

Approve Budget For City Schools

$11,801,738

A fiscal year 1977-78 budget of $11,801,738.19 for the Greenville City School was unanimously approved by members of the Greenville City School Board at a special called meeting Monday night. Of this overall amount, $7,722,488.19 is for current expense, and $4,079,250 is for capital outlay funds.

For the first time this year, under the provisions of "The Uniform Budget" for North Carolina Public Schools, all facets of a school budget, from whatever source, must be included in the annual budget request. This accounts for what at first glance may seem a tremendous increase in budget requests over previous years. The three major sources of funds not previously considered as a part of the budget proposal are funds from the State Public School Fund; Federal Grant Funds; and School Food Service Funds.

In addition, the $4,079,250 request for capital outlay funds reflects the inclusion of $3,000,000 in requested bond issue money, an amount subject to a favorable vote by the public at a later date.

A breakdown of major categories of funding requests (all figures are estimated) are:

— Local current expense fund — $2,813,643.80. (This figure represents an increase of $855,760 above the 1976-77 current expense fund. A substantial portion of this requested increase is to cover an approximate 11 per cent increase in professional salaries, and an approximate 25 per cent increase in non-professional salaries).

— State Public School Fund — $3,651,955.64. (These funds are deposited to a Greenville City School account in Raleigh. The school's bookkeeper writes checks against the account).

— Federal Grant Fund — $573,418.75. (Covers all the various Title Federal Funds as well as miscellaneous funds made available by recent legislation).

— School Food Service Fund — $683,470. (This amount includes salaries, repairs and maintenance of equipment and payment of utilities).

The request in capital outlay funds of $1,079,250 over and above the $3,000,000 bond issue money compares to a $620,000 capital outlay amount for the current 1976-77 school budget.

Basic items in the capital outlay request include proposed renovation, repair and additions to existing schools which total $614,000, as follows. (All due from county appropriations):

— Eastern Elementary School, $3,000 — For miscellaneous contracts.

— E. B. Aycock Junior High School, $6,000 — For miscellaneous contracts.

— Elmhurst Elementary School, $65,000—Heating contract and miscellaneous contracts.

— J. H. Rose High School, $305,000 — The county's portion of a total package of $1,265,000 for general contract, miscellaneous contract and site funds. (Site funds are for proposed athletic facilities).

— Sadie Sautler Elementary School, $45,000 — Land acquisition and site funds.

— South Greenville Elementary School, $60,000— $35,000 miscellaneous contracts and $25,000 site funds.

— Third Street Elementary School, $130,000— General contract work.

The $1,700,000 in funds needed to construct the second portion of the new Middle School is the major item scheduled to be funded by the $3,000,000 bond issue money if that becomes available.

The 1977-78 Greenville City Schools budget proposal will now go to the County Commissioners for their study and action.

Superintendent Glenn Cox announced that the 50 page budget document is available, beginning today, at the Central Office, 431 West Fifth Street. It can be studied by any interested person coming to the central office.

NATO Told Muscle Needed

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) —

President Carter told the NATO allies today Western Europe needs more military muscle because Communist forces are much stronger than they need to be to defend the Soviet Bloc.

Making his debut as the leader of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Carter told a special summit meeting of the alliance the United States is ready "to make a major effort" to improve NATO's strength, and he urged the other 14 members to join in.

Carter called for a committee of NATO defense ministers to study the military status of all alliance members and report at another summit meeting in Washington next May.

"The threat facing the alliance has grown steadily in recent years," Carter said. "The Soviet Union has achieved essential, strategic nuclear equivalents. Its (European) theater nuclear forces have been strengthened. The Warsaw Pact's conventional forces in Europe emphasize an offensive posture.

"These forces are much stronger than needed for any defense purpose. Since 1965, new ground and air weapons have been introduced in most major categories: self-propelled artillery, mobile tactical missiles, mobile air-defense guns, armored personnel carriers, tactical aircraft and tanks. The Pact's buildup continues undiminished."

The president indicated achievement of such goals as recognition of human rights, mutual troop reductions in Central Europe and nuclear arms agreements depends "on a credible defense and deterrent."

He urged the allies to do more to "improve cooperation in development, production and procurement" of weapons, saying they "should not be weakened militarily by waste and overlapping" nor "by disputes over where to buy defense equipment."

He promised U.S. cooperation in promoting "a genuinely twoway trans-Atlantic trade in defense equipment.

"I have instructed the secretary of defense to seek increased opportunities to buy European defense equipment where this would mean efficient use of allied resources," he said. "I will work with the Congress of the United States to this end."

Several NATO members, including the West Germans, have complained over the years that the United States has been unwilling to purchase their weapons and that its calls for standardization of equipment mean everyone should buy American.

Carter said relations between the West and the Communist bloc "must be guided both by a humane vision and by a sense of history."

"Our humane vision leads us to seek broad cooperation with Communist states for the good of mankind," he continued. "Our sense of history teaches us that we and the Soviet Union will continue to compete...."

U.S. Moves To Slash Its Own Defense Outlays

By FRED HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Defense Secretary Harold Brown is telling the armed services they may have to trim spending plans by $15 billion to $30 billion over a five-year period. Brown delivered the message as he laid down guidelines for spending for fiscal 1979, the first year for which the Carter administration will present its own budget and outline its own five-year defense program.

The first year's bite would cost the Army, Navy and Air Force departments about $1 billion to $2 billion each, with a similar curtailment annually for the succeeding four years, Pentagon sources estimate.

Even with such savings, Pentagon officials say, inflation and growth would make the fiscal 1979 defense budget bigger than projected spending of $120.4 billion for fiscal 1978.

The services will try to negotiate for more money for themselves in a long process that will culminate in a fiscal 1979 Carter defense budget reaching Congress next January. Fiscal 1979 will begin Oct. 1, 1978.

But service officials also are considering what steps to take if Brown holds them to less spending than they are planning under the five-year program approved during the Ford administration.

The services may be forced to stretch, or possibly drop, some weapons procurement programs, and perhaps reduce forces.

There were indications the Navy might delay production of its new F18 fighter plane for one or two years. Research and development work on advanced weapons might be pruned.

Some older ships might be retired earlier than scheduled and the money now used to run them could be shifted to improving the readiness of the remaining ships in the fleet. The number of planes in various types of naval air squadrons could be reduced, officials suggest.

The Army could delay mechanizing an additional infantry division, although officials say such a step would retard efforts to strengthen ground forces oriented toward defense of western Europe.

The Army's advanced attack helicopter project, already slowed, could be delayed further. So could the Army's problem-plagued program to build a new armored infantry assault vehicle, officials say.

The Air Force also is concerned about the future of some of its weapons programs if Brown pulls the purse string tighter.

Despite Brown's initial warning, the Carter administration could alter its plans on defense spending before making its recommendations to Congress next year.

School Consolidation Is Advised By State Panel

By SUSAN QUINN

LITTLEFIELD —

A study team from the Division of School Planning of the N.C. Department of Public Instruction presented a written and oral recommendation to the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council Monday night calling for the consolidation of the Ayden-Grifton Middle Schools.

The recommendation also suggested extending the Grifton attendance line closer to Ayden to allow the transfer of approximately 167 Ayden Elementary students to Grifton School.

Darrell Spencer, coordinator of the study, in presenting the recommendation to the advisory council, reminded the council members that the final decision must be made by the Pitt County Board of Education.

Other members of the planning team were Mrs. Karen Gullidge, and Eugene Cheatam, Educational Consultants of the Division of School Planning.

"We feel that the best plan for the schools involves consolidation and we strongly suggest educational specifications be made," Spencer said.

The study team presented four alternative plans to the advisory council. Each alternative showed the number of students presently enrolled at the Ayden Elementary School, Ayden Grammar School and Grifton School, as well as projected enrollment.

The first alternative called for the original plan that the board suggested, of building a new middle school for Ayden, a new classroom for Ayden Elementary School and leaving Grifton School as it is.

The second alternative called for moving the fifth grade of the Ayden Elementary School to the new Ayden Middle School and leaving Grifton School as it is.

The third alternative involved combining grades 6-8 at Ayden-Grifton, building additional classrooms at Ayden Elementary School, and leaving grades K-5 at Grifton School which would leave additional classroom space for about 150 students.

Alternate four, which the study team recommended as the best alternative, would allow for 475 students at Ayden Elementary School, 553 students at Ayden-Grifton Middle School and a capacity of 525 students at Grifton School.

According to the written recommendation, the study team did not feel that adequate middle school programs could be conducted at each of the two areas.

"After studying the pupil population projections, the facilities, and the educational programs, in the Ayden and Grifton areas, the Committee recommends Alternate IV. The committee does not feel that an adequate middle grades program can be provided for approximately 125 students per grade in the Ayden area or for approximately 65 students per grade in the Grifton area. The half-time art, general music, and band teachers at the two schools could become full-time teachers at the new middle school. With the additional local positions which are now available in Pitt County, itinerate art and music teachers could be provided at the Ayden and Grifton elementary schools."

The report also showed that population projections indicate a decline in enrollment during the next five years.

"According to the projections, the membership in grades K-5 in the Ayden and Grifton attendance areas will decline by approximately 100 students during the next five years. Assuming that the new middle school will be occupied no earlier than September of 1979, the K-5 membership will have declined to approximately 970 students, which is below the capacity of the two elementary schools."

Spencer explained prior to announcing the recommendation the different areas of study which the team considered.

"On November 10, Superintendent Alford sent a letter to Dr. Lacy Presnell, Director of the Division of School Planning requesting that a team be selected to conduct an objective study of the feasibility of the consolidation of the middle schools and offer a recommendation. On January 11 we came down and started our field work. We met with the superintendent and associate superintendent and visited the schools in the Ayden-Grifton area."

Jas. Bearden Qualifies As Bidder For Parcel

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. James Bearden was qualified as a bidder Monday evening on a parcel of land located next to Taft Furniture Company's Dickinson Avenue business.

The tract, designated as Disposal Parcel R-3, lies northeasterly from the furniture store and faces Sixth Street. It contains roughly 13,000 square feet.

Taft Furniture qualified in March as a bidder on the same parcel and indicated plans at that time to expand the firm's present facility if it is successful in purchasing the property.

