

Capping Of Runaway Gusher 'Hours Away'

By JOHN VINOCCUR
Associated Press Writer
STAVANGER, Norway
(AP) — A seven-man crew led by two Texans worked in ideal weather today to cut off the 36,000-gallon-an-hour runaway gusher in the North Sea's Ekofisk field, and a spokesman said "we're close to stopping it."

"We're making very good progress. With a little luck it's a matter of hours," said an operations chief at Ekofisk Center, two miles from the blowout Bravo platform in the middle of the North Sea.
He reported by phone to the headquarters here of Phillips Petroleum Co., the rig's operators.

The blowout team was rushing to halt the spread of the widening oil slick from the 4½-day-old gusher, estimated to cover 150 square miles. Environmental specialists have warned that failure to close the well soon could result in immense ecological damage to the North Sea.

A Phillips spokesman said Texas blowout specialists Boots Hansen and Richard Hatteberg were working "on tasks preliminary to capping the rig."

"Weather conditions are fine," said a spokesman. "It is clear and there is a slight southern breeze which has reduced the concentration of gas in the platform area and reduced the danger of explosion."

Capping efforts were thwarted once by a gale and twice by too little wind, which caused a buildup of suffocating gases and chased the workers from the Phillips Petroleum Company's Bravo rig on Tuesday.

"You could say we're entering a decisive 24 hours," Gordon Goering, head of the Phillips company in Norway, told a news conference Tuesday night.

A Norwegian government official told reporters: "The capping operation has a real chance of success and we generally take a conservative position on these things."

Capping experts "Boots" Hansen and Richard Hatteberg of Houston, Texas, and four Phillips men worked for six hours on the rig Tuesday.

Wearing fire-resistant overalls and using brass tools that do not create sparks, the crew installed and tightened bolts on the blowout preventer. They also put in place two hydraulic rams which are to snap together and pinch the pipe closed during the capping operation.

"At this time, the blowout preventer is not completely assembled. It is not possible to project the progress of future work, mainly because of unpredictable weather," a statement from the company said.

About 1 p.m., Hansen radioed the wind had died and was no longer carrying off the gases escaping with the oil.

"You can drown in that gas," a Phillips spokesman explained. "It's not toxic, but there's no oxygen left to breathe. It's also incredibly volatile and poses an obvious fire threat."

A spark could trigger an explosion and fire that would probably collapse the rig and set afire the flow from 14 other wells that discharge through Bravo.

Nearly 5 million gallons of oil are estimated to have gushed from the 10,000-foot deep well since it blew out Friday night during maintenance operations. So far, there was no threat to any of the countries around the North Sea.

Waves divided the spill into two slicks. The larger one was a ragged, irregularly shaped mass 10 to 12 miles wide and 15 to 20 miles long. The smaller one measured 2 to 3 miles square, Phillips said.

Norwegian officials said the spill covered an area of 150 square miles and its nearest point to land was about 170 miles from the west coast of Norway. Movement of the oil shifted with the winds.

Cleanup efforts appeared to be lagging. Three sweeper ships using booms to trap the oil and skimmers to pick it up were only able to collect about 6,000 gallons. Officials said that because of nearby fish spawning grounds, they had decided not to use chemicals to break up the slick.

Austerity Is Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Austerity is getting more expensive all the time, the government says.

The Labor Department said Tuesday it costs an urban family of four more than $10,000 a year to support an "austere" living standard. The same family needs $16,236 to live moderately and $23,759 for an existence with some luxuries, the new figures show.

The cost of living, based on calculations from last fall, rose 4.7 per cent for the austere budget, 6 per cent for the moderate budget and 6.6 per cent for the higher budget over the previous year.

The department makes its calculations for a hypothetical family with a 38-year-old breadwinner, a wife who doesn't work outside the home and their two children, a 13-year-old son and an 8-year-old daughter.

The estimates include personal income taxes and Social Security payments.

As was the case in 1975, living costs were lower in Southern cities than in other metropolitan areas.

A poor family of four would have found the lowest costs in Austin, Texas, and the highest in Anchorage, Alaska.

The high-budget family would have found a low of $20,628 to maintain its standard of living in Austin and a high of $29,667 in metropolitan New York and some areas of New England, the Labor Department said.

Record Deficit Again

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. imports boosted by sharply higher petroleum purchases exceeded the $12 billion mark for the first time ever during March and helped push the nation's trade balance into a record monthly deficit, the government said today.

The March trade deficit of $2.4 billion represented the fourth time in the last five months that the size of the deficit has set a record. The previous high was February's $1.87 billion deficit.

In releasing the monthly export-import trade data, the Commerce Department said the U.S. deficit for the first quarter of 1977 was $5.9 billion, slightly higher than the $5.97 billion deficit registered for the entire year of 1976.

The March imports were valued at $12.5 billion, exceeding a previous high of $11.7 billion recorded in February. Exports totaled $10.7 billion, the highest monthly amount since $10.4 billion in December 1976. The March figure was 3 per cent higher than February's $9.81 billion in exports.

The department said petroleum imports rose 22.2 per cent in March to a seasonally adjusted rate of $4.06 billion, up from February's $3.32 billion.

Most of the rise "consisted of greater fuel oil entries at sharply higher prices, reflecting heavy U.S. energy consumption during the exceptionally cold winter," the department said.

HOTLINE gets things done for you. Call 752-1336, and tell your problem or sound-off, or mail it to HOTLINE, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

Transcribing is done once a day.

OLD MAGAZINES

I have a 1929 Reader's Digest in good condition and several other old magazines that don't have covers. Are they worth anything?

Not much, according to Bronson Matney, a Greenville collector. He said the Reader's Digest might be worth 50 cents, those without covers, nothing at all. Old Life pictorial magazines are about the only ones worth keeping, he said. Old Lives and Saturday Evening Posts with Norman Rockwell covers bring from five cents to $1, depending on age and condition. National Geographics demand from 10 to 25 cents. Pre-World War I magazines may be worth from 50 cents to $1.

You said that if this is all the Reader's Digest is worth, you'll probably hold onto it. Years from now, it may be of more value and interest, you feel.

PERFUME RECEIVED

I sent $4 to a company in Philadelphia. I was supposed to get two separate gift packs of perfume, but received nothing but my canceled check from my bank. I want either the perfume or my money back. H. N.

Hotline wrote to the address you gave us and had our card returned as "undeliverable." We then contacted the Consumer Services Division of the City of Philadelphia, who sent us a copy of a letter they sent to the same address. It apparently went through, as you report you soon received your perfume. You say you are happy with it.

No Progress On Deadlock Over SALT

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has made "absolutely no progress" toward breaking the deadlock with the Soviet Union over a new treaty to limit nuclear weapons, U.S. officials said.

The four assessment comes after four weeks of intensive American efforts to reverse the Soviets' rejection of a proposal by President Carter to radically change the approach to a Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT).

The officials discussed the SALT situation after insisting that they not be quoted by name.

They said the United States has offered no major change in the two proposals turned down March 30 by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev during talks with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance in Moscow.

Carter, Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski then tried to promote the rejected approach in subsequent meetings here with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

In spite of optimistic statements from Carter and others, the officials say neither Dobrynin nor any other Soviet leader budged from his opposition.

The sources also downplayed the importance of Tuesday's announcement of the resumption of working-level talks in Geneva on implementing whatever SALT agreement is reached.

Any claim that these talks, which start May 11, represent progress is "simply a charade," the officials said. The delegations have no meaningful work to do until the U.S. and Soviet leaders break their impasse, the officials said.

In recent talks with Dobrynin, including a meeting Monday with Vance, the American side has shifted from promoting its proposals to seeking a new Soviet approach.

But the Russians have stayed with their assertion that a new SALT accord should be based on broad principles reached in the November 1974 Vladivostok summit.

The Carter proposal called for major cuts in each nation's nuclear arsenal and banned the development of new strategic weapons systems.

Brezhnev rejected this approach as inequitable. He contended it left the United States with current advantages and cut the Soviet lead where it has a head start.

Vance is scheduled to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko next month in Geneva for what the Carter administration insists will be a major discussion on SALT.

However, Soviet leaders still have not conceded that the Vance-Gromyko meeting will deal with SALT.

Millions In Marijuana Seized On Plane

MARIJUANA HAUL — Sgt. H.L. Peterson of the Memphis Police Dept. surveys some of the marijuana haul confiscated Tuesday by the Metro Narcotics Unit. Authorities found 7,500 pounds of marijuana worth an estimated $3 million when the Air Force surplus C-118, the military version of the civilian DC6, landed to refuel. One man was arrested and two others are being sought. (AP Wirephoto)

$4 Billion Jobs Bill Has Joint Committee's Okay

By MIKE DOAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is ready to approve the first part of President Carter's economic package, nearly three months after he asked lawmakers for prompt action to stimulate the economy. After a seven-week dispute, a Senate-House conference committee agreed Tuesday on a $4 billion jobs bill that would pay for construction of bridges, sewers, hospitals and other local public works projects.

It is expected to create at least 150,000 jobs and possibly as many as 400,000, depending on how it is administered locally, congressional aides said.

Congress still has not acted on a separate $4.1 billion program for public service jobs, a $1.9 billion program to train youths, a $600 million revenue sharing plan and Carter's tax bill.

Today the Senate was considering a $7.9 billion-a-year permanent tax cut sponsored by Republicans. It would replace the $50-per-person tax rebate plan that Carter dropped two weeks ago. Carter opposes the permanent tax cut.

Senate leaders hope to finish the tax bill this week and turn to the jobs bill. Committee aides say the House may get the jobs bill next week.

Congress spent $2 billion last year on the public works jobs program in an attempt to bring unemployment under control. Since December the unemployment rate has dropped from 7.8 per cent to 7.3 per cent but it is still considered too high by economists.

Carter, in a message to Congress Jan. 31, asked for $2 billion in each of the next two years, but both houses decided to make the $4 billion available right away.

Big-city mayors said last year's bill gave too much money to areas that had no unemployment problem. The new bill would distribute 65 per cent of the funds to states on the basis of the number of unemployed, and 35 per cent for areas with unemployment rates of more than 6.5 per cent.

White House aides prodded congressional leaders this week to move on the jobs bill, which had passed the Senate March 10.

The House and Senate generally agreed on the jobs program but couldn't agree on a water pollution section added to it. The Senate wanted to continue a nationwide river and stream cleanup program with a $9 billion authorization over the next two years.

Over the objections of environmentalists, the House had voted to postpone some cleanup requirements and drop others.

In approving the bill Tuesday, both sides decided to consider water pollution in a separate bill.

Combat Tests For Women GIs

COLUMBIA (AP)—The effect of women truck drivers, mechanics and clerks on the effectiveness of Army units in simulated combat will be tested at Fort Jackson near Columbia in the next two weeks.

Two transportation companies, which have as many as a third women, will undergo gas and helicopter attacks, convoy ambushes and hand-to-hand combat. Similar tests are scheduled at other Army posts.

Fire Damage To Farmville Bldg.

FARMVILLE — The interior and contents of the building at 103 S. Walnut Street here which houses Mr. Molene Shirley Corbett's The Beauty Room was extensively damaged by fire yesterday afternoon.

Interviewed this morning, Mrs. Corbett said all her equipment and supplies were either destroyed or damaged beyond use. She said the shop was not open when the fire started, since she and her staff do not work on Mondays and Tuesdays, but that she had been in the building about 45 minutes before she was called at her home in Snow Hill and told it was afire.

Farmville Fire Chief H. P. Norman said the call came in at 5 p. m., and that the blaze was well underway when firemen arrived. The blaze was quickly extinguished, he said, but the mop up took considerable time. One of the firemen, John Baker, received a minor injury to a hand while fighting the fire.

Norman and Mrs. Corbett declined to estimate the damage sustained. Norman did say that he believes damage to the building, owned by Mrs. Carroll D. Oglesby of Farmville, was moderate. It appeared to be confined to the interior.

Mrs. Corbett said she has received two offers of unused beauty shops, but has not had time to look at either and make a decision.

Miss Cooke, Mr. Hughes Wed Sunday Afternoon

Miss Nancy Eileen Cooke and George Albert Hughes spoke their wedding vows Sunday afternoon at two o'clock in a double ring service. The wedding ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Jones Jr., sister of the bride.

Donald Hobbs, Jehovah Witness ministerial servant, conducted the ceremony. The house was decorated with mixed spring flowers and greenery. A program of wedding selections was presented by Mrs. Yates Webb.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Cooke Jr. of Rt. 2, Farmville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Denver Hughes Sr. of Rt. 1, Farmville.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of polyester textured linen with an overlay of nylon sheer designed with a V-neckline edged in an alencon lace ruffled and seed pearls. The full bishop sleeves had cuffs of lace and sheer ruffles. The overlay on the skirt was edged in a ruffled flounce edged in lace with lace medallions centered in pearls.

She wore a picture hat with a fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and greenery. The bride's dress and veil were designed and made by her mother.

Mrs. David Jones Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a princess styled gown of blue floral print with inserts of white and pink in the skirt. She wore a pink picture hat and carried a silk spray of pink azaleas interspersed with rose of sharon.

Miss Cindy Hughes, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Hazel Allen, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were princess styled of blue floral print. Each wore a white picture hat and carried a bouquet like that of the honor attendant.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Bobby and J. D. Hughes Jr., brothers of the bridegroom. Robbie Hughes, nephew of the bridegroom, carried the rings.

The bride's mother selected a blue polyester coat styled dress with white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue polyester dress with a striped coat and matching accessories. Both mothers wore white daisy corsages.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central School and is employed by USI. The bridegroom is a graduate of Greene Central High School and is self-employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooke entertained at a reception following the ceremony after the couple received in the foyer. The bride's table was covered with a linen textured cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet. Mrs. J. D. Hughes Jr., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake after the couple had cut the first slice. Mrs. Larry Mozingo, aunt of the bride, poured punch.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a navy pants suit and apricot blouse. The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Farmville.

On Saturday evening the parents of the couple entertained at a pre-rehearsal reception at the Jones home. The table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers.

Mrs. Julius Hughes, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch and Mrs. Frances Rackley served cake squares.

The bride-elect was dressed in a printed gown and wore a pink rose corsage.

On Friday night prior to the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hughes Sr. entertained at a dinner party at Carraway's for the bridal couple, the wedding party and families.

Miss Cooke wore a light blue dress and was remembered with a corsage of daisies.

Leftovers Gone, Dishes Left, Hostess Mad

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I invited 22 people to my home for Easter Sunday dinner at noon. Everyone but my husband's brother and his wife accepted. She said, "I'm sorry, I already promised my mother we'd go to her house for the noon meal, but we'll be hungry again at 7 p.m. so we'll come to your house for leftovers. Okay, honey?"

Not knowing what else to say, I said, "Okay." Well, they came at 7 p.m. with three other couples I didn't even know, and cleaned me out of all my leftovers and ran.

I stood in my kitchen doing dishes until midnight. I'm plenty burned up because I had plans for those leftovers. I'll leave it up to you, Abby. How could I have gotten out of letting her come when she invited herself?

TUCKERED OUT IN TORRANCE

DEAR TUCKERED: Just because people invite themselves is no reason to make them welcome.

You could have said, "I'm sorry, but my dinner party is at NOON, and I expect to be tucked out at 7 p.m., so let's make it some other time. Okay, honey?"

DEAR ABBY: I would like to respond to DISGUSTED IN BOSTON about his concern for beauty on the streets and in the shopping centers. "Queen-sized" women in tight pants are indeed unsightly, if not klutzy.

However, has it occurred to DISGUSTED that while he is so zealously championing legislation against such visual pollution, he might also include certain male klutzes?

I refer to men with offensively protruding beer bellies thinly covered by overstretched T-shirts. Trousers cannot begin to scale such heights and dutifully ride low, all the better to reveal proud displays of ridiculously laden, overstuffed abdomens.

