

Dedicating New Pitt Hospital Saturday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

When the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital building is dedicated tomorrow, it will mark an end to a 10-year effort that began when officials of the North Carolina Medical Care Commission met with members of the hospital's Board of Trustees and the medical staff to discuss a proposed expansion program.

Something had to be done. More space was needed. The old facility, opened in 1951, was no longer adequate. That was in August, 1967.

Two months later, Charles P. Cardwell, vice-president of the Medical College of Virginia was hired to conduct a feasibility study for the expansion proposal and he recommended a 350-bed facility with the capacity to become a regional medical center.

In August, architects were hired to develop an expansion program, then in March, 1969 members of the hospital board met with members of the Medical Care Commission to discuss three proposals: a minimum renovation of the old building, a major renovation, or construction of a completely new facility. The Medical Care Commission encouraged a new facility, indicating that it would cost almost as much to renovate the old building as it would to construct a new hospital.

Two months later, County Commissioners, trustees and the medical staff decided to push for a $9 million bond issue with which to fund a new facility. At that time a $2 million grant was expected from federal sources.

An $11 million hospital was in the planning stages.

The $9 million bond issue was approved by voters on November 3, 1970 by a vote of 6,190 to 5,341 — a 53.68 per cent majority.

In April 1971, 97 acres of land were purchased as the site for the new building and in October, approval was received for the addition of a rehabilitation center to be added to plans for the hospital.

Things seemed to be moving well until August, 1972 when the president vetoed a Health, Education and Welfare bill that killed all prospects of receiving $2 million in federal funds for the proposed facility. In essence, the county was some $2 million short of having enough money.

So, in February 1973, County Commissioners and hospital trustees agreed to borrow $2 million, and four months later the group met in Raleigh to work out the final details for the sale of the bonds. The project was off the ground.

Ground was broken for the new medical facility on February 14, 1974. Tomorrow, the new building will be dedicated and patients will move into the hospital April 30.

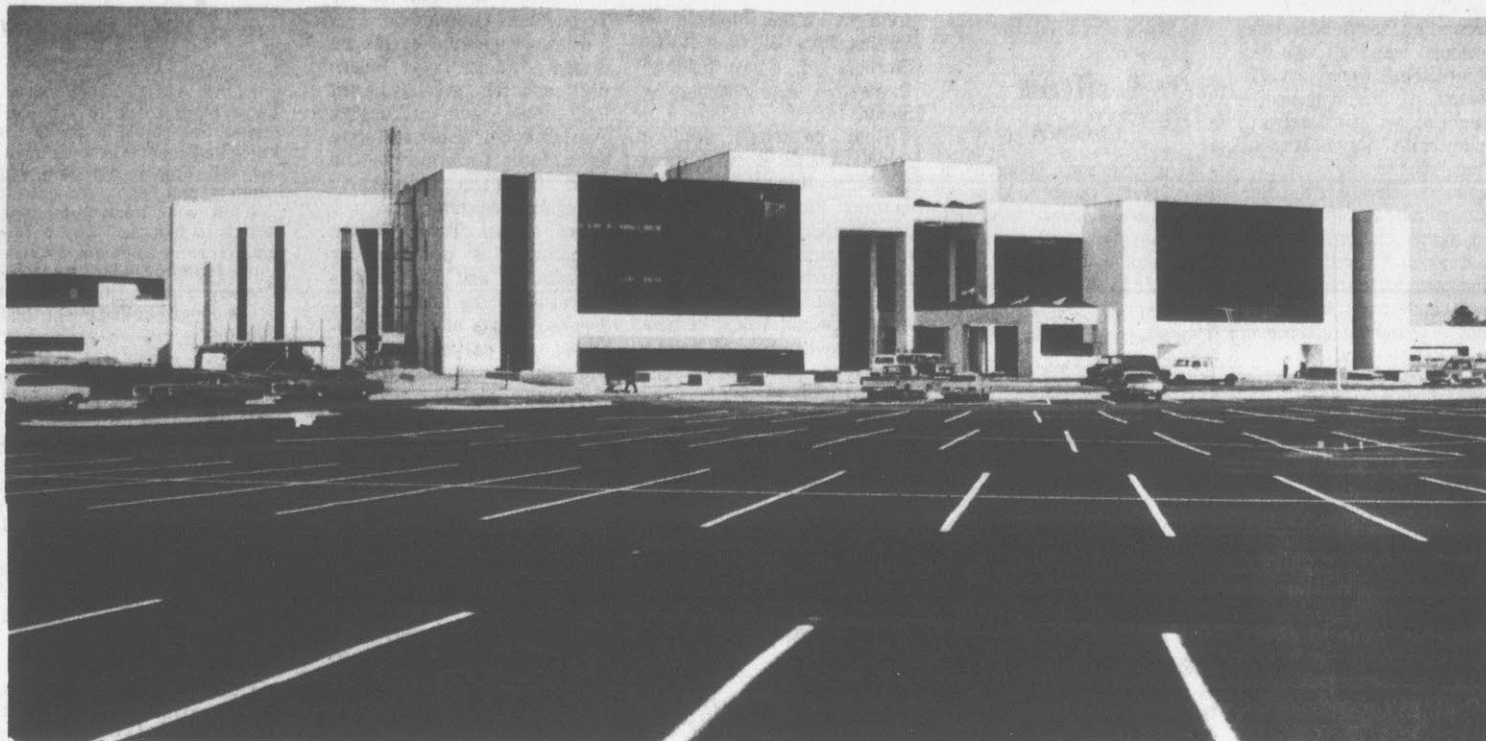

But the events that led to the construction of the facility don't tell the whole story.

The new building is the fourth hospital in Greenville. In 1923, Drs. Charles Laughinghouse, Karl B. Pace, E. T. Dickerson and W. I. Wooten rented space above H. L. Hodges' store on Fifth Street to set up a temporary hospital while the county's first medical facility — a new 42-bed facility on Johnson Street, costing $85,000 — was being built.

Prior to that time, local residents had to travel to Rocky Mount, Kinston, Washington or to Richmond and Norfolk, for hospital care.

Pitt Community Hospital opened in April 1924 and the temporary facility closed. Then in

Carter Airs Strategy In Negotiating

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has outlined a negotiating strategy for nuclear arms talks that calls for a major reduction in weapons levels, but sets out a "fallback" position of far less ambition.

"For a change," Carter told a news conference Thursday, the United States will seek "actual substantial reductions" in the number of nuclear weapons held by the United States and the Soviet Union.

This represents a major change from past agreements, which set a ceiling of 2,400 missile launchers for each side with the remaining questions dealing with the types of weapons to be included.

In his news conference, the President also said:

"That inflation this year is likely to hit 6 per cent "or a little better" and that he plans to send Congress a strong "anti-inflation package within two weeks.

—That he would "aggressively move to admit Vietnam to the United Nations and normalize relations" with Hanoi if Vietnam acts in good faith to account for Americans still listed as missing in action.

—That the United States has "no outstanding commitments in Zaire" and that "we have no hard evidence or any evidence that Angolans or Cubans have crossed the border into Zaire."

Carter said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is leaving for Moscow tonight with an agenda ranging from Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) talks to demilitarizing the Indian Ocean.

But indications are that the nuclear arms question dominates the secretary's mission, the first U.S. attempt to move the SALT talks since the two sides deadlocked last year.

Carter did not disclose what cuts Vance will propose, but Paul Warnke, chief U.S. SALT negotiator, told The Associated Press in an interview that the President "is prepared to go pretty far."

Other officials indicated Carter might propose a reduction for both countries to about 1,800 missile launchers and bombers. The current count shows the United States holding some 2,320 missile launchers and strategic bombers and the Russians about 2,660.

Hoping Avoid Errors

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States reportedly is urging Vietnam to let U.S. experts examine any further bodies before the Hanoi government publicly identifies them as remains of American servicemen.

If this is done, U.S. officials say, it should be possible to avoid repeating a mixup in which the Vietnamese mistakenly identified two of 12 men whose remains were turned over to a presidential commission.

The Pentagon reported Thursday that one of the men whose bodies was returned by Hanoi was Lt. Patrick E. Wynne of Satellite Beach, Fla., not Capt. Lawrence H. Golberg of Cloquet, Minn. Wynne was flying with Golberg when their F4C Phantom jet was downed on Aug. 8, 1966.

Wynne's father, Edward, said he was informed of the mix-up Wednesday in a phone call from Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

"He indicated there had been a mistake and expressed his sorrow and the President's sorrow," said Wynne. "We're taking the news with mixed emotions. It's a relief to finally know, but there's a lot of sadness in knowing."

In the second case of mistaken identification, the Pentagon said the remains "appear to be those of a Vietnamese," rather than Maj. Curtis A. Eaton of Wakefield, R.I.

The names of Golberg and Eaton appeared on the list of 12 that Hanoi identified on Sept. 7 as having been shot down and killed during the Vietnam war. The same list was used when the remains, in 12 metal caskets, were given to the U.S. commission during its visit to Hanoi.

The Pentagon said U.S. Central Identification Laboratory experts in Honolulu had detected the two mistakes while positively establishing the identity of the other 10 Air Force and Navy officers.

Officials said they have no way to check on the accuracy of the Vietnamese list until the remains are in their possession.

A senior U.S. official said the situation already has been discussed with the Vietnamese.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Legislative Concern Over 'Chilling' Revenue Report

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A legislative leader says a chilling report on state tax collections may make more cutting back in state government necessary.

"It is a very disappointing report..." said Rep. Edward Holmes, D-Chatham, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, as he said additional retrenchment may be needed.

The legislature's Fiscal Research Division said that if state general fund tax collections do not improve, revenues for the present quarter may fall $35 million below budget estimates.

Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, House majority leader, and Rep. Ben Tison, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee on the Base Budget, agreed the report was discouraging but were hopeful that conditions would improve.

"I think the economy is snapping back, and I am more optimistic about the revenue picture for the next few months," said Tison.

"I think the picture will improve in the next few months and by July it will be all right," said Rountree.

Holmes said although it is too early to determine how the state will wind up the fiscal year financially, the report "makes our job in appropriations more difficult...and it indicates we will have to try even harder to eliminate any waste or unnecessary state functions."

The report said the state's personal income tax collection through withholding "is disappointing." It said the "poor performance" is "a reflection of the economic pause during the middle and latter part of 1976" and also reflects higher income tax refunds.

In raising the possibility that revenues for the current quarter could drop $35 million below estimates, the report said that "while some of this decrease is undoubtedly due to the energy crisis this winter, the major effects of that crisis will not be felt until the March, April and May (revenue) reports."

