

The developers plan to construct a shopping center, according to a spokesman, on the site which is part of a tract owned by Mrs. Nell Moseley.

Horne said that the commission is facing the same problem as far as subdividing as faced in the Taunton request. The developers would lease only a portion of the total tract and water and sewer services are not available now for the parcel in question.

The matter will be placed on the Jan. 26 agenda. In a final item, commissioners approved the final plat of Section III of Windy Ridge.

Congleton To Head Agribusiness Ass'n

J. Beverly Congleton of Stokes will begin a term as president of the Pitt County Agribusiness Association at the monthly meeting Tuesday, January 11.

Congleton is past president of N.C. L.P. Gas Association, a former member of the Pitt County Hospital Trustees, and is a member of the Pitt County Board of Education. He is the owner of Stokes and Congleton

General Merchandise and S. and C. Gas and Oil Company.

Charles Waller, owner-manager of Waller Tractor Company, Inc. will serve as vice-president. Warren Whitehurst, vice-president of NCNB will serve as secretary-treasurer.

The Agribusiness Association is an organization of persons with a business interest in agriculture. The association meets at 7:30 a.m. the second Tuesday of each month for a breakfast meeting at the Holiday Inn Restaurant.

Dr. Fred Sobering, who is in charge of the Extension Economics and Business, with the Agricultural Extension Service, will be the guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting. He will discuss the outlook for agriculture for 1977.

Persons interested in attending the meeting are asked to call the Agricultural Extension Office at 758-1196.

Rampants Hope To Reverse Year Against Tough Washington Club

With the first month of the 1976-77 basketball season behind it, Rose High School's Rampants are looking for a reversal of record during the next two months, and Coach Jim Brewington feels that it can realistically be accomplished.

"In the last three games, we've been within one or two points late in the game and just lost it due to our inexperience," Brewington said.

But when the Rampants return to action for their lone game during the coming week, they'll have little time to reflect on what might be. Saturday night, Rose travels to Washington to face the unbeaten Pam Pack, hoping to make up for a one-sided loss earlier in the year.

It is the only basketball game for the Rampants during the next week. They return to the hardwood next Friday night.

Meanwhile, there is a lot of other activity for the Rampants and Rampettes. The wrestling team has two outings planned for the week. Tonight, they travel to Farmville Central, then return home next Monday to face Northern Nash in a Division I match.

The swimming teams open their season on Saturday, playing host to Durham Jordan and Kinston. That will get underway in Minges Natatorium at 12:30 p.m.

Brewington, returning to the basketball scene, feels that once the Rampants overcome their inexperience, they will be able to pull out the games that they are dropping now.

"We're still not at full strength," he pointed out. "Our big men have not played themselves into condition as yet, and this is hurting us."

"Still, if we can play to our potential and cut down on youthful mistakes, we can give Washington a close game, and we can beat them, too. It will be hard, because they have a winning tradition, and we're trying to shake off a losing tradition."

Brewington feels that his players must get it out of their minds that they are "losers," and get into a frame of mind that can produce victories.

"We put five people into double figures against Havelock the other night. Now that's balanced scoring. That's what it takes to win. (Anthony) Bryant is scoring well right now. What we need is to get 30 combined points out of the other two inside men and 30 points out of our guards. If we can do this, we'll be in real fine shape."

The key to stopping Washington will be to dull the scoring of Alvis Rogers and Dominique Wilkens, Brewington believes.

"We are still a very young team," the coach continued. "We have only one senior on the team (Derek Brewington), so we've got a chance to build a good program over this year and next year."

"And we've got as good of players as we've ever had. In fact, Bryant just might be one of the best in the state before he's finished here."

Beating Washington will be no easy task for the Rampants. But putting together a good game against them just might be the thing that is needed as Rose completes its pre-conference schedule. After Washington, Rose enters Division I play against Rocky Mount.

Guthrie Wants To Shake Image

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

What's it like being the leading scorer on a team that has a tradition as a non-winning one?

Rose High School's Greg Guthrie doesn't like the feeling of being classed as a loser. He doesn't feel that that tag is anywhere near right.

"History is having an effect on us right now," he said. "But we're going to try very hard to change that image. We can be winners."

Guthrie said that the Rampants, although a young team, are trying hard to erase that image. "We have to put it out of our minds. We have to believe that we can be different. There's a long way to go with this season, and we can still have a winning season."

The Rampant guard doesn't mind working for what he wants. "I love basketball. I want to do my best every time I play, whether it's a real game, or just a street game."

Guthrie is only in his third year of school-sponsored basketball. "I played at Elm Street Gym in the recreation league when I was in the seventh grade, but when I was in the ninth grade was the first time I was on a real team. We had a pretty good one, too. We went 8-6 that year." Last season, he was on the junior varsity at Rose, so this is his first season of varsity ball.

With another year of high school to go, Guthrie hasn't really decided on his future. "I hope I can get a scholarship somewhere and play basketball, though." Off court, Greg likes art work. "I really love art, just anything in that field."

As to what Rose must do to become a winner, Guthrie feels that the guards on the team must get the ball to the big men and they must score more. "We have to get on the boards, too. And the guards have to be hitting also."

With the first conference game just over the horizon, Guthrie feels that Rocky Mount and Bertie will be the teams to beat. "Everyone has their basis around the big men, so our inside men have to stop them."

Then, if Guthrie can hold to his scoring level of 17.1 points a game, the Rampants just might be able to turn things around and post that winning season.

Conley lost only two matches during the evening, one by a decision and one by a fall. Two other matches ended in ties. Of the nine Viking wins, eight came on pins.

Heels, Duke, Wake Claim Victories

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
North Carolina Coach Dean Smith got kicked out of his game, and Duke probably had Davidson Coach Dave Pritchett

Pritchett was forced to witness personally his team's 102-51 humiliation at the hands of Duke, led by Tate Armstrong with 25 points and four other Blue Devils in double figures.

Smith didn't seem to mind his enforced absence from the second half of the Heels' victory very much after officials ejected him from the game for three alleged technical fouls.

"Any time a coach gets a technical foul, he is wrong," Smith conceded. "I got two."

The two Smith admitted were contested calls by officials. The third, he insisted, was a mistake. He was dressing down a player and the referee thought he was making trouble again. "I've never seen the official that called that technical, but I hope he stays around," Smith said, adding, "the officials were right."

Clemson Coach Bill Foster said his team just couldn't make things work when they got their hands on the ball.

"I said before, the game that two factors would determine the outcome," Foster said, "our transitions and their transitions. We couldn't score on our transitions. The ball either got away or we botched it up or screwed it up."

Also, he added, "they got jacked up because of the technical fouls."

