Local Utilities To Distribute Refund

Greenville Utilities customers are in for a pleasant surprise — they are about to get money back from the electric distributor. Director Charles Horne said the commission received notice Monday that Virginia Electric Power Co., Greenville Utilities, supplier, is suspending further billing of the deferred fuel surcharge.

VEPCO will be forwarding a check for $767,770.73 for charges collected through June, 1977. Horne said the Utilities Commission met Monday afternoon to consider the matter. During the period from December, 1975 through September, 1976 the commission collected the deferred fuel charge at the rate of $0.00224 per kilowatt hour billed, similar to the VEPCO retail charge. The total amount collected by Greenville Utilities was $847,235.47.

Yesterday the commission approved a plan to refund all of the amount collected to its retail customers "in the same manner in which it was billed," Horne said.

He said the commission requested the director to secure from the utility billing service contractor, Network Computer Company, a plan to determine the proper amount to be refunded to each customer on Greenville's system during the December, 1975 through September, 1976 period and to prepare refund checks.

For customers not currently being served, but who were billed during the period, steps will be taken to make notification and issue refunds wherever practical, Horne said.

The refund plan will be presented to the commission at its Sept. 13 meeting.

"Preliminary indications are that approximately 60 days may be required to draw the necessary refund checks," Horne said. "It is anticipated that a considerable amount of time will have to be spent to determine accurately the proper amounts to be refunded and to be certain that the checks are drawn true and correct."

Greenville Utilities also collected the deferred fuel charge from the towns of Ayden and Winterville, on the same schedule it has paid VEPCO. The total billed Ayden was $53,045.28 and $18,880.56 for Winterville. These amounts will be refunded to Ayden and Winterville.

Blame Decline In College Board Scores On Trauma

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A steady 14-year decline in College Board scores was blamed today on national "traumas" such as the Vietnam war and Watergate, lower educational standards and the increasing number of minority, poor and inferior students taking the tests.

A special 21-member panel, headed by former Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz, also blamed television and the nation's divorce rate in its 75-page report on the results of a two-year study. The decline in Scholastic Aptitude Test scores constitutes "serious business warranting careful attention by everybody interested in education," the group said. Since 1963, the average score in the Scholastic Aptitude Test verbal section has dropped 49 points, from 478 to 429. Mathematics scores declined 32 points, from 502 to 470.

Scores range from 200 to 800. The 2½-hour test is given by the College Entrance Examination Board to about one million high school students a year as a tool for colleges trying to gauge future academic success. The report noted that the 14-year period was divided into two seven-year time brackets by societal events. The report said the decline before 1970 was due largely to a change in the kinds of students taking the test. In the seven years since, with the test-taking group stabilized, other developments in the schools and society were held responsible.

national undertaking to afford meaningful equality of educational opportunity."

Gov. Mandel Is Convicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel was convicted by a U.S. District Court jury today of 17 counts of mail fraud and one of racketeering, stemming from an influence trading scheme involving horse racing.

Five codefendants were also found guilty on the same 17 counts. The jury delivered the verdict after being deadlocked during 13 days of deliberations. The trial was the second for the governor and his five codefendants. The earlier trial was declared a mistrial after the jury found out about a jury tampering effort. Mandel was never linked to the charge.

The seven men, five women jury had not responded to an effort by U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor to end the deadlock. Taylor had offered on Monday to repeat the instructions he had given the jury.

Under Maryland law, Mandel must give up his office. On trial with the 57-year old Mandel were his best friend, Irvin Kovens; W. Dale Hess, former majority leader of the House of Delegates; attorney Ernest N. Cory Jr.; and Hess' business partners, brothers William A. and Harry W. Rodgers III.

Each man was accused of 20 mail fraud counts. They were acquitted of three of those counts. There was no visible reaction from any of the defendants as the verdicts were announced. Each charge carries a top penalty of five years in jail and a $1,000 fine. Mandel, Cory and Kovens each were convicted of one racketeering count, the others two apiece. The maximum sentence for racketeering is 20 years and $25,000.

Mandel was charged with accepting between $300,000 and $400,000 in business interests, cash, bonds, Florida vacations, clothing and jewelry from the others. Prosecutors contend the items were in exchange for his efforts to get the 1972 General Assembly to legislate benefits for Marlboro Race Track, then secretly owned by at least four of his codefendants. Kovens disputes a claim he owned 60 per cent of Marlboro.

Taylor set Oct. 7 for sentencing. After the verdict was announced, Taylor sent the jury back to decide what business interests should be confiscated under the anti-racketeering statute. Under the Maryland Constitution, Mandel will forfeit upon sentencing the remainder of his four-year term due to expire in January, 1979.

Ask Big Rate Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans International Airlines wants to slash charter air fares to Asia by more than 50 per cent.

In a request filed Monday with the Civil Aeronautics Board, TIA proposed using wide-body DC10 jets for the economy flights between five U.S. cities and Hong Kong and Tokyo.

The plan requires approval from the governments of Japan and the Crown Colony of Hong Kong as well as from the CAB.

The reduced fares would "generate substantially increased Asian travel and introduce an entire new market of American tourists to the Orient," said the charter airlines president Henry P. Huff.

Under TIA's plan, a one-way fare to Hong Kong from Los Angeles would cost $299. The present fare is $656. TIA would offer other cut-rate deals from New York, Chicago, Oakland and Seattle to the Orient.

Passengers would have to make reservations in advance.

Between two-thirds and three-fourths of the decline until 1970 was related to the "notable extension and expansion of educational opportunity in the United States," the panel said.

With many more young persons staying in high school and going on to college, the panel said, there has been a greater proportion of test takers who have lower high school grades and who come from the low-income and minority groups which traditionally score low.

The growing number of women taking the SATs contributed to a decline in the mathematics scores, the study also noted. Women have traditionally scored higher than men in the verbal section.

However, the study rejected the interpretation that student makeup was the basic cause, using instead the explanation that lower scores resulted from "the incompleteness so far of the

Re-Election Bid By John Howard

Veteran City Councilman John Howard filed Friday for reelection to the city governing board in the October municipal elections.

Howard, who is senior vice president of Greenville Tobacco Co., has served some ten years as a member of the City Council.

The Councilman was first elected in 1963 and served until 1969 when he chose not to seek reelection. He was again elected to the Council in 1973 and has served since that time.

"I've served on the Council for ten years and feel that I have the experience necessary for the job," Howard commented in announcing his candidacy.

He added, "We have undertaken some projects within the past couple of years that I am familiar with and would like to see completed."

The Councilman, a Greenville native, is a past chairman of the Pitt County-Greenville Airport Authority and now serves as an advisor to the board. He is a member of the board of directors of Sheppard Memorial Library.

Howard, who attends St. Paul's Episcopal Church, is married to the former Parma Matthis of Clinton and the couple has five children.

Sec. Vance Outlines U.S. Policy For China Hosts

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R.

Vance completed an extensive outline of U.S. foreign policy for his Chinese hosts today, but a spokesman said the key issue of normalizing relations between the U.S. and Chinese governments was "only touched on."

Vance held his second meeting with Foreign Minister Huang Hua, who came to the government guest house where the secretary of state is staying for a 2½-hour session. U.S. spokesman Hodding Carter said the talk today and the first 2½-hour meeting

Monday were "very useful, very serious and very businesslike."

"All we have had basically so far is an exposition of our own," Carter reported.

He said Vance presented "a great deal of material" but no written proposals. Huang asked no questions on Monday and only a few today, Carter said.

Huang emphasized the chief barrier to normalization of relations between Peking and Washington in a speech at a banquet for the secretary Monday night. He said

Chairman Hua Kuo-feng's speech to the 11th Communist Party Congress last week expressed the will of the Chinese people and the Communist government's "consistent stand."

Hua in his speech repeated previous official statements that normal relations between the United States and China cannot be opened until the United States breaks diplomatic relations with the Nationalist regime on Taiwan, cancels its 1954 mutual defense treaty with

Set 13-Item Agenda At Planning-Zoning Meet

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions will consider a total of 13 items Wednesday night during the regular August meeting.

Business scheduled on the joint agenda includes: — Request of Thomas F. Taft and others for rezoning of approximately 85 acres located in the southeast quadrant of the intersection of State Road 1200 and State Road 1203 and approximately 4,000 feet west of the hospital from R-6 to Office and Institutional, Medical Arts and Highway Commercial (present portions of R-6 will remain); — adoption of the semi-annual report; — Request of White Concrete Co. and H. L. Roberts for rezoning approximately 21 acres on the south side of Mumford Road from R-6 to Industrial; — Discussion of US 264-NC 11 Corridor Study; and — Request of H. G. Stocks for rezoning approximately 26 acres on the north side of US 264 Bypass from Highway Commercial and RA-20 to Highway Commercial, R-6 and R-15.

Greenville board business includes:

— Request of Pitt County Fair for rezoning 14 acres at the intersection of US 13-NC 11 and Airport Road from R-6/Mobile Home to Unoffensive Industry; — Request of Greenville First Pentecostal Holiness Church for rezoning approximately 4.2 acres located north of Plaza Drive east of Evans Street Extension from Shopping Center to R-9; — Request of Louis Clark Agency Inc. for rezoning approximately 22 acres at the southwest corner of Red Banks Road and 14th Street from R-20 to RA-20 and R-6; — Preliminary plat of Brennon Village located in the southwest intersection of the Southern Railroad and US 264 Bypass; — Final plat of the Brennon Village property; — Preliminary plat on Merle Bowser and J. B. Surles III lot division located in the northeast intersection of Forest Hill Circle and Sixth Street; — Final plat on the Bowser and Surles property; and — Final plat of Section I of Twin Oaks Subdivision located north of 14th Street and west of US 264 Bypass.

Howell Running For Councilman

Earl E. (Ed) Howell, present member of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, announced that he is a candidate for the City Council in the October municipal elections.

Howell mentioned that he served as chairman of the planning board during the development of the Medical District Plan for the area of the new hospital west of Memorial Drive. Long range planning and zoning was taken into account during the development of the medical plan, it was pointed out.

Howell, who joined Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. some 27 years ago, presently serves as outside superintendent for the company. He moved to Greenville in 1962.

In 1972, Howell was appointed to fill an unexpired term on the planning board and then was named by the City Council to a full term in 1973. He has served as chairman of the Greenville board.

The candidate, who noted that he is pursuing a degree through night courses at East Carolina University, said that he feels his background on the planning board will be an asset as a member of the City Council. "I feel there is a need for closer cohesion between the county and the city," the first-time candidate observed. Saying that the county and city "need to work closer together," Howell noted that there are several areas where better relations could help, including school situations where problems have caused friction in recent months.

Howell mentioned that he served as chairman of the planning board during the development of the Medical District Plan for the area of the new hospital west of Memorial Drive. Long range planning and zoning was taken into account during the development of the medical plan, it was pointed out.

Builder Enters Council Race

Eugene D. "Rocky" Fallon has announced his candidacy for the Greenville City Council. The 28-year-old builder and real estate student filed as a candidate on Monday at 1 p.m.

A Washington, D.C. native, Fallon said that he has lived in Greenville for the past ten years. The candidate, who is unmarried, is a sports enthusiast and former student at East Carolina University.

Saying that he is "enthusiastic about Greenville and its growth," Fallon noted that he has "many ideas about our city." He cited a "definite lack of community involvement" here and expressed concern about the local "housing situation."

