delegation. Thursday night, Carter and his wife Rosalynn climaxed the inaugural day with a rapid-fire tour of seven parties spread throughout the city at four hotels, the railroad station, a government building and an armory. Each was jammed with thousands of persons, all of whom paid $25 to get in, a bargain price as inaugural balls go.

Few At Program Funding Hearing

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The first of two required public hearings on the city's application for third-year Community Development program funding was held Thursday night but the real purpose of the hearing, citizen input, was not fulfilled.

ing the meeting, conducted by the City Council as part of the process involved in qualifying for a third consecutive year to receive $1,909,000 in federal funds. City Planner John Schofield explained that the current application involves the city's third and final year in receiving the designated $1.9 million and it is not known what type of funding will be available for 1978-79.

to eliminate and prevent blight and provide improved community facilities and public improvements. Low and moderate income families should benefit from the program under the federal format. The planner said that various types of programs are eligible for funding under the program but the funds can not be used for such things as construction of a new city hall, bus station, or airport.

In all, the round of party-going lasted 3 1/2 hours, and the Carters were home for their first night in the White House at 12:30 a.m., about 1 1/2 hours earlier than planned, though other celebrants continued way into the morning.

Old Carter Friend Voted National Demo Chairman

The public hearing, held in order to give the citizens an opportunity to express community needs and submit funding proposals, attracted only a handful of people. Mayor Percy Cox expressed hope that the turnout at the second public hearing on Feb. 3 will be better and generate more citizen participation. Only five requests for funding considerations were made during the meeting.

Previous HUD programs, such as urban renewal, model cities, water and sewer grants and loans, neighborhood facilities, public facilities and housing rehabilitation are actually consolidated under the new federal package. Schofield said that a series of meetings were held in recent weeks in the neighborhoods designated for participation in the program. Generally, the funding area is west of Green Street south of the Tar River and including Greenfield Terrace and Meadowbrook sections north of the river.

That act, symbolic of his oft-repeated campaign promise to stay close to the people, came as a complete surprise to all but the Secret Service, whom he informed of his plan three weeks earlier. And despite the icy temperatures, the President obviously enjoyed the mile and one-half stroll. It capped, he said, a "perfect day."

The Carters had good reason to be tired. Earlier in the day, as millions watched via television, he had given the nation a sight never before seen, a new President strolling all the way down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House, his wife holding his hand. Daughter Amy walked several blocks with her parents.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Maine Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, an old colleague and friend of President Carter, was elected chairman of the Democratic party today and promised to lead it in building a program unprecedented for a party in power. Curtis, 45, was elected by acclamation at the postinaugural meeting of the Democratic National Committee. He was Carter's hand-picked candidate for the job.

dedicated to helping Carter keep his promise to be responsive to the wishes of the people. Carter aides say he views the national party as an important part of his administration and hopes to make good use of it instead of treating it as a rival as have other presidents. President Lyndon Johnson virtually dismantled the Democratic National Committee when he was in the White House. And Richard Nixon used his 1972 re-election committee to virtually replace the Republican National Committee.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

VOLUNTEERS, DONATIONS NEEDED
The South Ayden Community Center, a non-profit organization organized only recently is in need of donations and volunteers.

The Center hopes to have a very active senior citizens' program, an equally active day care program for children of mothers who can work only if they have inexpensive day care, and a telephone reassurance program in which volunteers call an elderly person living alone each day to make sure he or she is all right.

Volunteers are needed to work whatever hours each may have available in each of these programs. Donations of books and magazine for all ages, tables, chairs, sofas, and other items that would logically be used in a nursery school and sitting room situation are needed. Cash donations would be tax-deductible.

Persons wishing to help with this project may call the Center, 746-2166, or write South Ayden Community Center, c/o 1202 S. Lee St., Ayden, N.C. 28513.

The Center is now being housed in the trailer in front of the old South Ayden Elementary School. The building will later be renovated for this purpose, it is hoped.

NO NEED FOR WORRY

I like to catch a few shrimp and oysters on the weekends when they're in season, so I am quite concerned to hear that the commercial fishermen are trying to get a regulation passed saying that anyone who gets any shellfish, even for his own use, must buy an expensive license. I think this is totally unfair. D. F.

Someone in the office of Ed McCoy, director of the Division of Marine Fisheries, said the law now says that one bushel per person per day of shellfish may be taken without a license. She said all regulations concerning such matters go through the Marine Fisheries Commission and that there is not even under study any measure to change the present regulation. She said she feels you have no need to worry, but that you may write to Ed McCoy, Box 769, Morehead City, N. C. 28557 if you wish more information.

During the hearing, Mary Taft of Greenfield Terrace asked the Council for consideration in four areas, including a recreation center for the neighborhood, sidewalks, mercury lights, and improved drainage facilities. She said the neighborhood's main concern is for a recreational building and a sketch showing a 50 feet by 30 feet facility was presented.

Sidney Skinner, a resident of the West Greenville section, requested improved drainage facilities for the area one block from Sadie Sautter School. He noted that the streets flood every time "a good rain" falls. Skinner also said that a stop light is needed at Ninth and Dickinson Avenue as well as additional street lights in the neighborhood. He suggested funding for a foot patrolman to serve the area.

A request for funds to be used towards installation of a stop light at the intersection of Bancroft Avenue and Farmville Boulevard was aired by Lucile Sledge of 706 Bancroft. Mrs. Sledge said that several wrecks have occurred at the intersection.

The Rev. B. B. Felder suggested that sidewalks be added and improved in the area of the river back to West End. He

It was a short, solemn speech in which the new President declared that "I have no new dream to set forth today, but rather urge a fresh faith in the old dream." But the line that seemed to draw the greatest appreciation was the one which he opened: "For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all he has done to heal our land."

With that, Gerald R. Ford, a private citizen who planned to be out golfing today in Southern California, bit his lip to stifle the tears while the audience confirmed Carter's tribute with hearty applause. "I don't deny that I got a little sentimental," the outgoing president told reporters later. "We've had 2 1/2 great years and you can't help but be a little emotional."

Ford was close to tears again when he and his wife, Betty, were honored by a military review at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., prior to their departure.

Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit and Carmella Lacayo of California were elected vice chairmen. Joel McCleary of North Carolina became treasurer and Dorothy Bush, familiar to a generation as the drawing Southern voice who calls the roll at party conventions, was retained as secretary. Red China Now Making Missiles

TOKYO (AP) — A Peking newspaper reported today that China has succeeded in manufacturing missiles with nuclear warheads, the Kyodo news service reported from the Chinese capital.

The Japanese correspondent said the Kwangming Daily, an organ of Chinese minority parties, reported: "China succeeded in the trial manufacture of atomic and hydrogen bombs and nuclear-armed missiles at a relatively early date after the founding of the People's Republic, ending the monopoly of such weapons by the Russian revisionists and American imperialists."

Due to lengthy cold weather, some power operators have experienced power overloads this past week. While temperatures remained at the near freezing and sub-freezing level additional amounts of energy were used. Thursday the high temperature in the Pitt County area was recorded at 36 degrees and the low temperature was 19 degrees, according to the Greenville Utilities Department. Friday at 8 a.m. the temperature was recorded at 22 degrees and frost covered most of the county. The river measured 8.7 feet, according to the National Weather Service Rivel Level Chart. Carolina Power & Light Company which serves Grimesland, eastern parts of Pitt County and sells to Farmville has experienced power shortage problems this week, according to Mike Paschal, Area Accounting Supervisor for CP&L. "We have a system that we conduct when we are under stress for energy. We have a three phase plan which we follow. Beginning Monday we reduced the voltage five per cent which is the first phase of the system. Then, we asked the consumers to reduce usage. We called industrial users and appealed to our residents; this was the second phase. The third phase of the system would be to have two hour intermittent brown outs. At this time we are not sure how successful the first two phases have been, but if necessary we will have two hour brown outs on a rotating basis with different sectors," Paschal said.

Continued Cold Causes Some Power Overloads

In addition to the power shortage problems, electrical users may expect a substantial increase in electric bills for February, according to Paschal. "The fuel charges for retail customers for February have not approved as of yet, but the rate that will be proposed is $4.78 per 1,000 kilowatts. This is due to the cost of fossil fuel burned in November when two of our nuclear plants were not operating. Last month the rate was 34 cents per 1,000 kilowatts which reflected the fossil fuel used in October," Paschal said.

Two New Directors For Board Of First Federal

Two new directors have been elected to the board of directors of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pitt County by the members of the association. The new directors, elected at the 40th annual meeting of the members, are Kelly Barnhill and Dr. J. Edwin Clement. Judge Dink James, chairman of the board, served as chairman of the annual session and Clarence Tugwell, president, presented his annual report to the attending members. In his report, Tugwell reported that 1976 was the finest year in the history of First Federal. He noted that at year-end, assets of the Association reached $66,733,157. First Federal paid a record amount of dividends to its savings depositors, $3,475,787, and added $478,115 to its reserve, bringing the total net worth up to $3,385,852, he said. "Savings deposits from our customers for 1976 amounted to a record $56,948,929 which is an increase of $7,500,000," Tugwell added. "The increase in savings deposits allowed us to take care of needs of our local mortgage market." Tugwell said that in 1976 First Federal financed a total of 511 homes and apartments in the county, in the amount of nearly $18 million, bringing loans outstanding to over $60 million. A new service was introduced during the year, the president continued. The Key Account service offered the customer money management with a transactional statement account and 24-hour transfer of funds, he said. In addition, the downtown office on Evans Mall was enlarged and renovated with an entrance on Washington Street for the convenience of customers. Tugwell told the members that 1977 would produce "more and better service to customers because of the 24-hour Automated Teller Machine to be located in a free standing unit in a local shopping center." The remote teller, called "Prestige Place," will be in operation in the first quarter of 1977, he added. Officers elected to serve for 1977 are: Dink James, chairman of the board; C. B. Tugwell, president; Thomas S. Ryon, senior vice president; Roscoe L. King, senior vice president; Robert S. Messner, secretary-treasurer; William Earl Stocks, assistant vice president; Durwood Little, assistant vice president; Inda W. Wingate, assistant vice president; Lester Brown, assistant vice president; Sue Crech, assistant vice president; Martha Davis, assistant secretary-treasurer; Jay Pratt, controller; and Vick King, branch manager. Directors now serving First Federal are Alton R. Barrett, George Coffman, Kenneth G. Hite, Dink James, Walter B. Jones, Roscoe L. King, John B. Lewis Sr., Dr. M. B. Massey, John F. Minges, Thomas S. Fifty Families Starting To Build 'Ideal' American Town

By DEIRDRE McNAMER
Associated Press Writer
COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (AP) — They began to arrive in this Oregon lumber community a few years ago, armed with the deed to a nearby ranch and dreams of a unique community they would build from scratch.

Picture it, they said. A town of 2,000 without a single automobile. Homes, businesses and community centers on 1,200 acres of Oregon meadow and hillside. Waste recycling systems and solar heat. An economy of small, nonpolluting businesses, crafts and social services.

Utopia? Maybe not. Despite myriad problems and delays, its future residents — about 50 families so far — say they will begin soon to construct the first buildings of Cerro Gordo, named for the mountain that stands like a sentinel at the townsite's northern end.

Group members have drawn up detailed plans and have started clearing the land for the first project — four small, energy-efficient homes that will be connected by covered boardwalks and will share a laundry and shop. Eventually, 10 acres will be developed extensively with homes and businesses built along narrow strips that form two large overlapping circles. Trolley car loops will reach most people, and electric carts, like golf carts, will be used to haul goods.

"It gets more and more real all the time," said Sharon Courtney as she sipped coffee and held a young daughter on her lap. She and her husband Bill tent an insurance business in Santa Barbara, Calif., two years ago and threw in their lot with the Cerro Gordo project.

Courtney bought a small business that makes supplies for railroad model hobbyists, combining vocation and avocation. He employs several people at his shop in the couple's home, and hopes to open a business soon on the Cerro Gordo site.

