Jets Scramble As Soviet Bombers Approach Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet reconnaissance bombers flew within 60 miles of the U.S. East Coast this week and passed over several American warships before retreating when U.S. fighter planes were scrambled after them, Pentagon sources report.

Two TU-95 Bear bombers passed directly over the aircraft carrier Saratoga, an escorting cruiser and two frigates exercising earlier this week in a U.S. fleet training area about 60 miles off the East Coast, the sources said.

The sources said the bombers were closer to the U.S. coast than ever before.

Two U.S. F-4 phantom jet fighters were scrambled from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, North Carolina, when the Bears appeared over the Saratoga and its escorts. But the Soviet planes flew away without further incident, sources said.

Although the Russian bombers made no threatening moves and were over international waters, some senior American officers are known to be disturbed by the boldness of TU-95 pilots in maneuvering within the U.S. air defense zone.

These officers say the episode fits into a pattern of more assertive Soviet naval, air, surface and submarine activity within the past year.

Soviet TU-95 bombers are equipped with cameras and various kinds of electronic intelligence-gathering devices, as well as two types of anti-ship missiles, according to U.S. intelligence information.

Bear bombers have been flying between Russia and Cuba at irregular intervals since 1970, but always have kept their distance from the U.S. coastline.

The Soviet reconnaissance bombers, with an operating range of about 8,000 miles, have been reaching more widely over the Pacific as well. For example, two Bears flew last Jan. 11 from Vladivostok to within 50 miles of Guam, the site of important U.S. air and naval bases.

TU-95s also have been operating over South Atlantic shipping lanes from bases in Guinea on Africa's west coast.

Seymour Johnson's Jets

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The F-4 Phantom jet fighters which reportedly were scrambled from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near here this week to pursue Soviet reconnaissance bombers can reach 35,000 feet altitude in 1.42 minutes, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The swift, two-man fighter planes also can operate at speeds of nearly 1,340 miles per hour at that altitude, armed with radar-guided Sparrow air-to-air missiles, Sidewinder air-to-ground missiles and 20 millimeter cannons.

Two F-4s based at Seymour Johnson reportedly were sent aloft earlier this week when Soviet reconnaissance bombers flew within 60 miles of the U.S. East Coast and passed over the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga and its escorts during a fleet training exercise.

Apparently the Soviet planes flew on without incident.

About 70 of the F-4s are stationed at Seymour Johnson in coastal North Carolina as part of a Tactical Air Command unit.

According to a base spokesman, the F-4s are designed both for aerial combat, or "air superiority," and for close ground support for infantry troops.

The spokesman said the F-4s have a range of about 1,090 miles and an effective combat ceiling of nearly 54,000 feet. They can be refueled in the air.

Armaments vary according to mission, but the base spokesman said they frequently are armed with four radar-guided Sparrow missiles under the fuselage, four Sidewinder missiles under the wing and a 20 mm cannon under the nose.

A weapon systems operator sits behind the pilot and controls the firing of missiles, the spokesman said.

Troop A Commander Is Chosen To Head N.C. SHP By Governor Hunt

RALEIGH — Highway Patrol Troop A commander Capt. John T. Jenkins of Greenville, was named this morning by Gov. Jim Hunt as the new commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

"He's the strong leader I have been looking for to make the patrol a proud, professional organization once again," Gov. Hunt said.

"Capt. Jenkins believes in staying in touch with the troopers he commands and this is one of his strongest points," according to the Governor. Jenkins is tentatively scheduled to take the oath of office as Patrol commander April 29, in Raleigh.

Jenkins, 55, has spent his more than 29 years service as a member of the Patrol in Eastern North Carolina. The Warren County native, who attended Halifax County schools, joined the Patrol in 1947 and was stationed in Craven County until promoted to the rank of corporal and transferred to Rocky Mount in 1959. He moved to Greenville as corporal in 1960, then was promoted to sergeant in 1961 and transferred to Goldsboro in Troop B.

CAPT. JOHN T. JENKINS

In 1967 Jenkins was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and served from 1967 until 1969 as executive officer of Troop B, with headquarters in Fayetteville.

The officer was then promoted to the rank of captain and

Voyager Waits For Fair Wind

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Steve Kurachi, the Texan trying to make England by rowboat, was anchored about five miles off shore Friday "waiting for the wind to get right," according to local fishermen.

The 25-year-old voyager was towed 10 miles out to sea in his 17-foot rowboat earlier this week by shrimp boat owner Horace Sikes, but stiff winds and high seas apparently buffeted his craft back toward land.

"Last thing I heard was he was anchored off shore about five miles waiting for the winds to get right so he could go on out. That's what fishermen have said for the past two days," said Mike Merritt, president of Atlantic Marine Corp..

A Beautification Committee, made up of members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce and members of local major garden clubs in Greenville met Thursday to discuss possible ways to beautify the entrances of Greenville.

Kurt Fickling, chairman of the committee explained that members of the chamber had previously surveyed the entrance areas which need improvement and asked committee members to suggest ways to improve the entrances.

Fickling said that the six major entrances to be studied are as follows: Highway 264 from Wilson; the Highway 264 By-Pass; Highway 11 from Kinston; Highway 43 from New Bern; Highway 30 from Washington; and Highway 11 from Bethel.

Following the discussion, committee members traveled by bus on a tour of the major entrances.

After the bus tour, committee members discussed suggested ways to improve the appearance

MEASURED MILE?

I would like to know if there is a measured mile close to Greenville that one may use to check a speedometer for accuracy. H. T.

The only two posted measured miles in this eight-county Division of the North Carolina Transportation System both are near New Bern. A three-mile one begins about two miles east of New Bern on U. S. 70 (on the way to Morehead) and there is another west of New Bern between Dover and Cove City. This information was obtained from James Boyd, Traffic Service Supervisor for the Division.

Boyd said that the measured mile that once was in existence on the Pactolus Highway is no longer. It was done away with when this highway (now 264) was four-laned, he said.

Asked if there could be a measured mile or so established near Greenville he said he would check with the state office and see; that it might be possible.

Life Plus Forty Years Given Convicted Rapist

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Alton Ray Curmon was found guilty by a Pitt County Superior Court jury yesterday of second degree rape, first degree burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and armed robbery in connection with the assault on a 23-year-old Route 8, Greenville, woman on January 11.

The jury deliberated for 2½ hours before returning to the courtroom at 12:30 p.m. and announcing the guilty verdicts.

Judge Harry C. Martin

later yesterday afternoon sentenced the 17-year-old defendant to 30 years in prison on the rape charge, life imprisonment on the burglary count, and combining the armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon conviction in one 10-year prison sentence. The three sentences were ordered to run consecutively.

Curmon and four other Farmville area men were arrested in connection with the brutal attack January 12. One of the men charged in connection with the case pled guilty in Superior Court last week. The three other defendants are awaiting trial.

Curmon, dressed in olive drab colored trousers and a tan striped shirt and high-topped tennis shoes appeared unmoved by the verdict. He looked at the jurors and smiled occasionally as the jury was polled.

Defense attorney Dallas Clark, before Judge Martin passed sentence on Curmon, asked that the court consider the defendant's age in sentencing.

Saying Curmon was "17 a few days before January 11," Clark suggested that, "a defendant has got to see the light at the end of the tunnel," when sentenced, suggesting that Judge Martin not give the defendant the maximum sentence of life imprisonment on the rape and armed robbery charges.

Clark pointed out that present Parole Board policy makes a prisoner eligible for parole after serving one-fourth of his sentence, adding that under present policy, a life sentence is considered to be 80 years for parole consideration purposes.

The attorney said if Curmon was given two consecutive life sentences, he would be 57 years old before being eligible for parole, adding that a prisoner has to be considered for and granted parole from one sentence before the second consecutive sentence begins.

If Curmon were granted paroles after serving one-fourth of each of the three prison terms handed him by Judge Martin yesterday, he would serve 30 years in jail and be 47 years-old when released from custody.

"This has been a real difficult case for all parties involved," Clark emphasized.

After Clark gave notice of appeal, Judge Martin set bond for Curmon at $25,000, but ordered that in lieu of bond — since Curmon was found to be an indigent defendant — that the defendant be confined to Central Prison in Raleigh while the appellate courts consider the case.

Shari Lewis Says Clubs Good Outlet For Kids

By CONNIE GRZELKA
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Shari Lewis, the children's entertainer, feels no need to hand out ideas to kids as though they had none of their own.

listening to those set forth by adults." This encourages children to trust their own concepts and themselves, explains the star of television's "The Shari Show."

Pointing to surveys that indicate that children are programmed to regard life as a series of events in half-hour segments, as in television, Ms. Lewis offers a suggestion: The old-fashioned club.

