Homecoming Events Set

Tomorrow will be filled with various Homecoming activities, according to Don Leggett of the East Carolina University Alumni Affairs Office.

Alumni registration will be held from 9 a.m. until noon on Wright Circle at ECU.

Then, at 10 a.m. a Homecoming Parade, entitled "Milestones of ECU—A Tribute to Dr. Leo W. Jenkins," will make its way through town. The parade is scheduled to begin at Rose High School, continue down Elm Street and Fifth Street, and end on Reade Street.

The East Carolina Pirates take on Southern Illinois at 1:30 p.m. An estimated crowd of 24,000 is expected to attend.

"We have sold approximately 2,000 Standing Room Only tickets and have 800-900 left," said Gary Overton, ECU director of ticket sales for the Athletic Department.

Overton said that this was a large crowd for this year, but not unusually large as compared to previous Homecoming attendance.

Leggett said that an Alumni Social will be held at 5 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge. "The Monitors" will provide entertainment and admission is $1 per person.

At 8:30, there will be an Alumni Dance featuring "The Platons."

Also, a free concert for ECU students will be held at 8 p.m. on the mall. "Delusion," a contemporary rock band will perform. The concert will move to Wright Auditorium in the event of rain. The outdoor concert is sponsored by the ECU Student Union.

Rudolph Alexander, associate dean of Student Affairs, expressed hopes that the community would be understanding of the noise.

"We would like to express our appreciation for the understanding of the community, and especially to those citizens who live within the auditory range of the concert.

"We assure everyone that, as usual, amplified sound will not begin until 8 p.m. and will cease promptly at 11 p.m.

"The community is aware that this is Homecoming Week and that spirits are high. Students and alumni will be celebrating... We invite you to join us in our once a year celebration," said Alexander.

Unemployment Rate Dipped To 6.9 Per Cent For September

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged down to 6.9 per cent in September from the August level of 7.1 per cent, showing little change for the fifth consecutive month, the government reported today.

The jobless rate has hovered stubbornly around the 7 per cent level since April, an indication of the slowdown in the economy following the period of rapid growth early in the year.

Most of the improvement in unemployment last month was enjoyed by black workers following a sharp increase in their joblessness the previous month.

Unemployment among blacks had risen to 14.5 per cent in August but fell to 13.1 per cent last month. However, analysts said there was some indication the August increase was caused by a "quirk" in the statistics than an actual rise in unemployment.

Nevertheless, the stagnation in the over-all jobless rate is expected to increase pressure on the Carter administration to enact a tax cut next year to stimulate the economy.

The administration was counting on newly enacted jobcreating programs to bring the unemployment rate down to about 6.5 per cent by year's end, but large layoffs in steel and other industries this fall could offset some of the effects of the job programs.

Unemployment declined by 150,000 to 6.8 million during September, the Labor Department said. At the same time, the total number of Americans with jobs rose 320,000 over the month to a total of 91.1 million.

Employment has grown by 3.3 million over the past 12 months, and the percentage of the population with jobs has risen from 56.1 per cent to 57.3 per cent, just short of the alltime high last reached in March 1974.

President Carter, who came under heavy criticism from civil rights leaders when the August jobless rate was announced, has indicated a compromise is likely within a few days on the controversial Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill. Four out of every 10 black youths were reported out of work in August.

The Humphrey-Hawkins bill, a major plank in the 1976 Democratic platform and a top priority of labor and blacks, would require the government to reduce unemployment to 4 per cent within three years, using public employment programs if necessary. Opposition from Republicans and conservatives has stalled the measure in Congress.

Carter told the Congressional Black Caucus last month his advisers were trying to work out an acceptable compromise on the bill.

Meanwhile, one of the nation's leading private economists warned Thursday that the inflation rate may rise to 7.5 per cent next year because of new government actions in agriculture and other areas.

Quick Action By Council On Last Night's Agenda

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council, meeting last night in a short session, approved two requests for rezoning property, following public hearings, and also approved a petition for annexation of some 25 acres into the city.

Meeting for less than an hour in the final session before the municipal elections, Council members wasted little time in disposing of the 24-item agenda.

The Council voted unanimously to approve a request by Greenville First Pentecostal Holiness Church to rezone approximately 3.4 acres of church property east of Evans Street Extension and north of Plaza Drive from Shopping Center to R-9.

The church originally requested rezoning of some 4.2

acres but J. Melvin Moore, representing the church, appeared before the board last month and asked that 160 feet along S. Evans Street Extension and 200 feet along the northern right-of-way line of Plaza Drive remain as Shopping Center.

It was pointed out that the property approved last night for rezoning did not include the strip that the church requested for deletion. No opposition was voiced during a public hearing.

Unanimous approval was also given to a request by Thomas F. Taft and others for rezoning from R-6, Office and Institutional, Medical Arts, Highway Commercial, and R-6 of 85 acres at the southeast corner of Stantonburg Road and Allen Road.

A public hearing was held on the Taft request and no opposition to the rezoning was stated.

The Council, which conducted a public hearing last month on a petition by Westhaven Properties Inc. and Tommie L. Little and Associates for annexation of 25 acres located east of Club Pines Subdivision, gave unanimous approval to the annexation.

City Manager Jim Caldwell informed members of the board that the city had received a signed option from the developers for recreational property in the area. The matter was tabled at the September meeting because the option on the recreational property had not been executed.

In an unusual development, Council members voted to table action on a request by the Pitt County Fair Association for rezoning of the fairgrounds at the intersection of US 13-NC 11 and Airport Road from Nonoffensive Industry and R6-MH to Highway Commercial. The fair is in operation this week at the site and approval of the request last night would have made the fair a non-conforming use.

Resolutions were approved by the Council endorsing and supporting the $230 million Clean Water Bond issue and the State Highway Bond Act of 1977 and urging "all citizens to vote" for the water bonds and $300 million state highway bonds.

A resolution endorsing Constitutional Amendment No. 4, which will permit municipalities to join with

Dying, Freed To Fly Home To Puerto Rico

CLEMENCY — Andres Cordero, a Puerto Rican nationalist dying of cancer, was granted clemency by the President Thursday. Cordero, who has been in prison 23 years, was convicted in 1954 for an armed attack on the U.S. House of Representatives. (AP Laserphoto)

CHICAGO (AP) — Puerto Rican nationalist Andres Figueroa Cordero is returning home after spending 23 years in prison for his part in a 1954 attack in the U.S. House of Representatives that left five congressmen wounded.

Cordero, 53, frail from a bout with cancer, arrived here late Thursday after being released from the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo. He was scheduled to fly to Puerto Rico today.

President Carter reduced Cordero's sentence to 23 years Thursday to allow him to return home before his death. Originally sentenced to 25 to 75 years on charges of assault and conspiring to overthrow the government, Cordero would not have been eligible for parole until 1981.

The move was supported by the present and four past

Puerto Rican governors.

Arriving at O'Hare International Airport on the first leg of his journey home, Cordero was carried off the plane in a wheelchair. A small knot of supporters draped a red, white and blue Puerto Rican nationalist flag over his shoulders as a shawl.

Griming broadly, Cordero raised a fist no larger than a child's and pledged his support for his still-jailed companions.

Nelson W. Canals of San Juan, president of the Committee to Free Nationalist Prisoners, translated Cordero's brief remarks from Spanish. Canals said Cordero felt his release was a victory for "the people of Puerto Rico, the people of North America... and oppressed peoples everywhere."

Canals said Cordero was very tired from the cancer and could not answer questions, shunting aside queries about the 1954 shooting.

Fresh Energy Program Goal Of Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee, dead set against all of President Carter's energy taxes, is looking for ways to spend enough money to cut oil imports sharply over the next eight years.

That goal, of reducing dependence on foreign oil from the current daily rate of about nine million barrels to six million barrels a day by 1985, is the same set by Carter in his energy program.

But the committee has rejected each of the four taxes Carter proposed as the heart of the conservation effort.

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the committee, wants approval for a series of spending incentives for conservation and production without voting the taxes to pay for them.

If the full Senate goes along with Long's strategy, a Senate-House conference committee would work out a final compromise energy plan, including taxes, that would allow the Senate, House and Carter all to claim victory.

Meanwhile, a House-Senate conference committee is going to have the job of working out final details of a plan to overhaul the nation's utility rate structure.

The full Senate, completing work on non-tax aspects of the President's energy plan, rejected an administration proposal Thursday for cheaper electricity during non-peak hours.

Voting 86-7 for a watered-down version of Carter's plan to reform electric rates, senators deleted his proposal to make utilities offer bargain rates at night and other non-peak times. The President also wanted to prohibit utilities from selling power to large industries at bargain rates.

The Senate bill would offer lower electric rates to senior citizens and give the government the right to intervene in state electric rate-making cases, but only to make recommendations on conservation.

Senate Ponders Further Minimum Wage Changes

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is considering further changes in the minimum wage law after voting to increase the present $2.30-an-hour floor by $1.10 over the next four years.

The vote Thursday for higher wages was the second congressional victory of the day for organized labor. Earlier, the House acted to make it easier to organize workers and to punish companies that break the law to keep unions out.

Senators voted 76-14 for a plan to increase the minimum wage to $2.65 an hour on Jan. 1, 1978, to $2.90 on Jan. 1, 1979, to $3.15 an hour on Jan. 1, 1980 and to $3.40 an hour on Jan. 1, 1981.

A key supporter of the plan said a worker supporting a non-farm family of four through a fulltime minimum wage job in 1981 would fall 5 per cent under the federal poverty level.

Continuing work on the bill today, the Senate scheduled votes on a controversial proposal for a lower minimum pay for teenagers and a plan to make bigger businesses exempt from paying the minimum wage.

A companion minimum wage bill passed by the House on Sept. 15 would increase the minimum to $2.65 Jan. 1, 1978, to $2.85 on Jan. 1, 1979 and to $3.05 on Jan. 1, 1980.

Differences in the two bills will have to be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee.

Meanwhile, business lobbyists said they would try to force changes in the Senate in the House-passed labor law legislation they say will push American workers into unions against their will.

The House vote shows the country is "heading toward a labor-controlled government similar to that of the United Kingdom," said Clarence B. Randall of the National Action Committee on Labor Law Reform.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill called the bill "labor's first victory in the labor relations area in 42 years," and business spokesmen conceded labor had won all it sought on the issue.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said after the 257-163 vote that the Democratic leadership had prevailed in Congress "in the face of the outrageous lies and distortions about the bill used by right-wing opponents... who were backed by business interests."

Backers of the measure said it now is cheaper for anti-union companies to violate labor laws than to obey them, because there aren't penalties strong enough to outweigh the goal of keeping unions out.

The bill would call for financial penalties against labor law violators and grant reinstatement with double back pay to workers fired illegally during a union organizing effort.

The measure also calls for worker compensation in cases in which employees vote for union representation but their company unlawfully refuses to negotiate.

In addition, unions or businesses found guilty of repeated labor law violations could be barred from receiving federal contracts for up to three years.

$210,000 Grant

First District Congressman Walter Jones and U.S. Senator Robert Morgan announced Thursday the approval by the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare of a health professions start-up assistance grant of $210,000 to East Carolina Medical School.

Funds will be used for personnel support, planning curriculum and purchasing equipment.

Congressman Jones and Senator Morgan, as members of the N.C. General Assembly, co-sponsored legislation to establish a four-year medical school at ECU; and as members of the U.S. Congress have coordinated their efforts to see all available funds at the federal level, for medical schools, be made to ECU Medical School.

DOLL DRESSERS NEEDED

Any club, church group or individual who would like to dress one or more dolls for the Salvation Army to give to needy children at Christmas is asked to contact the Salvation Army.

The Army has ordered black and white dolls in various sizes and has these on hand for volunteers to pick up, along with patterns for various sizes of clothing. About 200 need to be clothed.

The dolls in their finery will be shown to the public during a doll show and tea at the Citadel Sunday, Dec. 4, from 2 to 4 p.m. This is a project of the Salvation Army Women's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Jesse Laughinghouse is president.

Interested persons or groups may contact either Mrs. Major Arnold Williford or Mrs. Barbara Kirkman at the Citadel, 756-3388.

$25,000 Grant Proposal By Education Board

Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and Mark Owens, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education announced this morning that the education board has submitted a grant proposal to the State Board of Education that would bring about greater involvement of community people in school affairs and increase the use of school facilities by the community.

Gaskins said the Board of Commissioners some time ago had requested the Board of Education to seek the $25,000 grant, made available by the Community Schools Act passed by the 1977 General Assembly. In a letter to superintendent of schools Ott Alford, the Commissioners expressed their desire to begin a recreation program in the county, according to Gaskins, and saw the Community School Act as an appropriate vehicle through which to implement the program.

The project proposal, if approved, will provide a coordinator whose primary work will be to increase community participation in school matters and to increase the use of school facilities by the community.

Gaskins indicated that recreation will be a primary thrust of the program, although the project proposal includes activities involving senior citizens, civic and charitable groups, as well as individuals using school facilities.

Gaskins said, "commissioners felt it would be unwise to duplicate facilities generally already available in many instances at the various schools." He added that, "in order to avoid a possible duplication of personnel in a leadership role, the commissioners requested the Board of Education to handle the matter of employment and coordination of services and use of facilities."

Owens said the Board of Education, at its Tuesday meeting, authorized Alford to "actively seek approval and funding of the project."

The school board chairman emphasized that, "with mutual goals and with a responsibility to serve people of all ages," the two boards have "expressed a strong commitment to this cooperative effort."

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The top Senate Republican says President Carter's Panama Canal treaty won't be approved unless the administration hands over secret documents on the United States' contested right to protect the waterway.

of State Cyrus R. Vance to turn over material on apparent contradictions in how the United States and Panama interpret the treaty.

Unless the documents are forthcoming, Baker said, he feels "there is no chance" the treaty will be approved by the necessary two-thirds Senate vote.

The State Department, meanwhile, said U.S. and Panamanian representatives met again Thursday to clarify each country's interpretation of the pact.

Ellsworth Bunker and Sol L. Nowitz, who negotiated the pact for the United States, met with Panama's ambassador, Gabriel Lewis Galindo.

A source said they discussed future priority wartime passage for American ships and the right of the United States to protect the waterway's neutrality militarily.

The points were not resolved, spokesman Kenneth Brown said, and the discussions are continuing.

In another development, the State Department backed off from a confrontation with Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., who disclosed a confidential cable dealing with Panama's interpretation of the treaty.

Partly as a result of the Dole leak, Baker and several other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are applying increasing pressure to have the crucial but vaguely worded aspects of the treaty clarified.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., the committee chairman; Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J.; and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, all have said Panama's interpretation needs to be clarified.

Of particular concern is the question of whether the United States could intervene to protect the canal after it is turned over to Panama in the year 2000.

The cable, from a senior U.S. diplomat in Panama to Vance, quotes Panamanian negotiator Carlos Lopez Guevara as saying Panamanian officials were disturbed by American officials' assertion that the agreement provides for armed U.S. intervention.

The pact does not use the word "intervention," but U.S. officials say the security question is covered by language saying the United States and Panama will jointly "maintain the regime of neutrality" of the canal after 2000. Panamanian leaders are quoted as saying this merely assures the United States that the canal would never be closed to its ships.

