Providence College Dorm Fire Kills Seven Women

By MARK ROSATI
Associated Press Writer
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)

A fire apparently touched off by a hair-dryer swept through the fourth floor of a women's dormitory at Providence College early today, killing seven women and injuring at least 15 others, fire officials said.

Two of the women died when they jumped from their window onto the frozen, snow-covered ground, just seconds before firefighters could have reached them with a safety ladder, authorities said.

Hundreds of other residents of Aquinas Hall were forced out into the cold night air after the first alarm was sounded at 2:56 a.m. The fire was controlled about an hour later.

Hours after the blaze was extinguished, the death toll was reported at eight, but a further check showed only seven had died.

Fire officials said the blaze was limited to the top floor of the four-story dormitory. One investigator, who asked that his name not be used, said the blaze apparently started in a closet where a coed was drying her clothes with a hair dryer.

Leo Trambukis, Providence public safety commissioner, said six of the victims either died in the dorm or when they jumped from their rooms. A seventh was dead on arrival at Roger Williams Hospital in Providence.

The fire investigator said two of the three girls sharing the room where the fire started jumped to their deaths from a window. The third was rescued by firefighters using a ladder truck.

"If they (the two girls who jumped) had waited five more seconds, they would have been saved," the investigator said.

Officials at Roger Williams Hospital said nine coeds were brought there, including the one who died en route. Four other students were taken to Rhode Island Hospital and one went to Miriam Hospital. Several of the women were listed in serious condition.

About 4,100 students attend the college, which is the only institution of higher education operated by the Dominican Fathers, a Catholic order of priests.

The Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, president of Providence College, said it was impossible to determine how many women were in the dormitory because there were no classes Monday or Tuesday and many students had gone home for a long weekend.

"We are all stunned by this terrible tragedy. A great deal of heroism was shown (by students and firefighters)," he added.

Rhode Island Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy said the fire was "a terrible tragedy for the entire community, for all of Rhode Island. I know all hearts are sad for all those at Providence College."

Dietered, Drafted For Santa Role

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — Edmund Hedge had to lose 30 pounds to qualify for the Police Department earlier this year. But despite his dieting, he's been drafted as a Santa Claus.

Hedge, who weighs in at 200 pounds or so, was chosen as "Santa" in an impromptu audition of policemen because he had the best "Ho-ho-ho," said Police Chief Samuel Fandel.

Ironically, the call to the police for a Santa came from the New London Public Library, whose "regular" Santa was unable to work at this year's children's party because he had lost too much weight.

Fandel said he thought Hedge would do all right. "He can always wear a couple of pillows," the chief said.

Thirteen-Item Agenda Awaiting Commission

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions will consider a total of 13 agenda items when they meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Business on the joint agenda includes: consideration of an amendment regarding off-street parking at elderly housing projects; consideration of an amendment stating that no preliminary and final plat will be presented and approved during the same meeting; Revised final plat of property east of Camelot Subdivision containing 5.79 acres; final plat of Nichols Commercial Subdivision east of Greenville Boulevard; and Preliminary plat of University Medical Park at the southwest intersection of Stantonsburg Road and Allen Road.

Greenville agenda items include: request of Bernice C. Branch for rezoning 21.4 acres north of E. Third Street from RA-20 to R-6; request of H & H Development Corp. for rezoning 53 acres on NC 33 one mile east of Green Street from RA-20 to R-6;

Final plat of Cedar Village at the northwest intersection of Red Banks Road and 14th Street; revised sedimentation control plan for Carolina East Mall (formerly Greenville Mall);

Preliminary and final plats of Carolina East Mall; consideration of the withdrawal of Cedar Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets; and preliminary plat of Orchard Hill Subdivision south of Green Mill Run and west of Hooker Road.

Ayden Board Is Sworn Into Office Last Night

By DEBBIE JACKSON

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board was officially sworn into office last night.

District Court Judge Wheeler administered the oath to Mayor Ross Persinger and Commissioners Carl L. Speight, Robert G. Harris, J. Elliott Dixon, J.J. Brown, and Harry G. Mumford.

Commissioner J.J. Brown was re-appointed as Mayor Pro Tem and Dr. Elliott Dixon was re-appointed to another four-year term on the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District Board.

In other business, the Board passed a resolution directing a street improvement project be undertaken on Fenner College Street. A public hearing was held prior to the voting, and there was no discussion from residents.

The Board also approved a conditional use permit to be given to Hennie Jackson to place a mobile home on her property on Joyner Street. The approval was made at the recommendation of the Planning Board.

According to Board members, the house where Mrs. Jackson presently lives is beyond repair and she can-

Israel's Delegates Fly To Cairo Talks

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Israel's delegates to the preparatory Egyptian-Israeli peace talks arrived in Cairo today aboard an Israeli jetliner carrying the inscription "Peace" in Arabic and Hebrew. They were followed by American and U.N. representatives.

The three Israeli delegates, their staff of 27, and 35 journalists flew here on an El Al Boeing 707 flying the Egyptian and Israeli flags from the cockpit windows. Written on one side of the fuselage was the Arabic, Salaam; on the other the Hebrew, Shalom.

"We hope that at the next stage the delegations of other Arab countries will participate in the direct negotiations," said the chief Israeli delegate, Elisha Ben-Elissar, as he left Tel Aviv.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance arrived in Damascus to try to persuade Syrian President Hafez Assad to soften his opposition to Egypt's peace overtures and participate in the Cairo conference. Vance flew to the Syrian capital from Beirut as he continued his six-nation tour of the Middle East.

In another development, Saudi Arabia radio reported that Jordan's King Hussein, who has been trying to heal the Arab split over Egypt's conciliation with Israel, will visit Saudi Arabia next Saturday to confer with King Khaled. Vance also plans to visit oil-rich Saudi Arabia, the chief bankroller of both Egypt and Syria.

In Cairo, armed troops surrounded the runway where the Israeli plane landed, and about 30

"The door opened and Maj. Gen. Avraham Tamir, the Israeli military delegate, appeared.

"The Israelis have come! They have come!" one of the workers shouted.

"Let's hope they do something about peace," said another.

In the cockpit of the plane were three former Israeli air force men who were shot down over Egypt.

The delegation was greeted in the chill morning air by Ambassador Said Hamza, Egypt's chief of protocol.

No Israeli flags were flying, and there was no band.

The Israelis walked to a waiting helicopter that flew them to the Mena House, the historic old hotel at the foot of the Great Pyramid of Cheops, where the conference President Anwar Sadat has called to make preparations for a Geneva peace conference opens Wednesday.

Meir Rosenne, legal advisor to the Israeli Foreign Ministry, is the third member of the delegation.

The Israelis were met in the lobby of the hotel by A. Esmat Abdel Meguid, Egypt's ambassador to the United Nations and the head of the Egyptian delegation for the talks, and the local governor, Abdel Akher.

Seek Amendment In Parking Plan

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Redevelopment Commission members agreed last night to relay to the city the recommendation of the CBD Project Advisory Committee that a minor amendment be made to the downtown development plan regarding parking.

The PAC, meeting in November, recommended that a portion of the block bounded by Fifth, Sixth, Washington and Evans Streets be changed from designation as a public park to public parking with appropriate landscaping to provide a park-like effect.

Commission executive director Joe Laney explained that the PAC recommendation involves only the northeast corner of the block on the Evans Street side and was made in view of the loss of the proposed parking deck on Fourth Street due to high costs.

The approved plan for the downtown business section, as revised in April of 1974, calls for the southern 70 feet of the block along Sixth Street to be set aside in the plan for parking. That section is already paved and metered and is in use as a parking facility.

The remainder of the block, Laney pointed out, involving the north section with a depth of 140 feet from Fifth Street was divided in the plan into two parcels of roughly 140 feet by 140 feet.

In the plan, the parcel bordering Evans was designated to be used as a public park while the parcel on the Washington Street side was scheduled for commercial reuse.

The entire section is now being used for parking on a temporary basis, it was noted.

Laney said that the commission and PAC would like to have the city's views on the proposed revision, both from a staff and City Council standpoint. He added that the change is considered minor and since no budget revisions would be necessary it could probably be handled as an administrative matter.

In other business, the director reported on the bid opening recently for some 760 feet of 72-inch pipe that will be installed in the Southside urban renewal project across the property that is being developed as the new housing site.

Laney said that bids were submitted by Armo Steel Corp. of Middletown, Ohio (25,520.76); Lane Metal Products of Bealeton, Va. ($24,871); and Carolina Culvert Manufacturing Co., Raleigh ($25,338.08).

All of the bids were in order except that the apparent low bidder, Lane Metal Products, specified a 72-inch by 44-inch diameter which is equivalent to a 60-inch pipe, according to Laney. Since the specifications called for a 72-inch diameter, the bid was awarded to Carolina Culvert, the next low bidder.

The pipe will run from the intersection of Green and 16th Streets southeasterly across the housing project to Evans Street. Laney, who said that an open ditch now runs across the property, noted that the pipe installation is being done as the recommendation of both the Greensboro office of Housing and Urban Development and the city planning board.

Installation is expected to begin sometime after the first of the year, he said.

Kirby Boyd, commission real estate officer, reported that one parcel was acquired in the CBD since the last meeting and five acquisitions were completed in the West Meadowbrook area. In addition, one demolition took place in the downtown project area, he said.

Southside project manager Faye Brewington told commissioners that no relocations were handled in the project area since last month while two homeowners and one tenant were relocated from the West Meadowbrook section.

One 312 loan was closed since the last meeting, according to Ed Cobb, rehabilitation officer, and one more should be closed within the next week. Cobb noted that the rehabilitation program has not received any grant money recently but more funds should be earmarked for the program around the first of the year.

Coal Strike Unrest Rises

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)

Negotiators for the mines and the miners are taking a breather in their contract talks just as restlessness among the striking miners appears to be rising.

Tons of coal were dumped along roads in Kentucky on Monday as some 500 United Mine Workers members, many from eastern Ohio, invaded Kentucky's non-union coal fields and forced about 20 truck drivers to abandon their loads.

The miners also shut down coal loading docks and slashed the tires of some trucks carrying non-union coal.

In Washington, D.C., the UMW and officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association announced a recess in their negotiations in order to reassess their positions.

"We thought it best that they caucus on their own," said Wayne Horwitz, chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. He said he was not sure when formal talks would resume.

Approximately 160,000 UMW miners went on strike a week ago today when their former three-year contract ended.

Both UMW President Arnold Miller and BCOA President Joseph Brennan said the talks — which began Oct. 6 in hopes of reaching an early settlement — finally may be moving.

"We've been moving along. We've made some progress. We came to the point ... where it was time for both of us to sit back and take a look at it," said Brennan.

Miller said: "We are making progress. We are moving in all areas."

Some of the mounds of coal left along highways were scooped up by local residents before highway crews could reach them. "That makes us just like Robin Hood," said one miner. "We took the coal from the companies and gave it to the poor folks."

No violence was reported in connection with the coal dumping, but about 25 state troopers in cruisers followed a caravan of cars carrying miners through northeastern Kentucky. No arrests were made.

Coal is still moving via the two primary rail lines in Appalachia — the Chessie Rail System and the Norfolk and Western.

"We're still running, because we haul coal for about 45 to 50 non-union mines," said Norfolk & Western official Bill Martin.

In southeastern Kentucky, about 60 riot-equipped troopers were called out to enforce a court-ordered six-picket limit when about 200 miners gathered in a show of support for workers at the Stearns Mining Co., who have been striking since July 1976 to join the UMW.

PROBLEM INTERSECTIONS

I am concerned about the way they have the lights set up at Elm and Fourth and Elm and Fifth Streets. At the present time it is most difficult to cross and to make a left turn. There is too much traffic at each of these intersections to leave the lights as they are now. L. R.

You and several other readers have expressed concern about this intersection. The controller of this intersection, which was of the 1930's vintage, burned out. The flashing red and yellow lights are being used on a temporary basis until another controller can be installed. It's a dilemma Assistant City Engineer Ron Sewell said, because actually these intersections need upgrading, but the money is not available at this time and it had been hoped that the old controller would last until money would become available for a new one. Upgrading the signalization of both intersections will cost about $30,000, he said.

Incidentally, it's very likely that by the time this item is published, the traffic lights at the two intersections will be working as some kind of temporary solution is to be worked out as quickly as possible, Sewell said.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

LOST PAGER

Reflector Photographer Tommy Forrest lost a Motorola pager he uses for volunteer rescue work during a wreck on Memorial Drive Nov. 26.

He has advertised in newspaper classified ads and on television for the return of the pager, which is quite valuable, but has had no response. The pager, which has a case made of blue plastic with chrome back and front, is set for a specific frequency and a particular rescue squad and can be of no use whatsoever to anyone else, Forrest said. He is offering a reward for its return. Anyone believing he or she may have found the pager is asked to call Hotline at 752-1336 or 752-6166.

WESCO for transformers, $2,977.77 from Eastern for conductors, and $5,123.18 from Rigby for roll line hardware were accepted.

The proposed budget for the street light improvements is $28,000. Poles are estimated at $3,500 and street lights at approximately $3,651.

In other business, the Board adopted the utilities rate hike brought down by VEPCO. Board members said that with the increase in utilities, Ayden's utility costs would be equal to that of Greenville. (Continued on page 8)

Weigh Options To End Social Security Stalemate

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee met behind closed doors today, considering two options that could break a stalemate and lead to passage of a major Social Security bill this year.

One proposal would remove from the bill an unrelated amendment authorizing a $250-per-student tuition credit against income taxes and attach that provision to a different bill. It is a dispute over this amendment that has blocked final action on Social Security.

This proposal could satisfy backers of the tuition credit — but only if they had some assurance that the House would vote on the credit on some bill this year.

The second alternative being considered by the committee is to give in totally to the House and drop the tuition-credit issue.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale told reporters this morning that the first alternative probably would be followed.

"They're probably going to take the tuition tax issue and put it on another bill," he said at a breakfast interview. "If that is done, it will clear the way for immediate adoption of the Social Security bill."

The Finance Committee met in a final attempt to break the stalemate. If no Social Security bill is passed this year, it could delay income-tax cuts next

One top-level staff member said the negotiating process was not helped by remarks made by Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare.

Califano told reporters Saturday that a college tuition tax credit now attached to the bill is so bad that he would seriously consider recommending that President Carter veto the entire package.

Califano said it is intolerable for Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., chief sponsor of the tuition credit, to hold the Social Security bill hostage. In reality, however, Roth has had the unanimous support of other Senate conferees when votes were taken.

Senate and House conferees reached agreement last Friday on all parts of the Social Security bill itself. But they could not send the measure back to the House and Senate for final votes because they could not agree on the proposed tuition credit.

Most House conferees are adamantly opposed to the $250-per-student credit and said they can never vote for a bill that includes it.

Getting a Social Security bill this year is a top priority of the Carter administration. Roth said the bill would have been cleared on Friday for final action had it not been for "meddling" by administration officials.

Roth said senior conferees from the Senate and House agreed early Thursday to allow a one-year test of the credit. "But the White House got involved and got the deal off-track," he said.

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Social Security conference committee, said the administration is "trying to move heaven and earth to defeat this amendment."