Wake Forest had to shake off an early 16-6 deficit and then beat back a second half rally by Virginia to hang onto its narrow winning margin.

"It was a good ACC win and a good way to start the conference season," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy. "I thought the team did a good job controlling the game at the end."

Rod Griffin, out of action the past two weeks with a knee injury, grabbed some key rebounds but wound up with only 10 points, far below his 21-point average going into the game.

Still, Tacy said Griffin "did better than I expected," and he plans to work him harder in practice this week.

Vikings Find Super Trouble

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What Minnesota is running into in Super Bowl XI is what the Vikings always run into when National Football League championships are at stake — trouble.

In three previous Super Bowls, against Kansas City, Miami and Pittsburgh, the Vikings have scored three touchdowns — one per game.

First it was the Chiefs' Multiple Defense.

Then it was the Dolphins' No-Name Defense.

Then it was the Steelers' Steel Curtain Defense.

And now, along come the Oakland Raiders and ...

... and what? Their Dirty Defense?

The Raiders have been accused of stepping beyond the bounds of legality, most particularly safety George Atkinson, who gave Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann a concussion and New England's Russ Francis a broken nose.

The Vikings seem split on just how close Oakland gets to below-the-belt tactics. In fact, even the Raiders themselves don't seem to be able to make up their minds.

"We have the reputation for playing dirty, but I don't think it's deserving," said Atkinson. "Sure, we're an aggressive ball club, but you don't get to the Super Bowl, you don't go 15-1, by being a dirty ball club."

Atkinson insists he plays within the rules, but he also seems to lean a bit toward that anything-to-get-the-job-done view.

"I play aggressive football.... In this game you're either passive or aggressive. Defensive players have to be aggressive," Atkinson said. "I have an area to protect. When someone comes into that area, it's like a burglar coming into your house. What are you going to do? You've got to have what we call a mean streak."

Wally Hilgenberg, the Vikings' starting linebacker, seemed to exemplify Minnesota's "so what?" sort of attitude when the question of Oakland's cleanliness arose.

"I realize the Raiders are coming into this game with the reputation of throwing cheap shots," Hilgenberg said. "But that doesn't concern me. A lot of this talk is built up.... We are not going to be intimidated by it."

"And if they really are cheap-shot artists," Hilgenberg added, "they're just going to end up hurting themselves."

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant brushes aside references to Oakland's aggressive play. He is not one to fan the fires of enthusiasm.

"Atkinson made a mistake and he paid for his mistake," Grant said of the forearm to the back of Swann's helmet that kayoed the Pittsburgh pass-catcher in the season's opening game.

NFL Roundup

Atkinson was not penalized in the game for clobbering Swann. The hit occurred away from the play. But after the league took a look at the game films, he was slapped with a $1,500 fine. Had he been ejected from the game for his actions, a fine would have been automatic.

UNC-C In 80-64 Win

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — North Carolina-Charlotte, behind the 32-point shooting of Lew Massey, shook off pesky Hilo College in the second half for an 80-64 win Wednesday.

The victory, coupled with North Carolina's 112-75 triumph over Hilo Tuesday, gave the visitors a sweep of a two-game exhibition series.

The contest was tied eight times early in the second half before Mike Hester's basket with 12:18 to play put the 49ers ahead to stay.

Melvin Watkins added 15 points and Hester had 12 for the visitors. Gilbert Hicks led Hilo with 21 points before fouling out, and Jay "Bird" Bartholomew had 15.

Hilo College, which was undefeated before tangling with the 49ers, competes in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics small-college ranks.

Miller Time In Phoenix

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — It is a new beginning for Johnny Miller.

"I don't want this to sound the wrong way, but with me, playing good is mostly mental," Miller said before teeing off today in the first round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open, the kickoff event for the 1977 pro golf tour.

"The way it's worked the last couple of seasons, I come out like gangbusters, win two or three in a row at the start of the year. And then I kind of lose interest."

"At the start of the year it's different. It's been a good winter, good holidays. I'm rested and ready to go. It's the start of a new year, a new beginning. All that sort of thing. You come out all pumped up, anxious to get a good start on the year."

And, for the last three years, the Phoenix Open and next week's Tucson Open have served as the keystone tournaments to Miller's remarkable success. He has played those two tournaments better than anyone in history.

In the last three years, he has won five of the six tour events in the Arizona desert. He has put together rounds of 61 at both Tucson and the 6,726-yard, par-71 Phoenix Country Club course. He has flirted with a score in the 50's — a mark that has yet to be achieved on the American tour. He once won Phoenix with a 260 total, the lowest score in any tour event in more than two decades.

"It's the grass," he explained. "The fairways are just so good that you can't get a bad lie. And if you give me a good lie, I'm going to hit it close to the hole."

Putting, however, could be the key in this tournament, which carries a $40,000 first prize.

"You know you have to have some very low numbers to do any good in this tournament," said Hubert Green. "So that puts a lot of pressure on your putting."

Miller, winner of two American tournaments and the British Open last year, and Green, winner of three tour titles, head the strong field that has assembled for the start of the long, rich 1977 tour.

Other standouts include the holders of the Masters, U.S. Open and PGA crowns — Ray Floyd, Jerry Pate and Dave Stockton — defending champion Bob Gilder and a total of 15 of the top 20 money-winners from the 1976 season. Among those are Hale Irwin, J.C. Snead, Don January, Mark Hayes, Tom Watson, Tom Weiskopf, Rik Massengale, Roger Maltbie, Dave Hill and Tom Kite.

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — The general manager of the Maine Nordiques says he hopes a drive to raise money by selling half-season tickets will allow the North American Hockey League team to remain in Lewiston.

HOLLYWOOD — The basketball game between D. H. Conley and Farmville Central was again postponed yesterday due to a leaky roof on the Vikings' court.

The contest is now scheduled for Saturday night at Conley. It will get underway at 5 p.m. with a junior varsity game, with the girls playing at 7 p.m., and the boys' varsity following.

Buffalo Cheers Aided Warrior Rally

By The Associated Press
The Golden State Warriors had the "home court advantage." But they found it in a most peculiar place ... Buffalo.

The inspiration of hometown cheers apparently worked in reverse Wednesday night as the Warriors overcame a 19-point deficit late in the third period and went on to a 118-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

"It definitely helped us," said Golden State's Rick Barry, who said his team was inspired to do better after the Buffalo fans gave their Braves a standing ovation when they took an 85-66 lead with 5:24 left in the third period.

Inflamed by the roar of the crowd, the Warriors went back to the drawing board and came up with a new game plan.

"We decided after the crowd gave them a standing ovation to play tough defense," Barry said. "We just went out and hustled more. We didn't allow them to penetrate. Basically, we played team defense the way it was supposed to be played. On offense, we worked on controlling the ball."