"We came here to build a new town," he said. "How often in your life do you get a chance to do something like that?"

The new town project is the brainchild of 28-year-old Chris Canfield, former business manager of a small electronics firm in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Six years ago, he formed an organization called Town Forum to share his idea and to gather support — financial and otherwise. Forum meetings were held in major cities along the West Coast and membership swelled to 5,000.

By 1974, one hundred families and a few individuals were ready to cut ties, pool their savings and sign up as future Cerro Gordians. Half those families now live in Cottage Grove, 200 miles south of Portland, working out details of the new community on the 1,200-acre tract that they bought for $312,178, paying $50,000 down. So far, they've invested over $220,000 in their project.

Cerro Gordo is Spanish for "Fat Hill," and when prospects look bleak, Cerro Gordians tag it, "Ventura Gordo," or "Fat Chance."

Canfield said more inspirational names were considered, but in the end, "we decided we'd stick with the name we've got and it would take on its own meaning — depending on what we did there."

Canfield estimates that a quarter of the 50 families are living off savings. Others have scaled down their lifestyles — not hard to do in Cottage Grove — and have set up small businesses or continued with professions they practiced before.

All share a conviction that towns must change radically to avoid what Canfield calls "the Los Angelization of the world."

Cerro Gordo is designed to be neither a back-to-the-land commune nor a real estate venture. The homes will be privately owned but they will be on community land.

The Oregon Environmental Council endorsed the basic concept of Cerro Gordo in 1974. The OEC board said the village proposal "looks ahead to the changes which we know are inevitable and plans for them. This new venture offers Oregon a planned look into the future, a chance to try a new design which meets the objectives of careful planning and conservation of nature."

Canfield's search for a suitable townsite began in 1971 with the help of Charles Deurwaerder, professor of landscape architecture at Oregon State University. The old Cerro Gordo homestead five miles east of Cottage Grove seemed right for several reasons.

It is poor farmland, meeting the group's desire to preserve prime agricultural land. It has natural limits to expansion, being bordered by a mountain, Dorena Lake and government forest land. The Oregon, Pacific & Eastern railroad runs a train past the site once a day and could provide transportation to the edge of the townsite.

Deurwaerder and his students studied the area, mapping soil, slope, plants and rainfall conditions acre by acre to determine the best use for the land. Out of that research came Cerro Gordo's basic plan — a community concentrated on 100 acres, with the rest of the tract left mostly undeveloped.

The Cerro Gordo hopefuls bring with them a variety of backgrounds and skills.

Tori Moore was 24 when she left a high school teaching job in Cincinnati and moved to Cottage Grove. Now she works as a licensed masseuse.

"I was looking for something," she said. "Something more stimulating than the homestead trip. That's too simplistic." Neither did she want a ready-made community. "I wanted to help create it," she explained.

Jim Hinman became involved with the project when he was a county planner in California. "This is what I've always wanted to do. It's a planner's fantasy to build a community from the ground up."

Dorothy Walker was 58 when she left a writing job in New York City "to do something else for the rest of my life."

John Mowatt left his job as a physics professor in Alabama four years ago. Cerro Gordo, he said, "is not a reversion. It's to get an idea of how human communities can be part of the natural surroundings in a technical sense." He has spearheaded the group's research into the use of solar power for heat.

Two of the newest arrivals in Cottage Grove are Will Rice, who retired from his government job three years ago, and Edie Rice, until recently a school counselor in Orinda, Calif.

"The dream is the sort of thing you can believe in," Edie Rice said. "Here we have found a whole community dedicated to living gently on the land. This is the type of thing we can identify with."

The Cerro Gordo group's thorniest problems have stemmed from uncertainty in the Cottage Grove area about what the project is.

Canfield said some local people feared the newcomers were "rich hippies" who would pollute Dorena Lake and live on food stamps. Others feared they might be real estate developers. And hunters chafed at new "no hunting" signs on the property.

Strong opposition to the project surfaced at county planning commission hearings in 1974, and a petition drive against the project gathered steam. The commission rejected the Community Association's first plan for a 50-unit cluster.

Since then, the Cerro Gordo group has scaled down its approach, and is seeking approval on a unit-by-unit basis. Permits have been obtained for the first unit of four homes.

And Cottage Grove residents have become more receptive to the newcomers as they have lived and worked with them.

"We're not as cocky and they're no longer as suspicious," said Dorothy Walker. "They've come to know us as individuals."

Sister Retaliates With A Low Blow

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The clan gathered at my sister-in-law's house for a holiday dinner. Everyone was nice and friendly until Sis turned to me and in a very loud voice said, "Say, what color would your hair really be if you didn't dye it? Gray?"

Taken completely by surprise, I said the first thing that came to mind: "I'll tell you what color my hair really is if you tell me how much you really weigh." (Sis is very fat. She claims she has a thyroid condition, but she eats constantly.)

Well, things got pretty hot around there, and now the whole family—including my husband—is furious with me for insulting the hostess.

I don't see why her privacy is any more sacred than mine, but if you think I should apologize, I will.

NOT IRISH FOR NOTHING

DEAR IRISH: Even though she struck the first blow, you were childish and unkind to have struck a lower one. If it will restore peace in the family, apologize.

DEAR ABBY: I have always believed in God, and in His goodness, but I am now having doubts.

There are 365 days in every year, yet on my wedding anniversary, the most joyous day of the year for me, God chose to take my beloved mother from this earth. So now, instead of celebrating my anniversary, it has become a day of sadness and mourning.

Then I had a son. On his 10th birthday, God chose to take my beloved father from me. Again, a happy day was turned into a sad one.

Have you any words of comfort for me, Abby? I feel as though the Lord has punished me, but for what, I do not know.

Another thing. People describe themselves as "God-fearing Christians." I have read the Scriptures and can find nothing in them that says we should FEAR God.

So, when people want to describe themselves as "good Christians," why do they say they are "God-fearing" Christians?

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: Read the Book of Job again and restore your faith in the Lord. According to my dictionary, "God-fearing" means "devout."

The Old Testament tells us (in Ecclesiastes) to "Fear God and keep His commandments."

DEAR ABBY: When letters come to you asking about whether a girl should wear a bra or not, you should take the opportunity to say, "Yes," with a capital "Y," and then explain that girls who have ample bosoms and fail to support them become victims of Cooper's Syndrome.

To further explain: Native African women whose pictures you see in the National Geographic magazine have never known what a brassiere was, and consequently their breasts are all stretched out and hang practically to their waists. They are victims of Cooper's Syndrome...or Cooper's droop.

Please tell girls that as soon as they have something to hold up, they should invest in a brassiere, and wear it faithfully.

When I see young girls with full bosoms going braless, bobbing up and down and thinking they are liberated, I want to cry. It's too late for me, so sign me...

FLIP-FLOP IN GARDEN CITY

DEAR FLIP: I'll pass your works of warning and wisdom on to my readers. Girls, hie thee to a corsetiere!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pactolus Chief Earns Fireman Of The Year Award

WINTERVILLE — Pactolus Fire Chief Sam Bowers was named "Pitt County Fireman of the Year" at the annual Pitt County Firemen's Association ladies' night banquet held last night.

A veteran of 14 years as a Pactolus fireman, he is reported by his department to have "headed up the largest and most successful fund-raising drive our department has ever undertaken. He gave more than 40 hours of his time just in preparation for this project." Asked why Bowers was recommended by Pactolus as a candidate for "Fireman of the Year," one of the other members of the Department wrote, "He is without question, the most deserving and hard-working in our department. He attends all of our meetings and almost all the meetings held for chiefs and Pitt County Firemen's Association and represents us well in almost all activities outside our department. As far as our department goes, he has been the pillar in the foundation from the beginning and still is a pillar. He plays a major role in getting the job done. He attends as many fires as he possibly can and immediately takes over in leadership and direction. He has done more than his share." The award, the first of what is planned to be an annual recognition, was made at the banquet hosted by the Winterville Fire Department at A. G. Cox School last night. Each fire department in the county nominated a member for the award and the winner was picked by a committee composed of three Firemen's Association members and one Pitt County Insurance Exchange member, Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner explained.

ATTITUDE CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) — A Polish Methodist leader, the Rev. Adam Kuczma, citing signs of improved attitudes in the United States toward churchmen in Communist-ruled Eastern Europe, says that on a previous U.S. visit he noted headlines such as "Red Clergy Visit," but had observed no such stereotyping on his present trip.

The pastor, Bishop W. L. Phillips, will deliver the morning message Sunday at 11 a.m., along with the Single Choir. At 3 p.m. Sunday the Rev. Waters, choir, ushers and congregation from Ellen Grove Free Will Baptist Church will be in charge of the service. The public is invited.

Still Debate Union Vote

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Ten contested votes could alter the outcome in one Drexel Heritage Furnishings plant, but employees at 13 other company plants voted Thursday not to affiliate with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

A total of 2,533 votes were cast in balloting conducted by the National Labor Relations Board. Workers voted at 11 plants in Burke County, two in Catawba County and one at Mocksville in Davie County.

The vote against union affiliation at Drexel's No. 6 plant here was 133-128, with 10 ballots contested by the union. The NLRB reportedly will look into the matter.

Voters at the other 13 plants rejected the union 1,379-893.

Drexel workers voted down union bids several times between 1970 and 1973 with the last proposal being defeated, 2-783-1,743.

At that time, however, votes from all plants were tabulated together, with the union needing an overall majority of the ballots in order to win.

The procedure has since been changed, allowing the vote total to be based on each plant, and raising the prospect that the No. 6 plant could be organized.

Hopes Rest On Jimmy Carter

Jimmy Carter has become 39th president of the United States.

His elevation to the highest office in the land is one of those unique turns of events which are so characteristic of American politicians.

At the beginning of the campaign for the presidency there were few who gave the former governor of Georgia any chance to be inaugurated this January.

Fortunately Jimmy Carter did not share this gloom. He was supremely confident of his own abilities and convinced that he could furnish the nation the moral leadership it needed after the trying period of Watergate.

Gradually he won Democratic presidential primaries through grueling months of campaigns so that eventually his opponents for the nomination one-by-one dropped out of the race.

Finally when the Democratic convention came, Carter was certain to win the nomination, and he did.

Then it was a spirited campaign against incumbent president Gerald Ford. This one was even tougher as Jimmy Carter attempted to overcome the political assumption that a southerner could not be elected to the presidency.

The election was close, but when the popular votes were counted and the electoral votes tallied, what had been considered impossible, by many, months before had become reality. Jimmy Carter was to be president of the United States.

There are those who feel that Carter's lack of familiarity with the Washington scene will be a great handicap to him as he assumes the awesome duties of the presidency. But it was precisely that isolation from Washington down in Georgia that contributed in large part to his success in winning the presidency. The public was disgusted with some of the things that had been revealed in Washington. As voters they sought someone removed from the Washington scene, someone with high moral standards and political experience to change things in the nation's capital.

Carter offered this. He had administrative experience as governor of one of our states. A professor born again Christian he offered the very highest moral standards to the nation.

It will, of course, take even more in the man to grapple with the problems of the Soviet Union, China, the Middle East, oil, inflation and unemployment. It will take a lot of knowledge about a lot of problems and considerable toughness in dealing with adversaries for President Carter to handle with all these problems.

We have the highest hopes that President Carter has the moral standards, the personal strength, the understanding and general ability to tackle the nation's myriad problems. We look forward to an outstanding four years.

Soviet Eyes Image

ROME (AP) — The Soviet government, apparently concerned that its crackdown on dissidents is tarnishing its image abroad, has sent propagandists to Rome to try to counter the criticism and lay some groundwork for the follow-up conference on the Helsinki Agreement this summer.

Two editors of Literaturnaya Gazeta, the Soviet literary weekly, appeared on Italian television Thursday and faced questions by reporters. They defended the Kremlin's treatment of dissidents and asserted there is freedom of expression in the Soviet Union.