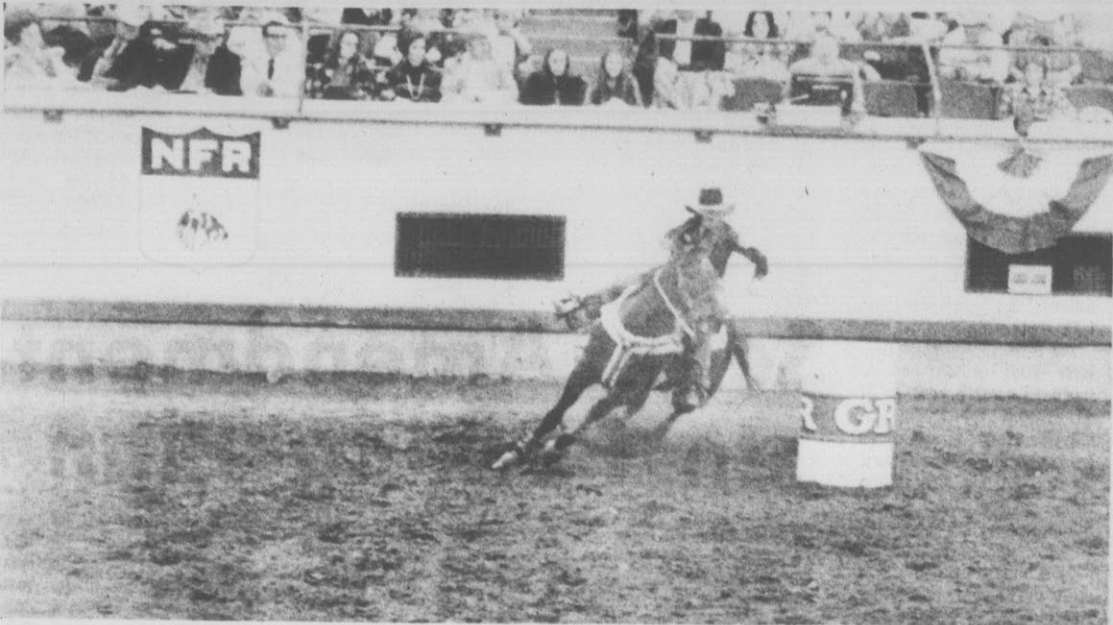

He called on the president to withhold judgment on the credit until Congress considers it. Then, if the administration really wants to kill it, he added, "let the boss man veto it."

If Congress can't finish action on Social Security this year, the delay would have no effect on payroll taxes. The measure includes no new tax increases for 1978 beyond the one already required by law.

But House and Senate leaders say if the stalemate cannot be broken this year, it will be increasingly difficult for Congress to vote for such a major tax increase — about $227 billion over the next decade — in the 1978 election year.

Carter has another reason to want the bill finished this year. The tax revision bill he wants to send Congress next month will include major income tax cuts. He can't decide how big of a tax cut to recommend until Congress determines how high Social Security and energy taxes are going to rise.

Awarded Life Membership

LIFE MEMBERSHIP ... D. J. Whichard receives life membership in the Greenville York Rite Bodies from Bruce Sloop last night.

David J. Whichard Jr. a Mason for more than 61 years, was presented a life membership in the Greenville York Rite Bodies last night.

Whichard, chairman of the board of The Daily Reflector, became a Mason in March 1916 and was a member of the first class to take the York Rite Degree in Greenville, in April 1920.

Whichard is the third person to be given a life membership in the Greenville York Rite Bodies since its inception here 91 years ago.

Les Turner, secretary of the York Rite Bodies, said the award was presented to Whichard for "his service and contributions" to the organization.

Bruce Sloop, commander of the York Rite Commandery, presented the award.

Some 253 persons are members of the Greenville York Rite Bodies.

Social Security Tips Proffered

Pointers on the best time to contact the local Social Security office for certain types of assistance have been provided by a spokesman for that office.

It is noted that much of the business conducted by the office can be done by phone, to save both the public and those at the office valuable time and effort.

Some of the things that can be taken care of, especially in preliminary stages are:

- Applying for social security or supplemental security income (SSI) payments;
- Applying for medicare;
- Change of name or address for social security records, and report of change in marital status;
- Reporting that a person has stopped or started work or other events of a similar nature that may affect checks;

- Reporting lost or missing social security or medicare cards; and
- Arranging for direct deposit of monthly checks.

The spokesman for the office also furnished these suggestions.

- When calling, always have available to refer to the social security or medicare number; and
- If possible, avoid calling during the first week of a month, as this is the time checks are issued and social security people are especially busy.

The telephone number of the local Social Security Office is 756-2368. For business that cannot be conducted over the phone, persons needing assistance are to visit the office at 103 Plaza Drive. Hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Probe Store Theft Case

STOKES — An investigation is underway by the Pitt Sheriff's Department into the weekend break-in at Stokes & Congleton Store here that resulted in the theft of merchandise valued at $1,462.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that three black and white television sets, a color model, and a microwave oven were reported stolen in the incident, reported Monday at 10 a.m.

The sheriff said that entrance to the general merchandise store was apparently gained by removing a ventilation cover on the roof and utilizing a ladder to reach the floor level. He noted that the store is housed in a two-story structure.

The television sets, all portable models, and oven were removed through the roof exit, Sheriff Tyson added, and the intruders also attempted to remove a console television through the hole but were unsuccessful.

No damage was reported to the business, owned by J. Beverly Congleton.

Successes Mark Homeroom Class

The students of Mrs. W. F. Jones' homeroom at Agnes Fullilove School believe themselves to be a very successful group. Their teacher and their principal, John Carstarphen, agree with them.

The class had perfect attendance during the past school month. No one in the class made any failing marks during the first marking period. The class won the school PTA membership drive. All book fees were paid by the class.

Members of the class are Michelle Barnhill, Margret Cherry, Gregory Davis, Stephanie Deans, Alan Dickens, Annie Gaynor, Hih Song Kim, James Justice, Josie Keller, Lisa Kittrell, Jeffrey Lenco, Barbara Little, Wayne McAdams, Angela Michel, Steve Midgett, William Monroe, Tracy Pennington, Tamar Rosenfeld, Mark Schmidt, Timothy Shank, Rogers Warner, Daphne Warrington, Lisa Whitlow, Charles Whitner, Suzanne Wille, and Amelia Yongue.

Officers are Hih Song Kim, president; Annie Gaynor, vice president; Tim Shank, secretary; Michelle Barnhill, assistant secretary; treasurers, Steve Midgett and Stephanie Deans, and Angela Michel, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Jones said she plans a celebration for the class.

CORRECTION

Women Embark On New Careers

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Ann Diehl got married in 1958, one year after she was graduated from high school. Seventeen years later, divorced and the mother of seven children, Ann decided to go back to school and get a job.

Ms. Diehl enrolled at the New York State University at Farmingdale, where she is studying business administration. A scholarship from the Clairrol Co., plus a job as an administrative assistant at the university, is helping her put herself through school.

"I didn't want just a locked-in job, but was looking for a rewarding career," she said. Her future plans include a master's degree in business administration and a career in the administration of continuing education.

Despite a hectic schedule, Ms. Diehl is on the Dean's List, is president of the Long Island Region of the United States Association of Evening Students, and is a member of Alpha Beta Gamma and Phi Theta Kappa award societies.

Her children, who range in age from 5 to 19, are "built-in babysitters."

"I used to be proud of their achievements," she said, "but now we're proud of each other's."

Ms. Diehl was one of the participants in a day-long workshop in New York City sponsored by the Clairrol Loving Care Scholarship Program and Catalyst, a national, nonprofit organization that helps women launch and advance their careers.

Among the participants were Alexis Herman, director of the Women's Bureau for the U.S. Labor Department, and Bess Myerson, a well-known columnist and consumer advocate.

Miss Herman said there are more than 37 million female workers in the United States today — about 40 percent of the nation's labor force.

Women have been responsible for two-thirds of the labor market expansion in the United States since World War II. More than three million women have entered the U.S. labor force in the last five years, compared with 800,000 men, Miss Herman said.

Yet despite the increase in the number of women who are working, the income gap between male and female workers has been widening in recent years.

In 1955, the average woman worker earned 64 cents for every dollar earned by a man. That figure has dropped to 57 cents for every male dollar, Miss Herman said.

The Labor Department cites two primary reasons for this income gap: a continued concentration of women in low-skilled, low-paying jobs and a sharp rise in the number of women entering the labor market at beginners' level jobs.

Women workers today are concentrated in 20 of the 480 occupations currently identified in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, Miss Herman said.

"The traditional fields have been saturated so that women must think about alternate careers," she said.

And, Bess Myerson pointed out, "there are too many women drowning in secretarial pools."

More and more women are expected to enter the labor force in the years ahead. For many, it will be an economic necessity.

What is the future for women workers? One survey says that of incoming college students, more than one woman in six is planning a career in the male-dominated fields of medicine, law, business and engineering.

Corporate recruiters on college campuses are actively seeking women for managerial training programs. In 1968, only 11 percent of the college graduates hired by recruiters were women. Now, more than 30 percent are.

And the Labor Department says a large number of highly paid professions will be opening up to women in the future.

Seeks Release From Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 12 years to a man who, from all outside appearances, is an ideal husband. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I'm 34 and he's 49. I don't drink or smoke, and I've never looked at another man. We have no children because he's never wanted any. He thinks sex is for animals, but he does accommodate me on my birthday, anniversary and Christmas. Then he acts as though he's doing me a favor.

He is good-looking, meticulous in his dress, and has a very successful business. The only people we see socially are his relatives and a few business associates.

I spoke to my rabbi about my loveless marriage, and he said as long as my husband doesn't mistreat me, I have nothing to complain about.

If I weren't financially dependent on him I'd leave him. I'm aching for a pair of arms to hold me. I could even live without sex if he would only let me fall asleep on his chest. I am dying inside.

Where do I go from here? CRAVING AFFECTION

DEAR CRAVING: To your husband, with the announcement that if he doesn't see a counselor about improving the quality of your marriage, you are going to see a lawyer. There is more in life than three square meals a day. You may have to support yourself, but craving affection as you do, it could be preferable to being yoked to a cold fish for the rest of your life.

DEAR ABBY: I am a wedding photographer, and recently I found myself in a situation that I didn't know how to handle.

I started shooting this wedding at 4 and was still shooting at 10 while the wedding dinner and dance were going on.

They had an elegant sit-down dinner, but nobody invited me to have dinner. I saw several empty places set up for dinner, but didn't think I should sit down like an invited guest and eat, even though I was starving.

It is customary to invite the photographer to have dinner? And how about the band? ALSO HUMAN

DEAR ALSO: The thoughtful host and hostess will invite the photographer (and the band) to eat if they are engaged to work a five- or six-hour stint. A separate table or a place in the kitchen is usually provided for those who are "working" a party.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle a disagreement between my husband and me?

He thinks I'm some kind of cleanliness nut because I bathe every night before going to bed. I believe it's just good personal hygiene.

My husband says I'm "flaky," and bathing before going to bed is not necessary. What do you say? MRS. CLEAN

DEAR MRS. CLEAN: I vote with you. And my mail tells me that there are a lot of men out there who wish their wives were as "flaky" as you. (P.S. A little soft soap at bedtime wouldn't hurt your husband either.)

Child Abuse Program Given Junior Women

The Public Affairs Department of the Junior Woman's Club headed a program on child abuse for the December meeting.

Karen Sloan, with the Department of Social Services, presented a film and gave a talk. She deals with child abuse and protective services in Pitt County.

Shelley Basnight, club president, introduced special guests including Teresa Lee, NCFWC junior director, Bernice Newton, District 15 junior director, and Nancy Davenport, who is transferring here from Monroe.

The Home Life Department sponsored a cookie swap and Santa Claus distributed secret pal gifts.

Ms. Basnight asked for full club participation in collecting for the Mothers March of Dimes the third weekend in January. Sharon Whitehurst is chairman of the project.

Vicki Bishop thanked members who participated in ringing the bell for the Salvation Army last Saturday. Nicki Brown, Christmas party chairman, gave a report on the activities for the party. Jane Moore gave a report on the family the club is sponsoring for Christmas.

Hostesses for the evening were Kay Baltzger, Cathy Bullock and Jane Wilort.

Holiday House Is Announced

ROCKY MOUNT — The Rocky Mount Garden Club will present their holiday house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stone, 404 Wildwood Ave., located in West Haven.

The house was originally built in 1938 by H. Alex Easley Sr. The Stones have occupied the house since October, 1976.

Club members will compliment the traditional decor of the house with Williamsburg decorations of real and dried materials.

The grounds surrounding the house feature a formal boxwood garden with statuary, informal gardens, an artesian well, a natural spring and a pond.

The holiday house will be open Dec. 18 from 2-6 p.m. and tickets are $1.50.

A Christmas bazaar, baked goods and plant sale will be held in the basement of the house.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I wish when a TV set would "go," the wood would warp, the rollers would fall off, the paint on the knobs would chip and it would start to smell.

You wouldn't feel so guilty about getting rid of it.

But our set looks so great and majestic as it stands there in the living room... 21 inches of shiny mahogany topped off by a bowl of fresh flowers.

The only thing wrong with it is when the Bionic Woman jumps over a building she keeps on going... Cannon looks like a ball-point pen... and Laverne and Shirley need a shave.

Not only that, the picture will occasionally go into a spin and you expect to see an orange and two cherries lock into place when it stops.

The other night when we were watching the three angels, my husband said, "Something's wrong with that picture and I can't put my finger on it."

"I think it's because Jaclyn Smith looks like Raymond Massey."

"That's it!" he shouted, "is it possible we need a new set already?"

"I'm afraid so. Fifteen years fly when you're having fun."

The new set was only a matter of selecting and having it delivered.

The problem is how do you dispose of an old TV set?

I called my daughter at her apartment. "How would you like an extra TV set?"

"Is it the one that makes John Wayne look like Woody Allen?"

"It has a beautiful cabinet."

"I'll pass."

I called my son at school.

"How would you like your own TV set?"

"Is it portable?"

"It depends on how many of you are there to lift it."

"Maybe we could keep it in the spare room," I told my husband.

"I'll bet if someone is handy, they could fix it for $5."

"You said that about the one in each bedroom, the kitchen, the garage and the basement. The old one on the porch is even beginning to smell."

Thank goodness.

Because quick breads baked in a microwave oven do not brown in the way they do when baked in a conventional oven, it is a good idea to choose a recipe that yields a dark batter or dough.

Yuletide Season For Thieves

Christmas is the season of giving, but, the N. C. Dept. of Crime Control and Public Safety warns, that you may give to someone not intended.

Pick pockets, purse snatchers and such thieves are at work among the Christmas shoppers, J. W. Trivette, special assistant to local law enforcement, warns.

He suggested ten safety tips:

- Plan your shopping trips with a friend, if possible.
- When shopping at night, plan the route you will take and tell a family member or roommate both your route and the time you expect to return.
- Carry a pocketbook with a shoulder strap.
- Never display credit cards or large sums of money.
- If you are approached by a purse snatcher, instead of struggling dump the contents of your purse out on the ground. Chances are the thief will not take time to go through your belongings but will flee.

- Always carry a whistle and a small can of hair spray. A whistle is one of the best ways to let someone know you need help. Hair spray is to be used to slow down someone trying to attack you. (Spray it in the eyes of the attacker.)
- Lock packages in the trunk of your car when it is left unattended.
- If you are shopping with friends at night and take them home, wait until they are inside their home before you leave.
- If you are being followed at night, go immediately to a well lighted area such as a service station, cafe or police station.
- If you return home and find it has been entered, do not go inside. Go to a neighbor's home and notify the police.

A few precautions can mean that Christmas won't be spoiled.

Takes But One Idiot To Pull Trigger

It is a sad time when a black family has to decide to leave Smithfield because of harrassment which culminated in a shotgun blast fired at the family home.

It is safe to say that our state's citizens are almost totally against such cowardly attacks—but it only takes one idiot to pull the trigger.

Hopefully the guilty party will be brought to justice. The harrassed family should have the sympathy and understanding of everyone else in our state.

Classroom Aide Pressure

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)

RALEIGH—There are mounting pressures for increased training and stricter certification procedures, higher pay, and heightened status for classroom aides which threaten to kill the entire program.

Those pressures come from different directions, but the combined effect puts the very concept of teacher aides in jeopardy.

—State-mandated training and certification proposals would require two years of work in community colleges or technical institutes before employment.

—Salary differentials would be established which would give more pay to aides with advanced training.

