SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — The parking lot at the Beverly Hills Supper Club is still crowded. Scores of cars sit as silent sentinels for the people who never drove away.

As recovery efforts resumed today, 159 bodies had been pulled from the charred ruins where a fire Saturday night had panicked 3,500 to 5,000 partying patrons. One other person died later at a hospital, raising the toll to 160.

"We're bringing in an additional crane to search, but all reports are there are no more bodies," the mayor of Southgate said today. "We have found no more clothing or personal belongings."

On Sunday, Fire Chief Dick Riesenberg had said he didn't think any more bodies would be found, but rescue supervisor Jim Lanagan said he feared more victims still lay under the rubble.

Richard Schilling, who owns the club with his brother and father, said today he would have no comment on the fire. "All we are trying to do is cooperate as much as possible," he said.

The disaster left relatives weeping at an armory-turned-morgue and officials talking about inadequate safety laws.

Many survivors said they thought the electricity failed. They said the club was pitched into darkness shortly after the fire became known. A local policeman said when he arrived at the club, he saw no lights, including exit lights.

"As best as I can remember, when I got there at 9:30 there wasn't a light inside or out," said patrolman Tom Rebercomb of neighboring Fort Thomas, Ky. "The big light out front was out. It was the first time I could remember it being out."

Campbell County Coroner Fred Stine said more than 130 people had been hospitalized for burns or smoke inhalation.

The bodies, many of them uncovered after a crane lifted parts of the collapsed roof, were ferried to the armory in Fort Thomas on military trucks.

Early in the effort, the trucks had to pick their way through traffic jams on the narrow quarter-mile path from the club, high atop a bluff across the Ohio River from Cincinnati.

Later Sunday, they bounced past begrimed, exhausted firefighters cat-

Grads Sent Forth

The 1977 graduating class of East Carolina University was told Sunday that today's young people will be challenged to "help our country move across a major new threshold in history," one which holds promise of a much better world.

Troy W. Pate, Jr. of Goldsboro, chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees told the 2,900 graduates that "achieving our goals in life will not be easy."

"The scope and concern facing this graduating class will be broader than envisioned for any class in the history of this university," Pate said. "How well we meet these concerns will depend upon the quality of leadership we can give. This consideration is especially relevant to our graduates here today and to young people across the nation, for it is on their understanding and achievements that we place our hopes for the future," Pate continued.

Paying tribute to veteran ECU chancellor, Leo W. Jenkins, Pate said, "I doubt if Dr. Leo Jenkins could have envisioned at his graduation the challenges that would lead him to the many achievements for which he is so well known. Few of today's leaders could have anticipated the responsibilities they now fulfill," he added.

"We do know, however, that to solve the problems in our communities, and in our state and nation, leaders must have the kind of broad educational

HELP NEEDED

Mrs. Rosalie Smith, 24, underwent surgery at Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday for the removal of her spleen. She received 12 pints of blood prior to the operation and more afterward. She suffers from a rare blood disease.

Her husband, Edward, 28, and she and their son, now five, came here from Dillon, S. C. for him to be pastor of a fledgling church which has since disbanded. He works at Empire Brushes here and she was taken to the hospital right off the job at Prepshirt about three weeks ago.

The medical expenses and other reversals the couple has undergone in the past few months has left them with mortgaged furniture, a big debt to a finance company, and behind in their rent.

A friend, Mrs. Stella Anderson, has gained their permission to appeal through Hotline for help for them. Anyone wishing to donate or to send them notes of encouragement may direct them to Mrs. Anderson's home, 1211 Chestnut Street here. Her phone number is 758-4966.

Anyone giving blood in the near future may do so as replacement for Mrs. Smith, if he or she wishes.

TELEPHONE REASSURANCE

The Easter Seal Society is making plans for a telephone reassurance program in which any person living alone and wishing to be called and checked on each day may have a friend do so. Friends are being recruited through the Society itself and Volunteer Greenville.

Anyone wishing to have the service, free of charge, may call Susan Clark at the Easter Seal Society office, 758-3230 or Volunteer Greenville, 752-4137, Ext. 255.

Anyone wishing to volunteer to call someone each day may call either of the two numbers.

Ms. Clark said an orientation meeting for volunteers will be held soon. She said she hopes, in time, to extend the service to other counties, as well as Pitt.

'Standoff' As Dutch Play A Waiting Game

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Dutch authorities have cut the telephone link between two groups of South Moluccan terrorists and strung barbed wire around a school where they are holding hostages.

But the Dutch reported no progress in negotiations Sunday night with the 11 armed extremists who hold 59 hostages in the school and a train 10 miles away.

The government's telephone lines to the school and the train remained in operation.

The Justice Ministry said the Moluccans continue to demand the release of 21 compatriots imprisoned for previous terrorist offenses and a jumbo jet to fly all of them out of the country.

"Their demands remain the same as at the beginning of the terror actions, and the two sides have not come any closer to each other," a Justice Ministry spokesman said.

The Moluccans, who demand independence from Indonesia for their ancestral islands in the former Dutch East Indies, have indicated they also want to take hostages with them out of the country. The government says it will not agree to that.

Dr. A.J. Fonteijn, a senior Justice Ministry official, said 1,200 soldiers and hundreds of state police were surrounding the school at Bovensmilde and the train, which is sitting on a track in open farmland north of Assen.

The government installed the phone hookup early in the siege, which began last Monday when the terrorists seized the train and school in simultaneous operations in the northern Netherlands. The gunmen released 105 children and a teacher from the school Thursday and Friday after about half of the youngsters developed diarrhea and fever, but they are still holding four teachers in the school and 55 persons on the train.

Doctors said 18 of the children showed symptoms of meningitis, a sometimes-fatal spinal inflammation, but only one child still had the symptoms Sunday.

Toos Faber of the Justice Ministry said the barbed wire was put around the schoolhouse with the permission of the terrorists to prevent unauthorized persons from approaching the building and possibly provoking the four gunmen inside.

Police turned back about 20 persons who offered themselves on Sunday as substitutes for the hostages held on the train.

The leader of the terrorist operation, who is on the train, talked for 75 minutes Sunday night with Dr. Dick Mulder, a psychiatrist who is conducting negotiations for the government. The Moluccan refused a third time to release a 23-year-old pregnant woman from the train, but officials said negotiations to free her would continue.

The Moluccan islands lie between the Celebes and West Irian and became part of Indonesia with the rest of the Dutch East Indies in 1949. The Moluccans, who had been supporters of Dutch rule and some of the best fighting units in the colonial army, rebelled against the Indonesian government in Jakarta but were defeated. Many fled to The Netherlands.

Rhodesians Raid Guerrilla Bases Inside Mozambique

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian troops who raided a base camp for black Rhodesian guerrillas in neighboring Mozambique pushed deeper into the neighboring black state today and destroyed two other bases, a military communique announced.

The government of Mozambique charged that three of its army bases were attacked.

The Rhodesian communique said one of the camps destroyed today was the guerrillas' control center for all offensives into southeastern Rhodesia. It was located at Mapai, 60 miles south of the Rhodesian border police post of Vila Salazar and 30 miles from the border, the communique said.

The announcement gave no further details and did not locate the second camp destroyed today.

An earlier communique said the guerrilla camp attacked Sunday was two miles from Vila Salazar and at least 20 rebels were killed. It said the invading troops also seized "a large quantity" of war materiel and that no Rhodesian troops were killed.

Chitanga and the Nuanetsi River. All are near the Rhodesian border in southern Mozambique. The report gave no casualty figures.

The attack was made as British and American envoys left Salisbury for Maputo, the capital of Mozambique, after five days of talks with black and white political leaders about a peaceful transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia by 1978.

The two envoys, U.S. Ambassador to Zambia Steven Low and British Foreign Undersecretary John Graham, were to meet in Maputo with Robert Mugabe, the black Rhodesian leader whose guerrillas operate from bases in Mozambique. Political observers in Salisbury suggested the raid was timed to influence the meeting with Mugabe.

Mozambique, which gained its independence from Portugal two years ago, is a major supporter of the black guerrillas fighting the white government of Prime Minister Ian Smith. Zambia and Botswana also provide help and refuge to the guerrillas.

Holiday Toll

By The Associated Press
With the homebound traffic rush still ahead, more than 300 persons already had been killed in highway accidents over the Memorial Day weekend.

By midmorning today, 307 traffic deaths were reported.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 400 and 500 persons could lose their lives over the three-day weekend, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

Last year, 442 persons were killed during the three-day Memorial Day weekend.

The largest number of traffic deaths for the weekend was in 1968 when 629 persons died during a four-day observance.

Cherry-Norville Vows Spoken

Trinity Free Will Baptist Church was the scene of the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Kim Marie Norville and Leroy Talton Cherry Jr., both of Greenville. The double ring ceremony was performed at three o'clock by the Rev. Ed Walker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Norville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Eleanor B. Cherry and Mr. Leroy Talton Cherry.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Eloise Jackson, organist. Mrs. Eloise Taylor sang "A Time For Us," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with all brass wedding accessories. In the center of the choir loft was a semi-circle candelabra flanked by spiral candelabra and palms, tiered candelabra filled with white spring flowers. At the altar was a decorated prie-dieu where the bridal couple knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The V-neckline of the empire bodice was outlined in cluny and Venise lace. Full sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed at the wrist with lace. The full A-line skirt was accented by an apron effect edged in cluny lace. The chapel length train and skirt were finished by a deep flounce.

She chose a chapel length veil of silk illusion attached to a Camelot cap of Venise lace. The bride carried a semi-cascade formal bouquet of white orchids, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath tied with pink and white satin.

Mrs. David Ryon of Washington, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sarah Edwards, Vicky Price, Francine Cooke of Greenville, Susan Bach of Florida, Cathy Cobb of Farmville, cousin of the bride, Teresa Hart and Beth Cherry of Greenville, sisters of the bridegroom. They wore formal gowns of white chiffon over peau de soie. The natural waisted bodice featured a scooped neckline accented by a bertha collar of chiffon forming fly-away sleeves. A braided belt of chiffon embellished the waistline and the full skirt had layers of solid white chiffon.

They wore matching picture hats of white bridal braid which were encircled with matching flowers. They carried cascade bouquets with shades of pink and American beauty carnations with baby's breath tied with azalea pink bows with long streamers.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Groomsman were Joey and Louis Cherry, brothers of the bridegroom, Paul Hart, brother-in-law of the bridegroom of Greenville, David Ryon, uncle of the bride of Washington, Joey Moore, Macon Moye and Henry Bunn, also of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal maize knit gown designed with a high neckline and empire bodice centered with a rhinestone inset. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal peach gown of polyester designed with the layered look. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Mrs. K. Z. Cobb and Mrs. Robert Lee Norville, grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. Henry Brown, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore formal gowns and were remembered with corsages of white carnations.

