Assassin Ray Is Recaptured After 54 Hours

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
BRUSHY MOUNTAIN, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray was tracked down early today by a brace of bloodhounds named Sandy and Little Red, ending a desperate 54½-hour flight for freedom from life in prison.

At the end of a three-hour, three-mile run through a wooded creek valley and up thickly covered mountain slopes, the assassin of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. was found hiding in a pile of leaves.

A few hours after Ray was seized, police arrested another of the six inmates who had fled with him — leaving only one fugitive at large. The 49-year-old Ray, driven and exhausted, covered with mud and sand, offered no resistance to his captors. His first words, according to prison guard Sammy Joe Chapman, Sandy's handler and the first officer on the scene, were: "I feel good."

Chapman, 33, petted Sandy after returning with Ray and said: "She's the prettiest dog in the world." Sandy and Little Red are 14-month-old sisters.

The location of Ray's recapture was only five miles from the Brushy Mountain State Prison where he and the six others escaped over a wall with a makeshift pipe ladder on Friday evening.

The sixth fugitive, Donald Ray Caylor, 24, was spotted this morning by a patrolman walking along a street in Oak Ridge, 20 miles east of the prison. Officers said Caylor had no identification on him and the patrolman brought him to police headquarters where FBI agents and prison guards identified him.

Joel Plummer, state public safety commissioner, said authorities were delighted with the success of the manhunt.

Caylor's return to the prison left only Douglas Shelton, 32, still free.

Two others were captured Sunday: Larry Hacker, 32, Hamilton, Ohio, serving 28 years for armed robbery and safe cracking, was the reputed ringleader of the escape; Earl Hill Jr., 34, Erwin, Tenn., convicted of murder and rape, was a former cellmate of Ray's.

Another fugitive, David Lee Powell, 27, Chicago, was recaptured Saturday. He was serving 100 years for murder.

Plummer said Gov. Ray Blanton was "extremely pleased with Ray's capture."

Blanton said earlier he had kept U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell briefed on the search and that Bell had kept President Carter informed.

Plummer said Ray's capture "concludes one of the largest manhunts in the history of Tennessee."

The capture, at 2 a.m., was reported at 2:35 a.m. and Ray was returned to the prison soon afterward in a squad car driven swiftly through the gate to the administration building.

Ray appeared tired but alert and wide-eyed. His hair was wet and matted and his clothes, a black sweatshirt and black pants, were covered with sand and mud. His face also was smeared with mud.

It was not known whether Ray had eaten during the weekend chase, said Warden Stoney Lane.

He was examined by a medic and placed in a prison hospital. Lane said this was "routine procedure."

Lane said Ray would be placed in "administrative segregation" for three days while a hearing on the escape is conducted. "It is not solitary confinement, but his movements inside the prison are sharply restricted," the warden said.

First Lady, Vance Meet

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter will meet with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and may appear before congressional committees to report on her two-week journey to Latin America.

After a hectic seven-nation tour, the First Lady planned to rest today and talk with Vance, who leaves Tuesday for an Organization of American States meeting on the Caribbean island of Grenada.

White House spokesmen say Frank Moore, the President's legislative liaison, has discussed the possibility that Mrs. Carter will report on her trip to congressional foreign relations committees.

Mrs. Carter, who flew home Sunday from Caracas, Venezuela, gave her first report to her husband on arrival at Andrews Air Force Base: "They all love you in the Caribbean and Latin America."

She then launched into details of her trip as she, the President and daughter Amy flew by helicopter back to the White House.

As Mrs. Carter concluded her first diplomatic trip, there was talk that she might make more trips. Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, said he "would not exclude the possibility."

During a press conference en route home from Venezuela, Mrs. Carter said she wasn't looking quite that far ahead but did say she feels she will be able to prepare better for the next trip.

Despite briefings, Mrs. Carter said she did not realize to "what depth" her talks would go or "how willing and eager to talk leaders were because they know I can take the message back to Jimmy."

Mrs. Carter said she started off her discussions with Latin American leaders by telling them "our foreign policy was going to be more open, wider, just like our domestic policy."

She said she knew of no adverse reactions from Latin American leaders to her meeting with two American missionaries in Recife, Brazil, who said they had been brutally mistreated in prison.

She avoided comment on student protests and arrests during her visit to Brazil. Although her decision to meet with the two men was seen as an affirmation of the President's human rights policy, she said, "I did not think about it being a big deal."

"They were Americans, had asked to see me, and I wanted to see them. I enjoyed talking with them," she said.

Pettigrew To Head Reorganization

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is giving his newest White House assistant a task likely to become one of the most important in the administration's effort to tame and housebreak the elephant that is the federal bureaucracy.

Richard Pettigrew, whom Carter appointed assistant for government reorganization 10 days ago, says the President has given him the job of building a public constituency for reorganization — a constituency aware of "what's at stake" in the effort and ready to support it when the going gets tough.

What's at stake, says Pettigrew, is making government manageable.

The going will get tough, Pettigrew knows it. He was speaker of the Florida House and reshuffled the government there a few years ago. He knows about battles with bureaucrats and special interests and legislators with stakes in the status quo.

"There are going to be disagreements about particular plans, there's no question about that," Pettigrew said in a recent interview. "But what we're trying to do is to involve as many people as possible."

To that end, Pettigrew is arranging public hearings, seminars, conferences, committees and task forces. He's inviting counsel straight from the public — "whoever wants to supply information, make recommendations and offer solutions." Send them directly to him: 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C.

People who participate in reorganization will understand it better and develop their own stake in it, he says. Then, when reorganization gets threatened by the congressional and special interest constituencies for each of the 2,000 departments, agencies, commissions, boards and committees in the government, the President can appeal to this public constituency for help.

"It's the President's conviction that in order for reorganization to be successful it's going to have to be a cooperative effort with Congress, and there's going to have to be a broad-based understanding of the objectives of reorganization by the public at large, as well as the broadest possible participation in it," Pettigrew said.

Special interest groups and congressional staffs will be invited to the hearings, seminars, conferences and committees, too, Pettigrew said, "so that everybody has had their say, has had their shot in the decision-making process."

"Then, when something is recommended to Congress it can be properly represented that the best thinking that has been developed previously in the Congress has been looked at and the interest groups who feel that they are very directly affected have been consulted."

"That'll give us the best chance of a successful achievement of our goals," he said.

A New Kennedy May Enter Political Arena

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy III, eldest of the new generation of Kennedy men, appears to be on the verge of carrying on the political legacy of his father and uncles.

Kennedy, 24, son of Robert Kennedy, the New York senator who was assassinated nine years ago during the presidential primaries, says he may run next year for state treasurer of Massachusetts.

"I'm interested in it," Kennedy said in an interview. "It's an area that will have to take a leading role in the next few years in terms of the state's finances."

But he adds: "I'm not a candidate at this point. I'll have to look at some of the other offices."

Rumors of the emergence of a new generation of the so-called Kennedy dynasty have circulated in recent weeks among Massachusetts politicians.

Joe is brawny, curly-haired and taller than others in his family. He bears a striking resemblance to his father and his two uncles, the late President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The young Kennedy is a Democrat, and if he decides to run for treasurer, he'll have to confront the Democratic incumbent, Robert Q. Crane, who says he will seek re-election.

Crane, who has done political work for a succession of Kennedys, was the object of a well-publicized grand jury investigation into campaign financing. However, the grand jury did not return indictments.

Asked whether he was worried about the reports that Kennedy would challenge him, Crane said, "I don't think 'worried' is the proper word. I'm aware of them. And I'm always concerned about my opposition."

"But I don't think he'll run. For one thing, he hasn't said he will. He's looking at my office just the same as he's looking at others."

Kennedy graduated in 1975 from the University of Massachusetts with a degree in legal services. Since then, he has worked as a juvenile court probation officer. His most important political experience was managing his uncle Edward's Senate re-election campaign last fall.

Kennedy says he is not sure he wants to go into politics.

"I'm trying to find the best and most effective way to spend my time," he says. "And that may or may not be running for elective office."

South African Blacks Gun Down Four Whites

By MAUREN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Three black youths armed with automatic pistols opened fire today on four whites drinking tea at a department store garage, killing two mechanics and critically wounding a third.

Police arrested at least one youth and seized three pistols and two hand grenades, sources said.

Security police quickly sealed off the area near the city's police headquarters. Although the motive for the attack was unknown, there was speculation it was tied to the upcoming anniversary of the nationwide black rioting in which hundreds died.

According to witnesses, the two youths got out of a car near John Vorster Square, named for the South African prime minister, and walked briefly down the street brandishing weapons.

Witnesses said the youths fired a few machine gun bursts in the street before attacking the depot.

Gertrude Preston, 54, a clerk at the warehouse, said she saw two blacks hiding behind concrete supports for a thruway which runs over the area.

"One of them had two automatic weapons slung over his shoulder. I believe the other was also armed," said Mrs. Preston. "At first I thought they were playing the fool and were using cap guns. I don't know much about firearms."

"I heard what I thought was automatic machine gun fire and second later there was a loud explosion," Mrs. Preston said she alerted police, who arrived within seconds.

Despite tensions in this racially divided country, incidents of urban terrorism are rare. The most recent case involved an attempt by an unemployed black last December to bomb the multimillion dollar Carlton Center, owned by an Anglo-American corporation. He lost his hand in the explosion and was sentenced to 24 years imprisonment.

MODELING AMBITION

I am interested in modeling as a career. Could you give me the name of a good school? K. J.

Hotline would not presume to recommend or discourage consideration of any school. However, we did ask Anne Langdale, coordinator of Eastern Modeling Agency here, her opinions about training for a modeling career.

She cautioned that any school considered should be checked out thoroughly to be sure it is offering subjects needed and is "not just a glorified and exorbitantly expensive finishing school."

She said she believes a background in theater is helpful, because in modeling you have to create a mood. Ballet or any other dance training is also helpful, she said, because it makes the body more graceful and usually trimmer.

Knowledge of nutrition is a must, she said, as one must eat well in order to look well. It must not be only known, but also practiced, she said, as must getting sufficient sleep and consistent daily exercise.

Diet, she said, should be a balanced one, with the number of calories needed to maintain one's weight once the proper level is reached. Proper weight, she said, will depend on height and bone structure, but it must be kept in mind that the camera puts at least 10 pounds on most people.

Modeling is often a sideline career, she said, so you should also have training in some other field, she suggested.

Hostage Says Moluccans Killed At Least One

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — One of two hostages who died when Dutch commandos stormed a besieged train in northern Holland was killed by a South Moluccan terrorist, according to one of the surviving captives.

The report of the shooting came from Saskia Sein, 48, and was relayed by telephone by her husband, who told the Associated Press:

"My wife did not actually see or hear the terrorists shooting. She was in a first-class compartment in that section of the train where there were no hijackers."

"However, when she came to the psychiatric reception ward, some other released hostages told us that the 40-year-old man was shot by one terrorist. We were not sure about who shot the 19-year-old girl."

The two hostages killed were J.M.O. Monsjou, 19, and M. Van Baarsel, 40. Justice Ministry spokeswoman Toos Faber said today it was believed that Miss Monsjou was shot by a terrorist who survived the attack but who was himself shot in the chest and stomach.

"We think he shot her, but ... we can only be sure when we have the report of the autopsy on the two hostages killed."

Dutch troops stormed the train and the Bovensmilde elementary school before dawn Saturday and freed 53 hostages who had been held for 20 days. Two other hostages and six of the 13 South Moluccans were killed on the train, and one of the terrorists was wounded seriously.

Nine of the surviving hostages were also hospitalized, but all were reported in good condition.

The four teachers held hostage in the school could have escaped several times, one of them told a news conference Sunday. But she said they feared the other group of terrorists aboard the stranded commuter train would harm some of their captives in retaliation.

"On one occasion, the Moluccans all fell asleep, and we had a key with which we could have gotten out of the building," said 35-year-old Sjaan Abbink. "But at that time, they still had a direct telephone line to the Moluccans on the train and we feared for the lives of the hostages on the train."

The six uninjured terrorists were split up and put in separate jails in northern Holland. The law required their appearance before the public prosecutor today, but official sources said the prosecutor would probably visit them in prison instead of having them brought to court.

Young South Moluccans among the community of 40,000 exiles in The Netherlands angrily mourned the dead terrorists as martyrs to their struggle for the independence of their native islands from Indonesia.

"Our comrades were murdered by the collaborators of Indonesian fascism," said a spokesman for the South Moluccan Youth Liberation Front.

Hinting at more terrorist action, he added: "Our revolution might need a lot more victims among our sons and daughters."

Tentative State Budget Agreed Upon By Panel

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Teachers get a pay raise, elementary school pupils get a new reading program and the poor lose some medical services under a tentative state budget agreed upon by a special legislative panel.

For teachers and state employees, the 6.5 per cent pay raise advocated by Gov. Jim Hunt was approved, along with improved fringe benefits, in the budget for 1977-79 approved by General Assembly's "super subcommittee" Sunday night.

Hunt's $45 million reading program for the primary grades was included, but his $35 million construction recommendation for the state's crowded prisons was shaved by $6 million.

Also included was a pay boost for Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green and some other elected officials.

The budget proposal was balanced during three days of intensive work by the 13-member subcommittee, and is to be presented to the full House and Senate Appropriations Committee this afternoon. There legislators not on the "super sub" will get a chance to amend the budget — but they will be forced to recommend cuts corresponding with any additions they propose.

Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Le-noir, one of three subcommittee chairmen, said he considered the budget final and would resist changes by the committee or later on the House and Senate floor.

"This is it. I hope that they'll accept it and let's go with it. I'm tired of it," Hardison said. "If they don't, we just have to go back to the grind," he said.

Fringe benefits for teachers include additional insurance payments by the state and longevity pay — a lump-sum bonus paid annually to all teachers after 10 years of service, increasing every five years from 1½ per cent, Hardison said. "It won't be just 6.5. It'll be 10 per cent or better in the long run. With those fringe benefits, you're talking about big money," he said.

The budget reflects an earlier decision to cut the state's share of Medicaid services to the needy by $11 million. The change freezes some medical costs at their April level and cuts out dental care to adults, though a provision was added allowing treatment begun before July 1 to be completely covered.

