House Members Promise Follow New Ethics Code

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to a dramatic appeal by Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to "make sacrifices" because the American public demands it, members of the House of Representatives are promising to follow a new and tougher code of ethics.

The central features of the code are requirements for extensive disclosure of personal finances and a limit on the "earned" outside income of a lawmaker at $8,625, or 15 per cent of his annual legislative salary of $57,500. These and other new rules intended to curtail conflicts of interest and the misuse of public funds were approved on a 40222 vote Wednesday after seven hours of sometimes rancorous debate. The approval came 11 days after lawmakers began receiving an annual pay increase of nearly $13,000, which some had accepted after saying they felt it should be tied to passage of the ethics code.

"I appreciate that some of you are going to have to make sacrifices. But sacrifices we must make. The people of America demand an ethics code," O'Neill said. To allow themselves the privilege of unbridled outside income, O'Neill argued, "creates in the public mind a suspicion of conflict, a suspicion of impropriety. The issue is credibility." O'Neill's statement seemed to shift the mood away from support for a coalition of Republicans and a handful of Democrats who were calling for the income limit to cut from the bill. They heatedly argued that the provision was "immoral" and perhaps unconstitutional because it discriminated against persons earning different types of income. The main objection was the distinction that limits "earned" income from business ventures or law practices but exempts "unearned" income from investments or other capital returns. The bill's authors conceded that the plan was not perfect but said their study and a poll taken during drafting of the code showed more potential for conflict of interest in a lawmaker's actively obtained earnings than in investments and other financial dealings. Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., credited O'Neill's late-evening appeal with turning the issue around. "After I heard that speech I knew we weren't in trouble," he said. Passage of the legislation was seen as a boost to the leadership reputation of O'Neill, who had been criticized privately by some code supporters for not doing enough to push it along. O'Neill had made a personal pledge that the House would produce "the toughest ethics code of any legislative body" in this session. The Senate is expected to act next week on an ethics code that closely parallels the House version.

Fiscal Operation Of Pitt Pleasing To Commissioners

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners yesterday afternoon reviewed the county audit report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976, and discussed several other matters. Commissioners heard Cecil Mizelle of Worsley, Farley and Prescott say the county was "in good shape" financially and that he was "well pleased" with the county's fiscal operation. Mizelle suggested, however, that the county might maintain a larger amount of operating capital. The auditor agreed with commissioners that one way the county might maintain tighter control over the budget is to establish a purchasing agent through which all major expenditures would be made.

The board voted its approval for all county employees to return to a regular five-day work week, beginning Monday. Several departments, including the Department of Social Services, the Extension Service, and the Health and Mental Health Departments have been on a four-day week for the past several weeks in connection with Gov. Jim Hunt's energy conservation program. County manager Reginald Gray told commissioners that by the various departments observing a four-day week, "there was a definite fuel savings." The board also reviewed a proposed program for the dedication of the new hospital. The dedication program has been tentatively scheduled for March 26, with Gov. Jim Hunt as principal speaker.

House And Senate Ready Stimulus Votes Scheduled

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress are nearing key votes that could send $50 billion government checks to 200 million Americans this spring as part of a Democratic plan to prime the economy. The Senate scheduled a vote today on a compromise budget amendment that would allow up to $17.5 billion in economic stimulus, including tax cuts and direct federal spending, during the next seven months. However, the Senate is just voting on whether to approve the $17.5 billion figure. It will decide later whether the economic stimulus package will include the rebates.

A House vote could come this evening on whether that stimulus should include $50-per-person rebates, like President Carter proposed, or some alternative. Democrats claim their program would create one million jobs this year while providing a rebate for most Americans earning under $30,000 a year, a permanent tax cut for 45 million couples or individuals and a shot in the arm for businesses. Since Democrats have a two-to-one edge in the House, their plan probably will prevail, even though some Democrats agree with the GOP that the rebate is an ineffective way to create jobs. The Republican alternative, based on a permanent individual tax cut instead of the oneshot rebate, is expected to fare better in the Senate, but that test is unlikely before the last week in March. The Senate Finance Committee, which begins work on the Carter tax bill next week, has spent the last two days developing its own tax ideas for 1978. They include: —The probability that the current tax credit for working parents who hire babysitters will be doubled, from the current $800 maximum to $1,600. Credits are subtracted directly from taxes owed. —The chance that parents next year will be allowed a tax credit of $250 a year to offset tuition and other college costs. This plan was approved by the Senate last year but not by the House. —No increase in the Social Security payroll tax this year, despite a growing deficit in the system. On Tuesday the panel endorsed a $1 billion tax hike effective next January but backed down at the urging of the administration, which said the increase could hurt the economy. New budget-making procedures in Congress bar consideration of any stimulus plan for the current fiscal year, which ends on Sept. 30, until the budget approved last September is amended. That was the task facing the Senate today.

Funny Money

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon alerted area citizens to be on the lookout for counterfeit $20 bills that are in circulation in the Greenville area. Cannon said that eight of the bogus bills were passed in the city on Monday, including six at a convenience store and two at a local bank. The chief said that the $20 bills can be identified as counterfeit if they carry the number D-58 on one side and 199 on the other side. The numbers are located on the lower right hand corners of the bill. He urged persons spotting a counterfeit bill to notify the Police Department.

Rescuers Report Trapped Miner In Good Spirits

By BRUCE DALLAS
Associated Press Writer
TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) — Warm socks, a jug of hot broth and chewing tobacco were pushed through a six-inch tunnel today to a coal miner entombed since Tuesday when an underground flash flood wrecked a coal mine. Ronald Adley, 37, tapped a message of life through a 60-foot wall of solid coal Wednesday afternoon, nearly 32 hours after he and other miners were trapped by water and debris about a mile from the mine's mouth. Seven men are still missing. Two men were killed and their bodies recovered, and three, who escaped, were injured when the water swept through the mine, in the heart of Pennsylvania's anthracite coal mining area, 40 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

The water apparently broke through a wall from an abandoned shaft, sweeping mine timbers and other debris through the tunnel. "Adley's in very good spirits and very good health," said Leon Richter, vice president of the Kochar Coal Co., the mine's owner. The supplies were placed in two four-foot-long canisters and pushed through a six-inch hole bored into the coal during the night. Rescuers then began drilling a series of other holes, increasing their size little by little with picks. The idea was to get it big enough — without causing another cave-in — for Adley to squirm through. "It's a very tedious job and must be done by hand," said Richter.

Nairobi Paper Reports Expulsion Planned By Amin; Hijacking Set

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin planned to expel Americans living in his country, and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine planned to hijack the plane on which they left, published reports here said today. The Nairobi newspaper the Daily Nation said that Amin planned to expel the Americans at the meeting he scheduled this week with them and then called off. The newspaper said its information came from West German intelligence reports and that Amin presumably knew of the plan. In Bonn, officials said no such intelligence report was received there. "There seems to be a lot of wild speculation going on in Nairobi," a Foreign Ministry spokeswoman said. Kenya and Uganda have long been feuding. Milton Obote, Ugandan president overthrown by Amin, has been living in Tanzania. The Nairobi report said the Ugandan government was going to provide a plane for the Americans to leave the country. "PFPL terrorists would have mingled with the Americans and boarded the plane," the report continued. "It would then have been hijacked, and possibly flown to Kenya." There was no comment on the report from the Amin government or from U.S. officials in Washington. Meanwhile, the United States, Britain and Kenya rejected Amin's latest invasion charge, and Kenya said Amin was hallucinating. "Hallucinations and shadow boxing are a commonplace thing with the military regime in Uganda," a Kenyan spokesman said. "With this understanding, you can even expect to hear that God has shaken hands with Amin." Radio Uganda charged on Wednesday that 2,600 U.S., British and Israeli mercenaries were marching through Kenya toward Uganda. The U.S. State Department said the report was "completely and totally false." The British Foreign Office said it was "highly unlikely." Israel said nothing. It was Amin's third invasion charge in eight days. On Feb. 23 he said the United States, Britain and Israel planned to drop paratroopers into key Ugandan towns to overthrow him. The next day Radio Uganda claimed that an invasion force of Tanzanians were six miles from the Ugandan border. Kenya is land-locked Uganda's neighbor on the east, while Tanzania adjoins it on the south. Meanwhile, Amin's fellow Africans succeeded in shelving a British demand for the United Nations Commission on Human Rights to investigate alleged violations of human rights by Amin's regime, which has been accused of murdering up to 300,000 people in the past six years and embarking on a new wave of massacres to exterminate the Christian Langi and Acholi tribes. Sources in New York said the commission decided to "continue to examine" the charges brought by Britain, which was supported by the United States. Eight of the 32 members of the panel are African states. The sources said the commission was leaving the investigating to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who has proposed an impartial international investigation into the deaths Feb. 16 of the Anglican archbishop of Uganda and two of Amin's cabinet ministers. But Waldheim said Tuesday night that Amin had not responded to his proposal. Amin claims the three men died in a traffic accident shortly after their arrest on charges of plotting against him. Other unconfirmable reports say they were murdered.

By SUMMER
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The chief of the North Carolina Service Station Association says North Carolinians can expect to pay a dime more per gallon of gasoline by this summer. Avery Upchurch said he expected oil companies to raise their prices by three or four cents, state taxes to rise by one or two cents and a federal tax hike of four cents per gallon. "Drive less and enjoy it more," he advised in an interview. Upchurch also predicted possible spot shortages of unleaded gasoline later this year because of kinks in the supply system created by demand for winter heating oil.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

CHIMNEY SWEEP

Do you have any information about anyone who cleans chimneys. F. G. The only business Hotline could find in this area that offers a service even related to your need is Leon Moore Oil Company here. It has a huge vacuum machine for cleaning out entire heating systems. Hotline will be glad to pass on the information if there is anyone willing and able to offer a manual chimney cleaning service, similar to that of the picturesque chimney sweeps of Europe. Perhaps with so many people returning to woodburning fireplaces, such a service would be warranted here.

HOSPITALIZATION PAYMENT SLOW

My husband was in the hospital three weeks during October and November. Despite several communications with the Reserve Life Insurance Company, we still have not received the $100 per week they owe us. We have paid the hospital in full and really need the money. Mrs. K. R. We directed you first to the Reserve Life representative here, John Sanderford. Even though you had bought your policy elsewhere, he wrote a letter on your behalf to the company in Dallas, Tex. However, when you had received nothing but another questionnaire more than a month later, Hotline wrote the company Jan. 24. We received a letter dated Feb. 22 which stated that the $300 owed you had been paid to Pitt Memorial Hospital. You say that the hospital has notified you that the payment has been received and that as soon as it can be "run through the computer," it will be sent on to you.

published by Mockingbird Press, then reissued by Bantam Books, Dr. Moody has been a man on the go since his book caught the public's fancy in the latter half of 1976. "We have to leave Greenville the minute the seminar is over this afternoon," Dr. Moody continued, "so that we can go back to Charlottesville. (Va.). Then tomorrow I'll be off for a visit to Miami and from there I'll go to Montreal." This trip to Greenville, something of a homecoming for the former (1969-1971) ECU faculty member, Dr. Moody brought along his wife Louise and their two young sons — five

'Kong Enjoying Large Profits; Trails 'Jaws'

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie industry types say the box office performance of "King Kong" hasn't lived up to advanced billing, but producer Dino De Laurentiis denies it all the way to the bank.

"We turned a profit when the worldwide gross reached $50 million and it's now pushing $90 million," said Gordon Armstrong, De Laurentiis' head of promotion and advertising.

Armstrong admits, however, that De Laurentiis is frustrated because the 40-foot ape did not win the money contest over the great white shark of "Jaws," which has taken in more than $192 million.

The flamboyant Italian producer is partly responsible for Hollywood's judgment of the film's success — the advance buildup may have been too strong.

Prior to its release in December he let it be known that he expected "King Kong" to beat "Jaws." The picture also got the biggest promotion and advertising sendoff in film history, and it opened simultaneously in more theaters around the world than any movie in history.

De Laurentiis even went so far as to suggest that the mechanical monster should be nominated for an Academy Award as best actor. The film got only two Oscar nominations, although it will receive an award for its special effects.

"We're now at $88 million and climbing every day," said Armstrong.

"There are many people in the business who feel that this picture is not a success. How many films have grossed $88 million in such a short period? In any period? It's not 'Jaws' business by any means, but it's a terrific success and everyone here is pleased," he said.

De Laurentiis' remake of the 1932 classic cost $24 million and promotion, advertising and 2,000 prints for simultaneous showing around the world cost another $26 million. Armstrong estimated that about 80 per cent of the gross goes to the production company.

The movie opened last Thursday in Mexico City and took in $500,000 in the first four days. That record beat "Jaws," Armstrong said. It also opened last week in Hong Kong and took in $400,000.

Armstrong said the movie still hasn't played in South Africa and most South and Central American countries. It will also be brought back for a big splash in the United States at Easter.

One hallmark of a successful film is a sequel — and for "King Kong" that's already in the works.

Armstrong said screenwriter Lorenzo Semple is at work with several co-writers on a new script. It was not known what direction the new film would take.

Advocates Overthrow

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Ugandans living outside their country should "unite and prepare in all possible ways for the downfall" of Idi Amin," Morganton surgeon Dr. Joseph M. Kazigo has urged.

Kazigo, 39, works in the emergency room at Grace Hospital here and has been in the United States since 1962.

During an interview Wednesday he produced a statement drafted by the Committee on Uganda, Inc., of which he is chairman, which condemned Amin's regime and charged his soldiers with "larceny, plunder, torture, murder, rape and confiscation of women."

