

Pitt Commissioners And Private Haulers Confer On Waste Disposal Plan

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners last night met with private solid waste haulers who have expressed an interest in securing exclusive franchises to serve special districts in the county as part of the board's proposal to organize solid waste collection throughout the county.

Ten private contractors now operating in the county attended the session and were given tentative assignments of districts they would serve if the plan is given final approval. At present there are 28 licensed haulers in the county. However, a number of licensed haulers serve only industrial and commercial customers. Other contractors indicated they were not interested in the exclusive franchise plan. Under the proposed system, the 10 haulers would be awarded exclusive franchises to operate in their districts. No other solid waste haulers would be allowed to operate within their area. The major portion of the haulers approved of the proposed district assignments last night which, for the most part, assigned the haulers to areas they are already operating in.

County planner Larry Hurlocker explained that the districts were arranged as nearly equal as possible, both as to the number of homes included and the number of road miles within the district that the haulers would have to travel, taking into consideration the number of customers each of the haulers reported they would be able to serve.

They range in size from 576 homes to 1013 dwellings and from 73 road miles to 119.

Under the proposal, the Board of Commissioners would award the franchises and set the collection fee for one pick-up per week. Individuals wishing more than once-a-week service would negotiate with the franchise holder for any additional charge. The private collector would be responsible for securing his own customers and collecting the fees.

The haulers would be required to serve any household wishing the pick-up service, provided the resident pays the collection fee.

Under a proposed ordinance establishing the franchise system, home owners would be required to dispose of their solid waste by hauling it to the county landfill themselves, disposing of it in an approved incinerator, or having private contractors haul it away.

Hurlocker told the contrac-

Economy Indicators Rose In September

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its index that gives clues about the economy's future rose in September for the third straight month, a further sign the economy is coming out of its summer slowdown.

The increase in the index of leading indicators last month was a moderate three-tenths of 1 per cent. However, revised figures showed the August index rising 1.4 per cent, one of the largest monthly jumps in the past two years.

The nation's economic growth had slowed in the third quarter after a strong performance in the first half of the year, but the new figures indicated some improvement ahead in the fall.

President Carter is waiting to see how the economy looks before deciding whether to cut taxes next year to stimulate the economy and create new jobs.

The Commerce Department revised its August index from a rise of eight-tenths of 1 per cent to 1.4 per cent because of new figures showing big increases in net business formation. This indicator includes businesses' telephone installations and other signs of their willingness to expand.

The August increase was the biggest since a 2 per cent increase in March and a series of 2 and 3 per cent increases in mid-1975 at the end of the recession.

With a one-tenth increase in July, the total three-month increase is 1.8 per cent. In the second quarter of the year, the index was unchanged.

Although the over-all September index rose, the increases were confined to only four of the 10 indicators available. They were changes in the money supply, orders for plants and equipment, changes in sensitive prices and liquid assets.

Causing a drag on the index were poor performances in the average work week, layoff rate, stock prices, new orders, delivery performance and building permits.

The September index stood at 132.4, meaning it is 32.4 per cent ahead of where it was in 1967. At the start of this year the index was 126.5.

Interest Revived In Transportation

Transportation needs as they relate to Pitt County economics surfaced as one of the key areas of interest at Thursday's Conference on Balanced Growth and Economic Development here.

The featured speaker for the morning session, State Department of Transportation Secretary Tom Bradshaw, told the conference gathering that the state is beginning to study all areas of transportation, including mass transit and rail transit planning.

Bradshaw said that North Carolina is developing plans and programs of the total transportation needs for the state, not just in the area of highways.

The secretary discussed the economic situation of the state and noted that while a lot of progress has been made in economic development, the state has great potential for further development, including foreign trade.

In response to a question concerning industry, Bradshaw reported that new industrial prospects are relocating and expanding in North Carolina from northern and midwestern states. He said that industry is coming to this area because of the environment and also because industry likes the productive, trainable labor force that is available.

Peter Rumsey of the Policy Development Division of the N.C. Department of Administration, offered an overview of the state's economic situation and compared Pitt County with the state in terms of growth.

Rumsey said that population wise, Pitt has been growing faster than the region we are in and equal to or better than the growth rate of the state as a whole.

During the last ten years, Pitt's economic growth rate has been above the region and on a favorable scale with the state. He said that Pitt County is in a good, steady economic situation.

A close look at Pitt's economic picture was given by Dr. James Bearden, Dean of the School of Business at East Carolina University, who referred to the importance of agriculture and new jobs on the overall situation. He also discussed the impact of education, health care and other factors on the area.

Bearden challenged the group to consider even more emphasis on the development of a transportation system into the county. He cited the need for better highways, better rail service, and the need to take advantage of the area's water resources for transportation.

During the afternoon sessions yesterday, one of the main concerns expressed in group participation gatherings was the need for more emphasis on education. The need for improvement in the overall basic education program for the city and county was noted.

It was also pointed out that emphasis should be placed on technical training but it was mentioned that technical schools are doing a good job in the Pitt area.

The need for housing improvement in the area of availability of moderately priced housing opportunities was brought out.

In the area of agriculture, the need for more emphasis on land use planning that would preserve and protect some of the prime agriculture land in the county was cited and participants agreed that there is a need for emphasis on research to provide alternatives to the agricultural methods employed now in the county.

Registration at the conference totaled 95.

Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, served as chairman of the activities with assistance from the Pitt conference committee which consisted of Reginald Gray, Reese Hart, Ross Persinger, Ed Yancey and Bill Shelly.

The Greenville session was part of a state economic development program of Gov. Jim Hunt.

Don't Forget

It's coming up in the wee hours of Sunday morning — that is, that "turn-back-the-hands-of-time" annual October event, when most of the nation goes back to Standard Time from Daylight Saving Time.

In the local time zone, the official time change is designated for 2 a.m. to 1 a.m. — but people not wanting to stay up can move the clock hands back one hour before retiring or when they first get up Sunday morning.

Dies Of Injuries In Wreck

A passenger in a car wrecked while being chased by a Winterville Police Officer early last Friday morning is dead as a result of the wreck, the N. C. Highway Patrol says, and the driver of the chased car is charged with manslaughter.

Trooper W. E. Brinson said Darrell Lee Brinkley, 17, of Kinston was charged with manslaughter following the death of Richard Earl Taylor in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday at 4:30 p. m. Taylor had been admitted with head injuries following the crash at the intersection of N. C. 11 and Rural Paved Road 1590 north of Greenville.

The chase followed an answer of a complaint at a Winterville convenience store Friday morning and resulted at the time in Brinkley's being charged with driving under the influence, driving 110-plus m. p. h. in a 55 m. p. h. zone, driving over 55 to elude a police officer, and careless and reckless driving.

Also injured in the wreck was Bobby Scott Johnson, also of Kinston.

The officer chasing the vehicle was Wayne Williams of the Winterville Police Department. Aiding him were members of the Greenville Police Department, the Highway Patrol, and the Sheriff Department.

POISON CONTROL INFORMATION?
I have a baby and have found out some out-of-town poison control information numbers to call in case of an emergency. I was wondering, though, with Greenville's fast becoming the medical center of Eastern North Carolina, is there any hope that a poison control center could be started here? L. T.

Hotline talked to Dr. William Laupus, Dean of the East Carolina University School of Medicine. He said there has been consideration of a poison control information service here, but that this thought has not been well-formulated yet because the faculty to support it is not yet here. He expressed delight that the public is thinking in this direction and said public demand might give impetus to the effort to provide such a service as soon as is possible.

In the meantime, he suggested that the Duke University number be used for poison and overdose information. It is within our area code (919) and is 684-8111.

Dr. Laupus, who was a pediatrician before he became dean of the medical school, said he would suggest getting a poisoning or overdose victim to the Hospital Emergency Department as quickly as possible and having someone call the family physician at the same time. He said there is a source within the local hospital for physicians to quickly obtain the latest and best information on the toxicity of various medicines and other substances.

Other Poison Control numbers supplied Hotline by the local Mothers and Babies organization are as follows: Medical College of Virginia, Richmond — 804-770-5123; Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta — 404-659-1212, Ext. 4893; and New Hanover Memorial Hospital, Wilmington — 763-9021, Ext. 311 or 312.

Bank Robber Gets 20 Years

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Federal District Court Judge John D. Larkins has sentenced Joseph Bethea, 22, to 20 years in prisons for the June 20 armed robbery of the South Madison Street Branch of the Waccamaw Bank and Trust Co. at Whiteville.

The judge's sentence came at the end of a trial in which a jury found Bethea guilty despite the fact he attempted to prove he was in Wilmington at the time of the robbery. Bank personnel identified Bethea as the man who held up the bank. He was arrested at Newport News, Va.

House Speaker Stewart Reviews Changing Face Of Government

By DEBBIE JACKSON

The North Carolina state government has been in the business of running the educational and transportation systems in the past, according to the North Carolina Speaker of the House Carl Stewart.

That role is changing. Stewart addressed the Pitt County Democratic Women last night at the Greenville Country Club.

He stressed a changing government where many areas previously overseen by the federal government are now being turned over to the state. Some of these areas are crime, medical education, health, and environmental problems.

But there is still a great concern for elementary education on the state level, according to

Chief Advises Trick-Or-Treat Activities Be Before Sundown

Police Chief Glenn Cannon today urged caution in Halloween trick-or-treat activities in Greenville.

Cannon suggested youngsters should do their trick-or-treating before dark, and said parents should accompany small children.

The chief said young goblins should not wear masks that obstruct their vision, and noted that if children are out after dark, they should be dressed in light-colored costumes to make them more visible to drivers. He emphasized that care should be taken not to dart into the street or run across streets without first looking both ways to make sure the way is clear.

He suggested too, that trick-or-treaters should remain in their own neighborhoods and not visit homes of persons they do not know. In any event, he said, children should not enter someone else's home, but rather, remain outside.

Cannon urged motorists to be especially watchful for children who might be walking in the street or playing near a street. He said children could dart into the street and into the path of a car without realizing a vehicle is nearby.

The chief said too, that home owners should leave their porch lights on. He said the added light would enable Halloween ghosts and goblins to move through a neighborhood more safely and possibly prevent acts of vandalism.

Cannon said youngsters should not walk across lawns, but rather use walkways. He said children might trip on some object on lawns they are not familiar with and be injured.

"Never accept gifts or rides from strangers," the Chief emphasized.

Mind-Body Approach Is Called Key To Health

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Expensive health spas don't turn people into healthy beauties at the touch of a wand, even at a fee of $1,250 a week. There is a lot of hard work involved.

"In fact, our spa is known as the hard-working spa," commented Deborah Szekely Mazzanti, 56, whose 87 staff members serve only 30 men and women guests. Fundamental to the entire operation is the exercise program, she said recently on a trip to New York, defending the six or so hours that may be devoted to exercise each day.

"The body needs as much movement as it needed thousands of years ago when our ancestors lived outdoors and had to search for food, and the replacement of food is every bit as important as the expenditure of energy. We show people how to eat properly as well as exercise," she said.

Because she didn't "need another guest at the spa" in Escondido, Calif., Mrs. Mazzanti decided to share her knowledge of the spa in a book, "Secrets of the Golden Door." She and her first husband had founded the first spa in Mexico 37 years ago. It is still thriving.

A mind-body approach begins the day at the spa, she explained.

"They wiggle in bed to greet the body consciously before the alarm goes off — sort of, 'hello, good morning, how are you?' Then they take the body out of bed because it has been lying without movement for so many hours. Everybody should have two minutes available to raise arms and stretch nude in front of a mirror and see their own reflection as they settle into their body for the day," she says.

Exercise — outdoors, in the water, dancing, hiking and so on — is part of a personal activity chart that is prepared each day for a guest.

A typical day might begin at 7 a.m. with a guest taking a three-mile hike. At 8 o'clock she might be having coffee and juice, ready for five more hours of exercise interspersed with a lunch of salad and souffle, beauty massage, yoga. A Japanese, family-style tub bath and massage round out the day.

Exercises at the spa are put on cassettes and choreographed to music so that guests can continue at home. Each guest talks up her own tape. For example, "Raise your arms, Deborah. C'mon now, higher," and so on, as Mrs. Mazzanti illustrated with her own tape which she had with her.

"Anyone can make one of these tapes to enjoy in her own home, and the exercises can be changed from time to time," she explains.

As for food, learning to eat is an educational project, with portions rather than calories stressed. A table is laden with 100-calorie portions so that one learns to judge food quantities. There is also a table of "nos-nos," or junk food.

"The custom is for everyone to get the same portion of food even though, for example, the male is bigger and stronger. Portions should be gauged more to body size. If food is served from the kitchen there are fewer temptations," she said, and she likes to serve entrees on salad plates, and salad on dinner plates, for the same reasons.

"And when kids go off to college, it is a good time for mother to buy a set of small pots — she'll eat far less. And shopping for food each day will cut quantities purchased and one can walk to the store and get daily exercise."

Brooklyn-born Mrs. Mazzanti spent her early childhood hiking in the Catskill Mountains with her mother, a vegetarian, and a German hiking club. In Tahiti, where she lived as an adolescent, she and her parents met health enthusiast Edmond Bordeaux Szekely, who operated health camps in California and Mexico, where they later stayed. At 17, Mrs. Mazzanti married Szekely and the following year they opened the Rancho La Puerta spa in Mexico, which expanded into the largest health spa of its kind, she said. She married Dr. Vincent Mazzanti in 1972.

Mrs. Mazzanti's book contains low-calorie recipes, as well as exercises, and menus served at the spa.

Recipe For Pepper Corn Relish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I enjoy the copycat recipes you give occasionally. Now I wonder whether you could duplicate the Sweet Pepper Corn Relish you can buy. I am enclosing the label for the relish of this kind that my family likes. I think your readers, whether they buy their vegetables at markets or grow them in their gardens, would appreciate the recipe for this relish because it is delicious. — RELISH FAN.

