Vance Tries Talk Jordan Into Joining Cairo Meet

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance arrived in Jordan today to try to persuade King Hussein to send a representative to the Cairo talks between Israel and Egypt.

Vance said his talks in Israel showed the Jewish state was dedicated to peace and "working energetically toward that goal." His aides exuded optimism after their visits to Cairo and Jerusalem.

"Hussein is a true and valued friend and his advice and counsel at this time is particularly important to us," Vance said in an arrival statement.

In other developments: —Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam said in Damascus that President Hafez Assad will refuse to receive Vance on Tuesday if he is carrying a message from Israel.

Baghdad radio in Iraq reported that Vance was carrying two letters from Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, one for Hussein and one for Assad. But the U.S. State Department denied Vance was carrying such letters.

—Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat expects to make serious progress at the Cairo talks within a week to 10 days. Dayan said if Sadat cannot "deliver something" within that time on the overall Mideast conflict, he may agree to negotiate a separate peace settlement with Israel — something he repeatedly has said he does not want to do.

Dayan did not say what kind of concessions, if any, Sadat could expect from Israel. But he said Israel was prepared to discuss any subject. The Cairo talks are "not a birthday party where you go to give gifts," Dayan said.

Reporters traveling with Vance on his six-nation Mideast tour were told Jordan is expected to send a delegation to Cairo sometime next year to join the negotiations that Egypt and Israel begin Wednesday.

However, Syria, Israel's other major adversary, remained as publicly opposed as ever to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative. Khaddam said his government "will not attend the Cairo meetings even if they achieved some success ... because they come as a result of Sadat's visit to Israel."

"Syria believes any political activity, whether in Cairo or Geneva, would serve capitulatory schemes and be a coverup for plots," Khaddam told reporters in Abu Dhabi, where President Hafez Assad conferred with President Zayed Bin Sulan al Nahyan of the United Arab Emirates.

Vance goes from Jordan to Damascus to try to get Assad to moderate his opposition to Sadat. But Khaddam rebuffed him in advance, saying Syria refuses to respond to "current international efforts" in the region.

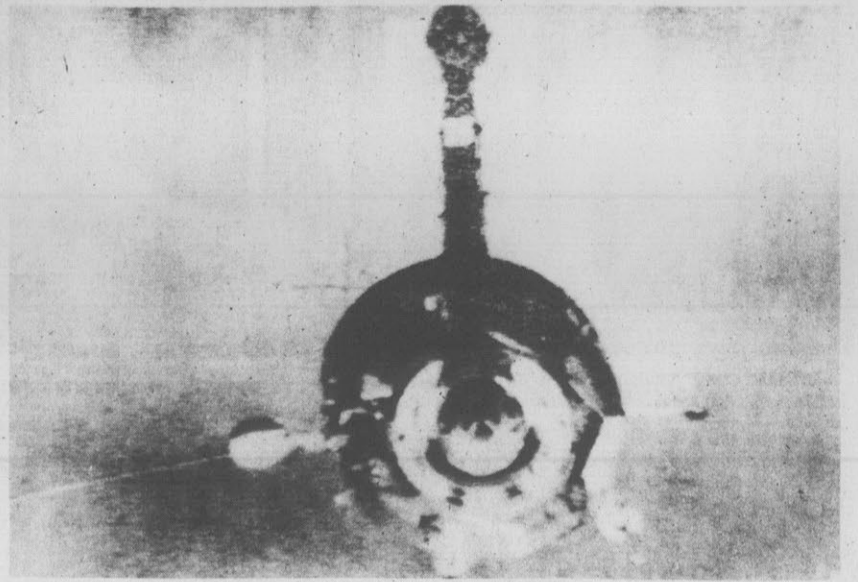

Assad has been touring the oil states on the Persian Gulf trying to get them to put financial pressure on Sadat. Khaddam claimed his visits to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the U.A.E. had been a success because none of them showed an "inclination toward cooperation with the enemy." But none of the three gave any indication of taking sides with Assad against Sadat.

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin told a news conference he hopes Israel and Egypt will work out principles of a peace treaty that "will be a sample for the peace treaties to be signed with all our neighbors." But he disclaimed any intention of reaching a peace treaty with Egypt alone.

"There is no intent to have our countries signing peace treaties and leaving the other countries out," he said. "Our intent is to do our best to have treaties with all of them."

Reporters were told Vance found both Sadat, who he met Saturday in Cairo, and Begin considerably more flexible in private conversation than in their public positions.

Pitt Tractorcade

Pitt County farmers are organizing a tractorcade for Wednesday in support of efforts by midwest farmers to bring attention to their concern for farm product prices.

Kenneth Dews, area farmer who is helping to organize the gathering, said that Wednesday's activities are aimed at enlightening the consumer to the farmer concern for prices that are being received for farm products compared to production costs.

Dews, who noted that the effort is also in support of farmers throughout the country, pointed out that the event is scheduled from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

According to the spokesman, a permit has been secured from the city for the tractorcade of "farmers from all over the county" to assemble here in the courthouse area.

Two local speakers will address the public in support of the farmer effort at the courthouse, he said.

Pitt farmers, Dews explained, will assemble out in the county and enter Greenville by way of Green Street on the north and Dickinson Avenue on the south side of the city.

"We are asking all farmers who are able to climb on a tractor to participate on Wednesday," Dews commented.

An organizational meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the Pitt County Farm Bureau building, he said.

Planning To Idle Non-Union Mines

MARTHA BRYSON HODEL
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Even as union and industry negotiators reported progress, some of the 160,000 striking members of the United Mine Workers announced increased efforts to close non-union mining operations in Appalachia.

"Today's the best day we've had," UMW Vice President Sam Church said Sunday after a bargaining session in Washington was adjourned for the day. "We're making progress."

Contract negotiators met periodically throughout the day and were closeted for more than three hours in the longest session since face-to-face negotiations resumed last week.

Church said UMW President Arnold Miller would be back in Washington today when talks resumed. The union chief returned to West Virginia last week, saying he would go back when progress was evident.

"We've talked about some of the major issues. That's movement to me," Miller said. "We've made a little movement."

But sources warned that the optimistic reports would not necessarily bring a swift end to the strike, which has cut the nation's coal production in half.

While negotiators were bargaining, some striking miners held their own meetings Sunday.

About 1,500 rank-and-file miners from the union's District 17 in southern West Virginia and District 30 in eastern Kentucky met in Phelps, Ky., to discuss plans for closing all non-union mines in the area. "Blood or no blood, they're going to stop those mines from running coal," said a Pike County, Ky., sheriff's deputy.

In addition, a group of miners from the Athens, Ohio, area said they planned efforts to try to shut down all coal-loading operations in Lawrence County, Ohio, on the Ohio River.

The union has been seeking a re-financing of the financially troubled trust funds that provide health and retirement benefits to the union's 277,000 members, as well as a limited right-to-strike clause for local unions and a wage increase from $60 to $114.36 a day. Mine owners are seeking an end to the wildcat strikes that have plagued the industry in recent years.

Age Law Doesn't Protect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that the federal law prohibiting age discrimination does not protect some 11 million workers from being forced to retire before they reach the age of 65.

In a 7-2 decision, the court said the law was primarily designed to encourage the hiring of older workers, not to prevent them from being retired under pension plans adopted before the statute was passed.

The dissenting justices, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan, said the majority decision has "deprived many older workers of the protection which Congress sought to afford."

But they noted that the House and Senate recently passed amendments specifically prohibiting forced retirement of under-65 employees simply because of their age. Thus, they said, "the mischief the court fashions today may be short-lived."

Lady Churchill Is Dead At Age 92

LONDON (AP) — Lady Spencer Churchill, widow of Britain's wartime leader Sir Winston Churchill, died today at her home in London after a heart attack. She was 92.

Her grandson, Winston Churchill, announced her death.

He said she was lunching with her secretary when she was stricken. Lady Spencer Churchill, named Clemantine but nicknamed "Clemmie" by Sir Winston, began auctioning off his paintings and other family heirlooms quietly this year to help meet expenses. She had been in failing health for several years and progressively had retreated into seclusion since the death in 1965 of her husband of 57 years. He was 90 at his death. Last July she underwent abdominal surgery at King Edward VII hospital in London. The reasons for the operation was never made public. Shocked Britons had suggested special legislation or an appeal to provide for her needs, but she said she deplored any such idea and it was dropped.

Lady Spencer Churchill was born April 1, 1885 to Sir Henry Hozier and Lady Blanche Hozier. Her mother was descended from a long line of British earls, as was Sir Winston — a grandson of the Duke of Marlborough.

By all accounts, it was love at first sight when Clementine Ogilvy Hozier, the 23-year-old daughter of a Dragon Guards colonel, and Sir Winston met at a fashionable dinner party in 1908. He was a 34-year-old cabinet minister.

Churchill proposed soon after in the gardens of Blenheim Palace, his family's 16th-century estate. They wed on Sept. 12, 1908 at St. Margaret's church, London, within sight and sound of Big Ben.

It Rained In The County Jail

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — There were blue skies outside over the weekend, but it was raining inside the Clay County Jail.

The unofficial weather spokesman, Sheriff Jack Corum, said the indoor storm was of his own, inadvertent, doing.

When cold temperatures came to Liberty last week, Corum decided to install heaters in the old jail to beef up the old heating system which, he said, wasn't able to keep the jail comfortably warm.

But the cold outside air chilled the jail's walls and roof. Then the warm air inside the jail condensed moisture on the roof.

Presto — rain. "It's really bad," Corum said. "It's just like rain, especially in the classification cells, the hallways and the office."

After his wife's death and his subsequent selling of the farm, he decided to begin work on a Ph. D. in political science at the University of North Carolina. This he completed, and he taught for a while in Washington, N.C.

He is now working on a book that has grown out of his doctoral dissertation research. The work is made slow by his difficulty in writing, but he says he will complete the project. "I hate to take off even a day," he said. "I'm so involved in the writing."

Dr. Merson said he tries to run 40 to 50 miles a week. Most of this is done early each morning when he and his friend, John Montgomery, run together. "There are (Continued on page 5)

TREE PRESERVATIVE?

I remember reading several years ago about a mixture one could use to help a live Christmas tree keep longer. I believed it contained sugar or syrup in warm water and another ingredient — I can't remember. Is there anyone who might know about this? A. C.

Pitt County Home Extension Agent Evelyn Spangler suggested mixing one part glycerin (obtainable at a drug store) to three parts water. It helps if you apply this one week prior to putting the tree up, she said.

Also, one might try mixing four tablespoons of tree preservative (available at florists and some department stores) to two cups of light corn syrup and four tablespoons of chlorine bleach. This "recipe" she said came from a National Fire Protection Association publication. She said that for any bought tree to absorb water the end should be cut off, because most have wax on them to keep sap from escaping during transit.

She warned that users of either of these concoctions should be careful not to drop any on carpet, because even the smallest amount could damage the fibers.

Dr. Martin Merson, 71, Ran 10-Mile Course In Road Race

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Martin Merson, 71, of Greenville received a trophy for being the oldest person to finish a 10-mile course during the Ahsokie Road Race held Saturday.

"My time wasn't very good — two hours and 58 minutes," the retired U. S. Navy officer said, "but I was very happy. It was the first time I've ever run that far in competition."

Dr. Merson, a widower and father of three children, all of whom live some distance away (two in New York, one in California), said he took up running two years ago. "I couldn't run a block then without difficulty," he said. "I hadn't done any exercise at all prior to that since 1942." 1942 was the year that Dr. Merson, then a Naval executive officer on Guadalcanal in the South Pacific contracted Japanese B Encephalitis. The viral infection, which was transmitted via mosquitoes from the natives of the island who were immune carriers, killed many of his men. "They said probably the only reason I survived was that I was in very good physical condition prior to contracting the disease. I had been a boxer and a lightweight crewman at Annapolis and had kept myself in a pretty good state of fitness up until then."

Dr. Merson has a persistent tremor which keeps his head constantly nodding, his voice quavering, and the use of his hands severely limited.