Bearden, who did not attend last night's Redevelopment Commission meeting, proposes to develop the parcel with seven to eight small specialty shops totaling some 5,700 square feet, according to Kirby Boyd, the commission's real estate officer.

Boyd reported that Bearden planned to provide 15 parking spaces on the tract but would work with the furniture company in providing access to the Taft property off Evans Street.

Prior to the closing of Dickinson Avenue and development of Sixth Street through to Evans, Taft Furniture utilized a driveway entrance beside its store from Dickinson Avenue. The firm owns eight feet of the driveway abutting the disposal parcel.

The furniture store, which now uses Evans Street as its access point, would need continued access in order to provide for truck loading and unloading at the rear of the business.

Bid opening on the parcel is set for Monday, according to Boyd.

In other business during the brief meeting, the real estate officer told commissioners that no acquisition took place in the Central Business District since the April meeting and two structures were demolished.

Boyd said that one acquisition and one demolition took place in the Southside area while one acquisition and no demolition was reported in West Meadowbrook.

According to Boyd, no relocation activity occurred in the CBD during the month but two homeowners were relocated from Southside during the period. No relocations were reported in West Meadowbrook.

Ed Cobb, staff rehabilitation officer, noted that since the commission's last meeting, the rehabilitation of two properties, involving structures in Southside and Meadowbrook, were completed and a third rehabilitation of a structure in the Higgs section will be finished later this month.

Cobb said that bids will be taken on two rehabilitation grants and three loans on May 20.

Inspections in the Greenville Heights area are continuing by the city, he reported.

The board's executive director, Joe Laney, is in Asheville attending the annual meeting of the Carolinas Council of Housing, Redevelopment and Codes Officials. Laney is completing his term as president of the Council.

Patty Wins 5 Years Probation

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst has won five years probation on charges stemming from a 1974 shootout at Mel's Sporting Goods Store.

Some said Miss Hearst — who could have received 15½ years to life in prison — suffered enough, but the store owner says he was stunned by the sentence.

"I don't quite understand it. I don't think it's right, but what can you do?" said Carroll (Bill) Huett, 55. "It's very obvious (that she should have been jailed). If it had been one of us we would have. I was a little stunned to say the least," he said in an interview Monday after the sentence was announced.

In addition to probation, Superior Court Judge E. Talbot

Callister ordered the heiress to make financial restitution to Huett.

A report filed by Miss Hearst's probation investigator revealed that Huett is "extremely bitter and angry as to how this offense has affected his life and business."

Huett, who was struck in the arm by one of Miss Hearst's bullets, has filed a civil suit against Miss Hearst, the report said, but was unable to get past her bodyguards to serve a subpoena.

He has estimated damage to his store at $6,000.

During the sentencing hearing, Deputy Dist. Atty. Sam Mayerson said, "It would be wrong to satisfy those who say there is special treatment for the rich by punishing this defendant disproportionately."

Defense attorney Al Johnson, who became the 23-year-old Miss Hearst's close confidant, declared, "The consideration of her wealth and the name of her family worked against her every step of the way."

The judge, choosing leniency for Miss Hearst, who pleaded no contest to assault and robbery charges in the May 16, 1974, shooting spree, said, "I don't think there is a heart in America that isn't full of compassion for her parents."

Randolph and Catherine Hearst listened from a front row of the packed courtroom.

The slender Miss Hearst was silent and expressionless throughout the proceedings. "The only thing I heard that she said was, 'Thank you,'" reported Johnson.

The probation report also revealed that Miss Hearst is considering a job with Good Housekeeping Magazine, a Hearst family-owned publication.

The report noted that she was anticipating testifying against her former fugitive comrades, William and Emily Harris, when they stand trial for her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping.

Leonard Weinglass, the Harries' attorney, said "I am upset that there's been such obviously different treatment of the Harries and Patricia Hearst. ... I don't wish anyone into jail. I think the courts should follow humanitarian procedures. The problem is they only do it for the rich and powerful."

The judge's decision did not end Miss Hearst's legal involvements. She currently is free on $1 million bail pending appeal of her bank robbery conviction in San Francisco.

If the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejects her petition, Miss Hearst could be returned to prison for at least another 14 months of her seven-year sentence.

Arrested On Marijuana Count

Greenville Police, Sunday night arrested Susan Anne Pacenta, 19 of 109 Garrett Dorm on charges of manufacturing a controlled substance after several marijuana plants were found growing in her East Carolina University dormitory room.

Chief Glenn Cannon said local officers and ECU campus police searched Miss Pacenta's room about 10:30 p.m. and discovered the growing marijuana.

She was placed under a $2,000 bond pending hearing of the case in court.

Senates OKs Tests For Motorcyclist License

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Motorcycle drivers would be required to pass special written and road tests before they can be licensed under a bill passed by the Senate Monday night. Before giving approval, the Senate amended the House-passed bill, which goes back to the House for concurrence.

The amendment was offered by Sen. Melvin Daniels, D-Pasquotank, and would exempt drivers of small motorcycles from the tests. Motorcycle owners currently need only an automobile driver's license.

Other legislative actions:
SALES TAX
The Senate tentatively approved, 28-11, a House-passed bill that would permit county commissioners in Burke, Person, Scotland and Hyde counties to levy a one-cent local sales tax. The tax could be imposed after notice and hearing if such a tax had not been rejected in an election within five years.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Howard Chapin, D-Beaufort, who said it was requested by the Hyde County commissioners.

COMMUNITY COLLEGES
New legislation introduced Monday included a bill by Rep. Robert Wynne, D-Wake, which would remove the state's community colleges and technical institutes from the control of the state Board of Education and place them under a new state Board of Community Colleges and Technical Institutes.

"I believe that with the problems which have been brought to the public's attention in some of our community colleges and technical institutes that it is time to put this proposal before the legislature and the public," Wynne said.

"This could be one method for correcting some of the overlapping authority ... which now exists within the system," Wynne added.

No Sanctions By Councillmen

No official sanctions were taken against Greenville City Manager James E. Caldwell by the City Council yesterday in connection with a traffic collision involving the city manager here April 30.

Mayor Percy Cox said this morning, "I have investigated the traffic situation," and said "this matter has been reviewed by the City Council," which met in a closed session yesterday afternoon.

"While Mr. Caldwell has mishandled this matter and this is not approved by us," Cox emphasized, "he has now apologized."

"The council," Cox continued, "feels that Mr. Caldwell has made an excellent city manager and can continue to do an excellent job for the City of Greenville and we have unanimously agreed that the matter has been satisfactorily resolved."

According to the mayor, "we (the City Council) think this lapse in judgment will not occur again and we are fully confident that Mr. Caldwell can go forward on behalf of the City of Greenville and we urge full cooperation by all citizens ... in the future performance of his job."

The city manager's car collided with a vehicle driven by Albert Thomas Perrin of 2600½ Dunn St. about 2:15 a.m. April 30 near the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Hooker Road. A report of the collision on file at the Police Department indicates that Caldwell had been drinking.

Caldwell was charged by Police May 6 with following too close in connection with the incident.

Cox said yesterday that Caldwell's liability insurance carrier "has already paid the claim" for repairs to the Perrin car and Caldwell, in keeping with city policy, "will pay for the minor damage to the city car."

Multilevel Interior Design Wins Award

RESIDENTIAL DESIGN—Robert Ledingham won first prize in the 19th annual S.M. Hexter Awards Program with this design, which features platforms, upholstered furniture and carpets in shades of gray.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Although his prize-winning residential design features platforms, interior decorator Robert Ledingham, 34, of Vancouver, B.C., Canada, cautions that such architecture doesn't work in every room.

"It doesn't totally work unless you have a high ceiling. Otherwise you'll feel uncomfortable standing up under the upper level," said Ledingham, who is particularly aware of that drawback because he is tall.

His design won first prize in the 19th annual S.M. Hexter Awards Program, which aims "to commend the interior design profession for its contribution to today's environment."

Ledingham's winning design was a multilevel interior, 23 feet by 23 feet. The living room had a 15-foot ceiling "that came down to 8 feet" with the addition of platforms.

"In this instance the platforms kind of provide lanes, and give a more interesting division of space," he explained. "Before, people had to walk through and around furniture arrangements in the living room to go to the dining room."

"Now there are two sitting areas — an intimate conversation grouping of furniture for six to eight at the lower-level fireplace and another for four or five on an upper level on the opposite side of the room. Design continuity was achieved by using the same sofa units in both areas."

The furniture is upholstered in gray velvet, the carpet is mono-gray. A touch of brown is used in toss cushions and trim. A grand piano is "a sculptural unit" between the two areas.

An interesting arrangement was achieved at the wall of windows at the upper platform level, where he screened out a "not too great view" by enclosing a courtyard with a wood lattice fence.

Inside he used vertical four-inch fins of shiny silver material, Mylar, and he is "delighted with the visual effect of the combination of blinds and lattice."

In awarding him first prize, the awards jury commented that he "transformed pedestrian architecture into an exciting multilevel interior of great elegance with no jarring elements." The house was built in the '50s and accommodates a doctor's family with three children.

As for trends, "one of the biggest on the West Coast now is the trend to real wood in decorating," Ledingham says. "A lot of cedar is used and there is kind of a California look in residences using natural wood and natural fiber."

Zany Recipes Are Featured In A Michigan Cookbook

By MELANIE DEEDS
EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — People with a taste for the zany will find recipes for roast bear paws, asparagus cookies and soybean lemon sponge cake in a new cookbook about Michigan food and eating habits.

The 107-page, soft-bound book was written and published by East Lansing home maker Carole Eberly, who decided Michigan should have its own cookbook because several other states do.

"Michigan Cooking ... And Other Things" contains many recipes made with the state's agricultural products such as cherries, asparagus and blueberries.

"I've made about 98 per cent of everything in the book," said the 33-year-old mother of one. "Not the bear paws, though." Mrs. Eberly, a legislative reporter for United Press International until 1973, is a cookbook collector.

After selecting 176 recipes, she decided she wanted "something more than a cookbook. Page after page of recipes might appeal to a cookbook nut, but nobody else."

A Michigan folklore fan, Mrs. Eberly recalled reading an article by Al Barnes called "Vinegar Pie" about well-known cooks in northern Michigan, including Mrs. Frank Flarity of Manistee, who fed workmen at lumber camps in the 19th century.

