

Bids Accepted On Boulevard, Center Project

Low bids were accepted by the City Council last night on both the Arlington Boulevard and Recreation-Library Center construction projects.

In accepting the $396,786 bid of Barrus Construction Co. for the Arlington Boulevard segment, the Council took steps to provide one of the key links in the movement of east-west traffic in Greenville.

The construction will involve the four-laning of Arlington from Evans Street over to Hooker Road with a box culvert crossing at Green Mill Run.

Noting that the low bid on the long-awaited project was less than had been anticipated, Mayor Percy Cox observed that the Arlington link has been sought for some time and he added, "I don't know of anything I've been more excited about."

Construction is expected to begin soon on the new segment, it was noted.

In addition to the Barrus bid, other construction offers were submitted by Eastern Construction Co. ($466,646), L. A. Reynolds Co. ($468,041), and T. A. Loving Co. ($542,913).

A bid package totaling $397,179 was approved for the new Recreation-Library complex scheduled for construction in the eastern section on property adjoining Jaycee Park.

General construction bid accepted was submitted by J. H. Hudson Inc. in the amount of $329,000 while Kinston Plumbing and Heating was awarded the plumbing bid for $14,200. Coastal Refrigeration submitted the low bid of $31,539 for the heating, ventilation and air conditioning work and Edwards Electric was the successful low bidder ($22,440) on the electrical contract.

In addition to Hudson, other general construction bids received on March 24 included: Boyd Associates, $341,250; Chapin Construction Co., $396,401; Dixon Inc., $358,669; Eastern Construction Co., $378,441; Fasco Inc., $363,843; and Wimco Corp., $401,834.

Hudson indicated a completion schedule of 270 working days and construction is expected to begin as soon as possible.

The Council approved the receipt of $50,000 from the July quarter allocation of the Revenue Sharing Trust Fund of the 1977-78 budget in order to meet construction costs for the new complex.

The budgeted figure of $349,600 was some $47,579 short of the total construction bid accepted. The $50,000 from revenue sharing brings the total estimated revenues to $399,600.

In other business on a lengthy agenda, the Council voted unanimously to deny a request by Harold D. Taunton to rezone approximately four acres on the east side of Hooker Road, just north of Greenville Boulevard, from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to Highway Commercial.

The denial action, which followed a public hearing during which several residents of nearby Cambridge Subdivision voiced objections to the rezoning, ends for the time being the controversial matter that had been under consideration by the Planning and Zoning Commission and Council for several months.

Asks HEW Be Specific

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — President William C. Friday of the University of North Carolina system said today the state should ask the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to tell it specifically what it must do to get its 16 institutions in compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

"In short, North Carolina should not place itself any longer in the position of attempting to formulate and implement specific commitments in response to vague, confused and unexplained directives from HEW," Friday told the UNC Board of Governors.

Friday said this in commenting on the April 1 decision of Judge John Pratt in District of Columbia federal district court. The judge directed HEW to invalidate higher education desegregation plans of North Carolina and five other states and to require these states to prepare this summer desegregation plans that will conform to guidelines to be prepared by HEW.

Friday noted that a revised North Carolina plan had been approved by HEW and said that HEW's Office of Civil Rights had pointed the state out as "a model which other affected states might appropriately emulate."

Friday said that North Carolina had "carried out faithfully the many commitments made by the university in its 1974 plan. He said the university had received $527,000 from the 1975 General Assembly to implement the plan and that the university has asked the 1977 General Assembly for additional sums.

He said that under the plan, the state's 11 predominantly white institutions now have 5.6 per cent blacks in their enrollments and that the five predominantly black institutions now enroll 8.8 per cent non-blacks.

Friday said that in seven years the litigation has been "characterized by a failure of the parties and the court to come to grips with the central issue."

He said that was what the Civil Rights Act required the state to do "with respect to its predominantly black institutions of higher education. Must the state truly 'accomplish the goal of eliminating the vestiges of (racial) duality'?" He said to do so would require the state to bring enrollment in the 16 institutions "into conformity with a single standard."

Or, he said, "must the state preserve these predominantly black institutions as predominantly black institutions for the indefinite future and 'enhance them'?" Friday said that both goals cannot be attained.

Fulford Says PTI Needs Only County's Approval For Request

Priority Status To ECU

RALEIGH — The joint House and Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Education has unanimously conferred first priority status on six budget request changes submitted by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, including $9 million for the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The remaining $41 million in changes requested by the Board of Governors would cover expenses from enrollment changes, libraries, the State's plan for elimination of racial duality and basic programs as well as additional funds for Area Health Education Centers.

The $9 million for the ECU medical school which was given first priority status are operating funds for the school which received accreditation earlier this week.

Some $3.82 million in capital funds for the construction of a bed tower at the new Pitt Memorial Hospital has also been given first priority status.

According to Dr. William Fulford, president of Pitt Technical Institute, and Cliff Everett, vice chairman of Pitt Tech's Board of Trustees, all prior approvals have been made for Pitt Tech to become a community college, the prior approvals are valid, and only the County Commissioner's approval is needed to submit the request to the Legislature.

The Commissioners requested that State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten issue a legal statement concerning such a referendum. Andrew A. Vanore Jr., Senior Deputy Attorney General in a letter stated that the State Board of Education may require a vote of the people within the administrative area concerned but only for the reasons set forth, which involves funding rather than simply the conversion.

Vanore continued to say that the matter should be put to the State Board of Education since there is an absence of local legislation and since only the State Board can convert a technical institute into a community college. Vanore also said that the State Board of Education must secure the approval of the State Advisory Budget Commission and the Governor.

According to Dr. Fulford's statements in an interview Friday morning, all of prior approvals have been made. Fulford issued the following brief history of efforts which Pitt Technical Institute has made to achieve community college status:

June 3, 1968 Pitt Tech requested conversion to community college status.

June 6, 1968 the State Board of Education approved Pitt Tech's request for community college status.

In 1969 the General Assembly appropriated funds to three technical institutes for college transfer; Pitt Tech was one of the three.

January 8, 1970 the State Board of Education renewed its approval of the conversion of Pitt Tech to community college.

February 6, 1970 the Advisory Budget Commission endorsed the State Board of Education's approval of the conversion of PTI to community college status with the condition that the school be named Pitt Community College and Technical Institute. The Advisory Budget Commission also approved the community college in July and October of 1969.

March 12, 1970, Pitt Tech's Board of Trustees requested the County Commissioners to call an election to approve use of non-tax revenues or up to seven cents special tax levy for support Pitt Community College and Technical Institute.

May 1970, the vote of Pitt County citizens to authorize the County Commissioners to levy a seven cents tax levy to support Pitt Community College and Technical Institute and change Pitt Technical Institute lost by 862 votes out of a total of 8262.

February 10, 1975 the Pitt Tech Board of Trustees adopted a resolution to add a college transfer curriculum to existing programs, making the institution a comprehensive community college.

May 1, 1975 the State Board of Education authorized the comptroller to request the General Assembly to appropriate funds to support college transfer at Pitt Tech. The General Assembly was requested to fund Pitt Tech for 180 full time students during the first year with a total

The Day Christ Died

Pilate Told Crowd 'The Responsibility Is Yours'

Jesus crowned with a garland of thorns and mocked by His jailers as the "king of the Jews" before being subjected to the scourging.

By JIM BISHOP
(Sixth in a series of eight)

9 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

The priests could hardly believe their ears when Pilate told them to take Jesus before Herod. The Governor had been aware of this troublemaker and His origins, and if it were a matter of jurisdiction, could have told Caiphas last night that the prisoner properly belonged to Herod, who was in Jerusalem for the Passover.

This amounted to dangerous meddling in the affairs of Palestine. The mock Messiah was a Jew, charged with a religious crime in Jerusalem. To which was added a crime against the Empire. How then could He be brought before Herod, whose jurisdiction was confined to Galilee?

Pilate stood. He had, he thought, done a bright thing. There had been no communication between him and Herod since the time that Pilate's soldiers had mistakenly killed Herod's subjects on the temple grounds. The Roman was now making a gesture of friendship, or respect. Herod could not interpret it in any other way, and he would be forced by custom to reciprocate in some way. Thus the breach between the two would be healed over the worthless body of a Galilean.

At the gate of Fortress Antonia the priests argued among themselves about what should have been said to Pilate, and what had been said. They were very worried. The more time that passed, the more of Jesus' sympathizers might find out what was happening.

There was nothing to do, however, but proceed to Herod. Caiphas dispatched a courier to run ahead and acquaint the Tetrarch with the circumstances.

TRIS

I'm expecting a baby within the month and am concerned because I just read that a public interest environmental group has petitioned the Consumer Product Safety Commission to ban immediately the sale of all children's pajamas and other clothing containing the flame-retardant chemical, Tris, on the grounds that the chemical has proved to be a "potent" cause of cancer. The article goes on to say that data obtained from the National Cancer Institute indicates that Tris, which is used to prevent garments from catching fire, is 100 times more powerful as a cancer-causing agent than the carcinogens in cigarette smoke. It says that the chemical could be absorbed through the skin, as well as ingested by children's sucking on their pajamas. I want to know if there is any way I can remove this chemical from all the darling little clothes I have bought and been given, and if there are plans to remove it from the market. Mrs. M. M.

Hotline called the Product Safety Commission's toll-free number, 800-638-2666, and was referred to the Public Affairs office of the Commission, 202-634-7780. The man we then talked to said that Tris is only one of many chemicals that renders children's sleepwear fire retardant. The law that manufacturers of sleepwear for children have to use fire retardant fabric that will withstand 50 washings is still in effect, he said, but most of them will not be using any more Tris, though they'll be using those treated with similar chemicals. He said that washing a garment three or four times before wearing would probably remove most of the surface amount of the chemical, and he believes it would make it safe for a child to wear.

A Strange Darkness Came When Cross Was Raised

When King Herod heard the news from the courier he was so elated that he at once resolved to heal the breach between himself and Pilate. (They were steadfast friends after this day.) He thought it was unusually diplomatic of the Procurator to send the Galilean to the King of the Galileans. Then too, he welcomed the chance to meet the Man who had once referred to him as "That fox!"

The appellation "fox" was apt. Herod was crafty, a schemer. He was not cruel, as Pilate could be cruel, or mercenary, as Annas could be mercenary. He may have been mentally disordered.

Herod Antipas had one specter which he could not blot out of his mind. This was John the Baptist, whom the King had beheaded because his wife Herodias' daughter, Salome, had asked it as a favor for a dance.

Now he was about to confront the Man who, in Herod's eyes, resembled John the Baptist. He could atone partially for what he had done to the Baptist by sparing the life of this one.

The big party of marchers arrived at the gates of the palace of Herod. Herod treated the prisoner as a guest. The King was cordial; he admitted that he had heard much about Jesus. If Jesus of Nazareth had indeed been sent by God, Herod would be happy to witness a few simple demonstrations of this power. Would Jesus mind performing? There was no answer.

It might help the case for Jesus, the Tetrarch said, if He were more co-operative. The priests filled the gap of silence with recitations of all the crimes Jesus had committed. Herod, irritated, shouted them into silence. He had promised a show of magic to his friends, and the magician had disappointed him and humiliated him. He stood up and reviled Jesus.

Antipas had an idea. He called one of his assistants and whispered to him. In a few minutes the aide returned with a beautiful cloak, a garish red garment such as might be worn by the king of a nomadic tribe. It was more theatrical than kingly.

With a friendly smile, Herod swung it over the shoulders of Jesus and tied the red ropes at the collar. It was comic. Even the high priests were forced to smile. Jesus made the most sorrowful and ridiculous king any of them had seen.

King Herod Antipas ordered the prisoner returned to Pilate.

10 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

The high priests were in a dilemma, and their only consolation was that Pontius Pilate was in an even worse one. He had refused to dispose of Jesus' case, and had sent it to Herod, the King of the Galileans. Now the case was coming back to his doorstep and he would be forced to judge, one way or another.

The party arrived under the double arch of the fortress and word was sent in to the Roman Governor that Herod had interviewed the prisoner and had found in Him no crime against Galilee. In a few moments, Pilate came out with his men and again sat in the curule chair.

"You brought this Man before my tribunal," Pontius Pilate said loudly, "on the ground that He incited the nation to revolt. In your presence I conducted this hearing, but detected no guilt in Him regarding the charges you preferred against Him."

The people listened, but they were already muttering. "Nor did Herod either!" the Procurator shouted; and then, subsiding, said: "This, then, is the verdict: He has done nothing to deserve the penalty of death." The crowd, on signal, began to cry for vengeance. "Accordingly," shrilled Pilate, "I will discipline Him, and then set Him free."

He stood, having pronounced a second verdict. But the bedlam of venom from the crowd was so shattering that, for an instant, Pontius Pilate lost his poise and became a frightened man. Out of the roar of sound, Pilate heard snatches of words, and became aware that some were asking a Passover pardon for a prisoner named Bar-Abbas.

It was the custom to pardon a prisoner annually at the inception of the Feast of the Passover. Pilate had forgotten about it. The people who were asking for freedom for Bar-Abbas were not the same people who had come with the high priests. These were political friends of the man now in the dungeon below Antonia.

Pilate decided to use the Passover pardon to close the case against Jesus. He would give the people their choice of freeing Bar-Abbas, a known murderer, or Jesus, a Man of obvious gentleness. Pilate was certain that they would choose to free Jesus.

The Roman turned back to the people. "Which do you want me to release as your choice, Bar-Abbas or Jesus called the Messiah?" - a fatal question to a crowd composed only of enemies of Jesus and friends of Bar-Abbas.

"Bar-Abbas!" they shouted, almost in a chorus.

Pilate was shocked. "Then what am I to do with Jesus, called the Messiah?" he said plaintively.

