Jobless Rate Moves Up; Wholesale Prices Down

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices fell six-tenths of one percent in June, the biggest drop in nearly four years, the government reported today. But the good news was offset by a rise in the unemployment rate from 6.9 per cent to 7.1 per cent.

pressures at the wholesale level. Wholesale prices generally presage prices consumers pay and the effects of last month's decline could first show up at supermarket counters following several months of rapidly rising food prices.

million. Most of the increased occurred among adult women, whose jobless rate rose from 6.6 per cent to 7.2 per cent.

The unemployment rate could be a disturbing sign for the long run. The number of the discouraged workers — those who dropped out of the labor force in the belief that they could not find jobs — rose an average of 130,000 in the second quarter to a total of nearly 1.1 million.

when prices fell 1.6 per cent. It followed 10 months of increases since last August, including jumps of 1.1 per cent in both March and April and a four-tenths per cent rise in May.

Parking Lot Greenery Is Adopted By City Council

TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
After months of study and consideration by both the Planning and Zoning Commission and City Council, an ordinance amending the City Code has been adopted which adds a section on "Required Vegetation and Traffic Control" in parking areas.

"(1) curbs or elevated wheel stops shall be provided at every second parking bay or every fourth row of parking stalls and shall extend longitudinally the length or depth of the bay or stall. The wheel stop shall be at least four inches in height with an average minimum depth of six inches and six feet in length and anchored in place. Each curb or elevated wheel stop separating one row of parking stalls from another shall be separated by a distance of at least five feet:

parking stalls and driving aisles, size and location of the vegetated buffers, islands and/or areas, type and location of plant material and permanent maintenance provisions shall be submitted to the City Arborist to insure conformance with the city's Arboricultural Specifications and Standards of Practice. The City Arborist shall forward his plan review comments to the Building Inspector prior to the issuance of a building or any other construction permit."

hearings by the planning board and Council. The Planning and Zoning Commission recommended several months ago that an initial ordinance, which did not meet the approval of the board members, not be adopted. After discussing the matter, the Council recommended the ordinance back to the planning body for further work and the current amendment is the result of that action.

During discussion, Mrs. McGrath contended that the request represented spot zoning and she recalled that the matter was withdrawn from an earlier agenda in order for the Planning and Zoning Commission to conduct a corridor study for the area.

Below Normal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The flow of water in 70 per cent of the nation's rivers and streams was less than normal in June, the U.S. Geological Survey said. But improvement was noted in drought conditions in Oregon and Washington where streamflows averaged up to double normal in June.

Sees No Taiwan Invasion

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A Chinese Communist squadron commander who defected to Taiwan said today he believes the Peking regime lacks the military capability to mount an invasion of Taiwan. He also said followers of the purged "gang of four" still have limited influence in the air force.

Methane Gas Blamed In Coal Mine Tragedy

Designer Says Homes Today Reflect Lifestyle

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Even armed with 28 years of interior design experience acquired in homes, hospitals and offices, Hazel Korper was "taken aback" when she got to Houston and saw that a new kind of grand lifestyle was emerging.

A liaison for Horizon '77, the theme of this year's annual conference of the American Society of Interior Designers, she was planning a Houston house tour for the meeting, July 22 to 25.

"Houses are being designed with things people enjoy, whether it is two swimming pools, a television room with a big screen or a museum. They aren't decorated as status symbols — the things are acquired because they make people personally happy. Color is a personal thing, although there is a trend to subtlety," she said.

"Some ceilings in new homes are 14 feet tall with wood doors that go right to the ceiling. Houses are electrified for sound and buttons are pushed to make all kinds of things happen. In one home three rooms are used to display a very large collection of oriental art. In another home a second pool off a master bedroom was built into an outside enclosure."

A contrast was a charming home that was furnished with inherited antiques from Oklahoma's pioneer days, done with magnificent pastel backgrounds. In children's rooms little drawings done by the children were used almost as wallpaper treatments, she explained.

Old town houses are being gutted to get some interesting two-story effects with handsome circular staircases. One house had a ceiling that was electrified to provide a sculptured look. A dining room on a balcony overlooked both a living room and an enclosed garden pool. The roof of one house had a garden of vegetables and flowers.

Unlike Houston, Dallas is still into status symbols, in her opinion, "and they like it that way." Some homes have beautiful collections of art and some are done with great traditional feeling.

Mrs. Korper has been an interior designer in Connecticut as well as New York, and recently spent several months in Washington, where she observed that most people do not live with their own furnishings because the city "is an extremely transient one."

"They choose homes or apartments that are good for entertainment and they decorate mostly for parties. If homes aren't suitable for social events, they entertain in restaurants," she said.

And this flexible lifestyle isn't confined to those who can afford opulence. If you don't have what you want — you make it happen. In houses and apartments with smaller rooms, a lot of good ideas are being tailored to fit, whether it means removing a wall or adding an embellishment.

"For example, condominiums and cooperative apartments provide more opportunity to do your own architectural thing," she said.

"Draperies are almost a thing of the past in tall buildings. Some windows are designed like stage sets to bring in views. In New York, a pace setter in decorating, daylight is captured at windows, and at night the beautiful drama provided by lighting effects in surrounding buildings can be enjoyed.

"People are into an uncluttered look now with fewer, but choicer, things and even in Chicago more people are choosing contemporary furnishings, which can provide an uncluttered look."

The Houston conference will be consumer oriented with outstanding speakers including Joan Mondale, Mrs. Korper said.

There will be more than 30 workshops. One, the Industrialization of Space over the next 25 years, will be conducted by NASA's Jesco Von Puttkamer. Another, on future developments in architecture and interior design will be given by William Jenkins, dean of architectural studies at the University of Houston.

Dear Abby

Two Triangles Form A Wreck-Tangle

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I never did love my husband. I just married him for security, and I've been miserable ever since. I suppose I should tell you that I'm in love with my doctor. (That's why I've been so "sickly" much of the time.) My doctor is very unhappy at home. My husband is in love with my best friend, who is also trapped in a loveless marriage.

My husband would be much happier with my best friend, and I would be happier with my doctor. Isn't there some way this can be worked out so that nobody will be hurt? You only live once, you know.

LOVESICK

DEAR LOVESICK: If you and your husband were to terminate your marriage, you could marry your doctor and your husband could marry your best friend. (Assuming, of course, that they followed suit.) That would leave your best friend's husband and the doctor's wife at loose ends. If you could sell them on EACH OTHER, you could turn a wreck-tangle into a sex-tangle. But with all the switching and hitching, there's apt to be some ditching. I recommend living with the ills you know, rather than flying to others you know not of.

DEAR ABBY: What should a girl do when a boy calls her at 7 o'clock in the evening and asks her if she wants to go out at 7:45? I really wanted to go, but I turned him down because I heard a girl should play hard to get.

SOPHOMORE

DEAR SOPHOMORE: If you wanted to go, you should have gone. There is nothing to be gained by playing "hard to get" if you're sitting home longing to go out.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something in your column about young people who telephone and ask, "Is Susie there?" And when they are asked, "Who is calling, please?" they either hang up or say, "Nevermind, I'll call back later."

We have a 16-year-old daughter, and this happens at our home all the time, which is very annoying. Any suggestions on how to handle it?

FINDLAY, OHIO

DEAR FINDLAY: Not only "young people," but also many who are old enough to know better, are guilty of this rudeness. For those who need a lesson, the proper procedure is: "Hello. This is Bill Forthright. May I please speak to Susie?"

(One father told me that a boy once called and asked, "Is Lois there?" The father simply replied, "Yes," and hung up. He later explained to Lois that the boy had merely asked him a question, and he answered it.)

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pitt County Has Trainee Agent

By JANET GANTT
Reflector Staff Writer

Miss Regina Watson, a senior at North Carolina A. & T. majoring in home economics, is spending her summer vacation working with the Pitt County Agriculture Extension Service.

Originally from Windsor, Miss Watson felt that working with the Home Economics Extension would offer her excellent insight into what she might do after graduating this December. "I've thoroughly enjoyed my experience this summer. It has been very enlightening, working with people of all ages and backgrounds. Recently, I taught a class of young girls to sew and afterwards we staged a contest for the best made garment. The project proved to be a great success."

The daughter of George Watson, Regina has a younger brother and sister; however, neither one is interested in home economics. Her brother is studying to be an industrial technologist.

Presently the extension is working closely with Pitt County 4-H Clubs. Miss Watson is teaching a class on cardboard weaving to the area 4-H members. "I went to a workshop in Williamston designed for extension agents. It was a leadership course that prepared us to go back and teach the people in our county how to cardboard weave."

Questions on everything from building plans to soap making receive the attention of the agents. "We have specialists in different areas, including housing, nutrition and clothing. Recently our housing specialist helped a man design an office addition that would provide him with the utmost convenience."

A special note to college students is the housing specialist who can suggest special space savers for dormitory rooms. "If we don't know the answer immediately we will research it until we find a solution. Last week," Miss Watson adds "a lady called about soap making. I had to look in our references until I found a recipe for home made soap." The Pitt County Agriculture Extension's services are available to residents of the county at no charge.

Regina Watson

"Feel free to call the Pitt County Extension if you ever feel you need help. As more and more people realize our services are available, the more successful our agency will be."

Rook-Riggs Vows Said In Recent Ceremony

Michelle Renee Riggs and Tyrus Rook of Millinton, N.J., were united in marriage at the home of the bride Saturday, June 25. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stanley Wingard.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Riggs of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a soft white linen sunback street length dress complemented by a corsage of carnations.

The honor attendant was Melonie Riggs, sister of the bride. The best man was Bobby Ray Riggs, brother of the bride.

Rachel Riggs, sister of the bride, presided at the guest register.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The refreshment table was decorated with an arrangement of snapdragons and daisies in yellow and white. Punch was poured by Dottie Taylor and Lorraine Spain and Grace Pollard served cake.

The bride is a graduate of D. H. Conley High School and plans to continue her education. The bridegroom is a graduate of ECU and is a drafting teacher.

After a wedding trip to New Jersey, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Personals

Mrs. Grace Hardison of Grimesland left July 2 for Seattle, Wash., where she will visit her son, Sgt. Dewey E. Hardison, Jr., and his family.

The Hardison family has just returned from Japan. Mrs. Diane Hardison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sutton of Greenville.

Mrs. Davie F. Harper is a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Marriage

Announced

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ellington announce the marriage of their daughter, Becky, to David Wayne Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Otis Johnson of Raleigh, on July 2. The couple will reside in Raleigh.

Establishes Oriental Outpost

By MARGIE GAY MALONE
For AP Newsfeatures

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — Judy Gersuny, who believes in the adage, "Cooking is the door to Chinese culture," dishes up tidbits of oriental lore along with the shrimp and lobster sauce in her cooking classes.

Mrs. Gersuny, an expatriate New Yorker who studied the art of Chinese cooking at an institute in Manhattan, not only teaches cooking, but advises her students on how to buy in Chinese food stores and how to order in Chinese restaurants.

This summer she is offering two week-long courses at the Gables Inn here, where students will be refrying & saucing.

Mrs. Gersuny adapts all recipes to cooking in an American kitchen, and believes in as much advance food preparation as possible.

Until 1972, Mrs. Gersuny and her husband, Conrad, owned a Greenwich Village jewelry shop in Manhattan, where the proximity to Chinatown turned them into Chinese food addicts. "When Conrad and I talked about eventually leaving New York," she recalls, "I had withdrawal symptoms at the thought of life without roast pork buns."

Those pangs sent the energetic Mrs. Gersuny scurrying to sign up for a quick cooking course at the China Institute. In true oriental fashion, there is no such thing as a "quick course" and Mrs. Gersuny spent three years there, steeping herself in Chinese cuisine, culture and history.

Finally, in 1972, came the move to Stowe and Mrs. Gersuny, whose fresh looks and enthusiasm make her seem more like student than teacher, began her teaching career.

"The first year was rough," she confesses, referring to the adjustment to the move. "You still consider yourself a New Yorker just living in Vermont. Originally we found a lack of mental stimulation."

Mrs. Gersuny responded to the lack of outside stimuli by creating her own. She conducted small cooking classes in her home, did catering and studied Chinese at the University of Vermont.

She also ran her own Chinese-style hot dog stand at which she sold her favorite snack foods — roast pork bun, moon cakes and almond cookies — every weekend at the former Mud City Flea Market outside of Stowe. (It has now upgraded its name to the Mud City Antique Market.)

She recalled a Chinese family who visited the Mud City Market and sampled her wares. The husband raised his eyebrows and paid her the ultimate compliment: "Ah," he said, "C.T. (Chinatown) at Stowe."

Now a confirmed Vermonter of almost five years, Mrs. Gersuny has not slowed her pace. "Even wealthy people with enough money to retire comfortably come up here, buy a motel and wind up working 16 hours a day," she explains. "You work harder here, but you are doing exactly what you want."

At the time of the interview, doing exactly what she wanted consisted of preparing all the courses for a banquet given by the Chinese department at the University of Vermont — 12 different main courses, 120 spring rolls and 120 almond cookies.

Gersuny has done his part in bringing a little bit of "C.T." to Stowe. Part of his jewelry shop here has been converted, and now offers woks, other utensils and a variety of Chinese foods for sale.