Aleksandr Tchaikovsky, the magazine's editor-in-chief, and associate editor Vitalij Syromokskij came to Rome after Italy's powerful Communist party attacked the crackdown on dissent in Czechoslovakia and questioned Soviet treatment of dissident Vladimir Bukovsky, who was expelled in exchange for Chilean Communist leader Luis Corvalan after years of confinement in Soviet labor camps and psychiatric institutions.

Tchaikovsky called Bukovsky a "common criminal" and charged that the Western press gave undue attention to a "handful" of such dissidents.

Asked why the Soviet government would expel a "common criminal," the editor said "subversives" who hate the Soviet system "and are being held in prison at the taxpayers' expense should have the possibility of emigrating to another social system."

He and Syromokskij asserted that their government was complying with the 1975 Helsinki accords which the West-

New Budget Poses Queries

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — A new state budget necessarily raises some important questions for debate among North Carolina citizens and representatives in the General Assembly.

There are even some questions in the mind of Gov. James B. Hunt. The governor participated to a limited degree in preparation of the budget at the invitation of outgoing Gov. James E. Holshouser.

But the extent of that participation was to see to it that his pet projects were included—reading emphasis, community schools money, speedy trials, and relief of prison overcrowding.

From that point, the proposed new budget is really the offering of Holshouser and his Advisory Budget Commission.

Change Ahead

As a result, some major changes are likely to be proposed before many weeks go by—changes which Gov. Hunt would like to see made.

Marvin K. Dorman, Jr., deputy state budget officer, says those recommendations on either continuation or reduction of spending in specific areas will be outlined later.

Hunt is pledged to move in that direction by his campaign promises.

He has repeatedly promised no tax increases during the next four years.

How can he pay for expanded programs? By streamlining the bureaucracy, eliminating waste, cutting useless programs, and bringing the growth of state employment under control, he has said.

But the proposed new budget calls for a 6.5 per cent raise and for adding 7,689 people to already inflated state payrolls, bringing employment to 171,000 by July 1, 1978. . . . one state employee for every 32 Tar Heel citizen; an investment of $293 million in new employees or salary increases.

And so the questions arise: Will Gov. Hunt be able to start cutting the major cost of government—hiring people and giving them raises?

Can North Carolina raise $4 billion per year without a tax increase?

Will the people agree to spending more than $35 million in the next two years for prison construction?

New Judges

Where will the 14 new judges (and other court support personnel) earmarked to bring about speedy trials be assigned?

What will be the public reaction to salary increases of up to 29 per cent for the judiciary "in an effort to attract and retain the best qualified people . . ." which will push the salary of district attorneys to $36,750 per year; for district court judges to $32,000; for Superior Court judges to $39,500; of Appeals and Supreme Court justices to $44,500 and $47,000 respectively? Have there been elections in which no qualified candidates for those jobs offered?

How will people react to the fact that there are actually some tax increases built in the state budget, and a proposal which will cause a hefty tax hike if you buy a car, boat, or airplane?

At present there is a $120 maximum tax on the big-ticket car, boat, or plane. The proposal would remove that, leaving a two per cent tax on the total, for an increase of $3.2 million per year in taxes. The cost to the consumer on a $5,000 car would remain $100; on a $10,000 boat it would be $200; on a $20,000 airplane, the tax would be $400.

The budget document also notes that, "Normal growth due to higher prices for food and consumer buying will generate growth rates of 9.9 per cent. . . ." That means simply as food prices and clothing costs go up—so does your sales tax.

Our Paths Have Crossed

WASHINGTON — Everyone these days seems to ask me the same question, "How well do you know Jimmy Carter?" I'd be stretching the truth if I said I knew him real well. It's true our family lived a few miles down the road from Jimmy in Plains, Ga., and we both went to the same grammar and high schools. But he sat a couple of rows away from me and I never saw much of him except after school when we used to go fishing together.

One day I said to Jimmy, "What do you want to do when you grow up?" and he said, "I want to go to Annapolis and become a naval officer." I said, "What a coincidence, so do I!" So we both applied. I got the appointment, but I told them I wouldn't accept it unless they took Jimmy as well. Since they wanted me for the football team they relented and allowed as Jimmy could go too.

Jimmy and I were roommates at the naval academy and one day I introduced him to a lovely girl named Rosalyn Smith. They fell in love and were later to marry, which pleased me no end.

After leaving the academy Jimmy and I went our separate ways until we both found ourselves in the Rested by a night sleep after yesterday's strenuous round of inauguration activities, the President returned to his desk today with a full calendar of engagements confronting him.

To the editor:

A meeting scheduled for Monday, Jan. 24, at 7:30 p. m. at Ayden-Grifton High School Auditorium should be of vital concern to all area citizens who care about education.

This may be the only chance local citizens have to make the education hierarchy know how they feel about the direction local education will take over the next several generations in Ayden and Grifton.

Two education consultants from the State Department of Public Instruction will be present to receive input from parents, public officials and citizens in an effort to establish what effect a "middle school" would have on the communities and the education of area children.

The consultants toured all the school in Southern Pitt County a week ago, seeking information from school authorities. As the school authorities had proposed a joint "middle school" for Ayden and Grifton 6th, 7th and 8th grades, no doubt the information the consultants received last week from the school principals gave a favorable view of the proposed consolidation.

However, many citizens of both Ayden and Grifton feel strongly that the children are receiving a good education now, as good or better than what they could receive in a consolidated school, and that children of this age need to remain in their communities to attend school if at all possible. It was because of strong protest from concerned citizens that the Pitt County Board of Education directed that the "middle school" question be studied more thoroughly before a final decision should be made.

I urge all citizens to attend the meeting Monday evening, and to come prepared with facts, if possible, which might have some bearing on the ultimate decision. If this is the only contact the study committee will have with area citizens before reaching a recommendation on the school consolidation, it is of utmost importance that a broad cross-section of both communities be heard.

nuclear submarine program. Jimmy was given command of a sub, and I was his executive officer. One stormy night he was on the bridge and a big wave came along and washed him overboard. I jumped over the side, without a life jacket, and grabbed him. "Hold on, Jimmy," I told him. "Have faith and we will be saved." I held his chin with one hand and swam back to the sub with the other.

After we were back in the wardrobe Jimmy said to me, "I don't know how to thank you. You saved my life."

I remember replying, "Forget it. You would have done the same for me. Besides, you Georgia boys have to stick together."

Jimmy decided to leave the Navy about the same time I did. He wanted to go back to his peanut farm and build it up from scratch. I had a little money I had saved in the Navy and I lent it to him interest-free. "Someday you can pay me back," I told him.

Then after making a success of the peanut business he had the urge to go into politics. One day after Sun-

THE GALLUP POLL

Most Favor Nat'l Service

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — Few programs that President Jimmy Carter could introduce would have such broad public approval as one requiring every young man to give a year of service to the nation, either in military or non-military work here or abroad.

In the latest nationwide Gallup survey, two persons in three indicate support for a law which would require all young men to give a year of service either in the military forces or in non-military work here or abroad, such as in VISTA or the Peace Corps.

For more than three decades, a substantial majority of Americans has favored legislation that would require every young man to give a period of service to the nation. In the latest survey, the weight of opinion in each major population group supports national service. Young adults (under 30) are somewhat less inclined than are older persons to favor such a plan. However, opinion even in this age group is about evenly split.

When only the views of young men, 18 to 24 — the group who would most likely be involved in a national service program — are taken into account, opinions are on the negative side, although many in this group, 47 per cent, are in favor. When asked which kind of service they would prefer, these young men opt for the non-military over the military.

YOUTH FOUND SERVICE-ORIENTED

The present time may be particularly propitious for the introduction of such a program not only because so many young people are unemployed, but because youth as a whole is found to be very "service-oriented." Many young people, if they had their choice, would like to go into the "helping" professions, such as teaching, social work and the like.

For example, when the Gallup Poll conducted a survey of youths in the greater Dayton, Ohio, area — a barometer area for the entire nation — as many as one-third of those 18-29 years old indicated they would like to go into social work as a career.

Following is the first question asked and the results:

"Would you favor or oppose requiring all young men to give one year of service to the nation — either in the military forces or in non-military work here or abroad, such as VISTA or the Peace Corps."

Here are the results nationally and by age group and politics:

	ONE YEAR OF SERVICE FOR MEN?
	Favor	Oppose	No opinion
NATIONWIDE	62%	33%	5%
18-24 years	50	46	4
25-29 years	50	46	4
30-39 years	64	31	5
50 & over	70	24	6
Republicans	66	29	5
Democrats	64	30	6
Independents	55	42	3

And here are the results for young men (18-24):

	Favor	Oppose	No opinion
Favor	47%
Oppose		50%
No opinion			3%

This question was next asked of everyone:

"Suppose all young men were required to give one year of service, which would you prefer — military or non-military?"

Here are the results for the nation as a whole and by young men (18-24 years):

	Military	Non-military	No opinion
NATIONAL	47%	38%	15%
Men (18-24)	43	51	6

NATION SERVICE FOR WOMEN

Although half (51 per cent) of the sample of adults oppose a law requiring a year of national service for women, as many as four in 10 say they are in favor.

It is of interest to note that there is little difference between the views of men and women on this question.

As might be expected, the overwhelming proportion of adults favor non-military work over military involvement.

Strength For Today

RENUNCIATION AND HAPPINESS

In one of his epistles St. Paul makes the statement, "I die daily." This great Christian leader had discovered that the secret of happy Christian living lies in forgetting one's self. Most people believe that happiness comes from getting what one wants. Paul discovered that happiness comes from being able to say No to one's self when there is good reason for saying it.

A modern poet expressed Paul's meaning when he said that every act of kindness is a little death. Every time we put self aside we die to self; every time we die to self we become alive to certain joys and powers we never knew existed. We never give up anything worth having when we give up our selfish wills. Quite the contrary—we are giving up the one thing that is keeping us from being happy. The worst tyrant in the world is the capital "I." When we put him in his place we find how meaningful life can be.

This is also true of young women themselves. This question was asked to measure attitudes toward national service for women:

PLAN SEEN AS TOO 'AUTHORITARIAN'

At the heart of the opposition to a plan of a national service is the belief that it would be too authoritarian. Others are opposed because they feel it would delay the education of those who wish to enter a profession, such as medicine.

WOULD PROVIDE SPECIAL SKILLS

Proponents of national service feel that such a program should be part of the educational process, enabling young persons to experience the "real world." Others favor it as a way to provide special training to young men who do not plan to go to college. Still others like the concept because they feel it would give all young people a better and more realistic view of the social problems of America while offering them an opportunity to do something about them.

BREEDING GROUND FOR CRIME

Many youth experts have labeled the estimated 2 million young people out of school and out of work a prime source of crime and a great waste of the nation's manpower.

Proponents of youth training projects say that if the idea is adopted on a widespread scale it could effectively reduce crime and violence in our society. Others feel that the program could meet head-on some of the social ills in society and satisfy the desire of youth today to contribute to a better society.

WHAT COULD YOUTH DO IN PBOGRAM?

A special small-scale survey reveals that the type of projects the public thinks could be undertaken with a program of national service include: working with children — helping them to read, for example; counseling the poor, the elderly; helping in hospitals, mental institutions; working with various groups in the population — Indians, for example; working with the physically handicapped; working on conservation projects; helping to clean up slums; helping in efforts to combat pollution; beautification of America; helping law enforcement agencies in efforts to rehabilitate youthful offenders; disaster work; and helping other nations — developing better agricultural methods, etc.

The results reported today are based on a nationwide survey conducted Dec. 10-13 with 1,559 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation.

day school he told me he wanted to run for governor of Georgia. Jimmy was bitter about Georgia's backward stand on race, and he had no use for the political machine that had been running things down there for centuries.

I got together a group of far sighted Southern businessmen and labor leaders and persuaded them that Carter could turn Georgia and the South around. We worked hard but we got Jimmy into the governor's mansion — something none of us ever regretted.

