INDUSTRIAL AWARD—Walter Morehead, center, the Electrical-Instrumentation Manager, and Robert Griffin (right) Plant Manager, accept a Coastal Plain Development Association Industrial Award for Procter & Gamble during awards ceremonies held Thursday night. Arthur Lee Wiggins of Ahsokie, left, outgoing president of the association, presented the award.

Procter & Gamble Among Annual Award Winners

Greenville's Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company was among a dozen businesses in northeastern North Carolina to receive an Industrial Relations Award; and the village of Simpson took one of the top awards in the town or village category in Community Awards, in the 15th annual meeting and awards banquet of the Coastal Plain Development Association held at the Moose Lodge Thursday night.

Each year, the Coastal Plain Development Association (CPDA) recognizes outstanding achievement by industries based on criteria of civic endeavors, economic contributions, promotion of employee-employer relations, and other community betterment actions.

Procter & Gamble was cited for achievements in the Greenville community that included participation in projects of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce; an intern program coordinated with Rose High School; cooperation with Pitt Technical Institute; assistance to the Pirate Club at East Carolina University; and for the work of an Employment of the Handicapped Committee.

The Greenville company also has donated $18,000 to Pitt Memorial Hospital, and $40,300 to the United Fund, including an average employee contribution of $74 plus the addition of $9,300 by the company.

Little Notice Of 'Smokeout'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina, whose economy rests heavily on tobacco production and cigarette manufacturing, didn't take much note of the nation's "Great American Smoke-Out" Thursday.

Even Gov. Jim Hunt, who doesn't smoke or chew the leaf himself, seemed to take offense at the idea of discouraging people from following their own conscience in the matter. So he did the Wake County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

ECC?!!!
I recently visited the restaurant at the Raleigh-Durham Airport. Among the college and university emblems on the wall is one for East Carolina College! I know this is a small matter, but I'd like for travelers from around the country to see an updated emblem for ECU. S.H.

Hotline called Col. Dick Blake, Assistant to the Chancellor at ECU. He said he'd call the restaurant the same afternoon and offer them a new emblem. We'll report when it's an accomplished fact. Thanks for being such a vigilant ECU supporter, Col. Blake said.

Other businesses receiving industrial awards at the annual ceremony were: — Beaufort County — N. C. Phosphate. — Bertie County — Coburn Lumber Co. Inc. — Edgecombe County — Formica Corporation, and Black and Decker.

— Three counties — Bertie, Edgecombe and Pitt were the recipients of Home Economic Awards. The award for Pitt County went to the Home Economic Division for exceptional publicity given to various home making programs.

The Agricultural Committee's Award for the best record of destroying old, abandoned buildings was received by Halifax County, which tallied about 110 unsightly buildings removed.

Guest speaker for the banquet was Mrs. Eva Clayton, Assistant Secretary of the Community Development Division of the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.

Speaking about the needs of rural North Carolina, with special relevance to eastern North Carolina, Ms. Clayton said "the dispersed rural population, especially in eastern North Carolina, combines industrialization with urbanization."

"This situation works two ways," she noted, "it enhances our life style but at the same time presents special problems. Each small community, each rural settlement wants its own police and fire department, its own water and sewer system."

Arab Allies Angry But Sadat Will Go

BY LARRY THORSON
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Greeted by wild applause from Israelis, 60 Egyptian officials and security men arrived in Israel today to prepare the way for President Anwar Sadat's historic trip.

But in most of the Arab world opposition boiled up against the first-ever visit by an Arab leader to the Jewish state.

In Washington, President Carter said he spoke with Sadat by phone and found the Egyptian leader "very excited, enthusiastic and confident. He hopes his visit will be successful in breaking down the animosities in the Middle East," Carter said.

Cairo Radio, reporting the telephone conversation, said Carter was "very impressed" with Sadat's move and congratulated the Egyptian "for taking the best road towards achieving peace" in the Middle East.

Hassan Kemal, Sadat's office director and leader of the advance party, emerged from the government plane at Ben-Gurion Airport, 30 miles west of Jerusalem, and said in Arabic: "We are very happy to be here, and especially at the welcome accorded our Egyptian plane."

"We left Egypt with a prayer in our heart and faith in Allah, and we shall have faith because our intentions are pure and we do want peace."

About 100 Israeli airport workers broke into applause and several Israelis had to be restrained from rushing up the ramp to greet the visitors.

The motorcade route to Jerusalem, 30 miles away, was lined with Israelis, some waving copies of the Maariv newspaper with bold red headlines in Arabic and Hebrew reading "Welcome President Sadat."

In Ismailia, Egypt, Sadat prayed for peace within 12 miles of Israeli front lines. "God go with you," the congregation chanted in a mosque on the bank of the Suez Canal.

The Israeli government announced that Sadat's itinerary will include a visit to the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, the traditional site of Christ's tomb, and a tour of Yad Vashem, the national monument to victims of the Nazi holocaust.

Sadat will visit the church Sunday after worshipping at the Al Asqa mosque, East Jerusalem's hallowed Moslem shrine a few hundred yards from the church. The Egyptian leader's guide at Yad Vashem will be Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

In Kuwait, the radical Arab newspaper Al Watan quoted Ismail Fahmy, who resigned Thursday as Sadat's foreign minister, saying that he quit because he failed to convince Sadat to cancel the Israel trip.

Elsewhere in the Arab world, Iraq and radical Palestinian guerrillas called Sadat a traitor, Libya threatened to break off relations with Egypt, Syria called for a united front against Egypt.

To the militant Arabs, Sadat's voyage is a violation of Arab solidarity and recognition of the common enemy.

An explosion went off before dawn near the offices of an Egyptian airline in downtown Beirut, wrecking an outer door and smashing windows. On Thursday, a bomb ripped the garage of the Egyptian embassy in Damascus.

World comment on Sadat's visit ranged from "daring" and "positive" to "unforgivable."

The arrival of the Egyptian advance party was broadcast live on Israeli television. They were greeted by Kemal's Israeli counterpart, Eliahu ben-Ellisar, and Ephraim Evron, Foreign Ministry director-general.

National Women's Conference Ready

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Forged from the spirit of 56 state meetings and further heated by conservatives' claims of under-representation, the National Women's Conference is opening here to try to determine how to end sexual discrimination in the United States.

About 2,000 delegates have been elected or appointed to work on an agenda on women's problems for submission to President Carter and to Congress. They will be joined at the four-day meeting by as many as 18,000 observers.

The Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year is sponsoring the conference. The government supplied $5 million to pay for the conference and the separate state and territorial meetings where delegates were elected.

The federal money is a rallying point for antifeminist groups who charge that neither the elected nor appointed delegates represent the mainstream of American women.

The IWY commission chose at-large delegates to balance delegations were not balanced according to age, race, economics and religion.

The conference is "nothing but a phony festival for feminists," Elaine Donnelly, a spokeswoman for a coalition called the Citizens Review Committee, complained Thursday.

"The elections were rigged. The resolutions were railroaded. The whole thing was a sham from the beginning," she said.

But IWY presiding officer and former congresswoman Bella Abzug described the session as "the most diverse meeting" ever held "because of the democratic way in which the state delegations were chosen."

Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women and an IWY commissioner, said opponents of the conference "are on the outside because they were rejected in their home states."

Having lost in state delegate races, "the only recourse they have left is to hold an alternative conference," she said.

Both sides estimate that about 20 percent of the delegates oppose substantial portions of the blueprint of recommendations that will be submitted to the delegates for a vote.

Most of the formal activities begin Saturday when the plenary sessions open. Specific recommendations on women's problems will be considered at these sessions.

Unofficial activities include an all-day assembly on the Equal Rights Amendment, which is three states short of ratification.

Another Detainee Is Dead

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Another black detained by security police has died in prison, the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail reported today, as the inquest into the death of black leader Steve Biko entered its fifth day.

Bonaventura S. Malaza, 18, of Kagiso, died this week while in detention in Krugersdorp, about 30 miles west of Johannesburg, his family was told Thursday, the opposition English-language newspaper said.

That makes Malaza the 22nd black to die in security detention in 18 months.

Malaza, a high school student, hanged himself in his cell, his mother Gertrude said she was told by police.

Second Capital Poorly Marked

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) — Maybe what New Jersey needs is more road signs to Vineland. The Civil Defense recently declared Vineland as the state's second capital in case of nuclear war.

But when two of Gov. Brendan Byrne's aides came from Trenton to look over the little town they got lost.

Mayor Patrick Fiorillo said Thursday that town officials told the aides they've been trying for years to get more road signs. The aides said that the governor would see that the signs are installed.

Must Teach More Than Pure Science: Jenkins

ECU News Bureau
Not enough thought and study has been given to the effect or impact science has on society, Dr. Leo Jenkins told the opening session of the Ninth Annual Statewide Conference of Science Teachers today.

Several hundred science teachers are attending the two-day event at East Carolina University.

Jenkins, the chancellor of ECU, said "we need a mixture of generalist and scientist."

Jenkins said that because of an "explosion of knowledge" during the past three decades, in which man has uncovered "almost 300 times more knowledge than was discovered in the previous, 4,000 years," today's society is "plagued with complexity."

"What we in education must do is reduce the vast wealth of knowledge to a content that can serve the world, our nation and North Carolina."

"One product of the scientific explosion is a broad gap between science and technology, and the sociologist and those in the humanities."

He cited such advances in industry as automation, shorter work hours and more leisure, and in modern agriculture and food processing which affects daily life style and kitchen habits.

He said "we must encourage young people to become involved," to take a keen interest in politics and their government. "In this way, their work will have more meaning," Jenkins said.

Early Irish Art Is On Display

By JOAN BRUNSKILL
NEW YORK (AP) — The very stuff of legend is visible in real life at the Metropolitan Museum of Art here — in an exhibition titled "Treasures of Early Irish Art: 1500 B.C. to 1500 A.D.," which will visit four other major cities in the United States.

The Republic of Ireland has lent 69 of its most precious masterpieces and historic relics to make up this exhibition. Among them are the hallowed eighth-century Book of Kells, Bronze Age gold, and Brian's Harp, a late medieval Gaelic harp, Ireland's national symbol.

None of these objects has ever been in the United States and most have never left Ireland before. So this is a rare opportunity for American museum-goers to see an aspect of Western art, of extraordinary beauty and significance, which has been little known here so far.

Perched at the edge of Europe, Ireland was open to waves of influence from the continent, and often absorbed, refined and preserved other cultures.

This exhibition represents five of these waves in chronological groupings: Bronze Age settlers; pagan Celts; Christian missionaries; Viking raiders; and Anglo-Normans. What were the Dark Ages in medieval Europe, the sixth to eighth centuries, was Ireland's Golden Age, when its monasteries and artists kept alive the highest levels of Western civilization.

Many of the exhibits are special because they are quite simply the finest examples of art of their kind ever made, others because of their meaning in Irish history or religious tradition. The Book of Kells, with its illuminated manuscripts of the Gospels, is a priceless national treasure on both counts.

Because of its antiquity, it and four other illuminated manuscripts in the exhibition are being looked after with the utmost care while they are here. They will, in fact, stay in a constant environment from the time of leaving Ireland until they return.

They were brought over in humidity-controlled cases, and now they have been installed in the specially designed, hermetically contained display unit which will keep them in unchanging humidity, temperature and light for the rest of their stay. The lighting is at the level of five foot candles, to use the lighting engineers' term — a soft light in which the mellow tones of the books glow richly. Their pages will be turned over week by week.

Most of the other objects in the exhibition are wonderfully worked metals, from the prehistoric to the medieval periods, three thousand years of fine and varied craftsmanship.

Many pieces are personal items of adornment — handsome gold jewelry of the Bronze Age, exquisitely detailed silver brooches from the sixth to eighth century period. Others are religious objects of shining splendor, the Ardagh Chalice, the Cross of Cong, St. Patrick's Bell and its Shrine.

One disarmingly down-to-earth piece stands out among the gold, silver and venerated relics — a splendid bronze cauldron from about 600 B.C., wrought with a strong beauty to match its domestic simplicity.

The exhibition, sponsored by SCM Corp., will be at the Metropolitan Museum until mid-January 1978. Then it will be at the M.H. de Young Museum, San Francisco, Feb. 21 to May 21; the Museum of Art, Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, June 28 to Sept. 24; the Boston Museum of Fine Arts Oct. 24 to Jan. 21, 1979; the Philadelphia Museum of Art Feb. 26 to May 27, 1979.

ANCIENT ART—Masterpieces and historic relics never seen before in the United States make up the exhibition, "Treasures of Early Irish Art: 1500 B.C. to 1500 A.D.," at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. Among the priceless objects on display is the Book of Kells, detail of which is shown upper left; upper right, a late medieval period Gaelic harp, of wood with brass and silver; at bottom, early eighth-century Ardagh Chalice, of silver, bronze and gold, with glass and rock crystal.

BURNED ROOM — Greenville firemen look through debris in an attempt to determine the cause of a fire which heavily damaged the living room of a house at 108 South Harding St. about 4:26 a.m. today. Heavy smoke damage resulted to the two-story wood-frame dwelling along with light water damage. One occupant of the house was injured when he cut his foot on a piece of glass, investigators reported. Cause of the fire has not been determined. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Says Powell Avoids TV

DETROIT (AP) — Presidential press secretary Jody Powell doesn't allow cameras at his news briefings because he does things he doesn't want seen by TV viewers, a White House correspondent claims.

ABC News reporter Sam Donaldson made the observation Thursday in the keynote speech at the opening session of the national convention of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.

"Powell believes that television is a hot medium, that television has an impact ... beyond the written word. To put it bluntly, Powell needs to do things in that press room, he believes, that he does not want to be seen doing," Donaldson said.

"Powell dances and weaves, he backs and fills, he evades. And he does it very well," the correspondent said.