"Any number of children can start a club, even two or three. When there are other children around, there's always someone who'll trigger the activity to completion," she says.

A project is rewarding only when it is completed, she adds, noting the low frustration and concentration levels found in many children today.

Ms. Lewis, a former Scout and children's group leader, tells children how to organize a club and how to make it work on their own in her 15th and latest book, "The Kids-Only Club Book."

Her own daughter, Mallory, 14, tried to start four or five clubs over the past several years, but all attempts were short-lived. The reasons for such quick dispersals, says Ms. Lewis, usually include an unwillingness to work with adults and a simple lack of organization.

"The Kids-Only Club Book," gives children tips on getting members, electing officers, finding a meeting place and creating a club symbol. Ms. Lewis provides the specifics for putting on carnivals, puppet and magic shows, plays and craft fairs.

The author started working with young audiences at age 13, when she had her own show on a local television station here.

She claims to have no theory on working with children, but says, "I try to work as artistically as possible while staying within the framework of kids. It's only when you try to second guess kids that you turn out trash."

Ms. Lewis, who gives her age as "timeless," says:

"I was a grownup when I was little; I'm a child now that I'm grown up. I feel very much the same person I was when I was a child. After working with children so much, I find that you don't have to peel away as much of the onion skin as you do with other grownups."

As president of the American Center of Films for Children, the entertainer cites the shortage of products for the younger set and laments the passing of the Saturday matinee.

Although a television personality herself, Ms. Lewis finds the bulk of young people's programming "vulgar and vacuous." She's concerned that kids are growing up in the absence of hobbies and other leisure-time activities. "The crux of the problem," in her opinion, "is that parents don't turn off the television."

Her husband, J.P. Tarcher, a Los Angeles publisher who has published her last few books, was once a program director for a television station here.

"He tried to hire me," the star explained, "but he couldn't, so he married me."

Freezer Guide Recommended

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

If the recent record-setting outbreak of botulism poisoning in Pontiac, Mich., makes you reluctant to start or continue home canning this year, consider an alternative: home freezing.

Although freezing usually costs more than canning when you count escalating electricity rates for storage, home frozen food avoids the risk of botulism. And it almost invariably retains flavor, color and nutritional content better than canned.

Some costs can be offset by reusing freezer containers or recycling those from commercial food products: well-rinsed milk cartons can be used for soups and sauces; or you can line cartons with food-grade plastic bags before filling them. Tin boxes are good for storing cookies or other delicate foods that crumble or mash easily.

These are typical tips from an excellent new freezer guide, "Jane Butel's Freezer Cookbook" (Coward, McCann and Geoghegan $8.95).

Among other things, it discusses the best and worst locations for freezers (kitchen and garage, in that order); nutrient losses and how to avoid them, advantages and disadvantages of various freezer wraps, why certain products do not freeze well (meringue toughens, milk sauces may curdle); maximum storage times for ingredients and finished or partly finished recipes; homemade dinners for one; low-calorie foods; what cheeses freeze well; and how they should be handled.

The author, a former home economist with public utility companies and major home appliance manufacturers, now is corporate vice president for consumer affairs with a major American travel company.

Her 200 recipes include many ethnic: Tex-Mex specialties such as homemade tamales and chile con queso, Greek cheese pastries, Swiss fondue, beef bourguignon, shoyu chicken, Armenian lamb stew. There are recipes for furred and feathered game, and directions for handling game safely between the kill and the freezer.

One vegetable guide includes directions for freezing green chile peppers, a safe alternative to the improperly home canned ones that caused the Michigan outbreak of botulism poisoning. It also includes unusual vegetable varieties: chayote (a summer squash), celery root, dasheen (taro), fresh ginger root, jicama (a crisp, white root vegetable popular in California and the Southwest), Chinese snow peas and fresh water chestnuts or unused portions of canned ones.

In a special microwave oven chapter, a chart for blanching vegetables includes amounts to be processed at one time, the size casseroles needed and the amount of water and time.

Jane's Skinny Dip
Roquefort skinny dip is a 21-calorie-per-tablespoon multi-purpose recipe for weight-conscious people from "Jane Butel's Freezer Cookbook."

Combine 2 to 3 tablespoons of skim milk in an electric blender container with 1 teaspoon each of Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice, 1 cup of diet cottage cheese, 3 ounces of Roquefort cheese, crumbled, and one fourth teaspoon of paprika. Process until smooth. Serve with fresh vegetable dippers, or on hamburgers, baked potatoes or other cooked vegetables. Makes one and a half cups. Freeze in small quantities for convenience. Seal tight, and label. Thaw in refrigerator overnight.

Dear Abby

Opportunity For Outdoorsy Woman

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know you aren't running a Lonely Hearts Club, but I've nothing to lose but a postage stamp, so here goes.

I'd like you to help me find a wife. I am 50 years old, I've never been married and I'm in excellent health. I'm a retired S/Sgt (U.S. Navy), get a lifetime pension, have money in the bank and some income property. I own a nice little cabin on 12 acres, deep in the woods near a mountain stream. I love to hunt and fish.

My wife must be the outdoor type. If she's never skinned a rabbit or filleted a fish, she should be willing to learn. Don't send me any widows with kids or women under 40. I'm too old to start raising a family, and I don't care to finish raising somebody else's. She doesn't have to look like Sophia Loren as long as she's strong and healthy.

Enclosed is my picture. (I look short because I'm standing next to a redwood tree, but I am actually 5 ft. 9 and weigh 170.) I'd appreciate any leads you can give me. By the way, you don't happen to be single, do you?

WILLING TO GAMBLE

DEAR WILLING: Don't gamble on strangers—the risk is great enough when you marry someone you know. No, I don't happen to be single, but I wouldn't qualify anyway because I've never skinned a rabbit, and I'm NOT willing to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and Herbie is 22. We aren't engaged or anything like that, but we sort of have an understanding.

Herbie never lets me know when he's going to take me out. He just drops in and expects me to be sitting home waiting for him. And I always am.

I've even turned down other dates to wait for Herbie. How can I break him of this habit? When I ask him to please telephone in advance, he says he doesn't like to use the phone.

AVAILABLE ANNIE

DEAR AVAILABLE: If Herbie knows you're always available, why should he bother to call?

When he tells you he doesn't like to use the phone, tell him that YOU don't like to use the crystal ball! And the next time he drops in, manage to be "out." If you lose him, you lose him. Life with the likes of Herbie doesn't sound too peachy to me.

DEAR ABBY: My name is "Marjorie." Is that such a difficult name to pronounce? Why then do strangers as soon as they meet me insist on calling me "Marge"? When I tell them in a nice way that my name is "Marjorie," in a most sarcastic and mocking manner.

What makes Americans behave this way? And how can I get them to call me "Marjorie" without all that ridicule and funny business?

FROM LIVERPOOL

DEAR MARJORIE: Nine out of 10 Americans are guilty as charged. A well-bred European addresses a new acquaintance as Mr., Mrs. or Miss.

Not Americans! Charles immediately becomes "Charlie," Robert is "Bob" and Marjorie is "Marge." It's a good-humored American bid for friendliness, not familiarity. Forgive them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17, but have always been very mature for my age. I am in love with a 24-year-old guy, but I have to see him behind my parents' back because they hate him without even knowing him. You see, he was married to a no-good run-around, has two children by her, and his divorce is not quite final yet, and my folks don't want me going with a guy who has had that kind of record.

Abby, you've got to believe me, he is a wonderful guy, and the messed-up marriage wasn't his fault. It was hers. Please tell me how I can get my parents to at least meet him and judge him for what he is.

LOVES THE GUY

DEAR LOVES: Assuming that this fellow is guiltless, I am wondering what kind of a "wonderful" 24-year-old guy, not yet divorced, would see a 17-year-old girl behind her parent's back.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Corn Research Station Set Up In Farmville Area

Moon Pie Festival Is Celebrated On Campus

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

"A moon pie in every mouth" is not an empty campaign promise. It's the theme of a festival in celebration of spring going on this week at East Carolina University.

The Moon Pie Festival is a six-day event which began Monday with a moon pie giveaway and will conclude Sunday with a spaced-out film festival.

According to Ken Hammond, program director for the ECU Student Union, which sponsored the celebration, the idea for the Moon Pie Festival was developed last summer.

"The Student Union staff decided they wanted a fun activity to plan for the spring," said Hammond.

"Other universities have celebrated the hot dog; we decided our festival would center on the moon pie.

"We really just reached up and pulled the idea out of a hat."

Activities this week have included an outdoor concert on the mall, moon pie eating contests, an ECU jazz band concert, the Moon Pie Olympics and a moon pie sculpture contest called, of course, the "Moona Lisa".