It also urged world leaders to "impede and stop travel by Amin's agents; to expel all his so-called diplomatic representatives; and to stop the sale of arms and the granting of any foreign aid."

Kazigo said the committee "really wants to focus world attention on the fact that Uganda now is a bastion of human rights violations."

"I think that Amin's unannounced plan is to create an Islamic state out of Uganda," he added, "even though the Muslims compose only 5 to 8 per cent of the total population of Uganda in contrast to the Christians who are about 50 per cent."

Kazigo said he had not visited Uganda since Amin's appearance, though he still has relatives there.

Original Goal To Draw Women Closer Is Working Community Service Projects Selected

By ALINE MOSBY PARIS (UPI) — The women's liberation movement got off to a splashy start in France more than two years ago and then faded out of the limelight. What happened? Some disappointed women charge that male politicians buried the movement. But the new government official in charge of women's affairs, Nicole Pasquier, insists the original goal of a five-year plan to draw women closer to equality with men is being implemented, starting with rewriting school books. "Equality between men and women in five years in France — of course, that is not possible and that was never what our goal meant," Mrs. Pasquier said in her small office in the prime minister's building. "Equality is a matter of education and it will take longer than five years. We have to start with the little boys and girls." It was in July, 1974, that the newly inaugurated President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, cognizant of the blooming movement for women's rights in France, made the revolutionary move of naming magazine editor Francoise Giroud as the world's first ministerial-rank official for women. As secretary of state for women's rights, Mrs. Giroud, with world-wide fanfare, drew up a list of 101 changes for a five-year plan to alter the French man-woman inequality. The cabinet, all male except for the health minister, in May, 1976, approved all the proposals but one, which called for girls to do a sort of national military service. On Aug. 27, Mrs. Giroud, after a scant two years in power, suddenly was named, in a government shuffle, to be state secretary for culture. Mrs. Giroud's Women's Rights ministry vanished. Another job was created at a lower rank, "delegate for women's rights," and given to an unknown city council member from a small town near Lyon, Nicole Pasquier. The government gave Mrs. Pasquier the job of "putting into effect or into study" the 100 proposals of Mrs. Giroud. Lawyer Gilsele Halimi, leader of the women's lib movement in France, charged that Mrs. Pasquier's lesser job and the orders given her meant "the equivalent of political burial of all we fought for." Meanwhile, of two laws passed under the Giroud tenure, liberalized divorce and abortion, one has not been faring so well. Surveys claim that most doctors and hospitals throughout France refuse to perform abortions or are not equipped to do so, raising suspicions that the liberation of women is not making much headway. Mrs. Halimi, in fact, said women's lib has expired in France except for a current anti-rape campaign that she herself started. Mrs. Pasquier's version is that "Mrs. Giroud was given a minister's rank because the country had many new things to accept: it was difficult to create a program for women." She herself was given a lesser rank, she explained, because "now the initial phase is over, the program for women has been launched. Everybody in the government cabinet agreed on it and it is being put to work." Mrs. Pasquier's explanation for her office being located in Lyon, with two days work each week in Paris, is that the move is part of Giscard's plan to decentralize the government, not an attempt to sweep women's lib under the rug.

A recording RESUSCI-ANNE for the Rescue Squad and a donation of $1,000 for the Work Evaluation Unit in the Rehabilitation Center of the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital were the two major community-service projects selected by the Pilot Club of Greenville at its February meeting. The recording is designed for training the basic steps of cardiopulmonary resuscitation and for testing CPR performance objectively. The donation to the Work Evaluation Unit will help purchase such items as drafting tools, calculators, a commercial sewing machine, a lawn mower engine and other tools and machines needed to evaluate the potential job skills in physically handicapped patients at the hospital. At the dinner-meeting held Monday night, charter member Sue Howell reviewed ideas by several outstanding Pilots as to why they were Pilots and local president, Addie Jenkins, explained some of the responsibilities of Pilot membership. Kay Whitehurst, first vice president, presided at the dinner meeting. At the business meeting, Internal Affairs coordinator, Mavis Butts, reported the current status of her committee's work. Shirley Moore, Outreach Division coordinator, reported on progress of the Rose High Anchors and the membership growth of the club. Lenore Morton, Projects Division coordinator, reviewed service projects of the club for the past month which included: Valentine parties for three of the classes for handicapped children at Wahl-Coates and E. B. Aycock Schools, a donation sent to REAP, craft items given to the various classes in Greenville for handicapped people and pansies added to the downtown plot on Reade and Fifth streets. New guidelines for awarding scholarships were presented for approval by Margaret Nelson, who announced the donation of an additional $100 to the ECU recipient of the Pilot Club scholarship for 1976-77. Nominating committee members named to select a new slate of officers were Nancy Warren, Mavis Brown and Ruby Fields. Winona Daniel and Lib LeConte were elected as alternates. Following the meeting, Kay Whitehurst conducted a white elephant sale with proceeds to go for special projects for the year.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A reader vows this is a true story. In her Sunday school class one morning she asked, "And what did the disciples say before they ate the fish?" A five-year-old boy in the front row waved his hand vigorously and said, "I know. They said, 'These fish got any bones in them?'" There is every reason to believe this story is true. Five-year-olds are, without a doubt, the most suspicious diners in this world. They will eat mud (raw or baked), rocks, paste, crayons, ballpoint pens, pillows, moving goldfish, cigarette butts, electrical plugs, soap, cleansing cream, cat food and newspapers. Try to coax a bit of beef stew into their mouths and they'll give you that look — like the puppy when you stand over him with the Sunday paper rolled up. I got so much food spit back into my face when my kids were small, I put windshield wipers on my glasses. Then one day my husband said, "How many babies died from malnutrition last year while playing in their food?" "That's not the point. She doesn't trust me." "What trust?" he said, "she's a finicky eater."

"She is not finicky. She eats anything — just so long as it isn't on a spoon and my arm isn't attached to it." "Look, when she gets a little older, she'll change and will probably eat us out of house and home." He was wrong. She was the only kid in nursery school with her own food taster. My hot dogs never tasted as good as the ones you dipped in watered-down mustard and paid 60 cents for at a football game. My cherry pies never created the excitement of those under heating lamps at the Golden Arches. My pizzas never tasted as wonderful as the cold ones that stuck to the lid of the cardboard box. One day she said, "Boy, I just had the greatest meal at Kathy's house. Her mother is some cook!" I raced to the phone. "Helen! What did you have for dinner last night? My daughter raved about it." "Potato chips and cold cuts." Continued on page 6

Turntable Spins Food in New Oven

PARAMUS, N.J. (UPI) — A new microwave oven design makes it unnecessary to turn food to insure even cooking. An automatic turntable resembling that of a phonograph does the work instead. Five free-standing models and three ranges with both conventional and microwave ovens include the new feature. In addition, the top of the line has an infrared device that can be raised and lowered from the top of the oven to brown foods.

Frozen baby green lima beans and canned whole-kernel corn make a good team. Cook the beans according to package directions and then add a small can of the corn and some butter. Use a 10-ounce package of the baby lima beans.

Dinner-Dance Held Recently

RALEIGH — Over 170 fathers of Peace College students attended a father-daughter dinner-dance on the campus here recently. The Peace Student Government Association sponsored the event, which was the second annual occasion planned for students and their fathers. Attending from the Greenville area were: Harry A. Allen Jr. and his daughter, Mollie; Lynden E. Anderson and his daughter, Cynthia; and S. Edward Harris and his daughter, Wendy.

Wants Pantyhose For Well-Reared

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What's my problem? Well, to put it honestly, I have a king-sized behind. I'm not really fat, but heavy thighs and big behinds run in my family. I would love to find a brand of pantyhose to fit me, but there just aren't any. I've tried the stretch kind, which fits my legs perfectly, but when I try to pull them up over my rear, they don't even begin to reach my waist. I've bought the tall-girl size, even though I'm only 5 foot 3, but they don't work either. I'm sure there are plenty of other women with the same problem, so you'd be doing us all a tremendous favor if you got the pantyhose manufacturers to design something especially for us well-reared women. They would sell like hotcakes.

WELL-REARED IN R.I.

DEAR WELL-REARED: Unless someone was putting me on, I heard that there IS a pantyhose on the market for women with your problem, and it's supposedly named "Fat Fannie Pantyhose." Send me your name and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll have it checked out by the time this hits print.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's business associate ("Mr. X") recently lost his wife after a marriage of nearly 40 years, so we telephoned him (he lives in New York) and invited him to our little winter home in Palm Springs, Calif., to rest up and get over his grief. Mr. X said he would love to come for a few weeks. About 10 minutes later he called back asking if he could bring his "girlfriend"! Abby, we were shocked! My husband said, "But we have only one guest room." Mr. X said, "That's O.K., I want to see how this old gal looks in the morning before she puts her face on." With that, he hung up, so now we are trapped. We certainly don't want that kind of setup here, but what can we do?

TRAPPED IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR TRAPPED: Call Mr. X before he heads West and tell him that the invitation was for him alone. And if he has in mind auditioning "new talent" while he recovers from his grief, he'll have to find a friend with a larger home.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that you sometimes put in a good word for a worthy cause. I pray that this makes your column. I work for the city's animal shelter, and have had it up to here. After five years of participating in the destruction of lovable, healthy, bright-eyed puppies and kittens, I'm about to lose my marbles. Abby, please beg your readers to have their pets spayed or neutered. If not for the sake of all living creatures, for the sake of the people who have to do this damn job!

SICKENED IN L.A.

DEAR SICKENED: Consider this a plea for a most worthy cause. (P.S. But how much "sicker" must you become before you seek other employment?)

A Lesson In Trampling Rights

Uganda President Idi Amin is the latest dictator to give us a lesson in wholesale trampling of human rights.

If only a fraction of what is written about his rule is true, it is a sad time indeed for the dignity of man.

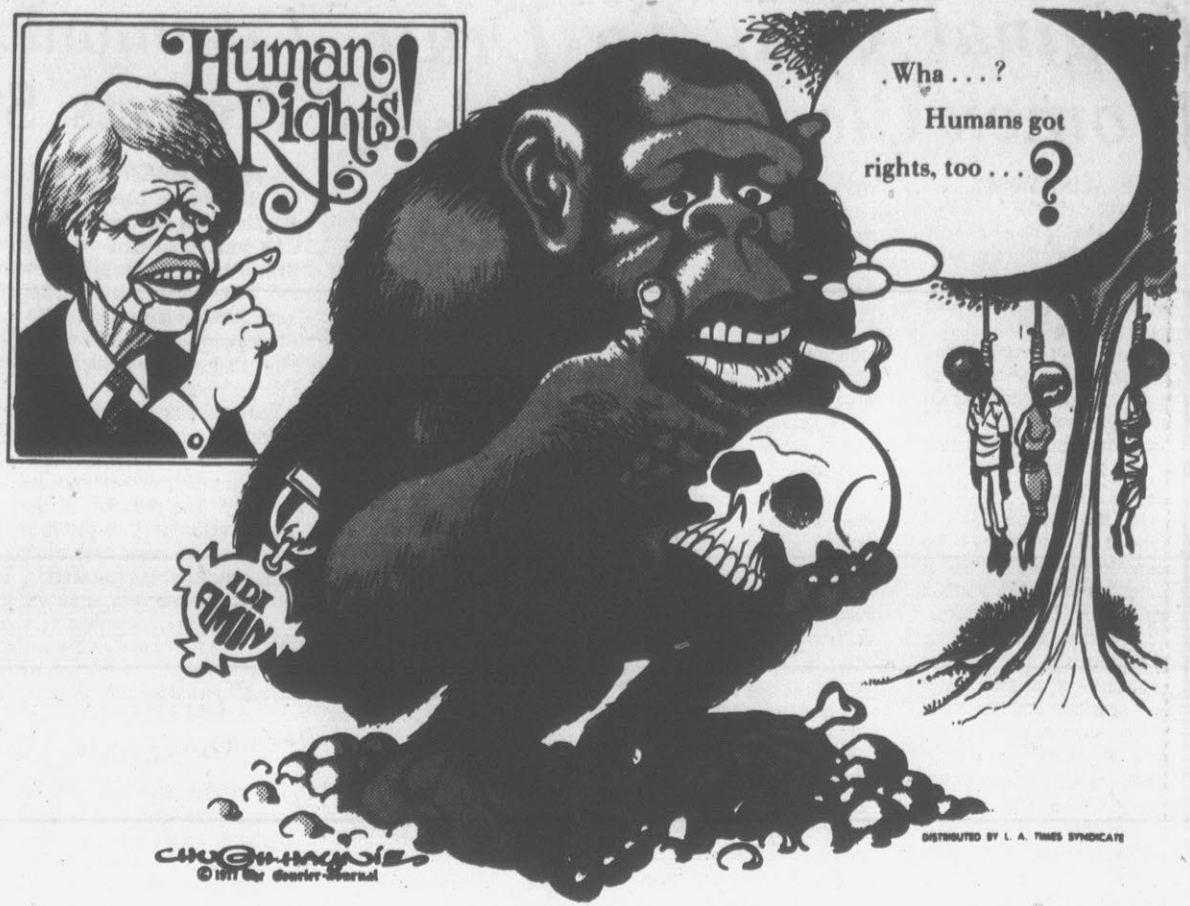

Last week Amin had the audacity to send a telegram to President Carter demanding that the United States improve its own human rights problems before it accused Uganda.

In this country we still have a ways to go in the field of human rights, but we don't think any defense has to be made in this area as opposed to what is going on in Uganda.

An Anglican archbishop has been killed in Uganda and there have been reports of the massacre of Christian tribes. It moved President Carter to comment that developments there had "disgusted the entire civilized world."