You see, DISGUSTED, there are two sides to every coin and, really, personal decorum rests with the individual. Or should we also attempt to make illegal body odor, runs in stockings, nail biting, etc.?

Poor taste is hardly a matter for legislation, and while there is much to be said for a More Beautiful America, surely there are more weighty problems on which we should expend our efforts!

SEES BOTH SIDES IN N.C.

DEAR BOTH: It's only fair to show both sides. And I'm on yours.

DEAR ABBY: I am steaming mad about all of the pollution going on. Not just air and water pollution, but littering. Today at lunch, I saw a middle-aged woman sit in her car in a restaurant parking lot and throw not ONE but THREE paper napkins out the window.

Being responsible citizens, my girlfriend and I picked them up and calmly handed them back to her through her open window and said, "I think you dropped these."

At this point she got hot and mouthy. I calmly informed her that what she did was against the law and was called "littering." Then I walked away.

What kind of example is the older generation setting for young people today if this is their normal practice?

SUSIE IN W. COVINA

DEAR SUSIE: A very bad one. And good for you and your girlfriend for having the courage and taking the time to do as you did.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for constantly reminding your readers to have their dogs and cats neutered in order to keep them from running wild, being killed in the streets or reproducing at such a rapid rate that thousands of unwanted animals are destroyed each year.

I enclose some recent figures from the Orange County Animal Shelter:

Total live animals received at their shelter annually:	62,000
Total dead received:	12,800
Total dogs destroyed:	23,000
Total cats destroyed:	17,400

Have a nice day.

NANCY IN SAN CLEMENTE

DEAR NANCY: I'll try to have a nice day, but my night may not be so nice. Those figures are shocking. You've performed a much needed humanitarian service by reminding me to remind my readers once more to neuter their pets!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a person who at age 28 has his last NAME legally changed? When I asked him why he changed his name, he said, "For business reasons." Care to comment?

N.Y. READER

DEAR READER: Yes. It's HIS business.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Civic Project Plans Are Completed

The Potpourri Garden Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. John H. Adams Jr. Rosalind Causey Johnston was the guest speaker. She showed the members how to make formal flower arrangements and also gave hints on the preserving of the arrangements.

Vice President Mrs. Larry Land conducted the business meeting. She announced the plans for the club civic project were complete and members will plant and maintain an area within the Town Common. Mrs. William Hickman and Mrs. John Adams Jr. will serve as chairmen of the project. Planting of the area will begin in the next few weeks.

Mrs. Land announced the May meeting will be the annual spring luncheon and will be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Koontz. Members will be exchanging cuttings of favorite plants.

The gardening tips for May were given by Mrs. Eddie Harrington. Pest control of plants should begin now. She recommended bulb stems be pinched back and treated with a high phosphorous fertilizer.

Always popular: squares of cake topped with ice cream and a sauce. For chocolate freaks you can make the cake, ice cream and sauce all chocolate flavor!

The United Methodist Women of the Greenville Sub-District plan a flea market-bake sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Churches in the sub-district should bring articles for sale to Saint James United Methodist Church Friday afternoon or on Saturday morning before the sale. If rain, the fellowship hall will be used.

Mrs. Rhett Honeycutt, Greenville Sub-District leader, announced that all proceeds from the sale will go to the Wesley Foundation here, established by the United Methodist Women during the 1950's.

Mrs. Frank Brooks of Kinston, the Greenville District Christian Global Concerns coordinator, organized the idea of a joint financial project district wide to help the Methodist Student Center and its campus ministry.

Mrs. Brooks says the project was accepted unanimously by the district.

Mrs. Karl Hardee of Greenville is the current president of the United Methodist Women's Greenville District.

The Rev. Dan Earnhardt, ECU campus minister, can be contacted for information about the Wesley Foundation and the Methodist Student Center.

FOOD MAY BE CULPRIT IN KIDS' BEHAVIOR

NEW YORK (AP) — "Food can very definitely affect your child's personality," says Dr. Alan C. Levin, Medical Director of the New York Institute for Child Development.

"Allergies, food sensitivities and the inability to properly metabolize carbohydrates could lead to certain behavior in their children which may cause parents worry and concern," adds the pediatrician, who has been in private practice for nearly 40 years.

He suggests trying to pinpoint the offending foods by keeping a diet record and watching for any changes in behavior in connection with certain foods.

Edwin Yancey Gives Program

Mrs. John Carstarphen was the hostess for the Thursday meeting of the Lake Ellsworth Garden Club.

A program on diagnostic services and educational materials offered by the Extension Service was presented by Edwin Yancey of the Extension Office.

On Monday, the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Swager was voted "year of the month" in Lake Ellsworth by judges, Trish Byrum, Jan Kittrell and Peggy Sawyer.

Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clemons, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. Rich Pike.

Creamed vegetables or fish look attractive and taste good with a topping of sieved hard-cooked egg.

Cincinnati Cookbook Has Secret

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Whenever we have a little time at a large airport, we look into the various shops to see whether there are any regional cookbooks for sale. It's fun to gain a bird's-eye view of the recipes that cooks in various parts of the country and in various organizations enjoy passing along.

A while ago at Greater Cincinnati's airport, we bought a copy of "In the Beginning," a cookbook compiled by members of Cincinnati's Rockdale Sisterhood. All kinds of interesting and worthwhile before-a-meal tidbits and first courses are here, recipes the Sisterhood's partygivers invented or gathered from friends and other sources. We have no doubt that "In the Beginning" has been a godsend to many of the cooks who have bought it; now it's in its fourth printing and still going strong.

The cookbook's recipe for Cincinnati Chili grabbed our attention first. We had been unable to visit Cincinnati's famous chili parlors; now we could make a version of their chili at home. To our knowledge, this recipe has never before appeared in a cookbook.

Adventurous cooks who are willing to stray from their traditional ways of concocting chili may want to try the "In the Beginning" recipe as given and then adapt its ingredients and cooking method to suit their own tastes.

What makes Cincinnati chili different from all others? Its offbeat flavorings. Also, it is served several ways. By itself. With beans. Over spaghetti with or without one or all of these toppings — cheese, onion, beans!

CINCINNATI CHILI

- 1 quart water
- 2 medium onions, finely grated
- Two 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 5 whole allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon red pepper
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin seed
- 4 tablespoons chili powder
- 1/2 ounce unsweetened chocolate
- 2 pounds ground beef
- 4 cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 large bay leaf, whole
- 5 whole cloves
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Add ground beef to water in 4-quart pot, stir until beef separates to a fine texture. Boil slowly for half an hour. Add all other ingredients. Stir to blend, bringing to a boil; reduce heat and simmer uncovered for about 3 hours. Last hour, pot may be covered after desired consistency is reached. Chili should be refrigerated overnight so that fat can be lifted from top before reheating. Serves 8. ## Good First Impression Helps

A Beautification Committee took a bus tour of the highway entrances to Greenville last week.

The committee is made up of members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce and representatives of major local garden clubs. Kurt Fickling is chairman of the committee.

The group is looking at six entrances to the city: Highway 264 from Wilson; Highway 264 bypass; Highway 11 from Kinston; Highway 43 from New Bern; Highway 30 from Washington and Highway 11 from Bethel.

Members of the committee had suggestions for improvements to the various entrances following the bus tour. Included were: fences around junk yards, median shrubs; removal of vacant and shoddy buildings, planting of roses and other flowers and other efforts.

This is a good beginning at improving the first view that visitors have of our city. Much has been done in recent years to improve Greenville's interior, but we have not always planned to make the first approaches to the city attractive. An effort is underway now and we applaud it.

Confrontation Could Have Happened

Last week there was a chilling scramble of F-4 Phantom jet fighters from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro. This wasn't a drill — it was the real thing since Soviet reconnaissance bombers had been sighted over U. S. warships within 60 miles of the coast.

The Soviet aircraft retreated and the incident ended, but it illustrates how quickly an international confrontation could take place.

THIS AFTERNOON

Rewards In A Bonus Plan

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There is little, if any, incentive for a governmental employee to work harder, pass up a trip, or save money on buying supplies and equipment.

The dollars, after all, don't belong to anybody in particular. They're just "tax dollars."

State Senator Marshall A. Rauch, D-Gaston, would like to do something about that. The veteran businessman, legislator, and this year chairman of the State Senate Finance Committee thinks state government needs an incentive program like that proven workable in private industry.

He would share savings with the employees — the state keeping 80 per cent; the workers divvying up the other 20 per cent.

"Say there are 10 typists in an office. One leaves. Today, the attitude is to hire another right away so I don't have to work more — even if I have the time," Rauch said.

Split Savings
"My plan would let the nine take on the work, and 20 per cent of the savings would be split nine ways. The state saves money; the employees save money."

Rauch would have his incentive plan apply across the board: travel, supplies, salaries.

This approach would "change attitudes . . . encourage the right sort of mental attitude among state employees that if they do their best, they will be rewarded," says Rauch who is now drafting the proposed legislative machinery to implement, if approved by the General Assembly.

State employees have not been able to look for major rewards in the past. Performance is not generally recognized; only routine pay raises for years of service.

Meanwhile, the state bureaucracy continues to grow at a rapid clip and even the governor confesses that people often complain of state employees that one is working while one watches, and another supervises.

Across the governmental agencies, Rauch said, the problem is that "not enough people care . . . the attitude is, 'why should we work when we can hire a consultant.' They don't ask if this trip to Chicago is going to benefit the taxpayers, they just go."

State officials often cite public demand for services as the reason for continued growth. Rauch rejects that contention. The yardstick should be public need.

Too Many Weeds
Rauch thinks Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. fell far short of the mark in trimming the bureaucracy only two per cent. "You can't solve the problem by just pulling a few weeds out of the garden. The garden is too big for that."

"You have to provide something to make things grow properly, and eliminate the waste. I want to see us try good business practices that work in industry every day."

"Jobs should bring out the best in an individual. If there is no challenge, and no reward, then the individual does not respond enthusiastically.

"But if it is a demanding job which provides an incentive to perform, then a person can thrive," says Rauch, who operates several textile operations among other business enterprises. Rauch is alarmed that the trend is toward more governmental employment at a rate which could eventually lead to more people living off the tax rolls than off private industry salaries.

The senator is still wrestling with whether a separate board should be set up to administer the incentive program, or whether the Governor's Advisory Budget Commission, of which he is a member, should handle that.

Records would have to be reviewed each fiscal year, and determinations made on true savings, and the amount to be paid into the incentive program.

The proposal suggests a test in fiscal 1978-79 allowing at least three agencies, but not more than five, to use the system and see how it works.

Let'em Find Their Oil

WASHINGTON—The argument that President Carter gives for energy conservation is that if we keep using up the petroleum reserves we have now there won't be any left for our children.

It's probably strong logic with many people, but Clemstone, my gas-guzzling friend, isn't buying it.

"Let the kids find their own oil," he said after the President's address on television.

"How can you say that?" "We found it, didn't we? We dug in the ground and we brought the stuff up with our own hands. Why should we give the kids our oil on a silver platter?"

"We have to think of future generations who may suffer because of our waste and abuse."

"Why?" Clemstone asked me.

"Because," I said weakly. "Look, do you think they'll appreciate the oil and gas if we just leave it to them? I know kids. The only things that have any meaning for them are those they worked for themselves. What we should say to them is, 'We're using up whatever petroleum we've found in the ground. You want some for yourselves, go out and find it.' That's the kind of challenge that will grab them."

"But you can't use up all our reserves in ONE generation."

"Sure we can. It's OUR oil and gas. Why should we freeze so some rotten kids can have gas to tool around in their cars 20 years from today?"

"There's something wrong with your argument," I told Clemstone, "but I can't put my finger on it."

"There is nothing wrong with it. Each generation should fend for itself. Do you think we'd be where we are today if we depended on handouts of oil from our parents?"

No sir, we worked to get that petroleum. We drilled holes in Texas and Oklahoma. We sweated for it in the Gulf of Mexico and froze our tails off on the northern slopes of Alaska.

We kissed the feet of desert sheiks to get our oil. And, by heaven, when we got it we appreciated it.

"Now Carter wants us to say, 'Here, kiddies. We won't use up the oil so you can have it. Well, I say 'bulldozer!' You can give them your oil reserves if you want, but I'm not giving them mine."

"You make a strong argument against conservation," I told my friend, "but you forget one thing. You can't take it with you."

"I'm not taking it with me," he yelled. "I'm going to use it up right here, today, tomorrow, next week, next year. When I go there won't be a quart of the stuff left."

"What will your kids think of you? What will they say about a father who doesn't leave his kids a quart of oil after he's gone to that big Exxon station in the sky?"

"They'll bless me. They will eventually say, 'Thanks, Dad' for not making it easy on us. Thanks for having the faith in us so we could find our own Alaska slope. You found your oil and we found ours, and our kids can find their own."

"I'm not sure that was the message the President was trying to get over to the American people," I said.

"Of course, it wasn't," Clemstone said. "But he doesn't have the confidence in the next generation that I do. He doesn't think they have the moral fiber and the pioneer spirit to go out and drill for their own fuel."

"But suppose it's true that there aren't any more reserves of gas and oil left?"

Those Extra Chores

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The next time your boss has you feeling blue, think about the secretary who has to dash to the corner newsstand every day to get a refund for the newspaper her boss just finished reading.

Or the secretary who had to chase all over Manhattan for chocolate covered marshmallow cookies for her boss and his clients.

Another secretary had to pick up the boss' wife at the hospital along with the couple's newborn baby; the boss was too busy for the occasion.

Those are three of about 100 entries in the Women Office Workers contest of most ridiculous personal chores performed by women here for their bosses.

The 10 most ridiculous chore entries, including the top winner who will get a free lunch on WOV, will be announced tonight at an open house at the group's headquarters.

The group, which represents clerical workers, secretaries, bookkeepers, keypunch operators, typists, receptionists, clerks and cashiers, also were to hold a luncheon rally today in Manhattan to commemorate Women Office Workers Day as part of National Secretaries Week.

Carol Feeney, a staff member of WOW, said that the secretary who had to get the refund on The Wall Street Journal after her boss read it encountered some problems.

"At first the newsstand man objected, but then he took pity on the secretary," she explained.

Some other chores listed by the entrants:

—Spend two days with temporary help to write out Christmas cards and stamp them;

—Clean the boss' false teeth;

—Spread mayonnaise on the leaves of the boss' plants;

—Put drops in his ears or eyes;

—Get scolded for not knowing the voices of the women who call so as not to confuse the boss' wife and girlfriend; or —Receive a call in New York from the boss in Maryland who says, "My car broke down. Get me a tow truck."

40 Years Ago Today

April 27, 1937

Bilbao tottered today before an advancing insurgent arm that had crushed its other defenses and plunged the defenders into a disastrous retreat.

General Mola's northern army occupied Elbar, an important munitions center about 20 miles south of Bilbao, and found pillars of sparks from burning houses spreading flames throughout the evacuated city.

Insurgents said Communists and anarchists set dynamite blasts before abandoning the stronghold Sunday night. The Basques said insurgent planes fired Elbar.

Mutiny in the Basque ranks was hinted as the insurgents surged on Durango, hoping to take it and reach the 16 miles of improved highway to Bilbao.

Hundreds of civilians were killed at Guernica, former capital of the Basque country, and the city was left in blazing ruins after a fierce insurgent bombardment.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Russia Wooing The Turks

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ANKARA — Fishing in the troubled waters of U.S.-Turkish relations, the Kremlin is quietly pressing Turkey to sign a new "document" which would commit both countries, in advance of any military operations, to political "consultation" that Turkey feels would be inconsistent with its NATO treaty obligations.

Western diplomats are in doubt as to how far the "consultation" would go, and Turkish officials refuse to discuss it. But the assumption is that the "document" pressed unsuccessfully on Turkish foreign minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil during his visit to Moscow last month, marks a new stage in Moscow's political campaign. The campaign: exploit the weakening of Turkey's military and political alliance with the U.S. The alliance was strained by U.S. pressures on Turkey arising out of Turkey's 1974 invasion of Cyprus.

