Tom Taft Elected President Of UF

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Tom Taft, former campaign chairman of the Pitt County United Fund, was elected Tuesday to serve as president of the organization for 1977-78.

The election of the young Greenville attorney to the UF post took place during the 19th annual luncheon meeting held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Taft, who served during the past year as first vice president, chaired the fund drive in 1975-76. He succeeds outgoing president Bill Dansey.

Dansey and campaign chairman Don Parrott completed the 1976-77 solicitation effort with a record pledge and contribution total of $265,140.39. The figure topped the established fund goal of $248,418.45.

Both Dansey and Parrott were honored for their successful roles in the recent campaign and were presented gifts by the United Fund.

Officers elected in addition to Taft included: J. Curtis Hendrix, first vice president; Parrott, second vice president; Lester Brown, secretary; W. B. (Buff) Chalk, treasurer; John C. Williams, assistant treasurer; and James T. Cheatham, legal counsel.

Parrott recognized the division chairmen who served during the campaign and presented them engraved plaques. On hand for the meeting were: Glenn Fisher, Industrial Division; Cliff Barbee, Professional I; The Rev. Dan Earnhardt, Professional III; Mrs. Juanita McCarthy (representing the Pilot Club), Retired Citizens; Etsil Gordon, Special Gifts; Robert S. (Bobby) Hall, Goal Buster; Chet Emerson, Goal Buster; T. R. Pierce, East Carolina University; and Tom Reese, "200" Plus.

Division chairmen who were not able to attend included: Ronald P. Jones and Ron Tripp, Professional II; Jimmy Wynne, Business I; Donald C. McGlohon, Business II; Leslie Turner, Business II; and Phillip Michaels, Governmental.

Area chairmen recognized for their roles in the drive included: William C. Cozart, Ayden; Bernard Haselrig, Bethel; Miss Beatrice Moore, Falkland; Wilton Duke Jr., Farmville; Clifton Gentry, Gritton; Mrs. Joyce Cutler, Grimesland; Mrs. Hattie Thompson, Simpson; J. Beverly Congleton, Stokes; and Mrs. Thelma Switzer, Pactolus.

Parrott presented plaques to a number of area organizations and businesses that recorded increases in UF pledges for the recent drive. They were North Carolina National Bank, Garner-Wynne-Manning, Union Carbide, Spunwind Inc., Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., Pitt Memorial Hospital,

First State Bank, Alpha Phi Omega, Procter and Gamble, JC Penney, East Carolina University, Pepsi Cola, Wachovia Bank and Trust, Prepshirt, The Daily Reflector, Grady White Boats, Du Pont, Empire Brushes, Container Corp. of America, Burroughs Wellcome, Carolina Telephone, Fieldcrest Mills, Eaton Corp., Planters National Bank, Vermont American, Pitt Technical Institute, North American Fiberglass, and Carolina Dairy Products.

Tuesday's meeting was saddened by the loss of former UF campaign chairman, president and supporter Karl Faser, who died earlier in the day.

Taft, who said that Faser was responsible for involving him in the United Fund program, called Faser a "good person, a rare person and a special friend."

A Greenville native, Taft graduated from Rose High School in 1964 and completed his undergraduate work at Duke University where he received his baccalaureate degree in history.

Following graduation from Duke, he attended the University of North Carolina School of

Investigator Wonders At Any Surviving Air Crash

ATLANTA (AP) — "I just wonder how anyone walked away from this one," the chief federal airline disaster investigator said Tuesday night of the crash the day before of a Southern Airways DC-9 airplane that took 69 lives in Paulding County.

Francis McAdams, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said examination of a flight data recorder would begin today in Washington.

Information from the "black box" should tell investigators technical data during the plane's last few moments before it skidded down a rural north Georgia road, broke up and exploded, sending a huge orange fireball hundreds of feet into the air.

Sixty-one of the victims were passengers on the flight from Huntsville, Ala., to Atlanta. The other eight were on the ground—seven of them in one car in front of a country store burned out in the crash.

The 69th victim, Earl D. Johnson of Muscle Shoals, Ala., died Tuesday night at Atlanta's Grady Hospital of his injuries. He was a patient in the hospital's burn unit.

One investigator said the pilot, Capt. William W. McKinzie of La Place, La., made "a hell of a try" to land the plane on wind-swept two-lane Georgia highway 92 in the New Hope community.

When an analysis of the data recorder is complete, it will be correlated with the transcript of a cockpit voice recorder (CVR), also recovered from Monday's crash.

McAdams told a news conference Tuesday that analysis of the data recorder has been delayed because an expert in the field has been in California, studying readouts from similar boxes aboard two Boeing 747s that collided on a runway in the Canary Islands last week, killing 577 persons.

A preliminary examination of the CVR has been completed, McAdams said. It indicated that the airplane with 85 passengers and crew ran into severe weather just before reporting engine trouble. Hailstones apparently pounded on the aircraft for about 65 seconds, he said, drowning out some cockpit conversation.

McAdams said the recording had the voice of a crew member saying the plane had a "busted windshield" at about 14,000 feet. Shortly after that, he said, both engines failed within a minute.

A voice on the recording said: "Shut it down. Shut it down," McAdams said, apparently a command to turn off an engine to lessen the chance of an explosion.

The last words audible in the cockpit, McAdams said, apparently came from First Officer Lyman W. Keele of East Point, an Atlanta suburb.

McAdams said the voice said: "I've got it," apparently meaning he was taking over control of the plane.

Dents apparently caused by hailstones were found "on the nose cone of each engine," McAdams said.

"When we finish (the investigation), we may find other impact marks of hail on other parts of the aircraft."

Bond-Budget Meeting Is Set For Pitt School Bd.

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Board of Education members discussed early dismissal of school and scheduled a special bond-budget meeting, at the board's Tuesday meeting.

At the March Board of Education meeting representatives of the Association of Classroom Teachers and the Pitt County Principal's Association requested that the board consider dismissing all Pitt County schools with grades K-8 at 2:30 p.m. The representatives explained that there is a wide range of difference in school hours at these schools and that the uniform early dismissal would not only be within the necessary classroom hours for students, it would also allow teachers to have an hour after students leave each day to develop lesson plans.

Superintendent Ott Alford asked Reginald Moss with the State Board of Education Office to study the transportation patterns in Pitt County schools to determine what affects the early dismissal would have on the transportation system. Moss presented a report of his survey to the board Tuesday.

According to Moss, the early dismissal could be worked out within the transportation system, but about 400 students who are presently allowed to ride the school buses even though they live within one and a half miles of the school, would not be allowed to ride the buses. Instead, the buses would be used for rerouting which would completely separate K-8 students from 9-12 students.

Board members decided to study early dismissal further including costs and rerouting of buses before taking any action.

Chairman Mark Owens reported that he and Supt. Alford had met with City School Board Chairman Henry Dunn and Superintendent Glenn Cox to discuss the Greenville City - Pitt County Schools bond issue.

"We talked about the needs of both systems. The city representatives said that they need $3 million, which if we had such a bond issue, it would have to be about $9 million. I did ask them that if this board could not go with a $9 million bond issue what would happen and they said that they would have to discuss their needs again with their board," Owens said.

Dr. Tom Patterson of Farmville suggested that in considering a figure for a bond issue the board should consider the cost of renovations necessary to conserve energy in the county schools.

Bill McLawhorn of Ayden said many people he has talked with would not support a bond issue.

"Many people say that they would not support a bond issue and I personally could not support a $9 million or $12 million bond issue, but I might could support a $6 million bond issue," McLawhorn said.

Supt. Alford suggested that a $7.5 million bond issue might be fair to meet the needs of the city.

Kenneth Dews of Winterville suggested that the board hold a special meeting to discuss the bond issue as well as the 1977-78 budget and tenure for staff.

The board scheduled the special meeting for April 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Associate Superintendent Tom Craft presented copies of the proposed 1977-78 budget to each member to study before the April 12 meeting.

Assoc. Supt. Craft reported that the Belvoir Grammar and Stokes-Pactolus properties are being appraised and the Belvoir Grammar property is being mapped. He also presented recent sanitation reports.

The board voted to enter a contract agreement with the Town of Bethel concerning the use of the Bethel Elementary athletic field. The agreement was accepted subject to further changes of the law.

Assistant Superintendent Jack Edwards presented to the board the Barbe Reading Skills Program, a planned and systematic reading approach to be used in grades K-8. According to Asst. Supt. Edwards, the program would allow a systematic approach to reading but would still

Big Refunds Ahead By VEPCO, Duke, CP&L

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Customers of three major electric power companies apparently will be $35 million wealthier as a result of Tuesday's state Supreme Court ruling.

Duke Power Co., Carolina Power and Light Co., and Virginia Electric and Power Co. (Veeco) were ordered to refund that amount by a 4-3 court vote in February.

The court refused Tuesday, without comment, to review that ruling.

The companies collected the money in 1975 as fuel surcharges from their customers.

CP&L spokesman H. Sidney Linton, declining comment Tuesday, said the ruling had yet to be reviewed by the company's legal advisers.

Any plan to refund money probably would "be up to the (state) Utilities Commission," he said.

The refunds for persons using a normal 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per month would be about $11 for CP&L customers, $8 for Duke customers and $25 for Veeco customers, state officials said.

The Utilities Commission, in January 1974, began letting companies add fuel charges to customers' bills to recoup rising costs of generating fuels.

A two-month lag in computing cost figures meant each bill's surcharge reflected fuel costs two months before.

The 1975 General Assembly decided to end the automatic fuel clause Sept. 1 and ordered the commission to rule each month on surcharge requests, based on estimated fuel consumption in that month.

The Sept. 1 cutoff caused the companies to be cheated out of revenues for July and August, they contended.

The commission then allowed them to collect the $35 million for the two months over a 12-month period.

The state Court of Appeals upheld the commission 2-1, but the high court reversed that ruling last February saying the commission exceeded its authority.

Agenda Of 32 Items Is Awaiting City Council

The City Council will tackle a 32-item agenda when it meets on Thursday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Consideration of Recreation-Library Center bids; and consideration of bids received for the construction of Arlington Boulevard from Hooker Road to Evans Street.

The Day Christ Died The Hour Had Struck For Christ's Betrayal

"Judas with a kiss you betray the Son of Man?" Jesus queried when the traitor had led temple guards and Roman soldiers to arrest him in Gethsemane.

BY JIM BISHOP
(Fourth in a series of eight)
2 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

The night air was still. In the garden of the gethsemane, the leaves of the twisted little trees hung quietly. All along, there had been some sounds coming from the early worshippers walking the Bethany road to the temple; now there was no sound. If Jesus had looked up from the rock, He would have noted that the traffic in and out of the Golden Gate to and from the temple had stopped.

Inside the walls, Jerusalem began to come to life. On this night, it was common for families to sleep four hours or less so that the joy of the Passover could be savored in sweet consciousness.

The early worshippers hurried to Solomon's Porch because here the senses could be made intoxicated with beauty. The view to the east on a clear night like this stretched over the top of Olivet all the way to the Mountains of Moab on the far side of the Dead Sea.

From the great portico, many of the pious, looking down, must have seen Judas and his party leave. They left by way of the Golden Gate. It was a big, double-arched exit at the bottom of the wall below the temple, and the marchers, with torches and lanterns and swords and staves, must have attracted the attention of those above.

The oddly assorted band of Jews and Romans marched into the valley, and when the head of the column was near the bottom, Judas called for a halt and drew the leaders to him.

"The one I kiss," said Judas, "that is He. Arrest Him and lead Him away, carefully."

In the garden, Jesus got to His feet. His face was again serene in dignity. He walked back to the

Bomb Jokes Are A Federal Offense

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem at the moment, but I'd like to share something with you that might be of interest to your readers.

Some friends of mine were married recently and went to Tampa, Fla. for their honeymoon. (Let's call them Mike and Judy, which aren't their real names.)

Well, before they boarded the plane to go home, they went into the lounge for a drink, and Mike had one too many. He then took a large candle which Judy had bought as a souvenir at Disney World and waved it to a woman security officer at the airport, saying, "This could be a bomb!" Well, she immediately called the FBI and a few others and Mike was promptly hauled off to jail. His bond was set at $7,500.