Pick Diplomatic Troubleshooter To Be Brezhnev's First Deputy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet parliament today elected Vasily V. Kuznetsov, an experienced diplomatic troubleshooter, to the post of first deputy to President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The post is a new one in the Soviet Union. But the appointment apparently did not mean that Kuznetsov, who is 76 and has relatively little top-level political experience, is meant to be the 70-year-old Brezhnev's successor.

The Soviet Union's top ideologist, Mikhail A. Suslov, proposed Kuznetsov's appointment at a parliament session after the adoption of a new national constitution that creates the new post.

"For almost 20 years, (Kuznetsov) has worked in the ministry of foreign affairs," Suslov said, "and he knows well questions of the internal life of the country and foreign policy of the Soviet state."

The benedicted Kuznetsov gave an acceptance speech pledging to "dedicate all my strength, knowledge and experience to fulfilling with honor the high trust given to me."

Kuznetsov is the first deputy to Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Diplomatic sources believe he will leave the foreign ministry to devote full time to new assignments.

The work includes the ceremonial greeting of new ambassadors, the conduct of international diplomatic negotiations and work with the parliament.

The parliament's unanimous adoption of the constitution, after 18 years of work and four months of public discussion, touched off a 3½ minutes of standing ovation, rhythmic clapping, cheers and shouting of slogans by the 1,500 deputies, led by Brezhnev.

The 9,000-word document, designed as a crowning achievement of Brezhnev's leadership, replaces the 1936 Stalin constitution and is the Soviet Union's fourth political charter.

The new constitution strengthens the role of the Communist party in the Soviet Union and stresses the obligations of citizens to serve the state.

It guarantees such rights as housing, work and education. It also provides for certain rights of free press, speech and assembly, but those rights are subordinated to the interests of the state.

Will Pay More For New Car

DETROIT (AP) — Consumers who buy a 1978 American-made car will be paying nearly $400 more on the average than for a similar 1977 model.

That prospect became certain Thursday when Chrysler Corp., the No. 3 U.S. automaker, announced it is boosting prices on its new cars by an average $372.

Chrysler was the last of the Big Three automakers to announce an increase of about 6 per cent. The three companies sell 98 per cent of all American-made cars in this country.

Ford Motor Co. said Wednesday it was boosting prices an average $387 or 5.8 per cent. General Motors announced an average $405, or 6 per cent, boost last month.

Chrysler said base vehicle prices are going up $243 a car on the average; options, $111, or 7 per cent, and shipping charges, $18, for a total $372.

Base price increases range from $46 for the Dodge Diplomat and Chrysler LeBaron four-door sedans to $501 for the two-door Chrysler New Yorker Brougham.

Based on Chrysler's new prices, the average 1978

Plymouth, Dodge or Chrysler car, including options, will carry a suggested retail price approaching $6,500, compared with slightly more than $6,100 in 1977. The average Ford and GM car will be priced above $7,000, not including taxes or discounts offered by dealers.

Jerry Paul On Scholarship To Trial Jan. 2 ECU Students

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Jerry Paul, attorney for Joan Little in the jailing stabbing case, goes on trial in Superior Court in Durham Jan. 2 for possible disciplinary action by the North Carolina State Bar.

Paul is accused of making improper statements to the press about the Little trial, including an assertion that she had poor chances of getting a fair trial. Miss Little was acquitted. He also said the judge in the case, Hamilton H. Hobgood, was "old fashioned."

He said investigators speculate that a short ignited the confetti used for packing bananas and tomatoes.

The flames were fed by melting tar used in the roofs of the buildings, Parham said. The fire was contained by 7:45 p.m. but firemen continued to pour water on the smoldering ruins through most of the night.

Man Missing In Warehouse Fire

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Hot spots remaining from a massive warehouse fire kept rescue workers at bay today in the search for a missing maintenance man who lived in a trailer inside one of the destroyed buildings.

The blaze erupted late Thursday afternoon in the Tar Heel Banana Co. and spread quickly to other businesses. A series of explosions occurred as the fire reached propane gas tanks used for ripening fruit in the banana warehouse and the nearby E. G. Forrest Produce warehouse.

Flames leaped as high as 100 feet and columns of smoke were visible 15 miles away as the fire spread through the Forrest warehouse, John's Produce Packing Co., Vernon's Grill, the George Davis warehouse and a nearby residence.

Authorities said Joe Gwyn Jr., who lived in a trailer inside the banana warehouse, could not be found. No other injuries were reported.

District Fire Chief J. L. Parham said the smoldering ruins were too hot for rescue workers to search through. A wall also was in danger of collapsing.

The fire, which 10 pumps and three aerial units fought for most of the night, is believed to have started from an electric short in the rear of the banana warehouse, Parham said.

He said investigators speculate that a short ignited the confetti used for packing bananas and tomatoes.

The flames were fed by melting tar used in the roofs of the buildings, Parham said. The fire was contained by 7:45 p.m. but firemen continued to pour water on the smoldering ruins through most of the night.

Warm, Homey Atmosphere Is Offered

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —
Judy Bell had her first baby by natural childbirth five years ago, when husbands still were unwelcome in most hospital delivery rooms and many women hoped to sleep through the whole thing.

Mrs. Bell was wide awake when Lamar was born, and her husband, Tami, was by her side. "It went beautifully," Mrs. Bell remembered. But four years later when they planned to repeat the experience, the Bells shopped around for something different. "It's really not set up for husbands to feel comfortable," Mrs. Bell said of the traditional hospital delivery room. "There are masks and gowns and don't touch this, it's sterile, and sit over there."

"The second time, we wanted something more relaxed, but not as relaxed as a home delivery."

The "home birthing" movement is gaining strength among women who feel they would be more comfortable giving birth at home, perhaps with a midwife instead of an obstetrician in attendance. But many doctors remain firmly opposed to deliveries out of reach of emergency facilities.

The Bells found a happy compromise at the corner of the intensive care nursery at Mt. Zion Hospital, where Mrs. Bell worked as a nurse. About the time her second child was due, Mt. Zion opened its "alternative birth center," a warm, homey room with a quilt-covered double bed that stands in contrast to the stark, stirrured table available down the hall for emergencies.

Sarah was the first baby born in the new center. Mrs. Bell labored and delivered in the same bed. A nurse was with her through her entire labor, and an obstetrician appeared for the delivery.

A half hour after the birth, Lamar, then 4, visited his new sister, and the family went home together the next morning.

Many doctors say the Bells are typical of a new brand of consumer, the pregnant woman who now has a range of choices besides traditional hospital obstetrical care.

"It's the age of consumerism," said Dr. Fred Berman, medical director of Mt. Zion's birth center. "In the 1950s doctors were still aloof gods whose authority was not to be questioned. But from hearing patients' requests, hearing what people wanted, hearing traditions to meet some of these objections.

Webb said Children's has allowed daytime "rooming-in" — keeping the baby with the mother instead of in a nursery — since 1955, and 24-hour rooming-in is available if the mother wants it.

Husbands routinely are allowed in many delivery rooms, and many hospitals offer classes for women who want to try to deliver with a minimum of anesthetic.

Webb said most doctors at Children's will accommodate a woman's request to breast-feed immediately after birth, to deliver in a sitting position or not to be strapped onto the delivery table.

But Suzanne Armes, whose 1975 book "Immaculate Deception" is a "bible" to the home birth movement, urges the pregnant consumer to push for still more options. She strongly supports a bill, currently before the state legislature, to license lay midwives to attend normal home births — illegal under present California law.

"Our monolithic medical system says to us, 'We will make sure you have choices but that they will be as unsafe as we can make them,'" she said. She argued that a full range of choices would include backup emergency ambulance service that would respond quickly if a midwife encountered an unforeseeable emergency.

"We recognize that babies will be lost at home that could have been saved in the hospital," said Dr. Russell Hulme, a Santa Clara obstetrician and assistant professor at Stanford University. "I think we can provide the same . . . social environment in the hospital and still have . . . safeguards for the well being of the mother and baby."

The California Department of Health lists 3,516 out-of-hospital births in the state in 1975, the last year for which statistics are available. That figure, about 1.1 per cent of the state's total births, has been increasing by about a tenth of a per cent each year.

Advocates of home birth say tension extends labor and hospitals produce tension. They say drugs often are routinely given, even if the patient wants an unmedicated birth. They argue that fetal monitors — machines strapped to the mother's abdomen to measure the baby's heartbeat — restrict the movement of the laboring woman.

Many hospitals that don't have birth centers are bending

Friends Should Still Offer Comfort To Family

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: When a friend has taken his own life, out of kindness and consideration for the family, should the whole thing be ignored as though it had never happened? I mean, should there be no flowers, letters of condolence, or mention of it at all?

Some I have spoken to about this seem to feel that this is the best way to handle suicide deaths. What is your opinion?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: When a dear one dies, his family suffers a loss, whether he has taken his own life or not. Friends should express their sorrow and offer words of comfort to the family without reference to the circumstances.

DEAR ABBY: Ralph and I got a call at 5 a.m. from Vera, the 30-year-old woman our 19-year-old son is living with. We had never met Vera, but we threw Junior out of our house because he was over her place all the time, anyway. Vera was frantic because Junior hadn't been "home" for two nights. Imagine the gall! Ralph said Vera was hysterical, so he thought he should get dressed, go to her place and calm her down. Meanwhile, I went back to sleep. Well, Ralph was gone for 18 hours and I was half-crazy worrying about him. When he came home, I noticed he had worn his best suit and shoes.

He told me he had taken Vera to dinner, and Junior never did show up. What do you call a man who leaves his wife's bed to pacify a woman he's never met because his son didn't come "home" to her? His excuse was that he wanted to see the environment his son was living in.

Dilly Beans Get New Look

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

It's almost 20 years since the store-bought Dilly Bean first appeared. It was the brainchild of Jacqueline Park and Sonya Hagna, two young teachers in Hammonton, N.J., who wanted to make some pin money. The girls put up Dilly Beans in 1-pint jars, borrowing a recipe from Sonya's Mother, and sold some to a retailer in Philadelphia. Then two large department stores in New York City, both with fine food sections, decided to handle Jacqueline's and Sonya's handiwork and the Dilly Bean was launched. Eventually it became so popular that some large pickling companies included versions of it among their packs.

Eventually, too, recipes for making dilled beans at home began to appear regularly in cookbooks — a sure sign that the pickle had caught on. This year we thought of enlivening the beans by adding carrot sticks and the combination worked well. If you want to try this version, here's the recipe.

SWEET DILLY BEANS AND CARROTS

- 2 pounds snap beans, tipped
- ¾ pound (about 4 large) carrots
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons coarse salt
- 1 tablespoon dill seed tied in a cheesecloth bag
- Fresh dill sprigs with stems cut off

If necessary, trim the ends of the beans so they will just fit into pint jars when inserted lengthwise. Pare carrots; cut into sticks that are about the size of the beans.

Into a large saucepan turn the beans and carrots; add enough boiling water so it comes up about 2 inches; bring to a boil; boil until the vegetables are tender — about 15 minutes. Drain.

Into a medium saucepan turn the sugar, vinegar, 2 cups water and the dill-seed bag; bring to a boil, stirring until the sugar dissolves; simmer for 5 minutes. Discard the dill-seed bag.

Put 6 dill sprigs in each of four sterilized 1-pint jars; pack some beans and some carrots lengthwise into each jar. Cover with the hot sugar-vinegar mixture, leaving ½-inch headspace. Seal with 2-piece mason caps (lids and metal or plastic rings) following manufacturer's directions. Place jars on a rack in a large saucepot; add hot water to cover jars by least 1 inch. Bring water to a boil, then keep at a gentle steady boil for 20 minutes. Remove jars to a wire rack to cool. Store in a cool dark place. Makes about 4 pints.

SWEET DILLY BEANS AND CARROTS—The pickle was packed in pint canning jars, using the new white metal lids with red centers that click when the jars are properly sealed.

Li'l Abner To Be A Memory

An old friend will be leaving the pages of The Daily Reflector, and other newspapers across the nation, next month.

Li'l Abner, the creation of cartoonist Al Capp, will be retired.

The legendary hillbilly from Dog Patch, U.S.A. was well known to millions of Americans and many others throughout the world.

Daisy Mae was the stereotype of the beautiful young girl chasing the bashful, girl hating Li'l Abner—until she caught and married him.

Sadie Hawkins Day in Dogpatch was the big annual event, when the young men of the community ran in a foot race with the single women in pursuit. The girl who could drag her man across the finish line by sundown had him in marriage. And who could perform the ceremony better than Marring

Sam. For a few bucks he would put on a spectacular that any couple would remember for the rest of their lives.

Sadie Hawkins Day became the model for similar activities throughout the nation, and perhaps lifted the country's spirits at the times when a lift was needed most.

Li'l Abner inspired a musical hit which, in turn furnished songs that everyone was singing.

Dogpatch will close down for good on Nov. 13. Li'l Abner will disappear from the Sunday comic section of this newspaper, to be replaced by a strip yet to be chosen.

Through the years Li'l Abner furnished us with a lot of laughs and a lot of wisdom. The residents of Dog Patch are likely to be a permanent part of our culture.

Long Road To Peace In Middle East

Moshe Dayan, Israel's foreign minister, said this week that a tentative formula for a Geneva Middle East peace conference had been agreed upon.

Dayan told that to reporters following long meetings with President Carter. He cautioned the formula would have to be agreed to by his government and by Arab leaders.

It is still a long road to a settlement of Middle East problems, but perhaps it is a step forward.

THIS AFTERNOON

Nonpartisan Effort Seen

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—There is more potential in North Carolina for a legislative dictatorship than for a gubernatorial one, former Gov. James E. Holshouser believes.

The Republican leader, taking the stump statewide in a nonpartisan role supporting an amendment to the State Constitution allowing governors to run for reelection, thinks people who oppose that change on the grounds that a political machine could take over are far off base.

On this, Holshouser parts company with some other leaders in his own GOP. There are those who fear that the same man could effectively hold one of the state's two top jobs for 16 years (lieutenant governor, governor for two terms each) and in the process so shape state policy, agencies, and positions that he would effectively become a dictator.

No Machine
No such machine would result in North Carolina, Holshouser believes, merely because the voters are too savvy to permit it; and the party out of power will be on hand and alert.

To those who say succession would hamper Republican chances at regaining the governor's mansion, Holshouser responds: It would increase our chances... we would be able to oppose the occupant on his record. This would be the first time you could run against the incumbent in North Carolina on his record."

And typically, Holshouser added, a governor is popular for his first six months in office... from then on it is downhill: "Then, you are lucky if you make only one bad enemy every day."

That is happening to Gov. James B. Hunt, his predecessor believes. It is early for the honeymoon to be over... but it is, Holshouser says. "If I had to bet my bottom dollar today, I would bet that Jim Hunt will not be governor in 1981," he says.

As for machine politics, the Legislature is where such already exists: "We have government by cliques with at times a half-dozen key legislators running the State the former governor does not rule himself out as the man who might try.

BILL NOBLITT

Assembly Power

As for those who argue that giving the governor the right to run for a second term would upset the balance of power between executive and legislative branches, Holshouser says bluntly, "The Legislature already has the power." He served in that body before winning election as governor.

"Our legislators have the power... but they have needed to toughen up... to make the hard decision themselves... to buck the governor."

"Our system gives it the power it needs," Holshouser says.

As for machine politics, the Legislature is where such already exists: "We have government by cliques with at times a half-dozen key legislators running the State

...through oversight commissions and such," Holshouser said.

