

No Surplus, But Enough Money For N.C. Budget

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — There won't be any surplus at the end of this fiscal year, but it appears there will be sufficient revenue to cover the budget, members of the legislative money committees have been told.

Meeting for the first time Thursday, the House Appropriations Committee and Senate Ways and Means Committee were given a short lesson on where the state gets its money and how that money—nearing $4 billion a year—is spent. They were also given a rundown on the state's economic outlook.

Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, said the committees will meet jointly through the end of March. By then, he said, the panels will be ready to break down into smaller committees and begin putting together the budget for the next two fiscal years beginning July 1.

In the meantime, the major work will be review of current programs with an eye toward cutting out anything that's obsolete.

For the first time, there is a schedule of steps spelled out for the budget-making process. The schedule given to the legislators Thursday goes through March and calls for three meetings a week. After that, the lawmakers will be trying to build the new budget.

The legislature's adjournment date traditionally has hinged on completion of the budget. Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green commented that he believes the legislature will be able to finish in less time than the seven-month session some legislators have predicted.

In the 1975 legislative session, the economic recession delayed completion of the budget for a number of weeks as predictions of the state's revenues kept getting gloomier. The legislature met again in 1976 to adjust the current budget to meet changes in the economy.

David Crotts of the legislature's Fiscal Research Division told the committees Thursday that despite a slowdown of the economic recovery in the middle of last year, the state's revenues should meet expectations.

"We are pretty much running on track," he said. While it is too early to project revenues for the next two-year budget period, he said he is somewhat optimistic.

There are several factors that could stunt the economy, he said, citing a shortage of natural gas and reduced business in the textile industry as examples.

Crotts also warned that Congress could overstimulate the national economy, fueling inflation, or the money supply could be tightened, spurring an economic downturn.

In a few months, he said, the Fiscal Research Division will be able to predict the state's economy for the second half of this year and all of next year.

The state's annual budget includes some $800 million in federal funds, said John Allen, director of fiscal research.

Of the total, 58 per cent of the money is general fund, 22 per cent is federal fund and 12 per cent is in highway funds while another 8 per cent is fees and other charges, he said.

Pushed Snow Into His Basement

GONE BY SUMMER — It's a pile of snow and it's inside William Whitney's basement in North Adams, Mass. Whitney didn't know what to do with all the snow from his parking area out back, so he opened the hatchway to his basement and pushed the snow inside, near the furnace. He says it will melt and go down the drain — then he'll have room for more. (AP Wirephoto)

Anthony Eden Dies After Long Illness

ALVEDISTON, England (AP) — Former Prime Minister Anthony Eden died peacefully in his sleep this morning at his country home in southern England after a long illness, his doctor announced. He was 79.

Eden, a successful foreign minister who failed as prime minister when he joined France in the abortive Suez invasion in 1956, was flown home from Florida last weekend when it became apparent that death was near.

His doctor said he was suffering from progressive liver failure. One London newspaper reported he had had cancer of the lung and bone for a year and it had spread to the liver.

Eden, who as Britain's foreign minister in the 1930s advocated a strong stand against Fascist dictators but failed as prime minister in the abortive Suez invasion of 1956, was flown home from Florida last weekend when it became apparent that death was near. He had been staying at the home of senior American diplomat W. Averell Harriman.

The British government

said in an official statement after Eden's death: "We mourn the passing of a distinguished parliamentarian and a statesman of exceptional experience and determination."

Eden's doctor said he had been suffering from progressive liver failure. One London newspaper reported he had had cancer of the lung and bone for a year and it had spread to the liver.

In a statement issued from No. 10 Downing St., official residence of Prime Minister James Callaghan, the government said it "has heard with deep regret of the death of Lord Avon. He spent all his active life in the service of his country."

Queen Elizabeth II, vacationing at her country home at Sandringham, sent a message of sympathy to Eden's widow which read:

"I am much distressed to learn of the death of Lord Avon. As a gallant soldier in the first World War and as a statesman in the second and in many years of peace he gave outstanding service to his country. He will be remembered in history above all as an outstanding diplomat and as a man of courage and integrity."

The suave, aristocratic statesman who resigned from Neville Chamberlain's cabinet to protest Chamberlain's appeasement of Mussolini and Hitler, was a brave soldier in World War I, a member of the House of Commons for 34 years, a brilliant diplomat before, during and after World War II, and a bitter and disillusioned loser in the Suez war that destroyed him as a political leader.

Eden, who was elevated to the peerage as Earl of Avon in 1961, became gravely ill while spending the winter at the Florida home of American diplomat Averell Harriman, and a Royal Air Force plane equipped as a flying hospital was sent from London to bring him and his wife home.

Bids Accepted

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday accepted bids totaling $27,587.85 for rental of 102.68 acres of county-owned land and the associated tobacco and peanut allotments.

Alton Paramore was the successful bidder for the land with a high bid of $6,150, while David Eastwood took the 14.3 acre peanut allotment with a bid of $886.60.

The county's 46,725 pound tobacco allotment averaged more than 43.98 cents per pound, bringing in a total of $20,551.25.

The tobacco was broken into 5,000 pound lots and high bids ranged from 43 cents per pound to 45 cents per pound.

Successful bidders for the tobacco included Dalma Hines, Herbert Newton, Carl Vandiford, Leroy Dixon and the Monk brothers.

TELTRONICS

Hotline has received numerous calls and letters from Greenville area people who ordered watches before Christmas from the Teltronics Company of Des Plaines, Ill. We checked with the Illinois Attorney General's Office after we were unable to contact the company and after one of the persons who ordered from the company said she had heard on a nationally televised news program that the company was conducting fraudulent activity. John McPhee in the Illinois Attorney General's Office said most of his time and effort over the past few weeks has been directed toward this situation. He said a person by the fictitious name of John Rodine advertised throughout the country a "six-function L. E. D. watch for $16.95 in a silver rhodium finish and $17.95 yellow gold plated." There were 10 different styles available and for each two watches ordered, one would receive a five-function electronic memory calculator free.

He said he has not yet determined the real name of "John Rodine," but said person is reported to be in Mexico with lots of money. At least 10,000 orders for watches were sent in, McPhee said, probably many more.

The Illinois Attorney General's office has obtained a temporary restraining order against the company's doing business in the State of Illinois and frozen all money still in Illinois banks. Jan. 12 a petition for appointment of a receiver was appointed by the courts.

McPhee suggested that any and everyone who has a complaint against the company should send all pertinent information, including photostatic copies of canceled checks, to Consumer Fraud Division, Illinois Attorney General's Office, 134 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60602, and should mark on the outside of the envelope Re: Teltronics. All of these letters will be forwarded to the receiver, and hopefully at some future date at least a portion of the amount sent in by each person can be returned.

He said the U. S. Postal Authorities and the U. S. Attorney General are also involved in the case. He said mail-order ripoffs are not unusual, but that this one does seem to be one of the largest to have been perpetrated on the public in a long time.

Because of the large number involved, Hotline is asking each person who wrote or called us about Teltronics to contact the Illinois attorney general himself. We have printed here all the information we have on the situation.

Check Bomb Threat

Officers at noon today were continuing their investigation of a bomb threat call to Rose High School earlier this morning.

The bomb call was the latest in a series of incidents at the school that began January 7, when a fire caused heavy damage to a storage closet and an adjoining classroom and small fires were found in three hallway lockers.

Monday morning, firemen responded to a call shortly before noon, when a fire was discovered in an equipment storage closet in the field house.

Then Wednesday, fire units were called at 3:40 p.m. when a fire was discovered under a mobile classroom unit at the school.

No damage was reported from that blaze.

School and police officials said they did not know whether this morning's bomb call was connected with the fires.

Greenville fire officials, police and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are cooperating in the investigation of the incidents.

Confident Of FPC Action On Gas Needs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has expressed confidence that the Federal Power Commission will rule favorably on North Carolina's request for emergency natural gas supplies.

"The FPC, I think, wants to help us in this matter," Hunt told an airport news conference Thursday in Raleigh, upon his return from an FPC hearing in Washington.

One FPC commissioner told him the panel "would be responsive to us," Hunt said.

Hunt led a delegation that included virtually all the state's major elected officials into the FPC hearing.

Sens. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., joined nearly North Carolina congressmen and told the panel that as many as 36,000 people might lose their jobs if the state is not granted an exemption from interstate gas price regulations.

Joining the North Carolina contingent in making similar pleas were Sens. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., South Carolina Lt. Gov. Brantley Harvey, and Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md.

The three states could share in the 4.8 billion cubic feet of gas that was ordered from Houston Pipeline Co., an interstate supplier, if the FPC grants the emergency exemption.

The exemption would allow gas to be sold in interstate, commerce at the unregulated, intrastate price.

Campus Attitudes Changing, Reports Survey

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — America's college students and teachers are becoming more conservative about busing and capital punishment but increasingly liberal about marijuana and women's equality, according to a Carnegie Council survey.

Fewer students are identifying themselves as "left" or "liberal," according to the survey, which questioned 25,000 undergraduates, 25,000 graduate students and 25,000 faculty members on college and university campuses in 1969 and in 1975.

"I think students and college and university teachers in general are more liberal than the population at large, but not nearly to the degree that the papers have led us to believe," said Dr. Martin Trow, author of the report, in an interview prior to releasing the findings today.

Trow said there is some truth in the idea that students are bucking down to studies because the economic recession made it harder for college graduates to find jobs. The change is reflected in increasingly traditional attitudes toward education and reform.

But he said in many ways the campuses are not as quiet as they seem. "A lot of ideas are being created and circulated and new subjects are being taught," he said.

"There's a great deal of vitality, but unless the kids are throwing rocks or swallowing goldfish, the papers don't pay very much attention."

The survey found that 74 per cent of the undergraduates in 1975 were opposed to busing for racial balance, up from 53 per cent opposed in 1969.

In 1969, 60 per cent of the students questioned believed capital punishment should be abolished; in 1975 the number had dropped to 36 per cent.

But in 1975, 55 per cent of students and 50 per cent of teachers said marijuana use should be legalized, compared with 46 per cent of students and 30 per cent of faculty members in 1969.

In 1969, 21 per cent of the graduate students and 20 per cent of the faculty members questioned agreed with the statement: "The female graduate students in my department are not as dedicated to the field as males."

In 1975, the numbers had dropped to 8 per cent for both graduate students and faculty.

Both the 1969 and 1975 surveys found students professing a high degree of religious belief.

But the figures remained the same in the two surveys for graduate students — 43 per cent left or liberal — and faculty, 41 per cent.

Now Three Carter Nominees Cleared

By DAVE RILEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's nominee to be secretary of state, Cyrus R. Vance, today became the third Cabinet appointee to win a preliminary stamp of approval from a Senate committee.

Carter's selection of Vance to succeed Henry A. Kissinger was approved unanimously by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The endorsement came without debate.

Vance and other Carter nominees are expected to be confirmed by the full Senate shortly after the president-elect's inauguration Jan. 20.

Carter's designated secretary of defense, Harold Brown, was the second Cabinet appointee in the new administration to win committee endorsement.

