Redevelopment Bd. Critical Of Study

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Redevelopment Commission made its first formal reaction this morning to a study endorsed by the City Council last week that recommended abolishment of the Commission.

Meeting in a special session, the Commission approved the submission of a letter by Commission Chairman Billy Laughinghouse to Mayor Percy Cox questioning the action of the Council and urging reconsideration of its recent decision.

Laughinghouse pointed out in the letter, dated July 18, "We think the action taken by the Council is hasty, unwarranted and represents a gross error in judgment in so far as responsible public administration is concerned."

The letter also urged the Mayor not to proceed with any further steps "until all aspects of the situation are thoroughly explored and examined."

The commission chairman added, "It is unbelievable that the Council would take such unprecedented action without at least extending the Redevelopment Commission the courtesy and opportunity to review the study and to submit appropriate comments for Council consideration."

"We have reviewed the study," the letter states,

"and find it very generalized and academic, since little detail is included except an examination of the Planning Department and the long treatise on citizen participation."

Laughinghouse referred to a report made by Lydens Associates of Suffolk, Va., regarding the Community Development Organization and Management Study for the city.

"The study is remarkably lacking in depth and fails to support its wide-ranging and radical recommendations with appropriate findings."

Laughinghouse also reviewed in the letter some of the accomplishments of the Redevelopment Commission over the past 15 years, including its involvement in the Shore Drive, New Town, Southside and Central Business District projects.

Laughinghouse said during the morning session, "The Redevelopment Commission is proud of its accomplishments in Shore Drive and New Town and desires to complete the CBD and Southside programs."

"These programs are fully funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for Redevelopment Commission completion and no community development funds from the city are required."

The Commission official reminded the board members he and executive director Joe Laney had only received the study last Thursday morning and he noted prior notification of the study recommendations had not been given by the city to the Commission.

The City Council endorsed the Lydens study during a special call session last Wednesday.

This morning's meeting was attended by two of the Commission's members, David Gordon and Janice Buck. Laughinghouse noted the other two Commissioners had reviewed the proposed letter and had offered their endorsement.

Council members Mildred McGrath and John Howard were on hand for the meeting.

City School Board Moves To Keep Bond Issue Alive

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Another bid to keep alive the possibility of a school bond issue for Pitt County was made Monday night. The Greenville City Board of Education recommend seeking the approval of the Pitt County Board of Education for a school bond issue in the amount of $8,250,000.

In the recommendation presented by Superintendent Glenn Cox, the proposed $8,250,000 bond issue would be split two-to-one, with two-thirds of the funds to go to the county schools, and one-third to the city schools.

This would provide $5,500,000 for county schools and $2,750,000 for city schools.

The stated goal in bond money for city schools until now has been for a minimum of $3 million. The current official pro-rata formula for distribution of school money for the two systems, based on student population, is actually 70 per cent for the county, and 30 per cent for the city.

However, Chairman Henry Dunn and others on the board expressed a belief that the county board of education is favorably inclined to consider a two-to-one stipulation in the issue, which would give the city schools slightly more money from the total.

Priorities established earlier to meet most pressing construction needs in city schools that would be funded by bond money are: (1) Completion of the Middle School, $1,700,000; (2) Replace heating and air conditioning at Aycock, $375,000; (3) An addition to Third Street School, $130,000; and (4) At Rose High School — occupational education classrooms, $300,000; an auditorium, $500,000, and athletic facilities $360,000 — for a total of $1,660,000.

These four major items, totaling $3,365,000, are ones the Greenville City Board of Education have all along endorsed as essential school priorities.

In the compromise recommended by Cox for presentation to the county school board, he proposes deleting the Rose High Auditorium and the addition at Third Street School to cut the total figure by $630,000 to a revised figure of $2,735,000 — with $2,750,000 being asked as the proposed new figure for the city schools.

During his presentation of the resolution to the city school board, Cox stressed that County Commissioners Chairman Charles Gaskins had indicated it would be necessary for the two school boards to agree on the total amount of the bond issue and the method of dividing the funds before the commissioners could call for an election.

The bond issue recommendation adopted last night is a new effort to come up with an acceptable proposal to break what several members termed "is now a stalemate in the bond issue developments."

One board member, Mrs. Terry Shank, voted in opposition to the compromise recommendation. "I thought the $3 million amount for the city schools was our bottom line," Mrs. Shank declared before the vote was taken.

"We are, after all, an accountable board, but what we're saying now is that in order to have some kind of bond issue we have to go along with what they (the county school board) decide."

Several members agreed with Mrs. Shank that the less than $3 million figure does indeed represent an undesirable compromise stand, but pointed out they feel some positive move forward to seek funds is mandatory at this time.

"I personally feel it is better to have less rather than to have nothing," Mrs. Lucille Gorham stated. "We're going to have to work hard to sell the public the idea of supporting a bond issue, even for the lesser amount."

"I do want to note that I could not be supportive of a bond issue that would give the city schools any amount less than the compromise figure of $2,750,000 Glenn Cox has recommended," Ed Carter commented.

"I think it would be selfish on our part not to negotiate with the county board in an effort to try to get something going on the bond issue," Bobby Pettis said.

Board members also were in consensus on reserving the right to establish and revise priorities on where any possible school bond money would go.

The resolution proposed and approved at last night's city school board meeting follows an unofficial joint meeting of the two school boards and county commis-

Increase Utilities Rate

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Utilities Commission voted last night to institute a rate increase averaging approximately 10 per cent.

The increase will be effective August 1. Commissioners instituted the hike to track Veeco increases so the Commission will remain fiscally sound.

The increase for residential customers will average seven to nine per cent. The basic facilities charge will increase from $5.25 per billing month to $5.75, and kilowatt-hour charge will increase from 3.435 cents per KWH to 3.975 cents per KWH for billing months June through September, the flat rate charge recently adopted by the Commission.

The Commission heard a status report on the requested wholesale electric rate increase requested by Veeco. The increase would represent a 23.9 per cent hike for Greenville.

Utilities director Charles Horne said the Federal Power Commission granted a four-month suspension of the rate increase, and he noted Electricities continues to fight the increase.

The Commission voted to formally accept a grant of $37,081 from the N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources for water system improvement projects and a grant of $58,022 for sewer system improvement projects.

The Commission had originally requested $40,305 for the water project and $87,567 for the sewer projects.

Commissioners were also notified they had received an amended grant offer from the Environmental Protection Agency of $110,505 for Phase I of the Sewer System Evaluation Survey. The grant was formally accepted.

Reese Helms, manager of the new Office of Energy Conservation and Management, was introduced to the Commission. Helms said his immediate plans were for an in-house training program to teach employees specific energy conservation methods, and an in-house energy audit.

A positive balance of $17,441.96 was reported in the fuel adjustment charge for fiscal year 1976-77. The Commission heard a report on the deferred fuel charge still being billed by Veeco. Affirmative action has been taken by the Federal Power Commission, but Veeco is expected to appeal.

A request by Thomas W. Rivers for the Lymndale Development Company for an extension on the project was tabled until the August meeting.

Bids were awarded to Westinghouse Electric Supply Company for 30 50-KVA pad-mounted transformers in the amount of $17,996.70; and to Maddux Supply for 75,000 feet of underground primary cable, $28,818.75. Both were low or low firm bidder.

A bid was also awarded to E. F. Craven Company for a Flat-Allis FL-10B front-end loader for $43,079. The bid was awarded based on adequacy of equipment, range of compliance with features specified, local service and warranty and bid price.

Quality Leaf Tops 1976 Opening Day

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Opening day tobacco sales brought good news to flue-cured tobacco growers with auction prices ranging $1-$1.10 above last year's opening prices for quality leaf.

"It's better than I had expected, but I'm sort of disappointed in the prices," North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said after watching about a hundred bales of leaf sold.

John Cyrus, chief of the state field crop section, said the lower quality tobacco, which caused Graham's disappointment, is bringing prices somewhat below last year's bids. But, he said, the highest quality leaf is hotly bid for with prices running as high as $118 per hundred pounds. That figure is $10 above the price paid for the same grade last year.

"For bottom primings, it's much better than last year," Cyrus said. Tobacco harvest begins at the bottom of the stalk and produces the lowest quality leaf. Higher-stalk leaves will be offered later in the season, bringing considerably higher prices.

Federal grading regulations were tightened this year, resulting in some tobacco being placed in a lower grade than it would have been in last year's sales. Higher averages for good grade tobacco will result, and farmers with good leaf will have better earning opportunities, Cyrus said.

The Hedgepeth Warehouse here was crowded this morning as 10 buyers followed the auctioneer around the floor, going from bale to bale, bidding on the leaf. The tin-roofed, wood-floored warehouse was littered with yellow tobacco.

Early indications were that about 25 per cent of the offerings were going to stabilization, compared to 43 per cent last year, reflecting a higher quality and cleaner leaf.

Prices here compared to those in the Georgia-Florida belt where markets opened last week to a three-day average of only $79.34 per hundredweight compared to last year's average of $93.26.

Cyrus said farmers in the southern belt were hit hard by the drought and the tight grading this year dragged the average down.

All seven North Carolina border markets will have sales today, with two sales in Lumberton and Fairmont markets. Nine South Carolina markets also opened today, and the remaining three open Wednesday.