Last week Americans in Uganda were detained at Idi Amin's orders. Hopefully by the time this appears they will be free to leave that wretched country.

In the future Americans — and everyone from the civilized world — should stay out of Uganda and there should be no trade or other contact with that nation until it installs a leader with a more civilized outlook.

Maybe It Will Improve The Catches

In one day the United States moved its limits for foreign fishermen from 12 miles offshore to 200 miles.

It was up to the Coast Guard to enforce the new limits, which were imposed after the U. S. fishing industry complained that foreign fishermen were fishing out American waters.

Some inland shad fishermen around here claim that the heavy catches of shad in the ocean by foreign vessels has ruined the stream fishing that goes on during shad spawning season.

Policing all those waters is going to be difficult but the new law should give the United States far more control over the fishing that goes on off its shores.

Land Use Measure Ready Of Chilean Human Rights

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — One of the hottest issues of the General Assembly in past years—land use legislation—is on the back burner in this session, but ready for attention before adjournment.

The North Carolina Land Policy Council has reported its recommendations to Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., and the proposed new law is already drafted and is being studied quietly by key members of the General Assembly.

One phase of state land management is already in operation in the 20 Coastal counties, with each already having a detailed land classification system in effect, and moving toward establishment of "Areas of Environmental Concern" which will be fragile or unique areas to be protected.

2 Compromises
But it took a major fight to get that legislation passed in 1975, and adoption came only with two major compromises:

1. A great deal of local control and involvement in the system was built in; and,

2. A Land Policy Council was established to make plans for statewide implementation.

The proposed new legislation will track the Coastal measure in most key places, especially in calling for heavy local involvement. That provision proved the salvation of the Coastal land use program, and convinced land management sponsors of its wisdom.

But a major departure from the Coastal measure is likely to stir much resentment and debate from eastern counties: the statewide measure does not require identification and protection of "Areas of Environmental Concern," relying instead on classification of Conservation lands to protect unusual sections.

Elimination of this element was considered essential to sponsors because of the flap it is causing in Coastal counties; and because of the relatively smaller numbers of "Areas of Environmental Concerns" in inland sections as compared to the beaches, rivers, marshes, and swamps of the coast.

Coastal Change

Still, legislators from the Coastal counties say they will be able to effectively launch and attack on Constitutional grounds; claiming they are not being treated like the rest of the state. Most insiders working on the land policy measure believe the result will be either direct removal of "Areas of Environmental Concern" from the Coastal Area Management Act, or portion of the law in the Coastal area.

The proposed new law to go statewide would establish a 32-member North Carolina Land Resources Commission made up of the heads of state departments of Agriculture, Administration, Cultural Resources, Commerce, Revenue, Human Resources, Transportation, and Natural and Economic Resources; and six members from each of four districts to be established across the state.

BILL NOBLITT

The governor would pick the six commissioners in each district from lists of locally elected governmental officials recommended by the League of Municipalities and the Association of County Commissioners.

The four districts represent the mountain counties, the Piedmont, the Coastal Plain and Sandhill area, and the existing Coastal counties within the Coastal Area Management Act boundaries.

Each county and municipality would be required to draw up a land classification plan and map, designating existing conditions and future directions for areas designated: Developed, Transition, Community, Rural, or Conservation. If the local governments do not respond, the state would carry out that task for them.

The land classification plans would include a statement outlining the ways local governments plan to use local ordinances, zoning regulation, and public investment controls (water, sewer, roads) to make the plan actually work on the ground.

The statewide Land Policy Commission and the district committees would oversee the program. A July 1, 1980 deadline is set.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

In the previous dispatch on the subject I mentioned the missing Chilean labor leaders, and the frustration in ascertaining whether they were vaporized by the Chilean secret police. Behold the succeeding events. First, the families of the missing 13 men petitioned to a Court of Appeals to name a judge to take over the investigation. Then a rapid succession of events.

1) The relevant department in the Chilean government comes up with copies of exit visas given to eight of the named men.

2) The Chilean government requests Argentina to search through its records to see whether there is a record of these men entering Argentina, since they were last seen headed in that direction.

3) After a few days' delay, the Argentine government reveals that four of the men did indeed enter Argentina during the first week in February.

What about the rest? I quote from El Mercurio, the principal daily in Santiago: "The chief of (immigration) in Mendoza, Juan Cortes, in a telephone conversation... said that the requests for information had been forwarded to Buenos Aires. 'There is a delay of two years in the archives,' he explained. 'We believe that this could result in delaying a little the validation of any immigration into Argentina, of whatever person.'"

Consider the infuriating aspects of the above story. Ten men are alleged by Amnesty International, on 23 December 1976, to have disappeared. Various, that number becomes 13, or eight. In early February, four of them went into Argentina. Question: What were they doing between mid-December when they disappeared and

Other Editors Say A $600 Adventure

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

We could be on the brink of the most exciting undertaking in the history of Goldsboro.

Indeed, it could rival the search for Noah's Ark! Goldsboro Aldermen have authorized a $600 archaeological exploration of a piece of city property at Clingman St. and Stronach Ave.

Their hearts weren't in it. All the Aldermen wanted to do was start building a maintenance facility for city vehicles.

But somebody somewhere in state government thinks there lurks in the soil something of archaeological significance. Just what, nobody seems to have any idea.

But the state folks say the place has to be scientifically explored before the city can proceed with its maintenance building.

East Carolina University has agreed to send a team here to do the job.

Alderman Hal Plonk insists that all they'll find will be some old junked cars. But Alderman Buddy Shaw is more optimistic. He says they will also find some old abandoned refrigerators.

Alderman Tony Scimeca is just disgusted. He says it's a waste of time and money.

But one never knows! Perhaps we should make the fellow in Raleigh a sporting proposition: If the diggers find something of archaeological value, the city will pay the $600. If not, the fellow who insisted on the project will cough up the cash.

Of course, if something of value is found, perhaps the city could recoup its losses by selling the "find" to the state—for, say, about 600 bucks.

The News-Argus will follow this scientific adventure with daily reports of archaeological findings—with pictures, of course.

The great search is on. We don't know what for—but it's on! To the picks, fellow adventurers!

early February? Question: Why did they not communicate their whereabouts to their friends or family? Question: Where are the balance? Question: If Argentina's immigration records are two years behind, how is it that they came up with the records on the four?

All that is established clearly is that here is a clear record of four men who are apparently alive and well enough to travel who were widely thought of as having been killed by the Chileans. At this writing, the public has yet to hear from them, but it is inconceivable that the Argentines are lying in the matter: they would not assume unnecessarily the burden of having last exercised authority over the four Chileans—they have enough troubles of their own. So that the charge of the Pinochet government concerning the "desaparecidos"—the missing ones—and decline to identify themselves in order to embarrass the Chilean government—is at least to the extent of the missing four, sustained. Oh yes, the missing men are members of the Communist Party.

The heartening development is that all of this comes out now in the Chilean press. On the same day in which these details transpired, El Mercurio published a heated editorial denouncing the junta for closing down the radio station, Balmaceda. Again, on that same day La Tercera, another widely read daily, reported that the Supreme Court had accepted the case of Carlos Humberto Contreras, a Communist and ex-councilman for the city of Concepcion who disappeared in November. This is the first writ of habeas corpus handed down by the Supreme Court since the government took power. If the press is free, we will sooner or later learn the truth.

The truth? "Our fight to maintain high the prestige of Chile," President Pinochet told me, "has consisted in telling the truth, in repeating the truth, in insisting, 'we have recognized it, and proceeded to investigate and punish severely the person responsible. But the capacity for invention that Com-

Snow Is Not Answer

Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO (AP) — If you think snow from the East might solve the California drought—well, forget it.

In case you were wondering—and apparently lot of you are—it would take 182 million carloads of water or tightly packed snow to make up for drought-stricken California's water shortage, which now stands at a staggering 2.3 trillion gallons.

If that 182 million-car train were linked together and if it were traveling 50 miles per hour, it would take the train

40 Years Ago Today

March 3, 1937

The British navy announced to the Parliament today its share of Britain's huge rearmament program for 1937 would cost over $525 million and include construction of 80 warships.

At the top of the list were placed three additional battleships of the type of the King George V and the Prince of Wales, with a displacement of 35,000 tons and carrying 14-inch guns.

The House of Commons was told the stepped-up naval air programs would add 11,000 officers and men to bring the total naval personnel to 112,000.

The vast steel industry's momentous move toward better relations with organized labor overshadowed the discord wrought by strikes in scattered sections of the nation today.

One after another, the big steel corporations announced shorter hours, wage boosts and other concessions, probably forestalling labor disputes in the entire industry.

Organized labor leaders, figured the pay boosts would fatten the workers' pocket-books by $100 million a year.

THE INSIDE REPORT

That Debate On Letelier

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The posthumous question of what Orlando Letelier was really doing before he was murdered is answered partly by the Soviet connection with a 1975 meeting in Mexico City to condemn violations of human rights by Chile's right-wing military government.

Letelier, foreign minister in Chile's deposed Marxist government headed by the late Salvador Allende, helped in planning for the Mexico City meeting—including travel expenses there for Rep. Michael Harrington of Massachusetts. Closely linked to that conference was the Helsinki-based World Peace Council, an obvious front for Soviet foreign policy over the past generation.

That relatively obscure meeting in Mexico two years ago is now being scrutinized because of the contents of the briefcase carried by Letelier when he was assassinated last September. Letters make clear he was recruiting U.S. Congressmen, including Harrington, to oppose the Chilean junta. The posthumous debate concerns whether this cause was truly in behalf of "human rights" or can be traced to Soviet grand strategy.

What is involved here goes beyond Letelier, Harrington or Chile. It raises questions of whether leftist ideologues can cloak their motives with professed concern for "human rights," while maintaining respectful silence about Communist oppression in Cuba, Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

In a recent column, we quoted from the Letelier letters to show attempted manipulation of liberal Congressmen to get their unwitting support for far left causes. As an example, we pointed to Letelier's notes showing that of $544.26 in expenses for a 1975 trip to Mexico by Rep. Harrington, $370 was labeled "Helsinki" and the remaining $174.26 came out of Letelier's secret political fund from Cuba.

In interpreting this note, we erred in two ways: first, we speculated that the cryptic "Helsinki" notation might have referred to a money drop in the Finnish capital; second, we confused the Mexico City trip with a visit to Oaxtepec, Mexico, by Harrington later in 1975 paid for by the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS), where Letelier was a fellow.

Letelier's notation actually refers to Harrington attending, in February 1975, the Mexico City session of the international commission of inquiry into the crimes of the military junta in Chile. Writing in the Washington Post in response to our column, Saul Landau of IPS contended that the "Helsinki" note indicates the site of the commission's first meetings, where the "investigation of junta torture began."

More likely, however, "Helsinki" refers to the headquarters of both the commission and what appears to be its parent organization, the World Peace Council. Although the two organizations maintain separate addresses in Helsinki, an anti-junta Chilean spokesman in New York told us the commission is under the World Peace Council "umbrella."

The council, founded 25 years ago in Warsaw, awarded its gold medal last year to both Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Palestinian guerrilla leader Yassir Arafat. Last May 26, the council urged solidarity "with the Soviet Union's struggle for peace." Its most recent conference was held in Budapest; its next is scheduled

Strength For Today

NEED OF A MIRACLE

In 1701, a distinguished Englishman wrote to Samuel Pepys—famous for his diaries—that the nation had never been "so atheistical, false and unsteady, covetous, ungrateful, lewd, luxurious, self-interested, impudently detracting and uncharitable" as at the time when he was writing. And he felt that without "a miraculous undeserved providence" there would be "a total dissolution of the government and constitution."

The miracle occurred two years later. In 1703 John Wesley was born. He was a clergyman of the Church of England so troubled by the wickedness of the day that he organized the Methodist Societies which became the denomination which bears that name today. In part because of these societies the moral and spiritual life of England improved.

Will another John Wesley arise? The need for such a one is great. Let us hope that God will be as good to America in the latter twentieth century as He was to England in the eighteenth century.

A Line Of Thinking Shapes Up

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — It may be the natural venting of frustration, or renewed hope, or it might be the result of canned speeches by business groups, but a certain line of thinking is becoming more visible.

It goes like this: We are a nation of economic illiterates who are salling our system down the drain and not even realizing we are doing so. We are selling our own nests, undermining our own futures, squandering our own fortunes.

The primary object of this ire is government spending for projects that might not produce any social good, might not result in any noticeable improvement in economic conditions and might, quite likely will, impinge on the freedom of private enterprise.

Scorned most in this script are congressmen who attempt to win votes by spending public funds. Only slightly less disdained are those elected leaders who, through ignorance, are unaware of the consequences of budget deficits.

Often blamed as the source of economic illiteracy are high school and college teachers, and the school systems themselves.

Held before the public as the awful penalty for these abuses is Britain, or as is sometimes suggested, the economic corpse of that nation, swinging from a gallows run by socialists.

With variations in style, we are always cautioned in the script that time is short and that fate doesn't always provide a second chance. With the fire of a fundamentalist, we are warned to change before it is too late.

The specifics are that we are destroying the job-creating mechanism, transferring power to a burdensome government, stifling the creative and innovative process, and removing the controls that free markets impose.

We are told that government interference in the marketplace has led to the natural gas shortage, to a reversal of incentives that makes for disinvestment, and to a loss of personal responsibility.

Proponents of the line of thinking maintain that the smothering of the job-creating machinery creates an opportunity for government to jump into the breach in an attempt to "rescue" people from its own disaster.

Jobs, we are told, take capital investments. Money must be saved by people and institutions and corporations interested in making a better future, and that capital then must be invested in better plants, more efficient equipment.