Fallon said he is "definitely in favor of Greenville's expansion and continued growth but we do not want to lose and forget its existing beauty nor can we condone industrial pollution ruining our horizon."

New Medical Students Excited Over Opportunity

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
 "I'm really excited about it," Linda Robertson, first year ECU medical student said. "It's going to be a really good learning situation," the 22-year-old Rural Hall native noted.
 A University of North Carolina at Greensboro biology graduate, like most of her 27 classmates, is not sure what the future might bring. But she said, "I plan to enter family practice...maybe go back to Rural Hall. I like small locations. Big cities don't do too much for me."
 Miss Robertson added, I just want to work with people...see what I can do for them. I think medicine will let me be with people and help them."
 Students entering the East Carolina University School of Medicine's first four-year class were entertained, along with their families, at an open house at Ragsdale Hall Sunday, then gathered for a picture-taking session Monday.

 Medical school dean Dr. William Laupus told the students and their families the establishment of the four-year program was "a great team proposition," and said "there's a great advantage in being a student in a new medical school."
 He explained that first year students in a new four-year school receive much more individual attention. "You are in a very very fortunate position," Laupus emphasized.
 A sampling of the students indicated that they, too, feel they are fortunate.
 Fernando Puente, 24, is a Guatemala native who earned his undergraduate and masters degree in biology from ECU.

He has worked at Pitt Memorial Hospital as an emergency room technician and feels he will "get special attention" as a member of the first class. "I'm going to make the most of it," he said.
 With three cousins in the medical field — one a doctor and two in medical school — Puente is looking toward family practice when he graduates.
 John Lowder's wife, Gina, is a nurse, and his father is a pharmacist. From Marion, Lowder attended N.C. State University and graduated from Michigan with a degree in naval architecture.
 It was "too impersonal" he found after working in that field for a year, so he's studying to become a physician.
 Lowder, who worked for 10 months as an operating room technician at Wake Memorial Hospital in Raleigh, said doctors, "can contribute the most...seem to be needed the most," and plans to return to the Western part of the state to practice.

 "It's very good...I couldn't be happier," he said, about being in ECU's first four-year class.
 Julius Mallett from Raleigh wants to be a pediatrician, because, "I enjoy working with children. I want to learn to help them through medicine."
 Mallett 21, was accepted by the Howard University medical school, but chose East Carolina because, "this is the place. Being in the first class is an honor."
 Peter Johns' brother is a fourth-year medical student in Hershey, Pa. and his father is an attorney. At 23, he wants to follow a career in primary medicine, "but I've got four years of diligent effort I have to worry about now," he said.

 Johns is a bio-medical engineering graduate of Duke University who has worked as a research assistant in the field of pediatrics there.
 Bob Jones is interested in medicine because "it offers a challenge," and is an "opportunity to work with people."
 A Wake Forest biology graduate, Jones' father is a family practitioner in Shelby.
 "I grew up in North Carolina," he said. "I think I'll stay here."
 Bonnie Caulkins' father is a Baptist minister in Murfreesboro. At 21, she is a Davidson biology graduate — a member of the first co-ed class at the formerly all-male school.
 "I think it's going to be a real challenge," being a member of the first four-year medical class at ECU, she noted.

"I like rural areas," Miss Caulkins said. Her plans are to have a family practice, or possibly pediatrics, "in a small town." But right now, her immediate plans are "to get through the next four years."
 Manjul Sharma of Greensboro, plans to practice in North Carolina.
 The 22-year-old UNC-Chapel Hill biology graduate said medicine has "always interested me. I have a lot of relatives that are doctors" and physicians "have a lot of opportunity to help people."
 Her father is a professor in education administration at UNC-Greensboro, while her mother is a professor of psychology at A and T State University.
 Mary Beth Foil of Chapel Hill plans to stay in North Carolina when she graduates. The 23-year-old says being a physician is "something I've always wanted to do...wanted to be when I grew up."

 She puts things more simply, "I want to do the best I can...be the best damn doctor there is."

Six Accidents Here Monday

An estimated $7,750 property damage resulted from a series of six traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.
 Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 9:10 a.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets involving cars driven by Judith Wetherington Edwards of 2409 Unstead St., and Judy Potts Longworth of Winston-Salem.
 Police, who charged Miss Longworth with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $2,000 to the Edwards car and $1,000 to the Longworth vehicle.
 Mark Randall Kidd of Matthews was charged with following too close following investigation of a 4:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive.
 Police said the Kidd car collided with an auto driven by Mary Jane Atkinson of Route 1, Greenville, resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the Kidd auto and $400 damage to the Atkinson car.
 A truck operated by William Ralph Boyd of 103 Wilshire Dr. and a car driven by Elton Fredrick Tripp Jr. of Route 2, Gritton, collided about 4:30 p.m. on Memorial Drive near the lone Street intersection.
 Damage was estimated at $500 to the Tripp vehicle and $400 to the Boyd truck.
 A 7:50 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Clark Streets involved cars driven by Linda Jones White of 1402 Myrtle Avenue and Samuel Alexander Kimel of Carrboro, investigators reported.
 Damage from the collision was estimated at $375 to the White car and $975 to the Kimel vehicle.

Karl Edward Faser Jr. of 200 Deerwood Drive was charged with following too close following investigation of a 5:10 p.m. mishap on Fifth Street, 50 feet East of the Student Street intersection.
 Police identified the driver of the second car involved as Willie James Boyd of 1109B Fairfax Ave.
 Damage was placed at $600 to the Faser car and $250 to the Boyd auto.
 Cars driven by Owen John Kingsbury Jr. of 207 North Eastern St. and Elizabeth Lewis Frye of 202 North Library St. collided about 5:30 p.m. on Eastern Street, 240 feet North of the First Street intersection.
 Investigators estimated damage from the collision at $150 to the Kingsbury car and $400 to the Frye auto.

Biggest Day Probing Entry Of Four Bethel Homes

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market has its second million-dollar sale day for the season yesterday. The average was the highest for the season.
 Higher prices and more quality tobacco accounted for the good sale, according to Louis Williams, Sales Supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.
 Top price was $1.42, this being paid for several sheets of quality leaf grade. Volume of leaf grade showed a sharp increase. Medium grades remained steady. Lugs, cutters and leaf grades accounted for most of volume. Stabilization receipts accounted for 6.32 per cent of gross sales.
 The market sold 822,973 pounds for $1,031,786, for an average of $125.37 per hundred pounds. For the season the market has sold 8,669,769 for $9,327,195, for an average of $107.58, Williams said.

BETHEL — Bethel Chief of Police Walter Gray this morning said that "investigation is continuing in the case of a person and persons entering or attempting to enter homes in one area of town early Monday morning.
 According to Gray, robbery is the motive involved in the four homes entered and one home in which entry was attempted. Time of the incidents has been set at the hours between midnight and 5 a.m. Monday morning.
 All of the homes involved are located on highway West 64 on the western edge of Bethel.
 Those whose homes were entered and the amount of money reportedly taken are: Mrs. X. E. Manning, approximately $75; Alton Whitehurst, no estimate given; Al Moody, approximately $2; and Mrs. Winnie Debnam, approximately $8.

R. E. Reddick reported to police a prowler attempted to enter his house but was not successful.
 In all instances, according to Gray, the person or persons did not disturb the sleeping occupants, and entered the homes by forcing open windows.
 Chief Gray has asked anyone in the Bethel area seeing anyone of a suspicious nature to immediately contact the police station.

She Goes Up In Airline Career

By CONNIE GRZELKA
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — After booking a nonreturn flight out of the CIA in 1968, Carole J. Dineen landed in the airline business, where her career has steadily gained altitude.

This year, the 35-year-old Mrs. Dineen was named manager of airport operations for TWA at Kennedy Airport here, making her what is believed to be the first woman manager of a major airline facility in the United States.

"I landed at TWA by accident," said the former CIA analyst, who joined the airline as a customer relations representative.

After that she worked as an analyst in reservations, as manager of reservations marketing and as manager of reservations for the New York area.

"I wanted an airport eventually," the pert manager said in an interview. "But this came as a surprise. It was a result of changes made to broaden the experiences of the management staff."

"Also, my boss believes a manager is a manager. Otherwise, I wouldn't be here," added Mrs. Dineen, who said there has been little adverse reaction to having a woman in the job.

From her pleasant wood-paneled office tucked away on the ground level of the terminal, Mrs. Dineen oversees the daily activities of 500 people, an annual budget of $14 million, roughly 40 daily departing flights and an equal number of arrivals, as well as all terminal activities, including the airport ticket office and ramp operations.

She describes her work day, which starts at 8:30 a.m. and runs through 8 p.m. as "fairly frantic." Mrs. Dineen handles paperwork, meetings and management problems until 5 o'clock. Then she begins to move around the terminal, the flight control tower and the ramp, when terminal operations are crunched into one peak time.

"I couldn't stay in here and depend on written reports and hearsay. You have to observe," she explains.

Her first day on the job, she recalls, featured a tour of the ramp areas with one of the terminal's two nonadministrative operations managers, who jokingly pointed to the walls.

"It seemed that all of the graffiti had suddenly disappeared from the walls for the new manager. But it's reappearing slowly," she confides.

Mrs. Dineen, whose husband is a Manhattan lawyer, was born in Guatemala, lived in Africa and studied Spanish and South American literature at Pembroke College, Brown University.

Her longtime interest in Central America led to her four-year association with the CIA, which she says "sounded fine at first."

"I didn't know it was such a sexist place and that I'd be pigeonholed careerwise. So I lost interest. I felt that I had lost four years and realized that I'd have to start all over again."

Not long after leaving that job, Mrs. Dineen said, she embraced the women's rights movement and even held office in two such groups here. Eventually she became disenchanted with the movement because "too many radical elements were allowed to get control."

She feels she's in her metier now and finds management of the terminal "intriguing. JFK is rather a monster because of its size. Orchestrating the operation and getting everything done through others is a tremendous challenge."

"Airport operation is difficult because of the peaking problem. If something falls out of kilter, sometimes you can't recover. When there's a problem it often has a domino effect. Bad weather or air traffic can stall the entire operation."

Since she stepped into her new job, some of the snags that have cropped up and affected the terminal's operation have included: anti-Concorde demonstrators who snarled automotive traffic at the airport, the bus hijacker who disrupted the airport on Independence Day and the massive power blackout that shut down New York City and the airport.

But it's all in a day's work for Mrs. Dineen, who declares, "It's impossible to get bored in this job."

Mockingbird Song Ends On Up Beat

By Abigail Van Buren

©1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am the man who wrote to you about the mockingbird. My wife had loved that bird so much, she even recorded his song on tape. Then my wife died last year, and the bird returned. His song recalled so many memories, I felt that if I didn't destroy that mockingbird, I would surely go mad!

How grateful I was for your concern. You said time and faith in God would heal my broken heart, and you urged me not to harm the bird. Then you asked your readers to write in with suggestions and told me to watch your column.

Imagine my joy when on June 20th your entire column was filled with letters from others who had lived through a similar torment, offering suggestions to comfort me.

The best solution was to re-enter the wonderful world of matrimony, and that's exactly what I have done! I recently married a beautiful woman, and all the loneliness and despair is behind me.

Thank you, Abby. Please sign me, FORMERLY DESPERATE, NOW BLESSED, or...

RALPH

DEAR RALPH: Thank you for letting me know that the advice from my readers helped you. Self-pity and dwelling on an irretrievable loss is for the birds. Good luck to you both.

