Sadat's Arab Foes Begin Libya Conferences Today

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Arab foes of President Anwar Sadat gathered in Libya's capital today for the first of the conferences triggered by the Egyptian leader's visit to Israel.

Presidents Houari Boumediene of Algeria and Hafez Assad of Syria joined Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy and Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat for the "rejectionist" summit, and Iraq sent a high-level delegation led by Taha Ramadan, a member of his country's ruling Revolutionary Command Council.

Khadafy, in a military uniform, greeted and embraced his guests at the former U.S. Air Force Wheelus base.

Libya's government-controlled press bannered news of the summit. The official news agency JANA said it would aim at "embodying the will of the Arab nation to fight all imperialist and Zionist conspiracies and to frustrate the surrender and deceit settlement."

Thousands of Libyans paraded through the streets chanting slogans against "reactionary Arab regimes which have sold out the Arab cause."

Libya has been at the forefront of hard-line Arab opposition to a negotiated settlement with Israel. Khadafy broke relations with Sadat the moment the Egyptian stepped foot on Israeli soil, and Libyan embassies around the world burned the flag that had been used jointly by Egypt, Libya and Syria.

The summit is to be held at the ancient government palace in the center of Tripoli, now called the People's Hall.

The Tripoli parley is expected to last two days. Still to come are another "rejectionist" conference called by Iraq in Baghdad next week and an Egyptian-Israeli meeting in Cairo about Dec. 13.

In other developments: —In Belgrade, Egypt's ambassador to Yugoslavia, Morad Ghaleb, announced that he was resigning in protest over Sadat's opening to Israel. Ghaleb, a former foreign minister and ambassador to Moscow, said that he decided to resign because he felt unable to defend or justify the present political line of Sadat.

Tax Strategy May Please Congress

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's tax strategy — reduction early, more substantial changes later — appears likely to please Congress in the 1978 election year.

Carter told a news conference Wednesday he will push early in 1978 for "substantial tax reductions" combined with some proposals for tax revision.

But he said more controversial and time-consuming revisions would be handled later.

In the House, where all tax legislation must originate and where all seats are up for election next year, Carter's tax timetable appeared to be well received.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said the president "is saying much the same thing I've been saying in recent months."

Ullman earlier had argued that tax reductions must be in the context of tax reform. Apparently Carter's mention of some revisions with the tax cut and more later met his specifications.

Another ways and means member who has long advocated substantial changes in the tax code was more emphatic.

"Tax reform is only possible in a Congress elected on that issue," said Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio. "I'm not sure this is an energy Congress, let alone a tax reform Congress. ... If he offers a bolted reform bill, it may have fair prospects."

Vanik said he thinks an early cut to offset expected higher energy and Social Security taxes and stimulate the slowly recovering economy is essential, but that changes for the present should be kept to the minimum.

Carter gave no figures as to the extent of the tax reduction, but administration officials have talked in terms of $15 billion to $20 billion, and one source said the proposal might go higher.

The Windmill Is Really Missing

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — Most police officers will tell you they've seen some pretty strange stuff, but Eddy County sheriff's deputies say the case of the missing windmill is really strange.

That's right ... missing windmill.

According to Deputy Mike Doyle some person, or persons, drove a flatbed truck onto a ranch near the New Mexico-Texas line, took a windmill apart and hauled most of it off. The thieves left the fan and tail on the ground.

Deputies say they are puzzled, but investigating.

Wheat Land To Cattle

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has decided to permit farmers to graze livestock on wheat land set aside from production to help reduce grain output in 1978, a qualified source said today.

Bergland was in Kansas City, Mo., to address an annual meeting of Farmland Industries, Inc., a large farm cooperative.

Excerpts of his speech were released here but did not contain a reference to the grazing question. The source, who asked not to be identified, said Bergland had been urged to announce the decision in Kansas City.

The decision was made "at the policy level" in the Agriculture Department to permit farmers to graze cattle and other animals on land taken from 1978 wheat production, the source said. However, he said, "not all of the legal questions have been settled."

Under the plan, farmers would be required to set aside land equal to 20 percent of the wheat they plant for the 1978 harvest in order to qualify for federal price supports.

When formal details were proposed on Oct. 14, the department said "no harvesting or grazing will be permitted on the set-aside acreage except in emergency situations."

Winter wheat, which comprises most of U.S. wheat production, has already been planted for next summer's harvest.

There has been a conflict of opinion on how farmers should use the set-aside land, with some officials believing that no production use should be made of it at all, including the grazing of animals.

be part of a postponed trip to Europe, India and the Middle East. The original trip, scheduled for Nov. 22-Dec. 2, was put off because the president said he had to stay in Washington during debate of his energy legislation.

Further details of his plans for the French visit were not released by the Elysee Palace.

An official itinerary for the rescheduled trip was to be announced later today in Washington.

The visit to the Normandy beaches will take Carter to the point where Allied forces under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower landed in France on June 6, 1944. That date, known as D-Day, marked the beginning of the successful Allied effort to throw back Nazi forces who had occupied the European continent and bring an end to World War II.

In New Delhi the Indian government announced Carter would come there Jan. 1-3.

Accompanied by his wife, the president will leave Washington Dec. 29 and visit in succession Poland, Iran, India, Saudi Arabia, France and Belgium, returning to the United States Jan. 7.

Paychecks Held Up By Disputed Abortion Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost a quarter of a million federal employees aren't sure they'll get their full pre-Christmas paychecks, as Congress continues to grapple with an abortion issue that has tied up money for two of the government's largest agencies.

A temporary resolution under which the employees had been paid expired at midnight Wednesday. It was passed early in November to insure that payrolls were met while the debate continued on when the federal government should pay for poor women's abortions.

Unless the abortion disagreement is settled or a new interim measure is passed by Dec. 8, some 240,000 federal employees, including workers in 10 smaller agencies, will get one week's pay instead of two in checks due to go out Dec. 13, a Senate staff aide said.

The abortion issue is tied to the $60.2-billion appropriation for the two departments because HEW oversees Medicaid and other programs through which the government last year paid about $50 million for approximately 300,000 abortions.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill told reporters today that an interim measure, formally known as a continuing resolution, would be considered by the House next Tuesday.

He said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and Rep. George Mahon, D-Texas, chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations committees, were meeting today to talk about such a measure.

O'Neill acknowledged that he has not used the power of his office to settle the dispute, as he might have on some other issues.

"It's a highly emotional, religious issue," he explained. "It's one I truly feel a fellow has to vote his conscience on. Because of my strong religious convictions on this, I just can't twist the wrist of a person on this."

The latest round in the dispute, which began four months ago, came Tuesday, when the House rejected a Senate proposal.

The House has maintained that the government should pay for poor women's abortions only when a woman's life is endangered because of a pregnancy. The Senate insists that the health of both the woman and the fetus should be taken into account and that rape and incest victims should be eligible.

While the agencies are curtailing operating expenses and such items as overtime, payments are still being made for welfare, unemployment and other types of assistance.

On Wednesday, O'Neill blamed the Senate for the delay in compromising on the abortion question.

Another Amtrak Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak apparently will be able to operate current schedules through the winter because of a House decision approving an additional $18 million subsidy to the national rail passenger system.

The House, reversing itself, agreed Wednesday to join the Senate in providing the funds so that Amtrak trains could continue service through March 1.

The Senate earlier had approved an $18 million subsidy, but the House had voted down any additional funding. As a compromise, a House-Senate conference committee had decided to add $8 million to the $488 million Amtrak budget.

Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., argued Wednesday that the House conferees back to the committee with instructions that they agree to the full $18 million subsidy.

The House approved his proposal, 256-141. Gore said that without the funds, Amtrak would have to cancel some runs, he said.

After March 1, Congress will start a full review of Amtrak.

Congressional approval of the additional funding would mean the Floridian, which runs from Chicago through Kentucky and Tennessee to Miami and St. Petersburg, would be kept in operation. Floridian service is set to be halted Jan. 19.

EXCHANGE PLEDGES
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and Polish Communist Party chief Edward Gierek exchanged pledges of cooperation today across the gap dividing Gierek's Marxist-atheistic government and the Roman Catholic Church.

January Visit To France By Carter

PARIS (AP) — President Carter will visit France Jan. 4-6 and include a trip to the Normandy landing beaches of World War II, the Elysee Palace presidential office announced today. Carter's stop in France will be part of a postponed trip to Europe, India and the Middle East. The original trip, scheduled for Nov. 22-Dec. 2, was put off because the president said he had to stay in Washington during debate of his energy legislation.

Further details of his plans for the French visit were not released by the Elysee Palace.

An official itinerary for the rescheduled trip was to be announced later today in Washington.

Exchange Dec. 9

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Mexico will transfer 70 Americans and 38 Mexicans to jails in their native countries on Dec. 9 in the first exchange of prisoners made possible by a new treaty.

U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell announced the date for the initial transfer on Wednesday. The Justice Department said another 160 to 180 Americans jailed in Mexico will be transferred by Dec. 17.

The exchange is the result of a treaty signed by the two countries more than a year ago and later ratified by the U.S. Senate. President Carter signed legislation implementing the treaty on Oct. 28.

The treaty allows certain U.S. citizens imprisoned in Mexico and Mexican citizens jailed in the United States to be returned to their native lands to serve out their sentences.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

SANTA NEEDS HELP

Children in foster care in Pitt County — about 150 of them — have made out their Christmas lists. They range in age from under a year to 18.

Pitt County Department of Social Services social workers accept the responsibility of seeing that as many of their requests as possible are met. They do this during working hours and on their own time. There are no administrative costs involved, but every cent used must be donated by the public. This has worked well in past years and Linda Baldwin of the Social Services Department believes it will work again. She has asked Hotline to appeal to anyone who wants to share with a child this Christmas to send a donation to the Foster Children's Santa Fund (tax deductible). Some persons' churches, or other groups may want to sponsor one or more children, she said, and she or Mary Lehman or Peggy Chandler will be glad to explain how this may be done. Ms. Baldwin, Ms. Lehman, and Ms. Chandler may be reached at the Social Services Department, 758-2167.

Donations may be mailed to The Department of Social Services, Box 1546, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Unknowingly Eligible

She is 78 years old and lives alone. Her children have moved away and she has no family to turn to. She does not drive a car. Inflation has eroded her small pension. This past winter was especially hard. She is eligible for Food Stamps, but does not participate.

Why not? The need is great and the benefits in terms of more food, better nutrition and peace of mind are substantial. She has heard of the Food Stamp Program, but may not realize she is eligible. She may need transportation to the Food Stamp Office. She may be ashamed or frightened. All these problems could be solved, says Betty Rouse, Outreach Coordinator of the local Food Stamp Program.

Pitt and other county Departments of Social Services throughout North Carolina area now making a special effort to enroll elderly persons and those living in rural areas into the Food Stamp Program. All community agencies and groups are being asked to join in this effort — to lend support to the reaching and the assisting of individuals in applying for Food Stamp benefits.

In Pitt County, about 30,000 persons are believed to be eligible for Food Stamps. Mrs. Rouse said. Fewer than half of this number are participating.

Anyone who would like more information about Food Stamps is asked to contact Mrs. Rouse at 758-2167. Her office hours are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Pitt County Extension Homemakers Have Annual Meeting

A salute to Farm City Week was made by the Pitt County Extension Homemakers at their annual meeting held yesterday at the American Legion Building.

Dr. Eloise S. Cofer, assistant director of the Agricultural Extension Service at N. C. State University, was the guest speaker.

She told of the changing roles of today's farm women. "Homemaking skills don't come automatically with wedding vows — but they can be learned," she said.

As assistant director, she is a member of the extension administrative staff and participates in major decisions affecting the statewide organization. She is responsible for extension family living programs, which are conducted by home economics agents in all 100 counties and specialists located at N. C. State University and A & T State University.

Dr. Cofer is also professor of food science at N. C. State and was a food economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington prior to coming to North Carolina as assistant director in 1963.

Mrs. William J. Tripp, second vice president of the Pitt County Extension Homemakers, presided at the meeting and gave the devotional.

Greetings were extended to the group by Mrs. Phyllis Sawyer, president, N. E. District Extension Homemakers; Charles Gaskins, Pitt County Board of Commissioners chairman; and Edwin L. Yancey, Pitt County Extension chairman.

"Thank you for what you are doing throughout the county," said Gaskins.

"You are the most important people in the world to us in the Agricultural Extension Service. In looking over the review of the 1977 activities, it is obvious that you are making things happen. You are not just giving — you are getting," said Yancey.

Mrs. Charlotte Womble, specialist in charge of housing and house furnishings, introduced Dr. Cofer.

Mrs. Tripp gave the county report and special recognitions. The review of the 1977 activities of the Extension Homemakers includes:

Holding craft workshops; served as hostesses of Senior Citizen Mini Clinics; sponsored special interest meeting on importance of smoke detectors in the home; prepared report on tornado safety; collected approximately 100,000 stamps to feed 40 foreign children for a year; and provided 1,000 envelopes for Newcomers Educational Packets.

Mrs. Tripp gave special recognition to Extension Homemakers having over 25 years perfect attendance including:

Mrs. Margaret Briley, Sweet Gum Grove, 26 years; Mrs. Irene Case, Fountain, Mrs. Geraldine Alexander, Sweet Gum Grove, 28 years; Mrs. Ethel Tyson, Stokes, Mrs. Dennis Hardy, Bethel, and Mrs. C.

Heber Briley, Sweet Gum Grove, 29 years;

Mrs. R. Frank Clark, Belvoir, 30 years; Mrs. Margaret Tetterton, Sweet Gum Grove, and Mrs. Karl Hardee, Red Banks, 31 years; Mrs. Obed Castello, Renston Nobles, 32 years; and Mrs. Margaret Barnhill, Belvoir, 33 years.

Fifty-one other members had perfect attendance of a year or more, announced Mrs. Tripp.

Special music for the meeting was provided by Mrs. Curtis Worthington.

County officers in addition to Mrs. Tripp are Mrs. John Condon, president, Mrs. Bill Goin, first vice president, Mrs. Lyles Russell, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Albritton, recording secretary, Mrs. Herbert Brown, treasurer, and Mrs. Nina Phillips, immediate past president. Mrs. Phillips gave the luncheon invocation.

Of special interest were tables depicting the various areas of extension work during 1977.