DEAR RELISH FAN: The following recipe for Sweet Pepper Corn Relish is an excellent stand-in for the bought one your family likes. One caution: be sure to follow to the letter the recipe directions for cooking and processing. We emphasize this because according to a recent survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to determine the practices home canners use, one-fourth of the households surveyed reported some spoilage. The food technologists at the U.S.D.A. conclude that "home canners need to be cautioned to follow reliable instructions." — C. B.

- SWEET PEPPER CORN RELISH
- 2 to 4 green tomatoes (cored and finely chopped — 1 cup)
  - 3 teaspoons uniodized salt
  - 2 ears corn, husked
  - 6 medium sweet red peppers (cored, seeded and finely chopped — 3 cups)
  - 1 medium onion (peeled and finely chopped — ½ cup)
  - ¾ cup cider vinegar
  - ¾ cup light corn syrup
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
  - 1 tablespoon yellow mustard seed
  - 2-inch stick cinnamon
  - ½ teaspoon celery seed
  - ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
  - ¼ teaspoon ground turmeric
  - 5 whole cloves

In a small bowl sprinkle the tomato with 1 teaspoon of the salt; let stand 30 minutes. Cover corn with boiling water; boil rapidly for 2 minutes; drain; rinse with cold water; cut corn from cobs in whole kernels — there should be about 1 cup. In a 6-to 8-quart saucepot turn the corn, pepper and onion; drain all liquid from tomato and add with vinegar, corn syrup, sugar, mustard seed, remaining 2 teaspoons salt, cinnamon, celery seed, ginger and turmeric; stir well. Over medium heat, stirring occasionally, bring to a boil; then cook gently, stirring occasionally, until vegetables look cooked and the liquid is very slightly thickened — about 15 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 15 minutes for flavors to blend. Remove cinnamon stick. Bring to a boil. At once ladle into clean, hot ½-pint canning jars leaving ¼-inch head space and putting a clove in each jar; wipe jar edges with a damp cloth. Seal, following jar manufacturer's directions. Place jars in a water bath canner or on a rack in a large saucupot. Add hot water to cover jars by at least 1 inch. Bring water to a boil, then keep at a gentle steady boil to process for 20 minutes. Remove jars to a wire rack to cool. Store in a cool dark place. Makes five ½-pint jars.

Credit Women Take Exam Tuesday

The 1976-77 educational exam was given at the meeting of Greenville Credit Women-International Tuesday evening.

The exam was given by Angelene Venters, second vice president and education chairman for N. C. Credit Women-International, on the International manual "Luck Is What We Make It."

President Carol Hardee called the meeting to order and welcomed a new member, Shirley Pitt of Home Credit Co., and a prospective member, Doris Price.

Mrs. Hardee announced her appointed committee chairmen for the new year and gave each member a yearbook.

It was announced that the fall board meeting would be held Nov. 19-20 in High Point at the Holiday Inn.

A fried fish dinner was prepared by Joe and Virginia McKoy at their home for the meeting.

Potpourri Club Holds Meeting

The Potpourri Garden Club met for its October meeting at the home of Mrs. John Winstead. Mrs. Eddie Harrington gave garden hints for the month.

Mrs. Harrington reminded members now is the time to sow rye grass or fescue and to water shrubbery if the weather is dry.

Mrs. Douglas Starr reported on meeting with the city Beautification Committee and said the week of Nov. 5 will be Beautification Week for Greenville. Plans were formulated to plant spring bulbs on the Town Common.

Mrs. Jack Koontz, president, told of an appeal from Operation Santa Claus, the Christmas project of the Mental Health Association. Members voted to adopt a Forgotten Patient.

Mrs. Pat Geoghegan told of maintaining house plants. Employed by Sunshine Garden Center, Mrs. Geoghegan holds a degree in horticulture and landscaping.

According to Mrs. Geoghegan, four elements necessary for houseplants include light, air, fertilizer and moisture. She discussed the various elements and the amount needed for different plants.

Report His Actions To Local Police

By Abigail Van Buren
1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were in our 30s and very much in love when we were married. Six years later, I am a nervous wreck. He says I am the woman he has been looking for all his life and he isn't going to lose me. He has to know where I am every minute, and he calls me six or seven times a day. If I go out during the day, he cross-examines me about where I went and who I saw.

He is a local truck driver, so he is home every night and all day Sunday. He won't go to church (he is "afraid" of religion) and he won't let me go alone. When I became pregnant, he got very jealous for fear I'd love the baby more than him, so he prayed that the baby would die, and it did.

After that, when I threatened to leave him, he hit me. I am a prisoner in my own house, Abby. He says if I ever leave him, he will kill me. Is there anything I can do? I can't sign my name.

A PRISONER

DEAR PRISONER: Your husband sounds like a very sick man. For your own safety, report his past actions and threats on your life to the local police. And for your sanity, ask the help of your doctor.

DEAR ABBY: We've been married for 14 months and already I've got big problems. My wife swears she loves me as much as she ever did, but what am I supposed to think when she tells me she wants twin beds?

We're moving from a furnished apartment to a bungalow and have started shopping for furniture. That's when she said she wanted twin beds.

Before we were married we agreed on a double bed, and she always seemed perfectly satisfied with it. I have argued all I can. She insists we will both sleep better in twin beds. Maybe SHE will, but I won't.

HURT

DEAR HURT: If she swears she still loves you, what do you want, an affidavit? Remember, you agreed on a double bed BEFORE you were married, so you can't blame her for not knowing your sleeping habits. Maybe you snore, kick in your sleep or hog the blankets. Quit arguing. Absence could make the heart grow fonder.

DEAR ABBY: When being introduced to a person, is it proper to say, "I've heard a lot about you?"

GENE

DEAR GENE: It all depends on what you've heard.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who started the "no-bra" fad, but there ought to be a law against it.

I'm sure women aren't aware of the irreversible damage they do themselves by going without brassieres.

The pictures in National Geographic magazine of African tribeswomen naked from the waist up should tell us something. Their breasts hang practically to their waists because they have never worn any kind of support.

Today we see bosomy young women on our streets with T-shirts and nothing on underneath. They're even seen on TV. (Now I know why it's called the "Boob tube.")

Abby, please rewrite this and tell the bra-less babes of today they will be the drooping dames of tomorrow.

GOOD SAMARITAN

DEAR SAM: No "rewriting" necessary. It's true. And the technical name for that condition is "Cooper's Droop Syndrome."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Seek Sponsors For Indochinese

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — American churches have sent out calls for more sponsors to help care for a new wave of Indochina refugees.

Irvin Dawson, director of the Southern Baptist home missions board's office of refugee service, says some 15,000 more refugees from Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos are expected in the new influx.

For their admission, church congregations or other community agencies have to act as sponsors, to help them get resettled.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Haines, director of the United Methodist Committee on Relief, called for 250 to 300 churches to volunteer as sponsors for "this second wave of refugees."

"It's an SOS."

President Carter Continues Get Mixed Reviews

PROMOTE READING — East Carolina University Football Coach Pat Dye and Defensive Tackle Noah Clark show their concern for the Pitt County Schools, reading programs. Dye supported the Read-a-thon, which is sponsored by Pitt County Schools, downtown yesterday by reading for half an hour. A little red schoolhouse promoting the reading program has been on the downtown mall since Wednesday. Local officials and children have been reading in the schoolhouse around the clock since it opened. The schoolhouse closes today at 5 p.m. (Reflector photo by Debbie Jackson.)

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who says he would do nothing differently in his dealings with Capitol Hill, continues to draw mixed congressional reviews for his style of leadership.

"The waffling bothers me and the effectiveness ratio is going down rapidly," said one liberal northern Democratic senator in describing the performance of the Carter administration.

At his news conference Thursday, Carter said he was criticized at the beginning of his administration for showing too much style and too little substance.

"Lately the criticisms have been that there's too much substance and not enough style," the President said.

But House Republican leader John Rhodes, who last Sunday called the Carter administration "a terrible failure," disagreed. "It's not a matter of style, it's ineptitude," the Arizona congressman said.

Carter also claimed that his slump in the popularity polls resulted from his tackling the tough issues facing the country, and on that he had supporters.

"He hasn't dodged a single tough one," said Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, the House Democratic leader and Rhodes' opposite number. "He may not look effective superficially because the news stories highlight controversy. I think he is effective."

Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who recently locked horns with Carter over the White House role in ending a natural gas fill-buster, said Rhodes' criticism was "uncalled for."

"I just think he has more courage than some congressmen are used to," Abourezk said. "The President is right when he says a president should not shy away from settling the nation's problems just because they are controversial."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., also praised Carter's leadership.

"I think the President is right on target," Kennedy said. "He's laying out his goals in domestic and foreign policy in an understandable and comprehensive manner."

But some congressmen complained that Carter is trying to push too many issues at once. "He's got too much on the stove now," said one. "There won't be enough burners around here."

And the liberal northern senator, who asked not to be identified, said the charge of ineptitude should be leveled against Carter's entire team.

"I think they have to get their house in order," he said. He added that this does not mean the White House should simply improve its techniques in courting Congress.

"It means not saying one thing on Monday and doing another on Tuesday," he said. "It means not having Carter express optimism on the SALT talks while the secretary of state is expressing pessimism. You can't do that."

At his news conference, Carter noted that one pollster found his approval rating below 50 per cent and another put it at 60 per cent, but claimed that he was not disturbed.

"I don't know anything I would have done differently," the President said. "The fact that easy solutions have not come forward immediately doesn't concern me, because they are not questions that are resolved easily."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kans., said he agrees Carter's performance has made him temporarily vulnerable to Republican attack, but he added that he's not counting the President out.

"I think he is an able and bright person who is going to get it together one of these days," the 1976 Republican vice presidential nominee said. "I think the administration's performance is going to improve and I think the President is going to improve."

"He tried to win acceptance and get a broader base and push human rights and all the rest," Dole said. "But then he would send the stuff up here and kiss it goodbye."

"I think the overall view is that there is an absence of leadership ... It's a bumpy time for the President. I think he's learned that it's a very difficult job."

Carter discussed several of his administration's initiatives at his news conference.

On energy and taxes, he said he will delay a promised tax reform package pending congressional action on a national energy program and revision of the Social Security system.

He renewed his appeal for his energy plan but declined to say if he would veto an energy bill that contained a ceiling on natural gas prices higher than his proposed lid of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet.

On international affairs, Carter said he will support strong sanctions against the sale of weapons to South Africa in retaliation for that country's crackdown on black dissidents and their white supporters.

He also said there is "a fairly good prospect" that nuclear arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union will finish a general outline of an agreement within several weeks.

Turning to the economy, Carter said Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has an honest difference of opinion with the White House on handling of the money supply.

But the President added that he has not decided whether to reappoint Burns to head the board when his term expires in January 1978.

Carter also said he has not received a recommendation from Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell on whether the government should seek a perjury indictment against former CIA Director Richard Helms.

Town Is Dealt A Fatal Blow

BELVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A judge has pronounced what could be the death penalty for this tiny community west of Wilmington.

The town has already had 75 per cent of its business cut off by a new U.S. 74-76-17 which takes traffic around Belville which used to come through it.

But Judge Robert Gavin lifted an order this week that was keeping the state Department of Transportation from demolishing the old highway bridge that led into the town.

The U.S. Coast Guard contends that the area between the new bridge and the old one would become a stagnant marshland if both bridges remained standing.

But demolition of the old bridge will surely finish off what little traffic still trickles into Belville, and area residents are having a hard time believing the government would do this to them.

"This thing goes very deep with me, when the people's desires are neglected and pushed aside to serve an alligator, a mosquito or a moccasin," said V.Aa. Creech Jr., owner of Belville's Old Brunswick Towne Cookery.

"If the highway could remain open we could make a very nice little town the community could be proud of," he said. "Now that it's received a blow right to its heart it's questionable."

Businesses are already starting to move out, but at least one has just opened — Dural Guyton's new convenience store.

Guyton began planning his business after the controversy began because he had faith in "common sense."

"I can see no logical reason to take out the bridge," he said. "It would mess up the environment more to take it out than to leave it lay there."

Dr. Rosina C. Lao of the East Carolina University psychology faculty is co-author of an article which appears in a recent issue of the "Journal of Cross-Cultural Psychology."

The article, entitled "Locus of Control and Chinese College Students," was rewritten in collaboration with Chong-Jen Chuang and Kuo-shu Yang of National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan, and is based on a joint research project involving 517 Chinese students in Taiwan.

Results of the research indicated that Chinese students' perception of internal or external control over their lives is comparable to similar studies done in other industrialized nations.

While traditional Chinese thought has emphasized the group (family, clan, country) and the importance of "Heaven" for the individual fate, recent trends toward modernization in Taiwan have significantly minimized the importance of external forces, reported the authors.

Floridian Millionaire In Confederate Money

SALT SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Grover Criswell is a millionaire 25 times over — in Confederate money.

"The truth of the matter is, Confederate money isn't all that abundant," Criswell says, explaining why the currency is worth anything at all.

"I've never seen the proverbial chestful. I guess the closest I came was a steel chest I bought up in Savannah. It was about 28 inches long and 25 inches high."

The red-haired, rotund president of the American Numismatic Association claims to be the richest man in the world in the currency that was printed throughout the South during the Civil War.

He's spent more than 30 years buying and selling the notes, coins and bonds that were legal currency in the Confederate States of America. He says there is a fortune in it, although nothing close to the face value of the coins and currency.

Criswell estimates the Confederacy distributed about $1 billion between 1861 and 1865.

This ranged from the 50-cent note to the $1,000 bill.

Of that amount, about $250 million is still in existence, Criswell says. And he's cornered about $25 million of that.

He says at least another $1 billion was printed and used by individual states, cities, counties, townships, plantations and banks.

Criswell, a resident of this tiny community in the Ocala National Forest, travels widely throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico buying and selling money.

Appearing In Concert Sunday

Mrs. Marian W. Jones will appear in concert at Medley Chapel CME Church Sunday at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Jones has appeared in productions at East Carolina University. The public is invited to attend the program.

Closing 2 Nights

Downtown night-spots will be closed Sunday and Monday nights for Halloween, just as they were last year.

The second annual Halloween Music Festival will be held at the Pitt County Fair Grounds beginning around Noon Saturday and lasting until 1 a.m. Sunday.

