

Anita Hits Northeastern Mexico With 155-MPH Wind; Very High Tides Hits 7.1 Per Cent

By TOM FENTON
Associated Press Writer
TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their residents evacuated by the Army early Thursday ahead of torrential rains and vicious winds.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, had initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texans sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than 8 inches fell in the area.

At 6 a.m., EDT, the eye of Anita, the season's first hurricane, was centered at latitude 24.0 north and longitude 97.7 west, a few miles inland, about 130 miles south of Brownsville, Tex. It was moving at about 12 m.p.h., the National Hurricane Center in Miami said.

Anita, which earlier had been expected to hit the Texas area of Brownsville-Corpus Christi, spawned winds of 45 m.p.h. and moderate rain in the Brownsville area, about 100 miles north of here.

In San Fernando, a small town of about 15,000 located 20 miles inland in a marshy area, soldiers, police and volunteers evacuated about 2,000 people Thursday afternoon.

Mexican troops, aided by police and navy units, evacuated about 35,000 persons from Matamoros, across the border from Brownsville.

to leave has proved a burden to Cuban officials.

The families include 120 persons with U.S. citizenship. They have always been free to leave Cuba themselves but elected to stay because their Cuban relatives could not go along.

Castro dropped this restriction following an appeal by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, during a visit here last month.

Meanwhile, in Boise, Idaho, Church said Cuban officials have told him the flights may begin next week, if details can be worked out.

The Cubans told him, he said Thursday, that those leaving the country will be allowed to take personal property with them, which Havana has not previously permitted.

There are seven Americans officially listed as being in Cuban prisons for espionage or other political crimes, but Castro has refused to release them or commute their sentences.

One prisoner, Rafael del Pino, was reported by a Miami newspaper to have committed suicide in his cell.

The Miami Herald said the information came from del Pino's relatives but there has been no confirmation by Cuban authorities.

Thursday's opening of the interest section coincided with a similar ceremony at the Czech embassy in Washington.

Technically, the Swiss and the Czechs will continue responsibility for the other two countries' affairs although Americans and Cubans will handle the actual work.

First District Rep. Walter Jones has expressed "great concern" over an outbreak of aflatoxin across much of eastern North Carolina appearing in the corn crop.

"This outbreak has resulted in virtually a moratorium being imposed on the purchase of corn by grain dealers," Jones related today, "until such time as the Food and Drug Administration sets the specific standards for a reasonable and safe tolerance which will protect the health and welfare of our citizens and also the beef, swine and poultry industries."

In a telegram to Commissioner Donald Kennedy of the Food and Drug Administration on Thursday, the congressman stressed the "extreme urgency of quick action" and requested that the FDA grant a greater tolerance for aflatoxin so that grain purchases can resume.

who have had one moving violation or an accident within the past three years.

Under the old plan, drivers with records of only one minor traffic violation or accident without injuries did not get higher premiums.

An insurance law which went into effect Tuesday will allow the industry to put the changes into effect Dec. 1 or sooner if Ingram were to approve the changes.

The measure requires the companies to submit the plan to Ingram's review, but permits them to implement the changes over his disapproval, pending court appeals.

To block the changes, Ingram would have to call a hearing within 30 days, hold the hearing within an additional 30 days and issue a ruling within 30 days of the hearing.

Consumers would see the effect of the changes the first time they renewed their policies — not necessarily the next time premiums were due — after the new plan went into effect.

Four classifications are included in the new system: pleasure use; to and from work driving; business use; and farm use.

Under the new classifications, drivers with less than two years' experience will pay a higher liability premium, regardless of sex, while rates for under-25 male drivers with good records will decrease, according to Paul Mize, rate bureau general manager.

have desegregation plans in the works. Others could also have started working on such plans, he said.

Fountain's comments came Thursday as the State Board of Education approved a state plan that requires each school to come up with its own desegregation plan. The state plan will be reviewed by the governor's office and then forwarded to the court in Washington.

"Fifty-seven individual affirmative action plans will more nearly suit the needs of our institutions," Fountain told the board.

C.R. Edwards, a black member of the board, told Fountain that the desegregation plans by the colleges cannot be counted until they have been forwarded to the state board.

The board of governors of the 16-campus state university system approved a desegregation plan last month.

The plans are in response to a proposal in federal court in July by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare after a judge held that current HEW guidelines were not speeding integration.

Created in 1963, the two-year colleges have no history of segregation and are close to meeting guidelines now, the state plan contends.

Blacks comprise 20.5 per cent of the total enrollment and the state population is 22.2 per cent black, the plan said.

There is racial imbalance in the college transfer program, which is 15.6 per cent black and the general education program, which is 19.8 per cent black, the state plan said. In 1974, the percentages were 11.3 and 12.2 respectively, it added.

Reared in a dingy Philadelphia suburb, Miss Waters reached the heights of show business during her 50-year career as a vaudeville singer, Broadway star, and movie and television actress. In 1949 she was nominated for an Academy Award as best actress for her part in "Pinkie."

Anglo-American Proposal Criticized By Ian Smith

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith termed key provisions in the British-American peace plan for Rhodesia "crazy suggestions" today but did not reject the proposal yet.

"It seems to me that the plan is not only ill conceived, it is rushed," Smith told a news conference. He accused Britain of "seeking revenge" for his declaration of independence in 1965.

The 8,000-word blueprint for ending Rhodesia's five-year guerrilla war and transferring power to the black majority next year was presented to Smith Thursday by Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen.

Owen, before he and Young flew to London Thursday night, told reporters he was "not full of optimism." But Young predicted "a gradual buildup of appreciation of what is good in this package and what is bad in the current situation."

"I believe when people are face to face with death they come to their senses," the chief American delegate to the United Nations added. Smith told his news conference. (Continued on page 8)

Sees Early Result In Cuba Diplomacy

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
HAVANA (AP) — The chief U.S. diplomat in Cuba says he hopes several Americans can leave for the United States with their Cuban families "in a matter of days."

Other U.S. sources, however, say the families won't leave before late next week at the earliest.

The head of the new U.S. interest section here, veteran diplomat Lyle Lane, says his 10-member mission's first priority is helping Americans who want to return to the United States with their Cuban families plus a handful of other Americans in Cuban jails.

Responsibility for U.S. affairs in Cuba shifted from Swiss to American hands on Thursday with the formal opening of the U.S. interest section.

The ceremony marked an end to more than 16 years of official hostility between Havana and Washington. At a news conference afterward, Lane said, "It is clear that the Cuban government as well as our own looks at this as a significant step."

Since President Fidel Castro agreed last month to let the Americans' families leave, Lane said, the Swiss have found only 22 families who wanted to go and 20 others who don't.

Forty-two families either haven't responded or haven't been located, he said.

But Lane conceded that the process of finding the families and seeing what they want to do is proving more difficult than anticipated.

He also said paperwork required to process those wishing

College Desegregation Plans 'Well On Way'

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Most of North Carolina's community colleges and technical institutes are well on their way to having individual desegregation plans to comply with a federal court order, the head of the two-year college system said.

Dr. Ben Fountain, president of the 57-campus system, told the State Board of Education that his last survey of the colleges showed the 47 of them have desegregation plans in the works. Others could also have started working on such plans, he said.

Fountain's comments came Thursday as the State Board of Education approved a state plan that requires each school to come up with its own desegregation plan. The state plan will be reviewed by the governor's office and then forwarded to the court in Washington.

Ethel Waters Is Dead At 80

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Death was not fearsome to Ethel Waters, an actress and singer who became the grand lady of gospel and blues.

"I'm not afraid to die, honey," she said in one of her last interviews. "In fact, I'm kinda looking forward to it ... I know that the Lord has his arms wrapped around this big, fat sparrow."

Miss Waters, 80, died Thursday at a friend's home after a lengthy illness. She had suffered from high blood pressure, diabetes and a weak heart.

She made classics of her songs, especially such jazz-blues numbers as "Am I Blue" and "Stormy Weather." She popularized the legendary jazz tune "Dinah" in her Broadway hit "Plantation Revue of 1924."

At the age of 17, she was the first woman to sing "St. Louis Blues" professionally. After she appeared in several musicals, her debut as a dramatic star on Broadway came in 1939 in "Mamba's Daughter." She won the New York Drama Critics Award for Carson McCullers' "Member of the Wedding" in 1950 and also performed in the movie version.

OLD HOSPITAL RENOVATION?
I ride by the old hospital sitting up there on the hill and feel kind of sad. I'll be glad when it's in use again. What's got to be done before it can be housing some of the county offices? I know those people in the Social Services building need to be elsewhere! S. J.

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said a proposal will go to the County Commissioners Tuesday. It will call for county employees to begin very soon, if approval is granted, to tear out some of the makeshift partitions, walls that overload the allowed floor load for an office building, and the like, Gray said. Having county employees do this work prior to having architects and contractors bid can save the taxpayers considerably, he said.

Ultimate plans are for the Department of Social Services, the Pitt County Extension Service, the County Board of Education, the County Manager and staff, the County Planner, and the County Electrical Inspector to occupy the building proper and for the East Carolina University School of Medicine to lease the A Wing. This would completely vacate the old, old hospital building on Johnston Street now occupied by Social Services and the renovated house at the corner of Third and Green Streets now housing the Extension Service, he said. It would, of course, create more space for the courts and the Sheriff Department and other offices in the Courthouse, too.

It's too early in the effort to set up any kind of timetable, Gray said.

Driver Classification Revisions Said Unfair

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram says a new automobile insurance classification plan proposed by the North Carolina Rate Bureau will force good drivers to bear the cost of bad drivers' insurance bills.

In a news release issued after the bureau filed the new plan with his office Thursday, Ingram said, "The insurance industry has done exactly what we predicted they would do. The insurance companies are charging people with safe driving records more and still not properly surcharging bad drivers enough."

The proposed classification would charge substantially higher premiums to drivers with less than two years' experience and motorists who have had one moving violation or an accident within the past three years.

Greatest 'Safety Tool' Described As People

Elwood Incoe, deputy commissioner, Fire-Rescue Division, spoke Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council at Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Incoe, who spoke on the growth and development of fire and rescue operations in the state since 1890, pointed out that there are some 43,000 people involved in fire fighting, 10,000 involved in rescue work, and 16,000 Certified Emergency Medical Technicians in North Carolina.

Of the 1,100 fire departments in the state, he reported, only 23 are totally manned by paid employees with the others involving a combination of paid and volunteer firemen.

Incoe observed that the "greatest tool of safety are the people" and the influence that people have on people's behavior in times of emergencies.

Carl Whitfield, president of the Council, introduced the officers, including John Watson, vice president, and Polly Dail, secretary.