"It was mostly a matter of expediency," he says. "We just got tired of our two-and-a-half-hour jaunt to Chinatown in Montreal every week."

'No Evidence' Witnesses Lied

BOILING POINT—As if temperatures approaching the 100-degree mark were not enough, Jane Kerr, 25, of 1305-A Second St. was caught Thursday afternoon reading a searing, tempestuous romance about a young woman caught in a new and flaming web of turbulent passion. Ms. Kerr is an education student at ECU, seemed somewhat unharmed by the imposing heat which has plagued Greenville residents for the past several days. (Reflector Photo by Keith Mills)

BURGAU, N.C. (AP) — In a 37-page written report supporting his decision against granting the Wilmington 10 a new trial, Judge George M. Fountain says he found "no credible evidence" that key prosecution witnesses in the case had been coached or received special privileges for testifying.

"The petitioners got a fair trial. None of their constitutional rights were violated," the superior court judge wrote. "There is no credible evidence that the prosecution...stemmed from racial bias."

Fountain filed a "finding of fact" report Thursday at the Pender County Courthouse, where in May he heard two weeks of testimony at a post-conviction hearing for the Wilmington 10 and then immediately denied the defense request.

The hearing focused on recantations by three witnesses and a later reversal by one of them, Hall.

In his finding, Fountain dismissed, point by point, defense contentions that the convictions were obtained with perjured testimony and that prosecutors induced key witnesses to lie. He made 37 findings of fact and 13 "conclusions of law."

"The retractions of Allen Hall, Jerome Mitchell and Eric Junious are not true, and they did not perjure themselves at the trial of the petitioners," the superior court judge wrote.

While noting that prosecutors offered reduced sentences to the witnesses, Fountain said, "these offers were not in exchange for any prospective testimony."

He said the gift of a minibike to Junious, then 13, by Stroud was not in exchange for testimony.

The Wilmington 10 — nine black men and a white woman — were convicted in 1972 of burning a white-owned grocery and shooting at police and firemen during racial violence in Wilmington, N.C. the year before. They collectively received 282 years in prison.

The woman has since been paroled but the nine men — including the leader, the Rev. Ben Chavis — remain in North Carolina prisons. They began serving their sentences last year after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal.

Fountain noted that Hall first recanted after visiting defense attorney James Ferguson in Charlotte for three days, when Ferguson paid $328 in food, wine and hotel bills for Hall. He termed those amounts "excessive."

Richard N. League, an assistant state attorney general who led state lawyers during the Burgau hearing, wrote the first draft of the finding, the papers said. Court spokesmen said it was not unusual for the winning lawyer to write the first draft.

C. Reese Helms has been named energy conservation manager for the Greenville Utilities Commission, according to director Charles Horne.

Helms will head the Office of Energy Conservation and Management recently established by the Commission and will serve directly under the director.

He will be responsible for developing, promoting, implementing and coordinating an energy conservation and management program for the Commission.

Helms received his B.S. in business administration from ECU in 1969 and his Master's in Business Administration from ECU in 1973. He has previously been employed as a business instructor at the college level and a comptroller in private industry.

Helms is married to the former Rebecca Lucile Lane of Snow Hill. The couple has one daughter, Amy Lane.

Man Held In Larceny

A 21-year-old male, Arthur Lee Brann, Jr., was arrested this morning by deputies Jim Harrell and L. F. Pascazio and has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Paul George Nelson, operator of Jay Grocery Store on N.C. 43, Rt. 1, west of Greenville, discovered change missing from his cash register when he opened the store about 5 a.m. this morning. Tyson said Nelson stated someone ran from the store at that time, and that he, Nelson, gave chase but was unable to catch the person.

The deputies arrested Brann later as he walked along the highway. Merchandise and change amounting to a value of $5.64 was reportedly taken.

Brann is in the Pitt County jail under a $500 bond.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cool weather is forecast today for the Pacific coast and the northern tier of states but warm weather is continuing from the Southern Plains into the Middle and

South Atlantic coast states. Showers are expected for the central Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Conditions were becoming more unstable in the atmosphere today, and moisture was building, which could lead to some relief from the heat wave that has gripped North Carolina.

The National Weather Service said temperatures would be a few degrees lower today than the record breakers of Wednesday and Thursday — still hot, but not quite as hot.

And the changing conditions should lead to numerous thundershowers and thunderstorms across the state Saturday.

These are not expected to be drought breakers, but heavy rains are expected in some of the thundershowers.

Temperatures soared again Thursday, setting at least one record for the date — 100 degrees at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

Fayetteville had the unenviable distinction of the day's highest reading, 103 degrees, while the mercury reached 102 at Goldsboro, Wilmington and Wilson. Rocky Mount, Greensboro and Jacksonville had 101. In the mountains, Asheville recorded a high of 93 degrees, and at the Outer Banks, Cape Hatteras had 91.

Meanwhile, an air stagnation advisory was issued Thursday for the mountains and Piedmont, where air circulation was so poor that smoke, dust and gases were being trapped at low altitudes.

Temporary burning permits issued by the state were suspended indefinitely as a result of the atmospheric conditions in those areas.

Cite Limits In Pain-Relievers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stronger warning labels are needed on aspirin and acetaminophen, the two major non-prescription pain relievers, a government advisory panel says.

The scientific panel also concluded that the pain relievers are safe and effective.

At the same time, the panel warned against permitting claims that the products relieve symptoms of arthritis or rheumatism for fear such claims would lead to self-treatment.

The recommendations were made Thursday to the Food and Drug Administration after a four-year study of over-the-counter analgesic pain relievers and fever reducers.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy said he expected the report would lead to "more explicit labeling, including essential new warnings, that will make it easier for consumers to select a product to relieve pain and fever."

The panel recommended that labels on products containing acetaminophen, the main aspirin substitute, warn that excessive doses could cause liver damage. It said the substance was safe, but there was no basis for claims it was safer than aspirin.

The group also recommended that labels warn against taking aspirin products in the last three months of pregnancy because they could prolong labor

Squaring Off Over Big VA Computer System

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate square off next week over a proposed $200 million computer system that an unpublished General Accounting Office report calls "risky."

The House wants to give the Veterans Administration the money needed to buy the initial equipment for its "Target" computer system.

But the Senate has voted to hold off, saying the draft GAO report and other investigations suggest the system is bigger than the VA needs and would be too expensive.

Critics charge Target would cost too much, is poorly designed and couldn't protect adequately the personal information it would contain on millions of veterans. The VA says it needs the system to improve service to veterans.

"Target is a risky venture," said the draft GAO report on the costs and benefits of the projected system.

A copy of the draft report, requested by Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., was obtained by The Associated Press from congressional sources.

The VA has been pushing for Target for more than five years, saying its current system is outmoded and cannot serve adequately the millions of veterans and their dependents who get pensions, disability payments, education benefits and other VA services.

But the VA's plans and cost projections for Target have been criticized repeatedly by the GAO and congressional staff investigators, who charge that costs are underestimated and benefit forecasts are overly optimistic.

The VA's latest cost-benefit analysis — the fourth in the project's history — estimated $25.5 million in savings for the 12-year life of the system compared with continuing the present, largely manual system.

But the GAO suggested in its draft report that not all the projected savings might occur and another $8.9 million in uncounted costs could hit the project — wiping out all the potential monetary benefits.

"There is considerable uncertainty concerning the costs and benefits of the Target system... It is still risky in terms of cost effectiveness," the GAO report said.

The battle between the House and Senate over Target moves to a conference committee Tuesday to square the two versions of a $70 billion authorization bill for the VA, other independent agencies and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The House wants to appropriate $21.9 million to purchase the first portion of Target, with the restriction that the VA relieve congressional doubts about the system's successful installation.

The Senate voted to give the VA only about $4 million to continue a pilot project testing Target's feasibility.

Under Target, veterans inquiring about benefits could have their claims processed directly on the computer terminals. Procedures such as calculating benefits would be done quickly by computer and checks could be issued in days instead of weeks, VA spokesmen say.

Thursday Saw 4 Collisions

An estimated $11,550 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 10:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of N.C. 11 and North Greene Street involving vehicles driven by James Robert Higgs of Oak City and Vincent Stewart Anderson Jr. of Tarboro.

Police estimated damage to the Higgs car at $1,500 and set damage to the Anderson truck at $3,000.

An 11:25 a.m. mishap at the intersection of 14th and Elm Streets involved a truck driven by Fred Wadsworth of 1302 East Tenth St. and a car operated by Pauline Knox of 409 Cadillac St.

Investigators, who charged Mrs. Knox with failing to stop for a red light, set damage at $2,000 to the Wadsworth truck and $1,200 to the Knox car.

Clair Eugene Smith of Route 1, Vanceboro was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 1 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 30 feet South of the Maxwell Street intersection.

Officers reported the Smith car collided with an auto driven by Sudie Braxton Jones of 309 East Mumford Rd., causing an estimated $50 damage to the Smith car and $3,000 damage to the Jones auto.

Cars driven by William Powell Fleming of Route 7, Greenville and Catherine Elaine Stephenson of 103 Ford St. collided about 9:16 a.m. at the intersection of Skinner Street and Myrtle Avenue.

Police estimated damage at $300 to the Fleming car and $500 to the Stephenson vehicle.

Judge Endorsed By Alamance Bar

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — The Alamance County Bar Association gave its unanimous endorsement Thursday to Superior Court Judge D. Marsh McLelland for a seat on the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

The General Assembly has allocated three additional seats on the Court of Appeals, effective July 15. McLelland, 56, of Burlington, is judge of the 15th Judicial District, which is being divided into smaller units on that day.

HEW Overstepped Its Bounds

The awaited U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulations for increasing black enrollment in state universities came down last week.

At first reading the aims set out in the document seemed not too far afield from goals already established for the University of North Carolina system.

HEW, acting under orders from Federal Judge John Pratt, called for new five year goals (not quotas) for increasing minority enrollment in formerly segregated state institutions.

It called for plans to strengthen the role of the formerly black institutions; a reduction in disparity in the proportion of blacks and whites completing the various higher education programs and the hiring of more black professors.

Such requests by HEW seem relatively reasonable and, indeed, very much in line with what the state higher education system is already doing.

But there are other requirements. Top priority must be given to the former black schools in placing new programs, undergraduate, graduate or professional.

There is a requirement that proposed changes must be submitted to HEW for approval 90 days before they take effect and "useless duplication" of programs between traditionally black and white institutions in the same service areas be abolished.

Thus while the HEW requirements at first reading don't seem too severe, there is adequate wordage there to make any bureaucrat's heart jump for joy. If some of the regulations are followed to the ultimate HEW officials could destroy the higher education systems of North Carolina and the other five affected states.

If any one of the state legislatures interfered with higher education in a similar way, the accrediting agencies would be quick to take stern action. There is good reason for this. Since ancient times seats of higher education have sought to protect themselves from unwarranted influence from governments. Otherwise such knowledge would have been lost through the centuries.

We have no doubt that HEW and the courts have overstepped their bounds in interfering with higher education in the affected states.

Real Public Service In Annual Event

Greenville Jaycees have sponsored July 4 activities on the mall along Reade Street for the past several years.

Each year large crowds have turned out to participate in such contests as hula hooping, egg toss, onion eating and bubblegum blowing.

At night the crowds grow huge for the evening fireworks display.

The Jaycees have performed a real public service in staging this annual event. The club has the manpower to carry it out. We commend them all.

'Trash', Not A Freedom!

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Pornography is filth not worthy of any protection by law, and the U.S. Constitution never intended it to be protected says State Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash.

Davenport disagrees forcefully with his fellow attorneys who argue that efforts to restrict pornography are constitutional and with those in the press who see efforts to abolish pornography as somehow connected to Freedom of the Press.

Our Founding Fathers were talking about freedom . . . of political and religious ideas which are different from those held by other people. In those days there was no pornography, or I am certain they would never have suggested it be allowed total freedom to pollute the land," says the veteran legislator and attorney.

The Bill of Rights prohibits law restricting freedom of speech, press, assembly, religion, and petition to redress government wrongs.

Not Ideas Under those guidelines, courts have tended to "bring into the larger net pornography, while striving to protect these basic freedoms. . . but we are not talking about ideas. . . we're talking about the sale of sex. . . perversions. . . bestiality. . . sex devices. . . sick minds," says Davenport.

Pornography as it is sold today goes far beyond simple nudity, or even sexual material. "The people across this state don't have any idea what goes on in there, behind those painted windows. It would shock them. There is sadism and bestiality; perversions and sickness; sexual devices in operation; pictures and movies catering to every kind of deviant," Davenport said. A local health official wrote legislators describing one such operation in such vivid terms (the stench, the filth, the activities) that lawmakers in public would refer to the letter but decline to use the language in debate.

The Constitution, Davenport insists, was to protect freedom of debate and ideas, and he believes a line can be drawn between freedom of expression and pornography.

When a majority of the community rejects filth—not political or religious ideas—then that filth can and should be controlled, Davenport believes.

BILL NOBLITT

He was instrumental in legislative action regarding pornography, and feels a method proposed later in the session to require separation of book, movie, picture, and device activities will prove especially effective.

