

Two Terrorists Caught In Amsterdam Shootout

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Two men badly wounded in a shootout with a police stake-out team in suburban Amsterdam were identified today as West German terrorists sought for various crimes.

The federal Criminal Office in Wiesbaden, West Germany, said police were sent to Amsterdam and used fingerprints to identify Christoph Wackernagel, 26, a former actor wanted in the kidnapping and murder of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer.

They named the second man as Gerd Richard Schneider, 29, sought for an Oct. 31 bombing at a courthouse in Zweibruecken. They did not say how Schneider was identified.

Dutch authorities at first believed the second man was Rolf Clemens Wagner, 33, Amsterdam Prosecutor A. N. Messchaert had said such an identification was "almost certain," but that there was some doubt because the men carried forged papers.

The alleged terrorists were arrested after a Thursday night gun and grenade battle with police.

Police said one man was hit in the chest and stomach and the other in the head. One man reportedly underwent emergency surgery. Three policemen suffered minor injuries.

West German authorities have identified Wackernagel and Wagner as members of the Red Army Faction.

The terrorist band, also known as the Baader-Meinhof gang, claimed responsibility for killing Schleyer, who headed the West German employers association. He was abducted Sept. 5 in Cologne and his body was found in the trunk of a car in Mulhouse, France, on Oct. 19, the day after West German commandos stormed a hijacked Lufthansa jetliner in Somalia, and freed 86 hostages aboard.

Despite reports that police were looking for a woman who fled the scene of Thursday's shooting, Messchaert said: "There were no indications that any more people were involved."

He said police had stalked out an apartment in a residential area of western Amsterdam after they stumbled onto the building while hunting the abductors of Dutch multi-millionaire Maurits Caransa.

The prosecutor did not indicate the two wounded suspects were involved in the kidnapping of Caransa, who was released Nov. 2 after

Deficit Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit in the 1979 federal budget, the first complete Carter administration spending plan, could reach $40 billion, the administration's top budget official said today.

Acting budget director James T. McIntyre Jr. also announced that the Office of Management and Budget has found $11.1 billion in the current, fiscal 1978 budget that it doesn't think the government will spend. He said the 1978 deficit now is estimated at $38.5 billion.

McIntyre said a 1979 deficit "in the neighborhood of $40 billion" has been used for budget-planning purposes since spring, but that it is too early to know whether this will be the final figure.

"I hope it will be below that," McIntyre told reporters. He said he is confident he will prepare a tentative budget with a deficit below the 1978 deficit.

Carter will submit his proposed 1979 budget to Congress sometime in January. The final figures will depend in part on new forecasts for 1978, which will be made early in the new year, McIntyre said.

Fiscal 1979 begins next Oct. 1. The budget for the current fiscal year originally was drafted by the administration of former President Gerald R. Ford, although it has been extensively revised.

Asked whether a big budget deficit in 1979 would make Carter's pledge of achieving a balanced budget by 1981 more difficult, McIntyre said the administration is working to steadily reduce the deficits.

"We will have to show a decline in the deficit to reach a balanced budget... We can't expect to have a balanced budget in one year," he said.

McIntyre said locating the $11.1 billion in money that probably won't be spent this year is the result of an administration effort to stop the recent shortfalls in government spending, which reached a high of $11.5 billion in fiscal 1976.

McIntyre said the budget office has made new estimates of spending by some agencies "to take out money that we think the agencies won't spend, to try to get a handle on the shortfall problem."

About $2.5 billion was trimmed from Defense Department estimates, the largest amount on the list. Another $1 billion was cut from energy spending and $900 million from spending by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

14-Inch Snow For Upper Midwest

By The Associated Press

A storm system with high winds and some snow moved northeast today after giving a taste of winter on Thursday to much of the upper Midwest.

Scattered snow was reported overnight in the Great Lakes region and the Appalachians, and travelers were advised to be cautious.

Winds gusting to 30 mph were recorded from the Great Lakes to the mid-Atlantic coast states. Rain was reported along the northern Atlantic coast, where temperatures were to drop from mid 60 readings to the 30s and 40s today.

A pre-dawn freeze warning was posted for most of the Southeast. Weather officials said readings in the 20s and 30s were reported in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, and North Carolina and parts of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Freezing temperatures also were expected in Texas.

The storm system that brought snow to the Midwest and claimed two lives in Minnesota appeared calmer as it moved into Canada overnight. But the National Weather Service warned that it could pick up strength as it moved out over the Atlantic Ocean.

The system, which originated in the Rocky Mountains, produced gale warnings on Lake Superior Thursday — two years after gale conditions contributed to the sinking of the freighter Edmund Fitzgerald of Whitefish Point, Mich.

The gale warnings were extended into early morning hours for eastern parts of the lake.

Many roads in northern Minnesota and Michigan remained snow-covered and treacherous, officials said. Six Minnesota roads, including I-94 near Moorhead, were closed to traffic Thursday.

Light rain Thursday contributed to New York's Staten Island flood problem, which began with 5 inches of rainfall Monday and Tuesday.

Borough officials estimated that at least 3,000 Staten Island homes and businesses were damaged by flood waters, with the ocean communities of Midland Beach, Ocean Breeze and South Beach the hardest hit. Water still stood several feet deep in many streets early today, and Red Cross and rescue workers used canoes and rowboats to reach stranded residents.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey, who sent aides to the area Thursday, asked the U.S. Small Business Administration to make low-interest loans available to the area.

Meanwhile, a flash flood watch continued today for northern New Jersey and New York's Rockland and Westchester counties. Among the rivers overflowing are the Passaic, Pompton and Saddle.

Officials in the New Jersey communities of Wayne and Lodi estimated that damage caused in the wake of some 9 inches of rainfall already exceeded $20 million.

One of the men replied in German, "One moment, please," and pulled a pistol, the prosecutor said. He said the man started shooting as uniformed police approached. One of the suspects hurled a grenade, slightly wounding one officer. Police returned fire with rifles.

School Bd. Seeks Letter Of Credit

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville City Board of Education members on Thursday night authorized Supt. Glenn Cox to negotiate with Pitt County Commissioners to seek a letter of credit for $100,000.

The credit requested will have as collateral the city school owned property of approximately 12 acres located in the Lyndale Subdivision.

In conjunction with this action, board members did not accept a private offer of $82,200 currently offered for the property. An earlier appraisal of the land site gives a valuation of $110,000. This land has been the subject of previous public auction offerings, and was recently put up for private negotiations. None of the offers made by potential buyers have been considered acceptable by the board.

The letter of credit, if authorized by Pitt Commissioners, will be used to let bids for carpet and case work at the Middle School.

"At this point," Cox said, "we need to let bids, and the money for these two projects had been earmarked from funds we had hoped to realize from the sale of the Lyndale property."

The board also authorized Cox to take a look into legal steps necessary to put the property back into auction channels, and further make a new termination of the true value of the land.

In another action, the board approved a $35,000 bid for sale of the Rose High School Live Project, a house constructed by the carpentry and masonry students at Rose. The house, located in Tuckahoe Subdivision, is a three bedroom brick structure, and was auctioned on Friday, October 28. The successful bidder will be notified today of the board's formal acceptance of his offer.

One personnel action was heard at the special call meeting. A teacher appeared before the board to present some questions of the status of his certification, stating he believed he was due accrued back pay.

Board members asked Cox to review the claim with the school attorney, and to bring additional facts and recommendations back to the board before a final decision is made.

Lowest Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — Moody's Investor Service, considered the leading credit-rating agency in the country, has stung New York by giving a proposed bond sale its lowest possible rating.

Underwriters for the proposed Nov. 22 sale withdrew the $200 million issue Thursday immediately after Moody made its rating. Many trusts accounts and funds — the major buyers of municipal bonds — have clauses bidding them from buying securities that have the lowest rating.

Moody's announcement said it was likely that the city would have been able to repay the note issue. However, it gave its lowest rating because the city's "overall financial position is so precarious as not to preclude the possibility of bankruptcy in future years."

The agency suspended its ratings of New York City notes in July 1975, sparking a financial crisis that resulted in budget reductions which in turn caused massive layoffs of city workers and cutbacks in city services.

HEW Claims UNC Target Is Too Low

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in a letter released today, says North Carolina has not gone far enough in outlining its plans for further desegregation of its university and community college system.

But University of North Carolina president William Friday, in a sharp response, said the university position was unchanged in rejecting HEW goals for increased black recruitment.

Friday said the goals for a 150 percent increase in black enrollment at predominantly white institutions is not realistic.

"The issue is control over the educational future of all the institutions," he said at today's meeting of the UNC Board of Governors.

The HEW letter, mailed this week from the Office of Civil Rights, commended the university for some of its desegregation progress thus far. But the letter said more information was needed on UNC's desegregation plans.

Philip Angers Leftists

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip stirred up indignation among leftist politicians with an attack on state-owned industries even as the Labor Party government vowed to stick to its "no deals" policy with Britain's powerful labor unions.

The outspoken husband of Queen Elizabeth II said in a speech to Cambridge University students on Thursday that state-owned industries will employ fewer people in the coming years.

"Some people... contend that industries really exist for the benefit of those employed in them first and their value to the consumer second," the prince said.

Left-wing Labor members of parliament, who are trying to extend national control of Britain's major industries, took the remarks as a direct attack on their policies.

"It seems increasingly apparent that the Duke of Edinburgh (Philip's other title) is out to attack working people and working class institutions," said Bob Mellish, former Labor government whip.

Philip raised the ire of the party's left wing last month when in a radio talk show he said Britain faced a totalitarian bureaucratic dictatorship by the year 2000 because of increasing state control.

Arrest 626 In 6-Hour South African Raid

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Police swept through the black township of Atteridgeville-Faulsville, arresting 626 blacks in a six-hour raid which authorities called a drive to combat criminal elements.

Brig. H.L. Abbott, division commander of police for northern Transvaal province, said Thursday's raid outside Pretoria was not connected with student unrest which has erupted intermittently since June 1976.

Among those arrested were 198 schoolchildren. Police said they would determine if any of the children should be referred to institutions. South Africa operates welfare homes for homeless black children.

Abbott said 410 persons were arrested for violation of passbook laws that require blacks to carry identity books and obtain government permission to live and work in white areas. The laws are used by the white government to control the movement of blacks in urban areas.

Eight blacks were charged with possession of stolen property, five with public violence, four with possession of marijuana and one with illegal possession of gasoline.

Police surrounded the township Thursday morning and began stopping cars and buses moving in and out of the area.

The police action followed the government's massive crackdown last month on opponents of its apartheid policy of racial segregation. On Oct. 18, the government banned 18 black organizations, closed two black-oriented newspapers and detained more than 60 persons.

Also Thursday, American U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young told the governing board of the National Council of Churches in New York that South African Prime Minister John Vorster must be living a hell on earth because of apartheid.

Young said the mandatory arms embargo ordered by the U.N. Security Council after the October crackdown was "the first serious opposition to apartheid." He said he hoped that action would bring about change in South Africa.

CONSIDER YOUR CARRIER

My son is a newspaper carrier, fairly new on the job, and he and I have realized already that communication gaps can easily develop between the carrier and his customer.