Committee chairpersons named included: chaplain, Capt. Paul Jewett, Greenville Police Department; traffic safety, Police Chief Glenn Cannon; fire-rescue emergency, Farmville Chief H. P. Norman; public information, Dr. Alfred King, East Carolina University; industrial safety, Rom Webber; emergency medical, Edward Hackett; membership, Ed Askew; grievance, Billy Ross; home accidents, Sarah Jenkins; flower, Audrey Stillwell; and program chairman, John Watson.

Injured In Car Wreck

FARMVILLE — A Farmville man was injured in a one car accident near here Thursday morning.

According to Trooper Mark Johnson, Lynburg Daniels, of Farmville, was injured when the car in which he was riding ran off the roadway, skidded and landed in a field.

The trooper identified the driver of the car as Richard Eugene Evans, of Farmville.

Johnson said the Evans vehicle was headed east on highway 264A about two miles east of the Farmville city limits when Evans ran off the right side of the highway and skidded 448 feet landing in a field.

Trooper Johnson said Evans was charged with driving under the influence, no drivers license, and 80 in a 55 mile per hour zone.

Daniels was transported to Pitt Memorial Hospital by members of the Farmville Rescue Squad.

Investigation into the accident is continuing.

More Accidents In $125.61 Day Greenville Thursday

Several accidents were investigated Thursday by Greenville police officers.

At 7:10 p.m., Annie Louise Wilkins of Winterville was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after her car skidded into the Smith Waldrop Motors parking lot on Memorial Drive and collided with a parked vehicle.

Damages were estimated at $500 to the Wilkins car and $600 to the parked vehicle.

Both drivers, James Alton Williams, 38, of Greenville Rt. 6 and Stephen Paul Jones, 22, also of Greenville, were charged with safe movement violations in a 5:30 p.m. accident on Greenville Boulevard.

PWP Picnic Set Sunday

Greenville Chapter No. 1058 of Parents Without Partners Inc. will hold an outdoor sports and picnic at Peppermint Park on Fourteenth Street here Sunday at 3 p.m.

Frisbee, badminton, basketball and toss ball can be played. Members and courtesy card holders are asked to bring side dishes and drinks. The chapter will provide meats to be char-coaled. Eligible prospective members are invited to go to the park and meet and talk with the group's membership director.

Doug Jackson of the Greenville Police Department will show to the group a film on neighborhood crime prevention tonight at 7:30. The group meets at Jarvis United Methodist Church.

To be eligible for PWP, one must be the parent of a living child and be single by reason of death, divorce, separation or never having been married. Custody of children is not a factor. For more information, one may call 752-1674 evenings.

Music Program Slated Sunday

A musical program featuring the M. R. Wilson Singers of Greenville will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Selvia Chapel F.W.B. Church here.

Sponsors of the program will be the Selvia Chapel members of the Rough and Ready Firemen. The public is invited.

Winterville Bd. Meets Monday

WINTERVILLE Elwood Nobles, town clerk, announced that although the town hall will be closed on Monday in observance of Labor Day, the regularly scheduled Winterville town board meeting will be held Monday night.

According to Nobles, the meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

The Jones car was turning into the Pitt Plaza parking lot when it collided with the Williams vehicle, which was entering Greenville Boulevard.

Damages were estimated at $200 to each of the vehicles.

At 8:55 a.m. Thursday, Ellen Williams Pollock, 17, of 4003 Elm St. was charged with following too close when her car collided with a vehicle being operated by Terry Dodson Frey, 16, of 104 Westhaven Boulevard.

The accident, which occurred on Elm Street near 14th Street, resulted in damages of $600 to the Pollock car and $200 to the Frey vehicle.

At 7:50 a.m. on 11th Street, officers investigated a head-on collision involving cars operated by Steven Mark Staley, 20, of 2340 Venie St. and Lena Foye Manning, 23, of Greenville Rt. 1. Ms. Manning was charged with driving left of the center lane. No injuries were reported.

Damages were estimated at $300 to each of the vehicles.

Humane Society Discusses Need

The need for an office to handle clerical work and telephone requests to the Pitt County Humane Society was discussed at a meeting of the Society Wednesday night.

The need for volunteers for yard sales and other fund-raising activities was also talked about. Funds are needed for the Society's spaying and aid to animals program.

A membership drive is being undertaken, as the need for members has become critical due to the many changes in residence of recent past members and officers.

Interested persons are asked to phone Mrs. Jeanette Fiore, president, at 758-0468; Mrs. Marion Frost at 758-2715 after 6 p.m. or Miss Evelyn Beasley at 752-5794.

A flea market is planned.

Quarterly Meet Slated Sunday

Quarterly meeting and homecoming services will be held Sunday at St. Mary's Baptist Church.

The morning sermon will be delivered by the Rev. J. H. Taylor III; Holy Communion will be held at 1:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 2:15. The public is invited, says the pastor, the Rev. J. E. James.

Newlywed Spat: Late-Night TV?

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Ron is 21 and I am 19. We're newlyweds, and our problem is the TV in our bedroom. Ron likes to lie in bed and watch TV until midnight every night, and some nights he watches it until 1 a.m.

I want to turn off the TV at 11 p.m. because I have to get up at 7 a.m. for work, and if I don't get eight hours of sleep, I am very crabby the next morning. Ron gets up at 7 a.m., too, but he says he doesn't need as much sleep as I do. Anyway, I can't fall asleep while the TV is on, and Ron refuses to turn it off at 11.

How can this problem be solved? Don't suggest earplugs because I've tried them, and they bother my ears.

CRABBY

DEAR CRABBY: You have two choices. Separate rooms, or a 50-50 compromise. (Turn the TV off at 11 every OTHER night.) But remember, although a compromise makes a good umbrella, it's a poor roof.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a large corporation and for the last few weeks, my boss has been acting very secretive. I walked into his office yesterday, and he quickly slammed his desk drawer shut. Then I noticed smoke coming out of the drawer, but I didn't say anything.

He supposedly stopped smoking three months ago, but I know he's at it again because I've seen him in the hall with a cigarette in his hand. He tried to hide it, but I'm sure he knows that I saw him.

I'm afraid he might try to ditch another burning cigarette in his desk drawer, forget about it and burn up the building.

Don't you think he's acting very immature for a 55-year-old executive?

Should I write him an anonymous note and ask him who he thinks he's fooling?

ON TO HIM

DEAR ON: No. Anonymous notes are also immature. But to tell him that in the interest of safety for others, he should refrain from placing lighted cigarettes in the drawer.

DEAR ABBY: Is marriage contagious? It seems to be an epidemic around here. I'm 21, male and single, and one by one, all my friends are getting married.

My first love went away to college, and during the first quarter, she fell in love with a theology major, and they decided to get married. Now she's pregnant, and I don't know whether to cuss or pray.

Another old girlfriend is soon to marry the drummer of a rock group. Other good friends, male and female, are headed in that direction.

Why would anyone want to end the fun of being young and footloose by getting hitched so soon? All of them are under 21. Is marriage a contagious disease? I hope not.

SINGLE IN SEATTLE

DEAR SINGLE: Marriage in a sense is "contagious"—like divorce, shacking up, or growing a beard; some people get the courage to do it because their friends have made the move.

But you're safe. Anyone who suspects that marriage is a "disease" is probably immune.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Her Ladyship Got Goat To Show Off A Coat

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Lady Jacynth Fitzalan Howard spent a year organizing an exhibition of needlework and said the hardest thing she had to find was a stuffed goat.

The animal was needed to display an embroidered coat made for a goat.

"It took me months. I finally hired one from a taxidermist," said Lady Howard, sister-in-law of the Duke of Norfolk.

The goat stood for Taffy, the real live goat mascot of the Royal Regiment of Wales, a British army outfit. Taffy's coat was designed and worked by the Royal School of Needlework, which staged the exhibition, "The Threads of History," as a contribution to this year's silver jubilee celebrations of the reign of Queen Elizabeth II.

The show was open only for 10 days in London this summer because the owners of many of the exhibits, knowing the colors are prone to fading, will not allow them to be exposed to daylight for a longer period. The brightest silks were on the insides of lined boxes which are normally kept closed. Some of the boxes date back more than 300 years.

Some embroideries retained their colors better because they were kept in rooms facing north, missing most of the direct sunlight.

The exhibition stressed royal connections. Queens and princesses traditionally were skilled needlewomen. There was a cushion cover worked by Queen Elizabeth I when she was still a princess, about 1550, and another done by Mary Queen of Scots, whose death warrant was signed by Elizabeth in 1587.

Mary had plenty of time for her craft, spending 20 years confined in different castles for plotting against England — at the end of her life in conspiracy with the Duke of Norfolk.

In a glass case were reins embroidered by Mary for a child learning to walk. The child was her son, later to become King James VI of Scotland and then, on the death of Elizabeth in 1603, the first Stuart monarch of England, King James I.

Embroidered chairseats on display were the work of Alice, Countess of Athlone, 94, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and the oldest living member of Britain's royal family.

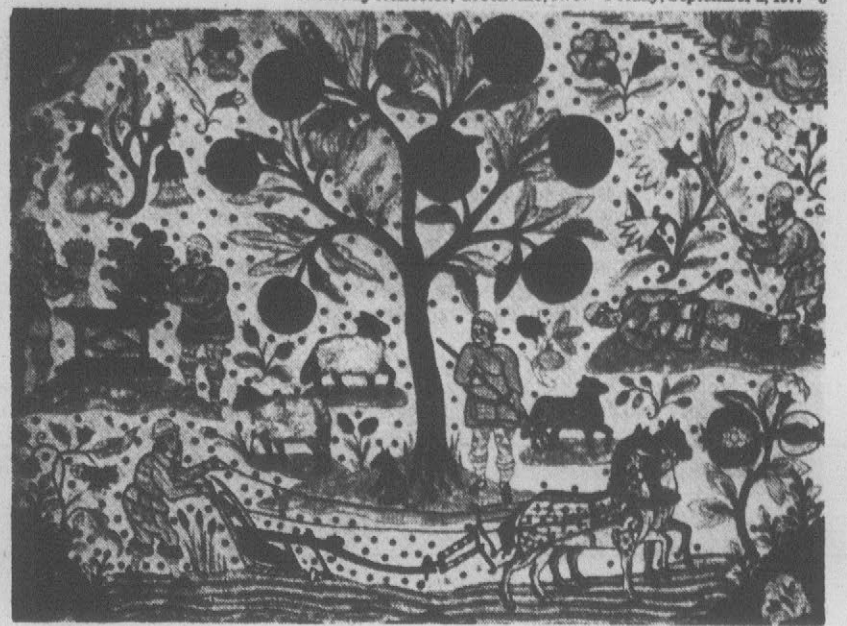

The Royal School of Needlework was founded in 1872 by Princess Christian, a daughter of Victoria, with the object of "restoring ornamental needlework to the high place it once held amongst the decorative arts."