Brown won unanimous approval Thursday from the Senate Armed Services Committee. Carter's choice for agriculture secretary, Bob Bergland, was approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee on Tuesday.

Labor Secretary-designate Ray Marshall testified Thursday before the Senate Labor Committee and Joseph Califano, Carter's nominee to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was before the Senate finance and labor-education committees.

Only Griffin Bell, Carter's choice for attorney general, continued to face opposition in committee hearings. After three full days of testimony, there was uncertainty about when the Senate Judiciary Committee will vote on whether to recommend his approval by the Senate.

Black leaders Thursday gave the Judiciary Committee contrasting views of Bell's commitment to civil rights.

Warren Cochrane and Lonnie King, both blacks from Atlanta, recommended Bell, an Atlanta lawyer and former U.S. Circuit Court judge. Their testimony followed that of Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, and Clarence Mitchell of the NAACP, who both urged the committee to reject Bell.

Parren Mitchell said Bell was the "mastermind" of Georgia's resistance to court-ordered desegregation orders in the 1950s when he served as an adviser to the state's governor.

King, former president of the Atlanta NAACP chapter, said Bell has "the background, the capacity, and the commitment to be a superb attorney general."

And Cochrane, former secretary of Atlanta's Negro Voters League, said blacks will have "a real friend" as attorney general if Bell's nomination is confirmed.

Differing views of Bell also came from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action and from former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., former chairman of the ADA, said Bell

Local Troubleshooters Locate A Power Break

OREGON INLET — A two-man trouble shooting team from Greenville Utilities Commission was responsible for locating a power break at the Herbert Bonner Bridge here Monday that had left Ocracoke and Hatteras Island residents without electricity for two days.

GUCO Director Charles Horne said today that the assistance of the commission's electric technicians was requested Sunday night in detecting the short circuit in the power cable that serves the Outer Banks customers.

Horne said that GUCO has the only experts in the area for locating underground power faults and quite a bit of sophisticated equipment used in detecting the faults has been acquired here over the last five years.

Malcolm Green, superintendent of GUCO's Electric Department, and Jimmy Smith, a department technician, took their equipment to the trouble site Monday and had the fault pinpointed by mid-afternoon, it was pointed out.

Horne said that the call for assistance came from Booth and Associates of Raleigh, engineering consulting firm to the Hatteras Island Electrical Membership Corp. The cooperative owns the one and one-half inch power cable.

The power blackout that resulted from the break affected 2,650 residents of the Outer Banks and cost the cooperative from $30,000 to $40,000 in revenues, it was reported.

GUCO was not involved in the repair of the short circuit.

A spokesman for Booth indicated that he felt someone fired a rifle into the quarter-inch conduit which encased the power cable. The break occurred on National Park Service property.

Investigation into the possibility of vandalism is continuing.

Horne noted that GUCO has received calls before from area cities for assistance in detecting underground faults.

The bridge conduit presented the same situation as far as detection as an underground system, he added.

"We would hope that others would assist us if we had a problem," Horne observed.

Fate Of Claudine Longet In Hands Of Jurors

Unwilling To Claim One 'Hughes Will' Is Phony

By BILL GARDNER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Howard Hughes attorney says he's unwilling to label as phony a multimillionaire of former gas station manager Melvin Dummar, even though he says Dummar admitted being the mystery man who delivered it. Harold Rhoden, attorney for the will's executor, former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, said Dummar still hasn't told how he obtained the will, but has agreed to testify in a Las Vegas, Nev., court, where it was filed for probate.

"I want to bring him to the witness stand, where he knows that if he lies it will mean time in prison," Rhoden said Thursday. "It's no crime to lie to the press or to your lawyers."

Rhoden told reporters that at a lengthy "grilling session" in Ogden, Utah, on Wednesday, Dummar admitted bringing the will to the Salt Lake City headquarters of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon.)

Claims for the document's authenticity had been generally discounted after reports that the FBI found Dummar's fingerprint on it.

Dummar, at that time, denied the report and suggested the print was planted. But Rhoden said Dummar admitted to him that his fingerprints would probably be all over the will because he had steamed open the envelope to look inside.

Dummar, however, denied writing the will or knowing who did, Rhoden said. The former service station operator was unavailable for comment, but his attorney, George Handy, said:

"Mr. Dummar, out of all the grilling we put him through, and it was very harsh and unkind, denies that he wrote the will, had anything to do with the writing of the will and does not know who wrote the will."

Rhoden said Dummar gave him several conflicting stories as to how he got the will, and he added: "I didn't believe him and told him so. He's not ready to tell the truth about how he got it."

Rhoden said that before declining whether he thinks the will is fraudulent or not, he wants to see the final FBI report on it.

"What if they find fingerprints of Howard Hughes on the will?" he asked, adding that the same four handwriting experts who told him Dummar wrote on the envelope also said Hughes wrote the will.

Dummar ran a service station when the will turned up giving him one-sixteenth of the billionaire's estate. He said he had once given Hughes a ride when he found him wandering along a Nevada desert road at night.

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — It took a week to find 12 citizens of this swinging ski town who didn't already think she was guilty. Now, after four days of testimony, they must decide whether Claudine Longet was reckless or just the victim of an accident when her lover died.

The French-born entertainer's manslaughter trial was to go to the jury today following lawyers' closing arguments and instructions from state District Court Judge George E. Lohr.

Both sides rested Thursday after testimony on why a gun went off in Miss Longet's hands, killing champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, 31, in the bathroom of his $250,000 mountain home last March.

Miss Longet's former husband, singer Andy Williams, greeted her with a kiss during a short court recess. Actor Jack Nicholson, who said he "just wanted to see the trial," sat in on the day's proceedings.

Defense and prosecution spent almost four hours in the judge's chambers debating instructions for the jury in its deliberations.

"This is a case involving some difficult concepts of negligence, recklessness," defense attorney Charles V. Weedman said.

Earlier, the prosecution cross-examined Sabich's best friend in an effort to prove that Miss Longet, 35, "likes to take chances."

James Lillstrom, an advertising executive from Boulder, said the affair between Sabich and Miss Longet began in 1972 after a glass-tossing incident in a bar.

Prosecutor Ashley Anderson had said when the jury was out: "The way Miss Longet got Spider's attention was she threw a glass and hit him in the chest, and he turned and said, 'I guess she wants to talk to me.'"

But Lillstrom indicated Anderson's version was wrong. "We heard Spider's name called out very loudly," he testified. "We both turned to look,

and she (Miss Longet) tossed the glass at him."

"He had plenty of time to get out of the way. I think for dramatic effect he let it hit him."

Also testifying was a firearms expert for the defense. Lama Martin, who works with a private laboratory in Maryland, said the pistol that killed Sabich was fired from a range of two to three feet.

A prosecution ballistics expert has estimated the firing range from four to six feet. The distance is important because Miss Longet says the gun discharged while she was standing close to Sabich as he taught her to handle the semiautomatic pistol.

Both sides agreed the gun's safety mechanism was inoperable.

Martin also told jurors the pistol's internal parts may have been damaged by a gummy layer of oil that could have allowed it to fire without the trigger being pulled. But he admitted under cross-examination that the only way he could get the pistol to fire in testing was to pull the trigger.

Miss Longet could spend up to 10 years in the Colorado state prison and pay a $30,000 fine if she is convicted.

Poor Diet Seen Major Problem

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor diets are one of the leading public health problems, a Senate committee report said today. It recommended a major new federal program to educate Americans on what they should eat.

"The public is confused about what to eat to maximize health," Chairman George McGovern, D-S.D., of the Senate nutrition committee said in the report entitled "Dietary Goals for the United States."

The report said changes in the average diet in the United States since the beginning of the century "may be as profoundly damaging to the nation's health as the widespread contagious diseases of the early part of this century."

"The over-consumption of fat, generally, and saturated fat in particular, as well as cholesterol, sugar, salt and alcohol have been related to six of the ten leading causes of death: heart disease, cancer, cerebrovascular disease, diabetes, arteriosclerosis and cirrhosis of the liver," it said.

Over-consumption in general is a major problem but under-nourishment due to dietary patterns may also lead to malnutrition, the report prepared by the committee staff said.

In its suggestions to consumers, the report recommended increasing consumption of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, poultry and fish. It recommended decreasing consumption of meat, foods high in fat, eggs and other high cholesterol sources, sugar and salt.

It blamed the changes in diet on higher incomes that allowed movement away from diets high in greens, beans and whole grains to meat and other more expensive foods. It also blamed television advertising of "junk foods."

Kemp collects old trucks, tractors, cranes. On his lot here sit nearly 70 snow-covered trucks, most of them Macks, models from 1916 to 1953.

$975,000 Grant For Jamesville

WASHINGTON — North Carolina District Congressman Walter B. Jones today announced final approval and commitment of funds by the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, in the amount of $975,000 to the Town of Jamesville.

These funds will be utilized in the construction of a complete sewage collection system and also a treatment facility to treat wastewater prior to its being discharged into the Roanoke River.

The technical design of this system will involve the construction of approximately 9,525 linear feet of outfall sewers, 21,100 linear feet of collection sewers, two sewage pumping stations, and an extended aeration type waster treatment facility. The project will also include water treatment units to remove rust and hardness from the Town's drinking water.

"I wish to compliment the mayor and members of the town administration, as well as the citizens of Jamesville on their dedicated efforts in providing this new facility to better serve the present and future needs of the community," Jones said.

The town's consulting engineer, Jim Stewart of Jacksonville, is also to be commended for his efforts in assisting the town in planning the project and applying for the grant. Additionally, the construction of this much needed new facility will provide additional employment for citizens of Martin County, where the unemployment rate presently exceeds 11 per cent," Jones added.

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Saturday

TRINITY — Marilyn R. Kearns and David Merrill Sizemore were united in marriage Saturday at 7:00 p.m. in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Joseph L. Griffin.

A program of music for the candlelight ceremony was presented by Ford C. Ewaldsen, organist.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Everett C. Kearns of Rt. 2, Trinity. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sizemore of Greenville, Tenn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of organza which featured an empire bodice overlaid with alencon lace and appliques with seed pearls. The A-line skirt had alencon appliques on the front and around the hemline which ended in a chapel train. The skirt had seed pearls on the lace.

Her chapel veil of illusion had a shoulder length mantilla over the top which was edged in scalloped alencon lace and was attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white cymbidium orchids and white butterfly roses accented with bridal greenery.

Mrs. Bryan Carraway of Maryville, Tenn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a royal blue sleeveless formal length gown of polyester crepe fashioned with a cape edged in fur. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and greenery accented with baby's breath.

MRS. DAVID MERILL SIZEMORE

Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara A. Kearns of Greenville, sister of the bride, Miss Stephanie M. Kearns of Rt. 2, Trinity, sister of the bride, and Miss Lisa K. Sizemore of Greenville, Tenn. They were dressed like the honor attendant and carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies and roses.

Robyn Sizemore of Greenville, Tenn., niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She was dressed in a long light blue organza dress featuring short puff sleeves and double ruffle hemline trimmed in lace, accented with a sash. She carried a basket trimmed with pale blue ribbon and filled with seasonal flowers.

