First Planeload Of U.S. Aid To Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The massive quake that hit Romania could seriously set back this Communist country's efforts to set an independent economic course, diplomats said today. The death toll in Bucharest mounted and the first planeload of U.S. emergency aid was reported on its way.

The official Romanian news agency Agerpres said that in addition to the heavy toll in lives and housing, "scores of economic enterprises were damaged, with their productive activity being partially or completely interrupted" in Bucharest.

Romanian officials said 580 persons have been confirmed dead, 508 of them in Bucharest, where Friday's quake collapsed 32 high-rise apartment houses. But rescuers were finding a few survivors in the ruins.

Western diplomats estimated that as many as 4,000 persons may have perished in the capital, and a doctor said the toll may rise above 6,000.

"It was big blocks of apartments that fell, and they were corner buildings," he said. "One apartment building was 10 stories and another 12 stories, and they both fell."

Ambulances and hearses waited as teams of soldiers and civilians rummaged through the debris. Bulldozers and cranes picked away at buildings which had been reduced to piles of rubble.

Diplomats said the destruction of industrial plants and the drain on food stocks could deal Romania's economy a heavy blow. The Bucharest government has taken one of the most independent economic courses in the Soviet bloc, trying to build up its own industry and foreign trade.

Diplomats said the quake could hurt Romania's important exports of meat, cereals and grains, a major source of foreign currency.

Agerpres said that in Bucharest there were "hundreds of dead and thousands of wounded, over 30 blocks of apartments destroyed, hundreds of buildings, houses and socio-cultural establishments seriously damaged, thousands of families victims of the disaster ..."

The agency said other areas of Romania were also "seriously afflicted." Four fifths of the houses in the southern town of Zimnicea collapsed, more than 8,300 houses were damaged or destroyed in Dolj county, and dozens of other towns and cities were similarly battered.

U.S. Embassy sources said

Austria was the first to send aid, with a planeload Saturday. Switzerland sent special dogs to help rescue trapped survivors.

Twenty deaths and 120 injured have been reported in Bulgaria and one death and more than 100 injured in Yugoslavia. The quake, which registered 7.2 on the Richter scale, was felt from Moscow to Rome.

Rescuers sifting round the clock through the mounds of rubble found four persons alive

Sunday in the ruins of a building near the Communist party headquarters in Bucharest.

Radio Bucharest said rescue teams could also hear cries for help from a subway construction site.

Hospitals throughout the city of 1.5 million were jammed. The official news agency and radio reported more than 6,500 persons treated in Bucharest hospitals and said 900 had been hospitalized.

Trapped In Mine, Knew Bodies Of 2 Friends Nearby

COMFORTS RESCUED HUSBAND — Coal miner Ronald Adley is comforted by his wife, Anna Mae, as he lies on an emergency room table at the Pottsville, Pa. Hospital Sunday. Adley was rescued from the Kocher coal mine where he had been trapped since a shaft where he was working suddenly flooded Tuesday. Adley is in good condition and authorities say he is in good spirits. (AP Wirephoto)

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) —

Ronald Adley waited five days for rescuers to save him from a flooded coal mine, knowing all the while that two of his buddies lay dead in the same underground chamber.

He had seen them swallowed by a torrent of rushing water which crashed through a shaft ceiling, battering support timbers and triggering roof falls beneath 400-foot Big Lick Mountain.

In all, 10 men were trapped. Four bodies have been brought out and rescuers were looking for five miners who were unaccounted for.

"Ever heard of a miracle? A second miracle? There's always a chance," John B. Shuttack, regional director of the federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, said today.

"Until we have a hand on the body we'll consider that the man is alive and we'll keep trying to get him out."

Adley, a rugged miner who scrambled into an air pocket deep inside the flooded Kocher Co. coal mine, dug the final part of his own escape tunnel Sunday and walked unaided to freedom. He rested in good health today at a nearby hospital.

Drillers sinking a prove hole 430 feet from the top of the mountain had to stop Sunday after reaching the 375-foot mark and case the eight-inch hole to prevent water from filling it.

A television camera and a microphone will be lowered down the shaft to where the missing men are believed to be. Drilling was to resume sometime today.

"I want to get the hell out of here," Adley told rescuers on Sunday as he refused a stretcher and walked about 1,000 feet to a waiting coal car that took him the remaining 4,000 feet to the surface.

The bodies of Ralph Renninger, 40, and Donald Shoffler, 41, were discovered further down the upward slanting shaft where Adley had been trapped since midday Tuesday. Their bodies were removed after Adley was freed.

"Adley told us the other men were there," said one mining official. "Renninger and Shoffler worked in the same crew with Adley. He saw them go down when the water broke."

Adley, a 37-year-old father of two, escaped to the top of a 93-foot long chute. Water pushed debris 68 feet up the slant.

"Adley told us he saw the water and started running. Then he had to swim. He turned and yelled to the others, 'Get up the side! Hurry!' They tried to outrun it. They didn't make it," the official said.

Officials briefly halted activity inside and outside the mine Sunday when they fired three light blasts of dynamite from the surface.

Three blasts are a beckoning for response recognized by all miners. A two-tap reply — like the one Adley beat on a coal seam to let rescuers know he was alive on Wednesday — is a message of life.

County Defers Action On Bid And Money Request

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning deferred action on a bid received for a compactor for the county landfill.

E. F. Craven Co. submitted a bid of $90,775 for the purchase of the 50,000-pound compactor unit and a $96,107 bid for a lease-purchase plan. The Craven bid was the only one received.

Commissioners also deferred action on a request by Lawton Nisbet for a $5,000 to $7,000 contribution from the county toward construction of a new Flynn Christian Fellowship Home — described as a half-way house for alcoholics — to replace the present facility on Pitt Street in Greenville.

Nisbet said the new facility would cost an estimated $180,000 to $200,000, adding that stringent state regulations are forcing the move to a new facility.

The resignations of Marvin Speight from the Pitt County Planning Board and of Howard Lee from the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital were accepted with regret by Commissioners this morning.

The board named Joe Melton to fill Speight's unexpired term and moved to ask the University of North Carolina Board of Governors for a recommendation on Lee's position.

Commissioners also appointed Moses Moye for a three-year term on the Hospital board to represent Farmville Township.

The board adopted a resolution establishing a deferred compensation plan for county employees.

Under such a plan, a portion of an employee's salary would be withheld to purchase insurance which, in turn, would begin payments to the employee at a specified age when a tax advantage would result.

The plan, according to county officials, is a voluntary program.

The board this morning also adopted a resolution supporting an application for planning funds for a comprehensive Emergency Medical Services System in 29 Eastern counties included in Health Services Area VI.

Five Propose Public Financing Be Extended To Senate Seat Races

WASHINGTON (AP) — Decrying the increased flow of special interest money into congressional campaigns, five senators today introduced a bill to extend public financing to Senate races.

They also said similar legislation would be filed soon dealing with races for the House.

"The very success of public financing of presidential elections makes the public financing of congressional elections especially urgent," the five said in a joint statement.

Introducing the measure were Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Dick Clark, D-Iowa, Charles Mathias, R-Md., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa.

President Carter has voiced his support for public financing of congressional elections.

Their bill would establish spending limits of 20 cents for each registered voter or $300,000, whichever is greater. It also would limit candidates to spending $35,000 of their own money in a primary or general election. The limit would apply only to candidates who accepted public funds.

In cases where one candidate turned down public funds and spent more than the limit, it would be waived for his opponent even if the opponent was accepting public funds.

Candidates of major parties would receive in public funds 25 per cent of the spending limit for their state. In addition, they would receive matching funds for every contribution they receive of $100 or less.

Major parties are defined as those that received at least 25 per cent of the vote in the previous election.

Other parties could qualify for matching funds by raising 25 per cent of the spending limit or $250,000, whichever was smaller.

In their statement, the senators cited statistics released recently by the public interest group Common Cause. Common Cause said special interest groups contributed $22.6 million to congressional candidates in 1976, an increase of 80 per cent over the 1974 figure.

Pair Arrested For Bogus Bills

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Two New York men have been arrested and charged with passing counterfeit $100 bills in this area, local authorities reported this morning.

Charged by federal and state authorities were Ronald Eugene Stevenson, 30, and Willie Rayfield Johnston, 28, both of Brooklyn. Authorities said about $1,000 in bogus money was seized.

Bond was set at $10,000 each pending a federal hearing in New Bern March 17.

Amy Will Have A Tree House

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the President's daughter, Amy, has visitors at the White House, she'll have a place to entertain them.

President Carter told those at the dedication of Children's Hospital National Medical Center Sunday that he and Amy have designed a tree house for the front yard of the White House.

"We'll let you see it when it's finished," Carter promised reporters. Amy is 9.

