Oil Storage Equipment In Hertford Left In Ruins

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — More than $1 million worth of oil storage equipment lay in smoldering ruins today after a series of tank explosions and fires that kept firefighters busy all night and into the day.

The tanks belonged to the Winslow Oil Co., which also lost its office along with records of $600,000 in accounts receivable and some cash. The Hertford Feed and Seed Co. was also flattened and tanks at the Reed Oil Co. and Hollowell Oil Co. were threatened by flames.

Earlier reports that additional storage tanks at the Reed facility also exploded were in error. Those tanks, blackened by smoke, were still standing this morning.

There was some damage to adjacent private property along the Perquimans River, and six families had to be evacuated from their homes.

"We lost everything we had, except for our delivery trucks," said Jim Bass, manager of the Winslow operation. "They had already left."

At midmorning today, firemen continued to spray water over the smoldering ruins, where the last visible flames were extinguished between midnight and 1 a.m., and speculation over the cause of the initial explosion early Tuesday continued.

"It could have been static electricity, a backfire, a spark — anything. No one knows," said Police Chief Marshall Merritt. "It could have even been a cigarette, but that's pretty remote. People who work at these things know better than that."

Bass said the blasts began as two large tanker trucks were finishing unloading kerosene and gasoline. The drivers had just come inside the oil company offices shortly before 8 a.m. Tuesday when the explosions started.

Bass said the blasts began as two large tanker trucks were finishing unloading kerosene and gasoline. The drivers had just come inside the oil company offices shortly before 8 a.m. Tuesday when the explosions started.

Police Chief Marshall Merritt said he believed a spark had somehow touched off the fuel as the trucks were unloading it.

Bass said oil company employees were also inside the office and were not hurt. Three firemen suffered minor injuries later as another of the tanks blew up. A fourth man was hurt about 75 minutes after that as still another tank flew apart and the large metal top landed on him.

Altogether there were seven explosions. Three tanks remained, and firemen were spraying water on them to keep them from going off. About 100 firefighters from Hertford and surrounding areas were on the scene.

Bass said he didn't know exactly how much damage had been done, but he estimated it at "well over $1 million."

"The insurance won't be a drop in the bucket," he said.

"You just don't think anything like that can happen, just wipe out everything you've got."

Billy Winslow, also of the oil company, said the firm lost three trucks and the two large transports.

Smoke from the blasts and fire billowed over this coastal town and was visible up to 20 miles away.

Unemployment Rate Down In December

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent in December, its lowest level in more than three years, the government reported today.

The sharp decline broke an eight-month pattern that had seen the unemployment rate bounce between 6.9 percent and 7.1 percent since last April.

Some 480,000 Americans were removed from the jobless rolls last month, leaving 6.3 million unemployed, the lowest total since the recession in late 1974.

Total employment last month rose by 410,000 to 92.6 million, continuing a steady expansion that has seen 4.1 million persons joined the ranks of the employed in 1977.

At 6.4 percent, the unemployment rate in December was nearly a full percentage point below the rate at the beginning of 1977, when 7.3 percent of the labor force was jobless.

The unemployment rate in 1977 averaged 7 percent for the year, comparing favorably with a 7.7 percent average in 1976 and an average of 8.5 percent in 1975.

The size of the drop in the jobless rate at the year's end was somewhat of a surprise to most government economists, who expected only a slight decline in the figures.

The big drop also put the jobless rate in line with President Carter's goal to reduce unemployment to the 5.5 percent range after his first year in office.

However, most economic forecasts for 1978 indicate that further declines will be slow in coming.

Utilities Ponder Alternative Plan

By KEITH MILLS
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Utilities Commission (GUC) Director Charles Horne Tuesday night announced Monday, Jan. 23, as the scheduled date for a public hearing concerning the selection of an alternative 201 Facilities Plan, designed to upgrade area wastewater collection and treatment systems.

Meeting in regular session, the Commission decided it would meet again the following Thursday to select the final alternative, which must be approved by the City Council and County Commissioners before it is submitted to the State and Environmental Protection Agency for final approval.

In order to qualify for federal assistance, municipalities are required under Section 201 (thence the name) of Public Law 92-500 to prepare a "Facilities Plan" demonstrating the need for proposed facilities and singling out the most cost-effective means of providing those facilities, taking into consideration social and environmental factors.

Preparation of the Facilities Plan stresses three broad areas of wastewater improvements, and cost estimates, required to comply with public law: infiltration-inflow correction, $767,000; collection system improvements, $363,500; and wastewater treatment facilities, $3,910,000. Total cost of the project is approximately $5,040,500.

Of that total, federal assistance currently available for planning and construction of municipal wastewater facilities equals 75 percent, or approximately $3,780,375. Supplementary grants, totaling an additional 13.5 percent, or $630,062 of the cost, are available from North Carolina Clean Water Bond funds. Thus, the remaining 12.5 percent would be provided locally.

In other activities, GUC approved a proposal that it join with Wilson, Rocky Mount and Monroe (Electricities) to intervene in N.C. Natural Gas Corporation's general rate filing.

State Senator Aallsbrook In Reelection Bid

State Sen. Julian R. Aallsbrook of Roanoke Rapids announced today that he is a candidate for reelection to one of the Sixth Senatorial District seats in the May Democratic primary.

The Sixth District, comprised of Pitt, Martin, Halifax and Edgecombe County, is currently represented by Aallsbrook and Sen. Vernon White of Winterville. White has also announced that he will seek reelection.

Aallsbrook, the senior senator in the General Assembly, will be seeking his 12th term in the State Senate. The veteran legislator has also served one term in the State House of Representatives.

An attorney, the senator said he is "running in the Democratic primary because of my long experience and my record as a legislator concerned for all the people of North Carolina."

"I have served the people of this area for more than a quarter century in the General Assembly. My record of progressive action in all fields stands on its own," Aallsbrook said.

He pointed out, "Friends of East Carolina University and the people throughout the state know my record in behalf of this fine school. They also know of marital status, number of children, occupation, educational background and housing facilities. The 1980 census for the first time will ask about income and ethnic background.

One of the biggest uses of the information is to determine from population breakdowns and economic data how federal money should be distributed to states and local communities.

"We're under more pressure now to get more precise information because there are more government programs, and the allocation of federal funds for these programs is tied to the census," Plotkin said in an interview.

The 1980 census, the 20th conducted by the federal government, will also reflect changes in American life over the past decade.

In recognition of the fact that many more women are working and contributing to the family income, it will not ask that one person be designated the "head of household," traditionally assumed to be a male breadwinner with wife and children.

Questions will be asked about persons' relationship to each other, and there will be a space for roommates or partners to be listed, allowing the government to count how many unmarriages live together.

1980 Census $4 Per Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1980 census, which will cost four times as much as the 1970 census, will be "the world's largest data collection effort," the Census Bureau director says.

Manuel D. Plotkin said that because the bureau is making a special effort to count precisely the number of persons in minority groups, the 1980 census will cost more than $4 per American compared with $1 per person in 1970.

The 1970 census measured a population of 204 million and cost 218 million, census officials said. The 1980 census is expected to count 220 million Americans and cost an estimated $900 million.

Plotkin said the 1970 census undercounted the number of Americans by 2½ percent, or 5.3 million persons. Of these, an estimated 3.4 million whites and 1.9 million blacks were not counted.

The bureau plans to hire 200 field workers — 10 times more than in 1970 — specifically to help minority groups complete the forms.

The census, whose constitutional purpose is to determine the apportionment of seats in the House of Representatives, is taken every 10 years.

It not only counts the number of people in America, but also records such information as sex, race,

Sen. White To Run Again For Seat In Raleigh

Veteran State Senator Vernon E. White of Winterville, said today that he will seek reelection from the Sixth Senatorial District which includes Pitt, Edgecombe, Halifax and Martin Counties.

In announcing his candidacy for one of the two seats allotted to the district, White said he was "grateful to the people," of the district for, "allowing me to serve in the Senate...for the past five sessions."

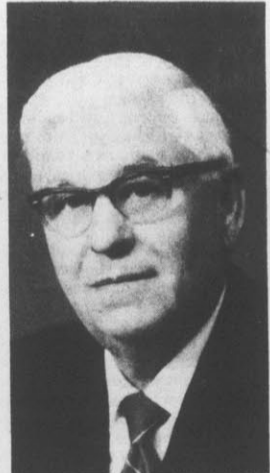

According to the legislator, "It has been a rare privilege to serve this district. I have tried to represent, to the best of my ability, the citizens of this district and North Carolina in all matters during these past ten years."

White was a leader in each session of the General Assembly from 1969 to 1977 in helping East Carolina University expand its programs and secure funds for its four-year school of medicine. He served on the Appropriations and Higher Education Committees as well as the Medical Manpower Commission that recommended establishing a degree-granting medical school at ECU.

For the past four legislative sessions, White has been chairman of the Senate Agricultural

"TOT FINDER"?

In the Massachusetts town where we lived previously, the local fire department distributed "tot finder" stickers to families with children. These large reflective stickers could be applied to the windows of children's bedrooms so that firefighters could easily locate children I am sure all parents would appreciate offering their children a bit of extra protection in case of fire emergency. If one injury or death of a child could be prevented, the cost would be worth it. S. G.

These "Tot Finder" stickers, plus "Invalid Finder" ones are available here, also. They may be obtained free of charge from the Pitt County Fire Marshal's office, 119 S. Cotanche Street, Greenville, or from the Greenville Fire Marshal's office, corner of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Greenville Fire Marshal Jerry McLawhorn said he is not pleased with the durability of the stickers being given by both offices and that he plans to have others printed as soon as the fire prevention budget will allow. He said those interested in obtaining these stickers may want to come back for more durable ones next fiscal year. Hotline will try to publish a feedback item when the new ones are available.

House Files For Education Seat

William Earl House filed Tuesday morning as a candidate for re-election to the Pitt County Board of Education. He represents the Belvoir-Bethel Townships on the board.

The incumbent candidate, who has served eight years on the board, was first named in 1970 to fill the unexpired term of Dr. William Moody, and won election to a six-year term in elections held in 1972.

A native of Bethel, House is a 1949 graduate of Bethel High School and attended N. C. State University. He served nine years in the National Guard, and is by profession a farmer.

House is married to the former Barbara Allen Clark of Bethel and they have three daughters — Mrs. Allison Harrington and Mrs. Jean Gibson, both now living in Ayden, and Kathryn, a junior at North Pitt High School.

He is a member of the Bethel United Methodist Church, where he is a member of the official board and the church's board of trustees. He is also a member of the Bethel Fire Department.

Crandell Seeks Sheriff's Post

Former Pitt deputy sheriff Cecil A. Crandell of Stokes filed Tuesday as a candidate for Pitt County Sheriff in the May primary.

Crandell, who was born and raised in the Stokes area, is a former constable for the Carolina Township and served as a deputy sheriff in Pitt County under Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson.

A graduate of Stokes High School in 1944, he served in the Merchant Marines during World War II.

Crandell, who has farming interests in the Stokes community, operates Crandell's Store on Highway 903 east of Stokes. He is also an animal products dealer in Robersonville for John W. Eselman and Sons.

The candidate is married to the former Annie Carter of Rose Hill and they have three sons.

Crandell, who is seeking the post now held by Sheriff Ralph Tyson, pointed out, "I have a service that I could render to the people of this county that I think would be outreach. If I am elected, I would strive to the best of my knowledge and ability to be fair and impartial to all."

Tyson Files For Unexpired Term

Francis D. Tyson, interim member of the Pitt County Board of Education, filed Tuesday as a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Kenneth Dews who resigned his board seat last fall.

Tyson, who was appointed to the Board of Education to fill the Winterville district vacancy created by Dews' resignation, will seek to retain the board seat in the May 2 primary.

If Tyson, a Greenville resident who lives in the Winterville school district, is successful in the May balloting, he will serve the unexpired term of Dews which ends in 1980. In 1980, Tyson would be eligible to seek his first full six-year term as a member of the board.

The candidate was born and raised in the Ballards Crossroads community of Pitt County, attended school at Bell Arthur, and earned his B.A. degree with a major in science and minor in business education at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

Edith Mayo Puts Women In Their Place, Historically

By MIKE FEINSILBER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edith Mayo's job is putting women in their place — historically.

As curator of women's history at the Smithsonian Institution, Mrs. Mayo says it breaks her heart to see those in the women's movement ignorant of their past.

She cringes when she hears them regretting that there are no "role models" for women to emulate.

At the Women's National Conference in Houston in November, she says, "It was so sad to hear people say, 'This is the first convention of women in 100 years.'"

"Well, it wasn't. Women have been meeting at national and international conventions on these same things for a hundred years. And there are plenty of women who were politically astute and contributed much, but nobody knows about them."

The museum sent her to Houston to gather parapheralia which, a century from now, may be the makings of a display on women's status in the primitive 20th Century.

She brought back about 175 political buttons, a couple of huge banners and a promise of the torch that had been carried to Houston from Seneca Falls, N.Y., site of a landmark women's meeting in the 19th Century.

Her favorites among the buttons: "My Consciousness Is Fine. It's My Pay That Needs Raising"; "Teaching Is Not a Secondary Female Sex Characteristic"; and "An All-Male Senate Leads to a Stag-Nation." "One elderly gentleman had a marvelous poster I would have given anything to get for the collection but I didn't dare approach him," she says. "It said 'IWY means Immoral Women's Year' and he stood there yelling, 'Repent! Repent ye Jezebels, repent! Go home to your husbands!'"

Mrs. Mayo says the rhetoric in Houston had parallels in the fight a century ago for the women's vote. Just as many of women's leaders today came out of the anti-Vietnam war movement, she says, the suffrage movement in the 1850s started with "a small band of radical women, many of whom came out of the temperance and the abolition movement."

Women were concerned with "social purity" issues — prostitution, illegitimacy, venereal disease — just as women now are concerned with rape, drugs and alcoholism.

"Of course, the suffrage movement was much more radical than the equal rights movement is," she says. "When you consider that women were still in bustles, that their place was only in the home and with the children, to have a magazine called 'The Revolution' was mind-boggling."

"The Revolution" was put out by Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, women who could serve as "role models" for today's women's liberation leaders.

As the suffrage movement became more acceptable, Mrs. Mayo says, it became more middle class. The same thing is happening again.

Less than five years ago, delegates to a convention of the Women's Political Caucus were "far more strident" than the women in Houston this time, she says.

Until a few years ago, the movement was "an upper-class elite," she says. "What struck me at Houston was a feeling of how mainstream, middle-class American it has become."

