Coast Guard Begins Bigger Role Tuesday

By The Associated Press

With one reactivated cutter, eight C-130 Hercules airplanes and five HH-52 helicopters added to its force, the U.S. Coast Guard begins policing a vast new area of ocean at midnight tonight.

From that moment, foreign fishing boats will need permits to toss nets within 200 miles of the U.S. coast under a new law extending the nation's fishing jurisdiction. Previously, the United States restricted foreign fishing only within 12 miles of the coast.

Although the law has no effect on the traditional three-mile territorial limit, it will provide a test of a single government's right to police the open seas for economic reasons.

Vessels that are not fishing will be allowed to pass through the 200-mile corridor unhindered.

Despite the increased policing, a spokesman said the Coast Guard does not anticipate many problems.

"The fish will follow the traditional patterns," said Lt. Eric Williams in New York City. "The fishing boats will follow the fish. The Coast Guard will follow the fishing boats."

The Coast Guard is empowered to board foreign fishing vessels within the limit and inspect catches and equipment for violations. Penalties for violations can range from a warning to seizure of the vessel.

The Coast Guard said it would depend on its regular force to patrol the seas, plus the additional surface and air equipment. A spokesman said it will take delivery in 1979 of a fleet of medium-range Falcon jets for surveillance.

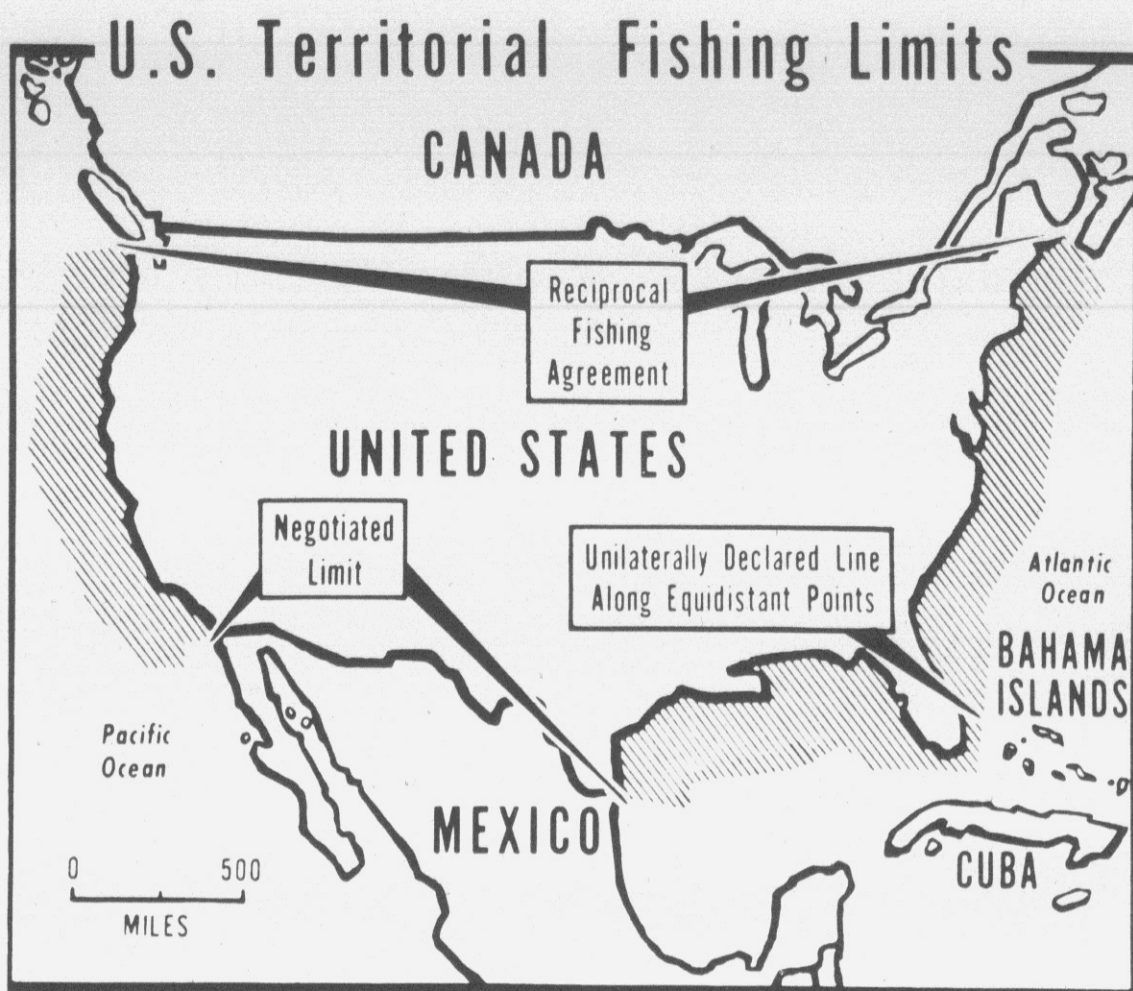

On the West Coast, Vice Adm. Austin Wagner, commander of the Coast Guard division that stretches from San Luis Obispo in central California to the Canadian border, said a spot check late last week showed about two dozen foreign vessels fishing within 200 miles of shore.

He said they were told to cease all fishing today and that they would have to wait to resume fishing until June 1, when hake and jack mackerel seasons start.

In the Northeast, foreign fishermen are prohibited from catching haddock, cod and yellow tail flounder.

Supporters of the law, which originated from a movement in New England four years ago, believe the expanded fishing limit will reactivate the dwindling American fishing industry. They also say it will protect species that they contend have been overfished by aggressive foreign fleets, some of which remain for six months fishing 24 hours a day close to the U.S. coast.

Opponents of the law, including the State and Defense departments, have feared retaliation against U.S. fishermen and navigation rights from governments affected by the extension.

TWO-HUNDRED MILE LIMIT — Shaded area shows offshore waters over which the U.S. will assume the right to limit fishing rights of all nations Tuesday. The zone extends generally 200 miles off the U.S. coast except where reciprocal agreements exist, such as that with Canada, or where the boundary is a line equidistant between the U.S. and a foreign nation, such as Cuba. Britons Said Ordered To Meet Amin Wednesday

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin is apparently summoning Britons as well as Americans to a meeting with him Wednesday at Entebbe airport, reports reaching Nairobi said today.

British diplomats in both Kampala, the Ugandan capital, and Nairobi said they were checking reports that members of the 200-strong British community were ordered to be there together with the 240 Americans.

Britain severed relations with Amin's regime in August 1976, but two British diplomats still handle British interests out of the French embassy in Kampala.

Amin earlier moved his projected meeting with the Americans from a conference hall to Entebbe airport, delayed it from today until Wednesday and warned the United States not to emulate its Israeli allies with an attempted commando rescue. In Washington, President Carter said the U.S. government was watching the situation "closely, trying not to upset President Amin, and trying to take advantage of his good wishes that he has expressed."

Radio Uganda reported on Sunday that Amin postponed the meeting from 11 a.m. Monday until 8 a.m. Wednesday at the request of the Americans in his East African country, who are estimated by the State Department to number about 240. Most of them are missionaries.

Amin said no Americans would be allowed to leave the country and ordered the meeting Friday, two days after he claimed the United States, Britain and Israel were involved in a plot to overthrow him.

Sunday's broadcast said the location of the meeting had been changed from the International Conference Center in Kampala, the capital, because the main lounge at Entebbe was the only facility in the country large enough to accommodate the 3,000 persons who were to attend. However, there was no indication who would be present beside the Americans and Amin.

The official radio also warned Ugandans to be alert for signs of an invasion. It said after the Israeli raid on Entebbe last July, the presence of U.S. naval vessels off the Kenyan coast "must be taken seriously."

Quoting a "military spokesman," believed to be Amin himself, the broadcast said: "In the event of an invasion, the invading force will be disintegrated by the Ugandan armed forces."

The United States said the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise and its escorts were cruising in the Indian Ocean off East Africa following a good-will visit to Kenya last week.

Radio Uganda said Amin at the meeting Wednesday would discuss with the Americans a memorandum being prepared on their activities since the U.S. Embassy in Kampala was closed in 1973. The broadcast said Amin wanted to thank them for their work and planned to award medals to a few of them.

Heroin Haul

LONDON (AP) — Customs officers said today they seized 26 pounds of heroin worth an estimated $8.5 million on a Malaysian freighter in Cardiff on Sunday, half as much as was found in Britain through all of 1976.

The seizure, believed to be Britain's largest, came amid a major police campaign to prevent Chinese secret societies known as Triads from moving into Britain to organize large-scale dope smuggling.

Police estimate a staggering five tons of heroin was smuggled into Europe last year, most through the Dutch ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

"This is a major breakthrough," a senior Scotland Yard officer commented. "But we're under no illusions about how much of this heroin is getting through. We've got a long way to go yet."

Officers said the heroin seized Sunday was believed to be "brown sugar" from the "Golden Triangle" wilderness where Thailand, Laos and Burma come together. It was hidden in plastic bags under thousands of tons of canned prawns.

Police detained two Chinese crewmen aboard the 11,093-ton freighter Bunga Melor, which was en route from Bangkok, Thailand, to Rotterdam.

Illiteracy Found Highest In Eastern N.C. Counties

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A new state survey used driver's license applications to find out how many North Carolinians can read. Now the state senator who ordered the survey wants to use the same applications to reduce the state's illiteracy rate.

The survey by the Highway Safety Research Center of the University of North Carolina simply recorded those license applicants who had to take an oral test instead of a written one.

The test revealed that 8.3 per cent of the state's adult population are illiterate, that illiteracy is greater in eastern counties than western and that nonwhites were more likely than whites to be illiterate.

Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, said he planned to introduce a bill that would require driver license applicants to be able to read.

"The ability to read is more important now because of complex traffic instructions," Smith said.

But the authors of the survey, Patricia Waller and Robert G. Hall, indicated they weren't sure Smith's plan was a good one.

"Certainly any precipitous across-the-board implementation of such a program would work serious hardship on many and possibly achieve no real benefit," they said in their report.

They also said any such requirement should be combined with remedial reading programs and they noted a careful study should be made to link safety and reading ability.

"Licensing cannot justifiably be used to achieve non-driving related goals, no matter how worthy they appear," the study said.

One hopeful sign in the report is that a similar survey in 1959 showed a 20 per cent illiteracy rate in North Carolina.

State Dept. Skeptical Of Secret Commitment

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - State Department officials say they are skeptical of a report that the Nixon administration made a secret commitment to end relations with Taiwan in order to normalize relations with mainland China.

Nonetheless, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Sunday the State Department is checking all documents pertaining to American policy toward China to determine whether any such commitments were made by former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger was not available for comment, nor was the only other official known to have taken part in all consultations with Chinese leaders, Winston Lord, the former director of the State Department's Policy Planning Office.

State Department officials said they knew of no commitments beyond those of the Shanghai Communique, which was signed five years ago today and which began a new era in Chinese-American relations.