Up until 1970, he says, his activity was limited by the tremor because it caused a tremendous drain of energy. That was a wonderful year for him, though, because his doctors decided to try on him a new drug called El Dopa which had been developed by a Dr. Cotzius for use on Parkinson's disease. Dr. Cotzius came to see him in New York, he said, and told him that the drug probably wouldn't stop his tremors, but would have other benefits, he believed. "He was right," Dr. Merson said. "It enabled me to do things once again. Before that I couldn't have even thought of running, and couldn't even sustain enough energy to do much of anything."

Dr. Merson, who had graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, served his required stint in the Navy and went to work for U. S. Steel in South America prior to World War II, was retired on disability as a result of his illness during World War II. He then earned a law degree at Harvard. The years before his wife died in 1957 were spent on a farm in Pennsylvania and he also served in the Eisenhower administration as Assistant Consultant to the Administrator of the

Pitch In To Steal Christmas Back From A Grinch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Corporations, small-change donors, truckers and even a wandering who are pitching in to steal Christmas back from a "grinch" who looted a $15,000 cache of toys intended for poor children.

By late Sunday, the fire department reported it had received about $40,000 worth of donations and toys to replace those stolen or wrecked last Wednesday night.

Fireman had been using a vacant fire house to store its toys, which they had planned to give to 70,000 children this year. But someone broke in and loaded a pickup with more than $10,000 worth of toys. Police arrived early Thursday to find a dozen teen-agers playing among another $5,000 worth of wrecked toys. The youths said the thief told them to help themselves.

The culprit, reminiscent of the villain in the "Grinch Who Stole Christmas," a children's story by Dr. Seuss, remained at large today.

But his crime whipped up a surge of charity that Lt. Dan McDermott, head of the fire department's 25th annual toy drive, called "utterly fantastic."

Donations came by mail from up and down

California. Even a wino got into the spirit. "I want to write you a check before I'm too drunk to write my name," he told firemen in Station No. 1. He signed and donated a $50 traveler's check.

Truck driver Terry LeBlanc — who is hailed on the highways as "Terrible Terry" — hit the CB radio waves and told his buddies he needed their help to fill up a truck with toys. He got it.

"I think it's a dirty shame that someone would go out and rip off little kids," LeBlanc said. Bechtel, an international construction and engineering firm, purchased $15,000 worth of toys and presented them to the fire department. Mattel Toys promised to send $8,000 worth of its products. Varner Ward Leasing Co. provided a $5,000 check. Macy's said it would donate $5,000 today.

The San Francisco Giants baseball club pitched in with 1,008 jackets, 1,234 T-shirts and 360 baseball bats.

"And people with quarters and 50 cents have been coming in all day," McDermott said.

Father Of The Groom Is A Shade Concerned At Carters' Attending

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Robert Stapleton, whose son Scott will be married here Saturday, says he is a little concerned that commotion brought by President Carter's attendance at the wedding could turn the ceremony into a "circus."

But Stapleton is not worried about Scott, who is the president's nephew, and his bride, 24-year-old Caro Lee Gainey, being able to handle the publicity and attention they're receiving because of it.

"They know how to laugh at themselves," says Stapleton, Carter's brother-in-law. "They'll make it all right."

The 2 p.m. wedding of Sydney Scott Stapleton, 25, to Miss Gainey, has become the social event of the year here, largely because of Carter's announcement late last week that he would spend Friday night in Fayetteville and attend the wedding.

More than 600 persons have been invited to attend the ceremony at the Highland Presbyterian Church, located close to the bride's parents' home in a wealthy, secluded neighborhood.

Both families are well known in Fayetteville. The bride's father is a dentist and the groom's mother is Ruth Carter Stapleton, an evangelist and sister of the president who has lived in Fayetteville for 29 years with her husband, a veterinarian.

"I know there will be a great many people because of the presence of the president, that goes without saying," Mrs. Robert H. Gainey, the bride's mother, said amid busy preparations at her home last week. "But I think it would have been big even without him."

The visit has kept Caro Lee and her mother busy, both say, answering calls from friends and from reporters. But Mrs. Stapleton has been at the Texas religious retreat she is building during most of the preparations and her husband has remained unruffled. "All this doesn't bother us. It's not anything new. There's just more of it now," Stapleton said at his office Friday, applying a rabies shot to a poodle pup after fielding a series of reporters' calls.

Stapleton, however, said he asked President Carter not to tell any of the family members whether he was coming to the wedding until he made a public announcement.

"We didn't want to know the specifics," he said. "It's just a one-day visit, that's all it is. And a wedding is supposed to be a party. It's not a circus. It's a celebration."

To keep things private, only one local reporter will be allowed inside the church, Mrs. Gainey said. There will be a guest list at the door to keep others out, she said.

Stapleton said the family is also expecting Scott's other uncle, Billy Carter, to come to the wedding. Scott, who is in his second year of medical school at the University of North Carolina, will not arrive until his exams are finished Friday.

Although Caro Lee says she is surprised by the attention, Stapleton said the couple considered what would happen if they had a big wedding and the president came.

"We discussed the ramifications a long time ago," he said. "It was their decision. We let them do it. They're pretty good kids. They've got it together. They'll make it."

Caro Lee went to the same high school as Scott, but they didn't start dating until about four years ago, when Scott was a student at Syracuse University. Their romance died down after a summer, she said, and was renewed when they ran into each other at a party last New Year's eve. They decided to be married in July.

"I'm sure for my children and grandchildren, and I guess for me too, it means a lot for the president to be coming," she said. "For Scotty, it means a lot that his uncle is coming — that he is close enough to the family and his uncle for him to go to a lot of trouble to be here. That means a lot to Scotty."

Annual Celebration Planned Wednesday

The Third Annual Extended School Program-Moyewood Christmas Celebration will be held beginning at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 14 at the Moyewood Family and Child Development Center on West Third Street.

The Child Development Center at Moyewood is a unit of the Pitt County Department of Social Services and the Extended School Program (ESP) is an alternative education program operated by the Greenville City Schools.

The celebration is planned by ESP students on behalf of the two, three, and four year old children at the Moyewood Center. Among activities in the celebration will be the singing of Christmas carols; a visiting guest appearance by Santa Claus; the unwrapping of presents and the serving of refreshments.

Christmas music is to be provided by the 25-piece Greenville City Schools Orchestra, under the direction of Claudia Shoaf.

Toys and clothes for the children's presents are being donated by Greenville area merchants and one out-of-town business.

Interested persons are invited to attend the festivities.

Bath Houses Decorated

BATH — This year for the first time, two of the historic houses at Bath will be decorated for the holiday season.

Beginning Dec. 16 and continuing until Jan. 1, visitors can view decorations of traditional 18th century greenery and fruits at the Palmer-Marsh House and at the Bonner House.

The houses are open to the public Tuesdays through Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. They are closed on Mondays and will also be closed Dec. 23-26 for Christmas.

Ft. Macon Events Set

FORT MACON STATE PARK — Two nature events are scheduled for the coming week at Fort Macon State Park near Atlantic Beach.

At 9 a.m. Friday, Dec. 16, John Fussell will lead a winter water bird walk, with those attending to meet at the fort entrance. December is considered the prime time to see scoters, Purple Sandpipers, and even possibly an eider.

On Saturday, Dec. 17 at 9 a.m., a park staff member will lead a nature walk to discover edible and medicinal plants of the Fort Macon area. Those joining the walk are to also meet at the fort entrance.

There is no admission for these nature events. Those attending are reminded to wear comfortable shoes and warm clothing.

Evangelist Is Building Center

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Evangelist Leroy Jenkins is building a multimillion-dollar spiritual center in Arizona, but aide says the religious crusader has no plans to move his base from Ohio.

Jenkins, who also has announced plans to run for governor in Ohio, is busy supervising construction of a $15 million spiritual center near the Painted Desert area of Arizona, said Betty Forbush, Jenkin's campaign manager.

The facility, due for completion by mid-1979, will include a medical center, a university, motels, a cathedral and other shops, Mrs. Forbush said.

The FARM SCENE

By LEROY JAMES
Agricultural Extension Agent

Since 1968, peanut growers have been faced almost annually, about the uncertainty of a peanut program for another year, now they can at least be assured of a peanut program for 1978 through 1981. Each year they will be faced with a decision of whether they plan to produce peanuts above their domestic poundage quota for the domestic crushing or export market. Of course, they will not be permitted to plant in excess of the farm's acreage allowance.

The price per ton for domestic edible use on each farm's poundage quota is spelled out in the new peanut legislation at not less than $420 per ton (net).

Additional Peanuts
However, the price for "additional" peanuts produced above that farm's poundage quota is not spelled out. It will though be announced by the Secretary not later than February 15th of each year. Peanut growers will then have from February 15th to June 15th to decide whether or not they can at a price advantage, contract their "additional" peanuts in writing with a "handler" or "sheller."

The export market for U.S. produced peanuts appears to be real strong as we look toward the '78 peanut crop year. For this reason, most peanut growers in Georgia will very likely find it much to their advantage to plant every acre of peanuts contained in their farm allotment.

Export Markets
Although our export market looks very favorable for '78, we cannot predict that it will stay that way right on through 1981. Although I am optimistic about our long term export peanut-market being on the increase there are international factors beyond our control that may lead to a "saw tooth" price structure for these peanuts in the export market.

Weather prevailing each year in China, India, Central and South Africa plus the export policies of government in these countries have and will continue to be dominant factors in the price we can expect during the next four years for any "additional" peanuts we produce for this market. Peanuts in the World Market are also to some extent in competition with other world produced oil crops such as sunflower, safflower, and soybeans.

Each year growers will have to take a close look at the price for these "additional" peanuts, by February 15th announced by the Secretary plus what they can contract them for and then arrive at a decision on their land use.

Lease Provision
Last year, peanut growers did not know until about late January whether the Secretary would permit lease, sale and transfer of peanut allotments. New legislation removes the discretionary power but of course gives him plenty others. Therefore, lease, sale, and transfer "shall be permitted" in the new peanut bill.

Gone at least for four years is the $20 deducted for storage, warehousing and inspection. The new price structure spelled out in peanut legislation is not to the producer with no deducts.

Have Fun With Clothes, Recycle

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stop! Don't discard that minicoat hanging in your closet. Or the dress that's out of style. Or the skirt you haven't worn since it got too tight.

Clothes that don't fit your current figure or the current fashion can be reworked and restyled for more wear and enjoyment, says Fenya Crown, who tells "How To Recycle Old Clothes into New Fashions" in her new book by that title.

"It's not a question of making do — you could wear an un-stylish outfit till it's falling apart and not get arrested," the former designer said in an interview. "The idea is to have fun with your clothes."

"It's a creative outlet in addition to saving money, which most of us need to do," she adds, "and it's a way to continue to wear clothes that you have a sentimental attachment for or you feel good in."

All it takes, she explains, is basic sewing skills and the ability to use a pattern, plus a supply of trimmings saved from discarded garments — buttons, lace, ruffles from petticoats, felt from hats, ribbons, braid, beading. Even the good parts of such household items as tablecloths come in handy.

"Look at linings, especially all-silk linings in really old clothes that are the kind of silk you couldn't even buy today," she advises. "If the lining is in good condition it can be very useful."

Ms. Crown suggests an easy way to make a skirt from a A-line mindress with long sleeves. All it involves, since the sleeves will be about as long as the dress, is ripping the seams, converting the sleeve material into side panels to make the skirt wide enough, making the waistline where the armholes were and using a drawstring at the waist.

In lengthening skirts Mrs. Crown favors lengthening from the top — that is, putting a yoke of some contrasting material on the skirt, rather than dropping the hem, which "always makes a mark and I don't like putting braid on to cover the mark."

"You could also put in bands of contrasting fabric throughout the skirt, or use ribbons between sections to lengthen a summer skirt, or even combine two or three miniskirts into one longer one by putting them in tiers," she suggests.

"Today, when stripes, plain and checks are all mixed up, almost any combinations are suitable," she notes. "Imitation suede goes well with wool, velvet with wool or synthetics; pique goes with just about anything for summer."

