

Unemployment Rate Sees Sharp Decline

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate declined sharply in January to 7.3 per cent, down from 7.8 per cent in December, with the improvement largely attributed to an unexplained decline in the labor force, the government said today.

Labor Department analysts said the severe winter weather across much of the nation may be partially responsible for the decline in the labor force. But they said the full impact of the weather on the nation's job markets probably won't show up until the job figures for February are compiled.

Government estimates of the number of Americans forced out of work by the weather range as high as 1.5 million, but nobody knows for sure.

The January unemployment rate was the lowest since last May, when it also was 7.3 per cent, the lowest it's been since the 1974-1975 recession.

The Labor Department said the jobless rate declined for almost all categories of the nation's labor force, and gave the following breakdown for January:

—Adult men, 5.6 per cent, down from 6.2 per cent in December.

—Adult women, 6.9 per cent, down from 7.4 per cent.

—Teenagers, 18.7 per cent, down from 19 per cent.

—Whites, 6.7 per cent, down from 7.1 per cent.

—Blacks and other minorities, 12.5 per cent, down from 13.4 per cent.

—Household heads, 4.8 per cent, down from 5.1 per cent.

—Fulltime workers, 6.7 per cent, down from 7.5 per cent.

—Blue-collar workers, 8.4 per cent, down from 9.6 per cent.

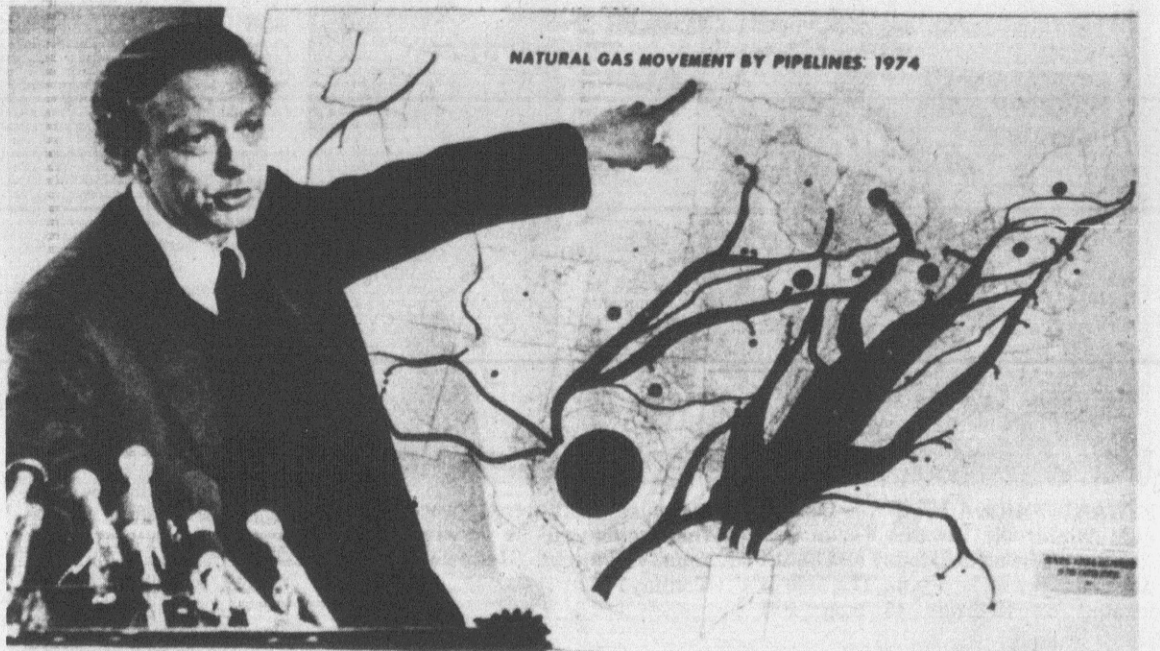

Over-all unemployment declined by 560,000 to 7 million workers. Total employment climbed only slightly, up to 88.5 million from 88.4 million in December.

A Labor Department analyst said most of the decline in unemployment resulted from a 440,000-drop in the nation's labor force, which he said defies a complete explanation at this time.

"Personally I'm not willing to say it was from the bad weather, or people getting discouraged and dropping out of the labor force or anything else," he said. "It could be some of that, but it's too early to know."

Although the January employment statistics were gathered before the full impact of the winter had been felt across much of the nation, analysts said a drop in agricultural employment during the month could be the result of bad weather.

The number of farm workers declined more than 150,000 to slightly more than three million in January.

Construction Of New Center In E. Greenville Okayed

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Approval was given by the City Council last night for the construction of a Joint Recreation-Library Center in East Greenville on property adjoining the Jaycee Park.

The Council, after holding a public hearing on the proposed complex, also approved the appropriation of some $349,600 in Revenue Sharing Funds for construction of the facility.

William Friend, architect for the project, explained that the new facility will involve some 10,500 square feet and will be located on part of a 6.7 acre tract. He noted that a ball field and tennis courts are already located in the area adjacent to Eastern Elementary School. Parking will be provided for 300 vehicles.

W. J. Simmons of 1407 E. Wright Road told the Council that he did not want and could not see the need for an auditorium and office space "in the middle of the largest pure residential area in the city." Simmons said that the auditorium would be a detriment to the area.

He said that when a map of Greenville is viewed, "it's easy to see why it is said that Greenville was not planned, it just happened."

Support of the new facility was voiced by Phil Carroll, who represents owners of property that abuts the city-owned property. Carroll called the plan "outstanding" and said it is needed in that section of town.

William M. Smith, also a resident of E. Wright Road, asked that the trees be left on the rear of the property at Reedy Branch as a natural buffer.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath said that one of the reasons for proposing the facility in the area is the school. She said the joint facility should complement the school.

In approving the construction, the Council authorized the city to advertise for bids for the new facility.

In other business, the Council voted three to two to rescind an ordinance adopted last August providing for four-year staggered terms for Council members. In rescinding the ordinance, the previous terms of office as existed prior to the action last year were reinstated, providing for two-year terms for six members.

Council members William Hadden, Mrs. McGrath and Clarence Gray voted in favor of rescinding the staggered term ordinance and Dr. Frank Fuller and John Howard opposed the motion. Joe Taft Jr. was absent and Mayor Percy Cox did not vote.

The Council also gave its approval to a Tree Ordinance prepared by the Environmental Advisory Commission chaired by Dean Painter. Howard said that he had examined the proposed ordinance and was "quite satisfied with it." The Councilman also offered his thanks to Painter and his committee for their work in preparing the document.

The ordinance regulates the planting, maintenance and removal of trees in the public right-of-way, parkways and other city-owned property. In addition, it establishes the position of city arborist and sets standard arboricultural specifications and practices to be used for the protection of existing and future trees in the city.

E. B. Chester, representing Greenville Cable Television Co., gave the Council a status report on the cable television system for Greenville. He reported that the company is meeting federal requirements in preparing for the new system and application

4-Day Week For City

Authorization was given Thursday night by the City Council for the closing of city hall on Fridays and implementation of a four-day work week for city hall employees.

City Manager Jim Caldwell reported that the city has considered various alternatives in trying to meet the energy crisis hardships and it was his recommendation that city hall be closed one day per week.

Under the new schedule, which starts Monday and involves Friday, Feb. 11 as the first closing day, only city hall would be closed and employees who work at the facility would be affected.

City hall, it was noted, heats with gas and is the only city facility, with the exception of the Fire Station, to utilize gas for operations.

Caldwell was given authorization to close city hall and other city facilities as he sees fit. Other facilities will remain open for now, it was pointed out.

Critics Unfair: Judge

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Judge Robert W. Johnson of Statesville feels that he is being unjustly criticized for his part in the proceedings that enabled John W. Wilson to get out of jail on bond and kill his wife, her mother and himself.

Johnson said Thursday that he believes the criticism he has received is unwarranted because it is based on incomplete information about his decisions to reduce Wilson's bond and later not to revoke it altogether when Mocksville policeman B.A. Foster asked him to.

Johnson reduced the bond from $10,000 to $4,000 after Wilson attempted to shoot his wife Dec. 17, but he said he would have not done so if all the facts about the case then available to the district attorney's office had been given to him at the hearing.

He said he would have complied with Foster's request if he had realized the gravity of the situation. "At the time, I felt that I ought to have a little bit more information," the judge said.

Foster made his request in a telephone call to Johnson Jan. 25.

Three days later Wilson, 32, killed his estranged wife, Mrs. Judy Diggins Wilson, 32, and her mother, Mrs. Lucille Couch Diggins Hall, 52, and then took his own life.

Wilson was released on Dec. 20 after posting the $4,000 bond.

When he was arrested Dec. 17, officers found in Wilson's motor vehicle a handwritten "will" scribbled on the back of an agreement to buy two cemetery plots. In the will, Wilson made it clear that he intended to shoot his wife and take his own life.

Johnson said this information was never mentioned to him by Asst. Dist. Atty. George Fuller during the bond hearing. "If I had known about that, I would have never considered reducing the bond in the first place," he said.

New Wellington B. Gray Gallery Inaugurated

Speight, artist; Edith Walker, director of the Greenville Art Center; and Dr. Francis Speight, dean of eastern North Carolina painters.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The inaugural show of the spacious new Wellington B. (Bud) Gray Gallery at East Carolina University last night saw a capacity crowd streaming in from the moment the doors were unlocked at 8 p.m.

Townspiece, out of area people, students, and faculty members were all part of the hundreds of people on hand trying to see the large faculty exhibit featured as the gallery's first show. "Tonight, you can't see anything but people, I'm coming back to see the show later," one young lady was overheard remarking to her companion.

For Dr. Gray, modern gallery is in one way a 20th anniversary reward for two decades of directing a growing art school in cramped, inadequate quarters. Dr. Gray first came to ECU 20 years ago.

"We have been waiting for this gallery since 1956 or more specifically since 1959. Back at the time when we were getting information, material ready for bids on the new art building, we were told by the architect that we had to lose several hundred thousand dollars on the original estimates.

"He suggested cutting the gallery space. 'No way,' I told him. 'If nothing else we're going to have a gallery so that we can have some place worthy of the art we have available to show.'"

The Wellington B. Gray Gallery, located in the recently completed east wing of the Leo Jenkins Fine Arts Center, is, according to Gray, "the largest in all of eastern North Carolina and is perhaps the largest in North Carolina with the exception of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh."

He expressed a hope that the gallery will in the future prove to be the scene of art activity for a large area. "We hope this will truly become an active gallery, a center not just for the townspeople and the university faculty and students, but one that will play a vital role in eastern North Carolina, for the state of North Carolina and eventually for a tri-state area."