The former governor, along with his Secretary of Human Resources Phillip J. Kirk, and Democrat Thomas W. Lambeth, administrative aide to Congressman Richardson Preyer, talked with a group of newsmen at breakfast recently. Kirk and Lambeth are co-directors of the succession campaign.

Lambeth, from his Party's viewpoint, stresses that the change reflect "not a right of a governor to succeed himself, but the right of the people to vote. Opposition to that reflects a fear of the people—and unwillingness to trust ourselves. Decisions made on the basis of fear of people are mistakes."

Kirk agrees: "We assume the worst of the voters when we say that they don't have the good sense to turn out (a bad) incumbent. To the contrary for Tar Heels when we look at history. I don't think we are trusting the people nearly enough when we say allowing a second term would lead to building a machine. It is impossible to build a machine to win the party primary... but not the election."

Is Simple, Comrade

WASHINGTON—The State Department is seriously thinking of sending a team of American technicians to Egypt to repair its Soviet MIG-21 fighter planes. It appears that Egypt's air force is in a shambles and, since the country is feuding with the Soviet Union, the Egyptians have turned to the United States for help in getting the MIGs off the ground.

The incident shows you what a crazy, mixed-up world we're living in. Many countries that have been armed by the Soviets and the United States have switched allegiance after getting military aid. Former American allies are now in the Soviet camp, and countries once dependent on the Soviet Union for weapons are now staunch friends of the United States.

The only problem is that their military machinery doesn't work.

The answer to the problem might be that, instead of the United States and Russia going for SALT talks, we might work out an exchange program where our technicians could be trained to repair Soviet equipment, and their technicians could come to this country and learn how to fix American hardware.

Also, a hot line could be set up between the two countries so that when an American mechanic gets stuck he could call his Soviet counterpart and ask him what to do.

It would work like this: Suppose the American technician is thrown by a MIG-21 engine expert. He would dial a toll-free number in Moscow and ask for the MIG engine expert.

"I'm having trouble with the oil filter on the left pod," the American would say. "The threads don't seem to screw into the manifold."

"Is simple, Comrade. You have oil filter upside down. Try it the other way."

"Yeah, it does work the other way. Thanks a lot."

"While I have you on the phone, Comrade, the rocket release on the D-5 planes you sold to Angola keeps getting stuck."

"What kind of grease are you using?"

"The GS-15 that came with the plane."

"Oh, for heaven's sake. That grease has been replaced with a B-112. It's in the new manual."

"We don't have the new manual, Comrade. Could you send us one?"

"Yeah, if you tell me how to replace the MIG's high-pressure gauge in the heat-seeking missile component."

"That, as you Americans say, is a bitch. You have to take out entire front panel and readjust the rheostat, which is next to the altimeter light just below automatic pilot computer. But don't break the seal on the computer because it will send the MIG straight into the ground."

"That's good to know. Are you people okay on spare parts for the Grumman fighters we sold to Ethiopia?"

"Yes, Comrade, but we're short of spare fuselages for the C-130's you left in Vietnam."

"I'll see that you get them if you send us new radar parts for the antitank guns Israel captured in the Yom Kippur war."

"No problem, Comrade. It's a pleasure doing business with you."

"Don't mention it. What are enemies for?"

WASHINGTON TODAY

Coal Prospects 'Cloudy'

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—

There's an industry advertisement describing coal as America's ace in the hole, but now a government report suggests that it may be a hard card to play.

That assessment by the General Accounting Office is subject to debate, for the administration insists that coal production can be more than doubled by 1985, to help curb the demand for imported oil.

In asserting that the administration target probably is beyond the nation's reach, the GAO study points to the fragile balance of programs, proposals and assumptions that make up President Carter's national energy plan, and concludes that the odds are against all of them working at once.

And that may be the most significant point in the watchdog agency's report to Congress on coal prospects.

The administration energy plan anticipates the production and use of 1.2 billion tons of coal a year by 1985, up from 665 million tons in 1976.

"So many interrelated elements would have to work to double coal production by 1985 that GAO does not believe it could happen," the agency said, adding that it will be very difficult to push production to one billion tons by 1985. The difference is the equivalent of 2.2 million barrels of oil a day.

That's based entirely on the technical, industrial and environmental problems of producing and burning more coal as a substitute for oil and natural gas.

It doesn't take into account the political difficulties confronting President Carter as the Senate works over his energy bill.

The Senate already has watered down House-approved measures to require that most utilities and industrial users of natural gas and oil convert to coal.

There are signs of trouble ahead for another Carter proposal, to use tax penalties and incentives to prod industry to speed a shift to coal.

Carter is pressing for both, listing them among his "vital measures to conserve energy and to replace our precious oil and gas with more abundant fuels such as coal."

But whatever Congress decides, it can't make a law to erase the problems the GAO foresees. The study forecasts a substantial increase in U.S. coal production and consumption, but says that it will take time and a lot of money.

For openers, the GAO says it will take between 400 and 825 new coal mines, and 288,000 to 532,000 new miners to sharply increase production levels. The higher figures are about what it would take to get to meet administration targets.

That would cost up to $45.5 billion in new capital.

The GAO said it checked with 11 major coal producers, all of whom said they thought the industry could double production by 1985 and triple it by 2000.

But the coal isn't where the consumers are. It would have to be hauled, primarily by rail, which means more money—$5.2 billion by GAO estimate to provide the cars, equipment and facilities to move coal.

The railroads say they can handle the traffic, which leads into the next question: what about the environment?

"We cannot use one billion tons of coal in one year without harming our en-

'Best Bet' In Smoke Detectors

NEW YORK (AP)—An estimated eight million householders will shell out from $20 to $50 each this year for a residential smoke alarm, a gadget they hope they'll never need.

For some, it will be the first smoke detection device in their homes, but many will be picking up a second or third to broaden their protection in larger residences.

Fires kill about 6,500 persons in their homes each year, often during the hours of sleep. And officials across the country are avid boosters of the new tool for early detection of fires.

Just about any one of them will suggest that the purchase of a smoke alarm is the perfect way to observe National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9-15.

The smoke detector is not the ultimate answer to fire danger, but it seems the best to date. Concealed within a neat little container fastened to, or near, the ceiling, most often in the hallway of a bedroom area, it cannot prevent a fire. But its piercing alarm early in a fire can rouse heavy sleepers before blinding smoke and flame cut off escape.

No less than 100 companies have entered the market, manufacturing or selling smoke alarms. And makers of long-life batteries are sharing in the boom, turning out special 9-volt cells for the first alarm units and stepping up their output of the familiar transistor radiotype batteries.

Along with individual householders, government officials are seeing the wisdom of the smoke alarm. New federally financed housing and transfer of a federal mortgage to a new tenant require prior installation of wired-in smoke detectors. A recent survey shows 13 states mandating such protective devices in all new residential construction while 23 other states require smoke alarms only in specified types of residences under state or local regulations.

North Carolina politely "requests" but does not order newresidence smoke alarms while 13 states have no requirements for such protection, although more than 100 localities have adopted smoke detector ordinances.

Underlining their importance is the fact that four of every five persons killed in residential fires are not burned but die of toxic fumes, and that one of six injured survivors spends from six weeks to two years receiving often painful and always costly treatment in hospitals and clinics.

The technical improvements in such smoke alarms make them independent of house wiring that may fail in a fire. They also reduce power requirements so that it operates on a single long-life 9-volt battery of the type used in a transistor radio.

For persons interested in buying a detector but dismayed at the welter of models and the difference in type, authorities offer some advice:

Look first for an Underwriters Laboratories approval label or similar assurance from another recognized testing facility to show that rigid specifications and reliability requirements have been met. Then shop for price.

Special sales are frequent as a result of the keen competition between manufacturers. An ionic smoke alarm marketed by one of the pioneers in the business sold recently for $19.99, instead of its listed price of $34.99.

As to which type to buy, the advice is that it doesn't matter. If you can afford it, buy one of each type. If buying a second smoke alarm, make it the type you don't already have.

The installations of smoke alarms outside each cluster of bedrooms is advisable, and in the bedroom of anyone who smokes in bed. Additional units may be desirable at the top of a stairway or in the living room.

The states requiring smoke alarms in all new dwellings are Alaska, California, Idaho, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Oregon, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

While smoke alarm legislation is in the discussion stage in some instances, the survey showed no general state or local laws applicable to new residential construction in Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Mexico, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont and West Virginia.

Soviet Warships On Atlantic Coast

Report Vietnam, Cambodians Are Now Fighting Each Other

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Vietnamese and Cambodian troops, allies in the Indochina war, are now battling over ground American troops once fought for, U.S. intelligence sources say.

The recent battalion-sized engagements are sending peasants who have already lived through years of war fleeing once more for their lives.

The sources said fighting flared in Tay Ninh and Dalat provinces late last month when Cambodian troops attacked inside Vietnam.

The Vietnamese reportedly committed elements of several divisions, along with fighter-bombers, in an apparent flare-up of their long-simmering border dispute.

One source said there were heavy casualties.

Neither Cambodia nor Vietnam, Communist neighbors that have maintained outwardly friendly diplomatic relations, has publicly mentioned the fighting.

The two countries have been squabbling over their common border since shortly after the collapse of the South Vietnamese government in the spring of 1975.

Less than two months after North Vietnam completed its conquest of the South, Hanoi's forces reportedly grabbed several small islands that Cambodia also claimed in the Gulf of Thailand.

In that action, the Vietnamese were said to have used American-built light bombers and naval vessels captured from Saigon's defeated troops.

Although the long Indochina war has been over for more than two years, Hanoi still maintains its army at wartime strength, with most of its 24 or 25 divisions kept in the conquered South.

While a few have returned North, sources have said, most have been kept in the South for security reasons and to help in the economic reconstruction.

U.S. intelligence sources have received reports of persistent hit-and-run warfare waged against the victors by holdout South Vietnamese soldiers and other resistors.

U.S. analysts say it is only a matter of time before the Vietnamese army eliminates the bands, but these analysts believe the problem will be around for years to come.

ATLANTA (AP) — Soviet warships along the U.S. Atlantic coast are in a position to destroy cities in a nuclear war while their merchant vessels are winning weapons in a continuing economic war, high U.S. Navy officers said Thursday.

Vice Adm. William Read, commander of the Atlantic Fleet's Naval Surface Forces, said the growing presence of Soviet submarines, destroyers and cruisers in the Gulf of Mexico and off the East Coast is an indication of the growing size, power and aggressiveness of the Soviet navy.

In July, Read said, the Soviet navy showed up in the Gulf with a task force of various types of ships armed with missiles and other weapons.

"It used to be a rare sight to see Russian warships on the high seas," Read said. "Now we see them in every part of the globe — well armed and in large numbers."

Read and several other officers were attending the Southeast Seapower Symposium here.

The U.S. has 470 warships and 577 merchant ships, said retired Rear Adm. George H. Miller. The Soviets, he said, have 1,919 warships and 2,420 merchant vessels.

The United States would be at a grave disadvantage in a long war with the Soviet Union, he said, because the USSR "is the side with the ships, the side with the ability to keep those ships afloat and moving, the side with the persistence to carry on, that usually wins the protracted struggle."

The U.S. merchant fleet can carry only 6 per cent of U.S. seaborne commerce, Miller said. Some U.S. cargo is carried by Soviet ships. Soviet vessels regularly call at Savannah, Ga., and other American ports and take business away from Americans by offering lower rates, he said.

Russian political pressure on the nations which carry 94 per cent of the American seaborne cargo would be a tremendous weapon in an economic war, Miller said.

Several officers said relatively short-range cruise missiles launched from surface vessels could reach targets throughout the Southeast and ballistic missiles launched from submarines could reach any U.S. city.

Read said the long-range threat to American cities isn't the only worry, since the United States imports much needed material by ships vulnerable to submarine attack.

Read noted the effective submarine warfare Germany waged against Great Britain in World War II and said the Soviet Union now has six times as many submarines as Germany had in 1939.

Those Soviet submarines are faster, better armed and more difficult to detect than the German subs were, Read said.

The United States "has thus far proved unable to cope with the maritime strategy of the Soviet Union," Miller said. "Instead, U.S. decision-makers occupy themselves with preparing for Soviet armies to storm the ramparts of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

"But the land attack does not come. The Soviets are busy conquering the world without war; and United States defense officials seem unable to understand what is going on."

One survey of 46,000 women, conducted by the Royal College of General Practitioners, reported 24 deaths among women who had used the pill and five deaths among those who had not.

The other study, involving 17,000 women, reported nine deaths among pill-users and none by non-users. It was conducted by Prof. Martin Vessey of Oxford University's College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The studies, both conducted under the auspices of Britain's Family Planning Association, said the death rate from circulatory diseases among pill users under 35 was 1 in 20,000.

Both said the risk of circulatory-disease death among women 35 and older was greater among those who smoke or had taken the pills for five years or longer.

Dr. Ekje Kuensberg and Dr. John Dewhurst, presidents of the institutions that conducted the studies, issued a statement strongly urging women over 35 to reconsider using oral contraceptives.

But they said "there is no evidence to justify any changes in pill use" for women under 30.

They advised women between 30 and 34 to "with their doctors, think again" about taking the pill. They said women who smoke and who had taken the pill for more than five years could reduce the risk of circulatory death if they quit smoking.

The physicians said there was no advantage to suddenly stop using the pill. The study found that it takes several years for oral contraceptives to affect the circulatory system.

"No one should stop taking the pill before they have found a satisfactory alternative," they said.

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) —

For the past 20 years, Marilyn Chilton has known that some day she would be blind.

But in the meantime Miss Chilton, who runs a modeling agency, is determined to see as much of the world as she can.

She has already been to Holland, England, Germany and the Soviet Union. She's leaving soon for the Swiss Alps.

"I've never skied, but I'm going to try it and enjoy it," she says. "Even if my stumbling and falling digs up a mountain of snow, it'll be a beautiful thing to do and a beautiful place to be and see."

Miss Chilton suffers from a disease called retinitis pigmentosa. Its cause is not known, but its effect is to slowly choke off her vision from the sides. Seeing for her now is "like looking through a gun barrel," she says and makes it hard to move around without stumbling.

Miss Chilton is a leader of fund raising efforts to help finance research into the cause of the disease. The Greensboro chapter has raised nearly $20,000 this year for the cause.

Doctors say the disease prevents blood cells from cleaning the back of the retina, the surface at the back of the eye on which images are focused.

"You never know why it's there and you have to cope with it," she says. "But I hope to help other sufferers learn to cope and do something about research to assure that some future generations don't have to cope with it."

2-Year Contract

TARBORO — Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Communications Workers of America have reached an agreement on a two-year contract.

Terms of the agreement are subject to ratification by union membership.

The agreement calls for an 8.75 percent increase in wages the first year and a seven percent increase in wages the second year. Also included is an additional holiday as well as liberalized vacation eligibility and insurance premiums.

The contract has been extended to Oct. 22 to allow time for the membership to vote.

CT&T serves the Pitt County area.

Charged With Safecracking

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Vance Sprull, 22, was charged Thursday with helping to steal a safe taken during the kidnap-slaying of a 68-year-old woman last week.

He is charged with safecracking and being an accessory after the fact to burglary. William Venable Jr., 21, and James Milton Miles, 27, were charged in the case with murder, burglary, safecracking, kidnaping and assault with intent to kill.