—The North Carolina Association of Educators is pushing more liberalized benefits—including higher pay and more lucrative fringe benefits—for aides in an effort to recruit members from the ranks.

—Many certified teachers who accepted employment as teacher aides because of job shortages (declining enrollment in the schools and continued high teacher college production created this condition) are lobbying for more pay and status.

—The issue of state control versus local control over these various conflicts is creating further behind-scene debate.

Money

As is usual in governmental battles, the bottom line involves money: who supplies it, who gets it, and who controls it.

The danger, in summary from talks with a wide range of officials in the governor's office, the State Department of Public Instruction, the association of local school boards, and local school administrators, is that present directions followed to apparent conclusions would simply price the teacher aide program right out of existence.

The whole idea of classroom aides originated as a means of relieving the regular teacher of a variety of routine duties which took away from instructional time.

NOBLITT

State guidelines call for aides who are at least high school graduates, are otherwise found qualified by local school policies, and who are willing and able to benefit from training programs offered by the local school units.

Aides came on the scene in a big way with the advent of public school kindergarten. The ranks swelled with the primary reading program in grades one, two, and three pushed by Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr.

The Job

With kindergarten in full effect and the reading program about one-third of the way toward full implementation, the state now has about 4,500 aides. Average salaries from low to middle $4,000s per year. That's about one-third of the cost of a fully certified teacher.

Gov. Hunt put much of his emphasis on aides; they could do clerical and routine work, tie shoes, blow noses, and most importantly provide one-on-one contact between adult and student. Most of all, they are affordable.

The governor is adamantly opposed to the proposed changes now in the works, feeling they would destroy the merit of the program. Additionally, required certification and training would eliminate large numbers of the very people whom Hunt wanted employed as aides: local housewives who both need the income and relate strongly to their neighborhood schools.

A showdown is developing when the State Board of Education meets in January to review the situation.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Theology Of Arms Control

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A White House task force of scientists, whose members and findings reflect the administration's dominant arms control philosophy, has recommended that President Carter kill Defense Department plans for full development of the proposed MX mobile missile.

What makes this recommendation remarkable is a top secret Defense Department study in October rejecting the possibility that any arms control (SALT) agreement could conceivably protect the U.S. land-based Minuteman missile — a finding fully endorsed by Secretary of Defense Harold Brown. Moreover, new tests show the Soviet SS-18 missile to be more accurate than ever, further increasing the vulnerability of U.S. Minuteman silos.

Why, then, would a panel of distinguished scientists not urge the President to move rapidly toward deployment of a mobile missile? Because the key figures on the task force subscribe to a fixed theology of arms control that depletes any new weapons system as a destabilizing sin and preaches that striving for U.S.-Soviet strategic parity is no salvation.

The makeup of the task force was guaranteed to oppose the MX, reflecting the arms control theology prevailing among the White House officials who selected the panel. This, in fact, is what the current SALT debate is about: can national safety be found in a policy that automatically bans new weapons, or through a policy that insists on strategic parity?

The MX panel was headed by chemist John Deutch, chief scientist for the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) who is respected by hard-liners.

But the mild-mannered Deutch is not assertive enough to win against the stacked deck: Richard Garwin (IBM), Wolfgang Panofsky (Stanford), Marvin Goldberger (Princeton) and Saul Buschbaum (Bell Laboratories), all physicists, and engineer Jack Ruina (MIT). All are ardent arms controllers.

The stacked deck, with Garwin on top as the ace, foretold the outcome. During the week of Nov. 28, a report went to the President's desk denying urgent need to do anything about the vulnerability of Minuteman silos. The scientists claimed that the Air Force, instead of seeking deterrence, is pushing the MX for a war-fighting, war-winning capability.

Accordingly, the task force reached its verdict: it is premature to begin full-scale development of the MX in fiscal year 1978-79 as proposed. At the Pentagon, this recommended delay is viewed as a ploy to kill the MX, already delayed two years from the original Ford administration scheme.

Yet without a mobile missile, there will be no secure land-based leg in the U.S. retaliatory triad (land-sea-air). A recent test of the Soviet SS-18 suggests, according to Defense officials, a dramatic breakthrough in accuracy further threatening the Minuteman. Even before the news of this test, the October Defense Department study presented bleak news for its top-secret readership.

While supporters of the Carter administration's SALT proposals had boasted that they could limit the big Soviet missile systems to guarantee security of the Minuteman, the Defense Department report emphatically disagreed. Nothing in the SALT proposals could prevent the Soviet Union from achieving enough accuracy to destroy the Minuteman force.

Soon after reading this report, Secretary Brown — not permitting direct quotation — talked bluntly to reporters Nov. 6: "People who say we have to have Minuteman survive are going to have a hard time with lots of SALT agreements...A SALT agreement that will insure the survivability of Minuteman is very different from any that has ever been discussed by both sides."

Yet, more than two weeks later, a leading congressional SALT enthusiast was putting out precisely the opposite in-

NO-PROGRESS REPORT!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Carter And The Cities

SAN FRANCISCO—More than seven thousand municipal officials gathered here last week for the annual meeting of the National League of Cities. A fair guess is that 6,900 of them were sore at Jimmy Carter. The president who promised so much, in their view, has sadly failed to deliver.

No question about it: Mr. Carter made a heap of promises. On April 1, 1976, he delivered himself of a full-blown statement on "urban policy for the remainder of the Twentieth Century." Three months later, in an address to the United States Conference of Mayors, he overbowed what was already overblown.

Mr. Carter promised a massive initiative to provide public and private jobs. He promised public works, welfare reform, operating subsidies for mass transit systems. He promised new programs of housing, an urban development bank, and even revitalization of the railroads. He promised to seek restrictions on the purchase of handguns; he promised a concerted attack on the drug traffic. He spoke of parks, of recreation, of the arts. He promised to beef up the role of his Domestic Policy Conference. He said that "America's number one economic problem is our cities," and he promised that the cities would find him "a friend, an ally, and a partner in the White House."

Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, is one of the most knowledgeable guys in the country on urban affairs. He was here in San Francisco to speak to the league's conference. How would he describe Mr. Carter's accomplishments thus far?

"Minusculé," said Mr. Wurf. He measured the progress between thumb and forefinger, about one-sixteenth of an inch. "In terms of the fundamental needs of the cities, nothing has been forthcoming."

Staff members of the league say that is a fair summation of the view generally held by mayors, city managers, city council members, and other urban officials "across the nation."

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

There is an odious specter in our society which worries this writer and about which, I feel, all Americans should be concerned. It appears that racism is becoming more overt in our society, and all people figure to be victims in this confrontation.

CASE IN POINT. The Black couple in Smithfield who had their home riddled with bullets while they slept in the rear of their dwelling in a predominantly white subdivision.

CASE IN POINT. The $100,000 suit which Mr. Caesar Corbett has filed against the Greenville Police Department alleging that he was discharged of his duties on the basis of racial discrimination.

CASE IN POINT. The Bakke suit in which the plaintiff contends that "reverse discrimination" was practiced against this individual in his rejection to medical school.

My intention is to make all of us cognizant of the cycle of overt racial actions which is occurring presently. It can be documented, too, that our white brothers and sisters have been targeted by minorities as the young couple in Smithfield was.

Nonetheless, many historians and other interested people may indicate that overt racial discrimination only became more subtle and sophisticated since the "dog days" of the Civil Rights movement of the early 1960's. Regardless, my fear is that Blacks and the other minorities will not humbly accept nor non-violently take the treatment which is evidenced in the heretofore mentioned examples inasmuch as many are now entrenched in the "establishment" and countless others are unemployed who demand "a piece of the action."

Now is the time to measure the cost of an attitude from which this nation just recently has come. We all may be losers!!

Trend Almost Beyond Control

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Concern is growing in American business that the private enterprise system that helped make this the most materially wealthy nation on earth is eroding under pressure of societal change and bureaucratic drift.

Causes and effect are intermingled. The proliferation and rigid application of laws, the emphasis on consumerism at the expense of production and a "no-risk" mentality in regard to technology are among the factors involved.

Prominently mentioned also are a lack of economic understanding and a feeling of estrangement from the economic system.

While polls sometimes show Americans tending to become more conservative, rejecting the notion of government as the answer to all problems, the trends seem to continue almost beyond control.

Many businessmen today feel they are being isolated from the community at large and categorized as the enemy, sometimes by the nation's most respected leaders, even by the president.

Some $50 billion would "go into the pockets of the oil companies" if Congress rejected his program to continue regulating oil and gas prices, said President

Carter in October. He was angry, using the words "ripoff" and "profiteering."

He was also incorrect. The $50 billion figure referred to gross profits, not net income. Should the oil companies gross $50 billion during any period, they would likely keep as income less than 10 percent of it.

Infrequently, business is pleasantly surprised. His attitude molded by years of frustration, Edgar Speer's words snapped with anger. "Big deal," he said scornfully of his meeting the next day with the president.

"In this country," he said bitterly, "we're saying it's irrelevant whether our steel industry competes or not." In other countries, he said, they protect their businesses for the welfare of all.

Carter listened to Speer, changed his own thinking on imports, and on Dec. 6 announced a plan to protect the industry against import competition and to aid it through loan guarantees and tax breaks.

But businessmen say their viewpoint is usually more difficult to convey. Speer himself noted during the interview that he had sought a White House meeting on imports three years before the invitation came through.

He observed also that the import problem, while foremost, was but one area in which cooperation was needed. Exacting application of environmental regulations to obsolescent units also contributed to steel's problems, he said.

Wouldn't it be more efficient, he asked, to be more economically aware and sensitive, and permit those old facilities to live out their brief remaining life and spend the money instead on new, environmentally clean facilities?

Sidney Terry, Chrysler Corp. vice president, asks similar questions. He tells of the tiny, under $10 anti-pollution item that Chrysler inadvertently substituted for the almost identical device approved by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA sued for $95 million, or $10,000 a car, even though the device was equally effective to the original one, even though most of the errors were corrected. The judge dismissed the case. There was no case, he said.

Why does the government assume such an attitude? For the protection of the public? Or, ask some businessmen, for the protection of bureaucratic rights that eventually hurt the consumer by inexorably forcing up prices?

Edward David Jr., president of Exxon Research & Engineering, and science adviser to President Nixon, believes our attempts to eliminate risk in everything is foolhardy, thwarting

Phony Santas Exist

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Generous but glib North Carolinians will give an estimated $1.5 million this holiday season to scoundrels dressed up in Santa Claus suits.

"Tis the season to be cautious about what charities you make donations to, according to Jim Dunn of the Department of Human Resources solicitation licensing branch.

"This is the time of year again when emotions are running high and organizations throughout the United States are playing on these emotions to gain monetary support for so-called charitable purposes," says Dunn in a fact sheet which warns the public to be wary.

Dunn estimates that more than $400 million will be given to charitable organizations in North Carolina this year, of which $134 million represents donations during the two-month holiday season.

Solicitation licensing chief Ed Edgerton said the American Fund Raising Council estimated that 1 percent of all charitable collections are taken in by people who keep the money for themselves.

Allowing for a somewhat higher percentage of fraudulent charities during the holidays, the phonies should rake in about $1.5 million in this state in the current season, although Edgerton emphasized there was no way to document that educated guess.

Edgerton's branch tries to keep track of as many charitable organizations as it can, licensing the larger ones and in-

Phyllis Lamphere of Seattle, president of the league, agrees that Mr. Carter's record is far removed from Mr. Carter's promises, but she is hopeful that the president's statement on urban policy, to be published early next year, will provide a fresh start.

Patricia Harris, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, flew out here on the last day of the conference to sweet-talk the unhappy conferees, and to reassure them of Mr. Carter's affection for cities large and small. Sad to say, her prepared address had no more zing than a bowl of warmed-over oatmeal; she did little to allay fears that HUD's budget request for the 1978 fiscal year has been cut to the bone. The cities are not going to get nearly as much federal help as they had hoped for.

As a number of speakers made clear, the cities need help in all kinds of ways that go beyond direct grants of federal tax funds. Certain federal policies must be changed. Nicholas R. Carbone of Hartford, for example, called for changes in tax laws that now encourage large corporations "to shut down factories in the United States, and move their jobs and capital investments overseas." Other speakers called for new federal incentives to persuade private employers to stick with the central cities.

Important as the federal government may be, the private sector is far more important to the cities. Jerry Wurf, the old union pro, made this clear in an interview. He was asked to identify one urban need above all others. "Private jobs," he said. It was too easy, he added, to speak glibly of government as an employer of last resort. "When we say that," he said, "we ought to mean really of last resort." No amount of makework jobs, in his view, will cure the economic ills.

The president will not be able to satisfy the city spokesmen. They feel they have regained a momentum toward recovery. They perceive a "back to the city" movement; their crime rates have leveled off or declined; in such great cities as Detroit, Seattle, and Baltimore, renaissance is the order of the day. The urban officials are looking to Mr. Carter, to Congress, and to private capital, but mainly they are looking to Mr. Carter for leadership. Their complaint is that they haven't seen much of this lately.

Old Forge, N.Y. Chilled With Temperature Of 36-Below-Zero

By The Associated Press

A warmer, drying weather trend helped lower swollen rivers in much of Western Washington today, while another weather system brought some wet weather to the Midwest and lowered temperatures in the East after Old Forge, N.Y. went down to 36 degrees below zero.

It was drizzling over Washington state today, after several days of heavy rain and a National Weather Service official said, "The rivers are slacking off."

But Bill Langford, director of the Grays Harbor, Wash., County Emergency Services department, said a combination of winds and high tides on the Chehalis River could flood some low-lying areas of Aberdeen and Cosmopolis.

This month's floods in Western Washington have claimed six lives and caused $26 million damage in eight counties.

Oregon and parts of California also had rain. Skies over most of California were expected to be partly cloudy to mostly fair with some scattered light rain.

Southern California expected fair weather with some haziness through Wednesday.

The desert Southwest is under clear skies with temperatures in the freezing range at higher altitudes. Low temperatures in the Arizona mountains were expected to be between 15 and 30 degrees.

Snow is falling in many parts of the Rockies, and some rain-showers fell on southeastern Colorado early today. A weak cold front has kept the weather damp. Montana, after going through freezing weather and two snow storms last week, had highs yesterday in the 30s. Utah and Idaho expected snow at higher elevations and rain at lower levels.

The Midwest is under scattered clouds today, with snow flurries expected in Minnesota and more cloudy weather in the Dakotas.

Michigan is having relatively mild weather, with temperatures expected to be in the 40s in some areas where they were sub-zero earlier in the week. Wisconsin temperatures are warming to the 30s. Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana expected cloudy and mild but drizzly weather, with rain getting heavier Wednesday. A wet weather trend is developing over Iowa.

A warming trend is accompanied by light rains over Arkansas and Missouri.

Warm and pleasant weather is forecast today and Wednesday in Oklahoma following Monday's cloudy and windy weather. A cold front carried the cloudiness into the Texas Panhandle.

A massive high pressure system is keeping skies cloudy throughout the South, with temperatures in the 50s and 60s in the Carolinas, Virginia and Alabama.

Temperatures also are expected to get up into the 50s in Maryland and Delaware with a 10 percent chance of rain.

The intense cold which gripped the Northeast earlier in the week is easing. Temperatures were in the teens or higher in upstate New York early today. Early Monday, the 36-degrees-below reading was announced in Old Forge, an Adirondack community. And the temperature was two-below-zero in Albany.

There was occasional light rain and snow overnight in parts of New York and New Jersey from a weak frontal system. Southwestern Pennsylvania had freezing rain.

Southern New England expected rain today in a warming trend. It snowed in parts of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut on Monday and early today.

Early morning temperatures across the nation at range from 14 below zero in Houlton, Maine to 75 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Investigating inquiries and complaints about unlicensed or suspicious operations.

The number of licensed organizations in North Carolina has grown from 145 in 1970 to about 480 this year.