Such a mission, however, Dr. Gray pointed out, cannot be accomplished without overcoming a number of problems. "The main problem now and I'm sure it will be a continuing problem," he noted, "is that of financing the activities at the gallery. We're going to need financial support for operations, for such things as money for shipping shows in and out, for insurance, and all the other expenses connected with maintaining a good run of shows."

New Hours At Some Offices

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray, after meeting with department heads this morning, said the Health Department, the Extension Service, the Department of Mental Health and the Department of Social Services will be closed Monday and observe a 10-hour four day week, in keeping with Gov. Jim Hunt's energy conservation proposal.

Gray said Health, Mental Health, the Extension Service and Social Services will operate from 7:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. He noted that some employees of those departments will be on call to handle emergency situations.

Other county departments, Gray said, will operate as usual.

He noted that the schedule change was done on a "building by building" basis "moving to the four-day week in cases where an entire building could be closed."

Gray noted that since the court house would have to be heated for the operation of the district and superior courts, that county offices in that building would operate on their regular schedule.

The county manager noted that thermostats in all county offices have been cut back to 62 degrees and all unessential lighting cut out.

HOTLINE APPEALS

HOME BURNED

The mobile home of Billy and Connie Clark at Circle Y on the Pactolus Highway burned Monday. Everything in it was lost.

The Clarks, both of whom work at Fieldcrest Mills, and their son, Billy Jr., 16 months, are staying with Clark's mother, Mrs. Helen Clark, until they can find another place to live.

Anyone having gifts of clothes or household items for the couple and their child may call them at 752-3970. Mrs. Clark wears size 14, her husband, size 30 waist pants, and their son, size 3. They would appreciate anything given them, and would pass on to someone else in need anything receive which they cannot use. They also would appreciate hearing about any prospects for a place to live that might be within their budget.

REFRIGERATOR NEEDED

Pat Keel of the Pitt County Department of Social Services has asked Hotline to appeal for the donation of a refrigerator to a Pitt County family.

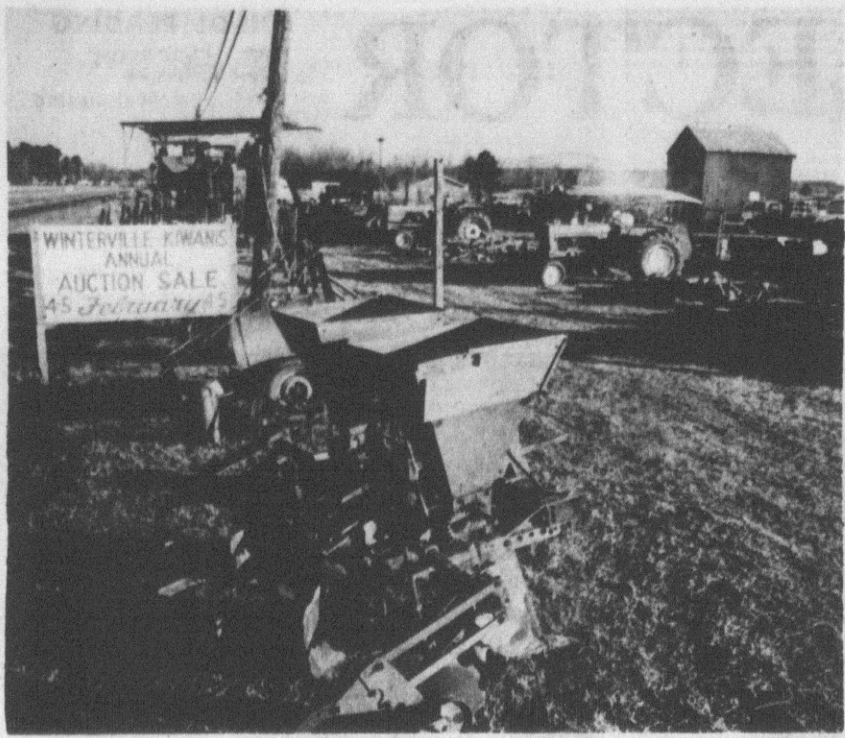

Ms. Keel said this family has five children, aged two to nine, who have been shown by Health Department investigation to be malnourished. She and a Social Services homemaker have been working with the parents to teach them what kinds of food they and the children must eat to protect their health, but many perishables, of course, cannot be kept without a refrigerator. The father of the family is a seasonal farm worker and does not have the money for the purchase of this appliance.

Anyone having a refrigerator to give may call Ms. Keel at 758-2167.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

NO EARMUFFS!

Hotline's appeal brought no response as to where earmuffs might be purchased. However, we did hear from some readers anxious to know if we had found a source. Apparently there is a demand, and the ear warmers need to be brought back. We'd still like to hear of a source if perchance someone who knows one missed our first appeal.

Migrants In City Council... N.C. Said On A Treadmill

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of migrant laborers who work in North Carolina can't get off the seasonal treadmill because they're too far in debt to their field bosses, state officials report.

William Shites, executive director of Migrant and Seasonal Farmworkers Association of offices in three states, said 16,000 migrant workers came into North Carolina in 1976.

"Shites said in a television interview that state officials provided job retraining or emergency assistance to 9,416 of them.

But he said only a small percentage were able to take advantage of programs designed to give them a skill, farm-related or otherwise.

"A lot of them would like to come out of the migrant mainstream, but many are unable to do so," Shites said.

Often, he added, they owe field bosses for things like $2 breakfasts and suppers, $1 sandwiches for lunch, 75 cents for cigarettes and $2.50 for pints of wine.

"They start off broke, and usually end up broke," Shites said. "It's that way at the end of the season."

Shites said his office helps migrants to learn farming skills, if that's what they want to do.

"We are not trying to pull the migrant off the farm unless he wants to come off," Shites said. "If a person desires to learn an agricultural trade, we'll pay them $2.30 an hour while they go to technical schools tuition-paid. If he wants to become a welder we will train him for that."

Shites is also in charge of migrant offices in Virginia and Maryland.

Gray Gallery...

Dr. Gray is optimistic that the gallery will become a vital part of the North Carolina art scene. Already, he revealed, plans are being made for two big shows in the autumn of 1977 — the annual North Carolina Watercolor Society show, and the annual Carolina Designers Craftsman Show. Another show on the drawing board is one for a prominent out-of-state artist. The annual ECU graduate show will be another of the exhibits to be mounted in the modern, flexible gallery.

"Let me add," he said, "that our waiting has been rewarded and all of us at the university are proud of this fine gallery. And you can spell that capital P-R-O-U-D."

has been made for FCC certification. In addition, sites are being considered by the company for the location of a tower for the system, he said.

Chester said that the company hopes to have federal certification by the middle of the summer and would hope to start construction of the system in the fall.

Approval was given by the Council to a five per cent cost of living increase for city employees as provided in a revised pay plan which received board endorsement.

Budget amendments, including provisions to handle the cost of living increase, were approved. Included in the series of amendments was an ordinance amending the Community Development budget.

Other items taken up by the Council included:

Approval of a resolution authorizing the mayor and city clerk to execute an agreement with Seaboard Coast Line Railroad covering the widening and improvement to the Dudley Street crossing in the West Meadowbrook project;

Authorization for the mayor and city clerk to execute a grant of easement to Greenville Utilities Commission along Arlington Boulevard to be used for street lighting and utility services;

Approval of contracts with Certified Public Accountant firm of Worsley, Farley and Prescott Inc. for the audit of the city's financial records for the 1976-77 fiscal year;

Approval of an application by Fred Webb Inc. for renewal of a permit for the mobile home located at 1405 N. Greene Street and used as a grain inspection office;

Tabling of an application by Ed Fleming for renewal of a permit for the mobile home at 1604 S. Greene Street and used as a personal residence;

Approval of applications for taxicab operator's permits by Howard Earl Pritchard and Robert Glenn Edwards;

Approval of four Traffic Commission recommendations calling for removal of parking on the east side of Elm Street from North Overlook Drive southerly as far as necessary to alleviate

Second Public Hearing Held On Community Development

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The second required public hearing in the city's application process for receiving $1.9 million in federal Community Development Program funds was conducted Thursday evening by the City Council.

The hearing was held in order to comply with federal regulations from the Department of Housing and Urban Development as part of Greenville's third-year participation in the program.

City Manager Jim Caldwell explained prior to the hearing that of the $1,909,000 entitlement for the city, some $1,000,000 is already committed to continuing projects from previous CD participation, leaving a balance of $829,000 available for new projects.

Caldwell noted that the city is giving "serious study" to some type of connector street to tie in the Central Business District to the new hospital. He reported that a number of alternatives are being studied and involvement with the State Department of Transportation will be sought in the project.

In addition, ways are being considered to ease traffic congestion on Dickinson Avenue.

During the public hearing,

Donna Whitley, representing the Higgs Neighborhood Association, reported on the activities of the organization and requested that the city consider an arrangement whereby the West End Fire Station facility could be used for a meeting place. Construction is underway on a new fire station for the area and the present Chestnut Street facility will be vacated.

Ms. Whitley said that the association, which meets on a regular basis, also requested that the CD funds be used to provide more lights for the neighborhood, as well as for street paving and housing rehabilitation. She thanked the city for improvements it has made in the neighborhood under the federal program.

Phil Dixon, appearing on behalf of the Greenville Jaycees, said the Jaycees were willing to work with the city in making the fire station facility a community building. Dixon said that the chapter is also interested in improvements in the Town Common area, particularly in the boat launch area.

Dixon proposed extending the paved area of the Town Common down to the river, construction of an adequate boat launch facility, provision of a picnic shelter and fishing pier, and landscaping with trees and shrubs. He asked that the city consider the project in allocating CD funds.

J. T. Bunch read a statement from A. B. Whitley proposing the extension of Farmville Boulevard "from its present wide point to Reade Circle." In the statement, Whitley also offered reasons why Chestnut Street and Dickinson Avenue should not be made into two one-way pairs for the relief of traffic and also discussed the proposed route of extension of Farmville Boulevard to Reade or W. Fifth Street. In addition, Whitley asked that the city consider the widening of 14th Street by five feet from Chestnut to Farmville Boulevard.

Sidney Skinner proposed the widening of Chestnut Street and asserted that improvements on Chestnut would not involve taking as much property as on Dickinson Avenue. He said that, "regardless of what you do to Dickinson Avenue, you will still have a bottleneck at the underpass."

Skinner said that Dickinson needs fixing, but if it is not improved, Chestnut Street would be a good alternative.

Proposals for CD funding in the West Greenville community were submitted by John Bizzell, who asked that recreational improvements, lighting, street work, and drainage be considered by the Council.

Bizzell said that at least four tennis courts are needed at the West Greenville Recreation Center, as well as kitchen and cooking facilities and a cultural arts program.

