

Congress Calls For More Tax-Cutting And Outlays

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy majorities in both houses of Congress are now on record in favor of tax cuts and increased federal spending to boost the economy. The next question is how to do it.

First the Senate, on a 72-20 roll call, and next the House, 239 to 169, voted to amend the budget for the current fiscal year to allow tax reductions and spending hikes. But those votes did not commit the lawmakers to any specific plan to prime the economy.

However, the House, before amending the budget on Wednesday to allow a stimulus plan of up to $16.4 billion, indicated it prefers a one-shot rebate plan, such as the $50 per person advocated by President Carter, instead of a permanent tax cut.

By a vote of 258 to 148, the House rejected a Republican plan to reduce individual tax rates permanently by 15 percent. The GOP, led by Rep. John Roussetot of California, argued that the nation has persistently high unemployment because "excessive tax rates ... deter employment and investment."

Democrats called the GOP tax plan a classic example of the trickle-down theory of economics in which money spent by the wealthy is expected to eventually benefit low-income workers.

The House budget amendment of $16.4 billion compares to $15.5 billion that Carter recommended and $17.2 billion approved by the Senate.

There are two key differences between the House and Senate versions:

—The House plan envisions tax rebates or cuts for taxpayers and special bonuses to nontaxpayers totaling $12.7 billion, compared to $13.8 billion in the Senate. The House version accounts for changes in the Carter tax plan already approved by the Ways and Means Committee.

—The House added $215 million more than the Senate in special aid to help offset tax revenues lost by states, cities and counties because of the lagging economy and bad weather. The House plan totals $1 billion, a figure that reportedly is supported by Carter.

In addition to the tax cuts and special aid to state and local governments, here is how the plan envisioned by a majority of the House would work over the next seven months:

—$700 million for public-service jobs, such as in hospitals and jails. The aim is to expand from the current limit of 310,000 jobs to 600,000 over the next seven months and to 725,000 in 1978. Carter and the Senate recommended the same amount.

—$60 million for the job-opportunities program, which involves 12-month jobs on local economic-development projects funded partly by the federal government. Neither Carter nor the Senate recommended this.

—$500 million more to start construction on such publicworks projects as schools and hospitals, the same as approved by the Senate. Carter asked for only $200 million more.

—$600 million for special employment training and jobs targeted for young and old Americans, who are hardest hit by unemployment. The Senate figure is the same; Carter asked for only $300 million.

—$800 million for construction of antipollution and recreation facilities and railroad and highway construction. The Senate approved the same amount; Carter made no such request.

Completion By October

ALMOST COMPLETE — Construction on the four lane project for N.C. 11 and U.S. 13 is proceeding. Completion date for the project, according to highway officials, is Oct. 1, 1977. The

Fall Killed 8

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A twin-engine plane exploded in flight today and crashed into a house, killing eight persons, including Pennsylvania's state Transportation Secretary William Sherlock, police said.

A. H. Childs, director of PennDot's Bureau of Aviation, confirmed that Sherlock, 36, and his chief of staff, William Smith, were among the dead.

William Campbell, PennDot information officer, said two other department officials may have been on the plane when it crashed outside Harrisburg in suburban Swatara Township.

The officials were going to Ridgway in northwestern Pennsylvania to present a $52,000 check to the Area Transportation Authority of North Central Pennsylvania.

Four Cars Fall Into River

Tanker Wrecks Section Of James River Bridge

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP) — A tanker tore out a section of a bridge over the James River here during commuting time this morning, and a Coast Guard spokesman said four cars on the bridge fell into the river.

The spokesman said two persons had been pulled alive from the river, about 25 feet deep at the point of the accident, but that it was not known how many others were in the cars that fell into the water. No bodies had been recovered.

One end of the broken section of the Benjamin Harrison Bridge came to rest atop the tanker Marine Floridian, which was immobilized beneath the bridge.

Police said the 612-foot tanker, an empty sulphur carrier, was en route from Hopewell, an industrial city about 25 miles southeast of Richmond, to Newport News when the accident happened.

The State Highway Department said the drawbridge, near the middle of the span, had been raised to allow the tanker to pass but that the ship missed the opening and hit the bridge just north of the drawbridge.

The Coast Guard said one of its cutters, the Red Cedar, reported that the tanker was experiencing steering difficulties.

The 4,463-foot bridge, named for a three-time Virginia governor, was built at a cost of $5.5 million and opened in 1967. It links Jordan Point with Charles City County.

Tower, Plaza Slated

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc. announced plans today to construct a $34 million, 580,000-square foot office tower and pedestrian plaza in the downtown sector of its headquarters city.

The corporation is the parent company of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Sea-Land Service Inc., Aminoil International Inc., RJR Foods Inc. and rjr Archer. The tower is expected to be completed in 1980 adjacent to the Reynolds Building, the corporation's 48-year-old headquarters. The new and old structures will be connected by a landscaped walkway to form Reynolds Plaza.

The existing building will continue to serve as headquarters for R.J. Reynolds Tobacco, one of the nation's largest cigarette manufacturers.

Plans call for construction to begin in late spring 1978.

"RJR has grown dramatically since the early 1960s from a domestic tobacco company to a highly diversified worldwide corporation," said board chairman Colin Stokes.

Construction is expected to be completed next fall on the corporation's World Headquarters building, which also is in Winston-Salem.

Temporary Units

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt took a first step Wednesday toward easing overcrowding in the state's prison system.

On Hunt's request, the Advisory Budget Commission agreed to provide nearly $3 million for construction of temporary prison facilities to expand 29 prison units by a total of 1,024 beds.

The money is to come from the $3.2 million which had been set aside for construction at the Odom prison unit.

That construction project will be reimbursed from the next biennial budget, the commission decided.

The 144-bed Odom unit was expected to be delayed about three or four months.

North Carolina prisons house more than 13,000 inmates in buildings designed to hold 10,000. State officials say the federal courts might take the entire system over if the state doesn't take action quickly.

"There are a lot of things we're going to have to do and some of them are going to invoke criticism," Hunt said. "But we're going to have to face up to that and do those things that are required."

The temporary units, which will be modular housing, will include 680 beds in medium security and 344 in minimum security units.

They are expected to last about five years, and might be usable for offices after that if the inmates don't tear them up too badly.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Beth Clark of the Department of Social Services has requested the help of volunteers with pickup trucks to deliver wood to needy families in the county. The wood is already cut and stacked, but must be loaded and unloaded. Anyone who would like to volunteer to help deliver this wood should call Ms. Clark at 758-2168, Ext. 237. She will provide directions and the names of the families needing the wood for fuel.

GOT RINGS

I ordered two rings, one size 5 and a half, the other size 6, from the Krystagem Division in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Oct. 17 of last year. I have my canceled check for $5.96, but no rings. I've written the company and have heard nothing. I'd be glad to pay you for your services if you'll help me get either my rings or my money back. Mrs. B. B.

Hotline wrote the company, sending a copy to Family Weekly, The Daily Reflector Sunday supplement in which the rings were advertised. A week later, to the day, we received a letter from you thanking us for getting the rings for you and a letter from the company, with a copy sent to Family Weekly, saying they'd been mailed, that they believe the first ones sent you must have been lost in the mails.

You report you are not at all pleased with the rings, that they are "the kind you mash together to fit your finger" and that you believe you could have gotten rings of similar quality for less at a local department store.

You nor anyone else whom Hotline assists owes us anything. Regardless of the costs to the newspaper, there is never any charge for our services.

Peanuts? Billy Carter Can't Eat Them

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

AHOSKIE — Decked in his denim coat and pants and yellow "Hustler" cap, Billy Carter descended from the plane, smiled and with his small town southern expression he said "Hi there y'all." Carter was a special guest at the North Carolina and Virginia Peanut Trade Show in Ahoskie Wednesday.

Carter seemed at home with the reception of about 50 people including news media personnel, and Northampton County folks who just wanted to "see him and give him a big welcome" as one bystander said.

In conversation about the peanut business Carter admitted that he is allergic to peanuts.

"I can't eat them. They make me break out," he said.

Asked about how his brother, President Jimmy Carter, will be able to help him in the peanut business now that he is President, Carter replied, "I made a deal with him when he was elected, that I wouldn't say a damn thing to him about anything except peanuts, because that's my livelihood. Jimmy has a tendency to lean over backwards to not be partial toward anything, but he knows what money he was elected on and that's peanut money. I do think that Jimmy will guarantee us (peanut growers) a break even price, not subsidies, in fact for corn and soybeans also."

Carter said that his $7 million peanut business does not process peanuts.

"We only grow them, shell them and ship them out. Last year our crops yielded about 3,200 pounds per acre."

Carter said that he is not sorry that his brother was elected President and the election will not change his image in any way.

"I'm not sorry that Jimmy was elected at all. I talk to him about every day or every other day. I think that I have a damn good image and you just don't change 40 years of good image just 'cause Jimmy was elected," he said.

Asked about his future in politics, Carter said that he is not interested.

"I refuse to run for mayor again. Losing three times is too much."

Carter said that Plains, Ga. has had one major change since the election—too many people.

"We used to have zero tourists, and now we have 5,000. I like the reason that we have the extra people, but I don't like having them there." "If my wife said move I would," Carter added. Asked what he thinks about the problems that the Plains Baptist Church is having, Carter said that he doesn't attend church. "I know the situation at the church, but I don't go there. I don't make the rules and I don't play the games," he said. Carter denied reports that he will be in a movie about Plains,

Ga. "The movie is just a publicity stunt. The movie agent claims that I said I would be in it and then said that I wouldn't do it. It's the first time that I have ever been sued for $2 million before, but it's just a publicity stunt." Asked if the reports about his image and loving beer so much were true Carter said "They're partially accurate. I do love beer. In fact we ran out of it on the way here today." Carter's best friend, Bud Duval, was with him in Ahsokie Wednesday. Duval, also wearing a "Hustler" (a series of Peanut equipment made by Harrington Manufacturing Company.) cap and a leisurely outfit, said that Carter and President Carter are his neighbors. "I live between Jimmy and Billy. Billy and I grew up together and always hang around together. I've been with him two or three times to a speaking arrangement, but I won't be doing it much more. I'm unemployed at the present, but plan to be working soon." Duval said. Duval said that on a recent job application he listed Jimmy, Lillian, and Billy Carter as references and he was immediately assured of the job. Duval also said that he agreed with Carter's description of the additional people in Plains, Ga. "Just like Billy said, since Jimmy was elected Plains went to Hell. I just hate to see how it will be this summer. Everyone has gotten along all right though. If they are doing anything wrong, someone just asks them to straighten up and they do," Duval said. Ken Hawkins, a photographer for "Time Magazine" also traveled with Carter Wednesday. Hawkins said that he traveled with the President during the campaign and noted that there are many features that are alike about the two brothers. "The brothers are much alike. They smile alike and I can get them in the right lighting and Billy will look like Jimmy and Jimmy will look like Billy." Shirley Pierce, President of the Trade Show said that members of the N.C. and Va. Peanut District expected 20,000 to 30,000 people at the trade show, with a large portion of the show coming to see Billy Carter. Mildred Bolton, of Rich Square one of the bystanders at the airport, said that she was very excited about seeing Carter. "It was very exciting. My husband who works here at the Tri-County Airport has been waiting and getting excited for more than a week." Following the reception at the airport, Carter toured the Peanut Trade Show in Ahsokie.

Hankins At Policy Meet

William W. Hankins, director of East Carolina University's Urban and Regional Planning Program, is one of 11 North Carolina delegates at the American Institute of Planners (AIP) national policy conference in Washington, D.C. this week.

Hankins is the only planning educator in the official North Carolina delegation.

Goal of the conference is to produce a document reflecting the AIP policy position regarding 20 fields of concern.

Among the substantive areas to be discussed are housing, land use, environment, energy and economic development, transportation, citizen participation and intergovernmental relations.

Resulting policy statements will prove helpful to the AIP in developing and assessing planning proposals which will be considered by Congress and the Carter administration.

Nat'l Board To Gather At ECU

Members of the board of directors of the National Eligibility Workers (NEW) will meet in Greenville Friday, Feb. 25, in East Carolina University's Carol G. Belk Allied Health Building.

President of NEW is Margie Young-Taylor of the Norfolk, Va. Department of Social Services. NEW officers and board members include professionals from North Carolina and several other states.

According to Ken Lewis, associate professor of social work at ECU, NEW's national membership is approximately 2,000.

NEW was formed two years ago, and is the only national organization specifically concerned with the problems and professional development of the nation's eligibility workers, those who determine eligibility of applicants for social services. Ms. Young-Taylor said the board members will plan for NEW's spring conference, which has been tentatively set for Greenville.

Moeller Leading Tokyo Seminar

Prof. H. G. Moeller of the East Carolina University Department of Social Work and Correctional Services is in Tokyo where he is leading a three-week seminar at the United Nations Asia and Far East Institute.

Moeller was invited by the Japanese Ministry of Justice to direct a seminar on prevention of crime and treatment of offenders. The seminar began Feb. 20 and will end March 11.

Participating in the seminar are 25 seminar criminal justice officials from 12 southeast Asia countries, who are discussing the adaptation of concepts of community corrections in Asian nations.

Miss Debra Frances Allen Weds Gary Ray Smith

Miss Debra Frances Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen Sr. of Greenville, became the bride of Gary Ray Smith, son of Mrs. O'Neal Smith of Greenville, and Mr. Ray Smith of Winterville, Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by John Williams in the King Cross Roads Church.

A program of wedding music was presented by Ronnie Hobgood of Farmville, cousin of the bride, organist, and Mary Lloyd, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of polyester organza and chanelace fashioned with a scoop neckline and empire bodice with cha lace and seed pearls. The lace was repeated on the long bishop sleeves, the A-line skirt and built-in chapel length train.

Her Camelot headpiece was bordered with chantilace attached to fingertip tiers of silk illusion. She carried a formal cascade of blue carnations with blue and white ribbon.

The maid of honor was Pam Briley of Rt. 5, Greenville. Sally Allen of Greenville was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Becky Allen, Lisa Allen and Angel Smith, all of Greenville.

The attendants wore formal gowns of blue floral chiffon over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a V-neckline accented by layers of chiffon forming a berth collar. The full A-line skirt ended in a deep flounce. They were a cascade of daisies to match their dresses.

The flower girl was Susan Stephenson of Suffolk, Va., niece of the bride. She was dressed like the other attendants and carried a basket of blue carnations.