"Crucify Him!" they roared.

Pilate correctly judged the temper of the people to be getting out of hand. So he ordered the centurion to release Bar-Abbas at once, and to proceed with the scourging of Jesus. Roman scourging was called the "halfway death" because it was supposed to stop this side of death. It was administered by a trained man, called a lictor - there were none in Palestine - and he used a short, circular piece of wood to which were attached several strips of leather. At the end of each strip, he sewed a chunk of bone or a small piece of iron chain. This instrument was called a flagellum.

Jesus was standing, bent over the short column and tied to it securely. The soldier who performed flagellations for the Jerusalem garrison moved to a position about six feet behind Jesus, and spread his legs. The flagellum was brought all the way back and whistled forward and made a dull drum sound as the strips of leather smashed against the back of the rib cage.

A moan escaped the lips of Jesus and He almost collapsed. The lips of Jesus seemed to be moving in prayer. The flagellum now moved in slow heavy rhythm.

Finally, the Tribune, whose responsibility it was to stop the "discipline" when he thought that the guilty one might not be revived, stopped the executioner and went over to examine Jesus. The Messiah was unconscious. The scourging had not taken more than about three minutes. It was over, and the Tribune sent two men for cloths and cold water. The washing of the body was hardly an act of mercy because it returned the prisoner to gasping consciousness.

It was the custom after scourgings for the soldiers at the fortress to play pranks on the prisoner. And now several of them approached Jesus. They were carrying the scarlet cloak, a heavy reed, and a hat cleverly fashioned out of thorns.

This Man had pretended to be a king, and they were going to costume Him like a king - a comic king.

11 a.m., April 7, A.D. 30

The crowd around the Fortress Antonia arches thinned after the soldiers took Jesus away for the scourging.

The high priests stood in front and conversed in whispers. They were certain that when Pilate had completed the flagellation of the prisoner he would tell them that this was punishment enough.

They were whispering about this when Pilate came down the steps for the third time. Once more, the Governor sat in his chair. This time he seemed impatient. Angrily he said: "Now look! I am bringing this so-called Messiah out to you, and you must understand that I find no guilt in Him!"

The crowd looked, and sucked in its breath. This Man was a shocking sight. The face was so marked that individual features were almost indistinguishable. The top of the garment under the cloak was stained.

Pilate looked at the crowd, and saw the natural pity of common people for suffering. The Roman wanted to capitalize on the pity and the revulsion. He stood up and walked over to Jesus.

"Behold the Man!" he shouted to the crowd.

The high priests and the crowd chanted: "To the cross! To the cross!" Shocked, Pilate could not believe that, even under the tutelage of Caiaphas, the crowd could be so callous in the face of what was left of this human being.

Pilate glared at the people. Finally he said bitterly: "Then take Him in charge yourselves and crucify Him! I find no guilt in Him!" Caiaphas knew, and so did Pilate and everyone present, that the Jews had no power to crucify.

"We have a law," one of the elders said, "and according to the law He must die, for He has declared Himself to be the Son of God!"

The Governor was at his wit's end. He turned and walked back into the praetorium, ordering Abenadar to bring the prisoner to him.

Inside, it was Pilate who appeared to be harried. Now a cold fright laid hold of him and he could not understand what frightened him. He studied the wounded Man standing before him and said gently: "What is your origin?"

Jesus seemed to gather a little strength. He studied the Roman briefly, then lowered His head and did not answer.

"Do You not know," Pilate said through set teeth, "that I have power to set You free and power to crucify You?"

The dry, broken lips moved. The voice was hoarse. "You have no power whatever to harm Me," said Jesus, "unless it is granted to you from above... He who surrendered Me to you is guilty of a graver offense."

The Governor had Jesus brought out again before the remaining crowd. Pilate raised his hand and the noise died slowly. "Look," he said in sarcasm, "there is your king!" The people shouted: "Away with Him! Away with Him! Crucify Him!"

Pilate had a basin with water brought to him and he stood, dipped both hands into it, and looking directly at Caiaphas said: "I am innocent of the blood of this just Man. The responsibility is yours!"

Almost as an afterthought, the Procurator called Abenadar to him and ordered that a heavy wooden sign be made to nail to the top of the cross, listing the crime of Jesus in three languages: Hebrew, Latin and Aramaic - in that order. The sign, said Pilate, should read: "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

That was His name and His crime.

The signs listing the crimes of the three prisoners were hastily painted, and when the high priests saw the one for Jesus, marked "King of the Jews," they became excited and upset and called for an immediate audience with Pontius Pilate.

They were admitted, and as one final favor asked that the sign be changed. The Procurator smiled grimly and said: "My inscription stands."

12 Noon, April 7, A.D. 30

Outside the Gennath Gate, Jesus and the two thieves were led on for some thirty yards to the small, rocky hill of Golgotha. There, Abenadar, the centurion, called a halt. A stranger could not mistake the fact that this was a place of execution, because three upright beams stood naked against the sky. Jesus looked at them wearily. A crowd gathered and, among them, Jesus saw His Mother. She came toward Him followed by her sister-in-law Mary (the mother of the younger James), and Salome, wife of Zebedee, and Mary Magdalene, and the beloved Apostle John. She tried to speak, but her face contorted and the tears came. Mutely she held out her arms to Him. The other women, seeing the tears of His Mother, began to sob. The Messiah had to admonish them that it was for this that He had come to earth, and that this was the will of His Father. They understood, and they knew of His promise to return to them in three days; but they found it exceedingly difficult to bear the sight of Him, a beaten man who was about to have nails driven through His wrists and feet.

Abenadar ordered Simon of Cyrene to set the crossbeam down behind Jesus. The pagan looked at the Galilean with compassion. He wanted to say something sympathetic. He tried, but gave up and walked into the crowd. Golgotha was crowded. The people pressed in upon the soldiers and, with the shouted orders of the soldiers to stand back and the sobbing of women spectators, there was considerable noise. Then through the cordon of guards came some of the charitable women of Jerusalem, bringing a jar and chalices. They brought wine, slightly drugged, to all men who were to be crucified. It was an act of mercy which the Romans permitted. Abenadar waited patiently until they had finished. The women moved across the rock to Jesus and poured the drink into a fresh chalice. He looked at the wine and at the women and shook His head. He would not drink it. He had to feel the fullness of pain. Abenadar gave the signal. Four soldiers moved in closely around the prisoners and began to strip them of their clothes. The crucifixion had begun. When the prisoners were naked, a cloth was wound around their loins and between the thighs with the loose end tucked in at the back. Their clothes and sandals were set in a loose pile before each of the three.

It was a few minutes before noon. The sun was high and warm.

The executioner laid the crossbeam behind Jesus and brought Him to the ground quickly by grasping His arm and pulling Him backward. As soon as Jesus fell, the beam was fitted under the back of His neck and, on each side, soldiers quickly knelt on the inside of the elbows.

Once begun, the matter was done quickly and efficiently. The executioner wore an apron with pockets. He placed two five-inch nails between his teeth and, hammer in hand, knelt beside the right arm.

With his right hand, the executioner probed the wrist of Jesus to find the little hollow spot. (The nails were never put in the hands.) When he found it, he took one of the square-cut iron nails from his teeth and held it against the spot, directly behind where the so-called life line ends. Then he raised the hammer over the nail and brought it down with force.

The executioner jumped across the body to the other wrist.

Two soldiers grabbed each side of the crossbeam and lifted. As they pulled up, they dragged Jesus by the wrists. With every breath, He groaned. When the soldiers reached the upright, the four of them began to lift the crossbeam higher until the feet of Jesus were off the ground. The body must have writhed with pain.

When the crossbeam was set firmly, the executioner reached up and set the board which listed the name of prisoner and the crime. Then he knelt before the cross. Two soldiers hurried to help, and each one took hold of a leg at the calf. The ritual was to nail the right foot over the left.

Jesus was crucified. He faced the Holy City for the last time.

The workman moved to the others, and went through the same ritual with each one.

To the watching crowd in front, death appeared to come slowly astride the shoulders of fatigue. The four wounds, in themselves, were not fatal. But the constant pain forced the dying men to move in agony.

The elders could not refrain from pouring scorn onto the pain. Cupping his hands, one yelled at Jesus: "Help Yourself if You are the Son of God, and come down from the cross!"

There was no reply from the cross. Caiaphas sneered as he said loudly: "He helped others! He cannot help Himself!"

There were no clouds. But the heavens had deepened from a pale azure to a deeper hue. The sky continued to darken.

There was no sound of thunder. There were no lightning flashes. There were no clouds. The sky darkened until the sun could be stared at with the human eye. The blue deepened until the darkness of dusk descended over all.

(The darkness, which was like looking through extra-strong sun glasses, seems to have pervaded the world at this hour. Phlegon wrote that in the fourth year of the two hundred and second Olympiad, there was a great darkness over Europe, surpassing anything that had ever been seen. At mid-day, he said, the stars could be seen. At the same time an earthquake caused much damage in Nicaea. Tertullian said later that he found in the records of Rome a notation of world-wide darkness which the statesmen of the Empire could not explain. Apparently the people of Jerusalem were accustomed to sudden changes in the weather, or there would have been a very wide sense of alarm or wonder at this time.)

The darkness lasted for the rest of the day.

1 p.m., April 7, A.D. 30

There was little interest in the fate of Jesus after the first hour. Most of the curious had left because they were afraid of the mid-day darkness. The only sounds were the deep moans of pain wrenched from the throats of the dying.

Behind the crosses, the soldiers rolled knucklebones on the slope of rock and argued loudly. The spoils of drawing this particular day were that the four soldiers assigned to each prisoner were permitted to divide his clothing among them.

Abenadar walked around the cross and picked up the garments of Jesus. To one, he tossed the worn sandals. To another he gave the bloody cloak. To a third he threw the broad white band which was worn as a hat. For himself, he kept the girdle.

There had been one article of clothing left over after the garments of Jesus were divided. This was a tunic - an undergarment made like a long petticoat.

It was stained with the Saviour's blood, but Abenadar was interested because it appeared to be a garment without a seam. The centurion was just. He wanted the garment. When it was washed, it would be worth more than the other items, but he decreed that he and his friends should roll the cubed bones for the tunic.

When they began to gamble for the tunic, Jesus looked up to heaven and said loudly: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do!"

The political robber to the left of Jesus glared at Him. It was as though he had a secret grievance against the stranger who was dying with him. He kept glowering across his right shoulder, and at last exploded in anger.

(History has given apocryphal names to the two robbers. The one who protested that he was a politician, not a thief, has been called Cestas, which could mean hardened, silenced. The other has been called Dysmas, which, crimes. But this Man has done no wrong." There was no reply. The robber was groaning in anguish.

The silent one took an extra long breath before he started to sink, and he said in humble desperation: "Jesus, remember me when You return in Your glory."

The Messiah raised Himself, breathed painfully and said: "Today you shall be with Me in Paradise."

Plans A Voyage To England In Rowboat

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP) — England by rowboat sounds crazy, yes? But a 25-year-old Texan says it's just like going on a hike.

"I'm prepared. I'm eager to get on with it, but I'm not nervous or excited. When I wake up in the morning I still have trouble getting myself going," said Steve Kurachi of Austin, Tex., who was to set out on his transoceanic trip today.

His equipment includes a 17-foot-rowboat with a sealed cabin to protect him from the elements during the planned eight-hours a day of rowing. He's taking along an emergency radio, 70 gallons of water, dried beef, beans, fruit, honey, raw sugar, whole wheat, assorted seeds to be eaten as sprouts and vitamins.

The Coast Guard conducted a two-day examination of his

Britain's Women Have A Drinking Problem

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — The National Council of Women wants to ban treating to drinks in public places. It says that when a man announces, “What will you have?”, his lady companion is under social pressure to name a drink and an alcoholic one at that.

The suggestion of no treating in pubs, where most Britons do their drinking, is fairly unrealistic, but the fact that a serious group is willing to put it forward indicates the depth of concern at what is a reasonably new problem for Britain — the alcoholic woman.

In a nation where most people drink at least a little bit, it might have been expected that a fair number would cross the line into alcoholism. The men did it long ago, but according to Helping Hand, a social aid organization, it is only in the past six years that the situation among women has become even remotely comparable.

In that time, the number of women imprisoned for drunkenness has more than doubled, it says. Dr. A. Balfour Solare, of Duke Street Hospital in Glasgow; estimates there are some 150,000 women alcoholics in Britain. Thirteen years ago the ratio of women to men alcoholics was one to seven or eight. Now it is suddenly down to one woman to three men.

“There is a new generation of female alcoholics emerging,” says Bill Kenyon of the Merseyside Council for Alcoholism. “There are those who start to drink occasionally at the age of 15 to 16. They become fairly frequent drinkers by 17 or 18. They are drinking quite heavily by the time they are 19 or 20. And they are alcoholics by the age of 25 to 30.”

Alastair Mackin, director general of the Health Education Council, says it takes only three to six years to turn a woman into an alcoholic compared with eight to 12 years for men. Helping Hand believes part of the surge is due to the frustration and boredom of life as a stay-at-home wife deprived of affection by a husband who is often working late at the office.

David Ennals, secretary for Social Services, appealed for these “lace curtain drinkers” — the curtains that mask the rooms of suburban homes — to come forward for help without delay.

Other reasons for the alcoholism increase are being advanced, from prestige drinking among teen-agers to the custom of housewives sipping traditional “tonic” wines.

Helping Hand also blames Women's Lib on the ground it encourages women to enter drinking establishments on their own. And there they part company with two other researchers, Clair Wilson, a psychologist, and Frankie Armstrong, a social worker, on the staff of the Institute of Psychiatry at Maudsley Hospital.

Ms. Wilson and Ms. Armstrong feel Women's Lib gives women the boost many of them need.