Miss Charlene Harper presided at the register and Mrs. Shirley Davis of Farmville, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall given by the bride's parents.

MRS. LEROY TALTON CHERRY JR.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mills of Greenville.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice, the five-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. R. B. Elks. Punch was poured by Mrs. Wesley Cobb, aunt of the bride. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Baldree.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained the bridal party at an after-rehearsal dinner Saturday night at the Candlewick Inn.

Mrs. David Ryon, Mrs. Marvin Cobb and Mrs. Wesley Cobb, aunts of the bride, honored the bride-elect at a bridesmaids luncheon Saturday at the Colonial House, Farmville.

For a wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a white jump suit with a matching jacket and her mother's corsage.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride graduated from Rose High School and is employed by the Greenville Eye Clinic. The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and attended Elon College. He is now a senior at ECU.

Local Attorney Speaks On Bankruptcy

Greenville Credit Women International held its monthly meeting at the Three Steers Tuesday evening. James T. Cheatham III, local attorney with the law firm of Everett and Cheatham, was guest speaker.

Cheatham's program topic was "Modern Day Bankruptcy." Bankruptcy laws, according to Cheatham, date back to Biblical days; however due to inflation, bankruptcy has increased greatly in the past few years.

He explained the step-by-step procedures followed in declaring bankruptcy and elaborated on the Bankruptcy Act and the laws governing bankruptcy proceedings. He also explained the Wage Earner Plan.

Martha Mills reported on plans for the annual picnic to be held in July. Members were urged to register for the annual state conference in Raleigh June 19-20. Governor Jim Hunt will be the guest speaker at the Monday evening banquet.

The club voted to sell hotdogs at Moore's Building Supply during the July 4 weekend as a moneymaking project.

President Carol Hardee appointed Jane Walker as chairman of the Attendance Committee for October. She also appointed Gwen Smith, a new member who is employed with East Federal Savings and Loan, Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jane Hays, Miss Susan Carter of Greenville, and Mrs. Frederick Bass of Fuquay-Varina. They wore identical gowns of Nile green dotted swiss. The attendants carried baskets of spring flowers.

Clement Haley of Antioch, Ill., served as best man and ushers were W. Banks Cozart III of Greenville, Steve Thompson and Peter Schutta of New Bern.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Greeting guests were Mrs. H. H. Duncan and Mrs. Phoebe Owens. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Brown.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. D. Wilbur Branch, Mrs. James W. Carter, Mrs. M. J. Moye, Mrs. Ralph Tucker, Mrs. Karl Turner and Mrs. D. L. Williams.

The wedding party and other guests were entertained at a rehearsal dinner Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Moore, given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bass, Mrs. H. H. Duncan, Mrs. W. Harold Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. E. O. Parkinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Mrs. Rufus Stark, Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucker and Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. Underwood.

A bridesmaids luncheon Friday was given by Mrs. M. J. Moye and Miss Susan Moye at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Pittman-Griffin Vows Solemnized

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The marriage of Sandra Lewis Griffin of Greenville, N. C., and Samuel Attison Pittman of Nashville, Tenn., was solemnized Sunday evening at seven o'clock.

The double ring, candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean Guye in the Donelson Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Nashville. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jean McClean, organist. The bridegroom sang "Each For The Other" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Donald Morgan and Mr. D. E. Lewis Jr., both of Ahoskie, N. C. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Virgie Outen of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mr. Samuel Albert Pittman of Raleigh, N. C.

For the ceremony, the bride was dressed in a floor length gown of ivory. The bodice was made of taffeta overlaid with chiffon and the back was of tiered chiffon. The gown was fashioned with butterfly sleeves of chiffon.

She wore a matching garden hat with shoulder length illusion decorated with a spray of flowers. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

The honor attendant was Rose Lewis of Greenville, N. C., sister of the bride. She wore a yellow gown of crepe polyester fashioned with an empire waistline. She wore a garden hat in light yellow decorated with a matching flower and ribbon.

The best man was Steve Cayton of Nashville, Tenn. Ushers were Blanton Alsbaugh and Joe Reese, both of Nashville, Tenn.

Following a wedding trip to Chattanooga, Tenn., the couple will reside in Nashville, Tenn., where the bridegroom is attending Free Will Baptist Bible College.

A reception was held following the ceremony given by friends in the church.

An after-rehearsal dinner Saturday night was given by friends in the church.

MRS. WILLIAM WELKER ROUSE

Couple Speaks Vows In Double Ring Ceremony Sunday

AULANDER — Charlotte Rose Jernigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richard Jernigan of Aulander, became the bride of William Welker Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Welker Rouse of Lucama, Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert C. White in the Conaritsa Baptist Church. A program of wedding music was presented by William R. Raynor of Ahoskie, organist, and Mrs. C. E. Baker of Aulander, aunt of the bride, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of quiana and beaded alencon lace. The fitted bodice featured a Victorian neckline and cardinal sleeves.

Alencon lace etched with seed pearls adorned the bodice and trimmed the sleeves. The illusion yoke was trimmed in a starburst effect of alencon lace. The full length skirt extended into a chapel train.

Her veil of illusion was bordered with matching alencon lace attached to a profile design headpiece of lace etched with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Carol Ann Patterson Weds

Miss Carol Ann Patterson became the bride of Donald Henry Lundegard Sunday at four o'clock in the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. John A.

Farmer officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Dr. David Foster. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Thomas Patterson of Greenville, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lundegard of Antioch, Ill.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a bib of cluny lace with a deep V-neckline. Sheer fitted sleeves were cuffed at the wrist with a ruffle. The full A-line skirt, which continued into a wattleau, was edged in layers of cluny lace and accented with appliques of Venise lace.

She wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion attached to a Camelot cap of Venise lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of snowdrift, white daisies, carnations and pom poms with white streamers.

Miss Susan Moye of Greenville, maid of honor, wore a formal length gown of maize yellow dotted swiss over taffeta designed with a portrait neckline featuring a ruffled bertha collar. The fitted empire bodice was styled with short capelet sleeves with the waistline encircled in maize satin ribbon with a Dior bow with streamers in front. The modified A-line skirt was accented by a deep ruffled flounce at the hemline.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jane Hays, Miss Susan Carter of Greenville, and Mrs. Frederick Bass of Fuquay-Varina. They wore identical gowns of Nile green dotted swiss. The attendants carried baskets of spring flowers.

Clement Haley of Antioch, Ill., served as best man and ushers were W. Banks Cozart III of Greenville, Steve Thompson and Peter Schutta of New Bern.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Greeting guests were Mrs. H. H. Duncan and Mrs. Phoebe Owens. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Brown.

Dear Abby

Insists on Wearing White to Wedding

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married in June at a formal church wedding. This will be my first marriage, and I want everything to be perfect.

The bridesmaids are wearing pastel gowns, and my mother is wearing powder blue chiffon, but my fiancée's mother wants to wear what she described as "beige lace." I saw it, and it is NOT beige. It is more like eggshell. It has a matching lace cap with a small nylon net veil attached. She had this outfit made two years ago for her second marriage, and it looks very much like a bridal outfit to me.

I raised a big stink about it because I don't want two "brides" at my wedding.

She isn't hard up for money and could easily buy another gown for my wedding, but she insists on wearing that one.

My fiancée is her only child, so I hate to tell her to either wear something else or stay home.

I feel it's MY day, and she should respect my wishes. My fiancée refuses to get involved.

What is your advice?

SILVER SPRINGS BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: I agree with you. She should wear something less bride-like. You've stated your objections, and if she chooses to ignore them, don't tell her to stay home. If there appears to be two "brides" at your wedding, she, not you, will look out of place.

DEAR ABBY: A woman signed TEN YEARS TOO LATE wrote to say that she deeply regretted not letting her husband go to "the other woman" when he wanted to. She said she knew that they really loved each other, but she hung on to him for security and regarded the other woman as a "tramp" who had stolen her husband.

She closed her letter by saying, "As my husband lay dying in the hospital, her name—not mine—was on his lips. Perhaps if I had let him go when he wanted to, he'd be alive today, for heartaches, pressure and frustration can undermine a man's health. I saw it happen. I won the battle, but lost the war."

Abby, here's my answer to that wife:

Please don't berate yourself for winning the battle you fought 10 years ago. You loved your husband and fought for him with whatever weapons were available.

He decided that you needed him more than I did, and although his decision hurt you, it was no surprise to me.

When he was dying I fought the urge to call you and ask if I could see him briefly one last time. He enriched my life, and I wanted him to know it. But I spared you my phone call. It was part of the price we "other women" must pay. Now, spare yourself.

You have suffered enough. Please don't feel guilty for "hanging on to him." He considered you a good wife and mother. "That's what makes it so tough," he told me often.

You have no reason to feel guilty. Hold your head up and honor his memory. Enjoy the children you raised together and those wonderful grandchildren, too.

Be proud to have been his wife. The real irony in this whole sad story is that you are the only person who can understand the pain I felt when he died. And we can't console each other.

Shalom,

HER

JCs Bestowed Special Honor

The Greenville Jaycees awarded Hal Smith membership in the Jaycees International Senate during the local club's annual installation banquet Friday evening.

Jaycee International is a federation of Jaycees in 80 countries. Membership is restricted to those who have been Jaycees over three years and have served "above and beyond the normal activities of a Jaycee."

The award is the highest recognition of accomplishment that can be presented to a current or past member of a Jaycee chapter.

The Greenville chapter has given a JCI Senatorship five times in its 39-year history.

Previous winners were Billy Laughinghouse, Gene Prescott, Tom Reese and Donald Brady.

Smith, a ten-year member of the chapter, is a past president of the organization. During the past year, he served as a district director of the State Jaycees.

A native of Vanceboro, he earned both his bachelors and masters degrees from East Carolina University.

Four names were omitted from Sunday's article concerning the banquet. They were: Sam Jones and Bobby Tripp as new directors; Jack Myers as parliamentarian; and Bobby Jackson as chaplain for the coming year.

Initiated 83 Into ECU Honor Society

Eighty-three graduate and undergraduate students in the East Carolina University School of Education have been initiated into ECU's Eta Chi chapter of Kappa Delta Pi honor society in education.

The students were formally taken into membership at a recent ceremony here conducted by Dr. William B. Martin, professor of education and chapter counselor, and chapter president Susan Tucker Holmes of Greenville, vice president Frieda Sanders Bunn of Spring Hope and secretary/historian Mary Daughtridge of Dunn.