The total state budget calls for general fund spending of $2.4 billion in 1977-78 and $2.5 billion in 1978-79. Highway fund spending is another $888 million over the period.

Given a pay raise was the lieutenant governor, attorney general and superintendent of public instruction, whose salaries were brought on a par with Appeals Court judges. For Green, who earns $30,000 in the full-time job, it means a boost to about $39,000 a year, said Linda Powell, senior fiscal analyst for the General Assembly.

The governor's salary of more than $44,000 was not touched. Pay for district attorneys would be increased by 11 per cent, and those of most Council of State members would be tied to those of Superior Court judges — about $36,000 a year.

Also included in the budget is a tuition increase for students in the University of North Carolina system and community college system. For in-state UNC students, tuition will increase by 10 per cent — $25 to $50 a year, depending on the campus. For out-of-state students, the increase will be $100.

For community college and technical institute students, the increase would be $6 a quarter for in-state students and $36 for non-residents.

Police Reportedly Got Grant For 'Bugs'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Charlotte Police Department, under investigation for allegedly using illegal wiretaps, reportedly obtained a 1969 federal grant to buy equipment capable of such surveillance without notifying the Charlotte City Council.

The grant application was signed by Police Chief J.C. Goodman on Jan. 10, 1969, the Charlotte Observer reported in its Sunday editions. The request specified certain "intelligence support systems" for which the money would be used, some of it capable of telephone wiretaps.

State regulations required that the council approve the grant application, but city officials can find no record of any such authorization. Nor can they show that council authorized acceptance of the $15,215 grant in accordance with the city's own charter.

Police wiretapping is a sensitive issue here, where the department is currently under investigation for allegedly using illegal wiretaps in 1972 and 1973 in narcotics cases and then covering up evidence of the taps.

The Observer contacted most of the members of the 1969 council, and none recalled any advance discussion of the equipment purchase.

"I'm very sensitive to that," said Milton Short, "and it it had been brought up in a manner I was able to recognize it, I would have remembered it."

The Observer said wiretapping did not surface before council until a year later, when it rejected Goodman's pleas for a lobbying effort on behalf of wiretapping legislation.

Other city records, including council minutes, indicate that as late as 1973 the council was unaware that the police department had equipment that could be used to tap telephones.

Goodman was not available for comment.

Group Given Taste Of U.S.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The

visiting United Nations ambassadors wanted a taste of life in the United States, so Pittsburgh served some of its favorite things — hot steel and good old American baseball.

The one-day trip, sponsored by the United Nations Association of the United States, was designed to improve understanding between U.N. delegates and citizens of this country.

"The permanent representatives of the 147 U.N. member nations and their wives and husbands see a lot of New York City and its citizens," said William Scranton, a former U.N. ambassador and former Pennsylvania governor. "But few have an opportunity to see other parts of this country and meet other people."

Delegates from 83 nations toured U.S. Steel Corp.'s Homestead Works and later attended the final innings of a doubleheader between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the San Diego Padres.

"Since production is a very important part of our lives, it's very important for the United Nations to see how a big steel mill works," said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, when asked what benefit the visit would be.

Donning hard hats, the ambassadors and their guests watched as workers poured molten metal and rolled red-hot steel into a giant plate for a Great Lakes freighter.

Carter Nominees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced today he has recruited the head of Seattle's mass transit system to be administrator of the federal Urban Mass Transit Administration.

Being nominated for the post is Richard S. Page, 39, a former assistant to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and once a deputy mayor of Seattle.

Carter also announced his nominees to fill a vacant federal district judgeship in Missouri and to serve as U.S. attorneys in North Carolina and Georgia:

—Russell G. Clark, a Springfield, Mo., attorney, to be a judge for the western district of the state.

—George M. Anderson of Raleigh, an attorney in private practice, to be U.S. attorney for the eastern district of North Carolina.

—Henry M. Michaux Jr., of Durham, a state legislator and lawyer, to be federal prosecutor for the middle district of North Carolina.

—William T. Moore Jr., of Savannah to be U.S. attorney for the southern district of Georgia.

"This is to the glory of the workers and the management," Saudi Arabian ambassador Jamil Baroody told U.S. Steel Chairman Edgar Speer after the tour.

Baroody was impressed to learn that Speer had worked in such a mill.

"That's a good thing about America," he said. "You go from the bottom of the ladder to the top."

Other ambassadors were impressed with the game of baseball.

Respass-Crockett Vows Solemnized On Sunday

Miss Janet Marie Crockett and Clement Morton Respass Jr. were wed at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church. Performing the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Dr. Will Wallace.

Nuptial music was performed by Laura Sales of Greenville, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a silk organza gown designed with a V-neckline in both front and back, edged with chantilly lace and Venice lace, featuring appliques on the bodice and at the waistline. The full bishop sleeves were accented with lace and appliques with a lace ruffle at the hand. The A-line skirt was enhanced with a panel front and back edged with lace that flowed into a deep flounce lace hemline extending into a chapel length train.

She wore a matching lace Juliet cap accented with pearls attached to a two-tier three-quarter length illusion veil. She wore an add-a-pearl necklace given to her by the bridegroom as a wedding gift. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Kathryn Louise Kittrell of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of blue crepe with a detachable blue floral organza cape jacket that fastened at the neckline. The gown featured an empire bodice. She carried a cascading bouquet of blue daisies and baby's breath and wore a cluster of baby's breath in her hair.

Miss Anna M. Crockett of Raleigh, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Kathryn Elaine Whichard, Miss Janet Louise Wheeler and Miss Martha Ophelia Alexander, all of Greenville, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns identical to the maid of honor's in pink. They carried cascading bouquets of light pink daisies and baby's breath and wore clusters of baby's breath in their hair.

Miss Christy Lynn Alexander of Greenville was flower girl.

MRS. CLEMENT MORTON RESPASS JR.

She wore a formal gown of blue dotted swiss trimmed in lace and carried a white lace basket trimmed in blue filled with mixed summer flowers.

Clement Morton Respass Sr. of Greenville, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Guy Larry Crockett of Raleigh, brother of the bride, William Alton Respass of New Bern, brother of the bridegroom, and Jimmy Mock Dail and Lymon Edward Owens, both of Greenville. Ring bearer was William David Respass of New Bern, nephew of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a formal sleeveless gown of dusty pink with an overlay of chiffon. She wore a white georgiana orchid.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal sleeveless gown of yellow with a V-neckline and an overlay of chiffon. She wore a white georgiana orchid.

The church chancel was centered with a large basket of white summer flowers backed with a 15-branch candelabra and jade foliage. Two nine-branch candelabra accented with white summer flowers were used off the sides. The altar was the setting for the prie-dieu where the couple knelt for the benediction. Steps leading to the altar were adorned with single candelabra and flowers. Family pews were marked with satin ribbons and flowers.

A reception was held in the church parlor. Mrs. Joan Respass of New Bern, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, poured punch. After the couple cut the first traditional slice, the cake was served by Mrs. Robert Kittrell of Greenville. Lillie Ann Darden of Greenville presided at the guest register.

An after-rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom at the country club.

The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and is a secretary at North American Fiberglass Corp. The bridegroom is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and is attending East Carolina University. He is employed at Blount-Harvey.

After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Greenville.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Formal Candlelight Rites

Miss Katherine Marie Tyson became the bride of James Edward Jones in a formal candlelight ceremony at Grace Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 3 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Tyson of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Jones of Greenville.

The Rev. J. Roger Tripp officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Bob Karl, organist, and Jane Randlett, soloist, who sang "We've Only Just Begun," "If" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The altar was centered with a 15-branch crescent candelabra holding an arrangement of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, pom poms and carnations. Fifteen-branch spiral candelabra entwined with greenery and flowers were used on either side.

The couple knelt on a brass profile prie-dieu for the benediction. Palms of emerald greenery interspersed with pink and green ribbons completed the scene. "Blessed Be the Tie" was sung as the couple lighted candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a sheer yoke of imported French chantilly lace and bridal pearls. The high neckline was edged in pleated organza. Satin ribbon encircled the waistline. Full sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed at the wrist with lace and pleating. The A-line skirt which continued into a chapel length train was finished with crystal pleating.

The complete hair attire the bride wore a chapel length veil of silk illusion attached to a Camelot cap of chantilly lace and bridal pearls. She carried a colonial nosegay of miniature carnations, pom poms and baby's breath in mixed-summer colors with pink sweetheart roses and white lace streamers.

Mrs. Brenda Boyd of Florida, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a lined formal length gown of spring green dotted swiss with daisies and lace trimming the empire waist. The bottom of the gown was gathered to form a ruffle. The neckline was squared, and the puffed sleeves were trimmed with daisies.

She wore a large white brimmed hat with green ribbon to accent the dress, and carried a hand nosegay of mixed summer flowers with green ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Cathy Outland, Brenda Willoughby, Edna Bielby and Mrs. Peggy Tyson of Wilson, sister-in-law of the bride. Their gowns and accessories were identical to those of the honor attendant, and they carried similar nosegays with pink ribbon streamers.

Miss Kim Boyd, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a formal gown of white satin and chantilly lace designed with a high neckline with pearls to accent its princess bodice. Pleats fell from the waist to the floor, and long chantilly lace sleeves were featured. She wore pink and green ribbons in her hair and carried a white basket with a spray of mixed summer flowers and green ribbons filled with rose petals.

Jessie Jones, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Rodney Tyson of Wilson and Timmy Tyson of Greenville, both brothers of the bride, Billy Moseley and Ronnie

Miss Evelyn Teresa Webb And Joey C. Wilson Are Married

BELL ARTHUR — Miss Evelyn Teresa Webb and Joey Clark Wilson were united in marriage at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Bell Arthur Christian Church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ray Webb, brother of the bride, and the Rev. Larry Williams.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Webb of Bell Arthur. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wilson of Grimesland.

Wedding music was provided by D. J. Rasberry Jr., organist. Miss Martha Bennett of Farmville sang "The Wedding Song" accompanied by Jim Bennett on the guitar. She also sang "For All We Know" accompanied by Charles Davis on the piano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length white gown of peau de soie with an empire waistline, a chapel length train edged with white daisies and long sheer sleeves appliqued with daisies. The daisy trim was accented on the high sheer square neckline and interspersed with iridescent pearls.

Her sheer elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a small seed pearl and daisy lace petal headpiece. She carried her paternal grandfather's Bible covered in white satin, topped with yellow roses, baby's breath and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Cynthia Craft of Farmville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a white dress of polyester-cotton voile flocked with multi-colored flowers with lace trim on the square neckline and bib front. She wore a white picture hat with pink streamers, and carried a white wicker basket filled with daisies and baby's breath with pink streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Debra Joyner of Bell Arthur, Mrs. Ann Proctor of Pinetops, and Miss Suzanne Wilson of Grimesland, cousin of the bridegroom. They wore dresses styled identically to the matron of honor's in blue. They wore white picture hats with blue streamers and carried white wicker baskets filled with daisies and baby's breath with blue streamers.

Miss Kathy Batts of Macclesfield, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a full-length dress of pink and white dotted swiss with a ruffle around the bottom. She wore a white picture hat and carried a white wicker basket of daisies and baby's breath with pink streamers.

Robert L. Wilson of Grimesland, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mark Webb of Bell Arthur, brother of the bride, Robert K. Wilson of Grimesland, brother of the bridegroom, and Ben Wilson of Grimesland, cousin of the bridegroom. Kevin Wade of Ayden, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a full length dress of polyester in Caribbean blue with a patterned lace bodice and rosette edging. The cardigan coat was also of patterned lace. She wore a corsage of white cymbidian orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal dress of rose crepe with cape sleeves and a lace and pearl midriff. She wore a corsage of green cymbidian orchids.

Mrs. Geneva Webb of Bell Arthur, paternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Robert B. Wilson of Grimesland, paternal grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Lewis Clark of Washington, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, were remembered with corsages of white miniature carnations.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. James Lewis of Bell Arthur. Mrs. Mark Webb of Bell Arthur presided at the guest register.

Following the rehearsal the parents of the bridegroom entertained the bridal couple, the wedding party, families and friends at the Smith Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Lewis Clark of Washington served the three-tiered wedding cake after the bridal couple cut the first traditional slice. Miss Vickie Humbles of Greenville poured the punch. The attendants were remembered with gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of D. H. Conley High School and attended N. C. Wesleyan College. He is employed with Texasgulf in Aurora.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points the couple will reside in Grimesland.

Engagement Announced

MISS CAREY ELIZABETH CONDRA... is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Condra of Greenville, who announce her engagement to David Wayne Leggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dalas W. Leggett of Rt. 7, Greenville. The wedding will take place July 9.

Congress Must Devise A Plan

President Carter's energy conservation proposals are in shambles in Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee rejected the proposed rebate on autos which get better-than-average gas mileage, as well as the administration-proposed 50 cents-per-gallon stand-by gasoline tax.

A House subcommittee last week also voted to free from price controls newly discovered natural gas. This also went against the wishes of the administration.

So a nation which knows it must do something about its ever tightening energy supplies has yet to determine where it is going.

Since Congress seems to be rejecting much of the administration's proposals, presumably Congress will have to come up with a plan of its own. That will be difficult without strong leadership from the White House.

So far President Carter's dealings with Congress have been less than spectacular. Former presidents have indicated that it takes a lot of convincing, strong arming and just plain coddling to get the many facted membership of Congress to move on any controversial matter.

The way that President Carter's energy programs have fared so far in Congress indicate that he has not yet mastered the art of getting what he wants out of the legislative body. He has a lot to learn about dealing with Congress — when to be tough and when to compromise. Hopefully he will learn quickly. If he doesn't this nation is going to be standing idle while monumental problems engulf us.

Couldn't Accommodate The Twin Rigs

The N. C. House Transportation Committee last week voted to kill a bill which would have allowed 65-foot twin trailer trucks on major highways.

There was an argument to be made for some energy saving in allowing the big trucks.

But for Eastern North Carolina it is just as well that the big rigs won't be allowed. There are few highways in Eastern North Carolina that likely would have accommodated the twin trailers. Thus Eastern North Carolina would have been at a further disadvantage, as compared to the road rich Piedmont, in transportation costs.

Critic Of Money-Meddling No One Blamed Rats

BY BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—It is time for Tar Heel citizens and banks across the state to stop caving in to the demands of state and federal treasury people for private financial information, a member of the State House of Representatives believes.