"It's a combination of more new organizations, better surveillance of their activities and a larger staff to look into these things," Edgerton says. "Since July 1 there have been 70 new ones, so they're coming in at the rate of about 15 per month."

Any group that collects more than $2,000 in a calendar year must have a license. To qualify for the license the group's expenses may not exceed 35 percent of collections and it must meet other requirements, including disclosure of its finances.

Dunn's fact sheet urges North Carolinians to find out before they contribute to an organization where it is located, including the street address, where the money will go, how much of the contribution will be passed along to the charity and where the solicitor is from.

Dunn also warns that contributors who are looking for an end-of-year tax deduction should assure themselves that the organization has been ruled exempt by the Internal Revenue Service.

formation. Rep. Bob Carr of Michigan, an observer at SALT negotiations in Geneva, told Aerospace Daily on Nov. 23 that "if a SALT agreement is as effective as I think it will be, Minuteman will not grow in vulnerability."

If the Minuteman is not vulnerable, there is no need for the MX in the view of the arms control lobby. So, Sen. Thomas McIntyre of New Hampshire, a leading congressional foe of the MX, signed a Nov. 29 letter to the President from like-minded Senators declaring it is necessary to limit Soviet missile development to protect the Minuteman.

But the invulnerability that the Senators want through SALT limitations on Soviet missile is deemed unattainable by Dr. Brown and his experts. Their alternative is the MX mobile missile, but that violates the theology of arms controllers in the Senate, in the administration and now on the President's special scientific task force. It is Jimmy Carter who must consider whether these theologians know where the nation's safety lies.

Japan Trade Talks Far Apart

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Japan are apparently still far apart on what to do about a Japanese trade surplus that has forced plant shutdowns and layoffs in many U.S. industries. The top American trade negotiator, Robert Strauss, said after talks Monday that Japan's initial proposals involving tariff cuts on a number of goods imported into that country fall "considerably short" of U.S. demands. Japan's minister for external economic affairs, Nobuhiko Ushiba, met with Strauss, Vice President Walter Mondale and Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal.

They said a chief purpose of this week's talks is to forestall the kind of protectionist measures called for at the recent national AFL-CIO convention in Los Angeles.

relations between the two countries as being in "a crisis period." Mansfield said more consideration should be given to increasing the flow of American agricultural goods to Japan, especially beef, oranges and fruit juices.

Labor federation President George Meany has said that "a government trade policy predicated on old ideas of free trade is ... a prescription for disaster."

In Tokyo, U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield said in an interview with The Associated Press that Japan's proposals are insufficient. He described

Five Collisions Here Monday

An estimated $4,950 property damage resulted from a series of five collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1:13 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Elm and Fourth Streets involving cars driven by Frances Stokes Waddell of 111 Kenilworth Rd. and Joyce Teresa Procopio of Durham.

Damage from the collision was set at $1,000 to the Waddell car and $800 to the Procopio vehicle.

Cars driven by Codeia Faye Strong of Richmond, Va., and Vivian Lockhart Branch of 986 Greenville Blvd. collided about 8:25 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Elm Streets causing an estimated $500 damage to the Strong car and $600 damage to the Branch auto.

Travis Glasco Baker of Ayden was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following a 6:16 p.m. collision on Arlington Boulevard 80 feet South of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Investigators reported the Baker truck collided with a car driven by David A. Dibbell of 423 Lee St. causing an estimated $500 damage to the Dibbell car and $400 damage to the Baker truck.

An estimated $600 damage resulted to a car driven by Patricia Jean Loesche of 1908 East Fourth St. when the vehicle ran onto the shoulder of Hooker Road, north of the Sylvan Drive intersection about 8:17 p.m., and overturned.

Cars driven by Charlie Cherry Jr. of 625 Hudson St., and Willie Lee Fleming of 119C Lakeview Ter. collided about 2:12 p.m. on Hooker Road 110 feet South of the Dickinson Avenue intersection, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Cherry car and $50 damage to the Fleming auto.

The Carter administration maintains that Japan's big surplus is aggravating economic problems for its trading partners, most of which are already burdened with high import bills, especially for petroleum.

The influx of Japanese goods into the United States, without any compensating outflow of American products, has severely affected a number of industries, including television and steel.

Strauss said the United States is "looking for trade measures that will have an immediate effect."

He said the United States would like to see Japan slash tariffs for a wide range of U.S. goods, including autos, televisions, computers and farm products.

Japan, arguing it should not be penalized for hard work and efficiency, is resisting U.S. demands to alter its trade policies.

Strauss left open the possibility that Ushiba may be willing to make concessions as the four days of talks continue. U.S. officials who briefed newsmen Monday night said the United States has not threatened Japan with retaliatory action if the American

Few Kept In Army's Jail

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina prisons are notoriously overcrowded, but there is one prison in the state whose staff outnumbers the inmates.

It's the base stockade on Fort Bragg, a $1.5 million structure built in 1971 to house up to 302 prisoners. Last week it had six. In the past six months it has had as few as three prisoners and never more than 20.

"Times have changed and administrative procedures we have now allow us to get rid of many soldiers short of court-martialing them and sticking them in the stockade," said Lt. Gen. Volney F. Warner, commanding general of the base.

Officials say the jail was planned in 1968 when the Army was coping with Vietnam-era dissidents and appeared to need stockade space.

The stockade is brightly painted, has its own chapel and library, electronic doors and a rehabilitation building, complete with a well-equipped shop. The shop equipment has since been turned over to post engineers.

Warner said he has proposed that prisoners normally sent to disciplinary units in Kansas be directed instead to Fort Bragg for re-training.

"We'll be holding a meeting later this month at Fort Leavenworth to determine what must be done throughout the military services concerning empty stockades," said Col. James F. Russell, provost marshal at the fort.

If Warner's idea is rejected, Russell said, the prison may be turned into a military police and intelligence headquarters.

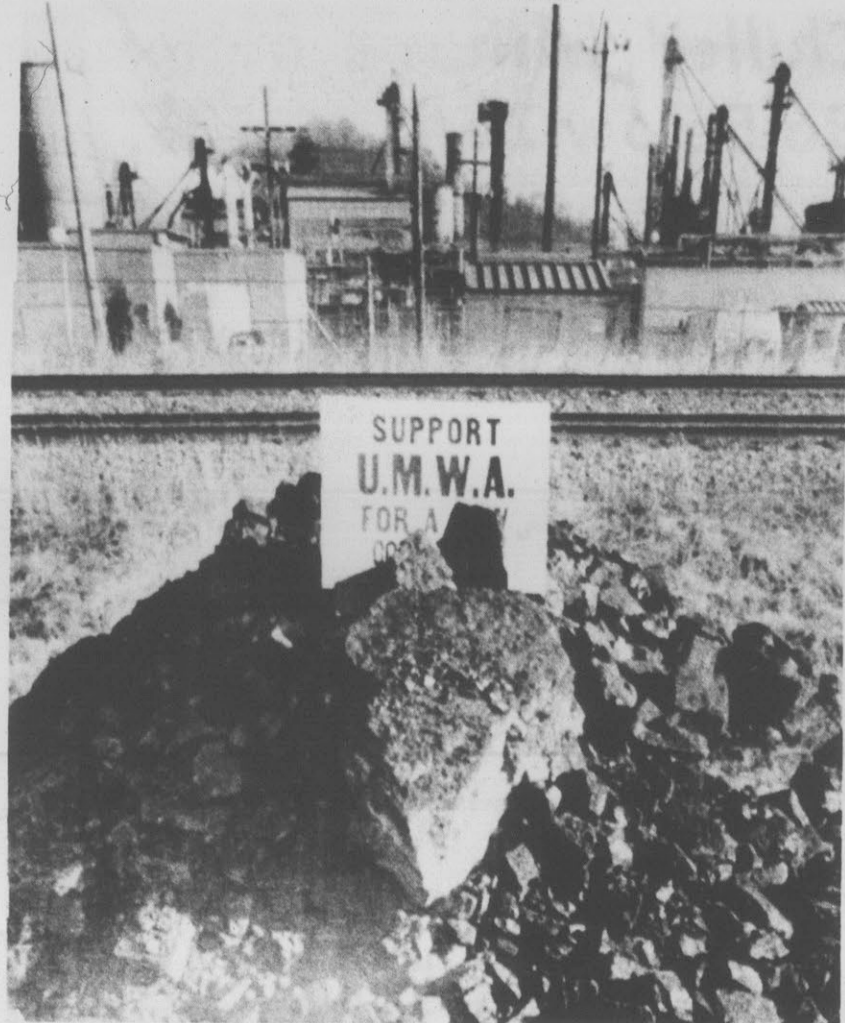

ACLU To Talk Drunken Drivers

"Drunken Drivers — Threat to Community and Police" will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the Greenville Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. at the Methodist Student Center, 501 Fifth Street.

Speakers will discuss the rights and safety of law enforcement officers as well as other citizens.

Betsy Kelly, Forensic Coordinator of the Pitt County Mental Health Center, will brief the group on the Alcohol Education Program under which convicted drivers can be referred for re-education.

The meeting is open to the public and those interested in any aspect of the drunken driving problem are invited to attend and air their views.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today from the central Gulf into the Great Lakes and Northeast where the precipitation will turn into snow flurries and snow. Rain is expected for the Northwest. Mild temperatures are due for most of the country. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Temperatures climbed to somewhat warmer levels around North Carolina today, but the warmup heralded rain that will be spreading across the state tonight and Wednesday.

Southerly winds were expected to push temperatures into the 50s over most of the state and to the mid 60s in the southeast. Low readings tonight will range from the 40s to the low 50s.

Along with Wednesday's rain, temperatures will continue mild, ranging from the mid 50s in the west to the upper 60s in the east.

Temperatures generally were some warmer around the state Monday with Asheville having one of the warmer readings, a 47. Charlotte was 45, Hickory and Fayetteville 44, Raleigh 42 and Wilmington 45.

Raleigh was the coldest reporting point this morning with a low of 23, followed by Asheville with 24. Greensboro was 28 and Charlotte, Goldsboro, New Bern and Wilmington all recorded 31.

Special Favors Afforded Prosecutor

By MARY MacDONALD
Associated Press Writer
LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — A witness in federal court here has described special favors he said were afforded Joseph Motley Whitehead, while he was Pittsylvania County prosecutor and afterwards, at prostitution houses in the county.

Harold W. Dowdy, a former co-defendant with Whitehead, testified Monday the favors were provided "for protection" and were continued after Dec. 31, 1975, when Whitehead completed his third and last term as commonwealth's attorney.

"I figured...he had a whole lot of pull down in Pittsylvania County," Dowdy said.

The part of Dowdy's testimony dealing with events after Whitehead left office was heard out of the jury's presence. U.S. District Court Judge Glen Williams was expected to rule today whether the testimony is admissible as evidence.

"I would carry the girls where he (Whitehead) said bring them, which I didn't do for anybody else. If the girls wanted pay, I had to pay them," Dowdy testified.

And he added that when Whitehead came to the 58 Truck Stop, one of two prostitution houses in Pittsylvania County operated by Dowdy, the other customers would have to leave the lounge where the women were.

Dowdy, who gave his testimony in a lethargic voice, said Whitehead told him he would not charge him for legal representation before the grand jury that investigated the alleged prostitution ring.

Whitehead, a member of a prominent southside Virginia family, was eventually taken off the case because he was a target of investigation.

The indictment returned in August charged Whitehead, Dowdy, Wayne Holley of Blairs and Herbert O. Boyd, Thomas J. Barker and Aubrey Henderson, all of Danville, with conspiracy, racketeering and other counts in connection with an alleged prostitution ring.

Boyd, Barker and Dowdy have pleaded guilty to conspiracy and other charges, and the prosecution agreed to drop remaining counts against them. Holley and Henderson are on trial with Whitehead.

Dowdy also was convicted in September of tax evasion involving the alleged prostitution ring.

Whitehead was charged with taking sexual and monetary bribes to protect the ring, Holley with delivering the monetary bribes, and the other men with operating the prostitution ring.

The alleged ring involved 10 truck stops and massage parlors in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. Four were in Pittsylvania County.

Dowdy, a tall man who wore a brown leisure suit and wire-framed glasses, testified before the jury that he began operating a house of prostitution at the 58 Truck Stop near Danville in August 1973.

Shortly afterwards, he said, Holley contacted him and said he'd have to make weekly payments to Whitehead.

"I asked him what it would do for me and he said, 'Keep you open.'" Dowdy testified.

He said he made $200 weekly payments, which went up to $300 when he opened Ed's Truck Stop, also in Pittsylvania County.

He said he'd prepare the payments, always in cash, and "when Mr. Holley came around, I would slip it to him."

Dowdy testified he once visited Whitehead at home to ask that the payment be reduced to $200.

He said Henderson, from the Hillcrest Health Center massage parlor near Danville, was along and also talked to Whitehead.

Dowdy said Whitehead, standing by his refrigerator, agreed to the payoff reduction.

The jury also heard Monday from Barker, who contradicted some earlier testimony from his wife Janet.

She had testified Friday that while operating the 29 Truck Stop in Caswell County, N. C., Barker made payoffs to Sheriff Bobby Potest.

But Barker said he gave the sheriff no protection money, only legitimate payments on a civil warrant for damages to a trailer by some prostitutes he employed.

Barker also testified, however, he bought the sheriff a diamond ring for Christmas one year and loaned him money for a fishing trip.

Barker testified that as operator of Janet's Truck Stop near Danville in 1975, he prepared two $600 weekly payoffs for protection.

Barker said the money was taken by his partner and his brother to Holley's Motor Sales, and he said that "to my knowledge" Whitehead was receiving the money.

The witness said the partner, Charles Royster, had said he had talked with Whitehead and later got a call from Holley setting the amount.

Barker said his wife had tried before then to talk with Whitehead but did not find him in his office.

Under cross examination, Barker agreed his knowledge about the need for the payoffs and what happened to them was based on what Royster told him.

Asked by the prosecution if there were any reasons he did not operate in Danville, Barker said, "Only Mr. Bill Fuller." William Fuller is the prosecutor in Danville.

Temporarily Blocks Firing

NEW BERN — U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins yesterday issued a temporary restraining order blocking the City of Greenville from firing Police Department Sergeant Ceasar Corbett.

Larkins' order said Corbett would suffer irreparable damage if dismissed and ordered city officials to show in a hearing Thursday why the order should not be continued.

Corbett, a 27-year veteran with the department and the city's first black policeman filed suit in U.S. District Court last week, charging racial discrimination in an alleged attempt to force him to retire from the department.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon, Mayor Percy Cox and City Manager James Caldwell were named as defendants in the civil complaint which asks $100,000 in damages be awarded Corbett.

The complaint charges that Corbett was "told to either resign or be summarily fired ... for something that had allegedly occurred two days earlier."

Sources within the Police Department said the incident resulted from Corbett allegedly sleeping while on duty.

The complaint charges that the reason given Corbett for his "forced resignation is untrue" and that, "the true reason... is that because of Lieutenant Clyde Stubbs' death approximately two months ago, there is now a vacancy ... in the Lieutenant slot. The plaintiff is next in line for the slot," and by "forcing plaintiff to retire, the slot will be filled by a white policeman with less seniority than the plaintiff."

Cannon's action, the complaint alleges, was, "concurrent in by defendant Cox and James Caldwell," and "were done in bad faith."

City officials have declined to comment on the case. Cannon termed the affair, "an internal matter."

4 Solicitation Requests OK'd

City Manager Jim Caldwell announced the approval of four requests for solicitation permits.

Caldwell said the requests were submitted by: Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity for permission to dribble a basketball from Dr. Leo Jenkins' home along Fifth Street, Tenth Street and 264 Bypass to the city limits on Dec. 16 to gain support for the East Carolina University basketball program;

Melanie Little Special Learning Fund to sell tickets for a turkey door-to-door from Dec. 8 until Dec. 22 to raise money to send Melanie Little to the Institute for Higher Learning Potential in Philadelphia;

Buccaneer for permission to contact local merchants and solicit advertisements for the 1978 yearbook; and by the Easter Seal Society to contact downtown merchants and solicit donations for prizes in the form of gift certificates.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, weighed down by renewed weakness in the dollar. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.77 at 812.98.