The Student Center Theater, and moon pies will be given away Saturday. Sunday three films will be presented to cap off the week.

Supplies for the week, namely

4,000 of the chocolate and marshmallow concoctions, were donated by Chattanooga Bakeries of Tennessee.

With a moon pie in every mouth, can summer be far away?

Waste Heat Will Be Used

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — President Carter's call for efficiency and ingenuity in energy conservation is taking root in Hickory on the roof of a textile manufacturing firm.

Workers at Regal Manufacturing Co. are setting up three greenhouses on the main plant roof, where waste heat from the factory can be used to produce vine ripened tomatoes.

Barry Setzer, company president, said the greenhouses will serve the dual purpose of supplying a need and utilizing wasted heat.

Setzer said he expects to have tomatoes and lettuce planted in the three greenhouses by July 1, with the first crop yield about Sept. 1.

If all goes well, Setzer said he plans to cover the company's second plant with 1½ acres of additional greenhouses.

Like most companies, Regal is seeking ways to reduce operating costs, Setzer said, adding that 25 per cent of greenhouse operation costs is for heat.

The rooftop greenhouses use an air exchange system that pumps hot, humid air to the roof and cool air into the plant. Air in the plant is warmed by the yarn-making process and is not generated by a fuel source, he said.

Setzer estimated the greenhouses' cost at between $30,000 and $40,000. He said the produce will be sold locally.

Capt. Jenkins...

Appearing with Hunt at the Governor's office this morning, Jenkins said one of his first concerns is to improve the sagging moral in the Highway Patrol.

"We have experienced a lot of troubled times in the last couple of years," Jenkins said. "I will do everything I can to take politics out of the patrol."

Jenkins said that it has been his practice to ride with troopers in their patrol cars and he will continue that practice as Patrol commander.

"I've traveled a lot at night," he said, "and I'll continue to do that. To be seen in the field means a lot to the troopers."

Saying he believes there is a need for discipline in the organization, the new commander said, "I think everybody requires a certain amount of discipline, and they expect a certain amount."

Hunt said Jenkins has been instructed to formulate a set of procedures and tests for evaluating troopers for promotions.

"The men in the field," Hunt said, "need to know what the rules are, what is considered important for promotion."

Hunt, who said he had never seriously considered hiring someone from outside the state to head the patrol, said "It is a symbol, I think, that a man can start as a trooper and rise to the top and be commander."

A graduate of Enfield High School, Jenkins has attended police and traffic schools at the Institute of Government at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and at Northwestern University.

He replaces Maj. Jack D. Cabe, who has been acting patrol commander since Col. Edward W. Jones was hospitalized in December. Col. Jones formally retired when Gov. Hunt took office in January.

DROPPING SHOW
NEW YORK (AP) — Sonny and Cher have decided not to continue their CBS television show and concentrate again on becoming major recording artists once more. CBS says it doesn't mind.

FARMVILLE — Pfizer Genetics Inc. announced that it has established a corn research station on a 13-acre site in the Farmville area.

Dr. Dave Nanda, Eastern Research Director for the company, reported that the research station is located on the Tom Hardy farm approximately one and one-half miles east of Maury.

According to Nanda, the major emphasis at the new location will be given to the development and testing of corn inbreds and hybrids that are adapted to the southeastern United States.

The research program is underway, it was pointed out, with part of the nursery and research plots already planted and the remainder of the planting scheduled for completion within the next two weeks.

Pfizer Genetics, with headquarters in Olivia, Minn., plans to rent or acquire a 50-60 acre farm in the area next year as a permanent site, according to the company, for the location of a research laboratory and office building.

For this season, Pfizer plans to rent office space in the Farmville area. Use of the initial 13-acre site is considered temporary, officials noted.

Francis Garing has been named research station manager at the new facility and will employ a research technician to assist him during the summer, Pfizer reported. Nanda said that four to five personnel will be employed at the station by this time next year.

Commenting on the new program here, Nanda explained, "Special emphasis will be placed on selecting corn hybrids for resistance to diseases such as anthracnose, southern rust, leaf blights and stalk rots. In addition, work will be initiated for development of hybrids resistant to nematodes and insects that are prevalent in the Southeast."

Research personnel at the facility will have responsibility for hybrid corn performance trials in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Other research stations operated by the company are located in California, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi and Nebraska, plus a year-around nursery on Maui in Hawaii.

Would Consider Tax Bill Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter indicated today he would consider vetoing the tax bill now before the Senate if Congress refuses to delete business tax breaks he wanted dropped from the measure along with the $50 rebate.

"I'm not in favor of extending the business tax credit," Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference. Then he added that if it is in the bill that passes Congress, "I'll have to decide ... whether I'll sign it or not."

Meanwhile, Republicans were preparing a fight to include a permanent tax cut in the bill.

Keeping Faith On Med School

Both the UNC administration and the State Legislature are keeping faith in the development of the ECU School of Medicine.

During the state's financial crisis a $3.82 million appropriation for an additional bed tower was removed from the medical school's budget.

The bed tower wasn't needed immediately for Pitt Memorial Hospital, which will be the primary clinical facility for the medical school. It was, however, essential that the additional beds be funded to insure orderly development.

The funds were removed with the assurance that they would be re-appropriated this year. True to their word the UNC administration gave the bed tower one of its highest priorities, and the $3.82 million in capital now has top priority in the Legislature.

The same is true for the operating budget for the school. The joint House and Senate Appropriations Subcommittee gave unanimous approval to six budget changes which the UNC Board of Governors submitted, including $9 million in operating funds for the ECU Medical School.

That positive action came almost at the same time when the Liaison Committee on Medical Education was approving provisional accreditation for the ECU Medical School which will allow admittance of the first class in August.

There have been calls from Gov. Hunt and others to put differences about the ECU Medical school behind us and to proceed to build a school which will meet the needs of all our citizens.

We think that is being done and it is pleasing to us that enthusiasm seems to be growing throughout the state for what the ECU School of Medicine can accomplish.

Freedom Of Expression Again Upheld

At first glance a slogan on a state auto license plate seems inane enough; yet the slogans developed into a case of such important merit the attention of the U. S. Supreme Court.

The case involved a New Hampshire law which makes it a crime to cover the motto "Live Free or Die" on the license plate.

The court ruled that the law violated the First Amendment protect of freedom of expression.

It is a relatively small matter, but once again the court has re-affirmed our nation's dedication to the right of freedom of expression.

In the long run we will be a better society for that.

Lust In The Springtime

WASHINGTON—I have decided to write a column today that probably no one is interested in. It is on the subject of lust! After what many people have called the worst winter in years, spring has finally come, people have discarded their heavy coats and boots and the voice of lust can be heard throughout the land.

I was walking through Lafayette Park with Bradley just the other day, and I said to him as our eyes darted from one breathless vision to another, "Let me ask you something, Bradley. Do you have lust in your heart at this time of the year?"

Bradley said, "That's a dumb question. Of course I do. What else would you have in your heart in the spring?"

"I do, too," I admitted. "I think I have more lust in my heart at this very moment than I had during the months of November, December and January combined."

"Do you think they know we have lust in our hearts?" I asked Bradley.

"Who is they?" he asked.

"All of them," I said, sweeping my hand out to indicate everyone who was wearing a miniskirt, a tight sweater or a see-through blouse. "The question is are they provoking our lust on purpose?"

"I think so," Bradley said. "I believe that when they get up in the morning and select their outfits for the day they say to themselves, 'I hope this will make someone lust after me.'"

"I don't think it's that planned," I said. "I believe it's a subconscious thing, having to do with the mating instinct. They automatically pick out an item that they believe will cause lust in our hearts."

"But if this is true," Bradley said, "why do they call us male chauvinist pigs when we think about lust?"

"They have to call us something," I told Bradley. "By calling us pigs it gives them a reason to wear anything they damn well please."

"I don't think that's nice," he said. "They stir up all these repressed feelings and then when we react to them they call us names."

"It's true. Look at that lovely bird walking toward us. She isn't wearing a bra. We know she isn't wearing a bra and she knows she isn't wearing a bra. But if we stare at her she'll think we're dirty old men."

"Or worse," said Bradley, "she'll pretend she thinks we're dirty old men, but in her heart she'll feel very pleased that we would bother to notice."

"They're more devious in the springtime, aren't they?" I said.

"Spring is the most cruel time of all," Bradley said. "There are days when I don't even want to leave the house"

Other Editors Say Each Bit Helps

(Washington Daily News)

When we look at a highway map of the area of North Carolina East of Raleigh and see Highways 64 and 264, we so often tend to look with more favor upon one than the other, depending on where we live.

That is perfectly natural, and it is understandable. But in full truth both highways ought to be four-laned, and when any segment of either highway actually is four-laned, a lot of people are being helped.