Does Belief In Santa Hurt Children?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there a way my child can enjoy the fun of believing in Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny without being lied to?

It doesn't seem fair to tell a trusting child such lies, and yet I hate to deprive him of the pleasure of fantasizing about these make-believe characters.

My son is still a wee baby, and I hate lying to him, knowing that one day he'll learn the truth and wonder how many others things I lied about.

DEAR DEBBIE: Childhood fantasies are not only fun for children, but also useful aids in developing healthy imaginations and creativity. If you tell your child from the start that Santa, The Easter Bunny (and don't forget the Tooth Fairy) are all make-believe characters, they won't feel deceived when they learn the truth.

The mistake most parents make is to insist that these imaginary characters actually exist after the child has questioned their authenticity.

DEAR ABBY: This may read like a soap opera, but every word is true.

I am 17 and for two years I dated a certain boy. We loved each other very much and even planned to marry some day.

Last spring we had a terrible fight when I discovered he had dated someone behind my back. We said some awful things to each other, and I told him I never wanted to see him again.

Three days later he signed up for the Air Force and started dating another girl. Before leaving for the service they announced their wedding plans. He left without even saying goodbye.

Six months later he wrote me, saying that regardless of his plans, he could not forget me or what we meant to each other. (Lord knows, I've never forgotten him!)

I'm heartbroken about his engagement and want so much to write back and tell him so. My friends insist that his is marrying the girl on the rebound. Even his family was stunned by his announcement.

Abby, what should I do? Should I keep quiet and preserve my pride? Or should I speak the truth, even though it may be worth nothing?

TORN

DEAR TORN: Common courtesy demands that you answer the letter. I see no harm in writing truthfully about the depth of your feelings for this "certain boy." But the next move must be his.

DEAR ABBY: Our parents have been asking us what we want for our birthdays. (We're twins.) O.K., you tell them for us, Abby. Other kids might like the same "present."

Dear Mom and Dad: We would like you both to quit smoking, for your sake and ours. Here are our reasons.

First, there's a good chance you'll get cancer, and we love you too much for that. Second, the smoke bothers us, especially when you sit by us watching TV or at the dinner table. Third, nothing in our home smells clean and fresh. The stale scent of smoke is everywhere. Fourth, smoking gives you bad breath, and we find ourselves holding our breaths when we kiss you hello and goodbye.

We hope you understand that we love you and are not asking this just for ourselves.

Fate Of Claudine Longet In Hands Of Jurors

Unwilling To Claim One 'Hughes Will' Is Phony

By BILL GARDNER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Howard Hughes attorney says he's unwilling to label as phony a Hughes will that would make a multimillionaire of former gas station manager Melvin Dummar, even though he says Dummar admitted being the mystery man who delivered it.

Harold Rhoden, attorney for the will's executor, former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, said Dummar still hasn't told how he obtained the will, but has agreed to testify in a Las Vegas, Nev., court, where it was filed for probate.

"I want to bring him to the witness stand, where he knows that if he lies it will mean time in prison," Rhoden said Thursday. "It's no crime to lie to the press or to your lawyers."

Rhoden told reporters that at a lengthy "grilling session" in Ogden, Utah, on Wednesday, Dummar admitted bringing the will to the Salt Lake City headquarters of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon.)

Claims for the document's authenticity had been generally discounted—after reports that the FBI found Dummar's fingerprint on it.

Dummar, at that time, denied the report and suggested the print was planted. But Rhoden said Dummar admitted to him that his fingerprints would probably be all over the will because he had steamed open the envelope to look inside.

Dummar, however, denied writing the will or knowing who did, Rhoden said. The former service station operator was unavailable for comment, but his attorney, George Handy, said:

"Mr. Dummar, out of all the grilling we put him through, and it was very harsh and unkind, denies that he wrote the will, had anything to do with the writing of the will and does not know who wrote the will."

Rhoden said Dummar gave him several conflicting stories as to how he got the will, and he added: "I didn't believe him and told him so. He's not ready to tell the truth about how he got it."

Rhoden said that before declining whether he thinks the will is fraudulent or not, he wants to see the final FBI report on it.

"What if they find fingerprints of Howard Hughes on the will?" he asked, adding that the same four handwriting experts who told him Dummar wrote on the envelope also said Hughes wrote the will.

Dummar ran a service station when the will turned up giving him one-sixteenth of the billionaire's estate. He said he had once given Hughes a ride when he found him wandering along a Nevada desert road at night.

By BILL PARDUE
Associated Press Writer
ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — It took a week to find 12 citizens of this swinging ski town who didn't already think she was guilty. Now, after four days of testimony, they must decide whether Claudine Longet was reckless or just the victim of an accident when her lover died.

The French-born entertainer's manslaughter trial was to go to the jury today following lawyers' closing arguments and instructions from state District Court Judge George E. Lohr.

Both sides rested Thursday after testimony on why a gun went off in Miss Longet's hands, killing champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, 31, in the bathroom of his $250,000 mountain home last March.

Miss Longet's former husband, singer Andy Williams, greeted her with a kiss during a short court recess. Actor Jack Nicholson, who said he "just wanted to see the trial," sat in on the day's proceedings. Defense and prosecution spent almost four hours in the judge's chambers debating instructions for the jury in its deliberations.

"This is a case involving some difficult concepts of negligence, recklessness," defense attorney Charles V. Weedman said.

Earlier, the prosecution cross-examined Sabich's best friend in an effort to prove that Miss Longet, 35, "likes to take chances."

James Lillstrom, an advertising executive from Boulder, said the affair between Sabich and Miss Longet began in 1972 after a glass-tossing incident in a bar.

Prosecutor Ashley Anderson had said when the jury was out: "The way Miss Longet got Spider's attention was she threw a glass and hit him in the chest, and he turned and said, 'I guess she wants to talk to me.'"

But Lillstrom indicated Anderson's version was wrong. "We heard Spider's name called out very loudly," he testified. "We both turned to look,

and she (Miss Longet) tossed the glass at him.

"He had plenty of time to get out of the way. I think for dramatic effect he let it hit him."

Also testifying was a fire-arms expert for the defense, Lama Martin, who works with a private laboratory in Maryland, said the pistol that killed Sabich was fired from a range of two to three feet.

A prosecution ballistics expert has estimated the firing range from four to six feet. The distance is important because Miss Longet says the gun discharged while she was standing close to Sabich as he taught her to handle the semiautomatic pistol.

Both sides agreed the gun's safety mechanism was inoperable. Martin also told jurors the pistol's internal parts may have been damaged by a gummy layer of oil that could have allowed it to fire without the trigger being pulled. But he admitted under cross-examination that the only way he could get the pistol to fire in testing was to pull the trigger.

Miss Longet could spend up to 10 years in the Colorado state prison and pay a $30,000 fine if she is convicted.

Poor Diet Seen Major Problem

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor diets are one of the leading public health problems, a Senate committee report said today. It recommended a major new federal program to educate Americans on what they should eat.

"The public is confused about what to eat to maximize health," Chairman George McGovern, D-S.D., of the Senate nutrition committee said in the report entitled "Dietary Goals for the United States."

The report said changes in the average diet in the United States since the beginning of the century "may be as profoundly damaging to the nation's health as the widespread contagious diseases of the early part of this century."

"The over-consumption of fat, generally, and saturated fat in particular, as well as cholesterol, sugar, salt and alcohol have been related to six of the ten leading causes of death: heart disease, cancer, cerebrovascular disease, diabetes, arteriosclerosis and cirrhosis of the liver," it said.

Over-consumption in general is a major problem but under-nourishment due to dietary patterns may also lead to malnutrition, the report prepared by the committee staff said.

In its suggestions to consumers, the report recommended increasing consumption of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, poultry and fish. It recommended decreasing consumption of meat, foods high in fat, eggs and other high cholesterol sources, sugar and salt.

It blamed the changes in diet on higher incomes that allowed movement away from diets high in greens, beans and whole grains to meat and other more expensive foods. It also blamed television advertising of "junk foods."

Kemp collects old trucks, tractors, cranes. On his lot here sit nearly 70 snow-covered trucks, most of them Macks, models from 1916 to 1953.

$975,000 Grant For Jamesville

WASHINGTON — North Carolina District Congressman Walter B. Jones today announced final approval and commitment of funds by the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, in the amount of $975,000 to the Town of Jamesville.

These funds will be utilized in the construction of a complete sewage collection system and also a treatment facility to treat wastewater prior to its being discharged into the Roanoke River.

The technical design of this system will involve the construction of approximately 9,525 linear feet of outfall sewers, 21,100 linear feet of collection sewers, two sewage pumping stations, and an extended aeration type wastewater treatment facility. The project will also include water treatment units to remove rust and hardness from the Town's drinking water.

"I wish to compliment the mayor and members of the town administration, as well as the citizens of Jamesville on their dedicated efforts in providing this new facility to better serve the present and future needs of the community," Jones said. "The town's consulting engineer, Jim Stewart of Jacksonville, is also to be commended for his efforts in assisting the town in planning the project and applying for the grant. Additionally, the construction of this much needed new facility will provide additional employment for citizens of Martin County, where the unemployment rate presently exceeds 11 per cent," Jones added.

Area Medical Growth Booming

It is not always easy to recognize just how important developments in the medical field are going to be for Pitt County in the future.

Both ECU Dean Robert L. Holt and Medical School Dean William E. Laupus saw accreditation of the medical school occurring in 1977.

And with that will come the opening of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital.

"We will experience a change few hospitals ever experience," M. E. Gilstrap, associate director of the hospital said.

"There are not many places in the United States that can match Greenville for growth in the medical area."

That is obvious enough. The new hospital and accompanying rehabilitation center were designed to be the most modern of facilities. Since then the Eastern Area Health Education Center construction has gotten underway and additions have been made for the medical school. There is much more construction ahead.

Not only will some of the nation's best medical care be available, but the economic impact from all the people who work in the medical complex, and of people visiting here will be tremendous.

Quick To Free A Suspected Terrorist

France was quick to release the suspected mastermind of the 1972 Munich Olympics massacre of Israeli athletes, despite the fact that he was wanted by West German and Israeli authorities.

Abu Daoud was left free to leave Paris after a French court rejected Israeli and West German extradition demands.

The massacre was a horror comparable to Hitler's gas chambers. It is regrettable that the French would not cooperate to the point where a prime suspect was brought to trial for this outrage against mankind.

THIS AFTERNOON

A Dept. Of Protection?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A North Carolina Department of Protection pulling together under once crime-fighting boss the various elements of public protection and safety appears a "logical course" to Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr.

By whatever name it might be called, the agency being mulled by the governor and his key staff would bring together under one agency head the various units now involved in crime-fighting, public safety, and highway safety.

A handful of agencies would be affected: the State Highway Patrol in the Department of Transportation; State Bureau of Investigation in the Justice Department; the Auto and Theft Division of the Motor Vehicles operation; Alcoholic Beverage Control officers who operate under the Department of Commerce; the National Guard which answers to the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs; the game-law enforcement operation of the Wildlife Commission which operates rather independently within the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Fight Likely
Needless to say, any proposal to bring unified control of those activities would produce much wailing from affected state departments and the constituents of services.