Losers held a 5-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The dollar fell sharply today against leading European currencies and the Japanese yen. Analysts say the dollar's problems lately have unsettled the stock market because the situation tends to discourage foreign investment in U.S. stocks.

Philip Morris was the most active NYSE issue, down 3/4 at 59 3/4. A 100,000-share block traded at that price in the over-the-counter market. The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .18 to 51.55. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .10 at 124.00.

Volume on the NYSE came to 8.23 billion shares by noontime against 8.07 million at the same point on Monday. Few individual issues showed more than fractional price changes.

Houston Oil & Minerals topped the active list among Amex stocks, down 3/4 at 30 3/4.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church in Ayden with her pastor Bishop Stephen Jones officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Mrs. Cox was the daughter of the late James and Mrs. Emma Jones Thompson. She was born and reared in Greene County but had made her home in Ayden for the past 50 years. She was a member of Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church.

Surviving are her husband, Calvin Cox of the home; one son, Calvin Cox Jr. of Baltimore, Md.; one daughter, Mrs. Callie Cox Person of the home; three brothers, Jimmie, Willie, and Johnnie Lee Thompson, all of Baltimore, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Lee Davis of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. Annie Tillery of Baltimore, Md.; and three grandchildren.
The body will be at the Norcott Memorial Chapel in Ayden from 6 p.m. Wednesday until carried to the church one hour prior to the funeral. Family visitation will be from 8-9 p.m. at the Chapel Wednesday.

Crump
Mr. James Hubert Crump died Saturday in Pitt Memorial Hospital.
Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at Rock Spring F.W.B. Church with Bishop W.L. Phillips officiating. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

J. E. Collette, president of the life insurance and investment firm, said the 326,000 square foot structure will be completed in 1980 and will be the working home for about 1,000 Integon employees.

Metric Construction Co. of Charlotte will be general contractor for the building, which is erected on a site adjacent to Integon's present six-story headquarters building.

Local Seniors Hosted Party
The Elm Street Senior Citizens' Club was host to the members of the Roanoke Rapids Senior Citizens' Club and members of the Washington Club at a Christmas party and luncheon Thursday at the American Legion Building.

The Rev. L.P. Houston, Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, rendered a Christmas message for the group.
Following the message, Miss Terry Leggett, Doug Nevell, accompanied by Ben Leatnull, all students in the School of Music at ECU, gave a selection of Christmas music.

Mrs. Susie Webb played several songs on the accordion. Also, the Hootenanny Band members of the Roanoke Rapids Club, under the direction of Virgil McDowell, entertained the group with a selection of music.
Parents provided costumes for the cast members and chorus.

Security Measures In Cairo For Peace Talks

CAIRO (AP) — Police reinforcements have been called in. Bodyguards and bulletproof limousines have been assigned to delegates. Radicals are under surveillance, and a special security squad has been ordered to keep snipers off the Great Pyramid of Cheops.

Security officials say "everything you can imagine" is being done to protect the Israeli-Egyptian peace talks opening Wednesday from radical Palestinians or other Arab terrorists trying to sabotage Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace drive.

"We haven't heard about any plots inside Egypt to disrupt the conference, but of course there were some threats from outside," said Gen. Baha el Din Ibrahim, a top official of the interior ministry.

Citizens of Syria, Libya, Iraq, Algeria and South Yemen — the five militant Arab opponents of Sadat's peace overtures to Israel — "will have to have a very good reason for coming" to be allowed to enter Egypt during the conference, one official said.

Gen. Ibrahim said 400 to 500 picked officers from Aswan, Alexandria and other cities have been brought to Cairo for special security duty. Leaves and holiday passes have been suspended for thousands of local police for the duration of the talks.

"We have done everything you can imagine," said Ibrahim. Israel sent an advance party of three security men, and "many more" were assigned to protect the Israeli delegation.

Israeli sources said, U.S. Department security officials were brought in to guard American delegation, and filigree wall around the Embassy was bricked in. Police officials said 300 censors have been assigned to protect foreign journalists covering the conference.

"They have been assigned their protection, not to spy them," said one official. "Journalists, of course, are to go where they wish."

An early arrival, David H. en, the chief foreign correspondent of the London Sun Times, was shot to death last week near the airport; but police say robbery, not politics, was apparently the motive.

Gen. Mohammed Amin, charge of criminal affairs, said Holden told airport authorities on his arrival that he was a "writer." Had he said he was a journalist, "a man who have been assigned to him the general said."

Integon Planning Build New Home

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Integon Corp. announced today it will build an $18 million, 18-story glass-and-granite headquarters building in downtown Winston-Salem.

J. E. Collette, president of the life insurance and investment firm, said the 326,000 square foot structure will be completed in 1980 and will be the working home for about 1,000 Integon employees.

Metric Construction Co. of Charlotte will be general contractor for the building, which is erected on a site adjacent to Integon's present six-story headquarters building.

"Tom Sawyer," starring David Smith as Tom and John Jones as Huck Finn, was presented to G.R. Whitfield School on Dec. 9.

The play, staged by Mrs. Betty Jean Wilson's 6.1 class, included the following cast: Mechio Korngay as Aunt Polly, Raymond Reddick Jr. as Joe Harper, Angie Haddock as Mrs. Harper, Thomas Best as The Reverend, and Dawn Adler as Becky Thatcher.

Mike Richardson played Judge Thatcher and Randy Holloman was the stage manager.
Other class members served in the chorus under the direction of Mrs. Molly Small who played the piano. Freddie Outerbridge and his art classes provided the scenery and Johnnie Roberson supervised Gerald Rodgers and Hilton Lewis, who built the props.

Parents provided costumes for the cast members and chorus.

We can do a lot for your lot.

Why? Because we can build you a beautiful building. Like the one shown above, or like almost any building you have in mind. You probably see many of our buildings all the time without realizing it. And each one is proof that we can offer you a wide range of beautiful buildings. You have almost unlimited design options. We can give you sweeping rooflines, attractive overhangs, even futuristic domes. You can add wood, glass, brick or almost any type exterior wall material. On the inside, the design possibilities are also wide open.

We can plan your building's interior to create a beautiful, flexible arrangement. With ceilings, floors, walls, lighting and other interior elements finished to your taste. So whatever your building needs may be, call us. And discover the beauty of having us build your next building.

Before you sign up for an IRA, find out about ours.

Many financial institutions offer Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) for people without a qualified retirement plan. Any IRA is good business, but they're complicated, so it's hard to figure out whose is best. At NCNB, we think that you'll be hard-pressed to find one with all the advantages of ours. In the first place, the NCNB IRA, with a four or ten-year maturity, currently pays 7-3/4% annual interest. And that's not all. At NCNB, that 7-3/4% interest is compounded daily and credited quarterly. Secondly, with each deposit, we guarantee the rate being offered for your choice of four or ten years. (Many IRAs offer 3 years or less.) And, right now, we charge no administrative fees or service charges. (Many IRAs do.)

For the details, mail us the coupon or call 1-800-822-8855. Or better yet, stop in at any NCNB office. Because the sooner you get all the facts, the better IRA you can get.

Cowboys, 49ers Top Halftime Fireworks

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The halftime show, featuring a fireworks display that got out of hand, was topped only by the offensive fireworks generated by the Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers.

"It was a fun game for the fans," said Tony Dorsett, the Cowboys' star rookie who scored two touchdowns in Monday night's 42-35 National Football League victory.

"Personally, I'd rather be in a lopsided game with us on top," he added.

"If someone had said there would be 77 points scored, I wouldn't have believed it," said Coach Ken Meyer of the 49ers, whose team totaled only 29 points in losing its first four games of the season.

"You'd never know we had the No. 2 and No. 3 defenses in the conference," declared Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, pleased with the victory but concerned because, "We didn't play much defense."

The playoffs are two weeks away for Dallas, whose 11-2 record is best in the National Conference, and Monday night's victory assured the Cowboys of the home field advantage in all playoff games. Next Sunday, the Denver Broncos of the AFC will bring a 12-1 record into Texas Stadium as the two possible Super Bowl opponents size each other up in a regular season finale.

"We're going to have to play an awfully lot better," said Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach.

Staubach threw for three touchdowns and 220 yards, San Francisco quarterback Jim Plunkett answered with four touchdown throws and 263 yards, while Dorsett had 92 yards rushing and 39 on pass receptions in the big night for the three former Heisman Trophy winners.

But the Cowboys' Butch Johnson, who came into the NFL relatively unnoticed as a third round draft pick out of Cal-Riverside last year, may have made the difference.

"My whole family came up to see the game, and it was great to score my first touchdown in front of them," said the wide receiver and kick returner who made a one-hand grab in the end zone on Staubach's third touchdown pass, a 22-yard early in the wild fourth quarter.

Johnson came close to scoring his first pro touchdown late in the second period when he returned a kickoff 64 yards to the 49ers' 20-yard line. The return set up Dorsett's 20-yard pass reception at the right sideline, and Dallas was ahead to stay 21-14.

After the smoke cleared from the halftime fireworks, Dorsett got his 12th touchdown rushing, a team record, on a 21-yard sprint. He finished the game with 92 yards and needs 43 more to reach 1,000.

Plunkett, who had thrown only four touchdown passes over the first 12 games of the season, hit Gene Washington five times for 130 yards; The nine-year veteran receiver pulled in a 27-yard scoring pass in the second half.

Ken Harrison, Delvin Williams and Paul Seal also caught touchdown passes for the 49ers, now 5-8 in the NFC West.

"This was a good game for us because it was a tough one," said Landry, adding, "We expected a tough game."

Rampettes Defeated

Rose High's girls' basketball team came up short on a second-half comeback bid and fell to its second defeat of the season last night as New Bern defeated the Rampettes, 41-34.

Rose trailed 14-4 at the end of the first quarter and was behind by a 24-9 score at halftime. The Rampettes held even with the Lady Bears in the third period and then outscored them 13-5 in the final quarter, but couldn't overcome the big deficit.

Lisa Morgan of New Bern was the game's leading scorer with 14 points, while teammate Marsha Simmons added 10. Karen Jefferys scored 11 points and Kathy Streeter and Rose King each added 10 for the Rampettes.

Rose's record is now 2-2 for the season. They will be at Kinston on Wednesday.

New Bern — Simmons 10, Henderson 9, Morgan 14, Barton 6, Lancaster 2, Williams.

Rose — Jefferys 11, Streeter 10, McGlohon 2, Taylor 1, King 10, Waller, Culligher.

St. Peter's Bows In Games

HAVELOCK — St. Peter's Catholic School dropped a triple-header to Annunciation Catholic of Havelock last night.

In the junior varsity game, Annunciation took a 16-14 victory. William Waugh and Brett Dye each had six points for St. Peter's.

Annunciation took an 18-14 win in the girls game. Marcia Gray led St. Peter's with six.

Then, in the final game, Annunciation gained a 49-40 win in the boys' varsity contest. Todd Dry led St. Peter's with 16 points.

St. Peter's returns to action on Friday, at Pace Academy.

Wildcats Win One For Baron

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer
South Carolina had the task of taking on the No. 1 team in the country and the memory of a legendary coach on the same night.

Not surprisingly, the Gamecocks lost.

Two nights after Adolph Rupp's death from cancer, playing in the filled 23,000-seat arena named after him, the top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats had to win.

"This was a very special night for all of us with Coach Rupp's death," said Joe Hall, who took over as coach when Rupp retired after the 1972 season with 880 victories. "I told our players in the locker room that this was an historic moment that they would remember all their lives. It was a night we would not have wanted to get beaten on."

South Carolina made a game of it in the first half, however, trailing only 38-35 at intermission by slowing the tempo and using zone defenses to neutralize the Wildcats' strength and quickness. But Kentucky's man-to-man defensive pressure wilted South Carolina in the second half and the Wildcats went on to win easily, 84-65.

Rick Robey poured in 19 points and Jack Givens and Kyle Macy added 18 apiece to lead Kentucky, now 4-0 for the year.

A turn-around baseline basket from 18 feet by Terry Tyler with two seconds remaining gave Detroit its tough win on the road despite 46 points from Greg Sanders.

In a similar game, Rutgers center James Bailey sank a free throw with six seconds left to defeat Davidson 78-77 despite 41 points from John Gerdy.

Other games saw Penn State shoot a record 65.3 percent from the field to defeat Muhlenberg, Pa., 109-78; Houston break a Hofheinz Pavilion record with a 133-98 victory over Southwestern Texas; Iowa State trip Wisconsin 82-73; Temple drub Biscayne 80-58; Vanderbilt defeat Cal Poly-Pomona 88-72; Memphis State nip Jacksonville 79-77 and Texas-El Paso beat Alaska-Anchorage 88-83.

Coach Provided Own Memorial

By MIKE CLARK
Associated Press Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — It wasn't as some had feared, a circus. It was, simply, a private sendoff for Adolph Rupp from the people who loved him — the fans.

Rupp, the craggy, domineering showman who directed Kentucky basketball through 42 years of unparalleled success, died Saturday night after a lengthy bout with cancer of the spine. He was 76.

The old coach's death immediately cast a new light on Monday night's Kentucky basketball game against South Carolina. Obviously, a memorial was in order.

Just as he had solved Kentucky's basketball problems for four decades, Rupp took care of his own memorial. After the 23,000 or so fans and both teams rose for a moment of silence, Rupp's taped voice recited a poem by Rudyard Kipling.

for him. Yes, it was Rupp speaking, but he wasn't chewing out a player or a referee and he wasn't passing along one of the million or so anecdotes that illustrated the Rupp legend.

It was not a classic rendition of poetry, but no one in the crowd seemed to care. After 42 years and 874 victories, fans had gotten used to having Adolph Rupp around. His death, while expected, still shook those who followed his success through the years.

It was a memorial for Rupp, but it was also a chance for the fans to visualize the man in the familiar setting of a basketball arena.

At the end of the reading, Rupp added a simple, "thank you" and his voice faded away.

But that didn't end the memorial. It continued as Kentucky's top-ranked Wildcats defeated South Carolina 84-65 before a crowd of 23,741 in the largest basketball arena in the country.

The team, the fans, the building — those constituted the real memorial to Rupp. The old coach who built the program from the ground up doubtless would have agreed.

The Gamecocks, 3-3, got 16 points from Mike Doyle and 12 from Jim Graziano, including 10 in South Carolina's successful first half.

At halftime, a tribute was held for Rupp during which university officials announced the establishment of a memorial fund for cancer research in his name.

Only two other teams in the Top Twenty were in action Monday night, with No. 7 Cincinnati whipping Eastern Kentucky 73-58 and 17th-ranked Detroit edging St. Bonaventure 94-92.

Cincinnati got 16 points from both Pat Cummings and Eddie Lee to post its 65th straight home victory over a five-year

Chance To Play Pro Basketball

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — For only $25, here's the Christmas present for the man who has everything: a bona fide chance to try out for a professional basketball team.

The team is Carolina Lightning, a member of the new All-America Basketball Alliance. Other franchises are in Louisville, Ky.; New York; Rochester, N.Y.; Wheeling, W.Va.; Macon, Ga.; Richmond, Va., and Indianapolis, Ind.

Right now the Lightning is only Skip Brown, a Wake Forest guard who graduated last season. The team needs nine more players and a coach.

Richard Pollak, who owns the team with silent partners in Philadelphia, said he was talking with Tates Locke, the former coach at Clemson University and Buffalo of the NBA.

For $25, anyone who thinks he has a chance can take part in tryouts from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Dec. 23 at Bishop McGinnis High School in Winston-Salem. Registration is Dec. 19 at the Winston-Salem Coliseum.

