Fire At Prison Fatal For Five

By JAMES F. SMITH
Associated Press Writer
DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Fire swept through a three-story cellblock at the federal medium security prison here early today, killing five persons and injuring about 66.

Authorities said they believed the five dead were prisoners.
Danbury police Sgt. Robert

Lovell said an investigation by fire department and prison officials indicated that the fire was deliberately set, but he would not elaborate. Associate Warden Billy Davis refused to comment on the cause.

However, inmates who lived in the burned-out dormitory said the blaze was caused by an electrical problem in a dormitory washroom. Several inmates said they were trapped inside the burning, smoking room for up to 30 minutes because the doors were locked.

"We had to feel for the bodies, that's how thick the smoke was," said inmate Darnell Kinnard of Washington, D.C.

Hospital authorities said the dead were presumed to be inmates because of the clothing they were wearing. Positive identification of the victims was awaiting fingerprint comparisons.

The fire, which broke out about 1:30 a.m. and was brought under control at 2:50 a.m., it came less than two weeks after a fire in the Maury County Jail in Nashville, Tenn. Cyanide-laced smoke from the plastic padding used in one of the cells killed 42 persons in that blaze. A 16-year-old runaway has been charged with arson.

The fire broke out about 1:30 a.m. and was brought under control at 2:50 a.m. It came less than two weeks after a fire in the Maury County Jail in Columbia, Tenn. Cyanide-laced smoke from the plastic padding used in one of the cells killed 42 persons in that blaze. A 16-year-old runaway has been charged with arson.

The Danbury prison can accommodate 750 prisoners. There were about 80 inmates in the cellblock where the fire broke out.

Lovell said when the first fire trucks arrived they had trouble reaching the fire because they couldn't get through the gates.

"When we first got there at least 18 people were trapped. We needed a hook and ladder to rescue them. We could hear people screaming to get out," Lovell said.

He said the gates were finally opened when Danbury fire department Capt. Anthony Ligatto threatened to drive a fire truck through the locked gate.

"The wait seemed like three hours," Lovell said, "although it couldn't have been more than five minutes."

Inmates in a prison courtyard yelled to reporters viewing the damage that the guards did not help open doors and rescue prisoners.

"If the inmates had stood around and watched, there would have been 72 dead men," prisoner Richard Evans said.

Parks Work For Twelve

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A dozen Greenville youth have jobs this summer because of a Youth Conservation Corps grant to the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

At the July meeting of the Recreation and Parks Commission Wednesday night, department director Boyd Lee informed commission members that seven girls and five boys, all between the ages of 15 and 18, are doing clean up work on the recreation land north of Tar River. Funding for the program is through state and federal grants totaling $11,558.13, with matching funds being furnished by "in-kind" services; i.e. the work of the young people.

The workers are required to put in 40 hours weekly — 30 hours of actual work and 10 hours of classroom training in conservation.

Lee noted that if this project works out well, state and federal planners are mentioning the possibility of expanding the program next summer.

In another development, Lee told commissioners that Greenville is the North Carolina site of a pilot project being sponsored by Hershey Chocolate Company. The company is providing $5,000 each to 10 southern states to fund a National Track and Field Meet Hall of Fame event.

The meet is a national one for young track athletes, boy or girl, between the ages of 10 and 15.

A regional competition is being held in Greenville on Saturday, July 9, with the state competition to be held here on Saturday, July 23. State winners in various events will go to Charleston, W. Va. for the national meet on August 1, 2 and 3.

Among top athletes to be present at the national meet are Bruce Jenner and Jesse Owens.

Any boy or girl of the 10 to 15 age group is eligible to participate simply by coming to the ECU track to register beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday. Events get underway at 10:30.

Commission chairman Dr. Edgar Hooks named Mrs. Wallace Woole as the commission's representative to attend Planning and Zoning meetings.

Lee announced that member Jamie Briley, appointed by the City Council for a second term, had informed him that he would be unable to serve again. Lee called on members to consider persons as a likely new commission member to provide the City Council for their consideration.

In a discussion of the recently approved 1977-78 budget, Lee pointed out that because of tight budget money, the Recreation Department had held its requests down. "Our increase over last year actually represents an increase in operating costs and does not reflect any substantial new programs," Lee said.

He explained too that the city has made a decision to place Volunteer Greenville under the auspices of the Recreation and Parks Department. Another project, that of building a bike route has been assigned to the Recreation and Park Department. This project had been under the Greenville Planning Department.

In a brief ceremony, Lee presented a plaque of recognition for bravery and

Grants Approved

By U.S. Agency

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced yesterday the approval by the Environmental Protection Agency of an increase of $61,755 for Phase I of the Greenville wastewater treatment project.

Also granted was $806,600 for upgrading the existing facility to a secondary plant in Williamston and $517,755 for upgrading an existing 0.8 million gallons daily facility in Plymouth.

Heatwave Taking Effect

By BARBARA MATTHEWS

July has come to Greenville — and brought with it mercilessly hot days and muggy nights.

A high temperature of 99 degrees was recorded at the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station yesterday. The low was 72 degrees, and the Tar River stood at 4.0 feet on the National Weather Service gauge.

Tuesday's temperatures were a little cooler, with a high of 96 degrees and a low of 68. The river level was measured at 3.8 feet.

The temperature at 8 a.m. today had already climbed to a humid 84 degrees.

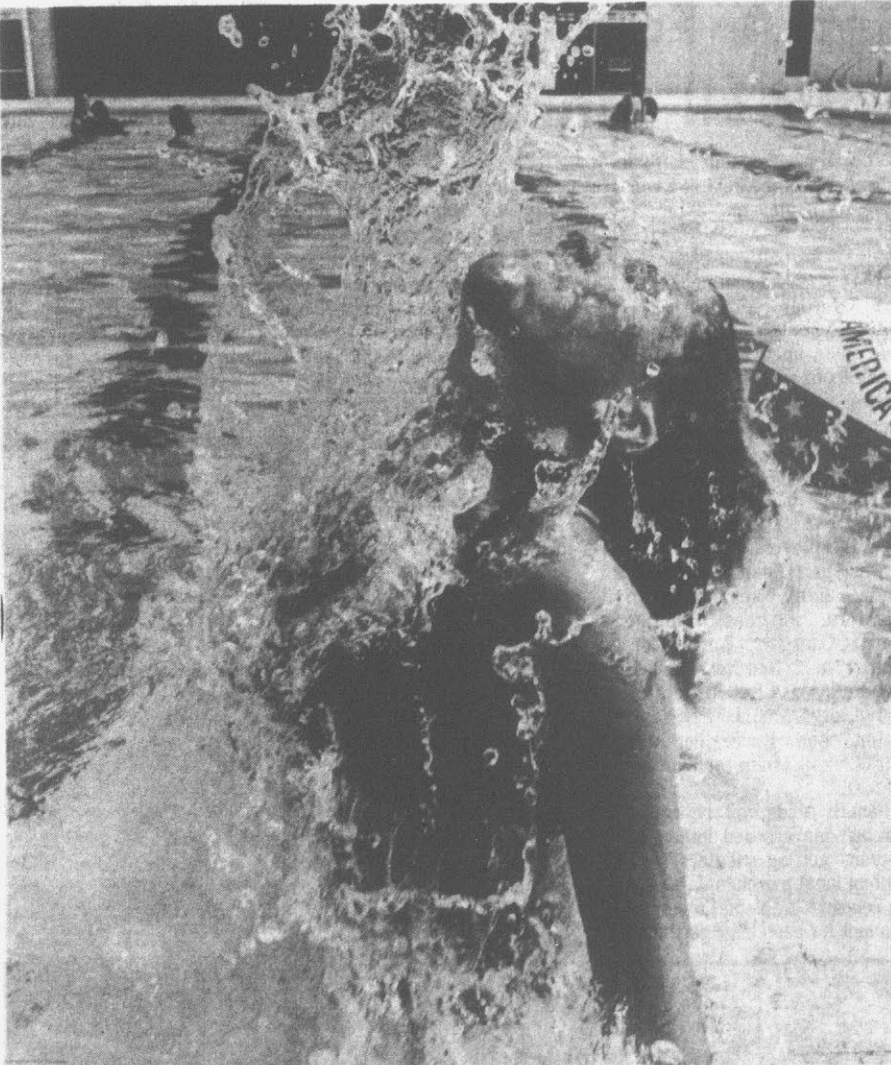

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department reported an increase in visitors to the city pool and a drop in attendance at the department's other outdoor functions.

Cindy Jamieson of the city pool said she has noticed an increase in usage.

"Usage of the pool has been

Take Care

Bob Yow, family nurse-practitioner with the Eastern Carolina Family Practice Center, has offered the following tips for staying healthy in the heat:

Decrease activity. Activity increases body heat.

Avoid activity during mid-day. If you must be active, restrict activity to the early morning and late afternoon hours.

Stay in the shade. Yow suggested those outdoors stay in the shade as much as possible. If you are indoors, stay in a well-ventilated area. Air conditioning is not at all harmful, and if you have it, it may be beneficial to use it.

Drink fluids. Yow said adequate intake of fluids is necessary in periods of extreme heat. Fluids should be cool, as opposed to ice-cold, for maximum benefit.

Look for warning signs. Yow suggested you call your physician or medical facility if you experience the symptoms of headache, weakness, cramps or nausea.

According to Yow, elderly persons and those who are debilitated are more susceptible to heat prostration and other heat-related complications.

"These complications are much easier to prevent than to remedy," he said.

WEDDING DRESS

Judith Singletary left her wedding dress at A Cleaner World dry cleaners here in late February. She and her husband moved to Whiteville a short time later and they asked a friend to pick up the dress which was to be packaged for permanent storage and preservation. The friend learned that Mrs. Singletary's dress had been given to another customer by mistake and that the other customer's dress was still in the cleaners.

Mrs. Singletary said the nature of the storage is such that the dress is concealed and the person who got out her dress, probably in March, may not know for years that she has the wrong dress.

Anyone who may have taken a wedding dress from this dry cleaning plant in March is asked to check her package. She or anyone with any helpful information may call Mrs. Singletary collect at (919) 654-5588.

Connie Branch Prison-Bound

By STUART SAVAGE

Connie Hardee Branch, convicted in Pitt County Superior Court on October 20, 1974 on charges of conspiracy and being an accessory before the fact of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, was scheduled to be committed to Womans Prison in Raleigh today to begin serving a life plus 10 years prison sentence in connection with the case.

Mrs. Branch and three other persons were arrested and convicted on charges stemming from the March 29, 1974 shooting of Linwood N. Branch. The other three, including Mrs. Branch's alleged lover Roy Lee Sullivan of Kinston, began serving their sentences following their convictions.

Mrs. Branch, now 32, has been free under a $250,000 bond pending the outcome of numerous appeals.

The North Carolina Supreme Court Tuesday, ordered a stay of execution of sentence it issued January 6, 1976 dissolved after receiving notification from the U. S. Supreme Court that a petition for a writ of Certiorari had been denied on June 27, 1977. The order from the North Carolina Supreme Court was received by H. L. Lewis, Clerk of Superior Court this morning and commitment papers were issued.

The North Carolina Court of Appeals and the State's Supreme Court have upheld the conviction, finding "No Error" in the trial.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Mrs. Branch was taken into custody at Womans Prison and turned over to the warden for commitment around noon. He said he had been notified earlier this morning by Greenville attorney Dallas Clark, that she would

Two New Principals Getting Acquainted With New Posts

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Two new Greenville City School principals for the school year 1977-78 have been named recently and are now assigned to their new positions.

Frank Davenport, principal of Parkwood High School in Monroe for the past six years, is the new principal for Rose High School.

A native of Charlotte, Davenport began his teaching career at New Hanover High School in Wilmington, then later taught at the 71st High School in Fayetteville. He taught English at both places.

A graduate of Oak Ridge Military Academy, Davenport received a degree in English from Campbell College, and the MA in school administration from East Carolina University. He also holds a sixth-year certificate from UNC-Chapel Hill.

Davenport is married to the former Nancy Howard of Fayetteville. They have two children, Elizabeth (Beth), 8, and Frances (Fran), 3. Members of the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe, Davenport said "my wife and I have been active there in working with sharing groups in the church."

An outdoorsman, Davenport noted "I like to fish, and to take part in water sports. Reading is another major interest."

He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and holds membership in professional organizations such as NCAE, NEA and the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Commenting about his new position, Davenport said "I'm somewhat familiar with Greenville from a student's standpoint. Now I'm looking forward to having the opportunity to live here, and I'm very impressed with Rose High School in many respects."

"Bob Alligood has done an excellent job and I feel fortunate in succeeding a person of his caliber. I've had opportunity to get information on the student body, the faculty and community, thanks to a lot of people who have been kind enough to help me and to take an interest in me as a newcomer."