DEAR ABBY: I am the editor and publisher of the Daytona Beach Morning Journal, which has carried your column for many years. I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your quote: "Emerson said, 'Pay every debt like God wrote the bill.'"

I knew that Emerson never in the world would have written such a line, so I looked up the quotation and sure enough it read, "Pay every debt AS IF God wrote the bill."

Abby, how could you?

HERBERT M. DAVIDSON

DEAR MR. D.: I plead guilty as charged. Will you settle for a "mea culpa" and a promise to be more careful in the future?

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old daughter received a lipstick for her birthday. Should she be allowed to use it, even though her father objects?

Exercise While Watching Television

By PATRICIA Mc CORMACK
UPI Health Editor

Your typical American male gets little exercise while watching television.

Pulling tabs off beer cans or running to the refrigerator during commercials doesn't build muscles, improve stamina or circulation.

Your typical American female television addict isn't helping her musculo-skeletal system to any greater extent.

Not much is gained in physical fitness by unwrapping candy bars, opening packages of cookies or heaping a plate with munchies.

Children follow the pattern set by Mom and Dad: plop, watch and munch.

So boys and girls, in increasing numbers, are developing a roundness not much observed on the American scene in the pre-television era. Authorities say too many of them are fat.

Unfit Americans can do something about the way all that sitting and munching inflates waistlines, pads once angular chin lines and makes thighs droop.

1. Exercise while watching television.

2. Switch off the junk food and tune in filling, healthful snacks — such as raw carrots, fresh fruits, celery, cauliflower. Train the taste buds to like unsweetened drinks.

Help with the plan to exercise while watching television comes from William Kesselman of Milwaukee.

He has put together a $1.25 booklet showing how to do more than two dozen exercises while watching TV.

Kesselman, a pharmacist, is chairman of the board of Sickroom Service Inc., publisher of the booklet.

The television set is on for more than six hours in the average home, he says, adding: "That many hours in front of the television screen adds up to a lot of sedentary viewers."

The exercise booklet was specially designed for the older or sedentary individual who lacks the ability or motivation to engage in an active sport or participate in more strenuous forms of exercise.

It is also meant for the "viewer not doer" whose only contact with active sports is tuning them in.

In an interview, Kesselman said the exercises will benefit most other viewers, including children.

There's only one drawback. A kitchen chair rather than an upholstered one is the place to sit while doing the exercises.

"Sit down and shape up," Kesselman said. "But sit on a straight-backed, unpadded, armless chair."

"You can do sitting sit-ups, sitting hip-hiking and all manner of other helpful exercises," he said.

"And you'll feel refreshed and relaxed after an evening of viewing," Kesselman has been a licensed pharmacist for 50 years. He also has a master's degree in education administration and once taught school.

Exercises in the booklet give a person a chance to bend, twist and flex most parts of the musculo-skeletal system.

The names give you some clues:

Chest stroke, back pull, grabber, body bend, palm loosener, knee flexor, chest pull, leg stretcher, torso bend, leg crosser, wrist loosener.

Also: hip-hiking, body twist, elbow flexor, neck stretcher, sitting sit-ups, wrist loosener, shoulder loosener, pull up, finger motions, trunk bender, extending fingers, neck presser, arm circling.

And: knee flexor, finger extender, ankle relaxer, shoulder relaxer, leg listers, palm flexor, hand press, elbow flexor.

The booklet, "Exercises While You Watch T.V.," contains a form for each exercise. That is so a person can note when the exercises are done.

"A maximum of 15 exercises a day is advised, but most persons must start with many fewer than that, working their way up," Kesselman said.

A sampling of the exercises — with directions:

Body Bend — Sit with hands on hips. Bend from the waist toward the right. Pause and then return to a sitting upright position. Then bend toward the left. Pause and return to a sitting upright position.

Palm Loosener — Begin with elbows bent, bringing hands to the chest level. Clasp hands, turning knuckles toward the chest and pull in stomach. Next, with hands clasped, straighten arms, bringing elbows toward each other. When elbows reach their limit of movement, stiffen fingers and push the palms out, away from the body. Return arms to side of chair, pull shoulders back and pause before repeating.

Knee Flexor — Begin with both feet flat on the floor. Together, lift legs up straight in front of you. Slowly, lower feet back to the floor. Arms should be straight at your side with your shoulders back. Exercise may also be done by using one leg at a time. While each leg is up, one at a time, flex foot from ankle. Move toes as if you were trying to clench a fist with them.

Hip-hiking — In sitting position, holding shoulders back, grasp the side edges of the chair. Without moving head

Neck Stretcher — Stretch neck upward, without raising chin. With neck stretched up, bend neck forward and downward towards chest. Then bend neck backward to one side, and to the other side. Relax neck and repeat exercise.

Pull-up — Sitting straight, hold tightly the side edges of chair seat. Pull up with both hands as hard as possible. Hold for a second and relax.

Finger Motions — Begin with taking hold of the tip of a finger, keeping palm and wrist rigid, move finger in circular clockwise motion. Then, in counter-clockwise circling. Repeat with each finger.

Arm-circling — Extend arms straight upward at sides above head. Begin to slowly rotate in large full circles, starting by swinging towards the front. Repeat by rotating arms in opposite direction, towards the head.

Kesselman said he collected the exercises over the years. (Continued on page 5)

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

When plump, apple-cheeked grandmothers were passed out (who insisted on babysitting while you were still carrying the child), my mother was out getting an unlisted phone.

Don't get me wrong. She loves her grandchildren. As she puts it, "I also love Smokey the Bear and Harry Reasoner, but I wouldn't want to sit with them on a regular basis."

She considers grandchildren a special bonus for having outlived her own children. "When you're a sitting sit-in," she declares, "you lose your role as a grandparent. Of course," she said, "if you get desperate you can call me at this number at a candy store. They know where to reach me."

I called the number last week. "Mom, I haven't had a vacation away from the kids since my honeymoon."

"What kind of crack is that?" she asked.

"I told you I was desperate. Do you suppose you could sit with the kids for a few days?"

"They hurt me the last time," she said.

"That's my fault," I replied. "I should have told you that when you stand the baby up on your lap, he pushes his head against your chin and cuts your tongue in half. Besides the kids are teenagers now. It'll be easier."

"Then what?" she asked.

Indicator Of A Big Business

The Pitt Memorial Hospital board of trustees approved a $16.5 million budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 last week, indicating what a huge business the hospital operation is.

At the same time the trustees approved a $10 room rate increase for patients, bringing the daily rate to $80 per day. Critical care was increased from $110 to $180 per day and newborn baby care was increased from $50 to $70 daily.

The board cited increased operating costs, including new minimum wage legislation and soaring utilities costs in the new hospital building.

Salaries alone for the 900 employees will total $8,575,921, while utilities costs were set at $554,692 in the new budget.

The rapidly increasing costs are, of course, nothing new in this time of inflation, and in addition the new hospital plant is now in operation. While it will provide better medical care it will also cost more to operate the sophisticated medical facilities.

So the hospital board finds itself with no alternative than to raise room rates to meet the increased costs of operation.

One thing should not be forgotten, however. The new facility is a county hospital which, through a cooperative agreement with the ECU Medical School will serve the entire state. It is an arrangement that meets with our enthusiastic approval.

But Pitt County citizens who go to the hospital for relatively uncomplicated medical care should not have to pay more per day than citizens of other eastern counties who go to their own county hospitals.

To avoid this, a state appropriation towards Pitt Memorial's operating expenses may be called for. If this is needed we should start considering it now, before room rates get out of line.

Not Over 55 MPH, Or Get A Ticket

In response to the energy crisis the highway speed limit was dropped to 55 miles per hour.

The experts say the slower speed saves gasoline.

The only problem was that not too many motorists were observing the 55 mph limit — not, that is, until Phil Carlton, secretary of the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, ordered the Highway Patrol to crack down.

The order was issued last week and was effective immediately. Thus for motorists in North Carolina who want to avoid speeding tickets, the only advice can be: slow down.

Howard Lee Learns Fast

By BILL NOBLITT
MANTEO — "I've come to listen and learn," says Howard Lee as he launches an intensive program of study involving North Carolina's potential as a seafood leader.

Confessing total ignorance of the coastal seafood operation, Lee is spending a lot of time on the coast, tramping through processing plants, clambering across trawler railings, talking with the men who face the daily hazards of netting the shell and fin fish in sounds and ocean.

The Outer Banks folk are responding enthusiastically to the visits by the secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development under whose jurisdiction is state operations of commercial fishing.

Learning
Lee, former mayor of Chapel Hill and unsuccessful candidate in last year's race for the office of lieutenant governor, is learning fast say those who work in the fisheries division, and the coastal residents.

He is promising to be back with proposed legislation in a few months, and to help organize the fishermen politically so a package of steps will stand a chance of passage in the 1979 General Assembly.

Along the docks, the clammy Outer Bankers don't take easily to conversation. But Lee's persistence and his presence wins them over. . . and his insistence that now that they've seen a live state official who cares about them, wants to continue hearing from them, gradually opens the doors.

"All I know about fishing is how to spell it, and how to eat it. You're the men who go out there and risk your lives and your fortunes every day. I want the raw, unadulterated truth, and I want to hear it from you," Lee is telling the coastal residents.

Lee says he is committed to "turning this industry around. We can realize the great potential in a multi-billion industry; a potential that has not been given the resources to make it work."

The potential is there. At present, state officials say the dockside value of seafood caught on the North Carolina coast exceeds $18 million; value after processing soars to $72 million.

Winging over the Banks in the co-pilot seat of a tiny seaplane; playing chase with a rainbow in a summer storm; skimming the waves for a look at Jockey's Ridge; dipping a wing in tribute to the Wright Memorial; tracking a trawler toward Oregon Inlet, Lee confessed he has learned more than he bargained for.

"I've fallen in love with the place and the people. . . I've just made up my mind I'm gonna have me a place down here one day," Lee said.

Potential
Estimates are the annual harvest can easily top $250 million; produce a billion-dollar processing industry.

Lee wants to pull together under one massive fisheries program the fragmented activities such as regulating commercial fishing, protecting breeding grounds, inspection, fisheries research, and promotion of North Carolina seafood. He sees problems to be ironed out, and told a boat captain who complained of always "sucking hind test" that it may take a year or two, but the fishermen are going to "move up front."

Winging over the Banks in the co-pilot seat of a tiny seaplane; playing chase with a rainbow in a summer storm; skimming the waves for a look at Jockey's Ridge; dipping a wing in tribute to the Wright Memorial; tracking a trawler toward Oregon Inlet, Lee confessed he has learned more than he bargained for.

"I've fallen in love with the place and the people. . . I've just made up my mind I'm gonna have me a place down here one day," Lee said.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Canal Treaty Is All Uphill

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Carter realized the political complexity of seeking quick Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaty when his early barrage of telephone calls produced nothing immediate from the two notables whose help he needs most: Ronald Reagan and Henry Jackson.

The White House wanted passivity from Reagan to dampen opposition from conservative Republicans, and support from Sen. Jackson to bring along defense-oriented Democrats. Instead, both were noncommittal in response to the President's personal request. Reagan could end up as an active foe of ratification and Jackson may levy a substantial price on unrelated matters before finally supporting the treaty.

Actually, Reagan and particularly Jackson are only secondarily interested in the canal itself. Reagan wants to keep his basic conservative constituency. Jackson, who has never shown interest in the canal issue, would like presidential commitments on arms control and national security.

Mr. Carter is vulnerable to such politics because he must sell the treaty at retail, not wholesale.