Mrs. Mayo says women in the suffrage drive felt they were fighting not just for the vote, but for equality.

Then, around 1890, they made an historic compromise.

In effect they said to men, "Give us the vote, and we will accept it that we are in a different sphere and stay in our kitchens."

Not until the 1920s or the 1930s did women feel short-changed, recognizing that the vote had not rid them of second-class status in the eyes of the law.

Asked to single out one book women might read to catch up on their history, Mrs. Mayo named "Century of Struggle" by Eleanor Flexner.

Mrs. Mayo is a native of Washington, D.C. Both parents are lawyers.

She says she has felt the sting of discrimination. She wanted to work on Capitol Hill as a legislative researcher but, "They all said, 'We have too many qualified young men from Yale and Harvard and Berkeley and Chicago we wouldn't think of hiring a woman. But if you'd like to work as a secretary...'"

Mrs. Mayo says she did work for a time as a secretary — while undertaking "a systematic campaign to call all the departments of government that had anything to do with my field, history."

Then she had to take a pay cut to work for the museum.

France's Wine Sisterhood Is Growing

By RAFAELA SEPPALA
PARIS (UPI) — The Order of the Ladies of the Duchess Anne could have been a knitting society or a women's bridge club, but it would not have caused so much commotion.

The organization is France's, and possibly the world's, first wine sisterhood. It is named for a Breton queen of France.

It was organized this year by Odette Kahn, an energetic, attractive food and wine critic and magazine director. She decided one day she had had enough of being an "associate member" of hundreds of French all-male wine brotherhoods. She realized quite a few women in France knew at least as much about wines as men.

Mrs. Kahn has been involved with wine since she was a secretary for the late Madeleine Decure, founder of one of France's most respected culinary magazines "Cuisine et Vins de France" ("Cuisine and Wines of France").

With the late chef Curonsky, she was aware such a wine sisterhood would need the moral support of a similar male organization to be taken seriously.

Mrs. Kahn took her idea to an old friend, the Marquis Robert de Goulaire, head of Knights of the Bretons, a wine brotherhood of the Nantes region. He readily agreed to sponsor the sisterhood.

"Since for most women wine does not come alone," Mrs. Kahn said, "we decided to make the association of wines with French cooking one of the objectives of our sisterhood."

"Hundreds of regional wine brotherhoods in France work to promote only one kind of wine but we decided that our order should be unique and promote all the wines of France."

The statutes of the new order read:

"This association is aimed at enhancing the wines of France by their association with cooking, culinary arts, regional products and tourism."

"We will hold meetings twice a year without the costumes the male brotherhoods use at their meetings," Mrs. Kahn said in an interview in her souvenir and book-cluttered office. She is director of "Cuisine et Vins de France" and the specialized wine magazine, "Revue du Vin de France" ("French Wine Review").

The order's meetings will include wine tastings, testing of prospective members' knowledge of wines and discussions of French wines and ways to

The Elegant Spud

If potatoes make you think of boring, but necessary, side dishes—think again. This nutritious food, now in plentiful supply, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, can make a truly elegant addition to winter meals.

Planning to serve a standing rib roast? Why not put some whole, small potatoes in the bottom of the pan and let them cook in the drippings? This is also a good idea when roasting chicken or poultry. Are you making baked potatoes to go with tonight's steak or hamburgers? Why not try an interesting variation by cutting the potatoes in half when done, scooping out the pulp and sauteeing it in hot fat with some chopped onion? Put back into the shells, top with grated Cheddar cheese and bread crumbs, dot with butter, and run under the broiler for a few minutes until nicely browned. Your family will be impressed with your ingenuity.

Potato puffs are another attractive side dish to winter meals.

Potato Puffs

1-1/2 cups warm mashed potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup milk
1 tsp. grated onion
1/4 cup fine, dry breadcrumbs
Fat or oil for frying (about 1 quart)

Combine mashed potatoes with eggs, salt, onion, and milk and mix in the breadcrumbs. Shape the mixture into small balls and roll in remaining crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 380 degrees F. for about a minute each. Drain on paper towels. Serves 6.

When combined with cheese, potatoes can be used in main dishes that are perfect for lunches or light suppers. Serve the following dish with a green salad, French bread, and fresh fruit for dessert.

Mix breadcrumbs with melted fat and sprinkle over mixture. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven until lightly browned, 35 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings, 3/4 cup each.

White Sauce

The American Legion Auxiliary held its meeting Thursday night at the Post Home, Mrs. Sarah J. Ashton conducted the session.

Reports on Christmas cheer given to shut-ins, Gold Star mothers and veterans were reported. Mrs. Ashton thanked all members who helped with the auxiliary holiday party and those who served the luncheon to the Senior Citizens Club.

The Spring Conference will be held Feb. 17-19 at the Royal Villa, Raleigh. The Third District meeting will be March 5 in Farmville.

Mrs. Ashton reported the national president's project is the Jerry Lewis Fund.

Mrs. Lois Dail, department chaplain, held a memorial service in memory of Mrs. J. Sermons.

Dear Abby

Son Doesn't Want Mom To Remarry

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old widow. My husband died three years ago leaving me with a 13-year-old son I'll call Mike. I loved my husband very much, but he had an incurable illness and suffered terribly, so his death was a blessing.

Mike took his father's death hard, as they had always been great pals. I made Mike "man of the house." He escorted me in place of his father, and I let him handle the money when we went marketing. He took over surprisingly well.

About six months ago I met a 45-year-old widower, and we hit it off immediately. I never expected to fall in love again, but it happened. We are so right for each other! Now for my problem. He wants to marry me, but Mike doesn't want me to get married again—ever.

My son comes first, but I don't want to spend the rest of my life alone, Abby. Yet how can I marry again knowing it will break my son's heart?

AGONIZING

DEAR ABBY: Although it seemed right at the time, it was a mistake to cast your son in the role of a substitute husband.

Encourage Mike to make a social life of his own among his contemporaries. His possessiveness is understandably adolescent, but with maturity, he will be less hurt and more realistic. Marry the man.

DEAR ABBY: I load and unload freight and baggage for a major airline. We handle dogs and cats that are "kenneled" for transportation.

Most of these animals have never experienced anything like this before, and they are petrified from the noise of the screaming jets and from so much jostling around. Some animals try to chew through the kennels, and they end up with broken teeth and bleeding mouths. Some even get loose.

Please inform your readers that pills are available (from any vet) which, if given to the animal before the trip, will keep him calm and comfortable. I have seen so many frightened and hysterical animals in my work, it breaks my heart. If you love animals as I do, you'll print this.

CARES

DEAR CARES: Another tip for animal lovers. Never feed your pet before he boards an airliner. The combination of nervousness and motion sickness invariably causes him to regurgitate.

DEAR ABBY: My son recently married, and his wife insists on calling me "Grandma," which infuriates me no end! (I am a grandmother, but not hers.)

I do not wish to be called "Grandma" by a woman who could not possibly be my granddaughter. If she doesn't want to call me "Mother" or "Mom," as my other daughters-in-law do, she may call me by my first name or anything else she likes, but that "Grandma" stuff has got to go!

How do I get this simple message across to her?

NOT HER GRANDMA

DEAR NOT: First tell your son. And if that doesn't work, tell HER.

Getting married? No matter how little you have to spend or how unconventional your lifestyle, it can be lovely. Send for Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Enclose $1 and a long stamped (24 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

W.B. Martin Voted To Regional Office At National Conference

Dr. William B. Martin of the School of Education, East Carolina University, was elected regional vice-president of the National Association for Retarded Citizens at a national conference held in New Orleans.

As vice-president of the southeast region, Dr. Martin will head efforts in an 11 state area to create interest in unit development, fund raising, community service programs and education for the handicapped. He will also be active in helping to formulate federal and state legislation that pertains to retarded persons.

In addition to regional vice-presidents elected, Jim Wilson, a New York City publishing executive, was named national president of the association.

First Lady Mrs. Rosalynn Carter was on hand for the conference and kick-off ceremony, along with entertainer Tony Orlando, who this year serves as honorary national chairman.

In her address to the conference, Mrs. Carter noted that in 1950, when the association was being formed, "the common view about the mentally retarded was this: these are sad people, they cannot be educated." She then spoke of the tremendous progress made, both in treatment of retarded people and the attitude of the public about them.

Orlando noted that achievements realized have been made primarily because of "voluntary organizations. The great strength of our movement is you and the other 300,000 members."

Urge Califano Resign Office

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — An anti-smoking campaign being proposed by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano is drawing fire in Kentucky, the nation's leading producer of burley tobacco.

The Kentucky House passed a resolution Tuesday in Frankfort calling for Califano's resignation.

And in Lexington, site of the world's largest burley sales market, Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., told a news conference that Califano should direct the anti-smoking funds instead "into well-founded scientific research. The American people can make their own decisions."

The resolution calling for Califano's resignation was sponsored by state Rep. Buddy Adams, D-Bowling Green.

Adams said Kentucky's congressional delegation has failed to convince Califano of the problems his campaign could create for Kentucky farmers.

The resolution, passed 65 to 14, was sent to President Carter, members of the Kentucky congressional delegation and Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll. Califano was scheduled to kick off his campaign today, the 14th anniversary of the Surgeon General's report on smoking and health.

Ford said Califano "made a promise to be fair when I and other tobacco state members of Congress discussed this subject with him on Dec. 19."

However, the senator said, "I have a feeling that any fairness will be evident only in the eyes of the beholder, instead of on the firm ground of objectivity."

"Not a day has gone by since the Surgeon General's report...that some effort hasn't been made by one source or another to destroy the tobacco industry," he said.

"The Congress, on many occasions, has examined the state of our actual scientific knowledge of the effects of smoking on health."

"Fortunately," Ford said, "on these occasions, Congress approached the matter without presumptions, weighing the judgment of those opposed to tobacco along with those who failed to find sufficient evidence in the indictment to warrant conviction."

"I will be the first to admit that serious questions persist about tobacco," he said. "I will also be the first to say that our state has made the proper, logical response to finding answers to the questions about this crop, which is so very important to Kentucky's agricultural well-being."

Ford cited the Tobacco Research Institute, funded by a special cigarette tax, which has spent $18.5 million on tobacco research since it was founded in 1972.

Trailer Fire Killed Man

GARNER, N.C. (AP) — A man burned to death in his house trailer Tuesday after holding sheriff's deputies at bay for two days because they were trying to serve him with commitment papers for a mental hospital.

Authorities believed the fire was started by tear gas canisters that were being used in an attempt to flush the man out of the house.

He was identified as James F. Godsey, 63, of the Rockdale Trailer Park near Garner.

Godsey had locked himself into the trailer on Monday when deputies came to get him. On Tuesday he fired shots from his hiding place, deputies said, and they responded with between 30 and 35 tear gas rounds.

Wake County Chief Deputy L.W. Kelly said deputies were unable to communicate with him, even though they had a psychiatrist and a physician on the scene.

Kelly said that when Godsey shot at the passing car it was decided something must be done.

Deputies were still shooting tear gas rounds into the trailer about 6 p.m. when a fire started in the trailer and flames began shooting out the window.

Shots could still be heard coming from the trailer. The Garner Volunteer Fire Department had been standing by and began fighting the blaze, but the fire swept quickly through the trailer.

Firemen and deputies found Godsey lying dead in a bathtub when they got inside.

Kelly said it was presumed the tear gas canisters started the fire.

A Key Service For Everyone

Among the services which the Greenville Police Department offers is a recent one to help local people recover lost keys.

Crime Prevention Officer Doug Jackson last week announced that key tags will be offered to the public without charge.

Anyone may pick up a tag and fill out a registration tag which will be kept on file at the police department.

The metal tag is placed on the key chain or case. If the keys are lost the tag asks the finder to drop the keys in any mail box.

Once the keys are returned by the Postal Service to the Police Department a number on the tag will be compared with the card on file and the key owner located.

There is no charge for the service and the police department will even pay the postage for tags which are returned to it.

The police do more than just issue traffic citations and chase robbers, as the key registration program indicates.

A Gap If Radio City Music Hall Goes

Those of us who love to visit New York but wouldn't want to live there were shocked by the news that Radio City Music Hall is about to be closed and turned into a shopping malls or tennis courts:

Since the Radio City Music Hall opened in 1932 a tripp to New York was certain to include a visit there for a family type film and the Rockettes.

Closing down the entertainment center is akin to tearing down the statue of liberty.

They might as well close down New York.

THIS AFTERNOON N.C. Farmland Is Prime

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — A motorist driving through North Carolina on Interstate-95 has traveled down the middle of a belt of prime farmland rivaling any in the nation.

A statewide study of farmland in the state, labelling the prime areas, shows that eastern North Carolina dominates.

More specifically, a belt that runs generally from Northampton County on the Virginia line at Roanoke Rapids southwestward to Robeson County on the South Carolina line at Lumberton, is considered the state's greatest concentration of prime farmland.

Along that corridor are Rocky Mount, Wilson, Smithfield, Goldsboro, Clinton, and Fayetteville.

"This survey shows that we have a lot of good agricultural land in North Carolina, including some that is the equal of any in the country," says Soil Scientist Hubert Byrd.

Catalog

Byrd is involved in the statewide farmland mapping program now underway by the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A preliminary report from a general statewide map indicates that a great quantity of the prime farmland is in eastern counties where greater than 50 per cent of the county land area is comprised of agricultural acreage.

Most of the rest of the state has less than 50 per cent prime farmland, while a few areas obviously have very little; especially the heavily urbanized areas, and the mountainous sections where parkland or governmental forests make up the bulk of county land uses.

Detailed maps showing the prime and locally important farmlands have already been prepared for three counties: Alleghany, Transylvania, and New Hanover. The first two are mountainous; the latter on the coast.

Maps are now being prepared for Duplin, Wayne, and Pitt counties; all of which are counties where agriculture plays a dominant role in the economy.

The next counties to have maps prepared will probably be Wake, Durham, and Orange, as well as several others which have completed the soil surveys. As other soil surveys move ahead in North Carolina, additional maps of prime farmland will be prepared.

The statewide progressive soil survey is a key tool of the prime farmland inventory. That project is also underway, with 23 countywide surveys complete, and 28 now being made.

The soil mapping will take several years, as will the cataloging of prime farmlands. The soil survey program has been speeded up by the addition of a dozen new soil scientists employed with state funds. The General Assembly provided $400,000 for this purpose.

The soil maps and more particularly the prime farmlands maps will become increasingly useful to those interested in rural land, whether owners, farmers, future developers, land use planners, or tax officials.

Soil Conservation Officials make it clear that the maps will be for information only; land use decisions will be made by local people. The maps will, however, influence future decisions as the state moves closer to land use planning mechanisms.

