Merging Ayden, Grifton Schools Is Reaffirmed

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Emotions ran high yesterday as the Pitt County Board of Education reaffirmed its Aug. 2 decision to merge Ayden and Grifton middle schools.

In a 5-2 vote with one abstention, the Board voted down a motion made by Douglas R. Jones to rescind its previous stand.

Approximately 35 citizens attended the meeting to voice their disapproval of the Board's actions. Many of these were members of the Save Our School (SOS) committee which has led a 15-month fight against the merger.

George Saleeby, SOS chairman, addressed the Board after Jones' first motion was dropped for lack of a second.

"I have to stop and catch myself before I cry. We (SOS) have presented you with the facts...What's wrong with us having our schools?" he said.

Saleeby restated his belief that a state survey contained an error in population projection for the Ayden and Grifton communities.

The merger is supported by state officials.

According to Saleeby, the population question was the biggest factor in the Board's previous decision to merge.

"I don't see how all nine of you can go against the wishes of the people...We make no apologies for fighting for our schools. Our interest has always been in the education of the children, not just for now but for the future.

"By golly, we don't want consolidation," he said.

Ayden Mayor Ralph Persinger, who had made a calm request of the Board earlier to consider the question more closely, agreed with Saleeby.

"This just isn't right for a group of people to be like this," he said and stalked out of the meeting.

In an earlier statement to the Board, Persinger said that he had talked to over 200 residents of Ayden and Grifton and had not found "a single person in favor of it."

J.J. Brown, Ayden mayor pro tem, also spoke against the consolidation, saying that his constituency opposed the merger.

"I believe that in a merger, someone always loses," said Brown.

After his motion had failed, Jones said that he thought it was a "disgrace that no one can second this motion."

Several citizens accused the Board of ignoring their wishes. The Board tried to continue with the other items on the agenda.

Chairman of the Board Mark Owens said, "Don't feel that anyone has been ignored. This Board has spoken today by failure to rescind their decision."

After much dissent from the audience, Jones again made a motion to rescind the decision, and it was seconded by Bill McLawhorn who said that he was reacting under pressure from his constituents.

"Don't get the feeling that you've won. We've all lost. You've made it clear that you won't let the merger work," McLawhorn said that he was "nauseated" by the whole ordeal, adding that he had been annoyed and threatened prior to the meeting.

A final vote was taken, resulting in the defeat of Jones' motion.

According to Pitt County School Superintendent Ott Alford, the new school will take at least three years to complete. The Board does not presently have enough money for the project.

Ayden-Grifton Middle School will be located somewhere between the two towns, but a definite location has not yet been decided on.

Carter To Seek Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, in a new move to solicit public support for his energy program, plans to make his first television-radio address to the nation in more than six months.

Rex Granum, the president's deputy press secretary, said the timing has not been firmly fixed but can be expected "fairly soon," perhaps later this week.

There was speculation that Carter might take the occasion to discuss cancellation or postponement of his nine-nation tour scheduled to begin Nov. 22.

He has said several times he would change his travel plans if they threatened to interfere with congressional action on energy legislation.

Carter has not broadcast a speech to the nation since last April 18, when he declared that energy shortages confront Americans with "the moral equivalent of war."

Two days later he unveiled energy proposals now nearing final congressional action.

In a brief exchange with reporters Tuesday, Carter said there were "a lot of options" he could exercise with respect to the trip. He did not elaborate.

Justesen Enters Plea Of Not Guilty Today

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Aage Justesen, a Winterville machinist charged with the September 13 machine-gun shooting of Greenville grocery store operator Henry Bunton, entered a plea of not guilty to first degree murder in Pitt County Superior Court this morning.

Justesen's attorneys this morning withdrew a motion made yesterday for an interpreter. They had alleged that the defendant, a citizen of Denmark, has difficulty in communicating and understanding the English language, particularly when under stress.

The defense said this morning that a cousin of Justesen's from

New York has agreed to help interpret words or phrases the defendant doesn't understand.

No action was taken by the court on a motion to have the State hire two experts on temporary insanity to examine Justesen.

"It is the intent of the defendant to introduce expert testimony," defense attorney James T. Cheatham told the court Monday afternoon, regarding Justesen's "mental condition at the time of the offense."

Cheatham continued by saying the defendant may have been temporarily insane because of an "adulterous affair between his wife," and the victim, and "because of physical threats against him (Justesen) and threats of foreclosure," on his business.

Justesen's machine shop was located on property owned by Bunton, according to records at the Pitt County Tax Department.

Judge Herbert Small, who continued the arraignment from Monday, has yet to rule on the motion to hire the experts.

NEAR FINAL ACTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major revision of federal criminal laws, including a compromise formula to retain criminal penalties for possessing small amounts of marijuana, is near final action by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Voices Concern For Dissidents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance has renewed expressions of concern to the Soviet Union about the treatment of its dissidents, administration officials said Tuesday.

They said the U.S. concern was among the matters discussed at a meeting Monday between Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. The officials said the matter was raised as part of the administration's continuing efforts on behalf of human rights.

Shot At Kennedy? Ex-Agent Said To Implicate Sturgis

NEW YORK (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis has been jailed on charges he threatened ex-spy Marita Lorenz. After Sturgis' arrest, Miss Lorenz allegedly told investigators that Sturgis shot at President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, The Daily News reported today.

The News said sources revealed that on Tuesday Miss Lorenz broke down under questioning by Robert Blackie, the general counsel to the House Assassination Committee, and maintained that she had "documentary and photographic" evidence to prove that Sturgis fired at Kennedy from the grassy knoll near the Texas School Book Depository.

Blackie could not be reached for comment on Miss Lorenz' alleged statements about Sturgis.

Sturgis, a 53-year-old former Marine who once fought at the side of Cuban President Fidel Castro, was held today in lieu of $25,000 bail on a state charge of harassment and coercion.

He was arrested late Monday and accused of "instilling fear in the complainant (Marita Lorenz) to refrain from testifying before a legally constituted authority."

Over the weekend, Miss Lorenz reportedly told investigators for the House Committee on Assassinations the same story she recently told a reporter — that she, Sturgis, Lee Harvey Oswald and others drove from Miami to Dallas together in November 1963, a few days before the Kennedy assassination. She said she was sent back to Miami before the shooting.

The Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald was the assassin and acted alone.

Sturgis has denied that he ever met Oswald or had anything to do with the assassination.

According to the News, the sources said Miss Lorenz' testimony does not alter Oswald's involvement in the assassination but that it did fit in with conspiracy theories that hold more than one person fired at Kennedy as he rode through Dallas in a motorcade.

The News quoted Sturgis' defense attorney, Henry Rothblatt, as saying that Miss Lorenz story was "utter nonsense" and that she "set up" Sturgis by sending him money to fly to New York from Miami to meet with her.

He was arrested shortly after Miss Lorenz' 15-year-old daughter, Monica Mercedes Perez Jimenez, was taken into custody for possession of a pistol. Police said the girl told them she got the gun to protect her mother from Sturgis.

Sturgis served a federal prison term as one of the five men caught in the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate in 1972.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

WICKER SUPPLIES

I would like to know where I can get some wicker to repair some old wicker furniture. Is it available and where can I get it? D. A.

If you're talking about the old wicker that has a strand of wire within each cord, you may want to contact Mrs. Lucille Jones at 752-3177. She says if you have infinite patience, you can repair old wicker items with florist wire, glue and venetian blind cord. She'll tell you how.

The newer wicker, according to someone at the Wicker Shop on Arlington Boulevard here is rattan and he could offer no source of repair supplies. Most is imported, he said.

SOAP MAKER

I wonder if Hotline has ever had a request for the name of someone who makes old-fashioned lye soap. If so, I know someone — Mrs. Emma Dupree of Fountain. This soap is good for many things. Her phone number is 749-3861. N. N.

As a matter of fact, Hotline has had such a request and also has been asked for the name of someone who could demonstrate this all-but-lost art at a crafts fair. We could offer no suggestions at the time and are glad to have Mrs. Dupree's name in our files. Perhaps this item will bring us the names of other soapmakers, also.

A 20-item agenda will be considered by the City Council on Thursday during its regular November meeting at city hall.

The four items under "Old Business" include: appointments to boards and commissions; public hearing on request by White Concrete Co. and H. L. Roberts for rezoning from R-6 to Industrial of 21 acres on the south side of Mumford Road east of Meadowbrook;

Public hearing on request by H. G. Stocks for rezoning from RA-20 and Highway Commercial to Highway Commercial and R-15 of 33 acres on the north side of the 264 Bypass West; and

Consideration of a request by the Pitt County Fair Association for rezoning from Unoffensive Industry and R-6M to Highway Commercial of 14 acres at the intersection of US 13-NC 11 and Airport Road.

"New Business" scheduled includes: consideration of a request by the Downtown Greenville Association for the establishment of a special tax assessment district in the portion of the downtown area bounded by First, Reade, Reade Circle and Green Streets;

Application by Pitt County for a permit to place a mobile home at 709 Johnston Street for use as an emergency office building; consideration of three applications for taxicab operator's permits; consideration of four applications for privilege licenses; budget;

Revisions to the Community Development citizen participation program; scheduling of public hearings on request for rezoning property on the west side of Greenville Boulevard and on the South Evans Redevelopment Plan; Ordinance prohibiting parking on the east side of Evans Street from Tenth Street to 14th Street; request by Greenville Marble and

Granite Works for the erection of a mausoleum in Greenwood Cemetery;

Requests for building permit refunds; consideration of releases and refunds of city taxes; dedication and acceptance of River Bluff Road; and request by the Optimist Club for waiver of the privilege license requirements for the sale of Christmas trees and concessions at Nichols from Nov. 29 until Dec. 24.

Defer Decision On Old School Building's Fate

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners decided last night to postpone a decision on whether to demolish the old Farmville High School building on North Main Street here until further study and discussion can be made on whether it might possibly be restored.

A number of townspeople were on hand, apparently because the reading of demolition bids was on the meeting agenda. The bids, which ranged from $24,000 to tear down the main building alone to $37,500 for the three buildings' demolition (main building, agriculture building and gymnasium).

Mrs. Lucy J. Rumley said someone from N. C. State University has been secured to make a study of restoration possibilities for the main building. Mrs. Grace Carraway said a "straw vote" will be taken next Tuesday to let townspeople say whether they would like the building saved and restored if its found to be feasible.

Commissioner Jack Farrior said he believes the matter needs to be more thoroughly discussed, too. He said, however that in his opinion as a building contractor, based on a report from the State Building Inspector's office, it would be economically unfeasible to try to bring the building up to standards so that the public could be let in and to maintain and heat and cool it over the next several decades.

It was pointed out that a facilities needs study for the town will be available in April.

A privilege license ordinance was enacted, which updated but made few changes in the previous ordinance other than to provide for an appeals procedure.

Funds were designated from the Contingency Fund for an Advisory Board banquet.

It was reported that fulltime municipal employees are now eligible for all the benefits of the State Employees Credit Union.

Problems with a sewer line serving the Collins and Aikman plant here were discussed, but no action was taken pending an engineering report on the matter.

Approval was given for Wayne Winstead, a local citizen, to continue his effort to have a "Welcome to Farmville" sign erected at the junction of Grim-

Twenty-Item Agenda Awaiting City Council

Food Expert Is Woman For All Seasons

NEW YORK (AP) — When Ann Zehauskos cooks, she means business. Three turkeys in the oven, a vat of cranberries bubbling away on the stove and two dozen beautiful yams waiting on the dining room table. Thanksgiving dinner is putty fall? No stranger than what she was doing last winter — putting up batches of strawberry jam in 19th-century jelly jars and sealing them with paraffin. Who would make Thanksgiving dinner or strawberry preserves so out of season? Ann Zehauskos, whose mouth-watering concoctions are used in television commercials and shows.

The holiday feast preparations were for a cranberry commercial and the strawberry jam was part of the preparation for "The Best of Families," the new dramatic series produced by CTW, showing on public television this fall. The series, a social history, is set in New York City in the last two decades of the 19th century. And Ms. Zehauskos was responsible for all of the food in the production.

It ranges from soup-bone scraps for a poor Irish family in their tenement flat to an elaborate meal for 24 in the opulent town house of a Fifth Avenue society family of that era.

For the series she relied heavily on a book called "Eating and Drinking Habits of New York City from 1780 to the Present Time," plus cookbooks from just before the turn of the century. "I needed to know how families on three different economic levels ate in the 1880s and 1900s," Ms. Zehauskos explains. "The upper class Wheelers? Probably lamb chops. The middle class Baldwins? Lamb roast. The poor, working class Raffertys, who had so many more mouths to feed? They had to create meals from leftover meats attached to the bones. "Once I've determined what's to be served," she adds, "I go ahead and shop. And that's not always as simple as you might think."

If a client needs tangerines in January, she knows which food broker can produce them from Australia on two weeks' notice. Peaches in January? A source in Chile can come up with them.

Ingredients in hand, she goes home to her renovated 1884 town house on New York's Upper West Side, where she prepares the food. "Remember," she says, "this house was built in the era when the kitchen was tended by servants who weren't allowed the luxury of complaining. Kitchens were usually small. My kitchen is a galley, only 9 feet long but proof that what's most important is good planning and efficient design. All the space in the world won't work unless it's laid out properly."

A home economist, Ms. Zehauskos came to New York against the advice of friends and relatives in Kingston, Pa. In three weeks she found her first free-lance assignment as assistant to a home economist who prepared food for magazine photography.

Later she won over 15 other candidates the responsibility for commercials on the "Seal-test Big Top," one of television's early extravaganzas. Since then, she's been guiding photographers, art directors and producers as a free-lance — what?

"There's really no one word for what I do," she says. "On the set of 'The Best of Families,' for example, the people who didn't call me Ann just referred to me as 'the food lady.'"

On every job she has to do some research, on the kinds of food that should be prepared and the etiquette involved. "I've got an enormous collection of cookbooks — actually about 2,000," she says. "Every one I know brings me cookbooks from estate sales, auctions, country bookshops. Friends bring me old cookbooks they've found when neighbors are cleaning out their houses.