Temperature Hit 83 Degrees

Greenville area residents enjoyed a warm weekend, although rain late Sunday put a damper on night-time activities.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, temperatures Saturday ranged from a low of 53 degrees to an 83 degree high, while Sunday temperatures reached a high of 79 degrees. The low for the day was 54.

At 8 a.m. today, the temperature was recorded at 58 degrees.

Rainfall Sunday totaled .86 inch.

The Tar River, which stood at 5.8 feet Saturday is rising slightly. Sunday, the river level at 8 a.m. was 6.5 feet, while at 8 o'clock this morning the level was 6.7 feet.

Driver Charged In Wreck

Beverly Kyle Millaway II of 242 Circle Dr. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:57 p.m. mishap yesterday at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Tenth Street.

Officers reported the Millaway car collided with a vehicle driven by Kathryn Patricia Briley of Route 1, Grimesland, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Briley car and $10 damage to the Millaway auto.

Solicitation Permits Granted

City Manager Jim Caldwell announced approval of two applications for solicitation permits.

Caldwell said the request by the Northeast Chapter of the North Carolina Easter Seal Society for permission to conduct a door-to-door solicitation from March 1 to April 1 was authorized.

In addition, the Easter Seal Society received permission to conduct a sidewalk solicitation on Evans Mall on Saturday, March 12 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The applications were submitted by Susan Clark, executive director, and Philip Morin, assistant director, respectively.

Edwards To Be Safety Speaker

Gordon Edwards, crime prevention officer with the Pitt County Sheriff's Department will speak at the March 3 meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council.

The meeting will be held at the Greenville Country Club at 12:30 p.m. and anyone interested in any aspect of safety is invited to attend.

Club Denies Candy Sales

Chet Emerson, director of the Pitt County Boys Club has reported that many Greenville citizens have complained about a group that is selling candy allegedly for the Boys Club.

According to Emerson, the Pitt County Boys Club is not selling candy, and he has notified the Greenville Police Department about the group. Emerson also said that the Boys Club does not have a fund raising drive being conducted at the present time and is in no way connected with the people who are using the Boys Club's name for selling the candy.

Anyone who is approached by someone selling candy, or collecting money for the Pitt County Boys Club, should contact the Greenville Police Department or Chet Emerson at the Pitt County Boys Club.

Over-The-Counter Cold Remedy Business Big; Few Said Helpful

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Americans spend an estimated $700 million a year on nonprescription or over-the-counter cold remedies.

In an effort to discover which medicines - if any - really work, the Food and Drug Administration set up a panel of nongovernment experts who studied the labels of cold, cough, allergy, bronchodilator and anti-asthmatic drug products.

Their findings echoed what many people had been saying for years: none of the nonprescription products will prevent, cure or even shorten the course of the common cold.

The panel did find that some of the products eased the symptoms of a cold. It expressed concern, however, that there are so few single-ingredient products on the market. Combination drugs are often not necessary, the panel said, because different symptoms strike at different times, and may not be good for some people because of individual reactions to various ingredients.

Similar concern over combination products has come from other sources. Joe Graedon, a pharmacologist and author of "The People's Pharmacy," a guide to various prescription and nonprescription drugs, says: "There is almost no medical justification for products which contain so many different compounds all rolled up into one and there is reason to believe that there could be a negative effect."

Graedon also claims that antihistamines commonly found in cold products should not be included. Antihistamines, he says, increase and thicken the mucus already in your lungs.

The FDA panel, noting that antihistamines are valuable for providing relief from hay fever symptoms, said there is "little valid evidence" that they are effective in treating the common cold. It suggested additional testing and recommended that antihistamine labels be required to state clearly that the products are designed only for temporary relief of runny nose, sneezing, itching of the nose or throat and itchy and watery eyes, but not for nasal symptoms such as stuffy noses.

The FDA is still considering the panel's recommendations and is studying comment received from the public and industry. A proposal based on the recommendations is expected later in the year.

The study group reviewed some 90 ingredients and placed each item in one of three categories:

-Generally recognized as safe and effective and not mislabeled.

-Not generally recognized as safe and effective or mislabeled. (The government could order these products removed from the marketplace after the final FDA proposal is issued.)

-Available data insufficient to permit final classification (The panel recommended that items in this category be allowed to stay on the market for a given length of time providing tests are conducted to answer the questions raised in the study.)

Consumers who want to know which ingredients fall in each category can send for a free fact sheet, The Common Cold. Write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 642E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Scholarship Is Awarded

Ms. Jeanne Everette Stone has been awarded the annual $500 David W. Hardee Scholarship of the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

The award is presented each year for "use by a capable and worthy student who plans to enter the field of clinical psychology."

Ms. Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Obie Everette of Falkland, attended East Carolina University at the UNC-Charlotte, where she graduated with honors. At present, she is an intern at the Mecklenburg Mental Health Center in Charlotte.

Dr. Charles Mitchell praised Ms. Stone's field work while at East Carolina and also her work during her internship. He said she is a highly motivated person and "We feel she will make a real contribution in the field of psychology."

Ms. Stone is a member of the N. C. Psychological Association and has been active in church and PTA work.

Cooks In Plains Change Recipes

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

First Lady Rosalynn Carter apparently makes Plains cheese ring one way, her mother, "Miss Allie" Smith, another.

Or so it seems in two new books about the new First Family and their friends and relations in Plains, Ga.

Apparently, the people of Plains are just like home cooks everywhere, changing recipes to suit themselves. The recipe attributed to Mrs. Carter uses fewer nuts and more mayonnaise than the one attributed to her mother.

Author Cecil Dyer of Pinehurst, N.C., says the cheese ring recipe in "The Carter Family Favorites Cookbook" (Delacorte Press $8.95) was given to her by Miss Allie.

The other book describes the recipe as a favorite of Mrs. Carter's, who got it from the president's Aunt Betty (Mrs. Alton Carter). Beth Tartan is the professional name of food editor Elizabeth Sparks of the Winston-Salem, N.C., Journal and Sentinel. Mrs. Sparks and Rudy Hayes of Americus, Ga., collaborated on "Miss Lillian and Friends: The Plains, Georgia, Family Philosophy and Recipe Book" (A and W Publishers $8.95). Hayes is managing editor of the Americus, Ga., News-Recorder and a friend of the Carter family. Their book is about one-third recipes, plus a lengthy interview with Miss Lillian, descriptive material about the Plains area, an amusing vocabulary of southern words and phrases, and photographs.

Both books were begun after President Carter won the Democratic nomination.

What if he had lost the election?

"We felt that Lillian Carter (the President's mother) is sufficiently noteworthy in her own right and the interest in the South and Plains is great enough (to go ahead regardless of the outcome)," said Donald Ackland, editorial director for A and W. The Tartan-Hayes book will be serialized by Women's News Service starting March 6.

In an interview, Mrs. Sparks said she obtained most of her recipes from Plains residents who cooked the $5,000 a plate fund-raising dinner for the Jimmy Carter presidential campaign last October.

Also in an interview, Miss Dyer said she was given family favorites by members of the President's and the First Lady's families and friends, including Mrs. Annie Mae Jones, the retired cook and housekeeper for "Miss Lillian," the President's mother.

Except for a smattering of international dishes from the First Lady's special menus for diplomatic entertaining, most recipes in both books are southern traditional: real sugarless corn breads and muffins, not the cake-like travesties one finds in most other cookbooks; homey chicken and dumplings, baked hen with cornbread stuffing, baked, boiled and fried country ham, barbecues with and without tomato bastes, nourishing turnip and collard greens and kale, rich homemade cakes and pies, sweet potato, peach, peanut and pecan specialties.

It's been suggested that the Carters serve American regional specialties at state dinners instead of the predominantly French or continental dishes that have been traditional with other administrations.

Sweetened vegetables such as scalloped tomatoes and yam pudding, sweet jelled salads and a nice mess of greens (southern lingo for fresh kale or collards or turnip greens or a combination of two or more) undoubtedly would have limited appeal.

But there are plenty of other regional specialties more acceptable to international guests:

For starters, why not baked Georgia country ham with spoon bread and relishes such as pickled okra, pickled peaches and Georgia cucumber jelly?

For desserts, maybe Georgia lane cake with a rich fruit and nut filling or pecan pie or old-fashioned shortcake with biscuits, seasonal fresh fruit and real whipped cream?

Now, that's eatin'!

Women's Liberation Takes Different Tack In Africa

By SYLVIAN KOEHLER
For AP Newsfeatures
MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — A strong women's liberation movement is growing in Africa, but it bears little resemblance to the blueprint of a Betty Friedan or a Gloria Steinem.

As the African countries emerge, women by sheer necessity are taking perhaps even greater strides educationally and politically than males. Women, in increasing numbers, have been singled out for extended European and American education and appointed to some of the highest government positions.

In Kenya, a country that shows the greatest progress in this movement, President Jomo Kenyatta has appointed Eddah Gachukia to his parliament for the purpose of dealing with women's projects, particularly those that involve the dissemination of educational and health information to small rural communities.

Damaris Ayodo, of Nairobi, when asked her opinion of the women's liberation movement in America, said:

"I have no time for many of their trivialities. I must secure water for small villages suffering from severe drought. I must help in organizing educational programs and disseminate information that will enable women to support and protect their underdeveloped communities."

Mrs. Ayodo travels throughout Kenya, speaking and working with women. Her husband, Sam, is a member of the Kenya parliament and a former minister for tourism and wildlife.

With the help of older relatives living in her household, she is raising seven children, running a successful boutique, actively working in the National Council of Women of Kenya, chairing the educational committee and serving as a delegate from Kenya to the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) conferences.

Kenya has many women poets and writers. One of its most illustrious is Muthoni Likimani, educated in both Kenya and Great Britain. She has served as a teacher, a welfare officer, a nutritionist, a Women and Children's Theater producer and as a representative from her country to international conferences.

Her latest book of poetry, "What Does a Man Want?", is her contribution to the constant struggle of African women to come to grips with the old tribal laws which give full superiority to the male.

In Liberia, there are many distinguished women in government office. High on this list is Dr. Bertha Baker Azango, married to Justice Robert Azango and the mother of two daughters. Dr. Azango was educated in Africa and earned graduate degrees from Columbia University in New York. She is an assistant minister for planning and research in education.

Another example of African women with postgraduate American education is Oredoza Z. Fewry, of Freetown in Sierra Leone. Mrs. Fewry is the acting chief education officer in the ministry of education, social welfare and rural development.

There is an endless list of dedicated African women, holding high political position of power but still retaining a quiet, feminine profile not always characteristic of women politicians.

This enigma is caused by the retention of strong tribal customs that govern the relationship of the husband and wife in the family. The male may have many wives, mistresses, divorces and many households. He strongly adheres to a relationship with his mother and allows her an almost dictatorial role as mother-in-law to his wife. This role changes only when the wife herself becomes a mother-in-law to her son's wife.