I lost touch for a few years, but one day I ran into Jimmy in a supermarket in New Hampshire. "Whatcha doing up here?" I asked him.

"Running for President of the United States. Nobody believes I can do it," Jimmy said. "I'm thinking of giving up."

"I believe you can do it," I told him. I talked to several friends of mine, and we raised enough money to back Jimmy in the primaries in Florida and Ohio. I always stayed in the background but every night, no matter how late, Jimmy called and asked me what he should say the next day.

I helped him with the debates and I talked to him about campaign strategy, but I can't say I won the election for him. Jimmy did that himself, and I'd be the first one to admit it.

It comes as no surprise to me that this week we're going to swear in Jimmy Earl Carter as our President. I saw it years ago when as kids we were whitewashing a fence and he had that strange look in his eye as if to say, "I'm not going to be doing this for the rest of my life."

So when people ask me if I know Jimmy Carter I have to say, "I've met him once or twice. He seems like a nice person." If Jimmy wants to admit we know each other better than that, I think it's up to him to say so, not me.

A retired 25-year career man with the Internal Revenue Service says that he expects the tax-paying public to be faced with complex tax forms and laws for the foreseeable future.

E. J. Vitkus, who retired early last year from the IRS, said in an interview that he does not have "any great hope for simplification" of the filing process.

Vitkus, currently a special assistant to Henry W. Bloch, president of H & R Block, noted that the tax system is expected to be fair and equitable for everyone and as a result, Congress has had to write a complex law.

"There is no way to write a fair and equitable law simply," the IRS veteran contended.

Vitkus defended the tax system and suggested that in spite of the system's imperfections and problems, "it's still the best, in my opinion."

money they can ill afford to lose. "I do not believe bond money should be horsetrack money," he stated. "You just don't buy bonds for performance and speculation."

Brown and others also are critical of the pricing practices of the funds. For some fund holdings, there are few transactions and sometimes no published figures of market place activity. In such instances, a bond's daily value is determined by an informed opinion.

But, says Brown, some of these values might be set much higher than could be obtained on the market if the fund were forced to sell. He believes the fund might not get nearly the price at which the bonds are carried on the books.

Other critics fear that when competition becomes intense the funds might be forced into buying riskier, but higher yielding bonds. The riskier a bond is, the higher return it must pay to those who buy it.

Some critics also speculate that because of the enormous buying power of the funds, more and more issues of questionable pay-back ability might flood the market — issues that might have found few buyers years ago.

But, say the defenders of munifunds, there are always questions about something new, and there are always doubters. In any investment, they say, one must assume risks in order to earn the rewards.

Nobody can deny that these funds are capable of lowering the taxes a person otherwise might pay, they say, and nobody can deny either that with more people moving into higher tax brackets, a tax break is a very real attraction.

He said he met with officials during his career who "came here for one reason. They thought our tax system was the best in the world."

The retired official said it is important for taxpayers to take the time to learn more about filing tax returns and to speak out when things are found that are thought to be unfair.

"The whole idea is to get people to file and to claim all of the deductions they are entitled to," he continued.

Vitkus, who was assistant regional commissioner with responsibility for tax fraud investigative work for the Southeast region at his retirement, said that the IRS recognizes that the vast majority of the public tries to do a good job in filing returns. "But there are a few who do not," he pointed out.

Vitkus said that people should file their own returns if they understand the process but he added that the Tax Reform Act has complicated tax forms this year by creating more difficult computation requirements, schedules and filing procedures.

"I urge everyone to take the time to study the forms carefully and begin filing preparations early," Vitkus said.

One of the problems of taxpayers filing their own returns, he said, is that they fail to take deductions they are entitled to. Problems also arise when ineligible deductions are claimed.

The IRS found that many families failed to take the allowable tax credit last year that provided a $35 credit for each individual filing a return plus $35 for each dependent. A family of four would have had a $140 tax credit.

This year, a new twist in the tax credit procedures allows for a credit of two per cent of the first $9,000 of income. The greater of the two tax credits can be filed, he said.

Vitkus reported that the IRS annually examines some three per cent of all returns and the possibility of a taxpayer being audited is determined by three things. A computer scoring system that applies to each return and indicates deviations from the norm is the most prevalent means of determining audits, he said. The higher the mathematical score as determined by the deviation, the higher the chances for audit.

In addition to the computer score, some returns must be audited as required by law as in the case of higher income brackets, he said. The third criteria for tax examinations is based on random selections, Vitkus reported, but they constitute the least number.

"IRS starts out with the assumption that the return is correct," he noted. "The general public should realize this."

He said that if the taxpayer has proper documentation to back up the return, there is no reason to worry. Careless filing practices create most of the problems, he said.

Ordinarily, if an audit is forthcoming, it will be done within two years of filing. He said that if a person is not called for an audit within the two years, the event of an examination is unlikely.

Vitkus, a graduate of Syracuse University, Magna Cum Laude, joined the IRS in 1950.

Special Tax Tables Helpful To Average Taxpayer

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Actually computing your taxes this year should be easier for most taxpayers after finding out how much taxable income you have.

That's because the new tax law has set up special tables listing the tax bill for taxable income amounts ranging from $4 to $19,999. And that should cover between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of all taxpayers, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Gone, then, for these taxpayers, is the need to compute taxes using a formula that requires multiplication, addition and subtraction skills. For taxpayers with taxable income of $20,000 and above, the formula, known as the tax rate schedule, still must be used.

To use the table, find your taxable income bracket along the left-hand side and then find your filing status along the top. Your tax is the amount that is shown where the income line, reading across, meets the status line, reading down.

The amount shown at that point should be reported in the appropriate box of the 1040 or 1040A.

There are actually several ways to compute your taxes, but most taxpayers will be using the tax tables, the rate schedule or schedule G, also known as the income averaging method.

Don't discount income averaging because it is a little more complicated to use. It could save you a large amount of money.

Averaging may work if your taxable income is up to $180,000 compared to the last four years.

To work out schedule G you will need copies of your returns for the previous four years, which you should have been saving anyway, and copies of the form, which can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Since the rules governing the use of Schedule G, and the formula needed to compute the taxes are somewhat complex, you might want to ask the IRS or someone familiar with this method to help you.

Now that you have determined what your taxes are, the next step is to reduce that amount by $35 for each person claimed as an exemption, or 2 per cent of your taxable income up to $180. This ceiling is $90 for married taxpayers filing separately.

You'll have to make the calculations to decide which method gives you the greatest dollar savings. And remember, the $35 credit does not apply to exemptions taken for being older than 65 or for blindness. It is only applicable to the number of individuals claimed.

Here are examples of how it works.

If you have five exemptions at $35 each, that comes to a credit of $175. But if your taxable income is at least $9,000, then 2 per cent of that comes to $180 and that is the credit you should claim.

If you have four exemptions, the 2 per cent figure will work out better if your taxable income is higher than $7,050. But take the $35-per-person credit if taxable income is less than $7,000.

The only sure way to find out which is best is to multiply your exemptions on line 6d of the 1040 and 1040A by $35 and compare that answer to 2 per cent of adjusted gross income.

This is not the only credit you may be able to use to reduce your taxes.

This year, for instance, if you have qualifying child care expenses, you can subtract up to $400 for one child or $800 for two or more children, dollar-for-dollar from your tax bill after you have subtracted the personal exemption credit.

The child care credit generally is for parents who both work, and to claim it you must file Form 2441.

There also is a new credit for persons over 65 that has replaced last year's retirement income credit. You must file a schedule R and for a couple, both over 65 and filing jointly, it could reduce taxes by as much as $563.

There could be smaller savings for other categories of taxpayers. The amount saved for all depends on adjusted gross income and money received under Social Security and the Railroad Retirement Act.

The reverse side of the form is Schedule RP and is a credit for persons under 65 who are receiving income from a public retirement system. It also can lead to significant savings subtracted right from taxes.

Finally, a third credit that is useful to a large number of Americans is the earned income credit. It's an important one for low-income Americans because it gives them a refund on income taxes even if they did not make enough money to file this year.

Basically it pays 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000. That's $400 and the maximum credit allowed. As income goes up above $4,000, the credit is reduced until it ends at $8,000. The IRS provides a worksheet to help figure the right amount.

In order to claim the credit, however, you must have paid more than half the cost of keeping a home in the United States, in which you lived and which was the home for the entire year of your child who was under 19 years old or a full-time student, or a disabled dependent child.

Also, you cannot claim this credit if you use the married filing separately status.

As in every facet of income taxes, from credits to deductions, to the arithmetic calculations, remember one important fact. If you are confused anywhere along the line, have questions about any area of taxes, the IRS can and is required to provide you with assistance either over the telephone or in person if you visit your nearest IRS office.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Unseasonably cold weather is again forecast for the East with most-ly warm weather continuing in the West. Snow flurries and rain are forecast in the West and snow is due in most of New England. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
After a weak cold front passes across North Carolina tonight a high pressure system centered over the western Gulf of Mexico will control the state's weather through most of the weekend.
Skies will be mostly sunny but it will remain cold through Saturday, with little change in temperatures in sight for Sunday.

An exception to the sunny skies will prevail in the mountains where snow flurries were forecast for today and tonight. And there's a chance of some precipitation Sunday over the western portion of the state.

High temperatures today were expected to range from the 20s in the mountains to the 30s elsewhere, while lows tonight are expected to drop to around 10 in the mountains and range to the mid 20s on the Outer Banks.

A low pressure disturbance moved out of the Midwest Thursday, and while it weakened as it crossed the North Carolina mountains, it managed to scatter snow along the way.

The accumulation was one to three inches across the mountains but generally was one inch or less over portions of the Piedmont.

The snow dwindled to meager flurries eastward to the Coastal Plain.

Low temperatures this morning included 10 in Raleigh, again one of the coldest reporting points. Asheville and Charlotte had a low of 13 degrees, Greensboro had 14 and Wilmington's low was 22.

High readings Thursday, reflecting continued moderation of this week's frigid weather, included 38 at Wilmington, 37 at New Bern, 33 at Raleigh and Charlotte, 32 at Greensboro and 29 at Asheville

Drove Off In Patrol Car

BURNSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 13-year-old Burnsville youth was arrested Thursday after he allegedly stole a Highway Patrol cruiser, which resulted in a chase and damage to two other vehicles.

The unidentified juvenile reportedly took Trooper T.L. Adams' cruiser from a Burnsville shopping center parking lot Thursday afternoon, Patrol Sgt. Don Revis said.

Revis said he observed the theft and gave chase in his car on U.S. 19 toward Spruce Pine.

Responding to a radio call, Trooper C.D. Thomas operated a "running road block" in front of the juvenile driver.

Thomas' car was struck in the rear by the stolen vehicle, which then swerved off the roadway and rammed an unoccupied vehicle.

Damage to the three vehicles was estimated at $4,200. The youth was arrested and charged by juvenile authorities with larceny of a Highway Patrol cruiser and numerous traffic violations, Revis said.

Sentencing Yoshimura Feb. 22

By TONY LEDWELL, Associated Press Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A "disappointed" Wendy Yoshimura remained free on bail today after a jury reached a last-minute compromise verdict in her weapons and explosives trial that could send Patricia Hearst's last underground roommate to prison for 25 years.

New Comic

Beginning Monday, "Frank and Ernest," a comic strip by Bob Thaves, will appear each day in The Daily Reflector.

The cartoon involves two pals who get into widely varying new and funny situations.

The story might involve Frank getting on a multi-deck air liner and saying, "Could I have a seat in the lower section of the plane? I'm afraid of heights."

Another has one of the two characters looking distraught and commenting, "Now I wish I hadn't taken that memory course . . . I can't forget 1976."

"Frank and Ernest" is good for a chuckle every day, and it can be read at a glance.

The comic strip will make its first appearance in The Daily Reflector in the comic section on Monday.