Donaldson said anyone else in the press secretary's post — with the possible exception of Jerry ter Horst — probably would do the same thing. Ter Horst, now a Detroit News columnist, resigned when President Gerald Ford pardoned Richard M. Nixon.

"I'm not just slamming poor old Jody Powell," Donaldson said.

Crash Findings Are Withheld

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A military investigating board is refusing to say what caused an Air Force jet to crash into the Manzano Mountains east of Albuquerque, killing all 20 persons aboard.

It said Thursday release of those findings would have a "stifling effect" on the open expression of opinions by Air Force personnel about such crashes.

But the Air Force did say there was no evidence of any breakdown in the electronic, flight control or engine systems on the EC135 that crashed shortly after takeoff from Kirtland Air Force Base Sept. 14. The plane was on a training mission from Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro, N.C.

At the time of the crash, the second-worst air disaster in city history, all four of the aircraft's engines were operating at takeoff power, the Air Force accident report said.

The aircraft, a modified 707, took off at 11:45 p.m. on a moonless night for Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, Nev.

Just after takeoff, the $10.9 million aircraft hit the side of one of the four foothills of the Manzanos that give the subdivision its name.

The report said that after initial impact, the plane flipped over and disintegrated. Its wreckage was scattered over a ¼-mile area.

The mountain hit by the plane is on the highly restricted Man-ano Area, which is used by the military to store nuclear weapons material.

Pilots who have flown the EC135 have speculated that the unfamiliar, mountainous terrain and the aircraft's weight, aggravated by Albuquerque's high altitude, may have been major contributing factors in causing the pilot to misjudge his takeoff.

The report said that prior to takeoff, the pilot told the control tower his plane was "heavily loaded."

At the time of takeoff, the plane's gross weight was 257,514 pounds. The maximum allowable for an EC135 is 297,000 pounds.

The report also showed that minutes before the takeoff, the tower reminded the pilot of the "high terrain that's just east of Albuquerque." The pilot acknowledged that warning.

Cranberry Shares American History

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

As American as apple pie is a time-honored phrase, but it would apply more aptly to the cranberry, that brilliant red fruit introduced to the Pilgrims by friendly Indians back in 1620.

Thanksgiving would not seem complete in most homes without the traditional turkey accompanied by a sauce or jelly of cranberries. But how many of us realize that this versatile fruit is a valuable addition to countless dishes from coffee cake to chicken salad?

Cranberry juice is used to soften liverwurst into a pate. Cranberries are often added as a filling for coffee rings. Cranberry cookies are a favorite for kids after school. Cranberry sauce and brown sugar make a glaze for baked ham, and I'm told that cranberry borscht is becoming almost as popular as the original Russian version of this hearty soup.

The American Indians called the fruit bimbi or "bitter berry." They used the cranberry to make pemmican, mixing the berries with dried venison and fat. Containing much nutriment and little bulk, pemmican was ideal for rations while on the trail.

It seems that an imaginative Pilgrim likened the pink cranberry blossoms to the heads of cranes and called them craneberries, which later became contracted to the present name. Wild cranberries remained popular as the Pilgrim settlements grew. Each fall entire families would gather to pick enough berries to preserve for the long winter.

Cranberries were probably the first native American fruit to be eaten in Europe, because they kept so well. Packed in water, they were shipped by the ton to the Old World. Sailors ate them on long voyages to try to prevent scurvy.

The little berry has become big business. Back in 1969, about 1.5 million barrels — a hundred pounds to the barrel — were marketed in this country.

Cranberry products are available the year round. But they are most popular during Thanksgiving and Christmas. Here's a recipe for cranberry chiffon tarts that should go nicely during one of the holidays.

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 cups fresh cranberries
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup fresh orange juice
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 3 egg whites
- 8 baked 3-inch tart shells
- 1-3rd cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 teaspoon powdered sugar

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup water and set aside. Wash and pick over cranberries. Place in saucepan with the 1/4 cup water. Cover and cook till skins pop (about 10 minutes). Add 1/2 cup of the sugar, the salt and softened gelatin. Mix well. Stir in orange juice and rind. Chill till mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites till they peak then beat in remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Fold egg whites and sugar into cranberry mixture and spoon into tart shells. Chill till ready to serve. Top with whipped cream sweetened with the powdered sugar. Yields 8 tarts.

Bridal Couple Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee entertained Saturday evening at a cocktail party at their home honoring Rose Lewis and Don Skinner, who will be married Nov. 24 in Greenville.

The house was decorated with potted plants. The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of bronze and gold daisies.

Guests were welcomed by the host and hostess.

The honored couple received a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Lee.

Guests included members of the wedding party.

Reports Given VFW Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars held its meeting Thursday night.

Mrs. Hattie Manning reported that candy and apples had been taken to O'Berry Center for Halloween from the auxiliary.

Mrs. Alice Moseley, National Home and N. C. Cottage chairman, suggested that checks be sent to their cheer fund.

Mrs. Carrie West, president, conducted the meeting and asked for volunteers to help with the rummage sale.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. West and Mrs. Marjorie Angstadt.

Smile! You're A Home Star

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Jay Garon is the Scrooge of the home movie world.

He finds such films a big bore. You know the typical script: children opening Christmas presents in a welter of torn paper and ribbons, or children with birthday cake frosting on their faces waving to the camera.

Or people getting in and out of cars, or on and off boats or airplanes, or posturing before famous landmarks.

"Parents spend their time showing off their children, their last trip to Europe," Garon said in an interview.

If you insist on making home movies on a holiday, he suggests a documentary of your family's own special traditions.

But he would much rather involve parents and children in make-believe films. Garon, a literary agent and former Hollywood bit player, thinks they're more fun for both the participants and captive audiences.

"If you do a good job, it can be very funny, serious or cute.

"If it turns out to be embarrassingly bad, it usually is funny.

"If it is too bad, they probably will never show it."

Garon and his assistant, Morgan Wilson, have written a book to tell how.

"The Family Movie-making Book" (Bobbs-Merrill $10.95) grew out of letters Garon wrote his younger sister in Fall River, Mass. As a working mother, she worried about her two children getting into trouble for lack of excitement.

Home moviemaking on weekends was Uncle Jay's solution. He drew on his own observations and experience. In the early 1940s, he had specialized in oriental roles, "mostly Japanese villains in early war movies.

"When genuine Japanese returned from internment camps, there was no need for us synthetic Japanese any more."

His scripts include gothics, murder mysteries and science fiction. They are tailored for families with two to six children — "anyone from an intelligent four-year-old to 15-year-olds.

"Every high school has its dramatic club. It's popular and part of the social structure."

He suggests that children invite their friends and neighbors to participate.

"It gives the kids a chance to show off, to win public acclaim.

"It can be used as an instruction book by teen-agers involved in high school and community theater. It teaches how to set up, write your own screen play or change a play to suit your own group."

Garon said he gets his ideas mainly from old silent movies.

His advice to home moviemakers:

Plan in advance. You're wasting film and money if you don't.

Decide where you're going to shoot, what furniture is required.

You can make four sets in four corners of one room by moving furniture and changing pictures on the wall.

"That's what Mama's doing as producer. She figures out how to do it cheaply within the family budget. She knows what's in the attic and the basement to use as costumes and props."

"They don't have to be silent movies, he said. "Decent and affordable sound equipment for home movies is available.

"It's all so automatic now. If you can drive a car, you can use home movie equipment.

"And the film and developing charges cost less than going to the movies and a restaurant."

Should Secretary Run Errands For Business Executive?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary for a business executive. This morning my boss handed me something in a paper sack and said, "During your lunch hour, will you please return this to the store from which it was purchased, and ask them to credit my wife's charge account." (I hate to return anything, but how could I refuse?)

When I tried to return the merchandise, I discovered it was a girdle, and "intimate apparel" is not returnable. I was embarrassed, humiliated and upset!

Abby, do you think a secretary should be expected to run errands like this for her boss?

How can I let him know I was hired as a secretary—not a messenger girl—without losing my job?

Right now I'm angry enough to write a letter of resignation, but jobs aren't that easy to find. What should I do?

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: The next time your boss asks you to do something that is not in line with your secretarial duties, speak up and state your objections. If he fires you, he fires you. It's better than saying, "Yes, sir," while developing an ulcer.

DEAR ABBY: There's a certain group of kids of school, and if you don't belong to this group, you might as well be dead.

How can I get in with them? My mother keeps telling me there is nothing wrong with me, but I'm beginning to wonder.

Can you help me?

NOT IN

DEAR NOT: I can't think of a bigger waste of time and energy than trying to get "in" with a group of kids that apparently has no interest in you.

Strive to do well in your studies. Always be as well-groomed as possible. Be pleasant, cheerful and kind. Don't gossip. Be friendly, but not forward. And if you have one worthwhile friend—that's enough.

DEAR ABBY: What makes for sexual compatibility in marriage? There must be millions of married couples who read your column and would appreciate your thoughts on this.

WONDERING IN FT. DODGE

DEAR WONDERING: Sexual compatibility means mutual sexual satisfaction and fulfillment. Ideally, it is achieved by open and honest communication about what each party likes (and does not like) in sexual relations.

It sounds easy to achieve, but because so many people have grown up with hang-ups and inhibitions about sex, it's not all that simple. Sexual compatibility begins with total honesty and the ability to articulate one's feelings and desires.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DEEPLY INVOLVED AND NO REGRETS IN BURLINGAME": If not for your own protection, consider the heartbreak such a revelation could cause your husband and family. Destroy those letters, and don't carry them with you for "safe keeping." Should you be involved in an accident and their contents are revealed, if you live, you'll be a dead duck.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you know how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Farm Equipment Costs High

Some idea of the staggering cost of farming these days can be gained from the Second Annual Tobacco Farmer Show which was held here this week.

Farm City Night was held Wednesday Stephen Denny, editor of Specialized Agricultural Publications, Inc., said the night was held to allow city dwellers and non-farm workers a chance to see the show.

"City dwellers should recognize that with the elaborate machinery available and with improved technology, farmers are facing a rise in production-of-food costs."

"Some city dwellers will probably be goggledyed to see the prices of farm equipment over $50,000.

The average 100 horsepower tractor is now somewhere between $20,000 and $25,000," he said.

The equipment needed to run a modern farm is tremendously expensive these days — and you have to add to that the skyrocketing costs of labor, chemicals, fertilizer and other items needed to run a farm.

It is no wonder that farmers throughout the nation are complaining about low prices for farm commodities. They are simply caught in a profit squeeze produced by inflationary costs, and prices they receive for their goods which are not increasing to keep up with inflation. Sooner or later there will have to be an adjustment.

The Grain Is Waiting For Any Buyer

The Soviet Union is buying corn from United States producers.

The Soviets have been authorized to purchase up to 15 million tons of wheat and corn during 1977-78. No doubt there will be some criticism of the sale to a communist country, but we think it is just good business.

The United States has a surplus of grain and we need to sell it. If the Soviets are in a buying position then there is no reason our capitalistic nation shouldn't sell to them.

There is, admits David L. Britt, director of the state's division of civil preparedness, "a maze of regulations and processes so that we can't really pin down the dollars which may be coming... or when they will be here."

"Now if that sounds evasive, it is not necessarily so. It is only that it will take a couple of years—at the least—to complete the bureaucratic process involved," Britt says.

Satisfying the administrative machinery is "a long and tedious process Britt finds, and even though recent Individuals get immediate attention in the form of medical care, food temporary housing. Those destitute individuals—particularly the elderly—who don't qualify for other aid programs may be able to get direct money grants to live on.

Long-term relief is more complicated. What, for example, happens to low-income wage earner whose mobile home and car were destroyed?

Food stamps and welfare payments can be gotten at once. If the job was wiped out, unemployment pay starts immediately. There is a long list of other possible aids depending on qualifications, but mostly in the form of loans and not grants.

Officias say one of the most valuable aids is a year's free living quarters while that family sorts itself out and decides how and where to start rebuilding.

Cloak And Dagger Cuts

WASHINGTON — The CIA has announced that it plans to slash 820 clandestine agents from its payroll. These are cloak and dagger men and women, and their training has probably not prepared them for a job in the private sector.

It will be tough for these people to get employment. An interview with a dress company personnel director could go something like this.

"What did you do before?" the personnel director asks.

"I was in cloaks for 25 years," the former agent says.

"But not dresses? Why were you discharged from your previous employment?"

"I was replaced by a computer hooked up to a satellite and they told me I wasn't needed any more."

"What can you do?"

"I can transmit 120 words a minute in code from a radio no larger than a cigarette lighter."

"That's very good, but we really don't need anyone to do that in the dress business. Is there anything else you can do?"

"I can steam open an envelope, photograph the contents and seal it again so nobody will be the wiser."

"Are you saying you'd like to work in the mail room?"

"Not exactly. But you asked me what I could do."

"We really have no need for anyone steaming open mail. Could you tell me what else you're qualified at?"

"I can put an electronic bug in a room so nobody will be able to find it."

"That sounds illegal."

"Not if it's for national security reasons."

"We're in ladies' dresses. We don't have any national security clients."

"I can fix a guy's drink so he'll pass out in two minutes."

"That's interesting, but that isn't usually the way we treat our buyers."

"I'm good at break-ins. I can get in and out of a place in 15 minutes and the people will never know I've been there."

"Dear me. You do have a lot of talents, but none of them seems to fit in with the needs of our company."

ART BUCHWALD

"Wait before you turn me down. I know how to use invisible ink. I can write 'The Lord's Prayer' on the back of a postage stamp and no one will be able to find it."

"All we want is someone who can sell dresses."

"I can sell dresses. If a guy doesn't buy any, I know how to eliminate him without leaving a mark on his body."

"But you can't kill a person just because he doesn't buy one of our dress lines."

"I can turn him around and have him work for us instead of for them. I've done it many times."