"The drought this season has certainly cut the potential (for high farmer earnings) way back," Cyrus said.

Helping keep prices up will be this year's support price for tobacco of $113.80, compared to $106 last year. But if a farmer's crop is too low in quality, it will not qualify for the price support program.

Air pollution hovered over the nation's capital and wide areas of Kentucky, Minnesota, Rhode Island and Maryland as stagnant air masses refused to pass on.

No Letup In Sight For Heat Wave, Avers Weather Man

By The Associated Press
It was so hot. It was so unmercifully hot Monday that 19 rugged Marines participating in war games were overcome and had to be evacuated by helicopter from the Mojave Desert to Camp Pendleton in southern California. The temperature reached 117 at one point.

It was so hot along the railroad tracks near Paintsville, Ky., that the rails expanded and 16 cars of a 110-car freight train jumped the tracks. No one was injured. Temperatures had hovered near 100.

And the nagging heat became more unbearable as the National Weather Service announced that in most places, there would be no letup for most of the week. The heat reached across the country from the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies and into the Southwest desert.

The thermometer reached 107 in Las Vegas, Nev., and Gila Bend, Ariz. Near Phoenix it was 112. In New York it was an 11-year record 100. In Roanoke, Va., it reached 102, another record.

Air conditioning was turned up all over the country. Power companies in Pennsylvania and Minnesota asked customers to cut back on using electrical appliances. There were spot outages or cutbacks in Massachusetts and New York City, where a 25-hour blackout caused so much trouble last week.

A minor traffic accident turned into a three-hour tieup on a Massachusetts highway when 150 cars waiting for a truck to be towed away overheated and stalled.

Poultry farmers in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Massachusetts reported thousands of chickens had died because of Magazine subscriptions for the Recreation Therapy Department of the Greenville Regional Rehabilitation Center located at Pitt County Memorial Hospital would be welcomed, says Roseanne Faulkner, director. She said that some used magazines have been donated and that these are appreciated and are quite useful, but that subscriptions would be especially helpful to provide current reading material for the Rehab patients, many of whom are having to learn ways of occupying newly abundant amounts of leisure time.

A wide variety would be nice, she said, though favorites would probably be women's magazines, Reader's Digest, and those dealing with sports, hunting and fishing. Any person or group kind enough to donate a subscription may either select the magazine themselves or call Ms. Faulkner at 757-4445 for suggestions.

Donations of books, cassettes and the like would also be welcomed, she said.

Elementary Pupil Assignment Said To Be Near Completion

The assignment of elementary students to Greenville City Schools, Superintendent Glenn Cox reported to members of the Greenville City Board of Education, is now well underway and will be completed soon.

"All elementary principals are working on pupil assignments, checking names and records," Cox said. "They are also working on teacher assignments, and are meeting on Tuesday to get lined up on the remainder of the elementary teachers assignments."

Cox added that pupil assignments would soon be going out in the mail.

Earlier in the meeting, during the time set aside for public expressions, three unidentified parents who stated they lived on Belvoir Highway, sought information on current school district lines and pupil assignments.

The three explained they were among those who lived outside the city limits, but were within the Greenville City School District attendance area. They noted this will be the first time their children are being forced to attend city schools.

They also noted they had contacted the county school office, and had not been able to determine what could be done to keep their children in county schools.

Cox and board member Dr. James Beardén explained the series of events, beginning with the county's decision not to permit students in county school districts to attend city schools, that led the city school board to the decision to require kindergarten through elementary grade students living in the Greenville School District to attend Greenville City Schools.

Cox told the three that as superintendent he was the reviewing agent for any requests for exception to the rule based on hardship, and that his recommendation would be passed to the school board.

When told that economic considerations were the primary motive behind the decision — based on funds received on stu-

Proclaims Sacco, Vanzetti 'Cheated' By System

BOSTON (AP) — Fifty years after one of the nation's most controversial executions, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis declared today that Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were cheated by the criminal justice system.

Citing a report by his legal counsel, Daniel A. Taylor, Dukakis issued a proclamation calling for a memorial day Aug. 23, the 50th anniversary of the electrocution at Charlestown State Prison.

Taylor's report stated that the $15,000 payroll robbery and murder in South Braintree, Mass., remained unsolved despite the convictions of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Dukakis did not declare Sacco and Vanzetti innocent, but Taylor cited "the very real possibility that a grievous miscarriage of justice occurred with their deaths."

The proclamation said Sacco and Vanzetti were found guilty of being foreigners and dissidents. The prosecution in their case repeatedly called the defendants anarchists and there was some anti-Italian sentiment in Massachusetts at the time of the trial.

Taylor's report, obtained by The Associated Press on Monday, states: "There are substantial, indeed compelling grounds for believing that the Sacco and Vanzetti legal proceedings were permeated with unfairness..."

The case has been debated for 50 years. Dozens of books have been written about it. Among the speculative authors was the late U.S. Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter.

For five years after the men were convicted appeals were made for new trials based on newly discovered evidence and alleged improprieties by the prosecution. Trial Judge Webster Thayer denied all the motions.

In November 1925, Celestino Madeiros, a convicted murderer, confessed to the South Braintree robbery and exonerated Sacco and Vanzetti, but the state refused to reopen the case.

After a series of additional fruitless appeals, Gov. Alvan T. Fuller reviewed the case and denied clemency.

Taylor's report raises the possibility that Dukakis could pardon Sacco and Vanzetti, but says that "would be presumptuous." A pardon would carry a connotation that the men were guilty and would "denigrate their own claims to innocence," it said.

City School Bd. Will Again Try To Sell Property

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Another effort will be made to sell the school property at Lynn-dale. In previous attempts to sell the approximately 12 acre site, the Greenville Board of Education rejected a high bid of $82,000. After Superintendent Glenn Cox told the board that attorney W. W. Speight has given assurances the site can now be offered on the basis of negotiation to have the property again advertised for sale.

"For a privately negotiated sale," Cox noted, "the board cannot legally accept an offer less than the $82,000 bid that was refused by the board."

In another property transaction, purchase has been made of an additional lot on Pennsylvania Avenue to expand the site at Sadie Sautler School. The 6,000 plus square foot lot was purchased for a price of $5,000. "The house has not been removed," Cox reported, "but it will be before school opens so that the children will have this additional playground space."

The purchase is part of a continuing series of land purchases designed to bring the space at Sadie Sautler up to state acceptable minimum standards. Also approved at Monday night's meeting was a motion authorizing the sale of the Rose High School "Live Project" house now in its final stage of preparation. The property, located in Tuckahoe Subdivision, is to be advertised for public sale with a minimum bid of $35,000.

The board granted an easement to Greenville Utilities for installation of a two inch gas line to be placed five feet inside the school yard at Agnes Fullilove School.

In response to a question about the line being a possible safety hazard, Cox said it did not constitute a safety hazard. Mrs. Terry Shank asked Cox to insure that the work would be carried out at a time that would not interfere with school activities.

Student accident insurance was approved, with the contract for the new school year going to Pilot Life Insurance Company of Greensboro.

The insurance plan adopted offers the standard two choices — school day coverage and 24 hour coverage. For the school day coverage, premium rates are $4 per pupil and for staff members; for the 24 hour coverage, annual premium is $23 per pupil. This coverage is also available to staff members at a premium rate of $35.

Football coverage will be extra for ball players in grades 10-12. The premium for this is $37.50 per player, with the Athletic Department picking up $27.50, and the student paying the additional $10.

In all the insurance plans, maximum coverage is $10,000. Dental coverage in this insurance is for a limit of $50 per tooth, with a $250 maximum applicable only to damages incurred to any false teeth a student may have.

The resignation of seven teachers was accepted, and the election of two new teachers was approved. Reasons for resignations include family moves, accepting graduate fellowship, health reasons, and for one teacher, no reason given.

Cox said the resignations fell within the time limitations provided in the board policy covering resignations.

In the election of board officers for the new term, a motion was made and approved to reelect the same officers in view of the fact that all terms expire in July 1978 because of the decision to go to an elected school board.

Henry Dunn, Jr. remains chairman of the board, with Ed Carter as vice-chairman. Cox, as superintendent, is the board's secretary, with Mrs. Doris Vincent as clerk.

A report on the status of construction progress at the new Middle School, made by architect George Shoe, reveals that work is behind schedule on masonry and roof construction. Shoe pointed out that the extremely hot weather had slowed the efficiency of workers.

"Conditions are so bad because of the heat," Shoe said, "that roof workers can only work early morning hours and later afternoon hours. Work on the roof at other times would damage the shingles, as they are soft from the heat."

Shoe added he felt the workers were to be commended for even attempting to stay on the job in the miserably hot weather. "It's hot, heavy work," he said, "and we're grateful they are present on the job in this difficult working condition."

Overall, Shoe said, he sees no problem in completing the work on schedule.

Reporting on the status of construction at Third Street School, Cox noted there's still some case work to be completed, and that all equipment is not in place. "We have delayed ordering some of the equipment until all the teachers are assigned and in place," Cox said, "in order to give them an opportunity to become involved in the selection."

