Economic Stimulus Program Seen Snowballing

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax cut and spending program launched by President Carter to jog the lagging economy is snowballing through Congress and seems certain to emerge bigger than it started.

How much bigger it will be than $31.6 billion — the administration's latest two-year estimate — is still a question.

The answer may play a key role in determining whether Carter will be able to fulfill his promise to balance the budget by 1981.

The House on Tuesday voted a $23.3 billion appropriation to fund major elements of Carter's program and substantial additions by Congress.

The bill reached the House floor containing $4 billion for public works this year, twice the amount Carter sought. Amendments backed by the Democratic House leadership added $707 million to the total.

The House was planning to consider another appropriation bill, a catchall $27.9 billion measure, late today. More attempts to add stimulus money were expected, and some were likely to succeed.

The leadership is backing amendments, the exact amount of which were not settled in advance, to add funds for recreational programs and some military construction, advocated as an aid to lagging employment in the building trades.

On top of that, a bipartisan group of House members planned to fight for an amendment adding $200 million to help low-income persons pay fuel bills swollen by the bitter winter now ending.

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, DConn., chairman of the House Budget Committee, estimated the additions made Tuesday and those expected today would increase economic stimulus spending during the present year by $1.7 billion above Carter's $15.7 billion estimate.

Spending figures for a given year usually do not correspond with appropriations because of delays in getting programs under way and actually disbursing the money.

Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill told reporters the leaders had decided to expand the Carter proposals on the recommendation of Democrats on key committees such as Budget and Joint Economic.

O'Neill said the changes had been discussed with Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget. "These are not their proposals, but they are not opposing them," O'Neill said.

Elect New Officers For Hospital Board

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

New officers were elected and three new members were welcomed to the Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, held which held its first meeting in the new hospital last night.

Kenneth Dews of Winterville was named chairman; Harry Leslie, vice-chairman; Ephraim Smith, secretary; J. H. Moye, treasurer; and Glenn Strickland, assistant treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are the chairman, the vice-chairman, and the secretary, automatically, plus four elected members. These are Eugene James, William Neal, Hal Tanner, and Dr. John Wooten.

New members are Moses Moye of Farmville, replacing W. R. Duke who has completed the 12 years maximum allowed under the trustees' bylaws; D. T. Jones of Pactolus, replacing Ed Switzer, also a 12-year member; and Elton Coltrain of Bethel, replacing Delton Perry, still another 12-year man. Duke, Switzer, and Perry were honored with plaques denoting their service to the county.

The Board had dinner in the rehabilitation area of the new hospital, since the dining room is not complete, and met in the conference room adjoining Director

Jack Richardson's office. This will be its regular meeting place.

During the reading of the minutes, it was noted that the appointment of James Cheatham to the Joint Conference Committee last month had to be corrected the next day, since Joint Conference representatives of the hospital board have to be members of the Board's executive committee. Eugene James has been named to fill this job.

Special guests of the Board for this annual meeting included past chairmen Jesse Moye, J. B. Congleton, Woodrow Wooten, Ed Waldrop, Walter Stroud, and Ed Warren and past chiefs of staff, Drs. E. B. Aycock, W. H. Potts, C. F. Irons, Ray Minges, A. M. Mumford, Howard Gradis, Earl Trevathan, and John Wooten.

KENNETH DEWS

A letter from Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources Howard Lee was read. Lee said that since his use of his time is no longer dictated entirely by himself, he feels that he should resign from the Pitt Hospital Board so as to allow someone with more time to give to the job a chance to serve. His resignation has been accepted.

It was noted that Board member Hal Tanner is a hospital patient and that member Harry Leslie has lost his mother since the last meeting. It was also announced that a new neurologist, Dr. Greg Hardy, will soon be a part of the staff.

Treasurer J. H. Moye reported that the hospital's cash is "real low" and that accounts receivable now total $1,521,000. He said it is hoped that this figure can be decreased soon.

Requests for equipment expenditures for a Dupont 700 automatic chemical analyzer costing $79,932.50; storeroom shelving costing $5,940; an electrophoresis unit to separate blood plasma into its components costing $8,703; and kitchen equipment costing $16,355 were approved. It was noted that the last two items will be purchased by the Gifts Committee out of unrestricted funds.

New Room Rate
The Board adopted a new "basic room rate" of $70 per patient day. This rate for the majority of the private rooms will include the cost of color television and a phone in every room. It is about a $10 increase over the cost of a private room in the old hospital prices.

The cost of the few larger rooms with larger baths will be $80.

The Board members expressed relief that the charge will not have to be higher, in view of rates in neighboring hospitals. It was pointed out that, in spite of rising costs, there has been no room rate increase at Pitt Memorial in the past 22 months. The Board has been waiting till the hospital had "something more to offer" in the new hospital.

Ambushed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kamal Jumblatt, leader of the leftist alliance in Lebanon's civil war, was killed in a machinegun ambush today, police reported.

The 59-year-old socialist leader, target of several assassination attempts in the past, was killed while riding in his car in the mountain town of Baakline, 21 miles southeast of Beirut, the police said.

HEY! IT'S SPRINGTIME OUT THERE...and I want to be outside with my cat Scamper in the sunshine, seems to be the message two-year-old Eva Maria Collins was trying to get across with her gestures. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Collins, Eva was granted her wish. She was taken outside where she romped about chasing bees and pulling the heads off flowering dandelions. (Reflector photo by Jerry Raynor.)

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

ARMY DISCHARGE PAPERS

My husband was in the Army in the 1950's. He's lost his Army discharge papers. Is there any way we can get another copy? Mrs. M. S.

Your husband needs to visit the N. C. Division of Veterans Affairs office in the Tipton Annex, 232 Greenville Boulevard. Cheryl Landreth in this office said there is a special form that they will be glad to fill out and send to St. Louis, where Army service records are kept, requesting duplicates for you. All your husband will have to do is provide the necessary information about when he was in the Armed Forces and sign the form, she said.

SUBSCRIPTION MIX-UP

I had a subscription to Time Magazine which started several months ago. A month or so ago, I started receiving notices that my subscription was due. I have gotten my fourth notice now and they say, because they haven't heard from me, they have had to stop my subscription. In the meantime, I have written to them several times, telling them I paid in advance, but it brings no response. R. L.

Hotline wrote to the Time office, explaining that you paid in advance. You then received a letter, referring to our letter, which said that your one-year renewal was entered on a charge basis. They said a temporary adjustment was being processed to resume mailing of your Time and to advance the expiration date to compensate for the copies missed. However, they asked for proof of your advance payment, which you were able to provide. You now say you're receiving the magazine just fine, that without Hotline's help you would be a Newsweek subscriber by now!

Supplies Are Sent To Zaire

KINGHASA, Zaire (AP) — Belgian weapons and American medical and military equipment have been speeded to Zaire as it tries to repel what it calls an invasion of "foreign mercenaries" from Angola.

Officials of the central African nation said today that the invaders who crossed into copper-rich Shaba Province last week were 5,000 mercenary troops led by "guerrilla and subversive war specialists from across the Atlantic."

The comment was considered a clear reference to Cuban forces which were instrumental in establishing a Marxist regime in Angola. The bulk of the forces, however, are believed to be exile guerrillas from Zaire itself.

Belgium's weapons shipments were the first ones reported by any country since Zaire announced the invasion last week. The Belgian Foreign Ministry said the two plane-loads of light weapons had been ordered earlier and were only being speeded up. Some sources said 5,000 to 7,000 Belgians are still living in the invaded province, which was the Province of Katanga when Zaire was the Belgian Congo.

The Carter administration was hurrying $1 million in medical and military equipment to Zaire, including communications equipment, parachutes, packs, rations and fuel tanks.

It was Carter administration's first involvement in foreign warfare and a spokesman said Carter himself had made the decision.

U.S. officials said they had no confirmation that Cubans were involved in whatever fighting was taking place.

Voters Of India Go To Polls; Indira's Future Is At Stake

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) —

The world's largest election began today as India's silent masses went to the polls to elect a new lower house of Parliament and to decide whether Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will continue in power.

The voter turnout was reported heavier than usual, a development that Mrs. Gandhi's opponents had said should prove favorable to them.

Voting was scheduled today in 300 of the country's 542 election districts and continues through Sunday. First results were to be announced then, after the last balloting.

The 59-year-old prime minister made a final campaign appeal to the 320 million voters not to believe opposition charges that she had been a dictator since she put the country under a national state of emergency 21 months ago, jailed thousands of her opponents, censored the press and drastically amended the constitution.

"If I had been a dictator, the people would not have been able to talk about dictatorship, and elections to Parliament would not have been possible," she told a rally in her native state of Uttar Pradesh.

A helicopter took her to district after district, seeking votes for her Congress party, India's governing party since independence in 1947. The Congress is opposed by the new Janata (Peoples') party, a coalition of five parties formed to defeat Mrs. Gandhi.

Reports from around the country indicated that the polling was generally peaceful. Only a few incidents of violence were reported, primarily in the Calcutta area, where Mrs. Gandhi's opposition charged Congress party workers "captured" some voting stations to prevent normal polling. The police said they were investigating.

In the last election, in 1971, the Congress party won a two-thirds majority in the lower house, enabling it to amend the constitution without difficulty during the emergency. But Mrs. Gandhi's emergency rule united her opponents as they never had been brought together before and split the Congress party, and neutral observers thought the outcome would be close.

One of the chief issues in the campaign was Mrs. Gandhi's 30-year-old son, Sanjay, who took over the leadership of the Congress party's youth wing during the emergency period and is running for Parliament for the first time.

Mrs. Gandhi's foes charged that she is grooming him to succeed her and continue the family hold on power that began with her father, Jawaharlal Nehru, who was India's first prime minister. She vigorously denied the charge.

Monday night, Sanjay and his aides reported that shots were fired at his jeep as he was returning to his campaign headquarters, but no one was hit.

The opposition said the alleged assassination attempt was faked.

Equal Rights Struggle Set Back But Goes On

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

The North Carolina Senate handed proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment a bitter defeat March 1 — but the fight goes on to eliminate sex discrimination from the law.

According to Greenville attorney Nelson B. Crisp, the impact of the defeat will be "substantial", but measures can be undertaken nonetheless to rid our laws of sex bias.

"I feel it was definitely a step backward to fail to follow through with the ratification of the ERA," she said.

"But I hope the failure means the legislators will move quickly to review laws based on sex and that they will use their common sense and excellent sensibilities to remove sex bias from statute and case law.

"There are three methods legislators could use to do this: repeal a sex-biased law completely; make it applicable to 'persons' instead of 'women'; or possibly they could decide whether or not the statute is based on sex."

Mrs. Crisp said she has seen more bias in statutes than in case law.

"There are a lot of old laws dating back to the 1800s," she said.

"For example, GS110-2 says that only boys over the age of 12 can be out before 7 a.m. to deliver newspapers. So girls can't deliver a morning paper."

"There are stipulations that require that women prisoners under the age of 16 or serving less than 6 months not be given work assignments."

"If a wife kills her husband in North Carolina, she is entitled to use one-half of his estate during the rest of her life, whereas if the husband kills her he can use her entire estate during his remaining years."

The area most in need of correction is alimony law, according to Mrs. Crisp.

"The only way women are going to be able to support themselves is through their own capacities," she said.

"They are not going to be able to get alimony without continually going back to court. And the court can only put her husband in jail, where he can't work, and therefore can't support his family."

"If we pass the ERA or are able to lobby and effect a very valid employment act that will raise the level of compensation for women up to their male counterparts, we will have done more in the area of alimony and support

Deaf Education Majors Get Practice

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — For Lisa Gray, a recent college graduate, the transition from learning to teaching was a smooth one after she completed her major in deaf education at Flagler College.

She teaches language to 7 and 8-year-old severely and profoundly deaf children at the Florida School for the Deaf and Blind (FSDB), the largest residential school for deaf and blind students in the nation.

Flagler College, a small, co-educational liberal arts college, and the FSDB are located less than two miles apart here.

Students at Flagler College majoring in deaf education begin practical application of their knowledge in their second year by working at the FSDB.

"We teach all the theory everyone else does, but here students are involved in working directly with the deaf from the sophomore year on," said Anne Shreve, coordinator of the deaf education program at the college. "Majors have the opportunity to understand the nature and needs of deaf children individually as well as academically."

Students at Flagler, which has the only undergraduate deaf education program in Florida, assist in extra-curricular programs at FSDB, such as recreational activities, athletics and religious education.

Later they work as teachers' aides and tutor students on a one-to-one basis before starting student teaching both in the FSDB and in the classroom program for the deaf in the Duval County school system.

Some of the 90 deaf education majors work as house parents in the state school. Miss Gray served as house parent in the girls' honor dorm for 17 to 19-year-olds before graduating and assuming her present teaching duties.

"I feel the experience greatly helped me," said Miss Gray, adding that she was able to see which concepts the older students found difficult so she could bear that in mind with her teaching.

"I lived and worked with deaf girls, and it helped me to enrich my communication skills," she said. "I feel that no matter how much schooling you have, nothing prepares you for the real thing like experience."

The FSDB uses the modified Rochester method of teaching the deaf, which involves finger spelling and signing, with words and concepts represented by hand movements, while the Duval County program uses the oral-aural method of lipreading and speech.

Flagler graduates are trained to teach both methods, and their student teaching semester is split between the two schools, Mrs. Shreve explained. In addition to majoring in deaf education, Flagler students must major in either elementary or secondary education.

The lack of jobs in many teaching fields does not extend to deaf education, according to Mrs. Shreve. Graduates can expect to be employed in either a residential program like FSDB or a local school system. Legislation in many states has mandated programs for all exceptional children, including the deaf.

"There is a great need for teachers trained in deaf education," Mrs. Shreve said. In Florida, for example, an estimated 417 teachers of the deaf will be needed by 1980, more than twice the number teaching now.

Many students who major in deaf education have experienced deafness in their families; others, like Miss Gray, are hearing impaired.

"The program is really more exciting than I can describe it. It sounds on paper like the usual course of study, but the unique thing is the enthusiasm of the students," Mrs. Shreve said.

Send Gift To Couple's Baby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours recently gave birth to an abnormal child (a Mongoloid). We, her friends, are terribly upset about it, and the poor woman and her husband are in a deep depression.