Lady Howard said the school, which teaches needlework and undertakes restoration, is "fantastically busy."

"We cannot meet the demand," she said. "I think more people are becoming interested for two reasons — they want something to do while watching television and, in a machine age, there is a growing desire for craftsmanship."

She said she read the catalogue of every exhibition of embroidery in Britain over the last 30 years to track down the exhibits, which included a coronation robe, samplers, needlework pictures, wall hangings, clothes, purses, work bags and clerical vestments. Private families own most of the exhibits and many are handed down as treasured heirlooms.

Two veils were shown which belonged to Lady Nelson, wife of the famous admiral killed at the Battle of Trafalgar. One of Brussels lace she wore at her wedding and the other, of black Buckingham lace, at an audience with the Pope. An embroidered wedding dress from

A Good Idea Is Poorly Handled

On August 29, The Daily Reflector published the "North Carolina TOMORROW" survey put out by the Governor's Office.

We would like to think the survey caught the attention of many people. We would like to think many North Carolinians took the time to fill out the form and return the questionnaire to its source. We would like to think the results would shape the priorities of state government. But on the whole, it's most unlikely.

The survey was a good idea ineptly executed. We fear the returns will be reflective of such a limited strata of readers that it will have no practical value and little impact.

Seeking out individual citizens' priorities in the conduct of state affairs is laudable. A reader of the survey would find it provoked thoughts on what has been accomplished and what remains to be done. Truly, reading the questionnaire does lead to a thoughtful evaluation of needs as well as a deeper appreciation of past accomplishments.

We are left with an impression that better polling of a sizable cross-section of Tar Heels might well be worth trying at given intervals by state government. As it is today, the most vocal expressions of likes and dislikes, wants and needs, are from those organized groups who have their own axes to grind. They cannot reflect the over-all picture.

Critical Corn Problem Needs Answers

Pitt County corn growers, who faced devastating dry weather which hurt their crop this summer, now face the problem of aflatoxin.

The mold is a major problem insofar as the corn marketing situation is concerned.

A meeting was held last night to discuss the matter. Hopefully the appropriate government agencies will be as helpful as they can to farmers faced with this corn problem.

SAT Slide Not Answered

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — That national report on a steady 14-year decline in College Board test scores leaves the reader scratching his head and wondering just what the conclusions mean.

A 21-member panel carried out a two-year study on the decline in Scholastic Aptitude Test scores given entering freshmen. The decline is "serious business warranting careful attention by everybody interested in education," says the 75-page report.

But when it comes to answers on what has caused the slide, the study group points in so many different directions no conclusion is possible: the trauma of Vietnam, Watergate, and the student unrest of the 60s come in for attention, as do the spiraling divorce rates, social promotions in public schools, lowered educational standards—even television.

Here, Too
North Carolina effectively mirrors the declining test scores reported in the national study. The test comes in two parts: verbal and mathematics with a perfect score being 800 on each section.

The national averages fell from 478 on verbal in 1963 to 429 last year; on math, scores fell from 502 to 470.

The combined national average is 899. Only six of North Carolina's 16 campuses of the university system showed average scores equal to the national level. Ten were below, and most of those well below.

Greensboro, Chapel Hill, Charlotte, N. C. State, Asheville, and the School of Arts all were above the average, from a low of 925 at Charlotte to a peak of 1,090 at Chapel Hill.

Lowest scores were recorded at Elizabeth City (576), and Winston-Salem (659).

The national report broke the 14-year period of decline into two portions. The first was characterized by a time in which many minority students from low-income homes gained a first opportunity to go to college. That influx of less well-educated people caused scores to drop.

Then, the scores were apparently stabilized from that development, but continued to fall due to the numerous other influences cataloged.

The study rejected the interpretation that student makeup is the basic cause, instead suggesting that the lower scores result from "the incompleteness so far of the national undertaking to afford meaningful equality of educational opportunity."

That would indicate that scores should begin to go up, or at least stabilize, as new college freshmen go to campuses with a better public school background.

Hit Bottom
Indeed, this trend is currently seen in North Carolina. The most recent edition of "Statistical Abstract of Higher Education in North Carolina (1976-77)," contains statistics which indicate that some colleges report a slight improvement and others at least report scores stabilizing.

North Carolina figures tend to reinforce the effect on test scores of racial and income factors. The lowest scores are seen at predominately black campuses. Chapel Hill and State regularly rank highest.

It will take further evidence to demonstrate that the score decline has come to a halt in North Carolina. Scores logged by the 1976-77 freshmen showed improvements at nine of the 16 colleges. The decline continued at seven—although not as steeply as in the past.

The test scores, say college administrators, represent learning and ability levels upon entering college and reflect high school situations rather than college levels. The figures do reflect those colleges which consistently enroll students of higher or lower capability.

The CIA To Apologize

WASHINGTON—A federal judge has just ruled that the CIA must write a letter of apology to people whose mail they opened in the United States. The Department of Justice has suggested the text of the letter, which turns out to be a formal apology in typical governmental gobbledeegook, which in my opinion would not get the CIA off the hook.

I think if the CIA really wants to show it's sorry for reading the mail of Americans they should make each letter a personal one, which would show that the Central Intelligence Agency has a heart.

Here are a few suggestions of the types of letters of apology Adm. Stansfield Turner, the head of the CIA, would send out to people whose privacy had been violated.

Dear Mr. MacComber, You can't imagine how sorry all of us in the CIA are for reading your mail during the past 14 years. It was an oversight which I assure you won't happen again.

I regret your Aunt Tilly in Dublin still has pains in her back. Our medical team suggests she use a hot water bottle at night to relieve the agony. Also, I think your son is out of line when he says he wants to stay in Paris to continue his education. Our agents in Paris report that he is not going to school but is spending all of his time at cafes.

The letter you received from the Carlsons in Venice telling you what a wonderful time they were having was slightly exaggerated. Carlson came down with dysentery and Mrs. Carlson's photographs of St. Mark's Square were all overexposed.

We'll be happy to send you information on any other letters we read, if you want us to. I hope it will make up in a small way for what we now consider an illegal undercover program.

Sincerely Yours
Adm. Stansfield Turner

Other Editors Say: A New Ballgame

(Washington Daily News)

Within a month or so here in North Carolina, we, the people, will be the objects of some heavy propaganda as the forces favoring the right of gubernatorial succession in our state begin the campaign for approval of the constitutional amendment.

We would surmise that the political forces of Governor Jim Hunt will be seeking to gain approval of this proposed amendment since it is Hunt inspired. If it passes, then Governor Hunt will be in position to run for governor again. If it fails to pass, then of course he will not be allowed to run until at least one four year term has been completed by others.

Now, if Governor Hunt marshals his forces and they go out working in behalf of this amendment, surely it gives the pro-amendment forces a big jump. The nest-egg in votes will be considerable, and it might be enough to put over the issue.

Now, none of us can say today just how much opposition there will be or how well organized it might be. No one can say how much money will be spent on either side.

But one thing is sure. When it comes to political races involving only issues on the one hand while on the other hand we have candidates involved, the primaries and elections involving candidates will outdraw the issues by a considerable margin when it comes to this thing of casting votes.

The campaign for issues is a very different political ball game from what it would be if we had candidates running. Here in our own Pamlico area it will be well nigh impossible to get out as many votes on behalf of issues as would be persuaded to come out to vote for candidates. If here in our own Beaufort County we vote 3,000 in November and if Hyde County votes 800, both counties will do better than most people expect.

Governor Hunt took a leading role in urging the legislature to approve the referendum on the constitutional amendment giving a governor the right to succeed himself. Because of that effort, he probably feels obligated now to work hard for its approval by the people. And we expect he will work hard. But working in a personal campaign is one thing and working in a campaign involving only issues is another.

Passage of the amendment will not be easy. And while there are several other matters to be voted on in November, the succession amendment takes top billing.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Joe Califano: Mr. Quota

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A drama that began four months ago in a nasty confrontation between Jewish leaders and Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Secretary Joseph Califano is nearing a climax in the Oval Office when President Carter—urged on by Califano—is expected to back racial quotas in a Supreme Court test.

Leaders of eight national Jewish organizations left a June 6 meeting with Califano complaining about the Secretary's "insensitivity" and "inflexibility." What most surprised them was Califano's revelation that he wanted the government to support the University of California's quota system on admissions—the famous Bakke case before the Supreme Court.

The President must now decide whether to support Califano. Senior presidential aides insist no decision has been made. But insiders at HEW and the Justice Department take it for granted Mr.

Carter will intervene against Allan Bakke, a white applicant denied admission to the University of California medical school to make room for a black applicant with inferior entrance qualifications to fill a university racial quota.

If Bakke loses, Califano's HEW will demand that all universities impose racial quotas. Since that runs counter to the anti-quota philosophy expressed by both the President and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, why are they ending up on the pro-quota side? Nobody is quite sure, but the best answer may be the persuasive powers of Joe Califano: Mr. Quota.

With characteristic vigor, Califano opened the fight March 18 by openly endorsing quotas, then on March 30 backed away from the word "quota"—but not from the concept. Jewish leaders promptly requested a meeting. They were not reassured by Califano's June 5 speech at City College of New York when he supported "goals" instead of "quotas."

The confrontation in Califano's office two days later was a disaster. As described in a July 13 memorandum by Ira Giffen of the Anti-Defamation League (ADL): "The meeting...was a disheartening experience...I left...convinced that Secretary Califano will push reverse discrimination and quota systems although, for public relations purposes, he may call them by other names. Our appeals for justice, fair play, reasonableness, and, indeed, logic, seemed to fall upon deaf ears."

Larry Lavinsky of the ADL opened the meeting with a plea to prohibit colleges from requiring "racial, ethnic and religious identification" by student applicants. He declared such identification violates "the right of privacy and needlessly poses the danger of discrimination."

Giffen's memo continues: "The Secretary's response was not at all responsive...To our utter dismay, he told us that he had already requested the Department of Justice to enter the Bakke case in support of the University of California."

Califano "seemed to believe" racial identification is required by statute, which is not the case. "It was my conclusion," Giffen's account continues, "that the Secretary either does not know the statutes...or else he chooses to misconstrue them." According to Giffen, the Secretary said "he was doing no more than what the Congress and the courts required and he advised us to take our concerns to the Congress."