Annie W. Eaton, 61, and her brother, James Y. Eaton, were taken from their home in Henderson during the robbery, taken to Virginia and shot. The woman was killed and her brother seriously wounded.

Old Industries Said Neglected

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt told a meeting here of the North Carolina Manufacturers Association that the state needs to pay more attention to the industry it already has.

Hunt said that in the rush to lure new industry, the state has overlooked the needs of the old ones. He said the state Economic Development Division now has a section whose job is to help North Carolina businesses expand.

In the past, he said, "we have just wooed the bride, married her and disappeared."

Graham Looks To 10 More Years

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says he doubts he'll ever retire but that age probably will force him to give up his massive crusades in five or six years. He says his family history indicates he'll die in the next 10 years but that he looks forward to it.
"I'll be glad to get away from the pressures under which I live every day and get in the presence of Christ," he says. "And I hope He lets me rest a while and then gives me another job somewhere else because I really believe that I'm going to a literal heaven."

Graham, 58, made his remarks in a three-hour, taped interview at his mountaintop home near Montreat, N.C., with David Lawrence, editor of the Charlotte Observer. Following are question and answer excerpts:
A. "You must get physically and mentally exhausted. How do you keep up with this sort of pace?"
A. "This may sound strange in a way but I can only explain it through prayer. I believe because my work is known in many parts of the world that people pray for us every day. And I just feel sustained supernaturally. I'm not a strong person. I never have been a very strong person."
A. "Physically?"
A. "That's right. I do a lot of exercising and I have to work hard to keep myself physically up. I've had all kinds of little problems. I've had pneumonia four times since 1960, and I've had just little things like even my salivary gland removed on the right side due to stones. I've had two prostate operations. From phlebitis, I had a blood clot in the inner vein of the leg."

Q. "Will you ever retire?"
A. "I don't think that I can retire as long as there is a spiritual need, and there'll always be one. (I'll continue) as long as the Lord has given me the strength to communicate the Gospel. Then if I do retire from these big massive crusades—which I'm sure I will in the next five or six years because I won't have the physical strength to do them—I'll probably write. I love to write..."
(Graham told of his beginnings in mass evangelism in 1949 at a time when he says it was in the "Elmer Gantry period" and associated with emotional, anti-intellectualism.)
A. "And big love offerings?"
A. "Big love offerings. Every evangelist I ever heard of when I started, at the end of their meetings which might last a month or six weeks as ours did and Billy Sunday's did and (Dwight) Moody's did, the collection the last four or five nights would go to the evangelists. Well, there would be huge collections..."
"I went to Los Angeles to start this crusade... We didn't call it a crusade. They were called campaigns and it was in a tent. But nobody had ever heard of me; there wasn't even a line in the paper except a small ad... and we went for three weeks."
"The Friday a few days before we were to close the place was crawling with reporters. And I said, 'What has happened?' And they said, 'You've just been kissed by William Randolph Hearst,' and the next day it was headlines in all his newspapers."
Q. "Did you ever meet Hearst?"
A. "I've never met him in my life. I didn't know what had happened until Bill Hearst, his son, later told me what he thought happened. He said he thought that his father was very interested in religion and that his father had come to the tent and had listened to me preach... that he and Marion Davies (the actress who was Hearst's long-time mistress) came."
(By 1952, worried about the money-reaping image of mass evangelism, Graham said he consulted leaders of the then Federal Council of Churches about how to avoid that image.)
"...And I said, 'I'll never hold another meeting where love offerings are taken. I want you and your staff to draw up a plan where an evangelist like myself can operate and have financial integrity and not take love offerings and not have this emphasis on money."
Q. "It seems to me that there's a danger that Billy Graham would not be seeing enough ordinary people."
A. "There is definitely that danger and I have to work at it. I was talking to Johnny Cash about it... and he said, 'Billy I always feel that I have to get with the ordinary common people two or three times a year so that I don't lose that touch.' And I feel the same way, except I am with ordinary people more than people think because a great part of my life is spent counseling people with their problems..."
"But here's a problem, if I meet a president or if I meet an Arnold Palmer, or play golf with Jack Nicklaus, that gets in the newspaper and people say well, he's hobnobbing with presidents and famous people, when 90 per cent of the people I see are not famous at all..."
Q. "Did you know (Elvis) Presley?"
A. "No, I never met him. But I believe I will see him in heaven because Elvis Presley was very deeply religious, especially the last two or three years... he, even when he was a boy, always wanted to be a preacher. That was a side of Elvis Presley, I think, people didn't know."

Will Observe Laity Sunday

Judge J.W.H. Roberts, retired attorney and chief district judge of the Third Judicial District of N.C., and John Brooks, North Carolina Commissioner of Labor, will be featured speakers during a Laity Sunday celebration which will be observed at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Oct. 9.
Judge Roberts is scheduled to speak on "The Commandments as Rewritten" at 8:45 a.m. and Commissioner Brooks on "Kiss a Winner, Hug a Loser" at 11:00 o'clock.
Brooks grew up as a member of Jarvis Church and is now a member of Edenton Street United Methodist Church in Raleigh. He is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks of Greenville.

Other lay persons taking part in the worship will include Mrs. T. R. Jones, Mrs. Ralph Tucker, Dr. John Bettis, Luther Moore and Dr. Pinkney Young.
An anthem and medley of songs will be provided by the Bible Study Sunday School group. All interested persons in the community are invited to attend the services.

just been kissed by William Randolph Hearst," and the next day it was headlines in all his newspapers.
Q. "Did you ever meet Hearst?"
A. "I've never met him in my life. I didn't know what had happened until Bill Hearst, his son, later told me what he thought happened. He said he thought that his father was very interested in religion and that his father had come to the tent and had listened to me preach... that he and Marion Davies (the actress who was Hearst's long-time mistress) came."
"...And I said, 'I'll never hold another meeting where love offerings are taken. I want you and your staff to draw up a plan where an evangelist like myself can operate and have financial integrity and not take love offerings and not have this emphasis on money."
Q. "It seems to me that there's a danger that Billy Graham would not be seeing enough ordinary people."
A. "There is definitely that danger and I have to work at it. I was talking to Johnny Cash about it... and he said, 'Billy I always feel that I have to get with the ordinary common people two or three times a year so that I don't lose that touch.' And I feel the same way, except I am with ordinary people more than people think because a great part of my life is spent counseling people with their problems..."

involved to understand... people are so big... and there are such strange sounds.
Yet the experts tell us that the natural frights of babyhood dissolve as the child realizes he is loved. Every new experience takes on happy dimensions because he has such complete trust in those who love him.
Discovering God's love for all His children is what the Christian religion is about. Men's fears and tensions give way to the realization that the Creator is someone we can trust.
This Jesus stresses when He teaches His followers to pray to the Almighty with the same confidence loving parents inspire in their child... OUR FATHER!

Report 5 Persons Hurt Again Ask Judge Excuse Self In Thursday Accidents

Five persons were reported injured and an estimated $4,425 property damage caused in a series of five collisions investigated by Greenville police here yesterday.

John Rodgers of Route 1, Greenville and three passengers in his car were reported injured in an 8:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Reade Circle.

Officers reported the Rodgers car collided with a truck driven by Russell Jay Whitfield of 1218 Evans St., resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to the Rodgers car and $500 to the Whitfield truck.

Postal Holiday

The Greenville Post Office and the ECU Station will close in observance of the Columbus Day Holiday on Monday.

Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills reminds patrons that some services will be provided: mail will be delivered to post office boxes; special delivery mail will be delivered within the city; collection will be made from all street letter boxes bearing a star; and all outgoing mail will be dispatched at 6:30 p.m.

CP&L Fuel Charge Is Set

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. says the approved fuel charge for its customers in North Carolina will be $3.90 per thousand kilowatt hours billed during October.

James M. Davis, CP&L's manager of rates and service practices, said this represents an increase of $2.05 per thousand kilowatt hours over the cost of electricity last month.

Officers reported the Cox car collided with an auto driven by Janice Bridgers Shepard of 806 Ward St., causing an estimated $500 damage to the Shepard car and $1,000 damage to the Cox auto.

Police reported Andra Williams Sixth St. was injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Patrice Mutch Brown of 1905 East Sixth St. about 4:15 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets, then struck a vehicle driven by William Henry White of 1608 East Fifth St.

Damage was set at $75 to the Brown car, $25 to the Williams bicycle and $50 to the White vehicle.

Irene Michalik Backus of Route 7, Greenville, was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of an 8:40 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Elm Street.

Officers reported the Backus car collided with a city school bus driven by Barbara Jones Williams of 414B Tyson St., causing an estimated $75 damage to the bus and $1,000 damage to the Backus car.

An estimated $100 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in an 8:55 a.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, just East of the Hooker Road intersection.

Drivers involved were identified as Mildred Taylor McGrath of 103 Deerwood Dr., and Fostine Spivey Enzor of Route 1, Tabor City.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)

Cornelia Wallace's attorneys again have asked the judge presiding in her divorce from Gov. George C. Wallace to excuse himself.

The request came in a motion filed Thursday accusing Judge John W. Davis III of holding a "secret" meeting with Wallace's attorneys and of ignoring the procedure for assigning divorce cases to judges.

The first lady's lawyers based their motion on newspaper accounts this week that the governor's attorneys circumvented routine procedure when they filed the governor's divorce petition Sept. 12.

The Montgomery Advertiser reported that Wallace's chief divorce counsel, Maury Smith, and an associate, Charles Crook, personally took the governor's petition to Davis instead of filing it in the court's office.

Smith acknowledged filing the petition directly with Davis and meeting with the judge to "apprise him of the situation and discuss the issues we could anticipate."

Mrs. Wallace's lawyers charged in their motion Thursday that Davis assigned the case "to himself in violation of the internal rules of procedure."

They also charged that the judge's meeting with Davis was "sub rosa, clandestine, secret, surreptitious, and covert."

They, therefore, again asked Davis to recuse himself, to continue the proceedings until they can prepare for trial of the recuse motion and to open to the public all hearings in the case.

In connection with the request to make the proceedings public, Jay Lewis, president of the Alabama Information Network, filed a motion Thursday seeking admission to the proceedings.

The motion asked that Lewis, as a friend of the court, be allowed to witness the proceedings because of what he contends is his "legitimate interest in the conduct of this trial."

Lewis said he had "no particular concern with the outcome" of the Wallace divorce, but insisted that the conduct of the case "is very much our business."

Davis thus far has refused to allow reporters to attend the proceedings. And he has already refused once to disqualify himself from the case.

At a private pretrial hearing Sept. 20, Mrs. Wallace's attorneys said it would be "inhumanly impossible" for Davis to decide the case "objectively or unbiasedly" because of his association with Wallace.

Davis was appointed to his post by Wallace, although the judge later was elected to the office. The judge's father, Dr. John W. Davis Jr., was one of Wallace's chief physicians; and Davis' father-in-law, Paul Corwin, was appointed to the state Real Estate Commission by Wallace.

Responding to that the first recuse motion, Davis said his alleged "long, close friendly relationship" with Wallace "does not constitute cause for recusal."

Wallace's divorce petition cited "incompatibility" and an "irretrievable breakdown" of his six-year marriage to Mrs. Wallace as grounds for divorce.

In a countersuit filed Sept. 15, the 38-year-old first lady accused her partially paralyzed husband of "actual violence and cruelty" and the failure to give her funds to meet the "normal and even basic needs of a wife."

Wallace, 58, subsequently filed a motion in which he denied those charges.

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

In the Denmark-Germany match at the 1977 European Championships, a declarer found a line of play to bring home his contract that was overlooked by the commentators who could see all four hands!

South's overall of one heart on a four-card suit meets with the approval of your columnists. The same applies to North's shapely raise to four hearts. "Interesting to see whether West will find the killing spade lead," remarked one of the commentators when the hand appeared on the giant Vu-Graph screen. He did, but it was declarer, Denmark's J. Huigaard, who did the slaying.

Dummy played low to the first trick and East's nine won. A low diamond went to the queen and ace and back came another spade. This time declarer won the ace, for East was marked with virtually every missing high card for his opening bid.

A trump finesse was followed by a diamond ruff and a trump to the ace, which picked up the outstanding trumps. Another diamond ruff eliminated that suit from declarer's hand. Now the ace and king of clubs stripped East of that suit, and the stage was set for a throw-in.

Declarer simply led a spade, forcing East to win the defenders' third trick with the king. But East had no safe exit. He was down to nothing but a spade and two diamonds, and no matter which suit he led, declarer would be able to discard the losing club from his hand when ruffing in dummy.

Apparently, there are none so blind as analysts who can see all the 52 cards. Perhaps that is because they are so used to seeing only 26!

PCA Staffers At 'Agrifax' Seminar

Staff members of Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association have returned from Raleigh, where they attended an Agrifax seminar for Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Association personnel.

Agrifax is a farm record system that adapts today's computers to the farming business. It is designed to simplify record-keeping for the farmer. Agrifax reports are of three general types — monthly management reports, year-end management reports, and tax management and tax reporting aids.

This Agrifax seminar was designed to provide farm credit employees with the expertise and training needed to fulfill the record keeping and credit requirements of member-borrowers. It was conducted by officers and staff of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia and the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, Columbia, S. C.

Attending the workshop were Arnold Parris and J. R. Dilda, vice presidents.

The farmer-owned and operated Pitt-Greene PCA serves the short and intermediate term credit needs of 1,494 farmers in Pitt and Greene Counties with more than $49 million in short and intermediate term credit.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now committed to completing a highly creative plan of action that means a great deal to you. Don't waste time, but get at this vital and interesting work and get it done so you can go on to some new course of progress. An older person of character will be very helpful to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Carry through with projects that intrigue you and get good results. Take time out for recreation, also.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You improve the situation at home considerably if you apply yourself seriously. Be fundamental where some new project is concerned. Take no chances with a known troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take that short trip and get fine results. Use tact. A good friend can give you fine advice, if you ask for it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Fill the gaps in your monetary structure and feel more secure. Learn to budget assets more carefully.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go after personal aims that you have been thinking of for a long time and get good results. Accept social invitations that could be to your advantage.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact a clever adviser and then come to the right decisions. Know what is expected of you by loved one and try to please.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact a clever friend who can be of assistance to you. Accept progressive ideas. Getting into group affairs can yield fine benefits quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into civic work that you like so much and make big headway. Impress higher-ups. Find ways to make work easier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study into new interests that can give you added income in the near future. Make changes that can be helpful to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study obligations and know how best to handle them in the days ahead. Make better plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with associates and show your willingness to cooperate more with them in the future. Get into some civic work and gain goodwill. Watch reputation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of pressing matters early. Take time for rest that will build up your vitality. Have a more optimistic outlook on life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will see beauty in everyone and everything and should be complimented for doing good work. A good sport in this chart, also.

Attention: Farmers who depend on fungicides to produce disease-free crops

EPA should hear from you!

The EPA is investigating alleged health hazards of DITHANE® fungicide, manufactured by Rohm and Haas Company, along with the whole spectrum of EBDC fungicides such as Zineb, Maneb, Mancozeb and others.

Scientists in America and throughout the world believe there is no health hazard created by the use of these EBDC fungicides on your crops. The EPA, however, may accept data from laboratory tests on mice and rats as indicating a hazard.

EPA will balance benefit evidence against hazard evidence. Evidence of benefit can keep these products in use. That's why EPA should hear from you within the next few weeks.