What should friends do under the circumstances? We certainly can't "congratulate" the parents.

Should we acknowledge the birth of this unfortunate child? Should we send a gift? (What does one send a Mongoloid child?) Or would it be kinder to ignore the tragedy?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Perhaps "congratulations" are not in order, but to ignore the birth of a child when you would normally express interest is, I think, cruel. So send a little gift (the same as you would to any other child), and show a continuing interest (not curiosity).

DEAR ABBY: During our two-year marriage, my husband and I have had some very difficult times including separation, a filing for and finally a cancellation of divorce proceedings.

The big problem is this: He thinks I should always be willing to have sex whenever HE feels like it.

Whenever we have an argument, which is often, my husband says some very cruel and cutting things to me, then he says, "I didn't mean what I said. Now can we have sex?"

I think it's nice that he says he's sorry, but I'm in no mood to have sex with him two minutes after he has ripped me up one side and down the other, and hurt my feelings by talking mean and ugly to me.

I need a little time to cool off after an argument, and having sex isn't my idea of cooling off. In an effort to save my marriage, I need your opinion.

NEEDING TIME OUT

DEAR NEEDING: I think you should take all the time out you need. And if your husband expects sex on demand because HE'S in the mood without considering YOUR mood, you may be trying to save a marriage that's not worth saving.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who deeply regrets not letting her husband go to "the other woman" 10 years ago. He left me for her once, but I fought him so hard over the divorce settlement that he came back to me but continued to see her.

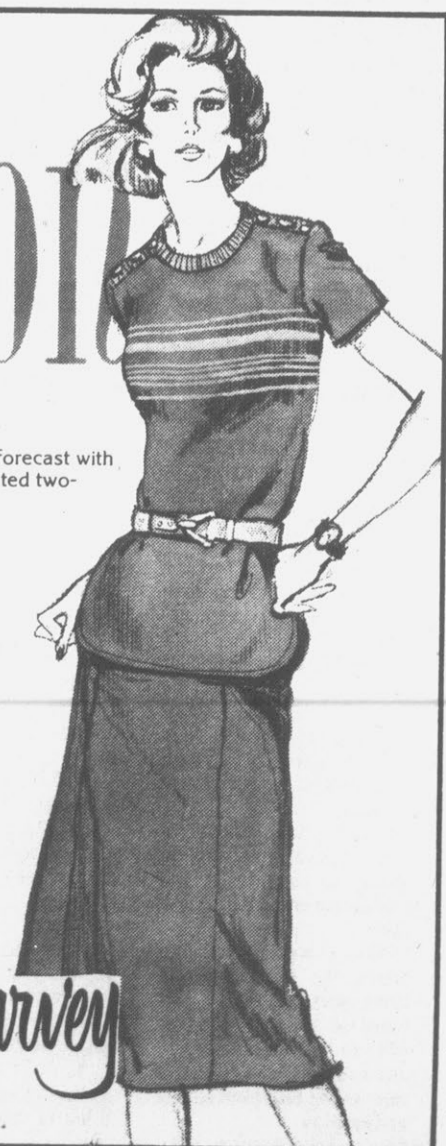

I knew in my heart that they really loved each other, but I couldn't think of her as anything but a tramp who had stolen my husband.

If I had let him go, I probably could have made a new life for myself, but I hung onto him for security.

As my husband lay dying in the hospital, her name—not mine—was on his lips. If I had let him go when he wanted to, maybe he'd be alive and happy today, for heartaches.

Vegetables Can Appeal To Children

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — If getting children to eat vegetables is a problem, try letting them help in the preparation, advise Michigan State University food and nutrition specialists.

Husking corn, shelling peas, snapping beans, washing squash or even helping to pick the produce at the market may provide the incentive to eat the vegetables, they point out.

Other suggestions: When the child is beginning to eat the same foods as the rest of the family, give him small amounts of vegetables at the beginning of the meal, when he is hungriest.

Introduce new vegetables along with familiar, well-liked foods. If your child likes casseroles and other combination dishes, include vegetables in them.

Be enthusiastic in presenting new vegetables. Parents' and siblings' attitudes can influence a child to like or dislike something even before he tastes it.

Cook vegetables so they are tender but still crisp. Or serve raw vegetables with meals or as snacks. Children often prefer the crispy crunch of raw carrot strips, celery, bits of cauliflower or turnip strips to the softer texture of cooked vegetables.

If a child rejects new vegetables the first time or two he sees them, offer them again. It sometimes takes time to develop a taste for new foods.

But don't make vegetables the focus of a parent-child power struggle or mealtime a battle of wills. This can affect the child's attitude toward food for a long time.

AF Captain Sets Sights On Marathon

BROOKS AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. (AP) — Capt. Mary Ann Hodgson thinks jogging four or five miles around the base is one of the most pleasant ways to spend a lunch hour.

"When I run about 30 or 40 minutes I get loosened up and relaxed. It's a natural way to cool off and think about the day," says the Brooks AFB pharmacist. "When you run that distance, you get a release of adrenalin in your system — it's almost a natural high."

But during last year's New York Marathon, in which she participated, Captain Hodgson's only thought was to finish the 26.2 mile race. She was not out to break any records. Her goal in her first marathon was merely to complete the course.

Prior to this race the most she had run at one time was 16 miles. At the 23-mile point she "hit the wall" — she believed her legs couldn't carry her any farther.

"I felt that if I stopped, I'd never finish," she said. "At that point I couldn't even walk — I was in a shuffle. Then I saw the final mile sign and thought 'Well, there's only one more. I'll shuffle a little bit more.' When I knew there was only two-tenths of a mile left, I got that last spurt."

She finished in four hours and 30 minutes — an excellent time for a beginning marathon runner. The winner of the race ran it in approximately two hours and nine minutes, while the winning female entry crossed the line 30 minutes later.

Captain Hodgson, 31, began jogging in 1968, while still a student at South Dakota State University, but winter running was out of the question because of cold weather. After she graduated in 1969 she was too involved with becoming a registered pharmacist to run regularly.

"I wanted a chance to work on my master's degree and to travel, so I decided to join the Air Force," she said. In the spring of 1976 she began running regularly, building toward the October marathon.

Now she is running at least four or five miles at lunch and 7 to 14 miles a day on week-ends, working toward cooling her "marathon fever" by entering the biggest, the Boston Marathon, this spring.

"I really like running on base," Captain Hodgson said. "It's a secure feeling. Everybody is very nice — it's a friendly atmosphere."

But that is not always the case for joggers, she adds, noting that drivers occasionally try to run them down or force them off the roadside.

"When I was younger, women in running or sports of any kind just hadn't been sanctioned," said the officer. "It wasn't 'their place' or men didn't think it was feminine. But I can name a lot of women in sports who are extremely feminine."

"I think you're going to see more and more women in sports because they're getting more recognition and discovering that exercise makes them feel better."

For the beginning jogger, male or female, Captain Hodgson suggests a good, comfortable pair of shoes.

"There are over a dozen good shoes for training, which cost about $25 or so. That's not much money, because if you don't have a good pair of shoes your feet are going to hurt. If your feet hurt your knees are going to hurt. You're going to be uncomfortable and ask why you are going through all this pain."

Some people run in their hiking boots or regular street shoes. Captain Hodgson believes a person should run in whatever shoes are the most comfortable.

The beginning jogger should start out slowly, she cautions, running a quarter mile, walking a quarter mile and then trying to run another quarter mile. The goal for the first day could be one mile, using this alternating run-walk pattern.

"But don't push yourself," she emphasizes. "Once you feel a strain, stop. If you begin breathing hard, feel tired or lightheaded, stop automatically and walk."

MENU-MAKING MADE EASY
Family menus can be a study of food customs. It's interesting to explore why certain foods are purchased and eaten at family meals, how cooking techniques vary in this country and around the world, and why certain foods are grouped and served together. One quickly learns that the availability of food, cooking skills, family traditions and food preferences help determine family food customs and menus.

In one year alone, a homemaker can count on preparing almost 1,000 meals based on our present three-meal-a-day pattern. Fortunately, menu-making and cooking can be a creative outlet. It changes from year to year as the homemaker increases her cooking skills, as the family matures and develops new tastes and as new foods are introduced to the marketplace.

The art of good menu-making doesn't come naturally. There are certain basics that must be practiced. Once learned they will be helpful throughout a lifetime. Planning is basic to

Governing Power Is Limited

Recognition dawns slowly among presidents and governors that they can not truly govern....at least as they had dreamed.

They come into office with high ideals and purposes. Always, a streamlining of governmental processes has been promised; and, wearing the euphoria of political victory, the newly-elected step into the new arenas with zest and zeal.

The awakening is cruel. There is a built-in resistance to change. On less exotic levels: foremen experience it, office managers encounter it, businessmen know it (too well), and it's to be found even within families. The condition exists to a greater degree in government. "Entrenched" forces within agencies and bureaus and departments, whose stake in the world is one of survival, are certain to oppose infringements on their authority and power. Too, rivalries within governmental ranks can and do wreck the best-laid plans of even the most painstaking executive.

Small wonder Governor Jim Hunt is reported encountering resistance to his payroll-cutting plan; and, with the march of time and introduction of new ideas to make state government less cumbersome and more efficient, he is going to run into ever greater obstacles.

As for President Carter: ever since the day he was sworn in he has been on collision-course with forces capable of grinding down ordinary mortals to helpless shells of their former selves. The only President we can recall that approached the degree of power all new Presidents presume they had, was FDR. His domination of the U.S. political scene made the so-called "imperial" presidencies of Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon look like poor relations.

We tell ourselves that something more than figure-head executives are necessary to accomplish reforms, efficiencies and cost-cutting in the world of government. But is that what the American people really want?

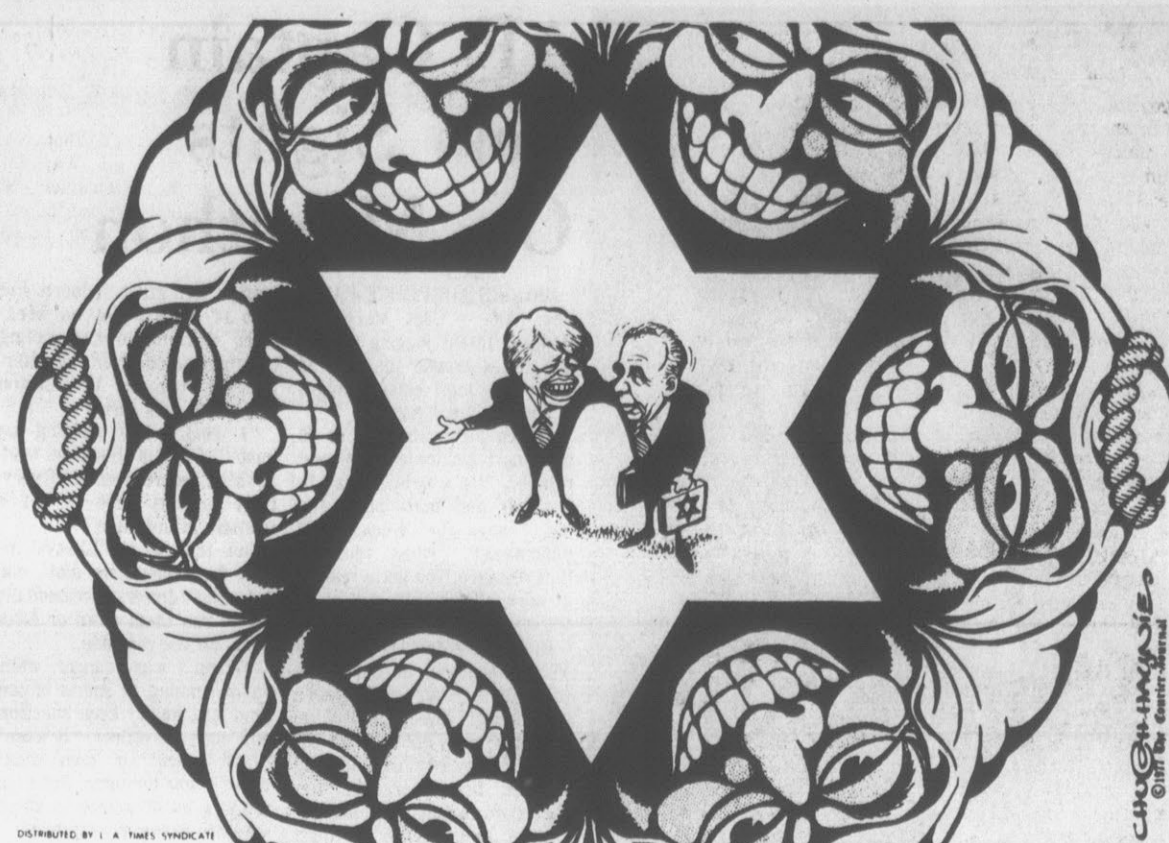

Such Leniency Will Encourage Others

Those who are concerned with the American system of justice had to swallow hard as they observed the leader of a terrorist group in Washington set free after the ordeal ended for the hostages.

The hostages were held for two days and, while the group's leader was arraigned and charged, he was released without requirement of bond. It apparently was a part of the deal which brought about the hostage's release.

We can't say we would have handled the situation differently, but it is likely that this leniency will encourage other fanatics to try the same thing.

"In the interest of peace, Mr. Rabin, we strongly support 'defensible' borders for Israel!"

By ART BUCHWALD Quizzing Warnikovitch

WASHINGTON—Whether we like it or not "disarmament" is a dirty word for the military-industrial complexes of every country. No one paid any attention to disarmament in the past, but when the nomination of Paul Warnke as arms control chief came up, the halls of the Senate resounded with charges that Mr. Warnke might actually fulfill his function and come up with some kind of a disarmament treaty. The thrust of the anti-Warnke debate was that the head of the disarmament talks has no business discussing methods of stopping the arms race.

Somewhere in the Kremlin is Mr. Warnke's counterpart, who is also looked upon with suspicion and contempt by Soviet military leaders and party hawks. His name is Vladimir Warnikovitch and he's been getting heat from all sides.

At his confirmation hearing the other day he was questioned by the Politburo.

"If you go to Geneva you sell out the Soviet Peoples' Republic."

"It not true," Vladimir protested. "I am looking for a way to stop spiraling cost of military armaments which is costing our motherland billions of rubles."