"People are being damaged by these meddling and pryings...they're catastrophic," complains State Rep. John R. Gamble, Jr., D-Lincoln.

As a physician, Gamble says he is closely acquainted with some highhanded dealings of federal tax agents with some of his colleagues.

"The federal Internal Revenue Service is the worst. There are cases where in harassing physicians, they have taken records including patient records and literally put the man out of business," Gamble says.

State, Too

But it is not all a federal problem. State tax agents also use high-handed methods to gain private financial information, but "they do it more surreptitiously," he says.

In all, Gamble is convinced that the probing is "an abridgement of our natural rights as citizens. There's a Constitutional question here involving property rights. The information is my private property, and they are taking it without even letting me know they are going into my private business."

"That constitutes illegal search and seizure."

Gamble explains that government officials contend that the information is not private property—particularly when contained on bank records. Courts are moving toward holding that since the computer records and papers belong to the banking institution, not the private depositor, the government shall have open access.

The paper, replies Gamble, may belong to the bank, but the information on it is my own personal and private business...they have no right to access.

But frightened of the federal bureaucracy and intimidated by so call federal regulations, "the banks have let their own interests take precedence over the interests of their depositors...they just lay down and roll over, turning over to tax agents all the information they ask for without even bothering to inform you that an investigation is taking place.

BILL NOBLITT

Deal Fairly

"The tax people don't feel at all obligated to deal fairly...it has become so commonplace that they just walk into a bank, flash a card, and bank officials immediately say here's the record," Gamble complains.

You can't fight the feds, Gamble is being told by fellow lawmakers as he seeks support for his Financial Privacy Act. Federal law takes precedence over state law, he is reminded.

His proposal may not change the system overnight, he admits, but at least it can give some backbone to private citizens who want to fight back. "This gives a person some legal backing with which to start a suit against the federal government...it's a starting point for some resistance," Gamble believes.

His proposal, if adopted by the General Assembly, also gives financial institutions "a new posture," Gamble said. "They can say 'no' to the tax agents who come in demanding private information about a depositor."

The proposed law now under study in legislative committee simply requires that any governmental official seeking financial information must get a subpoena for the records, and the owner must be notified before the data is released. The subpoena can be gotten from a federal agency, a Congressional committee, the General Assembly, or a federal or state court.

Thus, the key thing is notification of the citizen that his affairs are being looked at, and he could "fall back on this state law to support a fight," Gamble said.

No One Blamed Rats

WASHINGTON--Prof. Heinrich Applebaum called me excitedly the other day from his laboratory at the National Institute of Generic Drug Statistics. "I think I've made a breakthrough in medicine that could win me the Nobel Prize."

"What is it?" I demanded. "You have to come out and see for yourself."

I dropped everything and took a taxi to the professor's lab.

He was waiting amongst his test-tubes.

"What did you do?" I asked.

"I've developed a stronger rat that can survive any medical experiment we perform on it."

"I don't believe it."

"Come," he said, leading me over to a cage where two white rats were sipping from a saucer of diet cola.

"I got the idea when I read the data on the saccharin dispute. Something bothered me about it. Why were some of the rats getting sick after being forced to eat enough saccharin to kill a horse? The scientists blamed the saccharin, but no one blamed the white rats. There are so many agents being fed and injected into rats that they keep keeling over. Drug companies have put millions of dollars into research, only to be told they couldn't market their product because the white rats couldn't take it."

"So I decided there was only one answer to the problem. And that was to develop a white rat who could stand up to anything we shoved down his throat.

"If I could breed a white rat immune to any kind of disease the FDA would have to give its approval for the new drug."

"Only a mind like yours would think of something like that," I said.

"The trick was to find the right breeds. In every medical experiment there are white rats who are survivors. In the Canadian tests of saccharin only 12 of the 44 rats fed the stuff developed any symptoms. The other 32 thrived on the sweetener and became saccharin junkies."

"I purchased the two healthiest specimens and mated them, and then mated their offspring, and after four generations I got what I wanted—a super white rat that could withstand any punishment medical science could inflict on it."

"These are two of them. I've fed them the equivalent of 3,000 bottles of diet drinks a day; I've had them smoke 70 packs of cigarettes an hour; I've filled their cage with carbon monoxide; I've made Tris nighties for them, which they have worn for three weeks. I've even strapped them to the engine of a Concorde, and as you can see none of the experiments has had any ill effect on them."

"I've never seen two happier white rats in my life," I admitted. "I wonder why no one has ever thought of this before."

"Because they were looking for the wrong key," Applebaum said. "When a drug didn't come up to FDA standards everyone blamed the drug and not the rat. The ordinary white rat used in laboratories is a pampered animal. It doesn't know what it is to forage for food and slink around garbage dumps. From the day it is born it is given the best of everything."

"It's no wonder it can't handle a bite of DDT or a small dose of a birth control pill."

Applebaum gave each rat a sugar cube.

"What's that?" I asked him.

"It's full of swine flu. They can't get enough of it," he replied.

Scott In High Spirits

By DAVID R. NELSEN

Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Christopher Scott, the lobbyist for the North Carolina State AFL-CIO, was in high spirits last week. Primarily through his efforts, the state minimum wage will go up to $2.50 an hour.

His victory, he admitted, was even better than he had hoped for. In fact, opponents rejected his early suggestions for a milder compromise. They later regretted that and had to settle for what Scott was willing to offer.

The bill was approved by the Senate some weeks ago and would have raised the current $2 per hour minimum wage to $2.15 on July 1 then to $2.30 on July 1 next year.

When the measure got to the House floor, it was amended to raise the minimum to $2.50 July 1. Scott, who was watching from the public gallery, said he was shocked — and elated — that the amendment was approved. He had expected it to fail and his backers in the House were planning to offer another amendment that would raise it to $2.30 July 1 and to $2.50 on Jan. 1.

Attention then focused on the Senate, which had the option of agreeing to the House amendment or rejecting it and putting the measure in a conference committee where a compromise would be worked out.

On a motion to not accept the House amendment, the Senate voted 23-25, which showed that supporters of the $2.50 minimum had the upper hand. The chamber adjourned — without voting on adjournment — before supporters could get a vote taken to accept the House amendment.

On Friday, Scott said, he and his backers were willing to compromise on $2.30 July 1 and $2.50 Jan. 1. But, opponents, led by Sen. Jack Childers, D-Davidson, refused to go along. They wanted it to go to conference committee without a commitment.

When the Senate voted, the House amendment was accepted on a 25-23 vote. Opponents were in a frenzy over the weekend and on Monday, trying to get a supporter to change his (continued on page 5)

THE INSIDE REPORT

Jimmy Reaching Too Far

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter, on the crest of high popularity and loving his job, momentarily regressed at his May 26 press conference to the bad old days when, as "Jimmy who?" he was an insecure long-shot for the presidency.

Pressed to defend his Korean troop-withdrawal policy a few days after the Singlaub incident, the President reached too far for expert witnesses to support his plan for gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Korea. "President Park himself, the President of the Republic of Korea, has called for the removal completely of American troops," Mr. Carter said. Whether Mr. Carter knew it or not, that simply is not true, or even close to truth.

Later came a far milder recurrence of the old hyperbole syndrome. Pressed to defend his conduct of strategic arms limitation talks (SALT), he defended their openness. In fact, however, since the breakdown of the Moscow talks, SALT negotiations have been secret enough to make even Henry Kissinger envious.

Compared to the whoppers committed in obvious self-service by Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, these might seem trivial stretches of the truth — the Korean statement a minor fib, the SALT comment a mild exaggeration. Yet, for a President whose popularity depends on public perception of honesty more loudly proclaimed than by any predecessor, any deviation from literal truth by Mr. Carter is potentially serious.

Moreover, the May 26 statements were distressingly reminiscent of his early presidential campaigning. Once he became the front-runner in 1976, Mr. Carter generally treated reality with more care and has continued to do so as President.

Accordingly, the statement about President Park, while not of overriding importance in itself, poses a question: will this become a Carter characteristic when the inevitable days of hard crisis set in?

When we sought the source of the President's claims about Park, the White House press office referred us to the National Security Council which suggested the State Department. A State Department official sent us back to the White House with the comment: "When the President messes up, it's the White House's job to get him out of it."

Nevertheless, one official at State did come up gamely with an explanation: that Park had set as the South Korean objective a strengthening of its own forces to make it capable of defending against a North Korean attack without the help of U.S. troops.

That scarcely advocates removal of U.S. troops. Indeed, the South Korean president has vigorously opposed removal. "I would guess," a White House aide told us, "it would be more accurate to say Park 'reluctantly acquiesced' rather than 'advocated.'"

The President's questionable statement on SALT was more understandable. Challenged as to whether his public discussion of U.S. policies was hurting this country's negotiating position on SALT and the Mideast, Mr. Carter said: "I think it's good for the American people to know what our positions are at the time that the Soviets know what our positions are, and vice versa. This is a matter that must be addressed openly."

But the new U.S. SALT package is not being openly discussed, as was the earlier package rejected by Moscow. Not only do the American people not know what is in it,

Letters to the editor must consist of 300 or fewer words. Please include a phone number or numbers for easier confirmation by our staff.

To the editor:

Gov. Hunt says he wants community schools and better quality education.

Grifton has these. Our school is in the center of community activities. Our dedicated teachers give our children personal attention. The community responds to the needs of the school with time, money and effort. Tests show our students rank at or near the top of all schools in the county.

We may lose these advantages because a small group of people made a hasty decision last fall without any prior public input.

Public outcry forced the Board of Education to send back for further study the question of a new "middle school" mid-way between Ayden and Grifton. Five public meetings were finally held. The huge majority of citizens opposed moving our students out of our communities; hundred of people signed petitions; positive reasons for keeping our schools were cited.

The only rationalization offered for moving the schools was "declining school population," yet the school's own figures show this decline has leveled off. Citizens demanded an impartial population projection by someone qualified to evaluate the effect a healthy and growing area economy might have on our school populations.

What the school superintendent ordered was a study by the N. C. Dept. of Public Instruction, which admits it is committed to the philosophy of "middle schools."

The report ignored the expanding economy and new housing units now going up within the Grifton-Ayden school districts. The study chairman admitted these factors would change his projections, but said he was unaware of new industry or new housing in the area.

Craig Phillips replied to our letter, "This is a local decision." New people we nominated to the School Advisory Council were not considered. A requested vote of the people was turned down.

How can we persuade our "representatives" to represent the people's will?

Higher Home Prices, Mortgage Rates

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What are home buyers up to?

Higher prices and perhaps higher mortgage rates, to cite two things. But the housing scenario in general doesn't lend itself to easy answers; it's riddled with mysteries.

One of the riddles is speculation, at a time when speculation seems to be growing dormant in some other areas of the economy. Fears about interest rates and inflation, for example, have begun to abate in recent days, slowly but positively, as Washington continues to pour out bushel baskets of strong economic indicators.

As a result, a calm seems to be descending on some stock market analysts who had been frightened out of their blue chips for most of the past 16 months by the two leering

"T's" of inflation and interest rates. They are now beginning to suggest that corporate stocks might benefit from the feeling of equilibrium.

Some of the big banks already have declared they are heartened by some recent economic trends and are proclaiming the imminent return to less inflationary times. Interest rates, they say, but not ominously.

But going against the mood, in a manner far from fully understood, is the housing market.

In May, for the first time in four months, the level of mortgage rates on new homes rose, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported. The rise was small, to 8.96 per cent from 8.94 per cent in April, but the direction's the thing.

Sales of new homes have been strong, but existing home sales are booming, and so are prices. The median price of an existing single-family home rose $1,000 in April to $42,000.

But the national median price tells only part of the story. In the West, for example, the median price rose $3,800 in April, reaching $57,200. And if the survey were limited to California, the increase would have been even higher.

In that state houses are purchased for resale. The home buyer, in effect, has put himself in the position of a middleman, acquiring properties not to live in but to sell for immediate profit.

The question that cannot be answered is whether the phenomenon is regional or national. So far the California type of speculation has been rare in other areas of the country, but you must remember that many fevers as well as sound ideas have spread eastward from the coast.

At any rate, the existing home market is soaring. In April alone some 310,000 resale transactions took place, representing a total market value of more than $14 billion, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The April sales performance translates into a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.3 million units, which the Realtors say is a "healthy 17.4 per cent above the level of a year ago."

More than one-third of all resale homes now are priced above $50,000, in contrast to just over 10 per cent four years ago. With prices rising steadily, the speculative appeal is obvious.

Strength For Today

FAITH GROWS BY USE

The rationalism of the 18th century and the scientific inquiry of the 19th have led us to put too much emphasis on the though side of religion. Many of us have a passion for making religion reasonable, forgetting that the most reasonable thing about religion is that it works, if one gives it a chance.

The people who get the most out of their religion are those who give the most attention to putting its precepts into practice rather than trying to make their theology intellectually respectable. To say this is not to advocate a thoughtless, ignorant attitude toward religious faith. Rather it is to urge people to enjoy their religion, and this they never do if they are continually taking it apart and examining the pieces.

Be satisfied with the things you already believe; you will be amazed to discover in a short time that you can believe many more things of an inspiring nature. Use the faith you have and you will get more faith.

Mayors Meet With Sec. Harris

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two hundred mayors unloaded their frustrations with Washington on the shoulders of Patricia Harris, getting concern but not always reassurance from the secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Mrs. Harris talked tough in handling the city officials' complaints, but won high marks from the mayors for her candor. "She's not telling us we'll get everything we want, but at least she's telling us why we won't," said Mayor David Shepard of Oak Park, Mich. "I must say everyone seems pleased."

Malfunction At Hospital

A malfunction in an elevator hydraulic system this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital caused some smoke but no damage to the new facility.

A Fire Department spokesman reported that the department responded to a 7:50 a.m. call at the hospital where the hydraulic system problem had smoked up the elevator area near the north bed tower.

The spokesman pointed out that no fire was involved and firemen only set up exhaust fans to help remove the smoke from the area.

Ralph Hall, director of the physical plant at the hospital, confirmed that a pump on the hydraulic elevator sprung a leak and sprayed some oil, causing the smoke.

He noted that the hospital's sophisticated smoke and fire sensor system performed well and closed off the patient towers from the elevator areas. The elevators are located between the patient towers.

