Palestinians 'Acceptable'

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — West Bank mayors or other Palestinians publicly known as Palestine Liberation Organization sympathizers would be acceptable at a reconvened Geneva Peace Conference, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan has told Carter administration officials.

However, it was learned that privately as well as publicly Israel flatly rejects the seating of actual representatives of the PLO, which is committed by its charter to dismantling Israel.

And, while ruling out a separate Palestinian delegation, Dayan left the door open for having some Palestinians in the Egyptian or Lebanese delegations as well as with the group from Jordan.

Israel's proposals, which rule out creation of a Palestinian state, were likely topics at today's meeting of Egyptian foreign minister Ismail Fahmy with President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. Ministers from Syria and Jordan will be here next week.

The current talks are designed to clear the way to a peace conference by the end of the year. Dayan told reporters he believes "ultimately an agreed formula will be found."

At a news conference Tuesday, he said: "I estimate the Geneva peace conference can be convened even before the end of the year with what I know of the attitude of the Arab states."

However, Dayan said Israel has several major differences with the United States. Among them, he said, are new Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territory and the U.S. call for an almost total withdrawal from the land the Arabs lost in 1967.

Inflation Rate Slackened For A Second Consecutive Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation slackened in August, for the second consecutive month, as consumer prices rose by only a modest three-tenths of 1 per cent, the smallest rise in nine months, the government reported today.

The increase was the lowest since a similar rise last November and followed a rise of four-tenths of 1 per cent in July and increases of six-tenths in May and June.

The steady decline in wholesale farm prices was reflected on grocery shelves last month as food prices rose only slightly.

Meanwhile, the cost of services, which had been the fastest rising component of the Consumer Price Index this year, slowed sharply last month.

The slowing of inflation this summer has been one of the few bright spots in the nation's economic picture, which has seen unemployment rising again and the rate of economic growth slacken.

Grocery prices, which had contributed to an annual inflation rate of about 10 per cent at the beginning of the year, rose only two-tenths of 1 per cent in August, following a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in July.

The cost of other commodities, such as household goods and autos, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in August, but these had not contributed to the inflationary surge earlier this year as much as had food.

Carter administration economists are counting on slow increases in food prices to help hold down the overall rise in consumer prices during the rest of the year.

If averaged out over the entire year, the August increase would mean a 3.6 per cent rate of inflation, a sharp improvement over the earlier pace. Consumer prices rose at a 10 per cent annual rate in the first quarter and at a rate of 8.1 per cent in the second quarter.

Despite the improvement in the pace of inflation, the Labor Department reported that the purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined for the second consecutive month. Real spendable earnings — takehome pay adjusted for taxes and inflation — for the average worker declined six-tenths of 1 per cent because of inflation and a decline in the average number of hours worked, the government said.

In August, the Consumer Price Index stood at 183.3, meaning that a basket of goods and services that sold for $100 in 1967 now costs $183.30. Consumer prices last month were 6.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

All percentages in the price report are adjusted to account for seasonal influences but the index itself is not adjusted.

The Labor Department said the cost of services rose five-tenths of 1 per cent in August, the smallest increase since December, when these prices rose only four-tenths of 1 per cent. The slow down was largely due to the first decline this year in mortgage interest rates, seasonally adjusted. Gas and electricity prices continued to rise last month, but at a lower rate than in June or July.

Brightening Of Finances At Hospital

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

There were two reasons for happiness at the meeting of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees last night: the hospital has been accredited for two more years by the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation and the financial situation of the hospital seems to have brightened during the past month.

Hospital Director Jack Richardson said there are some minor suggestions made by the JCMH, but nothing that cannot be handled easily and quickly.

Board Treasurer J. H. Moyer said that $200,000 has been paid on the loan taken out by the hospital a while back during the period of transition from the old hospital to the new and that the rest of the $400,000 loan should be paid off soon — probably at least by next month. The average census of patients for August was 207, with a high on Aug. 30 of 240 and a low on Aug. 27 of 181.

A letter of resignation from the Board by Dr. Moses Ray of Tarboro was read. He said he would be violating state law to try to serve on the Board, since he already holds an elective office and another appointive one.

A letter of commendation on the recent special section on the hospital and the ECU medical center published by The Daily Reflector was read. It came from Donald Woodin, Public Information Director of the N. C. Hospital Association.

Richardson also commented on how pleased he and everyone were with the special section, which was published Aug. 30.

The Board approved a contract with Worsley, Farley and Prescott CPA firm for an audit of the hospital books to be completed by Dec. 1. The cost is to be $9,850 or $18 per hour for 538 hours of work.

Approved with little comment were a Hemodialysis Unit policy statement, amendments to the East Carolina University Affiliation agreement, and some changes in the bylaws of the medical staff.

A film presentation was made by Tom Elmore, a management engineer whose services are shared by Pitt Memorial with Lenoir Memorial Hospital. Elmore, who is affiliated with Carolinas Hospital and Health Services, with the aid of the film, discussed "productivity audit and review in each of the hospital departments." His aim is to help employees increase output through more efficient ways of doing their work.

Hospital Plant Manager Ralph Hall reported that more than $700,000 has been paid to contractors this month as the ECU addition at the front of the hospital and the AHEC building near completion. Work is to begin Oct. 1 on the $500,000 neonatal unit to be built adjacent to the hospital dining room. He talked some about security, which continues to be a difficult job as more and more visitors come due to increased patient load. There were 537 visitors Monday between 3 and 9 p. m., he said.

He said some kind of action is going to have to be taken to eliminate the practice of a few of trying to leave their cars at the front door. This interferes with patients being brought in here and also violates fire codes which demand that there be room at all times for a fire truck to pull up at the front door.

Richardson reported that Mrs. Frances Southerland, who has long attended Board meetings as his secretary, asked him to convey her appreciation to every member of the Board. She and her husband have moved to Houston, Tex., he said.

Dr. Jack Welch, Chief of the Medical Staff, reported on an audit of the tympanoplasty procedure done by ear, nose and throat doctors.

A drawing of the 400,000 square foot, eight story Medical School building to be constructed in the complex of which the hospital is part was passed around. It was told that Dr. Dean Hayek of the Medical School, at a meeting that afternoon, had said the project would probably go to bid next March or April and that construction might begin next summer.

Rehabilitation Center Director Dave McRae reported that the census in the Rehab Center is now 24, with an average of 20 this past month. He said 20 counties of Eastern North Carolina have been represented and that more than 20 doctors have referred patients to the Center and continued to follow them there. He said the Rehab Center is virtually breaking even now. A search for a medical director for the Center continues, he said.

Utilities Order Planning For Energy Conservation

By KEITH MILLS
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday night authorized its director, Charles Horne, to prepare a working plan which would attract customer acceptance and participation in a load management program designed to conserve energy during peak demand periods by controlling the operation of water heaters and central air conditioners in the city.

If the program is adopted, the city would install switching devices on water heaters and air conditioners owned by participating customers and would control the operation of each unit during peak demand. For instance, each air conditioner compressor would be shut off seven-and-one-half minutes each half hour, while the fan would continue to operate.

A load management feasibility study released September 1 indicates that there are approximately 12,000 water heaters and 5,000 central air conditioners in Greenville.

However, according to calculations, a savings of $336,780 could be realized in the 1978-79 billing charges if only 8,700 of the possible number of devices were installed. This figure includes 7,200 water heaters and 1,500 air conditioners.

Commenting on the study, Horne said: "The primary consideration for a load management program should be the immediate and long-term savings to both participating customers and general system-wide customers."

"The economic feasibility appears to be realistic," he added, "with approximately

N.C. Riding An Area Wave Of Prosperity

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina continued last year to ride the wave of prosperity sweeping the southeastern United States, moving up from 41st to 38th position in state per capita income rankings.

The 11 per cent surge in per capita income, $5,453 last year in North Carolina, was the 10th highest increase in the nation, although it still left the state well below the national average of $6,399.

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, per capita income last year ranged from $10,415 in Alaska to $4,529 in Mississippi.

North Carolina farm income last year rose by 7.7 per cent, defying a national drop of 13 per cent. Manufacturing income rose by 17.6 per cent and construction income by 5.5 per cent, according to Commerce figures.

The department said the figures reflected continuation of more rapid growth in the South and West than in the more heavily industrialized regions of the north and northeast.

But the South still ranks last among regions in per capita income. The 12 states of the southeast have average incomes of $5,526, up from the $4,926 of two years ago but still below national par.

North Carolinians were 15 per cent below the national average last year. They were down by 16 per cent in 1975.

South Carolina was 20 per cent below the national average last year, Mississippi 29 per cent lower and West Virginia about even with North Carolina at 15 per cent. Virginia ranked 19th nationally, just 1 per cent below the national average.

The West — California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Alaska and Hawaii — were highest as a region with an average per capita income of $7,033.

Catch 2292

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Capt. Charles Fentaway, an Air Force doctor, was supposed to get a nice bonus for re-enlisting for two years. But he didn't know about Catch 2292, or Form 2292, as the Air Force calls it.

When Fentaway went to pick up his $25,000 bonus from the finance officer at F.E. Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne, he was told he neglected to sign the form obligating the Air Force to pay $12,500 for each year of his re-enlistment. That would be Form 2292, a form Fentaway says he never knew existed.

What Fentaway had signed was only his part of the agreement to serve the two years, he was told.

A federal judge on Tuesday ordered the 30-year-old surgeon released from active duty. Fentaway had been in the service three years as of June 20.

Judge Clarence Brimmer ruled that the re-enlistment contract was impossible to perform because the Air Force had refused to "cut through their red tape."

The Air Force withheld comment but was expected to appeal the judge's ruling.

"They're the ones that were supposed to know regulations," Fentaway said.

He said he was told he could sign a pre-dated Form 2292 so he could receive his bonus.

"That sounded a little fishy to me," he said, "and there's no way I wanted to get into legal complications."

Fentaway found a civilian job in Cheyenne, his hometown. He filed suit against the Air Force for breach of contract, seeking a discharge from the service.

Hearing Carter Views

Three Greenville men will be among about 40 North Carolinians to meet with Pres. Jimmy Carter this afternoon for a briefing on the Panama Canal Treaty.

The Daily Reflector copublisher David Whichard, businessman Jack Minges, and Rupert Hart, U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan's foster son, traveled to Washington this morning for the 1:45 p.m. session.

Spokesmen in Sen. Morgan's office said the Greenville men were included in the White House invitation because of their position as "opinion leaders in the state."

Betty McCain of Wilson, State Democrat Party chairman was also scheduled to attend the briefing, being held for about 75 to 100 persons from North Carolina and Tennessee, today.

The Senator's office said the President has held briefings for leaders in a number of states on the Panama Canal Treaty.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

"OVERWHELMING!"

"The response to the Hotline item was overwhelming," said Sandy Stokes, Geriatric Specialist at the Pitt County Mental Health Center. "These folks are dressed in style!"

Ms. Stokes appealed through Hotline Monday, Sept. 12 for clothing for about 20 elderly men and women who had recently been moved from Cherry Hospital to the Greenville Nursing Villa. She said some had absolutely nothing to wear but one pair of pants and a t-shirt.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 items of clothing were given in response to the appeal and all were clean and in good shape, she said. She said those that could not be used at the time were stored carefully for later use or shared with other nursing home residents in need of clothing.

Pitt Planning Board Will Discuss Water Study

The North Carolina Water Resources Framework Study will be discussed tonight at the meeting of the Pitt County Planning Board.

A discussion of the study will be held in the District Court Room of the Pitt County Court House at 8 p.m. following a 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Planning Board in the Law Library to handle routine business.

According to the water study, the area from Greenville to Washington, and a small portion of the southern-most end of Pitt County, is suitable for locating heavy water using industries.

These and other proposals to reduce flood damage, assure economic security and protect the natural beauty of Pitt County, will be included in the discussions.

The document, prepared by the State Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, divides the state into 11 river basins as study areas, and proposes alternatives for each area, using a balanced plan between competing economic development and environmental needs.

Pitt is in the Neuse-White Oak and Tar-Pamlico river basins.

The study includes floodway systems for Greenville, Gritton, Ayden, Winterville and along Swift Creek and the Tar River.

Floodway systems would limit or prohibit construction in the flood plains to reduce flood damage.

Proposed regional water and sewer systems for Farmville and Greenville would be a money and water saving device, according to the study, which also indicates the proposed Chicod Creek and Tranters Creek Designated Public Fishing Streams to which the State would assure access, would be beneficial.

The study also indicates a proposed Tranters Creek Water Trail would be canoe navigable, while the proposed Chicod Creek-Chocowinity-Tranters-Tar Designated Conservation Area would be protected as a natural area.

Couple Weds In Raleigh Ceremony On Saturday

Many Factors Involved In The Value Of Possessions

RALEIGH — The marriage of Patsy Ann Tucker, formerly of Grimesland, and Samuel Dean Hawley of Raleigh, was solemnized in Trinity Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Godwin, pastor of the church. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Godwin. "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer" were the vocal selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd O. Tucker of Grimesland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hawley of Dunn.

The church was decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums, pom poms and carnations. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of peau de chine with lace etched on the bodice and repeated on the long tapered sleeves and full length cathedral train.

She wore a walking length veil of silk illusion and carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses and miniature carnations. A corsage of pink roses was lifted from the bouquet for the bride to wear on her wedding trip.

Mrs. William Spivey of Aulander, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of blue chiffon over taffeta with a jewel neckline, puffed sleeves and flowing skirt. Her headpiece was of white ribbon with streamers. She carried a cascade of mixed flowers tied with pink and white ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Frances Lynn Townsend of New Bern, cousin of the bride, and Miss Jan Spivey of Aulander, niece of the bride. They wore gowns identical to the honor attendant and carried identical bouquets.

William Hawley of Raleigh, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were William Spivey of Aulander, brother-in-law of the bride, and Owen Spivey of Aulander and Raleigh, nephew of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Winterville High School and Pitt Technical Institute. She is employed by Naval Recruiting Service, Raleigh. The bridegroom is a graduate of Dunn High School and attended ECU. He is employed by the State of North Carolina.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of rose crepe with long tapered sleeves, jewel neckline and A-line skirt. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal length gown of blue crepe with a V-neckline and full skirt. Both mothers wore white miniature carnation corsages.

The grandmother of the bridegroom was remembered with a white carnation corsage.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. J. R. Hodges Jr. and Mrs. Leo Tucker of Grimesland, aunts of the bride.

After the wedding, a reception was given by the parents of the bride in the fellowship hall.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and the corners of the cloth were adorned with wedding bells tied with pink tulle and ribbon. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink and red roses flanked by silver candelabra holding pink candles. On the register was a silver candelabra holding pink candles and an arrangement of pink and red roses.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of the three tiered wedding cake, it was served by Mrs. William Hawley, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Miss Dorothy Robinson poured punch.

Others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. James Rodgers of Norfolk, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stancill of Greenville, Mrs. Robert Carver of Williamston and Mrs. William Basnight of Greenville.

On Saturday morning, a wedding breakfast was given for the bridal party and guests at the Plantation Inn by Mrs. Charles Townsend, Mrs. James Rodgers, Mrs. Robert Stancill and Mrs. Leo Tucker. The bride presented her attendants with gifts.

After the rehearsal Friday night, the bridegroom entertained the wedding party, relatives and out-of-town guests at the Royal Villa.

For a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., the bride changed into a blue ensemble.

The couple will reside in Raleigh.

You don't want to sell grandpa's marine paintings for a pittance, but it might pay you to unload some of that Oriental art you may have bought on your travels.

The problem may be trying to sort treasures from trifles, one reason so many "discoveries" are made at tag sales.

So says an expert, Timothy C. Tetlow, who was director for six years of one of the Parke Bernet auction galleries in New York. In the few years he has been in business making appraisals for corporations and individuals, he has been amazed at how little people know about the value of things they own and how they might sell them.

"One can also learn where things bring higher prices. Victorian furniture might be sold in the South, Chicago or the Midwest for three or four times what it might bring in the Northeast. A small Victorian love seat could bring $500 if sold in the right place," Tetlow says.

"In New York and some areas of the South, French and Italian furniture brings good prices. In the West — Phoenix is a big center — there is a big market for Western art. Remington bronzes bring top prices. And Boston may be a good place to sell marine paintings," he explained.

An item isn't necessarily good because it is old, he cautions, nor does it need to be old to be good. Although a lot of Duncan Phyfe furniture was mass produced, much of it is choice. And it is worth finding out about your Oriental rug before you discard it. Even a threadbare 50-year-old Oriental rug may have value, he advises.

In appraising a doctor's collection of Oriental things, Tetlow found some Chinese rugs from the 1920s. On pink fields rather than the more widely seen blue, the semi-antique rugs were $200 about six years ago, but are now in the $800 category, he said. He gets a great many inquiries about Oriental rugs and he knows from the inquiries that "most people don't know what an Oriental rug is."

It is also difficult for the average person to assess Oriental art, he explained, especially Islamic, Cambodian and Thai art.

"People traveling to the Far East are tempted to buy art, but nine out of ten pieces might be bogus, especially bronzes and lacquered wood carvings, and pictures that are purported to be Tang. The average person wishing to choose Japanese prints should go to a specialist for advice," he says. "Choosing such prints can be complicated."

Good ivory is pale, almost translucent, rather than the brown-striated material used for goddesses, Buddhas, Indian elephants and other pieces that are literally mass produced. Some pieces might even be plastic, he warns.

"Jade also differs in quality. Soapstone, jadeite, nephrite, all look quite like jade."

In buying furniture always beware of excessive restoration, advises Tetlow, an expert on English furniture. And take a critical approach to the limited edition print market.