Apart from the mysterious and troubling "document," the Soviet Union has now become Turkey's principal source of economic assistance — a role formerly played by Washington. Indeed, Moscow's most recent line of credit to the country with which it shares a 500-mile border across the Black Sea and the top of Anatolia is a tidy $1.2 billion over the next 10 years or so.

These credits are being used here for steel, aluminum, hydroelectric, oil refining and other industrial complexes which Turkey desperately needs to continue its tortuous path from a predominantly agricultural to a mixed economy.

The economic fragility of Turkey, which is giving the Soviets their entree, is dramatized by a few statistics: balance of payments now running a cool $2 billion in the red; foreign exchange, a healthy $2.5 billion in 1974 — the year of the Cyprus invasion — now at a perilous $651 million; unemployment, a difficult computation for this rural population, figured at 25 per cent, and inflation about the same.

Prime Minister Suleyman

Demirel exaggerates when he blames the American arms embargo — and the continuing ban on grant military aid — for this bleak economic picture. But the embargo nevertheless has been a contributing factor as Turkey has dipped into its meager foreign exchange fund to buy expensive arms.

What makes this significant is Turkey's geography: its importance as the eastern anchor of NATO, the guardian of the vital Dardanelles waterway between the Black and Mediterranean seas, and the possessor of the largest NATO army next to the U.S. Many Western experts say Turkey would not take itself out of NATO under any foreseeable circumstances, and that its greatest ambition is to tighten its economic and cultural ties with Europe, with NATO its bridge to the West.

But Moscow, convinced the Turkish effort is worth making, is committing manifold resources to it, using all the familiar machinations. For example, officials believe that "laundered" Soviet funds are financing radical left-wing student movements. Student terrorism has become one of the biggest domestic issues in the campaign for the June 5 election; nearly 150 students were killed last year in shootouts between left and right student factions.

This undercover Soviet role is standard fare. But in addition, the high quality of Soviet diplomats assigned here also signals Moscow's conviction that Turkey is indeed maneuverable. The Soviet ambassador heads a mission that ranks on a par with Soviet embassies in Washington, London and Paris. The ambassador himself is one of Moscow's top diplomats.

The danger to the Western defense system of this intensifying Soviet campaign rests squarely on continuation of the bitter dispute between Turkey and the U.S. which began with the congressionally-imposed arms embargo in 1974 and the subsequent decision here to close down U.S. bases.

The result of that base closing, according to the best estimates, has been the loss of about 50 per cent of the intelligence product from missile-monitoring and other electronic surveillance conducted against the Soviet Union — a significant cost.

The political impact here of President Carter's latest proposals modifying the arms embargo — but postponing a serious drive for congressional approval of the new Defense Cooperation Agreement signed 13 months ago — is not yet fully known.

What is known is that Moscow is playing ever harder on aggrieved Turkish emotions with the likelihood that anti-American sen-

Other Editors Say Help For Elderly

(The Charlotte Observer)

• Poverty among older Americans is rising steadily. About 3.3 million of the 22 million Americans over 65 are living below the poverty line.

• Poverty among elderly blacks is three times as great as among aged whites. Over half of all blacks 65 or older lived in poverty or near poverty in 1976.

• Fuel costs for the elderly rose almost 50 per cent nationwide; many old people were paying as much as 30 per cent of their income for fuel.

• By 1980, 25 million Americans will be 65 or older and the number will increase into the next century.

These are just some of the highlights of the annual report by the Senate Special Committee on Aging. The report, along with the 3,000 letters she and her husband receive from older Americans each week, prompted Rosalynn Carter to call a special White House conference on aging next month.

"I have searched for a way I could be helping personally spotlight and call attention to problems," Mrs. Carter said. "There are many programs already but the problem is that they don't reach the people they are supposed to reach."

Mrs. Carter cited the case of a California man whose property taxes had risen one-third this year. Paying his taxes will take five of his Social Security checks, his sole source of income.

The White House conference may turn out to be no more than a public gesture, but if it prompts a few more younger Americans to think seriously about the plight of their elders on fixed incomes in a period of inflation, it will serve a useful purpose.

Carter Now 'Control Advocate'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter said he would not seek controls in order to restrain inflation, but in proposing an arbitrary hold-down on hospital reimbursement he is advocating that very thing.

Predictably, opposition to the proposal will be lodged in the contention that controls deal only with symptoms, when the only lasting good can be attained by dealing with causes.

But to deal with causes is to deal with issues that many Americans would rather not face, such as recognizing they are not immortal and that the matter of cost must be measured against their claim to further life.

Or that if hospitals are to be used most efficiently then the young, who have the greatest potential, must be given priority over the aged, whose ailments cannot be corrected, or if so, only at great cost.

For that individuals cannot forsake their own obligations to themselves, indulge in various excesses — smoking, drinking, eating — and then expect someone else, partly at public expense, to fix them up.

The causes are myriad but clear. The entire emphasis of American medicine has been on correction rather than prevention. Until rather lately, prevention when attempted often was misdirected, sometimes with government assistance.

Alex McMahon, head of the American Hospital Association, once described his frustration in dealing with a federal bureaucracy that recognized that most cancer had environmental origins but still channeled most research money into determining possible genetic causes. That people get well in hospitals instead of dying is a cause.

Physicians and surgeons are a cause. How many patients have discovered they were charged for a visit when the doctor merely peaked in the door, smile and waved? Or underwent needless surgery? Or were charged exorbitantly by a physician whose exceptional skill was exploited commercially?

Insurers are partly to blame, having until recent years merely passed on rising costs to their customers instead of pressuring hospitals for lower rates.

Technology plays a role. Understandably, doctors prefer to use the finest, which often is the latest expensive product of the electronic lab, and so prefer to be associated with hospitals that have the best.

Labor has played a big role in rising hospital costs. Service personnel not long ago were terribly underpaid. Since they have become unionized their wages, working conditions and benefits have improved greatly.

Hospital management often has been lax. Professional managers now see the necessity of using business techniques in hospital operations, but for years there was little concern about cost controls. Financial efficiency was secondary.

Can the President's proposal limiting reimbursements to hospitals through public insurance plans be successful?

Critics are sure to call it simplistic, something akin to the recent attempt by Argentine police to hold down prices by seizing fruit and

Strength For Today

COMMON HONESTY

Only the discredited philosophy of totalitarian states has dared to regard stealing a virtue and dishonesty and treachery as legitimate means of promoting national power. Common honesty is, on its face, a necessary factor in any wholesome human intercourse.

But even people who claim to be Christians sometimes make private reservations in their definition of what constitutes honesty. They abhor stealing, but they have certain areas in their lives in which they do not hesitate to cheat — a little bit. In conversation they will flatter and deceive. They will fudge on their income taxes and expense accounts, and upon returning to this country from abroad will often forget to declare certain dutiable items.

The Bible message is clear and unequivocal on this matter. There is no honesty except complete honesty. One dishonest practice in a person's life is like a weak link in a chain, rendering the whole insecure.

Vatican Hopes To Spur Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic commission agreed that unity between the churches is possible despite the Anglicans' refusal to accept the Roman Catholic doctrines of the infallibility and primacy of the pope.

A united church would join more than 600 million Roman Catholics and 60 million Anglicans, including 3 million U.S. Episcopalians. Vatican officials hope Dr. Coggan's talks with the pope and members of the Vatican Curia, the central church administration, will spur both churches to resolve their differences.

The Vatican has said that the ordination of women as Episcopal ministers in the United States also poses an obstacle to unity, and Pope Paul and Dr. Coggan have exchanged letters on the matter.

During his visit, the archbishop will dedicate the new doors of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Rome in a ceremony to be attended by Italian government and Vatican officials.

U.S. 70 Bypass Opening Early

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A portion of the U.S. 70 bypass here will be opened five months early to ease downtown traffic, which becomes congested by summer beach visitors, state officials said Tuesday.

Gov. Jim Hunt requested the project be speeded up by the Department of Transportation so motorists could use two new bridges over the Trent River instead of an old two-lane drawbridge.

The opening is tentatively scheduled for some time in mid-June, officials said.

 vegetable stands. But the President's proposal could force hospital administrators to face the painful realities. If they're not going to get paid, they will think again about spending. Either that or go out of business.

If they are forced to cut back or otherwise become more efficient, then the people who use hospitals may be forced to reconsider how they administer their own life, and enforce on themselves a degree of prevention. Oddly, Americans seem to enjoy the image of themselves as sun-soaking, athletic, wellrated and clean living, and that image is portrayed and admired every day in the media.

But that distortion probably is no worse than some of the other misconceptions and myths about ourselves that contribute to rising medical care costs.

Metrics On State Signs

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina highway signs will be converted to metric measurements on the same schedule followed by the federal government, a state Department of Transportation official said.

Speed limit signs on all federal roads will go metric between July and September 1978, but it might take slightly longer to change all the signs along North Carolina's 75,000 miles of state highways, said DOT spokesman Harold Rhudy in an interview Tuesday with The Fayetteville Times.

Speed limit signs will be changed first, he said, with the metric equivalent of 55 miles per hour becoming 90 kilometers per hour.

Vertical clearance signs will be marked in meters, instead of feet, and signs advising safe speeds on curves will be in k.p.h.

Warning and regulatory signs, such as those declaring weight limits, will be changed about two years after speed signs, said J.T. Morawski, division administrator with the Federal Highway Administration in Raleigh.

"I might point out that the philosophy now being accepted is that it's easier to make the hard conversion change all at once, rather than gradually,"

Morawski told the Times. "People accept it better." But there are simply too many signs on today's highways to be changed overnight. Mileage posts, the lowest priority signs in the conversion schedule, will not be changed until 1982, Morawski said.

Found Real Savings In His Solar House Design

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Despite the winter's record chill, the designer of an experimental solar house says the sun, combined with the system, kept electrical heating costs at less than $5 during one of the coldest months.

Al Bedinger, the designer of the house operated by the Energy Research and Development Administration and the University of Tennessee, said total power use in the house for a 30-day period beginning in mid-February was 475 kilowatt-hours, which cost about $12. Only 171 kilowatt-hours were used for heating, he added.

Bedinger, who also lives in the experimental dwelling, said a next-door unoccupied control or test house of the same size which was heated with a conventional heat pump used 2,306 kilowatt-hours, or about $57 worth of electricity.

The modernistic solar house included roof-top solar collectors and utilized sunlight as a secondary source of heat. The house was designed with its mostly glass front facing the winter sun and the windows were fitted with insulated panels which were closed at night to prevent heat loss.

The sunlight coming through the glass would cause the temperature in the living room to rise to 74 to 76 degrees on some days when the temperature outside was well below freezing, Bedinger said.

"Temperatures during our test period were colder than normal," he said. "The solar system and the supplemental electrical heating unit worked well. The house stayed very comfortable all winter."

Bedinger said he lowered the thermostat from its normal 68 degrees to 55 at night in compliance with President Carter's conservation request during the natural gas shortage and because of his own preference.

The control house stayed at a constant 68 degrees because of the nature of its heat-pump system. However, Bedinger said the fact he was living in the solar house and using lights, an electric range, washing machine and other appliances while the control house was empty would offset the difference in thermostat settings at night.

"There seems to be a common misconception that this house was designed to be heated completely by solar energy," Bedinger said. "This and most other solar houses provide about 80 per cent of the heating requirement with solar energy. A supplemental system is used for the remaining 20 per cent because it's just too expensive to use solar energy for all space heating."

The solar heating system in the experimental house cost about $8,000. At today's prices, Bedinger said, it would take about 15 years to pay for it from savings on electric bills.

But he added that President Carter's proposal to give up to a $2,000 tax credit for installation of solar devices combined with rising prices for electricity should make solar heating more attractive.

Annual Benefit Walk Planned For Saturday

EVERYBODY — OR JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY — is invited to volunteer for the annual Walk For Development benefit. For 1977, the walk will take place on Saturday, April 30, with registration beginning at 7 a.m. at Ficklen Stadium. (Reflector photo by Jerry Raynor)

With each spring for the past several years comes Greenville's big "on foot" event, the Annual annual benefit Walk For Development.

This year, Walk For Development is to be on Saturday, April 30, with the beginning phase to be registration between 7 and 8 a.m. at Ficklen Stadium.

As in past years, volunteer walkers are to contact sponsors — family members, friends, businesses, agencies, clubs, churches, etc. who will agree to donate any amount from one penny up for each mile walked by each volunteer.

Proceeds realized from Walk For Development will be divided fifty-fifty between local recipients and a needy overseas project.

Named as local agencies to benefit this year are Meadowbrook Day Care Center and REAL Dial-A-Teen program. An irrigation project in Tanzania and the continuing "Bread for the World" campaign will share as overseas recipients.

In addition to volunteer walkers and sponsors, volunteers are needed to man checkpoints and to make donations of sandwiches, cookies and non-carbonated drinks to serve walkers at the rest points.

Persons desiring more information or wanting to volunteer are asked to call 752-4646.

Financial Record Is 'Generally Good'

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The community college system's overall financial record is good, despite some questionable practices in at least eight schools, state Auditor Henry Bridges said Tuesday.

At least three of the 57 technical institutes and community colleges that make up the system have continued the questionable dealings that were turned up in audits over past years, Bridges told a legislative committee.

"The community colleges have been right much of a problem in view of the fact that some of the presidents (of the institutions) interpret the rules to suit their own problems," he said. "But as a rule, operation of the community colleges has been very, very good."

Bridges appeared before the Senate Higher Education Committee at a hearing called by Sen. Robert Wynne, D-Wake, on complaints that some institutions were not being held accountable by local officials.

He presented a report of yearly audits showing improper use of vending machine funds, travel expenses and unaccountable automobile allowances at Wake Technical Institute. Recent news reports have sparked a local controversy over Wake Tech President Robert LeMay's salary and use of other funds. Other institutions, where deputy state auditor John Buchan said questionable practices are continuing, included:

—Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte. A house was donated to the college for use by an official and house expenses were later charged to county funds, including part-time maid service, grounds upkeep, repairs, water and sewer charges and replacement of appliances, the report said.

—Fayetteville Tech. An unaccountable travel allowance of $150 a month was paid to the president from county funds and county officials "apparently have approved it," the report said. Also, two staff members were furnished institutional cars and used them to commute from their homes in Benson, even though auditors recommended against the practice, the report said.

Bridges and Buchan said later all the questioned dealings were pointed out to officials where the institutions are located, but some did not order a halt to the practices.

"If the county commissioners know about it and don't do anything, there's nothing we can do about it," Buchan said.

Current law, Bridges said, gives local officials enough control over the community colleges and technical institutes. "No additional laws are needed," he said. "Some county commissioners just need to exercise the authority they already have."

Wynne named a subcommittee to consider legislation that would change the selection and terms of trustees and consider other changes. Each school has 12 trustees, appointed to eight-year terms by the governor, local school boards and county commissioners.

Would Like More Time Between Big Decisions

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hamilton Jordan says there aren't many things he wishes he'd done differently during the first 100 days of President Carter's administration. But he would like a little more time between the big decisions.

administration's drive to appoint women and minorities. "I'm not satisfied. I'm sure those groups are not satisfied. But it is a vast improvement over other administrations." Jordan, the President's 32-year-old assistant whose job is to give Jimmy Carter political advice, mused about the administration's first three months in an interview at his White House office a half dozen doors and a telephone call from the Oval Office.

review 32 dams and other water projects brought bitter congressional criticism. Ultimately, Carter asked Congress to scrap 15 of the projects, cut funding for five others, target three more for further study and approve full funding for nine. "You could ask him to do the water projects thing over 10 different times," Jordan said, "and he would do it the same way every time."

Astrophysicist Will Be Speaker

Astrophysicist Melvin B. Gottlieb will speak at the annual banquet of the East Carolina University chapter of Sigma Xi honor society April 28.

Gottlieb's address, "Energy for the Future," will concern three phases of future energy sources; the search for alternatives to fossil fuel sources, utilization of coal reserves, and stronger conservation efforts of present energy supplies.

