Haldeman, Mitchell Ordered To Prison

HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, the biggest fish in the Watergate prosecutor's net, were ordered today to report to prison no later than noon June 22 to begin serving their sentences for their Watergate crimes.

The ceremony that effectively ended their years-long fight to stay out of prison took only four minutes. Both men have been sentenced to serve 2½-to 8-year prison sentences, imposed on Feb. 21, 1975, for their roles in America's biggest political scandal, the Watergate cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had indicated last week that he would give the two former Nixon administration officials until June 22 to get their affairs in order. Haldeman had asked through his lawyer to remain free to attend his daughter's graduation ceremony from law school and Mitchell asked to help his lawyers prepare a last-ditch, slim-chance appeal to the Supreme Court.

They have a choice of turning themselves in to a U.S. marshal at 10 a.m. or voluntarily appear at the prison gates by noon.

Sirica only placed the men into the custody of the attorney general and it is up to the Justice Department to designate the prison. Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, said he had arranged for his client to go to the minimum security facility at Lompoc, Calif. Plato Cacheris, Mitchell's lawyer, said arrangements were not complete but that the former attorney general probably will be sent to Allenwood, Pa. Haldeman, 50, and the 63-year-old Mitchell were the iron men of the flawed Nixon administration. None ranked higher.

The austere Haldeman, as chief of staff, exercised power second only to Nixon. He had worked in Nixon political campaigns since 1956 and has said, "I knew Richard Nixon the man and Richard Nixon the president more intimately than any other person. No one else was as totally trusted or as totally knowledgeable."

The dour Mitchell, as attorney general, carried out the law-and-order promises of the two Nixon presidential campaigns he directed. He had been the former president's law partner. He was eight months younger than the president, but acted as Nixon's counselor and political adviser.

Mitchell will be the first attorney general in America's history to be imprisoned.

They were convicted, along with former domestic counselor John Ehrlichman, of what the U.S. Court of Appeals called "a wide-ranging conspiracy designed to impede a grand jury investigation into the break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office building in Washington, D.C., and into other related matters."

Ehrlichman, convicted also in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, chose to go to prison while the Supreme Court considered his appeal along with those of Mitchell and Haldeman. He has already served eight months of his combined 2½-to 8-year term.

Claims Over 100,000 Die In Amin Rule

LONDON (AP) — Uganda's health minister has defected in Britain, and says an estimate that more than 100,000 persons have been killed in his African country since President Idi Amin seized power in 1971 is probably correct.

Henry Kyemba, 37, told the London Sunday Times that he broke with Amin because "it was only a question of time before I was due to be killed."

An aide to the Ugandan president said Sunday in a telephone interview that Kyemba's defection "is no real surprise. After all, if he did dare to return to Uganda, he would have a lot of charges to answer."

Amin, a friend of Kyemba since childhood, accused him of diverting government funds into a "very fat bank account abroad."

Kyemba came to Europe at the head of a Ugandan delegation to a meeting of the World Health Organization in Geneva and did not return home. The Sunday Times, in a copyrighted story, said he did not announce his defection until his family escaped to Kenya with his two small children.

Kyemba asked the British government for political asylum. The Sunday Times said he told it:

"I would not even attempt to dispute the figures in the recent report by the International Commission of Jurists which indicated that more than 100,000 people have been murdered in Uganda since Gen. Amin came to power in 1971.

"It is probably correct, although of course no one knows what the exact figure is. ...Even Amin does not know how many people he has ordered to be executed."

He said those murdered included Dora Bloch, the British-Israeli grandmother who disappeared after the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport last July 34, and Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum.

"Mrs. Bloch had been murdered to satisfy the president's lust for vengeance," Kyemba added.

Hospital's Costs Top Revenues

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Memorial Hospital Director Jack Richardson told members of the Board of County Commissioners this morning that operations of the new hospital cost some $34,000 per day.

Richardson, saying in order to meet expenses that some $40,000 to $45,000 per day in revenue is needed, reported that the patient census for the first month of operation of the new facility averaged 185 patients per day, as compared with the 225 patient average needed to generate sufficient revenue to meet the operating costs.

He said 250 beds are now open and available at the new medical center.

Hospital physical plant director Ralph Hall told board members that the water and light bill for the new building totaled $39,000 for the first month of operation while the gas bill last month amounted to $17,000.

Hall said the $6 million in construction underway at the present time — all associated with the expansion of the building to accommodate the East Carolina University School of Medicine program — is well along but running behind schedule.

He said the additions to the emergency room, x-ray, operating rooms and other areas at the rear of the building are 60 to 90 days behind schedule while work on the interior of the addition to the front of the hospital building is about 45 days behind schedule, resulting in a late-October completion date for the present work.

Glenn Cox, superintendent of Greenville City Schools reported this morning that work on the renovations to Third Street school should be completed by the end of this week.

Cox said renovations and repairs to the other building, which commissioners appropriated some $560,000 for this fiscal year, have been completed.

Cox, saying some $221,700 has been expended on the Third Street School work already, noted that the cost of renovating the building would be in excess of $70,000 more than the original estimates, but said the final cost would be about $10 to $12 per square foot as compared to $25 to $30 per square foot for new construction.

Cox, quoting from a letter from the city's Inspection Department, said renovation and repair work on all schools other than Third Street has been completed and that all buildings would be ready to open in the Fall of 1977.

Penalty Cannot Be 'Mandatory'

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — States cannot make the death penalty mandatory for persons convicted of killing police officers, a sharply divided Supreme Court ruled today.

The court, voting 5-4, struck down a Louisiana law requiring persons convicted of killing police officers to be executed.

"There is a special interest in affording protection to these public servants who regularly must risk their lives in order to guard the safety of other persons and property," the court's majority opinion said. "But it is incorrect to suppose that no mitigating circumstances can exist when the victim is a police officer."

The court noted that it was not ruling today on the question of whether such mandatory death sentences may be valid for prisoners serving life sentences who murder prison guards. Presumably, the court will decide that question sometime in the future.

Today's decision spares the life of Louisiana Death Row inmate Harry Roberts, convicted in the Feb. 26, 1974 shooting death of New Orleans police officer Dennis McInerney.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William H. Rehnquist, Byron R. White and Harry A. Blackmun filed dissents. They would have upheld Louisiana's law.

Two Dead, 100 Injured In 6-Hour Chicago Disorder

CHICAGO (AP) — Officials have turned aside criticism from leaders of the Hispanic community who said police overreacted in a Puerto Rican Independence Day disturbance on the Northwest side that left two persons dead and more than 100 injured.

Witnesses said the six-hour disturbance that included looting, street fights and store fires began Saturday after two policemen went into Humboldt Park to break up a dispute between members of two rival gangs.

Police Supt. James Rochford said Sunday that officers were threatened by a "kneeling gunman" and that an "exchange of gunfire" resulted.

Rochford said he would not be able to tell who shot whom until ballistics tests have been completed, but he said the policemen did not intentionally shoot into the crowd.

Early reports indicated that one man was attempting to shoot at a police officer, missed but hit another man in the park. One of the officers then fired at the gunman, fatally wounding him.

Jolio Osorio, 26, and Rafael Cruz, 25, were killed by gunfire and at least four other persons were wounded during the incident, police said.

Police arrested 119 persons Saturday night in a sweep to clear the park after the shootings. Fifteen juveniles were turned over to their parents. The rest appeared in Circuit Court Sunday where they were charged with mob-action related offenses, authorities said.

School Calendar To Be Discussed At Meeting Of Pitt School Board

The Pitt County Board of Education will discuss the school calendar for the 1977-78 school year at its Tuesday meeting. The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the conference room of the Pitt County Board of Education.

The proposed calendar suggests that the official school year begin August 15. Professional personnel would begin work August 22, student orientation would be held August 29, and the last day of school for the students would be June 8, 1978.

Assistant Superintendent Leck Keeter will recommend that the Board of Education Office be permitted to work with Attorney W. W. Speight in drafting an appropriate petition to be presented to the State Utilities Commission calling for an investigation of inequities in utilities billing concerning placement of demand meters in several of the Pitt County Schools.

Superintendent Ott Alford will recommend that a further interpretation of the resolution adopted by the board concerning out of district students be considered. The interpretation would include all county students in grades 8-12 who are not already enrolled in the Greenville City Schools to be required to attend school in the county effective fall 1977. This would include students who were previously enrolled in private schools and who are contemplating enrolling in public schools, as well as newcomers to the county district.

Asst. Supt. Keeter will present a request to the board by the local Manpower Office to use three rooms six hours a week each at Bethel Elementary and Ayden Grammar Schools beginning the week of June 20 and ending August 12.

Asst. Supt. Keeter will also present a request from the State Title I Officer asking the board to appoint an official representative for the Title I Program and that this action be recorded in the minutes. Keeter will also present a progress report of the 1977-78 Title I Project.

Associate Supt. Tom Craft will present a request for approval to award to John C. Proctor and Company a contract to audit all local fund accounts and including individual schools.

Co. Paul Lasker, SAI at D. H. Conley, will present a review of the 1976-77 JROTC School year.

Supt. Alford will recognize the accomplishments of John L. Verneison, Automotive Instructor at Farmville Central High School and two of his students, Billy Gibson and Lewis Peaden, who won third place at the State Level in the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest.

In other business the board will:

-Consider Maternity leaves.

-Consider Probationary Contracts and Career Status for personnel.

-Receive a review of cultural activities in the schools by Mrs. Myriam Harris, Supervisor of Cultural Arts.

-Consider appropriations totaling $95,791.45.

APPARENT PRANK

We got a bill from the National School Subscription Center for $42.50 for subscriptions to Playboy, Ebony, and Jet Magazines. We don't care for these types of magazines. I wrote them immediately, but the magazines started coming anyway. I wrote again, telling them they'd hear from my lawyer if they didn't stop, but we're still getting them. I decided to try Hotline before I get to an attorney. J. F.