A tour of the renovated home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Ray Hardee Jr. highlighted the afternoon.

This 'Sick' Family Must Get Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 13-year-old boy who crawls into bed with his mother after his father leaves for work? I can't stand to visit my sister anymore when I see what's going on there. I believe it is WRONG and I have said so. She lets this boy wear nail polish and play with her makeup and jewelry. He can't stand to get his hands dirty. It's "too hot" in the summer and "too cold" in the winter, so he stays indoors and plays with his dolls.

He has a 16-year-old brother who is so ashamed of the younger one that he is becoming more and more withdrawn from people. Needless to say, the younger boy has no friends. The father is helpless. He once threw all the makeup and dolls out, but the boy cried so hard his mother went out and bought more. This boy gets furious if he sees his father kiss his mother.

What is wrong here? I can't believe I am worried for nothing. Or isn't it any of my business?

CONCERNED AUNT

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, it IS your business. Your sister and her son are both ready candidates for the psychiatrist's couch. And if the father looks out the window, knowing what is going on, so is he. Appeal to her husband to get help for the whole sick family before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is a widower. I am a widow. I'm 68 and he's 63. I knew his wife well, so after she died I invited him over for supper several times. That's when I realized that we could be more than just friends.

Last Saturday night I was at his place. We had a few cocktails and he sent out for some fried chicken. Afterwards we danced to the radio, then we cuddled on the davenport and he kissed and hugged me. All of a sudden he stood up and said, "Now, I don't want you getting serious about me." He really hurt my feelings.

I got to thinking that maybe he's afraid of sex. His wife told me he's been impotent for years. I've heard that quite a few men have that trouble in their 60s. Mine did.

Should I put him at ease and tell him I don't care if there's no sex—all I want is companionship? I'd appreciate your advice.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: Don't mention sex, companionship or anything else. Just enjoy his company and let nature take its course. What will be will be.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old bachelor who recently met an attractive 26-year-old woman in whom I could become very interested. There is only one thing wrong with her—she talks too much.

I like so many things about this girl, but I can't seem to get a word in edgewise.

Do you think there is a chance of slowing her down or breaking her of this annoying habit? She's pushing for marriage, but I don't think I could live with such a talkative person.

BACHELOR

DEAR BACHELOR: An otherwise attractive and eligible young woman who's "pushing for marriage" should appreciate being told how she could improve her chances.

Tell her. And if she's hopeless, seize the first opportunity to get a word in edgewise. And make it, "Goodbye."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A book called "How To Hide Almost Anything," By David Krotz, isn't as crazy as you think. No one wants to live in Rip-off City... especially these days. And face it, we're living in a time where you pay 50 cents to park at a park and swap for the opportunity of buying back your kid's bicycle that was stolen the night before and feel that you got a bargain because you only had to pay half of what you originally paid for it.

I wish I understood what I just wrote. Mr. Krotz lists 157 pages of likely spots to hide things that includes baseboards, plumbing, secret panels, woodpiles, beams, ceilings and trapdoors. It's a book most parents can't afford to be without. Heaven knows I'm not a paranoid possessive person, but I have the only tennis racket in

Tips On How To Cook Aboard Ship

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Learning to prepare gourmet meals in your home kitchen is challenging enough, but how about doing it in the cramped galley of a sailboat in heavy seas?

Those are the conditions under which Doris Colgate makes many of her culinary creations. She and her husband, Steve, operate the Offshore Sailing School which sets up cruises in many parts of the world including the Caribbean, the U.S. East Coast and parts of Europe.

Six people usually travel on these boats, which range up to 60 feet in length. Which means a good deal of work for whoever is in the galley.

"We do quite a lot of barbecuing aboard the boats and take along frozen food if we have refrigeration," said Mrs. Colgate. "One of the students' favorites is barbecued chicken."

Fine if the seas are calm. But what if it becomes rough? "For one thing you have a gimbaled stove on most boats which remains level even though the ship is pitching," she said, "and the table you eat at is usually gimbaled, too. Also, most cooks at sea have a safety belt hooked behind them in the galley so, if the boat heels over, they can lean against it to keep their footing."

Do not put anything, particularly a skillet of hot liquid, on a galley counter. And if the seas are bad, don't try any fancy dishes, she warns.

Mrs. Colgate likes to catch fish during the cruise and serve them to the student crew. One of her favorites is stuffed snapper. Here's the recipe, including fresh fruit and vegetables, if you have a refrigerator.

2 snappers (1 1/2 pounds each) cleaned and butterflied
1 fresh lemon, medium

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1-3rd cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped mushrooms
- 1 large tomato, peeled and chopped
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup white wine
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Chopped parsley
- Rub fish inside and out with lemon and set aside on sheet of foil in flat pan. In skillet, brown onion in 1/4 cup olive oil and cook few minutes, stirring. Add mushrooms, tomato, parsley and oregano and cook few minutes more, stirring. Add bread crumbs, 1/4 cup wine, salt and pepper and mix. Spread inside of fish with stuffing and close with skewers. Rub fish the house with strings. Because it's unique in that it offers a ball some resistance upon contact, it is in great demand.

I have hidden it in the broom closet, behind the hot water heater, under my underwear and on the bookshelf behind the complete works of Shakespeare.

I had it in the trunk of my car, in a box in the attic marked, "TUNA RECIPES," in a suitcase with a broken handle, and jammed between the table pads for the dining room table.

I once put it under the dishtowel and as distasteful as it was, one of the kids actually lifted it, revealing my last child-proof hiding place.

My husband says I have no imagination. "If you really want to hide something, you can't think like the hider, you have to think like the seeker. If I wanted a tennis racket, the first place

I'd look is on a hanger in your closet with your bathrobe over it."

"Who told you?" I shouted. "No one had to tell me, it was just a simple deduction. Do you see me running around going crazy looking for my camera? My binoculars? My transistor? My scissors? Roll of tape?" "Where do you hide them?" I insisted. "I put them in the boys' bedroom in plain view. They haven't found anything in that room for 15 years."

Obsession Can Lose Us More

Of all the potential state projects which could affect our immediate area, perhaps the one with the most appeal right now is a limited access U.S. 264 from Greenville to Wilson.

Such a route would tie in with the limited access highway now under construction from I-95 westward. The need is so obvious that area people are completely behind the project.

One knowledgeable observer of Raleigh warns that we might become so obsessed with the Wilson to Greenville highway, that we in effect trade off other projects that are badly needed.

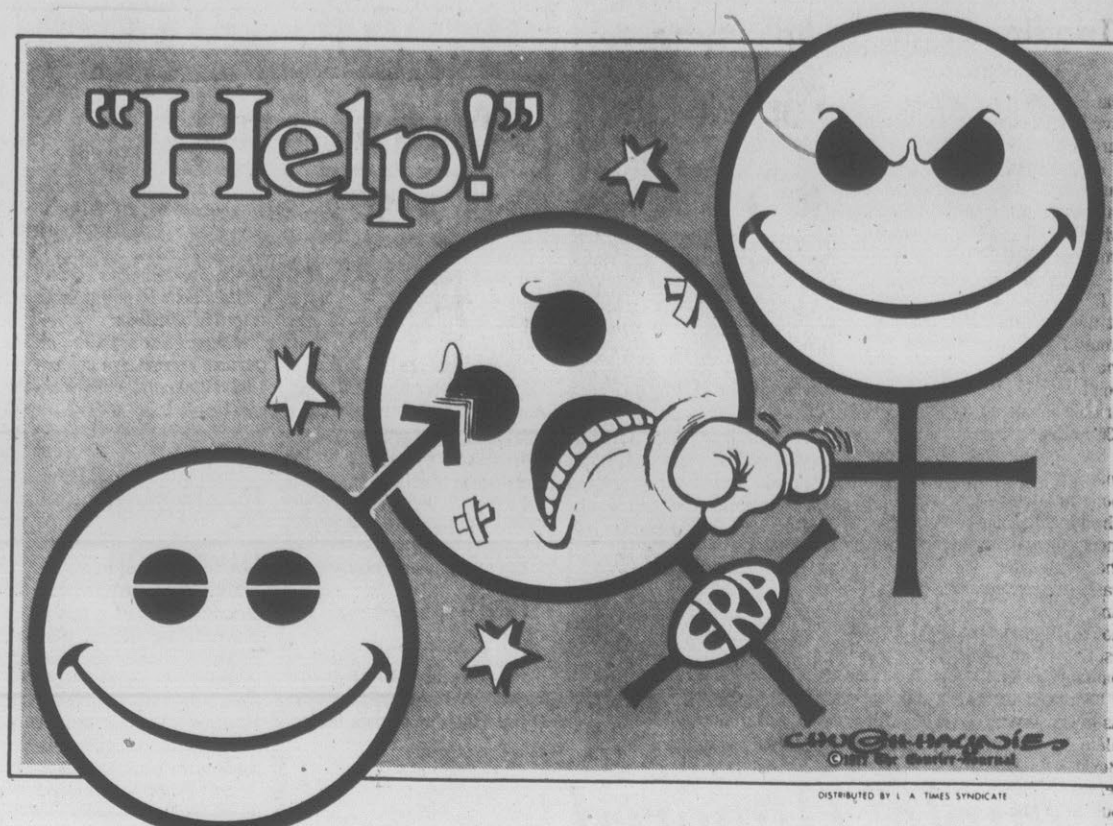

Given the way things work in state government, something like that could happen, but we simply shouldn't let it happen. We should be seeking the Wilson-Greenville highway because it is badly needed and we are paying the taxes and supported the bond issue which can build it.

That doesn't lessen the need for other highway improvements, however and we should let it be known that throwing one bone won't stop the bay-

In addition there are many other areas where state government can better serve the east beyond highways. Building a road here and there should not mean that these needs can go unmet so that the funds can be spent elsewhere.

For too many years easterners have paid their taxes only to have to beg for a reasonable share of state funds when various projects were doled out. That should not be our attitude anymore. We are a full partners with the rest of the state and our needs should be met on an equal basis.

Better Mutual Understanding Is Goal

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored a Farmers Tour Tuesday, and it was termed by Andy Warren, chairman of the Agri-Business Committee a "tremendous success."

Some 55 farmers toured a business success. Too often as cities grow, contact with surrounding rural areas becomes more remote. This should not happen in our county. Events such as the Chamber sponsored Farmers Tour can bring about a better understanding between rural and urban residents.

Private Colleges Gaining Religion In Classrooms

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — A program of state financial aid to private colleges and universities is proving that the effort can increase enrollment at those schools.

"This program has proven to be the significant factor in increased enrollment in the past two years. We have turned around the percentage of students going to private schools which has been on the decline for a decade and a half," says Cameron P. West, president of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

And that situation, comments State Rep. H. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg, raises the bigger question: shall the state use its resources to direct students into particular institutions, thereby perhaps saving the investment in public colleges and universities; using more fully available space and programs at the private schools?

A Decline
Since 1968, enrollment at private colleges or universities has remained either stable or declined slightly. This was during a time when enrollment in the public institutions soared by more than 34,000 students. The private schools, in effect, didn't get a share of the booming growth. The reason, by all accounts, is substantially higher cost at private institutions while taxpayer subsidies work to keep costs lower at the public.

The decline reversed last year, and continues with current enrollment trends, West said.

Private school undergraduate enrollment now totals 45,003, up 665 from last fall.

"We're extremely pleased at this second year of enrollment increase. We are even more pleased that there is a large increase in the numbers of North Carolina students enrolled as compared to those from out-of-state," West said. Tar Heels make up 25,613 of the total students enrolled.

Enrollment gains were recorded at Campbell, Duke, Elon, Greensboro, Guilford, Lenoir-Rhyne, Livingstone, Methodist, N. C. Wesleyan, Sacred Heart, St. Augustine's, Salem, Wake Forest, and Warren Wilson.

NOBLITT

At junior colleges, gains were seen at Brevard, Mount Olive, St. Marys, and Wingate.

North Carolina now provides $11.2 million in public funds for students attending private institutions. Every Tar Heel student receives $300, and another $200 per student is earmarked for the needy. The money is not paid directly to students, but is a credit against the cost.

Other Factors

West said the reversal demonstrates that many students want to attend a private institution given some equality in cost. Many favor the smaller schools, the climate of personal attention, the emphasis on moral and ethical values, and the individuality, he said.

The key factor, he adds, is that the state is beginning to view higher education as a total system. "It is not a matter of public or private, but that we are all resources within the state. Private is part of the whole, and renders a public service."

Representative Helms, who chairs a legislative study commission looking into state aid to private colleges' said the goal is to develop basic policy guidelines to shape future decisions on amounts of aid and any strings to be attached.

It is clear, he noted, that "the more aid, the more increase in enrollment. The way in which you implement aid will have significant affects. State strings raise questions; flat out grants raise other questions... and there are pressures from all sides.

"We hope to come up with some recommendations on these issues," Helms said.

HARRISBURG, Pa. — In a provocative essay just published by the Institute for Humane Studies, a leading constitutional lawyer has raised a fine constitutional question: What is an "establishment of religion"? Are some of our public school classrooms trespassing on the First Amendment?

The lawyer is William B. Ball. Twenty-odd years ago he was a professor of constitutional law at Villanova; for the past 17 years he has been practicing in Harrisburg, Pa., and if that seems an odd place to find a great constitutional scholar, so be it. At 61, Ball ranks at the very top of the list of lawyers who specialize in areas of religious freedom. He has fought for the rights of Amish, Mennonites and Dunkards, among others, and his name is engraved on such landmark cases in recent years as Wisconsin v. Yoder and Ohio v. Wisner. Ball's essay deals with four constitutional aspects of education in America today. He is concerned with compulsory attendance laws, with state control of private schools, with certain applications of tax funds, and with rights of conscience in public education. In this last area, he turns around on a novel proposition. To paraphrase: He wonders if the educational establishment — that mystic amalgam of educationists, school administrators, federal bureaucrats and textbook publishers — has imposed upon the classrooms a body of thought that is constitutionally indistinguishable from an "establishment of religion".

It is an intricate argument, but it is worth your time to follow his thinking. The First Amendment says that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion. The proscription, by judicial decree, long since has been extended to the states. (All the states, in any event, have such a provision in their own constitutions.) The custom has been to regard the phrase, "establishment of religion", solely in the traditional sense of ecclesiastical teaching. Thus, in the famous New York prayer case, it was held unconstitutional for public school pupils to recite a 22-word prayer composed by the state regents.

