Steelworkers Union Accepts Three-Year Contract

By SARA FRITZ WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Steelworkers Union accepted a new three-year contract offer from the nation's big 10 steelmakers Saturday despite sizeable opposition that embarrassed retiring union president I.W. Abel. The contract was ratified in a 193-to-99 roll call vote of local union presidents in the basic steel industry, reversing an earlier rejection vote of 148 to 143. The initial rejection reflected anti-Abel sentiment generated by dissident leader Ed Sadlowski. But Lloyd McBride, who defeated Sadlowski in a recent election as Abel's successor, insisted the union had won a good contract — including large strides toward Abel's dream of "lifetime job security." McBride, who has always been loyal to Abel, proudly boasted that janitors in steel mills will be earning more than $12,000 in the first year of the contract. "It's a good contract," he said. The pact included an 80-cent-an-hour wage increase in six increments, an improved pension formula, eye care insur-ce, larger layoff payments and a package of new benefits for workers forced off the job after 20 years service. The key element in the new income security plan was a $300-a-month bonus for workers who take their pensions when they are forced off the job. Steelworkers currently average about $8.00 per hour including overtime, but the median hourly pay is about $5.50 without incentive and overtime bonuses. Opposition to the contract was based on resentment to a no-strike agreement under which the two sides have been negotiating. Dissidents insisted the initial rejection was a rebuff of Abel's policies, which McBride is expected to continue when he assumes the top union office next June. The contract calls for establishment of a union-management task force to determine what steps can be taken in the future to improve job security and income guarantees — all of them directed at the ultimate goal of lifetime job security. The new security guarantees apply only to workers with 20 years on the job. They include an extension from one to two years of the money which workers continue to receive from the company after they are laid off, a similar extension of sickness and accident benefits and insurance and a $300 bonus for those who take their pension upon layoff prior to the age of 62 when they also would be eligible for Social Security. Other provisions in the pact include: — Twice-a-year wage increments over the next three years amounting to 40 cents an hour in the first year, and 20 cents an hour in each of the next two years. — Monthly pension payments will be increased by $2.50 over the life of the contract for every year of service the worker spent in the mill. Workers may retire with pension after 20 years service with any combination of age and service totalling 65 years. — Layoff pay will be increased from $100 to $125 a week for any person receiving government unemployment compensation, and from $135 to $170 for those with no other compensation.

Hunt Reaffirms Support

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. has reaffirmed his support for Dr. David H. Bruton to head the state Board of Education, even though the interim chairman, Lt. Gov. James C. Green, says he'd continue to serve if elected. Green was selected by the board Thursday to complete the term vacated by former chairman Dallas Herring, who was not nominated by Hunt for another term. The board will vote for a permanent chairman in June.

County Homes Near Extinction

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — County homes, set up by communities to care for the elderly, are nearing extinction, according to one state official. William Nelson, director of group care facilities for the state Division of Facilities Service said only four — Wake, Alamance, Beaufort and Martin counties — continue to operate county homes.

No Challenge To 400 Untested Teachers

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — State education officials say they plan no challenge of 400 teachers who were certified without taking the National Teachers Examination. A federal court ruled recently that prospective teachers must take the test in compliance with a state law that had been challenged. However, J. Arthur Taylor, director of the certification section of the state Department of Public Instruction, said Friday the 400 teachers were never required to take the test because the department had no interpretation from the North Carolina Department of Justice on the federal court's ruling. Taylor said there could be some legal questions raised about the 400 teachers, but he said it was not clear who would present the challenge. He said his department planned to take no action. Friday — more than two months after the judge's ruling — the attorney general's office told the state Board of Education that the order restores the state's teacher accreditation law. The attorney general's office did not explain why there was a 69-day delay in the interpretation of the ruling. One board member, who asked not to be identified, said an official from the attorney general's office suggested that no action be taken on the 400

Peres Is Candidate

By OHAD GOZANI TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Defense Minister Shimon Peres, who said he was ready to seek peace with the Arab states, emerged Saturday as the ruling Labor party's candidate for prime minister. Foreign Minister Yigal Allon quit the race for the nomination in the name of party unity. But party sources said Peres and Allon were having difficulties in working out their deal. First reports said Peres — in a meeting with Allon in the prime minister's office in the tightly-guarded defense ministry complex in the heart of the city — had agreed to make Allon defense minister in a new cabinet. The sources said the difficulties arose because Allon demanded that he also retain the post of deputy prime minister in a Peres-led government, a pledge Peres was reluctant to make. Another meeting between the two leaders was set for today. Peres replaces Yitzhak Rabin, 55, who resigned as party leader Thursday in a climax to a Watergate-like scandal which threatened to end Labor's domination of the Israeli government since the Jewish state was founded in 1948. The defense minister immediately sought to allay U.S. fears that he would take a hardline stance on American initiatives for a new Arab-Israeli peace agreement and thus destroy any hopes of a settlement. "I maintain that we must press on with the diplomatic momentum and strive for a reconvening of the Geneva conference in the second half of 1977," Peres said in a radio interview. Allon will get the No. 2 spot — head of the defense ministry — as part of the deal, party sources said. He was commander of the Palmach forces in the 1948 war and long has coveted the post of defense minister. Former Foreign Minister Abba Eban, Israel's erudite politician was expected to be chosen for his old post in a new Peres administration.

To Meet With Castro

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern said Saturday high Cuban officials had promised that President Fidel Castro will meet with him sometime this weekend to discuss normalizing relations between Havana and Washington. McGovern, South Dakota Democrat, went to Cuba nearly a week ago with a team of basketball players from South Dakota. Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., also made the trip. Abourezk and the basketball squad, soundly defeated twice by an all-star Cuban team, returned to the United States Friday. But McGovern and Aspin remained behind to meet Castro.

The Day Christ Died
The Earth Trembled As The Son Of Man Died

Jesus dead on the cross between two thieves while his mother Mary and other faithful followers mourn before taking the body for burial in the sepulcher.

By JIM BISHOP (The last in a series of eight) 2 p.m., April 7, A.D. 30

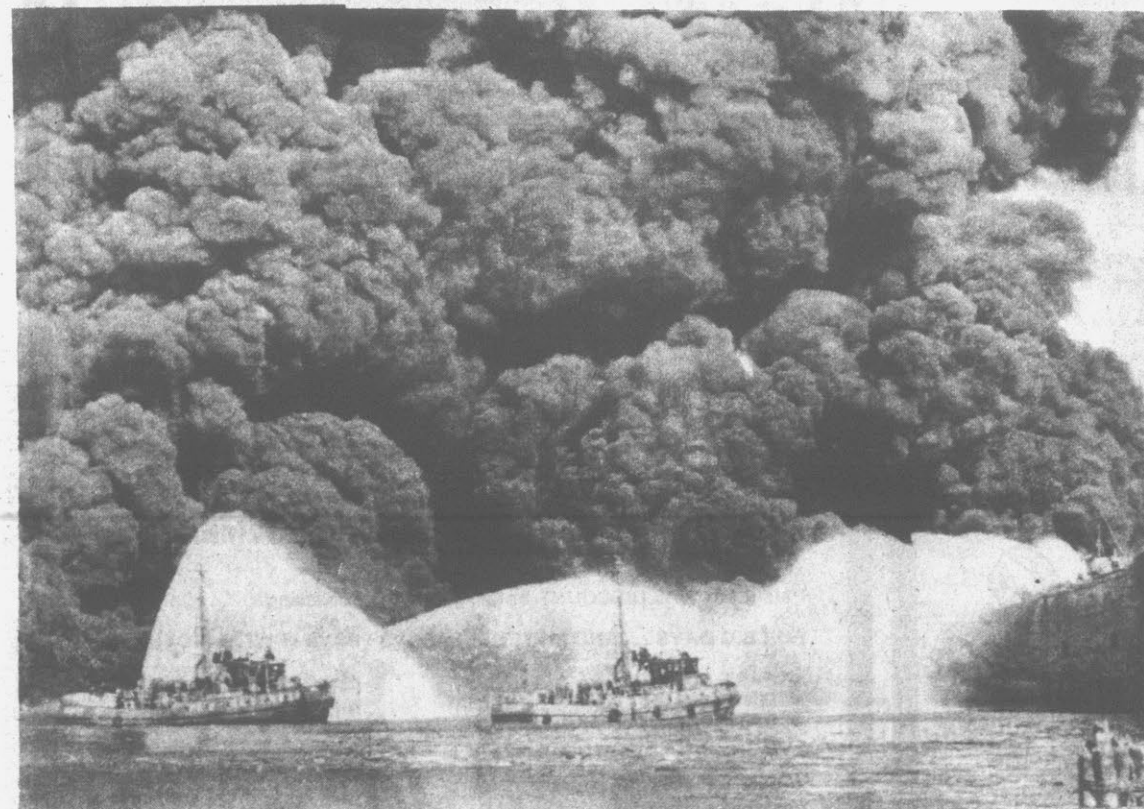

Jesus began His final hour on the cross. The cluster of people around Golgotha was composed of hardly more than the few who loved Him and the few who despised Him. From the cross Jesus looked at the little party of loved ones who stood only twenty-five feet away. Young John's arm was around the Mother of Jesus in protection. On the other side of Mary was the "sister" of the Blessed Mother. There too was Mary Magdalene, whom Jesus had once delivered of seven devils, and she stood beside the faithful Salome.

The Messiah nodded from His cross to John. The Apostle saw the sign through tear-dimmed eyes, and did not know whether to go forward alone, or to bring the Mother of the Messiah with him. After a whispered conversation with the women, he decided to step forward with Mary. The soldiers saw them approach and two got to their feet with spears, but the centurion ordered them not to seek trouble. Mary and John walked up on the rock slowly until they stood almost in front of Jesus. What they saw caused Mary to sob and lower her head. Jesus did not want to excite their pity. He had a message for both of them. He drew Himself up on the cross, so that He could speak. He clenched His teeth against the pain until His knees were straight again and He could breathe. Then, in an economy of words, He said: "Mother, behold your son." And Mary looked at John. Jesus looked steadily at John, and said: "Son, behold your Mother." John the Apostle fastened his arm around Mary a little tighter. He looked up into the eyes of his Messiah and nodded. He understood. They turned and walked back to the others. This was a tragic moment for the Son of Man. He watched the back of His Mother. As she retreated from Him, the eyes of Jesus misted and the pain of dying faded, for a moment, in the face of a greater ache. The minutes moved on. The high priests were worried. The water clocks were nearing the ninth hour and it was not seemly that Jesus and the robbers should continue to struggle. The priests did not want to appear to be callous about the matter of time, but, in a little more than three hours the Sabbath would be upon all. So, after some discussion, they sent a messenger hurrying back into the city to ask Pontius Pilate to order the centurion to dispatch these three, so that they might be interred before sundown. The Galilee was close to death. The dusk deepened and Jesus felt the chill shock of the imminence of death. He struggled valiantly for another breath and pulled Himself up on His wrists to stop His vision of the world from fading. When He reached the top, He panted and looked again at the world of men. "Eli Eli!" He cried. "Lama sabachthani!" ("My God, My God! Why hast Thou forsaken Me?") The voice was so loud that some of the spectators thought that He had called Elias, the prophet. Full consciousness returned, and He looked around Him. The world before Him was clear. He saw the anguish of His friends. He saw the triumph of the priests. "I thirst!" Jesus said. The words made a mockery of hollow sound on the little hill. Who could help Him? He was there to die, not to drink. Behind Him, a soldier heard the words: He stirred and stood and looked up at the dark sky. He picked up his spear and stabbed it into a sponge, then dipped it into a jar of posca. This was the ordinary drink of the legionaries, and was made of sour wine, water, and beaten eggs. The dripping sponge on the spear was lifted up to the lips of the Messiah. He uttered a loud cry but He did not drink. The vinegar mixture glistened on His cracked lips and rolled down off His beard. The soldier shrugged. He flicked the sponge from the spear and sat down behind the cross.  3 p.m., April 7, A.D. 30

Now, at the end, Jesus again pulled Himself up to the top of His cross. Again He spoke. "Father," He cried, "into your hands I commit My spirit!" From Jesus' lungs came a final cry: "It is finished!" The body sagged on the cross. Jesus willed Himself to die. A sound went through the air as though a herd of animals had stampeded underground. A fresh breeze expelled its brief breath on the wild flowers. The earth trembled and a small crack fissured the earth from the west toward the east and split the big rock of execution and went across the road and through the gate of Jerusalem and across the town and through the temple, and it split the big inner veil of the temple from the top to the bottom and went on east and rocked the big wall and split the tombs in the cemetery outside the walls and shook the Cedron and went on to the Dead Sea, leaving fissures in the earth, the rocks and across the mountains. Abenadar and some of the soldiers jumped to their feet in alarm. They came to the front of the cross and looked at Him and at the darkened sky and the crack across the big rock. The centurion bowed his head. "Assuredly," he said to the

Three Dead In Bank Robbery

KODAK, Tenn. (UPI) — Three persons were slain and another critically wounded Easter Saturday by bank bandits who apparently lined up their victims and shot them in the back of the head.

Authorities issued an all-points bulletin for two men driving a black and white Cadillac with North Carolina license plates.

One of those killed in the holdup was Sevier County Magistrate Earl G. Underwood. He was a customer at the little branch of the Citizens National bank, which was operated out of a trailer in this small community just east of Knoxville.

Also killed were Kyle Beeler, manager of bank, and an employee, Linda Sims Davis.

Harriet Swaggerty, also a bank employee, was in critical condition at Knoxville hospital.

The exact amount of money taken was not immediately determined, but police said the branch seldom had more than $6,000 on hand on weekends.

There apparently were no witnesses to the shootings, but area residents said two "out-towners" were seen at a restaurant earlier in the day. It was on the basis of this information that the all-points

Two Planes Collide

READING, Pa. (UPI) — Two small planes collided in flight and fell to the ground in smoke and flames near a hospital Saturday, killing an undetermined number of occupants.

An eyewitness said the aircraft crashed on a mountain-side on the property of the 80-bed Reading Rehabilitation Hospital.

Unconfirmed reports indicated as many as five were killed. "It blew up in a lot of smoke," said Ricky Roman, 24, an employee of the hospital, who saw one of the planes crash.

"I saw it as I was driving down the road to work. The plane just floated down to earth," he said.

"The plane is in pieces spread out over quite a distance on the property," he said. "You can smell the oil and gas."

Roman said witnesses told him there were two dead and possibly more.

Police gave no casualty estimates. Personnel at the emergency room of Reading Hospital said they were waiting for victims. One source said, "It is not a major disaster."

"We don't know how many were killed," said Trooper Daniel Murray of the Pennsylvania State Police.

Irwin Goldstein, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said it was possible one of the planes might have been a military transport plane. He said the report was not confirmed.

Goldstein said one of the planes was a single engine and the other was a twin-engine. FAA investigators were dispatched to the scene.

About 175,000 At Fiddlers Convention

UNION GROVE, N.C. (UPI) — About 175,000 persons crowded into J. Pierce Van Hoy's 70-acre cow pasture Saturday for 53rd annual world fiddling championship.

Hucksters set up stalls along an improvised midway and Van Hoy, the promoter of the event, boasted "you can buy anything from New England syrup to Georgia peanuts."

The weatherman cooperated by providing a beautiful spring day for the bluegrass music fans, who began gathering for the event as early as last Thursday.

Van Hoy closed the arena promptly at 12:30 a.m. Saturday morning, but the fiddlers and other musicians continued to play by the light of campfires. Will Oppose New Trial

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Barring the revelation of dramatic new evidence, the state attorney general's office will oppose a new trial and bail for the Wilmington 10, Deputy Atty. Gen. Andrew A. Vanore said Friday.

Vanore said state officials decided nine members of the group still imprisoned were not entitled to a new trial. "Unless something comes up we are not aware of — and we certainly don't expect that — the state will definitely oppose the granting of a new trial," Vanore said.

More Tremors In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The Geophysics Center said Saturday it had recorded some 50 aftershocks since early Thursday in the area of Iran's latest series of earthquakes and more could be expected "in the near future."

The agency said it recorded a shock measuring 4.5 on the Richter scale on near the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Abbas Friday night.

The death toll from the quakes that struck Wednesday and early Thursday was 352.

The tremor Wednesday was accompanied by heavy rains causing landslides and flooding throughout the livestock-raising region. Many villages were severed from the outside world and their dead remained uncounted.

Warns Of More Scandals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has warned shareholders that a federal grand jury inquiry could reveal more bribery scandals which could "significantly impair" its ability to get future orders and otherwise damage its financial condition.

In its 1976 annual report, the aerospace company disclosed that it is under investigation by a grand jury in Washington, D.C. Employees and former employees of the company have been subpoenaed to testify, it said.

Ends 'Happy Hour'

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army says "Happy hour" will no longer mean cut-rate drinks for soldiers visiting servicemen's clubs operated by the army in Europe.

The European command, in an effort to stem alcohol abuse among servicemen, has ordered an end to the long-established practice of reducing prices on alcoholic beverages for an hour or two in the afternoon or early evening, an Army spokesman said Friday.

Mail Opening Rules Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA and other agencies would be prohibited from covertly opening citizens' mail without a court warrant under proposed new Postal Service rules.

The detailed regulations, which define exactly when it is permissible to detain or open mail, were published Friday in the Federal Register.

"There is no statutory authority for such mail interception or opening program," the five-page notice said, referring to interception or opening of mail by government intelligence organizations.

Spain Legalizes Communist Party

By ARTHUR HERMAN

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The Spanish government Saturday legalized the Communist Party after a 38-year ban, the Interior Ministry announced.

"The Communist party has been enrolled today in the official register of political parties," Enrique Santin, the chief of staff of the ministry, told UPI.

The party was outlawed by the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco after the end of the 1936-1939 Spanish civil war.

Members of the party executive committee including economist Ramon Tamames and Armando Lopez Salinas went to Communist headquarters in downtown Madrid for a celebration and picture taking session.

"The news gives me the same satisfaction that millions of workers and democrats are going to feel," said Communist party chief Santiago Carrillo.

Carrillo gave the reaction in a telephone interview from Paris where he was said to be visiting a sick relative.

At 10 p.m. (3 p.m. EST) Spanish television news led off with a flash on the legalization of the party.

Recall

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court is being asked to order an immediate recall of children's sleepwear treated with Tris, a chemical that retards fire but is linked to cancer.

The Environmental Defense Fund requested the recall Friday a day after the Consumer Product Safety Commission banned further production and sale of children's garments treated with Tris.

The court was asked to declare the garments "hazardous substances" and order them recalled with refunds to consumers.

Rent-A-Duck

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (UPI) — Dozens of Peninsula youngsters will have fuzzy ducklings to cuddle this Easter — not from the Easter Bunny, but from Rent-A-Duck.

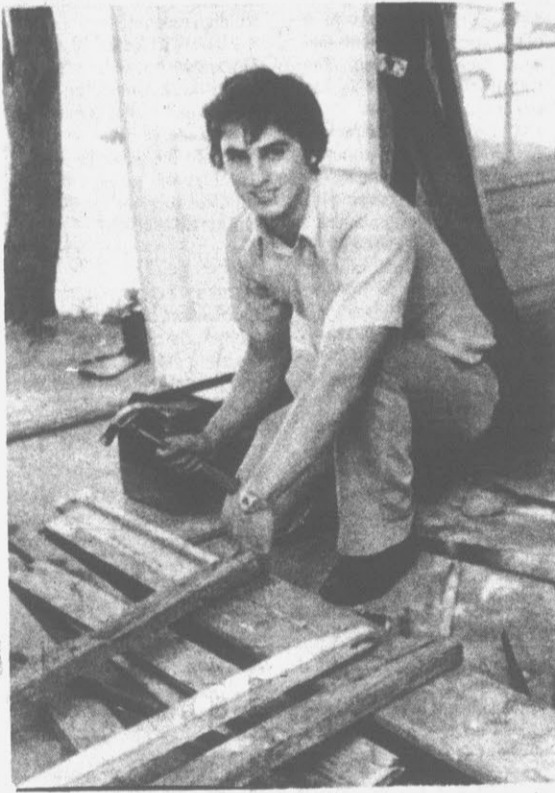

The Peninsula Nature and Science Center is offering the ducklings for a five-week period to the best adoptive parents around — children.

Wide-eyed youngsters recently lined up inside the center to get first choice at the fuzzy creatures.

Big Impact On Area's Traffic

Two highway projects got favorable action by the N. C. Board of Transportation this week. Both will have an important effect on area traffic.

One was the awarding of contracts for road improvements on N. C. 43, the Stantonsburg Road and the Nursing Home Road.

A $1.3 million contract was awarded for this project which will provide a five lane road pattern around the new Pitt Memorial Hospital medical complex.

This work will get under way shortly and is expected to be completed by June, 1978. The project should be of great help in moving the traffic which is sure to build up in this medical area.

We can expect to see an immediate increase in traffic when the hospital opens later this month. As the ECU medical school opens in the fall, the traffic will continue to increase.

Another project approved by the Board of Transportation isn't even in Pitt County; nevertheless it is very important to our area. The board approved the construction of an additional two traffic lanes on the freeway currently being constructed from Zebulon to I-95 near Wilson. The U. S. 264 project is already under construction as a freeway, but only two travel lanes were authorized during the Holsouser administration. The $3.7 million allocated this week will complete the project and provide a U.S. 264 freeway from I-95 to and around Zebulon.

The freeway will, of course, make the trip to Raleigh and points west far easier for motorists in our area. Equally important it strengthens the argument for extending the freeway from Wilson to Greenville, a project that we consider critically needed, and completion of the dual laning of U. S. 264 from Greenville to Washington.

Millions Share Joys Of Resurrection

He is Risen has great meaning throughout the Christian world on this Easter.

Those three words gave to a small band of followers in the time of Jesus the promise of life after death.

Non-believers of the time thought that the message would be lost and the crucified Messiah would soon be forgotten.

Instead Christianity spread throughout the world and, even in this time when all faiths are being tested, the joy of the resurrection is felt by hundreds of millions of worshippers on this Easter Sunday.

For Christians it is a time of renewal.

THIS AFTERNOON Government Jobs Grow

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Jobs in government — federal, state, and local — continue to set the pace in employment growth in North Carolina according to latest figures available from the North Carolina Employment Security Commission.

Total governmental employment now stands at more than 334,000; from a total work force of 2.2 million in all jobs from agriculture to the professions.

The employment report for January, 1977, makes a point of noting that "Several industries showed substantial increases over a year ago. For example, government rose by 8,400 (up 2.6 per cent) ..."

Government, in fact, showed the most growth of all other categories.

per cent during 1976. In state government, education in both public schools and higher education set the pace for growth. Total state employment over the year is up 3.2 per cent, and in education the growth rate is 4.8 per cent. Total state employment is about 153,000.

Local government employed 183,300 for a 3.2 per cent growth during 1976, and locally employed educators make up much of that total (108,900). Employment in education was up 2.5 per cent.

Just for comparison, there are almost as many people working in government as there are in all trade activities in the state — wholesale, retail, food stores, etc. The trade category occupies 358,500 people.

Banks, insurance, real estate and other finance employs 83,100 people. All service occupations (hotels, laundries, restaurants, etc.) employ 264,900. All manufacturing — the backbone of the state's economy — employs 731,000 people;

THE INSIDE REPORT Turning Cordial To Israel

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The strongest signal that the Soviet Union is trying to revive its bankrupt Mideast policy by warming up to Israel was flashed during the recent Moscow visit of Iraqi strongman Saddam Hussein.

The Russians softly but persistently urged Hussein that the time had come for Iraq to leave the "rejectionist front" of militant Arabs that proclaims Israel cannot be allowed to live. That the Russians failed does not alter the significance of what the Kremlin is trying to do.

That is withdrawal from unflinching support of the Arabs and making the most cordial Soviet-Israeli contacts since the six-day war of 1967. It is too early to say whether this will extend, as some believe, to Soviet liberalization of Jewish emigration. Nevertheless, the Kremlin's intent is clear: to assume a more "even-handed" role and rival the U.S. as a Mideast peacemaker.

Tentative approaches to Israel have become common, both here (in regular private contacts between the Israeli and Soviet embassies) and in Western Europe. But no actual move to restore diplomatic relations is likely until Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) have made concessions leading to some form of Palestinian state on the West Bank.

Even without diplomatic relations, however, Moscow intends to use its political move toward Israel as a passport to equality with the U.S. at this autumn's Mideast peace conference in Geneva. In the past, Henry Kissinger's Mideast plan ruled out any Soviet intrusion at Geneva beyond its title of "co-chairman" for the peace talks. Now, with Moscow moving toward a more even-handed position, it will be harder to ostracize the Russians.

Some well-informed Jewish leaders here believe that Moscow is alarmed by growing Jewish dissidence, at home and may soon make a dramatic move to ease Jewish emigration. That would enhance Soviet prestige inside Israel and among the Western Jewish community, moving Moscow partway into the role played by the U.S. — the peace broker able to talk to both sides.

Besides the conversation with Iraq's Hussein, Moscow is giving other public signals. Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev is talking about the "staged" withdrawal of Israel from Arab and Egyptian lands it seized in 1967 — precisely what President Carter is saying but Soviet heresy not long ago.

Strength For Today

CHRISTIANS CAN TAKE IT

Christians have often been ridiculed. Some years ago a papyrus was found in Rome upon which was rude drawing of a jackass nailed to a cross. Beneath the picture, written in Latin by some scoffing unbeliever of the first century, were the words, "Alexander worships this God."

And there is the story of how during this same century an unbelieving Roman said to a humble Christian, "So you worship the carpenter of Nazareth, do you? Well, if he is a carpenter, what do you suppose he is doing now?" To which the Christian replied, "he is making a coffin for your emperor."

Christians can afford to be laughed at, then and now, because they know that eternity is on their side. Having ears, they hear; having eyes, they see. The scoffer goes down at last into the dust and all the things he loves become as ashes. But the God of the believer is from everlasting to everlasting, and his truth endureth forever.

G. C. Chapman, a former Daily Reflector newsman, spent several years with a newspaper in Vermont and has recently joined The Beaufort Hyde-News as editor.

We called Chapman recently and it was a few minutes before he got to the phone.

"I was outside scraping off that wig sign," he explained. "Wig sign?" we asked.

He explained that a sign had been on the window of the newspaper office signifying that it was a wig shop.

Chapman decided it was time to scrape it off and get a new one put on denoting the fact that it was a newspaper office.

They Export Music

By KENNETH WHITING
Associated Press Writer
SINGAPORE (AP) — Three musicians playing their way through the busy dining room of a hotel stopped at a table occupied by four Americans.

"Hey, you're the same trio that sang for us last week in Hong Kong," one tourist exclaimed.

"Sure, we were in Hong Kong last week," the lead guitar acknowledged.

"Where do you come from?"

"The Philippines," said the man with the bass.

"Going to Manila next?"

"No. Next are Kuala Lumpur and then Jakarta."

The tourists had encountered one of the Philippines' remarkable musical exports: strolling players.

Rivals in Singapore, Bangkok and elsewhere in Asia may resent it, but Filipino entertainers are acknowledged masters of this specialty.

Nor are they a recent development based on chains of new hotels and international tourism. Old records indicate that the white Rajahs of colonial Sarawak, now a province of Malaysia, enjoyed "musical selections played by a Filipino band at Sunday concerts."

Old or new, the Musicians Union of Singapore called on the government earlier this

Other Editors Say Fight Poor Odds

(The Raleigh Times)

One recent week two Raleigh-Wake motorcyclists lost their lives and a third lost a leg, all in accidents with cars. Though all three had their helmets on (one without the chinstrap fastened), all three suffered broken skulls.

Other circumstances, including "fault," varied. One cyclist, before he died, had been drinking after the anti-helmet motorcycle rally here. Another, on 401 South, hit a car that was crossing the highway. Police said neither driver had been driving poorly. The third involved a cycle that apparently pulled out in front of a car in Oakwood—in the dark.

The common thread, besides helmets, among these three tragedies was that all involved cars. All three obviously prove again that the outcome is all too certain in any contest between a few hundred pounds of motorcycle and flesh and a ton or two of auto. And all involved young cyclists, whose judgment may have suffered from inexperience.

But the three accidents also convey that both motorcyclists and bicyclists have truth on their side when they claim that automobile drivers often ignore them—not deliberately, but simply because a cycle is not perceived as a full-fledged other vehicle, to be treated with the same caution as another car.

Maybe this is because, unconsciously and instinctively, car drivers know their own safety isn't likely to be at risk if their car hits a cycle. It may be just that a cycle doesn't loom as bulky in view. Whatever the reason, it's a disadvantage difficult to combat.

One bicyclist we've heard of has found a way to counter the psychological "invisibility" of his bike. He has installed a truck-volume air horn on it. And he vows the horn, by blasting cardrivers out of their wits when an accident impended, has saved his life more than once.

No horn can remedy the human frailties of careless driving or mixing drinking and driving. And blaring horns adding to contemporary traffic din are undesirable per se. But they can be tolerated if they help make the cyclist's presence known amidst today's thundering herds of cars.

Re-Raising Fears Of Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If you listen closely, and perhaps use your imagination a bit, you can hear it out there in the darkness, that dreaded thing, a banshee foretelling doom. It is double-digit inflation.

Executives of big business turn rigid at the sound, listening, watching. They are convinced it will move in closer to their corporate campground, and it will take an avalanche of contrary evidence to disabuse them of the notion.

That wholesale prices rose at a double-digit rate — 13.2 per cent annually — in March provides documentation for their fears, even if the Carter administration people maintain that the underlying inflation rate is less than half that.

So far, President Carter seems unable to convince business that such a rate is temporary, and that he intends to stay clear of a long relationship with fiscal evil. They listen to him, they listen to his treasury secretary and his chief economic adviser. But they doubt.

Talks with various top executives reveal the suspicion. An unbalanced budget, a fiscally liberal Congress, social programs, even trade protectionism are mentioned as the seeds of destructive inflation, to be followed by some sort of wage-price controls.

That the President's spokesmen time after time insist that controls aren't part of his program doesn't seem to count. Circumstance might force his hand, they say. Didn't a Republican, Richard Nixon, impose controls?

The stock market, once thought of as a general economic forecaster but, now that it is institutionalized, more a reflection of the thinking of big money, is most noticeably affected by the thinking. It is frightened, the strong economy notwithstanding.

The mood of foreboding stands out clearly because of the background against which it is displayed. Business is good, having recovered swiftly from the little ice age. And most future indicators are strong also.

But the mood blankets such considerations. Merrill Lynch Economics begins a 48-page "Business Outlook" with the words: "Both Congress and the Administration are continuing to display a relaxed, and worrisome, attitude with regard to inflation."

The fear also seems to be inconsistent.

The very executives who fear for the future of the economy are also showing signs of committing themselves to higher capital spending after a lag of many months.

And while one publication of a large bank expresses confidence that the recent acceleration of the Consumer Price Index "is a short-lived blip," another worries that the rate could continue into 1978.

What joins all these views is a deep concern. Inflation is a villain from almost every point of view, and its mere presence in the vicinity is a reason for continuing worry.

Like early man huddled around the campfire at night, everyone knows that something is rustling out there in the darkness, maybe getting closer, and their memories of what that something can do are too recent and painful to ignore.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Advantages In Small Towns

Fear of small town competition by people in big urban areas of the South may be more real than a few have imagined. The recent recommendation by a Chapel Hill researcher that North Carolina should encourage industrial expansion in the big cities rather than in the small places may have had more behind it than meets the eye.

The trend of retail sales in North Carolina likely is duplicated in other states of the Southeast, at least to some extent. In many instances retail sales figures indicate economic growth has been faster in some of the smaller counties than in counties containing the big cities. Sales figures for Scotland County present a good example.

Industrial representatives who scout for new locations repeatedly say that low labor costs are by no means the only reason they are lured to rural Carolina instead of urban Carolina. It's the openness, the fresh air and lack of congestion, the availability of most of the services one gets in larger places, the advantages in recreation and the more congenial atmosphere among the people.