"You must have been in an extraordinary business before you were laid off."

"I can't talk about it. You see this pen? It looks like an ordinary pen, right? But the ink is mixed with truth serum. You spill a drop of this ink on a man's hand and he'll start babbling secrets you wouldn't believe."

"Of course we always like to know what our competitors are doing, but using a pen like that wouldn't be worth the risk."

"All right. Take a look at this filling in my tooth."

"It's a very nice filling."

"That's how much you know. It's a cap for a cyanide pill. If someone tries to get any information out of me about the price of your dresses, I go 'chop' with my incisors and your secret dies with me."

"I'm sorry, but I'm afraid you're overqualified for selling dresses, Mr. eh, eh, eh..."

The Bill Of Last Resort

By WALTER R. MEARS
 AP Special Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — So President Carter has endorsed the Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act of 1977. Big deal.

He also endorsed the Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act of 1976, and that was a lot stronger economic medicine than the version he favors now.

At this rate, with another endorsement or two from Carter, the measure might vanish altogether.

In Washington shorthand, it's called the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, after Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., who first proposed it to mandate government measures to put the unemployed back to work.

They wanted to set by law a limit on unemployment in the United States, and to reach that goal if necessary with jobs financed by the government as the employer of last resort.

What they've got now looks like a bill of last resort since, as a Carter lieutenant noted, the new draft doesn't compel anybody to do anything except set economic goals — which would themselves be subject to change.

Any new programs, and any new spending to cut unemployment, would be subject to separate action by Congress and approval by the president.

In successive versions of the bill, the target unemployment rates have become progressively less ambitious and less binding, as have the provisions for government measures to reach the goal.

The original measure, which candidate Carter opposed as inflationary, set a ceiling of 3 percent unemployment within four years of enactment.

With labor, liberals and black groups committed to the bill, and with his rivals for the nomination supporting it, Carter held out for months.

He said he was no less committed than the other Democrats to curbing unemployment, but that the bill as it stood would have meant double-digit inflation.

Carter never was very enthusiastic about the Humphrey-Hawkins formula, but the bill became a symbol and endorsement a campaign necessity. Besides, the measure had been modified so as to set an unemployment target of something over 4 percent.

So he endorsed it during the presidential primary campaign, and again in his recommendations for the Democratic platform of 1976.

According to the campaign promises catalog assembled by his staff, Carter went to the White House "believing the federal government has an obligation to provide funds for public employment of those who private business cannot and will not hire," and "supporting the Full Employment Act of 1976."

All of this raises the question of how Carter came to be in a position to negotiate a still milder version of the bill and to announce with considerable fanfare that he was endorsing his handiwork.

The answer is simple. He got himself elected president.

That put him in a pretty good negotiating position. "We attempted to negotiate sentence by sentence and paragraph by paragraph the president could endorse," a Carter aide said.

What came out was a bill establishing a 1983 goal of unemployment not exceeding 4 percent with, as Carter noted, "flexibility to modify that goal if necessity requires," and without compulsory measures to attain it.

The jobless rate now is 7 percent.

The bill would establish a federal commitment to full employment — which sounds just as good as it did when Congress first made that declaration in a law passed 30 years ago.

It would at the same time commit the government to combat inflation.

It also requires that the administration and Congress set specific goals for unemployment, productivity and other economic targets each year. That's the kind of work their economic advisers are paid to do anyhow.

For all of that, the bill's sponsors and promoters said

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:
 Having been hospitalized three times within one year — diagnosis, major surgery, nervous exhaustion, I have been acutely aware of the quality of health services in the Greenville-Pitt County area. During this period, those same services have undergone major changes for the better.

The most obvious change is the new physical plant of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The significant change and the one likely to have the most far-reaching effects is the establishment of the Medical School of East Carolina University. It will bring us into the mainstream of serious medical research, and provide generations of qualified professionals to meet the growing needs.

Both of these changes have been discussed and publicized repeatedly. It is another change I feel compelled to discuss. It has not received publicity or sufficient public awareness.

This change is the new Psychiatric Wing of Pitt County Hospital. Its opening heralds a new era for mental health in our community. As one of the first to benefit from this facility, I can say first hand that we can be justly proud of our psychiatric wing and those responsible for its existence. I personally laud their diligent efforts to bring a new approach to the treatment of emotional problems of young and old. I stand amazed and touched at the cross-section of humanity served under one roof, in an environment of understanding, openness, warmth and empathy. I was grateful for the absence of an institutionalized feeling and for guidance in solving my own problems. The range of need — from childhood behavioral symptoms to psychotic conditions — is being met according to the situation. All those involved have a feeling of togetherness, a sense of family.

I want others to know that times have changed. Help is there when needed! Go and see for yourself!!

Idea Of Nixon's Pilot

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — A program set up by former President Richard M. Nixon's pilot that uses CB radio to assist tourists is taking off in West Virginia.

Called "CB Operation Latch String," the program utilizes public officials and private volunteers equipped with CBs to direct travelers to motels, camp grounds, gasoline stations, restaurants and even good fishing sites.

"We knew there were many travelers looking for places to see, to camp in," said Col. Ralph D. Albertz, who flew Nixon to such places as China aboard the "Spirit of '76." "I could tell this just by listening to my own CB."

Albertz retired from the Air Force in 1974 after Nixon's resignation and was appointed commissioner of West Virginia's Department of Commerce. He resigned that position earlier this year.

But the program he initiated is continuing and, according to Barbara Jones of the Office of Economic and Community Development in Charleston: "We hope to have a sufficient number of participants by the end of March to carry out the program."

It started, Albertz said in a telephone interview, when officials realized the growth of travelers' facilities in the state had not kept pace with the completion of the interstate system.

"People were having trouble finding gasoline stations, camping facilities, motels and such," he explained from his Charleston office. "So we decided to set up a program where travelers with CBs could get this information by radio."

The program already includes state policemen with CBs in their cars and CB-equipped "courtesy patrols," state-owned cars cruising the highways looking for motorists needing help or information.

Eventually, Mrs. Jones said, the state hopes to equip its tourist information centers with CB radios.

Most monitoring involves Channel 19, the so-called "truckers'" or travelers' channel.

But a major part of the program will involve private volunteers who will monitor CB radios and provide travelers aid, information and emergency assistance.

Strength For Today

SOLVE YOUR OWN PROBLEMS FIRST

"Cast out first..."

This is part of the statement Jesus made about casting the beam out of our own eye before we get so excited about the mote that is in our brother's eye. A mote is a small particle—a tiny splinter. A beam is literally what we know today as a building beam. Jesus sometimes used extreme and even impossible figures to set forth truth.

But even if the figure is fantastic, the idea is not. The important word in our Lord's statement is "first." Get your own moral life straightened out, he said, and then you will be in a condition properly to appraise the situation of others and help them.

This does not mean that one has to be perfect before he can render moral assistance to a brother or sister. But it does mean that the person has to attack his own moral problems earnestly and achieve some measure of success in handling them before he can help others.

Farmer Feels Unappreciated

By JOHN CUNIFF
 AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite heavy rains, prolonged droughts and severe winters, the American farmer seems able to harvest record size crops with regularity.

If only, he laments, he could say the same for profits.

Farmers are upset. The most productive in the world, they help feed China and the Soviet Union as well as Americans. Again this year they will produce their biggest crop ever.

But out of it, they feel, they will not get their fair share.

The chief beneficiaries of their abundance, the consumers, do not always appreciate the farmer's skill and hard work. They blame him if the price of a loaf of bread goes up a few pennies a loaf.

If only he could depend on receiving those few pennies a loaf, the farmer muses.

The city dweller resents what he refers to as handouts to the farmer in the form of government efforts to manage prices and income, even though net income has always been an updown affair.

The city dweller, says the farmer, often works for a large company that is able to weather years of deficits. A farmer seldom can accumulate the financial reserves to survive years of losses.

Good growing weather and skilled handling of crops should, you would think, mean good times for the farmer.

Too often, says the farmer, the harder he tries the less he receives.

Right now some farmers think government has let them down. Unable on their own to obtain information about foreign crops, they relied on the Central Intelligence Agency and the Agriculture Department.

Both the CIA and the Agriculture Department failed to determine that the Soviets would come in with less than a bumper crop and thus would be buying in the U.S. market. Both overstated the size of the Soviet harvest.

Consequently, farmers sold their crops before learning that demand, and prices, would be greater than they expected. As in 1972, when what some farmers call the Great Soviet Grain Robbery occurred, some farmers feel everyone but they benefited.

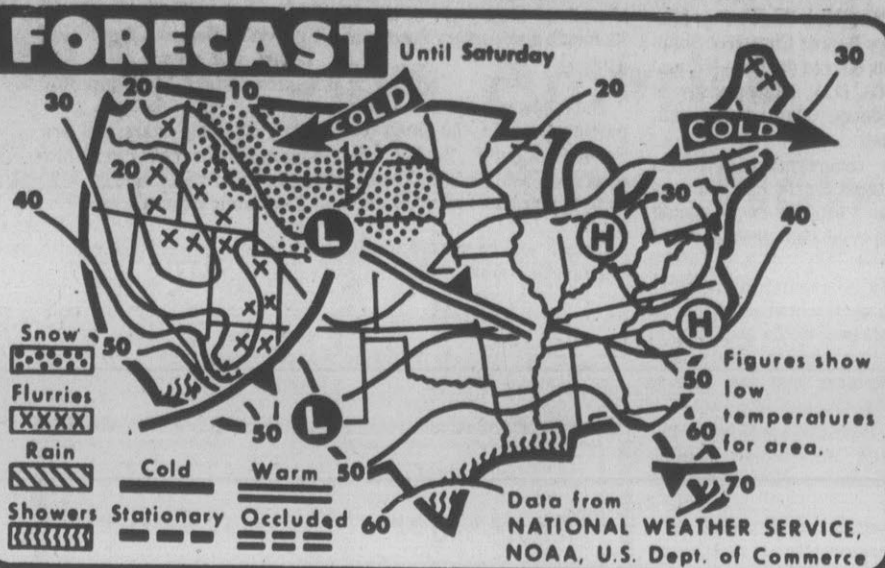

Maybe he should go on strike, the farmer says.

There too he seems to be blocked — by his own independence and his financial stake.

Unlike union members, who rarely have a substantial investment in their workplace, farmers own their own production plants. To strike would be to hurt themselves, and the crops they worked so hard to raise. And, some say they are too independent to join together.

Not so, says the urban dweller. When he stands to benefit, such as from government price supports, which make up a part of the new Food and Agriculture Act of 1977, the farmers join ranks just like union members.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow flurries are forecast today for the Rocky Mountains and areas of the Southwest. Snow is expected for the northern Rockies and northern Plains. Cool weather is due for most areas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Ideal weather appears to be in store for North Carolina during the weekend.

The Weather Service reported high pressure building eastward over the Carolinas today was bringing with it bright sunny skies. Northwest winds were expected to be brisk at times as cooler air moves into the state.

Sunny weather through Saturday and fair to partly cloudy skies Sunday were the outlook. Temperatures were expected to be cool but not cold except at night. Daytime highs in the 60s in the east and 50s in the west were expected Saturday with Sunday a little warmer. Overnight lows in the 20s were expected.

Partly cloudy weather prevailed over the state Thursday after some morning showers and thundershowers over the western part of the state. Temperatures rose into the 70s except for the 60s in the mountains. The highest, 77, was reported at Fayetteville and Wilmington.

There were brief showers mainly in the northern part of the state Thursday evening as a cold front moved toward the coast. Strong winds were reported to have caused considerable damage at an industrial site in Williamston.

Rain has generally been less than half an inch during the last 24 hours except for 1.82 inches at Black Mountain and .64 inches at New Bern.

Lions Club Held

Ladies Night
Greenville Martinsborough Lions Club held its annual ladies night Tuesday at the Three Steers Restaurant.

President Bill Lehman presided at the induction of four new members — Al Stallings, Jack Gross, Bryant Kittrell and Wes Measamer — along with charter member, Henry Groome.

Vocal entertainment was provided by Ms. Ellen Heidenreich.

Two Charged

With Break-In
Raymond Earl Powell, 17 of South Pitt St., and Danny Ray Williams, 22 of 1121 Clark St. were arrested about 6:15 p.m. yesterday on breaking and entering charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the two allegedly broke into a van parked in a lot behind the Wilcar Building on Tenth Street.

Nothing was reported missing from the vehicle.

Cancer 'Cure' Brings Charges

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The developer of a controversial treatment that claimed to cure cancer victims with a diet of distilled water and lemon juice was indicted Thursday on charges of practicing medicine without a license and grand theft.

The indictment against Carey A. Reams was handed down by the Riverside County grand jury in connection with the treatment last May of 2½-year-old Michael Riggs, of nearby Temecula. The boy later died of leukemia.

Also indicted were Reams' daughter, LaVerne, and Nord W. Davis of Topton, N.C., who was linked to a clinic in Murrieta Hot Springs that used Reams' alleged cure.

Reams, 74, was charged with making a fraudulent representation to Riggs' parents that he could diagnose, cure and treat cancer; practicing medicine without a license; conspiracy to practice medicine without a license; conspiracy to commit grand theft, and grand theft.

He already was in custody in the Riverside County jail on a fugitive warrant from Georgia, where he is charged with four felony counts of practicing medicine without a license.

Davis, who is an associate of Randolph J. Rudd, operator of the Murrieta clinic, and Reams' daughter were indicted on three felony charges of conspiracy to practice medicine without a license, conspiracy to commit grand theft and grand theft.

Assistant Riverside County District Attorney Tom Hollenhorst said the sheriff's department had notified North Carolina authorities of Davis' indictment.

"We'll get him arrested out there," then have him extradited to California, Hollenhorst said.

The indictment charged that the three told Wayne and Virginia Riggs of Temecula that Reams could cure their son of leukemia with the diet of distilled water and lemon juice.