In the event of a husband's death, his brother, whatever his own marital status, is obliged to marry the widow.

The stately and beautiful Pamela Mboya, widow of Tom Mboya, the assassinated labor minister and one-time heir apparent to President Kenyatta, is now married to her late husband's brother. Her present husband's other wife is maintained in one household, while she and her children reside in their own home.

With greater education, with travel and contacts with other countries, many of the old tribal ceremonies and customs will undoubtedly disappear. However, the African woman is seeking her liberation by earning a living, educating herself and her children and fulfilling the basic needs of health programs, food, water and housing for her people. At present, she has not the time to challenge the tribal mores that affect her role as subordinate to her husband.

Bill, in the business, educational and political world the African woman has arrived. Perhaps this could not have been accomplished without the other wife, the mistress or the live-in mother-in-law sharing her family duties.

Young Women Are Reducing Salon Users

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
NEW YORK (UPI) — The girls in their leotards were sprawled on the kelly green carpet among chrome exercise machines as they listened to a pep talk from a lean and dapper man with a Jimmy Carter haircut.

They were giving him a hard time.

"Why are none of your instructors heavy-set women?" one asked.

"Yeah, and all of the girls in your commercials are beautiful models," said another.

Dr. Richard Proctor, fitness expert, dodged the issue as best he could. After all, he's in the sex appeal business.

He said reducing salons today cater less to the fat, middle-aged matron than to the young woman hoping to improve her figure for either professional or romantic reasons.

"The mean average age of our clients is about 25, and it's been going down constantly over the past several years," Proctor said. "And usually they are girls interested in attracting a man, or a young housewife who has just had a couple of kids."

"A typical complaint is, 'My fanny's too big' or 'I want to improve my bustline.'"

Proctor, a former high school pole vaulter who weighs 156 pounds at age 45, is president and co-founder of a chain of more than 250 exercise clinics, Elaine Powers Salons.

Proctor says of his instructors, "They don't have to be Miss America-types, but it helps."

He was visiting a newly opened salon near Central Park, one of 68 establishments listed in the Manhattan yellow pages under "Reducing and Weight Control Services."

Some have intriguing names and advertise exotic-sounding services.

Vera De Paris Beauty Ecology Consultants International, for example, beckons customers with an ad reading, "Recycle your body. Stay slim and fit. Yoga. Acupuncture. Facial Self-Massage. Correspondence courses."

Cleopatra's Wraps boasts "a proven way to eliminate those lumps, bumps and bulges called cellulite. Herbal sauna by consultation only."

The listings also include Aesthetic Massotherapy, Apple Health Spas, Overeaters Anonymous, Pretty Body, Stephanie of Vienna and Valerie of Milan.

The reducing business is getting bigger all the time, and "This is one of the best times of year in our business," Proctor said. "After everybody chows down so much during the holidays, they start getting remorseful."

"And then you have women getting ready for the bathing suit season and the new spring fashions."

His program stresses group exercise and workouts on special machines, but no saunas or whirlpool baths.

"Millions of people who flock to weight loss clinics, join diet clubs and health spas and spend millions on books, pills and other gimmicks looking for a 'miracle' are in a futile effort," Proctor said.

He encourages his clients to write down what they eat each day.

"We go over the list with them, not from the standpoint of telling them what they can and can't eat, but to focus their attention on how much they're eating. It sounds simple, but it really is effective. What they really need is encouragement."

One of his "Miss America" instructors is Selene Garrett, 24, a former dancer from Hollywood, Calif., who confirmed that mostly women in their 20s and 30s are enrolled: "Secretaries, working girls, some models and people like that."

Proctor said most have a particular figure problem they're trying to correct, such as a sag under the arms or "a droopy behind."

As for the bustline, he said, "Some women can build their measurements by exercises, but we can't claim to build tissue in the bust. The exercises simply strengthen the muscles."

Readers Have 'An Abby' Bet

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a bet on, and we need you to settle it. Are you divorced, or aren't you? I say you are, and my wife says you aren't.

The loser has agreed to send $25 to a charity of your choice. Thank you.

MAC

DEAR MAC: You lose. I am NOT divorced, and God willing, come July I'll be married to the same wonderful man for 39 years. (P.S. Send your contribution to your local animal shelter.)

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother is the sweetest woman who ever lived. She had a stroke a couple of years ago and is quite old now. She is always talking about dying. When I am with her she tells me to be sure that Aunt G gets this and that Uncle B doesn't get anything. And she has told me repeatedly that she wants me to have her diamond brooch, her good dishes and her silver, and she wants my husband to have Grandpa's gold watch. I know I am her favorite granddaughter, and she has told me repeatedly what she wants me to have.

Since her dying is inevitable, do I continue to tell her not to talk about it? Or should I be realistic and say, "Gram, I think you ought to write that down"? I don't want to appear grabby.

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: There's nothing "grabby" in suggesting that she "write it down." That's the only way she can be sure that her wishes will be carried out after she is.

DEAR ABBY: My Irish wife isn't speaking to me. Here's what happened: Her father, who lived to a ripe old age, was buried last week. I was a pallbearer. It was pouring down rain when we got to the cemetery, and we were all ankle-deep in mud.

There was some kind of mixup on the hole they had dug, so after half the services were said at the wrong hole, we were advised of the mistake, and the funeral party had to walk a very long way to the right hole. What a mess! All the pallbearers took turns slipping and falling in the mud as we carried the casket, and the priest fell twice.

I held an umbrella over the priest's head as he started the prayers again, and I leaned over and whispered, "Father, let's have the short version."

My wife heard me and claims I was very disrespectful to her father. Also she thinks that because of me the priest left out a lot, and her father didn't have a proper funeral. How can I get my wife to start talking to me?

SORRY IN BOSTON

DEAR SORRY: Send her some flowers. They're the best bloomin' silence-breaker known to man.

DEAR ABBY: CAROLINA CONTROVERSY says she is constantly being complimented on her clothes, which she makes herself, but her husband tells her she's foolish for telling people her clothes are "homemade."

How ridiculous! The well-dressed man of today who can afford to have his clothes custom-tailored isn't ashamed to tell people that HIS suits are handmade. In fact he's proud of it. So why shouldn't a woman be proud to say that HER clothes are "handmade"?

MY TWO CENTS

DEAR MY: She SHOULD be. But "homemade" and "handmade" have an entirely different ring—on the cash register, that is. It's funny how most people want their clothes to look expensive, but don't like to spend a lot for them.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Never So Big It Loses Touch

Col. Charles R. Blake, assistant to the chancellor at ECU, sees the university as attempting to condition itself to the complex society of today while holding on to the virtues of the past.

Col. Blake spoke recently at a meeting of the Alpha Delta Kappa Education Sorority in Farmville.

"Although we have since grown in many dimensions, East Carolina was founded for the purpose of being a primary source for secondary school teachers and administrators," he remarked.

While the original programs of the school have developed into far reaching new fields, Blake said that ECU "still provides the state and nation with large numbers of well-trained teachers in many specialties."

He said the university has tried to maintain a two-way street of communication with the people, and this has led to meeting critical needs of the state.

He cited an effort to keep faculty members close to the students and indicated that this has been effective since he is constantly asked by former students, as he travels around the state, about their professors.

Well we certainly hope that East Carolina will always stay close to the people and their needs. We also hope that the school will never become so big and impersonal that graduates won't recall with fondness most of their old professors.

East Carolina is a grass roots university. No matter what directions its services take in the future we would expect its leaders to keep the institution close to the people.

Prison Overcrowding At Critical Point

It is apparent that overcrowding in state prisons is at the critical point.

Gov. Hunt took a step towards alleviating the problem by allocating almost $3 million for construction of temporary facilities last week.

The funds will expand 29 prison units by 1,024 beds.

That will help, but it is obvious that much more needs to be done. If the public expects stern enforcement of the law, then the public must be willing to provide adequate prison facilities to house the inmates.

Behind Medicaid's Spiral

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — It is not WAREFARES getting needed medical attention which has caused Medicaid costs to skyrocket in North Carolina.

Rather, it is a combination of other factors—but principally the extension of Medicaid coverage to the "medically needy," and payment of longterm care costs in nursing homes.

That is the dilemma presented by the General Assembly in a detailed probe of Medicaid prepared by staff of the Fiscal Research Division of the Legislature.

While that report stops short of recommending steps to bring the runaway Medicaid Program in check, study of the facts leaves little room for options.

Sharp Rise

Somewhere, there must be some cutting. In fiscal 1970-71 total Medicaid costs were $98.1 million. The budget for 1977-78 fiscal year calls for $289 million; and for 1978-79 a total of $316.8 million, with the experts fully expecting costs both years to exceed those estimations.

Medicaid has thus become the biggest spending activity in the Department of Human Resources, totalling over one-third of that agency's budget. For comparison to the $316 million Medicaid outlay for fiscal year 1978-79; spending would be $56 million for public health services; $200 million for mental health services; $16 million for specialty hospitals; $184.7 million for all salaries of human resources (welfare) payments.

From the data presented members of the General Assembly, three conclusions are obvious:

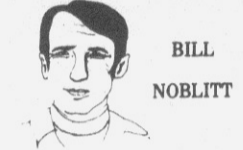

1. Costs are up due to inflation—medical items shot up 9.2 per cent from July, 1975, to July, 1976, while the Consumer Price Index rose only 5.2 per cent;
2. North Carolina provides the largest number of services (many of them optional) to both categorically (welfare) and medically (non-welfare) needy. Federal law requires services only for the categorically needy, and requires only physician care, inpatient hospitalization, and skilled nursing home care. This state provides dental, eye, foot, and Chiropractic services among other options;

Big Spending

3. The medically needy—while not eligible for welfare—have low incomes and high medical bills. The General Assembly provides coverage even though not required to. This category makes up 17 per cent of those receiving Medicaid—but accounts for 44 per cent of the total cost.

That disbalance must be looked at in the light of another factor: as nursing homes were brought under Medicaid, costs doubled from

Hinges On The House

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — In a sense, the fate of the Equal Rights Amendment still hinges on the state House of Representatives.

ERA passed the House three weeks ago on a 61-55 vote. Last week, the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee sent ERA to the floor where debate is to begin Tuesday.

While backers are insisting that ERA be considered on its merits, opponents fear it will pass such a test. Polls of the 50 senators bear that fear out.

In a last-gasp effort to defeat the issue, opponents are now trying to get ERA put to a public referendum. ERA backers say the referendum issue is nothing more than a ploy and note that the results of a referendum would have no legal bearing on what the legislature eventually did on ERA.

There is more to the referendum issue than is readily apparent.

Supporters say the House would not go along if the Senate voted for a referendum. In fact, House Speaker Carl Stewart has put out the word to the Senate that a vote for referendum is a vote to kill ERA.

Opponents have met that headon by spreading the word that they have lined up enough votes in the House—they are claiming about 70 of the 120—to go along with the referendum if the Senate passes it.