Bank Is Robbed In Surf City

SURF CITY, N.C. (AP) — A branch of the North Carolina Bank in Surf City was robbed this morning by two armed men, authorities said.

No injuries were reported and the men escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

EXERCISE?

I am calling on behalf of a group of young black women in Farmville who are interested in exercising after work to lose weight. We're willing to pay. Ms. D. S.

Hotline talked to Fred Sauls, director of the Farmville Recreation Department. He said, if there is sufficient interest, he feels sure some women's calisthenics and dance programs could be started within the Department. He invited you and other interested Farmville citizens to call him at 753-4741.

APOLOGY RECEIVED

I am a student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, but Greenville's my hometown. In September, 1976 I sent a $6 check to the College Store Service Bureau for a year's subscription to Essence Magazine. I have received many letters from Essence's Subscriber Service Department asking for payment. I've explained that I paid in advance several times, but now I've gotten a notice that they're turning the account over to a collection agency. P. H.

Hotline wrote to Michael Jackson of Essence's Subscriber Service Department, enclosing a photostatic copy of your receipt showing payment in full. You report less than 10 days later that you have received notice that the action of turning your account over to the collection agency has been withdrawn and that the company apologizes for "any inconvenience caused."

'Temporary Transplant' Of Baboon Hearts Eyed

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — South African heart surgeon Christiaan Barnard says he plans to transplant baboon hearts into humans as a temporary means of keeping a person alive in heart emergencies.

The plan appeared likely today to clash with beliefs of South Africa's powerful Dutch Reformed Church.

Barnard, who has specially tested baboons standing by at Cape Town's Groot Schuur Hospital, said over the weekend he would transplant a baboon's heart only as a last resort to save a patient's life.

The 53-year-old surgeon, who pioneered human heart transplants 10 years ago, said that because of rejection problems the baboon heart could give no more than a temporary respite to a dying patient.

"It (rejection) may take three or four weeks, but I'm not sure," Barnard said. But he estimated the temporary heart would beat long enough to allow the patient's own heart to make some recovery or to keep a patient alive until a suitable human heart became available.

The Rev. D. Beukes, moderator of the Reformed Church, to which most members of the ruling National Party belong, said the plan needed "careful consideration" by the church.

"One's first reaction is that it is not acceptable as it disregards the great difference the Lord made between man and ape when he created them," he said.

There was, he added, a "lot of difference" between the baboon plan and surgery which involved putting plastic valves into human hearts.

Barnard maintained his operation would not be the first in which animal organs had been inserted into humans. Chimpanzee kidneys had been tried in the early days of renal transplants, he said.

Wants Women Workers To Stay Ashore

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works for an oil company, offshore seven days and onshore seven days. I'm just a housewife who can't even get to her own husband when he's working offshore, but listen to this, Abby. There are seven females who are now working side by side with the men on that rig, thanks to the government and Women's Lib!

Those women also eat and sleep under the same roof as the men. My husband says his company is bound by law to hire women, and there's nothing he can do about it.

There are plenty of jobs for decent women on land, so why would a decent woman want to work on an oil rig with a bunch of men? They say these women demanded equal rights. Where the hell are MY rights?

My husband says I don't have to worry—that no funny business is going on and the men treat the women just like they were guys. Do you really buy that, Abby?

M.B. FROM TEXAS

DEAR M.B.: Yes, I buy it. And furthermore, any woman who works alongside a man on an oil rig is earning her bread the hard way. If she wanted to cash in on her femininity, I can think of several other jobs she could have chosen.

DEAR ABBY: My son got married, and a week later he came back home because he learned that the woman he married prefers women to men. Her lesbian friend moved in the day my son moved out.

The problem is what to do with the wedding gifts. Some say to return them, others say that if the wedding ceremony has been performed and the couple has lived together—even if only for a few days—the gifts don't have to be returned.

My son wants to do the right thing, but he's not sure what that is. Also, what should he tell people?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Your son should return the gifts that came from his friends and family. And no explanation is in order.

DEAR ABBY: That 18-year-old girl who wanted to know how to refuse a date with a 55-year-old man without hurting his feelings reminded me of something that happened to me when I was 45 and carrying mail.

Every morning I exchanged pleasant greetings with a pretty young secretary to whom I delivered office mail. (She looked about 20.)

One day she said, "Know what? The people in this office say I have a crush on you, but that's ridiculous, because you're way too old for me."

I said nothing, but started to wrack my brain for a cute comeback to her rather startling pronouncement. The next morning I had the answer.

Handing her the mail I said, "Say, I've decided that YOU'RE too old for me."

"Too old for you?" she said. "And how did you figure that out?"

"Well, if you were 3 or 4 years old," I replied, "I could hold you on my lap, put my arms around you, kiss you, and no one would think a thing of it—not even my wife. So you see, you're just too old for me."

LOU IN HAMILTON, OHIO

DEAR LOU: Beautiful!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Product Warranty Is Easier To Read

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Shoppers trying to figure out what is and is not covered by a product warranty should find it easier these days thanks to new federal regulations.

The rules, which were issued by the Federal Trade Commission and took effect Jan. 1, provide help before and after you buy. They apply to written warranties on all products costing more than $15.

Note: there is no difference between a warranty and a guarantee. Both mean the manufacturer has promised to stand behind his product.

The FTC regulations, developed in accordance with the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act of 1975, do not require companies to give guarantees.

They also apply only to written warranties, spelling out the form they must take if they are issued. The regulations do not cover implied warranties, which come automatically with virtually every sale and are guaranteed by state law.

Written warranties must be available for shoppers to look at before they buy an item. The warranties must be easy to read and understand—no fine print or complicated legal terms.

Every condition of the warranty must be spelled out, in writing. Assurances by a sales clerk that something is included don't count.

The term "money back guarantee" and similar advertising promises are not covered by the federal warranty law, but usually fall under state legislation. An FTC spokesman says that if a company advertises that you will get your money back, you should be able to get satisfaction—from the business itself or from local courts or government agencies.

There are two basic kinds of written warranties: full and limited. The use of these terms is strictly regulated by the Warranty Act, but the details can be confusing.

A full warranty provides that:

—A defective product will be fixed free of charge, including removal and reinstallation if necessary. If it can't be fixed, you get a replacement or a refund.

—The product will be fixed within a reasonable time. (The rules do not spell out what is meant by "reasonable.")

—You will not have to do anything unreasonable to get warranty service. (Again, the rules do not define "unreasonable.") By way of example, the FTC says that shipping a piano to the factory is unreasonable.)

—The warranty is good for anyone who owns the product during the warranty period. (This means you can give an item to someone as a gift and not have to worry.)

A full warranty does not have to cover an entire product. It could, for example, apply only to the picture tube on a TV set. Check to see which parts are included. Products may be covered by two warranties—a full warranty for some parts and a limited one for others.

A limited warranty also provides for repairs and replacements, but it is less complete. A limited warranty may: cover parts, but not labor; require you to return a product to the store for service; cover only the first buyer; and include a charge for handling.

The implied warranty is automatic and does not come under the FTC guidelines.

The most common implied warranty, according to the FTC, is that of "merchantability." This means that the product will do what it's supposed to. A toaster must toast, for example.

Another implied warranty is that of "fitness for a particular purpose." If you rely on the seller's advice that a product is good for a particular use, it must serve the stated purpose. As the FTC puts it, "A seller who suggests a certain sleeping bag for zero-degree weather warrants that the sleeping bag will be suitable for zero degrees."

There are several steps to take if you have a problem.

1. Make sure you have contacted the right person. If the warranty is issued by a manufacturer, it may not help to go back to the store where you bought a product. Be specific about your problem and what you think you are owed.

2. Contact a local consumer protection office or complaint center.

3. Check to see if your warranty includes a provision requiring you to take your complaint to an arbitration service, such as an industry panel or the Better Business Bureau.

Over Inch Of Rain Here On Weekend

Over an inch of rain fell this weekend on the Greenville area, according to Greenville Utilities Commission reports.

A total of 1.11 inches of rainfall was measured over the weekend. Rainfall from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday was 0.63 inches, with 0.48 inches of rain recorded since midnight Sunday.

The temperature was 48 degrees at 8 a.m. today, and the Tar River was gauged at 9.1 feet. Winds were out of the northwest at 5 miles per hour.

Mayo Allen, superintendent of public works, reported street collapses due to the rain on Third Street and Country Club Drive. He suggested that any other road problems due to the weather be reported to him as soon as possible.

According to Ed Yancey, county agricultural extension agent, soil moisture had been low before the rains and the precipitation should help the situation.

"By and large the rains will be good for the farmer," he said.

"Our soil moisture was low, so anything we get to build up the level is good. I don't know of anything it's hurting."

Sunday Saw 2 Collisions

An estimated $850 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 6:15 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 85 feet East of the Evans Street intersection.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Mary Lee Moore of Lucama and Janet Lou Miller of Albemarle.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the Moore car and $400 to the Miller vehicle.