Featured speaker was Sam Bundy of Farmville, member of the N. C. House of Representatives. Bundy was presented an honorary membership into Eta Chi chapter.

Kappa Delta Pi is open to students of education who have superior academic records. Its purpose is to promote the education profession and to recognize and reward achievement in the service to education.

Names and hometown addresses of the 83 new Kappa Delta Pi members follow:

Six Drown On Weekend

At least six persons, five of them children, drowned in separate accidents across North Carolina Sunday.

Seven-year-old Penny Lee Lytle of Asheville died after she fell into deep water while playing along the banks of the French Broad River near Hot Springs. Rescue workers failed to recover her body and resumed their search Monday.

Four-year-old Evan Chappell of Raleigh drowned in three to four feet of water near Vive-rette point on Lake Gaston.

John Wesley McLaughlin Jr., 29, of Conover, died while swimming in Lake Lookout on the Catawba River. His body was recovered Sunday evening about 75 feet from shore.

Ricky Pless, 11, of Lincolnton, drowned during a family outing at Lake Norman. Authorities said he was on an inner tube that flipped over.

Randy Harris, 11, of Gaston, drowned when a boat wave flipped his raft on Lake Gaston.

Roy Tillery, 9, drowned in an abandoned swimming pool near Enfield.

Arrest Man On Assault Charges

A 22-year-old Winston-Salem man was arrested Friday afternoon here on assault charges following an incident at the Elbo Room on Cotanche Street about 5:10 p.m., Police Chief Glenn Cannon reported.

According to the chief, William Stephen Webster allegedly pulled a knife on Mike Williams at the Elbo Room. Williams, Cannon said, was not injured.

Police took Webster into custody, about 10 minutes after the alleged assault, on a Greenville Area Transit bus at the intersection of Fourth Street and Evans Mall.

Webster was jailed under a $400 bond pending hearing of the case in court.

Projects In Grads Sent Forth... The Middle

RALEIGH (AP) — The Falls of the Neuse Dam and two other public works water projects in North Carolina have inadvertently become caught in a dispute between President Carter and Congress.

The Neuse dam, the B. Everett Jordan Dam and the Randleman Lake projects are included in a $10.2 billion public works bill which the House Appropriations Committee voted to cut by three per cent.

The final outcome of appropriations legislation for the projects is still in doubt. Action is still to be taken on the House and Senate floors, and President Carter has threatened to veto the entire package if Congress does not delete 17 key water projects.

If the three per cent reduction remains, the Neuse project would be cut from $15 million to $14.5 million, the Jordan project from $9.7 to $9.4 million, and the Randleman Lake project from $600,000 to $582,000.

Rep. Ike F. Andrews, D-N.C., said that in light of President Carter's larger dispute with Congress over the 17 projects, it would be futile to try to restore funding for the Neuse project.

Dave Hewitt, a spokesman for the U.S. Corps of Engineers, said the cut could cause some delay in the Neuse construction. "Some aspect will have to be foregone until the following year," he said.

The cut was reported by the Washington bureau of the News and Observer of Raleigh.

Melancholy But Not Pessimistic

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Television news commentator Howard K. Smith says he's a bit melancholy, but not pessimistic, about the ability of today's college graduates to solve long-range problems.

The ABC-TV personality spoke and received an honorary degree during commencement ceremonies at Lehigh University here.

"Consider our assets," he said. "We are still the most nearly self-sufficient nation in the world."

"You are the first generation to graduate without any traumas like Watergate hanging over your heads, except for a mild recession," Smith said.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and his wife Nancy also received honorary degrees. Kissinger did not speak.

Kissinger received an honorary doctor of laws degree, as did Smith. Mrs. Kissinger's degree was a doctorate of humane letters.

nations and centered with a miniature orchid.

The honor attendant was Laura Beth Jernigan of Aulander, sister of the bride. She was dressed in a floor length Nile green knit gown with an organza floral cape. The sleeveless gown featured a high neck, empire waist and A-line skirt. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and yellow carnations. She wore a garden hat of matching Nile green.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Steven Wilson of Norfolk, Va., sister of the bridegroom, Miss Peggy Ellen Baker of New Bern, and Miss Cecelia Jernigan of Charlotte, cousins of the bride, and Miss Ann Early of Aulander. Their gowns were like those of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets of white carnations and yellow roses.

Holley Jane Baker of Aulander, and SuAnn Jernigan of Charlotte were flower girls. They wore floor length dresses of green floral organza with full skirts, cape sleeves and green satin ribbon sashes. They carried baskets of mixed flowers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Joseph Richard Jernigan Jr. and John M. Jernigan; both of Aulander, Hugh King McLaughlin Jr. of Jacksonville, Douglas Sherman, Bobby L. Tripp of Greenville, and LeVern Buck of Chocowinity.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride is a graduate of ECU, where she is presently completing a second teacher certification. The bridegroom is a graduate of ECU and is completing his Master's degree there. He has taught under the graduate fellowship program this year.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

An after-rehearsal party was given by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rouse, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Jernigan and Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Jernigan.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given Saturday by Mrs. Charles L. Callis, Mrs. Sammy Doughtie, Mrs. Clayton L. Godwin and Mrs. Tommy Umphlette at the Callis home in Aboskie.

Senators At Local Event

Senator Jesse Helms and Senator Jim Allen (D-Ala.) will be special guests at a reception and dinner sponsored by the North Carolina Congressional Club June 11 in Greenville.

The Congressional Club is a bipartisan organization of over 1,500 persons from all across North Carolina. Sen. Helms is honorary chairman of the club.

Area members of the Congressional Club include Mac and Eloise Howard, Dr. John East, Jack Taylor, Harry McMullan, Frank Wooten, Dr. Robert Sandy, Thompson Litchfield and Dr. Charles Pace.

The dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Wright Auditorium on the ECU campus. Tickets are $5 and can be obtained in Greenville at the Cherry Building or at the door.

Revival Series Begins Tonight

Revival services will be conducted at Cherry Lane Free Will Baptist Church May 30 through June 3.

Tonight, St. John Missionary Baptist Church, choir and ushers will be in charge of services.

Tuesday, Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church will render services; Wednesday, Simpson Chapel F.W.B. Church; Thursday, Holly Hill F.W.B. Church; and Friday, St. James F.W.B. Church from Farmville.

The evangelist of the week is the Rev. Z. D. Harris from Durham.

The public is invited to attend.

Final Meet For Beta Sigma Phi

Eta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its final meeting of the year at the home of Carol Moe for a salad supper.

Installation of officers for the 1977-78 year was held: President, Beth Morin; Vice President, Jackie Brown; Corresponding Secretary, Barbara Sloan; Recording Secretary, Judy McLeod; Treasurer, Linda Hooper; and Extension Officer, Carolyn Powell.

The chapter planned a pig pickin' for June 11 at Cherry Court and a wine tasting party in the fall.

It was decided to donate $600 to the United Cerebral Palsy as its major service project of the year.

The ritual of jewels was held for Sandra Everett and pledge rituals were held for Bonnie Tapscott, Cindy Hart and Marie Horne.

Hospital Suing Jerry Lee, Wife

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Doctors Hospital has filed suit to collect about $16,400 for medical care it says it has provided to singer Jerry Lee Lewis and his wife.

The Circuit Court suit claims Lewis and his wife made 18 visits to the hospital for both emergency and long-term care from March 1976 through May 3, 1977, but never paid the bills.

Lewis' doctor, Hall Worthington, said the singer had his gall bladder removed.

The two students receiving the highest academic averages were announced, Pamela Jean Fisher of Wilmington, an Elementary Education major received a 4.0 average and William Edwin Ross of Greenville a History major received a 3.888 average.

As graduates of each curricula stood Chancellor Jenkins conferred their degrees.

Taking Lead In Parking Areas

The Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission will have a special call meeting to consider an amendment which would require vegetation areas in new parking lots.

Commissioners set the meeting prior to the June 9 the council session so that a recommendation can be made at that time to the City Council.

The proposed amendment would require that all off street parking areas of 20,000 square feet and or containing more than two rows of parking stalls shall provide and maintain areas of vegetation in accordance with certain specified standards.

While changes could be made in the proposed amendment to the City Code there is every indication that the Planning and Zoning Commission will come up with some regulations concerning vegetation in parking areas.

At one time it appeared that the commission had given up on these efforts. There was prodding from the mayor and council, however, and we may soon have an acceptable ordinance.

One only has to look at the recently completed parking area of Greenville Square to see how much more attractive and safer a planned parking area can be.

The argument that other cities do not have requirements concerning islands and vegetation in parking lots is not valid. Greenville has attempted to sell itself as being one of the state's most progressive cities, and we should be one which takes the lead in this matter.

The Joint Planning and Zoning Commission is on the move toward solving this problem and the commissioners are to be commended.

Real Prize For Manuscript Collection

The East Carolina Manuscript Collection has received a prize in the campaign files and personal papers of Gov. Jim Hunt which have been donated to the University.

The valuable papers will be placed in the Manuscript College at Joyner Library to be available to historians and other scholars.

The record of Jim Hunt as governor has yet to be completed and assessed. Because he is governor, however, his files and personal papers will be a highly valuable collection which will provide useful information for centuries on this time in North Carolina government for centuries.

THIS AFTERNOON Attention To School Pay

By Bill Noblitt
RALEIGH—Recent public attention on salaries paid local presidents of community colleges or technical institutes has served to focus attention on other administrative costs of public education in North Carolina.

It is interesting to note that the community college system administrators are typically paid salaries ranging from $4,000 to $5,000 per year higher than salaries paid their counterparts in the public schools.

The average salary paid local superintendents of school is $27,040 per year; the average community college or technical institute president receives $31,722.

The average state-paid salary for local school superintendents is $21,778. Local supplements add an average of $5,261 to bring the total to $27,040.

In the community college system, the average state salary is $26,730; the average local supplement is $4,993; to reach the total of $31,722.

Averages, as usual, are deceiving, however. Some local systems provide no local supplement, while others pay substantial local amounts above the state level.

So while salaries for either school superintendents or leaders in the community college system do not vary as much on the state level, sharp differences result because of the local supplements.

The highest school salary is in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg system—biggest in the state with some 78,000 children. The superintendent is paid $29,664 in state money; $10,400 in local, for a total of $40,064. That is the only system which goes over the $40,000 mark.