To make a long story short, Mike's little "joke" cost him 10 percent of the $7,500 for bail, two days in jail and two days of work missed, and to top it off he has to fly back to Tampa to stand trial and possibly face a jail sentence and a fine!

Maybe this little account will stop some other clown from making jokes about bombs in an airport.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

DEAR NO: There are warnings posted in every airport stating that jokes about "bombs" are a federal offense, punishable by law. But some people (like Mike) have to learn the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who doesn't really like to babysit. Up until now, I only babysat when I had nothing else to do. Lately when I'm asked to babysit and have other plans my mother makes me break my plans in order to take the job. She says now that I am old enough to earn my own money. I should do so whenever I get the chance.

One time when I turned down a babysitting job because I wanted to do something else with my friends, she cut my allowance off completely. She said if I wanted pocket money, I could earn it.

If we were a poor family, which we are not, I could see her point. How can I get my mother to see my side of it, Abby?

Or do you think she's right?

NON-BABYSITTER

DEAR NON: If your "plans" constitute something important (like a special event, or a party that has been planned in advance) I think you should be allowed to turn down a babysitting job to pursue your plans. But to refuse to "sit" in order to goof around with your friends is, I think, immature.

DEAR ABBY: I was walking down the street when I happened to come upon a pitiful sight. A little boy, who couldn't have been 2 years old, was harnessed on a leash like a dog. And this leash was attached to a clothesline. The poor darling looked so unhappy!

Finally I rang the doorbell, and the mother came to the door. I told her that leashes were for dogs, not children, and she said, "Is that so? Do you want to watch him for a while?" Then she slammed the door in my face. I have told this story to several of my friends, and they all seem to think I had no business ringing the bell. What is your opinion?

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES: Unless the child was exposed to some possible danger, I would vote with your friends.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Tips For A Safer Kitchen

To many of us the kitchen is synonymous with feeling good because it is the hub of family activity. Unfortunately, the kitchen is also among the most potentially dangerous rooms in the house, the place where many accidents can and do occur unless you are careful. Be certain you haven't overlooked the following possible hazards, and be prepared for emergencies.

FIRE

Fire is always a very real danger. Window curtains near the stove should be tied back to avoid blowing into open flames. Grease fires are a constant danger, even in everyday cooking—keep a fire extinguisher or a box of course salt handy near the stove for housing small fires quickly. If fire spreads get everyone out of the house and call the fire department on a neighbor's phone.

Household Cleaning Agents

Household Cleaning Agents should be used only as directed—and safely stored in locked cabinets out of reach of children or pets. Whenever possible, avoid using cleaners which contain harsh chemicals. For example, instead of drain cleaners containing caustic lyes and acid, use one that relies on pressure, such as Drain Power, to unclog pipes.

A First Aid Kit

A first aid kit is a must in any kitchen. Make sure yours is fully equipped, including burn ointment and tourniquet.

Gas Leak

A gas leak is another possible hazard. If you smell gas, open

Parties Given Miss Minette

Bride-elect Lynne Ann Minette was honored at a lemonade and recipe party Thursday night at the home of Miss Jan Stephen, Greenville.

The honoree, her attendants and friends shared recipes.

Miss Minette was honored recently by Mrs. Simon Lawrence and Mrs. Booker Cunningham at a luncheon at the Wilson Country Club.

Miss Minette was presented an orchid corsage to complement her yellow dress.

The club dining room was decorated with yellow baskets filled with spring flowers and an orchid plant.

Special guests included Mrs. William P. Minette, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Howard McDustrell, mother of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. Eustace Elliott of Chapel Hill, grandmother of the honoree.

windows, check range dials to see if they're in "off" position. Do not light matches or use any spark-producing items. If pilot lights are working, you may have a major leak—turn off the master dial, get everyone out of the house and call the utility company without delay!

Tainted And Spoiled Foods

Tainted and spoiled foods can cause illness—even death. Check dates printed on prepared foods for your protection and use items no more than two or three days past the indicated "safe" dates. Mark and date meats you've rewrapped for freezing. Most meats can be kept up to six months, but time varies depending on the freezer.

Power Failures

For power failures, keep a flashlight handy, perhaps one with a magnetic handle which can be latched onto the side of your refrigerator for easy accessibility. Refrigerator doors should not be opened more than absolutely necessary—loss of cold temperature can cause foods to spoil. If electricity is off long enough for frozen foods to thaw, do not refreeze them—either use within a few days or cook and then freeze them as prepared meals.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny skies and cold weather are predicted today for most of the nation. Mild weather is expected from the Pacific Coast to the Rockies. Snow and snow flurries are forecast from the Great Lakes to northern New England. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A freeze warning was in effect for North Carolina's inland areas tonight as wintry weather returned on stormy winds that left scattered damage around the state.
Some light snow fell over mountain areas Tuesday during the afternoon and night, and flurries were likely over higher elevations today.
Winds were expected to diminish slowly today with temperatures ranging from the upper 30s in the higher mountains to the 50s in the eastern part of the state.
Temperatures this morning dipped to the 30s. Raleigh and Greensboro had a low of 34 degrees and Asheville had a 36.
A warming trend was predicted for the weekend.
Severe weather Monday and Tuesday caused a host of problems around North Carolina, mostly minor, but damage estimates were highest in the mountainous western sections of the state.
High winds raked the state Tuesday, felling trees in many areas, but most damage was minor, officials reported.
Between 7,500 and 8,000 Duke

Power Co. customers had electricity interrupted in Charlotte, but power was restored by late afternoon.
An estimated 4,000 Carolina Power and Light Co. customers in Raleigh also experienced a power outage as winds gusting to 45 miles per hour felled trees and limbs across some power lines.
A light airplane being taxied for an oil change at Raleigh-Durham Airport was overturned by a wind gust, but officials said no one was injured.
Officials in the Greensboro area reported scattered incidents of wind damage Tuesday.
Damage estimates were expected to exceed $500,000 in Buncombe County, with the cost of one washed-out bridge put at $110,000.
Some 75 families were stranded when a two-lane bridge over Beaverdam Creek in northern Buncombe County washed out Monday. A temporary walkway was installed over the creek Tuesday, said Gus Apsigas, Department of Transportation information officer in Raleigh.

Several businesses and the post office at Candler were closed as a result of flooding Monday. Workers cleared two feet of mud out of the post office Tuesday, but carrier mail continued.
Several roads were covered by water in Asheville, others were lined with debris and at least two streets were closed completely, said police Capt. J.L. Sloop.
Highway department officials in surrounding counties reported numerous rock and mud slides. A rock slide was cleared Tuesday from Interstate 40 in the Pigeon River gorge area of Haywood County, officials said.
Five persons were treated for minor injuries and released Monday night from Memorial Mission Hospital in Asheville after a car and truck collided on a bridge. The accident was storm-related, the Highway Patrol reported.
Other minor slides and felled trees temporarily blocked roads in Clay, Jackson, Henderson, Transylvania, Cherokee and Graham counties, officials said.

Machine To 'Diagnose'

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Automated cell-analyzing machines now under development may one day be able to tell you if you're being exposed to something that could lead to cancer, a California researcher says.

The machine would analyze body cells in blood or urine samples for any signs they were becoming cancerous. Dr. Mortimer Mendelsohn told an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers Tuesday.

A physician and biophysicist, he is associate director for biomedical and environmental research of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory of the University of California.

One type of machine, a flow cytometer, can examine 1,000 living cells per second, measuring size and some other aspects with great precision, Mendelsohn said.

Further, the machine can be instructed to look for particular "markers" or characteristics of cells, and then automatically cull them out as they flow by. They then can be analyzed more closely by specialists to see if they are pre-cancerous or give other information.

For employes working with potentially dangerous chemicals, these screenings might tell "whether something is getting to you," Dr. Mendelsohn said. It would tell health personnel they should try to learn what is affecting body cells before the process becomes cancerous or irreversible.

This kind of automated early warning system is perhaps three years away, Mendelsohn said.

Presley Keeps Hospital Suite

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley has been released from Baptist Hospital, but he is maintaining his two-room suite at the hospital in case he is readmitted.

Vernon Presley, the singer's father, said Tuesday that his son left the hospital before dawn and went to his Graceland mansion.

Presley was hospitalized Friday with what his physicians termed intestinal flu and fatigue. The ailment forced cancellation of a concert at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

If Still Felt Neded, So Be It

The Pitt Technical Institute board of trustees, at the urging of the county commissioners, has requested that a special referendum be called for a vote on whether or not Pitt Tech should become a community college.

The board's action came after a survey was conducted by Diener and Associates of Research Triangle Park. Of 759 persons surveyed 71 percent said they were in favor of Pitt Tech becoming a community college; 14 percent were opposed and 15 percent were indifferent.

Some 50 percent of those survey favored the conversion even if it means an increase in taxes — something that is not required as things now stand.

If the county commissioners still feel that a referendum is necessary, so be it. It is well to remember, however, that it is not required legally and the referendum will probably be no more than a straw vote, at considerable expense.

New Step Forward For AHEC System

The ever growing system of Area Health Education Centers took another step forward with the dedication of the $350,000 AHEC facilities at Wayne County Memorial Hospital Sunday.

It is one of the Eastern AHEC facilities which will serve 23 counties, 16 community hospitals, 11 community colleges and technical institutes.

The Wayne center has classrooms and other facilities for training in the health related fields, and it is a welcome addition to the AHEC system.

How A Parole Bd. Decides

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A recent item in the news had to do with a client of former Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., now practicing law, who received favorable treatment by the North Carolina Paroles Commission.

That incident, and others from time to time, raise questions about just how the state paroles system operates.

The answer given to recent questions by commissioners is that "policy, not statutes" provide the guidelines. Just what are those policies? Pinning down such guidelines is difficult because of the nature of the system, flexibility is built in. Depending on perspective, that is either what is wanted, or the weakness of the system.

No Paroles
There is some sentiment in the General Assembly to change the system. Several states have abolished paroles entirely, giving flat sentences instead with guaranteed release predicated upon prescribed behavior of the prisoner.

The recommendations put forth in the General Assembly by the Commission on Correctional Programs chaired by former State Senator Eddie H. Knox of Charlotte do not go that far.

Those recommendations do suggest, however, that "discretionary release of prison inmates on parole should be abandoned." Instead, each inmate would get one day's credit for each day he serves in prison without breaking published rules or regulations, and that each be provided in writing the rules covering conduct, and the release date.

The Paroles Board would oversee the operation and provide pre-release and after-release services.

A doctoral candidate at the School of Criminal Justice at the State University of New York at Albany recently did a study of the North Carolina parole system to determine how the board makes decisions.

The Paroles Commission "had explicit, albeit unwritten, policies that would often dictate their decisions," Colleen A. Cosgrove determined.

One-fourth of the sentence must be served before eligibility, and Cosgrove's study found "no evidence that the Commission had either an implicit or explicit policy concerning the actual amount of time or proportion of the maximum sentence that an inmate must serve.

Time No Factor
"Thus — and this is quite important — parole decisions in North Carolina are dichotomous, 'in' or 'out' decisions. For this commission it is not a question of when to parole, but whether ..."

Commissioners said they feel judges hand down the sentences, the one-fourth must be served before eligibility for "retributive and deterrent purposes" and it is "not their function to question the wisdom of the length of the sentence."

What emerges from the Cosgrove study as published in the magazine "Popular Government" by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill is the conclusion that behavior in prison; participation in work, study, and other rehabilitation programs; prior criminal record; and any history of violent behavior shape decisions.

Paroles, under the policy, appear to be blocked more than granted based on particular considerations. For example, a long list of reasons were compiled for not giving a parole, and each applicant was threaded through that formula with parole rejected on various points.

The list of reasons followed this basic path: wanted for another crime in this or another state; behaved poorly in prison; serious prior criminal record; high assaultive potential; still dangerous; and finally factors such as community or police opposition to parole.

Clearing those hurdles, applicants thread another set of determiners which lead toward parole: very good institutional behavior; no prior criminal record (or minor one); not assaultive; and favorable community comment regarding parole.

Decisions And Decisions

WASHINGTON — When President Carter was running for office he criticized Henry Kissinger's policy of closed-door diplomacy, and he vowed that, if elected, he would keep the American people informed on everything the government decides when it comes to foreign policy, including our "options, commitments, progress and even failures."