If you don't trust your color sense, remember black and white combine well with winter colors and beige and white go with summer garments, she points out.

For widening skirts, she suggests inserting grosgrain ribbon as an expansion method along the seams for a tuxedo look or, perhaps for a dressy skirt, "you can slice it up as much as you need to, and use lace insertions."

Coats, too, can be recycled into jackets and vests — "a double-breasted minicoat is almost a pea jacket already," says Ms. Crown, who also describes how to add a warm lining to a lightweight coat to make it into a storm coat.

"If a coat is just three or four inches too short but otherwise fits, an edging of fake fur around the bottom looks nice," she says, adding that if another touch of the fur is desired she prefers it on cuffs rather than on the collar.

The author, whose sister taught her to sew at the age of 15, has numerous other hints for restyling, including a way to make a tote bag from the flared bottoms cut off to make jeans into shorts. The part where the cut was made is sewed together to make the bottom of the bag and a drawstring is inserted around the flared part for a closure.

Ms. Crown, who was wearing a brown tweed double-breasted suit and dark brown bow-blouse that she had made herself, was a designer in New York's garment industry for 20 years and now lives in Princeton, N.J.

"I used to try to get people to buy new things; now I'm trying to get them to hang on to their old ones," she admits with a smile. "But it's exciting to conserve, and in many households it's necessary."

Abby's Christmas Gift Suggestions

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: Christmas will soon be here, so take a tip from me and do your Christmas shopping early.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Matilda or Great Grandpa, who don't get out much, let me tell you what NOT to give them: no dusting powder, after-shave or cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Grandma doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces or bracelets.

With the price of groceries up so high, folks who live alone on a fixed income would probably be delighted to receive a basket of assorted groceries. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mix. Old folks can always use lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (And enclose some new felt-tip pens, too.)

Shut-ins would appreciate a box of greeting cards for all occasions so they can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (And be a sport and stamp some envelopes.)

Don't give anyone a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. And that goes for the color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some useless little doodad you received for Christmas three years ago, please don't. It's a pretty fair bet the recipient will find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, YOU might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than a frivolous little trinket. Or give someone who's counting his pennies a year's subscription to the daily newspaper or to a magazine you know he'll enjoy.

Don't give anyone a pet unless you're absolutely sure he wants one and is able to care for it properly.

Don't give gifts of wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting their calories, but have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation.

Resist giving toddlers stuffed animals and dolls that are bigger than THEY are. And parents will thank you for not sending their children horns, drums, sirens or whistles. If you give a child a game or book, be sure it's in the right age range.

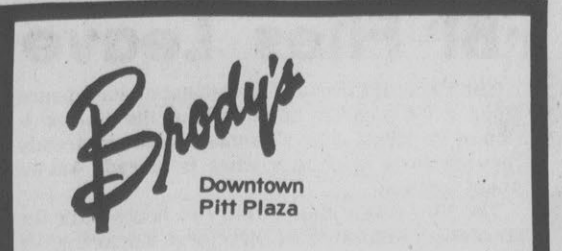

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "take it back and exchange it if it's not what you want," why not save yourself (and them) much time and effort by giving them a gift certificate in the first place.

N.C. Grand Regent Visits Local Chapter

Greenville Chapter No. 1308 held its chapter night program at the Moose Lodge Thursday night with Senior Regent Hazel Barnes presiding.

Special guest for the evening was Mrs. Edna Conniffe, grand regent for the state of North Carolina. She is a member of the Fayetteville Chapter No. 1292. Her topic for the evening was "Converting Thought to Action."

"How to Get Your Husband to Really Love You" was the program topic of guest speaker Dr. David Knox. He is director of the marriage counseling program in the Department of Sociology at ECU. He is a clinical member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors and is the author of four books. Mrs. Pat Cannon, chairman of the Social Services Committee, was in charge of the program.

New members enrolled included Linda McKeel, Margie Davis, Glynnis Jones, Jane Bell and Iris Richards.

A social hour followed the meeting. Guests present included delegations from the Washington, Goldsboro and Fayetteville chapters.

On Saturday, Dec. 17, the WOTM will sponsor a mother's morning out, a child-sitting service being offered at the Moose Lodge from 9 a.m. until noon. Members will care for and entertain children and toddlers. There will be a show by the Gillihan puppets and Santa Claus will visit the children.

Parents may also bring their children and stay to see the puppet show and the visit from Santa Claus for a small admission charge. The puppets will perform at 10 and 11 a.m. and Santa will visit at 10:30. Refreshments will be served.

Melba Hargett, chairman of the Publicity Committee, and Geneva Gillihan, chairman of the Moosehaven Committee, are in charge of the project. The proceeds will go to charities aided by the Women of the Moose.

FBI Files Leave Questions

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has opened some 40,000 pages of its records on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, but apparently they do little to change what is already known about the event.

The files reveal that within two hours after the shooting of Kennedy FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover believed that the death was caused by Lee Harvey Oswald.

The files reflected an investigation by the FBI such as had never been carried out before with agents following thousands of leads — no matter how improbable they might have been.

The suspicion that the assassination was somehow Cuba-connected was investigated thoroughly but no conclusive evidence was ever turned up.

Release of the files still leave the nation with the same nagging questions about the assassination. It is almost certain that Oswald killed Kennedy. But did he have help? Was there a foreign government in the picture? Was there any connection between Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby?

We don't have positive answers even now, and likely those questions will never be fully answered.

Alternate Fuel Will Be Costly, Too

Years ago the nation turned away from coal as a fuel because it was becoming too expensive.

One of the reasons may have been huge wage and benefit increases demanded by the miners' unions.

Now we are looking at coal again as an alternate fuel to petroleum products, and the coal industry is locked in a strike with miners demanding $114.36 per day over the next three years. The maximum wage now is $65.36 per day.

Even with the petroleum squeeze, coal may still be our reach for the nation's economy if such a wage and accompanying benefits are granted.

Museum Drive In Schools

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The State Board of Education has given its strong backing to a plan by the North Carolina Art Society to take its Art Museum fund drive into the public schools.

"Because the public school system is one of the prime benefactors of a modern and complete art museum, the Art Society also deems it desirable to take the campaign into the public schools," Mrs. Sarah Reeves, president of the association, has told members of the education board.

Recognizing that the school system "cannot be used for fund raising . . ." the program will zero in on the educational-consciousness raising, Mrs. Reeves describes it.

At the same time, the school children will be given an opportunity to contribute to the drive. Collection bags will be made available for any classroom teacher who wishes to use them, and the money which children put in the bags "will be used for construction of some or all of the educational wing (of the museum)," Mrs. Reeves, a Sanford resident, explained.

Million

The Art Society has undertaken to raise one million dollars toward an expected 45 million deficit in the building project. The General Assembly has appropriated $10.75 million. The Reynolds Foundation has made a challenge grant of $1.5 million. Local Art Society representatives will talk with local school boards about the in-school effort. Many have policies prohibiting such activities, and in any event, said Mrs. Reeves, it will be strictly up to teachers whether or not their classes participate.

Schools have been used in the past to help in fund raising efforts. In more recent years, however, such activities have been discouraged or sharply curtailed on the grounds that it is not an appropriate education activity, and also proves embarrassing to some children who can't afford to participate.

"Of course we recognize the fact that each teacher . . . has other important goals to meet. Any and all help these teachers can give us without compromising the schools will, we think, redound to our mutual benefit," Mrs. Reeves commented.

NOBLITT

Whether any funds are collected or not, the schools will receive materials on the Art Museum, and reproductions of works of art for distribution to students. "The raising of money is really only incidental. . . it truly is," says Mrs. Reeves. More importantly is to demonstrate to the schools the attractions which the Art Museum holds for school children.

The Art Society plans to spend some $40,000 for the materials, and if it recovers that cost in donations it would make the leaders happy. The effort is part of an attempt to raise the million dollars from grassroots North Carolinians in every county of the state.

The Plan

Among details of the building campaign in the schools which will be run in January, February, and March will be letters to local school boards from State Education Board Chairman Dr. David H. Bruton urging participation; and letters to local superintendents from State Supt. A. Craig Phillips endorsing the project.

A letter from Museum Director Moussa Domit will pledge education and service to the schools as a major function; and articles are planned in magazines and newsletters serving the educational community. Plastic bags for money collection will be sent in late February as Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. proclaims March as Museum of Art Month. Two weeks afterward, the teachers will count the money, record the amount, name of class and school, the date, and a liaison from the Art Society will collect the money from each principal, take it to the bank, exchange cash for check, itemize the money, and forward the material to a county chairman who will send it to Raleigh.

Divorce Made In Heaven

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — Kenneth M. Curtis is a nice guy with a lousy $48,000-a-year job. He's quitting.

Which may show that nice politicians don't win pennants, even when they work for presidents who preach the politics of loving kindness.

Curtis is pleasant, soft-spoken, open, a former governor of Maine and an early supporter of Jimmy Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination.

And so he was installed as chairman of the Democratic National Committee on the day after Carter's inauguration. That's the way it always works. The president is the boss of his party, and the national chairman is his man at headquarters.

On Friday, two months after telling Carter that he wasn't happy in his party post, Curtis announced that he's had it, although he said he would stay on to help find a successor and get him started.

It all sounded like a divorce made in heaven.

Curtis said Hamilton Jordan, the real heavy hitter in the White House political lineup, never evidenced any unhappiness about his management of the committee. Nor, he said, were there any complaints from Tim Kraft, the appointments secretary.

Curtis said those two, and the president himself, were his main contacts at the White House.

But it was no secret that Mark A. Siegel, a Jordan deputy and a former executive director of the Democratic National Committee, didn't think much of Curtis' performance.

Siegel was supposed to be a liaison man between the White House and party headquarters. "I was frankly never informed that he had a role," said Curtis.

Carter himself doesn't seem to have been very dismayed at the prospect of losing Curtis' services. Curtis told him about it on Oct. 13, and said he couldn't recall whether the president had asked why he was going to resign. Nor, by the chairman's account, did Carter try to dissuade him.

Curtis said the president remarked that the chairman seemed to have given his decision a lot of thought. "He said 'Do you think that you might reconsider?' and I said 'I doubt it.'"

That's hardly the message of a president interested in keeping a man on the job.

"Is this just a lousy job?" Curtis was asked Friday.

"That's one way you could put it," he said.

He said it wasn't much fun trying to meet the payroll in a bankrupt operation — the Democrats are still $2.5 million in the red — or answering to 364 bosses.

That includes the state politicians who make up the national committee and who had taken to complaining that they were not getting enough support or service from headquarters in preparation for the 1978 campaign. Curtis said that was for lack of money and added that he didn't think the dissatisfaction was very widespread.

Then there were the rest of the bosses — the real ones, at the White House. There are few more promising paths to obscurity than service as the national chairman of the president's party.

"The president is the political leader of our party," Curtis said. "I think in the final analysis it's the president who has to give direction to the party."

The job carries some clout when the White House is in opposition control. That's when people like Republican Ray C. Bliss and Democrats Robert S. Stauss and Lawrence F. O'Brien came on to take charge of parties in need of rebuilding.

While Lyndon B. Johnson was president, he just about dismantled the Democratic National Committee. And they're laying off at least 15 staff members at party headquarters even now.

As for Curtis, he said he really hasn't had time to get used to Washington. He said he went to an appointment last Thursday and found a placard at the door:

"The meeting with Gov. Curtis has been cancelled and will not be rescheduled."

"I thought, 'My God, you really die fast around here,'" he said.

But Curtis may not be gone for good. He says he'll probably resume his law practice in Portland, with no plans to run for office. "But it would be fun." And there's always the chance that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie will decide to retire rather than run for another term in 1982.

Santa Claus Sells Out

Santa Claus was in his office at the North Pole when his wife came in. "There is a delegation of elves outside and they want to talk to you."

"I'll see them in a moment," Santa Claus said as he picked up the phone.

"Operator, give me Tokyo. Hello, Tokyo, this is Santa Claus. What happened to that shipment of dolls I ordered for you people in July? . . . I know there was a dock strike but I have to have them right away. All right, but if I don't get them in time I'm going to start dealing with the people in Hong Kong."