But whether or not the new laws are proven constitutional, Davenport believes it essential to keep "sending messages" to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Influence That body, he believes, is not above influence. It was at one point schizophrenic on the death penalty and almost outlawed it. Then, the court opened the door back, and noted in footnotes that 36 state legislatures had promptly moved to re-instate death penalties while struggling to find a constitutional system.

"That so many state legislatures so promptly sought to implement death penalty laws obviously means that the death penalty complies with contemporary standards of behavior, and that these legislative actions reflect a widely held public attitude. That influenced the United States Supreme Court," Davenport said. He was also instrumental in getting the death penalty bill through the North Carolina Legislature.

"The same situation holds true now in pornography. When the Supreme Court rejects a measure, the General Assembly must come right back with another.

"We have got to demonstrate that we are absolutely determined to put out this fire. There must be some control over such filth. History proves that man must have discipline. . . we were not meant to be totally free—with no law to control man's activities. Else, we should be beasts and not men," he believes.

Water In Marin County

WASHINGTON — The rest of the country always thinks of Californians as strange people. It isn't really their fault. There is something in the water out there that does it to them.

Walpole, who lives in Marin County, just wrote me a letter explaining why people in Northern California are going off their rockers.

"We were told," wrote Walpole, "that there was a drought up here and we had to conserve on water." So we did exactly what they asked us to. We rationed our bath water, we stopped watering our lawns, we even thought twice before flushing the toilet. When it came to water conservation we rose to the challenge.

"We were a dirty, but proud people. We had 'ring around the collar,' but it was a small price to pay for saving the most precious liquid known to man."

"Our wives hung up their laundry with 'tattletale gray' but the neighbors never told them they were using the wrong detergent. We drank wine instead of water, we swam in swimming pools filled with algae. Our children wore stains on their clothes to school, and learned to brush their teeth only once a day. We learned the true meaning of the war-time slogan, 'Take a shower with a friend.'"

"So what happened? The first thing they did was raise our water rates.

"When I called up the water department to find out why, the man replied, 'Because people are using much less water and our revenues are down. We had to raise our rates to compensate for the lost income caused by the conservation measures we put into effect.'"

"I said to him 'You mean to tell me the less water we use the more we have to pay for it?'"

"That should be obvious to anyone," he said in a huff. "Somebody has to pay for the water the people don't use."

"But that's crazy," I yelled at him. "You people told us to cut down on water and we did. Now you say we have to be penalized for doing without it."

"We didn't expect everyone to turn off their spigots. You people are all overachievers. We asked you to cut down on the use of water, but we didn't plan on you saying so much water that we would lose money on it. The water department can't run without revenues."

"I said 'Well why didn't you tell us how much water to conserve?'"

"He said 'We wanted you to conserve as much as possible.'"

"That's what we did," I screamed at him.

"He replied, 'Then you have to pay for it. The only way the rates will come down is if you start using water again. You have to use up your allotments, or we may have to take drastic measures, such as fining and penalizing you for not watering your lawn or taking enough baths. I hate to say this but we're ashamed of all

Other Editors Say: Free To Choose

(The Wilson Times)

A controversy is brewing between the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and groups of Americans who say that sick people and their doctors should be free to choose the medication they want to use.

Some of those supporting this "freedom-of-choice" approach are using it as a leverage to legalize sales of the widely publicized cancer drug Laetrile.

Others feel the FDA has too much power in its regulation of drugs and medicines. They are supporting legislation that would remove from existing law the requirement that a new drug be effective as well as safe.

The FDA is holding firm to its position that proof of efficacy is necessary to safeguard the public health. The agency points to Laetrile as an example of an unproven of gullible sick people.

No hearings have been set in either House or Senate on the "freedom of choice" bills, but Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has scheduled hearings on the Laetrile issue for mid-July.

Meanwhile the Laetril supporters are making an end-run around the FDA and promoting legalization of the drug by individual state legislatures. To date 11 states have legalized it. Drug manufacturers have been required since 1962 to prove their drugs are effective as well as safe. They must submit the results of animal tests to win FDA approval to test the new drug on humans. Throughout the testing process, the manufacturer must prove that the drug will not harm people if taken properly and will achieve the result for which it was intended.

It is this latter requirement that has proved to be a major stumbling block to many persons. They want FDA stripped of that power.

Those who support a repeal of the efficacy requirement argue that it is an example of the government's encroachment on an individual's right to choose a course of action. They say it also has stemmed the development of new drugs in the United States with consequent harm to the health of thousands of Americans.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Road To Rhodesian Chaos

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Joshua Nkomo has built himself, with bountiful aid from Moscow, a sizable personal army now training across the border in Zambia which poses a potential new obstacle blocking Rhodesia's peaceful transition to black majority rule.

Nkomo, the most experienced of Rhodesia's black nationalist leaders, was regarded as the West's best hope here during the 1976

Geneva conference, when he controlled a few hundred guerrillas. Now he has 3,000 Soviet-supplied men in Zambia plus another 300 who have infiltrated into Rhodesia. Lacking a national popular base, Nkomo is taking a military road to power.

But it may also prove a road to chaos. If Nkomo and other nationalists with guerrilla support reject free elections as is predicted here by all shades of opinion, the war of attrition against Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime might well be followed by civil war, with both tribal and Russian vs. Chinese overtones.

Rhodesia's 250,000 whites would have left long before such a black civil war, but they would not be the only losers. Rhodesia's sophisticated economy would be destroyed, promising deprivation for more than 6 million blacks, and Soviet domination of southern Africa would probably be advanced another step.

In Rhodesia, as in Angola, the black leaders with the guns do not have the votes. Bishop A. T. Muzorewa, who commands no troops at all, would be heavily favored to win an election today. Robert Mugabe, in tenuous political command of ZANU guerrillas carrying the burden of the fighting from bases in Mozambique, has no votes at all.

One hope for a peaceful settlement had been to line up all other black leaders for elections, isolating Mugabe. But Nkomo may also oppose voting, fearing that Muzorewa's popularity also would keep him from power in an election. No Rhodesian politician other than Ian Smith has been around so long as the 60-year-old Nkomo. Although moderate by inclination and certainly no Communist, he has told friends he wants, above all, Smith's seat as Prime Minister after a lifetime of opposition, detention and exile. No, Nkomo has made a Faustian bargain with fateful implications.

Strength For Today

POWER OF SPIRITUAL THINGS

Archimedes, the Greek mathematician, declared that if he could find a point upon which to place a fulcrum and thus support a lever, he could raise and lower the earth with one hand. That point, of course, of necessity would be outside the limitations of time and space. For this reason Archimedes could not perform this spectacular feat.

In things spiritual the fulcrum also lies outside the limitations of time and space. There, in an area which cannot be comprehended by the five senses but can be apprehended by our powers enable us poor mortals to rise above life's limitations and accomplish things marvelous in character.

The power of heaven is at our disposal, if we could only bring ourselves to use it. Jesus assured his hearers that if they would believe strongly enough they could move mountains. But of course they could not do this by their own powers. They could accomplish this miracle only by drawing on the spiritual powers outside of time and space.

NEW YORK (AP) — In the computer age of financing, with deals becoming more creative and sophisticated, the old country doctor approach to investment banking is giving way to the specialist.

On a recent transaction, said a Merrill Lynch man, the specialist team consisted of experts in commercial paper, industrial revenue bonds, private placements and leasing. Coordinator was the lead investment banker.

Not too many years ago one investment banker, dealing with a corporation's chief financial officer and chief executive, might have guided most of the financing needs of a company.

At Merrill Lynch, where various investment units have just been integrated into a Capital Markets Committee, some executives think the new competition in sophistication is more significant than talk of a capital shortage.

Times have changed.

Companies that used to come into the capital markets once every two or three years now seek financing two or three times a year, said William Schreyer, executive vice president-capital markets.

Competition for money is intense. Plants today cost much more than just a decade ago, and the federal government is heavily into the market, competing for lendable funds because of its big deficit.

New regulations concerning pollution control, strip mining and reforestation add to the competition. So does the increasing competition for capital by foreign firms. So also does the need for energy exploration.

Competition is also growing among investment bankers for a piece of the action. The adviser who can come up with the most creative financing — that is, with the most money at the least cost — captures the business.

Equally demanding are lenders, who often seek tax shelters. "Any areas where the tax law is involved usually give rise to creativity," said J. Arthur Urciuoli, managing director of the Capital Markets Group.

Urciuoli lists five distinct ways in which a health care facility can be financed. Three of these involve federal programs. The other two involve financing in the tax-exempt markets, by creating a health authority that issues bonds or by a municipality itself issuing them.

"Around here," said Schreyer, "some ask are you precomputer or post-computer," and to be sure, the electronic computer has permitted financing refinements that might have been dreamed yesterday but are being realized today.

The computer is both symbol and mechanical heart of the new financing, of which Merrill Lynch seeks a larger share by centralizing various units in the Capital Markets Group.

Schreyer, who heads the group, sees the new arrangement as being customer rather than

Await Heat's Impact

By MONTE PLOTT Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — It will be next Monday before the major electric companies in North and South Carolina really feel the heat from these days of temperatures in the 90s.

Despite the hot weather, Duke Power Co. and Carolina Power & Light Co. (CP&L) — both serving customers in North and South Carolina — say they have not been pushed by consumer demands.

The reason is that many textile mills and other industries in both states are closed for the traditional week-long July 4th vacation, spokesmen for the companies said Thursday.

"That's very definitely been a factor. We don't know how many mills and factories are off line right now," Duke Power spokesman Alex Coffin. "But next Monday we'll really know the effect (of the heat)."

CP&L, which serves 600,770 customers in the two states, has not come near its record demand of 5,512 megawatts which was set last winter, according to company spokesman Albert Morris.

"Obviously, next week we'll have a greater use of energy (when industries reopen). What effect that'll have, we don't know," Morris said.

Demand from Duke Power's 1.1 million customers in the two states was at 7,066 megawatts Thursday afternoon. The peak

40 Years Ago Today

July 8, 1937

The mightiest peacetime search of the U.S. Navy was launched today for Amelia Earhart, missing round-the-world flier, who, officials hope is awaiting rescue on a coral reef or sandpit somewhere southeast of Howland Island.

The Battleship Colorado, cruising south and east of Howland, catapulted its three fighting planes last night to open the aerial phase of the hunt undertaken by boats when Miss Earhart failed to arrive at Howland last Friday on a 2,570-mile flight from New Guinea.

The aircraft returned to the battleship after two hours and 20 minutes to report no trace had been sighted of the missing plane or of Miss Earhart or navigator, Fred Noonan.

Alcoa — owned by and named for the Aluminum Company of America — was tense, but quiet today under the guns of 300 soldiers called in after two men were killed and 28 hurt in a pitched battle between strikers and company guards.

Hensen Klick, 30, striker, died of bullet wounds a short while after yesterday's fight. A few hours later W. M. Hunt, 42, a special officer, succumbed to similar injuries.

Hope for early settlement of differences between the company and strikers was expressed by Fred Wetmore, president of the local aluminum workers' union.

Investment Specialist Appears

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the computer age of financing, with deals becoming more creative and sophisticated, the old country doctor approach to investment banking is giving way to the specialist.

On a recent transaction, said a Merrill Lynch man, the specialist team consisted of experts in commercial paper, industrial revenue bonds, private placements and leasing. Coordinator was the lead investment banker.

Not too many years ago one investment banker, dealing with a corporation's chief financial officer and chief executive, might have guided most of the financing needs of a company.

The computer is both symbol and mechanical heart of the new financing, of which Merrill Lynch seeks a larger share by centralizing various units in the Capital Markets Group.

Schreyer, who heads the group, sees the new arrangement as being customer rather than product-oriented, an approach which merchandisers in some other lines might think is somewhat late in coming.

Another advantage is also sought, said Schreyer. "We have a great sales force," he said without hint of pride or modesty. "But we also have great talent in other areas which we'll be trying to utilize more now."

With its sales force backed by the expertise of specialists, Merrill Lynch, already the biggest factor in capital markets, is convinced it can obtain an even larger share.

That market, it estimates, will require the raising of $47 billion in corporate financing, and $100 billion in federal, state and municipal financing, over the next 12 months.

It will be assembled in packages so intricate, so sophisticated, that it will be difficult for any one individual, pre or post-computer, to conceive, structure or understand all of them.

Prison Fire Inquiry Board Set

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — The horn that often means disaster blared three times at about 1:30 a.m. in the dormitory of the Danbury Fire Department.

Captain Antonio Lagarto and his crew jumped out of their beds and into their boots and raced to the worst fire in the history of the federal prison system.

"Help us! Get us out of here! Over here!" inmates yelled to the firemen from the small steel-frame windows in Dormitory G, a drug treatment unit at the Federal Correctional Institution in Danbury.

Five inmates died and 71 persons suffered burns or smoke inhalation in the flames, thick smoke and toxic fumes that swept the overcrowded cell-block dormitory Thursday — the 37th anniversary of the formal opening of the medium-security prison.

The fire had started at least 13 minutes before the fire horn blared.

A five-man board of inquiry from the U.S. Bureau of Prisons was to convene today to investigate the time lag.

Authorities said the fire was caused by arson, but had no suspects in custody and did not know of any motive.