Tetlow always is happy when he can unveil a treasure for someone as he did recently when a couple asked him to look at several paintings at a garage sale. He found two good paintings, one by the American artist, Tyler.

One pleasant appraisal took place recently in Wisconsin, where a collection of beer steins which he assumed would be "a straightforward appraisal" turned out to be a hundred-thousand-dollar collection of 17th and 18th-century stoneware steins with pewter lids.

Anyone puzzled by acquisitions of uncertain value might contact the Appraisers Association in New York to find a qualified appraiser in their own area, Tetlow advises.

Friend Stands To Gain More Than Lose

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend Betty (fictitious name) was so beautiful a few years ago that when she walked down the streets heads would turn. She still has a beautiful face, but she must have gained about 50 pounds. Maybe 75.

Betty has tried Weight Watchers, Tops and Overeaters Anonymous but she never stayed with any of them. She's also been to doctors who have put her on special diets, pills, shots, etc. Nothing worked.

Yesterday Betty told me she went to a fantastic doctor who specializes in weight reduction.

He charged her $100 to weigh her, take her blood pressure and tell her he couldn't take her because she didn't weigh enough! He said he treats only extremely obese people, and she will have to gain at least 15 pounds before he can take her. Can you believe this?

So now Betty is eating up a storm so this doctor will take her. What do you make of this?

CYNICAL FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I think Betty is a compulsive overeater who has found the perfect excuse to continue eating for a while. And I can't believe that a legitimate physician would tell an obese person to gain weight to qualify for a weight-reduction program.

DEAR ABBY: I recently moved near Arlington Cemetery. A friend of mine, who lives in another town, asked me to please visit her nephew's grave in Arlington Cemetery and say a prayer for him. I told her I would be glad to, but here's the problem: Her nephew died in action and his body was never recovered.

My friend tells me that her nephew's grave has a headstone with his name and the usual information on it. Abby, can a headstone be on a grave without a body interred? I think it would be sheer hypocrisy to say a prayer for someone who isn't there. If you think I'm wrong, I'll visit his grave and say a prayer.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: If a serviceman's body has never been recovered, a memorial marker can be placed in a special, separate section of the cemetery. Visit the nephew's grave and say a prayer. You will be praying for his soul—not his body.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please straighten out the "John Smith Jr." and "John Smith II" confusion?

My wife wants to name our son after me, and she insists that he will be "John Smith II." I say he will be "John Smith Jr."

I know I'm right, but I don't know under what circumstances a child becomes "the II."

Can you help me?

JOHN SMITH

DEAR JOHN: A man with the identical name as his father is called "Jr." as long as his father is alive. He may drop the "Jr." after his father's death, or if he prefers, he may retain it to avoid being confused with his late father.

When a boy is named after his father who is a "Jr.," he is called "3rd." A boy who is named after his grandfather, uncle or cousin becomes "the 2nd."

There can only be one "Jr." in the family. And only one 2nd, 3rd, 4th, etc.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Shower Given Bride-Elect

Miss Claudia Jennings, bride-elect of Thomas E. Carawan Jr., was entertained at a bridal shower Saturday at the home of Mrs. C. Eugene Carawan.

The miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Carawan, aunt of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. Donald L. Howard, cousin of the bridegroom-elect.

The refreshment table was decorated with lavender flowers and yellow mums in silver epergnes.

Guests included Mrs. C. B. Jennings, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Thomas E. Carawan, mother of the bridegroom-elect, friends and relatives.

The honoree was remembered with gifts in her chosen china and silver patterns and other items.

Slide Program Given At Meet

Dr. Christine Helms and Dr. Marshall Helms presented a slide presentation of wildflowers at the September meeting of the Lake Ellsworth Garden Club.

The slides included wildflowers from the Helms' garden.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Judy Capello. Mrs. Terry Pike presented possibilities in helping landscape the new hospital grounds. It was decided to make a donation this fall and each year until landscaping is complete. Club members will also plant fall flowers at the Lake Ellsworth entrance.

Mrs. Becky Fowler discussed the upcoming fall flea market which will be held Oct. 15.

Mrs. Nan Garrett, vice president, presented Mrs. Capello a ficus plant. She is moving to Raleigh.

Mrs. Fowler was hostess for the meeting.

U.S. Steel Industry's News Not Encouraging

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP.

News from the steel industry these days is hardly encouraging, including red ink, dividend cuts, overcapacity, depressed prices, and a flood of imports. No immediate improvement is likely, but some actions could take place over the near to intermediate term which would considerably brighten the longer term outlook.

The United States has been a net importer of steel for nearly 20 years. Steel imports reached record levels this year and now account for 16 percent of all steel mill products. The foreign producers' practice of price discounting increases their market share and exerts downward pressure on domestic steel prices. Lower operating rates and profitability result.

The cost advantage once enjoyed by foreign producers is shrinking, yet price discounting continues. Relative to production costs, steel prices are very low and must rise if future shortages are to be avoided. Import quotas are obviously one solution, but actions of the steel industry itself could have a more meaningful impact on future profitability.

Already, steel companies have reacted to lower prices by delaying plant expansions and closing older facilities. The closing of marginally profitable plants or those which cannot economically meet environmental regulations could reduce industry capacity by 20 percent. Some of this will be replaced by plants currently under construction, but overall capacity could decline 5-10 percent in the next five years.

Reduced capacity would give foreign producers a greater market share, but the domestic industry would have more power in setting prices. The elimination of inefficient plants would result in higher utilization rates for remaining facilities. Profitability would improve as unit costs decline, and return on investment would rise. The resulting higher cash flow could additionally mean further development of natural resource reserves or diversification into related metal and mining businesses. These moves would reduce the industry's dependence on cyclical economic forces, reduce capital spending requirements, and improve profitability.

Capacity additions are financed through corporate earnings or borrowed capital. As earnings decline, capital spending is reduced and the use of borrowed capital is discouraged. As long as profits are in a downtrend and prices fail to reflect replacement value, no capacity additions are likely. With no new capacity currently being planned, steel shortages and a sellers market could develop in the early 1980's. The lack of new capacity, and a possible further reduction of capacity as plants reach retirement age, could lengthen the sellers market cycle.

The villain obviously is depressed price levels. Reduced capacity over the intermediate term would mean higher prices, but only when selling prices begin to realistically reflect replacement costs will new capacity be added to prevent future shortages.

In the past, the relationship of steel stock prices to book value was not very meaningful since foreign producers had a production cost advantage. That advantage has narrowed considerably. If steel prices rise to reflect replacement costs, then replacement values will become a more important determinant of steel stock prices. Since steel stocks presently sell at a fraction of book value, which is only a fraction of replacement cost, there could be considerable

Very Hard Work In Building The Canal

By TOM FENTON
BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — Edward Powell, 91, says digging the Panama Canal "was very, very hard work. We had malaria and we worked night and day sometimes."

Powell is one of 665 living West Indian migrants who came to Panama between 1904 and 1914 to work on construction gangs building the waterway across the 40-mile-wide isthmus.

"Sure, I built the canal. I used a shovel and I did everything," Powell said. "Most times I would come home and sleep for only an hour. It was very, very hard work we did, but I can't complain."

Upside price potential in steel stocks.

"I had many friends who died and God has spared my life. God has extended his hand over me and I am grateful to him for what He has done," Powell said.

Powell, supported by a cane and dressed in a decades-old Panama suit and safari hat, made the comments in an interview after a ceremony in Balboa honoring the surviving construction workers. Some 300 workers attended.

The ceremony marked the 63rd anniversary of the waterway and saluted the workers ranging in age from 80 to 103, as "recognized canal diggers."

Powell said he came to Panama from Jamaica with his father and an uncle in 1905 after an earthquake caused widespread damage in his homeland.

years, worked first as a messenger in Gorgas Hospital among thousands of canal workers sick with malaria and yellow fever.

"It was terrible," Thomas said, fingering the new bronze medal with the "Canal Digger" inscription given to all who attended the ceremony, "but this is my home. I don't know anything else. And I like it. Eliseo Cortes, 102, brought another canal pin with him to the ceremony and kept taking it out of his pocket to show those seated near him.

"Look, look," he said, pointing to the medal, which read: "Golden Anniversary, Canal Construction Workers."

"I don't remember exactly what I did," Cortes said, "but I handed out tickets, and locked up tools. I came from Costa Rica."

Need Equitable Distribution

North Carolina's natural gas outlook for this winter seems to be no better than last winter. That was the outlook some experts gave in a panel discussion before the N. C. Associated Press News Council meeting at Atlantic Beach recently. William Hill, vice president sales for the N. C. Natural Gas Corp., said suppliers already know that the supply this year will be similar to last years. Last winter was one of the coldest and natural gas was cut off to many firms in North Carolina. Hugh Wells, of the State Utilities Commission staff, cited a "lousy job in regulating the natural gas supply" by the Federal Power Commission. Some industries already see layoffs ahead in view of the natural gas situation. Some blame the State Utilities Commission for not spreading the cost of high-priced emergency gas among all customers. It is a confusing situation, but North Carolina doesn't really have to stand by another year and see jobs eliminated because of the gas shortage. It is known that many states got along fairly well with the gas supply during the cold winter and gas was being pumped right by our state for distribution to populous northeastern states. Our congressmen, our governor and the State Utilities Commission can begin demanding now that there be a more equitable distribution of natural gas this year. It is one thing to see that homes are heated in cold weather, but it is still another to keep industries further north humming all winter while North Carolina's close down.

Deserved Honor Of Democratic Party

"I've been a Democrat all my life," Mrs. J. B. Spilman told a recent interviewer. She's been more than that. She has been a mainstay of the North Carolina Democratic Party. Mrs. Spilman was recognized for her contributions to the party when she was presented the first "N. C. Democrat of the Year Award". She wasn't at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D. C. but Gov. Hunt called to tell her of the honor. It will be presented personally by Rep. Walter Jones.

No one could deserve the honor more and we are proud that Mrs. Spilman is so much a part of Greenville and Pitt County.

Studies On Major Issues

By BILL NOBLITT
(Second of Two Articles)
RALEIGH — From public school patrons to hunters and fishermen in the fields and streams Tar Heel citizens will be greatly affected by interim studies carried out by the North Carolina General Assembly in coming months. A total of 38 studies are scheduled, most by legislative study committees, but a handful by state agencies or boards.

Twenty-four of the studies will be under direct control of the Legislative Research Commission, a small but powerful group of lawmakers which will control the funds spent on the studies, membership on the study groups, and the final product.

Funds for research work and meetings are critical to whether a study group can produce a report with impact. Those activities outside the Legislative Research Commission umbrella are already budgeted for this work. The others must hold one meeting, submit a budget, and hope for the money to do the work.

Why Study
There are a host of circumstances which lead to study commissions: a pet project is in danger of defeat, so the sponsors go for a study to keep it alive; a potentially explosive issue needs time for public debate; a complex subject needs digesting by legislators.

An effort to strengthen the state's open meeting laws and impose criminal sanctions for violations ran into stiff opposition in the last session. A study commission will report to the assembly next spring on effectiveness of the current law, and recommendations for policies governing meetings of all governmental bodies.

The conflict between wildlife lovers with different interests are to be resolved by an effort to "consolidate and modernize the laws while harmonizing the conflicting interests" in a report to the Legislature due Feb. 1, 1979. Thorough revision of the State Parks system is also due for 1979 consideration.

Regional Councils of Government, labeled by some as interfering "third levels" of government between local and state, are the subject of a study for the 1979 session, as is a look at a system for collecting local property taxes on motor vehicles. A commission will study the state's health care system and the spiraling cost of Medicaid to recommend "medical cost containment" approaches; and another will probe the system of care for mental illness, retardation, alcoholism, etc.

The Topics

Studies by state agencies or boards include a look at public school funding with attention to equal opportunity for all regardless of location; administrative costs versus the classroom; pupil-teacher ratios, etc. Also, the personnel system in the university system, infant mortality, life-line rates for electricity and natural gas. Horse racing and pari-mutuel betting got some attention in the last assembly session, and a study committee will come back next year to push that subject. Repeal of manufacturing inventory taxes won some support; more will be sought through another study. Do the schools need $5.9 million to hire 860 school attendance counselors? That is the subject of a study. Will the new laws stripping the insurance commissioner of rate-setting authority work? A study is supposed to answer that, and suggest further revision.

Are public school teachers and other school employees paid enough? A study will look into that question, along with the question of whether administrative and clerical personnel are receiving too much of the school money.

Bicycles, a Sea World show on the coast, older citizens, commercial fishermen, credit and interest laws, building codes, duties of the lieutenant governor, water resources, role of physicians' assistants, a sports arena, aid to students in private colleges, and community colleges round out the list of study subjects.

The South Is Seething

WASHINGTON—My Southern friends are furious for what the Northern Liberal Establishment Press has done to one of their own, the Honorable Bert Lance. Bert Lance is a good ole' boy, and anything he did was just to help his friends. That's the way we do things down here. "Of course," I said. "I only wish Northern bankers cared as much about their friends. You ask for a loan up here and the first thing they want to know is if you have any collateral. They're mean as hell when it comes to parting with a dollar. I wish I had an account at the Calhoun National Bank." "Don't soft-soap me,"

Scarlet said. "You Northerners were dying to get something on one of our men-folk. When you couldn't find anything, you brought up a lot of stuff about Bert depositing his bank's money in other banks in exchange for loans and using his plane for political trips and mismanaging his own money. That's all you could get on him." "But Scarlet," I protested, "the people have a right to know who is in charge of the U.S. budget. If Bert couldn't run his banks, how could he run the finances of the country?" "Bert comes from one of the best families in the South, and so does his wife, La Belle. That should have been good enough for you."

"Ordinarily it would be. But when the man closest to the President is having personal financial problems, it makes some people nervous." "That's because you don't understand anything about the South. If a man is liked down here, and Bert is loved, you don't pry into his personal affairs. It just isn't done."

"Scarlet, I know the Southern way is the best way, and I wish everyone accepted a man for what he is, and not for what he's done. But Jimmy Carter ran on a campaign against cronyism and promised high standards of morality. It just so happens that his handling of the Bert Lance affair seems to contradict his campaign rhetoric. If Bert Lance came from Massachusetts, the press would treat him the same way."

"I don't believe it. You burned down Atlanta once, and you'd like to do it again." "I wish you wouldn't take the Bert Lance thing personally, Scarlet. I'm sure Bert is the salt of the earth. I wish he had been my banker. I wouldn't be wallowing in debt now." "I know you're not going to believe this, but when I wrote out a check on the Riggs Bank

Britons Mourn Victor

By DON MCNICOLL
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britons mourned today for Victor, the giraffe who died for love, and the Glasgow museum proposed stuffing him so it could put him on display. The 18-foot-tall animal died the splits at Marwell Park Zoo Thursday night while trying to mate one of his three wives and couldn't get back on his feet. After 125 hours reclining and the loss of 500 of his 2,000 pounds, he was hoisted to his feet in a canvas sling Tuesday but started gasping and died minutes after the workmen lowered him for a rest.

Victor's death was watched by more than 200 spectators, many of them weeping, and made front-page headlines in the British papers. His plight attracted much foreign attention also, and his owner got more than 1,000 telegrams suggesting how to get him back on all fours.

THE INSIDE REPORT

A Chill From The KGB

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Operating along lines laid down by the Kremlin's top spy, the Soviet KGB last year propositioned an Estonian nationalist with a $500,000 inducement to establish a fraudulent front for enticing anti-Russian Estonians into the human rights movement — for exposure and imprisonment.

The entrapment offer to 44-year-old Erlik Udam puts into hard action the chilling anti-dissident harangues of top Soviet officials, including Yuri Andropov — a power in the ruling Soviet Politburo and head of the Soviet KGB.

As though making a virtue out of the huge financial offer secretly made to Udam by his agents in Tallin, Estonia, in the spring of 1976, Andropov himself delivered perhaps the harshest attack against the dissident movement early this month. With Andropov speaking in Moscow's Bolshoi Theater, party leader Leonid Brezhnev and other top Soviet officials were listening.

"Dissidence has become a kind of profession," Andropov said, "which is generously paid with foreign currency and other tips, which in essence is little different from the way imperialist services pay their agents."

The speech, marking the 100th anniversary of the birth of Felix Dzerzhinsky, notorious founder of the Soviet secret police, was ominous. It was the Kremlin's clearest warning that the October Belgrade conference (to check compliance with the 1975 Helsinki agreements) will do nothing to halt Moscow's attack on the dissident movement.

The KGB's approach to Udam — news of which was smuggled out of Estonia — is a classic attempt to subvert an anti-Soviet nationalist with promised riches. It reads like a spy thriller.

Udam uncovered and removed a hidden "bugging device" in the electric meter box outside his Tallin apartment in March, 1975. He was summoned to KGB headquarters and interrogated about a missing "civil defense device" — in fact, the bug.

The investigation, under command of a KGB major, ended with this offer to Udam: give back the bug in return for immunity in a KGB investigation of the Estonian nationalist movement, of which he was a secret member. Udam accepted that offer, then rejected a KGB bid to become an under-

TRY ANOTHER DOOR
Psychologists experimenting with rats report that if they confront a rat with two closed doors and put food behind one of them, the rat will eventually learn to push open the same door each time and ignore the other door. If, however, the food is put behind this other door, the rat becomes completely confused. He will continue to push open the first door again and again until he becomes so frustrated that he cannot be made to open either door.

Inattention To Big Problems

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — While activity has picked up in so many areas of life after Labor Day, a good deal of drift, of inattention to big problems, is evident in the economy.

It isn't so much aimless drifting so much as it seems to be a lack of determination to do much of anything fast, such as with the energy problem. And so the business pages have a repetitive look, like something we read last year.