A 4:20 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard just west of the Evans Street intersection, involved cars driven by Henry Weil III of Goldsboro and Julius Curl Currin of Raleigh.

Damage from that collision was estimated at $200 to the Weil car and $150 to the Currin vehicle.

No charges were reported in either mishap.

Call Greenville Utilities immediately. Anytime day or night. We'll get a serviceman to your home or location to correct the problem.

While you're waiting for him to get there, open a window, make sure you use no electrical switches. Extinguish any open flames and evacuate the area.

If you don't know what natural gas smells like, stop by our office and pick up a scratch and sniff leaflet.

Because even though natural gas contains no poisonous ingredients, a leak can become hazardous if combustible gas pockets are allowed to form. Which makes it important for you to know what natural gas smells like.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Vernell Grantham of Rt. 1, Goldsboro, and the late Mr. James Grantham, and Mr.

Ralph Roberts of Rt. 3, Salisbury, and the late Mrs. Margaret Roberts.

A program of wedding music was presented by Olive Lewis of Grantham, organist, and Karen Weinberger of Greenville, guitarist.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Phil Grantham, wore an empire styled gown of satin. The bodice and sleeves were covered with chantilly lace and the front was accented with covered buttons. The attached chapel length train was trimmed in matching lace and covered buttons.

Her chapel length veil was edged with chantilly lace and was attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, daisies, carnations and ivy.

The matron of honor was Judy Roberts of Winterville. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Susi McDaniel of Greenville, Mrs. Dean Davis and Mrs. Betty Franklin, both of Goldsboro, and Mrs. Kathy Shelton of Tarboro. Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Ann Walker of Littleton, Miss Nancy Boyd of Raleigh, and Mrs. Bonnie Moon of Snow Camp.

The flower girl was Lesi Roberts of Winterville, and ring bearer was Gabriel Parker of Grantham.

The best man was John B. Roberts of Winterville. Ushers included Ty Roberts of Rt. 3, Ayden, and Ralph Roberts Jr. of Winterville, brothers of the bridegroom, Randy Grantham of Grantham, brother of the bride, and Glen Dembroski of Greenville.

Following a wedding trip to the Docono Mountains, Pa., the couple will reside at Rt. 2, Greenville.

The bride is employed by the East Carolina University Medical School and the bridegroom is employed by Associated Mechanical Contractors.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The refreshment table was decorated in blue and white. Danny Fitts of Greenville presided at the register.

An after-rehearsal dinner was held at the Quality Court, Goldsboro, Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Gray Shelton of Tarboro were host and hostess.

On The Young Side

By JANET GANTT

Rose High School's Inter-Club Council finished its drive for the Pitt County Heart Association.

Featuring the faculties of Rose High and E. B. Aycock Junior High School, a basketball game was held between the two school teams. Art Club members sponsored the project which raised several hundred dollars.

Other clubs of the council held fund raising event earlier in the month including: Math and Science Ecology Club members staged an all night rock-a-thon; a "crazy legs" carnival during lunch was sponsored by the Health Career and Anchor Clubs; Keywanettes worked at various locations on a city-wide bake sale;

The Spanish and French Clubs held an anything goes-a-thon; Chess Club members marched in a Heart Fund walk-a-thon; and the National Honor Society contributed from its treasury.

The combined total from the council will be over one thousand dollars. The crowning of the Queens of Hearts will take place in a special school assembly.

The Art Club's basketball game aided the school's drive. Staging the contest, members approached Rose High and Aycock teachers about participating in the big game. After lining up two teams, the game was set for Tuesday night. Rose High's faculty proved to be number one.

Two Rose High seniors received scholarships to the colleges of their choice.

Pam Bath, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bath, was awarded the John Motley Morehead Scholarship for the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. The scholarship is presented to outstanding students for their academic, athletic and extra curricular activities.

A noted musician, Pam held the lead role in "My Fair Lady." She was a Community Ambassador and a marshal.

Another senior, Robin Mansfield, is the recipient of a scholarship to Wingate College. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Mansfield, Robin served as Keywanettes' secretary and proved outstanding academically.

Congratulations to Pam and Robin.

COLLEGE SERIES AIMED AT THE AGING

CHICAGO (AP) — "Emphasis Aging" is the theme of a series of weekly meetings designed to help older people grow, being held at Loop College, one of the City Colleges of Chicago.

The program, funded by the Illinois Department on Aging, "is open to persons who wish to increase their usefulness to others in the adventure of aging," according to Mary Herrick, in her '80s' and director of the program for the elderly at the Chicago City-Wide College.

Logic In Edmisten's Proposal

Atty Gen. Rufus Edmisten has told the Legislature he will recommend to the governor that sentences of 500 young people in jail for possession of marijuana be commuted.

Edmisten said such a move would make room for the rapists, murderers and other hardened criminals.

You don't have to favor use of marijuana to see the logic of the Edmisten recommendation.

Throwing young people in prison with hardened criminals for mere possession of marijuana, when they have committed no other offenses, doesn't make much sense. A simple fine would be far more logical.

We can make a start toward more sensible enforcement of the law on simple marijuana possession by releasing those who have been sent to jail for this petty violation of the law.

Growers Must Watch Tobacco Trends

Dr. John Rice of N. C. State University says the United States' share of the world tobacco market has fallen from 27.7 percent in 1965 to 20.8 percent in 1975.

Quality is the key to the future of United States' tobacco exports. Fortunately U. S. growers have a variety of types and qualities to choose from.

Our tobacco growers will have to watch world tobacco trends and demands very carefully in the years ahead if we are to avoid losing even more of our share of the international tobacco market.

THIS AFTERNOON

Target: Auto Tax Cheats

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Local tax supervisors, state officials, and a group of legislators are still trying to thrash out disagreements over some way to catch the tax cheaters who don't pay for their cars.

State Rep. Robert A. Jones, D-Rutherford, is currently drafting proposed legislation to close the loopholes which cost local tax coffers an estimated $15 million per year.

Jones was chairman of the Committee for the Study of the Property Tax System during the past two years, and pushed in that legislative study group a method to require the listing and payment of local taxes at the time the owner gets his state license plate.

No Support
"I couldn't get enough support . . . but since the committee didn't see fit to include this recommendation in its report, I will try to push it myself," Jones said.

He has the backing of county tax supervisors across the state and a number of fellow legislators. He is still running into arguments from both the state's auto dealers, and the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

That same study committee under the chairmanship of former State Rep. James Long of Alamance County over two years ago turned down the idea of requiring payment of an auto excise tax in place of the local property tax. Jones was opposed to that approach at the time, but he and Long—still a member of the tax study committee—have agreed on the proposed approach to be submitted in this session of the General Assembly.

As Jones describes it, the system would work this way:

As the present five-year auto license plates expire, the state would shift to a staggered registration system instead of all registrations expiring at the same time (Feb. 15) as they do now.

That would relieve the long lines and the rush for plates; it would also relieve the need for hiring part-time help to handle the crush of applicants.

Based on the last digit of the auto plate, registration would expire at the first of the month, with renewal required by the 15th of that month. Tentatively, the first expiration date would be March 1, with plates ending with the numeral "One" up for action.

A flexible system would be built into the law allowing individuals who own more than one car to either get their registration done at the same time — or on a staggered schedule if they would be hard pressed to come up with the cash at one time.

BILL NOBLITT

Equal Value
The State Department of Transportation would maintain a master list of values for all new or used cars so that the levy would be equalized statewide rather than based on local lists which now vary.

The valuations would be effective on January 1 each year. In the first year of implementation, the owner would pay only a percentage of the local property tax based on number of months effective. Afterwards, a full year's payment would be due.

The sale of auto license plates would be shifted to the local tax offices where property tax and registration payments would be required at the same time. The percentage fee now paid private contractors to handle license sales would go instead to the county tax office to pay for that operation.

Jones estimates that 15 percent of the vehicles in North Carolina are not listed for local property taxes, and studies have shown some fleet owners who register their vehicles in counties known not to check tax books against state vehicle lists. Those lists are available from the state, but require a lot of time to cross-check. Some larger counties pay up to $60,000 a year to cross-check. It's worth the effort, however, with some catching up to $500,000 in unlisted taxes.

Car dealers complain that the proposed change would hurt sales because prospective buyers occasionally demand the dealer install license plates as a condition for purchase. Having to pay the local tax to get the plate would complicate things.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Muting U.S. 'Messenger'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Carter's new team at the Pentagon has not quite killed the Air Force messenger bringing grim tidings about Soviet civilian defense, but the message has now been tuned down to the point of inaudibility — a development with far-reaching implications in national security policy.

At the least, the Defense Department is now requiring Air Force intelligence to put its alarming, widely-heard briefing about Soviet civilian defense in the context of a more subdued appraisal by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Indeed, it is possible that the Air Force briefing will be stopped entirely (though the Pentagon officially denies this).