Billy O. Davis, associate warden, and Capt. Lagarto denied the contention of some inmates that the fire was caused by an electrical malfunction in the dormitory washroom.

"Initial findings indicate that the fire started in a field jacket hanging in the washroom area," Davis said. "Fire by accidental cause has been eliminated."

Davis said a preliminary investigation indicated that the fire spread rapidly to the ceiling of the dormitory, fanning heavy smoke. He said that inmates and prison staff members tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the fire.

The inmates also charge that guards refused to open exits from the dormitory immediately because they were more concerned about security than safety, causing delays in the evacuation.

Davis acknowledged a delay in opening the emergency exit door but denied that it was intentional.

"Inmates sounded the alarm at the unit and staff members on duty attempted to unlock the emergency room door upon seeing that fire had broken out in the vicinity of the entrance to the unit," Davis said. "However, the emergency exit door jammed due to the pressure of inmates trying to get out and the key broke in the door."

The dead inmates were identified as Donnell Proctor, 32, of Landover, Md.; Henderson Holliday, 38; Robert Ware, 27; and Robert Moore, 33, all of Washington, D.C.; and Anthony Johnson, 28, of New Castle, Del.

Holliday and Ware were serving sentences for narcotics violations, Johnson for forgery and Moore for burglary, the FBI said. Information on the length of their sentences and Proctor's conviction was not immediately available.

Davis said in a statement Thursday night that 18 inmates remained hospitalized, including four in critical condition. Danbury Hospital officials said that among the 71 injured were one firefighter and one prison guard.

Minority Enrollment Declared Student-Failing Rate Factor

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Minority enrollment was "the key, almost the sole characteristic" for predicting the state's public schools with high numbers of failing students, an educational report shows.

Schools with a high percentage of minority students had high failure rates, while those with a low percentage had low failure rates, said Alan T. Hill, a state educational official.

The income of student's family, absentee rates and teachers' National Teacher Examinations scores were less reliable predictors of failure rates, he said. And the size of a school district, the amount of local money spent per pupil and the student-teacher ratio "made no difference" in failure rates.

The report made public here Thursday at a meeting of the state's school superintendents showed sharp variations in the percentage of children failing or passing in school systems, and even in schools located within the same system.

Ten per cent of North Carolina's public schools — 203 out of 2,023 — did not fail a single student during the 1975-1976 school year, researchers found, while in the same period, some schools were failing more than 15 per cent of their students.

"The differences (among school districts) go beyond coincidence," said William W. Peek, an assistant to A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction. "There is probably something wrong with a school system's philosophy when no one in a school fails for several years running," he said.

In the context of the report, failures applied to students who weren't promoted to the next grade, not those who merely failed an individual course.

Phillips said there was little chance the Board of Education would establish a statewide policy on failing students, even in the face of the disparities. Such policy is now decided by individual school districts.

Western North Carolina counties showed the lowest failure rates and Eastern North Carolina showed the highest, with the Piedmont falling into the middle range, Hill noted.

He attributed the differences between East and West to the higher concentration of blacks in coastal counties.

Peek said he hoped that superintendents would "stop and take a look at their promotion policies" in light of the information they received Thursday.

It is "inevitable," he said, that state education officials "sit down with knowledgeable local people to come up with some guidelines that deal with the factors that must be considered before a student is retained."

Survivors Won't Talk, Suspect Remains Free

By BRUCE ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police say a suspect in 14 homosexual murders has not been charged because three survivors of his knife attacks, including a "well-known entertainer" and a diplomat, won't "come out of the closet" and testify against him.

For the past year, police have been questioning a young man they call "The Doodler" about the 14 slayings and three assaults that occurred in San Francisco's gay community between January 1974 and September 1975, Inspector Rotea Gilford said Thursday.

Interest in the case surfaced again this week after two Redondo Beach, Calif., men were arrested in Riverside for questioning about as many as 28 slayings linked to homosexual encounters.

The suspect here, his name not released, has talked freely with police but has not admitted the slayings, Gilford said. He said police are "fairly certain" they have the right man, but need the testimony of survivors who may be able to identify "The Doodler."

In the attacks, the murderer met other men at a number of after-hours gay clubs and restaurants in San Francisco. He usually sketched the men before having sex with them and then stabbed them. Police believe the man committed the murders after feeling shame over his homosexual experiences.

Gilford said the three survivors include the entertainer, the diplomat and a man who left San Francisco and won't answer letters or phone calls at his new address.

"My feeling is they don't want to be exposed," he said. Harvey Milk, an advocate of homosexual rights, said of the victims who refuse to speak, "I can understand their position. I respect the pressure society has put on them."

Milk said many homosexuals may keep their sexual preference a secret because they fear losing their jobs. "They have to stay in the closet," he said. Another spokesman for the gay community, teacher Hank Wilson, said the case represents society's "double standards" in dealing with crimes involving homosexuals.

"You never hear about the heterosexual murderer who had killed 12 women after raping them," he said.

Gov. Hunt Says State Erred On Dare Money

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has asked Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow to reconsider her refusal to grant Dare County $100,000 in public health funds because she disapproved of the county's health administrator.

"I think the government was wrong. I think we'll change it," Hunt said during a news conference Thursday.

Dare officials last week turned down the state funds, which would have supported five public health programs for the next 12 months, because contracts for the funds required their promise to replace health administrator Joseph J. Stokes, 60, with someone approved by Dr. Morrow.

Dr. Morrow had said Stokes, who is not a college graduate, did not meet the state's educational standards for the job.

so far this summer was 8,518 megawatts last Tuesday, but even that was no where near the record of 9,487 megawatts last Jan. 17.

Both companies do not foresee any problems after the industries resume work, even with continued hot weather.

"Of course, anything is possible, but I don't think it's probable," Coffin said. A string of "ifs," such as if equipment broke and if the weather got hotter, could combine to create problems, he said.

There aren't enough statistics to tell if consumers are heeding calls for conservation, but both Coffin and Morris said they believe consumers are cutting back.

"It's unscientific, but you can just get that feeling from talking to people," Coffin said. "We turned on the air conditioner at my house for the first time yesterday. The woman across the street said she hadn't used hers until yesterday, either."

Mephistopheles is played by Moscow's mastermind for southern Africa: Vasily Solodovnikov, Soviet ambassador to Zambia. He has enabled Nkomo to quickly recruit and arm 3,000 more guerrillas. While Nkomo's ZAPU associates in Salisbury deny the Soviets hold any mortgage, Nkomo at this writing is touring Eastern Europe in praise of the Soviet bloc. The Kremlin picked Nkomo as its man in Rhodesia and surely wants value in return.

That is bad news for Mugabe and ZANU guerrillas (also Soviet-supplied). Consequently, Mugabe's presence last week in Peking denouncing the Soviets suggests he has a new supplier. Moreover, ZANU guerrillas inside Rhodesia, instead of consolidating control in the east, are edging westward toward Zambia to preempt Nkomo's ZAPU guerrillas moving out of Zambia.

But ZAPU forces are getting better training, seem better disciplined and, unlike the challenge to Mugabe's authority by ZANU guerrilla chieftains, ZAPU loyalty is only to Nkomo. He has suddenly become the clear favorite to emerge on top in a military solution, but with the economy ruined and the Russian bear at his shoulder.

Amid these maneuvers, Bishop Muzorewa seems immobilized, unable to push for the election that is the only chance for him and for a moderate, biracial Zimbabwe replacing Rhodesia. I am sure the guerrillas do not want free elections, one of the Bishop's lieutenants here told us, but added: majority rule must be unconditional. That means Muzorewa will not risk his standing by negotiating with Smith for an election.

This evokes a sense of Greek tragedy, with everyone playing out his assigned role toward a culmination that will mean their ruin. Smith's insistence on protection for the whites is rejected by the guerrillas, blocking a negotiated settlement. At the same time, Smith's hopes for his own settlement seem doomed by the refusal of black moderates to have anything to do with him.

The prospect, therefore, is for escalated guerrilla war, aimed not at unachievable military victory but at the Smith regime's economic collapse as white emigration increases. Although white businessmen here fear collapse within a year, the war of attrition may well drag on much longer.

However long the war lasts, there is a sense of foreboding here shared by whites and black moderates that it will end with guerrillas riding in triumph down Salisbury's Jameson Street. They would bring the political and economic chaos accompanying the Soviet penetration of southern Africa. Tragically, such a disaster is contemplated just as white Rhodesians have belatedly accepted the need for black majority rule—the subject of a final column from Rhodesia.

Unearthed A Skeleton

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bones of a person believed to be another "trash bag" murder victim have been unearthed behind a house once occupied by the two avowed homosexuals who are charged in two murders and under investigation in 26 others.

The skeleton was found Thursday at a Culver City house.

One of the defendants, Patrick Kearney, provided information that led authorities to the lot, said sheriff's Lt. Ed Douglas. The triplex building where the two men lived from 1968 to 1970 is on a quiet residential street behind a movie studio that once housed Desilu Productions and is now Culver City Productions.

"This appears to be the first of the murders," Douglas said. "We believe this was the first residence in which they (Kearney and his codefendant, David Hill) lived together."

Kearney, 37, and Hill, 34, surrendered in Riverside last week and were arraigned on charges of murdering Arturo Marquez, 24, of Oxnard and John LaMay, 17, of El Segundo.

Authorities said Kearney identified the dead man only as George and said he had been fatally shot. Sheriff's deputies said the person whose remains were found had been shot through the head.

Neighbors who lived several doors away while the two men supposedly were there said they did not know Kearney or Hill.

With Thursday's discovery, the two men have been linked with 11 uncovered bodies. Some of the victims were found dismembered in trash bags.

of you."

"Well, it hasn't been easy on any of us," Walpole continued in his letter. "Once you're hooked on water conservation it's hard to get off it. I've got the lawn hoses going all day long, the water is now running in the tub, and we're washing our clothes three times a day. I doubt if it will be enough to use up our allotment in time for our next water bill. But we're doing the best we can."

The last thing I want to do is be fined for saving water that the district has to sell us if it wants to stay in business."

When a Heifer Project International plane lands in an underdeveloped country, a herd of cows strolls down the ramp. The theory is to provide unending sustenance, according to Bill Peck, director of Heifer's Pacific Central Regional Office here. He said farm machinery and equipment may break down, crops may fail, supplies of food and medicine may run out ...

"But cows give milk until they die, provide offspring to keep up the supply and serve as catalysts around which community development can happen."

Heifer's 40-year-history abounds with examples that support Beck's claim. Cattle shipped to the Japanese island of Hokkaido in the early 1960s spawned that country's booming dairy industry, Beck said.

And on a smaller but no less dramatic level, 10 head of cattle flown to a mountain village near Pusan, Korea, several years ago have grown to a herd of 300, triggering construction of a milk products plant that revived the area's economy.

Now a $2.5 million-a-year operation that has sent 58,000 head into 96 countries, Heifer Project International grew out of one clergyman's haunting memory of starving Spanish civil war refugees.

Dan West, who died in 1970 at age 76, said he founded the organization because he could not shake the sight of a young girl dying of tuberculosis who might have been saved had she had enough milk.

That grim symbol of global hunger made him dedicate his life to providing as much of the world as possible with nature's most perfect food.

Besides the regional office here, West opened branches in Plymouth, Mass., Goshen, Ind., El Monte, Calif., and Heifer's world headquarters in Little Rock, Ark.

A national staff of about 20 administrators and "an army of volunteers" administer Heifer, Beck said. Revenue comes primarily from fund-raising efforts of the mission boards of various churches, and donors have been generous.

"Some people have told me, this is my best charity dollar," Beck said. "They know nobody can take a piece of a cow and use it for his own gain."

Although Heifer got its name for delivering cattle, the organization also transports goats, sheep, poultry, honey bees, pigs and rabbits. Last year shipments took animals to 26 foreign nations and 14 states. In this country Heifer specializes in launching beef cattle projects on Indian reservations.

Beck said Heifer depends on its contacts to alert the organization to a region's needs. Applications for Heifer animals begin when a missionary, Peace Corps worker or Heifer representative demonstrates a region's need. The foreign contact then prepares his community before the animals are shipped by teaching recipients how to care for them.

Youth Week Program Set

The D.C.Y.F. and the Youth Church will observe the First Annual Youth Week program Monday through Sunday. The theme for the week is "Youth and the Ten Commandments."

Included in the activities will be ministers and choirs from other churches in the area:

Monday - Rev. James Brown of Little Creek in Ayden and the Zion Hill Choir.
Tuesday - Rev. Royal of St. Paul's in New Bern.
Wednesday - Rev. Charlie Wilson of St. Phillip's in New Bern.
Thursday - Rev. Slade of St. Matthew's in New Bern.
Friday - Rev. Charles White of Evangelist Temple in Kinston.

The week's services will climax with a 3 p.m. program Sunday. Gifts, certificates and medals will be awarded to outstanding church members, with a king and queen being selected from St. Paul's Disciple Church.

CONDUCTING REVIVAL
The Rev. Hassell Williams of Charleston, S.C., will conduct revival services at Noah's Ark FSHG Deliverance Church today at 8 p.m. in which is invited.

WILBUR RAY NICHOLS, spokesman for the group in Greenville, said nearly 1,000,000 persons are expected at the "joyful workers" district conventions.