The end of the report was more cheerful: "It is likely much of the damage to the state's economy will be made up in the next few months as taxpayers spend their tax refunds and anticipate their rebates under the federal tax program and North Carolina businesses work overtime to catch up on orders," it said.

Begin Choosing Ten To Serve On UNC Board Of Governors

RALEIGH (AP) — Senate and House committees today began the process of choosing 10 persons to serve on the University of North Carolina Board of Governors.

From a list of 37, the House Board of Governors Nominating Committee tentatively selected 20 and planned to meet next Friday and whittle the list down further.

The Senate Board of Governors Nominating Committee tentatively picked 16 and planned to consider the list further at a later meeting.

One veteran board member, Durham attorney Victor Bryant was left off both the House and Senate lists.

The full House and Senate will meet in joint session later to choose the nominees. Then the Senate will elect three at-large members, one minority race member and one woman. The House will elect four at-large members and one Republican.

Those tentatively nominated by the House committee as at-large candidates were: Furman Bodenheimer Jr. of Cary, Lennox Cooper of Wilmington, Victor Dawson of Fayetteville, Adolph Dial of Pembroke, Francis Fairley of Charlotte, Charles Z. Flack of Forest City, James E. Holmes of Winston-Salem, Wallace Hyde of Asheville, Robert L. Jones of Raleigh, George R. Little Jr. of Elizabeth City, Jimmy Love of Sanford, Betty McCain of Wilson, Reginald McCoy of Lenoir, L.P. McLendon of Greensboro, Clint Newton of Shelby, John S. Vaughan of Woodland, and Thomas J. White of Kinston.

Tentatively chosen as Republican nominees by the House Committee were Laurence A. Cobb of Charlotte, William C. Haase of Kenly and Harvey A. Jonas Jr. of Lincoln.

Tentatively selected as at-large nominees by the Senate committee were: Dawson, Flack, Hyde, Jones, McCoy and White, C. Feliz Harvey of Kinston, George Watts Hill of Durham, William D. Mills of May-ville, and William W. Staton of Sanford.

Tentatively chosen as women nominees were Mrs. McCain, Kathleen Chitty of Raleigh and Grace Epps of Lumberton.

The Senate group tentatively chose as minority race nominees Dial, Dr. William Bell of Fayetteville, and Maceo Sloan of Durham. Bell's selection was dependent upon his eligibility.

Of those tentatively nominated, Hill, Hyde, Mrs. McCain, McCoy and Sloan and White are incumbents.

Pitt's Share Drops

Net sales and use tax collections in Pitt County during February amounted to $168,975, according to figures reported by Mark G. Lynch, Secretary of the State Department of Revenue.

Net collections in the county were down from the $250,177 reported for January and the $215,582 recorded for the December of 1976 period.

Neighboring county totals for February, January and December included: Beaufort, $79,140, $101,677, $96,542; Edgecombe, $84,548, $117,806, $94,056; Greene, $12,430, $13,571, $13,400; Lenoir, $137,707, $191,567, $159,256; Martin, $48,578, $65,935, $53,228; and Wilson, $136,114, $186,894, $170,439.

Net collections for the 96 participating counties in the state totaled $9,957,936 for February, Lynch reported, down from $14,399,171 in January and $12,437,594 in December.

WOULDN'T DATING HELP?

Last Friday I picked up a couple of hot dogs and they were rotten. Monday morning I went back to the same store and purchased another hot dog and sent it to the Pitt County Health Department. They referred me to a Mr. Peele in Williamston. Isn't there some way the sandwich company can be obliged to put dates on their products? C. M.

Pitt County Environmental Health Director Willie Pate said that you had, indeed, sent in a hot dog that he said was molded. He said that the representative for the Department of Agriculture Food and Drug Protection Service for this area is Johnny Peele of Williamston. You were advised to call him at 792-1580, as any citizen can do if he feels the need.

Hotline also talked to Leonard Blanton, deputy director of the Food and Drug Protection Service, to pose your question about dating of perishable foods. He said such a measure has been considered twice in the N. C. General Assembly and turned down twice. Opposition has come from some of the commodity groups which point to the difficulty of determining reasonable dating times and enforcement. He said he knows of no such effort in this session of the legislature. Many companies are voluntarily dating perishable goods, he noted, and are using it for good public relations as the average person becomes more and more aware of the possibility and the need.

Rep. Ike Andrews Is Wed

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Ike Andrews, D-N.C., and Cary school teacher Patricia Wilson Goodwin were married today in a private ceremony in the prayer room at the U.S. Capitol, Andrews' office announced.

Andrews, 51, an attorney who was first elected to Congress in 1972, and Mrs. Goodwin were married in a ceremony conducted by the Rev. Dr. Edward Gardiner Latch, chaplain of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Invited guests included North Carolina's congressional delegation and members of their staffs.

The new Mrs. Andrews is the daughter of Mrs. Ralph Perry Newsome of Wilmington, N.C. and the late Alexander William Wilson of Louisville, N.C. She is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and currently works as a language arts teacher at a Durham County junior high school.

Andrews, also a graduate of the University of North Carolina, is a former state legislator and chairman of the Economic Opportunities Subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor.

He is divorced and the father of two daughters by a previous marriage. Mrs. Andrews, who also is divorced, has a daughter by a previous marriage.

Blood-Giving On Campus Topped 700-Pint Mark

The Bloodmobile had a "very successful" visit this week to the East Carolina University campus, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt County Red Cross.

Mrs. Taylor reported that the three-day collection total amounted to 738 pints of blood and 50 persons were rejected for various health reasons.

The three-day breakdown showed that 223 pints of blood were donated on Tuesday with 20 rejects, while 217 pints and 15 rejects were recorded on Wednesday and 298 pints of blood and 15 rejections on Thursday.

Mrs. Taylor said that the success of the campus visit helped put the Pitt County blood program in a much stronger position as the end of the current fiscal year approaches.

She expressed her appreciation to the Inter-Fraternity Council at ECU for its sponsorship of the visit and to the organization's president, Bill Benson, for coordinating the drive.

Mrs. Taylor also thanked the university for providing the facilities for the Bloodmobile. Appreciation was extended to the volunteer nurses, women of the Service League, and donors who turned out to support the blood program.

More faculty members were among the donors, she noted, and students again made up the bulk of the collection group.

"We are real pleased with the success of the visit," the Red Cross spokesman said.

The next Bloodmobile visit to Pitt County will be on June 1, 2, and 3. The June visit will be the last for the current fiscal year, she reported.

Old House Restoration Topic Of Tryon Palace Symposium

By FRANCEINE PERRY
Expert advice on the restoration, furnishing, decoration and landscaping of early houses was given the 160 participants in the ninth annual Tryon Palace Symposium on Colonial Living and the Decorative Arts March 20-22.

Presenting illustrated lectures on colonial and early 19th century furnishings were Marvin D. Schwartz of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Carolyn J. Weekley of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

Schwartz stressed the importance of suitability and consistency in furnishing a period house. "A well-furnished period interior should evoke a moment of the past," he said. "It should capture the essence or the spirit of its period."

Schwartz's color slides of period rooms in museums showed furniture arranged as though for use, with chairs and sofas drawn around a tea table or a fireplace. Placement of furniture can do much to help recreate a moment of the past, he said.

"When we furnish a period house, we are interpreters," he concluded. "But our ideas must come from when the house was new."

"Early furniture made in coastal North Carolina was the topic of Ms. Weekley's presentation. The first surviving examples date from 1720-30 and chiefly consist of painted slab-back chairs and box-like chests, probably built by local "joiners."

Ms. Weekley's presentation was illustrated by examples from the Virginia Museum, the Williamsburg Collection, and the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts in Winston-Salem.

Floor coverings used in colonial homes were discussed by New Hampshire author-lecturer Ruth C. Page. Her presentation covered a wide range, from the very elegant imported Oriental or "Turkey" carpets and the English-made Axminster and Wilton carpets, to the less elaborate painted floorcloths, plain baize cloths and rush mats.

Pure white sand, often with intricate designs drawn in it, was used to cover the floors of the humblest homes, she noted.

"Historic Preservation and Restoration, and Urban Planning" was the topic of a Sunday evening dinner address by Nathaniel P. Neblett of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

"Restoration of a Period House" was discussed by Conover Fitch of the Boston firm of Perry Dean Partners, and "Household Textiles" was the subject of a session directed by Rita Adrosko, curator of textiles at the Smithsonian Institution.

Salem, Mass. landscape architect Daniel J. Foley addressed the group on "Landscaping the Period House."

Participants made special tours through the colonial John Wright Stanley House and the circa 1805 Stevenson House. Accompanying the group were Fitch and his colleague L. R. Thomas Jr., who discussed their work on the restoration of the two houses, now part of the Tryon Palace Complex.

Other symposium events included tours of Tryon Palace itself and the privately-owned Bell House, and a Tuesday evening buffet dinner featuring early music performed by the East Carolina University Collegium Musicum.

The annual Tryon Palace Symposium is designed for professional and lay persons interested in the lifestyles and decorative arts of the colonial period. 1977 participants came from the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland, Florida, Georgia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Vermont, Indiana and California.

Among them was Robert G. Miner, editor of "Early American Life" and Terry H. Kovel, antiques columnist and author.

The symposium is sponsored each spring by the Tryon Palace Commission, the Tryon Palace Restoration and the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education, in cooperation with the N. C. Dept. of Cultural Resources.

Area participants included: Mrs. J. C. Exum Jr., Snow Hill; Mrs. Bruce Strickland, Bell Arthur; Karen A. Bouffard; Connie A. Austin; Dr. Patricia G. Hurley; Kay P. Williams; and Dr. E. Newsom Williams, all of Greenville.

Should Girlfriend Play Seconds?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature 17-year-old girl. Last week I had plans to go to a movie with another girl, my best friend. She called at the last minute to say that a guy she knew had come into town unexpectedly and asked her to go out with him, so our date was off. (She said she knew I'd "understand.")

I felt very hurt and let down. My mother said I was wrong to feel that way because it was only natural for a girl to prefer to go out with a guy than with another girl, if a guy suddenly came into the picture. Do you agree?

Abby, I don't think I would have broken my date with her had a guy called me at the last minute. I would like your opinion.

SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR SECOND: I don't think it makes any difference whether the friend who suddenly breezed into town was a guy or another girl. Breaking a date at the last minute as your "best friend" did was unfriendly.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday a salesman came to my door and showed me his product, and before I knew it, I had signed a contract to buy it. I have two years to pay, but now I'm afraid to tell my husband about the monthly installments.