Curbing or ending the briefing is interpreted within the intelligence community as putting the wraps on independent Air Force studies of Soviet civil defense. What's more, non-government analysts who are dependent, directly or indirectly, on federal funds feel they cannot continue their studies if the Pentagon disapproves.

At stake here are plans by Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, taking his lead from President Carter, to hold down strategic weapons spending to the bare requirements of minimum deterrence. Those plans could be confounded by prospects of a Soviet civilian defense program permitting the Soviet Union to survive a nuclear war in incomparably better condition than the U.S. Since the U.S. is unwilling and probably unable to respond with civil defense of its own, the answer is high strategic weapons spending.

Accordingly, Dr. Brown's minimum deterrence theories would have a hard time coexisting with warnings about Soviet plans for evacuation of industry and population sounded by Maj. Gen. George Keegan, recently retired chief of Air Force intelligence. Keegan's analysts the past 18 months have brought to congressional and public attention Soviet progress in civil defense that had been ignored by the CIA.

The signal that the Air Force message was being toned down came out Feb. 22 and 23, when Secretary Brown and Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, appeared in closed-door session before the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee. Not even a sanitized transcript has been released, but there is no doubt what was said.

Dr. Brown asserted he had no intention of "muzzling" the Air Force and added that "dissenting views" by Air Force intelligence "have a right to be heard." But he also asserted that members of Congress will be provided with a "balanced intelligence community view" — not just the Air Force view.

Gen. Brown testified he heard the Keegan briefing some three months ago, and indicated he considered it out of line with the overall intelligence community view. Those present felt both the General and the Secretary were most annoyed with the Air Force briefing.

The extent of that unhappiness was manifested two days later across the continent. An Air Force briefer, who had told the Soviet civil defense story of a government-sponsored meeting of businessmen in San Francisco a few days earlier, was cancelled at a similar session in Seattle Feb. 25.

One Air Force officer has passed the word that all such briefings have been suspended by Gen. Brown's own order. According to high intelligence sources, Keegan's successor as Air Force intelligence chief — Maj. Gen. Ernest Tighe — not only takes a less alarmed view of Soviet civil defense but is not enthusiastic about briefings to Congressmen and the public.

In response, a Defense Department spokesman told us Secretary Brown has not ordered the briefings discontinued. The Air Force officially says Gen. Tighe's version of the briefing merely omits Keegan's speculation about Soviet intentions (although, in fact, Keegan expressed inability to fully divine what the Russians are up to).

All this is interpreted, prematurely or not, by analysts inside and outside the government as the effective death knell for their operations. Although Dr. Brown testified at his Senate confirmation hearing that "I am open to information" about Soviet civil defense, they feel the Secretary — aided by the eager-to-conform

CRAMMING FOR THE BIG TESTS AHEAD!

By ART BUCHWALD

Purely Internal Affair

WASHINGTON — The "human rights" issue in the Soviet Union has the Kremlin terribly upset. The question is why? I posed this problem to my good friend Gregor, a minor functionary at the Soviet Embassy with high KGB connections.

"Gregor," I said, "why on earth are you people so excited about a few malcontents in your country? Surely you, as the first or second most powerful nation in the world, can stand a little criticism from a few dissidents who march to a different drummer."

"Is personal matter and none of your business," Gregor said sourly.

"I'm not chiding you, Gregor, for your stand," I said. "I'm just curious why the full power of the state has come down with such force on a handful of men? Is the Communist system so fragile that it can't allow one or two people to complain about the political condition in your country?"

Gregor scowled. "Do you want detente or don't you want detente?"

"Of course, I want detente."

"Then stop asking me such stupid questions."

"Gregor, that's no way to talk to a friend who gave you an entire set of blueprints for the Edsel. I'm trying to understand what makes your leaders tick. Why do you keep arresting people for speaking out for a little more freedom?"

"There is no such thing as a little freedom," Gregor said. "There is either freedom or no freedom. America wants to destroy us with freedom."

"We do not," I protested. "We like you just the way you are. But frankly, you're very boring people. You keep saying the same thing over and over again. It's nice to hear a fresh voice from Moscow every once in a while, even if he doesn't have a following."

"How do you know he doesn't have a following?" "I just assumed it," I said. "I can't believe, from what I read in the Soviet press, that these people are nothing more than maniacs who belong in mental institutions. Do they really have many supporters in your country?"

"We don't know and we're not going to find out," Gregor said.

"Gregor, you sound frightened. Do you really believe that a few writers and scientists would drive you into a free state?"

"Not a free state—a Capitalist state. We don't want any part of Capitalism."

"I don't blame you. It's a messy system. We have gas shortages, coffee at $3 a pound, and you can't even find a parking place when you want it. But surely Sakharov and Ginzburg, and a few others, don't have it in their power to make the Soviet Union a Capitalist country."

"Maybe yes—maybe no. But that is for us to decide. Just because we buy your wheat does not give your President an excuse to write to one of our traitors."

"President Carter didn't mean any harm. He answers all his mail. It's a habit he picked up when he was selling peanuts."

Gregor hit his fist on the table. "Well, we won't stand for it. How would you like it if Brezhnev wrote to one of your dissidents, Ronald Reagan?"

"I wouldn't mind, but I don't think Reagan would like it. He might want to run for President in 1980 and a letter from Brezhnev would kill his chances."

"Why should Americans care what we do to our writers and scientists?" he shouted at me.

Claims Under Review

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department lawyers are reviewing nearly $16 million in legal claims from people who say they were seriously harmed by swine flu shots.

The vaccinations were suspended Dec. 16 after 242 persons among the 41 million who had the shots developed a mysterious paralysis known as Guillain-Barre syndrome. The program recently was reinstated for elderly persons and others considered a high-risk for swine flu.

Near the end of last week, 169 persons had filed claims against the Public Health Service for damages totalling $15,945,985, said department spokesman John Russell.

Nine of the claims involve people who died after having the inoculations. Their families are seeking $2.2 million. Most of the deaths followed heart attacks, Russell said.

The largest claim so far was brought by the family of Vincent Manero, who died Oct. 15, three days after receiving a swine flu shot. A coroner ruled that the Philadelphia man died from a heart attack, but the family contends the flu shot may have brought on the death.

The Manero family is seeking $1.1 million.

Russell said department officials have received 2,065 inquiries from people considering filing claims.

Under the procedure, the government will consider paying damages to persons injured by the government-sponsored inoculation program. Individuals may pursue their claims in a lawsuit if they're unhappy with the amount the government agrees to pay.

Russell said nine lawsuits already have been filed by individuals who chose to go to court without submitting claims through the administrative process. He said the department will ask the courts to dismiss the suits and instruct the individuals to file the administrative claims first.

The claims are filed against the U.S. Public Health Service, which directed the nationwide immunization program, but they're referred to the Justice Department for processing.

Meanwhile, a Harris Survey said today that Americans, by a 55 per cent to 26 per cent margin, oppose the decision to resume swine flu shots for the elderly and for those considered a high risk for the illness.

Harris also said Americans feel by 49 to 35 per cent that the government warnings about the danger of a possible swine flu epidemic were exaggerated.

Ambushes Await Housing Boom

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While warnings abound about prices and interest rates that are said to be disastrously high, a housing boom seems to be in the making.

To some extent the pace of activity that already exists seems to defy the forecasts of some analysts, and perhaps demonstrates again that necessity somehow overcomes all obstacles, including price.

By the end of this year the median price paid for a single-family home is expected to be $50,000, based on field reports from the National Association of Realtors. Interest rates remain rather high, between 8.5 and 9 per cent.

Nevertheless, some housing economists are now raising their estimates for starts this year, with some even suggesting there might be more than 2 million, compared with 1.537 million in 1976.

If that level is reached, it will be the first time since 1973, when 2,045,000 starts were registered, that the 2 million-figure has been exceeded.

Projections by the realtors and by the U.S. League of Savings Association, the biggest mortgage lenders, fall just short of that mark. The realtors expect 1.8 million starts, the league 1.9 million.

These projections remain unchanged despite a plunge in the figures for January, when icy and stormy weather prevented much activity over the eastern one-half or two-thirds of the country.

While the projected strength itself is noteworthy, some of the breakdown is even more surprising. Kenneth Thygeson and Dennis Jacobs, economists with the league, expect single-family units to surpass 1972's record of 1.3 million.

In view of the warnings about high prices and mortgage rates, this expectation is especially interesting. Single-family units, as opposed to multi-family rental housing, indicate willingness by individuals to spend.

Again, despite encouragement by some analysts to build houses smaller in order to minimize cost increases, official government figures indicate that houses built in recent years have been somewhat larger than before.

Among the reasons said to be making the heightened activity possible are the availability of money and the low down payments required.