I would like to encourage people to be patient with their carriers. Some of them have other responsibilities like Scouts, piano lessons, and/or various sports activities. If they do a good job, tell them. Tell them if you would like the paper delivered to a certain place — box, porch, or wherever. Give them a chance to learn these things and remember them. Don't mind reminding them again, but do it politely. Some of these children have 115 papers to deliver each day and must remember who gets what and where. If you miss your paper, call the deliverer himself, the same day and report it. He might have an extra and be waiting to find out whom he missed.

If you bought the paper daily, it would cost $1.50 more per month than having it delivered does. If you tell your carrier you missed a paper only when he comes to collect, this comes out of his little bit of profit. Out of it, also comes the cost of plastic bags (almost one cent each) and rubber bands. He'd probably appreciate your saving them for him to reuse. If he has to have a substitute, this cost is also subtracted from his profit.

Being a newspaper carrier is good training in responsibility, so the customer should demand that the carrier be responsible, but he should also give him (or her) the praise and consideration deserved. Mrs. L. K.

Formal Canvass Changed Totals

Thursday's official canvass of this week's election results revealed several differences from totals published by The Daily Reflector although none affected a final outcome.

Margaret Register, supervisor of the Pitt Board of Elections, said that all of the changes occurred in the constitutional amendment totals and only one involved more than seven votes.

The amendment on spending (number five on the ballot) received 7,650 votes in favor, according to the canvass, rather than the 7,402 as reported by the Reflector. In addition, the vote total against the spending amendment was 1,291 rather than 1,293 as published.

Two other minor changes involved an official total of 5,108 in favor of the succession amendment rather than 5,106, and 6,733 for the amendment on power rather than 6,741.

All of the City Council totals were correct as published and the election of John Howard, Mildred McGrath, Judy Greene and Clarence Gray was confirmed.

C-of-C Plans Weekend Williamsburg Session

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its 1977 Out-of-Town Planning Session this weekend at Williamsburg, Va.

According to Ed Walker, executive vice-president, the purpose of the meeting is to plan next year's program of work for the four Chamber divisions — Economic and Industrial Development Division, Organization and Membership Development Division, Public and Governmental Affairs Division, and Community Development Division.

"This is when we sit down, identify problems, and seek answers to those problems," said Walker.

The three-day session begins today with registration from 3-6 p.m. A banquet is scheduled for tonight with speeches being given by President Elect Charles Burnette, President Lawton Nisbet, and Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University.

Burnette will speak on the purpose of the meeting, Nisbet on the accomplishments of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Jenkins on "As I See The Greenville Area."

The Industrial Development Committee will present a new slide show on Greenville, entitled "Here's Our City." The committee will use this presentation throughout the coming year in trying to recruit new industries for the area.

Walker will present the keynote address.

Saturday is reserved for workshops and speeches by Chairman Charles Gaskins of the County Board of Commissioners, Greenville Mayor Percy Cox, and Gaskins.

They will speak on the needs of the county, city, and the Chamber.

At noon, group plans to attend the Oyster Bowl to see the East Carolina-William and Mary game.

The session will break up on Sunday after summary reports are delivered.

According to Walker, the Chamber has "made progress in the area of giving itself to the proper and orderly growth of the community."

He said the image of the Chamber has improved and that they now boast approximately 190 members.

"We're the fastest growing chamber in the state," Walker said that the Chamber of Commerce, as well as city planners, is having difficulty keeping up with the growth of Greenville.

Chamber members hope to move from their location on 14th and Elm Streets as soon as possible to a "more centrally located area" where they can better serve the community.

Rally Opposes State Testing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More than 500 private school administrators, teachers, parents and students packed a tiny auditorium here to protest a proposal that would require private school students to take state competency tests.

Public school students will have to take the tests starting next year under a law passed this year by the General Assembly. The purpose of the tests is to make sure the schools are doing their job.

The state Board of Education ruled that private school students would also have to take the tests, then rescinded the move until it could hold Thursday's public hearing.

The emotional session lasted five hours as 66 speakers took their turns at the podium. Only two, the chairmen of the annual achievement test and competency test commissions, supported the proposal.

Many of the rest said the idea was an invasion of religious freedom and some said they might take the board to court over the matter.

"No God-fearing Christian school administrator could allow its students to become guinea pigs for the state," said Dr. Ed Ulrich, executive director of the state Association of Christian Schools.

James P. Hendrix Jr., headmaster of Greensboro Day School, said the testing programs "represent state intrusion into the traditional independence of private schools."

Joseph M. Lalley Jr., president of the state Association of Independent Schools and the Council for American Private Education in North Carolina, said many private schools already do their own diagnostic testing and don't need the state's tests.

Lalley produced a recent study of which showed state private school students were above the national average in their reading and math scores, while public school students scored below average.

Young, Single Men To Get Insurance Break

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Young, single men will get a break on their auto insurance premiums come Dec. 1, but other inexperienced drivers and drivers with bad records will pay more.

Those are among principal features of a new rate system proposed by the insurance industry and approved Thursday by Insurance Commissioner John R. Ingram. The changes will affect new policies after Dec. 1 and existing policies when they are renewed after that.

The plan knocks out large surcharges that single men under age 25 now have to pay. The income from those surcharges will be replaced by higher rates for drivers with less than two years of driving experience and drivers with moving violations or accidents in the past three years.

Experienced drivers with good records won't be affected by the new plan. But multi-car families and farmers will have a slight increase.

The approval marked one of the few instances in which Ingram has approved a major proposal from the insurance industry. Generally he has forced the companies to go to court for what they wanted.

But Ingram was stripped by the General Assembly this year of the power to hold up rate changes. If he had rejected this one, it would have gone into effect anyway and Ingram would have had to win his case in court.

Ingram criticized the new auto insurance plan, saying it will overcharge drivers with minor violations and won't charge habitual offenders enough. He has also said he does not approve of the increases for farmers and multi-car families.

But he still hailed the plan as "a milestone in the history of insurance in the United States" because it eliminates age and sex as factors in insurance rates.

The commissioner said he might hold new hearings on the plan early next year to determine whether it should be changed to take account of his criticisms.

Rehab Education Program Is 'Tremendous Asset'

"Rehabilitation is getting people affected by illness or injury functioning once again within the limitations of their changed situations," Alan Gorrod says, "and Pitt Technical Institute's new education program here at the Rehabilitation Center is a tremendous asset in helping us do just this for our patients."

Gorrod, who is an occupational therapist in the Work Evaluation Unit of the Rehabilitation Center which is a part of Pitt County Memorial Hospital, said he is enthusiastic about the education program which is run as a branch of the Learning Center of Pitt Tech.

Louise Downing, Assistant Learning Center Coordinator, is in charge of the Rehab Center program. She helps each rehab patient referred to her find what he or she needs to be learning to help toward his or her goals. "This can vary so from patient to patient," she said. "No two will ever have the same needs." One may need to study accounting, while another may need something as basic as reading and beginning mathematics.

"The work is individualized, of course," she said. "It would have to be. And this works well, because a one-to-one approach often makes for quickly seen favorable results, and, of course, successful experience is a morale-builder for anyone at all."

"And especially for a person being rehabilitated," Gorrod said. "Very often these people are ones who have done physical work in the past and must now be rerouted toward mental work. It's encouraging to them to find out they really can do it, after all."

"For some rehab patients," Mrs. Downing said, "it may be a matter of continuing a high school or college education that has been interrupted by an accident or illness."

Gorrod said his clients are "encouraged but coerced" into taking part. "Most find it interesting, though," he said, "and a good way to break the monotony of the confinement that physical impairment often brings."

The program has been underway only a few months, but Gorrod said it is already considered a major part of many patients' work orientation programs.

According to Joy Sasser, PTI Learning Center Coordinator, the program was not patterned after any other. Indeed, she said, the persons running it do not know whether there are similar community college-rehabilitation cooperative programs elsewhere in the state and nation.

"We just sat down and had a brain-storming session," she said, "and this is what came out of it. Alan told us what the needs were and we decided what we'd try to accomplish, and this is what developed."

"We're very pleased with the results so far. This is education at its finest, I believe."

Walnut Cookies Are Extra Special

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Some cookies are for every day — to serve along with crisp red apples or milk at snack-time. Some cookies are extra-special — to offer with a fresh fruit compote as a luncheon or dinnertime dessert, or with a cup of tea or coffee as an afternoon or evening refresher.

It's the latter kind we have for you today. These are rolled cookies, their dough rich with butter and finely chopped walnuts. They take a little longer to make than the drop or bar variety — but in our opinion they're worth it. We strongly recommend them.

SWISS WALNUT COOKIES

- ¾ cup butter
- 2-3rds cup granulated sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup walnuts, finely chopped
- ½ cup (about) apricot jam

Confectioners' sugar, if desired
Cream the butter and sugar; beat in the egg yolks and vanilla until blended. Stir in the flour and salt until blended. Stir in the walnuts. Chill, tightly covered, until firm enough to handle — 1 or 2 hours.

Halve the dough; work with one portion at a time and keep the other refrigerated. On a prepared pastry cloth, with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out the half-portion of dough about ¼-inch thick. Cut out cookies with a 2-inch floured cutter. Place well apart on a lightly buttered cookie sheet.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven, just above the center, until very lightly browned — 10 to 12 minutes. With a wide spatula, remove to wire racks to cool.

Shortly before serving, spread the bottoms of half the cookies with the apricot jam, using about 1 teaspoon jam for each. Top with the remaining cookies. If desired, sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar.

Makes 24 sandwich cookies.

Girl Reminds Boys Of Their Mothers

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: All the boys at school confide in me like I was their mother or something. They're always asking my advice on how to get dates with some of the really neat girls they have a crush on.

Is there some witty or catchy phrase I can throw out to let them know that I am available?

Also, my folks are taking me to Hawaii over the Christmas holidays, and I'd like to lose about 30 pounds in a month. I'd sure like to look cute for the trip, so please hurry your answer. Sign me...

PUDGY

DEAR PUDGY: One problem at a time, starting with the one that's probably responsible for the others. You can lose weight by going on a serious diet under a doctor's supervision, but don't expect to shed 30 pounds in 30 days. It took you longer than that to pile it on.

Boys treat you like their mothers because you probably remind them of THEIRS. When you look more like a girl they want to date, they'll realize that you are "available," and you won't need a catchy phrase with which to catch them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse who has worked for a competent physician for 15 years.

Every hour at least one person calls and says, "I have a virus. Ask the doctor if I can run in on my lunch hour for a shot."

Abby, what this country needs is a sidewalk booth operated on the same principle as a cigarette machine. The patient could deposit a coin, stick his arm in a slot, select his own medication and get a shot.

People keep asking, "Whatever happened to the good old-fashioned family doctor who made house calls?"

Well, I'd like to know whatever happened to the good old-fashioned trusting patient who let the doctor diagnose the case and prescribe the treatment?

SANTA MONICA

DEAR SANTA: The old-fashioned family doctor was succeeded by a new breed who found he could practice more effectively in his office or in a hospital. And the "old-fashioned patient" has yielded to a generation mostly covered by medical insurance—with a tendency to overuse medical care.

Good Roads Retain Importance

North Carolinians have shown that good roads are still important to them by voting overwhelmingly for a $300 million bond issue in Tuesday's election.

The road bond issue was approved by a whopping majority and it will provide $175 million for improvements to the primary road system; $75 million for rural, secondary roads and $50 million for urban highway construction.

There are no new direct taxes connected with the approval of the bond issue and it will be paid off from existing highway fund revenues.