Santa Claus hung up and told his wife to let the elves in. "One of the elves spoke up: 'We haven't made any toys for Christmas this year and we want to know why.'"

"I know it's tough on you," Santa Claus replied. "but I've discovered that I can get them made cheaper in the Far East than have you people make them here."

"But we've been making toys for hundreds of years," an elf said. "It's the only thing we know how to do."

"I'm aware of the problem but costs have gone up, and it's not economically feasible for me to make my own toys any more. I can get electric trains from Taiwan for half the price that it costs you people to construct them."

"But what are we supposed to do?" an elf asked.

"That's a good question. When I was working for myself I could keep our factory humming. But since I sold out to a conglomerate I have to show a good earnings performance. All they're interested in at the head office is the bottom line."

"We're the best toy makers in the world," an elf said. "When we made toys they lasted for years. Now they fall apart on Christmas Day."

"Gentlemen, it's out of my hands. In the old days children used to write me and tell me they wanted a racing car, an Erector set, a doll house or a bicycle. But now they want everything they see on television. I can't give away a toy unless a child has seen it on a TV commercial."

"Last year we got stuck with a million tons of putty because the kids didn't even know it existed. The head of the conglomerate was furious and said I had to eat it. You can't imagine how miserable they make my life when an item doesn't move."

"Why did you sell out in the first place?" an elf demanded.

"I needed capital," Santa Claus said sadly. "I was unable to compete with the major discount toy companies, and when the conglomerate came to me they made me an offer I couldn't resist. They promised me I could run my operation just as I had in the past and they would not interfere with anything I was doing."

"I believed them. Then I sent in the figures for last year and they hit the ceiling. As you know we've never been a profit-making organization. So they sent up a team of Christmas consultants who said our problem was we were making our toys without paying any attention to cost control. They recommended to the head office that we close the factory in the North Pole and build one in South Korea where elves get paid 50 cents a day."

"So that leaves us out in the cold?" an elf asked.

Santa Claus shrugged. "They said if I couldn't run this operation they would find someone who could. And they meant it. You know how I feel about you little fellows. I've worked with you all my life. But what can I do when the Japanese start dumping Farrah Fawcett dolls down every chimney at a quarter of the price that we can make them for up here?"

"Boy," said an elf, "what a Christmas this is going to be."

"I'm sorry," Santa Claus said. "but that's the way the beach ball bounces."

Donner, one of Santa's reindeer, came charging in. "Is it true we're not going to be working this Christmas?"

Santa's face turned red. "I'm sorry you had to hear it from somebody else, Donner. The conglomerate wants me to use Amalgamated Parcel

Fringe Legal Advice

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

More and more Americans are getting a new fringe benefit with their jobs: legal advice. Prepaid legal plans, similar in operation to health insurance programs, are growing in popularity and experts say they will continue to increase in the years ahead.

"It's inevitable," said Philip Murphy, a Santa Barbara, Calif., lawyer and the American Bar Association's expert on prepaid legal insurance.

The programs are designed to provide legal advice for middle-income Americans who cannot afford high lawyers' fees but have too much money to qualify for public defender services. The existing system, the "one-to-one approach," has not helped these people, Murphy said.

Murphy describes group legal insurance as "a plan in which, there is payment in advance, by the individual or by someone in his behalf, for legal services that he may need or use in the future."

There are two types of group legal arrangements — those providing a minimum of service, such as advice and consultation, and those offering comprehensive and substantial benefits in both civil and criminal cases.

Murphy estimated that there are several thousand group legal arrangements, but only about 300 comprehensive, prepaid plans. These plans cover about 3 million people, including employees and their dependents. Participants include construction and auto workers, teamsters and public service workers.

Because most of the plans are relatively new — the oldest one still operating did not start until 1971 — there are no complete statistics available on legal insurance, who uses it and what it costs.

In an effort to get some specific figures, the American Prepaid Legal Services Institute, an arm of the ABA, is working on an actuarial study of major prepaid legal plans. Murphy said the results are expected early in 1978.

Murphy said about 90 percent of the plans are linked to labor unions and have been negotiated as part of collective bargaining agreements. Surveys have shown that about 15

New Price Index On The Way

By MICHAEL DOAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is trying to get a better idea of how deeply inflation affects typical American families by revamping the way it calculates the Consumer Price Index.

In the next few months, the Labor Department will begin sending more part-time workers out to record the prices of goods in stores around the country. They'll also be jotting down prices for a wider range of products.

The government has spent $50 million over the last eight years to revamp the index, which has a direct effect on the incomes of half the American public, says Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics.

The Labor Department interviewed about 20,000 families and individuals about their spending habits and had another 18,000 keep diaries of everything they bought for two weeks.

It's all part of an attempt to make the index reflect the impact of inflation not just on urban wage earners, but on all city and suburban residents.

Under the new system, instead of looking only at what urban hourly workers spend, the government hopes to gauge the impact of inflation on professionals, the self-employed, the poor, unemployed and the retired.

And instead of the 400 items in the old index, several thousand will be included in the new survey, according to a recent Labor Department publication.

The index is announced around the third week of each month. It begins with about 250 to 300 part-timers marking down the cost of a typical market basket of goods. Those figures, sent to Washington for analysis, become the index.

In the most recent report, the department said October prices rose 0.3 percent for the third straight month, a relatively mild gain.

The October index was 184.5, meaning it cost $184.50 for the same goods that could have been bought for $100 in 1967.

Collective bargaining agreements covering more than 8.5 million workers tie wages to the index. Pensions and other benefits are adjusted to changes in the index for about 50 million Social Security recipients, food stamp users and retired military personnel and federal employees.

Funds for meals provided to more than 25 million school children are affected by the index, which even influences some rents, royalties and child support payments.

With the upcoming changes, the government says the index should be accurate for about 80 percent of the population, double its present applicability.

The Labor Department will spend about $8 million a year on the index, which still will not cover rural areas. The department thinks that would be too expensive.

WINNING HAPPINESS

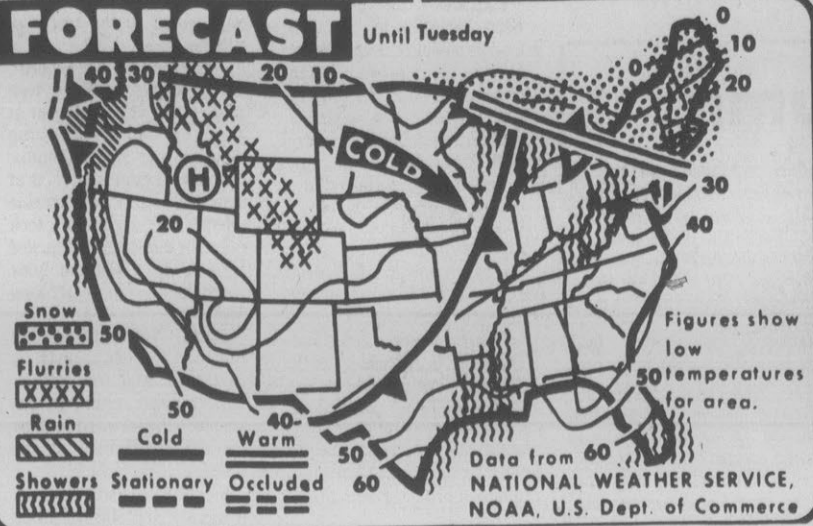

One of the most misleading things that can be taught to children, directly or indirectly, is that life will be easy and that they have a right to happiness. If children acquire this conviction, they will make themselves the affliction of everyone connected with them in the decades which follow. If they assume that the pathway must always be kept smooth before their feet, they will be devil wives, husbands and children. But worst of all, they will be continually unhappy.

Life is a struggle, and let us never delude ourselves with any false teaching to the contrary. The Declaration of Independence expressed this great truth indirectly when it cited our unalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Declaration does not guarantee happiness: it guarantees the right to pursue happiness and this is a quite different matter.

Nobody can give us happiness. We must create it ourselves.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast today for the Northeast. Showers are expected in the Midwest, Ohio Valley and parts of the South. Showers and rain are due for the central and northern Pacific coasts. Snow flurries are forecast from the northern Rockies to the western Plains. Most areas will be cold. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
After a frigid weekend across North Carolina, temperatures will begin moderating today and grow warmer Tuesday.

The arctic air mass that has given much of the northern and eastern sections of the nation a cold blast the past several days will begin to drift off the eastern seaboard today, taking with it much of the cold air. The warming trend will be aided by a trough of low pressure that will move across the upper Midwest Tuesday.

The dry, cold high pressure system continued to make clear skies in North Carolina, but sunshine Sunday did little to overcome the cold air. Highs Sunday ranged from the mid 30s to low 40s, with a slight warming trend in the mountains. Overnight lows were in the upper teens and low 20s, except for around freezing along the Outer Banks. Hamlet reported an early morning low of 20 degrees.

or 20 per cent of those covered by the plans use some legal service during the year, Murphy said.

The amount of coverage provided, the type and the cost varies from plan to plan. Some include only civil cases; others provide legal services in criminal cases as well. Some provide a specific dollar amount on the value of services that an individual can get in a year; others do not. And some allow a participant to pick his or her own lawyer while others restrict the choice to a selected panel.

Group legal plans not only provide people with services they otherwise could not afford, they also offer them access to a service they otherwise might not be able to find.

Murphy said that many people simply do not know how to go about finding and choosing a lawyer and added the legal profession itself has not worked out a way to help.

The recreational weather outlook calls for gradual warming. Under sunny skies today, temperatures will climb as high as the low 50s this afternoon.

Tonight temperatures will fall to the upper 20s and 30s. There will be some cloudiness Tuesday mainly over the western half, but temperatures will continue to rise, warming into the 50s with a few places reaching 60 or better.

Winds will also increase from the Southwest on Tuesday, aiding in the warming.

'Arteritis' and Vision Loss

My mother went to an eye doctor who said that her slight loss of vision was due to "arteritis" of the side of the head. How serious is this condition? — Mrs. A.E.T., Miss.

Dear Mrs. T.:
Readers should not be confused by the term "arteritis." It is not the same as "arthritis."

Arteritis involves the large blood vessel that runs along the side of the face and the forehead. There is a relationship between arteritis and loss of vision. It is for this reason that a small piece of the artery is removed under local anesthesia and carefully studied under a microscope.

Once the diagnosis of arteritis is definitely established, cortisone is used with excellent results. When large doses of cortisone are continued for eight to 12 months, there is a marked possibility that serious visual complications will be reduced.

I had my fortune told with tea leaves and with palm reading. I've been told that I have a short lifetime and it worries me sick. I'm so afraid they're right. — Miss R.M.N., S.C.

Dear Miss N.:
For centuries people have been caught up in the mysticism that surrounds reading of tea leaves and palm line interpretations. One of the penalties they pay is unnecessary fear about longevity and health.

By now, your anxiety has mounted to the point where it has interfered with your normal daily productivity and personal happiness. As long as people continue to expose themselves to these unscientific interpretations they are assuming the risk of being burdened with this kind of needless anxiety.

It is well-known that the lines of the palms and the fingertips become permanent about five months before a child is born. These prints never vary thereafter. Longevity rates have increased enormously since the turn of the century. It's obvious, then, that the children with the so-called "short lifetime" will live longer, just as the children with the "long lifetime" will. To remove the fears that have been implanted in your mind, I suggest that you get a complete medical checkup and learn, once and for all, if there is any existing disorder that needs attention.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... Punishing a child for nail-biting is bad judgment. Nail-biting is a symptom of inner tension that must be corrected. By pressure and nagging, nail-biting may be stopped, but other symptoms of tension may arise.

Jane Is Club's Star Of Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne glanced at Jane Fonda and cracked. "I'm surprised to find you at the right of me."

The two met at the annual awards of the Hollywood Women's Press Club. The conservative actor presented the politically radical actress with the club's award as "Star of the Year."

Miss Fonda, previously recognized by the club for helping give Hollywood a bad image, said about Sunday's award: "It sure beats a lemon... I'm glad to receive this from you, Mr. Wayne."