Almost nobody expects the economy to pick up much vigor for the rest of the year. At best, those who try to foretell say we might expect a further slowdown, although nothing alarming. Nothing seems to alarm any more.

Many of the important elements of the economy exemplify the ennui, the lack of expectations, and perhaps a bit of fear. Steel is in trouble. The stock market is sinking. Unemployment is stuck around 7 per cent. The steel people are showing they aren't crying wolf — that to their way of thinking they're unable to meet all the costs of pollution abatement while simultaneously competing with subsidized foreign imports.

For the first seven months of 1977, imports of steel amounted to 9.632 million tons, an increase of more than 2 million tons over the comparable 1976 period. Only 75 per cent of capacity is being used, compared to more than 80 per cent for industry in general.

Facilities at Lackawanna, N.Y., and Youngstown, Ohio, are being closed, resulting in the losses of many thousand jobs, and when drastic action of that sort is taken you may be suspicious that more is being considered.

Some members of the industry have taken to newspaper advertisements to argue their case, to seek relief from imports and perhaps environmental regulations too. They admit they are in retreat.

The atmosphere recalls the days when railroads were arguing that they were being regulated out of business, a contention that was met then by countercharges of mismanagement, some of which turned out to be very true.

The problems of the steel industry are also connected with capital spending, or the lack of it. Companies must be able to raise money in the stock market, it is said, or else the whole capitalistic system will be undermined.

And that brings up incentives, or the elimination of disincentives, such as the double taxation of dividends (at the corporation and personal levels). But when? And will the new income tax structure being planned permit more liberal depreciation and lower capital gains taxes?

Nobody can say at the moment, any more than they can tell what the "prudent man" rule of ERISA, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, is all about. This too is related to steel and Washington, and related also to the stock market's drift.

The prudent man rule warns fiduciaries involved with pension funds that their investment performance will be judged on the prudence they use. But if it knew, Congress didn't define prudence.

Therefore, most portfolio managers interpret it as an insistence on safety rather than an encouragement to take a degree of risk in order to achieve greater growth and thereby more liberal pensions for members.

Safety is anathema to the stock market. Risk is what makes it move, and the big pension fund managers aren't taking many risks, not when they might be judged imprudent for doing so. And the market drifts.

Some say the drift factor is almost solely a product of Washington, a consequence of attempting to dictate from on high to an economy whose life and activity is more effectively guided by the forces and opportunities that rise up out of the marketplace.

Whatever the problems have been there for a long time and not a lot has been done to deal with them, and according to some exasperated critics we can't expect much to be done about them for a while yet.

That was only the beginning. A year later, buoyed by the Helsinki accords, the dissident movement was gathering steam. The KGB major summoned Udam to three long conversations on April 4, 11 and 14, each in a different location. His proposition: that Udam become (in Udam's words) "a prominent dissident and organize a dissident group."

"He offered me money for organizational expenses," Udam says. "On April 4 the sum he quoted to me was between 200,000 and 500,000 rubles (around half a million dollars)." The Udam dissident group would then offer foreign correspondents "information" — actually only information supplied by the KGB.

Udam said no such dissident group could possibly work and that he himself would risk quick exposure. Instead, testing KGB reactions, he proposed a Helsinki "monitoring" group. These groups, set up by dissidents after the Helsinki conference, have become a top KGB target. Many prominent "monitors," such as Moscow's Yuri Orlov, are now in jail.

When Udam proposed a monitoring group "in conjunction with Finland," the KGB said there was "no sense in bringing the Finns into the plan." Instead, Udam "must deal with the Americans. They have the money for dissidents" and it would be Udam's job to talk American backers out of that money. He was offered 50 percent of anything he got.

In the end, Udam said no. He refused to recommend anyone else for what he called "such a gross deception." The KGB has not contacted him since.

Adding to the credibility of this chilling story, London Financial Times reporter David Satter had his briefcase stolen last February while riding the Riga-Tallin train. Taken by the KGB, it is known here, was a notebook containing Udam's name. Udam's own account smuggled from Estonia tells of that event and states that the KGB boasted it was their "personal achievement" that Satter never was able to contact Udam in 1976.

Planting agents provocateurs amidst dissidents and Helsinki monitors is nothing new. The outrageous charge of treason against scientist Anatoli Scharansky seems to have resulted from a letter in Izvestia denouncing him by Alexander Lipansky, another "dissident" who may be an undercover KGB man.

Moscow has made minimal internal human rights improvements to ward off attacks at Belgrade: some emigration or dissidents, early jail release of 13 Russian Baptists, permitting sale of 29,000 American paperbacks (in English). But behind these cosmetic improvements, the real work is unimpeded: expose and destroy the civil rights movement, the dissidents and the brave souls have believe in Helsinki.

Some Big Payoffs For FBI Informers

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — By financial standards, Informer No. 505 was a real go-getter.

No. 505 earned $11,100 from the FBI in 1973 and a total of $46,383 over seven years ending in 1976.

What did the FBI get from No. 505? To warrant the payments? "Approximately 55 leaflets and pamphlets regarding Socialist Workers Party activities, approximately 36 SWP newsletters," financial statements, membership lists and schedules of party activities.

On the other hand, Informer No. 28 apparently told the FBI hardly anything it wanted to know about the small Trotskyite political party. No. 28 received only a single $5-payment in 1966.

Those details emerged from FBI documents made public Tuesday by the Political Rights Defense Fund, which is financing the party's multimillion-dollar lawsuit accusing the FBI of illegal harassment and disruption of legitimate political activities.

During the course of the four-year lawsuit, lawyers asked the FBI for details about money paid to informers to spy on the party. The FBI was required to provide the information in a procedure which allowed the informers to be designated by code numbers to protect their identities.

The documents show that the FBI paid more than $1.6 million during a 16-year period to 301 informers who joined the party or its affiliate, the Young Socialist Alliance, as a way of gaining more information about party activities.

The bureau has acknowledged having 309 informers who were members of one group or the other, and the documents show that all but eight of them were paid.

The FBI has acknowledged that more than 1,000 other informers spied on the party without joining it. The bureau has remained silent about money paid to those informers.

Informer No. 505, according to the documents, was the highest-paid of the list of 301 informers and earned the most in a single year. No. 505's annual earnings from the bureau began with about $3,500 in 1970, the year he began working, and rose to the high of $11,100 in 1973. His earnings dropped to $2,800 last year.

The records show that the other informers usually were paid from $2,000 to $5,000 annually for several years. All of the payments were in cash.

Other FBI files, released in the course of the lawsuit, have described bureau efforts to encourage informers to sow dissension among party members, stir up factional disputes and use a variety of tactics to disrupt party activities.

After investigating the party for 38 years, the FBI last September closed the case to comply with new Justice Department guidelines restricting intelligence-gathering activities against domestic political organizations.

Only one federal charge was brought against party members as a result of party activities during the 38-year investigation. That was an indictment of 18 party leaders in 1940 for violating certain sections of the anti-subversive Smith Act.

Those sections later were ruled unconstitutional.

Eight ASCS Directors Abruptly Transferred

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state's eight district directors of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) have been reassigned — most of them to offices at opposite ends of the state from their present homes.

Seven of the eight were hired during national Republican administrations. The reassignments were ordered by Clarence P. Stewart, newly designated executive director of the service and a Democrat. He denies any political motivation in the moves.

"It's to give them a broader scope...of what farm programs we have," Stewart is quoted as saying in "Under the Dome" in today's editions of the News and Observer of Raleigh.

Stewart's predecessor, Todd Reece, now executive director of the N.C. Republican party, labeled the transfers as "political harassment."

James Rouse of the ASCS office in Columbia, which is in Tyrrel County near Albemarle Sound, is being transferred to Franklin in the mountains of western North Carolina. Jerry Scott, a former GOP congressional candidate, is being transferred from Whiteville to Old Fort.

Others being transferred are: Max H. Cornwell from Ahsokie to Shelby; Alfred Willcuts from Bolivia to Greensboro; Robert L. Hicks from Durham to Troy; Ned C. Huncy from Albemarle to Nashville; Carroll W. Wilkie from Fletcher to Vanceboro; and Lee R. Briggs from Mars Hill to Edenton.

"They're trying to force resignations," Reece charged. "It's political harassment."

"After The Fall, he became a nation's hero," the Daily Express said. "He died for love of a woman. Or rather, great-hearted creature and father of 18 calves that he was, he died for love of three women."

"His final, tragic moments as his mighty frame lay stricken and his own dumb tears rolled from under his yard-brush eyelashes, filled us with pity for him. Because the whole country rose to him, and to the grandeur of his fight for life."

The Daily Mirror commented: "Who on the right side of sanity could have envisaged a lump rising in the nation's throat over a giraffe? Who but the British could actually see their stiff upper lips trembling over an unknown beast?"

"Yet daily they bombarded our telephone switchboard and those of the British Broadcasting Corporation ... begging for news — and hoping it would be good... Victor made a whole nation pause in its stride."

A post-mortem by veterinarians of the Ministry of Agriculture will determine the cause of death. John Knowles, owner of the zoo 70 miles southwest of London, said the animal apparently died of shock.

Normally Victor would be cremated, but officials of the Glasgow City Museum asked for the body so it could be stuffed and put on exhibit. Knowles said he was willing, but the Ministry of Agriculture would have to approve.

Stewart said, "It's more economical to relocate them. It's in the interests of economy and the overall reorganization plan."

Offer Courses In Snow Hill

SNOW HILL — The Greene County Unit of Lenoir Community College has planned a group of special interest course classes, either day or night, for men and women interested in business skills in the areas of bookkeeping, filing, notehand, and machines.

The classes include introduction to some of the most-used machines in office, school and other places — projectors, recorders, filmstrip viewers, duplicating machines, typewriters, transcribers, and calculators. The course is not designed to make a student expert but are to familiarize students in their use.

The classes will be scheduled when sufficient interest has been shown to justify setting up a schedule.

Persons who are interested should either visit the office at South Greene School in Snow Hill or call the unit at 747-2451.

Key Witness

Is Re-Located

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The prosecution has located one of its key witnesses in a 1973 murder trial which must be tried over again by order of the state Supreme Court.

Paula Rogers has been located and has said she would testify again at the trial of Kelly Dean Sparks, convicted four years ago of first-degree murder in the slaying of Gibsonville Police Chief George L. Lashley.

The high court said the jury in the first trial got improper instructions.

"Well, now that you've got Lance, who else from the South are you going to go after?" Scarlet wanted to know.

"Nobody, Scarlet. I swear it. The Civil War is over so far as we're concerned. We Yankees are forgiving people."

"You're not going to get anyone from Georgia to believe that after what you did to Bert and La Belle."

"Will it help any, Scarlet, if I say I'm sorry?"

"Frankly," she replied, "I don't give a damn."

Club To Share In UF Drive

Jerry Powell, chairman of the Pitt County United Fund campaign, announced that the Pilot Club of Greenville will be in charge of the Retired Citizens Division of the fund drive again this year.

Mrs. Juanita McCarthy, who served as the club's chairman for the Retired Citizens project last year, will again coordinate the division activities in the upcoming fund drive, it was announced by Mrs. Kay Whitehurst, Pilot Club president.

"With Mrs. McCarthy's leadership and with the assistance of members of the Pilot Club, I am sure the Retired Citizens Division will have a successful solicitation effort," Powell noted. He said that the club members "have done an outstanding job in the past and I'm certain they will do it again this year."

Commenting on the organization's role in the campaign, Mrs. McCarthy pointed out, "The Pilot Club is an international service organization for business and executive women. Our purpose is to offer friendship and service through our many local, state and international projects."

The chairman added, "We are pleased to be a part of the work of the United Fund again this year and strive to help obtain its goal to benefit the many worthwhile agencies funded in Pitt County."

Mrs. McCarthy, who is serving this year as the club's corresponding secretary, is also the organization's advisor to the Rose High School Anchor Club, a service club of high school girls that is organized and sponsored by the Pilot Club.

She is presently executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

Mrs. Whitehurst described the project chairman as a "public spirited person" and said that "whatever she (Mrs. McCarthy) takes on, she does well."

The president said that the decision to involve Mrs. McCarthy in the project is a "good decision on our part and on the part of the fund drive also."

The Retired Citizens project for the United Fund is an activity that the Pilot Club's executive board voted on, Mrs. Whitehurst explained, and "our members said they were interested in it. We do believe in it and support the project."

The thrust of club activities, she added, is full citizenship for the handicapped with particular emphasis and interest in working to help those who have convulsive disorders.

The club is dedicated to full community service, Mrs. Whitehurst said, with activities touching many areas, including education, health, safety and beautification.

Investigate Plants Theft

Greenville Police today are continuing their investigation into the theft of a number of potted plants and other items from four apartments at the Green Mill Run complex yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the plants and other items were taken from porches.

Allen Wayne Ferguson of apartment 113 reported an elephant ear plant valued at $15, was taken from his dwelling, while Sharon Vanhoy Lewis of apartment 212 reported a bridal veil fern, a palm tree and a schefflera, valued at $100, were taken from her porch.

Grady Ferguson of apartment 312 reported $30 worth of plants, including a philodendron, two asparagus ferns and a Moses-in-the-cradle, were taken from his residence, while Lisa Batten of apartment 119 reported two bean bag chairs and two ferns were stolen from her porch.

It Takes 9 For A Party

PUTNAM STATION, N.Y. (AP) — Forming a political party in this town near the northern tip of Lake George is as easy as getting up a sandlot baseball team. All that's needed under law are nine registered voters.

Some years it's more and other years less, depending on the number who voted in the previous election.

This year, the law is being put to use.

The Republican caucus said "no Moore" to Frank Moore, town supervisor for 32 years, so Moore formed the People's party to back his candidacy in the Nov. 8 election.

Kevin Hart, who already had formed the Independent party to run for supervisor, also got Moore's spot on the Republican ticket.

Lloyd Slater had formed the Sunshine party to run for supervisor, too, but decided to drop out. Slater's wife, Margaret, picked up the party's nomination for supervisor.

Norman Nadeau heads the Democratic ticket in this heavily Republican town of 579 residents, but he's also the candidate of the Citizen Rights party, which he formed "to appeal to Republicans."

Reading Trophy Is Won VEPCO Rated 67th In By Wahl-Coates Pupils Operating Performance

Wahl-Coates School has received a trophy as the top achiever among Greenville City schools in a reading program conducted by Sheppard Memorial Library this past summer.

The program, which culminated as the result of efforts by the Wahl-Coates Reading Committee, was coordinated by the Children's Library of the city library system.

The competitive reading program was designed to stimulate summer reading by Greenville school children in the elementary schools. As the school with the highest achievement rate, Wahl-Coates had a total of 35 children, ranging from kindergartners through sixth graders, to qualify for individual recognition.

Carter, Tonya Carter, and John Ward.

Also, Macon Smith, Kenneth Pearson, Shelley Lucht, Jennifer Lucht, Suzi Ambert, Sheila Pearson, Pat Kavanaugh, Andy Edwards, Brett Cannon, Jane Brooks, Kristine Ambert, Carol Ambert, Anne Marie Ambert, Lovette Lang, Chris Marks, Julie Mayberry, and Tim Mayberry.

Lily Weaver, media specialist at Wahl-Coates, and Anna Thomas, a classroom teacher at Wahl-Coates, headed the program efforts in conjunction with the library sponsorship.

By KEITH MILLS Reflector Staff Writer Virginia Power and Electric Company (VEPCO), which serves Greenville, Winterville and Ayden, is ranked 67th in operating performance among the top 100 largest utilities in the country, according to the trade journal "Electric Light and Power."

Duke Power is ranked first with the lowest heat rate—the amount of heat required to generate a kilowatt-hour of energy—and Carolina Power and Light (CP&L) is ranked 28th.

The ratings, released by the journal in a memorandum to the Greenville Utilities Commission, were revealed Tuesday during the monthly meeting of the commissioners.

"During 1976 Duke used 14 million tons of coal and about 58 thousand barrels of oil, whereas VEPCO used 5.8 million tons of coal and 25.1 'million' barrels of oil," the report said.

During the same period, CP&L and Duke generated about 21 percent of their power from nuclear sources while VEPCO averaged about 18.2 percent nuclear generation. Also, Duke averaged about 11 percent generation from hydro and pumped storage sources while VEPCO averaged about 3.8 percent.

The report noted that Duke's load factor, a relation to maximum generating capacity, was 64.6 percent, CP&L's 60.9 percent and VEPCO's was 58.5 percent. The load factor sharply affects the overall cost of operations.

"The telling feature of this comparison is simply that VEPCO with a poor load factor is still greatly dependent on fuel oil, whereas Duke and CP&L with relatively high load factors have the greater part of their generation from coal, a cheaper fuel at the present time," the report said. "Until VEPCO shifts more to nuclear or converts some of its oil fired plants back to coal, the cost per kilowatt-hour of generation on the VEPCO system will continue to be higher than Duke's or CP&L's."

Football Traffic Routes Will Be Same As In Past

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that traffic going to and from East Carolina University home football games will be routed into and out of Ficklen parking areas the same this year as in the past.

Although traffic will be routed into and out of the stadium as it was last year — with members of the Greenville Police Department and North Carolina State Highway Patrolmen stationed at strategic points in the area of the stadium — Cannon said parking will be handled this year by ECU policemen and employees of a private security service hired by the university.

Greenville officers, in past years, have handled parking as well as traffic in the area of the stadium.

Cannon said that in the event of rain, the North parking lot at the stadium will not be used. If it rains, he said, vehicles will be directed to other parking facilities in the area of the stadium and not allowed to park in the North lot.