Specifically—EPA welcomes certain information about your use of fungicides and your thoughts about the consequences of these fungicides being taken off the market.

Here's a summary of what EPA wants to know:

- Major uses you make of EBDC fungicides and the estimated quantities used on each of your crops.
- Are there any available substitutes for EBDC fungicides and, if there are any, what would their use do to your costs.
- An estimate on the change in your productivity (yield per acre and/or total output) if EBDC fungicides were no longer available.
- Your guess as to the impact on production of major agricultural commodities and retail food prices of these commodities should EBDC fungicides be removed from the market.

Your letter should contain EPA's code notation: OPP30000/18

Registrants or other interested persons who desire to submit benefit information should consider submitting information on the following subjects, along with any other relevant information they desire to submit:

1. Identification of the major uses of the pesticide, including estimated quantities used by crop or other application.
2. Identification of the minor uses of the pesticide, including estimated quantities used by category such as lawn and garden uses and household uses.
3. Identification of registered alternative products for the uses set forth in (1) and (2) above, including an estimate of their availability.
4. Determination of the change in costs to the user of providing equivalent pesticide treatment with any available substitute products.
5. Assessment of regulation impact upon user productivity (e.g. yield per acre and/or total output) from using available substitute pesticides or from using no other pesticides.
6. If the impacts upon either user costs or productivity are significant, a qualitative assessment of the regulation's impact on production of major agricultural commodities and retail food prices of such commodities.

Dayan Endorses Carter Stand

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Relaxed and smiling, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said Thursday that Israel's confidence in President Carter has been at least partly restored by U.S. agreement to a "working paper" for new Mideast peace talks in Geneva.

Israeli leaders were jolted last weekend by a joint American-Soviet statement which Dayan said Israel interpreted as "a change leaning toward the Arabs."

That led to a five-hour, late-night meeting among Dayan, Carter and top State Department officials resulting in the working paper.

Contents of the document have not been publicized, but Dayan said in Atlanta that "we could go to Geneva tomorrow" if all parties to the proposed talks would go on the basis of the paper.

Dayan was here on a tour of several big U.S. cities to discuss Israeli policies with prominent American Jews.

Those meetings are private, but Dayan told reporters he has recommended that the Israeli government adopt the working paper. Earlier in the day, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy said in New York that "things are moving" concerning possible peace talks.

The American-Soviet statement spoke of Palestinians' "legitimate rights" in the Mideast rather than "legitimate interests," as has been the custom.

Israelis quickly interpreted that change in wording as a possible step toward giving their most bitter enemies — the Palestine Liberation Organization — more clout in the negotiations.

Dayan said his current understanding with Carter and other American leaders is that the talks could resume on the basis of the working paper, "ignoring completely the American-Soviet statement."

He said he was disappointed in the new public wording from the President, but added that it wasn't clear yet whether it was "a shaking change."

"I can't really measure the vibrations yet," he said. Dayan said he believes Carter is sincerely seeking peace in the Mideast and is not trying to hurt Israeli interests, "but I'm afraid some of his views and some of his plans will be harmful to Israel."

He did not elaborate beyond the matter of the American-Soviet statement. The Israeli foreign minister said he didn't know how his government would react officially to reports that the PLO is no longer insisting that it be a part of peace talks in Geneva.

The reports say the PLO might be satisfied with merely appointing representatives for Palestinian interests.

Dayan restated his government's unwavering refusal to negotiate with the PLO, a group the Israelis contend plans to destroy Israel.

But he added that Israel has no objections to negotiating with what it considers legitimate Palestinian leaders such as mayors of West Bank towns.

He smiled as he said Israeli leaders know very well who is with the PLO in the disputed territory and who is not.

"We know them, we live with them, we work with them," he said.

Two Carriers Attend Event

WINSTON-SALEM — Woody Carrow and Shannon Stanforth, carriers for The Daily Reflector, took part in a full schedule of activities here today as part of the annual North Carolina Newspaper Carrier Day.

Carrow and Stanforth were selected to represent The Reflector at the carrier day program, sponsored each year by the Mid Atlantic Circulation Managers Association. Included in the program for the visiting carriers was a morning R. J. Reynolds tobacco industry tour at Whitaker Park where a history of tobacco was presented, a luncheon with Chuck Mills, head football coach at Wake Forest University, and an afternoon visit to the Dixie Classic Fair.

acres located between Evans Park and Seaboard Coastline Railroad from RA-20 to Office and Institutional was denied on the unanimous recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The bid of College View Cleaners and Laundry for the rental of work uniforms for Public Works Department employees was accepted. College View submitted the low bid on four categories involving work, garage, transit and executive uniforms on a weekly cost per employee basis.

The bid of Tesco in the amount of $14,054.50 was accepted for traffic control equipment for the intersection of Hooker Road and Arlington Boulevard.

Approval was given to an application by Janoff Food Systems Inc., 520 W. Greenville Boulevard for an on and off premise beer and on-premise wine privilege license. Applications by Pizza Huts of North Carolina Inc., 305 Greenville Boulevard, for an on-premise beer privilege license, and by D & P Foods Inc. (Fastop), 3014 Memorial Drive, for an on-premise beer and wine privilege license, were also approved.

The Council also made appointments to various boards and commissions, including: Mrs. Janice B. Buck to her first full term on the Redevelopment Commission (Mrs. Buck filled an unexpired term which ended this month);

Mrs. Anne Frost and Mrs. Nancy Gustafson to their second three-year terms on the sheppard Memorial Library Board; Margaret Cain as an ex-officio member of the library board to fill the unexpired term of Miss Tammy Levey ending next March;

Donavan Phillips to a three-year term on the Human Relations Council succeeding Roderick M. Phillips who has completed his second term;

Ann Middleton and Debbie Girdharry to memberships on the HRC with terms expiring next October;

Wanda Gunter to a new term on the HRC and Douglas M. Jones to his first term on the Council;

Ms. Barbara Luciani as citizen member on the Greenville Citizens Bikeway Committee, and Janet Dunn as student member on the committee.

Annual Church Assembly Set

The Annual Assembly of the Northeast Conference, Division A, will be held beginning Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Waterside FWB Church.

The church is located two and a half miles south of Ballard's Crossroads on Highway 264 West just south of the Greene County line.

The Monday night service will be sponsored by the Deacons and Trustees.

All male choruses, gospel choruses, and special singing groups and ushers are invited to the Tuesday service, which will be sponsored by choirs and ushers of the various churches.

The Eldresses and women will celebrate their second annual Woman's Day Wednesday beginning at 10:30 a. m. Eldress Fannie Edwards of Wilson will deliver the morning message. She will be accompanied by a choir composed of women singers from all the churches. A workshop for church leaders will be held immediately after the morning service. Duties, decorum and etiquette for leaders and Christian workers will be discussed.

The Home Mission and District Unions will be in charge of the 2:30 p. m. service.

Wednesday at 7 p. m., youth services will be held. Elder Willie Joyner and Patrick's Chapel Choir and Ushers will be in charge of the devotionals. Then a musical extravaganza will be held, featuring youth choirs and ushers from all the churches.

Thursday at 11 a. m. marks the opening of the business session. All churches are requested to send delegates and be prepared to fulfill obligations, according to the Bishop W. L. Phillips, the presiding officer.

cooperatives and power companies in the ownership and operation of generation and transmission facilities, was also passed.

The sale by the Redevelopment Commission of Disposal Parcel S-7A at the southeast corner of Reade Circle and Dickinson Avenue in the Central Business District project was approved to the S. T. White heirs with Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. acting as trustee.

The total parcel contains 5,169 square feet, it was explained, but a narrow strip containing magnolia trees on the Reade Circle side will be deleted from the sale through an agreement with the purchasers.

Caldwell reported that the property maps have been redrawn to reflect the small tract that will remain under city ownership and the purchasers have agreed to pay the same per-square-foot price for the remaining property.

A drive-way cut on Reade Circle to serve Western Auto as part of the firm's expansion and renovation plans had also been sought from the Council.

Approval was given to a standard municipal agreement with the state Department of Transportation covering the installation of traffic control signals at the intersection of Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard.

Caldwell noted that the agreement calls for the city to set the concrete poles for the signals and the state will do the remainder of the installation work.

Approval was also given to a resolution authorizing the execution of agreement with DOT to obtain federal-aid highway funds (on a 90-10 federal-city basis) necessary to install advance warning signs at certain railroad crossings in the city. It was explained that no electronic signs are involved in the project, which will only cost the city an estimated $36.40 as its ten per cent share of the project.

The sign installations involve crossings at Dudley, Cross, Center, McClellan, Railroad and Skinner Streets, and Line Avenue.

A third resolution was passed authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Energy Division of the state Department of Commerce for an energy conservation plan grant for the coming calendar year.

According to the city manager, the $1,900 grant covers marketing of the city's transit system.

One-year renewal permits were granted to the Pitt County Health Department for the mobile home at 1825 W. Sixth Street and to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for the mobile structure located behind the old hospital building.

The Council voted to approve a request by the Pitt Plaza Business Council Inc. for a waiver of the privilege license requirements for the Sept. 9 and 10 arts and crafts show at Pitt Plaza. In addition, a refund of the privilege license fee of $25 was approved with a letter to the Business Council pointing out that requests for license refunds in the future will have to be made before the fact.

Public hearings were scheduled for the Nov. 3 meeting on: request by White Concrete Co. and H. L. Roberts for rezoning, from R-6 to Industrial, of approximately 21 acres on the south side of Mumford Road east of Meadowbrook; and on a request by H. G. Stocks for rezoning, from RA-20 and Highway Commercial and R-15 of approximately 33 acres located on the north side of US 264 Bypass west.

$108.96 Day For Market

The largest volume of non-descript tobacco so far this season on the Greenville Tobacco Market brought Thursday's price average down to $108.96 per hundred pounds.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade, said that the market sold 901,017 pounds yesterday for $981,735 in recording the decreased average.

The percentage of non-descript tobacco was reflected in the amount of leaf going to Stabilization. Bryan noted, as 30.05 per cent of total sales went to the government loan program.

Top practical price remained $1.65 per pound with top quality tobacco selling for as high as $1.70 per pound.

Offerings, in addition to the non-descript tobacco, consisted of leaf, cutters, lugs and primings, according to Bryan.

The market has sold 36,944,262 pounds so far this season for $43,541,231, an average of $117.86 per hundred pounds.

'Television Insanity' Plea Failed To Sway Jury

By FRED BAYLES
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Ronny Zamora faces at least 25 years in prison for killing an 83-year-old woman. But the 15-year-old boy's attorney still contends his defense of "television insanity" blazed a frontier in American law.

After two hours of deliberation, the jury of nine men and three women returned to the courtroom and to the glare of television lights late Thursday, just before midnight, to pronounce Zamora guilty of first-degree murder.

A minimum sentence of 25 years in jail was established at the outset when the prosecution said it would not seek the death penalty.

"It's very unfortunate that the jury is sending this very young boy to a state penitentiary where he will become a target of horrible offenses," said defense attorney Ellis Rubin.

"The appellate court should hear and consider this case because I think the issue presented will forge a new frontier in American jurisprudence," Rubin said in announcing that he will appeal the verdict.

Zamora, a slender junior high school student, appeared pale and shaken as he heard an assistant court clerk read the jury's decision.

He was also found guilty of burglary, armed robbery and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony. Circuit Judge Paul Baker set sentencing for Nov. 7.

"She's lost her child," said Rubin as he led Yolanda Zamora, the boy's mother, from the courtroom. "It's time to go home."

The 52-year-old attorney attracted national attention by pleading Zamora innocent by reason of "involuntary television intoxication."

At one point, Rubin subpoenaed actor Telly Savalas of the television series "Kojak" to testify on the effects of TV violence. However, the subpoena was withdrawn.

Rubin said Zamora had been conditioned by television to shoot his next-door neighbor, Elinor Haggart, when the elderly woman caught him and another person ransacking her Miami Beach home.

The trial of Darrell Agrella, 14, the other person accused in the case, begins today.

"I wonder how many murders Ronny Zamora saw before he wound up in Elinor Haggart's living room," Rubin said in his closing arguments earlier Thursday. "If they sell deodorant and automobiles and beer in 30 seconds, imagine what 30 minutes of violence can do, repeated again and again and again."

His comments were recorded by television and still cameras under a one-year camera-in-the-courtroom experiment being conducted by the Florida Supreme Court. Major portions of the trial had been broadcast in South Florida over the past two weeks.

Asst. State Atty. Tom Headley, the chief prosecutor in the case, dismissed the premise of Zamora's defense.

The prosecution said Zamora executed the woman with her own gun when she insisted on going to the police.

"I don't feel it was a terribly important question of law raised by the defense," said Headley. He said the verdict "certainly establishes, at least in this community, that people won't allow crime to be excused by television violence."

Wrapping Up Work On Achievement Testing

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The commission in charge of developing an achievement testing program for North Carolina schools will finish its work this month after thousands of man-hours of work, much of it devoted to selecting the tests themselves.

The General Assembly enacted legislation this year requiring the tests in grades 1, 2, 3, 6 and 9. Results are to be used to evaluate the state school system and identify weak points.

The tests will be administered for the first time this spring and will concentrate on students' abilities in reading, mathematics and language arts.

The 11-member commission, chaired by Durham school superintendent Dr. J. Frank Yeager, was named in July to select a test and make recommendations on how the tests should be administered and what should be done with the results.

Yeager said the panel began by notifying 30 test publishing companies of the state's plan. "Only nine companies sent us proposals and one of those later withdrew," Yeager said.

After hearings, the choice was reduced to four, and 45 teachers from the five grades were called in to look over the sample tests.

Yeager said their job was to search out any cultural, geographic or sex bias in the tests and to make recommendations on the time of day the tests should be given.

At the same time state education officials and administrators of public and private school systems were asked to evaluate the tests and make suggestions.

"Up until the last six or eight years, sex, geographic and cultural biases have pervaded," Yeager said. "Test publishers are getting much better. Greater strides are being made to eliminate bias and to neutralize the exams."

Yeager added that he has been told by educational consultants and other experts around the country that no other state has gone to as much trouble as North Carolina is to develop an effective test program.

Yeager said the test should help school administrators identify weak programs or textbooks that need to be changed. At the classroom level, he said teachers will get a clearer idea of what individual students' problems are.

Mothers And Babies Group Sets New Meeting Series

Mothers and Babies is beginning its second series of meetings and, for the first time, will offer both a morning and an evening series, as well as a separate meeting series for Mothers and Toddlers.

Interested women are invited to get-acquainted coffees. The Mothers and Babies ones are to be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at 114 Greenwood Drive and Wednesday at 10 a.m. at 417 E. Third Street. The Mothers and Toddlers coffee is to be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at 110 S. Woodlawn Street.

Mothers and Babies is a group of mothers interested in sharing ideas and feelings about their changing roles as wife, lover, mother and individual once they become mothers. It provides a relaxing social outlet for the mother in these sometimes difficult and demanding postpartum days.

Mothers and Toddlers is for the parents of babies who are becoming toddlers. Babies and toddlers are welcome to come along with their mothers to these meetings.

Each group has a series of six meetings on various topics that hopefully will be helpful.

For further information about Mothers and Babies, one may call Estelle Morin of 752-2156 or Nell Paul at 756-5428. Hilda Alford will provide information about Mothers and Toddlers. Her phone number is 758-4650.