Mrs. Flarity prepared meals three times a day for 65 lumberjacks and followed the turnover was stuffed inside the miner's shirts to keep them warm on their walks to the mine," she wrote. "Deep inside the copper and iron mines at dinner time, the workers could reheat this nourishing, stick-to-their-ribs meal on a shovel over a miner's lamp with no fuss or bother."

Recipes include main dishes, appetizers, snacks, beverages, pickles, jams, sauces, soups, salads, fish, game, breads, pancakes and desserts.

Although she loves to cook, Mrs. Eberly doesn't like spending most of the day in the kitchen. She thinks most other women feel the same.

"I looked for simple recipes. I don't want to end up searching stores for ingredients I probably will only use once."

"My goal was to include basic, good recipes that are easy to make."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

"We should spend more time with the children," I told my husband the other day. "In a few years they'll be gone and we'll rattle around in this empty house wishing we had taken the time to sit down and find out how they felt about things ... their hopes ... their ambitions ... what are you smiling about?"

"I'm still back at the part on rattling around in the house. Do you know I shaved the other morning without steam on the mirror and nearly scared myself to death?"

"Children need the companionship of an adult," I continued. "That very special relationship in the formative years where you listen to one another, advise, assess, mold values, exchange ideas and points of view. We don't even know how they feel about life."

"Get on with it. What are you suggesting?"

"You should take your son fishing and I'll have the weekend here alone with our daughter. That way it's a one-on-one situation where we really get into the meaningful stuff."

Last week, as I watched father and son load up all the gear into the four-wheel drive, a lump came into my throat. When they left the driveway, I called to my daughter.

"Whatya want? I'm on the phone."

She was on the phone for more than five hours.

As she was showering, I fell to my knees and yelled under the door, "Do you want to talk about anything?"

"Yes," she yelled back. "Do you have a clean pair of panties?"

Later, as she tore out the front door, I tugged at her sleeve and asked, "You wanta tell me how you feel about life?"

"I'm for it," she said simply pecking me on the cheek.

The next morning, she slept until noon and at lunch she wore a pair of headphones and a blank expression to the table. I was relieved when my husband and son pulled into the driveway. "How did you make out?" I asked.

He smiled triumphantly. "If I do say so myself, it was one of my better performances. I talked about values in this life and how sometimes it was hard not to become tainted by what is going on in the world around us, but we are a family and if we stick together, there isn't anything we can't do. I talked about aims and goals in life and how you had to be patient and sometimes compromise and you know ... all the brilliant things a kid will remember his father saying for the rest of his life."

"What did he say?" I asked excitedly.

"Nothing. He slept all the way up and back."

Dear Abby

Don't Judge On What You See, Or Hear From Friends

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Vietnamese refugee living in Cleveland, Ohio, for two years. From my window I see a man about 75 come to see this lady friend often. I heard from the neighbors that this friendship is over 20 years old.

My girlfriend lives in another apartment, and visiting her I saw the same old guy visiting an older woman, every day of the month.

I heard that this woman, now in her 80s, was in show business many years ago and has been married five times.

I know we have a lot to learn in our new country about customs, habits, etc., but how can parents complain if their children's morals are bad if the senior citizens act this way?

I feel very sorry to see my neighbor fooled by this old wolf. In our country, we respect old people, and they are very respectable. I cannot understand the behavior of your senior citizens. I think this is rather unusual. Please reply.

FROM VIETNAM

DEAR FROM: It is not possible to know all the facts merely by what you see from your window or hear from your friends. Besides, in this country people of all ages are entitled to privacy. I don't know what religious beliefs you hold, but the New Testament says: 'Judge not, that ye be not judged.' Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: Up until the last few years we were a very close and happy family. My brother married a nice Jewish girl (we are Catholic).

There were married by a judge, which hurt my mom quite a bit because she wanted my brother to be married by a priest.

Now my mother found out that my brother is wearing a Star of David on a chain around his neck, and it is just about killing her because before he was married, he always wore a crucifix around his neck.

I see no reason why he can't wear both, do you? It would keep my poor mother from eating her heart out.

I would like your opinion.

NEWSDAY READERS

DEAR READERS: As far as I am concerned there is no reason why your brother can't wear symbols of both the Jewish and Catholic faith. Many do. Tell your brother how your mother feels, and from then on, it's his decision.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote to ask if she should send a gift to a mother who had given birth to a child born with Down's Syndrome. Thank you for saying yes.

I know your advice was sound because I gave birth to such a child. Friends called. They stopped by. They even gave me a surprise shower when my baby was a month old.

Here is the message on one card that meant so much to me:

God gave this child to you to guide,
To love, to walk thru life beside.
A little child so full of charms,
To fill a pair of loving arms.
God picked you out because he knew
How safe His child would be with you.

God bless friends like that.

Former Home To Be A National Historic Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to turn the former home of Eleanor Roosevelt at Val Kill in Hyde Park, N.Y., into a national historic site.

The secretary of the Interior would be authorized to buy the land and create a public site where the politically active wife of President Franklin D. Roosevelt could be commemorated by studies, lectures, and other activities.

The bill, adopted Monday by a 337 to 43 vote, authorizes $575,000 to buy the land and $420,000 to develop it. The House stipulated that a maximum of $50,000 of the development money could be used to build a memorial to Mrs. Roosevelt on the site.

The bill needs Senate approval before going to President Carter for his signature.

Senator Files Court Suit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A nurse who rents a house here from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says he has gone to court to have her evicted and force her to pay $900 in back rent.

Judy Yung said Monday that a lawyer representing Proxmire filed suit in Small Claims Court. She had said previously that she was unable to pay her rent because of costly heating bills at the home last winter.

The tenant said Proxmire is threatening to have her wages garnished even though she is still trying to pay off her heating bills.

"I guess I'll just have to quit if he does that," she said.

The senator was unavailable for comment.

Susan Ford To Withdraw From Kansas University

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Susan Ford, daughter of the former president, plans to withdraw from the University of Kansas School of Journalism, the school's dean says.

Dean Del Brinkman said Miss Ford told him she was leaving because she had missed several classes and thought it was too much work to make up. The dean said Monday that she gave no reason for missing classes.

Strengthening N.C. Programs

Gov. Hunt presented a supplementary budget package of $67 million last week and it will provide for some of the state's most pressing needs.

Though the state budget, proposed in January contains billions in appropriations for the next biennium, the bulk of it goes to support ongoing programs.

As the Legislative session has moved along the administration has gotten a better idea of how much revenue will be available for the biennium. Now, additional appropriations can be proposed which will strengthen various state programs.

Gov. Hunt thus made his supplemental appropriations requests and they include $5.3 million to provide badly needed funds for alleviating crowded conditions in the state's prison system.

There is also $2 million for increased industrial and tourism promotion; $2.75 million for primary care in local health departments; $4.8 million for additional mental retardation services; $1 million for a new Highway Patrol training center; $6.7 million for more community college faculty; $1 million for school testing and $3.2 million to aid school drop outs.

Some $25 million would be left unappropriated and will be disbursed by the Legislature itself for various projects originating with the law makers.

The governor's proposed supplemental appropriations will give a number of state programs a shot in the arm.

Expansion Project A Mark Of Faith

Procter & Gamble Co., which opened its Pringles Potato Chips plant here in 1975, has announced plans to construct 200,000 additional square feet at the plant site.

Plant Manager Robert Griffin called the announcement a positive sign. He said it indicates the company has faith that it did not make a mistake in coming to Greenville.

It is positive, indeed, and we are happy that Procter and Gamble will be undertaking a new construction project here. P & G is the kind of industry that any community would be pleased to have.

Tests Show Improvement

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Has that worrisome downward trend in test scores among entering freshmen at North Carolina colleges come to a stopping point?

Early indications point to a bottoming of the slide in Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, with some slight improvement at a majority of colleges; at least not as big a drop as others.

If scores logged by freshmen entering college last fall do represent a reversal of the downward spiral, than a decline which has lasted some 10 years will have ended.

The drop has indeed been sharp: from 1,095 to 1,005 at N. C. State University; from a peak of 1,058 to a low of 963 at UNC-Greensboro, for example.

The SAT battery comes in two parts — verbal and math — with a possible score of 800 on each. The combined perfect score would be 1,600.
High and Low

UNC-Chapel Hill (1,090) and N. C. State (1,005) consistently have the highest test score averages. Elizabeth City (576) and Winston-Salem (659) are lowest.

Scores logged by the 1976-77 freshmen showed improvement at nine of the colleges. The decline continued at seven — although not as steeply as in the past. Neither were the improvements remarkable, however.

Here is the way each campus scored at its peak, last year, and this year:

Winston-Salem: 750; 657; 659.

Wilmington: 910; 888; 877.
Western Carolina: 915; 825; 835.

UNC-Greensboro: 1,058; 969; 963.
Chapel Hill: 1,153; 1,080; 1,090.

Charlotte: 992; 946; 925.
Pembroke: 887; 718; 782.
N. C. State: 1,095; 1,009; 1,005.

N. C. Central: 745; 699; 708.
Fayetteville: 708; 595; 703.

Elizabeth City: 707; 573; 576.
East Carolina: 982; 870; 874.

Asheville: 997; 928; 940.
Appalachian: 926; 884; 870.
N. C. A & T: 805; 720; 709.
School of Arts: 1,015; 921; 903.

Scores of entering freshmen reflect learning and ability levels on entering college, but study of the figures show those schools which consistently enroll students of higher or lower capability.

UNC-Greensboro was next closest with 62 per cent of the enrollees in the top fifth; followed by State with 51 per cent. Charlotte, Asheville, Appalachian, and Fayetteville had between 42 and 49 per cent in the top 20 per cent.

Others trailed downward to Winston-Salem (16 per cent), Central (15 per cent), and Elizabeth City (11 per cent).

The 17,669 freshmen typically did better on the math than on the verbal section of the aptitude test. The mean score verbally was 440; on math it was 472.

published by the university system, upon which this data is based.

Chapel Hill in the Fall of 1976 enrolled 2,895 freshmen.

All but a handful ranked in the top fifth of their high school graduating class (92 per cent) were in the top 20 per cent. No other college came close to that selectivity.