"Instinctive public opposition to transferring the canal to Panama is so overwhelming that Carter strategists doubt even the bully pulpit of the presidency can reverse opinion in time. So the President is reduced to a retail search for political leaders.

Gerald R. Ford and Henry Kissinger quickly granted approval (even without seeing the written treaty). But public rejoicing at the White House over the Ford-Kissinger endorsements was matched by private skepticism about their value. "Ford's support should do wonders with the Republican party, just like last year," a sarcastic Carter adviser cracked.

But Reagan's neutrality could help significantly. Reagan's response to the President's call — that he needed to see the treaty before deciding — was considered encouraging at the White House. Canal negotiator Sol Linowitz offered to travel to California to brief Reagan.

Indeed, some key Reagan aides were embarrassed last year by his dramatic use of the canal in primary elections against President Ford. They now worry that violence in Panama which might result from Senate rejection of the treaty could be blamed on Reagan. Besides, they reason, the charge of "secret" canal negotiations used against Ford so effectively no longer applies. So, when anti-treaty Senators asked Reagan to testify before a Senate subcommittee Sept. 8, Reagan's staff replied: sorry, the governor is busy that day.

Sensing what was afoot, other Reagan advisers were appalled — not so much by the canal itself but because they know a passive Reagan role would be viewed by hard-core Reaganites as betrayal. One key Reagan supporter, who had silently accepted Reagan's selection last year of liberal Sen. Richard Schweiker as his running-mate, told us neutrality on the treaty would be "a second Schweiker, and two is one too many."

Sen. Jesse Helms, leading the fight against ratification, called Reagan to argue his case — a precursor of an onslaught to come if he stays quiet. But Reagan is an experienced politician who knows that abandoning a base of support can be political suicide. On Aug. 16, he began edging toward clear opposition.

Reagan informed Linowitz there was no point in coming West without a written treaty (which does not exist yet). Anti-treaty Senators were told Reagan might attend that Sept. 8 hearing after all. Reagan flatly advised CBS what he had left ambiguous when talking to Mr. Carter: he opposes any treaty which relinquishes the canal. While aides will keep him from leading the fight, that is not the same as neutrality.

Strength For Today

THE GREAT DESTROYER

The Bible puts at the head of all lists of human frailty the loveless heart. Next comes greed.

Greed is an evil often mistaken for the virtue of prudence. They resemble each other as strikingly as toadstools and mushrooms, and they are as dangerously different. Prudence is the acquisition and maintenance of resources in order to meet legitimate human needs. Greed is acquisition for acquisition's sake. It is the desire to have merely for the satisfaction of having.

History is replete with men and women who have been destroyed by greed. The Bible has its share of them. Perhaps the most notorious is Judas, who sold his friend and teacher for thirty pieces of silver.

In every circle of life today walk men and women out of whom all life has been eaten, not because they are dishonest, but only because they are greedy. Their lives are spent in getting. They are far indeed from the model posed by Jesus when he said, "I am in the midst of you as one who serves."

The Feds On Fairness

For the past several weeks, television viewers in the Washington area have been startled to see on their TV screens some commercials unlike any commercials seen before. The commercials are dedicated to selling an idea. This is the idea: "We'd better break up the oil monopoly before it breaks us."

The commercials, appearing on Station WTOF, have another novel aspect: They have not been paid for. The station has given the time to the sponsor, Energy Action Committee, Inc. The station also has contributed its production and editing facilities to make certain the commercials meet the station's quality standards.

Now WTOF is owned by the Post-Newsweek people, a businesslike bunch not known for giving things away. I work part time for the station myself, and I know. The explanation for this curious turn of events lies in a little-noticed order of the Federal Communications Commission last April. The FCC found that WTOF had violated the "fairness doctrine" by carrying a commercial of Texaco, Inc., dealing in general with the company's efficiency and economy. The Texaco spot appeared 53 times between

Other Editors Say Bleeding Hearts?

(Washington Daily News)

All we know about the "Son of Sam" in New York is what we have read and what we have heard.

But it does not take much sense to know immediately that when a man takes six lives in cold blood, he is a killer who should be dealt with accordingly. To be perfectly fair about it all, this fellow, David Berkowitz, should and will be given psychiatric examination to determine his mental abilities.

But if this fellow, if after thorough examination, is found to be mentally responsible for his acts, has he not truly forfeited his right to live among decent society?

Yet, we read with almost deathly horror that he is only being charged with second degree murder in New York State. That state, where liberals rule, has become the citadel of unbelievable things in government and in living.

This is a day that the "bleeding hearts" can celebrate. They can celebrate the deaths of six innocent victims who were gunned down in such cold blood that it still frightens us. They went to their deaths with their loved ones never knowing why, and even today with the pain and tears still rampant.

And this fellow Berkowitz is only charged with second degree murder. And if he is found guilty, maybe the liberal judge will shed a few tears in New York and say to him "son, you have been given a bad way to go." And surely the defensive attorney will claim loudly and dramatically that the adverse publicity has made it impossible for Berkowitz to get a fair trial.

In North Carolina a second degree murder charge carries up to 30 years in prison. And if one behaves himself in prison, parole comes quickly. If this fellow is ever let out on parole, provided of course that he is guilty, New York, as large as it is, will not be safe.

Just as millions of other Americans we are happy that he has been caught. We feel that many lives have been spared through his capture. It was said that he was planning a machine gun escapade which would have meant that "it would take all Summer to count the bodies."

So when Berkowitz goes to trial eventually, it will be labeled as "bleeding hearts" day. Crocodile tears will be shed for Berkowitz. But how about those six people whose murders he will be charged with? Who is there to cry for them or for those who long ago have been buried?

It is only second degree murder for Berkowitz, but it is first degree victory for the "bleeding hearts."

late January and mid-April of 1976.

The bizarre theory applied by the FCC in its 3-1 decision is to this effect: Texaco's commercial, even though it was couched in general terms, really was intended to shape public opinion on a divestiture bill then pending in Congress; in the judgment of the commission, divestiture was a controversial issue of public importance; Texaco's advertising had presented one side only — the case against vertical divestiture; therefore, WTOF had to provide a contrasting point of view.

The reasoning is hard to fathom. At the time Texaco's fairly innocuous puffs appeared on the screen, virtually no one outside the petroleum industry gave a hoorah about vertical divestiture, horizontal divestiture, or any other kind of divestiture. Senate subcommittee hearings attracted little attention. Congressional Quarterly carried nothing on the matter until April 10, and then nothing more until mid-July.

Texaco's commercial never touched the issue of horizontal divestiture — by which is meant that a petroleum company must sever its interest in coal, uranium or other energy sources. To the extent that it dealt with the issue at all, Texaco dealt solely with the merits of vertical integration — which is to say, with the advantages of an oil company's controlling its own production, transportation and supply operations "so it can link the complex parts together efficiently and economically."

The people who run the Energy Action Committee, handed a bonanza courtesy of the FCC, elected to make the most of it. They put together four vicious commercials, depicting the oil industry, for one example, as a mugger in a dark alley. The counter-commercials attack the industry as a monopoly with everyone at its mercy. More remarkable still, in each of the four counter-commercials, the committee calls for horizontal

Not In Phone Listing

By DENNIS ESKOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Telephone Company today begins delivery of 955,000 new Manhattan telephone directories. Missing among its 767,992 listings is the Government of Montmartre, and its "president" says he's mad enough to sue.

"We're the only foreign country in New York," says Barry Richmond, a theatrical entrepreneur whose name is also missing from the many catalogues of show business notables.

Richmond says he'll take the phone utility to court in a $2 million libel-restraint of trade suit.

The whole hassle began last year when the local media couldn't help but notice a 35-line listing in the phone book under the heading: "Montmartre, Govt of." There was a listing for the ambassador's residence, one for a Montmartre-U.S. Joint International Boundary & Water Commission and one for the Theatre Du Grand-Guignol De Paris.

"The phone company apparently became embarrassed about the press coverage and decided to strike Montmartre from the directory," said Richmond in a telephone interview early today.

Richmond went to the State Public Service Commission on June 24 and again on July 5 to insist that the phone company had no right to withdraw recognition of the country.

"I quoted precedent going back to Pericles," Richmond says, explaining that he used precedent to show that small sovereignties have been tolerated within the boundaries of larger ones ever since the Golden Age of Greece.

Richmond says the PSC seemed to uphold his position in the June meeting, which was informal, and then go against him in July. He took the case to a Manhattan federal court, which upheld the PSC decision that the phone company could withdraw the listing.

The phone company position, stated frequently and reaffirmed in a telephone interview with a spokesman today, is that people have to trust what they read in the phone book. "As best as we can, we try to protect the integrity of the phone directory," the spokesman said.

But Richmond says the phone company simply has no sense of humor.

To what end does the Serene Federal Republic of Montmartre exist?

Richmond says that the country was originally formed to help bring the French comedy theater Grand-Guignol to the United States. He claims to have purchased rights to the theater company.

President Barry Richmond says many things. He says he is 45 years old. He said he was 45 last year.

When confronted with the discrepancy, Richmond laughs and says, "I should be 46, but I was sick a year."

Economists Are Encouraging

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the economic scholars whose research and analysis provide us with our view of the economic and business world have a feeling we may be too hard on ourselves.

A bias seems to exist, they say, that causes a good many Americans to view with great concern any economic development that cannot be called a sharp improvement. There is no in-between, they say; if it isn't very, very good, then it's terribly bad.

There is the notion, for example, that the economy is always in trouble and that we are still suffering the lingering impact of the great recession of 1973-1975. But some scholars say the recovery has been a good one, better than in other developed nations.

Philip A. Klein and Geoffrey Moore, both of the National Bureau of Economic Research, observe that U.S. industrial production had more than recovered the 15 per cent recession decline by May of this year.

By contrast, the recoveries of two other industrial giants, West Germany and Japan are "even now less than complete," the authors say.

Writing in "Economic Outlook USA," published by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, the two economists reach this encouraging conclusion: "Among the three major industrial economies of the nonCommunist world, the United States has not only made the most complete recovery... but its prospects for the immediate future seem to be brighter also."

Other researchers offer the example of employment-unemployment to back their contention that things aren't really as gloomy as sometimes they might be painted.

With the spotlight on the jobless rate, which was 6.9 per cent of the civilian labor force in July, relatively little attention has been paid to the sharp rise in total employment.

During the first nine quarters of the recovery, employment has grown by 7.1 per cent, notes Citibank, "the best showing for any recovery period in the post-World War II era."

The reason the jobless rate has remained so high is not so much that the supply of jobs has been constrained, it states, but "rather, that the demand for employment has been very strong, causing an influx of women, teenagers and parttime applicants.

Another discussion, a lively one, is taking place over the rate at which people are saving and spending. Stock market analysts especially seem to be concerned that the consumer has been spending too freely and soon will be forced to cut back.

This, they say, could be interpreted as one of the first indications of an economy that will slow and perhaps even stall and fall back into recession. Though speculative, the interpretation seems to be influential.

Other students of savingspending-debt observe, however, that while spending has been a pleasant surprise, there is little indication that consumers are getting themselves into deep financial trouble.

sagna that has matured five hours in the trunk of a car falls within the expertise of Charlotte Dunn.
Miss Dunn, who announces cheerfully she is "55 and over the hill," is a food nutrition specialist with the University of Wisconsin Extension.
She works from an office crammed with canning lids, notebooks and piles of the 43 food information pamphlets she has written for the Extension. She says she gets about 30 calls a day from people who have questions on nutrition and food.
Miss Dunn, settling back casually with her right foot propped on the chair seat, recalls some of the questions.
"There's this one: 'Grandma died and we're cleaning out her basement. We've found food from umpteen years back and we can use it, can't we?'"
She grimaces. "I tell them, umpteen years you've lived without it and I want you to go on living."
She admits her telephone manner is occasionally abrasive.