Indeed urban centers such as Charlotte, Greensboro, Greensboro, Greenville and Atlanta have reason to be concerned over the development of the rural Southeast. Many cities of the North have proved that urban areas can and do get too sure of themselves and too complex for their own good. Despite all their built-in propaganda mechanisms, they can become unattractive when stacked up against some of the smaller places not far from them. — The Laurinburg Exchange

Clear 'Em Out

North Carolina's most ambitious downtown mall program is taking final shape in Raleigh. Where steady streams of automobiles once made their traffic-snarled way from the Capitol to Memorial Auditorium on Fayetteville Street, now only foot traffic will go.

One cafe owner thought he'd do his part to make the new mall interesting and attractive in a relaxed atmosphere. He outfitted a colorful pushcart, labeled it a "weenie wagon," and sent his daughter off with it to offer hotdogs to the park bench crowd.

The idea was thwarted. Vendors and peddlers are banned by city ordinance from the mall. Peanut stands, flower sellers — and weenie wagons — are okay on other streets, but not in the mall. Guess they want to keep it antiseptic. The Winston-Salem Sentinel, having watched that city's downtown mall become free of everything, including people, offers a neighborly warning: "Without something to attract people — street theater, peddlers, art, sculpture, comfortable seats, SOMETHING — these projects quickly become wastelands inhabited only by pigeons and wins." — The High Point Enterprise

The Dogwood

It's at this time of year especially that most Tar Heels applaud the selection by the Legislature of the dogwood as the official State flower.

In our mind, there couldn't be a better choice, and the Sandhills is blessed with a profusion of dogwood — the white blossoms everywhere being a delight to the eye and a solace to the soul.

And when one catches a vision of the red cardinal — the State's official bird — perched among the flowering dogwood (as we did a day or so ago) then he is doubly blessed with the beauty of our land. — The Pilot (Southern Pines) (3-30-77)

Through its efforts, the union said, foreign groups can remain here no longer than six months and a local group has to be engaged whenever a foreign group is employed.

Top singer Carman Patena says she and other Filipinos "understand the complaints against us by some local entertainers in the other cities." The demand continues, however.

A top executive at a hotel here said, "Filipinos seem more extroverted, more eager to please than many local entertainers (Singapore is more than 70 per cent Chinese) who may be as technically adept. Also, Filipino groups have been at it a lot longer."

A check in Manila indicated 3,500 to 4,000 singers and musicians are out of the country each year performing as far afield as North and South America, Japan, Iran, Australia and New Zealand.

Eleuterio Gardner, president of the Philippine Entertainers, Exporters and Promoters Association, says, "Our people are very versatile. That is why they are preferred abroad. They can easily adapt from one style to another and they are easy to get along with."

Carter's 50-Dollar Rebate Plan Is In Trouble

This is today's argument: First, that in promoting a healthy economy, a restoration of confidence is the most important goal. Second, that Mr. Carter's $50 rebate plan won't achieve that aim. Third, that a permanent tax cut probably would.

These Republican arguments, advanced by Jack Kemp of New York in the House and by Bill Roth of Delaware in the Senate. They are urging a tax cut across-the-board for both individuals and corporations, and if it weren't for the political situation, their advocacy would prevail. The approach makes sense.

The President's costly rebate plan is in trouble. No one in either chamber — virtually no one — has any keen enthusiasm for it. The plan survived in the Senate Finance Committee by a single vote, and if it had not been for some misguided partisan loyalty, the plan would not have survived at all. The Democrats' feeble thinking is that what Jimmy wants, Jimmy ought to get. Therefore they will go along with the rebates, but they will hate themselves in the morning.

The curious thing is that spokesmen on both sides of the aisle share the same conviction: A stable, healthy recovery must depend primarily upon the creation of jobs in the private sector. The rebates will contribute little or nothing toward that end. Neither will the elaborate programs of government employment have a lasting effect. Mr. Carter's mild incentives for private industry are seen as too mild to do much good. As a package, the administration's Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977 is a flimsy product — as worthless as a plastic Christmas toy that falls apart by New Year's Day.

Kemp and Roth are pleading for something better. The two Republicans want a permanent tax cut, benefiting taxpayers in every bracket. This would put spendable money in the pockets of wage earners everywhere. Their approach would permit the marketplace to plan for the long range. They feel strongly that only the bold stroke of permanent tax relief will stimulate the capital investment that means jobs without the risk of inflation.

That mystical thing called confidence is the key. It is the finest medicine ever contrived for economic ills. In the ordinary household it stimulates demand; in the business community it promotes the taking of risks. One has only to glance at the stock market to comprehend that levels of confidence are low. Dr. Carter's Vegetable Compound is a kind of quack concoction that — hic — can achieve no lasting good.

The objections to the Kemp-Roth plan are largely if not wholly political. It is first of all a Republican plan. An overwhelmingly Democratic Congress, working with a Democratic President, is not about to accept a Republican plan. Second, there is much concern that the revenue losses from a permanent tax cut would spill the wind from the Democrats' spending sails and make it impossible for Mr. Carter to produce a balanced budget by 1981.

Kemp and Roth argue persuasively that their permanent tax reduction would help the revenue picture, not hurt it. They cite the example of President Kennedy's tax reductions 15 years ago. The Kennedy people figured that their tax cuts would cost the Treasury $2.4 billion in the first year and $89 billion over six years. To the contrary, the positive effects were so galvanic that the Treasury gained $7 billion in the first year and gained $54 billion over the six years.

True, the economic conditions of 1962 and 1977 are not identical, but economic principles do not change. If the people could look forward with reasonable confidence to a permanently lower level of taxation, they would react positively. They would sense a little more freedom; they would plan beyond the first of the month. A $50 rebate, by contrast, is a one-time thing; it is gone with the summer wind.

My guess is that the Democratic leaders are pursuing not only bad economics, but poor politics also. They look at Mr. Carter's high popularity ratings, and they come down with the jitters. They fear the consequences of defying their new chief. But there is no evidence of wild public demand for the rebate package as such. Smart politics, in my own view, would see the Democrats' kidnapping the Kemp-Roth plan and trotting it forth as their own.

Why Every Home Needs A Basement Of Its Own

If there's one thing that really upsets me about eastern North Carolina, it's the primitive standard of living.

"Why can't we have a basement?" I ask Phillip every year. "Everyone else in America has a basement. Living without one is positively uncivilized."

"I keep telling you that we're not high enough above sea level," he said last week.

"Besides, the only people you know who have a basement are your parents, and what's so neat about theirs?"

"It's exciting, for one thing. It has an air of mystery. You never know what you'll find down there."

"Yeah, I know what you mean. Even opening a door down there is an adventure. The last time I did it, I got mugged by three curtain rods and a broken pool cue."

"Very funny," I pouted. "But at least it's all under ground. It doesn't spill out of an itty-bitty storage room all over the patio."

"You're exaggerating again," he said. "It's not that bad."

"No? Better look again." I held my nose and ripped open the curtains (that Phillip had nailed shut last December) to reveal the patio. There staring us in the face was a baby walker, a sliding board, a rocker with a split seat, three pairs of dry-rotted tennis shoes, nine flower pots (some with dirt, none with flowers), a rusted out grill, four lawnchairs without seats, and a set of shelves consisting of everything into two piles — 'Salvageables' and 'Others' — when I climbed the shelves to take down the clothesline. There I was, balancing a giddy two feet in the air, when a wasp flew under my nose. Naturally, I jumped. Unfortunately, I landed on the grill — which promptly folded under me, scattering its charcoal contents to the four corners of the patio.

That was, of course, before Phillip started after me with a broom and I stepped backwards into the 'Others' pile and acquired a flowerpot for a foot covering.

"It's not my fault," I whimpered to Phillip as I sat down in a lawn chair and fell through. "We should have had a basement. Like my parents."

He brandished his broom a couple of times, then left me to extricate myself in peace while he went to answer the phone.

"Come to the phone; it's your parents," he yelled. "Funnest thing. They're calling about their basement."

"Yeah?" I yelled back, still fighting with a persistent piece of webbing. "What about it?"

"It's flooded."

Facing South Personalized Service In Family Drug Store

DURHAM, N.C. — "I'm the least likely person in the world to do a profile on," insisted the big, grey-haired man. "There's nothing outstanding and unusual about me, except for this store."

John Cameron McDonald and his wife, Frances, ("my top salaried employee," he laughingly calls her) own and operate McDonald's Drug Store in Durham, North Carolina. In an age of drug chains and superstores, theirs is one of the few independently-owned pharmacies left in the city.

McDonald's is tucked into a block of small shops on the west side of town. "A fellow came in the other day; he'd just noticed the store," recounted McDonald. "How long you been here?" he asked me. "Oh, I said, 'about sixty years.'"

Angus Henry McDonald, John's father, started the business in 1910. In 1916 he moved to a wooden building in the area, and by 1922 had moved the pharmacy to its present location.

John grew up in the store, stopping by after school, doing odd jobs and deliveries. West Durham was a mill village back then, with its own distinctive identity. John remembers how the drug store was a community center, and how people used to come there to sit in the booths "to chew the fat" until closing time.

When John got out of the service after World War II, he got married and went right into pharmacy school. Upon graduation, he rejoined his father in the store. The two of them worked together until his father's death in 1973 at the age of 88.

"I had long since taken over operation of the store," said John, "but my father liked to come in every day, anyway. He loved this little drug store. It was a big part of his life."

John's father wanted things in the store "to stay the way they were." But when the shopping centers arose, and began driving small stores such as theirs out of business,

John decided they would have to make some changes. "Certain things that change you have to learn to live with. You're foolish if you don't adapt."

So John got some more education, and the store began specializing in "convalescent needs" — catheters, bed pans, artificial bladders, canes, crutches, walkers, wheelchairs, slings, blood pressure cuffs, braces and supports of every kind.

"We couldn't be doing everything wrong," McDonald says with a survivor's pride. "We're still here."

McDonald's Drug Store is more than just there. It is still a center of the community. There are four comfortable chairs in back, under a sign saying "Prescriptions Compounded Carefully," where neighborhood old-timers come to sit every morning to drink coffee and military outbreaks in both southern Africa and the Middle.

"East (with Moscow not yet fully recovered from the trauma of that potential American-Soviet confrontation in October 1973, during the Yom Kippur war). In southern Africa, the U.S. has nothing like the commitments to allies or to oil supplies that it has in the eastern Mediterranean and Persian Gulf.

So, sidestepping away from possible new wars in the Mideast and moving toward closer relations with Israel, the Soviet Union now seems bent on control of both the Indian and Atlantic Ocean regions surrounding southern Africa. This becomes a substitute vantage point for controlling oil traffic to the industrialized West.

One theory voiced here that the abysmal Soviet failure in the Mideast is simply part of a pattern, sure to be repeated in black southern Africa, is wishful thinking. What turned Egypt against the Russians were generations of dealing with the West. U.S. influence with Israel and Moslem fear of Communism. None of these factors is present in black southern Africa where the Soviets are now operating without hindrance from Washington. That is where the Soviet turn to Israel actually points.

talk over the past. There is a soda fountain up front, where Frances makes milkshakes and mixes syrup and carbonated water to create Cokes. Such soda fountains are becoming rare, and turn no profit, but the McDonalds would never think of giving the soda fountain up. "It's part of an old drug store," said John. "It goes with it."

A tall Columbia Weighing Machine, covered with mirrored glass, stands by the magazines and books beyond the soda fountain. You can still get weighed on it for a penny.

The McDonalds like to think they are serving their customers' needs. They get to know the customers by name. They try to take a person's circumstances into account when setting a price. They try to be available for emergencies.

"You have to have a feel for it to be in this business," says John. The McDonalds are there to give directions, to make sodas, to fill prescriptions. They lend an ear when the worried relatives of patients in nearby hospitals "just want to come in and talk." When a sick mother is waiting for her prescription, Frances sees to it that the woman's fidgets child gets a comic book or a soda to keep him occupied.

"You have to remember that you're dealing with human beings with problems," says John.

He thinks that people are beginning to yearn again for personalized service, "for the butcher who cuts their meat to order, for the clothes salesman who knows their size, for the doctor who makes house calls." And they still yearn for the druggist who gives "good service at a fair price."

"There'll always be a place for a well-run small business," says a satisfied John McDonald.

Widespread Segregation Remains In Churches

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — The late Dr. Martin Luther King's description of the Sunday morning church hour as "the most segregated hour of the week" is borne out by the results of a recent Gallup Poll.

Nationally, a majority of white churchgoers (54 per cent) report that blacks do not attend the church they themselves attend most often. Among white Southerners the figure reaches 66 per cent.

Not only are important differences found by region, but by religious affiliation as well, with a higher proportion of Roman Catholics (60 per cent) than Protestants (40 per cent) reporting blacks attend their church.

While prohibitions against black members have been ended in many churches across the nation, defacto segregation still exists.

This separation is, of course, not always the result of racial prejudice. Among the reasons cited for segregation are a growing pride among blacks in their own churches and origins as well as the fact that church congregations reflect local living patterns.

But Many Whites Also Oppose Black Attendance

One reason for the continuing widespread segregation in churches, as this survey reveals, however, is the fact that many white churchgoers simply do not want blacks to attend their church. This is particularly true in the South.

For example, 60 per cent of Southern whites who go to churches where blacks do not attend say they would not like to see them do so. On the other hand, among whites in the South who attend churches with blacks, 63 per cent say they would like to see a greater number of blacks in their churches.

By way of comparison, among whites who attend segregated churches outside the South, only 28 per cent would like to maintain this status.

West	47	53

All white churchgoers were next asked this question: "Would you like to see more blacks attend the church you attend most often, or not?"

Following are the results:

Public Forum

To the editor:

North Carolina citizens can justly be proud of those who worked so hard to make the recent Southeastern Gay Conference a success. People from Greenville and from all other sections of our state contributed time, money and talent to provide workshops, entertainment and accommodations for more than 600 participants. North Carolina can be pleased to have hosted an event so exciting and important that visitors came from as far away as Massachusetts and Florida to attend.

The fact that this year's conference attracted over twice as many people as last year's is an especially encouraging sign. Equally noteworthy was the presence of parents with their children — one clear indication that citizens concerned about gay rights do not fit one particular category or stereotype.

Once again the South has proven that it can be a leader in the fight for recognition of human rights.

Says Christ Regarded Himself As A Failure

LONDON (AP) — Jesus Christ regarded himself as a failure, was spurned by his own family and finally was rejected by many of his disciples, according to a new book by a distinguished British scholar.

Jesus was not "meek and mild," as often portrayed, but was stormy and passionate by nature, says author Michael Grant in the book, "Jesus," published in London by Wiedenfeld and Nicholson.

Grant also concludes that Christ was not a revolutionary but was "obsessively single-minded" in the belief that he had been chosen to usher in the "Kingdom of God." Grant, a former Cambridge University classics professor and respected author of 30 historical works, has for years studied Christ as an historical figure. He said that in researching his book he used the disciplines of classical scholarship to take a fresh look at the four Gospels and the vast array of literature about Jesus.

Jesus' family had to apologize for his behavior, and he met the end he did only because of deliberate clashes with Jewish leaders that could have been avoided, Grant wrote.

The author, relying on the New English Bible, cites many Gospel passages for his theories. Among other passages, he points to Mark 6:4 and Matthew 13:57 as an admission by Jesus that he had failed to convert his own people, the Jews: "A prophet will always be held in honor except in his hometown and among his kinsmen and family."

As evidence of rejection by the disciples, he cites John 6:60, 6:66: "When Jesus was giving instruction in Capernaum, many of his disciples on hearing it exclaimed, 'This is more than we can stomach. Why listen to this talk?'"

Grant, who says he is inclined to view the miracles, the virgin birth, and the Resurrection as "legendary" stories, writes that after Christ's death his name lived on largely because of word-of-mouth tales of his ability as an exorcist.

The author rejects the theory that Jesus never really existed, but he takes no stand on his divinity.

"The point is that Jesus, while on earth, was human, and that he gave us a revelation of the maximum effect that one human being has ever been able to exercise upon others," Grant says.

His life "was and permanently remains the most heartening thing which has ever happened to the human race," Grant concludes.

Rose High Students Presenting 'The Fantasticks'

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 14, 15, and 16 are the three performance dates scheduled for the annual Rose High student musical.

This year, at 8 p.m. on each of the three nights, Rose High singers, dancers, actors and technicians will be in the limelight with a production of The Fantasticks, the famed Tom Jones-Harvey Schmidt collaboration that has been a favorite on Broadway and in productions all across the nation as well as overseas.

Rose High cast members for The Fantasticks are: Quentin Eaton, the narrator; Karen Mulls, Luisa; Keith Britt, Matt; Mary Lou Diener, Mrs. Huckelby; Ann Trotta, Mrs. Bellamy; Paty Gawrysiak, Mortimer; Ray Alexander, Cadwallader; Carla Averette, Rosie; Carolyn Parker, Peaches; John Miller, the mute; Willie Morris, El Gallo; Mike Brown, Mr. Huckelby; Jim Kittrell, Mr. Bellamy; Bill Hamblen, Henry; Mike Dixon, Mr. Tibbs; and Anthony Outerbridge, Oscar.

Female dancers and mimes are: Dede Hayek, Jennifer O'Neal, Peggy Clemens, Angela Morris, Sandra Harrell, and Denise Outerbridge.

Male dancers and mimes are: David Pettus, Alan Avery, Tim Casper, Eric Kingsbury, and Mike Jackson.

Technicians and assistants involved in the production are: Alan Avery and Clyde Owens, scenery masters; Jennifer O'Neal and Tim Casper, prop masters; Mrs. Grace Carraway, costumes, assisted by Dede Hayek; Vocational Education Department and Claude West, business; Jane Welborn, Dede Hayek, and Mrs. Wende Allen, publicity; Charlie Hayek, ticket sales; Melvin Johnson, lights; Jimmy Lamb and Kevin Sayers, sound; and Diane Finnegan, Lindy Pollard, and Grady Roberson, musicians.

In this musical with a different twist, the plot involves a narrator who tells the story of a boy, a girl, four parents, and a wall. The young lovers are purposely kept apart for the unusual reason that the parents feel parental disapproval is the surest way to have their children fall in love.

The plot provides the principals and those in supporting roles ample opportunity for singing and for some lively dances.

Tickets are now on sale at Rose High and at the Record Bar. Advance tickets are $1, and the price purchased at the door prior to performance will be $1.50.

ECU Movie Orgy

Movie classics, cartoons, old commercials, broadcast bloopers and early TV clips will all be featured in Escape to Movie Orgy at East Carolina University on Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m.

The three hour film, sponsored by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. and Mendenhall Student Center, is open to the public without charge. The film will be shown at the ECU mall, or, in case of rain, in Wright Auditorium.

Movie Orgy is a bonanza for trivia freaks, nostalgia buffs and those enjoying a good time by a look at old filmic entertainment.

Celebrities Named For Apple Festival

In releases issued on apple leaf green and apple blossom pink, the coordinators of the famed Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival have announced highlights of the annual festival which this year will take place on April 30 and May 1.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Winchester, Virginia based festival. Veteran stage and star screen Tom Bosley will serve as Grand Marshal for the feature parade on April 30. Other celebrities scheduled to make appearances include Mrs. John Warner (Elizabeth Taylor), Olympic boxer Ray Charles (Sugar Ray) Leonard, and Kentucky Fried Chicken man Colonel Harland Sanders.

To mark the 50th anniversary, nightclub singer Blossom Dearie has penned the lyrics for Winchester in Apple Blossom Time, with music by her brother, Walter W. Birchett. Recorded on the "Daffodil" label, the song has been adopted for the celebration.

Another attraction will be the presence of the Firestone Hot-Air Balloon, to be seen at different locations on each of the two days.

Abundance Of Good Things In Thesis Show

It's obvious the 14 graduate students made special efforts to come up with an abundance of good things for this annual Graduate Thesis exhibit. With the new spacious Wellington Gray Gallery available, the group has gone the extra mile to present a big, varied show marked with talent and abundance. The net result is an excellent art show.

Since available space does not permit mention of the work of individual artists, a few general observations — the 1977 Thesis show is well represented in ceramics, sculpture, and multi-media works. There's practically no paintings, but a substantial range of drawings.

Many of the works continue to emphasize the current trend away from abstraction to representational art.

The 14 graduate students are: Barry Bailey, Earl Constantine, Frank Gatchell, Jons Gunderson, Richard Heiser, Wade Hobgood, Michele Hodgson, Gregory Hoose, Johnnie Mizell, Willis Stevenson, Susan Tunstall, Dale Verzaal, Joe Walters, and Debra Williams.

The work of one of the 14, Wade Hobgood, is not on view in the gallery. Hobgood's art, that of visual lights and sounds, was seen on opening night, with an additional showing in the gallery's auditorium on Wednesday night.

Area people will very likely enjoy this show — there's something for just about every taste and a generous touch of fantasy and whimsy in many of the works.

Viewing hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. The Wellington B. Gray Gallery is located in the Leo Jenkins Fine Arts Building, which faces East Fifth Street on the west end of the campus.

Past, Present In 'Sea Chest'

Sea Chest. Publication of the Cape Hatteras School. Buxton, N.C. $6 by subscription, three issues.

Sea Chest, the special literary project of high school students in the Cape Hatteras School, continues to be a diverse look at times past and present on North Carolina's Outer Banks.

Though not as rewarding as some previous issues, there's a considerable number of articles of more than passing interest. Highlights include:

— "The Life of a Commercial Hunter," with Perry Farrow reminiscing about his father, Lorenzo Farrow, a noted guide and hunter in the early part of the 20th century. Farrow recalls the use of lay-down boxes, a coffin-like affair where hunters hid to shoot birds; and cold winters when his father's mustache would freeze as hard as a tabletop.

— An article about Rufman Gray, an old timer who explains the use of flat bottomed sail skills for fishing and for transportation in the days before bridges, highways, ferries and motorboats.

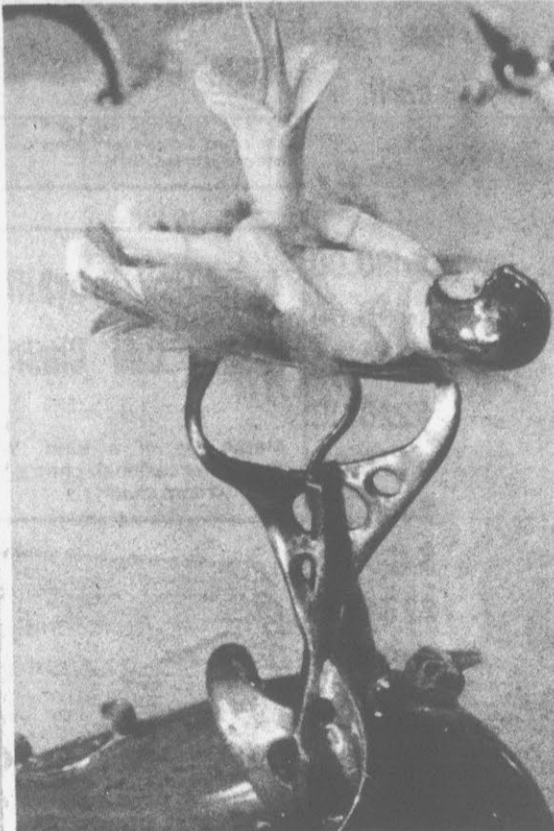

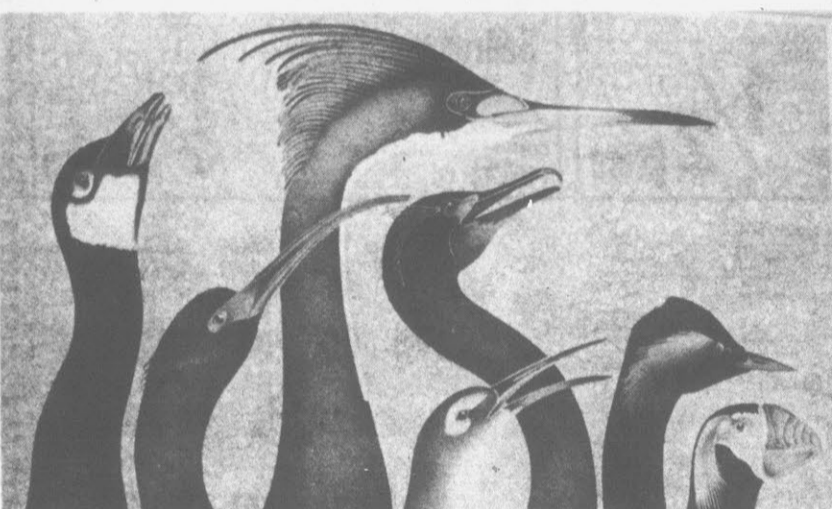

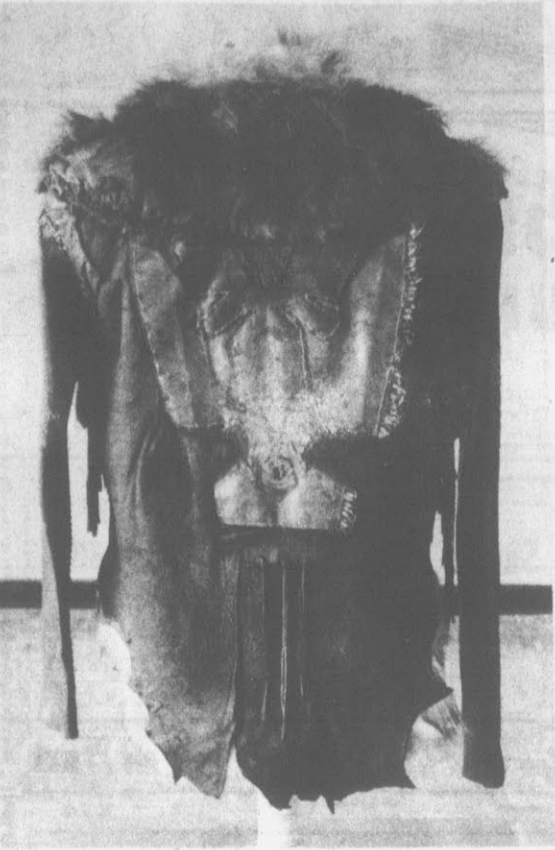

— A pictorial look at the plants of Cape Hatteras—like the flannel plant, yucca, America holly, Virginia creeper, Devil's Walking Stick, goldenrod and salt myrtle.

— The role of the fish house in the marketing of fish provides a good introduction to this contemporarily important phase of livelihood in coastal Carolina. This is an example of student publication where more research and details could have resulted in a much more satisfying coverage.

— Perhaps of greater appeal than any other article in this issue of Sea Chest is "Cape Hatteras — A Living Paradise." Strictly nostalgic, Con Farrow tells his interviewees about island life as he knew it as a boy in the 1920s. Even at that date, the Outer Banks was a quiet, untouched place where the sound of waves and of early morning coffee being ground

At Louisburg

An exhibit of prints by two 1976 graduates of East Carolina University — Barbara McPhail and Bernie Gentry — will be on view at Louisburg College through April 20.

Four from the show — a coat by Jons S. Gunderson; a multi-media painting, Debra Williams; birds by Dale Verzaal; and detail from a ceramic piece by Frank Gatchell.

Portable Guide To Outdoor Areas

The Living Land - An Outdoor Guide to North Carolina. By Marguerite Schumann. Chapel Hill. The Dale Press of Chapel Hill. 178 pp. illustrated. Paperback. $4.25 (plus N.C. sales tax).

Marguerite Schumann's compact, precise small volume is the perfect portable guide to the major natural areas of North Carolina that are accessible to the public.

In practical, easy to locate divisions, coverages of 29 places in the Coastal Plain; 27 in the Piedmont; and 22 in the Mountains of North Carolina are provided.

Utilizing a consistent format of presentation, the author gives a general description of the natural area; then encompasses geological and botanical information in a section titled "The Land;" and concludes with a brief history of early settlements and highlights of developments to the present day in a section, "Man on the Land."

This systemized approach is ideal for a guide book, and Ms. Schumann brings her considerable experience as a writer (five other guidebooks) to give the reader an abundance of useful material shorn of frills.

Gilliam Show At St. John's

During the month of April, St. John's Art Gallery, 114 Orange Street, Wilmington, is featuring a showing of the Impressionistic Fantasies of artist L. Stanley Gilliam.

Gilliam, of Pittsboro, works with oil crayons, building up drawings with layers of pigment with wax and oil crayons. He achieves a translucency by scraping or rubbing off some of the pigment, creating a shimmering surface texture.

The public is invited to see the show, which is without admission charge, on Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Within the 29 areas listed in the section on the Coastal Plain are state parks, forests, national seashores, wildlife refuges, lakes and a millpond. This includes the Cliffs of the Neuse near Kinston, White Lake, Pettigrew State Park at Lake Phelps, and nearest of all to Greenville, the 2,500 acre state park in Beaufort County on Upper Goose Creek.

The park, established in 1974, is described as "a natural garden, containing a great variety of plants because of the range of land elevation and the presence of both fresh and slightly brackish water An evergreen shrub bog rises beyond the shoreline in the pocosin or 'swamp on a hill,' which is unique to the Carolinas and Virginia."

Partridges, pheasants, peacocks and quail are all part of the same fowl-like family of game birds, Phasianidae.

A sonnet is a 14-line poem with a rhyme scheme. It expresses individual emotion usually in praise of a mistress or lover.

In the section "Man on the Land," Ms. Schumann notes "The Upper Goose Creek area was once farmland, which is now being reclaimed by nature..." The author also touches on the founding of Bath, Blackbeard's activities in the area, and the crossing of the creek by Confederate forces during the Civil War.

And a bit of information new to me — "The Bath-Washington area furnished writer Edna Furber with names and local color for Showboat, although the finished novel (and later musical comedy) was set on the Mississippi."

Of greatest value to travelers and sightseers, The Living Land is also an excellent source book for details on nature and a brief wrap-up of history of many areas of the state.

Numerous excellent black and white photographs drawn from a wide range of well-known photographers are exceptionally well reproduced for a volume this small.

The Living Land has just about everything the outdoor traveler and nature lover needs without the disadvantage of bulk.

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By WILLIE MAE GIBBS

Underwater or on the water adventure is the subject of several of the new books at the library.

In OVERBOARD by Hank Searls, Mitch Gordon, a lawyer and yachtsman, awakens 70 miles from Tahiti to find himself alone on his 40-foot ketch. At some point while he slept, his wife Lindy had been swept overboard into the giant Pacific swells. For thirty-six hours he traces and retraces the vessel's course while Lindy, buoyed by a flimsy life jacket, struggles to survive. As he plows back and forth their life emerges through flashbacks. Their love, weakened by neglect and things left unsaid, then salvaged through shared danger, now seems bound for tragedy. In this story of a strong man panicked, a woman fighting to live, and a love gone wrong, Searls leads his readers from the universal dream of sailing the South Seas into a nightmare of suspense.

Noel B. Gerson tells the story of the great ship, the U.S.S. Columbia, in a book called LINER. When the Columbia is returned to active service Commodore John Everett, a retired Naval war hero, is brought in to be her master. David Bowen - the ranking officer of the Columbia Lines who had expected the assignment - is forced to settle for second in command. The inevitable confrontation between these two first rate, strong-willed officers forms the basis for this superb tale of adventure. LINER is more than the story of the complex workings of a modern ocean liner. It is the story of the men and women whose ambitions, passions, talents, and failings are as crucial to the running of a great ship as the design of her hull or the decisions of her master.

An American space capsule splashes down in the Sargasso Sea in the heart of the Bermuda Triangle - adding yet another mystery to the area in the sea where, for centuries men and ships have vanished without a trace. What happens when the capsule is opened is only the beginning of an odyssey that moves swiftly from the bottom of the ocean to the heights of political power. SARGASSO is the title Edwin Corley has given this exciting story of underwater adventure, political maneuvering, and baffling natural phenomena.