Jurors, who had planned to quit deliberations after Thursday night, deadlocked on a charge that could have brought Miss Yoshimura a life sentence — that of possession with intent to injure people and destroy property.

"I'm very disappointed in the verdict, but I'll be okay," the 34-year-old defendant told reporters after the verdict, which stemmed from her rental of a Berkeley garage that police raided as a bomb factory in 1972 — years before she encountered Miss Hearst.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich refused a prosecutor's motion to revoke Miss Yoshimura's $25,000 bail, which had been collected by the Japanese-American community here. Pulich said he was "impressed" by the community's faith in the defendant, adding "I don't think she will break that trust."

Defense attorney James Larson expressed disappointment, but pledged an immediate appeal. "We will continue to fight in every possible way to overturn this verdict," he said.

Prosecutor Jeff Horner said he may seek a new trial on the disputed charge, on which the panel declared itself hopelessly deadlocked after more than 44 hours of deliberations spanning six days.

Foreman Robert W. Loge, drawn and exhausted after 11 straight hours of deliberations, told Pulich there was "no possible way to reach a decision" on the charge. Pulich declared a mistrial on the deadlocked count.

Miss Yoshimura was arrested with Miss Hearst in San Francisco in September 1975. She had fled and dropped out of sight within hours after police raided the Berkeley garage in 1972.

The judge said he would decide at time of sentencing on a hearing date on five contempt of court citations lodged against Miss Yoshimura for refusing to testify about her time in the underground, some of which was spent with Miss Hearst and Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

Miss Hearst, now free on bail, has been convicted on federal charges of armed bank robbery stemming from a 1974 heist with members of the SLA who had kidnaped her 10 weeks earlier.

The prosecution contended during Miss Yoshimura's 13-week trial that she conspired with antiwar radicals to bomb military buildings and rented the garage as a workshop and armory.

The defense claimed Miss Yoshimura rented the garage to store personal belongings but that her boy friend, William Brandt, was responsible for the arsenal.

'Too Much' For Man In Charge

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An Iowa legislative subcommittee was considering a $460,000 appropriation for a work incentive program when the man in charge of the program said he didn't want that much.

Social Services Commissioner Kevin Burns said Thursday that the program doesn't need more than $360,000, but he forgot to tell the governor, who included the higher figure in his budget askings.

Subcommittee co-chairman Berl Priebe, D-Algona, said he was delighted to discover the $100,000 savings, which he said proves the truth of his slogan: "You gotta watch 'em all the time."

BURLEY SALES
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky burley tobacco prices averaged $114.40 per hundred pounds at 17 of the state's 30 markets on Thursday.

FOUND GUILTY — Wendy Yoshimura, once a sister fugitive of Patricia Hearst, is comforted by a friend after she was found guilty of illegally possessing a weapon and explosive, but the jury was unable to reach a verdict on a charge that Miss Yoshimura possessed an explosive with intent to injure people or destroy property. NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today in an uninspired showing after a three-week slide since New Year's.

Trading was moderate. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off .84 at 958.19. Gainers held a 6-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Meeting Place

FRIDAY 7:30 p.m. — Redmen meet
SATURDAY 1:30 p.m. — Dupl. late bride gowns at First Federal.
SUNDAY 7:00 p.m. — Welcome Wagon couples bowling at Hillcrest Lanes.

Analysts noted a subdued atmosphere in the wake of the Dow's 45-point slide from New Year's through the close on Thursday.

The latest disappointment was the market's failure to put together a hoped-for inauguration Day rally Thursday. Mead Corp. topped the active list, down 1/4 at 20. A 100,000-share block traded at 20 1/2.

Texaco lost 1/4 to 28. On Thursday the company reported that its fourth quarter earnings showed a 3.9 per cent rise from the last three months of 1975.

Heublein, under selling pressure all week following the company's estimate of lower fourth quarter profits, dropped 1/2 to 30 1/2 in active trading. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .04 at 55.97 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 20 to 111.20.

However, the participants agreed that Anglicans, including Episcopalians in the United States, have not been able to accept some Roman Catholic concepts of the extent of papal authority, such as infallibility in defining faith and morals. Official action on the document was considered years away.

Brother Might Face Brother When Bucs Take On Tar Heels

By WOODY PEELE

It could come down to brother against brother in the water when East Carolina and North Carolina meet on Sunday in Chapel Hill in a dual swimming meet.

John Tudor of Greensboro is a sophomore middle distance swimmer for East Carolina, while his brother, Louis, a junior, is a sprinter for North Carolina. They will not meet in their individual events, but they could come down to the final 400-yard freestyle relay and find themselves on the blocks beside each other.

"I think I'd be a little scared if I looked over and saw him and knew that I had to beat him to win it," John said. "I'd like to see him do a good time, his personal best, in his event, but I'd still like to see him come in third behind our guys."

Tudor and his brother got into swimming in their home town, where community swimming teams are the vogue. "I was about seven years old when I started. I think my brother started about the same time, but I'm not sure."

Neither of the boys' parents have a background in swimming, however.

Tudor's usual events are the 200 and 500-yard freestyle events, although he does swim the 200-yard individual medley. In fact, his 200 yard time earlier in the year was ranked 12th in the nation. "I prefer the freestyle events. But when I do swim the IM, I really have to work hard in the free, the back and the fly (butterfly). I'm not very strong in the breaststroke."

Tudor is a business major at East Carolina, and is considering a career in accounting. Out of the pool and away from the books, he enjoys tennis and golf.

Tudor feels that the Pirates just might be overlooking Richmond, which comes in Saturday for a meet. "But I really don't feel that Richmond thinks they can beat us," he said.

So he's really looking forward to the Carolina meet and the one with State which follows on Tuesday. "I think if I can turn in a good time against Carolina, I'll really be up for State, so I'm hoping for my best."

Tudor feels he has an outside chance of breaking into the nationals this year. "I'd like to be All-American before I finish college," he said. "You have to finish in the top 12 to get that ranking. If I keep improving like I've been so far, I should make it by my senior year."

It may not take that long, according to Coach Ray Scharf. "If he keeps on going like he's done so far, he just might make it this year."

Bucs In Tourney

CHARLOTTE — East Carolina University will be one of the participating teams in the First Union Invitational Basketball Tournament, to be held next December, it was announced last night.

The Charlotte Jayees, First Union National Bank and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte will sponsor the tournament, expected to be an annual affair. It will be held December 9-10, 1977, with UNCC as the host team. Besides East Carolina, the other teams involved will be Boston College and LaSalle College. Pairings for the event will be announced later.

Tickets will be available in the fall from Charlotte area First Union National Bank branches and at other locations.

The tournament was conceived by the Jayees in late 1974. Actual planning began in early 1975, which resulted in the signing of a contract with UNCC in October, 1975. Representatives of the Jayees met with officials of First Union recently and received the Bank's commitment to cosponsor the tournament.

"We are proud to join with the Charlotte Jayees in cosponsoring this annual basketball tournament," Harald R. Hansen, senior vice-president and Charlotte City executive of First Union said. "We believe that this tournament will make a significant contribution to the city of Charlotte."

The tournament will be held in the Charlotte Coliseum.

Lady Bucs Bow Again

RALEIGH — N. C. State University's 15th-ranked women's basketball team rolled to a 93-72 win over East Carolina last night.

State outshot the Lady Pirates 49 per cent to 38 per cent for the game and took a 52-38 lead at the half. State's scoring was led by Christi Earnhardt with 14 and Genia Beasley and Sherri Pickard with 12 each.

East Carolina's Debbie Freeman led all scorers with 31 points, hitting 14 of 28 from the field. Gail Kerbaug scored 23 for the Lady Bucs.

East Carolina is now 0-10.

East Carolina Faces Tough Week In Water

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University swimming coach Ray Scharf might be excused if he's seen checking the calendar during the latter stages of this week. It's one of the biggest weeks his Pirate team has had in a long time.

Saturday at 1 p.m., the Pirate tankers will be playing host to former Southern Conference foe Richmond, a team that has never bested a Pirate squad. Then, on Sunday, the Pirates face the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, and on Tuesday, they'll be in Raleigh to meet N.C. State.

Scharf's activities are just part of the Pirate sports calendar, which gets underway tonight when the East Carolina wrestlers play host to Appalachian State at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Saturday, the Pirate track team goes to North Carolina, while the gymnastics team is at Madison, and the basketball men are at VMI Monday, the cagers go to Furman, then return home on Wednesday to host powerful Old Dominion.

Also on Tuesday, the winless Pirate women basketballers play host to Elon.

"Richmond comes so close to North Carolina, that it could be dangerous for us," Scharf said. "We'll be trying to save something for that meet the next day. And we have to be careful about looking past Richmond."

The quirk in the schedule, putting UNC right after Richmond and just before State came when UNC had to ask the Pirates to change the meet from an earlier date due to the extended Christmas holidays at Chapel Hill. "It is a bad time to have them, but it was a question of swimming them now or not at all, and we prefer to swim them," Scharf said.

The coach rates Carolina as a better team than Maryland a team the Pirates beat last Saturday in a stunning upset. "They were second in the ACC last year, and they pushed State. And they're always up for us," Scharf said.

"It's going to be a real test for us," he added. "Carolina doesn't have electronic timing, and this will be an advantage for them, giving them more of a home pool edge. We have to swim well, and we have to gain a psychological edge to win."

The Pirates have been bothered by some illness to three team members, Doug Brindley, David Kirkman and Joe Kuschy. They've also had no heat in the pool area this week.

"I felt good going to Maryland," Scharf said. "And I feel good about this week's meets. We have a good group, and we don't want to lose. But sometimes you can do well and still lose. If we do get beat, however, it will be because someone had a better team."

Chargers Win First Match

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton got a forfeit and a default victory in the final two matches of a wrestling match last night and pulled out the first victory of the year for the Chargers. They beat Wilson Fike, 37-26.

Ayden-Grifton took the lead early in the match and held it until the 187-pound class when Wilson took a one-point lead. But at 197, their wrestler had to bow out with an injury and Wilson had to forfeit the heavyweight class, giving the Chargers their first win in 13 matches.

Ayden-Grifton won seven of the 13 weights, including three forfeits. The Chargers took one match by a pin, while Wilson

The Pirate wrestlers face their first league competition of the year in Appalachian State.

"Appalachian is a much improved team," Coach John Welborn said. "They've got a junior college national champion on the squad and another who placed fifth. It will be a good test for us."

The Pirate runners, going against South and North Carolina in Chapel Hill, saw only four points separate the three teams last year.

"I expect it to be every bit as close this year," Coach Bill Carson said. "We're good in sprints, UNC is good in distances and USC is good in field events."

won two on falls.

The Chargers are idle until February 2, when they travel to Washington.

Rocky Mount Tops Rampettes

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount High School's girls rolled to a 51-28 victory over Rose High School yesterday. It was the seventh straight loss for the Rampettes.

Rocky Mount eased its way into a 10-8 lead in the first period of the game. The Lady Gryphons then inched further out, outshooting Rose, 15-9, in the second quarter, for a 25-17 halftime lead.

For the rest of the way, Rocky Mount was in complete control. The Gryphons outshot Rose, 15-5 in the third period to run their lead out to 40-22. They finished off Rose with an 11-6 advantage in the final quarter.

Neal led Rocky Mount with 15 points, while Powell picked up 12. Sheryl Taylor led all scorers hitting 16 for Rose.

The Rampettes play host to Bertie on Monday.

The former California Golden Seals are playing in the National Hockey League this season as the Cleveland Barons. And the old Kansas City team is now the Colorado Rockies.

leader in the league, hitting 62.2 per cent, while Bynum (57.6) and Carter (55.0) follow him.

Hunt leads the Pirates with a 12.1 average, while Jim Ramsey is the only other Buc in double figures at 11.3.

Monday, when the Bucs face Furman, they'll be going against the top scorer in the league in Bruce Grimm, hitting 25.4. Jonathan Moore is hitting 19.6, and Jim Strickland, 14.4. Moore also leads in rebounding with 11.6 per game.