Miss Dunn says she thinks many callers' problems arise from carelessness or inexperience, and "they want you to tell them it's all right."
Often it isn't all right — as in the case of a woman who wanted to be reassured that a lasagna casserole left in her car trunk five hours was still edible. It wasn't.

Many callers want to know if they can freeze a certain food. In most cases they can, although Miss Dunn advises them to freeze a small amount first to see if they like the quality of the thawed food.
"I tell them you can always freeze your husband, too, but the quality may not be there when you thaw him out," she says in her Oklahoma twang.
With the pickle season waning soon — she and co-worker Mary Mennes get 7,000 questions a year on canning, pickling and freezing — come ham and turkey questions. Then the January lull, followed by gardening questions.
Occasionally she gets calls at

WOMAN TORTURED IN SMALL CAR

Keeping up with fast moving traffic is sheer torture for her in a small car. Yes, compacts and minis can suffer extra engine strain to accelerate speed. This can cause excessive engine heat, wear and noise. That's why small cars should have extra protection. Now they can get it thanks to WYNN'S OIL TREATMENT FOR SMALL CARS. It's formulated to help maintain performance, compression and viscosity at high temperatures while it fights power-stealing contaminants. So for that extra protection get WYNN'S OIL TREATMENT FOR SMALL CARS today.

Natural Gas Supply Is Not So Bad For State

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An early diagnosis on natural gas supplies for this winter indicates a healthier picture than last year, says a state Utilities Commission official.

"It's really not bad, depending how you look at it," said Raymond Nery, head of the commission's natural gas division.

Although the state's natural gas supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. (TRANSCO), is running 3 per cent lower in supplies, Nery says there is enough emergency gas to meet customer needs.

Last winter, numerous industries were forced to close when TRANSCO cut off supplies to all but small business and residential customers.

The North Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association already has called on the Utilities Commission to prevent another disastrous shortage this winter. E.B. Borden, association chairman, scheduled an appearance for today before the Utilities Commission to ask for reliable supplies of energy this winter.
Additional storage facilities in several Gulf Coast states will help TRANSCO furnish a steady supply of gas through the winter, Nery said. The storage field should be filled by Nov. 1, he added.

Several pending developments could help TRANSCO's supply picture, the state official said.

A suit against Texaco could force the oil company to return some natural gas to pipeline companies.

"If TRANSCO could get a good slug of gas, it could improve out supply situation," Nery said. Another possible bright spot is federal legislation that would establish a price of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet (mcf) of gas on long-term contracts.

"They were going as high as $2.25 per mcf last winter," Nery said of suppliers' attempts to locate fuel.

In addition, he said TRANSCO and other interstate suppliers are pushing for ability to compete with intrastate companies in buying gas. Gas produced and sold within a single state currently is not regulated in price by the federal government.

Despite constant monitoring of the supply situation, Nery says the unpredictable weather could change things.

"It looks alright, unless something fluky happens," he said.

Open House At Agnes Fullilove

Open house will be held at Agnes Fullilove School here Thursday at 7:30 p. m., with all parents of City Schools seventh graders urged to attend.

According to Fullilove Principal John Carstarphen, the program, to be held in the school cafeteria, will include curriculum design, transportation and other topics relating to the education of this year's seventh graders.

Exercise...

"Exercise is a friend, not a foe, and it doesn't have to be unpleasant," he said.

"How do we at Sickroom Service know that it is possible to achieve measurable results while sitting in a chair," he said. "Well, our business is concern for the health and well-being of people who spend their lives in wheelchairs — the physically disabled."

"To prevent the physical deterioration that comes with inactivity, people in wheelchairs learn to exercise. We have learned many exercises from the experts on keeping the body healthy and active while sitting."

"The most important thing is to be persistent and exercise regularly."

Youth Services Slated Sunday

Youth services will be held at St. Matthew's FWB Church Sunday at 11 a. m. Elder Ernest Jones, the youth pastor, will be in charge.

At 7:30 p. m., Elder Tyrone Turnage will preach. Dora Stancliff will be the sponsor of this service.

Scoop Jackson's role is less public but probably more important than Reagan's. The President cannot win ratification without defense-oriented Senators such as Jackson and Georgia's Sam Nunn — both of whom so far say nothing about the treaty. Whereas Reagan's ambiguous attitude with Mr. Carter encouraged the White House, an identical attitude by Jackson was discouraging.

Although he has kept quiet, Jackson is not happy about the Carter administration's softened arms control (SALT) proposals. The White House suspects, therefore, that Jackson wants to trade his Panama vote for national security matters he really cares about.

This is possible for a simple reason: The President cannot quickly wholesale the treaty to a nation which still views the Panama Canal as a lingering remnant of national pride. Visiting Panama in 1912, Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote his mother that the nearly-completed canal was "greater than the Tower of Babel or the Pyramids... (Col.) Goethals (builder of the canal) said in his quiet way last night, 'We like to have Americans come down, because they all say it makes them better Americans.'" The persistence of that sentiment has driven Jimmy Carter to the telephone to plead with politicians.

divestiture — an issue never raised in the original Texaco commercials.

What is "fair," I am minded to ask, in according free time to this freeloading committee for this one-sided assault? "A handful of giant oil companies... are rapidly gaining control of our coal and uranium resources." "These same giant oil companies are trying to grab control of America's coal and uranium, too." "We can't let these oil giants grab up more and more of our coal and our natural gas, uranium, solar and geothermal energy resources."

Texaco thinks the committee's free commercials have taken an unfair advantage. It has complained to the FCC and to WTOP that WTOP now has an obligation to present the oil industry's views on the issue of horizontal divestiture. The station management, weary of the whole business, says the issue, if there is one, is the economic power of the great oil companies, and the kind of divestiture is immaterial.

The 30 counter-commercials contributed by WTOP represent a curious precedent in the contorted growth of the "fairness doctrine." Broadcasters now must function as keen censors of ideas that might be concealed in an apparently innocent commercial. No controversial ideas permitted here! Maybe this is in the public interest, but it's hard to see how.

With More Experience, Jamesville Looks For Improvement This Year

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor
JAMESVILLE — The history of football has not been a long one at Jamesville High School, but Coach Linc Page is hoping that with a good number of experienced seniors that this might be the year that the school could post its best record so far.

Football became an interscholastic sport in this Martin County school just five years ago. And that year, the majority of the players were seniors. The next year, freshmen dominated the squad, and while this year's team has good balance among its players, those freshmen who started four years ago are now seniors.

"I'm optimistic about our ball club this year," Page said. "I can't predict what our won-lost record is going to be, but I think that we can be better than we were last year."

Injuries and defections have left Page with just 22 players right now, but he doesn't feel that this will be a big problem. "Barring injuries, I expect these 22 to stick with us the rest of the way."

Offensively, the Bullets will operate out of a pro-set. "I hope that we can balance our passing game more with our running game this year," Page said. "We want to pass more than we have in the past to open up our running game more. Last year, people just stacked up on us to stop the rush and that hurt us." Jamesville lost only two starters on offense, and Page feels that if the team is able to pass the ball more, that things will be much brighter.

Trent Ange (6-1, 155) returns as the team's quarterback after breaking in last year as a freshman. "He has been real good for us," Page said. "He's throwing the ball well both from a drop back and a sprint out. He started every game for us last season."

Frank Hardison (6-1, 172 sophomore) will probably be the fullback. Page says he's a big, tough kid, but his blocking needs to improve, and in the Bullets' game, the fullback is mostly a blocker. Greg Sullivan, a 5-11, 172 freshman, is also a candidate to start here.

Alan Frazier, 5-9, 154, started several games last year at tailback while a freshman. "He's not real fast, and he doesn't catch the ball real well, but he does a lot of things good. He's an all-around type player." Stan Lilley, a 5-7, 150-pound junior, was also slated to see duty here, but suffered a recurrence of a shoulder injury, and may not be able to play any more.

Glenn Ellis, a 5-11, 145-pound senior will be at the flanker slot, with Will Griffin, a 6-0, 145-pound junior, at the split end. Rick Bell, a 5-9, 130-pound freshman, may also see some duty. "All three have good speed, and Ellis catches the ball pretty well," Page said.

Of the six interior linemen, five are seniors who have seen a lot of action, making this part of the game the most experienced. All five have started at least two years.

Bill Barber, 6-1, 175, is the tight end, and Page rates him a good blocker and good on catching the short pass.

Hugh Bennett, 6-3, 193, and Keith Long, 6-1, 175, are the tackles. "Bennett is one of our biggest players and a good blocker. Long, the only junior, is a good hitter."

Kenny Tetterton, 5-10, 170, and Randy Simmons, 6-0, 180, will anchor the guards. "Tetterton may be our best blocker, and Simmons is our most aggressive blocker. I guarantee he will hit you."

Rounding out the line will be Jeff Beacham at center. He's the smallest of the linemen at 5-9, 152.

Depth will be a problem, and in some cases, backup men are starters at other positions. Ellis, for example, is the number two quarterback.

"We do have some people who will play a lot, however," Page said. He noted these as freshman Daryl Cox, 5-9, 165, in the line; Wayne Holliday, 6-1, 195, Jr., also in the line; Ross Simmons, 5-10, 155, soph., another lineman; Jeff Perry, 5-9, 122, soph., at wide receiver; Tyrone Perry, 5-6, 120, junior; and Jim Shiver, 5-6, 124, soph., both in the backfield, and Bill Hardison, 5-5, 147, soph., in the line.

"We're still fiddling around with the defense, trying to decide on a five or six man front. We do return nine starters here, too. They are pretty much the same people we'll have on offense. Bill Hardison at corner back probably will be the lone difference."

Page added that while the backfield is young, there is experience most every other place on the team. "I'm not too concerned about the size either. We are going to be bigger than we've been, but still smaller than everyone else we play. But most of the kids caught on to gang-tackling last year around the middle of the season, and I hope we can pick up where we left off."

After last year's 3-7 year, the Bullets can see only better things ahead. "Our passing will be the key," Page said. "We've got to improve on it. If we do, we can make this year a lot better."

Students Flock To Buy Tickets

Injuries continued to play havoc with East Carolina University football practice, but incoming students flocked to the ticket window this morning in support of the team, buying tickets to N.C. State and Duke.

Student tickets were placed on sale this morning at 8:30 a.m., and the first students began showing up at 2 a.m. during the night.

By the time the ticket office opened for business, the line stretched out the door of Minges Coliseum, down the sidewalk and through most of the parking lot behind the building.

A sellout of State tickets, and possibly those for the Duke game was expected during the morning. While the sales will close out tickets for the opener against State, the ticket office said he probably would have more Duke tickets later in the week, should the current supply be exhausted.

Meanwhile, Coach Pat Dye said that the injury situation on the practice field is still "critical." "I don't know who will be back first, or even when they'll be back. But one thing is for sure, we don't want to rush them back out," Dye said.

The coach labeled the offensive workout Monday as one with very poor concentration. "We looked slow and sloppy." Defensively, things picked up as the drills went along, but Dye still said it was "not good."