Long Agenda For City Council

A 28-item agenda, including eight public hearings, will be considered by the City Council tonight at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Items scheduled under "Old Business" include: appointments to boards and commissions; public hearing on rezoning property on the east side of NC 43 south of Carriage House Apartments from RA-20 to R-6; public hearing on rezoning property east of Charles Boulevard and north of 14th Street from Neighborhood Commercial to Office and Institutional;

Public hearing on rezoning property on US 264 Bypass from RA-20 to Office and Institutional; public hearing on rezoning property on the south side of US 264 Bypass near the Greenville Mall site from Highway Commercial and RA-20 to Highway Commercial and Shopping Center;

Public hearing on the annexation of 16 acres located west of the new hospital; public hearing on the adoption of a proposed ordinance amending the City Code to include a section on required vegetation and traffic control; public hearing on the adoption of a proposed Tree Ordinance;

Public hearing on the closing of a 30-foot alley in the Higgs Subdivision in West Greenville; consideration of closing a portion of River Drive from Eastern Street easterly to Johnson Heights; consideration of a revised Airport Zoning Ordinance; and consideration of an application by Pipeline for beer and wine privilege license.

"New Business" on the agenda includes: request by the Airport Authority to sell a parcel of land south of Airport Road; repurchase of cemetery lots; street improvements in Stratford Subdivision; scheduling of public hearings to consider major amendments to the 1975-76, 1976-77, and 1977-78 Community Development Programs;

Consideration of a contract with Robert M. Leary and Associates Inc. of Raleigh for a Land Development Codes Study;

Application for funding of a transit promoter; improvements on Fourth Street; request for aid in the control of mosquitoes; ordinance revising the position classification plan to incorporate revisions approved in the new city budget; Scheduling of a public hearing.

heroism to Park Ranger Paul Strother. Lee noted that Strother was one of two men who pulled a child out of a burning house in Ayden two weeks ago.

"We're proud to have men like Paul on our staff," Lee commented.

The monthly activity report shows that all city recreation and cultural programs are filled to capacity, and in some instances over-subscribed. "By juggling the overflow of our Tot Lot programs, and holding several sessions of the day camp for the handicapped, we've been able to take care of the demands," Lee explained.

Six starting blocks for swim competition use have been installed at the municipal pool. "When we checked with companies providing these," Lee said, "it seemed we'd not be able to fit this into our budget as the price was $1,600 for six."

"But our pool manager, Jim Parker, checked around with local builders and had ones identical to the commercial one made at a cost of $80 each.

The recent dog show, Lee reported, was a whopping success with local and area people bringing in a total of 364 dogs for the show. "We've already had requests for other dog shows," Lee noted.

Hunting Man

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — A Florida man is being sought in connection with the hit-and-run death of a migrant worker on a rural road west of here Monday.

Lino Vasquez, 22 of Homestead, Fla., is charged in a warrant with murder in the death of Belemino Zavala, 19, of the same town. Vasquez also is charged with injuring two other men.

Police said seven migrant workers were arguing as they drove through Wilson County. Zavala and two others got out of the car. Vasquez allegedly came back and ran them down.

Manufacture Urged Against A Vaccine For Pregnant Women

ATLANTA (AP) — For nearly a year public health officials have recommended giving a measles vaccine to pregnant women, while the manufacturer has urged against it, national health officials disclosed Wednesday.

Officials at the Center for Disease Control said the difference became known when New Mexico withdrew requirements that females aged 12 and older be inoculated against measles before they enter school.

Public health officials recommend the vaccine for anyone facing the risk of measles, including pregnant women.

But package directions from Merck, Sharpe and Dohme Inc. of West Point, Pa., the nation's only manufacturer of the vaccine called Attenuvax, say it should not be given to pregnant females or to a female who will become pregnant during a three-month period after receiving the inoculation.

The discrepancy "sort of slipped up on us," said Dr. Allen Hinman, director of the CDC's Bureau of Immunization. "It has some potential for giving us problems."

Government recommendations are made by the Bureau of Biologics of the Food and Drug Administration on advice from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and the American Committee on Pediatrics, he said.

He said government authorities plan to clarify the matter.

Although measles affects the fetus, he said, there is no evidence that the vaccine affects an unborn child.

A spokesman for Merck, Sharpe and Dohme said the statement was put into the package "because of the theoretical risk to the fetus."

The statement in the package says:

"Do not give Attenuvax to pregnant females, the possible effects of the vaccine on fetal development are unknown at this time."

The company has been aware of the discrepancy and has discussed it with the CDC frequently, he said. "Our medical people, legal people and project manager are going to Atlanta next week to further discuss a way to resolve this," he said.

Public health authorities have expressed concern over the increase in measles, noting that 48,000 cases already have been reported for the year, compared with about 31,000 for the same period last year.

The mortality rate is about one in 1,000 but the disease also can cause permanent brain damage.

be waiting at the prison for local officers.

Matthew Jack Wheaton of Chesapeake, Va., testified during the trial that he fatally shot Branch after meeting with Mrs. Branch and Sullivan to plan the killing. He said he was paid $5,000 in $100 bills by Sullivan, "to do away with Mr. Branch."

Evidence presented in Mrs. Branch's trial showed that from December 20, 1973 to April 11, 1974, there were more than 500 long distance calls between Sullivan's home telephone in Kingston and telephones at the L. N. Branch residence, the Noah T. Hardee home (Mrs. Branch's parents home) and Better Homes Realty Co. in Greenville, managed by Mrs. Branch.

Testimony also showed that a call was placed to the Sullivan home at 11:48 p.m. March 29, just five minutes after the Greenville Rescue Squad was called to the Branch home by Mrs. Branch who reported that her husband had been injured.

Other testimony showed 37 long distance calls were made between the Sullivan home and Wheaton's home between March 4 and March 30, 1974.

Wheaton testified during the trial that he had asked Mrs. Branch why she wanted her husband done away with and said she responded by saying that if she got a divorce, she would lose a child the couple was in the process of adopting.

At the time of the trial, District Attorney Eli Bloom said Mrs. Branch, "is responsible for arranging a death. She ought to pay for it."

In his argument to the jury during the trial, defense attorney Milton Williamson told the jury, "Sullivan is just as guilty as sin and you know it. But don't pack her (Mrs. Branch) up in the same bundle. Don't tie her to that man's tail. These are two separate circumstances," he argued.

"You need 500 phone calls because you are in love," Williamson suggested. "...not to kill a man."

Principals...

Carstarphen, has been an assistant principal at Aycock Junior High for the past three years.

Carstarphen, a native of Alexandria, Virginia, graduated from Fairfax County High School, Virginia. He received both the BS and the MA degrees in school administration from East Carolina University, and the Ed.S. in curriculum from George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

His first teaching experience was in Robersonville, where he taught the seventh grade. He then taught for four years in Fairfax County, Va. and was a principal in Williamson before joining the Aycock Junior High Staff.

Carstarphen is married to the former Jeannie Carson of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. They have two young sons, Johnny, 6, and Jeffrey, 2. He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Carstarphen holds membership in the NCEA, the principal's division of NCEA, the NEA and Kappa Alpha.

An avid gardener, Carstarphen said "I really enjoy swimming, sailing, any form of water sports."

"I'm happy about the chance to be working with students at Third Street and with the people of the community assigned to the school," Carstarphen said. "I'd like to promote and encourage openness between people in the community and the faculty. I feel too that the main objective of our work is to the good education of our youth."

Set A Fund-Raising Softball Marathon

The third annual Softball Marathon will be held at Evans Park on Friday and Saturday, July 8 and 9. A scheduled 26 hours of softball will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and continue until 8 p.m. Saturday.

Approximately 175 players will make up two teams—the green team and the white team, drawn from members of all recreation league teams and interested softball players.

The opener is a two-hour treat — a game between the D.J.'s from radio station WOOW and the WITN players.

Other participating teams include: Bailly Vending, Fire Fighters, Jaycees, Empire Brush, Chargers, Rathskeller, Trinity No. 2, Red Neck Saloon, Newby's, Daily Reflector, University Mount Pleasant, Eaton, and Recreation and Parks (both men and ladies teams).

Benefit funds will be raised through players and interested persons getting sponsors from among local merchants, friends or relatives to pledge a certain amount for each hour played by their teams.

The marathon is sponsored jointly by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department and the Easter Seal Society. Money raised will go to the support of recreation programs for handicapped persons.

Persons interested in playing or supporting a team are to call 752-4137, extension 251, or 758-3230.

Hargett-Brown Vows Solemnized On Saturday

Miss Sondra Elizabeth Brown became the bride of Peter Stowe Hargett Saturday at 2:00 p.m. in the chapel of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert C. Redmond performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas Brown Jr. of Greenville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Barker Hargett of Greenville. Mickey Thomas Terry, organist, presented a program of classical wedding music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride selected an Alfred Angelo gown of Tiffany Jersey with a schuffe embroidered organza yoke and a high lace neckline. The full bishop sleeves were finished with wide lace cuffs that continued in points over the hand. The full skirt was enhanced by a chapel length train. Attached to a matching headpiece, her illusion veil was of fingertip length. She carried a nose gay of white miniature carnations, daisies and roses highlighted by satin streamers.

Maid of honor for the ceremony was Miss Leslie Wallace Ward of Greenville. The honor attendant wore a formal length gown of blue knit fashioned with an open V-neckline, full bertha collar, and short capelet sleeves. Centered with a blue self-fabric rose, the gathered bodice fell into a full swinging skirt. She wore an imported blue braided garden hat encircled with blue satin ribbon accented by a Dior bow and long streamers in back. Her nosegay consisted of white and yellow daisies highlighted by baby's breath and blue satin streamers. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brown selected a street length pink knit dress. The bridegroom's mother wore a street length dress of kelly green qiana. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses and white baby's breath. The grandmothers were remembered with white miniature carnation corsages.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers included Christopher Wells Hargett, brother of the bridegroom, of Greenville, and Mark Sheppard Brown, brother of the bride, of Greenville.

Following a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Greenville. The bridegroom is presently associated with Bigg's Drug Store, Greenville.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Marge poured me a cup of coffee and said, "Have you noticed how quiet it is around here?" "Yeah, where are the kids?" "This morning, I posted the Six Commandments for Summer on the refrigerator door and it's working out great."

On the refrigerator was a page from a yellow lined tablet with the following declarations:

1. THOU SHALT NOT SPEAK THE FOLLOWING WORDS EVER: "There's nothing to do."

2. THOU SHALT NOT WATCH TELEVISION LONGER THAN FOUR HOURS AT ONE SITTING.

3. THOU SHALT NOT COVET THY NEIGHBOR'S BICYCLES, SKATEBOARDS, SWIMMING POOL OR ICE CREAM.

4. THOU SHALT NOT PLAY IN WATER IN HARD SHOES OR CHANGE CLOTHES MORE THAN FOUR TIMES A DAY.

5. THOU SHALT NOT KILL THY BROTHER, THY SISTER, THY PLAYMATE, THY PARENTS.

6. THOU SHALT MAKE THY OWN GOOD TIMES USING IMAGINATION AND CREATIVITY.

Marge's five-year-old came in to the kitchen and said, "Mom, can you go in the crawl space in the attic and get down the sled? I'm using my imagination and creativity."

When Marge returned, her daughter tugged at her slacks and said, "Would you mind turning on the oven and going to the store to get some chocolate chips? We are having a fair and I am keeping busy."

"Mom," said another son, "a dart fell behind the bunk bed and I need it to keep myself occupied."

"Mrs. Roth," said a neighbor child, "I don't want to punch in Ralph's face but he's hogging the skateboard and won't let us have a turn. Tell him to share."

"Mom, would you get the ice water? It's on the top shelf of the refrigerator and I can't get it without a chair."

"Mom, could you take the knots out of my shoes so I can play in the water?"

"Mom, could you call Debbie's mother and see if I could play with her Frisbee?"

I watched as Marge tiredly added another commandment to the list: "THOU SHALT NOT INTERRUPT MOTHER WHEN SHE IS ROCKING BACK AND FORTH HUMMING TO HERSELF."

DEAR ABBY: My mother is the moodiest person on earth. She can wake up feeling fine, and then if anyone does one thing wrong, she's mad for the day. I am 16 years old, and I am sick and tired of her actions. So are my brothers and sisters.

I realize that some women have a difficult time when they reach 40, but enough is enough. Can you please give me some advice on how to get along with her? (Thank you.) SHERI

DEAR SHERI: Yes. Just for one day, refrain from doing any of the things you know will irritate her. And try to do all the things you know will please her, such as: cleaning your room; limiting your telephone conversations; keeping the radio and TV low; desisting from complaints about what you don't have or can't do; remaining silent when you'd like to talk back or argue; and keeping the peace with your brothers and sisters. You will then find that living with mother is so much more enjoyable, you'll think you're in the wrong house. (You're welcome.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WRONG SIDE OF THE TRACKS" IN CLEVELAND: If after all these years her parents refuse to accept you, quit trying. It would be easier to move the tracks.

Some Good Work By Assembly

The State Legislature called it a year before the July 4 weekend and packed up to go home. No one can say it wasn't a busy year.

It included the appropriation of $45 million for 1977-79 to provide reading aides and materials for improving reading skills in the first three grades.