“It helps them assert their own personality,” said Ms. Armstrong, who runs “Assertion Classes” for women. “It helps them maintain their self-respect and respect for others.”

Ms. Wilson and Ms. Armstrong are members of an informal group of research workers, medical students, sociologists and psychologists assembled by the Camberwell Council on Alcoholism four years ago.

The council, situated in a working-class district of London, was concerned about the poverty of information on women alcoholics and, with a growing problem on its hands, suggested the group might research what was already known about the subject as preparation for probing new areas when time and money became available.

Although Ms. Wilson and Ms. Armstrong have a formidable workload in their own specialties to get through daily, they have nevertheless managed to arrive at a number of promising leads with the aid of the study team.

“The assumption that men and women alcoholics should basically be treated the same is wrongly based,” Ms. Wilson said. “They have different problems and motivations, different social habits. Even though they may be subjected to the same pressures and suffer the same feelings, the reasons for them are different and they cope with them differently.”

For one thing, she said, there is the family responsibility and care of children that the woman must consider as well as the fact that the stigma of alcoholism rests more heavily on a woman than on a man — the stigma that a woman alcoholic cannot fill her role in society as wife and mother.

“There hasn't been much research on whether a child is worse off under a drunken father or an alcoholic mother,” she said. “We have been able to find only one study on teenagers with one or the other

Regional Awards Presented PCAIW

RALEIGH — The 31st annual conference for Region II, National Association of Insurance Women, International was held at the Royal Villa here last weekend.

States comprising Region II are Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and North Carolina. Forty clubs out of 48 were represented. Nineteen clubs from North Carolina were represented including the Pitt County Association of Insurance Women, Greenville.

Those attending from the PCAIW were George Hill, Sarah Jenkins, Joyce Mills, Evelyn Stroud, Sophia Sumner, Hilda Pinkham and Audrey Stillwell. Ms. Mills represented the group as delegate.

The Friday luncheon honored members who have received the Certified Professional Insurance Woman designation. Those recognized from PCAIW were Ms. Sumner, Ms. Stroud and Ms. Mills.

Workshops were attended by each of the members on such topics as public relations, public safety, legislation and education. The Saturday morning breakfast honored all regional chairmen. Ms. Stillwell, Accord chairman, was recognized.

The NAIW story was presented Saturday morning with the National President Lillian Tamblin in attendance. The Saturday luncheon honored local club presidents, past regional directors and past national presidents. Ms. Mills, PCAIW president, was recognized.

Presentation of awards was made at the afternoon business session. Pitt County won first place in safety and third place in public relations, with Ms. Jenkins and Ms. Pinkham as respective chairmen.

A Spanish theme was used throughout the conference.

Sore At Sister's Permanent Steady

By Abigail Van Buren

©1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is a very attractive 47-year-old single woman, has been going with the same 50-year-old man for 15 years! He openly dates others, and my sister puts up with it.

He is a divorced man who plays the field, and he's convinced my sister that marriage at his age is a bumper and that all men need variety.

Our whole family has tried to make her see how foolish she is to waste her time on him, but she insists she “loves” him and is satisfied with things as they are. She could easily get someone else but she won't look at another man.

What is wrong with this guy? And how can I convince her to break off with this heel?

PROBLEM SISTER

DEAR SISTER: The man is apparently playing it straight with your sister so why is he a “heel”? And if your sister is satisfied to go along with things as they are, why is she a “dummy”?

As I see it, even though you and your family mean well, you'd like your sister to live according to your values—not hers. It's her life, and she has a right to live it as she sees fit. Get off her back.

DEAR ABBY: My father was a very successful businessman, and my mother came into a large inheritance soon after her marriage. They were regarded as “high society,” yet I was constantly beaten, kicked and brutally mistreated all through my childhood. To this day I have a semi-crippled hand as a result of the batterings I received as a child.

Today I am 30, happily married with two children of my own. Long ago I broke off all relations with my parents, as I could never forgive them for the way they treated me as a child.

My wife is urging me to make friends with my parents who are now in their 60s, have begged to see their grandchildren and repeatedly asked us to visit them.

I want nothing to do with them. Most recently they have dangled a large inheritance in front of us. My wife thinks I'm crazy to pass up this fortune. She wants me to forgive and forget. I can't seem to convince her that I can't forget what they put me through and want none of their handouts now. Am I wrong?

LONG SUFFERING

DEAR LONG: Your feelings of resentment are understandable. However, if you want no part of a prospective “large inheritance” for yourself, you might consider it for your wife and children. And for them, if not for your parents, letting bygones be bygones would seem to be a timely compromise.

DEAR ABBY: I have seen plenty of those so-called sportsmen at the store buying bullets and beer. (A great combination—almost as good as drinking and driving.)

Every deer season we wait for the news: how many hunters will kill other hunters by mistake; how many will have heart attacks from overexertion and have to be flown out of the mountains at the taxpayers' expense.

Anybody who wants to buy a hunting license can get one, you know, regardless of how lousy a shot he is. Farmers have had their livestock accidentally killed by some of these “marksman” who shoot everything that moves. (One farmer even considered putting signs on his animals reading, “THIS IS A COW!”)

I've never been hunting, and I don't care to go. The only kind of shooting I do is with a camera. That way I'll have something beautiful to remember—not the bloody, lifeless remains of a once beautiful animal.

HATES HUNTING

DEAR HATES: Well said.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cheesecake Has Been A Favorite For 2,000 Years

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer
One of my favorite sweets is cheesecake, and I was interested when I ran across a bit of research by Michael Field, the late culinary star and one-time concert pianist, who traced its origins back many centuries.

Cheesecake, Field discovered, appears so consistently throughout culinary history that it has a universality apparently shared by no other cheese dish.

As Field noted, there is ample evidence that the ancient Greeks relished cheesecake because their poets sang its praises with such lyrical passion.

In the Deipnosophists, an anthology written around 230 A.D. by Athenaeus, an entire section was devoted to cheesecakes, which the author said were taken on outings in gaily decorated boxes for pinickers to nibble while they quaffed wine from silver bowls.

Still earlier — in 310 B.C. to be exact — a man named Hipponchus wrote a friend a glowing letter about a lavish wedding feast where each guest was served an entire roast boar stuffed with thrushes and other things. Following this up with roast fish, oysters and periwinkles, they topped the repast off with “cheesecakes of every kind known.” There were “Cretan cheesecakes, your Samian ones and Attic ones with the proper boxes or dishes suitable to each kind of confection.”

I could do without the thrushes and periwinkles, but the rest sounds good.

The Greeks had many recipes for cheesecake which differed widely. Some were made with flour and sesame seeds, forming a pastry for holding a soft cheese mixture. Others were fried in oil and still others were molded and chilled in the snow.

There are still a number of varieties, since many countries have their own version of this classic. We are best acquainted, of course, with the velvety cheesecakes made by American bakers. But there are others like the pot cheese pashkas of the Russians, the unsweetened gougères of French chefs and the cloying ricotta pies from Italian kitchens.

Cheesecake isn't too difficult to make, provided you pay close attention to temperatures and baking times. Here's one where the key ingredients are cream cheese and creme fraiche.

3 pounds cream cheese
2 pints creme fraiche
1½ cups granulated sugar (preferably superfine)
2 tablespoons vanilla
Juice and chopped pulp of 1½ large lemons
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons sifted flour
8 large eggs

In large electric mixer bowl empty 1 pint creme fraiche. At lowest speed add half of cream cheese, a small chunk at a time. Add two eggs, one at a time. Add remaining creme fraiche. Slowly pour in sugar, beating all the while. Add lemon juice and pulp. Add remainder of cream cheese in small chunks. Add all other ingredients, keeping 6 eggs for last. They should be added one at a time, keeping mixer going till mixture is smooth. Occasionally scrape beaters and sides and bottom of bowl. Grease sides and bottom of spring form pan 3 inches high and 9 to 10 inches wide. Preheat oven to 500 degrees, put grate on lowest rung of oven, cover with sheet of foil. When mixture is smooth, pour into pan, right to brim. Place in oven and bake 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 275 degrees and bake about 90 minutes, till top is golden and cake rises about 1½ inches above pan. Let cool on wire rack 4 hours. Refrigerate. After one hour remove sides of pan. Take out of refrigerator about 1 hour before serving. Serves 20.

Club Officers Are Named

The Cherry Oaks Home and Garden Club met Tuesday evening. Officers for the coming year were named as follows:

President, Shelia Kupec; First Vice President, Joan Gilstrap; Second Vice President, Cheryl Clark; Secretary, Nan Grady; and Treasurer, Rose Tripp. Outgoing President Frances Faust presided at the meeting and announced that Bonnie Petticrew had been voted “woman of the year.” She was presented a gift certificate. The projects committee reported that Mr. and Mrs. George Dale, of 210 Cherrywood Dr., had received “yard of the month” honors for April.

The program was on cake decorating, demonstrated by Katherine Creech. Following the meeting, members practiced her techniques.

Mrs. Jane Walker was introduced as a newcomer to the neighborhood.

Mrs. Faust read a thank you letter from William Glidwell of Pitt County Memorial Hospital for the indoor plants that the club donated to beautify the new hospital lobby.

Mrs. Faust and Ms. Mary Yates served refreshments. The meeting was held at the club house.

Grifton News

Voice For Quality Education

Gov. Hunt has removed W. Dallas Herring as chairman of the State Board of Education. Herring would be replaced July 1, according to the governor's announcement.

The decision to remove Herring was a regrettable one for the governor reportedly, but there has frequently been discord between Herring and State School Supt. Craig Phillips.

Gary Pierce, an aide to Hunt said the governor and Herring agreed on a number of things but, "the governor felt that, if education really was going to move ahead, there was a need for new leadership."

Gov. Hunt sat on the Board of Education as lieutenant governor and it was said he often was the mediator between Phillips and Herring.

Herring has been chairman of the Board of Education for many years and possibly it is not unwise to rotate the leadership in this, and other state policy making positions.

Still, he has been a proponent of quality education unceasingly, and that is important in education today.

Herring said he had no bad feelings about the governor's decision. But, he said, "My main apprehension is that there will be no one with the temerity to speak out for qualitative standards in the public schools."

We have to be concerned about that, too.

We Only Wonder Why It Took So Long

A bill is speeding through the Legislature to make it unlawful for a non-handicapped person to park in a handicapped drivers reserved parking space.

The bill received unanimous approval in the Senate and went on to the House.

We will applaud its passage, and we only wonder why it wasn't already the law.

Relays Calls For Fee

By JAMES ROBINS
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)

Afraid to criticize your mother-in-law, prod your former husband for alimony or tell a man you'd like to get to know him better? For $5, the "Chutzpah Phone Service" will do it for you.

"I got a call this week from a girl who wanted to seduce her boss but was embarrassed to say anything to him," said Rachel Borden, who founded the service.

"I called him, and he was very pleased with the idea. The message to be relayed back to her was: 'What took you so long?'" Mrs. Borden said.

"Chutzpah" is a Yiddish word for gall. Mrs. Borden has it.

"I've got a new customer where I'm supposed to call her husband twice a week for the next three months to remind him to make his alimony payments because he hasn't been paying," she said.

In other cases she has told people their barking dogs are bothering neighbors and that a man was spending too much time with his best friend, to the detriment of the friend's marriage.

Not all of Mrs. Borden's calls are nasty, she insisted in an interview Thursday. In fact, nice calls and romantic exchanges have made up the majority of her work since she began the service about 2½ months ago.

Mrs. Borden, 29, the mother of two, has found her customers via advertising in a suburban newspaper and a local magazine. She said the project originally was suggested by her husband, Gene.

"I was always home and on the phone talking to people," she said, "and he said I might as well do something constructive with it."

She said the $5 fee covered not only the requested call but also the relay of any message

The Optimistic Agency

WASHINGTON—One of the most important organizations in the State Department is the Agency for Optimistic Appraisals of International Conferences. It was set up to shed a good light on summit meetings between the United States and another power to counteract the publicity that a conference has failed.

The assistant secretary of AOAIC is Sandy Merriweather, a jocular and affable career diplomat, who is in charge of preparing position papers showing that no matter how the meeting was portrayed in the press, there is a silver lining at the end of the tunnel.

When Secretary Vance returned from what was described in some before the Soviets had studied the U.S. proposals."

"That's ridiculous," said Merriweather, dropping two Alka Seltzers into a glass of water. "We knew what the mood of the Soviets was. We expected them to take a hard Bismol.

"How's that?" I asked him. "Secretary Vance got to see the Bolshoi with Foreign Secretary Andrei Gromyko. We know Gromyko hates the ballet, and the fact he went with Vance shows that deep down the Soviets want an arms agreement."

"There are some people who say that President Carter and Secretary Vance misread the mood of the Soviets and it was a mistake for Vance to go to Moscow and throw the proposals back in our face."

"Then what was the purpose of Vance's trip?"

"To clear the air and set the stage for our talks in May. We knew the Soviets were testing Carter. He has publicly stated his position on disarmament and human rights. By sending Vance to Moscow at this time we were confirming that Carter wasn't just talking for domestic consumption. But what we didn't know was how the Soviet leaders felt about the Carter proposals. By refusing the U.S. package out of hand, we can now formulate a foreign policy based on their negative and hurt feelings."

"Wouldn't it have been better if the suggestions had been made privately to the Soviets without the whole world watching the Kremlin's reaction?"

Merriweather poured himself a glass of Bromo Seltzer.

"Of course not. That would have been devious. Mr. Carter has said he would never resort to secret diplomacy to gain an advantage over an adversary. It isn't his style."

"But," I said, "whether we like it or not Vance came back from Moscow with egg on his face."