Hall said that the smoke was cleared from the system within an hour and a half and no damage resulted. He added that the elevator will be out of service for a few days while the unit is checked.

"All systems that were designed to work in case of a fire worked very well," he added.

Project Approval Recommended

The Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency recommended approval for three projects at its monthly meeting June 8 at the Ramada Inn in Greenville.

Recommended were Howell Child Care Center's lease of a facility to provide intermediate nursing home care to children in Goldsboro; a 17-bed expansion of a nursing home presently under construction in Morehead City; and the lease of a previously approved nursing home in Snow Hill by Oak Manor, Inc.

The governing body also recommended approval of applications to the National Institute of Mental Health for programs to treat alcoholism in the following mental health centers: Duplin County, Halifax County, Edgecombe-Nash County, Lenoir County, Onslow County, Pitt County, Roanoke-Chowan, Tideland, Wayne County, Wilson-Greene and the Walter B. Jones Alcohol Rehabilitation Center.

In other action, the ECHSA discussed and voted to endorse a bill currently before Congress (S. 708 and/or HR-2504) which would allow Medicare reimbursement to rural clinics for services provided by nurse/practitioners and physician assistants.

The second draft of a health systems plan for eastern North Carolina was accepted. A public hearing on the plan will be conducted July 13 at 4:30 p.m. at the Willis Building in Greenville.

Friends Raise $6,000

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Door-to-door collection drives, a 48-hour rock-and-roll marathon and individual contributions from as far away as Roxboro have added up to more than $6,000 to help pay the mounting medical expenses of 16-year-old Rhonda Long, who has been in a coma since a May 1 traffic accident.

Last week, a group of Rhonda's friends presented a check for $6,114.60 to the Long family. But even that amount falls far short of the $9,000 that Rhonda's medical care has cost already.

The expenses have hit the family hard. Rhonda's father is unemployed, and Mrs. Long's salary hasn't been enough to pay for what insurance hasn't covered. They also have three other children to support.

"I never could have done any of this without a lot of love," said Karen Howe, Rhonda's best friend and a leader of the group that raised the $6,000. She was wearing a white T-shirt imprinted in black with "Rock For Rhonda."

"She is the kind of girl that loves everybody, cares about everybody," Karen said of her friend.

When Mr. and Mrs. Long received the check, several of Rhonda's friends began to cry, and Mrs. Long could barely muster a "thank you" in a faltering voice.

The campaign for Rhonda isn't over. The group has put 75 collection jars across the town, and have planned a fund-raising battle of bands for June 18.

"I really don't know what to say. Everyone has been just great, and we are thankful for all the giving and all of the prayers," Long said. "I just ask the Lord that Rhonda will pull through."

Sutton, both of Greenville. Donald McCoy of Winterville served as ring bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a formal light blue knit gown with chiffon sleeves and matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal apricot gown designed with sheer floral material flowing from neckline to waist and long sleeves. Both mothers wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Dewey Johnson, maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Clemie Tyson, paternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Elmer Faulkner, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Leona Jones, paternal grandmother of the bridegroom, were all remembered with corsages of carnations.

Honor attendants Judy Lewis and Pam Wagner carried long-stemmed white mums. Theresa Tripp stood at the register, and Lisa Jones and Patricia Jones handed out scrolls as the guests arrived and distributed rice bags.

The wedding party and other guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the church parlor. Mary Heath, aunt of the bride, served the cake after the bridal couple cut the first slice, and Ann McCoy, aunt of the bridegroom, served punch.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Judy Tingen of Greenville. The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School. She is employed with Carolina Telephone Co. The bridegroom, a graduate of Rose High School, is employed with Larmar Construction.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points the couple will reside in Greenville.

Finally, Scott and his backers agreed to give in a little. Opponents were desperate and willing to take almost anything. Scott and company agreed with Childers and company to raise the minimum to $2.30 on July 1 and to $2.50 when the current $2.25 federal minimum reached at least that level. A bill is now before Congress and Scott says the federal minimum will probably go up July 15.

Why did Scott give in? "We didn't lose anything," he said. "It is not smart to make enemies," he said, adding that the compromise took the heat off his friends.

but it has been tightly held at top levels of the State Department and Disarmament Agency. Even the Joint Chiefs of Staff were uninformed until just before it was presented to the Russians in Geneva.

When ten key Senators were summoned to the White House to talk about SALT before the Geneva meeting, Mr. Carter would divulge no details. The U.S. proposals came out a week after the Russians heard about them—and then to a closed Senate subcommittee session with the Senators sworn to secrecy. To this moment, there has been no official public disclosure of the current SALT proposals.

Considering Oval Office perfidy in recent years, Mr. Carter's liberties with the whole truth are trivial. But the question remains whether they portend how Jimmy Carter will react when days of adversity begin to afflict his presidency, as they surely will.

No other fungicide stops leafspot better than DU-TER FUNGICIDE.

High peanut yields for low cost.

In more than 100 commercial peanut test plots, DU-TER has shown:

- Unsurpassed control of cercospora leafspot.
- Effective, economical control when used in an alternating spray program.
- Comparable, or higher yields when used alone vs. other leading fungicides.
- Minimum foliage burn when used as directed.
- No known leafspot resistance.
- Suppression of two-spotted mite infestations.
- A better pod at harvest when tank-mixed with sulfur.

Based on the recommended 6-ounce rate, DU-TER costs less than $3.00 per acre. That's nearly $2.00 per acre less than some leading fungicides.

Young Girl Who 'Has Everything' Legally Blind

By ROBERT PENICK
CLEVELAND (UPI) — The first time you meet Penny Lilly, you figure she's a girl who has everything.

On the honor roll at suburban Cuyahoga Heights High School, she is a cheerleaders' captain and a member of the homecoming court.

A genuinely pretty and popular senior, she also holds down a part-time job as a cashier.

It takes a while to learn she's legally blind.

Penny's vision apparently has stabilized at 20-200. At 20 feet she can see only the large E atop a standard vision chart. She has a large blind spot directly in front, but she can see ahead by turning her head to the side.

She reads large-print books and sometimes briefly reads regular print with a magnifying glass. But that causes headaches.

When Penny's eyesight began to worsen two years ago, authorities considered transferring her to a program for the blind in a nearby suburb. She objected, and her parents agreed.

Principal P. H. Worcester figured his faculty could make it work.

"There have been adjustments by the teachers and kids, but she has done a fantastic job," Worcester said. "Mainly, the credit is Penny's because she stuck it out."

She was about 14 when specialists first diagnosed a continuing deterioration of eyesight rare in young persons.

"It just hit me," she said. "I was really depressed and hurt. I thought, 'Why me?'"

"But I met this boy (from Florida) at the hospital who had to have an operation every year. He had such a terrific outlook it just kind of rubbed off on me ... he's completely blind, now."

Patricia Stone, a social worker for the Cleveland Society of the Blind and legally blind herself, worked with both Penny and her teachers.

"She had good support," Miss Stone said, "good friends, a good boyfriend, wonderful teachers."

The state of Ohio pays for tutors to read her texts up to 10 hours a week. But, said Miss Stone:

"We encourage her to do all she can for herself. She doesn't take advantage of anything. She has unusual ability and determination. Many girls would have crumbled."

Said Penny:

"I finally decided it wasn't the end of the world, and I'd keep going. Just sitting around and crying about it wouldn't do any good. It happened, and that's that."

Her friends have adjusted by simply being themselves around her.

"This is a little school, and everybody knows, and they don't think anything about it," she said.

"When I used to see blind people before, I was afraid of hurting their feelings. I wasn't sure how to act."

"Now I realize it doesn't bother my friends so much."

Penny said her parents are not over-protective or super-cautious.

She bikes, but not after dark. She swims, canoes, and "goofs around" with friends. She also enjoys dates, cheerleading and her job.

"I can do everything I always did. It might take longer, is all. I sew a lot (using masking tape as a guide) and made my boyfriend a beautiful shirt."

After high school, she wants to work.

"I used to want to go to college, but that doesn't seem as important now, she said. "I want to see what's out there."

"I want to get a good job and move into an apartment with my two girlfriends."

"I want to work in an office, maybe as a receptionist. I love meeting people. I can use all office machines and type 55 words per minute."

Guidance counselor Sandy Ranallo evaluates Penny as outgoing, with a lot of talent:

"The biggest thing, though, may be telling an employer, 'I have a sight problem.'"

Miss Stone sees Penny's adjustment as the best single argument for "mainlining" blind students, keeping them in their familiar schools among family and friends.

"When I started here, 14 years ago, it was virtually never done. Now, we're getting more integration of blind students around Cleveland," she said.

"Some teachers feel threatened, not qualified to work with blind children. One of Penny's felt that way, and that teacher has done a complete about-face."

Principal Worcester said Cuyahoga Heights High next year will admit a student confined to a wheelchair.

"We'll be ready for him, because that's what he wants and what his family wants," he said.

Spring Lake Man Owns Polar Bear

SPRING LAKE, N.C. (AP) — There's one Goliath in this town that no David would be foolish enough to mess with.

He weighs 900 pounds, has yellow teeth, eats 20 pounds of chicken a day and, despite his stoic appearance, is so ornery that he is confined behind the iron bars of a 35-foot-long trailer in a front yard of this town near Fayetteville.

The neighbors would prefer that he stay there. Goliath, you see, is a polar bear.

Goliath arrived here a week ago, a 16-year-old refugee from a Maryland zoo that apparently had no use for him, according to the bear's owner, Robert Schaber, 30, a professional breeder and trainer of endangered animals.

The change in habitat does not seem to have been too traumatic for Goliath. Most of the time, he can be seen chewing nonchalantly on the bars of his trailer and looking rather bored.

But that cool facade doesn't mean Goliath wouldn't just as soon trade in his daily ration of chicken, bread, fruit and fish for a hunk of whoever might be bold enough to get within range of his massive jaws.

"Any bear is that way," said Schaber. "A bear has no expression whatsoever. You can tell what a cat has on his mind by watching his tail. But a bear just stands there with a plain old dumb look on his face."

Schaber is no stranger to animals. Other residents of the yard around his mobile home include two wolves, four tigers and three leopards. In addition, a lion cub was recently entrusted to Schaber by local authorities after it broke out of its original home and mauled a local child.

Within a year, the Schaber menagerie will have at least one addition — a mate for Goliath. Breeding polar bears is no small task, Schaber said.

"It's extremely tricky. There will be a main cage with adjoining cages and they will be put together in the fall, the natural time for polar bears to breed. Once they breed, they will be separated where they can still see each other."

"It's a pretty ticklish situation. It's not like throwing an old tomcat with your housecat."

Schaber said Goliath is "all right, he's satisfied." The North Carolina climate is a bit different from that of the bear's natural habitat, but its owner says being housed down a few times a day keeps Goliath content enough.

The neighbors have not complained either, Schaber said, perhaps in part because children like having a zoo of sorts in the neighborhood. They can see Goliath and the other animals for 25 cents; Schaber charges adults twice that.

There may be another reason the neighbors have kept quiet about the whole affair, however. "We don't allow anybody around here to pick on animals," Schaber warned. "If I catch anybody, we might feed them to the animals."

Goliath, for one, might not mind that. According to Schaber, he's 300 pounds underweight.

"I used to see blind people before, I was afraid of hurting their feelings. I wasn't sure how to act."

"Now I realize it doesn't bother my friends so much."

Penny said her parents are not over-protective or super-cautious.

She bikes, but not after dark. She swims, canoes, and "goofs around" with friends. She also enjoys dates, cheerleading and her job.

Seven Killed On Roads In State This Weekend

By The Associated Press
A 27-year-old woman was killed when the car in which she was a passenger was struck by a train at a rail crossing south of Lucama, in Wilson County, putting at seven the total deaths on North Carolina highways over the weekend.

The seven fatalities, in addition to two persons who died over the weekend from injuries in earlier traffic accidents, brought the state's traffic death toll for 1977 to 571, compared to 605 killed during the same period last year.

Helen Pearson Hudson, 27, of Rt. 1, Goldsboro, was killed in the car-train collision at about 1:30 p.m. Sunday. The driver of the car, who was not identified by the Highway Patrol, was injured.

Earlier in the weekend, three teen-agers were killed in a one-car accident on a rural road 4½ miles east of Andrews in Cherokee County.

The victims of the Friday night accident were identified as Clay Dennis Hardin, 17, of Rt. 1, Marble; Joseph David Hall, 17, of Marble, and George Raymond Tweed, 21, of Andrews.

The Highway Patrol said they were passengers in a car driven by Hardin which ran off the road at high speed, overturned and struck a tree. Officers said they believed the accident occurred around 10 p.m. Friday night, but the wreckage was not discovered until 8:25 a.m. Saturday.

Randolph County Sheriff's Deputy Ralph Steven Groves, 24, of Rt. 1, Sea Grove, was killed when his car ran off a rural road six miles west of Asheboro about 11:40 p.m. Friday and struck a tree. Groves was chasing another car at the time, officials said.

Killed in a Brunswick County accident early Saturday were Adrian Clyde Bradsher, 53, of Rt. 2, Burlington, and Donald Lee Smith, 17, of Rt. 2, Supply. The accident occurred on a rural road 7½ miles north of Holden Beach when the cars collided head-on, the patrol said.

Two persons injured in earlier accidents died over the weekend, L. Highway Patrol reported.

One was identified as Troy

Daniel Hoover, 6, of Bear Creek, who was struck by a car last Wednesday while playing on a rural road two miles south of Siler City, in Chatham County.

The other was Perry Lee McRary, 82, of Granite Falls, who died Sunday. McRary was driving a car June 4 on a rural road near Granite Falls, Caldwell County, when the vehicle ran off the road and rolled down an embankment, officials said.

Girl Scouts Are Killed

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — Three Girl Scouts were found beaten to death in their sleeping bags at a summer camp today, the Oklahoma Highway Patrol said.

Initial details from the scene were sketchy, and police gave no indication whether there was any suspect in the case.

The patrol said the bodies were found at Camp Scott in hilly, wooded country about two miles south of this Eastern Oklahoma community about 45 miles east of Tulsa.

The girls were reported to be 8, 9 and 10 years old. Identification was withheld until their relatives were notified.