A young rooster is called a cockerel; a young swan is a cygnet; a young eel is an elver and a young kangaroo is a joey.

Pirates Sweep Pair From Davidson

DAVIDSON — East Carolina took advantage of a third strike-passed ball to push over five big runs in the third inning and drop Davidson, 8-2, in the second game of a Southern Conference doubleheader yesterday.

Pete Conaty tossed a shutout for the Pirates in the first game, as the Bucs eased past the Wildcats, 1-0, to up their league record to 6-0. The sweep kept East Carolina in first place in the conference.

The Pirates return home on Monday to face Marshall University in an important twin bill. Marshall comes into the game with a 3-1 league record. A sweep of the pair could put the Pirates into excellent position with half of the season gone.

Conaty limited Davidson to just three hits in the opening game, although one of them was a triple.

That hit caused an argument that didn't end until Pirate coach Monte Little was ejected from the game.

It all began in the second when Sid Osborne slashed the ball over the head of rightfielder Eddie Gates. Gates chased the ball down at the fence, then claimed that the ball was stuck under the webbing of the fence.

However, the umpire did not rule a ground-ruled double, but allowed the play to continue until Gates was finally able to free the ball and make the play for a close call at third. Little argued that the ball should have been ruled dead and Osborne given only a double, but he not only lost his plea, he sat out the rest of the game outside the dugout.

Nevertheless, the Pirates held Davidson scoreless, as Conaty walked just one batter while fanning 12.

Davidson hurler Tim Barr gave up just four hits, but errors behind him caused him to lose.

The Bucs got the lone run in the sixth inning after twice threatening. Both times, in the second and fourth innings, the threat came on doubles by Sonny Wooten.

With one down in the sixth, Billy Best reached on an error and moved up on a passed ball. An outfield fly moved him to third, and he scored when Wooten reached on yet another error.

In the second game, Davidson took a brief lead in the first on a run. Stan Brown singled and stole second. He scored on Jim Nichols' double.

East Carolina tied it up with one in the second. With one down, Bobby Supel walked and stole second. Charlie Stevens also walked, and Jerry Carraway reached on an error, loading the bases. A walk to Scott Layden forced in Supel.

Then came the big third when five Pirates runners crossed the plate. With one out, Gates singled and stole second. Wooten singled and a hit by Supel brought in Gates. Wooten was put out trying to reach third, however.

Robert Brinkley then reached when the third strike by him got away from catcher Bob Lapple. Stevens walked, loading the bases, and walks to Carraway and Layden forced in Supel and Brinkley. Pete Paradossi then singled, driving in Stevens and Carraway.

The Pirates added another run in the fifth. Brinkley doubled and scored on a hit by Stevens.

The final East Carolina run came in the seventh. Tommy Cobb singled and moved up on a hit by Stevens. Paradossi then singled in Cobb.

Pete Legler singled to open the seventh for Davidson, and scored on a double by Tim McDowell, but the rally was short-lived and ended there.

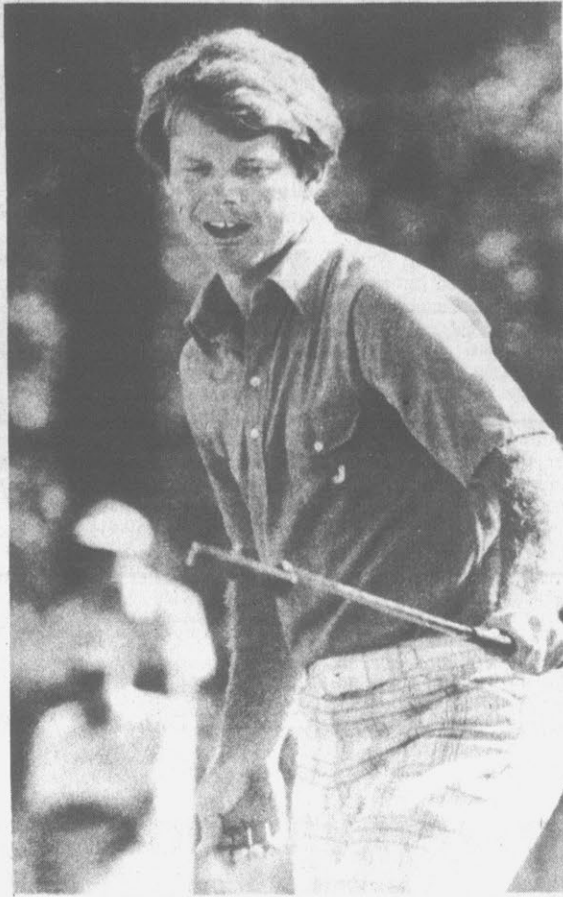

Terry Durham took the win in the second game, but got relief from Ricky Nelson.

Following the big doubleheader on Monday, the Pirates host Atlantic Christian on Thursday, then face Appalachian State on Saturday and Western Carolina on Monday, in a pair of key Southern Conference doubleheaders, both on the road.

the 41st Masters golf tournament. Watson's downhill, five-foot effort on the two-tiered 18th green finished off a round of 70 and gave him a three-round total of 209, seven under the grudging par on the famed Augusta National Golf Club course.

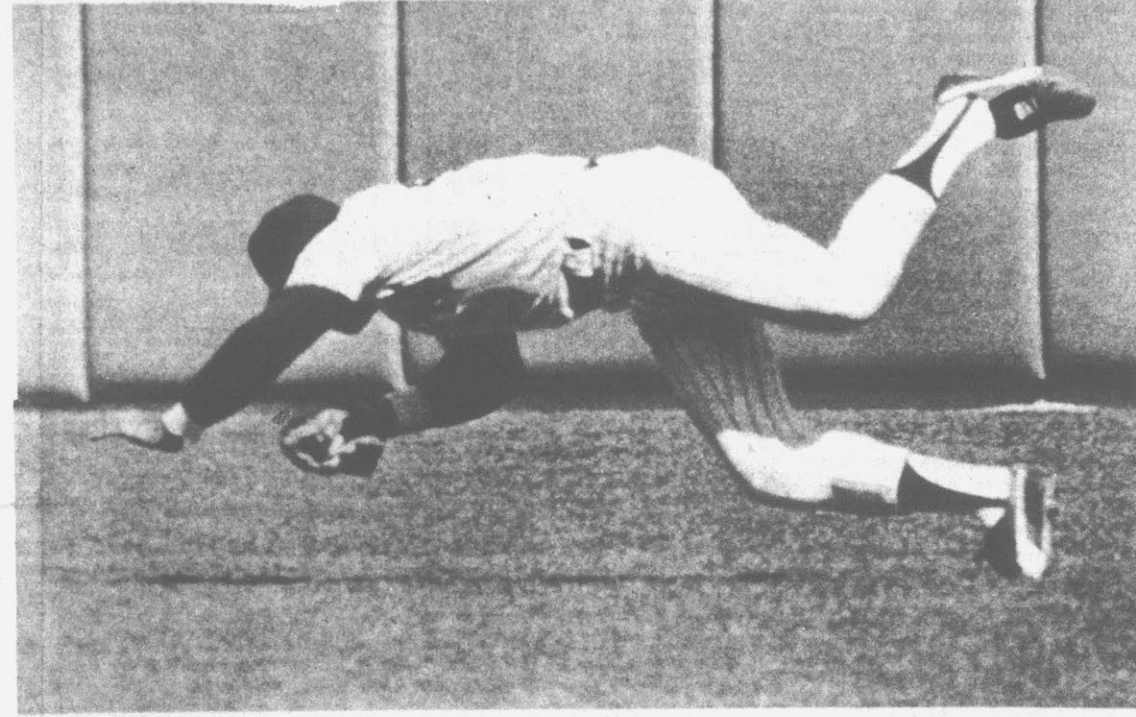

Crenshaw, who typifies the power and pride of the youth movement that has swept the tour this season, muscled his way to a 69—talking to the ball in flight, twisting his stocky frame in body English, dancing in delight when a go-ahead putt dropped, visible agonizing when another putt missed.

The man they call "Gentle Ben" and the red-haired, freckle-faced Watson, winner of two titles and a leading $135,000 in winnings this season, shared a one-shot advantage over Rik Massengale going into Sunday's final round of this, the first of the year's four major tournaments.

Massengale bolted into his high position with a five-under par 67 that put him at 210. Jack Nicklaus, the famed and feared Golden Bear who has won this prestige-laden tournament a record five times, shook off his putting woes with a 69 that left him very much in contention at 212.

"It was pretty much a reverse from the first couple of days," said Nicklaus, who has finished second twice here, hasn't been worse than fourth in six years and holds a record 14 major professional championships.

"I didn't play nearly as well as the first two days, but I putted a lot better," he said. (Continued On Page B-2)

Reggie Jackson's Error All Milwaukee Needs For Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson makes more money than Jim Wohlford, Von Joshua and Sixto Lezcano combined, but the three Milwaukee outfielders outshone him Saturday. Jackson, New York's high-priced right fielder, committed a two-base error that paved the way for three unearned runs in the fifth inning and the Brewers held on to edge the Yankees 3-2.

prevented trouble in the eighth inning, center fielder Joshua made a perfect relay from the deepest part of the park to keep the potential tying run at third with two out in the ninth and Lezcano raced to the warning track in right to haul down two long drives in the seventh. Milwaukee starter Jerry Augustine settled down after a shaky start in which he allowed a hit in each of the first two innings and walked five batters in three innings, but only allowed one run.

"I thought I'd be in for a long day," Augustine said. "But then I just started to throw better. I still wasn't right where I can be with my breaking ball, but when you beat the Yankees you can't be sad."

Bill Castro pitched the ninth when Manager Alex Grammas felt Augustine was tiring—"I might have been a little tired," the pitcher admitted—and surrendered a run on Jim Wynn's single and a two-out triple by the speedy Mickey Rivers. With the crowd of 16,726 screaming for an inside-the-park home run, coach Dick Howser flagged Rivers down at third base when Joshua hit cut-off man Robin Yount perfectly and the shortstop made a strong throw home.

Perry Claims First Win, 5-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Juan Beniquez drove in three runs and Gaylord Perry pitched a five-hitter in 45-degree weather as the Texas Rangers beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-1 Saturday.

Beniquez sliced a two-run double to right in the third inning and singled to drive in a fourth-inning run. In the seventh, he walked, stole second and scored on a single by Claudell Washington.

The 38-year old Perry, bidding to join Cy Young and Jim Bunning as the only hurlers to win 100 games in each major league, notched his 98th American League triumph and the 232nd of his career.

Toby Harrah singled to launch a two-run rally in the fourth for Texas, scoring on a sacrifice fly by Jim Sundberg after two walks loaded the

'Muddy Water' Cleared During Spring Drills, Coach Dye Says

By WOODY PEELE

an outstanding spring and will be pushing the two for a starting berth next fall. If he continues to run as he did in the spring, it is definite that he will see a lot of playing time.

Spring football practice ended Wednesday night for the East Carolina Pirates, and Coach Pat Dye seemed pleased with the way things had gone in general. "I think we got a lot accomplished," he said after the final workout. "We got a lot of muddy water cleared up, but we've still got a lot of jagged edges. We've got people in the right places now, but we have to execute a lot better, both offensively and defensively to be a good team, but the potential is there."

At fullback, one of the pre-spring problem areas, Vince Kolanko has taken over, but is getting help from Theodore Sutton and Perry Allred. "I'm also pleased with our kicking game," Dye said. "We have the potential to have the best kicking game since I've been here. It won't be outstanding, but it will be very good."

The polishing job will come in the fall when the Pirates return to being work for the season. The problem areas in some cases have worked out well. Leander Green, Jimmy Southerland and Steve Greer have given the Pirates a good look at quarterback. "All of them can do the job," Dye said. "Despite the fact that Jimmy missed the spring with a broken wrist, we know he can do the job. And I'm extremely pleased with Green. We knew he had the ability, but his leadership this spring has shown he can run the team."

Three walkons, Rodney Allen, Bill Lamm and Junior Creech are the leading candidates, with Allen handling the punting and the other two the placements. "Paul Ricciardi also looked good the other night in our scrimmage," Dye added. "He's going to be a very exciting player."

The offensive line continues to have depth problems, however. "I hope our younger people will come through in the fall to give us more depth. We're not as far along right here as I had hoped that we would be after the spring."

Joining him in the backfield is Willie Holley at the other corner, Steve Hale at free safety, and the lone veteran, Gerald Hall, at strong safety. Fred Chavis, Zack Valentine, John Morris give the defensive ends a strong look, with Henry Blackwell and Ed Nelson adding to the strength there. Noah Clark and Wayne Poole are out front at tackle, but depth is there in the presence of Vance Tingler and D. T. Joyner. Oliver Felton returns at nose guard, and Clifford Williams adds depth.

"Our biggest concern is the line. Our first unit of Mitchell Smith, Nelson Smith, Ricky Holliday, Wayne Bolt and Matt Mullholland looks good, but we don't have the depth here. Mike Heywood (offensive tackle) is about as close to being ready as anyone on the second unit."

Harold Fort, Mike Brewington, Tommy Summers and Larry Paul handle the linebackers, giving the Pirates strength here. "Overall, we have more football players than ever before, but less superstars. If this team approaches the fall like it did the spring, it will be an exciting team, and it will win more than it loses."

Lanier Sparks Detroit Win

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bob Lanier tossed in 15 of his game-high 30 points in the fourth period as the Detroit Pistons held off a late charge by the Cleveland Cavaliers for a 103-96 National Basketball Association victory Saturday.

The 6-foot-11 Lanier, playing in only his second game since returning from a broken wrist, put the game out of reach with his last basket, with 1:52 remaining. That gave Detroit a 99-94 edge, and Kevin Porter added a basket and a pair of free throws to keep Cleveland at arms length.

The seasaw first half saw the Pistons take a 55-52 lead into the half as the Cavaliers shot 27 per cent from the field in the first period and 64 per cent in the second period.

Detroit almost turned it into a rout as the second half started, grabbing a 66-52 edge by scoring the first 11 points of the third quarter.

Cleveland, however, roared back to make it 68-64 with a 12-2 spurt featured by Bingo Smith's five points.

The Cavaliers held their last lead of the game at 90-88 with 5:30 remaining on a jumper by Gary Brokaw. Lanier then took over, scoring nine of hits team's next 11 points.

M.L. Carr added 15 points for the Pistons, while Porter came up with 14, including eight in the fourth period. Smith led Cleveland with 19 points.

The victory clinched fifth place in the Western Conference for the Pistons, while Cleveland finished its home season with 29 victories, equaling their team record for the fourth straight year.

Cowens Leads Royals To Romp

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Al Cowens drove in four runs and George Brett hit a three-run homer Saturday to lead the Kansas City Royals to 16-2 American League drubbing of the Detroit Tigers.

Eight of the nine starting Royals batters knocked in at least one run.

Kansas City scored nine runs in the third inning off Ray Bare and Jim Crawford, three on Brett's homer and two on a triple by Frank White.

Cowens singled in a run in the second, knocked in another in the third with a grounder that second baseman Tito Fuentes bobbled for an error, and two with a double in the fourth-inning.

Amos Otis hit a solo homer in the fourth.

In two games, Otis is 5-for-6 with six runs scored, four RBI and three walks. He scored four of the Royals runs Saturday.

Andy Hassler pitched six shutout innings for the victory. Dennis Leonard took over in the seventh and gave up Detroit's two runs in that inning. The first scored on a double by Ron LeFlore, who then raced home on a throwing error by second baseman White.

Pete LaCock and Fred Patek knocked in two runs each for Kansas City, while Hal McRae and Darrell Porter drove in a run each.

Plate Umpire George Maloney left the game in the bottom of the sixth due to illness and was replaced behind the plate by Russ Goetz.

Oakland Captures Win In Opening Game, 7-4

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — Earl Williams, one of eight new players in Oakland's starting lineup, slammed a sixth-inning home run Saturday to propel the A's a 7-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the American League opener for both teams.

Dick Allen and rookie Mitchell Page had two hits apiece for the A's and Allen drove in two runs in his first performance for Charley Finley's new-look baseball team.

Williams, the veteran who was released by the Montreal Expos late in spring training, filled the designated hitter role in the opener and hit a 1-1 pitch from reliever Ron Schueler over the left field fence in the sixth to break a 4-4 tie. Allen had tied the game in the fifth with a groundout which scored rookie second baseman Rodney Scott.

Mike Torrez, who like Twins starter Dave Goltz got off to a rough start, pitched the distance for the A's and allowed seven hits, only two after the fourth inning.

The Twins scored twice in the first inning when Butch Wynegar, Rod Carew and Lyman Bostock singled, and the A's tied it with two runs in the bottom of the inning. Allen picked up his first RBI with a first-inning single.

Each team scored one run in the third and the Twins went ahead in the fourth when Craig Kusick walked, Mike Cabbage singled and Wynegar delivered a sacrifice fly.

Rookie third baseman Wayne Gross drove in the final two A's runs in the eighth with a single which followed hits by Allen and Manny Sanguillen.

Plymouth Tops Roanoke, 6-3

ROBERSONVILLE — Plymouth got what proved to be the winning run in the sixth. Leary walked and Malone ran for home, stealing second. A passed ball moved him to third, and he scored when Piner reached on an error.

The Vikings added two more in the seventh. Butch Whitley singled, stole up and scored when Earl Brinkley's hit was errored. Wade Adams was hit by a pitch and a passed ball let both runners advance. Cullipher reached on an error, scoring Brinkley.

Leggett led the Plymouth hitting while Keel paced Roanoke. Both had two hits.

Roanoke is now 7-2, and the two teams meet again Thursday in the first round of the Perry Tournament in Williamston.

Plymouth was able to add three more to their total, while holding Roanoke scoreless the rest of the way.

Plymouth scored first, getting three in the fourth. Mike Cullipher doubled and Kenny Leary walked. Ray Leggett singled to load them up. Brady Piner singled in Cullipher, and a balk brought in Leary. Ricky Jones hit a sacrifice fly to plate Leggett.

Roanoke came back with three of its own in the bottom of the inning. Will Harris reached on interference, and David Spruill singled. Cliff Keel cleared the sacks with a three-run homer.

Torre's Double Lets Mets Down Phillies

By JOE MOOSHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Pinch hitter Joe Torre's tie-breaking two-run double in the ninth inning powered the New York Mets to an 8-6 victory Saturday over the Chicago Cubs. Felix Millan opened the ninth with a single, his fourth hit of the game. After Bruce Boicclair bunted into a force out, Dave Kingman singled and Torre delivered his double to center. Nino Espinosa got the victory in relief.

The Mets built a 6-0 lead with two runs in the first inning and four more in the third on two-run homers by Kingman and Roy Staiger off starter Mike Krukow.

White Sox Nip Jays, 3-2

TORONTO (AP) — Alan Bannister singled for one run in the fifth inning, then scored Chicago's winner on Richie Zisk's single as the White Sox nipped the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2 Saturday.

Designated hitter Oscar Gamble gave the White Sox a 1-0 lead with a homer to deep right field in the fourth inning, then Chicago made it 3-0 in the fifth off starter and loser Dave Lemanczyk. Ralph Garr got a one-out double and scored on Bannister's single. Bannister then stole second and came home on Zisk's sharp single to left.

The Blue Jays got one back in the bottom of the fifth off winner Chris Knapp when Dave McKay doubled and Alan Ash-

tiple-man scramble through the Georgia piney woods.

Weiskopf had to make a miracle par from Rae's creek on the 13th hole, emptying water from his shoe after playing his third shot out of the rippling stream. But he then fell back with a double bogey on the next hole, watching in dismay as his chip ran up the sloping green close to the flag, paused, and then rolled right back down again, stopping just in front of his feet.

He finished with a 71-215. Injury-hampered U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, still bothered by hand, neck and shoulder problems, got into the chase, but dropped back with a double bogey from a bunker on the 18th. He had a 74-216.

Slump-ridden Johnny Miller revived with a 69 that left him tied with Arnold Palmer, still the gallery favorite, at 218. Palmer shot a 71. PGA champ Dave Stockton was far back at 220.

Watson almost certainly is the outstanding player of the season and would be a runaway choice but for the problems with his swing that have cost him titles in his last two starts. In each, he's had a lead in the stretch run and let it get away.

This time it was a little different.

He started the day in a tie for the lead, fell back as much as two shots, then closed with a rush to catch Crenshaw.

Watson two-putted for a birdie four after reaching the green with a three-iron second shot on the 15th, then reclaimed a piece of the lead with his six-iron shot to the green on the final hole. He saluted the birdie putt with a raised, clinched fist, a wave of his putter and a broad, boyish, engaging smile.

He'd birdied the eighth and ninth from about 15 feet, but took bogeys on the seventh, driving into the trees, and the 10th, where he missed the green.

Gordon's Homers Spark Jaguar Win

HOLLYWOOD — Designated hitter Phillip Gordon slapped two three-run home runs Friday afternoon to lead Farmville Central's baseball team to an 11-8 win over D. H. Conley. Gordon's first home run came in the fourth inning and pulled the Jaguars to within a run of the Vikings, who had jumped out to a 7-3 lead. His second was hit in the seventh and increased an 8-7 Farmville Central lead to 11-7.

Farmville got on the scoreboard in the second inning when Carroll Griffin, who led off with a walk, got to second when Neil Gordon made it on an error, went to third on a passed ball and scored as Ted Dunn knocked a single to left field.

hit singles. Conley moved back ahead however, as Quinn Morris knocked a home run with nobody on just a half-inning later.

Montreal Home Runs Pace Expos To Win Over Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sixth-inning home runs by Ellis Valentine, Tony Perez, and Gary Carter powered the Montreal Expos past the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Saturday in the National League season opener for both teams. Phillies' left-hander Steve Carlton, a 20-game winner for the NL East Champions last year, owned a 3-0 lead before the Expos collected three homers in one inning for the first time since 1969, their first season.

Carter ripped the first pitch to him over the center field wall to give the Expos the lead.

Dave Cash, who played out his option with the Phillies last season and signed with Montreal for a reported $1.7 million, led off the sixth with a single, then Valentine socked a 1-0 pitch over the left field fence.

Keith Hernandez also had a solo homer, his second of the season, for St. Louis, which collected 11 hits off four Pittsburgh pitchers.

After Brock scored the first St. Louis run, the Nards added three more in the inning with the aid of a double by Ted Simmons, singles by Ken Reitz and including a home run for Williamson, and Lydia Singletton added two hits.

Players Have Lot To Say

SIoux Falls, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakotans returning from a Caribbean trip had more to talk about than sunshine and beaches.

by 19-point margins, but they were not the jubilant victors typical in American athletic matches, said Tish DeZonia, who made the trip to cheer for the South Dakotans.

Wilson Fike downed the Tigerettes, 11-6, to move into the semifinals on Monday. Other winners in the first round were Greene Central, Bertie and Saratoga.

In the first game, Greene Central downed Roanoke, 4-3; while Bertie took Plymouth, 7-4, in the second. Saratoga downed Ayden-Grifton, 10-5, in the third game. Details were not available.

The college basketball players, school officials and assorted fans who arrived Friday had spent five days in Cuba. They were among the more than 100 persons who made up the first large contingent of Americans to visit the nation since Fidel Castro assumed power in 1959.

"In the first game we would cheer whenever our team or one of our players did something good," she said. "We soon learned that they would applaud whenever there was a good individual effort on either team."

Williamston, playing in the final game of the day, spotted Wilson a run in the first and four in the third, before scoring two in the bottom of the third. Both teams scored single runs in the fifth, and Williamston got two to Wilson's one in the sixth, to trail 7-5.

Monday's pairings have Roanoke meeting Plymouth at 4 p.m., followed by Ayden-Grifton and Williamston at 5:30 p.m. Greene Central and Bertie meet at 7 p.m. with Saratoga and Wilson colliding at 8:30 p.m. The final round will be played on Tuesday.

"They worked so hard to make us comfortable and feel at home," said Gene Zulk, a South Dakota State University coach. "We have nothing but good things to say about Cuba. There were so many things going on besides the two bal-games."

The games were arranged by South Dakota Sens. George McGovern and James Abourezk, who have traveled to Cuba previously.

In the seventh, Wilson sewed it up with four and allowed Williamston only one.

L. Barnes led the Fike hitting with three, including a homer, while L. Davis had two homers. D. Eason and S. Amerson each had two hits, with the latter having a homer, and K. Caddell also had a home run.

The state university and the University of South Dakota sent a combined team to play two basketball games against Cuban players.

Lanier's Return Sparks Detroit

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"This is a tough time of year to get a guy to play," said New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman.

Well, that's one man's opinion. Around the National Basketball Association there are several players who wouldn't agree.

One of them is Detroit Pistons center Bob Lanier, who returned to the team's lineup Friday night after a month's absence with a broken right hand. Lanier wore a special pad on the sore hand as he led Detroit to a 116-112 victory over Philadelphia.

"I sat down with Oscar Feldman (Pistons General Manager) this morning and said I couldn't play," noted Lanier after he played 38 minutes and scored 25 points as the Pistons remained one-half game ahead of Chicago in the NBA Midwest second-division battle. "Then I sat around at home all day and realized that Philly was coming to town and Dr. J was here."

"I told my wife I was going to play and she said I was crazy. It wasn't so much a matter of pride as a lack of common sense on my part."

In other pressure games, the Bulls—the NBA's hottest team—remained within striking distance of Detroit with a 113-109 victory over Houston; the Boston Celtics moved within a game of Cleveland in the race for the fifth spot overall in the Eastern Conference playoffs with a 120-109 triumph over New Orleans, and Los Angeles clinched the best regular season record in the league with a 124-100 triumph over the New York Nets.

Bulls 113, Rockets 109

Another player who needed little motivation was Chicago's Scott May. May scored 22 points to become the Bulls' all-time leading rookie scorer, breaking Erwin Mueller's mark of 1,015 points set in 1966.

The game also drew a record basketball crowd of 21,654 to Chicago Stadium as the playoff-bound Bulls registered their 19th win in their last 23 games.

Moses Malone, who has come of age with the Rose season, had 25 points and 20 rebounds in the game.

Celtics 120, Jazz 109

Pete Maravich, the NBA's leading scorer, was up for the Celtics, pouring in 39 points in a losing effort. Maravich hit for 23 in the third quarter, tying a Boston Garden mark for points in a period.

"Did he ever put on a show," said Boston's Jo Jo White, who led the Celtics with 28 points.

Lakers 124, Nets 100

The Lakers clinched the home-court advantage throughout the playoffs with their 52nd victory of the season. They also set a league record for victories at home as they finished with a 37-4 record at the Forum.

Celtics 120, Jazz 109

Pete Maravich, the NBA's leading scorer, was up for the Celtics, pouring in 39 points in a losing effort. Maravich hit for 23 in the third quarter, tying a Boston Garden mark for points in a period.

"Did he ever put on a show," said Boston's Jo Jo White, who led the Celtics with 28 points.

Cazzie Russell's 21 points led the Lakers in scoring.

Knicks 104, Braves 102

Despite Holzman's comments, the Knicks' Bob McAdoo was up enough to score 41 points in his return to Buffalo. McAdoo led all rebounders with 17 but was so annoyed by the negative reception he got from the Buffalo fans that he refused to talk about his exceptional effort afterwards.

Bucks 118, Hawks 107

Brian Winters also proved Holzman wrong by tallying 36 points to lead Milwaukee past Atlanta. Winters connected on 15 of 23 field goals, most of them from 20 feet or beyond.

SuperSonics 112, Kings 105

The Kings dropped their fifth straight contest and fell below .500 after being in playoff contention for most of the season. Dennis Johnson paced the Sonics with 21 points.

Trail Blazers 122, Suns 111

The Trail Blazers tied their longest winning streak of the season by taking their fifth straight game. Portland rallied from a 14-point second-quarter deficit behind Bill Walton and Bob Gross, then pulled away in the third period.

Rose Girls' Track Team Switches Coach

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Changing horses in the middle of a stream may not be the accepted thing to do. But changing coaches in the middle of the season also isn't too great an idea.

Yet that is what the Rose High School girls' track team has done this year, and it may prove to be a good step.

Ron Williams, who coaches the wrestling and the cross-country program at the school, has been picked to take over the girls' track program—for at least the rest of the year.

The Rampettes have a 4-3 dual meet record so far, with Williams coaching them through the past two meets.

"These girls haven't begun to get themselves in good shape yet," Williams said. "Right now, I'm working on trying to get them into shape. We have a lot of people out there who are not in their proper areas, and we're trying to find out where they will perform best, too."

Because of this, Williams is practicing through the Easter break. "We haven't had as many out so far as I had hoped, but those out are working hard to get ready. And in a way, having a small number is good, because I've had a chance to work individually with some of them."

The Rampettes have three more dual meets prior to the Division I meet, and Williams hopes that by then, the team will have rounded out into a good one. "We have a lot of girls with experience, and they should do well once they get into the right events. But we are also a very young team. We are dominated by sophomores and juniors, although most of our top athletes are seniors. The prospects for the future are bright, once everyone gets into the proper events, and into shape."

Rosa King is the top performer in both the shot and the discus, despite being new to the events. Others competing in these are Pat Paschal, Leann Ward and Adrienne Scott.

Kristy Gardiner brings experience to the long jump, along with Elizabeth and Shirley Johnson. "So far, each of them have at least one first in this," Williams said. Wanda Roberson is also working in this event.

The high jump lacks depth, but Nancy Garrett has been competitive so far. "We're trying to find others here."

Camille Smith and Becky Dixon both have done well in the 60 low hurdles, along with Ann Middleton, who has recently moved into this event. Robin Dixon also is working here.

Tentatively, Williams has Cora Lee, Carol Lee, Susan Tucker and Kelly Morris running the mile relay team, but Williams said that this could change.

Connie Wallace, Shirley and Elizabeth Johnson are handling the 100 yard dash and all are doing well.

"We don't have anyone right now in the mile that I can speak of," Williams said. "I put two girls into it to jog through last time. We're working with five girls in this event, and two seem to be coming along okay right now."

Wallace, Roberson and the Johnsons make up the 440-yard relay team currently.

Gardiner is the top runner in the 440-yard dash, bringing a good deal of experience to this event. Middleton and Kay Tyson are also running this one.

Shirley Johnson, Faye Tyson and Carol Lee are handling the 220-yard dash.

Smith has been the leader in the 110-yard hurdles, with Becky Dixon, Jerri Tripp, Sandy Stott, and Tammy Lockhart adding depth.

Tucker and Kathy Murphy are the top runners in the 880-yard dash. Ward and Paschal are also working in this event.

Roberson, Tyson and the Johnsons handle the 880-yard relay.

"This is the way it shapes up now, but it could change in the next few weeks," Williams said.

"This is a new sport to me, but I feel good about it. The girls are working hard, too; they just need guidance."

Plymouth Nails Williamston, 5-0

WILLIAMSTON — Plymouth High School rolled up a 5-0 victory over Williamston on Friday.

The Tigers suffered their second straight defeat, and their third overall in the game. They are now 1-2 in league play, and 3-3 overall.

Earl Brinkley hurled a two-hitter for Plymouth, striking out nine and walking three.

The Vikings picked up two runs in the first inning. Butch Whitley walked and Jappy Harris singled. Brinkley then helped himself with a triple, scoring both runners.

Two more came over in the fourth. Bill Swain doubled and Brady Piner reached on an error. Mike Cullipher plated both with a double.

The final run came in the fifth.

Wade Adams reached on an error, and singles by Swain and Leggett loaded the bases. Piner reached on an error, scoring Adams.

Swain led the Plymouth hitting with two.

The 1976-77 Daily Reflector All-Area Basketball team features only three juniors, and no sophomores among the boys, with Donnie Perkins of North Pitt as the featured player.

Julia Moye sparks the girls team from Farmville Central and that group shows only four seniors among the ten. Five are juniors and one is a sophomore.

North Pitt leads the boys' picks with three selections, while Ayden-Grifton and Rose each feature two picks. Farmville Central, Williamston and D. H. Conley each landed one on the team.