There will be annual student testing in selected grades to measure progress of students. High school graduates will now have to pass a minimum competency test.

The Legislature provided for the voters to decide on a $300 million bond issue for highway construction, which would be paid for out of existing gasoline taxes, and there will be a Clean Water bond issue of $215 million for water and wastewater facilities.

For the overcrowded prison system the Legislature provided $5.3 million for immediate work, and $35 million for long-range prison construction.

At the same time a speedy trials act was enacted, as was a restitution act which could make parolees pay back their victims. There will also be a seven year mandatory prison sentence for armed robbery, first degree burglary or second degree burglary. In addition the death penalty for first degree murder was reinstated.

The Legislature provided for a public vote on a constitutional amendment which would allow the governor and lieutenant governor to succeed themselves. There will be another amendment to be voted on which will require a balanced state budget — something which is done by law now.

The Legislature approved a biennial budget with provision for returning to Raleigh next year for more detailed study of the second year of the budget. It developed a windfall of $91 million by changing the way that corporations pay their taxes. These funds were distributed for various capital improvements and other projects.

The Legislature came fairly close to approving a liquor-by-the drink bill, which now rests in committee. It passed several measures dealing with pornography, some of which are legally questionable constitutionally.

It was an interesting session all-in-all, lacking any great surprises or monumental battles. We feel the Legislature acted responsibly on most matters. There was grandstanding on pornography which took the Legislature too close to violating constitution rights. There was too much pork barrelling in the matter of appropriations (there always is). Nevertheless some good work came out of the 1977 session of the Legislature.

THIS AFTERNOON

Maybe New Health Rules

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A crash legislative study of medical care cost problems in North Carolina could well result in creation of a State Health Commission similar to the Utilities Commission to oversee health care operations and the rates charged.

"This is a terribly complicated and technical field. Health care people largely talk a whole different language and live in different world which we don't often understand," says State Rep. Ted Kaplan, D-Forsyth, chairman of the newly created Medical Care Cost Commission.

"Because of that technicality, we have allowed physicians (and other health providers) to live in isolation . . . to make their own rules . . . to run their own licensing programs.

No Control
"We don't do that in other fields. In health, we have no lay people represented in policy and decision levels; we have no legislative representation on the various boards . . . dentists, nurses doctors, and so on run their own programs," Kaplan said.

The study commission authorized by the General Assembly was created mostly as a response to the Medicaid crisis. Lawmakers could see dimly into the ever-expanding Medicaid hold into which they are shoveling larger and larger amounts of dollars. Combined state, federal, and local spending on Medicaid (care for welfare and low-income medically needy) is approaching $300 million per year.

Soon, legislators have been grumbling, such large amounts of money for one program will obviously mean others must suffer. Also, a little-noticed fight regarding whether nurses must answer to physician assistants alerted legislators to the fact that they have little knowledge of or control over internal health system decisions.

Kaplan, a freshman who had earlier decided to dig into the complexities of Medicaid and had suggested a study commission, found himself in the unique position of being available to head up such an important probe. Other legislators determined they could, in effect, take some cosmetic action this year; then dump the mess in Kaplan's lap.

Twelve members of the General Assembly will make up the commission. Health care providers will be encouraged to take part in deliberations, but it will be legislators making decisions. That is because, Kaplan said the major legislative proposal to be studied next year must have the full commitment and understanding of his fellow

Rate Rules
The most controversial aspect will almost certainly be any moves to establish the state commission to operate in the area of health care costs.

But such rate review is essential, Kaplan insists to satisfy federal requirements and keep the some $60 million in federal facilities funds coming to North Carolina.

Rate review and supervision of care is currently provided by the Peer Review Foundation—an agency operated by health care providers. Outside review is needed, Kaplan said, and he will propose that the state commission probe rates in Medicaid and Medicare programs, and other public programs not private charges for private patients), as well as charges made by public hospitals and nursing homes.

"These situations are going to have to be taken care of. We can't afford to continue to waste money," Kaplan argues. He also thinks the commission should get directly into decisions on where particular health facilities and equipments would or shouldn't be located. Some control is needed over proliferation of exotic equipment and excess building, Kaplan feels.

Kaplan is confident that in a year the study commission can fathom the mysteries of Medicaid and other health care problems, and suggest sweeping revision of the system. His hope is that services for people can be not only maintained, but enlarged, as a result. The best control, he believes, will be by shifting responsibility to local units of government as much as possible so people can see the real and immediate impact and "realize what is happening . . . as it is, people tend to say that it is a federal problem."

THE INSIDE REPORT

Oil Policy Is In Question

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Carter startled members of the House Ways and Means Committee in a private session last week when he suddenly referred to a "great national treasure" of untapped oil and gas reserves in the U.S. which would be available for future use under his energy program.

The underlying philosophy of the Carter program has always stressed conservation rather than discovery of new sources of diminishing gas and oil reserves. Congressmen have often heard Mr. Carter spell out the rationale of conserving energy by reducing its use but never the rationale of conserving energy by keeping American oil and gas in the ground as a "national treasure" for future use. That means U.S. consumers must continue buying ever-larger quantities of foreign oil and gas to close the gap between consumption and falling domestic production, until substitutes become economically available.

The implications of the President's almost offhand statement about preserving a "great national treasure" for 15 to 25 years in the future are profound. It came toward the end of a 90-minute session on Wednesday, June 22, in the White House, in answer to questions from Reps. William Steigert of Wisconsin, Philip Crane of Illinois, L. A. Bafalis of Florida, all Republicans, and others.

A strong supporter of some form of "prowback" to the oil industry of part of the wellhead tax that forms the heart of the energy program, Steigert pleaded with Mr. Carter to compromise his opposition to any form of "prowback." If it was important, Steigert said, that the energy program have the widest possible backing in the country, then some of the wellhead tax should be used to finance new exploration.

Mr. Carter said no, the industry needs no additional incentives. More important, he went on, he did not think it made sense to maximize new production "at this time" (as several present recall the President's words). America should "husband" its dwindling resources.

That implies a ceiling of sorts on oil production on the theory it is more valuable in the ground — for future use — than out. A case can be made for such a policy, but it hasn't been made. Indeed, there has been no national debate of any kind on such a policy; no effort to balance national gains and losses from slow-vs.-rapid depletion of present reserves; no study of the effect of such a public U.S. policy on production decisions in Saudi Arabia, which is under heavy, continuing U.S. pressure to pump its reserves out of the ground ever faster to feed the West.

The Saudi problem may explain the administration's secrecy. An announced American policy to slow the rate of depleting its oil and gas reserves could give the Saudis a respectable economic pretext to diminish their own production if Mr. Carter's Mideast peace plan fails. A Saudi production cut-back from 10 million to 5 or 6 million barrels a day could throw Western Europe and the U.S. into new recessions.

Abzug's Forces Routed

It takes a considerable time for news to travel eastward from the Indian territories, so it was not until a day or so ago that word reached Washington of a massacre that occurred in Stillwater, Okla., on Saturday, June 18. This was a splendid occasion, and even at this late date it merits a war whoop of applause.

What happened, in brief, is that the troops of Bella Abzug got scalped. They were routed. In a fair fight at the Oklahoma Conference of Women, the women's libbers were out-manuevered, out-thought, and out-hustled. Ms. Abzug's complacent legionnaires had scheduled a nicely rigged conference, prepackaged with nicely rigged resolutions, at which a scene of dreadful carnage. The surviving libbers had fled in disarray. The victorious anti-libbers had boarded buses to take them back home to church.

Let us have a word of background. Acting from the kind of well-intentioned impulse that is known to every politician, former President Ford in 1975 created a National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year. Congress subsequently provided legislative authorization. President Carter in April reconstituted the Ford Commission and named Ms. Abzug chairperson. The commission's first order of business was to sanction a separate women's conference in every state and territory.

At the last count, 46 of these conferences had been held. Most of them, if I am correctly advised, have gone according to script. The participating ladies have dutifully elected the right delegates and adopted the right resolutions, principally resolutions in support of the pending Equal Rights Amendment, and the unwelcome dissenters, like so many flies at a formal dinner, have been swatted into silent submission.

It didn't work that way in Oklahoma. Thanks in part to the skill and energy of two determined women, Anne Bowker of Tulsa and Diane Edmondson of Broken Arrow, the Oklahoma libbers bit the dust. They went to work early in May, just as soon as the Stillwater conference was scheduled. They saw the registration rules had been rigged. The idea was to fix a deadline of noon on Friday. Anyone who registered after

Other Editors Say: Better Than None

(Washington Daily News)

When we read what the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has said about playing East Carolina University in football and basketball after 1981 when the present schedule runs out, we can only give the opinion that what UNC says is better than no excuse at all.

When Duke University was trying so very hard recently to find a good excuse for not playing ECU, it really could not find one. And in going ahead and adding ECU to its schedule, what it all amounted to is that Duke was saying to itself "we tried to find good reason for not scheduling you, but we couldn't."

Now UNC looks far ahead and in 1982, it will not have ECU on either a football or a basketball schedule. The reason given seems to be that "we cannot play of N.C. teams and so we'll just play ACC conference schools." It was brought out that Appalachian University had asked UNC to put it on the schedule.

The rivalry between UNC and ECU is good. In fact the rivalry between any two schools in our state is good. It is wholesome, and it should not be stopped this way. Surely, UNC will have no trouble filling its schedule, but ECU not only will fill the schedule but fill the stadium as well. And a stadium full of people is a most meaningful picture. That means money for the many athletic needs which are always so evident.

It is heartbreaking that UNC says that after 1981 it no longer will play ECU or any other N.C. schools except Duke, N.C. State, and Wake Forest all in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Over the years we look back and realize so fully and so conscientiously how much ECU has had to fight every step of the way for whatever it has received. It had to wage an all out fight for a Nursing School. It had to fight a war to get University status. It had to engage in might conflict to get its Medical School.

Will ECU have to fight again to remain on the schedule of state supported institutions such as UNC at Chapel Hill and N.C. State? Will the matter of playing football games take the time of the legislators in future? Well, it could and somewhere along the line the sides could be chosen on this very subject of football and basketball schedules.

If ECU is to be looked upon and treated as if it were a stepchild, then it will have to make the most of it. But it is not right that it should be that way. We truly hope Duke, Wake Forest, and N.C. State put a top value on athletic relations with ECU, and that in the years ahead, the rivalry and the games will be real exciting contests.

And somewhere along the way we expect that the N.C. legislature will be asked to step in and bring right and reason to the scene.

Oppose Servicemen's Union

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — Efforts to unionize the U.S. armed forces will likely meet with stiff resistance from the American public.

About three persons in four, 74 per cent, interviewed in the latest Gallup Poll say they oppose unionization of the military. Another 13 per cent say they favor the idea and 13 per cent are currently undecided.

Two bills are now before the Senate Armed Services Committee that would essentially do the same thing — disallow unionization of the military.

Interestingly, opposition to organizing the armed forces is found to be nearly as great among members of labor union families as in non-union families. Both groups vote against the idea, by 71-16 per cent and 74-13 per cent respectively.

There are only two groups in the population where support is higher than 20 per cent. Among young adults — that is those under 30 years old — 24 per cent favor the idea. The same percentage of non-whites approve.

Only small differences are apparent between the views of Republicans, Democrats and independents, although Democrats have traditionally been more pro-labor than the other two groups.

Arguments For And Against
With approximately two million men and women in uniform, the members of the armed forces represent a potentially huge union.

Those who support organizing the military say servicemen and women have legitimate problems of working conditions, pay, and the like. They also cite threats to traditional military perquisites such as commissary privileges and 20-year retirement.

Union organizers, such as the American Federation of Government Employees, say they are not interested in the more philosophical aspects of unionization including the right of the individual to refuse to carry out an order — the so-called "shop steward in the foxhold" syndrome that is the crux of much of the opposition to military unionization. In support of the concept that an organized military can be an effective fighting force, union supporters point to the Dutch army — a unit that recently won high praise from NATO Commander Gen. Alexander Haig.

Critics of unionization argue that organization would have serious overall repercussions including a loss in discipline and readiness to fight. They also point to increased costs as a reason for opposing unionization.

In answering the Dutch example, critics of unionization point to the small size and commitments of their army in comparison to those of the American armed forces and deny any parallel.

Here is the question asked in the survey followed by the results:

"Would you favor or oppose unionization of the American armed forces?"

	Armed Forces Unionization
	Favor	Oppose	No opinion
NATIONWIDE	13%	74%	13%
Men	14	79	7
Women	13	69	18
Whites	12	77	11
Non-whites	24	50	26

Day Of Lucky Sevens

By MARC CHARNEY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Today, July 7, is 7-7-77. If you put store in numbers, and share the belief that seven is a lucky one, you might think this is your lucky day.

But maybe you'd better think twice.

As reported in the New York Times of July 8, 1877, here are some of the things that happened on the last 7-7-77 — 100 years ago:

—More than 700 unlicensed dogs were drowned by the New York City dog pound, as owners of lost dogs scurried about trying to find their pets. "There was more excitement at the pound yesterday than at any time since its opening," the Times said.