'Life Is A Banquet' Is Breezy Romp

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Superlative agent Swifty Lazar said Rosalind Russell's life was too normal to make a hot kiss-and-tell best seller.

But before she died last year, Miss Russell completed her nonscandalous, perfectly ordinary and conventional tale of her life.

She collaborated with a perfectly ordinary, eccentric actor-turned-model-turned-humorist-turned writer named Chris Chase. The result is a breezy romp called "Life Is a Banquet."

"One thing I wanted to do but didn't get a chance to do was add a paragraph at the beginning saying, 'Rosalind Russell couldn't have written this without me because she don't type good. Signed, the collaborator,'" Mrs. Chase said during a recent interview. "But she died and the book became sadder. Somehow, the humor needed for doing little things like that just wasn't there anymore."

Miss Russell died at the age of 63 last November after a torturous battle with arthritis and cancer. The book was one of her last accomplishments in a career studded with success.

"Mine has been a life with a lot of luck in it," she writes at the end of the book. And, then, as the last words in her life's story, "I've had a good ride."

Mrs. Chase and Miss Russell worked together for about a year. But during that time Miss Russell never let on that she was dying.

"She came East last year for the opening of her husband's play — 'So Long, 174th Street' — and went to Sloan-Kettering for chemotherapy," Mrs. Chase said. "It was the first time I knew. She was sick and tremendously brave."

Even in her book Miss Russell does not dwell too much on her cancer. She does, however, discuss her arthritis at a greater length. "She said one disease in a book is enough," Chris said.

"Life Is a Banquet" reads almost conversationally. It is complete with little Rosalind Russell asides and mannerisms. Sometimes a passage rambles but it returns after pleasant diversions to the original point.

"I wanted to keep her voice as much as possible," Mrs. Chase said. "Ghost-written books are slick, but the flavor of the person isn't in it. I gave her some bridges and some poetry. In fact, her sister read the book and said somewhat bewildered, 'I didn't know Roz knew any poetry.'"

Miss Russell always emphasized hard work and the importance of good, close friends in her personal life. She stayed married to the same man, Frederick Brisson, a producer, for 35 years.

Many of the anecdotes are not titillating passages of a big film star, but rather tame by that world's standards. She talks about the mechanics of making a movie and the work involved in theater and musicals. When she discusses the war years, she includes her husband's role.

Chapter Holds October Meet

The last October meeting of Eta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Sally Howard, Jackie Gehrein was assisting hostess.

Extension Chairperson Carolyn Powell discussed plans for the Friendly Venture Coffee to be held Tuesday night at her home.

Posters were distributed by Pam Whitehurst and members were encouraged to advertise the Christmas bazaar to be held Nov. 19 at the Elm Street Recreation Center. The chapter voted to donate the bazaar proceeds to the Cerebral Palsy Center.

Social Chairperson Barbara Sloan discussed the next social which will be a 50's party on Nov. 5.

Cindy Hart and Jackie Gehrein gave a program on rape. Beth Morin and Barbara Sloan gave a program on palm reading.

A preferential tea was given for new rushees, Kathy Shepherd, Gigi Lang and Cindy Lewis.

The Greenville Pilot Club was organized in 1957 and several of the 15 presidents are still active. Past presidents present were Sue Howell, a charter member, Elizabeth LeConte, Ruby Fields, Juanita McCarthy, Lenore Morton and Addie Jenkins. The current president is Kay Whichard.

During the business meeting, members were reminded that on Nov. 5 p.m. parties would be planted at the downtown plot maintained by Pilots and on Dec. 3, the Salvation Army kettle would be manned by members.

The next meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 28 at the Ramada Inn.

They Came To Dinner Bringing Their Own

By Abigail Van Buren
1977 by The Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I had a dinner party recently, and invited five couples. I worked hard because I wanted everything to be just right.

Two of my guests brought their own "dinner" in a jar. It was some kind of diet concoction.

I was angry and thought they had a lot of nerve accepting my dinner invitation when they knew they weren't going to eat anything. I told them how hard I had worked preparing the dinner, and urged them to "fall off the wagon" for just that meal, but they wouldn't do it.

I finally decided to be a good sport, but deep down I was hurt. What do you think of such guests, and how would you have handled it?

STILL BURNING

DEAR BURNING: Guests who are on special diets should say so when they're invited out. Were I the hostess, and dieters appeared with their own "dinner," I'd have said nothing and permitted them to "drink their dinners" as inconspicuously as possible. (Never would I attempt to get them to "fall off the wagon" or make them feel guilty for sticking with their diets.)

DEAR ABBY: I read with pleasure the letters in your column from women who thought sex was overrated and said they were "tired of faking it" in the bedroom.

It's about time somebody told the truth about sex. I am a normal man, and I don't go crazy over sex either, but I have to be careful where I make that statement.

Women are lucky they can "fake it" in the bedroom. We men have no choice. We have to "perform" in order to prove our "masculinity," and I, for one, am sick of it! Many times I have wished that I could say, "Not tonight, dear, I have a headache."

Women have no idea how much pressure we men are under.

PRESSURED

DEAR PRESSURED: If you allow yourself to be "pressured" in order to preserve the "mucho macho" illusion, that's your problem. For my part, a man is just as entitled to have a "headache" as a woman.

DEAR ABBY: Last night I went to sleep with the pillow over my ears to drown out the noise of my parents quarreling. I am the oldest of four, and I feel sort of responsible for the younger ones. My folks have been fighting ever since I can remember.

They fight about little things, like who put gas in the car last, and also over big things like money or my father's not spending enough time with my little brothers. Abby, this is giving me a nervous stomach because they fight a lot at the supper table. What can a 13-year-old girl do?

FIGHTERS' DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Parents who quarrel a lot are not likely to accept criticism, advice or suggestions from their young children. Indeed, they would probably resent it, so there's nothing you can do. Just pray (and so will I) that they see this letter, recognize themselves and do something about it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

BIG JUMP

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of divorces in the United States more than doubled between 1966 and 1975, when an estimated 1,026 million were granted. The number has increased annually since 1962, says the National Center for Health Statistics, a federal agency.

Individual Review For Each

Under Congressional action, several hundred U. S. prisoners in Mexican and Canadian jails could be exchanged in time for Christmas.

Once in the United States many of the Mexican prisoners will be eligible for parole. Some of these prisoners are young people who merely got caught for possession of small amounts of marijuana and perhaps they have already paid too much of a penalty.

Before we start handing out wholesale paroles, though, we should remember that many of these prisoners went to jail for drug smuggling. In other words they were profiting from creating or feeding the drug habits of many people in the United States and elsewhere.

There has been much said about the injustice many U. S. prisoners suffered at the hands of Mexican authorities. Perhaps this is true in some cases. There are other cases, however where the Mexican prisoners got what they deserved. Those people shouldn't be brought home and set free to go right back to their drug peddling.

Obviously every case will have to be reviewed individually, but we shouldn't be swept up in a feeling of benevolence and conclude that all these people have suffered an injustice.

Amendment Five Poses No Problems

Amendment Five on the ballot that voters will receive at the polls Nov. 8 calls for a balanced budget.

It charges the Legislature with preparing a balanced budget and the governor with making economies if a deficit threatens.

That is the way North Carolina has operated for many years and it is good business.

Voters should have no trouble approving this amendment for it merely makes constitutionally binding what we have been doing. We recommend its passage.

THIS AFTERNOON

New Mandate For N.C.

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — By next spring, North Carolina's government will have a new "mandate" from the people.

Statewide responses to a survey conducted by the Governor's Council on Goals and Policy will form the foundation of a "Governor's Plan for Development of North Carolina."

Second Try
Given his surprising success with the 1977 General Assembly it would be usual to expect that another major set of proposals would not be forthcoming. Governor's in the past have usually not pushed a second major wave of proposals.

ment of Administration Secretary Joseph W. Grimsley, will overcome the biggest weakness in government in North Carolina: absence of overall policy development, and the lack of continuity and frequency of program proposals.

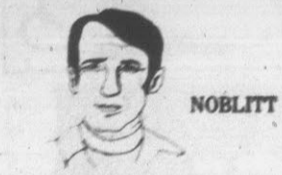

the Council on Goals and Policy, and the budget office. Further, policy development has emerged as one of the more important functions of the Department of Administration with a "think-tank" agency underway to guide this area.

Responses to the survey are pouring in. So far, 90,000 have been received either from those surveys published in newspapers or passed out to school students.

Two elements are combining to alter that tradition: the outcome of the November 8 election on a Constitutional amendment to allow a second term, thereby overcoming the lame duck nature of a one-term government should that direction be approved; and, the "new mandate."

Counties, Too
The report coming from the survey will provide not only statewide concerns, and suggestions, but will also be broken down into a county-by-county report which will provide local governments "from a fairly large sample and in a fairly in-depth way the guidance and momentum needed for change," Grimsley said.

Shaping policy has "always been the central responsibility of a governor," Grimsley says. "Now, we are making it a central role of the governor as well... to provide him with the tools to understand the whole system of State government, and not just on a department-by-department basis."

NOBLITT

State employees are now beginning to decipher the information, computerize it, and will soon start building the report which will reflect what Tar Heels say is wrong, what is right, what needs to be done by State government.

Given that background, Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. intends to go to the 1979 General Assembly with an aggressive, new set of legislative proposals.

Hunt made much of his first mandate—he regularly reminded listeners of his vote-getting power in the election, and related that to popular approval of his campaign proposals.

Gov. Hunt noted that the information will not be a futile exercise in data gathering. The material will be used by the Council on Goals and Policy to not only define overall objectives, but to tackle the harder job of meshing those goals with changes in the State budget.

Does such centralized policy development bar presentation of options to the governor? Will he likely get only one side? Grimsley believes both the spirited work and commitment of the policy staff in his agency, and the presence of other agency heads with access to the governor precludes that possibility.

Smoke Of Battle Clearing

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Carter's energy program has faced some rough going in Capitol Hill, its chances for enactment seem to be improving now that some of the smoke of congressional battle has cleared.

encourage greater energy production and mass transit.

And to get its proposed tax on big, gas-thirsty cars, the administration may have to accept a compromise that combines the tax with a Senate-passed ban on the worst-offending autos.

Those recurring reports that the program sailed through the House nearly intact before being dismantled by the Senate aren't quite accurate.

like the rules, you pick up your marbles and leave."

"I've said right along that I think we're going to come up with an energy program this year that the president can sign," observed Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee.

And while the president surely won't get everything he asked for, he might end up with more than some allies in Congress have expected.

Despite such give-and-take, congressional Democratic leaders seem determined to salvage as much of the Carter plan as possible.

The House did pass most of the president's proposals, but only after a major reconstruction effort directed by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill that followed numerous setbacks before House committees and subcommittees.

The negotiating panel has made little progress in that direction thus far — partly because one of its central players has been missing, Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Some compromises seem inevitable as a House-Senate conference committee forges a final version of the bill.

And its central theme — to force conservation of energy by making scarce fuels more expensive and taxing their inefficient use — seems likely to prevail.

At one point, a House Commerce subcommittee even voted to scrap Carter's plan keeping price controls on natural gas in favor of a deregulation scheme more sweeping than that eventually voted by the Senate.

But with Senate action on energy tax legislation now done, the Louisiana Democrat is expected to play a dominant role in shaping the final compromise.

For instance, the president's supporters may have to give some in their bid to keep down the price of natural gas — in a possible swap to win approval of Carter's proposed energy taxes.

Of course, no one ever said it would be easy pushing through Congress a comprehensive national energy bill that raises costs to consumers.

With floor action now ended, the same reconstruction effort that O'Neill and his lieutenants managed in the House is being attempted by conference committee leaders.

And even though the Senate bill contains mostly tax breaks, Long clearly favors the energy taxes proposed by the president — so long as their revenues can be used as incentives for more energy production and conservation and not related solely to consumers as Carter proposed.

The administration may also have to accept Senate suggestions that tax revenues be spent, at least in part, to

The plan on which Carter has staked the reputation of his first-year's domestic program has had a hard time from the outset, even in the House.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W Va., the conference committee chairman, said he expects the end result to be the basic Carter energy package. "We've held the line pretty well to this point," he noted.

Major fights still remain for conferees. The panel could deadlock over Carter's plan — rejected by the Senate — to force electric utilities to revise their rate structures. And the natural gas pricing

CHRISTIAN THINKING ABOUT CREATION

Many Christians today give little thought to the matter of the creation. Its religious significance is indicated by the fact that it is the first subject with which the word of God deals. Yet there is an increasing tendency on the part of Christians and non-Christians alike to relegate the whole matter to the scientists and treat the Biblical accounts as fable.

The important point is that God did create the universe, and the fact that we do not understand how he did it is no excuse for dismissing creation as being of little spiritual importance.

After science has said its last word, religion will have something to say about creation infinitely more glorious than anything science can affirm. "By faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God" (Heb. 11:3). "By the word of God were the heavens made; and the host of them by the breath of His mouth" (Ps. 36:6). "All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made" (John 1:3).

It's Up To The Prince

WASHINGTON—If Prince Charles believes his visit to the United States has been a goodwill trip, he's sorely mistaken. His appearance on American soil has caused nothing but hard feelings and bitter recrimination among the mothers of eligible daughters in this country.

I was sitting between two of these mothers the other night at a dinner party and this is exactly what happened.

"I wish Prince Charles would come to Washington," one of the mothers said. "I know he would love to meet Mitzi."

The other mother scoffed. "Why would Prince Charles want to meet Mitzi?"

"Because he's looking for a wife, and Mitzi would be the perfect princess. She has beauty, education and she understands the British pound."

"I never heard of anything so ridiculous. If Prince Charles was really looking for an American wife, he would be much happier with my Caroline. When she was born, the nurse said, 'She's beautiful enough to be a queen.'