Bill Burt, chairman of the new area Chamber of Commerce highway committee, said that the Chamber wants to be sure that what is done in the area of street work in the city is accomplished in the best interest of all citizens.

Mary Taft of the Greenfield Terrace area appeared before the board and said that since the January hearing, the residents of the area had revised the floor plan for a requested recreation center from a 30 foot by 50 foot structure to a 60 by 42 foot building. She also restated requests for sidewalks in the area, street lights, improved drainage, and a fence around the playground area.

W. A. Heath Jr. requested that a portion of the CD funds be used for work on Fourth Street in the vicinity of Hilltop Street.

Mayor Percy Cox told the gathering at city hall that several workshops will be held to discuss the CD funding and he assured the audience that "we will stretch the money as far as we can."

Normal hours have been from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Under the new four-day schedule, the office will be open an additional two hours each day.

Midgett said that the action is pursuant to Gov. Jim Hunt's recommendation that all state agencies operate on a four-day work week to help alleviate the energy crisis.

The manager added that the office has been offering income tax assistance on Mondays and under the new schedule, those people wishing assistance in filing income tax returns should contact the local revenue office on Tuesdays as opposed to Mondays. The office number is 758-2342.

How To Get Kids To Visit Grandma

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear mother who lives about an hour's drive away. She's blind, but very cheerful and mentally alert. I phone her every day. She lives with a housekeeper and loves to have company.

When she had her sight, she couldn't do enough for my children. She sewed for them, bought them gifts and always made sure there were goodies in her house. Now the children are teenagers, and I have to beg them to visit their grandmother because it is so "boring" there, there's nothing to do there, etc.

My husband and I visit her as often as possible. We realize that our kids are involved with friends and activities, so we don't expect them to accompany us on every visit, but is it too much to expect them to visit her once a month?

They read your column daily, Abby. I can bet my bottom dollar that you'll agree with me, but if the kids hear it from Dear Abby, maybe they'll realize that Mom and Dad are right.

ASKING

DEAR ASKING: Your children are old enough to realize that it's a mark of maturity to do things (without whining) that aren't particularly fascinating but are well worth the effort because of the pleasure it gives others. Visiting grandparents falls into that category.

A suggestion for youngsters who resist visiting elderly relatives because it's "boring": Interview the old folks. Ask questions about relatives who preceded you, how things were back in the "olden days." You'll learn some interesting facts, and you'll find that those visits will be rewarding to you and the old folks.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year-old girl and my problem is I'm flat. My mother thinks that if a girl is flat, she shouldn't wear a padded bra because it's like false advertising. I have a part-time job, so I bought myself a few padded bras, and when my mother saw them, she went berserk! She took the bras back to the store, said they were the "wrong kind" and got my money back.

Abby, being flat-chested really bothers me. When I can afford it and I'm on my own, the first thing I'm going to do is get silicone implants.

In the meantime, I'd sure appreciate if you would back me up and say that some girls wear padded bras so they'll look better in clothes and not as "false advertising." Thanks.

PLENTY OF NOTHING

DEAR PLENTY: I'm on your side. I'm also behind you concerning what you don't have in front of you. Lotsa luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a directory assistance operator in Pittsburgh, and until I started working for Bell Telephone I didn't know there were so many rude, inconsiderate and thoughtless people in the world.

In the first place, wouldn't you think a person who wants to have a telephone number would have sense enough to have a pencil in his hand when he calls? No way. They call us FIRST, and then ask us to wait until they find a pencil.

Also when we ask them how to spell a name, they will say, "If I knew how to spell it, I'd find it myself!"

When we do find a number, do they say, "Thank you"? No, they just slam down the receiver!

One more thing, Abby. Will you please ask adults NOT to ask their very young children to call for them? One thing that drives a telephone operator up a wall is a kid who cannot be heard or understood.

Even if this doesn't make your column, it did me a lot of good just to be able to get this off my chest.

PITTSBURGH OPERATOR

DEAR OPERATOR: Glad to oblige. It's time someone gave a little recognition to that vast faceless army of unthanked heroes and heroines.

By DAVID DUGAS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Acting looks so easy when Glenda Jackson does it — easy and fun. So it came as a blow when she said how hard it all is.

"Acting is extremely difficult and anybody who tells you different is a liar," she said, her commanding voice simulating a rap on the knuckles. "It requires a great deal of concentration and a great deal of sweat."

"I don't know who said genius was 90 per cent perspiration and 10 per cent inspiration. I'm not saying all actors are geniuses — or indeed that I am — but you don't arrive at a performance by a magical process. You arrive at it by sheer day-after-day slogging."

"It can often be an extremely boring business, at least in the theatre. If there is any pleasure in it, which I think is doubtful, it's like when you stop beating your head against the wall."

Miss Jackson, a two-time Oscar winner who's never worked a day in Hollywood, is a glutton for head-against-the-wall punishment. With six big screen roles in the past couple of years, she is on her way back to the London stage in a new play.

She was spending a week "running ragged" in New York to publicize one of her new films, "The Incredible Sarah," a costumed extravaganza about that flamboyant Grande Dame of the French theatre, Sarah Bernhardt, whose performances on and off the stage made her an international legend.

Glenda, her red hair in a David Bowie cut and her slender figure in a velvet slack suit the color of her Dunhill cigarette box, admitted she didn't spend a lot of time researching the incredible Sarah.

The film takes Bernhardt from age 18 to her early 40s, leaving out the later years when she performed around the world with a wooden leg and made some early movies.

"I started to read her own book but she was a consummate liar," Glenda said. "And various friends and acquaintances who'd written about her also were telling less than the truth, I found. So I just concentrated on the script. The stories were just incredibly confusing so I thought, Oh well, get on with it."

Perhaps a dozen old two-reel films of Bernhardt exist and, while Glenda hasn't seen them, she did look at a 1912 movie with the 68-year-old Bernhardt playing Queen Elizabeth under a mountain of pearl necklaces.

"There was one golden moment where she gets the news that Essex is a traitor and she decides he's got to be executed," Glenda said. "She fainted with her eyes going heavenward and fell onto these very strategically placed cushions — and bounced, very gently."

One scene in "The Incredible Sarah" shows Bernhardt panicked with fright on making her Paris stage debut, playing the minor role of a housemaid. In her early days the actress not infrequently fainted dead away. Glenda said she knows the feeling first hand.

"I always suffer from stage fright. The more you do, the worse it gets. It's always a horrible feeling. I used to be that I just got petrified with fear on first nights. Now it happens every performance. I loathe it."

"From about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, it's like going to the dentist. A black cloud descends when you realize that you have to go to the theatre."

"Of course once you're on the stage you don't have time to indulge yourself in quite that way. It goes immediately because you have to concentrate. But it is an extremely painful process and really a horrible thing to go through."

She doesn't buy Spencer Tracy's classic observation that an actor's only concerns are remembering the lines and not bumping into the furniture.

"It's never the technical things like forgetting lines. I mean you do, and it usually happens to me on stage. You get one of those blank moments and you think, I don't know what I say next. Then you open your mouth and of course you do know."

"So it's not that. It's really that you have no way of knowing what makes the performance. It is an absolute mystery. You know when it isn't there but there's no way of automatically summoning up that ability. So every time you do it it's like doing it for the first time."

Glenda has yet to pass out on stage in the Bernhardt tradition.

"I've been ill and gone on and had spots before my eyes. I've never fainted. I've wished I could!"

Miss Jackson voices the ritual complaint that good film roles for actresses are scarce. Rather than stay at home, she has plunged into one picture after another these past two years, gloriously hoping for the best.

She played an obsessive mother superior in "The Tempter" (temptingly titled "The Devil Is a Woman" in America), filmed in Rome. Then came "The Romantic Englishwoman" with Michael Caine and Helmut Berger, and films of Jean Genet's "The Maids" with Susannah York and Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" which got her another Oscar nomination a year ago.

She has just completed "Nasty Habits," based on Muriel Spark's wickedly funny book "The Abbess of Crewe," a satire about Washington's Watergate scandal set in a Catholic convent. Glenda plays Richard Nixon to Melina

The Schools Do Need Money

The Pitt commissioners have reaffirmed their support for a bond issue to provide facilities for the Pitt County and Greenville City Schools.

The commissioners had earlier suggested a bond issue as a solution to the pressing school problems and things seemed headed that way.

The city school board was receptive to the idea; however the county board of education voted against requesting a bond issue for the county school needs.

That is where the matter stands as the county commissioners and the city school representatives met Tuesday night.

There seemed to be full understanding among the commissioners that the bond issue is needed. Commissioner Bruce Strickland said a bond issue "must and will pass when people understand what the needs are. The other commissioners agree with me on this."

That has long been the case in Pitt County. Our citizens have to be convinced there is a need before they will vote for bonds. Once the need is shown, however, the funding has been provided by the voters, even in hard times.

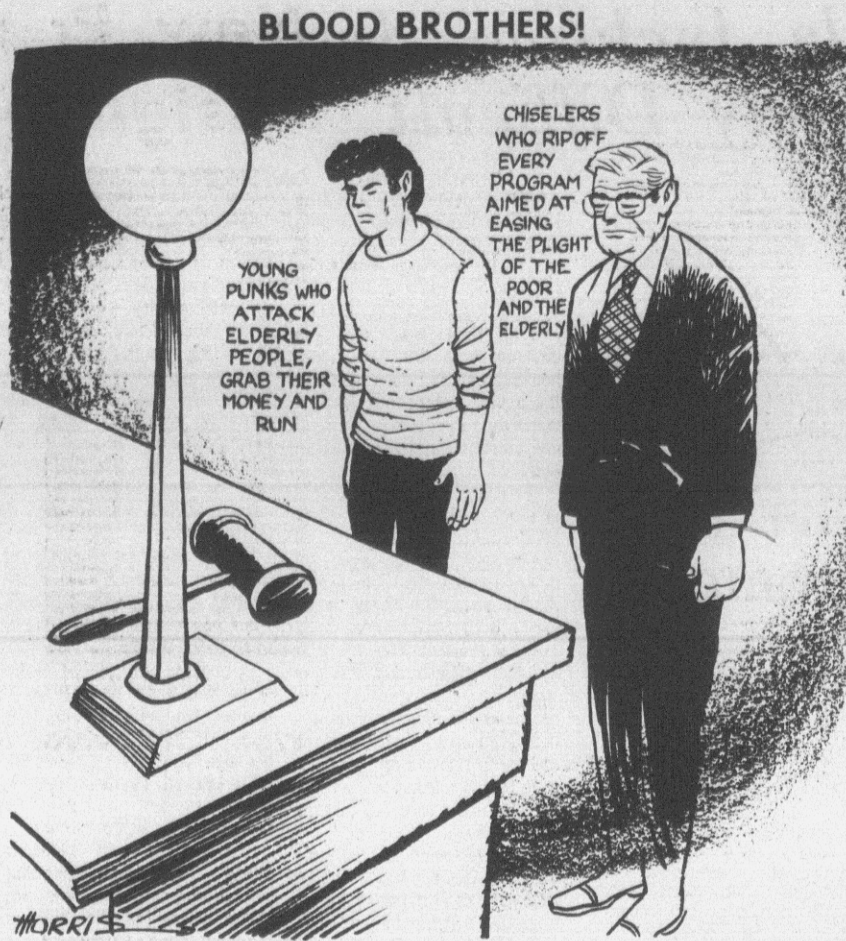

The city school building needs are obviously critical. It is legally possible to have a bond issue only for the city school system, but it seems clear that the county schools have capital needs which are going to have to be met.