Merriweather took out a package of Tums and popped four in his mouth. "You seem to miss the point. We never expected the Soviets to accept our proposals. We would have been in a lot of trouble if they had. Congress would have been up in arms if the Kremlin had said the deal was all right with them. If the Soviets had taken the package it would have meant that there was something wrong with it. The fact that the Russian leaders rejected

To the editor:

James J. Kilpatrick's charge in his Apr. 2 column that the state women's meetings sponsored by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year will be a "last-ditch lobbying effort for the pending Equal Rights Amendment" totally misrepresents the facts.

The law prohibits lobbying for the ERA or anything else, and the Commission has observed the law.

Perhaps what Mr. Kilpatrick finds threatening is that women from all walks of life will come together in public meetings financed with federal money to air their frustrations about the inequities that greet them everywhere they go and to devise means of ending sex discrimination in this country.

Mr. K's tiresome rhetoric is a rehash of the same old line repeated by Phyllis Schlafly and her anti-ERA followers. He cannot cope with the fact that American women are even capable of wanting to improve their lives.

In 1975 Pres. Ford formed a commission of unpaid public citizens and four members of Congress that was broadly representative, and the new one appointed by Pres. Carter is likewise. Through public hearings and months of research, the first commission analyzed the problems women face today. 115 recommendations are contained in a report, "To Form A More Perfect Union." This study focuses on individual cases illustrating the injustices to women in our society.

Then Congress said, "Take your recommendations to the grassroots and find out what women really want." So $2.6 million of our $5 million budget is being distributed directly to state coordinating committees. Women who attend workshops in their states will discuss and develop strategies to assist battered women, older women, displaced homemakers, pregnant teenagers, women offender, and minority and ethnic groups. They will seek corrective action in health services, credit, employment, education, child care and the media image of women, along with others issues of importance in their own communities.

If Mr. Kilpatrick can restrain himself from pulling hair, I'll personally invite him to attend the meeting in his home state and help make history.

VD Epidemic Is Admitted

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — State health officials have called on members of the General Assembly for help in fighting a venereal disease problem in North Carolina which they admit is of "epidemic proportions... a disease out of control."

"Our objectives are to reduce the incidence of early syphilis from 2,189 cases in 1976 to less than 800 per year within the next four years..."

"And, a reduction in the incidence of gonorrhea from the 39,642 cases in 1976," Dr. Martin P. Hines, chief of the health division's epidemiology section told a recent gathering of people concerned with venereal diseases.

New Effort

State Rep. Barney Paul Woodard, D-Johnston County, is working on a proposal which will call for spending about a million dollars during the next two fiscal years to combat the disease.

Woodard, a pharmacist and chairman of the health committee of the North Carolina House of Representatives, says the approach must pull together professionals, volunteers, and school people.

This state currently ranks second in the nation in the incidence of primary and secondary syphilis, with double the numbers of cases (23.6 per 100,000) which is average nationally.

Both syphilis and gonorrhea have shown alarming increases in recent years, particularly among junior high school and high school populations, with some knowledgeable experts insisting that official figures only scratch the surface as to actual numbers of cases. Most go unreported, and some experts say one out of three school students will have contracted gonorrhea at some time before graduation; and that syphilis has increased 100 per cent in one year. The major increase is among low socio-economic groups, particularly black ghetto dwellers.

Even so, data shows an increase in other areas as well, due largely to the ready availability of birth control pills and a relaxed sexual morality among today's young people.

Columns in this space which last summer spelled out the alarming spread of venereal disease in the state were denounced by some state health officials as not founded on fact, and inflammatory.

But Rep. Woodard recently called together officials of the state health services, the state's United Way organization which is sponsoring a venereal disease combat program, legislators, and the Parent-Teachers Association.

Real Problem

At that session earlier this month, figures were presented which proved the seriousness of the situation, and a direct link was made between the venereal disease epidemic and this state's infant mortality rate which is third highest in the nation.

Woodard said the program to fight venereal disease will largely center on education: use of professionals and volunteers to help tell students what venereal disease is, how to recognize it, how to avoid it, and how to get cure and treatment.

"I would be opposed to any mandatory program of inspection and treatment in the schools," Woodard said. "We have sufficient treatment facilities and personnel... but we need to get information to the people."

The program would enlarge the health division staff of educators and investigators, with special emphasis on crash programs in urban centers where the problem appears worst.

A pilot project in Charlotte recently cut venereal diseases 50 per cent, and intensive effort in Alabama—even with a generally low social and economic population—has given that state the lowest venereal disease rate in the nation.

Woodard also plans to try to get restoration of federal funds for work in this area which have been eliminated. Some problem areas in North Carolina are concentrated around military bases at Ft. Bragg and Camp LeJeune, Woodard noted, thereby making it important for the federal government to help.

NEW ENERGY POLICY

Require Home Insulation?

By TOM RAUM

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are a homeowner, the chances are good that President Carter's omnibus energy policy is going to require you to better insulate your home.

Federal Energy Administrator John F. O'Leary is hinting that two-thirds of all U.S. homeowners may be required to make their homes more energy-efficient under Carter's program.

O'Leary said the President's April 20 energy message will seek to upgrade the insulation of all homes through a "blend of incentives and disincentives." He said he hoped the program could be accomplished in 10 years.

O'Leary told a Senate hearing Thursday that one-third of U.S. homes now have no insulation while another third are "badly insulated."

Later, O'Leary acknowledged in an interview that this, in effect, may mean that two-thirds of all U.S. homeowners will have to either weatherize their homes or improve existing insulation, whether they want to or not.

The President's energy message also is expected to include new energy-efficiency standards for new homes and new buildings.

O'Leary declined to say how the mandatory home insulation program would work. But one possibility mentioned frequently is requiring utilities to do the weatherizing and bill consumers — either directly or through a surcharge spread among all customers.

The administration also is expected to propose some form of tax credit to offset insulation costs to homeowners and businesses.

In fact, the energy package reportedly will propose a number of such tax credits or "incentives" for energy conservation steps, including tax credits for installation of solar energy devices and for utilities that switch from oil and natural gas to coal.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D. Mass., challenged use of such incentives in a letter to White House energy adviser James Schlesinger, Kennedy, chairman of the energy subcommittee of the House-Senate Economic Committee, said other forms of federal financial assistance for energy conservation might be more effective, such as federal grants, loans, loan guarantees and interest subsidies.

He said the proposed tax credit for home insulation will end up costing the U.S. Treasury $42 to save every $12 barrel of oil.

"In large measure, such tax benefits are not incentives at all, but windfalls to taxpayers for activities they would undertake in any event," Kennedy said.

The April 20 message also will include a probable tax of up to $500 on new fuel-inefficient automobiles and new price limits to make natural gas at least as costly as oil, according to members of Congress who have been briefed by Schlesinger.

Opinions In Brief

"Every joy is gain, and gain is gain, however small." — Robert Browning.

"Man's capabilities have never been measured. Nor are we to judge of what he can do by any precedents, so little has been tried." — Henry David Thoreau.

"Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?" — Abraham Lincoln.

"Nothing can bring you peace but yourself." — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

"It is no use to wait for your ship to come in unless you have sent one out!" — Belgian proverb.

Strength For Today

GET UP AND SHAKE HANDS

Stephen A. Douglas, Lincoln's opponent in the election of 1860, bitterly denounced Lincoln during the election campaign. But when the ballots were counted and Lincoln was elected, and when the critical issue before the new administration was maintaining the union, Douglas got behind his former opponent and supported him to the hilt.

At Lincoln's inauguration the President could find no place to deposit his silk hat while he read his speech. Douglas stepped forward and with a sly grin took Lincoln's hat, saying, "If I can't be president, at least I can hold the president's hat."

Few people can take defeat in such a spirit. We can generally measure the moral stature of a person by the way he acts when his hopes fall to ruin about him. Many people fold up and die. Several men in the history of this country have done this after being defeated for the presidency. But the person of character gets up and shakes hands no matter how thorough the trouncing.

Career Women Are Ripped Off

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)

Women seeking advancement in corporate management are being ripped off by peddlers of "positive assertiveness" and related success formulas, says a noted management authority.

"The power of positive assertiveness is the current prescribed cure-all for the aspiring woman manager," said Prof. Eugene Jennings, who branded it a deception by modern medicine men, shamans and barkers.

Thousands of women each day attend conferences, seminars and meetings sponsored by government, universities, women's groups and consulting firms that, he claims, result in little but frustration and wasted money.

And yet, says Jennings, an informal survey of meetings in big city hotels shows these programs draw larger audiences than do sales and management meetings of the more traditional type.

The Barker, who Jennings says might be a professor, an author or maybe even a government official, "commands women to step forth to grab the brass ring, telling them 'You can do anything you want to do.'"

Nonsense, says Jennings, a management professor at Michigan State University, a psychologist, author and confidential adviser to many top corporation executives.

The grabber of today, he suggests, might suffer the same ignoble fate as the gladhander of the 1950s, a reference to the naive concept then taught that a smile and a handshake were the route to management success.

The teaching of assertiveness as the elixir of success might make women feel better inside, Jennings maintains, but it doesn't make them better students of management or help them perform in the real world of management.

"Assertiveness is im-material to the management process," he said, an observation based on personnel mobility in corporate life and as a counselor in management for many years.

An assertive veneer without an understanding of management is a disaster, he continued. "Women need help in understanding planning, organization, controlling and coordinating the activities or others."

A lot is known about management, he observed, but very little is known about women managers, leading him to the conclusion that "these sideshows presume

Succession Right Up For Debate On Wednesday

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A constitutional amendment giving the governor the right to succeed himself in a second term was set for Senate debate next Wednesday after winning committee approval.

The Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee, which held a public hearing on the measure earlier this week, gave the amendment a favorable report Thursday.

The succession amendment, which needs a three-fifths vote of both the House and Senate, and is subject to ratification by the people, has been pushed by Gov. Jim Hunt. Supporters say the bill now has enough votes to clear both legislative chambers.

North Carolina's chief executives now are limited to a single, four-year term, although they could seek another term after leaving office for four years. The amendment would allow them to seek one second term while still in office.

In other legislative actions Thursday:

BOATS
The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill that would require boats and other vessels of all sizes to be equipped with life preservers. The bill, sponsored by Sen. Bobby Lee Combs, D-Catawba, expands the current law which says life jackets must be aboard boats of 16 feet or longer.

Sen. Jim McDuffie, D-Mecklenburg, said federal regulations already call for preservers on all vessels on waters patrolled by the U.S. Coast Guard.

Meanwhile, Combs filed a related bill that would require sailboats with hulls longer than 14 feet to display a state license number. Current law requires motorboats to be numbered.

INSURANCE

Passage grew close for a bill that would remove the $100,000 limit on group term insurance sold in North Carolina. The House-passed measure was given overwhelming tentative approval, after withstanding efforts to send it to another committee and to set the limit at $200,000. Sen. Russell Walker, D-Randolph, one of three senators who voted against the measure, said he thought it might open a potential tax loophole.

Sen. Carl Thotterow, D-Forsyth, said the legislation would allow North Carolina insurance agents to sell larger group term policies to businesses.

LIQUOR BOTTLES
The Senate enacted a bill converting state Alcohol Beverage Control sales to a system of metric measurements. The bill changes the state's limit on the retail sale of liquor from one gallon to four liters, or seven ounces more than a gallon. The bill, sponsored by Rep. W. Casper Holroyd, D-Wake, was previously approved by the House.

DISCRIMINATION
New legislation included bills that would create the North Carolina Equal Employment Practice Commission and make it illegal to discriminate in employment because of a person's race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry or age. The bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Mickey Michaux, D-Durham, and Sen. Katherine Sebo, D-Guilford, sponsored an identical measure in the Senate.

JUDGES
A Senate judiciary committee killed a bill that would have established a commission to study ways of implementing minimum standards for judges. The bill, proposed by Sen. Bob Somers, R-Ro race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry or age. The bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Mickey Michaux, D-Durham, and Sen. Katherine Sebo, D-Guilford, sponsored an identical measure in the Senate.

RECALL
A bill was filed in the House that would amend the state constitution to allow a recall election of any elected state official upon petition of 25 percent of the voters who cast ballots in last gubernatorial election.

As a constitutional amendment, the measure requires a three-fifths vote of the House and Senate, and ratification by the public, before taking effect. It was filed by Rep. David Bumgardner, D-Gaston.

SECURITY DEPOSITS
Sen. Robert Wynne, D-Wake, sponsored a bill to regulate the handling of security deposits received by landlords of residential dwelling units. The bill would require the landlord to keep such deposits in a trust account in a bank or savings institution or the landlord could furnish bond for the deposits. The measure would require the repayment of the deposit to the tenant after deduction for such things as non-payment of rent or damage to property.

SILOAM BRIDGE
A bill sponsored by Sen. George Marion, D-Surry, would authorize the payment of $30,000 each to the estates of four persons killed in the collapse of the Siloam Bridge in 1975. The money would go to the estates of Samuel Hugh Atkinson, Ola Marion Atkinson, Judy Brown Needham and Andrea Leigh Needham. Another $88,305.92 would go to persons injured in the bridge collapse.

"Then what you're saying to me is that the State Department's scenario went off exactly as you people had scripted it."

"Certainly," Merriweather said, opening a package of Roloids. "We're now in a better position for a disarmament treaty than we have ever been before. Look at Gromyko's press conference where he attacked us for duplicity and bad faith."

"Was that a good sign?"
"Of course it was. The Soviets always lash out at somebody they're going to make a treaty with. It takes the heat off them with their Communist allies. If Gromyko said the talks had gone well he would have caught hell from every Iron Curtain country."