NBA Roundup

The big man down the stretch for Golden State was literally a big man — reserve center seven-foot Robert Parish. The rookie came off the bench to score 18 points and grab 10 rebounds in the second half.

In other NBA games, Washington pounded the New York Nets 107-92; Philadelphia whipped Los Angeles 117-94; Detroit stopped Phoenix 118-115; Indiana routed Chicago 109-94; Houston nipped the New York Knicks 108-107; San Antonio trimmed Denver 137-133 and Seattle nipped Boston 94-93.

Bullets 107, Nets 92
Phil Chemier sank 11 of 13

shots, including his first eight, and scored 28 points, leading Washington over the New York Nets. By scoring their fourth consecutive victory, the Bullets reached the .500 level for the first time since Nov. 20.

76ers 117, Lakers 94
Julius Erving and George McGinnis combined for 46 points, leading Philadelphia over Los Angeles. Erving had 26 points, including 10-for-10 from the foul line, and McGinnis contributed 20.

Pistons 118, Suns 115
Baskets by Howard Porter and Chris Ford, plus two free throws by M.L. Carr in the final 86 seconds lifted Detroit over Phoenix. After Porter's basket tied the score at 114, Ford drove in for the winning basket.

Pacers 109, Bulls 94
Billy Knight scored a season-high 39 points, leading Indiana over Chicago. Darnell Hillman, Steve Green and Don Buse had 12 points apiece for the Pacers.

Rockets 108, Knicks 107
Houston guard Mike Newlin scored 26 points and led a Rockets' fourth-quarter rally. The victory lifted the Rockets into a tie for the Central Division lead with the idle Cleveland Cavaliers.

Spurs 137, Nuggets 133
San Antonio captain James Silas returned to action from knee surgery and scored 28 points, helping the Spurs beat Denver.

Sonics 94, Celtics 93
Tommy Burleson, distraught at missing a five-footer with 14 seconds to play, stole the ball from Boston's Jo Jo White and slammed home a flying dunk with two seconds to play to give Seattle a close victory over the Celtics.

Everybody chase the Big Orange.

That seems to be the way the race for the Eastern Carolina Conference basketball title is going to go this year. North Pitt is defending its title and the other conference members will probably have to get past them to have a shot at the crown.

As in the past football season, Pitt County has its share of talent in the conference. Farmville Central, Ayden-Grifton and D. H. Conley, along with North Pitt, all could conceivably win the conference and all of those teams should at least have good seasons.

But the Panthers are definite favorites, according to area coaches. North Pitt coach Cobby Deans has three starters returning from last year's championship squad, the most notable of which is forward Donnie Perkins.

Perkins is one of the conference leaders in scoring, averaging 18 points per game, a couple of points lower than his average last year. Perkins is definitely the leader of the team and a lot of North Pitt's success will depend on him.

Virgil Pilgreen is also a Panther standout, averaging 19 points per game and about 10 rebounds.

Farmville Central, which defeated North Pitt last week in the Rose Holiday Doubleheader, also has a good chance at the title. The Jaguars are led by forward Kenno Farrow, who is averaging 24.5 points per game.

Ayden-Grifton and D. H. Conley have not enjoyed tremendous success thus far this season. However, both have the potential to come around and possibly put it all together and make themselves heard in the league.

Injuries, among other things have hurt the Vikings this season, but it seems that things are finally coming into shape. Coach Shelly Marsh now has most of his team back and its time for Conley to start winning some games.

Ayden-Grifton looks to Ogden Braxton and Frankie Dail to put them on the winning track. The Chargers haven't showed too much offensive punch so far, their highest total being 81 points and their lowest, 32.

With the improvement of a few key players, it should be a successful year for the Pitt County schools in the Eastern Carolina Conference and an interesting conference race.

Bruce Jenner Top Athlete

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Jenner, who captivated the crowd at the 1976 Olympics with his gold medal performance in the grueling decathlon competition, was named Male Athlete of the Year by The Associated Press today.

Jenner, a 27-year-old graduate of tiny Graceland (Iowa) College, earned the AP honor with a world record total of 8,618 points in the two-day, 10-event competition at the Montreal Olympics.

He received 237 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, easily beating Tony Dorsett, the University of Pittsburgh's record-breaking running back, who finished with 105. Cincinnati Reds second baseman Joe Morgan, the National League's Most Valuable Player for the second straight year, finished third with 47, and another American Olympic hero, swimmer John Naber, was fourth with 23.

Others finishing high in the voting were for football's O.J. Simpson and Walter Payton; baseball's Mark Fidrych; Thurman Munson and Johnny Bench; pro basketball player Dave Cowens, tennis star Jimmy Connors and heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali.

Jenner is the 46th winner of the award which was originated in 1931. He and Nadia Comaneci of Romania, AP Female Athlete, will be honored in the spring at the Tampa, Fla., Sports Club's annual dinner.

Jenner's performance in the Olympics was a personal vindication for the 6-foot-2, 195-pound athlete who had finished 10th in the decathlon competition at the 1972 Games in Munich. The winner that year was Nikolai Avilov, whose total of 8,454 points set a record.

After Avilov clinched the 1972 gold, Jenner walked up to him. "Next time," the American athlete said, "I'm going to beat you."

He proved to be a man of his word and Avilov had to be satisfied with the bronze medal at Montreal.

Jenner went into the Games with a reputation for performing best on the second day of the decathlon competition. "If I am within 150 points of the leader after five events," he said, "I'll run away with it."

Fighting Irish Given Third Straight Defeat

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Will the real Notre Dame basketball team please stand up?

College Roundup

At the start of the season, the Fighting Irish couldn't lose. Now they can't win.

After winning their first seven games, including victories on the road over Maryland and UCLA, Notre Dame has lost three straight — including Wednesday night's 64-62 defeat by Villanova.

"We've been turning the ball over too much," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps, who has seen his Irish drop from No. 2 to No. 8 in the national rankings and will no doubt see them drop even more.

Phelps had some solace, at least, in that the Irish were competitive for a change. They were routed by Kentucky and Princeton before Wednesday night's close one.

"I was happy to see us get back into the game," Phelps noted.

Elsewhere in college basketball, second-ranked Cincinnati whipped Temple 61-46; fourth-ranked Alabama stopped Florida 83-71; No. 6 North Carolina drubbed No. 16 Clemson 91-63; No. 10 Wake Forest defeated Virginia 67-63; No. 17 Providence edged St. Joseph's, Pa., 65-64 and 19th-ranked Syracuse beat Fordham 87-68.