The attendants carried colonial bouquets of blue carnations.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Gordon Sutton, Neil Elks, Ronnie Smith, brother of the bridegroom, and Mac Roebuck, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a navy and white street length dress with a matching coat. She wore a corsage of red roses. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. S. L. Corbett, of Fountain was given a white carnation corsage.

The church was decorated with an arch candelabra, two nine branch candelabra and two spiral candelabra. A prayer bench completed the wedding scene. Family pews were marked by satin bows.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is employed by Roses Stores, Inc., and the bridegroom is with N. C. Equipment Co.

MRS. GARY RAY SMITH

An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Pete Sawyer in Ayden given by Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs.

Ronald Stephenson of Suffolk, Va., sisters of the bride. The wedding cake was cut by the bride and bridegroom.

Don't Undermine Hubby's Confidence

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of wives who have threatened to leave their husbands unless they gave up their dangerous jobs as policemen. Well, I'm not about to leave my husband because of his dangerous job, only he's not a cop, but a newspaper truck driver who drives 200 miles a night, five nights a week.

My husband (I'll call him Mike) is in the hospital from his second serious accident in five years. Five years ago a drunk hit him head on. Both Mike's legs were broken and his finger was torn off. (The drunk was killed instantly.)

Last week, Mike hit a deer! The deer's legs came right through the windshield and into the cab of the truck. The deer proceeded to kick Mike in the face. Luckily a constable arrived on the scene and shot the deer, or it might have kicked Mike to death.

All Mike's front teeth were knocked out, and it took 65 stitches to sew his face up.

Abby, newspapers must be delivered, so Mike goes out in all kinds of weather. Sometimes these Pennsylvania roads are one sheet of ice, and it's so foggy you can't see your hand in front of your face. He's been driving for 20 years, and lately, every time I say goodbye to him, I'm a nervous wreck until he gets home safe.

I've begged him to get a different job, but he won't. If you or anyone else can offer a reasonable suggestion for coping with this problem, I'll listen. I love Mike with all my heart and figure if he loved me as much, he'd see my point and change jobs.

MIKE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you've begged Mike to change jobs and he's refused, it's evidence that he's doing what he wants to do and probably what he does best. Granted, his job has a higher risk factor than most, but threatening to leave him will only undermine his confidence in himself and add yet another burden to his already burdensome job.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I raised three fine daughters. Two are now happily married. Our youngest, 23, has fallen in love with an assistant college professor who doesn't even have enough money to buy her an engagement ring.

They want to get married with "no muss, no fuss" (her words). All they want at the ceremony are his parents, their sisters and brothers, us, a few of their close friends and the preacher!

Should we allow our daughter, a fifth-generation American, to get married without dignity like a West Virginia Hillbilly?

UNHAPPY IN VIRGINIA

DEAR UNHAPPY: Every bride is entitled to the kind of wedding she wants. And her plans sound dignified enough to me.

(P.S. And what do you mean, "allow"? At 23, she doesn't need your permission—or even your presence. Just be glad she wants YOU there.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school, and my parents still treat me like I was 2 years old. Last Friday night I went to a basketball game with some kids and said I'd be home by 12:30 p.m. Well, I didn't get home until 1:25 a.m., but it wasn't my fault. The kid who owned the car went for a ride afterward, and I couldn't get home without him.

When I got home my mother was practically in hysterics. My father said if I'd been gone another five minutes they'd have called the police.

I've been grounded for six months. I tried to explain that it wasn't my fault, and if they'd let me off this time it would never happen again, but they wouldn't listen. Don't you think their punishment is too rough for what I did?

GROUNDING

DEAR GROUNDING: Yes. But if you take your punishment like a man, perhaps your parents will be so impressed with the maturity of your behavior, they'll shorten the grounding time. Try it.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It was one of those days when I wanted my own apartment . . . unlisted.

My son was telling me in complete detail about a movie he had just seen, punctuated by 3,000 "You know's?" My teeth were falling asleep.

There were three phone calls — strike that — three monologues that could have been answered by a recording. I fought the urge to say, "It's been nice listening to you."

In the cab from home to the airport, I got another assault on my ear, this time by a cab driver who was rambling on about his son whom he supported in college, and was in his last year, who put a P.S. on his letter saying, "I got married. Her name is Diane." He asked me, "What do you think of that?" and proceeded to answer the question himself.

There were 30 whole beautiful minutes before my plane took off . . . time for me to be alone with my own thoughts, to open a book and let my mind wander. A voice next to me belonging to an elderly woman said, "I'll bet it's cold in Chicago."

Stone-faced I answered, "It's likely."

"I haven't been to Chicago in nearly three years," she persisted. "My son lives there."

"That's nice!" I said, my eyes intent on the printed page of the book.

"My husband's body is on this plane. We've been married for 53 years. I don't drive, you know and when he died a nun drove me from the hospital. We aren't even Catholic. The funeral director let me come to the airport with him."

I don't think I have ever detested myself more than I did at that moment. Another human being was screaming to be heard and in desperation had turned to a cold stranger who was more interested in a novel than the real-life drama at her elbow.

All she needed was a listener . . . no advice, wisdom, experience, money, assistance, expertise or even compassion . . . but just a minute or two to listen.

It seemed rather incongruous that in a society of sophisticated communication, we often suffer from a shortage of listeners.

PTI Program To Be Helpful

Pitt Technical Institute has begun a physicians assistant program, the first such program in a state community college or technical institute.

Students who enter the program next fall will face 24 months of intensive training in orthopedics, emergency room procedures, pediatrics, family practice, psychiatry, obstetrics and other phases of medicine.

Once they complete the program they will be awarded an associate degree in applied sciences. Then the graduates can take the National Certification examination and become members of the American Academy of Physicians Assistants.

The program is expected to be helpful in providing medical care in rural areas in that the physicians assistants can carry out many duties currently done by physicians.

Part of the reason for approval of the physicians assistants program at Pitt Tech was the location of the medical school and other health care training facilities at ECU.

It appears to us that Pitt Tech has the beginnings of a good program which will fit in with other medical training now underway in this area. The physicians assistants program can be particularly beneficial to Eastern North Carolina where we have rural counties with little medical care.

Even with all that has been done in recent years to increase the number of physicians in the state it is not likely that the medical care situation is going to improve too much in rural areas without programs such as the physicians assistants training.

With this program Pitt Tech has a real opportunity to be of great service to the entire eastern section of the state.

Will We Get As Much Work In 4 Days?

The state government agencies have been operating on a four-day ten-hour schedule since the advent of the energy crisis, and Gov. Hunt has indicated that the schedule could become permanent.

Frankly we have strong doubts that the state gets the same amount of work in four ten-hour days that it gets in five eight-hour days.

We think that before the four day state government work week is made permanent the situation should be studied very critically — and that does not mean merely taking the word of department heads that everything is going along fine.

THIS AFTERNOON

Many Seeking State Jobs

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — While many employees of the State of North Carolina protest recent figures which show state workers generally being paid more than private industry employees, the lines grow ever longer for people anxious to land a job with the state.

In office less than two months, Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. already has on file applications from between 4,000 and 5,000 people wanting jobs in his administration. Those figures don't even take into consideration hundreds more who have not formally applied, but are seeking jobs through various political connections.

Says one highly placed political appointee already on the payroll: "I can get little else done from talking with people hunting jobs."

Everybody "If all of those who say they gave money to the Hunt campaign, who supported him early, and who voted for him had done so, the election results would have been 2.5 million to zip . . . and we would have an embarrassingly large bank account."

Meanwhile, at the State Personnel Division, job applicants continue to outnumber vacancies by a score of seven-to-one. Employee groups are already organizing resistance to announced intentions of the governor to trim the payroll by two per cent.

Yet recent reports in this column on figures contained in a legislative study commission report which detailed state salary levels as being generally up to $2,000 per year higher than private industry wages; even running up to $4,000 per year higher in rural counties, have drawn a flurry of protests from state employees across the state.

From a college professor in Greenville, a public school teacher in Gaston County, a mental health expert in Burke County, and a public relations person in Raleigh have come arguments against the conclusions reached in that legislative report.

But regardless of the arguments used, the central protest boils down to one point in each instance: true, other state employees may well be overpaid . . . but not those of us in (Pick One—teaching, roadwork, secretarial, colleges, personnel etc.).

A top aide to Gov. Hunt says: "I think salaries for routine work—clerical and so on—have gone higher than the norm. But not so with those at executive levels."

BILL NOBLITT

A public relations man argues: "It may be that middle management people—office managers, personnel types—are making too much; but not those in my kind of work." Both personnel and public relations salaries generally are in the upper 20s and low 30s.

Awesome Job
A college professor writes: "We 8,500 college teachers represent some of the most highly trained professionals employed by the State, yet, with all our awesome credentials, duties, and responsibilities, we are not paid anything even resembling a professional salary." That individual makes $15,400 per year.

A worker with the mentally retarded insists that bureaucrats draw down the salaries in the $30,000 range, while those in the field actually make below the state average of $10,350 per year.

Despite the arguments of inequities from one group to another and the recognition that in order for the average to be $10,350, some make less and some make more, the figures contained in the legislative study report are based on data from a variety of sources, and led the Committee on Tax-Exempt State-Owned Property to conclude emphatically that: the average annual State salary generally is $1,000-$2,000 higher than the average for private industry employees, and State salaries keep the countywide average salary levels higher than they would be otherwise. Also, layoff and termination rates for State employees are much lower than for private industry.

Meanwhile, back at the Capitol, there were 10 people lined up at one desk lobbying for a state job.

"It's Okay, folks . . . what good of Andy MEANT say was . . . Oh, f'pete's sake, SHUT UP, Andy!"

The Dick & Henry Show

WASHINGTON — "Good evening, my fellow Americans. This is Henry Kissinger of NBC News. With me tonight is a special guest who will join me in a discussion of the problems of early retirement. He was associated with me for several years in my efforts to bring about world peace. Good evening, Mr. Nixon. I wonder if you could tell us how you spend your time at San Clemente."

"Why certainly, Henry. As you know, I am writing a book about the Nixon years."

"How interesting. It so happens that I, too, am writing a book about the Kissinger years. I have made no decision yet about the television rights. I imagine they will want to do an eight-part series on the order of 'Roots.' I am being importuned to play myself, but I have suggested Robert Redford for the part."

"Well, I expect to be in the bookstores before you, Henry. I'm just at the part where I go to China. I think I may end it right there."

"How interesting, Mr. Nixon. I had thought of beginning my book with my trip to China. I have often wondered, and I am sure you have, too, how different the history of the world would be had I not conceived the idea . . ."

"Your idea? My idea, Henry, and you know it. I've got it on tape, too. And then I am making a television series with David Frost."

"How interesting. As you see, I'm on television, too; Mr. Nixon. This is the first of my regular shows, a historic first, as you might say."

"Say, by the way, Henry, are you getting the same kind of money as Barbara Walters?"

"Ah, Mr. Nixon, I am afraid that the national interest would be in no way served by the revelation of confidential information."

"Well, Henry, I just wondered. The only thing I would consider myself would be sportscasting."

"How interesting you should mention sports, Mr. Nixon. You know that I am an honorary member of the Harlem Globetrotters."

"Yes, Henry, I noticed that, but I've never seen you in the uniform."

"No, Mr. Nixon. I may do a special with them later on, but nothing is set. My time is not my own. Show business is very demanding — not that they haven't been kind. I have my own studio, three producers four secretaries, two drivers, a makeup artist, and a generous travel allowance."

"How much, Henry?"

"Ah, Mr. Nixon, there are diplomatic secrets in this business as in any other."

"Oh sure, Henry, I get it. The other guys might get sore. Jerry Ford has signed up with NBC, too. How much do you suppose he is getting?"

"Mr. Nixon, I am unable to keep up with the gossip of the trade, because, you understand, my time is not my own. I am making plans for a special on the Middle East."

"Back on the old shuttle, eh, Henry? Say, how much did King Hussein get from the CIA?"

"Mr. Nixon, this is hardly the place to discuss matters of national security. Besides, I have no recollection of it."

"Neither do I, Henry, but how much would you guess in all?"

"Mr. Nixon, I must remind you that discussion of this kind can be enormously divisive, reflect unfairly on highly motivated public servants and legitimate foreign governments and encourage Congress in its dangerous tendency to meddle."

"Say, speaking of the CIA, Henry, I read in the papers that Richard Helms is going to turn you in on Chile if they don't stop leaning on him. Boy, you must be sweating."

"Mr. Nixon, may I remind you that this is a matter under adjudication in the courts and that any comment from me would be wholly inappropriate."

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Linbergh landed in Bombay, India, today after being unreported for 48 hours on an aerial jaunt over India.

Little concern had been felt for the Colonel and his wife, whose insistence on privacy had previously caused them to be reported lost, although a widespread unofficial search failed to penetrate their two-day disappearance.

Refugee camps in Louisiana and Mississippi expanded today as backwaters of tributaries spread over farm lands and highways and the broad Mississippi pushed its flood burden to the Gulf.

The great waterway itself caused little trouble, although 1,000 men continued topping the Black Hawk and Fair View dikes along the long stretch in Concordia Parish on the Louisiana bank below Natchez, Miss.

Only a slight further rise below Natchez was expected. The river has been on a 58-foot stand there since Sunday and was dropping at Vicksburg.

THE INSIDE REPORT

The Promise From Carter

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — White House is handling Jimmy Carter's campaign pledge to deregulate the price of gas, by downgrading its authenticity, is graphically illustrated by this recent exchange between a reporter and one of President Carter's senior aides:

Q: Does President Carter consider as an iron-clad commitment his Oct. 19, 1976, letter to the governors of Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma promising unqualified deregulation of natural gas?

A. (Pause.) Well, did Jimmy write it in his own handwriting, or did he just sign a letter written for him by the staff or somebody else? That might be interesting to know.

The implication: Handwritten letters by the President are the word; typewritten documents signed by him may be suspect. This clearly would increase flexibility in Carter's pledge to fulfill every campaign promise. Moreover, it would give Mr. Carter leeway on the politically prickly matter of whether or not to end federal regulation of natural gas prices.

The question arose because Dr. James Schlesinger, Mr. Carter's cabinet-level energy adviser, and Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus indicated there is no commitment to deregulation. Congressional sponsors of deregulation who had campaigned for Mr. Carter — including Rep. Robert Krueger of Texas — were unpleasantly surprised.

So, shortly after Mr. Carter's inauguration, Krueger informed Schlesinger that Jimmy Carter was President because that Oct. 19 letter enabled him to carry

Texas and Louisiana. When we reported that fact a week later, the letter became central in what begins to look like the climactic phase of the generation-long fight over gas regulation.