He said about 200 delegates from Greenville will attend a four-day assembly scheduled for the Hampton, Va., coliseum July 21-24.

The principal address of the convention will be Sunday, July 24, at 2 p.m. on "How God's Kingdom Can Benefit You."

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - Ninety-two years ago the Austrian government rejected President Grover Cleveland's designee as U.S. ambassador to Vienna because he had a Jewish wife. President Cleveland refused to nominate another ambassador, and the Austrian capital remained in that period without an official U.S. minister.

This bit of history was recalled by the American Jewish Congress in noting that President Carter has appointed as the present ambassador to Austria a prominent Jewish community leader from Cleveland, businessman Milton A. Wolf, 53, who has been active in Jewish affairs there.

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - The 10-minute public meeting was preceded by a three-hour closed session. The commissioners declined public comment, and a statement was read saying the ban was being extended because they did not have enough information on which to base a decision.

WASHINGTON - A musical program will be held at Triumph Missionary Baptist Church, Rt. 3, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Music will be presented by the Spiritual Aires of Kinston. The program is being sponsored by the Junior Ushers of the church. The public is invited to attend.

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) - The dean of the Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, the Rev. Dr. Stanley Harakas, has urged a moratorium on recombinant DNA research. Of the controversial genetic research, he says he believes that when "all of the evil potential has become an issue of public knowledge, we will not tolerate continuing experiments in this area."

WASHINGTON - A musical program will be held at Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church during the weekend. The following services have been scheduled: tonight at eight o'clock, membership conference; Saturday at 8 p.m., holy communion; Sunday at 9:30 a.m., Sunday School; at 11 a.m., the morning worship service will be conducted by the pastor, Elder Jesse L. Wilson and dinner will be served; at 3 p.m., Bishop J. N. Gilbert and Arthur's Chapel FWB Church, Bell Arthur, will be guests. The public is invited.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A survey by the Greater New Orleans Federation of Churches finds that church attendance is on the upswing there and has been climbing for the past two years.

"Daybreak," a musical group from Christian Heritage College of San Diego, will present a concert program at People's Baptist Temple Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Fear Clean Air Battle Is Diverting Attention

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
KINGSTON, Tenn. (AP) - Tennessee lawmakers touring the Tennessee Valley Authority's Kingston power plant Wednesday left with the impression that the battle over clean air is diverting attention from solving the nation's energy needs.

"The Tennessee legislature has little impact on the orders that come out of Washington," said Lt. Gov. John Wilder. "You don't know but that the standards will be changed tomorrow or the next day. I just hope we don't blow it."

TVA used the occasion to explain one more time the basis of its three-year fight with the Environmental Protection Agency over sulfur dioxide emissions at 10 of its 12 coal-fired power plants.

EPA has wanted TVA to install costly scrubbers at four of its older power plants to meet the emissions but the government utility instead has tentatively opted to come into compliance with the law by purchasing low-sulfur coal mined in the West.

Lewis Wallace, TVA's assistant general counsel, said the low-sulfur coal option would still raise the authority's power costs $375 million a year, which translates into a 17 per cent rate increase for consumers.

He said the scrubbers, which require 6 to 10 per cent of a generating plant's power output to operate, would add another $100 million to the $375 million, forcing consumer's bills even higher.

"The question is what's reasonable," said Wilder. "The more energy you use to clean the air, the less you have to use somewhere else."

Sens. Ed. Gillock, D-Memphis, and Ben Atchley, R-Knoxville, said congressmen and others from the Northeast may be imposing the regulations on TVA to force its power bills upward and reduce the region's ability to attract new industry.

That same view was expressed in the last session of the legislature when lawmakers were considering resolutions in support of TVA's fight to complete its Tellico Dam in East Tennessee despite its threat to a rare three-inch fish called the snail darter.

Wallace said TVA is now awaiting congressional action on two amendments to the federal Clean Air Act that are to be taken up by a conference committee next week.

One of the amendments, by Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., could save $58 million a year in TVA's antipollution costs by, in effect, exempting the Kingston plant from ground level sulfur emission standards.

The other amendment could raise TVA's anticipated $375 million annual cost of meeting EPA standards another $100 million. Sponsored in the Senate by Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and in the House by Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., it could prevent TVA and other utilities in the East from purchasing low-sulfur coal in the West.

'Blackbeard' Opens Tonight

BATH, N. C. (AP) - One of North Carolina's newest outdoor dramas, concerning one of the 18th Century's most celebrated pirates, Blackbeard, gets its first summer season under way tonight.

The drama, with a cast of about 50 persons, will be performed Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through Aug. 14 at a newly constructed 500-seat outdoor theater on the waterfront of this oldest incorporated town in the state.

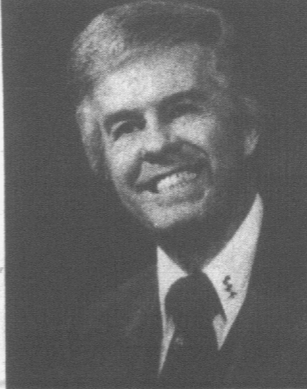

The drama is a product of research by Dr. John D. Ebbs of East Carolina University and was written and directed by Stuart Aronson, an ECU faculty member.

Blackbeard was beheaded in 1718 by the British naval officer, Lt. Maynard, who was sent from Virginia waters to hunt the pirate down.

Blackbeard made his home for a time at Plum Point, across the creek from Bath. The Committee for an Outdoor Drama at Bath, Inc., sponsor of the play, plans to make it an annual performance in the tradition of "The Lost Colony" on Roanoke Island, the state's oldest outdoor drama.

The play, entitled "Blackbeard, Knight of the Black Flag," concerns the known exploits in the early 1700s of Edward Teach, who finally was killed in a battle near Ocracoke Island.

An Ice Cream Man Must Like Kids, Says 30-Year Veteran

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Hell hath no fury like the sidewalks of New York on a steamy summer day.

East Side, West Side, all around the town, boys and girls cavort under fireplug sprinklers, splash in gutter rivulets, run barefoot from shade to shade on soft asphalt. On 20th Street a block from the East River, they line up at Sam the ice cream man's white pushcart.

Sam Batchoff, a man of good humor, has been selling ice cream at the same corner for 30 years.

"What is Nathan's famous for?" Sam calls out.

"Hot dogs!" chorus the kids gathered around his cart.

"What is Sam famous for?"

"Sammy's Whammys!" cry the kids, and run away laughing.

A Whammy, for the benefit of all over 12, is a cold confection on a stick and costs 10 pennies, or six, or nine, however many a small fist happens to hold. Sam rarely counts. "What are you going to do," he says, reaching into the cart through a mist of magic vapor, "not give it to them?"

According to one well-placed observer, Joey Varua, a nine-year-old connoisseur of almond bars, "Sam is the popularest guy in the neighborhood."

No argument there. Last year on July 2 the neighborhood women, many of them former members of Sam's clientele, greeted him on his corner with a big cake and some nice summer shirts and several boxes of cigars and stood with their kids and sang Happy Birthday to

SAME CORNER FOR 30 YEARS — Sam Batchoff, who's been selling ice cream at the same corner for 30 years, reaches into his pushcart as youngsters watch. "If you're an ice cream man and don't like kids, you're in the wrong job", says Sam. (AP Wirephoto)

You. Sam's eyes, which are chocolate, moistened. He examined the shirts, lit a cigar, composed himself, thanked the ladies. Then he passed out the cake to the kids.

"If you're an ice cream man and don't like kids you're in the wrong job," Sam said.

"No, I never had children of my own but they're all my children if you know what I mean. I know nearly all of them by name. I know their mothers and fathers. I've watched them grow up and go off to college and get married.

"They come back and visit me and bring their kids and say, 'Honey, this is Sam. I used to get ice cream from Sam when I was a little girl.' Yes, I know them all and I guess they all know me."

Is that so, kids? Is there anybody in the neighborhood who doesn't know Sam? The kids pondered the question a long moment.

"Conroy. Maybe Conroy doesn't know Sam," said Joey, polishing off his third almond bar.

"Yeah, maybe," said Phillip the fudge bar freak, "but Conroy's only been here a month. Conroy doesn't count."

To Sam Batchoff they all count, every sticky-fingered one of them, because they are his life.

Children Playing On A Railroad Track Ignored Whistle; 3 Killed

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer
HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (AP) — It's a sight dreaded by every train engineer — kids on the tracks, heads down.

Larry Van Daele was pulling his 15-car freight toward its home yard after a daily run to Los Angeles harbor Thursday when he spotted four children, hand in hand, idly stepping from tie to tie, a Union Pacific spokesman said.

Slowly, they came toward him.

He sounded his diesel's shrill whistle. But they kept coming.

He sounded the whistle again and threw on the emergency brake.

The train slowed, but only gradually.

Brakeman Maurice Dieu leaped from the train, running and waving at the kids. The railroad said the freight was traveling at less than the 20 m.p.h. train yard speed limit.

"But the four of them, they were looking directly down at the ties," said Dieu.

He said he climbed onto the platform in front of the engine.

"I thought, well, maybe my voice might carry ... I have no idea why they didn't hear the whistle."

Three of the children were killed on the rails as the train ground to a stop. The fourth was critically injured.

No one knows why they didn't move.

"The brakeman got out and waved and hollered and everything else," said Union Pacific spokesman John Forbes. "Have you ever heard a diesel whistle? It turns you blue."

But Van Daele "was pushing a thousand tons ... He tried, but trains don't stop like automobiles," Forbes said.

"Before we identified them, we thought they might be handicapped," Forbes said of the children. "We thought they might be deaf."

Amanda Lack, 7; her 6-year-old brother Jason, 6; and Julie Kline, 10, were killed. Julie's 8-year-old sister Holly was listed in "extremely critical" condition at St. Francis Hospital after undergoing emergency surgery.

On their way home from a morning in the park on a hot summer day, they had decided to stop at the trainyard in this largely industrial suburb.

"They use it as a playground, unfortunately," Forbes said.

"There are kids all over."

Forbes said Van Daele "saw their faces and he just couldn't understand why they didn't move. That engineer is damn near in shock."

"Their eyes were on the track bed," Forbes said. "It seems impossible. Just impossible."

PWP Chapter Meets Tonight

Greenville Chapter No. 1058, Parents Without Partners, Inc. will hold its general chapter meeting tonight at 7:30 at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Featured as speaker will be Carolyn Hibbard, director, Pitt County Information Center. The program will be tailored for single parents and what is available to them in the Pitt County area. Prospective members are welcome at the meeting.

On Saturday the group will leave the Jarvis Methodist Church parking lot for the Fort Macon beach and picnic area. Departure time is 8:30 a.m. Members and courtesy card holders are welcome at the family function and are reminded to bring a picnic lunch.

Talk Permanent Swimming Ban

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The drownings of four persons "who weren't sufficiently afraid of water" may lead to a permanent ban on swimming at a Mecklenburg County park on Lake Wylie.

The four deaths, including a mother and her son, occurred since McDowell Park opened for swimming in May.

Three of the victims died in deep water outside a designated swimming area and the fourth drowned after swimming to the outer limit of the ropedoff swimming area.

A temporary ban on all swimming was imposed at the park after Mrs. Connie Wade Hardy, 26, of Gastonia; and her son Anthony, 9, drowned Wednesday. Park officials were to meet today to discuss a permanent swimming ban at the year-old park 20 miles south of Charlotte.

"I'm very alarmed and saddened but what do you do? I don't know, maybe we'll have to put up a wire fence, and just let people come down and look at the water through the fence," said T. LaFontaine Odum, chairman of the county Park and Recreation Commission.

"The tragedies that have occurred at McDowell have apparently stemmed from the people themselves, who weren't sufficiently afraid of water," he said.

Park officials said the lake's bottom outside the designated area slopes sharply and is marked with deep holes.

A 12-year-old boy was pulled from the lake Monday after he slipped in water over his head outside the swimming area.

Mrs. Hardy and her son drowned in a cove not far from the roped-off swimming area. Authorities said the two were wading fully clothed in shallow water when Anthony moved away from his mother and slipped into a hole where the water was 15 to 20 feet deep. Mrs. Hardy drowned while trying to rescue her son.

Lifeguards in the swimming area were unaware of the incidents until it was too late.

"It's a shame, it really is, when people see a sign saying they should swim only in designated areas, and they still walk into a (no swimming) area that's over their heads, where you can't see two feet below the surface," Odum said.

Moore, co-owner. The store will sell clothes for children from ages, birth to teens. Store hours, according to Moore, will be from 10-8:30, Monday through Friday, and open till 6 p.m. on Saturday. (Reflector Staff Photo)

City Council...

Mrs. McGrath observed. Mayor Percy Cox agreed with Mattox that the property is not suited for residential use. He said that he had some reservations about voting against the recommendation of the planning board.

In voting against the motion, Fuller said that he felt that the request represented spot zoning. The motion to approve the rezoning request was a substitute to a motion by Mrs. McGrath to deny the request.

No opposition was stated during a public hearing on a request by James T. Cheatham for rezoning from RA-20 to R-6 of 3.02 acres on the east side of NC 43 south of Carriage House Apartment. The proposed development, it was explained, would represent a duplicate of the complex located adjacent to the property. Approval of the request was unanimous.