Impetus for such a change comes from the study commission report on morale in the State Highway Patrol handed Gov. Hunt this week which indicated leadership problems as a critical factor in overall decline of the patrol.

Logically, says Hunt, there should be central direction of public safety and anti-crime efforts under an agency concerned primarily with those factors.

Additionally, the governor is pushing a community crimewatch effort for North Carolina without any central place for coordination and direction. He said in position papers during his campaign—statements which upon examination signal many of his current plans—that, "Because elements of the criminal justice system are fragmented among the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial branches of state government, central direction and priorities for improvements... must come from the governor's leadership over the system as a whole..."

Besides eliminating the competition now evident among the various law enforcement activities, a central agency would provide top people who would be aware of programs and needs covering the scope of public safety. Whereas now, on a given operation, agents from different units might be operating independently without communicating with one another, a central agency would provide a man in charge to call the shots.

Funds Fight
Another area of conflict—the bitter fighting for federal funding which has been seen in the Governor's Law and Order Commission which funnels the Law Enforcement Assistance Act money to local and state units—could be brought under control.

Hunt is giving consideration to bringing about the new agency without need for creating a separate state department.

The Department of Military and Veterans Affairs has a minor role in state government at this time, and was earmarked for destruction by an efficiency study commission under former Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr. The major division of that agency—the Energy Division—is being transferred to the Department of Commerce as a logical part of the economic growth scene.

But with command of the National Guard within its jurisdiction the military agency appears a probable place to lodge the public protection activities.

Thus could emerge a Protection Department with one man in charge answering directly to the governor. Under his command would fall various divisions—highway safety, community assistance and training, and the State Bureau of Investigation. Each division would have its own boss, but the likelihood is that some of the smaller agencies such as auto theft or alcoholic control would be merged into a larger unit.

That Coffee Shortage

WASHINGTON — The first inkling that the price of coffee had gotten out of hand was in early 1977 when the IRS announced you could deduct the price of the first cup of coffee, when discussing business, but you could not deduct the second cup. Also, you could no longer buy your wife a cup of coffee unless you could prove it was necessary for her to be there when the business conversation was held.

In a few months coffee had become a luxury item and was only served in the finest restaurants. At $20 a cup, some eating places offered to give you a free meal if you bought a cup of coffee to go with it (cream and sugar was extra).

But soon the idea of serving coffee after a meal was reserved for special occasions such as weddings, anniversaries, Bar Mitzvahs and New Year's Eve. It wasn't enough to just serve the coffee. People began to toast each other with their cups, and waiters showed the can the coffee came from, before they poured it from a pot wrapped in a white napkin.

The coffeemakers started to put vintage years on the cans and connoisseurs emerged who could comment on the quality of each brand. They would say such things as "It's an unassuming little Maxwell House, but I think you'll be amused by its presumption" or "This 'Chock Full o' Nuts' has a nobility to it that you rarely find in any of the domestic brands. I would put it up against a 1975 Chase & Sanborn anytime."

The hostess or host would say rather proudly, "My grocer recommended this 'Instant Brand' over Nescafe. But it has to be drunk young when it's at its peak."

People started keeping "Coffee Cellars" which they showed off to their friends. There, gathering dust, lying on their sides, could be found Medaglo 1974, Wilkins 1976, Safeway All-Purpose Grind 1970 and A&P's Perculator Ground which came from beans picked from a special plantation outside of Rio de Janeiro.

It became such a luxury that voters accused their congressmen and senators of only being interested in "coffee, women and song."

Lockheed lobbyists gave away cases of coffee instead of money, and Arab middlemen insisted on being paid off in Italian espresso instead of Swiss francs.

Dictators and generals opened secret numbered coffee accounts in Geneva and Zurich, where multinationals deposited bags of coffee beans in vaults. The Soviet Union, sold gold to buy coffee.

The Shah of Iran canceled his order for F-16 jets from the United States and ordered six shipments of Yuban instead.

Brazil took the F-16s to defend its coffee plantations from Ecuador.

But the worst thing that happened is that employees all over the country could no longer have a "coffee" break. Instead they were given "wine breaks," which were much cheaper but caused a tremendous amount of accidents and mistakes in productivity.

Things became so desperate that President Carter asked James Schlesinger to drop his energy projects, and find a way of making coffee out of coal.

Just as World War III looked as if it would erupt over the coffee shortage, Brazil, Colombia, Kenya and Angola had bumper coffee crops, and

Cold Is Hiking Prices

The harshest winter in its icy grip, forcing up the price of heating bills, shutting down factories and schools and slowing navigation on major waterways.

The frigid cold is even driving up the cost of oysters. And the National Weather Service predicts no big thaws for at least 30 days.

Robert Dickson, deputy chief of the weather service's long-range prediction section, said a drastic shift in normal wind patterns is bringing weather from the Arctic Circle as far south as Texas.

About two-thirds of the nation is feeling the chill in what the weather service said was the harshest winter in at least five years.

The demand for more heating fuels, such as natural gas, is threatening reserves, officials say.

In Binghamton, N.Y., one supplier, the Columbia Natural Gas Co., cut off service to industries with back-up capability. Other industries without such dual capacity have been cut back to 60 per cent of the normal supply.

Elsewhere, fuel supplies have been increased by as much as 50 per cent and more to heat homes and businesses.

Some factories in South Carolina and New Jersey have been idled because of a natural gas shortage.

On Thursday, government officials and businessmen from the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and other states asked the Federal Power Commission for authority to buy natural gas from Texas that is not subject to federal price controls.

40 Years Ago Today

January 14, 1937

Italy and Germany renewed their handclasp today. France, agreeing to meet the Nazi reich halfway in solution of their economic and political problems, took steps also to do her part in stopping foreign hands in Spain.

Col. General Wilhelm Goering, who functions as the German prime minister, talked in Rome with Benito Mussolini and King Emmanuel.

They told him Italy's friendship for and collaboration with Germany had not cooled because of the Italian agreement with Great Britain on the Mediterranean status quo.

Italy reportedly was taking action to shut off volunteer enlistment in Spain, seeking a general workable international neutrality plan.

Company and union representatives were called into a conference with Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan today in an effort to end the automobile strikes against the General Motors Corp., biggest of the labor disputes which held about 200,000 employees idle nationwide.

Gov. Murphy's conference call proposed discussion of "an immediate and peaceful termination of the General Motors strike," which alone involved about 114,000 workers.

The GALLUP POLL

Betty Is 'Most Admired'

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — Mrs. Betty Ford is the woman most admired by the American people, winning the greatest number of votes from a list of 86 women in a recent Gallup Poll.

One survey respondent who picked the President's wife had this to say: "Mrs. Ford has carried herself with pride and dignity throughout a very unique time in her husband's career."

Another commented: "She has a neat attitude about her kids and their activities — and was not influenced by fear of a bad press when she talked about them. You have to admire a person with this candor. She's a total person."

The magic of the Kennedy name is still apparent in these annual audits of most admired women in the world. Mrs. Rose Kennedy wins the second greatest number of votes and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis is No. 10.

Commenting on her choice of Rose Kennedy as the woman she most admires, one youthful survey respondent said: "She's a remarkable woman, who has raised a remarkable family and has had to withstand tragedies in her life which would have broken most people."

Third on the list is Shirley Temple Black. One admirer commented: "Despite her fame as an actress, she has managed to stay out of the usual scandal and controversy that so often surrounds an actress. From child star to Ambassador to Ghana to Chief of Protocol — quite a jump!"

"Barbara Jordan is in fourth place. 'You can't help but admire her for her genuine guts and what she stands for in the political world,' was the comment of one admirer. Another said: "She has conquered two big strikes against her — being black and being a woman. She's an example of the true meaning of American democracy."

Rounding out the first five is former prime minister of Israel, Golda Meir. One respondent described her as "a tough and intelligent woman who led her nation during difficult and dangerous times."

This question was asked of the total sample in a recent nationwide survey:

"Here is a list of prominent women. (Respondents were handed a card with 86 names drawn from previous Gallup surveys.) Would you tell me which three of these women you admire the most?"

Here are the results showing the top 20 names selected: MOST ADMIRE WOMAN — 1976 — Top Ten —

1. Betty Ford
2. Rose Kennedy
3. Shirley Temple Black
4. Barbara Jordan
5. Golda Meir
6. Lucille Ball
7. Mamie Eisenhower
8. Barbara Walters
9. Joyce Brothers
10. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis
- Second Ten —
11. Coretta King
12. Pat Nixon
13. Kate Smith
14. Rosalynn Carter

15. Shirley Chisholm
16. Lady Bird Johnson
17. Margaret Mead
18. Bella Abzug
19. Carol Burnett
20. Queen Elizabeth II

DIFFERENCES BY GROUPS

Analysis of the Results by major population groups yields some interesting results. For example, when just the views of women are considered, Rose Kennedy is the most admired female followed by Betty Ford and Shirley Temple Black.

Non-whites overwhelmingly name Coretta King as the woman they admire most. Mrs. King, Barbara Jordan, Jackie Onassis, and Rose Kennedy are the only women who are mentioned by more than one non-white in 10.

Differences by age also exist. People under 30 years of age name Mrs. Ford, Barbara Walters, and Rose Kennedy most often whereas those over 50 years old say they admire Mrs. Black and Mrs. Kennedy most.

Similarly, there are interesting differences by educational background. Those with a college background put Barbara Jordan and Golda Meir at the top of their list, while people with less than a college education indicate their top choices are Rose Kennedy, Mrs. Ford

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I'd like to share some thoughts from Charles L. Black Jr.'s recent book, Capital Punishment: The Inevitability of Humans and Mistake. It concerns the series of decisions that caprice make concerning who shall live and who shall die.

The following paragraph is quoted from this book: "First, there is the decision of the prosecutor. He must decide whether to charge an offense carrying the penalty of death or a lesser offense. If he decides to charge the capital offense, he most commonly must decide whether to accept a plea of guilty to a lesser (and, therefore, noncapital) offense, thus permitting the defendant at this early stage to escape the possibility of execution at the price of going to prison without trial."

If the plea bargain is not accepted—then the prisoner goes on trial before a jury. The responsibility of decisions then is in the power of 12 human beings. They must decide whether the defendant planned the killing, or whether it was done in passion, whether there were elements of self defense, or whether there was temporary insanity.

Juries sometimes come in with a verdict of "guilty" of some lesser offense than the evidence shows because of feelings of doubt and a concern for extenuating circumstances. Another jury with similar evidence may bring in a verdict of guilty for first degree murder.

After conviction, sentencing and appeal, there is yet the possibility of executive clemency.

Among the many who commit capital crimes, our society has always chosen only a few scapegoats to suffer the extreme and final penalty. And the manner of choosing is capricious, for there is no way for us who are human to decide with justice what men shall live, what men shall die.

Sweepstakes Are No Accident

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer

Twice as the month after Christmas and all through the nation, many bills were piling up, as was aggravation. So through the mails were sent many sweepstake giveaways, to people in need of cash soon after the holidays.

It's no accident that for the past several days, millions of Americans have received invitations to win as much as $125,000, merely licking an envelope, maling it in — and reading an advertising message.