That this was disingenuous was suggested July 27 when Califano addressed the National Urban League. He asserted he had helped kill a congressional proposal that he incorrectly described as prohibiting him "from using any funds for affirmative action programs." In truth, the amendment would have prevented HEW funds from enforcing "ratios, quotas or other numerical requirements" for student admission—but would permit "goals and timetables"; in other words, affirmative action.

On July 25, seven major Jewish leaders wrote Califano, urging support for Bakke's anti-quota position; the letter was not even acknowledged. Since then, the solicitor general's office has prepared a brief taking the anti-Bakke position. Califano and high Justice Department officials are certain the government will intervene that way.

The ultimate decision is the Strength For Today

GENEROSITY MUST BE RECIPROCAL

Some people do not know how to accept gifts and favors. They may be eager to give but for some reason they do not seem to be able to accept gracefully when others want to give to them. They seem to regard it as a virtuous piece of self-abnegation if they can arrange affairs so that they are always giving and never receiving.

It is true that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Our Lord made that plain. But he also demonstrated by example that there is a time for receiving as well as for giving. When his disciples and others complained about the prodigality of the woman who anointed his feet with precious ointment, he rebuked those complainers and declared that this woman had done a beautiful thing. When he was crucified he was wearing a coat, or tunic, "without seam, woven from the top throughout." This was an expensive garment, probably given to him by an admirer, admirer.

To receive gracefully is to show respect for the giver. It is an acknowledgement that both he and his gift are important.

Nixon Tapes Raised

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon says in an interview that he believes Rosemary Woods' explanation for part of an 18½-minute gap in a crucial Watergate tape, according to British television personality David Frost.

"He obviously is not eager to get Rosemary Woods in trouble and so forth," Frost said Thursday. The interview, the fifth in a series of televised discussions between Frost and the former President, will be broadcast in 60 cities starting Sunday.

Frost added that Nixon also explained why he never destroyed the incriminating tapes. Miss Woods, Nixon's former personal secretary, has said she might have accidentally erased four or five minutes of taped conversation between Nixon and his White House chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, three days after the June 17, 1972, burglary at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office complex.

She said the erasure may have happened when she answered a telephone while transcribing the tape.

But a panel of audio experts appointed by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica found there had been four to nine consecutive, manual erasures that could not have happened accidentally.

Asked whether Nixon confirmed Miss Woods' account, Frost said that to answer "yes" or "no" would be an oversimplification. It "would be a reasonable guess," he said, that Nixon "makes a spirited defense of Rosemary Woods."

Frost declined to detail Nixon's remarks, saying he had made "so many vague, implicit and explicit promises" to prevent a "leak" before reporters screen the program in Washington Saturday afternoon.

Frost said the 90-minute program opens with a discussion of why the former president hadn't burned the tapes. The tapes, released by a Supreme Court order in 1974, showed that Nixon had lied in denying he had tried to derail an FBI investigation. He resigned three days later, on Aug. 9.

Also in the upcoming interview, Frost said, the former president talks about the ill-fated nomination of G. Harold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

Frost said Nixon also discusses his philosophy of the news media's role in reporting national events, his impressions about Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, his relationship with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and an "extraordinary story" about former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his late wife, Martha.

Without elaborating, Frost said the program also contained "a couple of macabre anecdotes."

Help somebody back to life!

Crucial Days Ahead For Lance

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — For Bert Lance, there are crucial days just ahead as Congress comes back to town, presumably bearing a message from the voters.

That may be the signal that determines whether Lance will go or remain as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

So far, there is no real evidence that the controversy over Lance's personal finances and banking transactions has become a political issue nationally. It has been a central topic in Washington, but that is not the same thing.

And a major phase of the Lance case has been played during the capital's summer doldrums, with Congress away for vacation, politicking and pulse-checking at home.

As a result, congressional commentary on the Lance matter has been scattered and muted. But after Labor Day, school will be in, and there soon will be choruses of comment — pro and con — on Capitol Hill.

Senators and House members tend to do more talking on such issues when they are together than when they are apart. It's contagious.

What one member says, on or off the floor, another seconds and a third disputes. As that process unfolds, the full impact of the controversy over Lance, and the political cost to President Carter, may become clearer.

Not that the side with the most voices, or the loudest ones, will necessarily get its way. But the depth and duration of the debate cannot go unnoticed at the White House.

For as determined as Carter has been to keep the aide he says has done nothing illegal or even improper, there is a limit to the political capital he can wisely spend defending Lance, whose financial transactions were hardly tidy.

On Wednesday, while

Carter signs the new Panama Canal treaty with a burst of diplomatic pomp, the government's chief banking overseer will go before a Senate committee to testify on the Lance case. Lance himself is due before the panel on Thursday.

That is at least a diversion as the administration heads into a difficult campaign for Senate ratification of the treaty.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell has been heavily committed to the defense of Carter's budget director. It has not been an easy role, given the persistent, sometimes repetitious, questioning of newsmen, and Powell's irritation often shows.

Reporting that the White House mail was running two to one against Lance, Powell added: "I was pleasantly surprised at the amount of support, given the information upon which they had to base their judgment."

That points up the fact that news coverage of the case has become part of the controversy, irking the White House — just as it did when nagging questions were being put to Gerald R. Ford's spokesmen a year or so ago. In those days, the Carter people were on the outside, and what irritated Ford's spokesmen often worked to their advantage.

Lance complains that the questions and news stories on his finances keep "bringing up the same thing again, again and again."

He also says that if unfair and unfounded allegations can drive an official out of his job, the American system of government is in trouble.

There's no denying that. Lance said he hasn't considered quitting, despite the controversy and all the talk in Washington. He said he doubts it is much of a topic with the man in the street.

The reconvening members of Congress are supposed to know something about that last point, after their month at home.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Hurricane Anita came ashore in northeastern Mexico early today, bringing heavy rain to southern Texas and the Gulf coast. Rain is also forecast for the Northeast. Cool weather is expected from the Northwest to the Great Lakes but most of the country will be warm. (AP Laserphoto Map)

"his little artichoke" he was spending his evenings at Signora Verdi's apartment, sometimes leaving as late as four in the morning. You are well rid of him.

Adm. Stansfield Turner

Dear Mrs. Starbuckle,
I am obligated by the federal courts to inform you that we have been reading your mail and that of your husband, whose trips to London, Brussels and Antwerp on business have taken him out of the country six times a year.

I know you are suspicious that some of these trips are not all concerned with business. I can assure you that as far as Brussels and Antwerp are concerned your husband has been conducting commerce for his company.

We are unable to find out exactly what business he has in London, unless his meetings with Lady Mathilda MacIntosh of 1234 Cadogan Square have to do with steel exporting. Our records show Lady MacIntosh has never been in the steel business, nor was the late Sir Harold MacIntosh, who was 30 years his wife's senior.

Unfortunately, the bug we planted in the Cadogan Square flat has always been drowned out by Frank Sinatra music whenever your husband has been there. Since we can no longer, by law, follow this case, I might suggest you inquire about a London private detective who could investigate what Mr. Starbuckle really does in London.

In putting forth this suggestion, it is our sincere hope that you will forgive the CIA for reading your mail. And if anything good comes of our intelligence about Mr. Starbuckle's stopovers in London, we hope you will think kindly of the CIA in the future.

Sincerely,

is nearly stationary over the middle Atlantic states continues to control North Carolina's weather, which has consisted of mostly sunny and warm days and fair, cool nights.

This kind of weather is expected to continue through the long Labor Day holiday period although widely scattered afternoon thundershowers can be expected each day in the mountains and along the coast.

Thursday afternoon temperatures ranged in the mid 80s in the mountains but reached the high 80s and low 90s elsewhere. They are expected to be about the same today. Lows at night are ranging from near 60 in the mountains to near 70 on the coast.

Charlotte again was one of the state's hottest reporting points with a high Thursday of 93 degrees. Raleigh had a high of 90, Greensboro 89, Wilmington 88 and Asheville 84.

For good gas service the local Daxol guy is your guy.

This is Grandpa Jones. I hear lots of folks reminiscin' about how nice things were in the good old days. Tater feathers!

In my book, the good old days are right now. And one of the best things about em is Daxol — and the service you get from your local Daxol guy. Why, he's as good at his trade as Roy and Buck is at pickin' and singin'.

President's, but that does not encourage anti-quota forces.

"I am sure the decision will be solely political," one embittered Jewish leader told us, meaning Mr. Carter will offer blacks in quotas what he does not give in social spending programs. The Jewish lobby presumably will not protest strenuously because of larger interests in the Mideast.

But more is involved than pitting racial groups against each other. Edward Bennett

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C. — Friday, September 2, 1977 — 6

Williams, Califano's former law partner, stated it well in a speech last October: "The total egalitarians miss the point. They would divide the wealth equally, impose quotas and ratios in education, in employment, and in the political process, overlooking the crucial fact that all human progress throughout human history owes its origin to the talented and the enterprising."

Although it is hard to imagine Jimmy Carter and Griffin Bell disagreeing with those words, they are headed pell mell in the opposite direction — thanks to a strong push from Mr. Quota.

COUNTY FIRE — Members of the Bell Arthur Fire Department battle a blaze last night that destroyed a house located on rural road 1208. According to fire officials, the house was in flames when firemen arrived. The Pitt County Fire Marshal's office reported the house was owned by Alec Allen, and was a total loss, valued at $10,000. There were no injuries reported in the 9:05 p.m. fire. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Store Opens On Saturday

Mayor Percy Cox is scheduled to cut the ribbon on Saturday morning marking the grand opening of CJ's Arts and Crafts Center at Greenville Square Shopping Center. The new business will be operated by Greenville natives Jerry Carawan and Rod Johnson, it was announced, with assistance from their wives, Judy and Jenny, in the store operation.

The owners said that the shop will carry arts and crafts supplies and have a selection of original handmade arts and crafts. In addition, the store will offer instruction and have periodic demonstrations involving arts and crafts, it was mentioned, and adult and children's craft hours will be offered weekly. The business will be open from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Will Speak At Service

REV. ARTHUR KING

Youth services will be held at Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m., with the Rev. Arthur King of Goldsboro as guest minister. The Rev. King is youth pastor of Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church of Farmville. He is a 1968 graduate of South Ayden High School and is now attending United Christian College in Goldsboro. He and his wife, the former Mardisise Ward of Winterville, have two sons. The Little Creek F.W.B. Church Youth Choir will render music for the program. The public is invited.

Sue Daughter Over Wedding Invitation

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations. But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilerts' names should not have been included. Authorities said earlier this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order. Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations. The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs.

Mrs. Weilert has refused comment on the suit, calling it a family matter.

One of the most recent theories regarding the origin of the moon comes from Swedish physicist Hannes Alfvén, who said it may have been a small free planet captured by the earth's gravitational field.