I don't know what got into me, Abby. I really don't need that product, and we certainly can't afford it at this time. (I don't work and have no money of my own.)

Is there any way I can get out of it now?

FEELING SICK

DEAR SICK: Call (or write) to the company and explain that you signed the contract before you had time to think it over carefully. Tell them that you neither need nor want the product, and you cannot afford it.

Some companies will release hasty signers from their contracts. Others will not. (A note to other wives who are financially dependent on their husbands. Discuss all purchases with your husbands first, and don't sign anything in haste.)

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of the business executive (or professional person) who has pictures of the spouse and family prominently displayed on his desk. No one else is interested, and if he (or she) has forgotten what his family looks like, he should take a better look at them when he gets home.

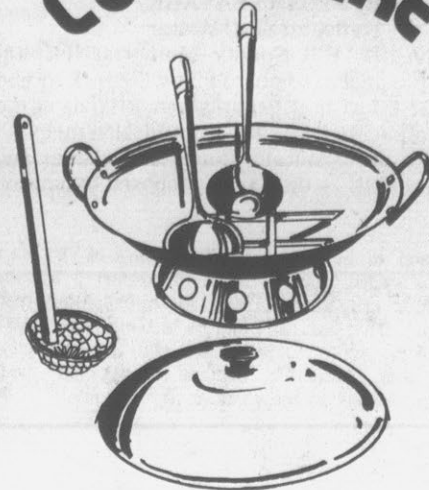

I never know what to say when I am "introduced" to a gallery of pictures. I keep fighting the urge to say, "Who cares?"

NAMELESS IN CHICAGO

DEAR NAMELESS: It doesn't take very long to say, "How lovely!" And there's an outside chance that some people DO care.

The reasons for the gallery display are varied. Some are there because the executive himself (or herself) likes to look at them. Others are there because the spouse has put them there. Some want to crow a little. And some are there for "protection." (I am told that some people need a subtle reminder that the doctor, dentist or lawyer is a family person.)

Succession Bill's OK Appears Assured In Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to permit a North Carolina governor to seek a second consecutive term seems certain to win Senate approval. The bill, strongly backed by Gov. Jim Hunt, bore the names of 36 of the 50 senators when it was filed Thursday. Since it would amend the state constitution, the bill requires the approval of 30 of the senators and 72 of the 120 House members. It would then have to win the approval of the people in a statewide election.

In other actions, the House killed a bill aimed at banning the distribution of unsigned campaign literature and the Senate tentatively approved a bill to prohibit legislators, state workers, community college employees, county commissioners and their spouses from serving as trustees of community colleges and technical institutes. Sen. Wesley Webster, D-Rockingham, proposed the amendment that added county commissioners to the list.

The measure is intended to prevent conflicts of interest. Also in the legislature Thursday:

BONDS

Under a bill approved by the House, local governments would be permitted to refinance some bond issues by seeking lower interest rates. Rep. Joe Johnson, D-Wake, had told the House earlier that the bill would enable hospital authorities in Wake and Forsyth counties to save millions of dollars. The measure now goes to the Senate.

REPORT

Some legislative leaders said a new report on state tax collections is discouraging. The report from the legislature's Fiscal Research Division said that unless tax collections increase, revenues for the current quarter could be some $35 million below the estimate made by the General Assembly when it approved the budget. The lag in collections was partly blamed on the energy problem this winter.

CLASS SIZE

Class size in junior high schools could be reduced by a bill in a state Senate committee, but teacher-pupil ratios in other grades would not likely be changed.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Vernon White, D-Pitt, would reduce from 180 to 150 the maximum number of students a junior high school teacher would be required to teach in one day. Also, no more than 35 students would be permitted in any one junior high class.

The state Department of Public Instruction said the bill would require 441 new teachers statewide at a cost, including supervisory and clerical, of more than $12,000,000 in the next budget.

CHILDREN

The House Judiciary III Committee put off action on a bill that would require that an attorney be appointed to represent children in court cases involving abuse or neglect by parents.

Objection was voiced against features that would require appointment of attorneys in all court cases where abuse or neglect was alleged, and would allow the attorney access to confidential records concerning the child or his parents.

DONATIONS

A Senate judiciary committee approved and sent to the floor a bill that would allow guardians of mentally incompetent persons to donate the person's organs for transplanting or scientific research before the person's death. Now, such donations can be made only after death, though competent individuals may declare their own organs available.

May Never Finish Our Hospital

Tomorrow Pitt County dedicates its $23 million hospital. It isn't finished, and it may never be.

"They'll never stop building here as long as you and I live," Administrator Jack Richardson told an interviewer recently.

There's not much reason to doubt that, for already the mission of the new hospital has been drastically changed from what was originally envisioned when planning was begun some ten years ago.

Then the need was to replace the old Pitt Memorial Hospital which was being quickly outgrown. A study showed that expansion of the old facilities would cost almost as much as starting over. Considering the limited amount of land available at the old site, the county officials decided to purchase nearly 100 acres on the Statonsburg Road and start anew.

That was to prove to be a fateful decision. At the time it was made the hospital was being used as a clinical facility for some health programs at East Carolina University. There was also the possibility of the hospital's use in conjunction with an ECU medical school . . . but planners were thinking in terms of a two year program which would require far less in the form of clinical facilities.

So in line with study recommendations the county began construction of a new hospital which would have the capacity to become a regional medical center.

That was to happen sooner than anyone would have believed. Ground was broken in February, 1975, but the next year the General Assembly, acting on the UNC Board of Governors recommendation, authorized a four-year medical school's development at East Carolina University. It was soon determined that the new Pitt Memorial Hospital under construction could serve quite well as the primary clinical facility.

New additions were planned for the front of the hospital and in the surgical and other areas. Even as the hospital plans to open, these additions are still under construction, as is the Eastern Area Health Education Center. A new bed tower and other additions are planned, and soon the medical school's medical sciences building, costing $25 million, will get underway.

As a medical school teaching facility with accompanying research, it is easy to see why Richardson's prediction that the hospital will never be completed should prove accurate.

We have a medical center here that will be the pride of Pitt County and all North Carolina. It will furnish the sophisticated medical care has been lacking for so long in Eastern North Carolina. The medical complex will be a constantly growing and changing complex. It will serve our state well.

Best Way To Put The Past Behind Us

The United States finally got itself disengaged from an embarrassing war in Southeast Asia.

The conflict did immeasurable damage to our world prestige.

We took our losses and withdrew from the war and now the Carter administration says negotiations will proceed to establish normal relations with Hanoi.

There's nothing wrong with that, and indeed it may be the best way to put this unfortunate Asian involvement behind us.

Election Rules Are Argued

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Serious argument is going on in the General Assembly about the method by which lawmakers are elected, and how much they are paid.

The salary question is one certain to generate considerable public reaction.

Reaction to the election method seems, at first glance, of more significance to the legislators themselves than the general public. But that issue also has importance to the public.

Both measures, in the minds of some who are working for change, would help make the General Assembly more open to newcomers, and help create conditions under which elections would be based more on issues than popularity.

Popularity Poll

As it is, argue those in favor of change, election of members at large from a field of candidates boils down to little more than a procedure akin to a high-school popularity contest.

As for pay, some fear the Legislature is becoming a place where only the retired, the wealthy, and teachers can afford to serve. Teachers are mentioned because their numbers are increasing, and they can take leaves from their jobs during sessions without risking permanent loss.

Legislators are now paid $4,800 annually. They also receive $35 per day for room and board when in Raleigh, and mileage back and forth weekly. A flat $100 monthly is to cover various expenses such as telephone, local travel, etc.

With sessions progressively longer, and convening every year rather than biennially, many legislators insist they are losing money from their professions or trades by devoting that much time to service in the General Assembly, plus serving on study commissions, and devoting two or three months to running for re-election every two years.

Paying a respectable salary (suggested figures generally reflect the average salary paid state employees of around $10,000 per year) would broaden the potential for attracting quality candidates — even opening the door for salaried people to run, some think.

Given the widespread unpopularity of recent pay raises which the U. S. Congress awarded itself, and the reaction several years ago when Tar Heel lawmakers went from $50 per week to $100 per week, there is considerable reluctance to push the salary raise idea.

Pro And Con

The election method is being pushed, however. Somewhat like the old numbered seat system which was used in North Carolina — but fell into disrepute largely due to pressure from black voters who contend that effectively kept them from capturing a seat — this measure is being called "designated seat."

What it boils down to is that any candidate who runs for the General Assembly would have to declare which seat he wants — the seat currently occupied by State Rep. John

Two Setbacks For Labor

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor received two black eyes this week, but insists the fight's not over.

The unions were floored first on Wednesday when the House rejected a pet bill to expand construction unions' picketing rights. The second blow came Thursday when the Carter administration proposed raising the minimum wage far below what the unions want.

"Shameful," snapped an angry George Meany, the AFL-CIO president, in denouncing Carter's proposal to raise the minimum wage to $2.50 from $2.30. "This is a bitter disappointment to everyone who looked to this administration for economic justice for the poor."

The labor federation is pressing for a $3 minimum wage.

The defeat of the common situs picketing bill was the first test of labor's strength in the 95th Congress. The AFL-CIO went all out last fall to elect a Democratic Congress and put a friend in the White House, and this was supposed to have been labor's year.

Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican vice presidential candidate, warned during the campaign that if Jimmy Carter were elected he would have "two hot lines — one to Russia and one to George Meany's office."

With the new administration in office a bare two months, labor has had some successes, but these have been mostly overshadowed by defeats.

"In terms of this being the year . . . that may be one of our problems," said Allen Zack, a Meany aide. "We may have believed that too much. When you get over confident, you tend to get sloppy."

Zack conceded the setbacks, but said "there have been some victories, too."

Labor was rebuffed earlier on its choice for labor secretary — Meany wanted Harvard professor John Dunlop — and on its choice for several other key administration posts. The administration's economic package wasn't all it wanted and Meany vowed not to cooperate with the White House on advance

STRENGTH FOR TODAY

There are three things we must have to be happy. The first of these is self-respect. No matter what else a person may have, if he or she does not maintain self-respect, no other benefit in life has much value.

The next ingredient of happiness is independence. A person may occupy a humble position and have a dozen bosses over him, but if he or she has a quiet spirit within the heart which enables the person to stand apart from life and view its successes and failures with a certain tranquillity, then that person is independent.