The first mother said, "Caroline has asthma. She wouldn't be able to live in Buckingham Palace."

"That's a stupid thing to say. If Caroline married Prince Charles she would install a new furnace with an air-purifying system that would take care of her asthma."

"I'm quite certain that Queen Elizabeth wants Prince Charles to marry somebody who is completely healthy. After all, the whole purpose of him getting married is to have a male heir. Now Mitzi hasn't even had a cold in her whole life. She is the picture of good health.

The Windsors do need new blood.

"In all due respect, I don't think Mitzi is regal enough to be a queen," Caroline's mother said. "It takes tremendous savoir faire to open Parliament."

"Mitzi would not have to open Parliament. Prince Charles, when he became king, would open it. The least you could do is read up on British customs if you want your daughter to marry into the royal family."

ART BUCHWALD

The discussion was becoming rather heated, so I tried to add a light note. "Why don't we do it like the TV show, The Dating Game. Prince Charles could sit behind a screen and ask Mitzi and Caroline questions. Then at the end of the show, without seeing them, he could choose one of them for his bride."

"That would be very undignified," Mitzi's mother said.

"For Prince Charles?"

"No," she replied. "For Mitzi. After all, if she's going to be a princess she can't do anything commercial."

"I wouldn't allow Caroline to do it either," her mother said. "I believe Prince Charles should marry for love."

"Do you really think that Prince Charles would fall in love with Caroline?"

"There is no doubt in my mind," Caroline's mother said. "Besides, I know that Prince Philip and Queen Elizabeth would enjoy having us as in-laws. Jim and I are very comfortable with royalty."

"You forgot one thing," Mitzi's mother retorted. "A British queen is expected to ride a horse on her birthday. You told me yourself that Caroline was allergic to horses."

"There is nothing in the Magna Carta that says the queen has to ride a horse," Caroline's mother said angrily.

Finally, Mitzi's mother turned to me. "Let's leave it

Xanadu A Cuban Eatery

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
HAVANA (AP) — For about $6, a Cuban farmer can dine on red snapper at a table in the baronial mansion of one of the richest families in the world, the du Ponts of Delaware.

The Communist government of Fidel Castro seized the 450-acre estate in November 1961 and turned it into a restaurant, Las Americas, at the end of a peninsula near Varadero Beach, a resort 80 miles east of Havana.

Irene du Pont, who died at age 86 in 1963, built the house, complete with nine-hole golf course, in 1929, right before the stock market crash.

Diners sit among du Pont's books, his original N.C. Wyeth paintings and even photographs of his wife and daughters, left virtually untouched on the furniture, as they were when the house was seized.

When the house was taken over, there was talk in Cuba of turning it into a nautical school for boys. Now Castro says it will be kept as evidence of Cuba's "reverence for the past."

Drinkers balance on tiny chairs in the cubbyhole bar in what used to be the du Pont wine cellar with five niches, one each for the wines of five countries.

In the main dining room, a velvet tapestry carries the verse of poet Samuel Taylor Coleridge:

"In Xanadu did Khubla Khan a Stately Pleasure Dome Decree ..."

Du Pont called the place Xanadu.

The main dining room is the show piece. It has high, wood-beamed ceilings. Its walls are hung with tapestries. A dining table set with damask linen seats a dozen in red velvet chairs.

The plates are gold-rimmed and set off by three wine glasses, plus a fourth for champagne.

The food is simpler than the furnishings, running to fish, roast pork, tenderloin tips and chicken soup. A dining table set with damask linen seats a dozen in red velvet chairs.

Atop the house is a pavilion, open to the sea breeze on four British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay conferred with Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, on arrangements for the forthcoming visit to the United States of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Although the envoy said afterwards plans are still subject to change in accordance with the wishes of the royal visitors, it was learned they planned a 36-hour stay in Washington.

During this time they will be received by President Roosevelt. The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will be the first representatives of Britain's royal family to entertain Edward, England's abdicated monarch.

Huge projectiles from Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river burst along Shanghai's waterfront, menacingly close to the U. S. cruiser Augusta.

The Augusta, lying close to the cruiser Izumo, Japanese flagship, cleared her decks and battened port holes as a precaution for the safety of her crew.

The bombardment was aimed at Chinese batteries in industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo from the International settlement.

To the editor:
Oct. 30-Nov. 5 has been designated as National Safety on the Street Week, sponsored by the National Safety Council. How can we as interested citizens make our streets safer? Safer, so we can have freedom from fear when playing outside, walking to school or just out for the evening. Education in safety practices is one important way.

Defensive Driving Courses create an awareness that most accidents can be prevented. These courses are offered through the National Safety Council or one may contact the local Highway Patrol Station.

Bicycle accidents are increasing. Training for bicycle riders concerning proper driving techniques is our responsibility. Have you taught your child how to ride safely on the streets to avoid injury to himself and to others? Do we as adult drivers look out for bicyclists?

Assault prevention education is another vital area. Do we know the precautions to take when leaving and returning home? Are we aware of the self defense techniques and weapons that are effective and legal that we can use to prevent assaults? Do we teach our children precautions and self defense and then give them instructions? The National Safety Council has many brochures and informative pamphlets which are helpful in knowing all this basic prevention.

Are we aware of the effects of alcohol and drugs on our performance and judgment? If we are, do we take the precautions not to use them while driving or in situations where we need complete control? If we are not aware of the effects, information can be readily obtained from the National Safety Council or through our local Police Department.

Let's bring back Safety on the Streets through education and an awareness that it is our responsibility.

Bowersville Invests In Stocks

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In the 1970s the nation's stock market investors have diminished from about 31 million to 25 million, but in Bowersville, Ohio, population 350, about 27 per cent of the town is invested.

Young and old, they believe in stocks as strongly as they do in corn and soybeans. The yields are good. One group of investors expects to double its money over the next three years.

Most of them are farmers or are engaged in farm-related work, such as operating grain elevators or working for the Federal Land Bank. But the banker, doctor, mathematics teacher, funeral home operator and druggist are invested too.

In a town such as Bowersville people are very close to the realities and practicalities of life. There is perhaps less dreaming of a stock market killing and more faith in slow, honest growth.

Understandably, one of their favorite investments is Bob Evans Farms, Inc., a highly profitable, Ohio-based farm company, pork-sausage maker and operator of 27 family style restaurants in Michigan, Illinois and Ohio.

Perhaps the biggest investment is in the Kroger Co., the big food store chain. The farmers feel they know the food business well, and they feel the company is well managed. Besides, the company is based in Ohio.

In nearby Jamestown, population 1,790, interest is nearly as intense. In fact, that's where some of the people in Bowersville found their inspiration. Jamestown citizens formed a cooperative — not to sell their harvest to to buy stocks.

It was there in 1962, to rephrase, that a few investment minded individuals decided to form the Jamestown Investment Club, with membership made up of 20 individuals, mostly business and professional people.

In March 1972, Dale Vaniman and Paul Stethen, both farmers and both members of the Jamestown club, felt there was enough interest in Bowersville, five miles down the road, to begin a club there. Thirty-four joined.

Entrepreneurs, as farm people must be, Vaniman, Stethen and John Trimmer, loan officer of the Federal Land Bank, early this year formed another club—the Farmers Investment Club. It has 59 members, some of them members also of the other clubs.

"Because of our learning experiences in the first two clubs, I feel our new club will double in value in three years," said Trimmer in a letter to the National Association of Investment Clubs (1515 East Eleven Mile Road, Royal Oak, Mich.).

Series Of 4 Accidents In Greenville Yesterday

More than $7,800 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive south of the Millbrook Street intersection involving cars driven by Willie Ray Moore of 904 Colonial Ave. and Joseph Blalock Ward of 221 Country Club Dr.

Police, who charged Moore with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Moore car and $2,000 to the Ward vehicle.

Four vehicles were involved in a 4:35 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, 500 feet North of the Arlington Street intersection.

Investigators identified the drivers involved as Juanita Moore Johnson of 300B Roundtree Dr., Lizzie Reid Savage of 705A Church St., Janie Lou Daniels of Route 1, Winterville and Marion Koneska Bennett of 204 Lee St.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to the Johnson car, $ 900 to the Savage vehicle, $700 to the Daniels auto and $600 to the Bennett car.

Cars driven by Dianne Marie Bergeron of 307 Lewis St. and Linda Wooten Westbrook of Ayden collided about 7:37 p.m. according to police, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Bergeron car and $175 damage to the Westbrook vehicle.

That collision occurred at the intersection of Evans Street and Greenville Boulevard, according to officers.

Police reported vehicles driven by Roy Briley Hannah of 1465A Dunn Ave., and Verna Nelson Hardy of 306 Azelea St. collided about 5:20 p.m. near the intersection of Greene and First Streets, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Hannah truck and $400 damage to the Hardy car.

Bargained Plea 'Not A License'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Griffin Bell says the bargained plea of former CIA Director Richard Helms is not a license for future directors of the spy agency to commit perjury.

"It's just the opposite," Bell told reporters Tuesday. "We've gotten someone to plead to a criminal violation.... It sets the nation on a new course."

Bell commented when asked if the Justice Department's recommended sentence for Helms would sufficiently deter perjury by members of the intelligence community.

Helms pleaded no contest Monday to two misdemeanor charges of failing to testify "fully, completely and accurately" before a Senate committee about CIA activities in Chile.

The plea was exchanged for the Justice Department's recommendation that Helms receive a minimum suspended sentence — or no time in prison — with a possible fine left to the discretion of Judge Barrington D. Parker.

The judge declined to immediately accept the arrangement. Bell said he agreed to the bargaining partially because secret information could emerge during a trial, causing it to be aborted.

He defended the suspended sentence recommendation, saying, "I've seen third and fourth offenders get probation and this was a first offender."

"We were authorized by the president to determine the feasibility and possibility of plea bargaining and to keep him advised," Bell said.

He said Carter was told of the arrangements about 2 p.m. Monday while Helms was in court. Bell said he would have stopped the proceedings if the president had disapproved.

Not that promise rather than performance characterizes their efforts.

The Jamestown club invested $90,800, which has grown to $147,888. The $58,975 invested by the Bowersville Investment Club is worth $91,660. The Farmers Investment Club bought shares for $20,650; it's now worth $21,547, even though the market has been steadily falling.

"Our clubs didn't start performing well until we started buying good companies and dollar averaging these stocks at the appropriate time," said Trimmer.

It isn't uncommon to hear investment club members speak that way, since the three underlying principles on which they seek their success are:

1. Invest small amounts regularly without trying to guess the ups and downs of the market. Sometimes that means holding onto stocks through some rather grim times, but the assumption is that ups will more than offset downs.
2. Reinvest earnings to benefit from compounding.
3. Choose companies growing faster than the industry of which they are a part.

Bowersville and Jamestown investors differ in other ways. The young people are anxious to invest, even though the latest New York Stock Exchange census showed interest waning among younger people.

In Bowersville, 28 per cent of the new investors are in their 20s and 30s. And they've persisted in their regular investing plan even though the market seems to have tripped into an open well.

Something perhaps to do with positive thinking. At the entrance to town is a sign that reads, "Home of Norman Vincent Peale." Perhaps that's where he got the idea.

Acne Can Be Controlled

My brother and I are twins. We're good athletes in high school. We get along well with people. Our big problem is the acne that's been bothering us for two years. We're patient, but isn't there something we can do to speed up this darn thing? — R. and R. H., Wash. Dear R. and R.:

Recently, I wrote an article about acne for a magazine that is devoted entirely to the physical, emotional and social needs of the teen-ager. It is called "Real World" and is published by King Features Syndicate in New York City.

Many young people have since written to tell me that they now have a better understanding of acne and how it can be controlled.

You should know that acne is an inflammation and infection of the sebaceous glands that lie beneath the skin. These glands manufacture sebum, a fatty substance which passes from the gland to the skin by way of a tiny duct, or tube.

At the time of puberty, excess hormones are produced by the adrenal glands, the ovaries, the testes and other organs. Male sex hormones are produced by both boys and girls. It is this hormone that stimulates the sebaceous glands to manufacture more of the oily sebum.

When the ducts are open, all is well. It is when these ducts, or tubes, become blocked that trouble begins. The oily sebum backs up, the sebaceous glands become swollen, and pimples, pustules, blackheads and whiteheads form. This is acne.

It becomes even more complicated when germs or bacteria enter the inflamed area and set up housekeeping. The germs flourish and thrive in this oily material, causing pus pimples and even boils.

Nuts, potato chips, chocolate, sweets of all kinds and gravies were once accused of being the chief cause of acne. Skin specialists today seem to minimize the relationship between food and acne. Go easy on them, anyway.

You can help the process of acne cure with a program of good facial hygiene, plenty of rest and well-balanced nutritious meals. Keep your hands away from your face, shoulders and neck, the areas most frequently affected by acne. There is a temptation to squeeze pimples, whiteheads and blackheads. Fingernails and sharp instruments can cause scarring that persists long after the acne has vanished.

Thorough cleansing of the skin with soap and water is a must. Expensive creams and lotions sound tempting, but are no more valuable than a good soap. Be wary of over-the-counter medicines and mail order "magical" preparations. Skin specialists (dermatologists) and skin clinics grade the type and severity of acne. The grade determines if the doctor will prescribe antibiotics to be taken by mouth and to be applied to the skin surface. This is something you may want to consider. Special "drying" and "peeling" drugs, such as sulphur and resorcin, are sometimes very effective. These must be used only under a doctor's direction.

Patience, the understanding help of friends and parents, and continued supervision by a doctor will help you boys get through this difficult acne period.

Riverboat And Tiger For Sale

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Shirley H. Mitchell is selling his riverboat and his Bengal tiger. Also his grist mill, his quartet of alligators, his antique cars and 1,500 acres of Virginia countryside. And that's only the beginning.

Mitchell, 66, former owner of Hennis Freight Lines, is liquidating his enormous collection of exotic miscellanea in what is being described as a "once-in-a-lifetime auction."

Bidders will pay $20 apiece for the four-page sales catalogue and the right to try to buy something. Spectators will pay for the privilege too.