Top Grades In Strong Demand

FARMVILLE — Top grades were in strong demand on the market Thursday. Some grades showed an increase in price, while others remained steady. Bidding was strong on top grades of primings, lugs, cutters and leaf. Volumes of primings continued to decrease. The market sold 438,439 pounds for $553,974 for an average of $126.35 per 100 pounds. To date, the market has sold 12,466,653 pounds for $14,188,468, for a season average of $113.81 per hundred pounds.

BUILD BEFORE YOU FLY

We know an airline pilot who used to make model planes. Yes, and we know a doctor who was "first aid man" in his scout troop. And we know an engineer who used to build the best bridges ever built with damp sand at the seashore. There isn't any important role in life that doesn't have to be rehearsed before the curtain goes up!

Now in every field there are men and women whose Christian character is admired, respected and relied upon by all who know them. You can be sure they didn't suddenly wake up one morning with that kind of personal "nobility." Where then did it come from? How did they acquire it?

Through experience — just as the engineer, the doctor and the pilot acquired their "feeling" for the vocation they would one day pursue!

The church at the corner can't manufacture noble Christian souls. But it can go a long way toward developing in you and me — and in our youngsters — a sense of the potential with which God has endowed us.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead again today, extending the modest rally of the past two sessions. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up a little less than 6 points Wednesday and Thursday, added another 1.82 to 866.68 by 11:30 a.m. today.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading was light on the eve of the three-day Labor Day weekend. First-hour volume on the Big Board came to 3.81 million shares.

Brokers traced the advance mostly to technical forces. They said some buying might have been encouraged by the steady showing of the market in recent days after a five-week slide.

They noted some covering of previous short sales by traders before the holiday weekend. In the economic news, the government reported this morning that the unemployment rate rose from 6.9 to 7.1 per cent

Urged Return Of Ammunition

AVON, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Air Force officials have appealed to souvenir hunters to return 20 millimeter target ammunition taken from the wreckage of an Air Force F-105 jet fighter which crashed into Pamlico Sound late Wednesday.

An Air Force spokesman said the 20mm rounds are electrically detonated and could be dangerous if someone attempted to polish them or got them near an electrical charge.

The plane was on a routine training flight from the 192nd Tactical Fighter Group of the Virginia Air National Guard at Byrd Field in Richmond, Va. when it crashed two to three miles west of Cape Hatteras about 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The pilot, Maj. William C. Jones, 35, of Richmond ejected safely from the aircraft and was picked up in the sound by a fishing boat. He was taken to the hospital at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base for observation.

Local radio stations broadcast appeals Thursday for persons to return ammunition picked up at the scene, where the F-105 lay in three to five feet of water.

Five Killed As Trailer Burns

SPRING LAKE, N.C. (AP) — A father and four children died Thursday night in a fire which destroyed their trailer home. The mother and a visitor escaped.

Police Chief Billy Manning identified the dead as Sgt. Richard Cox, 31; his 2 1/2 month old son, Richard, Jr.; and his wife's three children by a previous marriage, Keith Hill, 3, Evelyn Hill, 5, and Andera Hill, 2.

Mrs. Richards and Sgt. Thomas Smith, a Ft. Bragg associate of Richards, managed to escape from the burning trailer.

The fire was reported about 11 p.m., police said, and authorities still were seeking to determine the cause.

Police said a neighbor, a young unidentified soldier, suffered burns and cuts on his hands seeking to aid the victims.

Immolation By A Panamanian

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Panamanian who set himself afire to protest the proposed Panama Canal treaty died today.

Leopoldo Aragon, a 50-year-old law professor, drenched himself in gasoline Thursday outside the U.S. Embassy and struck a match. An embassy press attache and Marine guards put out the fire, but doctors said Aragon was burned over 90 per cent of his body.

A Swedish television reporter said the man told him shortly before the immolation that he planned to kill himself to protest the signing next Wednesday of the treaties giving Panama control of the Panama Canal by the year 2000.

"There's no urgency about it," said a spokesman at an Avon fish camp, where an Air Force accident investigation team set up salvage operations. "We're just taking the normal precautions about that ammunition. There were a lot of scavengers or souvenir hunters, which is all right, but the ammunition can be dangerous."

The spokesman said a number of people have complied with the appeal to return the 20mm rounds, which apparently spilled from the torn fuselage of the F-105. The plane had 1,028 rounds of target practice ammunition aboard when it left Richmond.

Ian Smith...

ference he was "no more optimistic" about a settlement emerging from the British-American plan. But he said he would make a thorough study of the document before reaching a final decision.

The provisions of the plan he termed "crazy suggestions" were those calling for a Briton to head an interim government during the transition to black rule and the formation of a new national army which he said would be based on the guerrillas of the Communist-backed Patriotic Front.

"I think it's a very cunning scheme to ensure that the Patriotic Front will be the next government of Rhodesia," he said.

Meanwhile, Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, the leaders of the Patriotic Front, said the proposals "contain aspects which are unacceptable."

Smith made it plain to reporters that he would hold out for a settlement more favorable to the whites.

Strengthened by his landslide victory in a general election Wednesday, Smith said he would pursue his previous plan to negotiate a settlement of his own with black moderates "as a second string to the bow — a wise precaution."

The British-American plan, made public on Thursday but leaked last week, calls for Smith's government to surrender power to an interim government headed by a British resident commissioner, a U.N. peacekeeping force to enforce a cease-fire in the war between the Rhodesian army and the black guerrillas of the Patriotic Front, "free and impartial elections on the basis of universal adult suffrage" and a new constitution "providing for a democratically elected government, the abolition of discrimination, the protection of individual human rights and the independence of the judiciary."

The British government nominated Field Marshal Lord Carver, 62-year-old former chief of the British General Staff, to be the resident commissioner.

British newspapers were not optimistic about the success of the plan. The London Daily Mirror said to ask Smith "to surrender on the very day he has just won all 50 white seats in the Rhodesian parliament is expressing a naive belief in the powers of Father Christmas."

"Any indication of such an arms transfer would require investigation," officials said.

Somalia and Ethiopia have engaged in sporadic border conflicts with Somalia long having eyes on Ethiopia's Ogaden region. The area borders on the two countries.

Since the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie two years ago, Ethiopia has taken a turn toward the left, while Somalia has inched in the other direction. Both countries in the past have received arms from the Soviet Union.

Legal Help For An Unborn Child

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Two lawyers acting for the unborn child of a woman whose religious beliefs prevent her from accepting blood transfusions say they will ask that the fetus be made a ward of the court.

Assistant Public Defenders Robert Wills and Larry Korda said Thursday they requested a hearing today before Broward Circuit Court Judge Stephen Boober, the same judge who made them guardians of the 36-week-old fetus.

On Wednesday, Boober ordered all Florida hospitals and physicians to give whatever treatment necessary to Linda Okonewski, 21, of West Palm Beach.

After the ruling, Mrs. Okonewski left Florida for a California hospital. It was reported her California physician, Dr. Elliott Zaleznik, was awaiting test results before making a decision in the case.

Embarassed By Patronage List

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two political advisors to Gov. Jim Hunt say they concealed him to institute merit selection for Superior Court judges after becoming aware of a potentially embarrassing list of judicial candidates compiled by his patronage office.

Hunt's press secretary, Gary Pearce, speaking for the governor, confirmed that Phil Carlton, head of the state Department of Crime Control, and Wake County District Attorney Burley Mitchell advised the governor on the matter.

"I'm not going to say I convinced him after looking at the list of people he was planning to pick, but I was bothered after looking at the list of applicants," Carlton told The Charlotte Observer.

Carlton, whom Hunt has nominated to an Appeals Court judgeship, said Hunt announced his support of a merit selection plan two weeks after he and Mitchell suggested it to him.

Mitchell said he had not seen the patronage list, but "pretty well knew" who was on it. "I think he made a very wise political move by going the merit selection route," he said.

When Hunt announced the merit system July 28, he said that "ability, not politics" should be the basis for choosing judges.

State judges in North Carolina are elected, but vacancies and new judgeships are filled by the governor. Under the merit plan, Hunt will choose Superior Court judges from a list submitted by a screening committee.

We make loans to farmers. That's it.

When agriculture is in a slump, many lending institutions cut back or completely discontinue agricultural loans. But since we began lending money more than 50 years ago, farmers have depended on Farm Credit for needed capital. Through good times as well as bad, we've been there to work with the farmer. We know financing and we know agriculture. We've done it longer and do it better than anyone else.

What A Way To Start The Day

Pirates, Pack Clash In Opening Game

Quarterback Jimmy Southerland

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

All the pre-game hoopla is over. The final slap of pads is gone from the practice fields. Tomorrow night at 7 p.m. it becomes all for real as East Carolina University's Pirates invade Carter Stadium in Raleigh against the N.C. State Wolfpack.

While the game probably won't decide a whole lot about either team's season, it will probably be one of the most watched games in the state. A crowd in excess of 50,000 is expected, perhaps the largest crowd ever to watch a game in that compound, and again a new record for the ECU-NCSSU series.

The Pirates enter the year off a 9-2 season, their best under Pat Dye, while the Wolfpack is coming off a 3-7-1 year under their new coach Bo Rein.

"I hope we'll be ready," Dye said. "We still don't have that explosive speed and quickness that we've got to have to live by. If we're moving slow because we're tired that's one thing. But if it's because we're not getting ready, that's another."

Last year, the Pirates had a terrible practice session just prior to their meeting with Southern Mississippi, and Dye was very upset about that, but the team came back and racked their foes, 48-0, in one of the surprises of the year. "We were experienced last year, and the players knew what they could do. But this year, we have so many new faces that we need to do good work every day to gain confidence in what we can do. And these rookies are going to have to bust tail every second to that kind of confidence. Nothing builds confidence like success."

Dye feels that there is no particular area that is causing problems just prior to the opener. "We'd like to have everyone healthy. I guess that's about our chief problem. But I don't know how good or bad we'll be until we line up and play."

Dye cautioned the Pirate fans not to expect the same thing that happened in last year's opener. "And if we get beat, it's not the end of the world. We have a young team, and we're going to get better as we go along."

The coach said that he and his staff and his players have a lot of respect for the North Carolina State players and coaches. "After all, we've played them three times already and only won once."

Dye pointed out that the Wolfpack has good ability in the skill positions, but that the offensive line doesn't have quite the experience as the rest of the offense. "They are still very good people," he added.

Defensively, the Wolfpack is largely veteran. "They have more quickness and ability on defense than they've had before."

He also sees both teams as being emotional in the game. "They played emotional against us last year. It was a cross-roads game for them after two straight losses. They played hard and well. I don't look for them to change the way they play either."