State police said the deaths were caused by beating, but they gave no immediate indication of the weapon used or the condition of the bodies. They also declined to say who found the bodies.

Rob Pyron, press secretary to Gov. David Boren, said the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation was ordered to assist in the investigation at the request of Mayes County officers. The Highway Patrol also was investigating.

About 100 girls and 30 staff members were at the week-long camp, operated by the Magic Empire Council of Girl Scouts. The camp has been in operation since 1928.

"I used to see blind people before, I was afraid of hurting their feelings. I wasn't sure how to act."

"Now I realize it doesn't bother my friends so much."

Penny said her parents are not over-protective or super-cautious.

Right Pressure Saves Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Tire Industry Safety Council says under-inflated tires cost American motorists a small fortune each year. The council said the National Bureau of Standards estimates one of every four cars has a seriously under-inflated tire.

It said American motorists could save at least 800 million gallons of gasoline by keeping their tires at proper air pressures. That volume of gasoline translates into 41 million barrels of crude oil, enough to supply all the country's oil needs for two days.

"I used to see blind people before, I was afraid of hurting their feelings. I wasn't sure how to act."

"Now I realize it doesn't bother my friends so much."

Penny said her parents are not over-protective or super-cautious.

'Peddle Power' Abounds In Madison

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — You see them everywhere, zigging and zagging through downtown traffic, parked in long shiny rows on campus and even whipping along the edges of 40-mile-per-hour thoroughfares.

one-speeds with balloon tires and businessmen who strap briefcases to sleek European racers.

There are even senior citizens pedaling sedately down shaded residential streets on big tricycles.

"We figure there are somewhere between 120,000 and 150,000 bicycles in Madison," said Jerry Tomczak, bicycle control monitor for the police department in this city of 170,000. "That's three bicycles for every two cars."

He said the University of Wisconsin campus, with nearly 40,000 students, is responsible for much of the boom which has seen the number of bikes in town double since 1969.

"For a lot of students, it's all they can afford," he said.

However, he emphasized that other portions of the community are also beginning to rely on bicycles.

"Besides the cheaper cost, it has become a lot more popular for energy reasons. And some of it has to do with the traffic. You can make it a lot faster around town on a bicycle than in a car, and you don't have to worry about parking," he said.

"There is a growing number of adult bicycle users," agreed

Tom Walsh, a city traffic engineer who will disburse up to $300,000 on biking improvements this year.

He said surveys show that 68 per cent of all city residents are regular bicycle riders, and three out of every four bike trips taken during the week are for work, school, shopping or some other nonrecreational trip.

Tim McDowell, 22, a salesman at a large family bicycle shop across town from campus, said riders who bought 10-speeds in the past are getting better bicycles as they come to depend on them more.

"We've had more interest this spring in the $200 to $300 bikes than ever before," he said. "People are concerned about energy, and the companies are putting out better bikes with better components."

"Adults are tending to see the bicycle as a viable mode of alternate transportation," said Walsh, who said many people also begin biking for environmental and health reasons.

Officials said perhaps 4,000 bikes a year are stolen in the city, and there has been an average of two bicycle fatalities a year in Madison in the 1970s.

"The number of bicycle accidents is only 2 per cent of the total number of accidents in the city," Walsh said, "but about 90 per cent of the bicyclists involved suffer injuries."

He said that it's still safer to bike than drive a car because the odds of getting in an accident are so much less.

"It should also be emphasized that bicycles are subject to the same vehicle traffic code as cars," he said, noting that is not unusual for cyclists to get tickets for running stop signs.

Walsh, who rides a bike seven miles to work every day, said the city offers free maps of the 50 miles of urban bike paths and limited-use lanes shared by buses and bicycles. More lanes and paths are part of a 10-year bicycle engineering plan, he said.

"A lot of people in business and government are riding bikes to work," he said. "We put in three large bike racks downtown last year and we need to triple that. Wherever we put them they're well used."

He said many people, particularly students, ride their bicycles throughout the winter.

There are several bicycle touring and racing clubs around the city. Steve Kiargaard, 17, rides his $700 custom built bicycle up to 250 miles a week during nice weather, often on trips of up to 100 miles with other members of the Bombay Bicycle Club.

"We have about 40 paid members, but a lot of people just show up and ride with us," said Kiargaard. He said the club has 36 weekend trips planned this year.

"It's a great excuse to get out with friends in nice weather," he said. "Some of the crazy ones even go when the weather's bad."

He said there is no drinking on the trips or during picnic stops.

"Sometimes somebody might have a beer when we get back," he said, "but only one since they still have to ride home."

BIKE CITY — This is one of the always-crowded dozens of bicycle racks in the downtown and University of Wisconsin campus areas in Madison, a city of 170,000 which is becoming known as the bike capital of the U. S. with three bikes for every two cars in town. (AP Wirephoto)

Investigate Wrecks

An estimated $3,250 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 3:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive involving cars driven by Virginia Gray Butterworth of Bethel and William Russel Thomas of Ayden.

Investigators, who charged Mrs. Butterworth with driving left of center, estimated damage at $1,500 to each of the two cars.

Officers charged Leroy Talton Cherry of 46 Windy Ridge with driving under the influence and failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 7:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of 14th Street and Greenville Boulevard.

Police reported the Cherry car collided with an auto driven by James Russell Steele Pound of 500 Elanor St. causing an estimated $100 damage to the Cherry car and $150 damage to the Pound vehicle.

Rambling In The House

By SAM D. BUNDY

N. C. House of Representatives
The grind continues day after day and bills continue to flow into the hopper. Thursday of this week 24 bills were prefiled in the House; however, the Speaker called a halt on Friday, as is the rule except in the most unusual situation or emergency.

Some are resolutions which go straight to Rules Committee and some are special appropriation bills which go direct to the Appropriations Committee. We stay in session approximately four hours a day. On Tuesday of this week, we had an extra night session and on Friday, there was a six-hour session, lasting from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., and we have been advised that there will be more night sessions.

The Appropriations Committees (the money committees) are meeting twice daily and are now down to the "nitty-gritty." Special bills asking for money amount to millions of dollars and these are the things that cause the Appropriations Committees so much difficulty. The amount of money asked for by departments and state agencies, along with the special bills, amounts to millions of dollars more than the anticipated income of the state for 1977-79. Furthermore, the projection of anticipated income has been decreased by about $21 or $22 million.

Some now are predicting adjournment to come around June 25, while others say July 4. See you next week.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained ground today, responding to signs of a letup in the recent rise of interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed about 2 points in early trading.

Gains took an 8-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market drew some support from the belief that the Federal Reserve wasn't aiming to tighten credit any further, at least for the moment.

Last Friday morning New York's Citibank kept its prime lending rate at 6 1/4%, changing its formula, which had called for an increase to 7 per cent.

Today's early prices included Texaco, up 3/4 at 27 1/4; Digital Equipment, ahead 7/8 at 45 1/4; and General Motors, up 1/4 at 67 1/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average advanced .94 to 910.97, closing out the week with a net loss of 1.44 points.

Gainers outpaced losers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 20.63 million shares, against 19.94 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .18 to 53.80.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .52 at 114.55.

New Designs In Lamps, Planters

MERIDEN, Conn. (UPI) — A silver flatware and holloware manufacturer here is going into the lamp and planter business. The lamps come in modern and traditional designs in brass, pewter and silverplate. The glass-lined planters come in brass and silverplate, and include cachepots and hanging planters. The same company is introducing continental-size flatware in stainless and silver patterns. Continental designs are larger than American ones. (International Lamps 'n Plants)

FREE Hearing Tests For Senior Citizens.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a hearing test using the latest electronic equipment to determine if they have a correctable loss. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who may have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test to find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid will help.

The free hearing tests will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid office on Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. If you can't get there on those days, call to arrange for an appointment at another time, in our office or your home.

Swimming Warnings

"Every summer, fun loving youngsters are attracted to farm ponds and local swimming holes. Unfortunately, a percentage of those young people won't live to enjoy that pleasure next summer," warned Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Sheriff Tyson pointed out that the young swimmers risk becoming entangled in submerged objects or getting into water too deep and becoming drowning statistics.

He expressed a concern over "this needless loss of our youngsters annually."

The sheriff commented, "I would sincerely urge each of you who read this, and are parents or owners of areas where youngsters gather to enjoy summertime swimming, to take the following precautions seriously. Our youngsters are a precious resource to all of us and we should all be concerned with their safety and well being."

He urged everyone to make sure their children have permission of the landowner to swim in the pond they are planning to use. A check should be made to be sure the pond is a safe place in which to bathe.

"Know where your children are and what their plans are on a day to day basis while they are on summer vacation," Sheriff Tyson continued.

The sheriff urged landowners to "try to keep your ponds clean and free of debris if you plan to let youngsters bathe in them." If you consider your pond an unsafe place, fence it off and place No Trespass signs around it.

Parents, he continued, should provide children with a life ring and a rope long enough to be utilized in the area where they are planning to swim.

"If possible, send one or more adults along on these swimming outings who are capable of rendering emergency assistance should it be necessary," Sheriff Tyson added.

"We hope you will join with us in helping to make this summertime vacation season a pleasant and safe one, for all of us," he said.

'77 Class Buys Principal A Car

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — This year's senior class at T.C. Roberson High School was enough to make principal Charles Koozts cry.

Previous classes had bought calculators for the mathematics department and paid for new lettering on the front of the gymnasium. The class of 1977 wanted to do something for Koozts. So they bought him a brand new 1977 Chevrolet Malibu.

Kansas City Royals: 'We Wuz Robbed'

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer
The Kansas City Royals had everything but their bats stolen from their County Stadium clubhouse early Sunday morning. But it was their bats that were most evidently missing from the Royals' attack in their game with the Brewers. A thief — or thieves — broke into the Royals' locker room at the Milwaukee ballpark and absconded with 53 Kansas City uniforms, 20 gloves, 10 pairs of baseball shoes and 15 warmup jackets. All but seven of the Royals were forced to wear the Brewers' blue road uniforms. To add insult to the mess, Milwaukee's Jerry Augustine shut out the Royals with a seven-hitter, 4-0. "I did have a couple of tough situations," said Augustine, who evened his record at 7-7. "All I wanted to do was keep the ball down and make tough pitches on them, try to make them hit it on the ground so there was a chance for double plays."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Texas 3-2 and 2-0 to move within one-half game of first-place New York in the AL East as the Yankees were beaten 6-1 by Minnesota; Chicago topped Baltimore 6-4 in a sloppy 11-inning affair; Oakland defeated Detroit 7-1 as Vida Blue broke a personal five-game losing streak; Seattle beat Toronto 5-2 and California battered Cleveland 11-4 to give Nolan Ryan his ninth victory of the season. Red Sox 3-2, Rangers 2-0. Complete game pitching by Reggie Cleveland in the first game and Luis Tiant in the nightcap led Boston to its sweep. Cleveland threw a seven-hitter in the opener and Boston won the game on Fred Lynn's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning. Luis Tiant hurled a three-hitter and struck out eight without walking anyone in the second game. Twins 6, Yankees 1. Rookie right-hander Paul Thormodsgard stopped the Yankees' four-game winning streak with a five-hitter. Thormodsgard, 4-3, had a no-hitter through 5 1-3 innings. He was helped by two-run homers off the bats of Rod Carew and Larry Hisle. Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch is impressed by the rookie's showing thus far this season. White Sox 6, Orioles 4, 11 innings. The White Sox made the most of the opportunities handed to them by Baltimore. Each team committed three errors, but Baltimore made two in the 11th that were decisive. Chet Lemon's leadoff ground-er in the 11th was booted by second baseman Billy Smith. Lemon, who committed an error himself that led to an Oriole run earlier in the game, then stole second and continued to third when catcher Rick Dempsey threw wildly past second. Lemon scored on a wild pitch. A's 7, Tigers 1. Blue, 4-7, pitched a four-hitter for his first victory since May 9. "I'll take anything the way I've been going the last few weeks," admitted the ace left-hander. "As long as we win, it's all right with me. Mariners 5, Blue Jays 2. Seattle beat its fellow expansionists for the first time behind Dick Pole's route-going six-hitter. Pole, 3-2, was helped by Jose Baez' first homer of the season and a pair of run-scoring singles by Ruppert Jones. Angels 11, Indians 4. Joe Rudi slammed two home runs, drove in five runs and scored three as the Angels topped Cleveland.

Petty Figured Wrong: It Was Going To Be All His Show

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "I was catching up with Darrell Waltrip and then I saw David Pearson coming up behind us, so I figured it was going to be agood threesome," Richard Petty said.

conceded and I slowed up a little," he said. Cale Yarborough finished third to keep his Winston Cup Grand National points lead on Petty, who picked up 15 points on the leader Sunday but still trailed by 93.

The victory was the second in a row for Petty, who had won the World 600 two weeks ago in Charlotte, N.C. Petty, just some $250,000 short of his third million in winnings, earned $19,600 for the victory in the NAPA-sponsored event. Petty made the victory look easy, and in the traditional post-race press conference, he was asked only one routine question. Silence followed. He smiled and said, "Was it really that dull a race?"

after winning the Riverside 400. David Pearson finished second with Cale Yarborough finishing third. (AP Wirephoto)

Starting from the pole position, he ran second to Waltrip briefly, but took the lead for good on the 33rd lap of the 94-lap Winston Grand National stock car race. Waltrip retired early with a faulty transmission and Pearson, who finished second, just could not catch Petty. The winning margin was 9.5 seconds and Petty averaged 105.22 miles an hour over the 2.63-mile eight-turn Riverside course. The race was run at 400 kilometers or 248.9 miles. "Darrell was running real good to begin with," Petty said. "But he started having trouble and that was it." That was indeed it for the rest of the field, although Petty was challenged briefly when a caution flag came out midway through the race. "I had a good lead at near the midway point," Petty said, "but Pearson caught up a little bit at the caution flag. "I ran as hard as I could all day although with seven or eight laps to go David kind of

Hignite In Win

WASHINGTON — A Greenville man was one of the winners in the Washington Tennis Invitational Doubles tournament this past weekend in Washington. Ron Hignite of Greenville teamed with Sam Modlin of Washington to capture the doubles title. They downed Bill Ransone of Spartanburg, S.C., and Richard Hodges of Washington, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals of the tournament to take the crown. A field of 22 teams participated in the event.