Williamston, Farmville Central, and Ayden-Grifton each had two picked for the girls' squad, with Bear Grass, Rose, Conley and North Pitt landing one each.

Donnie Perkins, the North Pitt star who appears bound for N.C. State, leads the boys' selections.

Perkins, who averaged 19.6 points a game during the season, led his team to the State 3-A finals before the Panthers finally bowed.

Joining him are two of his teammates, Virgil Pilgreen and Kenneth Roberson. Pilgreen averaged 13.4 points a contest, while Roberson, who was the playmaker for the Panthers, dumped through 12.0 per contest.

Perkins waged a constant battle with Farmville Central's Kenno Farrow for the scoring lead in the area, finishing up in second place to the Farmville senior. Farrow ended the year with the best mark in the area, 20.3 points per game.

One of the few teams to beat North Pitt during the year was Ayden-Grifton, led by two selections. Willie Forbes pushed in 13.8 points a game for the Chargers, while Ogden Braxton added 12.8 per contest.

The tallest man around is Conley's Al Tyson, who measures 6-9. One of just three juniors selected, he hit 14.0 points a game.

The other two juniors are both from Rose High School, giving the Rampants a solid hope of a winning season next year. Greg Guthrie, a guard, led the team with a 16.3 average with forward Anthony Bryant right behind at 15.8.

Rounding out the boys' team is Williamston's Barry Wallace, who hit 15.3 points a contest in leading the Tigers to a third place finish in the strong Northeastern Conference.

Julia Moye of Farmville Central had little trouble in winning the scoring title among the girls of the area this year. The Farmville senior hit 17.5 points per game.

Joining her on the team is Dianne Barrett, another double figure scorer at 10.6 per game. Between them, they led the Lady Jaguars to an Eastern Carolina Conference championship.

District honors, however, went to Williamston, which won the Northeastern Conference, and it's two top stars will be back. Junior Paula Bennett averaged 15.7 points per game, while sophomore Jo Anna Lilley canned 11.5 an outing.

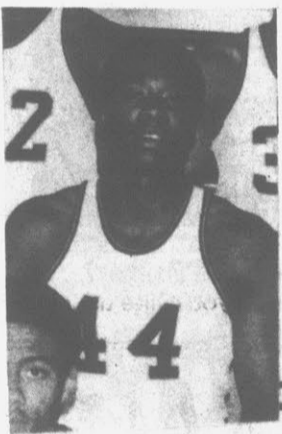

Ayden-Grifton was an up and down team during the year, but it still had two stars selected, Karen Haseley and Vertha Dixon. Miss Haseley, a junior, hit 12.7 points a game, while Miss Dixon put through 13.3 to lead the Chargerettes.

Another Dixon on the team is North Pitt's Ellen Dixon, the lone player on the list without double figures. She averaged 9.0 points.

Bear Grass' Patricia Taylor was in a battle with Miss Moye for the scoring battle until a late season injury sidelined her for the rest of the year. The junior averaged 15.7 points per game.

While Rose High School didn't fare well record wise, Sheryl Taylor, a junior, led the scoring for the team, posting 12.6 points a game.

Rounding out the team is Annie Wooten, a junior from Conley. She hit 10.9 points a game in giving the Valkyries a hope for the future.

The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission's Inland Fisheries Division will be checking striped bass caught in the Albemarle Sound for more than just legal catching limits during the next three years. Biologists plan to conduct a "creel census" on the Sound and its major tributaries to determine the recreational harvest of the striped bass and other major fish species.

The Commission reports the creel census is being undertaken as part of a larger study, which is being conducted jointly by the Division of Marine Fisheries of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources and the zoology department at N. C. State University.

One of the main areas of study is to determine the fishing effort and harvest of the striped bass, also known as rock, by both commercial and recreational fishermen. Also to be studied are the effects of environmental and biological factors on the survival of juvenile striped bass in nursery areas, the validity of present fishing regulations and estimates of the spawning population of striped bass in the Albemarle Sound and Roanoke River.

The creel census is said to be an important part of the study. Clerks will visit boating ramps around the Sound on a statistically-designed sampling schedule. They will briefly interview fishermen, examine catches and gather information about the amount of time each boat spent fishing.

The study is expected to last three years and the information obtained from it will be used to formulate a fisheries management program which will, hopefully, protect and maintain the species in Albemarle Sound for future generations.

All-Star Game Is Scheduled

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — An NCAA-sanctioned all-star basketball game matching top collegiate seniors from Virginia and North Carolina will be played next Saturday night at the University of Richmond's Robins Center.

Plans for the game were announced Friday at a news conference. The game will be sponsored by Richmond Sports International Inc., owner of the defunct Richmond Robins of the American Hockey League.

Players who definitely will be on the Virginia team include: Wilson Washington, Joey Caruthers and Terry Douglas of Old Dominion; Jeff Butler and Kevin Eastman of Richmond; Will Bynum and John Krovic of Southern Conference champion Virginia Military; Joe Allen of NCAA Division II runner-up Randolph-Macon; Phil Thieneman, Duke Thorpe and Ernest Wansley of Virginia Tech; Matt Courage of William and Mary and Curvan Lewis of Virginia Union.

Billy Langlosh of Virginia probably will be on the team, but confirmation had not been received Friday.

The game's sponsors said only four players were committed to play for North Carolina as of Friday — Sam Stagers and Don Whaley of Campbell, Mark Crow of Duke and Dave Bohman of Gardner-Webb.

Sullivan, 53, under went quadruple coronary bypass surgery two weeks ago at Barnes Hospital, a spokesman for the team said. He will not be allowed calls or visitors for some time, the team said.

But John Clayton, vice president and chief operating officer of Richmond Sports International, said these players are likely members of the North Carolina lineup:

John Kuester and Walter Davis of NCAA runner-up North Carolina, Skip Brown and Jerry Schellenberg of Wake Forest and Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell of UNC-Charlotte.

Clayton said additional players and coaches for the teams will be announced early next week.

Two performers who played with Davis on the U. S. Olympic team and would be eligible to play for North Carolina will be unable to do so because of injuries received during the season — Tom LaGarde of North Carolina and Tate Armstrong of Duke.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Clyde W. Biggers Memorial Scholarship Fund, an athletic scholarship fund at the University of Richmond in honor of the late athletic director there.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Sullivan, director of operations for the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, was reported convelescing at home Friday.

Sullivan, 53, under went quadruple coronary bypass surgery two weeks ago at Barnes Hospital, a spokesman for the team said. He will not be allowed calls or visitors for some time, the team said.

Seattle Captures First Victory As California Bows By 7-6 Score

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Put away the record books. The Seattle Mariners are not going to go all season without scoring a run or winning a game, but even some of the players were starting to think along those lines.

"I think this victory got us over the hump. After the first two games when we didn't get any runs at all, we were kind of wondering whether we ever would," said Larry Milbourne, whose RBI double capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning that lifted the Mariners to the first victory in their three-game history, a 7-6 triumph over the California Angels Friday night.

"Easy game. We had it all the way," kidded Manager Darrell Johnson, whose club first rallied from a 3-0 deficit, then blew a 5-3 lead in the eighth inning and fell behind 6-5 in the top of the ninth. "This is certainly going to relax a lot of people."

As pinch runner Jose Baez crossed the plate with the winning run, lifting the no-name Mariners over the Ryan-Tanana-Rudi-Grich-Baylor Angels, the public address system in the Seattle Kingdome blared forth with the theme from hit movie "Rocky" about one of life's biggest underdogs.

The Mariners' dramatic triumph was the only game in the American League. In National League action, the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Diego Padres 6-3 and the Houston Astrots edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2 in 11 innings.

This time, the Mariners weren't facing Frank Tanana or Nolan Ryan, who blanked them in the first two games. They erased a 3-0 deficit in the fourth, getting three runs off Gary Ross to tie the game. Dan Meyer had the honor of driving in the Mariners' first run with a double that scored Dave Collins.

Bill Stein singled to lead off the bottom of the ninth against John Verhoeven and scored the tying run on Bob Stinson's walk. Craig Reynolds was walked intentionally but Milbourne came through with his game-winning hit.

Reds 6, Padres 3

Joe Morgan, the NL's Most Valuable Player the last two seasons, drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the world champion Reds made it two in a row over San Diego. Morgan helped stake Jack Billingham to a 5-0 lead in the fifth inning when he belted a 400-foot homer off Brent Strom.

Billingham yielded a run in the seventh and departed with two out in the eighth after giving up a two-run homer to Gene Tenace, his first as a National League.

Astros 3, Braves 2

newcomers in Houston's starting line-up, blasted a leadoff home run off Bob Johnson in the bottom of the 11th to win the game.

J.R. Richard and Ken Forsch blanked the Braves after they took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer on his first time at bat in the National League. The Astros tied it on a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz in the first inning and a run-scoring double by Willie Crawford in the sixth.

No Problems For Rose Now

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It's amazing what a simple thing like an NCAA Tournament appearance can do for a school's recruiting ailments.

For North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose, getting a foot in the door was one of the hardest tasks in signing a high school prospect.

Since the 49ers' fourth-place NCAA finish, however, he's likely to be introduced once he gets in.

"We were at a high school all-star game in Connecticut," Rose said, recalling a recruiting trip with assistant Mike Pratt and Everett Bass. "When we arrived at the game, we couldn't get in without a ticket."

"But, when we said we were from UNCC, they let us in and found us seats. There must have been 30 or 40 other college coaches there, but we were the only ones introduced. After that, we had everybody coming by and telling us they'd seen UNCC in Atlanta." Some prospects wouldn't talk to him before, but are listening intently since the Atlanta experience, Rose said.

Referrals from high school coaches are also pouring in, he said.

"We have calls all the time now. Lately, we've been busy taking names and phone numbers. We'll check all these players out as much as we can," Rose said.

One of the surest signs that UNCC is, indeed, being taken seriously, however, is the attitude of rival recruiters.

In the past, recruiters could ignore UNCC, he said, feeling confident that a prize prospect would not become excited about the school.

But now, recruiters are trying to dissuade potential UNCC signees by telling them the Charlotte campus is a "commuter school" with little on-campus life, Rose said.

Dolan Captures N-S Victory

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — "Look, Bernie. It's a boy!" cried a delighted Marcia Dolan, hoisting the North and South Golf Tournament championship trophy for her husband to see.

The bronze figure on the trophy is Pinehurst's trademark — a boy putting.

But Mrs. Dolan's remark also was a tease for her husband, since the Danbury, Conn., couple has three daughters, but no son.

The 36-year-old Mrs. Dolan ousted Dianne Dailey 5 and 4 Friday to win her first North and South title. Neither woman had made it to the finals before.

Mrs. Dolan scored bogey and double bogey in losing the first two holes on the Pinehurst Country Club No. 2 course, but won every hole thereafter and finished at par 74 as her 27-year-old challenger fell victim to the jitters.

Miss Dailey, a Frankfort, Ky., native and now an assistant dean at Salem College in Winston-Salem, foretold her own doom after Thursday's semifinal victory.

"Up until now, I have played younger girls with less tournament experience and they tend to rattle when things go wrong," she had said. "Against Mrs. Dolan, it will be the opposite. She has much more tournament experience."

Beyond Death On A Cross Was An Exalted Victory

others, "This Man was the Son of God."

Then the centurion noticed a man - one who was attired as a wealthy person - walking rapidly toward the city gate. Abenadar did not know the man, but he had seen him in the last hour standing apart from the others, watching the face of Jesus with obvious compassion. This was Joseph of Arimathea.

The centurion also saw that two of Pilate's guards were now conversing with the high priests. The two came across the rock to tell him that the high priests had sent word to Pilate that if the crucified were still on the trees at sundown, all of Golgotha would be defiled, and no Jew could set foot on it henceforth.

Pilate, eager to be done with this matter of Jesus, had ordered two guards back to Golgotha and there to apply the crurifragium.

Abenadar nodded toward the three crosses and ordered the guards to do their duty. One of the guards was armed with a spear. The other carried a board.

The two men conferred and decided to begin at the left, with the silent one. He saw them coming and he knew that the crurifragium meant the breaking of both legs to hasten death...

When the robber sank to the bottom of his cross, and showed no sign of trying to pull himself up again, the two men moved on to Jesus.

The man with the spear said that this one was dead. He waved the other away, then stepped back a pace. He would make certain that this one was not feigning death. The spear jumped forward and drove inward between the fifth and sixth ribs.

The pair moved on to the political robber, who had exhausted himself with protests, and could only stare in mute horror as the man with the board took a stance beside him...

It required a degree of courage, indeed gallantry, to do what Joseph of Arimathea did that afternoon. He hurried to Fortress Antonia and requested an audience of Pontius Pilate. It was granted, and Joseph asked for permission to bury Jesus of Nazareth at once.

This was an embarrassing interview for Joseph. In asking for the body for burial, he was making known to the Procurator that he, a member of the Great Sanhedrin, the head of the well-known Sadducean family, was a secret Disciple of Jesus.

Pilate shrugged. He bowed pleasantly and gave permission for Joseph to take the body down, in conformity with Jewish custom, and to bury the body before the onset of the Sabbath.

The Hebrew senator thanked him and hurried into the streets of Jerusalem. There, by accident, he met Nicodemus, the Pharisee who had once sought Jesus in the dead of night, and Joseph said that he had just built a sepulcher in the garden at Golgotha and was about to inter the body of Jesus there. Nicodemus did not hesitate. He said that he too had been strangely moved by the words and deeds of this Man, and he wanted to assist in the funeral arrangements to see that Jesus was buried as an honorable Man.

When they arrived at Golgotha, Joseph and Nicodemus approached the friends of Jesus and told John that the Romans had given the body to the one to whom Jesus had entrusted His Mother?

The men moved on to the cross...

It was not a simple feat, but they managed to rock the patibulum loose. Once Jesus was free of the patibulum, the three men lifted Him and moved Him to a flat rock for bathing.

Nicodemus unrolled some linen sheeting and placed it on the rock beside the body. The three men lifted Jesus and set the corpse on the linen. Parts of the body were anointed with perfumed spices. The three men lifted the body on the linen and carried it slowly and tenderly 120 feet north-northwest to the middle of the low garden. In the vestibule of the sepulcher, the body was laid on a slab of stone.

In an inner room of the temple, Annas sat in informal discussion with Caiaphas and the high priests who had seen the Man Jesus die. The old man could hardly have been less moved. What worried Annas was that the faker Jesus had said, in His teachings, that He would rise again in three days. Now that He was dead, there was one more chore to do. The high priests would have to go to Pontius Pilate in the morning and ask for guards to be posted over the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea so that the scheming Disciples of this Man could not come and steal the body and claim later that He had risen from the dead. A delegation called on Pilate the following morning, but the Procurator refused to be a party to the scheme, and ordered the high priests to set their own guard over the body. They did this and they sealed the tomb too. When Jesus arose from the dead on Sunday morning, the high priests claimed that the body had been stolen while their guards slept.

4 p.m., April 7, A.D. 30

John went out to the women and gathered up the strips of linen, into which they had rubbed the spices. These were two: a resin extracted from agave, and soccotrine aloe, which has a scent of balsam, midway between myrrh and saffron.

The men worked quickly and quietly. One anointed the body with balm oil, rubbing it in with the ball of the thumb; another tore the big bolt of cloth into strips; a third wound the strips around the legs and the arms. A large white linen shroud was fitted down over the body.

When this was done, the three men carried the body of Jesus inside, stooping low to get through the stone opening. They laid Him on a shelf of rock on the right side. The body faced Jerusalem.

The white shroud was off the face. The odor of the spices was heavy in the sepulcher. When the men had arranged the body so that it appeared in proper repose, John hurried out to bring in the three Marys.

The main part of the sepulcher was so small that the men had to leave in order to allow the women to enter. The Virgin Mother bent low and was the first to go in. Her shadow, with long veil, was thrown darkly across the body as she looked down upon her Divine Son and found that she could weep no more.

Behind her stood the other Marys, their memories telling them that this was what He wanted; their hearts telling them that this was a tragic moment for mankind.

They remained a few minutes and, as they stooped to leave, they whispered among themselves that they would be back to do honor to the Messiah.

The three men laid hold of the rolling stone and moved it further away from the opening, so that the rock holding it back could be removed. Then slowly, reluctantly, they permitted it to slide back down the curved groove until it rocked into place before the tomb.

Young John looked helplessly at the big millstone, then told Mary, the Mother of Jesus, that it was time they started for "home."

It had been a long day. A very long day.

The grief among the followers of Jesus would be poignant, a volatile fuel which, in its own fierce flame, burns itself out quickly. They did not understand. (For a moment in time at least, they could not understand.) To their way of thinking, this was now a tragic defeat. It was not.

It was victory beyond their most exalted imaginings. He had come here to die. And He had died. He had come to preach a new covenant with His Father, and He had preached it. He had come to tell man that the way to everlasting life was love - each for the other, each for Him, and His love for all - and He had proved this by laying down His life in a torrent of torment-for them.

He did not die particularly for the Jews, or for the Gentiles. He died for man. All mankind.

RABIES CONTROL

DOG VACCINATION CLINICS SCHEDULE

The Pitt County Community Health Department is again offering county wide dog vaccination clinics to the citizens of Pitt County as a convenience to them and in its effort to keep Pitt County free of rabies.

All dogs four (4) months old and over are to be vaccinated. Dogs receiving their first vaccination this year will need to be vaccinated again in 1978. For dogs that have been previously vaccinated, the vaccination is good for three (3) years.

The vaccine will be administered by licensed Doctors of Veterinary Medicine, using the latest advancement in vaccine development.

The General Statutes of North Carolina require that all dogs be vaccinated and that they display the vaccination tag at all times. This tag can also be used to identify your dog if lost or strayed. Please take your dog to the clinic nearest your home for this vaccination. Again this year, all of the clinics will be held in the evening as an additional convenience.

28,000 Not Easter Eggs, Collected On Farm Daily

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Easter Bunny wasn't the only one hurrying around getting the eggs ready for Easter this week. The Pitt County egg producers were equally as busy.

Charles McLawhorn and Sons of Winterville have noticed increased egg sales during the Spring and Easter season.

"Our sales usually pick up in the Spring and early Summer. Our sales are up, but we do not deliberately try to increase production at Easter. We sell a lot of the smaller eggs at Easter, because this what most people use to decorate for egg hunts," Charles McLawhorn said.

The egg farm that Charles McLawhorn and Sons operates owns 40,000 hens which produce about 28,000 eggs a day. The farm buys the chickens when they are about 20 weeks old when they are beginning to lay eggs. The McLawhorns keep chickens that are six different ages to produce different sizes of eggs at all times.

"We sell our eggs locally mostly. We sell to the local community and to several supermarkets and restaurants in the area and we ship some of our eggs to Virginia each week," McLawhorn said.

The McLawhorn Egg Farm uses the California Style chicken houses which are open in the summer and covered with plastic in the winter. McLawhorn said that because of the severe cold winter this year, that egg production was down, production prices were up and some of the chickens caught colds. Because of the warmer temperatures and an increase of production during the warmer weather, McLawhorn said he expects that the prices will be lower during the summer than they were in the winter.

When the chickens lay eggs at the McLawhorn farm, the eggs roll outside the pen into a tray where they are hand collected. The eggs are transported to a building where they are cleaned and are inspected for blood spots over a lighted machine. The eggs are hand graded and boxed for shipping. After they are boxed, they are placed in crates and kept cool until shipping.

McLawhorn recommends that persons who use eggs for egg hunts should buy them several days before boiling to allow easier peeling.

Another major egg producer in Pitt County is Sunnyside Eggs Inc. which is owned by John Wallace who operates poultry operations along the Eastern Seaboard. Sunnyside Eggs buys eggs from local farmers and boxes them for delivery, according to Ken Paramore, Sales Manager.

During an average week of production, Sunnyside Eggs produces 5,000 to 6,000 cases holding 30 dozen each.

"During the week preceding Easter, we produce about 8,000 to 9,000 cases of 30 dozen each. This is our peak production time and we are even having to turn down some orders," Paramore said.

"Although we have this 2,000 to 3,000 case increase during Easter, the week after Easter, production is right back to normal."

Paramore explained that the smaller eggs sell better during the Easter season.

"We sell more small, pee wee, and medium size eggs during the Easter season. This is the size people like to decorate and use for egg hunts and they are cheaper," he added.

Sunnyside Eggs is a USDA inspected plant. Paramore said that the company is working to get all egg producers to be USDA inspected.

"We are trying to get all egg production plants to be USDA inspected. We feel that our competition in Pitt County is top quality, but this is not so in many other parts of the state. There has been much bad news about eggs in the past and we are trying to protect the image of egg production. The American Egg Board was established this year to educate the public about eggs and to launch a nationwide campaign about the incredible edible eggs," Paramore said.

The eggs at Sunnyside Eggs are also cleaned, inspected over a lighted machine and then individually weighed by machine for grading and boxing. The eggs are boxed in numerous different boxes. Sunnyside Eggs provides eggs for several statewide food chains and local food chains.

Today is Easter Sunday and as you open your Easter Basket or join an Easter egg hunt you can be assured that both the Easter Bunny and local egg producers have been busy preparing the Easter treats for you.

Disparity In Federal Aid Being Studied

By MERRILL HARTSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid to states and localities does not take into account the varying economic growth rates and fiscal pressures among the states and perhaps should be revamped, a federal-state commission says.

Statistics show that heavy federal spending in the West and South is difficult to reconcile with the fact that the burden of state taxes is heavier in the industrialized Northeast and Midwest, the Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations said. But the commission, in a report released Friday, stopped short of recommending a wholesale change in the criteria upon which federal aid is channeled to the states.

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer President Carter will be addressing a subject of special sensitivity for Wall Street when he proposes his promised anti-inflation package this coming week. Market-watchers have come up with a variety of explanations for the weak showing of stock and bond prices so far this year, but inflation fears rank first on most of their lists.

The effects of those cost-of-living concerns were demonstrated in the past week, when the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 8.48 to 918.88 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index dropped .86 to 98.35.

Both indicators touched new lows for the year before the market staged a modest rally Thursday on the eve of the three-day Easter holiday weekend. The week began with a trade association survey in which corporate buying executives reported a surge in prices of many industrial raw materials last month. And it ended with the government's report that the wholesale price index jumped a seasonally adjusted 1.1 percent in March, for its sharpest rise since October 1975.

Carter and his top aides have sought repeatedly to assure the financial community that the administration is firmly committed to fighting inflation. Despite that, several Wall Street analysts asserted this past week that they weren't expecting anything in the President's anti-inflation message to inspire a significant change in the mood of the stock and bond markets.

"There's a general feeling that he isn't going to say all that much of significance," said Robert Colm, chief investment strategist at Faulkner, Dawkin & Sullivan. "I think it's going to be a very soft, very informal program," observed Manown "Buck" Kisor, director of research at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis. This year's case of inflation jitters began with cold weather in January that adversely affected food and fuel prices. Since then its focus has broadened.

As A. Gary Shilling, director of White Weld Economic Services, put it: "Not only is there continuing concern over the effects of the West Coast drought, but steady hikes in raw industrial commodity prices have led some to believe we are in the throes of a major commodity boom." Shilling argues that the fears about raw material prices may well be excessive. "It is quite plausible that businessmen are currently being priced in anicipation of future demand," he said. "If so, recent price increases may be self-defeating because of inflation's self-correcting effect on consumer sentiment and ultimately on aggregate demand."

William N. Griggs and Leonard J. Santow of Schroders Inc. noted that the Journal of Commerce's price index of 15 industrial materials has risen in each of the first three months of 1977. But they pointed out that the rise in the index from 194.8 at years' end to 208.2 on March 31 had so far merely offset a decline that took place in the second half of last year. The index stood at 211.9 last June 30. "While the magnitude of this increase is consequential, the advance to this point is not quite as disturbing as might seem to be the case at first glance," they wrote.

The important question, they said, is whether the uptrend continues, pushing materials prices past their old mid-1970s peaks. "Such an event would clearly be of consequence in the outlook for inflation," they concluded.

"Similar to the discovery of city-suburb disparities in the 1960s, a number of observers feel that findings such as these indicate the need for major revisions in the federal aid system."

The study did not talk in terms of "tax load," however. It defined tax burden as the ratio of state-local tax collections to resident personal income.

Miss Deborah Sharek Is Bride

SMITHFIELD — Miss Deborah Marie Sharek and Richard Douglas Bennett were united in marriage Saturday evening at First Presbyterian Church. The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. William A. Leist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement William Sharek of Smithfield. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham Bennett of Roanoke Rapids.

The bride wore a white silk sheer gown fashioned with a sculptured V-neckline, fitted empire bodice, and long bishop sleeves adorned with Venise lace and pearl embroidery. The front of the gown featured a border of scalloped Venise lace around the neckline and down the front of the skirt to form a princess line around the chapel length train. Lace motifs adorned the sleeves and train.

She wore a matching veil of silk illusion attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. The veil was full-length. She carried a cascade of white phalaenopsis orchids interspersed with white roses, white feathered carnations, white stephanotis and bakers fern.

The dress was topped with a caplet of matching pink knit bordered by a flounce. She carried a nosegay of multicolored pastel flowers with pink streamers. She wore a matching pink horsehair hat accented with a pale pink tulle bow and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Stephanie Bennett of Roanoke Rapids, sister of the bridegroom, Joy Collette, Marianne Carroll and Mary Hartman, all of Greenville, Paula Clemens Jones of Garner, Kathy Boiselle of Fayetteville, and Pat Judge of Greenville, S.C. They wore dresses identical to the honor attendant's.

Chrissy Swertfeger of Smithfield was flower girl. She wore a long dress of pink and white dotted Swiss with three layers of flounce. The bodice was enhanced with hand-embroidered flowers and ribbon. She carried a white basket of mixed pastel flowers.

Ralph G. Bennett, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mike Bennett of Roanoke Rapids, brother of the bridegroom, Bill Sharek of Greenville, brother of the bride, Dave Edwards, Terry White, Donnie Hall, Lee Elks and Stephen Casey, all of Greenville.

Hunter Boone of Smithfield was ring bearer.

Sharek presided at the bridal registry. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hamilton and Mrs. J. C. Barbour, Jr. Attending the cake table were Mrs. Ann Bonder and Mrs. Shirley Pevette, and at the punch fountain were Mrs. Ida Bevilacqua and Mrs. Lu Catafygioti. Dress Fabric Given For Cherry Hospital Patients

According to Mrs. Rachel Bailey of Fountain, the Pitt County Mental Health Association has contributed fabric for 35 garments for patient at Cherry Hospital.

This is in cooperation with the Coastal Plain Development Association (CPDA) Home Economics Division, which has worked on the project for a number of years.

Mrs. Bailey stated that "The reason the Home Economics Division got involved in the project was that members learned that many patients only have clothing provided by the state. These garments are gray gown-type dresses with Cherry Hospital stamped across the back. Studies have shown that many patients who had not been responding to treatment seemed to respond more when wearing colorful garments."

"Volunteers are needed now to construct these garments," Mrs. Bailey stated. These garments are very simple and should be completely machine made. There are no zippers, buttons, belts or pockets.

Persons interested in making a dress can call any member of the Home Economics Division: Mrs. Ann Davis, 758-5184; Mrs. Marie Buck, 756-5097; Mrs. Blackie Smith, 752-7656; Mrs. Ruth Carawan, 752-4876; Mrs. Annie Hardee, Simpson; Mrs. Reba Boyd, 524-4666; Mrs. Rachel Bailey, 753-4103; and Mrs. Frances Burns, 752-7473, or Mrs. Evelyn L. Spangler, home economics extension agent, 758-1196.

McDustrell-Minette Vows Said

FARMVILLE — Miss Lynne Ann Minette became the bride of John Henry McDustrell in a formal candlelight ceremony Saturday evening at six o'clock at the First Baptist Church. The vows were spoken before the Rev. Ronald Lee Davis, minister.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pittman Minette of Farmville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Glenn McDustrell of Wilson.

The church was decorated with a spiral brass candelabra entwined with greenery and holding cathedral candles. Two nine-branch candelabra illuminated the foreground. Pews for the mothers were marked with ivory satin bows.

Russell Roebuck of Wilson presented a program of traditional wedding music. Mrs. Bob Deans sang "I Love Thee" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Junior bridesmaids Martha Reid Satterwaite of Farmville and Stephanie Lee Dunnigan of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, were dressed like the honor attendants and wore mixed flowers in their hair.

Howard Glenn McDustrell, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Thomas Howard McDustrell, brother of the bridegroom, Parker Stokes of Kinston and Robert Ellis Stokes of Stokes, both cousins of the bridegroom, Joseph Allan Gilbert and Mark Proctor, both of Wilson, John Hamey Alford of Raleigh, David Michael McLawhorn of Farmville, and Billy Ellis of Statesville.

The mother of the bride wore a blue polyester and lace dress with a full length blue skirt. She wore a pink rose corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of coral polyester knit with a full length coat of matching material. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The grandmother of the bride wore a floral blue full length dress and coat with an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the wedding, the bride's parents entertained at a candlelight reception in their home. You'll see." But Christmas came and went and the flab continued to drop off.

Then, last week, I went to the store and a fear gripped me that nearly stopped my heart from beating. The shelves were stripped of low-calorie drinks. There was none to be had. I rushed to the cashier. "Where are the diet drinks? The Tabs... The Pepsi Lights? The Frescas?"

"Where have you been?" she asked. "There's a ban on saccharin. The Food and Drug Administration has taken it off the market because it's bad. It's cold turkey for you."

I shoved her aside and ran out into the street, not daring to believe what I had heard. I can't diet by myself. I'm weak. There was only one course left for me — back to the playground.

It didn't take me long to find my contact. She was humming, "You put a little lemony taste in and take out half the calories."

"You've got to help me," I said hysterically. "They've taken all the diet soft drinks off the shelves in the supermarkets. I can't go back to being fat again, do you understand? I can't do it."

She smirked my face. "Get hold of yourself. Here, this will tide you over." I gave her a buck in exchange for a brown bag that concealed a can of cola. Feverishly, I flipped the top off and took a drink. Then I spit it out. It was pure sugar!

May my blubber be on the Food and Drug Administration's conscience.

"How much does it cost?" "Hey, no problem," she smiled. "It's on me. If you like it, I'll be back here tomorrow with another six-pack."

It's an old story. Within a week, I had developed a real Diet-Rite habit. I had it with my lunch... in the evening with popcorn... on the airlines... on picnics. It made me feel good. (Especially, the cans of cola cut with lemon.)

One day my husband said, "I'm worried about you. You look good. Are you taking too good care of yourself?"

"Don't worry about me," I said. "I've just lost a few pounds. I'll pig out at Christmas."

If you don't want to read sad stories today, then skip this one.

Mine is the story of a million women who once were happy in their lemon-scented houses, raising their kids, smelling their laundry, and hitting the Sara Lee every couple of hours.

Then one day I was out on the playground reading the American Journal on Tooth Decay when a sleezy-looking woman sat down beside me and said, "Hey kid, want a Diet-Rite cola?"

"What is it?" I asked, my eyes wide with innocence.

"It'll make you thin," she said. "Just take one sip. Go ahead. It won't hurt you."

DEAR ABBY: Angelo and I have an unusually good marriage. He's considerate, generous and loving. His only fault is not wanting outsiders for friends. (He considers anyone outside his family an "outsider.") Angelo comes from a large and clannish family. They're nice people, and I really like them. I like apple pie, too, but I don't want it seven nights a week!

Whenever an outsider invites us over, my husband says, "Let's not get involved." The only people we ever see socially are his relatives.

We've taken some fabulous trips, but he always has to have a brother, sister or cousin along. Now he wants to plan a trip to Europe with his parents!

Am I unreasonable to want to socialize with somebody besides his relatives? What's wrong with him?