Chairman of the commissioners Charles Gaskins noted this in the Tuesday night discussions. "When they present their needs at budget time we will have to ask them where are they going to get their money from. We have all advocated a bond issue as the way to go." Gaskins noted that there was a major increase in taxes last year "so I can only see a bond issue as the route to go."

It is clear that the county commissioners, which has the ultimate responsibility for financing of the two school systems, feels the bond issue is essential if school needs are to be met.

That throws the matter squarely back in the laps of the county board of education. If that board feels the bond issue is not needed then it should be ready to say publicly right now that it won't be asking for tax funds in the next fiscal year's budget for capital improvements. If the county board of education can do that we will have to admit that the county school's physical facilities are in astoundingly superb condition.

Maybe An Oil Supply

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Who cares how much gas and oil Texas can sell us this winter? North Carolina has its own petroleum ... maybe.

Or maybe not. But oil companies are investing close to $500,000 every two years on the chance that there might be.

And with the price of natural gas and oil in its current spiral, it appears likely that in the years ahead they will spend much more.

"You could prognosticate that without a qualm," says James L. Sampair, who heads the Petroleum Division of the state Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

The best prospects for discovery of oil in North Carolina, Sampair says, is under water in the sounds of the coastal plain and in the area up to three miles offshore.

Back in 1957 Coastal Plains Oil Co. took out a lease on a large portion of those under-water regions. A decade later, Anschutz Corp. of Denver leased the rest of it.

The first lease has since changed hands several times and now belongs to Cities Service. Total area of the two leases, Sampair says, is between 8 million and 9 million acres.

Every two years each company is required to drill one well — a 10,000-foot on the older lease and 12,000 feet on the more recent one. The state gets nothing but hope that some day black gold will be turned up in its back yard.

So far, Sampair admits, the wells have produced zilch. "Nothing but loud shows," he says.

But the drilling goes on. Some 138 holes have been sunk so far, more are scheduled for this year, and Sampair says it is not unlikely that the investment may one day pay off.

The reason, he says, is that North Carolina's offshore areas are part of a very promising geological structure whose best prospects lie to the north off Delaware and New Jersey.

Death Trials Disruptive

RALEIGH — One of the most important arguments against the death penalty is seldom made, State Senator McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, believes.

"Lawyers know it, judges know it, and anyone who has worked in the court system knows it: Capital cases disrupt the whole criminal justice system," says the chairman of the Crime Study Commission and of the Senate Committee on Criminal Justice.

Regarded by his colleagues as one of the most effective legal minds in the Senate chamber and a recognized authority on the State Constitution, Smith says he finds "many logical and ethical arguments against the death penalty—jurisdictions that don't have the death penalty have a lower murder rate than those who do."

Arguments

"The penalty historically has been imposed more frequently on the poor and the black than on others; state executions set a brutal example for the population. Incite some psychotics to murder to get publicity, and don't bring any benefits to the prisoner's victim; mistaken executions can never be corrected..." Smith told members of the Greensboro Optimists recently.

But beyond that, capital cases are different from any others in the courts: they're expensive and run endlessly, are full of appeals and transcripts, double the challenges, and require two defense lawyers, often at government expense.

Appeals are automatic and the upper courts must search extensively for trial errors; many jurors try to be excluded, Smith said.

"Judges and prosecutors know how much these cases throw their calendars into disarray. Death penalties, when imposed, are much more likely to be reversed on appeal... These cases make a shambles of the criminal justice system."

"The result is that other very serious crimes do not get tried, or result in lighter sentences because the capital cases have messed up the dockets which already are so big... for the problematical execution of a few, the whole criminal justice system is disrupted," Smith said.

In his talk, Smith touched on a number of points relating to crime control.

BILL NOBLITT

"Speedy trial, certain punishment, shorter sentences, more use of local jails, new and safer state prisons, days off for good behavior, and appellate review of sentences are goals for this General Assembly."

Gun Control

He said steps toward handgun control are possible, but not an outright ban. Control could be gained from outlawing cheap Saturday night specials, requiring permits to transport a gun off home or office premises, and requiring a license to purchase which would raise the cost.

Speedy trials are a must, Smith said, but will require more courtroom personnel since many criminals are not now getting the attention of the courts they deserve. Penalties, meanwhile, should be more certain less severe. Three years—a terrible penalty sufficient to deter nearly everyone—should cover most crimes.

Smith also suggested that police, prosecutors, and judges should concentrate on physical violence crimes "which are the ones that frighten most people... Entirely too much police and court time has been taken up by other offenses which do not arouse as much fear," and he called for decriminalizing the victimless acts such as individualized gambling or drinking, refusing to wear a helmet on a motorcycle, consenting sexual conduct among adults, prostitution.

As to overcrowded prisons, the senator proposed using local jails and even prisons in other states under a contract arrangement to house the inmates while sufficient time is taken to thoroughly overhaul the state's criminal justice system for apprehension, through the courts, and in corrections.

KGB And The Potholes

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—The Soviet colonel came into the situation room of the Kremlin. He was holding in his hand a photograph of the United States taken from a Russian spy satellite. "Look, comrades, the Americans are digging holes all over the country. Why are they digging so many holes unless it's for missiles?" The Joint Soviet Command studied the satellite map. "Is true," said a marshal. "Hole is here, hole is there. No one makes as many holes unless they are going to put in launchers. We must speak to KGB chief for North America immediately."

A button was pushed and Boris X came in.

"Why," a general demanded, "you have not reported United States is digging holes for new missiles to be aimed against U.S.S.R.?" The KGB man took a look at the satellite photograph. "Those are not rocket launcher holes, comrades. Those are potholes made by American cars and trucks." "What are potholes?" another Soviet general demanded. The KGB man said "In America there is winter, yes?" Everyone agreed. "In winter," he continued, "there is snow and ice, yes?" "Get on with it," the marshal said. "To break up ice and snow on roads they put salt on them. Salt not only breaks up ice, it also breaks up road. When road breaks up there is hole. Americans call it pothole," the KGB man said.

"Why don't Americans fill in potholes?" the marshal demanded.

"Because there are so many of them it's impossible to fill them all in. Is better to let them stay as holes until municipal elections."

"What are these yellow lights and pieces of wood around these holes? Surely they must be for missiles," a general said.

"Is not for missiles. Traffic police put up these lights to warn people there is a pothole," the KGB man said.

"Why don't they put them up around all the potholes?" a general asked.

"They don't have enough yellow warning lights."

"How do they decide which holes to put lights on and which holes not to put lights on?"

For the first time the KGB chief was nervous. "We haven't been able to find out why they choose to put lights on some holes and not others. There doesn't seem to be any pattern to it." The marshal said, "There must be a reason for it. Americans wouldn't just mark some potholes and not others. If they did that they would wreck their automobiles." The KGB man said, "That's just it. They are wrecking their automobiles. My people are trying to find out why police mark certain potholes and don't mark others but is impossible to get information so far. No policeman will explain why he chooses one pothole over another."

"Is possible," said a general, "that ones with yellow blinkers are really dug for missiles."

"But," said another general, "suppose they put yellow blinkers on to make us think those potholes are missile sites, when in fact unmarked potholes are real missile launch pads?"

The KGB man said, "Comrades, as you know I have lived in America for a long time. It's true that from the air American potholes look like missile pads. But I have driven over them and I assure you that they are rarely more than six feet deep. A car can fall in one, but a missile can't be fired from it. We must not come to conclusion from one satellite photo that Americans are building launching pads all over their highways."

"But," said the marshal, (continued on page 5)

40 Years Ago Today

February 4, 1937

Spain's insurgent legions on land, water and in the air started their "big push" against Malaga today in an effort to cut off that strategic Mediterranean shipping center from the rest of government-held Spain.

A comparative hush fell over Madrid's battlefield, 260 miles to the north, while practically every available Fascist faculty of men and machines was shoved toward Malaga.

The insurgents' naval fleet steamed in the direction of Malaga. Nine bombing planes left Spanish Morocco to join General DeLiano's southern army drive.

The state senate sent the county option liquor bill to a committee today and debated and re-referred a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the death penalty for kidnapping, while the house killed a bill to prohibit fireworks in the state.

The Senate Judiciary Committee got the whiskey measure and Chairman Gold said it would meet tomorrow.

He said Cale Burgess, a dry leader, had asked another public hearing.

Slow To Accept Metrics

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — Slowly — a millimeter at a time — the metrication of America is underway. The highway sign giving distances in kilometers as well as miles and the weatherman providing temperature readings in the metric Celsius as well as the familiar Fahrenheit scales are harbingers of the eventual adoption in the U.S. of the metric system — the nearly universal system of weights and measures.

Today, a year after then-President Gerald Ford committed the nation to voluntary conversion to the metric system, public awareness has grown to the point where three in four Americans, 74 per cent, indicate an awareness of the system. In 1965, when the Gallup Poll first queried the public about metrics, only 29 per cent said they were aware of the system. By 1971 the number had grown to 44 per cent and in 1973, 54 per cent indicated awareness.

Although basic familiarity has grown steadily, support for a conversion from the traditional system of feet, pounds, and miles to the metric meters, grams, and kilometers is less than enthusiastic. Among the 74 per cent who are aware of the metric system, only 29 per cent favor its adoption, 39 per cent oppose such a move, and 6 per cent are undecided.

The following question was asked to determine awareness of the metric system:

"Do you know what the metric system is?"

Here are the latest results and the trend since 1965:

AWARENESS OF METRIC SYSTEM
(Per cent aware)

TODAY	74%
1973	54
1971	44
1965	29

This question was then asked of those who said they were aware of the metric system:

"Would you like to see the U.S. adopt the metric system?"

Here are the results:

U.S. ADOPT METRIC SYSTEM?
(Based on those aware of metric system)

Yes	29%
No	39
No opinion	6
	74%

IGNORANCE WIDESPREAD

Part of this resistance among Americans undoubtedly springs from the widespread ignorance of basic metric system workings and equivalents. For, while awareness of the system has grown, only a small fraction of the public can convert the most basic measures of the traditional system to their metric equivalents or vice-versa, with three people in four unable to even venture a guess.