As usual, Dye feels that the kicking game could be very important. "They have an outstanding punter in Johnny Evans and a very good (field goal and PAT) kicker in Jay Sherrill. They decided a couple of games last year."

The most potent part of State's offensive game, of course, is the veer run by Johnny Evans; the quarterback. He can either keep it, hand off to one of his fleet backs, or put the ball into the air.

Ted Brown, one of the most explosive runners in the Atlantic Coast Conference, heads the backfield crew, which also includes such speedsters as fullback Timmy Johnson, halfback Rickey Adams, and fullback Billy Ray Vickers, all expected to see a lot of action.

Bubba Green, a defensive tackle, and Ralph Stringer, the safety, anchor the defense, although Green is listed as a doubtful starter because of an injury.

Dye still hasn't decided who will be his starting quarterback, although senior Jimmy Southerland will probably get the nod. Sophomore Leander Green will also play a great deal, too.

Joining them in the backfield will be Willie Hawkins and Eddie Hicks, both returning from last year, along with fullback Vince Kolanko.

The line will have Barry

Johnson at tight end, Mitchell Smith at left tackle, Nelson Smith at left guard, Rickie Holliday at center, Wayne Bolt at right guard, Matt Mulholland at right tackle and Terry Gallaher at split end.

Defensively, the Pirates will start John Morrie and Zack Valentine at the ends, Wayne Poole and Noah Clark at tackles and Oliver Felton at nose guard. The linebackers will be Harold Randolph and Harold Fort, with Charlie Carter, Gerald Hall, Steve Hale and Willie Holley in the secondary.

The contest is the first of three straight road games prior to the Pirates' home opener against VMI. They travel to Duke and to Toledo prior to facing the Keydets.

Rampants Opening

Rose High School's Rampants open the 1977 football season tonight in Ficklen Stadium.

The Rampants will be playing host to 4-A rival Goldsboro, which went unbeaten during regular season play last year.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Home Stand Cost Boston

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox learned simple arithmetic the hard way: 500 ball at home is not good enough.

The Red Sox finished a 5-5 stand at Fenway Park with a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Thursday, but there was little to cheer. The stand cost them three games, as they fell 3½ behind the first-place New York Yankees in the American League East.

"We have to snap out of this win one, lose one habit," veteran Carl Yastrzemski said before the Red Sox left on an eight-game road trip, a tough journey which could determine the team's pennant hopes.

"We're going to have to win two out of three in Texas and four out of five in Toronto on this trip," Yaz said. "We're going to have to get some good pitching and good hitting. There's still plenty of time to make a good run at it."

"The Yankees have played good baseball. No one can deny that. But they could go into a spin the same as we did. You never know. We have five games left with the Yankees and we have to do well on this road trip to give ourselves a chance."

"We've been struggling and it's a must that we have a good road trip," Manager Don Zimmer said. "That's all there is to it. There's only one month to go and every game is important."

"We just have to have a good road trip," said second baseman Denny Doyle. "We can't have another (1-6) disaster like we had the last trip. We have to forget about the Yankees, take all games one at a time and win them one at a time."

Yastrzemski, steadily moving up on baseball's all-time leaders in a several offensive departments, led the way as the Red Sox beat Cleveland Thursday. He had a double and two singles, drove in a run, scored once, stole a base and threw out a runner at third to kill a possible big inning.

In the only other American League game, Milwaukee blanked Detroit 1-0, behind the pitching of Jerry Augustine and Ed Rodriguez. Augustine pitched 8 2-3 innings of five-hit ball before Rodriguez got the final out, earning his second save of the year. Ed Kirkpatrick doubled in the Brewers' run.

The Oakland-Minnesota game was rained out. There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Pinkney Is Cut

Reggie Pinkney, former East Carolina University defensive back, was cut yesterday by the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Pinkney, who set several records on the team last year, was a sixth round choice of the Lions. His records are all for yardage in interception returns. They are for most yards returned in one game, in a season, and in a career. He also holds the mark for the longest interception return.

GOLF BREAKTHROUGH
MEMPHIS (AP) — Golfer Al Geiberger, the devotee of peanut butter sandwiches, called his record round of 59 in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Open a breakthrough for all of golf.

"The previous PGA record of 60 was a mental barrier, just as the four-minute mile once was," he said.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Rutgers, coming off a perfect campaign and boasting the nation's longest winning streak, begins its quest for national recognition tonight when it meets Penn State in the first college football game of the 1977 season.

Rutgers has everything to gain and virtually nothing to lose except an 18-game winning streak that dates back to a 34-20 defeat against Lehigh in 1975.

Penn State, meanwhile, has precious little to gain against a club that finished no better than 17th in the 1976 national rankings despite an 11-0 record and was overlooked by almost everyone except its 11 victims.

But Penn State doesn't see it that way, even though Coach Joe Paterno must keep his players from looking past Rutgers to Houston, Maryland and Kentucky, its next three opponents. All went to bowl games last season, while Rutgers, with its unblemished record, was bypassed by everyone except the fledgling Independence Bowl, an invitation to the Scarlet Knights rejected.

"We know its going to be a tough football game, but we are happy to be playing Rutgers," Paterno said. "Rutgers has a fine program and we think they are doing things the right way — playing with people who belong in school."

A crowd of 60,000 is expected in 76,000-seat Giants Stadium for the eighth meeting in the series — Penn State leads 6-1 — but the first since 1955. While Penn State has been a fixture in the national rankings — the Nittany Lions have had 38 consecutive non-losing seasons, an NCAA record — Rutgers has been playing the Princetons, Bucknells, Connecticut, Columbias, Colgates, Lafayettes and Lehighs.

However, tonight's contest begins a three-game series with Penn State, and Alabama joins the schedule in 1980-81.

Although Penn State failed to crack the 1976 rankings with an unaccustomed 7-5 record, the Lions are No. 13 in The Associated Press preseason poll, while Rutgers is not among the Top Twenty.

The Penn State-Rutgers meeting is the first of 843 major college games this season.

Well, we're back again to try and come up with some of the right answers again this season.

There are a few new faces in the crew, with half of the old ones being replaced by others. One member of last year's crew, Barbara Mathews, has left the Reflector staff, while two others, Jack Whitchard and George Holland, decided that they had had enough.

Joe Jenkins and Tom Baines return from last year's group, along with me, while sports assistant Jim Kyle also moves into the cast. Steve Hemric of the composing room, and Vickie Spivey, our female entry, round out the list.

The lack of a number of games in the college ranks leaves us with a slim group to pick from this week, but we've got some differences right away.

The high school ranks, meanwhile, give us a few games to pick from, but not a lot of knowledge to tell what the teams have really got.

Ayden-Griffon travels to Roanoke. For the Redskins, it will be the second game. They lost a tough one to Bertie, and they could be awfully tough again this year. Ayden-Griffon is still an unknown.

not having played. A hard choice, but we'll stick with the Chargers.

Williamston goes to Farmville Central as both open their seasons. Again, this is a tough one to call, but we'll stick with Farmville Central as perhaps a little better in this one.

North Pitt entertains Enfield, and again both teams are unknown quantities at this point of the season. North Pitt, however, may have the experience needed to win.

Conley is at home to West Carteret. The Vikings got the kinks out last week against East Carteret, and would like to make it two in a row. We like their chances.

Greene Central goes to Washington. Again, both are opening the season. Here, again, Greene Central may come up with the win due to experience.

Jamesville travels to Columbia. The Bullets have a game behind them, while Columbia is opening. A question mark, again, however, and we'll go with Columbia.

Rounding out the high school scene, and moving onto the panel, Rose opens against Goldsboro. The Cougars are coming off an unbeaten regular season, while the Rampants are recovering from a 1-9 year.

It looks like an interesting game, however, and the panel is split over it. Still, they pick Goldsboro, 4-2.

The Pirates of East Carolina travel to N.C. State in a big game for both teams. Again, there is division among the cast. This time, the Pirates get the nod, again by a 4-2 margin.

Other consensus picks are Citadel over Wofford, William & Mary over Norfolk State, Mississippi over Memphis State, and South Carolina over Appalachian State.

Waltrip Proves Familiarity With Darlington, Grabbing Pole

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — "I've always felt a little at home on this track," Darrell Waltrip said Thursday, after proving his familiarity with the 1.366-mile Darlington Raceway by winning the pole position for Monday's Southern 500 stock car race.

"I get more pumped up to run here at Darlington than I do at any other track. There's just something special, like it's our Super Bowl," said the driver from Franklin, Tenn., who marked his first win at a super speedway by taking the Rebel 500 here last spring.

Waltrip's Chevrolet was clocked at 153.493 miles per hour Thursday on the narrow 28-year-old track, beating out second-place qualifier Benny Parsons, who ran his Chevrolet at 153.044 m.p.h.

"There's something about qualifying at Darlington — it's hard," Parsons said.

"Starting up front is important at Darlington, much more so than at Daytona. Talladega or other tracks where passing is easy. Man, you've got to wrestle everybody you come to at Darlington to advance one spot."

Twelve drivers made the field Thursday for the 28th annual Southern 500, with 12 more spots slated to be filled today.

Waltrip, in taking the pole, earned $1,500. Buddy Baker of Charlotte and Richard Petty, whose side-by-side duals are frequent on the NASCAR circuit, will start beside each other in the Southern 500, but they will be back on the third row.

Pearson and Baker had their qualifying laps interrupted when electronic timing lights failed to kick on for their cars. They both had to take an additional lap.

"Man, this thing (his Ford) was buffalo hunting on that first lap," Baker said. "And the clock didn't pick it up."

Pearson was also disappointed that the clock failed to catch the first lap by his Mercury.

"It just wasn't our day. First the clock missed me on the first lap, which is usually our best one. Instead of coming in, fussing around, cooling off the tires and engine, we just went ahead and made two more laps," Pearson said.

Petty qualified under a different disadvantage — the pain from chest injuries he received in a crash last weekend at Bristol, Tenn. His discomfort was obvious when he crawled in and out of his Dodge.

"I'm wearing a brace on my chest but it still hurts if I make a sudden move or jerk," Petty said. He has asked that a relief driver be standing by on Monday.

"It's strictly a wait-and-see deal," the Randleman, N.C., driver said. "I'll get some pain shots from the doctor Monday morning and I'll last as long as the shots last."

The brother team of Donnie and Bobby Allison captured the two spots on the fourth row with laps just over 150 m.p.h.

The other four drivers to qualify Thursday were Coe Coe Marlin and Lennie Pond, both in Chevrolets; Tom Gale in a Ford and Richard Childress in a Chevrolet.