It sounded great at the time, but now that it is being put into practice it's getting the American people rather unhinged.

Markay, with whom I was having lunch, was drinking rather heavily and I asked him what was bothering him. "I don't know what to do now that the SALT talks are in such disarray," he said. "I don't see why that has you upset," I told him. "After all, you're in the handbag business."

"Yeh, but Carter wants every one of us to get involved in foreign policy. He does not want any more secret diplomacy. He says every American should know what's going on."

"So?" "What do I say to Gromyko now?"

"I don't think the President expects you to answer Gromyko personally. All Mr. Carter wants to know from you is what he should say to Gromyko."

"I'm telling you it's too much for me. I used to only have to worry if Gimbels or J. C. Penney was going to buy handbags. Now I have to worry if we can afford to give up the Cruise missile without the Soviets giving up the Backfire bomber. I'm in leather, not disarmament."

"I know it's tough for you, but Mr. Carter does not want to make any foreign policy decisions without informing the American public. If he has to make a large expenditure for arms he wants you to be in on it."

"That's just great," said Markay. "I'm supposed to decide whether we build nuclear aircraft carriers or

ART BUCHWALD

B-1 bombers. I don't even know what kind of buckle to put on my fall line of evening bags. How the hell am I supposed to decide what new weapons the country needs?"

"You'll have to read up on it. For too long we've been operating in the dark. If the American people are not brought into the decision-making process of government, mistakes could be made which we'll all have to pay for."

"Look, we give the President, the secretary of state and Congress very good salaries. I don't ask them what I should do about putting a shoulder strap on a handbag for Macy's. Why should they bug me about what we should do with Zaire?"

"I'll tell you something," he continued, "I liked the way Kissinger operated—in the dark, with no one knowing what he was up to. When the Middle East was falling apart it was Kissinger's problem. He only gave us the good news. The bad news he kept to himself. Under Kissinger I could devote all my energies to my business. With Carter and Vance I have to spend half the day figuring out what I want to do about Castro."

"But President Carter believes the American people should know the bad news as well as the good news. After all, under our system it is the people who must finally decide what has to be done."

"I don't want my brother-in-law in the field of foreign policy. If it was up to him

Peril In Guiding Protocol

By MAUREN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief of Protocol Evan S. Dobbelle, balancing precariously on his tiptoes, was showing just how he managed to make a fool of himself at the White House recently.

He was in a limousine with United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, preparing to hop out and race around the car to make the official introductions to President Carter.

But the car door slammed into the North Portico when he tried to open it, leaving Dobbelle room only to rise to his toes, arms dangling about his head, and inch along between the car and the wall until he was free.

"By the time he joined Carter and Waldheim it was too late for his carefully planned formal introduction."

"Do you know everybody?" the protocol chief, smiling weakly, asked the President. Not your normal presidential introduction.

No longer does Evan Dobbelle leap out of cars. Now, he skips the ride and positions himself at the White House well before the visiting party arrives.

After six weeks on the job, leaping out of cars is just one thing the nation's official greeter has stopped because "it made no sense."

Dobbelle, a Republican who became a Democrat a year ago to work for candidate Carter, carries out the President's wishes for "traditional and simple" ceremonies.

So far, that has meant eliminating the playing of "Hail to the Chief" and the presence of an abundance of flags and bugles. It also means no more liquor at most White House functions and a general de-emphasis of the more ostentatious trappings of government.

Dobbelle, interviewed in his large State Department office, insists the new way is no less formal than the old. Just less pretentious. And often less costly.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter's Plus In Moscow

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Despite the shaky start that launched his first negotiation with the Soviet Union, President Carter is now solidly entrenched with both congressional conservatives and the Pentagon, without any shaving of his liberal Democratic base.

In no little part, that was due to this hard-line decision by the President, backed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff at a White House luncheon just before the Moscow talks: preserve the much-feared cruise missile as the chief American bargaining lever to pry nuclear arms reductions out of the Soviet Union. The cruise, a pilotless, subsonic aircraft that can carry a nuclear payload, is essentially a theater-wide weapon but has strategic capabilities.

With his own arms proposals deliberately given heavy advance publicity, providing them with a political dimension unknown in the Nixon-Ford-Kissinger days of secret diplomacy, Mr. Carter appears to have emerged from the Moscow debacle reinforced politically on all sides.

Indeed, the failure of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to resolve deep disagreement between Washington and Moscow over new nuclear arms limitations has united Democrats and Republicans, hawks and doves behind Jimmy Carter as no foreign policy success or failure since the Vietnam war fragmented American politics. For example, neither the Pentagon brass nor defense-oriented Congressmen are demanding an immediate increase in strategic arms spending — or in any other category of military spending — despite the Moscow deadlock and despite Mr. Carter's cuts in the new MX long-range mobile missile and the B-1 bomber.

"We don't need that right now," Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, the Senate majority leader, told us. "But I informed President Carter that in any accelerated arms race with the Russians, the American people won't settle for second place." That message-to-Moscow mood dominated the cabinet room Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Carter, discussing Vance's failure, rediscovered the phenomenon of virtually total bipartisan support.

Support for the President's decision to hang tough despite the breakdown of the talks transcends U.S. politics. NATO allies in Europe, far from shrinking at the prospect of heightened U.S.-Soviet tensions, or even the resumption of some form of cold war, were privately pleased that the new administration was refusing to be cowed. "They're testing Carter," one European diplomat remarked, "and I don't think he is going to blink."

What this means is that at least for now Mr. Carter is free of the vicious policy and weapons disputes that hamstrung President Ford and Henry Kissinger in two years of effort to translate the November 1974 Vladivostok agreements into treaty form. It means — at least for now — that Jimmy Carter negotiates with the Kremlin from a position of strength at home, a fact not to go unnoticed in the Kremlin which has used the bloody divisions of U.S. politics as a major asset in pursuing worldwide Soviet policy.

The weaknesses in this first bargaining bout with the Kremlin were more tactical than strategic. In retrospect, presidential advisers believe they moved too frontally on certain aspects of the human rights crusade. As a result, they began sending deliberate signals to Moscow, three weeks before the arms talks, that mere words are not interference in internal Soviet affairs. That probably means for Soviet dissidents: no more letters signed by Jimmy Carter and no more White House invitations.

A second tactical error was even to suggest that the President's preferred arms-reduction plan — an indescribably complex and ramified proposal — could conceivably be digested, much less intelligently discussed, by Kremlin arms experts without weeks of study.

These errors may be chalked up to the inexperience of newcomers. They pale beside the political unity stitched together by the President's refusal to retreat on the cruise missile and his decision to go public with his arms-cut proposal — putting him far ahead of the Soviets

To the editor:

Non-smokers are finally standing up and being counted. They are expressing their feelings on smoking in public places.

It would be neglectful if the Lung Association did not try to clear up some discrepancies in Ms. Connie Drath's statements. She cites an example of a study done by the Massachusetts Lung Association on the effects of smoke on non-smokers. This study showed that non-smokers in smoke-filled places, such as bars, inhale very little smoke. This study tested only nicotine levels, and the researchers themselves felt the study was inadequate. In the last paragraph of the report, in fact, they said that the gases in cigarette smoke, which they did not measure in this experiment, were undoubtedly the offensive element in smoke. A later study, which we are now analyzing, estimated that during an eight-hour shift in a ventilated bar, a bartender inhaled as much benzo-pyrene—a cancer-causing agent in cigarette smoke—as he would by smoking 36 cigarettes.

Thousands of other research projects have been conducted with the verdict in that cigarettes, or the chemicals they contain, contribute to the increasing number of people who suffer from crippling lung diseases, such as chronic bronchitis, emphysema and lung cancer. It is estimated that 90 per cent of all lung problems are caused either by smoking or air pollution.

As for her remarks on increased rates of smoking, her half truths prevail. She states that smoking is increasing. True, but the percentage of smokers has dropped from 52 to 49 per cent. She forgets that the population has increased.

The real purpose of the Tobacco Institute is to promote a lethal product manufactured by their multi-billion-dollar industry.

Thanks for those who can see through the smoke screen!

Lorey H. White Jr.

Still Treasure Baseball Cards

By MARC ROSENWASSER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Lustberg, a 25-year-old psychology graduate student, is by all appearances a rational human being. But get him talking about baseball cards and he confesses: "I used to kill to get them."

He doesn't any more. Doesn't even collect them, he says.

But as sure as the coming of spring, baseball fans around the nation will be returning to ballparks and children will be rushing to their neighborhood stores to collect picture cards of their favorite players. It's been that way for a long time.

The first baseball cards, sold in the 1880s, were included with cigarettes and dominated the trading card field for nearly 50 years. A new-type card appeared in 1933 when bubble gum was marketed for the first time and baseball cards have soared in popularity ever since.

This year, an estimated 250 million baseball cards will be sold nationwide, according to a spokesman for Topps Chewing Gum Inc. The firm has dominated the field since Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle were rookies in 1951.

The typical buyer is an average kid between the ages of 7 and 12," says spokesman Norm Liss. "Where there are kids, cards will be bought." Six-year-old Billy Sweeney of New York, who has collected cards for two years, says that everyone likes baseball cards — except for his teachers.

"We'll lose our cards if we bring them to school because we don't do our work when we have them," he says.

Why does he collect them? "Because when I get older I'll sell them for a lot of money and I like looking to see who I have and how good they're doing," the Yankee die-hard reasons.

Neil Rothstein, a 20-year-old junior at Boston University, also is aware that there is money to be made in the baseball card trade.

Of his 20,000-card alphabetized collection, which includes every card on the market since 1963, the accounting major says: "If I could sit there and sell each card separately, I could probably get $15,000. I really don't have much interest in it any more except for what kind of money I can get out of it."

One who collected for the fun of it was Jefferson Burdick, a Syracuse electronics factory worker, whose 200,000-card collection was the largest in the world. He donated it to the Metropolitan Museum of Art before he died in 1963.

It is kept in the museum's prints and photographs department where "we have Rembrandt and everyone else," a museum curator said Tuesday.

Strength For Today

THE GREAT DESTROYER
Occasionally the Bible is quoted as saying that money is the root of all evil. Yet this is a misquotation. The correct statement can be found in 1 Timothy 6:10: "For the love of money is the root of all evils..."

The Bible never teaches that money is wrong or that the acquisition of it is wrong. What it does teach, however, is that for men to love money, to fall under its fascination, to put it before honor and love, or to be consumed by a desire to get and hold it, is a devastating sin. The words "because they loved money" could be written over most of the evil things men have done through the ages.

The gross passions have ruined multitudes, but an even greater multitude has been slain by the more subtle and at the same time more devastating spiritual sins among which is money-loving. And this sin is all the worse because it almost always pushes its victim into a host of other sins.

Crowned 'Miss College-Bound'

Miss Grossie Ella Smith was crowned Saturday night as "Miss College Bound" by the Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

The contest has been underway for several weeks, but Saturday's coronation was its climax.

Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Smith Sr. of Winterville and is a senior at D. H. Conley High School. She was sponsored by Soror Patti Leary.

The first runner-up was Miss Paulette Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hill of Winterville, also a senior at Conley. Her sponsor was Soror Beatrice C. Maye. The second runner-up was Miss Kyndale Gallopes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gallopes of Greenville. A senior at Rose High School, she was sponsored by Soror Lucille Sayles.

Other participants were Vanessa Allen; Sherri Lenzy, Adrienne Scott, Laura Myles, Sheryl Forbes, Cheryl Gardner, Carlette Cherry, Catherine Stevenson, Vanessa Teel, and Brenda Battle.

Junior ushers were Jackie Davis, Michelle Anderson, Kathy Streeter, Jacqueline Scott, Carol Lee and Linda Jones. Male ushers were Fraeger Sanders Jr. and Willie Morris III.

Walter Plummer's Choral Music Ensemble entertained. A contestants' ball followed the coronation.

in the propaganda battle. If the Moscow deadlock is the forerunner of a new cold war, a doubtful prospect to most analysts here, Mr. Carter now has established a unified base from which to wage it. "Nevertheless," I said, "President Carter will not proceed with SALT until he knows what you want, what I want and what your brother-in-law wants him to do. We've got until May to come up with some good ideas." nothing to do with protocol," he said of the grand ceremonies preferred by past presidents. "They were embellishments that were totally unnecessary. We didn't need all the ruffles and flourishes."