Reports were published last weekend that the letter was "drafted by oil and gas interests" — mainly by a Washington lawyer named Duke Ligon. The implicit suggestion here is that Mr. Carter is a dupe who really did not realize what he was signing. This might tend to clarify the cryptic remarks of the senior Carter aide drawing a distinction between handwritten and typed letters signed by his chief.

In truth, however, Mr. Carter is no dupe — and his letter was not manufactured by big oil. The letter was conceived Oct. 9 at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas where Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas and Gov. David Boren of Oklahoma came together for the Texas-Oklahoma football game.

Chatting with then Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, the two governors worried that Mr. Carter might lose the oil-and-gas-producing states — and the presidency. Thus, it was decided in the Cotton Bowl to draft a letter for Carter's signature that would align him against gas price regulation — and enable Dolph Briscoe aggressively to campaign for him.

Boren's staff immediately relayed that decision to Ligon, a former federal energy official now in a Washington law firm representing oil and gas interests. A lifelong friend of Boren, Ligon had been giving the governor energy advice for months and promptly sent him three new memos — on natural gas, oil and conversion to coal.

The natural gas memo was drawn upon by Boren's staff in drafting a letter for Mr. Carter pledging unconditional deregulation. That letter was sent to Carter headquarters in Atlanta the week of Oct. 11. It was signed without material change by Mr. Carter Oct. 19 and mailed back to Briscoe, Boren and Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana a standard campaign procedure. Ligon did not learn of the letter's existence until the next week when a copy was shown him at a gas producer's convention in New Orleans.

Mr. Carter had more than two weeks remaining in the campaign to repudiate or modify that promise. Instead, (Continued on page 6)

Strength For Today

IT'S UP TO US

Do you ever complain about your luck and the injustice of the world? If you do not, you are exceptional. Most of us are ready upon the least pretext to assail others for our failures, or to blame circumstances for our unhappiness.

But we should never forget that we are unhappy because of the people we are. Happiness is neither created by possession of certain things, nor denied us because we lack these things. If things made the crucial difference in people's happiness, the rich would all be happy and the poor would all be miserable. This is not the case, and never was.

Happiness is an inner state of contentment with the world and particularly with ourselves. Happiness has its springs in the innermost crevasses of our nature. Abraham Lincoln was close to the truth when he made the observation that people are about as happy as they make up their minds to be.

Realism On The Stock Market

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Every so often there erupts a spirited surge of investing that for a brief while creates a lot of excitement and arouses hopes for a new era of economic growth.

But then a somber and perhaps more realistic mood descends on the hopes and shoulders of the overly optimistic and then everyone agrees the excitement was just a little steam being vented.

Stock market investors refrain from heavy commitments to corporate growth. Corporations themselves decline to make capital commitments and seek to keep stockholders happy through dividend increases.

Individuals who once had dreams of a second home now build their bank accounts instead, or else search the art and antique markets, satisfied to enjoy some little bit now in place of a great deal later on.

And the National Association of Manufacturers howls; certain economists warn of dreadful consequences; and the news media run stories of the country going down the drain "like Britain."

For millions of Americans an economic nightmare is developing: In their view the United States is killing the vitality that brought it at one time the highest material standard in the world, smothering it in big government.

The causes might be debatable, but the facts seem to document the claims that the current American mood is less than daring in regard to future growth.

In the stock market, the number of individual participants is believed to be still dropping. In 1970 they numbered 30,850,000; in 1975, just 25,270,000. Little seems to have happened since then to change the trend.

For several years the trend in odd-lot transactions, or transactions of fewer than 100 shares — supposedly indicative of smaller investors — has been heavily on the sell side.

Mutual funds, many of them formed in the 1960s to take advantage of what then was felt to be the inevitable swift growth of major corporations, have been suffering net redemptions.

Corporate price-earnings ratios, or the number of time per share earnings at which a stock sells — are sometimes only a fraction of what they were a few years ago. The P-E of the Dow Jones Industrial Average was 9.7 last Friday. A year ago it was 13.1. In 1964 it was 18.8.

Blyth Eastman Dillon says the gloomy assessment of investors dates to the mid-1960s, and has its roots in a 30 per cent decline of real corporate profits between 1966 and 1976.

Simultaneous with the decline in corporate profitability, many stock analysts point out, there has been an increase in the proportion of national income in the form of employee compensation.

Enraged by the trends, corporation executives often rail against the quality of economic education, ambitious regulators, self-serving politicians who advocate spending projects that bring them votes, and environmentalists who "block progress."

"How can we invest under such circumstances?" they ask.

And the individual investors answers: "How can we have faith in the future if you don't?"

And often by default, the planning falls to the politicians and the bureaucrats, who many claim are the root cause of the trouble in the first place.

Oil Execs Deny 'Withholding'

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators call it withholding gas. Oil company executives refer to it as deferring development of their reserves.

But Rep. John E. Moss says its name doesn't matter "to the nearly half-million Americans who have been or are still unemployed because of gas curtailments in the severest of winters."

The House Commerce subcommittee which on Wednesday completed a round of hearings on gas supply problems.

Moss and committee investigators claim there has been deliberate withholding by producers on federal oil and gas leases in the Gulf of Mexico. They say oil companies are sitting on their reserves to await higher prices or for other economic reasons.

An Interior Department study released last week also found that production in some Gulf of Mexico fields had been drastically reduced over the past few years — for no apparent reason. That study stopped short of using the term "withholding."
Yet despite the congressional hearings and the Interior report, the central issue of whether gas is being intentionally kept off the interstate market remains unresolved.

In a news conference on Wednesday, President Carter said, "I think it is obvious to all of us that there are some instances where natural gas is withheld from the market. That's understandable. If I was running an oil company I would reserve the right to release or to reserve some supplies of natural gas."

During his campaign, Carter called for lifting federal price controls from gas in interstate commerce for a trial period of four to five years. Some form of this proposal may be in the energy bill he submits to Congress in late April.

Investigators for Moss' subcommittee said that Texaco has reserves of over 500 billion cubic feet of natural gas in two nonproducing reservoirs off the Louisiana coast that it could have pumped into interstate pipelines on six months' notice.
The investigators said this gas could have helped ease the winter's gas crisis, but that Texaco is withholding it from production to maximize its profits by awaiting higher prices.

The allegation was disputed Wednesday by Texaco Senior Vice President Richard B. Palmer. He acknowledged the gas was there but said its production was reserved for the future.
"Some critics claim new wells should be drilled to produce known reserves still faster at all costs. This could have a disastrous result," Palmer warned. "Interstate pipeline companies have designed their systems based on a continued supply for at least 15 to 20 years."

Moss said he was unimpressed by Texaco's explanation or similar statements by other oil company executives. He claimed it was "an exercise in rhetorical niceties which avoids the really central issue at hand: who should control the rate of development of natural gas from publicly owned lands?"

Reverse Migration Out Of Metropolitan Areas

DENVER (AP) — More Americans are moving away from metropolitan areas than are moving to them "in one of the noteworthy reversals in migratory patterns in the nation's history," a Rand Corporation demographer said today.

Some of the places these people are moving to have experienced little or no growth for decades, according to a report by Dr. Peter Morrison to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Migration is gaining recognition as a powerful and unpredictable force," Morrison said. "The essentially private and unregulated movements that make up migration flows are now being scrutinized for the newly perceived costs they create, both at origin and especially at destination."

Morrison made these points:
—Each year between 1970 and 1975, for every 100 people who moved to a metropolitan area, 131 moved out. Net migration gains occurred in nearly two-thirds of all nonmetropolitan counties, compared with only one-quarter in the 1960s.

—In 1974, 10 of the nation's largest Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas were declining in population: Chicago, New York, Los Angeles-Long Beach, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Seattle-Everett and Cincinnati.

—At least 44, or nearly one in six, of all 259 metropolitan areas in the United States had fewer residents in 1975 than they did in 1970, and one in three metropolitan residents was living in an area of population decline.

—Migrants are gravitating increasingly toward the South and Southwest, producing a wave of growth in those areas and leaving behind a population stagnation throughout much of the Northeast.

Some small cities have rebelled. Petaluma and Livermore in the San Francisco area, Boulder, Colo., and Boca Raton, Fla., are among the smaller cities trying to control growth from migration by imposing population ceilings or enacting other measures.

"Oh, sure, Henry, you know how I feel about the press. By the way, I see you gave your papers to the Library of Congress. What a deal. You're the only one can use them. How did you manage that?"

"Mr. Nixon, I think perhaps we would talk about you. What did you think of my retirement? I might mention that hardly a day goes by without some touching reminder that I am not totally forgotten. Golda calls, Anwar calls. It's almost as if I had never left."

"Yeah, Henry, I'm sure it seems that way to a lot of people. How do you think Vance is doing?"

"Vance? Vance? Vance Hartke, you mean? Why do you inquire about him?"

"Henry, I was speaking of the secretary of state."

"The secretary of state? But I am the... Oh, yes, I see what you are driving at. Him. I am afraid I must decline to comment, Mr. Nixon. I have vowed that not one word will pass my lips about the man who is trying to fill my shoes. It is nonsense to say, although many have, that I am a hard act to follow. I am sure he is doing the best he can. And now we must pause for a commercial."

As discussions on dangerous intersections or debates on gas rate increases proceed, viewers can punch buttons on a handheld remote-control unit and say, "Yes, I agree; No, I disagree; speak louder; go slower, I want more details; go faster, I want less detail."

The viewers' opinions are counted by a computer and printed out and televised to the association members at the meeting within seconds.

The system was given its first test Monday night during the monthly meeting.

Don Rozak, manager of the cable television station, said the response "was pretty good."

"There were some problems, like one lengthy presentation that didn't interest the viewers, and they switched to another show but most came back later for the other discussions."

"We feel it will be a tremendous success. There is no other environment where more than one person can express an opinion at the same time without having chaos," he said.

Randy Hanselka, the Grogan's Mill Association president, said, "To the best of our knowledge no local government meeting has ever before been brought into homes for two-way communications."

during an eleventh-hour swing through Louisiana trying to salvage it from seemingly sure victory by Gerald Ford, Mr. Carter unequivocally supported deregulation. That reversed the trend in Louisiana.

No realist expects the President to live up totally to his Oct. 19 letter or his Louisiana speeches promising unconditional deregulation. But Gov. Boren, an early Carter supporter, and Rep. Krueger will be relatively content with deregulation limited to new gas and phased over five years.

What worries them is the possibility the plan will put some cap on future prices or tie gas prices to oil prices, substituting statutory regulation by regulation by the Federal Power Commission. That would perpetuate the same conditions that have caused today's natural gas shortages despite plentiful reserves.

Such suspicions are engendered by White House dancing around the Oct. 19 letter. To the President's nervous supporters in gas-producing states, a promise is a promise, handwritten or not.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Snow is due today for the Great Lakes, and changing to rain over New England. Snow is also forecast for the Southwest and western Plains. Seasonable temperatures are forecast from the Pacific to the Plains and mild readings for the Midwest and East. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A late winter storm sent a line of thunderstorms moving through North Carolina today, springing up after midnight in the mountains and heading for the coast.

By 7:30 a.m., Asheville had measured .56 inches of rain, Charlotte and 28 and Hickory .47.

Heavy downpours and strong winds moved along the storm line and a flash flood watch was in effect for a time along the eastern slopes and foothill areas.

The stormy weather moving rapidly across the state was expected to reach the coast by late afternoon. Fair weather will follow into Friday, the National Weather Service said.

The current warm spell has been brought on by drastic changes in the wind circulation at the upper levels of the atmosphere and warm conditions are expected to continue through the weekend.

It will be cool at night but no exceptionally cold weather is expected through Monday.

Temperatures climbed to the high 60s and low 70s around the state Wednesday, hitting 71 at Wilmington. New Bern, Rocky Mount and the Raleigh-Durham area all recorded a high of 70 degrees. Charlotte and Goldsboro had 69, Elizabeth City 68 and Greensboro 67. Asheville was 61.

Low readings this morning included 55 at Charlotte, Hickory and Fayetteville 53, Greensboro 52 and Asheville 49

New Playschool Session Begins

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will begin a new session of playschool for children at the Senior Citizens Center at the corner of Fourth and Green Street, beginning Friday.

This playschool is for children from three to five years old. It will meet Friday mornings only from 9:30 to 11:30 for 10 weeks. There will be a $2.50 charge for the 10 weeks to cover the cost of refreshments.

The class will be limited to the first 25 children registered. Registration will be held Friday at 9:30 at the Senior Citizens Center. For further information, one may call the Greenville Recreation and Parks Dept., 752-4137, Ext. 251.

Arrest Two In Forgery Probes

Chief Glenn Cannon said today that James Earl Bostic, 17 of Route 2, Ayden was arrested on two counts of forgery and Bryan C. Sparrow, 25 of Azelea Gardens was jailed on two counts of uttering a forged check Tuesday following investigation of two incidents at the Winn-Dixie store here.

Cannon said the first of the incidents occurred January 25 and involved a $20 check, while the second occurred February 12 and involved a $25 check.

Bostic and Sparrow were placed in Pitt County Jail under $1,000 bond on each of the charges.

Committee Belabors Warnke, But Confirmation Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee is still belaboring Paul Warnke over his positions on arms control, but the full Senate appears set to confirm Adm. Stansfield Turner as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The confirmation vote on Turner was expected today, following a 17-0 vote in the Senate Intelligence Committee on Wednesday recommending approval of the 53-year-old admiral.

Warnke, selected by President Carter to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and to be the chief U.S. strategic arms negotiator with the Soviets, repeatedly denied on Wednesday that he has changed his stand on key arms control issues.

Senators on the armed services panel, in a second day of hostile questioning, accused Warnke of taking dovish views in the past on arms questions.

Sen. William L. Scott, R-Va., told Warnke, "I wonder if you couldn't better serve your government as head of the Peace Corps."

Committee chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., scheduled another day of hearings Monday, with two witnesses to testify for and two against Warnke.

Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and John Tower, R-Tex., will choose the opposition witnesses, while Sens. Gary Hart, D-Colo., and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., will consult with the Carter administration in choosing the proponents.

Warnke is expected to win confirmation easily, despite the intense opposition in the armed services panel. He already has been endorsed by the Foreign Relations Committee, which has sole responsibility to send the nomination to the full Senate for a vote.

Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., who has threatened to filibuster against Warnke, told the 57-year-old lawyer, "Your nomination is scarcely in doubt."

Jackson listed nine instances in which he said Warnke's statements at his confirmation hearings were "outright contradictions" of positions he took in the past eight years in writings and public statements.