At least four major companies chose the month after Christmas to make their pitches and sent out more than 80 million pieces of mail.

"Through these mailings over the years, the best mailing period by far, as far as response is concerned, is right after Christmas," said

Maren DeGraff, direct mail manager for Downes Publishing Co., which publishes Ladies Home Journal and American Home magazines.

"My personal opinion is that people have blown so much money, they say, 'Well, it's only a few more dollars (for a subscription).' Also, after Christmas, people need money."

"We've also found the response to any type of mailing is always better in January," said Jim Lyles, a spokesman for the Exxon Travel Club in Houston. "I know I've received four sweepstakes mailings in the past few days myself."

Reader's Digest is offering a $450,000 giveaway, backed by a national advertising campaign that one source estimated cost as much as the prizes. More than 84,000 people will share the $450,000. Prizes range from a top of $50,000 to $5 each to 21,000 respondents.

Publishers Clearing House, a Port Washington, N.Y., firm that sells cut-rate subscriptions to magazines, is offering $125,000 cash in a $400,000 giveaway that will include 60,000 winners.

The top prize in the Exxon Travel Club's $100,000 sweepstakes is a vacation home, car and other prizes, or $50,000 in cash. About 1,160 people will share the prizes. The Ladies' Home Journal and American Home are dividing $200,000 among 3,700 winners. Top prize is a new home or $77,000.

The giveaways work in basically the same way. A computer selects winning numbers before the numbered applications are even in the mail. The recipient returns a form, and the firm hopes it includes an order for the magazine or product. When the contest ends, entrants who held winning numbers are notified.

If a winning number is thrown away — and thousands are — rather than the prize money being returned to the company, it is given away through a drawing of previously losing entries. The companies say all prizes are awarded and all entrants stand an equal chance to win, whether or not they ordered the product.

Officials of the Federal Trade Commission support those claims.

"We haven't had a wealth of complaints on this type of thing," said Noble Jones, a Cleveland-based attorney for the FTC. "It's my feeling that there are very few abuses in these sweepstakes."

Strength For Today

"ALL WHO JOY WOULD WIN MUST SHARE IT; HAPPINESS WAS BORN A TWIN."

We can no more imagine a happy person locking himself or herself in an ivory tower and devouring happiness all alone than we can imagine a trumpeter locking his trumpet in a closet and refusing ever to take it out and blast forth notes of triumph and exaltation.

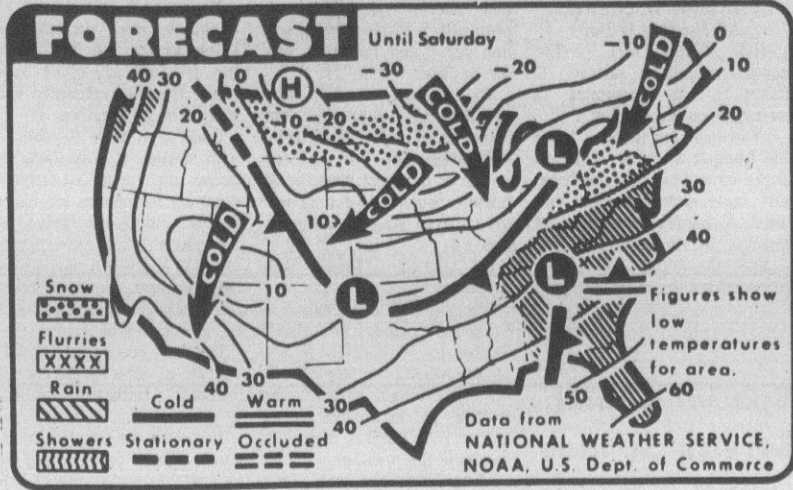

The only way to enjoy happiness is to share it. The only way to keep anything for ourselves is by giving it away to others.

When Christ fed the five thousand, the miracle appears to have occurred as he broke the bread and made it ready for distribution. This was not only a miracle; it was also a parable. Life is made to be shared, not hoarded.

How's The Weather?

Daoud Release A Point Of Law

WEATHER FORECAST — Cold weather is due today for most of the nation. Fair weather is expected for the West. Snow is forecast from the northern Plains to the Northeast and rain is scheduled for the Southeast and middle Atlantic region. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Freezing rain spread across North Carolina this morning, giving municipal police a busy time with fender-bending accidents over a wide area of the western part of the state.
A travelers advisory was issued early today for the mountains and foothills and all of the Piedmont, where freezing rain glazed roads, surprising many a motorist heading to work before dawn.
Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Greensboro reported driving conditions treacherous and police were busy answering accident calls. Schools over a wide area either remained closed or delayed opening for today's classes.
The National Weather Service said sleet and freezing rain began over the southwest mountains before dawn and spread eastward, creating the slippery street and road conditions.
The weather service said temperatures would be rising above freezing during the day, making for improved conditions.

Schools in mountain and foothill areas generally remained closed while in Charlotte and Greensboro, city schools were to open an hour later than usual. At the last minute, Greensboro city schools also decided to close for the day.
Asheville appeared to have largely missed the freezing rain but southward toward the South Carolina line road conditions were described as hazardous.
Reports said Interstate 26 south of Hendersonville was blocked for a time by a jackknifed truck. Traffic later was reported moving slowly and cautiously.
As the storm system moved eastward warming temperatures were to change it to rain. The rain is expected to be ending in the mountains and west tonight, while continuing into Saturday along the coast.
Low temperatures around the state this morning were considerably warmer than Thursday, ranging generally only a few degrees below freezing.

For a change, the eastern part of the state was colder than the west. Low readings included Elizabeth City's 20, Rocky Mount 22, Raleigh 25, Goldsboro 27, Greensboro 28, and Charlotte and Asheville 29.

Telecommunicator Speaks To Council

Perry discussed his 35 years with the patrol and noted the dramatic changes which have taken place over the years in terms of the number, professional requirements and increased involvement of telecommunicators in Highway Patrol activities.

By HARVEY HUDSON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Prime Minister Raymond Barre says the widely condemned release of Palestinian guerrilla leader Abu Daoud was a matter of law, not politics, and did not violate France's extradition agreements with Israel and West Germany.
Barre in an interview with Agence France Press, the French news agency, asserted that France "applied the domestic law and the international conventions which bind it" when the alleged commander of the attack on the Israeli team at the Munich Olympics was rushed out of the country on Tuesday.
He said Israel's extradition request could not be honored because French law at the time of the Munich killings in 1972 did not permit extradition of citizens of a third nation for crimes committed outside the two nations.
West Germany's extradition request could not be honored because the Germans had been too slow in following required diplomatic procedures, he claimed.
In Bonn, however, the West German Justice Ministry said the warrant for Daoud was sent to Paris last Saturday, one day after he was arrested, and the French-German extradition agreement gave Bonn 20 days to confirm the warrant through diplomatic channels.

The West German warrant accused Daoud of aiding the terrorist attack on the Israeli team at the Olympics, helping to seize 11 hostages and aiding in their murders and the death of a German policeman.
"The release of Mr. Daoud did not result from a political decision, but from a judicial decision," Barre said. He said the government had no power to review cases where a court refused extradition rights.
"The government has never sought in the past and never will seek to protect its political and economic interests by acts which would be contrary to the laws of the republic or international conventions," the premier asserted.

Barre said the release of Daoud also had nothing to do with French political interests, including the negotiations now underway for France to help Egypt build a plant to manufacture Mirage fighter-bombers.
He said the Palestinian was arrested because he was in France on an Iraqi passport bearing a false name. Barre added that he approved the arrest and said his government protested to the Palestine Liberation Organization because Daoud came to France as a member of an official PLO funeral delegation.

Daoud, now in Algiers, told the Toronto Star in a telephone interview that he expects the Israelis to try to kill him. He said he is ready "to die for my cause."
Daoud said his only part in the Munich attack was to help provide credentials for those who made the attack.

The group, including Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., contended that without new supplies schools will be shut, tens of thousands of workers will be jobless and public health will be endangered.

The cold snap is causing the heaviest ice buildup in years on the Great Lakes, the Coast Guard said. And in Chesapeake Bay, seven vessels, including two barges carrying a total of nearly 1.4 million gallons of oil, were trapped in Tangier Bay near the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Coast Guard officials feared that chunks of ice, blown by gusts of wind, might puncture the barges' hulls; but no leaks were immediately reported.

Two tugboats that were towing the oil barges also were stuck in the ice.
In the Great Lakes, Lake Erie was almost completely frozen; Lake Michigan was in danger of freezing over for only the fourth time this century and a western portion of Lake Superior was covered with ice as well.

The Coast Guard halted traffic along 20 miles of the Mississippi River near Cape Girardeau, Mo., when a collapsing ice dam separated 11 barges from a towboat.
Barge traffic was also slowed on the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers.

The ice on the Chesapeake Bay has cut drastically into the catch of oysters, snapper, rockfish and lobsters, forcing up prices. Oysters, for example, are up to $10 a bushel, a 10 per cent increase over last year.

Memorial Gifts

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Keith, Russell and Roy Anderson decided a year ago that they wanted to do something in memory of their late father.
So the three Milwaukee brothers began dropping in at hospitals, nursing homes and other institutions to deliver a tape recorder, cassette tapes of popular stories and earphones.
Keith, who makes most of the deliveries around the country, said about 40 electronic gifts have been given so far to institutions picked at random. He estimated their value at around $8,000.
"We don't like to give money," he said. "You just don't know where it is going to go and sometimes it is just not used right."
The brothers, partners in three Milwaukee appliance dealerships, believe their gifts provide recreational opportunities for patients who sometimes have no other resources.

'I Found It' Campaign Spreads Rapidly

COLD WEATHER FOR SUNNY FLORIDA — A blast of arctic air blew into Florida this week, sending temperatures down to record lows around the Sunshine State. Ice was formed on this orange tree; however most citrus and vegetable crops escaped damage. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — The catchy, enigmatic phrase, "I found it," is blossoming in cities across the country. "You can find it too!" tease the bumper stickers, billboard signs, newspaper ads, television and radio spots and lapel buttons. A telephone number is supplied for finding out how. After the initial, veiled publicity blitzes to arouse curiosity and interest, the "it" subsequently is disclosed with similar verve and fanfare: "New life in Jesus Christ." That is the transaction being promised in a spreading number of cities, 165 of them so far with others soon to be included, in one of the most broad-scale, highly promoted evangelistic drives ever staged in the nation. It's called, "Here's Life America!"

No over-all cost figures are available, since expenses are raised locally, but the total for the eventual 225 cities would range from an estimated $22.5 million to $33.7 million. Each city drive is launched with a week of promotional inducements, with participants manning telephones for follow-up with inquirers. There are subsequent home visits, presentation of literature, door-to-door neighborhood canvases, and a five-week Bible study course for new converts. They're encouraged to join a church of their preference to nurture continued spiritual growth. The drive began with a test run in Atlanta in 1975, in 19 other cities in the spring of 1976, with the main expansion coming in the last two months to 165 cities, with more booked in the six months ahead. In the last four weeks, spokesmen say there have been more than 2 million inquiries at 217 telephone centers, 6.5 million personal contacts on visits, with 536,824 expressing decisions for Christ, and 60,473 enrolled in Bible studies. Pittenger says a special benefit of the drives is greater unity among participating churches of various denominations, and a new awareness that members — as well as clergy — have a duty in spreading the word of God's saving love for all who accept it.