The median down payment for all new homes sold in 1975 was just 10.2 per cent, with more than one out of every four buyers putting down less than 5 per cent. Four per cent of sales were for cash.

The long-term outlook for housing also is good, at least in the view of the realtors. For the remainder of this decade, they say, the demographic factors underlying the market will be exceptionally strong.

But Thygeson and Jacobs warn that the "boom," a term they use, might evaporate if the country returns to double-digit inflation which, they say, could reappear as early as the first quarter of next year.

The weakness in the outlook, they say, is the "inevitable energy crunch" that could restrict the supply of goods and services, and consequently force up prices.

People Back Home Bird-Book Author Is Visitor To Area Reached Senators

By SAM D. BUNDY
N. C. House of Representatives

Well, the issue that has been the center of attention so far this session is settled until 1979. I am speaking of the ERA.

On February 9, the House voted 61 to 55 in favor of the ERA and then for the past three weeks it was a tug of war in the Senate. Seldom have I seen such intense pressure on both sides of an issue. Big name people were brought in from the outside by both sides. Pres. Carter called some of the senators and Gov. Hunt invited some to his office for discussion in an attempt to get the issue passed, but to no avail. Many think the turning point came at the public hearing for the opponents. The 2,000 people at the rally and the 1,200 people at the hearing made an impact. One senator called this "the voice of the people."

Former Sen. Sam Ervin had some influence in the final decision. Incidentally, Chief Justice Susie Sharp called her state senator and expressed her objections. The basic reason that the ERA was defeated, in my opinion, was that the senators really heard from the people back home.

On Tuesday, Mar. 1, the Senate met the issue head on. The proponents talked on the issue for one hour and a half. The opponents never opened their mouths because they knew they had the votes against it. A planning of a strategy conference on Monday night by the opponents convinced them that they had the ERA beat by two votes. They were right and the vote on second reading was 26 against and 24 for. What is known in parliamentary circles as the clincher was then applied by a 27 to 21 vote. That did it and the issue cannot come before the General Assembly again this session. We move on now to issues such as the death penalty, veto, governor successions and liquor-by-the-drink.

See you next week.

Offer Free Checkup Of Blood Pressure

Area residents were reminded today the first of a weekly series of free blood pressure clinics will be held Wednesday night between 7:00 and 9:00 at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Billy Barnes, chairman of the fraternity's Civic Affairs committee, said the checkups would be performed by volunteer nurses, and the clinics would be held each Wednesday night through March. The clinics are being sponsored by the Moose.

The N.C. Heart Association endorses regular blood pressure checkups as an important way of detecting circulatory diseases. High blood pressure is a leading cause of disease and death in this country, with an estimated one in every six adults having some elevation of blood pressure.

Treatment of even moderate high blood pressure can prevent its dangerous end results — stroke and heart and kidney failure — and reduce the risk of heart attack.

Barnes advised persons having their blood pressure checked to make a second visit for comparative purposes.

Big Year For Sale Of Bonds

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pitt County during the fourth quarter of 1976 were $196,726, according to R. W. Howard, county volunteer chairman.

Howard said that total sales for the year amounted to $797,723 in the county.

North Carolinians, according to the chairman, purchased more U.S. Savings Bonds in 1976 than any year since 1945 with sales for the year totaling $103,363,568 or more than $5.4 million above 1975 figures.

Fourth quarter E and H Bond sales in the state amounted to $26,585,110, some 6.2 per cent higher than 1975.

Nationally, total cash sales of E and H Bonds for 1976 amounted to $7,755 million or 7.4 per cent above 1975.

Robber Paused To Feed A Baby

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — One of the robbers who held a family at bay while ransacking their suburban Detroit home this weekend had heart — he paused to feed a crying infant before leaving.

Three or four men wearing ski masks burst into the home Saturday, bound three family members with telephone cords, placed bedsheets over them and searched the house for some 40 minutes, Southfield police said.

When a 6-month-old boy woke up crying, one of the bandits asked the family where the baby's bottle was kept, warmed it, and fed the infant, said the family, which asked not to be identified.

Gen. Brown — has closed the door.

Muting the messenger will certainly help congressional advocates of reduced defense spending who have been outraged by the Keegan briefing. What it will not do is change the ominous course of events in the Soviet Union which surely is rearranging the world balance of power.

Michael Godfrey, bird lover, photographer, naturalist and author of Winter Birds Of The Carolinas And Nearby States, presented a biological profile and color pictures of the birds who migrate in the Carolinas region during winter, according to Godfrey.

Representing six years of patient field work in photographing over a 100 birds, Winter Birds Of The Carolinas And Nearby States, presents a biological profile and color pictures of the birds who migrate in the Carolinas region during winter, according to Godfrey.

"I produced the book to let people have an almost immediate access to identifying the birds they see in the region. I made a concerted effort to make most of the photographs myself," Godfrey said.

Godfrey said that he has always liked birds and his favorite types of birds are the birds of prey.

"As a child I watched the birds in the fields and woods on our Northern Virginia farm. My favorite kind of birds are the birds of prey. For instance the Red Shouldered Hawk, they are the most numerous and do nothing but good. The Peregrine Falcon is also a fascinating bird because it is the fastest creature. It can move as fast as 300 m.p.h., but it may be a wiped out breed. The Chapel Hill and Durham bird clubs got one on a Christmas count this year."

Godfrey noted that the bird population in the region is essential to a well-balanced ecology.

"If there were no birds in this region, there probably would be no other animal forms, only plants because the insects would take over. During the last decade the opinion of birds and the essentials of the natural world have improved," he said.

Godfrey said that two major field guides, one by Roger Peterson and the other by Golden Press have helped civilize bird watching. He said that his book is not a field guide but rather a reference book.

"I hope that my photographs give people a chance for identifying the birds and promotes a progressive development of a relationship with birds and the natural world."

Godfrey attended Virginia Military Institute and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he received degrees in economics and accounting. He worked for the UNC-Chapel Hill office of Assistants and Procedures and designed computer accounting systems. He served in the Air Force in Asia from 1963-65. Since then, he has worked as a flight instructor and commercial pilot, a management consultant, and a free-lance nature writer and photographer.

In 1975 Godfrey wrote a book entitled A Closer Look, published by the Sierra Club. He is presently working on two books to be published by the Sierra Club, A Nature's Guide To The Habitats Of The Piedmont and a book about scavengers.

Mark Birthday By Visitation

A delegation from the St. John Missionary Baptist Church in Falkland visited the home of their pastor, the Rev. J. R. Person, in Farmville Saturday.

The highlight of the occasion was a birthday presentation sponsored by the Pastor's Aid Club, led by the president, Mrs. Ruby Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wood, special guests, also made a presentation.

Firm Plans Build Center

WASHINGTON, N.C. — National Spinning Co. officials announced plans to build a Marketing and Distribution Center here near the firm's present spinning facilities.

Henry C. Humphries, vice president in charge of manufacturing, reported that the new center will contain 80,000 square feet of space and be in full operation within six months.

According to Humphries, the construction will result in approximately 80 new jobs at the Beaufort County operation.

National Spinning Co. located in Beaufort County in 1954 with a spinning operation that involved about 100 people. By 1974, the official related, about 1,200 people were employed at the firm.

Following construction of the Washington plant, facilities were planned and opened in Whiteville, Warsaw and Beulahville, he said.

National Spinning manufactures synthetic yarns.

New VYDATE two-shot tobacco plan stops both nematodes and flea beetles.

Now you can apply VYDATE preplant incorporated in your tobacco fields for nematodes, and later add VYDATE to your transplant water for flea beetles and nematodes.

This new VYDATE plan gives you proven, effective protection against your two worst pest problems. With both nematodes and flea beetles under control, you can look forward to vigorous early growth leading to uniform flowering, and larger, more uniform leaves at harvest. Here's the two-shot plan:

Shot one: Broadcast VYDATE preplant and incorporate to a depth of 4 to 6 inches; then form your beds from treated soil. No waiting period is required. The preplant treatment can be made right up to the time of transplanting. VYDATE kills rootknot and lesion nematodes on contact. Then VYDATE moves into tobacco roots for systemic kill of feeding nematodes.

Shot two: Add VYDATE to your transplant water when transplanting young plants. VYDATE quickly moves into the plants to stop flea beetles as they feed.

And this second VYDATE treatment gives you "booster shot" protection against nematodes. VYDATE in the transplant water needs no rainfall to start it working, and the systemic protection won't wash off. Just one economical, liquid product does the whole job.

Check out this new VYDATE two-shot tobacco plan with your dealer now.

As VYDATE is a highly toxic chemical and protective equipment is recommended, read and follow labeling instructions and warnings carefully.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, pausing after last week's rally. Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in the late-morning tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

But the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up a fraction in early trading, was off .17 at 953.29 by 11:30 a.m.