The lowest is in Clay County where the basic state salary of $19,104 is not locally supplemented. Of the state's 145 school units, only six do not pay any local supplement: Cherokee, Clay, Hertford, Mitchell, Polk, and

Local pay
Among the rest paying supplements, the amounts vary widely. Some pay as low as $1,150; the average runs $5,261. Highest supplements are paid in Durham County

School superintendents receive a total of $3.9 million in the state; total school administration locally is costing more than $30 million. That remains, however, about 2.5 per cent of the total cost of public education in North Carolina—now well above a billion dollars annually from state, local and federal sources.

Community College presidents are paid a total $1.8 million in salaries. The highest is at Central Piedmont Community College where the state salary is $31,051; local supplement is $13,978, for a total of $45,029. In Wake County, the local supplement of $16,680 is the highest in the state providing a total salary of $44,052.

Ten schools pay no local supplement to the president Anson, James-Sprunt, McDowell, Nash, Randolph, Roanoke-Chowan, Sandhills, Southwestern, and County.)

Six schools pay more than $40,000, including Wake and Central Piedmont: Central Carolina, Fayetteville, Guilford, and Rockingham.

BILL NOBLITT

($12,434) and Durham City ($14,208); Shelby ($12,258); and several where the supplement is about $10,000: Cleveland County, High Point, Guilford, Roanoke Rapids, Chapel Hill, Goldsboro, and Wilson County.

THE INSIDE REPORT A Problem With Begin

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Menachem Begin, rejecting advice from worried Israelis to go slow in his early relationship with President Carter, instead has set out on a course that is seemingly calculated to antagonize the American President and in fact triggered a last-minute change in Mr. Carter's May 22 speech.

Now temporarily hospitalized with an apparent heart ailment, the prospective prime minister of Israel, founder and leader of the hard-line Likud party, has in the last few days infuriated White House aides, confused State Department diplomats and put fear into the hearts of Western Europe's industrial nations, terrified of a future oil embargo.

But more important is what he has done to Jimmy Carter. Begin's dramatic pledge to set up hundreds of new Jewish settlements in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River in effect ridiculed Mr. Carter's basic Mideast settlement plan.

The result: A last-minute change in the President's Notre Dame speech warning of a "disaster" for "the international political and economic order" if Israel — or the Arabs — tries to block an Arab-Israeli settlement.

"Disaster" is a word not often used by an American President. Yet Mr. Carter, according to insiders, had no second thoughts. The President is described not only as genuinely worried about world peace, should Begin as prime minister set about colonizing the Palestinian West Bank, but also furious at Begin's challenge to Mr. Carter's preeminence as Mideast peacemaker.

That anger surfaced immediately after Begin's visit to the illegal Israeli settlement near the Arab city of Nablus on the West Bank following the election. Then, after presidential aides heard Begin try to corner the President in ABC's highly revealing "Issues and Answers" on Sunday, the White House put in a rush call to ABC for transcripts. What galled Carter aides was the suspicion that Begin had patronized the President, pretending there was no excuse for a "conflict" between the U.S. and Israel based on Begin's West Bank policies.

"Why should there be a conflict?" Begin asked ABC reporter Bob Clark. "I will try to explain to President Carter. He knows perfectly well the Bible. I understand he knows the Bible almost by heart."

Then, moments later, Begin continued his rhetorical jabbing at Mr. Carter. "We don't know what (Carter) meant by that expression 'homeland' for the Palestinians." He said one day he will explain what it means. Let us hope he will explain it to me."

Diplomats were wide-eyed at this tough talk from the new leader of the little country whose future, many of them believe, depends entirely on the good will of the U.S. Mr. Carter was not so much wide-eyed as red-faced, and on Capitol Hill the mood was deepening frustration.

Sen. Richard Stone of Florida, pro-Israeli chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Middle East, called a hush-hush meeting of other key Senate backers of Israel Tuesday, on the eve of Stone's long-planned visit to Israel, Jordan and possibly Egypt.

Stone's hope: To extract a consensus from Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Abraham Ribicoff, Jacob K. Javits, Clifford Case and others on how the American voter — and the American Jewish community — will react to the new hard line in Israel.

Armed with such a consensus, Stone will be in position to tell Begin what many friends of Israel here feel he has to know before he risks potentially serious weakening of the links between Israel and the U.S. That is, will the American Jewish community and Israel's strong political supporters back a Begin government policy that insists on treating the West Bank as "liberated" Jewish territory, considering that for almost 2,000 years before 1948 the land was dominated by Palestinian Arabs?

If the answer to that is no, Stone will so inform Israel's new leaders. Even if the answer is yes, Stone is certain to caution Begin to go much slower and to prepare a fallback position to avoid a complete break with Mr. Carter.

By ART BUCHWALD What Did Frost Know?

WASHINGTON — Something happened the other night when I was watching the fourth David Frost-Richard Nixon interview, which a friend of mine calls the "Rich Man, Poor Man and Now Richer Man" series.

I found myself more interested in watching David Frost than I did Nixon. There is something compelling about Frost's personality that Nixon lacks. Perhaps it's his forthright manner, or maybe it's his striped shirt, but every time he asked a question I sat up in my chair and when Nixon answered it I dozed off to sleep.

After watching Frost for four programs I started to ask myself, "When did Frost know about Watergate, and how much did he know?" We have been told that Frost taped 28 hours with Nixon. We have only seen six of them. What happened to the other tapes? Is there a coverup going on? Doesn't the public have the right to know everything that went on during those tedious sessions in San Clemente?

Were there any gaps in the TV tape because of poor lighting or planes flying overhead? Did Frost obstruct Nixon from answering a question about his crimes? And what about Frost's tax return? Will he pay income taxes in the United States or will the money be shipped out of the country?

Can Frost be impeached by the Alpo dog food company for forcing Nixon to admit the President is above the law? Can he be made to resign as a TV interviewer for failing to ask why Nixon didn't burn the tapes?

Other Editors Say: Honor The Buzzard

(Goldsboro News Argus)

At the instigation of Executive Editor Mike Rouse and Editorial Page Editor John Raines, the Durham Morning Herald has moved to improve the status of the buzzard.

"Buzzards hardly ever get any good publicity. You hear eagle this and eagle that, but you hardly ever hear anything nice about buzzards..." recently lamented the Herald.

Even the work "buzzard" carries the connotation of lowliness. You almost have to gag to say "buzzard".

Yet, look at the bird itself. Nobird is more graceful in flight.

The buzzard can soar for hours without effort. It catches the rising air thermals under its six-foot wingspread and circles endlessly, rocking gracefully from one side to the other as it ascends high into the heavens.

The beauty of its flight is unexcelled even by the touted and idolized eagle.

Its flight is the epitome of freedom. And the buzzard is all-American in spirit. It was our original environmentalist.

Since its time began, the buzzard has patrolled the skies in search of offensive litter.

For every dead possum on the highway soars a buzzard ready to perform its duties as nature's most diligent sanitarian.

It is incredible and a tragic miscarriage of justice that something that flies so high and works so hard is held in such low esteem.

It has gone on far too long.

This year in this great state we should do something to honor the buzzard.

The final gavel of the current session of the General Assembly should not be allowed to fall without some appropriate resolution being adopted.

Breathes there a soul in the halls of the Legislature whose spirit has not soared at the sight of a buzzard in flight?

Didn't Erase Doubts

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The Legislative Ethics Committee had its first test last week and fell somewhat short of success. There are those who say the committee's greatest accomplishment was to illustrate its own shortcomings.

The committee reviewed allegations that Rep. Claude DeBruhl, D-Buncombe, had acted unethically in renting a farm to the state to run a program for alcoholics. He was also a member of the board that oversaw the program.

After a subcommittee reviewed the evidence and questioned DeBruhl, it presented its findings to the full committee. That panel then decided DeBruhl had not acted improperly and dropped the matter.

Rather than lay the issue to rest, the committee's action left clouds of suspicion.

Some people, including members of the legislature, grumbled that the committee had not given the allegations a fair consideration. It was a white-wash, they said.

Higher standards should be required by the committee, some people say. Others complain the committee has virtually no standards.

The most common criticism of the committee has been the difficulty of persons in a group to police themselves. "It's like having the fox guard the henhouse," one lawmaker said.

In the first place, members of the committee are put in the uncomfortable position of saying a colleague has acted improperly. No doubt, each committee member found it easy to identify with the man on the spot. Each must have secretly wondered if he was pure enough himself to cast the first stone.

There is also the clubbiness of legislators. That transcends party lines and political or philosophical differences. When a legislator comes under attack from outside, it is not uncommon for even his bitterest foes to make eloquent speeches on his behalf and condemn those who criticize.

Through the DeBruhl case and the reaction to it, the committee has made it clear that the only way it can satisfy the doubters would be to take the harshest action possible against each accused person. Anything less leaves a lingering suspicion of a whitewash.

That hurts the innocent. When a person is declared free of guilt, it should remove all doubts and suspicions.

Nancy Roberts, the Common Cause lobbyist, said the case proves the need for an independent board to deal with allegations of unethical conduct.

Rep. William Creech, D-Wake, has a bill in the legislature that would set up a 12-member board for all of state government. The board members would be appointees of the governor, the chief justice of the state Supreme Court, the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House. No member would be in state government.

Had DeBruhl's case been handled by such a board, lingering doubts and suspicions would be unlikely.

Strength For Today

THE WAYS OF PROVIDENCE

One night over a hundred years ago in England, a dog's barking disturbed a little girl who lay sick in a nearby home. Her mother wrote a note to the owners of the dog asking that they keep him quiet at night. The note she received in return was so gracious that she decided to call on the people, new in the community. She found a retired army officer, Captain Robertson, his wife, and twenty-one year-old boy who impressed her greatly by his personality and ability.

The woman who had once complained about the barking dog now became a devoted friend of the Robertson and introduced the young into her circle of acquaintances, in which were several prominent clergymen. Under the influence of these men young Robertson became a clergyman himself, and ultimately one of the greatest preachers of the Christian church.

Some would call this chance. Those who believe in Providence, however, may well believe that God used the barking of a dog to open the pathway for a career of Christian service.

Moving? It May Be Expensive

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Millions of Americans will move to new homes this summer, and consumers who shop carefully can save themselves money and trouble.

The Interstate Commerce Commission says preliminary figures show there were more than one million interstate household moves last year. The cost of the relocations was over $1 billion.

One moving company estimates that 35 million Americans change their residence every year and says more than half of the long-distance moves are made between May 15 and Sept. 15.

The government recently announced a crackdown on interstate movers who engage in fraudulent practices, but you don't have to wait for the government to act. You can protect yourself.

Ray Atherton, chief of the ICC's Household Goods Branch has several suggestions.