One opposition leader said last week that 55-60 representatives were invited to a meeting on that topic and about 35 showed up. He said his side has about 70 commitments. But ERA supporters say that is merely a bluff, that they know of several legislators the opponents are claiming have made no such commitment.

At the moment, the truth is unimportant. What counts is what the 50 senators believe. And leaders from both sides are doing their best to convince the fence-sitters.

There are some senators who would not vote for a referendum if it would result in ERA being killed. But, if opponents can convince them the House will buy the referendum, they would likely go along.

The referendum is also being used by senators who promised

Kissinger Goes To NBC

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—NBC just signed on Henry Kissinger as a "news consultant," a performer on news specials, an occasional guest on the Today show, and an adviser to John Chancellor and David Brinkley on foreign affairs. I haven't seen the contract so I'm not certain what other matters Mr. Kissinger will handle with the network.

I suppose my biggest concern is using Henry as a foreign affairs adviser to Chancellor and Brinkley.

Since he has a vested interest in American policy that he initiated he can't be considered an unbiased observer.

I take you now to the NBC Evening News studio a few moments from today.

"Hello, Henry, this is John Chancellor. Brinkley is on the other extension. A dispatch just came over the wires that Dick Helms, the former director of the CIA, said you instructed him to lie to Congress about our role in Chile."

"I don't consider that a valid news story. I wouldn't use it."

"But CBS and ABC will use it."

"That's because they don't have all the facts. When my book comes out I will explain exactly what I said to Helms."

"Henry, this is Brinkley. Sen. Henry Jackson says that the Soviets are not living up to the Helsinki accords and story. What facts does he have for backing it up?"

"The Russians are violating the human rights agreement."

"That's all?"

"Henry, this is Chancellor. Secretary of State held a press conference in which he said shuttle diplomacy had lost its value, and he intends to use his ambassadors to negotiate agreements with foreign governments and the United States. We thought we'd use three minutes of it."

"Did he attack me personally?"

"No, but David and I consider that this is a criticism of your method of operating when you were at State."

"This is serious. What do we have on Vance?"

"We don't have anything on Vance."

"Well, get something on him. What kind of news organization do you have over there?"

"Henry, this is Brinkley. We're only half an hour from air time and you've just knocked down three of our stories. All we have left in foreign affairs is that the President of Pakistan intends to visit the United States this summer."

"That's good. I think you should lead with it."

"It's not much of a story."

"That's because you've never been to Pakistan. Pakistan is the gateway to China. China is an enemy of the Soviets. The Soviets will wonder why we have invited the President of Pakistan to visit Washington in the Middle East and Africa."

"Chancellor's writing all this down, Henry. There's one more thing. AP says that Mort Halperin, who is suing you for tapping his phone, says you've been stalling on giving a deposition to his lawyers."

"I wouldn't use it. The story could destroy our credibility with Japan."

"Well, thanks for straightening us out, Henry."

"Don't mention it. That's what I get paid for."

THE INSIDE REPORT

A Pragmatic 'Fresh Look'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — On Feb. 11, businessmen of Galesburg, Ill., heard their eminently orthodox Republican Congressmen reveal the growing conviction within the party that its prospects for survival as the labor-baiting political instrument of Main Street are slim.

Rep. Bob Michel, chatting over coffee with that downstate Illinois community's businessmen, delivered no such ringing declaration. All he said was that Republicans ought to take "a fresh look" this year about voting against organized labor's forthcoming attempt to repeal 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits state "right to work" laws prohibiting compulsory unionism.

Although Michel's words generated little attention, he was in fact reflecting revolutionary attitudes by conservative Republicans of his mold. Their incipient revolt is inspired by two realizations: first, business has been a weak, inconstant and unfaithful ally for Republicans; second, there is no possibility of inroads into organized labor without substantial Republican concessions.

And what better possible concession than giving up the doomed fight for "right to work"? AFL-CIO officials in visiting the White House Feb. 14 informed the President's men they were trying again — the first time since 1966 — to repeal 14(b). Any major Republican defections would make repeal a certainty.

Michel's potential defection is extraordinary. He is not only House Republican whip and immensely popular in the Republican cloakroom but is a symbol of regularity and loyalty, qualities highly valued in that party. The Congressman from Peoria was rated 5 per cent liberal last year by the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and has scored zero in many past sessions.

Why, then, would Bob Michel even consider such apostasy as switching on 14(b)? The reason is pragmatic, not doctrinal: the Grand Old Party has bloodied itself on "right to work" for a generation with nothing to show for it.

Michel knows all too well the failed 1958 national "right to work" campaign contributed to heavy Republican losses in Congress that never have been made up. The party has never regained its former strength in Ohio and California, where "right to work" referenda were voted down 18 years ago after bitter struggles.

Indeed, there is no slight chance of any Northern industrial state adopting an anti-union shop law. So, the Michels are finding themselves in this politically untenable position: they battle labor to save 14(b), whose authorization is taken advantage of only in Sunbelt states extending from Arizona to Florida, which then attract businesses from the Northern union-shop states. These conservative Congressmen discover themselves unwittingly enhancing a system economically injurious to their own voters.

What makes this even more

Other Editors Say The Paper Tide

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

In continuing a complaint about the mountainous pile of paperwork required of the private sector by the federal government, one runs the risk of being repetitious. But American businessmen, the victims of this ridiculous mass of paper regulations, believe that enough cannot be said in the way of complaint about the situation.

The paperwork burden on business, the public and on government itself is currently estimated at $40 billion annually. Two years ago Congress established the Commission on Federal Paperwork. It has been active in attacking the problem.

It eliminated approximately 50 million separate forms confirming government contractor adherence to equal employment regulations. It helped HEW in developing a single application form for 41 federal and state welfare and income security programs, with a savings of $6 billion a year.

One of its recommendations requires detailed wage reporting annually instead of quarterly for Social Security purposes. It also set up an office to receive complaints from the public. When he was President, Gerald Ford also gave a push to paperwork reform. A 12.5 per cent cut in the number of executive branch forms was achieved by July, 1976.

The Internal Revenue Service has cut out 724 forms and other agencies have made similar cuts.

All this is well and good—and commendable, but unfortunately, while all this progress was being made, more was added to the federal paperwork flood by recent legislation. Which is still another reason why things are better when Congress is in recess.

Public Forum

To the editor:

This letter is in reply to a letter published in your Feb. 18 newspaper.

In this letter, the lady states that dog owners that ignore the leash law should be taken to task. Let me advise the lady that it is virtually impossible to take an owner to task for taking their brute to the park and annoy another neighbor. The first thing the lawyers and judge will ask is, "Do you have witnesses?"

How can witnesses be obtained when all the other neighbors are dog owners themselves, and will just stand up for another dog owner?

My opinion is that the leash laws should be tougher than they are, and if the owners continue to be a nuisance about their dogs, then shoot the dogs.

Give the Greenville authorities more power about the dog nuisance. Let's put first things first. People's rights come ahead of dogs'.

Strength For Today

THE KINGDOM UNSEEN

Christians have a conviction that beyond the seen order is an unseen order which strengthens them in time of persecution. It is their trust in this transcendent kingdom which enables them to live righteous lives in the midst of widespread temptation.

A story is told about Admiral Coligny, a French commander, who lived about 300 years ago and was appointed to defend the little town of St. Quentin against the Spaniards. When it seemed that surrender was

A Better Economic Evaluation

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The return to more normal weather patterns through much of the area that was devastated by cold or drought is going to permit shortly a more precise measurement of the economy's strength.

Like watching the snow melt and finding that, yes, the ground is still there, economists are waiting for the weather's impact to work its way through the statistics so they can measure how solid is the economic base.

Hesitancy, confusion and doubt marked almost all economic assessments made during the past two months, mainly because analysts have been unable to separate the weather's impact from underlying currents.

A vast array of statistical measures have been affected by the cold, heavy snows and droughts, including Gross National Product, productivity, industrial productions, car sales, housing starts, retail sales, prices.

While the numbers experts are generally confident they have a rough measure of the impact, they cannot say for certain that basic economic changes, entirely apart from weather, might be developing.

Perhaps the most commonly held view is that the economy actually is developing new strength following last fall's pause. Reviewing figures, analysts now realize an economic re-expansion began somewhere before Christmas.

Judging from the statistical measures that have been coming in lately, however, you might never guess that things were improving.

More bad numbers are expected for a while as the statistical indices for February and then for the first quarter are released. In fact, some numbers, such as for industrial production in February, might be worse.

Still, as the thaw reduces snow piles and ice jams, and as rain falls on parched areas to the west, an easily detectable optimism is working its way into forecasts.

The weakening of industrial production in January, for example, is now expected to be made up during March and in the second quarter. And because production will be rising from an abyss, the numbers might even look spectacular.

The real problem, it would appear from a random survey of private economic reports, is likely to continue to be prices. The consumer price surge in January almost certainly cannot be attributed wholly to the weather.

In fact, the surveys of prices were gathered before the worst of the weather. Cereals, bakery products, meat, poultry, fish, coffee, fuel and automobiles contributed heavily.

Because these increases are believed to represent more basic causes than weather, many economists now have applied a greater degree of certainty to their forecasts for more inflation in 1977.

Still, the inflation level is expected to be tolerable, somewhere in the 5 per cent to 6 per cent range, compared with 4.8 per cent last year.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today for the coastal areas of the Northwest and snow flurries inland. Clear or partly-cloudy skies are expected for most regions. Warm to mild temperatures are indicated from the West to the Mississippi Valley with cool weather due along the Atlantic coast. (AP Weather Map)

By The Associated Press
A cold front slipped into the Tar Heel state today with clear, sunny skies, chasing out the band of showers and thunderstorms which delivered a much-needed soaking on Sunday.

The rain Sunday ranged from half an inch over much of the state to 1.77 inches at Goldsboro.

Highs on Sunday continued to be unseasonably mild in the east, while heavy overcast and rain kept a lid on temperatures in the western part of the state. The high was 79 at Rocky Mount and the Raleigh area, while temperatures in the mountains ranged in the low to middle 60s.

Highs today will be more seasonal, with 40s in the mountains and 50s elsewhere. Lows tonight are expected to be in the 20s except for 30s along the coast. Little change in that pattern is expected on Tuesday, except for increasing cloudiness in the mountain regions.

A warming trend is expected to return on Wednesday and continue into Friday, with partly cloudy skies and scattered showers possible by Friday.

Life-Saving Class Will Begin Tonight

An advanced life saving course will begin tonight at Minges Coliseum under the sponsorship of the Pitt Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The first meeting will be held in Room 142 at Minges, beginning at 6:30 p.m., and the course will continue each Monday night through April 18 from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

The course instructor, Cynthia Averett, reminded participants to bring their bathing suits to the initial meeting.