The chief emphasized that,

"any cars parked in no parking zones will be towed," at the owner's expense. He noted that vehicles parked in restricted areas hamper the flow of traffic and create hazardous conditions for other motorists.

Cannon said 14th Street from Elm to Charles Streets will be closed to through traffic from 6 p.m. until game time for night games and from about 12:30 p.m. until game time for day games. The street will also be closed to through traffic after each game until the stadium traffic has cleared.

According to the chief, members of the Century Club should approach the stadium using Rosewood Drive. From there, the official said, Century Club members will be directed to the Century Club parking area.

Cannon cautioned motorists to drive carefully and observe all traffic rules.

He said drivers should be alert and avoid "tailgating" in the heavy traffic.

Most accidents in heavy traffic, Cannon said, are rear-end collisions caused by drivers following the car ahead too closely.

The police official said all motorists should be courteous and not force the right of way, but instead, should yield to other motorists.

FOOTBALL TRAFFIC ... Football fans driving to East Carolina University home games in Ficklen Stadium should follow the traffic pattern outlined in the map above while moving into parking areas at the stadium. Vehicles will re-trace their steps when leaving the athletic facility parking areas after the games are over. The traffic pattern this year is the same as in the past few years.

Tests Needed Before Surgery

Isn't it a waste of hospital space and a waste of time and money for the patient to be brought into the hospital for a few days before an operation? I went in for a gall bladder operation and it wasn't done until three days after. — Mr. G. B. E., Iowa.

Dear Mr. E.: I can't speculate why there was a delay before surgery in your particular case. I can, however, tell you that in most instances there are very sound reasons for a preliminary workup.

The prime factor is safety. For simple operations, most patients are admitted the day before and sometimes on the very day of surgery. Even in these simple cases, the demands of the American College of Surgeons, the governing body of surgery practiced in America, insists that every patient have at least an examination of the blood and urine prior to surgery. In more complicated cases, a whole battery of tests may be required. X-rays of the chest, electrocardiograms, blood chemistries, specialized X-rays, and other highly technical studies may be necessary.

Blood typing and blood grouping are done in anticipation of the possibility of transfusion. The need for blood of an unusual type may delay the time of surgery.

No, it is not a waste of time to bring the patient in earlier. The anesthesiologist is given a greater opportunity to study the patient and make important decisions about the type of anesthesia that will be given.

An extra day or two in the hospital gives the staff an unhurried opportunity to plan for the patient's greater safety and comfort.

Whenever I get upset and nervous, I get lightheaded and sometimes even dizzy. I don't know what causes this, but I get scared. — Mrs. M.M., Ind.

Dear Mrs. M.: It is not uncommon for people who are under stress to take deep, sighing breaths. Dizziness, lightheadedness and even tingling sensations in the hands and feet can occur.

Too rapid breathing or over-breathing upset the balance between oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs. This produces a similar imbalance in the blood stream, which then affects the brain.

If these episodes continue, you and your doctor should pursue them to find a possible underlying cause.

How's The Weather?

FORECAST

Until Thursday

WEATHER FORECAST — Warmer weather is forecast today for most of the nation. Cool weather is expected to continue in the Northeast and in most of the West. Scattered areas of rain are due in the Northwest, Southwest and Plains, Florida and New England. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A slow moving cold front entered North Carolina Tuesday and this morning it eased along toward the coast. It brought cooler overnight temperatures for this first day of fall. Asheville's low reading this morning was 59, as was Greensboro's. Raleigh had a low of 63 and at Charlotte the low was 64. Rocky Mount had 66, Fayetteville 68 and Goldsboro 69.

erally were in the 80s, although New Bern and Wilmington had a high of 91. Fayetteville warmed to an 89 and Elizabeth City was 87. Widely scattered thunderstorms occurred over the coastal areas Tuesday with heavy rain, accompanied by lightning, visiting the Oregon Inlet area of the Outer Banks. Pleasant weather with daytime temperatures in the 70s to mid 80s is expected to prevail through Thursday. Low readings tonight will range from the 50s in the west to the low to mid 70s in the east.

Ask the average person what comes to mind when pollution is discussed and he will probably mention factories belching huge clouds of black smoke or chemicals being poured via drainpipes into local streams. More than likely, he will not say anything about open fields damaging the environment, as is the case in Pitt County.

This form of pollution, called a non-point source of pollution, is more of a threat to local residents than is the more obvious form, point source of pollution, according to Jacob Crandall of the Greenville Soil Conservation Service. "A non-point source of pollution is simply a source of some polluting material — including sediment, or mud — that cannot be traced to a specific point," said Crandall.

"The drainpipe below an industrial plant, where industrial chemicals may pour into a stream or ditch, is a point source."

Crandall said that in the case of open fields whose fertilizer washes into streams, it is difficult if not impossible to trace the pollutant back to the correct farm.

"It's difficult to say what part of the field — or even which field — the pollutant comes from," he added.

"That's why it's called a non-point source of pollution."

However, the pollution problem is a national one, and local efforts to correct it are partially the result of federal legislation.

Congress has enacted Public Law 92-500, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act amendments of 1972, which is administered by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The law states that the United States is committed to a "broad and comprehensive area-wide control of all sources of water pollution."

The act sets July 1, 1983 as the interim goal for attaining water quality.

According to Crandall, the act requires states to include in their water quality management plan a process to identify non-point sources of pollution and to set up methods for controlling them.

Crandall said that Section 208 of Public Law 92-500 deals specifically with point and non-point pollution. The N.C. Soil and Water Conservation Commission which is in charge of preparing the agricultural part of the 208 plan, as it is referred to, has designated an Agricultural Planning Group. The group includes the efforts of the USDA-Soil Conservation Service and the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service.

The latter two agencies are involved in controlling pollution locally.

"The Soil Conservation Service is responsible for planning a program that will reduce the amount of sediment reaching our streams to an acceptable level," said Crandall.

Part of the job will be to determine best management practices to protect the land and water source.

"Best management practices are proven conservation practices that farmers, in many cases, have been using for decades."

The first plan for North Carolina is due on the same date as other states — Nov. 1, 1978.

"Most people do not believe the entire problem will be solved a year and a half from now, but they do want to make a start," Crandall added.

Ingram Inquiry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state attorney general's office says it is reopening its probe of reports that a friend of state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram offered to use his influence to help five insurance companies get licensed in North Carolina.

Howard Bloom, a Roanoke Rapids businessman and friend of Ingram's, has denied he made any such offers.

Lowe's Opening Set Tomorrow

Grand opening activities will get underway Thursday morning at the new Lowe's of Greenville, located at 2728 S. Memorial Drive.

Jack Gerock, manager of the new Greenville facility, said that Lowe's, a building supplies and appliance retailer, operates 176 stores in 16 Southeastern and Mid-Atlantic states.

Gerock reported that grand opening hours will be from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday and from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Normal operating hours at the new store will be from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from 7:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Fridays, and from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

The Greenville store, the manager said, has some 10,000 square feet of sales floor space and over 12,000 square feet of warehouse space. In addition, he added, there are storage sheds at the new facility and convenient store front parking for customers.

Among the items available at Lowe's, according to Gerock, are appliances, televisions, lawn mowers, light fixtures, and supplies for the home-fixer including lumber, plywood, plumbing, paneling, carpeting and paint selections.

Gerock, a native of Wilmington, comes to Greenville from High Point where he served as manager of the company's store.

He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington where he earned a B.A. degree in business.

The manager is a Mason and holds memberships in Orient Lodge No. 395 A.F. and A.M. in Wilmington, and York Rite Bodies. He is also a Shriner with membership in the Sudan Temple.

Gerock is married to the former Carol Neal of Wilmington and they have a son and a daughter.

Terry Allen will serve as assistant manager at the Greenville store, according to Gerock, while Jerry Goodman will handle office and credit manager duties, Larry Chappel will serve as warehouse manager, and Jeff Parent will have responsibilities as consumer sales manager.

The manager related that

Lowe's had its start in 1921 as North Wilkesboro Hardware. In 1952, it was explained, Carl Buchan, who married the daughter of the original founder, L. S. Lowe, assumed the sole operation of the two-store company. Buchan died in 1960 at the age of 43.

A four-man executive management team now runs the company, Gerock pointed out.

Lowe's was named Building Supply Retailer of the Year in June by Building Supply News magazine in recognition of the company's excellence in the retailing field.

Students On Dean's List

One hundred and fifty-two students made the Summer Dean's List at Lenoir Community College, Dean Thomas M. Benton said.

The college transfer group included Jennings Pulley and Sarah Sugg of Greenville, Eller Latham, Richard Batchelor and Cynthia Brown of Grifton, Albert Arthur Jr. of Snow Hill, and Jimmy Braxton of Vanceboro.

The Technical Division roll was as follows: Harry Hart of Ayden, Marlene Jones of Grifton, Elizabeth Joyner and Henry Holloman of Farmville, Faye Coley of Snow Hill, and Sandra McCandless of Vanceboro.

On the Vocational Division roster were: Sheila Jones of Ayden, Maria Clemmons, Dennis Foss, Debra Moore, Yvonne Moore, and Linwood Outlaw, all of Grifton; Jennie Dildy, Henry Elliott, Connie Joyner and John Suggs, all of Snow Hill.

Emphasis Put On Good Story

WINTER PARK, Fla. (UPI) — Each morning a lean man with a graying beard runs along a stretch of dirt road lined with moss-draped oaks and wild peacocks.
 Wyatt jogs out of the neighborhoods and onto Genius Drive, a tranquil oasis in the middle of Winter Park. But Wyatt isn't running for the scenery. He's building his energy high enough to write. After running six miles, Wyatt returns to his little white house, churns out 555 sit-ups and starts lifting weights. He mildly calls it a "fanatic workout."

 When it is done, Wyatt gets down to the sedentary business of writing. He is a storyteller, working between five and 10 hours a day putting words together.

 West Haven Properties Inc. to Tommie L. Little & Assoc. Inc. 8.00

His first book, a comic novel entitled "Catching Fire," has received favorable reviews in newspapers around the country and he's well into his second novel, "God's Dog."
 Wyatt is also a teacher, at Florida Technological University in Orlando. He teaches English but also developed one of the country's first courses on death and dying and has a new course called "Killing Time."

Wyatt himself had a little time to kill this summer, because he wasn't teaching, and decided to take a trip to West Texas before fall classes start.
 Before leaving, he said he was going "to do a little research in red neck bars" for his new book and maybe get in a few fights.
 "One always chances in West Texas bars getting beat up," he said.

As a teacher, he's concerned with the reading habits of a generation of kids who grew up glued to the television set.
 "They don't read much and they don't read very well. They are unaccustomed to reading. They do not bring much of themselves to a book. A book is an act of sustained imagination in the creating of it and an act of sustained imagination in the reading of it."

 He says the students are "accustomed to being passive before their entertainment."
 "It's the difference between making love and watching someone undress in a window."
 But, he says, readers are out there. "There are intelligent readers around. There are people who love good writing."
 He thinks more than just good writing has to go into a novel.
 "I think a lot of contemporary literature is going to die. It has lost sight of the necessity to tell us a good story."
 Wyatt poses himself a question he asks students in his death and dying course: if he had only six months to live, what would he do with the rest of his life?
 "I'd try to finish the book I'm on," he said without hesitation.

Has Time To Enjoy Clocks

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph E. Martines loves clocks.

"I can't think of any other field that has inspired more ingenuity, innovation and inventive genius than the making of timepieces," Martines says.

Beginning with a small boy's typical interest — and disaster — Martines came to be not only a clock fancier but a repairman, collector and dealer in antique pieces. He also distributes a newsletter to 500 other collectors.

"I like to think that in most cases I don't sell a clock, I 'place' it," Martines says. "A lot of people these days can afford fine old clocks but really don't appreciate them. I like to know that the people I do business with thoroughly appreciate and will give a good home to the clocks they purchase."

He was about 12 when curiosity about the family alarm clock caused it to explode in his hands. "I didn't know you had to take the tension off the spring before you disassembled the movement," he recalls.

He was just looking and admiring when he began exploring antique shops, because he had no money. "But as time went on, purely by long observation, I began to recognize the good from the bad, the jewels from the junk. You automatically begin to note detail in glass, furniture and clocks and differentiate the unusual from the usual."

His wife, Peggy, was responsible for his acquiring one of his noteworthy items, an elegant grandfather's clock priced at $700. He was a Cleveland school teacher at the time and put off looking at it in the shop because he knew he might fall in love with it despite the lack of money.

At last he put down $50 without the foggiest notion where he would get the rest but knowing that he would somehow. Ultimately he sold one of their two cars to pay for it.

"That's pretty much the philosophy you have to follow to acquire things you simply can't

Naomi Wise Fell Victim Of Foul Play

By Dr. H. G. JONES, Curator North Carolina Collection CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Naomi Wise must have been the happiest young woman in Randolph County when she climbed up on Jonathan Lewis's horse that evening in 1808.

At last the ugly rumors of Jonathan's unfaithfulness would be laid to rest, and her child would be born in wedlock.

It was later in the evening, after dark, that a Mrs. Davis, who lived several miles down Deep River near the present town of Randleman, heard a series of loud screams from the direction of the river ford.

They were unmistakably the cries of a woman in distress.

Mrs. Davis and her sons, carrying torches, rushed to the ford. Hearing a horse galloping off on the opposite side of the river but seeing nothing, they returned to the house, puzzled by the incident.

Meanwhile, William Adams and his wife worried all night about the disappearance of their foster daughter.

The next morning, finding the empty pail and hoof prints at the spring, they called upon their neighbors who joined in tracking the horse. Along the way, they met Mrs. Davis who told of the occurrence the night before.

Almost without hesitation the disappearance of Naomi and the screams in the dark were connected, and foul play was

U.S. Singer Hit In Vienna

VIENNA (AP) — An American singer who grew up in Pennsylvania, yodeling country and Western songs, now entertains Viennese in Gioacchino Rossini's seldom-heard classical comic opera, "La Gazzetta."

Carlo Thomas, 33, from New York City, was raised in Montrose, Pa. After graduating from East Stroudsburg High School he did a stint on Broadway, moved to the West Coast and got a few small parts with the San Francisco Opera and larger ones with its touring branch, the Western Opera Theater Co.

At the U.S. Spoleto Festival at Charleston he played Narumov in "Pique Dame" before landing as Don Pomponio on the stage of the Schoenbrunner Schlosstheater here. It is his first big role in Europe.

He and three other Americans are mainstays of the Wiener Kammeroper's (Viennese chamber opera) production of "La Gazzetta" in the Schoenbrunner Schlosstheater, close to the former summer residence of the Hapsburgs, the Schoenbrunn palace.

The other American singers, Marilyn Brustadt and Mary Burgett, were described by critics as experienced coloratura singers, and James Tyeska received favorable mention.

Thomas was hailed as having "a magnificent voice" and a "wonderful stage presence."

SEE LITTLE IMPACT

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Officials at R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc. say the nation of Kuwait's decision to nationalize a Reynolds-owned oil company is "not expected to have any significant adverse effect on earnings."

suspected. A brief search in the shallow river yielded the awful truth: Naomi Wise had been drowned. Her dress had been tied above her head, telltale proof of murder.

All suspicions centered on Jonathan Lewis, and a search was begun. Late that night, after tracing his route all day, the searchers found him at the home of Stephen Huzza, sitting before the fireplace holding Martha Huzza in his lap.

While Jonathan was awaiting trial, he escaped from the "shackley frame jail" in Ashboro and disappeared.

Though unavenged, the murder of Naomi Wise was not forgotten in Randolph County, and the song "Poor Naomi" (or "Omi Wise") spread far beyond the county's borders.

Nearly seven years later, word was received in Randolph that Jonathan Lewis had settled in Kentucky. Determined to bring Lewis to justice, Sheriff Isaac Lane deputized Col. Joshua Craven and George Swearingain, and the three set out for Kentucky. There they hired two hunters to lure and capture the strong escapee.

Lewis was returned to Ashboro and again jailed. This time great care was taken to prevent an escape. But Lewis's lawyers exploited the obvious emotionalism of the community and succeeded in having the trial moved to Guilford County.

At Greensboro the state made a good but circumstantial case. There had been no eyewitnesses, and after seven years memories were sometimes confused and conflicting. The jury acquitted Lewis, who rushed back to his Kentucky home.

He never seemed the same after the trial, and his last years were spent in sadness.

On his deathbed Lewis confessed his crime to his father. On the pretext of taking her to a magistrate, he had lured Naomi away to drown her without trace so he could marry Hettie Elliott.

In the middle of Deep River, he grabbed her by the throat, and it was at that point that Mrs. Davis heard the blood-curdling screams.

The couple fell from the horse into the river, and with brute strength Jonathan held the struggling girl in the water until all resistance ended. Seeing the flares in the dis-ance, he spurred his horse up the opposite bank and hurried off.

Had Naomi Wise lived a normal life, she might never have been heard of beyond Randolph County. Her name, however, is now memorialized around the world by the song which begins:

"Come all ye good people, I'd have you draw near,

A sorrowful story you quickly shall hear;

A story I'll tell you about N'omi Wise,

How she was deluded by Lewis's lies."

Cold Deters Infestation

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Cereal and other dried foods that aren't used routinely should be stored in a freezer to prevent invasion by kitchen pests such as small beetles.

The problem often increases in warm weather.

Bob Roselle, extension entomologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says most such beetles come from dried food products in cabinets, especially those that aren't used rapidly.

"Although the adults may be meandering around on cabinets and in cupboards," the larvae are probably feeding in a hideaway somewhere nearby," he said.

The only way to control the beetles is to find and discard the infested products. Freezing kills the beetles and prevents others from developing.