Approval was also given to a request by F. L. Blount Jr. for rezoning from Neighborhood Commercial to Office and Institutional of 2.11 acres located east of Charles Boulevard and north of 14th Street. A public hearing on the request was held with no opposition voiced.

The Council voted to approve a request for rezoning H. G. Stocks property, involving 32.6 acres on the south side of US 264 Bypass near the Greenville Mall site, from Highway Commercial and Shopping Center.

It was explained during a public hearing that the original request for the property sought a buffer of Office and Institutional zoning contiguous to the proposed mall site but the Shopping Center buffer zone was endorsed after studying the area. The property is located on the north side of the bypass.

The annexation request of Fred Mattox for approximately 16 acres located west of the new hospital was approved with no opposition voiced during the public hearing. The annexation involves Section I of The Professional Center.

Following another public hearing, the Council adopted a long-awaited ordinance regulating the planting, maintenance, and removal of trees on public areas and rights-of-way and for the pruning, treatment, and removal of trees on private property which endanger public health, safety, or welfare of the city.

Approval was also given to a request by the E. B. Higgs heirs for the closing of a 30-foot alley which separates four lots in the Higgs Subdivision.

Action on a resolution closing a portion of River Drive from Eastern Street easterly to Johnson Heights remained on the table until the August meeting. A public hearing on the request, submitted by M. K. Blount Sr., was held at the June meeting and the matter was tabled at that time.

Several residents have indicated opposition to the closing of the River Drive section.

The Council adopted a revised Airport Zoning Ordinance which regulates zoning in the area of the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

Council members unanimously approved a resolution honoring former mayor W. L. Whedbee who died here recently. The Council and members of the audience stood in a moment of silent prayer in tribute to the former city official and supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade.

City Manager Jim Caldwell announced that requirements have been met by the Pipeline, located in the basement of the Proctor Hotel, for an on-premise beer and wine privilege license. The matter was tabled for several weeks in order for the business to comply with code requirements. Approval of the application was unanimous with Fuller offering the motion.

The Council approved the nomination of Wes Hankins, chairman of the Urban Planning Department at East Carolina University, to replace Arnett Harris who has resigned his post on the Planning and Zoning Commission. Hankins will serve the unexpired term ending in June of 1978.

Ed Yancey and Ms. Liz Wilkerson, who have completed their first terms on the Public Transportation Commission, were reappointed to new three-year terms on the board.

In new business on the long agenda, the Council approved a request by the Airport Authority for authorization to sell a parcel of land located on the east side of US 13-11 south of Airport Road adjacent to the Pitt County Fairgrounds.

Caldwell noted that the parcel involves only 1.48 acres with a maximum depth of 100 feet and adjoins the current 14 acres of fairground property.

J. T. Little Jr., chairman of the Airport Authority, explained that the American Legion, which owns the fairground property, is making plans to sell the land and relocate the fairgrounds. He said that it is his understanding that the prospective buyer of the current fairground property would drop in the wholesale price index. Gainers led losers by better than a 2-1 margin in the late-morning tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.19 at 910.70.

Trading was active. Big Board volume totalled 7.08 million shares in the first hour.

An hour before the opening the government reported that the wholesale price index fell 0.6 per cent in June, thanks to a big drop in farm and food prices.

It was the largest monthly decline recorded by the index in nearly four years.

Favorable as the news was, its impact on the market was evidently muted by the fact that it had been widely anticipated.

Dow Chemical led the active list, down 3/4 at 32 1/4 in trading that included a 334,500-share block at 32.

U.S. Natural Resources, opening late, picked up 3/4 to 7 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange. The company said it had received an $8.25-a-share acquisition offer from a private investment firm.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was up .14 at 54.98.

The Amex market value index climbed .49 to 121.09.

like to have the additional 1.48 acres and therefore the American Legion's sale hinges on the availability of the small parcel.

Little added that the sale of the Authority's small tract, which is across the road from the airport, would have to be through a bid process and there is no assurance that the interested buyer would be the successful bidder.

Proceeds from the sale of the parcel would go to the airport's capital improvements fund, it was noted.

Other business on the agenda included: Repurchase of a four-grave lot in Greenwood Cemetery purchased by F. L. Blount Sr. for $200;

Repurchase of two cemetery lots in Greenwood purchased by Mrs. Carolyn E. Meeks in 1958 for $70. (Mrs. Meeks is now deceased);

Scheduling of Aug. 4 and Aug. 18 for public hearings to consider major amendments to the 1975-76, 1976-77, and 1977-78 Community Development Programs;

Authorization to enter into a contract with Robert M. Leary and Associates Inc. of Raleigh for a Land Development Codes Review Study;

Authorization for the staff to submit an application for funding of a transit promoter to the Energy Division of the North Carolina Department of Commerce (grants are available with no local matching fund requirements);

Adoption of a resolution finding facts by the City Council that the unimproved portion of Fourth Street between Hilltop Avenue and Hickory Street should be improved with curb, gutter and paving;

Adoption of a preliminary resolution concerning the proposed project for special assessment on a section of Fourth Street and setting Aug. 4 as the date for a public hearing;

Adoption of a resolution authorizing the director of Public Works to submit a request to the Division of Health Services, North Carolina Department of Human Resources, for aid in the control of mosquitoes (funds available from the department);

Adoption of an ordinance revising the Position Classification Plan to incorporate revisions approved in the 1977-78 city budget;

Scheduling of a public hearing on Aug. 4 on a request by the Redevelopment Commission for rezoning from Industrial, R-6, and Highway Commercial to Unoffensive Industry and R-6 of 28.75 acres located on the south side of Norfolk and Southern Railroad between Perkins and Evans Streets;

Acceptance of annual reports of the Board of Adjustments and the Joint City-County Board of Adjustments;

Approval of application by Fa-Stop at 3014 Memorial Drive for an off-premise beer and wine privilege license;

Approval, with Mrs. McGrath voting no, of a request by Paul Whitehurst, 1312 VanDyke Street for release of interest on 1972 paving assessment in the amount of $101.07;

Approval of a request by James Clarence Hodges for release and refund of 1976 taxes in the amount of $26.05;

Approval of request by Jerry Cox, Tar River Swim Club, for a refund of a privilege license fee of $15 purchased for the sale of premise beer; and Denial of request by Gladys Vance Hall for release of $46.65 in 1977 city taxes.

Greenville Post 39 Romps Past Johnston County For 20-3 Win

Greenville's American Legion baseball team had an easy time winning the first game of its best-of-three playoff series with Johnston County last night, blasting 22 hits for a 20-3 victory. Ned Craft and Al Butts led the attack with four hits each for Post 39. Craft was 4-5 and Butts 4-6. Greg Lee added three hits for Greenville in six at-bats, along with scoring four runs. Ronnie Chapman, Mike Shank and Kevin Adams had two hits apiece. Mike Williams was the winning pitcher, picking up his fifth victory of the season against just one loss. Reliever Henry Baker came on in the seventh to pitch Post 39 out of a jam, getting three straight outs with the bases loaded. One run scored on a passed ball, however. Greenville got things rolling with two runs in the first. Nuggie Worthington led off with a double and scored on Shank's base hit. Shank went to third on an error and came in when Craft singled. Johnston County cut it to 2-1 in the top of the third. Jimmy Mitchell reached on a fielder's choice, moved around on an error and Chris Parker's single and scored on a wild pitch. Greenville scored three more in the bottom of the frame. Craft singled with one away and went to second on Wright Hooks' infield out. Adams walked and Craft scored when Lee reached on an error. Lee stole second and Butts knocked both runners in with a single. Greenville exploded for seven runs in the fifth to take a 12-1 lead. Adams walked and Lee singled before Butts scored both runners with a two-base error. Williams knocked Butts home with a base hit and then he scored on a single by Chapman. Chapman went to second on an error and came in when Shank got a base hit. Craft got a hit and he and Shank were plated by Hooks' double. Johnston County scored its final runs in the top of the seventh. Wayne Nixon led off with a bunt single and walks to Donny Cockrell. Wayne Johnson and Stevie Smith scored him. That was when Baker came in. He struck out the first batter he faced on three straight pitches and fanned the second, despite a passed ball which allowed Cockrell to score. Baker then forced the third batter to ground to second and end the threat. Greenville came back in the bottom of the frame to more than make up for the two Johnston County runs, however. Chapman was hit by a pitch and Shank reached on a fielder's choice. Craft singled in Chapman and, after Kevin Adams' single, Shank scored on Greg Lee's base hit. Craft came around on Butts' single and Adams and Lee were plated when Baker reached on an error to give Post 39 a 17-3 lead. The local team pushed across three final runs in the eighth as Hooks reached on a fielder's choice, Joey Mattheis walked and Lee singled. All three came around on Butts' double, giving him a total of six runs batted in for the game. The next game of the series will be tonight in Smithfield. Maltbie Roars Into British Open Lead TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — "It's a bit disappointing," said Roger Maltbie, who came from nowhere to lead the British Open Golf Championship at the halfway point. "I expected different weather and a different kind of golf." In windless conditions — almost unknown on Turnberry's Ailsa links — the 26-year-old bespectacled golfer from San Jose, Calif., who ranks 50th on the U.S. money winners' list, shot a four-under-par 66 Thursday for a two-round total of 137. He was one shot ahead of U.S. Open champion Hubert Green and three former British Open champions — Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson. Maltbie was not the only American who came to Scotland expecting high winds and felt let down by the strange calm. "This was going to be an experience for me," Maltbie said. "I wanted to learn the pitch and run shots which I hear so much about from Scotland. "I know it's a shot I would not be very good at. But instead we are playing the kind of golf we get in America. I've only played four or five real pitch and run shots the whole time I've been here." The rare good weather produced sensations. Green holed in one at the 167-yard fourth — the fourth competitive ace of his career. Mark Hayes shot 63 — the lowest round ever recorded in the 117-year history of the British Open and tied for fifth place on 139 with Peter Butler of Britain. Yet only a dozen men broke par on the 6,875-yard course. "That is a tribute to the golf course," said Watson. "It is not an easy golf course, even when there is no wind." The old course record for the British Open was 65, first set by Britain's Henry Cotton at Sandwich in 1934. Eight players have equalled it since.

LOUISBURG — Louisburg College handed East Carolina University its second straight North Carolina Summer League loss last night, taking an 8-4 decision over the Pirates. The win entrenched Louisburg in second place, as the Hurricanes raised their record to 14-5. East Carolina tumbled back to 9-6, but held onto third in the standings. Max Raynor led the way past the Pirates, slamming two home runs against the team he will join next fall as a transfer student. Raynor also added another hit to go three-for-four during the evening. Mickey Britt took the defeat, his second straight also, as he fell to 5-2. He gave up 13 hits, but only three of the runs against him were earned. He walked just two and struck out 10. Lynn Bradley gained the win, but had to have help in the sixth inning from Bill Lucas, another Pirate-bound Hurricane. East Carolina started the scoring in the first inning, getting a single run. Bobby Supel got a two-out walk and Raymie Styons singled. Jim Gibson, courtsey runner for Styons stole second, and when the ball was thrown away on the attempt to get Gibson, Supel stroled home. Louisburg came back with a run in the third to tie it up. Brian Little reached on a bunt single and Raynor singled. Nick Dunn followed with another hit, scoring Little. The Hurricanes pushed ahead with a run in the fourth. Butch Gillis reached on a two-base error and scored on a single by Tim Wilcox. Then, in the fifth, Louisburg picked up three runs to go out into a 5-1 lead. Raynor and Dunn started it off with back-to-back home runs. Chuck Barclift then singled and scored on Wilcox's double. East Carolina cut the gap with three in the sixth. Eddie Gates singled and Supel doubled him home. Robert Brinkley then doubled in Supel, and scored on a triple by Tommy Warrick. But the Pirates were put out of reach by three more Louisburg runs in the eighth. Kevin Niewulis singled and was sacrificed up. Little reached on an error, scoring Niewulis and Raynor finished it up with his second homer, a two-run affair. The Pirates return home tonight to entertain Campbell College in a 7:30 p.m. game at Harrington Field.

College View, Dairy Vie For Tourney Title

College View, which tied for the regular season Babe Ruth title, losing it in a playoff, moved into the finals of the post-season tournament along with upstart Carolina Dairy last night. The two teams will meet tonight in the finals of the tournament, with a 6 p.m. game set at Guy Smith Stadium. Should a second game be needed it will be played at 8 p.m. College View, the lone unbeaten in the double elimination field, handed Pepsi-Cola its first loss, 9-2, in the second game of the evening. Carolina Dairy, which finished fifth in the regular season, stomped champion NCNB, 12-4, in the first game, then ousted Pepsi-Cola, 3-0, in the finale to gain the finals of the tourney.