Richard Clayton, identifying himself as a District Sanitary Officer with the N.C. Division of Health Services, noted he had looked in on the kitchen at Third Street and that to him it seemed little had been done to bring the kitchen up to standard.

Cox explained that equipment was not in place, that it would be soon, and that the Pitt County Health Department was scheduled to make a sanitation inspection to be sure the area complied with all guidelines.

Convicted Of Tax Evasion

NEW BERN — Paul S. Braxton, 53 of Route 1, Winterville, was found guilty in U. S. Eastern District Court here July 15 on two counts of a three-count indictment for Federal income tax evasion.

Federal Judge John Larkins sentenced Braxton to serve two years in prison and fined him $20,000. A mistrial was declared on the third count when the jury failed to reach a decision.

The three-count indictment, brought down in January, alleged that Braxton, a farmer, attempted to evade and defeat income taxes due the United States for the years 1970 through 1972 totaling $50,559.95.

Convicted on the charges for the years 1971 and 1972, Braxton faces the taxes, civil fraud penalty and interest for the three years — which total in excess of $127,000 — in addition to the fine imposed by Judge Larkins.

Braxton admitted on the witness stand that his farming operation volume exceeded $900,000 per year.

Any person who is convicted of a criminal tax offense, in addition to whatever sentence is imposed, is required to pay the taxes determined to be due, together with any interest and civil penalties which may be assessed.

Police Check 3 Collisions

More than $1,700 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic collisions investigated here yesterday, Greenville Police reported.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 5:38 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Elm and 14th Streets involving cars driven by Margaret Willis Speight of 63 Barnes St., and Priscilla Tulane Jack of Carriage House Apts.

Police, who charged Miss Jack with failing to stop for a stop light, estimated damage at $500 to the Jack car and $300 to the Speight vehicle.

A 7:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Pitt and Howell Streets involved a car driven by Bettie Gorham Peterson of 202 Nash St. and a truck operated by William D. Brewington of 1714

South Pitt St., investigators reported.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $175 to the Brewington vehicle and $485 to the Peterson car.

A motorcycle operated by Freager Richard Sanders Jr. of 1706 Battle St. and a car driven by Harold Stevenson of 1920B Norcott Cir. collided about 1:10 p.m. at the intersection of Bancroft Avenue and Lincoln Drive.

Officers set damage from the collision at $175 to the motorcycle and $100 to the Stevenson car.

Award For Ayden Man

Ayden native E. Floyd Wiggins is the recipient of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture's Superior Service Award for June, according to Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham.

Wiggins, a consulting engineer with the Research Station Division of the NCDA, received the award during the dedication of dairy facilities at the Piedmont Agricultural Research Station at Salisbury.

Graham said that Wiggins coordinated construction of the bull testing operation and designed and supervised construction of both the environmental poultry and dairy facilities at the station.

The recipient, an agricultural engineering graduate of N.C. State University and a registered professional engineer, joined the NCDA in 1969.

He is married to the former Ina Bynum of Greenville and they have two children.

sioners held Wednesday, July 13, for the purpose of discussing the bond issue subject.

Board members expressed a hope that with the new compromise resolution approved by the city, it will be possible to get together again at an early date with the county school board and county commissioners.

At Wednesday's meeting, attorney W. W. Speight outlined procedures necessary to put legal machinery on a bond issue into operation, and emphasized the need for early action if the two boards plan to place the bond issue before the public in 1977.

If all goes well from this point on, it will be possible to have a public referendum on a bond issue in late October or early November this year.

turned out to be a lot of trouble. Thunderstorms and winds were accompanied by funnel clouds in several areas. Four homes were damaged but no injuries were reported when a funnel cloud swept over the Hillsdale, Mich., area, near the Ohio border. Funnel clouds also were sighted near Waterford in northeastern Michigan and near Windsor, Ontario, across the border from Detroit. No damage was reported in any of those places.

The weather service teased residents of the sweltering Baltimore area. A spokesman said a cold front was moving down the East Coast from New York to Maryland, but would not touch down low enough to improve conditions today.

Continuing Hot

A two-week seige of hot weather shows no signs of letting up for thirsty eastern North Carolina crops and sweaty eastern North Carolina residents.

The high temperature yesterday was recorded at 98 degrees at the Greenville Utilities Commission's weather station. The low was 70 degrees, and the Tar River was measured at 2.7 feet on the National Weather Service Gauge.

Comparable figures for July 18, 1976, were a high of 85 and a low of 70.

The temperature at 8 a.m. today had already climbed to 80 degrees.

Temperatures over the weekend were just a little cooler. Sunday's high was 94 degrees, and the low was 67. Saturday temperature extremes were 94 and 64. Friday's high was a comparatively cool 92 with a low of 65.

Wake Institute Prexy's Pay Cut

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The salary of Robert W. LeMay Jr., president of Wake Technical Institute here, has been officially cut $2,400 from last year's level by the institute's trustees.

LeMay had earlier claimed that a provision in his contract barred a pay cut, but he said last week that he would "let the trustees off the hook" and accept the lower pay.

He will earn $41,653 in 1977-78, with $12,505 paid by the county and $29,148 by the state. Last year, he earned $44,052, with $16,680 paid by the county and $27,372 by the state.

Abandoned Children Share Home

By MARY LENZ
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Edna Blanche Deakins decided 20 years ago to do something about the problem of abandoned children in Brazil. Today, she still has her work cut out for her.

A recent government report estimated that of 100 million people in this South American country, 15 million are children living without adequate food, clothing or shelter. Some have been abandoned by their parents.

In Sao Paulo, the 7.2 million person industrial heart of Brazil, an estimated three out of every 10 children either are abandoned or living in squalor. Headlines in Brazilian newspapers often tell of babies left in garages, trashcans or on the streets. One child was found in the bathroom of a ferry.

The orphanages that exist are jammed. "You can hardly get a child into a state-run orphanage here," Miss Deakins said.

What happens to most abandoned infants? "They die," the 64-year-old Anaheim, Calif., native said simply.

Miss Deakins tries to provide a home in Sao Paulo for as many abandoned children as possible. Since 1957, she has reared about 300 children and has 22 living with her at present.

Miss Deakins told the Associated Press in a telephone interview that she decided to come to Brazil because "I just felt it was the thing the Lord wanted me to do.

"I always loved children," she said.

When Miss Deakins, who had been a secretary in the United States, arrived in Brazil, she "just rented a house and started taking in children."

She explained that "when I met people, I'd tell them what I wanted to do. It spread like wildfire. I got children from all over."

Miss Deakins, a Baptist, was briefly associated with a religious group called the American Soul Clinic, but after five months struck out on her own.

She said she had no income then "but I came down here with the faith that God would supply our needs and through various people he has done so."

Donations began coming in from service organizations, churches and individuals. "We have lots of food donated," Miss Deakins said. "Everybody who comes to visit me brings something for the kids."

The Deakins home has a five-member Brazilian board of directors including ministers and businessmen. It is registered with the Brazilian government.

Miss Deakins' "family" ranges in age from 23 months to 20 years. The older ones attend public school and go to the Bible Baptist Church on Sundays.

"I've had to turn many away because there is not enough room for them," Miss Deakins said. Currently, she and the children live in a four bedroom house with three baths and "it's really crowded." She said she would like to build a house of her own to deal with the overcrowding.

Miss Deakins recently received a donation of a plot of land and she estimates it will cost $65,000 to build a house. She manages somehow to

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

As a woman who is married to an amateur camera freak, I respectfully suggest that some kind of legislation be passed requiring a permit to carry a loaded camera.

I don't mean to overreact, but I live in fear that someday my husband will point that thing at me, forget he has taken off the lens cap, and click click! I'll end up another statistic at Photomat.

I have been photographed walking out of a public bath house in a Michigan campground wearing nightgown, curlers, and rain slicker... fishing around in my mouth with my fingers trying to remove a fishbone... and there are 30 prints floating around somewhere of me on my side in a bathing suit that I would give up my next unborn child to get the negatives.

The other day he was flipping the camera around carelessly when I said irritably, "Is that thing loaded?"

"Look," he said, "how many accidents have I had with this camera?"

"There was the time you snapped Fred at the office Christmas party trying to Xerox Miss Frampton. He threatened to rearrange your nose. Then, there was the time exposure when you nearly broke your leg trying to get back into the picture... and the birthday party where..."

"All right, so join the camera lobby and try to get them off the market."

"All I'm saying is cameras shouldn't be made available to the man on the street — only professionals who know how to use them. The way it stands now, any child can walk right into a camera store and buy a Sunday Afternoon Special right off the counter — no questions asked. The next thing you know some innocent person is staring into the eye of an Instamatic."

"C'mon. You're making a big deal over nothing. I don't use the camera all that much. I just feel kinda important when I have a camera riding back there in the window of my pickup truck. Besides, it's sorta fun watching people's reactions when you point it at them." He grabbed the camera and trained it on my hips, which look like I'm carrying two U.S. mail pouches for the Pony Express. I heard the button click.

"Fooled you. The camera isn't loaded."

One of these days, he'll push me too far. There isn't a woman jury in this country that would find me guilty.

Visitors Welcome In Her Kitchen

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: "Stay Out of My Kitchen" was a cute verse, but you might have helped the lady more had you encouraged her to let her visitor come on in.