"How do we know United States is not just trying to trick us to disarm so they can destroy us when our guard is down?"

"We have enough weapons to kill Americans nine times."

"Is not enough. They have weapons to kill us ten times." Vladimir said, "I hope to reach agreement with U.S. so we can only kill each other seven times."

"How can you do that?" "They must give up one of their multi-warhead nuclear missiles and we must give up one of ours." "But if we each give up one of our multi-headed missiles we will only be able to kill them eight times and they will be able to kill us nine times."

"Aha, Comrade. It depends which weapon they give up. We will ask them to give up a missile that will kill twice as many people as the one we give up, then we'll have a 'kill-ratio party'."

ART BUCHWALD

"Warnikovitch" in 1972 you gave an interview in Pravda in which you said that someday you hoped the Soviet Union and the United States would unilaterally be able to kill each other five times. Do you deny it?"

"No, at the time I thought that would be enough. But since then I've changed my mind. Killing each other five times is not a safe figure."

"How can we trust you when you say one thing in 1972 and something else now?"

"I have the right to change my opinions. When I gave the interview I was not being put in charge of arms control agreement. If I negotiate a new treaty I would never put Soviet Union in inferior position of only having enough weapons to kill Americans five times."

"You don't consider yourself a traitor for wanting to negotiate arms control agreement?" "This position. It is he, not I, who will eventually decide how many times our two countries can afford to kill each other."

"We warn you, Vladimir, if you come back from SALT talks without a superior kill ratio over U.S., you will be stripped of your human rights." "If you feel that way I won't go to Geneva."

"What do you mean won't go? Do you think we want world to believe Soviet Union is not interested in disarmament treaty? We will confirm you as our negotiator, but we will be watching you every

Carter Is Still Running

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — To borrow his phrase, the name is Jimmy Carter and he's still running, a different kind of campaign but a campaign nonetheless.

It's becoming evident that for Carter, campaigning is part of governing. So, in the days of his political anonymity, President Carter is on the road tonight, meeting people, answering questions, spurning a hotel suite in favor of a guest bedroom.

Courtesy, Amelia Earhart considered congestion of the radio channels today as likely to prevent an immediate take-off on her equatorial flight of 27,000 miles around the world.

Two Pan-American Airways ships are scheduled to leave for Honolulu as soon as weather conditions permit. Miss Earhart would also use the Pan-American radio system.

"With two ships in the air, I am afraid the addition of my radio demands would perhaps prove too much for the shore stations and might conceivably bring about a mishap," Miss Earhart said.

In a vote of 14 to 2, the state House Committee on Cities, Counties and Towns today favorably reported a measure to extend the incorporated limits of Greenville.

The action of the committee today puts the measure on the House calendar for action, probably tonight or tomorrow.

The measure was introduced in the Senate by E. O. Flanagan and that body passed the bill. It was held up in the House committee by a request of a group of opponents who asked for a hearing in Raleigh.

Do Licenses Pose Threat?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Back in 1949, Sam J. Ervin, Jr. was a member of the North Carolina Supreme Court. That was before his fame spread even wider as a U.S. Senator.

He wrote a decision in the case of the State versus Owen Ballance nearly 30 years ago which is again drawing some attention as there is a growing feeling that proliferating licensing boards are in danger of creating a controlled, monopolistic economy.

In that case, Senator Ervin (and the court) found that the North Carolina Photographers Board was unconstitutional.

In presenting his arguments, Ervin drew up a list of other occupations which, he felt, could legitimately be regulated by the state if, in fact, the regulation of photographers was found to be in the public interest.

A New Board
On that list was watchmaking. Sure enough, in 1967, the N. C. General Assembly created the N. C. State Board of Examiners for Watchmaking and Repairing. Other state courts at other times struck down state licensing of dry cleaners, tile contractors.

Yet such licensing procedures continue to grow apace. In 1975, the General Assembly created four new boards: foresters, house movers, landscape contractors, and speech and language pathologists and audiologists.

The state now has 35 licensing boards: architect, auctioneer, barber, accountant, chiropractor, contractor, cosmetologist, dentist, electrical, forester, hearing aid, house mover, landscape architect, landscape contractor, lawyer, medical doctor, mortuary, nursing, nursing home, optician, optometrist, osteopath, pharmacist, physical therapist, plumbing and heating, podiatrist, psychologist, engineer and land survey, real estate, refrigeration, sanitarian, speech and language, veterinarian, watchmaker, and well digger.

Public funds do not support these activities, but a number of experts believe the system is costing the public money.

The boards operate from fees collected from members and applicants. Many boards restrict trade and prohibit advertising, however, and that is costing the public — members of the attorney general's staff compute the cost at $10 million annually in North Carolina in inflated cost of uncompetitive eyeglasses alone.

Moratorium
A group of legislators is pushing to call a moratorium on creation of new licensing boards, and a thorough probe of how to bring them under control with action suggested to the 1979 General Assembly.

Attorney General Rufus L. Edmisten told the legislative committee on licensing chaired by State Rep. Thomas B. Sawyer, D-Guilford, that, "In the past the licensing of occupations has been to protect the public from harm. The effect of licensing in recent years, however, has often been to protect those licensed from the demands of competition and free enterprise."

In a complicated presentation to the legislative body, members of Edmisten's staff presented data generally designed to show that many boards are made up of people with a vested interest, that a major problem is a tendency to bar from certain occupations newcomers who might threaten competition, and it is "questionable as to what the public interest is in maintaining the licensing board of an occupation which functions purely as a monopolist rather than as a quality control mechanism consistent with competition.

But most importantly, the experts concluded, there is "virtually no disagreement among economists that loosening anticompetitive restraints (and allowing advertising) imposed by licensing boards will result in significant benefits to consumers and society at large."

THE INSIDE REPORT

CIA's First Defector?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Evidence that ex-CIA agent Philip Agee has cooperated with the DGI, Cuba's Soviet-bosomed intelligence service, was the unannounced cause for the highly unusual deportation order served on him last November by British Home Secretary Merlyn Rees.

That means Agee, far from being just another kiss-and-tell alumnus of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), is probably its first bonafide defector. Although there is no indication that cooperation started until after his resignation in 1969, Agee appears to be the first CIA official known to have cooperated with an adversary government.

For what it's worth, then, any untold secrets of CIA operations known by Agee are assumed to be known to Soviet intelligence via the Cuban connection.

Agee, author of the anti-CIA "Inside the Company," resigned after 12 years of service, much of it in Mexico City. Well-informed sources in the intelligence world believe Agee began to collaborate with Cuba's Directorate of General Intelligence (DGI) soon after his resignation.

The relationship between DGI and the KGB is intimated. The top Cuban KGB officer had an office right next to the head of the DGI in Havana's Miramar section. The links between the two services are such that DGI has been known as a "subsidiary" intelligence service of the KGB.

After seven weeks in Cuba in the summer of 1971, Agee went to Paris where Western counter-intelligence agents began to track his cooperation with DGI. Those contacts increased after Agee moved to London in late 1972.

During the three years ending in August 1974, Agee made five separate trips to Cuba. MI-5, the British domestic intelligence service, developed its incontrovertible evidence that Agee was trafficking with Cuban intelligence sometime last year. This followed verifiable Agee contacts with agents of Cuba in Algiers and throughout Europe, particularly in Spain and Italy. Although not announced, that was the entire basis for Rees's action against Agee.

A footnote: Instead of complying with the expulsion decree, Agee went to Scotland, where he is bringing suit under an obscure Scottish law in an effort to escape deportation. That is not expected to work, according to legal and intelligence experts here.

WARNKE'S LOBBYIST

One major reason the embarrassing 40-vote total against Senate confirmation of Paul Warnke as chief disarmament negotiator was not even higher was President Carter's lobbying success with Southern conservative Democrats such as Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi.

When pressed to oppose Warnke on ideological grounds, Eastland snapped back angrily that he had given his word to Mr. Carter. Besides, said Eastland, the President had assured him that Jimmy Carter, not Paul Warnke, would be running (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

PONDER AND LEARN
Tradition has it that one day as Sir Isaac Newton sat in an orchard, an apple fell from a tree and struck him on the head. The incident seemed to have started a chain of thought which ended in an important discovery. For most people, being struck by a falling apple in this manner would be an experience slightly unpleasant and soon forgotten. Newton, however, pondered what had happened to him, and out of this incident came his formulation of the theory of gravity.

Many of the greatest inventions have sprung from apparently insignificant circumstances. Every event in life has about it the significance of Newton's falling apple. Every meeting with a friend, every chance conversation we have in the street, every miscarriage of our plans, every sorrow, every success, every disaster, has a message for us if we will only heed it.

But God only discloses his secrets to people who ponder the meaning of everything which happens to them. —by Elisha Douglass

The Corporate Rites Of Spring

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The annual reports are in the mail, soon to be received and probably left unread, to be followed by the annual meetings, to be noted in appointment calendars but probably left unattended.

Yes, it's time again for the corporate rites of spring, for the management of American corporations to report to their owners, the shareholders, and listen in return to the owners' gripes, and sometimes even their praise.

Because last year was a fairly good one for many companies — not good enough they'll remind you, just in case Congress thinks they're growing fat — the gripes are expected to be less noisy than in some recent years.

While the environmentalists and consumerists will be active, and the women too, the emotional edge, the cutting urgency, has been somewhat dulled. They have made their point; they are listened to.

They made their point in other ways too. Having taken a public relations licking at these annual forums, some businessmen now would just as soon do away with annual meetings, if they could.

J. B. Fuqua, head of Fuqua Industries, an Atlanta-based conglomerate, once made that very decision, but the New York Stock Exchange unmade it, insisting that to forego an annual meeting violated listing regulations.

Fuqua had a point. Few people came, he said, so the affair was little more than ritualistic. And if everyone sought to come, assuming there were enough planes and trains and buses to take them — well, they just couldn't have come; Fuqua has 16,000 shareholders.

The tempo and significance of annual meetings has changed since then, in keeping with the times.

One can hardly forget the striped tents billowing in the breeze at a U.S. Steel meeting early in the 1960s, held on the green of a college campus, a vast picnic indistinguishable from a class reunion.

Nor can shareholders of American Telephone & Telegraph forget their meeting at about the same time in a cavernous New York City armory, an all-day get-together at which boxed lunches were served and shareholders gabbed with old acquaintances.

Controversy intruded. Real issues, tough questions, criticism of management. Women, consumers, clergymen, environmentalists insisted on being heard. The old family spirit was rent with backbiting.

At least, say some shareholders, annual meetings often were turned into real forums of opinion rather than shows staged by managers reluctant to listen, even turning off microphones so critics couldn't be heard.

But what has become of the annual report? It too underwent serious criticism, and it too has been transformed — to some degree. There remain, however, those necessary but impenetrable asterisks and footnotes.

Still, a real effort has been made to improve the product, through better design and layout, by relating company performance to the big issues, by building the company story around people, by clarifying the writing.

course. More advance men, a Carter aide remarked, smiling. Carter ruefully recalls the time he gave a news conference in Philadelphia and nobody came. That won't happen again. And back in his early campaign days, he bunked in with supporters to save money. Now it is part of the image.

Carter likes to joke now about "we Washington insiders," the point being that he came to the White House as quite the opposite, and the fact being that he prefers that role. The outsider's billing is a political asset.

So he is using the techniques and lessons of his long campaign for the presidency in a new campaign to cement confidence and public support now that he's there.

It fits his pledge to stay close to the people, and not forsake them for the traditional power centers of Washington. It also fits his need to broaden his own political base.

By every indication, his is a permanent campaign. He has said, in effect, that he considers it part of the job. Carter spent two years campaigning for office, and the techniques he perfected then are the ones he's employing now. Among them:

—Tonight's visit to Clinton, Mass., for a town meeting appearance. Such sessions were a staple of his election campaign, particularly in the early Democratic presidential primaries, when Carter was most effective.

—His two-hour radio call-in show, a first for a president, but not for him. There was a time when Carter grabbed every local radio invitation he could get. They were free, and a handy way to campaign for recognition. So he made dozens of talk shows, in states across the nation.

—The mass mailing from the White House, soliciting advice on the energy policy Carter has said he will announce on April 20. Letters went out to 300,000 people, selected at random by Census Bureau computers, and to 150,000 officeholders and members of environmental and energy groups. They were asked for suggestions on energy conservation, new resources, and environmental concerns, with replies due by March 21.

Other Southern Senators inclined against Warnke's views on disarmament but reluctant to oppose the new President included Robert Morgan of North Carolina, Russell Long and Bennett Johnston of Louisiana, John McClellan of Arkansas and Lloyd Bensten of Texas.

Nevertheless, 40 votes against Warnke amounted to a dismal administration performance considering that only two weeks ago there were probably less than 10 negative votes. Mississippi's other Senator, chairman John Stennis of the Armed Services Committee, originally argued against his committee (which lacked jurisdiction) even holding hearings on Warnke; he ended up voting no.

A footnote: Two Southerners who decided their concern about Warnke outweighed loyalty to the President were from Mr.

Carter's own state of Georgia, Herman Talmadge and Sam Nunn. Nunn's opposition generated talk among Carterites about trying to purge him in next year's Georgia Democratic primary, but neither the President nor his top political advisers want to go down that dreary road.

Hunt's Reorganization Plans Moving In Assembly

Record Skyjack Ended; Police Overpower Man

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — An Italian hijacker was overpowered and arrested today at the end of an 8,500-mile pirate flight in a Spanish airliner around Europe and West Africa. It was the longest hijacking on record.

Police said the hijacker, Luciano Porcari, 36, shot and slightly wounded one of the three policemen who seized him inside the plane. No one else was hurt, the police said.

The three policemen entered the plane posing as members of a fresh flight crew that was to fly the Iberian Airlines Boeing 727 to Moscow. They overpowered the hijacker within moments.

The 13 passenger-hostages still aboard the plane and the seven exhausted crew members who had manned the aircraft since early Monday afternoon were released unharmed. The hijacking lasted 44½ hours.