The festival will feature progressive country and country rock sounds. There will be a two-hour intermission for those who wish to attend the East Carolina University - Southwestern Louisiana football game.

"This is going to be the best music day that eastern North Carolina has ever seen as far as outdoor entertainment is concerned, Buzzy Ledford of East-West Productions said.

Ledford, who organized the Stokes Halloween Concert last year, said he expects a much larger crowd Saturday because of the easier access.

Halloween costumes will be judged at the festival, with cash prizes going to the top three winners. Rain date for the event is Sunday.

Washington And Your Money

North Carolina Congressman L. H. Fountain is chairman of the House Intergovernmental Relations and Human Resources Subcommittee.

Recently his committee held hearings on the Community Service Administration, which provides grants to poverty programs.

Among testimony heard by the subcommittee were expenditures like:

- A trip to Europe for 70 children — many of them non-poor and some related to grantee officials.
- Payment of bar bills exceeding $1,000 each.
- An $1,800 hotel bill incurred by one person in one week.
- Purchases of football tickets, a color television set and an expensive stereo.
- 19,600 in travel expenses — most of it first class — charged by one official in a single year.

Congressman Fountain commented, "Clearly CSA desperately needs an effective audit and inspection system, coupled with strong willingness on the part of management to act when this system turns up problems."

"To date, it has functioned with an inadequate system for identifying problems and very little effectiveness toward correcting problems that have been identified.

"Deficiencies in administration of CSA programs are doing a grave disservice to the poor people the programs are designed to help."

We couldn't agree more. And why don't we go further and find out who is directly responsible for such outrageous use of the taxpayer's money? Surely some action can be taken.

"I think they blame us for this mess... they say we're not supposed to flock together."

Crisis 'Out Of Proportion'

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The crisis over funding cuts for North Carolina's community colleges and technical institutes has been blown far out of proportion according to sources within the Community College system.

The 1977 General Assembly cut funds from the 57 schools by some $3 million; a step which has produced complaints from some of the schools that they must eliminate programs, cut back on hiring, and trim plans for new offerings.

In several communities, the screws are being turned on legislators for making the cuts—an unfair assault, say the lawmakers.

Lt. Gov. James C. Green is so blunt as to call the whole exercise propaganda. Why, he was asked, are the college leaders so upset; why are several communities getting so upset over what many believe were deep cuts in the budget.

composes where the cuts have struck muscle—those with rapidly growing enrollment, but those are in the minority.

Here is how the situation came about. In the past, the system was funded on the basis of projected enrollment, with a formula in use to produce an overall figure taking into account students who take only one or two courses or study in short-term extension programs. The overall figure is called Full-Time Equivalent totals—that is, it may take six extension students to equal one full-time student.

Each year, the system projected enrollment for the next year and funds were allocated on the basis of expected enrollment. Some legislators suspected that those figures were being padded—whether deliberately or not, the end result was the same.

The year's budget called for 114,000 FTE students, but legislators cut that back to 108,000 by basing the projection on actual enrollment last year of 108,178.

The result was a budget cut from $130 million down to $127 million. That would not have been drastic—except the total also had to cover the 6.5 per cent raise which pushed available money below the previous year's total.

Many of the schools complained loudly of the cuts—until enrollment time came around and they found that the schools are indeed seeing a sharp decline along the and redistributed to the campuses are hurting.

As one college president now puts it, "The lack of funding at first got all the publicity... the fact that projected enrollment was cut to 108,000. It now develops that the figure was right and in that respect we can't be critical of the Legislature."

"But where attention now is needed is that we are funded on inadequate amount per enrollment... we simply don't receive sufficient money to operate the programs we should."

The push now is toward general increases in funding from the next session of the General Assembly.

And despite the fact that most of the schools are not hurting this year, some definitely are. Central Piedmont in Charlotte lost about $2 million while enrollment climbed 31 per cent over last year.

Gaston, Rowan, Catawba, and Caldwell counties have also reported conditions causing cutbacks. It is not known yet whether redistribution of the dollars can be done on a crash basis, or must await consideration by the General Assembly in May, 1978.

NOBLITT

lines projected by the General Assembly.

Not Bad

The 108,000 enrollment figure was right; and top officials now admit that statewide the money situation is not at all bad, and that only a few colleges where enrollment has climbed are hurting.

Plans are now being worked out to correct that imbalance. Many of the schools actually have a surplus now because of the enrollment decline, and that money will be collected back in Raleigh

Looking For Secret Hand

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's probably the Henry Kissinger legacy, but even in this 10th month of the Carter administration there are a lot of smart people around town looking for the secret hand guiding American foreign policy.

The memory of Kissinger's mysterious trips to Paris for Vietnam peace talks and to China to open relations after a quarter-century of icy distance is still too fresh to accept the fact that Jimmy Carter is making most of his own decisions.

Actually, the who's-in-charge hunt is a little beside the point. However large Kissinger's role as national security adviser and then as secretary of state, the ultimate responsibility rested with the presidents he worked for, Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford.

And even when Carter depends on advisers for guidance, he is identified in the public mind, here and abroad, with what the United States does. The policy is his; it bears his mark. He gets the credit and the blame.

This was true of Dwight D. Eisenhower, although John Foster Dulles mapped many of his moves, and it was true of Nixon and Ford in Kissinger's era.

The question hardly arose under John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. They left no doubt who was in charge — although it's not entirely clear how much the Central Intelligence Agency was running a foreign policy all its own.

Personally, Carter is not as vigorous as Johnson, but neither is he as subdued as Eisenhower.

He hasn't traveled as much as Nixon. On the one hand, he has scheduled a back-breaking, 11-day trip to nine countries spread over four continents. On the other, he has said he will call it off if Congress hasn't completed action on his energy program.

The obvious inference: Carter considers globe-trotting useful but not imperative.

In scope, his foreign policy approach is uneven. In some areas, such as the Middle East, the United States is an influential, driving force. In others, China for example, U.S. policy has hardly inched ahead since Carter took office.

But most noticeable about the Carter administration in foreign affairs is that there is no one of Kissinger's dimensions on the scene.

Most pundits had predicted that by now one of the several advisers Carter signed on would have clawed his way to the top.

It hasn't worked out that way.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, who reminded some of Kissinger because of his academic and European background, has not parlayed the job of national security assistant to the power Kissinger attained.

Brzezinski helped formulate the early, tough policy Carter followed with the Russians. And he was an early proponent of the Palestinian "homeland" the President endorsed.

But his influence is not even remotely as pervasive as Kissinger's was.

Cyrus R. Vance, the secretary of state who reminded some of William Rogers, has turned out to be stronger and more influential than the fellow Kissinger eventually supplanted.

He has taken on the hard, nuts-and-bolts work of preparing for a Middle East peace conference and was in charge of the strategic arms talks with the Russians in May in Geneva that broke a long impasse on treaty negotiations.

U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, Vice President Walter F. Mondale and arms control director Paul Warnke have all settled into important but secondary roles.

Young, stirring less con-

Strength For Today

COMING OUT OF THE CAVE

We read in the nineteenth chapter of I Kings that Elijah, after the trial on Mount Carmel, fled from the anger of Ahab's Queen Jezebel and sought refuge in a cave in Mount Horeb. There the word of the Lord came to him, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" He was hiding when he ought to have been fighting.

Elijah explained that he had sought refuge in the cave because he was the only person left was still loyal to Jehovah. But Jehovah relied,

"I have 7,000 who have not bowed the knee to Baal." Elijah had believed that he was the only person in the world still loyal to the Lord, so he ran for the cave to spend self.

We all run for the cave from time to time when we are convinced that the world is hopelessly wrong-headed and corrupt. But instead we should face the world with courage. Today there are many times 7,000 who have not bowed the knee to Baal.

The Book Will Clarify

WASHINGTON—I don't believe that the House Ethics Committee can truly understand the Korean investigation unless they read a book entitled, "Korean Patterns," by Dr. Paul Shields Crane, distributed in this country by the University of Washington Press.

Dr. Crane has spent most of his life in Korea and wrote the book as a guide for Americans and other foreigners who are not acquainted with the customs of this Far Eastern ally.

The chapter that is relevant to the Korean scandal is called, "The Problem of Gifts."

It begins, "Koreans are among the most gracious and generous people one will meet. They are thoughtful and considerate, and try by every means to establish personal relationships before they conduct any business... The giving and receiving of gifts are considered the normal operating commission for services rendered. In this context, every gift-giver expects something in return."

Dr. Crane says Koreans are very friendly and have the ability to work their way into the affections of foreigners which, at some later date, might prove embarrassing. "Many Koreans," he writes, "expect to use their friendships and connections for personal advantage and see nothing amiss in this approach as long as they are the main recipients of the favors." The only time a Korean becomes truly angry is when another Korean gives a foreigner a better gift than he does. Then he becomes critical of the foreigner "who has been so stupid as to allow himself to be taken in by a group of thieves."

The part of Dr. Crane's chapter that should be studied by the House Ethics Committee has to do with the manner in which Korean gifts are dispensed.

For example, it is a Korean custom, after a death in the family, to present the grieving relative with a white envelope stuffed with cash.

It seems to me that, since the main thrust of the investigation in the House has to do with congressmen accepting white envelopes of cash from the Koreans, Leon Jaworski should investigate to find out how many U.S. legislators had deaths in their families at the time they accepted the money from the Korean CIA.

Other Editors Say How Do We Pay?

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

It has often been said that the ability to appropriate carries with it the responsibility to tax.

The dilemma of our Social Security system today is to some degree a result of failure of Congress to rise to that responsibility.

Put another way, Congress in the past found it politically popular to raise Social Security benefits but did not rise to its responsibility to see that Social Security taxes were raised to support those benefits.

The time of reckoning is approaching.

The House Ways and Means Committee is now asking that Congress triple Social Security taxes over the next 10 years.

Top contribution to Social Security for a worker today (matched by the employer) is $965. Ten years from now, if the Ways and Means measure is approved, a worker could have as much as $2,732 withheld from his check. A like amount would be contributed in that worker's behalf by the employer.

Why?

Purely and simply, to keep the fund from going broke—which it could do by 1983.

When Congress every two years or so has increased Social Security benefits without a corresponding increase in taxes, it coddled the favor of those receiving the benefits without alienating those who were continuing to pay into the program.

Today, not only are benefits higher, but more and more people are on retirement, either from age or disability.

The result is that those still paying into the program are having to shoulder a burden which, with other federal, state and local taxes, has become a grievous drag on a family's ability to make it on after-tax income.

We are, in effect, having no play "catch-up" in a game which has been marked by irresponsible coaching.

Today's push to raise the retirement age, while masquerading as a kindly concession to oldsters wishing to remain in the saddle, actually is one way to ease the burden on the system.

Other avenues are being explored: bringing federal workers under the program, taking a tighter look at disability cases, or pumping general revenue tax funds into the program.

The dilemma is a serious one and no painless solution has presented itself.

What all of us must do is to examine every new program or law increasing benefits—Social Security or otherwise—and demand of lawmakers: How are we going to pay for it?

"National tradition has been toward intoxication rather than sobriety," Baume said in the committee's report.

Medium-Size Firms Worried

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's medium-size companies, already experiencing difficulties in raising capital, are distressed over the possibility that capital gains might be taxed as ordinary income.

If it happens, they say, their ability to grow and innovate and create jobs will be seriously curtailed. And they wish to remind you, these are three of their most valued contributions to economic society.

The Treasury Department already has coupled its recommendations for a reduction in the double taxation of dividends with one that in effect would raise the rate on capital gains, such as from long-term stock investments.

Says the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies: "The very largest, mature, established companies clearly would benefit from lower taxes on dividends; we are growing concerns; we don't pay big dividends; we need capital."

A consequence of the Treasury proposal, the committee suggests, might be to channel funds into established, dividend-paying companies that normally attract conservative investors, and deny funds to growing companies, which traditionally attract individual risk-takers.

In a position paper just released, the committee observes that capital is invested in small-and-medium-size companies "with few exceptions, only because of the prospect of capital gains" rather than dividend payouts.

The committee is made up of several hundred "second tier" and "third tier" companies, so-called to distinguish them from the very largest 50 or 100 corporations. Sometimes they are called "red chip" and "white chip."

Such companies long have felt they were all but totally ignored by institutional investors, many of whom have limited their analyses and investments to the dividend-paying top tier only. Smaller companies, they say, have been starved for capital, and instead have had to raise their debt levels.

Adding to the problem was the enactment of the Employee Retirement Income Securities Act of 1974, which called on pension fund managers to exercise prudence in their investment of retirement funds.

In the absence of a clear definition, prudence was largely interpreted to mean a restriction on investments to the least risky, mature, dividend-paying corporations. Risk-taking came to be considered too risky.

Add to this the problem of inflation, which "further adds to the risk of waiting for growth to result in capital gains," the committee suggests, and the issue becomes one of survival for smaller, innovative companies.

"We may assume that huge, prosperous established enterprises like General Electric, General Motors and AT&T will be able to maintain their corporate programs following the enactment of the measures under consideration.

"Also, some investors may receive additional after-tax

Four Proposed N.C. Amendments Are 'Overlooked'

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Not much attention has been paid to four proposed amendments to the North Carolina constitution which could mean money savings to some citizens.

The issues have attracted no open opposition. In fact, when the Guilford County legislators responded to a request that they have a meeting to explain the proposals, even those who requested the session were not among the few to attend.
Two proposed amendments would remove provisions in the constitution that discriminate against men. Another would allow cities with their own electric distribution systems to own power generating plants as partners with private companies or rural electric cooperatives.

Amendment No. 5 would do almost nothing.
It would simply put a ban on deficit spending in the constitution, a provision many legislators and others thought was already there. The ban now is in the Executive Budget Act, but lawmakers decided last spring it would be prudent to achieve an extra margin of safety by putting it in the constitution because laws can be changed by a majority of the legislature.

In his review of the proposal, State Treasurer Harlan Boyles said the proposal "represents the assurance of a continued philosophy of sound financial management and it should assist in protecting and preserving North Carolina's position of prominence in fiscal accountability." He noted that the state has the nation's lowest per capita debt in the nation and the highest credit rating.