Big Board volume came to 4.64 million shares for the first hour.

Analysts noted some favorable economic news in the Conference Board's report of a surge in appropriations for capital spending by the country's 1,000 largest manufacturers in the last quarter of 1976.

Capital spending is widely seen as a key factor in the future progress of the economy.

But investors seemed unwilling to respond much to the figures. Brokers said last week's 20.03-point rally in the Dow was viewed with some skepticism because it came on relatively light volume, averaging 18.04 million shares a day.

Gold stocks added to their recent gains as bullion prices continued to rise in London.

Homestake Mining rose 3/4 to 43 1/4; ASA 1/2 to 23 1/2; Dome Mines 3/4 to 50 3/4; and Campbell Red Lake 1/4 to 29 1/4.

The Big Board's composite index edged up .04 to 55.02 in the first hour. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .14 at 111.61.

Scoliosis Screening Is Scheduled At Schools

A scoliosis (side-to-side curvature of the spine) Screening Program will be held in the sixth grades of the Greenville and Pitt County Schools during March and early April.

The announcement was made today by Roger Barnaby, director of the Pitt County Health Department.

School screening of this age group usually reveals some evidence of scoliosis in about 15 per cent of the children. About two to four out of every 1,000 usually need active treatment. The vast majority who do have a mild curve have the type that will not progress to a more severe curve.

Scoliosis screening is important because surgery can often be avoided if children are treated early enough, curves which progress tend to do so during periods of rapid growth, and scoliosis which does progress can cause severe curvature which can interfere with the function of the heart and lungs and increase the risk of early death.

Bracing is often used if scoliosis is detected at an early stage, to prevent the curve from progressing.

The initial screening will be carried out in cooperation with the Division of Health Services, Crippled Children's Program by the school health nurses of the Pitt County Health Department and the medical-social counselors of the Pitt County Schools.

The screening is relatively simple. A forward bending test in which each child is observed is used. If referral is needed, a child may go to a private physician or be seen at a special orthopedic clinic to be held at the Health Department in mid-May. The initial visit to the Health Department Orthopedic Clinic is free of charge, including any x-rays needed.

Approval for the initial school screening will be obtained in a letter to the parents of each child involved. Subsequent reports will be sent to the parents of each child who is believed to need further medical evaluation.

Anyone who would like further information about scoliosis or the scoliosis screening program in the schools may contact Martin MacDowell, Health Educator, or Ms. Marie Arnaud, School Health Coordinator of the Pitt County Health Department. The phone number is 752-4141.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Soror Patricia Johnson in Washington, N. C.

Real Estate Today

A REALISTIC APPROACH

During inflation (and we're in it), there's an excellent case for investing in real estate. Most of the investment is paid for with borrowed money. Someone else's fixed-dollar savings provides your mortgage money. Even though interest rates are up several notches from where they were, a mortgage loan is the only way the average consumer can borrow long-term money.

"This, then, is your big chance to turn inflation to your advantage. Your mortgage gives you full-price dollars to work with today. You then pay them back with cheaper dollars you will be earning for the next 20 to 30 years.

This isn't a cynical approach. It's realistic. In fact, it's one of the main reasons why many wealthy individuals continue to make big real estate investments. And you can do the same with a home that you own and need anyway.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at BLOUNT & BALL REALTY CO., 119 W. Third St., Greenville. Phone: 752-6163. We're here to help!

Wake Forest, UNC-Charlotte Get At-Large Bids

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

At-large invitations to the NCAA Tournament this weekend are a salute to Wake Forest and vindication for North Carolina-Charlotte.

The Deacons, 20-7, will meet Arkansas, 26-1, in a Midwest Regional first-round game Saturday at Norman, Okla. UNC-Charlotte, 23-3, faces the Mid-American Conference champion Sunday in a Midwest Regional game at Bloomington, Ind.

Wake Forest went down to the final game before losing the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season race to North Carolina and finished in a second-place tie with Clemson at 8-4.

The Deacons entered the ACC Tournament seeded second against last-place Virginia, but were upset 59-57.

"We still had hopes for an NCAA berth and never really felt that the door was completely closed," Coach Carl Tacy said Sunday in a telephone interview from Winston-Salem. "I think that we have reacted well to the bid and much of the pressure they (the players) carried with them from losing some very close games and the regular season ACC championship is pretty much dissipated."

Tacy expressed hope that the Deacons would resume playing up to their capabilities and gratitude that the selection committee considered Wake Forest's performance over the entire season.

"We're very happy that we were chosen to compete in the NCAA and had naturally felt down after the bad ending to our season — bad in the sense of losing close games," he said.

UNC-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose said his team's selection was "a compliment well-deserved" and would enhance the prestige of the fledgling Sun Belt Conference.

"It has to have a tremendous effect for the conference," Rose said in a telephone interview from Charlotte.

The 49ers' appearance in last year's National Invitation Tournament probably helped compensate for a lack of publicity.

"I think it's a culmination of things, but that has to be part of it," Rose said. "The people on the committee have to be aware that, as a young independent team, we can't crack the traditional schools because they won't play us. They say, 'We have nothing to gain.'"

The bid might distract the players from this week's Sun Belt Conference Tournament in Charlotte, Rose said, but added he was still confident.

"I'm sure that to some degree it will have an effect, but if the people here in the community really turn out, then we'll be in good shape," he said.

Koch Wins Citrus Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Gary Koch set out on the pro golf tour this year with a two goals in mind — one of an immediate nature, one more farranging.

"I wanted to win a tournament and make the top 60 (money-winners for the year)," the slender Koch said.

"More importantly, I wanted to continue to improve."

"I'm awful young, only 24. I figure if I can continue to improve every year, then by the time I'm 27 or 28 or 29, well, I ought to be just fine, be in fine shape."

He achieved that immediate goal — a tour victory and an almost-certain grasp on a spot in the top 60 money-winners — with his two-stroke triumph and the $40,000 first prize Sunday in the friendly, familiar confines of the 6,929-yard Rio

Pinar Country Club course, a favorite playground for Koch since the age of nine.

"I can't think of anyplace I'd rather win than here in central Florida," said Koch, a resident of nearby Temple Terrace, Fla., a product of the University of Florida whose legions of alumni followed Koch with almost constant cries of "Go, Gators, Go."

He won it with a gritty, last-round 70, two-under-par, and a 274 total over the hot, humid, heavily-wooded Rio Pinar course. That's where he played his first competitive tournament at the age of nine and the site of his victory, at 15, in the national pee-wee competition.

Koch started the day with a two-stroke advantage and never relinquished the top spot despite challenges from Joe Inman and South African Dale Hayes.

Hayes, who carried two putters in his bag, and the fidgety Inman, each with a closing 68, tied for second at 276.

HAPPY WINNER — Gary Koch holds up his trophy as the winner of the Florida Citrus Open in Orlando, Fla. Sunday. Koch got a two-stroke victory in the event with a 14-under-par 274. The Florida native edged Joe Inman and Dale Hayes for the win. (AP Wirephoto)

Schmaus Is Top Coach

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Coach Charlie Schmaus of Virginia Military's Southern Conference basketball champion Keydets says "the way our players have dedicated themselves this season and worked so hard for the championship, I feel almost guilty."

But Schmaus didn't feel so guilty Sunday he wasn't willing to accept the award as Southern Conference coach of the year, an honor he and many others felt should have gone last year to Bill Blair, whom Schmaus succeeded as coach of the Keydets.

Inheriting four starters from last year's conference championship team that went to the finals of the NCAA East Regional before losing to Rutgers, Schmaus compiled a 25-3 record, a second league title and an NCAA tourney shot Saturday night at Duquesne in Raleigh, N.C.

"I must say that I am surprised, though very honored. This award, along with our championship, is more than any first-year coach could hope for," said Schmaus.

The VMI coach received 46 votes in balloting by the Southern Conference Media Association to four for Bobby Cremins of Appalachian State and two for Joe Williams of Furman.

Cremins was the choice over Blair last year, and it appeared Schmaus benefited from backlash. Cremins did an even better job this season, leading the Mountaineers to a 17-12 record and the finals of the conference tournament, where they lost 69-67 in overtime to VMI.

A VMI graduate who held the school's career scoring record until this past season, Schmaus took over as head coach when Blair went to Colorado last spring. It was Schmaus who recruited most of the players now performing for the Keydets.

In the process of winning 21 straight games over one stretch and gaining national rankings of 20th and 19th before the streak ended, Schmaus has seen three of his players — Will Bynum, John Krovic and Ron Carter — surpass his scoring mark.

"I know some have said we've done what we've done with Bill's players, but I've been here five years and they have always been 'our' players," said Schmaus, who added:

"Coach Blair deserved this award last season and he didn't get it. Perhaps some credit for this should go to him now. But regardless, without the effort of these players and the dedication of my assistants, we would never have won 25 games and a conference title."