"It was just an ordinary day of practice," he said. "And if you practice ordinary, you play like ordinary people." We need strong leadership from the senior class to step forward."

Dye added that during the final minutes of practice, the team did get in some good conditioning workouts.

It was also announced that freshman Dean Butler, a quarterback and punter from Roseboro, has left the team. He reportedly wishes to devote his full time to his academic work.

Hisle Outguessed Former Twin To Help Minnesota Nip Boston

By TOM CANAVAN

AP Sports Writer

Larry Hisle of the Minnesota Twins called it a guessing game when he described hitting against Boston's Bill Campbell. Hisle, who singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning off Campbell to help Minnesota edge the Red Sox 5-4 Monday night, said the hit was just a matter of out-guessing his former teammate. "With Bill you never know what he'll throw because he's got so many pitches," Hisle said after collecting his 98th RBI of the season. The hit kept the Twins one game behind the Kansas City Royals, two percentage points behind the Chicago White Sox and one-half game in front fourth-place Texas in the bunched-up AL West race.

In other American League action, Kansas City nipped Baltimore 8-7, Chicago whipped New York 5-3, Texas edged Milwaukee 8-7, Oakland bested Toronto 5-2, Detroit defeated California 5-1 and the Cleveland Indians defeated Seattle 12-1 in the first game before the Mariners won the two-nighter's second game, 4-3.

The Twins rocked Boston starter Rick Wise and reliever Bill Lee for six hits and four runs in the second inning. Glenn Adams slammed a 440-foot home run to start the inning. Butch Wynegar doubled home another run and Hisle and Rod Carew contributed RBI singles.

Royals 8, Orioles 7
Frank White doubled home two runs to tie the game, then scored the winning run from second base on Hal McRae's infield single, capping the three-run ninth-inning rally that gave Kansas City its sixth consecutive victory.

The Royals, who trailed 7-5 entering the ninth, tied the game on a single by pinch-hitter John Wathan, a walk to pinch-hitter Amos Otis, and White's double into the left field corner.

White Sox 5, Yankees 3
Former Yankee Oscar Gamble singled home the winning run in a three-run eighth inning as Chicago broke an eight-game New York winning streak.

Gamble's hit came off Sparky Lyle, who had replaced Ed Figueroa, 12-9, with one out in the eight.

A's 5, Blue Jays 2
Willie Crawford's pinch-hit, three-run homer snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh, inning and enabled Oakland to snap a three-game losing streak.

Crawford's homer, his first of the season, capped a four-run rally off Toronto starter Dave Lemanczyk.

Rangers 8, Brewers 7
Jim Sundberg slashed a two-out, two-run single in the seventh inning, giving Texas a comeback 8-7 victory over Milwaukee in a game delayed 43 minutes by rain.

Tigers 5, Angels 1
Fernando Arroyo fired a five-hitter and Rusty Staub blasted a three-run homer, leading the Tigers to their fourth consecutive triumph.

Indians 12-3, Mariners 1-4
Jim Bibby pitched a two-hitter, Buddy Bell slammed his third career grand slam and Rico Carty drove in five runs as the Cleveland trounced Seattle in the opener of the first two-night doubleheader to be played in Seattle.

John Montague recorded his second triumph of the season over the Indians as he scattered nine hits and Larry Cox homered to help the Mariners take the nightcap 4-3 and snap a five-game losing streak.

Three Sign With ECU

East Carolina University's men's tennis coach, Randy Randolph, announced today the signing of three recruits for the 1978 season. They are Curtiss Tedesco, Dave Marino and Maury Werness.

Tedesco was ranked 15th in the East for 18 and under players last year and has beaten several netters ranked in the top ten. He is the son of Mrs. Irene Tedesco of Huntington, N.Y.

Marino, hailing from Cheswick, Pa., is currently ranked as the number two singles and number one doubles player in the Allegheny Mountains Tennis Association. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Marino.

Werness, a native of Norfolk, Va., is ranked in the top five doubles players in the Mid-Atlantic Tennis Association for 18-year-olds.

"I'm very proud to have these three fine, young gentlemen enter our program," Randolph said. "I'm sure they'll be able to help us out immediately."

Marino Is Cage Aide

The new East Carolina University basketball coaching staff was recently completed with the addition of Frank Marino from the University of Detroit as a graduate assistant.

Marino, a native of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., served as a graduate assistant at Detroit last season. Prior to that time, he had served as assistant basketball coach at Westchester Community College and in a similar position at Tuckaheo High School in Eastchester, N.Y.

From 1972-77, he has been a resident staff member of the Five-Star Basketball Camp, which is considered to be one of the finest all-star camps in the nation.

The 27-year-old Marino is a 1970 graduate of C. W. Post where he earned his degree in history. He attended graduate school at Iona College. He is single.

White New Assistant

East Carolina University Sports Medicine Director Rod Compton today announced the appointment of Liz White as Assistant Athletic Trainer.

White, a native of Norfolk, Va., will assist Compton with administration of the Sports Medicine curriculum, and in supervision of student trainers, as well as heading up Sports Medicine's work with women's athletics.

White came to East Carolina in 1974, and served for two years as a graduate assistant. She gained her certification last year while working at East Carolina on a graduate fellowship.

This year, she will move into a full-time position as non-tenured faculty. She becomes the first woman on the full-time Sports Medicine Staff.

Instead Of Sleeping, Darrell Made Money

By MICHAEL GRACZYK

Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip can thank the weatherman for making his usual sleeping day a big payday.

The 30-year-old Franklin, Tenn., driver held off veteran David Pearson and outlasted Cale Yarborough and Benny Parsons Monday in winning the rain-delayed 400-mile Grand National stock car race at Michigan International Speedway. The victory, at an average speed of 137.944 miles per hour, was worth $15,370.

The race, scheduled for Sunday, had to be postponed a day because of rain.

"I'm not even supposed to work on Monday, it's my day off," Waltrip said with a laugh. "I usually sleep all day on Monday."

He and the other NASCAR regulars put no one to sleep, staging a bumper-to-bumper duel on the two-mile banked oval.

Yarborough, who started his Chevrolet on the outside of pole-sitter Pearson, led 118 the first 150 laps.

But Waltrip, whose Chevy had been perched on the NASCAR defending champion's bumper for most of the race, came out of the pits ahead of Yarborough following a yellow flag on lap 162, traded the lead with Parsons, then kept it for good for the final 26 laps.

Meanwhile, Parsons, Pearson and Yarborough were scrapping to get around the frontrunner. Pearson and Yarborough nearly collided in the main straightaway on one pass.

Parsons had to pull back when a fire extinguisher inside his Chevrolet broke loose and went off, causing him to think he had blown an engine. He finished third.

Yarborough gave up the chase with 15 laps to go when he encountered mechanical problems with his Chevy. He eventually finished fifth, behind rookie Sam Sommers' Chevrolet.

Pearson, from Spartanburg, S.C., tried to get his Mercury past Waltrip on the final turn of the final lap, but ran into problems with slower cars. He finished about a car length behind.

"I was scared to look back," Waltrip said. "But when I saw him in my mirror out of turn four, I knew he wouldn't catch me to the (finish) line."

The victory was Waltrip's fourth of the season and pushed his 1977 earnings past the $172,000 mark.

Yarborough managed to hang on to his Grand National point lead over Richard Petty, who wound up eighth, one lap back. Going into the race, the pair was separated by only 32 points in the battle for the national stock car championship.

Dick Brooks of Spartanburg, S.C., was sixth, followed by Ricky Rudd of Fort Mill, S.C.; Petty, of Randleman, N.C.; Terry Ryan of Davenport, Iowa, and Janet Guthrie of New York, whose 10th-place finish was the best of her NASCAR career.

Pinch Hit Homer Powers Cards To 8-6 Victory Over Dodgers

By HERSCHEL NISSSEN
AP Sports Writer

In Baldwin Park, Calif., Mrs. Margie Freed knew a baseball game isn't over until the last man is out. Her son, Roger, proved that Monday night.

Freed's three-run pinch homer with one out capped a seven-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning and lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-6 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. It was the fourth home run of the season for the 31-year-old utility man, who is batting .356 in sparse action with the Cards after twice winning Minor League Player of the Year honors.

"I knew my mother was watching," Freed said. "I kept telling myself I was going to hit one for mom. She never gives up until the game's over. She's been a baseball roofer ever since I was in Little League."

Despite the loss, the Dodgers remained 9½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West when the Montreal Expos downed the Reds 5-1. In the NL East, the Philadelphia Phillies boosted their lead to 7½ games over Pittsburgh by edging the Atlanta Braves 5-4 while the Pirates were dropping a 1-0 squeaker to the San Diego Padres.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs nipped the San Francisco Giants 3-2 and the New York Mets shaded the Houston Astros, 2-1.

Los Angeles had built a 6-1 lead on Steve Yeager's grand slam in a five-run third inning and a run-scoring infield hit in the ninth by 41-year-old Vic Davalillo. Davalillo collected his first two hits in the majors since 1974.

Then the Cardinals erupted against starter Burt Hooton and relievers Lance Rautzhan and Charlie Hough.

Expos 5, Reds 1

Rookie Sam Mejias drilled three hits and made a sensational catch in center field and Warren Cromartie hit a two-run homer to help Wayne Twitchell post his fourth victory and second over the Reds.

Phillies 5, Braves 4

Pinch-hitter Tim McCarver started a tie-breaking two-run seventh inning with a walk. Dave Johnson, another pinch-hitter, drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single. McCarver took second on a wild pitch and Bake McBride, who homered in the fifth inning, beat out a ground-er to short. When Pat Rockett's throw to first was high, McCarver scored the tie-breaking run.

Padres 1, Pirates 0

Gene Tenace rapped a home run in the fourth inning while rookie Bob Shirley and veteran Rollie Fingers limited Pittsburgh to seven hits. With two out in the Pirates' sixth and runners at the corners, Dave Parker broke for second and catcher Dave Roberts threw the ball into center field. Phil Garner came home from third with what he thought was the tying run only to learn that umpire Terry Tata had called the pitch to Bill Robinson an inning-ending third strike.

Cubs 3, Giants 2

Bobby Murcer's home run and run-scoring doubles by Bill Buckner and George Mitterwald enabled Rick Reuschel, 17-5, to post his 12th victory in 13 decisions at Chicago's Wrigley Field. It also was the Cubs' eighth victory over the Giants in as many meetings.

Mets 2, Astros 1

Pinch-hitter Bruce Boisclair's two-run double in the seventh inning enabled the Mets to snap a five-game losing streak and extend Houston's skid to five games.

Royals Credit Success To Gong

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—If the Kansas City Royals survive their white-knuckle battle with Chicago, Texas and Minnesota in the American League West, some credit must go to an ugly, beat-up yellow gong.

George Brett picked it up in an Oriental shop three weeks ago at the end of a 1-5 road trip that appeared to peril the team's chances of repeating as division champion.

A few days later, the team began voting the "Gong Award" after each victory to the player committing the stupidest, most embarrassing mistake.

Protesting futilely amid raucous banter, the culprit allows the gong to hang at his dressing room stall until it is passed to someone else after another victory.

It is a group of adults acting silly, on the surface. But tension and anxiety are sub-surface things.

"Unless you've gone through it yourself, it's hard to understand the pressure these guys are under," said coach Steve Boros. "Something like this relieves the tension and helps keep the game fun. But they really struggle to plead their defense."