But a third factor is indispensable — religious faith. A person must have a right attitude toward himself, toward others, and toward the universe. Self-respect gives him the right attitude toward himself. Independence gives him the right attitude toward others. Religious faith gives him the right attitude toward the universe.

Where Did Money Go?

WASHINGTON—A group of us who were expecting to be included in Howard Hughes' will were sitting around in our lawyer's office the other day when the news broke that in appraisal of Hughes' wealth showed that, instead of being a billionaire, his estate was worth only $168,834,615. You can imagine the shock that went through the room. Our lawyer spoke first. "Why that isn't even enough to pay my legal fees!" One of the women started to cry. "I knew I should never have bought

TWO cans of coffee until the estate was appraised." It isn't easy when you discover that an estate you were told was worth between two and three billion dollars turns out to be a poor guy, someone else said. "It must have finally gotten to him. He put on this multimillionaire front when in fact he was really nothing more than a

Other Editors Say The Wrong Way

(Washington Daily News)

When legislators through legislation seek to do what people refuse to do at the polls, then under democratic government, inevitably we conclude that the legislature is wrong.

When the legislature of North Carolina seeks to clip the wings of N. C. Insurance Commissioner John Ingram by passing legislation taking away from him insurance rate-making authority, the move is wrong, and it should be defeated.

Senator Robert B. Jordan of Montgomery County has offered a bill in the N. C. Senate which, if passed into law, would establish a five member insurance commission charged with the responsibility of insurance rate-fixing. Thus, automatically the power would be taken away from Mr. Ingram.

We realize so very well that as of now about two dozen cases have gone to the N. C. Supreme Court involving Mr. Ingram's insurance rate-fixing, and the state high court has upset his rulings.

But because the court has failed to go along with Mr. Ingram does not indicate at all that the rank and file people of North Carolina have forsaken him. Indeed, in the last primary and election John Ingram came out with flying colors. He won big victories in both, and that is a rather good sign that the people of the state are behind him.

We realize full well that generally speaking he is not in the good graces of the insurance people of our state. And a great many of them tried to beat him at the polls last year. But Mr. Ingram won.

We understand full well why the insurance people are against him. Any of us who might find ourselves in the insurance business would oppose him too, we feel. We know we would. So the opposition is very understandable.

Now to strip him of his authority or to clip his wings through legislation is just the wrong and improper way to go about it. If he is to be chastised in any manner, it should be by the people of North Carolina at the polls.

When he comes up for renomination or reelection, then and there are the times to cut him down.

He can be reversed by the N. C. Supreme Court a hundred times, but so long as he appears to be trying to work in behalf of the rank and file people of our state, he is going to have the people behind him.

The way Senator Jordan is going about this could well make a real martyr out of Mr. Ingram.

If his authority is to be nullified, let it be done at the polls and not on the halls of the legislature.

somewhere so we couldn't find it."

"That would be just like him," I said. "I'll bet you somewhere out there in the desert, between Las Vegas and Los Angeles, Howard buried the bulk of his fortune."

"Does that mean we can't get our hands on it?" asked a gas station attendant, who was slated to get one-third of the estate.

"Knowing Howard, I'm sure he'll have someone deliver a clue to the Mormon Tabernacle," I said. "He'll probably send us on a treasure hunt for years."

"I can't wait for years," the lawyer complained. "Do you realize what it costs to probate a will these days? You have to pay legal secretaries, light bills, telephone charges, not to mention what it costs to buy a notary public stamp. If I'd had any idea that the estate was only worth $168,000,000 I would have turned the whole thing over to the Legal Aid Society."

"Does that mean you're not going to handle our claim to the will any more?" I asked.

"I'm not in this business for my health," the lawyer said bitterly.

"I know it's not much," said one of Hughes' bodyguards, who was hoping to get 25 percent of the estate, "but you can't bow out now. No other lawyer will take it when he discovers there's only $168,000,000 involved."

Not-So Dumb Clucks

By JAMES ROBINS

Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chicken Little notwithstanding, feathery farm creatures may not be such dumb clucks after all, a university researcher says.

If they have to, chickens can perform tough tasks normally considered the domain of brainy animals like monkeys, said Rutgers University nutritionist Robert Squibb.

"Over the years, they've put monkeys at the top of the intelligence scale and the bird at the bottom of the heap," he said. "But he's not so darn dumb. He can really do marvelous things."

Squibb blamed chickens' "bad public relations image" for evolution of such derogatory terms as "dumb cluck," adding: "We bought it too until we tried this."

Squibb has trained chickens to figure out how to press three buttons in proper sequence in a box-like contraption to get food to drop from a slot.

"It took considerable intelligence to figure it out," Squibb said Thursday in an interview. "It's amazing how rapidly they learned."

He said that after the chickens mastered the button sequence, it was changed. The birds figured out the new required routine within 7 to 10 days, he said.

"He's as intelligent as a monkey in solving this problem," Squibb said of the chicken. "It's really amazing. I'd hate to be sitting myself in that little box. It would drive you crazy."

The research is related to other experiments Squibb is conducting at the New Brunswick, N.J., campus. In those tests, he uses 50 to 100 chickens

40 Years Ago Today

March 25, 1937

A major waterway improvement for North Carolina and one of the largest in recent years got approval today of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and the Chief of Engineers when Representative Lindsay Warren's project for the Tar River passed its greatest hurdle.

It calls for a channel 12 feet deep and 100 feet wide from Washington to Hardee Creek about four miles below Greenville, and then enters Hardee Creek about 1500 feet with a turning basin in the creek 200 feet wide and 300 feet long.

Local interest must provide for the necessary right of way for the disposal of dredged material, construct a public wharf on Hardee Creek as well as an improved road connecting it with the main highway. The report now goes to the Secretary of War who will transmit it to Congress for inclusion in a future Rivers and Harbors bill.

A farm spokesman and a college professor argued against President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan today. They contended it was both threatening and coercive toward the Supreme Court.

The President, who left his bill to the care of the legislature while traveling, is expected to return homeward tomorrow to face the situation.

Satra - A Trading Corporation

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Who is Satra?

Earlier this year a company named Satra announced it had obtained television rights to the Moscow Olympics in 1980, challenging the media to find a quick answer to the question.

Since then the company apparently has lost the TV rights to National Broadcasting Co., against whom it has filed a $275 million suit, companion to another $275 million suit against the International Olympic Committee.

That nobody could quickly describe Satra is in the nature of things, because Satra is a trading corporation, which its founder, Ara Oztemel, describes as "a company that explores needs and then goes out and finds a supply."

As such, Satra does not have the ready identification of smaller companies that have their names imprinted on trucks and real estate and advertisements. Satra does have some of these, but its main occupation is trading.

It conducts a huge amount of commerce with the Soviet Union and has since the very early 1950s, when Oztemel, an American born in Turkey, began importing chrome ore. The company is now the biggest U.S. chrome importer.

But Satra has grown far beyond the business of chrome mining and importing. It also imports other minerals, metals and alloys. It sells U.S. automotive steel to the Soviets. It imports-exports for its own account and for others.

It holds exclusive rights to distribute Soviet motorcycles, motorcycles, bicycles, farm equipment and certain industrial machinery in West Germany, the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States.

Beginning next year it will sell and service the Lada, a sturdy Fiat-like car here, and hopes to develop sales of 50,000 to 60,000 units a year.

Ara Oztemel, 50, and a few associates own almost all of Satra.

He left Turkey in 1944 after his father died without a will, permitting the state to claim the estate. He worked here for the War Shipping Administration.

After the war he studied engineering at Northeastern University, graduating in 1949 but remaining in graduate school until 1951. After working as an engineer for Stone & Webster and Polaroid, Oztemel sought sources of chrome in Turkey and the Soviet Union.

As he explains it, "Satra was the first company to establish meaningful postwar trade relations with Eastern European countries, and is one of a limited number of companies accredited by the Soviet government to maintain offices in Moscow."

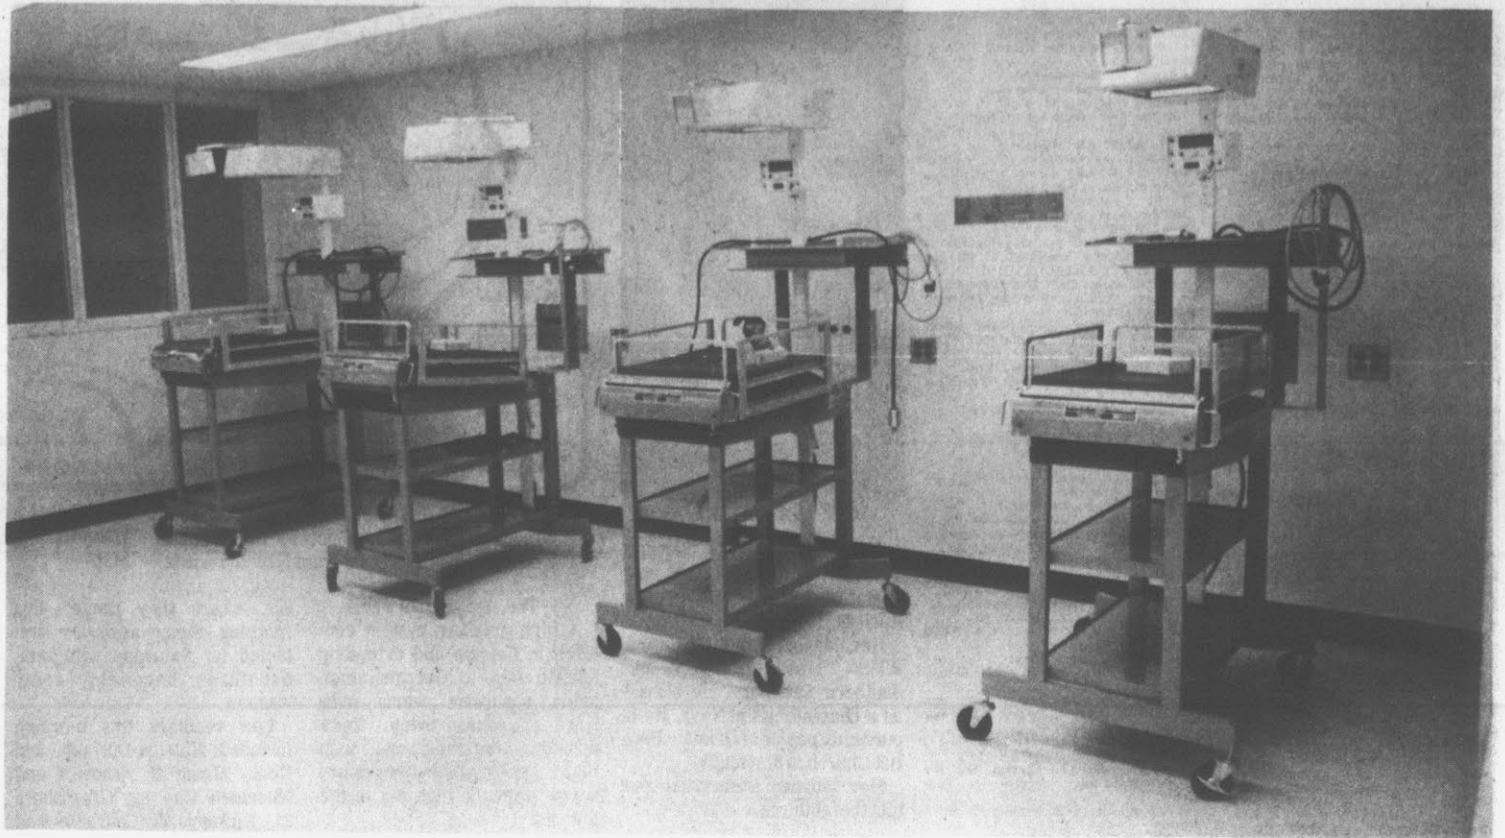

One thing lead to another, as it always does for the successful trader. A good trader instinctively is on the alert for solving needs by bringing the supply together with the demand. When he is effective, the trader takes a cut.