Honored For Stressing 'Indestructible Ideal'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She was a young Roman Catholic girl, bewildered by the devastation of World War II in her home town of Trent, Italy. She and her friends found their plans and dreams shattered. Everything seemed to say, "All is vanity." Was there no indestructible ideal? They could conceive only of one: God.

"We decided that He must become everything in our lives," she says. That conclusion by Chiara Lubich and her young friends in 1943 marked the beginning of an unusual movement that has spread quietly, in unplanned, spontaneous ways, around the world and for which she has been named to receive the 1977 Templeton prize of $80,000 for progress in religion. It is to be awarded April 6 in London, England.

"In all honesty, I must say that I never had the idea of starting or founding a movement," says Miss Lubich, now 57. "Nothing was further from my thoughts." She says it simply happened by its own momentum, apparently by God's initiative.

The movement, as uncharted, diverse and continuously evolving as its unfixed origins, is called the Focolare Movement, its name taken from the Italian word meaning "hearth," symbolizing the unified, sharing community as the crux of Christianity.

"Love one another as I have loved you" is its central tenet from the key words of Jesus. The movement has grown across denominational lines in various ways in 150 countries, involving lay people, clergy and nuns, oldsters and youths.

"Her contribution to promoting unity among Christians is one of the outstanding achievements in interchurch and interfaith relations today," says the Templeton Foundation in announcing her selection, adding that the movement also has had "an extraordinary impact on youth all over the world."

Uncounted hundreds of thousands are reported involved in the movement's loose-knit, varied modes of socioreligious functioning, including:

—About 2,000 small communities of clergy and lay people called "Focolarini," married and unmarried, of various denominations, living together in 31 countries.

—Seven small "new towns" of such groups in six countries, with others being built elsewhere.

—About 225 "new parishes" in which members and clergy commit themselves to the movement's principles of service to others.

—Also a "new families" wing of couples who hold regular congresses, a "new humanity" section involving 3,500 volunteers on social projects in needy areas, a "new generation" branch for youth with 12,000 in fully committed units meeting regularly and drawing an average 50,000 youths to congresses each year.

Oversight of the far-flung operations is from an ecumenical center, "Centro Uno," in Rome. At the heart of the various ramifications of the movement is the commitment to live in behalf of others, and if necessary, die for them.

It involves companionship with Christ both in "our personal suffering" and in the suffering of the sick, the poor, the neglected, Miss Lubich writes. "Our movement, although a religious movement, is at times, a social movement, in the sense that it creates a new society."

The Templeton Prize, set up by American financier John Templeton, a Presbyterian, has been awarded annually since 1973.

SYMBOL OF LIFE

Instrument of Death

Can you imagine the electric chair or the gallows being thought of as a symbol of Life? Every day we see the Cross; but only on Good Friday do we remember it was once an instrument of execution.

This tremendous reversal in the meaning and implication of a device of torture and destruction bears simple witness to the profound effect the Resurrection of Christ has had on human culture.

Yet the thrust of the dramatic events that led to that first Easter is aimed not at culture but at YOU and ME. Christians believe Jesus died and rose again for US.

Celebrate Easter with all who share this joyous belief. The Lord made the Cross a symbol of His life — an inspiration for ours.

Taunton had sought to build a structure to house a piano repair and sales business as well as a rehabilitation program for handicapped citizens.

He told the Council during the public hearing that he had followed each suggestion of the planning staff and conformed in every way in order to meet requirements for the rezoning.

Taunton said that, "It is our desire and ambition to not only have a building and business but to aid the human being." He said the training of the handicapped for piano repair is needed.

He added that he questioned whether the business would be a detriment to the residential properties in the area.

Cox told Taunton that he did not think the residents were opposed to him but they did not want to see the opening of commercial development potential in the area.

Councilman John Howard noted that the owner of the tract of farm land behind the Taunton property had made a division of his property in order to sell Taunton his tract. He said that he felt it constituted a subdivision and appropriate plans should be provided for the subdivision.

City Manager Jim Caldwell said that he understood no property transactions have taken place.

The homeowners who spoke indicated their concern for the safety of their children in view of potential traffic increases with commercial development and also cited the devaluation of their property.

Ken Smith of St. Andrews Drive said that he had talked with residents of the area and the consensus was that they opposed the rezoning.

A petition containing the names of 128 residents who opposed the rezoning was presented.

The Council adopted an ordinance which provides rules and regulations governing charitable solicitations in the city. The key regulation of the ordinance prohibits on-street solicitations which have been utilized by various organizations in the past at local intersections.

Linda Hix of Heritage Street said that while she favored collecting by fraternities and sororities for charitable causes, she was concerned about the safety factors involved in soliciting on the streets. She cited the busy intersection at Charles and Greenville Boulevard where campus organizations regularly seek donations from motorists.

Councilman Frank Fuller said that he was surprised that the campus organizations were not represented at the meeting. He said that in as much as the Council does not want to discourage the sororities and fraternities from doing good work, letters should be written to them explaining the situation.

The ordinance is a means of protecting the citizens, it was mentioned.

A request by the Elm Street Senior Citizens Club for exemption of senior citizens from paying the recreation user fee was denied with Councilman William Hadden voting against denial.

Hadden noted that some of the senior citizens currently meeting in Greenville do not live in the city limits and have to pay an excessive amount just for the use of a building. He said he did not feel that was full utilization of the facilities.

Hadden's motion to charge $5 per person for out-of-city use of the facilities did not gain a second.

Fuller noted that the city will continue to provide recreational facilities for senior citizens who live in Greenville.

Hadden said that senior citizens are in a unique position and with many of them living on fixed incomes, the user fees can not be paid without inconvenience.

Councilman Clarence Gray said that he was sympathetic towards senior citizens but he wondered how the Council would treat other groups that might request exemptions if this request is approved.

"The County Commissioners may say they will not do anything about it but I would like to see them challenged," Council member Mildred McGrath observed.

In denying the request, the Council urged the senior citizens who live outside the city to ask the County Commissioners for help in meeting their recreational needs.

Approval was given, following a public hearing, to a request by Malcolm C. Williams for rezoning approximately 41,500 square feet at 200 E. Greenville Boulevard from Shopping Center to Highway Commercial.

The Council also voted to approve the request of Lacy Streeter to rezone, from R-6 (residential) to Downtown Commercial Fringe, of approximately 18,000 square feet located on the northwest corner of W. Fifth and Cadillac Streets. Approval followed a public hearing.

A third public hearing resulted in no opposition to a request by the Housing Authority to rezone from Highway Commercial to R-6 approximately 8.78 acres on the west side of Evans Street Extended for use as the site for 111 units of new public housing. Approval was given to the rezoning request.

A letter of withdrawal concerning the request of Lanco Realty Inc. for rezoning some 2.76 acres on the north side of U.S. 264 Bypass from RA-20 to Shopping Center was accepted.

The request of Philip Flowers for release of a paving assessment on E. Gum Road was denied.

The Council voted to accept all low bids received at a public auction on various vehicles and equipment which were declared as surplus to city needs.

Action on a request by the Greenville Jaycees for consideration in leasing the recently vacated West End Fire Station building was tabled until the May meeting to allow for the city to get estimates on needed repair work on the structure.

Phil Dixon, appearing on behalf of the Jaycees, said that the chapter had appropriated $1,000 for improvements and maintenance work at the facility but the city was requested to handle necessary roof work.

Dixon said that the building could serve as a meeting place for the Jaycees' general membership as well as board meeting site. In addition, other groups needing a meeting location could use the facility, he added.

An ordinance establishing the filing fees for mayor and council members was adopted, calling for a $30 fee for mayoral filing instead of the current $50 and $12 for council filing rather than the current $25. The fees reflect the maximum of one per cent of the salary of the respective offices.

Other business on the agenda included: reappointment of Dean Painter and Dr. Patricia M. Daughtery to three-year terms on the Environmental Advisory Commission; reappointment to his first full term of Christopher Hargett as a member of the Parking Authority (had filled an unexpired term);

Payment of $1,496.71 as city's portion of the cost associated with cleaning the canal adjacent to Greenfield Terrace;

Denial of an application by Ms. Mary Johnson Spell for a taxicab operator's permit;

Renewal of list of beer and wine privilege licenses for 1977-78;

Approval of an application by Hardy Store at 509 Shepherd Street for an off-premise beer and wine privilege license;

Approval of an application by Chanelo's Pizza Inn at 507 E. 14th Street for an on-premise beer and wine privilege license;

Adoption of a resolution authorizing the submission of an application to the Governor's Highway Safety Program for a grant to conduct a pedestrian traffic study, calling for $4,500 city participation and $10,500 federal funding;

Adoption of resolutions approving the sale of disposal parcels in the Shore Drive and Southside Redevelopment areas;

Adoption of resolutions authorizing the mayor and city clerk to execute agreements with Seaboard Coast Line Railroad covering installation and maintenance of sewer mains and lines and the construction and maintenance of an overhead electric line;

Adoption of an amendment to the Personnel Policies Ordinance providing for fringe benefits for permanent part-time city employees;

Adoption of an ordinance revising certain traffic patterns in the city calling for the stop signs at Arlington Boulevard and Sunset Avenue to be reversed in order that through traffic will be on Arlington Boulevard rather than Sunset Avenue (four-way stop signs will be utilized at intersection for 30 days to familiarize motorists with new stopping requirements on Sunset); designation of a loading zone on Fifth Street adjacent to the old North Carolina National Bank building as soon as the new curb and gutter is installed, and placement of "No Parking from 1 a.m. to 8 a.m." signs on N. Overlook Drive from Elm Street to Longwood Drive;

Scheduling of public hearings on May 5 on rezoning requests involving property on Greenville Boulevard and the southeast corner of Tenth Street and Wright Road;

Scheduling of a public hearing on May 5 on a petition for annexation of Courtney Square located south of the intersection of Arlington Boulevard and Red Banks Road;

Scheduling of public hearings for May 5 on three proposed amendments to the Zoning Ordinance;

Authorization for the tax collector to prepare tax notices on discovered

Jerry Powell, a Greenville bank executive, has been elected president of the Highway 264 Association by the group's Board of Directors.

Powell succeeds Thomas F. Taft, a Greenville attorney, who has headed the group since it was formed in 1975.

The association includes civic and business representatives from communities lying along the U.S. 264 route from Zebulon to the coast. Its prime mission is to promote improvements to the heavily traveled highway corridor.

Powell said, "I am impressed by the spirit of cooperation among the various communities represented in the Highway 264 Association."

"The membership consists of a broad base of individuals and companies from each of the communities...and I believe this type of support will effectively accomplish the four-laned, limited access highway development we so desperately need to serve eastern North Carolina."

Other officers of the association, who were re-elected to their posts, include vice-president William H. Page of Washington; secretary Reese Hart of Greenville; and Mrs. Anne McGaughey of Farmville who serves as treasurer.

In his final statement as president of the highway development group, Taft said "thanks to the impact of this organization and its friends, we have changed the entire emphasis of highway development in mid-eastern and north-eastern North Carolina."

Taft told the board that he considered the present efforts of the association should be directed in three areas.

First, he said, "we must work to support the road bond issue until it is passed," and secondly, "we must maintain the highway development priorities which we have realized through the corridor study report," which recommended improving several sections of U.S. 264.

Thirdly, according to Taft, the association "must fight to get the Saratoga to Farmville section of 264 into the priorities."

The priorities listed in the study included improvements between Greenville and Washington, Farmville to Greenville, and Wilson to Saratoga. The Saratoga to Farmville link was not given a high priority for projected highway development.

of $164,809. Pitt Tech was one of four institutions included in a bill requesting the college transfer programs and funding in 1975. Pitt Technical Institute withdrew its request after having been approved by the Senate, and the bill was passed.

In January 1976, Dr. Fulford received a letter from Charles R. Holloman, Vice President of Policy and Planning of the Department of Community Colleges in the State Board of Education. Holloman's letter discussed the approvals that Pitt Tech had previously received about the conversion of the community college. Holloman's letter states as follows:

"The Board of County Commissioners of Pitt County gave approval September 30, 1963; and, it appears to be still in effect as no rescission is of record. At the request of the institution's board of trustees, the State Board of Education in 1969 and again in 1970 approved conversion of Pitt Technical Institute to community college status. The State Board has never rescinded its approval. The Governor and Advisory Budget Commission on February 6, 1970, approved conversion of Pitt to Community college status and it appears that their approval is still in effect."

Holloman requested an opinion of the Attorney General on the question as to whether the approval of the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission had expired due to lapse of time. The Attorney General's reply was as follows:

unlisted property for $26,136.96 in the city;

Approval of a refund of 50 per cent of the building permit ($70 permit) issued for the construction of triplexes on Willow Street and Riverside Drive and not constructed; and

Approval of a request by the Greenville Jaycees and the Downtown Greenville Association for a waiver of the privilege license requirements for a fashion show on April 24 at the Pitt Theatre.

"There is nothing in the statutes which indicates that the approval of the Governor or the Advisory Budget Commission lapses with the passage of time. The Board of Trustees, it would appear, could therefore legally take action to implement the conversion since it does have the prior approval required by N.C.G.S. 115A-4."

According to Holloman, the same statutory provision applies to the need of approval of the Board of County Commissioners and the State Board of Education.

Dr. Fulford explained that since the County Commissioners have taken action on the matter, their prior approval is not applicable. The County Commissioners are interested in receiving the results of the vote of the people to decide the issue. Prior to requesting that the commissioners call for a referendum, Pitt Tech had a random opinion survey conducted by Diener and Associates of the Research Triangle. The survey showed that 71 per cent of the 759 surveys completed were in favor of Pitt Tech becoming a community college; 14 per cent were against it and 15 per cent were indifferent.

Cliff Everett, Vice Chairman of the Pitt Technical Institute's Board of Trustees made the following statement about the prior approval that Pitt Tech has received and the reason for a referendum.