Hotline wrote explaining your predicament. We soon received a letter from Ann Robinson, customer service manager, who said that yours apparently was a prank order that appeared to be legitimate. She said she has canceled the three subscriptions and have credited your account for the full amount so you will receive no more bills. "I am sorry the prank order caused the customers such inconvenience," she said.

Gay Rights Issue Taken Up By Miami's Churches

MIAMI (AP) — Sunday's sermon was full of old-time references to the sin of Sodom and Gomorrah but it had a more up-to-date slant: Vote to repeal Dade County's homosexual rights law.

"I wake up in the middle of the night with the thought 'Vote for the Repeal,'" the Rev. William Chapman told his Baptist congregation, which includes among its members singer Anita Bryant, who has spearheaded the drive against the law.

"I do not believe that you will ever have cast a vote with greater significance," Chapman said.

Voters decide on Tuesday whether to repeal the controversial law, which prohibits housing and employment discrimination based on sexual preference.

Miss Bryant, who was not in church Sunday because of an out-of-town trip, helped start Save

Our Children Inc., an organization which claims homosexuals recruit children. She says she opposes the law because private schools in the county could not prevent homosexuals from teaching their children.

The campaign on both sides of the gay rights issue intensified for the last remaining days before the vote, with television and newspaper advertising, telephone banks and religious involvement.

The Archbishop of Miami's Roman Catholic diocese asked its priests to read a letter from the pulpit advising churchgoers to vote to repeal the law.

A coalition of gay organizations called registered voters urging them to vote in favor of the law.

In its Monday edition, The Miami Herald ran more than six full-page ads supporting either side of the issue.

Consumer Panels Air Views To Businessmen

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Consumers today don't hesitate to tell off manufacturers and retailers when they are dissatisfied with products or services. Many do it by letter or telephone.

Berenice Connor Kennedy helps women do it face to face. As a consumer affairs consultant, she lines up panels of women to air their grievances, suggestions and applause before her clients, who are not identified until each meeting ends.

"Regional supermarket chains bring in their store managers and personnel for the panel discussions," Mrs. Kennedy said in an interview. "They want to get insights into shoppers' attitudes and ideas for improving their services."

If the panelists have really criticized a market, Mrs. Kennedy said, "they will be embarrassed and shaken up, but pleased."

She has conducted 30 to 40 panels annually over the past 15 years through her company, Feminine Forecast, Inc. Panelists represent all income groups from the poverty level to $30,000-$40,000 a year, she said.

Clients represent a wide variety of fields: hair care and cosmetics manufacturing, chemical products manufacturing, pharmaceuticals, toiletries, home furnishings, moving companies, airlines, fashions and food, among others.

Ten years ago, women were trusting, Mrs. Kennedy said. Then, they went through a period of healthy skepticism, followed by claims of rip-offs.

"Now, I see more willingness to trust again," she said.

To reflect current trends, her eight-member panels are structured to have more working than non-working wives. Each includes at least four working wives and one single woman. Their ages range from 21 to 60.

Each program runs two hours, to give all panelists get a chance to express their views.

Their complaints? "It's almost a cliché," Mrs. Kennedy said. "They say advertising and particularly TV advertising, talks down to them. It doesn't reflect what their lives really are like."

They also complain that advertising talks over their shoulders to their children.

"Some younger mothers say they take their children to market to point out what is good and what is bad (to counteract the ads' influence)," she said.

"I have had women say they warn other people not to shop at certain stores."

The panels have confirmed, among other things, that single women and 21-year-olds with children are very budget-conscious shoppers; that singles spend more money than other women for clothes and high-fashion products.

Mrs. Kennedy said one airline campaigning to get more women travelers heard panelists complain how neglected women passengers feel. The panelists also thought the airline's food was terrible. Tasteless meat was the biggest complaint, Mrs. Kennedy said. The women felt they should have choice of diet and more fresh salads.

"In the drug area, they are much more concerned with what goes in their bodies than on their faces," she said. She is beginning to consult with pharmaceutical companies about cheaper forms of prescription drugs and the interactions of prescription and non-prescription drugs.

Mrs. Kennedy is convinced such research has real impact on the way big companies do business. She cited the case of a hair product manufacturer who introduced unscented hair spray about 12 years ago because consumer panelists had asked for it.

A supermarket owner whose customers complained they couldn't find clerks to help them introduced name tags and bright uniforms to increase the staffs' visibility.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a high neck of scalloped Venise lace and sheer yoke of English net with an embroidered medallion. Sheer fitted sleeves were cuffed with a floral Venise lace fluted ruffle of organza. The full A-line skirt, which continued into a chapel length train, was finished by a border of scalloped lace and accented with appliques of floral Venise lace.

The bride wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion with a rolled edge and appliques of Venise lace attached to a Juliet cap of lace. She carried a formal cascade bouquet of butterfly roses, miniature white carnations, orchids and baby's breath accented with pink carnations.

Mrs. Jessie Autry, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of sheer print organza in pink and blue with an off-white background over ivory taffeta designed with a heart shaped neckline featuring ivory lace trimming and lace shoulder straps. Pink satin ribbon accented the neckline, straps and on the lace encircled waistline. A deep flounce was featured at the hemline of the full A-line skirt. The sleeveless gown was complemented by a lace edged shawl with a high neckline circled with a satin ribbon. Clusters of baby's breath and white miniature carnations were worn in her hair and she carried a pink voile parasol edged in a ruffled voile to complement her gown.

Bridesmaids were Miss Susie Matthews, sister of the bride, Miss Donna Caccamise and Mrs. Charlene Jackson of Greenville, Mrs. Gloria Matthews of Coats, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Patricia Allen of Apex. They were dressed identical to the honor attendant.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Steve Allen of Apex and Glen Allen of Angier, brothers of the bridegroom, Donnie Matthews of Coats, brother of the bride, Joey Hawley of Coats and Gary Hughes of Angier.

Miss Jill Whitehurst of Greenville was flower girl and wore a formal length gown of pink stitched voile designed with an open square neckline and short puffed sleeves. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and baby's breath tied with pink satin bows.

Chris Moore of Greenville was ring bearer and carried a white satin pillow with a spray of pink miniature carnations.

Miss Melissa Reid, cousin of the bride, was miniature bride. She wore a formal gown of pink organza and French Nottingham lace and carried a white wicker basket filled with pink and white miniature flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of white knit and a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of peach chiffon and wore a corsage of white carnations. Both mothers were presented Joseph M. Taft III was ring bearer. He carried a white satin pillow with a spray of white and blue flowers tied with a blue bow.

The mother of the bride wore a formal three-tiered gown of soft pink. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of aqua blue. Both mothers wore orchids.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Marie Cox.

Whitley Sr., aunt of the bride.

The bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Thomas H. Henderson and Mrs. Joseph M. Taft Jr. at the Taft home.

The wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Hosting were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marvin Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marvin Taft Jr., Robert Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker and Edgar Taft.

The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and Hardbarger Business College. She is employed by Drs. Woodworth and Pearsall.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and Louisburg College. He also attended Atlantic Christian College, and is employed with Taft Furniture Co.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Egyptian Influence Seen In Jewelry

NEW YORK (AP) — It may be a little late from a historical perspective, but American fashion is having a love affair with ancient Egypt — and counted among those most smitten are designers of diamond jewelry, the Diamond Information Center reports.

The center credits the trend to a couple of major museum exhibits.

It all started at the Metropolitan Museum here with the much-publicized 1976 opening of a new wing to house an enormous permanent collection of arts and artifacts from the Nile. Then the museum, in concert with the Egyptian Museum in Cairo, opened the 55-piece Tutankhamun exhibition in Washington, D.C., last November. The exhibit is now on a two-year tour of museums around the country.

With the public fascinated by Egyptian artifacts, designers have begun to introduce new collections of rings, cuffs, brooches, earrings and pendants based on the treasures unearthed from Cairo's past, the diamond group notes.

Back in King Tut's day living people never wore those museum pieces, the center's researchers say. All that gold with lapis lazuli, turquoise and carnelian was created strictly for funerary use. These riches were meant for the next life.

Though the diamond itself was not known to ancient Egypt — having been discovered only some 2,000 years ago — many of today's newest jewelry designs have paired that stone with Egyptian motifs, joining symbols of love and eternity.

In today's trend-setting pieces, diamonds glittering from heads of god-queens and god-kings seem to be the most prevalent, according to the center. The falcon is another central symbol, representing a sun or sky god, also known as Horus. The uddat eye, a mysterious-looking eye and eyebrow which was a sign of protection against sickness now signifies a popular new diamond jewelry design.

Animals are among other frequently used Egyptian symbols. Certain letters in the hieroglyphic alphabet represent particular animals which had significance to the culture on the Nile — the letter "R" represented the vulture, the letter "M" the owl.

Dear Abby

Reader's Honesty Was A 'Label'

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago I was depressed for a period of time, and since I considered myself an enlightened person, I went to a private psychiatrist. He assured me that there was nothing seriously wrong, that I didn't need prolonged treatment, and after a few more appointments, he dismissed me. That was the sum and total of my "psychiatric treatment."

A year ago I applied for a position. I was asked, "Have you ever had psychiatric treatment?" Seeing no reason not to tell the truth, I mentioned my experience.

In case you don't know this, there are many government positions (and private ones) that cannot be held by anyone with a "history" of psychiatric treatment.

Abby, a person can be nuttier than a peacan plantation, but if he's never been to a psychiatrist, he's considered mentally stable.

I'd appreciate your comments.

STABLE BUT LABELED

DEAR LABELED: There are still in existence a number of laws, rules, regulations, traditions and precedents that are unjust, archaic, senseless and plain idiotic.

If a single session (or a hundred) with a psychiatrist makes one a "mental case," then all psychoanalysts are "mental cases," because in order to become a psychoanalyst one must himself be psychoanalyzed.

Steering clear of a psychiatrist's office does not necessarily affirm one's good mental health. The person who boasts that he's never been to a psychiatrist can be a lot sicker than those who have.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column and believe that more people read Dear Abby than any other part of the paper.