By ART BUCHWALD Where Do Dollars Fall?

WASHINGTON — Every time you pick up the newspapers these days you read that the Dollar is falling. Most people, except those in financial circles, are not paying any attention to this. The main reason is they don't understand it.

Perhaps I should explain it in a question and answer format.

Q—Where does the Dollar go when it falls?
A—It falls below the West German Mark, the Swiss Franc and Japanese Yen.

Q—Why is it falling?
A—Because money speculators in London, Zurich and Frankfurt are pushing it down.

Q—Is there anything worse than the Dollar falling?
A—Yes. It could be plunging or sinking.

Q—Why is the Dollar falling at the present time?
A—Because the money speculators are worried about it.

Q—Why are they worried about it?
A—Because the United States has a huge trade deficit, no energy policy, and

ART BUCHWALD

Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve, just lost his job.

Q—Why would Arthur Burns losing his job make the Dollar fall?
A—Because nobody knows what his replacement, G. William Miller, will do when he becomes head of the Fed.

Q—What should he do?
A—Rescue the Dollar and keep it afloat.

Q—Why can't we make a Dollar that won't fall?
A—We could, but the cost could bankrupt us.

Q—How far will the Dollar fall?
A—Until it bottoms out.

Q—Then what will happen?
A—It will start rising again, particularly if the West Germans and Japanese dredge it up.

Q—Why would they want to do that?
A—The lower the Dollar falls the harder it is for them to sell their goods in the United States, and the easier it is for the United States to sell their goods in the rest of the world. A strong currency has a lot of weaknesses.

Q—Where does the British

Pound stand in all this?
A—The British Pound is rising while the Dollar is falling.

Q—How do you explain that?
A—The British have oil in the North Sea.

Q—So?
A—It's easier to float a Treaty Affects Baker

By BILL RAWLINS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker may find a two-man race for the Republican nomination for governor in his home state affecting his stand on the Panama Canal treaties.

Baker, R-Tenn., is a likely candidate for president in 1980, but this year he faces a re-election bid in a state where, as he admits, sentiment is overwhelmingly against the treaties as signed by President Carter.

Meanwhile the 1978 Republican gubernatorial primary lines up a former Baker aide against a Memphis legislator who is marshalling the forces that backed Ronald Reagan's presidential bid two years ago.

State Rep. Harold Sterling, R-Memphis, who claims the support of the still-organized Tennessee Reagan supporters, said Tuesday the treaty could play a role in his campaign for governor. Reagan opposes giving up any U.S. rights to the canal.

Sterling plans to oppose Nashville lawyer Lamar Alexander, who worked as an aide to Baker and carried the GOP colors to defeat in the 1974 governor's race.

Baker says he has "decided not to decide" on the treaty until it comes up in the Senate this year. But the senator flew to Panama last week and told Gen. Omar Torrijos and other top American leaders the Senate will not ratify the treaties unless they are changed.

Sterling, 38, a Memphis real estate man, was asked if the canal treaty could become an issue in his campaign for governor. He said, "I think it might be a factor. There are a lot of national issues that get involved in a state campaign."

At the same time, Sterling discounted any backlash on Baker's own Tennessee bid for re-election — he has no Republican opposition and no major Democratic opposition — and Baker's 1980 presidential

To the editor:

I am a prospective student at ECU and I'm confined to a wheelchair. I'm writing to express my views concerning the new bleachers being built at Ficklen Stadium.

I attended one of the ECU football games this past season. I enjoyed the game, except I had trouble seeing it. After arriving at the game, my friends had to sit in the stands and I was guided to the far end of the field to a place for "us people in wheelchairs." I think that everyone would agree that the two most important things at a ballgame are to be able to see it and to be with friends. I am not trying to write a sob story, but I am saying that I have the right to sit in the stands with my friends and enjoy the game.

While we are in the process of building new stands, why not fix a small ramp that would make the first level of the bleachers available to wheelchairs? This may seem like a petty complaint, but I can assure you that every time steps are taken to help people with physical impairments fit in, there is no way to measure how important it is to them.

THE INSIDE REPORT Korea Deal Offers Hope

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite the cries of outrage from famed investigator, Leon Jaworski, the deal to return here the indicted Tongson Park is the last best hope to prevent the Korean scandal from splitting the U.S. and South Korea, with shattering implications in the Far East.

The deal struck after months of hard negotiating by the Justice Department returns Park as a prosecution witness, not only with immunity from prosecution himself but with no obligation to testify before Congress. That has led Jaworski to condemn the Carter administration for selling out congressional interests.

However, the Justice Department has informed Jaworski, special counsel for the House investigating committee, there is nothing in the deal that bars Park from testifying on Capitol Hill. Indeed, Park's American lawyer has hinted that is precisely what will happen.

This arrangement is admittedly imperfect. But the alternative would be probable congressional passage of an amendment to the defense appropriations bill cutting off all U.S. funds for South Korea. Added to President Carter's decision to pull U.S. ground troops from South Korea, this would remove effective barriers to invasion from Communist North Korea and split two old allies.

But Jaworski, a national hero as Watergate special prosecutor, is not particularly interested in global politics. Asked by a member of Congress for an opinion, he has declared that an amendment barring Korean aid, similar to the Vietnam war's Cambodian-aid ban, is strictly legal and would be upheld in the courts.

Jaworski's fury at last week's announcement of the U.S.-Korean bargain on Tongson Park contrasted sharply with his opposite number: Milton Kramer, special Korea-scandal counsel for the Senate Ethics Committee. Kramer termed the arrangement "far from ideal" but praised the Justice Department for having "protected our interests" — that is, the congressional interest. Similarly, the Senate

Says Planning Limits Future

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — What this country needs said Edward David, is men of vision — dedicated, imaginative, innovative people who are willing to risk fortune and personal well-being to achieve a goal.

What this country is getting, he said, is regulation, planning, centralization. Bland, "no conflict" people are chosen over more controversial, innovative people. Technology is thwarted.

Said David: "It is becoming more difficult to put knowledgeable, dedicated people into critical slots, particularly in government." The absence of conflicts, he said, is deemed more important than ability.

David, former science adviser to President Nixon and now president of Exxon Research and Engineering Co., is one of a growing fraternity who fear the misuse and distrust of technology is endangering our future.

Many people have an unwarranted fear of technology as costly and dangerous, said David. Governmental decisions involving it often are made by non-technologists. Business sometimes overmanages it.

The dangers of technology are exaggerated, said David. "The only proven danger from a microwave oven is heat," he insists. An automobile driver incurs more risk than a person living near a nuclear power plant, he argues.

And costly? Isn't it through technology that we lower production costs? Hospital use of the C.T. scanner has been limited as too costly. Says David: If we permitted mass production the cost would dive.

In government, said David, the conflict-of-interest syndrome is like a disease, often discrediting or ruling out the most qualified and experienced people.

The nation seems to be losing its taste for excellence and dedication," he wrote recently. "We are opting for perhaps of the same genre. An early cash flow analysis, for example, can be deadly to a creative process whose payoff, if any, is far in the future.

Attempts to plan the root stages of the innovative process, David believes, "can destroy the very ingenuity they seek to manage."

The roots of David's thinking — he has a doctorate from MIT — are fed by practicality and philosophy. He believes the country's future depends on people of vision and creativity. He believes freedom is involved also.

The climate that promotes innovative change, that seeks out new solutions to old problems and which establishes new markets, demands that people be given free choice, he believes.

He scorns as "central to the problem rather than the cure" the notion that the citizenry must be protected against itself. "Citizens are best able to protect themselves," he said with finality.

LIFE A SACRED TRUST

The word "stewardship" is familiar to all church members. It means holding all that we have as a trust to be administered according to God's will and His glory.

The derivation of the word "stewardship" is interesting. In ancient Britain a nobleman's wealth usually consisted of livestock, especially swine. The man who kept the sty, therefore, was an important personage. He was called the sty-ward. He looked after this part of the lord's property and was expected to do so to the lord's benefit.

The idea of stewardship implies that by being born into the world we have committed to us by God the materials out of which we are to make our lives happy, meaningful, and helpful. Stewardship includes not only money, health, and a favorable environment, but also time, influence, personality, position, energy. If we hold all these in trust for a life lived under the hand of God, we live happily and in great contentment.

Sterling is helping arrange a visit to Nashville on Monday by a Washington "truth squad" opposing the canal treaties. Sterling was a member of the 1976 Republican platform committee that drafted an anti-canal plank. He was also Reagan's presidential primary campaign manager in Tennessee, while Baker managed the primary campaign of former President Gerald Ford. The primary gave Reagan won one more Tennessee delegate than Ford, although Ford edged Reagan in the popular vote. One of the members of the "truth squad" coming here Monday will be Sen. Only Blank Page Left On Marriage Register

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Only a blank spot remains where there once was a record showing that a marriage license was issued to Frania Tye Lee and a man named Richard Hunt, a court archives expert testified Tuesday.

Mrs. Lee contends that "Richard" actually was oil billionaire H. L. Hunt and that he was bigamously married to her. She now is in federal court trying to get a piece of the late billionaire's estate.

Bruce A. Singleton, assistant director of archives for the clerk of court's office in Hillsborough, Fla., testified that someone apparently cut a page out of a courthouse record book. The page, he said, contained an entry showing that the marriage license was issued.

But Singleton said it did not show that a marriage actually took place and was, in fact, stamped with the word "void." He said that attorneys for both sides in the dispute have copies of the page which disappeared in late 1975 or early 1976.

Mrs. Lee, who is 73 and lives in Atlanta, Ga., contends that she married Hunt in Florida in 1925 but discovered in 1934 that he also was married to another woman. She wants half of the money Hunt made between 1924 and 1934 plus half of the fruits that have subsequently sprung from those riches.

She claims that H.L. Hunt was the father of her four children.

One of those children, Hugh Lee Hunt, 43, of Alexandria, Va., testified Tuesday. He told the court that when he was a teen-ager his mother told him to "respect and honor Hunt as my father and he would take care of us."

Hugh Hunt testified that his mother became upset in 1974 after reading a book that Haroldson Lafayette Hunt, one of the world's richest men, had written about his early life.

"He was never supposed to deny our family existed," he said.

At issue in the fight are the technicalities of whether H.L. Hunt and Frania Tye were legally married, since Hunt already had a wife in 1925, and whether Frania relinquished any claim on the Hunt estate by signing a financial settlement in 1942 that gave her $100,000 and $2,000 a month.

There was no doubt H. L. Hunt regarded himself as the father of Frania's four children.

Ray Lee Hunt, Dallas, president of Hunt Oil Co. and executor of the estate, testified that he and others in Hunt's public family always accepted as half brothers and sisters the four second family children: Hugh, Haroldina, Howard and Helen.

Hunt's will bestowed upon each of his children one-fourteenth of his Louisiana estate.

France's Wine...

Foreign chapters will be known as "embassies." So far the order has about 100 members. They include Mado Point, wife and successor of the late French master chef Fernand Point; Gisele Berger, president of the newly founded Association of Women Chefs and Restaurant-Owners; and several women winegrowers and wine dealers.

Mrs. Kahn said creation of the order prompted a great deal of interest in the United States and Belgium. "Embassies" are about to be created in the latter country.

The order has been received enthusiastically by women, but many French male food and wine critics have scoffed at the idea.

Mrs. Kahn good-humoredly dismisses critics with a wave of her manicured hand:

"Nothing is more fascinating than the world of wine. Wine is a work of art, like a Monet painting."

Lawyers for the Hunt estate contend that Frania and H.L. Hunt settled their marriage dispute with a financial agreement.

A New Orleans woman, Martha Kreeger, testifying by deposition because she was too ill to attend the trial, said she and Frania were friends and Hunt offered her $10,000 to use her influence to get Frania to accept a settlement.

Mrs. Kreeger said she told Hunt she understood he had bought off most of Frania's friends, "but my friendship is not for sale."

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Kreeger said she believed that Frania did not file suit earlier because she was still in love with Hunt.

The trial is expected to last a week or more.

Card Is 40 Years Late

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — When a Christmas card addressed to "Mrs. S. Cousins" finally got here, it was late — not two weeks late, but 40 years and two weeks late. And Mrs. Cousins is nowhere to be found.

Canada Post delivered the card last Thursday. It was mailed Dec. 22, 1937, or 14,610 days earlier.

It was addressed to Mrs. Cousins at 3225 West 12th, and was mailed with a one-cent King George V stamp. It was clearly postmarked Vancouver, 11 p.m. Dec. 22, 1937. It was signed, "The Hartwells."

John Johnson, now the owner of the house on West 12th Street, said he called the city archives and found that Mrs. Cousins did live there at the time the card was sent.

"We bought the house 28 years ago, but it certainly wasn't from Mrs. Cousins, although I do recall mention of her name," he said. "If she or any members of her family come forward, I will be delighted to deliver the card."

Post office spokeswoman Betty Amos said, "We do get some strange ones from time to time."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today from the Gulf to the Midwest where the precipitation will change to snow extending into the northern Plains. Rain is also forecast for most of the Pacific coast. Temperatures will be cold over most of the nation. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
North Carolina's weather today was clear, crisp and cold and while main highways were passable in the mountains, most still were ice-covered and slippery. A travelers advisory remained in effect throughout the mountains.

Strong winds continued through the night in the mountains, adding to the bitter chill of near-zero temperatures, but winds abated over most of the state. On the coast, seas were running high and a small craft advisory continued in effect for coastal waters and sounds.

Temperatures this morning dipped to 4 degrees above zero at Asheville and Greensboro, and 7 at Hickory. Elsewhere, lows included Raleigh 10, Hamlet 11, Fayetteville 12, Rocky Mount 13, Charlotte 14, Elizabeth City 15, and Wilmington 17.

Around the state Tuesday temperatures generally remained below freezing. Asheville got no warmer than 17 degrees while elsewhere high readings for the day were no higher than the 20s and low 30s. Today's prospect was for sunny but very cold with the mercury reaching no higher than the teens and low 20s in the northwest mountains and ranging to the mid and upper 30s along the coast.

The forecast for Thursday calls for partly cloudy in the east and increasing cloudiness in the west with a chance of snow or sleet in the mountains by late afternoon. High temperatures will be in the 30s west and 40s east.

There's a chance of rain along the coast and rain or snow inland Friday, ending Saturday and becoming fair Sunday. Temperatures are expected to continue below normal through the weekend.

Cite 'Abuses Of Power' In FBI

By JAMES H. RUBIN, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — What the Justice Department called "abuses of power and position" by FBI officials under J. Edgar Hoover's administration will go unprosecuted because the cases are too old, the department says.