By-Products In Energy Studies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Government spending for research and development has led not only to guided missiles and men on the moon but also to such down-to-earth products as computers, radar systems and antibiotic drugs, according to Edson W. Spencer, president of Honeywell. Research in solar energy, he added, is the fastest growing part of this year's $23 billion research and development budget.

Suspect Former CIA Agent Disclosed Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say the Central Intelligence Agency believes that Philip Agee, one of the agency's former agents, disclosed to the Russians the existence of a large NATO spy ring operating under British control in Poland, Newsday reported today. The ring included some of the most prominent figures in Poland and was broken up in June 1975 by Soviet KGB (secret police) agents and Polish counter-intelligence, Newsday said. British intelligence helped some members of the ring get out of Poland before it was smashed, the newspaper said, while other members were arrested and charged with spying. Agee said Thursday in London that he knew nothing about the spy ring case, Newsday reported. An open critic of the CIA, Agee now lives and works in London. He has been ordered deported by the British government and is appealing the order. He has charged that U.S. pressure is behind the expulsion order, but the British government has denied any U.S. influence in the case. The British have refused to elaborate on their allegations of last November that the 41-year-old Agee has made harmful contacts with foreign intelligence officers and has been involved in disseminating information harmful to British security. However, the sources said, according to Newsday, that the deportation order was issued after the CIA told British intelligence it believed Agee had a hand in exposing the spy ring that was mainly under British control. Some sources, the newspaper said, doubt the CIA's story that Agee could have exposed the ring. They point out that four years had elapsed between Agee's alleged revelation to the KGB and the arrests of the ring members, Newsday said.

Unaware Of Alleged Plot

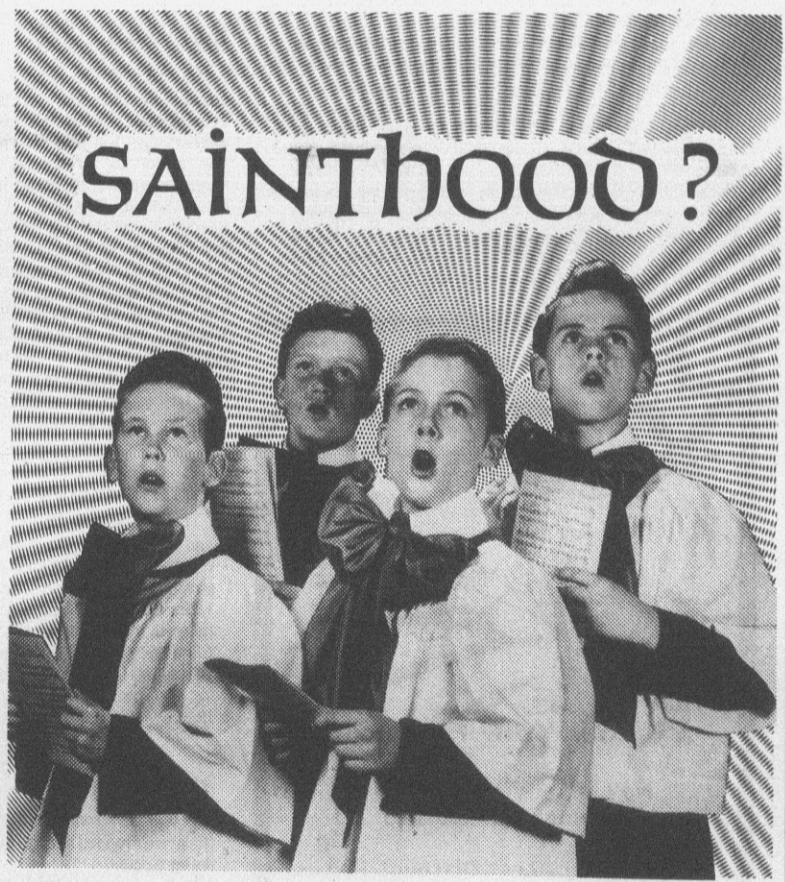

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today it had no knowledge of an alleged threat by Israeli radical groups to assassinate Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Department spokesman Robert Funseth said "we have never been informed of any threats involving Israeli political parties, or any group within an Israeli political party, including specifically the Likud." In Israel, a spokesman for the Likud, a rightwing opposition party, branded as "disgusting nonsense" a newspaper report of the threat. The New York Daily News, in a copyright story today from Washington, reported that radical Israeli groups had paid "one or more foreign hit men" $150,000 to murder Kissinger. The report, citing anonymous State Department officials, said the assassination plot was put together by a splinter group within the Likud party. Funseth's statement was a break with department policy, which normally holds that no public statements will be made either to confirm or deny reported threats against Kissinger. Government officials in the past have acknowledged receiving threats against Kissinger, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, but they always declined to discuss the threats.

"gave aid and comfort to the segregationists of this country," Jaworski called him "thoroughly qualified" to head the Justice Department and lauded him as a man who would not knuckle under to pressure. For the Pentagon post, Brown, a nuclear weapons expert and former secretary of the Air Force, won unanimous approval from the Armed Services Committee. Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the panel, said of Brown: "There are no particular minuses that we could find... he's capable of doing a good job." The committee also gave unanimous approval to Charles W. Duncan Jr., a Houston, Tex., millionaire, as deputy defense secretary.

Budget Outlook...

Use of the near $4 billion breaks down into 31 per cent for public schools, 17 per cent for other education, 22 per cent of human resources, 15 per cent for transportation and 15 per cent for all others. The general fund amounts to more than $2 billion, he said. Some 49 per cent of it comes from the income tax, 29 per cent is from the sales tax and the rest is from taxes such as franchise, beverage and others. Spending for education takes 68 per cent of the general fund with public schools accounting for 45 per cent, while human resources amounts to 17 per cent. Corrections amounts to 4 per cent of that total. Not counting federal funds, the highway fund totals more than $400 million a year, he said. Sixty-three per cent comes from gasoline taxes and 15 per cent from licenses. Construction takes 28 per cent of the money, maintenance takes 30 per cent and administrative and other such costs take 24 per cent, he said. North Carolina is unusual, Allen said, because the state handles many functions that are local responsibilities in most other states. For example, state grants account for most of the public school funds and all of the judicial system money comes from the state. Also, he said, construction and maintenance of county roads are state responsibilities.

SAINTHOOD?

So, you sang in the choir when you were a kid. And sometimes you snatched cigarettes back of the church while the grownups were having their social hour inside. Sometimes you pretended to have a sore throat, so you could be "excused." You looked like an angel, but were you one?

No way!
But no one held it against you. The door to the Church stood wide open then, and it still does. Why not take a walk inside some Sunday? See what it's like today! The years in between won't seem to matter.

Bill Allowing 2-Term Governorship Is Introduced

By NOEL YANCEY
By The Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — Saying he thought it would "make governors more responsive to the people," Rep. Robert Jones, D-

Rutherford, has sponsored legislation that would permit governors to serve two successive terms.
Commenting on the present constitutional provision which forbids governors from succeeding themselves, Jones said that it "makes a governor a lame duck five minutes after he takes office."

Since it would amend the state constitution, Jones' measure would have to be approved by three-fifths of both House and Senate and be submitted to the people in the 1978 general election before becoming effective.

Although the change has the backing of Gov. Jim Hunt, Jones said his bill was not an administration measure.
If passed by the legislature and approved by the people, the measure would permit Hunt to seek reelection. Jones said, however, that if this provision endangered his bill he would gladly accept an amendment to keep it from applying to the incumbent governor.

DEATH PENALTY
House speaker Carl Stewart referred a bill to impose the death penalty for first degree murder and first degree rape to the House Judiciary II Committee. The bill calls for the holding of a second hearing after a jury has found a defendant guilty of murder or rape to determine if the punishment shall be death or life imprisonment. A similar measure was introduced in the Senate.

for this year. However, David Crofts of the legislature's Fiscal Research Division said it was too early to predict how the state's economy will be next fiscal year. Crofts spoke as the House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Ways and Means Committee met for the first time.

COMMITTEES
The appointment of 11 more committee was announced Thursday by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green. The committee chairmen and their home counties follow:

Finance, Marshall Rauch of Gaston; election laws, McDuffie; veterans and military affairs, Joe Palmer of Haywood; transportation, J.J. Harrington of Bertie; state government, Willis Whichard of Durham.

Law enforcement and crime control, Joe Raynor of Cumberland; insurance, Carl Theroth of Forsyth; courts and judicial districts, George Marion of Surry; alcoholic beverage control, John Winters, of Wake; Agriculture, Vernon White of Pitt; and banking, Craig Lawing of Mecklenburg.

Five collisions — three of them involving three vehicles each — investigated by Greenville Police yesterday resulted in an estimated $8,665 property damage.
Investigators reported heaviest damage resulted from an 8:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of Elm and Sixth Streets, involving cars driven by Alton Wayne Holloman of 210 Belvedere Dr. and Christopher John Schlaeppli of 1400 East 10th St. and a parked car owned by Joyce McFarland Buck of Route 1, Bath.

Jerry Thomas Reddick of Chocowinity was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of an 11:34 a. m. collision at the intersection of Third and Pitt Streets.

Officers reported the Reddick truck was involved in a collision with cars driven by Kenneth Allen Harris of Route 2, Greenville and Teresa Adeline Little of Ayden.

Damage was set at $1,200 to the Harris car, $1,000 to the Reddick truck and $600 to the Little auto.

Learns His Neck Broken

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "The only thing I know is they said I had an argument with the police out there," said Jake Porter, 35, who spent 40 hours in a jail cell before it was discovered his neck was broken.

Porter faced a charge of assaulting an officer, but said Thursday he had no recollection of the fight that resulted in fractured vertebrae.

"I'm hoping maybe my memory will come back with me some time today," he said from his hospital bed.

Porter, who admitted he had been drinking wine Saturday night, was examined at Charlotte Memorial Hospital, treated for a scalp wound and jailed after a head x-ray showed no injury.

He finally was returned to the hospital after complaining of pain.

Police reports said Porter and a companion started a fight with two police officers who were parked in a patrol car.

Thefts Halt Self-Serve

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — "People are prying the metal computer dials out and running their hands down and getting the cash," said Dare County sheriff's department investigator Sammy Smith, explaining why service station operators in two coastal counties are discontinuing their self-serve gasoline pumps.

The pumps have money boxes attached to the side. When money is inserted, the pumps are activated by computer and customers can purchase gas without an attendant present.

Several self-serve islands in Currituck and Dare counties have been robbed or vandalized, especially in remote areas along the coast and Outer Banks.

The Daniels Oil Co. in Manteo closed its self-serve units because of damage inflicted with a heavy tool on pumps.

"We can't afford it. We don't make enough profit to take care of this type of vandalism," said Moe Moore of Point Harbor.

Break-In Nets Thieves $400

A break-in at Darryl's restaurant at 800 East 10th St. netted robbers $400 in cash, Chief Glenn Cannon reported today.