Warnke said he would be "happy to supply" corroboration that his "fundamental views have been consistent." But he added, "as events change, you have to respond to that change."

Has Calf With Limp 5th Leg

ROARING SPRING, Pa. (AP) — Chester Erb has a new calf with a leg-up on the rest of the herd. The calf was born with five legs — the limp extra one hanging from its back.

"If Mother Nature is producing a calf with a leg to kick flies away, what kind of flies can we expect?" Erb asked.

He has been a farmer for 30 years, but it was a first for him when the calf, weighing a healthy 125 pounds, was born two weeks ago on his farm near this southcentral Pennsylvania town.

After the midnight arrival, he phoned Dr. Raymond Widmann, a veterinarian.

"If that thing has four good feet to stand on and one to kick 'H' out of me, I don't want any part of it," Dr. Widmann said he first told Erb.

Ends Series On Parenting

JACKSON — East Carolina University child development specialist Nash Love Jr. was featured in a three-part program on Effective Parenting, sponsored here by the Northampton County Board of Education.

Program sessions were held Feb. 5, 10 and 24.

Dr. Love emphasized throughout the series that though children are mentally and physically inferior to adults, they have certain undeniable rights and that parents should deal with children in a respectful and considerate way.

"If children are treated with disrespect when they are dependent and incompetent, we can expect them to treat adults in the same manner," he said.

Commenting upon discipline within the family, Dr. Love suggested that each family establish its own rules and let violators "suffer certain consequences."

"Parents should use action instead of words, because corrective measures consisting of just words become entirely ineffective," he said. "Children do not listen to parents because they become 'parent deaf.'"

Adopt New Law Curbing Unemployment Chiselers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A new law whose backers say it is aimed at denying unemployment insurance payments to "chiselers" will become effective July 2.

The House has already passed the bill which would deny unemployment insurance payments to a worker who (1) vote after six attempts to amend the measure were defeated.

quit his job voluntarily, (2) was fired for misconduct, or (3) refused to accept a new job when it was offered.

"I think it's time we told the people of North Carolina we are going to stop this business of people getting rocking chair money and we mean it," said Sen. Jack Childers, D-Davidson, chairman of the Senate Committee on Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce, as he guided the bill to its final vote.

Other legislative developments included:

INSURANCE
Sen. Carl D. Totherow, D-Forsyth, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, told a joint committee of his group with the House Insurance Committee that he has asked for the hiring of an outside consulting firm to reconcile conflicting figures from Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and from the insurance industry.

EYEGASSES
A bill filed by Rep. Richard Erwin, D-Forsyth, would permit the advertising of eyeglasses, eyeglass frames, lens and contact lens in North Carolina.

TAX DEDUCTION
Rep. Thomas Gilmore sponsored a bill that would allow state income taxpayers to deduct from their income in figuring their taxes up to $500 paid for home insulation.

SMALL LOANS
Rep. Ruth Cook, D-Wake, sponsored a bill to cut from 3 per cent to 2 per cent per month the interest rate on the and insurance industry representatives.

PORTS AUTHORITY

The House voted 98-4 to pass and send the Senate a bill to revamp the State Ports Authority and to transfer it from the Department of Transportation to the Department of Commerce. The bill would empower the governor to appoint seven of nine members of the authority board. The other two members would be legislators appointed by the House Speaker and the lieutenant governor.

Meanwhile the Senate State Government Committee approved a similar measure.

CONSTITUTION
The House Constitutional Amendments Committee unanimously approved a bill recommended by a committee which studied ways of eliminating sexual discrimination in North Carolina laws. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford, would amend the state constitution to exempt from the claims of creditors the proceeds of life insurance policies taken out by a married woman for the benefit of her husband or children. Such proceeds now are not exempt from debt in the case of married women but they are in the case of men.

INSURANCE
Legislation under which fire and other casualty as well as automotive liability and collision rates would be set by the individual insurance companies or by rating bureaus representing groups of companies subject to the veto of the insurance commissioner was introduced in the House. The bill was sponsored by a group of legislators headed by Rep. J. Guy Revelle Sr. D-Northampton, who headed a legislative study committee. One of the sponsors, Rep. R.D. Beard, D-Cumberland, a member of the study group, said the "would add flexibility" and "would bring free enterprise" into setting of insurance rates.

Ministers Work In Strange Ways

By The Associated Press
The Lord works in mysterious ways, they say, but no more mysterious than the ways of some of his ministers in North Carolina.

For example there's the 81-year-old dynamo from Swepsonville who still farms 10 acres of vegetables in addition to his preaching and civic work.

And then there's the Durham preacher who works during the week as a traffic cop and believes the job "gives depth to my ministry."

And finally, there's the Rev. A.L. Kesler of East Spencer, who splices up his sermons by floating silver balls in the air or pouring milk into his ear and making it run out his elbow. Kesler is a magician.

"I love it," he says. "I get a bang out of it. It's fun."

Kesler, 75, is retired from full-time pastoral work but still preaches as guest minister at two Salisbury churches. He especially likes the children's services.

"The children remember something tied to a magic trick much longer than what they hear in a sermon without it," Kesler said.

The Rev. Hurley Hooker's magic is staying as active as he does at the age of 81.

He preached his first sermon on a troop convoy in 1918 on the way to Europe, and he's still taking care of three churches in Asheboro, McLeansville and Creedmoor.

When he isn't taking care of the Lord's work, he has plenty of his own on his ten-acre farm, in the four ministerial associations of which he is a member and in the civic organizations to which he belongs. And when that's all done he reads the Bible.

"Yeah, I get a little tired during the day. But I lay down at night and rest and the next morning I'm ready to go."

The thing that makes the Rev. Coolidge McCoy most tired is that there's so little love in the world. McCoy sees people at their worst. He's a traffic cop in Durham.

McCoy says the job lets him see people "as they really are," an experience that reminds him how many problems people have.

"I think love is the solution to any problems man will have," McCoy says. "Durham could become a city of brotherly love if there develops an awareness of the need for loving one another."

Pope Receives Symbolic Ashes

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened the penitential season of Lent like millions of other Roman Catholics, receiving the mark of ashes as a reminder of death to come.

At an evening ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica, the 79-year-old pontiff removed his white mitre and white cap and bowed as a priest marked his head with ashes in the sign of a cross.

Then about 50 cardinals, bishops and priests walked before the Pope to receive the ashes from his hand.

The ceremony marked Ash Wednesday, which ushers in the 40 days of Lent that lead to Easter on April 10.

Dates Daughter Of Millionaire

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles is dating a millionaire lord's daughter who once appeared nude in Penthouse magazine, gossip columnist Nigel Dempster reports.

Dempster wrote in today's Daily Mail that Fiona Caroline Mary Watson, 23, was portrayed wearing only a string of pink beads in the magazine three years ago.

However, Dempster said that Davina Sheffield still is Charles' No. 1 girlfriend.

tended that development of the property with duplexes would downgrade the neighborhood but it was explained by the planning board that the developer has a right to utilize his property under uses allowed in the zoning ordinance.

Schofield said that the matter of the plat adoption had nothing to do with the zoning ordinance. Greenville Utilities director Charles Horne pointed out that service to the Bond-King development was contingent upon the development of Maplewood Subdivision. Horne was informed that Maplewood is underway.

The city board also waived the 30-day tabling period and recommended to the Council that the rezoning request of Malcolm C. Williams Sr. of Greenville TV and Appliance, 200 E. Greenville Boulevard, for rezoning from Shopping Center to Highway Commercial be approved so that his business facility can be expanded.

It was explained that when the zoning maps were established, ed to notify in writing the adjoining property owners. Since the notification was the only item on the checklist not met, commissioners voted to approve the plats subject to the proper notifications being made.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value was unchanged at 118.84.

The final plat of Westhaven Subdivision, Section III, was approved. The property, it was noted, is located east of Linnedale and south of Belvedere Subdivision and lies below Section IV of Belvedere.

Commissioners gave their approval to the final plat of Tucker Industrial Park, Section I, located across NC 11 from Pitt Technical Institute. The final plat reflected a change in the name of the development to Tucker Commercial and Industrial Park, as well as a change in the name of a street from Tucker Drive to Chapman Drive.

The Utilities Commission will provide service to the development.

Commissioners tabled action on a proposed addition to Sector 32-141 of the Zoning Ordinance entitled "Article X Amendments." The ordinance would involve the notification of adjoining property owners that rezoning is being planned for a tract and placement of the burden of notification on the rezoning petitioners.

Also tabled for 30 days was a request by H. G. Stocks for rezoning approximately 32.6 acres on the south side of US 264 Bypass from Highway Commercial and RA-20 to Highway Commercial and Office and Institutional. The petitioner, it was noted, plans to rezone half the property Highway Commercial and the other half Office and Institutional. Only some 400 feet of frontage on US 264 is involved.

Schofield presented a brief outline of the proposed Planned Unit Development (PUD) ordinance. He said that the proposal involves a flexible zoning and subdivision ordinance combined into one.

The planner contended that the ordinance provides a better utilization of land. He said that if more intense development of land is allowed, land costs would be better utilized and in some cases would represent considerable savings for housing consumers.

According to Schofield, the ordinance would involve a new way of building in the Greenville area although other parts of the country are already utilizing the plan.

Commissioners scheduled a workshop on the ordinance for March 10.

A letter of appreciation was approved for Karl Faser who resigned his post as chairman of the planning board. Faser has indicated that he plans to remain a member of the Commission.

'Camped' In Bargain Car

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — If a dealer is foolish enough to offer a car for sale for 22 cents, Michael Kant is just smart enough to camp out in it for four days.

As a Washington's Birthday sale promotion, Russ Smith Ford offered to sell cheap a 1973 Datsun that normally sells for $1,800. The deal: a 22-cent sale to whomever was sitting behind the wheel at 2:22 p. m. on 2-22.

Kant moved into the car the Thursday before the holiday and stayed there except for occasional breaks for exercise and visits to the restroom, said Don Marra, a spokesman for the auto dealer.

Marra said friends saved Kant's seat during the breaks and employees at the dealership provided a portable heater to ward off the effects of sub-freezing temperatures and four inches of snow that fell over the weekend.

Kant passed the time writing letters and studying.

Ownership was fleeting for Kant. He used the car as a late Valentine's Day present for his girlfriend.

Pitt County Fire Departments were called to 15 fires yesterday. At 11:20 a. m. Winterville went to a grass fire on State Road 1709.

Bell Arthur went to a grass fire on the Stantonsburg Road one and a half miles west of Bell Arthur at 1:17 p. m. and to a grass fire in back of James Jones' house on the Stantonsburg Road, also, at 4:15.

Stokes went to a fire on the shoulders of Highway 903 north of Stokes at 1:25 p. m.

A truck parked in front of North American Fiberglass Company which was owned by the Stackhouse Construction Company sustained $40,000 damage. Station House answered the call at 1:49 p. m. It is believed that the fire started when exhaust from the truck ignited broomstraw growing around where it was parked, Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said.

Stanton House also attended a woods fire beside Crisp Auto Salvage, which was reported at 3:39 p. m., and a grass fire reported at 7:10 p. m. near the Mac Jones residence on the Old River Road.

Fountain went to a grass fire on Highway 222 three miles west of Fountain on the Carson Baker farm at 2:15 p. m. and to a grass and woods fire on the Johnny Wooten farm near Toddy at 2:31 p. m.

Farmville went to a field on fire on the L. B. Johnson farm on Highway 264 East at 2:55 p. m. and to a similar fire on another of Johnson's farms on Highway 258 at 8:02 p. m. The Department also attended to a tobacco barn which burned on the farm of Leo Hinson, reported at 6:05 p. m. This fire is believed to have started as a result of burning off a field near the barn, Joyner said.

The Eastern Pines Department went to a woods fire at the William Carmon residence near Bell's Fork at 2:58 p. m.

Grimesland attended to a woods fire on the Black Jack Road a half mile south of Grimesland at the Carolyn Daniels residence. It was reported at 2:59 p. m.

Black Jack assisted the Forestry Service in extinguishing a woods fire on Road 1749 near Chicod School. The Department was called at 3:58 p. m.

A mobile home at Whitehurst Fence Company sustained minor damage as a result of fire. Pcaulous answered the 8:37 p. m. call.

Fire Marshal Joyner reminded that burning permits are necessary for the burning off of fields now, and he urged extreme care in watching and handling these and other fires during this dry, windy period.

Find Bodies In Burned House

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Firemen say the bodies of a man and a woman were found today in a house where fire destroyed two rooms.

The victims were identified as Joe Felder, 56, and Etta Felder, 62.

Authorities said they apparently died of smoke inhalation after fire broke out in their small brick house in southeast Charlotte. Firemen arrived on the scene about 6:30 a. m.

Cause of the blaze is under investigation.

Smoke Stack To Be Demolished

The old smoke stack at the ECU power plant in the center of the main campus will be no more after this weekend.

College officials said today that the smoke stack will be demolished at 8:30 Sunday morning.

That time was chosen because there will be the least amount of traffic in the usually congested area of the campus.

Bucs Hold Off Mercer For 76-70 Win

A RIGHT TO THE HEAD — East Carolina's Herb Gray reels from a right chop to the head by Mercer's Elijah Shaw during action in last night's game in Minges Coliseum. The play came during a scramble for a rebound, captured by Gray. The Pirates won the game, 76-70, as Gray and Larry Hunt led the way with 19 points each. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

East Carolina University's Pirates snapped their seven game losing streak by outlasting hot-shooting Mercer University last night, 76-70.

The Pirates were up by 20 points at halftime, but saw Mercer come back to shoot the eyes out of the basket in the second half and stage a comeback to within five points late in the contest.

The game, the final home contest of the year, was used to honor the lone senior on the team, Larry Hunt, along with Dave Patton, who had earlier announced that he was resigning as head coach at the end of the season.

Hunt, who came into the game with 981 points, got 19 points in the contest, with the final two coming at the free throw line with 4:17 left in the game. That last free throw was his 1,000th career point and put him into a select group of Pirate players. He is only the 11th Buc to make the list, the last being Jim Fairley, who hit 1,031 from 1969 to 1972. Fairley is number ten on the list.

Hunt appeared nervous early in the contest, missing his first few shots, but afterwards said he felt no pressure. "All I wanted was for us to win," he said. "But the team was very unselfish, helping me along when they could have gotten off shots, but passed to me instead. But I really wasn't trying for it. I felt that if I got 'em, okay, if not, okay, too."