She said that in order to take the course, the student must have passed his or her 15th birthday, be in good physical condition, and be able to perform the following: standing front dive in reasonably good form;

Swim 500 yards continuously using a front crawl stroke, a sidestroke, a stroke done on the back using an inverted scissors or breaststroke kick, and breaststroke;

Dive from the surface to a minimum depth of eight feet

Evans-Novak ...

(Continued from page 4) really burn their bridges on such questions is doubtful. In Illinois, for example, Michel is faced with the memory of the late Everett McKinley Dirksen, who a decade ago led the Senate filibuster which killed 14(b) repeal, and the presence of Rep. Philip Crane, the intense conservative from the Chicago suburbs who crusades nationally for "right to work."

But even if Michel's "fresh look" does not actually end his support for 14(b), the exercise indicates a new clarity of perception in the House Republican cloakroom. Some conservatives there now see themselves representing a party lacking a constituency, a strategy and a future. Those who have dared to at least consider changing sides on a self-defeating issue reveal a desire to escape from that trap.

to support ERA but now are caving in to the fear tactics and enormous pressure opponents are applying. A referendum is an easy out because they can still say they didn't break their promises.

Sens. Jim McDuffie, D-Mecklenburg, and John Henley and Joe Raynor, both Cumberland Democrats, fit that category. McDuffie, in particular, knows that had he opposed ERA in the election, he probably would have lost.

There is another aspect of the referendum issue that the legislators are quite well aware of but apparently has not been noted by the public. If ERA is on the November ballot, it is certain to become an issue in every local election on the ballot. Legislators, on the other hand, will not be running and will be spared that agony.

A conversation in the Legislative Building last week illustrates how much concern there is about that. A middle-of-the-road legislator asked one of the anti-ERA leaders, "Would the referendum be on this fall's ballot?"

"Yes. That's right. It will be on the November 1977 ballot along with some local elections."

"Then we can be sure it won't be on the ballot in 1978 when we're running?"

"No question about it. It will be on the first general election ballot and you won't have to worry about it."

If some of the state's incumbent city councilmen start thinking about that, they might start demanding that the legislature settle ERA, one way or the other, or have a special election and to heck with the cost.

Whatever happens in the Senate this week, it's going to be quite a dog fight and an outstanding drama for those who enjoy hard core politics.

Expect Crowd At Maddux Trial

By ERIC NEWHOUSE
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS, Tenn. (AP) — A special sound-equipped room was readied at McMinn County Courthouse today to hold the overflow crowd expected at the trial of Ronald and Wanda Gibson Maddux, charged with the beating death of Mrs. Maddux's 4-year-old daughter, Melisha. The child's nude body was found on a bare mattress in the unheated living room of the Maddux's home in Cleveland, Tenn., last Oct. 13 — just five months after the state returned Melisha to the couple.

The Madduxes had been convicted of abusing Melisha when she was 11 months old and were jailed for six months. The state Human Services Department returned the child to them last May.

Reporters and some 150 prospective jurors were expected to fill the 200-seat courtroom. A basement room with loudspeakers was prepared for the overflow.

Criminal Court Judge James Witt said attorneys and witnesses in the second-degree murder trial would use a side door of the courthouse to keep them away from reporters and the public.

"There will be stringent security at the courthouse," said Sheriff Larry Wallace. "And there will be extra tight security measures taken at the jail while the Madduxes are here."

Judge Witt moved the widely-publicized trial to Athens last year because he said heavy publicity made it impossible for the Madduxes to receive a fair trial in the Cleveland area. Last week, he rejected a motion to suppress statements the Madduxes made to sheriff's deputies the day the body was found.

Mrs. Maddux was alleged to have said her husband resented Melisha because the child was fathered by another man. Maddux reportedly told deputies that he began disciplining Melisha after she wet her pants.

Maddux is alleged to have said he beat Melisha with a stick to keep her walking, and allegedly made the following statement: "I made her keep walking back and forth all day to try and tire her out so that she would sleep that night."

"I kept giving her the hot sauce a tablespoon at a time. She asked me for a drink of water. I got a glass of water and told her if she would take the tablespoon of hot sauce, I would give her a drink."

"She swallowed the hot sauce and I drank the glass of water."

Maddux told officers he gave Melisha a shower and sent her to bed alone, naked on the bare mattress in the cold living room. An autopsy concluded she died the following morning of shock and exposure.

If convicted, the Madduxes could be sentenced to 10 years to life in prison.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The second spill of carbon tetrachloride into the Ohio River system in a week has turned off many Cincinnati-area residents to tap water — to the extent that some people won't bathe in it.

Restaurants claim diners are substituting coffee and tea for water with meals, while grocery stores report an increase of sales in soft drinks.

Some supermarkets reported a weekend run on bottled water.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Dave Wenger, an IGA store manager in Ft. Thomas, Ky. "One man ordered enough water to fill a bathtub. He said he refuses to take a bath in tap water."

The run on bottled water peaked over the weekend as Cincinnati, Ohio's third largest city with 450,000 residents, closed intake valves for 31 hours to its drinking water supply.

The rarely ordered move came after 6,000 pounds of carbon tetrachloride was spilled accidentally Friday into the Kanawha River at the FMC Corp. near Charleston, W.Va.

The chemical, used in fire extinguishers and as a cleaning agent, can cause liver damage and is believed to be a cancer-causing substance.

Last week, a 70-ton slug of the chemical passed Cincinnati undetected, polluting the river where the city draws its water supply.

Because of the spills, uneasy residents began looking for supplies of pure water.

"We've had a tremendous volume of new customers, maybe over 50 per cent," said Charles Braun, a distributor for Mountain Springs, a bottler of water. "My wife just received 87 calls at home in a 24-hour period."

A store manager in Price Hill said his store ran out of bottled water several days ago and he has had difficulty obtaining more. Prices on bottled water range from 59 cents to $1.76 a gallon.

The city closed its intake gates Saturday morning and reopened them Sunday afternoon after the roughly 60-mile-long slug of carbon tetrachloride moved out of reach of the city's water supply.

City Manager Bill Donaldson said the valves were reopened when carbon tetrachloride levels dropped to under 10 parts per billion. The highest reading registered while the second spill passed was 37 parts per billion, he said. A level over 50 parts per billion is considered alarming.

Awards For Arnold Soc.

East Carolina University's Air Force ROTC was represented by three awards given at the Area Arnold Air Society Conclave in Blacksburg, Va. last week.

Arnold Air Society is an honorary service organization whose members include selected AFROTC cadets.

ECU Arnold Air Society Cadet David W. Ruffin of Fayetteville received the Area "Arnie" Award, given to the cadet in the Carolinas and Virginia who has contributed most toward improving relations between Arnold Air Society and its sister organization, Angel Flight.

Ruffin is a senior business administration major at ECU and is currently AAS Commander for ECU's General Chennault Squadron of Arnold Air Society.

The ECU Squadron as a whole received the Area's "Best Squadron" and "Best Pledge Program" awards.

Firemen Called To Boat Plant

Greenville firemen were called to Grady-White Boats, Inc. about 2:25 p.m. Saturday when fire erupted in a sawdust collecting bin at the boat manufacturing plant.

Officers said fire and smoke spread into dust collecting duct work inside the plant when a fan used to pull dust from the building was shut off.

Moderate fire damage was reported to the bin while light smoke and water damage was reported inside the building.

hearing, were requests by Mrs. Nina E. Tripp for a permit in order to operate an antique shop in the structure located on the north side of 264 West about one-half mile from Lake Ellsworth, and for a permit to erect a sign at the location.

A public hearing was also held on a request by Thomas-Lowry Properties for a permit in order to operate self-service gasoline pumps at the Red Oak Shopping Plaza on the 264 Bypass.

Both requests were approved without opposition.

Why grasses may be your first and foremost weed problem.

Roger Walker

Let's consider two basic types of weeds. Grasses and broadleaves. While they are both serious threats to yield, in many cases grasses pose the greater problem. In general, grasses have smaller seeds than broadleaves. That means they germinate in greater numbers from the top inch or half inch of the soil profile. This is the first area of the soil to warm up and receive adequate moisture in the early spring, so many grasses germinate at that time, which is the same time your crop emerges.

Also, this is the time that your crop seedlings are germinating, which means that the grasses are competing with your young crop for vital moisture and nutrients. You can wait until later in the season to cultivate, but by then grasses have made their effect on your yield.

But you can effectively control many of the tough grasses you have in either corn or soybeans. You can apply Lasso® preemergent herbicide by Monsanto. Among the many grasses it controls are foxtails, crabgrass, fall panicum, barnyard-grass, goosegrass, and brachiaria.

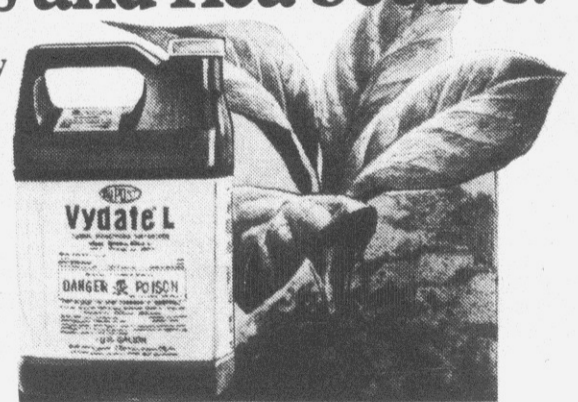

You can combine Lasso in several labeled tank-mixes which provide broad-spectrum control of many grasses and broadleaf weeds.

Lasso. If it weren't dependable it wouldn't be where it is.

Lasso is a registered trademark of Monsanto Company. Always read and follow the label directions for Lasso.

New VYDATE two-shot tobacco plan stops both nematodes and flea beetles.

Now you can apply VYDATE preplant incorporated in your tobacco fields for nematodes, and later add VYDATE to your transplant water for flea beetles and nematodes.

This new VYDATE plan gives you proven, effective protection against your two worst pest problems. With both nematodes and flea beetles under control, you can look forward to vigorous early growth leading to uniform flowering, and larger, more uniform leaves at harvest. Here's the two-shot plan:

Shot one: Broadcast VYDATE preplant and incorporate to a depth of 4 to 6 inches; then form your beds from treated soil. No waiting period is required. The preplant treatment can be made right up to the time of transplanting. VYDATE kills rootknot and lesion nematodes on contact. Then VYDATE moves into tobacco roots for systemic kill of feeding nematodes.

Shot two: Add VYDATE to your transplant water when transplanting young plants. VYDATE quickly moves into the plants to stop flea beetles as they feed.

And this second VYDATE treatment gives you "booster shot" protection against nematodes. VYDATE in the transplant water needs no rainfall to start it working, and the systemic protection won't wash off. Just one economical, liquid product does the whole job.

Check out this new VYDATE two-shot tobacco plan with your dealer now.

As VYDATE is a highly toxic chemical and protective equipment is recommended, read and follow labeling instructions and warnings carefully.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a slight loss today, continuing last week's slow decline.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 50 at 932.93, after a net loss of 6.81 points last week.