Pollak said he had hoped North Carolina would prove to be more fertile ground than it has for former college basketball players. "The league's had trouble finding local people," he admitted. "We figured they would be in abundance, but they seem to be already playing elsewhere, in Europe or somewhere."

Training is supposed to begin Dec. 26 with the first game Jan. 6 at Louisville, Pollak said. The team's schedule includes 37 home games, starting Jan. 15 against Richmond.

Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Foxx each hit 58 home runs in one season, the all-time high for righthanded batters.

Mel Ott, who hit 511 home runs for the New York Giants, never played in the minor leagues.

Conley Wrestlers Chase Another Eastern Carolina Championship

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

HOLLYWOOD—Conley's wrestling Vikings are off to another good start this season, although they did drop their opening match.

While not saying that that loss, to Rose High School, was a blessing in disguise, Coach Milt Sherman did say that it got some of his wrestlers to thinking, and that a lot of progress has been made since then.

The Vikes finished last season as the top team in the state in pre-tournament polls, but finished second in the state tournament to a team they beat during regular season, Cary.

Conley again faces Cary this season, along with another meeting with Rose and one with Plymouth, another tough Eastern school.

Currently holding a 3-1 record, the Vikes will get their first taste of Eastern Carolina Conference action this week, when they meet Farmville Central.

"The team is coming along good now," Sherman said. "We started slow, but we're starting to pick up."

Sherman admitted that the loss to Rose was "disappointing," but that night, Rose "outwrestled us."

He gets a chance at revenge later in the year. "But Farmville Central is going to be tough for us, too," he cautioned. "Depending on how they set up their lineup, they could give us fits."

The Vikes sport the return of seven conference champs from last year, and they have 12 wrestlers back who saw action at one time or the other on the varsity level last season. "We have good talent, and I don't think we've put our best lineup on the mat yet," Sherman said. "It's been due to illness or one problem or another. We may not field out best until after Christmas."

The team is handicapped by not having a heavyweight this year, and some of the men are working outside their weight range. "But we'll try to set things up to our best advantage. We have the makings of a very good team."

Sherman said the conference race is somewhat frustrating in that only four teams are in the conference this year. Ayden-Grifton has dropped wrestling. "Four teams is below average for a 3-A Conference like ours," Sherman pointed out. "But we have some pretty good teams. North Pitt has been somewhat of a surprise especially since they went through a coaching change. It speaks well of them. Southern Nash has several champions back, and Farmville is young, but well-coached."

Still, Conley, with its experience should be the league favorite again.

A rundown of the classes was given by Sherman.

At 98 pounds, Gary Harris, a sophomore, returns. He was conference champion here last year, and fourth in the sectionals. But so far, he's wrestled all but one of his matches at 105. Rick Farris, another sophomore, currently has a 3-0 record at the weight.

Two freshmen, Raymond Small and Shannon Carson, are the top candidates for the 105-pound class.

Donald Hardy, a sophomore with some experience last year, is at 112, with freshman Timmy Wilson backing him up.

Alton Crandall, a senior, who took the conference title, was second in the sectionals and third in the state last year, is back at 119. Behind him are George Griner, a sophomore, and Alexander Crandall, a freshman who is unbeaten in JV action.

Sophomore Robert Carney is 3-1 so far at 126. "He has been a real surprise for us," Sherman said. David Sutton, a freshman up from A.G. Cox backs him up.

Willie Moore, a junior is at 132, along with Buddy Branch, a sophomore.

At 138, Ronald Harris, a senior who was conference champion and third in the sectionals is back. He is 4-0 so far, winning all four on pins.

Marvin Hardy, who won both the conference and sectionals titles last year at 145, returns for his senior year. He also is 4-0 with all four by pins.

William Small, a junior, has been holding down 155, while Curtis Dixon, a junior who was league champ and third in the sectionals, currently is behind him. Dixon hasn't wrestled yet this year.

Ronald Roach, who was second in the league last year is back at 167, but has been out of action since the Rose match with an injury. Sophomore Jerry Coward is behind him.

Charles Hanson, a senior, is back at 185. Hanson won the league title and was the runner-up in the sectionals last year.

Jesse Davis, a senior, is back at 195 and gunning for a repeat of last year. During that season, he was conference, sectionals and state champion. "If he gets his stuff together, he is the man to beat (in the state)," Sherman said. "But he has yet to wrestle up to his potential this year."

Donald Haislip, a junior, is working the heavyweight class. "We haven't been able to fill all of our classes due to injuries and the like, and we do have some people wrestling out of their class."

"But with the most returning power ever, we should have a good season," Sherman said.

O'Brien Comes Down Hard With Fine, Suspension On Washington

NEW YORK (AP) — Forward Kermit Washington of the Los Angeles Lakers is out of action for at least 26 games and is more than $10,000 poorer because of the latest in an increasing number of acts of violence in the National Basketball Association.

Washington was suspended for 60 days — a minimum of 26 games — and fined a record $10,000 Monday by NBA Commissioner Lawrence F. O'Brien for punching Houston Rocket players Kevin Kunnert and Rudy Tomjanovich, who was hospitalized, during a game last Friday night.

And the angered Rockets said they will take legal action against Washington and the Lakers.

The 60-day suspension, reportedly the longest in NBA history, could be extended to the end of the season, a decision O'Brien said he would make when Washington applies for reinstatement at the end of the 60 days.

The $10,000 fine doubles the fine O'Brien handed out to Washington's teammate, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who punched Kent Benson of Milwaukee in a season opener. Abdul-Jabbar, who was not suspended but who missed 20 games because of a broken right hand, tried to act as a peacemaker Friday night. He attempted to break up an altercation between Washington and Kunnert by grabbing the Houston player. Washington then turned on Tomjanovich.

The incident will reportedly cost Washington about $50,000 because a player cannot be paid while under suspension. "The stringent penalty reflects the severity of Washington's action on the court," O'Brien said. "A careful review of two video tapes of the game, reports from officials and statements from witnesses persuaded me to take this action."

But the penalty was not stringent enough for the Rockets, whose general manager, Ray Patterson, said Monday night that the club would sue the Lakers and Washington, claiming the incident jeopardized the Houston franchise. Patterson said he was sure Washington also would be sued by Tomjanovich, the Rockets' leading scorer.

"I knew they would go by the severity of Rudy's injuries, but this is ridiculous," Washington said in an interview with the Los Angeles Times. "There must be some way I can take this to court. That's the only thing I can do, otherwise, it's the end of the season for me."

The Laker front office and Coach Jerry West continued a "no comment" stance on the matter.

The incident occurred during the third quarter of the Rockets' 116-105 victory over the Lakers. After some jostling, Washington punched Kunnert.

Washington then was ejected by referee Bob Rake.

Then Tomjanovich came running up, leading a group of players toward Washington and Kunnert. Washington lashed out with a right hand, knocking down Tomjanovich, who is hospitalized with a dislocated jaw, broken nose, fractured skull and cerebral concussion. The Houston team physician, Dr. Charles Baker, said Tomjanovich might be out for the season.

After the incident, Washington said: "I saw him coming and I just swung. I had no idea who it was. Now that I've talked to other people, I understand Rudy wasn't going to fight. He's never even been in a fight. It was an honest, unfortunate mistake."

Tar Heels Fall To Fifth Place

By The Associated Press

William and Mary didn't gain a spot in the national college basketball rankings, but the Indians certainly made their presence felt in the latest balloting by upsetting North Carolina and enabling Notre Dame to move into second spot behind Kentucky.

North Carolina, 5-1, fell from second to fifth after losing 78-75 to William and Mary.

Notre Dame, 6-0, taking advantage of the upset and helping itself with three victories last week that included a 69-66 triumph at UCLA, received nine first-place votes and 872 points in nationwide balloting by sports writers and sportscasters.

But the Fighting Irish were easily outdistanced by Kentucky, 3-0, which beat Indiana 87-64 and Kansas 73-66 and remained No. 1 with 42 first-place votes and 1,014 points.

The other first-place vote went to Marquette which moved from fourth to third with 799 points after two easy victories.

Arkansas, which boosted its record to 6-0 with two wins, moved into fourth from sixth with 647 points. North Carolina, which also won once last week, was next with 485.

Cincinnati, 4-0 after nipping Miami of Ohio 61-60, was sixth and was followed by Indiana State, 5-0; UCLA, 4-1; Nevada-Las Vegas, 5-0, and Louisville, 3-1.

Indiana State advanced four spots from 11th with two routs. UCLA dropped from fifth. Nevada-Las Vegas moved up from 10th and Louisville advanced from 16th to 10th with an 88-85 win over Michigan and a drubbing of Robert Morris. The Second Ten were San Francisco, Syracuse, Holy Cross, Providence, Michigan, Detroit, Purdue, Maryland, Kansas State and Kansas.

Purdue and Kansas State were newcomers to the rankings while St. John's and Utah, Nos. 13 and 14, respectively, the previous week, dropped out. St. John's lost to Rutgers 72-61 and Utah was defeated 80-79 by Long Beach State. They were the first losses for both teams.

Reunion Ends 31 Years Of Guilt And Sadness

MIAMI (AP) — Judith Rosen surrendered her infant daughter to a New York adoption agency—in 1946, then fought guilt and sadness for 31 years.

Then on the day after Thanksgiving this year, long after she gave up her search in the face of official indifference and silence, came a voice on the telephone: "Mother!"

REUNION — Judith Rosen Leibowitz (left) and her daughter, Barbara Frey of Margate, near Fort Lauderdale, embrace in the daughter's home. The mother and daughter were recently reunited at New York's LaGuardia Airport after a 31-year separation. Mrs. Leibowitz says she gave up daughter for adoption soon after birth. Years later, both began a search for each other. It ended the day after Thanksgiving. (AP Laserphoto)

The daughter, too, had been searching.

One week after the telephone call, Judith Rosen Leibowitz and her daughter, Barbara Frey, clasped each other in joyous reunion at New York's LaGuardia Airport.

"We grabbed each other's hands and never let go. We never will," says Mrs. Frey, 31, who lives near Fort Lauderdale north of Miami.

The reunion was the result of Mrs. Frey's determined six-year search and the help of the Adoptees Liberty Movement Association in Florida.

The story began when Judith Rosen, frightened, 21 and unmarried, gave birth to a daughter in a New York hospital. The father, she says, was a 42-year-old widowed dentist who refused marriage.

The baby was named Rochelle.

"I saw her and fed her," says Mrs. Leibowitz. She left the hospital without the infant, but says she does not remember signing papers relinquishing claim to the baby.

The young mother was trapped in anguish. She went to the agency that handled the case. "They told me, 'You gave her up. You gave her a new life. She is probably with wealthy people who can give her everything you can't.' They practically threw me out," she recalls.

She finally abandoned the effort. She married, bore another daughter, remarried and settled in the Bronx. "But all this time, she has never been out of my heart and mind," Mrs. Leibowitz said of her daughter.

The daughter, meanwhile, had been named Barbara and was growing up in Connecticut, where her adoptive father was a businessman. It was a comfortable life, but "somehow, I never thought I belonged."

In 1971, a divorcee living in Florida with two daughters of her own, she began a search for her natural mother.

By early 1975, Mrs. Frey had found out which adoption agency handled her case. She began a series of letters pleading for information.

She says the brief responses from the agency always included a recommendation that she seek psychiatric counseling.

Mrs. Frey met ALMA's Florida coordinator, Rachel Rivers, in 1975 at the recommendation of Donald Frey, who became her husband last June.

The women worked together, a tedious process of chasing down birth certificates of mother and daughter, searching through the genealogy department of New York's public library, trying in vain to trace her grandparents.

The break came when she learned her grandparents had divorced. A divorce record in Brooklyn gave the name of a witness.

No such name was listed in the New York phone directory, but on the idea that many New Yorkers move to Florida, Ms.

still in Mexico City, being processed for two final airlifts before Christmas.

The exchange to which the United States and Mexico agreed in 1976 began last Thursday with a flight of 36 Mexicans, all men, who chose to move to Mexican prisons.

Three examiners of the U.S. Parole Commission are conducting hearings for prisoners so far ineligible for release. The earliest possible date for their release is in February.

Nine such hearings were concluded Monday, and 28 prisoners were notified that they face outstanding U.S. warrants ranging from drug charges to air piracy. At least four more warrants may be issued, U.S. Marshal Robert Ladoon said.

Robert Lee Jackson, 38, of Nashville, Tenn., was arraigned Monday on a charge of aircraft piracy. He is accused of hijacking on July 2, 1971, a Braniff International plane headed for Mexico City.

He was arrested in Argentina, where he was serving a five-year prison sentence for the hijacking before being extradited to Mexico.

Bayou Folk Fear The Moonies

By KENDAL WEAVER
Associated Press Writer
BAYOU LA BATRE, Ala. (AP)—The seagoing folk of Alabama's bayouland regularly face the wrath of nature. In two centuries here they have turned a marshy wilderness into a home. Now many fear a new threat to their family and faith.

It comes, oddly, in the form of a new industry, the kind of big business the bayou folk usually seek.

The business, however, is linked at least indirectly to the Unification Church of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon. And that has raised an angry protest in this close-knit, predominantly Catholic area which was settled by Acadians 200 years ago.

Some 1,000 persons, about one-third of Bayou La Batre proper, turned out Sunday at a rally opposing the new shipbuilding industry. A local minister told the crowd that young people "are innocently snared into this satanic power" of Rev. Moon.

Several businessmen and civic leaders also formed a group called Concerned Citizens of the South to try and keep the firm from getting off the ground.

The firm, U.S. Marine Inc., announced plans to establish the shipbuilding industry two weeks ago when it purchased 700 acres of bayouland for $2 million from former Voice of America Director Kenneth R. Giddens of Mobile.

The initial euphoria in the bayou faded when it was learned that the firm's president, Michael Runyon, was a Unification Church member along with Bo Hi Pak, president of the company's parent industry, International Seafood of Norfolk, Va.

Neither were available for comment Monday following the bitter protest, but they have said previously U.S. Marine is not tied financially to Moon.

John Schmietke, general manager for the Virginia company, also said Monday that the fears of the bayou folk are unwarranted.

He said the firm in Norfolk has "very smooth" relations with that community and, contrary to rumors, the Moon followers who are employed at the firm don't work for free and none of the company money is channeled to Moon.

Schmietke said International Seafood employs 100 persons and "about 12" are members of the Unification Church.

"They are family people. They have children. They rent apartments and homes. They get paid," he said.

Schmietke said he himself was a Lutheran. The Unification Church has been controversial in recent years. Opponents say it proselytizes young people into an untraditional faith that alienates them from their parents and prompts them to seek money for the enrichment of the South Korean leader.

In Mobile, about 60 miles north of Bayou La Batre, some Unification Church members have challenged a city solicitation law which they say is a form of harassment aimed at them.

In the bayou, where the clannish villagers owe their livelihood to the sea, opposition could be a formidable obstacle to the company.

Clarence "Sonny" Sprinkle, chairman of Concerned Citizens of the South, said, "We're not objecting to new industry. We're objecting to the undesirable influence. We don't want them tampering with our children."

State Rep. Bob Glass told the gathering at a shopping center parking lot, "I see in Rev. Moon the devil. If there are any Moonies here, go back and tell Rev. Moon he made a bad mistake coming to Bayou La Batre."

COWBOY STRIKES

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Strikes are no 20th century phenomenon. Records of the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics show 325 cowboys struck seven ranches of the Texas Panhandle between Mar. 24 and April 3, 1883. They won a wage increase from $1.18 to $1.68 a day.

Freeing Some Of Returnees

By BOB RAST
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Today is freedom day for at least 30 American convicts, among the first to return to the United States from Mexican prisons under the new inmate exchange treaty.

Up to 44 men and women could be released and issued "suitable clothing" and $100 for transportation money, said coordinator James Meko of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

These are the lucky ones who spent enough time in Mexican prisons to satisfy requirements for the same offenses under U.S. law, Meko said. Nearly all of the 235 Americans who qualified to return were convicted on drug charges, about half for marijuana offenses.