—The German bark Auguste arrived in London "with her bulwarks and stanchions broken, her rigging carried away, and otherwise damaged, having been in collision."

—Otis Hodge's machine shop and foundry at North Adams, N.Y., was destroyed by fire, at a loss of $20,000. He had $8,000 insurance.

—A horse named Idalia stepped up to the starting post at Monmouth Park, N.J., a favorite because she had already bested her competition, Zoo Zoo. But Idalia became uncontrollable, tried to bolt and lost the race before it started. "A more sorrowful looking set of men than Idalia's backers were never seen on a race course," the Times commented.

—Two deputy sheriffs showed up at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Saviour at Madison Avenue and 25th Street to confiscate ornaments, the organ, furniture and the like on behalf of the Rev. Dr. Abraham Carter, the pastor, who said he had not been paid for some time. The church also couldn't open for services the next day, Sunday.

40 Years Ago Today

July 7, 1937
Navy ships and planes, coordinating efforts in the vast hunt for Amelia Earhart, aimed today at a new region in the South Pacific wastes where growing belief and some facts indicated the missing aviatrix may be marooned.

The Coast Guard at San Francisco said it had been checking with the cutter Itasca throughout the day, but had no news of the missing aviatrix and her navigator.

The Coast Guard cutter Itasca and Navy mine sweeper Swan have searched more than 104,000 square land miles north of Howland Island without a trace of the world-circling plane.

Republic Steel Corporation plants hummed with activity in Cleveland today under the protection of bristling National Guard bayonets as Lee Pressman, general counsel for CIO steel strikers, charged "a state of brutal terrorism" prevailed on the Ohio strike front.

Smoke streamed from towering stacks of three Republic units after the last of a series of successful back-to-work thrusts in defiance of John Lewis' CIO.

Strength For Today

THE POWER WILL BE GIVEN

The Bible makes plain that very often God leads people to great achievements by setting them to tasks which they feel are beyond their capabilities.

For example, Moses was terrified at the Lord's command that he appear before Pharaoh and take steps to lead the Israelites out of Egypt. Gideon protested that he was the humblest member of a humble household and so could not obey God's command to rise up and lead his people. In the New Testament Jesus commanded the afflicted man at the Pool of Bethesda to rise, up his bed, and walk—a thing the man had apparently never done before.

One of the most disconcerting experiences in life is to realize that we must confront a duty or perform a task for which we feel ourselves to be totally unprepared.

Yet meeting challenges of this kind builds character. It is through such circumstances that God works for the performing of great miracles, today as in the past. We may protest, as did men in ancient days, but God's assurance of help is all we need to make ourselves victorious.

Mauritanian Diplomat Slain

PARIS (AP) — A gunman shot the Mauritanian ambassador to France today, but officials at the American Hospital said he was out of danger. He was the third ambassador shot in Paris in the past two years.

The attempt on Ambassador Ahmed Ghanahalla, 36, apparently was the work of the Polisario Front, which is fighting a guerrilla war in northwest Africa for the independence of the former Spanish Sahara from Mauritania and Morocco.

A woman telephoned Agence France Presse, the French news agency, and said the Mohamed el Wali Sayed International Brigade was responsible for the attack. Mohamed el Wali Sayed was the secretary-general of the Polisario Front who was killed in an attack on Nouakchott, the capital of Mauritania, in June 1976.

Ghanahalla was shot this morning just after he had gotten into his chauffeur-driven car near his home in the fashionable 16th District. Witnesses said two men about 25 years old approached the parked car from behind and one of them fired six shots through the rear window.

The two attackers fled into adjacent streets and escaped. Ghanahalla, who had represented his government in Paris for about 15 months, was taken to the emergency room at the American Hospital. An hour later a spokesman for the hospital said he was out of danger and conscious. Another source said he had been shot in the head and the legs.

The Spanish Sahara was partitioned and annexed by neighboring Morocco and Mauritania, after Spain relinquished the territory last year. Algeria, which adjoins a short stretch of the territory's northeast frontier, opposed the takeover and supports the Polisario Front.

that hour could observe, but could not vote at Saturday's plenary session.

Mrs. Bowker and Mrs. Edmondson complained to the national office in Washington that the rule could discriminate against working women and housewives who could attend only on Saturday. Behold! The unsuspecting national office cordially went along with a revised rule that would permit Saturday morning registrants to participate fully.

Came the dawn. From as far away as Guyton, Boise City and Texhoma, out in the Panhandle, from as far south as Altus and Lawton, Durant and Broken Bow, the buses began to roll. Most of the organizing had been done through local churches. Some of the buses left at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. By 7 A.M., as Mrs. Bowker describes it, "500 good Christian ladies were waiting quietly in line at the Student Union Building of Oklahoma State University."

The libbers were agast. More buses arrived. There were reports of hysterics. Language was heard more suited to stevedores and to hockey players than to gentle ladies. In the end, the 200 libbers rumped off to the theater within the Student Union. The thousand anti-libbers took over the ballroom. That was the final score, says Mrs. Bowker: Christians 1,000; Lions 200.

The Oklahoma Conference then proceeded to adopt some marvelously unscripted resolutions of its own, beginning with a resolution against the ERA. The ladies, adopted a resolution calling homemaking "the most vital and rewarding of careers for women."

They defeated resolutions proposing increased federal spending on women's causes. They refused to endorse federally funded child care and day care centers. They took up 18 prepared resolutions calling for the government to enforce equal credit and equal employment for women, and defeated all 18 in a single vote.

Then the Oklahoma Conference elected its own slate of 22 delegates to Houston, including a black, an Indian, a couple of high school dropouts, a medical doctor woman newspaper editor, a young mother and so on. The libbers have mounted a furious challenge, so a credentials fight is assured in November. Ms. Abzug should be forewarned: Those Oklahoma buses will be rolling again.

The square dance evolved from a country dance that originated in England.

day. On 7-7-77, the deputies had taken the keys.

—It was a lucky day for Philip Donohue of Elizabeth, who spent six hours buried in a collapsed well the night before but was rescued at just about midnight, as July 7 started.

—But it was the opposite kind of luck for a man named Daniel O'Leary, who chose 7-7-77 as the day on which his boast that he could walk 520 miles in six days would meet the moment of truth. He had been walking for five days already and covered 74½ miles on 7-7-77, but it wasn't enough. Just after midnight, he quit — 48½ miles short.

However, a word of encouragement comes from Robert Ball, director of the Astrological Metaphysical Research Center in Coral Gables, Fla.

A child born today "would be unusually sharp of mind, genius quality," he says.

Ball also says the stock market has risen every July 7th. If that claim is true, some investors will be in seventh heaven today.

policy that oil is worth more underground, Saudi Arabia could not be faulted for doing the same.

The Congressmen who heard Mr. Carter that day have not asked questions publicly for one reason: the session was off the record and they are respecting that ground rule.

Jimmy and Bob

An unusual communication from a very high official in the Japanese government has elevated the already high prestige of Ambassador Robert Strauss, Mr. Carter's fast-talking, quick-footed special trade representative. In a confiding mood with an intimate several days ago in his White House office, Vice President Mondale described the confidential missive as "absolutely extraordinary."

It praised Strauss, whose old reputation as Democratic national chairman was based on skillful use of brains, charm and snake oil, for the new voluntary quotas placed on Japanese TV sets exported to the U.S. — an agreement high U.S. officials felt had infuriated Tokyo.

Mondale, obviously reflecting his boss, told friends that Strauss's success as trade negotiator was a question "of Strauss keeping so many balls in the air at the same time that no one knows where they are except him."

A footnote: President and Mrs. Carter took Strauss and his wife, Helen, to the Kennedy Center to see Marcel Marceau from the presidential box on June 16, an unusual occurrence for an member of the Georgia Mafia. Strauss's swift ascent from presidential campaign outsider to the presidential inner circle worries Strauss allies who caution him that sometimes the road down can be even faster than the road up.

POP GOES THE AIR BAG — Three-year-old Shelby Sutcliffe reacts as an air bag pops from the steering wheel of a simulator during a press conference in Washington to demonstrate the safety of the restraint device. Conducting Study Of Peanut Flour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say that flour made from peanuts shows some promise as a protein food supplement and that it may be superior to soybeans in some respects.

The Agriculture Department says that peanut flours have a bland flavor and have low amounts of gas-producing sugars. Soybeans, on the other hand, generally have "an objectionable beany flavor" and are rich in gas-producing carbohydrates.

The peanut flour research is being conducted at the Southern Regional Research Center in New Orleans, La., and was described in the current issue of Agricultural Research, published by USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"Peanut flours have been used experimentally (1 per cent) in pineapple juice to triple the protein content, as a meat extender (42 per cent) and in bread (15 per cent)," the report said. "All of the products containing peanut flour were considered acceptable when compared with the conventional products."

The research involved three types of peanuts: Virginia, red-skin Spanish and white-skin Spanish.

"Interestingly, the white-skin peanut, which is not grown commercially because it lacks flavor, appears to have more potential as a source of oilseed protein because of its white skin," the report said.

"Since the skins have no color, the blanching or skin removal step in processing can be eliminated to save 2 to 4 cents per pound."

Also, the scientists said that the calcium content of flour made from white-skin peanuts "is considerably higher" than in the red-skin peanut flours.

According to the first census of the United States in 1790, there were 3,893,635 people living in 16 states.

Guerrilla Response To Premier

By JOEL EPSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Palestinian guerrilla group says the pipe bomb in the Petah Tiqva market that killed a woman and wounded 20 other persons was its answer to Prime Minister Menachem Begin's territorial policy.

The radical Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced in Beirut that one of its guerrillas planted the bomb that exploded Wednesday in response to the new prime minister's "policy of creating new settlements in Palestine."

Begin before he became prime minister supported the establishment of Jewish settlements in the West Bank territory on which the guerrillas want to establish a Palestinian state. Israel took the territory from Jordan in the 1967 war, and Begin contends it is part of historical Israel.

Petah Tiqva, a city of 105,000, is five miles from the border of the occupied territory, and thousands of West Bank Arabs pass through it daily on their way to and from work in Israel. It was the scene of two Arab bombings last November in which five persons were injured.

Following the bombing Wednesday, police warned the people to be on the lookout for "suspicious parcels and people, especially in crowded public places."

The bombing was the worst in Israel since May 1976, when a booby-trapped motor scooter blew up in Jerusalem, killing one person and injuring 29. Hospital officials said a 56-year-old woman died Wednesday night while undergoing surgery, and four other wounded persons were reported in serious condition.

The police rounded up about 100 Arabs for questioning. The Popular Democratic Front said one of its guerrillas eluded Israeli security measures to plant a time bomb. It added that it "warns the Zionists against harming the arrested Arabs and assures our people in Palestine that we are always capable of helping them."

Despite Begin's earlier hard territorial line, Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and others have been hinting that the government might relinquish some of the West Bank if the Arabs were willing to offer enough in a peace agreement.

As a result of this possibility, the leader of Israel's third largest party, Yigael Yadin of the centrist Democratic Movement for Change, decided Wednesday to renew negotiations with Begin to join the government coalition.

DMC support would give Begin a 34-vote majority in the Knesset, the Israeli parliament, and would strengthen his hand in negotiations with the Arabs. The DMC broke off earlier coalition bargaining after Begin's Likud bloc refused to commit itself to withdraw from the West Bank as part of a peace agreement.

Among First Advertisers

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Charlotte lawyer is among the first to advertise legal fees following a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court allowing such ads.

Ronald Williams listed fees in a newspaper ad Wednesday, and says his next project is to establish legal clinics in shopping centers, where clients could go after work and pay by credit.

The one-time mobile home dealer, who became a lawyer three years ago, says the court's decision will increase competition and lower prices.

It will bring services to those who couldn't afford them previously, he says, and adds it will bring more "revenue" to offer those services.

As he sees it, drawing up simple papers for wills or uncontested divorces is a business, not just a profession.

That concept of a lawyer's work is not universally accepted.

"The way it was before advertising, a person would choose his lawyer by his reputation, which is what others say about him," said Dean Hamrick, chairman of the Mecklenburg County bar. "With advertising, a person will choose by his prices, which is what he says about himself."

Guidelines for advertising are to be released from the North Carolina Bar, whose president has urged state attorneys to use "restraint" in advertising until then.

Set Planning Conference

The Second Annual Planning Conference will be held at Williamsburg, Va., November 11-13, according to Charles Burnette, president-elect of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the meeting will be to establish short and long range community goals and provide a plan of action toward achievement of these goals.

Areas to be discussed may include schools, industrial development, transportation, recreation, political action and community development.

"The Chamber needs the input from the city, the county, ECU and Chamber members in order to make things happen which will be for the good of all in the Greenville area," said Burnette.

"It is hoped that all interested community leaders will attend this most outstanding conference."