The extra funds which the bond issue will provide should generate much new construction on the state's highway system. The money will attract additional federal funds in many instances and thus, far more than $300 million in highway work can be accomplished.

The road bonds received solid support here in the East. It was a support built largely on hope that our area is going to receive fairer treatment in the future allocation of highway construction funds.

Much can be done in Eastern North Carolina in catching the area up with the remainder of the state following the passage of the highway road bond issue.

We should recognize, however, that the powerful pressures which have been exerted in the past to pull road construction money into the Piedmont will be at work again.

We in the East must remain vigilant to see that we don't get short changed in highway construction again.

Vote Reflects A Tar Heel Commitment

Voters approved a $230 million water and sewer bond issue in Tuesday's balloting.

The Clean Water bonds were approved by a large majority. The funds will provide grants to municipalities for upgrading water supply and sewage treatment facilities.

North Carolina can't lose with this bond issue and the strong vote for it shows our state's commitment to protecting our waterways.

THIS AFTERNOON

Merit Pay, Tenure Issues

By BILL NOBLITT (Second of Two Articles) RALEIGH—Was it only happenstance that members of the State Board of Education have set the stage for public debate on two taboo subjects: teacher tenure and merit pay?

A strong reaction from teachers—particularly the organized group under the banner of the North Carolina Association of Educators—is expected. In the past such reaction has been strong on rare occasions of public mention of these two subjects.

It was apparent to observers at the informal talk-session of the policy committee of the State Board of Education that recent appointees to the board by Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., were leading the discussion.

Even the chairman of the board Dr. David H. Bruton who won his post after some political hardball involving the governor, the lieutenant governor, and former Chairman Dallas Herring, was outspoken in a call for the board to probe this area.

Trial Ballon

Could this development on the State Board of Education represent a signal that the subject might be explored? Was it, as it might appear, an effort to trigger response so that future directions might be gauged? We put that supposition to Gov. Hunt.

It was not a signal or a test. It was not a trial ballon to measure reaction.

"It was a clear signal that we are planning to move in this direction," the governor said.

"It does represent an effort to look at all aspects of public education in North Carolina and the problems we are having," he said. Already in the works are testing programs for the students.

"It is not sufficient just to say that we shall appraise the children's performance. There is another side.

"The other part... and perhaps the most important part... is teacher performance," Gov. Hunt said.

What has happened to bring into public debate the subject which has been talked about behind closed doors for so long?

Politicians in both the Legislative and Executive branches have been reluctant to even discuss the subject for print. Privately, many confess that not being able to reward a good teacher while punishing the bad is at the root of many public school problems.

But to an individual they have said they must not be quoted.

BILL NOBLITT

Fear of the much-proclaimed political strength of the 50,000-member N.C. Association of Educators has been behind such an attitude. That organization does react to such comment, and the numerous columns which have appeared in this space dealing with tenure and merit pay over the years have consistently drawn down such reactions, both direct and indirect.

Lost Power

What has taken place to cause a change? Sources close to the State Board of Education and to Hunt agree that it represents a reassessment of the strength of the NCAE.

That organization, and the parent National Association of Educators, have become increasingly more strident and union-like in conduct of business. "The Association doesn't even represent the teachers anymore... the people who are in office or on the committees are not the best teachers, they're people who are discontented or disgruntled and volunteer for the jobs," says one source, a former teacher.

As to political clout, top officials are now convinced that while the organization has widely claimed ability to deliver votes, "We simply haven't seen any results of that claim... they can't affect the outcome of an election," an aid to the governor said.

Sources in Raleigh say that time has come to measure the strength of the teacher union by seeking to change what many consider a major stumbling block to better education—teacher tenure and equal pay regardless of merit or competency.

The President Cancels

WASHINGTON—Most Americans are relieved that President Carter has postponed his trip abroad to nine countries in 11 days. Not only has it saved the American taxpayer millions of dollars but there was a feeling that the President would not be able to accomplish much in that short time.

Yet when the word was announced, it caused great disappointment in the countries President Carter had planned to visit. Preparations had been in full swing and excitement was building up for Mr. Carter's short stay.

When one head of state's wife was informed that the President was not coming she broke into tears.

"But I've been cleaning the palace all week," she told her husband.

"I don't want to hear about your troubles," he said. "I've been painting all the buildings from the airport into town."

The wife asked, "What do I tell the caterer?"

"Tell him the dinner has been canceled. I'm sure he'll understand."

"That's easy enough for you to say. But he turned down three parties to do our dinner. You know this is his busy season."

"Listen, I'm not responsible for Carter canceling his

"Do you realize we invited 800 generals and their wives and two members of the opposition party to a reception before the dinner? We're going to be the laughingstock of the town."

"So we'll uninvite them. I had to get the air force in shape for a fly-over. Only two out of the 400 planes the United States sold us can still get off the ground."

"I never should have sent to Paris for a new evening dress."

"I don't want to hear any more. I've hung American Flags on every lamppost in the city. What am I going to do with 130,000 American Flags?"

"Won't the American exporters take them back?"

"I didn't get them from America. I got them from Japan. They've been dumping American Flags in every country Carter was supposed to visit."

"I think you should send a formal note of protest to the White House telling them we have been personally insulted."

"I've done that already."

"What did they say?"

See A Rabbit Future

By H. JOSEF HEBERT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter says a government rabbit meat inspection program he vetoed would have served only a small number of Americans.

But the rabbit meat industry takes the matter more seriously, saying consumers will be harmed in the end.

Carter, in a 400-word veto message Thursday, called the measure "a special interest bill." He said its passage could even strain U.S. relations with China since the Chinese export rabbit meat to the United States.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Ready For Self-Destruct

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—When a balky federal judge threatened to upset the government's plea bargaining agreement with Richard Helms, Justice Department lawyers declared their intent to proceed with a 10-count perjury indictment against the former CIA director—a final example of the Carter administration's ambivalence in handling the Helms affair.

Months of indecision over what to do about Helms were followed by more months of plea bargaining. Yet, when the chance selection of an obstreperous judge threatened to upset the agreement, the administration was prepared to do what no great power has ever done: the self-destructive prosecution of its own chief of intelligence for doing his duty.

That only heightens the mystery of President Carter's own attitude, toward Helms in particular and the intelligence service in general. Contrary to his public statements, Mr. Carter was deeply involved in the decision to prosecute and then to avoid a trial. Yet Mr. Carter never gave a hint of how he truly regarded the case. "The President was a sphinx," one insider told us.

The President is by no means wholly responsible for the humiliation visited on Dick Helms to conclude his distinguished career in public service. The notion of bringing federal charges against him for not revealing to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee covert operations in Chile by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was started by President Ford's Attorney General, Edward Levi.

The inflexible Dr. Levi could not be convinced that Helms was only following his oath of secrecy. Griffin Bell, Levi's successor in the Carter administration, was considered a more practical man. Bell, however, ran into three hard obstacles against dropping the case.

First, aggressive young lawyers in the Justice Department had been working on the Helms case for 18 months. To set aside their work would bring charges of "coverup," foulest of crimes since Watergate.

Second, an implacable stand that Helms must be prosecuted to set an example for the intelligence community was taken by Sen. Frank Church, author of the dubious theory that the CIA has been a "rogue elephant" out of control. Church was well-qualified to mobilize the liberal community in protest to a "coverup."

Third, and perhaps most important, was quiet support for Church from his erstwhile Senate colleague in harassing the CIA: Vice President Walter Mondale. Indeed, the Helms case illustrates why Mondale is one Vice President who should be taken seriously.

No opposite arguments came from officials who might be expected to urge dropping the case (such as CIA director Stansfield Turner or Secretary of State Cyrus Vance). Thus it became clear during the summer that Helms would be prosecuted one way or another, setting up the real struggle within the administration.

Church's insistence on severe punishment of Helms, even if it led to an open trial, was backed quietly by the Vice President. Influential friends of Helms, descending on the President and Attorney General with pleas for clemency, came to regard Mondale as their major problem.

But three influential figures argued resolutely that a trial must be avoided at all costs: Atty. Gen. Bell, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger former CIA director). They argued that a nightmarish Helms trial would expose U.S. secrets that would make this country the laughingstock of the (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Say Coming Recession

(Kinston Free Press)

When the no-nonsense Hudson Institute releases a study the effect is usually profoundly sobering, it not chilling. Put on your wraps because Hudson's Dr. Barry J. Smernoff projects, in a new Institute study, a new siege of inflation and possibly a new recession as early as 1979.

What will trigger these miseries? Nothing more than President Carter's energy program, that's what. Dr. Smernoff questions the wisdom of removing $10 to $15 billion from the economy annually in the form of crude oil equalization and business-use taxes intended to promote energy conservation.

Even without the energy program, current economic trends will leave the country susceptible to a recession during 1978-81. The risk of a deep recession is dramatically increased because of the political attempt to regulate energy.

Dr. Smernoff's Politics of Energy Transition: Policy Trade-Offs in an Inflationary Economy points out that economic growth in the United States tends to move in tandem with energy growth. If the burden of public policy is to induce energy conservation by higher prices without stimulating the development of new domestic supplies, the effect, in Dr. Smernoff's understatement, would be "undesirable."

Indeed, it would be catastrophic. And the first way to render public policy non-catastrophic is to make it intelligible. The Carter plan simply ignores the need for intelligible allocation, the sine qua non of any effort at conservation. "Even as energy policy evolves over the next few decades" says Dr. Smernoff, "the likelihood that the American economy can be orchestrated efficiently by the heavy hand of public policy is remote. Fine-tuning of American energy policy, based on hypothetical government estimates of expected outcomes, is much less effective than the decentralized operation of the marketplace... Without the profit motive it is rather difficult to match supply with demand and to allocate economic resources efficiently."

Regrettably, too many government officials appear more interested in taxing away profits than in creating the necessary conditions for the development of adequate energy supplies. If, a couple of winters from now, the chill gets too great, some of us can always pour ourselves a good Smernoff, proposing toasts that President Carter might be wise enough to do the same.

Oil Made Pound Sterling Rise

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—In the centers of international monetary exchange, where vigilance sometimes erupts into near panic, they were kissing goodbye to the British pound sterling a year ago.

Britain, it was felt, was consuming itself in economic squabbles, wasting its assets, spending itself bankrupt, doing little to stop the post-war drift that had floated the island nation onto the shoals.

No matter that Britain was keeping it head high like a proud gentleman. That wouldn't solve inflation and lack of investment and strikes. The tweeds were frayed, and everyone noticed. Merry madness, they called it.

At the beginning of 1976 a pound would fetch you two American dollars. Later in the year it would get you only $1.55, and the betting among some traders was that it would soon translate into even fewer nickels and dimes.

A year later they are calling the pound buoyant. Against the dollar, at least, it is rising like a cork in a bottle, reaching about $1.82 last week. And currency traders were singing "There'll always be an England."

What changed? Oil. North Sea oil seems to have done for Britain what rain does for a dustbowl farmer. Oil is pouring into Britain, and money men react to oil like they do to gold.

Industry is taking another look. Ford Motor has decided to invest more than $200 million in a new plant in Wales after having considered sites in other countries. Citibank thinks some other, more subtle factors underlie the changed attitude toward the pound, one of them being that the British people and their leaders give indications of finally having had it with inflation.

True, the rate for the past year has been something around 15 percent. But the projections are better. Merrill Lynch Economics expects the rate to average out to 12 percent for 1978.