A bigger production plant permits greater output and a greater number of jobs. An efficient plant brings down the cost of production, permitting everyone to benefit from a less inflated environment.

Whatever the reasons, we are seeing and hearing more of this thinking today, and there's a good chance it is attracting a larger audience than it might have won several years ago.

Why? Perhaps people have seen the consequences of spending money that doesn't exist, of social programs that fail to produce social good, of a government that seeks and fails to produce economic miracles.

This is the conservative line. It is an old, old line that is being given a vigorous tug these days, and it could be hauling in believers if it isn't too frayed by friction, past and present.

and one-half year old Avery and Palmer, "who is almost three now."
"We have so many friends here that I'd like to stay longer, but it can't be, at least for now," he added.
One of the keynote speakers on a seminar, "Death and Dying," Dr. Moody spoke Wednesday morning on the subject that has become a literary catchword—"Life After Life." For a two hour session in the afternoon, he joined Dr. James Mathis and Dr. James Thullen in a panel moderated by Dr. Archie Johnson.
Even as travel, personal appearances and lectures in connection with Life After Life begin to reach a point of subsiding a little, he will probably face the same prospect again if his follow-up book, Reflections On Life After Life proves as successful as Life After Life.
"It's coming out in April," Dr. Moody said, "and is being published by the same firm that first published Life After Life, the Mockingbird Press of Covington, Ga."

Covington, which is a small town near Dr. Moody's birthplace, "is located about 150 miles north of Plains, Georgia," he remarked.
Material for the forthcoming sequel, Dr. Moody said, "is based on research I've done with people who have had experiences with clinical death and lived. What I've been doing is to bring these people together at places I've visited, universities, medical schools and other places."
He is still on a temporary leave of absence from his residency at the University of Virginia. He left the ECU faculty in 1971 to pursue medical studies at the University of Virginia, specializing in psychiatry. It was research for his thesis that triggered his writing Life After Life.
Speaking about his two years in Greenville, Dr. Moody said one of the things he misses is attending meetings of the Greenville Writers Club. One of his writing projects in those years culminated in a privately printed book, Coprolgy. "That was only an experiment in writing," he said, "something I have no intention to pursue further." One of the things he expressed delight about was discovering that another novice writer of his Greenville years, Betty Casey, has had her book, one on square-dancing, published.

"One of these days," he mentioned before having to break away for a scheduled session, "I'm going to come back to Greenville for a leisurely visit with friends."

ACLU Endorses Sentencing Bill

The Pitt County Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) endorsed State House Bill No. 174 at its meeting Wednesday night.

The bill submitted by Rep. Parks Helms of Mecklenburg would require a mandatory sentencing of 25 years for first degree murder and first degree rape.

The state and national Civil Liberties Union has long opposed the Death Penalty.

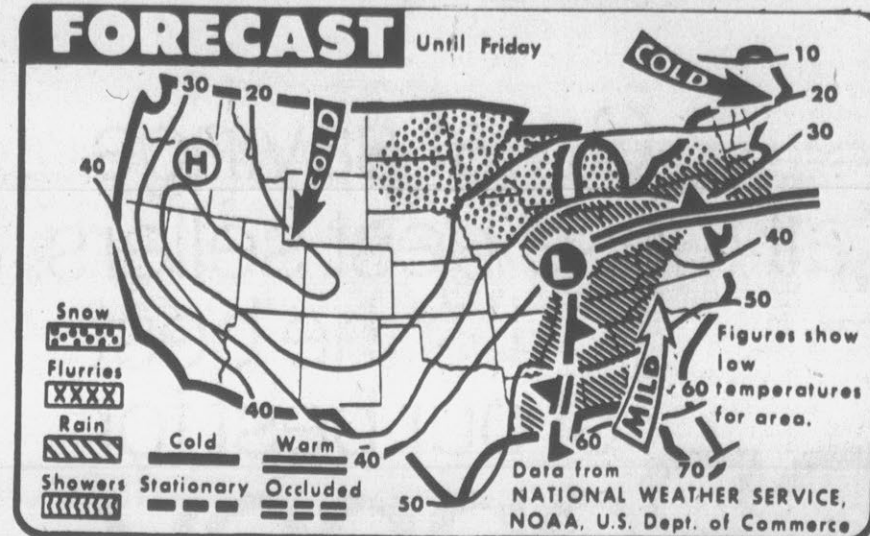

Nominations and election of officers and board of directors members will be held at the next meeting.

munism has is incredible and it is perfectly financed by the Kremlin in a monstros campaign throughout the western world."

About this there is no doubt. The day's news — so full of Chilean events — brings also the item courtesy of Messrs. Evans and Novak. Orlando Letelier, the former foreign minister of Allende who was assassinated in Washington last fall, wrote in March to the daughter of Salvador Allende residing in Chile a letter he closed by saying, "Perhaps some day, not far away, we (Chileans) will be able to do what has been done in Cuba." That is "the democratic government of Allende."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today from the central and eastern Gulf to the Midwest and southern New England. Snow is due from the Dakotas to the Great Lakes. Cold Weather is facing the western part of the nation and mild weather is forecast from the Mississippi to the Atlantic coast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
High pressure settled over the North Carolina coast this morning and winds circulating around it began pumping warmer, moist air into the western part of the state.

An area of light showers moved eastward along the southern tier of counties and behind it a large area of moist unstable air bore down on North Carolina's mountains from the Mississippi Valley.

With a cold front pushing the new air mass, the forecast called for a chance of showers in the mountains in the afternoon, with showers or thunder-showers spreading over the remainder of the state tonight and Friday.

Areas of precipitation were expected to be more numerous Friday.

It appeared that the cold front would settle over North Carolina this weekend, setting up a chance of showers Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

High temperature Wednesday ranged generally in the 50s and were expected to hover around 60 today. Low readings this morning were in the 30s.

Three Arrested On Drug Counts

Three persons were arrested by Greenville Police on Wednesday evening and charged with possession of marijuana.
Police Chief Glenn Cannon said that officers charged James Robert Young, 19, Claudette Hager, 18, and Robert Covett, 20, all of Lexington, Ky., with possession counts around 8:15 p.m.

The chief, who reported that the officers confiscated a quantity of marijuana, said that the arrests were made after police stopped a car occupied by the three near the intersection of Tenth and Anderson Streets.

ed for Warsaw.
In its Prague conference of December 1974, the World Peace Council declared "we are calling for active support" of the Chilean commission's third meeting, in Mexico City the next year. The council's monthly publication described at length what happened in Mexico City.

The relationship of the Mexico City conference to a generation-old Soviet front goes to the heart of the campaign to enlist liberal American politicians against the Chilean junta. Replying to our column, Landau talked about "democracy" being destroyed in Chile when the Allende regime fell.

But in private correspondence, Landau's tone can be markedly different. The copy of a Sept. 13, 1976, letter (contained in Letelier's briefcase) from Landau to a friend in Communist Cuba indicates he is interested less in democracy than in the triumph of revolutionary socialism. Just returned from Jamaica where he worked for leftist Prime Minister Michael Manley's reelection, Landau writes:

"I plan to phase myself out of the Jamaica work and get back to the U.S. I think that at age 40 the time has come to dedicate myself to narrower pursuits, namely, making propaganda for American socialism...we cannot any longer just help out third world movements and revolutions, although obviously we shouldn't turn our backs on them, but get down to the more difficult job of bringing the message home."

Although the Mike Harringtons are truly concerned with human rights, the Saul Landaus and the Orlando Leteliers use that slogan to further ideological activism. The undisputed need to bring Letelier's murderers to justice does not alter that political reality.

nearly four years to pass any single spot on the rail line.

That's the word from the state Department of Water Resources, which has been receiving numerous phone calls and letters suggesting snow from outside the state could solve the drought problem.

Don Engdahl, a department planner, says that the number of railroad cars needed to move the snow is only part of the problem. Here are a few other obstacles he mentions:

—If the snow were being hauled 2,000 miles, for example, it would require 77 billion gallons of fuel oil to move the cars to California.

—The tab for train transportation would be $437 billion, based on average railroad costs, and truck transportation would cost about four times that much.

—If all the existing tank and open train cars in the country were put to the job of moving this snow, it would mean each of them would have to make 500 roundtrips to deliver the water.

Engdahl added: "In the right circumstances, involving short distances and crucial needs, this kind of transportation might be feasible. But given the magnitude of the California problems and the distance involved, it would be a staggering problem."

So even though there are plenty of people in Buffalo, N.Y., who would gladly give away some of their white stuff — it's snow use.

Judge Charged With Threat

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A district judge was free on a recognizance bond Wednesday after being charged with threatening to kill a man during an argument at a convenience store.

Bellfield Chandler, 27, of Blanch in Caswell County, said Judge George W. Harris blocked his car in the store parking lot and then threatened him with a gun.

Deputies arrived shortly afterward. One said the judge told him he "had something against the boy," but declined to elaborate.

Spring Meeting In Charlotte

The Purchasing Management Association of the Carolinas and Virginia will hold its spring meeting March 24-26 in Charlotte.

Among the guest speakers will be Jonathan Wilfong, C.P.A., a graduate of East Carolina University who serves as audit manager of Price Waterhouse in Charlotte.

Members and interested non-members are invited to attend the meeting, it was announced, and further information can be obtained by calling Joseph Sherwood at 758-3436.

Repeal Of N.C. Motorcycle Helmet Law Argued

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Despite arguments of health authorities that a law requiring motorcycle riders to wear helmets has saved lives, motorcycle association spokesmen contended helmets are ineffective and dangerous to their wearers.

After hearing the arguments Wednesday, the House Highway Safety Committee adjourned without acting on a bill by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford, to repeal the helmet law.

"This is a bad bill," argued Dr. Martin Hines of the late Health Division. If it is passed, he said, "it's going to ultimately cost a number of lives in North Carolina."

Hines said a sharp drop in the death rate after North Carolina passed the helmet law represents the saving of 272 lives, and "I am convinced that the helmet requirement was the major factor."

Jones argued that helmets "not only cause headaches, they restrict peripheral vision and they reduce hearing."

Noting that the state has no law to require wearing seatbelts although statistics show they can save lives, Jones asked, "are you going to make motorcyclists wear helmets for their own safety?"

Effectiveness of helmets was ridiculed by Ron Pierce, president of the Raleigh chapter of the Concerned Biker Association. He said of 90 helmets tested by the National Highway Safety Institute only eight passed. He told the legislators there had been instances where helmets fell off store shelves and 'cracked wide open.'"

Pierce said that when Kansas repealed its helmet law it was followed by a drop in motorcycle fatalities. He said a safety education program in the schools was responsible.

Despite his arguments in favor of keeping the helmet law, Hines said he wasn't sure he would favor a law requiring motorists to wear seat belts. "I've got a streak in me that if I don't want to use a seat belt, that's my own business," Hines said. "But I feel we ought to protect these young people even if they don't want to be protected."

Five Struck By Syndrome

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A rare children's illness associated with influenza has killed two North Carolina children in the past month and hospitalized three others.

Dr. J.N. MacCormack of the state Division of Health Services said two youths, one from Greensboro and one from Winston-Salem, had died of Reyes syndrome. No names were released.

Three from Wake County are in Duke University Hospital in Durham. A sixth case, he said, has been reported in a Monroe child.

The illness appears most often during recovery from viral infections like Type B flu or chicken pox. It causes swelling of the brain and liver problems. Victims lapse gradually into a coma and there is no known cure.

The disease almost always affects children under 10 years old and is not contagious, MacCormack said. Between 40 and 50 per cent of the cases are fatal.

Testifies 'Plumb Wild' In Child's Fatal Beating

By ERIC NEWHOUSE
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS, Tenn. (AP) — Wanda Gibson Maddux said Wednesday her husband Ronald was "plumb wild" when he beat her 4-year-old daughter Melisha Gibson to death last fall.

Prosecuting attorneys begin their cross-examination today, after which closing arguments will be heard.

The Madduxes, who had been jailed three years ago for abusing Melisha, were charged with second-degree murder after the child's battered body was found in their home. A pathologist testified she died of internal bleeding from a ruptured kidney as a result of a beating.

Although Maddux denied under oath that he beat Melisha and swore he saw his wife whip the child, Mrs. Maddux echoed the earlier testimony of her two daughters that Maddux had been abusive.

"He was having her walk," she said. "When she'd slow up, he'd tap her with that stick of hers. When she slowed up a little more, he hit her harder. He even hit the bottoms of her feet with that stick."

Mrs. Maddux also testified that her husband forced the child to drink six or eight gulps of hot sauce. "I had almost a whole bottle of that hot sauce and he used up almost every bit of it," she said.

Maddux had been drinking and taking pills for the two days before Melisha's death, said Mrs. Maddux.

"He acted plumb wild," she added. "He's been mean before, but I've never seen him that bad."

Maddux testified, however, that he never hit the little girl and never forced her to drink hot sauce, denying the testimony of his wife and two stepdaughters. "They both storied," he said.

He said he was drunk most of the last two days of Melisha's life, but that he saw his wife swallow pep pills and whip Melisha.

"I seen her whipping Missy with a ruler and a flyswatter handle," said Maddux, adding that he had asked his wife to stop the beatings on several occasions. "I did see her bust a 12-inch ruler on her."

But Maddux said he never saw any bruises on the girl's body, even when she was found dead.

Melisha's autopsy reported the child had "multiple contusions and abrasions." Maddux was shown a picture of a softball-sized bruise on the girl's inner thigh and asked if he knew what caused it.

"No, unless it was from her (Wanda) whipping her," he replied. "I didn't put them there."

He was also shown a photo of a large bruise on Melisha's forehead and asked if he saw it. "No," he answered. "She didn't look that bad at all, not anywhere near as bad as these pictures."