We read with great interest that a 14 mile stretch of Highway 264 between Wilson and Raleigh is scheduled for work immediately, and that within a reasonable time it will be four-laned.

We look now at the area from Washington to Greenville or from Greenville to Wilson, and we say so often that these two stretches of road ought to be four-laned. And they should. But the 14 mile stretch from Wilson to Raleigh, or more aptly from Wilson to the outskirts of Zebulon will help a lot of people living in this very area. We are very happy to see it put on schedule, and we hope nothing happens to upset the present plans.

Bit by bit, we are seeing developments occur, and as each one comes into being, we are helped. If those of us living in Hyde or Beaufort Counties travel to Raleigh right now, generally we might follow Highway 264 all the way. And any improvements in that road help us regardless of where we live.

With a new Medical School and with more than 10,000 students already enrolled at East Carolina University, certainly the need for four-laning 264 is there on both the East and West stretches from Greenville. Improvements on 264 both ways would be of tremendous help to thousands of people.

Then we look again at Highway 64 through Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Williamston, and Plymouth. Just as the picture of 264 is given above, any improvements on 64 will help thousands of people.

We would like very much to see the people along Highway 264 and those along Highway 64 quit fighting each other on this four-laning project and begin working together to get segments of each four-laned. If we do this and then combine our efforts in this part of the state to get help in improving a North-South route, say Highway 17, then by standing together and working together we might accomplish far more than we realize.

Highway 17 one day has to be four-laned, or it will be in such a state of deterioration that traffic will be curtailed considerably.

Every little improved segment, East and West or North and South helps people. Let us not forget that fact.

Sergeant Alvin C. York — the World War's greatest hero — has volunteered to speak for the Emergency Peace Campaign, a two-year drive to keep the United States out of war, and will speak at E.C.T.C. April 26.

Sergeant York is being brought to Greenville in connection with his work for the Emergency Peace Campaign by the Greenville Council for Peace Action and under the joint sponsorship of the city council, E.C.T.C., the Pitt County post of the American Legion, the local Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the American Legion auxiliary.

He was awarded the Croix de Guerre by General Marshall Foch and a Congressional Medal of Honor. He has received more than 40 other high Allied decorations.

Clark Gable thrilled the Los Angeles courthouse today with his appearance as chief witness against a woman who claims he fathered her 13-year-old daughter.

The woman is being tried on a charge of trying to extort money from the legendary screen lover by claiming the girl is their illegitimate child.

Gable was swamped by a host of feminine admirers in the corridor of the court building.

Other Side Of The Coin Cited

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — At a time when many investors and others resent the cars and planes and other perquisites of top corporate officers, Courtney Brown would have us look at the side of the coin that is seldom face up.

Brown would surround the top man, the chairman or president, with as many conveniences as are necessary to keep him mentally and physically fit, and working productively instead of being mired in extraneous details.

"Instead of saying these emoluments are totally uncalled for, I say they are utterly essential," said Brown, who has held high positions in business, government and academe, and who is now chairman of the American Assembly, which holds nonpartisan discussions to illuminate issues of U.S. policy.

It was at an assembly meeting on corporate ethics a few days ago that the question was put to Brown, dean emeritus of the Columbia Business School and a man who sits on the boards of four very large corporations:

"Is it proper for high corporate officials to enjoy such benefits as big cars, private jets and apartments, all paid for by investors?"

Brown answered that it was proper. "I've concluded that they (corporate chief executives) are the hardest working group and the least protected," he said.

"There is nobody to tell them when to stop. They love their jobs and the jobs make such demands that they can burn themselves out and not last as long in business as the board wants them to."

In the newspapers the day before were stories about the chief executives of General Motors and Ford receiving close to $1 million in salaries and bonuses for 1976.

Such incomes "create an extremely bad impression and are quite uncalled for," said Brown. "They do a vast amount of damage to the morale of the guy at a desk earning $20,000, with a wife and kids, trying to make a go of it."

He continued: "The other side of the coin is that the senior officers of our major corporations work like the very devil — they're like marathon runners — and they run tired most of the time."

Anything done "to ease the drain on their energy, that can take the tension out of life, is in the interests of the stockholders," he maintained.

"It really doesn't cost very much to provide the amenities and comforts of a company car and driver — I don't care if it's a Cadillac this long." A car and a plane, he said, might save the chief executive two hours of waiting.

And if the executive lives in the country and is forced to remain late at work he should be provided a city apartment, said Brown, adding: "These are expenses of a very minor nature."

How minor becomes obvious to a ridiculous degree, he said, if the exhausted executive, forced to make decisions that cannot be postponed, blunders to the extent of millions of dollars.

Access To Those In Need

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The biggest problem in providing adult education in North Carolina is reaching the people who could most benefit.

That theme runs throughout a recent report from a study commission on the Community College-Technical Institute system in North Carolina which concluded that, "In the coming years we must ensure that the open door is as much a matter of fact as it is of principle."

There are some 500,000 people taking part in adult education activities, with planners expecting that to climb to a million people yearly in a few years. The system has 57 campuses strategically located across the state and while making it clear that there is "no desire to add to the 57 institutions which already exist, studies show that participation rates decrease sharply and predictably as a function of distance from a campus."

A barrier "This barrier poses even greater difficulties for the poor, rural, and disadvantaged learner," states the report issued by the Commission on Goals for the N.C. Community College System chaired by Edgar J. Boone of N. C. State University's extension service.

A variety of steps are outlined in that report designed to bring education to the people: use of learning centers or satellite campuses with facilities spread throughout the service area; use of public school buildings and other facilities; scheduling of afternoon and evening classes; use of newspaper courses, television, and extension programs.

An approach to making it easier for the student to start school would be to provide programs in a "modular format" which would allow the student to begin study in some phase of his program at enrollment — rather than having to wait a year to start at the beginning.

Cost of the courses is directly related to access, and the commission recommend that tuition remain at its present low rate, and suggests the possibility of removing all fees and expenses for low-income people and the elderly. "Indeed, this would be the ideal condition for all programs, but one which probably cannot be adopted at present."

Another bottleneck in the system has been sometimes brittle relationships between community colleges and public schools. Generally, a student has to drop out of high school before enrolling in the adult programs, but the commission suggests a training and manpower development, on helping eliminate adult illiteracy, and one providing programs for increased citizenship, the commission also zeroes in on the "lively and participative" area of cultural activities.

Cultural activities are not just for the chosen few, and the community colleges can play a larger part in involving people in writing, music, dance, painting, etc.

The schools could also take a leading part in preserving regional traditions and handicrafts. "It would be a tragedy if increased prosperity and mobility destroyed the unique flavor of the different regions of North Carolina... keep alive and healthy the skills of quilting, clogging, wood carving, and other native crafts"

History can be served by identifying and preserving historic buildings, transcribing the oral history of older citizens, and organizing courses on local history... preserve regional characteristics... adding to the community's sense of pride and cohesiveness," the commission suggested.

change in that approach.

High School

"It is recommended that additional provision be made for exceptional high school students 16 years of age or older to take courses at community colleges... "Such students would be those enrolled in high school and recommended by the local public school system officials... this would allow academically gifted youth to take advanced courses and possibly gain college credit before actually leaving high school (or) access to vocational training for students with needs and motivation in that area."

THEIR ENERGY PROGRAM

A Republican Alternative

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to take on President Carter with an energy program of their own that won't include all those proposed new taxes that are drawing so much congressional fire.

What is being called the "Republican alternative" may be spelled out when GOP spokesmen get their "equal time" offered by the three television networks, possibly sometime next week.

It will contain some of the same conservation-incentive programs recommended by the President — such as tax breaks for home insulation — but will allow energy prices to rise with free-market competition rather than through new taxes, say GOP Senate leaders.

Carter, who appeared on national television twice this week to discuss his energy proposals, was expected to defend them anew today at a news conference.

On Thursday, Carter told reporters that he felt his proposal for a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon, perhaps the most controversial part of his program, would win congressional approval.

But many key lawmakers were issuing gloomier assessments over that portion of the energy plan Carter unveiled at a joint session of Congress Wednesday. Several hinted that it might be the first part of the package to go down the drain.

Meanwhile, the House took a first step toward action on the Carter proposals by creating a special 37-member committee to steer them toward House floor action.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I would like to know if there is any money available through the government for the purpose of RECREATION FACILITIES FOR COUNTY RESIDENTS.

Recently the county residents have been banned from using the Greenville city facilities, unless they each pay $25 for one year or $12.50 for three months. If there is money available, why has it not been put to use? There are many young men and women who love to play basketball, tennis and many different kinds of sports, but they don't have the money to pay for the use of the city facilities. What can be done?