WHO WOULD EVER TRY TO TAKE OVER YOUR FIRM?

Too many people. Something happens to a partner, and a widow or untrained son moves in. Something happens to you, and estate taxes descend. ## Carolina Dairy, And Planters Claim Wins

Carolina Dairy gained a 9-0 victory over College View yesterday and knocked College View out of sole possession of first place in the Babe Ruth League. Planters Bank took a 6-3 win over Home Builders in the other game. College View is now tied with NCB for the lead with 5-2 records. Carolina Dairy is 4-3, while Planters and Pepsi-Cola are both 3-4. Home Builders is 1-6. In the opener, Planters pushed over four runs in the bottom of the first inning. Jamie Adams singled and stole second. He scored on an error. Calvin Jones singled and stole up. A wild pitch moved him to third. Blair Smith walked and stole second. Roger Clemons grounded out, scoring Jones. Charles Daise reached on an error, scoring Smith. William Sneed singled, and an error on the play let Daise score with the fourth run. Home Builders got one in the fifth. Barry Tyson reached on an error and Chris Ross singled. Mickey McGrath reached on a fielder's choice, and a walk to Gavin Ray forced in Tyson. Planters got two more in the bottom of the fifth. Clemons singled and Daise reached on a fielder's choice. Both stole up, and a double by Miccah Dixon brought them in. Home Builders got its other two runs in the seventh. McGrath walked and Jeff Worthington reached on a fielder's choice. Ray was hit by a pitch, and Jeff James singled to score both runners. Ross had three hits to lead Home Builders, while Adams had three to pace Planters. Carolina Dairy got all it needed in the third, scoring seven runs. Skip Hill led off with a single, and Kelly Kee got a hit. Peter Pace doubled in both runners, and Marshall Heath singled. David Carroll singled to score both of them. Carroll moved up on a steal and an error and Johnny Williams walked, as did Tom Brown, loading the bases. Lenn Jackson also walked, scoring Carroll. Hill singled in Williams and Brown scored the final run when Kee grounded out. In the fourth, Carolina Dairy added another run. Heath doubled, moved up on an error and scored when Williams reached on an error. The other run came in the seventh. Hill singled, stole second, and scored when Wilson reached on a fielder's choice. Hill had four hits, while Heath and Carroll each had two for Carolina Dairy. Reggie Morris had two for College View, shut out by Pace's pitching.

Eastwick Had Something To Prove

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"I had something to show," Cincinnati relief pitcher Rawley Eastwick said.

Eastwick gave up three runs in the top of the ninth of the first game of the Reds' doubleheader with the Montreal Expos. But, Cincinnati came back in the bottom of the ninth to grab the 7-6 victory.

Then came the second game, which Cincinnati won 14-8. "I was upset" Eastwick said of the boobying by the Cincinnati fans in the first game. The boos "were an incentive — very much an incentive."

Eastwick, 22, hurled five shutout innings in the nightcap to gain the victory. It was his best performance of the season.

In other National League games Sunday, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from San Diego, 6-1 and 7-4; Chicago nipped San Francisco 6-5, St. Louis downed Los Angeles 5-2, Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 5-3 and New York stopped Houston 3-1.

In the second game, the Reds exploded for 20 hits, eight for extra bases.

Dave Concepcion drove in three runs with a single and his third homer of the season, while Dan Driessen, who had three doubles, and Cesar Geronimo each had four hits.

In the opener, George Foster's ninth-inning grounder with the bases loaded scored Ed Armbrister with the winning run. Eastwick had gone into the top of the inning with a three-run lead before the Expos bounced back with two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 2
Mike Tyson had two doubles and a single, driving in three runs to power St. Louis to victory. Hector Cruz homered as the Cards pounded out 11 hits against the Dodgers, whose NL smallest since May 2.

Pitcher John Montefusco of the San Francisco Giants hit a home run in his first major league time at bat.

West lead over Cincinnati shrunk to 7½ games, their smallest since May 2.

The Cards snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth when they erupted for three runs on four hits, chasing loser Tommy John, 6-4. Eric Rasmussen, 5-7, posted his second win in five days.

Pirates 6-7, Padres 1-4
Dave Parker's solo homer snapped a fifth-inning tie to give Pittsburgh its nightcap victory after the Pirates won the opener behind pitcher Jerry Reuss.

Reuss, 2-6, hurled his first complete game of the season, besting San Diego's Randy Jones, 4-7, last year's Cy Young Award winner.

The Pirates took a 4-1 lead in the opener by scoring four runs in the fourth inning, the big hit being a two-run single by Omar Moreno.

Geiberger Faces Toughest Test: Coming Back Down For The Open

By BOB GREENE
AP Golf Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Al Geiberger, emotionally and mentally drained after what he called a double victory in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic, said he faces one major problem in this week's United States Open Championship.

"The hardest thing to do will be to come back down — return to reality," the soft-spoken Geiberger said.

He had a brief, historic excursion into realms bordering unreality in this event when he shot a phenomenal, record-breaking, 13-under-par 59 in Friday's second round.

That made up the best part of his winning total of 273, 15 under par on the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course and, he said, put him under double pressure.

"I'm mentally worn out," he said Sunday after his back-nine rally had produced a four-under-par 32 and a three-stroke victory over South African Gary Player and chipper Jerry McGee. "It's the most emotional thing I've gone through.

"It's like there were two tournaments," said Geiberger, a 39-year-old veteran who collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 for his 11th tour triumph. "It's like the 59 was something separate, by itself, and the tournament was a different thing.

"I didn't have to win the tournament even after shooting the 59. And for a while, it looked like I wasn't going to."

He paused briefly and that shy smile crossed his face. "It makes a lot better story this way," he said. "You know, in telling it later — and I'm sure I'm going to be telling it a lot of times — it'd be awful to say I shot 59 and then blew the tournament. This makes it a lot better."

It was far from being easy and it certainly wasn't comfortable, in temperatures that soared into the upper 90s and sent first aid personnel scurrying to the help of more than a dozen spectators who collapsed in the sweltering heat.

Player shot a final 69 for 276. He was tied by McGee, who birdied the last hole for a 67 that clinched him a spot on the American Ryder Cup team.

Minnesota, Baylor Tie As Game Is Halted By Rain In Eleventh

PM-CM.450 By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Don't tell Minnesota and Baylor — or the crowd of 8,869 that was in attendance Sunday night for the College World Series — the one about a tie being as exciting as kissing your sister.

They won't believe it. Tournament co-favorite Minnesota and Baylor battled to a 3-3 tie when rain forced the game to be suspended in the top of the 11th inning.

Minnesota Coach Dick Siebert summed it up best, saying, "That was some kind of show for baseball fans. There was something for everybody.

Maybe it wasn't beautiful, but it was one lot of baseball."

Along the way the crowd saw: —A submarine pitcher who walked 10, but still was around at the end.

—Minnesota's third base coach, ex-major leaguer

George Thomas, ejected from the game, then reportedly making a comment about the afternoon drinking habits of some umpires.

—A pair of intentional walks that came within an eyelash of forcing in the winning run.

The game was moved to the evening after a brief afternoon shower and thus forced the two scheduled night games — Southern Illinois, 39-10, against Arizona State, 53-11, and California State-Los Angeles, 41-20, against South Carolina, 41-10-1 — to Monday night.

Baylor, 43-14, led 3-1 after six innings, thanks to some shoddy play, including two errors by All-American shortstop Paul Molitor of Minnesota, the No. 3 selection in the free agent draft last week.

Facing elimination, Minnesota, 38-11, rallied for two runs in the seventh on an error, a triple by Tim Loberg and a run-scoring single by No. 9 hitter Tarry Boelter.

In the bottom of the 10th, Kenny Kolkhorst doubled with one out and Minnesota elected to issue two intentional walks around an infield out.

Dan Morgan, a 6-foot-4 junior right-hander who throws nothing but submarine pitches — and at times extremely slow — ran the count to 3-1 and appeared to have walked in the winning run with his next pitch.

But a delayed strike call by plate umpire Gus Steiner made the count to 3-2 and Fritz Connelly grounded out on the next pitch.

"Give both pitchers a lot of credit," said Siebert. "They faced some very tough situations and continued to come through with outs when they had to."

For a second straight night, Baylor had strong pitching — a seven-hitter by Burl Coker — but came away with nothing.

"We needed that one," said Coach Mickey Sullivan, whose team lost 3-2 to South Carolina in 10 innings on an inside-the-park homer Saturday night.

"That ole boy (Morgan) was a little unorthodox, but he's a good pitcher."

The game was to be resumed in the 11th inning today.

And most of the crowd also witnessed some natural excitement on the field.

The sudden storm turned the infield into a pond before the ground crew could get it completely covered and lightning temporarily knocked out the lights twice and finally darkened the left field light towers.

And it was only a losers' round game.

Moses Stars In AAU Meet

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hurdler Edwin Moses might have been nudged out of the limelight if Dwight Stones had been successful at one of his last three high jump attempts. But as it turned out, Moses was the man of the meet at the National AAU Track & Field Championships.

A quiet and studious physics major at Atlanta's Morehouse College, Moses even did a little showboating, laughing and throwing buttons bearing his picture into the stands as he took a victory lap.

His jubilation was warranted. Moses, who had set a world record in winning the Olympic gold medal in the 400-meter hurdles at Montreal, rewrote the mark Saturday, the final day of the three-day AAU meet at UCLA.

In a race that was supposed to be close between Moses and NCAA champion Tom Andrews, Moses won by 10 meters. He was timed in 47.45 seconds, bettering his earlier world standard of 47.64. Andrews finished second in 49.03.

"I heard all the talk about Tom Andrews," said Moses, who passed up this year's NCAA meet.

"So I decided to put the afterburners on. I feel I can run faster. I haven't been training as hard as I did last year when I was pointing for the Olympics."

Moses, who has complained recently that he has not received the recognition deserved by an Olympic champion and world record-holder, almost had to share the limelight at the AAU meet.

But Stones, shooting for his own world record of 7-7¼ in the high jump, missed three times at 7-7¼. His good jump at 7-6¼ won the event for him, how-

Simpson Wins Again

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — For the second year in a row, Scott Simpson of Southern California has captured the National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championship.

Simpson posted a one-over-par 73 in the final round Saturday to come from behind and win the championship by one stroke. His four-round total was 289.

Lee Mikles of Arizona State finished second with 290, followed by John Stark of Houston with 291.

Houston ran away with the team championship with a score of 1,197.

Rallied For Win

SNOW HILL — Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team scored six runs in the eighth inning to take a 9-5 come-from-behind victory over Rocky Mount Saturday night.

Rocky Mount jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and led 5-3 before Snow Hill's eighth-inning rally.

Russell Brann led off the frame with a base hit for Snow Hill and stole second. David Winborn then got on with a single and Jerry Speight knocked Brann in with a base hit.

Jeffrey Warren tripled to score Winborn and Speight, but he was thrown out trying to come home. With two away, Mike Chase singled and Bill Wilder walked. Mike Jenkins tripled to score both of them. He came in on an erred pickoff attempt. Hill was paced by Russell Brann 3-5, David Winborn and Jerry Speight 2-4 and Mike Jenkins 2-5.

The victory leaves Snow Hill with a 1-3 overall record and 1-1 league mark. Snow Hill played at Dunn yesterday.

Snow Hill In 10th Frame Win

DUNN — Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team came up with two tenth inning runs to take a 10-8 victory over Dunn Sunday afternoon.

Snow Hill had taken a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, and extended that to 4-0 with two in the top of the fifth. But Dunn rallied for four in the bottom of the fourth, tying it up.

Snow Hill went back out with one in the sixth and another in the seventh. Dunn pushed over one in the eighth to cut it to 6-5. Then, in the ninth, Snow Hill scored twice, only to see Dunn come back in the bottom of the frame with three to knot it at 8-8.

Then, in the top of the tenth, Snow Hill got Neal Gordon on with a single. Mike Jenkins moved him to third with another hit, and then stole second. Jay Carraway followed with a hit, driving in both runners.

Snow Hill held Dunn scoreless in the bottom of the tenth to pull out the win.

Jenkins led the Snow Hill hit-

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny skies and warm weather are forecast Monday for most of the nation. Cool weather is expected for northern New England. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and thundershowers were predicted in mountain sections and across the southern portion of North Carolina today and tonight and the chance will prevail across the entire state Tuesday. Temperatures for today and Tuesday were expected to range up in the 80s under the influence of a weak cold front moving down across the state today. Skies were mostly cloudy across central and eastern sections of the state Sunday morning and scattered light showers occurred. Widely scattered showers and thundershowers developed in the afternoon over the western half of the state. Sunday afternoon temperatures warmed into the 80s and 90s. Hickory recorded 92 degrees and Charlotte and Wilmington were 90. Elizabeth City was one of the coolest points with a high of only 77.

Thanks Abby for The Living Will

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old woman who wants to thank you for the best present I have ever received. Because of an item in your column, I sent for The Living Will. Now I have peace of mind, knowing that if I should become terminally ill, those who love me will not have to endure the agony of watching me die slowly. (I went through 22 months of that when my husband died of cancer.)

Abby, you would be doing your readers a tremendous service by explaining The Living Will and telling them how to obtain one.

B. J. IN CONCORD

DEAR B. J.: The Living Will is simply a document that reads as follows:

To my family, my physician, my lawyer, my clergyman, To any medical facility in whose care I happen to be, To any individual who may be responsible for my health, welfare or affairs:

Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity and old age—it is the one certainty of life. If the time comes when I can no longer take part in decisions for my own future, let this statement stand as an expression of my wishes while I am still of sound mind.

If the situation should arise in which there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery, I request that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by artificial means or "heroic measures." I do not fear death itself as much as the indignities of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain. I therefore ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may hasten the moment of death.

This request is made after careful consideration. I hope you who care for me will feel morally bound to follow its mandate. I recognize that this appears to place a heavy responsibility upon you, but it is with the intention of relieving you of such responsibility and of placing it upon myself in accordance with my strong convictions that this statement is made.

Signed _____
Date _____
Witness _____
Witness _____

Copies of this request have been given to:

To date more than two million Living Wills have been distributed. (Yes, I have signed one.)

I am absolutely opposed to killing for any reason. However, should it be determined that there is positively no hope for my recovery, I believe that it is my right to be allowed to die with dignity.