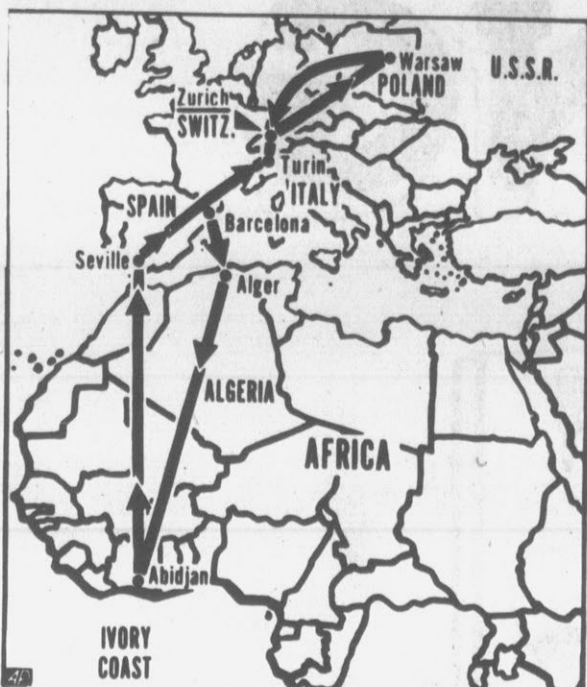

Also aboard was Porcari's 3-year-old daughter by an African mistress, but his estranged Italian wife refused to surrender their 5-year-old daughter to him.

Porcari released seven other passengers in Turin, Italy, and nine in Zurich Tuesday.

The hijacker brought the plane to Zurich from Warsaw where he had agreed to free all hostages in exchange for the new crew to fly him to Moscow. After three hours of negotiations, the Spanish ambassador to Poland, Jesus Millarado, said:

"We can't understand the man's mind. He must be crazy. It has nothing to do with politics. He just thinks he's solving his personal problems."

Porcari, an auto mechanic,

LONGEST HIJACK ENDS — An Italian aerial hijacker was seized in Zurich, Switzerland, today after an 8,500-mile flight in a Spanish airliner. It was the longest hijacking on record. seized the plane on a flight from Barcelona to Mallorca on Monday afternoon. He was armed with a pistol and a rifle and his goal was to get hold of his two daughters.

After a refueling stop in Algeria, the plane flew to Abidjan, the capital of the Ivory Coast, on the under side of the West African bulge. Porcari once worked there, and officials met his demands for delivery of his child by a local woman and $140,000 in cash.

The plane flew back to Spain, refueled in Seville, and then went to Turin, where Porcari's estranged wife, Bella Zavoli, lives with their 5-year-old daughter, Consuelo. But the mother was adamant, saying: "I cannot leave my daughter in the hands of a man who can commit terrible things."

Porcari ordered the plane to Zurich, negotiated for 90 minutes with an Italian official, ordered the plane into the air, then brought it back in 25 minutes for refueling.

The plane then circled over Turin and Porcari told his elderly mother in the airport control tower he was going to Moscow because "I do not trust the Italian police."

However, there was never any indication that the Soviets would let the plane land on their territory, and from Turin the airliner went to Warsaw.

The longest previous hijack was a 6,900-mile flight in November 1969 by Raphael Minichiello, a Vietnam veteran born in Italy, who seized a TWA jetliner on a flight from San Francisco to Denver. He had it flown to New York, Maine, Ireland and Rome because he wanted to return to Italy.

Minichiello, then 21, was jailed for 18 months. He is now a waiter in Italy.

RALEIGH (AP) — One of Gov. Jim Hunt's governmental reorganization plans was easily approved by a Senate committee Tuesday while bills were filed to implement some of his campaign promises.

The Senate Transportation Committee approved and sent to the floor Tuesday a bill that would restructure the Department of Transportation and bills were filed to reorganize the state Utilities Commission along the lines advocated by the governor.

Also Tuesday, the House State Government and Natural and Economic Resources committees began work on a bill that would restructure the Department of Commerce.

Here are the major legislative actions:

TRANSPORTATION
North Carolina would have a single board directing the highway program if a bill approved in the Senate Transportation Committee wins legislative approval. The measure would abolish the Secondary Roads Council.

Sponsored by Sen. J.J. Harrington, D-Bertie, the bill would allow the governor to name 20 of the 22 board members while two would come from the legislature. It would also change the laws over DOT to reflect approval of an earlier bill that moved the Ports Authority from DOT to the Department of Commerce.

UTILITIES
Bills were filed in both chambers Tuesday that would put the state Utilities Commission staff under an executive director rather than having the commission oversee its function. The staff would also be charged with representing the public in matters before the commission. Another proposal would require that utility rates be based on the original cost of equipment rather than the current

"fair value" cost which reflects inflation. Utility rates are set to give the company a fair return on investment and if the investment figure is adjusted to account for inflated costs of replacing equipment, it will result in higher rates.

REGISTRATION
On a 106-2 vote, the House passed a bill to change the law dealing with persons registered as independent or no-party voters. Present law permits such persons to adopt a party affiliation on election day and vote in that primary. The bill would require them to change their affiliation at least 21 days prior to a primary in which they wished to vote.

In the future, such voters would be listed as unaffiliated voters instead of independent or no-party.

CLASS SIZE
A bill filed by Sen. Vernon White, D-Pitt, would require local school boards to assign teachers on the basis of one per 26 pupils for kindergartens and grades one through three, one per 33 pupils in upper elementary grades, and one per 35 pupils in junior high and high schools.

TOWING
A bill sponsored by Sen. Jerry Popkin, D-Onslow, to allow hospitals to have autos towed if they are parked in spaces reserved for emergency vehicles was approved by a Senate judiciary committee. The measure allows a maximum charge of $20.

TRAPPING
The Senate is expected to begin debate this week on a trapping bill approved by the Wildlife Resources Committee. The bill would put some limits on trappers. The measure would ban large traps and require that the trapped animals be protected by having a device attached to the trap that prevents their legs being broken or chopped off.

The measure exempted a number of counties in the northeastern part of the state because trappers in that area hunt otters, which require traps larger than the bill would allow.

TESTS
A spokesman for the state Department of Education said a program of testing the progress of public school children would be useful and give the public information on pupils' performance.

Several lawmakers said they were worried that the test results may be used to compare schools or children and could cause teachers to alter their teaching methods so that they simply prepare the pupils for the tests. No action was taken by the Senate and House education committees.

BLIND
A bill was filed that would set up an advisory committee for the blind. It would advise state agencies on needs of blind citizens and be composed of representatives of state government and organizations for the blind. MOBILE HOMES

A bill that would prohibit 14-foot wide mobile homes to be hauled on North Carolina highways was filed by Rep. Myrtle Wiseman, D-Avery. The bill would reinstate the width limit of 12 feet that the state Board of Transportation recently changed.

Prince Calls On Pres. Kenyatta

NAKURU, Kenya (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, paid a courtesy visit to President Jomo Kenyatta after a private camping safari in this African country.

Tuesday's visit to Kenyatta was Charles' first public appearance since he flew into Nairobi March 6.

Charles, a bachelor, had been camping in Kenya's Aberdare Mountains. British reporters tried to locate him before Tuesday after unconfirmed rumors circulated that he was accompanied on the trip by a blonde woman.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed up again today, opening higher for the third straight session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about a fraction in the early going, adding to its two-day advance.

Gainers outnumbered losers by nearly 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts felt the market's performance, advancing this week with stepped up trading, was drawing investors back into the market.

In addition, traders got a boost from some good economic news after the market's close.

The industrial production, which fell in January because of the weather, rebounded in February.

Today's early prices included Kresge, up 1/8 to 34; Xerox, down 1/8 at 49 1/2, and General Motors, ahead 3/8 to 72 1/2.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones average, ahead by more than eight points during the day, was up 6.73 at 965.09 at the close.

Gainers outnumbered losers by nearly 2-1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 23.94 million shares, against 19.29 million Monday.

The NYSE's composite index was ahead 28 to 55.38.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 45 at 111.59.

Industry Threat Seen In Jeans

TORONTO (AP) — Pierre Cardin, the French designer who brought high fashion into ready-to-wear clothes 17 years ago, says the popularity of blue jeans has been dangerous to the fashion industry.

"And jeans aren't fashion," he said in an interview Tuesday. "Designers can do nothing about it. I can do nothing about jeans."

Cardin has 346 factories in 46 countries producing his clothing and accessories. He employs 70,000 people.

Chlorine Leak Hits Manteo

MANTEO, N.C. (AP) — About 30 persons were treated for gas inhalation and the Dare County courthouse and jail were evacuated when a chlorine gas tank ruptured in the downtown section of this coastal city Tuesday.

Seven persons were hospitalized for treatment, a spokesman for the sheriff's office said.

The 50-pound tank of chlorine gas was on a truck owned by Basnight Construction Company when it exploded, said Sheriff's investigator Sammy Smith.

Jimmy Basnight, driver of the vehicle, said the tank "just started moving" and then ruptured with an explosive sound. The truck was parked at a hardware store near the courthouse and jail.

Among those hospitalized for treatment and observation were Basnight, Mrs. Katie Williams, a motorist, Manteo policeman Bill Cass and sheriff's department dispatcher Mrs. Elmer Wood.

Smith said wind carried the green gas fumes into the courthouse and into an adjacent restaurant, prompting the evacuation. A portion of the city was barricaded off while the injured were removed.

Acting on advice of the Poison Control Center at Norfolk Naval Hospital, persons breathing small amounts of the chlorine were treated at Manteo Memorial Center. Many were given shots to combat possible pneumonia, which can be caused by lung tissue being burned.

Approval was given for the administration to negotiate for the purchase of 236 19-inch color television sets that would have closed circuit capacity, as well as the ability to pick up four local channels and two fm radio stations. The closed circuit capacity would be used for health education for patients and also for them to hear programs in the hospital chapel and possibly view family members who could not be admitted to their rooms. Maintenance of the sets would be performed by an "in-house crew" or by a local dealer under contract.

The Board approved the pursuit of Pitt Memorial's becoming an organ procurement center in cooperation with N.C. Memorial and Duke Hospitals.

Landscaping is being considered, it was reported. The Agricultural Extension Service has been contacted about help with landscaping, but reported that it will be glad to help with education but cannot compete with private enterprise to do actual planning of the hospital grounds beautification.

The county manager has been contacted and a change order has been drafted to allow for the inclusion of exterior lighting, an item removed when money was low some time back. The lighting should be completed by the opening Apr. 30, Construction Manager Ralph Hall reported.

The Board went on record as approving paid parking for hospital visitors. The thinking now is that there will be 50 cents per day charge to cover the cost of maintenance, security, and lighting and to make it so the cost of parking does not have to be included in patient-day costs.

A committee was appointed to study whether to change the name of the medical complex developing on the hospital site, and if so, what to call it.

Truck On The Loose

OVER THE WALL, UP THE HILL... and into the yard of the old Eppes High School was the record of this truck after the brakes failed Tuesday afternoon. The front axle and wheels were knocked loose from the truck and came to rest behind the truck body. (Reflector photo by Jerry Raynor).

Dylan Divorce Data 'Sealed'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Attorneys for singer-songwriter Bob Dylan and his wife, Sarah, have met in court to settle preliminary matters dealing with the couple's divorce, court officials say.

However, the records of the proceedings before Superior Court Commissioner John Alexander were sealed by court order last week, said Mrs. Dylan's attorney, Marvin Mitchell, after Tuesday's proceedings.

Mrs. Dylan's petition for divorce cited irreconcilable differences, which is all California law requires.

On March 1, she was granted temporary custody of the couple's five children and exclusive use of the rambling, dome-topped house of the two built in the coastal Malibu colony.

Greenville Police Reported

According to police, the truck was traveling down Bancroft Avenue when the brakes failed. The vehicle crossed Fifth Street and collided with a wall, coming to rest 21 feet from the wall.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $2,500 by officers who charged Barnes with having improper brakes.

Jaguars Rally To Nip Rampants, 4-3

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central, angered by losing a pair of runs on an appeal play, stormed back in the sixth inning to score two runs and gain a 4-3 victory over Rose High School yesterday.

Jerry Rackley in the bottom of the fifth inning, but an appeal play wiped out both of the runs and left Rose in a 3-2 lead despite arguments from Jaguar Coach Linwood Woodard that at least one of the runs should have counted.

"At first, I was arguing that the appeal had been put wrongly," Woodard said. "Then, I felt that we should have gotten at least one run. But it doesn't matter now."

The bottom of the fifth turned out to be quite an inning. With one down, David Cochran slammed a double off the fence in center field. Emerson Hobgood followed with a single to shallow center, putting men on first and third.

Rose pitcher Danny Hester stepped off the rubber and faked a throw to third with Donald Holloman at bat. Cochran scooted back and Hester whirled and threw to first, catching Hobgood off the base watching the play.

Holloman then walked, leaving the situation as it was. Rackley followed with a blast to right center, but he was thrown out at third trying to stretch it to a triple.

Rose then appealed that Holloman had not touched second, and the umpires upheld him, saying the "force" became effective and none of the runs counted, and Rackley's hit was voided.

Rose broke into the lead in the game in the second inning with a pair of runs. Greg Lee and Mark Conway both singled and Reggie Spain reached on a fielder's choice. Hester then helped himself with a single to center, scoring both Lee and Conway.

The Jaguars, who had threatened in the first, scored a pair of runs in the second. Hobgood reached on an infield hit and moved up on an error on the play. Holloman walked and Carroll Griffin singled to drive in both runners. Ted Dunn followed with a single, but Griffin was cut down trying to go to third, ending the threat.

Rose regained the lead in the fourth with a run. Lee reached on a bunt and Conway singled, moving up on an error on the play as Lee went to third. Spain then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Lee.

Rose had threatened in the third, but a double play on a fly to short left killed the threat. Rose got a man as far as second in the sixth, but again, a double play took Farmville out of trouble.

The Jaguars lost a fine chance to score in the fourth with some alert play by the Rampants. With runners at first and second Dunn grounded to short. The ball was played to third, but was off-target. The ball went to the Jag dugout as Holloman, who reached third safely, headed home. Hester chased it down and threw to home in time for the play, however, getting Holloman.

Finally, in the sixth, Farmville struck for two more, for the win. Griffin led off with a double up the alley in right center. With one down, Mike Jenkins reached on an infield hit, and an error on the play let Griffin score and moved Jenkins to second.

Jenkins moved on to third on an infield out, and scored when David Winborn singled.