"There definitely would have been prosecutions if the statute of limitations hadn't run," said Michael E. Shaheen Jr., head of the department's Office of Professional Responsibility. In a report released Tuesday, the department described Hoover as a man who routinely accepted lavish gifts and extensive services from subordinates.

The report also described misuses of FBI funds by the former director and his top aides.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell said the abuses, uncovered in the investigation begun more than two years ago, "have cast a shadow over a great institution and over those of its officials who engaged in no wrongdoing whatsoever."

And he warned that while it may be too late to prosecute any of the wrongdoers, such misconduct would not be tolerated again.

Hoover, who died in 1972 at age 77, was accused of accepting goods and services that ranged from a front porch and a fish pond at his home in Northwest Washington to repairs to his stereo equipment and free tax advice from an FBI accountant.

"FBI employees called upon to perform these services did not think them proper, but felt compelled to follow orders for fear of losing their jobs or of arbitrary transfers or promotion delays," the report said.

One FBI agent, who asked not to be identified, said the Justice Department report came as no surprise.

"We used to hear stories like that," he said. "I was not that shocked (although) I'm not saying I would condone it."

The only FBI official to be prosecuted in connection with the investigation was John P. Dunphy, a former FBI section chief who was fined $500 and placed on probation in 1976 after he admitted taking $100 worth of lumber from the FBI to build a bird house.

The allegations against Hoover and his subordinates are not new. But the report marks the first time the Justice Department has confirmed them and compiled them in one document.

The investigation was begun in 1975 by former Attorney General Edward H. Levi, who was dissatisfied with an earlier FBI probe into allegations first made by the House Select Committee on Intelligence.

The report said Hoover's "home appliances, air conditioners, stereo equipment, tape recorders, television sets and electric wiring were serviced and repaired" by FBI engineers.

The bureau's workers "serviced his lawn mower and snowblower, maintained his yard, replaced sod twice a year, installed artificial turf and planted and moved shrubbery."

"Clocks were reset, metal polished, wallpaper retouched, firewood provided and furniture rearranged. Employees were on call night and day for this work."

Youth Jobs Funds Freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is releasing $109 million for a program that will guarantee jobs to disadvantaged teenagers who need them to stay in school and to dropouts who want to return.

The pilot grants go to 17 sponsors of job programs in cities and counties and in a statewide program in Mississippi. The areas range from a Brooklyn, N.Y., neighborhood to Hillsboro County, N.H.

Labor Department spokesman Jack Hashian said that other grants will run programs in Baltimore, Boston, Detroit, Cincinnati, Denver and Seattle.

The remainder of the list and the amount of each grant was not immediately available.

Hashian said the seven largest grants totaled between $10 million and $23 million each, while 10 smaller grants range from $750,000 to $1.5 million each.

The 16-to 19-year-old youths will receive government and private sector jobs which can be performed after school or during school hours in a cooperative arrangement. The jobs will continue in the summer, Hashian said.

Minor Damages In Collision

Cars driven by James D. Carr of Bethel and Charles Ray Hathaway of 101 South Bubba Dr. collided about 10:40 a.m. yesterday on Memorial Drive, 500 feet North of the Fairlane Drive intersection, according to Greenville Police.

Investigators estimated damage from the mishap at $100 to the Carr auto and $350 to the Hathaway vehicle.

Martin Board Adopts Insulation Ordinance

WILLIAMSTON — An insulation ordinance for contractors was adopted Monday by members of the Martin County Board of Commissioners at the board's January meeting.

Under the terms of the ordinance, based on state guidelines, all contractors not presently licensed to install insulation in new structures must immediately apply for a license. Applications will be processed through police and sheriff's offices, then returned to commissioners for final action on approving issuance of a license. Each applicant must also post a $1,000 bond or deposit that amount in an account. Fees established are $25 for a new license, with a $10 fee each year thereafter for renewal; and a $20 fee for an insulation permit for each structure built.

A request by Robersonville Mayor J. R. Crandell for the county to provide $50,000 toward the cost of constructing a sewer outfall line from Robersonville into the adjoining county area was not acted on, but was turned over to the county attorney to determine if the county can legally assist in the project. The line, estimated to cost $1.2 million, has tentative grant funding for all costs except $150,000. The town of Robersonville has agreed to put up $50,000 and is hopeful of receiving $25,000 from two manufacturing firms outside the city limits.

Commissioners approved county funds for the purpose of hiring an additional full time member for the county rescue squad, contingent on the town of Williamston providing funds to also hire an additional member. The Williamston Town Board gave approval to their hiring of a member, so that the action of the two boards now boosts the total of full time rescue squad members to four from the previous two full time members.

In another discussion on plans for use of the gym building at the former Oak City School, County Attorney William R. Peel and Martin County Economic Development Commission chairman Percy Price informed the board that the Plymouth Garment Company had expressed an interest in utilizing the building. Commissioners agreed on use of the building for that purpose provided the town of Oak City held a public hearing and if no objections were registered, the lease could be made with all rental funds, above administrative costs, to be returned to the county to be applied to capital improvement funds for county school property.

Acting on a request from the County Board of Education for $20,881 to meet additional costs for work on the athletic facility at Roanoke High School, commissioners directed that the finance officer of the education board make an effort to find that amount in some surplus fund to transfer to provide funds for the additional cost without a new county appropriation.

A motion was approved for a request to have two dirt roads in the Robersonville area paved. These are State Roads 1310 and 1312.

Wayne Peel, co-chairman of the Child Care Advocate Council, gave commissioners a status report on plans to spend $6,000 in available funds for child work for children in the ten to 17-year old age bracket. The funds must be obligated prior to July 1.

Three members were reappointed to the Mid-East Commission — William A. Cherry, Doris Wallace and Jack Runion. In a report from tax collector Judy Critcher, it was noted that to date approximately 80 per cent of the 1977 tax levy has been collected, for a total of $2,818,000.

Allsbrook said that he is interested in legislation that will "not only maintain but improve the strength of our system of better physical education in all of the schools of the state."

The incumbent also recalled his efforts to "accomplish the maximum in the field of improvement of the health, welfare and general economic advancement of our state employees, teachers and others serving in the field of education, while at the same time having a realistic budget for the state."

He said that as chairman of the Senate Judiciary I Committee, he intends to "work hard for the continuance of the improvement of our system of criminal justice..."

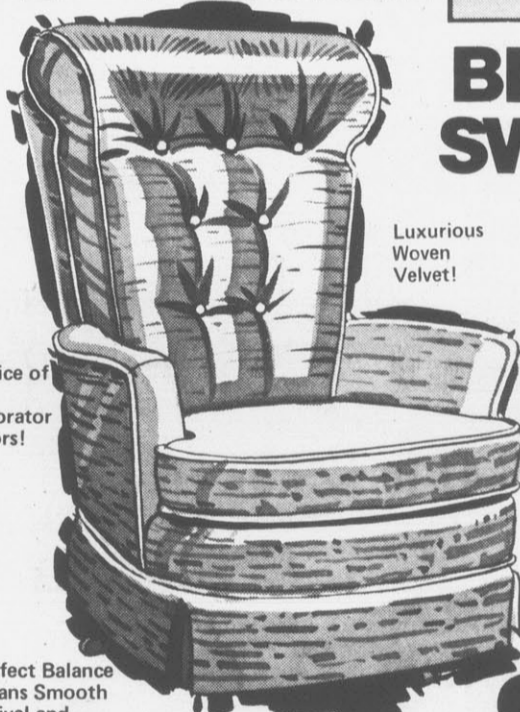

A native of Roanoke Rapids, Allsbrook obtained his academic and legal training from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he served as president of the student body his senior year.

He served on the Roanoke Rapids School Board for ten years and also served one term as a city commissioner. He is a Baptist, Mason and Kiwanian.

In addition to his chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary I Committee, he is a member of the Appropriations, Criminal Justice and Corrections, Human Resources, Public Utilities and Energy, and Veterans and Military Affairs committees.

Ice Fog Of Alaska Said Enveloping

By WARD SIMS
Associated Press Writer
FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — As the mantle of gray embraced Fairbanks, Police Chief Richard Wolfe shook his head and said, "You almost have to experience it to get a full understanding of it."

The deep cold of an Interior Alaska winter means it is time again for ice fog, a phenomenon of extremely low temperatures which leaves pedestrians and motorists groping their way along.

It reduces the glare of an auto headlamp to a pinhead of light at 50 feet; it surrounds everyone in a cloak of anonymity; it blots out homes and buildings.

Ice fog usually doesn't manifest itself until the temperature drops to about 35 degrees below zero. The longer the deep cold remains, the heavier is the buildup of ice fog.

Ice fog is frozen water vapor. Sometimes the ice crystals form around particulates from combustion, such as those in auto engine exhaust fumes.

Heating plant cooling ponds, auto exhaust, air leaks from heated buildings, even the breath of humans and animals, all contribute to the formation of ice fog.

"Low temperature plays an important role by adversely reducing the amount of water which air can hold before condensation occurs," says Carl Benson of the University of Alaska's Geophysical Institute.

Benson, a professor of geophysics and a recognized authority on ice fog, says air at 77 degrees can hold 255 times more water vapor at saturation than air at 45 degrees below zero.

Because Fairbanks is nestled on three sides by mountains, the air is extremely stable during the winter months, and this contributes to the problem. There is no movement of air to take the ice fog away.

It remains until the temperature goes up.

Benson and other researchers at the university say the problem is not entirely unique to Fairbanks, but they say that the array of contributing factors here make the city a perfect laboratory for study of the problem.

Ice fog means busy days for Wolfe's policemen.

He estimates that when the ice fog is heavy, and that means many, many days during the deep winter months of December and January, the accident rate zooms up.

"We find that accidents increase sharply with ice fog, absolutely," Wolfe said. "Sometimes they double, triple and quadruple. And the longer it's here, the more accidents there are."

He estimated that on a bad day the number of accidents might go as high as 80 for this city of some 45,000, compared with a half-dozen or so on a winter day clear of ice fog.

"It's difficult to draw a word picture that really sets out the whole limits of the thing," Wolfe says of ice fog. "It's kind of an enveloping type of thing."

"I've lived here some 22 or 23 years, and I've been here in the department 17, and I still find myself at a loss when I try to describe it to someone."

Big Number May Leave House Seats

By GENE BERNHARDT WASHINGTON (UPI) — A record number of congressional members may leave their posts by next January, prompted by such reasons as ill health, the lure of other office, tired blood or the possibility of a one-time pension break.

As of Saturday, 29 members of the House have announced either retirement or plans to run for other office while eight Senators will call it quits.

Two of the House members, Democrats Edward Koch and Herman Badillo, have already left. Koch became mayor of New York and Badillo is his deputy for management.

Of the eight Senators on the retirement list, Kaneaster Hodges, D-Ark., must, under Arkansas law, give up the seat he filled on a temporary basis with the death of Sen. John McClellan last year.

The total of 37 members of Congress quitting their present jobs compares with the record 58 who retired or took other office in 1976. An estimated 25 to 30 of those had announced their plans by this time in that year, indicating the final total before this year's November general elections may become the new standard.

The first week alone of the new year saw four veteran members announce they would not stand for re-election to the House. Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., with 13 terms, and B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., with 12 terms, will retire and Philip Ruppe, R-Mich., will quit to run for the Senate and Charles Thone, R-Neb., will run for governor.

Terms for House members and those Senators up for election this year will officially expire at noon, Jan. 3, 1979.

The heaviest impact so far is in Texas where six incumbent House members, all Democrats, will not be up for re-election, and in California where four sitting House members will retire.

Veteran Texans George Mahon, dean of the House serving his 44th year, and W.R. "Bob" Poage, with 42 years, Olin Teague with 34 years, Omar Burleson with 32 years and Barbara Jordan with only six years are retiring. Rep. Robert Krueger, Democrat, is running for the Senate.

In addition to Moss and Sisk, other Californians retiring are Republicans Del Clawson and Charles Wiggins.

Some of the older members have cited the heavy increase in the workload as a reason for retirement but there is some thought that the possibility of a one-time pension break is prompting thoughts of quitting.

The House last year passed a provision that allows members retiring in this Congress only to use their current annual salary as the base for determining their pension. That measure is pending in the Senate.

Pensions now are based on the average of the three highest years salary. The current $57,500 a year pay has been in effect less than a year and the pension base would have to be figured from the average of that total and the two previous years pay level of $44,600.

Moss was the only member so far to come near mentioning his health as a condition, stating that he is still recovering from injuries suffered in an April 1977, auto accident.

Teague did not mention it but a portion of one leg was amputated last year because of complications from a lingering World War II wound, and Poage underwent major abdominal surgery last year.

Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., former GOP leader in that body, is among the retirees but is under heavy pressure from his party at the state and national level to change his mind and run again.

Other Senators, in addition to Griffin and Hodges, retiring after this Congress are Carl Curtis, R-Neb.; James Abourezk, D-S.D.; William Scott, R-Va.; Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.; Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo.; and James Pearson, R-Kan.

Governor Optimistic Over N.C. Economic Outlook

McAlister Says 'True' Purpose Still Hidden

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer

The United States government has been hiding the true purpose of the neutron bomb and other nuclear bombs from the American people, according to Elizabeth McAlister, a former Catholic nun who is active in the peace movement.

McAlister, who demonstrated against the Vietnam war, spoke to a crowd of approximately 50 persons in Mendenhall Student Union last night.

"There is a difference between public policy and operative policy," the soft-spoken woman told the audience.

She explained that the "public policy" that government has adhered to is one of "deterrence." The American people have been told and are still being told that nuclear weapons are produced in this country only as a means of deterring war and as a means of protection in case of attack by another country.

McAlister noted that, in reality, the "operative policy" of the government has always been one of attempting to win in the face of a nuclear war. She called this policy a "win policy" and added that no one could actually "win" if such a disaster took place.

"There has never been a weapon created in the history of this country that has not been used," she said.

"Our leaders tell us that our resources and safety depend on our willingness to destroy. There is no hope that the nuclear threat can be eliminated as long as the military is in charge."

McAlister, who told the audience that she has demonstrated at President Carter's church in Washington every Sunday in protest of the neutron bomb, said that the individual's efforts to sustain peace are comparable to a "voyage."

She said that each person must ask himself the following questions: "What has the use of the bomb done to the spirit of our people?" "What does it mean to destroy a world?"

"Life is precarious and the only way we can live in it is to make every effort to save it," she added.