Very well, says Ball. But why stop there?

"I believe that it is possible," he writes, "not only theoretically, but practically, to offer proof of the establishment of secular humanism in given public schools, but I perceive the problem of rights of conscience in the public schools as being broader than the scope of secular humanism. There are many practices in public schools that are offensive, not because they are identifiable as part of a secular humanist program, but because they directly offend beliefs and attitudes of given children and parents."

On this point, Ball recalls the flaming controversy a couple of years ago over a federally funded program of moral indoctrination known as "Man: A Course of Studies," or MACOS. The program so outraged members of Congress that the National Science Foundation was compelled to back away from it.

The forbidden prayer in New York, Ball notes, "was the merest expression of theistic sentiment, which, even if persisted in, was not going to radically alter any child's life."

"That 22-word prayer is now unconstitutional. Compare that with such programs as MACOS or HEW's latest job 'The New Model Me'. These latter programs go to the very vitals of a child's existence, probe into his family relationships, directly attack Christian values pertaining to many areas of morality, and are capable of severely disorienting a child psychologically."

Checks But No Funds

By DAVID TOMLIN

Associated Press Writer, RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Shades of Bert Lance. The state of North Carolina has written checks totaling $100 million or more with no funds in its account to cover them.

Strangely, state Treasurer Harlan E. Boyles doesn't seem worried about those uncovered checks. In fact, he enjoys talking about them.

"It's like this," he says. "You've got $10 in the bank, but you know you're getting paid tomorrow. So you go to the store and write a check for $50 worth of groceries, knowing your paycheck will be in the bank before the grocery check gets there."

In state government, of course, the scale and the potency

THE INSIDE REPORT

U.S. Stance Is Relaxing

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A congenial visit here with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance by a moderate black African leader opens a sliver of hope that the Carter administration will reverse course and help an internal Rhodesian settlement long advocated by Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Vance conferred privately Nov. 15 with the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, who returned to Rhodesia last summer after two years of exile. To insiders, Sithole expressed pleasant surprise that Vance did not seem wedded to the Soviet-backed Patriotic Front (PF) as the future government of Zimbabwe (Rhodesia under black rule). Any U.S. nod toward Sithole takes on importance, for he is vital to the proposed peaceful transition to pro-Western black majority rule under one-man, one-vote that Smith announced last week.

Whether the Carter administration really has embarked on this course remains to be seen, considering President Carter's refusal to see Sithole. But even a trial separation of the U.S. from its marriage to the Patriotic Front would be significant, for the misalliance certainly has promoted neither Western interests nor peace in Rhodesia.

Actually, Smith privately committed himself to one-man, one-vote during his 1975 talks with then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. When we visited Rhodesia last June, it was taken for granted that Smith's public demand for a "qualified franchise" — vote weighted for whites — was merely a bargaining point to be negotiated away.

At that point a Rhodesian settlement may have been closer to realization than anyone realized with South African foreign minister R. F. (Pik) Botha, a political moderate, deeply involved in secret diplomacy. But all hopes were dashed by the Aug. 5-6 state visit to Washington of President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania.

Nyerere returned to his capital of Dar-es-Salaam claiming Mr. Carter's agreement ("in writing") that the Smith regime's security forces would be disbanded and that the army of Zimbabwe would be dominated by patriotic front guerrillas. That alienated the South Africans, outraged Smith and blasted hopes for a solution.

Although the State Department officially denies any pledge "in writing" to Nyerere, there is little doubt that the Tanzanian leader was correct in substance (as later confirmed by the Anglo-American proposal on Rhodesia). In short, the Carter administration tied its Rhodesian policy to what Tanzania and the other so-called "frontline" African states wanted: a Patriotic Front government, which guarantees a Zimbabwe with no future for white Rhodesians, Western interests or black moderates.

But in recent weeks, the "frontline" states have fallen out among themselves. President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia has been pushing to establish his client, Patriotic Front leader Joshua Nkomo, as leader of Zimbabwe, postponing elections to some dim time in the future. Nkomo controls a Soviet-supplied guerrilla army based in Zambia but has little popular support within Rhodesia. Nyerere, linked to Nkomo's rivals within the Patriotic Front, has vehemently opposed Kaunda's push.

At the same time, Smith was showing gains for an internal settlement. Although Sithole since his return to Rhodesia has been willing to negotiate, the other nationalist leader outside the Patriotic Front, Bishop Abel Muzorewa (also back in Rhodesia), for months has refused to talk to Sithole, much less Smith. But Muzorewa's lieutenant, James Chikerema, has recently given favorable signals — a breakthrough for Smith's statement last week.

Muzorewa remains the most popular figure among Rhodesian blacks, though some key followers have defected to Sithole. Together, they probably command over 80 per cent of the country's blacks and an unknown number of black guerrilla fighters nominally loyal to the Patriotic Front.

Sithole is a legitimate nationalist (frequently arrested

Other Editors Say The Drug Syndicate

(Goldboro News-Argus)

Again, North Carolina — Wayne County — emerges as the hub of the nation's heroin traffic.

The State Bureau of Investigation has charged two men in connection with a single transaction involving heroin worth $76 million in street sales.

Even at wholesale, the heroin was worth $650,000. When that much is involved in a single transaction, we are not dealing with the street corner pusher.

State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and District Attorney Don Jacobs hint that the latest developments may result in the biggest blow yet to the heroin traffic.

They speak of possible arrests in other states, with New York and New Jersey specifically mentioned.

Hopefully, the arrests will be massive.

We have far too many people running around in big cars, living in fine homes and clothed in respectability who are, in fact, realizing their fortunes from the most despicable of crimes.

Those who deal in heroin deal in the most horrible of drug addiction. They deal in armed robbery. They deal in murder. For these are the results of heroin addiction.

Attorney General Edmisten said as much when he expressed his office's pleasure in having removed a large volume of heroin from the streets.

But how much has passed undetected?

How many millions already have been made in heroin and other drug transactions by people who walk the streets today? Our people should not rest until this scourge is behind us.

North Carolina represents the biggest drug conspiracy in the world, larger than the French Connection. Our law enforcement officials were told that recently by federal authorities.

At whatever cost in undercover operations and in overt activities at every level, the drug syndicate in North Carolina must be destroyed.

Creating An Inflationary Bias

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst, NEW YORK (AP) — In a consumer society we honor the consumer. We provide him and her with warranties. We hold before the consumer the latest idyll of the good life. We work to make it achievable with easy credit.

And, says a credit authority, in so doing we create an inflationary bias in the economy. We do this, says Sidney Homer, by directing credit into consumption — homes, cars, luxuries — rather than into production, such as for new factories that will enlarge the supply of goods available to the consumer market.

This latest criticism is one in a growing list whose common divisor is the fear that our emphasis on consumption is at the expense of production. And without production, there can be no consumption.

To paraphrase the many commentators on the theme: We are all busily eating the pie instead of devising a recipe to make it bigger. We are absorbed in our rights as consumers rather than with our responsibilities as producers.

There is much statistical documentation of this. In the past 15 years, for instance, gains in worker productivity have averaged less than two-thirds the rate of the immediate post-World War II period.

Homer, limited partner in the Salomon Brothers securities firm, told a meeting of the American Council of Life Insurance that credit to finance consumption will rise five to six times faster this year than rate of new capital going into production.

Ever since World War II, he said, government policy has consistently stimulated consumption and consumption credit, and has in many ways discouraged capital formation and production credit.

Production credit is needed to make jobs. It is needed to improve and expand production facilities. It is needed simply for the survival of existing concerns, to say nothing about the formation of new companies.

How would he direct the flow of more capital and credit into production?

"First, (by) putting a ceiling on mortgage formation that is aided by the government so that in a housing boom all available credit will not be usurped by the great mortgage market," he said.

Tough words for housing. To the housing people, their industry goes into cyclical slumps primarily because capital is drawn from them into higher paying industrial uses. They would not like to lose more of that capital.

Tough words also for consumers of houses, new and used, who this year will number more than 4 million. Isn't it a consumer's right as an American to own a house? Isn't that why 67 percent of families do?

His second proposal: Permit savings and loan associations, which are the nation's biggest mortgage lenders, to buy corporate bonds, and thus funnel some of their funds into production rather than consumption credit.

"I do not doubt the benefits of more and better homes and other consumption facilities," Homer explained. "My protest is against the gross imbalance between the huge amount of long-term credit going into consumption and the small amount going into production."

Strength For Today

A NEUROTIC NATION

We are told that there is a pressing need for more psychiatrists in the United States—more people to treat the insane and help borderline cases on the verge of being institutionalized.

We might well wonder what has gone wrong with our nation. Here we are, the richest, the most resourceful society in the world, and yet half of our hospital beds are occupied by mental cases. At a time when we ought to be training people how to get more out of life, teaching them how to stay healthier and live longer, we constantly need more doctors to treat the increasingly vast group of people with neurotic or psychotic disturbance.

We can all think of reasons for this increase of mental problems. In addition to traumas arising from childhood, the fast pace of modern life and competitive pressures take their toll. Psychiatric treatment can help, but certainly will not solve these problems. A good dose of religion might be a more effective therapy than most doctors think.

tial benefits from such speculative check writing are much larger.

For example, at the end of June 1976, the state had $62.1 million in its demand deposits while it had $187.1 million worth of outstanding warrants — drafts on state accounts.

If all those warrants arrived at the bank instantly, the state would be badly overdrawn. But the fact is, Boyles says, they don't arrive all at once. They dribble in at the rate of about $30 million a day.

So Boyles and his money managers keep about $50 million in demand deposits — checking accounts — to cover incoming warrants. They invest the remainder of the state's cash in government securities and other interest-bearing notes. It amounts to an interest-free loan from the state banking system.

"Some of the banks come to us every now and then to complain that we're using them," Boyles chuckled in a recent interview. "But we're only doing our job, managing the state's funds the best way we can."

Boyles' job is considerably more complex than juggling state revenues and checking accounts.

His office is responsible for managing approximately $4 billion in state operating funds, capital improvement money and the state's various retirement and other trust funds.

"We are a bank, a funds manager, an investor and a disbursing officer for state government," Boyles said. "It's a big business."

The object of that business is to keep as little of the state's money in cash as is necessary to meet its obligations and to keep the rest of the funds invested at a favorable interest rate.

Most of it is invested in U.S. Treasury notes and other government securities or in certificates of deposit in any North Carolina bank that can meet the interest and security requirements for them.

The pension and other trust fund money, Boyles said, is invested in government securities, but the law also permits investments in corporate bonds and a portfolio of carefully picked blue chip stocks.

Depending on the skill of Boyles' staff and the condition of the stock and money markets, the stakes are high. Last year, not counting trust funds, interest earnings from state investments totaled $64.6 million, the state's fifth leading revenue source.

McLawnhorn For Hodges

Charles L. McLawnhorn Jr., a Greenville attorney, has joined the Luther Hodges for Senate campaign as a field coordinator for the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts.

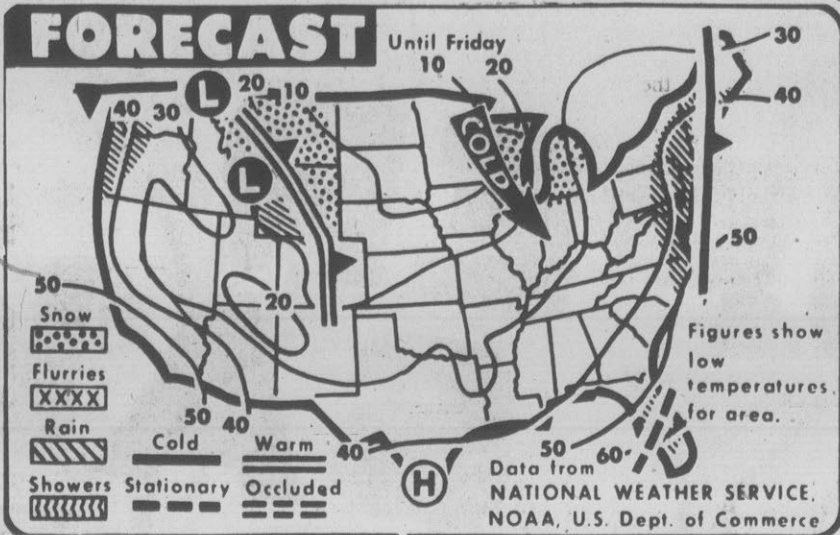

The appointment of McLawnhorn was announced by Hodges' campaign director George Autry.

McLawnhorn, 30, is an East Carolina University Political Science graduate and received his law degree from Oklahoma City University's School of Law where he graduated first in his class of 192 students and served as editor of the Law Review. He received a graduate law degree in taxation earlier this year from New York University where he was a Kenneson Fellow and graduate editor of the Tax Law Review.

While at ECU, McLawnhorn was managing editor of the student newspaper The Foundation and was active in campus Democratic Party organizations, serving as chairman of the N.C. Federation of College Democrats. His senior year, McLawnhorn was named the Outstanding College Democrat in North Carolina.

A native of Pitt County, McLawnhorn is married and has two children.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast today for the northern Plains and upper Great Lakes. Rain is expected for most of the Atlantic coast and for Northwest coastal areas. Cooler weather is expected for most areas. (AP Laser-photo Map)

Fog, rain and drizzle prevailed over much of North Carolina this morning as a warm front pushed up into the state from the south and a cold front approached from the west.

The cold front was pushing rain, showers and thunderstorms ahead of it, but skies were expected to begin clearing in the mountains by afternoon. However, the rain is expected to continue over the eastern part of the state into Friday although it will be decreasing.

The approach of the warm front brought a dramatic rise in temperatures Wednesday night in the southeastern part of the state. From a 62 degree reading at Wilmington at 7 p.m., the mercury rose to 71 at midnight. New Bern went from 58 to 68.

At Goldsboro, the temperature between 1 and 2 a.m. rose from 55 to 68. Meanwhile, the Piedmont was experiencing the cool, foggy 40s.

Highs today were expected to hold to the 50s in the north Piedmont while ranging to the 60s and 70s elsewhere. Highs Friday are expected to be near 60 in the west and range to near 70 in the southeast. Lows tonight will be generally in the 40s and 50s.