A trader is a problem-solver, an adventurer, an opportunist, an exploiter, a diplomat, an acquirer of whatever skills and knowledge are needed to be effective. Oztemel, who spends 50 per cent of his time abroad, is effective.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed out a declining week with another off day today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up to 968 just last week, fell 3.07 to 932.60.

Gainers trailed losers, with declines ahead of advances 3-2 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Concern over President Carter's proposed energy policy, and the possibility that gasoline use might be restricted, has sent gas and oil stocks down.

"It's reflecting concern about the energy program. There are quite a few gas and oil stocks in the Dow," noted Harry Laubscher of Blyth Eastman Dillon. "He (Carter) says it's going to make him unpopular, but we're all wondering just how unpopular."

Big Board volume came to 4.25 million shares over the first hour.

Laubscher said he felt the market was oversold.

"That means when there's a sharp drop, when the market comes down too far too fast, its due for at least a technical rally," Laubscher said.

Gold stocks were higher today. Asa Ltd was up 3/4 to 21 1/2. Hecla Mining was up 1/4 to 15 1/2 and Homestake Mining was ahead 1/2 to 42 1/2. Sony Corp. topped the NYSE active list, unchanged at 10 1/4.

Texaco rose 1/4 to 26 1/2 and Tenneco was up 1/4 to 32 1/2.

The 11 a.m. NYSE's composite index was off .13 to 54.12. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .06 to 112.07.

Judge Guilty Of Threat

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — "I was temporarily insane...I apologize," said District Court Judge George M. Harris after pleading no contest to a charge of communicating a threat.

"Like some of the defendants I've had to try in juvenile trials, I can't help but cry," said Harris, who was sentenced to pay a $200 fine. "I'll simply say my family has been caused so much grief over this."

Harris was arrested the night of last Feb. 24 outside a convenience store and charged with threatening to kill Bellfield Chandler, 27, of Yanceyville.

Harris said, "I'm going to kill all those niggers" and "I'm going to kill him. I'm going to kill him if it's the last thing I do," Chandler testified.

Chandler said he was in the store that night when Harris pulled his car in and blocked Chandler's car in the parking lot.

Harris had a gun on the seat beside him, Chandler said, adding that he returned to his car and waited for Harris to leave.

Caswell County Deputy Belord Wagstaff testified that Harris was intoxicated and should not have been driving.

Harris' attorneys called character witnesses who said Harris was a fair judge and had never exhibited racial prejudice.

Quarterly Meet This Weekend

Quarterly meeting will begin Saturday night at 7:30 at the Oak Grove Holiness Church, located on Bonners Lane.

The speaker will be the Rev. Suggs Keys. The speaker Sunday at 11:30 a.m. will be Bishop Henny Dorton and Bishop N. L. Evans will speak at 3 p.m.

The speaker at 7 p.m. will be Jonney Givins of Pink Hill.

The public is invited to attend.

Refuge Offer From Vermont

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The Massachusetts islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, both talking of secession from the Bay State, can now seek refuge in Vermont.

"There is no reason the natives of the mountains, the land of milk, honey and syrup, cannot dwell happily forever with the tidal tribes and catchers of cod," said a resolution adopted Thursday by the Vermont House of Representatives.

It directs Gov. Richard Snelling to send two representatives of landlocked Vermont to talk with leaders of the Atlantic islands.

KIDNEY DRIVE

The Kidney Foundation of North Carolina will be conducting its first annual door-to-door drive in Greenville this weekend. Mrs. Cheryl Taft, Greenville chairman, announced volunteers will be calling on homes here March 25-27.

Edmisten Sees An Orchestrated Drive

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — News reports of the Wilmington 10 case are "...being orchestrated all out of shape to throw a bad light on North Carolina," Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten charged Thursday.

"Inflammatory statements are being printed as the truth," said Edmisten, adding that he was "sick and fed up" with bad publicity being accorded North Carolina's justice system.

Edmisten met Wednesday with U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell in Washington. Edmisten's office is reviewing new FBI reports and waiting to examine federal grand jury transcripts before making a decision concerning a new trial in the case.

The 10, nine blacks and one white woman, were sentenced to a total of 282 years in prison in 1972 on charges of arson and conspiracy. The trial stemmed from the 1971 firebombing of a white-owned grocery during Wilmington's racial violence.

A key prosecution witness, Allen Ray Hall, later recanted his testimony, saying he testified against the 10 after being threatened by prosecution officials.

"I'm not going to be quiet anymore and let this attack continue," Edmisten said. "I've gotten three calls from the Washington correspondent of Pravda. Of course, I never answered them myself."

"Obviously, this case has political implications for me," he said. "But everything a person in public life does has political consequences."

Attended Fla. Conference

Henry C. Cox, Eastern Regional Supervisor with the Administrative Office of the Courts—Court Counselors, attended the Fourth National Conference on Juvenile Justice March 20-24 in Orlando, Fla.

The conference was jointly sponsored by the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges and the National District Attorneys Association.

Cox attended seminars on juvenile probation and aftercare service.

McGuire Wants Trophy For Going-Away

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Sometime this weekend before the Marquette Warriors play basketball, Al McGuire will slap on a pair of dungarees and sneakers and climb aboard his motorcycle for a ride to nowhere.

Even in so public an event as the NCAA playoffs, McGuire needs his privacy.

"It's just my way," says the theatrical, unorthodox Marquette coach. "I like getting off by myself. I'll do what has to be done for the NCAA tournament. After that, I like my own time."

McGuire is a rebel with a cause. He has his last chance for a national championship because he is retiring at the end of this season.

An NCAA trophy would be the perfect going-away present for the coach who has everything else.

McGuire has put his personal fingerprint on college basketball in his time, often thumbing his nose at propriety and society. Because he has been so colorful and opinionated, he has often irked the NCAA as well as the Jesuit fathers who govern Marquette.

Probably the most visible and quotable coach in the country, McGuire sees himself more as a master of ceremonies than a teacher. Certainly, he's an expert at setting a mood or a tempo.

His teams have all been extensions of his personality. And this year's Marquette model is no different. The Warriors play high-tension, low-scoring basketball.

"I'm a defensive coach for a reason," McGuire says, half-seriously. "I didn't score as a player. I was a damn slow player and I guess subconsciously I work on defense."

McGuire's opposite number at North Carolina-Charlotte, Lee Rose, is an equally driven man but for a different reason. Rose aches for recognition and will certainly have that if his 49ers beat McGuire's Warriors in Saturday's semifinals at the Omni.

Rose has been waging nearly a one-man battle for acceptance of the UNC-Charlotte program since arriving there two years ago. Part of his hope was to join the Atlantic Coast Conference, but his team was shut out there, leaving him with bitter feelings.

Rose's aggressive public relations fight has reportedly alienated some of the North Carolina press. On the air with former Wake Forest Coach Bones McKinney after his regional playoff victory over Syracuse last week, Rose made few points with the media by embarrassing his TV host.

"Well, apparently, Bones, you don't know too much about our basketball team," Rose responded at one point.

Rose did score some points in his image struggle, however, by finishing second in the National Invitation Tournament in New York last year, losing to Kentucky by four points, and reached new-found status with his entry into the NCAA's final four.

In North Carolina's Dean Smith, there is a wistful melancholy despite all his enormous successes. Among Smith's achievements are six ACC tournament titles and seven regular-season championships in the last 11 seasons while going to 11 national tournaments in that span.

However, Smith has never won the national championship and this all-consuming fire will be burning within him as his Tar Heels take on Nevada-Las Vegas.

Considered the dean of American basketball coaches, literally and figuratively, Smith is appearing in the prestigious final four for the fifth time in his career. But the last four times, he watched the national title go to someone else.

Jerry Tarkanian, the coach of Nevada-Las Vegas, has other pressures to deal with—most notably his own ambitions. Perhaps none of the four coaches is as intense as the passionate Rebel leader nicknamed "Tark The Shark."

Tarkanian's total involvement shows during a game, when he is either chewing on his nonexistent fingernails or turning the wrath of his bite on a towel.

Tarkanian's pressure has not been alleviated, either, by the NCAA, which is investigating the Nevada-Las Vegas program for possible recruiting violations. Long Beach State had similar problems when Tarkanian coached there and the 49ers' program was left in shambles upon his departure four years ago.

"Jerry could stand the coaching pressures. He could take it if he could finish a 28-2 season, then sit back and relax and unwind," says Tarkanian's younger brother, Myron, a coach at Pasadena City College. "But for six years, he hasn't been able to do that. When the season's over, he has to worry about meeting with attorneys and the NCAA investigators. It never ends."

"The playing pressure is nothing compared to the pressure the NCAA puts on him."

The NCAA playoffs, formerly known as the "UCLA Open" because of the Bruins' longtime domination, has suddenly become the "NCAA Wide Open" this year.

There is no clear-cut domina-tor here. North Carolina and Marquette both rate uneasy 2½-point favorites in Saturday's doubleheader.