Wayne, another recipient of the "Star of the Year" award, said: "I've had the good fortune of knowing Jane's father (Henry Fonda) for 40 years and I've enjoyed watching Jane and Peter (her brother) develop into fine talents."

Orion Crash Killed 13

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Thirteen American airmen were reported killed and another one was missing in the crash of a U.S. Navy patrol plane that hit a mountain Sunday and exploded on one of the Canary Islands, off the northwest coast of Africa.

A U.S. spokesman said rescue workers recovered 13 bodies from the crash site on a 4,200-foot mountain on the island of Hierro and were searching for the remains of the other man.

The four-engine Lockheed P-3 Orion was on a training flight from the U.S. Air Force's Lajes Base in the Azores. Officials on Hierro, at the southwest end of the chain of Spanish islands, said the plane was flying in clouds and rain at 1,200 feet when it hit the mountain. Wreckage and pieces of bodies were scattered across the mountainside, the officials said. Identifications of the dead were withheld until next of kin were notified.

Dr. Merson...

some days I feel sure both John and I would like to turn off the alarm clocks and go back to sleep," he said, "but we have this commitment to each other to meet and run."

He is membership chairman of the Coastal Carolina Track Club and he said he invites anyone to join the group. He encourages any man or woman or child of any age to begin a running program, providing he or she has been checked to be sure the heart is capable of withstanding the stress.

Dr. Merson said he and Montgomery are now preparing for a mini-marathon (half of the marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards) to be held Jan. 14. "Before I kick the bucket, I want to be in a marathon," he said. "But before I can do this, I have to find something I can use to replenish my energy as I run. I'm searching now and think I may be on the right track with a honey and fructose combination."

Dr. Merson said he felt shy about agreeing to be interviewed about his accomplishment Saturday and he kept stressing that his time in the race was not good at all. "In fact," he said, "I was the last person to finish the race." He credited two events with keeping him going to the end. "At about the five-mile mark," he said, "I got a terrible pain in my side. At the same moment I passed a group of people watching and an old black lady said to me, 'Take the Lord with you.' Immediately the pain went away and I was able to keep on."

"Then at about seven miles

I was wanting again and suddenly I saw two young Marines running back toward me. They had completed the race and had run back out three miles to meet me. They chatted all the way back in and even enabled me to pick up my pace some. "I would never have finished had it not been for the kindness of these three people."

... We're Bigger Than You Think

North Carolina is in one of the fastest-growing areas in the world. And Southern Railway is growing right along with it.

Take a bow, North Carolina, you're in one of the fastest-growing areas in the country. And, as part of the South, you're in one of the seven fastest-growing areas in the world.

There's no need to tell you why this is. You know about the combination of factors that makes North Carolina, and the rest of the South, attractive to industry.

But what you might not know is that the Southern Railway is growing right along with you. In several ways.

First, who do you think carries the raw materials to all these new factories? And the finished goods to market? We do, in large measure.

Who do you think brings the cars, the carpets, the appliances, the clothing, the sporting goods, and the food to the ever-growing population of North Carolina? Largely, we do.

But, we're not growing just to keep up with the demand. We're growing to be ready for an even bigger future.

According to the federal government the railroads will get an increase in freight volume of 143% by 1990. And railroads' share of market will go up by a whopping 24%.

Will we get the lion's share of these increases when they come? Maybe. But whatever happens, we're getting ready for them by expanding right now. We're putting in a new $40 million push-button freight classification yard in North Carolina. We're adding to our microwave communication system, which is already the largest in the South. We're changing our track to smoother, more reliable welded rail.

And that's why the Southern is growing right along with you: when the demand is there we want to be there, ready to serve.

THE RAILWAY SYSTEM THAT GIVES A GREEN LIGHT TO INNOVATIONS

The Southern Railway is one more good reason for living in the South.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, flattening out after last Friday's rally.
 The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off .17 at 815.06.

Gainers held a 6-5 edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market began to build up forward momentum late last week as the dollar showed signs of stabilizing against other major currencies after its recent slump.

But brokers noted that Friday's rally, in which the Dow rose more than 8 points, came on relatively light volume, and by mid-morning today it appeared to have faded.

Technicare, subject of some adverse comments in Barron's magazine, fell 2 to 13 1/2% in active trading.

 The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks managed a .05 gain to 51.77. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .22 at 124.36.

Volume on the Big Board remained sluggish, totaling 8.07 million shares by noon time against 7.67 million at the same point on Friday.
 Kollmorgen dropped 1 1/2% to 17 1/2% on the Amex. The company said its fourth quarter earnings would come in about a 10 cents a share less than previously projected because of technical problems with a new product.

Some Friction In Criticism

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Efforts by state Corrections Secretary Amos Reed to improve the state prison system are apparently causing some friction within his department, but Reed says that's to be expected.

Some prison superintendents around the state have told the News and Observer of Raleigh that Reed's constant criticisms of their performance go beyond the bounds of strict administration and hurt morale.

The superintendents declined to allow their names to be used, but J. Arch Laney, executive director of the State Government Employees Association, said prison workers had told him that Reed is "quick to criticize and reluctant to compliment."

"I know of their running to others," Reed said of his critics within the department. "I've told them to work within the system and not to run to some sponsor to spread their mischief. I will not yield to outside pressure."

Reed, 61, who was named last January to his post, says morale in his department is "good and improving." Only a few of his superintendents, he says, are really unhappy.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Norcott's Chapel of Loving Memories in Greenville with the Elder J. L. Wilson officiating.

Burial will follow in the St. James Cemetery in Snow Hill.

Mr. Johnson was the son of Mrs. Bettie Pitt Johnson and the late Lee Johnson. He was born and lived most of his life in the Farmville area and was a retired farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Fannie Lee Epps Johnson of the home; five sons, Toney R., James A., Joseph J., and Joshua Johnson all of the home, and Clifton Johnson Jr. of Walstonburg; five daughters, Miss Nancy G. and Katherine Johnson, both of the home, Mrs. Shirley L. Bynum of the home, Ms. Virginia Lee Johnson and Mrs. Joyce Ann Maye, both of Greenville; his mother, Mrs. Bettie Pitt Johnson of Farmville; two brothers, Lester Earl Johnson of Farmville, and Lee Johnson Jr. of Farmville; three sisters, Mrs. Mary B. Jones, and Mrs. Ellen Ruth Reid, both of Farmville, and Mrs. Reather G. Atkinson of Hookerton; nine grandchildren.

The body will be in the Gold Room of Norcott and Company Funeral Home in Greenville until the hour of the funeral. Family visitation will be at the Chapel of Loving Memories from 8-9 p. m. today.

McGowan
CALICO — Mr. Connie W. McGowan, 30, died Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. today in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Travis Smith, pastor of the Missionary Baptist Church at Chicod. Burial followed in the family cemetery at Calico.

Mr. McGowan, a Pitt County native, spent his childhood in Greenville and had been a resident of Calico for the past ten years. A veteran, he served in the United States Army during the Viet Nam conflict and was a member of the Calico Hunting Club.

He was a supervisor at Vermont-American Corp. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Betty Jean Cox McGowan; one daughter, Ginger Dale McGowan of the home; one son, Connie W. McGowan II of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman H. McGowan of Greenville; one brother, Wesley Clayton McGowan of Black Jack; four sisters, Mrs. John Banks of Black Jack, Miss Louise McGowan of Kansas City, Missouri, Mrs. Jack Bryant of Greenville, and Mrs. Gilbert Nichols of Ballard's Crossroads.

Simmons
BETHEL — Mr. James Simmons, 55, died Saturday in the Kinston Hospital.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a. m. today in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Ellis Bedsworth, Methodist minister of Bethel. Burial followed in the Bethel Cemetery.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Simmons of Bethel; two sisters, Mrs. W. T. Shelton of San Antonio, Tex., and Mrs. George Haislip Jr. of Elizabeth City; and one brother, Cecil Simmons of Hampton, Va.

Streeter
Mr. Ephraim Streeter Sr., Rt. 4, Greenville, died Sunday at his home.

He was the husband of Mrs. Nona White Streeter. Funeral services are incomplete at Phillip Brothers Mortuary.

Wiggins
PHILADELPHIA, PENN. — Mrs. Martha Jean Davis Wiggins of 8327 Rodney Street, Philadelphia, Penn., formerly of the Hanrahan Community, died Saturday in her home.

She was the wife of Mr. Johnnie Ray Wiggins and the daughter of Earl (Pete) and Mrs. Mary Davis of Pitt County.

Funeral services are incomplete at Norcott and Company in Ayden.

Two Arrested In Shooting Calico Man

CALICO — Two men have been arrested by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department on charges stemming from the Saturday evening shooting death of a Calico man at a store here.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that officers arrested Lee Thomas, 27, of Rt. 1, Box 274, Grimesland, and Alex Howard Jr., 31, of Rt. 2, Box 287, Ayden, in connection with the death of 30-year-old Connie W. McGowan.

Sheriff Tyson said that Thomas is charged with murder, shooting into an occupied building, and going armed to the terror of citizens while Howard is charged with being an accessory before the fact of murder, shooting into an occupied building, and going armed to the terror of citizens.

 According to the sheriff, the shooting allegedly took place during an argument at Gaskins Store involving Howard and Henry Adams. Sheriff Tyson said that Thomas, who was outside when the argument took place in the store, is charged with firing a shotgun blast through a window striking McGowan.

Sheriff Tyson noted that McGowan, apparently a bystander who was not involved in the argument, was struck in the face and neck by the blast and died at the scene.

Howard also had a shotgun, witnesses told investigating officers. The sheriff said that an argument had apparently taken place earlier in the day and Howard and Thomas had returned to the store armed with shotguns.

Thomas was arrested Sunday morning, it was reported, while Howard was apprehended by officers Saturday night.

Both men are being held without privilege of bond with first appearance hearings set for today in District Court here.

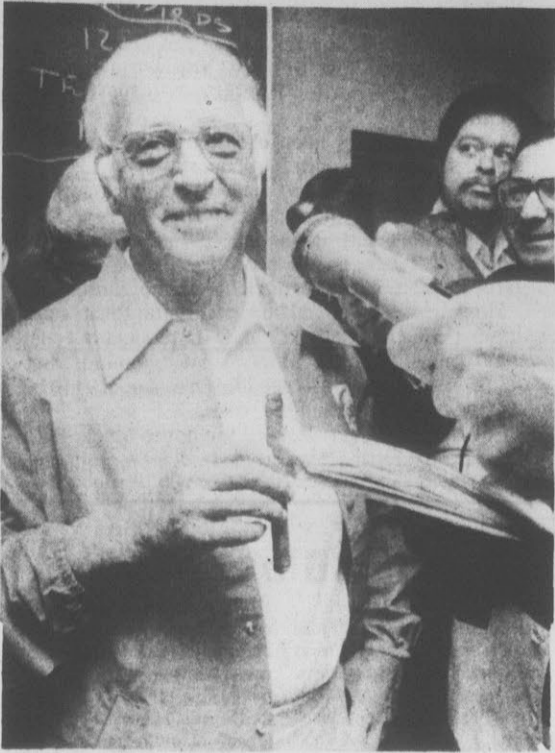

Jail Two On Drug Counts

The Pitt Sheriff's Department, working with officers of the Greenville Police Department, arrested two Bell Arthur men Dec. 8 on drug charges and confiscated a quantity of heroin and marijuana.

Officers charged William Miles Rouse, 27, and Charles Lee Steton, 22, with possession of heroin, possession of marijuana, and delivery of marijuana following their arrests at Bell Arthur, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The sheriff, who reported that both men were jailed under $50,000 bonds, said that approximately $500 worth of drugs were confiscated in addition to $165 in cash.

Tampa Bay Wins—Finally

Victory Cigar

... John McKay celebrates 1st win

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Undoubtedly, Archie Manning has learned to keep his mouth shut.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers only wish there were more outspoken players like him in the National Football League.

Manning, the veteran quarterback of the New Orleans Saints, infuriated the hapless Bucs last week by saying that it would be disgraceful to lose to Tampa Bay.