Also, what would the city businessmen do if the county residents would withdraw their support from them and shop in our neighboring towns?

Thank you.

Strength For Today

THE KINGDOM OF GOD
What is the kingdom of God? Jesus spoke much about it but never completely defined it. Paul gave the most precise definition of it which we have. He said, "The kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit."

The kingdom of God is an inner spiritual state in the heart of the individual. It is righteousness, peace, and joy. These things spring not from the abundance of what one has, but from the fullness of what one is. The kingdom of God means the rule of God in the heart.

And when God comes to take possession of the heart, then righteousness, peace, and joy result, and all the many problems about meat and drink with which we so trouble ourselves find their appropriate and proper solution. The spiritual and the material are finally merged in the kingdom of God.

The kingdom in all its fullness will some day come. When, we do not know. But we are to watch and be ready.

because I know I'm going to lust all day."
"I'm like that, too," I admitted. "I don't want to get out of bed in the morning because I know it's going to be tough on my heart."
"Do you think women lust after men in their hearts the way we lust after women?" I asked my friend.
"I'm sure of it," he said. "The only difference is we don't provoke them by wearing skimpy clothes. It's a different kind of lust—but it's still lust."
That cheered me up. "Do you think at this very moment while we're walking through the park someone is lusting after us?" I asked him.
"I'm sure of it," he told me. "I'll bet they are lusting right now as much as we are. I think the whole park is full of lust. You can feel it everywhere."
"The only difference is," I said, "if they came up to us and admitted they lusted in their hearts for us we wouldn't call them pigs."
"That's right," he said. "And you know why?"
"Why?" I wanted to know.
"Because our sex is made up of gentlemen."

Chaired by Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, the panel will mold the energy program into a single bill after regular House committees, with jurisdiction over various elements of the package, complete their work.
The action was seen as a means of overcoming jurisdictional rivalries that have hampered the House's past efforts to enact energy legislation.
Ashley said the subcommittee won't necessarily endorse the President's program down the line, but will certainly have a "tilt" toward the stiff measures the President recommended.
Republicans, who thus far generally have held their punches in reacting to Carter's energy program, appear ready to go on the offensive.
Republican National Committee Chairman Bill Brock, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee and House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona asked the networks for half an hour of "equal time" to counter the President's proposals.
Each network has offered the time, but not on the same day or hour, the aide to Baker said.

winter, which drove up food and fuel prices.
"The underlying rate of inflation is still in the 6 per cent range," said Courtenay Slater, the Commerce Department's chief economist.
In other economic news Thursday, an Agriculture Department official said that, at worst, Carter's energy package could add 2 per cent to 3 per cent to consumer food prices by 1980.
But Deputy Secretary John White said that is the "worst scenario," and if conservation efforts succeed, food prices might not go up any faster than they would without the energy plan.
Budget director Bert Lance said Carter's energy program should boost the inflation rate by one-quarter to one-half of 1 per cent for the next four years, but he predicted its long-term effect on the economy would be beneficial.
At the same time, Lance told a news conference that this year's deficit could be as low as $45 billion to $46 billion.
The administration originally projected a record budget deficit of $68 billion.
The Commerce Department reported that new orders for durable goods in March rose 7 per cent over February. The orders amounted to $58.9 billion, $3.8 billion more than the previous month. A third of the increase came from the auto assembly industry.

Mark Woman's Day On Sunday

The Rev. B. B. Felder has announced the observance of Woman's Day at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church Sunday at 11 a.m. Mrs. Lena B. Brown, a member of the church, will be the speaker.

MRS. LENA B. BROWN

A Greenville native, Mrs. Brown graduated from the Greenville Industrial High School and received an A.B. degree from Howard University and a master's degree from Columbia University. She also attended Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

After serving as a classroom teacher in the Fifth Street School for 11 years, Mrs. Brown was appointed to the principalship of the South Greenville Elementary School when it opened in 1950. She retired from that position in June, 1976. During her tenure as principal she was invited and inducted into Delta Kappa Gamma, a society for women educators.

The public is invited to attend.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in yesterday's Daily Reflector that the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital Emergency Room will open Saturday at 7 a. m. The opening time actually is the same Saturday that all patients will be moved into the new facility.

Acquitted In Boy's Death

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Raleigh man was acquitted Thursday in Wake County Superior Court of charges that he beat a 4-year-old boy to death Jan. 21.

A jury of six men and three women deliberated about three hours before reaching the verdict.

Robert Lee Griffin had denied on the witness stand that he ever beat Bikim Dushawn Newby, who died of a ruptured small intestine. Doctors had testified that the rupture probably was caused by a severe blow to the stomach.

The boy's mother, Janet Newby, had been Griffin's girlfriend. She testified that she noticed the boy was sick the morning of his death and asked him what was wrong. She testified he said, "Robert hit me."

Under cross-examination, she said she did not take the child to a hospital until two hours after learning he was sick. Other defense witnesses testified that Ms. Newby used drugs in the child's presence.

Ms. Newby walked abruptly and silently from the courtroom when the verdict was announced.

THE SPACE BETWEEN

They reach out, wanting to touch and making a game of it. Who will be the first to give in, so that fingers will clasp in a burst of laughter?

Childhood play. It isn't always this easy. Later on, we want to bridge the gap that separates us from something or someone else. But often we don't have the nerve.

Sometimes we want to speak . . . and can't find our voices. Sometimes we honestly want to go to church . . . but it's been so long.

In anything, the hardest part is the first step. One foot, then another foot . . . which, in the case of the church, leads straight to a wide-open door.

The rest is easy.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gave more ground today amid energy uncertainties and concern over the outlook for interest rates. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 5.51 at 930.29, after a 6.79-point loss on Thursday. Declines outnumbered advances by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Big Board volume totalled 5.61 million shares for the first hour. Analysts said the market was reflecting uncertain over what action Congress might take on President Carter's energy plan, as well as its ultimate economic impact. They also noted fears that a recent bulge in the money supply might prompt the Federal Reserve to tighten up on credit. The decline was marked by continued pressure on such leading glamor stocks as International Business Machines and Eastman Kodak. IBM was down 2 at 262 after a 6-point drop Thursday. Kodak, down 3 Thursday, slipped another 3/4 to 64 1/4. Both stocks hit new 1977 lows. IBM has been under pressure since the company reported a smaller-than-expected rise in first quarter earnings earlier this month. Jenkins Is Held In High Esteem

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Capt. John T. Jenkins, with more than 29 years service with the North Carolina Highway Patrol, will take the oath of office as commander of the organization April 29.

Gov. Jim Hunt, who announced the selection of the Troop A commander to head the Patrol this morning, has indicated that the selection of a man to head the organization — which, according to a recent study is plagued by low morale and weak leadership at the top — has been one of the most difficult of his appointment. But a source close to the governor said the 55-year-old Jenkins was "strongest" in terms of leadership ability and personality, than others considered for the post.

Jenkins is an impressive officer, standing six feet, three inches tall in his spotless uniform. And both by his demeanor and his actions, commands respect. Comments from a number of men who have worked with and for Jenkins over the years emphasize his leadership ability and fairness.

Lt. Carl Gilchrist, Troop A executive officer said, "I have known Capt. Jenkins for more than 20 years and have worked closely with him for seven years during my Patrol career...when he was a lieutenant stationed in Fayetteville, a troop commander in Raleigh and for about four years as troop commander here.

"Capt. Jenkins," Gilchrist said, "is a strong leader, very capable, and makes sound decisions based on factual information. He has provided good leadership in each of the troops in which he has been stationed."

Gilchrist continued, "As a result of his leadership ability, my opinion is that Troop A is the best operated troop in North Carolina, and this opinion is shared by many."
Sgt. George Russ said of Jenkins, "He's one of the most respected members of the Highway Patrol. He's what we need...a man with backbone to stand up for what he thinks is right and back his men."

"He's tough," Russ emphasized, "but he's fair and when he says something you can believe it."

Sgt. W. T. Harris of Morganton agreed, adding that "I think he'll do a good job. He's qualified and capable. I've known him for 21 years."

Trooper R. B. Miller of New Bern, who served under Jenkins when the officer was a corporal, said, "He's a fine man. The powers that be in Raleigh made a wise selection."
"He's easy to work with. He'll work with you. You don't work for him. He was out there at one or two o'clock in the morning just like he was a Trooper."

Sgt. F. M. Lennon of Rockingham described Jenkins as "an excellent personnel man. He has the knack of being able to get the most work with the least amount of effort from his subordinates."
"He's the type person we need now...an extremely strong man, and will be readily accepted by the majority of Troopers."