"Dr. Charles Holloman of the State Board of Education has said that under state law, in order for Pitt Tech to be converted to a community college it must be approved by the State Board of Education, the Advisory Budget Commission and the Governor. Dr. Holloman has said that all of legal requirements for conversion have been done. The State Board of Education has the authority to require approval again, but it has not been interested

District and County Veterans Service Officers and staff personnel of this agency from 29 counties in the eastern part of North Carolina attended a day long school in Greenville Thursday.

The Veterans Service Officers School, sponsored by the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs, was held at the American Legion Building from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Oscar Moore, District Officer and head of the local Greenville office, hosted the school meeting, designed to review and discuss changes and procedures in the laws administered by the Federal Veterans Administration.

Major topics covered included the North Carolina State Scholarship Program

Flooded-Out People Sleeping In Cars, Eating In Soup Lines

By The Associated Press
People are sleeping in cars, eating in soup lines and digging through the muddy ruins of their Appalachian towns and villages, stricken by this week's two-day rainfall.

Dozens of counties in West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia were declared disaster areas as the swollen Tug Fork, Big Sandy, Hell For Certain and other waterways receded. But there was growing resentment that federal aid was not available immediately.

And downriver along the Ohio, Cincinnati waited today for the effects of West Virginia's floods to push river levels there over flood stage of 52 feet.

West Virginia state police Supt. Harley Mooney, co-ordinator of the relief effort there, said he was appalled at the devastation he found.

"We're acting on the premise that 10,000 people need help," Mooney said after spending Thursday overseeing distribution of food and medical supplies in coalfield communities along a 50-mile stretch of the Tug Fork River.

The flooding killed three in West Virginia and caused more than $50 million in damages. Other death and damage totals: Kentucky, five dead, $100 million; Tennessee, seven dead, $10 million; Virginia, four dead, $100 million.

In West Virginia, the Mingo County towns of Williamson and Matewan were hardest hit. Power and telephone service remained out in Matewan Thursday.

To prevent looting, Pikeville, Ky., authorities established a 6 p.m. curfew. Dozens of National Guardsmen patrolled the streets in Pikeville and Lynch.

President Carter declared 15 Kentucky counties disaster areas, making their inhabitants eligible for emergency aid programs. West Virginia Gov. John D. Rockefeller IV declared 10 counties state disaster areas and said he would ask the White House for federal relief.

Cleanup and shelter efforts were aggravated Thursday by freezing temperatures.

Steel Negotiators Nearing Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union and industry negotiators moved close to an agreement today on a new contract for 340,000 steelworkers following an all-night bargaining session.

United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel met with his policy-making executive board over breakfast, and sources said he indicated that substantial progress had been made.

"They have a lot of loose ends to put together, but it looks good," said the source. There remained some question, however, whether a complete contract package could be put together in time for a meeting of local union officials.

That meeting was postponed until this afternoon, apparently to give the negotiators a few more hours to conclude a settlement.

"They're working now and hoping to wrap it up," said Ray Pasnick, a union spokesman.

Both union negotiators and representatives of the nation's 10 biggest steel companies agreed to keep the talks going and ignore their self-imposed Thursday night negotiating deadline after the industry made a last-minute contract proposal. If necessary, the negotiators could continue their talks next week before they would have to call in arbiters to resolve their differences.

It wasn't clear what the industry offer contained, but it apparently included some move toward guaranteed job and income security — the union's key demand.

Public Works Holiday Monday

Easter Monday will be observed by the Sanitation Division of Public Works Department as a holiday.

All trash and garbage pickup service will run one day late through Wednesday and will resume regular service on Thursday.

Residents are also reminded that the leaf season is over and the leaf machines have been stored for the year. If there are still leaves being raked, they must be bagged or boxed and should be placed at the edge of the yard by the curb no later than Tuesday night for Wednesday pickup.

Questions concerning the above announcement can be to Leavy Brock, sanitation superintendent, 752-4137, extension 244.

Rampants Steal Way Past Northeastern

OFF AND RUNNING — Rose High School's Jeff Aldridge takes off for second base on a steal attempt in the third inning yesterday against Northeastern, as Eagle first baseman Chuck Cullens guards the bag. Northeastern made no effort to stop Aldridge, since Greg Lee was waiting on third to attempt a double steal. The Rampants won the contest, taking a 5-2 decision over their Division I foe. Rose High School took advantage of mistakes by the Northeastern High School Eagles yesterday to sweep to a 5-2 win in a Division I baseball game.

The win was the second conference victory for the Rampants, who boosted their league mark to 2-3. The Rampants are now 4-5 overall.

Northeastern made five errors during the game, allowing three unearned runs. The Rampants forced a number of the mistakes, running almost at will against the Eagles. Rose had seven stolen bases in the game.

Mike Williams went all the way to earn his second victory against no losses. The sophomore righty scattered five hits, walked three and struck out seven.

Northeastern did not offer a threat until the fourth inning when a single, a walk and a sacrifice put runners on second and third with none out. But Williams struck out the next batter and got the third out on a grounder to keep Northeastern scoreless that time.

He struck out the side in the fifth inning.

Rose got its first two runs in the first inning. Ronnie Chapman led off with a walk, and then stole second. An overthrow on the theft allowed him to go on the third, and he stood there as Greg Lee reached on a single to short.

Lee moved down unmolested, and both runners scored on a single by John Coffman to left.

Rose put a man as far as second in the second inning, and on third in the third, but neither could score.

Finally, in the fifth, the Ram-pants got their other three runs.

Chapman opened up with a pop to the mound that was dropped. He stole second and again took third on an overthrow. Lee singled to left scoring Chapman, and then Lee stole second. Coffman sacrificed him to third, and he scored when Mike Shank's infield pop was also dropped.

Shank then stole both second and third, scoring when the ball was misplayed at third.

Rose had a chance for more in the sixth, putting runners on second and third with one out, but they failed to produce any more runs.

Woody McDaniels greeted Williams with a triple to deep right to open the sixth for Northeastern. He scored on a wild pitch, cutting the lead to 5-1.

Rose In Golf Win

Rose High School's golf team took an easy victory over Havelock yesterday.

The Rampants completed the day with 325 strokes, while Havelock was far behind with 382.

Mike Moye led Rose with a 77, while Til Jolly carded an 82. Craig Logue and David Norstrup each had 83.

For Havelock, Bucky Cox was low with an 80. David Sullivan had 96, Van Reed 97, and Dwain Overby, 109.

Rose travels to Havelock next Thursday.

Jags Gain Big Win

KINSTON — E. B. Aycock Junior High romped to a 13-4 victory over Kinston yesterday.

Kenneth Barnes was the winning hurler for the Jaguars.

Mark Shank, Barnes, Marshall Heath, David Holley, Junior Neal and Ricky West each picked up two hits for Aycock. Wade had a pair to pace the Kinston attack.

Aycock is now 2-0 on the year, and will resume action on April 19 against Wilson.

Jaguar Netters Are Improving

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Farmville Central's tennis team has won the past three conference championships, but the Jaguars are going to have to get some improvement to take the Eastern Carolina Conference title this year.

"We're real young," according to coach Darrell Rudisill. "But, we hope to start coming around at the end of the season."

Two starters return from last year's team, Rudisill said. The current squad starts three seniors, a junior, a sophomore and a freshman.

"We started off the season real slow," Rudisill said. The Jaguars are now 3-6 for the year and 2-2 in the conference.

Only two other schools in the ECC have tennis teams, C. B. Aycock and Greene Central. The Jags have split in their two matches with each team and will meet each once again during the regular season.

"We've beaten the other teams in the conference this year, but it's a toss-up as to who's going to win (the championship?)"

Senior Stuart James is the top player on the Farmville Central team this year, according to Rudisill. His record this year is 6-3 and he has "sort of been on and off so far this season," Rudisill said.

"He's really the best player that I've got as far as consistency." The other members of the team are all about even in wins and losses, Rudisill said.

In doubles competition, James teams with Chris Fountain to form the Jags' number one match-up. "They've only lost one match, if I recall correctly, against Rose High."

C. B. Aycock has "so far shown to be the strongest team" in the ECC, Rudisill said, but the conference race "could go either way."

Since the teams have pretty much split their conference matches, the one that wins the championship will be "the one who, between now and the end of the season, works the hardest."

Rudisill and the Farmville Central team hope it will be them.

Redskins Gain Second Straight No-Hit Win

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School got its second straight no-hit victory yesterday, as the Redskins pasted North Edgecombe, 17-1.

The game lasted only five innings, with North lone run in the final frame.

Dennis House hurled the victory, getting the second straight no-hitter for the team. He struck out nine and walked two.

Cliff Keel led the Redskin hitting with three, while Glenn Cargile had two.

Roanoke pushed over four runs in the first to take the lead for good. Cargile tripled and scored on a double by Keel. Charlie Smith singled in Keel, and moved to third on an error. He scored on Wayne Council's double. Lee Smith reached on an error, moving Council to third, and Council scored on a balk.

In the third, Roanoke exploded for nine big runs, upping the lead to 13-0. Council and Eddie James were both safe on errors. Lee Smith walked and Will Harris also drew a walk, forcing in Council. Gurganus singled in two runs, as did Cargile. Keel doubled and Charlie Smith walked. A triple steal scored Gurganus, and a wild pitch let Cargile in.

Smith scored on an error on the play, unloading the bases. Council then walked, and moved to third on Clay Roberson's single. A wild pitch brought in Council.

The Redskins got their other four in the fourth.

Roanoke is now 7-1 overall and 5-0 in the Eastern Plains Conference. They host Plymouth on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Pirates Top Camel Netters

East Carolina's tennis team rebounded from a loss to High Point College on Wednesday to defeat Campbell 8-1 yesterday on the Minges courts. The Pirates won every match but the number two doubles.

Mitch Pergerson and Henry Hostetter, playing four and five singles, respectively, had the biggest victories, whipping their opponents 6-0, 6-1.

Tom Durfee, at number one singles, and Doug Getsinger, at number three, each won by 6-1, 6-1 counts.

The Bucs, now 6-7 on the season, will play Saturday at 2 p.m. when they host Guilford College.

Summary:

Tom Durfee (EC) d. Rick Herring, 6-1, 6-1.

Bears Keep Record Intact

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass kept its unbeaten record alive yesterday with a 16-10 win over the Aurora baseball team. The victory gives the Bears a 10-0 record for the year.

Bear Grass stayed in command for most of the game, moving out to a 6-1 lead in the second inning. The Bears scored seven runs in the fourth and added three in the fifth to go ahead, 16-5.

Aurora scored five more runs in the seventh, but even they weren't enough.

Despite the high score, there were only a total of nine hits in the game. Duane Baker of Bear Grass was the only player with more than one hit, going 2-4.

With the Bears leading 6-5 in the seventh, Jesse Bullock walked and stole second. Robert Harrison then got on an error and Bullock went to third. David Bowen singled to score Bullock and Harrison.

The Aurora pitcher then walk-

Chicod In Two Wins

FORT BARNWELL — Chicod Junior High swept a pair of games from Fort Barnwell yesterday.

Chicod took a 29-6 win in the girls' softball game. Tina Powell and Stacey Haddock each had four hits to lead Chicod, while Monica Fornes had three, and Karen Smith, Melinda Cox, Miriam Jones and Wanda Coles each had two.

In the boys' baseball game, Chicod claimed a 15-9 victory. Roy Lassiter and Frankie Pollard each had two hits for Chicod.

Baby Tigs Win Again

PLYMOUTH — Williamston's junior varsity baseball team picked up its third straight victory of the season yesterday with a 4-3 win over Plymouth.

Chuck Rogerson was the winning pitcher for the Cubs, who are now 3-0 for the year. They play again April 18 when they host Rocky Mount.

George Martens paced New York apprentice jockeys in 1976 with 98 winners even though he lost his apprentice weight allowance last July 22.

Rampants Take Track Victory

Jule White won four events to spark the Rose High School track team to victory over Rocky Mount yesterday.

The Rampants finished the meet with 77 points, while Rocky Mount had 58.

White captured victories in the triple, long and high jumps and in the pole vault.

Mike Joyner was a double winner for Rose, adding wins in the 100 and the 220-yard dashes.

Overall, Rose won ten events, while Rocky Mount won four. The Gryphons won both of the relay events.

The Rampants return to the track on April 18 against Bertie.

Bynum is a junior at Pfeiffer.

Southern Nash Nips Greene

SPRING HOPE — Wiley Grady homered for Southern Nash in the fourth inning to give the Firebirds a 2-1 victory over Greene Central's baseball team yesterday.

The Rams had jumped out to an early lead with a run in the first, but Southern Nash tied things up in the bottom of the inning.

Wiley's homer was the only other score the rest of the way.

In the top of the first inning, Jeffrey Warren got on by an error for the Rams and stole second. Jay Carraway singled to bring Warren home.

In the bottom of the frame, Tony Joyner walked with one out and Scott Fassnacht singled. Joyner scored when Curt Massey was safe on an error.

Grady's homer in the fourth sealed the win for the Firebirds, although Greene Central had men on in the fifth, sixth and seventh but couldn't bring them home.

The Rams are now 9-2 for the season and 4-1 in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Southern Nash is 5-4 and 2-1.

Greene Central will play again Thursday when it participates in the Gaylor Perry Tournament in Williamston.

Last Man Off Tee Forges Way Into Front Of Pack At Masters

By TOM BRETTEINGEN
AP Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "I was the last guy to pull the trigger."

Bill Kratzert was the last man in the field to tee off, but his first shot sent him on his way to the three-under-par 69 that thrust him among the frontrunners in the 41st Masters golf championship. The round kept alive the overwhelming surge of young players that has inundated the pro tour this season.