Phil Ford Paces All-Tourney Team

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina guard Phil Ford was the only unanimous selection to the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Tournament team announced here Sunday.

It was the third straight year the All-ACC guard was selected to the team.

Two other North Carolina players, guard John Kuester and forward Mike O'Koren, also were named to the squad, along with Virginia's Bobby Stokes and Marc Iavaroni and North Carolina State's Kenny Carr.

The team was chosen by the 83-member Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

O'Koren was second in balloting and Stokes was third after North Carolina outlasted Virginia 75-69 for the ACC championship Saturday night.

Iavaroni, named for a second straight year, was next in voting, while Carr, who made the squad in 1975, tied Kuester for the fifth spot.

Kuester also was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Ford scored 43 points in the Tar Heels' two games, including 26 against Virginia. O'Koren got just five points in the semifinal victory over N.C. State, but rebounded with 21 against the Cavaliers.

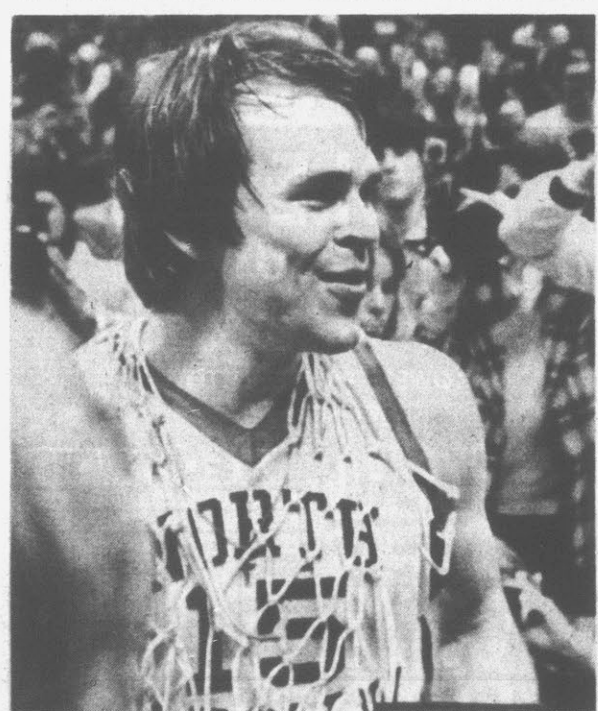

Kuester directed a makeshift North Carolina lineup in the crucial closing minutes against Virginia and totaled 14 points in the victory.

Stokes came off the bench to lead Virginia's ball control offense in all three games, scoring 16 points in the semifinal win over Clemson and 17 against North Carolina.

Iavaroni provided most of Virginia's inside muscle and hit a jump shot to beat Wake Forest 59-57 in the first game.

Carr tallied 36 points and 29 rebounds in two games for the Wolfpack.

Virginia's Steve Castellani led voting for the second team, which included Walter Davis of North Carolina, Mike Gminski of Duke, Billy Langlof of Virginia and Jim Spanarkel of Duke.

NIT Sports Some Top Players

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Invitation Tournament may not have the best teams in the country, but it has some of the best players.

National scoring leader Freeman Williams and his Portland State teammates will be sitting it out during postseason play,

Newberry Is Favorite

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Newberry College Indians, ranked No. 1 among small college basketball teams in the nation, are ready for the opening round today of the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics playoffs, says Coach Neil Gordon.

"We're probably at the best strength we've been at all year long," he said in an interview.

"Our center, Scott Conant, missed a game in early February with the flu, and guard Tony Chiabaro missed four games with the flu," he adds. "But right now we're just as healthy as we possibly could be."

but the NIT lined up the country's No. 2-3-4 scorers.

The nation's oldest post-season tournament announced a 16-team field Sunday, headed by 12th-ranked Alabama. There are no byes and all eight first-round games are scheduled outside New York City this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The field includes Oral Roberts with star Anthony Roberts, Indiana State and Larry Bird and Houston with Otis Birdsong. In last week's national statistics, Roberts was averaging 32.2 points a game, Bird 31.7 and Birdsong 30.5.

The NIT also has Seton Hall's Glen Mosley, the nation's No. 2 rebounder. Bird ranks ninth in that department.

Team-wise, Houston is second nationally in scoring and Old Dominion is sixth.

The first-round pairings:

Tuesday, March 8 — Illinois State at Creighton.

Wednesday March 9 — Indiana State at Houston, Georgetown, D.C., at Virginia Tech, Oregon at Oral Roberts and Villanova at Old Dominion.

Thursday, March 10 — Memphis State vs. Alabama at Birmingham, Ala.; St. Bonaventure vs. Rutgers at Princeton, N.J., and Seton Hall vs. Massachusetts at Springfield, Mass.

The eight first-round winners will come to New York's Madison Square Garden for the quarter-finals March 14-15. The semifinals are scheduled for March 17 with the championship game the afternoon of Sunday, March 20.

Twelfth-ranked Alabama, which plays its final regular-season game tonight against Florida, was the only eligible member of last week's Associated Press Top Twenty not invited to the NCAA Tournament. The Crimson Tide was bypassed because two other Southeastern Conference teams, Tennessee and Kentucky, were chosen.

However, the NIT can lay claim to Oregon, a two-time conqueror of UCLA, the nation's No. 4 team.

The selection process was not without controversy when it was reported that the NIT offered a bid to Maryland but withdrew it in a dispute with Athletic Director Jim Kehoe over a first-round pairing with Old Dominion.

The initial round of games around the country marks a departure from previous years, when all NIT games were held in New York. In the past, the NIT has been criticized for inviting teams from the Northeast with unimpressive records but ticket-selling potential. For that reason, the tournament committee decided on out-of-town first-round games.

SLU Coach Is Named

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ron Coleman will be the first black head basketball coach at St. Louis University, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said Sunday.

The newspaper said Coleman, 31, was offered the job Friday and would announce his acceptance Tuesday.

On Friday the school announced that head Coach Randy Albrecht had been relieved of his duties.

Your HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be thoughtful of others now and make sure you do nothing that can upset or disturb any present relationship. You have all sorts of urges to call those about you to account for conditions you do not like, but remember you are just as much at fault as they.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know what is expected of you by others and try to please them. Be willing to clear up quarrels amicably. Reconcile with one who means much to you in a personal way. Avoid going off on a tangent.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't argue with a fellow worker or there could be serious trouble. Make sure you keep promises you have made and gain goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) In your desire to have a good time be careful you do not hurt or alienate others. Put useful talents to work and get good results. Avoid one who thinks negatively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A bothersome situation is best not handled today when you are feeling so irate. Cool off first. A gentle attitude toward a loved one gets a problem settled satisfactorily, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you listen to what partners have to say and are not fearful with them, you can have fine accord in the future. Speak quietly. Drive carefully since others are apt to be jittery today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study finances and obligations and know how better to handle them and come out of the red. Listen to what an expert has to suggest, also. Invest wisely and safely. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study exactly how you want your life to trend in the future and then get rid of the unwanted and replace with the helpful. Show courtesy toward everyone and you get good results. Avoid one who is detrimental to your best interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find the right way to handle any personal problems you may have and they are soon cleared up. Think objectively. Avoid any recreation that could get you into trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good time to be with friends you like, but fine for setting up appointments for the near future with them. Make sure you know what you want before you go ahead with plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attend to civic tasks and they are soon behind you. Be conscientious about handling some career matter. Improve social life and be with congenials only.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to get away from tiresome duties, but be careful you do not get into something unsavory because you are tired. New contacts could prove to be unsatisfactory. Avoid a troublemaker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your intuition is not good today, so use only good judgment and make only right changes with higher-ups. Take it easy with a loved one who may be in a bad mood. Take no chances with credit.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will understand the problems of others and should have the education slanted along lines of humanitarian and personnel work that can help the public in general. There is the ability to be precise and accurate and this can bring about much success during the lifetime.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10963 ♠QJ98 ♠KQ74
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♥ Pass Pass 1♦
Pass 2NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—With such an unbalanced hand we don't want to play in no trump if we can avoid it, so we suggest you bid three of a minor suit. The problem comes if partner prefers to three spades: should we venture game? We would not—partner likely to have too much wasted strength in hearts to offer any reasonable play. If we belong in game, partner must bid it.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J87 ♠K5 ♠A1093 ♠J852
Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—We would be inclined to make the descriptive response of one no trump to show a balanced hand, all-around values and 9-11 points. The alternative is to bid one diamond, intending to support clubs at our next turn, but this would imply a more unbalanced hand.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠93 ♠Q98 ♠K6 ♠AK10762
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♦ Pass 2NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Bid three hearts. Though you are minimum in terms of high-card points, you do have a good six-card suit and fair support for partner. He could easily have a reasonable five-card suit in this auction, so you should show your support. Partner won't expect more than three hearts from you, for you didn't raise immediately.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1092 ♠7 ♠QJ1062 ♠QJ52
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♦ Dbie. 2♥ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Bid three diamonds. We would like to have more in terms of high cards for a free bid at the three-level, but there is a danger that, unless we act now, we might get frozen out of the auction. Partner might not have enough to compete again. Since you have fair playing strength and a singleton heart, you are unlikely to come to any harm.