The released Americans must report to parole officers within 72 hours.

A total of 142 prisoners, including 32 women, were in the Metropolitan Correctional Center after two airlifts from Mexico City and the arrival on Monday of a busload of transferring prisoners from the border city of Tijuana.

Another 93 Americans are still in Mexico City, being processed for two final airlifts before Christmas.

The exchange to which the United States and Mexico agreed in 1976 began last Thursday with a flight of 36 Mexicans, all men, who chose to move to Mexican prisons.

Three examiners of the U.S. Parole Commission are conducting hearings for prisoners so far ineligible for release. The earliest possible date for their release is in February.

Nine such hearings were concluded Monday, and 28 prisoners were notified that they face outstanding U.S. warrants ranging from drug charges to air piracy. At least four more warrants may be issued, U.S. Marshal Robert Ladoon said.

Robert Lee Jackson, 38, of Nashville, Tenn., was arraigned Monday on a charge of aircraft piracy. He is accused of hijacking on July 2, 1971, a Braniff International plane headed for Mexico City.

He was arrested in Argentina, where he was serving a five-year prison sentence for the hijacking before being extradited to Mexico.

LIKE STACKED FIREWOOD — An unidentified man surveys the progress on Richard and Kay Veazey's log house near Fairbanks, Alaska. The walls are short pieces of logs stacked like firewood. (AP Laserphoto)

Built Their Log Cabin Using Novel Z-Stocked Log Design

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — It looks like a stack of firewood, the house Richard and Kay Veazey built in a grove of birch trees on the outskirts of Fairbanks.

But don't take a log to stoke up the heater, the walls might come tumbling down. The Veazeys built their cabin by stacking and mortaring logs to form z walls.

The logs are 13 to 15 inches long, set flush to form the inside of the wall, but staggered on the outside.

Veazey, a television cameraman, says he chose the design because "I like unique things, and it's also inexpensive." There's a logical reason. The logs retain heat during the deep cold of a Fairbanks winter, and the walls are thicker than those of your run-of-the-mill log cabin.

Each log is held in place at each end by a ring of mortar. Between the rings of mortar, each log is encased in glass fiber insulation.

If mortar were used all the way through the wall, it would conduct heat out of the cabin, Veazey explains.

Veazey's one-room cabin does have a loft. The steps leading to it are part of the logs forming a portion of the outside wall.

He says the six cords of spruce logs he used for the walls came from the property of a friend. He estimates he spent about $500 for mortar and insulation.

It took about 200 man hours, with the help of friends, to build the walls once the logs were cut for the 15-by-17-foot cabin.

Veazey says he used logs of varying diameter, from 6 inches to 12 inches, for "aesthetic reasons. If you plan beforehand, you can make designs in the wall."

As for the placement of windows, he says that doesn't require planning because "you can stand up and just about judge where you want them."

Veazey said the trickiest part of the project was construction of the walls at the four corners.

He said the corner posts, made from spruce logs, had to be squared off on two sides for ease in installing insulation and joining the wall logs.

Veazey recommends the use of dry logs in construction. "We used pretty dead wood, so there won't be too much shrinkage, but we expect to have some cracks," he says.

Veazey and his wife have electricity, but at the present time they are carrying water to their cabin, located on a 2½-acre plot six miles northeast of Fairbanks.

But the Houston native says that a well is planned for the future, to ease life a little when winter temperatures send the thermometer to 40 or 50 degree below zero.

Report Evidence DES Is Source Of Cancer Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — DES, a drug taken by about two million expectant mothers to avoid miscarriages, may increase the risk of fatal cancers, especially of the breast, new evidence indicates.

That suggestion comes 6½ years after findings that about 200 daughters of women who took the drug in the early 1950s developed vaginal and cervical cancer.

Two years ago, researchers also found that thousands of sons of DES mothers suffered lowered sperm counts and other birth defects of the reproductive tract.

The latest evidence was revealed Monday when Dr. Sydney M. Wolfe, director of the Ralph Nader-financed Health Research Group, wrote a letter to Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano asking that doctors alert their DES patients of the possible cancer hazard.

DES is a hormone that was widely prescribed until the early 1970s for its presumed anti-miscarriage benefits.

But Wolfe says research done by the University of Chicago over a 20-month period ending in November, 1952, showed the drug didn't significantly lower the incidence of miscarriages.

That research did not stop almost automatic prescription of DES by some doctors for their pregnant patients, he said.

Follow-up checks on the women involved in the Chicago research also showed that 31 of 693 DES patients developed breast cancer compared to only 17 of 668 in non-DES women.

Among those patients, 12 DES users died. Only four of the control-group cancers were fatal.

"These preliminary findings strongly suggest that there is an increased amount of endocrine-related cancer, especially breast cancer, in DES mothers," Wolfe wrote in his letter to Califano.

Wolfe suggested more study of the drug, with financing coming from the profits of the drug's makers.

The drug also is used as an morning-after birth control pill, a practice Wolfe said should be abandoned except in cases of rape and incest.

Dr. John C. Bailor, editor of the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, called the cancers in DES mothers "killers." He said the frequency of death indicated the drug might trigger cancers that are less treatable.

In addition to use as an anti-miscarriage drug and for morning-after birth control, similar synthetic estrogen products are used for treatment of post-menopausal women and as a food additive for cattle.

In other action relating to substances suspected of causing cancers, the Food and Drug Administration has announced a ban on five dyes used in soaps, lipsticks and other cosmetics.

None of the five had been approved for use in food. The ban takes effect Tuesday.

'Fleece Of The Year' Is Awarded Treasury Dept.

By JIM LUTHER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire today accused the Treasury Department of catering to the whims of jet-set Americans living abroad in supporting what he called a $400-million-a-year tax loophole.

The Wisconsin Democrat, who presents an "award" each month to the federal agency that he thinks displays the biggest, most ridiculous or most ironic example of government waste, saved his "Fleece of the Year" prize for Treasury Department officials.

The department supports a move to delay until the 1978 tax year a change Congress originally approved in 1976 to scale down a tax break for Americans who live in foreign countries.

Proxmire has stymied Senate action on the delay this year. The old law allowed an American living abroad to avoid U.S. taxes on the first $20,000 earned each year. People living abroad for three years received a $25,000 annual exemption. About 150,000 Americans benefit from the tax break.

Congress voted in 1976 to reduce the exemption to $15,000 ($20,000 for employees of charitable organizations), but later delayed the date of the change to Jan. 1, 1977. Now the Treasury Department has asked — and the two tax-writing committees of Congress have agreed — to change the effective date to Jan. 1, 1978.

That would retroactively restore the higher exemption for the current tax year. Proxmire says his opposition drew a strong response.

"When it was learned I was blocking this end run for the rest of the year, I was besieged by top officials of this and previous administrations, by an intense mail campaign and by expert lobbyists all dedicated to continue this gross injustice," Proxmire said.

"It was a perfect object lesson in why tax reform gets clobbered."

Treasury officials had no comment on Proxmire's statement.

Proxmire said the tax break makes absolutely no sense because 90 percent of the benefits go to persons earning more than $30,000 a year.

In seeking another one year of life for the full tax break, Treasury officials "have succumbed to the moans from the mink-swathed Americans abroad who now pay no or few taxes but will have to begin paying taxes (of course they moan), and to the arguments that the provision both creates jobs and stimulates business abroad," Proxmire said.

Suggests Need More Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — American churches are "full of doers" who should learn to "celebrate non-doing," says the Rev. Richard A. Swanson, Lutheran chaplain at Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill. "The people of God are called to play."

He told a Lutheran Church in America conference that people increasingly are classified by the Aristotelian definition of a person as the product of his own works. He said the church must remind them of God's grace making them free of "having to do in order to be."

New Drug Speeds Ulcer Healing

I've had an ulcer most of my adult life. It usually flares up about once a year. I hear there's a new treatment for ulcers that can cure them once and for all. Is this true? — Mr. D.S., Texas. Dear Mr. S.:

The drug that you're referring to is called cimetidine. A long time ago, I referred to this drug in my column. After long experimental studies, it has been released by the Food and Drug Administration. So this new drug has revolutionized the treatment of duodenal ulcers.

The drug reduces the secretion of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, a most important factor in the perpetuation and recurrence of peptic ulcers in the duodenum.

The rate of healing of an ulcer is markedly increased with the use of this drug. In many instances, healing takes place within two weeks. With people who have recurrences of ulcers (frequently in the early spring and fall), early use of the drug may abort the problems usually associated with duodenal ulcers.

Is a Baker cyst a dangerous condition? Does it go away by itself or is surgery required? — Mrs. H.S.B., Fla. Dear Mrs. B.:

A Baker cyst (no relationship to occupation) was first described by an English surgeon, Dr. William M. Baker, many years ago. Fluid accumulates in the back of the knee, but does not involve the knee joint itself. Surgery is not always necessary, especially if the cyst does not interfere with normal walking or movement of the knee.

Surgical removal of the cyst is not a complicated or serious operation. Recovery is rapid and there is no interference with the normal functioning of the knee after surgery.

Is ether still used for anesthesia? I remember how it smelled when I was a child and had my tonsils taken out. I'm 64. I'm going to have an operation and dread the idea of ether again. — Mr. E.S., W. Va. Dear Mr. S.:

Many of us recall unpleasant ether sensations. The smell and the dizziness remain in the memory for a long time. It's not unusual for patients about to undergo surgery to recall vividly their first experience with this drug.

Although ether is still one of the safest anesthetics, it is not being used with as great a frequency as formerly because of the many newer chemicals that have been devised. The newer ones have an equally high degree of safety with fewer unpleasant aftereffects. The nausea, so commonly identified with ether, can now be almost totally avoided with these new anesthetics.

A tribute must be paid to the modern anesthesiologists who play a vital role before, during and after surgery. Their training and skill have minimized many of the risks of anesthesia and have contributed immeasurably to the safety record of modern surgery.

Lady Churchill To Be Buried Friday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's "darling Clemmie," his wife for 57 years and his widow for 12, will be buried alongside him Friday in the family plot in an Oxfordshire village, her family announced today.

Baroness Spencer-Churchill died Monday of a heart attack at the age of 92. She was lunching with her secretary in her London apartment overlooking Hyde Park, in the fashionable Knightsbridge section.

"My mother died very peacefully and quietly," said her daughter Mary Soames. "It was all over very quickly."

Her grandson Winston Churchill, a Conservative member of the House of Commons, said the funeral will be private and will be conducted by the Rev. John James, who officiated at Sir Winston's funeral in 1965.

Burial will be in the churchyard at St. Martin's Church in Bladon, near Blenheim Castle, the ancestral home of the Churchills.

Tributes flooded in to Lady Churchill's family.

Queen Elizabeth II's message of condolence was private and its contents were not disclosed. But Prime Minister James Callaghan's message read: "Her character, dignity and charm made her greatly loved."

Margaret Thatcher, leader of the Conservative party which Sir Winston led for so long, said: "She upheld everything we hold most dear. We mourn her loss deeply."

A FIRST FOR BARRY — Sen. Barry Goldwater, left, R-Ariz., got his first ride in a hot-air balloon Sunday. The senator, a veteran pilot, said he felt right at home as he drifted across north Phoenix. With him are friends Ruth Reinhold, seated, unidentified crew member and pilot Jim Kitchel at controls. Goldwater says a balloon and politicians have one thing in common, they're both a "bag of hot air". (AP Laserphoto)

Learned To Live With Stardom

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the decade after he turned 14, Parker Stevenson appeared in more than 100 TV commercials,

AFTER THE FESTIVAL — Princess Caroline of Monaco, and her younger sister Stephanie, right, leave the Monaco Circus festival in Monaco after attending the second night of the annual event. Following them is Jennifer Grant, left, daughter of actor Cary Grant. (AP Laserphoto)

three motion pictures and episodes of "Gunsmoke" and "Streets of San Francisco." A year ago, at 24, Stevenson began work with Shaun Cassidy on a television series of their own, "The Hardy Boys," now in its second season on ABC. And yes, the rather sudden rise to stardom has Stevenson a bit bothered.

"It's a question that's foremost in my mind, now that the show's successful, almost in a cult way," the young man from Philadelphia said in an interview. "I'm worried about burning myself out."

"It worries me because I'm more concerned now with where I'll be 10 years from now."

It's not so much that Stevenson, who mixed studies in architecture at Princeton with screen tests and acting jobs, has planned his immediate future beyond a desire for more work in the movies, and maybe a return to school.

"I think I'm most concerned now with pacing myself, because doing too much too quickly can be commercially dangerous. An actor can get overexposed, and I want to avoid that."

The whole thing began when Stevenson, then 14, failed to land a camp counselor's job he was after. He took a shot at TV commercials, and filmed his first one at 15 — for a facial cosmetic for teen-agers.

His first starring role in a motion picture was in 1971, when he played a 17-year-old responsible for maiming his best friend in "A Separate Peace."

He entered Princeton, and before graduating starred in two more movies, "Our Time" and "Lifeguard." His performance in "Lifeguard" led to the TV work.

Parker Stevenson is, by nature, a reflective man. "I have a tendency to over-intellectualize," he said, "and I wonder sometimes if that doesn't get in the way of what I'm doing."

"I don't like getting the script the day before we're scheduled to shoot and have to go in and just do it. I'd rather have a little input into what I'm doing."

"When we first started working with the pilot for 'The Hardy Boys,'" he said, "I repeatedly asked the producer, 'How do you see the characters?' I never did get an answer. I think they were waiting to see how things went."

"So I looked at some of the (Hardy Boys) books, tried to get some ideas from them," Stevenson said. "I found I had to go more and more to myself for feeling for the part."

The approach apparently was successful, and the show became a hit despite Sunday evening competition from CBS' popular "60 Minutes."

Holiday Specials

Public Broadcasting System (PBS), University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (UNC-TV), will broadcast a dozen Christmas programs in the ten-day period beginning Dec. 15 and ending on Christmas Day.

A listing of dates (and in some instances second dates), and a brief synopsis of the programs follows:

— Thursday, Dec. 15, 11:30 a.m. (Second date, Thursday, Dec. 22, 3 p.m.) — The Many Moods of Christmas — Traditional Christmas music performed by the Jackson Symphony Orchestra and the combined choirs of Belhaven College, Jackson State College and Millsaps College.

— Saturday, Dec. 17, 7:30 p.m. (Second date, Monday, Dec. 19, 6:30 p.m.) — Marshall Efron and Christmas — A humorous history of Christmas traditions and celebrations.

— Monday, Dec. 19, 2 p.m. — Scrooge — An original opera version of Dicken's holiday classic, written by Sam Douglas.

— Tuesday, Dec. 20, 12 noon — Sing We Noel — The Mormon Youth Symphony and Chorus present Christmas music familiar and new. The settings include both the Mormon Tabernacle and outdoor winter scenes.

— Tuesday, Dec. 20, 8 p.m. Christmas time With Mister Rogers — A holiday special of music, dance and fantasy which combines the lives of Rogers' "neighborhood" friends with the story of a 12-year-old ballerina who fears her family will not be home for the holidays.

— Tuesday, Dec. 20, 9 p.m. — In Performance At Wolftrap — Andre Kostelanetz in an all Tchaikovsky program, including The Nutcracker Suite, The Coronation March, and Romeo and Juliet.

— Wednesday, Dec. 21, noon — An Elizabethan Christmas Celebration — A musical featuring performance by the Indiana State University of Evansville Singers staged in a simulated Elizabethan banquet hall.

— Wednesday, Dec. 21 at 8 p.m. (Second date, Dec. 25 at 10 p.m.) — Christmas at Pops — Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra. Includes a suite of carols, "The Many Moods of Christmas," a dream pantomime from Humperdink's Hansel and Gretel; Waldteufel's Skater's Waltz; Irving Berlin's White Christmas; and Leroy Anderson's Sleigh Ride.