Perhaps even more important, although it is also a corollary of falling inflation, is the projection for real growth in gross national product. Merrill Lynch foresees 1978 growth of 1.5 percent vs. 0.5 percent in 1977.

Now that some evidence exists, money that had fled the pound seems to be coming back home, evidence of renewed faith in the country's future.

But as in the battle of Britain itself, the battle of the pound isn't yet won. While there is evidence that leaders are fed up with economic decline, there is hardly evidence that they are willing to dig trenches.

In fact, the same deadly union-management games that ruined earlier efforts to build the economy and bolster exports are still being played, again at great and perhaps permanent expense to the nation.

The National Miners Union, for example, voted to fight for a 90 per cent wage increase rather than accept an offer to have wages reflect gains in productivity, which may be the only way in which labor, management and the nation itself could benefit.

Strength For Today

UNDER SACRIFICE

The Gnostic heretics of the early Christian church tried to save the memory of Jesus from what they believed to be the shame of the cross by maintaining that Jesus did not die on the cross. At that time only common criminals were crucified. Therefore the Gnostics insisted that God snatched Jesus from the cross before he expired.

But the church refused to accept this assertion and went back to the stark and true realism of the facts, namely, that Jesus did in fact die on the cross. His death was not make-believe, as other heretics asserted, but was hideous and frightful because he who had no sin chose to die voluntarily assuming as his own the sin of the world.

Vicarious sacrifice is the reality upon which the whole life of the spirit is built, and as it was true for our Lord, so it is true for all of his followers. Sacrifice is not something which cramps and represses life; it is the one thing which expands and glorifies it.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — After the most extensive consultative process in the history of U.S. Roman Catholicism, the church's bishops next week are expected to approve new guidelines for teaching the faith.

The 254-page National Catechetical Directory, five years in the making, is the first of its kind to be developed by the American church.

It offers norms and recommendations for religious education of "all Catholics in the United States in our times," from childhood through adult life, says the project director, Msgr. Wilfrid H. Parades of Washington, D.C.

Although still subject to minor alterations before adoption by a meeting in Washington of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and later confirmation by the pope, the document already has gone through its long, preliminary stages.

That involved hundreds of meetings with educators, theologians, pastors and people in nearly every diocese, thousands of written criticisms and suggestions, and numerous redraftings and versions.

The Living Hope Singers from Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee, will present a service of music and testimony at the Temple Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday.

The 12-piece ensemble will be directed by Abe Baerg, chairman of the Bible College Music Department and director of the College Choir. Accompanist is Denise Braswell from Grifton. The program will include a variety of religious songs.

Testimonies by various members of the group and a devotional message will be given in addition to the music program.

Pastor Kennedy invites the public to attend.

The industry already has available a voluntary inspection program for which it must pay, and Carter indicated the taxpayer should not be required to assume the bill — $52,000 the first year, increasing eventually to $400,000.

The rabbit meat industry reports sales of more than $10 million a year, and producers say demand is growing.

One producer feels that rabbit meat might one day be as popular as chicken, saying the industry is at the same stage of progress as the poultry industry was 70 years ago.

"This was a consumer's piece of legislation, and they're the ones who will suffer," said Paul Dubbell, president of Pel-Freeze Inc. of Rogers, Ark. The company processes about one-third of the 6 million pounds of rabbit meat produced each year in the country.

But Carter, who last week cast his first veto in rejecting an $80 million authorization bill for the Clinch River nuclear breeder reactor in Tennessee, noted that rabbit meat is still a specialty item sought by only a small percentage of Americans.

The legislation, he said, "is a prime example of ... a special interest bill which, if signed, would open the way for more mandatory regulations and increased costs."

Moreover, he said neither the Agriculture Department nor the Food and Drug Administration "has been able to substantiate a significant health problem with rabbit meat in this country."

Carter's predecessor, Gerald R. Ford, also vetoed the inspection program.

Altogether, more than 90,000 detailed suggestions have come from more than 280,000 people, nuns, priests and laity, with more than 15,000 diocesan meetings held about the contents in ironing them out.

A mixed, lay-religious committee of 12 did the winning work, under review of seven bishops, headed by Archbishop John F. Whealon of Hartford. The work now goes to the bishops for finishing touches and acceptance.

Bible College Singers Here

Pastor Kennedy invites the public to attend.

It is not a textbook or curriculum, but it sets basic guidelines and principles for imparting devotion to God's truth in the modern world.

Incorporating the insights of modern psychology and the linking of learning with experience at various age levels, the document reflects changes developing for the last decade in church teaching methods.

The approach departs sharply from the 1884 Baltimore catechism, which consists of 421 questions and answers, to be committed to memory.

It was the main influence in Catholic education in this country for nearly 80 years, until the reforms of the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65.

Teaching of the young today "bears little resemblance to the ways in which their parents received religious instruction," the new directory says, noting that this aroused some objections in developing the guidelines.

These complaints, mainly insisting on fixed doctrinal formulas, have received "serious attention" in shaping the directory, it says. But it upholds openness to experiential methods and varying theological emphasis.

Registering the increased Catholic emphasis on Scriptures, the directory says, "the Bible has a special place of honor" in teaching the Christian faith.

To Preach At St. Matthew's
Elder Dorsey Acklin Jr. will preach at St. Matthew F.W.B. Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Music will be presented by Bethel Chapel No. 2 Choir and the Burdenlifters. Sister Susie Moore will sponsor the event. The public is invited.

formation we had on our raw materials." "You know our children are furious with us because I made them clean up their rooms?" "That's just too bad. Do you realize how shaky my regime has been in the last six months? I was counting on Carter's visit to solidify my position with the military junta. The army military band has been practicing 'Dixie' for three months. What do you think they're going to say when I tell them they can forget it?" "I think if the President of the United States had any feeling at all he would at least have sent his brother Billy Carter in his place." "They offered us Billy Carter, but he charges $10,000 an appearance, and no one in my cabinet thinks he's worth it."

ALL OVER THE WORLD

Say what you want about the Bible — it lives. It has endured through centuries. No matter where you go across the face of the globe you can find it, printed in a vast variety of languages, bringing new meaning to new thousands.

Maybe some of it may be a muddle to you. It isn't easy reading, even the revised versions. But because it really is the greatest story ever told it's worth all the study you can give it.

Think about it. This book has lasted through wars, floods, famines, periods of both depression and prosperity, this over centuries. Get to know it better. Both on your own, and through your church.

By The Associated Press
Wintry weather has spread across North Carolina from the mountains to the coast and the lowest temperatures of the fall season are predicted for tonight and Saturday morning. Freezing temperatures are expected to range from the mountains to the coast with a hard freeze over west and central portions of the state. Only the Outer Banks are expected to escape the freeze. Meanwhile, Highway 12 on Hatteras Island still had high water that ranged up to 15 inches this morning between Avon and Salvo and about five inches north of Avon. Motorists were warned to proceed with caution and further advised not even to drive vehicles through the damaging salt water if the trip could be delayed. The National Weather Service said gusty northwest winds would cause some shallow flooding on the sound side of the Outer Banks today and early tonight. With a prolonged period of freezing temperatures tonight in west and central areas, residents were advised to take necessary precautions to protect property that might be damaged by the cold. High pressure will dominate the weather pattern through the weekend, with continuing very cold temperatures across the state. Low readings this morning included Hickory, Greensboro and Raleigh 30, Charlotte 32, Fayetteville 34, Asheville 35 and Wilmington 39. Tonight's lows will drop to the teens in the mountains and range in the 20s in the central portion of the state and in the 30s on the coast.

Amtrak Again Faces Shutdown

By HOWARD BENEDICT Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Financially troubled Amtrak says it might have to shut down its entire system next summer unless it can cancel train services costing more than $60 million to operate.

In a letter sent to all senators and representatives Thursday, Amtrak listed several trains being considered for cancellation. The routes extend into every geographical region of the nation and many congressmen are expected to protest the projected loss of services in their areas.

An Amtrak spokesman denied the letter was intended as an attempt to squeeze more money out of Congress. He said House and Senate conferees last week had written the bottom line on how much money the corporation will receive in fiscal year 1978.

The national rail passenger corporation said that as a starter it is recommending that its board of directors discontinue the Floridian between Chicago and Florida. The corporation earlier had asked Congress for $56.5 million in supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year. While awaiting congressional action, Amtrak announced plans to cancel several trains, including 22 of the 120 operated daily in the busy northeast corridor serving Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The conferees agreed on giving Amtrak only an extra $8 million and instructed the corporation to call off the planned cancellations, most of which were to have gone into effect last Sunday. They also directed Amtrak to operate within its new total budget of $496.5 million.

Amtrak said in its letter that its alternative was to speed up a process already underway of identifying entire routes to be abandoned or restructured.

To accelerate the process, estimated to take about six months, Amtrak said the examinations would be done without public hearings.

"Services costing approximately $60 million to $65 million on an annual basis must be selected for discontinuation," the letter stated.

"If we were not to take these cost-saving actions — and the process must be initiated immediately — then Amtrak would face a severe funding crisis in July or August next year," it said. "At that time, if the requisite savings have not been programmed, the only remaining option would be to shut down the entire system, including northeast corridor operations in their entirety."

Amtrak, which has held extensive public hearings on the Floridian, said it will recommend to its board next Wednesday that the train be cancelled. If the directors go along, the route would be dropped in 30 days.

The Floridian operates between Chicago and both coasts of Florida, via Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery. Officials estimate annual losses on the route of $9.6 million.

Winterville Bd. Okays Requests

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board Monday approved a request for an auto brokerage office to be located on Boyd Street.

The request was made by Morris Cannon and the office will be on the Zeno Carmon Heirs property.

The Board also approved a request by W.E. Briley to build a multi-apartment complex on the W.A. Smith Heirs property.

In other business, the Board accepted an audit report for the year, ending June 30. The report was presented at last month's meeting and held over for further study.

The Town Board also approved final payment on the water tank, deep well, and distribution line project.

Total amount of the project is approximately $328,343. Final payment will be disbursed as $3,817 to the engineers, $1,750 to the attorney, $200 for the auditors, and $16,075 to the well contractors.

Money for the project was obtained from a $220,000 bond sale, government, a grant of $40,000, $5,906.60 interest during construction, and $8,852 from the town for additional costs.

In further action, the Board approved to pay out a revenue sharing account of $2,747.50 for interest on sewer bonds.

Wayne Harris, a representative of Mid-East, presented to the Board a proposal to furnish a town advisor who would administer to the town's needs two days a week for $300 the first five months. The advisor would work in Griffon two days, Winterville two days, and Fountain one day a week. The Board took no action on the proposal, allowing for further study.

Town officials also approved the M.H. Craft Subdivision, section one, which includes four lots. The subdivision is located on East Cooper Street.

Lynn Hunsucker, a representative of the Winterville Chamber of Commerce, made the following requests of the Board:

— That they request Seaboard Coastline Railroad to construct two crosswalks on North Railroad Street.

— That the town paint pedestrian crossings at certain intersections in town.

— That the street between East Cooper Street and East Main Street be widened and curbed to enable more parking.

The Board took no action on her requests.

Police List 2 Accidents

An estimated $1,800 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 3:05 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive near the Pine Street intersection involving cars driven by Ronald Kay Parker of Farmville and Ned Vall Kinsaul of Route 1, Greenville.