But just as Jimmy Carter reassured the nation that he would dress properly for formal occasions, Dobelle stresses that he understands the need to display proper form to foreign dignitaries.

For instance, limousines definitely are here to stay even if Carter doesn't want his appointees to use them. "You are not going to take a cab to pick up the president of Egypt," he says. The very thought of it makes him smile.

But always, moderation: "We don't have a limousine for every member of the visiting party, as may have been the case in the past."

Dobelle, the 31-year-old former mayor of Pittsfield, Mass., is following Carter's example himself by forsaking some luxuries associated with a high government post.

When he visited the West Coast recently he traveled tourist instead of first class and estimates he saved the treasury about $300.

He Tells Them Off For A Fee

By ALLAN SCHEAR
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Want the boss told off, a love affair ended, the girl next door informed of your amorous feelings? Then just call Lipservice.

For just $5 a call plus "whatever Ma Bell charges," Lipservice will deliver a message for people without the guts to say it themselves.

Compare that with sending a telegram at $4.75 for 15 words. And you're getting a message "delivered personally and with more feeling," says Ed Fallis, 49, the man behind the phone.

Fallis, a general contractor and real estate manager, has been operating Lipservice with the help of his wife, Barbara, and two other part-time employees since last fall.

Fallis had his brainchild investigated by some lawyers and claims the operation is "definitely legal."

"And if anybody wants to start their own business, they have to buy a franchise," he adds. "I have the business tied up legally in 49 states."

Fallis never delivers an obscene phone call unless he mentions his intention at the beginning of the conversation, as in, "Hello. This is Lipservice calling. I have an obscene message for you... Will you accept it?"

"Do most people accept such a call?"

"This is the thing that surprises me," Fallis says. "I haven't had anybody hang up on me. Nobody's gotten nasty either."

"Lipservice is communication," Fallis says. "People have feelings, but don't know how to state them, or they're not in the position to state them. This is where I come in."

Some examples from the more than 250 calls a week he is asked to make:

— A man left his wife and skipped town with their only daughter. His wife called Fallis and asked him to page her husband at the airport and deliver this message: "You're selfish, self-centered and very inconsiderate." She also tossed in a few obscenities.

— A group of executives wanted to tell the president of their Chicago-based company where to go. "He also happened to be chairman of the board," said Fallis, who spoke to him for a half hour at a total charge of $81.30.

— A young man became friends with an attractive brunette working in the same crowded office, but he didn't have the courage to ask for a date. One phone call brought the couple together.

Fallis says most obscene calls are requested by women. "They want their lovers, boyfriends or husbands to be better lovers and they go into specifics."

Nobody has threatened him with bodily harm, but a small percentage always want to know who commissioned the call. Fallis never tells but does say he will return a message for a fee.

Then come the routine messages, the business meetings, the wake-ups, anniversaries, birth announcements, apologies and casual reminders for important dates.

"Somebody wanted me to sing 'Happy Birthday' to a man..." Fallis recalls. "But with my voice?"

Lectures On High Court

Tinsley E. Yarbrough of the East Carolina University political science faculty spoke on "The Burger Court and Legal Rights" at a recent seminar at UNC-Wilmington.

His lecture was part of a seven-week series on law and justice sponsored by the Wilmington campus with a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Other speakers on the series included law and political science professors from Duke University, the University of Virginia, UNC-Chapel Hill and UNC-Wilmington.

Dr. Yarbrough's articles on Burger Court decision-making in civil liberties cases have appeared in several law reviews. His recent study of trends of the Burger Court in equal protection cases is to be published in the next issue of the "Duke Law Journal."

Many Pizzerias In Sao Paulo

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Travelers who long for an Italian pizza will find at least 10 outstanding pizzerias on and near Sao Paulo's 13 de Maio St.

Town Administrator For Farmville Is Leaving Post

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Commissioners last night accepted the resignation of Town Administrator W. A. Martin, to be effective June 30 or thereafter, whenever a suitable successor may be found and placed in his office.

It was noted that Martin has worked for the town of Farmville since 1935, as a police officer, assistant town clerk, clerk, and finally town administrator. The Board went on record expressing "wholehearted appreciation to Mr. Martin for his performance."

Approval was given for a demolition ordinance for the old Will Dixon residence at 902 S. Main Street.

Mrs. Ann McGaughey, acting director of the Farmville Economic Council, appeared before the Board to tell them of the completion two weeks ago of an industrial park feasibility study for Farmville.

Consideration of the annexation of several areas near Farmville, principally an area along Highway 264 from the New Blue Warehouse to the Road Runner was tabled until further study could be made. Planning Board Chairman Robert May presented the recommendations of the Planning Board concerning this area. He also said that he has been told by a state highway official that results of the Thoroughfare Study conducted here last summer will not be ready for presentation until July, 1978.

The Commissioners agreed that plans should go on for the purchase of public officials' liability insurance. They were told that the proposal by the Pitt County Insurance Agency for three years' coverage is $6,175. Commissioner Duke said he would like to see exactly what coverage is provided for this fee.

Martin and Commissioner Jack Farrior reported on a presentation about a community assistance program offered through the Bank of North Carolina. They said that the town may enter into an agreement with the Bank to obtain the services of a staff of persons in Washington, D. C. to advise about the availability of various federal grants, how they may be obtained, and what the status of grants already sought are. The Board asked that someone representing the program come and talk to them before they make a final decision. The charges for the program would be $5,000 per year, or keeping $100,000 in checking with the bank for a year, or whatever proportionate amount.

The Board considered passing an ordinance to prohibit the display of obscene or pornographic material in the town limits, but decided to wait and see if the N. C. General Assembly will make a statewide ordinance to this effect. They were told that there are now bills on this subject before both the House and the Senate.

A petition for the paving of 100 feet of street between Hillcrest Drive and the May Court subdivision was pronounced in order and a public hearing was set for the next meeting. The three owners of property fronting on the street wish for it to be paved without curb and gutter.

Police Chief Ron Cooper's offer to study how nearby towns and counties handle their dog problems was accepted. The Board also asked that a letter be written the County, asking for more service within the town of Farmville from the county dog warden.

W. A. Allen Jr. appeared stating that the improvement of a street on which the Davis Heirs whom he represented owns about 70 per cent of the land was "illegally done four years ago." He proposed that his group should not have to pay all of the assessment charges, since it was not done properly. The Board members said that the paving is a fact, if it was not done legally, it was not done by the present board and cannot be undone. It went on record as stating that the $6,900-plus assessment is still owed by the Davis Heirs, plus the interest accrued. The street in question is Contentnea and adjacent streets, going past the Allens' Crestwood Park subdivision and one of their cow pastures.

The purchase of a cassette for the storing of information for use on the city office's computer used for bookkeeping and billing was approved. The cost is about allow for individual progress of students. The program was accepted by the board and will begin being administered in grades K-3 next year, then 4-6 the next year and 7-8 the next year. Asst. Supt. Edwards also requested that the board allow a few days this spring and in the fall to orient the teachers to the program.

Assoc. Supt. Craft explained that Pitt County Schools anticipate receiving an additional $4,000 of Impact Aid funds. The schools have already received $7,000 this year. The funds are to be used to help the Title I program.

Jane Huffman, Math Resource teacher told the board that National Metric Week will be held May 9-13 and explained some of the activities that students will participate in during the week. The board passed a resolution endorsing the observance of National Metric Week in Pitt County Schools.

Carl Toot presented the annual Safety Report which will be submitted to the North Carolina Department of Labor. The board accepted the report.

The board passed a resolution endorsing the coordinating and consultation of Elementary Counseling in the schools.

Janie Manning presented a Title IV-C Project Proposal to the board. The project which will be funded by Title IV-C totaling about $50,000 will originate at Farmville Middle School. The project's purpose will be to develop two production modules in the media center. An instructional team will present the production modules in classrooms. The board approved the project.

The board voted to fund five per cent of a program which would allow two plainclothes liaison officers serving between the schools and local law enforcement agencies to work with crime prevention in grades 5-8. Federal and state monies will fund 95 per cent of the cost of the program.

Supt. Alford presented a report about the constitution of the Pitt-Greene Counties Elementary School Athletic Conference and the board voted to support the conference.

In other business the board:

-Approved a list of additions of names to be added to the substitute teachers list.

-Approved appropriations totaling $15,633.66.

-Approved maternity leaves and employments.

-Accepted the inventory and closing-out of the Belvoir Grammar and Stokes-Pactolus principalships and schools.

AAMA Unit Sets Meet

The Pitt County Chapter of AAMA will hold its regular meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the educational center of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Members will listen to an educational tape — Number One in a series compiled by the Medical Assistants Association designed to enable local chapter members, through education, to become certified medical assistants recognized by the National Society.

All members are urged to attend and to evaluate the tape in order to decide whether to continue the series with the ultimate goal of certification.

Final plans will be made for representation at the state convention in Charlotte April 29.

Guests from the medical profession are welcome to attend the meeting.

-Announced that the dedication of the Wellcome Middle School will be held Tuesday, May 5, with an open house at 7 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. dedication program.

-Presented trophies to State Wrestling champions Jesse Davis and Floyd Crandol of D. H. Conley High School.

Following the regular meeting the board held a brief executive session to discuss a personnel matter, but did not resume open meeting status to take any action on any business.

Winners Announced In County's Spelling Bee

AYDEN — Fourteen schools participated in the Ninth Annual Pitt County Schools Spelling Bee held at Ayden Grammar School Tuesday. First place winners, countywide, in grades 4-8 competed in grade level contests. First place winners of the Part I contests then competed in Part II to determine the overall county champion.

Sharon Holland, an eighth grader from Ayden Grammar School is the new county champion. This is the second time that Sharon has won first place overall countywide, having won last year also. Second place winner, countywide was Pamela Joyner, of A.G. Cox School.

Other first place winners were as follows: Stephanie Creech, grade four, A.G. Cox; Butch Dail, fifth grade, Ayden Grammar; and Ken Whitehurst, sixth grade, Bethel Elementary.

A. G. Cox School had two other second place winners. They are David Webb, sixth grade and Ragan Spain, fifth grade. Michelle Bowen, Ayden Elementary and Clarence Baker, of Grifton Elementary were also runners-up for grades four and eight, respectively.

Other students participating were Annette Wooten, Monika Avery, Tina Buck, Alfred Braxton, Teresa Worsley, Kemy Cherry, Pan Bynum, Adrienne Allen, Rita Best, Betsy Staton, Kim Briley, Barbara Hixon, Michelle Kittrell, Martha Rollins, Melanie Robinson, Candy Little, Lisa Charnutt, Linda Ross, Lynn Pollard, Tina Haddock, and Phillip Smith.

Also, Pauline Hardy, Anne Hosfeld, Kathy Booher, Lynn Allen, Cheryl Thompson, Melanie Kue, Jean Bell, Gilda Harris, Mike Boykin, Adrien Williams, David Cherry, Monica Fornes, Sammy Tucker, Beverly Holder, Cassandra Brown and Connie Dupree. These students were from Wellcome School, Chicod, G.R. Whitfield, Farmville Middle, Pactolus, H.B. Sugg, and Falkland Elementary in addition to the ones previously mentioned.

Charles Dickens, principal of Agnes Fullilove School, Mrs. Patsy James and Mrs. Lillian Bradley, contest officials served as judges. Mrs. Myriam Harris, cultural arts supervisor and Mrs. Myra Rachel, diagnostic-prescriptive teacher for Pitt County schools were callers for the occasion.

Speaker For Sierra Club

Eric Haste of Hertford, a member of the N.C. Coastal Resources Commission spoke to the Sierra Club here Monday and outlined the history of the Coastal Area Management Act and the work of the commission.

Haste expressed support for a strong Coastal Area Management Act, "with teeth" to prevent improper land use and over development of environmentally fragile areas of the coast.

He told those present that the act allows the people of the coastal region to draft their own land use plans and provides state and federal funds to cover the cost for services of professional planners.