Yes, Test Of Germ Warfare At The White House

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Germ warfare tests at the White House? You'd better believe it. They weren't conducted yesterday, or even last year. In fact, the whole business nearly has become lost in the mists of history. What makes the subject current is an apparent difference of opinion between the Pentagon and President Carter's White House over a reporter's request for details.

The Army acknowledged earlier this year it had turned loose nonlethal germs some years back in such public places here as the sprawling Pentagon, National Airport and the Greyhound bus depot before President Richard M. Nixon ordered a halt to all such activities in 1969.

This disclosure led to a rumor that the White House also had been a target for germ warfare experiments. In response to an inquiry, a Pentagon spokesman said that "at the request of the White House staff, the Army in 1962 tested the air intake system of a portion of the White House."

He said nonlethal bacteriological agents were employed. Pressed for details, the spokesman said nothing would please him more than to provide an elaboration. However, he said he was under orders from the White House to say nothing further.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell later said he knew nothing about the tests or about any gag order to the Pentagon. Ditto for Jerrold Schecter, spokesman for the National Security Council. Ditto for John Warner, spokesman for the Secret Service.

So the whole affair remains as mysterious as those little microbes that floated around some part of the White House back when John F. Kennedy was president.

When Jimmy Carter walks, everybody — well, almost everybody — walks, too.

Eight sedans and station wagons were drawn up in a line when the President, relatives, aides, friends and bodyguards arrived by helicopter at Camp David, Md., for the July 4th weekend.

Carter moved directly toward his sedan, at the head of the line, conferred briefly with some of his fellow travelers, then picked up James Earl Carter IV, his 4-month-old grandson.

Turning away from the waiting vehicle, Carter stepped briskly down an asphalt road-way leading to his weekend lodge about a quarter-mile away. Wife Rosalynn and almost everyone else did the same.

Except for the infant, everyone walked save the drivers of the eight vehicles. The drivers pulled their cars into line behind the President and followed at a walking pace. It was Camp David's version of a holiday parade.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was higher today, supplies light to light, demand very good, weights light to desirable.

The dock weighted average price is 43.29 cents per pound for this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today 1,290,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today amid continuing concern over economic growth prospects.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 5.86 on Wednesday, lost another .76 to 906.97 by 11:30 a.m. today.

Losers held a 6-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume was a moderate 5.01 million shares in the first hour.

On the plus side, analysts noted widespread hopes for a favorable signal on the inflation outlook when the government reports the June wholesale price index Friday.

But the market seemed to be held back by continued concern that the growth rate of the economy might slow later this year and in 1978.

Such speculation prompted selling Wednesday in such cyclical industry groups as the paper, steel and auto stocks.

British Petroleum topped the active list, unchanged at 16½. A 100,000-share block traded at that price.

Sears Roebuck, which posted a 14.3 per cent sales gain for June, picked up ¾ to 58.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .01 at 54.66.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .07 to 119.94.

Beach Proved Top Attraction

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The official figures are in on San Diego's biggest attraction over the Fourth of July.

The zoo was visited by 14,394 persons, Sea World marine park by 16,229 and Black's Beach by 25,000.

The beach is "clothing optional."

Lawmakers Go Too Far

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York legislature has passed a bill requiring that leases and contracts "for personal, family or household purposes" be written in non-technical language and in a clear and coherent manner using words with common and everyday meanings.

However, the lawmakers couldn't leave well enough alone.

"Any creditor, seller or lessor who fails to comply with the foregoing provisions of this subdivision shall be liable to a consumer who is a party to a written agreement governed by the provisions thereof in an amount equal to the sum of any actual damages sustained plus fifty dollars," they wrote.

And if the governor signs the bill, "This act shall take effect on the first day of June in the next year succeeding the year in which it shall have become a law."

In words with common and everyday meanings, that's June 1, 1978.

ECU administrators refused to comment today on regulations released Tuesday by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare aimed at increasing black enrollment at North Carolina's universities. Chancellor Leo Jenkins was unavailable for comment.

Dr. John Horne, admissions officer, said "we don't know enough yet about the ruling. It is against the state and not ECU in particular."

Vice-Chancellor Robert Holt said he had not seen an official copy of the statement and, therefore, did not feel qualified to comment.

The regulations give North Carolina, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Oklahoma, and Virginia 60 days to put the HEW plan into effect.

The regulations were ordered by U.S. Dist. Judge John H. Pratt in April after Pratt said earlier guidelines were not effective.

TRIKE RACE WINNER

Christa Jones won the tricycle race Monday in the Greenville Fourth of July Celebration.

Under the HEW ruling, North Carolina's system has a goal to attract an additional 240 black students to the predominantly white universities and community colleges each year for the next five years for a total of 1,250 blacks.

HEW said the regulations were not set as quotas but goals which need not result in lower academic standards.

Under the ruling, the state must:

— Specify ways to strengthen the role of traditionally black institutions.

— Give top priority to traditionally black schools when deciding where to put new programs.

— Refuse any change that would tend to thwart the desegregation goals and submit any proposed changes to HEW for approval at least 90 days before they would take effect.

— Take steps to abolish useless duplication among traditionally white and black institutions in the same service zone.

— Reduce disparity between the proportion of blacks and whites completing two-year, four-year and graduate programs.

— Hire more black professors.

In Memory of Randolph Radford

Our many thanks go to all our friends and loved ones who were so kind and helpful during our tragedy. Words cannot express our feelings that come from deep within our hearts.

A special thank you to the members of the Evangelistic Tabernacle and a special prayer for Pastor Preston Heath who spoke at the funeral. May God Bless each and everyone.

With love,
The Radford Family

North Carolina Outlasts Pirates, 13-12

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

North Carolina blew a ten-run lead against East Carolina last night, then finally pulled out a 13-12 win in the tenth inning in the North Carolina Summer Collegiate League.

The Tar Heels had rushed out to a 12-2 lead after four innings, but the Pirates chipped away at it, scoring four in the seventh and four in the eighth to go with single runs in the sixth and ninth frames.

But despite having the go-ahead run on base for three straight innings, the Pirates could not push that run across.

East Carolina banged out 16 hits in the game, while Carolina picked up 13. The Tar Heels used six pitchers, and finally had to go to the top of their staff to pull out the victory. Robersonville native Matt Wilson started the game, and was doing an outstanding job when he was pulled at the start of the seventh frame.

After that, the Pirates quickly got things going, and in the eighth, the Tar Heels went to their number two man, Blaine Smith. He was relieved in the tenth by the Heels' ace, Greg Norris, who was credited with a save in the game. Smith, now 5-0, got the win.

Billy Davis started for the Pirates, was replaced by Marty Varner and Brad Price, who saw only brief duty. Billy Williamson came in to stop the flood in the fourth, and he went through the next five innings with little damage. At one point, he retired 12 straight batters.

But the Heels got to him for three hits in the tenth, and that meant the difference. East Carolina started the scoring in the second inning with two runs, one off a double by Robert Brinkley and the other on Jim Gibson's single.

The loss dropped the Pirates to a 9-5 record, while Carolina climbed to 15-2.

East Carolina travels to Louisville tonight, then will be back home on Friday and Saturday. The Bucs face Campbell on Friday night and North Carolina is back here on Saturday.

College View Gains Semifinals; NCNB, Carolina Dairy Get Wins

College View, which tied for the regular season championship but lost the title in a playoff, moved into the semifinals of the Babe Ruth League's post-season tournament last night.

College View downed Home Builders, 6-4, to gain the semis, against Pepsi-Cola. That will be played tonight at 7 p.m.

In the other games, NCNB eliminated Planters Bank, 11-5, while Carolina Dairy ousted Home Builders, 12-6.

Carolina Dairy meets NCNB, the regular season winner, at 5 p.m., with the winner taking on the loser of the Pepsi-College View game at nine for the right to enter the finals.

In the first game, College View pushed over four runs in the first inning. Lindsay Winstead singled and stole up, Ricky West also singled and stole second. Kenny Barnes reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Winstead. Steve Hawkins then doubled to score both West and Barnes. A hit by Mark Jones and an error on Arthur Fletcher's ball let Hawkins score.

It stayed that way until the fifth, when Home Builders scored a run. Bobby Hopkins singled and took second on a passed ball. Darryl Allen singled and a hit by Chris Ross scored Hopkins.

In the sixth, Home Builders tied it up with three more. Barry Tyson was hit by a pitch and Jeff Worthington reached on an error. Mickey McGrath singled to load the bases. Gavin Ray singled in two runs, and Allen got a hit to score the other.

College View pushed over two more in the seventh to win it. Jimmie Byrd walked and moved to third on a wild pitch and a passed ball. He scored on Winstead's single. After Winstead was thrown out stealing, West singled and an error moved him to third. He scored when Barnes reached on an error.

In the second game, Planters took an early lead with two in the first. Jamie Adams walked and stole up. He scored on a hit by Micah Dixon, who also stole second. George Wilkerson reached on an error, scoring Dixon.

NCNB took the lead with three in the bottom of the first. Mark Shank walked and Glenn Moore reached on an error. Mike Campbell also walked and Will Barrett reached on an error, scoring two runs. Campbell scored on a sacrifice fly by Skip Topping, for a 3-2 lead.

Planters came back to take a 4-3 lead with two in the top of the third, but NCNB put it out of reach with five in the bottom of the third. Moore singled and Barrett got a hit. Topping singled in Moore and Barrett scored on Mike Mills' ground out. Mark Sasser singled in Topping, and Jeff Wilson walked. Steve Hall also walked, loading the bases. Shank singled, scoring Sasser, and a walk to Moore brought in Wilson.

NCNB added two in the fifth and one in the sixth, while Planters got one more in the fifth. In the final game, Home Builders took a brief lead with two in the second. McGrath reached on an error, as did Hopkins. Shelton Wilson singled in McGrath, and Hopkins stole home.

Carolina Dairy came back to score five in the third. Tom Brown walked and Skip Hill singled. Peter Pace singled in Brown, and David Carroll reached on a fielder's choice. Lenn Jackson reached on an error that scored all three base runners. Jackson then scored when Kelly Kee reached on an error.

Carolina Dairy got two more in the fifth. George Wilson reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Jackson's double. Kee also doubled, scoring Jackson.

The Dairy men added four more in the sixth and one in the seventh. Home Builders got four more in the seventh.

Cox Realty In Prep Finals

Cox Realty squeezed out a 4-2 victory over the Graniteers to remain the only unbeaten team in the Prep League baseball tournament last night. In the other tournament game last night, Pitt Plaza eliminated Auto Specialty with a 10-6 victory.

The Graniteers and Pitt Plaza will meet tonight for the right to play Cox for the championship in the double elimination tournament. The Graniteers and Pitt Plaza each have one loss.

Auto Specialty rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh in last night's first contest, but came up short as Pitt Plaza took a 10-6 win.

Pitt Plaza scored all of its runs in the first four innings, while Auto Specialty got three in the third and three in the seventh.

Leadoff batter Gordon Douglas gave Pitt Plaza the lead in the first. He reached on an error, stole second and came home on Chris Smith's single.

With two away in the second, Raynor Casey walked and went to third when Carl Woodworth reached on an error. Douglas singled in Casey and, after Billy Brannigan walked, Woodworth came in when Smith got a two-base error.

Douglas also scored on the error and Billy Brannigan came in on a wild pitch.

Plaza added four more runs on the top of the third for a 9-0 lead. Scott Wilson got on by an error and Chuck Allen walked. Woodworth singled Wilson home and he and Allen scored on a two-base error which put Brannigan on. Brannigan scored on a pair of passed balls.

In the second game, Cox broke a 1-1 first-inning tie with a pair of runs in the second and, after the Graniteers scored one in the third, added the final run in the top of the seventh for a 4-2 win.

Four straight singles in the first allowed Cox to get its first run. Mitchell Brann started things off with a base hit and Billy Kittrell singled. Brann was thrown out going to third, but singles by Tony Ellis and Emmett Walsh scored Kittrell.

Crowell Pope led off the bottom of the frame with a base hit for the Graniteers and he stole second. An error moved him to third and came home when Ricky Owens hit a sacrifice.

In the second, David Sneed led off with a walk for Cox and Bubba Briley singled him to second. He went to third on a passed ball and scored when Paul McMillian got a base hit. Briley was thrown out, but McMillian scored on an error.

Pope got the Graniteers' second run in the third. He walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Roger Moore's base hit.

In the seventh, Michael Tucker reached on an error and Bill Coffman was safe on a sacrifice which was erred. Tucker was thrown out on McMillian's fielder's choice, but Coffman came in when walks were delivered to Brann and Kittrell.

Baird Takes Another Shot

Hal Baird, assistant baseball coach at East Carolina University, is getting another shot at the big time.

Baird, who played for the Kansas City Royals organization for six years before calling it quits, has returned to the club's Omaha team, reporting today. The purpose of his return is to give the Los Angeles Dodgers, interested in buying his contract, a look at his pitching abilities.

"I'm going to Omaha to get back in shape and be looked over by the Los Angeles people," Baird said. "They expressed an interest in me and Kansas City says something could possibly be worked out with the Dodgers. So I thought I would give it a try and see what happens."