Entered as evidence was a metal-tipped baseball bat which Mrs. Maddux said her husband used to beat Melisha. Also entered tered was a note which Maddux said he wrote and tacked up in the kitchen; it said, "This is my home and I do as I darn please."

Melisha was hospitalized when she was 11 months old and the Madduxes were jailed for six months for child abuse, a misdemeanor. A social worker decided last May that it would be safe for the child to be returned to her parents. When Melisha was found dead, a furor broke out and the state approved an emergency plan to spend $1 million hiring an additional 117 social workers to reduce overall caseloads. As Maddux was testifying

Wednesday, a subcommittee of the Tennessee General Assembly recommended legislation to prohibit the return of abused children to abusive parents without the specific approval of the state human services commissioner.

Judges Back Secrecy Law

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Names of natural parents should be kept from adopted children except in "compelling cases" in which the child's interests would be served, the state Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday.

The decision came in the case of Nancy Margaret Spinks, 18, of Montgomery County, who challenged the state's adoption secrecy law in an effort to find out who her natural parents are.

The court ordered further superior court proceedings aimed at determining whether the Spinks case was a "compelling" one.

The judges noted that although adoption secrecy is the target of growing criticism, "we think the confidentiality required by our adoptive statutes should be protected except in compelling cases."

"In making the determination (whether to make an exception) the judge should carefully weigh the interests of the child and the public, including the interests of the adoptive parents," the opinion said.

The judges added that the age and temperament of the child, the opinion of the adoptive parents and the feelings of the natural parents ought also to be considered.

"The natural parent or parents must feel secure in their knowledge that their identity usually will remain confidential," the opinion concluded.

VMI Wins SC Title Game

By WOODY PEELE, Reflector Sports Editor
ROANOKE, Va. — Dave Montgomery fired in 18 second half points to spark a Virginia Military Institute rally that finally resulted in a 69-67 overtime victory in the Southern Conference tournament finals last night.

Appalachian State had led the Keydets, the regular season winner, throughout the first half, and built up as much as a ten-point lead before Montgomery began his rally-leading charge. VMI finally gained the lead by as much as five points down the stretch, but a buzzer shot by ASU's Tony Searcy forced the overtime.

VMI then made six of six free throws and added two field goals in the overtime frame to pull out the victory.

For a while there, it looked like the third-seeded Mountaineers just might pull off the big upset. They gained an early lead and used good outside shooting to ward off VMI's cold shooting in the first half.

They Keydets hit just 25 per cent of their first half shots, but thanks to their rebounding and better ball-handling, they were able to take 19 more shots at the nets, keeping close that way.

Montgomery, who finished with 10 of 12 field goals and a perfect eight of eight at the line, along with nine rebounds, was the runaway choice for the Most Valuable Player award, polling 43 votes on the 46 ballots cast.

Joining him on the All-

Conference first team were teammates John Krovic and Ron Carter, along with Furman's Johnathan Moore and ASU's Searcy.

East Carolina's Jim Ramsey made the second unit, along with Darryl Robinson, Mel Hubbard and Walter Anderson of Appalachian, Furman's Bruce Grimm and VMI's Will Bynum. Bynum and Anderson tied for the tenth place, making it an 11-man team.

After its cold first half, VMI came back to burn the net's for 60.9 per cent of its second half shots. ASU, after a $2.0 mark in the first half, cooled to a still respectable 45.9 per cent in the second half.

ASU actually outshot the Keydets from the floor by ten points, but saw VMI hit 19 of 22 free throws, while making just seven of ten on their own. Appalachian State did not go to the line in the second half, as VMI committed only two fouls, despite struggling to get back into the game.

Robinson hit the first basket of the game after just eight seconds and, a minute later, Krovic tied it up for VMI. He added another long-range shot for a 4-2 lead, but Calvin Bowser hit two in a row for the Mounties to take a 6-4 lead. He added another basket for a 10-8 lead then, after Searcy hit two free throws, Anderson hit a jumper for a 14-8 lead.

With 8:46 left in the half, Robinson dropped in two free throws to run the lead to 20-12, the biggest margin of the half. VMI closed it to four at 22-18, but got no closer, trailing 33-27 at halftime.

Early in the second half, Robinson scored off a drive for a 43-33 lead, the largest of the game with 14:55 left and Montgomery took command after that.

He hit ten of the next 12 VMI points to cut the lead to 47-45 and George Borojevich hit with 9:03 to go, tying it up. Carter followed with a jumper at 8:15 for a 49-47 VMI lead.

Montgomery hit to run it out to four at 53-49, and Krovic got two free throws for a 58-53 lead. But after Al Gentry and Anderson both hit for ASU, Carter missed on the second shot of a one-and-one with 49 seconds left, making it 59-57. Searcy's buzzer shot forced the overtime at 59-57.

Anderson put ASU back out 61-59, but Carter tied it up and Krovic hit two free throws. Carter got another jumper for a 65-61 lead and that sealed it up.

Krovic added 13 points to VMI's total, while Carter, held to just nine points (four for 21 from the floor), plucked off 18 rebounds.

Anderson led Appalachian with 16 while Searcy and Robinson each had 14.

VMI now moves into the Eastern Regionals, to be played in Raleigh on Saturday, March 12.

Keydet Coach Schmaus Praises Montgomery

ROANOKE, Va. — Praising his junior center Dave Montgomery, Charlie Schmaus said that Montgomery brought VMI back from the brink of disaster in the finals of the Southern Conference tournament last night.

VMI trailed Appalachian State by as much as 10 points before Montgomery took charge, scoring 18 second half points to spark the win and take Most Valuable Player awards for himself.

"When we got them in foul trouble, we wanted to get the ball inside on them. We were able to get the ball down inside to Dave and he did the job for us," Montgomery hit ten of 12 shots from the floor in the game, including seven of eight in the second half.

"In the overtime, we wanted to take the best shots that we could get. We had an uphill battle and we didn't want to hold the ball and take a chance of losing our shooting eye again," Schmaus said.

"We didn't have a good shooting game. When we win shooting like this, it is a tribute to our kids. We had only eight turnovers and we outrebounced them by ten."

Schmaus added that he didn't think Appalachian would shoot as well as it did. "They hit well from the outside, and we didn't. I would not think that we could win with (Will) Bynum and (Ron) Carter shooting like they did, but someone was there to pick up the slack." Carter and Bynum had a combined six for 30 night from the floor.

Losing coach Bobby Cremins said he guessed the Mountaineers were lucky to get the game into overtime, as Tony Searcy's shot just went in at the buzzer after several shots were missed.

"It was a great game. We've had a great season, and I'm proud of our kids," he said.

ASU ran a zone defense much of the first half, and with VMI cold from the outside it helped. "We didn't plan to stay with the zone so long, but they were missing and we had the lead so we stayed with it. But they came back and really played well in the second half."

"Our players did exactly what we wanted them to do. We didn't want to get into a complete running game with VMI. VMI sagged a lot on our inside men, and although we wanted to get the ball inside more, we couldn't. Anderson and Robinson were hot however, from the outside, and that helped us."

"I'm not surprised at the way VMI came back. They are a good team and will represent the conference well," Cremins added.

ASU actually outshot the Keydets from the floor by ten points, but saw VMI hit 19 of 22 free throws, while making just seven of ten on their own. Appalachian State did not go to the line in the second half, as VMI committed only two fouls, despite struggling to get back into the game.

Bucs Hosting Mat Event

East Carolina's wrestling team will be going for its sixth consecutive Southern Conference championship Friday and Saturday when the seven other league members descend on Greenville for championships in Mingos Coliseum.

The Pirates have ruled the Southern for the past five years, but will not necessarily be the favorite when the grappling starts on Friday. William and Mary defeated the Pirates in a dual meet last week by a 19-17 count and will probably be the favorite to best the Bucs in the championships.

"I'd have to say they (William and Mary) are the team to beat right now," Pirate mentor John Welborn said. "They beat us in a dual last week and that is the first time in six years we have lost a dual to a league opponent. They are very strong in every weight class, while we can go with them in most, but not all, of the classes."

When asked what the Pirates will have to do to win, Welborn said, "We'll need to win some of the matches against them (William and Mary) where we are the underdog. We'll also have to depend on Appalachian State and VMI to beat William and Mary's wrestlers to give us some help. But they can beat us just as easily and hurt us the same way."

There will be five defending champions back to try for two in a row. The Indians' Tom Dursee won the title at 118 last season and is favored to win again. His top competition should come from Appalachian State's Tom Possnelli.

Paul Osman won the 126-pound class last season and is 21-3-1 for this year. He has not lost in his last 21 matches, with only a tie coming against the second-ranked wrestler in the nation, Paul Sloan of Lehigh. Bob Pincus of William and Mary should provide the top competition for Osman. Pincus has beaten several national place winners and give Osman a run for his money.

The Indians' Jim Hicks is the defending champ at 134 and is expected to repeat. Appalachian's Andre Massey and East Carolina's Harry Martin or James Kirby are expected to provide Hicks' top competition.

At 167, the Pirates' Mueller is back to attempt to win his second consecutive Southern Conference title. Mueller is the strong favorite to defend his title.

Heavyweight champion last year Ned Stepanovich is undefeated this season and is once again favored. Stepanovich defeated East Carolina's D.T. Joyner last year 3-2 for the title and those two are expected to be in the finals this year.

William and Mary's Craig Cook, a 190-pounder, won the championship in 1975 but sat out last season. He is back and expected to bid strongly for his second championship. The Pirates' John Williams, who is 15-6 on the season, and Appalachian State's Alfred Ash are expected to push Cook for the championship.

At 142, East Carolina's Tim Gaghan is the slight favorite, with Colon Steele of William and Mary and Keith Holland of ASU are expected to challenge strongly.

The Pirates' Frank Schaefer is the favorite at 150, along with Pat McGibbon of William and Mary. At 158, there are three wrestlers who can take the title. Greg Pronsak of William and Mary is the slight favorite, having beaten East Carolina's Steve Goode last week. Frank Cody of ASU is also very strong and should make a strong bid for the championship.

At 177, William and Mary's Bob Stark looms as the favorite while East Carolina freshman Jay Dever is back from an injury and should provide strong competition.

Last year, East Carolina won the title 111 to 74 1/2 over William and Mary, but this year's championships should be much closer.

Hard To Get In Without Ticket

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Don't come dressed as a telephone repairman and expect to get into the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament without a ticket.

Those who have tried this ruse in the past have found to their dismay that all such personnel wear identity badges.

"Besides, 31 telephone repairmen in a row looks a bit peculiar," said Jim Oshust, wiscracking manager of the Greensboro Coliseum, where the three-day ACC tournament began today.

Trying to get tickets for the tournament this late is nearly as difficult as getting into the money vaults at Ft. Knox.

So many ruses have been used to try get into the coliseum for the tournament that Oshust has prepared a mock list of tricks not to try this year.

Do not pose as a father, mother, brother or sister of an ACC official. It hasn't worked yet.

"We've done more research on the roots of ACC officials than Alex Haley did on Kunta Kinte," Oshust said.

Newspapers throughout the state have carried want ads this week from frantic basketball fans seeking to buy tickets.

Oshust said, "Believe it or not, we've had nine guys claiming to be the four corners of a single college."

He claims that security guards have turned away every type badge from the Polish Secret Service to the Lone Ranger Club.

Don't bother masquerading as a player. All players, as well as coaches, assistants, band members, trainers and cheerleaders, are required to show participant passes.

College Roundup

North Pitt's Eastern Carolina Conference champion Panthers took a 46-41 win over Ayden-Grifton Tuesday night to win the District I 3-A tournament — no big surprise. The real upset came the night before when Ayden-Grifton knocked off Washington, who many had favored to win the championship.

The Chargers used exceptional defensive play to oust the number one team from the Northeastern Conference, 42-36.

Although the score reflects a slow-down contest, it really wasn't. Both teams ran zone defenses, however, and good shots were few and far between.

Rumor has it that Ayden-Grifton coach Bob Murphy showed up at the tournament site in Williamston planning to go with a 1-3-1 zone, but changed his mind before game time and ended up running a 2-3, a wise decision.

The Chargers played tight inside against the Pam Pack, who usually played a strong inside game. They also got good movement in the zone and covered the corners well. They gave up the outside shot from out front, but the Washington guards weren't hitting and eventually gave up trying.

The defense allowed the Pam Pack to hit only 27.6 per cent of their shots from the field and only one Washington player was in double figures — Dominique Wilkins with 14.

The game was a real tribute to the Chargers, who are not loaded with talent, but have depended on their defense and a never-say-die attitude all year long.

Williamston's girls used a similar defensive maneuver the next night to defeat Farmville Central and take the district girls' title.

The Lady Jaguars also depend strongly on their inside game, getting the ball to Julia Moye, Dianne Barrett and Ilean Phillips.

The Tigerettes went to a 2-3 zone, but matched up closely with Moye and Barrett to take away their driving shots.

The strategy worked well as the Lady Jags were forced out of their regular offensive pattern and Williamston was able to work the ball inside to Jo Anna Lilley and Paula Bennett on the offensive end of the floor for a 49-46 win.

The final regular season statistics for the Atlantic Coast Conference show N. C. State's Kenny Carr edging Wake Forest's Rod Griffin, the player of the year, for scoring honors. Carr averaged 21.2 points per contest while Griffin hit for 20.7.

Griffin's real value is shown in his shooting percentage, however, where he led the league. The Fairmont junior hit 169 of 274 shots from the field, 61.7 per cent.

The next highest percentage was by Lawrence Boston of Maryland who connected on 140 of 234 shots for 59.8 per cent. Carr was ranked 12th in this category with a 50 per cent shooting average.