A Price On Compassion

Nearly two weeks have passed since Secretary Joseph A. Califano announced the government's new rules to end discrimination against handicapped persons. The reaction from affected employers, educators and public officials has been surprisingly mild. It is unlikely that these administrators are indifferent. They are more probably stunned.

For the moment, the rules apply only to employers and institutions receiving "federal financial assistance" through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, but the limitation is meaningless. Under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, every recipient of such assistance must comply with an anti-discrimination program. Attorney General

Griffin Bell has defined federal financial assistance to include "any grant, loan, contract (other than a procurement contract or a contract of insurance or guaranty) or any other arrangement" involving federal funds or services.

That just about covers the landscape. The rules thus will apply, by way of example, to virtually every school, university, hospital, library and major industry in the country. All of these, in one way or another, are recipients of federal funds or "services of federal personnel."

In times past, it may not have been easy for affected employers and educators to comply with anti-discrimination laws, but at least the laws were clear. Discrimination on account of race, religion, national origin, age and sex could be readily identified. The costs of correcting such discrimination might be substantial, as in the case of a large employer found guilty of prolonged discrimination against women, but the costs seldom were staggering.

The cost of compliance with Secretary Califano's regulations will run into billions of dollars. The regulations will impose burdens upon affected recipients beyond any burdens they have borne before. Once the impact of this program begins to be felt, the stunned silence will surely be broken.

It is doubtful that Congress intended any such sweeping reforms. The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 was the culmination of a long legislative struggle, involving two presidential vetoes, having chiefly to do with an appropriation for direct aid to handicapped persons. The act was concerned with state rehabilitation programs, with research and training grants, with special public services, demonstration projects and the like. The act was thought of largely in terms of "vocational aid."

Astonishingly, Section 504 of the act never was subject to public hearings or to floor debate. No one paid attention to an apparently perfunctory paragraph that read: "No otherwise qualified handicapped individual... shall, solely by reason of his handicap, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Under the Califano rules, every new building affected by federal funds must include structural features to aid the handicapped. Every such old building must be remodeled within three years. In order "to mainstream" the handicapped, specially trained teachers and interpreters must be provided. The idea is to bring the deaf, the blind, the epileptic, the retarded, the crippled, the alcoholics and drug addicts out of segregated institutions and

Horse Census Costly

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would spend more than $3 million in tax money for a national horse census now has the endorsement of 15 congressmen and probably will be the subject of public hearings this summer.

Rep. John Breckinridge, D-Ky., says 14 other House members have joined him in sponsoring his horse-counting bill. Among the endorsers is the chairman of the subcommittee that has jurisdiction over the question, Rep. E. de la Garza, D-Tex.

Breckinridge's legislative aide, John Chwat, said in an interview Monday that hundreds of horse owners are writing their congressmen to support

THE INSIDE REPORT

Andy Young And Company

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The only remarkable aspect of Ambassador Andrew Young's long speech to the Latin American economic conference in Guatemala City Tuesday was its principal author: the Rev. Dr. Brady Tyson, last seen in Geneva two months ago declaring U.S. responsibility for subverting the former government of Chile.

After apologizing for that historically inaccurate admission of national guilt, Tyson dropped from sight. White House aides hinted that his Geneva performance was the beginning and end of his government service. In fact, Tyson has joined the United Nations mission as Young's Latin American adviser. To old hands in this region familiar with Tyson's well-established pro-Castro position, this is both puzzling and disturbing.

Tyson actually is quite compatible with Young's world view. Apart from inexperience and indiscretion, the ambassador to the UN represents the vanguard of leftist critics of the past generation's U.S. foreign policy who are slipping under the governmental tent into the Carter administration. While overall policy from the White House and the State Department maintains a basic anti-Communist posture, the erstwhile critics are taking over at lower levels — particularly in Latin American affairs.

Tyson maintains associations unprecedented at a high level in the foreign policy bureaucracy. Identified in the invitations as representing the State Department, Tyson will address a fund-raising dinner of the Fund for New Priorities in America in New York May 19. That organization for seven years has fought the level of defense spending which President Carter now seeks to maintain.

But Tyson's past, not his present, causes all the wonderment that he is now under the governmental tent. As a founder of the pro-Castro North American Congress on Latin America (NACLA), Tyson was in open support of the hemisphere's radical left rather than democratic left — for Salvador Allende's Socialists in Chile rather than the Christian Democrats.

Tyson was expelled for subversive political activity in 1966 by the right-wing government of Brazil after four years there as a Methodist missionary. Since then on the American University faculty he has been an activist on Latin American questions — for example, seeking to organize a 1970 student march on the Inter-American Defense College in Washington. So, when Tyson told acquaintances in 1976 that he had close contacts with candidate Jimmy Carter, the reaction was incredulity.

In naming Tyson to represent the U.S. at the UN Human Rights Commission meeting at Geneva in March, did Young know that Tyson had been expelled by our Brazilian allies? "That would recommend him to me," Young told us. After Tyson's groundless accusation of U.S. complicity in the Chilean coup, Young did not grasp the opportunity to get rid of him but placed him at the UN mission in New York as a political officer.

In truth, Young's speech to retired foreign service officers April 22 shows affinity for the line preached by Tyson: "There has been a tremendous amount of guilt and strain on American citizens to know that for years, their tax dollars have been used not to develop, not to feed the hungry, but essentially as part of an apparatus of repression in many places on the face of the earth."

Andy Young's theme of national guilt is totally consistent with Brady Tyson's performance at Geneva. What's more, kindred souls are quietly, without announcement, joining them in the government.

Mark Schneider, who as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's aide criticized Chile's military junta but not Cuba's Castroite regime, has become deputy in the State Department's human rights office. In prospect is the quiet transfer of economist Richard Feinberg from the Treasury to the State Department as a Latin American specialist for policy and planning; papers found in the briefcase of Orlando Letelier, the murdered Chilean Socialist leader, list Feinberg as the prospective secret co-author of a report by NACLA, Tyson's old organization (though, in fact, Feinberg

To the editor: President's Energy Program — "Trust Me"

The most basic elements in economics are supply and demand. A combination of new taxes (punishment to the public) designed to raise the price and result in a slow-down in demand. Lack of positive programs to increase supply are missing. We all admit we must conserve energy and seek new sources. 1. What's wrong with off-shore wells?

We need American oil, instead of very expensive environmentalists' coal. 2. What's wrong with nuclear power?

Didn't the President say, "Trust me, I'll keep you informed"? Why did he suppress and not publicize the Energy Research and Development Administration (Document 1554D) Study, which said there is "no reason to delay the development of facilities to demonstrate reprocessing, including plutonium conversion and storage." Why does the President say we can't use Plutonium?

3. What's wrong with lifting all controls on gas and natural gas? Let free enterprise operate. Prices will rise some, but oil companies will begin to seek new wells. I, like you, have no love for oil companies, but they are not going to spend exploratory money unless they can make a future profit. This will also create competition for OPEC. 4. Why not reduce highway speed limits to 50 m. p. h.? Impose very stiff fines for speeding, like $100 to $500 for the first offense and double each time thereafter? Environmental Agencies

Defining Their Mutual Goals

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —

Perhaps the main accomplishment of the economic summit meeting was that it defined the mutual goals of seven industrial nations to fight for jobs, growth, trade and price stability.

But that is only a small percentage of the job. Goals are far easier to agree upon than the implementation, especially when it is not fully understood how to implement. Even the problems themselves aren't understood.

Various domestic difficulties and concerns also prevent easy cooperation on meshing economic policies. Pride, fear, politics, varying economic cycles, pressure groups, unions contain the possibilities for dissention.

Without any formal organizational structure, will any one nation be willing to sacrifice for the good of another or for what is perceived as the general welfare?

How can the United States, for example, promote world trade by being receptive to the exports of more troubled economies when it has a serious trade imbalance and an incendiary inflation situation to contend with?

In the United States we have huge steel companies complaining about unfair competition, unions seeking job protection from imported shoes, pressure groups urging people to stop drinking coffee.

In New York, residents around Kennedy Airport complain that landing rights for the French-British Concorde aircraft would make their homes uninhabitable, and that that consideration is more important to them than free trade. While the U.S. economy appears to be expanding vigorously, which is in keeping with the goals of the summit conference, you have a Federal Reserve Board concerned with inflation and, as an antidote, thinking about slowing the expansion.

The task of creating jobs, promoting trade and insuring price stability is perhaps the most difficult domestic task for the leader of any industrial nation. The factors are not fully understood, let alone subject to manipulation.

The summit leaders nevertheless seek some sort of balance between these poorly understood and sometimes conflicting ingredients, not only on a domestic level but on an international scale. And among nations not accustomed of late to making sacrifices for each other.

That is only part of the task. There are many other challenges to the industrial nations, but just two of them serve to show the social, political and economic dimensions of the over-all goals.

First, there is unemployment, especially among youth, and even in the strongest European economy, West Germany, and in Japan, neither which have until recently suffered from the malady. How can these unemployed be absorbed into the work force? And if they are not?

Second, there is the imbalance between the relatively successful economies of West Germany, Japan and the United States, and such economies as those of Britain and Italy, wracked by simultaneous unemployment and inflation.

THREE DIMENSIONS OF JESUS

The New Testament bids us remember three things about Jesus — he was prophet, priest, and king.

As a prophet he taught imperishable truths. As priest he offered himself as an eternal sacrifice to God. As a king he established the kingdom of God on earth and continues through the ages his spiritual sway beyond the veil.

Some Christians cannot keep these conceptions of Jesus in balance. The liberal-minded Christian emphasizes Jesus as prophet, dwelling on the importance of his teaching and neglecting sometimes other aspects of his life. The fundamentalist glorifies Christ as priest, pointing continually to his sacrifice on the cross. The millennialist, who lives in daily expectation of the return of Christ, emphasizes our Lord's kingly character, sometimes to the neglect of the priestly and prophetic elements.

But Christian faith is a tripod. It takes the three Biblical teachings about Jesus to give our faith stability and security.

the bill. He said public hearings will be held on the measure, probably this summer.
Chwat also said he had been told the Senate might vote on a similar measure when the farm bill comes up for consideration, possibly by the end of this month.