Haste said opposition to the act, in his opinion, is due to the lack of understanding of the law and processes under which development plans are reviewed and approved or denied.

To Represent Pitt At N.C. Convention

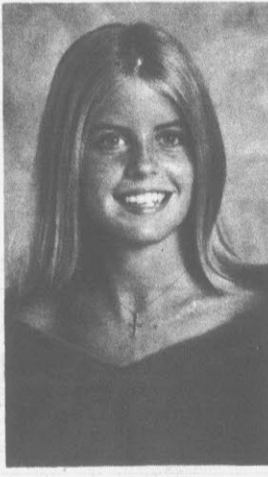

Marty East and Debbie Giggary, Pitt County Queens of Hearts, will represent the county at the state convention in Winston-Salem May 18-19.

The Queen of Hearts contest netted a total of $1,931.83 in the county for the Heart Fund.

Rose High raised $1,304; D. H. Conley, $227.32; E. B. Aycock, $54.26; and Ayden-Grifton, $220.

The Hour Of Betrayal--

three Apostles, Peter and James and John, and at once they sat up.

"The hour has struck," He said. "Look, the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinful men." They looked up at Him dumbfounded. "Rise! Let us go. Look, My betrayer is close at hand."

3 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

The face and figure of Jesus were well lit by the torches of the soldiers who had come to take Him prisoner, but no one in the armed band seemed to have the courage to walk into the little clearing where Jesus stood.

At last Judas walked into the little open space and looked at Jesus. He opened his arms and hurried to the Messiah. "Hail, Master!" said the missing Apostle.

Judas threw both arms around Jesus and lifted his lips up to the Master's cheek. The Galilean looked at Judas with compassion. "Judas," He said, "with a kiss you betray the Son of Man?"

There was no time for a reply. Some of the guards and soldiers, and indeed some of the priests and Pharisees and Scribes, were standing on the edge of the clearing. Jesus, in feigned innocence, looked directly at those from the temple and said: "Who is it you are looking for?"

"Jesus of Nazareth," they said as one.

"I am He," He said. At once those in front dropped back. There was confusion again and it was obvious that the guards from the temple had heard stories of His miracles and they were afraid. The Romans were disgusted with the showing of their temporary Jewish allies and now pressed forward to take charge.

One of the Apostles in the rear passed one of the old swords up to Peter. Without a word, he stepped in front of Jesus and swung it diagonally upward. He had aimed for the neck of the servant of the high priest, who saw the blow coming and inclined his head in such a way that an ear was sheared off.

Jesus was shocked. He looked at Peter and said sternly: "Put the sword back into the sheath; shall I not drink the cup which the Father has presented to Me?"

Peter did as he was told. The servant now felt the side of his face and screamed. Jesus touched the side of his face. The man, Malchus, was healed at once, but the healing went unnoticed in any public sense. The Romans decided that this emotional scene had gone far enough. They came forward and arrested Jesus. A long noose was placed about His neck. Then the Roman legionnaires and Jewish temple guards surrounded Him and the march began back to the home of the high priest. The priests were well pleased. Jesus had muttered no incantation, had conjured no balls of blue fire or brimstone to destroy all of them. This, of course, proved that He was no more a Messiah than they. Time had caught up with this faker, they thought.

Some of the guards at the rear of the line of march noticed that the Apostles of Jesus were following. They winked at each other and turned as if to pursue them. All took flight quickly, and disappeared into the darkness so abruptly that the Romans laughed and made jokes about their speed.

The marchers arrived before the homes of the high priest, Caiphas, and his father-in-law, Annas. The victorious ones surged inside, pushing the victim before them. As they did so many more lamps were lighted at once, because there was a distinguished company on the premises who wanted to have a good look at this man. Members of Palestine's supreme court, the Great Sanhedrin, hurriedly summoned, came running out of the house of Caiphas.

Caiphas ordered the so-called Messiah to be taken to Hananyah, which was the Hebrew name of his father-in-law. This was a diplomatic move. It was proper to permit Annas, the powerful former high priest, a first look at the face of the prisoner and to conduct the first examination.

As Caiphas watched the temple guards shoving Jesus roughly across the courtyard to the house of Annas, someone drew his attention to a little man standing in the shadows. It was Judas. Caiphas' instructions were curt and brief: "Pay him. Take him to the temple and give him the thirty pieces of silver agreed upon."

The little man was hurried through the streets into the temple. There the ranking priests told Judas to cup both hands while they counted out the silver. His head nodded with the count of the priest until the number reached thirty.

Then, with deep thanks and proper bows of respect to the priests, he thrust the money into a bag and into his garment. He had sold the Man Who had promised him life everlasting.

4 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

Annas did not want the prisoner inside the house. In spite of the chill night air he came out on the portico, and ordered Jesus brought to him.

The old man sat and studied the young Man. This would-be Messiah did not appear to be a lunatic. The reports that had been coming in for over a year tended to show the opposite.

Then why? Why did He have to be a Messiah? For two years or more, this Man had increased the tension in Palestine. His basic tenet had been love, which, in the eyes of the old priest, was not dangerous. But the people had begun to fall away from the temple, first in little groups, then in larger ones.

Annas asked Jesus why He taught heresy. He also asked who the Disciples were, and how many. The Nazarene looked steadily at this man who would soon have to face the Heavenly Father and be accountable for his acts.

"I have spoken openly," said Jesus with the soft solicitude all Jews reserved for the aged, "where all the world could listen... Why do you question Me?"

Under the rule of trial procedure, Jesus knew - and so did Annas - that it was against the law to solicit the testimony of any except witnesses and corroborators. Besides, no prisoner, under Jewish law, had to undergo preliminary examination.

Old Annas smiled and shook his head. The Nazarene was famous for His just and skillful answers. The old priest got up and ordered Jesus sent back to Caiphas.

The night air was now very chilly. The temple guards shouldered their cloaks and built a fire in a brazier. They crouched around it in the courtyard of the high priest.

One of those who crouched with them was young John, whom Jesus loved so much. He had followed behind the raiding party with Peter, and the two had seen their Master disappear inside the gates. They had argued whether they should follow Him. John wanted to go in; Peter favored caution. While Jesus was at the house of Annas, the young Apostle knocked on the porter's gate.

A girl had the duties of porter. She greeted him and he greeted her, and he was admitted without question because John and his family were favorably known to the high priest. The young man roamed the courtyard, asking gruffly where the prisoner had been taken, and then he crouched by the fire with the others.

When he was certain that he was not suspect, John went quietly over to the girl porter and asked her to let a friend of his through the gate. The girl admitted Peter.

"Are you, perhaps, one of the Disciples of that Man?" she asked.

Peter paused. He swallowed and glared at the girl in outrage. "I am not!" he roared.

John led him to the fire and Peter stooped to warm his hands. A man on the far side of the fire stared hard at Peter, and the chief of the Apostles pulled the top of his cloak over the tip of his nose.

The man pointed a finger at Peter. "You," he said, "are one of them."

Peter turned his head from side to side. "No, sir," he shouted through the muffling cloth, "I am not."

Servants were coming down the steps with lanterns and Jesus was between them. Peter, in his fear for the Messiah, permitted the cloak to drop and one of the guards, a relative of the one who had lost an ear in the garden, said: "This man was certainly with Him! Why, he is a Galilean!"

Peter cursed loudly and said: "Sir, I do not know what you are talking about."

From somewhere far off, a rooster stretched himself, shook his wings and crowed. The guards passed the little fire on their way to Caiphas. Jesus, in the center, looked full on the face of Peter. The chief Disciple stared stolidly at the Man in fetters, watched His back as He was led on, and suddenly broke into sobs, covered his face with both hands, and ran from the scene.

Members of the Sanhedrin were still hurrying inside to the private apartments of the high priest after the prisoner had been led in. The court had its own laws, and the most important of these, as far as Jesus was concerned, was: "A tribe, a false prophet and a high priest are not judged save by a court of 71."

No one asked Jesus how he would plead. He stood throughout, roped and hobbled of foot. When the high priest, as was the custom, called upon Jesus three times to defend Himself, there was no reply. The steady eyes of the prisoner moved from face to face, from row to row, until He had seen them all.

In the group, He saw at least two Disciples. Like so many of His highly-placed followers, their adherence to His teachings was secret. This was not the hour for them to reveal themselves.

The high priest called loudly for any witnesses in behalf of Jesus to step forward now and to testify. No one stood.

The prosecution began to call its witnesses. Mostly, they were menials who worked in the temple. They vowed that they had heard this Galilean proclaim Himself as one sent by Yahweh Himself. But when the supreme council questioned the witnesses, as they were obliged to do, their stories collapsed.

Caiphas saw his case against Jesus dying for lack of witnesses who could testify separately to one charge. Still, he got to his feet and, in full robes and conical hat, pointed sternly at the Nazarene and said: "Have You nothing to say in Your own defense?"

The prisoner looked at the man and said nothing.

If Jesus remained silent, the Great Sanhedrin would have to acquit Him. In desperation, and almost pleading, Caiphas shouted: "I adjure You by the living God to tell us outright, are You the Messiah, the son of God?"

As Jesus had remained silent all along, it was expected that He would continue to remain silent to this final question, and thus walk out of the palace of Caiphas free. But He didn't. At the most dangerous moment of all, Jesus chose to speak:

"I am," He said to the startled priest, "as you say; but I warn you: hereafter you will see the Son of Man enthroned at the right hand of the Almighty and returning upon the clouds in the sky."

What relief the high priest must have felt! When all else had failed Jesus had condemned Himself!

A polled vote was not necessary. A crime had been committed in the presence of the judges. They said in awkward chorus: "He is liable to the penalty of death!"

International Language Festival Set April 29

The East Carolina University Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures has announced its International Festival '77, to be held Friday, April 29. A large number of high school language classes have accepted the invitation to attend.

According to Professor Marguerite Perry, chairperson of the Foreign Language Department, prizes will be awarded to participating students for excellence in poetry recitations, skit competitions, a talent show, and international booths and exhibits.

All competitions will be in the foreign language being studied: French, German, Russian and Spanish. Only high school students are eligible to compete. University faculty members and students will act as judges.

"This is the third international festival we have had," Professor Perry said. "Previous ones proved popular with visiting Professor Michael Bassman, coordinator of the Festival, emphasized that attending the event does not require participation in the contests. The program will be varied, including seminars on topics of interest to students of different cultures. Details will be announced soon.

Oldest Ferries

Resume Service

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Two of the oldest continuously operating ferries in the U.S. resume service April 1.

The ferry connecting Glastonbury and Rocky Hill in the center of Connecticut has been carrying passengers across the Connecticut River since 1655.

Farther down river, the Chester-Hadlyme Ferry is a relative newcomer, having been in operation only 208 years.

Both ferries operate daily between 7 a.m. and 8:45 p.m. and both charge 25 cents for car and driver and five cents for each additional passenger.

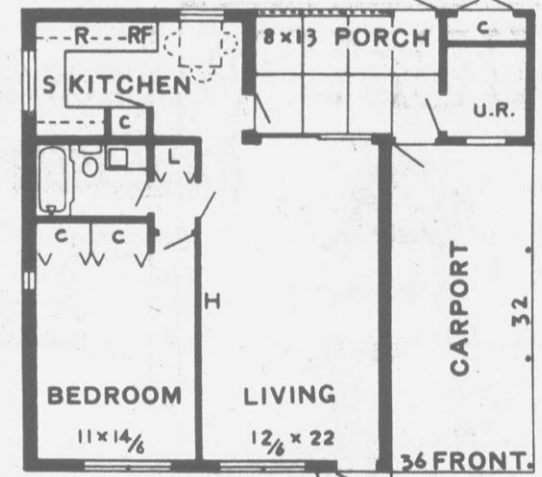

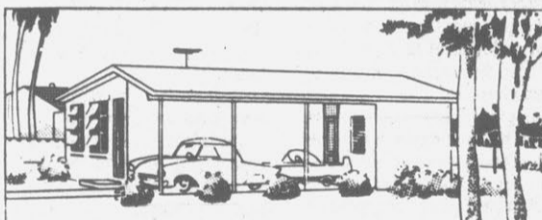

Good Future In Electronic Field

NEW YORK (UPI) — Military spending in this country for electronic warfare systems is headed for sharp expansion in the years ahead, according to Frost and Sullivan, a market research group.