'Rock-A-Thon' Fund Raiser For Pitt UF

Starting at 2 p.m. on Friday, the East Carolina University Circle K Club will launch a "Rock-A-Thon" to raise money for the Pitt County United Fund campaign.

A designated member of the club, according to a spokesman, will man a rocking chair on the Evans Mall gazebo, while other members will be collecting donations on adjacent street corners in downtown Greenville.

The "Rock-A-Thon" will continue until 7 p.m. on Saturday.

All money collected by Circle K will be added to the total ECU contribution towards the United Fund.

The club asked local citizens to support the project and aid in raising funds for the community effort.

Field Test At Pitt's Center

The Pitt County Mental Health Center, in cooperation with the East Carolina University School of Medicine Department of Psychiatry, has been chosen as the field trial site for the updating of The Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Health Disorders.

The selection was made by the American Psychiatric Association. Support is coming from the National Institute of Mental Health. The project will coordinate the country-wide efforts of hospitals and mental health centers in attempting to redefine psychiatric diagnoses. The final product, when approved by the American Psychiatric Association, will be used throughout the U. S. and Canada.

Dr. Stephen Creech, Area Director of the Mental Health Center, said the selection was based on "the high level of expertise and training" of both the Mental Health Center and the Medical School staffs. Robert Ratcliffe, M. D., Associate Medical Director of the Mental Health Center, will be local coordinator of the project. Dr. James L. Mathis, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry, ECU, will coordinate the Medical School's participation, Creech said.

and detained) who cannot be called an Uncle Tom but who talks about the new Zimbabwe's indispensable need for Rhodesian whites, Western capital investment and free, multi-party government. He talks that way to blacks and whites in Rhodesia and to Cy Vance in Washington. Sithole left Vance's office encouraged to think there is no U.S. commitment to the Patriotic Front, which spurns whites, capitalism and democratic government.

But cautious insiders see only a marginal shift to the moderates by Vance. Although Sithole's importance to the Rhodesian situation was carefully explained to the White House staff, no time for a meeting could be found on President Carter's schedule.

Finally, there is the influence of Ambassador Andrew Young, whose ties to Nyerere, Kaunda and other "frontline" leaders are as emotional as his hostility to the Smith regime. Thus, the question to be resolved is the choice between Young's deep feelings on one side, and on the other the need for a moderate, pro-Western biracial Zimbabwe.

Changes Seen By Transsexual

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christine Jorgensen, who made headlines by having a sex change operation 25 years ago today, says transsexuals are not nearly as controversial as they were back in 1952. And she's surprised.

"I didn't think it would be in my lifetime," she said. "I had no idea that in such a short time as 25 years that, well, I'd be lecturing in colleges. I think I was, at the beginning, much too controversial."

"Now, there are students who have stood up before 3,000 or 4,000 of their peers and said, 'I am a transsexual, I am taking hormones and I will have my operations in 60 to 90 days,' and that's very healthy."

On Dec. 1, 1952, an ex-GI named George Jorgensen Jr. went into a Danish operating room and emerged as Christine Jorgensen.

"I have no regrets about the surgery and I have no regrets now over all the publicity although in the beginning I hated it," Ms. Jorgensen — now an articulate matron of 51 — said Wednesday.

"Things don't hurt the way they did then. It's nature's way, I suppose, of keeping us from going insane."

"The next generation will find it even less startling. After all, what are the two biggest things on television — the bionic man and the bionic woman? They have parts that are interchangeable ... They do kidney transplant operations now, it's really all the same thing."

Quirk In Law Costing Millions

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A quirk in federal law allows retiring civil servants to get unintended millions of extra dollars in pensions, a General Accounting Office study says.

Just for the civil servants expected to retire next year, the cost of this quirk is estimated at $800 million over the next 40 years, the GAO said.

The unintended bonus may threaten the very existence of federal pension systems, which are paid for by the taxpayers and the employees, the report said.

"The adjustment process for new retirees is one of the several extremely costly and generous special features which raise serious questions about the continued viability of those systems," the congressional audit agency said.

The quirk involves the cost-of-living adjustment for civil service pensions.

Every six months, pensions are increased by the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index during the six-month period that ended two months before. For example, pensions are increased each Sept. 1 by the percentage rise in the index from Jan. 1 to July 1.

The catch is that the increase applies to all pensions — even if a civil servant retires the day before a cost-of-living increase takes effect.

In such a case, a worker's first pension check and all those thereafter are increased, although he was still working during the period covered by the inflation adjustment.

"We believe it is inappropriate and inequitable for individuals drawing full salary when the CPI increases occur to reap the additional benefits of those increases in their annuities," the report said.

For example, take a civil servant who retired on Feb. 28, 1977, and was entitled to a $1,000-a-month pension based on years of service and salary in a federal job.

The next day — March 1, 1977 — his pension would have increased by $48, to $1,048, reflecting the 4.8 percent increase in the CPI from July 1, 1976, to Dec. 31, 1976.

This increase was designed to protect retired civil servants from the ravages of inflation. But the increase also means extra dollars in the pocket of this recent retiree, who was working during the months of inflation.

Then on Sept. 1, 1977, this retiree's pension would go to $1093 a month, to compensate for the 4.5 percent inflation for the six-month period from Jan. 1, 1977 to July 1, 1977. But the "retiree" actually worked during two of those six months.

In total, this retiree's pension has increased more than 9 percent — even though he was working for eight of the 12 months on which the inflation adjustment was based.

The GAO estimates the cost of this quirk at $800 million over the next 40 years just for the estimated 92,000 civil servants who will retire next year. The estimate assumes an average $700 a month pension and a 6 percent annual rate of inflation.

Eliminating the unintended increase would save up to $35 million a year, the report says.

Duke U. Official Says Now Is Time To Say No

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — "At some point, you have to dig in your heels and say no," said Dr. William Anlyan, Duke University vice president for health affairs. "That time is now."

Anlyan was talking about federal demands that medical schools that receive federal funds agree to admit transfer students from foreign medical schools. Duke has refused to take part in the program and forfeited $497,000 for the upcoming fiscal year.

The only hope of recovering the money would be the success of efforts in a congressional conference committee to eliminate the requirement.

Anlyan said Wednesday that the federal demands were "the beginning of an intrusion that will be endless."

"Once they learn they can manipulate us, they will hand down criteria on curriculum, on faculty, on everything else," he said. Fourteen other schools also refused to bow to the federal requirement.

Anlyan said that many foreign medical schools are "diploma mills" which admit American students who weren't good enough to get into American schools.

"Our number one priority is the fundamental issue of academic freedom," Anlyan said. "Our number two priority is the students they've come up with. They just aren't up to snuff. They might meet some standards, but they don't meet our standards — not by a long shot."

Dr. Richard Janeway, dean at Bowman Gray, denied that universities which agreed to cooperate with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were in essence agreeing to accept below-par students. He said a decision on how such students will be handled and what qualifications will have to be met is still pending.

"Let's say we're leaving our options open," Janeway said.

Anlyan said the average entering student at Duke medical school has a 3.6 grade point average, compared to 3.0 to 3.3 for most students in foreign medical schools.

"It's in the aptitude test that the difference really shows up," he said. "Our students come in right around 660 on a scale of 800 and these people come in at 500... You know, way down — 400."

Anlyan said Duke took the money seriously, but would refuse to enroll unqualified students regardless.

Vorster Policies Again Backed In South Africa

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa's whites have given Prime Minister John Vorster and the apartheid racial policy the landslide endorsement predicted in the election of a new parliament.

The National Party's victory in the voting Wednesday was interpreted as a vote of approval for the government's recent crackdown on black civil rights organizations and its other tough police policies.

Returns for the races for 139 of the 165 seats in Parliament gave Vorster's Nationalists 109, including 42 in districts where there was no opposition. The Nationalists seemed certain to exceed their record 126-seat win in 1966 as well as the 116 seats they held in the last Parliament.

The liberal Progressive Federal Party had won 17 seats, the centrist Republic Party seven and the conservative South African Party three. The ultraright-wing Reformed National Party did not win a single seat.

About 60 percent of the 2.2 million voters went to the polls despite stormy weather. The country's 19 million nonwhites were barred from voting.

Echoing a persistent theme of his campaign, Vorster said in a television interview the victory underlined the nation's determination to resist pressure for change from abroad.

"I put it to the electorate that they must speak out against interference in South Africa's domestic policies," he said. "I think the electorate has spoken louder than any man could ever have spoken in any circumstances." The banning on Oct. 19 of major black organizations, including two newspapers, the arrests and detention without trial of key black leaders and the mysterious death in prison of black leader Steve Biko raised foreign condemnation of Vorster's government and its white supremacist policies to new heights.

But the foreign outrage and the arms embargo recently voted by the U.N. Security Council rallied South Africa's whites behind Vorster. The prime minister warned that the election results might add to the foreign pressure on his regime. "On the other hand," he said, "people will take note not only of the resistance as far as South Africans are concerned but the determination with which South Africa will resist if attacked under any circumstances." He said the government would press ahead with plans for a new constitution maintaining white control but providing three separate parliaments for the nation's 4.5 million whites, 2.7 million coloreds (persons of mixed race) and 750,000 Asians. "It will take quite some time to have the necessary legislation drawn up but there is no doubt that we will proceed with it," he said.

Indicted In Child Death

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — A murder indictment has been returned against a 32-year-old Gaffney woman charged with killing her 6-year-old adopted son last summer.

The Cherokee County Grand Jury returned the indictment Wednesday against Rita Campfield Houser. She is charged with drugging Keith Houser Aug. 30 and dumping his body in the Broad River near Gaffney.

No trial date has been set. Mrs. Houser is undergoing tests in a Columbia hospital by a private physician. Earlier, she underwent a psychiatric examination at the State Hospital.

The charge against Mrs. Houser caused authorities in Lincoln County, N.C., to begin an investigation into the deaths of two other children. The children, one adopted and one a foster child, died while Mrs. Houser and her husband lived in Lincolnton, N.C.

Danny Houser, the natural brother of Keith Houser, died November 1976 at the age of 6 after he came down with what was believed to be Reyes Syndrome, a kidney ailment.

Benjamin Smiley, a 3-year-old the Housers were in the process of adopting, died of a respiratory ailment Sept. 4, 1974.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The appearance of "Photography Annual 1978" is another reminder, along with 1978 calendars and the new line of personal photographic Christmas cards, that the countdown on 1977 has begun in earnest. Somehow, I'm not ready yet to close the file on the 1977 album. There are still opportunities for exceptional pictures to be taken during the holiday season before starting on the fresh, blank pages of 1978.

But it seems that photography "Annuals" no longer sum up the outstanding achievements in photography of the preceding year. Instead, editors of Popular Photography annually review the recent work of contemporary photographers and newly discovered work of past masters to arrive at what they call "a selection of the world's finest photographs."

It's a tough task and one that will never satisfy everyone.

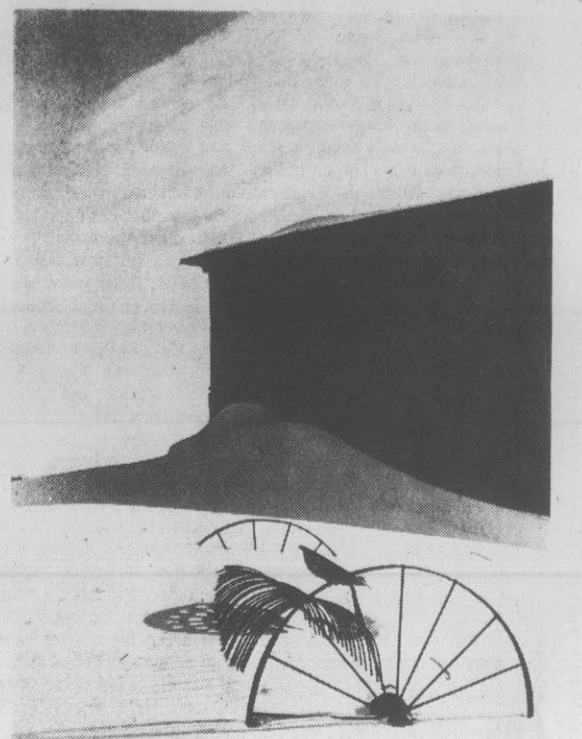

This year, the editors decided on a practically all-portfolio issue without a section of outstanding individual images. That's because photographers today seem to be involved in continuing projects with a related theme, "and one image does justice neither to the photographer nor his concept," according to Arthur Goldsmith, editorial director of the Annual.

The '78 Annual contains 25 portfolios and a 14-page text piece by Edith Leonian. She interviews a dozen top photographers on a controversial topic: Photography as Art (with a capital A) vs. commercial photography. We can read the personal viewpoints of Duane Michals, Ralph Gibson, Eva Rubinstein, Ryszard Horowitz and Jill Friedman, among others, but the topic remains as debatable as ever and I'm left as confused as ever as to who are the "good guys" and who are the "bad guys."

But the heartbeat of Photography Annual 1978 (published by Ziff-Davis, N.Y., $2.50) brings life through its images in the portfolios and they are of high caliber this year. Here we see the ingenuity and imagination of photographers in action and how they adapt ideas to make them forceful enough for publication.

David Attie, for instance, who went to the Soviet Union as part of a cultural exchange program. He conceived the idea of having Russians photograph themselves while attending a U.S.I.A. exhibit. The resulting images make a visually interesting cross-section of Russian people. They become individuals and families to whom you can relate as possible neighbors and friends instead of vague adversaries from another political system. Photography, here, makes the idea of international brotherhood tangible.

Marcus Halevi's portfolio shows to what lengths a photographer can go to execute an idea. He went to our northernmost frontier and spent two years as an oil line worker to portray accurately the phenomena wrought by the new Alaska Pipeline. His photos of the changing natural landscape and the people involved are a valuable documentary record of a last frontier.

The Eugene Atget portfolio is a historical treasure, newly discovered and hitherto unpublished. Atget was the impoverished photo-librarian of early Paris who left a legacy in pictures which we can enjoy today.

For poetry in nature, there's Sonja Bullaty's portfolio, a sensitive interpretation of wilderness scenes. There's tranquility also in Cheryl Younger's view of a horse in a snowstorm and in the portfolio of peaceful pictures of New England winters by B.A. King. And we learn that when photographer King isn't out prospecting for beautiful snow scenes, he runs a small family business as a change of pace.