'Andros Targets' Is Almost Unreal

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When I was a tough young reporter on the Lakeland Ledger in Florida, hard-boiled city editor Bill Whitehead gave me a package and said: "Cookies from your mother. Why are they ticking?"

That was authentic newshawk dialogue. But it pales compared to what I've heard on CBS' "The Andros Targets," the series about Mike Andros, hard-hitting young investigative reporter in New York.

Tonight, for example, he'll yell at a potential Fink: "You gave me nothing I can print, nothing!" This is authentic newshawk dialogue, as any hard-hitting young investigative reporter can tell you.

If you saw the premiere, you'll know Mike was handed a file of incriminating documents and murmured: "Who, this is powerful stuff." Later, he said, "I don't buy information, Alice."

This, too, is real newshawk talk, the McCoy. I've been keeping up with it the past two weeks, so as to try it out at parties. I offer some samples in case you want to try it out at parties.

On Feb. 21, Mike was after a Park Avenue doctor who gave uppers, downers, all manner of illegal potions, to beautiful people patients. Mike's trail led initially to a Harlem dope dealer, Snowman.

A narcotics agent with Mike at the time said later he can arrest such lowlives, "but who nails the untouchables on Park Avenue?"

"Maybe that's my job," Mike said. He said it softly.

Later, when asked if he misrepresented himself on the story, Mike told his editor: "Look, I do a dance on the edge of truth every day to get the truth."

Still later, when he came to his editor with something of which he was sure, the editor said: "Don't tell me about it. Prove it."

While proving it, Mike told a drug addict, a potential informant: "I'm not a cop. I'm not a detective. I just want to know the truth."

A week later, Mike tried to find out who put the snatch on an honest union boss whose men were working on an urban renewal project in Harlem. Mike said this to an informant: "You got something on paper? Names? Dates? Pictures?"

Mike's editor, worried about the credibility of Mike's informant, warned: "The FBI may come down on you hard to name him."
"Let 'em," Mike said. He said it defiantly. Also softly.

Bing Continues Hospital Stay

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby got a shave from his wife, Kathryn, at Huntington Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for bruises suffered in a 20-foot fall from a stage.

"He's still too uncomfortable to travel," said a spokesman for the hospital. "He'd rather not travel in that condition." The Crosbys live in Hillsborough, Calif., south of San Francisco.

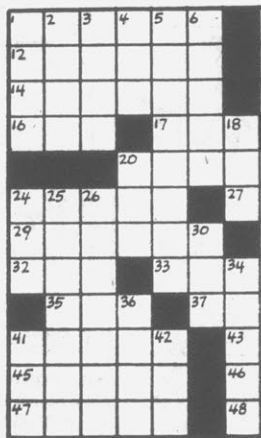

The 72-year-old entertainer fell from the Ambassador Auditorium stage Thursday night at the close of a benefit performance celebrating his 50th year in show business.

CBS taped the three-hour show and will air 90 minutes of it as "Bing!" on March 20.

Australia Hosts Royal Couple

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were greeted by about 3,000 people, including 18 busloads of children, when they arrived here today at the start of a three-week Australian tour.

The royal couple arrived by jet from New Zealand and was met by Sir John Kerr, governor-general. Also on hand to greet them was Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser.

Tight security included guard dogs around the airport perimeter.

Mike later told an FBI agent: "I want to be with you when you make the bust."

After the bust, Sandi, a cub reporter who works with Mike in blowing the lid off the big town, saw him brooding at his desk.

"What's bugging you?" she asked. "You got an exclusive."

Okay, now take this dialogue, get someone to play the editor, Sandi the cub, the narcotics agent and the informant. You play Mike Andros. Repeat all this dialogue at the next party.

Anyone laughs, you shout: "You gave me nothing I can print, nothing!" Get your pad, pencil and trenchcoat and quietly leave the party. Then phone in the story. To the society editor.

Assassination Probe A Farce, Says Gonzales

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. House Assassination Committee is a "put on job" and a "hideous farce that was never intended to work," says Rep. Henry Gonzalez, who resigned last week as chairman of the panel.

The assassination of President John F. Kennedy will never be re-investigated in a meaningful way "because vast and powerful forces, including the country's most sophisticated crime element, won't stand for it," he said.

"This criminal element is all-pervasive, loaded with nothing but money and in many ways more potent than the government itself," Gonzalez said.

His resignation has not yet been formally accepted.

Other forces against the investigation include "the Kennedy family and heavy business interests in the Dallas-Fort Worth area who don't want all the old JFK muck raked up," he said in an interview published Sunday in the San Antonio Express-News.

He was not immediately available for additional comment.

He criticized the committee's chief counsel, Richard Sprague, as an "unconscionable scoundrel" and added:

"Sprague tried to spend committee money on long-distance phone calls to his Philadelphia law firm and to the home of his girlfriend there. And get this. He actually took a little Acapulco vacation for himself while on the committee payroll."

Sprague, contacted at his home in Philadelphia Sunday, refused to comment on Gonzalez' statements.

Gonzalez predicted the committee will forget about the Kennedy assassination now and go into "a weak, one-legged investigation of the Martin Luther King assassination as a sop to blacks."

Gonzalez's resignation followed a showdown with Sprague during which Gonzalez tried to fire Sprague. His fellow committee members supported the former assistant Philadelphia prosecutor.

Gonzalez said he tried to get support from House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and fellow Texan Majority Leader Jim Wright.

"It was an exercise in futility," he said. "The fix was in." He said he then realized "at last that the House leadership never had intended for the JFK investigation to fly, and indeed had prefabricated the whole thing for the skids."

Without being specific, Gonzalez said that "powerful forces, including criminal elements" had deliberately put Sprague and himself into the committee on an automatic collision course.

"They never did want the Kennedy assassination conspiracy unmasked," said Gonzalez. "They knew I was an honest, direct man who wouldn't hold still for a transparent phony like Sprague. They were so right. The JFK investigation is over."

ARTS OF CHINA

GREENVALE, N.Y. (AP) — An exhibition of 170 objects, the Arts of China, will be on view at the C.W. Post Art Gallery at Long Island University through March 27. The exhibit spans 4,000 years of Chinese art and history, from neolithic artifacts to the delicate porcelains of the Ming and Ch'ing Dynasties. The exhibit is accompanied by an in-depth lecture and film series.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES,
Agricultural Extension Agent)

During the winter months when it's impossible to be very active in the field, it's a good time to think of some long time peanut production goals.

There are at least two goals that come to mind this cold winter. One is planting date. Our overall objective should be to plant as early as possible. Most of the time this will be in April.

If we check the weather data for the past 30 years, we will find a 5-10 day period of very warm weather occurring between April 10-30. It's a period suitable for planting peanuts and getting them off to a good start.

In order to take advantage of this period, we must be ready to plant when it arrives. All land-preparation and preplant herbicide treatments should be made prior to or during the beginning stages of this warm period.

SOIL TEMPERATURE GOVERNS. We consider the proper time for planting to have arrived when the soil temperature at a 3 inch depth reaches 65 at 1 p.m., for 3 consecutive days and the weather forecast is for continuing warm weather for the next 24 hours.

In addition, the seed should be planted in moist soil. Last year conditions were excellent for planting on almost every day of April except that not a drop of rain fell in the peanut area that month and the soil became very dry.

Another important objective should be to provide adequate moisture to obtain the best yield and quality in the Va. - Carolina area. Very few growers have made provisions to irrigate. Irrigation has paid big dividends in the Southwest for many years. In recent years, many acres have come under irrigation in the Southeastern states.

Irrigation of peanuts in our area has not become a practice because in most years we get by pretty well without it. This does not necessarily mean we do not need it. Instead of getting a 1000-2000 pound per acre increase as may be the case in other areas, our increases are more in the area of 500-600 pounds per acre.

There are other differences. We usually do not increase yields very much if any at all if our peanuts are on an irrigation schedule for the full season.

COMMUNITY LAKES

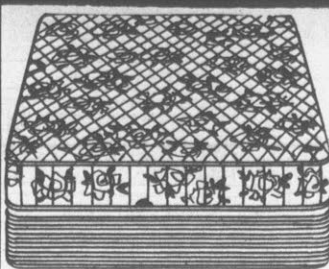

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — There are about 20 community lakes throughout Missouri, most of them from 100 to 200 acres.

Thirty-three additional ones are proposed.