The company says that in the fiscal 1977-1982 period, it expects expenditures to soar to $7.8 billion, with the Air Force being the primary market.

The company, in its 573-page study, forecast annual budgeting during the period ranging between $1.21 billion and $1.38 billion.

Comment Invited On Leaf Program Changes

Insurance Is In Demand

RAHWAY, N.J. (UPI) — Thousands of communities throughout the United States are applying for flood insurance this year under the federal flood insurance program.

W.D. Swift, an American Insurance Association executive, says the upsurge in applications was triggered by forecasts of possible severe flooding this spring following record snowfall and river ice formation in many areas this past winter.

The National Flood Insurance program was launched by Congress in 1968 to provide low-cost coverage to the public. It is operated by the federal insurance administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in cooperation with the insurance industry. The industry's National Flood Insurers Association handles insurance processing and claims.

A community that joins the program makes its residents eligible to buy flood insurance from any state-licensed property or casualty insurance agent who sells it through the NFIA. Policies are sold on a yearly renewable term basis to both residential and commercial owners.

The amount of coverage an individual can buy and its cost depend on whether the community is in the first, or emergency, phase of the program or the second, or regular phase. A community is in the first from the time it joins the program until a detailed map study is made, and the community enacts certain flood plain management regulations.

Additional details are available from agents authorized to sell this type of insurance.

The public has been invited to comment on possible changes in marketing quota and price support regulations on the flue-cured tobacco program, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Written comments must be received by the department no later than April 19.

Under the first change, leases filed after June 14 would be disapproved if the quantity stipulated in the lease exceeds the difference between expected production on the lessor's planted acreage and production on those acres. Leases filed after June 14 would also be disapproved if the quantity stipulated in the lease exceeds the difference between the receiving farm's quota and the amount of tobacco it has on hand to market. Under the current regulations, there is no limit on the amount of quota a producing farm may receive through lease.

Under the second proposed change, a farm would be ineligible for price support if its certified or measured acreage planted to flue-cured tobacco exceeds 107 per cent of the farm allotment. Such a farm would receive a marketing card indicating no price support. Marketing cards, issued by USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), stipulate what quantity of tobacco a producer may sell without penalty and indicate a producer's eligibility for price support. Under the current regulations, price support is made available without regard to planted acreage.

NEW REGULATIONS

Before making a final determination on these proposed changes, consideration will be given to any written comments received. Comments should be sent to either the Director, Program Operations Division, or the Director, Tobacco and Peanut Division. The address for both is USDA/ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

All written submissions will be made available for public inspection during regular business hours in either Room 5750 or 3630 of USDA's South Building.

Herring Loses Seat On Board

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Longtime state Board of Education chairman W. Dallas Herring will lose his seat on the board July 1. Gov. Jim Hunt announced Tuesday he was nominating replacements for Herring and two other board members.

The news was expected to end years of discord on the board between Herring and state school Supt. A. Craig Phillips. Hunt's desire to end the feud was one reason for Herring's departure, according to Hunt aide Gary Pearce. Hunt called Herring "a giant" in North Carolina education but declined to say why he was not reappointing him to the board. "The governor felt that, if education really was going to move ahead, there was a need for new leadership," Pearce said, adding that the move "should not be interpreted as a slight or an insult to Herring, because the governor and Herring agree on a lot of things."

Hunt often mediated between Herring and Phillips when he was lieutenant governor and

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened slightly on the up side today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was a fraction higher in the early going, and losers ran about even with gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Inflation worries, which have kept the market depressed most of the year, have come to the forefront again. Investors anticipate that President Carter's inflation-fighting program will be unveiled next week.

Today's early prices included Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 to 18 1/2; Sony Corp., ahead 1/4 to 9 1/2; Dow Chemical slid 1/4 to 37 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average eked out a .58 gain to 916.14.

But declines outnumbered advances by about a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume increased to 18.33 million shares from 16.25 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .15 to 53.30.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .41 at 110.89.

sat on the board. The decision not to rename Herring was believed to be a difficult one for the governor, who enjoyed the support of both men in his campaign last year.

Herring said he had "no ill feeling" about the decision. "My main apprehension is that there will be no one with the temerity to speak out for qualitative standards in the public schools," Herring said.

Phillips declined comment beyond that he respected "the governor's appointments and I look forward to working with them."

The replacements include John L. Tart, 49, of Goldsboro, president of Johnston County Technical Institute, who replaces Herring, a Rose Hill businessman; Dr. David H. Bruton, of Southern Pines, and Dr. Ben H. Battle, director of student teaching and teacher placement at Western Carolina University.

Bruton replaces Mrs. Mildred Strickland of Smithfield. Battle replaces John Reynolds, an Asheville businessman.

Police List 3 Mishaps

An estimated $950 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 11:45 a.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard near the Hooker Road intersection involving cars driven by Donald Eric Owens of Albemarle and Anita Louise Muchant of 320 Clement Dorn.

Police, who reported no damage resulted to the Muchant car, estimated damage to the Owens auto at $350.

An 11:55 a.m. collision on Evans Street, 25 feet North of the Greenville Boulevard intersection involved cars operated by Robert Russell Carric of Lawson's Trailer Pk., and Susan Diane Wells of Raleigh.

Officers estimated damage from the collision at $75 to the Carric auto and $275 to the Wells vehicle.

Vehicles driven by Terry Canady Sinclair of B-33 Glendale Ct. and Janet Stell Grant of 102 Tuckahoe Dr. collided about 4:40 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 700 feet West of the Charles Street intersection.

Damage was set by investigators at $100 to the Sinclair car and $150 to the Grant auto.

Three-Vehicle Morning Crash

A three-vehicle mishap this morning — involving a husband-wife driving team — resulted in an estimated $450 damage, Police Department investigators reported.

Officers said cars driven by Emma G. Wilkinson and Steven A. Wilkinson, both of 103 Sir Walter Dr., were stopped for a traffic light at the intersection of First and Greene Streets when the 7:25 a.m. mishap occurred.

Investigators reported a car driven by Peggy Swindell Cox of 821 Fleming St. collided with the car driven by Steven Wilkinson, causing that vehicle to collide with the vehicle driven by his wife.

Officers, who said no damage resulted to the car driven by Mrs. Wilkinson, set damage to the other Wilkinson car at $200 and said an estimated $250 damage resulted to the Cox auto.

Somebody Just Likes Chickens

Greenville Police today are searching for someone who has a healthy appetite for chicken.

Chief Glenn Cannon said someone took three cases of chickens — 195 pounds of birds worth an estimated $85 — from a storage room at Spain's Food Land at 1414 Charles St. sometime Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

Entrance to the storage area was gained by forcing a lock from the storeroom door.

The theft was reported at 8:15 a.m. yesterday.

Voting Rights Are Modernized

DENVER (AP) — The right to vote, limited to white males since 1864, has been extended to all persons in the tiny mountain town of Black Hawk.

When the Gilpin County town incorporated on March 11, 1864, the charter stipulated that those eligible to vote for city officials must be "white male inhabitants over the age of 21 years, who are entitled to vote for members of the legislature."

The wording apparently had been ignored for years until the Colorado Senate on Tuesday unanimously voted to amend the charter.

The bill passed Tuesday and forwarded to the House would officially give the right to vote to "any person who on the day of election is at least 18 years of age" and who meets other residency requirements.

House Votes Halt Tax On Jobless Insurance

By NOEL YANCEY Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The House has approved legislation to halt state collection of income taxes on unemployment insurance benefits from persons whose gross income was less than $7,500 a year.

The House voted 95-11 Tuesday to tentatively approve the bill, which would cost the state an estimated $3.9 million during the next two fiscal years. Final House action was expected today and the bill goes to the Senate.

In other action Tuesday, the House passed a bill establishing the Division of Aging in the state Department of Human Resources.

In discussing the bill to exempt most unemployment insurance payments from state income taxes, Rep. Ruth Cook, D-Wake, its sponsor, said North Carolina is the only state in the nation that taxes such payments. She said her bill originally would have exempted all unemployment insurance payments from income taxes, but the House Finance Committee amended it. This would make the tax apply to some persons with fairly high incomes who are seasonally employed and collect unemployment benefits when they are not working.

"This tax is both burdensome and unfair and contrary to public policy," Miss Cook told the House. She said the bill would benefit 65,000 to 75,000 persons, 72 per cent of whom earned less than $5,000 a year.

In other legislative action: AGING

The House voted 103-0 to pass the bill creating the Division of Aging in the State Department of Human Resources. Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, told the House that Gov. Jim Hunt recently upgraded the Office of Aging to a division, but that the bill would write the change into law. Messer said the state's "older citizens asked something of a permanent nature to help solve their problems."

HANDICAPPED
The Senate overwhelmingly approved and sent to the House a bill making it unlawful for a non-handicapped person to park any vehicle in a space reserved for handicapped drivers. The bill says handicapped persons will be issued special license plates or, if they do not own a car, transferrable placards, designating them as eligible for the specially marked handicapped spaces. The bill was approved 42-0.

PORNOGRAPHY
A bill restricting display of "sexually explicit" publications in businesses frequented by persons under 18 stalled in a Senate judiciary committee. The measure, sponsored by Sen. Bobby Lee Combs, D-Catawba, was sent to a subcommittee with instructions to simplify its language.

The bill is one of two dealing with pornography now before the General Assembly. It would require an opaque screen or shelf to obscure all but the title of any book, magazine, newspaper or other publication with sexually explicit pictures or drawings on the cover.

Combs said the bill would not require the publication to be sealed or prevent anyone from looking at the displayed publication. Violation of the law, if approved, would be a misdemeanor.

MOTOR BIKES

A bill that would require licensing of motorized bicycles and prevent their operation by anyone without a valid driver's license was referred to a subcommittee after meeting wide opposition in a Senate judiciary committee. The bill, sponsored by Sen. George Marion, D-Surry, would apply to bicycles sold with small motors capable of moving no faster than 20 miles per hour.

Such vehicles are known as "mo-peds" and are exempted from motor vehicle laws and statutes requiring motorcycle operators to wear helmets. Marion said he introduced the law to prevent persons who have lost their driver's license because of drunk driving convictions from being able to operate mo-peds.

TREE ENDED A TRIP TO CHICAGO
MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Armed with "a little extra spending money", their favorite toys and a belief that driving looked easy, an 8-year-old boy and his pre-school brother decided to drive their mother's car to Chicago.

Andre Anthony, the elder boy, took the wheel as he and step-brother Bobby McGowan, 5, started the car. They hit a utility pole, backed up, but sideswiped a parked Cadillac. The car lurched forward again, jumped a curb, hit a fence, then a house, and came to rest against a tree.

CAROLINA GRILL

Little Scrap Of Feelings
NEW HOPE, Ga. (AP) — The charred piece of yellow paper bounced slowly across the grass in the light breeze — past the twisted metal and blackened debris that once had been an airplane.

The paper carried what may have been the last words of a young woman who was one of the 85 persons aboard the plane. Sixty-one of them died.

"I'm sorry for hurting you. I didn't know you felt that strongly about me," the woman wrote. "I thought you were just another guy. . . . But I realize I was wrong."

"I don't know what else to say because whatever I write down, you won't believe it. . . ." the writing ended abruptly.

The plane, caught in a violent storm that battered the craft with hail, knocked out its power and drowned its engines, fell from the skies.

The pilot tried to land it on a rural road, but the aircraft exploded and burned.

And Tuesday, as the federal investigators photographed the wreckage, measured skid distances and looked for dents on the tortured metal, the one little scrap of human feeling drifted away in the breeze.

Dinosaur Ears Are Relaxing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Geary McCandless says he likes to unwind after a day of teaching at the University of Utah by looking into dinosaur ears.

"I know it's far out, but I love it. It relaxes me," says McCandless, a speech audiologist and researcher.

On weekends and off-hours, McCandless spends much of his time examining the petrified skull of an Allosaurus — a giant, flesh eating dinosaur which roamed east-central Utah about 150 million years ago.

McCandless said he hopes to discover the hearing capabilities of the ancient creatures and find out if there are any similarities with modern reptiles.