Heading into the second round today, Kratzert and Don January trailed leader Hubert Green by two strokes.

Green, the easy-going Floridian who has won 11 tour events but never a major tournament, used a new driver to birdie all four par-five holes en route to a 67 in the opening round Thursday.

January, a 47-year-old veteran with an ailing back, carded a solid 69 as the first man off the tee in the hand-picked, international field of 77.

Kratzert, a 24-year-old tour rookie, wasted no time making his move. He birdied the first hole, added birdies on Nos. 13 and 15, then saved par several times with testing putts to finish ahead of the other young lions.

Scoring was higher than expected on the 7,030-yard, par-72 Augusta National Golf Course. The weather was warm and sunny for the estimated 30,000 spectators, but the wind grew gusty for the golfers by early afternoon.

Ray Floyd, the defending champion who carded a 71, blamed tough pin placement. Hale Irwin, a former U.S. Open champion, came in with a 70 and cited the swirling winds.

Jack Nicklaus, bidding for his sixth Masters title, was lurking behind the leaders with a 72. He wouldn't blame anything for his score except putting.

"If I had putted average, I would have had about 68," he mused after putting 37 times. "If I had putted well it would have been better than that."

Tied with Irwin at 70 were Rik Massengale, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic earlier this year; Tom Kite; Jerry Pate, reigning U.S. Open champ; and Tom Watson, the one-time British Open titlist who has won two tournaments this year but given away two more in the final round.

A stroke back with Floyd were Gary Player of South Africa, the only non-American to win this prestigious event; Mark Hayes, another of this year's young phenoms; Ben Crenshaw, Dave Hill, Gene Lit-ler and Buddy Allin.

At even par with Nicklaus were Danny Edwards, still another of the youngsters, along with Jim Colbert, Billy Casper, J. C. Snead, Charles Coody, Rod Funseth and Mac McLendon.

Tom Weiskopf, a runnerup here four times and the choice of many observers to finally break through with a victory this year, headed a pack of nine players at 73.

The lead belonged to Green, though, and he gave credit to his driver.

"I'm using a new driver for the first time this week," said Green, 30. "I'm not completely satisfied with it but I am hitting a lot longer than I usually do."

A-G Takes First Win

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton captured its first victory of the year in softball yesterday, taking a 7-6 win over North Lenoir.

North Lenoir took a 1-0 lead in the second inning, but Ayden-Grifton came up with three in the third to gain the lead. North Lenoir returned to the front with five in the fifth, making it 6-3.

Ayden-Grifton came back with two each in the sixth and seventh, with the final winning run scored by Danielle Elks, who came in on a single by Shanda Brock.

Elks was the winning pitcher for the Chargerettes. Brown led the hitting with three, while Vivian Ellis, Mary Row and Danielle Sullivan each had two.

Kirby led the North Lenoir hitting with three, while Dove and Kittrell each had two.

Ayden-Grifton is now 1-2, and opens play in the Williamston Invitational today.

Northeast Tops Martin Academy

LASKER — Northeast Academy took advantage of 10 Martin Academy errors to score nine runs on two hits and take a 9-6 baseball win yesterday.

Martin scored two runs in the first, but Northeast tied it in the bottom of the inning. Northeast added two runs in the second and third innings to go ahead, 6-5.

Martin tied things up with a tally in the top of the fourth, but Northeast scored on a sacrifice fly to gain the lead for good.

The leading hitters for Martin were Durwood Leggett, 2-3, James Corey, 2-4, and Tim Gardner, 2-5.

The loss was only Martin's second of the year. It now has a 7-2 record.

SPRING HOPE — Greene Central's softball team took a 14-11 victory over Southern Nash yesterday.

Greene Central got an early lead with one in the first and three in the second. Southern scored two in the second and one in the third to pull within one, then added seven in the fifth.

Greene Central came back with eighth in the sixth, and added another pair in the seventh. Southern picked up one more in the sixth.

Lynn Shackelford pitched the victory, and added two hits. Alberta Sutton led Greene Central's hitting with four including a home run. Lana Ginn had a double.

For Southern, Debra Edwards had two hits, and Thomasine Perry had a home run.

Greene Central is now 4-1 overall and 2-1 in Eastern Carolina League play. They play in the Williamston Invitational this weekend.

Emmy Show Is Endangered

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dispute within the organization that backs the annual Emmy awards and a threatened boycott by past winners such as Mary Tyler Moore and Carroll O'Connor may scuttle this year's televised show.

NBC said Thursday it was postponing the scheduled May 15 program. The network also said that if the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences does not come up with a suitable proposal by April 15, it will cancel the telecast.

It would be the first time in 27 years the awards program was not aired.

In addition to the threatened star boycott, there was a wholesale refusal by stars and producers to submit nominations for the awards.

The program honoring TV achievements could become the latest victim of a dispute between New York and Hollywood factions of the academy.

After several years of wrangling, the National Academy earlier this year expelled its Hollywood chapter, which represents nearly half its 11,000 members.

The chapter promptly reorganized itself as the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and said it would stage its own awards presentations in September.

National Academy chairman Richard Rector, a producer for KQED-TV in San Francisco, blamed the split on a disagreement over the selection of board members and said he believed the show would go on.

"We're still in negotiations with NBC," he said.

Larry Stewart, president of the new Hollywood-based academy, said it has 4,600 members and added that there was "no chance" the dispute could be patched up.

The dispute began after creative figures in Hollywood argued that although most prime-time programming honored by the Emmy awards originated in Los Angeles, a coalition of New York and 11 regional chapters controlled the academy.

Annual Easter Parade Planned By Civic Club

The Majestic Ebonaires Civic Club will present its annual Easter Parade Sunday at 4 p.m. at Moyewood Family and Child Development Center.

Participating will be children from Greenville and surrounding communities. Highlight of the parade will be the crowning of Mr. and Miss Easter Bunny by the club president, Mrs. W. J. Harris. The Voices of Zion of York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church will present a program of Easter music.

Parents and guardians are asked to bring all participating children to the center by 3:30 p.m. with the child's name, age, sex, full description of costume and full names of parents or guardians. Mrs. Farney M. Moore, Jr. will serve as mistress of ceremony.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Multitudes Turn Out For Fiddlers

UNION GROVE, N.C. (AP) — Space is tight, water is scarce, but music is abundant here on the 600-acre site of the 53rd annual Old Time Fiddlers Convention.

As of 9 p.m. Thursday, almost all of the estimated 100,000 music-listeners had poured into the primary, music hall site and an additional field used to handle overflow crowds. People ranging from infants to elders continued flocking here past dark Thursday.

"There's no way of telling how many people are here," said James Mathis earlier in the day. Mathis collected the $20 tickets for the three-day event, although single day tickets also were available.

Music started at sundown Thursday and will continue through the finals Saturday. Some $10,000 in prize money will go to winners in different categories ranging from blue grass to dobro.

Opening day crowds found many water faucets, but none of them yielded water. Other refreshments were available from a nearby store called The Beer Garden which did a brisk business at 75 cents a bottle, $4 a sixpack and $12 per case.

Toilet facilities in the form of movable outhouses were provided, but were not evenly distributed between the two fields set up to handle the crowds. Persons in the alternate field had two conveniences, while a few hundred were located in the other area.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is much confusion in your life at this time so organize your time sensibly and do not yield to daydreaming or illusive ideas. Avoid confrontations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get into credit and business affairs of importance and forget going off on some tangent today that could get you in trouble. Gain the advice of a bigwig for some problem that is difficult for you to solve.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to gain the confidence of newcomers now and put unimportant activities aside. Take little trips where you can be inspired anew.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep promises made and gain respect and confidence. Show you are conscientious.

Many hands hinge on control of the trump suit. When this hand cropped up in the Swiss Team event at the recent fall North American Championships, one declarer realized the importance of holding onto his trumps, the other did not.

At both tables the final contract was four spades, reached on the above sequence with both partners bidding naturally. Had trumps not broken 4-1, both declarers would have coasted home in comfort.

At the table where we watched, West won the first trick with the queen of hearts and continued with the jack. Declarer again played low from dummy and Declarer simply ran the clubs. West could ruff at any point he wanted to, but declarer would overruff in dummy, draw the last trump and continue to run his clubs. One way or another, declarer would score ten tricks in the black suits for his contract.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to cooperate more with associates and you get ahead faster and more pleasantly. Handle some civic matter well and gain prestige.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you know what allies expect of you and try to please them so there is more harmony and mutual success. Do what you can to improve health. Be clever with money.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into amusements you most enjoy and be happy with congenials. Create more harmony at home with kin. Put finest talents to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan what should be done so that home situation can be easier and more pleasant, comfortable. Find some new interest that will bring in a handsome profit. Think constructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good planning at this time will see you accomplishing a good deal in days to come, with good chances to advance. Gain support of close ties and good friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find out what your true financial status is and then make arrangements and changes that are necessary. Listen to what a money expert has to suggest, also. Be careful of way-out ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to improve your life in some way by being more optimistic and practical. Make any changes that are needed. Plan some amusement in the evening that will really please you. Be careful in the expenditure of money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look for ways that will make life better and more satisfying. Be with a loved one as much as possible and be happy. Attend social functions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact a good friend with more experience to your own and get good advice you need. Attend social functions later where you can make new friends, make a good impression on others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will do well in public work of all kinds since there is much ability at organization and much prosperity is possible during the lifetime. Teach early not to be so concerned with little details that are unimportant. Otherwise your progeny could become a bore and annoying to others.

No Leads In Mt. Olive Killing

MOUNT OLIVE, N.C. (AP) — Wayne County sheriff's officials said Thursday they had no leads in the death of Mrs. Rose Blackwell, 39, whose body was discovered Thursday in a wooded area two miles east of here.

Deputy Stan Flowers said searchers found the woman's car abandoned in a wooded area half mile east of here Wednesday.

Her body was found with a rope around it about 100 yards from a bridge crossing northeast of the Cape Fear River. She had been shot in the chest and attempts had been made to burn the body.

Her husband had reported her missing when she had not returned to their insurance office by mid-afternoon Wednesday. More than 100 rescue workers and officers searched the area.

Sues Sears For Discrimination

MIAMI (AP) — A man who claims he was denied promotion and training by Sears Roebuck & Co. because he is not black or female has filed a discrimination suit against the giant retail chain.

"Every time I asked for a promotion, I was told that Sears had an 'affirmative action program' and that blacks and women would be promoted and transferred ahead of men," said Raymond Turner, 30.

The suit alleging racial and sexual discrimination was filed Thursday in federal court here. Turner said he worked for Sears for nine years but was fired after he told the company he planned to file the discrimination suit.

Sears officials refused to comment on the alleged firing or the suit. Frank Malone, assistant personnel manager for Sears in the Southeast, said only that the chain strives for racial and sexual balance.

"My nine years, my good record and my company training meant nothing because I was white," said Turner.

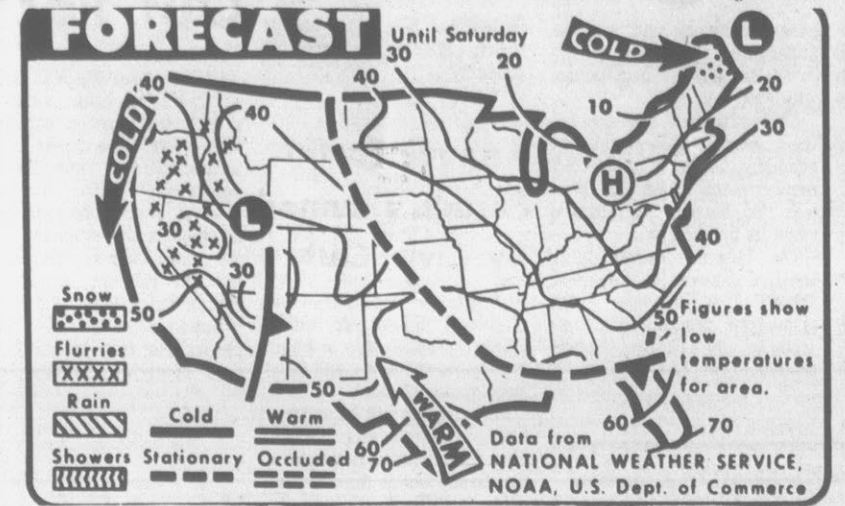

He said he repeatedly was denied promotions and transfers from the Coral Gables store. He also said he was turned down for the company's automotive training program after allegedly being told it was for women only.

He said his problems started when company officials replaced him with a black woman in washer and dryer sales.

He said a promotion he sought as head of the refrigerator sales force was given to a black person with less experience. Turner also said he was refused a transfer to Clarksville, Nashville, Jackson and Memphis, all in Tennessee, as well as Winter Haven, Fla.

His suit alleges that stores in all five cities told him they would hire only blacks and women, not white males.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cold weather is forecast today for the north and central Pacific coast with snow flurries expected inland over the Rockies. Warm weather is expected for the Southwest and western Plains but most of the eastern half of the country will also be cool. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Skies were generally clear across North Carolina this morning and overnight temperatures were not quite as cool as the previous day. But another cold front moved through the state during the day, holding down afternoon temperatures. Southwesterly winds of 10 to 20 miles per hour were predicted during the day with a shift to northerly as the cold front passed. Small craft advisories were in effect along the coast from Cape Lookout north to Virginia Beach and over the sounds behind the Outer Banks.

The National Weather Service said the outlook for the Easter weekend was good, with sunny skies prevailing along with temperatures a little cool on Saturday but warming somewhat on Easter Sunday. Today's high temperatures were expected to range from the mid 50s in the northern mountains to the mid 70s along the south coast. Tonight will be clear and colder with a freeze in the northern mountains as temperatures drop to the 20s and range up to around 40 along the coast. Temperatures generally were

Junior Woodmen Held Egg Hunt

The Modern Woodmen of America Junior Club 13885 held its annual Easter egg hunt Sunday at 3 p. m. in the field across from the Pitt County Fairgrounds.