Consider the alternative, with the visitor sitting there, staring at your four walls, feeling that she had put you to a lot of trouble and wishing she had not come.

Because of my husband's job, we moved nine times to strange towns where I didn't know Soul One, but we made friends easily by allowing people to know us as we were.

If you can summon up the courage to let the visitor see the dirty dishes in your sink, it's a good bet that she'll think, "Gee, that's just the way MY sink looks," and a friendship will begin.

Instead of asking a guest to get out of the way, tell her what you want from the cabinet and ask her to hand it to you. People always feel more comfortable when they're useful.

FRIENDLY SOUL

DEAR FRIENDLY: A surprising number of readers agree with you. Meet another "FRIENDLY SOUL":

DEAR ABBY: May I suggest that the woman who doesn't want her guests to follow her into the kitchen drop her foolish pride and wake up to the fact that her friends do not come to see what kind of a housekeeper she is, but to visit with her.

I have a little verse framed and hanging in my kitchen which reads:

COME IN, SIT DOWN, RELAX, CONVERSE.
MY KITCHEN DOESN'T ALWAYS LOOK LIKE THIS.
SOMETIMES IT'S EVEN WORSE!

Sign me... A FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: I notice from your column that you, too, must have been brainwashed into believing that everyone should have a will.

This is something I would very much like to know about, but I can't seem to get a straight answer from anybody.

Isn't it entirely possible for a couple with a modest estate and no minor children to put all their property in both their names and eliminate probate court with its huge fees, delays and red tape?

My husband and I have twin wills and we're beginning to wonder if this doesn't invite the courts to handle something (for a huge fee) that would take care of itself. In other words, wouldn't the property all go to the remaining spouse with no help from the probate court?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: The laws differ from state to state. So, since your question is a legal one, ask a lawyer. I am constantly amazed at the number of people who are reluctant to pay a modest legal fee when it could solve their problems and give them peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: My pet peeve is the accepted, though asinine, custom of seating wedding guests so that the bride's family and friends are on one side of the church and the groom's are on the other.

When the usher asks me, "Whose side are you on?" I always have the urge to say, "Must I choose sides? They haven't even started fighting yet."

Fair Notice On Clean Tobacco

Opening prices on the Georgia tobacco markets were considered poor last Wednesday. The first day averaged only $78.59, but this was apparently due to the low quality dirty tobacco which appeared on opening day. Better grades of tobacco went up to $125 per 100 pounds, which was better than last year. The reason dirty tobacco went so low was the fact that there are new government rating standards in effect this year. There are lower support prices for sand coated leaf or tobacco which includes foreign materials. A U. S. Department of Agriculture official said farmers were being well paid for tobacco which came to market in good condition, but the tobacco with excessive sand was being penalized. The change was made because of strong complaints from the overseas market that too much sandy tobacco was being seen on the U. S. markets. It all goes back to the fact that the United States is going to have to produce a higher quality tobacco if it is to continue to compete on world markets. We simply can't compete otherwise, considering the lower labor costs in other parts of the world. Our area tobacco farmers have adequate notice that tobacco is going to have to be in good condition if it is to bring a good price when local markets open. Sandy tobacco is going to be penalized, and every tobacco grower should recognize that.

Student Guide Is Needed Publication

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will be publishing a magazine for new students at East Carolina University this year, President Lawton Nisbet announced. The Student Guide to Greenville will be mailed directly to the new students' home addresses around two weeks prior to the opening of the fall semester.

We think this is a needed publication which should be helpful to the newly arriving students in finding their way around Greenville.

Seafood Industry Pushed

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—With one eye on completion of one of the world's largest seafood industry park complexes on the coast of North Carolina, state officials are moving into high gear on ideas for improving commercial fishing in this state. And the sources of those ideas—and the definition of problems—will come from the men who operate the all-important fishing fleet. Howard Lee, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, plans a series of town-hall meetings on the coast with both sports and commercial fishermen. He wants a first-hand report on what is wrong and what the state can do about that.

late 1978—just a year and one-half away. A combination of state and federal funds totaling nearly $30 million is either in hand or committed for the sprawling development on Roanoke Island. The harbor will be 15 acres and 14 feet deep to provide ample room for deep-draft fishing vessels numbering up to 180. The state, putting up some $3 million of the total, will build docks, roads, install utilities and ship services. Land around the harbor will be available for privately owned receiving, processing, and transportation facilities, with a private investment of some $30 million expected eventually. This facility will help resolve one of the biggest problems cited by fishermen—absence of a place to sell their catch, and troubles in navigating shallow and shifting channels through the Outer Banks. The investment, state officials say, is bound to pay off. Seafood from the North Carolina coast currently has a dockside value in excess of $18 million; value after processing soars to $72 million. But much of the catch off the shores of this state are taken northward to Virginia or Maryland for processing, and comes back to Tar Heel housewives as processed or frozen products in the markets. He believes all sports and commercial fishing activities belong in one agency—his department. "All are a part of community development. . . we ought to have all fisheries, sports and commercial."

BILL NOBLITT

Billion Potential
Even with such activity, the potential is barely tapped. available harvest of shell and fin specimens would yield $250 million per year at dockside; a billion dollars annually at retail. Secretary Lee has another idea in mind to help resolve some of the problems and complaints of the fishermen. Present state efforts in regulation, licensing, inspection, research, and promotion are fragmented among different state agencies. He believes all sports and commercial fishing activities belong in one agency—his department. "All are a part of community development. . . we ought to have all fisheries, sports and commercial." Actually, Lee is currently mulling plans for further revision of his agency following the recent transfer of industrial and economic growth to the Department of Commerce. He feels that since natural resources houses parks, some fisheries, and some important environmental activities, it ought also to have the travel promotion division. He may propose another shift to move that agency back to natural resources, leaving commerce to deal with the big industrial and development projects.

CAPITOL IDEAS

No 'Farmer Breakfast'

DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If Jimmy Carter sincerely wants to get along better with Congress, he might try serving bigger breakfasts when he invites lawmakers to morning meetings at the White House. Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., is the latest congressman to complain about the food at breakfast meetings with the President.

"That's what one visualizes..."
"We got orange juice, coffee, Danish and a lecture. It was okay, but it sure wasn't breakfast."

On the subject of food, the people who run the restaurants on the Senate side of the Capitol complex circulate a mimeographed flyer called the Senate Gastronome. The Gastronome lists the items to be featured each day of the week in the cafeterias and dining rooms. It also contains comments on sundry developments in food service in the Capitol, such as the introduction of a frozen yogurt machine: "A new frozen yogurt (frozurt) machine has landed in the snack bar in the Capitol. YUM YUM YOGURT!"

Like thousands of other people who live in Northern Virginia and work in Washington, Floyd Fithian rides the bus. Fithian works on Capitol Hill. His job: Democratic congressman from Indiana.

Train Delay Complaint

By ROBERT LEE ZIMMER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Amtrak is considering suing one of its locally operated trains, which is so late 25 per cent of the time that passengers must be bused the last 300 miles to Chicago. The Inter-American, operated by Missouri Pacific, winds 1,449 miles from the Mexican border at Laredo, Tex., into Arkansas and Missouri and ends in Chicago. One out of every four trips is so far behind schedule that passengers board charter buses at St. Louis for the final leg of the trip.

"Amtrak is now examining its legal options," spokesman Joe Vranich said. "This is the only railroad in the nation against which Amtrak is considering this type of legal action." Amtrak owns most of the nation's passenger trains and contracts with 18 railroads to use their crews and tracks for Amtrak trains. Vranich said a year of negotiating with MoPac on the poor service was unsuccessful. Amtrak has these complaints about MoPac: "It has 'one of the worst on-time performance records for Amtrak trains of any railroad in the country.'" "When MoPac trains are late, they are later than the na- (Continued on page 6)

Other Editors Say A Chilly Stand

(Jacksonville Daily News)
Detente, remarked one student of international relations recently, is just another form of tension. That school of thought believes strains between nations trying to find accommodation can be as stressful as the open confrontation of Cold War. Leonid Brezhnev, president and party leader of the Soviet Union, may be trying to verify that theory. For at least the last half-year and particularly since he has become president of his country, Brezhnev seems to be going out of his way to chill Soviet-U.S. relations—far more than a response to President Carter's human rights policy calls for. His recent visit with French President Giscard d'Estaing is a case in point. Brezhnev took that occasion to declare that the United States was "no longer waging ideological conflict, but an ideological war that may lead to a Cold War." It was his first speech as president in the West and, one would think, a bully platform for finding constructive and positive things in detente, if he sees any. In recent months Brezhnev's Russia also has: —Clamped down hard on its dissidents at home. —Brought strategic arms limitation talks to a standstill. —Told the United States that it can expect a reduction in trade. —Refused to budget a millimeter from its position that if the Belgrade meeting on human rights does not adopt the Soviet agenda nothing will be accomplished. —Started a campaign to remove a minor U.S. military presence in the Indian Ocean. —Poured arms into African revolutions. —Tried to wedge France out of the European defense alliance. —Attempted to pin the blame on the United States for any breakdown in arms discussions or retrogression of detente. —Continued to build up its own military forces at an alarming rate. When Brezhnev talks of a possible return to the Cold War he must be thinking of Siberian temperatures.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Jarred By Begin Footwork