— Friday, Dec. 23, 6:30 p.m. (Second date, Dec. 24, 7:30 p.m.) — A Christmas Celebration — Richard Kiley hosts this history of Christmas Day celebrations. Traditions examined include kindling of the yule log and the exchanging of presents and carols.

— Saturday, Dec. 24, 8 p.m. — Christmas Around the World — A live musical production originating in seven countries. Highlights from the Bethlehem Church of the Nativity and a performance of music for ancient instruments from a French chateau in the Loire region.

— Saturday, Dec. 24, 9 p.m. — A Child's Christmas in Wales — A series of nostalgic vignettes in a dramatization of Dylan Thomas' poem. The narration by Sir Michael Redgrave will be accompanied by Bernard Bragg and actors from the National Theater of the Deaf in recreating images of the Christmas poem.

— Sunday, Dec. 25, 5 p.m. — Holiday Greetings, a Christmas special, features folk-singer Mark Dugan, the Touch Mime Trio and the Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Rebecca Carnes. The director and all performers are from the Research Triangle area of North Carolina, and the program is one produced at the Chapel Hill Production Center.

— Sunday, Dec. 25, 6:30 p.m. — Evening At Symphony. This final Christmas season broadcast over PBS is a performance of Handel's Messiah by the Boston Symphony Orchestra conducted by Colin Davis.

SEQUEL IN WORKS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Goldman has been signed by Richard Zanuck and David Brown to write the screenplay for "Tara: The Continuation of Gone With The Wind", scheduled to begin production late next year. Goldman, an old hand at historic works, wrote "The Lion in Winter," "Nicholas and Alexandra" and "Robin and Marian".

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are tempted to make a dramatic change early which is certainly not good for you but later you are able to see ahead with much clarity. You will be able to devise a plan of action which will be radically different and which will be very helpful to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listening to what a strange-acting friend has to say can give you an idea that could be helpful. Discard old ideas and make room for new.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle public matters that are within your jurisdiction well and have a more enviable position in your community. Use common sense.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good time to consider changes that could be helpful to you in the future. You have excellent vision and can make your life more productive, happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not a good time for handling important obligations. Wait until later when thinking is clearer. You may have an argument with a loved one but this soon passes.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your position with partners and you know how to improve it by being more cooperative. A civic affair is annoying now, but later it works out all right for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) With all that important work ahead of you, be sure you don't go off on any tangents. A co-worker could be troublesome early, but later is okay.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be thorough in making plans before you proceed to put them in the works. Try to understand a loved one more and be happier together.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you are not careful a big argument could ensue at home, so avoid whatever may cause it. Look into that new interest that could mean a welcome change for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get into routines efficiently and produce a good deal, show that you are progressive. Don't do anything erratic at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the best way to take care of monetary matters. Experts can be of help. Making improvements to home is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't demand anything of others now, but later you can ask for favors courteously. Evening can be a fun time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to the ideas of an adviser you trust before you make any changes or get into new enterprises.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to fight at the drop of a hat while looking for new and better ways of doing things. There is the ability to follow orders here, so teach early to be told what to do explicitly. A fine pillar of the community in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

N. C. Assigned Monitor Role

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Federal authorities have told North Carolina to take over planning of all study of the sunken Civil War ironclad Monitor.

Several agencies and organizations have embarked on Monitor research and recovery efforts, and the seeds of a squabble over where the vessel should be displayed when it is recovered have been planted.

State Cultural Resources Secretary Sara W. Hodgkins said Monday that the state has signed an agreement with the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration giving the state authority to develop a master plan for research, preservation and possible recovery of the Monitor.

But she and other state officials indicated that the agreement does not guarantee that the Monitor, which sank in a storm off Cape Hatteras in 1862, will be displayed in North Carolina.

"It is premature to conjecture where the Monitor will wind up," said Dr. Larry E. Tise, who will direct the master plan project for the state. "It is even premature to conjecture that it won't remain where it is. A great deal more information about the environment and condition of the vessel is essential."

Tise added that the master plan would have to deal with "all viable options" for location of the Monitor if it is recovered. He said the master plan would not be accepted unless it satisfied the NOAA and "the entire scientific and historical community."

Mrs. Hodgkins also said the legislature would be asked for funds to create a research laboratory for studying the Monitor and other shipwrecks off Cape Hatteras.

And she said the state would convene a national conference on the Monitor some time next year.

Prayer To Open Court

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge opened court here Monday with a prayer and said he doesn't believe the U.S. Constitution prohibits the ritual in public schools any more than it does in the courts.

Judge William Z. Wood of Winston-Salem, presiding in Buncombe County Superior Court this week, invited anyone who didn't want to stand in prayer with him to step outside for a moment. No one did.

Wood said later in an interview that he always opens a session of court with a prayer. So far, he said, he had heard only one protest — from a minister who walked out of the courtroom.

Wood insisted that as long as he allows anyone who wants to leave to do so, he is entitled as an individual to open his court with a prayer. A schoolteacher, he said, has the same right, despite U.S. Supreme Court rulings to the contrary.

Nobody really had time to leave court Monday, since all were standing on the bailiff's order when Judge Wood marched into the courtroom, explained quickly what he intended to do and then began to pray immediately.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

It was Oscar Wilde who wrote that "life imitates art." Only a short while ago we described how the defenders cooperated to surround dummy's honor card. A few days later we received this report from the 1977 World Team Championship in Manila.

The auction was simple enough. After North made a vulnerable overall, South introduced his spade suit. The North hand now became extremely powerful, so a jump to game was fully warranted.

West led the king of diamonds. At those tables where the defenders continued passively, declarer was able to make his contract. He discarded a heart on the second high club and then continued with the jack of clubs. East ruffed, declarer overruffed and led the queen of diamonds. Whether or not West covered, declarer had no problem holding his losers to two hearts and one diamond.

The aggressive defenders were well rewarded for their enterprise. They could see that there was little hope of defeating the contract if declarer held the ace of hearts, so they assumed that partner held that card. A heart shift was imperative. Any heart would do if East held the ten of hearts as well as the ace. However, to allow for the possibility that declarer held the ten of hearts and East the nine, it was vital to shift to the jack of hearts.

The defenders who found that play were Ron Vonder Porten of the defending world champion team, Per-Olov Sundelin of Sweden and John Swanson of the North American challengers. Declarer covered the jack with the queen, East won the ace and returned the suit. Declarer's ten of hearts was caught in a finesse, and three heart tricks for the defenders spelled a one-trick defeat.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Defense Of Nazi Costs Illinois ACLU Branch

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union's defense of a Nazi effort to march in a predominately Jewish suburb has created the ACLU's "most serious threat ever"—a sharp drop in membership and financial contributions.

The Illinois ACLU has cut its staff by one-fourth and its budget by 30 percent. The national ACLU has prepared a 1978 budget 15 percent lower than the current budget.

"This is the most serious threat the ACLU has ever faced," said Franklin Haiman, the ACLU's national secretary and a professor at Northwestern University. He said the approximately 15 percent cut in the national budget was caused by "a nationwide uproar over this case."

Skokie, a suburb north of Chicago, is nearly 60 percent Jewish, including thousands of people who survived or lost relatives in World War II German death camps. The ACLU represents the Nazis in three court cases involving attempts to march in Skokie.

"I've never seen this much ruckus over a case," said Arveh Neier, ACLU's national executive director. "We had a very substantial membership loss... It's clear a lot of people are very angry."

Neier refused to estimate the membership or financial loss, saying "maybe the post office is just slow" delivering membership fees. He said December is normally the ACLU's best recruiting month.

Neier said he has completed a "conservative budget" for 1978 that would include staff reductions and reduce the ACLU's ability to handle civil liberties cases.

"This will have an obvious impact on the man on the street," said David Hamlin, executive director of the Illinois ACLU. "We will have to refuse cases we would normally take," such as student rights, invasion of privacy, prisoner rights and race rights cases.

"And it means we won't be taking on major litigation, such as in filing a suit against the city of Chicago for not desegregating its schools."

Hamlin said his 12-member staff is being cut by three. One staff member cut was the person who handled membership solicitation, Hamlin added, so recouping losses will be even more difficult.

"And the Nazis haven't even marched in Skokie yet," Hamlin said. "I'm sure the courts will eventually say they can march. If the court provides a convincing argument explaining why the Nazis should march, maybe the ACLU will come out all right. If not, we could be in worse shape."

RECYCLING VALUED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The value of recycling aluminum is reflected in the fact that about 20 times as much energy is needed to produce a ton of the metal from virgin material as from recycled aluminum, says National Geographic magazine.

NOTICE OF RESALE IN THE GENERAL COURT OF JUSTICE SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION BEFORE THE CLERK

North Carolina
Pitt County
Daniel A. Manning, Administrator of the estate of Jesse Elliott Roberson, deceased.
Petitioner
Marie Winchester and husband, Claude Winchester; David Roberson and wife, Viola Roberson; Kathleen Stevenson; and Grover H. Roberson and wife, Dorothy Roberson, Respondents.
Under and by virtue of an order of the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, made and entered in the above entitled proceeding, the undersigned, Commissioner of Public Auctions, on the 20th day of December, 1977, offer for resale and resale for cash, to the last and highest bidder at public auction, at the Court House, floor in Pitt County, North Carolina, in Greenville, at 12:00 noon, the following described tract or parcel of land consisting of thirty acres, more or less, in Carolina Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, at or near Stokes, North Carolina, lying between the Railroad and the old county road and being the same land devised to Jesse Elliott Roberson by the will of his father, John H. Roberson, in Will Book 7, page 178 in the office of the Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court. This land is bounded, now or formerly, on the west by the railroad, on the south by Nobles, and on the east by Warren, William Stokes estate lands, and Fleming lands.

This is a resale of the above described property, a previous sale having been held on the 22nd day of November, 1977, under and by virtue of an order of the Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, made and entered in the above entitled proceeding, and an increased bid having been filed with the time allowed by law. Bidding will start at $39,950.00 which is the amount of the increased bid.

The highest bidder at the sale shall be required to make a cash deposit of 10 percent of the successful bid pending confirmation or rejection thereof.

This the 2nd day of Dec., 1977,

Energy Planners Trust Weather Service Forecast

By WARREN E. LEARY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's energy planners have decided to trust the National Weather Service's long-range forecasts this winter for energy use projections rather than rely on those of private forecasters.

The vote of confidence in the NWS comes less from an outstanding record for distant predictions — which the service admits it doesn't have — than from uncertainty about how good the private forecasters are, says an Energy Department spokesman.

The weather service says that even if its long-range forecasts aren't always perfect, they are at least as good, if not better, than anyone else's.

Long-range forecasting, meaning predictions for periods a week or more into the future, is just one of many areas in which the NWS is being challenged by private, profit-making forecasters.

Federal forecasters supply basic weather reports and private outfits supplement this for special-interest customers such as oil companies, local governments and some broadcast stations who demand more detail.

NWS spokesmen say the nation is getting its money's worth from the relatively small agency. Part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the weather service employs only about 5,100 persons and has a yearly budget of less than $200 million.

"We figure we are the second most-used government agency, after the Postal Service," says Earl W. Estelle, chief of the NWS public services branch. "But we are very small in number by comparison." The NWS Long Range Prediction Group also is

Hickel Plans A Second Term

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Walter J. Hickel, the former Interior secretary, says he plans to serve Alaska again as governor.

Hickel, who resigned the office in 1969 to head the Interior Department in the Nixon administration, said Friday he will face incumbent Republican Gov. Jay Hammond in the 1978 primary.

Hammond defeated Hickel in 1974.

small compared with its responsibility of predicting future weather, critically important to agriculture, energy planning and almost every segment of the economy.

Dr. Donald L. Gilman and his staff of six do 30-day temperature and precipitation outlooks and 90-day seasonal temperature forecasts basically by charting upper-level wind patterns.

Gilman says his group uses several methods to interpret the patterns. These include checking back through 30 years of file charts to look for similar movements, using mathematical equations and computers and looking at old temperature probability charts going back to the year 1900.

"Our winter temperature forecasts — that is, calling it warmer or colder than normal — are right 65 percent of the time," Gilman says. "This is our best season. For the other seasons, we are about 60 percent right."

Gilman's group, and most other forecasters, missed predicting the onset of last winter's severe cold, caused by a surprisingly abnormal shift in upper-wind patterns.

Gilman says the odds are 30 to 1 against a repeat of last winter's conditions and predicts that most of the country can expect a milder winter this year, although it will be colder than normal in some areas.

Russia Has Much Oil In Arctic Area

WASHINGTON (AP) The Soviet Union has nearly as much undiscovered oil in a single deposit as the United States has altogether, the U.S. government estimates, but the Russians will have a devil of a time getting the precious liquid out of the frozen earth.

The deposit, known as the West Siberian Basin, covers an area twice the size of Alaska. But it lies hundreds of miles from Soviet industry and refineries and nearly half of it sits above the Arctic Circle, the U.S. Geological Survey said in a report Sunday.

Even if there were pipelines to carry the oil west to populated European Russia, drillers would have large problems with the delicate soil that covers the permanently frozen Siberian subsoil.

Survey estimates show the Siberian deposit holds at least 48 billion barrels of oil and 300 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. Best estimates of total U.S. undiscovered reserves are 56 billion barrels and 377 trillion feet respectively.

"The rate of (Soviet) development and production will depend on a variety of factors ... including how long it will take to develop transportation systems and to overcome difficult problems of hostile terrain and long distances from market and refinery points," said O.W. Girard Jr., author of the estimate.

"Some of these vast resources may, in fact, be as far away from the market place as our own huge hydrocarbon resources tied up in oil shale deposits," Girard concluded.

The U.S. is struggling to develop technology to free oil from shale, an abundant commodity but so far unusable on a large scale.

In August the CIA predicted the Soviets will be importing oil by 1985, putting them in the same supply crunch with the U.S., which now relies on OPEC nations for much of its supply.

The CIA said in its August forecast that the USSR is counting on large new supplies of oil, such as the Siberian deposit, and other energy sources by the mid-1980s.

But most of these sources are located far from major industrial and population centers. "Their development would take years and require massive capital investment," the CIA said.

The effects of the Russians entering the oil import market could sharply intensify U.S.-Soviet political rivalry in the Mideast, the CIA predicted.

The diminished supply would hurt Russia's eastern European allies, especially Hungary, which is paying its oil import bill with the U.S.S.R. by contributing heavily to building the Soviet pipeline under construction from the Urals to Siberian fields.

The Soviet satellites depend on the Soviet Union for 75 percent of their supply, with Rumania the only one with any oil production of its own.

Russia's dwindling supply also will affect some western European NATO countries that draw on Soviet refining, currently the largest of any country in the world.

CIA experts also predict the oil supply dilemma will create problems for Soviet leaders as they attempt to maintain the current level of military spending. Part of that money may be diverted to pay the fuel bill for the world's largest and coldest country, the CIA predicted.

2,136 Miles Of Library Books

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — If Virginia Todd put the "books" in her library end to end, they'd stretch from Cleveland to San Francisco — a distance of 2,136 miles.

Virginia is software librarian at Honeywell's Process Control Division here, and the "books" in her library are 4,700 tape reels — each 2,400 feet in length. The tapes contain software programs developed for use with the company's process computers.

Gentle, contoured seat and curved arms provide comfort; selected hardwood with rich maple finish provides beauty; and what could be more practical than a rocking chair? That leaves the style ... this high spindle back Boston Rocker has lasted through a century of changing tastes ... so it's not just a style ... it's a tradition.

Pretty Pendulum Swingers —

Timely gifts from Alaron®. There's two wall/mantel clocks and one wall clock and they all spring wind to keep you in tune with the time for 31 days. Pretty pendulum swingers strike the half hours as well as the hours and they all have chime silencers. You'll love the Early American hardwood cabinets and each model has its own individual clock face.