Cannon said the break-in was reported at 9:15 a.m. Thursday.

Entrance to the building was gained through a rear door and the cash was taken from the office.

Still Assemblyman

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A male assemblyman has complained that one of his female colleagues is "trying to take the masculinity out of my title."

And that's exactly what Assemblywoman Maxine Waters wants to do.

A resolution she introduced would give all legislators the title "Assembly Member" on bills.

Assemblyman William Danemeyer told Ms. Waters: "I can see how you, as a lady, don't want to be referred to as an assemblyman. Now you seek to take the masculinity out of my title."

Ms. Waters, one of five women in the 80-member Assembly, didn't quite succeed.

The Assembly voted 48-27 Thursday for her resolution. But its final passage was blocked by a parliamentary maneuver, so it will have to be reconsidered next week.

Strong Mountaineers Invading Minges

Dave Patton isn't sure what to expect Saturday night when Appalachian State University invades Minges Coliseum, but he does promise one thing: The Pirates will be ready. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

East Carolina comes into the game following its first Southern Conference victory, a 51-49 decision over Davidson. Appalachian State, following a stunning overtime win over Furman, comes in with a 3-2 mark, and second place in the standings. The Mountaineers are 6-6 overall.

"It's another must game for us," Patton said. "But we are more prepared now than we were before Christmas."

Patton expects the Mountaineers to be very patient on offense, and to probably go with a zone on defense, since this is the type seen most often against the Pirates.

"We'll have to be patient too. They are very strong inside, and we will have to do one heck of a job on the rebounding if we are to be successful. Then, too, we'll have to play good defense again."

Guard Walter Anderson is the leading Mountaineer, averaging 13.8 points a game through last Saturday. Calvin Bowser is right behind him at 12.5, followed by Daryll Robinson at 12.0. Tony Searcy is next at 10.9, giving the Mounties four players in double figures.

"They are a very fine club and it's going to take a real good effort by us to beat them, but I think we are going to be ready to play this one."

Patton has been extremely pleased with the play of Louis Crosby on defense lately.

"He has really done a job for us. It's a shame that you can't be a Player of the Week for a defensive job. Everyone says they like the defensive player, but no one will vote for him."

At Richmond, Crosby worked against Kevin Eastman, averaging 17.4 points per game, and held him to just four. Against Davidson, Crosby guarded John Gerdy, hitting just under 21, and held him to 10, including just four of 17 shots from the floor.

"Greg Cornelius played outstanding for us down the stretch at Davidson, and old reliable Larry Hunt got what we needed when we needed it. Don Whitaker did a fine job of directing the club, and he and Herb Krusen came through with some fine key baskets. Herb Gray also played well."

Patton said that the Pirates need to really start hitting the outside shots to break open the zone defenses they have seen. "Our shooters are going to loosen up. We were more patient against Davidson's zone than we've been all year."

The win also was the first on the road in nearly a year. The last came on January 31, 1976 and was also against Davidson.

Hunt continues to lead the Pirate scoring with 11.5 per game. Jim Ramsey is next at 11.3, followed by Gray at 11.2.

Following Saturday's action, the Pirates travel to Williamsburg, Va., on Tuesday to meet William & Mary.

Lady Pirates Out To End Losing Streak

East Carolina University's women's basketball team has a hard row to hoe this week, as they must play five games in the next seven days.

Three of those games will be recorded tonight and tomorrow in Harrisonburg, Va. The Lady Pirates take on Illinois State tonight, then face both Madison and West Chester tomorrow.

Tuesday night, they entertain UNC-Greensboro, and on Thursday, travel to N. C. State.

Meanwhile, East Carolina's men's track team will be in College Park, Maryland, to participate in the CYO Invitational Meet, while the swimming team will also be there, facing the University of Maryland, on Saturday.

The men's basketball team is also in action, entertaining Appalachian State Saturday night and traveling to William & Mary on Tuesday.

"This weekend offers us an opportunity to travel and catch teams from Illinois and Pennsylvania," ECU women's coach Catherine Bolton said. "I don't like having to play two games in one day, but everyone else there will be doing it, so it won't be one-sided."

Miss Bolton is hopeful that the three-game, two-day series will help get the Bucettes in shape to handle the State Tournament, which comes up later in the season.

Things haven't gone well for the Lady Pirates, who enter the weekend with a 0-5 record.

"Youth has been our problem," Miss Bolton said. "We haven't gotten the floor leadership that we need. When we've had a breakdown, it's taken us so long to get things back in order that we're out of it. But I do see things improving all along."

Another blow to the team was the loss of Rosie Thompson with a leg injury. She may be out two weeks. Miss Thompson, a sophomore, was the second leading scorer on the team, and number three in the state with a 20.5 average.

"We don't have the depth without her," Miss Bolton said. "Kathy Suggs came on and did a real good job for her but you could tell that the team didn't have the same confidence in her they had in Rosie. Hopefully, they'll gain more confidence in her this weekend."

The team doesn't have a senior on it, and for this reason, Bolton feels good about the future. "We just need to get more leadership from Debbie Freeman, the junior captain of the team. But she's not used to this type role, and she's having to learn it. Rosie would help more in this when she's on the court, but right now, she's not."

The CYO meet involves invitation-only entries, and Coach Bill Carson will be taking several members of the team.

Carter Suggs and Larry Austin will run in the 60-yard dash, while Austin, James Freeman, Otis Melvin and Charlie Moss will make up a mile relay team. Marvin Rankins will be an alternate in the 60-yard hurdles.

"This meet is one of the top three in the country," Carson said. "It really is a big one. There will be a lot of people who were in the Olympics. This should give our kids some great experience, and it's an honor for them to be invited."

Miller Has The Putting Blues

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller has the putting miseries.

Miller, who had won the last three times out here, struggled to a two-over-par 74 Thursday that left him seven strokes back of Tom Watson and four others who shared the lead at 67 in the uncompleted first round of the $200,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Sharing the top spot with Watson were nonwinners Andy North, Alan Tapie, Gary McCord and Dr. Gil Morgan.

"I'm finding out this course is a lot tougher than I thought it was," Miller said of the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club course, which he blistered with a 25-under-par winning total two years ago.

"I guess I'm just starting off the way you're supposed to start the season. I'm kind of uncertain, unsure of my game. That's the way you're supposed to be at the start of the season, isn't it?"

It's the slowest start he's had in four seasons. He won his first two starts in 1975, his first three starts in 1974 and two of his first four in 1976. He hasn't given up here, but he's already looking forward to next week's Bing Crosby.

"I'm not out of it," he said.

Crosby Has A Duty: Spark That Defense

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

When East Carolina Coach Dave Patton wants to see how Louis Crosby did in a game, he doesn't do like most coaches and check the scoring column on the ECU stat chart.

Instead, he looks under the other team's scoring, and checks its leading scorer. If he was way below his average, he knows that Crosby did his job.

In the past two Pirate games, Crosby has been working against the two leading scorers and has done his job. He worked against Richmond's Kevin Eastman, and held him 13 points below his 17.4 average. Then, against Davidson, he held John Gerdy to just four field goals in 17 shots, and a total of 10 points. Gerdy had been averaging just under 21 points a game.

"I had to learn to play defense in high school," Crosby said. "We were a pressure team. In fact, we beat most of our opponents this way, and I got into defense this way."

And Crosby likes to play this way. "It's the code of the West," he said. "It's kill or be killed."

Crosby rates speed as his greatest asset. "I've learned to develop my game around my speed. And I feel no pressure on me, knowing that I'm playing their best player. Someone has to do it."

Crosby has been criticized in some circles for not scoring more, but this doesn't worry him. "Scoring is going to come, but I'm not going to worry about it. If I get the opportunity to score, I will. As long as I play good defense and we win, I've done my job. Scoring is just part of the game. If we stop them, then I don't have to score as much anyway. Right now, I'm playing with the way I'm playing."

Crosby rates defense as a concentration game. "A lot of people just psyche out on defense if their dude gets five or six points. But if he scores, he scores."

Off-court, Crosby likes to get his mind off the game as much as possible. "I live with these guys so much, I like to get away from them," he joked of his teammates. "Really, I like to socialize, and in the off-season, I like to get some changes of scenery. During the season, I don't really have much time to do much besides thing of basketball."

Crosby also doesn't think that the youth of the team is that much of a problem. "We are young, but our older players can't be content to use this as an excuse. We have the talent, and I think it's just a question of putting it all together. We just have to jell."

Carolina Outlasts Wake Forest, 77-75

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When North Carolina plays basketball, they employ a mixed bag of tricks.

"The Tar Heels throw such intriguing ploys at the opposition as the run-and-jump defense, the point zone and the mixing of pressure defenses.

"It is enough to drive teams dizzy — and seventh-ranked Wake Forest got caught in this wild traffic Thursday night.

"Carolina is a fine team, particularly on defense," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy after a 77-75 loss to the nation's No. 5 team. "They made it tough for us.

"Dean Smith, mastermind of those complicated defensive setups at North Carolina, found a Jekyll-and-Hyde quality in his team. He said the Tar Heels were meek in the first half, monsters in the second.

"I was pleased with our play in the second half, displeased in the first," said Smith. "Wake Forest is probably the quickest team we've played. If there was any key, it was probably Tommy LaGarde's play. I liked his defensive work against (Rod) Griffin."

Griffin, usually one of Wake Forest's big scorers, was held to 12 points.

In other college basketball games involving ranked teams, No. 9 Minnesota defeated Illinois 83-69, No. 10 Arizona edged New Mexico 89-87, No. 12 UCLA whipped California 82-74, and No. 20 Oregon stopped Washington 72-68 in overtime.

North Carolina trailed by seven points with 16 minutes to play before rallying behind LaGarde and John Kuester. LaGarde led all scorers with 22 points, while Kuester scored two crucial baskets at the end, keeping the Tar Heels ahead.

A capacity crowd of 8,200 at Winston-Salem, N.C., saw North Carolina, 12-1, take over first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference after trailing 52-45 early in the second half.

Mike Thompson scored 25 points and Osborne Lockhart added 19, boosting Minnesota over Illinois. It was the 11th victory for the unbeaten Gophers.

Herman Harris pumped in 24 points and Phil Taylor had 22, leading Arizona past New Mexico. The Wildcats, the defending Western Athletic Conference champions, opened leads of 11 points in each half, but could not shake the stubborn Lobos.

David Greenwood scored 34 points and Marques Johnson had 20, pacing UCLA over Cal. Ernie Kent scored nine straight points, six in overtime, leading Oregon past Washington.

Elsewhere, Walter Jordan scored a game-high 24 points, leading Purdue over Iowa 87-76; Mike Glenn fired in 18 points, including a crucial baseline jumper with 1:47 remaining, as Southern Illinois held off Wichita State 60-59; Ohio State, down 10 points early in the game, rallied behind Kevin Ramsey's 18 points and nipped Wisconsin 60-58 on Tony Hall's tip-in with two seconds remaining, and Teko Wynder's 22 points paced Tulsa past Drake 74-70.