Keith Herron scored 19 points and brother Larry had 11 as Villanova upset Notre Dame. Notre Dame's Dave Batton hit the side of the rim with a corner shot with just two seconds remaining as the Irish missed tying the game at the end.

Robert Miller and Gary Yoder each scored 14 points as Cincinnati won its 10th straight game before a crowd of 9,256, largest ever to see a basketball contest at Riverfront Coliseum. The 10-0 start is the Bearcats' best since 1963's NCAA runner-up won their first 19 games.

Robert Scott's six straight points gave Alabama some breathing room at the end over hot-shooting Florida. The Crimson Tide, 11-0, survived 71 per cent shooting by the Gators in the first half.

Phil Ford scored 20 points to lead North Carolina past Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Tar Heels played the second half without Coach Dean Smith, who was ejected just before intermission after incurring three technicals.

Wake Forest fell behind 16-6 in the first six minutes but rallied behind Rod Griffin to beat Virginia. Bruce Campbell's free throw with one second remaining enabled Providence to defeat St. Joseph's. Jim Williams' 18 points led Syracuse past Fordham.

Participants In est Live Purely In The Present

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Romans conjugated their verbs and left us with est — he, she or it is. But est — it is — has become a popular way of finding one's self, separating the tangles of past experience and future expectations. For some of today's brilliant musicians, this sometimes brutal way to face what is, works.

By ABE PECK
For The Associated Press
What do John Denver, Diana Ross, Cher, Carly Simon, Stan Getz, Yoko Ono, Herb Alpert, and three of the Beach Boys have in common?

They're musicians who have taken est. Lower case est, even at the beginning of a sentence. The five-year-old est training currently costs $300 and has been taken by some 100,000 people. Groups of perhaps 250 trainees spend 60 hours in a controlled environment where they do mind-body exercises called "processes," share intimate experiences and are relentlessly bullied and encouraged by the trainer.

est (correct, no caps) is Latin for it is, and for many people, it is. The participant is trained to recognize the kinds of patterns that run one's life, and not be run by past tense thoughts or future tense expectations. One is asked to live moment by moment in one's present tense experience, not caught in the fabric of one's life, but being the fabric of one's life.

A small percentage drop out, complaining about the name-calling and "agreements" governing when they can eat, sleep or even go to the bathroom. Others "get it" by experiencing that they're responsible for their lives, and often find that persistent problems clear up with the acknowledgement of responsibility.

John Denver, who's donated $10,000 to the est foundation, played benefit concerts and declared his "Back Home Again" album "a chance to share est with you," wasn't overwhelmed when he first encountered the organization.

"I went to one of the introductory guest seminars, in Aspen, and I walked out. I said, 'It sounded like bull.' Then they had a training, and some of my friends took it. Afterwards, they were more straight-ahead. They looked you in the eye when they talked to you, and when stuff came up it was handled."

Denver took the est training in June 1972. "est was a great acknowledgement," he said with a certitude that some take as smugness and others look on as genuine self-satisfaction. "Here was somebody saying things that I felt were a part of my life. That sense of being at one with everything, being centered and in control of your own destiny."

"I was able to verify my own experience, and it got to be much safer. I remember playing in front of 10,000 people after the training, and my guitarist, Mike Taylor, noticed that I wasn't nervous before the show. Everything was under control."

Denver dedicated "Looking For Space" to est founder Werner Erhard and everyone in est" and sent "Farewell Andromeda (Welcome to My Morning)" out "for all of you from Werner and est and me."

"I wanted very much to write a song about est. Everybody thought that 'Rocky Mountain High' was done after the training. The truth is that I completed the album before it. But

'Farewell Andromeda' has to do with accepting that you're responsible for it all, and 'Looking for Space' is what it says. We're looking to find out where we are, and what our relationship is between ourselves and the universe."

The price of finding that out, though, involves encountering those trainers, who curse like drill sergeants and drone an endless series of regulations.

"I was scared," Beach Boy guitarist-vocalist Carl Wilson admitted. "But it was funny. The people who complained were donkeys." Wilson had a harder time with the ground rules. "Talk about a barrage of data. It was all I could do not to go to sleep. But then I just got wrapped up in it. There was a very great feeling that all these people were in the room because they wanted their lives to be better."

Wilson took est training in February 1974 and has since been joined by keyboard player Carlis Munoz and several family members, including drum-playing brother Dennis Wilson. No song similar to "Transcendental Meditation" came out of the experience, but Carl noted another effect.

"I traveled quite a lot during the first tour after the training, and I was able to take it day by day. I used to think 'We've got 10 days left, we've got nine days left.' After the training, I just dug it. I'd say, 'Oh goody, we're here.'"

Werner Erhard explains it this way: "My sense of what musicians get is a clearing up of their entanglement with life. That allows a more spontaneous expression rather than an agonized, struggling one. The training facilitates that by allowing you to be a little less attached to your own agenda."

The 41-year-old est founder said. "Take someone like Stan Getz. He was always a great saxophonist, and what I noticed after he took the training was that his music became more a self-expression instead of only a function of talent."

"I think that a great musician really isn't trying to get something across to you. What he or she's doing is giving you the chance to get in touch with yourself, with your own experience. He's not trying to get you to know something he knows. He's trying to get you to know something you know."

ECU School Of Allied Health To Open New Graduate Program

Health professionals in Eastern North Carolina will soon be able to earn master's degrees in public health without leaving their jobs.

Beginning March 10, part-time graduate work for full-time professionals will be offered through an off-campus master's degree program in health administration provided by the School of Public Health at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and cosponsored by the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions and the Eastern Area Health Education Center.

"We think the health administration master's degree program will have positive benefits for the eastern region of the state. This is an outstanding example of important educational needs being met through the cooperative efforts of many individuals and groups," said Dr. Simmons Patterson, Executive Director of the Eastern Area Health Education Center.

Dr. Ronald Thiele, Dean, ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, commented that "We have been interested in the program for several years, because it will make the highly specialized resources of the School of Public Health more accessible to health professionals in eastern North Carolina. The program is the result of a logical relationship between our school and the School of Public Health at Chapel Hill."

The three-year off-campus program is designed for professionals who have ad-

Classes in the Greenville area will be held every Thursday from 2:00-5:00 and 6:30-9:30 p.m. on the ECU campus beginning March 10. Enrollment will be limited to 30 students.

Applications for enrollment in March will be accepted through Jan. 15. Forms are available from Donald R. For those who would rather begin the program in August, applications will be accepted through the middle of June.

Nat'l Teacher Exams Feb. 9

The National Teacher Examinations (NTE) will be given at East Carolina University Feb. 19.

Scores from the examinations are used by many states for certification of teachers, by many school systems for selection and identification of leadership qualities, and by many colleges as part of their graduation requirements.

Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the tests, says they are designed to measure knowledge gained from professional and general education and in 27 subject-matter fields.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from the Testing Center, Rooms 105-106, Speight Building, East Carolina University or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, NJ 08540.

Three Hanged Community Of 2,000 Has No Govm't As Saboteurs

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian government hanged a Palestinian and two Syrians at dawn today, less than five hours after announcing their conviction on charges of sabotage instigated by Iraq.

Hundreds of people gathered in the main squares of Damascus and the northern city of Aleppo to watch the executions. Damascus radio announced that another death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, three other members of the sabotage network got life terms and five others were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to seven years.

There had been no previous official report of the group's alleged acts of sabotage or the arrests and trials of the 12 men, which the broadcast said took place between October and Jan. 2. However, there have been rumors of bombings in various Syrian cities since last summer.

A Palestinian identified as Jaber Abed Rabo was hanged in Damascus. Two Syrians named Nahaat Tarhil and Hassan Rayi were hanged in Aleppo, the government radio said.

Syria and neighboring Iraq are ruled by separate wings of the Baath Socialist Party, but the two factions are bitter enemies. The enmity has been heightened by Syria's intervention in Lebanon on the side of the conservative Christians and Iraq's support of the leftist Lebanese Moslems and Palestinians on the other side of the civil war.

WELCOME, N.C. (AP) — It's not a city, because it doesn't have any government. It's not the country, because it has too many people in it. You certainly couldn't call it a commune. What is it?

It's just plain Welcome, a Davidson County community of about 2,000 whose residents somehow manage to meet their communal needs without fussing with such things as a town council, a police department or even city limits.

They don't have to fuss with city taxes either, and for now at least, Welcome residents like it that way. "It just seems there is no real reason at this time for incorporating," says realtor Boyce Sink, long-time Welcome resident who has been active in many civic projects, including a 1965 feasibility study of incorporation.

"We have everything a city has except a government."

Schools? They're the pride of the city, among the best and most attractive in the county system.

Water? Welcome civic leaders formed North Davidson Water, Inc., which supplies most of the county, the principal outcome of the study on incorporation Sink headed up.

Garbage and sewers? Private firms haul the trash. The county is handling sewer planning to everyone's satisfaction, Sink says.

Police protection? The county Sheriff's Department has a station near the town.

Fire and ambulance service? A rural service club helped form a volunteer fire department in the 1940s. It's still good enough for Welcome. The county ambulance service has a station nearby.

For a while in the 1960s Welcome did have an informal government of sorts, a Welcome Community Development Council composed of delegates from six local civic organizations, two schools and two farm-oriented clubs. But even this arrangement was abandoned as unnecessary.

Sink, who comes as close as anyone to qualifying as town spokesman, foresees only one problem that might some day stir the town into incorporation.

"If anything it might be zoning," he says. "Our growth has been steady, normal and good. But what we have is not necessarily an orderly growth pattern. We've had mixing of business, residential and industrial."

The town's principal industry is a furniture factory, which has been expanding since the firm came to town about 15 years ago.

Suspended For Cover-Up Order

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Charlotte police sergeant has been suspended for ordering an officer to cover up an auto accident, police officials said.

Chief J.C. Goodman suspended Sgt. O.R. Jackson indefinitely without pay on Tuesday for Jackson's actions after an officer he commanded hit a body while driving to investigate an auto accident.

The officer, Henry C. Hood, falsified the report to hide the accident but he was not punished, police officials said.

The incident occurred Dec. 9 as Hood arrived at the scene of a fatal accident. Police said a victim of the accident was dead when Hood accidentally hit the body.

The Pitt County Branch of the NAACP will meet Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Riddick's Chapel Church, Bethel.

Many Actors 'Pay For Supper' With Moonlighting

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Unless you hit big in this business," says Eivind Harum, "you don't make a lot of money."
To cushion economic hazard, the lanky dancer-turned-actor, went looking for a lucrative sideline. With his brother Jan, who happens to hate acting, and a silent partner who contrarily hopes to become a performer, he started a limousine taxi service.
The recent troika partnership is an example of the trend among Broadwayites to moonlight for extra income. Their highly diversified endeavors range from architecture to woodworking. A good many get an extra dividend by expressing artistic urges outside the theatrical discipline.

Harum's Stage Door Service is, however, aimed only at guaranteeing financial stability during the sometimes long stretches between stage engagements.
The 32-year-old Norwegian had plenty of time to think about the risks of show business life following a guest appearance several seasons ago with the Metropolitan Opera Company in "Samson and Delilah."

During a choreographic solo, Harum broke both feet when a leap landed him against a misplaced prop. Hospitalized for a month, he pondered "what do you do when you can't dance anymore?"
(The same question, incidentally, is a main theme of the musical "A Chorus Line" in which the agile Harum is currently appearing as the director of the show-within-the-show).

"I thought about giving up dancing completely," he recalls, even after therapy restored his skills.
For a time he concentrated on photography, produced a porno film that he'd now like to forget, then moved on to serious work on dance in film with the help of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. After a sojourn in Europe he returned here to join Martha Graham's company. Then Michael Bennett offered him a part in the international company of "A Chorus Line" which eventually brought him to New York.
To get the lowdown on limousine catering, Harum and his partners hung around a diner where the drivers for a big taxi service congregated. "We learned about repairs, rates, quality of service."

With two limousines, they have arrived at a break-even level in less than a year, and plan gradual expansion.

"We intend to use unemployed actors as drivers," says Harum, "because they are reliable, personable and courteous."
"And we are also going to give five per cent of the profits each year to dance companies. It's one way in which the arts can contribute to their own support."
Under city hack bureau regulations, Stage Door Service can handle all types of jobs except driving to a funeral.

TV spokeswoman for a furniture line.
Robert H. Livingston, director of "Something Old, Something New" which arrives on Broadway in January, runs a carpentry shop that turns out custom decor for such stellar clients as Anne Bancroft.
Joanne Beretta, busy currently in off-Broadway's "The Club," designs table settings and Christmas decorations for Tiffany's and Family Circle Magazine, lists the late President Johnson's family among past clients.
Whipping up food specialties is the off-stage occupation of Penelope Bodrey of "The Threepenny Opera." Sue and her husband operate the LoCal Restaurant in Greenwich Village. Art Ostrin of the same musical runs an Early Halloween Antique Shop that features vintage clothing.

Authorship has been rewarding for others including Fred Gwynne, who writes and illustrates books for children when not starring in plays like the recent "Texas Trilogy"; Ludj Claire, of the upcoming "The Bed Before Yesterday," adaptor of an award-winning TV version of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey"; and partner of Composer Julie Styne in a pending musical version of "Major Barbara"; and Leo Bloom of "Herr!" who sired a volume of gourmet recipes.
Geoffrey Holder and Zero Mostel are among those who have earned high prestige and get high prices for paintings. While in "A Little Night Music," Sherry Mathis earned extra money with colorful poses made from gingham, calico and batik bits of cloth.