In remarks printed in The Congressional Record, Breckinridge says horse equipment makers, horse owners and racing track interests "cry out for accurate horse data."
"The time has come to move forward and pass the horse census bill of 1977," he said.

Breckinridge originally proposed spending $3 million next year and $600,000 each year thereafter on the proposed census, and Chwat said the Agriculture Department has estimated that the cost could go as high as $10 million.

Breckinridge now has modified the bill to spread out the costs, spending $1.25 million during each of the next three years. His bill would authorize this amount. Congress also would have to pass a separate appropriation bill before any money could be spent.

Breckinridge said the Interior Department already has spent $3.6 million "researching wild horses and burros" and will spend another $2 million this year. However, Robert Springer of the department's division of range said this is not so.

Springer said his department has spent no more than $100,000 on research about wild horses and burros. He said the department is budgeted to spend $1.85 million this year on research, management and roundup of "excess" wild animals from government-owned lands, all under the Wild Horse and Burro Act passed by Congress in 1971.

Chwat said some people consider the horse census bill a gag, but to horse owners "it's a very important bill, and they represent millions of people." He said a census is too large a task for the horse industry to undertake on its own.

Will this transformation at low levels seep upward into policy formation? The Young-Tyson collaboration at Guatemala City has a little mild self-flagellation ("Too often, it seems to me, the United States has tried to take or preempt leadership in the hemisphere") but concentrates on windy declarations in behalf of human rights. Left unanswered is which rights they are talking about.

A recent interview in Cuba's Bohemia magazine with Sen. George McGovern reveals how admirers of Fidel Castro define "human rights." Radio Havana reported that McGovern praised "the Cuban Revolution" for guaranteeing the people fundamental human

That is precisely the position taken over a decade of writing and speaking by Brady Tyson. He and less publicized newcomers to the foreign policy bureaucracy may soon apply a definition of "human rights"—popular in Havana but not in Buenos Aires, Santiago or Brasilia—more narrow and more materialistic than Jimmy Carter ever intended.

By The Associated Press
The temperature dipped to a record 31 degrees this morning in the Raleigh area, establishing a new low for the date. The previous low for a May 10 was 39 set in 1966.

The similarity to winter also was evident elsewhere around North Carolina, as Asheville, Elizabeth City and Rocky Mount all recorded a low of 37. Charlotte had a low of 40, Goldsboro 41 and Wilmington 42.

Up on Grandfather Mountain, the overnight low was 24 degrees and with a wind of 15 knots, the chill factor was two above zero, enough to make ear muffs shiver.

Meanwhile, as the spring cold spell continued, a freeze warning was in effect tonight for the mountains. Low readings are expected to drop to the upper 20s in the mountains and range to the low 50s on the Outer Banks.

Temperatures climbed no higher than the 60s over North Carolina Monday and today's forecast called for more of the same.

Wednesday will be sunny and slightly warmer as the high pressure system controlling the current weather slips toward the southeast. Temperatures are expected to reach the 70s in most sections except the mountains and the Outer Banks.

How do they cooperate? Can the leaders of the successful economies deny themselves domestically to help the economies of countries they see as made up of low productivity, poorly managed workers?

Can they do this and cooperate also with the less developed nations that feel they are falling farther behind?

And yet, the call for the summit meeting was based in the belief that all the world's trading nations would be hurt if each failed to work to help the other.

It is unlikely that the summit nations will be able to weave a beautiful economic tapestry out of all these conflicts. Simply to identify the many strands and try to make some pattern out of them might be all that is possible.

That is why it must be construed as an accomplishment in itself that the United States, West Germany, Japan, Canada, France, Italy and Britain managed even to define the longterm goals to which they aspire.

into ordinary channels of public and private life.

The purpose is surely compassionate. Few persons will quarrel with the basic thinking that discrimination against a handicapped person is cruel and should be ended. But the implementation of these drastic regulations will demand an effort that plainly will be difficult and, as Califano himself acknowledged, in some cases may be impossible. (If every classroom with a deaf child must employ an interpreter skilled in sign language, there will not be enough interpreters to go around.)

It is not for want of sympathy with the plight of 35 million handicapped persons that a practical question must be asked: Where is the money coming from? Estimates of the cost range from $2.4 billion to $10 billion over the next three years, and this is merely the beginning. Section 504 was thoughtlessly written into law. It will demand hard thinking now.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned upward today in a moderate rally attributed to technical forces.
The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.41 at 937.50.

Gainers held a 5-3 edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
First-hour volume on the Big Board totaled 4.79 million shares.

Analysts said there was nothing special in the day's economic news to account for the upswing.
The Dow had fallen 6.70 points Friday and another 3.65 Monday. But Monday's decline came on the lightest trading volume of the year—15.23 million shares.

The absence of any concerted selling pressure appeared to convince traders that the pull-back didn't have far to go.

Also helping the market was an upswing in International Business Machines shares, the No. 1 holding of investing institutions.

IBM stock, which hit new lows for the year on Friday and Monday, rebounded 2 to 257 1/4 today.

Houston Oil & Minerals, the volume leader among American Stock Exchange issues, picked up 1 1/4 to 55 1/2 on top of a 4 1/2-point jump Monday, when the company reported finding a natural gas field in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index was up .15 at 54.30, and the Amex market value index rose .22 to 114.39.

ton area as well as the Wellcome Middle School. On February 7 we attended a hearing to answer some questions about our study. We generally do not attend hearings. We also collected a great deal of information in our office as well as written suggestions and information sent to us by citizens of the communities," Spencer said.

"Our recommendation from our study is only one source of input to the board of education who ultimately makes the decision. We will be pleased to assist the implementation of this recommendation or any decision that the board makes," he added.

A summary of the study team's findings showed that a study which was made in 1969-70 recommending the consolidation of the 13 high schools in the county into four county high schools had been followed and that two new middle schools have been built in the county recently; pupil population projections show that a decline in births and little net migration will cause a decline in enrollment; educational programs of middle school calibre are being offered at each school but teacher utilization is not adequate. The summary showed that for every 100 births in Pitt County that the Ayden-Grifton area receives 14 students five years later.

AYDEN - The Ayden Town Board adopted a set of penalties for electrical meter tampering at its meeting Monday night.

This action amended the Code of the General Ordinance including Section 15 establishing penalties for those judged by the electrical department to have been unlawfully tampering with electrical meters.

The penalties are as follows: (1) A $25 fine and immediate disconnection from the Town's electrical system for any consumer found to have broken, removed, or replaced a town meter seal three months out of any six months period; (2) A $25 penalty and immediate disconnection from the town's electrical system for any consumer who disconnects a town service, for the purpose of working on said service without prior approval of a town official; (3) A $100 penalty and immediate disconnection from the town's electrical system for any consumer who himself, or through an agent, removes his meter and seals for the purpose of obtaining service, after the service has been cut off for non payment of bills; (4) A $250 penalty and immediate disconnection from the town electric system for any consumer found to have straight wired jumpered or by any other means obtained electric service without benefit of an inspection, by the county electrical inspector, or without proper notification of the Town of Ayden; and (5) A $250 penalty and immediate disconnection from the town electric system for any consumer found to have, by any mechanical or electronic means, altered registration of his electrical meter, or by-passed the meter.

All of the penalties must be paid before reconnection of services will be granted. The ordinance became effective immediately.

The board also adopted a fee for check meters. Electrical consumers will be charged $7.50 for the service of checking meters if the meter has been checked within two years.

Two amendments to the budget were approved. The first amendment allowed for projected cost of electrical services for May and June. The second amendment allowed for receipt ing Anti-Recession funds totaling $482. The funds were placed in capital outlay for repairs of the community building.

Following a public hearing the board voted to rezone the following property from RA-20 to B-2 Commercial: Property from Highway 11 on the south side of Highway 102 on the Patsy McLawhorn Mills property for 785 feet length west for a depth of 275 feet continuing west 1,275 feet on the John McLawhorn and Harvey Bowen property with a depth of 700 feet. The request was made by Bowen who agreed to remove all junk vehicles on the north side of Highway 102 and to compress the vehicles to the level of one car, within one year. Bowen plans to push the vehicles back from the road and construct a building.

The board voted to enter an agreement with the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District for the Town of Ayden to provide bookkeeping and financial services for CMSD for one year for $1,000.

An agreement between the town and the County Health Department was approved. The health department will occupy the old Ayden Town Hall and use it for a clinic. The health department will not pay rent, but will pay for utilities and renovations. The town will provide the building. The agreement was approved for five years.

The board considered the question of rotating town moneys into different banks and agreed to acquire the services of Planters Bank.

Speed limit changes were also approved by the board. The board approved the change of the speed limit on West Second Street from Pitt Street to Laurinburg Street to 25 miles per hour; and from Laurinburg Street to SR 1120 35 miles per hour.

Chargers, Jags Face Conference Leaders Today

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Cellar-dwelling North Pitt's 6-2 victory over C. B. Aycock Saturday night threw the Eastern Carolina Conference baseball race into a tie between the Falcons and Greene Central, increasing the importance of those teams' games today.

The conference situation puts Farmville Central, which hosts Aycock, and Ayden-Grifton, which travels to Greene Central, in the spoilers' roles. The outcomes of both those games are paramount as Aycock and Greene Central get set for a showdown Friday night.

Last week's baseball action leaves the Rams and Falcons at the top of the ECC with identical 10-2 records. Farmville Central, which lost a chance to get into the race by bowing to the Rams last Friday, holds down third place with a 7-4 mark. Ayden-Grifton is fourth at 5-7.

The Chargers, while definitely out of contention to win the conference at this point, are looking forward to their game with Greene Central.

They have been disappointed with their showing this season, according to Kennedy. "At the beginning of the year, I felt if we could get a good defensive effort, we would stand a chance to play .500 ball," he said.

But, that effort hasn't come through. "We have taken ourselves out of many ballgames by defensive lapses this year," Kennedy said.

"We felt we had some young people that, by mid-season, would come around, but they didn't.

"So, we've just been rocking along and taking our bumps."

With the Greene Central game, however, Ayden-Grifton has a last chance to make some noise in the league this year.

"We are trying to approach it as we have the last three or four games on our schedule. We know we are not in a position to challenge for the lead, but we have an excellent opportunity to upset someone else's plans."