Need Proof Of Exclusion

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Murder indictments against two black men in the slayings of a Four Oaks policeman and a Benson truck driver could be quashed if defense attorneys persuade the judge that blacks were excluded from the grand jury that returned the charges.

David E. Stewart, 26, and James H. Smith Jr., 29, both of Benson, are charged in the slayings of Dennis W. Allen, 24, a rookie Four Oaks policeman, and Linwood Lee Johnson, 51, a truck driver from Benson.

The killings were June 3, two days after the legislature enacted a new death penalty law. It was the first capital crime to fall under the new law.

The case has drawn interest from civil rights activists and death penalty opponents. Stewart's attorney is Jerry Paul, who defended Joan Little in the stabbing of a jailer. Smith is being represented by Charles L. Becton, who was involved in the Wilmington 10 case.

In a hearing Thursday, L.J. Worthington, 75, chairman of the Johnston County Jury Commission, told Paul he culled a list of 6,550 prospective jurors through personal knowledge or by asking a druggist, postman or a janitor who knew something about them.

He also said the lists came from tax and voter registration lists and included the race of each person.

"Can you explain to me why you asked the clerk to put the race on the list," Paul asked Worthington.

Board Endorses Highway Bonds

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board of Commissioners has endorsed the State's 1977 Highway Bond Issue.

The $300,000,000 bond issue, which will be considered by N.C. voters Nov. 8, provides for the issuance of highway bonds to finance maintenance and improvement of the state system.

Mayor Will E. Joyner said the Board recognizes the "the pressing need for construction, improvements and relocation of roads, bridges and other highway facilities across North Carolina. He said the Board also approves the state position which opposes increased taxes as an answer to highway problems at this time.

The Board resolved to urge local citizens to vote favorably on the question during the Nov. 8 referendum.

They quoted from a letter to the Board from N.C. Secretary of Transportation Thomas W. Bradshaw Jr., which said, "By using bond money, we can avoid inflationary costs and address our immediate problems."

Brochures explaining the Bond Issue can be obtained from the office of Secretary Bradshaw, Department of Transportation, Raleigh.

A Safety Check for the Home

Accidents in the home unquestionably represent one of the greatest threats to the health of a family. This is indeed a paradox since the home should represent the area of the greatest safety and the maximum freedom from danger.

Now that summer holidays are over, campers, families, and travelers are returning to their homes which may have been shuttered for months. The pleasure of a summer vacation is always made richer by the comforting knowledge that the home remains intact and is a source of security.

If this security is to be justified, this might be an excellent time to make a close inspection of every part of the house to be sure that there are no hidden hazards that have been previously overlooked.

This is a fine time to inspect the neglected repair jobs. For these seem so much more apparent when we return to the house even after a short absence.

Faulty electric wiring must have high priority during this safety inspection. Tired, worn, electric cords must be listed for replacement. The temporary patchwork of black tape on exposed wiring can no longer be allowed for another season. For accidents know no season and they cannot be remedied by regret.

Bucs Seek To Rebound At Homecoming

Safety Gerald Hall

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina University's Pirates, with their hopes of an unbeaten season down the drain, seek to rebound Saturday against Southern Illinois, as the Salukis invade Ficklen Stadium on Homecoming.

Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. The Pirates bring a 4-1 record into the game, after bowing to strong South Carolina, 19-16, last Saturday on regional television. Southern Illinois carries in a 2-3 record, but comes in after a 9-5 victory over Lamar Tech last week.

"Southern Illinois is a real fine defensive team," Pirate coach Pat Dye avers. "They have super specialty teams, and a good offense. They have an excellent fullback who runs the ball well and is a good receiver too."

Southern, out of its pro-I attack, is basically a conservative team on offense, depending on its defense and its kicking game to provide the breaks for it. "They beat Lamar after blocking a punt last week," Dye noted.

"They will compare favorably to VMI on defense," Dye said. "And their quarterback is a lot like VMI's too, and a real good passer."

"I really expect them to come in, play real good defense, and try to win with their kicking game."

Meanwhile, the Pirates have a number of players who missed a great deal of practice this week due to injuries suffered against South Carolina.

"We played hard at South Carolina, and I was proud of the way the team handled itself down there. They took the loss like men," Dye said.

"I think they expected to come back and work hard on Monday. They want to have a fine football team more than anyone. The only thing that worries me is that some of the people who need the work haven't been out there (practicing)."

"We still have a long way to go to reach our goals. Going unbeaten wasn't the only goal we had. I want us to get good and to have a good time playing football. We haven't had fun during the last three weeks."

Dye noted that when a team plays against another it is supposed to beat, they should get two or three touchdowns ahead, break the game open. Then everyone can have some fun and get into the game. "We haven't been able to get the second-liners in to get the experience they need," Dye said.

Then, he added, "I'm not predicting any blowout this week by any means. I'll be happy to win by one point. I just want us to play well and have fun."

The game is the tenth meeting between the two schools and the final one now under contract. East Carolina holds a 7-2 edge in the series, and won last year, 49-14. The Bucs have won the last five in a row from the Salukis.

In addition to Lamar, Southern also topped Temple, 24-20. They lost to New Mexico State, 29-7; Indiana State, 14-9, and to Arkansas State, 21-6.

Fullback Bernel Quinn, with two straight 100-yard games behind him, leads the Saluki rushing with 389 yards, and a 4.4 average. Tailback Clarence Robison is the only other rusher with more than 100 yards, totaling 140.

Overall, the Salukis have rushed for 122 yards a game, while allowing 176. Against the pass, Southern has allows 120.4 per game, while getting 110.4 per outing.

Quarterback Bob Collins has hit 26 of 62 passes for 418 yards and two touchdowns. He's had five picked off. Southern's defense has picked off nine.

Punter Steve Mick, hitting for a 43.2 average, kicked for a 49.7 average against Lamar, including one 71-yarder.

East Carolina is led in rushing by Theodore Sutton with 337 yards, while Leander Green has rushed for 233. Willie Hawkins for 207, Eddie Hicks for 138, and Jimmy Southerland for 127. The Pirates are averaging 244 per game on the ground, while allowing 132.

Southerland is the top passer, hitting 23 of 37 for 389 yards. Overall, the Bucs are getting 93.8 yards through the air, while holding their opponents to 159.2. Terry Gallaber is the top target for the quarterbacks, catching 11 for 186 yards.

Concentration Helped Creech Turn It Around

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Jim Carlin said it was the Astro-turf. Junior Creech says it was concentration.

But whatever the reason, Creech, East Carolina University's placekicker, found the range last Saturday and booted through three field goals that kept East Carolina in the game until the final minutes of play against South Carolina.

The three tied the school record for the most in a single game, and the longest, 48 yards, set a new school standard.

and quarterbacks for their help in getting his timing down right, too. "Most of the time, the reason he shouldn't be hitting the field goals. "I was hitting them just as hard. I just had to get the angles right."

Creech says that he was relaxed at South Carolina, despite having missed six of seven. "I really felt more pressure at Duke. I had a good practice warm-up at South Carolina, and I knew I was ready. It was just a question of getting the chance."

Creech reflected that many times the field goal kicker is either the hero or the goat in a game. So far, he feels he's been more of a goat than a hero despite providing the extra point kicks that beat both Duke and Virginia Military.

"It's those missed field goals that make me feel that way," he said. "They could have made it less of a close game."

No goat now, Creech just wishes he could have gotten one more chance at South Carolina. Then, maybe the Pirates would still be unbeaten.

"When someone told me about the record after the game, I thought that was great," Creech said. "But I would have given it up just to have won the game. That was what was really important."

Creech, who had his troubles in the first four games of the year as a field goal kicker, felt that concentration made the difference against South Carolina.

"We've been having a 'kick off' every week," Creech said. "Then, we've been working against a live scrimmage, and I think that's helped us a lot."

"The most important part of kicking is timing," Creech added. "I've found some things that I'd been doing wrong in my timing and in the way I approached the ball. Against Duke, for instance, my timing was all wrong, but against South Carolina I got it right."

Junior Creech

Creech uses a soccer-style approach to the ball, kicking it from the side. "I've always kicked this way. I played a lot of kick ball as a child, and I kicked that way. When I started kicking the football in Little League, I kicked that way too. I can't kick the regular (straight-ahead) way." He also admits that he was influenced by Jan Stenerud, kicker for the Kansas City Chiefs of the NFL.

He had praise for the centers kickers just hold for each other. But when you've got the center and the quarterback (holders), it makes a big difference in getting the timing, angles and your concentration going."

Creech said that he was getting down on himself after hitting just one of his first seven attempts. "But I knew that I could do it. I was kicking well in practice. It was just a question of concentration and timing."

As far as extra points are concerned, Creech has hit all 11, and because of that, he saw no

Baby Jags Claim Win

ROBERSONVILLE — Farmville Central's junior varsity football team won its first game of the season last night with a 13-0 victory over winless Roanoke.

After a scoreless first half, the Baby Jaguars put all of their points on the scoreboard in the third quarter. First, Mike Horne scored on a five-yard run and the PAT run failed. Then, Wesley Locust broke loose from 40 yards away and David Dunn added the conversion kick.

The win leaves the Baby Jags with a 1-3 record, while Roanoke drops to 0-5. Farmville plays again next Thursday at Havelock.

Lady Pirates Split Games

RALEIGH — East Carolina's women's volleyball team did exactly what it expected to do Thursday against Wake Forest and N. C. State. It broke even. However, the results were still surprising.

In the first match, Wake Forest overcame a one-game deficit to rally and take two straight games from the Lady Pirates, 15-5 and 15-7. ECU had won the first game, 15-13. Wake Forest entered the match with a 1-1 record.

The second match of the evening was a much more pleasant one for East Carolina. The Lady Bucs were given the task of facing once-beaten N. C. State. The Lady Wolfpack came into the match with a 7-1 record, but the Lady Pirates regained winning form to come out on top, 15-8, 15-8.

"We played much better as a team overall in the second game," said ECU coach Alita Dillon. "The girls did a good job overall. They had a little letdown in the first match against Wake Forest, but did a good job of coming back against N. C. State."

Coach Dillon cited Joy Forbes, Kim Clayton and Debbie Freeman as having had good games for the Lady Pirates, who brought their record to 5-2.

The Lady Bucs make their third trip to Greensboro in the last two weeks tonight for a dual match against UNC-G and Appalachian State.

Rampettes In Tennis Win

Rose High School won four of the six singles matches and pulled out a 5-4 victory over Rocky Mount's girls yesterday.

The victory marked the opening of the Division I slate for the Rampettes. They are now 1-0 in the league and 3-5 overall.

After winning four of the singles, Rose pulled off a win in the number one doubles to insure the victory.

Rose travels to Wilson on Monday for its next match.

In exhibition matches, Rocky Mount's Debbie Bullock beat Dawn Phillips, 8-4, while in doubles, Rose's Kim Waller and Angela Patrick downed Kim Murrill and Hope Kelly, 8-6.

Chargers Take Win

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's volleyball team took just two games to subdue Farmville Central yesterday afternoon, winning the first, 15-12, and the second, 15-13.

The first game saw the Chargerettes pull into a six-point lead, but the Lady Jags came battling back. Helped by Vivian Ellis' six points, Ayden-Grifton inched its way to the victory.

In the second contest, the Chargerettes came out on top of a see-saw battle as Barbie Edwards served seven points, including the final three.

Ayden-Grifton also won a "B" team match, 15-12, 15-8.

The win leaves the Chargerettes with a 5-3 season record, while the Lady Jaguars are now 4-4. Next Tuesday, Ayden-Grifton plays at North Pitt and Farmville Central hosts Greene Central.

Rose Errors Bring On 17-7 Defeat

Mac Truckin' It

Rocky Mount's Peter Allen moves in on Rose High School's Mac Washington after the Rose fullback picks up yardage in the Division I contest last night.

Other Gryphons also move in to assist on the tackle. Rocky Mount took advantage of Rose turnovers last night to capture a 17-7 victory in the defensive struggle. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Jess Eberdt threw two touchdown passes to lead Rocky Mount's pre-season Division I favorites to a 17-7 football victory over Rose High School last night.

The contest was a defensive struggle all the way, with turnovers causing Rose the most problems. The Rampants lost the ball six times during the contest, four times on interceptions, and twice on fumbles, and that thwarted several drives for Rose.

Rocky Mount, which moved the ball well in the first half, but got only seven points from it, was held in check most of the second half, but took advantage of the turnovers to add the points that won the game.

Eberdt hit Rodney Birth for 28 yards on a screen pass in the first half, then came back with a 37-yarder to Mike Lewis in the second that sewed up the victory. In between, Rocky Speight kicked a 28-yard field goal. He also added both of the extra points.

Rose's lone score came on a four-yard pitch-out to Reggie Selby, with Yousef Barakat adding the PAT kick.

Rocky Mount turned the ball over only twice, with one of those leading to the Rose score.

But overall, it was the defense that shined for both teams. Rose's defense held Rocky Mount to only 87 yards rushing, and 137 passing. Of that total, the Rampants allowed only 21 yards on the ground in the second half, and 56 through the air.

The Gryphons held the Rampants to 82 yards rushing and 63 passing.

Rocky Mount appeared headed for a score on its first possession, driving from its own 27 to the Rose 14. They were helped along by an Eberdt-to-Dee Whitley pass of 29 yards to get out of a third and 21 hole, and a 15-yard pass interference penalty against the Rampants. But the Rampant defense finally firmed inside the 20, and forced a field goal attempt that was wide.

On third down, Rose hit Eberdt as he dropped back for a pass, and claimed a fumble, but the officials ruled that it was the start of a pass.

Rose failed to move the ball, however, and punted. The ball traveled only 18 yards and gave Rocky Mount the ball on the Rampant 42. Lewis made a one-handed catch on first down for seven yards, and a rush netted a first down at the 31. Then, from the 28, Eberdt hit Birth on a screen pass, and he broke away to go the distance for the touchdown with 1:57 left in the period. Speight's kick made it 7-0.

Rose gave up the ball in good field position once more, failing to make a first down at its own 48, but on the second play, Bill Collier intercepted a pass. The Rampants were still unable to move, and kicked away.

Whitley fumbled the punt, however, and Mike Joyner recovered for Rose on the Gryphon 16. After a two yard gain, Joey Mattheis hit Billy Roberson for ten yards to the four. Mattheis went to the left two plays later, then pitched to Selby, who scooted in. Barakat's kick tied it up, 7-7, with 6:57 left in the half.

The touchdown was the first the Rocky Mount defense has allowed this year in the first half.

The Gryphons drove again, moving down to the Rose 18 before the defense again held, and a 35-yard field goal attempt was short.

In the second half, one play left a bitter taste in the mouths of the Rampant coaching staff. The Gryphons had the ball on their own 41, and Eberdt appeared to lateral to Lewis, who dropped the ball. Rose recovered, but the referee ruled it an incomplete pass.

The field judge, however, on the play, spotted the ball at the point of recovery, well behind the line, and indicated a Rose recovery. The referee, however, overruled him, and Rocky Mount kept the ball.

Rose drove later in the period to the 34 before losing the ball on downs, and Rocky Mount followed with a drive to the Rose 40 before kicking.

Robert Morehead, however, dropped the punt, and Mike Jones recovered on the seven yard line for Rocky Mount. That set up the field goal that put the Gryphons ahead for good.