The downtrodden expansion team, which had lost 26 consecutive games since joining the NFL last season, made Manning regret his comments Sunday.

Rising to the greatest heights in their brief history, the aroused Bucs physically blasted the Saints 33-14, then verbally tormented Manning.

"It's disgraceful! It's disgraceful!" the Tampa players jeered at Manning as the clock ticked toward the Bucs' first precious victory.

"We just read the article to them where Archie said it would be disgraceful to lose to Tampa Bay," relieved Coach John McKay said with a smile in the joyous Bucs' dressing room. "Whatever Archie Manning said, I agree with him. He said it would be a disgrace to lose, and it is.

"Archie must have been looking at our offense," McKay added. "Our defense has never been disgraceful."

Tampa Bay had scored only 53 points in 12 games before Sunday. Against the Saints, their defense was outstanding. The Bucs intercepted six New Orleans passes and scored on three of them, with Mike Washington, Richard Wood and Greg Johnson getting the TDs.

"If we can get some more guys to make statements like that..." McKay said.

While the Bucs were reveling in their first victory, the Oakland Raiders, last season's Super Bowl champions, also were celebrating. The Raiders clinched the American Football Conference wild card playoff berth with a 35-13 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, their victims in last January's Super Bowl.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday, the Chicago Bears whipped the Green Bay Packers 21-10, the New England Patriots downed the Miami Dolphins 14-10, the Detroit Lions upset the Baltimore Colts 13-10, the Denver Broncos downed the San Diego Chargers 17-9, the Los Angeles Rams trimmed the Atlanta Falcons 23-7, the Houston Oilers topped the Cleveland Browns 19-15, the Seattle Seahawks outscored the Kansas City Chiefs 34-31, the Philadelphia Eagles overcame the New York Giants 17-14 and the Buffalo Bills shaded the New York Jets 14-10.

Saturday, the Cincinnati Bengals beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 17-10 and the Washington Redskins defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 26-20.

In tonight's nationally televised game, the San Francisco 49ers entertain the Dallas Cowboys.

Raiders 35, Vikings 13
Oakland, capitalizing on Minnesota mistakes, scored three times in the first 8 minutes and romped to their 10th victory in 13 games.

The loss dropped Minnesota into a first-place tie with Chicago at 8-5 in the National Football Conference Central Division. However, the Vikings can win the division title by beating Detroit Saturday night.

Bears 21, Packers 10
The running of Walter Payton and the pass catching of James Scott keyed Chicago's victory over Green Bay, the fifth straight triumph for the Bears. Payton, the NFL rushing leader, ran for 163 yards and two touchdowns and returned two kickoffs for 95 yards. He needs 199 yards rushing in the final game against the Giants to break O.J. Simpson's single-season record of 2,003 yards.

Patriots 14, Dolphins 10
New England's victory over Miami, coupled with Detroit's upset over Baltimore, threw the AFC East race into a three-way tie for first place among the Patriots, Dolphins and Colts, each with 9-4 records. A Baltimore victory over New England Sunday would make the Colts division champions. If the Patriots win and Miami wins, the Dolphins would be champions. And if New England wins and Miami loses, the Patriots would be alone at the top.

Lions 13, Colts 10
Detroit overcame Baltimore with 9 seconds remaining when Leonard Thompson blocked David Lee's punt, recovered the ball at the Colts 2 and ran for a touchdown.

Broncos 17, Chargers 9
The Broncos, heading into the playoffs for the first time in their 18-year history, increased their record to 12-1 — the best in the NFL — by overcoming San Diego on Jim Turner's 36-yard field goal and Rick Upchurch's 19-yard scoring run in the fourth quarter.

Rams 23, Falcons 7
Los Angeles, the NFC West champion, assured itself of the home field advantage in the first round of the playoffs Dec. 26 and eliminated Atlanta from playoff contention by beating the Falcons.

Lawrence McCutcheon set Rams' career and single-season rushing records. He carried 17 times for 152 yards, boosting his five-year career total to 5,488 yards, breaking Dick Bass' mark of 5,417, established from 1960-69, and raising his single-season record to 1,213 yards.

Oilers 19, Browns 15
"This wasn't football, this was survival," said Houston cornerback Willie Alexander after the Oilers had handed the Browns their third straight loss in 7-degree temperature and icy gusts in Cleveland.

Ron Coleman ran for two touchdowns for Houston and Billy Johnson scampered 72 yards on a punt return for another score.

Seahawks 34, Chiefs 31
Seattle's victory marked the fifth straight loss for Kansas City and jeopardized the job of Tom Bettis, the Chiefs' interim coach. The Seahawks scored all five of their touchdowns in the first half, while Kansas City's Gary Barbaro tied an NFL record by returning an intercepted pass 102 yards for a touchdown.

Eagles 17, Giants 14
Rookie Wilbert Montgomery returned the second-half kickoff 99 yards for a touchdown and quarterback Ron Jaworski ran 1 yard for a score with 20 seconds remaining, lifting Philadelphia over the Giants.

Bills 14, Jets 10
Joe Ferguson's second touchdown pass of the game to Bob Chandler — an 11-yarder with 40 seconds remaining — carried Buffalo to its victory over the Jets. The scoring play capped a 92-yard drive in 1:17.

Bowls Mean $$

By The Associated Press

The four Atlantic Coast Conference football teams that will play in post-season bowl games will be making some big money with their extra effort. Unfortunately they'll be spending some big money too.

The take from the four games should come to slightly more than $1 million. After expenses, only about $600,000 is expected to be left, some of it going to Duke, Wake Forest and Virginia, who won't have to spend a nickel.

Under ACC rules, the bowl contender gets $125,000 off the top for expenses. Of the remainder, the contender keeps 40 percent and gives 10 percent each to the other six teams.

Using that formula, the anticipated payoff for each team is as follows:

Clemson, Gator Bowl, $249,500; North Carolina, Liberty Bowl, $243,000; N.C. State, Peach Bowl, $210,000; Maryland, Hall of Fame Bowl, $205,000; Duke, Wake Forest and Virginia, $58,000 apiece.

The bowl contenders, of course, can keep anything they don't spend of the $125,000 in expense money, but school officials don't expect to save much that way.

State, for example, anticipates spending $6,000 for three nights for the football team in an Atlanta hotel, $7,800 for the team's charter plane and an undetermined but surely astronomical figure for food.

Lakers Get Win Despite Turnovers

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Lakers have been averaging a whopping 19.3 turnovers every time they play ... but they couldn't even give the game away to the Buffalo Braves.

The fumbling Lakers made more than their average of errors — 20 turnovers, in fact, on Sunday night — yet despite their inefficiency, held on to beat the Braves 124-119 in overtime.

"I don't know if we played so well all the time, but we made all the key plays when we had to and we worked hard tonight," said Los Angeles Coach Jerry West after the National Basketball Association game in Los Angeles.

"Right now, our defense is hurting us — and the turnovers, too. I'm concerned about the overall play of the team."

The Lakers, champions of the Pacific Division last year, have turned things around this season — in the wrong direction. Currently they are fourth in their group, with a 10-15 record.

In the other NBA games, the Seattle SuperSonics whipped the Houston Rockets 116-84 and the New Jersey Nets trimmed the Washington Bullets 106-95.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lou Hudson combined to score 14 of Los Angeles' 15 points in overtime as the Lakers edged the Braves. Abdul-Jabbar wound up with a season-high 43 points and 19 rebounds.

The teams were tied at 109 at the end of regulation play after the Lakers' Tom Abernethy evened the score with a 15-foot jumper with four seconds left.

Fifteen seconds into overtime, Hudson fired in a jump shot and followed with a layup after a rebound and a long pass from Abernethy. The Lakers led the rest of the way.

Sonics 116, Rockets 84
Marvin Webster led a balanced Seattle attack, scoring 17 points and grabbing 14 rebounds, as the Sonics routed the Rockets. The Sonics had seven players in double figures as they won their sixth straight game under their new coach, Lenny Wilkens.

Nets 106, Bullets 95
Kevin Porter tossed in 30 points and dished out 17 assists to pace New Jersey to a surprisingly easy victory over Washington. Porter, who led the Bullets to the Eastern Conference title in 1975, completely controlled the game with his shooting and penetrating.

Ewes Seek Improvement

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

After a 3-18 season last year, there is hardly anyplace the Greene Central girls' basketball team can go except up and coach James Fulghum is confident that they will do just that.

"This year we expect a much-improved season," the Ewe coach said. "We're now 2-1 and feel we can play anybody in our confidence competitively. We'll have to have a good night to win, though. We can't play anybody weak and win."

Fulghum said the Ewes are looking for a better than .500 season — "much better." The strengths of this year's team are its experience, defense and free throw shooting, Fulghum said, while its weaknesses are a lack of height and speed.

The team has a total of eight returnees from last year's squad, including four seniors. Fulghum doesn't have a set starting lineup, but listed seven girls who may start at one time or another this year.

Leading the pack is senior Marilyn Yelverton, the team's leading scorer from last year. As a guard, she is being counted on heavily by Fulghum. "If we have a good season, she's going to have to play well," he said, "she's our playmaking guard."

Another senior, Karen Ham, will also see a lot of playing time at guard. "She's got some experience. She played a lot last year and is a pretty good outside shooter."

Sophomore Melanie Ham is also listed as one of the team's top backcourt players. She has started some this year. Fulghum said, and has been the team's leading scorer through its first three games. "She is probably the best shooter on the team," Fulghum said.

Three girls are battling for the team's two forward spots, senior Shannon Brown and juniors Sarah Taylor and Cindy Creech. Brown was moved from the guard position she played last season and is a good ballhandler who penetrates well.

Taylor is one of the biggest girls on the team at 5-7 and started most of last season. She is one of the top outside shooters on the squad. Creech's main strength is her quickness, Fulghum said, along with her defense.

At center, two girls are listed, junior Iris Pridgen, who is fast and a good defensive player, along with senior Ann Woodard, who is probably the best rebounder on the team and is more aggressive than last year.

Two other girls are back from last season and are expected to play a lot this year. Fulghum said. They are juniors Lori Brann and Paula Brown. Both of them are better defensive than offensive players, according to Fulghum.

In addition, there are five others on the team who, along with Melanie Ham, are first-year players. They are guards Annette Slater and Linda Best, and forwards Sandra Harper, Sharon Bright and Brenda Carraway. All are sophomores, except Carraway, who is a first-year junior.

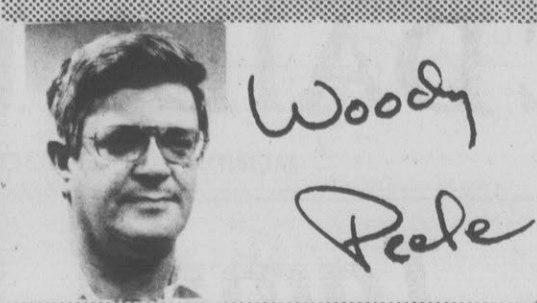

Fulghum said of these players, "Best is the smallest girl on the team, but very quick. Slater, we think, will turn into a right good guard. Harper could be one of our better ballplayers this year. She goes to the basket better than anybody we have. Bright's outside shooting is her biggest asset and Carraway is inexperienced, but could help this year as the season goes on; she's shown some promise."

Fulghum said he feels the C. B. Aycock is the team to beat in the Eastern Carolina Conference this year. "Ever who wins is going to have to beat them."

In addition, Ayden-Grifton and D. H. Conley could be contenders; both should be improved over last year.

As for Greene Central, "I feel like we'll be vastly improved. Wins and losses, I don't know. We're 2-1 now and we won only three games all last year. We just have to keep improving as the year goes on."

The selection of Oliver Mack of East Carolina as the Most Valuable Player in the First Union Invitational Basketball Tournament came as a shock to the UNC Charlotte fans Saturday night.

They thought Lew Massey of their team was the winner.

But it was obvious that most of those fans didn't see Mack play, especially since he didn't face Charlotte.

But for the media, who did see Mack perform, there was little doubt that he was the class of the field.