"I still think we have a shot at a home berth for the first round of the tournament," Patton said. "And I think that by tournament time, we'll be rounded out into a good team."

East Carolina University's Pirates face the task of picking themselves off the floor and going into the House of Horrors Saturday night.

Following their embarrassing performance in the 79-54 loss to William & Mary, the Pirates find that they have no chance to catch their breath, but instead must dive headfirst into VMI's "Pit," rated as one of the worst places to play a basketball game in the country — unless you are a VMI player.

"I told the team after the game (W & M), that if they thought they had been intimidated in great big William & Mary Hall, wait until they got into the Pit," Coach Dave Patton said.

As to William & Mary, it was a game that Patton would just as soon forget.

"They jumped all over us right at the start and we didn't respond to it. I don't think we're mature enough yet to get over our successes and realize that the sun will rise again the next day and that we've got to work hard then to get ready for our next opponent."

Patton added that the play of the Indians was the best he's seen this year, and the best he's seen from any William & Mary team. "Still, it's hard to judge how good they were because we played so poorly," he added.

"We've got to be patient, go back to the grass-roots and not lose confidence in ourselves and believe in what we're trying to do," the coach said.

The coach called the game a prime example of Murphy's law: "Whatever can go wrong, will."

"There was no area of the game that we played decent. What bothered me most was that we backed off. We lost our aggressiveness of last Saturday. We played like meek little lambs. If it wasn't for (Larry) Hunt, it would have been worse than it was," Patton said.

"I just hope it was an example of youth and experience."

Things get no better for the Pirates as they invade VMI tomorrow, then travel to Greenville, S.C., for a Monday night meeting with Furman University. "And to top that off, we have to come home to Old Dominion, the toughest team on the East Coast, or at least the coast east of Raleigh," Patton said. "And if Carolina or State were to play Old Dominion in Norfolk, I wouldn't take bets."

The coach added that he still believes in the game. "VMI can't put the defensive pressure on us that William & Mary did. They'll put a lot of offensive pressure on us, however. But I look for a zone from them because of the poor way we've been shooting. Also, not many teams rebound them, and I still can't get over the way William & Mary backed us off the boards."

VMI, of course, tops the conference standings, unbeaten in league play. They lead the conference in team defense, allowing 63.9 points a game, and in field goal shooting with 53.0 per cent. Going into last night's game at Richmond, the Keydets were 12-1 on the year.

Ron Carter leads their scoring with a 20.3 average, while Will Bynum is hitting at a 16.3 clip. John Krovic is at 12.8, and Dave Montgomery at 12.0. Montgomery is the field goal shooting

Rampants Down Rocky Mount

Rose High School's wrestlers continued to dominate Division I opponents last night as they pounded Rocky Mount 40-25.

The Rampants won eight of the matches, while Rocky Mount took five. Four of the Rose wins came on forfeits, however, while just one came on a pin.

Rocky Mount's five included three pins.

Cliff Hagan upped his unbeaten mark to 15-0, as did James Cherry. Jesse Baker went to 13-1, Johnny Harris to 12-1-1, and Rocky Butler to 13-2.

The Rampants return to action on Monday, hosting Washington.

Dons Defeated—But It Won't Count

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

Maybe it was the home court advantage.

It apparently helped a California-based group called Athletes in Action because the team upset the University of

College Roundup

San Francisco, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, 104-85 Thursday night at its home court in Anaheim, Calif. AIA's previous 364 games in its 9½ years of existence were on the road.

But these college basketball graduates now playing for the sports arm of the Campus Crusade for Christ recently found a home at the Anaheim Convention Center after all those years of away games. The game was an exhibition, so the NCAA will not count it against the Dons, who boast a 19-0 record against college opponents.

"Well," said an AIA spokesman, "We didn't have much of a following for the first nine years, and we didn't think we could afford to play any home games."

A crowd of 6,715 saw Tim Hall, Irv Kiffin and Ralph Drollinger lead AIA, which claims it plays the toughest amateur schedule in the nation, to its 24th victory in 30 games this season.

Meantime, fifth-rated Michigan beat 19th-rated Purdue 82-76 and 16th-ranked Arizona downed Utah 102-98 in games involving other Top Twenty teams Thursday night. Athletes in Action got 20 points from the 6-foot-8 Hall, from Colorado State, and 18 each from the 6-9 Kiffin, from Oklahoma Baptist, and the 7-2 Drollinger from UCLA. Drollinger challenged San Francisco's 6-11½ Bill Cartwright and hit seven of 10 shots from the field, most of them 15-foot jumpers. AIA outrebounded the Dons 50-37.

AIA takes on seventh-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas next week — at home.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr has found out the hard way that he may be right in claiming he has the best three guards in the nation.

When Rickey Green, the Wolverines' star guard, suffered a back injury with 7:36 remaining against Purdue, Orr called on Dave Baxter. The 6-foot-2 junior from Detroit responded with 10 points in the last 6:13, helping Michigan to a home court Big Ten Conference triumph. Green twisted his back while scoring on a fast-break layup that put Michigan ahead 69-59 and was listed as a questionable starter against Illinois Saturday.

It was Michigan's 12th victory against one loss and made the Wolverines 5-0 in Big Ten play.

Green was Michigan's leading scorer with 22 points while Phil Hubbard scored 19 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. Baxter finished with 14 points.

Herman Harris scored 35 points, 23 in the first half, as Arizona tripped Utah for its 29th straight home victory. Utah rallied from a 19-point deficit and trailed 99-96 with one minute left. But Harris tossed in three points for the Wildcats, 13-2 over-all.

In another Western Athletic Conference game, Arizona State beat visiting Brigham Young 86-84 in overtime on James Holliman's goal with three seconds remaining. Mark Landsberger topped ASU with 25 points. BYU's Mark Handy bagged 21 points.

Stretch Gregory's short jumper with 10 seconds left gave Wisconsin a 61-60 victory over visiting Northwestern and its first Big Ten conference triumph, snapping a five-game losing streak. Gregory led the Badgers with 15 points while Billy McKinney topped Northwestern with 29.

Greg Kesler's 24 points led host Michigan State 67-58 over Illinois, which got 20 points from Rich Adams. Spartans Coach Jud Heathcote benched his starting team for about five minutes in the first half, a move he claimed sparked his team to victory.

David Thompson tallied 22 points and Carlton Byrd 21 in Florida State's homecourt 97-74 win over South Florida, raising the Seminoles' record to 9-7. It marked the 20th coaching victory for FSU Coach Hugh Durham.

Robert Scrutchens scored 22 points as host Creighton overwhelmed Rockhurst 79-62, boosting its record to 13-2.

Eddie Jordan returned to his hometown of Washington, D.C., and helped Rutgers, 10-4, top George Washington 87-84 with a late steal and layup. Hollis Copeland scored 23 for Rutgers. Charlie Brent poured in 22 second-half points to power Wichita State, 11-4, over Tulsa 68-48 in a Missouri Valley Conference contest at Wichita.

In other games, Virginia Military defeated Richmond 88-70; New Hampshire stopped Boston University 76-70; Wisconsin-Milwaukee routed Centenary 82-61; Utah State coasted over Denver 94-81 and Pepperdine beat Loyola of Los Angeles 69-57.

N.C. State's upset win over the University of North Carolina only served to prove that no one can look past the next game.

The Tar Heels were on their way earlier in the week. They had beaten Clemson, Wake Forest and Duke and looked like a sure winner the rest of the season. They were high in the polls and were challenging for the top spot.

But then came Raleigh and the two-point loss to the Wolfpack. It is hard to get through any conference without a loss. But apparently, it is impossible to get through the ACC without one.

East Carolina University's Pirates went from their high of the year to the low of the year in just a few nights. Last Saturday, they looked like they had finally put it all together and needed only some polish to become one of the better teams in the league.

But following Tuesday night's embarrassing showing at William & Mary, the Pirates looked like they might not win another game.

And things get no easier for them. Tomorrow night, they go into the worst place to play anywhere, VMI's "pit." From there, they travel to Furman for a Monday night game, returning home on Wednesday to host tough Old Dominion.

Davidson, which comes in on Saturday, may look like heaven to the Pirates after all that.

Hopefully, the Pirates will get themselves back on track before next Saturday night. Otherwise, even Davidson could be trouble.

And the East Carolina swimming team has no easy week either. The Pirates entertain Richmond in a Southern Conference meet on Saturday.

Then, on Sunday, they travel to Chapel Hill to face North Carolina, and on Tuesday, they are in Raleigh to meet N.C. State's highly regarded Wolfpack.

The Pirates upset Maryland last weekend, but to come through these three unscathed would be akin to a miracle.

We pause here to hand the prize to Joe Jenkins for his victory over us all in the Football Poll during the past grid season.

Jenkins went 8-4 during the final Bowl Game card to finish the slate with a 95-45 record. We didn't even give him too much grief over picking Dallas to win the Super Bowl.

Barbara Mathews finished second at 92-48, followed by George Holland and Tom Baines at 91-49. Holland was the only one to pick Oakland to win the Super Bowl. Jack Whichard was 90-50 and we finished 88-52.

Better luck to all next year.

Arnie's Partner Jobless Amateur

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hubert Green has the lead with a spectacular 65. Tom Watson is one pop back. Jack Nicklaus is in the hunt.

But, in the golfing extravaganza that is the $200,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, they had to take a back seat to an unemployed, 18-handicap amateur who — so far at least — hasn't helped his partner a single shot.

"I don't know where my partner was," Arnold Palmer said with a twinkle in his eye, "but he didn't help a bit."

His partner, one Gerald Ford, was airborne at that moment Thursday afternoon, enroute from the inauguration of Jimmy Carter in Washington to the spectacular beauty of the Monterey Peninsula. He was scheduled to play in the second round today — his first full day as an ex-president — as Palmer's amateur partner in the pro-am portion of this unique competition.

And they had their work cut out for them today on the Shore Course at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

"To make the cut," Palmer mused after a long look at the scoreboard, "we're going to have to go about nine under each of the next two days."

The 168 teams of a pro and amateur play one round on each of three courses — the Shore, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach — before the field is cut to the low 30 teams for Sunday's final round at Pebble Beach.

With Ford unavailable for competition Thursday, Palmer's individual total at Cypress Point had to count as the team score, which normally is computed on a better-ball basis, including the amateur's handicap. Palmer shot a shoddy 74. While the 47-year-old Palmer was having his problems in his first start of the season, Green took advantage of the unusually good weather to humble proud Pebble Beach with a seven-under-par effort that was just one shot off the course record. He would have had that but for a three-putt from 15 feet for his only bogey.

The tournament which traditionally offers wind, rain, cold and sometimes sleet and snow, produced hazy skies with mild temperatures and just a hint of a breeze.

"It's a fun course to play in weather like this," said Watson, a former British Open champion who had a shot at the title last week in the Tucson Open. He holed one bunker shot for an eagle three on the way to a 66, also at Pebble Beach, that left him just one stroke out.

Mexican Victor Regalado shot a four-under-par 67 at the Shore course, which also produced 68s from Gene Littler, Tom Kite, Billy Casper and Don Bies. Bill Rogers has a 68 at Cypress, probably the toughest of the three layouts.

"I've never seen Cypress set up tougher," said the favored Jack Nicklaus, who opened his season with a solid 69 at that course.

Wellcome, Grifton Split

Wellcome Middle School's team number 2 split a pair of games with Grifton yesterday, winning the boys' game, 46-37, and losing the girls' game 30-23.

Tracey Adams scored 12 points for Grifton to lead them to the girls' win, while Greg Briley had 18 and Cleveland Perkins 12 to pace Wellcome in the boys' game. Andre Rasberry led the Grifton boys' team with 13.

Farmville, Bethel Split

BETHEL — Farmville Middle School defeated Bethel 25-15 in the girls' game yesterday, but Bethel came back to take the boys' contest, 66-40.