Hunt, playing before his parents from Shelby, scored eight first half points, before being benched with three fouls. He seemed somewhat tighter in the second half, but still got the needed 11 points to crack the barrier. He was eight for 16 from the floor and three for four from the line.

"I was proud for our kids," a much-happier Dave Patton said after the game. "We needed this one in the worst way. It was the only medicine that could possibly cure us." But Patton said that the team tightened up somewhat in the second half. "Their shooting 60 per cent didn't help us. The win still should put us in a good frame of mind for the tournament. Mercer played as well as it could, but we still pulled it out."

The Bears, after falling down by 20 points at halftime, came back and shot well in the second half, hitting 17 of 28 shots, a fine 60.7 per cent. East Carolina, however, seemed to get tight, making just nine of 23 in the second half, for 39.1 per cent.

The Pirates, however, enjoyed a 43-29 rebounding advantage, and that helped to make the difference. Herb Gray led the way with nine, while Greg Cornelius had eight and Hunt pulled away seven. Hunt, with 899 rebounds, is the second leading rebounder in ECU history. The record is held by Bill Ott at 969.

While Mercer held an early lead, the Bears never led by more than three points. East Carolina finally took the lead at 11-10 on a shot off a rebound by Hunt with 13:53 left. After that, the Pirates never trailed again.

Louis Crosby stole the ball for another basket, and Cornelius hit from underneath. Hunt added another shot, and a drive by Gray followed that. With 11:17 left, Hunt scored from underneath to run the lead out to 21-10, and Mercer finally broke the streak after that.

The Pirates still steadily pulled away, as their tough defense denied the goal to the Bears. The lead went to 13 at 27-14, then to 16 at 33-17. Jim Ramsey hit for a 37-19 lead with 4:54 left, but Mercer hit a string to bring it back to 14 before the Pirates pulled away again, this time to 18 on two free throws by Herb Krusen. Finally, with just eight seconds left in the half, Kyle Powers hit two charity shots for a 49-29 lead, and that stood at intermission.

Gray dunked a shot early in the second half for a 22-point spread, but that was as far out as the Bucs got. Led by Stewart Reese, who hit everything he put up in the second half, except for one free throw, the Bears got their comeback in operation. Reese went nine-for-nine from the floor in the half, and three-for-four from the line, ending up with a career high of 29 points.

That enabled the Bears to chip away at the lead until they closed to within five at 65-60 with 6:12 left. But they never got closer, and the Pirates eased back out by nine, then held on for the win, despite a long jumper by Reese at the horn that cut it to the final six point margin.

Besides Hunt's 19, Gray added an equal number for the Pirates. Crosby and Krusen each had 10.

Adding to Reese's 29 were Jerry Thruston with 14, Elijah Shaw with 11 and Kenny Daugherty with 10.

The Pirates now enter the Southern Conference Tournament's first round, traveling to Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday, to face William & Mary.

Bullets Ousted From Tourney

PANTEGO — Pantego advanced in the District One, 1-A basketball tournament last night with a 66-46 victory over the Jamesville Bullets.

The defeat ended the year for the Bullets.

Pantego edged out into a 15-10 lead in the first half of the game, then outhit Jamesville, 18-13, in the second quarter. That gave the Warriors a 33-23 halftime lead.

Jamesville put on a rally in the third period, outscoring Pantego, 14-8. That trimmed the Warriors lead back to 41-37. But in the final quarter, Pantego outhit the Bullets, 25-9, to win going away.

Terry Freeman led Pantego with 21 points, while Donnie Carter added 14 and Andre McCloud had 13.

Jamesville was paced by Eric Davis with 18, while Tommy DiNardo added 14 and Trent Ange had 10.

Third Man Is Improvement

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Putting a third referee on college basketball courts is just one way to improve the game, said Nowell Neve of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

But any improvement will require money, said Neve, ACC assistant commissioner in charge of officiating.

"We've poured money into coaching and into recruiting, but what have we done for the officials," Neve said Wednesday. "Take films. How I'd love to have films. I think it would make a 25 per cent improvement if we had ample films like the coaches do."

The controversy over using three game officials like the Big 10 conference must be faced nationwide before any improvement could be seen, he told the Raleigh Sports Club.

"It would be a big deterrent to fouling. But the big objection is that we'll be hurting ourselves if we use three for conference play and then get in the NCAA playoffs where they'll have two," he said.

neve said the ACC probably will take a wait-and-see attitude on the question and watch what other conferences do.

Should the change ever take place, he said, the younger officials would fill the third official's slot and call the game between free throw lines. The third position could be used as a training ground.

He admitted the quality of officiating has not kept up with the game. But it comes back to the money question.

"If we want to dance, we have to play the fiddler," he said.

Younger officials are needed, but the problem is in recruiting them, neve said.

"We need to recruit coaches and ex-players," he said. "But they've been around. They want no part of it."

More rigorous screening and training would help.

"One time we had a football official who was colorblind. He kept throwing flags at both teams because he couldn't see the jersey color," Neve said. "We ought to find that out before we put them on the field."

Despite efforts to upgrade conference officiating, there will always be critical coaches and outraged fans.

"As long as there's people with striped shirts, there will be criticism," he said.

For Baseball Team

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Baseball enthusiasts in this community, seeking a franchise in the Appalachian League, inserted a three-column advertisement in the "Sporting News" late in 1976 extolling the virtues of Paintsville. The ad got results.

Paintsville has been awarded a franchise in the all-rookie league operating in Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. The six businessmen who placed the ad hoped to field a team in 1977 but, if not, then in 1978.

Paintsville, which has a 2,000-seat stadium, is located in mountainous Eastern Kentucky, only a four-hour drive from the most distant league city, Pulaski, Va.

Carolina Romps Past State; Clemson Wins

By The Associated Press
Powerful North Carolina moved into a tie with Wake Forest for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead Wednesday with a 90-73 thrashing of N.C. State.

At the same time, Clemson moved to within half a game of the leaders by beating Duke, 67-43.

A capacity crowd of 10,000 packed the gym in Chapel Hill to see the Wolfpack humbled on regional television, and N.C. State coach Norm Sloan took it pretty hard.

ACC Roundup

"This is the worst defeat we've had since I've been at North Carolina State," he said. "No excuses for it. No explanation of it. All I can say is we've been embarrassed very badly."

Tar Heel coach Dean Smith was already looking forward to Saturday's encounter with Duke, the most important game of the season since it could determine whether UNC gets a share of first place.

"We must get down to earth now and get back up for Duke," Smith said.

Wake and UNC are now both 8-3. If they both win Saturday (Wake plays the Wolfpack) they will end the season tied for first place. If they both lose, they end up in a three-way tie with Clemson at 8-4.

And if Maryland beats Virginia Saturday, the Terps join the 8-4 club, making it a four-way tie.

Speaking of Virginia, the Cavs were beaten 71-61 Wednesday by Virginia Tech, dropping their season record to 9-16.

Kenny Carr paced the Wolfpack against UNC with 18 points. Walter Davis and Mike O'Koren had 14 apiece for the Heels.

Wayne "Tree" Rollins set the pace for Clemson against Duke with 16 points and 15 rebounds. Jim Spanarkel led Duke with 21 points.

Rollins Will Be Honored

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—The "No. 30" jersey worn by Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins will be retired in ceremonies before the Clemson Roanoke basketball game here Saturday night.

It will be the first time in the history of the school that an athletic number has been retired.

The 7-foot-1 pivotman has started a record 107 consecutive basketball games for the Tigers and will be one of three Clemson seniors honored during the final regular season game at Littlejohn Coliseum.

Ayden-Grifton Defeats Williamston

Jim Kyle

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
WILLIAMSTON — A hot second quarter allowed Ayden-Grifton to erase a 10-point deficit and the Chargers played tough defense in the second half to take a 67-53 win over Williamston in a first-round game of the District 3-A tournament last night.

Ayden-Grifton hit six of 13 shots from the field and six of six from the line in the final 4:30 of the first half to pull from 27-17 to 36-35 at halftime.

Then, in the second half, the Chargers' man-to-man defense held Williamston to but six field goals and forced 20 Tiger turnovers as Ayden-Grifton took the lead and built it to the final 14 point spread.

"It was a good team victory," according to Charger coach Bob Murphrey, as evidenced by the fact that four Ayden-Grifton players were in double figures.

"I thought going to a man-to-man defense (switching from a zone in the second quarter) got us back in the game, and really won the game for us.

"They were getting the ball inside against our zone," Murphrey said; but, after the switch to man, "I thought the pressure we put on them was real effective."

After shutting off the Tigers' inside game, the Chargers started to go to the middle themselves, feeding James Leggett and Mike Teachey for some easy baskets underneath. "We started going inside on offense and that helped us quite a bit," Murphrey said. "And, our inside game got us some good outside shots, something I've been trying to get them to do all year."

Williamston came out hot in the first quarter and the Tigers took advantage of their shooting touch to quickly build a 10-4 lead over the first two and a half minutes. They were six for eight from the field during that span.

Braxton then scored three for the Chargers to cut the margin in half, but Ronald Brown countered with a three-point play. The Tigers matched Forbes' two baskets over the next few minutes and held a 17-11 edge going into the second period.

Three minutes into the quarter, Tony Speller connected on two foul shots to give Williamston its biggest lead, 27-17. That was when Ayden-Grifton began to rally.

Forbes drove down the lane for a layup and hit two free throws. Then Terry Morris followed a Forbes' miss to cut it to four, 27-23 with 3:44 left.

Frankie Dail scored on a layup with 1:10 left to pull the Chargers to within two and a Morris shot just before the half ended made it 36-35 Williamston at intermission.

Ayden-Grifton quickly took the lead in the third period with Forbes hitting a follow shot and Teachey making a layup to put the Chargers up by three, 39-36.

Ayden-Grifton held the Tigers to only two field goals in the period and took a 48-42 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Braxton came two from the line and Leggett scored from underneath to put the Chargers in front by 10 early in the final frame.

Williamston cut it to eight when Horace Wynne hit from the right baseline with 4:14 left, but Terry Maye hit a foul shot and Teachey made a layup to stretch the margin to 11, 57-46 with 2:28 left in the game.

Ronnie Horton made good on a three-point play to pull the Tigers back to within eight, 61-53, but that came with just 1:07 left and Williamston wasn't able to score after that.

The Tigers were led by Barry

Wallace and Wynne with 12 each. Forbes paced Ayden-Grifton with 17 while Braxton had 14, Leggett 12 and Teachey 10 for the Chargers.

Murphrey said he was happy with the play of Forbes, Braxton and Leggett, along with that of Teachey, who was making his first start in some time. It was Teachey's highest offensive output of the season.

Overall, Murphrey said, "I don't think we played great, but I think we played fairly well for the first game of the tournament." The Chargers will now face Washington's highly-touted Pam Pack on Monday night. Washington was the Northeastern Conference champion.

In last night's first game, C. B. Aycock's girls defeated Edenton, 48-37. Tonight's action sees Plymouth's girls taking on Ayden-Grifton in the first game and D. H. Conley's boys battling Tarboro in the second game.

Things don't always go as expected, especially in sports. Last week's Eastern Carolina Conference basketball tournaments are a perfect example.

In the boys' tournament, the sixth-ranked team, North Lenoir, ended up in the finals and only lost by one point to top-ranked North Pitt, 53-52. And the Panthers had to rally in the fourth quarter to gain the win.

Neither of the top two girls' teams even made it to their tournament's finals. Friday night's championship game saw fifth-place Ayden-Grifton defeating sixth-place Southern Nash, 46-42. Regular season champion Farmville Central and runner-up C. B. Aycock were both knocked off in the semi-final round.

The Farmville and Aycock girls, along with Ayden-Grifton's second-place boys, were all beaten in last week's "Thursday Night Massacre," which saw three unranked teams push their way into the finals past favored opponents all in hotly-contested games.

In the first game last Thursday, Ayden-Grifton's girls sneaked past Farmville Central, 53-50. The Chargerettes held a seven-point lead in the fourth quarter, but needed some clutch foul shooting by Vertha Dixon and Aretha Cannon to hold the Lady Jags off in the last minute.

Thursday's second upset saw Mitchell Wiggins of North Lenoir bombing in 31 points to lead the Hawks past regular season runner-up Ayden-Grifton, 62-60. This time it was the underdog team which rallied from seven down in the final period and it was Wiggins' free throws which gave the Hawks an insurmountable four-point lead with 11 seconds left.

Southern Nash's girls were the spoilers in the nightcap of the evening as they gained a 52-51 win over C. B. Aycock. The Ladybirds seemed beyond hope as they trailed by 13 with just 5:35 left in the game.

But, Aycock standout guard Helen Jones, the key to the Falconettes' spread attack, fouled out with just over three minutes left and Deborah Edwards scored nine points — including a final jump shot with eight seconds remaining — for the Southern Nash win.

By virtue of those wins Thursday night, the three teams made it into this week's division tournament at Williamston High School.

The North Lenoir boys and Southern Nash girls were the real dark horses of last week's tournament. Both came into the event ranked sixth and succeeded in making it to the finals, only to bow in the championship game.

The Ladybirds, without a lot of size or pure talent, came in to defeat third-place North Pitt 37-35 in the first round and then dumped Aycock. They lost by only four, 46-42, to a much taller Ayden-Grifton team in the championship game, and might have won if they could have cashed in from the free throw line down the stretch.

The Southern Nash coach, Rosalie Raper, was at times more interesting than the Ladybirds' games as she screamed, stomped and pleaded in coaching her team.

North Lenoir, though young, has plenty of talent and very nearly ran away with the entire boys' tournament.

After winning their first two games over D. H. Conley and Ayden-Grifton, the Hawks were finally defeated in the title contest by number one North Pitt, 53-52. And the Panthers had to come from behind to win.

Only two of the Hawks will graduate this year, center Garland Fisher and point guard David Jackson. The ECC's leading scorer, Mitchell Wiggins and Johnny Wiggins, the team's second high scorer, will both be back next year.

It appears that North Lenoir will be a force to be reckoned with when basketball season rolls around again.

Both Southern Nash and North Lenoir were defeated in the district tournament at Williamston Tuesday night, however. Washington defeated the Hawks 86-57 and the Ladybirds lost to Williamston, 53-51 in overtime.

Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman, members of the New York Mets pitching staff, ranked third and fourth in the earned run averages in the National League in 1976. Their records were 2.59 and 2.70, respectively.

Lanier's Final Shot Wins For His Pistons

By The Associated Press
 Bob Lanier knows how to win games but not how to influence people.

"Everything around here I do is taken for granted," said Lanier after he played "Beat the Clock" and won for the second game in a row. "If I had missed that basket, I would have been a goat for five games."