Kennedy said he was sure the Rams would be prepared for the contest. "I'm sure they will be ready to go and fired up for us because they still have to play Aycock."

The Chargers, on the other hand, have lost their last four and "it's hard to get up when you're losing," Kennedy said.

Nevertheless, they plan to "give it our best shot."

If both Greene Central and C. B. Aycock win today, Friday night's matchup between them will decide the issue. After the loss to North Pitt, a lot depends on how quickly C. B. Aycock can rebound, according to Kennedy.

Asked about the final outcome, Kennedy replied, "I don't know. It could be interesting."

Week's Schedule

In other baseball games today, North Lenoir is at North Pitt, Martin Academy is at Rocky Mount, Jamesville travels to Chocowinity, Plymouth hosts Williamston, Roanoke is on the road at North Edgecombe, Aurora entertains Bear Grass and D. H. Conley goes to Southern Nash.

tomorrow, while Bear Grass is at Jamesville Thursday. In other Thursday games, Martin hosts Rocky Mount and Farmville Central travels to Ayden-Grifton.

Charger Hurler Shadle Worked For Golf Team

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Ayden-Grifton baseball coach Claude Kennedy is probably glad the Chargers don't have a golf program. If they did, he might be minus his number one pitcher.

Besides being an outstanding football and baseball player, Charger hurler Tim Shadle is also an avid golfer; and, in his four years at Ayden-Grifton, has tried to get a golf team started there without success.

If he had been successful in getting a golf program started, what would have become of baseball?

"That would have been a tough decision," according to Shadle. "I don't really know. I think I'd have had to work both in."

Despite his 4-7 pitching record this year, Shadle has been "a great competitor for us," according to Kennedy. "Unfortunately, he's pitched much better than a 4-7 record would indicate." Shadle currently has a 2.80 earned inn average over 68 innings of pitching.

He gives us all he's got when goes out to pitch or play the outfield (his position when not on the mound). He's a very coachable athlete and just a pleasant person to coach and to be around."

The Chargers presently have a 7-13 overall record and one of their problems, according to Shadle, is that the team members have not played together very long. "I feel if we had had a few years to practice together, we would have been all right," he said, adding, "If we had really put ourselves into it, it (the season) would be better."

Shadle would rather pitch for the Chargers than play the outfield because he enjoys handling the ball and being in on most of the action. "I like being involved in everything," he said, "I like being able to start the play."

He added that "it gets pretty lonely out there" in the outfield.

Ayden-Grifton is approaching tonight's contest with Greene Central with a "real good attitude," Shadle said. The Chargers, while eliminated from a chance to win the Eastern Carolina Conference championship themselves, could have a part in determining the outcome by downing the Rams.

"We know we're not going anywhere, so we won't be tight," Shadle said. "We're just going to try to do the best we can. I'm pitching and I'm just going to throw the ball across the plate and hope the team will back me up."

Shadle said he prefers baseball to football, although he enjoys both sports. Baseball, he said, is more of an individual sport with nine individuals working as a team. And football is "just too much contact for me."

A senior this year, Shadle has plans to attend college next year. He is on a waiting list at Wake Forest and has been accepted at the University of South Carolina.

"I would like to play on the golf team in college," he said, "I really like the game."

And he's probably just as glad as his baseball coach that a golf program hasn't worked out because of having to choose between the two. "It would be a tough decision. I'm glad I didn't have to make it."

Assistance To Africans Reason For Probation

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two Kenyan Olympic gold medal winners received special assistance while at North Carolina Central University, partly because of hostility between black Africans and black Americans, school officials said Monday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association cited the special assistance Monday in placing the predominantly black school's track program on two years probation, barring it from post-season competition during that period.

Dr. Albert Whiting, chancellor of the state-supported university at Durham, said Robert Ouko and Julius Sang received clothing after they were robbed in a dormitory and were then lodged in an offcampus apartment because of hostility from other students.

The NCAA also ordered the university's athletic department to sever relations with former track coach Leroy Walker and assistant coach Aaron J. Jermundson.

Walker coached the 1976 U.S. Olympic track team.

A.M. Rivera, NCCU's public relations director, said the special assistance given Ouko and Sang "was certainly less than $1,000 for the entire time they were here."

The Kenyan runners graduated with honors in 1976.

Whiting said university authorities decided to lodge Ouko and Sang in an apartment "after it was clearly established that their rather pronounced cultural differences and the local student reaction to them would not have enabled comfortable integration into our campus dormitory situation.

"To have done other than what we did would most certainly have precipitated an international incident, which would have reflected negatively on our institution's image both at home and abroad," Whiting said.

"There could have been (violence)," Rivera said. "Our students were hostile to them. Africans think they are superior to American blacks. You would have thought the (American) kids would have been glad to have these Africans here, but they were not."

Sang and Ouko were members of a gold medalist four-by-400 relay team in the 1972 Munich Olympics. Sang won a bronze medal in the 440.

Walker, who coached at NCCU from 1947 to 1974, is now a physical education professor. Jermundson is a specialist in audio visual aids.

Under Walker, the track team won 30 national titles and produced eight Olympic medal winners. Sang and Ouko were members of an NCCU sprint medley team that held world and national collegiate records.

Walker was not available for comment.

Whiting said he called the attention of the NCAA Infractions Committee to "the extenuating and compelling circumstances under which these violations occurred...but apparently to no avail."

New Baseballs Are They Really Livelier Than Old?

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sparky Anderson says "yes, definitely," but his hitting coach, Ted Kluzewski, and his star catcher, Johnny Bench, both disagree.

Manager Ralph Houk in Detroit says "emphatically so," but Vern Rapp, the new manager in St. Louis, says "absolutely not."

Pitcher Tommy John of the Los Angeles Dodgers says he can feel a change, but slugging teammate Ron Cey says there is none.

They're all talking about the same thing — the baseball.

In 1977, the major leagues began using balls manufactured and distributed by Rawlings for the first time. For the last couple of years, the balls have been manufactured by Spalding, going from Chicopee, Mass., where they were wound, to Haiti, where they were hand stitched.

Rawlings is having the whole process done in Haiti, and since the start of the new season, balls have been flying out of stadiums at a rate not approached in some time.

For the first 163 games of the 1977 American League schedule (which includes the two expansion teams), 287 home runs were hit, as opposed to 195 in an equal number of games last year. The National League, with the same 12 teams as last

Pirates Won't Host Regional

East Carolina University lost its bid to host the Atlantic Regional of the NCAA baseball tournament as the NCAA has announced the event will be held at the University of South Carolina in Columbia.

Four teams will compete in the tournament, scheduled for May 20-22. They are East Carolina, Wake Forest, South Carolina and South Alabama.

East Carolina, 30-10, is the Southern Conference champion and Wake Forest, 29-11, is the Atlantic Coast Conference champion. South Carolina, 33-9, and South Alabama, 38-9, are at-large entries.

The winner of the double-elimination regional will go to the College World Series in Omaha, Neb. in June.

76er McGinnis Being Cautious

HOUSTON (AP) — Amid talk of sweeping the National Basketball Association semifinal playoff series, All-Star forward George McGinnis of the Philadelphia 76ers is sounding a note of caution.

"They're an explosive club and they're able to score a bunch of points. Sure, they're capable of beating us if we don't play well and they get hot," McGinnis said of the Houston Rockets, whom the 76ers beat in two straight games at Philadelphia.

"They could beat the heck out of us. But I doubt if they could ever beat us consistently," added McGinnis, whose 21 points and eight rebounds led Philadelphia to a 106-97 victory in Game Two Sunday.

The best-of-seven series for the Eastern Conference title and a berth in the NBA final will be played at The Summit Wednesday night. Philadelphia's biggest problem in taking a 2-0 lead was keeping the pressure on.

For example, the 76ers rolled to a 12-point halftime lead before the Rockets rallied and tied the score in the third period Sunday. Then the 76ers opened up another big lead.

"There's a confidence factor there," said the 6-foot-8, 230-pound McGinnis. "Maybe at times we do get a little lackadaisical. But the important thing is the bottom line."

Simmons, Cards Beat Odds In Victory

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The odds were very much against Ted Simmons hitting a game-winning homer, and they were not very good for the St. Louis Cardinals being the game-winning team, either.

Cincinnati reliever Dale Murray had only surrendered two home runs in 306 innings when Simmons came to the plate in the 10th inning Monday night.

The Reds had the heart of their batting order up in the ninth inning with the bases loaded, none out and Al Hrabosky pitching.

But form hasn't been normal for the struggling Reds, who could not score in the ninth nor in the 10th, when a perfect relay from right fielder Mike Anderson to second baseman Don Kessinger to catcher Simmons nailed Ray Knight at the plate.

Those lost chances were gone forever when Simmons unloaded on Murray's knuckleball delivery leading off the 10th. The big blow, Simmons' sixth homer of the year, gave the Cardinals a 6-5 decision over the Reds in their nationally televised game.

Elsewhere in the major leagues, the Chicago Cubs downed the Houston Astros 6-1, the Oakland A's edged the Boston Red Sox 2-1, the Chicago White Sox stopped the Texas Rangers 6-3, the Toronto Blue Jays crushed the Seattle Mariners 10-4, and the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals 5-3.

Rain washed out the doubleheader between Cleveland and Milwaukee and games between Los Angeles and Philadelphia and Atlanta and Pittsburgh.

Hrabosky, the St. Louis relief ace, fanned George Foster, Johnny Bench and pinch hitter Bob Bailey with the bases loaded in the ninth.

"Every pitch was a fastball," said Simmons. "He didn't throw a curve or anything else. They knew what every pitch was but they still couldn't do anything about it."

The Cards' Keith Hernandez slammed his fifth homer of the year in the eighth, tying the score 5-5.

Cubs 6, Astros 1
Rick Reuschel and rookie reliever Willie Hernandez combined to beat the Astros and give the Cubs their fifth straight victory.

Reuschel gave up eight hits in six innings for his fifth triumph of the season and Hernandez held Houston scoreless over the final three innings for his first major league save.

White Sox 6, Rangers 3
The White Sox, who trail first-place

Minnesota by onehalf game in the American League West, improved their record by beating Texas. The Sox have won four in a row, all on the road.

Jim Essian's two-run double off left fielder Claudell Washington's glove in the sixth inning sparked the victory.