International Monetary Fund Needs More Money

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the industrialized world makes it through its current set of economic problems, a lot of the credit will go to the International Monetary Fund, which holds its annual meeting here next week.

The IMF, with the encouragement of the United States, is acquiring steadily growing influence and authority over the world economy. Even major nations like Great Britain and Italy have had to knuckle under at times to IMF directives.

The leverage of the IMF results from the big increase in world oil prices, which has left many nations of the world starved for funds to pay their bills, including the charge for oil.

The United States and a few other wealthy nations have seen to it that the IMF has sufficient money to help these countries, but the help is usually given with strings attached, which is the way the United States wants it done.

Both Italy and Great Britain, which received major loans from the IMF in the past year — Britain, $4 billion, Italy, $500 million — first had to agree after lengthy negotiations to take painful measures to control inflation and wages.

Although there are 131 nations in the IMF, it really is a few powerful ones, notably the United States, West Germany and Japan, who call the shots. Those who can afford to give help are the ones who can dictate the terms of that help, through the IMF.

There is one other nation that also can afford to give substantial help — oil-rich Saudi Arabia. Until the big 1973 increase in oil prices, it was an also-ran among the members, but it is now being considered for a seat all to itself on the IMF board of directors, a privilege only a few nations enjoy.

The United States and Saudi Arabia are the two chief contributors to a special new IMF fund of $10 billion for loans to member nations that need special financial help. The Carter administration formally asked Congress this week to approve the U.S. share of $1.7 billion. Saudi Arabia is putting up $2.5

billion. The United States contributes about 20 per cent of the regular financing of the IMF, which means it also has 20 per cent of the voting power, sufficient for a veto over major decisions.

The chief function of the IMF currently is to recycle money from the countries that have it to those who don't and who are unable to borrow it from traditional international lenders, such as banks.

Many banks have come close to the limit of the amount of money they feel they can safely lend to countries that give no indication of soon being in a position to repay it. Besides Italy and Great Britain, these countries have included Zaire, Peru, Argentina, and Mexico, all of which have received IMF help in the past year or so.

IMF loans are supposed to make it possible for a country to avoid bankruptcy and economic collapse by keeping up payments on its debts, while also continuing to buy the oil and other essential needs of its economy. The conditions attached to these loans are intended to correct the imbalances in the economy that give rise to the debt in the first place.

At least the United States hopes it will work that way.

Unfortunately, for some poor nations, the IMF-prescribed conditions may force them to become even poorer.

It also is evident to all concerned that the IMF will need a lot more money, on top of the billions it already has spent, if it is to succeed.

Member nations are currently approving new quotas, or contributions, to add about $11.2 billion to regular IMF financing facilities, bringing the total to $45 billion, and discussions have begun on another round of quota increases.

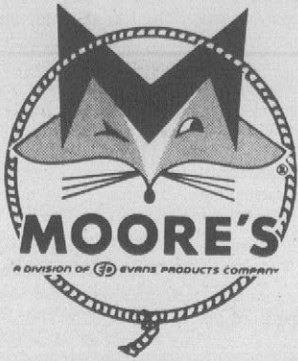

As long as the oil-exporting nations continue to run surpluses of the magnitude of the $40 billion surplus they will have with other nations this year, the need for international financing for the debtor nations will continue unabated.

Carter And Lance Nearing Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and his longtime friend Bert Lance reportedly are nearing a decision on whether Lance will keep his job as head of the Office of Management and Budget.

Carter scheduled a news conference today and there were indications that some sort of decision on the Lance affair would be forthcoming, although Press Secretary Jody Powell discouraged speculation Tuesday that an announcement would be made.

Lance played doubles tennis with Carter as his teammate Tuesday and the former Georgia banker was described by an aide that night as saying he has "no intention of resigning."

But there were two developments Tuesday that appeared to erode Lance's position. —Senate Majority Leader

Robert Byrd of West Virginia, who visited Carter on Monday night, was believed to have urged the President for the second time to let Lance go.

—The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee released new testimony by a government lawyer, indicating that Lance actively sought to clear his record with federal bank examiners.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Times quoted White House aides in today's editions as saying Carter had left it up to Lance to decide whether he should resign, but both were weighing the politics of the situation.

Powell said Tuesday that Carter would not be swayed by public opinion about his old friend and the Los Angeles Times said one senior White House aide had heard Carter telling Lance during a Monday meeting: "Bert, come back and let me know what you think."

The newspaper said one Carter aide pictured the President as anxious to hold the press conference, despite the certainty of a flood of Lance questions, and quoted the aide as saying: "He said he's tired of hiding and wants to get on with it."

Byrd revealed his Monday meeting with Carter, but refused to say what the two had discussed. Before Lance's testimony to the Governmental Affairs Committee last week, Byrd had said Lance's resignation was inevitable.

But on Tuesday he refused to

An average of $126.49 per hundred pounds was recorded Tuesday on the Greenville Tobacco Market as 698,394 pounds sold for $883,385, according to J. N. Bryan, local sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade.

Bryan said that good, clean tobacco was purchased by the buying companies yesterday for as much as $1.50 to $1.60 per pound.

Stabilization receipts accounted for 4.76 per cent of total sales.

Offerings consisted of leaf, cutters, lugs, primings and non-descript tobacco, he said, with an increase noted in non-descript.

For the season, the market has sold 28,347,559 pounds for $33,422,892, an average of $117.90 per hundred pounds.

Herrin said of Carlton, who heads the state department which includes the Highway Patrol, National Guard, Alcohol Law Enforcement, Civil Preparedness, Civil Air Patrol and the Governor's Crime Commission, "we feel very fortunate in securing such an outstanding speaker for this special meeting."

More than 200 persons are expected to attend the 6:15 p.m. session at the American Legion Building.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring the banquet and will attend with the law enforcement officers.

 "The automatic refund provisions of our new deposit policy appear to be working well," he reported. "During the past fiscal year, approximately 10,770 customer deposit refunds were made."

"Our greatest difficulty is getting 'old' customers to come in and pick up their deposits, dating back a number of years," he said. "We will make another major drive this fall to refund as much of the old deposit accounts as we can properly identify and locate."

Howell said 'old' customers—those with deposits several years old and with a good pay history—who have not done so, should stop by the utilities office and pick up their refunds, which range from $2 to $250.

Concerning sewer rates, the board voted to reduce water service charges from $6.50 to $1.50 per billing for non-users, persons not connected to the sewer system where service is available.

The current sewer rate schedule says water customers not connected to available sewer mains will be billed for sewer charges as if they were connected. The $1.50 charge is the minimum monthly bill for all users, regardless of water volume use or sewerage discharge.

In another resolution, the Commission accepted a grant offer from the North Carolina Department of Natural Resources and Community Development totaling $10,293.

The funds, allocated under the Clean Water Fund, will aid in conducting a sewer system evaluation survey.

The Commission tabled a request from Tom Taft, local attorney, calling for a 3,500 foot sewer system extension from Ellis worth Drive to University Medical Park. The project would cost an estimated $80,000.

In other action, the Commission approved a change in its yearly bank rotation schedule.

The Bank of North Carolina informed the board that it would not be able to provide monthly reconciliation of the bank statement as scheduled for 1978. Therefore, the commissioners voted to place their regular operating account with First State Bank, which was scheduled to provide services during 1979.

According to the motion, the Bank of North Carolina will assume the responsibility in 1979.

Other activities included a review of the audit report for fiscal year 1976-77.

According to John C. Proctor and Co., certified public accountants, "the balance sheet, statement of changes in financial position and

Probe Theft Of Hunting Dogs

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating the recent theft of five hunting dogs from a pen near Ballard's Crossroads on Highway 264 west of Greenville.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the hunting hounds, owned by C. R. Shelton, were reported stolen from the dog pen, located near the Little Contentment Creek bridge on 264, on Sept. 16.

Sheriff Tyson said that the owner reported that the dogs were valued at $725.

He said the description of the dogs included a black, brown and white Walker hound, a lemon, white and reddish colored hound, a black and tan, black, brown and white, and a reddish colored hound.

How-deee! This is Minnie Pearl. You know, school days are long past for most of us. But, not the Dexol guy. He still goes to special training sessions sponsored by his company.

He's the only one in the whole LP-gas industry with a program like this. That's where he learns the fine points of home heating, safety, and all those motor fuel agricultural and commercial applications.

Morris: Team Is Improving

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Ayden-Grifton tailback Terry Morris believes the Chargers can win the Eastern Carolina Conference championship if they can turn things around in a hurry.

"I think we've gotten off to a kind of slow start, but I'm expecting a big improvement," the 5-10½, 185-pounder said. "I think we're going to bounce back."

The Chargers are currently 1-2, having won their first game under new coach Dixon Sauls, but dropping the next two. Last week, Washington scored a fourth-quarter TD and added a two-point conversion to down the Chargers 14-7.

But Morris is not discouraged. He said a number of young players on the team have had to learn about high school competition first-hand and it has taken time for them to come around. He added, however, that practice sessions have shown "we seem to be learning from our losses."

"I believe we can win the conference championship," he added. "We've got as good a chance as any."

Morris is a three-year starter for the Charger football team and he also plays basketball. "I like both games fairly well," he said, "I guess if I had to make a decision, I'd have to say I like football a little better, but I'm very fond of both of them."

The physical and mental challenges of football are what Mor-

This week, it's for keeps. For the past few Friday nights, the area Eastern Carolina Conference high schools have been launching their 1977 seasons with non-conference contests. But all that changes this week as all four schools — Ayden-Grifton, D. H. Conley, Farmville Central and North Pitt — go up against league competition. And in the end, it's the league encounters that will decide which team represents the ECC in the state 3-A playoffs.

Last week's action saw three come-from-behind wins in the three contests involving area ECC teams. Farmville Central came up with the only victory when it staked Havelock to a 16-0 lead and then roared back to win, 25-16.

Ayden-Grifton trailed Washington by a 6-0 score and then went ahead in the fourth quarter to lead 7-6. The Chargers allowed the Pam-Pack a final TD, however, and lost, 14-7. The week's other loser was North Pitt, which built up a 12-0 lead against Zebulon only to see it fade away to a 16-12 loss. D. H. Conley had an open date last Friday.

This week, the Jaguars have the toughest assignment, as they host unbeaten Greene Central. The Panthers will entertain C. B. Aycock, while the Chargers take on winless Southern Nash in home game. Conley will be on the road this Friday, traveling to unbeaten North Lenoir.

Farmville Central Despite the fact the the Jaguar offense made some mistakes against Havelock, coach Gene Brewer was pleased with the team's ability to overcome these and win the game.

Farmville Central fumbled twice in the first half to set up both Havelock touchdowns. However, in the second half, the offense improved and the defense got stronger to enable the Jaguars to gain the victory.

Brewer praised the entire Jaguar defense for its job during the game, singling out Phillip Gordon, Walter Blow, Scott Evans and Ronald and Donald Reid.

On offense, Brewer said his backs ran well, except for the fumbles. Rufus Mayo and Donald Freeman were cited for their play in the Jaguar backfield, while Len Hunt and Jeff Tyson blocked well up front, Brewer said.

Greene Central, this week's foe, is unbeaten, but that doesn't especially worry Brewer because the Rams always play Farmville tough anyway.

"Greene Central has good quickness, good speed and two real good tailbacks," Brewer said. "They are strong on defense; they're quick and aggressive."

"It'll be a tough football game; it always is when we play them."

Ayden-Grifton

Ball control hampered the Chargers in their loss to Washington last week. In the first half, Ayden-Grifton ran only 11 plays and coach Dixon Sauls said, "It's difficult to score with such limited opportunities."

Penalties also hurt the Jaguar defense. A couple of key penalties helped the Pam Pack in a second-quarter scoring drive and an Ayden-Grifton drive in the second half was thwarted by a 15-yard holding penalty.

"Right now, we don't seem to be able to recover from a 15-yard penalty," Sauls said.

After the Chargers took a 7-6 lead in the game, Sauls said the team thought it could win. But, Washington quarterback Lentz Stowe teamed up with receiver Hale Stephenson to pull the game out for the Pam Pack.

Despite the loss, the Chargers showed some signs of improvement, Sauls said, especially in the linebacking area. Sauls said his offensive line blocked well, back Terry Morris ran well and linebacker Bernard Coley had "a good, solid ballgame."

Ayden-Grifton takes on Southern Nash this week and the Firebirds have been struggling, Sauls said. This is their first league game, however, and both teams will certainly be anxious to start off with a 1-0 conference slate.

"Southern Nash has changed offenses," Sauls said, switching from a wishbone to a veer. "We really don't know what to expect from them." In addition, the Chargers lost Scott Rinker, who injured his ankle in the Washington game.

North Pitt

The Panthers lost quarterback John Hunt in the second quarter of their game and it demoralized the entire team, according to coach Pat Smith. That enabled Zebulon to come back from a 12-0 deficit to a 16-12 victory.

"We didn't gain much yardage after (Hunt) got hurt," Smith said. Hunt cracked a bone in his left hand and the Panthers will know Wednesday whether he will be able to play in this week's game against C. B. Aycock.

Despite the Zebulon com-

C. B. Aycock boasts a "real outstanding running back" in Shelton Roberson, Smith said. The Panther coach expects a real good ballgame with the Falcons. The past three times the teams have met, Aycock has won in close games, Smith said.

"I don't think our guys will lay over and play dead" due to the loss of Hunt, who is a doubtful starter Friday, Smith said. He added that conditioning will play an important part in the game since both teams have limited reserve strength.

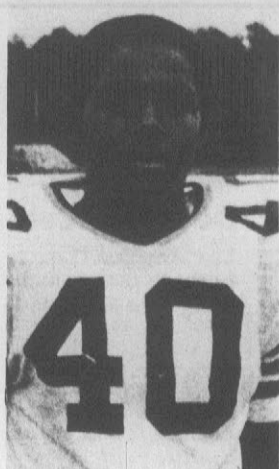

D. H. Conley

The Vikings have had plenty of time to prepare for North Lenoir with a week off. The time was also needed to get some of the team's wounded players back on their feet, coach Chuck Dunn said.

"We've been able to heal a few bodies," according to Dunn. "We're hoping Kenny Phillips is going to be able to play this week."

The Vikes have been working against the North Lenoir defense in practice since the Hawks "do a lot of moving around on defense," Dunn said.

"They're undefeated at this point and that gives them a lot of momentum and enthusiasm" coming into the game, Dunn said. "They're the quickest and best-hitting team we've faced. We're looking for a tough, physical ballgame."

Barrier: Bucs 'Never' In ACC

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Smith Barrier, executive sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News, told the Greenville Sports Club that the word on East Carolina admission to the Atlantic Coast Conference is "Never!"

Barrier was the featured speaker at the second meeting of the club this fall.

He asked the group where East Carolina was athletically and what it could expect its future to be. Barrier then noted that in the Piedmont section of the state, that people, "even die-hard Carolina fans" were talking about East Carolina football.

"Twice in recent weeks, Skeeter Francis, assistant to the commissioner in the ACC, has been asked at civic club meetings when the ACC would admit East Carolina. He told them, 'Never! The ACC doesn't want someone who can beat them.'"

Barrier added that he had attempted to talk with UNC Athletic Director Bill Cobey about the new policy which will exclude East Carolina from the UNC schedule after 1981, but Cobey stuck by his standard statement on the matter. "Appalachian wants to play us," Barrier quoted Cobey as saying.

Magic Number Nine In AL West Division

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles are still alive. Just how well they are remains to be seen. While the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox were rained out Tuesday night, the Orioles came through with a 5-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays as Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 18th triumph and rookies Eddie Murray and Rich Dauer homered. "The magic number holds tonight," said Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League East, three games behind the Yankees but one-half game in front of Boston. "We're on our death bed but we're not dead yet," shouted outfielder Pat Kelly. With 11 games left for the Yankees and Orioles and 12 for the Red Sox, the magic number is nine for all concerned. Any combination of nine Yankee wins and Oriole or Red Sox losses will spell the end of the long, hot summer race. "It's up to the Yankees," said Palmer, who won his fifth consecutive decision. "If they win nine we're in trouble. Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the California Angels downed the Texas Rangers 5-2, the Chicago White Sox trounced the stumbling Oakland A's, who committed seven errors, 8-2, the Detroit Tigers edged the Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-1. Royals 4, Twins 2

George Brett hammered two solo homers and Hal McRae added a two-run shot while Paul Splittorff scattered seven hits for his sixth consecutive triumph. Kansas City leads Chicago by 10½ games and Texas by 11 and the Royals' magic number in the AL West is down to two.

Farmville In Win

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's girls' tennis team rolled to a 7-2 victory over Williamston yesterday. Farmville swept the singles events to insure the victory, then allowed Williamston two wins in the three doubles matches. The victory evened the Farmville record at 2-2 on the year. The Lady Jaguars return to action on Monday, traveling to Washington. Summary:

Diana Gordon (FC) defeated Lisa Robertson, 6-0, 6-3.
Courtney Lancaster (FC) defeated Kristi Rogerson, 6-2, 6-3.
Jill Johnson (FC) defeated Terri Hopkins, 4-6, 6-4.

Joyner Gets Ayden Title

AYDEN — Pat Joyner captured first place in the Ayden Golf and Country Club's Women's Club Championship tournament. Second place in the championship flight went to Nancy Anderson. In the first flight of the tournament, Bernice Moseby took first place. Second went to Joyce Sawyer. Peggy Byrum took the second flight, while Sue Harkrader was the runner-up.