The junior college transfer simply did his thing, and while his team didn't come away with a victory, he proved his class.

There can be little doubt after Mack's effort of the week that he is everything that Coach Larry Gillman has said about him.

During this past week, he's scored over 140 points in four games, hitting 34 or better in each one. He's boosted his average up to 28.5, and certainly will be among the national leaders when the NCAA statistics come out again next week.

Mack was asked by the press after the second game in Charlotte how he felt about being compared with UNC star Phil Ford and Marquette ace Butch Lee. Gillman quickly stepped in with a clarification. "I never compared him with Ford and Lee. He plays a different position. But ability-wise, they are in the same class."

Mack then said that he felt honored to be in the same class with these two, and said that he hoped that he could live up to this reputation.

Few of the press gathered there doubted he would not do just that.

Paul Westhead, coach of the LaSalle team that beat the Pirates in a double overtime Friday in the first round, confessed that nothing his team could do would stop Mack.

"We started out in a man-to-man, and he beat that. We went to a zone, and he beat that, so we went to a box and one, and he beat that too. He's just super."

Tom Davis, Boston College coach, who faced the Bucs on Saturday night, added to the praise. "We really didn't have time to put anything special on Mack. We figured he would get his points anyway, so we decided to try and stop the rest of them." That strategy was what worked.

Mack's current statistics look like this. He's shooting just under 50 per cent, and has been at 50 or better in every game this week. He's hitting almost 75 per cent of his free throws, and Gillman feels he's not getting enough of those. "He hit 34 field goals and just five free throws in the two games in Charlotte. That's not a very good balance."

In addition, he's been credited with 15 assists, and 12 steals along with 26 rebounds.

What the Pirates need now is a solid supporting cast to go along with him. Herb Gray has been fairly consistent, hitting in double figures in every game. Herb Krusen has scored well in all but two games, and didn't play much in either of those.

Mack scored over half the points the Pirates got against Boston College, and that shouldn't be. Don't misunderstand, Mack is not "gunning," but doing his job. He just needs more support in the scoring from the rest of the team.

For now, however, a tip of the hat to Mack. He's proved during this past week that he is a player, one heck of a player.

Mecom Blasts Stram

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans Saints owner John Mecom Jr., who has a short fuse when it comes to coaches, says he's unhappy with his team's current chief, Hank Stram.

"This is a poorly coached team," Mecom fumed Sunday after watching his National Football League club take a 33-14 beating from previously winless Tampa Bay.

Mecom has fired three head coaches during the Saints' 11-year history, in which the team has never compiled a won-lost record of better than 5-9.

"This is the worst performance since that 62-7 loss to Atlanta under John North," said Mecom. He referred to the game that started the 1973 season and ended North's career with the Saints.

Mecom said Stram won't listen to him. "There is dissension on the defensive team," said Mecom. "I've told him that and doesn't believe me. Now it's infecting the offense."

Stram said he was "very ashamed" of his team's performance before a booring home crowd, but he declined comment on Mecom's criticism.

Happiness is what I sell!

Bullets Win On Late Basket

JAMESVILLE — Keith Modlin's only points of the ballgame came at the right time for the Jamesville Bullets Saturday night. Modlin, who came in late in the game, hit a field goal with four seconds left which lifted his team over Roanoke, 56-55.

Roanoke had staged a second-half rally in the contest after falling behind by a 31-24 score at intermission. The Redskins pulled to 41-38 at the end of the third quarter and then went ahead in the game in the final frame before Modlin's game-winning shot.

Rick Whitehurst scored 27 points to lead the Bullets, while Tommy DiNardo added 17.

Roanoke was led by Tim Highsmith's 19.

Roanoke's girls' team defeated Jamesville, 40-36, in an earlier game. The Squaws fell behind by 8-4 in the first quarter, but were able to tie the game at 16-16 before halftime.

In the third period, Roanoke took the lead by one and then stretched it to four in the final frame. Bullock scored 12 points and Best 10 to lead the Squaws, while Jamesville was paced by Lori Modlin, Edith James and Joyce Manning with 10 each.

Roanoke took an easy victory in the junior varsity contest, 51-20.

Sayetta Reelected

Tom Sayetta of Greenville was reelected president of the Eastern Carolina Tennis Association at the group's annual meeting in Goldsboro Sunday.

Nancy Curvello of Raleigh was elected vice president, while two other officers were reelected, Alan Kay and H. S. McGinty, both of Chapel Hill, as vice president and treasurer, respectively.

Awards were presented at the meeting to the league's division winners, including one to the Greenville women's team.

Teams desiring to play in the league this year can get more information from Sayetta at 1117 Hillside Dr.

Newman Proposes Chance To Think

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television's news and public affairs commentators might consider a little silence now and then, just to give the viewer time to think, says NBC's Edwin Newman.

"I believe some silence is helpful to thought," says Newman, himself a thoughtful man, "and I believe to some extent radio and television discourage thought and reflection."

"I'm talking about something everybody in this business comes to at one time or another. You're on the air and you want to show you're more amusing and more trenchant than the people you're working with, or against.

"We ought in some sense encourage thought," Newman says. "I'm saying we ought to make an effort to shut up."

Newman speaks with the authority of a correspondent who's been on the spot more than once — often, he says, in situations in which a little dead air might have been better than commentary.

"When John F. Kennedy's body was returned to Washington in 1963," he recalls, "I was on a building over Pennsylvania Avenue. And when the casket bearing the coffin came into view, I had to show I could be more vivid and more colorful in my description than anyone else along the line.

"As I was talking someone in the control room says, 'Tell him to shut up.' It was very good advice."

NBC's news bureaus in London, Newman joined NBC News in London in 1952, after beginning his career in journalism in 1941 with International News Service and United Press. He later ran Rome and Paris, and has been based in New York since 1961.

He's been the substitute host on NBC's popular "Today" program several times, has appeared on "Meet the Press" and often reports on news specials and documentaries.

Two best-selling books, "Strictly Speaking: Will America Be the Death of English," published in 1974, and "A Civil Tongue," published two years later, earned Newman a reputation as a watchdog of the English language.

Newman, with a quarter-century in the business, is a particularly worthy observer of television's role as a provider of news.

TV news, he says, shouldn't attempt to replace the newspaper, "and I doubt that anyone in television believes that."

"To me, the key question is, how broad a service are we to provide? If people are dependent on us, then how much should we do? Should we offer programs we know will interest only a small segment of the public?"

Large Scale Tree Thefts

ENNICE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's fraser firs, popular for years as Christmas trees, are in such short supply this year that large-scale tree poaching is becoming a serious problem in the western part of the state where they're grown.

"Growers have always been concerned," says Hal Johnson, president of the North Carolina Christmas Tree Growers Association. "But now we're more concerned because we realize these trees are like gold."

Billy Carroll Smith of Alleghany County may be more concerned than most. Four Charlotte men were arrested last week and charged with stealing $1,000 worth of trees cut from his dairy and evergreen farm.

The theft startled Smith because the same four men had looked his crop over last week and promised to return the next day to buy a load of trees and wreaths. "They showed up a little too early for me," Smith quipped.

Demand for fraser firs has skyrocketed in the last two or three years, outstripping the ability of the state nursery to keep growers supplied with 5-year-old saplings for transplanting to their fields.

This year's prices are running between 10 and 15 percent higher than last year's, and Johnson said the increased prices had driven thefts up.

Eugene Montsinger of Roaring Gap, also in Alleghany County, said tree rustlers got 200 of his crop, worth an estimated $1,500. Bruner Sides of Winston-Salem last week said about 100 trees worth $750 to him were taken from his field in Ashe County.

Alleghany County police are checking Christmas tree trucks more closely now to make sure the haulers have paid for their loads.

bid at your next turn. Don't concern yourself with the possibility that partner might pass three diamonds. He guaranteed another bid when he made a jump shift.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable with 90 on score, you hold:
♠A J 8 ♥A 9 5 ♦K 8 7 6 3 ♣5 2
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?
A.—Your normal response would be two diamonds, but that is no longer forcing since you have a partscore. We suggest a raise to two spades. If partner has a really good hand, he will give you the chance to clarify your raise by making another bid.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K 9 6 ♥8 5 4 ♦Q 7 2 ♠A J 10 5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
1 NT Pass Pass Dble.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A K ♥A 8 ♦9 5 4 ♠A 9 8 7 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♦
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What action do you take?
A.—If partner has a sound opening bid, East is in trouble—your side has a significant edge in strength. A redouble now will tell partner you are at the top of your range for your original response, and will leave him well placed to make intelligent decisions as the auction progresses.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A K 4 ♥A Q 8 3 ♦A Q 8 ♣J 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass 1 ♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Double. Your hand is too strong for an overall of one no trump, which shows the equivalent of a no trump opening bid. By doubling first, then bidding no trump at your next turn, you will describe your hand exactly.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K Q 8 7 3 ♥A ♦K J ♣J 9 7 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♣ Pass
2 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Slam is a distinct possibility, and you must alert partner of this by making a big jump in clubs. The choice lies between four clubs and five clubs, and we prefer the former. With so much of our strength outside the trump suit, we will need the maximum amount of room to explore. A jump to five clubs would suggest better trumps and not so much in the red suits.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Castro Invites 2 Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro has invited U.S. Reps. Richard Nolan, D-Minn., and Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., to return to Cuba for deep sea fishing, Nolan says.

Nolan, who returned from a trip to Havana last week, said no arrangements had been made for the future fishing excursion.

However, he added, "We were told that Castro doesn't extend these invitations unless he really means it."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Think about how you can perform and do whatever faces you a little differently and how to add more of your own personal charm and talent to your everyday concerns. You have it in your power to get involved in a disagreeable situation if you react forcefully to the antics of another person.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Friends can be helpful in getting your affairs in better order so seek them out early. Take time for social fun also.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into jobs that can add to your prestige and give you a better place within the community. Be careful of tricksters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You have new plans in mind that require definite action now so they can work out successfully. Plan a trip that can help you financially.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use more modern methods in handling your obligations and get better results. Change your ways with loved one and get more appreciation and affection.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study contracts with allies and others and be more cooperative so that all works out fine. An outside affair needs astute handling.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get busy at all those things you have been putting off for too long. Come to a better understanding with fellow workers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan amusements that relieve the tension you've been under. Use your creative ability in handling important matters and get good results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There is a good deal of a fundamental nature that requires your attention now, so be sure to give it. Avoid entertaining at home now as there can be arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Showing partners that you are most cooperative with all of them is wise and brings good results. Get information you need and become more productive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do what you can to improve your financial status. Use more modern methods, make any necessary changes. Fix budget so that you have more income and fewer expenses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to ingratiate yourself into the good graces of others and get good results. Show your finest abilities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan time to analyze just where you are going and come to a better understanding with close ties. Attend that worthwhile meeting with mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be very active and will use modern methods to get things done. Much success in this chart provided special courses are given in innovations of the future.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals I

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Precautions By Shoppers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Christmas shopping season calls for added precautions if consumers want to make sure their presents arrive home instead of in a thief's hands, says the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

Last year, more than $21 million in property was stolen without violence, said J.W. Trivette, special assistant to local law enforcement.

A major portion of those thefts involved goods taken from automobiles.

Trivette suggested the following ten tips for shoppers: —Plan shopping trips with a friend and inform family members or roommates of routes to be taken and expected time of return.

—Never display credit cards or large sums of money. —Don't struggle with a purse snatcher, but dump the contents out on the ground. Chances are the thief will not take time to go through the belongings, but will flee. —Lock packages in the trunk of your car when it is left unattended. —If followed at night, go to a well lighted area, such as a service station, cafe or police station. —If you return home to find it has been entered, do not go inside. Go to a neighbor's home and notify the police.

AND I FOUND THE BOX OF GOLD STARS IN MISS TENNERS WASTEBASKET

I'M GLAD EVERYTHING TURNED OUT ALL RIGHT FOR YOU, SIR...

SNOOPY DID WELL SITTING AT YOUR DESK, TOO.

HE GOT A STAR ON HIS TEST!

HAUGH!