The Rampant defense held, forcing Rocky Mount back to the ten, from where Speight kicked his 28-yarder for a 10-7 lead with 1:20 left in the period.

Neither team got off another threat until the final period, when Lewis intercepted Mattheis at the Rose 37.

On the first play, Eberdt dropped back, and barely eluded Raymond Wooten for a sack, then fired to Lewis, who had gotten behind the Rose secondary. It went the distance for the clinching touchdown, running the Rocky Mount lead to 17-7.

Rose offered one more real threat, and one other that never really got on track. After the kickoff, Rose moved to its own 46, from where Mattheis hit Mac Washington on a 40-yard pass to the Gryphon 14. Two plays later, however, Rose fumbled it away.

After holding the Gryphons, Rose got it back on the RM 41, but was again intercepted on third down.

That ended any hope the Rampants had.

The defeat leaves Rose with a 3-3 overall record, and an 0-1 mark in the conference. Rocky Mount climbs to 5-1 overall and 1-0 in the league.

The Rampants play host to Bertie next Friday for Homecoming.

Tom Sneva Making Debut As New Driver On GN Tour

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The $250,000 National 500 is the Grand National racing debut for Tom Sneva, the 1977 national champion in Indianapolis car racing.

But the 29-year-old former junior high school principal from Spokane, Wash., is no stranger to stock car racing.

He has driven sportsman cars at Birmingham, Ala., International Raceway (BIR), in a USAC stock car race and a Camaro in the International Race of Champions series.

An interesting sidelight: he still has not completed an official lap in a major stock car race.

"I crashed twice in practice at BIR. They fixed the car after the first one, and I went back out and put it in the wall again, right in the same place. That car was really torn up. You should have seen it," Sneva recalled.

Somehow the car was patched together, and Sneva got it in the race. "I think it was the second or third fastest car there, and I qualified next to slowest," he said with a guilty grin. "I think I finished fourth in the feature, with a flat tire."

At Michigan International Raceway last summer, Sneva qualified one of car owner Roger Penske's Grand National-legal Mercurys fourth fastest for a USAC stock car race.

"I crashed on the cool-off lap after qualifying," Sneva said. "That ended my stock car career with Roger."

The car was too badly damaged to start the race.

Last month in the IROC series opener, Sneva, who qualified for the invitational series by winning two races and breaking the 200 mile per hour barrier at Indianapolis, started near the back of the pack, but was involved in a five-car wreck on the first lap.

Aycock In 22-14 Win

WINDSOR — E. B. Aycock got back on the winning side yesterday with a 22-14 victory over Bertie Junior High School.

Aycock took the lead in the first period on a 15-yard run by Jerome Cox. Bertie came back on a pass later in the half to tie it at 6-6.

In the third period, Aycock moved back into the lead, with Mike Thurber scoring from four yards out. Mark Douglas ran over the PAT for a 14-6 lead.

Both teams scored in the final period, with Aycock getting a seven-yarder from Alonza Taylor for the winning tally. Douglas again ran over the PAT.

Aycock is now 3-1, and will host Goldsboro next Thursday.

E.B. Aycock 6 0 8 8-22
Bertie 0 6 0 8-14

He drove into the inside guard rail to avoid a spinning car.

"Well, I crashed in practice in the first one, crashed after qualifying in the next, and then made it all the way to the first lap of the race in the next one," Sneva said.

"At least you can see improvement."

Sneva is hoping to actually complete a few laps here Sunday. He qualified a respectable 12th in a Harry Hyde-prepared Dodge.

"You know, I almost crashed on the cool-off lap after qualifying," Sneva said. "Harry told me the car would be hot after two laps of qualifying, so shut it off."

"I wasn't that familiar with everything on the dash. And after I crossed the finish line, I was looking at the gauges to see how hot it was, and looking for the (on-off) switch. I looked up and noticed I was headed straight for the wall," Sneva said.

The car fish-tailed, tires smoking until Sneva finally got it back under control.

"I came back in and Harry congratulated me on having such consistent laps. It sure didn't feel consistent from where I was sitting," he added.

Sneva leaned over to front row starter Cale Yarborough, who was standing nearby, and said, "Let's take it a little easy at the start, okay? I'm still learning."

Yarborough just smiled.

Rec Results

The Tornados and Diplomats captured soccer victories yesterday, while the Pirates took their opening victory in the tackle football league of the Greenville Recreation Department.

The Pirates nipped the Redskins, 12-10. The Pirates gained the lead in the first period on a 41-yard run by Roderick Harrell. He came back with a 15-yard run in the second period for a 12-0 lead.

The Redskins Ronnie Worsley scored on a 35-yard run in the third period, with Marty Tyson getting the PAT. Later in the final period, Tony Clemmons tackled the Pirate quarterback for a safety, ending the scoring.

Hutton Cobb led the Tornados to a 4-0 victory over the Aztecs in soccer. Cobb scored three goals, one each in the first, third and final periods. Mike Gavigan added the other score, in the third period.

David Lee also scored three goals in guiding the Diplomats to a 6-0 win over the Stars. Lee scored goals in the first, second and fourth periods. Scott Davis added two fourth period scores, while Sean Frelke got one in the fourth.

Wilson In Victory

WILSON — Hosting Wilson captured a three-way cross-country meet yesterday. The Titans finished up with the low score of 22. Rose High School was second with 48, followed by Bertie with 58.

Don Ox of Wilson led the parade across the finish line in 15:06. Teammate Tony Newsome was second in 15:33.

Bertie's Jason Outlaw finished third in 15:39, while Wilson's Joseph Alligood was fourth in 15:43. Til Jolly of Rose rounded out the top five in 15:47.

They were followed by Robert Clark of Bertie, 15:55; Reggie Kelley of Wilson, 16:03; Mike Atkinson, Wilson, 16:12; Ted Gartman of Rose, 16:17; and Steve Blackwell, Rose, 16:25, in the top ten.

Other Rose finishers included: Bill DeVanzo, 11th in 16:36; Blair Smith, 13th in 16:49; Sterling Ashby, 15th in 17:07; Dan Mayo, 17th in 17:34; and Latham Mills, 20th in 17:55.

Rose will play host to New Bern, Rocky Mount and Northern Nash on Monday.

Yankees Come Through, Even Series

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, led by their stopper and their starter, won the game they had to win, evening their American League playoff series with the Kansas City Royals at one victory apiece.

who overpowered the Royals with a tidy three-hitter. The starter was Cliff Johnson, who ignited the Yankees' dormant bats with a home run and a run-scoring double. The efforts of the slender Guidry and the massive Johnson propelled the Yankees to a 6-2 triumph Thursday night and turned the best-of-five AL pennant series into a two-out-of-three affair. The first of those three games at Kansas City's Royals Stadium is tonight, with right-hander Dennis Leonard, Kansas City's 20-game winner, against Mike Torrez, 17-13 this season.

Guidry, the ragin' Cajun from Carencro, La., almost didn't make the Yankees in spring training, only going north with the team because New York didn't have any other left-handed relievers. At one point in spring training, Yankee manager Billy Martin joked to the 27-year-old: "If there's anybody in the American League you can get out, tell me and I'll let you pitch to him." Once the season started and Guidry was forced into the starting rotation, the lanky left-hander was getting everybody in the AL out. Guidry, 16-7 this year and a winner of 11 of his last 14 decisions, was coveted by the Royals, and two years ago he was all but on his way to Kansas City.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog would have loved to have Guidry wearing Kansas City blue rather than the Yankee pinstripes Thursday night. "He pitched a great ballgame. He had great stuff, a great breaking ball," said Herzog, whose club was limited to Frank White's single in the third, Freddie Patek's double in the sixth and George Brett's single in the ninth. "He's a really good pitcher."

Although the Royals never went after the 6-foot-4, 225-pound Johnson, they would have preferred if he played for somebody besides the Yankees. Called "The Monster" by Martin, Johnson creates excitement at the plate, swinging from the heels on every pitch. The only thing that keeps his body from toppling over is the contact of bat and ball.

With the Yankees trailing 1-0 in the fifth, Johnson hit a towering pop behind home plate which catcher Darrell Porter misplayed, giving the Yankees designated hitter a second life. Several pitches later, Johnson hit the ball in the opposite direction, more than 430 feet to straightaway center field. Not only did he have to battle one of starter Andy Hassler's fastballs, Johnson had to squint through tearing eyes that were irritated by the wind. Johnson also laced a tie-breaking double in the sixth inning, prompting a standing ovation from the crowd of 56,230 — largest in Yankee Stadium this year — when he went to bat in the eighth inning. It was a warm feeling," said Johnson. "These people in New York are about to spoil me."

IN N. C. STATE'S 24-20 victory over Maryland last Saturday, the Wolfpack's final scoring drive was helped out by a fumble — not a Terrapin fumble, but a State fumble.

The Pack, driving with less than two minutes to go in the fourth quarter and trailing 20-17, was faced with a third-and-four situation at the State 48. Wolfpack quarterback Johnny Evans threw a screen pass to Billy Ray Vickers on the left side of the field. Vickers went about two steps before he was hit by a Maryland defender and the ball flew forward, where it was recovered by State's Jim Ritcher for a six-yard gain.

The fumble provided State with a critical first down and the team went on, with the help of two Terrapin penalties, to score the winning touchdown with 27 seconds in the game. Evans took the ball in from two yards out.

There is a bit of irony in the fact that a fumble aided the Wolfpack's win because the team's two fumbles in the third quarter very nearly cost State the game.

The Wolfpack received the second half kickoff as Ralph Stringer took it on the eight. He got out to the 22, but fumbled and Maryland's Ralph Lary recovered. The Wolfpack defense held the Terps to just one yard in three downs, forcing Ed Loncar to kick a 38-yard field goal to give Maryland a 13-7 lead, their second biggest of the game.

LATE IN THE QUARTER, State had the ball at its own 39 when Evans fumbled a handoff and Terrapin Bruce Palmer pounced on it at the 41.

Maryland got down to the 28 with a first-and-ten but, luckily for the Pack, Richard Carter intercepted a Mark Manges pass at the 19 to stop what would have been a sure score.

The win gives the Wolfpack a four-game winning streak after an opening day 28-23 loss to East Carolina. State, picked by some to finish low in the conference, is now on top of the ACC with a 3-0 record and Carolina, Clemson and Duke left to play. It would appear that, after last year's 3-7-1 showing, the Pack, indeed, is back.

Pirates Needed First Downs

It wouldn't have taken a touchdown or even a field goal from East Carolina's stymied offense in the second half for the Pirates to have won their game against South Carolina — a couple or three first downs would probably have done the trick.

The Pirates made one first down on their first drive of the second half and two first downs on their last drive of the game, but none in between. The rest of the half it was three plays and punt or two plays and fumble.

The result of this was the ECU defense was on the field over nine minutes longer than the offense during the second half. Even the best-conditioned defense have been down under those conditions.

If the Pirate offense had just been able to mount one drive during the second half — not to score, but just to give the defense a rest — the Pirates could probably have won the game.

Such a drive would not only have given the Buc defense a well-deserved breather, it would have improved the team's field position, which was poor during the entire second half, save the Pirate's first drive of the third quarter which resulted in a 48-yard field goal by Junior Creech. South Carolina's three second-half scoring drives began at the Gamecock 38 and 42 and the ECU 40.

In addition, the Buc defense stopped a South Carolina drive, that started after a fumble at the Pirate 11, with a missed field goal. With that kind of field position and as tired as they were, the ECU defensive players must have been playing on a lot of desire to hold USC to just 13 second-half points.

Keystone Takeout

Yankee second baseman Willie Randolph is aggressively upset by sliding Frank White of the Kansas City Royals on a force play in the sixth inning of last night's playoff game. Yankee manager Billy Martin argued that White went out of the baseline on the play, during which Fred Patek scored, but umpire Marty Springstead held his ground. (AP Laserphoto)

Hale Irwin Strong Favorite For Title

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — It's not always great golf on the wet fairways and amid the dripping trees of Wentworth's "Burma Road" course. But Hale Irwin is a strong favorite to win the World Match Play title for the third time in four years.

"It's that kind of weather and it's that kind of golf course," Irwin said as he prepared to face Australia's Graham March today in the semifinals.

"With all the slop and the junk, you're not going to hit a lot of great shots. First you have a muddy lie, and then one in the wet grass. Is the ball going to fly or isn't it?"

"None of the guys are playing fantastic golf, and you can't wonder."

But Irwin had no need for apologies. He had an eagle and two were left in contention — Irwin and Ray Floyd, who edged Lanny Wadkins 1-up Thursday in a tense match.

The British have come to regard Irwin as a ruthless match-play competitor. He won this title in 1974 and 1975 and was runner-up to David Graham of Australia last year. This time, the bookies, legal here, now make him the 7-2 favorite to win the first prize of $52,500.

Halfway through the marathon tournament — four days of 36-hole a day matches — Irwin said: "I don't consider myself ruthless. And I can't say I'm anxious to play in a lot of match-play events. But this is the only tournament of its kind. You need to challenge yourself sometimes, and this is a different way of doing it."

YOU'RE INVITED to a Birthday Party!
Sunday, October 9, 4 p.m.-8 p.m.
And the Cake's On Us!

Ray Kroc, McDonald's® founder, is celebrating his 75th birthday this week. And in celebration, McDonald's is giving a free piece of birthday cake to any customer who stops in this Sunday, October 9 between 4 and 8 p.m.*

On this occasion, we'd like to tell you a little bit about the man who started the McDonald's family. Born in Chicago, Mr. Kroc served as Midwest Sales Manager for a paper cup company for 17 years. In the 40's, Ray Kroc became the exclusive salesman for the new invention called the milk shake "multi-mixer" machine. While selling the machines, a small drive-in restaurant in San Bernardino, California, called McDonald's, caught his attention. Realizing the potential of such restaurants, Mr. Kroc began the McDonald's chain in 1955 in Des Plaines, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. McDonald's is now an international company with 4,000 restaurants in more than 21 countries.

Mr. Kroc has been very generous to many charities including St. Jude's Hospital, Children's Memorial Hospital, Lincoln Park Zoo, etc. He's also established a foundation to fight arthritis, diabetes, and multiple sclerosis.

In 1972, Mr. Kroc was one of 10 prominent Americans to receive the Horatio Alger award.

So don't forget October 9! It's Ray Kroc's birthday party and everyone is invited!

High Stakes In Non-Conference Games

By The Associated Press
North Carolina opens its Atlantic Coast Conference schedule this weekend against Wake Forest, but some of the highest stakes this week will be in non-conference games.

North Carolina State, for example, will be trying for national recognition this week as the Wolfpack tries to extend its winning streak to five games after an opening loss. The Pack plays Auburn.

Maryland, meanwhile, which was supposed to sweep the conference and has bogged down after an opening victory with defeats at the hands of West Virginia, Penn State and N.C. State, will be trying to salvage its pride against Syracuse.

Clemson is riding the crest of a three-game wave and will be trying to stretch it to four against unhappy Virginia, still looking for a victory.

Virginia at Clemson
1 p.m., Clemson Memorial Stadium
Clemson

Clemson will be trying for a fourth victory in a row after triumphs over Georgia, Georgia Tech and Virginia Tech. It will be homecoming for the Tigers. "There aren't many teams that could win those three on the road," said Tiger Coach Charley Pell. "We've got the makings of a team that deserves some sort of ranking."