KC's Brunson Reactivated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs reactivated wide receiver Larry Brunson today after cutting defensive back Chris Golub and running back Pat McNeil. Brunson was a contract hold-out. "Larry Brunson is a positive little guy who three years ago battled his way into the National Football League," said Coach Paul Wiggin. "We kind of missed not having him in the New England game. I'm not going to say we would have done any better or any worse if he had been there. But one of the reasons we like having him back is that he is a positive guy."

Dodger Clinch NL West

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have clinched the National League West title with a flourish, ending a race that never was. "We jumped ahead with a 22-4 record and never looked back," manager Tom Lasorda said after Tuesday night's pennant-clinching 3-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants. The Dodgers, second to the Cincinnati Reds by 10 games a year ago, dethroned baseball's defending champions with a combination of solid pitching and power hitting. Tommy John, 19-6, came within one out of pitching a shutout Tuesday night, before allowing the Giants a run and being saved by reliever Lance Rautzhan. Rick Monday's 14th homer — the Dodgers' 180th of the season — provided the margin of victory. "To beat out Cincinnati, a team that had won two World Series in a row, is a tremendous accomplishment," said Lasorda, who was drenched with champagne, shower water and ice cubes during the postgame celebration. "The Reds thought they guaranteed themselves another pennant when they got Tom Seaver," said Dodgers second baseman Davey Lopes. "Well, we may not be as good position by position, but collectively, we're the best team in baseball. "Until someone can prove differently, I'm going to keep feeling that way." The Philadelphia Phillies, on the verge of repeating as Eastern Division champs, will meet in the Dodgers in the NL playoffs opening in Los Angeles Oct. 4.

The Reds, who won behind Seaver's two-hit pitching at San Diego Tuesday night, are now 11½ games behind with 10 to play and never could get within striking distance of the pace-setting Dodgers. "The only thing I asked of them in spring training was that they believe in themselves as much as I believed in them," said Lasorda, who became the Dodgers' manager after Walter Alston retired last fall. "We never even thought about the Reds," third baseman Ron Cey said between slugs of champagne. "Once we had the lead, we felt all along that if we stayed healthy, we were going to win it."

"A lot of things had go right — and they did." Lasorda said, "This is my greatest thrill in 32 years of baseball."

Reds—Not This Year

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"The Reds are not going to win the World Series again," said Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder Reggie Smith. But the Dodgers might.

Los Angeles took the first — and perhaps biggest — step toward the world championship Tuesday night when they defeated the San Francisco Giants 3-1 and clinched the National League West Division pennant. The Dodgers are 11½ games ahead of Cincinnati with 10 to play.

"To beat out Cincinnati, a team that had won two World Series in a row, is a tremendous accomplishment and we did it as a team," said Dodgers rookie manager Tom Lasorda. "This is my greatest thrill in 32 years in baseball. These guys knew they were going to win from the day they finished spring training." Smith, a key performer for the Dodgers all year long, agreed.

"We took it from day one of the season," Smith said. "We won it wire-to-wire" — they led the division from April 16 on — "and not too many teams can say that, especially when they're in the same division with the world champs."

Tommy John, 19-6, who beat the Giants for the eighth time in nine lifetime decisions, carried a four-hitter into the ninth before giving up San Francisco's only run on a Jack Clark triple and a single by Gary Alexander. Lance Rautzhan came on to strike out Gary Thomasson and clinch the pennant.

"The only thing I asked of this team," said Lasorda, the favorite for NL Manager of the Year, "was to believe in themselves as much as I believe in them."

Rick Monday, whose two-run homer was the key blow in the game, was dumbfounded after the pennant-clinching. "I feel like a little kid right now," he said. "If anyone said this game doesn't excite you, they're crazy."

In other National League games, Cincinnati defeated San Diego 4-0, Philadelphia stopped Chicago 4-2, Pittsburgh beat New York 4-2 and Houston out-hit Atlanta 6-3. St. Louis's game at Montreal was rained out.

Reds 4, Padres 0

Tom Seaver, 19-6, fired a two-hitter and George Foster belted his 49th home run of the season, a two-run blast in the first inning. Don Werner also homered for the Reds.

Before the game, Padres president Buzzie Bavasi retired after a career in baseball that dated back to 1939.

Phillies 4, Cubs 2

The Phillies reduced their magic number for clinching the Eastern Division to four as Steve Carlton won his 22nd game and Tim McCarver, his personal catcher, drove in three runs.

Pirates 4, Mets 2
John Candelaria hurled a six-hitter for his 18th victory in 23 decisions this season and Bill Robinson knocked home Candelaria with the winning run in the eighth inning.

Astros 6, Braves 3

Joe Niekro won for the 10th time in his last 14 decisions for Houston. He gave up nine hits and struck out eight.

Cesar Cedeno went 3-for-4 to extend his hitting streak to 21 games. Cedeno scored the winning run in the sixth on Ed Herrmann's sacrifice fly.

Lady Pirates Win

East Carolina's Lady Pirates defeated Louisiana College last night, 3-1, in the opening volleyball match of the year for both teams.

The Lady Pirates lost the opening game in the match, 15-9, but came back to take the next three. East Carolina won the second match, 15-9, and took the third and fourth matches by close scores of 16-14 and 15-13.

Coach Alita Dillon was pleased with the Lady Pirates' opener, saying, "I thought we got good play from our freshmen as well as the veterans."

She singled out Kim Clayton for excellent setting, Rosie Thompson for good blocking and Debbie Freeman and Gale Kerbaugh for good hitting and blocking.

The Lady Pirates will return to action on Friday night with a pair of Division I encounters with North Carolina and Appalachian State at Chapel Hill.

Oklahoma Favored Over Ohio State

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For a preview of Saturday's Oklahoma-Ohio State game, we give you Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes addressing Monday's weekly media luncheon in Columbus:

"I would say it will be relatively high-scoring." And for another look at Saturday's Oklahoma-Ohio State game, we give you Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes addressing the Chicago Football Writers on Tuesday:

"Games like these usually don't turn out to be high-scoring."

So how's a fearless forecaster supposed to pick this one? Especially when there's no precedent, this being the first time third-ranked Oklahoma and fourth-ranked Ohio State have ever met on the football field.

Using the age-old formula, Oklahoma certainly wasn't up for Utah last week, even though the Sooners swamped the Utes 62-24. But next week — aha! — they have a Big Eight Conference meeting with Kansas. Cast one vote for Ohio State.

As for Ohio State, the Buckeyes certainly won't be looking ahead to Southern Methodist but — aha! — they had to be on their toes for last week's Big Ten meeting with Minnesota.

Cast one vote for Oklahoma. But that leaves us with a tie and that won't settle anything, will it?

Looking back over the last nine years, Ohio has lost only two regular-season games by more than seven points, both to Michigan, 24-12 in 1969 and 22-0 last year. Add No. 3 to the list ... Oklahoma 28-16.

Last week's record was 55 right — including the Upset Special, West Virginia over Maryland — 18 wrong and two ties for a .753 percentage. The count for the season dropped to 106-33-3...763.

While the Oklahoma-Ohio State clash has attracted tremendous coverage, there are some other big ones on Saturday's schedule, like No. 6 Texas A&M at No. 7 Texas Tech and No. 13 Florida at No. 12 Mississippi State.

Texas A&M at Texas Tech: The Aggies haven't been overly impressive in beating Kansas and Virginia Tech. They'll have to perform better if they hope to defeat Texas Tech in a key Southwest Conference tussle ... Texas A&M 30-24.

Florida at Mississippi State: This is Mississippi State's first outing since coming off NCAA probation and the shock might be too much for the Bulldogs ... Florida 24-20.

Texas Christian at Southern California: This mismatch pits the team with the nation's longest losing streak (TCU, 13) against the team with the nation's longest winning streak (USC, 13). Those numbers are unlucky for TCU ... Southern Cal 56-0.

Maryland at Penn State: Joe Paterno isn't ready to go overboard yet on his Penn State team. He also thinks Maryland was looking ahead when the Terps bowed to West Virginia last weekend. We remain unconvinced ... Penn State 21-14.

Navy at Michigan: Navy actually led last year's game 14-12 in the second period. Final score was Michigan 70-14. How about Michigan 95-30? Seriously ... Michigan 38-7.

Alabama at Vanderbilt: This is a logical spot for the Upset Special. Only thing is, 'Bama has won the last seven from Vandy by a combined score of 272-63 ... Alabama 28-14.

Notre Dame at Purdue: This, too, is a logical Upset Special, except that Notre Dame was already upset by Mississippi last week ... Notre Dame 23-8.

Baylor at Nebraska: Another upset possibility. Nebraska is coming off an Alabama high, but Baylor might be looking ahead to Houston ... Nebraska 20-13.

Washington State at Kansas: Who'll be looking ahead more, Washington State to Southern Cal or Kansas to Oklahoma? Washington State, it says here, and that means ... Kansas 27-21.

West Virginia at Kentucky: Having knocked off Maryland, the Mountaineers appear to be one of the season's surprise teams ... West Virginia 20-10.

UCLA at Minnesota: Minnesota won its only meeting with the Bruins, but that was in the 1962 Rose Bowl ... UCLA 28-14.

Army at Boston College: Just realized we haven't given you an Upset Special yet. This is going to be a wild passing duel between Army's Leamon Hall and BC's Ken Smith. And, in the Upset Special of the Week ... Army 40-38.

Rutgers at Princeton: Remember that 1869 classic which started all this college football madness? You don't? Okay ... Princeton 19-14.

Steelers, Raiders Have Score To Settle

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers and Oakland Raiders will settle out of court here Sunday.

Some not so solemn oaths may be sworn, and objections will be sustained or denied by the sound of popping helmets.

Yet the outcome should require less than the four hours a San Francisco jury needed to decide the last Raider-Steeler dispute, a landmark case that brought the slander suit into the pro football arsenal.

The differences are the product of past tangles, beginning with Steelers vs. Raiders, 1972, "The Case of the Immaculate Reception," and extending to Steelers vs. Raiders, 1976, which led to public disclosure of "Noll's NFL Criminals."

Fans at Three Rivers Stadium chanted "We want Oakland, we want Oakland" Monday night during the Steelers' 27-0 victory over San Francisco.

Undoubtedly, many of those same fans were at the stadium in 1972 when Franco Harris made a shoestring catch of a ricocheted pass and turned it into a 60-yard touchdown play that ousted the Raiders from the playoffs.

In 1973, Pittsburgh won 17-3 in Oakland, but the Steelers came home alleging Raider linemen had greased their jerseys and that semi-deflated balls had been sent from the sideline for Steeler field goal tries.

Later that season, Oakland pointed the accusatory finger, contending Steeler assistant coaches tried to use press passes to gain admittance to a Raider game for scouting purposes.

That same 1973 season ended for Pittsburgh with a 33-14 playoff loss in Oakland.

But the Steelers regrouped to beat the Raiders in both the 1974 and 1975 AFC title games, eventually winning Super Bowl titles both years.

It was after the 1975 encounter here that the Raiders suggested the Steelers might have allowed the field to freeze to throttle Oakland's passing game.

In that same game, Steelers receiver Lynn Swann received a concussion when belted in the Raider secondary.

ris likes most about the game. He said he enjoys getting the carry the ball as a tailback and that his biggest thrill in sports was returning a kickoff for a touchdown against North Pitt when he was a sophomore.

Morris likes writing poetry and songs in his spare time. He hopes to one day take piano lessons and learn to play the piano.

A collegiate and possible professional sports career are Morris' hopes for the future. He said he has received correspondence from a couple of colleges. He likes East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina.

Morris plans to major in business administration in college and enter the business world barring a professional sports career.

"North Carolina Central wants to play us. We don't feel that it is in our best interests to play in-state rivals every week."

Barrier added that he did feel that another conference would have a good chance of succeeding if it could get formed. "But the independent schools who will make it up have to stop thinking only about themselves first, and see what the common good is. Life as an independent is rough, both in motivation and in getting national attention. Only Notre Dame and Penn State continually are on top as independents."

Barrier praised the job done by East Carolina and especially that done by Coach Pat Dye. "You live on motivation and a good football coach has got to motivate his team. Pat did the darndest job of motivation I've ever seen during the first two weeks of this season."

The writer added that it was his job to write about the fun and games. "It's an important part of the paper, but we still have to get serious about it, because you people are serious about it. But I love this job. I'd rather go to a football game than anything else in the world."

"But when the game is over, you can just go home or go to a party or something. For guys like us, our work is just beginning. We still have a story or two to write," he said.

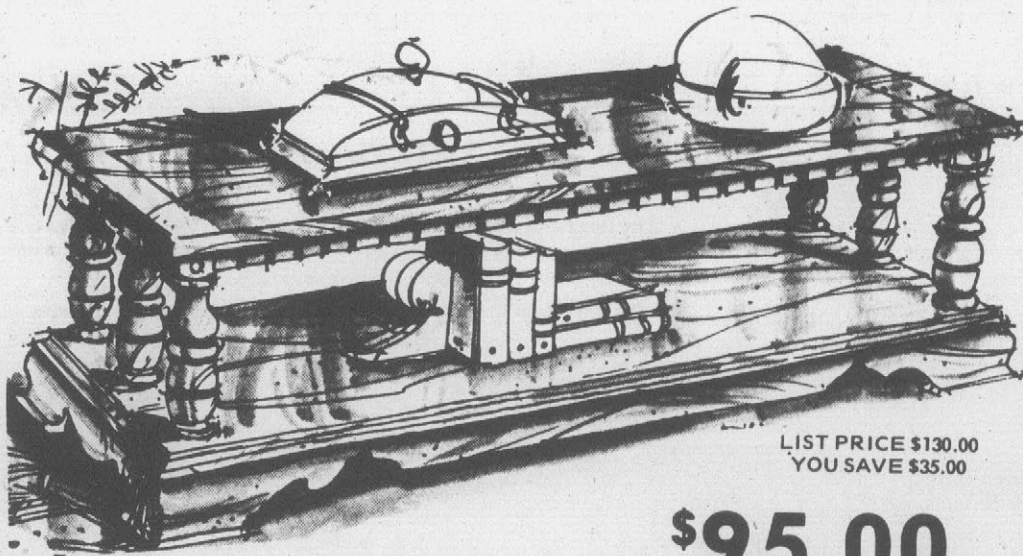

The next meeting of the club will be on October 4, when new ECU basketball coach Larry Gillman will be the speaker. Billy Paker, NBC television announcer, will be the speaker on October 18.

Elders May Find Value In Discounts

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Millions of senior citizens are learning that it sometimes pays to grow older.

They are taking advantage of discount programs offering older Americans up to 50 per cent off on products and services. The programs, most of which were begun in late 1975 or early 1976, are spreading across the country. They vary in organization and eligibility requirements, but they all have the same goal: to help senior citizens, particularly those on fixed incomes, save money.

One of the most ambitious efforts is Ohio's "Golden Buckeye Card." Joe Gall of the Ohio Commission on Aging said it is the only statewide program in the country.

The Golden Buckeye plan started in March 1976. Ohio residents 65 and over can apply for a card at any one of about 1,500 locations. Holders of the cards are then entitled to discounts on everything from auto repairs to groceries at participating merchants.

As of the beginning of September, Gall said, 517,465 persons had applied for cards and 17,178 merchants were participating. He said the state had started a campaign to reach shut-ins and others who normally would not hear about the program through organized senior citizens clubs or activities.

A nationwide discount program is available through the American Association of Retired Persons, a Washington-based group with 10.8 million members. Anyone 55 or over can join the group — you don't necessarily have to be retired. Members pay a $3 annual fee and receive discounts at nine national hotel and motel chains and two rent-a-car companies, Hertz and Avis. They also can take advantage of a pharmacy service providing home delivery of prescription drugs and medical items at low cost.

Information is available from the association at 1909 K St., Washington, D.C., 20049. (The association, in conjunction with the National Retired Teachers Association, also published a comprehensive "Retirement Information Guide," available from Fulfillment Section, NRTA-AARP, P.O. Box 2400, Long Beach, Calif., 90801.)

The federal government has many programs to help the elderly. They range from well-known, widespread plans like Social Security to more limited things like the Golden Age Passport, which entitles holders to free admission to national parks, monuments and recreation areas.

Information on the programs is available from federal departments involved, but individuals may find it easier to contact state or local agencies. A list of state agencies is available from the Administration on the Aging, Washington, D.I. 20201.

A list of some federal aids in the areas of jobs, food, medical services and income supplements is included in a fact sheet from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. For a free copy, write to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 671E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Urge Greater Uranium Use

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI) — A typical nuclear plant is fueled by more than seven million tiny uranium pellets, says The Babcock and Wilcox Company's nuclear division here. Each pellet, a bit larger than a pencil eraser, contains about as much energy as four barrels of oil.

A 1,000-megawatt nuclear plant, explains Melvin San-kovich, a manager in B and W's nuclear fuel department, could save the nation about 10 million barrels of oil annually and provide enough electricity to serve the yearly needs of 875,000 homes.

Since U.S. uranium reserves may equal the energy potential of about 245 billion barrels of oil, energy experts see the need for greater uranium use if the country is to avoid serious energy shortages during the next 30 years.

Hong Kong's Cops Learn From A Lady

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hong Kong cops are learning the ropes from a lady these days. Chief Supt. Hannah Calderwood, as commandant of the police training school, "passes out" more than 2,500 officers of both sexes each year. In holding the highest rank ever attained by a woman in the Royal Hong Kong police force, she runs one of Southeast Asia's finest police training schools.

And what's a nice lady like Miss Calderwood doing in a job like this?

Aside from bearing good credentials, experience and capability, said Cmdr. Eric Blackburn of Personnel, "she adds a woman's touch to the place — brightens it up."

Although the feminine charm she brings to the colony's pride is obvious, the tall 43-year-old Scotswoman takes a tough-minded approach to her recent appointment.