Losers took a 6-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume came to just 3.96 billion shares over the first hour.

The index, which is designed to detect future economic trends, was expected to show the adverse effects of bad weather during the month.

Koehring fell 2 1/2 to 14 1/2 and Fruehauf gained 1 1/2 to 29 1/2. Over the weekend the companies dropped plans for a merger.

British Petroleum, the most active NYSE issue, was unchanged at 15 1/2. A 145,000-share block traded at that price.

Houston Oil & Minerals was the volume leader among American Stock Exchange issues, off 1/4 at 43 1/2 after a 3 1/2-point loss Friday.

The company reported substantially higher fourth quarter earnings on Friday, but traders who had bid the stock up sharply in recent months evidently had been hoping for an even better showing.

The 11 a.m. NYSE's composite index was off .05 to 54.04.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .13 to 110.45.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State parks officials are finishing up a $2 million two-year improvement program, and the public will be able to see the results at many parks this summer.

Following are some of the highlights, according to Ronald D. Johnson, director of parks and recreation for the state:

—Ft. Macon: The first phase of the fort restoration program will be finished May 1, and interpretive programs and tours begin June 1.

—Roosevelt Natural Area: New nature trails are ready for use.

—Dismal Swamp: A new rough camping and hiking area will be opened but access through the swamp will require a permit from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

—Merchants Mill Pond: Canoe and boating trails and rough camping are now available with very basic facilities for campers including running water, pit toilets and limited parking areas.

—Goose Creek State Park: Enlarged camping and picnic areas and a two-mile nature trail have been installed.

—Pettigrew State Park: A new nature trail and expanded campground with space for 20 campers are ready for summer.

—Raven Rock State Park: Improvements include a new rough camping area and youth group camping area, 12 miles of horseback trails, and three new hiking trails.

—Eno River State Park: A new canoe launching site has been prepared with more parking and a picnic area. —William B. Umstead State Park: Fishing has been improved with the killing of water plants in the Lake Crabtree section.

—Morrow Mountain State Park: Better water and electrical systems for the camping areas should make overnight stays more comfortable.

—Crowders Mountain State Park: Hiking trails, including a self-guided nature trail are ready along with new camping areas for families, groups and youth groups.

—Hanging Rock State Park: Picnic area improvements in progress will limit capacity this year but improve it next year.

—Pilot Mountain State Park: About 50 campsites have been added with a brand new family camping area. Other improvements include a self-guided nature trail at the summit of the mountain.

—Stone Mountain State Park: There are more campsites this year, plus the fishing-for-fun trout stream, where you catch the fish on barbless flies and then throw them back.

The parks people also have a staff of naturalists at some parks to give lectures, tours and displays on the park features, both natural and cultural-historical.

The naturalists will be at Duke Power Recreation Area, Hanging Rock, Pilot Mountain, Morrow Mountain, William B. Umstead, Ft. Macon and possibly some others if the money holds out.

HESITATION CAN BE COSTLY

Once you put real estate on the market, you have to make up your mind to move when the right offer comes. Your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price if you have priced your property realistically. The right offer may be your first offer, and if you turn it down, you may never get another as good.

However, the offer should be a written one — the only kind that has any real significance and on which you can depend.

Just remember that a legitimate offer should be accompanied by a good-sized check depending on the selling price. Never accept a verbal promise and take your property off the market. The next day, a good sale may be lost if you are tied up in this type of questionable transaction. You'll never have to worry about this situation arising if the sale of your property is in the hands of a Realtor.

VMI Next Challenge For The Pirates

THE FINAL POINTS — East Carolina's Herb Gray goes up for a dunk shot against William & Mary's Matt Courage on the final play of Saturday night's Southern Conference Tournament game at Williamsburg.

Va. The Pirates upset the fourth-seeded Indians, 79-76 in the game, with Gray leading the way with 22 points. East Carolina now moves on to Roanoke, Va., to meet top-ranked VMI in the semifinals Tuesday night.

East Carolina University's Pirates take off again today, headed for Roanoke, Virginia, hoping to add two more upset victims to their list in the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament.

Saturday night, the Bucs surprised fourth-seeded William &

Mary, 79-76, and moved into the semifinals of the tournament. That sends the Pirates against top-seeded Virginia Military Institute in Tuesday night's second game in Roanoke's Civic Center. The contest is set for 9 p.m. Second seeded Furman meets number three Appalachian State in the 7 p.m. game. The two winners collide on Wednesday night at 8 p.m. for the championship, and the NCAA berth that goes along with it.

The win over Williamsburg marked Dave Patton's first victory over the Indians on their home court—and his last, since he has resigned effective the end of the season. However, he'd like to make that end come later than most folks had thought it to come.

"It'll be another road game for us," Patton said. "It's in VMI territory, and I know that every one of those cadets will be there. But fortunately, it's not in the 'Pit.'"

Patton added that the positive thing for the Pirates is that the team really feels it can win the tournament. "I've thought all along that we've had the talent. It was just a question of getting it all together."

Patton also doesn't expect to see the Pirates playing under any pressure. "Some people tend to put pressure on themselves, but we didn't play like there was any pressure on us at William & Mary. VMI is the team that is supposed to win, not us, so we can just go up there and play loose."

Still, the coach said, the Bucs have to be mentally tough for the game. "We have to shoot the ball. Shooting makes everything else go all right," Patton said.

Patton praised the play of sophomore Louis Crosby, along with freshmen Herb Gray, Jim Ramsey and Kyle Powers in the game.

"VMI will be able to run with us better than William & Mary, but I don't think they want to get into a running game with us. I hope we can get them to play our game."

Patton looks for Will Bynum and Ron Carter to cause the most trouble for the Pirates. The two are averaging near the 20 point mark. "If we can get the same kind of defensive job on Carter from Herb Gray that we did on John Lowenhaupt, then we'll have a good chance."

Meanwhile, VMI Coach Charlie Schmaus was praising the Pirates. "They played well here in Lexington the last time we met. I said when we beat them early in the year in Greenville, that I was glad we had them early. I felt that they would be dangerous with experience. East Carolina rebounds well, probably better than anyone else in the league. They shot well against William & Mary, and we feel that their key is crashing the boards, something we have been weak in this year."

Schmaus added that the Pirates should be loose for the game. "They weren't supposed to be here and they must be feeling that they have nothing to lose. They should be high emotionally, and since they are so young, they should be much improved over their play earlier; you could see it coming."

It still boils down to a very difficult game for the Pirates, but one the young players still feel they can win.

"I said all year long that they better not let us get to Roanoke," Patton said. "Well, we're there. If we can play like we did Saturday night, it just might be a couple of fun days."

Robinson Says Furman Will Win Tournament

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

If you want to take the word of Coach Les Robinson of The Citadel, Furman's Paladins will regain Wednesday night the Southern Conference basketball title they relinquished to Virginia Military's Keydets last year after winning it the three previous seasons.

"I think Furman will go on and win the tournament," Robinson said Saturday after his Bulldogs, who wound up 8-19 over-all, dropped a 76-69 regionally televised decision to the second-seeded Paladins, 18-9, in one of three quarter-final championship tournament games.

Appalachian State's third-ranked Mountaineers, 16-11, posted a 71-66 victory over Davidson's Wildcats, 5-22, but William & Mary's fourth-seeded Indians, 16-14, were upset on their home court 79-76 by East Carolina's Pirates, 10-17.

That means Appalachian will go against Furman in the semifinals at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Roanoke, Va., and East Carolina will tangle at 9 p.m. with VMI, 23-3, which drew a first-round bye. The winners play for the title and an NCAA tournament berth at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

"They played a tough schedule and they're just now coming around," said Robinson of Furman, which won its seventh straight game as Bruce Grimm scored 27 points, Jim Strickland 23 and freshman Jonathan Moore grabbed 12 rebounds despite being in foul trouble.

With Robert Hoak pouring in 20 points, many on long outside jumpers, The Citadel stayed within three to five points most of the second half until three starters fouled out.

"If Grimm plays like he did against us and Strickland and Moore rebound, they'll be tough to beat," said Robinson. He admitted he had felt his Bulldogs could beat Furman and "I think we gave them a pretty good game."

Furman Coach Joe Williams said some of his players had final exams Saturday morning "and they were pretty tired from that, but I think we'll be rested for the tournament and I think we'll play well."

Williams added that "you have to be satisfied when you win during the tournament, no matter how close the game."

Of the fact three teams played on their home courts in the quarter-finals, Williams said "the seeding definitely favors the high ranked teams."

With Larry Hunt scoring all his 10 points in the first half, East Carolina built a 42-33 intermission lead over William and Mary and was up by 12 points when the Indians put together a 16-2 run led by Ron Satterthwaite to move in front.

But the Indians couldn't stop Herb Gray and Louis Crosby in the second half, and Crosby hit two in a row—the second with 2:48 left—that gave East Carolina the lead for good. Gray had 16 of his 22 points in the second half and Crosby 13 of his 19.

"We finally responded like veterans instead of youngsters," said Pirate Coach Dave Patton, who announced nine days ago he was resigning at the end of the season. "This is probably the greatest win I've ever had."

William and Mary Coach George Balanis, whose team was led by John Lowenhaupt with 18 points and Matt Courage with 17, said "it was typical of our up-and-down season. We've had a very long season, 30 games, and I guess we were just tired and flat at the end."

Darryl Robinson scored 13 of his 23 points in the first half and Calvin Bowser had 16 and Walter Anderson 14 for the game in the Appalachian victory over Davidson despite 33 points by the Wildcats' John Gerdy. The Mountaineers led almost all the way.

In a game involving a title-eligible new member, Western Carolina, 8-16, edged Lenoir Rhyne 77-75 as Bubba Wilson scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Two new members play tonight—Marshall, 8-17, at Morehead State and Tennessee-Chattanooga, 21-5, at Samford.

Coach Charlie Schmaus of VMI, which spent the weekend practicing, had some words of agreement with Robinson about the tournament.

"Furman is playing the best basketball now. They have all the ingredients...size, quickness, shooting and depth. They are the most balanced on paper, but Appalachian is playing with a lot of confidence," said Schmaus.

As for East Carolina, when all the odds had pointed to his team meeting William and Mary, Schmaus observed:

"East Carolina will be playing loose. They weren't supposed to be here and must have the feeling they have nothing to lose. Being a young team, they wouldn't get better until late in the season. You could see them coming."

And Schmaus' Keydets will see them again Wednesday night.

Cale Adds Another Win To His String

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Is bad luck the only thing that can beat Cale Yarborough?

His opposition must be beginning to wonder.

Bad luck in the season opener is the only thing between Yarborough and a perfect season in Grand National stock car racing.

The defending national champion spun out on debris left on the track by another car and finished second at Riverside, Calif.

But then he won a 125-mile qualifying race for the Daytona 500, and the prestigious 500 itself, with a victory in the International Race of Champions finale squeezed in between.