Here is a thorny question I have never known you to comment on.

Love: Are the millions of unmarried, widowed and divorced people supposed to do without it?

We are taught to share everything else, so what is so wrong with sharing love with some needy person?

And can you separate love from sex?

M. R.

DEAR M. R.: Sex for sex's sake means anyone will do. Love is selective. Only a certain somebody can fill a need for love.

The need for "sex" rarely leads to love, but the need for "love" usually leads to sex. Promiscuous love? Sil Promiscuous sex? No!

CONFIDENTIAL TO EAGER TO SUCCEED: Sorry, but you will never accomplish what you have in mind if you continue to wait until you "find the time." No one ever FOUND time for anything. He made it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Most Part, Rain Helpful

There is a saying among farmers — particularly tobacco farmers — that dry weather will scare you to death but wet weather will kill you. It was a saying to dust off last week when, after a scary dry spell welcome rains came. Unfortunately, too much rain came for some farms and as newspaper photos showed last week, tobacco flopped in some fields. Tobacco is a hardy crop, however, and most of it in this area will survive the heavy rains; even benefit from it. Some of the flopped tobacco will be helped by careful attention from industrious farmers. For the most part area crops were helped far more than they were hurt by the heavy rains of the past couple of weeks. The dry conditions that had prevailed before meant that the soil absorbed much of the water that fell. Tobacco farmers will be eying the skies with more concern in the days ahead, however, hoping that the blessing of May's rainfall won't turn into too much of a good thing.

A Measure Of Harmony Now Restored

No doubt the Gov. Hunt-Lt. Gov. Green differences won't end; nevertheless the fact that Green dropped his bid for chairmanship of the State Board of Education last week should restore some harmony to state government. Green has been interim chairman of the board and there was a bill in the Legislature to make the lieutenant governor ex officio chairman of the Board of Education. It was defeated in the House last week and Green subsequently announced he would not be nominated for a two-year term as chairman. The fight over the chairmanship seems over and the state's educational programs should be the beneficiary.

THIS AFTERNOON

Land Use Plans Delayed

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolina's controversial and far-reaching package of land management proposals which have been on again, off again in the General Assembly are due another lengthy delay—probably for two years. Chief sponsors of the proposed Land Policy Act say candidly that without strong support from the governor there is little hope of passage in this session of the General Assembly. And that support doesn't appear to be forthcoming. Asked if he supports and would work for land use legislation this session, Gov. James B. Hunt responded that he does indeed support it... and he and his staff would work for passage. No Support But... he would not make land use legislation a part of his "program" in the General Assembly; in other words, he does not include the subject on his list of "must pass" items like crime legislation, community schools act, testing in schools, reading, utilities reform, and economic development (including the roads and water bonds proposals). Where does that leave land management? The bill was introduced by State Senator Willis P. Whichard, D-Durham, after two years of close scrutiny by the Land Policy Council—on which Hunt and Whichard both served. That study group was created by the General Assembly as an alternative to taking land management action in 1974 after the Coastal Area Management Act was passed. Thus, the 20 coastal counties have a law requiring each county to map land uses and design future growth. The Piedmont and Mountain sections still are without legislation. Meanwhile, the state's Department of Agriculture came up with another alternative piece of legislation—keeping the land use and classification systems spelled out in Whichard's proposal, but scuttling any semblance of state control or supervision. In sum, the plan would leave it strictly up to each local county to comply or not. Such a voluntary approach, say insiders, would be almost as bad as no plan at all.

BILL NOBLITT

Bickering Meanwhile, from within the Hunt administration comes persistent reports of internal bickering over the form which land use legislation should take. Some key advisors call for strict state supervision; some favor local volunteerism only; others think the proposed approach; some favor local volunteerism only; others think the proposed approach using a land classification system is all wrong and should be restudied with an eye toward an entirely different mapping and land use projection system. Senator Whichard is not inclined to push the measure minus Gov. Hunt's strong commitment to stand up and be counted as a backer. He doesn't think the measure would survive the certain onslaught of opponents from Mountain and Piedmont, or the sniping of Coastal legislators who would take the opportunity to gain support throughout the General Assembly for either major revision or complete junking of the existing Coastal Management Act. Rather than risk losing the measure, Whichard is known to favor waiting until another session of the General Assembly for another try. Meanwhile, Coastal legislators continue to press for repeal of the law in the 20 counties along the Atlantic, but in absence of general legislative involvement in land use debate, that proposal shows little promise. Given the intent of the leadership in both Senate and House of Representatives to adjourn this session by mid-June, it appears unlikely that such complex and controversial matters will receive attention.

Class Of '69 Is Traced

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — Under the title of "Where Are They Now?" I have researched the Class of '69 at Molotov Cocktail Tech. Here is what happened to some of the graduates. Rip Callitrope was the first student to graduate from Molotov as a complete illiterate. He could neither read nor write after four years of college, but the faculty and president decided to give him his diploma anyway just to get rid of him. Rip is now teaching freshman English, history and creative writing at Forest Lawn High School. He doesn't see many of his classmates from 1969. "I'd like to write to them," he told me. "But you know how it is." Nancy Beanstrap was cheerleader and homecoming queen of the Class of '69. She was voted the most popular girl in her class. She now is a member of the "Church of the Heavenly Laser" and sells carnations at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. Nancy, who now uses the name "Eternal Light," has been deprogrammed six times but keeps returning to O'Hare Airport to find her "True Beam." She says she's at peace with herself except when she pins a carnation on someone and he refuses to give a donation to her church. Malcom Sumner, who spent a total of 675 days in jail out of his four years in college for protesting the pollution of the air and water around Molotov City, is now a lawyer representing the U.S. Rust Steel Company. A specialist in environmental law, Sumner has successfully defended U.S. Rust in its battle with the government to prevent the discharging of poisonous waste into the Coldstream River. Malcom, who has all his suits tailored in London, regrets his college protest days which he blames on youthful ebullience. He accused EPA and the environmentalists of overreacting to pollution. "People either want steel or clean water. They can't have both," he said. Asked if he regretted spending so many days in jail, Malcom said, "No. The authorities did the right thing. We're a law-

Rufus Could Decide

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten could decide the fate of a bill to relax the penalty for possessing small amounts of marijuana. The bill by Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, is likely to pass the House. It is in a judiciary committee with a politically moderate membership. And, it has 46 co-sponsors plus others Adams said have promised to vote for it on the floor. The bill's future in the Senate, where the membership is generally considered to be more conservative, is questionable. That is where Edmisten figures in. He is the state's chief law enforcement officer and his word carries some weight with legislators. Edmisten's stand could be similar to Chief Justice Susie Sharp's private opposition to ERA which had a heavy influence on some key senators who helped to narrowly defeat the rights proposal. Edmisten said last week he is studying the Adams bill. "I'm very interested in that bill because I believe it would allow law enforcement authorities to put their efforts on things that take away the lives and property of people," he said. The Adams bill would not "decriminalize" marijuana. But it would make the maximum penalty for the first offense of possessing an ounce or less a fine of $100. Now, the penalty could be six months imprisonment and a $500 fine. Second or subsequent offenses could be punished by $200 fine and 30 days imprisonment with the penalty now being $2,000 and two years. "I do not favor decriminalization," Edmisten said, adding that he also does not favor putting "pot smokers" in prison. "What sense is there in filling jails with kids and mixing them up with hardened criminals?" While the bill does not provide for it, Edmisten also said he favors simple possession of marijuana being handled as a minor offense as in Oregon, for example. An offender there is given a citation much like a

To the editor: I have just read with dismay that all the nation's road signs will be changed to the metric system next year. According to the Federal Register of Apr. 27, the public has 45 days to make "written comment" to the Federal Highway Administration on the new regulations requiring all speed signs to be converted to metric during a 90-day period ending Sept. 30, 1978 and all other regulatory signs by Sept. 30, 1980. This is to affect all local street and highway speeds, distances and bridge height signs to show metric only. Many local governments have neither been notified or made budget provisions for these costly changes. City and state officials estimate the cost at over $100 million and predict mass confusion. Yet this action is in line with the Metric Conversion Act of 1975 which will eventually eliminate all forms of measures with which you and I are familiar. For over 100 years Americans have voluntarily declined to convert to metric in any amount. The law now says we still have a choice to "voluntarily convert"—maybe like "bussing". Uniformity and standardization sound desirable, but at what convenience? And for whom? Certainly not for you and me. And how about the cost? Metricizing Great Britain cost a fortune over $20 billion. It can easily cost the U. S., with a 10-times-larger economy, over $200 billion. This is roughly $1,000 for each American. Can we afford this needless expense now—especially when we are told the Social Security Fund is going bankrupt? Do we American really want to blow $200 billion for the convenience of multinationals, and a handful of scholar and social planners—all this money and inconvenience, frustration, annoyance, and needless error? Write to Press, Carter, your Congressmen and Senators and tell them to prevent this staggering cost and needless waste and pass the necessary legislation now. Joseph Evanhoff Kill Devil Hills