For an abrupt visual change of pace, there's the eye-catching portfolio by J. Seeley. He combines high-contrast photography with graphic arts technique to achieve startling patterned images in pure black-and-white. Startling, too, is the concept of Finnish-born Arno Rafael Minkinen in his portfolio of unusual "self-portraits." Using long cable releases and self-timers on cameras, he's collected over the years an assortment of unlikely angles and oddball views of himself that are a tribute to his persistence and ingenuity. As to what he really looks like — the feet, legs, knee and backside are incomplete clues.

One portfolio in the '78 Annual does qualify as part of the pictorial record of the year past. The "Press Pictures" section presents 12 prize-winners from the 1977 Pictures-of-the-Year competition sponsored by the National Press Photographers Association and the University of Missouri School of Journalism. The top winner in the 1977 European World Press Photos contest is also included.

A unique photojournalistic coup is also noted in the press section. "Soiling Old Glory," by Stanley Forman of the Boston Herald American, won the Pulitzer Prize in Spot News as well as in the Pictures-of-the-Year competition. This is the second time in a row that Forman has won this double honor, an incredible feat which is not likely ever to be surpassed.

Paralysis Is Not Rare

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — Paralysis of the vocal cords in children is not as rare as medical literature suggests, according to three physicians here.

Their findings are based on a study of 21 children who were examined radiographically and fluoroscopically during a four-year period.

Drs. Jonathan L. Williams and Marie A. Capitano, radiologists, along with Dr. Myles G. Turtz, otolaryngologist, all of Christopher's Hospital for Children, observe that paralysis of the vocal cord can cause obstructions of the upper airway, a circumstance seldom considered in the past.

Also, the physicians say that spontaneous vocal cord paralysis in the child may, in some instances, be life threatening. But according to the specialists, the X-ray signs can lead to a diagnosis which "will aid in the early institution of appropriate supportive therapy."

The 21 patients ranged in age from 1 day to 4 years, with 17 under the age of 5 months.

Business In Retrieving Sunken Logs

CLOQUET, Minn. (AP) — Joe Porcelli, a 31-year-old Korean-American, claims he's been searching for roots since he was 5 years old. And after coming to the United States 23 years ago he may finally have found them at the bottom of the St. Louis River in northern Minnesota.

Porcelli, after serving as an underwater demolition instructor for the Green Berets in Vietnam and working for an ocean salvage company, came to Minnesota to pursue a marine engineering degree at the University. He now runs his own company retrieving sunken logs from river bottoms.

Millions of dollars worth of logs are there for the taking and he aims to get his share, declares Porcelli, who says, "I've been on my own since I was 5 and I've been groping for roots. Now I have the world by the tail."

"If I had 20 crews and worked for the rest of my life, I couldn't get all the logs out of Minnesota's waters," Porcelli claims. "But my biggest problem is convincing people that the logs are a viable and valuable product."

"I guess I'm ecology-minded too," he adds. "Each log pulled out of the water represents one less tree that has to be cut, and helps clean the water."

Porcelli began diving at the age of 11, three years after he left Korea and was adopted by an Italian family in South Carolina. He earned a degree in biology at the University of South Carolina and then became a member of the Green Berets.

After his discharge, Porcelli traveled around the world as his company's chief diver, but decided to venture to Minnesota, where he not only worked on his marine engineering degree, but met his wife.

He got into the logging business a few years after helping with some underwater blasting in the St. Louis River when a stranger kept asking for the sunken logs they cleared out. Porcelli checked into this and figured there was some $50-million-worth of logs on the Minnesota river bottom.

The logs are not only plentiful, but are still of good quality, even though some are more than 100 years old.

"I learned that 10 to 15 percent of all the logs that were floated down rivers sank," he said, "as long as the logs are submerged, they are not exposed to air and the water temperature does not reach 76 degrees, which is needed for the proliferation of fungus that destroys wood."

"The major reason a log goes bad is deterioration," he continued. "Air and the proper temperature are needed to cause this."

Porcelli had trouble convincing bankers that financing a business such as log salvation was worthwhile and finally secured a loan through the Small Business Administration. It also took him a year to get the proper state permit.

But eventually he did receive the permit and was able to begin business. He purchased a 22-foot, jet-powered work boat, a bulldozer, trucks, diving equipment and two small fishing boats, and began training a crew, which now numbers five. In less than three months, Porcelli and his crew have brought to the surface enough logs to produce 500,000 board feet of lumber. A 16-foot-long log which yields about 100 board feet is worth approximately $25.

The work is hard and long, consuming 12 to 16 hours a day, but Porcelli has never been happier.

"I'm doing exactly what I want to do; not sitting in an office," he noted. "It's good healthy work and an honest day's work and I think we're doing something good for the environment."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in cautious trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 3.38 to 826.32 by noon, after posting a modest gain of 2.43 points in the previous session. Overall advancing issues outnumbered losers by a narrow margin of about 5-4 in the midday tally of

New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The NYSE composite index was off .05 at 52.31 by noon.

Among the blue chips, General Motors continued to slip after hitting its record low of the year earlier this week. GM was off 1/8 at 63 1/2. U.S. Steel gave up 1/8 to 30 1/2, and International Telephone & Telegraph slipped 1/8 to 32 1/4.

The market has appeared cautious since Tuesday when the Dow index tumbled more than 12 points in a broad sell-off. In the news today, Special Trade Representative Robert Strauss said Japan must soon make major concessions on trade or Congress will pass tough laws restricting imports. The U.S. trade deficit, now at record levels, has led to the declining value of the dollar on the world market.

Big Board volume came to 10.64 billion shares during the first two hours, little changed from 10.42 million during the previous session.

British Petroleum, off 1/8 at 16 3/4, led the noon NYSE active list. Trading included a number of large blocks of shares exchanged at that price. BP announced lower quarterly earnings, partly because of the dollar's decline against the British pound sterling.

Several oil issues also were actively traded. Prices included Continental Oil, down 1/4 to 29 1/4; Exxon, unchanged at 46 1/2; and Texaco, off 1/8 to 27 1/4. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .41 to 123.28.

Hospitalized In Shooting Here

FARMVILLE — A Kinston man in satisfactory condition this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital after being admitted Wednesday afternoon for treatment of a gunshot wound suffered in an incident near here.

ACC Adds Three More To List

By The Associated Press
The Atlantic Coast Conference continued to roll over non-conference opposition Wednesday night, although Virginia's 68-55 victory over Randolph-Macon wasn't as resounding as it might have been.

North Carolina had an easy time with Oregon State, and Clemson made short work of Furman.

The real interest in the conference, of course, remained on the weekend's four-sided duel in Greensboro, the Big Four Tournament. That will provide the first real insight into how the ACC rankings may look by season's end.

"It's going to be a big test for us," says Norm Sloan of North Carolina State, which meets Wake Forest in the opening round. Wake has dominated the Big Four for the last three years.

The other underdog will be Duke, squaring off Friday night against second-ranked North Carolina. "I think it's good for us to be playing Carolina," insisted Jim Spanarkel. "One of our goals is to be nationally ranked, but the only way to get there is to play teams such as Carolina."

Wednesday night's games: The rest of the game was a Five Clemson Tigers scored in double figures in the balanced attack that led to this decisive victory. Stan Rome was top man with 24. Colon Abraham had 16, Derrick Johnson pumped in 12 and Jim Wells and Greg Coles had 10 apiece.

Furman fought a hard first half and ended it leading 47-46. The Tigers took over in the second period.

"The key was that they finally wore us down," said Furman Coach Joe Williams.

Maryland goes to Penn State in tonight's only ACC contest.

VMI Rallies To Stop A-B

By The Associated Press
VMI rallied to beat Alderson-Broaddus Wednesday night, but Furman and Appalachian State were both losers in Southern Conference basketball action.

Furman showed flashes of brilliance in its first half against the Clemson Tigers of the Atlantic Coast Conference, but their game collapsed in a heap in the second half and the Tigers swept it away.

Appalachian State managed to battle the game to a 2-2 tie in the early seconds of their game with East Tennessee State, but that was as close as they got.

The games:

EAST TENNESSEE ST. 80 APPALACHIAN ST. 63
It was East Tennessee State all the way, much to the disappointment of Appalachian State's first home crowd of the season.

The Buccaneers never relinquished the lead, which was 42-37 at the half and mushroomed as high as 23 points in the second period. ASU couldn't cope with the Bucs' aggressive defense.

Sophomore forward Jim Smith hit 10 out of 19 shots from the floor to lead the winners with 23 points. B.J. Johnson added 18.

Walter Anderson was high man for the Mountaineers with 20.

VMI 107 Alderson-Broaddus 90
The Battlers gave the Keydets of VMI a real run for their money Wednesday night, taking a nine-point lead late in the first half and holding it at 50-48 as the halftime buzzer sounded.

Thirteen Keydet turnovers helped a lot. But in the second half, VMI took over at 60-58 and stayed ahead, boosted by Ron Carter's 37 points, 24 in the crucial second half.

"I was disturbed with the turnovers in the first half," said Keydet Coach Charlie Schmaus. "We played much better offensively in the second half. In the first half we weren't patient enough."

Women Swimmers Opening Season

The East Carolina women's swim team will compete in the NCAAIAW meet this weekend at N.C. State University, marking the Lady Pirates first competition of the season.

The women's swim program at ECU is under the direction of head swimming coach Ray Scharf this year, and Scharf has rearranged the schedule for the coming season. In the past, the women's program has run from September through November, ending with the state meet.

This year, things are being done differently for the women.

Coach Scharf wants to bring the women along slowly, preparing them for the national meet to be held at Duke early in 1978.

"We are looking forward to this meet," said Scharf. "I don't know how well we'll do as a team, but I'm looking for some strong individual performances."

Top swimmers for the Lady Pirates will be Rockville, Md., natives Julie Shaffer, a freshman, and sophomore team captain Sharon Burns.

The Lady Pirates open their home schedule on Tuesday, hosting North Carolina.

Pirate Kicker Receives Honor

A year ago, the soccer program at East Carolina was in trouble. There were suggestions made to drop the sport, but a decision was made to give it another chance.

Although the team finished with a disappointing 3-10 mark, the season recently developed a bright side to it, as sophomore forward Phil Martin was named honorable mention all-state by the Greensboro Daily News.

The Pirate standout finished the season as the team's leading scorer, collecting nine goals and three assists for a total of 21 points. His nine goals were exactly half the team total.

"Phil was our offense," said ECU head coach Brad Smith. "We depended on him to run the offense for us, and he did. He displayed a great deal of maturity in carrying our offense like he did."

"I would have to say," continued Smith, "that if Phil continues to improve as he did this season, he will have a chance of being East Carolina's first All-South player."

For the Greensboro native Martin, the selection marked the highest honor he had ever

D. H. CONLEY'S 75-73 victory over Washington Tuesday night was just the kind of game the Vikings needed to get their season underway, a season that Conley coach Shelly Marsh is hoping will be a very successful one.

Though they have a number of senior players, the Vikes are a young team (see feature story elsewhere in this section) and they needed a big win to get their season started right. With only one full-time starter from last season returning (6-10 Alton Tyson), Conley is a bit inexperienced and a crushing defeat at this point might have been devastating.

With Tyson, a much-improved player over last season, the Vikings are definitely the team to beat in the Eastern Carolina Conference this season and their win over a tough, talented Washington team is proof of that. The Pam Pack boasts a front line that features 6-6 Alvis Rogers, who, along with Tyson, is a top college prospect, and 6-5 Dominique Wilkins.

A highlight of the game was expected to be the duel between the two big men, Tyson and Rogers, but it never really developed for a couple of reasons. The first was that Tyson was not assigned to defend Rogers in the Vikings' man-to-man alignment, but was put on Wilkins instead. Also, Rogers was in foul trouble most of the night, getting his fifth with about three minutes left in the contest, and was unable to play as freely as usual, spending much of his time on the bench.

The key to the D. H. Conley victory was Tyson, who dropped in 31 points and pulled down 21 rebounds. He was able to really come to life with Rogers out of the lineup late in the second and fourth quarters. When Rogers went out, Tyson dominated the backboards and scored over half of his points to rally the Vikings, who were behind for most of the contest.

But, even without their big man in the closing minutes, the Pam Pack did not succumb quietly. A full game's worth of action transpired in the two minutes and 42 seconds after Rogers' fifth foul, including two technical fouls and an intentional foul call against Tyson which gave Washington a chance to tie the game with no seconds left on the clock. (The try failed, however.)

It was probably one of the most exciting season-opening games ever played in this area and both teams exhibited that they will be tough to stop this season. Both squads have good chances of winning their respective conferences and, should that come about, they may meet again in a few months in the district 3-A tournament. That rematch might be the highlight of the area's high school basketball season.

On Saturday, June 18, 1977, Ken Reitz, in his second go-round with the St. Louis Cardinals, was the National League Player of the Month for May 1977.

Tyson-Led Conley Vikings Take Aim On Eastern Carolina Title

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
D. H. Conley basketball coach Shelly Marsh looks to the sky in making predictions about this year's Viking team, and when he looks up there, he sees 6-10 senior center Alton Tyson.

Tyson and the rest of the team have Marsh thinking big this season. "We should do OK I expect to take the conference. It's going to be tough, but I think we can hang in there and do all right," Marsh said.

Although Tyson is the only returning starter off of last year's team, which finished third in the Eastern Carolina Conference, Marsh is not totally lacking in experience. "We have a few guys who started at given times last season, some with a quite a bit of experience."

The number one asset for Conley this season will be quickness. All of the players possess good quickness, Marsh said, including Tyson, who has excellent quickness for his size. In addition, the Vikings are good shooters and work hard on defense.

Another asset is attitude, Marsh said. "This team has great attitude. They are hard workers and very coachable. They worked the hardest of any team I've ever had during the off-season."

Conley will carry ten players on the roster this year and Marsh said, "I have what I consider good depth. I'm not afraid to put any one of them on the floor at any time."

Junior Darryl Thompson (5-9) will start at point guard for the Vikings. "He did a real good job last year, especially in tight games," Marsh said. Thompson is a good ballhandler and has worked hard to improve his passing, a weakness last season. He is a very good defensive player and his free throw percentage was the best on the team last year, according to Marsh.

At one wing in Conley's 1-2-2 attack will be Shawn Little (6-0, junior). He also worked hard over the off-season, is "a very, very smooth ballplayer, possesses good offensive and defensive skills and is probably the best passer on the team."