The tenuous Tar Heel spread could be diminished even more by game time, should Phil Ford be held out. North Carolina's All-American guard reinjured his right elbow in practice Thursday and could miss the semifinals.

"It's very painful," said Smith. "I don't have any idea whether he'll be able to play."

Ford participated in practice Thursday at Chapel Hill for the first time this week. He suffered what was diagnosed as a hyper-extended elbow in a Tar Heels' game against Notre Dame in the East regionals.

Ford was making a two-handed chest pass midway through Thursday's practice when he felt immediate pain.

Rampants Defeated

Wilmington Hoggard defeated Rose High School's golf team yesterday, gaining a 306-322 victory.

Joey Haines led Hoggard with a 73, while Tommy Jones carded a 76, Don Gafner had a 77 and John Swinson came in with an 80.

For Rose, Sid Ashby had a 75, while Craig Logue had a 77. Mike Moye had an 83 and Til Jolly, an 87.

Rose, now 1-2, travels to Wilson on April 4.

John Denny turned in a 2.52 earned run average per nine innings with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1976 to pace National League pitchers.

Tarboro Nips Panthers, 2-1

TARBORO — North Pitt carried Tarboro into 12 innings yesterday, only to allow the Vikings to score on an error and win the game, 2-1.

The Panthers jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning as Eddie Hemingway led off with a walk and went to second on Larry McGlohon's fielders choice. Aubrey Wynne got safely to first on an error before Lee Andrews loaded the bases with a single. That brought Jay Bedsworth to the plate. He grounded to the pitcher who threw Hemingway out at home. The catcher then attempted a double play to first, but overthrew, allowing Wynne to score.

Tarboro tied the game in the sixth as Plummer singled and stole second and was knocked in by D. Clark's single.

The teams then battled to the twelfth inning when Squires singled for Tarboro, rounded second on a passed ball and, as the catcher tried to make the play at third, he overthrew, scoring Squires.

North Pitt had had other threats in the game, loading the bases twice without scoring. The Panthers' record is now 0-3 and they will host Saratoga Tuesday.

'Skins Top Jaguars

FARMVILLE — Roanoke High School gained a 5-4 victory over Farmville Central yesterday in a tennis match.

The Redskins won four singles matches, then added a win in the number two doubles to sew up the victory.

The loss dropped the Jaguars to 2-5, while Roanoke climbed to 6-0 on the year.

Roanoke travels to Greene Central on Tuesday, while Farmville Central is idle until April 5 when it, too, is at Greene Central.

Summary:
Michael Joyner (R) defeated Stuart James, 7-5, 7-6.
Tony Joyner (R) defeated Chris Fountain, 6-2, 6-4.
Michael Clay (R) defeated Bobby Allen, 6-2, 3-6, 7-6.

Martin Takes Baseball Win

EVERETTS — Martin Academy scored four runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to break a 5-5 deadlock and went on to take a 13-5 baseball win over Tarboro-Edgecombe Academy yesterday afternoon.

Martin scored three runs in the first inning, but Tarboro-Edgecombe came back with five tallies in the top of the second to take the lead.

Sherwood Leggett and Tim Gardner both scored off of Johnny James' double in the bottom of the second to tie it up for Martin.

Then, in the fifth, Wally Keel got on for Martin on an error and went to second on Johnny James' single. Henry Roberson got a base hit to knock in Keel and, after Jeffrey James walked, Cliff Haislip singled to score Johnny James and Roberson. Gardner's single scored Haislip.

Martin scored four more runs in the bottom of the sixth to win going away.

The leading hitters for Martin were Johnny James 3-4, Johnson and Lancaster 2-4 and Gardner 2-5.

Martin is now 3-1 on the year and will play at Roanoke-Chowan Academy on Tuesday.

East Carolina Sets Scrimmage In Wilson

WILSON — East Carolina University will hold its first public scrimmage of spring football practice this Saturday. The Pirates will play in Wilson at Pike High School Stadium at 2 p.m.

Thus far, coach Pat Dye has been most pleased with his club's work in spring practice.

"It's been a good spring thus far," said Dye. "I've been very encouraged by what I've seen. The entire group has really worked hard and had great enthusiasm. In fact, this group has been as enthusiastic as any I've ever been around in the spring."

"The areas we were most concerned with are looking fine at this point. The only thing we need is just repetition and game-type experience. I have complete confidence in the talent and ability we have."

The defensive secondary was one of the major concerns. At this point, Charlie Carter, a Fayetteville freshman, has been one of the major highlights of spring drills at corner back. Steve Hale, junior, Columbus, Ga., at free safety, Willie Holley, freshman, Edenton, and returning safety Gerald Hall, sophomore, Edenton, are out front in the other positions.

One of the most pleasing aspects of the drills has been the punting of Rodney Allen of Henderson. He's a walk-on who has been out front for the open punter position.

Sam Harrell, sophomore,

Ahoskie, has been outstanding at running back, assuring the Pirates of three fine runners next year, with Eddie Hicks, Henderson sophomore, and Willie Hawkins, Grimesland junior, returning.

At center, another problem spot, Rickie Holliday a Williamston junior, is in the number one spot, but is being pushed hard by Greenville

Saturday's scrimmage is being sponsored by the Wilson Pirate Club. Following the scrimmage, a talk will be made by Governor Jim Hunt, and then a barbecue dinner will be held. Tickets for the entire day are $5 for adults and $3 for youngsters.

Chips and putts from area golf courses: Ayden Golf and Country Club

Jeff Walker recorded a hole-in-one recently at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. The ace came on the ninth hole.

Walker used a six-iron for the shot. He was playing with his wife, Barbara, when he made the ace.

Grifton Golf and Country Club

Gerald Morris picked up an ace at the Grifton Golf and Country Club last Saturday. The ace came on the seventh hole.

Mac Roebuck eagled the fifth hole, hitting a five wood from the rough for the shot. Ronald Smith and Brady Quinn each made eagles on the second hole.

Greenville Golf and Country Club

Another hole-in-one. This one by P. K. Andresen at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The ace came on the tenth hole.

In the Ladies Day event, Harriette White took first place and Nancy Monroe took second in gross honors. Betty Kittrell won low net, with Izabel Rivers finishing second.

Brook Valley Golf and Country Club

Harriette White took first place in the Brook Valley Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament recently. Mrs. White had an 83-87-170.

Second place in the championship flight went to Mildred Claud with a 173.

In the first flight, Marge Mitchell took first place with a 180, while Mary Post was second with a 182. Eleanor Sowers took first place in the second flight with a 187, and Sandra Smith was second with a 190. In the third flight, Betty Akin won with a 194, followed by Margaret Weatherly with a 197.

Maxine Hawley took the fourth flight with a 200, with Sue Dye finishing second at 208. In the fifth flight, Mavis Price took first with a 205, followed by Ellen Fleming with a 206.

East Carolina's Debbie Freeman finished atop the Division I NCAA scoring race during the past season. She averaged 20.0 points a game for 22 contests. Gale Kerbaugh finished fourth with a 16.1 average.

Miss Kerbaugh also was second in free throws, hitting 69.6 per cent of her shots. Miss Freeman was also the leading rebounder, pulling down 12.7 per game.

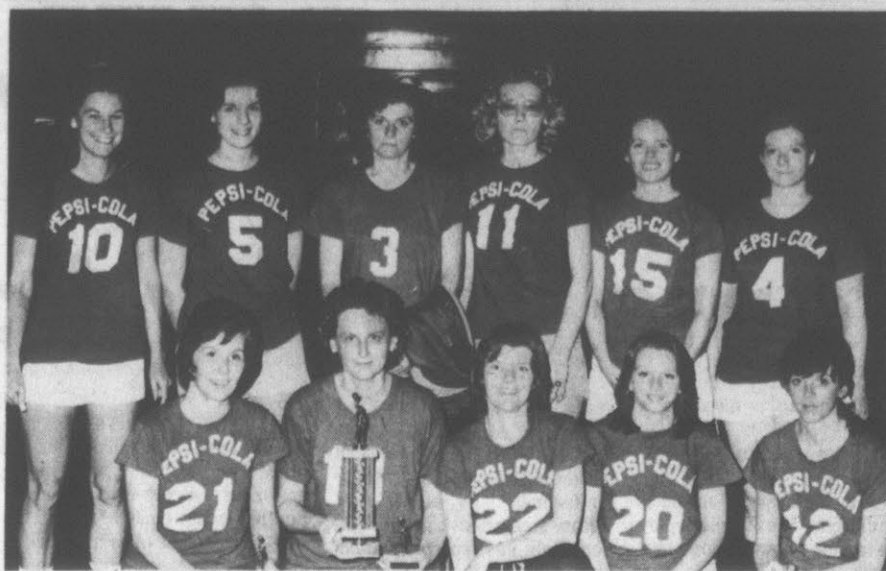

Just about everyone has seen the "Superstars" programs on television by now. Well, Greenville is about to have its own version of it.

Sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Department.

It is open to any resident of Greenville, and will be set up by sex in five age groups, 12-14, 15-17, 18-22, 23-29, and 30-up.

Competition will be held in various events, including dashes, runs, bicycling, golf, tennis, basketball, exercises, swimming and an obstacle course.

The events will be held on April 11 through 16. Applications can be picked up from the Elm Street Center and Gym, the West Greenville Center and Gym, the South Greenville Center and Gym, and at H. L. Hodges Co.

Greene Central Rips Southern Wayne, 8-4

SNOW HILL — Greene Central romped to an 8-4 victory over 4-A power Southern Wayne yesterday, scoring five runs in a big fifth inning.

The Rams took the lead in the game in the first inning with a run. Jerry Speight doubled and scored on a single by Russell Brann.

Southern Wayne came up with one in the third to tie it up. M. Blizzard walked and Gary Newhart singled. Richard Thornton followed with another hit, scoring Blizzard.

The Rams regained the lead on a solo home run by Scott Davenport in the fourth inning.

The Saints pushed over two in the top of the fifth to take a 3-2 lead. Newhart singled and Godwin reached on an error. Bryant singled in Newhart and Cyrus singled to score Godwin.

The Greene Central team then broke it open with five runs taking a 7-3 lead. Brann opened with a single and scored on a double by Donald Holloman. Curtis Shirley doubled Holloman over and moved to third on an infield out. Davenport walked, and Dal Blizzard sacrificed Shirley in. Jeffrey Warren then cracked a two-run homer to end the frame.

The Rams added another run in the sixth and Southern got one in the seventh.

Newhart led the Southern hitting with three, while Thornton had two, both doubles. For Greene Central, Holloman had three, including a double and Brann had two hits.