AAAAAAAAARRRRRRGGGGG GO

TATER, IT SAYS HERE THE VALUE OF A HOUSE HAS DOUBLED IN THE PAST FEW YEARS.

REALLY?

YOU ARE NOW WORTH FOUR CENTS.

WANTNA TRY OUR LATEST ITEM?

CHOCOLATE-COATED CHICKEN LEGS!

THAT SOUNDS HORRIBLE! HOW ARE THEY MOVING?

NOT AS FAST AS WHEN THEY WERE ON THE CHICKEN!

I KNOW IT'S BEETLE'S DAY OFF, BUT GOLLY HE'S SLEEPING HIS WHOLE LIFE AWAY!

LET ME SPEAK TO HIM

BEETLE, DILIGENCE IS THE MOTHER OF GOOD LUCK

THAT'S ROUGH HAVING TO START THE DAY RIGHT OFF THINKING

...WE PRONOUNCE YOU MAN AND WIFE... NOW, KISS THE BRIDE.

THAT'S A GREAT BOON AS THE WEDDING GUESTS (SOME OF THEM) GO WILD!

IT WAS HIS IDEA.

TO ERR IS HUMAN

SALES ONE GREAT TERRITORY FOR ONE GREAT SALES REP.

Certified Laboratories, has a sales opportunity for "our kind of person." And what's that? A really nice individual who likes people — and more importantly, who is well liked in return... a hard worker concerned with his (or her) family's well-being and future... someone with guts and determination who is capable of succeeding in a highly competitive industrial product market.

We take good care of our kind of people. If you're for us, your earnings will be unlimited ($25,000 is an average income, based on a draw vs. comm.). Your accounts are never taken away — nor are you transferred. And your fringe benefit package is outstanding.

If you really can sell and would like to be part of a company whose primary interest is in your success, please get in touch with me.

'Letters To Mamie' Refute Story Divorce Sought

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Letters written by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to his wife during World War II refute allegations that he wanted a divorce to marry his army chauffeur, according to a book edited by the late president's son.

"I think Dad's letters shoots that as flat as it can be. It completely punctures that," said John S. D. Eisenhower, who edited "Letters to Mamie."

The letters were written by Dwight Eisenhower between June 1942 and November 1945 when he was supreme Allied commander in Europe.

The chauffeur was Lt. Kay Summersby, an attractive British divorcee who claimed she had a love affair with Eisenhower.

John Eisenhower dismissed Summersby's 1976 book as "just a bunch of trash." But he didn't rule out the possibility that his father did have some affection for the aide.

"Nobody can bear witness that something did not happen," the son said during a recent interview. "How can I ever go on the witness stand some place and swear that Dad didn't get a couple drinks of scotch in him sometime and get affection."

"I think the tone of the Summersby book is refuted by these letters, especially when she implies that Dad and Mother were hardly on speaking terms."

The alleged divorce plan was reported in a 1973 autobiography of Harry S. Truman by Merle Miller who quoted Truman as saying Eisenhower asked to be relieved of his post in a letter to Gen. George Marshall so he could straighten out his personal problems.

"It's just not so," said John Eisenhower.

In a forward to his book, Eisenhower said the alleged divorce plan "is exposed by these letters ... to be the egregious falsehood that it was. There is no evidence that divorce ever seriously crossed Dad's mind, even in the loneliest moments across the Atlantic."

Specifically on that point, Ike (as he always signed his name) told Mamie in a June 4, 1945 letter that he wrote Marshall about bringing her to Europe.

"I'd be willing to risk the cry of 'favoritism' to have you here," Eisenhower wrote. "The last six weeks have been the hardest of my life (referring to the closing days of the campaign and Germany's surrender). But I'm brushing them off in looking forward to meeting you very soon now!"

The book, to be published Feb. 3 by Doubleday & Co., contains 319 letters. In their original form all the letters were handwritten because Mamie refused to have her husband dictate personal notes.

The letters are neither sensational, titillating or gossipy, but point up Eisenhower's isolation as the war's top general who had to wheel and deal with Roosevelt, Churchill and the other Allied political and military leaders.

John Eisenhower said he was grateful to his mother for saving the letters and allowing them to be published, which his father would have opposed. But he wouldn't characterize them as love letters.

"Love letters are if you're courting some dame, and you're writing all these lavish things," John Eisenhower said. "But I think there's a lot of affection here, about what you'd expect of somebody married 26 years ..."

In editing the letters Eisenhower made some deletions to avoid injuring the feelings of persons still alive, none of whom are public figures. He divided them into 18 sections and wrote a brief commentary to explain the military problems and campaigns that faced his father while he was writing to Mamie about love, about family, about friends.

Some comments in Ike's 1943 letters to Mamie indicated she had written often about women soldiers attached to his headquarters, and he constantly urged her not to think about it.

"I love you all the time — don't go bothering your pretty head about WAACS, etc. etc." was a typical refrain. "You just hold the thought that I'm not so worn out by the time this is all over that you'll have a wreck on your hands; because I'm on the run to you the day the victorious army marches into Berlin!"

And another time: "You must realize that in such a confused life as we lead here all sorts of stories, gossip, lies and etc can get started when the slightest foundation in fact ... I love you — only!"

He underlined "I love you" and added the two exclamation points.

A reference to Kay Summersby cropped up in a March 1943 letter from Algiers, responding to Mamie quoting Life magazine that Ike's female aide had left London to join him in North Africa. "The big reason she wanted to serve in this theater is that she is terribly in love with a young American colonel and is to be married to him come June — assuming both are alive," Ike wrote. "I doubt Life told that."

"But I tell you only so that if anyone so banal and foolish enough to lift an eyebrow at an old duffer such as I am in connection with WAACS — Red Cross workers — nurses and drivers — you will know I've no emotional involvements and will have none."

He also told Mamie to stop fretting that some Army censor might peek at letters she was writing him.

"It would be quite a brave man that would try to sneak a look at a letter of mine," Ike wrote. "Nothing could make me more furious than to have someone try it on me. Everyone around me knows this — so I think you can assume the safety of your letters."

Ike also suggested to Mamie it might be a good idea to save all the letters she was getting, from him and others, and some day they could go over them "and that will be a lot of fun, because we'll say, 'That's when we were big shots.' Then we'll chuckle!"

More To Come

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Ten persons are already in custody and four ships, one carrying 17.5 tons of marijuana, have been seized, but federal agents say there's more to come.

"The matter is still under investigation," said John M. Dolan of Wilmington, special agent in charge of U.S. Customs operations here. "We expect more arrests to be made."

The U.S. Coast Guard captured three of the boats Friday, including the one with the huge load of pot, and made one arrest. The fourth boat, suspected of being a "mother ship" which supplied the others with marijuana, was captured Saturday along with its nine crewmen.

The nine were being held in the New Hanover County Jail. They were to be formally charged at a hearing today.

The tenth man was free on $20,000 bond after being charged with smuggling marijuana and conspiracy to smuggle marijuana. Two others fled in the Friday operation, one of them by diving into the cold waters of the Brunswick River.

Dolan said customs agents gave the Coast Guard a description of the suspected "mother ship," which was spotted during the Friday raid. The 70-foot motorcraft was spotted by Coast Guard planes 70 miles off Cape Fear.

Later she was taken under tow by a Coast Guard cutter and brought into Wilmington.

Seven Died In N.C. Accidents

By The Associated Press
Weekend traffic accidents in North Carolina took seven lives, boosting the state's death toll for the year to 1,347 — compared to 1,414 at this time last year, the Highway Patrol reported.

Richard Keith Bracy, 20, of Rich Square was killed early Sunday when he lost control of his car and ran off N.C. 308 in Bertie County just east of Kelford.

A pedestrian was killed Saturday night on N.C. 561 in Hertford County 1 1/4 miles west of Harrellsville. The Highway Patrol said Jathion Howard Hollomon, 64, of Harrellsville was hit by a truck while lying in the roadway.

Two elderly Reidsville residents were killed in a collision Saturday. Jessie Wayne Bray, 71, and Sidney Thomas O'Bryant, 66, were fatally injured when Mrs. Bray pulled her car into the path of O'Bryant's on a Reidsville city street.

Marie Watford Edmonds, 55, of Norfolk, Va., died Saturday morning when her car was struck head-on by another car that crossed the center line on U.S. 158. The accident occurred 2 1/2 miles west of Jackson in Northampton County.

Earl Dudley Currie, 22, of Saint Pauls was killed early Saturday when he lost control of his car on a Bladen County rural road 20 miles north of Elizabethtown and struck a tree. The Highway Patrol said Currie apparently was going fast.

On Friday night, Jerry Dean Hadas, 16, of Brasstown died in a collision on a Clay County rural road 1 1/2 miles west of Hayesville. The Highway Patrol said the car in which Hadas was a passenger crossed the center line and struck another car head-on. Six other persons were injured in the collision.

Less-Developed Likely To Apply Solar Energy

By EDWARD K. DeLONG
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Africa, Asia and Latin America may beat the industrialized world in fully exploiting solar energy, thus escaping agonies that await other areas at the end of the oil era, a research institute said Saturday.

A study by Denis Hayes of the Worldwatch Institute, a private, non-profit organization based in Washington, said less-developed countries will make the switch to using the sun's abundant power because they have little choice.

Hayes said many such nations, faced with little capital and inadequate fuel reserves, already realize they cannot afford to copy industrial nations in making a major commitment to petroleum when world oil production is expected to peak around 1990.

Few such nations have reserves of coal, he said, and their dreams of nuclear energy are likely to fade because of increased costs, uranium supply shortages, concern over terrorism and difficulty solving atomic waste disposal problems.

"The Third World may enter the solar era before the industrial world does," Hayes said.

Industrialized nations are designed to run on oil and will have a hard time turning to other energy sources, Hayes said, while developing countries are ideally suited to solar power.

"Developing nations, by and large, tend to be more richly endowed than their industrial counterparts with sunlight," he said.

"Their populations tend to be dispersed enough to facilitate the exploitation of decentralized energy sources: About half the people in Latin America, 70 per cent in South Asia, and 85 per cent in Africa still live in rural areas."

"In the Third World, the current high cost of conventional energy, especially electricity, has already made solar options economically competitive. Far from being exotic prototypes fit for development in the year 2000, many solar devices already have proven themselves simple and practical," he said.

Hayes cited studies by the World Bank and the National Academy of Sciences that showed solar power — in some cases, even relatively high-cost solar electric cells — as being less expensive than diesel generators and electric power in Tanzania, the Ivory Coast and Chad.

He said solar water heaters, solar home heat, solar ovens for cooking, solar stills for water purification, and solar engines to drive irrigation pumps are prime candidates for developing nations.

"All this is not to imply that the Third World's transition to solar technologies will be trouble free," Hayes added.

He said a lack of trained maintenance personnel, reluctance of people to adjust their

Antenna Happens Look Like Car

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The judge told Roland Barlow to get that car off the roof of his garage even though Barlow says it wasn't a car up there, at all, but a radio antenna.

The city argued in General District Court that the Chevrolet sitting on top of Barlow's B&R Garage on Midlothian Turnpike was, in effect, a business sign.

And as such, the city said, it violated a section of the building code prohibiting the erection of business signs above roof level in that particular area.

Barlow's retort was that the car, which he admitted was up there, was absolutely not a sign but a citizens' band radio antenna. And everyone agreed there's a 108-inch antenna attached to the car.

He can't help it, the garage owner told the court, if his "radio antenna" looks suspiciously like a 1962 Chevrolet Nova and just happens to attract business to his garage.

Ask Birth Control For Adolescents

By CRAIG A. PALMER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A task force on teen-age pregnancy has recommended the federal government encourage the states to give youngsters birth control devices without parental consent.

A spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said HEW Secretary Joseph Califano is considering the recommendation and has made no decision on it.

The HEW "decision memorandum," recently released under a Freedom of Information request, acknowledges there are pros and cons involved in the sensitive proposal. But its recommendation is unequivocal.

"HEW should encourage state policies permitting adolescents to receive contraceptives without requiring parental advice," it said.

"The adolescent must bear most of the risks and conse-