SMOTHERED IN RELATIVES

DEAR SMOTHERED: I suspect your husband is reluctant to face the challenge of new and unfamiliar social situations. You're not unreasonable to want friends who aren't relatives. Hang in there and encourage Angelo to expand his social boundaries. It will add a new dimension to your considerate, generous and loving man.

DEAR ABBY: I am moving to Atlanta, Ga., and several friends here have said, "You MUST look up 'Mr. Wonderful'—here's his name and phone number. Just call and say you are a friend of mine."

Abby, is it proper for a new woman in town to call a stranger and put him on the spot that way? I can't just call a man and say, "Hello, I'm Margaret Brown. I'm 35, divorced, have two children and am self-supporting. I'm attractive, a lot of fun, my measurements are 36-25-37, and Howard Hossenfeffer told me to call you."

I'm afraid if I don't call I might miss something, and if I do call, I'll appear pushy. How should this be handled?

FROM TAMPA

DEAR FROM: Ask all your big-hearted friends to write "Mr. Wonderful" and suggest that he call YOU. That way, the go-between can clue the friend in on all the vital statistics and leave it to him to call you if he's interested.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you print this. I'm sick and tired of people telling me to smile. If I'm not smiling and they don't like it, they can always look the other way.

I've had people come up to me and ask who I'm mad at just because I'm not smiling. That really bugs me.

Friends and relatives keep telling me I should smile more. Abby, if a person doesn't smile, there could be a reason for it. They could have a serious problem or some kind of illness, and they don't appreciate having some stupid idiot tell them to smile.

If someone is ugly or sick, you wouldn't go up to them and say, "Boy, are you ever ugly," or, "Gee, you look sick." To me it's the same thing.

NO GEISHA GIRL

DEAR NO: I understand your irritation, but I don't agree with you. Facial expressions are habit-forming. A smile is a universal, unspoken bid for friendship. A gloomy countenance, for whatever reason, turns people off. Think about it.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

On The Young Side

By JANET GANTT

Easter spirit and good will were apparent at Rose High in the short week preceding the Easter holidays.

A stuffed rabbit was won by Margie Peoples in a contest, sponsored by the Student Government Association and proceeds will be donated to the United Christian Children's Fund. Chairman Anna Marie Payne and the Assembly, Committee worked diligently to sponsored the project.

During the week, the 1977 marshals were selected. Their duties will be to act as hosts and hostesses at all graduation events. Those honored in the selection were Sandra Atkins, Cindy Browning, Tori Clement, Curtis Ebbs, Donna Edwards, Debbie Girdharry, Linda Hall, Anita Harper, Von Hong, Shonda Hubbard, Micki Ito and Betty Sue Jenkins.

Also serving in this capacity will be Tom Johnson, Chris Keyes, Wendy Martin, Suzanne McGee, Anne Middleton, Gary Pollard, Sally Roll, Janet Vultee, Lillie Whichard, Virginia Whichard, Liza White, and Grace Wilkins. Faculty advisors are Mrs. Erma Carr and Mrs. Martha Martin. Selection for marshals is based on one's class rank after the first semester of the junior year.

The Greenville chapter of Teen Democrats attended the state convention and captured several outstanding awards. Seniors Dave Middleton and Hope MacMillan were declared two of the top 10 Teen Democrats in North Carolina. This selection was based on their displays of leadership throughout the organization's year of work.

Climaxing the week was the announcement of awards for individual chapters. Greenville's club was named to the top 10 of Teen Democratic Associations in the state.

The Columbia Press Association recently awarded Rose High's newspaper, "Rampant Lines," a first place rating among high schools classified in their division. "Rampant Lines" newspapers have continually placed well in this prestigious national contest during the past years.

Editors for the current year are Beth Lancaster, editor-in-chief, and Rocky Butler, assistant editor. Mrs. Janice Cox serves the staff as faculty advisor.

Insectarium Will Show The Predator And Prey

By RICK VAN SANT
CINCINNATI (UPI) — American zoos virtually ignore a class of animals comprising three-fourths of all living things, complains Cincinnati Zoo Director Ed Maruska.

So, for the past several years Maruska and his staff have been carefully laying the groundwork for an $850,000 "grand opening" this summer they figure finally will do justice to the ignored animals. The zoo will devote an entire building to insects.

"Most people just think of insects as creepy-crawly things," said Milan Busching, the zoo's new insect keeper. "I think some politer appreciation for insects is in order."

Busching and Maruska intend for their Insectarium to be a "slice of life" exhibit — colonies of insects will be born, work and die in surroundings equating their natural habitat.

"To view a single ant isn't very exciting," says Maruska. "But to see a colony in action — now that's something Viewing cutaway environments through glass, people will be able to see how insects work and live underground.

"There's a lot that can be learned here, but we're being careful to present all this in an entertaining manner. There will be colorful graphics and illustrations to help make the exhibits come to life."

Some insects will even be allowed to be killed by their natural enemies, just as it would happen in their natural environment.

"We will show predator and prey," says Maruska. "It happens in the insect's everyday life and it will happen here. If we did not allow it to happen, we would not be presenting a true picture."

Insect-eating plants, such as the Venus Flytrap, also will be a part of the Insectarium.

Busching will make certain that colonies of insects preyed upon will continue to flourish, as most insects can reproduce rapidly in large numbers.

"This brings up a special problem we will have with insects that we haven't encountered with most of our other animals," Maruska said. "We expect to have our elephants and lions with us many years, but insects are very short-lived. We'll have to make sure we provide the environment for good reproduction."

The natural life of some butterflies and moths ranges from just one week to three months and the average life of a honey bee — which literally works itself to death — is just four weeks.

"I don't think the public fully realizes the value of insects," says Maruska. "Our whole survival depends on insects. They pollinate our food products."

"And, insects can show us biological principles that are much harder to observe in larger animals. There's a lot man can learn from insects."

"After all," Maruska adds, "insects have been around for 300 million years, so they've been pretty successful at this life business."

In the 6,400-square foot "Insectarium," zoo visitors will be able to peer inside an active bee hive, watch leaf-cutting ants working underground and walk through a tropical aviary with hundreds of butterflies flying about.

Zoo officials have traveled as far as Panama to gather exotic insects, such as beetles.

"There are some tight restrictions on the importation of insects, so we've been working closely with the Department of Agriculture on our project," Maruska said.

"I've got a feeling our Insectarium is going to be quite popular," said Busching, 25, who has a master's degree in entomology from Purdue University. "Maybe just as popular as the elephants, lions and gorillas."

Curious As To The Cost

By KENNETH L. WHITING
SINGAPORE (AP) — The taxi driver pulled up in front of a home and asked his foreign fare: "You live here?"

"Yes."

"How much you pay?"

"What?"

"How much rent you pay?"

"I was so startled that I told him the amount," the newly arrived American businessman said, while reconstructing his first encounter with Singapore's "how much?" habit.

The candid curiosity of many Singaporeans about the price paid for everything from hairdos to houses astonishes many visitors, particularly those from the West.

"My servant asks how much I paid for every item when I come back from shopping," said the wife of an Australian assigned here. "At first I was shocked, but I'm slowly getting used to it."

Her husband chimed in: "There's no use thinking it's rude. Anyhow, I've started to ask the occasional 'how much?' myself."

A porter at Paya Lebar airport glances at the new luggage in his charge and asks its owner: "How much?"

The bartender in a plush hotel, attempting a casual chat with a tourist, inquires: "How much money you make back in your country?"

"How much?" is as much a part of everyday conversation as comments about the weather would be in the United States. It seems to satisfy both simple curiosity and a desire to boast about bargains.

Museum School Marks 100th

BOSTON (AP) — "Art in Transition: A Century of the Museum School," an exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts here through May 29, commemorates the 100th anniversary of the school of the Museum of Fine Arts.

The exhibit includes more than 250 works in every medium by the schools' founders, alumni and faculty, drawn from private and public collections. Organized by decade, it reflects the changes in art and art education during the past century.

Malamud Wins Heritage Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Malamud, who once said "Jews and Jewish life are my turf," was recently awarded the B'nai B'rith Jewish Heritage Award for 1976. The 62-year-old novelist, holder of a Pulitzer Prize and two National Book Awards, received the $1,000 prize for "excellence in Jewish literature."

Malamud has said that for him the Jew is a symbol of man's tragic experience. "I try to see the Jew as a universal man," he said. "Every man is a Jew, though he may not know it."

Says Wrinkles Are Inherited

NEW YORK (UPI) — "With today's microscopes you can see wrinkles programmed genetically on a two-week-old baby's skin," says a noted English-born beauty authority.

"Wrinkles are inherited the same way we inherit our bone structure, our coloring, our personality," says Shirley Lord, writing in a new book on beauty published by Culligan.

The future depth of wrinkles and their visibility depend on how we live our lives, she says. "A lifetime of exposure to rough weather, or a lifetime of bathing in hard water, will certainly lessen the chance of those genetically programmed wrinkles staying out of sight."

While he is here, he will be escorted on his rounds by Chet Emerson, Executive Director of the local Boys' Club.

On Thursday, at 10 a.m., Newcombe will speak to an assembly of students at Wellcome Middle School. That afternoon at 1:30 p.m., he will be at Ayden Grammar School.

Friday's schedule for Newcombe includes a 10 a.m. visit to G. R. Whitfield School in Grimesland; and at 1:30 p.m. he will be at Aycock Junior High. In addition, Newcombe will be on an early (6:35 a.m.) guest spot on "Carolina Today," on Channel 9, WNCT-TV, Friday.

Also on Thursday afternoon, beginning at 5:30 p.m., Newcombe will be at the Boys' Club building on Skinner Street to meet and talk to members of the club there. At that time, the public will be welcome to come by and meet Newcombe.

LIFE EXPECTANCY

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The life expectancy of Mexicans has increased from 40 years in 1946 to 65 today.

Jackie Robinson — to break the "color barrier" in major league sports. Newcombe received early recognition, and a number of sports awards, including the coveted "Cy Young Award" in 1956 for outstanding pitcher in both major leagues.

In 1949, Newcombe won 17 games, lost 8, and was voted "Rookie-of-the-Year" by both the Baseball Writers Association and Sporting News Newspaper.

Newcombe pitched in three world series and in five All-Star games. At 34, after failing as an outfielder and first basemen for a team in Nagoya, Japan, Don Newcombe was washed up in his baseball career. From then until 1966 it was a downhill alcoholic slide for Newcombe. Then, in 1966, his second wife Bille made plans to take their three children and leave him. Newcombe promised that if they would not leave, he'd never take another drink — and he has kept his promise. For several years now, Newcombe has served as a member of the Advisory Board, National Council on Alcoholism, and is Director of Community Relations, Dodgers Corporation.

Don Newcombe

In recent sports years, the star who became an alcoholic has spent his a considerable portion of his time traveling speaking to young and old on the tragedy of drinking.

Newcombe's visit to Greenville is being sponsored by the Boys' Clubs of Pitt County.

Oil Slowdown Said Temporary

FARMINGTON, Conn. (UPI) — The slowdown in oil production on mainland China last year is only temporary, according to oil industry analyst B.J. Esposito. Production in the country last year showed a 13 per cent rise from the year before, when the rise was double this figure for 1974.

Esposito, in a report, blamed the slowdown on such factors as lack of refinery capacity, natural disasters, lack of customers and worker discontent.

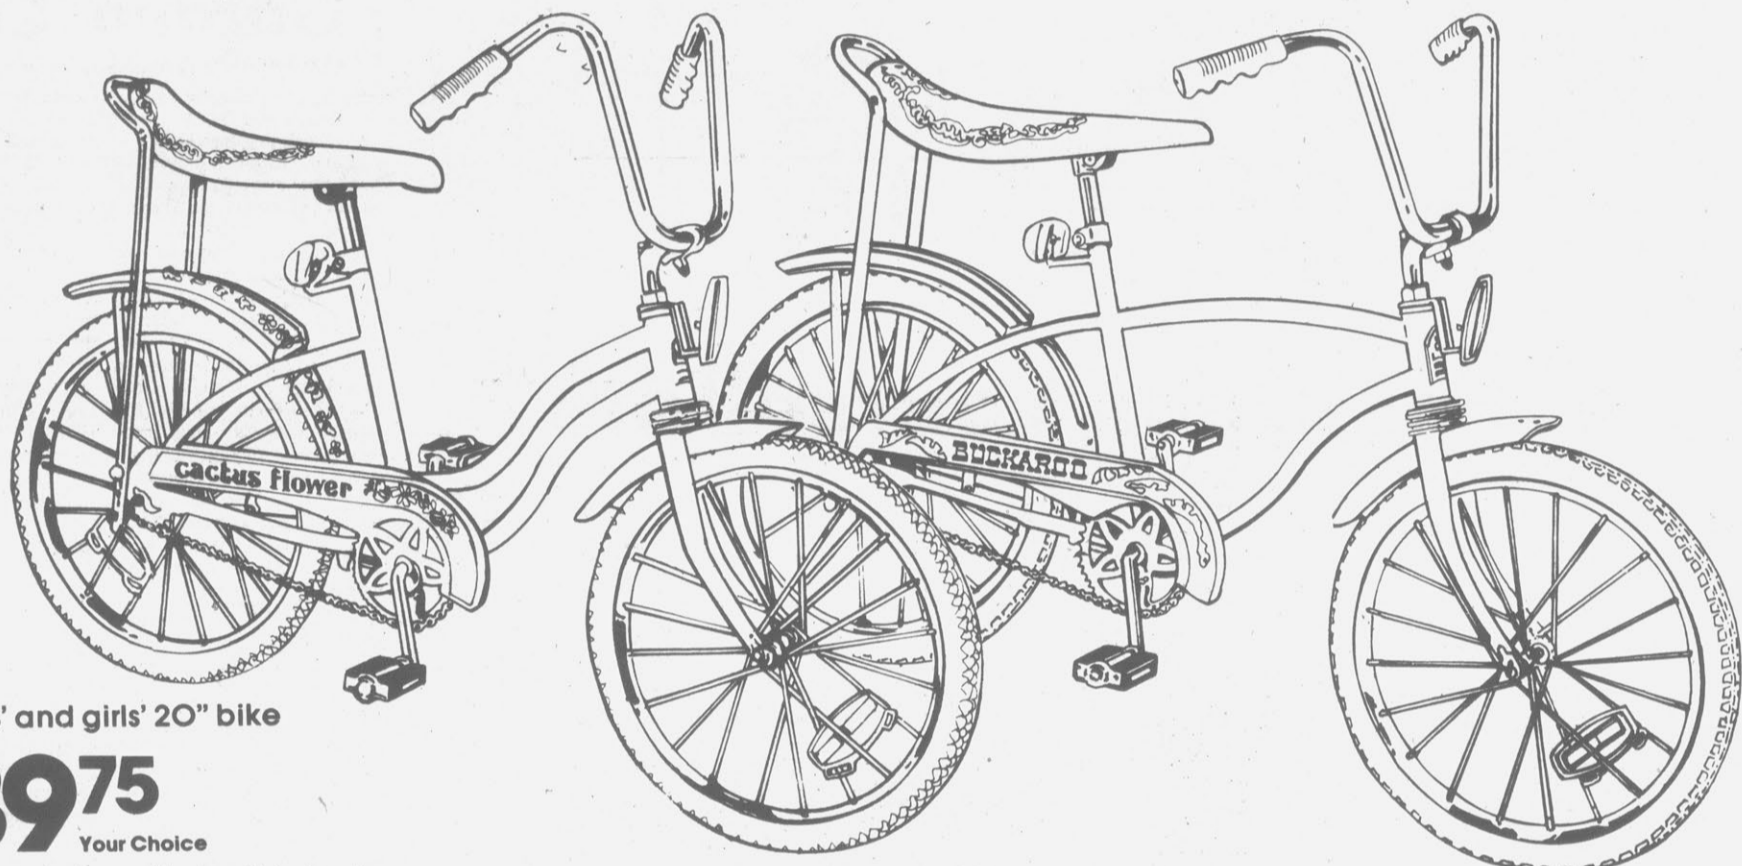

But he said the slowdown is temporary, particularly if the political situation is stabilized. In addition, he noted that China has cut back sharply on its foreign oil imports.

FORMAL SPACE BALANCES FAMILY AREAS

THREE BEDROOM HOME BENEFITS FROM EFFECTIVE TRAFFIC PATTERN

By Jerry Bishop

Gracious foyer and formal living and dining rooms demand equal time with family-oriented space in the Somerworth, a sleek three bedroom ranch style.

With its well-conceived traffic pattern and efficient use of space, the design is set to accommodate elegant dinner parties or family television viewing. Both living room and family room are distinguished by wood-burning fireplace and patio access.

The exterior is a delightful contrast of vertical siding and posts with horizontal brick and garage door, with a touch of stone to add interest. A small porch guides visitors to the tiled foyer, skirted by coat closet and doorway to basement.

At the end of the tiled foyer are the living room and dining room, two separate areas that can be treated as a single entertaining center. A cheery wood-burning fireplace spells a warm, inviting atmosphere, and sliding glass doors open to the patio to encourage outdoor living.

Next to the dining room is the kitchen, square, spacious, and lavished with counter space. Its location, only steps from the family room, allows the use of the family room for family dining. Completing the informal living area is the handy laundry room, adjacent full bath with shower, and storage room. Attentive planning is shown by the side entry door, leading directly to the family living area, which makes a total of five outside entrances and assures accessibility while minimizing cross-traffic. At left of the foyer, three bedrooms cluster around two full baths. A comfortable master bedroom adjoins a private dressing area with built-in vanity and double closets and merits a full bath.

Storage space is provided in the double garage, and additional storage or recreation areas can be finished in the full basement.

Some things you should know about the use of foam rubber:

Foam up to 2 inches thick can be cut with ordinary scissors. Thicker pieces can be cut with an upholsterer's electric knife or a bandsaw. The dealer will cut it for you if you bring in the pattern. Be sure to allow an extra half-inch margin around all sides of the pattern, since the margin later will be compressed and serve to keep the fabric covering tightly in place.

A pattern is unnecessary if you are covering something like a kitchen chair where the seat is easily removable. In that case, simply trace the outline directly on the foam.

To hold together two pieces of foam, use two coats of cement on both the rubber and the tacking tape. Let the cemented pieces set for an hour or two before using. Ordinary fabricating cement, the kind found in most offices, is excellent for this purpose.

When making a cushion and you want to achieve a slightly rounded effect, use what upholsterers call "crowned" pincore foam.

If you plan to cover a cushion with a plastic or a very tightly woven material or with leather, allow some kind of opening for the circulation of air.

When using leather, high-pile fabrics, stretchy fabrics and plastics, cover the foam with muslin. When in direct contact with foam, plastics can become stiff and brittle. In addition, there can be a chemical reaction which may cause discoloration.

The problems are largely avoided if you use a plastic material which has a fabric backing. Vinyl plastic fabrics are excellent for use with latex foam, especially the fabric-backed and supported vinyls which are washable.

Latex foam as a carpet underlay is non-skid, resilient and can be cut to shape to match a throw rug without shredding. It can also be used directly over concrete or other hard flooring.

If you have a small entrance hall or narrow foyer to furnish, you can knock together a slim, wooden bench or use an old piano bench, covering it with a one-inch-thick piece of slab foam and a bright fabric.

When small pieces of latex foam rubber are left over from projects, don't discard them. A few uses for these include — as a covering for wire hangers to eliminate the crease that often occurs on trousers hung on the bare wire; as a lint brush, since a small piece works wonders on both lint and pet hair; to protect fragile items during shipment; to stop small rattles around the house; as a protection for your camera and small radio when taking them on a trip; to hold fishing lures, one way being to sew a small piece of foam to a fishing jacket for imbedding artificial flies; and to decorate the home during the holiday season, by cutting the foam into interesting shapes and gluing tinsel to them.

(How to upholster chairs and sofas, and make cushions and pillows, are among the projects detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "How to Use Foam Rubber," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

A. Whiteflies are difficult to control once they get established. Their high reproductive capacity — egg to adult in 7 days — and waxy protective covering prevent control by insecticides. Malathion is effective only when the population is low. Try to prevent a build up of whiteflies by buying insect-free plants, spraying weekly with malathion and removing infested plants. Whiteflies overwinter indoors so you need to battle these pests all year. (K. A. Sorensen, extension entomologist)

Answers Timely Gardening Questions)

Q. Our gardenia is practically black from freeze damage. What should be done? (J. B., Winston-Salem)

A. Prune the gardenia back to live wood. Some gardenias were killed completely, others still have life down the stem. If you're one of the lucky ones, you'll find a healthy green color beneath the bark after cutting away the top few inches of the stem. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. I have a six-year-old Bing cherry tree that has never produced any cherries. They begin to develop but never fully mature. Could pollination be the problem? (L. W., Raleigh)

A. Yes. Sweet cherries are pollen sterile. You need varieties such as Winslow and Black Tartarian as pollinators. Do not use Lambert or Napoleon. (Melvin H. Kolbe, extension horticulturist)

Q. Do pine trees draw lightning? We have lost three in our yard? (L. C., Fayetteville)

A. You can get some arguments on this question. Lightning is a complex process that basically occurs during thunderstorms when an electrical charge originating from clouds meets an opposite electrical charge originating from the ground. North Carolina has from 40 to 50 thunderstorms annually. Pine trees are growing on a large portion of the land area. Therefore, the odds of them being in an area of large electrical ground charges during a thunderstorm are great. Since the pines are good conductors of the ground charge, then the likelihood of them being struck is also great. Oak trees are in the same category as the pine. (William M. Stanton, extension forest resources specialist)

Q. What can I do to control whiteflies on my tomatoes this year? I sprayed with malathion last year without success. (L. E., Greensboro)

A. Whiteflies are difficult to control once they get established. Their high reproductive capacity — egg to adult in 7 days — and waxy protective covering prevent control by insecticides. Malathion is effective only when the population is low. Try to prevent a build up of whiteflies by buying insect-free plants, spraying weekly with malathion and removing infested plants. Relief For Do-It-Yourselfers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Backache, a big do-it-yourselfer malaise, may be the penalty for improper stance, something to keep in mind now that those outdoor back strainers — pulling, yanking, digging, lifting, climbing and carrying — are upon us. There's a right way to do them without straining the back: just bend the knees and lift with the legs. This should be a primary rule in exerting such pressures on the body.

Exercise can help strengthen the back, according to Roger Moffat, physical director of the YMCA in Stamford, Conn. Three years ago he began a back program for women and men after attending training sessions given by Dr. Hans Kraus of New York, the author of a book on the subject. The exercises are being implemented in branches of the "Y" all over the United States.

"The program consists of a series of nonstrenuous exercises to be performed daily, twice a week in our structured class, and other days at home. Consistency must be maintained to achieve success. There are six basic exercises and others are added weekly until 18 are done," Moffat explains.

His advice to home exercisers includes "be faithful to the exercises; avoid fatigue by beginning with gentle movements and gradually easing into a full program; set aside a half hour a day and don't permit interference as you exercise; start with a warmup of three exercises and repeat them in reverse order; you may want to do the exercises more than once a day but needless repetition — more than twice a day — may make you stiff."

Here are six basic exercises used at the "Y" that will give you a start in conditioning your back. To do them, dress comfortably in underclothes, no shoes or stockings. Lie on a rug or pad on floor. To begin, put a pillow under knees, each arm, and a pillow or rolled up towel under the back of your neck. Each exercise is done two or three times. Rest in between.

One — Lie on floor. Wobble your neck, shoulders, arms, thighs, legs, feet to "loosen up." Raise arms slowly, let drop. Repeat all motions. Let head drop to left, then to right. Take a deep breath. Exhale slowly. Try to feel heavy — let head, shoulders, arms rest on floor. Breathe deeply again. Close eyes, let jaw sag, try to exhale slowly. Tighten all muscles and your neck then relax. It is important to feel the difference between tension and relaxation.

Two — Shrug your shoulders by sliding them up toward the ears as you lie on floor with back on floor, knees bent.

Three — Turn head all the way to left, then return to normal front and center. Relax.

Healthful Diet Requires Fiber

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — A foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says fiber is important in the diet to help avoid constipation, and there is evidence it may help prevent intestinal disorders.

Frances Reasonover says fiber sources include whole-grain breads and crackers, cereals such as bran flakes, all bran, shredded wheat, whole wheat flakes, old-fashioned oatmeal, hot cereals, mixed whole grain natural cereals, raw vegetables — or those cooked to "tender crisp," — fresh and dried fruit, dried beans, peas and lentils.

Turn head all the way to right, return to normal. Relax. If neck is still stiff, do exercise also in sitting position.

Four — Lie flat on back, feet on floor. Be sure back is flat to floor at hip area. Remove all pillows. Bend knees, slowly drawing right knee up as close to your chest as possible. Slowly straighten your leg. Let leg fall to floor relaxed. Pull it up to starting position. Repeat the exercise, alternating the legs.

Five — Lie on left side with head resting comfortably on pillow, and neck in relaxed position. Keep both knees flexed and hips slightly flexed. Slide right knee toward the head as comfortably as possible, then slowly extend your leg until it is straight. Let leg drop to floor relaxed. Turn to right side and do exercise with left leg also two or three times.

Six — Lie on stomach. Let head rest comfortably on folded hands. Tighten seat muscles. Hold position for two seconds. Relax.

A physician usually prescribes exercises for patients with low back pain. If he does not, he should be consulted before exercises are begun. Programs offered by many physicians may be similar to those offered by the "Y" with additional emphasis put on the lumbar curve, a posture exercise that prepares one for keeping the back flat to the floor.

The exercise goes like this: Stand against the wall with lower back touching it. This is done by pulling in the abdomen, tightening the buttocks and bringing the feet as close to the wall as possible as your back at the waistline is pushed toward the wall. This aligns posture and helps ease back pain. It is the posture one strives to maintain when exercising on the floor.

Pipeline Ready For Operation

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) — A 34-inch, 220-mile pipeline from Phillips Petroleum's Ekofisk field in the North Sea to Teesside, England, began operation in October 1975. It has a capacity of one million barrels of petroleum per day.

A 36-inch, 275-mile natural gas pipeline from Ekofisk to Emden, Germany, with a capacity of two billion cubic feet of gas per day, will start operation this spring.

(The techniques of using varnish, lacquer, shellac, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Mr. Lang regrets that individual answers cannot be given, but questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

956 SHADY LANE GREENVILLE, N. C. 27854 PHONE 919/768-4881

Dear Homeowner:

In these days of diminishing energy resources and increasing energy costs, it is inevitable that you will be required to make certain energy conserving improvements to your home, whether it is forced on you by government regulations or purely a matter of common sense economics.

While many conservation measures can be made at little or no cost, such as using lower wattage light bulbs, turning down the thermostat or drawing the drapes, others may require a major outlay of cash, such as installing a heat pump or reinsulating your home. Unfortunately the conservation measures that produce the greatest savings also carry the higher price tags.

Our business is insulation, however like you, we'd rather buy a new TV, go on a vacation or make a down payment on a new car with our money than spend it on insulation. Perhaps if you will look at insulation as an investment, like putting money in a savings account, you could face the prospect of reinsulating with a better outlook and with greater peace of mind. Although you may never get back the principle, the interest paid on it will be far greater than that of any other investment you will be likely to make. For example, if you spend $266 to insulate your floor, you will save approximately $84 per year on your heating bill; that's greater than a 30 per cent return on your money. In ten years your $266 investment would have given you $840 in fuel savings. However with the cost of energy increasing at the rate of about 10 per cent per year you would most likely get back $1300 in fuel savings.

At White's Insulation hope that when you make your decision to reinsulate your home you will allow us to look over your home and show you how to get the greatest return on your investment. Our service is free and could save you a lot of money. Thank you,

John White, Pres.

ECU Localism Project Plans Town Gathering

Town gatherings in Edenton, New Bern and Bath-Belhaven are now being planned in conjunction with East Carolina University's Project on Local Life in Eastern North Carolina.

The project, funded by a grant from the N.C. Humanities Committee, is designed to promote an understanding of the nature and impact of local life in eastern North Carolina, to facilitate effective future policy-making.

Town gatherings will focus on the nature of eastern North Carolina's way of life and the relationship of public policy-making at all levels of government to the future of the region.

Several political leaders have been invited to participate, said project director Karl Rodabaugh, a member of the ECU history faculty.

The Project on Local Life

earlier sponsored a conference on the ECU campus which drew local citizens, public officials and scholars.

Among the chief topics of discussion at the conference were several visible manifestations of localism: a strong attachment to the home community, a tendency for important influences to originate from one's friends, relatives and neighbors, a habit of centering life around local institutions, and a strong desire to exercise a significant amount of local power in decision-making which affects one's local area.

Local planning committees are being formed to organize the three town gatherings. Tentative dates for the town meetings are May 7 (Edenton), May 21 (New Bern) and June 11 (Bath-Belhaven).

Persons interested in serving on the local planning committees are encouraged to telephone Rodabaugh at the ECU Division of Continuing Education, 757-6148.

Solomon's Mine Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — The legendary lost gold mine of King Solomon has apparently been found in Saudi Arabia, according to the National Geographic Society.

A mine at Jabal Mahd adh Dhahab (the Hill of the Cradle of Gold), mid-way between Mecca and Medina, may be the same as the fabled mine at Ophir, which produced half the gold of the known world 3,000 years ago.

A four-year study of the site by teams from the United States Geological Survey and the Saudi Arabian Directorate General of Mineral Resources recently provided support for the theory that the site is the one mentioned in the Bible.

Scholars speculated that Solomon's mine was somewhere in Arabia, India, southern Africa or the Ural Mountains. In 1931 an American named Kenneth Twitchell prospected Jabal Mahd adh Dhahab. His company, the Saudi Arabia Mining Syndicate, recovered some 60 tons of gold from the hill. Twitchell speculated that the mine might be on the same site as that of King Solomon.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time when it will be quite difficult to apply the Golden Rule even though most everyone is apt to be in a quarrelsome mood. So put a monitor on your thoughts and refrain from untoward words or actions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle confidential matters wisely and stay out of the limelight. Wait until a better time for getting into activities that will require your using more strength.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get affairs at home in better working order. Not a good day for making new friends who could prove troublesome later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your hunches are not reliable at this time so use only your best judgment. Use tact with mate or you could have a severance of valuable connection.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you hold up your part of any agreements you have made with others or you could regret it later. Avoid one who opposes you or you could get into trouble right now. Be clever.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you do not work too hard or you could ruin your health at this time. Use tact with one who is a helper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Work on a hobby and perfect it instead of going out and spending a lot of money foolishly for silly kind of pleasure. Not a good time to have that talk with a partner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to use much tact at home so that you do not disturb the harmony there and keep on an even keel. Smile more and try to please others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good time to go out to places where you can enjoy philosophical studies that will elevate your consciousness, make life richer. Use tact in dealing with others later in the day. Be happy, serene.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use a more positive attitude where finances and property are concerned and put aside that depressive manner. Use a more sensible way of budgeting, also.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you act like a pessimist you can lose valuable friends. Don't get into a group affair where arguments could arise easily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of personal duties of importance and forget about outside pleasure for a while. Try not to bring up ticklish subjects with a loved one or there is apt to be a big argument.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day to discuss your problems with friends who are not in the mood for such. Try to be more independent and handle them yourself. Avoid the social altogether.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those interesting young people who will have the ability to solve problems provided they are looked at objectively and impersonally. Otherwise your progeny could get into a good deal of trouble with others. Teach early to work with the hands and work off excess energy.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, APRIL 11, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is fine for studying your true financial position and other personal interests. Later you can make necessary changes and adopt new principles that will increase your income.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to get an influential friend to give you the added support you need for some special project you have in mind.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do those things that will give you added prestige with the public in general. Use more modern methods for handling your credit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put new ideas to work that will help you become more successful. Forget any failures of the past. A newcomer could prove helpful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better system for taking care of your obligations. Be more kind to your mate and get better results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) An associate could now give you advice that is worthwhile so be sure to follow it for your betterment. Show that you are dependable.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Delve right into that work load and it will soon be behind you. Sidestep an old friend who could deter your progress at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Engaging in new interests now could bring you a feeling of prosperity and happiness. Show more affection for family members.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try a different tack at home and get better results in the future. Be careful of one who stands in your way of progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to visit clients, friends and relatives. Show them that you are one who can be depended upon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to handle any monetary affairs personally today and don't rely on others so much. Cut down on unnecessary expenses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A time to follow your own inclinations instead of listening to what others have to suggest. Be careful of strangers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are now able to obtain the data you require so that you can advance in your career. Show family that you are devoted.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have creative ideas and the ability to express them successfully. Upon reaching maturity your progeny will be able to modernize old ideas so they become profitable. Give some religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

SHOWTIME

For The Week Of April 10-16, 1977

'The Amazing Howard Hughes' To Be Broadcast Wednesday

"The Amazing Howard Hughes," a major four-hour special which traces the life and career of one of the world's most wealthy and mysterious men, will be broadcast in two parts Wednesday, April 13 and Thursday, April 14 (9 to 11 p.m. each night) on CBS-TV.