"We're going to advertise this all over the country," says Miz Lehman, an on-site coordinator for Kruse Auction Co. of Auburn, Ind. "People can look at the stuff Nov. 17 and 18, and the auctioning starts the next day."

It will continue through Nov. 22, when Mitchell's Winston-Salem home and some of its furniture will go on the block.

Most of the land for sale is in Patrick County, Va. It includes the Circle M ranch, along with its stock of exotic animals.

The tiger and alligators keep company with five dingo wild dogs, a bush baby, three timber wolves, a llama, a zebra, two yaks, a leopard, two wallabies and several score of other species.

The antique cars include a 1914 Saxon roadster, one of two 1903 Orientals in existence and a 1913 Metz. The riverboat is the 52-foot Dan River Queen, built 10 years ago and installed in a lake Mitchell ordered created for it.

Mitchell could not be reached for comment on the auction. Hennis Freight Lines is now in the midst of a complex dispute arising from its sale during financial difficulties in 1971.

The auction brochure says the Winston-Salem native now operates United Truck Lines with his son.

Old Uranium Burial Test

By KRIS MORTENSEN
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)

Swedish and American scientists at an abandoned iron mine are studying the possibility of burying radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants in deep underground rock formations.

The Swedish State Power Board and the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration are funding the 2½-year, $6.2 million field study at the Stripa mine in south central Sweden.

Experts from the Swedish nuclear power utilities' Nuclear Fuel Safety Committee and from the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in Berkeley, Calif., are conducting experiments to determine what effect heat from cylinders containing radioactive wastes might have on granite rock masses such as those found at Stripa.

"Finding a mined-out mine with all its facilities still in operation in an area with the type of granite crystalline which occurs commonly in the States happens once in a lifetime," said Berkeley's Pavel Kurfurst, a specialist in rock mechanics and engineering geology and site manager at Stripa.

Mining at Stripa stopped last April. The cooperative project began in July.

Two things can be done with radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants: they can be permanently stored or reprocessed for use in fast breeder reactors.

Even reprocessing, controversial because it also produces materials suitable for the manufacture of nuclear weapons, leaves radioactive wastes which must be disposed of.

No radioactive materials will be involved in the work at Stripa. Instead, electric heaters will be employed to simulate the amount of heat given off by spent fuel elements or reprocessed wastes.

The scientists at Stripa are most concerned about fractures in the rock — how the heat will affect those already in existence and whether it will create more cracks.

"The heaters will simulate the amount of heat calculated to be given off from radioactive wastes," Kurfurst said.

"The waste heat," said Swedish project leader Olof Degerman, "is equal to about 10 kilowatts per ton for one-year-old uranium. The heat from cannisters of reprocessed wastes is about the same, and after about 40 or 50 years, is equal to about one-half kilowatt per ton."

After the cylindrically shaped electric heaters are inserted into bore holes drilled in the granite at Stripa as much as 12,000 feet below the earth's surface, the scientists will use an array of instruments to record what happens to the rock.

"We want to know if any movement is possible through the ground water system — we're trying to get a handle on that," said Kurfurst.

"Outflow of radioactivity is the problem," Degerman said.

Degerman describes the granite at Stripa as "tight rock." He believes the heat, if anything, will make the rock tighter.

From their findings, the experts will project what would happen to the buried wastes whose radioactive lifetime spans thousands of years.

"Radioactivity from the reprocessed wastes after 1,000 years is about the same as when the uranium is mined, but the period is 10 times longer for spent fuel," said Degerman.

Besides the heat from the waste cannisters, the underground rock masses could be affected by volcanoes and earthquakes. "We're even considering new ice ages," Degerman said half in jest.

If, as a result of the Stripa project, the Swedish nuclear power utilities are given the green light for the construction of underground storage terminals, Degerman said, "We will find areas where we don't have earthquakes or volcanoes and we will find rocks which haven't changed for several million years."

The Americans will conduct further research in the United States.

"We will do all the excavating, drilling and servicing for the operation at Stripa," Degerman said. "But we (Swedes) need to conclude our experiments within six months. The Americans have until 1979."

The Swedish utilities are rushing to meet their government's demand for suitable plans for the disposal of radioactive reactor wastes.

Sweden's coalition government is reviewing the country's energy policy — calling for 13 reactors by the 1990s — enacted before nuclear power opponent Thorbjorn Falldin became prime minister a year ago.

The research done at Stripa therefore can be expected to have a direct effect on the future course of Sweden's nuclear power program.

Car Emission Clinic Slated For Saturday

ECU News Bureau

East Carolina University Environmental Health students will conduct a free Car Emission Clinic Saturday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Pitt Plaza Shopping Center.

The clinic is sponsored by the ECU Student National Environmental Health Association.

Motorists are invited to bring their vehicles by for the three minute test. It will determine if the engine is running properly in which case the harmful exhaust emissions will be minimal.

An engine that produces excessive amounts of pollutants is probably not getting the best gas mileage and is costing more to operate and maintain. It should be inspected by a mechanic.

Equipment used in conducting the tests will be provided by Sun Electric Company of Charlotte. A representative of the company will be available to answer questions about the tests.

Fish Wheel A Good Trap For Salmon

NENANA, Alaska (AP) — Ponderously and monotonously, Charlie Stevens' fish wheel screens the muddy waters of the Tanana River for migrating salmon.

Occasionally, the dull rhythm is broken by the sounds of a thrashing salmon scooped from the river by the huge wire baskets of the wheel.

It slides down a wooden trough into a holding box, its long spawning run from the Pacific Ocean brought to an end after an 840-mile journey up the Yukon and Tanana rivers.

The fish wheel has done its job. For Charlie Stevens and his pretty wife, Gayle, the work has just begun.

They must remove the catch from the holding box — up to four times a day during the height of the run — and process the fish.

They operate their two fish wheels for profit and for personal use of the catch.

The commercial salmon season was short this year. It took only 5½ days for the fish wheels on the Tanana to scoop up the 15,000 salmon set as a quota for the Nenana area.

Stevens hesitates to say how many salmon he caught for the commercial market. He does admit to an income of about $8,000 during the season, however, including cash for his own catch and profit from a fish-buying venture with a partner, Terry Clark.

The most profitable part of the commercial catch is the salmon eggs, used to make red caviar. The plump eggs sell for about $2.50 a pound to brokers in Seattle. At the retail level, red caviar brings about $32 a pound.

The chum salmon which make up the bulk of the commercial catch are sold for about $1.50 to $1.75 apiece. They average about nine pounds before they are dressed.

Each female carries some 3,000 eggs, weighing about one pound.

After the commercial season, Stevens and his wife set about catching salmon for their own use. There are no quotas, but under the rules for subsistence fishing he cannot sell or give away the fish he catches.

A fisherman in summer, a sled dog racer in winter and a heavy construction equipment operator in the spring, Stevens put away about 100 salmon this year for his family, including the two small Stevens children, and two student boarders who live with them.

He also froze about 2,500 salmon which will feed his 43 sled dogs during the winter months.

Mrs. Stevens and her husband, an Athabaskan Indian from the village of Fort Yukon, met seven years ago at a Christmas pollatch in this community 45 miles southwest of Fairbanks.

She had come north from Los Angeles to visit friends as Gayle Ramey. Stevens convinced her to say on as his wife.

"It's quite a change from L.A.," she says. "My parents and friends all said I was crazy, that I couldn't stand to be away from the big city."

But she says she has no desire to return to California — "too many people."

In appearance, the fish wheel looks like something Rube Goldberg could have designed on an off day.

Supported by seven or eight raft logs, it is anchored in the river near shore. It has long wooden arms which are attached to the arms at each end are baskets fashioned from wood and chicken wire.

The baskets sweep with an endless rotating motion through the water, propelled by the current.

As one basket sweeps through the water downstream, the other sweeps overhead.

About 250 people operate fish wheels on the silt-laden streams of interior Alaska such as the Tanana and the Yukon.

Developed on the East Coast, the fish wheel came into its own on the salmon-rich Columbia River of the Pacific Northwest late in the 19th century. The concept traveled north with the gold rush to Alaska.

It has since been outlawed, in part because of its efficiency, everywhere but in Alaska and in Canada's Yukon Territory.

Seek Regain Grandsons In America

By WILLIAM SILBERG
DETROIT (UPI) — Dao Thanh Dong and his three younger brothers seem to be adjusting well to their new lives in America.

While they have traded the battlefields of their native Vietnam for baseball fields and new friends in Michigan public schools, their lives have once again become unsettled — this time by a complex custody battle between their Vietnamese grandmother and the American families that want to adopt them.

The boys, aged 10 to 14, were flown out of Saigon in "Operation Babylift" as the city fell to the communists in April, 1975. Three now live with Dennis and Margaret Arvidson of Highland. The fourth is with Jay and Beth Donaldson of Saline.

Nearly two years ago, Huynh Thi Anh, 69, the youngsters' grandmother who helped them flee Vietnam, asked the American Civil Liberties Union to help her regain their custody.

Mrs. Anh, now living with relatives in Oregon, contends she never gave up the children for adoption. In the absence of their parents, who are believed to have been killed, she claims Vietnamese custom gives her custody rights.

The result has been continual proceedings in federal and state courts with the children caught in the middle.

"These kids are the ones who are in the vise," said Donald Shelton, an Ann Arbor lawyer representing the two foster families. "They're being squeezed from both sides."

Shelton said the youngsters have adjusted well to life in this country, are keeping up with classmates and have taken a fancy to baseball and hockey.

While not understanding the issues involved in the court battle, Shelton said, the boys do feel the emotional pressure of the legal tug of war.

Both sides concede a final decision in the case could be as long as five years off, with the accompanying uncertainty about their permanent home even more unsettling for adolescents trying to get along in a foreign land.

"I wish there were some way to avoid a long, drawn-out battle," said Shelton. "I think it's going to cause severe emotional problems, although nothing these kids can't overcome."

Martin Guggenheim, ACLU staff counsel handling the case and himself an adoptive parent, also is sympathetic, admitting there is a point down the road where the court fight no longer would be worthwhile.

"I know what they're going through," he said of the foster parents and the four boys. "But I can well defend the case from a point of view of children's rights or parents' rights."

"Undoubtedly they've been given a great deal of love, and warmth and feel that in return. We're sensitive to the fact that the families very much want to keep them."

The publicity surrounding the case already has led both families to shield their youngsters from the press and refuse interviews, deferring questions to Shelton.

Shelton maintains the issue boils down to a basic custody question and the traditional test in such cases — what will be in the best interests of the children.

"We think the focus ought to be on the children's rights and not on the adults' rights," he said. "The days where the law treated children as chattel that parents had the right to possess are gone."

"I think it's very important that children, at this age especially, have someone to fill the role of mother and father. I don't believe a 70-year-old grandmother can fill that role."

But ACLU lawyers representing Mrs. Anh maintain the case is much more complex, involving major constitutional questions and issues of international law.

"The heart of the case really comes down to government intervention in the lives of families," said Howard Simon, executive director of the Michigan ACLU. "The children are being placed for adoption although indeed they are ineligible for adoption."

"That's the government forcibly breaking up families and that's what we're seeking to prevent."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower in active early trading today, on the heels of a sharp and broad decline Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which fell more than 11 points Tuesday, lost another 3.12 to 803.79 in the first half hour of trading today.

There were more than twice as many losing issues as gainers in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said worries over rising short-term interest rates and a move on Monday by the Federal Reserve Board to tighten credit reins helped push the market lower. Although there were no immediate signs of further credit tightening on Tuesday, the market continued to evidence concern.

Early prices of active issues included Sperry Rand, off 1/4 to 31 3/4; Occidental Petroleum, down 3/4 to 23; Citicorp, unchanged at 23 1/2; and Westinghouse, down 1/4 to 17 1/2.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial index fell 11.44 points, closing at 806.91.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by more than three to one among all issues listed on the NYSE.

Called Halt To Wildcat Strike

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A wildcat strike which had virtually halted Greyhound bus operations in the southeastern United States was called off Tuesday.

Greyhound district manager Fred Mock announced the end of the walkout after conferring with William P. Creech, president of local 1493 of the Amalgamated Transit Workers Union (ATU-CIO).

Mock said the walkout, which began at midnight Monday when the contract expired, had pretty well halted Greyhound operations in the area from Richmond, Va. to Florida and west into Ohio.

Local Man Died In Fall

KINSTON — A 54-year-old employee of a Greenville roofing firm died Tuesday morning of injuries suffered in a fall at a work site at Caswell Center here.

Cellie Mack Short of Rt. 4, Greenville, an employee of Howard Williams Inc., roofing contractors, was dead on arrival at Lenoir Memorial Hospital following the 8:30 a.m. accident.

Dr. Carl Kunstling, emergency room physician on duty yesterday morning, reported that Short died of severe head injuries suffered when he fell two stories from a conveyor device used to lift roofing materials.

The Greenville firm, which was doing subcontracting work at Tapp Dormitory at Caswell, was in the process of completing a roofing job at the center when the accident occurred.

Short, who was involved in the roof work on the building, apparently rode the conveyor from the ground up to the roof and instead of hitting the stop switch when he reached the roof, hit the reverse button and was thrown off the device.

He had been associated with the Greenville firm for six years.

Howard Williams Inc., it was reported, was scheduled to complete its portion of the Caswell roofing work yesterday after a 12-week work period.

$4,600 For Community

The recently concluded ten-day Haunted House Halloween project sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees has netted that organization approximately $4,600 in benefit funds, according to Don Fleming, chairman of the event.

"A few more than 4,000 people visited the Haunted House," Fleming revealed. "On behalf of the Jaycees I want to say how appreciative we are of the generous response and support given this project by the public."

Fleming notes that all the proceeds will be used in carrying out various charitable projects within the Greenville community — "for such things as Christmas baskets, a Christmas party at the Flynn home, and a number of other projects to help those in need."