First, make sure the mover gives you a copy of his 1976 performance report. Check several firms and compare reports. The ICC requires the companies to file annual reports on such things as the number of shipments delivered and the number and type of complaints. Copies of all the reports are available at ICC regional offices in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Fort Worth, Philadelphia and San Francisco, as well as at the agency's headquarters in Washington.

Note: moving is expensive.

Atherton said that a cross-country move for a three-bedroom house with about 7,500 pounds of furniture will cost several thousand dollars.

Once you have selected a mover, decide whether you want to do the packing yourself or have the company do it for you.

Packing your own furniture takes time — Atherton suggests setting aside every evening for a week or so. You also may find it harder to collect for damaged goods if you have done your own packing. On the other hand, the service is costly; having the movers pack can add $500 or more to the cost of an average move.

At least one company now offers containerized moves; all your household goods are packed in a single, weatherized container which is sealed, put on a flatbed trailer for shipment and is not unsealed until it reaches the other end. The containerization method cuts the amount of handling and the seal adds security.

One target of the government's latest investigation is the practice of adding weight to a load, such as bricks, or falsifying records so the shipment seems heavier than it really is. Since long-distance movers base charges on weight as well as distance, the extra poundage adds up to higher bills. The ICC said that records of moves by military families showed that the weight listed on the bill was greater than the actual weight in almost 9 per cent of the shipments.

To avoid such a problem, make sure you get a weight

Education Held The Spotlight

By SAM D. BUNDY
N. C. House of Representatives

Education has been the main event this week. Last Friday the Senate by a 42-to-1 vote passed a bill on second reading to make the Lt. Governor chairman of the State Board of Education, but on their return after the weekend the vote on third reading was 31 to 18, which indicated quite a change. This will now come to the House, where Dwight Quinn will hold it until enough votes can be secured for an unfavorable report. I predict it will never reach the floor of the House, but if it does, it will be defeated.

Public hearings have been held this week on the question of a separate board to manage the Community College and Technical Institute System. The pros one day and the cons the next. While there would seem to be some validity to such an idea, it is doubtful that it will come to pass. The system doesn't want it, the Governor doesn't want it, and Lieutenant Governor doesn't want it and things seem to be more in favor of the pros than for the cons. Some legislators are getting restless because of two things. First, they want to get out and second, some are complaining about the kinds of pressure being exerted from the Governor's Office. We will have another month.

The John Frankie Singletons of Pactolus, Farmers' Home Administration Family of the Year, visited the Legislative Building Thursday. It was my pleasure and privilege to recognize the entire family as they sat in the gallery. The House gave them a standing ovation and applause. See you next week.

Three Students Chosen To Attend Boys State

Three Pitt County students have been selected to attend the American Legion Boys' State June 12-18 at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem.

These three participants were selected by the Pitt County American Legion Post No. 39. The students are Charles Curtis Ebbs and Tom Johnson of Rose High School and Rodney Pritchard of North Pitt High School.

TOM JOHNSON

RODNEY PRITCHARD

CHARLES EBBS

Johnson, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Johnson has been active in extracurricular activities. He was a member of the swim team two years, Math Club, National Honor Society, Marshal, French Club, Chess Club, and Annual Staff Photographer. He attended the Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at Duke University and was a Governor's School nominee. He is also the treasurer of St. James Senior High United Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Biography. Ebbs is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John D. Ebbs and is a junior at Rose High School where he is member of the French and Math clubs. He also serves as co-head Marshal. He was chosen to attend the Junior science Symposium at Duke University and Scholarship Week activities at ECU. He participated in the recent ECU Computer Terminal Course held at Rose High. As a member of the Rose Research and Independent Study class, he did computer data work for the Cooperative Education Department at ECU. He attends Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church where he is a member of the Senior High School Class and the UMYF. He is also an active member of Boy Scout Troop 30 and Order of the Arrow.

Promotions Go To Faculty Members

ECU News Bureau
Two members of the East Carolina University School of Education faculty have received promotions in rank effective September 1.

They are Dr. Keith Hudson, a member of the Department of Administration and Supervision, who will be promoted to the rank of full professor, and Dr. Betty Mobley Long of the Department of Elementary Education, who will be promoted to associate professor.

Dr. Hudson is an East Carolina alumnus and received his doctoral degree from Florida State University. Before joining the ECU faculty in 1970, he was a teacher and administrator in the Wilson and Asheboro public schools.

Dr. Hudson is a native of Hickory. Dr. Long, also an East Carolina graduate, received her doctorate from Duke University. Before joining the ECU School of Education faculty in 1964, she taught in Craven County, Beaufort County, Pitt County and in Hampton, Va. and Halifax County, Va.

Dr. Long is a reading specialist. She is a native of Halifax County, Va.

County Center Passed Review

The Pitt County Mental Health Center has passed a Department of Health, Education and Welfare review of its emergency services.

It is one of only 23 per cent of the community mental health centers in the nation to have passed the review. Mrs. Lenore Morton is Director of Emergency Service at PCMHC.

Evans-Novak...

(Continued from page 4) as to whether the U.S. political community will underwrite such a dangerous shift in Israel's Arab policy was also felt in another place here: inside the Soviet embassy. The morning after the Israeli election, a key Soviet diplomat telephoned an American government official and asked a single question. Will the American Jewish community enlist in Begin's cause and will Congress then support it, to?

The response was that no one can yet predict. The answer will be crucial not only for Israel but for President Carter. Despite his rising anger against Menachem Begin, Jimmy Carter will think twice before taking highly respected — and feared — Jewish lobby.

$4,360 Grant To Researcher

A research grant of $4,360 has been awarded Dr. Hisham Barakat of the East Carolina University School of Medicine by the N. C. United Way.

The funds will support Dr. Barakat's study of phospholipid metabolism in the cardiomyopathic hamster.

Dr. Barakat, a biochemist, has been involved in similar studies in recent years, focusing on the accumulation of lipid droplets in the hearts of diseased laboratory hamsters.

The research has applications in studies of disease in human hearts, as the progress of heart disease in the hamster is similar to that in humans.

MEET JUNE 4

The young adult choir of Selvia Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will meet Saturday, June 4, at the home of Gloria Anderson at 1 p.m.

GRADUATED

Julie Lynn Worthington of Greenville was one of 240 students graduated from Mars Hill College May 15.

Pritchard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pritchard of Bethel. He is a junior at North Pitt High School. He holds memberships with the following organizations: Honor Society, Teen Dems, and baseball team. He was a member of the Boy Scouts and JROTC where he earned the rank of Major. In 1976 he received the American Legion Award for Military Excellence. He plans to attend college and major in Marine

Rosalynn Carter Departs On Tour

Obituaries

Allen
FARMVILLE — Mr. Edward Ray Allen, 43, of Sterling, Va., formerly of Farmville, died Sunday.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. at the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by the Rev. Bill Hagedorn and the Rev. Bruce Barrow. Interment will be in the Hollywood Cemetery here.

Mr. Allen had lived in Sterling for the past two and a half years. He was employed by the Western Union Company and was a member of the Guilford Baptist Church of Sterling.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Ruby Nichols Allen of the home; a daughter, Tina Allen of the home; a son, Jeffrey Allen of the home; and his father, Elma Allen of Tarboro.

By JURATE KAZICKAS
 Associated Press Writer
 BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) —

After a farewell kiss from her husband, First Lady Rosalynn Carter left here today on a seven-nation Latin American tour that she said she hopes will "be more than a goodwill tour."

Even before Mrs. Carter's Air Force jet was off the ground, bound for Kingston, Jamaica, the President, when asked how he felt, said, "Kind of lonesome."

In remarks delivered just prior to his wife's departure on her 13-day journey, Carter said Mrs. Carter's trip was "a gesture of goodwill." But when she took over the microphone she said she had boned up on policy issues because "I wanted it to be more than a goodwill trip."

The President said his wife would be filing daily reports to him and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, detailing private talks with leaders of all the countries along her route. Mrs. Vance was accompanying the First Lady.

Carter said he saw his wife's trip as a "opportunity to strengthen ties" with traditional friends and allies and he claimed a new approach for his administration's Latin American policy.

In the past, he said, the United States has tended to treat Latin America as a homogeneous mass. Saying he intends to treat each country individually, Carter added, "We see much more clearly now that they have special interests and opportunities."

Amy Carter, 9, was on hand to see her mother off. The barefoot child pranced on the sunbaked apron at the Brunswick airport. Carter himself was dressed casually in dark blue sports shirt and slacks while the First Lady wore a light-weight green dress.

The President and Amy accompanied Mrs. Carter into the cabin just before departure. Standing in the doorway, the Carters kissed each other, then the President nuzzled her ear.

The First Family arrived here early in the morning from St. Simons Island, Ga., where they have been vacationing.

Award Goes To Evelyn Stroud

The Greenville Jaycettes honored Evelyn Stroud on Friday evening as the recipient of the chapter's Jaycette of the Year Award.

The presentation of the silver bowl in recognition of the organization's top award was made during the annual Jaycees Installation and Ladies Night Banquet.

The Jaycette of the Year Award is based on individual service to the club and community during the year and covers all phases of club activity.

Mrs. Stroud, who has been a member of the Jaycettes for six years, served this year as reporter and is a former member of the club's board of directors.

She was listed last year and nominated this year for publication in "Outstanding Young Women in America."

Holder of the Certified Professional Insurance Woman (CPIW) designation, she has been associated with the Hines Agency here since 1967.

She is married to Warren Stroud and the couple has two children.

In addition to her selection as the Jaycette of the Year, she was also named one of ten recipients of the Presidential Award, given each year by the president of the chapter.

Survivor Looks Ahead To One More Reunion

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Herman, an American who was imprisoned and in exile in Siberia for 19 of his 45 years in the Soviet Union, tearfully embraced his two daughters at Kennedy Airport and said his joy was nearly complete.

It will only be complete, he said, when his wife, Galina, and her 87-year-old mother, Tanya, are able to leave the Soviet Union and join the family in Detroit.

"Maybe next year," he said.

Dr. Herman, 61, now a professor of foreign languages, believes he is the only survivor of 300 Americans who went to the Soviet Union in 1931 under contract with the Ford Motor Co. to help build an auto factory.

He says others died in prison camps or of natural causes.

Herman spent the last 20 years trying to get back to the United States. Once he had made it, he worked more than a year trying to get his two daughters here.

Because of a mix-up over the flight from Montreal of his daughters, Svetlana, 25, and Janna, 20, Herman waited more than an hour in the Air Canada terminal at Kennedy while frantic telephone calls were made. Herman feared the girls had not been allowed to leave the Soviet Union.