Pirates Win Record 10th Straight

THIRD BASE FORMS — Cincinnati Reds' shortstop Dave Concepcion (13) shows his form as he slides into third base in the third inning of the exhibition game at Tampa, Fla., Tuesday. Detroit Tigers' third baseman Phil Mankowski had a different form as he found the grounder off the bat of Bill Plummer too hot to handle. Both teams were heading north after the game to start the regular season. (AP Wirephoto)

WILMINGTON — East Carolina rallied for three seventh-inning runs yesterday to gain a 6-4 victory over UNC-Wilmington.

The victory broke the school record for consecutive victories, as the Pirates won their tenth straight.

They also snapped the season record for stolen bases, swiping five during the game to run the total to 60 on the year. The old record was 57.

Ironically, Eddie Gates, who has already stolen 17, a new individual record, swiped both the 57 and 58th bases, one coming in the fifth and the other in the seventh.

Mickey Britt got the victory for the Pirates, his fifth of the year against no losses. He came on in relief of Pete Conaty in the fourth inning.

In nearly six innings of work, Britt gave up only one hit, while walking and striking out three each.

Charlie Stevens proved to hold the big bat for the Pirates, getting three hits in three trips, while Gates and Jerry Carraway each picked up a couple of hits.

Wilmington took the lead with a run in the second inning. With one out, Bobby Hollins singled and T. I. Watkins got a hit. Richard King also singled, loading the bases. Then, with two away, Ross Cook reached on an error, scoring Hollins.

East Carolina came back to score three in the third to grab a 3-1 lead. Stevens singled and Carraway got a hit. After two were out, Gates singled to load them up, and a hit by Sonny Wooten brought in both Stevens and Carraway. An error on the relay home let Gates come the rest of the way.

Wilmington came back with one in the bottom of the third. Randy Ourt and Richard Lancaster both walked, and a hit by Hollins loaded the bases. King walked, forcing in Ourt.

The Seahawks added two in the fourth for a 4-3 lead. Cook walked as did Van Lewis. Ourt singled in Cook and Lancaster's hit brought Lewis home.

It stayed that way until the seventh, when the Pirates rallied to win it.

Stevens opened the seventh with a walk and Carraway beat out a bunt single. Pete Paradossi reached on an error on his sacrifice bunt, loading the bases. Stevens scored on Billy Best's sacrifice fly, and Gates walked to load them up. Wooten hit a sacrifice to score Carraway, and Supel was safe on an error, scoring Paradossi with the final run.

The Pirates are now 17-6 overall, while Wilmington fell off to 3-13.

East Carolina travels to Davidson on Saturday to meet the Wildcats in a Southern Conference doubleheader. They return home on Monday to host new S.C. foe Marshall.

Young Lions Still Roaring

By TOM BRETTEINGEN
AP Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Pro golfs "establishment" expects to put the tour's young lions in their place at the Masters. But one of those upstarts, Bruce Lietzke, doesn't think the danger or treachery of the Augusta National Golf Course will knock him out of contention.

The theme of this 41st Masters, which gets under way Thursday, is the rivalry between the tour-tested veterans and the obscure but talented youngsters who have dominated this year's events.

Jack Nicklaus, the only five-time winner here and favored as always, is one of the veterans who gives a first-year entrant little chance of winning. In full agreement are Ray Floyd, the defending champion, and Tom Weiskopf, the perennial runner-up.

There's just more of the young players this year, that's all," said Nicklaus, seeming to shrug them off as he prepared for the event the calls "the start of the season for me."

"That long shot just ain't going to get home here," said Floyd, who ran away from the field with a 17-under-par effort last year.

"A first-year person can't win at Augusta," said Weiskopf, who has finished second here four times. "The kids who have never played this tournament in competition don't know when to shoot at the pin and when not to."

Lietzke is listening to all of this, but he's not ready to fold just yet.

"If you say a first-year guy is unlikely to win, that's well put. But if you say he can't win, I'd disagree," Lietzke said during a practice round in windy, 55-degree weather Tuesday.

"The odds are against a player who hasn't played the course in competition. It's a learning process, knowing not to go for certain pins. I'll learn from my mistakes, probably; hopefully, I'll limit them to a few."

"If I finish in the top 10 or 15, I'll go away very happy. But I wouldn't be here if I thought I had no chance at all."

Ten of the top 14 money-winners this year are in their 20s. Danny Edwards, Tom Purtzer, Gary Koch, Andy Bean and Lietzke are all first-time winners.

Greene Central Defeats Conley

SNOW HILL — Greene Central kept its Eastern Carolina Conference record intact with a 5-2 victory over D. H. Conley yesterday.

The Vikings scored single runs in the first and second innings, but a big five-run outburst by the Rams in the third sewed it up.

Conley got its first run in the opening inning. Nuggie Worthington singled and stole second. Mike Phillips singled him in.

The Vikes added another in the second for a 2-0 lead. Dale Bailey walked and moved up to a sacrifice. An attempted pickoff play was errored, allowing Bailey to score all the way from second.

Then, in the fifth, the Rams rallied to take the lead on five runs. Scott Davenport doubled and Colin Beaman walked. After both advanced on a wild pitch, Jeffrey Warren singled in Davenport. Jerry Speight walked and Russell Brann hit a sacrifice fly to score Beaman. Don Holloman then hit a three-run homer.

Both winning pitcher Holloman and loser Kevin

Rebuilding Year For Rampant Track Team; Depth Is Problem

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School's track program is in a rebuilding year this season after the loss of some outstanding athletes last season.

"We really don't have a great deal of depth, either, and that is a big problem for us," Coach Billy Byrd said. "We have some good people this year, but they are young and we can't match other teams with the shortness of numbers that we have."

Byrd pointed out that the Rampant team is mostly sophomores and juniors. "There are just a few seniors on the team. I don't know why we didn't get more people out, but I think that with the experience we're getting this year, we should have a good program again next year."

Byrd commented that the senior class at Rose this year has produced few athletes. "I really don't understand that, but most of the teams at the school this year have been sophomore and junior dominated."

The coach looks to Bertie to be the dominating team in the conference this year, but notes that Northeastern could pull off a surprise before the year is over.

"We should do better in the larger meets when the talent is spread out more."

Byrd went through the events and listed his top personnel.

In the long jump, Mike Joyner did a 21-foot jump early, but hasn't done as well since then. Byrd feels he may be involved in too many events, however.

Jule White is the top man in both the triple jump and the high jump. Curtis Little leads in the shot put, with Rocky Butler leading the way in the discus. Alex King is the top man in the pole vault.

The hurdles events are probably the weakest area for the Rampants, Byrd feels. Billy Robertson has been moved to the highs, and Byrd feels he will develop into a good hurdler. William Staton and Mark Vestal are working in the low hurdle event.

Byrd has been disappointed in the sprints, the 100 and the 220. "I thought Joyner and Durwin Clemons would do well, but they haven't gotten the times I expected of them, and I don't think they are pleased either."

Steve Blackwell, a sophomore, has done well in the mile.

One of the bright spots on the

Washington Nips Tigers

WASHINGTON — Washington High School pushed over a run in the bottom of the eighth to pull off a 7-6 victory over Williamston yesterday.

Washington pushed over the first run in the opening inning. Doug Whitehead doubled and scored on Drew Roberson's hit.

Williamston got one in the second. Lee Pearson doubled and came around when the ball was misplayed.

Washington went right back out with two in the bottom of the second. Clay Perry walked and Bill Batchelor walked. Two errors on pickoff attempts brought both runners in.

Washington then added two more in the third. Williamston countered those with two in the fourth, but stayed behind as Washington scored another in the bottom of the fourth.

In the sixth, Williamston scored two more to cut the lead to 6-5. Tim Hardison singled and scored on Grady Winstead's double. Ray Roberson singled in Winstead.

The tying run came over in the seventh. Mike Koesy walked, stole up and scored when Hardison singled.

But Washington came up with one in the eighth to win it. Paul Moore walked and scored on Greg Rowland's single.

The loss left Williamston with a 3-2 overall record and a 1-1 Northeastern Conference mark.

The Tigers host Plymouth on Friday at 7 p.m.

Baby Tigers Win Second

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston's "B" baseball team gained a 2-0 victory over the Roanoke "B" team yesterday.

Gray Hopkins tossed the victory for the Baby Tigers.

Leslie Beacham led the Williamston hitting with two, including a triple and a double. He also drove in both of the runs. Miner and Latham each had two for Roanoke.

Williamston is now 2-0.

Ayden-Grifton Rallies By Hawks

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD — Two North Lenoir errors in the bottom of the sixth inning allowed Ayden-Grifton to score three unearned runs and break out of a tie to take an 11-8 win over the Hawks.

Down 7-3 after four frames, North Lenoir had come up with three runs in the fifth to pull to within one. The Chargers then added one tally in the bottom of the fifth, but the Hawks scored two more in the top of the sixth to tie things at eight.

But, in the bottom of the sixth, the Hawks twice overthrew first base, allowing one run in the first time and two in the second.

A strong gusty wind blew throughout the game, helping account for nine errors during the contest. The pitching wasn't helped by the wind either, and the pitchers' caps blew off their heads during nearly every throw.

The wind did help the hitting at times, however, as evidenced by the game's six extra-base hits.

Each team used two pitchers during the game. Charger reliever Tim Shadle, who came on with one out in the sixth, was credited with the win. He replaced starter Mike Teachey, who was charged with all eight of the North Lenoir runs.

The loser was North Lenoir reliever Jeff Phillips, who replaced starter Kendall Daniels in the fifth.

The Hawks came out swinging in the first inning, scoring three runs off of three hits, one, a double.

Terry Wheeler got things started with a walk. He went to third when Phillips doubled to center field. Stevie Tripp then got a base hit to right to score Wheeler.

The next batter struck out, bringing up Jeff Davis. He grounded the ball to Teachey, who threw out Phillips, coming home from third.

Terry Hoffman then singled to center field, allowing Stevie Tripp to score from second base to give the Hawks a 3-0 lead.

The Chargers didn't get on the scoreboard until the second inning. With the score still 3-0, Mark Cannon walked with one out for Ayden-Grifton and scored on Teachey's double to right field. Teachey's courtesy runner, Brady Quinn, scored on a freak double by Al Butts. Butts knocked a hard hit towards North Lenoir third baseman Timmy Moyer. Before Moyer could react, the ball bounced off his knee, all the way back across the infield towards right field and Butts made it to second, and Quinn scored, before the Hawks could recover.

In the next inning, Jed Hardee led off with a walk for Ayden-Grifton and went to second on a wild pitch. He made third when Butch Davis got on by an error and scored on Harold Edward's base hit, which held up by the wind, fell in just in front of the charging right fielder.

Davis scored when designated hitter Paul Setliff hit a short popper over second base for a single.

The Chargers added to their lead in the fourth, scoring three more runs to move out to a 7-3 margin.

Davis singled to right with two out and, after Edwards walked, David Reilly tripled to center field to score the two runners. Reilly then scored when the Hawk catcher overthrew third on a pickoff attempt.

Phillips led off in the fifth with his second extra-base hit for the Hawks, tripling to right field. After two outs, he scored when Davis doubled to left. Davis went to third on a wild pitch and Hoffman, after walking, stole second.

Both of them scored when a ground ball was erred by the Charger first baseman.

In the bottom of the inning, Sammy Whitehurst added another run for Ayden-Grifton when, after singling to right, he went to second on a fielders choice, third on a wild pitch and came home on a throwing error by the catcher.

The Hawks tied things up in the sixth, however, scoring two runs to knot the score at eight.

Moyer led off with a walk and went to second on a wild pitch. After a strikeout, Phillips was hit by a pitch and Tripp singled to load the bases.

Charger coach Claude Kennedy then brought in reliever

Shadle, who allowed the first batter to get an infield single that scored Moyer and Phillips.

Shadle then struck out the next two batters, however, to end the frame with the score tied.

The Chargers went back out in front in the bottom of the frame. Edwards walked and stole second, going to third on Reilly's sacrifice bunt.

After another out, Shadle was safe at second on a throwing error by the North Lenoir shortstop, which allowed Edwards to score.