Radio Is Trying Fresh Approach

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — An ambitious experiment begins here today designed to lure children away from their television sets into what sponsors of the program feel is the more stimulating realm of radio.
Soundscape, a non-profit organization formed in Durham two years ago, is starting a series of 13 children's plays performed for radio by local actors.

The plays, adapted from contemporary stories, include "Petronella," the story of a liberated princess who rescues a prince; "Scat," about a boy who wants to be a blues musician, and "Ann and the Buzzard," about a rural North Carolina girl who befriends a much-maligned bird.
The series is part of a larger program aimed at promoting radio art. Soundscape will broadcast to the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area over WUNC-FM in Chapel Hill at the University of North Carolina.

"In radio, scenes are built from your own memories, like in a dream," said Dr. Louise Cleveland, who coordinated the play series with Shanga Sadiki, producer-announcer of a jazz series at a Durham station, and Roz Wolbarsht, a freelance writer.

"I'm convinced that it helps people learn all kinds of things about their imaginative capabilities."

"It's going to be difficult to break this TV habit," Dr. Cleveland admits. "The TV is on and the radio is something you have to make a conscious effort to turn on. We're going to depend on parents and the schools. Many parents remember being hooked on radio and they want their children to experience the same thing."

Dr. Cleveland, who did her Ph.D. dissertation on British radio plays, said that in England, "most good writers have written for radio."

Bones Aged 6,000 Years

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Nine skeletons unearthed in Warren County may be those of people who hunted deer and gathered roots and berries as much as 6,000 years ago, scientists say.

Dr. Jack Schock, an assistant professor of anthropology at Western Kentucky University, said that all but two of the skeletons have been removed from a building site near Plum Springs. A bulldozer exposed the bones, buried between 14 inches and three feet below the surface.

Schock said bone samples will be sent to the University of Georgia for dating by radioactive Carbon 14, the process by which the amount of radiation given off by the remains allows scientists to tell when the people lived.

Schock said the bones could be those of people who lived during the Archaic Period, which dates from 1,000 B.C. to 7,000 B.C.

Schock said those who lived during the era had no pottery and hunted with primitive weapons. They were not farmers, although they may have grown sunflowers or wheat.

Gary Foster, assistant director of archaeological research at Western, said the skeletons recovered last September were of adults in their mid to late 20s, with some possibly older. One of the pits contained only a skull, a case in which the body probably was uncovered and partially reburied, Foster said.

The teeth in one skull were in fairly good condition for their age — good enough to determine that when alive, the man apparently suffered from an abscessed tooth.

Impressionist In First Dramatic Role Tonight

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Impressionist Rich Little plays his first dramatic role on "Hawaii Five-O" tonight, but he doesn't entirely give up his impersonations.

Rich gives a crackerjack performance as a self-appointed avenger who rubs out his victims in the style of James Cagney gangster movies.

"The guy's a movie nut and a Cagney freak," said Rich, who confessed he jumped at the offer for a dramatic part.

"I've played a small part on 'Mannix,' but this is my first starring role. I've wanted to do this for a long time. It's hard to convince producers. They say,

'Sure, I'd love to have you, Rich, but with the millions you make in night clubs we can't afford you.'

He said, "You get labeled as an impressionist and people don't think of you as an actor. I don't see why you can't do both."

Rich made the appearance on the CBS detective series for the standard guest star fee of $3,000 — but had to postpone a far more lucrative club date.

In the show he stalks the drug pushers behind the overdose death of a girl he secretly loved. He plays the role with a cold fury that gradually heightens into frenzy in the "White Heat" re-creation. Other scenes are re-created from "Roaring Twenties" and "Public Enemy."

Rich, with his comedic background, handles himself well in his dramatic debut. He laments that the scenes that gave the character more dimension ended up on the cutting room floor.

He is probably the best of the impressionists, and certainly the only one now seen regularly on TV. His own variety show was canceled by NBC, but he appears frequently on the "Tonight" show and "Hollywood Squares." He has a contract with ABC for several specials a year and exclusive appearances on that network's variety shows.

Interviewing Rich Little is like watching "That's Entertainment!" The impressions fly by like film clips. Mention Jimmy Stewart and he's Jimmy Stewart. If he tells a Howard Cosell anecdote, he's Cosell.

Rich said he never wanted to do the standard "you-dirty-rat," Cagney, but an older, rougher Cagney.

He said he wanted the role because it was the opposite of his boy-next-door image. "You go against what people think and it's effective," he said. "It's like Helen Hayes playing a psychopath. It grabs you."

Poor Timing

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's 46 Democratic state senators are reported to be among those sent invitations, with a request for contributions, to a fund-raising event for Lt. Gov. James C. Green, at a time when he is making his legislative committee selections.

Sen. William G. Smith, D-New Hanover, was critical, commenting to newsmen that "it was a sorry thing for him to do."

Several other senators who were contacted said they felt the invitations put them on the spot.

The News and Observer of Raleigh said in its report that others declined to be quoted for publication.

The fund-raising event was sponsored by Wake County's three senators at the request of Green's campaign manager, former state Sen. Samuel H. Johnson, who said, "I'm not aware of any impropriety. They (Senate members) live out there in the political world and they're aware of the trials and tribulations involved" in campaigning and raising money.

Johnson said he had asked the Wake County senators to arrange the Jan. 11 event and he added that Green had no role in its planning.

Green was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Social Value Study Asked

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Opponents of the death penalty say they want a study which they hope will show capital punishment does not improve social conditions.

The move came during a workshop here sponsored by the state Council of Churches in which the state's churches were urged to actively oppose reinstatement of the death penalty.

"It is important that churches quit equivocating on the death penalty," said William Geimer of Fayetteville, chairman of North Carolinians Against the Death Penalty.

"I am sorely disappointed in the white churches of this state," he added. "We let our brethren off the hook when we say that the life of Christ teaches anything else except opposition to killing."

Other opponents said they would try to establish a study commission whose purpose would be to compare social conditions in the state during times when the state was with and without capital punishment.

Prinze Enters Innocent Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Freddie Prinze, co-star of television's "Chico and the Man," is to appear in Superior Court here Feb. 28 on a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of drugs.

Authorities said Wednesday that Prinze pleaded innocent to the charge at a Dec. 29 hearing. He was not held.

Prinze, 22, was arrested Nov. 5 in Van Nuys after a highway patrolman said he saw the comic actor driving erratically.