Lanier hit a 12-foot baseline jumper over Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with nine seconds left to give the Detroit Pistons a 102-101 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

On Sunday, it was Lanier's hook shot with 16 seconds remaining that tilted the decision in Detroit's favor over Phoenix.

"That's what he gets paid for and he comes through every night," said an appreciative Detroit Coach Herb Brown.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the New York Nets surprised the Denver Nuggets 91-88, the New Orleans Jazz won the Milwaukee Bucks 106-96, the Washington Bullets beat the Indiana Pacers 109-101 and the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Kansas City Kings 94-93.

After Lanier's clutch basket, the Lakers called time out and designed a play to go to Abdul-Jabbar. But the Pistons did a good job of sagging and depriving the Laker center of the ball. Eventually, shots by Don Chaney and Cazzie Russell were off the mark.

"I don't believe one man can defend him (Abdul-Jabbar) and I don't think one man can defend me," said Lanier, who finished with 29 points and 14 rebounds while holding Abdul-Jabbar to 14 points—13 below his average.

No defense was successful against Detroit's Eric Money, who scored all 22 of his points in the second half, including nine in a row and 16 points in the final quarter.

Nets 91, Nuggets 88

"After what they've gone through this year, they should be able to use six guys," said Denver Coach Larry Brown after his Nuggets dropped a three-point decision to the Nets.

The Nets, who have the worst record in the NBA, beat the Nuggets, who have the best mark in the league, with just the regulation five men on the floor at one time. But the dispute was over where they were.

"We didn't handle the zone defense tonight," said Brown, complaining that the referees were blind to the illegal tactic. "I'm not knocking the Nets for playing it if they can get away with it."

SuperSonics 94, Kings 93
 Ron Boone's shot at the buzzer missed, and the Sonics had a one-point victory and a half-game lead over the Kings in their battle for the final playoff spot in the Western Conference.

Jazz 106, Bucks 96
 Pete Maravich scored 38 points, Bud Stallworth had 26 points and Paul Griffin grabbed 25 rebounds to help New Orleans snap a five-game losing streak.

Bullets 109, Pacers 101
 Phil Chenier scored 26 points, Kevin Grevey had a career-high 22 and Elvin Hayes added 20 to lead Washington past the Pacers.

Quickie Quiz On Tree Rollins

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Here's today's quickie quiz, college hoop fans:

Question — Bill Foster (a) will (b) won't be sorry to see Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins finish his career.

Answer — (a). Also (b).
Explanation — Duke's Bill Foster will; Clemson's Bill Foster won't.

Rollins, a 7-foot-1 senior, scored 16 points, grabbed 15 rebounds, blocked 10 shots and made five steals as 19th-ranked Clemson beat Duke 67-63 Wednesday night and reached the 20-victory level for the first time ever.

"It's no big secret it was just too much 'Tree' Rollins, especially in the second half," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "When a man gets 10 blocked shots, it also gives you 15 scares. I don't know what more you can expect out of a guy."

By winning, Clemson pulled within one-half game of pace-setting North Carolina and Wake Forest in the torrid Atlantic Coast Conference race. Colon Abraham was the Tigers' high scorer with 20 points, including the first nine, while Jim Spanarkel topped Duke with 21.

Clemson had a 13-point lead with 7½ minutes left in the first half but was held to four points the rest of the way as Duke outscored the Tigers 13-4.

Said Clemson Coach Bill Foster: "It wasn't pretty and we had our chances in the first half to break it open, but we missed too many free throws and easy shots."

Meanwhile, ninth-ranked North Carolina climbed into a tie for the ACC lead with a 90-73 rout of North Carolina State. In the only other game involving a member of The Associated Press' Top Twenty, No. 15 Syracuse trounced Niagara 106-82. Elsewhere, Kansas State nailed down its third Big Eight crown in six years with a 68-55 decision over Oklahoma.

Phil Ford paced North Carolina over N.C. State with 24 points and teamed with Jeff Wolf to help the Tar Heels open a 12-point lead in the first half. The bulge reached a whopping 30 points with 6½ minutes to go as the Tar Heels shot a blistering 64 per cent in the second half.

College Roundup

Jimmy Williams scored 14 of his 18 points in the first half as Syracuse downed Niagara. Williams, a 5-10 senior guard, had help from 6-11 freshman Roosevelt Bouie with 16 points and Dale Shackelford with 14. Vern Allen's 23 couldn't prevent Niagara from falling.

Freshman Curtis Redding scored of his game-high 20 points as Kansas State outscored Oklahoma 15-6 in the first seven minutes of the second half to build a 29-24 advantage into a 44-30 spread. Oklahoma, which has never won in K-State's 27-year-old Ahearn Field House, could get no closer than 10 the rest of the way.

A K-State loss and a Missouri win would have produced a tie in the Big Eight but Missouri was upset by last-place Iowa State 95-86 and dropped into a third-place tie with Oklahoma. ISU's Andrew Parker and Leonard Allen combined for 45 points and Parker, who had 24, iced the victory with four free throws in the final minute.

A number of top independents kept rolling. Notre Dame boosted its record to 18-6 with a 111-86 romp over Loyola of Chicago as Duck Williams scored a career-high 30 points, four free throws by Glenn Sanders in the final seconds helped 18-5 St. Bonaventure turn back Fairfield 73-68, 19-7 St. John's whipped Boston College 92-69 behind Glen Williams' 25 points and 20-5 North Texas State outlasted Centenary 107-104 in double overtime.

Essie Hollis with 30 points and Sanders with 19 helped St. Bonaventure come back from a 42-34 halftime deficit.

Notre Dame also trailed in the early going but, after falling behind 24-13, the Irish went ahead with a 25-10 tear. It was the most points for Notre Dame this season.

Ump Clinic Scheduled

LITTLEFIELD — A two-day baseball umpires clinic will be held Saturday and Sunday by the Eastern Carolina Baseball Umpires Association at Ayden-Grifton High School and at East Carolina University.

Malcolm Sykes, a 14-year veteran of professional baseball umpiring, will serve as clinic coordinator. Other instructors will be John McSherry, National League umpire and chief instructor at Bill Kinnomon's Umpire Specialist School in Florida; Joe West, Triple A umpire; and Drew Coble, Double A umpire.

Saturday's session will be at 10 a.m. at Ayden-Grifton, covering 1977 high school rules, rule interpretations, differences in high school, college and professional rules, and a question and answer session.

A barbecue lunch will be available at the school at 12:30 p.m., with the second session starting at 1:30 p.m. This session will focus on mechanics, with game type situations presented.

Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Harrington Field, on the ECU campus, East Carolina will hold a practice game, giving umpires the opportunity to work in game situations.

Finley Changes Mind About Bowie Kuhn

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — He's sued Bowie Kuhn for $3.5 million and called him "the village idiot," but Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has amended that estimate of baseball's commissioner.

Finley now says Kuhn is "the nation's idiot" after the commissioner blocked, at least temporarily, his sale of pitcher Paul Lindblad to Texas.

Kuhn notified Finley Wednesday that the sale of the veteran reliever has been shelved until after a hearing next Wednesday in Dallas.

"Pending resolution of these two points, Lindblad will remain on the Oakland roster and should not work out or engage in any contract dealings with Texas," Kuhn said in a telegram from his New York office.

Finley wasted little time in blasting Kuhn again but said he and his attorney will attend the hearing "only because there is no telling what this man (Kuhn) might attempt to do." He said he planned a formal response to Kuhn today.

The man who bought Lindblad for $400,000, though, Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett, said he has no intention of meeting with Kuhn to discuss the sale.

"The whole thing is ridiculous. I see no reason for my appearance at such a meeting. If Kuhn wants to void the deal, that's his business. It's between him and Finley," he said.

Finley said in a telephone interview that Kuhn knows he doesn't have the authority to block the deal.

Finley has sued Kuhn over the commissioner's voiding of the sales last June of A's stars Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue for $3.5 million, and results of the $3.5 million suit in federal court are expected in mid-March.

Said Finley: "At times, he (Kuhn) does not act rational, and one never knows what this character might attempt to do. So we have decided to be there since he has indicated in his wire tonight what is on the agenda."

Kuhn said in telegrams to Finley, Corbett and Lindblad that the hearing would consider whether the sale is part of a plan by Oakland management "to liquidate the club's established major league talent in exchange for cash." He also said it would consider whether the sale is in baseball's best interest.

Kuhn voided the June 1976 sales on grounds they were not in the best interest of baseball.

Apps Win On Rally

By The Associated Press
East Carolina's Pirates have snapped their seven-game losing skid with a 76-70 basketball victory over Mercer.

Mercer grabbed an early lead in Wednesday night's contest, but lost it quickly and watched as the Pirates built up a 49-29 halftime bulge.

Southern Roundup

The visitors scrapped back to within five points in the second half but couldn't get any closer.

Herb Gray and Larry Hunt led the Pirates, now 9-17, with 19 points each.

In other Southern Conference action Wednesday night, Appalachian State's Mountaineers came from behind to post a 70-63 victory over Western Carolina.

The Mountaineers, now 15-11, were down by two at intermission and trailed most of the second half before taking a 51-49 advantage with 7:16 remaining. They widened the margin with a stall offense that the Catamounts couldn't handle.

Forwards Tony Searcy and Calvin Bowser had 18 points each for the winners while Bubba Wilson led Western Carolina, now 7-16, with 17 points.

The Catamounts pulled to within four points with 1:23 remaining, but Searcy was awarded a basket on a goal-tending call and then given a free throw.

When the Catamounts disputed what they contended was an illegal inbounds pass, the bench was slapped with a technical foul and the Mountaineers found up ahead by seven and in control of the ball.

Elsewhere, Tennessee-Chatanooga improved its record to 21-5 with a 101-90 victory over Tennessee State.

HUNT HONORED — East Carolina senior Larry Hunt, the lone graduating member of this year's Pirate team, was honored last night prior to the start of the game with Mercer, the final home game of the year. Hunt, who scored 19 points in the game to become the 11th Buc to reach 1,000 career points, was presented a plaque prior to the game. He is shown here with his parents, visiting from Shelby. (Reflector Photo)

Buffalo Creek Disaster Left Scars Among People

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer
LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — Dr. J. S. Church has been receiving some sad but predictable phone calls, pleas for help from people who've looked at the calendar and seen a wall of dark water rushing toward them.

"I can always tell when we're getting near another anniversary," Church said recently. "The calls start coming in. It happens every year about this time."

A psychologist at the Logan-Mingo Community Mental Health Clinic, he has worked with the survivors of the Buffalo Creek disaster for the past five years. In that time, Church has dealt with people who not only underwent the horrors of the flood but who later were tormented by fear and were torn by guilt for having survived while friends and loved ones were swept away.

"However, this so-called 'survivor syndrome' has been pretty well resolved," he said. "Most of the people we've seen here have been able to go back to their precrisis ability to cope."

But, he adds, the healing period not only has been terrible slow, it also has been accompanied, in many cases, by a chain of painful events. The fateful wave loosed when the Pittston Co.'s coal waste dam collapsed the morning of Feb. 26, 1972 — claiming 125 lives along Buffalo Creek and causing more than $50 million in damages — was followed by a wave of alcoholism, divorce and other generally destructive behavior.

Although time and modern medicine have helped heal these wounds, the scars still remain. They began to show each time February rolls around. Then, too, there still are cases where the wound remains open.

"Take my daughter, for instance," says Ailene Peters. "She has never gone to bed by herself since the day of the flood. Why, she won't even walk in there to the bathroom by herself, and she's 6 years old."

Ailene and Larry Peters live at Lorado, one of 16 coal camps strung along Buffalo Creek's winding waters. Their home is some 15 miles up the narrow valley from the spot where the creek empties into the Kuyahotte River at Man. Their community is the nearest to Pittston's infamous dams, just two miles on up.

The Peters were the second family to return to Lorado after the flood. Like many of their neighbors, they reside in a mobile home — on which they placed a down payment with the settlement money they received from Pittston.

Many other Buffalo Creek families made similar settlements with the coal company, whose officials had warned residents they would get no more by going to court. Two years ago, Pittston paid $13.5 million in settlement of a suit representing some 600 survivors. This came to something like $13,000 per person, before legal fees to Arnold & Porter, the Washington, D.C., law firm which handled the suit.

More recently, the state settled a $100 million damage suit for $1 million. Just last month, a group of 63 residents, who were children at the time of the flood, sued Pittston for $36 million. They alleged they had suffered permanent pain and anguish because of the company's negligence.

Church says he still finds hostility toward Pittston, even among some of the men who work for the company. Ailene Peters admittedly was angry when she returned to Lorado in the spring of 1972 but now says she's becoming adjusted.

"Things are getting better" she said. "But Moore (former Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.) sure didn't keep the promises he made to us. He promised we'd get our grade school back but we never did. He said the road would be extended to go on over the mountain but you can see for yourself that the pavement ends no more than a quarter of a mile from where I'm standing."

The long, narrow valley now does have water and sewer systems, things unheard of before the flood. Back then, the residents had wells and septic tanks and often discharged their raw sewerage directly into the stream which later would rise against them.

Then there's the road, a sore subject with many residents because the state took dozens of badly needed homesites in right-of-way proceedings.

"The railroad was the first thing they put back, because of the mine," said Bertz Adkins, a teacher at Buffalo grade school, some 10 miles down the creek from Lorado. "My husband was back to work at the mine a week after the flood."

"Then, the highway came next. They still haven't completely finished with the sewer and water systems yet, however."

Hundreds of families were left homeless after the flood. They were housed in mobile homes furnished by the federal government. The parks in which these homes were located have since been disbanded, and officials estimate that more than half of the displaced families have moved back along Buffalo Creek.

Many of them lost their land to the highway. Because of the scarcity of homesites in the narrow valley, they've been forced to live in mobile homes on tiny plots of land. Others have moved into the pre-

BUFFALO CROSSING — School children cross a wooden bridge that spans Buffalo Creek, scene of a 1972 flood in which 125 persons were killed. Teachers

Chicago Photo Show Is Focused On City Living

By C. G. McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The many moods and aspects of city life are explored in a photography exhibition at the Museum of Contemporary Art, with 23 photographers selected for inclusion.

Called "The Photographer and the City," the show depicts both the gems and the warts of the city's external life and the joy and the hopelessness of its inner life, that of its people.

Starting with the New Bauhaus some four decades ago, and continuing with the Institute of Design, Columbia College and the School of the Art Institute, Chicago has produced notable camera artists.

This exhibition of 150 pictures, both in color and black and white, is testimony to this artistic achievement.