Riggs and his wife said outside the grand jury room that their son had been diagnosed as having leukemia in August 1976 at Children's Hospital in San Diego, where he had been receiving treatment.

"Michael stayed on the diet of distilled water and lemon juice for two days," the boy's father said. "Then he became sick and comatose. His eyes rolled back and he threw up."

Riggs said he was told by Reams that the boy's reaction was "normal."

The parents said they left

Murrieta Hot Springs after three days of treatment and took the boy back to Children's Hospital. "But he went downhill fast after he left there (Murrieta Hot Springs)," Mrs. Riggs said.

The Murrieta clinic came under scrutiny in August after the parents of a 7-year-old cancer victim, Kimberly Cox, tried to remove her from Milwaukee Children's Hospital and take her to the Murrieta facility. The hospital refused to release her.

Lots Of Advice To Gov. Hunt On Wilmington 10

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More than 1,000 people, better than half of them from out of state, have written or telegraphed the Governor's Mansion with advice on handling the Wilmington 10 case.

About two thirds of the letters and telegrams urge Gov. Jim Hunt to pardon the 10, according to Hunt's press secretary, Gary Pearce. The rest oppose any pardon for the group.

The Wilmington 10 are nine black men and a white woman charged with taking part in a firebombing incident during racial violence in Wilmington in 1971. They were convicted in 1972 and began long prison terms last year.

The woman, convicted on a lesser charge, has since been paroled, but the nine men are still in prison while attorneys try to arrange a new trial.

Pearce said most of the out-of-state mail ran in favor of a pardon, while the North Carolina mail was split about evenly between pro-and anti-pardon writers.

Pearce said 13 letters and a petition signed by 120 persons had come from individuals who identified themselves as members of Amnesty International. That group, which won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize, has joined a list of organizations asking a pardon for the Wilmington 10.

A New York spokesman for Amnesty International said naming the Wilmington 10 on its list of "prisoners of conscience" means the organization has begun to mobilize international pressure for their release. The organization seeks to win the prisoners' freedom through publicity, lobbying, letter-writing and hiring lawyers to monitor the cases.

"There may have been more (letters, telegrams or petitions) from Amnesty International, but those are the only ones who identify themselves as members of Amnesty International," Pearce said.

Hunt was asked at his news conference Thursday if he would be swayed in his stand on the Wilmington 10 by the strong support black voters gave the succession amendment in last week's referendum.

The governor said he would not and that in deciding such a case, "You just set all that aside and do what is best for the state." Hunt has said he will not intervene in the case until court action is completed.

Same Theme On Thursday

Familiar words from the 100th Psalm will be read Nov. 24 at all Thanksgiving services of Churches of Christ, Scientist.

These services are a traditional annual worship occasion in branches of The Mother Church, The First of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass.

Here in Greenville services of First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be held at 11 a.m. Thanksgiving Day. The service will include reading of the Thanksgiving Proclamation of President Jimmy Carter and a Bible lesson-sermon on the subject of Thanksgiving.

James Wright, first reader, and Mrs. Lucy Wright, second reader, will conduct the service which will include testimonies by church members. No collection will be taken.

The public is invited to attend.

Bikini Contest November 19

The Winterville Jaycees are sponsoring a Bikini Contest on Saturday, November 19 at the Elbo Room in Greenville. All proceeds from this event will go towards the North Carolina "Ten Million Penny Project" to build a swimming pool at Camp Sertoma in Winston-Salem.

The contest will begin at 8 p.m. There will also be a dance contest. Anyone wishing to buy tickets may call Edgar Wall for further information, 752-2517.

Script Ordered By Hitchcock

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alfred Hitchcock has set Ernest Lehman to write the screenplay for "The Short Night," a love story with strong suspense and action elements.

With the new film Hitchcock will return to the romantic suspense genre of "Rebecca," "Notorious" and "Spellbound." Lehman wrote the screenplays for Hitchcock's "North By Northwest" and "Family Plot."

Behind-Scenes Look At Radio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "FM" is now in production at Universal Studios, taking a behind-the-scenes look at a top rock radio station.

The film stars Eileen Brennan, Cleavon Little, Michael Brandon, Martin Mull, Cassie Yates and Alex Karras. John Alonzo is directing from Ezra Sacks' screenplay.

Sponsor Service Of Thanksgiving

The annual community Thanksgiving Service sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association will be held on Wednesday, November 23 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The 1977 service will be held in Immanuel Baptist Church on Elm Street. The public is invited to attend the annual non-denominational community service of Thanksgiving.

Rev. Dewey Tyson, pastor of St. James United Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker. Others to speak at the service are Rev. Graham Nahouse of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, and Rev. Gene Adams, pastor of Immanuel Baptist.

The offering taken at the service will be apportioned to two public charitable causes - the Church World Service, and the REAL Crisis Intervention Center in Greenville.

Special music will be provided by the Youth Handbell Choir of

New Pastor Filling Post

SIMPSON - The Phillipi Missionary Baptist Church of Simpson has elected the Rev. William C. Butts, D.D., former pastor of Providence Baptist Church, Edenton.

The congregation voted in April to secure the Rev. Butts as Interim Pastor. He was elected in a special church conference on Nov. 4.

Butts is a native of Norfolk, Va., and has held churches in Virginia and North Carolina.

The Rev. and Mrs. Butts have two children and two grandchildren.

The Rev. Butts will begin his ministry at Phillipi Baptist Church Sunday, Nov. 20, at 9:30 a.m.

The public is invited to all worship services.

Thrifty Club Will Celebrate

The Thrifty Club of Phillipi Church of Christ will celebrate its fourth anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m.

The following churches will be participating in the program: Simpson Chapel Baptist; St. Paul of Aiden; and Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

Dinner will be served following the celebration.

The First French Republic was proclaimed in 1792.

Preaching At Church Thursday

FALKLAND - Eldress Bette Rhinehart, of Arthur Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, Bell Arthur, will preach at St. John Baptist Church Thursday, Nov. 24.

The Shinning Stars will present music for the service which begins at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited.

The island of Santorini was born of violent volcanic eruptions that scientists believe were equal to 1,000 atom bombs.

'Old Fashioned' Sunday Service

Grace F.W.B. Church, 400 Watauga Ave., Greenville, will celebrate "Old-Fashioned Sunday" this Sunday.

Members should dress in long dresses, bib overalls, straw hats, or any other suitable attire.

Sunday School will begin at 9:45 a.m., followed by Worship at 10:45 a.m. There will also be an Old-Fashioned Sing at 6 p.m.

Music during the morning offering will be played on an old pump organ. In addition, there will be a Historic Relic display in the church gymnasium, featuring Confederate uniforms, a Confederate flag, a 1927 Model-T Ford, and an original Jesse James' Wanted poster.

The New Grace Chorale will sing during the morning worship. The pastor, the Rev. Roger Tripp, invites the public to attend.

Shrine Temple Plans Service

ROCKY MOUNT - The Rockefeller Shrine Temple No. 175, P.H.A., Rocky Mount, will observe Thanksgiving Sunday.

Worship will begin at 11 a.m. at St. John Methodist Church, corner of Goldleaf Street and Atlantic Avenue in Rocky Mount.

At 1:30 p.m., dinner will be served at Lincoln Park Motel Cafeteria. A social hour will be held at 3 p.m. at Club LXIV at 244-A Park Ave.

All Greenville area Nobles are to be present with fees and gloves.

Providence...

... the capital of Rhode Island! The river on which that city is situated! But both derive their common name from a word that meant much to the early Pilgrims.

The word providence stands for the goodness, the faithfulness of God. It reminds men that He has provided everything to meet our daily needs. It dwells on spiritual as well as material blessings.

Thanksgiving is man's reverent response to God's providence. In colonial history that word became associated with a single day, an occasion set aside for appreciating our blessings... expressing gratitude in worship and celebration.

But providence is a reason for worshipping God all year. And it is a reason for celebrating our religious convictions in daily concern for one another.

Anti-Defamation League Reports Klan Is Growing

Hodgin Says America Needs Uncle Sam, Now

UNCLE SAM — Sidney "Uncle Sam" Hodgin, a 51-year-old gun dealer holds the dream of becoming a national symbol of patriotism. (AP Laserphoto)

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — "Uncle Sam needs you," the old recruiting poster once read. But Sidney Hodgin, the Sanford gun dealer who brought tears to patriotic eyes last year as North Carolina's bicentennial Uncle Sam, believes the slogan should be turned around. The nation, Hodgin says, needs Uncle Sam now.

Hodgin wants to bring his red, white and blue uniform out of semi-retirement in a museum and begin stumping the country in an effort to revive the spirit of patriotism.

Hodgin even wrote the White House for an appointment with President Carter to discuss the possibility of his becoming an official national symbol, maybe even make some appearances abroad.

A White House aide sent a polite rejection note, but Hodgin isn't giving up.

"There's something magic about Uncle Sam," he says. "One lady wrote me and said she got duck bumps when she read an article about how I'm trying to spread patriotism."

"People just don't care," he says. "They say 'what's the use? I don't want to get involved.' Well, I'm involved and I'm going to stay involved as long as I'm living."

For a less devoted national symbol, Hodgin's involvement to date would have been more than enough.

As the bicentennial approached, Hodgin grew a beard, trimmed it to a goatee and let his hair grow, then died it all white. That done, he found a picture of an Uncle Sam outfit in an encyclopedia and sewed one for himself in the bachelor apartment he occupies above his gun shop.

He bought a jeep and a World War II command car, covered them with flags and bunting, and by 1976 he was ready to make 70 appearances in parades, festivals, ceremonies, talk shows, telethons and anywhere else people would have him.

When the year ended he retired the suit, but he had to bring it back last July 4 because of the demand. People are still calling for him, Hodgin says, and he believes there's a need for the kind of symbolism he provides.

"I know there's going to have to be a patriotic and a spiritual awakening in the United States if we're going to survive," he says. "I'm not saying Uncle Sam could cure all this country's problems, but he sure couldn't hurt."

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan is growing after a decade of decline as it switches from heated, anti-black rhetoric to slick public relations, says the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

"For the first time since the late 1960s, there has been an increase in Klan membership and visibility," said Irwin J. Suall, director of Jewish organization's domestic fact-finding unit.

The membership of three major KKK factions has risen about 20 percent in two years and now totals about 8,000, compared to 6,500 klansmen in 1975, Suall said in an interview.

The ADL offices around the country monitor the activities of the Klan and other groups considered anti-Jewish and estimate the number of members and supporters, Suall said.

Suall attributed the membership increase to several factors, including the rise of David

Duke as a leader of one Klan faction.

"Duke is extraordinarily clever in manipulating the media," Suall said. "He tones down his views for public consumption, and he is being given platforms all over the United States."

"The impression has been spread around that there's been a national resurgence in the Klan and that it is now respectable to be a member of the Klan."

Duke, a 27-year-old college graduate and imperial wizard of the Louisiana-based Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, has attracted national media attention as "a new breed" of klansman.

However, Suall said Duke's organization, like other KKK groups, continues to be militantly anti-black and anti-Jewish.

Suall said another factor contributing to the growth is Klan's exploitation of America's current race-related issuues, such as busing, crime, unemployment and affirmative action.

However, Suall said the Klan's current strength is slight compared to the height of the civil rights movement in the mid-1960s, when the ADL estimated about 40,000 active klansmen.

The ADL official said the KKK fell into decline largely because it failed to in its attempt to defend segregation in the South.

Internal bickering also took its toll, Suall said, as splinter groups broke away from the Alabama-based United Klans of America, headed by Robert Shelton.

Shelton's organization must now compete with Duke's group and the Indiana-based Confederation of Independent Orders of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

The ADL estimates that the United Klans of America remains the largest group with 3,000 to 4,000 members. The confederation has 2,000 to 3,000 members and Duke's faction has about 1,000 members, Suall said.

Suall added that Klan sympathizers now total about 40,000 and that the movement has made progress in branching out from its southern base, showing growth on the Eastern Seaboard and in border states.

States where the Klan has increased membership include New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Kentucky, Florida, South Carolina, Virginia, Indiana, Texas and California, Suall said.

Book Week Concluded

"Read All About It" was the slogan of students at Third Street School in observing Book Week which began Monday and ended today. Choosing a theme, "Chuting For Better Reading," parachutes for each child reading 25 books or more were displayed.

On Thursday, Mrs. Lille Reid, school librarian, held a tea to which students, faculty and parents were invited.

A representative from each class was selected to share a book with Mrs. Esther Warren, principal.

Other activities included presentation to each student of a book marker; displays in reading areas; exhibits including shadow boxes showing scenes from favorite books; and students dressed as book characters.

National Education Week was also observed in the school. Mrs. Nancy Anderson and her young son presented the school with a lace tablecloth and a punch bowl.

One Complaint: American Beer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Dublin housekeeper Christina Grainger spent eight days in Iowa with but one complaint — the beer. American brew, the 59-year-old Irish woman said, "is useless."

She described much of her "Friendship Force" visit with 250 other Dubliners as "beautiful," but said she missed her bottles of Guinness stout, a thick, almost black beverage made from malts and hops.

The mother of 15 girls and six boys aged 13 to 38, Mrs. Grainger said that in Ireland "we drink Guinness. I miss it. I believe it keeps me alive."

"In Dublin we say, 'A Guinness a day,' as you Americans say, 'An apple a day keeps you healthy.'"

She said American beer had "no body to it."

The Irish visitors left Des Moines Thursday night. A similar group of Des Moines residents, along with Lillian Carter, the president's mother, traveled to Ireland under the program.

When friends heard Mrs. Grainger and her neighbor, Ellen Fennell, 51, were going to Iowa, "They said we were going to Indian country — wig-wams and pow-wows," said Ms. Fennell.