He is Director of the Plasma Physics Laboratory at Princeton University and a founder of the Plasma Physics Division of the American Physical Society.

The banquet program includes presentation of awards for scientific research, induction of new members and installation of the following new officers: Dr. Joseph G. Boyette, president; Dr. Wallace Wooles, president elect; Dr. Floyd M. Read, secretary; and Dr. Patricia M. Daugherty, treasurer.

Dr. Yan-jeong Lao of the ECU environmental health faculty will be inducted into full membership.

Ten students, representing biology, biochemistry and auditory pathology, will be inducted as associate members.

The Society of Sigma Xi is a national organization which encourages and promotes scientific research in various fields. Its membership includes both faculty members and students.

During those first hundred days, Jordan:

—Disagreed with the way Carter handled the water projects.

—"I'd have left them alone... I just wouldn't have raised that issue," he said.

—Put a stop to one or two things headed toward impropriety.

—"I can't give you the names or details" but like "a guy who's parlaying his relationships with people, the staff. You know, representing himself around Washington as being close to the President and semi-involved over here" and trying to turn that to personal advantage.

—Thought "the thing that's probably best substantively is the fact that Carter's taken charge."

—"He's comfortable. He's at ease.... He has a good relationship with his staff, a good relationship with his Cabinet. He is in a posture very early in his administration of being able to govern and make decisions."

—Criticized the results of the

Legendary Figure Known As Gadfly Of Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Judge Robert Winston called him the "Gadfly of Chapel Hill."

Thomas Wolfe called him the "Hegel of the Cotton Patch." Other students characterized him as the greatest philosophy teacher ever produced in North Carolina.

But for some citizens of the state early in the 20th Century, he was a dangerous influence on the impressionable students at the university of North Carolina, and hardly a year went by that did not produce demands for his firing.

All this pleased Henry Horace Williams, for he liked nothing better than to provide controversy, provided the controversy made people think.

Perhaps no individual associated with the university attracted such a devoted following, for as his students became adults, the provocations of Horace Williams' classes took on deeper meanings.

Followers perpetuated his memory by writing articles and books about him and they organized the Horace Williams Philosophical Society.

The legendary teacher was born in 1858, the son of Dr. Elisha Williams and Mary Taylor Williams of Sunbury, in Gates County.

Williams attended Murfreesboro High School, then in 1883, he earned both the A.B. and A.M. degrees at Chapel Hill.

He taught Greek and German for a couple of years at Trinity College, which later became Duke University. He then went to Yale and received a degree of bachelor of divinity in 1888. The next two years he was on fellowship at Harvard.

In 1890, Williams joined the faculty of the university of North Carolina, serving as professor of philosophy for nearly 50 years.

There was little in his background to foretell that Horace Williams would have a profound influence on North Carolina.

He was a dull writer, and on some subjects he was a dull speaker. But in the philosophy classroom he was a master teacher who shocked his students into thinking.

Penetrating questions and sometimes ridicule were his methods. One of his biographers recalled that nearly an entire period was consumed when he asked the simple question: "What is the most important part of an ox cart?"

One by one he rejected the students' answers, then gave his own: the concept. "After the blueprint has been made, any jackleg can do the rest," he said.

His give-and-take sessions with his students led to faculty criticism. One professor asked Williams if he allowed his students to sass him. Yes, said the philosopher, "but I sass them right back."

When another complained that the teacher put little emphasis on textbooks, Williams replied, "I do not ask my students to repeat to me what Plato said. I take them up on the mountain to see what Plato saw."

Horace Williams did not always give answers. He rejected the notion that the mind was simply a filing cabinet for facts. It was the thought processes that he sought to activate.

A former student wrote, "His purpose seemed to be to blast the rigidity of the student's mind in order to prepare soil in which seed, when planted, might grow and flourish."

This approach opened him to accusations of agnosticism or at least skepticism, and, though in his own way he was a good Methodist, he horrified fundamentalists by his insistence that religion must meet the test of reason.

One day he brought his Bible to class, opened it and read only the first four words, "In the beginning God." Quoting Hegel, he insisted that "thinking is also in the service of God."

Horace Williams was just as much an individualist off campus as in the classroom. He voted for McKinley and Hoover. He never tasted liquor, but he opposed prohibition.

He bought and lived in the house built by Benjamin B. Hedrick, the first university professor to be fired for unorthodox political views.

On Franklin Street Williams accumulated a horse, several cows, and a litter of pigs, much to the distaste of his neighbors who demanded that the board of health force him to get rid of the animals.

Right after the health officials inspected his premises, he placed an ad in the local newspaper. "Buy milk from Williams' dairy . . . just inspected by the board of health."

Characteristically, the professor's last words on his death bed reflected his inquisitive mind: "I think I'll try being an angel for a while. It will be interesting . . . interesting."

Adds Politicians To Latex Sculptures

By BERT BERLINER
NEW YORK (AP) — New York artist Ron Kron surrounds himself with a mixed group of well-known personalities — Joan Crawford as "Mildred Pierce," Louise Lasser as "Mary Hartman," Burt Reynolds as the Cosmopolitan centerfold.

Lately, though, the circle has widened to include former Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford, with more political figures ready to join.

"Politicians are the stars of today," says Kron, 35, whose two-foot-tall brittle latex sculptures of famous personalities will be exhibited at New York's Bleecker Street Gallery this summer.

Kron's fascination with marionettes while growing up in Hopkins, Minn., is evident among his 40-odd "portrait-in-sculpture" dolls. Endowed with real hair, glass eyes and movable limbs, most are movie stars cast in well-remembered roles.

Kron first turned his attention to politicians when the Watergate scandal burst into the news. The result was Richard Nixon nude under a Watergate towel. Next came Gerald Ford holding a Halloween bag labeled "trick or treat." "The bag contains the pardon Ford gave to Nixon," Kron says.

Once in a while he's commissioned to do a private individual. One patron ordered a doll in the likeness of a friend as a Christmas present.

"The friend opened this large box and was stricken to see himself," Kron recalls. "There's something macabre about seeing yourself lying in a box, even if it's gift-wrapped."

Kron wants to do some personalities from television commercials. He cites Nancy Walker who plays Rosie the waitress, hawk for Bounty paper towels, and Margaret Hamilton as Cora, the general store proprietress who sells Maxwell House Coffee.

But statesmen remain high on his inventory of stars. His list of dummies to do includes former Sen. Wilbur Mills with stripper Fanne Foxe, and President Jimmy Carter emerging from a three-foot peanut.

"I want my people to have a strong public image — famous or infamous," Kron says. "These days, politicians are right up there in the headlines with the most popular celebrities."

TO CHANGE LIFE STYLE — Atlanta psychiatrist Dr. Alfred A. Messer says Pres. Carter's energy program will be an historical effort to change the life style of America, a nation which lives on impulse. Messer said that most of the nation's trouble is traced to the instant expression of impulse, rather than the ability to delay. (AP Wirephoto)

Death Penalty Bill To Be Debated In N.C. House

N.C. Editorial Comment On SHP Commander 'Favorable'

Editorial comment regarding last Friday's appointment of Captain John T. Jenkins of Greenville's Troop A as commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol was favorable across the state.

Saturday's Raleigh Times spoke of Jenkins' reputation for toughness:

"Gov. Jim Hunt chose toughness in selecting 56-year-old John T. Jenkins, 30-year Highway Patrol veteran, to command that troubled organization beset with problems."

"It may be that Jenkins, a strict disciplinarian and up-from-the-ranks captain whose troops' morale led all the rest, can command the respect and cooperation that an outsider, bound to be resented, could not muster."

The News and Observer similarly applauded the appointment:

"Evidently, there is nothing so wrong with the Highway Patrol that it cannot be righted by a superior leader. Governor Hunt seems to have found one. That alone should do much immediately to lift morale in the ranks."

Tuesday's Charlotte Observer found Jenkins well-qualified:

"Mr. Jenkins comes to the job with good credentials. He was most recently a patrol commander in Greenville. A study of the troubled patrol last year found morale higher in his troop than anywhere else in the state. His record is clean; he is known as a commander who makes an effort to get away from his desk and spend time riding with his men."

"Those men are the important ones. They must have confidence that their boss is both competent and fair. Instilling that confidence will be Mr. Jenkins' most serious job during the next year."

"The News and Observer similarly applauded the appointment:

"Evidently, there is nothing so

According to Tuesday's Asheville Citizen,

"Hunt's choice of Capt. John Jenkins is at least on paper a commendable one. A 30-year patrol veteran, Jenkins has the inside knowledge and professionalism needed to restore the patrol to the stature it once enjoyed."

The Rocky Mount Evening Telegram Monday lauded Jenkins' strength:

"Captain Jenkins has been described as strong in terms of leadership ability and personality."

"Perhaps those are the ingredients Gov. Hunt was seeking. . . Hunt believes Capt. Jenkins can revitalize a vital organization that has been plagued by low morale and weak leadership, according to a recent study."

"The Telegram commends Capt. Jenkins on his promotion, and we believe Gov. Hunt has selected the right man for a tough job."

The Greensboro Daily News was optimistic about Hunt's new form of organization and his choice of commander:

"Commander Jenkins' new official relationship to the Governor may help him in his endeavors. As part of the new Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, the Highway Patrol—it is hoped—will be more insulated from the politics that plagued it during the Holshouser administration."

"So now the patrol has working for it not only a new chief—who looks well-suited to restore the force's once-vaunted national reputation—but a new position in state government. Here's hoping the combination works."

Tuesday afternoon an editorial in the Winston-Salem Sentinel spoke of Jenkins' potential to solve morale problems in the patrol:

"Morale in the patrol was mentioned several times last week when Jenkins' appointment was announced. There is, to be sure, a 'morale problem' in the patrol. Jenkins' reputation as a tough but fair disciplinarian and a strong leader gives reason to hope for an improvement on that score."

meeting stemmed from complaints that the two-year schools were not being held accountable to local officials.

TREATMENT A bill to allow medical treatment of minors without their parents' consent was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. Sponsored by Rep. Patricia Hunt, D-Orange, it passed by an 86-20 vote. An amendment that would have limited the parents' liability for medical costs was defeated. Under the bill, doctors could treat minors for pregnancy, alcoholism, drug abuse and emotional disturbances without parental consent.

BUILDING LOANS The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill that would permit savings and loan associations to make "balloon" mortgages. Loan payments would increase in size over a period of years. Sponsors of the bill said it was designed to help young couples finance housing starts.

GAS TAX HIKE "It's past time we improved secondary roads in North Carolina and there is not enough money to do it," said Rep. Vernon James, D-Pasquotank, who sponsored a bill to increase the state's gasoline tax. The tax would be hiked from nine to 10 cents per gallon. James said that would increase tax revenues $30 million a year.

DEATH PENALTY The House next week will take up two measures to impose the death penalty for first degree murder. Both call for separate proceedings to determine guilt and punishment in murder cases.

Bringing FBI Agents' Complaint To Congress

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley is getting a chance to carry to Congress the complaints of agents upset over an indictment that stems from intelligence work performed several years ago.

Kelley was called as a witness today before a Senate appropriations subcommittee.

Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell told the same panel Tuesday that FBI agents had made their own protests to him about imposing "a post-Watergate morality for pre-Watergate activity."

The agents are upset over the recent indictment of a retired FBI supervisor in New York, John J. Kearney was indicted on charges of illegal wiretapping, mail opening and conspiracy in connection with surveillance activities in the early 1970's against the Weathermen, an alleged underground terrorist organization.

Bell authorized Kearney's prosecution, and there are reports other FBI agents may be indicted on similar charges.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who served as a member of the Senate Watergate investigating committee, asked if the taxpayers were going to be billed for defending FBI agents for break-ins and other illegal activities.

Bell replied they were not, although he added, "We ought to do it. It would not be a bad thing to do."

He said FBI agents thought what they were doing was in the best interest of the country, but now will "lose their life savings" defending themselves against criminal charges.

Justice Department officials said the government has never provided or paid for defense lawyers for officials indicted on criminal charges.

Bell also said the Justice Department "desperately" needs a charter from Congress to govern FBI authority in domestic security cases not tied directly to a crime. He said the guidelines are needed to let the FBI know whether preventive intelligence is authorized in such cases.

Evacuation Ends Today

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The evacuation of more than 300 Americans ordered out of Ethiopia was to be completed today with the departure of 175 from Addis Ababa and 50 from Asmara, the capital of rebellious Eritrea province.

"Things are going very well indeed," a U.S. embassy spokesman said. "We are now getting a considerable decree of cooperation."

The U.S. government protested because Ethiopia's Marxist military government allowed only four days for the departure of the staffs of the five American offices it ordered closed. But only six officials were allowed to remain an additional four or five days.

Eighty-five Americans, including 30 teen-agers, a 9-month-old baby and an expectant mother, were flown to Athens on Monday.

The government ordered the closure of the U.S. Information

Service center, the Military Assistance Advisory Group and the Naval Medical Research Center, all in Addis Ababa, and the Kagnev radio center and U.S. Consulate in Asmara.

Rose Rally Falls Short; Knights Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Northern Nash twice stood off Rose High School rallies to gain a 7-6 victory over the Rampants in a Division I baseball contest yesterday.

It was the third straight conference loss for the Rampants following their victory in the Williamston Sports Club Invitational Tournament championship.

Northern, with its win, retained sole possession of first place in the conference, building its record to 7-1 in the league. The Knights are 11-4 overall.

Rose dropped to 2-6 in the league and 7-8 overall. The Knights banged out 12 hits to just six for the Rampants. Four of the Northern hits were doubles, while just one of the Rose hits was for extra bases. Nevertheless, the Rampants were not out of the game until the final out.

In the bottom of the seventh, the Rampants loaded the bases and pulled to within one run of the Knights before being retired.

Northern took the lead with a run in the first inning. Jean Worthington led off with a pop up down the right field line, that just hit on the line and fell in for a double. He was sacrificed to third, and scored on Mike Leonard's double to left.

Roanoke Rallies In Seventh To Gain 6-5 Victory Over Elm City

ROANOKE — Roanoke High School came up with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to nip Elm City, 6-5 last night.

Elm City had pushed over two in the top of the inning to take a 6-3 lead over the Redskins, threatening their hold on first place in the Eastern Plains Conference.

Elm City scored twice in the second inning. Phil Batts walked and Steve Stutts reached on a fielder's choice. Billy Owens was safe on an error, loading the bases. Mike Smith grounded out, scoring Batts, and a passed ball let Stutts in.

Roanoke came back with one in the third. David Spruill singled, and moved up on a wild pitch. Chris Keel singled, and Charlie Smith walked. Glen Cargile hit a sacrifice fly to score Spruill.

The Vikings added a run in the fifth. Elbert Inman walked and Joe McCullen did too. Inman stole third, and an error on the play allowed him to score.

The Redskins came up with two in the sixth to tie the score at 3-3. Smith singled and Cargile got a hit. Both moved up on an error and Wayne Council tripled both in.

Elm City came back with two in the top of the seventh to regain the lead. Inman was hit by a pitch and scored on Bobby Owens double. Batts singled Owens in for a 5-3 lead.

But the Redskins came back with three in the bottom of the inning to wrap up the win. Ken Gurganus and Spruill walked. Keel hit into a fielder's choice, getting Spruill, and Smith singled, scoring Gurganus. Cargile doubled in Keel, and Council reached on an error, scoring Smith with the winning run.

Spruill led the Roanoke hitting with three, while Smith, Cargile, Council and Eddie James each had two.

Roanoke, now 10-6 overall and 7-1 in the conference, travels to Williamston tonight.