Also, Indiana whipped Northwestern 78-53 behind Kent Benson's 32 points; Will Vanley came off the bench and sparked Texas-El Paso to a 69-60 victory over Arizona State; a 21-point performance by Mike Bratz led Stanford over Southern Cal 68-64, and Oregon State stopped Washington State 61-58 behind Rocky Smith's 22 points.

Pirates Swim Past Maine

After defeating the University of Maine last night in a college swim meet, the East Carolina swim team now packs up and heads toward College Park, Md. to face the University of Maryland on Saturday. ECU coach Ray Scharf feels that this meet will be the biggest to date for his squad.

"Maryland is always a big meet for us," said Scharf. "They have an outstanding program there.

"They are also a very strong team. We beat them solidly down here last year, and I don't think they've forgotten that. Maryland crushed everyone up at Penn State and they beat Princeton, too.

"I believe we have the times to compete with them, though," Scharf continued, especially if we can keep our pace after the Maine meet. We had some very good times in that meet, and Ted Nieman broke a meet, varsity and pool record in the 200 freestyle." In turning in a time of 1:42.40, Nieman broke the pool record of 1:43.21 that was set in 1968 by Greg Buckingham of Santa Clara. Buckingham set the old record during the AAU National Championships. The old varsity record was held by Ross Bohlkow with a time of 1:44.01.

ECU captured firsts in eight other events to gain a 62-51 decision over Maine. The Pirates were victorious in the 400 medley relay, 1000 freestyle, 50 freestyle, 200 IM, 200 butterfly, 100 freestyle, 500 freestyle and 200 backstroke.

East Carolina is now 4-0 on the season, while Maine dropped to 5-1.

The inability of the NCAA's super schools to push through the proposed reorganization plan at the group's convention in Miami earlier this week served to throw a monkeywrench into any hoped-for plans for the formation of a new conference in the Southeast.

East Carolina had set up a meeting for some 14 schools to attend during the convention, but the schedule became too crowded to work it in. The meeting was planned for Monday, prior to the convention, but as time went on, most people planning to attend felt that it would be wise to see what came out of the convention before meeting. A later time could not be arranged.

A number of informal contacts were made, however, and some progress was made. However, nothing could really be put into operation.

Then, the failure of the NCAA to pass the proposed resolution of reorganization put a damper on activities. There is a lot of confusion among the ranks of the present Division I schools, and most are not certain what the future holds.

Apparently the College Football Association (CFA) will be getting some input, and many of the teams involved in the proposed grouping want to wait and see what comes of CFA activities.

The NCAA also passed one rule which will affect the so-called "basketball only" conferences such as the Metro-Seven and the Sun Belt Conference. That ruling states that a conference must have at least six sports, one of which must be basketball or football, to gain an automatic berth in NCAA tournaments. However, a conference has until 1980 to comply with this ruling.

Since some of the schools involved in the meeting are members of these groups, they want to see what could come of the immediate future.

Apparently things are at a stand-still then in the processes of forming a new league. People want to wait and see what comes of other action before doing things on their own.

Hopefully by later in the spring, in late February or March, something can be done again. Reportedly the schools do want to get together later in the year and talk more after they see what the CFA does. Such a meeting may be scheduled for Atlanta and would attract the 14 currently involved in talks.

One thing is certain, East Carolina does need a home. It appears likely that VMI and Davidson are going to reconsider their announced withdrawal from the Southern Conference. The announcements will probably be made soon that they will remain in the league. William & Mary might also back off on withdrawal, but that is not a certainty.

If nothing can be done in the very near future about getting a new league started, perhaps the Pirates should investigate the possibilities of getting into one of the basketball leagues such as the Metro-Seven or the Sun Belt, with the latter as probably the more likely, since the travel distances would be lesser. And, depending on what develops from there a new conference for all sports could come later.

FTC Attacks ADA Practices

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today charged the American Dental Association with price fixing and other unlawful practices that allegedly prevent patients from benefitting from competition.

The commission said that ethical codes observed by the ADA and its local chapters violate federal antitrust law by barring advertising and "by preventing price competition."

The FTC said the dental group, through its professional codes, "has eliminated competition among dentists in the United States."

The 124,000-member ADA, headquartered in Chicago, denied any wrongdoing. "The ADA has neither fostered any practices nor engaged in any conduct relating to its advertising ethics which is in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act," the association said today.

The commission also announced it was beginning an investigation of the entire dental care industry "to determine whether restrictions imposed by private and governmental entities on the provision of dental services may be unfair methods of competition."

The probe will include a look at state or private rules regarding advertising, accreditation of dental schools, licensing requirements, and transfers of licenses from one state to another, the FTC said.

Named in the complaint as defendants were the ADA, the Indiana Dental Association, the Indianapolis District Dental Society, the Virginia Dental Association and the Northern Virginia Dental Society.

It was understood that these particular ADA-related groups were singled out because each has variations of the parent code that the FTC thinks should be struck down.

The commission said each of the ethical codes "fixes prices or otherwise interferes with the prices of dentists' services; deprives consumers of information pertinent to the selection of a dentist; and restrains the development of innovative systems for the delivery of dental services."

The commission's complaint will be heard by an administrative law judge who will then make recommendations to the commission. If the judge agrees with the complaint's allegations, the commission then could order the ADA to halt certain practices. In its statement, the ADA said restrictions on dentists' advertising are included in state laws, in addition to the dental codes of ethics.

The association defended its own restrictions on advertising, saying that "unrestricted advertising would have no economic benefits for the public and, instead, might lead to serious abuses in the delivery of dental care." The statement did not explain how this would occur.

The commission's complaint will be heard by an administrative law judge who will then make recommendations to the commission. If the judge agrees with the complaint's allegations, the commission then could order the ADA to halt certain practices.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1977 by Chicago Tribune

A spade lead would have led to the contract's defeat, but no blame can be attached to West for his choice of the king of clubs. Declarer called for dummy's ace and led the six of hearts to his queen. The finesse held, but West's jack was ominous. Declarer continued with the technically correct play of a low trump to the ten.

East won the king and shifted to the ace and king of spades. Declarer ruffed the second spade, crossed to dummy with the queen of diamonds and successfully ran the eight of hearts. But now declarer was in dummy and had no way to get back to his hand to draw the last trump. He tried a diamond, but East ruffed and the defenders took their club trick for down one.

A bit of foresight at trick two would have averted the calamity. Instead of leading dummy's low heart, declarer should have led the eight. Then, after taking his trump safety play, declarer would have the six of trumps remaining in dummy. When declarer crosses to dummy with the queen of diamonds, he can lead the six and overtake with the seven of hearts to get back to his hand. After drawing the last trump, declarer can run the diamonds for his contract.

We are not overly enthusiastic about the auction. Even though North-South were playing four-card majors, there is no reason for North to choose to respond one no trump. With three trumps and a ruffing value, his natural response is a raise to two hearts, after which South could have essayed game on the strength of his distributional values.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan time early to get your finances tended to since you can add much to present security. Talk to an expert in property affairs and get good advice you need. Take time to see friends in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make plans early for those personal aims you have and then put them in operation quickly and wisely. Spend more time on hobbies that mean so much to you. Evening is fine for social fun.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan early how to organize your life so you have greater success and happiness, then get wheels rolling in right direction. Spend time with a loved one and be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning is not good for being with friends but the afternoon is fine. Evening is ideal for gaining some aim that means a good deal to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care you do nothing to jeopardize your good name in the morning. Then you can handle outside activities well. Get into some community matter and help make a success of it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will tend to be blunt with others, act in a positive manner and be very successful provided you teach not to confide ideas and thoughts to others who could steal them. Teach early to be tactful. Give an opportunity to travel early in life to broaden vision and scope.

Multi-Million Drug Seizure

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C.—Authorities have seized 1,700 pounds of hashish valued at several millions of dollars near North Myrtle Beach and arrested to men.

Local, state and federal officers were continuing the investigation late Thursday night and talked of discovering additional caches of hashish. More arrests were expected.

"We've got an awful lot of information right now, there's got to be more people," a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) agent was quoted as saying.

Law enforcement officials said the arrests Thursday were the results of an intense hunt and surveillance for two days.

Horry County sheriff M.L. Brown and Horry County Police Chief Herman Enzor said the two men arrested in the investigation were charged with possession of hashish with intent to distribute. They were identified as Steven Busa and Charles David Cooper, both 25, of 4506 Pinecrest Road, North Myrtle Beach.

Authorities said the cache of hashish was seized in a house off a dirt road in the Socastee area and was neatly packaged in 32 bundles, which were wrapped in plastic bags and bound with heavy tape. Inside each bundle were flat, slat-like bricks packaged in cellophane wrappers, which bore a red stamp saying "Madeleines."

Estimates of the street value of the hashish ranged from $7.3 million, based on an estimate of $10 per gram, to $25.8 million at $35 per gram.

Officers said a late model Chrysler, a truck, a twin-engine inboard-outboard boat and a rifle were also confiscated.

Authorities reportedly had followed the boat from Charleston two days ago.

GOP Selects New Chairman Today; Seven In The Running

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are electing a new party chairman and you can't tell the candidates without a program.

With seven entries and no consensus, they're worried that today's balloting could intrude on one of their last opportunities to have cocktails in the White House of a Republican President.

After weeks of inconclusive maneuvering, and President Ford's embarrassing attempt to promote his former campaign manager for the job, the GOP National Committee will settle down to make its choice.

To the winner goes the management of a defeated party, a $44,600 salary and the advice of Republican congressional leaders not to get too pushy in dealing with matters of party policy.

Such selections customarily are tidy affairs, all programmed in advance by party elders. Not this time. Ford's chosen candidate, James A. Baker III, withdrew five days after the President endorsed him, saying he wanted to avoid a divisive fight.

Then, too, there was the fact that the President's support wasn't delivering enough votes to assure Baker's selection to succeed the retiring Mary Louise Smith.

So the field now includes: —Former Sen. William E. Brock III of Tennessee, 45, decried for re-election, and anxious to find a new foothold to keep his truncated political career going. He is rated among the favorites.

—Richard Richards, 43, Utah Republican chairman, and the preferred candidate of Ronald Reagan. He may have more commitments than anybody else in advance of the balloting, but election takes a clear majority and rivals contend he can't gain enough votes to reach one.

—Robert S. Carter, the co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, who knows the ropes and the committee members. Carter, 52, believes the final test will match him against Brock.

—Thomas S. Milligan, 41, the Indiana chairman.

—Buehl Berentson, former executive director of the GOP Senate and gubernatorial campaign organizations.

—Arthur A. Fletcher, 52, a White House aide, and the only black candidate. "Let me suggest that I am the one candidate who will offer unquestionable testimony to the effect that change is already in motion," he told Republican leaders Thursday.

—Kent B. McGough, 59, Republican chairman in Ohio. Those applicants made the rounds of private, regional meetings Thursday, offering their prescriptions for the GOP future.

Frederick K. Biebel, 50, the Connecticut chairman, said late Thursday that he was withdrawing from consideration, saying there already was a large number of qualified candidates.

The 162 national committee members were due at the White House for a late afternoon reception, and party officials were concerned that multiple ballots might delay them.