Finally his daughters, who had come early on another airline, were brought to the Air Canada terminal by a British Airways employe who spoke Russian. The girls spotted their father and ran to him, hugging him at the same time.

"I said I'd only believe it when they are here in my arms, and now I believe it," he said.

In 1931, 16-year-old Victor Herman was taken to Russia by his parents, both born in the Ukraine, to set up a Ford Motor Co. plant at Gorky under the first Soviet-American trade agreement. Although he never gave up his U.S. citizenship, he decided to stay in the Soviet Union, where he was an acclaimed athlete and stunt pilot.

In 1938, at age 22 after returning from a flying assignment in Spain, Herman was arrested for an unexplained reason in the Stalinist purges and sent to a Siberian labor camp for 12 years. He said, "My father told me to leave as soon as possible, that they were arresting everybody. Before I could get to the train station, I was arrested."

Released from the prison camp, Herman remained in exile for another seven years and married while in Siberia.

Schoolboy In Chess Finals

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — An 11-year-old British schoolboy has made chess history by becoming the youngest ever qualifier for a national championship final.

Nigel Short on Sunday won the right to join 35 other chess experts at the British final in August by beating 1976 Irish champion Alan Ludgate in a northwest England zonal playoff match.

Nigel takes the youth record from the legendary Cuban player Capablanca, who first played in Cuba's championship at the age of 12.

Arturo Pomar of Spain was a few months younger than Nigel when he first played in the Spanish championship in 1942, but he took part only as a late substitute.

Bobby Fischer won the U.S. championship on his first attempt at the age of 14.

Nigel, son of a public relations employe, lives with his parents and two brothers in this northern city. He already is ranked as among the world's best players for his age. Last month he defeated the 1972 British champion Brian Eley.

More Americans Ordered Out Of Ethiopia

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — For the second time in five weeks, Ethiopia's Marxist military government has ordered a major reduction in the official American presence in the East African country.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the 32 official Americans affected and their families will begin leaving Tuesday.

"Those involved are already packing," said an embassy spokesman reached by telephone in Addis Ababa. "They are also making plane reservations and the first people will be leaving from Tuesday."

He said the Americans will leave by commercial flights, rather than the special planes that were used at the end of April to shuttle out more than 300 Americans ousted from Ethiopia in the government's first reduction order.

Schlitz Co. Strike Ends

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The month-long strike against Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co.'s four container division plants ended Sunday, with a settlement one union spokesman here called the "best industrial contract in the South."

The three-year agreement, reached in negotiation Friday and ratified by union members at three of the four plants Saturday and Sunday, will raise worker salaries an average of $1.06 an hour in the first year, creating wages ranging from $6.67 to $8.97 an hour, said John Greenlee, a union staff representative.

In addition, workers will receive a 25-cents-an-hour increase in the second year of the contract and hikes of between 20 and 31 cents an hour in the third year, Greenlee said.

The contract also specifies quarterly cost-of-living raises and increased holiday, vacation and pension plan benefits.

"I believe it's the best industrial contract in the South," Greenlee said.

More than 1,000 United Steelworkers Union members at plants in Winston-Salem, Oak Creek, Wis., Los Angeles and Tampa, Fla., had been on strike against the company since their previous contract expired April 30.

The 430 workers at the Winston-Salem plant voted overwhelmingly to accept the contract Saturday, and employes in Los Angeles and Tampa followed suit Sunday. Ratification was needed by three of the four plants for the strike to end. Steelworkers at Oak Creek, Wis., were scheduled to vote on the contract Tuesday.

Greenlee said that under terms of the agreement, the company will drop a federal court suit against the union and charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board. The company had contended that the union failed to give proper notice that new negotiations were wanted and thus went on strike illegally.

The new contract contains a no-strike clause, Greenlee said.

BETHEL — Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine (Jo) House Everett, who died Sunday, will be conducted Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. at Bethel United Methodist Church by the Rev. Ellis Bedworth. Burial will follow in the Bethel Cemetery.

Mrs. Everett was a native and life-long resident of Bethel. She was a retired employe of Harris Supermarket and a member of Bethel United Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband, Charles D. Everett; four sisters, Mrs. Christine Smith of Greenville, Mrs. Addie Leigh Gale of Bethel, Mrs. Doris Jones of Medford, N.J., and Mrs. Melba Ruth Jenkins of Robersonville; and one brother, W. Edward House of Virginia Beach, Va.

Heath
RALEIGH — Mrs. Callie Graves Heath, 73, a resident of Capitol Towers Apartments, Raleigh, died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Etheleen Wooten, in Farmville. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Monday at the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by her pastor, the Rev. Harold Carey. Burial will follow in the Snow Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Heath, a native of Greene County, had resided in Raleigh for the last 22 years, and was a member of the Neuse Baptist Church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Etheleen Wooten of Farmville, Mrs. Sam Price of Greenville and Mrs. Polly Forbes of Garner; one son, Edward Earl Heath of Raleigh; 19 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Hester
Mr. Willie Alfonso Hester of 206 Hudson St. died Sunday in Pitt Memorial Hospital. He was the son of Mrs. Daisy Hester of Greenville. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Phillips Brothers Mortuary.

Mabry
HAMPTON, VA. — Mr. Augusta Mabry, formerly of Tarboro, died in Veterans' Hospital here Friday. He was the son of Mr. Lawrence Mabry of New York City. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Hemby-Wiloughby Mortuary in Tarboro.

McRoy
GRIMESLAND — Mr. Willie E. McRoy, 73, a retired farmer, died Saturday night in the Beaufort County Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted at the Chapel Paul Funeral Home at 4 p. m. today by the Rev. Elton M. Bryan. Burial will be in the Oakdale Cemetery, Washington.

He was a member of the Grimesland Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, and a member of the Woodmen of the World. He was a member of the Hodges Chapel Bible Class.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth Lamm McRoy; and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Elks of Grimesland and Mrs. Bessie Parmore of Chocowinity.

ching naps on the ground. During early rescue efforts, Southgate Mayor Ken Paul had to ask police to guard the bodies.

"Can you believe it, we caught people taking stuff of those dead people," Paul said. Three persons were arrested.

There was no water sprinkler system in the club. Such systems were not made mandatory until after 1970, when the club was rebuilt following another fire. Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll and Mayor Paul said at the site Sunday that the law should be made retroactive to include all public places.

Carroll said he would lead an investigation, "So we can, my God, see that it never happens again."

The fire apparently began at about 9 p. m., starting in the basement of the three-story brick building then breaking through the floor of the Zebra Room, one of several rooms and alcoves used for private parties.

Stine, the coroner, said he had been told that the manager of the club had said the blaze began in a faulty generator. A state fire official said the cause had not been determined.

End To Bias In 2-Letter Word

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Getting sexism out of the English language can begin by replacing a three-letter word with a two-letter word, according to a Stanford University philosophy and humanities professor.

The three-letter word is man. And the two-letter replacement being offered by Jeffrey J. Smith is "em."

Instead of "man cannot live by bread alone," Smith would say "em can't live by bread alone." It would be the "rights of em," instead of the rights of man.

Smith, 70, calls em a "personal noun-pronoun."

"The sex bias of English is clear in its common terms of address," said Smith. "The main objection to new words is that they sound odd at first and make em seem odd if em makes the effort to use em in public," he said.

Far From Home, St. Ubaldo Wins

JESSUP, Pa. (AP) — Just as he has done for the past eight centuries, St. Ubaldo has won a race among three statues shouldered by scores of husky young men in a tradition brought to America from Italy by immigrants.

The race is traditionally held on May 16, St. Ubaldo's Day, in the town of Gubbio, Italy. But the race was held in this Lackawanna County town over the weekend.

St. Ubaldo, bishop of Gubbio about 1100 A.D., converted the German invader Frederick Barbarossa to Christianity. By converting Barbarossa, he is credited with saving Gubbio from destruction.

HOME BUYER PSYCHOLOGY

Buyers buy homes by comparison. The average buyer is no slouch. He'll shop a particular neighborhood and home-type. He'll rarely buy the first one he visits. It's too big an investment to be nonchalant. He will then compare prices against comparative value. He'll quickly throw out any obviously overpriced homes.

If the buyer really likes one of these overpriced homes, he may make a counter offer at a lower price — closer to its true value. But history shows that he'll probably make his offer for one already realistically valued.

A Realtor can save the home seller much chagrin because he has accurate knowledge of what similar houses in his neighborhood are selling for; which have been taken off the market because of overpricing. Doesn't it make sense to work with documented facts instead of guesswork. Who knows, you may even be planning to sell your house for less than you should. Why not drop in and find out? We have the facts.

A.J. Foyt Gets Fourth Indy 500 Crown

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — He was suddenly very different from every other driver who had ever challenged Indy, and yet he was still the same of A.J.

"Damn! We did it," A.J. Foyt barked as he stepped from his glistening orange Coyote racer and into posterity Sunday. That was his first printable comment on becoming the first four-time winner of the Indianapolis 500.

After winning in 1961, 1964 and 1967, the pie-faced and crusty Texan hit the skids by way of a decade of frustration. He finished third twice and second once in a futile chase for the race that would cut him loose from his ties with Mauri Rose, Louie Meyer and Wilbur Shaw — Indy's only other three-time winners since this derby of dare-devilry began in 1911.

And the frustration was dogging again Sunday as he dogged the tailpipe of Gordon Johncock, the leader for most of the second half of Sunday's swarm around the 2½ miles of blacktop.

Johncock, the winner of 1973's rain-shortened and deathstained race, would see his lead dwindle from 20 seconds or so to barely a second. But then a pit stop, a yellow caution light or something else — an empty gas tank, on one occasion — would conspire to shunt A.J. back again.

For an instant, with about 50 miles to go, A.J. crept in front, only to relinquish his hardearned lead when he had to zip into the pits for a splash of methanol in his tank.

It was coming down to the wire, a real gut-bustin', nose-to-nose showdown.

Then, poof! It was all over. Johncock's engine turned into a costly collection of non-functioning nuts and bolts. Johncock turned his car onto the grass with 16 laps to go, the estimated 400,000 fans turned their vocal chords into one massive cheer ...and A.J. turned into an easy winner.

Easy, thanks not only to Johncock's engine, but to Tom Sneva's less-than-dazzling pit crew. Sneva won the pole position with the first official 200-mile-an-hour qualifying lap. He lost the race because he spent precious seconds idling his engine while Foyt was straining his. Foyt's margin of victory over Sneva was 28.9 seconds. His pit-stop difference with Sneva was 48 seconds.