A California reader donated $1,000 to my favorite charity for acquainting him with The Living Will.

A Texan wrote: "I want a Living Will because when Gabriel blows his horn, no S.O.B. is going to keep me from going."

I requested six copies, and sent a check for $6 to cover cost of documents and mailing. It's tax deductible.

If you send for The Living Will, please be patient. I promise your request will not be overlooked. Be sure you enclose your name and address, clearly written.

The Living Will or the directive for your state can be obtained by writing to The Euthanasia Educational Council, 250 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019, a non-profit organization. And if your state has passed the law making The Living Will legally enforceable, you will be sent the "directive" adopted in your state.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Transexual 'Happier As Male'

By Kendal Weaver Associated Press Writer
FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP)—A defense witness at Army Spec. 4 Marie Sode's hearing on charges of "homosexual tendencies" said today the ex-WAC she married is happier and more "comfortable" as a man.

Mike Barnett, who knew Spec. 4 Sode and her husband both in the service and when he got out, said the husband was "shy, introverted, hard to talk to" when known as a woman named Pfc. Linda Bowers. Bowers now is called Kristian von Hoffburg and claims to be a transsexual male.

Barnett, a student along with von Hoffburg at a nearby community college, said Spec. 4 Sode's husband is "a lot easier to talk to, more outgoing, intelligent" as a male.

He also told the Army board which could discharge Spec. 4 Sode that she never displayed homosexual tendencies and in fact "flirted" with him.

The defense in the case, which unique in Army annals, was expected to top its final list of witnesses later in the day with Dr. Paul A. Walker, director of the Gender Identity Clinic at the University of Texas at Galveston.

Spec. 4 Sode also is expected to enter a statement into the record, but she and Von Hoffburg have said they will not take the witness stand, where they could undergo cross-examination. A written statement is not subject to such questioning.

During three days of testimony last week, no witness said they ever saw Spec. 4 Sode demonstrate any homosexual traits. But the Army contends her marriage to an ex-WAC is proof enough of such lesbian leanings.

The two men and two women on the Army panel can order Spec. 4 Sode retained or discharged on an "honorable" or "general" basis.

Another alternative is for the panel to recommend that a discharge be suspended for a period of time. But if it does make such a recommendation, the commander of her 1st Aviation Brigade is not bound to suspend the discharge. Rather, he can order her discharged immediately.

Spec. 4 Sode, 22, is a three-year Army veteran characterized by witnesses as a hard-working soldier with a friendly personality and a streak of idealism. She was rated "outstanding" by personnel who worked with her in a racial awareness program.

The woman soldier with blue eyes and shoulder-length light brown hair, she married Kristian von Hoffburg, 29, last November before a probate judge who later said he didn't know the groom was an ex-WAC.

Von Hoffburg contends Linda Bowers underwent a "sexual reassignment," to be completed surgically, and that in the present case, "I am on trial."

Several defense witnesses testified that they considered Von Hoffburg to be a man. But Capt. Philip Glasser, acting as a kind of prosecutor at the hearing, had several defense witnesses point out that they knew Von Hoffburg as Pfc. Linda Bowers, before she left the service in December, 1975 and changed names.

The Army considers the marriage invalid. It has not been challenged by state authorities.

Kernersville Awaits Decision

KERNERSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Local and state officials are waiting for President Carter to answer their appeal for $2 million in disaster relief funds to help this town avert a water shortage.

A decision on the disaster funds, which would be used to pipe water here from Winston-Salem, is expected today or tomorrow.

The request was made after industrial wastes from a nearby chemical plant were loosed by vandals June 3 and flowed into the Kernersville reservoir, killing thousands of fish and imperiling the town's water supply.

The Forsyth County Sheriff's Department said Sunday it was making some headway in its effort to identify the vandals, who opened valves on waste tanks at the Destructo Chemical Corp.

One source close to the probe said it appeared the vandals knew something about plant operations, since the hours are irregular and it would have been difficult for a complete outsider to know when no one would be there.

"I hate to think it was a former employee," the source said. "But it's possible."

Meanwhile, Environmental Protection Agency officials had a mobile laboratory in place here Sunday as they continued their attempts to identify the specific substance that killed the fish.

"It looks pretty out there on the surface, but it's pretty toxic underneath," said EPA official Jack Stonebreaker. He said the EPA investigates about 2,000 contamination cases in eight southeastern states each year, and this is the first in which the poison has eluded identification for so long.

Kernersville Mayor Roger Swisher said the town's 5,000 people had responded well to pleas for voluntary conservation of water; which is now being supplied by a second reservoir and a temporary hookup from Winston-Salem.

Swisher said he believed the town would be all right for another 30 to 35 days at the present rate of consumption. No water-use restrictions were being planned, beyond the voluntary conservation in effect, he said.

Sand In Leaf A Big Problem

The problem of sand and other foreign materials in lower-stalk tobacco is serious, according to Billy Yeargin, managing director and executive secretary-treasurer of the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee, Inc.

Yeargin said the world demand for primings and nondescript grades (P and N) is at a minimum. He suggested growers make an added effort to eliminate the sand and foreign materials somewhere between the tobacco field and the market floor.

Yeargin added the grading service will take a closer look at each pile of tobacco, and noted there is "no demand for sand or foreign matter on tobacco market floors."

The standard tennis racket is about 27 inches long, about 9 inches wide and weighs from 12 to 16 ounces.

Services Are Scheduled

The Rev. C. E. Tetterton and the Prayer Band from Washington, will render service Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the New Hope House of Prayer on Brown Street.

Sunday night, the Rev. Lanier will be in charge of a fellowship service at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to both services.

Workshop Graduates

Twenty-six area high school students were graduated from the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center's vocational evaluation and adjustment programs.

Participating high schools were North Pitt, Farmville Central, D. H. Conley, Ayden-Grifton, Rose, Williamston, Roanoke-Chowan, Aycock Junior High and the Extended School Program.

The facility recently completed an accreditation survey by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities. Accreditation is expected in July.

The workshop's job placement and procurement program has placed 52 students in competitive employment since July 1, 1976. This is the highest number of successful placements for a sheltered workshop in North Carolina.

New contracts for job training areas have come from Southern Hospital Supply, Empire Brush, Black and Decker, Burroughs-Wellcome, NCNB, Carolina Telephone and Telegraph, Abbott Laboratories, Fieldcrest Mills and Procter and Gamble.

The Workshop has begun a transportation program for senior citizens from the Greenville area to and from the city's nutrition program. Approximately 50 older adults participate in this service.

Duroc Field Day Slated

The N. C. Duroc Association will have its annual Duroc Field Day at the Fenner Allen and Sons Farm in Winterville Saturday.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. with a junior hog judging contest. The contest will be open to all 4-H and FFA judging teams and junior individuals ages 9-19. Trophies will be presented to the high-scoring team and high-scoring individual.

After a pig picking at noon, a senior hog judging contest will be held with all adults invited to participate. Trophies will be presented to high-scoring male and high-scoring female.

A panel discussion on "What We Are Looking For From the Purebred Breeder" will begin at approximately 2 p.m. The panel will be composed of commercial producers, packer representatives and extension specialists.

All producers of commercial and purebred hogs are invited.

Trial Over Tris To Begin Today

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A federal court trial is scheduled here today in a suit by Springs Mills Inc. against an order by the federal government for the firm to buy back some $2 million in children's pajamas treated with Tris, a flame retardant.

The U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission (CPSC) issued the order about a month ago after tests indicated that the sleepwear treated with the chemical might cause cancer.

Springs Mills has been exempt from the order since it obtained an injunction from U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Chapman three weeks ago.

Springs Mills, based in Lancaster, S.C., and other large textile manufacturers began producing sleepwear treated with Tris, an abbreviation for treidibromophosphosphate.

The CPSC placed a ban on Tris in early May and ordered any firms that had sold it to buy back all the Tris it had sold that had not been washed by the owners.

Springs Mills contends that could amount to $2 million in its case.

The company's suit says the agency's order will cause chaos and cause irreparable damage to the textile industry.

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cheryl Ladd, recruited as the newest "Charlie's Angel" after the departure of Farrah Fawcett-Majors, says she doesn't want to become a sex symbol.

"I have a lot more going than just that," Cheryl said during a lunch break filming her first episode for the fall season of the hit ABC series. The show was No. 1 in the Nielsen ratings for the week ending June 5.

She laughed, then added, "But if people want to say I'm sexy, that's all right."

Despite the departure of Farrah, viewers need not worry, said Cheryl, a natural blonde. "It's going to have more sex than ever because of the violence restrictions. But I'm trying to add humor and reality to my character. She's a very real person. The sex is done naturally. It's not played up. I hope to come across on the screen as a human being."

"Charlie's Angels," as most people know, are three beautiful women detectives who rely more on sex appeal than powers of deduction to solve cases just one step above the comic book level. Obviously, it's not clever plots that attract viewers to the show.

Cheryl, 25, married to actor David Ladd and the mother of a 2-year-old daughter, was signed to play Kris Munroe, the younger sister to Farrah's character. Kate Jackson and Jaclyn Smith also star.

Farrah announced last March that she would not return to "Charlie's Angels," which in its first year had helped certify her as a sex symbol of the '70s. She is now involved in a law suit with the producers, Spelling-Goldberg Productions.

Cheryl, who had been a singer with a small band, arrived seven years ago from Huron, S.D., and professes to be still a small town girl at heart. She comes from a closely knit family. "I go home twice a year and some of the family comes here," she said. "We talk once a week on the telephone."

She still sings and says her ambition is to star in a Broadway musical.

She had acted in series roles and TV movies for several years, but said she was unprepared for the sudden fame that descended upon her when she signed for "Charlie's Angels."

"It's big shoes to step into if Farrah doesn't come back,"

GOREN BRIDGE

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ6 ♥10952 ♦AKJ32 ♣7
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Your hand is an absolute minimum. If partner needed no more than this to make a game, he would have made a forcing rebid rather than one which could be passed.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A87 ♥84 ♦AQ63 ♣KQ95
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ 1 ♣ 3 ♦ 3 ♥ ?

What action do you take?
A.—It looks as if the opponents are trying to preempt you out of a game. If partner has a heart stopper, three no trump might be your best spot, and the only practical way to get there is to cue-bid three spades, showing a control in that suit. If partner bids three no trump, relax. If he bids anything else, go on to five diamonds.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ ♥7 ♦AJ98752 ♣Q73
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ 3 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—East's preempt has put you on the spot. Partner could have a hand that would offer a play for six diamonds, but with the wrong hand even five diamonds might be too high. We would take our chances and bid three no trump, since that is the contract most likely to make. Of course, if this is greeted with a hearty double, we would reconsider and run to diamonds.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ6 ♥Q983 ♦K ♣KJ1063
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♦ Pass Pass 2 ♦ ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. Nothing you can do offers any measure of safety. Bear in mind that partner's balancing bid does not show much of a hand—with the equivalent of an opening bid, he would have first doubled. Your wisest course is to pass and try to defeat two spades.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ83 ♥K954 ♦K7 ♣62
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four hearts. In support of hearts, your hand is worth nearly 18 points and you can convey this to partner by making a jump raise. That puts partner in a position to make a move if there are slam possibilities.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK107 ♥AKJ8 ♦J1096 ♣5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ 2 ♣ Pass Pass

What action do you take?
A.—You have a strong hand with support for both unbid suits. A bid of two hearts describes neither the strength nor the shape of your holding. Besides offering the possibility of finding a diamond fit, the double also allows partner the opportunity of converting for penalties should he hold little but length and strength in the overcaller's suit.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♥Q95 ♦K762 ♣AJ54

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Happy days are here again! A small slam is certain and a grand slam is not unlikely. To determine the possibilities and give yourself the maximum room for exploration, you should set the trump suit as early as possible. An bid other than three hearts earns several demerits.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ1063 ♥Q74 ♦AK109 ♣5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. Your hand is not strong enough for the "high reverse" of three diamonds, and it is too good, in support of hearts, for a mere two spade rebid. Don't worry about raising partner with only three trumps. If he does not have five hearts for his bid at the two-level, he surely has spade support and will correct to your suit.

TEEN TRAP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teenagers upped their spending by $800 million to a record $26.1 billion last year, and they will find it hard to break their purchasing habits later in life, the Rand Youth Poll says.

"Graduates of the teen-age school of big spending, now in their 20s and early 30s, continue to adhere to this philosophy in their current lifestyles," the poll added.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your thinking is clear and logical right now so make sure that you consider your plans from all angles. Don't be rushed or pressured into making decisions. Benefits flow through changes and new arrangements made now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have good ideas in ways to increase income, but doublecheck data before committing yourself. Don't act hurriedly or you could make costly errors.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be objective and handle monetary matters intelligently and have a greater income in the near future. Make necessary changes at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have many personal situations to handle and should not delay any longer in so doing. Communicating with others is easy and successful. Take no chances where your health is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Analyze your progress where career is concerned and then you know how to proceed clearly in the future. Talk ideas over with a partner.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get in touch with friends and discuss your mutual interests so they work out better. Do some entertaining also that will please them. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Public matters arise that can be handled enthusiastically and will bring you more success. Replace worn-out appliances and lighten your workload.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A new project that you start now could net you good results. Taking an enjoyable trip can give you new inspiration and fresh ideas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you will listen to the voice of your subconscious, you will know what is best for you to do now to get ahead faster. Discussing problem with mate could result in the right solution.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Long talks with mate or loved one could pave the way for greater accord and success in the future. One who has opposed you in the past will now be very agreeable. Show you're sensible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Giving co-workers true facts and data can lead to finer coordination of efforts. Surprises are apt to come from unexpected sources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Join with congenial amusements that are mutually pleasurable and plan future ones together also. Avoid the hypocrite in your group who is out to make trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy and finish half-completed chores. A family tie can be nervous and needs your support. Give it willingly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those articulate young persons who would do well in the field of selling. Slant education along such lines and give as much time at school as possible, since your child can reach the heights.

Committee Mulls Energy Tax Break

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee, whose rejection of three White House energy proposals brought sharp criticism from President Carter, is about to decide whether businesses should get a new tax break for conserving fuel.

The panel will vote later this week on still another Carter energy proposal, one which would sharply increase U.S. oil prices and raise the cost of a gallon of gasoline by nearly eight cents.