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A top aide of Prime Minister Menahem Begin bluntly advised a U.S. Senator 10 days ago not to let worry over Arab oil affect U.S. Mideast peace plans, adding that Israel itself was in position to "handle" the oil question if the need ever arose. That apparent reference by Gen. Ariel Sharon to a possible future Israeli operation against, say, Libya's oil fields did not go down well with Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a leading member of the pro-Israel bloc in Congress. Sharon, hero of the 1973 Yom Kippur war, is Begin's minister for agriculture. More important, he is chairman of the government's Ministerial Settlements Commission, giving him a key role in Begin's interventionist policy on new Jewish settlements on the West Bank, one of the hottest issues between Begin and President Carter. What Sharon said may not reflect in any way the thinking of the prime minister, but it rang a new alarm bell in Mr. Carter's ears just three days before Begin arrived for crucial talks here. Indeed, it jarred official nerves throughout the Carter administration, nerves that have become unusually sensitive in the war of words between Washington and Jerusalem. Sharon also advised Javits, who has tried hard to use his good offices as go-between for Jimmy Carter with Begin's new hardline government, to tell the President that the West Bank legally belongs to Israel and to stop pressuring Israel to give it up. What Sharon told Javits may only be a side drama, political gamesmanship to prepare the way for Begin's visit and keep the Carter White House off balance. In fact, Mideast experts now see some reason to hope that Begin, an acknowledged territorial expansionist, might actually give a little on the crucial West Bank question if first there were a clear "understanding" by the U.S. that Israel holds title to all of Judea and Samaria (a title, Begin insists, that derives from the Old Testament delineation of the "land of Israel"). But Mr. Carter is unlikely to try to bestow on Israel a territorial right over 600,000 Palestinian Arabs, that is denied violently by all Arab countries and consistently by every U.S. President since Israel seized the West Bank in 1967. Consequently, if Mr. Carter can't pay the prime minister's price for genuine (as opposed to pro forma) Israeli bargaining with the Arabs on the West Bank, another way to avoid an immediate impasse in next week's talks must be found. What some diplomats here think Begin has in mind is an appeal to Mr. Carter for delay. In view of the disagreements between the U.S. and Israel, and of the multiple and sometimes conflicting United Nations resolutions and other international documents dealing with the long Arab-Israeli struggle, the U.S. and Israel should sit down together and define precisely where each stands. That would give Begin more time to consolidate his new government (a job he has performed with great skill so far) and to let his demands for territorial expansion at Arab and U.S. expense sink in, both in the U.S. and in Israel. The rapid coalescing around Begin, despite his radicalism, has been widely noted. A case in point was the decision of Abba Eban, a long-time Israeli dove held in high regard here, to tour the U.S. for Begin following Begin's talks with Mr. Carter. In agreeing to go, Eban said he wanted to restore Israel's high standing in the U.S. as it used to be "when there was no talk about a Palestinian homeland and a return to the June 1967 borders" (a surprising statement in view of the Nixon policy denying the "weight of conquest" in final borders (Continued on page 6)

Strength For Today Foreign Holdings 'Emotional'

UNDERSTANDING SPIRITUAL MATTERS
Justin Martyr, a famous figure in the early Church who lived and worked about the middle of the first century, once said, "Without God, God cannot be known." Can we pick up the Bible and read about God and understand what the Bible teaches about him? No. All world's wisdom will not enable us to understand the simplest teaching of the Bible unless God enables us to understand. This is demonstrated in many ways, but in none more clearly than in the complete unwillingness of the Bible to yield the secret of its message to anyone who fails to meet its spiritual requirements. But this is neither a hard doctrine nor a hopeless one. Any person who wants to understand the Bible can do so, provided he or she meets the requirements for understanding spiritual truth. As far as secular knowledge is concerned, we accept it when we understand it. But in spiritual matters, we never understand a truth until we accept it. —By ELISHA DOUGLASS

By DON BEMAN
Associated Press Writer
DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Foreign interests own millions of acres of U.S. farmland, but state and federal officials don't think Americans should be too worried. "I don't see any danger of an invasion yet. But I think it should be monitored," says Iowa Secretary of Agriculture Robert Lounsberry. "This is an emotional thing now because we're really not talking about a lot of land. But I can see where it might be a problem in the future," he said. The U.S. Commerce Department, under a 1974 federal law, is surveying foreign ownership and says preliminary reports show 4.9 million acres of land owned by foreigners, who hold leases on an additional 62.8 million. The U.S. Agriculture Department disputes the figures, but admits it has none of its own. The USDA also says the current totals are not significant but, like Lounsberry, maintains its concern "is not quantity at this time, but (the) possible implications for future investment policy." The USDA also said it considers pinning down who owns the land an important task and notes that Iowa is the leader in finding out. State documents show that $8.3 million worth of Iowa farmland is controlled by foreign interests, with West Germans holding title to $6.4 million worth. The holdings amount to only 6,823 acres, two-hundredths of 1 per cent of Iowa's 34.2 million acres of farmland.

The alien ownership reports are required by an Iowa law passed in 1975 and were taken from documents on file in the secretary of state's office. According to the documents, West Germans — mainly two families — hold 5,225 acres in the state. Lesser amounts of land are owned by Canadians, Guatemalans, Italians, Dutch and Swiss. The value of the alien-controlled land was based on a survey done by Iowa State University which indicated the average value of Iowa farmland is $1,231 per acre.

To the editor:
This letter is concerning one of your comic strips that was in the paper on July 13. The name of it is Frank and Ernest. The phrase was, "I don't have much money, Doc, but if you cure my delusions of grandeur, I'll give you everlasting life." This statement is a lie, and I hate to think of the many children that will read this. Only Jesus Christ, my Savior and Lord, can give everlasting life to them that believe on him. As a Christian, I feel I must protest this. I certainly hope and pray that you will take this into consideration and do something about it. Thank you.

Train Delay...

—MoPac runs passenger trains too slowly. Both sides agree that MoPac has excellent track, but MoPac disagrees with Amtrak's insistence that passenger trains can operate safely at 79 miles an hour.

—Its freight trains interfere with passenger trains three times as often as other railroads, and this is the leading cause of delays on the Inter-American.

"This could be aired in the courthouse one day and I don't think we should get into too many details," said H.H. Olmsted of MoPac. He said breakdowns of Amtrak equipment had accounted for some delays. Amtrak agreed.

The Inter-American train is scheduled to make a daily round-trip over the route. Between March 2 and July 2, however, 29 of the 120 trips ended at St. Louis and a bus was used to complete the run to Chicago.

The Inter-American is suspended at St. Louis when it is too late to get to Chicago in time for servicing for the return trip.

Trains operated by MoPac were nearly twice as late as the Amtrak national average in April, and the Inter-American was nearly three times as late — 2 1/2 hours on the average. That was 92.3 per cent of the time.

How's The Weather?
FORECAST Until Wednesday

Figures show low temperatures for area.

WEATHER FORECAST — Very warm weather is forecast today for most of the country. Temperatures will be cooler from the Northwest

By The Associated Press
North Carolina was in the 16th day of its record heat wave today, continuing to better the 1952 mark of 14 straight days of temperatures ranging from 90 degrees upward.

In the mountains, Asheville set its own record Monday as it passed its 13th day of 90 degrees or higher readings, wiping out its old mark of 12 days in 1919.

So, the heat wave and the drought continue in the Tar Heel state and relief still is not in sight yet. High pressure covers the eastern portion of North America and shows no sign of significant movement, indicating little change in current weather conditions.

Afternoon temperatures will continue in the 90s and nighttime lows will be generally in the 70s. The only relief will come from isolated thundershowers east of the mountains and scattered thundershowers in the mountains.

Some thundershowers oc-urred in the mountains Monday but they were so isolated no reporting stations recorded measurable rain.

Henderson was the hottest reporting point in the state Monday with 100 degrees, followed by Fayetteville at 98, Raleigh and Charlotte hit 97, Greensboro 96, Wilmington 94 and Asheville 90.

INSULATION USED TO BE A DETAIL. NOW IT'S A PRIORITY.

Used to be, insulation in commercial, industrial and institutional buildings was frequently taken for granted.

The energy crisis has changed all that.

Suddenly, insulation is one of the most important considerations in the planning of any new building. Simply because good insulation saves precious energy.

Which brings us to the buildings we build. Butler buildings. Because they're built around pre-engineered systems, the roof and wall systems are designed with superior insulation to provide you with the best available seal against outside heat and cold, regardless of the climate.

Butler building systems have always been time and money savers. But more important, now they're energy savers. We'd like to show you why. Call us.

Tar Heels Defeat Bucs With 11th-Inning Tally

CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina came up with a single run in the bottom of the eleventh inning to defeat East Carolina 3-2 in a Summer League baseball game here last night.

The Tar Heels rallied from a 2-0 deficit to tie the game with a pair of runs in the eighth, sending it into extra innings. It was UNC's fourth victory over the Pirates this year against two defeats.

Blaine Smith was the winning pitcher for Carolina, getting his seventh victory of the summer with no defeats. Billy Williamson, who started the game for the Pirates and pitched four no-hit innings, was replaced in the ninth by Mickey Britt. Britt was charged with the loss, his fourth in a row evening his record at 5-5.