Senate To Study 'Condemnation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will consider a resolution condemning the South African government's racial policies.

The resolution, backed by the Carter administration, is expected to win quick approval. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the language Tuesday, citing South Africa's crackdown against domestic critics.

The House passed a similar resolution Monday on a 347-54 vote.

The Senate language reads, "Congress strongly denounces ... acts committed by the government of the Republic of South Africa which suppress the expression of political thought and violate the rights of the individual."

Indict Man For Wife-Slaying

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Spencer Terry Goode has been indicted on first degree murder charges by the Guilford grand jury in connection with the slaying of his wife.

Goode was indicted Monday for the death of his wife, Jane Goode, 29, a teacher at Florence School. She was found stabbed to death in her home on Muire Chapel Road in September.

According to police, Goode entered the police department covered with blood the morning of his wife's death. Goode was admitted to Forsyth Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Moses Cone Hospital. He was charged with his wife's slaying when he was released.

Defer Decision To Buy Museum

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The USS North Carolina Battleship Commission has put off a decision to purchase a money-losing private museum at Carolina Beach at the suggestion of Gov. Jim Hunt's administration.

The commission has appointed a special committee to study the proposal to purchase the Blockade Runner Museum with USS North Carolina money. At issue is a plan approved by the General Assembly this year to have the state loan the commission $200,000 to acquire the museum from its owner, Hickory businessman H. Jack Faw.

Released Unhurt

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch multimillionaire Maurits Caransa, freed unharmedly by kidnapers early today, said he negotiated his own $4.16 million ransom.

The 61-year-old real estate tycoon told a news conference the four abductors who grabbed him last Friday were "out only for money" and first demanded 40 million guilders ($16.64 million) for his release.

"We bargained and came to the sum of 10 million guilders," he said. He said he wrote his board of directors Sunday afternoon and instructed them to get the money from the bank and arrange "a drop in the street."

Caransa, who controls hotels, real estate and other enterprises valued at more than $40 million, was put out of a car in downtown Amsterdam at 1:30 a.m. local time after a 45-60 minute ride from the "dark den" where he said he was held five days.

The tycoon told a passing woman who he was, and she put him in a taxi and sent it to police headquarters. He was reunited there with his wife, daughter and several friends. After a physical examination, an ambulance took him to his home in Vinkeveen, south of The Hague.

Appearing dapper and relaxed, Caransa later told reporters at a yacht club there that the abductors "were not political gangsters, just criminals" who said they belonged to the "biggest and best" extortion ring anywhere. He said they spoke French and English.

Caransa said the kidnapers never threatened his life.

Pride On The Line Friday

At this point in the season, football coaches usually tell their players that they are playing for pride. The conference race is all but settled and the league's representative in the state playoffs is set. The only thing that is on the line is the pride in taking that final game and going out a winner.

North Pitt coach Pat Smith is hoping his Panthers will exhibit the same kind of pride they showed last year at this time. The Panthers went into the final game of the 1976 season without a win, but came out with a victory over D. H. Conley.

This season, the Panthers have already won two games, but would still like to see a victory over the Vikings in their final game of the season.

D. H. Conley, on the other hand, is a team that has seen its ups and downs this season and, with two straight losses would certainly love to end up with a victory.

good ballgame on offense, while defensive tackle Tim Corey and end James Joyner looked good on the other side of the line.

D. H. Conley
Coach Chuck Dunn said, "North Pitt is going to be ready to play. They played Farmville Central an awful good ballgame (Monday) night. They are quick and well-disciplined. They made very few mistakes."

Dunn said he is sure the Panthers will be ready to play when they get to Conley Friday night.

The Viking coach said last week's game with Ayden-Grifton was hard-fought, but Conley had some trouble blocking the Charger stunts. "Their quickness just got the best of us," he said.

Dunn said Nuggie Worthington ran well on offense and Tim McClanahan also did a good job. Defensively, Mike Phillips and Ben Daniels were the most outstanding.

poorly offensively and defensively, to be honest. Of course, it's better to win a game like that than to lose it."

Highlights of the game for the Chargers were a good throw by

Farmville Central
By virtue of their win over North Pitt, the Jaguars are assured of a state playoff berth, even if they should lose to North Lenoir Friday night.

"We're happy to be there," coach Gene Brewer said. "It's a little bit of a surprise," he added, due to the losses from last season's team. "But, we've had some people come in and really do a job for us."

Brewer was not well-pleased with his team's play Monday night. "I didn't think we played well at all. I thought North Pitt played real well; they seemed to get most of the breaks in the ballgame."

Despite the poor overall performance, Brewer has some good things to say about Rufus Mayo and Woody Edwards on defense and Walter Blow on offense.

Of the Hawks, the Farmville coach said, "They're big, strong and tough, as always." They also have some good running backs and a good defense, Brewer said.

Having played on Monday may also have an effect on the Jaguars, who will have fewer practice days before the game. In addition, any rain during the week will "cut down on what we will get done right much."

But the Jags have been tough all year and Brewer hopes they will be able to overcome Monday night's performance and the lack of practice to defeat North Lenoir and wrap up a second consecutive ECC championship season.

Jazz, Hawks Fight In Central Division

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The first-place New Orleans Jazz?

The second-place Atlanta Hawks?

There was supposed to be a dogfight for the lead in the National Basketball Association's Central Division, but the combatants were expected to be Houston, Washington and Cleveland — certainly not New Orleans and Atlanta.

The Jazz raised its record to 5-1 and retained its one-half game lead over the 4-1 Hawks with a 99-88 victory over Chicago Tuesday night, its first victory ever over the Bulls in New Orleans.

"The Jazz is a better team this year, with better people," said Chicago Coach Ed Badger.

"Robinson and Goodrich make a big difference."

Forward Truck Robinson scored 28 points and grabbed 10 rebounds for the Jazz, which posted its fifth straight victory. Pete Maravich added 27 points and Gail Goodrich, the reserve guard who joined New Orleans a year ago, had 10.

Atlanta stayed close by beating the Seattle SuperSonics 102-99.

In other NBA games, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Kansas City Kings 115-95, the Golden State Warriors stopped the San Antonio Spurs 108-97, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Denver Nuggets 110-93 and the Portland Trail Blazers topped the New York Knicks 113-104.

Knight Panther Utility Player

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Most baseball teams have a utility player, the man with all-around ability who can be depended on to fill in anywhere on the field.

North Pitt's football team has just such a fellow — William Knight — and he is a valuable asset to the Panther grid program, according to coach Pat Smith.

Knight, a junior, is used both offensively and defensively. His main positions are flanker and strong safety. However, he has also been used as a running back and a quarterback.

His statistics cover a wide variety of areas. He has 16 pass receptions for 275 yards and two touchdowns, 50 rushes for 195 yards, six punt returns for 170 yards and one touchdown, three of nine pass completions, five interceptions, 45 tackles and eight assists.

Asked if it was hard to rotate among so many positions,

Knight said, "No, it's not tough, but it's tiresome doing all that running. I'm not off the field much, so I don't get to rest much. That's the only problem I have."

Knight said he would rather play defense than offense, but likes being a running back when he does play offense because he gets to handle the football more often.

This year's Panther football team is the best Knight has played on at North Pitt, he said, and despite the fact that it has only won two games, "we haven't given up in any game."

Knight said the Panthers are looking for a victory over D. H. Conley Friday night, the final game of the season.

Next year, if the Panthers can come up with a little more size, they could be a pretty good team, Knight said. Size has been a big problem this year.

"William has hopes of playing college football," Smith said. "A couple of college coaches are looking at him as a junior."

At 165 pounds, "he needs to gain about 10-15 pounds," Smith said, but with a 4.8 40, "speed is his biggest asset."

Knight said he is not really concerned with which college he attends, as long as he can get a good education. After that, he would like to get into physical education and "maybe coach, if I could."

Hawks 102, Sonics 99
Forwards Ron Behagen and John Drew hit two baskets apiece in the closing minutes of the Hawks' triumph. Behagen put Atlanta in front 94-93 with a short jumper with 2:13 to play, then Drew clinched the victory by connecting on a 17-footer, then stealing the ball and making a dunk following a court-length drive.

Cavaliers 110, Nuggets 93
Cleveland hit 54 per cent of its shots in the first half in opening a 70-54 lead and stayed comfortably in front. Jim Chones led Cleveland with 21 points and Walt Frazier had 15.

Bucks 115, Kings 95
The young Bucks moved into the lead in the Midwest Division with a 4-2 mark behind 23 points from Junior Bridgeman, 15 points from rookie center Kent Benson and 15 assists from Quinn Buckner.

Warriors 108, Spurs 97
Rick Barry and Robert Parish combined for 28 points in the fourth quarter as Golden State pulled away to its third victory in a row. Barry led all scorers with 28 points.

Blazers 113, Knicks 104
Bill Walton clinched Portland's 22nd consecutive home-court victory — including last season's playoffs — by hitting a short bank shot and a pair of free throws in the final minute.

North Pitt
"Our guys really want to play them," Smith said of the D. H. Conley game. "I saw them (Conley) play Ayden-Grifton and, from what I saw, it (Conley-North Pitt) should be a good ballgame."

Smith said the Vikings have an outstanding defense, but "they are having problems offensively, just like we are."

The Panther coach is looking for a good and emotional ballgame. "They always want to play us, too. It's kind of a big rivalry, really."

The Panthers played about as well as they could in their loss to Farmville Central, Smith said. "I don't think Farmville Central played real emotional; they probably weren't up for us much," he said.

North Pitt had some good breaks in the ballgame and had a first-and-goal at the Jaguar two in the fourth quarter, but missed on the opportunity due to a penalty.

Smith said running backs William Knight, Terry Moore and Calvin Carmack all had a

O. J. Out For Year; Teammates Hint Trade

BUFFALO (AP) — A depressed O.J. Simpson said four weeks ago that "it will take a miracle" for him to achieve his greatest goal — to play in a Super Bowl.

His Buffalo Bills teammates think that miracle may have come in the form of an injured knee.

After the Bills' humiliating 56-17 loss to the Seattle Seahawks Sunday, Simpson's left knee, ailing for three weeks, was examined by two Los Angeles specialists. Tuesday the Bills announced that Simpson will undergo surgery for cartilage damage early next week and will miss the remainder of the season.

Some of his teammates feel he has played his last game as a Bill, but may turn up in the uniform of a National Football League contender next season.

"Luckily the injury wasn't a serious thing. It won't end his career," said Joe DeLamielleure, an All-Pro lineman and a team leader.

DeLamielleure noted that it's no secret Simpson would welcome a trade to a contender and that Simpson might be more excited about coming back next season if he were traded.

"I see no reason why they should keep him. It's going to be a rebuilding process here that's going to take a few years. He deserves a chance to play in a Super Bowl. We'd all like to see it," he said.

Reggie McKenzie, offensive lineman and a close friend of Simpson, indicated on his morning radio show that Simpson would not return as a Bill.

Wide receiver Bobby Chandler said, "There is a feeling that he might not be back, but nothing was said as such. But the definite feeling is there."

Last season Simpson asked for a trade to the West Coast, preferably the Los Angeles Rams, but the Bills' asking price was reportedly too high. Simpson signed a three-year contract, then began simmering as the Bills finished 2-12 last year and lost six of their first seven games this season.

Before the Seattle game Simpson said he was more frustrated than at any point in his career and offered another round of criticism aimed at the Bills' management, which he said has not helped the team through trades.

He concluded, "I just want to get my years over and get out of here."

In a statement Tuesday, Simpson said he would make no decision about his future until after his recovery.

"That's a subject I can't deal with right now. I have another year on my contract with the Buffalo Bills," he said.

Buffalo Bills' O.J. Simpson (32) leaps over Miami's Vern Den Herder in the second quarter of a game in Buffalo in 1973. On Tuesday, the team announced that a knee injury will keep Simpson out the rest of the NFL season. Simpson, who is scheduled to undergo surgery early next week on the knee, said he will not make any decision about his future until after he recuperates from the surgery. (AP Laserphoto)

Pirate Club Still In Infancy As Far As Fund-Raising Goes

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Compared with other educational foundation clubs in the state, East Carolina University's Pirate Club is still in its infancy, club executive director Gus Andrews told the Greenville Sports Club yesterday.

Andrews told the group that the East Carolina goal for this year was just over a quarter of a million dollars. That compares with clubs at North Carolina, N.C. State and Clemson which will raise over $1 million during the same period of time.

"Our club is strictly for the raising of scholarship money for the athletic department. A grant currently costs $2,400 at East Carolina," Andrews said. "But if you take inflation at 10 per cent into account, in four years, it will cost $3,200. So you can see that it is a monumental task just to maintain the level we are now at."

Andrews pointed out that money to run the athletic program comes from three main sources. "Part of it comes from a percentage from student fees. More comes from gate receipts, and these only come in from football and basketball. That leaves only the scholarship organization."

He pointed to the expansion of Ficklen Stadium as the biggest thing that has happened to East Carolina football in some time. "I've been connected with two other stadium projects, and just like here, people keep saying, 'You can't fill the one you have, why expand?' But in every instance, expansion has resulted in over 9,000 more fans per game on the average."

Andrews called the East Carolina program right now one operating with the necessities but not the luxuries. "So you can see that our coaches do an outstanding job in being able to compete with the other schools in the state."

While the Pirate Club currently is raising only slight over a quarter of a million, Andrews said the Wolfpack Club of N.C. State took a long time to grow.

"In 1962, the Wolfpack Club was raising $240,000. It took them 21 years to work up to $700,000. They were making that when David Thompson came in and Lou Holtz took over. They moved to $1.1 million in just two years."

Andrews said that the Pirate Club must increase its donations through numbers. "We have 1,400 members now, and we hope to double that by next year."

During a question and answer session, Andrews was asked about the parking situation when the new expansion phase was completed at Ficklen.

"It will be more difficult," he noted. "You figure three people in each car, so with 18,000 more people, you'll have 6,000 more cars. Probably eventually, we'll have to buy some land out somewhere and use shuttle buses.