For example, only 13 per cent of the public can correctly identify a meter as being approximately 39 inches. Another 6 per cent come close, that is, within four inches of the correct answer, but the vast majority offer guesses that are more than four inches off the mark or have no idea of the equivalent.

Even fewer people know how many liters are contained in a gallon. Only 1 per cent give the correct answer (3.8 liters per gallon) while another 8 per cent offer relatively close estimates ranging from 3.3 to 4.2.

Similarly, only 1 per cent know that 100 kilometers equals 62 miles. Seven per cent give answers ranging from 56 to 68.

Here are the questions asked to test public knowledge of the metric equivalents, along with the results:

"As you may know, the metric system is being introduced in this country. Do you happen to know approximately how many inches there are in a meter?"

INCHES IN METER?
(Based on total sample)

39 inches (with or without fraction)	13%
40-43 inches	2
35-38 inches	4
All other answers	6
Don't know	75

"Do you happen to know approximately how many liters are in a gallon?"

LITERS IN GALLON?

Other Editors Say Future Problem

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

North Carolina has been extremely fortunate in coping with the extreme cold that has invaded the state over the past week or so. The winter has been characterized as one of the worst on record for the United States.

While North Carolina thus far has managed to cope, it could have been worse. Experts are saying the State is surviving a one-two punch to its energy system that might not recur for another 100 years.

While that may be some comfort, if it does happen five or six years from now, power outages might be massive and the threat to life and property much worse. That's the word from state Utilities Commission chairman Tenney I. Deane.

Sub-zero arctic air plunged temperatures across the state to record lows. Gas and electric heaters made energy demands that eclipsed previous high levels.

The same weather conditions that created the high demand for energy diminished the capacity of power companies to supply that demand as ice froze coal fuel supplies and crippled generators.

And with cold prevailing over much of the southeastern United States, power-sharing agreements with neighboring utilities were all but useless. Nobody had much energy to share.

Fortunately, North Carolina utilities had enough generating capacity to survive both the record demand and the incapacitated generating facilities with only minor voltage reductions.

But officials are warning that at current projected growth rates in the state's normal energy use, the margin between generating capacity and usual peak demand will be dangerously low by the early 1980s. Thus, if the current situation were to duplicate itself then, things would be much worse than they are now. We must take the present severe winter conditions as a timely warning.

Possible Gas Supply In Soviet

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A partial solution to the U.S. natural gas shortage might lie in the Ural Mountains and in the Yakutsk area of Siberia.

The possibility of using this gas in the United States isn't fantasy. Negotiations which began in 1971 have been hesitant since then, although work continues on the Siberian project, whose fuel would go to the U.S. West Coast.

The Ural Mountain project, whose fuel would be shipped from Murmansk to supply the East Coast areas of the United States, has been stalled by mutual fears and some indecisiveness by this country.

"It would take an important initiative from the new administration before Russia will look at it again," said Harold Scott, former assistant secretary of commerce and now president of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade Council.

"If President Carter's group is going to talk to the Soviets this ought to be on the shopping list," he said.

The council, made up of the chief executives of the very largest American companies and their Soviet counterparts, is designed to explore and facilitate trade between the two nations.

Traditionally, the U.S. Treasury secretary and the Soviet foreign trade minister are honorary directors.

The subject of reopening discussions on the natural gas projects was informally discussed by council members at their latest meeting in Moscow last December, although no formal initiatives were made by either side.

But in Scott's view, the possibilities are so enormous as to almost demand further discussion, if only to bring the pros and cons before the American people.

The Ural Mountain project, called North Star, could if completed maintain a supply equal to the entire industrial needs of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania throughout this century and beyond.

The Yakutsk project, in combination with Japan, which is financing it, would provide gas to be liquefied and shipped, perhaps from Vladivostok, to Japan and U.S. West Coast ports.

Scott is anxious that his interest not necessarily be construed as advocacy. "I am very cautious," he said. "It is very important to both countries to be cautious. But why not sit down and look carefully at it?"

If we had completed negotiations in 1971, when the Soviets very much wanted the United States to develop the sites, to be paid for by the gas that flowed from the wells, that source of energy would now be available.

The initial proposal was that the Americans would put in the facilities, perhaps at a cost of about $5 billion. The development would have taken three to five years to build, and about five years to pay for itself in gas.

Strength For Today

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Last words are always significant. The words of great men upon their death beds give us not only an insight into their lives, but insight into the meaning of life itself.

Here are a few of the utterances which certain of the great are said to have made as they faced death:

Said the great evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, "Earth is receding, heaven is approaching." The novelist, Sir Walter Scott, said, "I feel as if I were to be myself again."

Charles Wesley, who wrote 6,000 hymns, said with his last breath, "I shall be satisfied with thy likeness—satisfied, satisfied." His brother John, founder of Methodism, made this last statement: "The best of all is, God is with us." Father Damien, the leper priest of Molokai, said, "My work, with all its faults and failures, is in His hand."

Everyone enters life in the same way—with a wail upon his lips. But fortunate is the person who can confront death with the happy conviction that the best is yet to come.

 Thereafter, the Soviets would sell the fuel under 25-year contracts at the same FOB price as it paid for Algerian gas, currently $1.42 per thousand cubic feet. They would also agree to spend in the United States the $1.5 billion a year so earned.
 At that time the Soviets were desperate for a trade relationship and perhaps were more willing to sell a vital natural resource than they might now be. Some Soviets say it might be more profitable to upgrade the gas into petrochemicals, plastics and fertilizers.
 However, the Soviets have a $1 billion trade deficit with the United States and are thus thought by some authorities to be unwilling to give up the possibility of obtaining U.S. capital.
 The United States backed off from the agreement several times, leading some of those involved to comment, said Scott, that "it will take a cold winter in the United States to get the deal under way."

It might take even more than that. The Soviets in the meantime have developed a pipeline capacity into Western Europe, relieving some of the trade pressure they felt in 1971.
 Some authorities on the subject also believe the Soviets are wary of committing themselves to a long-term supply project that conceivably would be strained if the United States found a nearby supply of natural gas.

 "The oil companies have been looking all up and down the Atlantic Coast," he says. "There will be a spurt of drilling activity off the Delaware River this year."
 North Carolina's turn for more intensive drilling will take time, but it will come, Sampair believes.
 "We could have substantial deposits in this state," Sampair says. "But it ain't really been looked for yet."

clarer elected to win in his hand and lead a diamond to the ten and Rose's king. Back came another club, won in the closed hand. Declarer led his remaining diamond. West discarded a heart and Rose was in with the ace of diamonds.

There was an obvious defense—to continue diamonds. That, however, would have spelled finis for the defenders. Declarer would have simply discarded his remaining club while West ruffed with a master trump, and the defenders would have collected only three trump tricks and two diamonds.

Rose unerringly found the killing return—a trump. West won the jack and the defenders were now poised to score their trumps separately. West led a third club, East ruffed with the nine of trumps and returned a diamond. West ruffed with the ace of spades and East still had the king of trumps for the setting trick.

An unusual situation—the only way to get a killing ruff is to lead a trump!

IT'S PERSONAL

People keep teaching their children to say their prayers at bedtime, but how many do it themselves?

Maybe sometimes they pray in the darkness, silently, so that no one will know. But why the secrecy? Because prayer is a very deep, personal kind of expression? Because we reveal ourselves through it?

Even those of us who have gotten away from the custom of going to church every Sunday, who think they've put religion down the line on their list of priorities, turn back swiftly when in trouble, saying, "Dear God," first of all.

So why wait? In church you can pray alone or with others, in darkness or in light, but always in your own way—with a blessed sense of belonging.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead gradually today, rebounding from a two-month low on Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 5.65 on Thursday to its lowest close since last Dec. 2, was up 3.49 at 950.63 by noontime today.

Gainers outpaced losers by about a 7-4 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market got a lift from Federal Reserve statistics released after Thursday's NYSE close, which showed an unexpected drop in the money supply. Analysts said the news eased concern that the Fed might soon tighten credit.

Gulf & Western Industries fell 3/4 to 18 1/2 after a delayed opening. On Thursday the company estimated its first quarterly earnings decline in five years.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained .15 to 55.57. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .55 at 113.14.

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.95 million shares over the first two hours. Goodyear Tire & Rubber topped the active list, up 3/4 at 12 1/2 in trading that included a 22 1/2-share block at that price.

Money Giveaway

SEATTLE (AP) — A well-dressed man carrying a plastic laundry basket full of money gave away an estimated $2,000 to $3,000 cash to passersby outside a Seattle supermarket. Witnesses say the man, who spoke with a foreign accent, entered a Safeway store Thursday morning and tried to give away the money there, but the manager asked him to go outside. Box boy Emmett Moriarti, 17, said he approached the man outside the store and asked, "Can I have some money?" Moriarti said the man replied, "Sure. Take all you want." The youth said he took some, then went back a little later and got some more, for a total of about $300. Store manager Chris Franko, 33, said the man, who shopped in the store occasionally in the past, "seemed normal" except for his giveaway program. He said a policeman asked the man, "What are you doing?" The man replied, "Giving away money." The policeman shook his head, said, "As long as it's your own money" and walked away.

Flu Outbreak Confirmed

By JACK STILLMAN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — An outbreak of A-Victoria influenza has been confirmed in a nursing home in Dade County, Fla., the national Center for Disease Control reported today. The outbreak began Jan. 26, and affected 35 of 176 residents of the home, the CDC said. There have been scattered laboratory isolations of influenza A in several other states, but this is the first outbreak of that strain of flu in the nation, the CDC said. Influenza-like illness has been reported in more than a score of states, with Influenza B identified in at least 10 of them. Influenza B usually attacks children and young adults and is similar to the B-Hong Kong virus which was prevalent in 1972. The mortality rate of Influenza B is lower than Influenza A, which changes its molecular structure more often and tends to attack older adults. The CDC says an outbreak is considered when there is a marked increase in the number of patients in a given population. In the A-Victoria outbreak in Florida, epidemiologists said the typical clinical illness was fairly mild with fever and cough the predominate symptoms. There were no deaths, but three patients were hospitalized, the report said. There is no other indication of significant influenza activity in the Miami area, the CDC said. Scattered cases of A-Victoria have been confirmed in California, Michigan, Alaska, South Carolina and North Carolina. A-New Jersey, known as swine flu, has been confirmed in Wisconsin and Minnesota, but the confirmed cases were associated with hog farming. Fears that swine flu would be widespread this winter prompted the now-suspended national flu vaccination program. Carter has backed such a reorganization and has indicated that White House energy adviser James Schlesinger, O'Leary's former boss at the AEC, will head the new department once Congress gets around to creating it.