Virginia was the only school in the conference which gave up more points than it scored this year. The Cavaliers averaged 65.5 points on offense, but allowed 67.7 to their opponents.

Clemson, which finished in a tie for second with Wake Forest behind North Carolina, averaged the largest scoring margin. The Tigers hit at an 87.8 point per game clip while allowing only 68.8 to their opponents — the second-lowest in the conference.

The annual ACC tournament gets underway today and as usual it's an anything-goes affair where any of the seven teams in the league could walk away with the title — and the NCAA tournament berth.

It would appear, however, that even if regular season champ North Carolina loses in the first round, the Tar Heels would probably make it to the NCAA tournament on a wild card pick.

Other than that, it's anybody's guess at this point and there are usually more than a few surprises in the annual warfare.

Hurts Knee

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Lavon Mercer, the starting center for the Georgia Bulldogs, suffered a twisted knee during the team's basketball practice Wednesday, a school spokesman said.

Mercer, a freshman, is listed as questionable for Saturday night's Southeastern Conference game against Vanderbilt.

Until he was injured, Mercer was the only player to have played in all 25 Georgia games this season.

West Texas State edged New Mexico State 89-86 in opening-round games of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament.

In other playoff action, Duquesne defeated Penn State 65-55, West Virginia whipped Pittsburgh 66-54, Villanova beat George Washington 80-72, and Massachusetts upset Rutgers 78-74 in first-round games of the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League. In the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference, San Jose State defeated UC-Santa Barbara 71-52, San Diego State stopped Fresno State 51-41, and Fullerton defeated Pacific 79-68.

Roosevelt Bouie's 24 points led Syracuse over St. Bonaventure as the Orangemen avenged an earlier loss to the Bonnies. The 6-foot-11 freshman center also collected 14 rebounds, helping Syracuse improve its record to 24-3.

Dave Montgomery scored 28 points and rallied VMI past Appalachian for the Keydets' second straight Southern Conference championship. The victory shot the Keydets into a March 12 NCAA tournament meeting against the ECBL champion, at Raleigh, N.C.

Ray Shirley's stuff shot and two free throws in the final 33 seconds rallied Wichita State over Drake. Maurice Cheeks' two free throws with six seconds left iced West Texas State's victory over New Mexico State.

Norm Nixon had 18 points in leading Duquesne over Penn State in the ECBL playoffs. West Virginia defeated Pitt behind Maurice Robinson's 26 points. Keith Herron pumped in 24 points and Villanova hit 34 of 36 shots from the foul line in beating George Washington. Mike Pyatt scored 26 points as Massachusetts staved off a fierce Rutgers comeback.

Ken Mickey scored 12 points, collected 10 assists and made five steals, leading San Jose State over UC-Santa Barbara. Fred Branch's 19 points paced San Diego State over Fresno State, and four players scored in double figures as Fullerton beat Pacific.

Three other leagues have playoff games tonight. The Metro-7 will hold first-round games, the Southwestern Conference will stage second-round action and the Big Eight will hold its semifinals. In addition, the ECAC will open playoffs for the Metropolitan and New England areas.

IN ENGLAND TO FIGHT — Leon Spinks, American heavyweight boxer from St. Louis, poses at his hotel window in Liverpool Wednesday. Spinks, who won a gold medal in the light

Randle To Coach Va. Prep School

WOODSTOCK, Va. (AP) — Sonny Randle, former head football coach at the University of Virginia and East Carolina, will become head football coach at a military prep school here, school officials say.

W. Crawford Moon, superintendent of Massanutten Academy, said Wednesday that Randle, 41, notified school officials late Wednesday night of his decision to take the job.

Moon's announcement came after two weeks of negotiations between the academy and the former pro football star.

Moon said that in addition to handling duties as head football coach, Randle will serve as director of admissions and alumni secretary. Randle's salary was not disclosed.

Randle visited the military prep school and toured the surrounding area last Wednesday, and he will return Friday to meet with school officials.

The head football coaching job at Massanutten became vacant Feb. 1 when Coach Karl Lombel left to become assistant coach at Virginia Military Institute. In his two years at Massanutten, Lombel compiled a 12-7-1 record.

Bullets Making Best Of Home Court Advantage

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Washington Bullets are making the best of the homecourt advantage while they have it.

Phil Chenier's 15-foot jumper with eight seconds to go in overtime gave the Bullets a 115-113 decision over the Denver Nuggets Wednesday night in the Capital Centre at Landover, Md. It was Washington's fifth victory in six games at home.

The Bullets, who have won four in a row, play at Atlanta Friday night, then return home for games against New Orleans and Phoenix. Then comes the hard part — a four-game road swing to the West Coast.

This latest home stand, which was marred only by a 108-101 loss to Los Angeles 10 days ago, has strengthened the Bullets' hold on first place in the Central Division of the National Basketball Association. They lead Houston by 2½ games, and their 37-24 record, a .607 percentage, is just three points behind Philadelphia for the best mark in the Eastern Conference.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Chicago Bulls edged the Phoenix Suns 108-104 in overtime, the Indiana Pacers beat the Buffalo Braves 116-108, the Kansas City Kings defeated the New York

Nets 112-100, the Houston Rockets stopped the Los Angeles Lakers 120-113 and the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Seattle SuperSonics 105-85.

Chenier scored eight of Washington's 10 overtime points and had 31 for the game, while Elvin Hayes poured in 44.

That offset a spectacular performance by Denver's David Thompson, who scored 36 points and scored the Nuggets' last 18 points, wiping out a 16-point deficit. His three-point play with 24 seconds remaining gave the Nuggets a 105-103 lead, but Tom Henderson's jumper sent it into overtime.

Bulls 108, Suns 104, OT

Wilbur Holland, who had six of his team-high 26 points in overtime, stole the ball and broke in for a layup with 40 seconds to go, clinching Chicago's fifth straight victory.

Pacers 116, Braves 108

Billy Knight scored 27 points and Dave Robisch grabbed a career-high 21 rebounds as Indiana survived a 41-point outburst by Buffalo's Randy Smith. Robisch, a reserve center, was pressed into full-time duty when the Pacers lost Dan Roundfield with an ankle injury midway through the second quarter.

Kings 112, Nets 100

Kansas City snapped a 40-40 tie with 10 straight points late in the second period, starting a 26-5 burst that broke open the game. Sam Lacey led the Kings with 20 points and 11 rebounds.

Rockets 120, Lakers 113

Houston scored six straight points early in the fourth quarter for a 10-point lead, then clinched the victory over Los Angeles with four straight baskets by Rudy Tomjanovich midway through the period. Moses Malone led Houston with 26 points and Tomjanovich had 24.

Cavaliers 105, Sonics 85

Austin Carr scored 25 points and Campy Russell 20 as Cleveland handed Seattle its third straight defeat on its home court. The Cavs broke it open with 16 straight points in the third quarter.

Elm City Girls Dump Roanoke

ROCKY MT. — Elm City's girls knocked off Roanoke last night in the District 2-A finals at West Edgecombe High School by a 56-35 score.

There was really little doubt in the game as the Elm City girls rushed out to an 18-4 lead in the first quarter.

They stretched that margin to 34-16 by halftime, although the teams played almost evenly in the second half.

The loss ended the Squaws' season and they didn't have a single player in double figures. Elm City was led by Lydia Rountree with 17, Pam Helmer with 14 and Daisy Williams with 12.

State JC President In Grifton

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer
GRIFTON — Jaycees are in the people business," N.C. State Jaycees President, Joe Hollowell, told Jaycee members in Grifton Wednesday.

"We work to help people and to help try develop their lives," Hollowell added.
Hollowell and National Jaycee President, Frank Ziebell, were special guests at a reception in Grifton. The state and national president visited the Grifton chapter to commend it for being the most outstanding Jaycee chapter in North Carolina in January. The Grifton Jaycees doubled their membership during January.

Hollowell, an Edenton peanut farmer, said that he travels across North Carolina speaking to Jaycee chapters 12 out of every 14 nights.

"North Carolina has 370 Jaycee chapters with 15,000 plus members. We are number one in the nation in new chapter extensions. I travel across the state visiting the local chapters and speaking to them 12 out of every 14 nights. I am responsible for the total management of the statewide organization. I am supposed to see that the Jaycee organization continues to grow and has positive impact on the state," Hollowell said.

"We are very pleased to have the national Jaycee president visit us in North Carolina. Frank Ziebell is the first national Jaycee president in ten years to visit the local chapters in North Carolina. We have visited Plymouth, Raleigh, Mount Olive and will appear on Carolina Today Thursday morning," Hollowell added.

Ziebell, a native of Richardson, Tex. has been active in the Jaycees organization for over nine years. He said that as national president, his main duty is to serve the local chapters.

"We are interested in individual development. We promote to the local chapters, print material and community dynamics programs. Three of our main programs are Operation Mainstream, Operation Threshold and an Institute program for forming Jaycee chapters in prisons. We feel very successful with our prison programs. One program that our directors endorsed in February is for the Jaycees to support the Muscular Dystrophy camaign," Ziebell said.

"The good thing that I see about Jaycees is that the local chapter members get to do what they want to do. They have no rules to follow by the national organization, the national office just encourages the local chapters," Ziebell added.

Ziebell is a manufacturing representative, but said that he travels at least 275 days a year around the country promoting the Jaycees organization.

During the reception which was held at the home of Grifton Jaycee President Richard Gaddy, Ziebell told the local Jaycees that he was pleased with their work in January.

"We are here today to congratulate you for the tremendous work you did in January. You are setting an example for the state. I encourage you to continue setting examples and keep a positive attitude," Ziebell said.

Agents Need Suit Seeks To Bar Dismissal

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Federal agents say they need a grand jury to get answers to key questions in their probe for civil rights violations in the trial of the Wilmington 10.

The jury will convene here next Tuesday, but officials said it would probably not be asked to indict anyone, only to subpoena witnesses who declined to answer FBI questions in the case.

The Wilmington 10 were convicted in 1972 in connection with a firebombing during racial violence in that city. Charges have arisen since then that prosecution witnesses were coached or intimidated.

One witness, Allen Hall, has said he lied on the stand because of prosecution pressure. Former New Hanover County assistant district attorney James T. Stroud has repeatedly denied Hall's charges.

Officials say the grand jury probe will attempt to determine whether two others — Eric Junious and Jerome Mitchell — stand by their testimony.

"This is an investigatory grand jury to question people who have been reluctant to talk," one federal source said. "And it's to clear up Hall's and Stroud's differences under oath."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A state Personnel Commission member has filed suit against Gov. Jim Hunt and Personnel Director Harold Webb to block his replacement on the commission.

William H. Davis III asked Wake County Superior Court to block his removal which "in my opinion is an illegal attempt to remove me from the North Carolina State Personnel Commission to which I was appointed for a term which does not expire until June 30, 1979."

The state's position is that Davis was named to occupy one of two commission seats assigned to state employees. Davis left state government last year and took a job with the Western Carolina Bank in Maggie Valley.

"Had Mr. Davis not changed his employment, there would be no problem," Webb said. "The design of the legislation is to have two state employees on the commission."

Davis said he still considered himself a member of the commission and remained hopeful that "the governor will check the statutes and rescind his attempted replacement of me."

Davis said he learned of his replacement in a letter from Webb Monday, which said the governor had named his successor. Webb said there has been no replacement yet.

Adopt Strategy Of Local Option

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Liquor-by-the-drink proponents plan to try for passage this time of a local option bill instead of a statewide referendum on mixed drinks.

The proposal now reportedly being drafted would allow cities with their own ABC systems or counties with existing ABC systems to hold local option elections on the matter.

The elections could be held if 20 per cent of the voters or the governing body called for the referendum.

If the referendum succeeded, the same establishments now eligible for brown bag permits could get permits for mixed drinks.

Supporters of the measure said they would introduce the bill only if it appeared to have a good chance of passage.

House Votes To Delay Considering Death Penalty

RALEIGH (AP) - The House decided Wednesday to delay consideration of the death penalty.

The House unanimously approved a motion by Rep. H. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg to postpone until March 23 consideration of his bill that would impose life imprisonment for murderers and rapists with no possibility of release for 25 years.

In other action, Atty. Gen.

Rufus Edmisten told a legislative committee he will recommend to Gov. Jim Hunt the release of some 500 young persons serving prison terms for marijuana possession to make room in prison for more dangerous inmates.

Helms said he decided to call for a delay in consideration of his bill after conferring with Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, chairman of the House Judiciary II Committee which is studying bills that would restore the death penalty for first degree murder and rape.

Helms said he and Davenport had agreed that all measures dealing with the death penalty issue ought to be considered the same day.

Other legislative highlights: EDMISTEN

In an appearance before the Senate Law Enforcement and Crime Control Committee, Edmisten said he will recommend to Gov. Jim Hunt that he commute the prison terms of about 500 young inmates serving term for marijuana possession.

"I want to get some of those young people out of prison and make room for the rapists, murderers and other dangerous criminals," Edmisten said. A spokesman for Hunt said the governor would be receptive to the proposal.

PRISON BONDS

Rep. John Gamble, D-Lincoln, sponsored a bill calling for a statewide vote on a date this year to be set by the governor on the question of issuing $50 million in bonds for construction of prisons.

Gamble said there is "tremendous need" to "provide modern and decent facilities for our prisoners."

HELMETS

The House Highway Safety Committee heard arguments for and against a bill by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford, to repeal the law which requires motorcyclists to wear helmets. Health authorities said helmets save lives while spokesmen for motorcyclists associations argued helmets are dangerous because they limit the peripheral vision and reduce the hearing of those who wear them. The committee adjourned without acting on the bill.