Given the possibility that at some time in the future the legislature could decide to embark on deficit spending, the proposal could save taxpayers some money by forbidding it.

The amendment to allow joint ownership of power plants is No. 4 and is the wordiest. It was sought by ElectricCities of North Carolina, an organization representing the municipalities with power distribution systems. They can already own power plants by themselves, but they want joint ownership authority because some plants cost $1 billion or more to build.

The proposal has been endorsed by the state Utilities Commission as a tool to help ensure an adequate supply of electricity at a reasonable cost.
Bob Koger, chairman of the commission, said the change "should result in lower cost (for) utilities."
Amendment No. 1 would give widowers a right to inherit a homestead without creditors being allowed to stake claims on it. Women now have that protection if they are widowed.
Amendment No. 2 would give men the same protection to proceeds from life insurance policies.

and strict control of analgesics — pain-relieving drugs. At the same time, however, the committee recommends easing the laws against marijuana possession.

The six-member panel estimated there were 250,000 alcoholics in Australia's population of 14 million. The estimate for the United States is 10 million alcoholics among 222 million people.

The Australian Bureau of Statistics says that country's annual per capita consumption of alcohol comes to 31.39 gallons of beer; 3 pints of spirits, such as whisky, and 2.75 gallons of wine.

According to the latest figures published in New York by The Conference Board, Inc., American per capita consumption in 1975 was 31.46 gallons of beer, 2.85 gallons of spirits and 2.41 gallons of wine.

The Australian committee estimated that alcoholism was responsible for the deaths of 30,000 Australians in the past decade; that up to 10 per cent of school children aged 10 to 17 get very drunk at least once a month; and that family lives of 1.4 million were affected by alcohol, costing the nation more than $500 million a year.

The committee also found that Australia suffered the world's highest incidence of kidney disease through abuse of analgesics, with some people taking as many as 50 tablets a day.

It urged a limit on the sale of the painkillers, that their packages carry a health warning and that compound analgesics be available only on doctor's prescription.

The committee called on federal and state governments to end subsidies to tobacco growers and ban cigarette advertising completely. Such advertising on television and radio was banned several years ago.

They smoke an average of 6.9 billion cigarettes a month—6.7 each day for every man, woman and child.

A recent survey of the U.S. tobacco industry by the magazine Business Week showed an annual American consumption of 601.1 billion cigarettes, or about 7.5 cigarettes per day per capita.

The Australian committee split on the issue of decriminalizing marijuana possession, but Baume's vote carried the recommendation that possession of marijuana be punishable only by a fine of $150.

Current laws vary from state to state. Most are in line with those of Victoria where possession of less than 3½ ounces carries a maximum fine of $500 and a maximum jail sentence of 12 months, or both.

current income from their investments in the stocks of companies of this sort as a result of the proposed reduction of the tax burden on dividend payments and on top-bracket taxpayers.

"But," the statement asks, "what about the small, entrepreneurial, developing companies that do not pay dividends or pay only minuscule dividends; that have little prospect of paying dividends for many years? Who will invest in the equity of these companies if the ... proposals become law?"

The committee maintains that a major weakening of the capital gains incentive took place in 1969 when the maximum tax rate was increased to 35 per cent from 25 per cent, resulting in these consequences:

—The number of individual shareholders has declined by 6 million.

—Individual investors have been net sellers of $21 billion in equity securities since 1970.

—Only 921 new issues of common stock were marketed in the four years that ended June 30, 1977, compared with 1,792 new issues in 1969 alone.

The issue, the committee maintains, is not just how we tax income, but whether we really want to channel the nation's investment funds into large, conservative companies at the expense of smaller, growing concerns.

And related to that are the other issues of whether we want to encourage small investors, risk-taking, competition from newer companies, economic growth and innovation.

Jurors Warned Might Be His Future Victims

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Daniel R. Webster told jurors at his murder trial that if he wasn't sentenced to death he might kill them next time. The panel apparently believed him and recommended Thursday that he be sent to the gas chamber.

Webster, 51, pleaded guilty earlier this week to the July 26 slaying of his wife, Gladys Beauchamp Webster, who was struck down with an ax, strangled and slashed in the throat.

The jury was impelled to decide whether Webster should be sentenced to life in prison or execution. Webster insisted from the start on death and went out of his way to persuade the jury of his sincerity.

"I would think no more of killing you than I did her," Webster told the panel. "I'd do it again. I'd do it to you. I want you to remember that when you go into that jury room."

Webster gave a gruesome, detailed description from the stand on Wednesday of his wife's death, demonstrating for the jury and spectators exactly how he grasped her neck and crushed her windpipe with his thumbs.

His court-appointed attorney, Gilbert T. Davis, tried to prevent the guilty plea earlier this week and to thwart Webster's efforts to pick a jury that would be likely to give him the death penalty.

Failing on both counts, Davis switched during the trial to attempting to draw out facets of Webster's personality that would show the jury that he "is not a normal person."

Some of the questions dealt with Webster's sex life, focusing on his 22 years in prison.

"I'm not being tried for my past love affairs," Webster said. "I'm being tried for killing my wife. I'm not a homosexual, and I've never engaged in any abnormal sex in my life."

Webster gave enthusiastic answers to questions that gave him opportunities to make it clear that his crime had been especially heinous. Asked what he did after he left his wife lying in her own blood in the kitchen of her parents' home, he replied quickly, "I picked up a whore off the street."

Drug Therapy Slows Cancers

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Multiple drug therapy is giving life expectancies of as long as 18 months to some lung cancer patients who usually would die within three months of diagnosis, a National Cancer Institute scientist says.

Dr. John D. Minna said Thursday that small-cell lung cancer, a rapid spreading type of the disease, is proving vulnerable to high dose multi-drug chemotherapy used alone or with radiation.

About 20,000 of the nation's 98,000 lung cancer victims each year have small-cell lung cancer.

Minna told a seminar at the National Institutes of Health that the median survival for untreated patients with the small-cell cancer is three months after diagnosis.

Summarizing recent studies from 10 medical centers using multiple-drug chemotherapy and radiation treatment, Minna said median survival for these 563 patients is approaching one year.

He disclosed that unpublished data from three NCI treatment centers using concentrated combination therapy show median survival reaching almost 18 months in patients with early-stage small-cell cancer.

"This figure is extremely good compared with other results," Minna said. "I think this shows the disease can be cured with chemotherapy or chemotherapy combined with other treatments."

But he said optimism should be tempered with the knowledge that many of these surviving patients will be dead in two years, indicating better treatments still are needed.

He also stressed that the newest therapy is in large part still experimental and available only at large cancer treatment centers.

Since the multi-drug therapy gets best results with early-stage cancer that hasn't spread too far, early detection is important, he said.

High-risk persons, such as middle-aged heavy smokers, should get annual chest X-rays and periodic examination of mucus from the lungs to see if cancer cells are present, he added.

Despite treatment advances, Minna said, 80 per cent of the 98,000 persons who develop lung cancer this year will be dead within two years of diagnosis.

Lung cancer is the No. 1 malignancy killing men and rates as No. 2 behind breast cancer as the most fatal form for women. Most lung cancer can be attributed to cigarettes and Minna said he was disturbed by recent increases in women smoking.

Virginia Foy Will Speak At Caucus

Virginia Foy will be the keynote speaker at a meeting of the North Carolina First Congressional District Black Women's Political Caucus.

The meeting will be held tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Room 101, Moore Hall, Elizabeth City State University in Elizabeth City.

Miss Foy is executive news producer at WCTI-TV in New Bern.

Black women from 21 counties of Eastern North Carolina are expected to attend this meeting which is "an offspring" of the State Black Women's Political Caucus, which met in Raleigh Sept. 17. The stated purpose of the Caucus is "to place in motion an organization which will bring Black women together to effectively solidify and consolidate efforts to improve their lives and lives of their families."

During the meeting the group plans to elect State Steering Committee members and district officers, explain the goals of the Caucus and hear issues concerning those attending.

Black women throughout the area are invited.

Larkins Speaks Here Tonight

Dr. John Larkins, special assistant to Gov. Jim Hunt, will speak at St. Gabriel's School at 7:30 tonight.

Larkins is a special advisor on human relations and minority affairs.

The meeting is sponsored by the Third Precinct of the Democratic Party organization of Pitt County.

The public is invited to attend.

Report Succession Amendment Backed

A recent survey of members of the League of Women Voters of North Carolina showed "overwhelming support" for the gubernatorial succession amendment.

President Ruth Meyer said, "Our members apparently feel that the time has come to let the people decide whether a governor should serve an additional term. The historical reasons for limiting a governor's tenure to one term have no validity today, and the benefits of a possible two-term tenure far outweigh the disadvantages," she said.

The League is also supporting two constitutional amendments eliminating sex distinctions from sections dealing with the homestead exemption and life insurance for the benefit of a surviving spouse.

Concerning the Clean Water Bond Issue, Mrs. Meyer said, "The League was a pioneer in the field of water management and treatment. We have no problem with supporting this bond issue, which would provide funds for water supply systems and water treatment plants to meet our needs for the next few years. We need no more reminder that the droughts of the past two summers to realize how vital clean and plentiful water is, both to the economy and four our personal needs."

Weather Wipes Out Band Clinic

The ECU band clinic for high schools, scheduled for Saturday, October 29, has been cancelled.

In making the announcement of cancellation, George Neff noted that inclement weather and the resultant field conditions at Ficklen Stadium necessitated the cancellation.

Neff said that the event would be rescheduled, and that a public announcement on the new date would be made as soon as possible.

Arraignment Set Here For Monday

Aage A. Justesen, 52 of Winterville, is scheduled to be arraigned in Pitt County Superior Court at 3 p.m. Monday on murder charges stemming from the September 13 shooting death of Greenville grocery store operator Henry Joseph Bunton.

Justesen is charged with machine-gunning Bunton to death.

Justesen's attorney, James T. Cheatham, said in papers filed with the Clerk of Superior Court that he would present testimony,

"relating to the question of temporary insanity, which the defendant intends to raise in the trial of this case.

The attorney said he would present evidence, "relating to mental disease, defect or to other conditions bearing upon the issue of whether the defendant had the mental state required for the charge," although doctors at Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh who examined Justesen reported the defendant was competent to stand trial.

Cheatham, who asked the court to hire at least two experts on temporary insanity, also contended that the death penalty law is unconstitutional and asked the court to dismiss the charges.

N.C. Author Dies In N.Y.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ben Haas, author of more than 80 novels and a North Carolina native, died Thursday, apparently of a heart attack. He was 51.

Haas was in New York and was stricken in his hotel room. He had had several attacks in recent years. The Charlotte native was author of "The Foragers," a Civil War story, "Look Away, Look Away," about the civil rights struggle and "The Chandler Heritage," about the textile industry.

His most recent book, "The House of Christina," was published last April and was an account of Austria between the world wars. Haas was living in Raleigh. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

Umbrellas hang out for sale in home workshop, Bo Sang village, Thailand.

AP Newsfeatures

Paper cover is pasted on frame of miniature umbrella.

UMBRELLA VILLAGE

No one in Bo Sang worries about a rainy day to come. In fact, they're more than ready to welcome a multiplicity of monsoons. This small village in Thailand has a large claim to distinction: it's renowned far and wide for its one and only handicraft, the umbrella-making pursued by the village folk that has earned it the nickname of "the umbrella village." In dozens of different types, full size or toy size, plain and fancy, in silk or paper on wooden frames, umbrellas by the thousand are produced in family-owned workshops that vie with each other in design and decoration.

It's the main livelihood of the village and it's a rare family that doesn't have someone in the business, if not the whole family. It's not that it rains so much in Bo Sang, by the way—the village specialty has become known to tourists and supplying their demand keeps the umbrella trade booming.

NEW RAIL CROSSING — The Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, in cooperation with the State Highway Department last week installed a new type crossing on Greenville Boulevard. SCL officials, who said the new type crossing is "nothing new" although it's "somewhat new in this area," said the crossing material is plastic and highly resistant to sand and gravel. More expensive than the conventional timber used at crossing, the "Cobra" crossing material is "much more durable...lasts longer and is more dependable because it won't chip out." It is also smoother and holds its shape better than wood, they noted.

Really Liked By Mighty Igor

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"There's two things I really like, children and small animals," Igor Vodik (Mighty Igor) said in an interview before his bout against The Superstar in the Jaycee sponsored wrestling match at Rose High last night.

"With the way I'm on the road, there's not too much time I can spend helping children, but I do whatever I can in little ways," the brawny professional commented.

Noting that he has a soft spot for animals, Vodik said "I have five dogs now, and other animals too. They are a lot of pleasure."

A native of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, Mighty Igor has been in professional wrestling a little more than six years.

"What really got me started was seeing Ivan Kamaloff wrestle," Vodik explained. "I got to know him and later went with him to Minneapolis."

Initially, Vodik was featured as a side attraction, "a strong man. They had me do things like bend iron bars, lift up heavy rocks and hold back a car."

"Then Kamaloff began teaching me something about wrestling, working out at the YMCA."

"After that in Omaha, I was taken on by a promoter named Dusik and that's where I first got to wrestle."

His first years in wrestling was on the Canadian, northern states circuit — Minneapolis, Duluth, Chicago, and in Canadian cities including Winnipeg.

"I came to the Mid-Atlantic circuit nine months ago," Vodik said, "and I've wrestled in Greenville before."

The Mid-Atlantic circuit, Vodik pointed out, "is now the best for wrestlers in the United States. In North and South Carolina, Virginia and parts of Georgia, there's a good interest in professional wrestling. People like it, and we get a lot of engagements."

Vodik, a bachelor, said he enjoyed "the excitement people feel at wrestling matches. They really let you know how they feel." With only a few minutes left before having to get ready for his bout with The Superstar, Vodik took time to give autographs to several boys who waited at the dressing room door.

"At every match, there's always some children who want my autograph," he smiled. "And a lot of children tell me they want to be a wrestler when they grow up."