"But that's another good reason to join the Pirate Club, 'cause we'll still have the lots up close."

The speaker for the next meeting will be Clyde King, scout for the New York Yankees.

Phillies' Carlton Is Cy Young Winner

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Carlton, the left-hander who parlayed power and finesse into 23 victories for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1977, was named winner of the Cy Young Award today as the National League's outstanding pitcher.

It was the second time Carlton has won the honor, awarded annually to the outstanding pitcher in each league after a vote of a committee of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each league city. He also won it in 1972.

Carlton, the major leagues' winningest pitcher who compiled a 23-10 record in leading the Phillies to the East Division title, was an easy winner in the Cy Young balloting, receiving 17 of 24 first-place votes and 104 points.

Tommy John of the West Division champion Los Angeles Dodgers was second with 54 points, including three first-place votes. Tom Seaver of Cincinnati and Rick Reuschel of Chicago tied for third with 18 points each, Seaver getting two first-place votes and Reuschel one.

Others receiving votes were Pittsburgh's John Candelaria, 17 points and one first-place mention, and Chicago's Bruce Sutter, a relief pitcher, five points.

Five points are awarded for a first-place vote, three for a second and one for a third.

The American League Cy Young Award winner, announced last week, was relief pitcher Sparky Lyle of the world champion New York Yankees.

The 32-year-old Carlton is the sixth pitcher in baseball history to win the Cy Young Award more than once. Seaver, Sandy Koufax and Jim Palmer, each have won it three times, Bob Gibson won it twice and Denny McLain won it once and shared it once. The award was instituted in 1956, and in 1967 the baseball writers began making separate awards for each league.

Carlton is currently on a three-week hunting expedition in British Columbia, Canada, a spokesman for the Phillies said.

Phillie Manager Danny Ozark, from his home in Vero Beach, Fla., said he felt Carlton would get the award "from September on. He was pitching that well. He won some big games for me."

After winning 27 games in 1972, Carlton tailed off to three mediocre seasons — 13-20, 16-13, 15-14 — in Ozark's first three years as manager of the Phils.

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1949 and 1950 when Charlie McClendon played for the University of Kentucky the coach was a fellow named Paul William Bryant, also known as "Bear."

"He was," McClendon remembers, "the meanest son of a gun I ever saw," adding: "It was a gift from heaven for a boy from Louisville, Ark., to have an opportunity to go to Kentucky. It was certainly the greatest experience for me."

"Coach Bryant was a disciplinarian. He knew how to win and he taught me how to win."

Come Saturday, McClendon and Bryant will be on opposite sides of the field in Baton Rouge, La. — Bryant and second-ranked Alabama on one side, McClendon and No. 18 Louisiana State on the other.

For the selection in this game, lend an ear to Bear Bryant, who twitted this corner for fruitlessly picking Mississippi State to beat his Crimson Tide last week.

"I think Alabama's gonna win," he says. Okay, Bear, so do we ... Alabama 24-14.

Last week's score was 52 right, 19 wrong and two ties, a 732 percentage, including Indiana over Minnesota in one of the Upset Specials. For the season we're 350-141-12 — .713.

Texas at Houston: The Longhorns are No. 1, having outscored seven opponents 264-44, but running back Earl Campbell warns that they "aren't playing as well as we're capable. Something little always seems to slow us down. Maybe we're saving it for somebody down the line." Like Houston, maybe ... Texas 21-10.

Oklahoma at Oklahoma State: Guess which team wants revenge for last year ... Oklahoma 38-21.

Georgia Tech at Notre Dame: Guess which team wants revenge for last year ... Notre Dame 35-7.

Ohio State at Illinois: No revenge motive here. Illinois hasn't beaten the Buckeyes since 1967 and the point difference in the intervening nine years has been 331-90 in favor of ... Ohio State 49-7.

Northwestern at Michigan: Would you believe this as the Upset Special? Not unless you want to be put away ... Michigan 41-0.

Kentucky at Vanderbilt: The Wildcats, on probation, aren't going anywhere after the season, except possibly higher in the rankings ... Kentucky 29-7.

Baylor at Arkansas: Most of the Southwest Conference headlines have gone to Texas, Arkansas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Houston and they've overlooked a pretty good club on the banks of the Brazos in Waco. Upset Special of the Week ... Baylor 23-16.

Penn State at North Carolina State: Back to revenge. The Wolfpack beat the Nittany Lions — how's that for an animal act? — in 1974 and 1975 but Penn State got hunk last year 41-20. And this year ... Penn State 34-14.

Nebraska at Missouri: Ol' Mizzo got back in the upset business last week, shocking Colorado. But the Cornhuskers also seem to be on the right track ... Nebraska 21-17.

Pitt at West Virginia: When these backyard rivals get together y rtyz!scout things like West Virginia losing its last three games ... Pitt 28-17.

Clemson at North Carolina: Clemson has been one of the nation's surprise teams but the bubble is due to burst. If not this week, then next against Notre Dame ... North Carolina 17-7.

Stanford at Southern California: The Trojans uncharacteristically have lost three of their last four games, beating up only on hapless Oregon. It's time for the real USC to stand up ... Southern Cal 31-21.

Washington at California: Will Washington be looking ahead to Southern Cal or will California be looking back to Southern Cal? The former ... California 34-24.

Wyoming at Arizona State: Wyoming dethroned ASU last year and the Sun Devils don't take kindly to things like that ... Arizona State 29-12.

Colorado at Iowa State: The Golden Buffs, ranked third in the nation just three weeks ago, appear somewhat tarnished after a tie with Kansas and losses to Nebraska and Missouri ... Iowa State 24-21.

Memphis State at Tennessee: Do you know how close Memphis is to being unbeaten? A four-point loss to Ole Miss and one-pointers to Louisville and North Texas State, that's how close ... Tennessee 20-13.

Stadium Bids Opened Today

Bids for the expansion of Ficklen Stadium will be opened this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Nursing Building at East Carolina University.

A total of $2.6 has been set for the project, which will expand the stadium from its present capacity of around 20,000 to over 35,000.

A new press box, chancellor's box and an elevator serving both are included in the package, the third phase of construction in the stadium complex.

Ficklen was built and first put into use during the 1963 season. At that time, only the current press box and the south stands were completed, with bleacher seats on the north side.

Construction of the north side was completed in 1968, and the new lighting system was installed in 1975.

The new expansion will consist of wings on each side of the two existing sections, extending at the base to the back of the end zone. They will nearly double the stadium's capacity.

Baseball Free Agent Draft Set For Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm anxious to see what my market value will be," said New York Yankees pitcher Mike Torrez, looking ahead to Friday's re-entry draft of baseball's free agents. "I can't sell myself short."

The 32-year-old right-hander, who won 17 games for the Yankees during the regular season and two in the World Series, reportedly is seeking a five-year contract for between $1.75 million and $2 million.

He could have pulled out of the draft as late as Monday night by signing with the Yankees, with whom he and his agent, Gary Walker, have been holding steady negotiations. The Yankees reportedly have offered between $1.25 million and $1.5 million, and say they will continue to try and sign Torrez.

"We never stopped negotiating and we still won't," says club President Gabe Paul. "You've got to run the ball out."

That's not the situation in Chicago, where White Sox owner

Bill Veek says he is not going to try and sign outfielders Oscar Gamble and Richie Zisk, both of whom will go through the draft Friday.

"It would cost $1 million a year to sign them for anywhere from three to five years," said Veek. "That's what their two paychecks would have added up to in 1978."

And Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, says he will make no effort to sign nine of the 11 players from his organization who will become free agents, the exceptions being outfield stars Larry Hise and Lyman Bostock.

The 65-year-old Griffith is a strong opponent of the free agent system. "It's going to be the ruination of baseball," he predicted. "One of these days the owners are going to get hit with a sledgehammer and see what damn fools they are."

There are several wrinkles in this year's draft with new categories added to the option play-outs who formed the talent pool a year ago, when Reggie Jackson of the Yankees was the most expensive selection at $2.9 million. Among the new categories is a list of players with major league contracts for 1976 who were outrighted to minor league teams.

Clubs losing players in the six-year veteran category will be compensated with free agent selections from next June.

The Toronto Blue Jays will open Friday's draft, followed by Atlanta, Oakland, the New York Mets, Seattle, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit, the Chicago Cubs and California.

Then Houston, Minnesota, St. Louis, the White Sox, Cincinnati, Texas, Pittsburgh, Boston, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Philadelphia, the Yankees and Kansas City.

But the order really means little, since a player may be drafted by as many as 13 teams, then is free to negotiate with any of them, as well as the club which he played for in 1977.

Dooley: Clemson Tilt Couldn't Be Bigger

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Carolina can clinch at least a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference crown Saturday if the Tar Heels whip Clemson, but Coach Bill Dooley says that's easier said than done.

"It should be a tremendous game," Dooley said Tuesday. "The incentive is there. For them it's the top ten and winning the championship and for us it's a step up the ladder toward the ACC title. It couldn't be a bigger game."

Clemson, now 7-1 on the season and 4-1 in conference play, is ranked 13th in the nation. The Tar Heels, 6-2 and 3-0, are 19th. With Maryland already up to two conference losses, the Tigers are the last major obstacle the Heels must contend with.

"They gave up 21 points in their first game (to Maryland), but in their last four they've only given up 14," Dooley said. "They're similar to us in a lot of respects. They don't give up points. They get the interceptions and force the turnovers."

Dooley noted that since the Tigers switched from the Veeer to the "I" under Coach Charley Pell, UNC will be facing a completely unfamiliar offense, and a powerful one at that.

"Their quarterback, Steve Fuller, leads the ACC in total offense, and he has the ability to get on the corner, pull the ball down and run with it," Dooley said. "He can break containment and get outside it."

Another threat will be place-kicker Obed Ariri, the converted soccer player who booted a 56-yard field goal last week to tie the ACC record.

"That means that whenever Clemson gets to midfield, it has the potential to put points on the board," Dooley said.

"This one," the coach observed, "could be for all the marbles."

Bucs Still Have Chance

Despite Saturday's 9-7 loss to Southwestern Louisiana, East Carolina's Pirates are in good spirits this week and still believe they have a chance for a bowl game if they show well in their last two games.

"I certainly think we are capable of playing in a bowl game," said Coach Pat Dye. "I don't know how good our bowl chances are, but I like to think we still have a slim chance of going to some bowl. But to have any chance at all we have to play well in our last two games."

The Pirates play Appalachian this week and finish the season against William & Mary.

"Appalachian has a good football team," Dye said. "Two years ago up there they beat us 41-25 and we didn't stop them all night. They've still got most of those same players, too."

Dye said he was worried after the loss that there might be a slump in morale this week, but he said he was pleasantly surprised when the Pirates came back for one of their best workouts of the season.

"It was super, just super," said Dye. "It was our best practice in at least a couple of months. We had good concentration, looked quicker and were mentally sharper than we have been in some time."

Physiologist Is Invited

ECU News Bureau
 Dr. Edward M. Lieberman, associate professor of physiology at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, has been invited to present a paper to the annual meeting of the Society for Neuroscience to be held Nov. 6-10 in Anaheim, Calif.

The title of his paper is the "Effect of Extracellular Potassium on the Steady-State Electrogenic Sodium-Potassium Transport System of the Crayfish Giant Axon."
 Dr. Lieberman's most recent research is a continuation and an extension of research published in the journal, Pflüger Archiv (Vol. 366, 1976) and entitled "The Influence of Cardioactive Steroids, Metabolic Inhibitors, Temperature and Sodium on Membrane Conductance and Potential of Crayfish Giant Axons" and "The Influence of Chloride on the Ouabain-Sensitive Membrane Potential and Conductance of Crayfish Giant Axons."

Retired, But Kept The Habit

BALTIMORE (AP) — They say you can't keep an old firehorse in the barn when the sire goes off. The legend apparently holds true for oldtime crime-stopper Cornelius Behan, now Baltimore County police chief.

It seems that Behan caught quite a few pickpockets in his early days on the New York City police force. In time, the dippers he nabbed would recognize him even as they were pilfering wallets and purses.
 "You're Behan, aren't you?" the red-handed thieves would say.
 "Yes, I am," Behan always replied. "You're under arrest."
 Recently, Behan said, he was in Ocean City attending a Maryland police chiefs' convention and stopped by the hotel newstand to pick up a paper.
 "You're Chief Behan, aren't you?" the clerk asked.
 "Yes, I am," an off-guard Behan answered reflexively, "and you're under arrest."

Farmville Bd....

 mersburg and E. Wilson Streets here as part of an Eagle Scout project. Winstead has checked with the owner of the land, the State Department of Transportation and others about the proposed brick welcoming marker, it was noted.

Financial bond on the town clerk was upped to $50,000 as was suggested by the auditor of the town's books this year. It was reported that 49 dogs and 10 cats have been picked up in Farmville by the County animal control officer during the past quarter year. Discussion of attempting to catch squirrels in humane traps and release them in the country was made, but no definite plans were made.

Town Clerk Margie Tripp reported that assessment collections have netted considerable money owed the town since notices were sent out recently, but that some will have to be turned over to the attorney for collection yet.

A resolution was passed authorizing a recreation grant application for tennis courts and ballfield development. The stipulation was made that no money will be spent on this proposed project without another resolution by the board.

A resolution for a Crime Prevention grant application was made. Police Chief Ron Cooper said that the application would ask for one more year of 90 per cent federal funding, but that then the town would be on its own to continue its crime prevention program.

A once-condemned house at 710 S. Main Street was noted as being in compliance with the town's housing code. Commissioner Durwood Little said he thinks the owner, William Hines of Pensacola, Fla. who bought the property after it was condemned should be commended for his efforts at bringing the house up to standard and "providing another fine dwelling place in Farmville."

An ordinance was passed ordering the repair or demolition of a house at 413 W. Perry Street reportedly owned by Mrs. Frances Barnes Carr.