Baird has indicated that only if he gets a contract for the major leagues will he be interested in staying. "After the tryout, I'll return to East Carolina in the fall," he said.

During the regular season, Baird was pitching coach under head coach Monte Little. During the summer, Baird was serving as head coach of the Pirates in the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League.

Assistant Coaches Tony Guzzo and Gary Overton will assume the summer league coaching responsibilities for the rest of the season.

West, assigned to the 3-A American Association, was called up during June to substitute for an injured umpire, and yesterday was notified to report again for a second substitution.

He is to be in New York Friday, for a period of ten days to two weeks.

The call-up is the third trip to the majors for West, who served a week at the close of the season last year, in addition to his June trip.

The call-ups seem to make it certain that West will be the next major league replacement when a full vacancy occurs.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. West Jr. of Greenville, a graduate of Rose High School, and of Elon College.

Styons Moves Past Gates

Raymie Styons and Eddie Gates of East Carolina University switched places this week atop the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League batting statistics.

Gates, the leader last week, fell to second place with a .426 mark, while Styons moved from second to first with a .429 mark. In general, hitters took a beating during the past week, and overall league averages declined. Only Jim Atkinson of North Carolina joins Gates and Styons as a .400 hitter. He has a .422 average.

Next best is Campbell's Dave Terrell with a .373 mark, closely followed by Steve Beach of North Carolina at .372.

Overall, East Carolina continues to lead the team hitting with a fine .317 mark. North Carolina is second at .297.

The Tar Heels appear to be running away with the league title, however, as they have boosted their record to 14-2 through the end of the first month of the season. Louisville holds a slim edge over East Carolina for second place. The Hurricanes are 12-5 and the Pirates, 9-4.

Bobby Supel of East Carolina leads the league in runs batted in and in triples with 19 and 4, respectively. Louisville's Nick Dunn is the top doubles producer with eight, while Atkinson leads the league in homers with four. Gates moved back into the lead in stolen bases with 13.

Lynn Bradley of Louisville heads the pitchers with a 1.28 earned run average, just ahead of Carolina's Greg Norris at 1.88.

East Carolina's Mickey Britt is the top strikeout artist with 44, and also has the most wins, five.

Three more recruits have been added to the baseball signees of Coach Monte Little at East Carolina University. Two of them come from the junior college ranks and the other is an incoming freshman.

Max Raynor and Bill Lucas, both from Louisburg College, and Rick Ramey of Martinsville, Va., have all signed to play with East Carolina during the coming season.

Raynor, a 6-0, 183-pounder is an outfielder who led a .340 average. He is batting around .400 for the Louisburg summer league team. He throws and bats lefthanded.

Lucas was the top pitcher for Louisburg, which finished fifth in the National Junior College Tournament this year. The left-handed compiled a 10-1 mark over the year, with his only loss coming in the national tournament. He has a good fastball and change-up, but needs a little more consistency on his curve according to Little. However, Little feels Lucas can be a starter right away for the Pirates.

Ramey is a righthander whom Little compares to this year's star hurler, Mickey Britt. "Rick

Women's Track Signs Pair

Two women have signed grants-in-aid with East Carolina University, women's track coach Laurie Arrants has announced.

The two are Maria Gudjohnsen and Elaine Davis.

Gudjohnsen, a native of Lindenwood, N.J., is an all-around athlete who excels in several track events. She has long-jumped 18-10, run the 100-yard high hurdles in 13.2 and high jumped 5-3. She also runs on relays. A native of Iceland, Gudjohnsen has been in the United States for three years. She is a member of the Icelandic National Team and has performed in international competition. She has aspirations of making the Icelandic Olympic team in 1980.

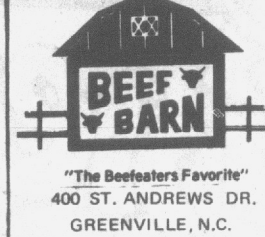

"Maria is the kind of girl we look for," Arrants said. "She's interested in getting her education as well as participating in athletics. She is a well-rounded person who knows the meaning of work. She'll help us a lot in the long jump and hurdles."

Davis, a native of Jacksonville, will throw the shot and discus for the Lady Pirates. She has bests of 41 feet in the shot and 109 feet in the discus.

"Elaine will work with Debbie Freeman," Arrants said. "Debbie has had a lot of responsibility on her shoulders to score points in the weight events, but Elaine should help her out there."

The Big Eight Conference was the number one league in the NFL 1977 draft of college players. It contributed 41 players.

Cincinnati Takes 15-13 Victory Over Atlanta; Dodgers Defeated

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The climate at Atlanta Stadium was humid, but it was hotter for the pitchers than it was for the hitters. And that's nothing new.

"It's pitiful," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, talking about one of the best hitting parks in the major leagues. "It's strictly a launching pad and nothing else. It's tough on the pitching, tough on the manager and tough on everybody."

Line drives ricocheted around Atlanta Stadium with their accustomed ferocity Wednesday night. And after it stopped raining baseballs, the Reds had a football-sized 15-13 decision over the Atlanta Braves.

In other National League games, the Pittsburgh Pirates outscored the St. Louis Cardinals 11-8; the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the New York Mets 5-3; the Chicago Cubs defeated the Montreal Expos 8-6; the Houston Astros nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 in 14 innings and the San Diego Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 7-5 in 12.

George Foster broke a tie with a two-run single in the eighth inning and Dave Concepcion followed with a grand slam home run to secure Cincinnati's victory.

Pete Rose had four hits, including a homer, and drove in four runs as the Reds assaulted six Atlanta pitchers for 15 hits. Johnny Bench and Ken Griffey also homered, giving the Reds 10 home runs in the three-game series.

Pirates 11, Cardinals 8

Fernando Gonzalez' three-run homer off Al Hrabosky in the seventh led Pittsburgh over St. Louis. Gonzalez' homer came after the Cardinals had taken an 8-6 lead with seven runs in their half of the inning. The St. Louis burst was capped by Ted Simmons' three-run homer off Pittsburgh relief star Rich Gossage.

Phillies 5, Mets 3

Jerry Martin's bases-loaded single and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Tim McCarver produced three sixth-inning runs, enabling Philadelphia to beat New York.

Philadelphia trailed 3-1 New York's Jon Matlack, 3-10, starting the sixth. Then they rallied to beat Matlack for the ninth straight time since he last defeated them June 27, 1975.

Cubs 8, Expos 6

Greg Gross socked his first major league homer, a three-run shot in the sixth inning, to lift Chicago over Montreal. The homer came off Don Stanhouse, 5-8, whose grand-slam homer in the second had given the Expos a 5-1 lead.

Astros 2, Dodgers 1

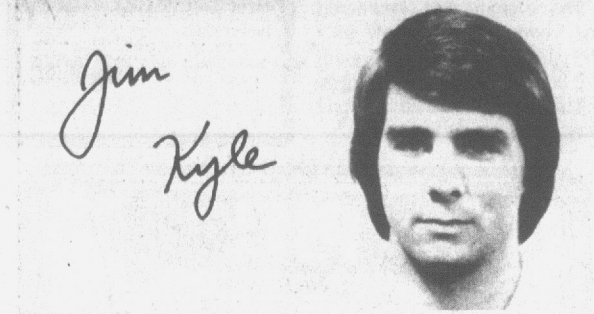

Jose Cruz' seventh home run of the season, in the 14th inning, led Houston over Los Angeles. Cruz connected off Dodger reliever Mike Garman, 4-1, breaking up the pitching duel that featured 24 strikeouts.

Both Rick Rhoden of the Dodgers and J.R. Richard of the Astros pitched 10 strong innings. Bo McLaughlin, 2-3, worked the final two innings for Houston, and got the victory.

Padres 7, Giants 5

San Diego turned three San Francisco errors into three unearned runs in the 12th inning, capping the game-winning rally with Dave Kingman's run-scoring single.

Dan Spillner, 4-0, was the winner in relief as the Giants equaled their longest losing streak in San Francisco history, eight in a row.

THE LATEST chapter in the Al Hunter-Notre Dame saga is currently being written and it may very possibly be the last. Hunter, who loses his college eligibility after this season, has been suspended from the school for a second time.

The 5-11 195 former Rose High star running back was put on suspension for the fall semester for violating the school's dormitory visitation policy, according to Jay Kane, assistant director of information services at Notre Dame.

Kane said it was the same type of violation for which Hunter was suspended in 1975. He sat out a year following that suspension.

Hunter was expected to be one of the keys to the Irish offense this year and, before his suspension, many picked Notre Dame to be the top college football team in the nation this season.

As a junior last year, Hunter set a new ND rushing record, becoming the first running back in Irish history to rush for over 1,000 yards. He piled up 1,058 yards last year with an average of 4.5 yards per carry. In addition, he caught 15 passes for a 12.6-yard average. Hunter scored 13 touchdowns, 12 on the ground.

PROBABLY MOST remembered by Notre Dame fans for his 93-ayrd kickoff return in the 1973 Sugar Bowl against Alabama, Hunter was Most Valuable Player in the Gator Bowl last year and an honorable mention All-American by the Associated Press and The Sporting News.

Although a review board made up of students and faculty ruled in Hunter's favor after the alleged violation, that decision was reversed by the Dean of Students at Notre Dame following the admission of new evidence and the reversal was upheld by the college president, Father Theodore Hesburgh, according to Kane.

Hunter has said he wants to fight the decision and has reportedly been getting legal advice. He is expected to announce this week whether he will take legal action against the school.

Kane, however, said "I don't see where it (the decision against Hunter) could be reversed on the university level," and added, "I don't know how he could win it through an attorney since we are a private school."

Kane said it is not uncommon for a player "to exhaust every measure" to win a case against Notre Dame to keep playing for the Irish, but he was doubtful that Hunter has much of a chance of retaining his eligibility.

UCLA Having Troubles

UCLA is having more trouble than expected trying to lure established college basketball coaches to take the place of Gene Bartow, who resigned a few weeks ago.

Tuesday, University of Louisville coach Denny Crum, a former assistant coach at UCLA, said he was turning down an offer to coach at the Los Angeles school. Crum said concern for his family and love for the University of Louisville and its fans motivated him to stay at the school.

Last week, University of North Carolina coach Dean Smith announced he was asking that his name be withdrawn from consideration as a replacement to Bartow.

Bartow's resignation to become athletic director and basketball coach at the University of Alabama at Birmingham came as little surprise to the man he succeeded, John Wooden, who said Bartow was feeling pressure from the press, fans and alumni in the LA area, known for their highly-critical nature.

THE PROBLEM was that Bartow, although highly successful, failed to carry on the tradition of winning national championships that Wooden, who retired in 1975, had started. Wooden's teams won 10 national titles in 12 years.

Now, UCLA is having a hard time finding someone else to jump into the frying pan.

UNC's Dean Smith was one of the first names mentioned by the LA press as a possible successor when Bartow resigned and both Smith and the school admitted having talked.

Although neither party would say whether Smith was offered the post, it is probable that, if he wanted it, he could have gotten it. Last week, however, Smith said he would stay in Chapel Hill, much to the relief of Carolina fans.

Although UCLA athletic director J. D. Morgan did not mention that Crum was offered the job Tuesday, it is likely that he was. But he, also, preferred the security and fan loyalty of his established coaching job to being put in the hot seat at UCLA.

Perhaps the best solution for UCLA is to look to a successful coach at a smaller, less-established school than either UNC or Louisville. In that regard, last year's top coach was UNC-Charlotte's Lee Rose, who guided his 49er team to a national fourth-place finish.

The Bruins apparently are going to have to seek someone who has less to leave than a Dean Smith or Denny Crum.

Winterville Takes Win

WINTERVILLE — Winterville gained an 11-4 victory over Farmville last night in the Senior Babe Ruth League, and Ayden-Grifton celebrated.

The victory left Ayden-Grifton with a 9-1 record and the league championship for the season. Farmville could have tied the Ayden-Grifton team for the title if it had won. Farmville instead, finished with an 8-2 mark, while Winterville ended up with a 6-4 record.

Winterville collected 12 hits during the game, while Farmville had just six. Randy Edens was the winning pitcher for Winterville, picking up his fifth win against no losses.

Curtis Clemons led Winterville at the plate with three hits, two doubles and a triple. Donnie Cox added two, including a homer, while Mike Phillips and Jeff Mills also each had two.

Scott Evans and L. R. Jones each had two for Farmville.

Opportunity In Producing Field

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1966, a former ballroom dancer and ex-secretary named Renee Valente became one of television's few female producers, running a short-lived Burt Reynolds series called "Hawk."

Last month, she began her second year as Columbia Pictures' vice president for TV movies and miniseries, overseeing 14 projects ranging from Carroll O'Connor's remake of "The Last Hurrah" to Frank Sinatra's made-for-TV "Contract on Cherry Street."

And while times are changing and more women are getting a shot at making shows for television, she says, the thought of it still can jar the egos of those who think of producing as for men only.

"A producer I worked with recently said, 'Renee, I love you, I've known you 100 years, but please don't take a credit on this show because it will diminish me,'" she said.