THE INSIDE REPORT

Race, Yes; Ideology, No

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Powerful new evidence of how far and how quickly U.S. policy in southern Africa has changed came in Vienna last month when Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa got nowhere in an unpublished request that Washington discourage black guerrilla activity in white-ruled Rhodesia. According to authoritative U.S. sources, Vorster asked Vice President Walter Mondale whether the U.S. would "lean toward restraining" Zambia, the most pro-Western of the "front-line" African nations, in sponsoring guerrilla raids into Rhodesia. He was turned down flat. Yet, the U.S. has raised the devil with Rhodesia for launching cross-border raids into African states. This ought to shatter any illusions remaining in Pretoria or Washington that the Carter administration intends to take an even-handed position on racial conflict in southern Africa. The new position adamantly favors strict black majority rule everywhere on the continent, by peaceful means if possible but through violence if necessary. This entails moral support by the U.S. government for black guerrillas in Rhodesia, the most effective of them avowedly Marxist and using an increasing supply of Soviet arms. The theory is that pro-Moscow Marxists, not only those in power but guerrilla leaders fighting for power in Rhodesia, can be won over to friendship with the U.S. So, while Washington is even less color-blind than it used to be, it is now blind to ideology. All this demolishes talk that the selection of Mondale to conduct the Vienna talks meant defeat for UN Ambassador Andrew Young and his policies. In truth, Mondale came to Vienna relying on Young's aides and like-minded National Security Council staffers rather than old-line Foreign Service officers. The State Department's African Affairs bureau and Assistant Secretary William E. Schauffele, who is being reassigned as ambassador to Greece, have not really been in the policymaking picture since January. While the South African government may not have thought Mondale any more friendly than Young, it did envision the Vice President as prepared to negotiate with Vorster. But Mondale did not deviate an inch from prepared positions; he carefully checked with his staff, or back to Washington if necessary, before responding to Vorster. Consequently, there was never any chance for Vorster's appeal that the U.S. attempt to restrain Zambia's support for Rhodesian guerrillas. Some U.S. officials think Vorster was asking that as a condition for applying South African pressure to Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime. But senior U.S. officials believe the South African was not bargaining and would not pressure Smith. In any event, Mondale made no promise of restraint on Zambia. "We can't do it," a U.S. official explained to us. "It is not U.S. policy to turn off the armed struggle." One highly influential U.S. policymaker put it this way: "We recognize it is very difficult to tell these people to stop fighting." But "these people" do not include the white Rhodesians. Although Washington does not maintain diplomatic relations with Salisbury, it has issued vigorous protests to Rhodesian officials in South Africa about cross-border raids aimed at black guerrilla bases in Mozambique and Botswana. While clearly taking sides in Rhodesia, the U.S. keeps hands off the continuing civil war in Angola between the Marxist government (not even recognized by Washington) and anti-government guerrillas. The fact that Congress prevented meaningful U.S. help for the government in neighboring Zaire against insurgents invading from Angola is now considered providential by the administration. The new policy thus becomes clear: support for black armed efforts to dislodge the last white minority footholds in southern Africa; non-involvement in battles between blacks anywhere on the continent. This results in U.S. support for black Communists against white non-Communists (as in Rhodesia) instead of insistence on peaceful settlement; neutrality in struggles between black Communists and black non-Communists (as in Angola). SEEING THE BEST IN PEOPLE

The statement that we can attract more bees with molasses than with vinegar finds many applications in life. We get much further with our fellows when we see the good in their natures and appreciate these good qualities than when we criticize and berate them. A woman speaking recently about the loving atmosphere in her home said it was largely because the members of the family genuinely admired each other. They were probably not more worthy of admiration than any other group of people, but each saw in those about him something to praise and to speak about with enthusiasm. They all proceeded on the molasses theory rather than the vinegar theory, and they seemed to get along famously as a result. In the Sermon on the Mount our Lord spoke about seeing the mote in our brother's eye and not seeing the beam in our own eye. This is the Biblical repudiation of the vinegar theory. Seeing the best in people is not only good sense; it is Christian duty. —Elisha Douglass

Uncertainties Being Reflected

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — William Batten, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, may be correct when he says "I believe there are a great many people out there with investable funds..." Yes, they have the funds. Savings and loans are loaded with deposits. The big commercial banks are making greater efforts to share in the lode. And families are sinking money into homes, new and existing, as they never have before. But they're not investing the money in the stock market. Individual participation is down to roughly 30 per cent of the Big Board's volume. And mutual funds continue to fight high redemptions. And so, the second half of Batten's statement, made several months ago when he embarked on a program to lure back to the market the prodigal individual investor, has hardly come true as yet. It reads: "...Who are ready to respond to reasonable incentives to put some of their savings into stocks..." Potential investors continue to be savers instead. They search for the guaranteed fixed return provided by interest rather than the riskier but potentially larger return that stocks might provide. Reasonable incentives? Many solid companies are selling below their book value. The price-earnings ratio of the Dow Jones industrial average is about 9.5 or less, compared with nearly 12 a year ago and 16 to 18 a decade ago. The incentives are there, but they aren't being exercised. One mutual fund conducted a survey to determine what was done with the money shareholders obtained by redeeming their holdings. The largest percentage, 24, said they deposited the funds in savings accounts. Why the conservative attitude? Batten expressed the view that "Many of them simply want some assurance that the government won't penalize them with heavy taxes if they happen to make some money on their investments." But there is more to it than that. Institutional activity, now accounting for about 70 per cent of dollar volume on the NYSE, most likely has a lot to do with the reluctance to invest in stocks. Those institutions are felt by individuals to be unfair competition, because of their market-moving power, their special research, their ability to move fast on news the public might not receive until hours later. Indecisiveness about the economy, of course, is a factor. When savers can see far ahead more of them than now tend to become investors. But they cannot see, and it's all understandable when you read the news these days. Even business, which has so much to gain from moving ahead, marks time while worrying itself into a lather about the uncertainties of interest rates, taxes, costs, prices, availability of commodities, foreign competition and more. With business exhibiting such a lack of daring, can the investor be blamed for showing his caution? Without promise, there are no investments, and the equity markets don't seem to be promising much. By contrast, fixed incomes aren't promises, but guarantees.

The doctrinal authority cited for this policy is President Carter's declaration at the University of Notre Dame May 23 that "we are now free of that inordinate fear of Communism which once led us to embrace any dictator who joined us in our fear." Therefore, in the case of Angola, this means the enemy of our enemy is no longer our friend. But this also entails hope that victorious armed Marxists in Africa can be induced to turn away from Moscow toward Washington, as cold war revisionists have always claimed that Ho Chi Minh and Fidel Castro would have done had they been given half a chance.

This portentous shift in policy deserves more public debate than it has been given. Certainly, Andy Young is not a loose cannon, as was widely thought in Washington a few weeks ago. Rather, his January statement over television that he feared racism much more than Communism has been elevated into U.S. strategy, a departure from over 30 years of policy with far-reaching implications for this nation's course in the world.

He also said the current situation allows abuse because police officers or judges can discriminate in arrests and sentencing.

But, he said, he still favors tough action against "pushers," those who peddle drugs, especially hard drugs.

Will he address the issue before legislative committees? He hasn't committed himself, but he indicated the odds are he will. Especially since it seems politically safe.

Fiedlerman has just been appointed by the Carter Administration as director of the Bureau for the Advancement of Higher Education. His first act as director was to give Molotov a $15 million grant to reconstruct the buildings he blew up. INCOME UP Branch Corp. announced that first quarter 1977 consolidated income was up 18.2 per cent.

Thorne Gregory, chairman of the board, said that income before securities transactions was $1,120,612 or 50 cents a share compared to $948,280 or 42 cents per share during the same period last year.

Total deposits rose 5.1 per cent from $390,606,075 to $410,715,104 with most of the increase occurring in regular savings deposits, Gregory reported. Total resources reached $455,717,560, up from $435,439,146.

CHIEF OFFICER

Planters National Bank and Trust Co. announced that D. Douglas Wade Jr., executive vice president, has been named the bank's chief administrative officer. The bank is headquartered in Rocky Mount.

Since joining Planters, Wade has served as senior vice president of branch administration and subsequently directed the Funds Management and Personnel divisions. He was elected executive vice president of the bank in 1975 and was named to the board of directors in 1976.

Wade, who resides in Rocky Mount, is a native of Birmingham, Ala.

FIRM CITED

Hellig-Meyers Furniture Co. was presented the Outstanding Merchant Award recently by Paul Broyhill, chairman of the board of Broyhill Industries.

S. S. Meyers, senior vice president of the Richmond, Va. based furniture company, accepted the award on behalf of the firm from Broyhill. Hellig-Meyers, which has a store in Greenville, operates 59 furniture facilities in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Broyhill Industries, which manufactures home furnishings, makes the Broyhill award each year to leading furniture retailers for their marketing excellence.

ACTIVITY FLUCTUATED

The April net savings inflow at North Carolina savings and loan associations showed a sharp decline from a year ago while lending activity set a new record high, according to figures reported to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, the regional reserve bank for savings associations in the Southeast.

North Carolina member associations experienced a savings increase of $33.5 million, compared with $56.2 million for April a year ago, it was noted. New savings received by these associations amounted to $258.9 million while withdrawals totaled $225.4 million.

The volume of loan closings amounted to $194.1 million, topping by approximately $36.3 million the previous April high posted last year.

CHARGE REDUCED

For the second month in a row, there will be a drop in the "approved fuel charge" on bills received during June by retail customers of Carolina Power and Light Co. in the state, the company reported.

The "approved fuel charge" is the portion of the bill which reflects fluctuations in the cost of fuels required to generate electricity, the company explained. The charge of 83 cents per thousand kilowatt hours on bills issued during May will be replaced with a credit of 85 cents per thousand kwh during June for a net drop of $1.68 per thousand kwh.

The credit on June bills is based on the average fuel cost the company incurred to generate electricity during January, February and March, under a formula established by the State Utilities Commission.

Recover Jetliner

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwaiti troops dressed as mechanics overpowered a Lebanese man in a wheelchair who hijacked a Lebanese jetliner with 112 other persons aboard and demanded $1.5 million, airport sources reported.

The 101 other passengers and 11 crew members were unharmed.

The hijacker was identified as Nasser Mohammed Ali Abu Khaled, 28, from the northern Lebanese village of Kubaieh. One of the other passengers said he told them:

"I am a sick man and I am forced to do this. I need the money."

Abu Khaled had been carried aboard the plane in Beirut in his wheelchair. Officials at the Beirut airport said he was not given the usual security search because he was an invalid.

Radio Kuwait said Abu Khaled was being questioned by security officials and by the Lebanese and Iraqi ambassadors.

Hunting Two In Abduction

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — Two men are being sought by the Roanoke Rapids Police Department in connection with the early Saturday morning abduction of four persons, who were later found unharmed.