Post 39 Opens Series For Area Championship

Post 39, Greenville's American Legion baseball team, advances its effort for a state championship tonight when it begins a best-of-seven playoff series with Garner for the Area I title.

The Greenville team, which finished 10-4 for the regular season, is now 7-0 in playoff action, sweeping series from Louisville, Smithfield and Rocky Mount.

The first two games of the Area I tournament will be played in Greenville, the first tonight and the second on Thursday before the series moves to Garner. The champion of Area I will play the Area II title-winner for the Eastern title and the winner of that will meet the Western winner for the state crown.

Greenville enters the series with a strong pitching staff. The starter for tonight's game will be Mike Williams. He has a 6-1 record and 2.86 earned run average. Billy Mitchell has the best record of the Post 39 pitchers with a 5-0 mark. He has a 3.67 ERA and is used mainly as a starting pitcher.

Two hurlers who have been strong in a reserve capacity for Greenville are Quinn Morris and Henry Baker. Morris has a 3-1 record and 1.56 ERA, while Baker is 2-0 with an ERA of 1.91.

Post 39 has three hitters over the .300 mark and a total of six who are batting over .250. The leader is Mike Shank with a .354 average, followed by Ronnie Chapman at .326 and Ned Craft at .315. Wright Hooks is batting .289 for the local team, while Kevin Adams is .272 and Nuggie Worthington is .266.

The team is coached by Ed Hooks.

Veeck Says Baseball Perfect For Right Now

CHICAGO (AP) — In a small corner of the Chicago White Sox' exploding scoreboard is a pitch-o-meter, designed by Bill

Veeck in 1960. Its purpose was to speed up the game by timing a pitcher and forcing him to deliver the ball within the allotted 20 seconds when there were no runners on base.

It sits idly now, not to be used in this day and age.

"No, I haven't slowed down or mellowed," said the 63-year-old Veeck, who last season came back to baseball and purchased the White Sox. Now, he has them leading the American League West.

"Years ago I was for change, then I noticed a social trend," said Veeck. "A few years ago, a nostalgia wave hit this country. You heard music you hadn't heard in 20 years. It was then that I stopped talking about changes and speeding up the game."

"In the 1960s there was a period of unrest, speed and violence in this country. There was the war in Viet Nam. There was mugging, meanness and violence. In this spirit, football and basketball were natural sports."

"I talked about change then, but now I have stopped," continued Veeck. "I realized the people were seeking social stability and baseball was the unchanged sport that gave them what they wanted."

"Suddenly people were tired of violence. They were seeking stability and escape. They were tired of concrete, steel and artificiality."

"They found baseball again, a sport to be savored," said Veeck. "The game is perfect for the time right now and that's one of the reasons attendance is up all over the country."

"During the '60s and early '70s, I advocated change. I went around to 20 campuses a year giving speeches. Nobody threw any rocks at me but I felt the atmosphere was preplexing. I thought we had to change. But not now. Where else but at a ball park can you stand up and yell and holler your head off without landing in the pokey?"

It all reflects in White Sox attendance figures.

The game started on a good note for the Pirates as Pete Paradossi hit the first pitch over the left field wall for a home run. The distance was about 360 feet.

Atkinson walked and was sacrificed to second by Greg Robinson. Britt delivered an intentional walk to Dwight Lowery to bring up Kevin Caddell, who singled to right, bringing in Atkinson.

Moye and Warrick each collected two hits to pace the East Carolina attack, while Fox and Caddell each had two for the Tar Heels.

The win leaves UNC on top of the league with a 21-3 record, while East Carolina drops to 12-11. The Pirates play again Wednesday night when they host Campbell College.

Majority Of Boys Home Players Have Received Football Grants

While almost every year, there have been some players in the Boys' Home All-Star game who have performed well enough to earn themselves a college scholarship, most have them already by the time they come to Greenville for the game.

This year's group is no exception. The 62-man team for this year's game each filled out questionnaires on their background for program information, and 38 of them listed that they had received grants to play football.

Fifteen others listed college preferences, while nine did not list a preference at this time. Appalachian State University would seem to have grabbed off the lion's share of the scholarship athletes, taking six of them.

Western Guilford: Ted Dunn, Farmville Central; Mike Barringer, Forest Hills. Arkansas Tech: John Richardson, High Point Andrews (non-grant). Marshall: John Keenan, North Davidson. Lenoir Rhyne: Carl Grigg, East Forsyth (non-grant); John Robinson, West Montgomery (non-grant), also listed Elon.

West Montgomery (non-grant, also listed Lenoir Rhyne); James D'Ambrasio, Southern Wayne. East Carolina: Jack Smith, Fuquay-Varina (non-grant); Rodney Quick, Scotland (non-grant, also listed N.C. State); Chris Moore, Garner Senior (non-grant); Mike Hawks, Charlotte-Mecklenburg (non-grant); Dean Butler, Roseboro Lakewood; Wig Wigfall, Jacksonville Senior; Robert Boykins, Lumberton Senior. Namath A Ram

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Joe Namath doesn't think defenders will be any tougher on him as a Los Angeles Rams quarterback than they were during his 12 years with the New York Jets.

There had been reports that opponents took it easy on him in recent years because the Jets were not in title contention.

"I think they've been as physical on me as they could be on anyone," the new member of Rams said at a news conference Monday. "If any man goes light on any opponent, it comes out in the films and the coaches won't like it at all. The name of this game is to harass the quarterback."

Namath became a free agent this year and was signed by Los Angeles May 12.

He worked out with the club for the first time Monday. Namath currently is the No. 2 quarterback, behind young Pat Haden, the former University of Southern California star who earned the job last year.

Namath admits he wants to be No. 1 and will work hard to become the starter. He also would like to call his own signals even though he knows the Rams' coaches have been doing it the past three seasons since John Hadl was traded to Green Bay.

"I'm trying to do well in a new situation," the 34-year-old Namath said.

Advertisement for NY Teams Fight In New Court. Text: "NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association may have gained the home court advantage against the New York Nets in their court battle to prevent the Nets from moving to New Jersey. The two NBA clubs have been in court almost daily since July 6, when the Nets announced their plans to move the franchise from Uniondale, N.Y., to New Jersey. The Knicks have sought to block the move under terms of an indemnification agreement that the Nets signed when they joined the NBA last year. Under terms of the agreement, the Nets need the Knicks permission to move to any of New York City's five boroughs, Westchester or New Jersey. The Nets contend that the wording of the agreement permits a move to New Jersey. They also contend that the agreement violates federal antitrust statutes. But New York Federal Judge Robert L. Carter may have the last word in the hearings. Carter ruled Monday that he, not the Federal Court in New Jersey, had jurisdiction over any disputes that might arise from the legal settlement that permitted four teams from the American Basketball Association to join the National Basketball Association in 1976."

Planters, College View Win Babe Ruth Contests

Planters Bank got four runs from George Wilkerson in taking a 13-5 victory over Carolina Dairy and College View rallied for six runs in the bottom of the seventh inning in defeating Pepsi-Cola 15-14 in a couple of Babe Ruth baseball games last night.

In the first game, Planters jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first three innings, but Carolina Dairy cut it to 6-5 in a fourth-inning scoring outburst.

Planters added four tallies in the bottom of the fourth and three more in the sixth, however, to gain the victory.

The winning runs came in the third for Planters when it scored four times to increase a 2-0 lead to 6-0. Crowell Pope led off the frame by reaching on an error and he made it to third on Mike Pollard's base hit. Calvin Jones' fielder's choice scored Pope and he and Pollard came in on a pair of errors.

Wilkerson reached on a fielder's choice and was scored by Jim Kerner's base hit.

Pollard and Kerner each had two hits to pace the Planters attack, while Steve Chapman had three and Mitchell Brann two hits for Carolina Dairy. Johnny Williams hit a grand slam homer for Carolina Dairy.

In the second game, Pepsi-Cola held a 4-1 lead after three innings, but College View cut it to 4-3 in the fourth. Pepsi got seven in the fifth, while CV scored six. Pepsi added two in the sixth and one in the top of the seventh to take a 14-9 lead, but College View rallied for six runs in the bottom of the seventh to gain the come-from-behind win.

Mark Jones reached on an error to start the rally for College View and he stole second. Keith Stancill walked and Jamie Byrd got a base hit to score Jones.

Kittrell scored on Arthur Fletcher's single and Byrd came around when Kenny Barnes singled. Bert Singleton reached on an error to score Fletcher and Barnes and Singleton came in on Donnie Daughtridge's fielder's choice.

Barnes had two hits to pace College View, while Mark Doughs, Todd Galloway, Mike Thurber and Emmett Walsh each had two hits for Pepsi.

Sutton, Palmer Star Starters

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Sutton, who has dreamed of pitching in Yankee Stadium, and Jim Palmer, who has done well in the same ballpark, drew the starting assignments for tonight's 48th All-Star Game.

Sutton, the ace right-hander of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Palmer, Baltimore's right-handed stopper, have fared well in previous All-Star appearances. Sutton, making his first start, has blanked the American League in five previous innings, while Palmer has hurled eight scoreless innings against the National League.