McAlister added that pessimism is one of the most serious problems that people encounter when trying to fight for peace. The change that must take place will only take place over the decades, not immediately, and people must have patience.

She added that some hope lies in the nuclear test ban treaties, but that even those are outdated. "The real seeds of hope are in faith, love, and compassion."

ELIZABETH MCALISTER

The wife of former anti-war activist and former priest Phillip Berrigan, McAlister noted that the threat of a nuclear holocaust was predicted several decades ago.

"On April 25, 1945, Secretary of War Henry Stimson said that the U.S. in four months will have the most terrible bomb in all history. They will have a monopoly on it for a time," he noted.

Stimson, in his statement, said that future development of nuclear weapons would lead to wide-spread destruction. "The future may see the time where it will be used with devastating power against some unsuspecting group," said the Secretary of War.

McAlister said that the Committee for Economic Development in September of 1976 published a paper on the "inevitable and suicidal" predictions.

The article said that by the year 2000 A.D. approximately 100 countries will possess nuclear weapons, that the "total plutonium produced as a by-product will be equal to that of one million atom bombs," and that there are at present seven breeder reactors in operation. "Three of these reactors are in the United States, with one each in France, China, and England."

Time magazine said in its April 12, 1976 edition that Israel had 13 bombs stored and ready for use.

"The possibility of nuclear war in the Middle East is very, very strong," said McAlister.

She added that her worst fear is the threat that a small country, such as Israel, might be more apt to use nuclear weapons than a larger country, such as the United States and the U.S.S.R.

A small country could find itself threatened by a larger power than itself and feel that it has no choice but to use a nuclear bomb. She added that the fall-out from such a war in the Middle East would greatly affect the people of the United States.

"It is important that we move beyond negotiations."

McAlister said it is "naive" to assume that the government is doing what is best for the people despite "nationalistic myths."

"We are responsible for the actions of our government. We are responsible every time we pay our taxes."

She added that President Nixon was ready to use nuclear weapons in Vietnam in November of 1969 but did not do so because there were half a million demonstrators fighting against such action in Washington at the time.

"We are working against ideas that for 32 years have kept us from thinking that the threat of nuclear war was there. Together we can be a prophetic voice."

"If the United States continues its present course in the arms race, nuclear war is inevitable before the turn of the century."

McAlister is associated with the Jonah House Community in Baltimore and is a leader of the Atlantic Peace Community, an organization devoted to peaceful demonstrations.

She and her husband have two children.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Industries should like calling North Carolina home just as much as the folks who live here, say state officials and business leaders attending an economic conference here.

And Gov. Jim Hunt says his administration is pushing to get the state a new industrial resident.

"We're trying very hard to get the Philip Morris plant here and I'm very hopeful about that," Hunt said Tuesday, as the three-day Governor's Conference on Balanced Growth and Economic Development hit its midway point.

He was referring to consideration by Philip Morris Inc. of a proposed $100 million cigarette factory in Cabarrus County. Hunt said he met briefly Tuesday with Philip Morris officials, who were visiting Concord, but he gave no indication what was discussed in the meeting.

Hunt's optimism extended to other facets of the state's economy, and the optimism was generally shared by speakers and state officials at the conference.

Hunt took the opportunity to announce that North Carolina set a record for industrial growth last year, drawing $1.45 billion in new plant investments. That was up 44 percent from the previous year.

The state also moved up from 41st to 38th nationally in per capita income, while unemployment dropped from 7 percent to 5.4 percent, Hunt said.

The conference, aimed at fitting together a picture of the state's economy and developing plans for the future, heard from business leaders and economists Tuesday, as well as spokesmen for the state's three major regions.

In a speech Tuesday night,

R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc. president J. Paul Sticht said successful businesses in North Carolina will draw new firms into the state.

"Our first objective is to be successful, profit-making businesses because businessmen in other areas, looking to relocate, are attracted to success," Sticht said.

But he, along with other speakers, cautioned that growth must be selective, not random and without restriction.

"In the final analysis, development just for the sake of development may well distort the kind of quality which we seek for our lives," he said.

That theme was an echo of pronouncements earlier in the day from spokesmen who offered views of the economies in the East, Piedmont and West regions of the state.

"The Western area wants more industrial development but that which is consistent with preserving its scenic attractions," said Richard B. Wynne, president and publisher of the Asheville Citizen and Times.

The East, said Kinston manufacturer C. Felix Harvey, holds much the same view: "economic development" translates into new industry, but a top priority is protecting the region's farm lands.

Harvey, Wynne and Hugh L. McCall Jr., president of North Carolina National Bank and spokesman for the Piedmont, presented synopses of reports from counties in their regions.

All 100 counties in the state held economic conferences to prepare for the state conference.

Reports from the three regions agreed on some points, such as maintaining the state's right-to-work law and possibly changing the state's manufacturers' inventory and intangibles taxes.

But regional considerations were also taken into account.

The Piedmont wants liquor-by-the-drink, McCall said, to attract tourists and business.

The East and West need better connecting roads, their spokesmen said.

McCall agreed that roads are important to the Piedmont but "air and rail facilities are critical requirements that have received more limited attention."

In a speech to the conference, John G. Medlin Jr., president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., called on state government and businesses to adopt the goal of increasing the work force by 200,000 by 1980.

"Such a sense of community purpose so clearly in the public interest could help eliminate some of the divisionary skirmishing on subsidiary issues of little overall significance," Medlin said.

"Unless all turn their attention to the more urgent common good — more jobs — then everyone will eventually suffer the resulting disadvantages."

Tyson served a four-year tour of duty with the Air Force and completed a 30-month tenure in Japan. In 1957, he received his discharge from the service and joined Imperial Tobacco Co. He is still employed with Imperial as a tobacco buyer.

Tyson and his wife, the former Betty Lou Eastwood of Pitt County, have three children who attend different schools in the county. He noted that one child attends Roberson Primary School in Winterville while a second child attends A. G. Cox Elementary, also in Winterville. A third is a student at D. H. Conley High School.

He is a member of Hooker Memorial Christian Church here, the Greenville Moose Lodge, and the Winterville Recreation Commission.

Tyson said that his sole aim in seeking to retain his Board of Education seat is to "serve the students and citizens of Pitt County."

Greenville Utilities Commission

City Council Facing 33-Item Agenda

Utilities...

 ed GUC that "if the four Cities intervene and put forward a full case, there is a very good chance that the $126,000 proposed annual increase could be avoided."
 "Moreover, a strong case could be made for a reduction in the present rates to a level more in line with the costs allocated to the Cities," the letter suggested. "The Cities' present rates produce annual revenues that exceed the Company's allocated cost of service by some $485,000. However, as with all contested rate cases, no guarantee of the final outcome can be made."

Total savings could amount to $611,000 for the Cities. The total cost of legal and engineering work would probably range from $50,000 to $75,000 for a full case. Greenville's share would be approximately 15 percent.
 Further action involved the approval of a proposed preliminary engineering study designed by Olsen Associates of Raleigh to evaluate the water supply needs of current and prospective areas served by GUC.

The study will evaluate both present and future needs, including: treatment processes as related to present and future water quality requirements; size or capacity of needed facilities; alternative solutions involving the use of existing facilities, along with staged construction of new facilities; construction and operating cost estimates of various alternatives; and a financial analysis of projected revenues and costs.
 The results of the study, which will cost $7,500, will be summarized in a report within 120 days for presentation to the Commission.
 The Commission approved also a revision in its customer deposit policy to eliminate the need for a 12-month "good" pay history at the same address. That is, the anniversary month of the initial deposit will remain the same even if the customer changes service locations.

In other action, GUC approved a five percent cost-of-living adjustment for all employees and department heads, except for the director of Utilities, contingent upon the City Council's approval during the Jan. 26 meeting.
 Currently, the proposal suggests an effective date of Feb. 2, 1977, in light of a 5.76 percent increase in the Consumer Price Index since that date; however, Director Horne said he would request that the Council consider an effective date beginning two weeks prior to Feb. 2.
 Also, the Commission rejected a recommendation that Greenville participate in N.C. Power Agency No. 2's peaking generation project, and tabled a request from Greenville Cable T.V. for relief from total water main fees on 368.24 feet of frontage, of which only 120 feet is planned for development initially, located on Arlington Boulevard.

Bids accepted by GUC include: Carolina Transformer, 100-15 KVA CSP transformers, $27,300; Carolina Transformer, 100-25 KVA CSP transformers, $33,100; N.C. Products, 376 LF 18-inch reinforced concrete pipe, $1,500.61; and N.C. Products, 612 LF 24-inch reinforced concrete pipe, $3,764.41.

 Committee, and during the 1973 and 1975 sessions was vice-chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Education. In addition to chairing the agriculture committee, White is currently vice-chairman of the full Senate Appropriations Committee and a member of the Appropriations Committee on Human Resources and Corrections, the Appropriations Committee on Education, the Appropriations Committee on Base Budget, and the Finance, Education, Economy, and Ways and Means Committees.

The Senator, a member of the Legislative Research Commission and a member of the Advocacy Council for Mentally Ill and Developmentally Disabled, has been appointed to other study commissions and committees scheduled to make reports and recommendations to the 1979 General Assembly on such matters as credit and interest laws, insurance laws, aid to private colleges and universities, and public school laws.
 A farmer and businessman, White said, "High-quality educational opportunities must be continued for our people to improve their job skills or develop new skills for new jobs and job vacancies. These opportunities are being provided by our technical institutes and community colleges. I will continue to support and work for the continued advancement of these institutions."

White, in 1973, sponsored legislation that limited class size in the State's public schools, and successfully sponsored legislation in the Senate to establish a School of Veterinary Medicine at North Carolina State University.
 The senator also successfully sponsored legislation to tax farm land on its use value for agricultural purposes — so long as the land is used for agricultural purposes — rather than its market value for development or other uses.

White, a Wake Forest University graduate, was a teacher and principal from 1929 to 1940, and county Farmers Home Administration supervisor from 1941 to 1943. He is now serving on the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute and Chowan College and is vice-president of First State Bank of Winterville and a member of the bank's board of directors.
 The World War II veteran is a member of the Ruritan, Kiwanis and Moose clubs and is a former chairman of both the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and the Pitt County Planning Board and a former member and treasurer of the Pitt County Development Commission.

White is a member of the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church where he has served on the Board of Deacons for 20 years and has served as Sunday School superintendent or director for 25 years.
 He is married to the former Louise Ange of Winterville and they have one son.

Continued Chill In The Greenville Area

By DEBBIE JACKSON
 Reflector Staff Writer
 This morning's low temperature may have sent a chill through area residents, but according to Greenville Utilities, the second day of icy weather did not cause any electrical problems.
 Malcolm Greene of the Utilities Commission said that even though there is no indication of a power shortage at present, residents should make efforts to conserve energy.

Greene said that on "severely cold nights" people owning electric heat pumps should not cut thermostats down more than two degrees past their daytime temperature.
 He added that when the temperatures dip as low as they have in the past two days that it actually requires more energy for heaters to "catch up" in the morning than if the thermostats were not cut down so drastically at night.

Greene suggested that the thermostats be left at the same temperature day and night, and be kept as low as possible.
 "Everybody turns up their heat at the same time, between 6-7 a.m." He noted that this partially accounted for yesterday's electrical shutoff on Tenth Street.
 "We had the highest electrical peak of the winter, this morning," he added.
 Greene reported also that, so far, there have been no problems with water mains for the city's water supply cracking.

School officials today reported that only one school had noted difficulty with its heating system — Sadie Sautler School.
 Glenn Cox of the Greenville City Schools said that he has heard of no other problems and that the difficulty at Sadie Sautler was taken care of.
 "The heating systems are doing everything that they can do, I'm sure," said Tom Craft of the Pitt County School system.
 Cold weather is also a bad time for those less fortunate persons in the county, but according to a Salvation Army spokesman, few calls for assistance have been made as yet.

Oil suppliers in town said that they have received many more calls for oil than usual, but that the requests are for the same amount as is normally asked for. At present, none of the oil dealers express concern over an oil shortage.
 Temperatures this morning dropped into the teens with an 8 a.m. reading of 14 degrees. Yesterday's high and low temperatures were 29 and 11 degrees, respectively.
 Greenville Utilities reported a trace of precipitation during the 24-hour span leading up to midnight of last night. This resulted from Monday's snow flurries.
 The Tar River level at 8 a.m. today was 7.5 on the National Weather Gauge.

Mack, Krusen Lead Pirates In Victory

Attempted Save

East Carolina's Oliver Mack leaps into the St. Peter's bench in an effort to slap back a loose ball during action last night between the two schools. Mack was unable to prevent the ball from going out of bounds, but the Pirates went on to win, 90-77, for their second straight win. Mack led the Pirate scoring with 26 points. St. Peter's players are Paul Siljee (23) and Kevin Rodgers (45). (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

East Carolina, down by as much as seven points late in the first half, went on a 20-4 blitz in the first six and a half minutes of the second half and rode to a 90-77 victory over St. Peter's College last night.

The win was the second in a row for the Pirates, and made their homecoming from a six-game road trip a happy one. The Bucs are now 3-7 on the year, and 2-1 in Minges play.

East Carolina actually began its move to the lead in the final 1:18 of the first half, when they started a move from six points down. That coupled with the 20 points in the second half, gave them a total 20-point turnaround as they charged out to as much as a 21-point lead during the final ten minutes of play.

Oliver Mack again was the leader in the scoring blitz, as he hit 26 points in the game. The junior canned 11 of 18 shots, and made all four free throw attempts.

Herb Krusen added 21 on eight of 14 shots, and five of five free throws. Herb Gray, who came off the bench, tossed in 16 points, hitting five of eight field goals, and six of nine at the line.

Overall, the Pirates show 54.8 percent, which included a 44.4 first half and a 69.2 percentage in the second. In the second half, the Pirates canned 18 of 26 shots.

St. Peter's, working against a man-to-man much of the night, shot 65.6 in the first half, but ended up with a 56.3 figure hitting just 15 of 32 in the second half.

The Pirates worked the boards well, too, outrebounding the Peacocks, 35-29, with Greg Cornelius leading the way with 11. A number of times, his rebounds keyed fast breaks for the Bucs.

East Carolina's defense at times was very good, and at times, not as good. "We were very passive in the first half with our defense," Coach Larry Gillman said. "But we didn't allow them to set their zone up in the second half."

Gillman credited the board work of Cornelius as a key factor in the game. "We had some trouble after he picked up his second foul and we had to sit him down. That hurt us both defensively and on the boards. But at the start of the second half, when we got him back in there, we really started working good, getting the rebound, getting it out and getting down for the score."