The patrolman said he found a two-ounce prescription bottle of nosedrops in Prinze's pocket. Authorities said tests later showed the comedian's blood contained methaqualone, a tranquilizer.

Lowell Thomas Is Quietly Wed

LAHAINA, Hawaii (AP) — Newscaster Lowell Thomas has gotten married in a small private ceremony here.

Thomas, 84, married Marianna Munn, 49, a former executive director of the American Colony Charity Association in the Middle East.

Eighteen guests were invited to Wednesday's ceremony, conducted by Bishop Harry Kennedy at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Church.

Among the guests were Thomas' son, Lowell Jr., who is lieutenant governor of Alaska.

The couple planned to visit Washington, D.C., before leaving for Asia and the Near East to work on a television project. Thomas' first wife died in 1975.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Many key moves, both on offense and defense, begin with ducking a trick which could have been won. But too large a helping of duck can lead to indigestion, as declarer learned to his cost on this deal.

North-South were employing intermediate jump overcalls. North's overall of three clubs showed the equivalent of a good opening bid with a long suit, so South elected to take his chances in a no trump game.

West led the king of diamonds and declarer decided to allow West to win the first trick. Since he could not continue diamonds without presenting declarer with a trick, West shifted to the king of hearts. Again declarer chose to duck. Unfortunately, West's next play disconcerted declarer no end—West exited with a club.

Declarer had nothing better to do than run his clubs, but his predicament grew from bad to worse. He had to find four discards, and he had to discard before West. No matter what he did, he was ensnared in a self-inflicted squeeze, and by careful discarding the defenders were able to hold declarer to eight tricks.

Declarer would have done far better had he won the first trick with the ace of diamonds. Since West was likely to have started with the kings and queens of the red suits and ace of spades for his vulnerable opening bid, declarer could have put pressure on him by running the clubs. Now South has no discarding problem—he comes down to two spades, two hearts and two diamonds in his hand. But West cannot discard safely. No matter what he decides to hold, by watching the discards carefully declarer can force West to concede the ninth trick in either the spade or diamond suit. If you don't believe us, see for yourself! If there is any way for West to avoid the pinch.

Five Contempt Charges For Yoshimura

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An emotional vov by Wendy Yoshimura to keep silent about Patricia Hearst and other persons she encountered during 3½ years underground has cost her five charges of contempt of court.

"It is impossible to explain my life after 1972 without suggesting or providing information about the people and friends who helped me," she whispered Wednesday in a hushed courtroom at her weapons possession trial.

"I want you to understand that I hold very strong moral principles that prevent me from doing this."

Miss Hearst, at her federal bank robbery trial last year, implicated more than a dozen persons — including Miss Yoshimura — who had helped her elude arrest during the early months of her flight.

The two women were roommates in San Francisco when they were captured by the FBI in September 1975.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich cited Miss Yoshimura for contempt when she refused to answer prosecutor Jeff Horner's questions about her flight into the terrorist underground.

She was to continue testimony in her defense today.

Under questioning by defense attorney James Larson, Miss Yoshimura, 33, said she learned in a telephone call on March 31, 1972, that her boy friend, William Brandt, had been arrested at a Berkeley garage where police found a cache of illegal weapons and bomb-making material.

Miss Yoshimura, who had rented the garage, said the caller "was one of the people who helped me to leave the area." When she refused to identify the caller, Larson asked her why and she removed from her pocket a dramatic prepared statement and read it to the jury.

"I cannot talk about anything — any people, any places, or any circumstances — after I fled in 1972," she said in a breaking voice, halting frequently to fight back tears.

Miss Yoshimura admitted in her statement that she "fled out of fear of prosecution ... I admit that I associated with other fugitives after 1972."

She added that "many people helped me, some of whom I consider are my very dear friends, and I am morally obligated to bring them no harm in any way possible."

She refused to plead the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination, choosing instead to base her silence on moral principles.

Miss Yoshimura is charged with possessing the weapons and explosives found in the garage, which she said she rented to store personal possessions belonging to her and Brandt.

The prosecution contends the garage was an armory for political radicals plotting to blow up military buildings to protest the Vietnam war.

N.C. Insurance Ruling Will Affect All Women

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A State Insurance Commission ruling banning sex discrimination in insurance sales will affect virtually every woman in the state, and some men as well, a commission staffer says.

The new rules approved Wednesday bar the insurance industry from refusing any insurance coverage to women that is available to men.

"I'd say it will affect the adult female population at large," said commission staffer Gloria Jimenez, who served on a task that recommended the switch.

She said most working women would be affected through their group life and medical policies, and wives and other female dependants of working men would enjoy expanded coverage in some cases too.

The change "will go a long way toward ending sex discrimination in the availability of group policies, male and female, but she considered it unlikely, because the types of coverage affected were "not very costly."

The decision, which follows five hearing sessions before the commission, becomes effective in four months.

Its prohibitions include:

- Denying coverage to women with part-time jobs in their homes or working for relatives when coverage is available to men similarly employed.
- Denying policy riders to women when the riders are available to men.
- Denying group maternity coverage to unmarried women if such coverage is available to married women under the same policy.
- Denying dependant coverage to husbands of female employees covered by group policies if wives of male employees are covered.
- Denying disability coverage to women when men in similar jobs can get it.
- Treating complications of pregnancy differently from other illness covered by a medical insurance policy.
- Establishing different qualifications for benefits for men and women covered by a single insurance contract.

Mrs. Jimenez said premiums might be raised for all buyers of group policies, male and female, but she considered it unlikely, because the types of coverage affected were "not very costly."

Offering Aid To Adoptees

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Adult adoptees who want to track down their biological parents soon will be able to get help from a computer.

Donna Cullom, who has files cards on 6,000 persons, says the sleuthing job is a big one and chances of matchups on the first computer run are slim. She estimates there are nine million adoptees in the United States.

Miss Cullom, 35, established Yesterday's Children in 1974 for grown adoptees or parents who had given up their children but wanted to be reunited. She said the nonprofit agency has helped 370 adoptees find their biological parents "through pure detective work."

The searches are often frustrated by the lack of access to adoption records, which in most states are sealed by law and unavailable to either parents or offspring, Miss Cullom said.

"All most of these people want is the option of knowing their heritage," she said.

Miss Cullom, who was an adopted child herself, said it took her "12 years to find my mother."

"And I also found that I have nine brothers and sisters. My father had died," she said. "I wasn't looking for mom and dad as such. I just wanted to know how I fit on the real family tree."

Miss Cullom's computer project is called the National Adoption Registry and is to be activated within a month, she said.

Yesterday's Children has offices at 1371 Livingston Street in Evanston.