Police Chief D.N. Beale said the four, three women and a man, gave two black men a ride from Emporia, Va., to the Roanoke Rapids bus station about 19 miles away. The two men commandeered the car at gunpoint when it arrived here, tied up the women and put the man in the trunk.

The four were released in a rural section of Nash County. They untied themselves and notified authorities.

Beale would not release the name of one man wanted in the case, and said the other man's identity is not known.

The four persons abducted were Christine Rogers, Betty Seaborn, Gloria Powell and Clarence Walker, 22, all of Roanoke Rapids. The women's ages were not available.

Beale said a small amount of money was taken from the man, adding he expects to file kidnapping and armed robbery charges in the case.

Movies For Police Dept.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Winston-Salem Police Department is getting into the motion picture business, but local residents should avoid playing starring roles in future productions.

The department will use a mini-cam, similar to small cameras used in television news productions, to monitor traffic violations and accidents. A $20,000 grant from the Office of Highway Safety and the North Carolina Department of Transportation will fund the color videotape equipment.

Training films will be made to supplement officer instruction on the firing range and other areas, said Ray Snider of the department's public relations office.

Snider said police in Washington, D.C., are using the same equipment and recently monitored a road that had been the site of several automobile accidents. He said tapes of the accidents showed the wrecks were caused by rain.

In New York City, the police department used its video equipment in building a case against a dentist later charged with putting female patients to sleep and then sexually abusing them.

The Winston-Salem grant specifies that for the program's first 19 months, the equipment may be used only for traffic-related training and investigations. After that period, it may be used in other police work.

Utility Pole Is Rammed By Car

An estimated $3,300 property damage resulted from a 4 a.m. Sunday collision on Tenth Street, 25 feet East of the Lawrence Street intersection, Police reported.

Officers said a car driven by Austaniel Brown of Route 6, Greenville collided with a utility pole and caused damage to a yard at 600 East Tenth St.

Damage to the property was set at $2,000 to the Brown car and $1,300 to the yard and pole by investigators who charged Brown with driving under the influence following investigation of the mishap.

creek that drains into the water supply. Some 250 families in the area were evacuated due to noxious fumes from the spill, but all returned home by the next day.

An alternate water supply had been used since the incident, but the EPA gave the green light Sunday to resuming use of reservoir water. Tests of the reservoir will continue this week.

No arrests have been made in the incident.

Howard J. Jackson, chemical plant manager, said whoever caused the spill did it deliberately and knew what they were doing.

"They may have wanted to cause trouble for the company, but they caused trouble for a lot of other people," Jackson said. He said the chemicals were released after someone opened a valve, removed a safety cap from the chemical tank's faucet, pulled a lever and turned a discharge valve.

"From what I saw, they'd have to know how to do it," he said.

The company eventually will be billed for the extensive

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast today for the Northeast. Cool weather is expected for most of the country but warm weather is due for Florida, the Gulf states and the West. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Another hot day was in store for North Carolina today but an unseasonably cool air mass will be moving into the state tonight and early Tuesday, promising some relief from the heat. A chance of thundershowers this afternoon and evening also was forecast.

Temperatures climbed into the 90s around North Carolina Sunday, except for the mountains and some coastal areas. Hickory had a record high of 93 and Fayetteville also recorded a 93. Elsewhere, Wilmington had 92, Goldsboro, Greensboro and Rocky Mount 91, and Charlotte and Raleigh 90. Asheville's high was 85.

Today's highs were expected to be in the low to mid 90s, except for the 80s in the mountains and along the Outer Banks, but Tuesday's forecast calls for sunny, breezy and cooler with highs in the 70s.

City Hall Moved In On Boys' Clubhouse

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It's getting so you can't even build a neighborhood clubhouse these days without consulting City Hall. Ask 11-year-old Jimmy Elliason and his friends. Jimmy and 10 buddies put six weeks of toil and sweat into construction of a two-story clubhouse made from scraps of wood, wall paneling and carpet. The strictly exclusive facility had a "built-in" stairway made from boards nailed to a tree.

ther, called Cameron and protested the letter, but to no avail.

"He kept calling it a building, but it's no building. He doesn't know the difference between a building and a plaything," Elliason said.

The children disassembled the clubhouse Friday. Cameron, whose unlisted phone number city workers would not supply, could not be reached over the weekend.

City officials objected to the clubhouse's leaky roof, holes in the walls and its lack of plumbing, electricity or windows, and tacked a sign saying "Unsafe Building" to the structure.

Ran Into A Parked Car

"What do they think we are building, a mansion," asked Mary G. Elliason, Jimmy's mother, after receiving a letter from the Raleigh housing inspector Wayne Cameron.

John Bowie Tolbert of 400 West Fourth St. was charged with driving under the influence following investigation of a 10:20 p.m. Saturday collision on Fourth Street, 30 feet West of the Jarvis Street intersection police reported.

Investigators said the Tolbert car collided with a parked car owned by Michael Elmo Troiani of 400 South Jarvis St. causing an estimated $400 damage to the Troiani car and $450 damage to the Tolbert vehicle.

Big Finale To Spoleto Festival

By THOMAS C. COTHRAN
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Spoleto arts festival ended its first season in America late Sunday with a clash of cymbals and a spectacular fireworks display on the banks of the Ashley River near Charleston. At least 6,000 persons attended the finale, which was held at Middleton Place plantation, some 14 miles north of Charleston. The finale included many of the performances that had run throughout the 12-day festival, but was ended after dark with the 105-piece Spoleto Festival Orchestra playing "Music for Royal Fireworks" as the sky lit up with brightly-colored explosions. The festival-goers sat on the lawn at the 230-year-old Middleton Place, which is built with sloping, grass-covered terraces leading down to a set of matched man-made ponds called "The Butterfly Lakes."

The plantation contains the nation's oldest landscaped garden. It was laid out in 1741 by Henry Middleton, who later became president of the first Continental Congress.

The orchestra was seated on a special platform constructed over the ponds. The Ashley River, winding between the marshes and huge oak trees, served as a backdrop for the orchestra.

The last fireworks display was mounted on a set of grids on the river banks and portrayed the flags of the United States and Italy, where Spoleto was founded 20 years ago by composer Gian Carlo Menotti.

Among the many dignitaries who attended the finale were South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards and U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Menotti and Charleston Mayor Joseph P. Riley announced Saturday that local ticket sales had made the festival a quote "tremendous success." Riley said they had not known what the local reaction to the marathon performances of opera, ballet, chamber music, jazz, drama, art exhibits and other activities would be.

But, he said that 70 per cent of the tickets had been sold to persons in the Charleston area. He added, "I am most pleased to announce that Spoleto U.S.A.

is here to stay." Menotti said the festival will last 15 days next year, beginning on May 27th. He said the plans for it already are on their way, but he declined to provide details.

Find Evidence Of Slush Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says a tax probe of U.S. corporations shows the existence of 481 possibly illegal corporate slush funds, of which 71 may represent criminal fraud.

The IRS said Sunday it uncovered the slush funds in a special questionnaire audit of the nation's 1,200 major corporations, starting in April 1975. A spokesman said 896 corporations returned the questionnaire by the end of March, and that 481 responses produced "potential slush fund-type issues."

Seventy-one cases were turned over to the IRS Intelligence Division for investigation of possible criminal fraud, he said, adding that more may follow.

If criminal fraud is eventually proved, those responsible face a prison sentence and heavy fine for back taxes.

The IRS launched its special probe following disclosures that some large corporations made bribes, illegal political donations and other questionable payments in the United States and overseas.

While it is illegal for IRS to identify corporations under investigation, the spokesman indicated that most have gross assets in excess of $250 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, hesitating after last Friday's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 9.08 on Friday, dropped back 2.29 to 909.94 by 11:30 a.m.

Gainers held a 3-2 edge on losers in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume totalled 4.68 million shares over the first hour. The market got a boost on Friday from favorable government reports on wholesale prices and unemployment, as well as a decision by New York's Citibank to keep its prime lending rate at 6 1/2 percent.

But some analysts were betting that Citibank would raise the prime rate to 7 percent this coming Friday.

Central Soya ranked among the most active Big Board issues, unchanged at 13 1/2 in trading marked by a 150,000-share block at 13.

Monroe Auto Equipment climbed 1/8 to 11 1/2. The company said an appeals court turned down a Federal Trade Commission bid to hold up the acquisition of Monroe by Tenneco Inc.

Tenneco eased 1/8 to 31 3/4. The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was up .01 at 53.37.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .32 at 113.60.

A report of inspections by the city's Fire Prevention Bureau said all schools have been inspected that all were found to be in compliance with city fire and safety codes with the exception that all schools which use deep-fat cooking appliances must be protected by automatic dry-chemical extinguishing systems. The fire safety inspectors also said a trailer mounted tank used by the school system to transfer fuel oil from one site to another is in violation of city, state and federal flammable liquid regulations.

Cox said the school system is now in the process of securing an acceptable fuel transporter to replace the trailer mounted tank.

In other business this morning, the county board set four-mile boundaries for the Clark's Neck Fire Department which purchased a fire truck May 7, and amended the General Grimes (Grimesland) district boundaries to coincide with the new Clark's Neck fire district.

Commissioners also authorized the advertising for bids for a new air compressor for the Fire Marshal's Office to supply breathing air for county fire departments.

Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said the 5,000 pounds per square inch compressor would cost about $3,700.

The board also approved final plats for the Rosewood and Long Branch subdivisions and endorsed a bill before the North Carolina Legislature which would provide all school systems in the state with a health education coordinator. The program is designed to educate school students in the prevention of illness.

Commissioners this morning also adopted a resolution naming the main road in the industrial park area North of Greenville as Industrial Boulevard after the action was recommended by the Pitt County Development Commission and the Greenville City Council. The street runs from Greene Street to the Eastern By-pass.

If Coors Can, So Can Ortlieb

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — If Bill Coors can do it, so can Philadelphia's Joe Ortlieb.