Quarterback Steve Fuller is having a remarkable year, with three touchdown passes and three scores himself on the ground in the last two games alone. He has thrown 59 times without an interception.

Virginia's defense gave up 113 points in its first three games, but did a creditable job last week against West Virginia.

Wake Forest at North Carolina
1:30 p.m., Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill

This is the 74th year of the Deacon-Tar Heel rivalry, with the Tar Heels holding a 47-24-2 edge in the series. Wake is coming off three losses in a row, but came back nicely against Purdue last week, coming from a 20-0 deficit to a 26-17 final score.

Wake quarterback Mike McGlamry passed well and now leads the ACC with 11.5 completions per game. Sophomore running back James McDougald is the ACC's top rusher with 103.7 yards per game, though the Boiler-makers held him to 47 last week. The Tar Heels still don't know whether their starting quarterback, Matt Kupec, will be playing this week. He missed last week's 10-7 loss to Texas Tech with a sprained knee.

Clyde Christensen couldn't seem to get the Tar Heel offense moving last week and the team rolled up only 198 total yards, worst performance of the year.

Syracuse at Maryland
1:30 p.m., Byrd Stadium
College Park
North Carolina State ended

the Terps' 21-game ACC winning streak and made it three Maryland losses in a row, first time that's happened in six years.

The loss was surprising inasmuch as it was the Terps' best showing of the year, 377 yards total offense. But quarterback Mark Mangas hit on only nine out of 26 passes.

Syracuse, after early losses to N.C. State and Oregon State, has just beaten Illinois and Washington.

Duke at South Carolina
1:30 p.m., Williams-Brice Stadium
Columbia

The Blue Devils beat Navy last week and beginning to think of themselves as a first class team. They're the first ACC squad to take on former conference member South Carolina.

Quarterback Mike Dunn, still suffering last week with a sore ankle, is fourth in the conference on total offense and third in passing. He has the second best completion record now, 38 out of 61.

After the Gamecocks face Duke, they have four other ACC schedule stops. They stand 4-1 on the season. Their quarterback, Ron Bass, is averaging 225.8 yards rushing and 150 yards passing for the season.

South Carolina will be coming off a 19-16 victory over East Carolina, which had been unbeaten until then.

N.C. State at Auburn
1:30 p.m., Jordan-Hare Stadium
Auburn

This will be the Wolfpack's first assault on the Southeastern Conference since it beat Florida, 8-7, two years ago. These two schools haven't met before. N.C. State leads the ACC in offense. Auburn tops the SEC in defense.

N.C. State quarterback John-ny Evans leads the league in total offense, and running back Ted Brown is No. 2 in rushing, and leads in scoring as well with nine touchdowns.

Both teams have been bothered by fumbles. Auburn lost to Southern Mississippi, but has victories over Arizona, Tennessee and Mississippi.

Lady Jags Top Ewes

SNOW HILL — Farmville Central captured its first Eastern Carolina Conference tennis victory in girls' tennis yesterday, downing Greene Central, 9-0.

The Lady Jaguars had little trouble with the Ewes, rolling up victories in each match. Farmville allowed only eight Greene Central games in the first set, and just seven in the doubles.

The win left Farmville at 4-4 overall and 1-0 in the league. Farmville travels to Roanoke on Tuesday.

Summary:
Diana Gordon (FC) defeated Crystal Pittman, 6-0, 6-0.
Courtney Lancaster (FC) defeated Kathy Shackelford, 6-1, 6-0.
Jill Johnson (FC) defeated Denise Scott, 6-3, 6-0.
Cara Burnett (FC) defeated Terri Wade, 6-0, 6-0.

Same Story In Battle Of Big D

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Every time Texas plays Oklahoma, it seems that both teams are undefeated, ranked high in the national poll and ready to tear each other's throats out.

The "Battle of Big D" will be no different this Saturday, when the Longhorns meet the second-ranked Sooners in a showdown of college football superpowers.

"They have more talent than they've ever had," says Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, talking about the fifth-ranked Longhorns. "They have a big-play offense. They have more speed than any Texas team — or for that matter — any team we've played."

Despite a high-powered Texas offense that has produced the biggest point production in the country, Oklahoma is a three-point favorite in the traditional game at Dallas. But obviously the Sooners will have to corral that blazing Longhorn speed if they hope to wear the bronze Cowboy Hat trophy that annually goes to the winner.

This is the 20th time in the distinguished series stretching back to 1900 that both teams have gone into the game unbeaten. The Longhorns spoiled the Sooners' undefeated season 17 times in the past, while Oklahoma has turned the trick on Texas seven times.

Texas Coach Darrel Royal retired last season after posting a 12-7-1 record against the Sooners.

Two-Lady Show Needs A Script

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC has this unsophisticated sitcom, "Laverne and Shirley," about two ladies working in a Milwaukee brewery. The show's high ratings must have got CBS to thinking.

Because by golly, CBS on Sunday starts its own two-lady sitcom, "On Our Own." But this show is sophisticated. You can tell because the ladies work in an ad agency in glamorous New York.

The show, which also works in glamorous New York, stars Lynn Greene, a tall, sprightly actress, as Maria Teresa Bonino, and Bess Armstrong, a short, sprightly actress, as her close pal, Julia Peters.

Maria is an art director, Julia a copywriter. The premiere has them casting their first TV commercial. It's for a 39-hour deodorant called "Halt." You don't laugh at this, you are not sophisticated.

It's quickly established that tall Maria is embarrassed about her height. It seems to hamper her love life. A hint comes during an office chat when Julia asks her where she was last night.

"At confession," Maria Teresa Bonino, no Buddhist, replies. "How was it?" Julia asks. "The priest fell asleep."

In time, Gretchen Wyler, cast as the snide, domineering head of the ad agency, enters the office. She carries a small dog whom the credits identify as "Flotsam the dog."

(If you listen hard, you may hear Flotsam the dog softly murmur, "Boy, this show is a real human.")

Miss Wyler hands Flotsam to a passing flunky with instructions to "take him to the little boy's room." Then she delights Julia and Maria by saying she loves their "Halt" commercial. But being sophisticated, she orders wee changes. No longer is the ad to depict a "family man." He now must be "provocative, a snarling, growling animal."

She also says the actor chosen to provoke, snarl and growl must do it sort of nude. Julia and Maria sort of wonder what she means.

However, Miss Wyler says the auditioning actors will "have their shorts on. Otherwise, I'd do the casting."

The casting commences. The casters spend a lot of time being nervous about seeing men in shorts.

One handsome prospect (James Dupont) seems to have the inside track. This is because, in separate chats, he tells Julia, then Maria, he has big eyes for her. The feminine hearts go right into flutter mode.

But when they find out he is an insincere cad and is saying all those nice things just to get the job ... well, rest assured he'll learn the error of his ways in the minute finale.

The script by Bob Randall is so thin a micrometer couldn't measure it. But Miss Greene registers well, ditto Miss Armstrong, a very appealing actress who should appeal right now for another show.

I have a feeling this one, the only current series shot entirely in New York, will soon suffer what that hamlet suffered — a blackout.

'Crisis' Plan Draws Fire

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Energy Policy Council's crisis plan for fuel shortages this winter is already drawing fire from some of the merchants who would be affected by it.

Among the protesting retailers was McDonald's hamburger chain, which said it didn't want to limit its operations to 60 hours a week in the event of serious natural gas curtailments.

Under the plan submitted to Gov. Jim Hunt for approval, all retailers would be subject to the 60-hour limit. Stores would be set on a standard schedule. Convenience stores would be open from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. and from 6 p.m. to midnight, six days a week.

Gas stations and restaurants like McDonald's would be allowed to choose their own schedules but would still be limited to 60 hours, with a few special exceptions.

R. Crist Berry, regional operations coordinator for the chain, said McDonald's would save more energy with heating cutbacks than with a shortened schedule.

"We could meet just about any reasonable curtailment placed on us with less inconvenience to our customers (than with the state proposal)," Berry said.

Bill Ippock, president of the state Association of Convenience Stores, said convenience stores should be given the same schedule flexibility as restaurants and gas stations.

"Inasmuch as we offer gasoline and fast food, you would have thought the Energy Policy Council would consider these stores technically qualified as restaurants and or gas stations," he said.

"The council certainly disregarded our association's input into the plan, and they obviously have no understanding of what our industry really does," Ippock said, adding that the 60-hour limit would force layoffs and financial hardship on operators without saving much energy.

Many People List Their Homes With Us. ERA's Home Sellers Protection Plan Is The Faster, More Profitable, Worry-Free Way To Sell Your Home. As a homeowner, you know that any of these items and systems - all built in appliances, heating systems, central air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems, hot water heater, etc. can break down at any time. But what happens if the breakdowns occur when you have your home for sale? Obviously, you've got a repair bill to pay; that's money you will never recover when your home is sold. Unless of course, your home is covered by ERA's exclusive HOME SELLER'S PROTECTION PLAN. This revolutionary plan covers the repair or replacement of major home components until your home is sold. (From 2 weeks to 180 days) Should anything break down, one toll-free telephone call will start a local repair specialist on his way to fix the trouble. You never pay more than a modest deductible charge no matter how extensive the trouble may be. How do you get Home Seller's Protection? By calling your ERA broker when it's time to sell your home. When it's your turn to sell, we give you more reasons to see us. See Our Homes In The Classified Ads. "EVERYTHING WE TOUCH TURNS TO SOLD!" # Say Zoning Laws Grossly Overdone

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — A number of people in the building and land development industries are saying zoning laws have been grossly overdone in the United States.

And they are winning some support from academic circles. A team headed by Dr. George Sternlieb of Rutgers University in New Jersey last spring completed a study of the causes of the spectacular rise in the cost of home owning. Dr. Sternlieb's team concluded that injudicious zoning often makes it impossible for builders even to contemplate moderately priced housing.

The report said many of the costs imposed by subdivision controls are totally unnecessary and so, of course, are many costs imposed by building materials and construction codes. Between them, zoning excesses and unnecessary code restrictions account for at least 16 per cent of the cost of a $50,000 house, the team found.

Martin Swartzman, head of Glenwood Management Corp. of New York, a large builder and operator of high rise luxury apartment buildings, said zoning has been much overdone in New York. He said a lot of the zoning, in effect, is totally unnecessary and causes too much expense.

Although there has been a lot of building in the city since the city's present zoning code was adopted in 1960, he called it much too cumbersome and said it may contribute to urban decay by leaving builders and developers mystified and frustrated.

New York City has large areas, particularly in the Bronx and Brooklyn, that have been devastated by social change.

Hundreds of blocks of tenements and lower middle class apartment buildings, factories and stores have been bulldozed down to save taxes. Some of the lands have been abandoned.

Redevelopment of this property depends on many things but severe zoning restrictions can make redevelopment more difficult.

Swartzman said one trouble is that zoning seems to follow Parkinson's law — that is, regulations expand to use up all the time and money the bureaucrats have available.

He said this has been aggravated by the fact that the federal government has made so much money available for municipal planners and that environmental and civil rights regulatory groups can proceed to exploit zoning restrictions to gain their ends. Swartzman conceded that zoning is necessary in most cities and towns.

The generally accepted advantages of zoning are that it enables a community to exercise control over population density and make long range plans for schools, fire and police protection, water, sewerage and other services.

How, it is asked, could people feel safe in investing money in land and buildings without zoning laws to protect them from the impact of unplanned urban sprawl with its crowding, air pollution and noise?

Who wants a gasoline station, a noisy small machine shop or a smelly dyeing or chemical works built across the street from a handsome home?

Some of the more savage attacks on zoning excesses have come from land developers in Colorado who fear that zoning and environmental concerns might wreck their booming business.

An editorial in the Grand Junction Daily Sentinel in June said one of the best kept secrets in the United States is the fact that the booming metropolis of Houston never has had any zoning laws of any kind.

"Surprisingly," the editorial said, "that city is thriving to a point that must agonize the controlled growth advocates."

Houston, indeed, never has had any zoning law.

The main reason probably is, Jack Wells of the Real Estate Board of Houston told UPI, that "Texans just don't like anybody telling them what they can do on their own land."

"Admittedly Houston is a weird and wild place," the Colorado newspaper's editorial continued. "Residences, artsy shops, homes turned into restaurants, hamburger stands, gas stations, town houses, duplexes and jumping night spots all stand cheek by jowl... but that's the way Houston likes it. When the free market decides a declining older neighborhood is ready for investment and revival, there are no regulations and rules to bloc the way; the money can flow and the city can be recycled."

The editorial then said, and Wells of the Real Estate Board of Houston concurred, that Houston officials believed zoning would artificially inflate housing costs, encourage dull monotonous housing, encourage urban sprawl with resulting energy waste and, above all, bring unnecessary bureaucratic regulation, spread politics and graft and aggravate prejudice against the poor and minorities.

Finally, the Colorado editor said, zoning too often "represents middle class planners' ideas of the good society and ignores poor and blue collar peoples' needs."

The case against over-rigid zoning was raised obliquely some years ago by a New York University professor writing in a prestigious academic review in praise of slums.

The professor was not writing about ghetto slums but about the teeming cosmopolitan slums of the days when New York, Chicago and Boston were growing by leaps and bounds! He said the slums of those days, with their tremendously variegated populations, were the most vigorous fountains of intellectual, artistic and social ferment in the country and the greatest impetus to economic expansion.

By contrast the professor found exurbia, to which so many city dwellers had fled, dull, fatuous and non-productive on scientific, intellectual, artistic or economic levels.

Since slum removal is a prime objective of many zoning laws, the implications of the professor's article on the wisdom of over rigid zoning are obvious.

The study at Rutgers by Dr. Sternlieb's team blamed zoning excesses and other increases in the role of government in housing for making "the housing delivery system of the United States an endangered species."

After a look at the intricacies of expensive federal aid to housing as it actually works, the Sternlieb report concluded (as Martin Swartzman did) that federal housing subsidies often complicate rather than help the situation.

"The sheer growth of the imbalance between America's housing costs and consumer incomes means," the study said, "that subsidy mechanisms, which should be geared to those most in need, are increasingly absorbed by the lower middle range of householders."

"One of the basic rules of economics is that a subsidy to everybody is a subsidy to no one," the study comments.

"As one sees, for example, Section 8 income limitations moving to a point where they support the housing of people with incomes in excess of $18,000 a year, the danger becomes evident."

Sternlieb said that although zoning was originally conceived merely as a way to separate incompatible uses of land, it now often is used to control the character of a community.

"While the most blatant of exclusionary zoning practices have come under courtroom assault, many less obvious techniques are employed by a local government to maintain the character of the community. These policies can lead to the unavailability of moderately priced housing."

Sternlieb's report criticized minimum lot area standards severely and was equally stern about many subdivision regulations proclaimed by local authorities, saying that quite often these policies have little relationship to real health and safety standards and simply serve to drive up the cost of housing unreasonably.

Court Requires 3 Free Beers

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Bus driver John Francis downed a beer Thursday to celebrate a court decision which guarantees him three free beers a day for the rest of his life.

Francis, 40, won the beers in a promotional contest at the opening of a Canberra hotel in 1970.

But in 1975, the hotel was sold and the new owners cut off his free beer. Francis sued the previous owners and his claim was upheld in the supreme court.

He was also awarded $9,979 for the beer he missed.

Francis says he has been drinking for 20 years and averages two or three beers a day.