Accused Is Committed

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Ira David Meeks, accused of hijacking a small plane from Gastonia Municipal Airport to Cuba six years ago, was committed Wednesday to a state mental hospital where he will remain until he is able to stand trial.

Meeks, 32, was found incompetent to stand trial on federal hijacking charges by a U.S. District Court judge last month.

State charges are pending against Meeks.

Moments after state District Court Judge Donald Ramseur handed down the commitment order Wednesday, the pilot of the hijacked plane grabbed Meeks' hand, shook it and told him he was not angry.

"I want to tell you I love you," said Boyce Stradley, 62, of Gastonia. "I hold no malice, no hatred."

Meeks apparently did not recognize Stradley and when Stradley explained who he was, Meeks looked at him in disbelief.

Stradley, a lay minister, urged Meeks to "give your heart to the lord Jesus Christ, and quit this bad living."

Ramseur ordered Meeks committed involuntarily to Do-rothea Dix Hospital until he is found competent to stand trial on state charges of robbery and kidnaping.

Store Thriving As Alternative To Garage Sales

By ROBERTA G. WAX
VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Success is just one big garage sale for the owners of The Consignment House, a catch-all store full of everything from grandma's antique furniture to that ghastly wedding gift given by an unknown relative.

When neighbors Sabina Cassiliano and Claudette Fillet moved out of their large homes they had lots of things to sell. Many of their neighbors had held "garage" or "yard" sales, but they found this presented problems.

"People don't want to open their doors to strangers," Mrs. Cassiliano said. "Today it can be dangerous, especially to women living alone and elderly couples."

What was needed, the women decided, was a place where people could bring their goods for sale on consignment. Apparently, the idea was a sound one, Mrs. Fillet said.

Since they opened last August, their business has been booming.

The roomy two-story store is pleasantly cluttered. There is 25-cent bric-a-brac in the "scavenger room." Elsewhere, they offer a $5,000 Victorian bed set and a $2,500 Victorian bed and dresser set.

In all, there are more than 10,000 items. They include a theater popcorn machine, an 18th century rocking horse, a 1920 Roper stove, an antique player piano, a pool table and an antique cash register.

The women say they accept almost anything "as long as it's in good condition."

With the client, they set a price based on what the client wants and then add on a 30 per cent commission.

"If we feel the client can get more for an item than what they are asking, we tell them," said the Canadian-born Mrs. Fillet. "We are the judge, we know the market value."

"And if what they want is too high a price, we tell them. There's no sense in bringing in merchandise if we can't sell it."

If not sold after 60 days, the commission goes up to 40 per cent. "Otherwise," Mrs. Cassiliano said, "we might be used as storage place."

They also offer a pickup and delivery service for a small fee, depending on the area.

Customers range from housewives and businessmen to antique dealers. Some come from as far away as San Diego and Las Vegas.

"Some dealers come twice a week, buy merchandise, then turn around and sell it next week for twice the price," said Mrs. Fillet, 34.

Mrs. Cassiliano, 50, who owned her own antique store for three years, said she was surprised at the offers of help they got from other dealers.

Both agreed that the most common items to come in — and the fastest sellers — are antique dining room sets. The oddest item was an African-design "love chair." But that sold, too.

Sometimes they are tempted by their own wares. But Mrs. Cassiliano confided they have a rule about that. "An item has to stay in the store at least one month before we buy it ourselves to make sure we really like it."

"Otherwise, we'd have everything."

So far, they have managed to avoid such temptations. "We've been too busy," said Mrs. Cassiliano.

The store is open seven days a week. Mrs. Cassiliano takes major responsibility for the floor sales. Mrs. Fillet is in charge of appraising incoming items. They also employ four saleswomen and two truck drivers and sometimes "shanghai" their salesmen husbands, who are thrilled with their wives' success.

"My family is very proud of us," said Mrs. Cassiliano, who has three children. "Our husbands are thrilled about the whole thing. They're like two children, they're so excited."

When she comes home from her work, Mrs. Fillet said, her husband has dinner on the table so that she can relax.

Larger Harvest In Most Areas

RALEIGH — Farmers of the world, except in China, increased their output in 1976 by about 3 per cent, according to preliminary estimates by the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Production in the People's Republic of China barely equalled that of the previous year, the agency said.

A dramatic 15 per cent rise in output occurred in the Soviet Union, reflecting recovery from disastrous drought in 1975. Canada also showed a substantial gain.

Production declined in Western Europe, which was hit by severe drought, and in Oceania and Japan. Little change occurred in either the United States or Eastern Europe.

In the developing nations all regions shared in increased production, particularly the countries of East and West Asia.

The USDA agency said its data indicate that world food output (excluding China) may have increased a little faster than overall agricultural output in 1976.

While food production rose about equally rapidly in both the developing and developed countries, population growth rates were much higher in the developing countries—2.5 per cent compared with 1 per cent.

Thus, on a per capita basis, the rate of increase in food output in developing countries was less than one-third as great as in developed nations.

Economists with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service said reports of bumper crops in 1976/77 are confirming forecasts of a record large world grain harvest. Thus, the economists said, the tight grain situation of the past three to four years is being eased further.

World grain production is estimated at about 1.32 billion tons, around 100 million above last year.

Despite prospects of record grain usage, total grain consumption is expected to fall below the trend of the past 16 years, leaving as much as a third of the forecast increase for rebuilding of stocks.

Lagging recovery in livestock feeding appears to be responsible for the relatively slow growth in grain consumption. Carryover stocks at the end of 1976/77 may increase as much as a third over stocks a year earlier, increasing from about 10 per cent of world consumption to around 13 per cent.

Most of the expected stock buildup will be in wheat, reflecting the forecast 15 per cent increase in world wheat production.

Grain stock increases are likely to be concentrated in the Soviet Union, Canada and the United States, with only a limited buildup in the importing or low-income countries. Ample supplies and dampened import demand have contributed to the weakening of wheat and feed grain prices.

Legislative Profiles Vary

NEW YORK (UPI) — a profile of state legislators by the Insurance Information Institute shows that the occupational makeup of the legislatures varies according to specific regions. For instance, in the West North Central states of the Dakotas, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri and Nebraska, 25 per cent of the lawmakers have agricultural backgrounds. But only one per cent of the legislators in the Middle Atlantic and four per cent in the New England states were farm-oriented.

Program Sparks Togetherness

HOUSTON (UPI) — The University of Houston's "Saturday Scholar" program brings high school students, their parents and other adults together for weekend courses in college subjects.

Dr. David Gottlieb, dean of the college of arts and sciences, said each semester-long course carries three hours of regular academic credit which may be used at major universities.

Subject matter includes anthropology, biology, economics, English, geography, mathematics, political science, psychology and sociology.