Farmville Central Downs Conley, 8-1

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central pitcher Ricky Smith held D. H. Conley's batters to four hits while the Jaguar offense banged out 11 and Farmville took an 8-1 victory over the Vikings yesterday afternoon. Smith pitched no-hit baseball for five innings before giving up a pair of hits in the sixth and seventh frames. The two seventh-inning hits, combined with a fielding error, allowed the Vikings to score their only run. The Farmville defense helped Smith out on several occasions, twice coming up with double plays to pull the team out of tight spots. The offense did its share, too, led by Neil Gordon, who was 2-2, with one run and two runs batted in. Scott Evans also had two hits and he and David Winborn each hit a double for the Jaguars.

Both those doubles came in the first inning and, along with a pair of base hits, gave the Jags to take a 3-0 lead. They increased that to 5-0 with a pair of runs in the fourth and went in front by eight in the fifth before Conley got its tally in the seventh.

The losing pitcher for the Vikes was starter Kevin Adams. He pitched 4 2/3 innings before reliever Carl Arnold came in and went the rest of the way. Adams' record drops to 1-3, while Smith is now 5-4 on the season.

Conley put two men on in the top of the first inning when Randy Edens got on by an error and Adams walked. But the next batter, Mike Phillips, flew out to right field and Jaguar right fielder Neil Gordon picked Adams off first for a double play to end the frame.

In the bottom of the inning, the Jags got four straight hits to take a 3-0 lead. After one out, Evans started things off with a double to right field. He was batted in when Neil Gordon singled to center.

Winborn knocked a double to the same spot in right to bring Neil Gordon around and Phillip Gordon plated Winborn with a base hit to right.

Farmville put men on in the second and third, but was unable to score again until the fourth. With two away, Mike Jenkins singled up the middle and stole second. Evans got his second hit to move Jenkins to third. Evans went to second on a fielder's choice on a double steal play and an error on the Conley third baseman scored Jenkins and allowed Evans to get to third. Neil Gordon's base hit knocked in Evans.

The Jaguars added three more in the next inning for an 8-0 margin, batting nine in the frame. Ted Dunn got a one-out single up the middle and stole second. After another out, Jerry Rackley walked and Carroll Griffin got on by an error to load the bases.

Jenkins then got a base on balls to score Dunn and a wild pitch allowed Rackley to come home, sending Griffin to third and Jenkins to second. After Evans walked to again load things up, Neil Gordon got a walk to send Griffin home. The Vikes then sent in Arnold, who got the next two batters out.

Conley got its first hits of the game in the sixth, but a second double play by Farmville helped the Jags get out of the inning safely.

The Vikings finally scored in the seventh. Quinn Morris got a one-out infield hit and Ben Wilson followed with a shot to right to move Morris to second. Both runners advanced on a fielding error by the right fielder and Morris scored on Curtis Spencer's infield out.

The win leaves the Jaguars with a 5-3 record in the Eastern Carolina Conference, 9-7 overall. The Vikings drop to 2-7 in the conference and 4-8 for all games. Farmville travels to North Pitt on Thursday, while Conley will host C. B. Aycock on Friday.

Martin In 17-12 Win

ROCKY HOCK — Martin Academy scored nine runs in the seventh inning to gain a 17-12 come-from-behind victory over Chowan Academy's baseball team yesterday.

Chowan took a 7-1 lead in the second inning, but Martin fought back with a run in the fourth and three in the fifth to make it 7-5. Chohan added a pair of runs in the bottom of the fifth and each team scored three in the sixth, but Martin got nine in the seventh inning to win it.

Jeffrey James and Tim Gardner each went 2-3 to lead the Martin hitting, while James Corey and Johnny James were 2-5. Chohan was led by Towe's 2-3 and Lane and Nonerman were 2-4.

Martin Academy is now 9-3 for the season.

Randle Goes To The Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets have obtained infielder Len Randle from Texas, one day before the lifting of his 30-day suspension for punching Rangers Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Mets General Manager Joe McDonald said he had been interested in Randle since February. "We are not condoning what he did, and I am quite certain he would like to have it all behind him," McDonald said Tuesday. "It was wrong and the player acknowledged that by accepting the suspension and the fine."

"Lenny is a versatile player who can play all three outfield positions and three infield positions, other than first base."

A spokesman said Randle, 28, was traded for an undisclosed amount of cash and a player to be named later. A Dallas newspaper reported that the amount of cash was $25,000 and the Mets' player to be sent to Texas will be Rick Auerbach, currently with the Mets' Tide-water farm club.

The trade took effect today, the end of Randle's 30-day suspension.

"I think Randle will be a big help to that club," said Lucchesi. "As long as I had him, he never loafed. He always gave 110 per cent. He's versatile, and I think the Mets can use him well."

"All the reports we have had indicated that Randle is a 100 per cent ball player and a gentleman," McDonald added.

Randle will not be added to the Mets' roster until he reports to the team. At that time another player will have to be dropped.

The punching incident, which took place at Orlando, Fla., March 28, resulted in a broken facial bone and a one-week hospitalization for Lucchesi.

Bird Hurls Royals Past Rangers, 6-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

"Pitching," says Doug Bird, "is a funny thing."

That's funny as in strange, not funny as in ha-ha.

But until Tuesday night, Bird's pitching had been funny as in ha-ha while Rick Wise's mound efforts were downright hilarious.

All that changed abruptly. Bird, who had an earned run average of 4.15, fired six shut-out relief innings and was the winner as the Kansas City Royals beat the Texas Rangers 6-3.

If Bird's ERA was rather high, Wise's was absolutely out of sight. It stood at 53.89, based on 1 2-3 innings pitched and 10 earned runs. It is a more respectable 9.60 now after Wise allowed only one run in 8 2-3 innings as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 3-1.

In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles cooled off the New York Yankees 6-2, the Minnesota Twins downed the Seattle Mariners 5-3, the Chicago White Sox outlasted the Detroit Tigers 10-7 in 14 innings and the Oakland A's beat the California Angels 7-3. Toronto and Cleveland were rained out.

Bird entered his game in the fourth inning after Ken Henderson slammed a shot off the knee of Kansas City starter Andy Hassler loading the bases. A run scored on Juan Beniquez' grounder but Bird then stopped the Rangers.

Meanwhile, the Royals scored twice in the bottom of the fourth on Darrell Porter's two-run triple. John Mayberry hit a two-run homer on the sixth and Al Cowens tripled home two runs in the eighth.

Red Sox 3, Brewers 1
While Wise was blanking the Brewers on three hits until the ninth, the Red Sox scored in the fourth on a single by Carlton Fisk and a double by Butch

Hobson. They made it 3-0 in the fifth on a walk and singles by

Jim Rice, George Scott and Fisk. Orioles 6, Yankees 2
Doug DeCinces' two-run single highlighted a four-run first inning against a wild Ken Holtzman while ex-Yankee Rudx May scattered nine hits in ending New York's six-game winning streak. May is 4-0 against the Yankees since they traded him to the Orioles last June 15.

Twins 5, Mariners 3

Reliever Stan Thomas walked Dan Ford with the bases loaded forcing in the winning run in Minnesota's three-run eighth inning. Mike Cabbage, who singled home the tying run, scored an insurance tally on a grounder by Rich Chiles. The Mariners had taken a 3-2 lead when shortstop Craig Reynolds led off the seventh with his second home run of the season.

A-G Gains Victory

HOLLYWOOD — Ayden-Griffon's softball team got a 12-7 victory over D. H. Conley yesterday afternoon.

The Lady Chargers were led by Vivian Ellis, who had two hits, including a home run. Shonda Brock added two hits and Fulford had a homer for Ayden-Griffon.

Tina Dixon, Sheila Washington and Teresa Mills each had two hits for Conley.

Reds Continue Pounding Braves Trail Blazers Gain 3-1 Lead Over Denver

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The Cincinnati Reds are driving Dave Bristol battry. "Our pitchers are not putting enough into the ball," says the Atlanta Braves' manager. "We've got to start getting people out. We can't go on like this."

Bristol was all torn up after his pitching continued to be torn apart by the Reds, who blasted 14 hits en route to a 9-1 victory Tuesday night.

The Reds' latest assault followed Monday night's outburst at Atlanta Stadium, where the defending World Champions scored 23 runs on 18 hits.

That made a total of 48 runs and 48 hits against Braves pitching in the last three games. The Los Angeles Dodgers scored 16 runs against Atlanta Sunday.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-0, the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the San Diego Padres 4-1 and the Houston Astros trimmed the San Francisco Giants 4-3 in 13 innings. The game between Montreal and New York was postponed by rain.

Dan Driessen drove in six runs with a pair of homers and left-hander Fred Norman gave up only three hits in six innings for Cincinnati. The two homers by Driessen and one by Johnny Bench gave the Reds seven against Atlanta pitching in two games and provided more than enough power to hand the Braves their fourth straight loss.

Pirates 5, Phillies 0
Bill Robinson's three-run double backed the combined three-hit pitching of John Candelaria and Rich Gossage, leading Pittsburgh over Philadelphia.

The Pirates took the lead in the second inning when Frank Taveras drove in his first two runs of the season with a triple off losing pitcher Larry Christenson.

Cubs 4, Cardinals 1
Manny Trillo and George Mitterwald drove in two runs apiece and Rick Reuschel pitched a six-hitter as Chicago beat St. Louis.

The Cardinals nicked Reuschel for a fourth-inning run on a sacrifice fly by Ted Simmons. But the Cubs, held hitless for three innings by Eric Rasmusen, broke through for three runs in a game-breaking, fourth-inning rally capped by Mitterwald's two-run single.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1
Steve Yeager drove in two runs with a homer and a double and Charlie Hough bailed Don Sutton out of a tough ninth-inning situation, leading Los Angeles over San Diego.

Sutton overcame early wildness in improving his record to 4-0, allowing three hits, striking out eight and walking five before giving way to Hough with two on and none out in the ninth. Hough retired the next three batters, preserving the victory.

Astros 4, Giants 3
Joe Ferguson's two-out homer in the 13th inning lifted Houston over San Francisco. Ferguson's homer, his third of the season, came off reliever Charlie Williams, the fifth Giants' pitcher.

The Giants had taken a 3-2 lead in the sixth inning on doubles by Rob Andrews and Darrell Evans. Houston tied the score in the seventh on a single by Roger Metzger, an infield out and a single by Enos Cabell.

Trail Blazers Gain 3-1 Lead Over Denver

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Bob Gross and Mike Newlin, two hard-nosed ballplayers who continually give 100 per cent, have put their teams in good position in the National Basketball Association playoff quarter-finals.

Gross, a 6-foot-6, second-year forward from Long Beach State, scored 12 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, leading the Portland Trail Blazers to a 115-106 victory over the Denver Nuggets and a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series.

"Bobby played the best game I've ever seen him play, and one of the finest games a small forward has played in the league all season," praised Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "His defense was excellent, he moved well and he shot well."

The Blazers can clinch the series Sunday at Denver, and Nuggets Coach Larry Brown knows his club is in trouble.

"We have to regroup," Brown said. "We have to win three in a row and that's a tough task because Portland is playing well."

Newlin, a rugged 6-4 guard who is constantly diving to the floor chasing loose balls, scored two baskets in the final 20 seconds, helping the Houston Rockets beat the Washington Bullets 107-103. That road victory tied the series 2-2 and regained the home-court advantage for the Rockets.

In Tuesday night's other game, Golden State evened its series with Los Angeles at 2-2 with a 114-103 victory over the Lakers. Forwards Rick Barry and Jamaal Wilkes combined for 53 points for the Warriors, offsetting 41 points and 18 rebounds by Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The other series resumes tonight at Philadelphia, with the Boston Celtics and Philadelphia 76ers tied 2-2.

With the settlement of the referees' strike, four of the officials who walked out April 10 returned to action Tuesday night. Paul Mihalak worked with non-striker Richie Powers at Oakland, Manny Sokol teamed with non-striker Earl Strom at Portland and Joe Gushue and Ed Rush officiated at Landover, Md.

The Blazers led all the way, but Denver pulled within 78-76 going into the final period. Then Gross took charge, hitting four straight shots, giving the Blazers an 88-82 lead with 5:25 remaining. And his four free throws near the end of the game clinched the victory.

Lionel Hollins had 18 points for Portland, while Mack Calvin topped Denver with 28.

Houston took command of its game with Washington with eight straight points midway through the fourth quarter. Guard Calvin Murphy's steal and layup tied the score 92-92, then Rudy Tomjanovich hit two baskets and Moses Malone dunked the ball for a six-point lead.

Washington stayed close, however. Newlin's jumper with 20 seconds to go made it 105-101, but Tom Henderson scored for the Bullets, cutting the gap to two. But with 10 seconds left, Tomjanovich saw Newlin breaking free and fed him the ball for a clinching layup.

Tomjanovich led the Rockets with 28 points, while Washington's Phil Chenier tallied 29.

The Warriors scored nine consecutive points to open a 50-37 halftime lead and never were caught. Barry had 18 of his 26 points in the first half, including the final four before intermission.

Krafcsin To Leave Carolina

"My family comes first to me and basketball second," said center Steve Krafcsin, who is leaving the University of North Carolina.

Krafcsin, a 6-foot-9, 219-pound freshman from Chicago Ridge, Ill., said he would transfer to the University of Iowa.

The announcement came Tuesday from Coach Dean Smith.

"My reasons for leaving are personal ones," Krafcsin said.

"I mainly just want to be closer to my home...If Carolina was in Chicago, I would never leave. I have no regrets about coming to Carolina."

Smith said he was disappointed by Krafcsin's decision.

"However, we want him to do what he thinks is best for himself," Smith said. "We wish him the very best in the future."

Krafcsin averaged 2.9 points per game in the 1976-1977 season. He shared center chores with freshmen Rich Yonakor and Jeff Wolf after a knee injury sidelined senior Tom LaGarde during the last third of the season.

Krafcsin's departure leaves Smith with 10 returnees from this year's 28-5 NCAA runner-up squad.

The Tar Heels have signed one high school player this spring — 6-10 Pete Budko of Baltimore.

Ewes Top North Pitt

SNOW HILL — Greene Central stayed close to league-leading Charles B. Aycock, with a 25-6 victory over the North Pitt softball team yesterday.

The win boosted the Greene Central record to 7-3 overall and 4-2 in the Eastern Carolina Conference, one game behind the leader.

North Pitt pushed over five runs in the first two innings, but the Ewes picked up seven in the fourth and seven more in the fifth.

Linda Bynum hurled the victory for the Ewes, while Regina Worthington, Iris Pridgen and Gail Jones (triple) each had three hits. Bynum (home run) and Nancy Edmondson each had two hits for the Ewes.

The Ewes face North Lenoir on Thursday.

Virginia Gets Top Player

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jeff Lamp, Kentucky's "Mr. Basketball" of 1977, signed a national letter of intent Tuesday to attend the University of Virginia.

Terry Holland, head coach at the Atlantic Coast Conference school, came to Louisville to get the signature of the 6-foot-5 star who led his team, Ballard High, to the state high school championship this year.

Lamp's high school coach, Richard Schmidt, said he plans to consider for "some time" an offer to become an assistant coach at Virginia.

"Jeff made up his own mind, and I plan to take some time to make up mine," said Schmidt.

Lamp is the second Ballard star to sign with Virginia. Earl Raker, who also stands 6-5, signed with Virginia.

Lamp said his decision to go to Virginia was based on his visit to the Charlottesville, Va., campus and his impressions of Holland and the Virginia players.

"I liked the atmosphere, the players and Coach Holland," Lamp said. "I decided to go there because I liked it there more than any other place I visited, and not because I have anything against the others."

Lamp turned down offers from Louisville, Indiana, Minnesota and other schools.

Baby Tigs Gain Win

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston "B" baseball team gained a 4-2 victory over Plymouth yesterday.

Keith Clark was the winning pitcher for the Baby Tigs. No one on either team had more than one hit.

Williamston is now 6-1.

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central gained a 7-2 tennis victory over Greene Central yesterday in an Eastern Carolina Conference match.

The Jaguars won five of the six singles matches to sew up the victory. They added wins in two of the three doubles.

Farmville returns to action tomorrow against C. B. Aycock, while Greene Central is idle until next week's conference tournament.