And Sunday he added the rain-shortened Richmond 400 to his list of triumphs—four victories in 1½ weeks.

"Not a bad season, so far,"

Yarborough conceded. Actually he already has had a better season than all but one or two of his fellow competitors are likely to have the rest of the year, and 27 races remain on the Grand National calendar.

"We lost the one, but won all the rest of 'em. Things are looking good. We might make a little money this year," noted Yarborough, whose 1977 winnings already exceed $125,000.

About Sunday's race, Yarborough said it was not that close, even though Darrell Waltrip was only a car-length behind when a thunderstorm hit the .542-mile Fairgrounds Speedway.

"It was a cakewalk," said Yarborough, who already has a bulging lead in Winston Cup point standings. "I wasn't worried about Darrell. I knew I could beat him. I could have stretched it out if I wanted. But I saw the rain coming and didn't take any chances."

An eight-car pileup that occurred when rain came once earlier in the race had everyone a little more safety-conscious.

Buddy Baker, who was running in the top five, spun with Junior Miller and both cars came to rest blocking the track. A line of cars behind them piled in. Only Dick Brooks, another top five driver, was damaged too seriously to continue.

Others involved were pole position starter Neil Bonnett, Richard Petty, Skip Manning, Buddy Arrington and Elmo Langley.

The crash did not seriously alter the outcome, however. Bonnett and Benny Parsons, who finished a distant third, had the early lead, but Yarborough took command on the 32nd lap, and was ahead most of the rest of the distance, except after pit stops.

Other leaders were Richard Childress, Bobby Allison and David Marcis.

Yarborough passed Marcis on the 163rd lap and held the lead the remainder of the race, although Waltrip, who spun and dropped far back early, was on his rear bumper most of the way.

The race was stopped after 244 of the 400 scheduled laps.

Dooley Will Speak Here

Bill Dooley, head football coach at the University of North Carolina, will be the guest speaker for the Greenville Sports Club tomorrow.

The meeting is held at the Ramada Inn with a buffet luncheon starting at 12 noon. The program starts at 12:30 p.m.

Dooley, who led his 1976 team to a fifth bowl game appearance in the Peach Bowl in Atlanta, owns more post-season invitations than any other ACC coach in history. Beside this past year's game, Carolina teams coached by Dooley also appeared in the 1970 Peach Bowl, the 1971 Gator Bowl, and the 1972 and 1974 Sun Bowls.

In his ten year Carolina career, Dooley has compiled a 61-50-1 record, winning more games than any other Tar Heel coach.

A graduate of Mississippi State, Dooley remained there as an assistant coach, later running the freshman program for three years, never losing a game to the biggest rival of them all, Mississippi.

He went from there to George Washington for three years, then returned to Mississippi State for a year. After that, he joined brother Vince at Georgia as an assistant. He was picked off that staff to join the Tar Heels as head coach.

Conley Wins Two Titles; Gains Second Place In State Event

WINSTON-SALEM — D. H. Conley won two individual championships, but placed only second in the team standings in the North Carolina State Wrestling championships held at Winston-Salem Parkland High School Friday and Saturday.

Floyd Crandall and Jesse Davis won individual crowns,

Floyd Crandall

giving Conley two titles. The Vikings were the only school in the state to win two titles. Cary finished in first place with 87½ points, while Conley was second with 64½. Southern Alamance finished third with 47, followed by High Point Ragsdale at 43½, and Oxford Webb with 42. Rose finished tied for 15 with 22 points.

Crandall, wrestling at the 115 pound level, had to go into an overtime to win his second round match. He then took his semifinals with a decision, and finished up with a 2-0 overtime in the finals for the title, defeating the defending champ from last year.

Davis, at 170, captured two decisions in the first two rounds, then captured a pin in the semifinals. He gained a 13-5 decision over an East Forsythe wrestler in the finals to win the title.

The only other area wrestlers to place were Rose High's James Cherry, who finished fourth, and Conley's Alton Crandall, who won a third. Cherry won on a pin in the first round, then took a 7-2 second round win. He was defeated in the semifinals, 11-5, but won his first consolation match before bowing in the consolation finals.

Crandall of Conley at 108, won his first two matches, then lost by a pin. He won his consolation match, 12-6, and then took an 8-2 win over an Orange High wrestler to finish third.

Rose High's Cliff Hagan lost, 9-4, in the first round while heavyweight Rocky Butler took his first match by a fall, but was pinned in the second round.

Joe Ebron of Farmville Central lost a first round decision at 101 pounds, while Aubrey Wynne of North Pitt took a 17-5 defeat in the first round at 158.

Conley's Marvin Hardy won a first round match by a fall at 141, but then lost 17-9, in the second round.

Charles Hanson, also of Conley, won 4-0 in the first round at 158, then lost 7-6, to the eventual champion. Hanson won a consolation match by a fall, then was beaten 6-1 in the consolation semifinals.

Conley's Lo Carmon, who qualified for the heavyweight division, did not participate in the tournament due to an injury.

Carolina Pulls Off Double Play In Winning Game And The Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The North Carolina Tar Heels pulled off a great double play over the weekend.

They won the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season title with a little help from North Carolina State, then beat Louisville with a lot of help from Phil Ford.

"It looked like we were worn out," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith after Sunday's nationally televised 96-89 victory over Louisville.

The Tar Heels had every right to be tired. They had beaten Duke 84-71 Saturday, then sweated through an emotionally draining day before finding out how Wake Forest would do that night.

The Deacons were upset by North Carolina State 91-85, thus giving the ACC championship to North Carolina.

Then, North Carolina defeated the nation's 10th-ranked club.

North Carolina led Louisville by as many as 22 points in the second half of the game at Charlotte, N.C., and, led by Ford, held off a late Cardinals rally.

The brilliant guard scored 26 points and orchestrated the sensitive "Four Corner" offense for the ninth-ranked Tar Heels.

"It's hard to be ahead by 20 against such a good team like Louisville," Smith said. "Louisville is not going to fall over and play dead when they're down by 20."

Elsewhere in the Top 10 Saturday, No. 1 San Francisco squeezed past Portland University 95-92; No. 2 Kentucky defeated Alabama 85-70; No. 3 Michigan edged Michigan State 69-65 in overtime; No. 5 UCLA hammered California 91-69 and Georgia shocked No. 7 Tennessee 83-76.

In other games, No. 12 Providence stopped St. John's 69-66; No. 13 Minnesota nipped Illinois 72-70; No. 14 Cincinnati outscored Jacksonville 78-61; No. 15 Syracuse turned back Rutgers 82-72; No. 16 Detroit walloped Cincinnati-Xavier 91-66; No. 17 Oregon edged Washington 61-60; No. 18 Marquette beat Virginia Tech 75-70; No. 19 Clemson embarrassed Roanoke 120-56, and New Mexico upset No. 20 Utah 81-77.

North Carolina held a 57-38 halftime lead and expanded that to 70-48 early in the second half before Louisville came back on the shooting of Wesley Cox and Rick Wilson, who led all scorers with 30 points.

But Ford scored crucial points, and freshman star Mike O'Koren, who also had 26, thwarted the Louisville comeback before a sellout crowd of 11,666 at the Charlotte Coliseum.

Saturday's victory and the first-place finish earned the Tar Heels a bye in the first round of the ACC playoffs, starting Thursday. North Carolina will play Friday night in the semifinals against the winner of the Maryland-North Carolina State game. Other first-round matchups include Wake Forest vs. Virginia and Clemson vs. Duke.

Bill Cartwright scored 33 points and led San Francisco on a 14-2 tear late in the game, helping the undefeated Dons beat Portland for their 29th straight victory this season. The big center had three baskets in the middle of the streak as the Dons rallied from an 11-point deficit against the underdog Pilots.

Nicklaus Rolls To Big Victory

By JOHN SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — "I sort of steamrolled ahead," was the way Jack Nicklaus explained his 61st PGA tournament title, in the $250,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic.

The game's 37-year-old master fell one shot behind playing partner Gary Player on the eighth hole Sunday, then out-shot Player by seven shots on the next nine holes and finished five shots ahead of the South African to claim $50,000.

"I really don't think I'm a great frontrunner," said Nicklaus, who entered the day a shot ahead of Gil Morgan and two up on Player.

"Once I got one shot behind (with consecutive bogeys on Nos. 7 and 8), I just made up my mind and played more aggressive. I played better being behind at that point," said Nicklaus, who had a closing two-under 70.

Where Nicklaus really won the tournament was on the 532-yard 15th hole. He got an eagle three with a 30-foot putt to move four shots ahead and said, "I figured I could just walk home from there."

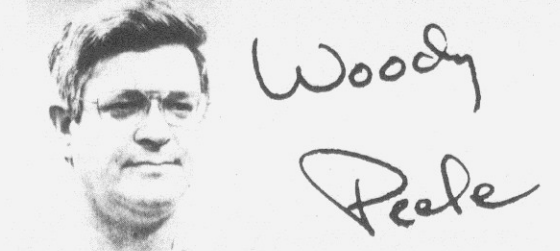

"I played the hole with two eagles, a birdie and one lousy par," said Nicklaus, who finished at 13-under 275 for 72 holes at Inverrary Golf and Country Club.

The five strokes he picked up on 15 was the margin of victory over Player, who ended at eight-under 280 to claim $28,500.

Nicklaus credits rotund comedian Gleason with his success on 15 — he had two eagles and two birdies on the hole last year when he won the Tournament Players Championship here by three strokes.

He said Gleason reminded him before the TCP that his downfall in four previous events had been failure to score well on 15. Nicklaus said he had approached the hole with added determination ever since.

Nicklaus, now tied with Ben Hogan for second on the all-time victory list behind Sam Snead's 84 triumphs, will skip this week's Florida Citrus Open at Orlando but play the next Saturday night's victory over William & Mary should find some of the detractors from this year's basketball program taking a second look, regardless of what happens from here on in.

The Pirates finally put it all together in the game against the Indians, and if they continue to play as they did in that game, they will cause a lot of trouble in Roanoke in the semifinals, and maybe even the finals. They are capable of getting there, we do believe.

It is so easy to kick a team when it is down, but those who do it are hard to find after a victory. They are too busy slapping the team on the back and telling the players what a good job they've done.

But the players and coaches know who the fair weather friends are.

We said in Friday's column that ignorance and apathy were a big part of the problem concerning the basketball team at East Carolina. Sunday, when the bus carrying the team pulled back on campus, there was not a single person there to say hello.

A pickup basketball game was going on at the courts beside Belk dorm when the bus pulled in. No one even noticed. No one came over to shake a hand or wave or say hello or anything.

An angry graduate assistant Billy Lee stepped off the bus and clapped his hands as the Pirates got off and gathered their gear. He was the lone welcoming committee.

I just wonder if anyone will be there should the Pirates win it all.

I can't help but reply to a letter written in the News & Observer's "Sports Forum" Sunday.