The special is based on the book "Howard the Amazing Mr. Hughes" by Noah Dietrich, longtime associate of the reclusive Hughes, and Bob Thomas, veteran Hollywood correspondent for the Associated Press. In starring roles are Tommy Lee Jones as Hughes and Ed Flanders as Dietrich.

The first part of the four-hour special follows Hughes from his takeover of the Hughes Tool Co. when he was 18 to the start of his famous record-breaking world flight in 1938. During this period, he hired Dietrich to oversee his rapidly expanding business ventures while he pursued his interests in aviation, golf, film making and Hollywood starlets.

The great triumphs and tragedies of Hughes's middle and final years are examined in the conclusion of the special. Events of this period, which are emphasized in the special, are Hughes's critical injury as a result of a plane crash, and his involvement in an historic Senate probe pertaining to war profits. As years follow, Hughes's behavior changes radically. He isolates himself from others and develops a phobia about germs, but his business activities continue until his death in April 1976.

The 88-year-old Dietrich, who lives in Palm Springs, visited the set to watch the Senate hearing scene being filmed and met Jones and Flanders.

He decided it "was a little eerie" to see someone portraying himself, 50 years younger, but gave unqualified approval to both actors.

When asked about the Hughes legend, Dietrich spoke with authority. "Howard did exactly what he wanted. He always showed indifference to the needs of other people. I was on duty 24 hours a day with one vacation in 32 years — and he tried to stop that."

Dietrich was not surprised at the bizarre circumstances of Hughes's last days.

"He went into complete seclusion after I left. I was his buffer. And he went down physically after that. It was a tragedy because he was such a brilliant man."

Tommy Lee Jones stars as Howard Hughes in "The Amazing Howard Hughes," a major four-part special that traces the life and career of the mysterious man from the age 18 until his death in April 1976, to be broadcast in two parts, Wednesday, April 13 and Thursday, April 14 (9-11 p.m. both nights) on CBS-TV.

Francesca James Will Reign Over Festival

Azaleas, beautiful girls, music, fireworks, parades, craft shows, a regatta — and well-known names from the world of entertainment. They're all awaiting you this weekend as the four day annual Azalea Festival swings into action in a glorious burst of color and excitement in Wilmington, N.C.

Reigning over all the festivities as the Azalea Queen is Francesca James, star of the popular daytime drama, "All My Children." The beautiful brunette will be accompanied to Wilmington by her co-star in the series, Peter White.

Francesca has played the part of Kitty Tyler for five "beautiful years," she says, "and I've loved every moment of it."

At the present moment, Kitty is afflicted by an apparently serious visual disorder, a 'condition' that could create a dilemma for an actress. But not for Francesca. "I'm not planning to do a 'Helen Keller,' or anything like that," she commented. And, because of her tremendous talent, she is doing an excellent portrayal of young woman going blind.

Francesca, who has wanted to be an actress from the time she was a little girl, has worked with repertory companies in New York and Washington, D.C., made her debut on Broadway in "The Rothschilds," and was Marcy Wade in the daytime drama "One Life to Live" before joining "All My Children" (seen weekdays, 1 to 1:30 p.m., on ABC-TV).

ABC-TV STAR TO BE QUEEN OF WILMINGTON'S AZALEA FESTIVAL — Glamorous Francesca James has been chosen to reign over Wilmington's annual Azalea Festival April 14-17. Starring on the popular daytime series "All My Children," Queen Francesca is looking forward to being in Wilmington and meeting her many fans in the area.

TV Critics Circle Awards To Be Presented Monday

"The TV Critics' Circle Awards," a live, two-hour entertainment awards special honoring television favorites as selected by American television critics, will be broadcast Monday, April 11, 9 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV. Beverly Sills and Steve Lawrence will be sharing the hosting duties.

Sixteen television critics who were selected geographically to comprise the awards committee by Marie Toore, a consultant to Talent Associates, Ltd., producers of the special, represent a cross-section of the top American television critics. Each year hereafter, one-third of all committee seats will be vacated to give other critics an opportunity to serve.

The newly established committee met Jan. 28 in New York to choose award categories and to make nominations. The committee's nominations have been mailed to 182 television critics in 100 major cities for final balloting in 19 categories to ascertain the critic's favorites in each of the categories for the current television season.

Carter's Easter Televised

CBS News will provide live coverage of the Easter worship services from the First Baptist Church of the City of Washington, D.C. — the church President Carter and his family have chosen to attend in the capital — on Easter Sunday, April 10, 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

The Rev. Dr. Charles A. Trentham is pastor of the First Baptist Church, which was founded in 1802, and moved to its present site in 1890. President Carter is not the first occupant of the White House to attend services at the church. Harry S. Truman was an occasional worshiper and Lyndon B. Johnson attended at least once.

The services will include Bach's "My Spirit Be Joyful" from Cantata 146 and "Now Thank We All Our God" from Cantata 79, performed by the church's 60-voice choir, with two trumpets, tympani and organ. The benediction response will be the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah," and the Allegro from Vivaldi's "Concerto for Two Trumpets and Organ, Opus 46, Number 1" will be the postlude.

Stresses Immortality

The Rev. Dr. Charles A. Trentham's Easter sermon, entitled "More Than Survival," will be part of the Easter worship services to be broadcast live from President Carter's church in Washington, D.C., Easter Sunday, April 10, 11 a.m. to 12 noon, on CBS.

Using II Timothy 1:10 ("Our Savior Jesus Christ who hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel") as a reference point, Dr. Trentham, the pastor of the First Baptist Church of the City of Washington, D.C., will explain his theme of "victory in life, not merely survival, and eternal life as a qualitative concept, not merely one of duration."

Dr. Trentham says that Jesus' resurrection, celebrated on Easter, reflects God's imperishable love for us, which lifts us above all barriers: racial ("In Christ, neither Jew nor Gentile..."), sexual ("...neither male nor female...") and class ("...neither bond nor free...").

It is by God's grace that we are immortal, Dr. Trentham continues; Jesus, his son, was not the first to teach of life after death, but the first to say that death would not finally triumph.

"Christ's resurrection is the very heart of the Gospel," Dr. Trentham concludes. "The cross on the altar in many churches has no Christ on it because we celebrate the empty cross."

The Truth About Bulls Presented

Host Hal Linden goes on a journey through the art, history and mythology of the bull, as well as to a bull ranch near Los Olivos, Calif., on the ABC News award-winning morning magazine show, "Animals Animals Animals," Sunday, April 10, 11:30 to 11:55 a.m.

The bull — which does not see red and is in fact color blind — descended from the aurochs, an extinct mammal of northern Africa, Europe and western Asia. It has been part of man's culture from the time of the caveman. Ancient Egyptians often represented their kings, believed to be gods, as bulls which were admired for their enormous strength.

"Animals Animals Animals" explores dozens of examples of the bull's role in art, among them: the bull-emblazoned walls of the Lascaux Cave in southern France; a painting showing the spotted bull in ancient Egypt; a scene from Picasso's epic mural, "Guernica," painted during the Spanish Civil War; Raphael's "The Vision of Ezekiel," which depicts a brown-winged bull; Thomas Bewick's engraving of the Chillingham bull; and Dutch painter Paul Potter's painting, "The Young Bull."

The show also visits the ranches of Carol Dickenson, who raises the native American longhorn bull in Colorado Springs, Colo.; and Heide, Kris and Honey Beljean, sisters, who raise and exhibit steers in Del Mar, California.

A fable, "The Gnat and the Bull," comes to life in colorful animation and tells about a budding friendship between a bull and a gnat.

Roger Caras, animal expert and naturalist, comments that man's domestication of the bull — some of which are worth five and six million dollars — "is one of the most important accomplishments in history." And singer-actress Lynn Kellogg, who along with Roger Caras appears each week, sings "The Ballad of the Bull."

Two Week Contest Held

More than $100,000 worth of prizes — including a brand-new home — will be awarded to the winner of "$100,000 Home-Sweet-Home Sweepstakes," a two-week contest to be conducted April 11-22 on four NBC-TV game shows.

During the initial week, contestants will compete on four shows, "The Hollywood Squares," "Wheel of Fortune," "Shoot for the Stars" and "Name That Tune."

During the second week, beginning April 18, the top eight winners from the four shows will vie in finals on "The Hollywood Squares."

In addition to the usual array of prizes on each show, the ultimate victor will receive a home and land package valued at $65,000 located anywhere in the United States except Hawaii and Alaska, plus complete carpeting and furnishings for three bedrooms, kitchen, living room and dining room; two automobiles; a boat; his and her furs; and color television and AM-FM stereo sets.

The runner-up receives a bonus 52-day ocean cruise for two around South America.

Role Has Lasting Effect

JESUS IN PAIN—Jesus Christ (portrayed by Robert Powell) suffers the pain of his crown of thorns in silence in a scene from "Jesus of Nazareth," the concluding part of the six-hour Biblical epic on "The Big Event" Sunday, April 10 (8-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

"This would be a different role for anyone. It's certainly the most difficult I have ever played," said British actor Robert Powell, discussing his portrayal of Jesus Christ in "Jesus of Nazareth," the six-hour Biblical epic which is currently the "Big Event" presentation airing Sundays, from 8 to 11 p.m. on NBC-TV.

Powell, whose credits include playing the poet Shelley and the composer Mahler, said: "The Approach to the part was really the most difficult aspect of my work. Portraying Jesus is not at all like dealing with a character in an ordinary play or film. When you know you are going to play someone like Mahler, you mould yourself mentally to the man with a feeling influenced by an investigation of his personality. You try to think of him as he saw himself, not as he was seen by other people. With Jesus, my approach had to be the other way around.

"After as much research as it was possible for me to do, I found I had to be objective rather than subjective. I began to form a picture in my mind and to appreciate His character. But that wasn't easy to translate into my performance. I'm glad I had reached my 30s before being offered the part. I don't think I could have coped with it for eight months without some experience behind me."

The portrayal has had a lasting effect on him personally, Powell said. In September 1975, when he was announced for the role, he said that being immersed in the part for eight months might make him a better Christian. "I think it has," he said. "You see, in the Bible—as I read it while a boy—Jesus often seemed to me a weak-meaning but almost weak individual. My thinking is different now. In the script—and in the way director Franco Zeffirelli had me play the part—it is clear that He was determined, with strong convictions tempered by compassion."

Some of the miracles described in the Bible are depicted in this thoroughly researched film, Powell said. "We've included the miracle of the loaves and the fishes, the raising of Lazarus from the dead, and others. It's not done with a lot of fancy special effects but presented as simple as possible. Actually, for us in the cast, another miracle was how Zeffirelli kept up the spirits and enthusiasm of the big cast and crew through a gruelling 32-week shooting schedule under all sorts of conditions."

Massive Film Encores On TV

"The Ten Commandments," C.B. DeMille's massive film spectacle of the story of Moses and the exodus from Egypt—one of the most popular box-office movies of all time—comes to television Sunday, April 10, 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., on ABC-TV.

Starring Charlton Heston as Moses, this dramatic Biblical epic is presented with an all-star cast including Yul Brynner as Pharaoh, Anne Baxter as Queen Nefertiri, Edward G. Robinson as overseer of the slaves and Yvonne DeCarlo as Moses' wife.

Others starred in the cast of more than 25,000 include Debra Paget, John Derek, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nina Foch, Martha Scott, Judith Anderson and Vincent Price.

The screenplay, more voluminous than many major novels, is based on the study of the King James and Douay versions of the Holy Scriptures, and the "Pentateuch and Haf-torahs," edited by the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire. The Koran, the Midrash, the Mishnah and the works of Philo, Josephus and Eusebius were searched to fill in the 30-year period of Moses' life that is omitted in the books of Exodus.

Filmed against natural backgrounds on location in Egypt, the film traces the story of Moses, from the time his mother set him afloat on the Nile, through his years as a young general in the Pharaoh's army, to his betrayal and exile, and finally, his deliverance of the Israelites and his receiving God's Commandments.

The dramatization of Moses' life presents such spectacular sequences as the Plague, the building of an Egyptian treasure city, the parting of the Red Sea, the Burning Bush, and the reception of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai.

The extraordinary Red Sea episode took three years to execute and consumed more than $1,000,000 of the film's mammoth budget. The fearsome spectacle of the army engulfed by towering walls of raging water was made possible by the technical virtuosity of Academy Award-winner John F. Fulton, one of Hollywood's most gifted special effects geniuses.

Location shooting began on October 14, 1954, in Egypt, and followed the path of Moses across the Red Sea, the Wilderness of Shur and the Wilderness of Sin, to the top of the Mount of Moses in the Sinai range where Moses received God's laws. Months of production in Hollywood extended well into 1956.

After its original showings in 1957, "The Ten Commandments" was released to theatres again in 1966, several years after the death of producer-director Cecil B. DeMille.

The most powerful Biblical story ever filmed returns to television when Charlton Heston stars as Moses in the encore presentation of "The Ten Commandments" airing on the ABC Sunday Night Movie, Easter Sunday, April 10 (8 p.m.-12:30 a.m.) on ABC-TV.

Carpet Tips
Buy Carpet Slowly

Nearly every hour of the day, somewhere, somebody gets "taken to the cleaners" by a shady salesman. A salesman who could sell ice-cubes to an Eskimo in January!

Fast-talk, urgency tactics spell trouble for the buyer.

In carpet buying, "slow" is better. Consult thoroughly with an expert. Fit your needs to carpet's expected performance. Any good carpet will last a couple of years, but after that it's "performance" that counts. So, buy "slowly." Let a real "Pro" help you!

Miss Beadle Plays Two Roles

IS THAT YOU MISS BEADLE? Charlotte Stewart, who stars as the very prim and proper spinster school teacher on NBC-TV's "Little House on the Prairie," (Mondays 9-9 p.m.) is really a curvy young actress who knows very little about teaching or about Minnesota. Actually she's a third generation Californian who was born and raised in the same house as her mother and grandmother.

Miss Beadle, the prim and proper school teacher on NBC-TV's "Little House on the Prairie," is played by Charlotte Stewart, a warm, friendly, out-going and very talented actress.

The school 'marm' who rides herd on her students in the one-room school house wears drab, colorless clothes and has her hair in a tight bun. Off-camera, Charlotte is anything but drab and colorless: she's downright good looking. So good looking that fans seldom recognize her.

Should you be a 'doubter,' you'll have the good fortune to see for yourself while Charlotte is in Wilmington, N.C. to participate in the 49th annual Azalea Festival.

This is her first trip to Wilmington, and she has looked forward to it for a long time. On a more personal note, she will also be visiting with a childhood friend whom she's not seen for 20 years — Mrs. Henry Jordan of Wilmington.

Charlotte Stewart says that her favorite roles are those in which she can be "as much of myself as possible — roles that I can personally relate to." In her numerous guest spots in TV series, she has played "most good girls," which she "prefers to the 'bad ones.'"

She bases her portrayal of Miss Beadle on her sister, the mother of seven children. "I have no children myself," she explains, "and I use my sister as an example to follow. No matter what happens, she's always so calm and collected. I try to be like her."

Should 'Little House' ever pass on to the 'great beyond' — which may well never happen — what next? "I would like to do some 'features.' One thing I know I want to do is to work for the rest of my life — at least until I'm 85," she exclaims.

Charlotte started out to become a writer, but switched mid-stream to acting, which obviously was a wise move. She still writes "quite a bit," however. "Poetry, things for myself. I couldn't exist without my writing."

Her hobby is sewing, and she not only makes clothes for herself, but for friends as well. "In fact," she added, "I'll be wearing some of my own things at the festival."

During the Azalea Festival, should you find yourself face-to-face with a gorgeous blonde who looks faintly familiar — chances are it will be Charlotte Stewart. As herself, not Miss Beadle.

Ackroyd Starring In 'Exo-Man'

New York actor David Ackroyd has the starring role of physics professor Nick Conrad in "Exo-Man," a two-hour World Premiere movie.

The story focuses on a physics professor's attempt to invent a suit to facilitate movement in his limbs following an assault by a mob hit man which leaves him permanently paralyzed.

Ackroyd, a 1968 graduate of the Yale Drama School, appeared in the New York Shakespeare Festival production of "Hamlet" as Rosencrantz. He was Captain Korovkin in "Full Circle," and Sgt. Marx in "Unlikely Heroes." The actor was also a regular in daytime series, "Another World" and "The Secret Storm."

Filming is in progress at Universal Studios, and Los Angeles locations including the University of Southern California campus.

Holden, Lenz Star In 'Breezy'

As a director, superstar Clint Eastwood has turned out a neat psychological thriller, "Play Misty for Me," and an equally psychological and off-beat Western — "High Plains Drifter." He then cast violence aside and came up with his third film, "Breezy," airing April 11, on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies," 9 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV.

William Holden, also known for action-films, and Kay Lenz share billing in "Breezy" as two unlikely lovers — a young hippie who tries to find good in everyone and a restless, cynical businessman who has had difficulty recovering from a bitter divorce.

Written for the screen by Jo Heims — who is also the associate producer — "Breezy" has some really affecting moments as it combines comedy and drama while comparing the world of the sophisticate with the existence of spaced-out youths.

Miss Lenz made her movie-debut opposite the 57-year-old Holden in the drama and displays an ingratiating personality as a girl who practically irritates an older man into loving her.

When Frank Harmon (Holden) meets a young woman who identifies herself as Breezy (Lenz), he is initially annoyed by her idealism and persistent beliefs that life can be beautiful.

All seems to be going well despite the obvious differences between the two and Harmon even begins to date his new love in public. When he accidentally meets his estranged wife and a close friend on two separate occasions, he decides that society will not allow their relationship to continue.

Maude Is Using Help Wanted Ad

Maude Findlay's running an ad in the classified sections these days as she frantically tries to find a replacement for Mrs. Naugatuck. The feisty maid, who got her kicks from hanging around the Findlays' bar, tired of her household duties, hung up her apron for the last time and up and quit. Now Mrs. Naugatuck is on her way to Ireland to nurse her ill 'belle-mere.'

What's Maude going to do now? It's anybody's guess, and it will be interesting to see what happens when the right one answers her ad.

Hermione Badderly, who joined "Maude" (Mondays, 9 to 9:30 p.m.) two years ago, was born in England and made her first appearance on the London stage at age 11. A year later, George Bernard Shaw saw her in a play and dropped her a note which said, "Change your name from Badderly to Gooderly." Even tho' she did not make the suggested name change, she's been getting rave notices even since she received the suggestion. A few years ago, when Miss Badderly starred on Broadway in Tennessee Williams' play "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore," he named her as one of the four greatest stage actresses he's ever seen, along with Laurette Taylor, Anna Magnani and Geraldine Page. Williams had decided she was the one to play in "Milk Train" when he saw her in "A Taste of Honey" on Broadway.

"Commander Bucher, was the decision to surrender the Pueblo entirely your own, sir?"
"Yes, entirely my own."
On Jan. 23, 1968, the USS Pueblo, designated as an intelligence ship, was seized by North Korean naval vessels in the Sea of Japan, and revealed to be a spy ship. Hal Holbrook stars as Commander Lloyd Mark Bucher in an encore showing of the dramatic, factual reenactment of the situation surrounding the capture of the ship and the subsequent investigations in "Pueblo," the "CBS Late Movie" Tuesday, April 12, at 11:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

The opening of the screenplay states: "This story is true. It is based upon official records, eyewitness accounts and sworn testimony. All names are real. Every action is founded on fact." The special presentation uses the framework of the two Courts of Inquiry: one a Naval courts, the other initiated by Congress, as the basis for the story. In the course of his testimony at these courts, Bucher describes the events of the seizure of his ship and the 11-month ordeal of the American prisoners in North Korea which are vividly enacted by an impressive cast.

Included in the cast of 57 are

George Grizzard, Gary Merrill, Richard Mulligan, Ronny Cox, Mary Fickett, Andrew Duggan, James Hong, Larry Gates, Addison Powell and Barnard Hughes.

The question of whether Commander Bucher should have surrendered his ship, or should have fought until the last man died, was the problem before the courts. Naval law, of course, is very explicit — don't give up the ship. Moral law is equally as explicit — save human lives.

Explained Stanley Greenberg, who wrote the screenplay: "Bucher acted in a way he felt was perfectly consistent with Naval law. He held out as long as he possibly could, under the circumstances."

In January, 1968 the USS Pueblo, commissioned an intelligence ship by the Navy, was captured with its crew, by North Koreans. Cmdr. Lloyd Mark Bucher was the captain...and his decisions during that incident are examined on the CBS Late Movie "Pueblo," starring Hal Holbrook, to be rebroadcast Tuesday, April 12 at 11:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Energy Crisis Special Airs

The Paley Report sounded the warning twenty years ago. A major fuel shortage threatened America. And how did America respond?

No national energy policy was drafted — because everyone was so sure the problem would "go away." Or it would be "solved." But it didn't and it hasn't been.

(repeat, 90 min)
(6,7) Tonight Show: Bob Newhart is host.

Not-So-Happy Memories

Tom Snyder, host of "Tomorrow" who also will host "The National Disaster Survival Test" May 1 on NBC, first met Warren Bush, executive producer of the special when he was a student at Marquette University and Bush was teaching a graduate course in communications. Snyder, who was enrolled in the Bush course, remembers him vividly: "He gave me a crummy mark."

America's appetite for energy is insatiable. As a nation, we consume one third of the world's entire supply and have to depend increasingly on outside sources to fill domestic needs. The warnings have been ignored, and the debate continues.

That's the background for "We Will Freeze in the Dark," a special on the energy crisis which will be broadcast Tuesday, April 12 at 8:00 p.m. on Channel 9. The program is under the personal direction of Av Westin, award winning producer for ABC-TV, and is anchored by NBC's Washington correspondent, Nancy Dickerson. "We Will Freeze" concentrates on conservation as the only immediate answer to our energy dilemma.

Westin's cameras crisscrossed the nation to report on how conservation will work when spurred by self-interest or economic incentives: A utility company that makes money by selling insulation — a hamburger chain that increased its profits when it lowered its lights — an office building that reduces construction costs by installing fewer windows, and saves energy in the bargain — a giant, energy-intensive chemical company that found it could increase profits by cutting energy use even deeper than the law required.

"We Will Freeze in the Dark" reports on two examples of energy conscious citizens who were turned down by our own government in their efforts to construct solar heated buildings.

Role Presented Multiple Challenges

WANTED: A rugged actor who is an expert archer, stock-car and race-car driver and beekeeper.

This might have been a wanted ad in the Hollywood trade papers when director Tom Gries began casting a key role in "Call to Danger," an action drama starring Peter Graves on "The CBS Late Movie" Monday, April 11, at 11:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Graves stars in the film as a Federal undercover agent who requires the services of such a multiple-skilled man in a daring scheme to rescue a kidnapping victim. On film, Graves used a computer to find this wonder of a man. In reality, Gries simply had to find a good actor for the role and back him up with three stunt doubles — a champion archer, an ace stunt driver and a professional beekeeper.

If Gries had placed a want ad for a multiple threat performer like the one above, Clu Gulager would not have applied for the job. Yet he won the role, thanks to his acting ability and that of the ever-reliable stuntmen.

Gulager became so involved in his role that he didn't leave much for his stunt doubles to do. He became an overnight sensation with the bow and arrow, learned to mingle with hordes of bees without panic and became a passable stock-car driver.

"I discovered a real flair for archery," says Gulager. "Maybe it's because I'm part Cherokee Indian, maybe it was beginner's luck, but I hit some amazing shots with the bow and arrow in the movie, including my very first attempt at a long-distance target inside a second-story window at night through trees."

Gulager's skill at stock-car driving was a little less impressive. He attempted only an establishing spin around a California track at 75 miles per hour.

"I was doing fine until a flock of 40 white ducks waddled across the track," he says. "The track was muddy so I skidded right through them into a wall."

Finally, there were the bees. Gulager spent a whole day filming among beehives. He was costumed in a beekeeper's outfit, and a beekeeper was off-camera to keep the bees under control. Nevertheless, it was a spooky experience. How did Gulager feel about his newly discovered talents once they were all on film?

"Sometimes an actor is just plain goofy for doing some of the things he does," says Gulager. "But I wanted to deliver a good performance."

'Heist' To Air Thursday

A man whose only crime is protecting his daughter finds himself guilty until proven innocent, condemned and friendless, when he is forced to help with the robbery of his employer in "The Heist," a contemporary drama on "The CBS Late Show" Thursday, April 14, at 11:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Christopher George, Elizabeth Ashley, Howard Duff and Norman Fell star in the 90-minute feature film, with Michael Bell, Cliff Osmond and Robert Mandan co-starring.

In "The Heist," armored guard Joe Craddock (Christopher George) is shown his daughter's doll as proof that she has been kidnapped; to ransom the child he must help the kidnapers to steal a fortune from the car he guards.

Screenplay Is Realistic

"A realistic look at medicine from the viewpoint of a surgical resident in a hospital," is Stirling Silliphant's description of his original screenplay, "The First 36 Hours of Dr. Durant," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week," airing April 12, at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

An Academy Award-winner for his screenplay, "In the Heat of the Night," and a prolific television and motion picture writer, Silliphant is executive producer of the production starring Scott Hylands in the title role of Dr. Chris Durant.

Long interested in the field of medicine, Silliphant stated, "I wrote this screenplay out of concern that the tendency to put doctors on a pedestal is sort of dangerous in that it creates a lack of dialogue between the patient — whose body it is — and the physician. Doctors are human. Despite all their training and precautions, they can make mistakes. Sometimes with tragic consequences. No one is more aware of that than doctors themselves."

However, he stressed, "The show is very pro-medicine and pro-doctor as young Durant moves through his first 36 hours on call as a surgical resident at a metropolitan hospital and takes a small step forward in his career."

Silliphant's numerous television credits include "Route 66," which he co-created and for which he wrote 71 scripts; "Naked City" and "Longstreet" on which he also served as executive producer. Among his motion picture credits are "The Towering Inferno," "Shaft," and "The Poseidon Adventure."

Silliphant said that the "thematic inspiration" for "The First 36 Hours of Dr. Durant" came from a book, "Year of the Resident" by Dr. Robin Cook, that was brought to his attention. He later met Cook, now a senior resident at a Boston hospital, to discuss the project.

Noting that he has many friends who are doctors, Silliphant said, "I know their frustrations, the problems they have."

Asked how long he had been involved in medical research, the writer smiled. "Over 15 years," he replied. "I even enjoy taking Merck's Manual (a compendium of medical information) along to read at lunch."

McCord Portrays Fire Fighter

Kent McCord stars as Captain William Stone, a fire fighter raising two children alone, in "Quail Lake," a 90-minute program development project currently in production for NBC-TV.

The cast includes Magen McCord (Kent McCord's daughter), Shane Sinutko, Brit Lind and Andrew Duggan.

Scott Hylands stars as a young doctor ready to sacrifice his career for his principles in "The First 36 Hours of Dr. Durant," a contemporary drama of hospital life, airing as the Tuesday Movie of the Week, April 12 at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

Kangaroos Studied In Special

READY TO TRAVEL—A female eastern grey kangaroo, with a large offspring (joey) looking out of her pouch, is ready to hop through a field in Queensland, Australia, in "The Wonderful Kangaroo," the Survival Anglia special to be presented on Wednesday, April 13, (8-9 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

"The Wonderful Kangaroo," a special studying one of the world's most fascinating creatures — filmed over an 18-month period by Emmy Award-winning naturalist-wildlife photographer Des Bartlett and his wife, Jen — will be colorcast Wednesday, April 13, 8 to 9 p.m., on NBC-TV.

Award-winning actor, writer, and director Peter Astin will be the narrator for the special.

This is the second in a series of seven actuality specials chronicling the world around use which are being produced by Survival Anglia Ltd. for presentation over a three-year period.

The Bartletts covered more than 80,000 miles in Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria and other sections of Australia. Des Bartlett said: "This program is primarily about the varieties of kangaroo found in Australia, including the red kangaroo, probably the most familiar to foreigners, the grey, the rat-kangaroo (smallest member of the family), hare wallaby, rock wallaby and the tammar wallaby, which can survive, if it has to by drinking sea water."

The program looks at the present status of the kangaroo and traces the history of the creature, ruler of the Australian continent prior to the arrival of man. It describes what happened when the aborigines first came on the scene and shows how the animal's existence has changed since 1770, when Capt. Cook's landing on Australia's shores eventually opened the way to European settlers.

With the help of Prof. Geoff Sharman at Macquarie University outside of Sidney, the Bartletts trace the physical development of a kangaroo from infancy. The program describes how settlement of the land by farmers and sheep ranchers created problems for the kangaroo while providing new sources of food and water (as well as opportunities for a population increase).

It also shows how attempts are made, under strict government regulation, to control an increased population of the kangaroo, a state-protected creature, in order to ensure food production and help sheep ranchers.

Dey Learned On The Job

Portraying as she does, a young school teacher in the half-hour comedy series, "Loves Me, Loves Me Not," Susan Dey can look back on vital tips she learned that no institution could have taught her.

Fresh from high school and New York modeling at the age of 17, she was signed for a television pilot, "The Partridge Family." Within a few months, the series was sold and she was before the cameras, with no time for acting classes.

"I had to learn by observing both the other actors on the set, and myself, objectively, on the screen," she recalls.

Miss Dey credits Shirley Jones, then her 'mother' in the series, as her most important teacher. "Watching Shirley work was like taking an acting lesson every day," she says. "Her ability to concentrate in a scene and listen, really listen, to every bit of dialogue was the first technique I tried to accomplish."

Now Susan stars with Ken Gilman in "Loves Me, Loves Me Not," Wednesdays, through April 27, 8:30 to 9 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Ray Bolger once played a guest role on Miss Dey's first series. "At one point I mentioned to him that I was just learning the craft," she says, "and Mr. Bolger replied, 'So am I.' He went on to say, 'Young lady, when you figure you're through learning in this business, you'll be a finished actress — really finished."

Obviously, Miss Dey was a good student at her own school of picking-up-hints-on-how-to-act. In 1974, she appeared in the television series, "Born Free." The following year, she starred in "Cage Without A Key," "Sky-jacked" with Charlton Heston, and "Terror on the Beach" with Dennis Weaver. Last, she appeared in seven major television series.

Most people would agree Susan Dey's on-the-job training has paid off.

Haggard Guest Stars On 'Waltons'

The real-life son of an Oklahoma dustbowl migrant plays the part of Red Turner, a country-western singer trying to make a comeback in a segment of "The Waltons," to be rebroadcast Thursday, April 14, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV. He's multi-talented Merle Haggard, actor, country singer and songwriter.

Determination is the word that best sums up Haggard, who was a laborer holding down jobs in oil fields, doughnut shops and bakeries, driving trucks, pitching hay, hopping freight trains and picking grapes before he became a musician.

Starting in the early 1960s as a $40-a-week sideman guitarist, he is now one of the best known and highest-paid country western musicians. In the last 10 years Haggard has sold more than 8 million LP albums and 3.5 million singles worth $44.5 million. The writer of his own words and music, he has won every honor and award that can be given by the imperial city of country music, Nashville.