In the opening game, Carolina Dairy pushed over two runs in the first. Peter Pace reached on an error and Marshall Heath singled. David Carroll walked and another walk, to Lenn Jackson, scored Pace. Kelly Kee reached on an error, scoring Heath. NCNB came back with one in the bottom of the first. Mark Shank reached on a three-base error and scored when Mike Campbell reached on a fielder's choice. NCNB then tied it up in the third with a run. Glenn Moore walked and moved to third on two passed balls. He scored when Campbell grounded out. The fifth saw Carolina Dairy score two more, with NCNB following right behind with two for a 4-4 deadlock. But in the sixth, Carolina Dairy came up with five runs to put it away. Tom Brown reached on an error and scored when Skip Hill singled. Pace reached on an error and Heath singled, scoring Hill. Carroll doubled to score both Pace and Heath and Carroll scored when Johnny Williams reached on an error. Carolina Dairy then added three more in the seventh. Heath led the Dairy hitting with three, while Carroll and Kee each had two. NCNB got only one hit off the pitching of Hill, that a sixth-inning single by Jeff Wilson. In the second game, College View pushed over its first run in the second. Mark Jones walked and moved to third on an error. He scored on a passed ball. Pepsi pushed over two in the third. Mark Douglas singled and moved up on an out. Bob Morehead singled and Al Shackleford singled in Douglas. Billy Dough got a hit to score Morehead. But College View came right back with two to put the game away, 3-2. Ricky West walked and moved to third on an error. Kenny Barnes reached on an error, scoring West. Patrick Wilson and Arthur Fletcher both singled, scoring Barnes. College View added six insurance runs in the fifth. Morehead had three hits to lead Pepsi, while Wilson had two hits for College View. In the final game of the evening, Carolina Dairy pushed over

Times May Be Changed

Hang in there, fans, this one is a little complicated. East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina will meet Saturday night at Harrington Field at 7:30 p.m., maybe. That's when the game is scheduled. But at the same time, Greenville's American Legion team, which also plays at Harrington, may have to play a game with Smithfield in the best-of-three series for the right to move into the area finals in the Legion playoffs. So here's is how it will work. If Greenville, a 20-3 winner over Smithfield last night, does not win tonight, East Carolina will play Carolina at 6 p.m., with the Legion teams squaring off in Harrington at 8:30 p.m. approximately. If Greenville wins tonight, clinching the title, the ECU-UNC game will go on as scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

Tanana Angered By Early Pounding

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Frank Tanana acted like Little Boy Blue.

Tanana, the spirited, young California left-hander, was uncharacteristically downcast after his worst pitching performance of the season Thursday night as the Angels were beaten by the Minnesota Twins 8-6.

After being battered out in the fourth inning, his earliest knockout in 20 starts this season, Tanana waved and made an uncomplimentary gesture to the Minnesota crowd amidst a chorus of boos.

"I happen to like Tanana personally and as a player, but I hate to see him or anyone of that caliber, act like a little boy," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch.

Tanana later apologized for his actions. "I had no business doing what I did," he said contritely. "It was uncalled for. I guess it was the frustration of not doing the job I'm capable of doing."

AL Roundup

Meanwhile, New York's Catfish Hunter did what he is capable of doing. The Yankees right-hander pitched a four-hitter for his best showing of the season as New York pounded Cleveland 8-2 for its 13th straight triumph over the Indians in two seasons.

"I'm encouraged because my arm felt good," said Hunter, who has been plagued by arm trouble virtually all season. "That's the most important thing. When my arm feels good, it makes my whole body feel good. I was hitting my spots and making good pitches."

In other AL games, the Boston Red Sox moved into a virtual second-place tie in the East with idle Baltimore, one game behind New York, downing the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 and the Texas Rangers battered the Oakland A's 8-3.

The Milwaukee at Kansas City game was rained out.

"Tanana wasn't himself," Minnesota's Butch Wynegar said after collecting three hits and driving in three runs.

Tanana was far from his best. He was shelled for eight hits and five runs in 3 2-3 innings. The loss dropped the record of the AL's winningest pitcher — and probable starter in the All-Star Game — to 12-6. It was only the fourth time he failed to go the distance.

Meanwhile, Hunter's complete game effort was only his fourth in 11 starts and raised his record to 5-3.

New York outfielder Lou Piniella blasted a two-run homer for the Yanks, Paul Blair rapped a two-run triple and Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 2
Carlton Fisk drove in three runs with his 16th homer of the season and a sacrifice fly and Jim Rice collected three hits, including his 20th homer, as Boston completed a three-game sweep over Toronto. Fisk homered off loser Jesse Jefferson, 5-8, after Rice doubled off the centerfield wall in the seventh.

Red Sox' relief ace Bill Campbell pitched three scoreless innings for his 16th save, preserving the victory for Bob Stanley, 5-3.

Rangers 8, A's 3
Toby Harrah broke a 3-3 tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, then cracked a solo homer in the seventh, powering Texas past Oakland.

Texas reliever Roger Moret, injured most of the season, pitched 3 1-3 innings of hitless ball for his first victory.

Pitt All-Stars Capture Opener

WASHINGTON — The Pitt County Babe Ruth All-Stars advanced in the winners' bracket of the 14-15 year old tournament in Washington last night, but the 13-year-old team fell into the losers' bracket.

In the 14-15 bracket, Pitt County rolled to a 12-3 victory over Pamlico County. Tony Eason hurled the win, allowing only two hits.

Ben Hyman led the Pitt County hitting, getting two in four trips, including a two-run homer in the third.

After scoring one in the second and two in the third, Pitt County added two more in the fourth. But it was seven fifth inning runs that made the difference.

In the fifth, Brady Quinn singled and Billy McLawhorn doubled. Arnell Credle singled, scoring two runs. Eugene Joyner walked and Tony Eason reached on an error. Walks to Curtis Spencer and Sammy Tucker brought in two runs, and before it was over, Eason, Spencer, and Tucker all scored.

Pamlico's three came in the fourth.

In the 13-year-old game, Washington downed Pitt County, 11-8. Doug McRoy took the loss.

Roy Lassiter went 3-4 and Billy Bunting, 3-5, for Pitt County.

The 14-15 team will meet the winner of the Washington-Pamlico winner on Saturday afternoon. The 13-year-olds take on Pamlico County tonight.

The two survivors of the tournament advance to Greenville next week for the district tournament.

Schmidt's Three-Run Homer Keys Phillies

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Mike Schmidt never has enjoyed playing baseball more — but the same cannot be said of the pitchers he faces.

Schmidt's bat has been a thorn in the side of National League moundsmen of late, and Thursday night he continued to bring more grief to them.

NL Roundup

The red-hot Philadelphia Phillies' slugger smashed a three-run homer, leading a 6-4 victory over the New York Mets, and afterwards confessed, "I'm having more fun now than I've ever had in baseball."

Schmidt's euphoria is understandable. He has been on base 22 of his last 26 at-bats and admits: "I'm placing all the pressure on the guy on the mound. I'm hitting. He knows I'm a tough out now."

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the San Diego Padres 5-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 7-4.

Schmidt socked his homer in the third inning, and Greg Luzinski's single and an error produced the winning runs in the fourth for Philadelphia.

Garry Maddox opened the Phillies' third with a single and took third on Larry Bowa's double. Schmidt then hit his 25th homer of the season, giving the Phillies a 3-0 lead against Nino Espinosa, 4-7.

Final Pairings

GRIFTON — Rogers Furniture and Bethel advanced to tonight's finals of the Southern Pitt Little League tournament with victories in a pair of games last night. Rogers downed the Bears 7-5 and Bethel took a 4-3 victory over Chicod.

In the first game, Doug Coley pitched Rogers to the win, while the losing pitcher was Riccarille. Maurice Thorbs was the leading hitter for Rogers and Smithwick hit a home run for the Bears.

Victor Grimes went 4-4 in leading Bethel to its win in eight innings. Robbie Bazen and Chris Stancill were each 2-4 for Chicod and Bazen was the losing pitcher. Hines was the winner for Bethel.

The championship game will be tonight when Rogers faces Bethel at 8 p.m. in Grifton.

Rick Reuschel recorded his 12th victory and Larry Blittner smacked his second homer in as many games as Chicago defeated St. Louis. Staked to a first-inning unearned run, Reuschel, who has lost twice, struggled all the way, allowing nine hits, and retired the side in order only twice. The shutout ran his streak of scoreless innings to 16 2-3.

Giants 5, Padres 2
Rookie left-hander Bob Knepper teamed with Randy Moffitt on a five-hitter as San Francisco snapped an eight-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Knepper, 2-3, had a one-hit shutout until Gene Tenace's double, Bill Almon's single and Mike Champion's double-play grounder produced San Diego's run in the fifth. He allowed five hits through eight innings. Moffitt pitched the ninth.

The Giants, going without an error for the first time in 14 games, got a two-run single from Gary Thomasson.

Campbell Keeps Bosox In Race

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — One veteran baseball man calls ace reliever Bill Campbell of the Boston Red Sox a "freak" in a complimentary manner. Boston Manager Don Zimmer responds: "Just an amazing man, amazing."

Maybe Superman, rather than "Soup," should be Campbell's nickname. Despite the Red Sox' sluggers, Campbell is the No. 1 reason Boston is only one game behind the first-place New York Yankees in the American League East.

The 28-year-old right-hander, signed for a reported $1.1 million in the free agent sweepstakes last November, did his job again Thursday night as the Red Sox completed a three-game series sweep with a 5-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Making his fourth appearance in five days, Campbell blanked Toronto on two hits for three innings, earning his 16th save while preserving the victory for starter Bob Stanley, 5-3.

Campbell was directly responsible for all three decisions over Toronto as the Red Sox bounced back from a nine-game losing streak.

After blanking Baltimore for 2 2-3 innings in a losing cause Sunday, Campbell earned the victory against Toronto Monday. After an off-day Tuesday, he was the winner again Wednesday night with 2 2-3 hitless innings.

In the four games, Campbell pitched a total of 10 innings, allowing just two hits, striking out 13 and walking four. With a 7-5 record in addition to his 16 saves, he has appeared in 36 games and been accountable for 23 of Boston's 44 victories.

Grady Hatton, former major league player and manager, and a veteran scout now with the San Francisco Giants, followed the Red Sox on the six-game homestand.

Watching Campbell again from a seat in the stands Wednesday night, Hatton scribbled into his notebook, "Freak." It caused a near riot as a young female fan spotted the notation and took exception. "Here the game was going on and I had to take time out to cool her down," Hatton said with a grin. "I had to explain that I didn't think he was a physical or mental freak. I told her that was just my way of describing a very unusual pitcher."

Dodgers 7, Astros 4
Dusty Baker belted a two-run homer to cap a five-run first inning, leading Los Angeles over Houston. Doug Rau, 9-1, earned his fourth straight victory, but was tagged for 13 hits, including two home runs, in 7 2-3 innings. Charlie Hough preserved the victory with his 19th save.

Cox, Graniteers In Finals

The Graniteers, regular season champions, rolled to an 18-6 win over Pitt Plaza last night to gain the finals of the post-season Prep League championship. The Graniteers, who have one loss in the double elimination tournament, will meet unbeaten Cox Realty tonight for the title at 6 p.m. at Jaycee Park. If a second game is needed, it will follow the first.

The Graniteers pushed over three runs in the first inning to take the lead. Ricky Owens tripled and scored on Scott Galloway's triple. Roger Williams walked and stole second. Both he and Galloway scored when Robert Still doubled.

Pitt Plaza came back with two in the bottom of the first. Billy Brannigan reached on an error and moved up on a passed ball. Jeff Porter singled to drive in Brannigan. Porter then stole both second and third and scored on Scott Wilson's hit.

Pitt Plaza then tied it up with one in the second. Raynor Casey doubled and Carl Woodworth reached on an error. Casey scored when Gordon Douglas grounded out.

The third saw Pitt Plaza take the lead with three more runs. Porter singled and moved up on an error. Donnie Daughtridge also singled. Wilson walked and a double by Chuck Allen scored both Porter and Daughtridge, but Wilson was thrown out when Casey reached on a fielder's choice. After Brannigan walked, Douglas singled in Allen.

The Graniteers then went to work in the fifth, scoring four runs to take a 7-6 lead. Crowell Pope walked and Owens reached on a two-base error. A wild pitch brought in Pope. Galloway walked and Williams grounded out, scoring Owens. Jim Whitehurst singled in Galloway with the tying run, and a hit by Tony Heath brought in Whitehurst with what proved to be the winning run.

The Graniteers then cracked through five runs in the sixth and added six more in the top of the seventh. Owens led the Graniteer hitting with three, while Williams and Whitehurst each had two. Allen had three and Porter and Wilson two hits each for Pitt Plaza.

'Emergency': Sometimes Opinions Get Into Show

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Robert A. Cinader says he doesn't often put his personal prejudices into "Emergency!" but they do slip in occasionally.

Cinader has been at the helm of the NBC series since its debut in January 1972, and a year ago was appointed to the Los Angeles County Paramedics Commission.

He said his close association with the paramedics — he has been going out on rescue calls for the past six years with the firm-medics — has given him some strong opinions about the operation.

medic problems that exist in the system in this county." One such occasion can be witnessed at 8 p.m. Saturday, when paramedics Gage (Randy Mantooth) and DeSoto (Kevin Tighe) agonize through a recertification test in a show first seen last November. Cinader said he disagrees with the manner in which recertification is currently administered.

Cinader said he avoids soap box stands because "they're not terribly entertaining and it's unfair for me to express a partisan point of view because people who disagree with me don't have equal access to the air."