But Mrs. Grainger said she found the thoroughly modern Iowa lifestyle startling.

"The way people live here amazed us. People live a very quiet life — there's no rushing around. The air is beautiful."

Raps Handling Of Juveniles

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's system of dealing with delinquent children is brutal and backward, and the state isn't doing enough to correct it, a Duke University child psychiatrist says.

"It's encouraging that the last state legislature appropriated $3 million for therapeutic camps and $1 million for other community-based alternatives," said Dr. Harold J. Harris. "But there is a lot more that needs to be done."

In prepared for delivery to a Duke Medical Alumni Weekend symposium, Harris said children in trouble rarely get the help they need from the criminal justice system.

"Youngsters who are retarded, psychotic, autistic or physically handicapped all have active lobbies and rightfully so," Harris said. "But children who get into trouble with the law are primarily thought of as 'bad kids.' They are unpopular, and there is no Jerry Lewis putting on telethons to raise millions of dollars for them."

Harris pointed out that until 1969, North Carolina sent more children to training schools per capita than any other state. Conditions and treatment at those institutions, he said, "would make your hair stand on end."

Many children who end up in them, Harris added, are "status offenders," children whose offenses wouldn't have been offenses if committed by adults, for example running away from home, truancy and being "undisciplined."

In many cases, he said, they are trying to escape broken homes, alcoholic parents or sexual abuse by adults. "Status offenders" make up an estimated one-third of juvenile inmates in North Carolina, Harris said.

Harris said one antidote to a brutal system is the formation of child advocacy commissions to help government agencies serve the needs of problem children more effectively.

NOT HELPED — Marc is one of 640 residents of New Hampshire's Laconia State School for the retarded. His parents and those of nine other children at the school have asked the U.S. Justice Department to investigate conditions at the school. (AP Laserphoto)

See 'Warehouse For Retarded'

By MARGARET NELSON
Associated Press Writer
LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — The grim collection of buildings overlooking Lake Winnisquam is named "Laconia State School and Training Center." But critics say it is New Hampshire's warehouse for the retarded.

Consider Marc, 20: He came to the school 12 years ago, retarded and self-abusive. Nevertheless, he could jump and run then. Now, after years of being shackled to a bed or wrapped in a strait jacket, he cannot walk.

His feet are deformed from pulling against the shackles. Marc's parents say he received no physical therapy, so the muscles of his legs and feet atrophied. Marc is reduced to pushing himself around in a wheelchair with his twisted feet.

Consider Jim, about 18: Despite signs of normality, he is often violent. Because the school cannot afford to give him psychiatric counseling, officials say he likely will stay in the back wards with men who can barely speak and who constantly abuse themselves.

Parents of some patients say years of indifference have left the school no more than a place to hide helpless humans. Ten of them asked the civil rights office of the Justice Department and the FBI last month to investigate whether the constitutional rights of their children were being abused.

They say they were driven by "total frustration with the indifference of the legislature and Gov. Meldrim Thomson." The FBI says the investigation will take at least until the end of the year.

The 74-year-old institution has had a history of keeping retarded adults in the solitary-like confinement of windowless rooms and in restraints such as shackles and strait jackets.

Such remedies are less common now, but the hospital still houses many of its 640 residents in bare concrete block rooms. In many wards, one attendant oversees up to 24 patients, many of whom need help to eat, to use a toilet, to control their flailing limbs.

Superintendent Jack Melton says he took his job two years ago with the realization "that I would probably get sued for conditions here."

PRAYER ROOM

Services will be held at The Prayer Room, Sunday November 20 at 7:30 p.m. Located at Bell Fork Road, the speaker will be Sister Velma Blakney.

Patients often are outfitted with helmets and gloves to keep them from hurting themselves. Some, prone to epileptic fits, are restrained in wheelchairs.

For the hopelessly retarded, the school has no regular psychiatric care, no counseling, no training programs. There are far too many patients to be helped by the school's two occupational therapists and two physical therapists.

The school has a 2-to-1 patient-staff ratio, but the 300-odd attendants are stretched over three shifts. Melton says the school, even after adding 160 attendants next year, will be able to care adequately for only 300 residents.

The rest are consigned to custodial watching: wandering around fluorescent-lit rooms, huddled in corners, sprawled on floor mats.

Melton says private institutions spend $20,000 a year to care for each of their retarded patients. Laconia spends half that.

Armed Forces Short Of Doctors; May Worsen

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The end of the draft and its pressure on medical students has left the military short of doctors, and a spokesman says the situation may get worse.

"I think there's no doubt that all three military services are feeling the effects of the lack of a draft as far as getting physicians in," Vice Adm. Willard P. Arentzen, the Navy's surgeon general, said in an interview.

The services by latest count are short 1,076 doctors. That's almost 10 percent of the authorized medical force of 11,811.

As of Sept. 30, the Army was short 682 doctors out of an authorized 4,738. The Air Force put its shortage at 222 from an allotment of 3,409, and the Navy was short 172 doctors of its 3,664 slots.

"For the next couple of years, maybe until 1980-81, we're all going to be hurting quite badly," an Air Force spokesman said.

While it's still too early to pass judgment on the all-volunteer force, an Army spokesman said, there's no question that the end of the draft in 1972 is having an effect on the supply of military doctors.

"We're in a pinch right now in trying to get folks in," he said, "especially radiologists, obstetricians, gynecologists, psychiatrists and family care (doctors)."

Many specialists have left the services because Congress made them ineligible for bonuses that could have totaled $13,500 a year in some cases.

While money is a factor, Arentzen said, job satisfaction matters too.

He said Navy physicians look outside the service and see that they "don't have to wait for equipment and so forth. They don't have to put up with some of the frustrations that we in government do, and, therefore, they go ahead and get out. It's unfortunate."

"The young doctors of today have been brought up to rely on a lot of instrumentation," he said.

If they find military medicine lacking in equipment and facilities, they quickly become disenchanted, he said.

But Arentzen said an $18.3 million allocation for purchases in the next year should ease the problem.

The expected crunch of the early 1980s, he said, stems largely from the end of a plan that allowed doctors to delay their draft obligation until they completed specialized training.

In the future, Arentzen said, the services will have to rely primarily on scholarship programs, under which medical students agree to join the military after graduation.

The services also must rely on foreign-trained doctors. Arentzen said that of 190 physicians recruited by the Navy in 1977, 106 were trained outside the United States. Seventy-two were aliens.

Navy doctors serve 719,000 active duty personnel and 2.12 million dependents, retired personnel and dependents of retired personnel.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Against opponents who are unlikely to make a mistake, declarer can occasionally find an unusual line to land a seemingly doomed contract.

North-South's range for their no trump opening bids was 15-17 points, so South's hand just qualified. North raised to game in the hope that his long suit would be a source of tricks.

West's lead of the ten of spades did declarer's cause no harm. South was Ken Meyer of Harrisburg, Pa., and it seems that his natural play after winning the jack of spades was a low club to one of dummy's honors. That would have ended in the contract's defeat. After East won the ace of clubs West would still have had two club stoppers, and all he would have to do to assure shutting out dummy's clubs would be to duck the second round of the suit.

But Meyer surprised everyone by leading a low club and following low from dummy! Now the contract was unbeatable. East won the ace and continued with a spade. Declarer won the king and played another club, continuing the suit until the king was driven out. The ace of spades was still in dummy as an entry to the good clubs.

What induced declarer to make such a spectacular play at trick two? He simply gave the opponents credit for being able to make the right play!

If the clubs were split 3-2, the defenders could always shut out the suit by ducking the first club and winning the second. With only one entry to dummy, declarer would then have no way to force out the remaining high club and get back to the table to cash his winners.

So South's only chance of bringing in the clubs was to hope that the suit was divided 4-1, and that the singleton was an honor. Thoughtful play was well rewarded.

Seven-Week Dock Strike Expected To End Today

By TOM CRANE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, head of the 50,000-member International Longshoremen's Association, said he hoped today would bring an end to the seven-week strike against container ships along the East and Gulf coasts. Such a wind-up also was eagerly awaited by thousands of businessmen who had Christmas merchandise stranded in transit when dock workers refused to unload the goods. Prolonging the strike further could mean financial hardship, even ruin, for many. The strike has also added billions of dollars more to the nation's record trade deficit.

On Thursday, 29 ships bound for American ports were reported stranded abroad while 49 ships lay idle in American coastal waters.

Gleason would not go into details when he commented late Thursday but promised, "We'll wrap up everything tomorrow (Friday) morning."

Information from most of the other affected 34 ports from Maine to Texas also indicated that agreement on a master contract and local supplements lacked only a few punctuation marks and formal signing.

The selective strike over "containerization" began Oct. 1 because of the impact of container shipping on waterfront employment. Shipment of goods in van-sized metal boxes, which are unloaded by cranes, reduced the manual labor needed from dock workers. Other goods are sealed in pre-loaded barges that are hoisted aboard special "mother" ships.

The innovations are costly but designed to save money by eliminating manual labor. Gleason agreed to go along with automation on the promise that his members would be protected until retirement. This income protection guarantee has drastically cut the potential savings of containerization and the shippers have been resisting.

New Orleans negotiators tried Thursday to overcome the objections of three steamship companies to some of the added costs of a newly devised job security program. Gleason hinted that failure to reach agreements there would not necessarily block speedy ratification of new three-year contracts elsewhere. Ratification would be followed by a return to work Saturday at time-and-a-half rates in affected ports.

Gleason has insisted that guaranteed annual income programs, assuring longshoremen of as much as 100 percent of normal wages and benefits in such highly automated ports as New York, be written into all local agreements this year. The job security plan, under which "automated" carriers will bankroll the union funds if necessary, was added to meet the union's demand for assurances that the funds will not go bankrupt.

Gleason had set up the settlement schedule last Sunday as tentative agreement was announced here on a master contract for the ports of Boston, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Hampton Roads, Va.

He had called for extension of the master agreement to ports from Wilmington, N.C., to Tampa, Fla., accomplished late Thursday at talks in Miami Beach, and along the Gulf Coast to Brownsville, Tex. To day's deadline also applied to local supplements.

While the schedule appeared impossible to meet, the same was true of the last Sunday goal for the North Atlantic master agreement.

Gleason led the ILA negotiations in New Orleans for two days before flying back to his headquarters here Wednesday night to tend to other pressing matters.

It appeared that the New York Shipping Association and the ILA would finalize a local agreement today for the 12,000 longshoremen working in the nation's No. 1 seaport.

Master contract settlement efforts were continuing in New Orleans and at points on the East Gulf and West Gulf coasts while local officials strove to complete separate port pacts. Gleason said he expected that whatever was agreed upon in New Orleans would have a bearing on the remainder of the Gulf Coast. He denied that the New Orleans negotiations had broken down.

"They made some concessions," he said of shippers there, "but it was not enough."

The tentative master contract would continue the 40-hour work week and increase hourly base pay from the prior $8 in three 80-cent steps, to $10.40 hourly in the final year, starting Oct. 1, 1979. The first raise would be retroactive to last June 1, providing a bonus for returning to work after a brief walkout earlier this year against seven containership operators.

Additions to welfare and pension plans would raise the final-year labor cost to $14.15 per man-hour.

Congressional Conferees See Slow Progress On Energy Bill

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees are making progress toward a compromise energy bill, but the pace is so slow that doubts are being raised over whether the task can be finished this year.

"At the rate we're going, we'll be lucky to get natural gas resolved by Christmas," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-

La., leader of the Senate conferees.

The administration has placed a major emphasis on getting a bill this year. President Carter has said the reputation of his first year's domestic program hinges on what Congress does with energy.

Johnston acknowledged the possibility that Congress may not finish work on energy until next year. "There's no particular magic in Dec. 31 versus Jan. 1, although we still hope to finish this year," he said.

Some of the biggest differences between the two chambers — including natural gas price regulation and energy taxes — have yet to be dealt with.

The conference panel that has been meeting for five weeks on non-tax aspects of the energy bill made some headway Thursday in resolving an impasse over electric rates.

The conferees approved Thursday a measure encouraging but not requiring states to consider conservation factors in setting electric rates.

It was a compromise between the House bill, containing President Carter's proposals for mandatory federal rate-making standards, and the Senate bill, which left rate-making entirely to the states.

Carter wanted to require electric utilities to charge lower rates for power used during off-peak times and higher rates when demand was heavy. He also wanted to end rate discounts for big industrial users.

Under the compromise, state regulatory agencies would still have to consider these standards but would not be required to adopt them. However, they would have to explain a failure to do so to the federal government.

Some electric rate issues still must be resolved, including whether special "lifeline" electric rates should be given to the elderly, reducing their electric bills by as much as 40 percent. That provision was approved earlier by the Senate but not the House.

There is a chance that the tax differences between the two houses may not be resolved until conferees finish work on natural gas — which some congressional leaders say could take most of December.

The conference committee must reconcile the House vote to keep price controls on natural gas, as requested by Carter, with the competing Senate proposal to lift the controls after two years.

The House passed three Carter-proposed taxes: on crude oil, on fuel-inefficient cars and on industrial use of oil and natural gas. The Senate approved the industrial use tax but rejected the other two, voting instead for more than $40 billion in tax incentives for energy conservation and production.

Michael Landon Has New Cast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Landon, star and executive producer of NBC's "Little House on the Prairie," is working with a new cast — one that covers his left leg from the knee down.

Landon broke his ankle while playing tennis at his Beverly Hills home last weekend, NBC publicist Paul Bailey said Thursday.

Landon had spent two weeks on location in Tucson, Ariz., where he directed a two-hour television movie in nearby rugged terrain. He returned without a scratch, but broke his ankle his first day back.

School Fight Puts Three In Hospital

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — Classes were scheduled today at Gaffney Senior High School, but a school official said police would be on hand, following fighting Thursday which resulted in the hospitalization of a teacher and two pupils.