The other wing will be Ricky Roundtree (6-3, senior). Marsh labels him "a jumping jack: his jumping ability is his major asset. He also has a good outside jump shot, but is very inconsistent on defense—that's his major weakness."

Senior Michael Cox (6-3) will start at one post spot. "He is probably the most consistent player that I have," Marsh said. "He is one of those hard-workers that you don't realize has been on the floor until you go down the stat sheet. He's not a flashy player at all, but he's very intelligent and very consistent."

And then there's Tyson, considered one of the top college prospects in the state this season. "If I had to give a most-improved player award at this point, he'd have to get it," Marsh said. "He worked every hard in the off-season to improve his game and it has really shown. Last year, he was in a hurry, but he has slowed down and he's going to be dangerous."

Tyson, who is just a sophomore in terms of his basketball career, gained a lot of maturity over the summer and

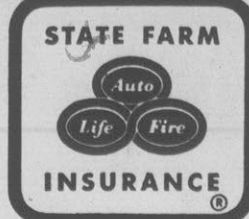

Pirates Open Swim Season

East Carolina's swim team, beginning its first year as an independent, opens its 1977-78 season this weekend as participants in the Penn State Relays.

The Pirates will once again field a strong team, highlighted by a couple of all-America candidates, freestylers Ted Nieman and John McCauley. Nieman is a sophomore from Winter Park, Fla., while McCauley is a senior from Charlotte. Both qualified for the nationals last year, and are the Pirates top threats to score this year.

The Pirate divers, weak in the past, look to be stronger this year with freshman Tom Bell and senior Lund Sox leading the way.

"This meet is always a good test for us," said ECU head coach Ray Scharf. "It gives us an early indication of how we stand with some of the best competition around. We always look forward to participating in the meet, as it provides us with times to work on the rest of the year."

Ole Miss Hits UNCC

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi, sparked by 24 points from Joe Kyles, rebounded from an opening loss to Notre Dame by surprising North Carolina-Charlotte 81-64 Wednesday night.

Ole Miss pulled away midway through the first half on an 18-foot jumper by Kyles and the Rebels led 41-32 at halftime. Their biggest margin was 23 points with 2:52 to play.

Joining Kyles in double figures were John Stroud with 16 points, Kim Benson with 15 and Elston Turner with 10.

NC-Charlotte, one of the semifinalists in last spring's NCAA tournament, got 21 points from Lew Massey but was hurt when Chad Kinch fouled out with 10:41 left in the game. Both teams are now 1-1.

The oldest record in Penn State football history was set in 1894 by Charles Atherton. He scored 20 kicking points against Carnegie Tech on ten extra points, worth two points at that time.

New Seattle Coach Claims Victory

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Lenny Wilkens' magic touch has returned to the National Basketball Association. The new Seattle coach watched his Sonics score just nine points in the final period Wednesday night, yet Seattle edged the Kings 86-84 in Seattle.

"We ran a little more than we usually do," said Wilkens, a former star guard and player-coach who was named to replace Coach Bob Hopkins earlier in the day. "But I knew we couldn't put anything new in. There just wasn't time for it. "But we did improve a couple of things and I thought we handled them pretty well."

In other NBA games Wednesday, Boston downed Chicago 98-92, Buffalo stopped Atlanta 105-93, Washington defeated San Antonio 116-105, Detroit beat Los Angeles 104-98, Milwaukee defeated Indiana 120-113 and Philadelphia edged New Orleans 117-114.

Gus Williams had 24 points for the SuperSonics while Otis Birdsong led Kansas City with 20 points.

76ers 117, Jazz 114
Center Darryl Dawkins' 15-foot jumper with three seconds left capped Philadelphia's second-half rally and gave the 76ers their victory over New Orleans as an NBA single-game record crowd of 35,077 watched in the New Orleans Superdome. The 76ers scored 10 points in the final 90 seconds.

Doug Collins scored 20 points to lead Philadelphia while New Orleans forward Leonard Robinson took scoring honors with 30 points.

Celtics 96, Bulls 92
Veterans Dave Bing and Dave Cowens sparked Boston's fourth-period rally. Bing broke a tie midway through the final quarter and Cowens scored eight points down the stretch to pace the Celtics.

Bing finished with 21 points, high for the Celtics, while Artis Gilmore had 32 for Chicago.

Bullets 116, Spurs 105
Mitch Kupchak tallied 26 points to lead Washington's victory over San Antonio. Phil Chenier added 24 points as Washington posted its sixth victory in its last seven games. The Spurs were paced by George Gervin, who finished with 20 points.

Bucks 120, Pacers 113
Marques Johnson's 21 points paced a balanced scoring attack as Milwaukee staved off a late rally by Indiana to defeat the Pacers. Brian Winters added 20, Kent Benson 19 and David Meyers 17 for the Bucks.

Braves 105, Hawks 93
A first-period spurt sparked by Billy Knight and Chuck Williams ignited Buffalo's victory over Atlanta. The Braves opened a 26-point lead in the second period and used the clock the rest of the way. Knight took scoring honors with 32 points while Williams added 22.

Pistons 104, Lakers 98
Detroit blew an 18-point lead before rebounding behind Bob Lanier and Al Skinner to down the Lakers. The Lakers led 93-92 with less than three minutes remaining in the game when Lanier and Skinner combined for all but two of Detroit's final 10 points. Lanier finished with 30 points.

Jamesville In Opening Victory

JAMESVILLE — The Jamesville Bullets had a successful opening to their basketball season last night, winning a trio of games from Hatteras.

The varsity boys won their contest, 53-51, while the girls romped to a 66-57 win. The junior varsity rounded out the evening with a 51-33 victory.

In the girls' game, both teams tossed in nine points in the opening frame. They stayed even again in the second period, both scoring 17 to leave it at 26-26 at intermission.

Jamesville pulled away in the third stanza, however, outscoring Hatteras, 19-10 for a 45-36 lead. Both again hit the same number of points, 21, in the final quarter.

Joyce Manning led Jamesville with 21 points, while Edith James put through 17. Cox led Hatteras with 31 points.

In the boys' game, Jamesville led most of the way. The two matched points in the first period, 13-13, but the Bullets inched out in the second period, taking a 29-26 lead at the half.

Hatteras came back in the third period to gain the lead, outscoring the Bullets, 15-9, for a 41-38 lead, but the Bullets rallied to regain the lead early in the final period and held off rally attempts by their guests.

Ricky Whitehurst led the Bullets with 20 points, while Tommy DiNardo added 14 points. DiNardo also pulled off 13 rebounds and was credited with six blocked shots.

Balanced led Hatteras with 14, while Simmons had 12.

The Bullets travel to Bear Grass on Friday.

Mississippi Coach Quits

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Texas Tech football coach Steve Sloan says he is giving "serious and prayerful consideration" to filling the head coaching vacancy created at the University of Mississippi by Wednesday's resignation of embattled Ken Cooper.

Sloan commented in a telephone interview with the Associated Press from his Lubbock, Tex., office shortly after Cooper, under fire from alumni, resigned as Ole Miss head coach.

In announcing the resignation, Ole Miss officials made no formal mention of Sloan. Athletic Director John Vaughn said he had "talked with some coaches, more than one, and I think we'll have a commitment in short time."

Sloan said he talked with Ole Miss assistant athletic director Warner Alford shortly after Cooper announced his resignation and reported that Alford had "expressed a great deal of interest in me and asked what my feelings are."

"I'm sure interested in Ole Miss and I'm giving it serious and prayerful consideration," added Sloan, who said he would probably make a decision "in the next day or two."

Ole Miss officials denied reports that Cooper, with two years left on his contract, would be named assistant athletic director to replace Alford, who will become athletic director when John Vaughn retires in February.

However, a spokesman would not rule out the possibility of Cooper being offered another post at the university.

Cooper stepped down almost two weeks after the university had announced it would retain him for next season despite alumni discontent.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Many Causes for Bursitis

About three times a year I get the most awful attack of bursitis of the shoulder. I've had all kinds of treatments. Now I'm looking for a surgeon to operate on it and get it over with once and for all. Are there any doctors who specialize in this condition? — Mr. S.Y., N.H.

Dear Mr. Y.: Impatience is never an indication for surgery. Sure, you're annoyed with the recurring episodes of this painful condition, but I'm certain that your doctors, who so effectively treated you during these attacks, would have suggested surgery if they felt that this was the best approach to your problem.

I wonder whether you have given sufficient thought to the factors that bring on these attacks. Could it be that strenuous exercise, exposure to cold, unsuspected gout or poor position while at work might be responsible? Injury and infections are also to be considered.

The bursa, or sac, that lies in the shoulder joint and other joints in the body, acts as a "ball-bearing" to lubricate the joints and make them move more freely. When the bursa becomes inflamed, the amount of fluid in the sac increases. Often, there is a deposit of calcium or gouty uric acid in this fluid.

The treatment for this extraordinarily painful condition is the injection of Novocain and special types of cortisone. This is aimed at relieving pain and reducing the inflammation. It is possible to almost painlessly wash out the calcium in the fluid and even break up calcium stones that may have formed.

Treatment of the shoulder joint with X-rays and ultrasonic vibrations has been successfully used in many cases. Although surgery is not dangerous, it still should be considered only after all medical and local treatment has been tried. Again, I suggest that you try to find any underlying cause for these attacks, and that you discuss with your own doctor the advantages of an operation.

Orthopedic surgeons and, often, general surgeons perform this uncomplicated surgery once the decision is made.

Can a polyp in the rectum become cancerous? — Mrs. E.H., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. H.: A polyp is a non-cancerous growth. Usually they are removed as a simple procedure in the doctor's office. If the polyp is not easily accessible, short hospitalization may be required. Even though these polyps are benign, by constant irritation they may undergo changes and become malignant. It is for this reason that all polyps are kept under observation by doctors, at regular intervals.

ECU News Bureau

Linda Lee Gaddis, 26, has joined the East Carolina University Office of Career Planning and Placement as a placement counselor, effective this month.

A native of Smithfield, Mrs. Gaddis received the Bachelor of Science degree in business education from ECU in 1973. Before accepting employment with the campus placement service she was a cost accountant with Eaton Corp.

In addition, her duties will include working with businesses, industries and other potential employers who send recruiting teams to the ECU campus.

ECU Represented At Annual Meeting

ECU News Bureau

Ten students in the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics attended the recent joint annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the N. C. Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the N. C. Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCCTM) in Winston-Salem.

ECU graduate students at the meeting were Jane Buehler of Fairfax, Va., Vera Kearney of Jacksonville, Janice Lassister of Columbia, Rae Nobles of Stokes and Dolores Whitley of Charlotte.

Undergraduate representatives from ECU included Bunny Davis of Greenville, Valerie Chaffin of Fayetteville, Kathleen Sellers of Southern Pines, Margaret McCracken of West End and Tom Frandsen of Wilmington.

Frandsen, current student representative for the Eastern Region of NCCTM, also served on the Evaluation Committee for the Winston-Salem gathering.

Also attending the meeting were approximately 50 alumni of the ECU Departments of Mathematics and Elementary Education, who were honored at a special ECU alumni reception.

Representing the earliest class at the reception were two graduates in the Class of 1936, Evelyn T. Colwell of Clinton and Sybil Duckett of Asheville. John

C. Eggsgard, a Canadian mathematician who is current president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, also attended the reception and was named an "honorary alumnaus."

Hosts for the reception were ECU alumna Pamela Parrot of Kinston and Professors Katye Sowell and Nan Manning.

Dr. Sowell, immediate past president of the N. C. Council chairs the NCCTM Membership Committee.

Blasphemy Is Still A Crime

BOSTON (AP) — The next time you stub your toe, be careful about your choice of words — blasphemy still is a crime in Massachusetts.

The Massachusetts Senate voted down a bill Tuesday that would repeal the 280-year-old law against cursing in the Lord's name.

"We are opening the doors to destroying one of the Ten Commandments," cautioned state Sen. William X. Wall, as he urged his colleagues to reject the measure.

But a colleague, state Sen. Alan Sitsitsky, read aloud the Massachusetts law. The penalty for blasphemy, he told the chamber, was a fine of up to $300 or a year-long prison sentence.

The Senate had given the bill initial approval in August, but Tuesday's vote, according to state Sen. David Locke, came "after enough of them (senators) had come to their senses."

Bobby Wayne Puryear of Route 3, Ayden was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout following investigation of a 1:58 p.m. mishap on Greene Street, 500 feet South of the Moore Street intersection.

truck driven by Hubert Glen Cannon of Route 1, Greenville, causing $25 damage to the truck and $1,000 damage to the Puryear car.

An estimated $300 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 9:36 a.m. collision at the intersection of Cotanche and Second Streets.

Police identified the drivers involved as Rebekah Rigsby May of 405 Library St. and Richard A. Bauman of 322 Green Mill Run Apts.

Officers charged Bauman with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety. Catherine Grimm Gavigan of 1725 Forrest Hill Dr. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 9:58 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Cotanche Streets.

Investigators reported the Gavigan car collided with a car driven by Keith Warren Bielby of 1300 Charles St., causing an estimated $350 damage to the Gavigan car and $550 damage to the Bielby auto.

A 12:09 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Third and Summit Streets involved cars driven by Martha Hong Rodabaugh of 205 South Warren St., and Nancy Sibley Bone of 3306 Memorial Dr.

Officers, who charged Miss Bone with failing to stop for a stop sign, estimated damage at $350 to the Rodabaugh car and $300 to the Bone vehicle.

An estimated $225 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 12:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Hamilton Streets.

Police identified the drivers involved as Gerald Lee Wainwright of 402 Pine St., and David Edward Reid Jr. of 314 Rutledge Rd.

A 1:25 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets resulted in an estimated $150 damage to the two vehicles involved.

Officers identified the drivers as Maria Riccio Butler of Courtne Square and Louis Bryant Stocks of Route 6, Greenville.

Police charged Miss Butler with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

Cars driven by Thomas Roy Boyd of Greenville and Sherry Ann Mitchell of Durham collided about 8:48 a.m. at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Ninth Street.

Officers, who said no damage resulted to the Mitchell car, set damage to the Boyd auto at $400.

Want Check On Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Drug Administration, in a warning to the nation's physicians, is calling for further studies of Laetrile to determine if it is poisoning cancer patients.