Al Unser, a two-time winner who started third, finished there, too, by completing 199 laps. Fourth was Wally Dallenbach, one of Foyt's team-mates, followed by Johnny Parsons.

The rest of the top 10 finishers — the only other drivers running at the end — were Tom Bigelow, Lee Kunzman, Roger McCluskey, Steve Krisiloff and rookie Jerry Sneva, Tom's brother.

A.J. wasn't thinking about anybody behind him in those final laps. All he could think of was Johncock — and his own machine.

"Gordie and I got to going at each other again and I figured I'd just wait for the last 10 laps and go for broke," said the 42-year-old Texan. But Johncock's engine broke first.

Said the dejected Johncock: "I was pushing it hard all day. Then I started feeling vibrations in the engine, and all of a sudden the whole thing let go."

After all that, Johncock finished a disappointing 11th, the last of the drivers to be standing still when Foyt whizzed under Pat Vidan's black-and-white checkered flag. It took him exactly 3 hours, 5 minutes, 57.70 seconds to reach Indy's uncharted territory, a feat he achieved with an average speed of 161.331 miles an hour.

And it took him only a few more minutes to warm a lot of hearts with a bit of uncharacteristic sentimentality. "This car is now the property of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway museum," he said, turning his machine over to Tony Hulman, the owner of all that is Indy.

Was he suddenly, surprisingly announcing his retirement?

Of course not!

"If Mr. Hulman don't bar me from the race, I'll go for No. 5."

Foyt was greeted in Victory Lane by a tearful Hulman, who apologized to his longtime friend for weeping.

Foyt answered, "Don't worry about it. I had tears in my eyes when I got that checkered flag."

While A.J. was going for No. 4, Janet Guthrie was achieving No. 1 — very slowly. The first woman ever to drive in the 500 did so only in fits and starts. The 39-year-old former physicist from New York was roadblocked not by male chauvinism but by a cranky ignition and other mechanical problems. She started 26th in the 33-car field, completed only 27 laps and finished 29th.

"She proved herself. In fact, she more than proved herself," said Rolla Voldsted, the owner of her car. "She did everything she was supposed to." And, waving his arms in a wide arc around his crew's garage, he added: "We're the ones who loused it up, not her."

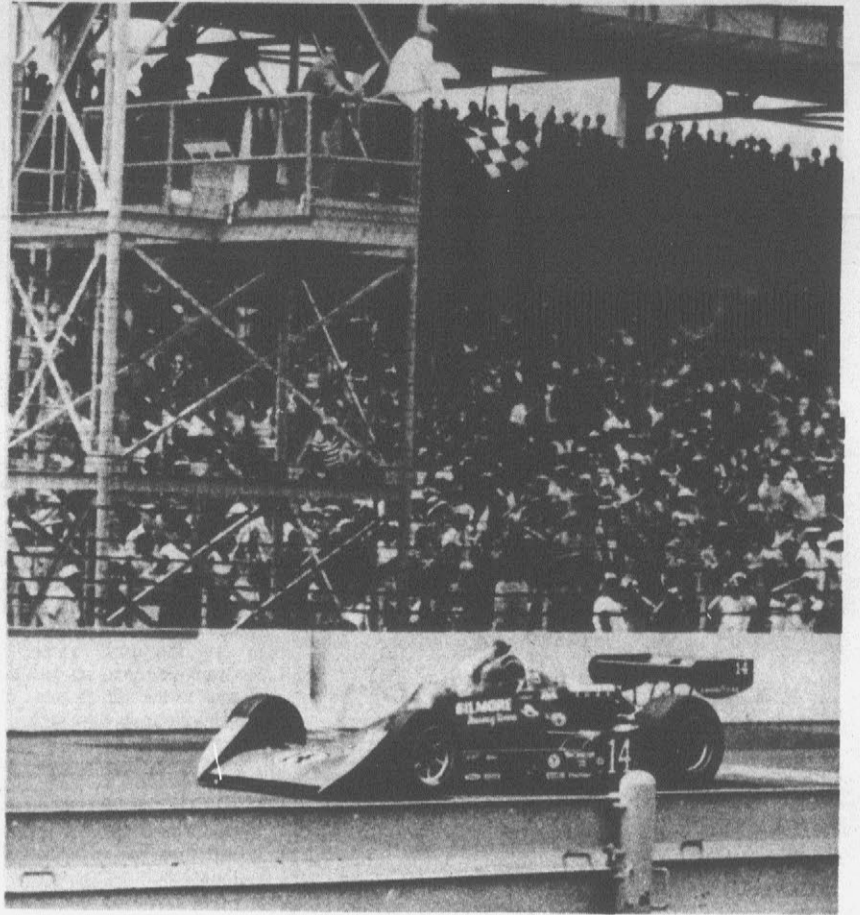

"Making a good show would have satisfied me," said Miss Guthrie. "It was a very, very frustrating day. Some mysterious problem hit my car, but after 15 years in racing, I've come to accept these things."

She didn't beat out many of the drivers in the final standings — but three of them were Formula I star and Indy rookie Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, 30th over-all, teammate Dick Simon, 31st, and — of all people — Johnny Rutherford. The champion of a year ago was a dead-last finisher this time.

Regazzoni's fuel line started giving him problems early on. As he put it simply: "The fuel was leaking out faster than we put it in."

Starting from the sixth row, Rutherford missed a gear, over-revved, blew his engine and said good-bye after a dozen laps.

"That's the way it goes in racing," he shrugged.

Petty Blitzes World 600 Field

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A tired but exuberant Richard Petty, $69,550 richer after winning the 10th annual World 600 stock car race Sunday at the Charlotte Motor Speedway, puffed on a cigar and said it had been just about a perfect day.

"I guess that was the best the car's run in a long, long time," the Randleman, N.C., driver declared after piloting his Dodge through the 400-lap marathon at the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway.

After some early dueling with David Pearson, World 600 defending champion and winner of the pole position at this year's race; Donnie Allison, Cale Yarborough and Buddy Baker, Petty streaked to the lead on lap 170 and was never really challenged.

Pearson finished second, half a lap behind the leader. Bobby Allison, who relieved Benny Parsons after the Chevrolet driver became ill, was third in the third turn. Dalton was not injured.

Donnie Allison was a threat during much of the race, leading at one point and joining Pearson and Petty at speeds well over 130 miles per hour. But Allison, who started fifth, was knocked out of the chase with a blown engine on lap 219.

"We had too much push in the car," Allison explained. "One time we got it going and I passed Petty and Pearson both. But as soon as I got around them, I knew I couldn't run in front. Petty came right back by me so I knew all I could do was pull in behind them and ride."

Yarborough, who never led the race despite his early frequent charges toward the front, was another victim of mechanical problems.

He lost 37 laps late in the race while his crew worked feverishly to get his Chevrolet back out on the track, only to finish 24th in the 40-car field.

"I wasn't handling all day," the Timmonsville, S.C., ace said. "I used up all four lanes and both shoulders. One time, I had to use the wall to straighten up."

Yarborough maintained his lead in the lucrative Winston Cup Grand National point standings, but Petty's win narrowed the margin between the two.

Petty led for 311 of the 400 laps, picking up $35,000 in bonuses for lap leaders as part of his winnings in the $303,550 NASCAR event. His winnings set a record for Grand National races, according to track officials.

"We've run all year and hadn't won but $100,000. Then we came up and win nearly two-thirds of that in one race," Petty said.

Although Petty stretched his lead over Pearson as the race wound down, he said the early laps were "pretty tough. Pearson never let me live no time. When he's that close to you, you never know what those cats will do."

The race, which featured actress Elizabeth Taylor as grand marshal, is the longest on the 30-race NASCAR circuit and kept drivers busy for four hours and 21 minutes.

The lead changed hands 25 times, with Petty moving in and out of the first slot nine times, and six caution flags slowed the race for a total of 32 laps.

Petty, whose only other win in the World 600 came in 1975, said about the only thing that bothered him were the caution flags.

A Show Of Sportsmanship

Maurice Lucas (right) of the Portland Trail Blazers shakes hands with Darryl Dawkins of Philadelphia prior to Sunday's NBA playoff game. Lucas and Dawkins were tossed out of last Thursday's contest for fighting. Portland took a 129-107 victory in the contest to give the 76ers a 2-1 series lead. (AP Wirephoto)

Woody Peale

As one can readily see from the picture we ran in Sunday's paper, the enlarged Ficklen Stadium is going to be a pretty big thing. The seating in the new sections will total more seats than are currently available in the stadium.

Although the university has stated for years that the seating capacity of the present structure is 20,000, it is a not-very-well-kept secret that the stands hold only in the neighborhood of 17,500.

However, officials of the university are quick to point out that the new seating will raise the number to 35,000 "true" seats, with no "phantom" seats.

The construction, which is expected to start just as soon as this fall's home season is over on October 29, is the third phase of the stadium's construction. The university already has ideas for further expansion when it becomes warranted. This expansion would take the form of a double-deck for one side of the field. That would bring the seating to around 50,000. Then, in the far future, still another double-deck on the other side would increase it to 65,000.

Some of the more optimistic people at the university see this happening as early as the 1990's.

Summer League Set To Start

East Carolina University will open play in the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League on Saturday at Harrington Field.

The Pirates will be playing host to Louisburg in the first game, set for 7:30 p.m.

Other teams in the league this year will be North Carolina, UNC-Wilmington, Campbell and Atlantic Christian.

For East Carolina, the season may turn into somewhat of a question mark. While the Pirates have only a few seniors on the team, a couple of them could be critical losses.

Larry Daughtridge, Terry Durham, Sonny Wooten and Charlie Stevens are seniors and will be gone. Pete Conaty, although a senior, still has baseball eligibility left, and may play, depending on his status as a signee in the pro ranks.

Daughtridge and Durham made up half of the starting rotation for the pitching staff of the Pirates this spring, and this will mean that Hal Baird, who will handle the coaching duties during the summer, must find some more help elsewhere. There are other pitchers around, but none had the good spring that was hoped for them. Perhaps the summer work will be good not only for them, but for the team as a whole.

With the Bucs playing, not to mention American Legion, Senior Babe Ruth, Babe Ruth, Prep League, Little League and all the softball (50 teams in Greenville alone), there should be spectator interest for everyone.

Lucas Provides Portland Lift

By BOB BAUM
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — After dropping the first two games in their National Basketball Association championship series against the Philadelphia 76ers, the Portland Trail Blazers were in desperate need of a psychological lift.

Maurice Lucas provided one even before the tipoff in Sunday's third game. Lucas, a 6-foot-9 forward, had brawled with Philadelphia's 6-foot-11 Darryl Dawkins, in last Thursday's 107-89 victory by the 76ers.