Quinn, running for Shadle, then went to third on a wild pitch before Setliff walked and stole second. Both of them scored on another Hawk throwing error, this one by the third baseman, which allowed Butts to reach second base.

The next Charger batter struck out, however, ending the frame.

In the top of the seventh, Shadle hit the first North Lenoir batter with a pitch, before sending the next three down with strikeouts to win it for Ayden-Grifton.

The Chargers will play again today when they travel to North Pitt.

Stadium Won't Be Any Help To Seattle As Baseball Year Opens

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Seattle Mariners, like most expansion teams, have been consigned to a last-place finish on merit. They don't need any help from their ballpark.

But when the Mariners open the American League baseball season tonight against the California Angels in Seattle's $60 million Kingdome, each fly ball may be an adventure.

"There's no more saying, I got it," says first baseman Joe

Lis. "When somebody pops one up, it's gonna be, 'I think I got it.'"

It seems fly balls are tough to see against the gray, 250-foot-high Kingdome ceiling because of a bank of lights suspended 133 feet above the floor. Balls hit below the lights are not a problem; balls hit above the lights are. And you'd have to believe the Mariners will hit a lot of balls below the lights while the established opponents probably will hit plenty above them.

"You've got to guess," says center fielder Rupert Jones. "The main thing is to pick the ball up right away, before it disappears above the lights, and guess where it's going to come down. And then stay behind it."

Seattle has the honor of hosting the AL's only game today. In the National League, the world champion Cincinnati Reds entertain the San Diego Padres in their traditional early home opener.

Three more NL games are on tap Thursday afternoon — St. Louis at Pittsburgh, New York at Chicago and San Francisco at Los Angeles. In the AL, Chicago is at Toronto — baseball's other new franchise — Kansas City at Detroit, Texas at Baltimore, Milwaukee at New York and Cleveland at Boston during the day, with California and Seattle hooking up again at night.

Friday night, Atlanta visits Houston in the NL while Saturday afternoon finds Montreal at Philadelphia in the NL and Minnesota at Oakland in the AL.

A Kingdome crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to watch elderly Diego Segui, Seattle's "Ancient Mariner," take the mound against Frank Tanana, California's young hotshot.

"You have to be lucky in this game," said Segui, who, ironically, was voted the most valuable player for the ill-fated Seattle Pilots in 1969. "My arm, it's good," he said. "I used to throw. Now I pitch."

Tanana does both, so well that he says he's going to win 25 games — the first two at Seattle's expense.

Bear Grass Slips By Bath

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School nipped Bath, 2-1, yesterday to extend its winning streak to nine in a row.

The Bears pushed through two runs in the fourth inning and that turned out to be enough.

Dwayne Baker reached on a single with two away in the fourth and scored when Jeff Bullock tripled. A balk then brought Bullock over.

Bath came up with its only run in the fifth. Frank Hawkins walked and Larry Anderson was hit by a pitch. Bobby Price reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Hawkins.

Octavous Wallace and Robbie O'Neal each had two hits for Bath. Bear Grass got only three hits during the day, but made good use of them.

The win boosted the Bear record to 9-0 overall and to 5-0 against Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference competition. The Bears entertain Aurora on Thursday.

Tigerettes In Another Win

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School's girls' softball team remained unbeaten yesterday with a 7-6 victory over Washington.

Williamston fell behind as Washington scored a run in the first, then added four in the second. Williamston tied it up with five in the bottom of the second, then both teams scored runs in the sixth.

Williamston got the winning run in the bottom of the seventh when Cindy Cullipher scored on an error.

overall and 1-0 in the Northeastern Conference. Washington is now 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the league.

M. Gibbs had two hits, W. Midgett had two, including a triple and D. Guice has a solo home run for Washington.

For the Tigerettes, Teri Hopkins, Valeria Barnhill, Lydia Singleton (triple) and Gwen Williams each had two hits, while Rogerson added a double.

Williamston begins play in its invitational softball tournament on Friday.

Offer Greene County Courses

The Greene County Unit of Lenoir Community College in Snow Hill is offering extension courses in cabinetmaking and understanding the principles of real estate beginning the week of April 18.

John Grant will teach the 72 hour cabinetmaking course to begin at 7 p.m. on Monday, April 18.

The real estate course, to be taught by Snow Hill realtor Billy Beaman, will begin at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 19. Registration is limited for the real estate course so all prospective students must pre-register. For more details on courses, call 747-2451.

Hanging Tree Has Shady Past

GENOA, Nev. (AP) — A cottonwood tree's a cottonwood tree, right? Wrong. There are some special varieties, like this tiny town's "hanging cottonwood."

The 120-year-old tree, recently selected by the American Forestry Association for inclusion in its "Famous and Historic Trees" publication, was used by vigilantes who hung a drifter in 1897.

Those who took part in the lynching are said to have been haunted by the victim's curse. Many of them died violently in later years, according to rancher Arnold Trimmer, on whose land the tree still stands.

But the limb from which Adam Uber was hanged is now gone — sawed off after the hanging by Lawrence Frey, former owner of the Trimmer ranch, who as a 15-year-old boy saw the incident. Trimmer has lived in Genoa, just south of Carson City on the East Slope of the Sierra Nevada, since just after the turn of the century. He said the story was that Uber shot and killed a popular teamster, Hans Anderson, in a quarrel over 25 cents.

While in jail here, he was hauled out by a vigilante mob after the sheriff left the door unlocked and keys to the cell on his desk, Trimmer said.

No one admitted taking part in the lynching. The sheriff faced a court action for dereliction of duty but was absolved.

But that's only the start of the story. Trimmer said that after the lynching a team of horses passing the tree spooked, and a man fell off a wagon and broke his leg. The leg eventually had to be amputated and rumors started that Uber's ghost was present.

After another horse runaway occurred in the same area, some townfolk wouldn't even take the road which passed the tree — still a main route in and out of the community.

Ione Fetic, another long-time resident here, said one of the lynching party members lost both his children in tragic mishaps; two other vigilantes went berserk; another committed suicide; one lost his daughter when she was trapped in a horsedrawn pump, and another lost a son in a hunting accident.

Opposes The 'Right To Die' Concept

By DAN CHISZAR
DENVER (UPI)—Philosopher Alasdair MacIntyre does not believe in the controversial "right to die" or any other innate human right.

"Nobody has ever given us the slightest reason for believing that such rights exist," MacIntyre said in an interview here.

Nor does MacIntyre think a person has the right to hasten his own death:

"No individual is free to make a choice in this matter. The right time for him to die will come sooner or later, and he must wait for it."

He believes people have a traditional duty to perform a social role before dying.

The portly, slightly rumped Irishman is chairman of Boston University's philosophy department. He was in Denver to participate in a "Right to Die" symposium during the 143rd meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

But MacIntyre hedged. He thinks Karen Ann Quinlan, 21, whose case has aroused nationwide controversy, should have been allowed to die instead of kept alive by life support machines long after she slipped into a coma in 1975 after a late night party in New Jersey.

Following a court fight by her parents, Miss Quinlan was successfully weaned from a respirator last year, but she remains comatose in a nursing home.

MacIntyre said persons such as Miss Quinlan or patients in extreme pain have a "right to die" only because they are unable to fulfill the traditional social role of dying.

He bases his theories on traditions and beliefs of American Indians, the Irish, some Asian cultures, much of Europe in the Middle Ages and some ancient civilizations.

He said these very different cultures are united by "a conception of death as a distinctively social event."

"The dying man has a task to perform ... he must be listened to. Dying persons have something to say to us and not listening would be a way of deforming us."

In older cultures, he said, a person near death would "make that reckoning with his own past life ... debts must be paid, sins must be confessed, farewells must be paid, each with the appropriate ceremony."

To illustrate, MacIntyre described the death scene in literature of Socrates, the ancient Greek philosopher who had been condemned on charges of atheism and corrupting the young.

Before drinking poison, the philosopher said to a friend at his side:

"Crito, I owe a cock to Aesculapius. Will you remember to pay the debt?"

"A dying man has to make that reckoning with his own past life," said MacIntyre.

"He must tell them (the next generation or generations) now what he will never be able to tell them again. The dying man has a duty and a right to speak at that point at whatever length he chooses."

MacIntyre said death in contemporary America is, by contrast, "... often feared and old age, if anything, is feared more. The old have no respected role in the community. Their stories are treated not as inherited wisdom but as boring anecdotes. The old have become functionless, just as the dying have no socially recognized role."

We take it for granted that death and dying are episodes, he said, but they are not and could not be a part of any coherent practice in the required sense.

"... our dominant culture lacks any coherent concept, and perhaps any concept at all, of a right way to die or a wrong way to die, of a good death or a bad death."

Library Group Meets At ECU

Members of the North Carolina chapter of the Special Library Association met at East Carolina University March 30.

The meeting included a presentation by Jo Ann Bell, director of the ECU Health Affairs Library, on the development of the Health Affairs Library and its services.

Other events included tours of the Health Affairs Library and ECU's main campus library.

Members of the Association include librarians from a variety of organizations: academic institutions, business firms, hospitals and manufacturing concerns.

Liquor-By-The-Drink Backers Buoyed By The 'Uncommitted'

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Legislative backers of liquor-by-the-drink, buoyed by the large number of apparently undecided votes in both the House and Senate, predict that a mixed beverage bill will be introduced in the 1977 General Assembly, possibly within a week.

Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, predicted a liquor bill will be introduced "this week or the first part of next," but Rep. Parks Helms, also D-Mecklenburg, indicated it would be at least two or three weeks.

Lawing, Helms and Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, all professed to be encouraged by a poll of legislative sentiment recently taken by mixed beverage backers even though it showed that a majority of House members who answered the poll were opposed and the Senate was split evenly.

In the Senate, 28 of the 50 senators replied and they divided 14 for and 14 against liquor-by-the-drink. In the House, 85 of 120 members replied to the poll and 37 of these were for mixed drinks and 48 were opposed.

Asked if the statistics indicated a liquor-by-the-drink bill would be an exercise in futility, Lawing said, "That's not the way I see it. Of the 22 senators who didn't vote, I'd say a majority would vote for it, and I'd say a majority in the House who didn't reply will vote for it."

"I would say it would have about an even chance in the Senate," Lawing said, "but if the House held a vote tomorrow, it probably would not pass."

"It really encourages me if there is no greater difference..." said Royall who has presided at ad hoc meetings of mixed drink supporters in the legislature. "It's the undecided vote that decides it."

But Marse Grant, editor of the Baptist Church organ, The Biblical Recorder, and a staunch foe of mixed drinks, expressed the opinion that legislative sentiment for liquor-by-the-drink "is less than 50-50 at the moment."

Grant noted that Gov. Jim Hunt is opposed to mixed beverages, that the presiding officers of the House and Senate, Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green and Speaker Carl Stewart, "have a voting record against liquor-by-the-drink."

He also cited the 1973 referendum when voters of the state overwhelmingly rejected liquor-by-the-drink.

"I do not know of any legislation that would, in effect, rule null and void a vote of the people" Grant said. Lawing said the mixed drink bill now under consideration would allow elections in any county or municipality with Alcoholic Beverage Control systems. He said a vote could be called by county commissioners or city governing boards. If these agencies failed to act, a vote could be called upon a petition signed by 20 per cent of the number who voted in the latest gubernatorial election.

Once a city or county voted in mixed beverages, drinks could be served at any class A restaurant with 36 or more seats where more than half the business involves the serving of food. Restaurant owners would decide whether or not they would have mixed beverages, or brown bagging, but they could not have both, Lawing said. He said the bill likely will call for an extra tax of about $5 a gallon on mixed drinks.

Bing Crosby Is Again At Home

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby is back home for the first time since he fell 20 feet from a stage March 3 while taping a television show to mark his 50th anniversary in show business.

The 72-year-old singer, sporting a golf hat and protected from the morning chill by a sweater, left Peninsula Hospital in nearby Burlingame on Tuesday accompanied by his wife, Kathryn.

Before entering his car, Crosby delighted the crowd that had gathered by singing a few lines of "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

Crosby damaged a spinal disc in the fall, but doctors at Peninsula are reportedly pleased with his progress since he began treatment there March 25. He plans to continue exercise and hot baths at home to strengthen the damaged disc.