Farmville held off Rose in the seventh to take the 4-3 victory.

The win left the Jaguars with a 1-1 record. They play host to Southern Wayne, which earlier defeated them, on Friday. Rose travels to Kinston on Friday, to complete a suspended game at 3 p.m., then to play a regular game at 4 p.m.

Ayden-Grifton Lacks Experience As It Defends Baseball Crown

Experience and hitting power, important ingredients for baseball success, are both lacking from the Ayden-Grifton team this year, according to coach Claude Kennedy.

The defending conference champion Chargers went 20-3 last year, only to lose in the first round of the state playoffs to Williamston, the eventual 3-A winner. But, nine seniors graduated off that team, seven of them starters, according to Kennedy, and that makes this year "definitely" a rebuilding year.

"We're very inexperienced, young and we're going to make some mistakes," Kennedy said. The Chargers also lack hitting power and "the personnel to have a big inning. We have to depend on our defense and pitching."

"If we can get halfway decent pitching and play fairly good defense, we might stay in a 2-1 or 4-3 ballgame. But, if anyone explodes for a big inning on us, we'll have trouble regrouping."

The team's two returning starters, shortstop Jed Hardy and center fielder Al Butts, will be counted on to provide the infield and outfield leadership, according to Kennedy. Hardy could also be one of the team's leading hitters.

Ayden-Grifton will start either a freshman or a sophomore at catcher, according to Kennedy. Sophomore Ed Coley started in the Chargers' first game, but cut his finger. He will probably share the behind-the-plate duties with freshman Grady Quinn.

Two-year reserve Butch Davis, a senior, will start at first base and another two-year reserve, Sammy Whitehurst, also a senior, will get the nod at second. At third will be either first-year junior Harold Edwards or Paul Setliff, who played on the Ayden-Grifton basketball team and got a late start. Setliff could also play short or second, Kennedy said.

Starting at short, however, will be Hardy, who is "probably the catalyst for our infield," according to Kennedy. In addition, Hardy "could be respectable with a bat."

Jay Phillips will be a back-up infielder, probably at first base, Kennedy said.

In the outfield, first-year junior Mark Cannon will start in left and David Reilly will start in right. Butts will be in center field and the Chargers "look for him to do an above average job defensively. He's quick and has an adequate throwing arm," Kennedy said.

Reserve outfielders include Wayne Newton, a sophomore, Chris Tripp, another sophomore, and freshmen Bill Holland and Richard Smith.

Two experienced pitchers return to the Ayden-Grifton team, senior Tim Shadle and junior Mike Teachey. Shadle, senior left-hander who was 3-1 last year, started the Chargers' first game this season and "did an outstanding job." His earned run average last year was 1.87.

Teachey was 6-0 last year with a 2.21 ERA. He did a "credible job" in Ayden-Grifton's second game this year.

Other pitchers will be first-year junior Allen Hill and Hardy.

Kennedy sees three clubs as having a shot at the conference title this year. "Farmville Central could win if they get some good pitching, Southern Nash could be a threat and Greene Central could also be at the top."

The Chargers "could conceivably finish in the second division this year," Kennedy said. "We aren't going to be that strong."

Chargers Nip Kinston, 8-7

KINSTON — Ayden-Grifton captured its first baseball win of the year yesterday, downing Kinston, 8-7.

Kinston scored first, getting three runs in the bottom of the second. Lamm reached on an error and stole second, scoring when Whitfield doubled. Jones reached on an error and Williams walked. Wiggs then singled in both Whitfield and Jones.

Ayden-Grifton came up with four in the third to take a 4-3 lead. Edwards walked and Al Butts singled. Sammy Whitehurst singled in Edwards and Mike Hardy singled in Butts. Hardy was cut down trying to advance. Mike Teachey singled in Whitehurst and moved up on an error and Davis doubled to drive in Teachey.

Kinston returned to the lead with three more runs in the fourth. Williams walked and scored on Spence's triple. Wiggs doubled in the second run, and after Hill walked, Hendricks singled in Wiggs.

In the top of the seventh, the Chargers pushed over four more runs to take an 8-6 lead. Edwards walked and Butts did too. Whitehurst reached on an error, loading the bases. Hardy doubled in two runs and Tim Shadel singled in another. Davis then hit a sacrifice fly to score the other.

Kinston cut it to one run with one in the seventh, but the Chargers hung on to win.

Ayden-Grifton is now 1-2, and hosts Eastern Wayne on Friday. Butts, Hardy and Butch Davis each had two hits for the Chargers, while Wiggs had a pair for Kinston.

The loss left Farmville Central with a 1-2 record. The Jaguars visit Rose High on Friday.

Return Of Flowers Blossomed Irish

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Phelps wished North Carolina Notre Dame Coach Digger

Patrick's Day, but his Fighting Irish will be trying to make it the unhappiest day of Smith's season.

Phelps fervently hopes that Irish eyes will be smiling St. Patrick's Day when fifth-ranked North Carolina and 10th-ranked Notre Dame collide in the NCAA East Regional semifinals at College Park, Md.

Smith held a news conference here Tuesday and Phelps talked with reporters by telephone.

The Irish, 22-6, raced to a 7-0 early season record, including victories at Maryland and UCLA, but the bottom soon dropped out.

Kentucky clobbered the Irish 102-78 in December, the first of four straight losses, but things turned around with the return of injured center Bruce Flowers, Phelps said.

McGuire Feels Warriors Should Be Favored In Midwest Regional

By J. LEE CARRIER
AP Sports Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Marquette Coach Al McGuire believes his team should be the favorite in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament, starting Thursday night when the Warriors meet Kansas State and Southern Illinois face Wake Forest in semifinal games.

"This team is no fluke or one that's in the NCAA just on sentiment," says McGuire. "These are tough, class kids. What might have been a fluke is our loss to Michigan (69-68 in the regular season finale)."

Marquette broke loose for 13 straight points in the second half in beating Cincinnati in the NCAA Midwest Regional's opening-round at Omaha, Neb. last week.

The Warriors have won five of their last six games, being led by 6-foot-10 Bo Ellis, described by his coach as a "thoroughbred... a first-round (pro) draft choice (prospect)."

Ellis had nine of his 17 points during the second half against Cincinnati, including six during the 13-point burst.

McGuire is a lame-duck coach, having announced his retirement from coaching after this season. He would like nothing better than to go out a winner.

Kansas State Coach Jack Hartman would love to end McGuire's career, but says he is sad the colorful coach is leaving the field.

"He has added a great deal of color to the game. He has charisma. I am saddened he's not going to be on the scene any longer," Hartman says. "Al McGuire has a great feeling for showmanship. But he's a coach first of all."

The Wildcats will bring Hartman's trademarks—patience and quickness—with them Thursday night.

Wake Forest, which tied Clemson for second place in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference, was down 13 points at the half against Arkansas in their opening-round game, but used a full-court press in the second half in overtaking the Razorbacks.

"Arkansas is similar to Virginia who we play in the ACC," said Deacon guard Skip Brown. "They're so deliberate on offense. But we've never had to work so hard to win a game."

The Deacons had led the ACC for most of January and February before closing their regular season with four straight losses and a 22-7 record. They had been picked in preseason to finish sixth in the seven-member conference.

Brown said the come-from-behind victory almost has been a standard this year. "We've been in situations like this all year—being as much as 15 points behind with eight or 10 minutes to play. And we had been playing well. If a couple of last-second shots had dropped, we'd have won a couple of those games we lost late in the year."

Southern Illinois edged Arizona in an opening-round game, getting 35 points from guard Mike Glenn.

"We played the way we did all season and I think that surprised a few people," says Southern Illinois Coach Paul Lambert.

Blomberg Is Hitter Again

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Hendrick and Jerry Turner in defeating the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4, and the Seattle Mariners scored five runs in the seventh inning and beat the San Francisco Giants 6-4.

Blomberg ought to know. For the past 1½ years, he has been little more than a fan.

Tuesday night, he became a hitter again. A career .302 hitter before suffering a shoulder injury that wiped him out in July, 1975 and limited him to one game and two at-bats last season, Blomberg unloaded a 400-foot two-run homer and a run-scoring grounder as the New York Yankees defeated the Minnesota Twins 9-4 in an exhibition game.

But it was much more than a meaningless spring game to the 28-year-old Blomberg, who is trying to recapture his spot as the Yankees' designated hitter against right-handed pitching.

"This was like a regular-season game for me. The home run felt good, it feels like my swing is coming back," said Blomberg, whose powerful, compact stroke is one of baseball's neatest swings. "If I show them I can swing the bat I'll probably be a part of this team."

Meanwhile, Buzz Capra, who used to pitch in New York for the Mets and is trying to make it back to Atlanta's starting rotation following arm surgery, worked three scoreless innings, allowing two hits, in the Braves' 6-1 triumph over the Houston Astros. Phil Niekro, the Atlanta starter, allowed one hit in four scoreless innings.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds split their squad and made two Canadian clubs happy. One team of Reds bowed to the Montreal Expos 5-2 — ex-Reds first baseman Tony Perez homered in his first game against his former team and later scored what proved to be the winning run — while the fledgling Toronto Blue Jays edged the Reds' other group 9-8 in 11 innings.

The Baltimore Orioles also split their squad with somewhat different results. They downed the Boston Red Sox 3-0 as Rudy May, Dennis Martinez and Fred Holdsworth combined on a two-hitter — Dwight Evans' two-out single in the eighth inning and Fred Lynn's double in the ninth — and also whipped the Texas Rangers 7-3 as Doug DeCinces slugged a tie-breaking two-run homer.

Elsewhere, Dave Kingman hit his second homer in two days as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2; Tim Lincecum's two-run homer gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies in 11 innings, and the Los Angeles Dodgers scored six times in the fifth inning — Rick Monday and Dave Lopes each drove in a pair — and trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 13-3.

Home runs by Ralph Garr and Larry Foster powered the Chicago White Sox to a 4-0 victory over Kansas City in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Royals took the nightcap 10-3 as John Wathan and Luis Silveiro homered; Vida Blue allowed two hits in five scoreless innings as the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2; Jerry Morales singled in the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged the California Angels 4-3; the San Diego Padres got homers from George

Bear Grass Downs Chowan

CHOWAN — Bear Grass's four runs in the sixth inning allowed the Bears to stay ahead of Chowan and take a 6-4 win in a baseball game yesterday afternoon.

Bear Grass grabbed a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, but Chowan scored one in the bottom of the inning and two in the second to move ahead, 3-2.

Neither team scored again until the sixth when the Bears made four runs, three of them earned. Chowan could manage but one run in the bottom of the inning.

In the first inning, Alton Cratt led off with a walk for Bear Grass. He stole second and scored on Junie Wynne's single. Three straight walks, by Ray Wynne, Jeff Bullock and Jesse Bullock scored Junie Wynne.

C. Evans doubled for Chowan in the bottom of the frame and went to third on a wild pitch. After Jordan's walk, Evans went home on a double steal.

M. Evans led off the second inning with a single for Chowan. He moved to third on Broome's base hit and both he and Broome scored when Jordan hit a fielder's choice.

In the top of the sixth, Bullock walked and went to second as Robert Harrison got on with an error. Jack Harrison walked to load the bases before Cratt's fielder's choice scored Bullock. Junie Wynne got on with a fielder's choice that scored both Harrison and then scored off of Jerry Wynne's single.

In the bottom of the inning, Evans got his second double and scored when Perry followed with a double.

The win was the third straight for the Bears, who are now 3-0. They will host Jamesville on Friday.

Lydia Hoell led Bear Grass with three hits, including a triple, while Patricia Taylor had a pair, including a triple. Darlene Rogerson had two and Debra Jo Peaks also had a pair.

Williamston is now 1-0, while the Lady Bears are 0-1. Williamston hosts Roanoke today.

Washington High School romped to a 7-2 victory over the Rose High School tennis team yesterday.

Rose is now 0-2 overall, and entertains Farmville Central on Friday.

In exhibition matches, Mark Tayloe of Washington downed Tom Johnson, 8-3, and Lee Bowen of Washington beat Lance Cain, 8-5.

Tarboro Eases Past North Pitt

TARBORO — Tarboro came up with two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning after North Pitt had tied the game to take a 3-1 win over the Panthers in the first contest of the year for both teams.

Tarboro took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Whitaker singled, moved to third on two walks and then scored on a fielder's choice.

North Pitt knotted the score in the fifth as Jeff Hines hit a double, went to third on an error and came home on Ken Perry's single.

But Tarboro moved back in front in their half of the frame. Braddy walked and stole second, then scored on Squires' double. Squires tallied when Crisp single-ed to make it 3-1.

Crisp was the leading hitter of the game, getting two of his team's seven hits in three at-bats, including a triple. North Pitt had three hits.

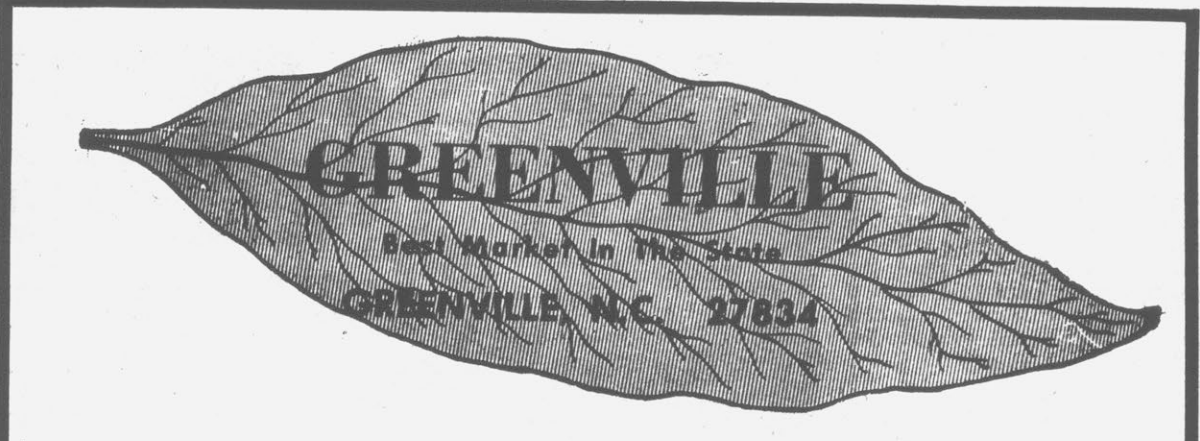

Wilder was the winning pitcher and Lee Andrews the loser. Both went the distance.