Cubs Gain 3-1 Win

BETHEL — The Rose High School "B" baseball team took a 3-1 victory over North Pitt's junior varsity yesterday.

Lindsey Winstead was the winning pitcher for the Rampant Cubs.

Rufus Sutton led the Rose hitting with a pair, while J. Simpson had two for North Pitt. Bobby Woronoff added a triple for Rose.

The Cubs are now 5-2.

'Brain Truster' Looks At Carter

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Rexford G. Tugwell was one of the original New Deal "brain trusters" who went to Washington with Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933 to confront an economic crisis.

Tugwell is now an associate at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. He recently completed a book, "Roosevelt's Revolution," a reminiscent account of FDR's first year.

UPI asked him to compare that era at the start of the Great Depression and the problems President Carter faces.

Following are his comments, detailing his personal point of view:

"There are some striking similarities between the Carter takeover and that of Roosevelt, now 44 years in the past.

"Both succeeded Republicans who had allowed the economy to stagnate and unemployment to become a serious problem. Both had a dispirited and pessimistic public to reinvigorate. Both undertook revitalization in spectacular fashion.

"Roosevelt electrified the nation by telling it in his inaugural that it had nothing to fear but fear itself and all it needed to do was to recover its courage and support his attack on the depression.

"Carter's walk down Pennsylvania Avenue had the same effect of establishing confidence in his determination to make things better for the common people.

"Yet their problems were different, too — as though they had been updated. Roosevelt inherited a depression that seemed uncontrollable, with all the banks and most of the factories closed. Twenty-five per cent of the workers were unemployed and had no compensation.

"Half the population lived in the country then and farmers could not sell the things they produced to workers who were unemployed. Storage facilities were bulging with wheat, cotton, corn and meat products.

"The banks had to be got open again and the vast burden of frozen debts liquidated. Disastrously low prices had to be raised so that debts could be paid and production resumed at a profit.

"Carter's problem at first seems easier by comparison. The economy is operating at less than capacity, but it is not paralyzed. Unemployment is eight per cent, not 25. People are not starving or homeless. Farmers have learned how to regulate their production and the banking system is sound. Prices are too high, not too low.

"Yet in a way Carter's problems are worse. The economy actually has been running down for some 15 years, becoming less and less productive, and the overspending by government has created frightening deficits.

"Americans are obviously trying to consume more than they are willing to produce, the difference being measured by inflation. This cannot go on. It will be Carter's special task to reverse this trend and to set the nation again on an upward course, more productive, less demanding, more willing to work for the common good.

"If Roosevelt had a present disaster to overcome, Carter has a prospective one to avert. It may be harder because it lies in the future and inclinations are to meet only problems that are immediate and cannot be avoided.

"But if national productivity fails much longer to meet people's demands, Carter in a few years will be blamed for not seeing what was coming and showing the way to a new New Deal."

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — As old-time residents of Rio de Janeiro look around the town they call the "City Marvelous" it sometimes seems as if the only famous landmarks left are Sugar Loaf and Corcovado's Statue of Christ.

Rio de Janeiro was once a leisurely city of trolley cars, sidewalk cafes, second-hand bookstores and elegant, graceful buildings of two and three stories which dated from the 18th and 19th centuries. Today all but two trolley lines have disappeared and buses belch diesel fumes in the faces of patrons of the sidewalk cafes.

A spokesman for the mayor's office, Ayrton Torquato, said he estimated about 80 per cent of downtown Rio has changed completely in the last 20 years. There are no figures on the number of stately old buildings demolished and replaced by skyscrapers. But he said newspapers continually carry counts of famous restaurants or old bookstores wiped out by the path of progress.

Replacements include the $2 million city Cathedral, a 282-foot-high structure shaped like a rounded pyramid, and the starkly modern office building which houses petrobras, Brazil's state oil monopoly.

Many famous and beautiful old buildings as well as parks have been demolished because they lie in the path of the city subway, now under construction. Subway construction has so upset life in the "City Marvelous" that it has become the theme of a television soap opera called "Two Lives." The soap opera deals with the problems of shopkeepers and apartment owners of limited resources who must move because of subway construction.

The path of the Rio subway most often resembles the path of low level bombers—gaping holes and piles of rubble. But in Rio, citizens shrug; something is almost always under construction and residents are used to finding streets and sidewalks blocked by boards and confusing wooden walkways that resemble a children's game or a rat maze, where once a tree lined avenue existed.

One of Rio's most famous spots was Cinelandia, where the best movie theaters were located along with sidewalk cafes and bars like the Amarelho. Musicians, composers and singers used to gather there. It was a peaceful, popular area graced by Portuguese mosaic sidewalks.

Then came the subway and Cinelandia disappeared for three years in gaping hole and jangling guitars were replaced by the thud of the pile driver.

Construction was at last completed in October 1976 and a new Cinelandia emerged. To old-time residents it's just not the same but newcomers find it a cheerful place of broad flower beds and replicas of old-fashioned street lamps. Pigeons flock there and children play.

The movie theaters continue and their customers who stop afterward for a cold beer at an outdoor cafe have an excellent view of the remaining grand old buildings on the Avenida

Rio Branco, Rio's main downtown street. These are the Municipal Theater, the National Library and Museum — which are lit by floodlights at night. The fine old Palacio Monroe, a structure which served as the seat of the Federal Senate before Brasilia replaced Rio as the nation's capital, was recently demolished, however, to be replaced by a park.

The Galeria Cruzeiro, where there was once a conception of bars and restaurants at a stop for trolley cars, is today only a memory. A 40-story building stands there now.

CHANGING SCENE—Sugar Loaf Mountain, in distance behind replicas of old street lamps at the new Cinelandia, is one of few remaining landmarks in modern Rio de Janeiro.

Dinner Theater Production Set

A Springtime Festival of Musical Comedy Nostalgia is the title of the final Dinner Theater production to be held in Mendenhall Student Center, East Carolina University.

The four performances will begin nightly at 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 5 and continue through Sunday, May 8. Dinner for the first three performances will be at 7 p.m. with curtain time at 8 p.m. The Sunday dinner begins at 5 p.m. with the performance at 6 p.m.

Featured in the production are singers Claire Hurley, Treva Tankard and David Faber; pianist Paul Tardif, and narrator James Rees. Stuart Aronson is director.

Some of the most memorable songs from musicals of the past 20 years will be included in the cabaret-style presentation.

The buffet menu will consist of stuffed whole trout, Shish kebabs, stuffed tomatoes, wild rice, Chinese vegetables, squash casserole, macedoine of fruits and freshly baked bread.

Tickets for the dinner and production are $7.50 each. Early purchase is recommended, as seating is limited to 100 places.

Tickets are available from the ECU Central Ticket Office, Mendenhall Student Center, and must be purchased at least 24 hours in advance of the performance. Tickets for Saturday and Sunday must be purchased by 4 p.m. Friday. Further information is available from the Central Ticket Office, 757-6611, extension 266.

Six Receive Voice Honors

Six voice majors from the School of Music, East Carolina University, recently received honors at a regional vocal competition sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

Beth Marshburn Bell of Wilmington, placed first in the auditions, and Joyce Ford of Travelers Rest, S.C., placed second, both in the graduate student division.

In the senior student division, ECU senior Katherine Griffin of Charlotte won first place, with third place awards going to Vickie Holland of Raleigh and William White of Woodbine, Iowa.

Steve Wallace of Marshallberg received third place in the sophomore division.

The ECU winners were among students of 67 voice teachers from the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C. competing in the event held at Meredith College in Raleigh.

Shigekawa Has 'Dirt Band' On TV Show Time

JOAN SHIGEKAWA, on approaching industry executives for programs of interest to women, is generally told that "target audience" shows are not marketable. (AP Wirephoto)

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When television producer Joan Shigekawa approaches industry executives with ideas for programs of interest to women, she is generally told that "target audience" shows are not marketable.

Noting that the majority of the U.S. population is female and the majority of the U.S. television viewing audience is female, Ms. Shigekawa asks: "Why is the female population considered a target audience? Why aren't men the target?" In fact, most television programming is aimed directly at the minority of the viewing audience — men, Ms. Shigekawa says. There is a need for programming aimed at women and there is a market for programs of interest to women, she says, but such programs rarely get on the air because industry executives and sponsors are mostly male.

Since 1973, Ms. Shigekawa, 40, has been executive producer of a Public Broadcasting Service series, "Woman Alive!" It began as a series of hour-long documentaries on topics of interest to women. Although the programs were well-received by viewers, financing became a problem in the second season and the series was cut back to half-hour programs.

This year, Ms. Shigekawa proposed a series of 12 hour-long documentaries, with funding of $2.2 million. But the $2.2 million she hoped to raise from various corporations and foundations which sponsor other PBS programs was not to be found.

"Most of them said, 'Gee, this looks interesting, but we'll have to pass.' The reason they always gave was that money was tight and they were all filled up on their commitments. 'But we found out later, of course, that corporations have such a poor record in their own treatment of females that they couldn't very well put money into sponsoring programs with feminist themes,' Ms. Shigekawa said in a recent interview.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting and Ms. magazine eventually provided funding for the series, but only on a limited basis — enough for just five hour-long documentaries at about $60,000 each.

With the limited amount of money available, Ms. Shigekawa decided to distribute it to as many women as possible, so she assigned five different women to produce films for the series.

The first program was broadcast April 8 on public television stations across the country. The second and third programs dealt with how the feminist movement has changed the lives of some women.

By JIM SPEHAR
Associated Press Writer
DENVER (AP) — The Dirt Band, which has played before audiences throughout the nation, is taking its blend of rock, bluegrass and country music on the Tbilisi, Yerevan and Riga circuit.

The band will arrive in Moscow on Saturday for a 28-day, 24-concert schedule, the first American rock 'n' roll group to tour the Soviet Union.

"We've been told people over there are very subdued, not laid back, but restricted," said John McEuen, the band's bearded banjo player. "Here, we go out and hit a few bars of 'Cosmic Cowboy' and people know what it is. That won't be true (in Russia)."

The Colorado-based band, formerly known as the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, includes among its hits "Buy For Me the Rain," "Mr. Bojangles," and the album, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?"

Soviet officials have printed programs with lyrics to all the songs to be performed during the two-hour concerts.

McEuen said the lyrics to "The Battle of New Orleans," in Russian. Translation of another Dirt Band song, the Cajun classic "Diggy Liggy Li," could be even more difficult, he said.

The tour is sponsored by the State Department's Office of International Arts Affairs.

Other rock groups such as Chicago and The Doobie Brothers were considered for the tour, a State Department spokeswoman said. But The Dirt Band was chosen because it plays "a blend of sounds the Soviets would like to hear. A harder rock group would be very difficult to present in the Soviet Union at this time," she said.

McEuen and three band members left Denver Tuesday for briefings in Washington. With them was singer Jan Garrett of another Colorado group, Liberty, who is making the tour because the Soviets asked for a female vocalist. Another Dirt Band regular, Jackie Clark, will join the group in Washington.

After performances in Moscow, the band will appear in Tbilisi, Yerevan, Riga and Leningrad before returning home May 25.

Between concerts, McEuen said, the band members hope to make a record in Russia, do a television show in Moscow, and present seminars on American pop music at universities and conservatories.

APPEARING TOGETHER — Entertainers Sonny and Cher pose in their dressing room at the Westbury N.Y. Music Fair. The couple are currently on their first tandem tour since they were divorced. Speculation in the entertainment world suggests they'll be getting together again in private, as well. (AP Wirephoto)

Name Deters Employers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — "Many times I've been sitting in the office of the work-release officials who were discussing the possibility of hiring me for a job with an employer," said the young inmate, "and the minute my name was mentioned, the person on the other end of the line hung up the phone."

Joan Little, 22, who was acquitted nearly two years ago in a sensational murder trial has found her notoriety hard to live down.

Miss Little said she killed Clarence Alligood, a white Beaufort County jailer, in self defense after a sexual assault.

She currently is serving a seven-year sentence at the state women's prison for breaking and entering. A chance to shorten her sentence is at stake.

"I was turned down for parole and I stand a chance of being turned down again unless I can be placed in a minimum prison watch system such as the work-release program," she said in an interview.

"Employers are not giving reasons for rejecting her for a job," said prison administrator Louis Powell. "They don't say that she's not qualified for the position. They just reject her."

"She has a high school diploma, typing skills, general office skills and construction skills," he continued.

"Of course they wouldn't say they won't hire me because of my name," Miss Little said. "Instead, they use such things as 'no experience' to turn me down."

CONSIDERS RUNNING
DOWNTOWN, Pa. (AP) — David Eisenhower says he has been considering running for public office but hasn't made any plans yet. The son-in-law of former President Richard Nixon said Tuesday the idea of running for office "has been in the back of my mind."

Opening lead: King of ♠.

When you have a choice of suits to develop, there are times when it is pure guesswork which to attack first. But sometimes you can improve your chances slightly. Consider this hand.

Despite East's interference, North-South bid smoothly to three no trump. When partner could respond freely, North felt his hand merited a move toward game, and South accepted with alacrity.

West led the king of hearts, won by dummy's ace. Since he had to develop tricks in both minors, declarer led a diamond to his jack and West's ace. The heart continuation forced out declarer's remaining stopper; and when East got in with the ace of clubs he had more than enough hearts to cash to defeat the contract. "Sorry partner, I am a poor guesser," apologized South. "Had I played on clubs first, I would have knocked out East's entry and made my contract."

"Too bad you tried to guess," observed North. "If you had played the hand better, you would have made your contract no matter which suit you tackled first!" North's analysis was accurate. If East held both minor aces for his overall, the contract would always go down. However, if he held only one ace and a six-card heart suit, which was a distinct possibility once West showed up with the king of hearts, the contract could always be made.

All South had to do was hold up the ace of hearts at the first trick! West will continue the suit to dummy's ace. Now let us assume that declarer guesses wrong and leads a diamond. West wins the ace, but he does not have another heart to lead. When East does get in with the ace of clubs, he can knock out declarer's remaining heart stopper, but declarer has nine sure tricks and can safely take the spade finesse at the end for a tenth.

Public TV Sets Funds Appeal

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state's public television station, UNC-TV, beset by spiraling costs and unable to coax more money from the General Assembly, plans its first public appeal for donations next week.

Station officials predict a deficit of $100,000 before the season ends some time this summer.

A telethon begins at 10 p.m. Sunday night immediately following the concluding chapter of "Upstairs, Downstairs," a special edition that will be used for fund-raising efforts at public television stations around the country.

Friends of the University Network Television will man 24 phones at North Carolina State University during the telethon.

Nixon's Watergate Silence Ends Wednesday

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's public silence on Watergate will end next Wednesday, after exactly 1,000 days.

In the first of four taped interviews for May Nixon the citizen will accept questions that Nixon the president turned away. What revelations result from the 90-minute program is known only to its participants — and they will say only that "it's exceedingly dramatic."

Interviewer David Frost, who reportedly paid the former president $600,000, says, "I believe viewers will feel that this confrontation tests the Nixon accounting of Watergate the way and with the intensity that it should be tested."

Nixon last referred to Watergate in public on Aug. 8, 1974, when he announced his resignation. By accident or design, the interval adds to 1,000 days.

Frost, a personality on British and American television, shuffled the four programs around to begin with Watergate.

"We decided to put the Watergate show first because it's extremely dramatic and it's necessary to have the air cleared on Watergate to consider equally important and less controversial aspects of his presidency," says C. Robert Zelnick, a member of Frost's staff.

"From the beginning, we regarded as one of our missions ... to ask questions that might have been asked had not President Ford pardoned him a month after he left office."

Nixon resigned saying that Watergate had cost him the support of Congress and that to fight "for my personal vindication" would absorb all his time. The pardon for any and all crimes during his 5½-year presidency foreclosed any subsequent prosecution.

Zelnick, supervising a three-man team of researchers for the Frost interviews, said Watergate was saved for last in the 11 non-consecutive days of interviews at a private home near Nixon's own San Clemente, Calif., residence.