"If East Carolina can continue to rebound and get the ball in the open court, we will score and win a lot," the coach added.

Gillman felt that during the first five minutes of the second half, the defensive intensity was very good. "We were just getting it all together during that period," he said.

But all was not perfect. Gillman felt that while the Pirates worked well against St. Peter's zone, that they still had trouble in getting the ball to the open man. "We are just starting to get it together. We're getting a little bit older with each game, and playing more as a unit."

With St. Peter's hitting well in the first half, and the Pirates unable to control the boards with Cornelius on the bench, the Peacocks were able to move out to as much as a seven-point bulge.

The game was tight most of the way, however, with East Carolina leading by as much as three, 10-7 and 24-21, and then again at 32-29, as the lead changed hands on seven occasions in the first half. It was also tied on seven other times.

St. Peter's finally got its biggest lead at 29-24 on a fast-break basket by Vin Cronen, but the Pirates came back with eight in a row to take the lead at 32-29, only to lose it again.

Cliff Anderson hit at 33-32 on a fast break to put St. Peter's back up, and Kevin Bannan added a basket for a three-point lead. Tim Dooley and Bannan both hit to up the lead to 41-34, the widest margin the Peacocks were to enjoy.

Gray then led a comeback with two baskets and two free throws that cut the lead back to just 43-41 as the half ended.

Then, in the second half, Krusen hit two to tie it up twice, and then Mack slammed home a dunk with 18:22 left to put the Pirates up, 47-45. St. Peter's never closed the gap again.

After Walter Moseley hit a shot from underneath, St. Peter's got one more field goal before the Pirates ran off 12 straight points to take a 61-47 lead.

The Pirates slowly pulled away to as much as a 21-point margin at 74-53 on two free throws by Gray with 8:08 left. St. Peter's rallied to within 15 before the Pirates went back out to a 17 19-point margin with 2:09 left, and the Buc bench came in.

Bannan and Dooley led the St. Peter's scoring with 16 points each, while Kevin Rodgers and Paul Siljee each had 10.

East Carolina takes time out on Thursday for an exhibition game with the Athletics in Action's Challenger team. Going into a game tonight against Campbell, the AIA posts a 16-5 record.

Rocky Costa, a Lenoir Rhyne graduate leads the team in scoring with a 23.0 average, while Old Dominion grad Jeff Fuhrmann is hitting 17.0 per game.

Following that contest, the Pirates return to regular action on Tuesday, hosting William & Mary.

Eagles Claw Rampants

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

VANCEBORO — Red-hot Rose High got a taste of its own medicine from West Craven in the second half as the Eagles came from behind and took the Rampants into two overtimes before defeating them 84-80.

Both teams shot over 50 per cent from the field in the contest. The Rampants hit 33 of 55 attempts for an even 60 per cent, while West Craven was 33 of 63 for 52.4 per cent. The Eagles hit 56.7 per cent in their second-half comeback.

Much of the contest was a battle of the big men with Rose's William Barnes going up against Eagles Clifton Green and Andre Bryant. Barnes won the scoring battle, hitting 31 points to a combined 24 for the West Craven big men, but the Eagles outrebounded the Rampants as a team 35-26 and that was a big factor in the contest.

"I think what happened is that they just got a hot streak," explained Rose coach Jim Brewington. "I thought our kids played real well under the conditions." The Rampant coach wasn't pleased with the game's officiating or the slippery condition of the court.

"In the first overtime, we made a couple of turnovers that really cost us. We could have had it won there. In the second overtime, I thought there were a couple of questionable calls and we also had a couple of turnovers."

Brewington referred specifically to a shot by Rampant Anthony Bryant from underneath with 22 seconds left in the second over time. The Rose forward went up from underneath in an attempt to tie the game at 82. Two Eagles went up with him and blocked the shot, but Brewington felt a foul should have been called.

The Rampants led for most of the first half of the contest and had a 39-36 margin at halftime. But West Craven quickly grabbed the lead in the third quarter and Rose had to fight to tie the game in the final period and send it into overtime.

A hook from the lane and a pair of foul shots by Barnes gave the Rampants their first lead of the game, 8-6 with 2:51 left in the first quarter.

A jumper from the foul line by Green put the Eagles in front going into the second period, 17-16, but Rose scored eight straight points early in the frame to take control, 24-18.

Barnes opened up in the second quarter, scoring nine points to keep the Rampants out in front, despite a 14-7 rebounding deficit in the period.

After intermission, West Craven quickly tied the game and then went ahead on a turnaround from the baseline by Kenny Wesley. The Rampants kept the game close, however, and gained a tie on a pair of Billy Robertson foul shots with 5:05 remaining in the game.

After a free throw by Arthur Becton put West Craven back ahead, 66-65, Barnes got loose underneath for a dunk shot to give Rose its first lead since early in the third quarter.

The Rampants eased out to a 70-66 margin on a free throw and baseline jumper by Greg Guthrie, but a field goal from underneath and two free throws tied the game for the Eagles with 2:00 on the clock.

When Barnes missed a pair of foul shots with 1:38 left and the Eagles got the rebound, they stalled the ball for a final shot. They missed on a 17-footer with eight seconds left, but the Rampants were unable to get off another shot.

The first overtime period saw Rose jump in front by four, 74-70, when Guthrie connected from the left corner and then scored on a fast break with 2:16 left. West Craven tied it up at the 1:08 mark on a jumper from the key by Johnnie Pugh and, after James Hawkins hit to give Rose the lead again, Pugh made a pair of foul shots to once more knot the score.

Barnes put up a shot with 13 seconds left and goal tending was called on the Eagles to give the Rampants a 78-76 lead, but Becton was fouled by Anthony Bryant with four seconds left and hit both shots to send the game into a second overtime.

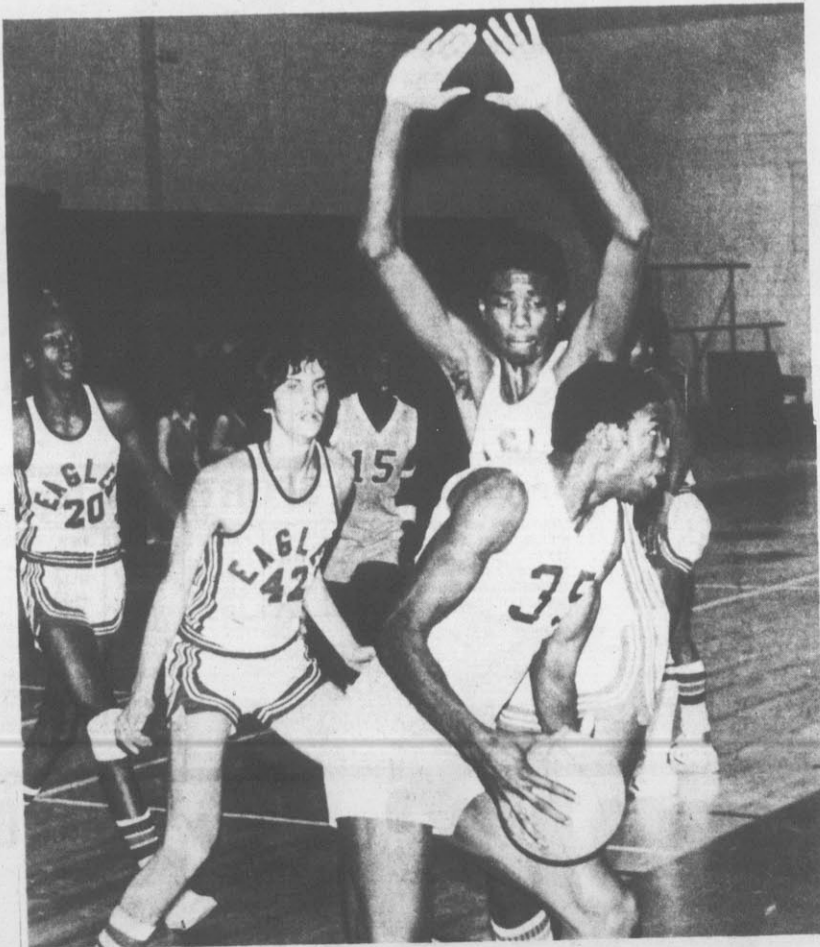

Rose scored first in the period when Robertson tipped a jump ball to Barnes underneath the Rampant goal and he layed it in at the 2:05 mark. But, that was the final Rampant score.

The Eagles scored six straight points on a jumper by Becton

State-Md. Tonight

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State, still glowing a little from its weekend drubbing of Duke, faces Maryland tonight to try and snap whatever jinx has kept the Wolfpack from beating the Terps in regular season play for three seasons.

"I remember they came in here 0-3 in the conference one time and defeated us," said Coach Norm Sloan.

The Terps are 0-2 at the moment, but Sloan had a watchful eye on his crew this week to see that they weren't "celebrating the Duke victory too long." He says he thinks they're ready.

"In getting ready for Maryland we face numerous problems," Sloan reflected. "There is not an outside shooting weakness. There's not a place you can sacrifice on to give help somewhere else."

"So it's pretty much of a man-to-man situation. I don't know of a more talented team than Maryland," he said.

Duke, meanwhile, will be in Clemson for their first conference challenge since the Wolfpack put it to them last Saturday. The Blue Devils bounced back Monday to thrash Lehigh, 105-63.

Clemson beat their old rival South Carolina, 79-58, Saturday. They're playing 10-2 basketball so far this year against Duke's 9-3, but the Tigers will be trying for their first conference victory.

In the only other Atlantic Coast Conference team action tonight, Virginia will be in Delaware, hopefully recovering from Saturday's rough treatment at the hands of North Carolina.

The Vikings are now 4-0 in the Eastern Carolina Conference, while the Hawks drop to 3-1. Conley is the only undefeated boy's team in the ECC. The Vikes are 10-2 overall.

The Valkyries raise their record to 3-1 in the league and 8-2 overall. Conley will play host to Southern Nash on Friday night.

FARMVILLE — North Pitt went ice-cold during an overtime period last night and that allowed Farmville Central to pull off a 40-38 victory over the Panthers.

The North Pitt girls came away winners, however, 42-40, in an upset of the Lady Jaguars.

Farmville Central jumped out to a 10-7 lead in the first period of the boys' game, but the Panthers clung to them and trailed by only two, 23-21, at intermission.

The Panthers, outthrusting the Jags, 8-6, in the third period, tied it up at 29-29, as the final quarter got underway. Farmville managed to pull back into the lead, but Reginald Knight hit two free throws with nine seconds left to knot the game one last time at 38-38.

In the overtime, Donald Freeman hit about a third of the way through, and neither team was able to score again, as Farmville captured the win.

James Tyson led Farmville with nine points, while Lawaskia Jenkins had 11 to pace North Pitt.

Van Lier Shooting More

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Chicago Bulls Coach Ed Badger has been trying to get a point across to Norm Van Lier. But the way Van Lier talks, maybe the coach should let the rest of the team in on it.

Van Lier, a playmaking guard who has been averaging a little more than six points a game this season, scored 21 points besides dishing off 13 assists in Chicago's 110-106 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday over Los Angeles.

"We've been trying to get Norm to shoot more," Badger said after the victory, "because when other teams know a guy won't shoot, then they can double team somebody else."

Van Lier, who scored eight of his points in the fourth quarter when the Bulls rallied, agreed he took more shots than usual, "but it wasn't because anyone told me to."

"It's not my fault that when I start a play as the playmaker I never wind up with the ball," said Van Lier. "I don't think the other guys consciously keep me out of the offense, but the results are the same."

In other NBA games, Portland downed New York 126-113. Washington beat Kansas City 123-115. Philadelphia defeated Houston 95-80, Milwaukee whipped Indiana 125-103 and Denver edged New Orleans 115-110 in overtime. Golden State in Cleveland was postponed because of snow.

The Lakers led 104-100 with 2:56 left, but Mickey Johnson scored four points and Van Lier hit a 30-foot jumper to help put the game away and snap a five-game Bulls losing streak.

Jamaal Wilkes had 25 points for the Lakers, and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 16.

Blazers 126, Knicks 113

Portland extended its home-court winning streak to 40 games behind the 22 points of center Tom Owens, who did all his scoring while spelling Bill Walton. The Blazers' Lloyd Neal scored six points in a third-quarter surge that saw Portland run off 14 straight points and move to an 80-56 lead.

The Knicks, trailing 104-83 at one point, rallied behind rookies Toby Knight and Ray Williams as Portland Coach Jack Ramsay sat down most of his starters, but New York was unable to close the gap to less than nine points.

Bullets 123, Kings 115

Elvin Hayes scored 27 points as Washington — missing starters Phil Chenier (hamstring) and Bob Dandridge (sprained toe) — dealt Kansas City its ninth straight defeat.

Larry Wright, subbing for Chenier, scored 21 points and Mitch Kupchak, helping to fill in for Dandridge, had 20.

"I was really proud of our bench," said Coach Dick Motta.

"It's bad enough to lose one starter, but to have two missing, that really puts a burden on the rest of the players."

Ron Boone led the Kings with 24 points.

76ers 95, Rockets 80

Julius Erving and Doug Collins each scored 20 points and fueled a third-period outburst that gave Philadelphia its sixth straight victory and sent Houston to its third straight loss.

Trailing 48-44, Houston saw any chance of victory evaporate early in the third quarter when Collins scored eight consecutive Sixers' points. Collins had 12 points in the third period and Erving eight.

Chargers Down Firebirds By 1

SPRING HOPE — James Leggett hit a pair of free throws with 35 seconds left to give Ayden-Grifton a one-point lead, and a charging foul against Southern Nash helped the Chargers hang on to it as they defeated the Firebirds 57-56 last night.

Ayden-Grifton fell behind in the game by a 15-10 score in the first quarter, but came from behind in the second period to take a 28-24 lead.

The Chargers were ahead 45-42 at the end of three periods of play, but most of the final period was a see-saw battle. The Firebirds were ahead by one when Leggett put the Chargers in front with his free throws.

Southern Nash got the ball for a final shot, but committed a charging foul to turn it back over to Ayden-Grifton, which ran out the clock.

Leggett led all scorers with 21 points, while Frankie Dail pitched in 20 for the Chargers. Southern Nash was paced by Dwight Mitchell with 18, Timmy Taylor with 17 and Ricky Murray with 10.

In the girl's game, Ayden-Grifton had an easy time with the Lady Firebirds, defeating them 58-25.

The Chargerettes put things away early, taking a 16-4 lead in the first quarter and stretching it to 27-10 at the half.

Karen Haseley paced the A-G attack with 16 points and Marie Lewis scored 10. Carol Lamb was the leading scorer for Southern Nash with 14 points.