The FDA called for closer examination of the controversial substance on Wednesday, saying some cancer patients may have died from cyanide poisoning caused by Laetrile, not from their cancers.

In a drug bulletin sent to nearly one million doctors and health professionals, the FDA said the cyanide levels in cancer patients who used Laetrile seldom has been checked.

"Some deaths ascribed to cancer, particularly in debilitated patients, may have been due to or accelerated by cyanide from the drug," it said.

The FDA previously has said Laetrile is worthless and "can be fatal for cancer patients who delay or give up regular medical treatment and take Laetrile instead." It said 17 deaths have been documented among persons who ingested the ingredients of Laetrile, which is made from apricot or other fruit pits that contain cyanide.

Although the FDA bars interstate sales or shipment of Laetrile, 13 states have legalized its sale.

Early Test For Hearts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A new test can tell fairly quickly whether chest pains mean a heart attack or only a temporary upset, a heart specialist says.

An electrical reading of heart action, the electrocardiogram or ECG, will often show whether a real heart attack occurred. So too does a test for an enzyme which is released into the bloodstream by damaged heart tissue. But it may take 24 hours before changes in the ECG or enzyme levels permit a diagnosis.

Dr. Malcolm Pond of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore said the new test is complete within three hours. A radioactive substance, thallium 201, is injected into a vein. The atoms collect in the heart, emitting gamma rays detected by a special camera and recorded as a scan or "picture."

Then the picture-taking is repeated, Pond told the American Heart Association. If both "pictures" are normal it means a heart attack likely did not occur, he said. If a defect shows on the first but not on the second picture, it means temporary pain without infarction or heart attack. A defect present in both pictures means an infarction is most likely present or about to occur.

The test, called myocardial perfusion imaging, can be used in any hospital having a department of nuclear medicine, Pond said. His co-workers are Dr. Terry Rehn, Robert Burow and Dr. Bertram Pitt.

Some Ports Are Still Crippled By Docks Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — While dockworkers in most of the country reported to work this morning, their colleagues in Mobile, Baltimore, New Orleans and Baton Rouge were still embroiled in what was formerly a strike against automated shipping along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

In New Orleans and Baton Rouge, about 25 percent of the dockworkers voted and rejected the proposed contract.

In Baltimore, members of the largest longshoremen's local were under a court order to return to work, after they conducted a wildcat strike when the pact was approved by the rest of the dockworkers.

In Mobile, dockworkers had rejected the contract settlement Tuesday but had not decided whether to continue the 61-day walkout.

Union leaders in that Alabama seaport sent their men to work Wednesday, but were undecided about what their units would do in the future. They were watching closely a Wednesday vote by Philadelphia-area longshoremen. The Philadelphians approved the contract by a 1,374 to 129 vote.

That margin was indicative of the vote overall, which was about 4 to 1 in favor of the pact. The contract raises wages from $8 to 10.40 an hour, and increases the total employer contribution to pension and welfare funds from $2.84 to $3.75 during the life of the three-year contract.

The contract also included job security provisions and a guaranteed annual income to protect the 50,000 workers in 34 ports covered by the pact against loss of their livelihood to labor-saving shipping techniques.

These provisions were rejected in New Orleans Wednesday night by a vote of 485 in favor of the contract and 628 against. The port, the nation's second largest, has 4,000 dockworkers. Some officials attributed the poor turnout to rain.

Opposition to the contract was led by Irving Joseph and Manuel Plaisance, both losers in the races for local presidencies.

Asked if the longshoremen would continue to support a long strike, Joseph said, "Yes, I think we can hold out longer than the container shippers can."

Plaisance said the contract rejection "means we are still on strike and we've got to get (International Longshoremen's Association President Thomas W.) 'Teddy' Gleason down here to settle it."

The rebellion in Baltimore was by Local 333, which represents 2,600 of that port's 4,000 workers. U.S. District Judge Joseph H. Young ordered the men to work when two ships were diverted from Baltimore because of the wildcat strike.

Young rejected arguments by the local that it should not be bound by the vote of other dockworkers in the port, and is sued a 10-day restraining order. He scheduled a hearing on a permanent injunction for Dec. 8 before U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey II. Workers for that local had returned to work Wednesday, but were pulled off the job in defiance of Gleason.

ABOUT THAT SMOKEY REPORT — Wayne State University in Detroit is having difficulties with speeding motorists on a street that passes through the campus. Officers of the WSU Public Safety Dept. wanted motorists to know that they are using radar units to catch speeders, so they dressed one of their own in a bear costume and had him patrol the street to give motorists the message. Offer Banking By Telephone CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Instead of writing a check or plunking down cash to pay the bills, why not do it by telephone?

At three North Carolina banks, bills can be paid by phone instead of through checks or with cash.

The banks plan to introduce the service in conjunction with a Charlotte-based firm that provides data-processing services to 60 smaller banks in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

"We feel that easily 25 of our customer banks will be in this within a 12-month period," said Stebbins Ingram, president of Allied Financial Services of Charlotte. "Some of the big North Carolina banks are looking at it also."

The telephone service was introduced today by the Bank of Asheville, Farmers and Merchants Bank of Granite Quarry and Forsyth Bank of Winston-Salem.

The service, which is optional for customers, works this way: A customer gives his bank a list of all merchants and companies he or she must pay either regularly or sporadically. The bank assigns a number to each merchant and gives the list and a personal identification number to the customer.

When the customer calls a bank to order a payment, he identifies himself by his account number and personal ID number, then gives a merchant number and amount to be paid. The bank charges the payment amount to the customer's checking account and pays the merchant either by mail or by making a deposit to the merchant's account.

The customer gets an itemized listing on his monthly statement as proof of payment.

"We're plowing new ground in North Carolina," said James Woolcott, board chairman of the Bank of Asheville. "However, we believe this is a service whose time has come because it is now faster, more convenient and cheaper to pay monthly bills by phone than by mail."

Sparkman Feels His Seat Safe

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — "I feel confident that I could be re-elected if I should run again," says Sen. John Sparkman.

The Democrat said during a visit to his hometown on Wednesday that he has received "thousands of letters and telephone calls urging me to run again in 1978."

Sparkman, a 31-year Senate veteran who will 78 on Dec. 20, told the Huntsville Press Club that he planned to do some thinking on the issue before announcing a decision about running again.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace already has announced he will seek Sparkman's seat. State Sen. Donald Stewart also has begun his campaign for the post.

Donahue Proves Housewives Want More From TV

By RICHARD NEWCOMBE
BALTIMORE (UPI) — Phil Donahue, a maverick talk show host, is proving wrong the old theory that housewives desire little more from daytime television than soap operas and game shows.

Donahue, 41, whose show won an Emmy award for 1977 — beating such notables as Johnny Carson, Dinah Shore and Merv Griffin — has proved in 10 years on the air that housewives seek serious answers to personal, social, political and religious questions.

While the program occasionally features celebrities such as Carson, John Wayne and Bob Hope, the trademark of Donahue's show is a guest considered intellectually alert — such as an author, psychologist or professor — and an audience of 200 average Americans who can ask any questions they want.

One fan asked, "Where does the ordinary citizen get a chance to ask someone like the president of General Motors or Ralph Nader a series of questions?"

The show, called "Donahue," is based in Chicago but broadcast in 118 cities, now including New York and ahead in the ratings nearly everywhere it is aired.

Donahue, a Notre Dame graduate who started the show in Dayton, Ohio, as a one-city program, attributes his success to the hunger for ideas and discussion of issues that housewives feel, particularly since many are bored by daytime television.

"The daytime schedule should enjoy more than just soaps and games," he said in a recent interview before addressing students at Johns Hopkins University. "It's an insult."

Most of the topics discussed on the show involve challenging social issues, Donahue said.

"Why am I not happier?" That's a question more people ask than you can imagine. Or "I'm not a women's libber, but ... That's another one that opens a can of worms."

Donahue is not afraid to bring on radicals and conservatives, including Jerry Rubin — both during and after his radical days — and William F. Buckley Jr. Other shows have featured a debate between conservative economist Milton Friedman and anarchist Karl Hess, and a debate between gay activists and Anita Bryant.

"Whenever we discuss religion or sex the audience involvement is always great," he said.

Donahue, who started his career as a radio newsman in Cleveland, has received much publicity lately because his girlfriend is actress Mario Thomas and because of his role as a single father bringing up four teenage sons in suburban Chicago. His only daughter lives in New Mexico with her mother, who has remarried.

Asked how he obtained custody, Donahue said only that he needs the children probably more than they need him.

He has also become known as an outspoken advocate of feminism, though he said his rigid Roman Catholic upbringing makes it difficult at times for his emotions to follow his intellectual convictions.

He has been described as cocky, aggressive and controversial, but as Donahue sat quietly in his palatial hotel suite reminiscing about his struggle to the top he showed a quick wit and keen intellect but not the slightest hint of arrogance.

"I work hard to avoid letting all this (success) go to my head," he said, his arm sweeping the room. "I mean, look at this suite. We could hold a bingo game here."

As a talk show host, Donahue occasionally offers his opinion but normally does little talking. He mainly encourages his guest and audience to have a lively dialogue.

He frequently responds in an "oh-my-gosh!" manner after hearing a controversial opinion, then seeks comment on the opinion from the guest or audience — usually through a challenging question.

In Chicago, where most of the shows are taped live, there is an 18-month waiting list to be a guest on the program. There is no screening of the guests, he nothing more than two heads and a curtain we'd be dead." The one-hour program usually features one guest per program or one theme — such as lesbianism, happiness, divorce, coping with the death of a child — per show.

Donahue is one of network television's sharpest critics. "I'm sure if we had started through the networks they'd have given us a band and told us we could never have only one guest for an entire hour," he said.

"But I think what we're proving is that people want more from television than what they're getting."

Moped For Economy; Leather Jacket Not Needed

By NICK GREGORY
CHICAGO (UPI) — If you pedal a bike expect to be tempted in 1978 to buy a two-wheeled, single-cylindered, part-bike, part-motorcycle that gets about 160 miles to a gallon of gasoline and is called a moped. Advertising campaigns are in the works to extol the fun and economy in owning a moped. People plugging them are fortified with staggering success because of 15 million units in Europe, where their safety record is the best of any motorized vehicle. Moped salesmen are confident a booming U.S. market awaits the product and they expect the desired response from the advertising nudge. The economy feature of mopeds figures to become its major selling point in an era when gasoline prices move only one way — up. But the recreational aspect also is expected to be a lure because mopeds are quiet, easy to handle and more like bicycles than motorcycles. And, they are not fast enough to interest the leather jacket crowd.

The big moped ad campaign is coming because for the first time a majority of the population will be able to own and operate them without the restrictions placed on motorcycles.

Bruno Porrati, president of Vespa of America Corp., sole U.S. distributor of the Italian firm, Piaggio and Co., said several states rewrote definitions for mopeds earlier this year.

Porrati, in Chicago recently to address delegates to the 65th annual National Safety Congress, said, "Mopeds used to be classified under a subcategory of motorcycles." That meant high insurance premiums, registration fees and expensive protective equipment.

But the industry's persistence eventually convinced enough state legislatures to redefine mopeds and remove them from the motorcycle subcategory. There are now 33 states with legislation that list mopeds separately from motorcycles and virtually in the same category as bicycles.

"They weigh only 80 pounds and can't go much over 25 miles per hour," Porrati said. "Most states where they are operating set speed limits at 20-25 miles per hour."

"The price will be from $350 to $600, depending on the amount of extras."

He estimated 250,000 mopeds are presently on U.S. roads and sales next year will total nearly a half million.

"A moped has to be pedaled to start its engine," he said. "They're all equipped with automatic transmissions. They're easy to operate and maintain."

"The fact that we now have favorable legislation in the 33 states, especially those in major population centers, encouraged us to go ahead with a $1 million national advertising campaign."

Illinois redefined mopeds this year to make the large Chicago-area market a likely target.

Vespa's Ciao and Bravo moped lines reported a U.S. sales increase of 63 percent last year over 1975 and from April through July this year, sales were nearly double the comparable period of 1976.

Mopeds will be offered with a limited line of extras including front and/or rear baskets, windshield and rear-view mirror.

The seats are adjustable to cover a wide range of driver-heights. Some will feature room for a single passenger, though the basic concept calls for use by only one person and manufacturers aren't too keen about adding a passenger.

Vespa mopeds burn regular fuel to which a couple ounces of motor oil should be added for each tankful. The vehicles do not require pollution control valves, mandatory in cars.

Porrati said he expects 30 to 40-year-olds in the medium-high income bracket to be his best market. In Europe, the big market is among people aged 20 through 50, with about 30 percent owned by women.

Porrati's next major step will be to establish additional dealerships to cover new U.S. areas markets where they have been redefined, especially in Michigan and Illinois. Most current dealers are located in the southern half of the nation and concentrated along the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

Porrati runs his operation from San Francisco, which is also the main parts replacement center. Others are at Long Beach, Calif.; Houston; Jacksonville, Fla.; Charleston, S.C.; and Philadelphia.

Porrati's dealers are asked to send their chief mechanics to a Vespa technical training center for two-to-three days to learn service procedures, which he said were relatively simple.

"We also ask the dealers to offer to take customers out for free instructional rides before closing a deal," Porrati said. "But we feel that a person who can pedal a bicycle can handle a moped."

Urge Screening For Rubella

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Rubella screening for women of childbearing age can signal their susceptibility to the disease.

Carla Shearer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says said rubella, or German measles, immunizations are not routinely given to women of childbearing age because of possible dangers during early pregnancy. But they will be given on a doctor's recommendation, she said. The baby of a pregnant woman contracts who contracts rubella may suffer brain damage, deafness, heart defects or blindness.

IMF Gold Auctions Are Going Strong

By GERALD NADLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The International Monetary Fund has quietly been auctioning one of the world's oldest yardsticks of value, gold, to lessen one of the globe's most ancient ills — poverty.

The IMF sales began in June 1976 and every ounce of gold offered has been sold: 9.4 million ounces.

Profits from the sales have put $902 million into a trust fund for 61 of the lesser developed countries. The capital-poor nations borrow from the fund on easy terms.

The IMF, a specialized U.N. agency set up in 1947 to foster international monetary cooperation, has set a goal of selling 25 million ounces of gold — one-sixth of its holdings — over four years. Despite the quantity offered, analysts say the auctions have had minimal effect on the price of gold in the Zurich and London markets, since the auctions occur regularly and dealers anticipate the sale as a constant factor.