Cherokee County deputies and state highway patrolmen in riot gear were called in to quell the fighting, which school officials said involved 40 to 50 students but others said involved about 100 pupils.

The teacher, Virgil Rhodes, 37, and students James Michael Coker, 17, and Clinton Wallace, 15, were in satisfactory condition, hospital officials reported Thursday.

Seven other pupils were treated at a hospital. Police and witnesses said the fight began after two pupils were involved in a clash earlier in the day.

"It went off like a powder keg," said assistant principal ERic Garden. He said it "apparently was just a racial brawl."

City Police Chief Mack Jolley said officers responded to the first incident. He said about 1 p.m. a larger group began fighting and throwing objects, including bricks, in an area between the main building and the gymnasium and police were called again.

Rhodes and other teachers attempted to break up the clash.

School Superintendent John Baucum said some pupils were allowed to leave the campus after the fight and that others were dismissed in small groups throughout the afternoon.

Plan Attending JC Convention

The Winterville Jaycees are planning to attend the Mid-Year Convention in Greensboro, November 18-20.

The convention is held each year in November to recognize chapters for the first six months of the Jaycee year.

Arts Festival At High School

Ayden-Grifton High School will hold a Fall Arts Festival Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the media center.

There will also be a Back-to-School program the same night for parents.

Special invitation is extended to all parents and friends of Ayden-Grifton High School to attend these two events.

Charo Now New Citizen

CHARO

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "I'm going to be a hell of an American," said Charo, the blonde "coochie-coochie" girl, as she became a naturalized citizen.

A native of Spain, Charo and her sister, Carmen, were among 43 people who gained U.S. citizenship in a 30-minute ceremony Thursday.

The last three months have been busy ones for Charo, whose real name is Maria Rosario Martinez Molina Cugat Mingal. Several weeks ago U.S. District Judge Roger Foley knocked 10 years off of Charo's age, making her 26. Charo, using affidavits from her parents as proof, claimed that her passport erroneously listed her birthdate as Jan. 15, 1941.

Charo claims it should be 1951, and that is what it now is — legally. Carmen did likewise, and Foley signed an order making her 29 years old, not 40.

On Tuesday of this week, Charo filed a petition in Clark County District Court seeking a divorce from bandleader-artist Xavier Cugat.

Three Collisions Here Yesterday

An estimated $2,520 property damage resulted from a series of three collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 3:25 p.m. mishap on Pitt Street, 50 feet North of the Second Street intersection involving cars driven by Loy Wolfe Jett of Route 1, Plymouth and Helen Smith Pearson of 1205 East Second St.

Police, who charged Jett with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $500 to the Jett car and $1,200 to the Pearson auto.

Barbara Judith Luciani of University Condominiums was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:10 a.m. mishap on James Street 100 feet North of the Ninth Street intersection.

Officers reported the Luciani car collided with an auto operated by Susan Kay Potts of Route 1, Knightdale causing an estimated $100 damage to the Luciani car and $300 damage to the Potts vehicle.

Cars driven by James Edward Ward of 2703 Crockett Dr. and Lenwood Winston Jordan Jr. of Roanoke Rapids collided about 11:47 p.m. on Cotanche Street, 60 feet North of the Tenth Street intersection causing an estimated $225 damage to the Ward car and $165 damage to the Jordan auto.

Winds Hit Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — A sudden, brief gust of high winds which observers described as "a swirling circle of wind" hit the eastern area of Williamston at about 9:15 Thursday night, causing property damage estimated at approximately $10,000.

Tommy Mizell, a staff member of "The Enterprise" newspaper, said this morning that most of the damage was centered at the Hopkins Recycling Plant, on the north side of East Main Street, a few hundred yards from the Roanoke River Bridge.

"Electricity was off in the area for a couple of hours," Mizell said, "but no injuries have been reported as a result of the sudden wind."

First reports of the freak wind gust called it a tornado, but regional and state weather bureau officials said that a tornado could not have taken place in the absence of any localized storms.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned upward again today in the final session of an erratic, up-and-down week on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off a fraction in early trading, was ahead 4.68 at 836.54 by noon.

Gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

At the NYSE close on Thursday the Federal Reserve reported a $2.4 billion jump in the basic measure of the money supply.

But traders seemed to be taking the view that the increase would not prompt any further credit-tightening by the Fed, at least for the moment.

Some analysts also suggested that an upward revision Thursday of government statistics on the third-quarter growth rate of the economy had encouraged investors.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained .14 to 52.54. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .64 at 119.51.

Volume on the Big Board came to 10.25 million shares by noon.

Arrested In Gun Slaying

William Henry Wooten, 27 of 507B Darden Drive has been arrested by Greenville Police on charges of being an accessory before and after the fact of murder, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

Wooten was arrested Wednesday, the chief noted, in connection with the October 23 shooting death of Harold D. Wilson at Wilson's 1220 Battle St. home.

According to the charge, Wooten allegedly loaned a pistol to Erroll Flynn Williams, charged with the shooting, then followed Williams to Wilson's home and took the pistol and disposed of it following the incident.

Bond for Wooten was set at $5,000 on each of the two charges.

Awaits Word

Word is expected later today on the start of construction for the expansion of Ficklen Stadium.

Cliff Moore, Vice-Chancellor for Business at East Carolina University, said before noon today that he was expecting momentary word on approval of contracts for the project, which will expand the stadium from 20,000 to 35,000 seats.

The $2.6 million project is expected to be complete prior to the start of the 1978 football season.

Griffin Holds Key To Deacon Success

By BILL WELCH
Associated Press Writer
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest is coming off one of its most successful basketball seasons, but prospects for the new year are as uncertain as the health of forward Rod Griffin.

Griffin, a strong 6-foot-6 forward with deadly accuracy, is the highest-scoring player returning in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He averaged 20.5 points and 8.6 rebounds on the Deacon team that went 22-8, finishing in a tie for second place in the conference and among the final eight teams in the NCAA national tournament.

But Griffin has a cartilage problem in his knee, and while doctors say it is healing, they can't be sure surgery won't be required.

"This is the greatest concern I have. He is much of our inside game," says Deac Coach Carl Tacy. "Doctors are optimistic he can get through the season without the operation. But we won't know until he's given it a good stern test."

Griffin is the remaining strength on the team which lost Skip Brown and Jerry Schellenberg — who combined to score better than 33 points a game — to graduation.

"He's definitely irreplaceable," said Wake center Larry Harrison. "And there's no substitute for Schellenberg's shooting ability."

As a result, area basketball writers have predicted no better than a sixth place ACC finish for the Deacon — ironically the same predicted finish last year. "That says something right there," Harrison notes.

"I think last year was a good learning experience for us. We found out what it takes to win," he said.

Harrison, a 6-foot-11 with a 7.3 average, drew some criticism last season as weakening the Wake middle. But Harrison's developed a hook shot over the summer and shrugs off the talk, saying he's more confident now.

"We would not have gotten as far as we did without him last year," says Tacy, "even though he didn't play up to potential in some games."

Tacy has several candidates to supplement Griffin at forward, leader among them being 6-foot-5 senior Leroy McDonald and a 6-foot-6 freshman Wilbert Singleton. Another freshman, 6-foot-10 Justin Ellis may push Harrison.

In the backcourt, there is Frank Johnson, "the smiling Deacon" who averaged 11.6 points in his freshman season. Freshmen sure to be used regularly are Fran McCaffery and Ed Thurman, both possible replacements for Brown at point guard.

"We're going to try to play the same kind of game we did last year, a lot of running, fast break and multiple defenses," says Tacy. "Every year there's a thin line between winning and losing. Experience counts a lot there, and that's something we don't have now."

Actually, Ohio State already has clinched at least a tie for the title. Michigan, upset 16-0 by Minnesota Oct. 22, needs to win to share the league championship and gain a trip to Pasadena, Calif., for the Rose Bowl against the Pacific-8 champion.

Saturday's loser will meet Alabama in the Sugar Bowl. Last year, Michigan scored a surprisingly easy 22-0 victory over the Buckeyes at Columbus, Ohio. That put a damper on discussions about home field advantage.

The rivalry may be unmatched. Saturday, it will continue at Michigan Stadium before nearly 105,000 fans and a national television audience. As usual, the Big Ten Conference championship and a Rose Bowl berth will be on the line.

Texas-Oklahoma, Southern California-UCLA, Harvard-Yale, Army-Navy, Oklahoma-Nebraska, Texas-Arkansas, Notre-Dame-Southern Cal, Alabama-Auburn are among the many great rivalries.

But in Big Ten country, Ohio State-Michigan games have no equal.

Although Michigan has a 40-28-5 lead in the series, since Ohio State joined the Big Ten in 1913, the series stands at 28-28-5.

This is the 10th time in the last 11 years that the game will decide the conference title and Rose Bowl representative.

Finish Letdown For Dye

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The 1977 football season ended—if it has indeed ended—in frustration for the East Carolina football coaching staff and its players. The Bucs lost two of their last three games, both to teams they were favored over.

The Pirates still finished with another winning record, their sixth straight, but the 8-3 mark was not what head coach Pat Dye thought it could be.

Lessons were learned for the future, however, and Dye feels that mistakes made this year will not be repeated.

"This was probably the worst coaching job I've ever done," he said this week in a season wrap-up. "I've learned a lot, and I won't make the same mistakes again."

Dye said that the mistakes were just part of the problems that bothered the Pirates, bringing on what he called an "undisciplined state" on the team.

He cited the youth and inexperience of many of the players on the team, and the inconsistency of officiating caused by not being fully aligned with any one conference. While the Pirates get their home officials from the Atlantic Coast Conference booking office, they still have Southern Conference officials or mixed crews in other games. But by not being in the conference, the officials are generally not the top-echelon officials of the league.

Fan reaction, brought about by the schedule of the Pirates this year, was another factor in the downward spiral of the team after its big beginning.

"In some areas, we had some tremendous successes," Dye related. "They were more than anybody anticipated or dreamed of."

Dye pointed out that only four offensive starters returned from last year's team, Willie Hawkins and Eddie Hicks in the backfield, and Wayne Bolt in the line, and Terry Gallaher at split end.

"Then, on defense, we had nearly a whole new secondary.

Add to this the coaching changes we had, and that caused more adjustments. The changes didn't hurt us, but there was still that period of adjustment that we had to go through," he said.

Dye was elated over the way the Pirates played and won against N.C. State and Duke on back-to-back weekends. "Both games were won in the late stages."

But only having four home games hurt. "It's much easier to get people up and playing well when you are playing at home."

Dye praised the fan support for the most part. "We set every kind of attendance record this year. It made the year a financial success, too. Last year was the first year at East Carolina that the football program was self-supporting, and we should have been able to make money this year."

Getting the South Carolina game on television didn't hurt the Pirates either. "The exposure, plus the money, helped us. Even though we didn't win the game, I don't think we did anything that would keep the television people from coming back to us."

The fans however, caused some problems, both to Dye and the program. One thing that hurt was that too much emphasis was put on the Duke and State victories.

"I had people come up to me after that and tell me that it didn't matter what we did the rest of the year, that the season was a success. I'm sure that some of this got back to the players."

"Obviously beating them means more to them than it does to me. It's important that we play these schools and be competitive with them, but it's not the biggest thing in the world."

"I said before, three years ago, that our program will have arrived when we can win against these people and not have people awed by it."

"So after these games, we didn't play as hungry as we should have. That comes from coaching, too, as well as fan and student interest," Dye said.

"And winning those games didn't make our season. Being 11-0 would have been successful to me. If being happy with just winning a couple of games is successful, then I don't know what winning is all about."

Another problem Dye had was the continual questions about his future. "Every year since I've been here, people have bugged me from the middle of the season on about where I was going to be the next year. Well, this is my job and this is where my loyalty lies. If and when I get ready to leave, it'll be news then, and not before."

"During the season, however, talk like that can only hurt us. Nothing good can come from it," the coach said.

"Don't get me wrong, I think we have the greatest fans in the

Colgate, Army Seek Independence Berth

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Overtures by Army to play in the Independence Bowl football game at Shreveport, La., may shortcircuit hopes for unbeaten Colgate to get into that bowl game. A bowl appearance would be a first for either team.

Calhoun Allen, Shreveport's mayor, was quoted by Larry Bump in today's Rochester Democrat & Chronicle as confirming that Army "made indirect contact with the bowl crowd."

Allen said, "Army would be quite an attraction, especially if Army beats Navy. And I'm a Navy man."

The Cadets, with a 6-4 record, were said to be under serious consideration for the Dec. 17 game at Shreveport, which is near Fort Polk and the Barksdale Air Force Base.

Others in the running were said to be Colgate, 10-0; East Carolina, 8-3; Louisiana Tech, 7-0-2, and Louisville, 6-3-1.

An Army spokesman at West Point said, "We have heard nothing about it."

Maryland was the bowl committee's first pick, but Maryland will play in the new Hall of Fame Classic Dec. 22 in Birmingham, Ala.

Colgate plays Delaware on Saturday, while Army will be idle until it plays Navy Nov. 26 in Philadelphia.

An unnamed member of the Independence Bowl committee was quoted as saying, "As far as I'm concerned, Colgate is the No. 1 choice. There are at least two, and possibly three, on the committee who would vote for Colgate if they won (Saturday.)"

"I think it would be quite an attraction — the No. 1 offensive team (Colgate) against the No. 1 defensive team (Louisiana Tech.)"

A committee member said East Carolina's record "of carrying people on the road" would have to be considered. He said, "They carry 12,000 or 15,000 people with them. Nothing was ever said about how many Colgate could bring, but packing up and heading 2,500 miles for a football game is something rare."

Colgate would be at a special disadvantage if drawing capacity were a major factor. With an enrollment of 2,500 and an average attendance of 6,500 at its last two home games, Colgate would lose out to almost any traditional major football powers.