Sam Sommers, a contender for rookie-of-the-year honors, failed to qualify when his Chevrolet smacked the wall on the third turn.

Waltrip said his plans for the Labor Day race were simple: "If we can lead this race on Monday, we're gonna lead it. And starting on the pole is a good place to take the lead from."

Waltrip wrestled his Chevrolet past a wreck late in the Rebel 500 here last April to take his first super speedway win.

"We were lucky to win this race in the spring. I'll be the first to admit that," Waltrip said. "But when the Southern 500 is over with, I don't want anybody to say we were just lucky."

Archibald Traded

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Nate "Tiny" Archibald, who in 1972-73 became the only player to lead the National Basketball Association in scoring and assists in the same season, has been traded by the Nets to the Buffalo Braves.

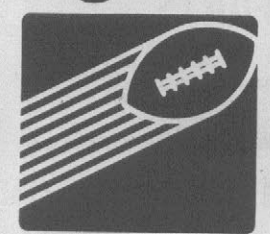

The 6-foot-1 Archibald, a guard, played in just 34 games for the Nets last season. He missed the Nets' final 48 games due to a broken foot and was dealt to Buffalo Thursday for center George Johnson and a first-round choice in the 1979 draft.

Papooses Defeated

WINDSOR — Bertie High School's junior varsity romped to a 54-0 victory over Roanoke High School's Papooses yesterday.

After picking up ten points in the first period, Bertie added six more in the second for a 16-0 halftime lead. Then, in the third period, they added 38 more and went scoreless in the final period.

Top Seeds Easily Capture Wins In U.S. Open First Round Matches

By CHRISTY BARBEE
AP Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Virginia Wade turned away the adventuring Renee Richards.

Chris Evert politely thrashed her first-round opponent.

And the two top male seeds, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors, flicked away their rivals like pieces of dust, despite injuries that delayed their first appearances.

Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual who went to court for the right to play here, got her chance Thursday, but lost to the Wimbledon champion 6-1, 6-4. The second set gave cause for alarm as Dr. Richards took the fourth and fifth games before Ms. Wade regained her service.

Miss Evert disposed of Sharon Walsh of Mill Valley, Calif., 6-0, 6-1, though she was doing little more than alight workout in the 90-degree muggy air.

Top-seeded Borg overcame an aching shoulder to eliminate Trey Waltke of St. Louis; and defending champion Connors, whose back had ailed him for several days, set aside Jasjit Singh of Grossinger, N.Y., 6-2, 6-0.

Borg, Connors and Miss Evert faced second-round opponents today. Borg was to meet John James of Australia, while Connors plays Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif., tonight. Miss Evert was to battle Pam Whytcross of Australia.

Dr. Richards clearly was nervous as Ms. Wade bounced about the court accurately returning and delivering piercing volleys.

But she was smiling and dignified after the match as she said, "I can't think of losing 6-1, 6-4 as a victory of any kind, moral or otherwise. But it was certainly a big experience for me."

"I'm in very good condition," she said. "But it's not all physical; it's partially mental. And nervous exhaustion can take its toll physically just the way running from side to side does during a match."

Dr. Richards has had an emotionally torturing year since she underwent an operation to change her sex. The Open is the first major tournament she has been allowed to enter as a woman. A state Supreme Court judge said the chromosome tests required of her before were discriminatory.

Miss Evert, starting her first major tournament since losing startlingly to Ms. Wade in the Wimbledon semifinals, was frank about her feeling that the Open will be essential to maintaining her dominance in the women's field.

"It means a lot to me," she said. "I'm really psyched for this. Ever since the day I lost Wimbledon, I've been looking forward to coming here."

Borg and Connors came to their matches confidently and had no trouble passing their opponents. But each took a different view of what their injuries might mean to their chances in the Open.

The cautious 20-year-old Swede said there was no way he would risk seriously injuring himself for the sake of a shot at the Open title. "I know people expect me to win," he said, "but I'm not going to hurt myself just because the No. 1 ranking is at stake."

"It's important to take care of myself."

Borg's streaking serve was considerably slowed Thursday.

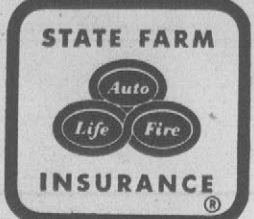

But Connors was playing at full strength and was adamant that he wouldn't change his style to accommodate his chronic back problem, apparently caused by a curvature of the spine.

"Why change a winning thing?" he shrugged. "I can't change my strokes just because my back is hurting ... I've still got to go out and do it."

Connors won here last year but missed the first seeding after Borg passed him in the computer rankings a week ago.

It seems indeed that a battle is on for No. 1, and fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas, with 40 consecutive clay-court victories to his credit, plays again tonight against Gene Mayer of Mendham, N.J.

Cubs Bow To Cougars

GOLDSBORO — Goldsboro High School held off a late Rose High School threat to nip the Rampant junior varsity, 14-7, yesterday.

It was the opener for the Cubs. Rose scored first, as Don McGlohn scored from the seven in the first period. Ted King added the extra point.

Goldsboro came back in the second period to score and take the lead. John Peterson scored on a 34-yard run, and then added a two-point conversion for an 8-7 lead. The other score came early in the third quarter, as Jeff Hunter scored from 23 yards out.

Both teams threatened again, but both were stopped. Then, late in the game, Greenville drove down to the one yard line before being stopped at their last ditch effort failed.

Greenville will host Kinston next Thursday.

Burns Takes Buick's Lead

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer
FLINT, Mich. (AP) — George Burns has already won over $100,000 on the Professional Golfers Association tour this year, but the 29-year-old former Maryland football player still isn't happy.

"I've had sort of an attitude problem," the second-year pro said following a blistering eight-under-par 64 that gave him a one-shot lead Thursday in the first round of the Buick Open.

How, Burns was asked, could one win $100,000 playing golf and not be happy?

"Well, I haven't won on the tour yet, and that's the name of the game out here," replied the 6-foot-2, 210-pounder. "I was so down I was going to skip this one — withdraw," he said, "but my father insisted that I play here, since I had committed. And now I'm glad I did."

Burns' sparkling score over the par-72, 6,902-yard Flint Elks Country Club layout wiped out the mark of 65 set in 1975 by pro George Cadle when the Buick was a satellite tour event.

The event resumed four starts this year after an eight-year absence, following renewed interest by the sponsor.

But the $100,000 event is competing both for attention and talent with the $300,000 World Series of Golf, being played this weekend at Akron, Ohio.

Burns' performance earned him a one-stroke lead over Dale Hayes of Pretoria, South Africa, and Greg Pitzer of Savannah, Ga.

The Elks Country Club layout took a terrible licking from the 156 pros who played Thursday. The course has little rough and practically no trees, so errant shots seldom are penalized.

As a result, 100 of the starting field was at par or better after the opening round of the 72-hole tournament.

"I think you'll see a lot of low scores here, because of the wedges," Burns said, indicating the course played even shorter than the scant 6,904 yards listed on the scorecard.

The field will be trimmed to the low 70 and ties following completion of second-round play today.

Harris Guides Charger Win

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Harris was bitter despite his earnest efforts to hide his feelings. As the first black quarterback to gain and hold regular status in the National Football League, he felt the Los Angeles Rams were wrong to demote him late in 1976.

He wasn't unhappy when the Rams traded him to the San Diego Chargers, and he set about earning a starting job there.

On Thursday night, the Chargers invaded the Rams' Coliseum home field, where Harris had been introduced for three seasons.

Even as a Charger, he was cheered on introduction and he thought, "That's one of the great cheers I've had."

The 30-year-old Harris responded with two touchdown passes in the first quarter — one going nine yards to Chuck Bradley and the second seven yards to Johnny Rodgers.

The Chargers won, 26-25, at the final gun, thanks not only to Harris but to a stellar performance by Rodgers.

After four seasons in the Canadian league, the Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska came back to the National Football League and the coaches, fans and players are equally impressed.

"That Rodgers is unbelievable," declared Harris. "That one catch he made, I don't see how anybody could have made it."

Harris had thrown to Rodgers on a play starting at the Rams' 34. Rodgers made a diving catch at the 20, retained his balance and went in for the touchdown.

Then in the final minute, it was Rodgers who hauled in a 16-yard pass from Harris that gave the Chargers the ball at the three and set the situation for Tony Fritsch's 22-yard field goal just at the gun.

Rodgers caught five passes for 80 yards. He returned three kickoffs for 74 and he brought two punts back 25. That totalled 179 for his night's work before the 55,946 in Memorial Coliseum.

Pat Haden, the former University of Southern California star who took over for Harris with the Rams late in the 1976 season, brought the Rams back from the 14-0 deficit with touchdown passes covering 32 yards to Terry Nelson and nine to Harold Jackson. The Rams went ahead on a safety and led 25-23 into the final minute before Fritsch hit his second field goal of the game — the first having come in the second period on a 36-yard boot at the gun that ended the first half.

Coach Tommy Prothro's Chargers are now 3-2 in the preseason while the Rams of Chuck Knox, who succeeded Prothro here, are 1-4.

Four preseason games are scheduled for tonight with Chicago at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, Detroit at Baltimore and Denver at Seattle.

In Saturday's games, Dallas plays at Houston, Cleveland is at Green Bay, San Francisco visits Oakland, New Orleans plays at Miami, Tampa Bay is at Buffalo and Minnesota at Cincinnati.

The New York Jets play the New York Giants and Washington is at New England Sunday. Monday night's game sends Atlanta to Kansas City.

St. Louis is the only NFL team without a preseason victory so far and the Cardinals hope to snap that four-game losing streak against Chicago.

"We're going to go with the veterans," St. Louis Coach Don Coryell said of tonight's game. "We've got to be ready on September 18 (when the season opens)."

The Cards will face Bob Avelini for three periods as Chicago tries to settle its quarterback situation. Last week, Mike Phipps was sacked five times by his ex-teammates as Cleveland beat Chicago 14-7.

Running back Walter Payton, the NFL's No. 2 rusher last season, seems in peak form for the Bears. He's carried 40 times for 138 yards so far in the preseason.

Detroit will be watching a couple of running backs carefully in their game at Baltimore.

Marv Hubbard, acquired from Oakland, carried eight times for 26 yards and had two other bursts of 13 and 15 yards nullified by penalties in last week's 16-14 victory over Seattle. Third-round draft pick Rick Kane carried 11 times for 49 yards and also caught four passes for 26 yards.

Philadelphia beefed up its defense with the addition of Art

Thoms from Oakland this week. The Eagles got two touchdown passes from Ron Jaworski and beat Denver 28-24 in their last start.