Coors, who brews Coors beer in this Rocky Mountain town and markets it in 13 western states, has taken out newspaper ads warning drinkers not to buy Coors from persons selling it in the East because it may have deteriorated on its way across the country.

Ortlieb, the head of a small, 108-year-old family brewery in the City of Brotherly Love, "has the same philosophy about his beer.

He ran a newspaper ad here last week, urging Coloradans: "Please don't buy my beer, either."

The ad explained that the beer rarely is shipped outside a 100-mile radius of Philadelphia, although he invited Westerners to sample his product when they get to Philadelphia.

But if a bottle of Ortlieb's shows up in Colorado, he said, "I'd like a den of riled-up Rocky Mountain rattlers."

NEVER ARGUE WITH SUCCESS

There is a sound philosophy based on the premise: "Never argue with success." If you have the urge to invest in real estate, listen to what some of the most successful investors have to say about it.

Andrew Carnegie: "Ninety percent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined. The wise young man or wage-earner invests his money in real estate."

Marshall Field: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way,

'Overeaters' To Hear Speaker

The new Greenville area chapter of Overeaters Anonymous will have Linda P. of the Durham-Chapel Hill O. A. Fellowship at its Thursday 7:30 p. m. meeting at Arlington Street Baptist Church.

Mrs. P. visited Greenville's organizational meeting of O. A. At that time she had lost 110 pounds since joining O. A. This time she will bring the group some hard-to-get Alcoholics Anonymous handbooks and some tips for weight reduction. Her talk is titled, "Basics and Books." Last time she told the group she had learned that giving up foods containing flour, sugar and chocolate would greatly decrease appetite and facilitate weight loss.

At last week's discussion meeting, 49 persons were present. The person losing the most weight in the previous week had dropped 13 pounds.

No Point In Losing A Foot

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — A few staunch Southerners have had the last laugh, they say, in a post-Civil War rivalry. While moving a statue of Confederate President Jefferson Davis at the Vicksburg National Military Park, one of the workers placed a Lincoln penny, face up, in the spot where one of Davis' feet would rest.

"Which foot?" someone asked workman Gordon Cotton. He refused to answer. "You want some Yankee to come down here and chisel the heel off?"

Gunmen Free 2 Women

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two pregnant women released by South Moluccan terrorists after 13 days captivity said today that the other 53 hostages aboard a train in northern Holland are in good condition despite "very great psychological pressure."

Trail Blazers Make Amazing Comeback To Win Series, 4-2

By BOB BAUM
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Pacific Northwest is known for rain and clean air. Now, it's also known for the best basketball played anywhere.

The Portland Trail Blazers, who until this year had never had a winning season, claimed the National Basketball Association title Sunday with a hair-raising 109-107 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

"We had a whole lot of fun," grinned Blazer team captain Bill Walton, who was named the series' Most Valuable Player after he scored 20 points, grabbed 23 rebounds and blocked eight shots in the victory. "I feel good all over."

When the buzzer sounded, Walton, who suffered through two injury-plagued seasons and considerable criticism before leading his team to this championship, ripped the No. 32 jersey from his back and hurled it into the crowd.

The Blazers had dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven championship series, then won four in a row to win the title. Sunday's contest was the only game that was close.

Portland led by as many as 15 points, but the Sixers repeatedly challenged the Blazers.

They nearly caught them at the finish.

Joe Bryant's two free throws with 51 seconds left sliced the Portland lead to 108-105. Portland's Maurice Lucas sank one of two free throws with 27 seconds to make it a four-point game.

George McGinnis, whose shooting touch returned for the final game, sank a 20-footer to slice the lead to 109-107 with 18 seconds to go. Then McGinnis shot was short. Walton tipped the rebound to Portland's Johnny Davis and the game was over.

The crowd of 12,951 swamped the court in what looked like a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille epic, and the immediate post-game hysteria was tame compared with the celebration that followed downtown. A parade through downtown was planned for noon today.

"The sun was shining in Portland. I thought that was a good omen," said exhausted Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue. "It was a tough game."

The tenseness of the game evaporated in the euphoria of the post-game Portland dressing room, where guard Dave Twardzik jokingly dumped beer down the shorts of Walton and Lionel Hollins as they were being interviewed on television.

Champagne flowed freely and so did compliments.

"I'm a very good friend of everybody on this team," Gross said. "I can say anything I want to any of them. You can't say that about very many teams."

"They play team ball, unselfish ball. They are the embodiment of the best in professional basketball," said champagne-drenched team owner Larry Weinberg.

"These guys have played great all season," said the usually reserved Walton. The big Portland center normally avoids post-game interviews, but he talked at length after the game.

"In my opinion," he said, "they (the Sixers) lost because they played a better team. I don't mean to take anything away from them. They're a fine team. I just think they ran into a better one."

"This was one of the best games I've ever played in," Walton said. "A lot of guys played well and it was exciting."

Walton won a new car from Sport Magazine when a panel of writers selected him MVP. Blazer Coach Jack Ramsay couldn't argue with the choice.

"I've never coached a better player. I've never coached a better competitor. I've never coached a better person than Bill Walton," said Ramsay.

While Erving grabbed his usual place in the spotlight by sinking 17 of 29 field goal tries from a variety of angles, Gross — the man who was guarding him — hit 12 of 16 field goal attempts and grabbed five timely offensive rebounds.

Gross wound up with 24 points, tops for the Blazers, and he said after the game that Erving relaxed on defense and became tired because he played nearly the entire game.

"I really don't think he was concentrating on me on defense," Gross said, "and there's no way he can run up and down the court with me for 48 minutes and not get tired."

In the final game, it was the play of Portland's guards — particularly Hollins — and the team's rugged superiority on the backboards that made the difference.

Hollins scored 20 points, including several key baskets in the final quarter. Portland out-rebounded the Sixers, 59-47.

Still, Philadelphia needed just one basket at the end to send the game into overtime.

"We almost did it," said McGinnis, who hit 12 of 23 field goal attempts, scored 28 points and grabbed 16 rebounds. "We fought back. It was a great ball game, a great finish, the best game of the series."

But, he added, "We would have liked to see the guards get more involved."

Philadelphia guard Doug Collins, the team's second-leading scorer through the playoffs, hit just 3-of-9 from the field for six points. Lloyd Free, who came off the bench to replace Collins, was 0-for-6 from the field.

When NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien presented the championship trophy, Ramsay had the entire Portland team come into the interview room to accept it.

"This is the finest team I've ever coached," Ramsay said. "They are the finest people I've ever coached. If we hadn't won it, I'd have felt the same way."

Ramsay Guides Team To Title

ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — It took Jack Ramsay nine years and three professional teams, but he finally found the group of athletes he wanted.

And once he found them, it took him 101 games — just one very long season — to lead the Portland Trail Blazers to the top of the heap: the National Basketball Association championship.

"This is the finest team, the finest people I've ever coached," said Ramsay. "This is what I've always aimed for, the world championship."

Portland, which entered the league as an expansion team in 1970 and never even made the playoffs in its first six seasons, wrapped up the crown Sunday by beating the Philadelphia 76ers 109-107 to win the best-of-seven playoff finals, 4-2.

Clearly the architect of this championship was Ramsay, a balding, 52-year-old physical fitness buff who owns both a doctorate in education and a 31-inch waistline.

Though Ramsay is not the type to gloat, this title had to be particularly satisfying. He coached St. Joseph's, Pa., in Philadelphia for 11 highly successful seasons and got his start in the professional ranks as general manager of the 76ers. He later coached that club for four seasons before moving on to Buffalo, where he also coached four years.

But last summer, despite leading Buffalo to the playoffs three years in a row, Ramsay was dismissed following a series of disagreements with Paul Snyder, then owner of the club.

Portland owner Larry Weinberg, looking for a coach who believed in a team style based on running and pressure defense, decided Ramsay was his man.

"We felt that if we got a ballclub that played good team ball, hustled and never gave up, we would be successful," said Weinberg. "And Jack Ramsay is as good a teacher and as good a strategist as there is in the league."

Ramsay inherited three stars who did not get along — center Bill Walton, forward Sidney Wicks and guard Geoff Petrie.

He decided Walton was the man around whom he wanted to build his team.

"I talked with each of the players," said Ramsay. "I started with Bill and told him the kind of game I envisioned us playing and what his role would be. And it just so happens he likes that kind of game. It suits his abilities. It's an enjoyable game."

"So we agreed from the start that this is the way I wanted the game played and that this is the role he would play in it."

Ramsay then set about fitting the right pieces around Walton. The unhappy Wicks was sold to Boston and Petrie was traded to Atlanta for draft rights which landed rugged forward Maurice Lucas. Scrappy Dave Twardzik, signed as a free agent, and unheralded rookie Johnny Davis brought added speed to the backcourt.

In all, the Blazers had seven men on their title team that were not with the club a year ago.

It is Ramsay's team, in every sense of the word.

Campbell Returns In Style

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

If Bill Campbell wanted to prove that you can go home again, he did it in style Sunday.

Campbell, Boston's ace reliever who signed with the Red Sox for $1 million as a free agent after leaving the Minnesota Twins last winter, made his first appearance against his former teammates in a Boston's 5-1 triumph Sunday. Campbell did not spare the dramatics in his return engagement either, entering the game with the bases loaded and none out in the Twins' sixth.

Campbell got out of the jam after allowing just one run, which Rod Carew drove in with a sacrifice fly on a 3-0 pitch. Over-all, he pitched four innings of two-hit relief in recording his ninth save of the season.

Campbell's heroics gave Reggie Cleveland his fourth victory in seven decisions. George Scott drove in the Red Sox' first run with a single in the sixth. It was his 1,700th career hit.

er, 7-5, was unable to become the winningest pitcher in Orioles' history. He is tied at 181 victories with Dave McNally. Palmer blamed himself for the loss.

Yankees 8, White Sox 6
The Yankees' long ball onslaught started with Thurman Munson's solo blast in the opening inning, his ninth homer of the year. Carlos May and Reggie Jackson hit two-run home runs and Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and George Zeber added solo shots. Zeber's homer was his first in the major leagues.