North Pitt is now 0-1 on the year and will play again Friday at Roanoke.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — While going from a rebounding basketball, Connecticut's Tony Hanson was pushed out of bounds and into the lap of a little woman sitting in the front row at the end of the court. The team's leading scorer and rebounder got up quickly but before he did he took time to kiss the little lady on the cheek.
The lady he kissed was his mother.

Philadelphia Is Back On The Track

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
The Philadelphia 76ers may be back on the track.
Having aired their gripes and spoken their pieces, the 76ers settled down to what they do best Tuesday night and routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 133-102.
"I think the stories cleared the air," suggested 76ers forward George McGinnis, referring to reports of discord on the team which had surfaced earlier this week. "Everybody came into the locker room tonight with a different attitude."
"If this can be a turning point for us, it couldn't come at a better time."
Indeed, if the 76ers are to go far in the National Basketball Association playoffs — which are only a month away — they will have to play better than they did for the past month, when they had difficulty breaking even.

The way they played against Cleveland would be just fine, however.
In other NBA games, the Denver Nuggets beat the Los Angeles Lakers 107-95, the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the New Orleans Jazz 131-104, the Kansas City Kings edged the Washington Bullets 101-99, the Chicago Bulls beat the Boston

Celtics 107-96 and the San Antonio Spurs stopped the New York Nets 118-108.
Julius Erving scored 29 points for Philadelphia and McGinnis had 23, including 13 in the decisive third period. The 76ers led 57-46 at intermission, started the second half with a 10-2 burst and outscored Cleveland 43-25 in the third quarter, putting the game away.

Nuggets 107, Lakers 95
Baskets by Dan Issel, Jim Price and David Thompson within a span of 16 seconds midway through the third quarter helped Denver beat Los Angeles in a matchup of the two teams with the best records in the NBA. That flurry stretched the Nuggets' lead to 17 points and the Lakers did not threaten after that.

Thompson led the Nuggets with 26 points while Bobby Jones had 15 points and 12 rebounds.
Blazers 131, Jazz 104
Portland snapped a three-game losing streak behind Lionel Hollins and Maurice Lucas, who scored 22 and 20 points, respectively, and handed New Orleans its eighth straight loss.

Kings 101, Bullets 99
Kansas City won its sixth in a row and dealt Washington its fourth straight defeat as Sam Lacey scored two baskets and a pair of free throws in the final minute, climaxing a Kings' rally that erased a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit.
Bulls 107, Celtics 96
Chicago posted its 10th victory in the last 11 games and moved within two games of the .500 mark as Artis Gilmore scored six of his 28 points in the final three minutes against Boston and Norm Van Lier and Wilbur Holland chipped in with five points apiece.
Spurs 118, Nets 108
Mark Olberding scored 22 points and tied his career high with 13 rebounds for San Antonio, which led by as many as 23 points in the third period and eased to victory.

St. Bonaventure Outlasts Oregon In Quarterfinals Of NIT Event

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Satalin aged 23 years in 13 seconds.
"I felt I was 53," said the St. Bonaventure basketball coach. Satalin in reality is 30, but it is no wonder he felt older after

St. Bonaventure's 76-73 victory over Oregon in the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.
The last few seconds obviously seemed like the longest mile to Satalin, what with the following events occurring:
—Greg Graham hit two foul shots for Oregon with 13 seconds left.
—Kelvin Small hit one foul shot at the 10-second mark for Oregon's 73rd point, then missed another attempt and the ball went out of bounds off a St. Bonaventure player.
—With eight seconds remaining and the score 76-73 in favor of the Bonnies, Oregon inbounded the ball and got it inside to Greg Ballard. But the Ducks' high scorer, looking for a three-point play, hit the rim and St. Bonaventure's Greg Sanders came down with the rebound at the buzzer.

The way the ball bounced sent St. Bonaventure into Thursday night's semifinals at Madison Square Garden against Villanova, which beat Massachusetts 81-71 in an earlier quarter-final game Tuesday night.
Alabama and Houston, which won quarter-final games Monday night, will play in the other semifinal.
The Bonnies appeared to have the Ducks in tow midway through the second half with a 15-point lead behind the dominating play of Sanders. But then they slowed things down, giving the Pac-8 team a chance to catch up.

Before the slowdown, though, the Bonnies had been speeding things up considerably behind the omnipresent Sanders. The left-handed shooting forward scored 30 points, including 20 in the second half.
The first game did not have nearly the drama as the night-cap. Villanova broke open the contest with a 20-9 second-half streak behind brothers Keith and Larry Herron. Keith Herron wound up with 20 points and Larry had 16.
Until then, the teams never had been more than four points apart. Villanova held a 45-44 lead at the 16:43 mark before going on its game-breaking streak.

Creswell Nips Bullets, 3-2

JAMESVILLE — Creswell scored two runs in the seventh inning, with the second coming on a squeeze bunt, to defeat Jamesville 3-2 in a baseball game yesterday afternoon.
Jamesville had taken a 2-0 lead in the fourth while Creswell got one in the fifth. Creswell's two seventh-inning runs provided the come from behind win.
In the fourth inning, Danny Lilley led off with a walk for the Bullets and got to second on Jeff Holliday's single. Both runners advanced on a passed ball and Danny Lilley scored as Victor Lilley got on an error. Glenn Ellis made a base hit to score Holliday.

Creswell made it 2-1 in the fifth as Chambers singled, moved to second on Clifton's sacrifice bunt and scored on Holton's long double to right center.
In the seventh, Holton led off with a single for Creswell and moved to second when Biggs was safe on an error. A sacrifice bunt by Bartley moved the runners to second and third and Holton came home on a single by Jim Clifton. That moved Biggs to third where he scored on a squeeze bunt for the winning run.

Workouts begin today in Rupp Arena for the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament, but North Carolina Charlotte Coach Lee Rose says his 49ers deserve a Purple Heart already.
UNC-Charlotte wrapped up the Sun Belt Conference tournament last Wednesday, edging New Orleans 71-70 for the championship.
The 49ers have since kept busy, defeating Central Michigan 91-86 in overtime in UNC-Charlotte's NCAA debut Sunday in first round action at Bloomington.
"I wasn't about to ask out of our tournament, because it's so important to the overall welfare of the conference," Rose said. "But since we already had the NCAA bid, I was stuck for something to tell the kids. I said, 'Let's prove we deserve to be in the N-AA.' But that's a pretty lame-duck argument."

UNC, ranked 17th, tackles sixth-ranked Syracuse Thursday in the first semifinal game at Rupp Arena; No. 1 Michigan and 12th-ranked Detroit meet in the televised second game.
Michigan Coach Johnny Orr says the Wolverines' game against Detroit will be "the greatest game for fan interest in our state's history."
Detroit will be first to spend an hour getting the feel of the 23,400-seat arena today, followed by Michigan, UNC-Charlotte and Syracuse.

DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

Forger Had Real 'Flair'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The style of James Melvin Kitchens as a forger apparently impresses even the police.

"He's probably the best check forger I've ever seen," said Lt. Jack Hamby, an investigator with the police fraud and document squad, whose memory for a face once landed Kitchens in prison for two years.

Kitchens, 65, is in the Shelby County Jail here awaiting trial on a 1975 check forgery case. In previous visits to Memphis, police said the Atlanta native forged more than $30,000 in bad checks.

Hamby remembered Kitchens from 1964 when he set himself up as Clifton Cotton, owner of the mythical firm Earth Movers, Inc.

"He established himself, then began passing around the phonies around Christmas time," Hamby said. "He not only gave the tellers a payroll check, he also deposited a Christmas bonus check. He got $20,000 — that we found out about."

Kitchens said he selected cities with a population of one million "because I've found that for every 5,000 people, there is a bank."

He would arrive, find out the largest employer in town and when they pay, and rent a room in which to keep his printing equipment.

"Then on a payday, I'll stand in line and offer to give someone cash for their paycheck, telling him I'll deposit his check in my account. They don't lose anything and they get out of line quicker, so they usually go ahead."

Then he erased the name, the amount and the signature and photocopied the check, producing a blank industrial paycheck. He printed about 100 or so of the bogus checks, he said, and then a complete set of phony identification cards.

His next step was to open bank accounts with at least three banks and write small checks on the legitimate accounts so the tellers and store clerks would get used to seeing him.

Then he struck. He would deposit, say a $500 payroll check, but withhold $300 in cash. With 100 bank branches, that's $30,000.

It worked, usually with flair, Hamby recalled 1964, when Kitchens was portraying Clifton Cotton:

"When he came around to cash the checks, he gave the tellers or store clerks a gold pen engraved with Clifton Cotton, Earth Movers, Inc."

"Just before he left town, he went to a car dealer, peeled off $100 bills, bought himself a new Thunderbird and drove away."

Kitchens is up for parole early next year from federal prison in Atlanta where he is serving a 15-year sentence for transporting his check printing press across state lines.

But he won't be finished with the law. Authorities in nine states are awaiting his release, either to serve time for some past misdeed or additional time for jail-break or to face new charges.

than has ever been done before."

She also expressed concern for laws relating to carnal knowledge of a female under the age of 12.

"I know of specific instances of boys who have been sexually abused by either men or women," she said.

"The only law that protects them is simple assault or contributing to the delinquency of a minor, both of which are misdemeanors and call for no more than two years in prison."

"The rape statute which applies to the carnal knowledge of females under 12 is the strongest of the rape crimes and is a capital offense."

"In a case like this, 'person' instead of 'female' would be beneficial."

Mrs. Tennala A. Gross of the North Carolinians United for ERA said pro-ERA forces have not given up the fight.

"We have no idea of giving up," she said.

"It is inconceivable that a democracy should continue to discriminate on basis of sex. The majority cannot deny the minority their legal equality."

"We'll have to have it eventually or stop calling ourselves a democracy. So we will keep on until the ERA is ratified."

The pro-ERA coalition plans to maintain its organization to continue to fight.

"We are planning involvement in the upcoming campaigns," said Mrs. Gross.

"We're really trying to get people elected who will vote for ERA. It was a political football this year — a question of power.

"Many legislators will say they aren't against equal rights for women. I think many of them are jealous of the power they've had and fear equal rights will curtail their power."

Mrs. Gross noted progress is being made in removing sex laws from the books.

"We are slowly taking the sex laws off the books," she said.

"But sex discrimination is so prevalent, it will take a long time. In the meantime, poor, less well-educated women are suffering."

Both Mrs. Gross and Mrs. Crisp placed much of the responsibility for the ERA's defeat on Sen. Sam Ervin, who spoke against the amendment.

"One of the things that helped do us in was Sen. Ervin," said Mrs. Gross.

"He spent most of his productive years in Congress, then he gets up and warns the people of North Carolina that Congress doesn't know how to make law."

"We trusted him when he was in Congress; how can we trust him now when he tells us Congress is untrustworthy?"

Mrs. Crisp agreed. "Sen. Sam Ervin contributed the most to the defeat," she said.

"I think he had the ERA confused with the REA (Rural Electrification Act)!" And both women think the ERA is a necessity.

"The ERA's passage would do a great deal in upgrading the positions of women who work in the home," said Nelson Crisp.

"We would put a much higher value on guiding the children, cooking the meals, running the home, carpooling and organizing the family's life."

"This would be mainly because ERA will put a higher value on women as people — they'll be looked upon more as equals than as people who need protection all the time."

Change is coming, according to Tennala Gross.

"The arguments of the 'con' people are falling by the wayside," she said.

"The amendment will assure us that the laws now being eliminated will not be brought back."

"Men and women need the strength of a constitutional amendment to assure our rights will remain."

THIRTY DAY OUTLOOK — This is the way the nation's weather looks for the next 30 days in terms of precipitation and temperature, seen by the National Weather Service in Washington, D.C. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Seek Non-Voters

The Pitt County Board of Elections mailed letters to some 5,855 persons in the county who have not voted for several years in their registered precincts.

Margaret Register, Elections executive secretary, said that the letters advised voters "to notify us either in person or by mail within 30 days...or your name will be...removed from our...books, making it necessary for you to register again in order to be eligible to vote."

She noted that the letters were sent to determine if voters still resided at the same address and if they wished to have their names remain on the registration records.

According to Miss Register, the Elections office received 2,400 responses as a result of the mailing.

She added that the law requires that the Board of Elections keep its registration files up to date.

Free Enterprise Teaching Aids

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce members are promoting the private enterprise system to area students by distributing "Economics for Young Americans" in the Greenville City Schools.

For some time, business men and women in North Carolina, and across the country have felt the need for more teaching of basic economics in our secondary schools. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States believes it has developed the tools to aid the schools in teaching the private enterprise system. The chamber's program includes film strips, scripts, ditto sheets, and teacher's guides that are written by teaching professionals.

The Chamber of Commerce Economic Education Committee Chairman, Dr. Louis Zincone, Jr. presented the program kit to the Greenville City Schools Tuesday morning. Glenn Cox, Greenville City Schools Superintendent and Mrs. Kay Whitehurst, Director of Secondary Education for Greenville City Schools received the program for the schools.

Supt. Cox commended the chamber members for their efforts in assisting the schools to teach the private enterprise system.

"I think that this is a real opportunity which will help us to meet the regulations that the 1975 General Assembly emphasized in economic instruction in the schools. The general assembly did not budget for the instruction and we thank the Chamber of Commerce for offering the general program of information," Supt. Cox said.

Dr. Zincone explained that the program will not only include an instructional kit for each ninth grade U.S. History class and each twelfth grade Economics class, but will also possibly include a speakers bureau and participation in the program by the N.C. Council of Economic Education.

Mrs. Whitehurst said that the teachers have already begun utilizing the program distributed by the chamber and will receive the kits this week.

Attends Meet Of Committee

Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt County Board of Elections, is attending a two-day meeting of the Legislative Study Committee of the N.C. Association of County Elections Boards and Executive Secretaries in Raleigh.

During today's session, the committee members were scheduled to meet with Louise D. Rehder, chairman of the committee.