"A very rigorous interrogation on alleged abuse areas could conceivably have affected our relationship in other areas," he said.

He said the Watergate portion "will be as dramatic an hour and a half of television as anything I have ever seen on the screen."

Failing to sell the interviews to the three national networks, Frost assembled what he calls

"an overnight network" of 138 individual stations. National sponsors will pay $125,000 a minute for commercials — six each show. The individual stations will have another six minutes of each program to sell locally.

Nixon was told the subject matter in advance of each taping, but got no preview of the actual questions. He had no control over the programs, Zelnick said, adding:

"Nixon will see the finished product when he turns on the TV set on May 4."

The second program on May 12 will deal with big power relations, the SALT talks, détente, the 1973 Middle East war, Chile and Henry Kissinger. The third, May 19, will be on Vietnam, the dissent against the war, the politics of polarization.

May Vote Thursday On UNC Bd. Of Governors

RALEIGH (AP) — Twenty-seven persons, including seven incumbents, were nominated to fill 10 vacancies on the University of North Carolina Board of Governors during a joint Senate-House session Tuesday.

The Senate and House, in separate sessions, each will elect five board members, possibly Thursday.

In addition to 25 persons recommended by the House and Senate board of governors committees, the list of those nominated at the joint session included two persons nominated from the floor — Durham attorney Victor S. Bryant and Grace S. Epps of Lumberton.

Bryant, who has served on the board for many years, and Mrs. Epps were nominated as at-large candidates for two-year-terms.

Incumbents nominated in addition to Bryant were George Watts Hill of Durham, Wallace Hyde of Asheville, Betty McCain of Wilson, Reginald McCoy of Laurinburg, Maceo Sloan of Durham and Thomas J. White of Kinston.

Nominated as at-large candidates for eight-year terms were Hyde, Furman Bodenheimer of Cary, Victor W. Dawson of Fayetteville, Charles Z. Flack of Forest City, Felix Harvey of Kinston, James E. Holmes of Winston-Salem, George R. Little of Elizabeth City, Jimmy L. Love of Sanford, McCoy, Lennox P. McLendon of Greensboro, William D. Mills of Maysville, Clint Newton of Shelby and William Staton of Sanford.

Nominated as at-large candidates for four-year terms were Hill and White, and as at-large candidates for two-year terms in addition to Bryant and Mrs. Epps were Lennox Cooper of Wilmington, Robert L. Jones of Raleigh and John Vaughn of Wadland.

Nominated as female candidates for eight-year terms were Kathleen Chitty of Raleigh and Mrs. McCain; as minority race members for eight-year terms were Adolph Dial of Pembroke and Sloan; and as minority party members for eight-year terms were Laurence A. Cobb of Charlotte, William C. Haase of Kenly and Harvey A. Jonas of Lincoln.

Savings Bond Sales Keeping A Record Pace

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pitt County amounted to $199,858 during the first quarter of 1977, it was reported by R. W. Howard, county volunteer chairman.

Howard said that the first quarter figures represented 21.5 per cent of the county's overall goal for the year of $930,620.

Sales of savings bonds in the state during the first quarter of the year were the highest on record since the War Loan days of 1945, he added. Series E and H sales were $27,918,142, which is 6.5 per cent above a year ago and 23.7 per cent of the state dollar goal of $117,800,000.

Nationally, total cash sales of both series for the first three months of 1977 amounted to $2,056,000,000, almost four per cent above the first quarter of last year.

Illegitimates' Rights Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Illegitimate children have the same rights as their legitimate brothers and sisters when it comes to inheriting estates for which no wills were left, the Supreme Court says.

The Court overturned on a 5-4 vote on Tuesday an Illinois law that said illegitimate children may inherit estates from their mothers but not their fathers in cases where there is no will.

The case came from the Illinois Supreme Court, which had ruled against a Chicago woman, Jessie Trimble, who was seeking to have her illegitimate daughter named heir to the estate of her father.

The child's father, Sherman Gordan, left only a car valued at $2,500 when he died three years ago. Gordan had lived with Miss Trimble for four years and had been ordered by a court to pay child support for their child.

The state supreme court said an Illinois law blocking such an inheritance was valid because the state has an interest in promoting legitimate family relations.

But the U.S. Supreme Court said the state law is invalid because it "cannot be squared" with the Constitution's equal protection guarantee.

Twenty other states have laws similar to the Illinois statute, which says illegitimate children may inherit estates from their mothers but not their fathers in cases where there is no will.

In a separate case involving equal protection, the court ruled on a 6-3 decision that federal immigration law may treat illegitimate children and their fathers differently from illegitimate children and their mothers.

The law permits an unmarried woman or her child to enter the United States without obtaining a quota number or a labor certification from immigration officials.

Belk Probe Is 'Routine'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tax officials in Mecklenburg and Alamance counties, following the Internal Revenue Service's lead, will investigate alleged tax law violations within the 400-branched Belk department store group.

"At this point it's a routine investigation," said Robert P. Alexander, Mecklenburg County tax supervisor. "If we find something, we may go to a full-blown one. It may take several weeks to get into it."

"We will look into this, absolutely," said Gil Rascoe, Alexander's counterpart in Alamance County. "When we hear something like this, we want to know if we are being short-changed."

IRS officials confirmed earlier this week that the Belk group, headed by Charlotte Mayor John Belk, was being investigated. Belk has denied knowledge of an investigation or any wrongdoing, but has pledged full cooperation in the probe, if asked.

The Associated Press learned the allegations included devaluation of inventories and manipulation of tax-exempt trust funds to avoid taxes.

"If this didn't involve Belk's Stores and the mayor, I don't think anything would have been made of it," said Alexander. "It's premature to say anything is wrong here."

ECU's Delegate To Conference

Randy D. Doub was a delegate from East Carolina University recently to the U.S. Naval Academy's 17th annual Foreign Affairs Conference in Annapolis, Md.

Doub presented a paper on "Energy Demands of the United States and the Socialist World."

Approximately 175 student delegates representing 150 colleges and universities participated in the four-day conference, which attracted representatives from government, the academic world, industry and the diplomatic corps from nearby Washington, D.C.

Pitt Sales Tax Collection 'Up'

Local sales and use tax collections in Pitt County during March totaled $177,554, according to figures reported by Mark G. Lynch, Secretary of the State Department of Revenue.

The March figure compared with $168,975 reported for February in the county.

Totals for March and February in several neighboring counties included: Beaufort, $79,015, $79,140; Edgecombe, $86,901, $84,548; Greene, $11,624, $12,430; Lenoir, $119,769, $137,707; Martin, $42,856, $48,578; and Wilson, $134,850, $136,114.

Total collections for the 96 participating counties in March amounted to $10,555,570, compared with $9,957,936 reported for February.

Carter Finds 'Peace With Congress' Difficult

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter came to Washington as an outsider.

In his dealings with Congress, he has been unwilling to conform to the traditional ways of winning Capitol Hill support for White House programs.

As a result he's finding it difficult to keep his campaign promise to end the mood of confrontation that developed between the White House and the Democratic Congress during the brief presidency of Gerald R. Ford.

After his first 100 days, Carter has a formidable list of legislation pending before Congress. And he has an equally impressive record of stepping on congressional toes, a record that could cost him crucial votes as he seeks approval of his proposals to deal with the economy and the energy crisis.

With Congress overwhelmingly Democratic, many expected the first Democratic president in eight years to win quick approval for whatever programs he submitted.

It hasn't worked that way. When his economic stimulus program emerges from Congress far later than Carter had hoped, it will look far different than what he requested. The energy proposals he outlined last week in his first address to a joint session of Congress also face problems and aren't likely to emerge intact.

The Carter style isn't the only source of his congressional problems. Many members of Congress feel the legislative branch of government surrendered much of its authority to Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon, recovering it only after the Watergate scandal.

"All the decisions shouldn't be made in the White House," said Sen. Alan Cranston of California, assistant Democratic leader of the Senate.

Cranston has been one of Carter's strongest supporters in Congress. Nonetheless, he said "Congress has a constitutional responsibility to slow down and rethink executive decisions."

"We certainly don't want one-man rule. We had a drift in that direction for a while. Congress is now making certain that drift doesn't start once again just because we have a Democratic president for a change," Cranston said.

Many congressional Democrats didn't know what to make of Carter after he came out of nowhere to win the party's presidential nomination. But one thing they understood quite clearly: he was a winner.

And so, between November and January, congressional elders marched to Plains, Ga., to get to know the president-elect and trade ideas on how to boost, quickly, what all agreed was a lagging economy. They also got commitments from Carter that he would consult with Congress on foreign policy.

Those early meetings included such symbolic gestures of cooperation as giving members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee his unlisted telephone number in Plains and promising he'd always answer their calls.

No Problem To High IQ

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — If seven belly dancers can lose 20 pounds altogether in eight hours of dancing, how many more belly dancers would be needed to lose a total of 20 pounds in only four hours, providing the new dancers shed weight only half as fast as the original?

If you came up with the answer 14, you're smart or you guessed.

If you're smart you may qualify for membership in Mensa, one of the most exclusive clubs in the world. And if you only guessed the answer, don't worry; even Mensa members downplay the exalted deference often given to this type of problem-solving intelligence.

To become a Mensa member, you have to take an intelligence quotient test to prove you have an I.Q. higher than 130 — an intelligence level representing only 2 per cent of the population.

"It's not the sort of thing you like to advertise to your friends," says Mensa member Kenneth Moore of Sheffield Lake: some of them might resent you for it. He explains that intelligence — the raw analytic ability to solve problems — is a gift one is born with and has little to do with wisdom or happiness or creativity.

Moore considers himself an average guy who happens to have a high I.Q. He likes to play war games, he reads physics books and he's mad about Flash Gordon. He was graduated from college with a B average.

Other members in the area said they took the test as a challenge. Passing it was an ego booster to some. But most tended to downgrade the achievement.

"Really, it's just a character trait," said Juanita Scott of Vermillion, "like being a tall person, not something you do for yourself."

The first sign that Carter wouldn't have it all his way with Congress came even before he moved into the White House.

The president-elect said he planned to name Theodore Sorensen director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Heavy opposition developed to the nomination and Sorensen asked Carter to withdraw his name from consideration.

A similar campaign followed the choice of Paul C. Warnke as chief U.S. disarmament negotiator.

Warnke's opponents argued that he would be too willing to concede to the Soviets and, although Warnke was confirmed, the margin was less than the two-thirds Senate majority that would be needed to ratify any disarmament treaty.

The music had hardly ended at the Carter inaugural balls when the new President got into hot water with Democratic leaders in both houses.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia complained that he wasn't being consulted and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill was enraged when the first two Massachusetts residents to receive presidential appointments were Republicans.

Carter publicly acknowledged he had made some mistakes in dealing with Congress and promised to do better.

Things went well for a while. The new President got quick congressional approval of emergency authority to alleviate the natural gas crisis.

He also got power he wanted to reorganize government agencies.

But then more problems arose.

He submitted his economic stimulus program to Congress. The House acted quickly to approve the public works jobs bill and the tax program, including the $50 rebate.

Then Congress learned that the administration was reviewing a number of water projects and that Carter was inclined to cancel money for most if not all of them.

While opposed by environmentalists as economically or ecologically unsound, the projects were dear to the hearts of a lot of congressmen.

The list of endangered projects grew to 30. Eventually the White House completed its review and announced that 15 projects would be scrapped. The funds would be cut for five others.

While Carter was making enemies on Capitol Hill with his handling of the water projects, his rebate plan was rapidly losing support.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, suggested the President would have fared better with his tax bill if he had waited a while before taking action against the water projects.

Long said Carter could still attract the congressional votes he needed if he were willing to make certain that particular water projects survived the administration review. Long was recommending the kind of horse trading that has taken place in Washington since the Republic was founded.

But Carter doesn't operate that way. "I think he's uncomfortable with trades and wheeling and dealing. . . . He thinks that issues should be dealt with one after another, each on its merits," said Cranston.

In an abrupt turnaround, Carter withdrew the rebate after many members of Congress had gone out on a limb to support it.

One was Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

It was all too characteristic of Carter's congressional relations. Ullman, who hadn't known Carter was considering dropping the rebate, learned about the decision on a radio newscast.

Erasable Books For Children

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Modern technology has caught up with the coloring book. A new series of books features heavily coated pages that can be erased like a blackboard after being colored with chalk. The books are designed to teach word, number and symbol recognition through pictures, games and stories.

Want Praise, Not A Dinner

NEW YORK (UPI) — What do secretaries want most from their employers?

International Management reports that in order of importance it's praise, attentiveness and small gifts, such as flowers and chocolates.

The McGraw-Hill magazine cites a survey taken of 153 secretaries in West Germany.

Jean Werner Sommer, a psychologist who conducted the survey, said that it showed that praise and recognition from the boss can be more important to a secretary than a pay raise.

Only two of the secretaries surveyed liked her boss because he took her to dinner.

Book Collection On Africa For Nigeria School

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The world's largest private collection of books on Africans and their descendants outside the continent, put together by former New York advertising executive Clarence Holte, has been sold to a Nigerian university for $625,000.

The 8,000 books in the collection were recently on display at the second World Black and African Festival of Arts and Culture here. At its conclusion they were crated to be sent to their permanent new home at the Ahmadu Bello University in the northern Nigerian city of Zaria.

As visitors to the exhibition inspected his collection, which represents a labor of love stretching back about 40 years, Holte said he had no regrets that it is not remaining in the United States.

"For years I have thought it belonged to Africa," he said, "but it was only a dream that it would become reality."

"Their resources are so much more limited than ours in the States. My hope has always been that the collection would be developed by a university in the continent that would be a prime location for the study in depth of the black man."

At present, says Holte, himself a black American, there is far more research being done in the United States than elsewhere in the world.

The international secretariat organizing the festival paid $100,000 in air freight, air fare, cataloging and packaging charges to bring Holte, his family and collection to Lagos.

The original intention, says Holte, was for the secretariat to purchase its own library especially for the event or to borrow selected editions from participating countries. Neither ideas feasible.

It was then that Nigerian novelist and playwright Wole Soyinka, who was familiar with Holte's collection, suggested it should be brought from his five-room apartment in Washington Heights, N.Y.

"They approached me and I agreed," said Holte. "They also financed the cataloging, which had never been done thoroughly before although several attempts were made."

There is a certain poetic justice in the fact that the collection finds its new home in Nigeria. For it was a friendship Holte struck up with a Nigerian at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania when they were both students in the 1930s that first prompted him to systematically collect books on blacks.

"The student was the first African I had come in contact with," said Holte. "I wanted to know as much as possible about him, about his family and his tribe, and I repeatedly questioned him."

"Then one day he turned the tables on me and started asking me questions about the history of black Americans. I was embarrassed because I found I could only go to a certain point before running out of answers."

Holte started searching out books by and about black Americans from the local library.

"The more I read," he said, "the more my thirst became and after leaving Lincoln I started assembling what could be called a reading collection."

Holte also sees his collection as helping to combat the view of some whites that there has been no African civilization because there were no written African languages and consequently no African history and literature before white intervention in the continent.

He has paid for his collection entirely out of his own earnings and has a network of book-selling contacts in America, Africa and Europe who bring choice editions to his notice.

"A collection of this type could not be put together again," says Holte. "Most of the books are out of print and some are 300 years old."

Although Holte's 8,000 volumes will never return to his flat in New York, he will not be without an African library. "I have an ancillary collection of 3,000 volumes," he says, "although it doesn't have the gems of this collection."

New President At Georgetown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown University has inaugurated the Rev. Timothy S. Healy, S.J., as the 46th president of the nation's oldest Catholic institution of higher learning.

Before coming to Georgetown, Father Healy, 53, served as Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs at the City University of New York and as Executive Vice President at Fordham University. He succeeds the Rev. H.J. Henle, S.J., who resigned from the presidency after serving for seven years.