Dick Tidrow, 5-2, gained the victory for New York and Sparky Lyle pitched three innings in registering his 11th save. Steve Stone, 6-4, had a five-game winning streak snapped.

Weiskopf Wins Third Kemper

Woody Peete

East Carolina's decision to go ahead with the game with Toledo is somewhat ironic.

Earlier in the year, Furman University, long a fixture on the East Carolina football schedule, announced that it would no longer schedule the Pirates, since East Carolina was leaving the Southern Conference.

When the announcement was made by Furman officials, East Carolina had a written contract for a game this fall in Picklen Stadium.

Eventually, it was filled, however, and the possibility of a suit against Furman was forgotten. Although officials of the university will not comment on it, they did think of such a suit.

It is ironic, then, that the same thing should happen to them, except on the other end of the stick.

Toledo apparently wanted East Carolina on its schedule. Some years back, East Carolina got Toledo for a home and home series. In those days, Toledo was one of the nation's top teams, going unbeaten for a couple of years.

But since then, the Rockets have fallen on bad times, and getting East Carolina on the schedule would, this time, be a boost for them.

The unfortunate thing about it is that it leaves the Pirates with less than an attractive home schedule, not to mention a terrible opening slate now.

Four of the first five games are on the road, and three of them are against ACC or former ACC teams, State, Duke and South Carolina.

For the young Pirate club, this opening will now be much tougher than it would have seemed a couple of weeks back. Duke will certainly be high for the Pirates, regardless of the outcome against State, another team sure to be high.

And Toledo probably will be out to see that the Pirates get a little taste of bitterness from trying to drop them from the slate.

NCAA Should Rule

For some time now, the NCAA has been talking about putting a time limit on contracts for football games, making it illegal for schools to sign for games more than five years in advance.

Right now, some of the bigger schools are signing up games in which the people who will play them are not even aware of their existence, and in some cases, the future players have yet to be born.

If something like this had been around a few years back, the problem may not have arisen.

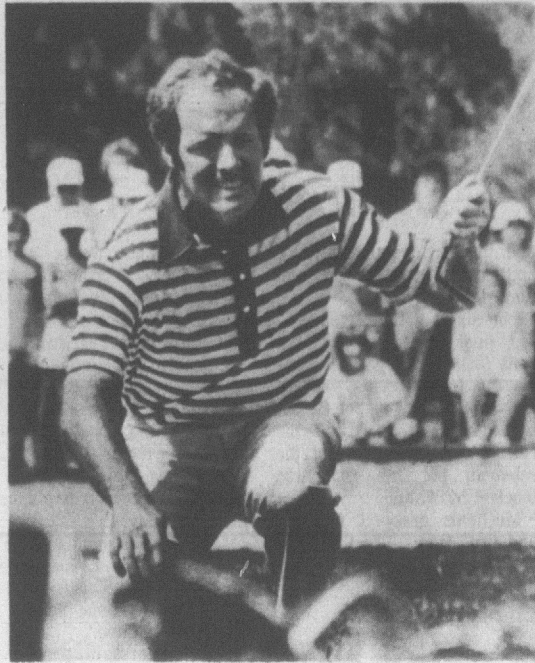

Two All-Americans

Congratulations are in order for two of East Carolina University's track athletes, Calvin Alston and Herman McIntyre.

The two both placed in the All-American brackets at the NCAA Track and Field Championships over the weekend.

Alston finished fifth in the 200-meter run, while McIntyre was seventh in the triple jump.

Another Pirate, Otis Melvin just missed gaining the finals of the 200-meter, and that would have made him an All-America too. He missed qualifying into the finals by one-one hundredth of a second, less than the blink of an eye.

On His Way To Win

Tom Weiskopf reacts as he misses a birdie putt on the eighth hole during Sunday's final round of the Kemper Open being played at Quail Hollow Country Club in Charlotte. Weiskopf made par on the hole and went on to win the tourney. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Experience was the key to his victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament, Tom Weiskopf said. A regained putting touch brought him through the multiple-man scramble.

But wife Jeanne deserves a large part of the credit, too.

"I was really down after my disappointing, discouraging finish in the Memorial Tournament in my home town," Weiskopf said Sunday after a final-round 70 had broken a two-year victory drought.

"I just wanted to get away from tournament golf for a while. I hadn't won in two years. I was playing bad. It wasn't any fun. I was confused and angry. I didn't know what to do.

"My wife told me I was like a rookie trying to win his first one. She told me I had to stick with it. She said I was the only one who could make it happen, and I couldn't make it happen if I wasn't playing.

"So I went on to Atlanta." He shot a nine-birdie 65 in the last round at Atlanta and, only after that round, decided to play in the Kemper. That decision — and his critical play on the par-five holes — led to a 277 total, 11 under par, his third victory in the Kemper and $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000.

And it prompted him to enter this week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic. He filed his entry moments after posting his 12th career victory and only moments before the deadline.

Weiskopf had to birdie the par-five ninth hole to remain in a tie with non-winners George Burns and Bill Rogers halfway through the final round. He took sole control with another birdie on the par-five 10th and locked it up with a one-putt par on the par-five 15th, where Burns made bogey from a fairway bunker. That put Tom three in front with three to play.

Burns and Rogers, both non-winners, each finished with a round of par-72 and a tie for second at 279. Doug Tewell and Lou Graham also wound up with par rounds but finished at 280. Tied at 281 were Craig Stadler, Allen Miller, Hubert Green, Lanny Wadkins, J.C. Snead and Bill Calfee.

The victory put Weiskopf in position for one of 12 spots on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that will meet England's best this fall, but he said even if picked, he would not compete.

Snow Hill Gets Win

SMITHFIELD — Johnston County scored 11 runs off of 10 hits to defeat Snow Hill in an American Legion baseball game yesterday, 11-5.

Errors hurt Snow Hill as the team committed eight misplays. Johnston County took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first, but Snow Hill scored two in the second. Johnston County came back with three in the bottom of the second, however, and never trailed after that.

Johnston added two in the fourth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh. Each team scored three in the eighth inning.

Jerry Speight was 2-4 for Snow Hill, while Ike Sorrell led Johnston with a 4-4 performance.

A-G Defeats Winterville

WINTERVILLE — Ayden-Grifton gained a 4-3 victory over Winterville in a Senior Babe Ruth baseball game yesterday.

Tim Shadle was the winning pitcher for Ayden-Grifton, giving up three hits. Eddie Taylor was 3-4 to pace the Ayden-Grifton hitting, while Randy Edens was 2-3 for Winterville.

Hough Digs Out Of Hole For Win

KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Charlie Hough huffed and he puffed, but he wasn't exactly blowing San Diego batters down. A struggle it was, but the Los Angeles reliever managed to preserve a victory for Doug Rau.

The usually reliable pitcher was uncommonly erratic Sunday, twice walking the bases loaded in the final two innings.

But just as he dug himself into holes, he quickly dug himself out to preserve the Dodgers' 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Hough, for all his wildness, didn't give up a hit while gaining his 15th save of the season.

NL Roundup

Another who's played a major role in getting the Dodgers up front in the National League West is second baseman Dave Lopes. He had a two-run homer Sunday, providing the Dodgers with their eventual winning runs.

In other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Houston Astros 14-4, the Montreal Expos whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Atlanta Braves 10-9, the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies twice, 6-5 and 3-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Rau gave up five hits before Hough relieved him. Mike Ivie belted his fifth home run with the bases empty in the fifth inning, giving the Padres a 2-1 lead. But Lopes' two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth put Los Angeles ahead to stay as the Dodgers retained a 10-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League West.

Reds 14, Astros 4
Johnny Bench drove in five runs with two homers and Joe Morgan had a three-run blast, powering unbeaten Gary Nolan and Cincinnati over Houston.

Expos 7, Cardinals 5
Montreal's Sam Mejias slugged a pinch-hit home run to lead off the seventh inning and break a 5-5 tie.

Giants 10, Braves 9
Bill Madlock smashed a two-run double and Derrel Thomas hit a pair of sacrifice flies as San Francisco took an early seven-run lead and held on to beat Atlanta.

Mets 6-3, Phillies 5-2
John Milner scored the winning run in the 10th inning on a bases-loaded wild pitch by reliever Tom Underwood to give New York its first-game victory over Philadelphia.

Pirates 5, Cubs 4
Bill Robinson and Willie Stargell drove in two runs each to lead Pittsburgh over Chicago in a game that included three rain delays totaling nearly four hours.

Mobil 1 is the highest quality man-made lubricant money can buy. Its cost is high because it is made from costly raw materials and requires a complex process to produce its synthesized components. FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to focus upon the unconventional activities instead of relying too much on regular routines. Keep cheerful for best results. You have a good chance to impress others now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A private affair can easily be solved now. Don't try to borrow from others at this time or you could get in trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact a person who appears unknowing but is actually very clever and can help you solve an important problem.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A different attitude and perspective where your career is concerned brings excellent results today. Think constructively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to get out of that rut and make your life more interesting. Make plans for the days ahead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches are fine so be sure to follow them and clear up any confused thinking you may have. Steer clear of "yes-yes" people.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know better what is expected of your associates, and they of you, and then come to a better understanding with them. Be diplomatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your finest ideas to associates and gain their cooperation to put them across. Try to improve your environment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good time to plan for a new type of amusement that will be enjoyable. Be careful of one who is hypocritical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do something nice for family members and you gain increased affection. Take no chances with your reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can now engage in new avenues of expression that will be more suited to your talents. Strive for better rapport with mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to engage in activities that you didn't have time for recently. Cultivate new acquaintances and turn them into friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A sudden inspiration could show you the way to handle a problem you have. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have many good ideas to express and should be encouraged from early in life. Give a good education in modern schools where your progeny can make rapid progress. There is genius in this chart that needs careful handling.