On Thursday, the group will meet with the association's Election Laws Committee to discuss several bills that have been introduced in the General Assembly. A meeting is also scheduled with Alex K. Brock, director of the State Board of Elections.

Parent-Child Relations Class

Pitt Technical Institute will offer a course in Parent-Child Relations beginning Thursday, March 17 at 7 p.m. in room 113 of the Humber Building.

The course is designed to help parents deal with their children more effectively in personal communications. The class will meet each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. for ten weeks for a total of 30 hours of instruction. A tuition fee of $5 will be charged. Rev. Dan Earnhardt will be the instructor. All interested persons should attend the first class meeting. For further information contact the Division of Continuing Education at Pitt Tech at 756-3130, extension 238.

Secretarial Clinic Slated

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce and the Business Education and Office Administration Department at ECU are jointly sponsoring a Secretarial Clinic to be held March 23 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Candlewick Inn.

Sessions at the clinic will deal with job skills effective oral communications, budgeting of time, handling or responsibility and personal improvement including hair, makeup, carriage, wardrobe, voice, and attitudes.

To make reservations for the clinic, call the chamber office at 752-4101.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy Friday through Sunday with chance of showers in the mountains Friday and over the state Saturday, turning fair Sunday. Highs will average in the 60s and overnight lows in the 40s.

Top Acting In Brilliant Drama

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — I can't help it. I always think of Ingmar Bergman's flicks as gloomy, brooding versions whose sound effects all come from a morose troupe of Scandinavian symbol players.

so good. If you've not seen it, catch Part Two of this six-part series on public TV tonight or the night it airs in your area. This is a must-see.

It first aired on Swedish TV in 1973, then was edited into a long movie that gave New York's smart set something new to twitter about for at least 48 hours. Now it's back in its original TV form. Its basic premise is that love and marriage don't always go together like a horse and carriage. And it depicts the slow collapse of a seemingly perfect middle-class marriage with surgical precision. The proceedings star Liv Ullman and Erland Josephson (their voices dubbed in English, and excellently, by Paulette Rubenstein and Richard Mulligan), as the gradually unhappy modern couple. Parents of two kids, veterans of a 10-year marriage, he's a behavioral scientist, she's a divorce lawyer. She's on her second marriage, the first having ended shortly after her first child died in infancy.

Last week's premiere — the gist of which is briefly re-capped tonight — ended on a sad note of abortion, but began amid happy sounds as the "perfect" couple was interviewed for a women's magazine.

Martial bliss was jokingly expressed by Josephson thus way: "It's almost disgusting. I mean, security, order, comfort, loyalty. Such success almost borders on the indecent."

But in that show, a hint of ominous things to come arrived when another couple, while dining at the lovebirds' home, began a shrill, drunken quarrel that was kind of a No-Cal "Virginia Woolf."

The most pleasant tournament on the American Contract Bridge League's calendar is the regional championship held each January in Bermuda. Large contingents from Canada and the New England states flock to this island paradise for a brief respite from the wintry chill.

Players who have been following the Bols bridge tips would have had an easy time on this deal from the 1977 Bermuda Regional, held at the Southampton Princess. The key play, an "intra-finesse," was the subject of Gabriel Chagas' bridge tip.

Although the final contract was not the soundest of undertakings, we can find no fault with the bidding. North was certainly worth a jump to three spades at his first turn, and his fifth trump, second-round club control and ace of diamonds persuaded him to cuebid on the next round. After that, South took over, and settled for a small slam when he discovered that three kings were missing.

West led a diamond and declarer was not prepared to risk his contract by running that to his queen—which was just as well. He won the ace of diamonds, and drew trumps in two rounds, ending in his hand. As is evident to the reader looking only at the North-South hands, declarer's problem was to hold his heart losers to one.

He led a low heart and when West followed low without a care, declarer decided to play East for the king—few Wests would have the fortitude to duck smoothly if they held the king. Therefore, declarer inserted dummy's seven. East won the jack and tried to cash the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy, and the crux of the hand had been reached.

After some thought, declarer made the winning

TOBACCO GROWERS TALK ABOUT VIKING SHIP® CALCIUM NITRATE

"We went all the way with Calcium Nitrate based on my neighbor's experience"

Jim Norris
Timmonsville, S.C.

"This past year it didn't rain for a month after transplanting, but with Calcium Nitrate I didn't have to re-set my crop even once. 'CN' got my crop off to a faster start than 'soda' and then gave out when it's supposed to. My crop matured out quicker and more uniform than before. I'll be using 'CN' again next year."

One Center Has Improved Heart Transplant Chance

EDITOR'S NOTE — It's still a chancy, last-resort operation, and there are fewer heart transplants now than during their heyday in the late 1960s. But one medical center has greatly improved the survival rate, and there are signs of new interest in this surgery. Second of a series.

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — William Van Buuren has had his second heart for more than seven years now and says, at the age of 47, "I expect to go on for another 20 or 25 years."

At a time when most cardiac surgeons still feel the results of heart transplants don't justify the costs, Van Buuren has this message for those whose hearts are damaged beyond repair: "Take it any time you can; it's your last hope."

The wave of enthusiasm for heart replacements that followed the first successful transplant in 1967 faded.

But there are signs that the operation may soon make a comeback at certain medical centers in this country, where interest reportedly is stirring anew because of the rising success rate of Stanford University surgeons. The steadily improving survival rates are largely the result of a determined campaign by Stanford doctors against the body's rejection of a transplanted heart and against infections that kill many transplant patients.

Nearly four out of five patients are surviving the first year after the operation at Stanford — the only institution in the country regularly performing transplants. Nine years ago, when the program began, only 22 per cent, or slightly more than one in five, of the patients survived for a year or more.

Of 117 patients receiving new hearts at Stanford, 45 patients — including Van Buuren, a building estimator from Mill Valley, Calif. — still are alive; four have survived five years or more.

Worldwide, 70 patients are living, of 328 transplants performed.

"I think the improving results are encouraging surgeons at other institutions to try transplants again," said Dr. Jack Copeland, chief resident in general surgery at Stanford.

In fact, a few days after Copeland made the statement in an interview, doctors at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York placed a donor's heart in the chest of a dying patient. It was the first heart transplant in the city since 1969.

Copeland, who is moving to the University of Arizona medical school, said transplant programs may begin by 1979 at Arizona and within one to three years at Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, N.Y. Surgeons from Harvard Medical School, which has a well-funded research program in animal transplants, are very seriously considering human transplants, he said.

The Stanford surgeons, headed by Dr. Norman Shumway, believe that their operations are justified by the extra years they can offer patients who almost certainly would be dead within a few months.

Van Buuren, who was told in 1970 that he had three months to live, says he had no trouble making the decision. He says he now lives a "more or less normal" life, while patients he knew who decided against the transplant are dead.

There was a flurry of transplants for two or three years after Dr. Christiaan Barnard performed the first human heart replacement in Cape Town, South Africa, in December 1967.

But most surgeons soon gave up, unable to maintain the delicate balance of suppressing the body's natural rejection of the foreign heart without leaving the patient defenseless against infection.

Rejection and infection still cause nearly all the deaths from heart transplants, but at Stanford some advances have been made on both fronts.

Recently, an antiserum from the blood of rabbits has had striking success in preventing rejection. The antiserum suppresses the body's attempts to destroy the foreign heart. In more than 35 patients treated with the antiserum, called Rabbit ATG (antithymocyte globulin), survival for nearly three years has been about 70 per cent, compared with 33 per cent three-year survival for all patients during the nine years of the program.

With Rabbit ATG "there is a smaller number of rejection episodes and a greater interval between the transplant and the first rejection," said Copeland. This means the patient can be given a lower dose of other immunosuppressive drugs, thereby decreasing the chance of infection.

Another weapon against rejection is a biopsy device that is threaded through a neck vein and deep into the heart's pumping chamber to snip a bit of tissue. Studied under the microscope, the tissue gives early warning when rejection is beginning so that steps to suppress it can be taken quickly.

There have been six cases lately in which a failing transplanted heart was removed by Stanford surgeons and replaced with another — giving the patient his third heart of his life. Three of these retransplant patients survived, two of them for more than one year.

If a transplant renaissance is under way, it has not yet been felt by the prestigious American Heart Association.

"I do not detect any resurgence of interest," said Dr. Russell M. Nelson, chairman of the AHA's Council on Cardiovascular Surgery, a group that helps recommend where research money should be spent. Speaking in a telephone interview from a meeting of thoracic (chest) surgeons in San Francisco, Nelson said, "The real interest is in repairing hearts."

He said that recent "brilliant work in saving hearts has taken the heat off of transplants." He referred specifically to the recently developed coronary bypass operation which an estimated 65,000 patients will undergo this year to reroute blood flow through blocked coronary arteries.

Nevertheless, Copeland told an AHA science writers forum in San Antonio, Tex., recently that there are more patients awaiting new hearts than there are donors. The patients selected by Stanford are those whose hearts are so severely damaged that they will die in a few months, but who are not so near death that they have little chance of surviving the operation.

What kind of lives do the survivors lead?

"Fairly normal," said Copeland. "There are some limitations — we don't want them to engage in contact sports...they generally wear a surgeon's mask when they are around a hospital (because of their vulnerability to infections), and we have them seek attention quickly for any sign of infection."

How N.C. Congressmen And Senators Cast Votes

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes March 3-9.

$50 REBATE Rejected, 194 for and 219 against, a Republican-sponsored move to substitute a permanent income tax cut for the one-shot $50 rebate advocated by President Carter. The attempt came in the form of a motion to send the overall bill back to committee. Its defeat left Carter's rebate proposal intact.

This vote occurred during debate on the major tax-cut bill originated by the Administration and generally favored by the Democratic majority in Congress.

The bill (HR 3477), later passed and sent to the Senate, provides in part for a rebate of $50 for each standard deduction claimed on 1976 tax returns; similar payments to the very poor and other non-tax-paying persons; an additional tax cut in the form of a raised standard deduction to take effect with pay checks issued May 1, 1977, and a business tax credit to encourage employers to step up hiring.

Supporters of the permanent tax cut argued it would best generate the disposable income the lagging economy needs. Rep. Barber Conable (R-N.Y.) called it a "much sounder economic strategy than the ($50 rebate) which offers neither a sharp stimulative impact nor a permanent reduction upon which consumers can base long-term spending plans." Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.) defended the one-shot rebate stimulus. "The package we offered is balanced," he said. "It will go into effect immediately. It will have an early impact."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Charles Whitley (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Lamar Gudger (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Richardson Preyer (D-6) and W. G. Hefner (D-8) voted "nay."

Rep. Charles Rose (D-7) did not vote.

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS Rejected, 161 for and 252 against, an amendment to spend $81.6 million this fiscal year for development of another nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, the Navy's fifth. It was proposed to HR 3839, a fiscal 1977 budget bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

If it stands, this vote will signal a major shift in U. S. naval tactics, away from the existing large "Nimitz" fueled carriers and toward construction of smaller conventionally-fueled carriers. The latter are less vulnerable to enemy missiles, but require as-yet-unperfected vertical takeoff and landing (V-STOL) jet aircraft.

Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Fla.), a supporter of the amendment, said: "We should have both the Nimitz carriers and the small carriers. We cannot have both now but we can have the Nimitz carrier. A vote (against) the $81.6 million expenditure) simply means a backward step."

Rep. Joseph Addabbo (D-N.Y.), an opponent, said that the present secretary of defense and his predecessor both oppose building another Nimitz carrier. "They feel we need two small aircraft carriers that can be easily dispersed, rather than one large sitting duck," he said. "This is what we're debating."

Jones, Fountain and Martin voted "yea."

Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Guder voted "nay."

SPORTS PANEL Rejected, 75 for and 271 against, a resolution to continue the Select Committee on Professional Sports. Those voting "nay" opposed the committee, which was created in the last Congress to study anti-trust questions, the hazards of artificial turf and other matters relating to pro sports.

Rep. Frank Horton (R-N.Y.), a committee member and supporter of the resolution, said "we are talking about a very small budget . . . a frugal operation, to look at a very important area of our economy and our society — the sports field."

Rep. Charles Wiggins (R-Calif.), an opponent, said: "I frankly would be embarrassed if I were to vote for it. I suggest it might be a matter of some embarrassment to the Members voting for it. It just might tell the constituents . . . much more than they would want to tell the constituents about our own sense of priorities around here."

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Guder voted "nay."

Andrews did not vote.

Senate

WARNKE Confirmed, 58 for and 40 against, the nomination of Paul C. Warnke as chief U. S. negotiator in strategic arms limitation (SALT) conferences with the Soviet Union. Later, by a much wider margin, the Senate confirmed Warnke to serve also as director of the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Warnke's nomination as SALT negotiator was bitterly contested out of fear he might give too much to the Soviets. Although failing to block his appointment, his detractors succeeded in denying him a two-thirds majority — a symbolic victory because any new SALT treaty will need a two-thirds vote to be confirmed by the Senate.

One supporter, Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.), said: "Ultimately, the responsibility for any SALT II agreements will rest with the President and the Congress. I am confident that Mr. Warnke can and will provide both branches of government with the information and advice necessary for wise decisions."

Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.), an opponent, said that "two or 20 or 40 votes against the Warnke nomination is significant in the further efforts of mankind to save itself from extinction."

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Elevated Roads Proved Costlier

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — When Interstate 55 is completed, Louisiana will get a breather from construction of swamp expressways. And that's good news for taxpayers.

A swamp expressway is an elevated highway which costs about $7 million a mile to build. By comparison, a highway can be built on solid ground like that in north Louisiana for $1 million a mile.

The Louisiana highway department realized in the 1930s that the ground is so soft in many parts of south Louisiana that roads laid on it tend to sink.

The first elevated highway was a one-mile section of U.S. 61 thrown across the Bonnet Carre spillway in 1935.

Although that structure was built to function as a bridge when the spillway gates are opened, it provided valuable experience.

Since then, another 33 miles of roads on stilts have been constructed — most of it as interstate projects — and a 211-mile elevated stretch of I-55 between Laplace and Hammond is underway.

When completed in three or four years it will be the single longest elevated road in the state, parallel to an existing surface road.

No other elevated roads are on the drawing boards.

The elevated highways are a joy to environmentalists, says highway director W.T. Taylor, who does not always see eye-to-eye with environmentalists.