The Farmville girls were led by Etta Gorham with 8 while Rogerson hit 7 for Bethel.

Ricky Dixon hit 20 for Farmville in the boys' game while House scored 22 and Pittman 16 for Bethel.

Awards Banquet Held At Annual Boys Club Event

WILLIAM BATTLE — (left), a seventh grader at Agnes Fullilove, smiles with pleasure on being named "Boy of the Year" at the annual banquet of the Boys' Clubs of Pitt County. With him are his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Battle and Boys' Club Executive Director Chet Emerson

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Seventh grader William Battle, a student at Agnes Fullilove School, was awarded the coveted Boy of the Year trophy at the annual Boys' Clubs of Pitt County awards banquet held at the Moose Lodge on Thursday night.

Battle, son of Mrs. Myrtle Battle, was cited for his leadership qualities, his work at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, and for the high grades he has maintained at Agnes Fullilove.

Vernice Edwards, 1975 winner of the Boy of the Year Award, presented the award for 1976 to Battle.

Presiding over the festive annual get-together of boys, directors and friends of the Boys' Club, outgoing president Bobby Hall paid tribute to Assistant County Manager Ward Parker for his untiring efforts in making it possible for the Pitt County Boys' Club to secure financial assistance through government grants.

Touching on highlights of 1976, Hall said "the biggest step forward the past year was the purchase of land. Now we have to work out how to put something on the land." He also mentioned being able to employ a much needed staff and the summer camp program as other 1976 highlights.

In addition to Executive Director Chet Emerson, the Boys' Club for the first time in 1976 had a full-time staff consisting of Matthew Ward, program director; Debbie Good, educational director; Norma Hughes, Arts and Crafts Instructor; Carlos Dawson, Games Room Supervisor; and Larry Parks, East Carolina University fieldworker.

A brief resume of activities during the calendar year of 1976 reveals a membership of 261 boys in the Greenville club and 137 boys in the Bethel Club, with an average per day of attendance of 84 in Greenville and 54 in Bethel.

At the Greenville club, facilities available for the boys are a games room, an outdoor area, arts and crafts, a woodshop, a library and television room, and group clubs.

The Bethel club, a newer one than Greenville, has games room and an outdoor area.

The operating budget for 1976 totaled $71,724.79, with sources of revenue coming from the United Fund, $23,000; contributions $16,150; government grants, $32,000; and membership dues, $302.

Five members of the Boys' Club Karate Club provided a special program of entertainment with a demonstration of karate tactics. The five: Scotty Chase, Vernice Edwards, Terry Williams, Ricky Valentine, and Donald House performed under the direction of their instructor, Jimmy Lewis.

Other activities at the annual banquet included the presentation of new directors — Mary Ann Howard, Ken Harrell, Cecil Mizelle, Wilson McDowell, John Dilday and Leroy Smith.

Three boys — Scotty Chase, Darryl Teel and James Daniels, spoke briefly on "What the Boys' Club Means to Me."

Officers for 1977 were recognized. The slate consists of Ted Gartman, president, W.B. (Buff) Chalk and Doug Hill, vice-presidents; Henry Dunbar, treasurer; and David (Etsil) Gordon; treasurer.

Speaking on challenges for 1977, Gartman said that together, the boys, the directors, and the community all together are "ready to move to another level, that of shared responsibility." After mentioning plans for a study for future needs, Gartman noted "hopefully, we know where we're going for the next three to five years, and we have a rich resource to draw from, the people of our area."

Mrs. Cade Will Speak Monday

North Carolina's Conference president of United Methodist Women Mrs. Clarence Cade will be guest speaker at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Monday, Jan. 24, at 10 a.m. in the Chapel, under sponsorship of Jarvis' UMW Executive Board.

Mrs. Cade, a graduate of Florida State University with a degree in Housing Economics Education and Chemistry, will use as her topic the 1977 Conference theme, "Getting In Touch." She plans to tie into her talk five conference goals and their implementation plans to the purpose of United Methodist Women.

She will be introduced by Mrs. David J. Middleton, Jarvis' UMW vice president. All interested persons in the community are invited to attend. A nursery will be provided for preschool children.

Mrs. Cade's career in working with Methodist ladies has been full and varied. She has served as local WSCS president of Fayetteville's Methodist Church for three years, district secretary of Spiritual Growth, district vice president and district president. She became conference vice president in 1973 and began her second year as conference president this year.

In addition, Mrs. Cade has served on the conference Commission on Religion and Race and as Assistant Dean of Conference Leadership.

A Florida native, she is married to a retired military man. They are the parents of two children and are making their home in Fayetteville. Also a special guest at Monday's meeting will be Mrs. T. Marvin Vick Jr., of Raleigh, conference vice president.

Mrs. J. C. Whitehurst Jr., Jarvis' UMW president, will preside. A devotional will be given by Mrs. Jack C. Wynne III, Jarvis' missions co-ordinator for Christian Personhood.

An organ prelude will be rendered by Dr. David Foster, minister of music of Jarvis Church. He will also accompany the group in singing.

The public is invited to attend these services.

Chaplain Saw Symbols Of A Covenant Nation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The trappings of a presidential inauguration symbolize qualities of the United States that led the late U.S. Senate chaplain Peter Marshall to call it a "covenant" nation.

That term, "covenant," in its original Biblical sense, means a compact between God and people in which God promises guidance in justice and right while the people, in turn, are obligated to pursue those ideals in community life.

"So help me God," the presidents down through the years have invoked at the conclusion of their oath of office to uphold the nation's purposes. The phrase implies that sense of duty to a higher superintendence.

As the centerpiece of that national ritual, threaded with prayer, rededication and lofty aspirations, presidents traditionally have used the great, oldest book of God's dealing with humanity — the Bible.

In recent times, they've added a personal touch to the occasion by providing cherished, old family Bibles for their swearing-in.

For President Jimmy Carter Thursday, the book was an aged, but well-preserved family Bible that had been handed down through his mother's line of ancestors for 150 years.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale took the oath on a pulpit Bible that his father, a Methodist minister, had used in congregational worship in Minnesota. Mondale himself now is a Presbyterian.

Until the late 19th century, it was the task of the clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court to provide the Bibles for the inauguration ceremonies. But Grover Cleveland, in 1885, broke that tradition by bringing along a Bible given to him by his mother.

Use of family Bibles has been common since then, but not uniform. Franklin D. Roosevelt used a Dutch family Bible in 1933. Harry S. Truman in 1949 used two Bibles — both of them long-time family possessions.

Varying from that 20th century custom, however, Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1953 used the same Bible, nearly two centuries old, that the first president had used when he took the oath of office in 1789.

In Washington's case, after taking the oath, he bent over and kissed the book.

On the flyleaf of the Bible on which Thomas Jefferson took the oath in 1801, he recorded in small handwriting a page-long list of his favorite Scripture texts.

Generally, the Bibles used have been the King James translation of 1611, the main Protestant version until recent times. The first inaugural use of the long-prevalent Catholic translation, the Douay version of 1582, was by John F. Kennedy in 1961.

Lyndon B. Johnson, who succeeded the assassinated Kennedy, had his wife, Lady Bird, hold the Bible at his oath-taking ceremony.

The Pessimists

They say New York is going down the drain! Our rivers and our lakes are polluted, and the cost of living is astronomical with inflation sweeping through the land... too much apathy... dwindling hope.

All of this makes a miserable picture.

Are we going to let it go at that? Apathy is the nasty word. Apathy about ourselves, about our government, about our future, about our church. Insidious apathy which works like a cancer, destroying.

Are we going to settle for it? Or are we going to start in our own town, our own home, our own church, and do something about it?

Why not listen to those bells next Sunday? They're ringing for you.

Ten-Year-Old Reporting On All You Need To Know On Inaugural

EDITORS: The 10-year-old son of Associated Press Science Writer Brian Sullivan received his own invitation to the inauguration of President Carter. He came, and here, in his words (and his spelling) as he wrote them longhand, is his report.

By CRAIG W. SULLIVAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first thing that happened at the inauguration was the marine band played a few songs. A black chorus sang a couple of songs after that. Then the speaker of the house said a few words. The black chorus sang three songs. The were, Hail to the chife, Hooray for the red white and blue, and America the Buautiful. The Inauguration took place at the Capitil. The Capitil had a statue at the top of the building. It looked sort of like the statue of Liberty. There were a couple of policemen at the top of the building. At noon Walter Mondale was sworn in. At twelve o two Jimmy Carter was sworn in.

In about the begining of September I wrote to Jimmy Carter. I got a postcard responding back. Then on December 29, 1976 I got an invitation to the Inauguration. That's how I got to be here. After both Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale got sworn in, some cannons started shooting bomb sounds. Around the middle of the inauguration the wind started to blow. It got bitter cold. After Jimmy Carter got sworn in he made a speech he told about what he was going to do and some things about the ford family and some other things.

On our way to the Capitil for the Inauguration they were setting up for the '77 Inauguration parade. I saw Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale in the parade. There was an inormus crowd at the Inauguration. The crowd was all around the Capitil back yard grounds. On my way up to the Capitil I walked past some very nice buildings.

It was a very long walk. After the Inauguration we walked a little ways looking for a cab but we couldn't find any. We ended up walking all the way back to the Hotel. The Inauguration was a great experience for me. I liked it very much.

Yale University Learns Hard Lesson In A Fraud

By JACKSON diehl
For The Associated Press
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The application of Andrea Alrea painted him as just the sort of scholar and gentleman Yale would like to educate. But as it turned out, Alrea taught Yale a lesson.

He pulled off one of the biggest hoaxes in the history of the 275-year-old Ivy League university. Fourteen months ago the 21-year-old San Bernardino, Calif., resident sent Yale an application that described him as a multimillionaire businessman, he said Thursday.

He claimed to have founded a chain of luxury hotels in Alaska, to have marketed business machines in South America, and to be fluent in seven languages — including an Indian dialect no longer spoken. Added to this alleged youthful success, he said, were a near-perfect transcript from a prestigious California high school and glowing recommendations from teachers and business executives all over the Western hemisphere.

Admitted to Yale's class of 1980 last April, he was heralded in the school newspaper as one of the outstanding students in the class.

On Thursday, the youthful whiz went to Yale's dean of admissions, Worth David, with a confession: everything in his records at Yale, from transcript to business interests, was total fabrication.

His real name, he said, is Patrick Michael McDermitt, he remodels houses and does odd jobs for a living, English is the only language he speaks, and he has not attended school for five years. He said he spent about $15,000 to carry out his hoax.

Dean David said his reaction was "alarm, distress and surprise." He refused to verify McDermitt's claims of what was in his folder because of Yale's policy on student records. But he did say he believes it was the first time Yale had admitted a student whose records later were discovered to be forged.

The dean said that because McDermitt has withdrawn from the university, Yale does not plan to take any action against him "other than to ensure that he is never able to reapply to Yale again."

Said McDermitt: "I did it on a dare. I just figured I was smart enough to get in. So if they didn't want me as I was, I'd come in as somebody else."

In addition to paying his tuition, he lived in one of Yale's residential colleges and was attending class in an honors course for freshmen. At the end of the fall term in December, McDermitt officially withdrew.

"He stayed until he came to the point of sitting down to finish his first paper," said a roommate. "Then he decided he had carried it far enough."

Recruiting Honors For Sgt. Haddock

SFC Marlon Haddock

Sergeant First Class Marlon Haddock, a recruiter in the U.S. Army Recruiting Office in Greenville, has been named top recruiter for the 53-county area of eastern North Carolina.

In winning this honor, SFC Haddock is the first to qualify for entry in the "International Race of Champions," which is part of the "Raleigh 500," a program to enlist high school senior males for the Army's Delayed Entry Program or on active duty prior to May 31, 1977.

In this program, recruiters received points for the number enlisted. SFC Haddock within a 90-day period enlisted 33 high school seniors into the program. Among this group are a senior class president and a Junior ROTC Battalion Commander.