Police, who charged Kinsaul with having improper brakes, estimated damage at $600 to the Parker vehicle and $400 to the Kinsaul car.

Drivers involved in a 4:32 p.m. on Tenth Street, 148 feet East of the Monroe Street intersection were identified as Mark Wayne Grady of Cedar Lane Apts. and Kathleen Levering Milward of 1205 South Wright Rd.

Damage was estimated at $550 to the Grady car and $250 to the Milward van.

Cite Abuse Of Migrants

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Witnesses in the trial of five migrant worker crew bosses testified Thursday that workers in Johnston County last year were detained in their camp and crew bosses withheld their wages.

The testimony came in the trial of Lee Henry Smith, Lee Willie Smith, James Glenn Smith and Mayhue Smith Jr., all brothers from Florida, and an associate, Lacey Bankston of Arkansas.

All are charged in 23-count indictments with conspiring to "injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate citizens of the United States."

Lee Willie, James and Mayhue Smith allegedly recruited migrant workers and took them to Johnston County to work for Lee Henry Smith, detaining them in their camps.

Migrant worker Heyward Franks was among witnesses against the five. He said he helped to harvest tobacco and potatoes in Johnston County, starting work about 6 a.m. and returning to the camp late in the afternoon.

At pay time, he said, a crew boss would tell him that he owed money which had been taken from his pay.

Other witnesses said they saw a laborer beaten with a belt until his back bled after he ran away from a camp and was returned.

 Opening lead: Seven of ♣.

There is sometimes a very fine line between making and losing a contract, and the successful declarers do everything in their power to enhance their prospects. Consider this hand from the first leg of this year's Philip Morris European Cup competition.

Because of his void in his partner's suit, North elected to devalue his hand. He opted for a two club response in order to facilitate showing his hearts at a low level should South have a second suit of diamonds. But when South bid hearts, North chose to leap to game, and South made the value bid of six hearts because of his fine controls.

Looking at a possible trump trick, there is much to recommend the ace of diamonds as the opening lead. However, West, fearing that the lead of an ace would tip off his trump holding, settled on a club, and lived to regret it.

Declarer played low from dummy at trick one and captured the jack with the ace. Now he made the key move—he ruffed a spade in dummy! The king of trumps followed by the ace brought the bad news that there was a trump loser, but declarer was a move ahead in the game—he had developed an extra chance for himself.

Declarer ruffed another spade in dummy and now had to cross back to his hand. He had no alternative but to try a low club to his nine. His prospects brightened when West followed to this trick. The ace and king of spades were cashed for two diamond discards, and when both opponents followed, the slam was home.

Declarer's fifth spade was now established and provided a convenient parking place for dummy's last diamond. Whether or not West ruffed this trick was immaterial—the queen of trumps was the only trick the defenders could score.

'The Godfather' In Rating Fight

By JAY SHARBUTT
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) —

From Monday through Wednesday this week, ABC and NBC each explained TV ratings on their evening newscasts. This weekend, they'll show how hard they fight for those numbers.

ABC is rerunning two films that had sky-high ratings their first time on the tube — "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" on Saturday, and "The Poseidon Adventure" on Sunday.

ABC's aim is to cut into the huge audience NBC hopes will tune in — from Saturday through Tuesday — for something that reportedly cost NBC nearly $10 million for a one-time showing.

That something, to fill nine hours, is Francis Coppola's "The Godfather," (an NBC ratings hit in 1974), his unaired "Godfather, Part II," and scenes he originally edited from the films.

The whole kaboodle traces the development of a New York Mafia family from 1918 through the 1950s, although "Godfather" buffs will recall the original chronicle wasn't in chronological order.

Put Raleigh In Headlines

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Raleigh's new mayor has put this modest-sized city on the media map for a week.

Isabella W. Cannon, the diminutive retired librarian who topped an incumbent mayor who had the backing of the business establishment, has been the focus of attention from most of the world's major news organizations.

In addition to the state's major newspapers and the wire services, the Washington Post, the New York Times, Atlanta Constitution, Chicago Tribune and Philadelphia Inquirer reported her victory.

Time, Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report are planning reports for next week's editions and Mrs. Cannon has been featured in reports by ABC and CBS news and CBS plans a profile.

Even the Scottish Daily Record of Glasgow, Scotland, called Thursday. Mrs. Cannon moved from Dumfermline, Scotland to North Carolina in 1916.

Mrs. Cannon hasn't had time to have grasped more than a little of what her duties will be in her new office, but she had to be ready at her first news conference Thursday to answer the question office holders are always asked:

Does she plan to seek reelection in 1979?

"I'm not sure whether it would be that or something else," she said with a laugh. "There has never been a woman governor."

Hostage Son Is Released

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A man who had held his young son hostage since mid-afternoon Thursday released the child unharmed this morning but refused to come out of his home as officers stood watch outside, a police spokesman said.

Brad Pritchard, Washington community services officer, said Joe S. Thurman picked up his son Billy, 9, at school Thursday and went to his home, where he called his estranged wife.

She, in turn, called the sheriff's office, Pritchard said, setting in motion the hostage-standoff in a residential area about 3 p.m. Pritchard said he did not know the nature of the domestic problem.

Law enforcement officers including city police, Beaufort County sheriff's deputies and special tactical unit agents of the SBI blocked off the street where the Thurman house is located.

Thurman demanded that his wife be brought to him, Pritchard said, in exchange for the boy. However, the lad was released about 9:30 a.m., Pritchard added, while Thurman's wife remained in seclusion.

Pritchard said there was no immediate explanation for the boy's release.

"We're keeping watch on the situation and trying to smooth matters over," Pritchard said. "Negotiations are continuing."

Value Of N.C. Emerald Rises

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Wayne Anthony found it in 1970 and sold it for $700. Now it's worth well over $100,000 and sits in a display window at Tiffany & Co.'s Fifth Avenue entrance in New York.

Anthony's find was the 13.14 carat "Carolina Emerald," a stone unmatched for size or beauty among cut emeralds mined in North Carolina, says Tiffany's, which ought to know.

Anthony's haste for a quick sale deprived him of big money for his discovery, but he has enjoyed some of the fruits of his labor with expense-paid trips to New York and Tiffany branches in other cities to appear with the stone and talk about how he found it.

It was about noon, as Anthony recalls it, when he arrived at the Rist Mine in Hiddenite, not far from his home in Lincoln.

Surviving her are a foster daughter, Mrs. Bettie Smith of Dahlgren, Va.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Moore of Scotland Neck, six brothers, Lee Smith of Scotland Neck, Richard Smith of Capland, Va., James Otis Smith of Greenville, Carl Allen Smith of Norfolk, Va., and Luther and Ben Edward Smith, both of New York City; and two foster grandchildren.

HEW Claims...

The letter accompanied a detailed analysis by HEW of UNC's court order desegregation plan sent to federal officials in August.

The plan said UNC officials have refused to "give priority consideration to placing new programs" at the state's five traditionally black institutions.

The board of governors took no action on HEW's letter. But board members plan to come up with a response by their next meeting in December.

That would allow little time for negotiations between UNC and HEW officials. Under a court order, HEW must either accept or refuse the state's desegregation guidelines by the end of the year.

Friday said he will stand by the university desegregation plan, which outlines a 33 percent increase in black enrollment at predominately white institutions over the next four years.

He said that plan "is a legally and educationally sound response to the commitment to work for the elimination of racial dualism." Friday said the white institutions reported an increased enrollment of 165 black students this fall.

"I regard this as significant progress, and as evidence of a good faith effort on the part of these institutions to seek further integration of their student body," Friday said.

"But this falls far short of the rate of increase that would be needed to reach the 150 percent goal."

Bucs Chase Bowl Bid Against Indians

Halfback Willie Hawkins

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Despite the fact that William & Mary has only a 4-5 record, East Carolina Coach Pat Dye is "deeply concerned" about the outcome of the two teams' meeting Saturday in Norfolk's Oyster Bowl game.

outplayed us for nearly 60 minutes," Dye said of that game. "They had 333 yards in total offense to our 278. And they had 22 first downs to our 14. They dominated the game. It was the lowest total offense we had during the year, and they had the most we gave up. They could of, or should of, won the game, and I'm sure that has to be a tremendous motivational factor for them this year. And I'm not sure that our team realizes that we have to overcome this edge."

Dye called the Indian quarterback, Tom Rozantz, a "great player," and labeled his backup, Kevin Odor, as just as good. "They have excellent receivers in Joe Manderfield and Gray Oliver, too."

rusher with 609 yards. Keith Fimian is next with 361, while Rozantz has run for 283. Overall, the Indians are rushing for 208.1 yards a game, and passing for 134.2.

intercepted. Fullback Theodore Sutton is the top rusher with 657 yards, while quarterback Leander Green has 547. Southerland has rushed for 364, while Eddie Hicks has picked up 286 and Willie Hawkins, 272.

Sutton Took His Opportunity

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

When practice opened in the fall, Kinston sophomore Theodore Sutton was listed as the second-string fullback. He had turned in a good spring, but was still listed behind senior Vince Kolanko.

But early in the practices, Kolanko was injured, and that moved Sutton up. He took advantage of the opportunity, and has never given it up.

Right now, after ten games, Sutton is the top ground gainer for the Pirates, having picked up 657 yards. And he holds a fine 6.0 per carry average.

"I dressed out for the home games and two of the road games last year," Sutton recalled. "But standing around on the sidelines is nothing compared to playing."

During the off-season, Sutton worked hard and has increased his speed. He's also done a little growing and has gotten stronger. "When I played in high school, I weighed about 185. Now, I'm playing at about 200. A lot of people passed me up because of my size, but I thought I could play."

The big back said that he didn't get discouraged by the lack of offers. Nor did he get discouraged his freshman year when he joined the walk-ons at East Carolina.

"I had already applied and been accepted at East Carolina," Sutton said of his decision. "I had talked to Coach (Pat) Dye, and he was the only one who gave me any encouragement."

Sutton had also been accepted at North Carolina and N.C. State, and had talked with coaches from State and Wake Forest.

"It all kind of made me more determined to play. I really didn't know about the history of walk-ons at East Carolina, but I knew about the wishbone and I was a wishbone fullback in high school."

In his first game for the Pirates, against N.C. State this fall, Sutton was one of the more surprising backs, blasting yardage out of the middle of the line. "I think State really expected us to go outside more. The linebackers are starting to stay inside to guard against me now, and that's helping the outside game more."

One reporter noted that last year, William & Mary said it was willing to give up the fullback runs to stop the outside game, but that strategy would not hold up this year.

"People always have to be conscious of our outside game," Sutton said. "They just can't defend everything."

While Sutton said that he has always had good balance, he's improved the strength in his legs to help him break tackles. On a number of occasions this fall, it has appeared that he has been stopped, only to break away for extra yardage.

He also feels that hitting the hole quickly is one of his strongest assets. "I try to read what the nose guard is going to do." He noted that only South Carolina has been able to bottle him up completely.

Sutton, who said he never thought about leaving North Carolina to go to school, feels that the current bowl talk will help the Pirates get ready for William & Mary this Saturday. "A lot of the guys haven't been home in a long time, and this is the time of year that they start thinking about that. That's probably one reason Coach Dye said that we haven't practiced well early in the week."

"But this game means a lot to our bowl chances, and I'm pretty sure that come Saturday, we'll be ready."