Blue Jays 10, Mariners 4
The Blue Jays, who had been having success against the old teams, won their first meeting against their rival expansion club, Seattle.

Doug Ault slammed a threerun homer and drove in four runs, while Al Woods, batting .372, stroked four hits, powering Toronto past the Mariners.

A's 2, Red Sox 1
Rookie Mitchell Page knocked in both Oakland runs with a single and a triple and Vida Blue, 3-2, fired a six-hitter to beat the Red Sox, who scored their only run on Butch Hobson's third homer of the season.

Reggie Cleveland, 2-3, tossed a five-hitter in going the distance for Boston.

Angels 5, Royals 3
Terry Humphrey slugged his first homer of the season and fourth of his five-year major league career while Bruce Bochte had four hits and Dave Chalk three in California's victory.

Paul Hartzell, in relief of winner Wayne Simpson, worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the seventh.

Rutherford Makes Himself Indy 500 Threat

By BAK LOWENKRON
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It didn't take long for Johnny Rutherford to establish himself as a threat to take his third Indianapolis 500-mile race victory in four years.

Rutherford, the 1974 and 1976 winner, made his first appearance at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Monday. He left with the fastest performance in the opening three days of practice.

Rutherford recorded a lap of 196.850 miles an hour. He was one of six drivers topping 190 m.p.h. as speeds picked up while work continued in preparation for Saturday's first day of qualifications for the May 29 race.

"The track is very smooth and nice," said the 39-year-old Texan when asked about the re-surfacing completed here since his last victory.

"It's super smooth. They've taken out all the bumps. The track is even better than when I did tire tests on it earlier this year. There have been enough drivers out now and the groove is defined."

Rutherford was pleased with the performance of his car. "It's nice to know for certain that we can go that fast," said Rutherford, who holds the official track lap record of 199.071 m.p.h. and the qualifying standard of 198.413.

"It wasn't hard reaching that speed," he said. "The car is working well. I'm just shaking it down and I think we can get the chassis to work better."

"We're going to make some changes in it today and tomorrow (Tuesday) to see what we can do on Saturday. Saturday is the day when it counts."

Other drivers who topped 190 m.p.h. included two-time Indy winner Al Unser at 196.398.

Miami Rated Top Team In Tourney

MIAMI (AP) — For the sixth time in the past seven years, Miami's baseball team is entering the NCAA postseason baseball tournament. This time, the Hurricanes go in as the nation's top-ranked team.

Miami, which has won 24 of its last 27 games for an overall record of 41-11, accepted an invitation Monday to host the NCAA's South Regional May 20-22.

Other teams in the tournament will be Ohio Valley Conference champion Morehead State, at-large representative Clemson and the Southeastern Conference representative to be determined in a tournament at Oxford, Miss., this weekend.

Clemson was ranked No. 1 in the nation at one time this season but dropped to 12th when it lost the Atlantic Coast Conference title to Wake Forest.

The SEC teams bidding for a spot are Eastern Division winner Florida and runner-up Vanderbilt and Western Division winner Mississippi and runner-up Mississippi State.

West Likes LA's Attitude

By JAMES HOLMAN
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jerry West says his Los Angeles Lakers have "a fantastic attitude" going into tonight's National Basketball Association semifinal game against Portland, despite being down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series.

"We've played hard all year, and that won't change," said West after a Monday practice. "We've just got to shoot better and handle the ball better, and I'm hopeful we can come back."

The Trail Blazers returned home Sunday night after a 99-97 victory in the second game to a tumultuous greeting at the airport by more than 1,000 fans.

The talk was of a four-game sweep, but Portland Coach Jack Ramsay was having none of it.

"It's important for us to remember we won't win here just because we're in Portland," said Ramsay. "We're just looking to win that third game."

Ramsay called Sunday's victory "a great win" and the reception the Blazers received at the airport magnificent. But he said he felt the team played much worse Sunday than it had in Portland's 121-109 rout Friday night.

"They worked hard to shut us off. We just have to work harder to get open," he said. "We weren't making our cuts to the basket and we were taking too many perimeter shots."

Portland will be without the services of starting guard Dave Twardzik, who missed the first two games of the series because of an ankle injury. Twardzik will miss Game Three because of the death of his mother-in-law, but Ramsay said he expected him to play Friday night in the nationally televised fourth game of the series.

West said he has been down two games before in a best-of-seven series and come back. "We lost both games at home to Golden State one year, then won four in a row," he said, adding, "There was a little more talent on that team."

West said the Lakers haven't been shooting well but gave credit to Portland's "pressure-type defense" for forcing his team to take bad shots.

Mobil introduces a whole new idea in engine lubrication. A synthesized lubricant that outperforms nature's best motor oil.

Mobil 1

5. Should I use any oil additives with Mobil 1?
No. Mobil 1 is a complete engine lubricant. It is not necessary to add anything to Mobil 1. In fact, use of some commonly available additives could detract from the performance of Mobil 1.

We thought that you'd like to know about Mobil synthetic oil... we'll be telling you more about Mobil in the next few weeks.

After 15 Years Entertained Local Group It's A Reunion

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1959, CBS dropped "See It Now" and began "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis." In 1977 it axed "Who's Who." Guess who's filling half the "Who's Who" time slot tonight.

Yes, neighbors, it's a comedy pilot called "Whatever Happened to Dobie Gillis?" It features Dobie, his true love Zella, Maynard G. Krebs and Dobie's long-suffering dad, Herbert.

Great balls of fire, the original cast is back, too — Dwayne Hickman as Dobie, the now silver-haired Bob Denver as Maynard, Sheila James as Zella and Frank Faylen as the senior Gillis.

It even starts in the same old park, with Dobie seated and pondering life's travails next to the statue of "The Thinker."

As with the 1959-63 series, tonight's revival is about a matter of great social, economic, philosophical and demographic importance. I have reference to Dobie's 40th birthday.

Forty years, Godfrey Daniel. What time has done. For one thing, he starts the show in a business suit, not a pair of Chinos with the buckle in the back.

For another, he and Zella are married, parents of a teenager, Georgie (Steve Paul) who, as you'll see, now works with his father in the grocery store owned by grandfather Gillis.

Enter wacky Maynard, wearing an African mask, saying "Bumba Bayou."

"Sorry, we don't stock it," Dobie says. Suddenly, after 15 years it's reunion time. After a brisk jst exchange they repair to Dobie's home to catch up on past history.

Maynard has been around various spots in the world, talks of visiting India and finding "the sacred elephant burial ground." Zella asks how he knew it was the sacred elephant burial ground.

"With a hole that big, you know it wasn't for a chipmunk," she is told.

Maynard comes bearing gifts. For Dobie, there a sheet with rows of small holes in it: "A fitted sheet for a bed of nails." For Zella there is a glittering Bolivian mining press "for formal mining."

And so on. There is to be a surprise 40th birthday party for Dobie, but Dobie, brooding and not realizing what's afoot, disappears.

He goes to the park, swings at the "Thinker" statue with a wood plank. He lands in jail, demands a press conference. Enter his family and Maynard. They commence a string of half-liners, which are one-liners that haven't been fed.

Near the finale, listen for Zella's anguished cry: "Maynard! Dobie! This is no way to grow old." It is a fine summation.

The James Komack Co., maker of "Chico and the man," made this one. Nobody knows yet, CBS says, if this midaged "Dobie" will be a midseason replacement next year.

Mrs. Ethel Thomas and Dr. Lilla Holsey, recently nominated for membership in Alpha Kappa S Alpha Sorority, entertained local Greenville senior citizens at a Mother's Day luncheon Saturday morning.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Maggie Woodard. Her topic was "The Christian Mother." Musical selections were rendered on the piano by Mrs. Jean Taylor.

Gifts of small begonia plants and handwoven pot holders were presented to each honoree at the end of the program. Honorees were Mrs. Addie Langley, Mrs. Etta Dupree, Mrs. C. K. Marshmond, Mrs. Luvena Latham, Mrs. Lucy Johnson, Mrs. Julia Calhoun, Mrs. Carrie Nobles, Mrs. Bertha Wooten, Mrs. L. R. Taylor, Mrs. Lula Foster, and Mrs. Martha Jones. Other members of the sorority participated.

The event was planned to coincide with the recently proclaimed Senior Citizens' Month.

Report 2 Admittedly Fixed Traffic Tickets

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Lumberton Mayor Clifford Bullard and City Councilman Glenn Maynor admittedly engaged in traffic ticket-fixing here, The Fayetteville Times reported Tuesday in a copyrighted story.

Two other councilmen, E.B. Turner and Mayor Pro-Tem Frank Benton, have been accused of ticket-fixing in police affidavits secured by the Times, but have denied the charge.

Maynor said he moved to have tickets voided "on certain occasions when a person's license might be in jeopardy," the Times reported.

"My philosophy has always been to help people in my area any way I can," said Maynor. "This helps me politically in my area because people will say 'I know who to go to to get a ticket fixed now.'"

Bullard said he only sought to have parking tickets voided.

When asked about moving violations, Bullard said, "I'd say within the last six months, I have no recollection of asking an officer or the chief (Police Chief H.C. Britt) to help someone out."

Lumberton City Manager Tom Wood said Monday he would seek an investigation of the police department by outside authorities to determine whether any laws had been broken.

Wake County Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey, however, already has an opinion.

"Ticket-fixing is crooked any way you look at it," Bailey told the Times. "It comes from having a political police force. If the chief and police officers have no civil service protection, they are prey to every politician in the area."

"If your chief is appointed by the council, he's at the mercy of the council for his job," Bailey continued. "Obviously, he leans on his men to get along with the council."

The Times reported Monday that several policemen claimed to have heard Britt state that he had to keep the council happy.

"The only statement I can make at this time is that, as chief of police, I am responsible and I take responsibility," Britt said.

Glomar Explorer Is Put Into Mothballs

BENECIA, Calif. (AP) — The Glomar Explorer, built for the CIA by Howard Hughes, has joined the mothball fleet at a cost of $300,000 a year while officials decide whether to use it for deep-sea studies or to search for booty.

"She's a treasure hunter and that should be exploited," said Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif. "How many ships were lost during World War II? Literally thousands. There is much to be recovered."