It said that East Carolina should go out and find a "NAME" (emphasis the writer's) coach. It followed that such a coach should be along the lines of Lefty Driesell of Davidson, Joe Williams of Furman or Bates Locke of Clemson.

I doubt that there were very few people who had ever heard of Lefty Driesell prior to his coming to Davidson. And Bates Locke or anyone like him is needed at East Carolina like the plague.

Joe Williams brings in other questions, namely money, and that's something East Carolina doesn't have in its basketball program right now. The kind of money a Joe Williams would want is far beyond East Carolina's present ability, unless someone wants to make one fantastic donation.

Consider one thing: Maryland's recruiting budget is reportedly more than the ENTIRE basketball budget at East Carolina.

We agree with the writer that recruiting is the name of the game. But there are some factors involved that are not that easy to define or even legal to put into print.

Griffin, Ford Spark All-ACC

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Forward Rod Griffin of Wake Forest and guard Phil Ford of North Carolina head an All-Atlantic Coast Conference squad announced today by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

UNC and Wake Forest each placed two men on the 1977 all-conference team.

The Tar Heels, ACC champs in regular season play, placed Ford and forward Walter Davis on the squad. Griffin and guard Skip Brown represent the Deacons.

Kenny Carr, N.C. State center and the conference's leading scorer, occupies the fifth spot on the team.

Ford, a repeater from last season, and Griffin, the most accurate shooter in the league, were close to unanimous choices for the 134 voters and finished only one vote apart in the balloting.

Griffin placed on all but three first-team ballots, and Ford missed only on four. Figuring two points for a first-team vote and one point for a second team choice, Griffin had 265 points to Ford's 264.

Brown and Carr had 218 and 217 respectively. Davis took fifth in the points with 203, edging Wayne "Tree" Rollins by only three points.

Duke sophomore Jim Spanarkel also drew well, with 186 points.

Along with Rollins and Spanarkel, the second team includes Brad Davis of Maryland, who attracted 94 points; Tommy LaGarde of North Carolina, who got 60 points; and Stan Rome of Clemson, who got 55 points in the voting.

Here is the All-Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team as selected by 134 members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association, showing school, vote total and hometown. Each first-team vote counted for two points, a second-team vote for one point:

FIRST TEAM
Rod Griffin, Wake Forest junior (265); 6-6, 225; Fairmont, N.C.

Phil Ford, North Carolina junior (264); 6-2, 170; Rocky Mount.

Skip Brown, Wake Forest senior (218); 6-1, 165; Kingsport, Tenn.

Kenny Carr, N.C. State junior (217); 6-8, 229; Washington D.C.

Walter Davis, North Carolina senior (203); 6-5, 190; Pineville, N.C.

SECOND TEAM
Wayne Rollins, Clemson senior (200); 7-1, 230; Cordele, Ga.

Jim Spanarkel, Duke sophomore (186); 6-5, 205; Jersey City, N.J.

Brad Davis, Maryland junior (94); 6-3, 180; Monaca, Pa.

Tom LaGarde, North Carolina senior (60); 6-10, 230; Detroit, Mich.

Stan Rome, Clemson junior (55); 6-5, 200; Valdosta, Ga.

Deacons Draw Second Seeding

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest will have the second-seeded position in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament starting Thursday. Wake beat Clemson in a special drawing Sunday.

North Carolina won the ACC's regular season championship with a 9-3 league record, giving the Tar Heels a first round bye in the tournament.

Second seeded Wake Forest, with an 8-4 ACC record and 20-6 overall, will open the tournament Thursday at 1:30 p.m. against Virginia, which is 2-10 in the ACC and 10-16 overall.

In the second game Thursday, Clemson will go against Duke. The Tigers are 8-4 in the ACC and 21-5 overall while Duke has a 2-10 ACC mark and is 14-12 overall. That game will be at 3:30 p.m.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, Maryland, which is 7-5 and 19-7, will face North Carolina State, 6-6 and 16-10.

North Carolina, which is 22-4 overall, will play the winner of the N.C. State-Maryland game at 7 p.m. Friday. The winners of the other two Thursday games will play at 9 p.m.

The ACC championship will be decided Saturday night in a game that will start at 8:30.

The drawing to determine seedings was conducted Sunday morning by ACC Commissioner Robert James who drew the Wake Forest's name from a hat.

At the bottom of the league, Duke was seeded above Virginia because the Blue Devils had beaten the Cavaliers twice during the season. Both were 2-10 in the ACC.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is not good for any confrontations. Later you can make progress in finding the right thoughts under which you can best operate and gain the answers you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A new project needs more study to be successful. Do some entertaining at home tonight and discuss future with congenials.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to be more helpful toward others at this time. You have to exercise much care in motion today if you are to avoid trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your financial position and find a practical way to have more abundance. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your personal aims may seem difficult to attain during the day but all works out fine by evening. Be logical.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the right way to remove obstacles in the path of your progress. Take proper health treatments and improve your appearance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The daytime is not good to pursue a new friendship. Try not to argue with anyone and try to be harmonious with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain the support you need from a higher-up and advance in your line of endeavor. Relax at home tonight.

More Sentiment For Giving Governors 2nd Chance

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — There appears to be more legislative sentiment in favor of allowing North Carolina governors to seek a second successive term than there is for giving the governor the veto power.

"I've never seen where the governor needed the veto power," said Sen. J. J. "Monk" Harrington, D-Bertie, one of the most influential senators. "Because if there is a bill he doesn't like...he can get this bill killed, changed or put off so he can live with it."

Harrington said this did not necessarily apply when the state has a Republican governor and a Democratic legislature. He said he opposed giving the governor veto power.

Harrington said that while he'd rather see a governor elected for one six-year term, he had an open mind on the proposal to permit the governor to seek a second, successive four-year term.

"From talking to governors, they are just learning their jobs the third year," Harrington said in explaining why he favored a longer term for the governor. "It takes a while to get a hold of things."

A poll of legislators taken about a month ago, showed 25 senators favoring allowing the governor to seek another term with another eight leaning toward that position. Fifty-six House members were in favor with another 21 leaning that way. Four senators were opposed with another four leaning that way while 19 House members were opposed and 11 were leaning that way.

On the veto issue, 19 senators favored it with another 11 leaning that way and 45 House members favored it with 16 leaning that way. Six senators were opposed with seven leaning that way and 35 House members were opposed with 13 leaning toward that position.

Both proposals would require constitutional amendments which must be passed by a three-fifths majority of each House. These figures show that if all those who indicated they were leaning in favor of the proposals, the gubernatorial succession proposal would pass both houses, and the veto proposal would barely pass the Senate while it would be rejected by a good margin in the House.

This may be one reason veto legislation has not yet been introduced, and Rep. Thomas Gilmore, who is guiding the two proposals for Gov. Jim Hunt, is not sure when a bill will be introduced. Hunt, like all North Carolina governors in recent years, strongly favors both proposals.

Rep. Bob Jones, D-Rutherford has introduced a bill that would allow governors to seek a second term, but Gilmore says he is preparing another bill on the issue more to his liking. Gilmore said his bill would include the lieutenant governor as well as the governor and "will definitely include Gov. Jim Hunt as being eligible" to seek a second term.

If the legislature approves the proposals they could be submitted to the people in the general election next year. If the people approved, Hunt would be entitled to seek reelection.

One of those who said he was inclined to oppose a second successive term for governors was Rep. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell.

"In any event I don't think it should apply to an incumbent governor who would stand to profit from his own efforts," Huskins said. He said he would vote to give a governor one six-year term.

"I don't feel as strongly about the veto, but I'm inclined to oppose that," Huskins added.

Rep. Bertha Holt, D-Alamance, said that originally she had opposed both proposals, but now she favors them.

She said her decision on the veto power was an "outgrowth of having a Republican governor and a Democratic legislature" the last four years. "The tendency was for the General Assembly to get a little out of balance. That was not good for the General Assembly or the state."

In discussing gubernatorial succession, Mrs. Holt said "if a governor gets a good program going, it's hard to be a lame duck the minute you take office."

Rep. Gordon Greenwood, D-Buncombe, said he favored submitting both issues to a vote of the people.

"It takes four years for a governor to find out what his job is," Greenwood said. "If it was a good governor, continuity would be very important. If he was not a good governor, he wouldn't be reelected. The people would take care of it."

"I think I would favor the veto power," he added. "It has not hurt the other 49 states...although since I've been here I haven't seen many bills the governor would veto."

Car Plunges In Pond, 3 Killed

By The Associated Press

A mother and her two children drowned when their car plunged into a pond in Brunswick County. The three deaths were among seven in North Carolina traffic accidents over the weekend.

The deaths raised North Carolina's toll for the year to 162, compared to 185 during the same period in 1976.

Judy M. Shaw, 27, of Leland, and her two daughters drowned when she apparently lost control of her vehicle, causing it to run into a private pond Saturday evening. The children were identified as Kathy Shaw, 5, and Judy Kay Shaw, 3.

Divers spent about an hour searching for the vehicle, the State Highway Patrol said.

A car-pedestrian Saturday in Wake County killed James A. Redick, 31, of Wendell. Redick was struck by a vehicle that was backing up. The accident occurred one mile east of Zebulon on a rural paved road.

Edward N. Lukesic, 20, of Camp Lejeune, was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding ran a stop sign and struck an embankment. The accident occurred 8½ miles north of Jacksonville in Onslow County.

Also killed Saturday was Stanley L. Campbell, 23, of Scranton, who lost control of his car on a curve. The patrol said the car overturned several times. The accident occurred on a rural paved road near Scranton in Hyde County.

A Thomasville man was killed Friday night when he lost control of his car and was thrown from the vehicle after it ran off the road.

The victim was identified as Larry K. Shuller, 19. The accident occurred on a rural paved road 2½ miles north of Thomasville in Davidson County.

Math Prof Appointed

Dr. Lokenath Debnath, professor of mathematics at East Carolina University, has been appointed adjunct professor of physics at ECU. He will teach one course each quarter for the physics department in addition to his regular duties in the Department of Mathematics.

Dr. Debnath's research in plasma physics, geophysics and fluid dynamics has been reported in several international journals published in the U. S., Asia and Europe, and his book-length study, "Lectures on Dynamics of Oceans" will shortly be published by the Calcutta University Press.

At present, Dr. Debnath and Dr. Byrd are collaborating on another book concerning mathematical physics. Debnath has previously published two advanced books and 120 research articles on aspects of applied mathematics.

YOU PUT YOUR NAME ON THE LINE WHEN YOUR CUSTOMERS ARE YOUR NEIGHBORS.

We offer a lot of new fangled communications equipment at Carolina Telephone. But we back it up with an old fashioned brand of service.

Because the way we see it, the good neighbor policy is more than good business. After all, the customer we call on in the morning is the neighbor we'll be sitting next to at P.T.A. in the evening.

When people have a stake in the community, when you're involved in its improvement the way we are, being courteous and efficient with your customers comes just as natural as saying, "See you again tonight," to your neighbors.