Sutton was also asked how Dye approached him as a walk-on. "He told me that I would have the opportunity, the same opportunity as anyone else to play."

Obviously, Sutton has made good on that opportunity.

Lady Pirates Knocked Out

DURHAM — East Carolina University's volleyball team, seeded fourth in the NCAAIAW Tournament at Duke University, was ousted from the field after just two matches yesterday.

round of play. Appalachian won the first two matches, 15-9 and 15-5, before the Pirates took a 15-7 win. ASU then clinched it with a 15-4 win in the fourth game.

In the losers' bracket of the double elimination event, the Lady Pirates then lost to the University of North Carolina, again by a 3-1 score. The Lady Bucs won the first, 15-8, but Carolina came back to take the next three, 16-14, 16-14 and 15-5.

The twin losses ended the year for the Lady Pirates at 17-13, but still gave them their first winning season in several years. Coach Alita Dillon said she was pleased with the record but disappointed in the Lady Pirates' inability to win any matches in the state tournament.

Mack, Carr Lead Workout

By WOODY PEELE

HOLLYWOOD — East Carolina University basketball went on display last night, and the Pirates of 1977-78 put on a show worth seeing.

By the time it was all over, the Purple team had gained a 135-121 victory over the White, but Coach Larry Gillman was more interested in how the game was played and what the reaction of the crowd gathered in the D.H. Conley gymnasium was.

"What do you think the people thought of us?" he asked afterwards. "You think they liked what they saw?"

Gillman heaped praise on his All-America candidate Oliver Mack. "It looks like he's consistent," he said after seeing Mack pour through 55 points in the game. "He's been in the fifties in all three of our scrimmages so far."

Mack, playing on the White team, sparked a comeback early in the second half that turned a six-point deficit into a six-point lead, but the Purple was able to fight back at the foul line to regain the lead and hold it.

"We're going to be a team of spurts," Gillman said. "I don't think many teams can keep up with us. We've got a lot of offense."

Gillman added that he felt that Greg Cornelius was "too eager to please" in the game, and this hurt him. "He will be okay," the coach added.

Roger Carr was termed a "great athlete," and compared to Wake Forest's Rod Griffin. "A lot of people missed the boat in not trying to recruit him. But he's still a freshman. This was his first good night, while (Walter) Moseley and (Bernard) Hill didn't do as well. They each had good games in the other scrimmages, however."

Herb Krusen is "starting to learn to play the game like I want it played," Gillman added. And Don Whitaker "continues to run the offense well. He uses his head and handles the pressure. Jim Ramsey's defense is improving by his having to guard Mack. He's trying to play Mack with intelligence."

Mack ended the scrimmage with a game high 55 points, hitting 26 of 33 shots. He added three free throws. He got only three rebounds, and Gillman said he wants this to improve.

Herb Gray, who did not get the ball much in the second half, finished with 24 points and 17 rebounds, tops in the game. Kyle Powers with 17 second half points, ended up with 22 points.

The White team hit 56 of 94 shots from the floor for 59.6 per cent, and nine of 17 from the line for 52.9 per cent.

For the Purple, Carr was the leader, hitting 17 of 26 shots from the floor and 11 of 15 from the line for 45 points. He added 14 rebounds. Krusen picked up 17 of 21 field goals and added four free throws in as many attempts for 38 points.

Hill had 22 points, Ramsey had 16 and Whitaker had 14.

The Purple hit 54 of 82 shots for 65.9 per cent, and made 27 of 32 free throws, 84.4 per cent.

Adding to the White total were Cornelius with 14 points and Moseley with six.

The overall totals for the Pirates were 110 of 176 from the floor, for 63.0 per cent; and 36 of 49 from the floor, 73.5 per cent.

"Everyone but Cornelius played the full 40 minutes, and this will help us," Gillman said. "Some of them got a little tired, and we need to work more on conditioning. But I think everyone has adapted well to my style of play, and I have to be pleased with things at this point."

The Pirates go back on public display on Tuesday at Washington in another scrimmage at 7:30 p.m.

intercepted. East Carolina's defenders had stolen 16 interceptions, but have played one more game.

Jimmy Southerland is the top passer, hitting 42 of 74 passes for 742 yards. He's had just three interceptions. Fullback Theodore Sutton is the top rusher with 657 yards, while quarterback Leander Green has 547. Southerland has rushed for 364, while Eddie Hicks has picked up 286 and Willie Hawkins, 272.

The game winds up the regular season for the Pirates, who now stand 8-2. They still are in the running for a bowl game, with the Peach Bowl expected to scout them Saturday. The Tangerine and Independence Bowls are also believed to be looking at the Pirates as a possible selection.

The Indians will have one more game left after Saturday as they take on Richmond in their season closer.

We're down to the end part of the football season, and our panel of experts are still hanging in there almost neck-and-neck for this year's title.

Only this week, next week and the bowl roundup are still to come, and only three games separate first and last place.

There wasn't a lot of movement on last week's poll, although the guests dropped back some and Jim Kyle moved up a little.

Our guests have dropped back into a tie for first with Tom Baines. Both had 78-34-2 records. Vickie Spivey and Joe Jenkins are next with 77-35-2 marks, while Kyle has taken the next spot at 76-36-2. We are next with 75-37-2.

This week, there could be further changes.

Our guest picker this week is Ken Smith, Sports Information Director at East Carolina University, and he pleads ignorance of anyone but the Pirates.

We are looking at three local games this week on the panel, since the entire group is picking the Roanoke-Camp Lejeune and the Farmville Central-Plymouth games. Of course, there is also the ECU-William & Mary meeting in the Oyster Bowl in Norfolk.

First off, we turn to the Pirate game. Right down the line, there is a solid vote for the Pirates. East Carolina needs a victory to keep its bowl hopes alive, and the Indians, whom Dye says can be very dangerous, will be after revenge for the loss they sustained last year, when they felt they should have won.

It should be quite a game, but we go with the Pirates.

In the two high school playoffs, there is no divergence either. The panel has faith in both Farmville Central and Roanoke, giving both teams a solid 6-0 vote.

After that, there are a few differences, but our consensus on the rest has State and Duke, a tossup; Carolina over Virginia; Georgia over Auburn; Tennessee over Mississippi; Notre Dame over Clemson; Maryland over Richmond; South Carolina over Wake Forest; Arizona State over Brigham Young; and West Virginia over Virginia Tech.

The full poll:

North Carolina Seeks To Wrap Up Atlantic Coast Championship

By The Associated Press

North Carolina can't afford a slip this week in the Tar Heels' clash with Virginia. Anything less than a tie will mean sharing the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown with Clemson.

The Tigers have closed out their conference season at a 4-1-1. Carolina still stands at 3-0-1, and a blemish-free record will mean the title. The Tar Heels still face must face Duke.

The other conference tilt this week is the Blue Devils' match with North Carolina State. The Wolfpack opened the season a week earlier than the other ACC teams and this week's contest will be their last this year.

The Pack will be vying for a 7-4 finish and some bowl attention, the same goals that will be motivating Duke.

The games:

North Carolina at Virginia
Scott Stadium, 1:30 p.m.
Charlottesville, Va.

This is the big one this week. The Heels must have at least a tie, and Virginia has nothing to lose. Carolina has four starters, including quarterback Matt Kucpec, questionable for Saturday. The Cavaliers are 1-7-1 on the season and can't seem to get their offense going, but Carolina has been mauled in Charlottesville before and Coach Bill Dooley isn't saying it's going to be easy — even though it may be.

Notre Dame at Clemson
Clemson Memorial Stadium,
1 p.m. Clemson, S.C.

This is the first time these two nationally-ranked teams have met and the bowl scouts will be there along with the rest of the overflow crowd. The Irish are ranked fifth in the nation and Clemson stands at 15th. Clemson is coming off a frustrating 13-13 tie with Carolina that might have spelled the end of the Tigers' conference title hopes. Notre Dame was at its peak last week as the Irish crushed Georgia Tech, 69-14. Tiger Coach Charley Pell calls the Fighting Irish "an awesome power...in contention for the national championship."

Richmond, Va.
The Terps are out of the running for the ACC title they have won for the past three years in a row, but they showed they've still got some of the old stuff last week with a 19-13 victory over Villanova. The Spiders are only 3-6 on the season, but they beat tough Furman 19-13 last week and they are not to be discounted.

N.C. State at Duke
Wallace Wade Stadium, 1:30 p.m.
Durham, N.C.

These two clubs have both had respectable seasons and still have something to lose, even though neither is a conference title contender. Duke, at 5-4, could finish at 7-4 with bowl aspirations if they can polish off the Pack and then upset Carolina in the last game of the season. The Wolfpack is now 6-4 and can end up with the same 7-4 if they can beat the Blue Devils. Running back Ted Brown of the Pack and Duke quarterback Mike Dunn are both crowd pleasers. The game may be the weekend's best.

Hot Shots Win Title

The Hot Shots defeated the Diplomats in a marathon game yesterday for the City championship in the Greenville Parks and Recreation Department league, 3-2.

Neither team scored during the regulation time, and neither could score during two overtime periods. Finally, in a sudden death penalty kick situation, the Hot Shots finally pulled out the win.

Robert White and David Lee each put in goals for the Diplomats, but they were matched by Jay Wynne and Lee Lewis of the Hot Shots. Finally, Chris Meeks hit for the Hot Shots, and the Diplomats missed on their chance.

European Soccer Stars Admit They Enjoy American Football

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
Two of Europe's most famous soccer stars, now opening new frontiers in America, enjoy Yankee-style football. But both acknowledge they are confused by all those little conferences that take place on the field.

"They take up so much time," said Giorgio Chinaglia of Italy, veteran of the 1974 World Cup and, as a member of the Cosmos, the leading scorer in the North American Soccer League last season.

"Every time you look up they are standing there with their arms around each other talking very seriously about something or other. So different from our game. Soccer is the only game in the world that is 90 minutes non-stop — no time outs."

"Those little gab sessions on the field before every play, they confuse me, too," added Gordon Banks of England, regarded as one of the greatest goalkeepers of all time who came out of retirement at age 37 to play with the NASL's Ft. Lauderdale Strikers. "I suppose they are necessary. But they do slow up the tempo of the game."

Huddles aren't the only feature of America's favorite autumn sport that dazzles these two stars of a 2,000-year-old sport that suddenly is finding a foothold on the American continent. They are astounded at the size of the players and the brutality of the action.

"It is not unlike a miniature war," said Chinaglia. "It involves movement of troops toward a given target, strategy, generalship, possession of territory."

"But I think it's the violence of it that fascinates the fans. I like it. But it has no relation whatever to soccer. It is like trying to compare apples with oranges."

Banks agreed. "I am an avid football fan myself," said the leathery little veteran from Sheffield, England. "Gridiron football is played with the body and hands. Our game is played with the feet and head."

together in New York this week to help promote the World Cup soccer elimination match between England and Italy next Wednesday in London's Wembley Stadium. It will be beamed live to closed-circuit theaters in major cities of the United States and Canada.

Tickets at $12.50 each will be sold to patrons in New York's Madison Square Garden as well as fans in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Hartford, Conn., and Washington, plus five cities in Canada — Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and Vancouver.

"This is proof of how fast soccer has grown in this country," said Banks. "Everywhere I go, in small towns and big ones, I see small kids on the streets and in the vacant lots kicking soccer balls around."

"I think the United States will be able to field a World Cup class soccer team in five years."