The wins raise the Ayden-Grifton overall records to 8-4 for the boys and 8-3 for the girls. The Chargers are now 2-2 in the Eastern Carolina Conference, while the Chargerettes climb to 3-1.

In the boys' game, Pace gained a 38-36 victory over the Greenville Christian junior varsity. Fred Pollard hit a 30-foot desperation shot with five seconds left to pull out of a tie for the win.

Pollard and Marshall Rand each had 12 points for Pace, while Bill Hurst and Troy Hudson each had 12 for Greenville.

Pace's boys are now 2-4, while the girls are 1-4. Pace's girls host Lawrence Academy on Thursday, while the boys are idle until Tuesday, when they play host to Martin Academy.

Currency Intervention Seen Futile

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORPORATION

The Carter Administration recently reversed its long-standing position not to support the dollar on foreign currency exchanges. The announcement that we would actively intervene on foreign currency exchange markets is not taken to mean we will try to fix the rate of the dollar against other securities, but that an attempt will be made to check speculation and re-establish order on those markets. This action follows a year-long slide in the value of the dollar, which declined more than 17% against the Japanese Yen and 9% against the German Mark.

The result of U.S. intervention in currency exchange markets remains to be seen. It may make changes in the dollar's value more orderly, but it is not likely to stop the downward trend.

In order to halt the decline in the value of the dollar, this country must eliminate its massive trade and balance of payments deficits. The 1977 trade deficit is estimated at $27 billion, and it could remain that high for the next two years.

Much of the trade deficit stems from large oil imports, a situation which passage of a comprehensive energy program would help alleviate. Unfortunately, Congress has yet to pass an energy bill. In the eyes of the rest of the world, we are not doing all we can to reduce imports. Other countries believe that our demand for foreign oil keeps oil prices unnaturally high and floods other countries with too many unwanted dollars.

The U.S. has taken a different position toward reducing its trade deficits. Our leaders have long insisted that West Germany and Japan should further stimulate their economies to enlarge the markets for U.S. goods and to promote faster economic recovery worldwide. These countries have resisted doing this, fearing it would be inflationary. As a result, their currencies have risen steadily against the dollar. In fact, their currencies have risen to such a point that it could hurt their export industries and thus increase unemployment there. That could force them to provide the economic stimulus we feel is necessary.

The declining value of the dollar has other implications. As the value of the dollar falls, it takes more dollars to buy foreign imports, such as German or Japanese cars. These higher prices add to inflation and could substantially affect the markets here for foreign goods, eventually weakening foreign economies.

As domestic producers find themselves unable to compete with foreign producers, pressures build for governments to protect them from imports. Such is the case with our steel industry, and there are fears that U.S. goods may become the target for import restrictions in other countries.

Disagreements between the U.S. and other countries on what to do about the decline in the dollar's value strains already difficult political and economic relationships. Additionally, the dollar's weakness could be causing companies to reduce or postpone investments, thus slowing down economic growth worldwide.

Actions on the foreign exchange markets may seem too far away to worry about, but the declining value of the dollar has far-reaching implications for foreign investments in our country, our balance of payments deficit, on oil prices, and on inflation rates. Recent weakness in the stock markets has been blamed on the falling dollar. U.S. intervention in foreign exchange markets may restore order to trading, but the downward trend in the dollar's value will be checked only when our trade deficit improves.

Shad Festival Planning Meet

GRIFTON — Tommy Wilson, chairman of the Eighth Annual Grifton Shad Festival, has called the first planning meeting for Thursday, Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Grifton Library.

The Shad Festival will be held April 14-16 and plans are under way now. The fishing contest opened Jan. 1, and the first hickory shad caught on hook and line will entitle the fisherman to receive a prize of fishing equipment to be given away during intermission of the Shad Queen Pageant, April 14.

One of the items to be decided Thursday evening is whether or not to have a secondary theme for the festival this year, and what it should be. Those who wish to give input for these decisions should plan to be present Thursday.

16 Energy Savers For the Home

This winter your energy bill doesn't have to be too high. Here are 16 energy-saving tips that can help you save kilowatts and BTUs throughout the house.

HOME HEATING TIPS

1. Check and weatherstrip doors and windows.
2. Install storm windows and doors, double-layered thermal glass panes also retain heat.
3. Measure attic and crawl space and seal up to a depth of six inches.
4. Install a clock thermostat for daytime night and daytime heat settings.
5. Keep draperies and shades open in sunny windows, close them at night.
6. Portable heaters can warm a single room at much lower cost than running central heating.

IN THE KITCHEN

1. Make sure dishwasher is full and allow dishes to air-dry after final rinse.
2. Don't open refrigerator or freezer more than necessary and avoid frost build-up which makes units work harder.
3. A freezer packed to full capacity generally uses less energy.
4. Bake several dishes in the oven at the same time and pre-heat only when necessary.
5. You can lose 20% of heat by oven pre-heat, so use the timer.
6. Thaw frozen meats to reduce cooking time.

IN THE LAUNDRY

1. Wash until you have a full load and never use hot water when you can substitute cold.
2. Over-drying is a waste of energy and can wrinkle and shrink clothes.
3. Repair leaky faucets. One drop per second wastes 700 gallons of hot water per year.
4. A shower requires only half as much hot water as an average tub bath.

Free Screening For Oral Cancer

A free oral cancer screening clinic will be held at the Pitt County Health Department Sunday from 1 to 4 p. m.

Greenville area dentists are volunteering their time and skill to hold the clinic in conjunction with the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Anyone who wishes to take advantage of the free clinic is welcome. This includes having any longtime sore in any part of the mouth or any area of the gums, lips, tongue, cheeks or roof of the mouth that look strange, even if it is not sore or even sensitive, a local dentist said.

Referrals will be made, when deemed needed, to a dentist, oral surgeon, or ear, nose and throat specialist.

Lists Problems Facing NAACP

D. D. Garrett, president of the Pitt County Branch of the NAACP, presented the keynote address at the annual meeting of the Chapter Sunday at Reddick Chapel in Bethel.

President Garrett introduced the six regional vice presidents; two secretaries; the treasurer; and the committee chairpersons. He traced the history of black people in America through slavery here past Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, the 14th Amendment, the 1964 Civil Rights Act, and the 1968 Fair Housing Act. He listed some present problems in Pitt County among which he included "the lack of a Legal Aid Society; blacks committing crimes against blacks and some black church administrators exploiting their membership here in Pitt County." He concluded by saying, "My dream is that the sun rise of economic opportunity, the sun rise of political opportunities, the sun rise of human rights will shine on every man, woman, black, white, girl or boy the same."

Calvin C. Henderson of Winterville was appointed to succeed Donovan Phillips as public relations chairman for the Branch.

D. D. Byrd and Purvis Choens presented progress reports on the New Horizon program scheduled for Feb. 11 and 12.

Mrs. Willie Carney of Bethel was elected to represent the local Branch at the annual national convention to be held in Portland, Ore. in July.

Food Study Is Underway

The largest federal study of food consumption in America is now underway. More than 30,000 households across the country are being canvassed about their eating habits by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Carolyn Bowen and Ruby Myster are conducting the interviews in the Pitt County area.

The study will provide information about the food consumption of all of the family members as well the household unit to which they belong. The study will give an up-to-date picture of the dietary and nutritional patterns of consumers in all walks of life.

It will also reveal the effects of changes in the American way of eating. Smaller families, greater numbers of older people, different life styles, the number of people who eat away from home, the growing number of women working outside the home, the increasing popularity of home-produced food to offset rising food costs, all may be factors in changing dietary and nutritional patterns.

BES-PAK INTRODUCES DEGRADABLE PLASTIC

NEW STRONG TRASH BAGS THAT CAN HELP YOU PROTECT NATURE FROM POLLUTION.

Strong. Dependable. Good for big, heavy loads. That's the way Bes-Pak® has always made trash bags. And now Bes-Pak has added a special ingredient to the plastic that helps it degrade. Here's how it works: Use the bags. Put them outdoors as usual. When the plastic has been exposed to prolonged sunlight of sufficient intensity (in your yard or at the dump), a gradual chemical change will begin. And a few weeks or months later, the plastic will break down and turn back into harmless natural elements. Even if it's buried in landfill. Another nice thing, Bes-Pak Bags don't cost more than other leading brands. Usually a little less. So now when you get rid of your trash, you can help get rid of an environmental problem, too. Look for the boxes with the Bes-Pak seal.

- Trash Bags • Heavy Weight Bags
- Leaf and Lawn Bags

Actress Gets 'Big Break' In TV Movie

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Bigelow, clad in a high-fashion dress of 1880s style, strode briskly into the studio commissary, sat down, and said, "Hi. Want to see my garter?" We said sure.

A quick peep revealed the garter bore a tiny microphone transmitter for a tiny microphone stashed in Miss B's bodice. When on the mike picks up the lines she speaks in a new TV movie she's making.

The flick, "Wild & Woolly," airs Feb. 20 on ABC. It's a pilot for an Old West series about four ladies who break out of prison. She plays one of them, an aristocratic embezzler on the lam.

For Miss Bigelow, a slender, green-eyed young lady with a quick, lively wit, not only is this the proverbial Big Break, it'll be her national TV debut, and in a co-starring role at debut.

One of 10 kids in the family of a Navy admiral, she got into acting in a roundabout way. She says she entered the University of Maryland to study physics, but shifted to theater.

She partly blames the shift on an older sister who'd been active in high school and college theater productions.

"I used to go watch her all the time," Miss Bigelow said. "She looked like she was having so much fun that I wanted to do it."

Her "Wild and Woolly" part, for which over 200 actresses were considered, came in an odd way. She flew here from New York, where she lives with her husband, Richard, an actor, to audition for ABC.

It was for a different show. It didn't work out. But ABC gave her another try, for "Woolly." Didn't work out, either. So she went to visit a sister living near Oakland before returning to Fun City.

Then, she said, just before she boarded a flight home, "My agent called. He said, 'We've cancelled your flight, you've gotta fly back to Los Angeles instead.' I ask why.

He says, 'They've changed their minds. They've decided to use you (in "Woolly").' So I flew back, had a four-hour costume fitting and the next day went to Tucson, Arizona and started working."

Miss Bigelow was asked if husband Richard will move here from New York if ABC orders her movie made into a weekly series.

She nodded. And added, deadpan: "I will, too."

We endorse South's choice of response. Two no trump is a more descriptive bid than two clubs, even though South has a five-card suit. North's raise was automatic, since South's response was forcing.

West led his fourth-best spade. Declarer won in hand and ran the seven of diamonds. Had East won with the jack, declarer could have made his contract either by simply continuing to play on diamonds or by shifting his attention to the club suit and guessing the position. However, East won the first diamond with the king—a falsecard which could not cost but which, as the play developed, proved to be deadly. He then exited with a spade.

Impressed with the "success" of his finesse for the jack of diamonds, declarer won the spade and returned to his hand with the king of clubs to repeat the diamond finesse. Suddenly things turned sour.

East won the jack of diamonds and shifted to the queen of clubs. Declarer's goose was cooked. He could

Defense Budget Boost Facing Carter

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — According to the White House, President Carter already has met his promise to cut defense spending by $5 billion to $7 billion. By Republican accounting, he hasn't. Either way, he is about to recommend a substantial increase in the Pentagon budget.

There are numbers to support both cases. And there are more numbers with which the administration can maintain that, even as spending goes up, Carter is standing by his commitment to rein in defense spending.

Behind the figures there is evidence of the distance between the view from the campaign platform and that from the White House. Few items in Carter's catalogue of campaign promises have been cited more often than this, prior to the Democratic National Convention:

"Without endangering the defense of our nation or our commitments to our allies, we can reduce present defense expenditures by about $5 billion to $7 billion annually."

That seemed clear and simple enough. But Carter later said he couldn't foresee precise budget figures, and that what he had in mind were reforms and efficiency measures to save about 5 percent of defense spending, whatever the total figure.

But his more specific pledge was logged in the White House catalogue of his campaign promises.

When Carter presented his amendments to Gerald R. Ford's final budget, he recommended cuts of about $2.8 billion in defense spending authority, to a total of $120.1 billion. He said there had been little time to work on those recommendations, and added that a major review of defense programs would be reflected in his own budget this year.

At the Republican National Committee, which is keeping book on Carter's campaign promises, GOP scorekeepers marked that one broken.

But the defense budget Carter recommended was pruned again in Congress. "The Carter budget is about $117 billion as approved by Congress," the White House said, in listing fulfillment of the campaign pledge as one of the accomplishments of his first year in office.

Now Carter is about to present his own defense budget for the year beginning next Oct. 1, and it will be about $126 billion.

"The defense budget that I will be submitting to the Congress later this month will provide for real increases in U.S. defense spending, more than compensating for the effects of inflation," Carter told the NATO Council on Jan. 6.

He said U.S. forces in Europe will be increased by more than 8,000 men over the next 18 months, "and we will substantially improve our reinforcement capability."

The troop increase had been planned for some time.

While the new budget will be about $9.3 billion higher than the current one, it also is about $9.4 billion below the level Ford had projected.

Ford had forecast a defense budget reaching $135.4 billion in fiscal 1979, and the administration can cite that evidence that Carter has kept his commitment to rein in spending.

But whatever the budget might have been without Carter, his proposed increase will be real and substantial. The demands behind it are more important now than that campaign pledge.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, cites a major one, saying the Soviet Union has built up its forces in Europe and the United States must respond.

Over the last decade or so, in part as a consequence of the strains in our economy and in our defense budget of the Vietnamese war, the Soviet Union has relatively improved its military position in Europe, particularly on the conventional level," Brzezinski said Sunday on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation." "We will compensate for that relative improvement, and we expect our allies to do likewise."

SEEKING GOP CHAIRMANSHIP — Dr. Gloria Tooté, a candidate for the Republican Party chairmanship, gestures as she answers questions. Dr. Tooté, who is a former assistant HUD secretary, says she thinks President Carter will hand the GOP the next presidential election on a "silver platter." (AP Laser-photo)

B-W Fund Will Be Program Sponsors

The Burroughs Wellcome Fund is sponsoring a series of Wellcome Visiting Professorships in the Basic Medical Sciences for the academic year, 1978-79.

The project, which will again be administered by the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, is intended to stimulate interest in the basic sciences and to recognize eminent scientists in biological chemistry, immunology, nutrition, pathology, pharmacology and physiology. At least 12 awards, two in each discipline, will be made. Each visiting professorship will carry an honorarium of $1,500, plus travel expenses for the professor and accompanying spouse.