A veteran of 16 years in the Army, SFC Haddock is the holder of numerous awards and decorations including the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Medal, and the Vietnam Service Medal.

He has been a recruiter in Greenville for three years, and has been awarded numerous plaques and trophies for his recruiting accomplishments.

Surfer's Ear Is Added To List

CHICAGO (AP) — Surfer's ear now joins bowler's thumb and tennis elbow in the list of physical problems faced by active athletes.

This ailment is described by Dr. Daniel M. Seftel of the Stanford University school of medicine in the January issue of the Archives of Otolaryngology, published by the American Medical Association.

Surfer's ear, known technically as hyperostosis, is a bony growth inside the ear canal. Seftel says that if the growth becomes large enough, it can plug the ear and impair hearing.

He reports that he has seen an increasing number of cases of surfer's ear in the past five years, having operated on 18 ears in 12 patients between 1972 and 1976.

The problem, which requires surgical removal of the growth to correct, may be avoided, Seftel said, if surfers wear custom-fitted, molded ear plugs.

COULDN'T WAIT — Former President Ford who will play in the Friday round of the 36th annual Bing Crosby tournament in Pebble Beach, Calif. couldn't wait to get out on the golf course after arriving Thursday from Washington. Photographer Dave Milton of the San Jose Mercury-News caught him chipping on the practice green of Monterey Country Club. (AP Wirephoto)

Gerry Ford Has Adopted New Priority

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Private citizen Gerald Ford, who suddenly has a new set of priorities, is setting out "to get my golf game in shape" on his first full day out of the presidency.

Ford was partnered with Arnold Palmer in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Tournament here today after relinquishing the nation's highest office to Jimmy Carter.

As he flew from Washington to Monterey, Calif., after the Carter inauguration Thursday, Ford said he thought he had prepared himself well for the swift switch in power.

"We certainly took the attitude that our time had ended and President Carter's time had begun," Ford said, "and I said to him that we wished him the very best, that I was available to help."

But he said that his leaving-taking was poignant anyway, and that he was moved when Carter began his inaugural address by thanking Ford on behalf of the nation.

"I thought it was good, I thought it hit the right tone," he said of Carter's inaugural address. "I naturally was very grateful for his opening comment and his very kind remarks."

Ford had spent 28 years in Washington as congressman, vice president and president, and, after the ceremonies, he asked his helicopter pilot to circle the city once before taking him to the airport.

At the airport he wiped away a tear or two as he climbed aboard the Boeing 707 that had been designated Air Force One whenever he boarded it as president.

"I don't deny I got a little sentimental," Ford said, "but tried not to expose it, to keep it within myself."

For about 10 minutes Thursday, as they rode along Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House to the Capitol, Ford and Carter chatted.

Because they had battled each other in the election, the subject of the chat might have been intriguing, but Ford said, "It was mainly just very nice pleasantries, small talk."

The former president said that he and Carter are friends, and that he will refrain from criticizing Carter for some time because "I'm going to be busy, he'll be busy, and I wish him the very, very best as he takes on some tough responsibilities."

Beginning with his State of the Union address last week, when he added a tantalizing "maybe" to a sentence that said it was his last speech there, Ford has implied he might seek office again.

"We've got a lot of things to do between now and then," Ford said Thursday. "I just want people to do a little thinking and speculating. I don't want anyone to move in and pre-empt the field without thinking they'll have a challenge from an old-timer who's got the good spirit."

Betty Ford said, "The only time that I really felt emotionally, perhaps upset was when we left the Capitol" where the inauguration ceremony was held.

"After all, Jerry and I were married in October (1948) and he was elected in November and our whole married life has been spent at the Capitol," she said.

Eisenhower. When his turn came, Eisenhower privately described the incoming John F. Kennedy as "that boy." Lyndon B. Johnson was proper but no more than that as Nixon prepared for office.

This transition was different, and it was Ford's doing.

"I wanted the new President to get off to an easier start than I had," Ford said.

It was part of the job. Yet never had an incumbent of one party done so much to assist the victorious candidate of the other. Carter said the cooperation was unprecedented.

While Franklin D. Roosevelt awaited inauguration, he shunned the defeated Herbert Hoover. Harry S. Truman wouldn't ride to the Capitol with President-elect Dwight D.

Courtroom Laugh OK'd

DENVER (AP) — A police officer can laugh, the Colorado Court of Appeals has ruled, even if it throws a defendant off guard.

Gilbert G. Maestas lost an appeal Thursday of his conviction for second-degree burglary and conspiracy. He had been apprehended outside a Denver meat warehouse by two officers responding to a silent alarm. A companion was arrested nearby inside a car.

In the car were several boxes of meat which the warehouse manager confirmed had been taken from his plant. On the way to jail, Maestas was mystified by one officer's mirth and asked the policeman why he was laughing.

The boxes, the officer explained, contained beef rennets, the inedible rectal tissue of butchered animals used only in curing cheese. Using the English vernacular, the officer told Maestas he had stolen 1,200 such body parts.

"If I go to jail for stealing 1200 (such body parts) I'm really going to be mad," Maestas replied.

That statement was used in court and helped convict Maestas. He appealed, arguing that his remark was obtained illegally because he was thrown off guard by the officer's laughter.

History Is Already Regarding Ford Role In Favorable Light

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford left town saying that history will treat his presidency kindly. It already is.

In an extraordinary moment, President Carter began his new administration with a tribute to his vanquished Republican rival.

"For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all that he has done to heal our land."

Applause, then cheers, for the loser, who leaves an uncommon legacy.

Denied in his quest to win the presidency for himself, Ford said in his last days that his greatest satisfaction was the restoration of trust and confidence in the White House he held by appointment.

Ford the President has been eulogized as the man who restored decency to the White House, but it was more than that.

That almost surely would have happened had another man succeeded Richard M. Nixon, who was not, after all, a hard act to follow.

A mere absence of scandal and wrongdoing was not enough to regain the trust shattered by two years of Watergate.

To the task of restoration, Ford brought a special gift, for he was an ordinary man, who never pretended otherwise. A better politician would have made a worse president for his time.

Here was a man who bumped his head sometimes, and tripped, and gave dull speeches, and couldn't pronounce the name of Sen. S. I. Hayakawa even when campaigning for him.

But he said he'd do his best. What the job demanded, he tried.

With Ford, what you saw was what you got, and that inspired trust. Even those who challenged his programs and questioned his competence could not find grounds to assail his motives.

His workaday style in the tasks of the presidency was never more evident than in the 2½ months that followed his narrow defeat by Carter, as Ford sought to smooth the transition of power to his Democratic successor.

agencies say requests for assistance have gone up as the temperature has gone down.

"My, yes, it's worse than usual," said Barbara Randleman, welfare secretary for the Salvation Army in Winston-Salem.

"It's worse because people on fixed incomes didn't expect it. They bought 50 gallons of oil and now they're all out and can't afford any more."

She said her agency expected "a full house" of 36 persons Thursday night in the Salvation Army's facilities in Winston-Salem.

Provisions had been made to place other persons in Red Cross facilities if the Salvation Army space ran out.

John Montgomery, welfare director of the Salvation Army in Charlotte, said the men's residence hit its full capacity of 24 earlier this week.

That situation was "certainly unique," he said.

"We've had more people seeking shelter, and we've given out about double the usual amount of clothing this week," Montgomery said.

"The agencies reported that clothing and money for fuel were in demand by people who were not looking for shelter.

"We're trying to see 40 people a day and most of the cases deal with heating problems," said Mrs. Myers of the Crisis Assistance Ministry in Charlotte.

"We're spending far more on utilities than any other item. I just looked at one day last week and we spent a total of

Bill To Kill State Board

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly has received a bill that would abolish one of the newest of the state's 37 licensing and regulatory boards.

Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, prefled Thursday a bill that would repeal the law creating the North Carolina Board of Examiners for Speech and Language Pathologists and Audiologists.

The board examines and licenses speech and language pathologists and audiologists. A speech and language pathologist evaluates and treats persons with speech and language problems, and an audiologist evaluates hearing of persons and does a variety of rehabilitation and habilitation activities.

"It comes as news to me," said Dr. Mariana Newton, chairman of the board and director of the speech and hearing center at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, on being told of the introduction of the bill.

She said that Davenport had once represented a person who had problems with the board. She said she did not recall whether the person eventually was licensed or not. Davenport was not available immediately for comment.

Dr. Newton said she was "kind of surprised" at the bill "because I don't know whether the board was doing a good job or not."

She said the board has licensed 396 persons in speech and language pathology and 52 in audiology. She said it had also issued 31 temporary licenses of which five had become permanent. She said many speech and language pathologists and audiologists work in the public schools, some practice in clinics and hospitals and some may practice privately.

Other legislative actions included:

FIRE WARDENS
The House passed unanimously a bill that would add county fire wardens and county civil defense directors to the list of officials who are permitted to use red lights and sirens on their cars.

BUILDING PROJECTS
Rep. Edward Holmes, D-Chatham, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, filed a bill that would permit several units of the University of North Carolina system to erect a number of building projects without state appropriations. The institutions would be allowed to finance the projects with gifts, grants, receipts, special funds, self-liquidating bonds, or other funds.

DEATH PENALTY
Six persons representing the Raleigh Alliance Against Racist and Political Oppression, conducted a demonstration against the death penalty on the sidewalk across the street from the General Assembly. Rep. Henry Frye, D-Guilford, a foe of the death penalty, crossed the street to talk to members of the group who were bearing placards. A bill that would restore the death penalty in North Carolina for murder and rape is now before a House judiciary committee.

CBer Given Prison Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The operator of a citizens band radio has been sentenced to a year in prison on charges including the broadcast of indecent language.

U.S. District Judge William E. Steckler said he believed Lewis L. Simpson, 31, of Indianapolis, was one of the first persons convicted on such a charge.

A jury found Simpson guilty of one charge of using indecent language and six charges of operating a CB radio without a license.

Witnesses testified that transmissions by Simpson, who used the handle "Sly Fox," were received on televisions, radios and telephones in his neighborhood. He operated the radio at home, officials said.

Estimate Now 14 Million Jews

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's Jewish population now is estimated at 14,145,000, says the 1977 edition of the American Jewish Year Book. The figure represents a year's drop of 86,000.

The volume, issued jointly by the American Jewish Committee and the Jewish Publication Society of America, puts the number of U.S. Jews at 5,845,000, more than in any other nation.

After the United States, countries with the largest Jewish populations were listed as Israel, 2,953,000, Soviet Union, 2,680,000, France, 550,000, Great Britain, 410,000; Canada, 305,000, and Argentina, 300,000.

No Charges In Car Collision

No charges were placed in connection with a 2:45 p.m. collision here yesterday near the intersection of Tenth and Elm Streets involving cars driven by Burnice Allen Padgett of Washington and Joan Beattie Eaton of 100 Fireside Dr.

Officers estimated damage at $300 to the Padgett car and $100 to the Eaton vehicle.

Security Action Said Indiscreet

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Arlanda International Airport's new $102 million passenger terminal — inaugurated Oct. 30 — will be remodeled because security clearance is too indiscreet, police said.

Airport staff said the checkpoints were too open and that it had become almost a public pastime to watch travelers being frisked.

DISTRICT ELECTION

Pitt Lodge No. 234 will be the host of the Third District Election Sunday at 3 p.m. All fellow eldcom are invited. Dinner will be served.

MEET SATURDAY

The members of Strong Jewels will meet at Mount Herman Lodge No. 35 Saturday at 12:30 p.m. with president Sandra Herrell. Uniforms will be white dresses and black shoes. Mrs. Oscar Rogers and Mrs. Mildred Hardison will supervise.

FLOES INSTEAD OF FLOWING — Ice has not only covered Yadkin River near Salisbury; it is piling up as new floes come down the river and collide with ice already jammed up. Old-timers say

Yadkin has frozen over, but it is not as bad as the freeze that made the river a road of solid ice in the 1880s. (AP Wirephoto)