Lennon continued, "He's going to stand up for the men. He'll stand up for a man and that's one thing we need very badly now."
W. K. Chapman, a sergeant stationed at Patrol Headquarters in Raleigh said Jenkins "is capable, and has demonstrated that throughout his whole career. There is no question about his leadership ability to motivate personnel working with him and for him. That has always been one of his strongest points."

Chapman described Jenkins as "a doer, and has never asked anyone to do anything he wouldn't, or couldn't, do himself. When he was my corporal, he was right out there with us...beside us."
Chapman said the feeling of most members of the Patrol is that "we are all encouraged and glad the waiting is over. Now we can settle down and go about doing our job."

Amin Is Ready To Help

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda met with Zairean President Mobutu Sese Seko today and said afterward, "I am ready to send troops" to help Zaire in its war against Katangan rebels.
But Amin told a news conference after the four-hour meeting that he was "happy to report big progress on the battlefield."

The Mobutu government said Thursday its troops and their Moroccan allies had opened a new front in northwest Shaba Province. It said the rebels were fleeing before Zairean troops on the first front, in the southern part of the invaded province.

Besides troops from Morocco, the Mobutu government has received military supplies or diplomatic support from Belgium, France, the United States and many other Western and African countries. Mobutu has charged that the rebels are backed by Angola, the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Uganda has received considerable military aid from the Soviets in recent years.

A Kinshasa government communique Thursday said the combined Zairean-Moroccan force was "at the door" of Kapanga, the northernmost town held by the rebels. Kapanga is 260 miles northwest of the important copper-mining center of Kolwezi and 35 miles from the Angolan border.

Will Ride Their Cement Canoes

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Hundreds of engineering students from more than 20 colleges will set sail Saturday from the shores of Lake Carnegie here in canoes made of concrete.

The students, from more than 20 colleges, will compete in the first Princeton Eastern Invitational Concrete Canoe race, sponsored by the School of Engineering and Applied Science and the undergraduate chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

William Hazel, a Princeton junior who organized the event, said there's nothing weighty about the contest's purpose. "The reason we're doing this is because it's fun and frivolous," he said Thursday.

Hazel said a finished canoe will weigh approximately 180 pounds and should be able to race across a 400-meter course in about two minutes.

GAGS OVERTURNED

Fire On Karachi Crowds

By MOHAMMED AFTAB
Associated Press Writer
ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The army fired on a procession held in violation of martial law today, killing 10 to 22 persons and wounding about 200 in Karachi, reports from Pakistan's largest city said.

Four persons were reported killed elsewhere in Pakistan, bringing the death toll for today to as high as 26, which would make it the worst day of violence in six weeks of political unrest. The opposition has been demanding the resignation of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, claiming the March 7 national election was rigged.

Reports from Karachi said a large procession moved toward the Teen Hatti Bridge, where army troops took up positions. The soldiers reportedly warned marchers to disperse but the procession did not stop.

The unofficial reports said the troops opened fire into the crowd, killing 22 persons and injuring about 200. Some bodies were carried away by the security forces while others were still lying in the street, according to one account said.

The official figures put the death toll in the Karachi shooting at 10, according to early reports received in the capital, about 700 miles to the north.

Unofficial accounts said the shooting took place during a four-hour interval in a round-the-clock curfew. The break was meant to allow people to do their shopping and attend mosques on the Moslem Sabbath.

Bhutto placed Karachi, Pakistan's largest city, Lahore and Hyderabad under martial law Thursday. It was extended today to Lyallpur, 250 miles southeast of the capital.

Police opened fire and killed two persons in Sargodha, a major farming center in Punjab 200 miles southeast of Islamabad, when antigovernment demonstrators tried to set a railroad station on fire and uproot the railroad track.

A Greenville native, Mr. Manning was bookkeeper at the Tyndal-Boyd-Stroud Store in Ayden until his retirement in 1972. He was a World War II veteran who served 27 months in

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC:
DO YOU HAVE TO SUE TO GET YOUR CAR FIXED?
Some people have to go to court to get satisfaction. That shouldn't be. A court of law should be your last resort. Yet, an increasing number of car buyers are going to court to get their cars fixed. We think this is wrong. Usually, people that benefit the most from law suits are lawyers.
WE FEEL RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CAR YOU BUY.
Our business is selling cars. But wed have to be pretty stupid to sell you a car and, then, leave you on your own. We need your good will because we want you back as a customer again and again. We want you to be pleased with your car and its service so that you'll recommend us to your family, friends and neighbors. We are going to do absolutely everything within reason to satisfy you. It's just good business.
WE HAVE SATISFIED 99.8% OF ALL OUR CUSTOMERS.
And we're still working on that other eight tenths of one percent. The Southeast Toyota Dealers have one of the lowest complaint rates in the car industry — if not the lowest by far. The reasons are obvious. The Toyotas we sell are quality automobiles, so well designed and built that basic complaints are very few and far between. If you do have a complaint which is our responsibility — we fix it. That's our philosophy. And there are over 4,300 people in the Southeast Toyota family who work by that philosophy.
These are the facts. This is the way we do business. This is why we're successful. And this is what we'll continue to do in the future.
Sincerely,
Jim Moran

Seahawks Nip Pirates In Tenth, 4-3

Malone Leads Rocket Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets misfired in their playoff opener, but managed to blast off the launching pad in the second game of their National Basketball Association quarter-final series against the Washington Bullets.

Moses Malone scored a career-high 31 points and grabbed 26 rebounds, one short of his season high, as the Rockets posted a 124-118 overtime victory against the Bullets Thursday night.

The triumph tied the best-of-seven series 1-1, with the third game scheduled Sunday at Landover, Md.

Washington, which erased an 18-point Rockets lead in winning the first game Tuesday night, used the hot shooting of Phil Chenier and Kevin Grevey for a 44-32 advantage midway through the second quarter.

The Rockets closed the gap late in the period and trailed by only 53-50 at halftime, before outscoring the Bullets 18-5 at the start of the third quarter.

Rudy Tomjanovich's jump shot put Houston ahead 56-55 less than two minutes into the quarter, and the Rockets never trailed again. Tomjanovich finished with 20 points.

Mike Newlin, who missed a 35-foot shot at the fourth-quarter buzzer with the game tied 108-108, scored six of his 16 points in overtime, including four straight points which broke a 114-114 tie.

Mitch Kupchak, who finished with 21 points for the Bullets, hit a pair of free throws with 35 seconds left in the fourth quarter, sending the game into overtime.

Chenier scored a game-high 37 points. Tom Henderson added 17 points in a losing effort.

"Moses was simply brilliant," said Rockets Coach Tom Nis-salke. "He and Kupchak should prove to be an interesting matchup for years to come."

Although his team lost Game Two, Bullets Coach Dick Motta was pleased with the first two games of the series. "Most teams try for a split of their first two playoff games on the road," Motta said. "It would have been nice to grab both games, but we can't be disappointed with our accomplishments."

East Carolina University's baseball Pirates warmed up for their Southern Conference doubleheader with William & Mary on Saturday last night, but they didn't get the fielding effort to go with the pitching.

As a result, UNC-Wilmington came away with a 4-3 ten inning victory over the Pirates, handing them their second straight defeat.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 25-10 overall, while the Seahawks climbed to an 8-15 record.

Coach Monte Little divided the pitching duties among three of his top pitchers, Mickey Britt, Pete Conaty and Terry Durham. All three did fine jobs, but it was what happened behind them that counted.

Britt and Conaty each went three innings. They both allowed just two hits each, but Conaty was touched for three runs, two of them unearned. The winning run came over against Durham, who saw his record drop to 5-3. He went four innings, giving up three hits. The lone run was unearned.

Mike Robbins went almost all the way against the Bucs, scattering ten hits. Only one of the three scored against him was unearned. Mike Hunter came in to fan Sonny Wooten with two out and two on in the tenth to end the game.

The Pirates pulled off a freak triple play in the first inning of the game that got them out of what appeared to be a touchy situation.

Van Lewis opened the game with a single for Wilmington, and Terry Green reached on an error. Randy Ourt then hit a line drive at Britt, which bounced off him into the hands of Jerry Carraway at short. Carraway then tossed to Pete Paradossi at second, who relayed it on to Sonny Wooten at first. In the meanwhile, the two runners had moved up a base, and Ourt was on first. At that point, no one seemed to know what was happening.

Carraway appealed to the umpires that the ball had not touched the ground prior to or after hitting Britt, and that it was a "live" fly, and the runners were out since they had not returned to their bases before the ball. The umps agreed, and the side was retired.

The Pirates were not as lucky with the gloves the rest of the way, however.

East Carolina took the lead in the second with one run. Wooten opened with a single, while Bobby Supel reached on an error. Robert Brinkley reached on a fielder's choice and Charlie Stevens doubled in Wooten for a 1-0 lead.