Pittsburgh welcomes back linebacker Jack Lambert, who signed this week but may not be ready to face Philadelphia. The Steelers have split four preseason contests.

Seattle's three-game winning streak ended with last week's two-point loss against Detroit. The Seahawks hope to get back on the right track against Denver, which dropped its fipgame to the Eagles after winning three in a row.

Moye Event Scheduled

The Greenville Golf and Country Club will hold its annual W. S. Moye Tournament this weekend. The 54-hole event will be played Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In a Ladies Day event, Put Carter took honors in the low net tournament. Betty Lou Howard finished second, while Peg Haigwood was third and Janet McGlohan was fourth.

Graham Jefferson picked up an eagle during the week on the par five 18th hole.

The Pitt County Ladies League will meet at Greenville on September 9. A 9:30 a.m. shotgun start will be held.

A Men's and Women's Captain's Choice Tournament will be held on September 11, with a 1:30 p.m. shotgun start.

KINSTON — Three of last year's area high school basketball stars have signed grants-in-aid at Lenoir Community College, athletic director Pete Barnes announced recently.

Two of the players are from Farmville Central, Kenno Farrow and Jeff Fields, while the other is from Greene Central, Ernest Thompson.

Farrow, a 6-1, 190-pound swingman, can play forward or guard equally well, Barnes said. He was first string all-Eastern Carolina Conference last year, as well as all-area. He averaged 20.3 points and nine rebounds per game, as well as six assists.

Fields is a 6-1, 165-pound guard, who was named second team all-ECC and averaged 15 points per game.

Thompson was also all-ECC. The 6-0, 170-pounder was voted most valuable player by his teammates and averaged 16 points per game.

Thoughts Turn

To Santa Claus

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The weather may be sultry here, but thoughts are already turning to Santa Claus.

The local post office reports the first letter of the season to be forwarded to the jolly old man at the North Pole.

The local letter writer has a specific list of requests, including a backpack, a sleeping bag and a mess kit.

Middletown Postmaster Hunter Grace said the writer is ahead of most who start writing to Santa Claus around October.

He said his post office gets about 75 letters to Santa between October and Christmas Day.

AGAINST MOTTO — Atheist Madelyn Murray O'Hair, successful in a campaign to block prayer in public schools, filed suit Thursday in federal court to ban the motto "In God We Trust" from U.S. currency. She contends that use of the phrase is unconstitutional. (AP Laser-photo)

Again Plan To Sock It To You

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Should you survive the Labor Day ramble intact, be advised that Monday night NBC will sock it to you — with the first of six new "Laugh-In" specials it has ordered this season.

No, Dan Rowan, the lovely and charming Dick Martin, Lily Tomlin and others of its 1968-73 era aren't to it. Nor is it as consistently sharp as the weekly version, no doubt because it was taped last summer and lacks the current events assaults that made the weekly show sparkle.

But its gag-a-second, no-holds-barred flavor still is there, likewise its man in the yellow raincoat who still falls off his tricycle and its merciless attacks on a distinguished American hamlet.

"If you liked Bangladesh, you'll love Burbank," notes the show's hostess, Bette Davis, supported by such noted guest players as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Ralph Nader and Rich Little.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

STOKES — Homecoming services will be held at Sweet Gum Grove FWB Church here Sunday.

The Rev. Franklin Brinson, the pastor will deliver the morning message. There will be a memorial services for members who have died since the last homecoming. Lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m.

Following lunch, there will be a singsgiving. All former members, ministers and friends of the church are invited.

HOT DOUGHNUTS & COFFEE JERRY'S SWEET SHOP

Pitt Plaza 756-2343

Says consumerist Nader: "If American Tobacco merged with C&H Sugar, you'd have lung decay."

Observes the senator: "This is a great country where anybody can grow up to be president — except me."

So it goes, the recycled show mixing such olden goodies as "Laugh-In Looks at the News" and the gag-filled disco scene with a new batch of bits by 16 writers and new skits by 13 new regulars.

There is one certified belly-laugh in the hour, a filmed inquiry — directed by Sam Peckinpah — into the effects of TV violence.

Alas, I've no doubt homosexual groups will not laugh at the show's "Salute to Anita Bryant," in which four cops prance about, sing "Carolina in the Morning" with new lyrics too indelicate for a repeat in family newspapers, then emerge in evening gowns to croon, "I Enjoy Being a Girl." However, that is "Laugh-In" — bad taste here, a dud there, a chuckler elsewhere, all in a flurry of comic sights and sounds that zip by so fast you may forget the bombs while laughing at the good ones.

Best of all, producer George Schlatter has once again given the tube a first-rate tribe of comic regulars, most of them new to TV.

Of the rookies, I'd bet that Scottish comic Robin Williams becomes the first to graduate to the fame of the show's original gang, followed by newcomers Jim Giovanni, June Gable and Ben Powers.

Later Monday, Patrick McGoochan, a superb actor, starts his new "Rafferty" series on CBS, playing a gruff, blunt, wholly decent ex-Army doctor now in civilian practice after 23 military years.

His premiere show features life-saving emergency surgery, a $3.8 million malpractice suit, a discreet hint of a lesbian affair by a jet-setter, a puzzling illness he cures and a generally lousy script.

Sample dialogue: "She moved her arms just then. It's a miracle."

McGoohan has a cult following from his fine "Secret Agent" and "The Prisoner" series, but even this and his superior acting need a real miracle — better writing — to keep "Rafferty" alive past December.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There could be a number of delays in whatever you try to put in motion today as well as some confusion as to the exact procedure to take to be successful. Keep alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine creative thoughts now that need to be worked out in detail if they are to be successful. An associate can be helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't be frustrated because some personal aim has not been attained. Take steps to improve your health and appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Remove any stumbling blocks in the path of your progress today. Not a good day for social affairs. Take time for informative reading.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Sidestep an argument with a friend since you are both at odds where views are concerned. Relax at home tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you feel frustrated because an outside activity is not working out right, consult an authority who can be helpful. Be careful in motion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to expand but this is not the right time to do so. Be more concerned with improving your financial status.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your responsibilities can be handled well now if you use that determined attitude for which you are well known. Safeguard your health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think more about your associates' needs and less of your own and come to a better rapport with them. Engage in favorite hobby.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Complete whatever you have begun and forget about new interests for now. Strive for increased happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show your particular abilities to higher-ups and gain their support and become more successful. Take time out for recreation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to solve a problematical affair at home in a diplomatic way and establish more harmony there. Avoid an argument.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use particular care in motion and avoid possible accident. Don't lose your temper with a friend who may have acted foolishly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at solving puzzles and could become a great troubleshooter. The education should be directed along such lines, particularly where police and government work is concerned. Do not neglect ethical training.

Carter Stadium Route Advised

Capt. R. A. Clark of Troop C, State Highway Patrol, offered a travel suggestion to persons planning to attend the East Carolina University-North Carolina State football game on Saturday in Raleigh.

Clark said that persons who will be attending the game, coming from the west, north, and east should arrange their trip so that they will arrive in Raleigh and exit onto I-40 to Blue Ridge Road, then exit onto Blue Ridge Road.

Troopers will be available on Blue Ridge Road to direct motorists to Carter Stadium parking areas, he reported.

Persons traveling to Raleigh from the south and southeast, he said, should proceed to Western Boulevard, exit onto Western and travel west until they arrive at Powell Drive. Motorists should turn right at the Powell Drive intersection and proceed until the Hillsborough Street intersection is reached. Troopers will be stationed at the intersection to give parking directions.

Clark suggested that motorists exit the same route they used in entering Carter Stadium. He urged fans to allow plenty of travel time in order to avoid the late traffic rush.

FUNERAL TODAY

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Funeral services for Addison H. Reese, retired chairman of both N.C. National Bank and the bank's holding company, will be held at noon today at Christ Episcopal Church here. He died Thursday. Burial will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in Baltimore.

Sponsoring Therapy Unit

AOII Sorority, whose philanthropy is The Arthritis Foundation, will sponsor pool therapy classes at the Minges Coliseum pool beginning Monday, Sept. 12.

Arthritis patients are invited to take part, but must have referrals from their physicians. The objective of the exercise classes will be to teach each participant normal joint motions and exercises to maintain joint function.

Gloria Sanders, Assistant Professor in the Department of Physical Therapy and Chapter Advisor to AOII Sorority, will be teaching the course, with rotating assistance from sorority members. The classes will meet each Monday from 8 to 9 p.m.

Registration can be made by calling the ECU Department of Physical Therapy, 757-6961, or Sorority members, Cindy Hinkle or Ellen Harrington, 758-4290. There will be a charge of 25 cents per session to cover clerical expense.

City Sanitation Crews To Have Holiday Monday

Labor Day, Monday, will be observed by the Sanitation Division of the Greenville Public Works Department as a holiday.

All trash and garbage pickup service will run one day late through Wednesday and will resume regular service Thursday, Sanitation Director Levy Brock said.

Citizens are reminded that GREAT (Greenville Area Transit) will also observe Monday as a holiday. There will be no bus service. Regular service will be resumed Tuesday.

For any emergency street damage or problems, one may contact the Police Department, which will in turn notify someone on call in the Public Works Department, Brock said.

The element of surprise has been the crucial factor in many a great military victory. It also has its place on the battlegrounds of a bridge game, as South demonstrated on this hand.

North's hand is a borderline jump shift response. North felt that his good spade fit merited an immediate show of strength. The fact that there was considerable duplication of values in the red suits (both red queens were, in fact, valueless) made the final contract a touch-and-go affair.

West led the top of his broken heart sequence and declarer paused to survey his prospects. He was solid everywhere except for the club suit, and in that suit he would have a guess how to hold his losers to one—he could play West for either of the missing honors.

The usual way to play this type of hand is to draw trumps and, eventually, lead toward the clubs in dummy and then decide what to do when West plays low. By that time the defenders will know exactly what declarer's problem is, and West should have no trouble in following smoothly with his low club regardless of his holding.

That is the way the defenders would expect declarer to play the hand, so South discarded that line in favor of a psychological ploy. At the first trick, he overtook dummy's queen of hearts with his ace and immediately led a low club!

West, who had already been fingering his trump, was taken aback. After some thought, he rose with the ace of clubs and declarer's problem was resolved.

Even had West not risen with the ace, it is likely that he would have hesitated before playing to the second trick and thus given away the location of the ace of clubs. Note that it is not improper to draw inferences from an opponent's hesitation, although you do so at your own risk. However, if West did not have the ace of clubs, it would be highly unethical for him to pause and deliberately attempt to con declarer. Such tactics have no place in bridge, and any player who resorts to this type of subterfuge should be ostracized from the game.