"The auctions are a non-event in their effect on the market price of gold," said Robert Maurus of Perera Co., a New York firm dealing in foreign currencies.

The IMF says that for every ounce sold in the auction there have been at times five times as many bids as the amount of gold offered. But now the oversubscription has declined to 2 to 1, indicating the professionals have entered the market.

The auctions grew out of a decision by the IMF's Interim Board of Governors in 1976 at a meeting in Jamaica to oversee continued reform of the monetary system in which gold's role was lessened by the introduction of floating exchange rates.

The sole precedents for the IMF auctions were two sales of gold by the U.S. Treasury from its stocks in 1975 but the American efforts have not been repeated.

The U.S. auctions sought to help demonitize gold's role while meeting a heavy industrial demand that would have required imports of the metal. The IMF sales are the first ever to help poor nations.

The IMF sells the gold at what has turned out to be about the world market price — presently about $160.

The "profit" which goes to the loan fund for lesser developed countries is the difference between the price at which the IMF sells the gold and the official IMF price of $41.

The average profit in 18 auctions has been about $96 dollars an ounce.

Initially, there were predictions the IMF sales would have a chaotic effect on gold's price. But the successful bid figures indicate the market has been steady — especially since the IMF began holding the auctions each month starting in March 1977.

Overall, the successful bid price has been 20 to 30 cents higher than gold's selling price in London. Gold analysts say this is because the same groups are participating in the auctions and gold markets and anticipate prices.

Johnson Matthey Ltd. of the United Kingdom, one of the world's oldest gold dealers, has bought at the auctions. Other European participants have included Bank Lew Ltd., Zurich; Compagnie Luxembourgoise; Deutscher Bank, Ag., Frankfurt; Dresdner Bank, Ag., Frankfurt; Samuel Montague & Co. Ltd. and M.M. Rothschild & Sons, Ltd.

The highest price for which gold has sold at the auctions was $163.27 an ounce on Nov. 2 this year and the lowest was $108.76 on Sept 15 last year.

The auctions are held the first Wednesday of every month and bids by telegram or in writing must arrive at the IMF headquarters in Washington by 11 a.m. on the day of the auction.

Sales have been both by the bid and common price method. The IMF's 20-man board of directors announces the decision before each auction.

In the bid method, successful bidders pay the price they actually bid as opposed to the common bid under which all successful bidders buy at the lowest accepted price.

In both methods, bids are sorted out until the amount of gold to be sold is used up — 780,000 ounces each at the first six auctions and 525,000 ounces at the last nine. Two hundred ounces are kept back by the IMF at each auction for legal reasons. Physically this means the "auctioneer" takes each bid from a container and matches it against the amount of gold desired until none is left to be sold. The lowest quantity that can be bought is 1,200 ounces, or three 400-ounce bars.

A successful bidder can pick up the "gold bars" at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the Bank of England in London or the Bank of France in Paris — all gold depository banks of the IMF.

Replicas Of Magna Carta

LINCOLN, England (UPI) — Everybody talks about the Magna Carta, but few people have ever seen it. Now you can buy a copy.

The great charter of rights, on which both English and American common-law is based, exists in four copies, one of which is at Lincoln Cathedral here.

As part of the 900-year-old cathedral's campaign to raise money for operating costs, a colored replica is being sold from the cathedral's shop for $9, including air mail postage; lightweight version, $6 including postage.

The Lincoln copy of the Magna Carta was on display in the U. S. during the New York World's Fair of 1939. It has seven coats of arms on it, including those of King John and six of the Runnymede Barons who had connections in Lincolnshire. One of them was a direct ancestor of the current Dean of Lincoln, illustrating the staunch continuity of British tradition.

It was in 1215 that the great Barons of England forced King John to sign a charter at Runnymede, near Windsor, giving them certain fundamental rights in law which, over the years, have been extended to include ordinary folk.

Film Reminds Of Scars Left By Vietnam War

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Vietnam war ended more than two years ago and U.S. military involvement in it more than four years ago. The scars it left in America are slowly healing. Or are they?

This is what ABC's Steve Bell and producer Richard Gerdaud set out to study recently. Some of what they found airs tonight in a one-hour ABC News program, "The Class That Went to War."

Bell covered the war at the height of U.S. involvement in it. Gerdaud was in the class at the show studies, the class of '64 at Chatham High School in the small suburban town of Chatham, N.J.

A good combination, but unfortunately, the result of their labors seems oddly diffused. It doesn't entirely conceive that class, tries to include the larger picture of the war's effects in too short a time.

Twenty-five of Gerdaud's class served in Southeast Asia. Two were killed, several wounded. One other, shot down over North Vietnam, survived to get the only old-fashioned hero's welcome of the lot.

The class also produced several anti-war activists, one of whom is interviewed at length, as are several of the class who served in Vietnam. But no unexpected insights occur.

The activist still feels he was right. Most of the vets still feel that unlike the men of World War II, they returned home almost as outcasts in their own country.

Disillusionment remains dominant, along with some bitterness. The strongest outburst isn't from the Chatham boys. It comes from an outsider, Ron Kovic, a former Marine from Long Island, N.Y.

He was permanently crippled while fighting in Vietnam, became a familiar sight at anti-war rallies, wrote a scathing book about the war and now works with groups trying to help Vietnam veterans.

"We became the forgotten wounded ... the ones that people didn't want to talk about," he says at one point. Later: "We definitely felt betrayed by the government, and lied to and manipulated ..."

He's been saying that a long time. It might have been better to ask him what can be done to help the veteran now. Alas, we only see an aging folkie, Tom Paxton, putting Kovic's rage to words and music. Paxton sings a bitter song, but the impression is that no one told him the anti-war rally has been canceled on account of peace.

PECK IN PORTUGAL — Hollywood's Gregory Peck in his new screen role — Hitler's geneticist, Dr. Joseph Mengele, — in a scene from The Boys From Brazil, presently filming in Portugal. Mengele is a man still alive in South America and still sought for his crimes as the Angel of Death of the infamous Auschwitz concentration camp. Peck's co-star is Lord Olivier who plays a Jew who has dedicated his life to the pursuit of Nazis who escaped justice and fled Germany at the end of World War Two. His dogged determination to track down Mengele is the core of the film. (AP Laserphoto)

I wish there'd been more on why Congress hasn't better helped the Nam vet who needs help, with the accused foot-draggers called to account. And more on the extent of post-Vietnam reconciliation in America.

I kept wondering, for example, if Fred Wasserloos, a Chatham class of '64 member wounded in Vietnam, ever talks about the war now with his old classmate, Bob Bohl, who so fiercely protested that war.

Well, at least the ABC program is a needed reminder of Vietnam. It should be seen, particularly by a member of Chatham's class of '77. Early in the show, when asked about the war, his reply was this: "I really didn't learn that much about it. Because I really, truthfully, didn't really care about it at the time ..."

To stop declarer from getting those ruffs, West should have led a trump! East wins the ace and plays a second trump. Then East can even afford to rise with the ace of diamonds to lead a third round of trumps. Whatever happens, declarer cannot come to ten tricks.

Governor Turns Down Third Plea For Meet

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has turned down a third attempt by the leader of the Congressional Black Caucus to arrange a meeting to discuss the fate of the Wilmington 10.

The 10, nine black men and a white woman, were convicted in the burning of a white-owned grocery store during racial violence in Wilmington, N.C., in 1971. All but the woman are still in prison, facing long sentences.

Defense attorneys still contend the state bribed or threatened witnesses at the trial, and the case has drawn international attention from civil rights activists and others.

Hunt has been under considerable pressure to pardon the group. He has met with mothers of some of the 10 and with ministers and other supporters, but the governor has said repeatedly he will do nothing in the case until court efforts to obtain a new trial are exhausted.

His office also said Hunt would not meet Sunday with Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., and three other congressmen who planned to be in Raleigh for appearances at local churches and a news conference on behalf of the 10.

"It's the only day the governor has with his family," said deputy press secretary Stephanie Bass.

"Of course it irritates me," said Mitchell. "I think that if the governor of North Carolina was coming into my state...as a matter of simply courtesy I'd rearrange my schedule no matter what the issue was."

Reps. Don Edwards, D-Calif., Fortney H. Stark, D-Calif., and Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., are also scheduled to be here.

Edwards office tried twice in November to arrange meetings with Hunt. On one occasion the effort conflicted with pre-election day activity and on the other Hunt had to be in Kansas.

Ms. Bass said it might be possible to arrange a meeting later. "The governor has hundreds of requests to meet with people each week and you just can't do them all," she said.

Biology Student Is Award Recipient

ECU News Bureau

An East Carolina University student has received an award from the North Carolina chapter of the American Society for Microbiology.

Jeff Miller, 24, who will complete his graduate studies this semester, has earned the Mary Poston Award for the best graduate student research presentation at the Society's semi-annual meeting held in October in Chapel Hill.

Miller's presentation dealt with his immunological research on tumor cells from mice and how they relate to defense mechanisms against disease causing bacteria in an individual. The study further defined how antibodies react with salmonella bacteria in the gastrointestinal tract to prevent infection.

The presentation was based on Miller's graduate school thesis, the laboratory research for which was conducted in the ECU School of Medicine's Microbiology department under the supervision of Dr. Mason Smith.

Miller's presentation was selected from work by graduate students at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Duke University Medical Center, UNC-Chapel Hill School of Medicine and N.C. State University's Department of Microbiology.

His parents are Marvin and Dorothy Miller of Amsterdam N. Y.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to get into whatever requires your attention that has to do with home, property, family or possessions. Eliminate in an objective and impersonal manner the various conditions that do not meet with your standards.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study home well and get rid of whatever is obsolete and make it more functional, harmonious. Get work done by yourself and avoid arguments with kin.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take care of everyday problems that have been difficult in the recent past. Be alert and do not get into any unnecessary accidents.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't get into any further debt. Start saving and feel more secure. Not a good day to consult with an adviser who has problems of his own.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get rid of personal situations that are not to your liking and feel happier. Steer clear of the social which could have an element of danger attached to it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you use more direct methods, you can get out from under much that seems complicated. Give loved one more freedom and come to a better understanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid arguing with friends just because you are not feeling up to par. Plan some entertainment and get back into the swing of things.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care of situations that you have overlooked for so long. Be more conservative with those in authority. Take no chances with credit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to put new projects to work but they need further study before you do so. A new contact may seem all right at first but is not dependable, so avoid. Be careful of strangers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle duties well and be sure to keep promises you have made to others. Be persistent and you win out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to be demanding with partners or renege on agreements made with them, but don't do it. This could prove troublesome. A civic affair does not please you but be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into the work you have promised to do, even though you find it tedious. Don't be so demanding with co-workers or you lose their good will. Be careful of reputation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to get into wholesome and inexpensive amusements. Showing loved one your true devotion brings fine results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she must be taught to be optimistic and objective so as not to develop a martyr complex, even over small things. Teach to respect others more, especially the elders, and learn much from them. Give some musical training that could also become a source of income.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Mercedes-Benz gave their new coupe such a pretty face, you might overlook its other features.

Beneath that beautiful profile, the 280CE is spectacular—in the tradition of all Mercedes-Benz coupes.

The 2.8-liter six-cylinder engine (see diagram), with C.I.S. fuel injection and two overhead cams, offers the kind of performance engineering that just begs to be put to the test.

Fully independent rear suspension and zero-offset front axles create a special feeling for the road.

The 280CE has automatic climate control, stereo radio, tinted glass, electric windows, a central locking system—even hand-selected burled walnut-root trim. All these items are standard, yet they exemplify engineering rather than extravagance.

Don't let the looks of the 280CE blind you to its other virtues—call us and drive it.

Special Unit Hunts Escapees

By ROBERT MACKAY
CHICAGO (UPI) — Within minutes after an inmate escapes from a state prison in Illinois he is hunted by a specially trained group of men believed to be the only outfit of its kind in the nation.

The Apprehension Unit of the Illinois Department of Corrections is responsible for locating and apprehending prison escapees, parole and work release violators, AWOL's and runaways.

"Of the 17 who have escaped in the last three years from all adult institutions (in Illinois), we have recovered 15," unit supervisor Herbert E. Bailey said in an interview.

"Our general purpose is to protect the community by removing persons who might be considered community risks. That's our big job here. We find these people all over the United States."

Unit investigators receive regular FBI training twice a year in search and apprehension techniques, weapons training and legal and psychology courses.

"We feel we're the only state that has this unique operation," Bailey said.

When a prisoner escapes, the warden of the institution immediately calls the apprehension unit with information about the fugitive, Bailey said. The information then is fed into the National Crime Information Center computer along with a state warrant for the fugitive's arrest.

A team of investigators works full time to track down the escapee. They begin by talking to people who visited the fugitive the most in prison or the ones who wrote letters to him the most, and then they start knocking on doors.

"We develop a tremendous amount of information," Bailey said. "Since we work closely with all law enforcement agencies, we don't always make the apprehension ourselves. When someone other than this unit apprehends an escapee, they usually do so on the basis of the information we supplied."

One of the six investigators in the Chicago office is an extradition officer. Bailey said 120 persons have been returned to Illinois this year and another 100 are being processed.

"Anywhere that a person is arrested and checked ... and they find he is wanted (in Illinois), we are immediately notified," Bailey said. "The moment they're released, we'll be at the gate waiting for them."

While prison escapes take priority, investigators usually are trying to find parole violators or juveniles who fail to return to correctional centers after being furloughed.

Investigators Edward Christian and Michael Cardamone, who receive new assignments every week, spend days tracking down fugitives. When caught, the fugitives are returned to the institutions.

"We generally don't have any trouble," Cardamone said. "The juveniles are the ones — they like to fight. Especially the girls. I've never picked up a girl yet that didn't fight."

"Fifty percent of those that run — we know who they are," Christian said. "Because they've run before. These institutions give them furlough regardless of whether they're likely to run or not."

The officers made five separate stops on Chicago's South Side one day recently — each one the home of a juvenile. Either no one answered the door or relatives said they did not know the person's whereabouts. Any new information they get is given to investigators working on the next shift.

"Law enforcement a lot of times is knocking on empty doors," Cardamone said. "Some days you do well and some days you don't. It's not like those police shows on TV."