It stayed that way until the sixth, when Wilmington pushed over three runs to take the lead. Lewis walked and was sacrificed up. Ourt was hit by a pitch, and Richard Lancaster reached on an infield hit that was also errored, allowing Lewis to score. Bobby Hollins grounded out, with Ourt reaching on the play. Richard King reached on another error, scoring Lancaster.

East Carolina, after threatening several times, finally got going again in the eighth. With one down, Paradossi singled and took second on a wild pitch. Eddie Gates beat out an infield hit, and an error on the play let Paradossi score.

The Bucs then tied it up in the ninth, 3-3. That came on a lead-off solo homer by Supel, deep to left center.

But Wilmington again came up with an unearned run to win it. In the tenth, Lewis singled with one down, and was sacrificed up. Ourt reached on an error and Lancaster singled, driving in Lewis with what proved to be the winning run.

The Pirates put two men on in the bottom of the tenth, but could not score again.

East Carolina returns to Southern Conference action on Saturday, playing host to William & Mary at 5:30 p.m. at Harrington Field. The twin bill is the final home appearance for the Pirates this year.

Prior to the game, starting at 2:30 p.m., the 1961 national championship team of East Carolina will meet a group of era players from the Earl Smith era in the annual Alumni game.

Guthrie To Try Talladega Run

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—Woman driver Janet Guthrie of Miami, Fla., will tackle the world's fastest speedway in the May 1st Talladega 500.

Guthrie, the former road-racing driver who broke the sex barrier at Indianapolis a year ago, has entered the Talladega event in the same Chevrolet she drove to a 12th place finish earlier this year in the Daytona 500.

Guthrie's entry was announced Thursday by her car owner Linda Ferreri of Charlotte, N. C. Guthrie's appearance will mark the first time a woman has raced in competition at the 2.6 mile track.

Guthrie will be among more than 65 drivers trying to earn the 40 starting positions in the $236,885 event when time trials get under way Wednesday, April 27.

Although a woman has never competed in a Talladega event, Paula Murphy established a world closed-course record for women in stock cars last year when she drove a Dodge to a speed of 172.366 miles an hour.

Guthrie will very likely have to break that record to qualify for the May 1st race. It took a speed of better than 171 m.p.h. to qualify last year.

"Janet is really looking forward to Talladega. Everybody says it's tough. That's all we've heard," Ferreri said.

Rain Delays New Orleans

By AUSTIN WILSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Masters champion Tom Watson got an extra day of rest, thanks to the rain that postponed completion of the first round of the $175,000 New Orleans Open. As a result, Craig Stadler got extra hours to savor the unfamiliar taste of a tournament lead.

The opening round was rescheduled for completion today — weather permitting.

Stadler, who won less than $3,000 last year, shot a six-under-par 66 over the 7,080-yard course at Lakewood Country Club Thursday.

Watson, leading money winner on the tour this year, was two strokes back, tied with Keith Fergus at 68.

All three were among the 75 golfers who teed off in the morning flight. With four foursomes of the afternoon flight still short of the turn, lightning and rain ended play Thursday.

Clyde Mangum of the PGA rescheduled the preliminary round to start at noon today, instructing golfers to return to the spots where rain caught them. He set the second round for Saturday with the final 36 holes to be played Sunday.

Watson complained of being tired after Thursday's round.

"Since the Masters I've had a lot of interviews, a lot of calls from people wishing me well, a lot of mail and telegrams. It's been fun, but I'm tired," he said.

"My legs just weren't in it today. I need a rest."

Stadler, whose best finish was a tie for 35th in the Pensacola Open last year, said Thursday's 66 was merely another step in a pattern of gradual improvement.

"Last year I was trying too hard — trying to score better than I was playing. The last couple of weeks I've started to hit it better again."

Rampants Defeated

WILMINGTON — Hoggard High School of Wilmington downed Rose High School's golfers yesterday by a wide margin.

Hoggard finished the 18 holes with a team score of 299. Rose finished with a net of 325.

Craig Logue led Rose with a 77, while Sid Ashby had an 80, Mike Moye, an 81, and David Northrup, an 87.

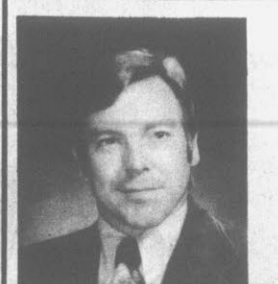

Scores for Hoggard were not available.

Rose, now 5-7, is at Havelock on Thursday.

NO ARGUMENTS

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Ken Branderbungh, the official scorer at University of Kentucky basketball games during the 1976-77 season, could step in and handle crowd control problems if necessary. Branderbungh is commissioner of the Kentucky State Police.

Cabbage Drubs Former Teammates

Woody Peale

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers did Mike Cabbage a favor when they traded him to the Minnesota Twins last year.

But he didn't do any favors for them Thursday night.

Given a chance to start with the Twins after warming the Texas bench, Cabbage is making the most of his opportunity — and in his latest outing knocked in four runs to lead Minnesota to an 11-4 victory over his former teammates.

"I don't play any harder against Texas," said Cabbage, denying any revenge motive for his trade. "The season is just too long for that."

However, Cabbage did admit to some satisfaction in one-upsmanship.

"I got a lot of pleasure out of Minnesota finishing 12 games ahead of Texas last year," said Cabbage, who was involved in a big trade last June that sent pitcher Bert Blyleven to Texas.

Incidentally, Cabbage's batting average is one of the main reasons that Minnesota is running ahead of Texas again this year in the American League West. He's hitting close to .400.

In the other American League games Thursday, the New York Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 8-6 and the Detroit Tigers blanked the Boston Red Sox 8-0. The game between Chicago and California at Anaheim Stadium was postponed because of a power failure. There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Cabbage had a two-run double and a sacrifice fly and knocked in a fourth run with a fielder's-choice grounder. Lynn Bostock also drove in four runs to share some of the glory. Geoff Zahn notched his third straight victory of the season despite being roughed up for nine hits and four runs in 6 2-3 innings.

Yankees 8, Blue Jays 6
Chris Chambliss drove in five runs with a pair of doubles and a towering three-run home run, leading New York over Toronto. Chambliss smashed run-scoring doubles in the fourth and sixth innings before pounding his homer in the seventh, when the Yankees scored four times to put the game away.

It was only the Yankees' fifth home run in 12 games this season and the first with anyone on base. Graig Nettles, the American League's 1976 home run champion, hit his first of the season, a solo shot in the bottom of the eighth.
Tigers 8, Red Sox 0
Rookie Dave Rozema pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory and Jason Thompson knocked in four runs as Detroit beat Boston. Rozema, a 20-year-old right-hander, struck out four and didn't walk a batter in his third start of the season. Thompson, Mickey Stanley and Aurelio Rodriguez hit home runs in support of the rookie pitcher.

Cox Gets First Loss

SNOW HILL — Snow Hill handed A. G. Cox his first baseball loss of the season yesterday, taking a 9-8 victory.

The winning pitcher for Snow Hill was S. Scott, while Doug McRoy was charged with the loss. Emery Vines went 2-3 at the plate to pace the Cox attack.

A. G. Cox is now 3-1 for the season and will host Grifton Monday.

Yarborough Is Pole Favorite

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Cale Yarborough, the Chevrolet driver from Timonville, S. C., who's dominated the Grand National circuit this season, was the favorite as qualifying began today for Sunday's Virginia 500 at Martinsville Speedway.

Yarborough, who's won four races and leads both the point standings and dollar derby, was among four drivers who bettered the qualifying record for the local .525-mile track Thursday in warmups for today's qualifying.

His fastest lap was 87.269 miles per hour compared with the record of 86.484 m.p.h. set last fall in qualifying for the Old Dominion 500 by Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn.

Waltrip, the defending champion in the Virginia 500, also bettered his mark with a clocking of 87.233 m.p.h. Also running faster than the record were Neil Bonnett of Hueytown, Ala., in a Dodge, 86.988 m.p.h., and Chevrolet driver Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., 86.550 m.p.h.

Other fast times were turned in Thursday by Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala.; David Pearson of Spartanburg, S. C.; 14-time Martinsville winner Richard Petty of Randleman, N. C.; and Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala.

The first 20 positions for Sunday's $104,150 race, richest of its distance in National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing history, were up for grabs in today's qualifying. There was a $1,000 bonus at stake for the pole winner and $500 for the No. 2 qualifier.

The last 10 spots in the 30-car field, for which there are 46 entries, will be determined in time trials Saturday morning. There will be a 150-lap, $11,290 NASCAR National Championship Modified race Saturday afternoon.