"It took me a back because I never thought of anything in that light and I guess it's because I started in the business of producing long before anybody told me I shouldn't be doing it."

Miss Valente's career as a producer began in the early 1960s, in her native New York, when she went from answering telephones to making dramas at Talent Associates, the production company of David Susskind.

A short, pleasant and frank woman, she joined Columbia's TV division as a producer in 1964, and moved here in 1968 as its head of casting.

Miss V., married to a producer and mother of a teen-ager, says she found no male resistance to her as producer of "Hawk" way back when because the show was made in New York, not Hollywood.

And New York, she says, is where in TV's early days women had the most opportunity to produce live and taped dramas simply because most of the menfolk had moved here to do TV films and series.

"But when tape and live TV went out, then those of us left in TV had no place to turn," she said.

Miss Valente, who thinks TV producing here has been a man's game because men have dominated the business here from the start, nonetheless

Police List 2 Collisions

Samuel Mitchell Purcell III of 1304 Glen Arthur Ave. was charged with following too close after investigation of a 10 a.m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and 14th Street.

Police reported the Purcell car collided with an auto driven by Walter Lee Allen Jr. of 312 Windsor Rd. causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the Allen car and no damage to the Purcell vehicle, investigators said.

No charges were reported following investigation of an 11:42 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets involving cars driven by Linda Long Luethke of 802 River Hills and Bertha O. Tidd of Westville, N.H.

Damage was estimated at $75 to the Luethke car and $350 to the Tidd auto.

The Battle of Trafalgar, fought Oct. 21, 1905, was the biggest naval battle of the Napoleonic Wars.

thinks the domination is slowly diminishing.

"More and more (men) are beginning to find that women do have ability, that we aren't as weak and emotional as we have the image of being," she said. She was asked the big why of the change.

"Well, I've not been a Gloria Steinem fan, ever," she said, referring to a leader in the women's rights movement.

"But I find now I have to be terribly grateful to her for bringing to the fore and making an awareness which was not there before."

Recalls Ocean Fishing Off N.C. Coast Has Changed In 50 Years

CAROLINA BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Ocean fishing off the North Carolina coast has changed a lot in 50 years, and Capt. Carl Winner is the person to tell you about it.

As a teenager in 1927, he took a row boat through the surf to catch bass, flounder, trout and other fish to sell to tourists.

"Sometimes a person or two would ask to go along to have a go at the fishing themselves in return for pulling the anchor, and I'd give them a mesh of fish when we got back to the hill," he says.

Demand grew for a fish service, and soon he began charging $1.50 for the trip.

Outboard motors appeared in the late 1920s, and Winner added one to his vessel.

"That engine inspired me, and I started building another boat—longer and with more beam for stability," he said. "By 1930 I had two or three of those surf boats with outboard motors and business was great."

Soon, a shuttle service between shore and the offshore fishing areas became an additional part of his business, which was booming until the stock market crash of 1929. The trip price was cut to $1.25.

"You could fish from early morning until dark, or you could come ashore. If you didn't have all the fish you wanted, you could get a rain check and next day you could go back out again free," he said.

"We had plenty of tourists in those years starting in 1927. Of course the beach was crowded, and you could hardly find a place out on the strand to stick a beach umbrella in the sand," Winner said.

Competition came into the picture in the form of one Jake Faircloth, who opened for business in 1936.

"We'd drink beer together at night and next morning we'd stand out there on the beach and try to take each other's customers," he said. "Jake and I never had any bad times against each other."

The fishing areas, even the water itself, is different now, 50 years after Winner's first commercial season.

"I don't know how it was in the Gulf Stream in those days, because it wasn't necessary to go that far. There was an abundance of reef fish inshore," he said.

"All this area," he said pointing to the Carolina Beach Yacht Basin, "was beautiful clear sea water with white sandy bottom that was fed for a time by an inlet located about where the present CB pier stands today. The sound was much bigger then. The sound then had many fish and oysters before Snows Cut was dredged."

The captain has weathered the years well, and now uses the electronic method of guiding boats to the offshore ledges. Things have come a long way.

Talent Agency Dropping Anita

MIAMI (AP) — Singer Anita Bryant's talent agency is dropping her because of her battle against homosexuals.

"It's not in keeping with her career or my professional standing," Dick Shack of the Agency for the Performing Arts said Wednesday in reference to a soon-to-be published book by Miss Bryant about the Save Our Children campaign.

Miss Bryant, who does television commercials for Florida orange juice, helped organize the group that waged a successful campaign for repeal of a Dade County law that made it illegal to deny job and housing opportunities to homosexuals.

Shack is the husband of Dade County Commissioner Ruth Shack, who sponsored the law when it was put on the books last January.

VATICAN POST
WASHINGTON (AP) — David Walters, a Miami lawyer, has been selected as the Carter administration's representative to the Vatican, the White House says. Walters will succeed Henry Cabot Lodge.

Opening lead: Jack of ♦.

Every finesse stands a 50 per cent chance of succeeding, but that does not mean that all finesses are equal. Consider this hand.

With such a wealth of prime values, East's hand is really worth more than the 18 high card points it contains. We would have opened one diamond, intending to rebid two no trump at our next turn. However, that would not have affected the final contract.

West led the jack of diamonds, which held, and continued the suit. Declarer correctly decided that his best chance for the contract was to make dummy's master hand. To accomplish that, he would have to set up dummy's spade suit. So declarer ruffed the second diamond and led a spade to the queen. East took the king and forced declarer with another diamond.

Declarer cashed the ace of clubs, discarding dummy's remaining diamond. Now he led the king of hearts. East won the ace to complete the defensive book, and exited with a heart. Declarer won, led a spade to the ace and returned the ten of spades from dummy. East smoothly followed low, and after some soul-searching, South chose to ruff with his last trump. When the jack failed to drop, declarer still had to lose a spade trick for down one.

The bidding virtually marked East with the king of spades. Therefore, when declarer first broached the spade suit, he should have finessed the ten, not the queen. If the jack is with West, the ten would force the king and one ruff would then establish the suit. If East wins the jack, declarer will later be able to take a ruffing finesse for the king of spades, rather than hope for a 3-3 split.

Washington 'Burns' In Continuing Heat Wave

By MICHAEL AARON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington is burning, spelled

H-O-T. Temperatures over 90 on 10 of the past 11 days. Enough humidity to keep mosquitos happy. Enough bad air for a health warning.

On Wednesday, the thermometer hit 100, the first time in eight years. The forecast is for temperatures of near 100 through Monday, with humidity over 70 per cent.

It's enough to make the city's newly opened air-conditioned subway stations a place to rest as well as wait for a ride. The jobs held by subway employees are among the best in town: working in cool concrete caverns underground, explaining the mysteries of the new train system to tourists and commuters alike.

"This heat makes me feel lazy and evil," said one sufferer, Gunther George, a 49-year-old fruit vendor working at his downtown stand on Wednesday.

Washington wasn't alone. Much of the nation was experiencing temperatures in the 90s on Wednesday, and some sections had readings over 100. In Birmingham, Ala. it was 102; in Detroit, 100; Atlanta, 100; Las Vegas, 105; Phoenix, Ariz., 108; Richmond, 105; Omaha, 100; Des Moines, 103; Dallas-Fort Worth, 100.

Electrical use set a record during the day in Washington, a city of great clusters of air-conditioned federal offices.

Highway pavement buckled. And for more than 1 million suburban residents, there wasn't even the retreat of the neighborhood pool to look forward to. A major pumping station was knocked out.

The National Weather Service held little hope that a line of thundershowers moving into the area from Pennsylvania would dislodge the stifling heat.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of computer terminals sit idle, unattended and often unlocked at night in a huge office in suburban Baltimore.

Property of the Social Security Administration, the terminals contain confidential personal information on tens of millions of Americans. Yet they are easy targets for fraud, government auditors say.

"Security procedures and controls ... were not adequate to prevent fraud and abuse or to assure compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974," said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare audit agency report.

For example, the audit found almost half of the 69 terminals in the SSA headquarters were in areas such as large open rooms that could not be locked at night.

The computer's 2,200 terminals all over the country can be locked electronically to prevent unauthorized use. But auditors found 59 of the 69 terminals in the Maryland office were left unlocked overnight at least once in a four-week period.

The computer system contains records on the more than 27 million Americans who receive more than $81 billion annually in Social Security checks and Supplement Security Income payments, including the amount of payments, family income and assets, medical histories and marital status.

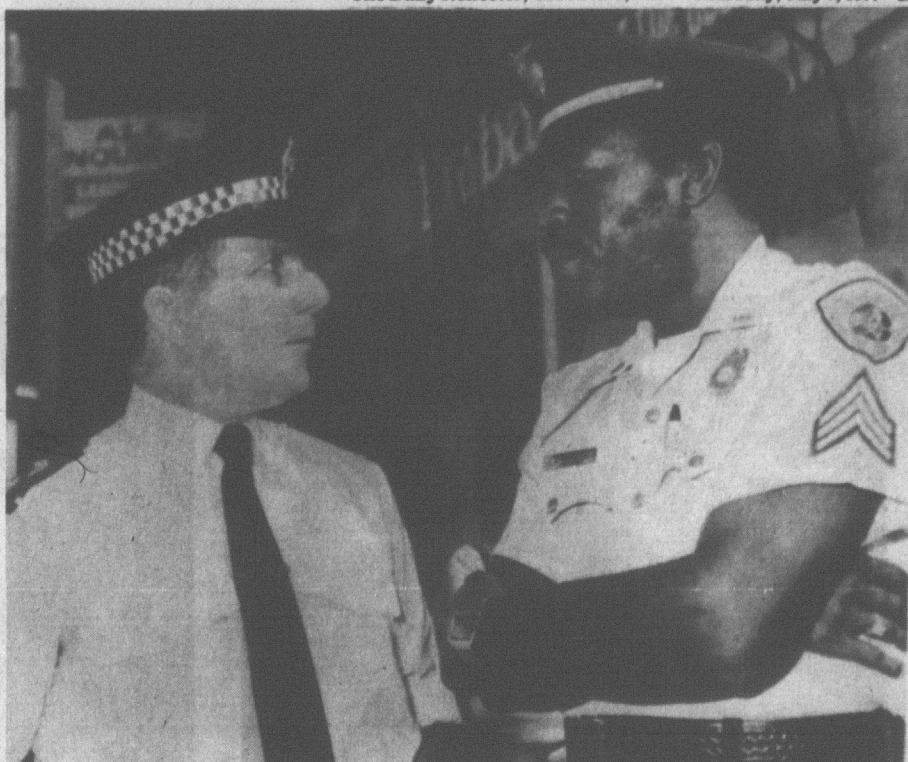

Social Security employees use the computer system to process millions of new claims for benefits received each year. The system maintains records on all current benefit payments under the various Social Security programs, including Medicare and disability payments.

"The weaknesses (in the system) adversely affected the SSA's capability to protect the integrity of its data and prevent a compromise of personal data retained in the program records," the audit said.

There were no cases of frauds or abuse found by the auditors. But they said they didn't look.

"We did not attempt to determine whether the system has been misused, but, rather, whether the potential for misuse existed," they said.

The report on the audit, conducted last year, gave a laundry list of the problems with the system, including lack of

Scholar Found Fame In Fiction

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — For most of the past 25 years, writer Robert S. Elegant has been reporting on modern-day China.

In innumerable newspaper and magazine articles and five scholarly nonfiction books, Elegant produced factual accounts of contemporary China — or what he believed were the facts.

Although some of his reporting commanded public attention, real fame and fortune eluded him.

So much for the facts, and the scholarly tomes. Elegant switched to fiction. And now, after 25 years of deep thinking, a major effort in fiction is bringing him riches and renown he can scarcely believe himself.

Three months before publication in America, Elegant's new novel, "Dynasty," had earned nearly half a million dollars, his literary agent said.

His publishers, McGraw-Hill, report advance sales in the United States of 30,000 copies and confidently predict 50,000 by publication date in late August.

Of the earnings to date, $250,000 was paid by Fawcett publishing house for the paperback rights. The book of the Month Club in the United States has chosen "Dynasty" as its "featured alternate" selection for August.

Outside the United States, rights to "Dynasty" have been bought by the book publishing houses of Collins in Britain, Rowohlt in West Germany and Laffont in France, and negotiations are under way for sales in other countries.

Elegant claims it is "almost certain to become a major film."

"Dynasty" is a story of five generations of the Sekloong family, a fabulously wealthy and powerful Eurasian family in Hong Kong.

It is also a story of 70 years of the upheavals in China, from 1900 to 1970, and of the relation of China to the outside world.