The Rams, now 4-1, play Rock Ridge on Saturday.

Namath Okays Ram Trade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ah, the allure of Hollywood. Broadway Joe Namath apparently has chosen to take a mammoth salary cut and possibly play backup to a second-year pro on the Los Angeles Rams — and be close to the movies.

Jimmy Walsh, Namath's agent, said Thursday the man who quarterbacked the New York Jets for 12 years has given permission to be traded to the Rams.

Eager would perhaps be a better word. Namath has been trying to go West for the past three years.

After thinking about Namath's $450,000 annual salary, the Jets now appear ready to unload him.

According to National Football League rules, if the Jets pick up the option year of Namath's contract, it would cost them $495,000 for the gimpy-kneed veteran. NFL regulations provide a 10 per cent pay hike to players who play out their options.

Namath, who led the Jets to victory in Super Bowl III against Baltimore eight years ago, likely would be an understudy to Pat Haden, the Rhodes scholar from Southern California.

The Rams might have to pay Namath $175,000 to act as Haden's backup, but it would give the team a chance to unload James Harris, who has asked to be traded.

North Lenoir Nips Valkyries

WHEAT SWAMP — D. H. Conley's softball team fought to tie North Lenoir at four in the third inning, but allowed the Lady Hawks to move back in front in the fifth and take an 8-7 win yesterday afternoon.

North Lenoir jumped out to an early lead, scoring four runs in the bottom of the first inning. The Valkyries got four in the third, however, to tie the game.

Conley added another run in the fourth, but the Lady Hawks scored three in the bottom of the inning to take a 7-5 lead. North Lenoir added the winning run in the bottom of the fifth while Conley pulled to within one with two in the sixth.

Errors were the downfall of the Valkyries as they outthit North Lenoir, 21-18. Mamie Mitchell was the leading hitter, going 4-4. Other hitters for Conley were Linda Payton and Pam Manning 2-3, and Lori Garrish, Nancy Berg, Tracy Rouse and Jo Ann Franke 2-4.

Armstrong and Dove paced the North Lenoir offense, both going 3-4 while Franks, Battle, Beaman and Stevens were 2-3 and Rhodes was 2-4. Franks hit the game's only home run.

The game was Conley's first while the Lady Hawks are now 2-0. The Valkyries will play again Tuesday at Ayden-Grifton.

Roanoke Defeated

ROBERSONVILLE — Elm City romped to a 19-3 victory over Roanoke High School yesterday in a girls' softball game.

Elm City pushed over one run in the first, then added five in the second to salt the win away. They added six in the fourth, two in the fifth and five in the sixth. Roanoke came up with one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

Andrea Flowers hurled the victory for the Valkyries, and also had three hits, including a triple.

Joan Griffin led the Elm City hitting with four, including two triples. Lydia Roundtree (double, homer), S. Joyner (double, triple) each had three hits, while Angela Armstrong, Daisy Williams (double) and Dot Neal each had two.

For Roanoke, Carolyn Dugins and Phyllis Roberson (double, triple) each had three, while Lynn Anderson had two.

Roanoke is now 2-2 and will host West Edgecombe on Tuesday.

Irwin, Marsh Tie For Heritage Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Last year Hale Irwin won two tournaments, lost another in a playoff, was second two other times, went past $1 million in career earnings and collected $252,718.

He says it should have been better.

"I got to be Joe Fat Cat," Irwin said. "During the summer I didn't play as much as I should have and I didn't practice as much as I should have."

"I got out of the habit of scoring. I let my momentum get away from me."

But, he said after a six-under-par 65 had staked him to a share of the first-round lead Thursday in the $225,000 Sea Pines Heritage Golf Classic, it's all coming back.

"Naturally, I'd love to win this tournament," said Irwin, who has taken this prestigious invitational event two times, "but I don't feel my game is exactly where I want it. But it is coming around."

"I am just coming into that momentum, that habit of scoring, that ability to manage my game, that I had early in the year last year."

Irwin, who could have won last week's important Tournament Players Championship but for bogeys on all four par-five holes in the last round, shared the top spot with Australian Graham Marsh, a veteran globe-trotter who came to the United States this year after a tip from Irwin helped him gain the distance he needed.

"I'd always had the ball moving left to right," said the 33-year-old Marsh, winner of some 20 career titles in Australia, Europe and the Far East, but an American tour rookie.

"Hale helped me with my game last year. He showed me something on my setup and got me to moving the ball from right to left, which, of course, gives me much better distance. It got my game to the stage where I thought I could play in America."

Ben Crenshaw was one stroke back at 66, five under par on the difficult, 6,655-yard Harbour Town Golf Links that yielded unusually low scores. He was followed by Tom Watson and Ray Floyd at 67.

Jack Nicklaus and a delighted Jerry Pate, the U.S. Open champ who has been out of action for more than a month with an injured right hand, were in a group at 68 with Charles Coody, Lyn Lott, Danny Edwards and Leonard Thompson.

Gary Player matched par 71. Defending champ Hubert Green shot 73. Leading money-winner Bruce Lietzke was at 74. Arnold Palmer, who won the first Heritage Classic in 1969, was at 75. Tom Weiskopf was disqualified for an illegal drop after posting a 69.

Loss Least Of Sox' Problems

By The Associated Press
Call Boston the black and blue Red Sox.

The only thing for which the baseball team can be thankful is that Thursday, March 24 is behind them. The fact that they were shelled 8-1 by the Pittsburgh Pirates was the least of their problems.

They also lost two veteran pitchers and an All-Star centerfielder through the most eccentric of mishaps.

Centerfielder Fred Lynn caught his spikes on second base while trying to get back to the bag after a fly ball to shallow left field. That capped a day in which pitcher Rick Wise bruised his left foot by hitting it with a foul tip in batting practice and pitcher Ferguson Jenkins suffered a pulled hamstring while trying to dock his boat after a morning fishing expedition.

"Awful," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "Just awful."

Lynn is expected to miss the next seven to 10 days while it was not immediately determined how much time Wise and Jenkins would miss.

Meanwhile, the Cincinnati Reds bruised Los Angeles pitching for 15 hits, including four home runs, in downing the Dodgers 11-9. Mike Lum hit two of the homers, including the shot that broke a 9-9 tie. Ray Knight and Joel Youngblood also connected for Cincinnati.

Milwaukee's Cecil Cooper drove in five runs, including three with a home run off newly-acquired A's pitcher Doc Medich, pacing the Brewers' 10-8 triumph over Oakland.

The expansion Toronto Blue Jays won for the sixth time in 14 outings as Jim Mason had three hits, scored twice and drove in the winning run during a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Toronto's expansion mates in the American League, the Seattle Mariners, evened their record at 7-7 by outscoring the Cleveland Indians 16-13 with help from two-run homers by Ruppert Jones and Dan Meyer.

Bob Forsch pitched six scoreless innings and Ken Rudolph's two-run, sixth-inning double helped the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-0.

Both New York teams lost, giving up 10 runs apiece. Tommy Hutton's three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth helped the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Mets 10-8, while Roy Smalley homered twice, powering the Minnesota Twins' 10-4 triumph over the Yankees.

Frank Tanana struck out eight in seven innings and Joe Rudi's ninth-inning single drove in the winning run as the California Angels edged the San Francisco Giants 4-3.

Jerry Turner's home run capped a five-run eighth-inning burst by San Diego and lifted the Padres to a 6-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Inter-League Play Nearing

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The walls of the National League's conservatism may be starting to crumble and indications are that inter-league major league baseball is close to a reality.

While neither the NL nor the American League decided firmly upon inter-league play, their meetings here Thursday leaned solidly towards "a 13-13 concept" that could result in some games between the leagues next season.

"The National League is much more inclined to go with 13-13 and inter-league play which is a tremendous step for baseball," said John Fetzer, owner of the Detroit Tigers and one of three AL members on the major leagues' six-man executive council.

"The National League had resisted it for so long. This is the first crack in the Kremlin wall, so to speak," Fetzer said. "I think that's the big story out of all of this," he added.

A study committee, to include representatives from both leagues, was set up to probe the 13-13 concept. The idea calls for each league to have 13 teams instead of the current 14 in the AL and 12 in the NL.

Presumably an AL franchise would move to Washington, D.C. as a member of the NL. The odd number of teams would necessitate inter-league play, otherwise a team in each league would be without an opponent.

While the idea drew favorable reaction, the three-division concept was quashed by the American League and tabled by the National, whose president Charles Feeney said passage "is possible, but highly improbable" at the NL meeting in August.

Tournament Is Benefit Event

The 1977 Kemper Open, May 30-June 5 at the Quail Hollow Country Club, Charlotte, will benefit the Diabetes Association in North and South Carolina.

Dr. Emile Werk of Wilmington, president of the North Carolina Affiliate of the American Diabetes Association said the Association will be launching a statewide effort to promote the golf tournament.

Individuals, country clubs or companies that would like to sell Kemper Open tickets should contact the American Diabetes Association, N. C. Affiliate Inc., 408 N. Tryon St., Charlotte, N. C. 28202.

Looks Back To Vaudeville Days

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope broke up when told that the late Fred Allen once said of a small-town vaudeville audience: "They're so low that a dwarf takes tickets to make them feel at home."

But the 73-year-old comic, who tonight has a 90-minute NBC special saluting vaudeville, says he never felt as did Allen, a close pal: "Now, I was worried about me. I wasn't worried about the audience. My trouble was getting to work," added the man who's had no woes there since Decoration Day, 1928, when a West Englewood, N.J., theater man who dug his act booked him as master of ceremonies for six months.

"It was a turning point for me. After that, I wasn't afraid of anything," said Hope, who says his pro career began in 1924 — "I was three years old then" — with Hurley's Jolly Follies.

It was what they call a "tab show," a small troupe of singers, comedians, comics and stooges who wandered the countryside, risking horizontal tossed salad from hostile small-town patrons.

But like many show-biz vets, Hope broke in with amateur nights, conducted in his case in and around Cleveland, whence he grew up. The rookies performed, and audience huzzahs determined the winner.

"Everyone hated a singer there, George Beban, who did 'Sign of the Rose,'" he grinned, essaying a brief Al Jolson-like solo during a lunch interview at his spacious sunny Toluca Lake home here.

"This fink would kill everybody. Here we are busting our humps, dancing our butts off, and we'd be standing in the wings knowing he'd win. It was sure-fire material, like doing the national anthem."

"Now his son, Bob Beban, is a member of Lakeside" — Hope's golf club — "and I miss him now. Every time I see him I miss him."