First place in Sunday's race is worth $15,800. Also up for grabs is $5,000 in lap money with the driver who leads the most laps in each of the five 100-lap segments earning $1,000.

Firebirds Down A-G

State Rallies; Terps, Deacs Win

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Roy Dixon doubled with two outs and the bases loaded in the eighth to give North Carolina State a 6-5, come-from-behind win over North Carolina and set up a meeting this afternoon between the Wolfpack and host Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament.

In other action today, Maryland, which defeated Virginia 4-1, will play Wake Forest, a 2-1 winner over Duke.

Clemson, 35-5 overall and the ACC regular season champion with a 9-1 mark, was idle Thursday. The nation's top-ranked team is top-seeded in the tournament because of its league title and enjoyed a bye.

Action was to get underway between Clemson and N.C. State, now 26-10, at 12:30 p.m. Clemson ace Ron Musselman is expected to draw the starting pitching assignment for the Tigers. The Wolfpack is expected to counter with Rich Spanton or Tom Willette.

Maryland and Wake Forest will get underway at 3 p.m. in the double-elimination portion of the four-day event.

Fourth-seeded North Carolina scored three times in the first, but John Isley and Gerry Feldkamp drove in two more runs with singles as the Wolfpack tied the score in the seventh.

The Tar Heels moved out to a 5-3 lead with two runs in their half of the seventh on Win Barkley's single.

In the State eighth, Tom Crocker walked and Dixon Horn walked Ray Tanner and gave up a single to Isley with two out to load the bases. Dixon drove Horn's next pitch to right center to put the winning run across.

Doug Huffman, now 4-3, went the final seven innings and gave up only five hits and two runs to gain the win.

The loss ended the Tar Heel season with an 18-13 record in all games.

At Zyskowski tripled to drive home Stan Johnson with the winning run in the sixth inning as Wake Forest, now 26-11, eliminated Duke, 9-16. Wake had tied it in the fifth when Steve Hanson doubled with two out and scored on John Zeginski's single.

Bill King's bases-empty home run in the second had given the Blue Devils.

Winning pitcher Merle Hinkle ran his record to 6-1 though he was lifted in the seventh, after allowing five hits and striking out four. Duke's Ted Gardner was the loser.

Virginia's David Duff punched a run across with a first-inning sacrifice fly, but Maryland tied the game in its half of the inning with an unearned run on two Cavalier errors.

The Terps went on to score the winning run in the second on a two-base error, a ground out and wild pitch by Virginia pitcher Marty Moore. Two more Maryland runs scored in the seventh on a walk, plus a bloop double by John Norris and a single.

Moore went eight innings for the Terps and gave up only four hits. The winner for the Cavaliers was John Hartsell, now 6-2.

Maryland is now 14-10 in all games. Virginia ended at 11-22 overall.

It's just good common sense to want great gas mileage these days. But there are more economies built into these Toyotas than just what you'll save at the gas pump.

Durability. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold up. Toyotas are built to last. That's why you see so many older Toyotas still on the road.

Reliability. It makes sense to buy a car you can depend on. Toyota built its reputation with reliable cars. For example, you can't buy a new Toyota that doesn't have a transistorized ignition system for dependable starting. And there are 27 different Toyota models to choose from. Value. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold its value. Toyotas have traditionally high resale value. A Toyota is like money in the bank.

Tobacco Is Kept In U.S. Program

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced yesterday the defeat in the House Agriculture Committee by a record vote of 28-10 an amendment introduced by Rep. James P. Johnson of Colorado which would have deleted tobacco from the "Food for Peace" program.

Under the "Food for Peace" program, the federal government transfers American agricultural commodities to underdeveloped countries throughout the world. Tobacco is classified under Section I of the program, which provides for cash transactions in exchange for the product.

Congressman Jones said the "Food for Peace" program provides both income and an expanded market for the farmer, since the government buys the commodities at the going market rate.

"The tobacco interests continued under attack by many segments of our society without sufficient justification or documentation," Jones said.

"Without the dedicated efforts on the part of those few members of Congress representing tobacco producing areas, I am fearful of the ultimate consequences should these vicious attacks continue."

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

"Avoidance" is the term used to describe a play designed to keep the danger hand off lead. But there is another type of avoidance which is far more important—avoid going down in contracts which might make!

South had just enough to respond at the two-level to his partner's opening bid. When North raised hearts, South decided that his doubton queen in his partner's suit merited a try for the vulnerable game.

When this hand was played in a major international championship, both declarers ducked the opening lead in dummy in an effort to keep West from attacking dummy's king of diamonds. This would have been an admirable plan had not East, after winning the king of clubs, shifted to a diamond! West won the ace and continued the suit and when East won the ace of spades he had a diamond to cash for down one.

Declarer had his priorities mixed up. He should have realized that he could not afford to lose two diamonds and a trick in each black suit. Instead of worrying about preventing West from gaining the lead to play a diamond through the king, declarer should have been concerned about setting up dummy's spade suit as quickly as possible.

It was of paramount importance to get a discard before declarer's stoppers in the minor suits were removed. For this plan to work, either the ace of diamonds would have to be on side, or East would have to have both aces and the king-queen of clubs. Therefore, declarer should have won the opening lead with dummy's ace and drawn two rounds of trumps with the ace and queen. The next step would be to lead the queen of spades and force out the ace. The defenders can win the ace of spades, cash a club and attack diamonds. But declarer will win the king of diamonds in dummy and take a diamond discard on a good spade, thereby assuring his contract.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leads!" Issues Confronted General Assembly

RALEIGH (AP) — Land management, pornography and utilities were among issues confronting the North Carolina General Assembly Thursday.

The Senate tentatively approved a bill aimed at isolating pornographic materials from minors and nonconsenting adults.

The law now requires courts to rule that material is obscene before the seller or persons displaying it can be prosecuted. The bill would remove the requirement for a two-step prosecution in cases of material being displayed publicly or material available to people under the age of 18.

Sen. Henson Barnes, D-Wayne, said the bill would have no effect on adult book stores and would not violate the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, which provides for freedom of the press.

LAND USE
Statewide land use bills, described as weakened versions of the Coastal Management Act, were introduced in the House and Senate. Bills filed by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford, and Sen. Willis Whitchard, D-Durham, would require counties to divide all public and private land into at least five categories for use in planning growth, building public buildings and granting permits for new communities and large-scale developments.

UTILITIES
With little debate, the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill to restructure the state Utilities Commission. The bill would put 92 persons from the commission's staff under an executive director appointed by the governor. The staff would represent the public in cases before the commission.

Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten has complained the bill takes power away from his office, which now represents the public. The measure is expected to have a rough time in the House, where Speaker Carl Stewart has spoken against it.

The House Finance Committee approved a bill giving a state income tax break to persons over 65 who sell their homes.

The committee voted 29-12 to give a favorable report to the bill sponsored by Rep. Frances Setzer, D-Catawba. It would allow elderly homeowners selling a house to exempt as much as $35,000 of the profit from tax, provided the house was the taxpayer's principal residence. The Revenue Department estimated the exemption would cost the state $1.5 million a year.

EDUCATION BOARD
Three men nominated by Gov. Jim Hunt for posts on the state Board of Education had the right answers for the House Education Committee, which quickly agreed to recommend their confirmation.

The committee voted unanimously to recommend approval of Dr. David Bruton, a Southern Pines pediatrician; Dr. Ben H. Battle, director of student teaching and teacher placement at Western Carolina University at Cullowhee, and John L. Tart of Goldsboro, president of the Johnston Technical Institute.

Designated For Seniors

The month of May has been proclaimed by Mayor Percy Cox as Senior Citizens Month in Greenville.

In his proclamation, Cox noted that the city is "indebted to all of its citizens over 65 years of age who have made significant contributions to the development and progress of our state and city through their skills and leadership."

The mayor added, "It is in the best interest of the city...to create opportunities and design worthwhile and beneficial programs which encourage continued active involvement and participation for this rapidly increasing segment of citizens to use their capabilities and experienced knowledge in all areas of community affairs."

Cox pointed out that the proclamation was issued "to recognize that these older adults are a valuable resource and can continue to make current contributions to society which benefit our city."

Blood Pressure Check At Plant

Employees of Union Carbide Corporation will have the opportunity to have their blood pressure checked, free and on-the-job, Monday and Tuesday.

This is part of the N. C. Heart Association's and the N. C. Regional Medical Program's Industrial Hypertension Screening Programs. Arrangements have been made through Mary Alvan, L. P. N., with local Heart Association volunteers conducting the checks.

Some 700,000 North Carolinians are probably affected by high blood pressure, the Heart Association says. During the early stages, a person may feel perfectly healthy yet have dangerously high blood pressure. It can lead to heart attack, stroke or kidney failure.