"Big-time soccer isn't coming to the United States, it is already here," added Chinaglia.

White Leaves Boston Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — Veteran guard Jo Jo White apparently has quit the sagging Boston Celtics and is waiting for general manager and president Red Auerbach to make the next move.

White didn't show for practice Thursday and says he will not dress for tonight's game at the Garden against Buffalo.

"I realize I'm jeopardizing my career," White told The Boston Herald American, "but I felt a drastic action was necessary to jolt the team. Something has to be done to snap the team out of the slump. Maybe my quitting will help turn things around."

However, Celtics vice president Jeff Cohen said he assumes White will be in the lineup tonight. "We have not received any official notice from White and we will have no comment until we do. All we know now is that he missed practice and will be fined," Cohen said.

The Celtics are off to the worst start in their 32-year National Basketball Association history, winning just one out of nine games.

Three Pitchers Signed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three rookie pitchers are in the fold for the 1978 baseball season after signing one-year contracts with the Cincinnati Reds.

Paul Moskau, Doug Capilla and Tom Hume all joined the Reds in mid-June of last season. Manager Sparky Anderson said he wanted to give the young hurlers major league experience.

Moskau, 23, compiled a 6-6 record with an earned run average of 4.00 after coming up from Indianapolis.

Hume, 24, who came up twice, was 3-3 with a 7.12 ERA.

Capilla, 25, who came from St. Louis in the trade for Rawly Eastwick, was 7-8 with a 4.25 ERA.

Drew Sparks Atlanta Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Atlanta's John Drew has been resting his injured leg and it really hurt the Houston Rockets.

"Drew had a legitimate injury," Atlanta Hawks Coach Hubie Brown said. "He hasn't been practicing much to let his leg heal."

So Drew and Ollie Johnson scored 22 points each to pace Atlanta to a 132-101 National Basketball Association rout of Houston Thursday night and give the Hawks a sparkling 8-1 record, best in the NBA.

Drew showed no signs of his injury when he popped in four baskets early in the third period to widen Atlanta's lead after Houston had pulled to within four points at 55-51 late in the second quarter.

In other NBA games Thursday, the Milwaukee Bucks edged the Washington Bullets 106-103 and the Phoenix Suns crushed the New Orleans Jazz 127-111.

Houston jumped out front 4-0 before Atlanta ripped off 26 of the game's next 30 points, grabbing a 26-8 margin. It was the Hawks' seventh straight victory, matching its longest streak since November 1969.

Moses Malone paced Houston with 27 points.

Bucks 106, Bullets 103
A free throw by Dave Meyers with five seconds left in the game snapped a tie and Junior Bridgeman added two more free throws at the final buzzer as Milwaukee nipped Washington.

The Bullets had two chances to win in the final seconds but Elvin Hayes fouled Meyers twice, the second time costing Washington possession of the ball. Meyers finished with 24 points, as did Brian Winters, to pace the Bucks. Bob Dandridge led the Bullets with 25 points.

Suns 127, Jazz 111
Alvan Adams scored a season-high 35 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to pace Phoenix' victory over New Orleans. The Jazz' Pete Maravich led all scorers with 39 points.

New Orleans narrowed the Suns' lead to 99-90 early in the fourth period, but Phoenix went on an 18-point spree to put the game out of reach.

Tampa Bay Gets Nod For Its First Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It is, let us say, an act of charity, performed with a hand covering the mouth to keep the smirk from escalating to giggles and thence to guffaws.

Here we stand, in the ninth week of Tampa Bay's second season, the 23rd game in all. And still the Buccaneers are, to use a horse racing expression, maidens, without a victory—without so much as a tie—to look back upon.

Looking ahead they see, in the final five weeks of the season, Detroit, Atlanta, Chicago, New Orleans and St. Louis—all of them reasonably formidable foes.

Thus, if the Bucs are to avoid a second season of absolute humiliation, a victory must be achieved this Sunday against one of the few National Football League teams with an ineptitude in Tampa Bay's range.

Welcome, New York Giants. It is, to be sure, an Upset Special of mammoth proportions, considering the Bucs have scored touchdowns in only three games this season and have been blanked in three others. And coming on the heels of last week's horrendous 7-7 mark that put the season record at 77-35 for a .688 percentage, it is a selection to be regarded only lightly at best.

Bucs 16, Giants 14

For New York, it is a trip from the sublime to the ridiculous. Having lost to Dallas, and having an offense resembling Abbott & Costello Meet The Keystone Kops, the Giants loom as the team most likely to be remembered as the one that got Tampa Bay out of the starting gate.

Cowboys 31, Cardinals 21

It appears Dallas has an excellent chance to enter the playoffs with a perfect record. St. Louis won't mar that mark this week, even though it will live up Monday night with some electrifying moments.

Raiders 24, Oilers 13

Oakland and Houston have beaten each other by one-point margins the past two seasons. It won't be that close this time. The Raiders are first in offense in the American Conference. The Oilers are last.

Colts 28, Bills 14

Buffalo would love to see Roland get his Hooks into Baltimore the way he did to the Patriots last week. But the Colts' defense will get its hooks into almost everything the Bills try.

Steelers 24, Browns 17

Cleveland never has won in Three Rivers Stadium. And the Browns are showing signs of fading. The Steelers certainly haven't been world-beaters the past two weeks. They've been self-beaters. That's about to change.

Jets 30, Seahawks 17

Seeing Seattle's defense (of which there is none) will do wonders for the confidence of Marty Domres, New York's temporary starting quarterback.

Broncos 20, Chargers 9

San Diego went without a point in its two games against Denver a year ago. Not this time—but the outcome will be the same.

Dolphins 23, Patriots 20

It's tough to figure New England. The Pats can look so good one week, so bad the next. We'll stick with Miami's consistency.

Bears 24, Chiefs 16

Neither team can stop the other, but at least Chicago has more to stop. It's back to reality for Kansas City's Tom Bettis.

Lions 14, Falcons 7

Detroit literally gets its show on the road. We've given up on Atlanta's offense—if it ever really had one.

Vikings 20, Bengals 17

Minnesota's main goal will be to wipe away the memory of last week's shellacking by St. Louis.

Eagles 20, Redskins 17

Washington's main goal after being so up and coming so close in Baltimore.

Rams 24, Packers 13

Los Angeles is shifting into playoff gear ...

Oilers 21, Saints 10

... and New Orleans is stuck in reverse.

Greenville Wins Title

ROCKY MOUNT — Greenville's women's tennis team captured the West Section championship in the Eastern Carolina Tennis Association with a 5-4 win over Rocky Mount Wednesday.

The victory left Greenville unbeaten in the league with one match left, with Goldsboro next week. Following that match, a playoff for the league championship with the East winner will be scheduled.

Greenville and Rocky Mount split the singles, each winning three. But Greenville won the first two doubles events to wrap up the win.

Payton Headed Toward Chicago Bear Record

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Walter Payton, 180 yards ahead of his nearest challenger (Oakland's Mark van Eeghen) for the National Football League's rushing title, stands just 63 yards from a feat never achieved by a Chicago Bears player.

In the club's storied 58 years, not even five Hall of Fame running backs ever have gained 1,000 yards in successive seasons for Chicago. It seems almost certain that Sunday, before a sellout crowd at "Payton Place," Chicago's Soldier Field, the young heir-apparent to O.J. Simpson's title as the NFL's premier runner will do something not even the great Gale Sayers could accomplish.

But to do so, he will have to do it with a team rattled by a 47-0 drubbing in Houston a week ago—and against a fired-up collection of Kansas City Chiefs, riding the emotional high of a 20-0 victory over Green Bay in Tom Bettis' mid-season head coaching debut.

In Sunday's other NFL games, it will be Baltimore at Buffalo, New England at Miami, Cleveland at Pittsburgh, Detroit at Atlanta, the New York Giants at Tampa Bay, Seattle at the New York Jets, Washington at Philadelphia, San Francisco at New Orleans, Los Angeles against Green Bay at Milwaukee, Denver at San Diego, Houston at Oakland and Cincinnati at Minnesota. Monday night's game is St. Louis at Dallas.

Payton has 3,006 yards in his 2 1/2 years in the NFL, 1,390 of them last year when he finished second to Simpson in the ground gaining race, and 937 this year.

Far more important than his individual record, though, is the Bears' record, 3-5 in the National Conference Central Division, one game behind Detroit and two back of Minnesota, next week's opponent.

Buffalo, which shocked New England a week ago with the help of Roland Hooks' 155 yards rushing, hopes to spring another surprise against the Colts, who had to struggle to beat Washington last Monday night. Meanwhile, the Patriots need a victory to pull even with Miami in the runnerup spot behind Baltimore in the American Conference East.

Coach Named

OAKLAND (AP) — Former all-star goalkeeper Mirko Stojanovic has been named as coach of the new Oakland Stompers team in the North American Soccer League.

Stojanovic, 38, holds NASL records for fewest career goals-against and for single season goals-against average. He played for the Dallas Tornado, Oakland Clippers and San Jose Earthquakes.

Also Thursday, Stompers' owner Milan Mandaric signed a 10-year lease for the Stompers to play home games in the Oakland Coliseum.

No Solution In Geneva Trade Negotiations

Editor's Note: Negotiators from nearly 100 countries have been meeting around a conference table in Geneva for three years in search of a solution to the world trade imbalance. This last in a three-part series outlines what the Carter administration hopes to accomplish.

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is counting on finding solutions to America's serious trade problems at a conference table in Geneva where three years of negotiations have had little result so far.

"Not a damn thing that amounts to a hill of beans has been accomplished in the last three years, and it's time to get on with it," says Robert S. Strauss, President Carter's chief trade negotiator.

Representatives from 97 countries have been negotiating in Geneva since 1974 on a new world trade agreement to lower tariffs and other trade barriers. Several deadlines have been pushed back, and the new one is 1978.

By one estimate, U.S. trade with Europe could grow from $40 billion now to $100 billion in 10 years, which translates into a lot new jobs and production.

The Geneva negotiations are part of the administration's long-run strategy to help erase the nation's huge trade deficits and to stem the loss of production and jobs to other nations. Another part is to enact an energy program that will reduce reliance on imported oil.

The short-run strategy has been to do as little as possible, and hope that economies of other nations will grow in strength and increase the demand for U.S. products. So far, this part of the strategy has not worked very well.

The administration has been forced by pressures from some well-organized unions and industry to give short-term help in the form of temporary import quotas, notably for shoes and color television sets.

In response to pressure for help from the domestic steel industry and its unions, the administration also is stepping up enforcement of its trade laws, which could result in the assessment of punitive tariffs on imported steel.

The 500,000-member Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union is seeking similar action against imports of apparel and textiles from eight Latin American and Asian nations, alleging that unfairly low prices are costing thousands of American jobs.

Tariffs, which are a fee levied against imports, already exist for most goods imported into the United States, including steel and television sets. Quotas, which limit the quantity of a product that may be imported, are used less frequently but are common.

In the case of steel and television sets, however, the existing protection has not kept American industry from feeling serious competitive pressures, and so there are demands for even tighter restrictions.

The administration is reluctant to resort to trade restrictions because of concern it would invite retaliation by the nation's trading partners against U.S. exports.

"Protectionism is just as strong in Europe and Japan as it is in this country," Strauss said in an interview. If nations begin raising barriers against trade with one another, he said, there could be a "return to the dark ages of world trade" that accompanied the Great Depression.