"At first I thought of music only as being a job that I enjoyed and not as being a way of attaining success. But I worked a little harder each day and kept dreaming," Merle said.

He once confided to his wife, Bonnie Owens, that he dreamed of winning the Country Music Award. In 1970 he did. Yet, like any musician, his success depends on his ability to keep in touch with the common man, whose plight Merle's songs represent.

"I try very hard to keep in communication with friends and family to know where reality is," he said. "The business of music is too fickle to ever think that I am too secure to ever find myself back in the struggle of working at something else."

Although he is constantly on cross-country concert tours, he relishes his time at his home in Bakersfield, Calif., and has yet to find the perfect fishing hole. Says Bonnie, "As long as he's got a fishing boat and a pole, he's content with the world."

Merle enjoys opportunities for dramatic roles in TV series. "The public can take just so much of a performer as a musician," he said. "That's why I'm interested in roles like this one in 'The Waltons.'"

It was for this reason that filming the episode was such an exhilarating experience for him.

Jason Walton (Jon Walmsley, 1), who has temporarily lost his scholarship at the Music Conservatory and is playing piano in a local roadhouse, tries to persuade country-western singer Red Turner (Merle Haggard) to make a comeback, in "The Waltons," Thursday, April 14 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Pike's Peeks

By Charlie Pike,
TV Showtime staff writer

HOLLYWOOD — Bruce Solomon is back as Sgt. Foley on "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," brought back by popular demand and a salary that comes close to matching Louise Lasser's. Bruce will be in the role the last five weeks of the current season.

Imagine trying to pick the best highlights of a variety show that's been on the air for ten years. Well, that's what Joe Hamilton, producer of Carol Burnett's show (and her husband) has done. His efforts will be seen in an upcoming 10th Anniversary show on CBS. In the process of tabulating the favorite segments, Joe discovered that the public's favorite part to the show is the question and answer session at the opening of the hour, and the most frequent request is Carol's Tarzan call.

Ernest Thompson, one of the stars of ABC's "West Side Medical," tells us he hopes the show gets another 13 weeks at least (beginning in September) because he feels the series hasn't developed along the lines he'd been told it would. A March entry in the lineup, Ernest believes future shows could more accurately project what the series is really about.

Scott Baio, who plays Anthony on "Blansky's Beauties," is a typical 15-year-old off camera — he's got two posters of Farrah Fawcett-Majors on his dressing room wall and admits that his biggest thrill since moving from New York to do the series was seeing Farrah, although he was never introduced to her.

Mary Frann (Amanda Howard) of daytime's "Days of Our Lives" is making no secret over the fact that she and her husband of three years are definitely hoping that they'll be on their way to becoming parents before year's end.

Jaime Lynn Bauer (Lauralee) of daytime's "The Young and the Restless" has done some house cleaning and is taking an entirely new approach toward her career and life. The candid speaking Jaime says she no longer allows the show to dictate how she lives her life, and under her new contract she'll be working less. Thus, she'll have the time to pursue other theatrical interests. On the personal side, she's broken off her long-time romance with Mark Evans and has a new man at her side in the person of a New York resident whom she'll only identify as Jay.

Jones Had Definite Ideas

Probably few people have studied the late Howard Hughes as intensively as Tommy Lee Jones, the compelling young actor from Texas who portrays the enigmatic billionaire in "The Amazing Howard Hughes," airing Wednesday and Thursday, April 13 and 14, 9 to 11 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Jones has definite ideas about the Hughes character, drawn from reading extensively about the man and his remarkable career, talking to people who knew him, studying hours of newsreel footage, and even using a theoretical psychological profile in an effort to understand Hughes's eccentric behavior.

Jones outlines his analysis in working out the role, as follows: "Hughes was a metaphor; he stood for power. He knew the importance of power; how to get it and use it. He showed an indifference to the needs of others, and he always had a quality of remoteness. He was a scientific and mechanical genius. He only saw real beauty in machines, and they were what drew his enthusiasm. He could show great kindness to individuals but, generally, he used people as a means to his ambitions."

To make Hughes understandable, Jones played him as "probably more sympathetic than he appeared to be," he notes. "We show some of his early background — he was sent away to boarding school, his mother died when he was 15, his father was a busy man, he had as much money as he could ever use."

Those were all matters of fact. In the realm of theory, the special's executive producer, Roger Gimbel, had a psychological analysis made of Hughes that indicated characteristics of paranoia and obsessive compulsive behavior.

Retreat Is Not Relaxing

There is an old show business adage that says that only God and MGM can make a tree. But in today's world of production when more and more filming is done on location, Hollywood's tree makers are not called on as much as they used to be.

Once in a while, though, even nature cannot provide exactly what a script calls for, and an art director has to fill in with a little magic. Such was the case for Phil Barber and the Taos, New Mexico, location of "Sweet Hostage."

The film, starring Linda Blair and Martin Sheen, is a bizarre drama about a young woman, kidnapped by an escaped mental patient, who is led into a strange world where her abductor becomes her teacher, friend and lover. "Sweet Hostage" airs as "The ABC Friday Night Movie" April 15, 9 to 11 p.m. on ABC-TV.

Art Director Barber had to create an environment in a beautiful spot that offered everything except what was needed.

"The script called for a rather run-down mountain cabin surrounded by lush greenery and a rushing stream," Barber said. "The producers and director found locations that offered the greenery and stream but no cabin and vice-versa. So, I was called in to help out."

In a forest just outside of Taos, Barber and his crew built, aged and then partially tore down the 'remote mountain cabin.' But they found, like others before most unusual love story airing as the ABC Friday Night Movie, April 15 (9-11 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

them, that fooling Mother Nature is not easy.

"We couldn't let it look too new so we mixed a special paint that would age the place overnight," he said. "But when we came back the next morning we found that it had snowed the night before. In the middle of July. We weren't sure how the place would look when it dried out, especially if it took a long time."

Since the cabin plays a vital role in the film, Barber and his men kept a daily vigil during the three-week shooting schedule.

"The film takes place over just a few days, but we were there almost a month. The place had to look the same each day, and with changing weather, we never knew what to expect. On the whole, it cooperated, but we had a few tense moments."

Chet Says: Exercise Helps

Exercise is really not all it takes to play like "The Chief," Nashville's most respected guitarist, Chet Atkins, but, according to Atkins, "It sure helps."

Atkins, who makes a special appearance as himself on "Nashville 99," Friday, April 15, 9 to 10 p.m. on CBS-TV, says that he has always been nervous before going on stage.

"I guess everyone who performs in front of an audience knows the feeling — butterflies in the stomach, and you can't seem to get enough air. Well, I've tried just about everything to get ready for a concert. I tried eating, not eating, meditating, you name it. I finally found that the best thing for me to do is to exercise just before I go on stage, and boy, do I feel great.

"The blood gets racing through my veins, my head gets clear and I feel more alert. Then, I'm ready for some real 'pickin' up there on stage.

Atkins, considered by many to be the greatest guitarist in country music, has a few simple suggestions for young people working toward a career as a country music performer.

"I'd say there's not much to remember," he advises, "except to practice as much as you can, know your limitations and stay within them, and go where the action is, so you get as much exposure as possible."

In this special appearance, Atkins displays his virtuoso talents on the guitar — with backup from series co-star Jerry Reed, with whom he has made several albums.

"Once you know what you're doing," Atkins says, "a good song can make you a star, with luck. Then, the most important thing to remember is that your fans have made you, and that, above all, you owe them a good show."

'The Best Of Ernie Kovacs' Will Be Presented Friday

"The Best of Ernie Kovacs," a series of ten half-hour programs displaying the off-beat style of America's first truly original video comic, premieres Friday, April 15 at 6:30 p.m. on PBS.

"The Best of Ernie Kovacs" is an anthology of materials from an archive of videotapes and kinescopes gathered up and put in storage by Edie Adams, the late comedian's widow after his death in a car crash in 1962.

Each of the programs opens with introductory remarks by actor Jack Lemmon, who became a close personal friend of Kovacs when the comedian was in California working in motion pictures.

Discovered and in some cases restored to broadcast quality after lying dormant for years in a Los Angeles warehouse, some of the Kovacs material has not been seen on television since original broadcasts in the 1950s and 1960s.

Some of the material had been combed through, once to form a retrospective TV special that ran in 1968, and once again in the production of a documentary on Kovacs' work which played on college campuses in 1973.

But large quantities of the material were relatively intact, the result of Edie Adams' insistence that whoever obtained rights to it not be allowed to cut or alter Kovacs' work.

Producer David Erdman accepted this hands-off policy with respect to most of the Kovacs material, leaving individual comedy sketches and bits untouched while weaving them together to form a cohesive whole with each program.

Five of "The Best of Ernie Kovacs" programs are, in fact, fashioned by Erdman precisely in the manner of the last series of shows that Kovacs produced. A sixth is actually the last program Kovacs put together — the special that run on ABC-TV in 1962 two weeks after his death.

Tim Foli, Montreal's explosive shortstop, will be back in action this season. The Montreal Expos challenge the Philadelphia Phillies on Saturday, April 16 at 2:15 p.m. on NBC-TV.

Expos Meet Phillies In Saturday Game

NBC Sports will televise a Major League baseball game between the Montreal Expos and the Philadelphia Phillies on Saturday, April 16 at 2:15 p.m.

The real strength of the Montreal Club is probably shortstop Tim Foli.

Timothy John Foli, born in Culver City, Calif. 27 years ago, grew up in Canoga Park (Calif.) where he was an outstanding athlete and captain of the baseball, basketball and football teams at Notre Dame High School. Tim was such a talented athlete that upon graduation from high school, he was offered both football and baseball scholarships to Notre Dame and the University of Southern California. The New York Mets made him their first pick in the 1968 free-agent draft, offering him a $75,000 baseball bonus.

Foli chose to sign with the Mets because: "I was an infielder and I decided I'd concentrate only on playing shortstop. It's where the action is. A shortstop is in every play, either fielding balls or signaling outfielders where to throw. I'm always running somewhere, doing something. And I can control things around me."

In 1972 he was acquired from the Mets in a trade with the Montreal Expos, and he's been with the Expos ever since.

At one time a highly volatile individual given to outbursts of temper, Foli has mellowed. Last season was a good one for Tim. He established personal highs in hit with 144, doubles with 36, home runs with six, RBIs with 54 and a fielding percentage of .975. His 144 hits were the most on the club and the 36 doubles set a new Montreal record. Although he ranked second in fielding among National League shortstops, Tim did lead all shortstops in double plays.

When he's not on the baseball field, Tim's hobbies include singing, golf, hunting and fishing.

Games Help Solve Case

A 12-year-old boy — using the powers of deductive reasoning he has developed in playing Sherlock Holmes games with his uncle — solves a mystery in his own community in "My Dear Uncle Sherlock," an "ABC Short Story Specials" presentation, airing Saturday, April 16, 12-noon to 12:30 p.m.

Based on the short story by Hugh Pentecost, "My Dear Uncle Sherlock" was adapted for television by Manya Starr.

When the authorities arrest the wrong man for the robbery of a wealthy old recluse, Joey Trimble, played by Robbie Rist, and his Uncle "Sherlock" George, portrayed by Royal Dano, solve the mystery of who really committed the robbery, using their Sherlock Holmes techniques.

'Razzmatazz' Visits Brothers

Two young brothers who write, arrange, perform and record their own pop songs; an endangered animals zoo in Brownsville, Texas; two boys who swing from the flying trapeze; and San Francisco from the air are just some of the people and places that will be visited by "RAZZMATAZZ," Saturday, April 16, 1 to 2 p.m., on CBS-TV.

The Keene brothers of Encino, California, not only write, arrange, perform and record their own pop songs, they do it in their own recording studio. They've played the Johnny Carson and Mike Douglas shows, have just recorded their first album, and have fans all over the country, including a young girl in Washington named Amy, about whom they've written a song. Unusual? The Keene brothers have yet to celebrate their twelfth birthdays.

Hosted by Broadway actor Barry Bostwick, the new-paced magazine especially for young viewers will tour the Gladys Porter Zoo for Endangered Animals, where teenagers feed and care for the animals. Special attention will be paid to a cute, little baby. A cute, little baby orangutan, that is.

"RAZZMATAZZ" will also follow two boys, aged 9 and 11, for whom a circus train is home, and the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus is family. They practice and perform their dizzying, death-defying feats on the trapeze "with the greatest of ease," and explain what the circus life is really like.

And in San Francisco, "RAZZMATAZZ" joins Captain Ted, a traffic spotter, as he looks in on that hilly city (and landmarks such as the Golden Gate and Oakland Bay bridges) from a unique vantage point: his airplane.

"RAZZMATAZZ" also drops in on the Benjamin Franklin International Kite Flying Contest at Sarasota, Florida, and learns that Alexander Graham Bell, the Wright Brothers, and other famous Americans knew what to do when told to "go fly a kite."

NBA Playoffs Begin Friday

The CBS Television Network will televise one of the first-round NBA playoff games on Friday, April 15, at 11:30 p.m.

Twelve teams, six from each conference, have qualified for the conference playoffs.

Four teams from each conference will be matched in a best-of-three series in the first round while the two divisional winners automatically advance to the second round of the playoffs.

The Washington Bullets behind All-Star guard Phil Chenier hope to be one of the teams to the first round.

In Phil Chenier's first couple of NBA seasons, he was compared to Walt Frazier, then universally considered the best guard in the NBA. As Chenier matured he began to play like the best guard in the NBA. But, for some reason, he has rarely received the recognition he deserves. He does not drive a Rolls Royce — like Frazier. He doesn't dribble behind his back like Peter Maravich. He doesn't play a kamikaza-style defense like Norm Van Lier. Phil Chenier simply is not colorful. His is simply efficient.

There is an suspicion that Frank Lloyd Wright assembled his jump shot. It is mechanically perfect, and so smooth that only purists really appreciate its beauty. It has to be perfect, because it has almost no arc, making perfection an absolute necessity. And it makes no difference how big his defender is because Chenier is one of the few players who really jumps on his jump shot.

He also plays outstanding defense, even though it is not the physical type.

K.C. Jones, former Bullets' Coach, expounds on this: "Phil plays the passing lanes better than anyone I've seen other than Jerry West. He's so good, the game is almost beneath him."

Connors, Nastase In WCT Finals

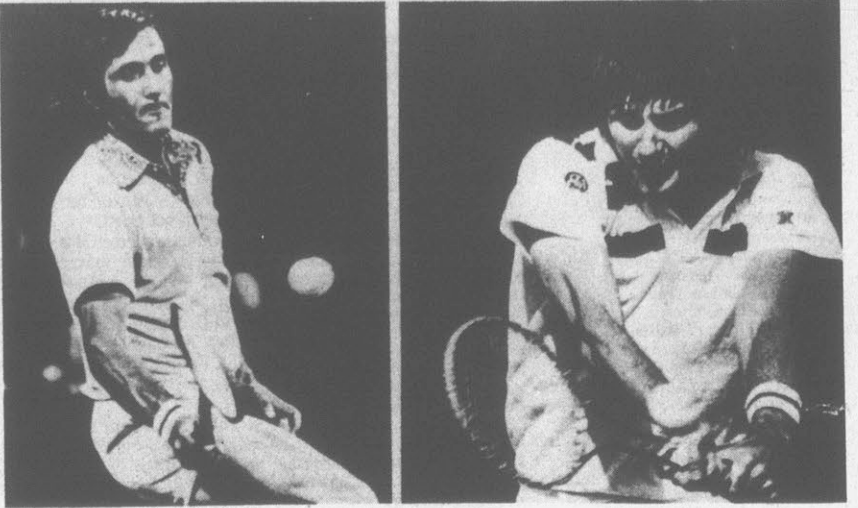

It will be Connors against Nastase in the WCT Challenge Cup Final — with a top prize of $100,000 — a winner-take-all tennis classic to be telecast live on NBC Sunday, April 10, at 3 p.m., from Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. Site of the Challenge Cup is the Indoor Pavilion, which includes four indoor courts. It seats 3,500 for tennis.

The Challenge Cup is played on Supreme Court, the same surface used for the Challenge matches in 1975 and 1976.

On the tennis court, Jimmy Connors is the relentless attacker, a power merchant with an outstanding return of service.

Connors is the touring pro for Caesars Palace. He's undefeated in Las Vegas, where he has strung together an undefeated streak of 14 victories that include three big-money Challenge matches, the 1976 Alan King-Caesars Palace Tennis Classic and the Love Doubles with Chris Evert as a partner last December.

Jimmy defeated Rod Laver in the first Heavyweight Championship of Tennis in 1975, for $100,000. He beat John Newcombe in Challenge 11 that same year, and early in 1976 defeated Manuel Orantes to win

HIGH STAKES—Ilie Nastase (l) and Jimmy Connors, two of the most controversial figures in tennis, will meet for the $100,000 winner-take-all first prize in the final of the WCT Challenge Cup, to be colorcast on Sunday, April 10 (3-5 p.m.) on NBC-TV, live from Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

Challenge 111.

Ilie Nastase, the consummate touch player is a polished shot-maker with great all-court quickness. Ilie won the first Challenge Cup, defeating Arthur Ashe.

Although Nastase holds a 14-4 lifetime advantage over Connors, his edge loses some of its meaning when put up against Jimmy's amazing record on the court at Caesars Palace.

Connors also has a commanding lead over Nastase in 1977 prize money. As of March 17, he had earned $365,000 to $59,000 for Nastase. In the last five years, Connors' earnings amount to more than two million dollars.

Brett Is 'Hitting Machine'

The Kansas City Royals battle the tough New York Yankees (American League champions of last season) on "Monday Night Baseball," April 11, at 8:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

The Royals, 1976 Western Division champs, enter the new season with a strong defense and solid offense. The fact that they have been through a hot pennant race is also to their advantage. Manager Whitey Herzog has confessed: "It's going to be tough. We know it and we are looking forward to the season. Our players are going to all have to play up to their potential, and our key players are going to have big seasons."

George Brett is a key player for the Kansas City team. He is the reigning American League batting champ and has been dubbed "The Hitting Machine" by rival American League pitchers. At a youthful 23, George batted .333 with 215 hits, including 34 doubles, 14 triples and seven homeruns last season.

In 1975 the Royals' "Hitting Machine" led the American League with 195 hits, while breaking Kansas' record and all-time Kansas City major league record.

Not only a power-hitter, George has established himself as one of the outstanding third basemen in major league baseball. Manager Herzog has stated: "I wouldn't trade Brett for any third baseman in baseball right now. Taking all phases of the game into consideration, he can do more to win a game than anyone else at his position. He is especially tough in the clutch."

The Royals know it is going to be tough to repeat as division Champions in 1977. California and Texas have improved and the Angels should be especially strong. Minnesota also has to be considered as a contender.

If "The Hitting Machine" remains intact and Kansas becomes a little more consistent scoring runs, the Royals may just go all the way to the World Series this year.

Female Golfers Featured

The Second Annual Women's International golf tournament from Moss Creek Plantation, Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, will be televised on NBC Saturday, April 16, at 5 p.m., and on Sunday, April 17 at 3 p.m.

The competition will feature a field of the world's top female golfers. The entry list is expected to reach 75 players by the time the tournament starts on April 14.

Sally Little, the pretty South African, won the inaugural event last year with the tour's most spectacular finish.

As Sally closed in on her first tour victory in five years, she was faltering badly. Having bogeyed the 71st hole and now having put her second shot on the par-4 finishing hole into the left bunker, she needed to sink the ball in two shots to tie Jan Stephenson for the title.

"I was scared to death," says Sally. "It was my first opportunity to win a big tournament."

Meanwhile, Jan Stephenson was listening to radio reports. She says, "I was getting excited about a playoff. I knew she was in the bunker and I was thinking I might even win it outright."

Little's 75-foot bunker shot sailed out of the sand and landed 15 feet from the cup, took another little bounce and straight in the hole to yield her a 281 (seven under par) and a winner's purse of $10,000.

"Once I saw the ball bounce, I thought it might go in," says Sally. "I couldn't believe it. You dream of holing out, but it hardly ever happens, let alone to win a tournament."

Lunch Becomes A Wedding

Marriage ceremonies are occasions most people try to remember, but the one that takes place on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" Saturday, April 16, (8 to 8:30 p.m. on CBS-TV), is one that can never be forgotten — even if you tried.

A quiet luncheon Mary hosted just for Ted and Georgette turns into an erratic spontaneous wedding. The newsman has proposed to Georgette numerous times before throughout their courtship, but after she accepted, he took no further steps toward matrimony.

This time, when he proposes, it happens to be in Mary's apartment, with the couple agreeing they should get married at that very instant, making Mary Richards the involuntary hostess of the whole, hasty, bizarre but hilarious affair.

Ted Knight admits that he "fought like crazy" for a long time against Ted Baxter getting married.

"At first, I thought that Ted, the egocentric character I portrayed, would be limiting his role if he marched down the wedding aisle. Marriage would hold him back, and I also felt Baxter couldn't continue his lady-sweeping image that he imagined himself to be."

However, Knight said that after meeting with the show's producers and writers, he began to look at the marriage in a different light.

"Now, I feel Georgette and Ted Baxter's marriage gave the anchorman more substance and depth. There was almost no limit to expanding the character. Baxter was now completely versed on marriage, or so he thought, and could give advice to Mary Richards and the rest of the cast regulars."

Wayne Has Different Role

John Wayne departs the world of the western movie when he stars as a police lieutenant in "McQ," an action drama to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" April 16, 9 to 11:15 p.m., on NBC-TV. Eddie Albert, Diana Muldaur and Colleen Dewhurst co-star.

Wayne portrays Lon McQ, a veteran detective who pursues a quarry, Santiago, with a vengeance when his best friend, a police sergeant, is gunned down.

McQ knows that Santiago (Al Lettieri) is involved, and McQ's heavyhanded tactics cause his dismissal from the case and a decision to resign as police lieutenant.

After comforting the sergeant's widow, Lois (Muldaur), McQ contacts a private detective, Pinky (Robert E. Mosley), and a hooker, Myra (Dewhurst), then discovers that a consignment of heroin about to be burned by the police is being hijacked.

Myra, who is attracted to McQ, is murdered and McQ nearly killed when his car is battered by two trucks. Although Capt. Kosterman (Albert) and another member of the police force is suspected by McQ, sympathetic officer Toms (Clu Gulager) turns out to be the strongest suspect.

The movie was filmed on loca-

ting keep the action moving at a fast clip.

ON DEADLY MISSION—Academy Award winner John Wayne stars as a police lieutenant who resigns from his job to pursue a drug dealer who he believes has slain his best friend, a police sergeant, in "McQ," action drama airing as the NBC Saturday Night Movie, April 16 (9-11:15 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BING CROSBY

You must have lots of funny stories about your children. What's your favorite? — S. M., Fayetteville, N.C.

● Nathaniel had a goldfish he adored. One day, Kathy and I came home to find Nat crying inconsolably. The fish had died. We tried to cheer him up, saying that we'd give the fish a marvelous funeral to which all Nat's friends could come and that they'd have tons of cake and ice cream. Nat cheered up until we went to the aquarium. What did we see? The fish swimming around happily. Nat stared, had visions of his party going down the drain, and said, "Daddy, let's kill him."

FOR EILEEN FORD, head of a model agency

Since models are required to do nothing except pose, it seems that brains aren't necessary. Am I right? — H.C., Santa Fe, N.M.

● I was unaware of the fact that posing precluded having brains. Experience has taught me that there are as many unintelligent bookkeepers, secretaries (not mine) and businessmen as there are models. In no way does being beautiful denote a lack of intelligence.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE, CBS-TV sportscaster

You always seem so confident and poised. Do you ever make mistakes? — B.D., Mobile, Ala.

● When I interviewed former President Ford, I was so nervous about being in the Oval Office that I clean forgot the name of his favorite team and alma mater. (It was about the time Michigan was playing U.S.C. in the Rose Bowl.) When I interviewed Bud Grant, I confused his team, the Minnesota Vikings, with the Green Bay Packers. Thankfully, these fluffs were edited and never reached the air.

FOR ARTE JOHNSON, actor-comedian

Whatever made you do that toy-train commercial? I can't believe that a grown man could actually play with trains. — Maureen Volster, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● Why not? I love all kinds of toys, games and models. I've been collecting them for years. I got my first train during the Depression. My parents knew I'd prefer them for Christmas to the clothing I desperately needed. So when the company asked me to be their spokesman, it was just as exciting to me as playing Hamlet. Know what my idea of luxury is? Having enough space to leave a train set up and not have to dismantle it.

FOR FRANCIS GARY POWERS, former spy pilot downed in Russia

How different would your career have been had that 1960 incident not taken place? — S.M., Fort Myers, Fla.

● It's hard to say. There was no immediate change in the direction of my career but, as a result of writing about the whole thing 10 years later (I co-authored Operation Overflight), I was "let go" as an engineering test pilot for a private company. It's amazing how much influence a government agency can have on private industry.

FOR VIKKI CARR, singer

What is the craziest but most satisfying thing you've ever done? — Eddie Wade, Southbury, Conn.

● When I got my first town house, I didn't have a stick of furniture to put in it. On the way to the laundry — in tennis shoes and with my hair in rollers — I passed a store with a great-looking window display of all kinds of furniture. I bought the whole lot. My friends were horrified. They thought I should have shopped around and got the stuff piece by piece, but I stuck to my guns, and I never have regretted it.

FOR MELVIN M. BELLI, attorney

Since Melvin is not an Italian name, can you tell me why you were called that? And why are many prominent men of your generation (Laird, Purvis, Douglas) named Melvin? — Mary Keas, Alexandria, Va.

● I suppose my mother had been reading too many Victorian novels and wanted to dress me up, at least namewise, like Little Lord Fauntleroy. I can't think of any reason why other "prominent men" were given the name Melvin.

FOR DONG KINGMAN, artist

I heard you say you were a friend of Frank Sinatra. Just how close are you to him? — J. Miko, Canton, Ind.

● Friendly enough to be at this kind of teasing stage: whenever he sees me he takes a look at my shirt collar and says, "You may be a great artist, but you're a lousy laundryman." When I wanted to give him some sheets as a gift and asked what size bed he used, Frank said, "King-size — obviously."

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I adore Dame Margot Fonteyn, and I have not heard anything about her recently. I'm hoping she hasn't retired. — J.B., San Antonio, Texas

● At 58, the world's prima ballerina (right) is still dancing and gives no sign of calling a halt. She's got two big projects ahead — a premiere at Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee Gala and making the ballet Marguerite and Armand with Rudolf Nureyev for British TV. One reason why she keeps at it is to provide expensive medical attention for husband Tito Arias, the Panamanian diplomat paralyzed after a 1964 assassination attempt.

FOR N. RICHARD NASH, playwright and author of East Wind, Rain

What's the difference between writing a play and a book? — R. Moore, Albany, N.Y.

● When you finish a play, that's when your work begins: meetings with the producer, director, stars and half-a-dozen unions. You get the feeling you'll never live to see your words acted out. When you write a book and type the final period, that's it. Nothing more to do, other than deliver the manuscript to the publisher.

PRO AND CON

Should We Eliminate All Deductions From The Federal Income Tax?

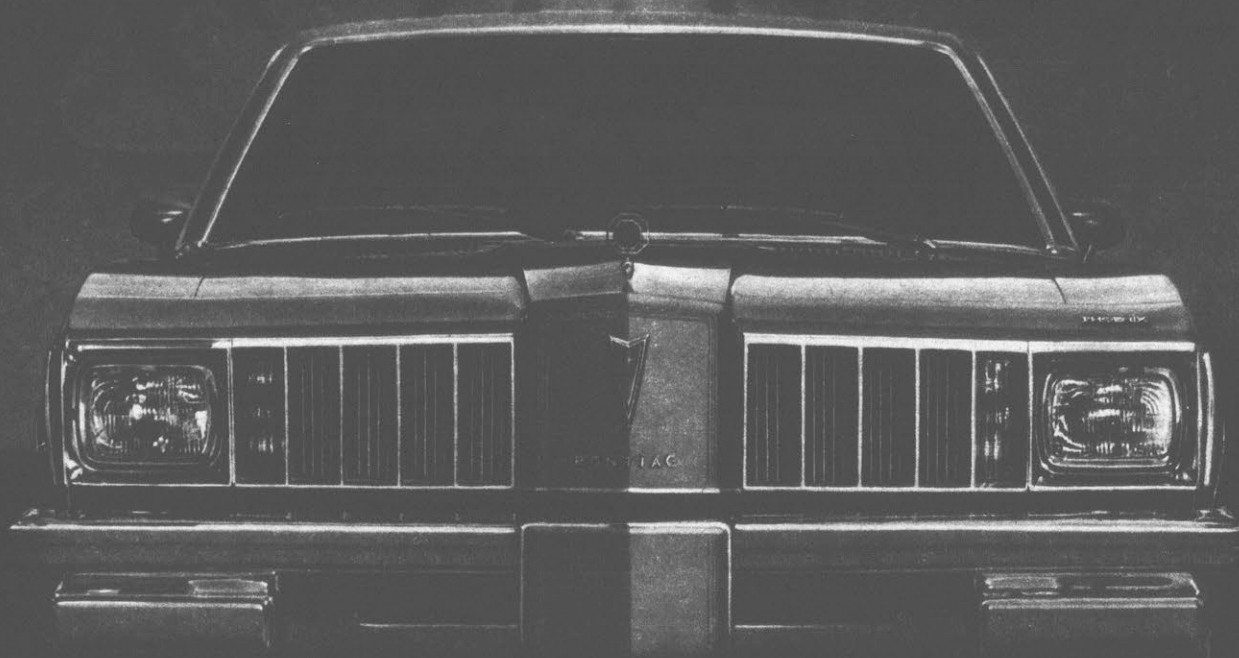

PRO Walter B. Wriston, Chairman, Citicorp/Citibank of New York

Yes. Our Federal tax code is now so encrusted with complex subsidies, exemptions, loopholes, deductions and other exotic devices that not even an agent of the IRS can read a taxpayer his rights with certainty. These devices have transformed the power of the Congress to tax into a crude tool for reshaping society by rewarding one citizen and penalizing another. We could raise the same revenue by eliminating the present maze of deductions and special-interest tax laws and by instituting a simple, equitable, graduated tax rate of 20 to 30 percent for individuals and corporations alike. The exact rate is not as important as the fact that it would make the law clear, certain and fair.

CON Rep. Joe D. Waggoner Jr. (D-La.), member, House Ways and Means Committee

No. The Federal tax system is complex because tax equity and simplicity are incompatible. Pure tax equity, although desirable, is unachievable if the tax code is to be used to accomplish national economic and social goals. Earnings, not gross income, should be taxed. Deductions for major medical expenses, casualty losses, anti-pollution equipment and slum-housing rehabilitation are essential. Deductions for religious and charitable contributions are provided to achieve broad social goals. Corporate tax treatment can be improved by integrating corporation and individual taxes and by reducing the tax rate. Taxpayers cannot be expected to give up what they have until they are assured of something better in return.

PHOENIX by PONTIAC

This is the first Pontiac Phoenix. It's our new six-passenger luxury compact. And it typifies the special way we feel about cars.

We think a car's styling should be clean. Strong. Arresting. Like our new Phoenix.

We think a car should be comfortable, but not overbearing. So we gave Phoenix full-width seats with a fold-down center armrest. Really nice fabrics. Cut-pile carpet. Padded door panels. A very functional instrument panel. Even a cushioned steering wheel. They give Phoenix a quiet kind of luxury we think you'll like.

We think a car should move down the road with authority. With its standard V-6 or available V-8. Phoenix does.

We think Phoenix is a pretty special compact. The kind you've been waiting to buy or lease. That's why it's arriving at your Pontiac dealer's now.

HOW FAMOUS PARENTS PASS ON THEIR RELIGIOUS VALUES

Many of today's parents wonder about what kind of spiritual upbringing their children should have. Here's what four famous families have to say about the issue.