Colgate, however, could survive in the television competition since it is near lucrative television markets, which would be expected to seek to carry the bowl game if Colgate were invited.

Last Chance For Two To Gain Victory Lane

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — This winter is going to be a long one for victory-starved Buddy Baker and Bobby Allison unless their fortunes change drastically in Sunday's Los Angeles Times 500.

That could very well happen in this last race of the 1977 Grand National stock car circuit season, for both cite Ontario Motor Speedway as one of their favorites on the Winston Cup campaign.

"I love this race track," said Baker, who has won only the Winston 500 in May 1976 since his November 1975 victory here. "It's a super race track and a super facility. If a car is set up right, it's one easy track to drive."

"But if the car isn't right, it can become a very difficult track to drive because the corners are so tight. A car really has to get out of the corners right to run well. The track is laid out identically at each end and each of the corners is identical."

Baker, who may be in his last race in the Bud Moore-prepared Ford, was seventh fastest in Thursday's practice session.

Allison, 11th quickest, admits it takes a while to get comfortable on the flat, 2.5-mile oval after running most of the Grand National schedule on steeply banked speed bowls.

"It seems a little odd at first. It's so different than anything we normally drive," said Allison, who won here in 1974 and will drive a Matador in this race. "It's so big and flat, with two long straights and two short ones."

Allison, whose last victory was the Southern 500 in September 1975, says, "It's easy to pass on because there is so much room," but adds, "With the long straights and short, tight corners, you can't afford to let your concentration waver."

Baker and Allison, who can't seem to find the winning combination any place else lately, put all their hopes on Sunday's race for salvaging an otherwise disastrous year. Meanwhile, most of the other Grand National regulars are scratching their heads here.

Benny Parsons, fourth fastest Thursday, maintained that the right combination still seems to be eluding him at Ontario.

"It's a very difficult track to set up for. I was third here last year, but a very poor third. I was never really in con-tenion," he said.

Cale Yarborough and Donnie Allison don't think this track is that troublesome, but they haven't won here, either.

Neither has Richard Petty. This is the only Grand National track at which he has never won a race, but after setting the fastest practice time Thursday, his chances appeared much improved.

The only driver to win here more than once is two-time winner A.J. Foyt, who was second fastest in practice Thursday. David Pearson is the defending champ.

Qualifying for the first 20 positions in the 40-car lineup was scheduled today, with the competition for the remaining 20 set Saturday.

The race goes off at 11 a.m., PST, Sunday.

Thompson Sparks Gold Team's Win

The Gold team rolled to an 85-55 victory over the Purple last night in Minges Coliseum, as the East Carolina University women's basketball team held its intrasquad scrimmage.

Rosie Thompson, who sat out last year with an ankle injury, came back off her year away to lead the Gold team to victory. Miss Thompson poured in 34 points and pulled off 17 rebounds in the contest to lead all scorers and rebounders.

April Ross added 23 points, while Regina Lacy had 12 points and contributed seven assists. Debbie Tritt had 10 points and 12 rebounds, while Lynn Emerson added five points to round out the scoring.

Debbie Freeman, the state's leading scorer and rebounder last year, led the Purple with 26 points and 14 rebounds. Freshman Lydia Rountree had 12 points, and Kathy Sugg had 11. Marcia Girven, Kim Perstrille and Patty Howell each had two points, while Girven picked off 12 rebounds.

"I was very pleased with the play of the Gold team," coach Catherine Bolton said. "Rosie showed what kind of a player she is, and to play that way coming off an injury is especially good."

The Lady Pirates open their season on Wednesday, November 30, hosting Campbell College.

As Joe Jenkins said, "We're down to the nitty-gritty now."

And that's about it. We have this week's picks, plus the bowl games in a couple of weeks to go, and our panel of experts still hasn't come up with a clear overall winner.

It could still turn out to be anybody's prize for the championship this year, but right now our guest panelists are holding down first place.

Ken Smith, last week's guest from the Sports Information Office at East Carolina, inched that group back out into the lead with an 86-38-2 record.

Tom Baines, Vickie Spivey and Jenkins are all tied for second place, just one game back, 85-39-2. Jim Kyle is next with an 84-40-2 record, while we bring up the rear at 82-42-2.

We've tried to put up some games that could go either way this week, and perhaps there will be some more shuffling around of the standings before things are all over.

Larry Gillman, head basketball coach at East Carolina, is this week's guest expert, and we told him that he was under more pressure here than in his job, since the "Guests" were already on top, so it was up to him to keep them there.

There is just one high school game in the area, and that's Farmville Central's meeting with the Dark Horses at Clinton tonight. The Jaguars and Horses battled into an overtime last year before Clinton finally gained a one-point win.

This year's game could be just as exciting, and may also go right down to the wire.

Last week's picks saw everyone go with the Jaguars. But this week there is some difference in the picks.

Still, the Jaguars are the favorites of our group by a 4-2 margin.

Perhaps the biggest college game of the area will be played up at Durham, when the Tar Heels of North Carolina face the Blue Devils. The biggest thing at stake could be Mike McGee's job, and a victory over the Tar Heels would just about insure his return.

But what will a loss do? Most people say it will mean a new man at Duke next fall. We'll see.

At any rate, our panel picks the Tar Heels, but again by only a 4-2 vote.

Our other consensus winners this week include: Virginia Tech over Wake Forest; Indiana over Purdue; William & Mary over Richmond; Illinois and Northwestern, a toss-up; Clemson over South Carolina; Maryland over Virginia; Furman and Citadel, a toss-up; Michigan over Ohio State; Texas over Baylor; and Texas Tech over Houston.

Tar Heels, Blue Devils Meet In Top ACC Clash Of Weekend

By The Associated Press

The Atlantic Coast Conference ends its 1977 season Saturday with two of its teams in the nation's top 20 and four being seriously considered for post-season bowl games.

There are only two conference games scheduled, one the latest enactment of the major rivalry between Duke and Carolina. The Tar Heels will be fighting for an exclusive claim to the ACC championship, their first since 1972.

If they lose, Clemson will be entitled to share it with them. The Tigers will be playing at South Carolina, having already finished the conference season at 4-1-1, their best showing in nearly two decades.

For Duke, Saturday's game, aside from the usual fruits of victory, will mean the difference between a winning and a losing season. The Blue Devils go into the match at 5-5 on the season and 2-3 in the ACC.

This week's games:

North Carolina at Duke
Wallace Wade Stadium, 1:30 p.m.

Durham, N.C.

This is the big one for Carolina. Winning means having the ACC title all to themselves. Losing means sharing it with Clemson. The Blue Devils would like to end the season with better than .500 on their scorecard, and this game would just do it. They would also like the edge in the rivalry, which goes back a long way and stands deadlocked now at 29-29.

Virginia at Maryland
Byrd Stadium, 1:30 p.m.
College Park, Md.

The Cavaliers have had a dismal season and stand at 1-8-1 going into this game. They would like to go out in a blaze of glory. Their only victory so far has been against Wake Forest, the only ACC team with a worse record than theirs. Maryland is now 6-4, and a victory would mean a respectable 7-4 finish and a chance for a bowl bid. The Terrapins lead the ACC in passing, and their running attack in the person of George Scott hasn't been so bad either. Quarterback Larry Dick is the league's most accurate passer at 61 per cent. It may be a long afternoon for Virginia.

Wake Forest at Virginia Tech
Lane Stadium, 1:30 p.m.
Blacksburg, Va.

The Deacons now sport the ACC's least distinguished record, at least where victory is concerned. They won their opener against Furman and have dropped nine games since then. Quarterback Mike McGlamry is the ACC's leader in completions with 118 good passes for 1,354 yards. Tight end Steve Young leads the conference in receptions, but he injured a knee last week and won't see action Saturday. Wake can take some comfort in the Gobblers' record so far this year, which at 1-7-1 isn't much better than the Deacons'.

Clemson at South Carolina
Williams-Brice Stadium, 4 p.m.

Columbia, S.C.
A regional television audience will be treated to this annual spectacle of rivalry, which dates from 1896. Clemson has dominated it, leading now 42-29-3, but over the past 12 years the two teams are tied at 6-6. The Tigers won it last year at home, 28-9. Clemson stands 7-2-1 on the season to South Carolina's 5-5. Tiger fans will have an eye and ear cocked toward Durham, because that's where their team's finishing spot in the ACC will be decided.

Pistol Pete Serves 'Em Up

By The Associated Press

You have to hand it to Pete Maravich...for handing it to his teammates.

The New Orleans star usually does most of the shooting for the Jazz, but Thursday night let his teammates pull the trigger.

Maravich wound up with 15 assists — and the Jazz wound up with a 127-116 National Basketball Association victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.

"We moved the ball on offense tonight," said New Orleans Coach Elgin Baylor. "That's an important ingredient — moving the ball in getting the open shot. We did that tonight."

Notified that Maravich had taken only five shots all night, a figure he sometimes reaches before the game is a couple of minutes old, Baylor responded:

"I did not tell anyone not to shoot. Pete Maravich or anyone else on this team can shoot anytime they have an open shot."

In the night's only other NBA game, the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Buffalo Braves 111-108.

With the assist of Maravich, Leonard Robinson scored 33 points for the Jazz. Without his help, he grabbed 15 rebounds.

The victory snapped a six-game losing streak for the Jazz, including the last five on the road.

Maravich, the NBA's second leading scorer with a 26.9 point average, made four of his five shots from the field and wound up with eight points.

Final Big College Weekend Set With Bowls Waiting On Sidelines

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Tough-talking Woody Hayes loves to hate Michigan and no better proof can be found than his continuous contempt of the Wolverines.

For public consumption, the Ohio State coach refuses to refer to his fierce Big Ten rival by specific name, as if it would leave a bad taste in his mouth. He calls Michigan only "that school up north" and refers to Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler as "that coach from that school up north."

Most people may not condone Hayes' violent feelings, but they can certainly understand them. The Michigan football team has given his Buckeyes plenty of trouble down through the years and Saturday figures to give them a little more in one of the biggest college football games of the year.

"This is really what football is all about," says Schembechler, whose team meets Ohio State in their perennial grudge game for the Big Ten championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal.

This is the 10th time in the last 11 years that the Ohio State-Michigan game will decide the conference title and Rose Bowl representative.

Actually, Ohio State has already clinched a tie for the league championship and needs only a tie with the Wolverines to win the Rose Bowl berth. Michigan must beat the Buckeyes to go.

In either case, though, each is virtually assured of a bowl game. The Sugar Bowl is expected to involve the loser of the Buckeye-Wolverine game to face Alabama in that classic.

While the Big Ten is trying to decide its various bowl representatives, so is the Pacific-8 — the other league involved in the Rose Bowl sweepstakes. UCLA can decide its own fate there, by beating Southern Cal next week. However, No. 19 Washington and Stanford also have a chance to go to the Rose Bowl with victories Saturday. Washington meets Washington State and Stanford plays California.

Meanwhile, top-ranked Texas tries to take a step toward another bowl in its game with Baylor.

The Longhorns have the inside track to the Cotton Bowl as current undefeated leader of the Southwest Conference. Only Saturday's opponent and a tough Texas A&M team the following week stand in the Longhorns' road to the Cotton Bowl.

homa-Nebraska game — meets Duke.

Florida State and Texas Tech, two possibilities for the Tangerine Bowl, both play Saturday. Florida State, ranked No. 13, takes on San Diego State and No. 16 Texas Tech meets Houston.

Steelers Given Nod Over 'Pokes

By BRUCE LOWIT

AP Sports Writer

It's as though a Hollywood script writer had somehow wormed his way into the National Football League.

Here we have Tony Dorsett, the heralded collegian from Pitt coming off Dallas' bench each week to breathe life into the Cowboys.

Here we have the fans, pleading with Coach Tom Landry to stop wasting time and make Touchdown Tony a starter.

Oh, it's going to be magnificent watching Tony return to the scene of so many triumphs. He'll be the star of the show, all right.

Only one problem—the Cowboys are gonna lose.

So much for Hollywood endings.

Last week's 9-5 mark put the season record at 86-40 for a .683 percentage. This week's picks: Steelers 24, Cowboys 20

We happen to like Pittsburgh's defensive ferocity and offensive tenacity just a bit more. Besides, the Steelers need this game a lot more. And more than 50,000 bloodthirsty fans won't hurt, either.

Bears 21, Vikings 17

Minnesota without Francis is like a day without sunshine. And it'll be a dark day for the Vikes, who needed Tarkenton, the home-field edge and overtime just to nose out Chicago five weeks ago.

Saints 23, Falcons 10

How do you figure either of these clubs? We figure New Orleans is more capable of busting loose and will do so before the home folks.

Redskins 27, Packers 13

After getting clobbered by ABC last Monday night, NBC could show The Godmother against this dog and sweep the ratings.

Dolphins 28, Bengals 21
Cincinnati just can't seem to get its act together. Miami wins with the basics and we'll take consistency every time ...

Lions 35, Buccaneers 10
... except in Tampa Bay's case.

Oilers 35, Seahawks 14
Billy White Shoes, Danny Soft

Shoes ... Houston could wear snow shoes — or no shoes — and roll it up against Seattle's non-defense.

Rams 27, 49ers 20

San Francisco, squeaking by against so-so teams the past four weeks, learns again that the big boys can — and do — play rougher.

Browns 23, Giants 9

The same can be said for the Giants, which isn't saying much.

Raiders 34, Chargers 13

With James Harris at quarterback, things would be different. San Diego would then only lose by two touchdowns.

Cardinals 31, Eagles 14

The Eagles can't get their kicking game going. St. Louis will provide some kicks — right in Philadelphia's teeth.

Broncos 28, Chiefs 17

Tom Bettis deserves better. But then again, so did Paul Wiggin.

Colts 41, Jets 8

Having a quarterback wouldn't hurt the Jets.