Palmer started in 1970 and 1972 without picking up a decision, but was a middle-inning reliever in 1971, the last time the AL beat the NL. Besides the five straight victories, the NL has won 13 of the last 14 All-Star confrontations.

against the Yankees. "The All-Star Games really haven't been so one-sided recently. Only the results have been."

The AL's chances would seem better if injuries had not ransacked its pitching staff. Out with assorted ailments are Mark Fidrych of Detroit, Frank Tanana of California and Vida Blue of Oakland. California's Nolan Ryan refused to play, leaving the AL with only three starting pitchers and four relievers.

"Despite all our injuries, I still think we have an outstanding squad and we're going to break that (losing) streak," AL President Lee MacPhail said Monday.

Chub Feeney, the NL president, smugly countered MacPhail's pep talk by saying, "We expect to do what we usually do."

Sutton relishes the opportunity to start for the NL, a dream come true for the pitcher who wanted to become a Yankee during the team's penny-pinching days.

"Only the fact that the Yankees weren't willing to pay me more than $2,000, and I would have played in Yankee Stadium before," Sutton said. "I spent all my childhood dreaming of one day pitching in Yankee Stadium."

"I grew up on a farm in Pensacola, (Fla.), and I occupied my days pitching mental shut-outs with Mickey Mantle making the last out catching the ball near the monuments."

Sutton won't be on the mound to watch the final out, giving way to another pitcher, probably after three innings if NL Manager Sparky Anderson's game plan is not torpedoed by the AL bats.

It was somewhat of a surprise that Anderson, the Cincinnati skipper, was starting Sutton, with whom he has had a running feud, accusing the Dodgers' ace of illegal pitching practices. Anderson maintains that Sutton attempts to make a round ball square, or some other shape, through some devious method.

"I knew I was a cinch to start when I got a note from Sparky last week asking me what grain of sandpaper I wanted him to order," joked Sutton.

Before Anderson's announcement, Cincinnati's Tom Seaver was expected to get the starting nod, giving the New York fans an opportunity to welcome him back following last month's trade from the Mets to the Reds.

That leaves the NL with Gary Lavelle of San Francisco, Rich Gossage of Pittsburgh, Rick Reuschel of Chicago, Seaver and Sutton.

The AL staff includes Sparky Lyle of New York, Bill Campbell of Boston, Jim Kern of Cleveland and Dave LaRoche of California—all relievers. The starters on the staff are Palmer, Jim Slaton of Milwaukee and Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland. AL Manager Billy Martin of the Yankees said he was leaning toward Eckersley to relieve Palmer.

The NL starting lineup will have Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan leading off, followed by first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles and Dave Parker of Pittsburgh, who will be playing right field. George Foster of Cincinnati will bat cleanup and play centerfield. Then the NL will send up left fielder Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia, third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles, catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati and shortstop Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati.

The AL starting lineup is: Minnesota first baseman Rod Carew, who is batting a major league-leading .394; second baseman Willie Randolph of the Yankees; third baseman George Brett of Kansas City; Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, who will be in centerfield; outfielder Reggie Jackson of the Yankees; outfielder Richie Zisk of Chicago; catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston, and Red Sox shortstop Rick Burleson.

Seaver will pitch some time, said Anderson, whose pitching staff is weighted down by injuries to John Candelaria of Pittsburgh, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Joaquin Andujar of Houston.

Don Sutton

"The starting assignment is a treat in one respect. Not many guys get to do this," said Palmer, whose career record is 20-11

Rozelle Knocks Atkinson's Blow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Atkinson's blow to the head of Lynn Swann has no place in professional football, according to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I am fully convinced that there is no place in professional football for the kinds of fouls committed by Atkinson," Rozelle said in a statement read in federal court Monday.

"Such conduct is clearly outside the rules and calculated either to 'intimidate' them into less effective performance.

"If there is to be an 'intimidation' factor in professional football, it must be the kind that results from superior playing performance—not from unbridled or calculated violence," he added.

Rozelle's comments were made in a final report on disciplinary action taken against Atkinson, the Oakland Raiders' defensive back, following the Swann incident and an incident in which New England's Russ Francis suffered a broken nose when hit in the face by Atkinson last year.

Rozelle will not present Monday for the sixth day of Atkinson's $2 million suit against the Pittsburgh Steelers and their coach, Chuck Noll, but his comments were read by Steelers' attorney James MacInnis.

Rozelle said visual evidence of the Swann incident is inconsistent with Atkinson's claim that he believed Swann was the target of a pass.

Cornbread Signs Pact With Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Heading the message in his agent's fortune cookie, 6-foot-8 forward Cedric Maxwell has signed a multi-year contract with the Boston Celtics.

"If your desires are not extravagant, they will be granted," the fortune reportedly promised Ron Grinker, agent for the National Basketball Association team's top draft pick.

"I knew the negotiations were about to end in success when I read the message in the fortune cookie," Celtics President Red Auerbach told The Boston Herald American Monday after the signing.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

"This is a great day for me," Maxwell said. "I was elated when the Celtics picked me, and now I feel even better."

Maxwell, who propelled the University of North Carolina at Charlotte to basketball prominence, averaged 22.2 points and 12.1 rebounds a game last season.

seriously, he adds, in 1965 when Harry Ackerman, then a Screen Gems producer, contacted him about the possibility of acting after his football days ended.

"So we did one of those personality tests, I think that's what they call them, on film," he said.

But nothing came of that, ditto to a screen test a few years later for Aaron Spelling, the guy who gave the nation such shows as "The Rookies" and the currently hot "Charlie's Angels."

But finally, David Gerber, head man on NBC's "Police Story," gave Meredith a try on that series almost four years ago, Meredith co-starring with Tony LoBianco as a plain-clothes detective.

"I'd done a couple of guest spots on other shows, primarily playing myself, but that was the first time I was put in a real role," he says, praising Gerber for taking a chance on him.

It led to other roles and even the lead in "Banjo Hackett," a comedy NBC nixed as a series, and now the guarantee of at least two TV movies a year for ABC in addition to his sports-casting work.

Old Age and Memory Problems

My mother is 82 and in remarkably good health. She is not as distressed as we are by the fact that she can't remember a thing. Is old age the only cause for this? — Mrs. J. S. A., W. Va.

Dear Mrs. A.: It is not old age itself. People who live to such an age have a greater chance of developing narrowing of the arteries due to arteriosclerosis. This produces a diminished flow of blood and oxygen to the brain.

The memory center is one of the parts of the brain that is affected by the inadequate blood supply.

I'm certain that you have noticed that your mother can clearly recall things that happened when she was a child. Yet her memory for recent events is markedly impaired. This is characteristic of the condition. It takes an enormous amount of understanding, consideration and patience to deal with such a loss of memory in a parent.

It can become irritating to have to repeat the same instructions, only to find that they are forgotten within minutes after they have been elaborately given.

A patient of mine complained bitterly about this very same problem with her father. The poor fellow was bombarded by anger that he hardly deserved. Remember that your mother has no control over this disability.

Many reports from all over the world are slowly creeping into the scientific literature about methods for re-establishing lost memories. Drugs are being used with a moderate amount of success.

These are sufficient to encourage further research which, we hope, will eventually relieve this handicap.

Our doctor prescribes a teaspoon of medicine three times a day and when I give it to my 4-year-old son I lose half of it on his chin. How can I tell if he gets a proper dose? — Mrs. B. U., Vt.

Dear Mrs. U.: Many parents are indebted to Dr. William Sohn, of Pennsylvania, who suggested a very clever way to be sure infants and young children get the proper amount of medicine.

He advises the use of a medicine dropper held in the corner of the mouth. Gently pull the cheek out a bit and pour. Be sure the stopper is made of plastic and not glass. There's always the possibility that the child will bite down.

For tiny infants, the medicine can be put in a nipple. The infant thus gets the entire dose.

Guards Delayed Unlocking Door

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Prison guard Mac Wilson has testified that he delayed unlocking a burning cellblock at the McDowell prison unit because he feared "a mass escape."

"They hadn't escaped in a month or two and they were frustrated," Lt. Wilson said of the prisoners yesterday. His testimony came at the start of the second week of a State Industrial Commission hearing on claims on behalf of the inmates killed or injured in the blaze.

Nine were killed and 23 other prisoners were injured in the fire.

The other guard, Sgt. Elmer Macopson, said there was an abnormal quiet in the dormitory when the fire first started. He said he recommended that the men not be released right away, "because of the tense-ness within the cellblock, the quietness. It wasn't normal."

The two guards said the fire was soon raging out of control. But the key wouldn't work when they tried to unlock the cell door, they said. Macopson testified that he let the next dormitory out, then ran outside to get a breath of air before returning to the "B" side where the fire had been started.

Prisoners testified last week that Wilson and Macopson had had a dispute with prisoners, two of whom started the fire with mattresses piled on a table.

Inmates and former inmates testified that the two guards saw the fire before it had become serious, but told prisoners they were going to let them

Declarer made good use of the information obtained during the auction to bring home a difficult spade game.

After West's takeout double and North's redouble, South passed to see whether his partner wanted to double the opponents' escape. When North showed that his redouble was based on spade support, South indicated that he was better than minimum by raising to three spades, and North pushed on to game.