Will Mark Anniversary

On Oct. 31, 1517, an Augustinian monk, Martin Luther, posted a series of 95 theses opposing the sale of indulgences. Luther was priest of the Castle Church, Wittenberg, Germany, and professor at the university. This is generally viewed as the beginning of the Protestant Reformation.

The Sunday nearest Oct. 31 is celebrated by Lutherans and many other Protestants as Reformation Sunday.

A festival service, marking this anniversary, will be held at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church at 11 a.m. Sunday. Dr. Louis Reith will be the pulpit guest.

Dr. Reith is a graduate of Concordia Lutheran Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., and holds the degree of doctor of philosophy in reformation history from Stanford University. He is on the staff of ECU's Joyner Library.

Special choral music will be under the direction of Allan Winter, choirmaster. A brass choir under the direction of Professor James Searl will participate in the service.

Following the service, a congregational dinner will be held. The public is invited to attend.

Mental Health Centers Ass'n Will Convene

The North Carolina Mental Health Centers Association will hold its annual conference Sunday through Tuesday at the Royal Villa Motor Inn in Raleigh.

Discussed will be depression, death and dying, leadership and treatment skills, support systems and future mental health and mental retardation directions, the last topic by Ben W. Aiken, Director of the N. C. Division of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Among the speakers will be Dr. James L. Mathis, chairman of the East Carolina University School of Medicine Department of Psychiatry.

The Association consists of both private and public mental health facilities throughout the state.

Warns Klan Of Activity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is warning the Ku Klux Klan that any vigilante attempts to prevent illegal aliens from entering the United States from Mexico "will not be tolerated."

Bell issued the warning Thursday during a meeting with a Mexican-American group concerned about recent statements by KKK members, announcing plans to begin patrolling the U.S.-Mexico border. "Activities by vigilante groups of any kind will not be tolerated," Bell assured members of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

Bell's statement reaffirmed an earlier position by the Immigration and Naturalization Service that only authorized personnel will be allowed to take action against illegal aliens.

Leonel Castillo, immigration director, said KKK members would be kept under close scrutiny if they attempted to patrol the border, but he added the government could do nothing unless a law is violated.

Castillo said he was unaware of any actual attempt by the KKK to patrol the borders. "So far, it's all been press releases," the immigration director said.

Four Mishaps Here Thursday

An estimated $1,375 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:30 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 250 feet West of the Rocksprings Road intersection involving cars driven by Charles Robert Brockenhoff of Green Mill Run Apts. and William David Winstead of Enfield.

Police estimated damage at $250 to the Brockenhoff car and $150 to the Winstead vehicle.

An estimated $350 damage resulted from a car driven by Mark Steven McCoy of 204 East Eighth St. when the vehicle collided with a tree at the intersection of Tenth and Lawrence Streets about 10:25 p.m.

Jayne Elaine Kirkman of Cedar Lane Apts. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:10 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans and Eighth Streets.

Officers reported the Kirkman car collided with an auto driven by Roger Lee Kanipe of Route 5, Greenville, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Kanipe car and $250 damage to the Kirkman vehicle.

Cars driven by Frank Gregory Foster of Goldsboro and Shawn Marie Murphy of Slay Dorm collided about 4:15 p.m. Street, 100 near the intersection of Ninth and Cotanche Streets causing $290 damage to the Foster car and $25 damage to the Murphy auto.

Weighs Future Of Director

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — U.S. District Judge John Larkins took under advisement Thursday a motion for an injunction to keep state Farmers Home Administration director James T. Johnson in his job.

Larkins let a preliminary injunction stand. Johnson had been ordered to a new post which he contended in a suit was designed to force him to resign for political reasons. Johnson is a Republican appointee.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, reacting to positive economic news that overshadowed only a modest increase in the index of leading economic indicators, was up slightly today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained .69 to 819.30, after gaining 5.20 points Thursday.

Among the favorable developments were reports that the money supply was down, the nation's trade deficit in September reached its lowest point since May and productivity in the private sector was up in the third quarter.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks gained .06 to 50.65. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .23 to 112.81.

Volume on the Big Board was 6.82 million.

Suspect Body May Be That Of Hoffa

Stewart ...

Stewart. "Our government is concerned with the capacity of younger children to read."

He noted that the last session of the General Assembly paid special attention to this problem.

"We have placed $45 million into reading programs for the next two years, he said.

"I'm pleased with what we've done with public education in the past session."

Stewart also expressed the need to improve North Carolina's highways, adding that support was needed for the upcoming road bond issue.

"This bond is not going to insure that all North Carolina roads will be like we'd like to see them."

But he added that the $300 million bond would be a start in the right direction. There are 80,000 miles of unpaved roads in the state.

Stewart added that to make all needed improvements would require approximately $1.5 billion.

"This would cover our real needs for the next few years."

"Get out and support the bond."

Stewart said also that there is a lack of sufficient health care in the state, noting a high incidence of infant mortality, too much illness, and the high rejection rate of North Carolinians from the military.

In addition, he said that the North Carolina judicial system is in need of improvements.

"You have to realize that our judicial system is not designed for the 20th century criminal or 20th century justice."

He added that something must be done before the federal government finds it necessary to intervene.

According to Stewart, the success of the Democratic party in the past could lead to a feeling of self-assuredness which could only hurt the government.

"Because of the number of great men who have been Democratic presidents and governors of North Carolina, there is a tendency to bask in the sunshine of our success."

"I think that we can make our party better and the executive branch of our government better by giving the governor of this state the right to succeed himself."

He added that he believes the people of North Carolina will substantially support Amendment Three on Nov. 8.

Prior to the meeting, Stewart noted that there could be some division on the question of succession because it applies to the incumbent government.

But he said that he is still confident it will pass.

Both bond issues are in good shape, too, according to Stewart.

Mr. Magic Leads Ficklen Invasion

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium, two men will walk up to the line of scrimmage with towels hanging from their uniform belts.

One of them says, "Mr. Magic," while the other states, "My name is Too Small." Just how these two lead their teams will probably determine the outcome.

"Mr. Magic" is Southwestern Louisiana's Roy Henry, a throwing quarterback who is throwing for over 190 yards a game. "Too Small" is East Carolina's Harold Randolph, who leads the Pirate defensive unit.

The two square off at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, and it is the final home game for the ECU Pirates this season. It's also the final game for Ficklen in its present state. Construction is scheduled after the end of the year to expand Ficklen to over 35,000 seats.

Henry, who left Notre Dame University after his freshman year after being involved in the same dormitory problem as Greenville native Al Hunter, has been prolific for the Ragin' Cajuns. For the past two seasons, he hit 196 of 404 passes for 2,844 yards and 26 touchdowns. This year so far, he has hit on 104 of 210 for 1,525 yards and 14 touchdowns, an average of 190.6 yards a game. He's had 11 picked off during the season.

His 13.0 completion per game average ranks him 12th nationally in passing. He's also 12th in the nation in total offense.

Henry, of course, is not the whole Cajun team, but darn near all of it. He's the backbone, and stopping him is the key to stopping Southwestern.

"I don't know who to compare them with that we've played," Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina said. "Their defense is extremely big; their front line averages nearly 250. Their linebackers are active, and the other coaches they have played say their defense is really their strong point."

One of the things that scares Dye the most is Southwestern's ability to force turnovers. They've recovered 23 of 44 fumbles and picked off 17 interceptions, a total of 40 turnovers. "That's a ton of making things happen," Dye said. "We're supposed to be a good defensive team, but we're not making things happen like that. We've only recovered 11 fumbles and intercepted nine passes. Last year we were one of the best in the nation with 46 turnovers in 11 games. They've got 40 in eight games."

Dye said that the Cajuns have several great defensive players, and appear to have no defensive weaknesses. Top defensive people include tackle Larry Gremillion, 6-1, 245; guard Keith Walker, 6-2, 250, and back Ron Irving, 6-0, 199.

Returning to the offense, Dye called Henry the best pure passer the Pirates have played against since Dye took over here.

"He does things with the football that you wouldn't believe. He can throw it 60 yards while running backwards. He passes well off the drop-back, the role-out to either side, and the bootleg. He does so many things well."

All three receivers are outstandings, although Dye likes the play of tight end Calvin James, a 6-3, 210-pound freshman.

James had caught 26 passes for 381 yards and six touchdowns, including three in one game. David Gray, the split end, also has 26 catches for 475 yards and three scores. Flanker Nat Durant has caught 10 for 158 yards, while Dennis Reidmiller, the second string split end, has 17 catches for 234 yards. Tailback Barry Herbert has caught 12 for 144 yards coming out of the backfield.

"They also have excellent running backs," Dye warned. Herbert is the leader with 406 yards on 100 carries. Fullback Allen Strambler had 73 carries for 244 yards, while Booker Price, the number two tailback, has rushed 47 times for 202 yards.

Henry has been thrown for losses for a net of minus 41 yards, proving that he can be contained, but Dye said that is difficult.

"They have a young, inexperienced line that is getting better every week," Dye said. "But Henry throws so quickly that you have trouble getting to him. He can run, too."

Dye feels that the Pirates must have "exceptional coverage and put a lot of pressure on Henry" if the Pirates are to come out a winner. "And we also have to stop their running game at the same time." Despite the ability of Southwestern, which brings a 5-2-1 record into the game. Dye looks forward to the challenge of playing the Ragin' Cajuns. "There is no way to reach the heights you want to climb to if you don't have some hills to climb, and this is one of those hills," he said.

Dye also warned that the Pirates, and the officials have to be wary of a "sleeper" play by the Cajuns. "They sometimes go to the sidelines, then leave a back out there to catch you sleeping on the next play. And in one game, they got 12 men on the field for a goal-line stand, picking off a pass and taking it all the way for a score, and the officials didn't detect it."

The Pirates will be shooting for their eighth victory in nine starts in the game, and also trying to keep their hopes of a bowl-game bid alive.

Gallagher Catching More Now, And Enjoying It More Now Too

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Terry Gallagher is on the verge of breaking two career pass catching records.

Now that might not seem like much, unless you remember that Gallagher is the split end on a wishbone football team—one that doesn't put the ball into the air many times a game.

During his career, the Warner-Robins, Ga., senior has caught 44 passes, eighth best among ECU receivers. But those 44 have covered 1,083 yards, second-best among Pirate pass grabbers. Eleven of those have been for touchdowns, tying the school record.

Gallagher needs only 111 yards in receptions in his remaining three games, plus one more touchdown catch, to set new ECU standards in those categories.

"I feel good about having shots at both of them," he said. "But I'm not going to worry about em. If they come, they come. I'd love to have them both, but it won't be the end of my world if I don't get them. And I certainly wouldn't want the team to put my records ahead of winning these last three games."

Gallagher feels that his senior season has been his best so far. "I've caught more passes already this year than I did in any other season."

Coach Pat Dye has stated time and again that Gallagher, whom he calls the best blocking split end in the country, never complains about the team not being a throwing one.

"Well, I don't complain outright," Gallagher admitted. "I'd be lying if I said I didn't. But I know the situation, and I see no reason to fight it. We've obviously got a good running game, so what can I say?"

Gallagher is happy that the Pirates are opening up more this year with the passing game. "We've really worked on our passing game, and the opposing teams are preparing to stop us passing more and more now. But this slows people up front. It's easier to block seven or eight to get our running game going since they've got to respect our passing now. There have been times when people would rush ten or even eleven against us."

Gallagher said that usually he had one-on-one or double zone coverage, and he found neither a problem. With his speed, he has one advantage. "And I've got another in that I know what I'm going to do; the defensive back doesn't." In zone coverage, there's always an opening along the seam, Gallagher said.

There is one problem that Gallagher is having however. With the Pirates using two quarterbacks, he has had some trouble in adjusting to the different styles of Leander Green and Jimmy Southerland. "Leander throws hard all the time and that's due to inexperience. That throws my timing off some times. There are times when you have to put some zip on it, but there are others when you have to take something off the ball. Jimmy is experienced enough to know this, and Leander will learn. It hurts when you're looking for the ball to come quickly, and you have to wait for it, or if you look for a soft one and it gets there before you're ready."

Gallagher feels that the Pirates should be able to win their final three games. "I know that all three of them are capable of beating us," he said. "But I also feel that we really are the better team. I don't think it's a question of the opposition being ready—they will be. It's up to us to be ready to play them."

"If we take them one at a time, and play like we are capable of playing, I think we can win the rest and get a bowl bid. Finishing 10-1 wouldn't be bad either."

Rampants Are Third

Rose High School's cross-country team finished in third place in the Division 14-A meet held here yesterday.

The event was won by Northern Nash, which had 36 points, while Wilson came in second with 47. There was a big gap between second and third as the Rampants finished with 74 points.

Rose was followed by Bertie at 93. Northeastern was in fifth place with 129 points and Rocky Mount finished last with 164 points.

Only two Rose runners placed in the top ten finishers. They were Til Jolley, who took fifth place in 15:34, and Steve Blackwell, one step back at 15:36.

Northern Nash's Mark Davis finished first in a time of 14:29, while Danny Cox of Wilson was second in 15:06. Tony Newsome of Wilson and Frank Yoper of Northeastern followed with times of 15:22 and 15:28, respectively.

Three Northern Nash runners followed the Rose pair. They were Donnie Earl, Willie Alston and Ricky Hardy, who timed in at 15:38, :39 and :40. Jackson Outlaw of Bertie rounded out the top ten with a time of 15:45.

Bill DaVanzo was the third Rampant to cross the finish line, taking 19th place in 16:17. Teddy Gartman followed in 21st place at 16:19 and Blair Smith was 24th in 16:41.

Dan Mayo of Rose took 24th place in 16:48, Nathan Mills was 29th in 17:31 and Sterling Ashby was 31st in 17:37.

Rampant Cubs Outlast Fike

Rose High School outslugged Wilson Fike in a junior varsity football game yesterday, 27-24.

The Rampant Cubs pushed over 21 points in the first period, then had to withstand a Baby Titan comeback and score in the third period again to pull out the victory.