Appointee Is Confirmed

Energy Conservation STARTS AT HOME

The energy crisis is much like the weather; everyone talks about it but few are doing much about it.

We also know that it is unlikely that we will be able to get any immediate relief from solar power, oil from shale, reduced auto fuel consumption — or anything requiring a whole new technology. Even if every light were turned off in the USA, only 2% of our available energy would be saved.

A simple analysis shows that there is only one place where the demand for energy is great and where the technology is available.

That is in the field of home heating and cooling. For which

Pirates Return To Action At Western

Concentration: Cornelius' Goal

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Confidence is a big factor in basketball.

"Being away from play for a year hurt my confidence," the Pirate forward said. Cornelius transferred into East Carolina last year after playing at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., the previous year.

"Now, I feel I can go out there without being nervous," he said. And his play in the recent games seems to bear that out. Cornelius has been steadily improving his offensive play, boosting his average to 7.3 per game.

"Overall, I'm jumping and playing better than ever before. I'm in good shape, I'm happy and everything is going great for me."

Cornelius said that he is playing with more intensity now also. "I'm clapping my hand, talking to the other players. That gets me going. I tried being quiet, but it just didn't work for me.

The mental aspect is the big thing for Greg. "Any good player knows he has to be totally involved with the game. It's a lot more mental than physical."

As to his rebounding, Cornelius said that at the start of the year, he was standing around a lot and letting himself get screened off the boards.

He also went through a period when free throws were poison to him, that seems to be over too. "I just wasn't concentrating," he said.

Greg feels that the Pirates are starting to jell now, and that with the youth of the team, the future is bright. "I really can see us as a potentially ranked team in the next couple of years," he said.

Off court, Cornelius likes to listen to music and fish, but right now he admits that basketball and the books are taking up most of his time.

"We can finish strong," he said. "We're having good practices, we're making fewer mistakes." He taps his head. "It's all mental."

Tankers, Matmen Host ACC Foes

Both the East Carolina swimming and wrestling teams play host to tough Atlantic Coast Conference foes in the next couple of days, and both head coaches admit that victories for the Pirates will be hard to come by.

The Pirate tankers entertain Duke Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. in Minges Natatorium, starting the action against ACC opponents. Then, on Monday, the Pirate wrestlers meet N.C. State in Minges Coliseum at 8 p.m.

Women's basketball opens the weekend by entertaining Longwood in a varsity and junior varsity game. The JV starts at 5 p.m. tonight, with the varsity following at 7 p.m., both in Minges.

Also on Saturday, with a 2 p.m. start, the East Carolina gymnastics team holds its first home meet of the year, hosting Furman and William & Mary.

East Carolina's men's basketball team travels to Cullowhee Saturday to meet Western Carolina, then on Monday, both the men's and women's teams will be in Norfolk to take on Old Dominion. The men wind up the next seven days' action by hosting William & Mary in an important Southern Conference game on Thursday.

Duke University represents the final dual meet of the year for the East Carolina swimmers. "I was real disappointed that we didn't beat North Carolina," Coach Ray Scharf said. "We had a lot of close races, but we didn't get a break the whole day. They won all of the close ones."

"But we also had people who didn't perform up to the same standard that they did against

Jaguars Win Match

VANCEBORO — Farmville Central romped to a 52-10 victory over West Craven High School yesterday in a wrestling match.

West Craven managed only two victories, a pin and a major decision. Farmville put together two pins and four forfeits to rack up its victory.

The Jaguars were to entertain North Pitt in the final regular season match Saturday afternoon.

Summary: 101: Jan Joyner (FC) won by forfeit. 107: Joe Ebron (FC) won by forfeit. 114: Jeff Ebron (FC) pinned Jay Gatton, 0:58. 121: Bobby Bryant (WC) decided William Harper, 13:4. 128: Horace Williams (FC) pinned Joey Whitley, 1:40. 134: David Newton (FC) decided Eddie Huggins, 8:4. 140: Carl Davis (FC) won by forfeit. 147: Robert Williams (FC) won by forfeit. 157: James Mercer (FC) decided David Johnson, 5:2. 169: Aaron Gorham (FC) decided Walter Baker, 9:0. 187: David Cockran (FC) decided Eddie Diamond, 18:4. 197: Mitch Fizer (WC) pinned Sammy Brown, 4:30. Heavyweight: John Dupree (FC) decided Ernest Butler, 9:3.

After a week away from basketball action, East Carolina's Pirates return to the hardwood Saturday night in Cullowhee, facing the home-standing Western Carolina Catamounts.

"I'm sure that it is going to be a very emotional game from their standpoint," Coach Dave Patton said. "They were unhappy about losing to us down here, and they'll be out for revenge."

That first meeting came early in the season, when the Pirates posted a 70-62 win in the second

Lady Wolves Rip Bucettes

East Carolina's Lady Pirates ran into a stone wall last night when N. C. State's ninth-ranked Lady Wolfpack came to Minges Coliseum. The Wolfpack looked very impressive in their 95-68 victory over the Lady Bucs.

The powerful 'Pack continually threw the ball inside for easy baskets over the much smaller East Carolina club. State coach Kay Yow played all 14 of her ballplayers and all but one logged ten or more minutes of action.

State led by as much as 26 points in the first half before a late ECU rally pulled the margin down to 16 at 44-28. In the second half, the two teams played on almost even terms until the final minutes when the Wolfpack moved out to their final margin of 27.

All-America Christy Earnhardt led the Wolfpack with 12 points in only 15 minutes of action. Genia Beasley, a 6-2 freshman center, added 11 while Sherri Pickard, Kay Young, Fay Young and June Doby picked up 10 apiece.

Debbie Freeman had to carry most of the load for East Carolina as she scored 24 points. Linda McClellan and Gale Kerbaugh each had 10 for the Lady Pirates.

Chargers Defeated

LITTLEFIELD — Camp Lejeune captured a 43-23 victory over the Ayden-Grifton wrestling team last night. The defeat left the Chargers with a 1-14 record during the regular season.

Camp Lejeune won nine weights, taking one on a forfeit, and two on pins. Ayden-Grifton won two on forfeits and one via a pin.

The Chargers return to action on Wednesday, participating in the Eastern Carolina Conference Tournament, which will be held at North Pitt. The meet was originally set for Ayden-Grifton but was transferred due to a conflict.

Summary: 102: Danny Tyson (CL) pinned Jerry Garris, 3:37. 109: Carroll Strickland (AG) won by forfeit. 116: Wendell Gaston (CL) pinned Ron Darden, 5:05. 123: Dante Gacace (CL) decided Bobby Garris, 18:4. 130: Willie Perkins (AG) pinned Fred Brady, 1:58. 136: Mike Scott (CL) decided Guy Dixon, 13:4. 142: Tony Bell (CL) decided Patrick Riggs, 11:2. 149: Joe Gaines (CL) decided Mike Nobles, 20:1. 159: Johnny Cannon (AG) decided Leon Blair, 19:0. 171: Jeff Tyson (CL) decided J.T. Darden, 11:2. 189: Corkey Teachey (AG) won by forfeit. 199: David Day (CL) decided Richard James, 5:2. Heavyweight: Cyrus Day (CL) won by forfeit.

Farmville Takes Two

Farmville Middle School captured a pair of games from Wellcome #Two yesterday.

The Farmville girls won their game, 50-17. Dana Streeter led Farmville with 22, while Etta Gorham had 14. Gilbert led Wellcome with nine.

In the boys' game, Farmville took a 50-43 win. Ricky Dixon led Farmville with 26 points, while Joe Bullock had 19 for Wellcome.

game of the year. "I would like to think that this is their big game of the year. But I don't know what kind of playing conditions to expect. If the weather is real cold up there, and there is no heat on, it could be pretty hard to bear," Patton said.

The Pirates got a taste of playing in a cold gym yesterday as conservation practices got underway at ECU. The heat was lowered considerably in Minges Coliseum. "It was cold, and we played like it," Patton said. Overall, however, the Pirates was the shooting percentages. The Wolfpack shot 52.9 per cent while East Carolina could manage just 19.2 per cent. State picked off 46 rebounds to 40 for ECU. Freeman led all rebounders with 13.

The loss for the Lady Pirates was their 12th against just two wins. In Division I of the NCAAIAW, the Lady Pirates are now 1-6. State improved their mark to 11-1 overall and 6-0 in the league.

East Carolina will be in action again tonight when they host Longwood College from Virginia.

N. C. State—Pickard 10, Eure 4, Beasley 11, K. Young 10, Earnhardt 12, Coffey 4, Andrews 8, F. Young 10, Mason 4, Leeman 4, Parker 4, Doby 10, Quinn, R. Sery 4. East Carolina—Freeman 24, Suggs 4, McClellan 10, Kerbaugh 10, Ross 7, Lacy 4, Triff 4.

had good practices this week. "They have been the best 'heavy' practices we've had all year. They went about everything with more confidence than they've shown all year."

Whether the Pirates will be able to continue the play they came up with in the second half of their 76-56 win over Davidson remains to be seen. "It's characteristic of young kids to play up and down. We continue to see displays of what this team is capable of doing. Now we just have to get all 11 players playing 40 minutes a game. Until we become consistent, we won't be a real good team."

Patton pointed out that while the Bucs did play well against Davidson, they would need to sustain that play for the next eight games to make it a successful season.

"I've been impressed by our inside game and our rebounding. Our shooting has improved, too. I was looking at the film of our first game with Western the other day, and you can really see a lot of improvement since then."

The return to form of Herb Gray also is a bright spot for the Pirates. Gray scored 15 points against Davidson and pulled down eight rebounds, breaking a slump he'd been in. "I hope that he's back to his old self," Patton said. "It will give us another good scorer on the floor."

Patton looks for a run and gun type game from the Catamounts, who come in with a 6-11 record, having won two games and lost one this week. The defeat came last night when Appalachian State took a 65-51 victory. Wins came over Baptist and Mars Hill.

Prior to the three contests, Western had four players averaging in double figures. Jay Lassiter led the group with a 16.6 mark, followed by Thomas Wilson at 13.1, Ike Mims at 12.9, and George Dodkin at 12.1.

"They have experienced players, all capable of scoring a lot of points," Patton said. "I think the board work will have a lot to do with the game too. If we can keep them from getting second and third shots, we'll be in good shape."

After the week's break, the Pirates come back with a string of eight games in the next 19 days, four of which are against Southern Conference foes. This weekend's play is further complicated by the fact that the Bucs must play Western at one end of North Carolina, then they meet Old Dominion on Monday night in Norfolk, Va., nearly 800 miles in the opposite direction.