Since he did not want to lead from his side-suit holdings, West selected his singleton trump for the initial attack. When dummy appeared, declarer realized that West was likely to have both red aces for his takeout double and that there was, therefore, a danger of losing

Duke Power Pleads For Less Electricity-Use

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Duke Power Co. has called on its customers to "be as sparing as possible in their use of electricity" for the rest of this month to prevent a "brown-out."

Duke's customers were asked to sweat a little and operate air conditioners at the highest possible temperatures. "The air conditioning load accompanying the hot weather is a major factor in producing record summer peaks," said Alex Coffin, supervisor of news services for Duke.

Duke requested the conservation measures because two of its nuclear generating units are out of commission.

The company's generating capacity is 12,456 megawatts but 2,828 megawatts of generating power is out of service.

One of the three generating units at the Oconee nuclear powered generating plant at Seneca, S.C. is out for refueling until the first week in August. A second unit at Oconee has been taken down for repairs of a steam generator tube.

Coffin said those repairs should be completed by the last week of this month. The two units can produce 1,720 megawatts.

The company said neighboring generating systems because those companies are also experiencing high demands for electricity.

Duke will be facing a tight power supply for some time because the two-unit McGuire nuclear powered generating plant on Lake Norman will not be ready for operation on schedule.

Executive vice-president W.S. Lee said that unit will be ready for service in mid-1978, a delay of about six months, and unit two will go on line in early 1981, a delay of one year.

The delays were caused by late delivery of equipment, design modifications partly caused by changed federal regulations, and construction difficulties, Lee said.

Construction schedules at other Duke stations — Catawba and Cherokee in South Carolina — remain the same, he said.

The McGuire station's units will have the capability of 1,180,000 kilowatts, and the station is expected to cost about $1 billion.

The delays will reduce Duke's capacity in the 1979-80 period, but the utility said it will be able to meet demand. However, it will emphasize conservation, particularly during periods of extreme heat or cold.

Seek Block EDA Funds

HOPE MILLS, N.C. (AP) — Commissioners in this town of 5,000 near Fayetteville have voted unanimously to seek an injunction blocking the distribution of $4 billion in federal public-works funds.

The commissioners, upset over losing out in the distribution of U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds, voted Monday night to seek to halt any EDA funds from being distributed.

The commissioners, upset over losing out in the distribution of U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds, voted Monday night to seek to halt any EDA funds from being distributed.

Specifics of the proposed action were not made clear, but the commission vote authorized the town's attorney to file suit against the federal government.

Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., whose district includes Hope Mills, said that the House Public Works Committee may be launched into the distribution of funds by the EDA, which Rose asserted had failed "to follow the mandate of Congress."

Rose said charges had been made that regulations governing the allocation of job funds by the EDA had been bypassed. He added that an informal investigation revealed that data used in evaluating requests for funds from the EDA was incomplete.

Rich N.C. Peat Deposit Is Termed 'Brown Gold'

By BRAD STUART
Written for The AP
ROPER, N.C. (AP) — The mucky peat beds of coastal North Carolina may not look very noteworthy to the average observer, but to the Soviet technicians scheduled to arrive here next week to help harvest them, they are "brown gold."

And in the opinion of a group of North Carolina entrepreneurs, the six-foot-deep bogs are an untapped energy source equal to 800 million barrels of oil.

The North Carolina group,

First Colony Farms, Inc., farms 372,000 acres in Washington, Tyrrel and Dare counties, much of which is peat beds — now a virtual wasteland supporting only bushes and scrub pine.

But company officials say studies indicate that the peat could fuel a 1,600-megawatt electrical power plant for 35 years — and do it more cleanly than coal and more economically than either coal or nuclear energy.

any in the Soviet Union," Rich said of an earlier visit by Soviet technicians invited to investigate the First Colony peatbeds.

Peat is partly decayed, moisture-absorbing plant matter that builds up in swampy or marsh-like areas. It is a primitive form of fuel which can be cut and dried into bricks for burning.

The Soviet Union has led the world in development of peat-mining technology, using peat to fuel 77 electrical power stations and produce about 2 percent of that nation's electricity. First Colony officials hope to interest utility companies here in making a similar investment in peat as an energy source.

"If the utilities aren't willing to take the risk, we're willing to build the plant ourselves and sell them steam across the fence," Rich said in an interview during a pickup truck tour of the hot, scrub-covered coastal acreage.

"We'd build the boiler and the steam production system, which involves some technology new to this country, and they would buy the steam from us to produce electricity with standard technology."

Rich said his company plans to produce a shipload of peat fuel to be sent to Ireland, Finland or Russia to be burned in peat power plants there. "We're going to invite a delegation of utilities executives along to see it," he said.

Former Troop A Associates Honor Patrol Cmdr. Jenkins

HIGHWAY PATROL OFFICERS ... Maj. Lee Lance, Col. John T. Jenkins, Maj. Jack Cabe and Capt. Carl Gilchrist, following Troop A sergeants meeting and supper that honored Col. Jenkins for his service to the Highway Patrol.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
North Carolina State Highway Patrol Commander John T. Jenkins was honored yesterday by commissioned and non-commissioned officers who served under him for the 3½ years he served as commander of Troop A before his promotion to the rank of colonel in April.

Col. Jenkins, along with Maj. Lee Lance and Maj. Jack Cabe, met with Troop A commander Carl Gilchrist, Lt. L. G. Pate, and Troop A sergeants at an afternoon session at the Beaufort County Peace Officers Association club off U.S. 264.

Following the meeting and supper, Gilchrist — who served under Jenkins as lieutenant and Troop A executive officer before being promoted to captain and commander of the troop last week — told the gathering, "We're here to honor Colonel and Addie (Mrs.) Jenkins, tonight, and in our small way, express a token of appreciation for the service...friendship...for what they have done for the Highway Patrol."

Col. Jenkins, with more than 29 years service with the Patrol, assigned to duty stations in Troops A, B and C while rising through the ranks, said, "I've said many times I've enjoyed the past 3½ years more than any time in my Patrol career. It was a hard decision to make, in accepting the post as commander."

The colonel added, "It's because of you I'm here," and I'm positive we will have the best Highway Patrol North Carolina has ever had...because of people like you."

Yesterday's session was the first opportunity Troop A supervisory personnel have had to meet with Maj. Cabe since a reorganization of top Patrol posts was announced last week.

Cabe, who has been zone commander of the West, was switched to the East, while Maj. Lance was moved from the Eastern command to the West, at the same time Gilchrist and three other officers received promotions.

More than 40 persons attended the session honoring Jenkins, including retired Patrol officers Maj. Raymond Williams, Capt. S. H. Mitchell, Lt. J. B. Boyd, and sergeants Louis B. Lane, B. R. Insoce and A. F. Fields.

Child Abuse In Paddling Ruled

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.C. (AP) — Two Bladen County teachers have been found guilty of child abuse for paddling a 10-year-old girl hard enough to cause bruises still evident three days later.

Mrs. Patricia C. Meshaw of Clarkton and Mrs. Carolyn D. Scoggins of White Lake were fined $100 apiece plus court costs. The pupil, Sandra Marie Adcox, is a fifth grade pupil in a combined fifth and sixth grade class taught by both women.

Before pronouncing sentence, District Judge Wilton Hunt invited supporters of the pair who packed the courtroom to view photos of the girl's bruised buttocks.

"I am a person who sincerely believes in corporal punishment," Hunt said. "But at the same time, I don't think we can allow the amount of punishment inflicted in this case."

The paddling occurred on a Friday. The following Monday, the child's parents took her to a doctor, who notified the Bladen County department of social services, which filed charges.

The teachers testified each of them paddled Sandra five times on two separate occasions within half an hour of each other.

The first time, a student told them Sandra had peeked at a grade book on the teachers' desk. The second, two students told the teachers Sandra had made a face and stuck out her tongue when the teachers entered the classroom.

Both times, the teachers testified, Sandra had denied the other pupils' accusations at first and then confessed they were true. The teachers said they had announced a policy early in the year that when there was paddling to be done, both would do it to demonstrate there would be equal discipline from both teachers.

Their attorneys said they would appeal the verdict.

HOT WATCH 95. A WAY TO HELP KEEP ELECTRIC COSTS UNDER CONTROL.

The plan is really very simple. It begins when the temperature hits 95° or above. And it gives us all a great chance to do our part to help control energy use and electric costs.

The plan of action: Hot Watch 95.

When weekday temperatures go to 95° or higher, put Hot Watch 95 into action. This means, whenever possible, doing household chores that use a lot of electricity before 10 in the morning and after 10 at night. Be extra careful about using your water heater, range, washing machine, clothes dryer and dishwasher during the hottest parts of the day — since these are your largest power consumers.

Here's why.

Electricity, unlike oil or gas, can't be stored today. It's generated at the same moment it's used.

So, as industries and businesses and consumers all use more electricity, the demand for electricity grows. And the need for more generating plants grows.

That's why, on really hot days, if everyone would spread out the times for using electricity — to cooler times of the day — it would help reduce some of this peak demand. By reducing the peak, the need for new construction could be postponed. This, in turn, would help us achieve the one thing we all want: keeping future electric costs under control.

America is a powerful idea. Let's keep it that way.