Catcher Darrell Porter got the Gong Award Sunday after the Royals beat Boston and moved one game ahead of Chicago and Minnesota and 1½ games ahead of Texas. Porter was cited for standing at the plate without realizing he had been called out on strikes.

"It adds to the feeling of fellowship and togetherness, even though I got a raw deal this time," said Porter.

It also might dissipate the anger that players can feel toward a faltering teammate.

Fourth-String Quarterback Leads Philadelphia Past New England

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A fourth-string quarterback in the National Football League could be likened to a guy trying to walk up a down escalator. He's got big problems.

Take Mike Cordova, and almost nobody did in the NFL. He was the last quarterback selected in May's player draft. The Philadelphia Eagles decided to take a look at the Stanford graduate.

When Cordova reported to the Eagles' training camp he found himself behind quarterbacks Ron Jaworski, Roman Gabriel and John Walton. His chances of sticking were about as good as the Eagles' making the Super Bowl: slim.

Mike got the hint when he found himself sharing a locker with rookie wide receiver Mike Mastranardo. His first job appeared to be getting his own clothes hook. Well, by now you should have Cordova's lot pretty well in focus.

Cordova persevered. He picked up loose footballs for Jaworski, Gabriel and Walton. Occasionally they let him throw a few. Eagles' Coach Dick Verneil finally decided to give Cordova some game action against the New England Patriots Monday night.

All the 220-pound Cordova did was lead the Eagles to a pair of second-half touchdowns and an upset 21-10 victory over a team many predict will reach the 1978 Super Bowl.

Cordova threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Vince Papale in the third period, sending the Eagles ahead 14-10. He directed a 34-yard TD drive in the final quarter, rookie Jim Betterson banging three yards for the six points. He completed four of seven passes for 47 yards in Philadelphia's second pre-season triumph in three games.

Earlier, the Patriots had taken a 10-0 lead on a one-yard first-period scoring run by Andy Johnson, and John Smith's 35-yard field goal in the second period. Jaworski's two-yard TD pass to Keith Kreftle in the end zone cut it to 10-7 at halftime.

Cordova took his first NFL scoring pass calmly.

"I jumped up about six feet," said the 6-foot-2 Cordova, who threw for 3,556 yards, including 25 touchdowns, at Stanford. "It was the most exciting thing to happen to me in a long while. A quarterback wants to score points, and that's what happened."

Southern Cal Appears To Be Best Far Western Football Power

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The upcoming football season in the Far West looks as if it will have a strikingly familiar theme — Southern Cal the apparent power and most of the rest of the West hoping the Trojans will stumble.

Southern Cal, which finished with 11 consecutive victories after losing its opener to Missouri last season, will be without tailback Ricky Bell and quarterback Vince Evans.

But the Trojans have another in a seemingly endless line of outstanding runners in Charles White, and last year's backup quarterback, Rob Hertel, has the potential to be one of the best passers in the school's history.

Southern Cal Coach John Robinson pointed out that the Trojans, No. 2 nationally behind Pittsburg in last season's final poll, lost 14 key players to graduation and added that the team's defense would be somewhat of a question mark in the early going this fall.

"Some people go from inexperienced players to veteran ones in about three weeks," said Robinson. "Some take two years. How quickly we make that trip from relatively inexperienced to being a competent, veteran team is the big key."

UCLA, coming off a 9-2-1 season that included a 36-6 loss to Alabama in the Liberty Bowl, may provide Southern Cal its toughest challenge for the Pac-8 championship. The Bruins lost their leading all-time rusher when Wendell Tyler graduated, and multi-talented quarterback Jeff Dankworth is also gone.

But Terry Donahue, in his second year of coaching the Bruins, said he believes he will get good quarterbacking from junior Steve Bukich and sophomore Rick Bashore. And Theophris Brown, who gained 1,092 yards on 200 carries last year, will be back to spearhead the UCLA ground attack.

The UCLA defense, however, appears to be the team's strong point. Linebackers Jerry Robinson and Raymond Bell, tackle Manu Tulasosopo and cornerback Levi Armstrong will anchor a Bruin defense that has

At 29, Top Talent Scout

By JAYSHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pam Dixon bears a faint resemblance to Kate Jackson, one of Charlie's most attractive Angels. But she's not an actress. She looks instead for people who can act.

At 29, she's ABC's top talent scout, holds vice-presidential rank. She scouts talent for shows ranging from TV flicks to series pilots, the latter being a big part of her workload these days.

Miss Dixon, who has signed such knowns as Cloris "Phyllis" Leachman and such unknowns as Rebecca Reynolds for potential series, estimates she interviews eight thespians a day for ABC.

By night, she and her five-member staff as still a-scouting in little theaters or talent showcases like the Comedy Store, Catch a Rising Star and the Improvisation here and on the East Coast.

She laughed when asked if she's ever ambushed by mendicants who leap from the bushes crying, "Alas, poor Yorick, how'd I do."

"Yes, you do get a few of those," she allowed. "But I've never found anyone that way. I think most people who are serious about acting really do take the time to do it legitimately."

The legit way, she says, is through an agent or by simply mailing a photo, a resume and writing for an interview.

While scuffling actors may feel the sun will rise in the West before ABC guards let them plead their case to the busy Miss Dixon or her associates, she says such isn't true at her emporium.

"We've a policy that we'll see not only anyone sent by an agent, but also anyone who takes the time to send a picture and resume," she says. "We've always had that open-door policy and will continue it ..."

"If I find them interesting or if their background shows they've really tried, really studied, we'll let them come in and do a three-minute acting scene."

Now the bad news: She's never signed what she calls an "off-the-street" actor for a series pilot on the basis of said scene.

But at least it's a foot in the door, says the lady who put her own foot in TV's door in 1968, as secretary to the head of casting at CBS here. She later became CBS' casting director here.

Odd as it sounds, Miss Dixon, a native of Santa Monica, Calif., and a USC graduate, says it's getting harder these days to find good young talent for the tube.

This, she says, "is for the simple reason that regional theater, due to economics, is becoming a thing of the past," and those who learned the acting craft there in olden days are growing fewer in number.

Sebastian Cabot dies

VICTORIA, Canada (AP) — Actor Sebastian Cabot, who played the bearded butler in the television series Family Affair, died early today of a stroke at his home here. He was 59.

Born in London, England, Cabot moved with his wife and family to the United States in 1955.

A rotund, bearded man, he appeared in the movies of "Kis-met," "Terror in a Texas Town," "The Time Machine" and "The Family Jewels."

Cabot also played in the TV series Checkmate from 1959 to 1962. But he was best known for his playing of the staid but soft-hearted British butler in Family Affair, a series about the trials of a bachelor raising two small children in New York City.

Cabot is survived by his wife, two daughters and a son.

Walter Pidgeon In 'Critical Condition'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Walter Pidgeon, debonaire star of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's golden era, has lapsed into critical condition with a blood clot on his lung, a hospital spokesman says.

Pidgeon, 78, was recovering from surgery he underwent last week for a blood clot on the brain when the new clot was discovered in his lung on Monday.

He was placed in the intensive-care unit of St. John's Hospital here.

Doctors said he suffered from a phlebitis-like condition — clotting of blood in the lower extremities. They performed a tracheotomy on Pidgeon Monday, placing a small tube in his windpipe to facilitate breathing.

They also placed a tiny umbrella-like device in a vein to prevent further clotting, the hospital spokeswoman said.

Pidgeon was one of Hollywood's romantic box office attractions in the 1940s, making his name in a series of movies opposite British actress Greer Garson.

Among them was "Mrs. Miniver," the 1941 story of an English family's courage during the German blitz of World War II. Years later, Pidgeon still was being called "Mr. Miniver" on the streets of London and Paris.

Though he often spoke of "taking it easy," Pidgeon remained active in films and appeared in three minor roles in 1976. His last major role came in 1973, when he portrayed an aging pickpocket in "Harry in Your Pocket."

Purchase Of TV Station Okayed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The PTL evangelical television network has received approval from the Federal Communications Commission to buy its first television station.

The network said Monday it has agreed to pay $2.5 million over the next five years for WJAN, Channel 17 in Canton, Ohio. WJAN was the second station to carry the religious program when it began.

Bob Manzano, a network spokesman, said the station will change from commercial advertising to a self-supporting. It will broadcast "family programming" such as comedy shows, religious telecasts, some sports and news.

The station currently is owned by Janson Industries.

You are invited to sit down to a 64-board match, and each deal offers you a problem in play or defense. Don't pay too much attention to the bidding style—it is based on prevailing English methods—except to draw the necessary inferences about distribution, etc. And don't expect an easy time—the problems, presented in single dummy style, are tough enough to challenge even the most experienced player.

This hand is one of the easier examples. You have reached a slightly ambitious contract of six hearts. To simulate the book's presentation cover the East-West hands and decide how you would play after the lead of the six of diamonds.

You are fortunate that you did not receive a spade lead, which would have forced you to rely on the finesse. Given this reprieve, you now have the opportunity to establish the club suit for two spade discards, but in doing so, you must not let West regain the lead because a spade shift will remove dummy's only entry to the long clubs.

The proper approach is to execute an unusual avoidance play. Cover the opening lead with nine of diamonds and, when East covers, discard a club from your hand!

Since East can't attack spades, assume he returns a diamond (no other return would be any better). You win in dummy, while discarding a second club from your hand, then cash the ace of clubs and ruff a club high. Dummy is entered with the jack of hearts and another club is ruffed high. Dummy's two long clubs are now established, and it's a simple matter to draw the outstanding trumps, cross to the ace of spades and discard your remaining spades on the high clubs.

Have you been running into double trouble? Let Charles Goren help you find your way through the maze of DOUBLES for penalties and for takeout. ## Second Porn Suit Filed FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A second suit challenging North Carolina's new anti-pornography law has been filed by a group of Fayetteville adult movie and bookstore operators.

The lawsuit, like a similar one filed in Mecklenburg County, contends the law is unconstitutional because it forbids "the doing of an act in terms so vague, fluid and indefinite that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at the meaning and differ as to the application thereof."

The law, which took effect Aug. 1, allows citizens and district attorneys to seek a court ruling declaring a business a public nuisance. Another section of the law provides for prosecution of merchants who publicly display explicit sexually oriented materials.

Dist. Atty. Ed Grannis Jr. had recently told bookstores and movie operators to confer with their attorneys before his office started a crackdown this month.

"When you have a large profit business being made off of filth, folks are going to do everything they can to have the law declared unconstitutional," Grannis said after the suit was filed in federal court.

Interior Dept. Writes Rules To Protect The Family Farms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department, hoping to save the family farm, is proposing regulations that would force huge corporate interests in 17 states to sell more than a million acres in the arid West.

The regulations, which would go into effect in 90 days unless blocked by lawsuits, would require corporations, investors and other large landowners to sell property they hold in excess of amounts allowed in a little-enforced 1902 law.

For more than 20 years the federal Bureau of Reclamation has financed water projects that convert marginal land into some of the nation's most valuable agricultural acreage. But critics have maintained that large corporations and absentee owners benefitted most from the policy.

In announcing the proposal Monday, Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus noted that Congress designed water projects worth billions of dollars "primarily to place small farmers on the land." He said the new regulations are designed to carry out that congressional directive.

"Let me emphasize that these proposed regulations are not designed to jeopardize legitimate family farm operations," Andrus said. "They are designed to help the family farmer, not agribusiness."

Officials said they expect the rules to be challenged by land-owning interests.