The show is centered on the activities of a fire station, where the two paramedics work, and a hospital, where Robert Fuller and Bobby Troup are doctors and Julie London is a nurse. The doctors direct the activities of the paramedics by radio.

"Emergency!" which some people dismiss as kid stuff, has had an astonishing effect across the country. When it came on the air there were only five or six paramedic units in the country. Now there are about 250, and the series has received some of the credit from officials for spreading this life-saving concept.

Cinader, who is co-creator of the series, said he doesn't worry about running out of rescue situations — he just uses the same ones over and over. "If you put your primary focus on people rather than the situation, you can use the same situation 50 times," he said. "I've used heart attacks many times, both seriously and as comedy. I've had a man have a heart attack with a hooker, or a bookie in a locked room while he's taking bets."

"It isn't the situation. It's the reaction of people to it. You can play it for drama or comedy, as long as it's done with taste." Cinader said he purposely uses comedy relief at the station house between the rescue sequences.

"Most people who develop dramatic shows tend to be too heavy-handed," he said. "But people in high tension jobs let off steam and tend to be a little flaky. They do it to relieve the tension."

"People think it's hoked up, but it really happens in fire stations. They play practical jokes on each other. And I think it gives the show a balance. The audience gets bored if you keep the same mood throughout a show."

"Emergency!" which is now in reruns, goes off the air as a regular series at the end of the summer. But that won't be the end of it. NBC will present six two-hour movies based on the series, with the first concerning a high-rise building fire.

"The movies will be radically different in structure from the vignette style of the series," said Cinader. "You have to go for a disaster rather than the routine situations. One disaster will constitute the body of the show."

"You can't just make a two-hour show by making a one-hour show twice as long. It doesn't work."

Cinader said at least four of the shows would see Mantooth and Tighe getting out of Los Angeles. He said he is considering shows filmed on location in Seattle, New Orleans, Miami and Hawaii, where the two presumably would be on some sort of liaison assignment.

"I don't think I can do six two-hour shows in Los Angeles County," he said. "You can't have that many major disasters here. It wouldn't be realistic."

Among the disasters under consideration are a ship fire in Seattle, a hurricane in New Orleans or Miami and a volcano eruption in Hawaii.

Telephone subscribers here will soon have a new place to go to transact their telephone business, it was announced by Don Collier, district commercial manager for Carolina Telephone.

Collier said that the company is moving its business office from the old downtown location to a new site at 1530 Hooker Road.

According to Collier, the company will move to its new facilities this weekend and be open there for business on July 11.

"We needed to move to new quarters in order to have adequate space for our business office operation," the manager observed. "The tremendous growth of this area and the corresponding growth in the number of telephone subscribers resulted in more records, more employees to handle the business and therefore more space was needed."

Collier added, "The space we were occupying downtown will also be needed for additional central office equipment in the near future."

The new Hooker Road office will provide modern, adequate business office work space for a number of years, he explained.

Payments can be mailed in the envelopes provided with telephone bills, paid at any Greenville branch of North Carolina National Bank, or at the new office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Collier noted.

"I have a feeling every one of our albums is going to go all the way," says Joseph Russell, the rotund tenor who founded the group. "The more we sing, the better it gets for us."

"The streets have changed," adds Russell. "Now in New York, if the cops catch five dudes on a corner, it's unlawful assembly. They push you into the hallways, where the pushers are waiting."

The Persuasions say they still enjoy singing together just for the fun of it. "If it wasn't still fun, I'd be long gone," declares baritone Herbert "Tubo" Rhoad.

"This way, we don't need any equipment when we want to give a concert," says Lawson. "It's real music, real music."

'Persuasions' Sing For Fun

By JIM WILLSE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Persuasions are to street corners what the Mormon Tabernacle Choir is to cathedrals. The five young men from Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section have elevated a cappella rock 'n' roll singing from its roots on subway platforms and front stoops to a fine art that, for the first time in their 14 years together, shows signs of paying off.

"We got started in New York, in a park," recalls lead baritone Jerry Lawson. "After a basketball game, you'd get a pint of wine and starting wailing like a madman."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A discussion with a financial expert can show you how to improve your monetary position. Use common sense.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be more willing to do what others expect of you. Take time for pleasure in the company of good friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate on how to improve the quality of your life. Talk with mate and come a complete understanding.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better way of relating to your friends. Be clever with those who are trying to trick you in money matters.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle practical tasks early in the day. Take time to consult with an expert in career affairs. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study details of a new project that interests you and get excellent results. Take no chances with your reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't neglect routine duties early in the day. Give more thought to a new arrangement you want to make with your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more conscientious in the handling of your obligations. Study your surroundings and make needed changes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't waste time in unimportant matters today. Taking treatments to improve health is wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You should first handle routine tasks before engaging in recreations you desire. Plan a better future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Come to a better understanding with family members. Make the evening a most relaxing one with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study how to make conditions around you more satisfactory. Engage in favorite hobby later in the day.

If You Now Rent . . .
Do you feel out of place in that rented house or apartment? Nice enough place to live but just doesn't feel like "home" - right?
Well, you may be closer to home ownership than you think. Home Savings is out to put a lot of people in their place. We've got the mortgage money right here at Home to finance your new place in life. Why wait?
Don't get unnecessarily caught up in the "delaying game". Right now may be the best time for you to buy.

Housing and land costs will continue to rise. So waiting until you can "afford" to buy can be false reasoning for putting off your goal of home ownership.
It never hurts to ask . . .
If you're a little apprehensive - try this: Pick a home on today's market that is the house you want or one that is comparable in size and style. Come by Home Savings and ask any one of our loan counselors to do a preliminary "work-up" on the costs involved, estimate monthly payments and educate you as to the various requirements.
We'll be happy to take the time and work with you. Knowledge of the process can eliminate any apprehension you may have.
You'll probably find that you're ready to be in your place.

UNC Resources 'Limited' For HEW Compliance

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — With limited state funding, University of North Carolina officials say initiating two special programs and stepping up recruitment of blacks for classes entering in 1978 will be all they can do this year to bring the system into compliance with new federal desegregation guidelines.

UNC officials asked the recently adjourned General Assembly to fund several special programs in anticipation of the guidelines issued this week by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, but most of their requests were turned down.

Dr. William Friday, president of the 16-campus UNC system, said Thursday the requests were made "some months ago."

We had plans for these things long before the guidelines came down."

One program approved by the General Assembly is aimed at raising the competency of students in the basic areas such as mathematics and English, while the other seeks to remove disparities in faculty salaries.

The legislature appropriated $500,000 for the remedial education program for each year of the biennial budget, but rejected a request for an additional $400,000 for the second year, Friday said.

The other program, which would ensure salaries among comparable institutions are identical for authorized positions, was given $454,000 in the first year. The legislature, however, rejected a $600,000 increase for the second year.

A third program for fellowships that would enable faculty members with master's degrees to seek Ph.D. degrees also was rejected. UNC officials had sought $200,000 for the second year of the biennium for the program.

Friday said he will ask the General Assembly for additional funds to meet the HEW guidelines, when it reconvenes next May 31.

HEW issued the desegregation plan for six states — North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Arkansas and Oklahoma. The guidelines call for each state to set out goals to achieve desegregation in five years.

The states are to increase black enrollments in traditionally white schools and white enrollments in black institutions. In addition, they are to work toward a better racial balance of faculties.

When putting new courses or programs into effect, the states are to give first consideration to traditionally black schools, and they must beef up existing programs at those institutions.

Friday emphasized during an interview Thursday that the guidelines will not result in lowered academic standards in the university system. The HEW guidelines spell that out.

But Gov. Jim Hunt and administrators of black institutions have expressed fears that raising the enrollment levels of black students at predominantly white schools may damage black institutions.

Officials interviewed Thursday in the five other states covered by the guidelines generally tended to take a wait-and-see attitude.

Meanwhile, in a Thursday survey of 16 members of the 32-member University of North Carolina Board of Governors, about half said they thought at least some of the provisions of the new guidelines were unfair. They frequently described the new rules as "unreasonable" and "unworkable."

Alex Comfort Tries To Clarify Aging Concepts

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Alex Comfort, who took on people's inhibitions about sex a few years ago, is now trying to clear up some prejudices about aging.

Comfort, who is with the Institute for Higher Studies in Santa Barbara, Calif., was interviewed at the Governor's Conference on the Quality of Life for Our Senior Citizens Thursday.

He said old people suffer not so much from the physical process of aging, but from the "imaginary" process, when society brands them "ineducable, asexual, unemployable and unintelligent."

Comfort said even Thomas Jefferson became convinced that a man lost his mental powers after a certain age and used this as an argument for limiting a man's terms as president.

"If they could kid Jefferson into believing he was going crazy, think what they can do to the rest of us," Comfort said.

He did not necessarily support the idea of old people living with their families instead of being shunted off to nursing homes, Comfort said, because, "a bad family can be worse than a bad nursing home."

"When you get old I think you need friends more than family," Comfort added.

He said people don't really mean to patronize old people. "Most people are just thoughtless," Comfort said.

Old people, he said, deserve to be rewarded for their accomplishments. "The old have endured the heat of the battle," he said, "and I think they're as entitled to compensation as any veteran."

North Carolina, he said, "is fairly advanced in gerontology, because you've had the Duke group here." The reference was to the Duke Center for the Study of Aging and Human Development, one of the major aging centers in the nation.

Comfort said he thought gerontology would continue to advance as more doctors entered it. He said physicians would become more interested in the field when they understood it requires highly trained specialists, even if it is not as lucrative as some.

"Don't judge all doctors by the medical Mafia," Comfort said.

Comfort, who wrote two books on the joy of sex and has recently written a book on aging, said he moved from sex counseling to age counseling because the two are very similar: "you spend most of your time dealing with misconceptions."

Pace Academy Adds Teachers

Four new teachers have been added to the staff of Karl B. Pace Academy for the 1977-78 school year.

Patricia J. Stevenson of Grifton, an Atlantic Christian College graduate, will teach second grade.

Carol P. Jones of Washington, a graduate of Appalachian State University, will teach third grade.

ECU graduate Helen W. Honeycutt of Grifton will teach sixth grade.

Thomas A. Jamieson, Jr., a graduate of ECU, will serve as full-time physical education coach, health instructor and basketball coach.

College Board Action Upheld

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Officials of Sandhill Community College have been cleared of charges that they misapplied funds last year in an out-of-court settlement with a fired instructor.

By an 8-4 vote Thursday, the state Board of Education decided not to seek recovery of about $9,000 in state money that Sandhills officials had paid to former instructor Russell Franklin. The trustees made the payment in June 1979 in violation of a state board directive.

The vote was contrary to a recommendation made last month by one of the board's committees.

Budget Adopted For Winterville

WINTERVILLE — A $917,645 budget has been adopted by the Town of Winterville for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

The budget represents an increase of $150,650 over the '76-77 budget.

A tax rate of 70 cents per $100 was also adopted. This is the same rate as was adopted for the past fiscal year.

Among the appropriations in the Winterville budget is a $28,000 expenditure for purchase of an NCR computer billing system.

The town has been granted $20,383 under the Clean Water Bond Act of 1971 from the state of North Carolina, and has requested $2,400 from the North Carolina Department of Human Resources for a mosquito control program.

Beginning with the June 20 reading, all residential customers will be charged a maximum sewer fee of $10. There will be no change in the commercial and industrial rates.

The town has authorized the Pitt County Data Processing Center to print the 1977 Town of Winterville tax notices; has approved payment of $4,900 from the town construction account for work done on the Honeysuckle well site and has let a contract for $2,200 to Worsley, Farley and Prescott, Inc. to audit town accounts through June 30, 1977.

Find Organisms In Food Samples

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Researchers have identified two substances in samples of chicken salad and ham served to conventioners that may have caused the illness which afflicted some 200 members of the group two weeks ago.

E. Coli and a form of staphylococcus were found in the samples of food that the members of the Men's Garden Clubs of America ate at a luncheon at Meredith College, said Mildred A. Kerbaugh of the state Division of Health Services.

The organisms were found in two samples of chicken salad and one sample of ham as well as samples taken from conventioners who became ill and from an employee who helped prepare the food, she said.

"We're convinced that the staph, if not both substances, caused the outbreak," Mrs. Kerbaugh said in a telephone interview. But she said no official determination of the cause of the illness would be made until the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta finished a process called phage-typing.

The process, began Wednesday, will determine whether the organisms found in the various samples all came from the same source. Results are expected within a week, she said.

Staphylococcus is a common bacteria that takes many forms and is often associated with intestinal ailments. E. coli is an organism that indicates the presences of human or animal fecal matter in food or water, Mrs. Kerbaugh said.

"Putting together the attack rate and the number of people involved, we believe it was the staphylococcus" that produced the toxin causing the illness, she said.

Because the food handler from whom the samples showing the two organisms was taken "definitely wore plastic gloves on the day the ingredients for the chicken salad were mixed," Mrs. Kerbaugh said the contamination of the food could have come earlier in the preparation process.

Wake county officials are currently tracing the handling of the food back to the time the chicken for the salad was purchased in an effort to determine at what point the food was tainted.

About 200 of 500 members of the convention showed symptoms of food poisoning, but there were no reports of serious illness.