Rose scored three times in the first period of the game. Don McGlohn scored on a 23-yard run, and Ted King took a 48-yard pass from Mark Shank for the first two scores. Shank also scored on a 90-yard kickoff return, with King kicking the extra point after each score.

Wilson got one first quarter score. Jeff Collins scored on an 87-yard pass from Chuck Lang and Bill Jackson ran over the two-point conversion. Wilson trailed, 21-8, after the first period.

Wilson added a second score in the second quarter. Ralph Morris scored on a two-yard run, and also got the two-point conversion to cut the lead to 21-16.

Both teams scored in the final period. Wilson's touchdown came on a 33-yard pass from Lang to Jack Mullins. Morris ran over a PAT. Greenville's score came on a three-yard run by Shank that sewed it up.

Rose closes out its season on Thursday, traveling to Elizabeth City.

We're off to the races again, but we've come up one man short.

Steve Hemric, who was tied for the lead with Vickie Spivey after last week's results, has left the Daily Reflector, and will no longer be picking with us.

So we've decided to bring in some guest pickers for the rest of the season. The Guests will do okay, too, since they're picking up Hemric's record.

This week's guest picker is East Carolina football coach Pat Dye. He looked over the card and said he had to pick two games one way for sure. He circled East Carolina over Southwestern Louisiana, and said, "I sure as hell ain't gonna pick against us."

Then, he went over to the Rose-Wilson game, and circled them both. "But coach," I told him, "it can't be a tie. They'll have a sudden death overtime if it ends up tied."

"I don't care," Dye said. "We're recruiting players off both teams, and I ain't makin' nobody mad."

So, we're off on another week.

The Guests, as stated, are tied with Mrs. Spivey for the lead with 63-26-1 records. Tom Baines and Joe Jenkins are next at 62-27-1, while we come next at 60-29-1. Jim Kyle dropped to last with a 59-30-1 mark.

Some changes are likely again this week.

There is one big game in the high school ranks this week not on our poll.

Roanoke will be hosting West Edgecombe and the winner will likely finish atop the Eastern Plains conference standings. West Edgecombe depends a lot on its quarterback, and he's hampered by an injury. That may be enough for the Redskins. I'm going with them.

Conley visits Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers have to win the rest and pray for a miracle to win the Eastern Carolina title. No miracles expected, but a win by Ayden-Grifton is.

In the other Eastern Carolina game, the Panthers of North Pitt entertain Farmville Central. The Jaguars are on their way to the state playoffs again. And again, no miracles expected. Farmville to win.

Plymouth visits Williamston, and the Tigers will find no respite here. Plymouth will defeat them.

Creswell is at Jamesville and this is the finale for the Bullets. They beat Roanoke's "B" team last week, and liked victory. They should get another this week.

North Lenoir is at Greene Central, and this will probably settle who'll finish either third or fourth in the league. We like the Rams.

Turning to the panel's picks, we find that the Pirates of East Carolina are entertaining Southwestern Louisiana. The Ragin' Cajuns bring in Roy Henry, "Mr. Magic" who will try to work a disappearing act on the Pirates home winning streak.

The panel doesn't believe in magic acts, however, as it picks the Pirates by a 6-0 margin.

In the Rose-Wilson affair, it's not as easy. Both have everything to lose in the game and everything to gain. It'll be a tough one, and the panel likes Wilson by a 3-2-1 margin.

Other consensus picks find Clemson over Wake, Maryland and North Carolina, a toss-up; Syracuse over Virginia; Oregon State over Stanford; William & Mary over Rutgers; Georgia Tech over Duke; N.C. State over South Carolina; Memphis State over Southern Mississippi; UCLA over Washington, and Michigan State over Illinois.

The full poll:

Carolina, Maryland Clash May Tell Eventual ACC Loop Winner

By The Associated Press
The shape of things to come in the Atlantic Coast Conference may emerge Saturday as first-place North Carolina takes on Maryland.

The Tar Heels are 2-0 in conference play, good enough to keep them one-up on Maryland and Clemson, tied for second place with 3-1 conference records.

North Carolina will bring the nation's toughest defense into the game. They have given up only 44 points in seven contests. But the Terps offense has shown growing strength and may put the Heels to the test.

"Maryland is beginning to play like Maryland teams of the last three years," says Carolina Coach Bill Dooley. "Some of their players who were injured earlier in the year are healthy now and that's made a big difference in their play."

Another important contest that could provide the season with its most startling upset is the Wake Forest-Clemson tilt.

The outlook isn't brilliant for the Deacons from any standpoint. They have lost six in a row, including last week's game with hapless Virginia, and a victory over Clemson, which is hoping for a shot at the title, would be a shocker.

There is little encouragement in the record, either. Out of 41 games between the two schools, Clemson has won 30.

The games:

North Carolina at Maryland
Byrd Stadium
College Park, Md., 1:50 p.m.

This game renews the oldest rivalry on the Maryland schedule and right now it looks like it could be a decisive one in the road to the ACC championship. Maryland was undefeated last year and took the title. But the Terps got off to a shaky start this season and dropped one to North Carolina State. The Tar Heels are 2-0 in the conference and have the nation's stingiest defense where points are concerned.

Duke at Georgia Tech
Grant Field
Atlanta, Ga., 1:30 p.m.

Duke has a chance this week to regain some of the momentum it seems to have lost. The Blue Devils have bit the dust twice in the past two weeks, once to Clemson and again to Maryland. Georgia Tech is no easy mark, however. The Yellow Jackets are 5-2 on the season and their most recent recollections are of rolling up 516 yards against Tulane in New Orleans. "We definitely need to regroup," says Duke Coach Mike McGee. "We have had two disappointing losses in a row to two very physical teams. We have four very important games remaining and we're looking forward to them."

South Carolina at N.C. State
Carter Stadium
Raleigh, N.C., 1:30 p.m.

It's also regrouping time for the Wolfpack, an early season giant whose fall has been hard. Playing brilliant football through the Auburn game three weeks ago, the Pack amassed a 5-1 record, including a win over favored Maryland before things got rough. North Carolina beat them two weeks ago and last week Clemson bowled them over on the Tigers' own road to glory. South Carolina has a 4-4 record, the gem of which is probably the Gamecocks' 19-16 toppling of red hot East Carolina.

Virginia at Syracuse
Syracuse, N.Y., 1:30 p.m.

Having saved themselves from the cellar for the time being anyway with their 12-10 victory over Wake Forest, the Cavaliers have a fair shot at their second victory of the season this week in Syracuse. "They have the best 2-5 team in the country," says Virginia Coach Dick Bestwick. "Last week they really had Pittsburgh on the ropes and a penalty took them out of it. Playing there is particularly difficult." The Cavs are 1-5-1 on the season and ought to know a good 2-5 team when they see one.

Chargers Top Conley

HOLLYWOOD — Ayden-Grifton gained a 14-0 junior varsity football victory over D. H. Conley yesterday.

The Charger Colts picked up single scores in the second and third quarters. Calvin Ellison scored the first touchdown in the second period, running 34 yards with the ball.

In the third quarter, Donnie Jackson intercepted a pass and returned it 60 yards for the final score of the game. Jackson hit Carroll Strickland on a conversion pass for the 14-0 score.

Dwayne Garris, Chris Phillips and Jackson led the A-G defense, with Jackson picking off a total of three passes.

Ayden-Grifton finished the year with a 4-3-1 record, 3-1-1 in conference play.

Ayden-Grifton 0 6 8 0-14

North Pitt Takes Win

BETHEL — After battling through a scoreless first half, North Pitt's junior high football team scored touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters yesterday to take a 14-0 victory over Maury Junior High.

The Cubs got a 45-yard run by Tony Pitman in the third period and a 20-yard run from Bob Hemingway in the fourth on the two touchdowns. Ken Whitehurst ran the conversion after Hemingway's score.

Pitman rushed for 125 yards in the game to lead North Pitt to its fourth win of the year against one loss. The Cubs play again Wednesday at Snow Hill.

Indianapolis 500 Chief Hulman Dead; Brought New Life To Track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Anton J. "Tony" Hulman Jr., president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway whose booming order, "Gentlemen, start your engines," each May launched one of the world's richest and best-known automobile races, is dead at 76.

Hulman died at St. Vincent's Hospital Thursday night, a few hours after he was admitted. A nursing supervisor said death resulted from heart failure caused by a ruptured aortic aneurysm. That is a break in the main blood vessel to the heart.

When Hulman purchased the Indianapolis Speedway in 1946 for $700,000, it was a ramshackle, neglected track with rickety wooden grandstands. Grass grew between the old red bricks that formed the track and gave it the nickname, "the Brickyard."

"It was in such dilapidated condition, we didn't know we'd ever get it ready in time for the race," Hulman once said. "Some of the grandstands were falling down."

He said it was hard to believe the track would someday be worth more than $50 million.

Hulman had all of the 2 1/2-mile oval paved except for a yard of bricks left at the finish line. Under Hulman, concrete and steel grandstands were erected, and today there is seating for 237,500 persons and another 100,000 can be accommodated in the infield.

Hulman's principal business interest was Hulman & Co. in Terre Haute, Ind., a wholesale grocery firm.

Hulman said in a recent interview, "All I ever got to see about any of the business was the trouble. They brought the problems, and I had to produce solutions. This is the part of the job that appeals most to me.

"Certainly I enjoy success, but I get more pure satisfaction from problem solving. The everyday routine is not my dish."

Although he never drove a race car in competition, most of Hulman's life was associated with speed. At age 12 he owned his own motorcycle and at Yale he was a star football end and rowed with the Eli crew.

"Mr. Hulman will be mourned by millions of citizens worldwide," Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., former mayor of Indianapolis, said when informed of the death.

Grant Worried About Meeting With Falcons

By The Associated Press
Since 1968, the scores have been 47-7, 37-7, 24-7, 23-10 and 38-0, Minnesota over Atlanta. Only twice in that span have the Falcons beaten the Vikings—by narrow margins of 10-3 and 20-14.

But this is 1977 and Minnesota Coach Bud Grant sounds concerned about Sunday's National Football League game at Atlanta.
"I think we'll run into the same kind of a buzzsaw we saw out in Los Angeles," he said, referring to last Monday night's 35-3 romp by the Rams. "They beat the Rams, a team that just handled us pretty convincingly. They beat the Chicago Bears, a team we had to go into overtime to beat. They're fighting to stay on top in their division (the National Football Conference West, tied with Los Angeles at 4-2). I think that tells you what we're facing."

Sunday's other games are Los Angeles at New Orleans, Philadelphia at Washington, Houston at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Cleveland, the New York Jets at New England, San Diego at Miami, Chicago at Green Bay, Detroit at Dallas, Buffalo at Seattle, Oakland at Denver, Pittsburgh at Baltimore and Tampa Bay at San Francisco. The New York Giants visit St. Louis Monday night.

Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who was ineffective against Los Angeles, also had high praise for the Falcons, saying they have "the best defense of anybody in the NFL. It's not a fluke." Actually, Dallas in No. 1 in NFC defense with Atlanta a close second.

Tarkenton lives in Atlanta in the off-season, so he has another reason to want to beat the Falcons. "I wouldn't want to live with a loss at Atlanta all winter," he said.

Bobby Scott will start at quarterback for New Orleans against Los Angeles even though Archie Manning should be healthy. Last Sunday, Scott completed 16 of 35 passes for 285 yards and three touchdowns in the Saints' 49-31 loss to St. Louis.

"Even if Archie's ankle comes around, there is no way you could not start Bobby, not after the way he performed," said Saints Coach Hank Stram. "He was super. What you had to admire about him was the way he kept his poise while the bullets were flying around him."

Pat Haden established himself as the Rams' No. 1 quarterback in the romp against Minnesota, passing for two touchdowns and running for one TD. When he came out late in the game, Joe Namath remained on the sidelines and Vince Ferragamo got a few minutes of playing time. "This game puts an end to the quarterback controversy," Haden said afterward. "I expect to start against New Orleans."

McLendon Putts Way To Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — It's that happy time of the year for Mac McLendon.

"I just wish I could get started a little earlier," he sighed after a spectacular putting exhibition had helped him post a five-under-par 66 for the first-round lead Thursday in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

It's a familiar situation for McLendon. In each of the last two years he has come to this stage of the season—late October or early November—pulled his game together and scored the only two victories of his career.

This time, there is a very appreciable difference, however. In 1975, when he and Hubert Green won the National Team Championship, and last year, when he won the Southern Open, McLendon had been playing so poorly he was seriously considering leaving the tour.

This year, the slender veteran from Birmingham, Ala., has amassed more than $80,000 in earnings and had a strong, second-place finish behind Jerry Pate last week.

"I can honestly say that the last two weeks I've hit the ball better than at any time I've been on the tour," McLendon said. "I didn't hit the ball all that well today, but it was the best putting round I've had in the 10 years I've been on the tour."

McLendon one-putted 12 times, used only 10 strokes on the greens over the back nine at the 6,549-yard Pensacola Country Club course, played that side in 31 and took sole possession of the top spot with a 20-footer for a birdie on the last hole.

That gave him a one-stroke advantage over Pat Fitzsimons and rookie Jim Chancey, who matched 67s in the mild, sunny weather.

Pate, playing before a large gallery of friends, relatives and neighbors on his home course, was one of a large group at 68, only two strokes back and three under par.

"It puts extra pressure on you when you look at the gallery and you know 90 per cent of the people," he said. "They've read about me and they've seen me win on TV. Now they come out to see me beat these other guys, and if I don't do it, they want to know what happened."

"There's nothing personal in it, but I sure want to beat the rest of them this week."

Joining Pate at 68 were Jim Simons, Ken Still, Danny Edwards, Keith Fergus, Bobby Walzel, Mark Pfeil, Steve Taylor, Jeff Mitchell, Bruce Fleisher and Bill Garrett.

Johnny Miller shot a 70. PGA champion Lanny Wadkins and defending titleholder Mark Hayes were at par 71. Arnold Palmer shot 73 and must improve if he is to make the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 scorers after today's second round.

Braves Seek Two Yankees

ATLANTA (AP) — Officials of the Atlanta Braves want to talk with coaches Yogi Berra and Bobby Cox of the New York Yankees about managing the National League club.