Patriots 30, Bills 16

Not even a blizzard would help Buffalo.

'Old Blue Eyes' Back On Saturday TV Movie

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Well, Old Blue Eyes is back again. This time, Frank Sinatra, 61, is in a three-hour NBC movie, "Contract on Cherry Street," which airs this Saturday night. It's his first TV movie. He plays a deputy police inspector in New York, where the movie was made. He runs an elite unit formed to fight organized crime and get good press for the mayor. His crime-fighting force contains such fine actors as Martin Balsam, Harry Guardino, Henry Silva and Michael Nouri. As "Contract" is about cops and mobsters, shots are occasionally heard. And no less than 14 hearties, mostly bad guys, are dispatched during this proceeding, written by Edward Anhalt. True, 14 KIAs may be a mite excessive. But they are so spread out over the three hours, and the gore and on-camera violence is so minimal, Dirty Harry would turn over in his shoulder holster. When it's time for a guy to be "taken out," a euphemism for "a hit," you usually only see the assailant firing his artillery at the camera, or a few .45-caliber air vents put in car windshields.

(There is much ado about folks being "taken out." If you don't pay attention, you may feel you're in a short-order corpse cafe.) The film is a morality tale about honest, cynical cops tired of seeing their efforts sabotaged by their superiors, faint-hearted prosecutors and overly lenient courts. At one point, an embittered Balsam suggests the police take the law into their own hands, noting that even Sinatra at one time or another has "taken out" a no-goodnik. "Of course, I have," Frank gently replies. "So have a lot of other guys. But that's like playing God." And he nixes the idea.

The cause of such talk is the cops' losing battle against stolen car parts operations involving two competing mobs. Sinatra's character is the kind of warm, decent, brooding police veteran who never tells his wife (Verna Bloom) what's bugging him, a theme you may have seen exercised before in "Police Story."

Frustration is what's bugging him. And he finally sanctions police lawlessness when Balsam is slain by a black baddie (Johnny Barnes) during a raid on a garage where stolen cars are stripped for parts. Sinatra does a good job, but the plot gets mighty murky, the dialogue occasionally is laughable, and this "Contract"

Woodard's house, you drive over a mountain on a blacktop road until the blacktop ends, drive down a rutted dirt lane until the lane ends, then you walk.

You walk and climb half a mile up a twisting, boulder-strewn path obscured by fallen leaves and pine needles, following a stream that tumbles down the steep hillside over mossy rocks. Deep in this idyllic wilderness the only sound is the brawling stream.

The house is utterly isolated among the trees, a handsome two-story house covered with weather-mellowed cedar shakes.

Nearby is an acre clearing where Dan and Robin grow their own groceries. Robin cans the produce and stores it in a root cellar. Dan built the root cellar.

Dan also built the house, sawed every board, drove every nail. He is a fine carpenter and a resourceful man; he taught himself the craft. Robin is resourceful, too, and giving. She teaches sewing one day a week in a nursing home.

Behind the house stands another tidy structure. With its two stained-glass windows, also hand-crafted by Dan, it might be a small chapel, but it is not. It is an outhouse. The most troublesome outhouse you can imagine.

"We came here because we like the woods, the outdoors," Dan Woodard said. "We like privacy. All we want is to be left alone. Instead, for three years we've been in and out of court and it isn't over yet. All because of an outhouse."

"Sometimes it gets pretty silly. One official asks why on earth we want an outhouse and another says if we have an outhouse everybody will want one. How do you deal with that?"

Dan Woodard discusses his outhouse woes with remarkable calm. A less forgiving soul would be tearing his hair.

Dan and Robin, both in their early 30s, met at the University of California at Los Angeles. From the start, they treasured being alone. After graduation and marriage they rented a cabin far back in the redwood mountains of northern California.

They wanted their own place, though, and began a search, traveling the country unhurriedly, enjoying the scenery and each other.

In the spring of 1974 they found this spot: 96 acres of romantic mountainside with its crystal brook, ample firewood and garden clearing. No electricity, but they prefer oil lamps. It was ideal.

Dan applied for a building permit. He was told he would need a septic tank. He explained that he planned to build an outhouse.

"Not only would we have to build a road so a truck could come up with a tank, which would be terribly expensive and spoil the beauty, but we really do want an outhouse," Dan said. "An outhouse forces you to go outside even in bad weather, and once you're outside you're glad to be outside."

The town said too bad, no outhouse. Against the law. Dan was told to stop building not just the outhouse but also the house.

He wanted to finish by winter so he hired a lawyer, got a restraining order against the town and built his home. The case came up in February and the court found in his favor.

The town gave him a permit for an outhouse.

"We thought that was the end of it, but a week later the plumbing inspector arrived. He said we could have an outhouse, but the state required indoor plumbing as well, plus a washing machine hookup. Why, we don't even have electricity for a washing machine."

The inspector himself saw the absurdity, resigned rather than enforce the rule, and went with Dan to Boston to plead for a variance.

They returned and found a summons from the town for building without a permit. Dan lost that case in court but won it on appeal. The judge ruled that the town could hardly have been unaware of his plans.

"What we now have is approval in the state court but no variance from the state Board of Plumbing Examiners. That's still unsettled. "We have the feeling we're being harassed but don't know why. I guess they think we're strange. At one hearing they kept pointing out that we were from California." He laughed. "Actually I'm from Michigan. "We don't want to cause trouble. The last thing we want to do is bother anybody. All we want is an outhouse, just a simple outhouse." A modest desire, Dan and Robin. Hang in there.

Charged With Check Forgery

Marvin Earl Hines, 22, of 412 W. Village Drive, has been arrested by the Pitt Sheriff's Department and charged on a variety of forgery counts, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Sheriff Tyson said that Hines was arrested Nov. 15 and charged with uttering and forging a $135 check using the name of J. Brooks Tucker at the Convenience Food Mart, Red Oak Shopping Center.

The sheriff noted that the check was made payable to Raymond Brown and written on the First State Bank of Winterville.

In addition, Hines has been charged with forgery incidents at the Red and White Super Market, two at Heath's Fish Market, one at Thomas Clothing Store, and one at Western-Auto, all in Farmville, with the forged checks ranging from $55 to $73.

Sheriff Tyson said that another charge involves a forgery at Hart Brothers clothing store in Grifton and an additional charge involves a check passing in Greene County.

All of the Farmville incidents, as well as the Grifton forgery, involved the signing of Verlene J. Hill's name on the checks, it was reported.

Two other charges, involving forgery incidents at a store operated by Earl Faulkner on Highway 264, have also been preferred, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Tyson alerted area citizens who are asked to cash counter checks using J. Brooks Tucker or Verlene J. Hill signatures to contact the Sheriff's Department.

Rescue Desert Couple In Australian Wastes

PERTH, Australia (AP) — An aboriginal couple, believed to be the last of their tribe living in a traditional style dating back 30,000 years, have been rescued from near starvation in the drought-stricken Gibson Desert of Western Australia.

The couple, exiled by their tribe almost 40 years ago, were thought to be the last of the Mandjildjara tribe living in the traditional way, eking out an existence from the sparse animal life, vegetation and occasional water holes of one of Australia's driest regions.

Warri, aged about 60, and his wife, Yatungka, about 50, were rescued from the desert recently after older members of the tribe, now living near the small town of Wiluna, 475 miles northeast of here, expressed fears for their survival.

The Mandjildjaras living in Wiluna, who have been forced into civilization by a three-year drought, said the couple were the last of their nomadic tribe still living in the desert.

Professor W. Peasley, an Australian anthropologist from Perth, helped organize the rescue operation with the aid of Mudjon, a tribal elder still familiar with the ways of the desert. After an extensive search, the party found the couple at a water hole in tribal territory about 300 miles northeast of Wiluna.

In an interview with the Western Australian newspaper, Peasley said Warri and Yatungka were weak and emaciated when the search party found them. He said Warri, who was naked, could walk only with difficulty and could no longer throw his spear effectively at desert animals inhabiting the region. The many sores on his body could not heal because of malnutrition. His wife was a little stronger and was able to reach mud at the bottom of a water hole for something to drink, he said.

Peasley said that for several weeks the couple's only nutrition had been the fruit of a desert tree.

For many years, the couple had refused to join other members of their tribe but finally agreed when the expedition reached them. The two had been exiled from the tribe when they breached a tribal law forbidding marriage with certain members of the tribe.

Spearing and social sanctions are the normal punishment for such breaches of tribal law and the couple had avoided other tribal members for many years for fear of punishment and ostracism.

Peasley was joined by four friends and the tribal elder for the long search from one dried water hole to another until a smoke signal from Warri was answered by one sent up from the party.

Bards Of Yesteryear Appreciated Rural Autumns

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — "To one who has long been in city pent," rhapsodized urban dweller John Keats in a sensuous sonnet, "Tis very sweet to look into the fair and open face of heaven."

Hot-footing it out to the boonies from the clattering pavements of London, the suddenly rusticated poet saluted autumn as "the season of mists and yellow fruitfulness" sound asleep "on a half reaped furrow" and all that drowsy stuff.

About the same time another city slicker, Percy Bysshe Shelley, the weekend bird watcher who first identified the bird that never werts, was set loose among the fallen leaves and fashioned "A dirge" for autumn, all about the old year "on her deathbed, in a shroud of leaves."

Then there was John Greenleaf Whittier, despite a middle name a mite out of season, listening to "the still small voice of autumn hush" and seeing in "yon maple wood the burning bush."

The bards of yesteryear had a lot going for them, inspiration-wise, in those peaceful, decibel-free autumns of yore when November's song was dirge and not a raucous hard rock festival.

They were lucky enough to beat it off this globe long before the ear-splitting, mind-blowing torments of the chain saw, the lead blower, the power mower and the monstrous vacuum mulcher from down in the village that sucks up and chews up everything in sight.

When the frost is on the pumpkin these days, the fodder's in shock all right. And so is the mother and the rest of the family. Deep accoustical shock.

Who can hear himself think funeral thoughts about the fall of the year when the fellow across the road is ripping up forests with his chain saw, the kid next door is riding the range on his mobile leaf blower, the paperboy has just roared up on his moped with a transistor radio hung on the handlebars, the neighbor two houses away in nailing in Jimmy Carter's energy saving insulation and the fuel oil dealer is pumping away outside, double parked beside the trash-compacting garbage truck?

Charged With Embezzlement

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP) — A former vice president for financial affairs at Pfeiffer College is free on $20,000 bond after being charged with seven counts of embezzlement from the college, according to Stanly County authorities.

Willard Wallace Martin, who left the school in nearby Misenheimer last December after a 21-year career there, was named in indictments returned by a local grand jury, said District Attorney Carrol Lowder.

Stanly County Sheriff Ralph McSwain said Martin was charged Tuesday and was released after posting bond.

Martin could not be reached Thursday.

Lowder said that the indictments stemmed from an investigation which the SBI began several months ago "at the joint request of the college administration and the district attorney's office."

Troy Green of the special investigation division of the state attorney general's office said the probe took several months because it involved transactions that occurred over several years.

IT'S MY BIRTHDAY — Actor Rock Hudson, celebrating his 52nd birthday gets some birthday cake from actress Blair Brown during a break in the shooting of "Wheels", a 10-hour NBC novel for television. Brown co-stars with Hudson. Based on the best-selling novel by Arthur Hailey, the show depicts America's automotive industry. The surprise party was given Thursday at Universal Studios. The indictments charge that Martin diverted Pfeiffer College funds for his own use between June, 1972, and December, 1975. More than $8,000 was involved, the indictments say.

Pfeiffer College President Douglas Reid Sasser declined to talk about the case, saying, "The whole matter is not in our hands and there's nothing we can say."

Martin joined Pfeiffer College as a faculty member in 1955. He was named business manager in 1966 and became vice president for financial affairs in 1971.

The indictments will be scheduled for Stanly County Superior Court either late this year or early next year, Lowder said.

Best Of All, They Have Falls

OTTAWA (AP) — An 11-year-old Hong Kong girl has written an essay describing Canada as a country of igloos, hamburgers and fat people.

The Canadian immigration office in Hong Kong forwarded the unidentified girl's essay, which was made public Wednesday.

"Many Chinese go to Canada as innergrants to open restaurants and other businesses," she wrote. "Many Canadians, called outergrants, come to Hong Kong to open banks and make money."

Canadians live in igloos or very tall buildings, and the country is "full of polar bears, Eskimos and the Royal Mounted Police."

Charged With Passing Checks

A Rt. 1, Whitakers man has been charged by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department with 34 counts of passing worthless checks in the county.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that James W. Godley, 49, was arrested by deputies and placed under $1,500 bond on the check charges.

Deputies also arrested Godley's wife, Elizabeth, on three counts of passing worthless checks. Bond for Mrs. Godley was set at $50, the sheriff said.

Not long ago, another case was reported, of poisoning traced to a powdered bone meal health food product that had been imported from England. Although not actually a herbal product it does indicate the need for very stringent surveillance of the entire health food industry. The Federal Drug Administration is trying desperately hard to acquire funding in order to establish more rigid rules of safety for all health food products.

Are Herbal Foods Dangerous?

My friend and I are on a kick of herbal health pills. My doctor thinks it's hogwash and that it could even be dangerous. Do you see any objection to them? — Miss M.B., Del.

Even the local cider mill has installed a monstrous mechanical corer, peeler and pulverizer to squeeze out the "umbered juices of autumn" as applejuice was called in quieter times here in the country.

About 120 Told Will Lose Jobs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — About 120 workers at the Wake Finishing Plant of Burlington Industries have been told they will lose their jobs Dec. 1.

Company officials said the plant will reduce its work force, which now numbers 400, partly because of increased competition from foreign imports.

The plant dyes and finishes woven and knit fabrics, mostly for menswear apparel markets.