PORTS AUTHORITY

The Senate State Government approved a House-passed measure asked by Gov. Jim Hunt to revamp the State Ports Authority and transfer it from the Department of Transportation to the Department of Commerce. The bill provides for a new nine-member authority board with seven of its members appointed by the governor, one House member named by the speaker and one senator appointed by the lieutenant governor.

Reveal Soviet Effort To Fool Spy Satellites

BONN, West Germany (AP) - The Russian fighter pilot who defected to the West last September has revealed that the Soviets try to mislead U.S. spy satellites by building fake air bases while genuine bases housing thousands of men are buried underground, the magazine Stern reported today.

The weekly news magazine published excerpts from what said were records of the Central Intelligence Agency's interrogation of Lt. Viktor Belenko, who landed in Japan Sept. 6 in the first MIG25 jet to fall into the hands of Western intelligence experts.

Stern said Pentagon experts have now identified more than 134 fake air bases in Siberia, most of them near the Chinese border, since Belenko told the CIA about their existence.

These so-called "theater" bases, which appear real in high-level photography, include empty barracks and roller-mounted aircraft mock-ups that are moved about by soldiers using cable winches, the magazine said.

It quoted Belenko as saying that genuine military bases have been installed underground and screened against satellite infrared cameras by so-called "cold belts" buried in the earth above them. The infrared cameras of spy satellites detect heat emanating from troops and equipment.

The "mole hill" bases, which can accommodate thousands of troops, include underground aircraft hangars connected by long tunnels to ground-level runways located as far as 30 miles away, Belenko reportedly said.

Underground control bunkers defended by heavy guns and flame throwers house pilots, radar specialists, air controllers and mechanics, according to the Stern excerpts.

Now Desegregated

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - A federal judge has declared Durham city and county public schools desegregated after 17 years of civil rights litigation and court supervision of the schools.

"It can now be said," wrote U.S. Middle Dist. Judge Eugene Gordon, "that the Durham city and county school systems are unitary."

"The time at long last has come for the entry of an order terminating this litigation and ending the court's involvement in the planning and management of these school systems."

Gordon's order, filed Wednesday, also dismissed a lawsuit filed by parents of black children along with the NAACP in 1960. Both school systems have been operating under court-approved desegregation plans submitted to Gordon each year by school officials since 1960.

An NAACP attorney said the judge's order would not be appealed. "We can live with it," he said.

FAMOUS HAND GUNS - Sue Ross of Christie's in London, holds two famous hand guns which were sold at the London salesrooms in a sale at Fine Modern Sporting Guns and Vintage Firearms. The gold engraved revolver, right, which was used by actress Sarah Bernhardt to defend herself when her train was stopped by train robbers on a tour of the U.S. in 1881, sold for about $4,400. The Colt "Python" .357 Magnum belonging to the late Ian Fleming, creator of Agent 007 James Bond, sold for about $1,500. (AP Wirephoto)

Association Meeting Set

The Pitt County Association for Retarded Citizens will hold its monthly membership meeting Wednesday, March 9, at Wahl-Coates Elementary School at 8 p.m.

The program for the month will be centered around the MR-MH Separation. Dr. Ann Wolfe, director, MR Services, Division of Mental Health, Department of Human Resources, Raleigh, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Wolfe will supply facts on a separate divisional status of mental retardation under the Department of Human Resources. This issue is being considered by Dr. Sarah Morrow, secretary, Department of Human Resources, with a possibility of going before the General Assembly.

Parents, professionals and interested persons are invited to attend.

Tank mixes: An important weed control tool.

Roger Walker

Since the advent of 2-4D, many farmers have relied on chemicals rather than steel to control their weeds. While 2-4D still is widely used, like most other herbicides it has a limited weed control spectrum. In this case primarily broadleaf weeds, applied post emergence.

But farmers have both broadleaf and grassy weeds, each offering its own kind of problem. Grass and broadleaf seeds exist throughout the soil profile. But small-seeded grasses usually germinate and survive in greater numbers from the top half inch of soil. This upper soil segment warms up early, so grasses and small-seeded broadleaves tend to grow and compete with your crop early in the season. Large-seeded broadleaves germinate in greater numbers from lower depths, so they can also germinate and compete later in the season. They also rob crops of moisture and nutrients and can cause mechanical problems at harvest.

More farmers have become aware of the advantages of mixing two herbicides to form a labeled tank mix. Usually one is primarily a grass herbicide and one primarily a broadleaf herbicide. When Lasso® herbicide by Monsanto is the base for the labeled tank mix, you get effective control of many grasses. Lasso controls many problem grasses like foxtails, fall panicum and crabgrass. Use a labeled tank mix of Lasso and you can extend the control spectrum to many broadleaves. Like Lasso plus atrazine for corn. Or Lasso plus Lorox!® or Lasso plus Sencor® for soybeans. In all, there are four tank mixes of Lasso on the Monsanto label for corn and six tank mixes for soybeans.

No matter which tank mix you decide upon, you should get effective control of many grasses and broadleaf weeds. Tank mixing may also mean weed control over a wider range of moisture conditions than either herbicide alone could deliver.

This year select a tank mix of Lasso for your corn or soybeans to control many grasses and broadleaves.

If it weren't dependable it wouldn't be where it is.

To Hardship In Roman Prison

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAR. 4, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you are likely to be so engrossed in the little details of everyday routines that others could think you are being petty. So try not to show an over-interest in the little things.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle important routines early in the day for best results. Be sure to take the treatments you need to improve your health.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can improve your appearance and then please others at amusements of your choice. Find the right way to make kin happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Attend to home duties instead of running off on some frivolous tangent. Make proper preparation for weekend entertainment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Be sure not to neglect important correspondence.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your true financial status and know how to invest wisely in the future. Plan necessary repairs in the home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You love order and cleanliness and this is a good day to see to it that things around you are as you want it. Show more enthusiasm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Doing whatever will please your mate the most is wise at this time. Stop wasting valuable time on unimportant matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A day to go after your personal aims which are important to you. Attend group affairs where you can enjoy good friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Engage in civic duties and gain added prestige. Obtain the items that can help you in your line of endeavor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may want to start a new activity without delay but it is imperative that you start your study it well. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sitting down with the one you love and coming to a better understanding is wise at this time. Stand up for your rights.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Discuss with associates ways to make your future operations more successful. Avoid one whose views are different from yours.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she should be given little duties to perform early in life and taught to complete them in order to form the work habit. Direct education along lines of research for best results. Be sure to give good spiritual training.

By SYLVANA FOA
ROME (UPI) — The room service cuisine at the Queen of Heaven is acclaimed by most longtime guests as "benissimo."

But if you're not partial to what's on the menu, you may order from the smaller, more exclusive restaurant on the premises or cook your own spaghetti and meatballs on the bottled gas stoves provided in each room.

The wines are also excellent and for a slight extra charge a half-liter (one pint) will be sent up with your luncheon.

There is, of course, a television in every room and the exercise courts are open to all between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. for sports or strolls in the sun.

Up playing cards until 3 a.m. Just let it be known that you don't wish to be disturbed and you may sleep as late as you like.

While some might consider it "the life of Riley," most of its unwilling guests say a stay at the Queen of Heaven is a living hell.

In Rome, the Queen of Heaven is known by its Latin name, Regina Coeli — the ugly, sprawling prison on the Tiber River.

Regina Coeli has become so much a part of Roman life since it was opened in 1881 that one popular song says a man earns his citizenship in the Eternal City only by spending time behind its bars.

Pietro Caronia, 27 and unemployed, may call himself a Roman citizen.

Caronia spent 3½ months in Regina Coeli for exploding a small bomb in the America Embassy in Rome to protest the 1972 U.S. bombing of Hanoi.

"If you are calm and want some time to read and write, Regina Coeli is not such a bad place," said Caronia, who was released on "provisional liberty" when police decided his bomb was too small to do anything but make a bang.

For Caronia, the most unpleasant aspects of prison life were "the buckets we had to use because there were no toilets, the lack of heat in winter and getting your newspaper all cut up and censored."

Echoed by thousands of inmates in Italy's outdated, overcrowded and understaffed penitentiaries, those complaints led to the bloody and destructive riots which swept jails across Italy in 1973.

In recent months, prisoners' demonstrations for reform have received the support of hunger-striking lawmakers and even guards staging sit-ins.

"The riots have brought us some legal reform, like we no longer censor newspapers, but we don't have enough money to tackle all the problems," said Carlo Santamaria, Regina Coeli's 42-year-old warden.

"We have about 1,100 inmates here when we should have no more than 600," said Santamaria as he strode down the corridor of Cellblock Six.

"We have to cram three to five men in cells that average 2½ by 4 meters (yards). Under these conditions, a man is never alone for even one hour, day or night," he said. "Those who aren't used to it get nervous — and nervousness often leads to nastiness."

Santamaria said the overcrowding also makes it difficult for him to separate hardened criminals and homosexuals from teenaged first-timers.

"We have to give priorities to our reforms," said Santamaria. "I think education for the illiterate men is important — but basic hygiene is more important. Now we are using what money we have to build toilets and showers."

Santamaria is also under a great deal of public pressure to make security one of his priorities.

In 1976, 359 prisoners escaped from jails across Italy — nearly one every 24 hours. More than 50 have climbed the walls since the beginning of 1977.

The rash of escapes led one sarcastic editor to quip that Italian prisons were "as easy to check in and out of as hotels." The government reacted with a $453 million appropriation for construction of more modern and escape proof jails.

One senator recently suggested that prisons use paper bedsheets — strong enough to last a week but too weak to support a man's weight — and thus prevent inmates from lowering themselves to freedom on sheet ropes.

Inside the cells, decorated with photos of racing car driver Niki Lauda and Playboy centerfolds, inmates huddled around their televisions munching salamis and hardboiled eggs which they had stored in the "refrigerator" of their cell window bars.

Pietro Caronia said that while in jail he was offered work in the prison office, laundry, kitchen or maintenance team at union wages — minus 33 percent which would be put aside, in case he was convicted, for any victim of his crime.

"It doesn't cost much money to get along well in Regina Coeli so I decided to spend my time studying," he said. "Most prisoners don't work unless they have to — those who do work are sort of looked down upon."

Pietro said the prisoners look for their leaders among those arrested for highly-publicized crimes — like Regina Coeli's most famous former inmate, deported American gangster Frank "Three Fingers" Coppola — but tend to shun those charged with murder or rape. "They also despise the right-wingers, the Fascists," he said.

"But if your crime was political and you come from the left-wing, they treat you with special respect because most are angry with the system." The source of the prisoners' anger with the system is not difficult to find.

More than 20,000 of the 33,000 inmates in Italian prisons are awaiting their first trial.

Italy's rusty judicial system is so bogged down that the attorney general of the Court of Cassation, Ubaldo Boccia, counted two million court cases pending at the end of fiscal 1976.

Pietro Caronia was lucky to be given "provisional liberty" after only 3½ months — his trial has yet to be scheduled nearly five years after his arrest.

Under Italy's "preventive detention" laws, a prisoner charged with simple theft can spend six months in jail before he must be released on "liberty" and one charged with murder can wait in prison for up to seven years before facing a jury.

Hunt Feels Unhurt By A Losing Cause

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt, who backed the Equal Rights Amendment, says many senators told him they "felt real badly" about having to be on the opposite side of the fence from him on the ERA issue.

Hunt said Wednesday in a brief interview he felt that being on the losing side did not hurt his stature among legislators.

He said he felt his standing was stronger despite the Senate defeat of ERA by 26-24 Tuesday.

"People respect you for standing up," Hunt said. Some of his most loyal supporters were among those voting against the amendment.

Sen. James B. Garrison, D-Stanly, who led the floor fight in the Senate for ERA, said, "This was an emotional thing, a strong conviction matter. It's the only thing Jim Hunt could not persuade his friends on."

A newsman wanted to know if Hunt would remind the senators of the ERA vote at some future time, perhaps on the question of veto power or succession of the governor. "They won't have to be reminded," he said.

Sen. Joe H. Palmer, D-Haywood, one of the senators Hunt sought unsuccessfully to vote for ERA, said, "I was for him before, I'm for him today. I'll be a Jim Hunt man tomorrow."

Karolyn Kaye Hervey, chief lobbyist for the coalition of civic, church and political groups supporting ERA, said Hunt "really tried. He did the best he could."

Declarer cashed dummy's ace-king of clubs, then returned to his hand with the king of hearts. Now he led the queen of hearts. If West ruffed, declarer would overruff, draw trumps and claim ten tricks by cashing his high club. When West followed suit, declarer discarded dummy's jack of clubs. The position was essentially the same. Declarer now led his queen of clubs.

If West discarded, declarer would lose only three diamonds, so West ruffed low. But that availed him naught. Declarer simply overruffed and now had ten tricks via four trumps and an overruff, three hearts, and the ace-king of clubs.

A little thought very neatly compensated for the 5-0 trump break.

(Tired of waiting for the interminable rubber to end so that you can cut in? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" expert guide and scorepad will introduce you to the exciting, fast-action game played in the country's great bridge clubs. The usual reaction of the average player to a bad trump break is blind panic. A far more sensible action is to consider possible distributions which will neutralize the whims of Dame Fortune.

North-South bid easily to their normal contract. North might have passed South's jump to three no trump, but since he had four-card spade support and a potential ruffing value, his decision to continue on to the spade game was eminently correct. Barring unforeseen circumstances, four spades would have yielded ten easy tricks.

The king of diamonds led would have killed any chance declarer had for his contract, but the auction steered West away from that lead, and he settled on the ten of hearts. Declarer won in dummy and a spade to the ace brought the bad news.