"The elevated highways don't disturb the flow of water or affect the ecological balance in marsh areas," Taylor said. "And, animals can travel beneath them without danger of being killed."

Such highways can also save human lives, he said.

For example, the old federal-state, two-lane highway that parallels the new elevated portion of I-55 has been closed at times during hurricanes because of high water. "Motorists won't have any trouble getting out of danger on an elevated highway because it won't go under water," said Taylor.

The spans are held up by prestressed concrete pilings 120 feet long. The pilings are driven nearly 100 feet deep into the swamp, leaving the highways some 24 feet above the marsh.

The 55 miles of elevated roadways either completed or under construction represent a total cost of $320 million.

"They are built to stay, but at that cost it's sure a pleasure to award a contract for a road built on solid ground," said Taylor.

NOT A BILLIONAIRE? — Houston attorney James Dilworth says the late Howard Hughes may have been a very rich man, but he was never a billionaire. Dilworth, who represents Hughes' aunt, Annette Gano Lumms' says those people who believe Hughes' estate is worth $2.5 billion are really going to be shocked when a report on the estate's real worth is filed with the courts involved in the probate of the Hughes estate. Songbirds Are A Tasty Dish

By SUSAN DEFORD
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Many small songbirds that land in Cyprus to rest during migrations between Europe and Africa end up on restaurant tables or in pickling jars.

Catching and eating the small migratory birds is a centuries-old practice in Cyprus and other Mediterranean countries, including Southern Italy, France, Greece, Lebanon and Syria.

Cypriot law forbids capturing birds by nets or "lime sticks," the traditional apparatus for snaring the tasty little songbirds. But to date the law has been ineffective, wildlife protection societies complain.

Although no official records are kept, the annual catch in Cyprus during the spring and autumn migrations is "colossal," according to an official of one of the island's two ornithological societies.

Lime sticks are strips of wood coated with a sticky substance made of tree resin and honey. They are placed in trees and bushes to catch the birds as they land.

Hunting "ambelopoulia," or "birds of the vine trees," is centered in the southeast region of Cyprus. Most of the catch belongs to the blackcap-warbler species.

In Ayios Theodoros, a village of 2,200 near the southeast coast of Cyprus, a local grocer defends killing amelopoulia.

"We like the birds, they are beautiful, but it's better to eat them," says Xenophon Pafitis, 70.

The amelopoulia season for this village lasts for a month between September and October. Last fall, the villagers estimate, they caught 48,000 birds and sold them to groceries throughout the island for $24,000.

"We never have trouble selling the birds," Pafitis said. "They make good meze," appetizers eaten with wine or brandy.

The birds, boiled in water and then placed in vinegar, are smaller than eggs. They have a tangy, light taste and hair-like bones that are eaten along with the rest.

The birds are sent abroad as gifts to friends or relatives, but their importation has been banned in Great Britain and South Africa.

Penalties for catching amelopoulia are stiff, but seldom applied. A first offense is punishable by a fine of $240 or six months' imprisonment or both. A second offense brings a fine of $480, one year's imprisonment or both.

"The law is enforced," said Costas Papamichael, a biologist in the ministry of interior's game and wild life service, "but catching the birds is done at night and early in the morning. If no one sees it being done we cannot enforce the law."

Small Rise For Apparel Prices

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Clothing prices this year are expected to rise, but probably less than the prices of other consumer goods, says an extension family economics and management specialist here.

Kathy Prochaska of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln says the average consumer spent $345 on clothing and shoes last year, 5.2 per cent more than in 1975. She said a similar rate of increase is expected for 1977.

Ms. Prochaska said about half the increase is due to higher prices, and the other half to increased buying. She said the actual price hike for clothing was only about 3.5 per cent, compared with an average six per cent increase in prices for all consumer goods.

Rustless Pins Are Developed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — New stainless steel push-pins with aluminum heads have been developed in response to greater demand for these products in the home, to use in wet-blocking needlework or woolen garments and fabrics where rust-marks would be a problem.

Push-pins traditionally have been used for office, school and home bulletin boards where rust is not a factor. The new type, identified by a large S on the head, withstands repeated exposure to moisture and liquids without corrosive effect, says the manufacturer.

They are recommended also for use in embroidery, macrame, tie-dying and batik work; for stretching canvas, mounting delicate specimens and models and labeling houseplants.

The new type will be sold in packages of 20 pins and in boxes of 100.

Many Resort To Fast Food Fare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fast-food restaurant patrons are most likely to come from families with a per capita annual income of $4,000 to $7,000, although all income level households buy fast food, too. More than 7 out of 10 persons in a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey said at least one member of their family had bought such food last year. One-third of the families that patronized fast-food restaurants said one member of the family ate there at least once weekly.

Hands Squeezed For Headaches

By JOHN LEIGHTY (UPI) — SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dr. Howard Kurtland squeezes a lot of hands these days — to cure headaches. The neurologist says his do-it-yourself technique of applying pressure can be used by anyone, even migraine headache sufferers. Dr. Kurtland gave up prescribing drugs for all headaches several years ago. Now he uses an "acupressure" method which he pioneered. "It is an instant cure," Dr. Kurtland says confidently of the use of certain pressure points to relieve pain. To prove it, he has relieved headache sufferers on live television programs, at lectures and during lunches. He usually uses thumbnail pressure at a point in the triangle of flesh between the thumb and the index finger, but there are other points that can be used if pain persists. "If I can do it, you can do it," says Dr. Kurtland. "It's the same technique. And it's medically tested." The method, which involves applying an intense pressure for 15 to 30 seconds, is explained and illustrated in the book, "Quick Headache Relief Without Drugs" (Morrow, $7.95). Kurtland, a professor of psychiatry at Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago, says the book resulted from a demonstration he gave to a convention of psychiatrists in Anaheim, Calif., in 1975. During a talk to his colleagues, he offered to cure anyone in the audience who had a headache. About a dozen people took him up on the offer — most skeptically — until their cranial throbbing vanished. Kurtland says a Board of Acupressure Medicine has now been formed and, "I think in time it will be part of everyone's medical treatment." Based on the pressure points of acupuncture, the Chinese needle treatment, Kurtland's method removes the need for pain-killing drugs, such as aspirin, which he says Americans consume at the rate of 100,000 pounds a day. "Some over-the-counter drugs contain toxic chemicals I would never prescribe," Kurtland said. He emphasizes that acupressure is a limited medical technique and that physicians should be consulted, particularly if headaches persist.

Project Gives Kids A Taste Of Govm't

MINDEN, La. (AP) — After sentencing a defendant convicted of chewing gum in class, the new city judge here got his first lesson in practical politics. "When's the next election?" the defendant asked as she was led away to pay her 10-cent fine. She was fined another 10 cents for contempt of court. The two participants in that courtroom drama are students at Webster Junior High School. They and their fellow students are learning how local government functions by running their own city government for "Civics City." And Principal O.D. Mims says the students take their government jobs seriously. Mims, too, felt the power of the court when a student judge fined him $2 for leaving his car too long in a school parking lot. Civics City Court is held each Friday, when students who were issued citations during the week must account for breaking school rules. Fines imposed by the court are used to finance class projects. The students have found each other guilty of such transgressions as throwing paper, chewing gum in class and talking out of turn. Elections are held each month to fill the city jobs — mayor, city commissioners, policemen, judges, attorneys and ward marshals — all of which are elective. "We have few discipline problems in this class," says teacher Nody Parker who began the program in his civics class. "The students are often harsher with each other than a teacher or principal would be. "Our misbehavior has practically stopped. The students are learning and having fun." Mims says the students are having such a good time that they don't realize they are learning something. "And they also remember it," he says. During the gum chewing case, the defendant seemed to be making points with her argument that the government's chief witness could not have seen the crime being committed. But the argument collapsed when the judge noticed the defendant was still chewing gum. "If you didn't have that gum in your mouth now," the judge said, "I might have found you innocent. I fine you 10 cents. "Next case."

Search For 'Nessie' Will Be Resumed

By JACQUELINE HUARD
BOSTON (UPI) — Dr. Robert Rines in June will resume his seven-year hunt for the legendary Loch Ness Monster, hoping to silence skeptics who say there is no large creature in the murky Scotland waters.

"We know there is something real there, and if it's what we suspect it is, it may be the natural history find of man's whole existence," said the 54-year-old patent lawyer and founder of Franklin Pierce Law Center in Concord, N.H.

"We have to get close enough to get evidence needed by people who can identify these things."

Rines and photographer Charles Wyckoff, a fellow member of the Boston-based Academy of Applied Science that Rines founded, in January installed underwater cameras in Loch Ness with a revised computer trigger system.

"We tested this out and have refined it to a point so we can make sure that the camera doesn't get triggered by a school of fish until it's one of these big things within camera range," Rines said.

The "big things" Rines referred to are the animals or animal he believes populate waters off the town of Drumnadrochit, Scotland. In 1975, after Rines had been exploring the 900-foot-deep Loch for five years, an underwater camera caught a shadowy shape of what he said appeared to be a large, reptilian looking head with a long neck-like projection.

The photograph, coupled with a 1972 shot of what Rines described as a belly fin, only intensified his belief in Nessie's existence.

"I suppose if I hadn't had the misfortune of seeing the back of one of these things in 1972, I would have walked away," he said.

The expedition team was disappointed but not discouraged last summer by results from more than 100,000 time-elapsed photographs. They theorized a drought had lowered the Loch's level so the usual salmon spawning runs were not taking place to draw the animal from its lower depths to feed.

Rines said sonar equipment in Loch Ness last summer picked up on a sizeable object, but it was below camera range. "The contact coincided with a startling hydrophone detection ... of chip-like or rattle-like sounds which ceased before we could begin tape-recording," he said.

The camera was "shooting blind," Rines said. But he hopes the new trigger system will not activate the equipment unless something "big enough with the right dimensions and characteristics" comes within range.

The revamped cameras are powered from shore instead of by batteries, allowing pictures every three or four seconds for a sequence of shots rather than just one still photograph. He said the team also may use a submarine to retrieve artifacts from the depths of Loch Ness or to explore underwater caves.

"As far as we're concerned, all that's going to happen in the future is we'll get better pictures of the same thing," said Rines, adding he's encouraged other scientists have joined the hunt.

"Now we have independent sonar experts getting exactly the same characteristics. Now it's been reproduced, and not just by me," he said. "It's a vitally important study in the way the scientific community is reacting to good hard data that stretches the imagination."

"We've been challenged to identify what these things are to demonstrate that science has got to have a much more open mind than it has in the past in these areas."

More Mothers Head Families

NEW YORK (AP) — Families headed by mothers have almost doubled over the last decade according to U.S. government statistics. The head of the household in one out of every 13 families is a woman. These 4.4 million women may be divorced, separated, widowed or single and according to the American Council of Life Insurance, their median age is 43.4 years.

The biggest problem in a woman-headed household is often financial, they said. Only a third of the households polled by the Council had earnings of $10,000 or more. About 54 percent of the women heading families were working in 1975.

Houseplant 'Hotel' Is His Sideline

By STEVE KIDNEY
FALLS CHURCH, Va. (UPI) — Leaving town and worried about your plants? Concerned because your delicate fern and lovely Swedish ivy are looking peaked?

Take heart. Bob Blakeley's Plant Hotel in this Washington, D.C. suburb will babysit your begonia or resuscitate your rhododendron. Reservations not necessary, rates reasonable.

"Boarding costs are 25 cents per plant per day for any type or size of plant, as long as two men can carry it," said Blakeley in an interview. Pickup and delivery are slightly extra.

The U.S. Patent Office says his is the only business registered as a plant hotel, and he has copyrighted the name and is thinking of franchising.

He keeps his hotel guests in one of several large, sunlit rooms and makes sure they are properly fed and watered. Plant lights provide the closest thing to sunshine during evenings and regulate exposure for each plant.

Speakers provide music to grow by.

"I play all kinds of music — easy listening, classical, pop music," said Blakeley, "I'm trying to break them into country right now. I don't go for that loud stuff. I don't like it, so I figure the plants wouldn't like it either."

Blakeley, a native of Phoenix City, Ala. and a tree surgeon for 18 years, started the hotel as part of a plant store he opened last June. He has had his hands full since: "We took in 1,500 boarders in our first three months."

Increasingly, he found himself nursing sick plants.

"I didn't start out with any idea of a plant hospital, but people came in with sick plants and wanted help," he said. So he created a special intensive care ward.

Sick plants are separated from healthy ones, diagnosed and treated. Treatment may include spraying for insects or disease, pruning, fertilizing, re-potting. One recent patient was a seven-foot Norfolk Island pine.

"He kept my sick plant for two weeks when I went to Florida," says Lucy Wallace of Alexandria. "He talks to them, plays music for them, and puts them to bed at night. When I got it back, it was wonderfully healthy and had grown new shoots."

Blakeley's biggest challenge was transporting a 17-foot split-leaf philodendron to the hotel for a month-long stay while its owners were moving. He built a special crate for the fragile vine.

"We were really worried about what to do with it," said Mrs. John Quick of Gaithersburg, Md. "We were between houses and needed a temporary place for three large plants."

"We heard about the Plant Hotel and called Mr. Blakeley. He was very accommodating and very inexpensive. He did a super job. It's a super service for people with expensive plants."

Blakeley also rents plants by the day or week, and arranges "plant parties." For a party Blakeley will arrive with a couple of dozen different plants, give a brief lecture on care, then answer questions on selection and maintenance.

The plants are for sale, and the host receives free plants and a cash percentage.

Blakeley's full-time employees include his son, Robert Jr., and John Cox, 18, soon to be Blakeley's son-in-law.

"We're coming into our busiest time of year right now," said Blakeley, who stocks his salesroom from his nursery in Ft. Pierce, Fla. "We hope to move to a bigger, street-level location before the end of the year."

Weather Report Put Into Rhyme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After working 34 years for the National Weather Service, Oscar Nichols, a 57-year-old meteorologist here, decided to do something new. He sent the weather report across the wires all in rhyme.

For example: "Strong winds will develop over the ocean and over the land; Creating in the desert areas of blowing dust and sand."

"Now bright blue skies will bring sunny and warm days; And super visibility since the wind swept out the haze."

The idea for a rhyming forecast came from Wayne McCarter, another weatherman, who, Nichols said "breaks into verse every now and then."