But heading the committee's agenda today was the President's plan to give businesses a tax credit of 10 per cent of the cost of their investments in such energy-saving equipment as insulation and solar heating and cooling systems. Similar credits for homeowners and renters were approved last week.

While the Ways and Means Committee considers various energy taxes all week, the full House plans to vote on several appropriations bills for the 12 months that begin on Oct. 1.

Included are two bills that could produce the first veto of the Carter administration. The $10.2 billion public works appropriation has raised the President's ire because of congressional insistence that funding continue for 17 water projects that he opposes.

The other bill would appropriate $61.3 billion for the Departments of Labor and of Health, Education and Welfare. This bill, which carries money for numerous social programs, is about $1.4 billion above what the President requested for HEW alone.

The Senate, meanwhile, will focus its attention on foreign affairs. Votes are expected this week on bills authorizing foreign-aid spending and increasing U.S. participation in international lending organizations.

The Ways and Means Committee, which handles all tax legislation in the House, ripped apart Carter's energy-tax proposals last week. The panel rejected outright a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon, which would go into effect only if conservation goals are not met, and turned down a plan for federal bonuses of up to $500 for persons who buy fuel-efficient cars.

Carter's proposed tax on cars that get poor gasoline mileage was defeated in favor of a much milder version. And another panel, the House commerce subcommittee on energy and power, voted to remove price regulations from new natural gas, which Carter opposes.

The White House reacted quickly. Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said Carter accused Congress of knuckling under to pressure from the oil and automobile lobbies.

He quoted Carter as saying, "The people of this country will be the ones to suffer if our hopes for an energy plan are thwarted. They will be the ones to pay for ... (Friday's) special interest victories."

In an interview Friday with magazine publishers, Carter said the public should apply pressure on Congress to counterbalance pressure from the oil and auto lobbies. "Unless the American people speak up," he said, "the special interests are going to prevail."

Church To Discuss Rights Of Homosexuals

By CHARLES H. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Homosexuals don't have equal rights in Miami anymore, an Alabama soldier may be discharged because she married a woman, and next week southern Presbyterians will decide whether homosexuals have a God-given right to be that way or whether they are sinners.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S., which meets here for its 117th General Assembly, has nearly 900,000 members in 16 Southern states.

A policy proposal from the presbytery (district governing body) in Asheville, N.C., says "homosexuality is a sin" and that marriages between persons of the same sex are "contrary to the divine plan and under divine wrath."

The proposed statement would offer "Christian help and counsel to those struggling with this problem," but this is far short of a call on Christians to "advocate and defend for homosexual persons the civil liberties, equal rights and protection under the law from social and economic discrimination which are due all other citizens," contained in a 25-page study prepared by the denomination's Council on Theology and Culture.

It was a Miami ordinance protecting homosexuals from discrimination in housing and employment that drew the wrath of singer Anita Bryant. Her successful fight to repeal the ordinance focused national attention on the issue of gay rights.

U.S. Army officials face the same issue as they move to discharge a woman soldier at Ft. Rucker, Ala., whose "husband" turned out to be a woman.

The Commissioners, as the delegates are called, are expected to consider other issues of general interest like abortion, gun control, transcendental meditation, human rights, and violence on television.

They also will consider actions to further reunion of their denomination with the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The nation's Presbyterians split in 1861 over slavery, but have been moving together carefully since 1969.

The General Assembly delegates were chosen by votes in the 59 Southern presbyteries.

Sunday they will choose a moderator to succeed Jules C. Spach and preside over the assembly's substantive work in the following week.

The two declared candidates for moderator are the Rev.

Harvard A. Anderson, 68, of Longwood, Fla., and Mac W. Freeman, 63, of Montgomery, Ala.

The FARM SCENE

By EDWIN L. YANCEY,
County Extension Chairman

On farm tests and demonstrations, what are they? What do they mean to Pitt County farmers.

On farm tests and demonstrations are research and teaching tools used by the Agricultural Extension Service. They provide field data under real farm conditions on new practices, products, and methods. They also show what new practices, products, and methods can do when used properly.

This program involves a cooperative effort between the County Extension Agent, the Extension Specialists at N. C. State University, and a cooperating farmer. Often the research faculty at N. C. State and commercial enterprises are also involved.

Basic research from the laboratories and research farms is translated into practical farm application through on farm testing.

In Pitt County Agricultural Agents are supervising 34 tests and demonstrations in 1977. They cover tobacco, corn, soybeans, and peanuts and involve 24 growers.

A tour of some of the Pitt County tests will be held Saturday, June 25. It will begin at the American Legion Building on St. Andrews Street in Greenville at 8:30 a.m. Air conditioned buses will be furnished for your transportation. A lunch at the Legion building will conclude the tour. All interested farmers and agri-business people are encouraged to participate.

Interested persons are encouraged to stop by the test sites during the growing season. Most are located adjacent to roads and they are marked. Detailed information about the tests is available at the Pitt County Extension Office.

Physicians' Convention

The 82nd annual convention of the Seaboard Medical Association will be held June 16-19 at the Holiday Inn, Kill Devil Hills. Approximately 200 physicians are expected to attend from the eastern North Carolina and Tidewater Virginia areas.

The scientific program will be Friday and Saturday and will offer eight hours of Category I continuing education credit for physicians. Credit is made possible through the Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk.

Twenty-seven companies will have exhibits during the scientific sessions.

Blacks Warned Of Complacency

ATLANTA (AP) — Blacks should not become "complacent" about the large gains they have made in Southern politics because they still are underrepresented, the Voter Education Project says.

"We must not become complacent with our advances in the political arena," VEP Research Director J. Stanley Alexander said.

The 2,129 seats held by blacks in 1977 represent only a small share of the 79,000 posts in the 11-state area, VEP said. The number of black officials has jumped almost 3,000 per cent since 1965, when 72 blacks held office.

"The irony of the phenomenal progress in the increase of black elected officials is that blacks constitute such a small percentage of total officeholders," said Alexander. "We're not advocating a quota, but common sense indicates that there is serious underrepresentation in a region where blacks compose 20.4 per cent of the population and yet hold only 2.6 per cent of the public offices."

VEP said the 2,129 black posts are distributed through the South as follows: Alabama, 230; Arkansas, 219; Florida, 84; Georgia, 259; Louisiana, 280; Mississippi, 242; North Carolina, 240; South Carolina, 194; Tennessee, 118; Texas, 171; and Virginia, 92. Eight blacks hold double offices, making the total number of black elected officials 2,121.

The VEP tally shows that the most substantial gains were made at the city government level, where 954 or 44.8 per cent of the blacks hold office.

VEP, a non-partisan organization, said the breakdown of black elected officials in the South in 1977 includes: three U.S. representatives; 11 state senators; 95 state house members; 267 county commissioners; 26 elections officials; 32 other county officials; 76 mayors; 28 vice mayors; 824 city council members; 26 other city officials; 32 judges; 25 magistrates; 103 constables; 18 marshals, sheriffs or police chiefs; 45 justices of the peace; four other law enforcement officials; six superintendents of education; and 508 county, city and district school board members.

Rate Schedule Is Considered

The Greenville Utilities Commission will consider a revised resale rate schedule applicable to Winterville and Ayden Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at its regular monthly meeting.

The Commission will also consider a water rate increase, hear a report on fuel charge accounting for the fiscal year 1976-77 and consider a recommended uniform fuel adjustment charge for the fiscal year 1977-78.

Big Breakwater Planned For Nuclear Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — Where do you dock a floating nuclear power plant? Not just anywhere, according to The Compass, a publication of MOAC, a commercial marine insurer.

In an article describing the nation's first floating nuclear power plant — scheduled for activation in 1984 off the New Jersey coast — The Compass notes that the breakwater for these plants will be the largest, strongest structure ever built in the ocean. It must be capable of protecting the power plant from a one-in-a-million storm with wind velocity up to 300 mph, and be capable of stopping the largest oil tankers from ramming the plant.

The breakwater for the New Jersey power plant will be built about three miles from shore. The Compass notes that seaborne sites for power plants must be in water between 40 and 70 feet deep with a temperature variation of between 28.6 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit.

Dutch Marines Attacked 'With All They Had' In Train Seige

By A.O. SULZBERGER JR.
Associated Press Writer
GLIMMEN, The Netherlands (AP) — The train was a shadowy outline against the gray dawn. Inside, the 20th day of captivity was beginning for 51 passengers held hostage by armed South Moluccan terrorists.

A young Dutch army sergeant and I stood at a security post three-quarters of a mile up the tracks from the train. He was telling me: "There's too much light for an attack now." Then the Dutch marines moved in with all they had.

This is how the sergeant and I experienced our first battle — a surgically precise air and land assault that snatched 49 hostages alive from gunmen the Dutch authorities had described as the toughest nuts they ever had to crack. The attack terrified us both. Blind in the weak light, we dropped to the ground as the dry, concentrated sound of automatic weapons fire and heavy machine guns reached us.

The young sergeant ripped his gun off his shoulder and rolled across the ground, coming to a stop at the barbed wire by the roadside. His armed companions found cover behind trees, beneath armored cars and huddled against a railway embankment.

In the distance, the barrage sounded like a million lawnmowers backfiring. Reporters, most of whom had been asleep in their cars, woke up and scuttled back and forth. I was lying on the ground, screaming into a telephone: "There's a lot of firing. It's concentrated, very concentrated," when I heard the rolling thunder of two F104 jet fighters. Wingtip to wingtip the planes streaked over the crowd of 30 reporters and a dozen soldiers. Flames erupted from the planes' afterburners, blazing against the washed-out sky of that early hour.

For 10 minutes, first two, then four and finally six jets made their runs, circled and returned. As they passed over the train, where terrorists battled marines with the hostages' lives in the balance, the ground shook with explosions.

Those bursts, as we later learned, were set off on the ground to confuse the gunmen. One reporter standing a few feet away from me was screaming: "They're going to bomb the train. They're going to kill them all." Military officials said later that the planes dropped nothing.

The jets pulled away after the final run, and their roar was replaced by the chatter of gunfire, which died down in its turn.

In the quiet, the thought stabbed me: "The train, what's it like on the train?" It turned out that two hostages and six terrorists died.

But at that moment, I was thinking of bodies, of wrecked train compartments torn apart by the firepower I had just seen and heard.

The young sergeant picked himself up trembling and shook his head silently. So did I.

British Government May Have Murdered Lawrence Of Arabia

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The British government may have had Lawrence of Arabia murdered for political reasons, the author of a new biography of the World War I hero claims.

Lawrence was 46 when he died in a motorcycle crash in 1935 near his cottage in Dorset. Desmond Stewart, whose book "T.E. Lawrence" will be published in Britain on June 30 and in the United States in August, contends that the government suppressed evidence given by an army corporal who was the only witness to the crash.

Stewart said in an interview Sunday that the corporal claimed he saw a black car approach Lawrence at the scene of the crash. But he was not allowed to tell his story at the inquest, the writer said.

"Lawrence's inquest was held in the morning and he was buried in the afternoon. The corporal blew his brains out in 1940," Stewart said.

Why would the government want to kill the hero of the Arab revolt against the Turks? Stewart's explanation is that those in power considered Lawrence a sexual masochist and an irresponsible maverick.

"King George V, for example, was convinced that Lawrence might take up arms against Britain after the war on behalf of the Arabs," he said.

His book claims that Lawrence's political views had veered to the far right at a time when anti-fascism was on the rise in Britain. Stewart says author Henry Williamson, who was connected with Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists, wrote to Lawrence shortly before his death suggesting that Lawrence go to Berlin to meet Hitler in an attempt to prevent war.

Stewart also claims security agents searched Lawrence's cottage immediately after his death.

"If this had happened in America, it would have been probed much more carefully. Now the truth may never be known," said Stewart, who has written 10 books about the Middle East and eight novels.

The biography, which the author says incorporates revelations from entirely new sources, claims that Lawrence never suffered the homosexual rape and torture by the Bey of Der'a which he described in detail in his book "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" and which other biographers considered a key incident in his life.

"I'm absolutely convinced this never happened" because Lawrence was in Azra, 19 miles from Der'a, at the time, he said.

Jump Rope Sales Boom

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Americans looking for an inexpensive and uncomplicated way to keep fit are turning to jump ropes as an alternative to jogging, sports or calisthenics.

The sales boom is a "near phenomenon," said the manager of a sporting goods store in Seattle. "We can hardly keep any in stock," he added, explaining that he used to sell 100 to 200 jump ropes a year and now is selling 200 to 300 a month at prices ranging from $3 to $5.

The customers include all types, the manager said — "the business executive who keeps one in his briefcase and the housewife who wants to get into shape."

No one is sure just what prompted the surge in sales. "I think it's just the general physical fitness craze that's overcome everybody," said a salesman at Schneider's Sport store in Troy, Mich., where jump ropes cost between $2.50 and $12.

Dr. Richard Keelor, director of program development for the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, said jumping rope can be good exercise, but he cautioned people who are out of condition not to try to do too much too soon.

No matter what exercise program you choose, Keelor said, you should start slowly. If you are over 30 and do not exercise regularly, see a doctor before you begin. Try a program of vigorous walking — building up from a quarter of a mile to two miles daily — before you try jumping.

The individual who runs out, buys a jump rope and expects to get fit in four or five weeks is making a mistake, Keelor said. Getting and staying fit means changing your lifestyle to place a priority on using your body.

Jumping rope "demands a good deal of the various joints — ankle, knee and hip," Keelor said. Unlike jogging, which is an aerobic exercise requiring continuous work at a slow rate, jumping rope places a sudden, strong demand on the heart and lungs.

Don't expect to jump rope for any extended period of time. Unless you're in outstanding condition, "you're going to have a hard time jumping continuously for four or five minutes," Keelor said. He recommends alternating short periods of jumping — one and a-half to two minutes — with other types of exercise that place less of a strain on the cardiovascular system.

For the person who follows the rules, Keelor said jumping rope has several advantages.

It's inexpensive. You don't need a lot of space or equipment. You can do it at home — assuming you don't have neighbors downstairs. And you don't have to worry about bad weather.

Keelor said the type of rope you use doesn't matter. Ball bearings in the handle will help keep the rope from getting tangled. Other tangle-free models feature plastic discs that slide around to weight the bottom of the rope.