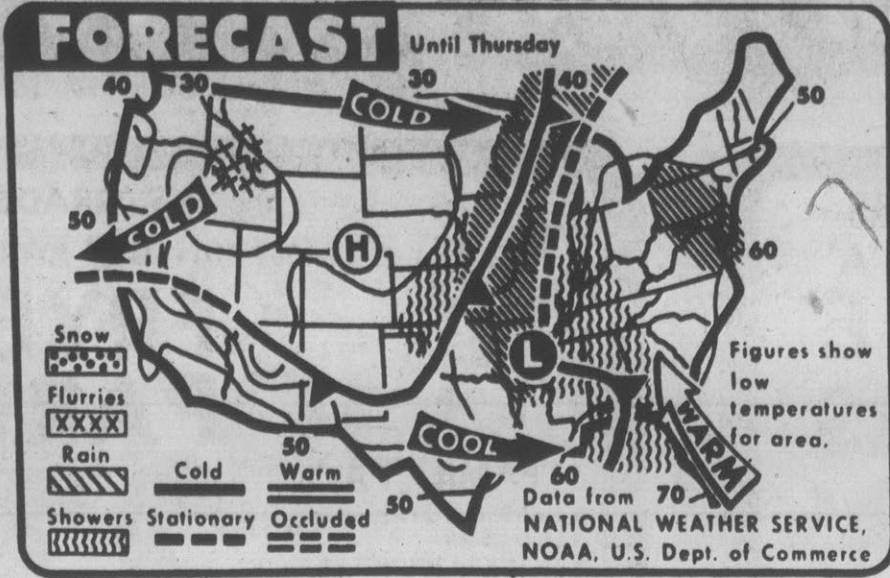

Constitutional Amendment 4 calling for municipalities to share in the ownership of power cooperatives (an Electricities issue for several years now) was endorsed by the Board.

A public hearing was called for for consideration of amending a zoning ordinance to allow for light industrial usage of a site on Highway 264 West by the Wilkvard Company.

Official board appointments were made by Mayor Will E. Joyner. They are Mrs. Nan Gray Monk to the Library Board; Billy Carraway to the Recreation Board; and Mrs. Ann McGaughey to the Planning Board.

A standing ovation was given to Mayor Joyner after a short farewell address from Joyner, who has served as Mayor since December, 1969. The new mayor will be sworn in before the next regular meeting of the Board. Joyner said he will no longer be serving the town in an official capacity, but will "be here to help anyone in any way I can."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain and showers are forecast today from the Gulf to the Midwest and eastern Plains and into the Great Lakes. Rain is also due from Chesapeake Bay to western Ontario. Most areas are expected to be cool but warm weather is anticipated in the East. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

North Carolina can look for unsettled weather during the next two or three days, according to the National Weather Service, with ample moisture flowing in from the east and northeast.

More moisture is on its way in the company of a cold front moving slowly from the west.

These conditions set the stage for scattered showers and thundershowers near the coast and occasional rain and light drizzle elsewhere through Thursday. High temperatures today were expected to range from the 50s into the middle 60s inland and to the low and mid 70s near the coast. The temperature range should be about the same Thursday.

APPLICATION FOR 401 CERTIFICATION

TAKE NOTICE that the Pitt County Drainage District Number Nine, Greenville, North Carolina has made application to the North Carolina Division of Environmental Management for certification that the discharge (placement) of excavated material into wetland areas of the Choc Creek Watershed will not violate applicable water quality standards.

The applicant proposes to maintain and improve the drainage characteristics of the Choc Creek Watershed south of the Town of Simpsonville, North Carolina. The project will include approximately 35 miles of new drainage canal excavation and approximately 11 miles of maintenance excavation in existing canals. Excavation is to be accomplished utilizing a dragline with the resulting spoil material being uniformly placed along canal banks. All canal banks are to be seeded with permanent vegetation immediately upon completion of construction activities. The purpose of this work is to provide agricultural drainage and flood protection for approximately 12,238 acres of crop, pasture, and woodland areas.

Additional information concerning this project may be reviewed at the Offices of the Water Quality Section, Division of Environmental Management, 1728 Salisbury Street, Asheville Building, Raleigh, North Carolina. Union Seeks Unseating J.P. Stevens Board

NEW YORK (AP) — In the latest round of a labor trouble, a textile union has asked a federal court here to remove the directors of J. P. Stevens & Co. The Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union said the directors made "mis-statements and omissions" to stockholders in informing them about union activity.

The union cited a message by board Chairman James Finley to employees in which Finley claimed that, "the union and Big Labor are openly trying to destroy our company and with it the jobs of 45,000 people." The civil lawsuit, filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court, asked that Stevens be enjoined from "further using corporate funds for the purpose of willful and conscious violation of the federal labor laws."

According to the union, proxy material and other documents "denied shareholders the opportunity to make a full and fair assessment of the quality and integrity of management."

The court was asked to remove the directors pending "a valid election."

The union, which owns company stock, named as defendants the textile firm, based here with plants across the nation, and its officers and directors.

Listed as individual defendants in addition to Finley, of Red Bank, N.J., were president Whitney Stevens of Manhattan; controller Ward Burns of Greenwich, Conn.; treasurer Wyndham L. Gary of Manhattan and vice presidents S. Peter Kamins, Paul W. Nipper Jr. and John Wilson, addresses not given.

Also, vice president Thomas B. Price of New Vernon, N.J., and directors R. Manning Brown Jr. of Princeton, N.J.; E. Virgil Conway of Bronxville, N.Y.; Alester G. Furman III of Greenville, S.C.; David W. Mitchell of New Canaan, Conn., and Sidney J. Weinberg Jr. of Rye, N.Y.

How Tar Heel Senators, Representatives Voted

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes October 20-26.

HOUSE

SOCIAL SECURITY — Rejected, 196 for and 221 against, an amendment to prevent "standby authority" under which general Treasury money could be used to pay Social Security benefits. Defeat of the amendment left intact proposed authority for the Social Security fund to borrow from the Treasury if its reserves fall perilously low. The amendment was proposed to HR 9346, a bill increasing Social Security taxes on employees and employers and making several other changes in the pension program. It was headed for final passage and consideration by the Senate.

Rep. Jake Pickle (D-Tex.), sponsor of the amendment, said: "I feel the worst thing that the House could do to erode public confidence is to pump funds from the general Treasury into the system."

Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.), an opponent, said Americans will be heartened that Congress is "saying we will back up that Social Security trust fund to the full extent of the American Treasury. . . This is the signal they are looking for."

Members voting "nay" favored putting the U. S. Treasury behind the Social Security fund.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Charles Whitley (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Lamar Gudger (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Charles Rose (D-7) voted "nay."

SOCIAL SECURITY — Adopted, 386 for and 38 against, an amendment to prevent compulsory Social Security coverage for federal, state, and local government employees and employees of non-profit organizations. The amendment, attached to the bill making changes in the Social Security system (see above vote), set a two-year study of how to bring about universal Social Security coverage.

It eliminated a proposal that universal coverage begin in 1982.

in order to bolster the Social Security trust fund. Government and non-profit workers covered by pension plans other than Social Security were to have their equity safeguarded in the integration procedure.

Rep. Joseph Fisher (D-Va), sponsor of the amendment, said: "Security in old age is one of the most important issues in anyone's life. I do not believe that Congress should make changes. . . without careful examination of the consequences." Rep. Sam Gibbons (D-Fla.), an opponent, said that the amendment would deny billions of dollars in revenue, money that would have to be raised by other means. "The Congress has never levied a tax like that. . . even during the war."

Members voting "nay" favored universal Social Security coverage beginning in 1982.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Gudger voted "yea."

Martin voted "nay."

BUSING — Adopted, 230 for and 186 against, a resolution instructing House conferees to insist on anti-busing language when they meet with Senate conferees on the Legal Services Corporation Act (HR 6666). Both chambers have passed the bill extending the life of the agency, but disagree over whether Legal Services attorneys can participate in school desegregation cases. The Senate says participation should be allowed and the House is opposed to it. This vote reaffirmed the House's opposition.

Rep. Samuel Devine (R-Ohio), a supporter, said the Congress "should not go forth in the area (busing to achieve integration) that seems to be contrary to the wishes of the overwhelming majority of the American people."

Rep. Robert Kastenmeier (D-Wisc.), an opponent, said the resolution was unnecessary from a parliamentary standpoint because the House position was already clear. "This is a waste of time, except for the rhetoric that may be devoted to the question," he said.

Members voting "yea" favored reaffirming the House position.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "yea."

Preyer and Rose voted "nay."

SENATE
OPIC — Passed, 68 for and 12 against, a bill (S 1771) extending the life of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC) unit Sept. 30, 1981. OPIC insures certain foreign investments by U.S. companies, guarantees loans by U.S. banks to developing countries, and provides direct loans to developing countries. Although a wholly-owned U.S. government corporation, it requires no appropriations out of the Treasury because it turns a profit. S 1771 was sent to the House.

Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), a supporter, said OPIC has proved its worth by "encouraging the kind of productivity and productive business which is good for the American economy and the economies of the developing countries."

Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.), an opponent, criticized OPIC on grounds that it harms the U. S. economy "granting special incentives" to U.S. companies to shift operations abroad, and also because the development OPIC fosters does little to make poor countries self-sufficient and less dependent on imports.

Senators voting "yea" favored continuation of OPIC.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

PANAMA VOTE — Tabled, 69 for and 13 against, and amendment indirectly related to the Panama Canal treaties issue. The amendment was proposed to S 1771, the bill extending the life of the Overseas Private Investment Corp. (OPIC) until September, 1981 (see above vote). It was directed at an understanding between U.S. and Panamanian negotiators that OPIC would loan 420 million as part of about 4300 million which Panama would receive through international lending agencies; although treaty negotiators agreed on that financing, it is not written into the treaties the Senate eventually will debate.

Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.), a supporter of tabling, said the amendment "dangerously and wrongly. . . impinges upon the treaty-making power of the U.S. and enters through the side door into an area that should be handled very scrupulously. . ."

Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.), an opponent of tabling and sponsor of the amendment, said "this is the first opportunity that we have had to have some sort of congressional say in the side financial agreements of our negotiators on the Panama Canal."

Senators voting "yea" favored killing the amendment.

Morgan voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."

ABSENTEEISM — Directed, 77 for and four against, the Sergeant at Arms "to request the attendance of absent senators." Due to conflicting business elsewhere on Capitol Hill, only 11 senators were able to answer a quorum call. That prompted Majority Leader Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.) to call this vote, the effect of which was to populate the chamber and expedite action on an energy bill.

There was no debate. Morgan and Helms voted "yea."

Nun Enters Politics As Opportunity

By JO-ANNE BYRNE
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) —

What's a nice girl like Jackie Slater doing in politics? For one thing she's learning it from the precinct up to the state level while experimenting with a different life style than that usually enjoyed by a Roman Catholic nun.

Ms. Slater, 43, defeated incumbent alderman Earl Netwal in the 6th Ward primary race for the Minneapolis City Council and is confident of victory in the November election.

"I'm not making plans with the idea of not winning," she said in an interview after the primary.

Ms. Slater said Democrat Farm Labor Party leaders asked her last December to run for alderman. At first she refused but finally agreed and her decision was backed by her religious order.

"I didn't feel that the 6th Ward was being represented," she said. "The ward is filled with the poor, the elderly, the handicapped and nursing homes, and housing is the worst of any place in the city. There are also more renters in this ward."

Before the primary, Netwal was acquitted of a perjury charge in connection with a liquor licensing scandal and Ms. Slater made a point not to use his trial as a campaign issue. She defeated Netwal by 267 votes and faces Kym Workuff, an independent Republican, Nov. 8.

Apparently the only thing her opponents could use against her, she said, was her membership in the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, a teaching and nursing order which branched out and revised its rule of life in recent years. She knows of at least one other nun in the order who has entered politics, Sister Claire Dunn of the Arizona House of Representatives.

Ms. Slater said she noted in the campaign that being a nun didn't seem to make much difference to non-Catholics, but it did to traditional Catholics.

Among those who opposed her candidacy, she said, were "those people who were upset with changes in the church, who wanted nuns to wear habits, who wanted a return to the Latin Mass and things they remembered from their youth."

"Sometimes I felt it was almost like a prejudice that they felt, 'this is your role, don't exceed it.'"

Ms. Slater holds a masters degree in science teaching from the University of Wisconsin at Superior. Included in her 13 years of teaching were three years with inner city youth at St. Stephens in Minneapolis, an experience which she said "helps you to be very real."

"These people are not impressed with named importance," she said, "you have to prove yourself."

Ms. Slater estimated she met a third of the 35,000 residents of the 6th Ward and spent $3,000 to $4,000 in the primary campaign. She expects to spend about $1,000 more before November and has limited individual contributions to $100.

She sees herself as a feminist, supports the Equal Rights Amendment and fully expects a woman to be governor of Minnesota or president of the United States some day.

"Someone will come along and, if the time is right, it will happen," she said. "It all depends on what the people see as your capabilities."

Generator Need Fades

NEW YORK (AP) — A $125-million generating plant may never be built because customers of General Public Utilities Corp. in New Jersey and Pennsylvania have changed their schedules for using electricity.
 The company's 1.5 million customers have shifted 300,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity away from the peak daytime hours of use, says company chairman William B. Kuhns. This amount is the capacity of a medium-sized, coal-fired generating station, Kuhns notes. While some of this reduction in peak demand for electricity is the result of conservation, energy management by its customers is the major factor, he explains.
 "Moving the use of electricity to off-peak night hours," says Kuhns, "reduces the need to build new generating plants to meet growing demand for energy during the day. This, coupled with the fact that electricity is less costly to generate in the large 'base load' plants operating at night, will lessen the need for future rate increase."

Cosmetics For Horses Thrive

HORSE COSMETICS
 NEW YORK (AP) — Cosmetics for horses is a thriving business, reports Chemical Week magazine, which estimates that money spent annually on "horse cosmetics" and other horse-care products totals about $10 million.