The proposed acreage limitation does not mean farms using federal water would be limited to 160 acres. A farmer and his wife, for example, could each own 160 acres. Each also would be permitted to lease an additional 160 acres.

But corporate ownership of the affected farmlands would be limited to small, family corporations under the proposed regulations, Higginson said.

Since the productivity of the land, valued at about $1,000 an acre, already has been demonstrated, small farmers apparently would be able to finance their purchases with loans from commercial banks and federal lending institutions.

See Potential For Witch Hunt

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The potential for a witch hunt exists among state employees due to a law requiring workers to tell superiors of any misuse of state property by colleagues, an official of the North Carolina State Employees Association says.

"We do not feel there was a need for it (the new law), but apparently somebody does," said John P. Booker Jr., president of the 22,000-member association. "By and large, state government in North Carolina is clean. We would be concerned that any measures like this might be carried to an excess and develop into a witch hunt."

State Sen. Robert W. Wynne Jr., D-Wake, introduced the measure in the General Assembly after a previous watch-dog agency was abolished this year.

The Management Investigation Unit went out of existence after being accused of abusing its powers.

The unit was created 15 years ago to monitor the transportation department.

"These people were following state employees around, surreptitiously taking pictures of them," Wynne said of the old unit, whose functions were expanded under former Gov. Jim E. Holshouser Jr.

Two SBI agents were being assigned to handle enforcement of the new law.

"Basically, I think we have an honest group of employees," said SBI chief Hayward Starling. "But with their numbers, naturally we would have a certain number of crimes against the state."

Lost A Road But Got Pier

BELVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Residents of this Brunswick County town may have lost a road, but they got a fishing pier in return.

The pier is a bridge that formerly carried U.S. 17-74-76 over the Brunswick River between Wilmington and Belville. The highway has been rerouted around the community, and the old road was closed July 21.

"I personally like it," said S.V. Fine, a law enforcement officer with the state Wildlife Resources Commission. "It gives the people another area to go and fish. And while they are here they pretty much keep out of trouble."

Town officials complain that the community has no direct access to the new highway now, and they have launched a court battle to retain the bridge. The structure is on the Department of Transportation's demolition list.

While the bridge's fate remains a question, fishermen from as far as New Jersey flock to the pier.

Paul Drayton of Jersey City, N.J., said the area is good for crabbing. He sets his traps and just waits in his car atop the bridge.

Department of Transportation officials don't mind, although they warn that the state would not be responsible if a mishap occurred on the bridge.

"Those people fishing are taking the responsibility if there is an accident," said Ted Funderburk, district engineer. "I personally don't have any objection to their fishing, but I would prefer if they didn't."

Set Two Months Of Candy Sale

The Greenville Jaycettes will conduct their annual Candy Sale during September and October.

The proceeds will be used to benefit the Pitt County crippled and otherwise handicapped children. The sale will be door-to-door and at various locations throughout town.

Co-chairmen Susie Clark and Donna Hatcher said that caramel creams will be sold for $1 per bag. The profits will be used to purchase clothes, braces, crutches, and orthopedic shoes, they said.

Holding Revival Through Friday

Revival services will be held through Friday of this week at St. Luke's F.W.B. Church with Eldress Shirley Jean Daniels as the speaker for each of the 8 p.m. services.

Various choirs will sing. The public is invited, says the pastor, Eldress Hattie Mae Cobb.

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The above-named City proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

VILLAGE OF SIMPSON COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT HOUSING REHABILITATION AND PUBLIC WORKS IMPROVEMENTS SIMPSON, NORTH CAROLINA 27822

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above-named city has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such statement are as follows:

The findings of the Environmental Review Record indicate that the alterations to both the human and natural environments are not of special implications. The program of the above-named City which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at the inner lobby of the U.S. Post Office Building between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 12 Noon and from 2:00 P.M. to 5:30 P.M.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision should submit written comments for consideration by the City to the office of the undersigned, John T. McDonald, Jr., Mayor, Village of Simpson, North Carolina 27829, August 23, 30, 1977.

One of a series from Union Carbide

What is Union Carbide, a major energy user, doing about the nation's energy problems?

Bill van der Hoeven
Operations Manager
Energy Systems

Producing energy savings of close to $50 million.

Since 1971, the Chemicals and Plastics Division of Union Carbide has conducted energy audits as part of an active energy management program—and for good reason. For we use petroleum products both as fuels and as raw materials. In fact, we're among the world's largest users of petroleum raw materials for product manufacture.

With a goal of decreasing the amount of energy used to produce the finished product, this energy management program has already generated energy savings of close to $50 million from an investment of about $20 million.

We are now working to reduce our dependence on natural gas to one-third by 1986, by replacing it with coal, oil and coal-derived steam and electricity. And we plan to do this in the face of an anticipated 50 percent increase in production. Projects currently under way:

- Planning the use of coal in all new facilities.
- Converting four Gulf Coast plants from natural gas to oil.
- Restoring coal-burning capability to two plants in West Virginia.
- Investigating the feasibility of participating with electric utilities in a coal-fired cogeneration project to provide steam and electricity to several chemical companies in Texas.

These projects will involve an investment of $300 million or more over the next five years.

Dick Paul
Manager, Environmental Systems
Turning garbage to fuel.

The more than 400,000 tons of refuse generated each day in the United States represents a virtually untapped energy source equivalent to more than 500,000 barrels of oil per day in heating value. And Union Carbide has found a way to convert this unused waste into a premium-value, clean-burning gas.

After many years of research and development, we are commercializing the PUROX solid waste disposal resource recovery system. Oxygen is used, instead of air, to produce high-temperature incineration and pyrolysis of all types of refuse. The solid waste is reduced to only five percent of its original volume, to a compact, sterile residue that can be used for road and landfill.

Our system is also now being developed to dispose of municipal refuse together with sewage sludge from wastewater treatment plants. The approximately 15,000 tons per day of dry sludge generated in this country represents both a problem and an opportunity. Now, it is an environmental problem when dumped on the land. The problem will be compounded when ocean dumping is banned by 1981. Co-disposal of sludge with solid waste refuse via the PUROX system is an ideal solution. Energy will be produced as a fuel gas from the sludge, and the sludge residue will be consolidated into the refuse residue and rendered inert.

Looking even further into the future, PUROX and systems like it could be used to produce synthesis gas for chemical conversion into synthetic natural gas, methanol or ammonia.

Dr. Robert Bollinger
Director, New Business Development

Changing coal into oil and gas.

Coal is America's most abundant fuel resource—there's enough of it to last us for more than 300 years. Today Union Carbide plans to use it directly as a boiler fuel in all new facilities, whenever practical, and we are developing ways to change it into even more valuable forms of energy, such as synthetic natural gas and clean fuel oil.

We began our pioneering research on converting coal to chemicals in the 1930s and achieved many technical breakthroughs at a cost of almost $60 million. In the mid-1960s, we stopped work on these projects because coal could not compete with the cheap natural gas of those times and with world oil then priced at two dollars a barrel.

But times have changed and coal research is back in the spotlight. When energy shortages developed in the early 1970s and the price of oil and gas skyrocketed, our long history of coal research helped us to respond rapidly. We mobilized a highly experienced technical team and were among the first organizations to answer the government's call for renewed attention to coal.

We believe that American industry has a great ability to develop new technology—such as coal conversion—and to match it to consumer needs. At Union Carbide, we're using that capability to find more ways to use coal to meet the nation's energy needs.

Roberto Torres
Assistant Plant Manager

Reducing energy consumption and finding new energy sources.

At Union Carbide Caribe in Puerto Rico, a major part of our energy usage is electric power, 98 percent generated from mostly imported oil. In response to increased costs of power totaling more than 500 percent during the past five years, we have embarked on an active energy conservation program that has helped reduce energy consumption per pound of product by 22 percent since 1972.

But important as it is, conservation is not the panacea for a society that has long been on an energy-spending spree. We must seek out and utilize other energy sources to cause a shift away from a petroleum-based economy, even if this may be difficult to accept within some segments of society.

At Caribe, we are supplementing energy conservation efforts with a major project to generate power from fuels produced as by-products in our plants. Both Puerto Rico and Caribe must actively look for alternate energy resources. Today is already late to start!

Pat Sabel Karr, Ph.D.
Nuclear Microanalyst

Producing fuel for nuclear power plants.

At Union Carbide we're producing the fuel for America's nuclear power plants—as well as for other national needs. Through our Nuclear Division, we operate two of the nation's three gaseous diffusion plants that produce enriched uranium for national defense needs, nuclear research and the generation of electricity. Nuclear fuel is now supplying about ten percent of the nation's electricity, and with less oil and gas available for future generation of electricity, we expect that percentage to increase dramatically in the next 20 years.

We have been active in the nation's nuclear energy program since 1943, when scientists first demonstrated the gaseous diffusion process to separate useful quantities of uranium-235.

From those earliest days, we have not only operated gaseous diffusion plants but have also developed ways to improve the process. As a result, today's technology uses power four times more efficiently than it did when we started.

In addition, we're working to find other promising enrichment processes, including the gas centrifuge process recently cited by President Carter.

Enrique J. Armstrong
Corporate Purchasing Agent

Everything we buy is as energy-efficient as possible.

When we purchase major equipment at Union Carbide, we now buy with energy efficiency in mind. A special energy conservation clause requires suppliers to furnish information that helps us consider the long-term energy cost, as well as the initial purchase price. It also warns suppliers that they must prove their energy efficiency claims or refund the price of the equipment.

Since energy consumption accounts for approximately one-third of our operating costs, this is an energy conservation program—and a cost-cutting measure, too. We make sure that everything we buy is as energy-efficient as possible in order to get our money's worth.

This doesn't mean that energy conservation is the only way we're going to evaluate a piece of equipment. But it does mean that we're going to make it a major way!

Jack Paus
Division Vice President

Lighter cars use less gas.

The American life-style is highly dependent on the automobile—and on the large quantities of fuel that power

it. Given our apparent desire to continue this way of life and the present need to use dwindling fuel resources wisely, we are faced with the challenge of building cars that are lighter and thus use less gasoline.

We can do this by simply building smaller cars from metals. Or we can utilize new kinds of materials to make the car—as we know it today—lighter and more fuel-efficient.

High-performance carbon fiber, developed by Union Carbide and used in aerospace projects for nearly 20 years, may be the solution to the problem.

By building automobile structures of plastics and metals that have been reinforced with this lightweight but uniquely strong fiber, we may be able to achieve the needed weight reduction in new cars and still satisfy consumer demand for a comfortable five- or six-passenger vehicle that is also fuel-efficient.

While we're at it, we can save even more fuel by making lighter trucks and buses, too!

Ron Wishart
Director of Energy Policy

Saving 164,000 barrels of oil a day.

Making chemicals requires a lot of energy—about 25 percent of the amount used by all industries and ten percent of the nation's total energy consumption. At Union Carbide alone, we paid more than $1 billion last year for energy-related fuels and raw materials. That in itself is reason to work hard to achieve our energy conservation goals.

Since 1972, the chemical business has reduced energy consumption per unit of output by almost ten percent—a savings equal to 164,000 barrels of oil a day. It's simply good business for the industry, and for Union Carbide to invest money and manpower in energy efficiency.

Because the very life of our business—and the jobs of its employees—depends on an adequate supply of energy, we are vitally concerned with the development of a national energy policy that responds to both current and future needs of industries and consumers.

We have and will continue to offer our voice in support of an effective national policy that provides for wise use of existing energy resources and development of new ones.