It seemed that there were three diamond losers and a trump, but declarer was not ready to bow the knee. Dummy held a tenace position over West's trumps, and declarer worked out a distribution which would still enable him to bring in his contract. All that was required was for West to hold at least two cards in both

Nashville: Sightseers' Haven

EDITOR'S NOTE — Stars of stage, screen and song show case their wealth and wallow in the comfort of fabulous homes. The plain folk, and the nibby, like to see how the other half lives. This hotbed of country music rivals Beverly Hills as a good place to look.

By JUDITH KINNARD
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It may not be as fancy here as Beverly Hills or as opulent as Palm Springs, but country music is doing for Nashville what movies and money have done for the California towns: It's dotting the country-side with pleasure domes.

Tour buses ferry gawkers past 15 of the most impressive domiciles of the music makers, which are impressive by any standard, and there are others off the beaten path and even in the Tennessee hinterlands.

Among the showier showplaces is Webb Pierce's. He stood in his antique-crammed living room, a heavy Indian necklace cresting the wave in his stomach, and said:

"When my wife Audrey finds something she likes, I say, 'Buy it. Just buy until you get ashamed of yourself.'"

That's the spirit behind some of Nashville's more remarkable architecture. Pierce's own stone manor house stands on 10 landscaped acres with tennis courts, formal gardens and a guitar-shaped swimming pool that set him back a cool $50,000.

The Grand Ole Opry, founded in 1925, was the magnet that drew the likes of Pierce to Nashville. The spinoff was more artists, recording studios, agents, money and people who feed off it all.

The Nashville Chamber of Commerce says 6.3 million persons visit the city and its environs each year. One of the pioneers in peddling a peek at how the stars live was Agnes Pennington. She's been carting visitors on the music and mansion circuit for more than a quarter of a century and has parlayed the business into one of the city's largest tour outfits, one of more than 25 companies that hawk maps and three-hour tours for $7.50.

But for the $7.50, Pierce is the only big star who welcomes tourists — and he got into trouble for it.

Pierce, who lives in a quiet residential area south of town, near Minnie Pearl's place and the Tennessee governor's mansion, not only welcomed sightseers, he was also selling them his albums at poolside. Neighbors got a court order banning such goings on. He said he would quit selling records, but he wouldn't quit seeing people.

"I'll let the people continue to come up and look at what they gave me," he says. "I want to give a little of it back to them."

A REASON TO SMILE — Colleen McCullough, Australian-born author, laughs during a news conference. She has reason to be happy. Her novel "The Thorn Birds" has been sold for the largest amount of money paid in publishing history for paperback rights to a book. The hardback publisher, Harper and Row, sold it to Avon Publishing million. She gets 50 per cent. (AP Wirephoto)

Tammy Wynette also settled in this area of clipped green lawns and stately shade trees. Her $1.2 million mansion has 11 bedrooms, 15 baths and a wine cellar.

Born Wynette Pugh, the former Alabama headresser who made it to the top singing poignant songs about marital problems got the mansion in the divorce settlement from her third husband, singer George Jones.

Many of the long-established country artists, such as Hank Snow, live in much smaller suburban neighborhoods. They've stayed where they originally settled, in the town of Madison which is easily accessible to the Grand Ole Opry.

Kitty Wells, the Opry's first woman member, lives there. Her primary concessions to luxury are red velvet upholstery in the living room and an indoor swimming pool.

Some stars, like Del Reeves and Loretta Lynn, who owns the entire town of Hurricane Mills, Tenn., have settled into the rolling pastures of middle Tennessee.

Half an hour south of Nashville, in Williamson County, Tom T. Hall and his wife Dixie live on a farm in a spacious copy of a Louisiana plantation home. They added a lake, an automatic gate and a big dog kennel for the championship basset Dixie raises.

"When we lived in a subdivision house, we used to drive out here into the country on Sundays, just like other people, and dream of having a house here," said Hall.

Now he has a house full of antiques bought on shopping trips to England. Upstairs is a bathroom with a sunken tub as big as a wading pool. A limousine is parked out front, and at the foot of the hill is Hall's 16-track recording studio, the Toybox.

Hall denies his lifestyle has changed much.

"Dixie doesn't have any diamonds, and the limo is just for business," he said.

A small cluster of homes also lines the shores of Old Hickory Lake, north of Nashville in Hendersonville. Here Johnny Cash rubs elbows with neighbors Roy Orbison and Bob Luman.

Cash found his dream house on an afternoon outing when he spotted an unfinished structure. He talked the builder, who planned it for his own family, into a sale. The builder, Braxton Dixon, has been cashing in on the stars ever since, with most of his houses variations of Cash's. Prices range from $150,000 to about $500,000.

Cash's home is pure Tennessee, with native limestone, rough poplar timbers and barn boards, all built on a solid strata of rock. From the air, it resembles a tape deck — two two-story "reels" linked by a 130-foot central living area which Cash says gave him plenty of room to walk off those sleepless nights of the old days.

He has added a second level and is building a six-car garage. A security guard patrols the estate, which has two swimming pools, tennis courts and terraced gardens.

Down the road, Orbison lives in a huge wood and stone A-frame hidden by a tall fence. Luman's large log house stretches diagonally across a wooded lot.

Across the road is Cash's mother, Mrs. Ray Cash. She keeps the living room lights on and the drapes open 24 hours a day to display the gold record her son gave her.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONERS' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

North of City of Pitt
Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County made and entered in Special Proceeding No. 76 SP 213, pending in said Court and entitled "Benjamin T. Eastwood vs. Lillian R. Eastwood", said order of Court bearing date of February 17, 1977, the undersigned, Commissioners, will on Monday, March 28, 1977, at 11:00 o'clock, A.M., at the premises on the map and hereinafter described at Secondary Road No. 1523 (Rams Horn Road) about one (1) mile north of Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash those certain tracts or parcels of land lying and being in Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

FIRST TRACT: Lying and being situate in Pictolus or Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and containing 25.1 acres, more or less, and being more particularly shown on that map made by McDavid Associates, Inc. dated February 17, 1976, entitled "Property of Benjamin Thomas Eastwood and wife, Lillian R. Eastwood" of record in Map Book 25, Page 82, Pitt County Registry, reference to which map is hereby made for a more particular description.

Also conveyed will be the non-exclusive rights in and to the 25 foot path as shown on the map, as well as any extension of said path.

To be sold with the tract will be all crops allotments assigned to this land, but which have already been rented for the year 1977.

This land is not contiguous to but is located between Secondary Road 1523 and the eastern By Pass and is adjacent to that tract sometimes known as Nichols Commercial Subdivision (formerly the Norman Bennett property).

OTHER TRACTS: Lying and being situate in Pictolus or Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being all of Tracts One (1) through Nine (9), containing 10.2 acres, more or less, and being more particularly shown on that map made by McDavid Associates, Inc., dated February 16, 1976, entitled "Property

IS THIS THE TREE YOU BIT BIG BROTHER?

I WAS MAD! THAT STUPID TREE ATE MY KITE!

WHAT DO YOU THINK THEY'LL DO TO YOU?

TEN-TO-ONE THEY THROW HIM IN THE SLAMMER!

LOOKS LIKE IT'S GONNA BE A GREAT PARTY, TWINK. BUT WHY DID YOU INVITE MR. PORCUPINE?

BECAUSE I LIKE HIM.

BESIDES, HE'S GREAT WITH THE HORS D'OEUVRES.

Blondie

DAGWOOD WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE BID ON THIS LOGAN CONTRACT?

I DON'T KNOW, BOSS... ON BIG DEALS LIKE THIS, I LIKE TO THINK TWICE.

THIS IS SERIOUS.

THINGS ARE BAD ENOUGH WHEN HE ONLY THINKS ONCE!

Beetle Bailey

Dear Diary! There is a woman on the post that we will have to do something about.

The man cannot deal with her presence in a rational manner. The mere sight of her makes them tremble.

Her name is Mrs. Bradley?

However, she herself, should not be flamed.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

Phone Companies Don't Relish Unlisted Numbers

By ROBERT HOLDEN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-four residents of President Carter's hometown are shelling out an extra $1.50 a month for unlisted phone numbers from the independent Citizens Telephone Co.

The Plains, Ga., residents are not alone.

They and millions of other Americans figure that getting out of the phone book and off the directory-assistance operator's list is the best way to cut down on unwanted phone calls.

The percentage of unlisted residential phone numbers has been climbing a little bit nearly every year since the early 1960s. The increase is especially evident in urban areas. In Los Angeles, 38 per cent of the phones are unlisted; in Chicago, 33 per cent aren't listed and in New York, more than 30 per cent aren't listed.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. estimates that as many as 16 per cent of all residential phone numbers in the country are unlisted. In 1972, when the company stopped collecting nationwide data on unlisted numbers, the figure was 12 per cent.

While phone customers aren't asked why they want an unlisted number, several Bell System spokesmen offered some opinions.

"People get annoying and harassing calls," a New York Telephone Co. spokesman said. "Single women are very big users of nonpublished numbers."

'Fine Time' In Hospital

WESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Charles Marks, 108, says the best thing about his recent hospital stay was "going home and telling them what a fine time I had."

Marks last week underwent surgery for the removal of his prostate gland. His doctor, urologist Dr. Arnold F. Gruspe, said Marks was walking the hospital halls within 24 hours and was back home in two days.

"I was really amazed how he recovered so fast," Gruspe said. "He's as strong as a mule. I just never saw anything like it before in my life. He's as alert as can be and in excellent shape physically: more like a man in his 60s than one who is 108."

Marks attributes his well being to living right. He "lived for the devil for the first 70 years," he said, and nothing went right. "Since then, I've been living for the Lord and everything is all right," he said. Marks didn't marry until he was 55. He chose a 16-year-old as his bride and they now live in a mobile home in Burnsville. They have seven children and Marks said he was 80 when his youngest was born.

Study Keys To Reading

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — The University of Illinois has established a new center for the study of reading comprehension that will examine how children acquire their reading skills.

"When we think of reading comprehension, we think of the books in our sociology or literature courses," says Professor Richard C. Anderson, who will direct the project. "But, a lot of tasks require following directions or looking things up in an index or a catalog."

The ability to use reference materials is crucial to people in many fields, Anderson explains. "A cook or mechanic must be able to read with good comprehension to perform adequately on the job."

Anderson says that children are not equipped with good reading skills, but must develop them.

Researchers at the center will look at how children acquire these skills, and how they move from translating symbols into speech to reading for comprehension. Most of the children to be studied will be from grades three through eight.

Senior Tourists
Get Fare Reduction
VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Senior tourists traveling in Austria will be given a 50 per cent fare reduction, including luggage, state railroad officials announced.

The reduction will be offered on all railroad and bus lines inside Austria for men above 65 and women above 60 years, the announcement said.

Having an unlisted number means it is not in the phone book, is not available through directory assistance and is only given out in an extreme emergency at the discretion of a designated phone company manager.

The telephone company says it is not pleased with this trend toward anonymity.

"Some customers have a real and continuing need for the service and we provide it when requested," said Lawrence Garfinkel, AT&T's director of rate and tariff planning. "However, it detracts from the value of the service — not only for the customer with the nonpublished number but also for people who can't reach the person with the nonpublished number.

"It also is a very costly service for us to provide and has the added effect of increasing the time it takes to handle directory assistance calls."

The New York Telephone Co. spokesman said, "The growth in nonpublished numbers increased the calls to directory assistance dramatically. It causes us problems. We also point out to customers that there are emergencies that come up where people may not be able to get in touch with them."

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. said the main reason for customers seeking unlisted numbers is their "need for privacy in a big city. It never fails that between 5 and 8 every night people want to loan you money, sell you insurance, take pictures of your kids and clean your carpets."

A spokesman for Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co. in Seattle said, "We don't query anybody that asks for a nonpublished number. Privacy of communications is something we have to be concerned about. But sometimes the customer offers a reason — maybe it's to avoid harassment by a previous husband."

The New York Telephone Co. spokesman said: "It's an urban phenomenon. Our records show that demand for nonpublished service remained fairly constant until the mid-1950s and it has gone up with the increase in the crime rate."

Another view is that an unlisted phone number, once the province of celebrities and the underworld, is now a status symbol for the middle class.

But a spokesman at AT&T headquarters in New York said: "It isn't any one class or type of person, but all segments of society that seek unlisted numbers."

Getting an unlisted number does not guarantee that you'll never get an unwanted phone call.

"Some telephone solicitors will call phone numbers in sequence," said a spokesman in Philadelphia for the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

"The irate customer then accuses us of giving out his number."

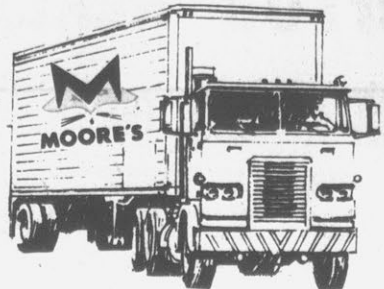

There are federal and state laws against obscene calls and repetitive annoyance calls. They range from dollar fines to imprisonment or both. The number of convictions rises a little each year, and in 1975, the latest year for which national statistics are available, there were 1,904 convictions, up from 1,806 in 1972, AT&T said.

Another source of annoyance to many customers is the added charge for an unlisted number, which ranges from a low of 15 cents a month in California to a high of $1.50 a month in the states of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Indiana. Phone customers in most other states are charged from $1 to $1.25.

One New York woman, single and in her late 20s, sees no legitimate reason to charge for not listing her telephone number.

"The telephone company makes such a big deal about being a public service and then charges a heavy premium for one of your basic rights — privacy," she said.