Today, the publication says, "chemical specialty products not only clean the horse, but shine his coat, polish his hooves, cure his dandruff and untangle his tail."

Grooming aids for horses include such products as shampoo coat shiners, hoof blackeners, hair conditioners — even eye wash.

There are now about 8.5 million horses in the United States with the figure growing 10 percent annually, the publication reports.

Weight Is Poor Guide To Fitness

By RON HUTCHERSON
ESCONDIDO, Calif. (UPI) — Weight is a poor guide to physical condition, says Tom Pipes, who prescribes exercise programs for athletes and other people who want to tone up. "Working on a height-weight scale is difficult," he said in an interview.

Pipes is head of a consulting firm, an adviser to athletes and director of preventive and sports medicine at a health and racquet club in northern San Diego County.

He said the most reliable guide is the ratio of fat to muscle.

That set of numbers is obtained by being weighed twice, once under water.

"We know the density of muscle, bone and fat," Pipes said. "We know that muscle and bone sink in water, and fat floats. We can tell with a great deal of accuracy the proportion of fat."

The dry weight, the wet weight and a mathematical formula give Pipes the percentage of body fat. Underwater weight is measured by suspending a person from a spring-board with the help of a scale-rigged plastic basket.

Men are considered in good condition if only 14 to 17 per cent of their total body weight is fat. The comparable range for women is 22 to 26 per cent.

The key is not really the quantity, but the quality of weight, Pipes said.

"We consider obesity for men, over 25 per cent fat and for women, over 35 per cent."

Appearance can be deceptive. Ron Cey, the 5-9, 185-pound Los Angeles Dodgers third baseman, is among athletes Pipes has checked.

"He looks pudgy, but he has only 5 per cent body fat," Pipes said. "He's really a very fit athlete."

Pipes found the expected low percentage of body fat on jockeys, but learned from studying Willie Shoemaker that shoemaker utilizes oxygen very well and is strong.

"They don't just sit up there on a horse. They work a lot harder than I thought."

Athletes' condition varies widely from sport to sport, and sometimes from position to position, he said.

He rated boxers highest in overall fitness, followed in order by basketball, football, hockey, soccer and baseball players.

He called Cey an exception; pitchers generally are the most fit among baseball players.

"Running backs are the most fit of professional football players," Pipes said. "Wide receivers and defensive backs are next."

Pipes, 26, is working toward a doctorate in exercise physiology at the University of Southern California. Originally he studied physical education and physiology at the University of California at Davis to try to improve as a discus thrower.

His testing of sports pros was done largely under the auspices of the National Athletic Health Institute. He has advised teams in professional baseball, basketball, football and hockey. He will be a consultant to the 1980 United States Olympic team.

"The whole idea of this field, preventive medicine, sports medicine, is screening people," Pipes said. "We can give them a fitness prescription."

He uses three standards for it: frequency, duration and intensity.

"If (as a do-it-yourself exerciser) you don't know what to do and how much to do, you have a problem," Pipes said.

He helps club members choose body-building activities such as tennis, racquetball, swimming or yoga. He then works out a prescription to strengthen the muscles, heart and lungs without overtaxing them.

"More and more people are giving up jogging because they think there is no other way," Pipes said of the need for variety in workouts. "Any exercise that you do has to be fun, or you're not going to do it."

He often puts more emphasis on converting fat to muscle than in weight loss.

"You can lose 10 pounds of fat weight and gain eight pounds of muscle weight," he said.

As the body is built up, the same workload requires a lower pulse rate, so the intensity of the exercise is stepped up. "The important thing is to maintain the pulse rate," Pipes said.

The sun does not rotate as a solid body.

Today She Has Role As Liz Warner

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

These days her life is as much corn on the cob as caviar, political scenarios instead of movie scripts, a tractor alongside the limousine.

Elizabeth Taylor says that suits her just fine.

Gone are her personal hairdresser, trunks of clothes and private jets. Now when she travels it might be by bus or commercial airliner — economy class — with an overnight bag stuffed with jeans and electric haircurlers.

Elizabeth Taylor's stage is the Virginia countryside, not Hollywood. Her role: political wife. The co-star and occasional director is husband John W. Warner.

Warner, a former secretary of the Navy and onetime head of the American Bicentennial Administration, wants to become a Republican senator from Virginia in the 1978 election. He has taken his famous bride of 10 months on a blitz of the state, logging more than 14,000 miles appearing several times a week at fairs, barbecues, rallies and fund raisers.

Almost everywhere they go, the crowd is a record turnout. Elizabeth Taylor Warner obliges her adoring fans with a flash of her legendary amethyst eyes and rosy-lipped smile.

"Liz has brought the role of political wife out of obscurity and into the forefront," Warner says, beaming with pride.

For those who remember Elizabeth Taylor as a movie queen in diamonds and ermine, it's incongruous to see photos of her riding in a pick-up truck or on a tractor, calling to the cattle on her husband's farm, mingling with the folks at dozens of small town receptions.

"There's no way I'd be doing this if I didn't believe in it," says Mrs. Warner. "In acting, you're so closeted and protected. This is so much more one to one. You're not playing a role in politics, you're dealing with real life issues."

The Warners were honored guests at the Old Time Fiddler's Convention, and despite an attack of buritis and back problems that put her into a wheelchair, in the truest tradition of "the show must go on," Mrs. Warner insisted on keeping the engagement.

She tottered to the microphone, her eyes glistening with tears of pain as she held her smile for the cameras. Then a power failure forced her to wait a pain-racked hour before she could finish her speech.

Two days later, Elizabeth Taylor Warner entered a hospital in Washington and was put into traction for a week.

"She would have kept right on going, but I just had to ground her," says Warner.

The Warners met on a blind date for a party for Queen Elizabeth II given at the British Embassy in Washington last year. Warner, now 50, had been divorced for three years from his first wife, Cathy Mellon, and Miss Taylor was single again after six marriages. They courted on weekends between New York, where she was finishing a movie, and Warner's 2,000-acre farm in Middleburg, Va.

Warner was doing some campaigning for Gerald Ford and Miss Taylor asked if she could join him.

"It was a new experience for her," said Warner. "She had been on the fringes of the Carter campaign and really did not have a background in partisan politics. We had a lot of fun together and when I saw people's reactions to her, I realized we had an interesting team relationship."

Shortly after their marriage in December, they began their campaign.

"I told her if we're going together into the public arena, we must share it. She has to feel a part of all this," says Warner.

"You have to believe in what you're doing," she says. "People detect it very quickly if you are a phony. You have to care about people."

If Warner gets past the Republican convention next June and makes it to the Senate, Mrs. Warner could be an interesting political wife. She's already said she is enthusiastic about the Equal Rights Amendment despite her husband's reservations.

And when he expressed doubt that she could make a contribution to foreign policy or defense strategy, Mrs. Warner shot him a stern look and said: "There's no reason why a woman can't know as much about defense as a man, no reason at all. It's all in the training."

'Laugh-In' Adds Sinatra

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC hasn't denied the ratings of ABC's "Charlie's Angels" with "Oregon Trail" on Wednesdays. So tonight, it's summoning the heavy artillery — a "Laugh-In" with Frank Sinatra.

(Frank is on NBC twice more this month. He'll guest-host "Tonight" on Nov. 14, and may reveal then that his first TV movie, "Contract on Cherry Street," will be on NBC five nights later.)

The movie, predictably enough, is briefly joshed tonight, but the plug doesn't distract from a pretty good hour of rapid-fire witticisms, sight gags, satire and assorted risqué risibles.

The show is not flawless, of course. It has some now-tired gags about retired Capitol Hill activist Elizabeth Ray and congressional steno pools. And consumerist Ralph Nader offers some lifeless jabs at wicked automakers.

But the proceeding, greatly aided by such new-season regulars as Robin Williams, June Gable, Lenny Schultz and Kim Braden, has a brisker pace and more bite than the two previous "Laugh-In" specials this year.

One bit early in the hour is a quicker classic — a muscular chap flexes his biceps, triceps and possibly his precepts in time to the crashing beat of "The 1812 Overture."

Another good quickie: as the regulars do a ragged dance routine, a sign flits across the screen with the notation, "Choreography by Gerald Ford."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who last summer taped a batch of sayings for use in this season's six "Laugh-In" specials, is on hand from time to time to say, "I can dig it."

The onetime presidential candidate also takes oblique note of a British talk show star's $600,000-plus payment to chat with former President Richard M. Nixon. Says the good senator:

"If you see David Frost, you might mention I once handed in someone else's homework when I was in the fourth grade — and I'm ready to talk about it."

Sinatra, who doesn't sing in the show, spends much of his time chortling, emitting one-liners and good-naturedly reacting to whatever it is they do on the thing.

Old Blue Eyes, mellowing at 59 but still rumored to feud with gossip columnists now and then, also gets in a few shots at the enemy, particularly when a "Miss Groana" (June Gable)

Alice Faye In A Movie Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alice Faye is returning to the screen in her first singing role since 1962 in "Lassie, My Lassie."

She last sang in "State Fair," but has been virtually out of movies since 1945 when she starred in "Fallen Angel." She had been a star since 1934.

Miss Faye plays a waitress in the film, which also stars James Stewart, Mickey Rooney, Stephanie Zimbalist and Pernel Roberts.

gives the Hollywood lowdown in a manner akin to that of Miss Rona Barrett.

Frank is seated on a platform next to a bucket of green paint. Beneath the platform is Miss Groana. You know what happens next. The happening is accompanied by cheers, balloons and skyrockets.

It's done in the spirit of good, nasty fun. Still, Miss Rona may not think good things about all this.

Musical 'Hair' Being Filmed

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hair," Broadway's first rock musical in the 1960s, is at last coming to the screen. Filming is now under way in New York.

Milos Forman, who won an Academy Award for "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," is directing and Twyla Tharp is creating the dances.

Coming Back As 'Maverick'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Garner is coming back to television as "Maverick." Veteran screenwriter James Lee Barrett has been signed by Warner Bros. Television to write a two-hour movie based on the tongue-in-cheek 1950s Western series for NBC.

NOT SO FOXY

So declarer crossed to the ace of diamonds and ruffed another spade. Now both West and declarer were down to nothing but three trumps. Declarer simply exited with the ten of trumps, and after West won the jack he had to lead from his queen into declarer's K-9 tenace.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Learn to find the winning attack with Charles Goren's "Opening Leads." For your copy, send $1.70 to "Goren-Leads," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07048. We are firmly convinced that using the Unusual No Trump Convention on hands where you are unlikely to buy the contract is a losing proposition—it gives away far more than it gains. This hand from a recent tournament in Newburgh, N.Y., demonstrates this point.

The only thing that can be said for East's Unusual No Trump overall is that the vulnerability was in his favor. However, it did little to hamper North-South's bidding; indeed, some argument could be advanced that it actually facilitated their auction. But it did have serious repercussions in the play.

A diamond lead would have left declarer with no chance, but West, not particularly wanting a ruff, decided to attack with the ten of clubs. East won the queen and ace and continued with a third round, and declarer was considerably relieved when West produced a third club and dummy's king won.

Had there been no adverse bidding, declarer would surely have laid down the ace and king of trumps, setting up two tricks for West and resulting in the contract's defeat. But East's silly intervention had alerted declarer to possible bad breaks, so he set about learning more about the distribution.

Declarer cashed the ace of spades, discarding a diamond from hand, and ruffed a spade. The ace of hearts was followed by a diamond to the king and another spade ruff, felling the king. The hand was now an open book.

East had to have started with a 3-1-5-4 distribution.

New Cinderella For TV Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You remember the story: Cinderella goes to the Sugar Hill Ball in a limo, meets the dashing Prince and loses her sneaker rushing out at midnight.

You don't? Well, you will in the all-black musical version, called "Cindy," that ABC airs in December. It stars newcomer Charlene Woodard as the girl from Harlem.

The production is being readied by James L. Brooks, Stan Daniels, David Davis and Ed Weinberger, the team largely responsible for "Rhoda," "Phyllis" and the Mary Tyler Moore and Bob Newhart shows.

Last Winter, Was Your AVERAGE UTILITY BILL
$45.56 Per Month

That's what the Jim Flynn family averaged in their Low-E Energy Efficient Home for January, February and March during the Winter of '77.

This Is Lowe's Energy Efficient
"Pinehurst" Home. It Features...

1,160 square feet of heated living space, including three bedrooms. Large master bedroom has a separate half bath and a big, divided closet. A centralized full bath is convenient to all areas of the house. The Great Room measures 13'5" x 23'. Price includes all materials from foundation plate up.

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET

Low-E is part of our successful Homestead® program, a series of NON-prefabricated building packages in a variety of designs and price ranges. We supply all the materials from the foundation plate up for you to build a beautiful, energy-saving home on your own lot.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

We've taken all we know about saving energy and put it together in one dramatically effective package, including extra insulation, 2x6 exterior stud construction, vapor barrier, caulking, double paned windows, efficient heating and cooling system, and many other components. The result is a collection of beautiful, energy efficient homes.

HERE'S PROOF IT WORKS

In the Fall of 1976, Jim Flynn purchased the "Pinehurst" Low-E Homestead® (mentioned above) in Lincolnton, N.C. The winter of 1976-77 was one of the worst in history. But the Flynn's average utility bill for January, February & March was only $45.56. And the Flynn's didn't even turn the thermostat down. A study in Arkansas also showed that homes built to Low-E specs averaged a 65% savings in heating/cooling costs compared to conventional homes. So if you're thinking about a new home, consider the advantages of Low-E.

Broyhill Brings SAF To America

One of the most popular furniture concepts in Europe has just arrived in America. Using European techniques and metric tolerances, Broyhill brings you SAF: Self Assembly Furniture like you've never seen before. Solid, well-constructed furniture that you assemble in minutes with only a screwdriver. Furniture that is tough, durable and good-looking in its warm, dappled Elm finish. Furniture that resists water, coffee, tea, detergents and other household substances due to its special Eterna-skin surface. In short, furniture that deserves to be called Broyhill.