There are no picture post card scenes in the show, but the pictures tell far more than pretty shots of impressive skyscrapers and lakefront vistas, even though these are treated as subjects in some of the pictures.

There are no formal portraits, but there are pictures of people which tell more about them and the life they live than the staid, posed, studio pictures.

Jose M. Lopez and Luis Medina, two photographers who work together, reflect their Cuban background in the celebration of color in a view of a souvenir stand at Wrigley Field.

Their Latin warmth also comes through in their loving pictures of people, as in one of a father holding a child dressed as a clown in a Halloween parade. Another shows a fetching little boy holding glass goblets over his ears.

The harshness of life in the Uptown section is portrayed in Danny Lyon's pictures of social dropouts and rejects, and in one sad picture of a young couple kissing, the girl in hair curlers, sitting beneath a picture of Jesus.

Aaron Siskind ignores sleek, modern skyscrapers to show blistered paint on buildings.

fabricated apartment complexes which have begun to spring up.

Some residents don't like the changed character of the valley. Others see progress when they look about them.

"I think things are better around here now," says Peggy Heather, principal at the Buffalo grade school. "We now have some things, like the water and sewer systems, that we wouldn't have gotten for another 80 years if it hadn't been for that flood."

The thing that Ailene Peters dislikes most about the valley, she says, is the loss of community, the feeling that she's not in control of her own life.

"Used to be, we had our own store, and I walked to school when I was a girl," she said. "Now we have to get into the car to shop and my daughter has to ride a bus 10 miles each way to get to school."

"What we do around here now, is just take one day at a time. Seems you can't plan anything anymore."

Hotel-Office Complex Eyed As Downtown Detroit's Hope

By PAUL VARIAN
 DETROIT (UPI) — Downtown Detroit, vividly scarred from years of suburban flight, seems to be shrinking in the shadow of a $337 million riverfront hotel-office complex. Long touted as the sparkplug for the city's rebirth, a brainchild of civic-minded Henry Ford II, the so-called Renaissance Center will open officially in March. But many downtown businessmen say the project has served only to empty other downtown office buildings in a rent war and that, because it will be self-contained, it will be of little benefit to the downtown as a whole. Defenders of the Renaissance Center point out that it comes after a period of downtown decay accelerated by hotel shutdowns, department store relocations, the steady abandonment of office buildings and a recent surge of teen-age gang violence. Doomsayers respond that, even with Renaissance, only the most sophisticated of mass transit innovations will save the Motor City's downtown core from a proliferation of parking lots, jewelry stores and wig shops. The scenario, though probably exaggerated, has forward-looking city planners actively lobbying for federal funds to enable the construction of "people mover" systems to shuttle conventioners and others between the redeveloped riverfront and existing downtown attractions. A limited trolley service already is operating. The complex consists of the cylindrical, 70-story Detroit Plaza Hotel — Michigan's largest building — surrounded by four octagonal office structures still not even half filled. It is the hotel, however, that promoters see as the magnet capable of drawing people — especially crime-wary conventioners — back downtown. More than 100 conventions and trade shows already have been booked through 1981, with the proximity of spacious Cobo Hall given much of the credit. And there is still room for further development of the riverfront and the blighted Jefferson Avenue commercial strip that runs parallel. Most of the committed Renaissance office tenants have come from high rent buildings only blocks away. This has caused a virtual rent war among their former landlords that has attracted new tenants from older buildings in the core downtown area not willing to pay for prime Renaissance space. "We've created competition for ourselves by opening up large areas of space in existing buildings at lower rates," acknowledged Renaissance leasing manager Michael Moran. The shift has virtually emptied buildings that are downtown landmarks. Demolition operations will have been completed on one, the 21-story Cadillac Office Tower on the once-bustling Kern Block, by the time Renaissance opens its doors. Once-prosperous Woodward Avenue department stores have either relocated or are considering moving out and merchants who thrive on the white collar lunch-hour crowd are being driven to the wall. "It's taking all the business we have here and bringing it over there," says Paul Nikou, co-owner of a small Greek restaurant that packs customers in at lunch but gave up on the evening trade long ago. "Look at all the empty buildings around here already." Two of the empty buildings were once major hotels. Another hotel within walking distance also is on the brink — the Detroit-Cadillac, which has opened its doors to presidents. "If the Cadillac goes, this whole area is finished," the manager of a nearby hotel said. "Downtown is shrinking," said jewelry store owner Gershon Levy. "Our business maintains, but we're doing it with less people." Local merchants do not expect to necessarily benefit from the convention crowds drawn to Renaissance or even the new offices. There will be 13 restaurants in the hotel itself and a three-level shopping mall the width of the entire complex that will, once finished, offer everything from fashion boutiques to hamburgers. "You don't really have to go out for anything," Moran said. The enclosed nature of the towering complex on the Detroit River shoreline — formerly blemished by nothing but warehouses and dockyards — has led some critics to brand it "Fort Renaissance." "There has been an awful lot of talk about that," acknowledged Ron Steffens, executive vice president of the Detroit Convention Bureau. "Yes, it is a totally self-contained type development. That's what it was designed to be. The advantage is, that because it is that way, it might draw some people from their suburban shells to come down," Steffens said. "And once they're here, they may begin going to some of the other places where they haven't been for a couple of years." Steffens and other Renaissance boosters see the riverfront development as the vehicle for improving Detroit's image. "A lot of people from out of town who think we're really down will come here and be surprised now at how up we really are," said Robert Pisor, press secretary for Mayor Coleman Young. Steffens said Detroiters talking about Detroit sometimes "seem to be the most negative people within their own town." "Now, though, there seems to be a changing attitude not only among the business and government people, but among the people living in the city and suburbs.

Study Cardboard Housing Values

By JERRY MCGINN
 PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Hobos for years have known the value of cardboard. They have used it as a home, flattened as a mattress, stuffed into clothing for insulation or burned for warmth. Now cardboard is being studied for light, durable and inexpensive housing, especially in emergencies. Unlike the hobos, Spencer Wolfe's architecture class at a Washington State University is refining the technique. The hope is to both design and build a strong cardboard structure and make it esthetically pleasing as well. By folding the cardboard into hollow triangular-shaped bricks called tetrahedrons, the students increased the strength of the cardboard without adding much weight. The shape of the bricks enables them to fasten them together in a variety of patterns which become the basic structure for a portable building. "Successfully designed cardboard structures could be used as temporary housing in disaster-stricken areas where the need is immediate and transportation has been interrupted," said Wolfe. "Several cardboard housing units could be hauled over roads too difficult to tow trailer homes, which are currently used for disaster relief, then erected at the site." A mock up took 150 man hours to assemble with each tetrahedron or brick costing about $1. On a large scale, Wolfe said, the time and cost would be drastically reduced. Regional stockpiles of temporary, emergency housing could be made available quickly. Disaster relief agencies could store them a small area for use when needed. Wolfe's class riveted the triangular bricks together to make a 10 by 10 foot structure. The process is similar to laying bricks, but rivets replace mortar. The finished product was weatherproofed by applying a suitable water sealant. Don and Eula Nicholls are proud to announce as managers of the Memorial Drive Unit. Mardi Gras in New Orleans: seven parades bring to climax long parade and party season of Carnival that began before Christmas and has filled the French Quarter with its giddy capers.

MARDI GRAS

The dizzy uproar of Mardi Gras on Feb. 22 is the climax of New Orleans' Carnival—a hard-drinking annual season of parades and parties. Mardi Gras is French for Fat Tuesday, a one-time pagan celebration which has evolved into the feast preceding the austerity of Lent in this heavily Roman Catholic area.

It is a long day of giddy capers in the French Quarter. There are seven gaudy parades winding some seven miles through a million people. The elaborate papier mache floats are each manned by about 20 masked members of Carnival "Krewes" who fling strings of beads or the highly prized doubloons toward a forest of outstretched hands.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to attend to all of the little affairs of everyday life and you will find that you are bright and alert to whatever requires your attention. However, the evening requires considerable rest to avoid being nervous. Be sure you do nothing to offend anyone in authority.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get into those tasks that need your personal attention early and get them quickly out of the way. Make sure utilities are in good working order. Relax in evening or do some light traveling.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Concentrate on getting finances in better order during day and try to build your income appreciably. Consult with a good adviser who could help you with ideas and suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have many personal matters to attend to and should do so during the early part of the day so that the evening can be free from work. Talk over the future with others also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) This is the right day to get into all the odds and ends of jobs that have been accumulating and get them done. Plan how to please a loved one. Don't be extravagant.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Those small tasks that will please your friends should be done now since they are more important than you realize. Day hours are best for going after an aim vital to you. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to get into those civic and career matters that are important and do them sensibly. Make sure you handle credit affairs wisely, also. Take no chances where your reputation is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look into every phase of some new activity and confer with those whose background has been different from yours for good results. This can bring about fine things in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you carry through with agreements made with others and gain their goodwill, active assistance. Your mate will appreciate any favors extended today. Be truthful, thoughtful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what is expected of you by close associates and carry through to the best of your ability, and advanced. Later take the health treatments you need and add to vitality.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Finish work ahead of you in a precise and clever fashion. Coordinate your efforts well with those of co-workers. Make the evening a happy one with those you love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan early the recreation you want to have over the weekend, and begin this evening with music, art. Show more affection for the one you love and be happier.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Home affairs should be uppermost on your mind today and much done to keep kin happy. Study into new activities later that can prove quite profitable to you in the future. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those highly intelligent persons who require much education in order to become a great success during the lifetime. There is an almost uncanny way of knowing what others are thinking here as well as fine ability to solve difficult problems almost like magic. The ability to sell is also phenomenal here.

National PTA Weighs Violence On TV

THE NEW SUPERMAN — Christopher Reeve, 25, responds to questions from reporters during a news conference at a New York restaurant Wednesday. LOS ANGELES (AP) — Godzilla Jones, Kid Chissell, Iron Mike, Mushy Callahan and Count Billy Varga are members. So are Maria Bernardi and Mildred Burke. Their common badge is lumpy ears; their mascot, a vegetable.

They're the Cauliflower Alley Gang, a group of boxing and wrestling champions from the "Golden Age" of those sports, the 1920s to 1940s.

Club members, whose "mascot," of course, is a head of cauliflower, spend many hours working with youths and donating money, equipment and time to promoting amateur boxing clubs.

Their weekly meeting in Hollywood resembles a central casting pool for heavies. Their faces are sculptures chiseled by a hundred different artists; their opponents.

Many of the members of the Cauliflower Alley Gang drifted to Hollywood and became movie bad guys when their ring careers ended.

"Iron Mike" Mazurki, the club president, is probably its most familiar member. The 6-foot-6, 245-pound former wrestler became one of the most-boomed villains in film history when he horsewhipped Paulette Goddard in "Unconquered" and strangled Dick Powell in "Murder My Sweet."

Although the majority of the club's members do have cauliflower ears, they are hardly a bunch of punch-drunk fighters.

They do not speak in "duhs," nor do they have a glazed-eyed, lost look. The members of the Cauliflower Alley Club seem to be gentle, warm and quite vibrant people.

"It's a great group," says Mazurki. "They'll do almost anything in the world for each other, or anyone else, for that matter."

"Count" Billy Varga, displaying his heavyweight wrestling championship belt, echoes Mazurki's statement and adds with a smile: "If you need anything from any of these people, all you have to do is ask."

One thing they'll provide without being asked, though, is stories of the past. Mushy Callahan, vibrant at 71, speaks of his welterweight championship in the '20s, and how he taught Errol Flynn to box for movies.

Noble "Kid" Chissell, formerly the U.S. Navy's top midweight and now a Hollywood character actor, tells of sparing with another young boxer in Cleveland in the '20s. The other guy, known as Packy East, didn't turn out to be much of a fighter. But Packy, born Leslie Townes Hope, made a splash elsewhere as Bob Hope.

"We've all made more money in the movies than we did in the ring," said Miss Bernardi, a former women's wrestling champion who is, along with '30s wrestling star Mildred Burke, among some 20 women members of the club.

"Old boxers and wrestlers don't die or fade away, they come to Hollywood."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight days, in eight cities, the national Parent-Teacher Association has held much-publicized hearings to see how roused the public is against TV violence and its possible effect on kids.

The last hearing with nearly 60 speakers, from CBS censor to social scientist to teacher, drew more than 600 persons at one point here Tuesday.

Now, Grace Baisinger and her colleagues on the 10-member PTA panel running the hearings will go home to sift through and study the mass of facts, figures, claims and counterclaims they've compiled.

From that, says Mrs. Baisinger, a Washington, D.C., housewife who is a first vice president of the PTA, will come a report — she doesn't know when it'll be out — and an "action plan" on ways to curb TV violence.

Could the plan call for a national boycott of shows deemed excessively violent or sponsors who often advertise on such programs?

"At this time we wouldn't exclude anything," smiled Mrs. Baisinger, a friendly, middle-aged woman whose daughter is grown, whose husband is an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board.

"During the hearings we had calls for everything from throwing out the TV set to, as the Rev. Jesse Jackson — the Chicago civil rights activist — put it, holding demonstrations if everything else fails.

"But as to what actually will be recommended, we'll have to wait for the report."

A preliminary report on the hearings will be given the PTA's annual convention in nearby Anaheim, Calif., on May 15, she added.

Mrs. Baisinger, who said she attended all eight of the PTA's hearings, said "what we heard most frequently was, 'We're fed up with the quality of television

Supplemental Aid For Some

Unemployed persons who qualify, may be eligible again for Federal Supplemental Benefits (FSB) according to Jim Hannan, Manager of the Employment Security Commission's Greenville Job Service office.

Funded entirely by Federal funds, FSB provides an additional payment period to eligible workers who have exhausted their state unemployment benefits, who are actively seeking and are available for full-time employment.

"The FSB program is completely tied to state insured unemployment rates," said Hannan. "When the rate of the insured, unemployed workers reaches five per cent or more during any 13 week period, then FSB triggers on," he added.

North Carolina's insured unemployment rate reached the five per cent level during the week ending January 29, 1977. The first payable week in the state's additional FSB period will be the week ending February 19, 1977.

Hannan stated that the additional FSB period is slated to last a short time because of Federal legislation calling for the expiration of FSB payments in all states on March 31, 1977, unless extended by Congress.

Federal Supplemental Benefits were initially available in North Carolina from January, 1975 through October 31, 1976, when the program first phased out. During that period, more than $63 million in benefits were paid in North Carolina to eligible claimants.