"It's not ideal to have to play like this. But with the schedule so heavy from here on in, we've got to be ready. Having the week off helped us, I'm sure, but the players are getting bored with practice now. They're ready to get back into action now."

Following Saturday's game at Western, and the one Monday at Old Dominion, the Pirates return home for a Thursday game against William & Mary.

Time Changes

Two basketball games scheduled for Saturday have been postponed, and another cancelled, it was announced today.

Farmville Central's basketball slate at Southern Nash, set for Saturday, will now be played on Wednesday night.

Also rescheduled for Wednesday, is a game between Bear Grass at Roanoke, to be played in Robersonville.

A girls and junior varsity game between Conley and Rose High School has been cancelled and will not be rescheduled.

A wrestling match between Conley and White Oak, scheduled earlier in the week, has been reset for Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Conley gym — without heat.

Layton Sparks Knicks To Win

By The Associated Press
Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe may not have been ready to play for the New York Knicks, but Mo Layton was.

NBA Roundup

Layton, who until Thursday night was spending more time on the Knicks' bench than on the playing floor, was inserted into the starting lineup when injuries sidelined Frazier and Monroe.

Layton was booed by the Knicks fans when his name was announced as a starter, but he left the crowd cheering later after collecting 19 points and 12 assists in New York's 108-90 victory over the Houston Rockets.

"I think I proved myself again," Layton said, referring to his good start earlier in the season. "I think I gave Red (Coach Red Holzman) more confidence in my game tonight."

However, Holzman may not have needed the good performance to restore his confidence in Layton. In fact, he wasn't even surprised.

"This afternoon I watched films of the last time we played Houston and Mo did a real decent defensive job on Calvin Murphy. He was going to play no matter what," Holzman said.

In other NBA games, the Chicago Bulls beat the San Antonio Spurs 107-98; the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Buffalo Braves 100-98; the Portland Trail Blazers stopped the Indiana Pacers 107-98, and the New Orleans Jazz defeated the Golden State Warriors 105-99.

The Knicks grabbed a 27-20 lead after one quarter, and increased the margin to 59-44 at the half due mainly to the work of Layton and backcourt partner Butch Beard.

However, the guards were not the only stars for the Knicks. Forward Bob McAdoo scored 30 points and center Tom McMillen had 18. Rudy Tomjanovich led Houston with 18 points.

Bulls 107, Spurs 98

Norm Van Lier and Wilbur Holland each scored 24 points, leading Chicago over San Antonio. The victory was only the Bulls' fifth in 26 road outings and broke the Spurs' four-game home winning streak.

May scored 14 points and Artis Gilmore contributed 13 points for Chicago.

Hawks 100, Braves 98

Atlanta's John Drew sank a 10-foot jumper with three seconds to play, giving the Hawks their victory over Buffalo. Ken Charles set up Drew's clincher by hitting a short jumper with 34 seconds to play.

With 11 seconds left, Charles stole a Braves' inbound pass, lost it to Buffalo's Randy Smith, and Drew stole it back and put in the winning shot.

Trail Blazers 107, Pacers 98
Maurice Lucas scored 35 points, including 26 in the first half, as Portland defeated Indiana.

In the wake of Gov. Hunt's proposals for energy conservation, we do not really see any broad cancellation of sports action ahead. The seasons are too nearly finished to get people to consent to that.

The wrestling program for the year is nearly finished. Nearly everyone winds up the regular season on the weekend, with conference tournaments scheduled for next week. The sectionals follow the following weekend, with the state meet the next week.

So as the days go by, fewer and fewer wrestlers will be on the mats, and only a few gyms will be involved in actual competition.

Basketball is nearly in the same situation. Except for the 4-A ranks, most conferences will wind up regular season play during the coming week. The next week will see conference tournaments, and the district tournaments are the following week. The state tournaments come in early March. Again, fewer and fewer gyms will be in use in the coming days.

Another aspect to be thought of is the temperature in gyms.

Most places already are turning down the heat to acceptable standards. One school official told me that it would be impossible to cut off the heat entirely for fear of freezing up water pipes, so some heat must be retained.

Rose High School already cuts the heaters off in the gyms at 6 p.m., so actually there is no new heat going into the gym after that time, and it is still quite comfortable.

Most college gyms are kept quite low, since a large crowd generates a large amount of heat. On a number of occasions, I have been in high school gyms where it was nearly stifling. The heat level had been kept at its normal "empty" gym level, and the added crowd made it much too uncomfortable.

Some schools will make some changes, but the most radical will probably just switch some planned Saturday games to other dates. Few will be cancelled unless they are non-conference.

Hopefully, spring is not far away, and the problem will be over — for this winter.

Several former area athletes are doing the job for Kings College, which has posted a 13-1 record so far this year, and is looking for a junior college tourney berth.

Melvin Williams of Conley is the leading scorer with an 18.5 mark, and is also the leading rebounder at 15.3. Another former Viking, Clennel Streeter is hitting 14.8 points a game, and another, Gerry Mobley is pulling off 12.1 rebounds, and scoring 14.1 points per game. Linwood Brown, formerly of Rose, is also on the team.

Clemson Overcomes Cleveland State

By The Associated Press
Clemson found itself trailing Cleveland State 37-34 with 18 minutes remaining Thursday.

ACC Roundup
night, but any fears Coach Bill Foster may have harbored quickly evaporated after that. The 16th-ranked Tigers, 17-3, outscored the Vikings 15-2 over the next four minutes and cruised to a 77-55 victory behind hot-shooting Colon Abraham and revitalized Wayne "Tree" Rollins.

Abraham, who scored nine points in the crucial run, hit nine of 11 floor shots and finished with 21 points. Rollins, who exited with a leg injury in Tuesday night's victory over North Carolina State, played 30 minutes while scoring 10 points and pulling down 14 rebounds.

Jim Wells added 13 points and 10 rebounds for the Tigers, who trail Wake Forest in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings at 5-2.

It was Clemson's sixth straight win while Cleveland State lost its fifth in a row and fell to 6-12.

Two nonconference games are scheduled tonight, with North Carolina State meeting Furman and North Carolina challenging Georgia Tech in a doubleheader in Charlotte.

The Wolfpack and Tar Heels will switch opponents Saturday night. No other ACC teams are in action tonight.

"If things were going well for us in conference play, we wouldn't want this break," said

N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan, whose team has lost two of its last three games and dropped from second to fourth in the ACC standings.

The Wolfpack has suffered last-second losses to Maryland and Clemson due to brief, but fatal, lapses in defense and rebounding.

"We look forward to a couple of outside games to work on these things before getting into the conference again," Sloan said. "But, they will still be two very difficult games for us. The problem we've always

Bones Feels Deacons Will Win Season Title; Tourney A Toss-Up

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — If anyone knows Atlantic Coast Conference basketball, it's Horace "Bones" McKinney, a veteran ACC watcher who played for two of its schools and coached a third.

With the regular season now in its final month, McKinney says there is a simple answer to the question of which team is the best bet to win the all-important ACC Tournament — there isn't one.

"A poor boy like me, I wouldn't put a nickel on anybody," said McKinney, 58, in a telephone interview Thursday morning.

Now a sales representative for a vending machine company, McKinney played for North Carolina State before transferring to North Carolina, where he graduated in 1946.

His greatest success was as coach of Wake Forest, where he posted a 122-84 record from 1958-65. A tall, angular figure who frenetically prowled the sidelines, McKinney led the Deacons to consecutive ACC championships and NCAA tournament berths in 1961 and 1962.

The Deacons crashed the NCAA final four in 1962, losing to Ohio State 84-68 in the semifinals, but capturing third place with an 82-80 consolation round victory over UCLA.

The Deacons have not won a championship since, but that could change this year with a little luck, McKinney said.

Barring a complete collapse, the fifth-ranked Deacons should win the ACC regular season title, which would guarantee them an NCAA berth, regardless of the tournament's outcome.

Wake Forest, 17-2 overall, leads the ACC with a 6-1 mark. "They're a gutsy ballclub. Up to this point, (Coach Carl) Tacy is coach of the year, but he's got a long way to go," McKinney said.

McKinney said the Deacons' success has stemmed from their ability to win on the road while avoiding injury and foul trouble.

"They have to stay healthy," he said. "They really don't have that much of a bench."

Even though Wake Forest has surprised everyone but Tacy and his players this season, McKinney said no team would be a lead pipe cinch to win the tournament.

North Carolina will be trying to salvage an otherwise disappointing season, he said, and Clemson will be motivated by an NCAA probation that makes the Tigers ineligible for postseason play. N.C. State and Maryland are the dark horses, possessing the talent to win it all, McKinney said, while Virginia and Duke will be spoilers.

McKinney said he wants the ACC represented by its best team in the NCAA Tournament and has no sentimental favorite.

"All these coaches are good friends of mine," he said. "Having coached and knowing how these guys feel when it goes down to the wire, I can sit here and not pull (for one team)."

Teams Split Pair

GRIMESLAND — G. R. Whitfield and Wellcome No. One split a pair of basketball games yesterday.

Whitfield won the girls' game, 24-13. Janice Hansley led Whitfield with 17 points, while Tammy Pippens had 10 for Wellcome.

In the boys' game, Wellcome took a 49-40 victory. Gordon Davis and Terry Best each had 14, and Paul Tucker had 11 for Wellcome. Whitfield was led by Wayne Reese with 15 and Terrence Rountree with 12.

faced in these games is that Tech and Furman place these games more in the 'prestige' category than we do. They usually have an emotional and psychological edge."

"We'll approach these like any other games. We'll be trying to nail down the at-large berth in the NCAA, so each game is important," said Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith, seemingly conceding the regular season title to Wake Forest or Clemson.

The Tar Heels, losers in three of their last four games, are languishing in third place with a 5-3 ACC mark.

Georgia Tech Coach Dwayne Morrison and Furman Coach Joe Williams said the games were also very important to their teams.

"We've had some pleasant memories up there," said Morrison. "We've been stomped and bloodied, but we've won a couple, too."

"We're getting better, but we still have quite a way to go," said Williams. "This should help. It's a big weekend for us. It could do a lot for our team."

Lietzke Leads Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — That man's in position again.

Bruce Lietzke performed some almost unbelievable heroics on the par-five holes — he played those four hole six under par — and Monty Kaser, the last man on the course, made the last stroke of the day a birdie putt for a share of the lead in the Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

But Tom Watson, the record-setting winner of his last two starts, was just one stroke back and hot in pursuit of a third consecutive victory.

"I'm hitting the ball solid enough, and I'm not making that many mistakes," Watson said after a four-under-par 68 in gusty, tricky trade winds that swept over the Waialae Country Club course, stretching 7,234 yards beside the Pacific.