But Strauss indicated that unless a trade agreement is reached at Geneva that is "fair, balanced and substantive," Carter might be unable to resist the growing domestic pressures for drastic measures to bar imports.

"We have a reasonably good chance of completing negotiations before the end of 1978," Strauss said. "If we fail to complete it, we will go backward dramatically in our trade relations."

Strauss denied he was using the possibility of U.S. trade barriers as a threat to pressure other nations into reaching an agreement. "We are not using a club, but we are using the persuasion of this nation," he said.

U.S. participation in the Geneva negotiations was authorized by Congress in the 1974 Trade Act. The talks were formally opened in Tokyo, and so are known as the Tokyo Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — GATT.

The GATT is a Geneva-based international trade organization established in 1947.

A major aim of the Geneva negotiations is to slash tariffs across the board. Congress has approved tariff reductions of up to 60 percent, but European countries have favored a smaller reduction.

The negotiators are now discussing a compromise Swiss proposal for a 44 percent cut in tariffs. Alonzo L. McDonald, Strauss' chief deputy at Geneva, says the final cut is more likely to be 40 percent. That would be an average reduction, with some cuts of up to 60 percent and others less than 40, he added.

The United States also wants a reduction in non-tariff barriers, which McDonald said are just as important to the success of a new trade agreement as a reduction in tariffs.

Such barriers include subsidies a government gives to its exports, such as the refund of domestic taxes that European governments give to producers on goods for export. The United States has its own tax-incentive export program.

There would be carefully listed exceptions to the reduction in tariffs. McDonald said one of these is likely to be for employment-intensive U.S. textile manufacturers.

"We have to be hypersensitive to employment statistics," he said. In some cases, the changes that are agreed to would be intended to take effect later on, rather than at once, when economic conditions have changed.

One major U.S. goal in the trade negotiations is to win greater access for farm products, especially grains, in the European Common Market, and for beef and citrus in Japan. It also is seeking removal of licensing restrictions that impede exports of sophisticated goods such as computers, transistors and aircraft.

McDonald said the government has given up on trying to obtain a general lowering of tariffs and barriers to U.S. farm goods but is optimistic about winning concessions for individual products. U.S. negotiators have asked for lowering of various trade barriers against 1,000 products, most of them agricultural.

Strauss said most Americans have the mistaken belief that restricting trade solves problems. "People don't understand ... it sounds simple to say keep out foreign imports because they cost American jobs," he said.

Strauss noted that one of every six U.S. manufacturing jobs is supported by exports, and that except for the nation's oil imports and trade with Japan, America actually has a surplus in its trade with most nations.

One example illustrates the problem. Although Japan shipped $2.1 billion in steel to the United States last year, it imported about $1 billion in U.S. coal, which is used to fire its steel industry. Reduce one, and you also reduce the other.

The United States does hope, however, to separately reduce its trade deficit with Japan, which totaled $5 billion for the first eight months of this year. The recent increase in the value of the Japanese yen to an all-time high against the dollar is expected to help. The change has been encouraged by the United States.

A major stumbling block to a new Geneva agreement from the outset was the worldwide economic recession, from which many nations have not yet fully recovered. With unemployment high and production sluggish, there is a reluctance by any nation to make trade concessions.

But the United States position now is that the industrial nations of the world cannot afford not to negotiate a new agreement as soon as possible. The agreement would regulate world trade for the decade of the 1980s. Without it, Strauss said, there would be chaos.

Slipped Jaw Not Dangerous

There were two incidents in the past three years when I couldn't close my jaw. It happened once when I yawned and once when I bit into a large sandwich. Can anything be done to prevent this from happening again? — Mr. G.S.D., Ind.

Dear Mr. D:

Your description fits exactly the situation when the lower jaw slips out of its socket. An exaggerated yawn, or opening the mouth very wide, can be responsible for this painful, but not dangerous occurrence.

Most patients who suffer from this have learned to avoid hyper-extending their mouths. They have learned, too, how to replace the jaw in the socket when this does occur.

The spasm of the muscles of the jaw sometimes makes it very difficult for the untrained person to do this himself. It may be necessary to go to the emergency room of the hospital where muscle relaxants, or even an anesthesia, may be necessary in order to replace the jaw.

Specialized X-rays of the jaw joint may show some erosion of the bony socket. There are now a number of excellent techniques by which problems deep within the jaw joint can be remedied.

Consultation between your dentist and a specialist in temporomandibular joint disorders should undoubtedly dictate the ideal way to control your problem.

Speaking of Your Health...

than others. Some heal with a thicker scar, particularly those who have a "keloid" tendency. An infected wound does not heal as "cleanly" as an uninfected wound.

As for the size of the scar, this is no indication of the surgeon's facility or competence. The severity of the appendicitis, or an abscessed formation, may make it necessary to extend the line of incision, and make the scar somewhat longer.

A great many surgeons, in fact, prefer a longer scar in order to give more exposure to the problem within the abdomen.

Many young women are concerned about the "bikini image" of their scars. If this is your concern, your doctor and a plastic surgeon might be helpful in beautifying that scar.

No 23-Channel CBs By Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission is standing by a decision ordering retail dealers to take 23-channel citizens band radios off the shelves by Jan. 1.

The FCC voted 4-2 Wednesday to reject a proposed seven-month extension of the deadline.

The year-old order was issued because newer 40-channel sets were found to cause less interference with TV reception and other electronic equipment, the FCC said.

The extension request came from dealers who are stuck with thousands of 23-channel sets. Other dealers complying with the deadline opposed the extension, saying it would be unfair to them.

France 'Safeguards' Quebec Culture

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — By supporting the autonomy-minded people of Quebec, France is safeguarding French culture in Canada and "in a certain sense protecting ourselves," says a high official of the Paris government who helped shape its Quebec policy. France's attitude toward its French-speaking "cousins" in North America annoys English-speaking Canadians and rankles Americans, but tickles Frenchmen and generally delights the Quebecois. "We have just as much right to accord our support to the people of Quebec as President Carter does to worry about the human rights of Jews in the Soviet Union," the French official said.

"We are protecting French language and French civilization in North America, and by so doing we are in a certain sense protecting ourselves," he added.

Of all European countries, France is particularly watchful of its civilization. The government strives to preserve French customs through cultural subsidies and to maintain the quality of the language through such organs as the French Academy.

Despite language variations — both vocabulary and pronunciation — between Quebec and the country that colonized it in 1608, some circles here view the preservation of Quebec's cultural independence as an assertion of French national heritage.

Paris policy toward the province was re-enunciated last week when President Valery Giscard d'Estaing assured visiting Quebec Premier Rene Levesque of France's "understanding, confidence and support."

Levesque's Parti Quebecois, which came to power in the 1976 elections, has promised a referendum on whether Quebec should separate itself from English-speaking Canada.

France's policy first grabbed headlines in 1967 when then-President Charles de Gaulle cried to a cheering Quebec crowd "Vive le Quebec Libre (Long Live Free Quebec)." That angered the Canadian government so much that de Gaulle cut short his trip.

Some observers have said De

Gaulle was carried away by the crowd's clamor, but French officials who helped prepare the moment say his shouted slogan was the fruit of careful calculation.

"French policy toward Quebec has remained exactly the same through three presidents and seven premiers," said the source, who has been associated with the policy for years. "The Quebec (policy) had been there for a long time. De Gaulle's move just helped the world discover it. It was a publicity gesture."

The official said Giscard d'Estaing's exceptional treatment of Levesque, while less showy than de Gaulle's action, was designed to show continued support for an active pro-Quebec policy.

Levesque was accorded honors usually reserved for chiefs of state. The premier attended a round of official dinners, gave an unprecedented speech in parliament's ceremonial hall and was made a grand officer of the Legion of Honor by Giscard d'Estaing.

Canadian Ambassador Gerard Pelletier called the distinction a "hitch in international usage" about which the Canadian government expressed "astonishment."

Tobacco Outlook Slightly Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outlook for the new tobacco crop has brightened slightly, but the roughly 1.92 billion pounds in the latest Agriculture Department forecast still is 10 percent below last year's total.

The Crop Reporting Board said Thursday that unfavorable weather for curing burley tobacco continued into mid-October. Burley markets open Nov. 21.

The output of flue-cured tobacco, the major type, was placed at 1,119,298,000 pounds after Nov. 1 surveys, 2 percent more than predicted a month ago but still 15 percent below 1976 production.

The board blamed the drop on reductions in flue-cured acreage for harvest and a drop in the yield from 1,974 pounds per acre to 1,887 pounds.

Burley production was estimated at 642 million pounds, 3 million more than the Oct. 1 field checks showed and 5 percent below 1976 levels.

The total of all types — an estimated 1,918,247,000 pounds — was 1 percent more than estimated last month.

Here are the new estimates, by belt and state, of flue-cured production, compared to the 1976 harvest:

Type 11, Old and Middle Belts — North Carolina, 272,000,000 pounds indicated this year and 338,550,000 produced last year; Virginia, 106,140,000 and 124,600,000;

Type 12, Eastern North Carolina — North Carolina, 350,000,000 and 434,420,000;

Type 13, N.C. Border and S.C. Belt — North Carolina, 95,175,000 and 110,160,000; South Carolina, 139,725,000 and 153,375,000;

Type 14, Georgia-Florida — Alabama, 633,000 and 1,152,000; Florida, 24,975,000 and 30,240,000, and Georgia, 130,650,000 and 123,760,000. mob rpt 835pm 11-10-77

Nurses Will Meet Tues.

The local district of the N. C. Nurses' Association met in Williamston Tuesday.

This district won the "Most Creative" award for its banner at the American Nurses' Association annual state convention in Raleigh recently. This is the 75th anniversary year for the ANA.

A program titled "The Traveling Skin Show" was presented by Greenville dermatologist, Dr. Billy Jones. He showed slides depicting skin disorders, bacterial, viral and fungal.

The next ANA meeting will be held in January. The program topic will be "Credentialing: What It Is and What It Will Mean to Your Future Nursing Career." It will be presented by Mrs. Sylvene Spickerman and Miss Phyllis Nichols.

Baha'i Marking Anniversary

The Baha'i community of Greenville will observe the anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, prophet-founder of the Baha'i faith Saturday evening at seven o'clock.

The program for the public celebration will include pot luck supper, music, games and a brief address about the faith by Ms. Ludi Johnson.

The program will be held at 1621 S. Pitt St.

The Baha'i faith is an independent world religion that is working to establish the unity of mankind. It is based on the revelation of Baha'u'llah, who was born Mirza Husayn 'Ali, to a family of Persian nobility in the Province of Nur, Iran, Nov. 12, 1817.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

Cold Front

A cold front moving through North Carolina brought cooler temperatures to the Pitt County area before dawn today.

The front moving through the area early last night was preceded by southwesterly winds recorded gusting up to 34 miles per hour. It quickly changed to the northwest as the front passed over the state. Wind velocity reached 10-15NW throughout the night.

Temperatures dropped to a low of 50 degrees, according to Greenville Utilities, as compared to yesterday's springlike high of 79 degrees.

Probe Theft Of Bottles, Crates

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of approximately $130 worth of bottles and crates from a rural store.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Willie Pollard, owner of Pollard's Store at Bells Fork, reported that the property was stolen Wednesday night.

Pollard, according to the sheriff, said that the bottles and crates were taken from a "drink house" outside the business.