Birthday Of Quints Is 5 Times The Fun

LIBERTY CORNER, N.J. (AP) — When a 7-year-old celebrates a birthday, there's excitement. When quintuplets celebrate, there's five times the fun.

"It's like Christmas," said Peggy Jo Kienast, the mother of quintuplets — three girls and two boys — born over a 10-minute span Feb. 24, 1970.

There only have been about a dozen sets of quintuplets recorded in this country's 200-year history.

The gift-selecting process is carefully done, Mrs. Kienast says, because she and her husband, William, stress individuality.

"We have to sit down and figure out what everybody is going to get," she added.

they failed to break, he was in trouble. He ducked a club in an attempt to set up the suit for heart discards. Unfortunately, East won the club and shifted to a heart and declarer could not guess right. He lost two hearts, a club and a trump for down one.

At the other table, the Australian declarer also called for dummy's queen of diamonds, and again it was allowed to win the trick. Here, however, he found a far superior line which greatly increased his chances for the contract—he led a low club to his ten!

West won this trick with the queen, but declarer's king of hearts was safe from attack. The diamond continuation was won by the ace, and the king and ace of spades were cashed. When West showed up with the twice-guarded queen, declarer conceded a trump trick. With dummy's club suit established, West was forced to cash the ace of hearts or he would lose that trick.

With the help of a simple avoidance play, declarer kept the dangerous hand off lead and brought in a contract that had failed in the other room.

Right-Wingers Threaten To Kill Spain's Premier

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
MADRID, Spain (AP) — An extreme right-wing organization has threatened to kill Premier Adolfo Suarez in the wake of a government crackdown on militant rightists, two Barcelona newspapers said today.

Diario de Barcelona and Mundo Diario said the threats were made in telephone calls from spokesmen claiming to represent the Anti-Communist Apostolic Alliance. The little-known group claimed responsibility for the machine-gun deaths of five Communists in Madrid last month.

The newspapers said the callers declared the 44-year-old premier, architect of a political reform program to liberalize Spanish politics, had been condemned to death for the arrests late Wednesday of ultrarightists in Madrid.

The callers also warned that "blood would run in the streets" if the government went ahead with plans to hold the country's first free parliamentary elections in 40 years.

Eighteen youths were arrested Wednesday night in a police raid on a rightist bar after a gang of right-wing toughs wielding chains and iron bars attacked professors and students at Madrid University and a teachers' college earlier in the day.

Several newspapers suggested that police could have stopped the beatings Wednesday at Madrid University. They claimed police were on the scene but did not interfere in the attack.

The government said the arrests were part of the first crackdown on the ultraright since the death in November 1975 of long-time dictator Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The attacks followed a government announcement Tuesday that it had broken up an international rightist wing organization operating in the Spanish capital and had arrested Mariano Sanchez Covisa, alleged chieftain of the rightist Guerrillas of Christ the King.

Former Texas Marshal And 2 Women Indicted

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Twelve days after U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell ordered an investigation into the shotgun murder of a Mexican-American construction worker on a deserted country road, a former Texas marshal has been indicted for violating the victim's civil rights.

Frank Hayes, 53, who was marshal in Castroville, is serving a 2-to-10 year sentence for aggravated assault in the case.

A U.S. grand jury in San Antonio returned a two-count civil rights indictment Wednesday against Hayes, his wife, Dorothy, and his sister-in-law, Alice Baldwin.

The indictment said Hayes, by shooting Richard Morales to death with a shotgun on Sept. 14, 1975, violated Morales' constitutional right not to be deprived of liberty without due process. The women were named as accessories after the fact because they transported Morales' body 400 miles and buried it near Carthage in east Texas.

The case was brought to Bell's attention by Mexican-Americans and Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill who protested the assault verdict and sentence.

Bell then issued a statement on Feb. 11 saying, "Because of the exceptional circumstances of the case, I have instructed the civil rights division (of the Justice Department) to present the matter to a federal grand jury although state prosecution resulted in conviction.

"The allegations of abuse of authority by a law enforcement officer are so serious that they would merit presentation to a federal grand jury even had a death not resulted..."

Hayes admitted killing Morales, 27, after arresting him on an outstanding burglary warrant, but Hayes said the shooting was accidental.

A deputy who was with Hayes when Morales was arrested testified that they drove Morales to an isolated country road. The deputy said Hayes ordered him to leave. He said he later heard a shot.

Hayes was charged with murder but last summer was convicted in state court of aggravated assault. He is eligible for parole in less than two years. Jurors said after the assault conviction that they thought they were convicting him of murder by aggravated assault.

Mrs. Hayes later pleaded guilty to tampering with evidence, a misdemeanor, and received a probated sentence for transporting Morales' body.

Hayes and the two women are expected to be arraigned on the federal civil rights charges within 10 days. Hayes could receive a maximum of life in prison if convicted. His wife and sister-in-law will face a maximum of 10 years imprisonment.

Feeder Pig Show Slated

The North Carolina Feeder Pig Show will be held Monday, March 7 at the Johnston County Livestock Arena in Smithfield. A judging contest for adults, junior teams, and junior individuals will begin at 12:45 p.m. The Feeder Pig Show will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The Feeder Pig Show is open to North Carolina swine producers only. All pigs must be farrowed and raised on the farm of the exhibitor. Six pigs will constitute an entry with a limit of two entries per farm, family or firm. All pigs must weigh between 40 and 70 pounds and there will be three weight classes in the show.

An auction sale will not be held at the show. Pigs will be put on performance test and will compete as a performance tested class at the N.C. Market Hog Show in Kinston on June 9.

Entries for all classes must be made by Monday, February 28. For further information contact the Agricultural Extension Service at 758-1196.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia Electric & Power Co. has chosen to pay $31,900 in civil fines growing out of an investigation of construction at its North Anna nuclear power station although the utility's president says the decision was not an admission of serious wrongdoing.

Instead, Vepco President T. Justin Moore Jr. emphasized Wednesday that the decision was made in the interest of avoiding appeal costs.

"We do not consider it in the best interest of the Virginia Electric and Power or its customers to pursue this course of action (an appeal)," he said.

But, Moore said, "the imposition of these civil monetary penalties is unnecessary, improper and unwarranted."

He noted that payment of the penalties will not be charged as an operating expense for Vepco's rate-making purposes, "so the company's customers will not be affected."

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Office of Inspection and Enforcement had recommended that Vepco be penalized following a probe of construction practices at the Louisa County power plant. The North Anna facility has been under construction for several years.

The civil penalties, Moore said, were imposed in connection with "items that were identified last year during an investigation of certain piping installation activities" at North Anna.

"None of the items identified present any real threat to public health and safety," he said.

Vepco, which has operated two nuclear reactors at the Surry Power Station in southside Virginia since 1972, plans to put one unit into service at the Louisa County plant this spring.

But the utility has so far failed to get the NRC to issue a license for operation of the North Anna units.

DSA Given Ayden Grad

Nelson N. Thomas of Rt. 1, Apex, a 1957 graduate of Ayden High School, received the Distinguished Service Award during a recent awards banquet given by the Central Tarheel Jaycees.

The award, the highest given by the Jaycees, is presented annually for outstanding community service.

Thomas, a 1962 graduate of East Carolina University, has completed graduate work at North Carolina State University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the University of Hawaii.

He has worked with the Department of Corrections since 1965 and is presently employed as principal of the Central Prison Academic School.

Thomas is married to the former Elizabeth Bennett and they have one child.

Life Changed By Low Temperature

Editor's Note: Associated Press newsman Rick Pieniak and his wife, Cheryl, like many fellow New Jerseyans, have been living in a slightly colder house this winter by order of the governor. Here's what it's been like for them.

By RICHARD T. PIENIAK
Associated Press Writer
NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — These days 65 isn't odd, it's cold. Life at 55 is even bolder, and of course, colder.

Like getting dressed for bed. Typical for my wife is underwear, one-piece pajamas with feet, socks on top of the feet and a flannel shirt. Everything's the same for me except my PJs don't have feet.

Like going to sleep. We don't just get under the covers any more. We dig our way through one bed spread, three afghans, one quilt-comforter, one thermal blanket and one top sheet before getting to the sack itself.

Then Lincoln, our visiting Dalmatian, covers our feet, giving us added heat at that end. Topside, it's snuggle up and squeeze tight.

The toughest part is getting out from under all those covers in the morning. The trip along the cold wooden floor to the bathroom rug is a chilly eye-opener.

Once in the bathroom, the well, let's put it this way: the throne in the reading room has got icicles on it. The hot water continues to be reassuring, despite the fact we lowered the heater a notch or two. We dry ourselves quickly, lest we freeze on the spot.

The lower temperature has brought about increased consumption of tea and hot chocolate.

Then there are those evenings sitting around the fireplace — except we don't have a fireplace. Heavy sweaters and a blanket are the answer there.

I proposed to lower the thermostat about three days after President Carter suggested it. "No way, what d'ya think I am crazy?" came the reply from my wife.

Days later the governor said if thermostats were higher than 65 by day and 60 by night the penalty would be $1,500 by cash and one year by jail. On went the sweaters and down went the thermostat.

In fact, we lowered the thermostat to 55 at night as the President recommended.

According to my utility company, a lowered thermostat for a six-room home similar to ours using natural gas will reduce our yearly bill by about 10 per cent.

There are other ways to reduce it even more: weatherstripping; open window shades in the day, closed at night; drapes to hold in the heat; showers instead of baths.

For long-term savings there's insulation, shutting off the heat in unused rooms, storm windows and storm doors.

If you're still cold, you'll probably get used to it. Biologists say the human body adapts quickly to changes in average temperature.

That's been true for us. We're two less afghans on the bed.

Exercise helps. We go down to the basement and play table tennis for a hour or so.

And then there's well, put it this way, there may be some crowded maternity wards next October.

Seek Outside Firm To Reconcile Their Data

RALEIGH (AP) — Chairmen of the legislative insurance committees are seeking employment of an outside consulting firm to reconcile conflicting figures they have received from Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and the insurance industry.

This was announced Wednesday by Sen. Carl D. Totherow, D-Forsyth, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, at a joint meeting of his group with the House Insurance Committee. Totherow told members of the two committees that Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green has been asked to approve the hiring of a consulting firm after he was questioned by Sen. Jack Childers, D-Davidson.

"I've heard one thing and then another. I want to get the truth," Childers said.

"I don't say anyone is not telling the truth," Totherow later told a reporter. "The figures are presented to us in a different light. They just don't jibe." Totherow's announcement came before Ingram presented the two committees figures which he contended show that losses suffered by the insurance industry in supporting the Automobile Reinsurance Facility are not as great as they would be if the state were still operating under the old assigned risk plan. Under the facility's losses are borne by the industry jointly.

During the session, Ingram said in answer to a question he opposes a bill that would repeal North Carolina's compulsory liability insurance law. Ingram also was challenged when he told the legislators figures show the profits of insurance companies from their North Carolina operations are six to seven times the national average and that availability of auto insurance is not a problem in the state.

"If that is true and North Carolina is so profitable why don't these companies want to write insurance in North Carolina?" asked Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, an insurance agent.

Ingram answered that most of the insurance companies which have pulled out of North Carolina in recent years "left the state insurance companies doing business in North Carolina than there were four years ago.

Kincaid later told a reporter that insurance companies "just don't want the auto insurance business" in North Carolina. Insurance companies have complained auto insurance business in North Carolina is no longer profitable because Ingram won't approve rate increases.

100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY
For 100,000 miles or 3 years we guarantee the motor, transmission, and rear end of every new Toyota we sell. This warranty is in the form of a legal document and supplements the new car warranty of Toyota Motor Sales, USA.
Commercial vehicles are excluded. Copy of warranty is on display in our showroom.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

GAO Blames Govm't Regulation For High Fares

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to reduce federal control over airlines is getting a boost from President Carter as well as a new study that says less regulation would save consumers millions of dollars.

At his news conference on Wednesday, Carter said he will send Congress a message identifying the airline industry as a good place to start a drive to cut government regulation of industry.

The new study, conducted by the General Accounting Office, concluded that less government regulation of the industry would have cut ticket prices by 22 to 52 per cent and saved travelers between $1.4 billion and $1.8 billion in the six years ending in 1974.

In addition, the Civil Aeronautics Board is recommending that Congress pass legislation recommending that Congress pass legislation designed to allow airlines more freedom to set their routes and prices and to give new companies an opportunity to compete for the travelers' dollar.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Howard W. Cannon of Nevada, both Democrats, have introduced legislation along the lines recommended by the CAB. Hearings on the bill are scheduled to start on March 21.

In the GAO report released by Kennedy, the agency recommended that airlines rely more on competition than on government regulation to determine service and prices.

It reported that in 1974, for example, a passenger could have flown coach from New York to Los Angeles at an unregulated fare of $96.26. The actual price, regulated by the government, was $139.53.

The GAO cautioned that lower fares would mean less space for some passengers and fewer flights on less profitable routes that the CAB now requires airlines to fly. But it expressed doubt that deregulation would cost many small communities air service, as they have claimed.

The report also said there was reason to believe that "there will be a considerable change in the industry and some economic disorder if regulation were significantly changed. Efficient airlines would put considerable competitive pressure on less efficient airlines that are now protected by regulation."

The Carter administration is expected to back the Kennedy-Cannon bill, but is offering some suggestions of its own. "I will undoubtedly differ on details of it," Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said. But he added he doesn't believe the administration should try to introduce its own legislation if it expects to achieve quick regulatory reform.

Pet Lion Is Being Sold

SPRING LAKE, N.C. (AP) — A 7-month-old lion cub that mauled a young girl Tuesday has been sold to an animal importer.

But the cub's owner insisted his lion was provoked into the attack and the sale was planned before the incident.

Lisa Lovell, 7, was with a friend and the friend's mother when the lion attacked, leaving the girl with deep head and arm wounds. She was hospitalized at Ft. Bragg and reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday.

"When I got to the driveway all I could see was the lion laying on the patio," said the friend's mother. "When I got closer I could see underneath him just from her knees to her feet. He was eating her head. I kicked him just as hard as I can and he turned toward me. My mother threw a rock at him and he ran off."

The lion, named Leader, weighs 12 pounds. His owner, Kerry Allen, said the girl was in his yard when the animal attacked. But the mother who witnessed the incident said the lion jumped a chain link fence.

And she added the lion has left its yard and chased children before. Neighbors are considering legal action to have the lion either destroyed or evicted.

Allen's father, Theodore Allen, said the cub was a regular playmate of neighborhood children.

"These same children that were there yesterday ride the lion, pet the lion and in fact they did earlier yesterday when my son was here," he said.