And Hank Aaron, major league baseball's all-time home run king, says he will take the job if Braves owner Ted Turner asks him.

Bill Lucas, the Braves' director of player personnel, said Thursday he had asked Gabe Paul, Yankees general manager, for permission to approach Berra and Cox.

Approval of his request "should only be a formality," Lucas said.

But Lucas said, "There is no leading candidate" for the job, despite published reports that Berra, the former Yankees' All-Star catcher as well as manager of the Yankees and Mets, and Aaron were the frontrunners for the job.

In a telephone interview from Washington with The Atlanta Journal, Aaron said Thursday, "I haven't asked for the job, nor am I actively seeking it, but if Ted Turner wants me I'll do my best. I'd do it because of the love and respect I have for him."

Aaron, 43, played for the Braves from 1954-1974. He also spent two years with the Brewers in Milwaukee, a town that was the Braves' home during many of Aaron's best years, before rejoining Atlanta in a front office job as head of the Braves' farm system after the 1976 season.

Berra and Aaron reportedly are high on the list of possible replacements for Dave Bristol, who was fired Monday after two years as Braves manager.

Berra, 52, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, said he hasn't heard from the Braves yet, but "I'm always willing to listen," adding, "I might want to manage again."

Berra took over the Mets in 1972 and managed them to a pennant in 1973, when they lost the World Series to Oakland in seven games. He was fired late in the 1975 season.

Lady Bucs Post Win

RALEIGH — Louise Snyder and Diane Keough both won singles matches and then teamed up for a doubles win to lead East Carolina University to a 6-3 victory over St. Mary's.

Coach Cynthia Averette said, "Louise Snyder and Diane Keough both put on outstanding performances in singles and then teamed together in doubles to clinch the match. Three wins this week shows me that the team has finally come together."

The Lady Pirates are now 5-6 for the season and will be in action again Monday when they host Mt. Olive.

Malone Paces Houston Win

By The Associated Press
You can't score in the National Basketball Association without a little help from your friends.

And Moses Malone had it Thursday night.

Malone was the open man most of the night and benefited from it by getting passes from his teammates. The result was a 31-point performance that helped the Rockets to a 133-110 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"Moses was getting open a lot," said Rudy Tomjanovich, "and we were feeding him." Tomjanovich didn't do too badly himself. He scored 32.

"Basketball is an emotional game," he said. "When I'm on a hot streak I know I can put the ball in."

John Lucas was credited with most of the care and feeding of his teammates. He collected 18 assists.

"You don't get a lot of assists unless you are a good player," said Tomjanovich, "but your teammates have to be open first — and we were."

In the night's only other NBA game, the Kansas City Kings whipped the Cleveland Cavaliers 119-104.

Along with his 31 points, Malone pulled down 15 first-half rebounds and 22 in the game. He tallied 13 points in the second quarter when the Rockets pulled away from a 25-25 tie and took a 66-56 lead at half-time.

Kings 119, Cavaliers 104
Rookie guard Otis Birdsong poured in 18 points, 17 in the second half, to spark Kansas City over Cleveland. The Kings, who grabbed the lead early in the first period, had seven players in double figures, offsetting a sparkling 32-point performance by Cleveland forward Campy Russell.

The Kings scored seven straight points in the waning moments of the second quarter, moving into a 60-49 lead. They led 60-51 at the half and made the margin as great as 12 points early in the third period.

Finally Loses
WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Allen, coach of the NFL Washington Redskins, won 13 straight NFL season openers up to 1977 when the New York Giants beat him at the New Jersey Meadowlands stadium, 20-17.

With Care, Driver May Trim Car Insurance Bill

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Careful shopping, selective buying and special discounts can cut auto insurance premiums sharply. The savings vary from driver to driver, but you may be able to trim your bill by one-third or even more.

The Illinois Department of Insurance noted recently that there were more than 300 companies selling auto insurance in the state and said rates differed sharply "from company to company, driver to driver, car to car and protection to protection."

The department stressed that an expert insurance agent or broker is a necessity and urged consumers to watch out for:

- Agents or brokers who try to force you to buy another kind of policy such as life or homeowners when you buy auto insurance. The purchase of auto insurance should not be contingent on any other transaction.
- Agents or brokers who sell insurance on a part-time basis only and may not be available to give you service when you need it.
- Agents or brokers who cannot explain the policy in simple terms so you understand it.
- Agents or brokers who do not keep in touch with you about possible changes in your insurance.

(The main difference between an agent and a broker is that an agent works for one or more insurance companies; a broker is an independent business person.)

You may be able to check the financial stability of any insurance company you are considering by looking it up in Best's Insurance Reports, an annual publication of the A.M. Best Co., a private reporting and rating organization.

The ratings, ranging from excellent to fair, reflect the financial condition and operating performance of a company. The ratings do not include an evaluation of policy provisions. Nor do they cover claims practices. (Best does not rate all insurers; do not reject a company just because it is not listed.)

One of the most common ways for consumers to lower costs is by increasing the deductible on your policy. (The deductible is that amount you have to pay before insurance coverage takes over.)

Increasing your deductible from $50 to $100 can cut the collision portion of your premium package by 10 to 20 per cent; going from a $50 to $200 deductible can cut the premium by 30 to 40 per cent.

You may want to consider eliminating collision coverage completely on older cars which are already paid for. It does not make much sense to pay $100 a year in premiums on a car that is worth only $300.

Note: if you itemize your income tax deductions, you may be able to subtract losses exceeding $100. Suppose you are in a 32 per cent tax bracket. If you have an auto accident and suffer $500 in damages to your car, you could subtract $400 as a casualty loss. Thirty-two per cent of $400 is equal to $128 that you would save on your taxes.

State Farm Insurance Cos., the nation's largest auto insurer, said studies showed its customers were shifting toward higher deductibles and, in some cases, eliminating collision coverage.

The company said that as of Dec. 15, 1975, just over 71 per cent of State Farm policyholders carried collision coverage. Among new policies sold in June 1977, only 61.2 per cent included collision coverage.

Of those who carried the collision coverage in 1975, the company said, 40.7 per cent had $50 deductibles, 50.6 per cent had $100 deductibles and 8.7 per cent had other deductibles, mostly $200.

Of those purchasing collision coverage this June, only 24.8 per cent chose $50 deductibles; 60.6 per cent chose $100 deductibles; and 14.6 per cent selected other deductibles.

Other suggestions for savings on auto insurance include:

- Drive safely. Your premiums depend partly on your accident record. If you do have an accident, be sure to report it, both to the police and your broker. The reporting is important even if you are not at fault or are the victim of a hit-and-run accident.
- Try to pay your premium for the full policy period such as six months or a year. It costs extra to pay on the installment plan. If you don't pay on time, your policy will be cancelled. There is no grace period.
- Consider a group automobile insurance plan if your employer, union or professional organization offers such a program. The premiums may be less and your insurance won't be cancelled unless you don't pay the premium or the whole group's coverage is cancelled. Investigate insurance plans offered by automobile clubs, but remember that you will have to pay membership dues. If you would not ordinarily join, you will have to add the dues to your premium cost.
- Avoid buying an expensive or high-performance car. It will be expensive to repair or replace and is tempting to thieves. Premiums generally are higher on more expensive cars. One insurance company said, for example, that a policyholder in a midwestern city could save more than $350 a year on a total insurance package by buying a $3,500 subcompact instead of a $7,500 larger model.
- Don't drive to work. And if you must drive, try to join a car pool. The fewer miles you drive, the lower the premium and many companies give special discounts for car pools.
- Ask if you qualify for any other special discounts. Among factors that may help you save are insuring more than one automobile with the same company, completion of an accredited driver-training course, passive restraint systems such as air bags and no accidents or traffic violations for the past three years. Students with a grade average of B or better also may get a reduced rate as may nonsmokers and nondrinkers.

On the negative side, factors that could result in your paying higher rates include a frequent change of address, residence in a low-income or deteriorating neighborhood and divorce. Rates also are often higher for drivers over 65, those who have been licensed less than three years and unmarried male drivers less than 30 years old.

The savings can add up. State Farm calculated what the rates would be for an adult married couple — over 25 — with a 1975 Chevrolet Impala on which they carry a given package of insurance.

For the purposes of the example, the couple was assumed to have a comprehensive policy with bodily injury coverage of $50,000 per person and $100,000 per accident and property damage liability of $10,000; a policy for personal injury protection or medical payments coverage; a policy for uninsured motorist coverage; and a collision policy with varying deductibles.

If the couple lives in suburban Atlanta and either husband or wife drives 100 miles or more to and from work every week, the six-month premium for the package, assuming no deductible on the comprehensive and a $50 deductible on the collision policy, would be $125.63. Raising the collision deductible to $100, would cut the premium to $120.50. Raising the collision deductible to $200 and adding a $50 deductible on the comprehensive policy, would cut the bill still further to $107. If the primary driver then joined a carpool and drove less than 30 miles to and from work each week, the premiums would drop to $87.50. The overall saving would be 30 per cent.

(Young drivers — particularly boys — boost insurance bills sharply. If the Atlanta couple had an 18-year-old son who started driving the family car, their six-month insurance premiums would increase by more than $100.)

Rates — and potential savings — vary widely in different parts of the country. If the Atlanta driver lived in Sacramento, for example, his State Farm premiums for the insurance package specified could range from $140.80 to $191.58. A driver in the suburbs north of Chicago could pay from $108.44 to $161.70 and a driver in Rochester, N.Y., would spend from $108.20 to $150.22.

Phantom Actress Is 'Seen' On The Aisle

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer
WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP) — The phantom of the Woodstock Opera House, a ghost named Elvira, has been seen by theater casts — and sometimes heard moaning her disapproval — as she sits in her favorite seat on the aisle.

"During rehearsals, they all believed they saw Elvira sitting in her reserved seat, DD13, on the aisle in the balcony, or moving about up there as resident critic," says Esther Waniecek, director of the Nutcracker Suite Ballet which opens Nov. 25.

According to legend, at the turn of the century, Elvira, a beautiful actress, hanged herself in the belfry of the opera house after being spurned by her lover. Her ghost has roamed the building ever since.

School children in this community northwest of Chicago have heard more about Elvira than about Orson Welles, Paul Newman and Geraldine Page — all of them former Woodstock Players.

"I've seen Elvira a half dozen times," says Mrs. Waniecek. "She wears a diaphanous, full-length, pink dress. Her flaxen hair flows over her shoulders. She is tall and slender. Those who have not seen her have felt her spirit."

The city librarian is swamped by requests of school children researching Elvira. But there is no factual material on her, not even documentation of her death. She was known only as Elvira.

"She never talks, but her sighs can be heard — of approval, disapproval, boredom, frustration or happiness," says Mrs. Waniecek. "She has excellent taste and humor. Once she turned out all the lights on a TV crew doing a documentary.

Elvira is a well-liked personality whose presence in the 87-year-old theater has never hurt the box office.

"Although Elvira has her own seat, she is not there during performances. We sell her seat on a first-come, first-serve basis. It is in more demand than any other," says Doug Rankin, director of the opera house.

Rifle Gone: Confine 100

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — About 100 Ft. Bragg soldiers, many of them married and living off the base, were in their fourth day of confinement today as authorities continued to search for a missing M-16 automatic rifle.

"No one's being punished," insisted a base spokesman. "We've got an investigation going on and we're trying to recover a weapon.

"During an investigation all people are confined until every possible lead has been exhausted. This has proved effective nearly 100 per cent of the time," he said.

"It's senseless," said one of the soldiers confined to barracks. "Because of one man's mistake in Alpha Company, they're making things as uncomfortable as they can on us."

The missing weapon was assigned to a member of the company, part of the 508th airborne infantry battalion.

But the base spokesman said all five companies in the battalion were being confined because all of them had access to the consolidated arms room where the weapons were stored.

The rifle was discovered missing during deployment of the brigade for Exercise Bold Eagle in Florida.

The confined soldiers include married men, some living off the base.

"We can't go to the PX or the snack bar," said one. "We can only leave if there is a military emergency."

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
Finding the Cause of Eczema

Can you give me any information about eczema? What causes it? Two doctors disagree as to the foods to eat. Will I ever outgrow it? I'm 13. — Miss T.H., N.J.

Dear Miss H.: Eczema is a skin condition that is not contagious. It may cause itching of the skin, blisters, scaling and crusting. I emphasize that it is not contagious because I do not want you to feel that you must separate yourself from your friends because of it.

Eczema is a form of skin irritation known as "dermatitis." In most instances, it is caused by some allergy. Food, and combinations of certain foods, may be the cause.

I am sure that both your doctors will agree on the method of eliminating one food after another, in an effort to track down the cause. In some instances, eczema may be caused by contact with clothes, the soaps and detergents used to wash them, with chemicals, plants or flowers.

I suggest that you stay with one doctor and give him an opportunity to help you to find the offending cause.

It's surprising how often young people do outgrow their eczema. Yet I would not depend on nature alone to do this. Keep up the doctor's treatment and his suggestions for giving you a maximum of comfort with this condition.

I have had vaginal bleeding for three months. I've been getting hormone injections and now the condition seems to have stopped. I don't know for how long. I'm not taking any medication now. I can't seem to get an answer anywhere to explain this bleeding. Could this be a cancer? I am 23. — Mrs. J.F.C., Ind.

Speaking of Your Health...
Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
Finding the Cause of Eczema

Dear Mrs. C.: It would be highly presumptuous if I even attempted to explain the reason for your vaginal bleeding. There are so many reasons for this that only a detailed study can pinpoint the exact cause.

What confuses me is your inability to ask and receive a positive answer from your doctor who, you say, is a gynecologist. Unless your questions are thoroughly answered and unless you get the reassurance that you do not have a cancer, you will continue to be bothered by this.

A visit to a doctor is never complete when the patient is given only a prescription. Along with it must come a thorough explanation of the nature of a condition, and the cause, if it is known, and the possibility of recovery.

When patients fail to ask questions, doctors assume that they understand all the aspects of their case. There are times when a doctor is so overwhelmed with work that he cannot take sufficient time to answer all of a patient's questions. Then, a special appointment or a "telephone appointment" should be made.