WARNING — Richard L. O'Shields, chairman of the Interstate Natural Gas Association of America, said Wednesday that less natural gas will be available this winter than was available last winter. But he said if the coming winter is mild, the nation will not undergo severe shortages. (AP Wirephoto)

REPAIRING THE LEAK — Workmen repair a cracked elbow joint which forced a shutdown of the Trans-Alaska oil pipeline Monday evening. FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1977

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have many good ideas for getting ahead, so use to fullest possible advantage. Some unexpected problems can be avoided in the late afternoon and evening by being alert.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact money expert who can be of assistance to you in monetary matters. Make long-range plans for the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Home affairs will need your attention at this time. Stick to the proven so that you maintain present security.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good friend has a fine idea for your advancement, so listen carefully. Personal wishes are not as important as you think.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be careful where a credit matter is concerned or your good reputation could be harmed. Do nothing drastic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Strive for a better understanding with one whose background is different from yours. Be careful of outsiders.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Buckle down to important duties that must be handled. Don't permit interruptions interfere with your plans to get ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An associate can do you a big favor but be sure you do what is expected of you. Steer clear of one who opposes you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study how to cooperate more with your associates so that production can be improved. Come to a better understanding with relatives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Carry through with creative plans that are important to your future. Try not to argue with mate. Be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to establish more harmony at home. Not a good day to get started on a new project. Relax at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have clever ideas for speeding up production in career matters. Try to cut down on expenses instead of adding to them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You know exactly what should be done where a financial matter is concerned, so use good judgment instead of relying on your intuition.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she should be given an opportunity to work both with the mind and the body so there can be perfect balance throughout lifetime. There is a born pioneer in his chart so be sure to permit to travel early in life.

We can't buy tourist seats on space flights—yet. But space-inspired flights of the imagination are a fine alternative way to explore the universe free of the problems scientists haven't figured a way around—yet. The flights of fancy, some wholly imaginary, some more realistic, reproduced on this page are works from an exhibition, "Space Art from the U.S.S.R.," now circulating in this country under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service as part of a program of cultural exchange. The artists are members of the Union of Artists of the U.S.S.R., and among them is Cosmonaut Aleksey Leonov, who served as commander during the Soyuz-Apollo docking mission. The exhibition has already been seen at the National Air and Space Museum in Washington and at the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium in New York. It will be touring the country until at least the end of 1978 and on its itinerary are Dayton, Ohio, Jacksonville, Fla., Boulder, Colo., Topeka, Kan., Huntsville, Ala., Parkersburg, W. Va., Louisville, Ky., Reno, Nev., Hastings, Neb., and Montgomery, Ala.

Ride-Along With Police

PITTSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Police work in this Chatham County town needed a pickup, so Chief Gary Lushis started a ride-along program for citizens. Other towns have such programs to give laymen a first hand view of police work, but not many officers would admit, like Lushis, that the programs were begun to make their own work more interesting.

The response hasn't been overwhelming, but the chief is optimistic.

Weekends are the best for ride-alongs, as they are called. Last weekend, Officer Ray Goodwin pulled into a grocery parking lot, next to Lushis.

"Where is everybody?" Goodwin asks. "They must all be at the beach. I've seen more people at the funeral home at midnight than I've seen tonight."

Already that night, Goodwin has checked locks on downtown stores and checked out broken windows at a school.

"If I ever need to know something I just go up to one of these little kids and ask him. It might just cost me an ice cream cone where it will cost someone else $10 or $15. Any policeman who doesn't have some spare change in his pocket to buy a little kid an ice cream cone, well..." he trails off disapprovingly.

The officer leaves the grocery store, cruises past a softball game, residential areas and back to the grocery store. He repeats the procedure for eight hours.

And then, it's the end of the day in the life of a Pittsboro policeman.

Try Advertising

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Liquor control authorities here say illegal whisky-making has decreased to the point that they have nothing to do. So they've enlisted help in discovering pot patches.

A small ad was paid for in the local newspapers this week to kick off the new line of work. "Reward...For Illegal Stills, Pot Fields or Pot Patches," the ad states, offering $10 to $200, depending on the size of the marijuana crop.

"We're concentrating on drugs in order for us to have something to do," said Maurice Peacock, general manager of the Wake County Board of Alcoholism Control. "We haven't found but one still in three or four years. We just didn't have enough to do."

ABC officers recently destroyed a four-acre crop of marijuana just outside Raleigh. A sheriff's spokesman said an informant was paid $300 for that, one of the largest marijuana fields in the state.

"I thought this was the cheapest way to do it. It's more or less been kept a secret between informants and law enforcement officers that you pay for information," Peacock said. "I didn't see any point in having secrecy about paying. Of course we can't break a secret about an informant or he might get killed."

Detroit Strike Now Settled

DETROIT (AP) — City employees, whose surprise strike left Detroiters without bus service or garbage pickup, were called back to their jobs today after a tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

The settlement, reached shortly after 2 a.m., was unanimously endorsed by representatives of 19 locals of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents some 8,000 city workers.

Lloyd Simpson, director of AFSCME Council 77, called the pact "fair to both city employees and Detroit's taxpayers." Simpson said the agreement retained cost of living increases, health coverage and sick leave provisions from the previous contract, which expired last week. A contract extension expired at midnight Tuesday, prompting the Wednesday morning walkout. Details on wages and other provisions were not immediately released.

The one-day strike involved more employees than any in Detroit's history, and affected about 1.3 million residents of the nation's sixth-largest city.

Report Groucho Getting Better

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Groucho Marx is in fair condition and "gradually getting better" in his bout with lung congestion, according to a Cedars-Sinai Medical Center spokesman.

Marx, 86, was readmitted to the hospital about two weeks ago for treatment of pneumonia, a form of pneumonia. He had been discharged following hip surgery previously.

Marx's doctors have not decided when he would be released from the hospital this time.

The walkout, along with the observance of picket lines by nonstriking employees, forced the shutdown of the Detroit Zoo and the Institute of Arts. It also closed 21 public swimming pools on the hottest day of the summer, with the temperature at 100 degrees.

Police officers, firefighters and teachers, all covered under separate contracts, were not involved in the strike.

Uniformed officers worked 12-hour shifts to fill in for 77 striking civilian operators of the city's emergency telephone service.

Contract talks reportedly had bogged down over the city's desire to cut back on hospitalization benefits and the union's wish to retain the cost of living allowance.

Average pay for city AFSCME workers under the previous contract was $6.93 an hour. The city had offered a proposal to raise the wage 87 cents over three years. The union countered with a proposal that would boost pay an average $1.68 over three years if the contract is renewed for another 18 months after expiration.

Moderate Moluccan Today Caught In The Middle

By BARRY JAMES
 CAPELLE, The Netherlands (UPI) — Otto Matulesy received a death threat recently for being too moderate in the South Moluccan independence cause.

He says he feels just as passionately about the cause as the gunmen who seized a train and a school for 19 days in northern Holland. But he adds waging war on the Dutch is no way to go about achieving the Moluccan dream.

Although Matulesy never has been to the South Moluccas, he said he feels instinctively that "home" is there — and not here in the comfortable two-story house the government provides for his family.

"Life is good here," he said in an interview. "But I want to be free in my own land."

Matulesy, 27, a student pastor who is spokesman for the Organization of Free Moluccan Youth, was one of five moderate leaders warned they would be killed if they tried to mediate in the twin seizures.

The threat came from the breakaway Assen branch of the organization, which backed the gunmen. Johan Manusama, president of the phantom "South Moluccan Republic," who also lives in an apartment in Capelle, received a similar threat.

Expressing what he said was the view of most Moluccans, Matulesy decried the terrorism for two reasons:

— "We are being torn apart between those who favor and those who oppose violence. We cannot afford splits."

— "The violence is discrediting us in the eyes of the world. People think of South Moluccan and terrorist in the same breath, and this does us an injustice."

Matulesy's father came here in 1950 with the remnants of the Moluccan contingent in the Royal Netherlands Indies Army. He took part in Holland's rearguard fight against Indonesian nationalists. So when Indonesia triumphed and took over the Moluccas in 1949, soldier Matulesy and others like him had little choice but to come to the Netherlands.

The Moluccan community in this country has grown from 12,500 then to about 37,000 now.

Matulesy's family is typical of many in the Moluccan community here. The house is spotlessly clean, full of potted plants and porcelain ornaments just like most Dutch houses. Parental control is strict. The family stays close to the Reformed Church, and retains loyalty to Queen Juliana.

The senior Matulesy passed the dream of returning to an independent Moluccan homeland to his son and his son said he will pass the dream on to his children. And meanwhile, the fanatics are likely to continue with acts of terrorism in support of that same dream.

"I have never seen my country," the younger Matulesy said. "I was born on the island of Java and came to the Netherlands as a baby. But I feel the link. You can't explain it."

Matulesy talks Dutch like a Dutchman. He thinks like a Dutchman. Could he give up his high standard of living here to join an Asian subsistence economy where it is not certain he would be welcome?

"I can only say that those of us who have been to the South Moluccas have felt very much at home there," he said. "Every people has the right to self-determination."

"I went to Dutch schools and I had it drummed into me that the Netherlands fought for 80 years for independence from Spain. Why should they be surprised that we continue to dream of The Moluccan Islands?"

Matulesy spoke of discrimination, but added he has never had any problems himself with his white neighbors. "Some of my best friends are Dutch," he said.

But with feelings running high over the train and school sieges, Matulesy said he doubts the peace can last. Anxious about reprisals, local youths with masks and cudgels formed a defense squad and set up barricades. But the threat never materialized, and the vigilantes disappeared. A white man can walk into and around the Moluccan district here without hindrance.

"If the Dutch had seized a school full of Moluccan children our reaction would have been far less tolerant," Matulesy conceded.

Capelle, which is where the South Moluccan "republic" has its headquarters, is one of 70 districts where the government has housed Moluccans in an attempt to assimilate them into society.

"This is the root of our problem," Matulesy said. "The Dutch want to turn us into Dutchmen. But we do not want to lose our identity."

Four-fifths of the South Moluccans are stateless. They have all the rights and obligations of the Dutch except military service and the vote.

Matulesy said the terrorist acts in the north came at a time when relations between the Dutch government and the Moluccans were improving.

"Last year, we set up a mixed commission to examine our political demands, which was an admission by the Dutch that our problem is indeed political and not just social," he said.

Speaking for the moderates, Matulesy said: "We don't want the Dutch to go to war with Indonesia on our behalf. We want understanding. We want the Dutch government to support us in the United Nations and before the other governments with which it has relations."

The Moluccan exiles consider Indonesia to be a colonial power, just like the Dutch, the British and the Portuguese before.

"This is why we find it so hard to make people understand our cause," Matulesy said. "Europeans think only of whites colonizing blacks. It never occurs to them that brown people can colonize brown people."

"The Dutch support every good cause in sight — Basques, Czech dissidents, you name it. Why can't they support us, too?"

Differences In Language

ATLANTA (AP) — An American should not be upset when his British visitor asks him to "pass the joint."

The Briton is only asking for the roast, according to a brief translation dictionary given to Atlantans who are hosting 380 Newcastle residents as part of President Carter's "Friendship Force."

Although Americans believe they speak English, the dictionary, which also was distributed to the British visitors, makes it clear that the language has differences.

For example, an Englishman who invites his host to "knock up" is only suggesting a tennis match.

Geordies — the British name for Newcastle residents — find zebra crossings elsewhere than in the jungle. Zebra crossing is the English name for marked street crossings.

The handbook clearly explains that the British frequent the baths — swimming pools — in large crowds, while one who decided to drop in on an Atlanta "bathhouse" stands the risk of being arrested, or at least embarrassed.

And at the table, American chips are British crisps, while British chips are American french fries.

Dance Classes In Clerk's Office

SEATTLE (AP) — At 4:30 p.m. each day the large glass doors of the King County Superior Court clerk's office are locked shut.

Take a peek inside a few minutes later on Thursdays, however, and you'll see about a dozen of the female employees tapping their toes and clicking their heels, led by a 55-year-old executive secretary.

Ellen Matson said she started tap-dancing lessons because "these girls need the exercise."

Her students are aged 23 to 60. None of the male workers has been invited to the informal classes, and none has asked to join.

Ms. Matson says she plans to continue the lessons "long enough to put on some kind of a review. We thought we'd call ourselves the 'Judicial Dancers.'"

Artist Erte A Phonetic Trick

NEW YORK (AP) — What's in a name? In the case of Erte, the world-celebrated artist, theatrical designer and lithographer, it is phonetics a la française.

Born Romain de Tiroff, the son of a pre-World War I Russian admiral, he emigrated to Paris in 1912 and made France his adopted country. When he started to paint, he took the name of Erte, derived from the pronunciation of the letters "R" and "T", his initials, in the French alphabet.

On the occasion of his recent 85th birthday, Circle Gallery issued a series of 26 original Erte lithographs-serigraphs called The Alphabet. The series expresses each letter of the alphabet in human form, with sleek, sinuous women being far in the majority.

Edvard Munch Works Acquired

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Graphic Arts Gallery of the Virginia Museum recently acquired eight lithographs and color woodcuts by the Norwegian artist Edvard Munch, on long-term loan from the Norwegian Embassy in Washington. Munch (1863-1944), described as "perhaps the most important Norwegian artist ever," was one of the leaders of the Expressionist Movement.