Kaser, who hasn't won since he joined the tour in 1966, pitched to within five feet and stroked in the putt — the last shot of the day — to finish off a 67 that tied him for the lead with Lietzke, a winner at Tucson three weeks ago.

Tied with Watson just one stroke back were Charles Coody, Larry Ziegler and Steve Melnyk. Mike Hill, Jerry McGee and Al Geiberger headed a big group at 69.

Defending champion Ben Crenshaw had a 71 in the 80 degree temperatures, but Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer could do no better than 73s, one over par.

"It wasn't a great round, but it wasn't a bad round," Nicklaus said. "I had one birdie, and that was on a two-putt. I had 36 putts for the round, just didn't make a one."

Illinois State Stuns Las Vegas

Jerry Tarkanian may have to change his mind about playing road games. He certainly will have to live with his words, at the very least.

Earlier in the week, the coach of the Nevada-Las Vegas basketball team expressed a passion for playing games away from home with this bold statement: "To me, the greatest thrill is going into a place on the road where everybody's screaming for you to lose ... and sticking it to them."

However, the thrill was gone for Tarkanian Thursday night after his fourth-ranked Rebels were stunned 88-84 by Illinois State at Normal, Ill.

In other college basketball games Thursday night, second-ranked UCLA defeated Washington 75-65; seventh-ranked Michigan trimmed Indiana 89-84; No. 15 Providence nipped Rhode Island 67-66; No. 16 Clemson defeated Cleveland State 77-55; No. 17 Syracuse walloped Buffalo State 100-63, and No. 18 Purdue outscored Northwestern 92-85.

Forward Bill Lewis paced Illinois State's balanced attack with 21 points as the Redbirds snapped Nevada-Las Vegas' 14-game winning streak.

Committee Shelves School-Closing Legislation

RALEIGH (AP) - A Senate committee has shelved legislation calling for a two-week closing of North Carolina schools because of the energy crisis.

The Senate Public Utilities Committee voted unanimously Thursday to postpone the measure after school officials said they had enough fuel to keep the schools running for three to four weeks.

Even Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, agreed to the decision to delay his bill.

"It was either this or have it killed," Lawing said. "If the weather doesn't moderate, we can come back and reconsider it."

Other legislative developments included:

DEATH PENALTY
Bills to restore the death penalty in North Carolina for murder and rape were sharply criticized Thursday by Duke University law professor William Van Alstyne. He said the legislation is "highly defective" and would "have to be drastically narrowed" to win approval of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Also criticizing the legislation was Mike Crowell of the Institute of Government at the University of North Carolina. The criticism came at a joint meeting of the House Judiciary II Committee and the Senate Judiciary I Committee.

ELECTRONIC VOTING
Electronic voting came to the state House Thursday for the first time after it adopted rules permitting use of its $121,000 electronic equipment.

The first use came on a local measure that would remove a $50,000 ceiling on the amount of taxes the citizens of Ellenboro can vote on themselves. The House voted 102-6 to approve the bill and held it for another vote today.

DRIVERS TEST
The Senate approved and sent to the House for consideration a bill that would allow drivers who have no violations on their records to renew their licenses without taking the written test. Such a provision has been in effect for four years as a test and the bill would make it permanent.

BALLOTS
The Senate also approved a bill that extends absentee balloting to county and municipal school board elections. Absentee voting is already available in other elections. The House Election Laws Committee approved an identical measure.

CRIME BOARD
No action was taken on Gov. Jim Hunt's requested Crime Commission with debate on the measure put off until Monday. The board would replace the Governor's Law and Order Commission and it would have broader power and more diverse membership.

ERA
Rep. John R. Gamble, D-Lincoln, chairman of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee, reported the bill to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the full House and moved that it be a special order of business in Tuesday's session, giving it top priority.

VOTING
The House Election Laws Committee approved a bill that would permit youths of 17 to vote in presidential preference primaries if they will be 18 in time for them to become qualified in subsequent general election in November.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS
Reps. Ruth Cook, D-Wake, and James H. Edwards, D-Caldwell, introduced identical bills that would exempt unemployment benefits from state income taxes. Such benefits are taxable under present law, but are exempt from federal income tax.

Meanwhile, Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, filed a bill that would disqualify persons who quit their jobs from unemployment benefits. He said several other state have such a provision and said the benefits are intended for persons who want to work but cannot land a job.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST - Snow is due today from northern Alabama and Georgia to the Great Lakes and the Northeast. Rain is forecast for Florida. Cold weather is expected for most of

By The Associated Press

Another relatively mild day was in prospect for North Carolina today after Thursday's comfortable temperatures that climbed into the 40s and 50s.

However, more arctic air is on the way.

Sunshine, plus a southwest wind flow, pushed Thursday's high readings to 46 at Asheville in the mountains and 61 at Wilmington on the coast.

Highs elsewhere included

Charlotte and Hickory 47, Greensboro 48, Goldsboro 54, New Bern 54 and Raleigh-Durham 50.

Low temperatures this morning were similarly mild compared to recent readings. Charlotte and Raleigh-Durham were 29, Asheville 33, Greensboro 30 and Wilmington 39.

Temperatures again were expected to reach the 40s and 50s today, but the fresh wave of cold air was to move into the mountains tonight along with snow or snow flurries.

A possible accumulation of several inches was forecast for the northwest mountains.

It will be turning colder tonight with low readings ranging from the teens in the mountains to the 30s along the coast.

Saturday will be colder, with winds making it feel even more so. Highs will range from the 30s in the mountains to the 40s over the east portion.

Baillie Will Speak Here

ED BAILLIE

The president of the American Commuter Airlines, Ed Baillie of Orange, Calif., will speak to the Greenville Chapter dinner-meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship on Monday, Feb. 7, at 6:45 p.m. in the American Legion Building.

Baillie comes to Greenville under sponsorship of the business men's program and will give his personal testimony to Christ about 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend without charge.

Baillie is a businessman with executive background in both real estate and airlines. He is a past marketing director for the hundred million dollar Canyon Crest Development in Riverside, Calif., and a past member of the million dollar round table for the Coronado Caves Waterfront Residential Development.

Healing first came to Baillie when his flesh was burned from his hand by hot tar while working on a church. Immediately as his pastor and the people prayed the flesh returned.

He is now heading a special Family Healing Team for Youth Crusades of America.

Special Meet Of School Bd. Planned Feb. 8

Acceptance Of Grant Is Approved In Williamston

WILLIAMSTON - Members of the Williamston Town Board, meeting on Wednesday night, approved a resolution accepting a grant of $9,785 from the N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources. The grant is for work on step two of the Sewage Treatment Plant Project.

Another motion approved was that of the acceptance of some 15 or 16 acres of land on the back side of the Williamston Cemetery to be used for recreational purposes. The land was offered for this purpose by the Williamston Housing Authority.

A notice of termination of office space in the Town Hall now occupied by The Chamber of Commerce and the Credit Bureau was approved. The two occupants will have a 90 day period to relocate their offices.

The offer of a building without cost to the town was declined by the town board. Memorial Baptist Church had made an offer of the building, but because of its bad state, the decision was that it would not be worth moving to another site.

Approval was also given to a recommendation by Fire Chief Thomas Price that the town's water lines be extended on Hatton Street. Low-rent housing units are being constructed on this street.

An amendment to give the town's dog warden more authority on picking up stray dogs was discussed and will be taken up at the next board meeting.

As a final action at the meeting, board members passed a resolution going on record requesting businesses to restrict their operating hours during the energy crisis to 48 hours a week.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the watches were taken by thieves who forced their way into the front of the store.

The theft was discovered about 2:45 a.m.

CLOTHING BANK TO BE SUSPENDED

Spokeswomen for the Greenville Moose clothing bank said today they will suspend services on the first Monday in March. The clothing bank is open each Monday (1:30-3:00 p.m. through February).

Fuel-Saving Policies Set

Superintendent of Greenville City Schools Glenn Cox has announced that an area policy statement has been made on the conservation of energy in public schools in northeastern North Carolina.

The statement, issued at a meeting of school superintendents of the 17 county Northeastern North Carolina district, reads: "We will attempt to maintain classroom temperatures at 65 degrees during the normal school day. At the regular cut off time, temperatures of school facilities will be reduced to maintenance level. All after school and night time activities will be cancelled, rescheduled, or conducted without heat (at maintenance level)."

"This order shall become effective immediately and will continue in force until suspended by the Governor of North Carolina."

Cox said that details on how this measure will affect activities in the local schools will be made to the public within a short time.

New Hours

Due to the energy shortage, Pitt County automobile dealers will be observing new hours effective immediately, according to Bill Draper of the Pitt County Dealers' Association.

All parts and service departments will close at 5:30 p.m. weekdays and will be closed all day Saturday.

Sales departments will close at 5 p.m. Saturday and at 7 p.m. weekdays.

The new hours represent a total cutback in operating hours of 15 per cent, according to Draper.

Await Fines For Parking

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Cumberland County Sheriff Otis Jones, state Sen. Joe B. Raynor, D-Cumberland, state District Court Judge Charles L. Guy and former state Sen. Sneed High all have one thing in common.

Each owes the city of Fayetteville one dollar and officials estimate there may be as many as 75,000 other people like them.

They all have unpaid parking tickets, dating back to 1970, filed away in the finance department at Fayetteville's city hall.

The Fayetteville Times discovered that city officials rely more on a citizen's sense of civic responsibility than on the long arm of the law, because almost no effort is made to track down violators owing from one to five dollars.

Officers receive a letter if their fines have not been paid after 30 days and parking tickets are kept in an active file for one year.

After that, apparently, the finance office just waits. Jones' ticket was issued Nov. 16, 1976 and is one of 11,726 tickets still in the active file.

Moreover, another 12,413 tickets issued in 1975 still have not been paid.

Fayetteville's collections last year totaled approximately half the amount the city would have received — $22,544 — had all the fines been paid.

School Lunch Menus Upgraded

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — If restaurant patrons who have a bad meal don't return for another, why should students facing a similar situation continue to eat at school cafeterias?

Shirley Roberts, food service director for the school system here, answered the question by choosing a student committee to help plan menus and make suggestions for improving cafeteria patronage generally.

The committee members and cafeteria staff consult regularly to keep the bill of fare in line with students' changing tastes. Among the surprising choices high school students have made are bleu cheese dressing twice weekly for their salads and creamy Italian dressing instead of oil and vinegar other times.

Ms. Roberts said the junior high is buying more ketchup, in response to complaints from those served late in the lunch period that the ketchup bottles were always empty.

Dollars Galore; Not For Keeps

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two women were recently up to their elbows in dollars when they were assigned to count $1 million in one dollar bills at Security Bank here.

After counting the bills, the women then weighed and bundled them. The assignment took nine days, reports a representative of Western Temporary Services Inc.