By Monica Surfaro

Few scenes are more traditionally American than those of a family attending church together on a religious holiday or the father leading the clan in a mealtime blessing. Yet such familiar scenes, with their aura of security and warmth, are not entirely reflective of today's realities.

While many families are fortunate enough to share faith and togetherness, numerous others do not have a close-knit sense of spiritual kinship. For example, children are not as likely as in the past to automatically assume the religion of their parents. Indeed, parents, wishing to be enlightened, may be reluctant to insist that their children believe as they do. Yet they also may be distressed when their children turn to cults and trendy religious movements or profess hostility to religion.

Some of the questions parents have found themselves trying to answer are the following: Is giving a child a specific set of beliefs important? What is the solution when the religion of the mother is different from that of the father? If a child is not given any religious upbringing, will he be more likely to join a cult or movement in search for spiritual meaning? Is a religious upbringing closely related to the kinds of moral values a child will develop as he matures? Is the sense of family togetherness and sharing more important than a particular religious doctrine?

Every family must work out the answers to such questions on its own. About the only thing that seems certain is the importance for today's parents to make conscious choices about what spiritual course, if any, their family is to follow. Here are four prominent families who have made such decisions and are happy with them.

The Osmond Family

What entertainment clan comes to mind when we think of strong ties and effervescent family life on and off the stage? The Osmonds, of course. As enthusiasm for the Donny and Marie show continues to grow, it is interesting to note that the family's unity and success stem directly from a strong religious foundation.

Olive Osmond, female head of the bubbly, 11-member Osmond tribe, says spiritual beliefs continue to keep the family together. As members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (also called the Mormon Church), the family uses a church-advocated practice, the Family Night, to provide a social and spiritual focus to their lives. This Family Night is a weekly celebration that the Osmonds believe any family, of any faith, can learn to cherish.

"As the children were growing up, we would dress the table with candlelight, and I would prepare the children's favorite meals," recalls Olive. Dinner conversation would revolve around Scripture readings and family decision-making, like planning the family budget or changing chore assignments.

Priorities for Mark and Antoinette Hatfield are God, family and vocation.

After dinner came the special part of the evening, when the Osmond children would entertain with a program they had planned the previous week. "Often it was a poem they had memorized or a barber-shop harmony they had practiced. Donny enjoyed being the master of ceremonies," comments Olive. "The children were in charge, and they loved it."

Even celebrity status has not hampered the Osmond's emphasis on their faith, and Family Night still is the pivot for religious training in the Osmond home. Olive knows, however, that parents must do homework to make it all work. "Go to the Bible," she offers. "It will guide you."

The Brooks and Connie Robinson Family

In order to give his four children — ages

nine to 15 — the religious support they needed, Brooks Robinson, veteran player-coach for the Baltimore Orioles, had to make some changes in his spiritual life, including converting to Catholicism in 1970.

"I recognized the need to share religion with my family," he says. Before then, his wife Connie had the responsibility for rearing the children in the Catholic faith.

"I began to realize," Brooks continues, "that something was left out of our family life when the kids went off to church with Connie; they wanted to know why their dad wasn't going with them."

Because the ball club and other business responsibilities often keep him out of town, the family's Sunday devotion has given spiritual purpose to the family unit. "It's very important for a child to share," says Brooks. "On Sundays, when we sit together and pray together, we have something special to share. These sessions make us a stronger family."

Faith also strengthens the children against peer pressure says Brooks. "The boys are at an age when they question everything, and it is reassuring for us as parents to know that one church has given them guidelines for their lives."

The Jerry Stiller and Anne Meara Family

Like the Robinsons, the Stiller and Meara team originally had two religious forces working in their marriage, but after the children were born, Anne converted to Judaism from Catholicism.

Although a starring role in the TV comedy series Rhoda has put Anne in a career separate from Jerry's film assignments, the comedy team still maintains a New York home with their two children, ages 11 and 14. "We belong to a synagogue here," says Anne. "My children attended a Jewish parochial school to learn the basics of our faith from religious, cultural and traditional viewpoints.

"They're in other schools now, but I'm happy that much of their early training has stayed with them; it has made our participation in religious services more fun."

For Anne and Jerry, it's vital that their children enjoy the experience of religion. "That's why religious holidays are very meaningful in our family," says Anne. Although the family's base is in Judaism, they still celebrate Christian holidays.

"Holidays are joyous, and we love the ceremony of them all," she explains. "Our children have inherited the Judeo-Christian ethic, and we feel they should understand what these holidays represent."

The Mark and Antoinette Hatfield Family

"I set my priorities in this order: God, family life and vocation," says Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon. "I explain to my constituents that only in this way, can I give them the best possible service."

The Hatfield family must maintain two homes — one in Washington, D.C., and one in Newport, Ore. — and often juggle their religious commitments between a Presbyterian church in the capital and a Baptist church in Oregon. Love and cooperation are key words in their formula, say Mark and Antoinette.

Love, as reflected in the Hatfield household, sets a special tone all members follow. Political responsibilities and Antoinette's own career in real estate often mandate long-distance family relationships, but the four Hatfield children are always aware of their parents' devotion.

The Hatfields have two boys and two girls, ranging in ages from 11 to 17, and the Senator candidly admits that sibling spats sometimes test the foundation: "There's no sure-fire method, and we have our struggles and our failures." But a presence of faith in the Hatfield home has kept everyone on the right track.

The family attends Sunday devotions together, and they all participate in church activities as time permits. "The children understand that one hour a week is little enough to give to the Lord," says Mark. "It refreshes them and helps them recognize their inner needs."

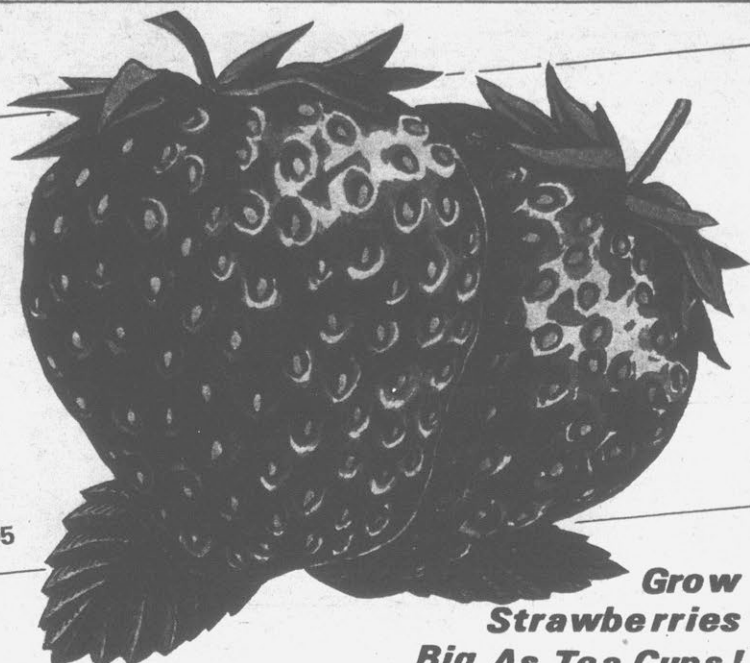

Mealtime blessings and Scripture readings also are incorporated into the Hatfields' way of life, but the Senator urges parents to back up these symbols of faith: "Youngsters need to count on consistency. Parents who don't live by what they teach unwittingly fail."

Grow Strawberries
Big As Tea Cups!

OUTSTANDING NEW VARIETY

Treat yourself to the biggest, most luscious-tasting strawberries you've ever had a chance to pop into your mouth. These are Quinault Everbearing berries and they grow as big as tea cups! They are a firm, deep red berry - a mouth-watering delight for desserts, preserves, freezing and eating fresh.

QUINAULT EVERBEARING STRAWBERRIES ARE LONG BEARING, AND HEAVY PRODUCING. You begin harvesting these big, sweet beauties in June, only 6 to 10 weeks after planting. They continue to bear all summer until a killing frost in the fall! The Quinault is an excellent home garden variety. It is hardy and drought resistant. It was developed in conjunction with Washington State University. When tested in 13 states and Canada it was found to have an excellent performance record for size, taste, plant growth and freedom from disease. This outstanding berry could well become the most popular strawberry ever developed.

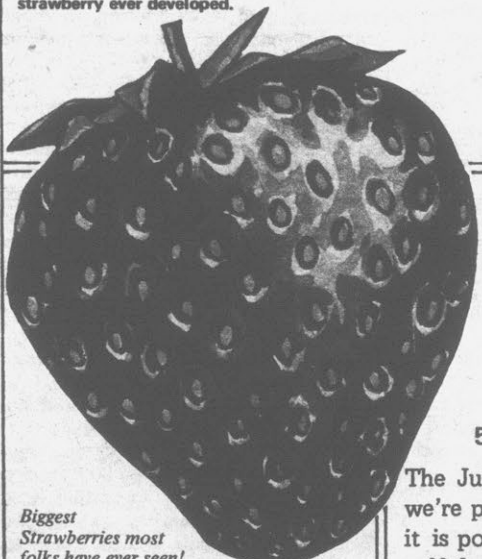

INCLUDE STRAWBERRIES IN YOUR GARDEN

Even if you don't raise a garden - - you should grow strawberries if at all possible. They are not hard to grow. Yet they produce the greatest all around fruit for family eating enjoyment. Imagine eating fresh, juicy strawberry shortcakes, jams - - or fresh with cream and sugar! In these days of high food prices a strawberry patch is an especially good investment. And you don't have to wait years to begin harvesting this fruit crop! Strawberries are especially nourishing. They provide even more Vitamin C than an equal weight of orange juice!

WHAT TO DO WHEN YOU ARE SHORT OF SPACE AND STILL WANT STRAWBERRIES

A small space - - as little as 9' X 12' - - will produce all of the berries that an average sized family will need. Even if you don't have a few feet of space you can still have strawberries. Drill holes in a small nail keg. Fill it with dirt and put plants in the holes. This is a decorative and good way to grow many delicious berries in a very small space. Trellises and strawberry pyramids can also be used when space is limited. Or simply plant strawberries along the front of your flower bed for an interesting and productive edging.

CAUTION - The most frequently noted "complaint" we have on these marvelous berries is that most people just didn't think to order enough! Year-round roses, in Minnesota no less. About 50 miles northwest of Minneapolis, a power company is piping some of its "waste" warm water through underground conduits to a half-acre greenhouse. Even when nighttime temperatures get as low as 25 below zero, the greenhouses maintain a cozy 60 degrees, and the results are roses, snapdragons, tomatoes, lettuce, green peppers, and pine seedlings. Commercial growers are studying the demonstration project with an eye toward large-scale production. The warm water, incidentally, is piped to cooling towers anyhow, making the crops something of a technological bonus.

The best time to buy. According to a Chase Manhattan Bank publication, May is the best time to purchase home furnishings, outdoor furniture, luggage, jewelry, and linens. In June, look for good buys in bedding, sleepwear, lingerie, hosiery, men's and boys' wear, women's shoes, furniture, and floor coverings. July is the time for furs, fabric, and furniture, and August means bedding, linens, furs, furniture, and leftover '77 cars as the '78 models appear. Beating inflation makes sense any time, and being a smart shopper is a year-round job.

"NOT ONLY DO THEY ELIMINATE THE PARKING PROBLEM, THEY GET 243 MILES TO THE GALLON!"

The price of conservation. Federal law already mandates that major household appliance manufacturers increase the energy efficiency of their products by not less than 20 percent by 1980, and several states are preparing to follow suit. However, there's a problem. The energy-efficient machines already being produced by appliance makers are not selling well. Such appliances require more insulation, and more copper in key parts like compressors. This drives up the price, and consumers are opting for the cheaper, more energy-extravagant models. The moral: energy conservation won't be cheap.

Pipeline Pete says: "The Lord's Prayer has 56 words; at Gettysburg, Lincoln spoke only 268 long-remembered words; and we got a whole country goin' on the 1,322 words in the Declaration of Independence. So how come it took the federal government 26,911 words to issue a regulation on the sale of cabbages?"

YOU'LL LIVE BETTER IN 1984 THAN YOU DO NOW

Today's problems that depress us are not "terminal illnesses," says one expert. Instead, they are growing pains preceding a better and more pleasant life for all.

By Shirley Sloan Fader

A recent Harris survey reveals that two-out-of-three Americans believe life in the future will be worse than it is today. But world-famous scientist Herman Kahn, co-author of The Next 200 Years: A Scenario for America and the World and director of the Hudson Institute "think tank" in Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., challenges this pessimistic view of the future and predicts that "things in general," and our individual lives in particular, will probably grow better, not worse.

Unlike mystics who depend on visions to predict the future, Kahn is esteemed as a scientific futurologist. The United States Government, multinational corporations and foreign governments keep the Hudson Institute's 35 researchers, 35 assistants and 200 consultants busy with projects about future economic, social and political developments and how they can be influenced. According to Kahn, "We're asked to study questions of national defense, arms control, law enforcement, poverty, education. For example, we've just finished a study for the U.S. Law Enforcement Assistance Agency on the probable future course of crime in the United States. For foreign countries we do no defense work, only economic and social projects. When making our suggestions and predictions, we have access to all available scientific data. To that data we add human judgment and experienced practical assumptions. Of course, we're not always right. But with our expertise, our chances of accuracy are excellent."

An affable and unpretentious 55-year-old, 350-pound six-foot giant, Kahn used his training in physics and mathematics to found the Hudson Institute in 1961. Married and the father of two children, he lives a few miles from the institute.

Here is what he sees for the American family during the next decade. "Only very bad luck or very bad management can wipe out the optimistic scenario we foresee," says Kahn. "Ordinary levels of bad luck and bad management won't be enough to interfere."

Inflation

Inflation will be controlled at less than 2 percent by cooperation between government and business. Kahn explains that in the past, spurts of unplanned inflation caused by wartime or genuine shortages transferred money from private citizens to government and business. But lately, bouts of controlled inflation have not markedly enriched government or business. And to the extent that private people lose money, they react furiously.

In addition, the rapid functioning of electronic record keepers makes running businesses under inflationary conditions extremely difficult. In past years, slow interchange of financial records meant a year or more might be needed for a country to show a billion-dollar trade deficit. Today, this debt would become apparent in a fraction of the time. Under such conditions inflation becomes distasteful to everyone: to business, to government and to the average person. When nobody profits from inflation, it can be stopped. But continuation of the below 2-percent rate after about 1982 will depend on whether people have learned to restrain overspending and overborrowing and on whether voters keep anti-inflation pressure on government.

Income

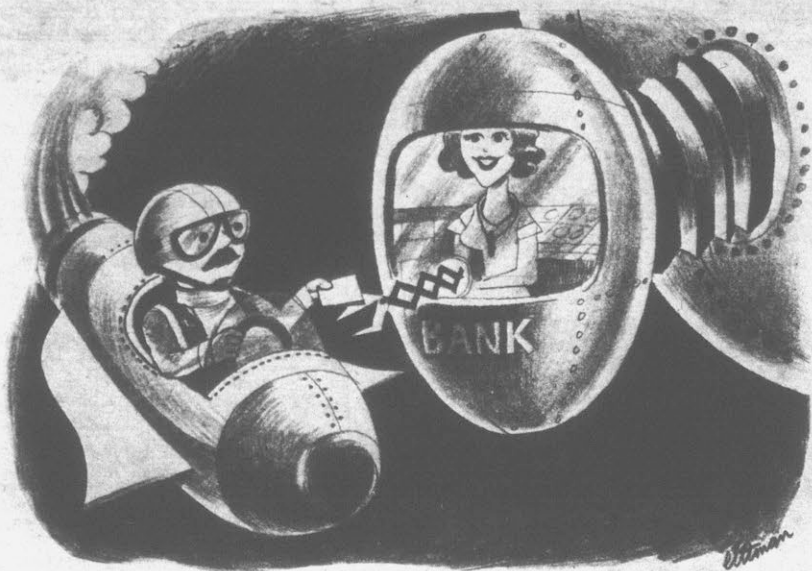

Within the next decade, American income and living standards will rise dramatically as the national family median moves from its present-day $14,000 to $20,000 in 1977 purchasing dollars. Pressure to "keep up with the Joneses" will also recede, and we'll feel free to use our extra money on whatever appeals to us.

Jobs

Our future is in a service industry. (Service means occupations in such fields as education, medicine, social work, communications, leisure facilities and the arts as well as all the manual activities we always have called service jobs.) By 2000, industry will be comparable to agriculture in terms of jobs. One hundred years ago, 50 percent of Americans worked in agriculture. Today, approximately 4½ percent of the work force produces our farm products, including a huge surplus that we export.

Natural Resources

Though we've been subjected to a barrage of pessimistic news, nobody has found any shortages of the raw materials that will be important in the near or indefinite future. The world, in fact, has enough resources or potential substitutes for every need. We are now experiencing controlled supplies of resources, not world depletions. What is required is action 10 to 15 years ahead of time to prevent temporary shortages.

For instance, the United States has the world's largest concentrations of coal and oil shale, and it dominates the world's potential energy supply. We can, if we take action, produce oil at prices competitive with OPEC. But industry, government and voters must look ahead because it takes 10 to 15 years to build and staff facilities. If we do plan, as the world and we expand energy production, there will be a forced decrease of OPEC oil prices.

Poor Countries

Throughout the world living standards will steadily increase. Prices of food and raw materials will stabilize or decline. The developed world and OPEC will promote world stability by investing excess capital in the Third World and in themselves.

Public Morality

A shift of attention from government and business scandals, and fewer confrontations between the two, will lead to an ideological renewal of government in the United States. The standards set by the Carter Administration will be significant in determining whether the return to "normalcy" is a passing fashion or a long-term trend.

Private Behavior

You can look for a return to some traditional values combined with some new values. Indeed, the return to traditional behavior is already visible: young people are more patriotic than their older brothers and sisters, more work-and-achievement oriented, more parent oriented, more interested in obtaining good jobs. They take their studies more seriously and dress better. In other areas, literature is not so nihilistic, while art is becoming more representational.

Whether this is a five-year fad, or a way of life over several decades, will depend on government leadership, the family, religion and schools. "For example," says

Kahn, "the methods American public schools now use to teach history push our young people into antigovernment, alienated behavior.

"History-teaching," he continues, "should be composed of three parts: 1) traditional perspectives, which means dates, facts, heroes and heroines; 2) clash of interests, which means how we developed, as with farmers vs. manufacturers, workers vs. owners, etc; 3) debunking. The problem today is that we teach only the last two. Children learn that government and society are wrecking the environment and ruining the country. This turns kids off on government and society. If we teach the successes of society as well as its bad points, kids will be turned on to create more successes."

Marriage and Family

Despite the media's hullabaloo, marriage is not a threatened institution. We will emerge from the abnormal situation that followed World War II, when there was an increase in the proportion of the population that married and a pattern of very young marriages. We'll move back toward the American tradition of later marriage and having many people who never marry.

As for babies: currently the birth rate is 1.8 per woman. Within the next 10 years, we expect the rate to hover around 2.1, which is replacement stability.

America's Position in the World

Losses in American influence will be limited. The general economic growth of the world will strengthen everyone, thereby curbing Russia and other authoritarian powers.

Kahn sums up his scientific view of the future in this way: "Admittedly, we're surer of economic and technological predictions than of social predictions. Economic and technological trends have a force behind them that makes them almost unstoppable except by powerful counter efforts. Social issues are more easily influenced by people's and leaders' actions and beliefs."

Do most people identify with their favorite TV characters? What does TV-viewing time reveal about family tensions?

TV AND YOU

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The favorite TV characters of most Americans are those with whom they can identify.
2. Whether you are a light or heavy TV viewer provides a clue as to what you think of yourself.
3. The television programs a child chooses to watch reveal a lot about the child-parent relationship.
4. TV programs provide an index as to whether times are good or bad.
5. The amount of time television sets are on provides a good barometer of family tensions.
6. TV can motivate a child to become a better student and keep him from neglecting or postponing his homework assignments, whether the programs he watches are educational or not.

ANSWERS

1. False. According to a survey questionnaire of a cross-section of the adult population, directed by two Bowdoin College psychologists, the personal characteristics, beliefs and attitudes of a major TV character may be the complete opposite of the TV viewer, and still the character will be rated as a top favorite. The survey showed, for example, that though viewers generally disagreed with Archie Bunker and found him dissimilar to themselves, he was thought to be a likeable loser, was affectionately regarded and scored high marks in popularity contests. In fact, psychological studies have shown that many people actually dislike characters they perceive to be similar to themselves. This has been found to be notably true in cases where a person is lacking in self-esteem and doesn't like himself very much.

2. True. A University of Southern California study has shown that — where women are concerned, at any rate — light and heavy television viewers see themselves quite differently, and have different psychological needs. The investigation, which compared the self-concepts of hundreds of women who were divided into two groups, light and heavy TV viewers, showed that the light viewers rated themselves as significantly more active (doing more things, going more places, having more diversified experiences) and as being more autonomous (controlling the direction of their lives to a greater extent) than the heavy viewers, who rated themselves less active in terms of getting things done or achieving specific goals, but more active with regard to sociability and friendship.

3. True. Michigan State University studies show that when the child-parent relationship is good, with good communications existing between parents and their children, the children will have a TV-viewing preference similar to what they perceive their parents would want them to watch. But the opposite is likely to be the case when "interaction between parents and children is minimal, and the home simply serves as a place to eat, sleep and watch television."

4. True. A California State University study, which evaluated the content of TV programs that have been broadcast by the three major national networks over a 20-year period, produced this finding: increases in the popularity of authoritarian programs (those which feature a tough and powerful authority figure who maintains law and order) in a given year correlated positively with rises in the unemployment rate for that year, in the consumer-price index from the previous year and in the proportion of poll respondents who mentioned the economy as the country's most urgent problem.

5. True. In a study by a team of University of Minnesota behavior scientists of the relationship between television-viewing time and family tensions, greater tension was found in families with high levels of television-watching. It's suggested that television is often used to head off tense interaction among family members and that it serves as an "acceptable avoidance mechanism" when relationships within the family are likely to become unpleasant. And the investigators observed that quite possibly "family members who are feeling irritable, or who want to be left alone, may be choosing the wisest course if they avoid other family members by watching television." The researchers point out, however, that viewing television for the purpose of evading tense interactions may be harmful if the sources of tension are recurrent and are aggravated by the avoidance of talking the matter out.

6. True. But you must handle it right. Parents are advised to arrange to have their offspring complete the homework before watching TV, not afterward. For, as psychologist Fitzhugh Dodson observes in his definitive treatise on the subject, "This motivates him not to dawdle but to concentrate on his studies — since he wants to finish up in order to watch television."

I love tobacco. I don't smoke.

Walt Garrison, football and rodeo star.

If I'm a guy who loves tobacco, how come I never take a puff?

Well, because I use "smokeless tobacco."

All it takes is a pinch of "smokeless" in between my cheek and gum. Feels real relaxing in there. And I get full, rich tobacco pleasure.

Another thing is, "smokeless tobacco" can't tie up my hands. So I can use it no matter what I'm doing.

If you'd like to go "smokeless," here's what you do. Just look for three great brands.

There's Skoal, my favorite, which has a wintergreen taste.

Copenhagen, a straight tobacco. And Happy Days Mint.

All three dated for freshness. All three give you the tobacco pleasure you're looking for.

Smokeless tobacco.

MONEY

Why You Should Have A Household Inventory

knows, the company expects you to be able to provide these details. Policies usually cover the insured for losses under this specific formula: rather than replacement cost, you get the difference between the original cost of the destroyed or stolen item and its current value.

Insurance companies urge policyholders to make a complete and detailed inventory of their possessions — with pictures of the most valuable ones — and to keep that inventory in a safe place. It's an inexpensive and effective way of protecting yourself. Now, for those who never quite get around to what seems to be an arduous and time-consuming chore, the magic of videotaping offers a simple alternative. Various companies around the country will conduct a "videotape tour" of your house and everything in it — with an accompanying audio tape that describes each item in detail.

—Norman Lobsenz

Suppose someone asked you to shut your eyes and to describe all the valuable possessions that you own — from books to bird cages, glasses to rugs. Could you list them all or describe exactly what they look like; tell what condition they are in or where and when you bought them; say how much they cost and how long you have owned them?

Probably not. This is why so many families are unable to recover the full measure of any losses incurred through fire or theft. Yet, as anyone who has ever filed a claim under a fire-and-theft insurance policy

Puzzling News About Your Heart

Solving puzzles puts a greater strain on the heart than watching erotic movies, Stanford University researchers report. In a study of recovering heart-attack patients, the scientists reported they found that heart rates and blood pressure jumped highest when patients were given a geometric puzzle to assemble. The increases were less pronounced when the patients were interviewed about jobs, their heart attacks or sex or when they saw films with erotic and traumatic scenes.

Christopher Cossette: He Has Rich Friends In Influential Places

Christopher Cossette has an uncommon problem with computers: they send him money. Checks began arriving at his Winter Park, Fla., home in 1974. The first was for $6,035. Two weeks later, he got one for $23,352. He wrote the firm who'd sent the checks, asking to whom to return the money. But the checks kept coming. So he put the money in a bank while awaiting a reply from the store. By October he had received checks totaling $110,881.90. He earned enough interest while the money was in the bank to buy a sports car and a swimming pool. That was his first unusual encounter with computers — but not the last. A credit-card firm mailed him three cards. Every time he used one to pay for a dinner, records for the three cards seemed to cancel each other out. He was never billed for the meals. He bought two tickets to Europe from an airline but only used one of them. When he returned, he sent the unused ticket to the airline. They credited him for the ticket and then returned the $739 for his own fare. Letters asking the company to correct its mistakes have still gotten no results. "I'm not a con artist," Cossette says. "I just stumbled into this, and I'm fascinated."

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

How To Make A Good Move

One out of five families will move this year, and moving often causes psychological problems for both parents and children. Dr. Gerald Weinberger of Columbia University has these recommendations for making things easier on everyone:

- Give a child time to prepare himself.
- Take time to talk about feelings, including both the sadness of leaving friends and the excitement of going to a new place.
- Familiarize children with the new place if at all possible. Visit the new house and the new school. If you're moving to a distant place, get pictures or brochures about the area, including the new house if available. Perhaps you could even subscribe to the local newspaper a couple of months before arriving.
- Let children help with the packing.
- Parents should talk to their child's new teacher. The child feels reassured that the parent cares, and the teacher gets information that can help the child to settle.
- The best time of the year to move children is around May or as soon as school recesses for the summer. A move just before school begins fails to allow a child to develop patterns in the new locale before having to cope with schoolwork.
- There apparently is no "best age" at which to move children, but a move just before a youngster's junior or senior year in high school is probably the worst time.

New Concept: Read-A-Thons

There are walk-a-thons, bike-a-thons and swim-a-thons throughout the country that produce millions of dollars for a huge variety of charities — and often blisters and tired muscles for the children who participate. In the last year, a new kind of "thon" has been mushrooming nationally, which does not call upon physical durability. It's called the MS (Multiple Sclerosis) Read-a-Thon. The children in MS Read-a-Thons read books and ask sponsors for contributions for every book read. The program was originated in 1974 by the National MS Society chapter in Cleveland and went national last year. "By the end of 1976, four million children had registered for the MS Read-a-Thons," says Sylvia Lawry, founder and executive director of the National MS Society. "About 10 million books were read, and in terms of funds raised, we received $4 million from all of our Read-a-Thons across the country." Children can register through their schools. If schools want more information about the program, they should telephone their local MS chapter or write to: National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 205 E. 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Love At First Sight Instead Of A Fight For Rare Singing Apes

It was love at first sight for two rare singing apes of Borneo, introduced to each other at the Central Florida Zoo. The zoo acquired the female in October as a mate for its lonely male. She was quarantined in a separate building for some time, but their voices were so loud they could hear each other singing. Zoo officials feared a confrontation, however, since these apes are often hostile to each other. Much to the surprise of zoo workers, the two apes immediately became fast friends. Zoo officials are hopeful this could mean the zoo may soon have a chorus of singing apes instead of just the present duet.

Don't Soft-Pedal On Brake Repairs

If you know the early signs, you can recognize when your car may have major brake problems. Here's how the U.S. Department of Transportation suggests you check your car brakes:

- If the brake light on the dash board lights up, you may have a problem in the braking system, such as loss of pressure. Have your brake system checked to determine the problem.
- There should be a solid feel when your brakes are applied. If your brakes feel mushy or spongy, you may have air bubbles in the brake lines or your brake-fluid level may be low.
- When the brake pedal is applied, it should go halfway to the floor. If it travels farther, have your brakes checked.

Quick Takes

How does the tax bite in the U.S. compare with that around the world? Not as badly as some taxpayers might think. A construction worker in Stockholm pays more than 40 percent of his income in taxes and welfare levies. In Amsterdam, the share is 39 percent. But in Chicago, it's 26 percent....

Remember the Freedom Train? It logged some 5,000 miles during its 21-month tour, visited the 48 contiguous states and stopped in 38 cities so some 6.8 million people could board it. Well, now that the Bicentennial is over, it's for sale. The train has been sitting at its last stop in Alexandria, Va., for a few months now, waiting for someone to come along and make the right offer for it. The mobile museum, 23 cars in all, can be yours for $750,000 — minus the locomotive....

Washington, D.C. and the state of Utah recorded the highest birth rate in the nation last year — 27.1 births per 1,000 population. That compares with a national average of 14.8....

If you send up a howl everytime you take your pet to the vet, why not follow the setup of Paul Murray of San Francisco, who has come up with the idea of Medipet, a prepaid insurance plan for dogs and cats. For $68 a year, pets are covered for such routine treatments as physical exams, rabies shots and deworming. They also get prescription drugs and emergency hospital care. Murray, who started his program a few months ago, hopes to extend his coverage nationwide....

Most American motorists want to keep the national speed limit at 55 miles per hour, the Transportation Department says, citing nine surveys conducted by local, state and national organizations.

DICK TRACY

by Chester Gould

MRS. OATS, THIS IS OUR POLICE ARTIST. DESCRIBE THE PHOTOGRAPHER WHO CALLED AT THE FARM AND SNAPPED THE JUDGE THE DAY BEFORE HE WAS KILLED.

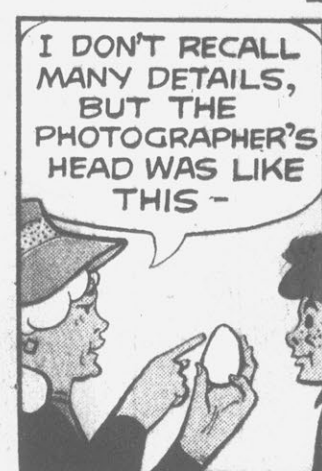

MRS. OATS WAS THE JUDGE'S HOUSE-KEEPER.

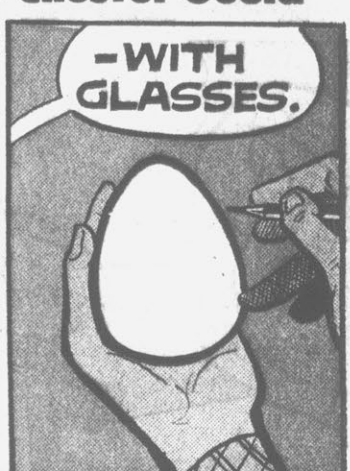

FIRST, I WANT TO SHOW YOU SOMETHING.

WHY ALL THE INTEREST IN A MAGAZINE PHOTOGRAPHER? THE JUDGE WASN'T KILLED WITH A CAMERA.
BUT-WAIT! WOULD SOMEONE WANT A RECENT PHOTO OF A MAN HE PLANNED TO KILL?

LIKE SOMEONE WHO WASN'T SURE OF WHAT HIS VICTIM LOOKED LIKE?
YES, MAYBE SOMEONE JUST RELEASED FROM THE STATE PEN AFTER SERVING A LONG SENTENCE.

CERTAINLY NOT THE PHOTOGRAPHER.