Hope, who has long since gone from those $8 second-place days to millionaire status, had a twinkle in his eyes as he spoke of all this, no mean feat since he'd been toiling on his NBC show until one that morning and had risen seven hours later to resume work.

He conceded that today's young comics don't have the vaudeville arena in which to polish their chuckle craft, but suggested that the college circuit now is what the RKO circuit was to him way back when.

"If a kid is good, if he can deliver, there are bookers in Boston and New York who book college dates all the time," he said.

"They (young comics) get a pretty good salary, but they also get the exposure and experience that we got."

Oddly, he doesn't consider the college trade a hard gang from which to get laughs: "If you've got material they can handle, that's a great test and you can go from there to anywhere."

So these diploma dervishes aren't tougher than the rough-and-ready citizens he faced when he began making his way in the show-biz world?

Still Intends To Balance Budget

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — President Carter still intends to balance the national budget by fiscal year 1981, Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said here Thursday.

"Georgia operates on a balanced budget. North Carolina operates on a balanced budget. Lots of other places operate on balanced budgets," said Lance. "There's no reason why the United States shouldn't."

Lance was addressing an estimated dinner audience of 1,300 at the 36th annual meeting of the North Carolina Citizens Association.

Balancing the budget was one of Carter's main themes during the 1976 presidential campaign. Lance told the audience not to be skeptical about Carter's chances of success and added that skeptics abounded in 1974 when Carter predicted he would win the presidency.

Lance said the administration would soon unveil an anti-inflationary program to stimulate the economy.

"It's a modest stimulus," he said, but did not give details of the program. Touching on another campaign theme, Lance said Carter still would reorganize the federal government. "The House is going to vote next Tuesday on giving him the authorization for reorganization that it has given every president since Franklin Roosevelt," he said and warned that reorganization "is going to be difficult. It's going to be controversial."

The Dutch liqueur firm, Bols, had decided to "pledge a cup of kindness" to Israel's strong finishes in last year's world championship competitions. Noting the partnership Lev-Romik was the key to Israel's fine showing, they invited Shmuel Lev to be one of the competitors in the Third Bols Bridge Tips Competition.

Lev notes that among the axioms taken over by contract bridge from its ancestor, whist, were: "Third hand high" and "Never finesse against your partner." While both of these generalities still hold true in a large number of cases, Lev points out that there are times when it is mandatory to disobey both these strictures. Consider this hand.

Against three no trump. West led his fourth-best club. If East follows the old whist principles and rises with the ace, the contract will be fulfilled. Declarer will hold up the king of clubs until the third round of the suit, then take the heart finesse into the safe hand. He will end up with a trick in each black suit, three hearts and four diamonds.

East should realize that there is virtually no chance that his partner has an entry to his club suit. Therefore, he should play the jack to force declarer to use his stoppers at once. Note that South cannot afford to hold up the king, for West could be leading from the ace-queen. When East gets in with the queen of hearts, he

Fight Waste Of Water

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — This Northeast area is not faced with the drought problems of the Midwest and West, but the town fathers are steamed up about the waste of water by residents.

Their first attack will be on long shower takers.

"The public sees a ... commercial on television with some guy stepping away from the shower, lathering up and just letting the water keep pouring down," said Arthur J. Julian, public works director. "The attitude is that water is something that's free and that the supply is endless. Well it just isn't."

A standard showerhead sprays about six gallons per minute, he said. So the town will give away showerheads that spray about two gallons per minute, emitting a soft mist instead of a pounding spray.

Julian estimates a saving of three million gallons of water daily if the town's 32,000 households use the showerheads. He says the saving in water costs will offset the $150,000 tab to distribute the showerheads.

The next step, says Mayor John K. Rafferty, is to do something about all that water in toilet tanks.

Hospital Dedication Climaxes A 10-Year Effort

1933, work started on a $30,000 addition to house 20 children, which was completed in 1933.

By 1939 the patient load was outgrowing the facility and plans were considered for a 40-bed addition. However it was 1946 after the passage of the Hill-Burton Act by the U.S. Congress—a bill that would make money available for building new hospitals—that efforts really got under way for improvements in the health care system in the county. Leaders from across the county met at East Carolina Teachers College to discuss the possibility of a new hospital.

Then in July, 1947 County Commissioners met and called for a special election. The September 16 vote favored spending $351,900 for a new 140 bed facility, with an additional $300,000 from the federal government and a $248,000 grant from the State.

That $351,900 bond vote passed by 90 per cent.

A 17 acre site was donated to the county for the facility on September 31, 1947 and on January 14, 1949, bids for the project were opened and found to be within the funds available. Ground breaking ceremonies were held March 21 and construction on the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital was completed in one year, 10 months and 17 days. The $1.41 million facility opened its doors to the people of the county February 8, 1951.

Mrs. Mamie McLawhorn Dews and her one-week old son Kenneth Kirwin Dews Jr. were the first patients admitted to the new facility.

By coincidence, Mrs. Dews husband and young Kenneth's father, Kenneth Dews of Winterville, was elected chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial March 15, 1977.

In October, 1949 a drive was begun to provide $150,000 for a nurses home to house nurses and nursing students, which was completed along with the new hospital.

Some 10 years later, because of an increasing need for beds, a new wing was opened, bringing the total beds available at Pitt Memorial to 200.

Before contracts for the new hospital were signed in February 1974, Commissioners had to come up with some extra money.

When bids were opened on November 8, 1973, the $13.25 million figure was well above the money available. Including construction costs, cost of land, architects fees and other costs, the project totaled $16.7 million. At that time, the county had only $14.19 million it could spend.

Through negotiations with contractors and by coming up with $537,000 from the county, $250,000 from hospital trustees and a $280,000 grant from the Medical Care Commission, the contracts were finally let and construction was made possible.

Last week, hospital director Jack Richardson reviewed funding of the new building: $9 million in bonds, $1.49 million in rehabilitation grants, $2 million in loans, $480,100 in a Hill-Burton grant; $250,000 from trustees, $750,000 from the Duke Endowment, $1.08 million in revenue sharing funds, $1.3 million in interest on the $9 million in bonds, $134,000 in old hospital levy funds and $195,000 from the sale of land to the state for the site of the East Carolina University Medical Sciences building, for a total of $16.75 million.

But again, that does not tell the whole story.

Before the new 322,141 square foot building (spanning 7.2 acres), with 370 beds including the 55-bed rehabilitation center could be completed, it was being expanded.

When the new facility was first thought of, officials had no idea that it would become the primary clinical facility for a medical school. But when a four-year school of medicine was authorized at East Carolina University the new medical facility was the obvious choice for use as a teaching hospital.

In 1975 an affiliation agreement was entered into between the hospital and university which among other things provided for expansion of the hospital to make it more compatible with the needs of the medical school program.

So what was a $16.7 million project will now become a $23 million facility when medical school additions to the building are completed late this summer.

Included in the medical school additions is a $5 million three-story facility containing 50,000 square feet at the front of the hospital, as well as some 25,000 square feet of space costing $2.1 million at the rear of the building expanding the hospital's outpatient, x-ray, surgery, emergency room, dining and store room facilities.

A 40,000 square foot Eastern Area Health Education Center and Model Family Practice Center is also being added to the hospital complex at a cost of $2 million.

What is in the future? According to Richardson "They'll never stop building here as long as you or I live."

Plans are in the making now for the addition of a state-funded tower at the front of the new facility to house 114 additional beds. That structure is expected to cost $3.8 million.

Also there are plans to add a neo-natal center to the rear of the hospital at an estimated cost of $500,000. That state-funded project will provide about 33 intensive care beds for high risk infants.

What started 10 years ago as a proposed $11 million project has grown into a $23 million facility with 370 beds, with more on the way in the future.

Held Hearing On Mid-East Role

WINTERVILLE — In a special Monday night meeting the Winterville Town Board held a public hearing to discuss allowing the Mid-East Housing Authority to use its authority in Winterville.

Because of a lack of safe dwellings and sanitary conditions in some residential areas of Winterville, board members passed a resolution to allow the Mid-East Housing Authority to function in these areas.

The board will hold another public hearing Monday, March 28 to discuss whether to allow a funeral home to locate in a residential section.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to carry through with whatever you have already started but that needs more work on it. You find some unexpected circumstance or annoyance that can cause you to change your thinking.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle tasks that have been left undone; then get to those vital letters that need writing. Avoid a situation that leads to trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study further into a plan that will bring you a greater abundance in the future. Plan needed improvements to property.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care of personal matters first; then get into other activities. Plan to do some entertaining soon or accept an invitation extended you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Clear up confidential matters then set up a whole new set of circumstances for yourself. Try not arguing with a loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good time to assist friends with their problems and show you are loyal, understanding. Not a good time for entertaining. Avoid hassling.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good time to handle a public matter that could add prestige and better credit. Try not to argue with anyone. Shop early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to have a more worthwhile existence in the future and then put ideas to work. Show the proper attitude toward a new friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your intuition is fine so use it to best advantage along with your good judgment. Show more devotion to a loved one and get fine results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Understand what is your part of any agreement with allies and carry through efficiently. Get into some civic work which is good for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find a better way to get your ideas working in a most clever way and get excellent results. Look for new items to add to wardrobe.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy early and put finest talents to work. Plan time for recreation also. Home is your best bet for now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of household chores and then take health treatments you need. Keep necessary appointments. Take no risks with credit.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be loaded with talent, but the forte here will manifest itself early and the education should be slanted in such directions. Education should be an academic one. Success will come early and money should be saved for possible reverses later in life.

Three Collisions In Greenville Thursday

An estimated $2,800 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 12:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets involving cars driven by Deloris Carawan Buck of 2514 Sunset Ave. and Catherine Marvette Little of 1009 Clement Dorm.

Police, who charged Miss Little with failing to stop for a stop light, estimated damage at $1,000 to each of the two cars.

Timothy L. Durham of 103F Cherry Ct. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial and Sylvan Drives.

Investigators reported the Durham car collided with a vehicle operated by Mary Holder Lee of Route 6, Kinston, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Durham car and $250 damage to the Lee auto.

Drivers involved in a 3:50 p.m. collision on Meade Street, 128 feet North of the Fifth Street intersection were listed as Deborah Jean Holt of 411 Clement Dorm and Isabel Elizabeth Worth of 1501 East Fifth St.

Officers estimated damage from the collision at $200 to the Holt car and $250 to the Worth auto.

An Afternoon Of Singing