New Method Of Fuel-Saving

CHICAGO (UPI) — A new method of reenergizing used steam is providing substantial fuel saving for industry. According to Ecodyne Corporation, the method, called vapor recompression, is saving Fleischmans Standard Brands, a Kentucky-based distiller, $140,000 per year in fuel costs for their waste treatment operation. Vapor recompression eliminates the need for producing an extra 10,000 lbs. per hour of steam.

Food Service Industry Grows

CHICAGO (UPI) — Americans are expected to spend two out of every five food dollars on food away from home by 1980, says the National Restaurant Association, predicting a 12.5 per cent sales growth in the food service industry this year. Americans currently spend one out of every three food dollars away from home, the association says. Of the 12.5 per cent sales growth forecast for 1977, about 6.5 per cent will reflect higher menu costs and the remainder will represent real growth for the food service industry.

Fast-food establishments again are expected to lead the industry, with the fastest growth rate, followed by restaurants and lunchrooms, which make up the largest number of American eating places.

Cruising, A Way Of Life

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
 Associated Press Writer
 SUVA, Fiji (AP) — A New Zealand couple and eight crewmen recently paddled a home-made canoe 2,000 miles from the Gilbert Islands to this South Pacific island. They were arrested on a charge of illegal entry when they arrived.

Fiji and other South Pacific islands are tightening up on what they regard as wandering gypsies of the sea — the rising number of yachtsmen cruising the ocean in craft that range from 25-foot, single-handed sloops to 100-foot, floating apartments with air conditioning.

The island governments are particularly tough in searching for drugs, although they rarely find any.

In Fiji, the authorities have also insisted that the yachtsmen — called "yachties" or "shippies" — go through port and immigration formalities before cruising to the outlying islands. This can take a yachtie 1,000 miles out of his way just to get his passport stamped.

In September and October Suva is like a yachtie's convention center with more than 100 yachts of a dozen different nationalities readying to up anchor and sail on to Australia and New Zealand or return to the United States before the hurricane season starts in November.

No one knows exactly how many yachts cruise the Pacific at any one time but estimates range between 500 to 1,000.

For many the fascination of cruising the Pacific has long since worn off. Gossips in anchorages across the Pacific tell of broken marriages, failed love affairs and ruptured friendships.

"Sailing is the most expensive way of traveling third class I know of" is a common gripe among yachties.

But for others, like Jeff Munger, 32, of Rumson, N.J., it is a way of life.

"Sure, there are some nights when it's blowing and you're up there hauling in sail and you say to yourself why the hell aren't I like my brother living on a farm in Vermont. At least his bed doesn't move," said the former stockbroker, who skips "Affair," a 60-foot, Hong Kong-built, Chicago-registered yawl.

"But you make up for it in places like Bora Bora. Boy, that's paradise!"

Munger, owner Theo Spector and three others, including a young Granadian boy, have been sailing for three years on a round-the-world voyage. They left Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in December 1973, cruised the Caribbean, sailed through the Panama Canal, the Marquesas, Tahiti, Samoa, Tonga and Fiji.

From here, "Affair" is heading south to Australia before continuing on through Southeast Asia, and then to the Suez Canal for the Mediterranean.

Yachties form a fraternity of the sea. They meet one another in distant ports, talk about storms, ports of call they liked and places to get supplies at the cheapest price.

They keep in touch at sea on a ham radio network, coordinated out of Port Vila in the New Hebrides by a New Zealander known only as Robbie. Robbie, call sign YJBN, runs a ham service known as the "Mickey Mouse Net" purely for the fun of it.

He plots positions of yachts, handles distress calls and often arranges for urgent spare parts to be flown to disabled boats.

Yachties also stay in touch through the yachting news column of the respected news magazine, Pacific Island Monthly, which runs two pages of movements of cruising yachts.

But all is not plain sailing. Many yachts are lost on the lonely coral reefs of the Pacific, high-seas dramas that rarely get reported.

Nor are the adventurous yachtsmen always welcome in their ports of call. "Most are very good, but some are a bit of a nuisance," says the manager of Suva waterfront Tradewinds Hotel, a rendezvous for hundreds of yachts each year. They pay $7.50 to moor and extra to use the pool, hot showers and laundry.

He has only one rule for yachties at the Tradewinds — they have to wear shoes.

Ireland Offers Study Programs

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 30 U.S. and Canadian educational institutions have organized summer study programs to Ireland. Many of the courses carry college credit and offer "living and learning" experiences in intercultural awareness, folklore, mythology, and Irish-American links, in addition to history and literature.

These North American-sponsored programs are operating in addition to a wide selection of traditional study programs available in Ireland, including the Yeats Summer School, the Merriman Summer School, Listowel Writers' Week, James Joyce Symposium, Trinity College Summer School and summer schools at University College in Dublin and Galway.

A complete list of all summer study opportunities in Ireland is available in "Ireland: Land of Learning 1977." For a free copy write the Irish Tourist Board, Department APT, Box 1200, Long Island City, New York 11101.

Windsurfing Promoted In Landlocked Oklahoma

By BRYAN MILLER
Associated Press Writer
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Surf Oklahoma! That's the message on David Grassbaugh's business card. He promotes a growing sport as ingenious as it is unlikely in this landlocked state.

ica, windsurfing uses a floating contraption that looks like an ironing board rigged with a sail.

The goal is to stand on the board — made of plastic with a foam interior — and pull the sail out of the water into a vertical position.

The rider holds the mast upright with the help of a wooden beam that spans the sail horizontally. If the rider doesn't plunge head first off the board trying, there's a good chance a gust of wind will send the craft skimming across the water. Speeds of 20 to 30 miles per hour are possible, "and I've heard lies about 40 m.p.h. in Hawaii," Grassbaugh says.

"All you need is water and wind, and Oklahoma has plenty of both," says Grassbaugh as he climbs into a full-length wetsuit on a blustery spring afternoon at Lake Thunderbird. "My dream is to make Oklahoma wind surfer heaven," he adds.

Today, when only the most intrepid sailors are cutting the whitecaps, Grassbaugh has surfer heaven to himself. He's teaching a young woman, also encased in black rubber, how to catch a ride.

Varied Camping Programs Set

A variety of camping opportunities will be offered this summer by the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina to meet the needs and interests of registered scouts, six to 17 years of age.

Resident camp will be held at Camp Pretty Pond, located on a small private lake 15 miles from Wilmington. Specialized programs this year include one week Brownie Units, July 10-July 15 and July 24-August 5, open to girls who have completed first, second and third grades. Horseback Riding Units, July 10-22 and July 24-August 5 will be offered in conjunction with Pine Ridge Riding Stables, Winnabow. An additional fee is charged for these units.

A Waterfront Unit, July 10-22 is available to girls who have completed the sixth grade or above. A small additional fee to cover the costs of a three day canoe trip will be charged. A Primitive Unit, June 26-July 8 is also available to girls who have completed sixth grade and above.

Two regular Girl Scout units are open to all girls, grades first through twelfth, June 26-July 8 and July 24-August 5.

The Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, a United Way Agency, operates the resident camp to provide Girl Scout program in the out of doors under the guidance of qualified staff experienced in their fields. Miss Betsey Lee Hodges, will serve as Camp Director.

"Now remember, the wind is where the dark spots are in the water. You can see it coming," the teacher says. "And don't go too far out, you'll never get back on a day like this."

Grassbaugh maintains most beginners can ride adequately after one day of practice. "That's part of the beauty of this. You don't have to be a super athlete to have a good time," he says. Grassbaugh's students range in age from 9 to 64.

After flopping into the icy lake in a few vain attempts to position the sail against strong winds, the struggling student qualifies that statement. "It's better to learn on a calm day," she says.

But Grassbaugh, the 1976 Midwest regional wind surfing champion and a participant in national competition, makes it look about as challenging as rowing a boat. Standing on the base, he tugs up the 56-square-foot sail and swooshes off, leaving behind a foamy wake and a small crowd of bemused spectators.

Introduced in this country at Marina Del Rey, Calif., in the late 1960s, wind surfing has been called "the purest form of sailing." There are windsurfers in every state, Grassbaugh says, but most of this country's estimated 9,000 participants are in California.

Windsurfing has taken off in Europe, where there are an estimated 45,000 enthusiasts, Grassbaugh says.

Therapy At Pool Table

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The old song goes that Pool hall starts with a "P" and that rhymes with "T" and that stands for Trouble. But counselors at Cumberland County's alcohol and drug abuse center say pool may be just what the doctor ordered.

Marilyn Blumenfeld, who heads a program called "recreational therapy," says pool and other indoor games have therapeutic value.

How can games like pool, air hockey, ping pong and foosball become therapy?

"A lot of clients are just like sheep," she said. "They are herded around and have stopped giving themselves permission to do something nice for themselves. We try to show them that everybody's got something to offer."

The games can be used to raise self esteem, improve coordination and restore powers of concentration to persons suffering from alcoholism or drug abuse, she said.

The games are used to help clients express their tempers and frustrations and experience some degree of accomplishment, she said, thereby abandoning their sheeplike behavior.

The program is not optional. Persons referred to the center for treatment must first agree to participate in the games at least two to six hours a week, she said.

TALL TANDEM — Car pooling has become popular in recent years, but bicycle pooling is a new idea. Rick Snell, 34, of Tempe, Ariz., put together some old parts and invented a different kind of bicycle built for two. Bob Hamill, 23, on the bottom, took a ride on the 10-foot high vehicle while Snell steered them through the neighborhood to demonstrate the vehicle tandem. (AP Wirephoto)

Seek Buyers For Crackers

DETROIT (AP) — Civil defense officials are asking if "Polly wants a cracker?" Or anyone else, for that matter.

They are stuck with 240,000 boxes of crackers, left from the 1960s when the federal government stocked 600 Detroit-area nuclear fallout shelters with provisions.

The 5 million pounds of crackers have since outlived their shelf life. In other words, they are rancid or stale.

Civil defense officials say some will be used to feed squirrels and deer, but the rest are being offered to chicken farmers or anyone else willing to pick them up.

In addition to the crackers, the provisions included hard candy.

The candy is still good, although somewhat tasteless by now, authorities said.

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on roll call votes between Apr. 18, when the Easter recess ended, and Apr. 20.

HOUSE
EXPORTS — Passed, 364 for and 43 against, a bill (HR 5840) amending the Export Administration Act and authorizing $14 million through fiscal 1979 for the Commerce Department's export operations. It was sent to the Senate.

The bill simplifies and modernizes the rules by which the Commerce Department licenses — and thus controls — exports by U. S. concerns. The bill in part establishes exporting as a "right" rather than a "privilege," and diminishes the importance of whether a receiving country is Communist.

Most contested was its prohibition against U. S. exporting firms' compliance with the Arab economic boycott of Israel. Although not mentioning any country by name, the bill makes it illegal for U. S. firms to comply with certain anti-Israel terms set by the Arabs.

Rep. Jonathan Bingham (D-N.Y.), a supporter, said it seeks to "remove American firms from the web of the boycott by requiring them to refuse to comply." He said it preserves the principle that "American firms should be free to do business wherever they wish without outside political pressures and constraints."

Rep. Robert Michel (R-Ill.), an opponent, said the bill would diminish sales of exporters and thus cost many jobs. "I do not understand a morality that demands hundreds of thousands of families all across this nation be faced with the distinct possibility of having a breadwinner unemployed in order to satisfy somebody else's allegedly higher moral views," he said.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Charles Whitley (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. C. Hefner (D-8), James Brodyhill (R-10) and Lamar Gudgeon (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. James Martin (R-9) did not vote.

ENVIRONMENT — Passed, 358 for and 31 against, a bill (HR 5101) funding the Environmental Protection Agency's research and development activities in the current fiscal year (FY 1978). The bill authorizes $288.1 million for EPA research in areas such as air and water quality, pesticides, and toxic substances and radiation. It increases R&D funding over the Administration's request of $261 million.

Rep. George Brown (D-Calif.) called the bill "a significant step in returning the EPA research program to a more adequate level of effort to provide the essential information to support EPA's other programs and decision-making."

Rep. Del Clawson (R-Calif.), an opponent, said: "The Environmental Protection Agency does not enjoy enthusiastic support on the part of some of us in this body, and the legislation does expand their R&D activities."

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Freyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Brodyhill and Gudgeon voted "yea."

SENATE
ABSENTEEISM — Agreed, 82 for and three against, to direct the Sergeant at Arms "to request the attendance of absent senators." This was the Senate's only record vote during the post-recess reporting period. It was held in an effort to get more senators to the floor during debate of the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea" and Sen. Robert Morgan (D) did not vote.

CHICKEN CHASER — This little long-tailed weasel, just 12 inches from tip to tail, looks innocent enough. But the little rascal is fast, fearless and ferocious, and has few farmers for friends. They can play havoc in a chicken pen in minutes.

They are native to south Texas and are tolerated by man because they are excellent "mousers". This one's home is Porter Zoo at Brownsville, Tex. (AP Wirephoto)

Homework Helpers On The Phone

By BRYAN MILLER
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) —
Some students here are spending a lot of time on the telephone weeknights — and their parents love it.

Ma Bell, which already serves as surrogate minister (Dial-a-Prayer), jester (Dial-a-Joke), botanist (Dial-a-Plant), and a variety of other functions, now helps fulfill another need: homework help.

Sponsored by the University Heights Branch YWCA, the "Homework Helpline" assists students who are struggling with Shakespeare, grappling with geometry or toiling through trigonometry.

Monday through Thursday, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., students from grades one through 12 can call a telephone number and talk to an operator who listens to their questions. The student then hangs up, and the operator telephones a volunteer on call who has knowledge of the subject. The volunteer then calls the student at home.

"It's an amazingly simple concept," says Chris Connell, director of the YWCA branch. The helpline has been open for about two months, and although the volume of calls has been sporadic — averaging six a night — Miss Connell is ringing with enthusiasm.

"Take, for instance, the night a boy called and said he was doing a biology project," she recalls, sitting in her bright yellow, poster-covered office. "He asked me, 'What happens when a frog hibernates?' I had no idea, but I found a teacher at Central State College who called him back. The boy called me later and said, 'Wow, thanks! I think I'm gonna' get an A.' Now that really makes me feel good."

Miss Connell emphasizes that the helpline is not an "instant answer line" for kids who could look up information themselves.

"We don't simply give out answers," she says. "The idea is that if a student can conceptualize his problem and verbalize it to someone else, that's part of the logical problem-solving process. We often throw the ball back at him and say, 'How would you go about finding the answer?'"

More than half the calls come from elementary school pupils, Miss Connell says, and the rest are from high schoolers and even some college students.

"We don't advertise for college students, and when they call we try to sign them up as volunteers," she adds.

Reactions from parents and teachers have been enthusiastic. "We had one little girl call three nights in a row," Miss Connell recalls. "And the fourth night her mother called and said: 'Thank God you're here.'" If a student calls repeatedly with problems, Miss Connell calls the child's parents to talk about possible tutorial help.

Most of the requests involve math and science. Have they ever been stumped? "Not yet," Miss Connell laughs. "But sometimes I've had to call people who are not volunteers in the program, but we always manage to find someone who knows."

Volunteers are as diverse as the questions they answer. They include high school and college teachers, students, retirees, natives of foreign countries for language questions and business people. The approximately 25 volunteers offer their services one or two nights a week for two hours.

City Restores Old Landmarks

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — This city's last link to its river front birthplace, where French fur traders Pierre Laclede and August Chouteau first landed in 1763, is being brought back to life.

About $7 million in public and private funds has already been committed to restore Laclede's Landing — a nine-square-block area with 54 historic buildings — to the Old World charm that flourished when St. Louis was a bustling steamboat port on the Mississippi River. More than half of the structures were built before 1884.

Raeder Place, a 103-year-old cast iron structure, is getting a $2 million restoration by private business interests headed by William E. Maritz, head of the non-profit Laclede's Landing Development Corp. The entire 22-acre site — located in the shadow of Gateway Arch in downtown St. Louis — has been declared an historic landmark district and placed on the national registry of historic places.