Bob Hope Revamped Show To Honor A Friend

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope's NBC special was to have covered his 40 years in films. But he's totally revamped it to honor Bing Crosby, his pal and "Road" sidekick, who died two weeks ago at age 73.

Together in a friendship that lasted 45 years. It even contains a rare film of their first work together in 1932, taken from the balcony of the old Capitol Theater in New York, said Hope, just now getting over the shock of Crosby's death.

Soon they were teamed up for the first of their seven famous "Road" comedies — "The Road to Singapore" in 1940, after which the path led to Zanzibar, Morocco, Utopia, Rio, Bali and finally Hong Kong in 1962.

Until Crosby's fatal heart attack in Spain, the two were planning an eighth match-up, "The Road to the Fountain of Youth."

He and the late singer had in making their films. Hijinks abounded, the comedian recalled, and the barrage of ad libs he and Crosby threw in the films drove the scriptwriters to despair.

He said Don Hartman, co-author of the first "Road," hit the roof "when he walked on the set one day and I, just kidding, said, 'Hey, if you hear one of your lines, yell bingo!'"

Hope, 74, said he and Crosby "always felt good together, and he loved to be with me because he'd let himself go in the 'Road' pictures and he never did that in anything else."

tribute to Crosby, but it isn't exactly that. "No, I didn't think it was right to take over and do the Crosby tribute," he said. "It's just about the two of us and what we've done, and I've tried to keep it light. I didn't want to get maudlin. "It's the family's job to do the tribute. I just did what I feel about Bing, and I know they're going to love it. "What I'm doing is an affectionate kind of presentation about our association, and all the laughs we had."

veloped a new pack of playing cards, called "Treffles." The 40-card pack, in which each card resembles a tile in Dominoes except that there are three panels, can be used for at least six different games, one of which is a trump game which resembles bridge. Complete with instructions, the cards can be obtained from Games & Names, 6 Bluff Point, Westport, Conn., for $2.95.

Greenwald held the East cards when this hand was dealt at rubber bridge. South's weak two-bid in spades was rather eccentric. West showed his diamonds but North brushed aside this minor annoyance by leaping to Blackwood. He intended bidding a small slam if his partner showed an ace, but had to be content with five spades when South could not oblige.

ELEPHANT TANGO — Actress Barbara Eden, currently filming "Harper Valley PTA" does a dance step with two elephants that work with her in the show. Scenes call for Barbara to work closely with the elephants throughout the movie, so she spent several days just learning how to control and guide the huge beasts. (AP Laser-photo)

Appalachia Urged Spurn Developers

By STRAT DOUHTAT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Conservation Foundation president William Reilly has called upon Appalachian residents to protect the area from developers who, during past booms, reaped large profits and left behind scarred hills and polluted streams.

The increased use and development of coal and these people will resent and resist anyone who would increase the pollution in their air."

Reilly said farsighted residents can see that their land is worth far more than short term profit.

"The price of land is skyrocketing in Appalachia," he said. "Also, more than half of this country's high quality timber is located east of the Mississippi River. Many people are beginning to resist taking quick profits and are keeping their timber, which will be badly needed 40 years from now."

Reilly also called for land use controls and said he was against steep slope strip mining.

Other speakers called for a careful development of coal and human resources. Former U.S. Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson, Thursday's keynote speaker, called for closer cooperation between the public and the private factors of our economy. He said the country's current energy plan is potentially disastrous because it lacks analysis and a systematic approach.

Peterson said the Carter Administration should create some sort of crash program, such as the Manhattan project which developed the atomic bomb during World War II, to find new, clean energy sources.

Meanwhile, a West Virginia official told the delegates—including representatives from each Appalachian state—they should insist that Congress stand behind President Carter's commitment to Appalachia.

"As new mines are opened and production is stepped up, new miner are and will be needed to mine the coal," said Donald Moyer, director of the West Virginia Office of Economic and Community Development.

"The population influx alone has already put almost unbearable strains on existing housing, water and sewer treatment facilities in many Appalachian communities. These needs can only increase in the coming months and years."

"A decision must be made now as to where funding will come from to insure coal production that an energy-strapped nation demands from us."

The conference will continue through Saturday with Vice President Walter Mondale addressing the some 50 delegates tonight. At least 10 Appalachian governors are expected to be on hand Saturday to act upon the proposals being discussed at the conference.

Samuel Morse filed for a patent on his improved telegraph in 1837.

James Earl Ray Says He Just Wanted New Trial

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

WARTBURG, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, who said his June prison break was the only way to win a new trial for the murder of Martin Luther King Jr., was convicted Thursday night for that escape.

Ray is serving a 99-year term after pleading guilty to killing the civil rights leader in April 1968 in Memphis. Ray and six other inmates climbed over the walls of Brushy Mountain Penitentiary on June 10.

A jury of nine men and three women returned the guilty verdict after three hours of deliberation in the 12-hour trial. They sentenced Ray to an additional one to two years in prison, the minimum the jury could impose under the state's escape law. Ray's attorneys said they will seek a new trial on the escape charge.

Mark Lane, Ray's chief attorney, had asked the jury, if it found his client guilty, to impose a one-day sentence and "send a message to Washington" that "the sleeping giant of justice has at last begun to rise."

Judge Lee Asbury of Criminal Court told the jurors they could sentence Ray to from one day up to 11 months and 29 days in the county jail if they felt the offense merited less punishment than provided in the law.

Ray, 49, pleaded guilty on March 10, 1969, to first-degree murder in King's death. Three days later he tried to withdraw the plea, saying he did not kill King. His appeals for a new trial — reaching all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court — have all been denied.

Lane, who co-authored a book arguing that a conspiracy was involved in the King assassination, said he will begin work today on another attempt to win a new murder trial for his client. Lane took over just this week as Ray's lawyer after a judge approved Ray's dismissal of his previous lawyer, Jack Kershaw.

Ray, the only defense witness in Thursday's trial, testified his escape was aimed at making a deal with U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to turn himself in later in exchange for a new murder trial.

Asked by Lane what he did on June 10, Ray said, "I escaped from the Petros prison." The prison is located at Petros, about 10 miles east of Wartburg and 40 miles west of Knoxville.

Lane then asked Ray, sitting on the stand with his legs crossed and hands folded on the lap of his paint-stained blue jeans, why he escaped.

Ray replied: "It was my intention after I was out a couple of months to make some arrangement with the attorney general, General Bell, for a new trial in the King case."

"Why did you choose this method?" Lane asked.

"I don't think there was any other method available," Ray said.

On cross-examination, prosecutor Arzo Carson asked Ray why he planned to wait two months after his escape before contacting the authorities.

"I assumed it would take that long to get to Illinois or Canada," Ray said.

"You intended to leave the country?" Carson asked.

"Not exactly," Ray replied. "I just wanted to get up north or into Canada."

Lane earlier moved to have the escape charge dismissed on grounds of double jeopardy. He said Ray had served 30 days in solitary confinement after his recapture June 13, has been segregated from other prisoners since then and forfeited three years of honor time that would have been taken off his sentence for good behavior.

Judge Asbury overruled the motion, saying the punishment was a prison disciplinary action and not related to the charge that Ray violated a state law by escaping. The judge also ordered that the jury could not hear any testimony or arguments concerning the punishment Ray already has received.

Lane also tried to introduce evidence that Ray was tortured, threatened and coerced by Memphis authorities, the FBI, and a former attorney, Percy Foreman, but the judge disallowed the evidence.

The prosecution called five witnesses, including the two officials in charge of the prison when the seven inmates escaped and the two dog handlers who found Ray under a clump of leaves about seven miles from the prison 54½ hours later. The other state witness was the chief clerk in the Memphis courtroom when Ray was sentenced to the 99-year term for King's murder.

The trial was held in a drafting classroom at the Morgan County Vocational School amid tight security though classes continued throughout the day in other areas of the building. The county courthouse is being renovated.

Guards armed with shotguns were stationed around the school while sheriff's deputies inspected briefcases and other items carried by spectators into the makeshift courtroom.

Carson said he was happy with the jury's verdict. The six other convicts who escaped with Ray were given one-year sentences in exchange for their guilty pleas on Sept. 2 to the charge.

Ray fired his former lawyer, Jack Kershaw, before the trial and hired Lane and Wartburg lawyers George Buxton III and Kenneth Krushenski as his new counsel. Jerry Ray, who sat directly behind his brother at the defense table throughout the trial, said Kershaw had received $11,500 from Playboy magazine for persuading James Earl Ray to take a lie detector test.

Playboy said the results of the test, published in its September issue, showed that Ray was not telling the truth when he answered "No" to the question, "Did you kill Martin Luther King Jr.?"

Asbury set Nov. 28 as the day for hearing motions for a new trial on the escape charge and told Ray's attorneys to submit their motions by Nov. 22.

dent of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce. The Phone Shop is a new concept in allowing customers to select telephones for their home, without having to wait to have them installed. A customer can plug the phone in the special jack in their home without the normal wait. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

N.C. Womens Clubs Appear To Have Found New Growth

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — After several years of slowly declining membership, North Carolina womens clubs have re-examined their programs and made some changes which seem to be reversing the trend.

"We had a real good survey of our clubs and communities," said Mrs. Joseph G. Tobert, executive secretary of the North Carolina Federation of Womens Clubs. "And in the past year we've had an increase in the number of whole clubs and general, although not big, increase in established club membership."

The emphasis now, Mrs. Tobert says, is less on charitable fund raising and donations and more on volunteer work. There are several reasons for the change, she says.

First, an "evaluation of community needs" in North Carolina revealed that volunteers are needed more than money in most areas.

Second, Mrs. Tobert says, "because of the condition of the economy" women are apt to have more time than money to give.

And finally, the federation survey revealed that women want to be more involved personally in serving their communities than in the past.

"The human element and the people element seem to be what is needed now," Mrs. Tobert says, "rather than simply financial assistance."

As a result, the federation has been moving into volunteer work in a number of areas, among them reading education, aid to the mentally handicapped, promotion of the fine arts, conservation and crime control.

Women from the federation's 300 local organizations around the state help children learn to read, raise money for scholarships, sponsor art shows and concerts, plant trees, teach people how to protect their property by marking it and organize neighborhood crime watch programs.

The North Carolina federation has been around for 75 years and now boasts about 13,000 individual members, up from a low point of about 12,500 and still growing, Mrs. Tobert says.

Its membership is divided into six "departments": conservation, education, home life, international affairs, public affairs and the arts. Members can also choose to belong to special "junior" clubs, limited to members under age 36.

The organization's president is Mrs. James W. Johnson of Thomasville. The federation is affiliated with the General Federation of Womens Clubs, with an international membership.

State Ports Feel Effect

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) —

There has been no drastic impact, but the state's ports have felt the effects of the longshoremen's strike against containerized cargo that began Oct. 1.

At Wilmington volume has dropped somewhat in bulk cargo business not actually affected by the strike.

"We aren't having the volume of ships that we normally have," said Peter Ruffin Jr. of Wilmington Shipping Co. He added that shipping companies seemed to be "hesitant" to ship during the strike.

Eugene Gore, port manager for Seatrain Lines Inc. said businesses probably stocked up before the strike and that might be responsible for the diminished traffic.

The port has lost business from about 30 barges which carry containerized cargo and are therefore objects of the strike.

An estimated 135 container loads, many filled with tobacco, are awaiting shipment for Europe. Seatrain moves about 300 containers a week.

At the other state port in Morehead City, business has actually picked up during the strike. The smaller port is not equipped to handle container cargo, although it has the necessary crane.

Port operations manager Charles Sunder said shipping companies that normally use containers are switching during the strike to bulk cargo.

Alcoholism A Social Problem, Says Wilbur

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The man who lost a powerful government position because of a bout with alcoholism says he views the disease as a social problem rather than an individual one.

Former Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who was chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, said in a speech here Thursday night that one of his greatest concerns now is the growing problem of alcoholism among teen-agers.

"It's not just a family disease. It's not just an individual disease. It is a community disease," Mills said.

The 68-year-old former lawmaker said he took his last drink the night of Feb. 13, 1975. He awakened Feb. 14 in a hospital bed suffering a hangover.

"I never felt so bad in all my life," he said.

Since starting on the road to recovery, Mills has toured the country making as many as three appearances a week for speeches on behalf of anti-alcohol programs, many of them without payment.

Mills was the keynote speaker at Thursday night's banquet for 300 persons who deal with alcoholics on a professional or volunteer basis around the state. The two-day workshop is sponsored by the state Department of Human Resources.

Three years ago Mills attracted headlines when he was involved in an incident with a Washington, D.C., stripper who went for a brief swim in the tidal basin near the Jefferson Memorial.

He admitted his alcoholism in December 1974, but it wasn't until February that he sought rehabilitation at an alcoholism treatment center in Florida.

In an interview following his speech, Mills said for eight to nine months he wanted a drink every day but at about that point he suddenly noticed the craving had gone.

He also said his doctors believe he would have died within about six months had he not stopped drinking because of high blood pressure and the possibility of heart failure.

He said the incident with the stripper gave him the jolt he needed to wake up to his problem.

During his speech, Mills said his wife is also a recovering alcoholic and quit drinking nearly two years before he did.

On his own drinking habits, "I never was a pint or half pint drinker. I never thought about taking just one drink. Not once in my life did it occur to me that one drink would be enough."

Mills also said he is grateful that he is an alcoholic. "If I'm to have a disease, I'm fortunate to have a disease I can do something about."

Mills condemned the effect liquor has on heavy drinkers. "Liquor had done many things to me, but the worst thing it ever did was absolutely destroy any sense of morals," he said.

For good gas service the local Daxol guy is your guy.

This is Grandpa Jones I hear lots of folks reminisce about how nice things were in the good old days "later feathers" In my book, the good old days are right now. And one of the best things about 'em is Daxol — and the service you get from your local Daxol guy. Why, he's as good as his trade as Roy and Buck is at pickin' and singin' Yesiree. For the best in propane and good gas service, the local Daxol guy is your guy.