GOREN BRIDGE

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J1072 ♠AQ853 ♠76 ♣93
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. Your hand is worth one constructive free bid. However, it would be poor tactics to introduce your heart suit, for if partner rebids his spades, you would feel obliged to raise. If North can't take any action after a simple raise, you are probably in your best spot.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ873 ♠93 ♠842 ♠1095
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. Despite your excellent trump support, your hand isn't worth a free bid. All you are likely to accomplish is to alert the opponents that they have few, if any, spade losers and prod them into bidding on. If partner has a good hand, he can reopen the auction.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K7 ♠AJ5 ♠Q984 ♠QJ74
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—What started out as a doubtful opening bid has improved steadily as the auction progressed. Thus far, you have denied holdings in partner's suits when in fact you have a fit for both. The only sensible action you can take now is to cue-bid the ace of hearts and see what partner does next.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J6 ♠KJ72 ♠AKJ84 ♠87
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. You have a minimum opening bid, and must take no voluntary action lest partner expect you to have a better hand. It is more important to tell partner you have a bare opening bid than that you have a rebiddable suit.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J ♠KJ85 ♠KJ65 ♠J962
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 NT 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—You have just enough values for game and had the opponents not interfered, you would have used the Stayman convention to check on a possible 4-4 heart fit. The way to go about that after an intervening bid is to cue-bid the enemy suit—in this case, three spades.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1092 ♠8752 ♠A763 ♠73
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Dble. Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner's double is for take-out, not penalties. He is taking this action in the full knowledge that you could have nothing, since you couldn't respond to his opening bid. Since you have about as much as you could possibly hold for your previous pass, you should make a positive move now by jumping to three hearts.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as

A.—Pass. Opposite a partner who could not respond to a one diamond opening bid, your chances of either buying the hand or making eight tricks are slim. In addition, a diamond rebid will only help the opponents judge their distributional values and may propel them to a malleable game they wouldn't normally reach.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Americans Drive Slower; But Still Above 55 MPH

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Three years after the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit went into effect across the nation, authorities say Americans are driving more slowly than they used to, but are still going faster than the law allows.

An Associated Press spot check shows the number of traffic tickets has risen sharply since the days before the energy crisis forced the speed cutback.

Officials in most areas say they are enforcing the limit rigorously, but they concede that drivers often can travel up to five or 10 miles an hour faster than the limit without fear of retribution. There have been some attempts — mostly unsuccessful — to ease penalties for drivers who break the speed limit, but don't go faster than 75 miles an hour.

Authorities in some states say they are concerned by figures which show the average speed is inching up.

In North Dakota, for example, Col. Ralph Wood, superintendent of the state highway patrol, said average speeds last year ranged from 57.3 to 59.6 miles an hour. He said monthly surveys for this year show from 60 to 73 per cent of the drivers going faster than 55 miles an hour.

"It's the trend that bothers us," Wood said, noting that the situation was still better than it was in 1972-73 when drivers routinely traveled at 75 miles an hour.

The North Dakota Legislature passed a bill that would have limited fines for speeding between 55 and 65 miles an hour to $5, but it was vetoed by Gov. Arthur A. Link, who said the measure was "an invitation" to break the law.

Georgia officials also reported a trend upward in the average speed, from 58 miles an hour in 1974 to 61 miles an hour last year and 62 miles an hour this year.

A spokesman for the state patrol noted that different courts give different fines and added: "There are some areas where you cannot convict for speed less than 10 over."

He said the motorist is usually safe from a ticket if he or she is driving at 65 miles an hour on an interstate highway in Georgia. "But they're not driving at the speeds they once did. They used to run at 75 or 80. The motoring public is no fool. They know what speed they can drive and get away with."

C. W. Dorman, director of highway safety in South Carolina, said surveys show 51 per cent of the drivers are going over 55 miles an hour. Of these, about one-fourth are going faster than 60. One reason that almost half the drivers are complying with the speed limit may be the threat of tickets: Dorman said arrests the year after the 55 m.p.h. limit went into effect went up 50 per cent; the next year they increased 100 per cent and have remained at that level.

Lt. Patrick J. Monaghan of the Idaho State Police said the state is enforcing the lower speed limit "very heavily." As evidence, he noted that the 55 m.p.h. limit took effect in April 1974. From January through March of that year, he said, 3,758 speeding citations were issued. In the same period this year, there were 12,747 speeding citations.

In Kansas, Col. Allen Rush of the highway patrol, said speeding arrests are well-above pre-1974 levels. He said the number of arrests declined slightly in the first quarter of 1977, but attributed the drop to the severe weather that kept people off the roads.

Studies by the state Department of Transportation show that the average speed of vehicles on Kansas highways went from 63.2 in 1972 to 55.7 in 1974, 56.1 in 1975 and 57.1 in 1976.

"There are a lot of reasons for wanting to see the speed limit observed," said Rush. "First, there's safety. It is saving lots of lives. Secondly, it's the most important means available to government at this time for saving fuel."

South Dakota Highway Patrol Supt. Dennis Eisnach said average speeds on highways are stable at about 60 miles an hour. "Most drivers are traveling 55 and 60 and we're not seeing many above that speed," he said. "I think that's contributing to our lower rate of accidents, but it looks like we're never going to get everyone down to 55."

Col. Al Lubker, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said motorists are not complying with the limit and added that arrests are up sharply. He said most arrests are of motorists traveling between 65 and 70 miles an hour. Before the 55 m.p.h. limit went into effect, the speed of those arrested ranged from 75 to 80 miles an hour.

Under Missouri law, a driver is not assessed "points" against his license as long as he is not exceeding the previously posted limit, even if he is going over 55. He pays a fine only.

Lubker said the fact that drivers don't risk losing their licenses for speeding as long as they don't go too fast makes them more inclined to speed. "We have many people who are driving 60 and chiseling on the speed limit," he said.

Michigan, meanwhile, is considering a bill which would make driving over 55 to the list of offenses for which a driver gets points. Capt. Paul Ruge, commander of the state police, said compliance with the 55 m.p.h. limit is "excellent." He said the average statewide speed is 57.8 miles an hour. "For the most part, we've eliminated the high-speed driver," Ruge said.

A spokesman for the Illinois State Police said: "It is an overwhelming job trying to keep motorists in the 55 m.p.h. range. The magnitude of the problem is increasing. We have told the federal government it has to do a better job of convincing people of compliance."

In the first quarter of this year, studies showed 84 per cent of the drivers on interstates were going over 55 miles an hour, 35 per cent were going over 60 and 8 per cent were doing more than 65. In the same period last year, 77.8 per cent were going over 55, 32.6 per cent over 60 and 6.8 per cent over 65.

For some motorists, speeding is a sometime thing.

Kentucky State Police Lt. Ernest Bivens said he notices a difference in drivers when he is out in his private car and when he is in a police vehicle.

"It's a kind of lonely feeling to be in my Chevy Nova, having everyone go by and think, 'What's wrong with that nut going only 55?' But people are nice. They don't blow the horns too much though they do get kind of upset." When Bivens is in uniform, in his blue and white cruiser, "it's the greatest difference in the world. When they pull up beside me, they lose their incentive for going 65."

The FARM SCENE

By L. GAYLON AMBROSE
Asst. Agricultural Extension Agent

The use of one or two applications of a contact-type sucker control chemical in the button stage followed by immediate topping is the cornerstone of successful topping and sucker control programs. The proper use of MH after suitable development of the upper leaves is also a must.

Numerous growers could benefit by the application of contact-type sucker control chemicals and topping earlier than they are currently doing, especially in view of the strong demand for good-bodied tobacco.

About 250 on-farm tests on topping and chemical sucker control methods have been conducted in the crop science extension tobacco program at North Carolina State University during the past 10 years. These test, backed by grower experience, were used to develop a topping and sucker control program which has 5 basic steps. Timing is one of the key factors in this program.

Step I Apply a contact-type sucker control chemical before topping when about 50 percent of the plants have run up just past the button stage. A good indication that your timing is correct is when a few of the small or late plants are chemically topped by the contact-type material. At first this seems to be a rather harsh treatment but it actually helps the overall quality of your crop. Normally the late plants would produce a lot of thin chafy tobacco that would get mixed with your good tobacco. By chemically topping the weak plants the remaining 10 to 12 leaves will develop some body. These leaves are less likely to reduce the general quality of your cured tobacco.

Contact-type chemicals should be sprayed on before the button is topped out. The button will help catch the spray solution and improve your chances or wetting the tiny suckers in the top leaf axils. The suckers must be wet for the contact chemical to kill them.

Step II-Top the plants that are ready for topping immediately after application of the contact chemical. Just because topping is to be done with a machine, do not delay this job. There are many benefits from Early topping.

Research has shown yields are increased about 1 percent per acre per day by topping in the button stage as compared to topping later. Early topping also stimulates root development and improves drought tolerance. And, populations of certain insects are lowered because the eggs and larva of certain insects on floral parts of the plant and upper leaves are placed on the ground where survival is nil.

Step III- Apply a second application of a contact sucker control chemical 3 to 5 days after the first application in fields that have irregular growth and flowering. Many fields of tobacco in recent years had enough irregular growth and flowering to justify a second application of a contact-type sucker control chemical. The second application should be relatively soon after the first to help control the suckers missed by the first application. If you wait longer than 5 days to make the second application, the larger suckers missed during the first application probably will continue to grow. The timing of the second application is extremely important.

Step IV- Top the remaining plants that were not topped after the first contact was applied.

Step V- Apply MH about 7 days after the last contact application and preferably in the morning about 2 days after a rain or irrigation. The use of a contact-type chemical earlier makes it possible for you to select a time to apply the MH when it will be absorbed. Tobacco leaves absorb MH best when they are turgid or flexed up which is associated with ample soil moisture for the plant to be in a state of growth. MH applied under dry weather conditions is only partially absorbed.

The suggested topping and sucker control program is designed to handle a crop that has a reasonable rate of nitrogen fertilizer. Excess nitrogen encourages sucker growth that is difficult to control. Also, the tobacco is rank, ripens slowly and usually cures into poor quality leaf.