Speaking of the stringent disciplinary requirements that begin in police training, she said: "Although we're often criticized for it, at the end of the day we can say, 'there's our man, he's smart!'"

Tough and smart are what the large force with paramilitary capability has to be. In this British Colony of 4.7 million persons, with half of its 400 square miles uninhabitable islands, the uniformed men and women police one of the world's most densely populated areas.

Miss Calderwood links crime rate increases in the colony in part with unemployment and the breakup of the traditional Chinese family.

"In the search for identity, young people don't always take the right way," she said.

Despite her high rank in a men's world, Miss Calderwood is not a feminist. "I'm not keen on 'what a man can do a woman can do' thinking," she said. "Men and women compete to a degree, but the most important thing is that they complement each other."

Although the 1,618 policewomen on the 16,563-member force are unarmed, "the public has great respect for them," she said. "There never has been a woman on the force seriously injured."

Not hedging on the controversial question, Miss Calderwood said: "A woman's intuitive behavior can defuse a volatile situation. There have been instances of (unarmed) women (officers) disarming men." "And many men will tell you they won't join the force if they can't carry arms," she said as an afterthought.

Miss Calderwood hails from Glasgow, where she spent 11 years on the Strathclyde peace force.

When she came to Hong Kong in 1966, she held senior inspector rank or the No. 2 post of the women's police force. In 1973, a year after policewomen were given equal pay for equal responsibility and were integrated into the regular force, she was appointed superintendent in charge of women police.

For three years prior to her recent appointment she was chief staff officer of recruitment for the entire force.

After hours ("What spare time?" she asked), she most enjoys tennis, music and "the quiet of the home."

The men in her life? At the moment there are more than 1,200, and although she didn't mention any one specifically, it was clear from her fellow officers that she has earned the admiration and respect of the thousands on the force.

Although her grandfather and uncles were policemen, gymnastics was her first career choice. "Perhaps the fact that my first love didn't work out was a blessing," she said.

And with a twinkle in her eye, she said: "I guess you could say the Royal Hong Kong police have put the gilt edges on me."

Abbey Visitors Are Controlled

LONDON (UPI) — A corps of marshals carrying walkie-talkies has been set up to control the 30,000 daily visitors to Westminster Abbey during the peak of the tourist season.

The corps is responsible for surveillance, crowd control and helping to direct visitors. It has the authority to close the Abbey doors for short periods if the crush of sightseers becomes too great.

Visitors in the past have been "policed" as well as conducted by the Abbey's staff of vergers. Now they are concerned only with services and guided tours.

SHOW BUSINESS — Actress Olivia de Havilland maintains great composure for this scene in the movie "The Swarm", as hundreds of bees crawl over her face in Hollywood Tuesday. She was supposed to be unconscious following a train wreck. The killer bees swarmed into the train. She got one sting during the scene. On the hand. (AP Laserphoto)

Learned A Lesson From Sidewinder

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Doug McCraven never thought much about the lethal capabilities of his friend's pet sidewinder rattlesnake until the snake taught him the lesson the hard way.

McCraven, 19, who has a snake of his own, was cleaning the sidewinder's cage last week while he held the snake's head with a stick. But the 18-inch snake, named Bell, wriggled loose. Before McCraven could get his hand out of the cage, one fang had sunk into his finger.

"I felt real hot and sweaty and nauseated," he recalled. "I was in a lot of pain. Within a few minutes my finger began to swell."

For the next 43 hours, McCraven was in the intensive care unit of Presbyterian Memorial Hospital in Charlotte. His arm swelled to twice its normal size.

"I didn't think it would be that bad," he said Monday. "I've taken snakes for granted. I didn't know how dangerous they really are."

The snake belonged to Charles Eller of Fort Mill, S.C., who now says Bell is up for sale. McCraven's eastern diamondback rattler, Evonne, is also on the auction block.

Eller would like about $40 for his snake to go toward McCraven's hospital bills, but he is looking for a buyer who is a snake lover.

"I don't want somebody who just kind of likes them," he said. "I want somebody to devote attention to them."

Shutdowns Due No Gas

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Power Commission says North Carolina industries will be shutting down again this winter for lack of natural gas.

Charles B. Curtis told a Senate committee in Washington Tuesday that although homes and small businesses should have enough gas, the state's only natural gas supplier will not have enough to supply all industries, especially if the winter is severe.

Curtis said Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. (Transco) will have more gas than last year, but not enough to meet total demand, the News and Observer of Raleigh reported from its Washington bureau.

North Carolina, he said, "is one of the states likely to be hardest hit" because of its total dependence on Transco. Of the 780 firms that could be forced to close if the winter is 10 per cent colder than normal, most are in North Carolina, Curtis said. In a normal winter, he said, 613 firms would be forced to shut down.

JOHN WAYNE won't be joining Ronald Reagan in the fight against ratification of the Panama Canal treaty. He says he will support the treaty if what he understands about it is true.

Fired Up By Bank-Firing

HAMPSTEAD, N.C. (AP) — Angry townspeople started a small run on the Planters National Bank branch in Hampstead after the bank fired its manager for buying too big an advertisement to boost a community festival.

Bank manager Joe Howard was fired last week. The only reason given was that he bought a $100 ad to promote the annual Spot fishing festival when his superiors had authorized only $50.

About 150 people were lined up in the rain outside the bank when it opened last Friday to withdraw their money, and Howard's friends were still angry this week.

Jack Lea, who runs a seafood business here with his brother, said he planned to sell his stock in the bank and he will no longer accept Planters checks in his business.

Bank officials declined to say how much was withdrawn in the aftermath of the firing or to discuss their reasons for Howard's dismissal, except to say it was "a banking decision."

Lea said that was nonsense. "You can't tell me that a man with his qualifications can't profitably run a branch bank," he said.

Howard told a reporter he didn't want to talk about his dismissal.

"It's an unfortunate situation, but I don't think there's room in your paper to tell the whole story," he said. But he added that "I've certainly found out that I do have a lot of good friends."

Engineers Will Hold Meeting

The Eastern Carolina Chapter of the Professional Engineers of North Carolina will have its meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Beef Barn Restaurant.

B. B. Plyer, CLU, will present a program on "Estate Planning." All members and their guests are invited.

Traffic Lights Gathering Dust

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Transportation Department has had about $125,000 worth of traffic signal equipment gathering dust since 1975 in a Raleigh equipment depot. They discovered after ordering it that they didn't really need it.

The equipment was bought after the collapse of the Siloam bridge into the Yadkin River 2½ years ago in which four people were killed and 16 injured.

Shortly afterward the state Board of Transportation announced it was making safety improvements at a number of narrow, substandard state bridges, including new signal equipment to control one-way traffic flow at some of them.

A week later, the traffic engineering bought 80 traffic light controllers and cabinets at $2,118 apiece.

But before the equipment even arrived, engineers discovered they would not need most of what they had ordered because some of the bridges were so bad they had to be closed, others were being replaced and still others were unsuitable in one way or another for the new hardware.

As it turned out, 17 bridges got the new signals, but even at some of those the new equipment could not be used.

Other uses have been found for some of the units, but 60 cabinets at $510 each and 58 controllers at $1,608 apiece are still in storage.

"We're utilizing them in those cases where we would not ordinarily use them," said a department spokesman. "We are not going to just let them sit out there. We're looking for places where we can use them."

YOU'LL FLIP OVER OUR FAIR PRICES.

Two New TV Series Are Bowing In Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two new NBC series, "Oregon Trail" and "Big Hawaii," premiere tonight. NBC hopes they give ABC's "Charlie's Angels" and "Baretta" a ratings fight. NBC may be dreaming.

"Trail" starts the night with a two-hour opener. It's a westward-ho saga set in 1842, stars Rod Taylor, other pioneers and a supporting cast of wagons. They're heading to Oregon to start a new life.

The plot almost dies en route. It meanders from one crisis (Indians) to another (gambling) so slowly and awkwardly you may get the feeling the pioneers forgot to pack the script.

Taylor, married in the pilot show, now is a widower, but still has three kids, aged 17, 12 and seven. They're respectively played by Andrew Stevens, Tony Becker and Gina Marie Smika.

The first hour's woes, involving the normally peaceful Omaha Indians starts when Taylor's 12-year-old son and a pal explore the Indians' sacred burial ground and take a spear as a souvenir, a definite no-no.

But wait, there's an interlude in which Taylor helps two pioneers, a loveable Irish rascal (William Windom) and the rascal's comely daughter (Darleen Carr). Seems one of their horses has thrown a shoe, by golly.

When the Indians finally do commit mayhem, it's generally low-key mayhem, as the networks have told them excessive TV violence is out.

They do steal pioneer horses on-camera, but they go off-camera to dispatch a pioneer guarding the nags and put an arrow in the back of the wagon train's grizzled guide.

Before he expires, he recommends another grizzled guide (Charles Napier) who lives nearby. And, after various incidents, Taylor, aided by Napier, reluctantly becomes the head of the wagon train.

The next hour's gambling crisis involves a crooked card shark, played by John Vernon. This crisis is so badly put together it can serve only as a sure cure for insomnia.

"Trail" right now has but two things going for it — Taylor's professionalism under trying script circumstances and Napier's equally sturdy performance. They are mighty good, but not the show.

"Big Hawaii," about a powerful ranching family, is kind of a modern-day pineapple Ponderosa with Cliff Potts, a fine actor, as a prodigal son who has returned from wherever prodigal sons hang out.

Tonight, he's trying to help his stern, autocratic father (John Dehner) save the ranch from ruin. A sugar-cane blight is afoot.

To save the cane, a happy-go-lucky helicopter pilot (Don Johnson) is hired to spray the crops. Johnson is a pal of Potts from the old prodigal days. And his helicopter is about to be re-

Many Vacancies, Too Few Judges

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Harried court administrators in Raleigh have had their hands full this summer trying to fill too many Superior Courts with too few judges.

They haven't been completely successful. In any given week, two or three court sessions have been cancelled, two judges have been forced out of retirement temporarily and others have had to ride peculiar circuits.

According to Franklin E. Freeman Jr., assistant director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, the difficulty is that officials assumed when they made up court schedules that they would have 11 new judges authorized by the General Assembly.

But Gov. Jim Hunt, instead of appointing the judges himself, created a merit selection committee in July, and it will be at least two more months before the new jurists are named.

Two additional vacancies were created by retirements, so out of 66 judgeships in the state, 13 have no judges.

Freeman said he has been canceling courts where the least "damage will be done" — in civil courts in counties where court probably would not have lasted all week, and in metropolitan counties, such as Guilford and Mecklenburg, which have more than one criminal session each week.

Some vacations have been canceled, he said, and two emergency judges who have retired but not yet reached the mandatory retirement age of 70, are being used.

In some cases, judges have been holding court in two counties in one week. The second court, he said, is not always near the first one, and has made Freeman feel "like a traffic controller."

One judge finished at noon on a Tuesday in Bryson City in the mountains, he said, and held court the next day in Wentworth in Rockingham County northeast of Winston-Salem.

Special sessions will be scheduled when the new judges are named, Freeman said. But even then, he said, it will probably be the middle of next year before everything is ironed out.

Workshop For Pitt Teachers

David Mallette, Science Consultant for North Carolina, conducted a workshop for Pitt County Schools Science Teachers at Wellcome Middle School Wednesday.

The purpose of the workshop was to insure that each child who attends public schools will become scientifically learned.

Mallette's workshop was centered around teaching science to the slow or non-readers and to develop a good attitude toward science.

Mrs. Lillian D. Bradley, Supervisor for the Pitt County Schools, informed those present that science material is in each school and encouraged the teacher to use it. Other workshops can be offered as a part of the yearly program.

Four Items Scheduled

The Greenville and City-County Boards of Adjustments will consider a total of four items at their regular September meeting on Thursday night.

The Greenville board will hold public hearings on two items, involving: request for a special use permit by USA Gasoline in order to construct and operate a service station at 703 Greenville Boulevard (Greenville Square Shopping Center); and Request by Kappa Delta Sorority for a special use permit in order to erect a principal use sign at 2101 E. Fifth Street.

The election of officers is also scheduled by the city board.

The joint board will hold a public hearing on a request by Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 for a special use permit in order to construct and operate an Elks Fraternal Lodge on the east side of 14th Street Extension east of and adjacent to Dr. Dawson's office.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Every good bridge player has a devious streak. When there is no legitimate way to make his contract, he falls back on guile.

We would not quibble with South's decision to bid five hearts. Even though he had good defensive values and the auction suggested that his partner might have length in spades, South had exceptional distributional features that he had not been able to show in the auction. It seemed to him that he would make five hearts when the opponents might be laydown for four spades.

West led the king of diamonds, and declarer paused to review the situation. In view of West's double it was optimistic to hope for a 2-2 diamond division—the suit would almost surely break 3-1 or 4-0. That meant that declarer had two diamond losers in addition to a potential club loser.

Once the diamonds were established, declarer could discard the club loser from dummy on a long diamond. However, if he won the first diamond trick and returned the suit, West would realize the danger and shift to a club, forcing out the ace. When he got in with the next diamond he would cash a club to defeat the contract.

There was, therefore, no legitimate play to avert defeat. So declarer elected to fall back on a bit of deception.

He followed suit from dummy and was delighted to see East produce the nine of diamonds. Instead of winning the ace, declarer casually played the eight, concealing his low diamonds.

West thought he had struck gold with his opening lead. To him, it looked as if East was signalling encouragement with the nine of diamonds, so he continued with the queen. Declarer was now firmly in the saddle.

It would not have helped East to ruff the second diamond, since he would be trumping declarer's loser, so he discarded a high club as a signal. Declarer won the ace of diamonds, drew trumps and conceded a diamond to the jack. West shifted to a club, but it was too late. Declarer won the ace, ruffed a spade to get to his hand and discarded dummy's club loser on a diamond. His only losers were two diamond tricks.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Botanicas An Indicator Of Spiritism In El Barrio

By H.J. HELLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — In Spanish Harlem you can buy soaps, beads and other items calculated to bring luck in gambling and love, frustrate a jinx, bless a home, or invoke the aid of powerful spirits.

These shops, known as botanicas in the city's Puerto Rican communities, are the outward manifestation of a widespread and deep-rooted involvement in spiritism.

Writing in the August-September issue of Nature magazine, published by the American Museum of Natural History, Sister Mary Ann Borrello and Elizabeth Mathias discuss the nature of spiritism.

They describe it as a strange mixture of Christian beliefs, Nigerian Yoruba religion plus a smattering of theological rites practiced in the Caribbean area and Latin America.

Although most Puerto Ricans are Roman Catholics, the authors, both teaching anthropologists who hold doctorates, write that many residents of "el barrio" feel themselves "surrounded by an invisible universe of good and evil spirits, with powers to affect the course of human affairs."

Sister Mary Ann said in an interview that spiritism as practiced in the barrio resembled "voodoo in Haiti, santeria in Cuba, and macumba in Brazil. Each country interprets it their own way. There are certain magical elements that are used to reach communication with the spirits."

She said the spiritists found no great contradiction between their basic Catholicism and some of the strange elements of spiritism.

"In Haiti," she said, "a man told me 'you have to be Catholic to be a follower of voodoo in Haiti'."

She also told of a 16-year-old girl student of a Catholic high school who was asked if she found any difficulty in coping with the situation. "Oh, no," the girl replied, "it really ties it together for me."

Young adults of high school age are seriously involved in it and adhere to the precepts of the religion, Sister Mary Ann said. "Many youngsters no more than 3 or 4 years old participate in spiritist rituals and thus become indoctrinated at that early age."

In their quest for order and meaning in life Puerto Ricans by the thousands flock to the botanicas for the herbs and lotions and other charms that appear to offer good luck and health.

People who enter the botanicas "will find shelves of yellow, white, red, black, and maroon candles and bead necklaces in similar colors; books on dream interpretation, Chinese proverbs, and numerology stacked alongside the Bible and Roman Catholic prayer books; jars of incense and herbs; bottles of Florida water, commercial toilet water, and herbal lotions; oils and soaps; aerosol sprays;

Volunteer, Aids Handicapped

DETROIT (UPI) — When Kate Morse sits down to read a book, she makes sure she has a dictionary in her lap, a sharp pencil in her hand and a tape recorder on her desk.

Mrs. Morse makes recordings for the blind and others with vision impairments.

Since 1965, she has donated more than 2,000 hours to Readings for the Blind in suburban Detroit.

The 68-year-old volunteer was honored for her service at a recent ceremony attended by her 40 to 50 colleagues in her hometown of Bloomfield Hills.

Her current project is a 1,700-page book on clinical psychology for a student intern.

"When I found out how big this job was, I just howled," she said. "It's a project that will take about 200 hours, but part of that time is spent looking up words."

Mrs. Morse said sometimes it seems she spends more time poring through the dictionary than actually recording.

"I keep a dictionary right under my nose," she said. "Some of those words, those medical terms, are nearly impossible."

Mrs. Morse said she and five friends organized the group originally to help one member's youngster.

At that time, they had no special training. Now, new volunteers are required to go through a "rather rigorous" training program, she said.

The staff of qualified readers includes specialists in all major school and college subjects. They volunteer four or more hours a week recording specialized materials in their homes.

lodestones and cowrie shells; Latin music tapes and records with saints on their covers and titles like 'The Seven Powers' and 'The Most Powerful Hand.'"

These seemingly unrelated items have deep religious meaning for "an immigrant community under stress...spiritism puts names on fears and supplies reasons why things go wrong," the authors say.

The Catholic clergy made strenuous efforts to convert slaves upon their arrival in the New World," they write, "but the Africans actually absorbed Catholicism into their own religion."