The 36,000-ton vessel was built at a cost of $550 million to raise a sunken Russian submarine in 1974. It has the capacity to lift objects from 18,000 feet below the ocean surface.

Government officials have refused to comment publicly, but published reports have said the vessel managed to salvage part of the Russian sub.

The Explorer's huge hold is a cavern the size of an aircraft hanger used to store whatever the ship's cranes and cables lift from the ocean depths. Nine-foot-thick gates in the hold floor open to permit objects to be hauled inside.

The Explorer, which arrived here in January, is expected to lie at anchor off this town 20 miles north of San Francisco for about five years while feasibility studies are conducted to determine if the 650-foot ship should be transformed into a research vessel for deep-sea drilling projects.

It joins a group of some 175 other ships, the nation's largest reserve fleet. It is held in place by four 10-ton and four smaller anchors, and four massive chains secured to 70-foot steel beams driven 20 feet into the ocean floor.

John Pottinger, reserve fleet supervisor, says it will be "quite a challenge to take care of her."

"This is the most exotic, sophisticated ship we've ever had here," Pottinger said. "I've sailed on many vessels in my day but never anything like this."

In these inflationary days, the cost of insurance is spiraling everywhere—except at the bridge table. The price for insuring a contract has remained at about one trick.

North-South bid well to their best spot. North's hand became exceedingly strong once the double fit was located, so he jump raised opener's suit, bypassing three no trump. South took the opportunity to show his diamond control, and North needed no further encouragement to contract for slam. He chose to bid six clubs, to confirm his excellent support while leaving his partner the option of returning to six spades if South thought that would be a better spot. Fortunately, South saw no reason to prefer the major suit.

West led his top diamond, and declarer was very happy with his contract. There were no losers in trumps, hearts or diamonds. To make his slam, he needed only to hold his spade losers to one. If the suit divided 3-2, there would be no problem in accomplishing that goal, so declarer set out to see what he could do to circumvent a 4-1 spade break.

Declarer won the king of diamonds, crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. He drew trumps in two rounds, ending in dummy, and ruffed the table's last heart. Next, he cashed the ace of diamonds to eliminate the red suits.

South led a low spade and finessed the jack. When this held the trick, declarer could claim the contract. He did not make the error of cashing the ace of spades in an effort to make an overtrick. Instead, he made the safety play of a low spade from dummy. His foresight was rewarded when East failed to follow. Declarer simply ducked, allowing West to win the trick with the nine.

West was well and truly enplayed. If he exited with a red suit, he would give declarer a ruff-and-suff. If he returned a spade, he would concede two more tricks in that suit to declarer's combined ace-queen tenace. Either way the slam was assured.

Key Democrats Cool To Social Security Changes

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter may face a battle with key congressional Democrats if he hopes to pass his Social Security proposals, which will lead to higher taxes for most workers and their employers. The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Al Ullman, said Monday he saw no need to make the far-reaching changes Carter wants in order to solve short-term Social Security financing problems. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, called Carter's proposals a step in the right direction. But he added that the Senate is likely to "vote to do much of what the President is recommending We may find ways to improve on his recommendations." The proposals were spelled out by Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. Califano arranged to provide details today to a ways and means subcommittee. Some lawmakers apparently see the Carter plan, including unprecedented use of income taxes to feed the pension fund, as the least painful way to save Social Security from bankruptcy.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, without committing himself to details, said some action is needed to shore up the system. Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said he would favor using taxes to save the fund if the alternative were bankruptcy for Social Security.

Under Carter's proposals, changes in Social Security would be felt starting in two years. Beginning in 1979, all employers and those workers who now earn more than $16,500 a year would pay more taxes into the Social Security fund. Lower-paid workers would begin paying higher taxes in 1985.

In a message to Congress, Carter said $83 billion in new revenue is needed for Social Security by 1982. Otherwise the fund that finances benefits for disabled persons will be exhausted in 1979, while the fund from which old-age and survivors benefits are paid will run out of money in 1983, he warned.

Older Americans shouldn't have to live in fear that their benefits may be reduced or cut off," he said. "Younger Americans must be free to plan for their futures." The proposed changes drew praise from organized labor and criticism from an organization of businessmen. AFL-CIO President George Meany said in a statement Carter's plan "would put the Social Security program on a sound financial basis now and in the future." The United Auto Workers Union also praised the President's recommendations. But Andrew Melgard, an official of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said his organization "will strongly oppose the administration's short-term measures to use general revenues, that is, income taxes, and to increase only employer taxes to pay current benefits."

New Security Standards Set For Credit Reporting Industry

The credit reporting industry, through its national trade association, Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc., has adopted a new set of security standards for credit bureaus designed to guard against tampering with consumer credit information, according to Ed Walker, Executive Vice President of the Credit Bureau of Greenville.

"and individual credit bureaus such as ours have maintained their individual security procedures in the past. Recent fraud attempts in several cities, however, have spotlighted the desirability of an overall industry code to redouble our defenses against fraudulent 'doctoring' of consumer credit reports," Walker said. "Our industry is encouraged, by the vigorous and successful prosecution under the existing fraud statutes of would-be file tamperers outside credit bureaus and their accomplices inside the bureaus. Many of these actions have resulted in deserved jail sentences for those who attempted to falsify consumer credit records," he continued. The Credit Bureau of Greenville is a member of Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc. and will scrupulously adhere to the new industry standards for file security. Elements of security of covered in the new code physical office and building setup; careful screening and indoctrination of employees; limited access of employees to file records; careful sifting of prospective subscribers, scrutinizing and rechecking information furnished by subscribers, especially when it would "whitewash" an adverse record; and detecting unauthorized changes in file records by inside or outside sources.

John L. Spafford, President of Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc., said the security standards contain safeguards for computerized credit bureaus in the handling and processing of computer tape data, careful audit trails to permit backtracking each step of the information gathering process, safety of documents and supervised destruction of obsolete information.

Questions, Answers On Social Security Plans

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are answers to questions about President Carter's proposal to change the system for financing Social Security benefits.

Q. How much will it cost the wage earner who doesn't earn enough to reach the ceiling on Social Security taxes, now set at $16,500?

A. Yes. Because of a mistake in the 1972 Social Security law, future retirees benefit twice when the cost of living rises. The Carter proposal would eliminate the double counting, which means future benefits will keep pace with inflation but won't exceed it.

Metric Week Observed In Pitt County Schools

Pitt County Schools, like many schools in the state are observing North Carolina Metric Week May 9-13, as proclaimed by Governor Jim Hunt and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. The Pitt County Board of Education also passed a resolution proclaiming the observance of Metric Week. According to Jane Huffman, Mathematics Resource Teacher for Pitt County Schools, each school will participate in the Metric Week activities. Teachers were trained and a metric resource teacher for each county school was selected in January. The metric resource teachers have made plans to metrically educate all teachers.

children will learn how much they weigh and how tall they are in metric measurements. At Stokes Elementary School students will discover their measurements in metric figures. The students will measure small objects found in the classrooms to compare metric measurements. The students will also measure the distances of room wall structures. A metric field day will be held at A.G. Cox School. The occupational classes will experience metric measurements in cooking classes. At Chicod School commercials and plays will be written using metrics. A metrical poster contest will be held and a metrical estimating contest will be conducted.

measurements the amount of gasoline the family uses each week, and the amount of milk, tea or coffee the family consumes. Mrs. Evelyn Jenkins, curriculum specialist in mathematics will be at the school to provide explanations and metric demonstrations May 10. Parents will be invited to attend. In observance of National Metric Week at North Pitt High School a display will be placed inside the front door of the school and metric posters will be placed throughout the school. A combination Art and Metric Open House will be held May 10.

In addition to requiring minimum security procedures for all credit bureaus, the new standards also suggest even more comprehensive and more stringent methods which may be incorporated into a given credit bureau system on an optional basis. "These security standards are being instituted for the mutual benefit of consumers, creditors and credit bureaus alike," Walker said. "We solicit the cooperation of all segments of this community in protecting this data which is so important to our credit economy."

Arrest 4 In Theft Cases

Four persons have been arrested by the Pitt Sheriff's Department on charges stemming from the investigation of four April break-ins. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested Muriel Anderson Jr., 19, of 1709 Smith Street; Clarence Howell Jr., 44, of 297 Clements Avenue; and Arthur Lee Brann Jr., 21, of 603 Mumford Road, on four counts each of breaking, entering and larceny. Robert Lee Elks of Rt. 3, Box 117, Greenville, was arrested and charged with one count of receiving stolen property in connection with the incidents. The sheriff said that Anderson, Howell and Brann are charged with break-in incidents at Oakley Oil Co. of Farmville, Lloyd's Tire Service, Branch's Trading Post, and at Mitch's Tire Service. Bond was set at $5,000 each for Anderson, Howell and Brann, Sheriff Tyson noted, and $500 for Elks. Hearings were set for May 9 in District court here.

Q. How would the plan affect people now receiving Social Security checks?
A. The plan would not affect present benefits at all, but without some changes in the current financing system, Social Security would go broke in about five years, and the checks would stop.
Q. Does the plan affect the benefits of future retirees?
A. Probably not. Administration officials say they never expect the reserves to be spent, so the money would be a paper transfer from one government pocket to another. If the economy plunges into recession, and the money were spent to pay Social Security benefits, the President would have to raise the budget and possibly income taxes.
Q. How much will it cost workers who make more than the ceiling?
A. The proposal would raise the ceiling $600 four times in alternate years beginning in 1979. This means that people making more than the ceiling could expect to pay $36 more in 1979, $40 more than that in 1981 and comparable increases in 1983 and 1985.
Q. How about the seven million self-employed people who pay Social Security taxes?

A. Their taxes will go up from 7 per cent to 7.5 per cent.
Q. Does taking money from general tax funds and putting it into Social Security reserves mean an increase in income taxes?
A. Probably not. Administration officials say they never expect the reserves to be spent, so the money would be a paper transfer from one government pocket to another. If the economy plunges into recession, and the money were spent to pay Social Security benefits, the President would have to raise the budget and possibly income taxes.

I won't settle for anything less than taste.

A lot of cigarettes promise taste. But for me, only one cigarette delivers. Winston. I get real taste and real pleasure every time I light up. I won't settle for less. Would you?