This is an annual community affair sponsored by the Home Office Adult and Junior Clubs of Modern Woodmen and other sponsors. Children from Ayden, Washington, and Kinston as well as from Greenville, attended.

Survived As 2 Collided

GARYSBURG, N.C. (AP) — A truck driver escaped serious injury Thursday when he was thrown from his vehicle as a Seaboard Coastline train smashed into it.

William Allen Cooke of Gaston, N.C., suffered bruises and was hospitalized for observation. He was driving a tractor trailer loaded with logs. The incident occurred at a rural intersection north of this Northampton County community. The truck was a total loss. A railroad spokesman said the collision caused about $3,000 damage to the train's engine which was bound for Richmond, Va.

"He was some kind of lucky," said Highway Patrolman Brent Smith. The train was traveling at 43 miles per hour and the truck an estimated 5 m.p.h. when the two collided near the intersection of N.C. 301 and a rural road.

POLICY ON LACK OF TIMELY NOTICE OF ITS EFFECT ON CAPITAL EXPENDITURES INCURRED BY HEALTH CARE FACILITIES SUBJECT TO SECTION 1122 OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.
In the January 26, 1977, Federal Register, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) published a policy regarding the procedures to be followed by HEW Regional Health Administrators (RHA) in cases where an applicable health care facility (e.g., hospital, nursing home, ambulatory care clinic, etc.) has failed to provide timely notice of certain "capital expenditures" (e.g., facility construction, renovation, or equipment acquisition) that are subject to review under P.L. 92-603, Section 1122. Capital expenditures that are subject to Section 1122 review would have to either (1) exceed $100,000; or (2) increase or decrease facility bed capacity; or (3) substantially change the facility's services. Health care facilities that are undertaking capital expenditure projects that are subject to Section 1122 review are required to notify in a prescribed manner, the North Carolina State Health Planning and Development Agency (SHPDA) at least sixty (60) days prior to incurring an obligation for such a capital expenditure. The failure to notify, in the prescribed manner, the appropriate health planning agencies of capital expenditures that are subject to Section 1122 review, could result in the Secretary of HEW not including the expenditure in the Federal reimbursement to the facility under Titles V, XVIII, and XIX of the Social Security Act. (Maternal and Child Health, Medicare, and Medicaid, respectively.)

How Tar Heel Senators, Representatives Voted

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Mar. 24-30.

HOUSE
KENNEDY & KING — Adopted, 230 for and 181 against, a resolution (H Res 433) extending the life of the Select Committee on Assassinations through 1978. The panel, created last year to investigate the John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King murders, had been scheduled to disband Mar. 31. To gain support in this vote it drastically cut its budget and fired its chief counsel.
Rep. Cardiss Collins (D-Ill.), a supporter, said "the myriad questions surrounding the assassinations... are too important and persistent to go unanswered. Public opinion surveys show that the majority of Americans have serious and continuing doubts regarding the sole guilt of James Earl Ray and Lee Harvey Oswald."
Rep. John Ashbrook (R-Ohio), an opponent, said: "The brief history (of the committee) has been a strange comedy of errors. Political pundits have called it the congressional version of the Gong Show... Will anyone really believe what the Assassinations Committee has to say after witnessing these antics?"

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8) voted "yea."
Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Charles Whitley (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Lamar Gudger (D-11) voted "nay."

SECRET SESSION — Defeated, 185 for and 226 against, a motion that the House go into secret session to hear of any new evidence the Assassinations Committee has uncovered to justify its continuation.

Rep. Robert Bauman (R-Md.), the sponsor, said the committee should conduct such a briefing because the full House "has the right to know exactly what it is before it votes to commit $5 million and two years and the prestige of the House." He added, "The committee has thumped along like the Toonerville Trolley, dropping rumors, hints, people, two chairmen and a general counsel, who was sacked this morning with all the aplomb of Kaiser Wilhelm dismissing Chancellor Bismarck."

Rep. Louis Stokes (D-Ohio), the committee chairman, opposed the motion. He said the panel had considered a secret briefing of the entire House, but "after a great deal of deliberation as to the unwieldy aspects of being able to contain highly sensitive materials and communications... decided that it would be too unwieldy a procedure and would in all probability redound against the committee..."

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Hefner, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Whitley, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Gudger voted "nay."

NEW COMMITTEE — Adopted, 211 for and 147 against, a resolution (H Res 420) creating the Select Committee on Congressional Operations to assume some functions of the former Joint Committee on Congressional Operations. The latter panel was abolished in the Senate's recent committee reorganization.

Among its functions, the seven-member House committee will supervise the House job placement office, keep the House informed on relevant court cases, and continually evaluate and make recommendations for improving "the organization and operation of the Congress." It lacks legislative power.

Rep. Robert Giaimo (D-Conn.), a supporter, said the resolution is "not creating a new committee or a duplicate function" but is "simply maintaining, under a different name and under the auspices of the House, an ongoing organization whose work deserves to be continued."

Rep. John Anderson (R-Ill.), an opponent, pointed out that the Senate had just cut its number of committees, and asked: "Does it make any sense for us at the same time to move in the exact opposite direction by contributing to the further fragmentation of jurisdictions and proliferation of select committees..."

Whitley, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted

"nay."
Andrews did not vote.

SENATE

PAY RAISE — Tabled, 53 for and 41 against, an amendment to repeal the pay raise that recently accrued to Members of Congress, federal judges, high-level bureaucrats and certain other federal employees.

The amendment had been proposed to HR 4800, an unemployment benefits bill later passed and sent to conference with the House. This was the Senate's second record vote on the pay hike, both of them bearing indirectly on the issue. The House has not held a record vote.

Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.), a supporter of the move to table, said: "Now, any senator who wants to return his pay can do it. I returned the five per cent increase through last year... but I do not intend to return this increase. I think I am entitled to it. I think the people of West Virginia believe I am worth the pay I am getting... I am not a cut-rate senator."

Sen. Clifford Hansen (R-Wyo.), an opponent of the tabling motion, said that in accepting higher pay senators "failed to recognize and we failed to address the fact that every one of 217 million Americans... are equally plagued by the problems of inflation. And we did not do one thing about that."

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

PAY RAISE — Refused, 30 for and 64 against, to table an amendment requiring record votes on future pay raises for congressmen and certain other federal officials.

Those voting among the 30 expressed opposition to the record vote requirement. After the tabling attempt failed, the language was attached to HR 4800, an unemployment benefits bill later passed and sent to conference with the House.

If the mandatory record vote language survives the conference and other hurdles and becomes law, each house of Congress will have to vote up or down any pay hikes recommended by the Commission on Executive, Judicial and Legislative Salaries. The present procedure is for the Commission's proposals (after any modification by the President) to take effect within 60 days unless either house votes a resolution of disapproval.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), a supporter of the tabling motion, said the amendment was not germane to HR 4800, and added that it was a "conflict of interest" for a Member to vote on his own salary. "I feel qualified to pass on the salaries of others, but I am reluctant to pass on my own," he said.

Sen. Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.), sponsor of the amendment, said: "On virtually every other type of question to come before the Senate, we take a position. But on pay increases for ourselves and others, we do not."

Morgan voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."
ETHICS — Tabled, 53 for and 23 against, an amendment deleting from the new ethics code a prohibition against senators working at certain second jobs for money.

The code (S Res 110), headed for a vote of adoption by the Senate, prevents a senator from working concurrently in his law practice or any other profession he might have.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wisc.), a supporter of the tabling motion, said: "The job of a U.S. senator is a fulltime job, and if one is able to find time to render professional services for his compensation, I seriously question his ability to render the commensurate service necessary to be a fulltime senator."

Sen. Henry Bellmon (R-Okla.), sponsor of the amendment to eliminate the ban, said the prohibition would "turn the Senate into a body of professional politicians." He added that the founding fathers "did not intend that legislators would become members of a fulltime governing class."

Helms voted "nay" and Morgan did not vote.

knowledge that doesn't exist."

He offers these caveats to women who seek knowledge that might assist them in climbing the management ladder:

—Beware of prescriptionists. "The more knowledgeable teacher will be a descriptionist who will diagnose and describe the process of management, leaving it up to individuals to prescribe the solutions."

—Watch out for women — or men — who use women stereotypes. There is an assumption, for example, that women are not as assertive as men. "It's a fallacy; it's not research based," he said.

There is the stereotype also that men focus on the long term and on the career as a whole, while women focus on the present job. Fallacy, says Jennings. Many men don't want mobility either.

"Even if women are according to these stereotypes," he continued, "who is to say that men have the only key to success and should be emulated? There is no research showing a man's way is the better way."

—Self-insight and consciousness raising isn't a magic formula. "It's even debatable as to whether it is useful let alone developmental. Knowing yourself in no way will prepare you to be an effective manager."

It might, he snapped, "make you into a centipede who doesn't know which foot to use first. But what a person needs is substantive information about managing people today."

—Be wary of these credentials:

1. I am a woman, therefore I understand women.
2. I am a man, therefore I understand management.
3. I have been a manager, therefore I know about management.

Women can put an end to this "mumbo jumbo" about asserting oneself, Jennings concluded, simply by saying no and instead insisting on information that is relevant to how to manage.

"Women deserve more than medicine shows dispensing the snake oil of instant success," he said.

Probe Fire Fatal To Boy

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Fayetteville police today were probing a Wednesday fire that killed a 9-year-old boy and severely burned his mother and two sisters.

Police Chief Danny Dixon said his men were questioning Ervin Lee McKinnon, who lived with the family in the house that was burned. McKinnon was found lying outside the house when firemen arrived early Wednesday.

The chief also said there was "some type of argument" before the fire and added that a container of gasoline had been found inside the house, which suffered only slight damage.

The dead youth was Shawn McDonald. His mother, Mrs. Margaret McDonald, 38, and sisters Llewlyn, 11, and Candice, 7, were still in critical condition. The mother was taken to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill. The girls were flown to a Cincinnati, Ohio, burn center.

Dixon said McKinnon, 32, told police the gasoline inside was for a lawnmower.

Where Do You Stand, North Carolinians, on Human Rights?

REPORT FROM
U.S. Senator
JESSE ★★
HELMS

WASHINGTON—I strongly disagree with those who are criticizing President Carter for his stand on human rights. I am proud of the President for being willing to speak out, and I have told him so. Some have expressed concern that Mr. Carter may have offended the communists of the Soviet Union. Indeed, there have been suggestions that the President's stand on human rights caused the first breakdown in the SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) talks. Maybe so—in both cases. But if we have reached the point that our President must timidly keep silent on a matter of principle for fear of offending the communists, then something is badly wrong with our nation's priorities. If America can't stand up for human freedom, who will?

TYRANNY—This was the question put to me a couple of years ago when Alexander Solzhenitsyn visited my home during his first visit to the United States. This great man, a Nobel Prize winner, described in detail the cruel treatment suffered by countless thousands of people in the Soviet Union. Solzhenitsyn himself almost lost his life because he dared to challenge the activities of the communist tyrants in his homeland. During the past four years, I have listened to the stories of a steady stream of people who know the agonies of tyranny. Citizens of Cuba, who were forced to flee their homeland, have visited with me. Their eyes glistening with tears, they described the wholesale torture and death suffered under the Castro regime. The same atrocities occur everywhere that communism is in control—Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand, Hungary, Red China. Can anyone seriously suggest that the United States sit back, and pretend that we don't know—or, worse, that we don't care?

SALT TALKS—I simply do not believe that President Carter's stand on human rights had any effect whatsoever on the so-called SALT talks. The communists are stalling—as they always do at the negotiating table. The Soviets have never been willing to do a real strategic arms limitation agreement. They insist that we limit our arms, but they clearly have not been willing to limit theirs. Nor have they been willing to submit to a meaningful inspection of their build-up of such weapons. What they demanded in the first SALT talks a few years ago was a one-way street. And to an appalling degree, they got what they wanted. The United States has engaged in what amounts to unilateral disarmament, while the Soviet Union continued to increase its missile strength.

CARTER—I am assuming, of course, that President Carter's stand on human rights is applicable across the board—to all countries that inflict tyranny upon human beings. I accept in good faith the President's statements to this effect, and I commend him. It goes without saying, however, that the President must exercise great care that he take his position on the basis of truth. I would hope, for example, that he will personally visit Latin America, specifically those countries which have overthrown communism, so that he can learn first-hand the problems with communist terrorists there. The President is absolutely right in his stand on human rights. Alexander Solzhenitsyn, sitting in my home one evening, looked at me with those penetrating eyes, and said: "Senator, cannot you people understand what is going on? Cannot they realize that only the United States can offer hope to oppressed people around the world?" That is the kind of questions to which I believe the President is now addressing himself. I respect him for it.

Mr. Carter and I belong to different political parties. We may disagree, from time to time. But not on human rights. As long as he speaks out, across the board, against cruel, bloody oppression—wherever it exists—he will have my support and admiration.

When Jimmy Carter spoke out on Human Rights, Jesse and 57 other U.S. Senators commended the President's stand —

Dear Mr. President:

In the three months that you have been in office, you have expressed a strong commitment to the ideals of human rights and individual freedom. While this concern is not new for our Nation, its eloquent expression by your Administration serves as further evidence to foreign governments and to the American people that our nation's concern for human rights is not less valid or strong today than it was 200 years ago...

American leadership in the field of human rights will be welcomed both by our own citizens and overwhelmingly by the peoples of the world. We support your efforts to tell the nations of the world that American foreign policy will continue to be dedicated to the cause of freedom.

Sincerely,

Alan Cranston