Lucas wiped out those bitter memories by conspicuously shaking hands with the 20-year-old Dawkins when Portland's starting lineup was introduced prior to the contest. Two hours later, Lucas had scored 25 points in leading the Blazers to a 129-107 rout that diminished to 2-1 the Philadelphia edge in the best-of-seven series.

Game Four will be played here Tuesday night at 9 p.m., EDT.

"It wasn't planned, it was just something that happened," the soft-voiced Lucas said of the game-opening handshake. "People are trying to make him (Dawkins) out to be this big gorilla. But he's a very nice person."

The Blazers bolted to an 18-point lead late in the first quarter. Then Julius Erving and Doug Collins took control and the 76ers sliced the margin to 56-53 with 1:23 left in the first half.

But Lucas hit two quick baskets and Lionel Hollins sank two free throws to give the Western Conference champions a 60-53 halftime edge.

Philadelphia stayed close through the third quarter. Then Bill Walton came up with a couple of classic Waltonian plays that doomed the 76ers' hopes for a four-game sweep.

Portland's Bob Gross lofted the ball towards the basket and Walton battled Dawkins somewhere above the rim. Walton's right hand finally tipped the ball through the hoop as his 6-foot-11 frame crashed to the floor.

An instant later, guard Dave Twardzik stole the ball in backcourt and lofted a pass towards the hoop. Walton climbed back on his feet and stuffed the ball through the hoop with both hands, giving the Blazers a 95-87 lead with 9 1/2 minutes to go.

The 76ers never got any closer as the Blazers, principally Gross and reserve Lloyd Neal, turned the game into a rout.

Walton hit 9 of 15 from the field, scored 20 points, grabbed 18 rebounds, handed out 9 assists, and blocked four shots. Gross added 19 points. Rookie guard Johnny Davis scored 18 and Lionel Hollins, despite a 4-for-17 shooting day, added 15 points.

As usual, Erving sizzled. He scored 28 points, including 10 of 11 free throws. Collins was 9-for-13 from the field and scored 21 points.

There was some apprehension among NBA and Trail Blazer officials about the crowd's reaction following the melee in Philadelphia last Thursday. But Lucas' gesture at the beginning of the game, accompanied by loud cheers from the capacity throng of 12,923, erased the unpleasant memories and the game was without incident.

Erving was gracious in defeat.

"They did everything right," he said. "They had a better all-around effort. We played catch-up the whole time we were out there."

Graniteers, Moose In Little League Wins

The Graniteers downed the Exchange 8-7 and Moose took a 13-6 victory over Pepsi in a pair of Little League games yesterday afternoon.

In the first game, the Graniteers came up with three runs in the fifth to come from behind over the Exchange.

Exchange had scored four runs in the first inning to jump into the lead. Exchange added two in the second to go ahead 6-0 before the Graniteers cut it to 6-3 with three runs in the bottom of the second.

The Exchange scored one in the third and the Graniteers got three to make it 7-5.

Then, in the fifth, Jimmy Justice doubled and Lance Searle reached on an error before Stevie Holloman homered in the winning runs.

Moose got three runs in the fourth inning to come from one run back and then added six in the fifth to make it a rout in taking a 13-6 win over Pepsi.

Pepsi got one in the first, but Moose got two in the bottom of the inning. Moose added another in the second, while Pepsi scored three and Moose two in the third to make it 5-4.

Pepsi got two in the top of the fourth, but Moose scored three in the bottom of the frame to take the lead for good.

Barry Nichols started things off for the Moose with a walk in the fourth, he went to second on a passed ball and was singled home by Maurice Elarney.

Billy Gadley then walked and Jon Langley reached on a fielder's choice as Elarney was thrown out at third. Gadley and Langley both scored on errors.

Aycock Paces All-ECC Team

Eastern Carolina Conference baseball champion C. B. Aycock placed four team members on the league's all-conference team, one more than any other school.

A total of four schools came in second with three all-ECC performers, including Greene Central and North Pitt. Aycock's coach Bud King was named coach of the year.

Greene Central, the conference runner-up had three all-ECC players, catcher Jay Carraway and outfielders Russell Brann and Jeffery Warren.

North Pitt also had three on the team, despite finishing in last place this year. They are pitcher Jay Bedsworth, outfielder Eddie Hemingway and infielder Jeff Hines.

Ayden-Griffin and Farmville Central each had two players on the all-conference team. Infielder Butch Davis and pitcher Tim Shadle were named from the Charger squad, while outfielder Neil Gordon and infielder Mike Jenkins were chosen from Farmville.

Outfielder Nuggie Worthington was D. H. Conley's only representative.

A total of 21 players were chosen to the team, including 14 seniors, five juniors and two sophomores.

Legion Gets 1st

SMITHFIELD — Greenville's American Legion baseball team posted its first win of the season yesterday with a 3-0 shutout victory over Johnston County.

The win evens the team's record at 1-1 for the season and was "an obvious team effort with execution improved over the last game," according to coach Edgar Hooks.

The two Greenville pitchers, starter Billy Mitchell and reliever Quinn Morris, scattered four Johnston County hits during the contest, giving up only two walks. Mitchell picked up the win, while the loser was Johnston's Blue.

Mitchell helped his own effort by scoring Greenville's first run in the third frame. He got on a fielder's choice as Kevin Adams was thrown out at second. He went to third on an error and came in on a balk.

Nuggie Worthington added Greenville's second run in the next inning when he tripled and was batted in by Mike Shank.

The final run came in the eighth and was the second by a pitcher in the game. Morris tripled and was knocked in by Ronnie Chapman's single.

Greenville plays again tonight in its home opener when it hosts Cary at 8 p.m. at Harrington Field.

Business Notes

SALES REPORTED
 North Carolina residents bought $2,616,000,000 worth of new automobiles in 1976 from 850 franchised new car dealers, according to figures released by the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association.

The average North Carolina new car dealer in 1976 employed 25 persons and paid an annual payroll of $226,000, the association reported.

According to the organization, which quoted figures from the 1977 edition of the Franchised New Car and Truck Dealer Facts, published by the National Automobile Dealers Association, there were 2,959,000 automobiles on state roads in 1976 and 878,000 trucks and buses. The U.S. total was 137.3 million vehicles.

COURSE OFFERED
 The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers is offering Course 1-A at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from July 17 to 29.

The course is a survey course on real estate appraisal and producing the basic principles, methods and techniques of real estate appraising.

Need Snow Plow For Hail Storm

MORRIS, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota has been having temperatures in the upper 70s and 80s for the past several days, but Sunday the state Department of Transportation had to send out a snowplow.

A crew hooked up a plow to a truck to clear Minnesota 28 between Cyrus and Morris, in central Minnesota, after a storm left as much as six inches of hail covering the road.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠75 ♥82 ♦965 ♣AK10963
 Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—Three no trump. While it is true that you have only 7 points in high cards, your extremely good six-card suit increases the playing strength of your hand tremendously. You can expect your hand to furnish five or six tricks to the offensive effort, so partner's chances of collecting nine tricks should be excellent.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K1094 ♥84 ♦KQJ72 ♣62
 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West
 1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
 1 NT Pass ?
 What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Partner has shown a hand limited to a maximum of 15 points. With no fit, hopes for game must be slight, so get out of the auction at a level where a part score should be safe even against bad breaks.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠62 ♥KQ104 ♦AJ63 ♣AJ10
 The bidding has proceeded: East South West North
 Pass 1 ♥ 2 ♣ Pass
 Pass ?
 What action do you take?

A.—Bid two diamonds. This is not an attempt to reach game. It is merely an effort to compete for the part score. While partner was not able to compete freely, he is not necessarily broke. You may have better than minimum values, and should be safe at the two-level. Besides, the opponents may bid higher, and your defensive values should not be overlooked.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠74 ♥AQJ873 ♦93 ♣QJ6
 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South
 3 ♦ Pass Pass ?
 What action do you take?

A.—We feel that it would be poor tactics to pass and allow West's preempt to succeed. Since East showed no interest in game, your partner is marked with some cards. Your six-card suit gives you a margin of security, so we suggest you compete with three hearts.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K87 ♥73 ♦K953 ♣Q854
 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West
 1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass
 3 ♥ Pass ?
 What action do you take?

A.—Holding two kings and a queen, you have the values to accept partner's game invitation. It's only a question of choosing between three no trump and four hearts. Since all your values are outside hearts and you have only a doubleton in partner's suit, we prefer the former.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠8653 ♥J73 ♦KQ752 ♣6
 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It may be necessary to consider making adjustments in your personal affairs. You need assurance from loved ones. Put more credence in action than in promises.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A business associate provides you with valuable information, so make the most of it. Some good news may be in the offing.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to accomplish much now, but don't bite off more than you can chew. Think along more practical lines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Consider a trip or change of scenery in the near future, but first check budget and available cash.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Settle important issues without further ado. Then turn to new plans and ideas. Forget about the past.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Financial snarls can be straightened out if you finish what you start. Avoid unnecessary spending until you know where you stand moneywise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be lured by the easy way out of a dilemma facing you. Give careful thought to the problem before you act. Don't discard receipts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Heed the advice of a bigwig and avoid loss of cash and prestige. Take no chances where health matters are concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Improve and modernize abode as far as is practical. Have the sense to turn down something you do not like or want. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cooperation works both ways, so try to get along better with coworkers. Don't make decisions on the spur of the moment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new friend you met might be a deterrent to you in business. Think carefully before you decide to deepen this relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Give more time to loved ones and increase happiness. Keep your cool with one who annoys you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show your gratitude in tangible ways to those who have helped you in the past. Tackle a new project with assurance that it will succeed.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be a go-getter, provided you send to schools where the most progressive type of education is given. Stress religious and ethical training. Also the appreciation of music, and the cultural.

No other fungicide stops leafspot better than DU-TER FUNGICIDE.

High peanut yields for low cost.
 In more than 100 commercial peanut test plots, DU-TER has shown:

- Unsurpassed control of cercospora leafspot.
- Effective, economical control when used in an alternating spray program.
- Comparable, or higher yields when used alone vs. other leading fungicides.
- Minimum foliage burn when used as directed.
- No known leafspot resistance.
- Suppression of two-spotted mite infestations.<sup>2</sup>
- A better pod at harvest when tank-mixed with sulfur.<sup>3</sup>

Based on the recommended 6-ounce rate, DU-TER costs less than $3.00 per acre. That's nearly $2.00 per acre less than some leading fungicides.

So, get the most out of your leafspot control program with DU-TER. See your nearby farm chemical supplier today.