"They recognized their familiar gods and goddesses in the new figures of Christ, the Madonna, and the saints. Chango, for example, the most virile and sexual Yoruba deity, the warrior god who controls thunder, lightning, and fire, is syncretized with Saint Barbara, virgin martyr, protector of soldiers, whose father was struck by lightning after he beheaded her."

Chango has certain favorite colors and when invoked responds favorably to offerings such as fruit, rum and cigars.

These and numerous other gifts which include amulets, oils, candles, necklaces, herbs, spices and statues can be obtained in the botanicas — at a price.

In Spanish Harlem, the authors write, "we have seen five-foot plaster statues of Saint Barbara priced at $495. More modest statuary starts at $9.95. Two or three dollars buys lotions, soaps, and aerosol sprays with powers to remove jinxes, bless a house, attract a lover, bring luck in gambling, or invoke the Seven African Powers, a particularly potent group of santeria deities."

However, there appears to be some difference of opinion as to whether spiritism moved from Puerto Rico to the United States or vice versa.

A veteran journalist, born in Puerto Rico and now playing his vocation in New York, contends that he knew of no botanicas in his native island.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I saw the first one in my life in 1939 when I originally came to this great city."

Although in the overwhelming majority of cases the "magic" of these items available in the botanicas is put to benificent purposes, they occasionally serve a sinister purpose.

The article describes how a woman "who wants to destroy a marriage might buy three black candles, two shaped like nude females and one like a nude male. (Black, the most powerful color, may cause death; red will result in a lesser injury.) At home, she writes the names of the husband and wife she wants to separate on two slips of paper. "If she wishes to become the man's new lover, she writes her own name on a third slip. She then turns two candles, representing a man and a woman, back to back, and places the husband's or wife's name under the appropriate figure. She puts her own name under the other female candle and places it facing the male."

"She lights all three candles and recites special prayers. Within the week to 10 days the candles take to burn down, the marriage should be destroyed and the man attracted to his new lover."

Does the strange combination of Christian, African and Caribbean cultural and religious rituals work for the botanicas?

The authors conclude that it enriches the Puerto Rican's life and that its positive effects are undeniable.

There are botanicas in Puerto Rico now, he said, "brought in by New Yorkers, Puerto Ricans who have returned to the island ..."

He said his parents had given up their Catholicism and followed only the teachings of Allan Cardac.

Cardac, according to the Natural History article, was a French spiritist philosopher who published seven books — a basic theology for spiritists.

Most botanicas carry the books as well as pictures of Cardac, who was born Hippolyte Rival in the middle of the last century.

When Raymond W. Edwards signed up for NCNB Cash Reserve, he got rid of checking account service charges and the paperwork of getting a loan.

Until 1975, about the only way to get no-service-charge checking in North Carolina was to keep a $100 balance in your checking account.

What's more, if your balance ever went to $99, you had to pay a service charge for every check you wrote.

That's how it was in 1975.

Then NCNB introduced the idea of giving you a choice of ways to get no-service-charge checking and, at the same time, give you the benefits of another NCNB service.

We call it The Triple Option, and in two years, thousands of people all over the state have signed up.

Here's how it works:

Option #1: Have $25 or more automatically transferred each month from NCNB Checking to an NCNB Regular Savings Account and get no-service-charge checking.

Option #2: Deposit and maintain $500 or more in NCNB Regular Savings Account and you can get no-service-charge checking.

Option #3: Build a credit cushion into your NCNB Checking Account with Cash Reserve, and you can get no-service-charge checking.

So you can see just how The Triple Option lets you pick the other service that works best for you.

When we introduced it in 1975, it was North Carolina's most flexible no-service-charge checking plan. In 1977, it still is.

Because we want to be your only bank. And we figure that the better service we give you on a checking account, the more likely you are to come to us when you need a loan, or want to open up a savings account or need some other service you may be going to another bank to get.

Defector Victor Korchnoi Is Relying On Chess For Funds

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Viktor Korchnoi is like a king without a castle.

But the chess Grand Master is no stranger to Augusta, where he won the World Chess Championship quarter-finals in 1974 before he defected from the Soviet Union.

"I am a foreigner in every country of the world," Korchnoi, one of the top five chess players in the world, said Monday.

During his first visit to the east Georgia city, he played 13 games with Brazilian Grand Master Henrique Mecking; this time, he played 58 simultaneous opponents.

Korchnoi was on the first stop of a three-week American tour to promote chess. Since his chess play is no longer subsidized by the Soviet government, he must rely on a patron and the money he makes from exhibitions.

The chess player said he "disappeared" after a chess match in Amsterdam and sought political asylum in the Netherlands in July 1976 because he could no longer play chess in the USSR.

A remark he made about Soviet chess prodigy Anatoly Karpov during the 1974 world chess finals lost him his place on the Soviet select chess team and the opportunity to play in international competition.

"My apartment was bugged as well as my telephone. My son was bothered at school because of rumors about my going to Israel," he said.

Korchnoi said he didn't have the opportunity to defect until he again was allowed to play in international tournaments in 1976.

He said his wife Belle and son Igor originally didn't agree with his plans to defect, "but now they agree, they want to join me."

His wife and son have applied for visas to Israel, "the only permissible way to leave the Soviet Union whether you're Jewish or not," he said.

The grand master said he telephones and writes his family but all communication is censored. To get around it, he said, he uses "Aesop language," the language of fables.

His family has not been punished because of his defection, Korchnoi said, but "they have to pass through the hate and contempt of the whole population."

As an example, Korchnoi said, his wife sold a poodle puppy to a neighbor, but the woman brought the puppy back, explaining, "I can't be associated with a relative of an enemy of the people."

But Korchnoi disagrees that he is an enemy of the Soviet people.

"When I defected, I wasn't a dissident at all. I was quite a respected member of Soviet society. I was more privileged than the average citizens. When I defected, I lost a lot of my privileges and fame, too," he said.

He said President Carter's support of human rights has been "an invisible influence on Soviet officials."

"Everyone oppressed can complain to Carter and get his and his country's help."

VIKTOR KORCHNOI, a chess grand master, ponders his move against one of almost 50 opponents which he played simultaneously in Augusta, Ga. during his three-week chess-promotion tour. (AP Laserphoto)

How Tar Heel Congressmen And Senators Voted

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes September 7-14.

HOUSE
KOREAN AID — Rejected, 181 for and 205 against, an amendment to eliminate a proposed $110 million economic-aid outlay for South Korea. The amendment was offered to a resolution (H Con Res 341) setting budget ceilings for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. The budget measure was later passed with the $110 million intact and sent to the Senate.

The amendment was a reaction to the scandal involving alleged influence-buying on Capitol Hill by Tongsun Park and other South Koreans. It was the House's first direct record vote on a South Korean issue since the scandal surfaced.

Rep. Bruce Caputo (R-N.Y.), sponsor of the amendment, said: "I think the Justice Department indictment (of Tongsun Park) makes it absolutely clear that the Korean government launched a specific plan to subvert our independence and our integrity. . . . The Korean government is not an innocent bystander. I am holding them responsible because they are indeed responsible."

The amendment was opposed by the Democratic leadership but no House member spoke against it.

Members voting "yea" favored penalizing South Korea.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), Charles Whitley (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Broyhill (R-10) and Lamar Gudger (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Richard Preyer (D-6) and James Martin (R-9) voted "nay."

Rep. Charles Rose (D-7) and L. H. Fountain (D-2) did not vote.

EARTHQUAKES — Passed, 229 for and 125 against, the Earthquake Hazards Reduction Act of 1977. It was sent to the Senate. The bill (HR 6683) would spend $210 million over three years to set up a federal agency dealing with the science of predicting earthquakes and minimizing their devastation of property and lives. No such agency now exists, with anti-earthquake activities spread throughout agencies such as the U.S. Geological Survey and the National Science Foundation.

Rep. Harold Hollenbeck (R-N.J.), a supporter, said that all 50 states face some degree of vulnerability to earthquakes, and that HR 6683 "strikes a correct balance between limiting the role of the federal government while initiating a badly needed program that will save lives and repay the investment many times over."

Rep. Robert Bauman (R-Md.), an opponent, called the proposed agency a costly "duplication of other agencies" and criticized supporters for wanting to "create another of the thousands of federal agencies, boards and commissions which have received so much publicity and which have led so many American citizens to despair that their money will ever be wisely spent by the Congress."

Members voting "yea" favored passage of the Earthquake bill.

Jones, Neal, Preyer and Rose voted "yea."

Whitley, Andrews, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."

Fountain did not vote.

B-1 — Adopted, 202 for and 199 against, an amendment in opposition to the B-1 bomber. It eliminated B-1 production money for the fiscal 1978 defense appropriation bill, in accordance with President Carter's decision to cancel production of the B-1 as the new generation of American bomber. Carter opted instead for production of cruise missiles for fitting on existing B-52 bombers. It was proposed to the conference report on HR 7933, later passed.

Rep. Robert Glaimo (D-Conn.), a supporter, said "I now oppose the B-1 because of its excessive cost ($100 million per copy) and because new technology for the cruise missile has been developed."

Rep. Jack Edwards (R-Ala.), an opponent of the amendment, noted that $3 billion has already been spent developing B-1 prototypes. "It makes no sense whatsoever to cancel production (at) a time when we are involved in sensitive SALT negotiations with the Soviet Union and at a time when most would agree that we need to maintain some kind of strategic bomber force," he said.

Members voting "yea" were opposed to the B-1.

Andrews, Neal, Preyer and Hefner voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."

SENATE
GAS GUZZLERS — Voted, 55 for and 27 against, in favor of banning the manufacture and sale of cars providing less than 16 miles-per gallon. The ban would take effect in 1980, with the minimum mileage figure rising by one mile per year until it hit 21 m.p.g. in 1985. This phase-out of so-called gas-guzzlers is provided for in S 2057, the energy-conservation part of President Carter's national energy policy, later passed and sent to conference with the House.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio), the sponsor of the ban, said: "I firmly believe that if we can save 20,000 to 74,000 barrels of oil a day, at a cost of no money as far as the federal government is concerned, and at a cost of no significant impact upon the employment picture in the auto industry. . . . then I cannot find any reason not to be for it."

Sen. Donald Riegle (D-Mich.), an opponent, said: "The Federal Energy Administration has estimated that this provision, if it were to be enacted today . . . would save us less than one tenth of one per cent of the gasoline usage in the year 1985."

Senators voting "yea" favored the ban on gas-guzzlers.

Sens. Robert Morgan (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

HOME INSULATION — Rejected, 35 for and 48 against, an amendment to limit the involvement of utility companies in having insulation installed in private residences. The

Builder Uses No Blueprints

HARKERS ISLAND, N.C. (AP) — Boat builder Earl Rose is probably getting tired of the naval architects and marine engineers who watch him work for a while, shake their heads and say it can't be done that way. Rose has been doing it that way for half a century, and a Harkers Island builders were doing it for half a century before that. Rose simply can't help it that he doesn't need a blueprint to build a boat.

"This is how I design a boat like this," he says, gesturing toward a 53-foot shrimp boat he's working on. Rose displayed a scrap of plywood with two columns of figures labeled "dead rise" and "center" penciled on it.

The figures indicated the width and height of the frames of the boat.

"Any of the boys can go cut (lumber) by this," Rose says. "Not all of them can go by blueprints. I take the measurements off the floor. If you keep these figures right like I got them on the board, she'll be right in the water."

Rose pointed to a 26-foot charter boat he is building, its finished hull already painted red to the water line and white above it, even though the hull had not yet been in the water.

"When she's put in the water," Rose said, "that waterline will be level and exactly four inches above the water. It always is. I don't miss. Knowing how to do that, and where to place your engines so she'll balance and be true is something you just learn with experience."

"I've had marine engineers come here and watch us," Rose said. "They just can't get up with it. They just can't believe our boats will be true. Every boat I build is true. And balanced."

Rose is a symbol of a priceless sort of craftsmanship that is slowly disappearing. But his trade has never made him rich, despite the fancy pricetags on the expensive boats he fashions, some as high as $180,000, in the shabby boatyard on the island.

"My son is on a Coast and Geodetic Survey ship," Rose says. "He makes about $30,000 a year. There's no way I could ever make anything like that kind of money."

amendment was proposed to S 2057 (see above vote). Defeat of this amendment left intact a provision of S 2057 under which utilities — if so requested by a customer — can arrange for the financing and installation of insulation in a residence. The amendment sought to leave those two functions to the home-construction industry. It said that a utility should get out of the picture once it has conducted a personal inspection of a residence's insulation needs.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.), the sponsor, said "the thousands of small contractors who today provide home improvement to the public do not need the utility companies acting as a 'substitute government' regulating their activities."

Sen. Bennett Johnston (D-La.), an opponent, said the existing language should not be tampered with as it represented a major improvement over the House legislation requiring that utilities themselves provide loans for home insulation and do the work.

Senators voting "yea" favored limiting the role of utilities in home insulation.

Morgan and Helms voted "yea."

ENERGY — Tabled, 62 for and 30 against, an amendment prohibiting the major oil and gas companies from acquiring coal and uranium assets in addition to what they now own. It was proposed to S 977, a part of President Carter's proposed national energy policy, later passed and sent to conference with the House.

Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), a supporter of tabling and an opponent of the amendment, called the proposal "utterly ridiculous and confiscatory" and said: "How many millions of tons of coal and uranium ore would never come to the marketplace because of this proposal is unknown. But by conservative estimate, the toll on American energy supplies would be great."

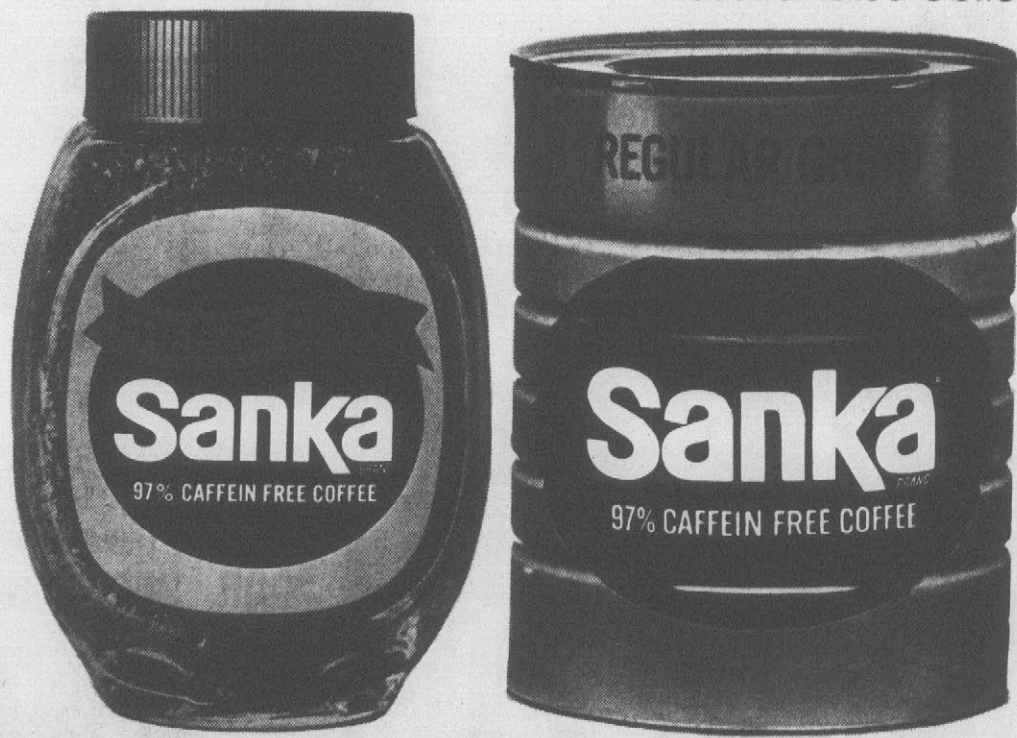

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), an opponent of tabling and sponsor of the amendment, said "there is every reason to be suspicious of the oil industry's motivation in acquiring vast reserves of coal and uranium. Coal and uranium are in competition with oil and gas. And to the extent that they are priced competitively, they can hold down oil and gas prices."

Senators voting "nay" favored the ban on future acquisition of coal and uranium reserves by oil and gas companies.

Helms voted "yea" and Morgan voted "nay."

Here's proof it works

Arkansas Power and Light Company advises that homes built to Low-E specs in their areas are averaging a 65% savings compared to homes of the same size and built to conventional construction standards. These results are actual metered results over a two-year period. No gimmick. No sales pitch. Just facts.

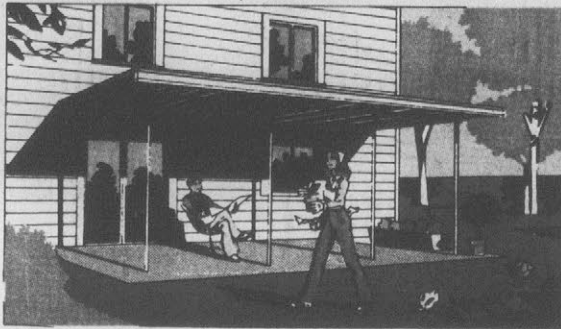

Here's how we did it

Basically, what we did was take what is known about energy-saving housing design, and put it together in one beautiful, affordable package. We reduced window space. We doubled the amount of insulation - 12" in ceiling, 6" in walls and floors. We used 2 x 6 studs, placed 24" on center. We used caulking, vapor barriers & insulated windows and doors to cut air leakage to an absolute minimum. Plus much more. All designed to save money for you and energy for America. It makes more sense every day. So drop by and talk to us.