Distinguished scientists, within the U. S. and abroad, whose interests relate to the various indicated disciplines, will be chosen for the program. Each scientist will spend from two to five days at the host medical school, university or scientific institution in the U. S., engaged in teaching and discussion with students and faculty. He or she will deliver a Wellcome Lecture on a subject related to the specific discipline.

Applications are invited from institutions until Mar. 1. The applications should be in letter form and should be sent to Dr. E. L. Hess, Exec. Director, the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, 9650 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, Md. 20014. Awards will be announced by Aug. 1.

The Burroughs Wellcome Fund is a private nonprofit foundation organized in 1955 to provide financial aid for the advancement of medical knowledge by research or for other scientific, scholarly and educational purposes within the U. S. Its funding comes from Burroughs Wellcome Company, pharmaceutical manufacturers of Greenville and the Research Triangle Park, N. C.

Install New '78 Officers

Elm Street Senior Citizens Club held its regular meeting Thursday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Parish House.

The 1978 officers were installed. They are: President Sarah J. Ashton, Vice-President Lawrence Brewster, Secretary Louise Ward, Treasurer Lee Williams, and Assistant Treasurer Alma Letchworth.

Reports were given on the Dec. 8 Christmas Luncheon and on the Dec. 14 trip to Chapel Hill.

The members voted not to renew their membership in the North Carolina Association of Senior Citizens' Clubs which is sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Society.

President Savage announced the next meeting of the Council on Aging would be the third Tuesday at the County Senior Citizens Center.

After the business meeting, a luncheon was served by the new officers and Mrs. Sadie Worthington, Mrs. Ruth Harris, Mrs. Ethel Allen, and James Ward.

Speaking of Your Health...
Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
Telephone Diagnosis Is Dangerous

I was very upset when my doctor refused to renew a prescription by telephone. I had the same condition that I had had three months before. He insisted that I come to his office. I did this only to find that all I needed was the same drug. There's no question in my mind that he was interested in my additional fee. — Mrs. E. R., Texas.

Dear Mrs. R.: There is nothing more distressing to those of us in the practice of medicine than a reaction such as yours. The fact that the same drug was prescribed is no indication that some other existing condition might not have been present.

Do you really think that an additional office visit was so important to the economic destiny of your doctor? Could it be that he was giving greater consideration to your state of health by being cautious?

Recently, I had an identical experience with a patient whom I hadn't seen for at least six months. He, too, was sure that he had the "same thing." He didn't. Instead of the cough that had stopped with the prescription I had given him, I found that he had developed another reason for a cough. He now had a growth on one of his vocal cords. This needed immediate surgery.

In the busy life of a doctor, there is a great tendency to diagnose and treat by telephone. This, although done to spare the patient an extra visit, can be fraught with potential danger. Doctors know

Country Journal Helps Urbanites Shuck City Life

By ROD CLARKE
BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UPI) — They worked in New York City, both in publishing, for years. But Dick Ketchum and Bill Blair did not meet until both had shucked city life for rural Vermont.

Their meeting led to their partnership in the publication of "Country Journal," a slick, thoroughly professional magazine with a low-keyed touch that stresses the rural lifestyle for those who live it and those who seek it.

"We publish anything that would be of interest to someone that lives this kind of life,"

Blair said. "To some extent, you can say the typical reader is someone who would like to live in a small town or in the country in an 18th century farmhouse, which he would insulate to the limits of technology so the heat from his wood stove would not escape.

"He would raise his own vegetables, probably organically, and have a fairly high level of cultural pursuit....

"What I'm trying to say is that it is an interesting blend of simplicity and technology — not a return to the land in the sense in which people were working the land 100 years ago.

"There are a lot of people now who say the quality of life is more important than the number of dollars in a paycheck, and therefore are willing to accept a little less to live in an environment they think will be healthier for them and their children."

Ketchum lives the "lifestyle his magazine depicts, raising cattle and goats and doing a variety of chores on his Dorset farm.

Blair, however, leases his 200-acre spread in Guilford to a neighboring farmer.

"My days of cutting down trees and bucking up eight cords of wood are gone," he said.

For some readers, Country Journal provides the impetus to make long dreamed-of lifestyle changes. But for others, it is a not always gentle reminder that things aren't necessarily what they seem.

One reader wrote to call CJ "an excellent magazine," but to cancel his subscription because he wouldn't be needing it any more.

"I thought of building a home in the country, and decided not to," he wrote.

"You helped me visualize the realities of wood stoves... and homemade septic systems.

"I did it all vicariously in the pages of your magazine, and found the dream lost some appeal.

"You saved me a lot of trouble."

It was a coincidence that forged Blair and Ketchum into a successful friendship and an equally successful partnership.

"Both Bill and I had been coming to Vermont for a long time," Ketchum said. "And I think both of us sensed that other people were thinking about moving to the country, or had moved.

"I don't think either of us were talking about it in a scientific way, but it was just a gut feeling that something was going on, and it happened to coincide with an idea we both had for a magazine."

That "something" was a migration pattern uncovered in 1974 by the U.S. Census Bureau: Americans had stopped moving into the cities and were returning to small towns.

Blair and Ketchum were both well established in New York media circles; Blair as publisher of Harpers, and Ketchum the managing editor of the American Heritage book division.

In 1972, having managed to avoid each other in Manhattan all those years, both shucked city life and moved to Vermont, each with an idea in the back of his mind.

"I had this idea for a new magazine," Ketchum said.

A friend suggested he talk to another recent New York transplant, Bill Blair, who also had some thoughts about a new publication.

They met for lunch, sized each other up, exchanged written outlines.

"It was for exactly the same magazine," Ketchum recalls. "It was just incredible — one of those real accidents. Just sheer luck."

Over the next year and a half, Country Journal took shape.

In an early prospectus, Blair promised it would bring its readers practical advice about rural life, such as how to maintain open land, cut firewood, remodel an old house and "build a fireplace that works."

It would offer information about "the best and the latest that modern technology has to offer," topics such as political, environmental and tax developments; and attractions like restaurants, inns, museums, fairs and auctions.

"The impulses that drive people to the country today are profound, and not fully understood even by those who share them," Blair wrote then.

The first issue of Country Journal hit the stands in May, 1974.

Since then, circulation has topped 125,000 paid subscribers and is climbing steadily. The magazine recently moved into the black.

One thing that has changed subtly has been the concept of the magazine as a strictly New England publication.

"We found we can sell it in any part of the country that has a climate similar to this," said Blair.

Taught To Cope With Bad Hearing

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The hard-of-hearing person represents a sizeable minority of the American population and for such persons simple acts of talking on the telephone and daily conversations can be frustrating and agonizing experiences, says a Purdue University professor of audiology and speech sciences.

"The difficulties of being deaf are becoming well known," says audiologist David Goldstein. "But hard-of-hearing persons are a large, unrecognized mass. For them, there's enough of a loss to have difficulty understanding clearly everyday speech but not enough of a loss that they cannot use their residual hearing."

The majority of individuals who have a hearing loss "ignore it and actively avoid seeking a solution. For every person in the United States who wears a hearing aid, there are at least three more who should. People think there is a social stigma in wearing a hearing aid," the audiologist says.

Richard Kult, a tire salesman from Lafayette, discovered eight years ago that he had a substantial hearing loss. His first reaction to the doctor's report was "Why me? Not any of us like to accept the fact we're deaf," he says.

For the last five years he has participated in an evening program at the Purdue Speech and Hearing Clinic, directed by Goldstein, where others who are hard-of-hearing come to learn how to cope better with the loss.

The program teaches them to make "good educated guesses" during a conversation, to make use of their other senses, and to use hearing tactics. The tactics involve such "tricks" as sitting away from a noise source and being alert to other factors hampering communication.

Kult, 57, says he got the feeling that "when other people find out you're hard-of-hearing, they feel you've lost your mentality, too." He doesn't discourage friends from trying to help him understand a conversation, even though it may be irritating. "If I see someone is making an effort to communicate with me, I'll never be so ill-mannered as to discourage it," he says.

The salesman says he will never allow himself to become socially isolated because of the handicap. But "sometimes you have to make a special effort to go out and mingle with others — especially with strangers or casual acquaintances."

As 80 percent of his business is done by phone, Kult says he has learned to assert himself in situations where another person may not know he is hard-of-hearing. "You have to overcome feelings of shame — at first I wouldn't tell anyone I was hard-of-hearing.

"I don't think a person with normal hearing has the slightest conception what a hearing loss is," he says. "Even if someone with normal hearing wore earplugs for a full week, that would not be enough to get the full range of what it's like."

The salesman would like to see the mechanisms in telephones changed to make it easier for someone with a hearing aid to listen. He also believes hearing aids cost too much, and that more national foundations or groups should take up hearing loss as their cause.

Goldstein says society must increase its understanding of the problems facing individuals with hearing loss.

"Today, when so many good things are being done for the deaf, it's particularly ironic that the hard-of-hearing are not the center of attention, too. It's not a glamorous handicap, but it hurts," he says.

Taxes, Regulation Spur Underground Economy

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The six percent drop in crime reported by the FBI for 1977 may mean some kinds of crime have become respectable and now are part of the nation's "subterranean economy."
This underground economy employs from 800,000 to 1.6 million persons who are not officially recorded as working and may add some $200 billion a year to the reported Gross National Product.
A portion of it — much less than half — is based on outright crime, says Dr. Peter Gutmann of the City University of New York's Baruch College.
Most of the rest of the income is involved in cash business transactions that arise from "the public's growing contempt for the tax system and government regulation," Professor Gutmann says.
Gutmann has published a short article in the Financial Analysts Journal that appears to be the first research report on the U. S. underground economy. He finds it a somewhat frightening phenomenon caused by ever-rising tax rates and a crushing burden of government regulation.

If the reality of the subterranean economy is not recognized, he concludes, an ever-increasing part of the nation's economy will go underground "with a resulting loss of confidence in the government and its controls and statistics plus huge losses in tax revenues."
The FBI report on the decline in reported crime bears on the rise in the subterranean economy in that it arouses the suspicion that professional criminals simply have turned more and more to activities that go unreported.
Dr. Gutmann does not claim precise accuracy for his measurement of the subterranean economy. There is no way to measure it precisely. He arrives at his estimates by calculating the amount of currency in circulation, the use of which cannot be accounted for by "legal" and conventional business operations. He discovered that there is a vast surplus of currency in circulation in the country in comparison with the legitimate needs of officially recorded businesses.

He reduced this surplus to a barometer figure, the amount of currency in circulation in proportion to each $1,000 of demand bank deposits. He made a historical comparison of this barometer figure going back to 1892 and discovered that it has fluctuated greatly over the years with changing times. It dropped, for example, from $352 in 1892 to $219 in 1941, surged to $363 in 1945 as a result of wartime inflation and black market underground cash business operations, fell again to $249 by 1961, then rose steadily to $344 in 1976 and may still be rising.

This surplus currency in circulation is what lubricates the underground economy.
The underground economy is not all illegal or even necessarily unethical. Teenagers who mow lawns are paid in cash and rarely report their earnings for tax purposes, so they are part of the underground economy but they are not motivated by contempt for the law. Lots of other payments for part time work, even some full-time work and payments for products sold in small quantities likewise are quite innocent parts of the subterranean economy.

But Dr. Gutmann says an astonishing number of retail and service businesses lend themselves to the "classic illegal and quasi-legal" operations of the subterranean economy. He lists restaurants, car washing establishments, garages, bars and many retail sales and service businesses that deal mainly in cash as being particularly able to engage in tax evasion. He says their sales volume and employment figures tend to be grossly underreported in the standard statistical measurements of the economy.
Dr. Gutmann actually arrived at an annual gross product of $176 billion for the underground economy but he concluded that this probably was too conservative because his barometer figure was distorted somewhat after World War II by the growing use of noninterest bearing demand deposits by business as compensating balances for bank loans.

This tended to narrow rather sharply increase the ratio between demand deposits and currency in circulation.
He said that his best guess is that of about $77.8 billion in money in circulation outside banks in 1976, about $28.7 billion was being used to finance illegal and extra-legal activities. That's more than 37 percent.
But this $28.7 billion of money in underground circulation apparently produced an underground national product of at least $176 billion, perhaps nearer $200 billion.

Most of the persons who are participating in the underground income also are employed in regular jobs, professions or businesses. If this were not the case, Dr. Gutman said, the $176 billion annual national product of the underground economy would be enough to support at least 8.2 million additional jobs in the country.
He told United Press International that while a few people heavily engaged in the illegal part of the subterranean economy may make very large sums — the criminal bosses, some black market dealers, crooked politicians and crooked business and professional men for example — the per capita average profit of all persons participating in the subterranean economy probably is quite small.

But the subterranean economy provides all their income for many illegal aliens without residence status, for many fugitives from justice and many social dropouts. Retired persons may also earn underground income and not report it in order to avoid taxes and avoid having their social security payments cut.
"We must take a long and hard look at the rules, regulations, restrictions and taxes that spawned the subterranean economy," Dr. Gutmann says.

Handicaps Qualify For Factory Job

By WILLIAM C. MANN
MANILA, Philippines (AP) — To make television cabinets for Jaime Sison, you have to be mentally or physically disabled.
"Look, I'm no philanthropist," Sison said, looking over his factory's six workbenches at which crippled sanders, varnishers and carpenters were at work. "I'm in this to make money. It's just incidental that I got talked into it."
"But I do think there's some natural instinct in everybody that you have to find, and if you don't bother to find it, then you're in trouble."

Sison, 34, founded Woodshaper, Inc., after hearing at a businessman's club a talk on the abysmal lack of employment opportunities for the Philippines' 4 to 5 million handicapped.
The speech was by Dr. Antonio Periquet, American-trained director of rehabilitation medicine at Philippine General Hospital.
He told the businessmen his tiny department, using equipment dating back to U.S. military leftovers from World War II, was the only one in the country concerned with restoring the handicapped to productive membership in society.

He said patients "keep piling up year after year," with another 5,000 handicapped, mostly poor, applying annually to his department for treatment.
Most were treated and discharged, then sent home to families, he said, where at least one family member was assigned as caretaker. He called this a "chain reaction effect" on the economy, with not only the handicapped but the caretaker taken out of the job market.

Periquet then described a program he had in mind for putting the handicapped to work, but he needed a business contact. Jaime Sison was it.
"I got to thinking about it, and I said there was no reason that a handicapped person couldn't do this kind of work," Sison said. "All they needed were eyes, a good pair of hands and the ability to learn."

With a work force of 40, trained under Periquet's supervision by a local trade school, Woodshaper began turning out table-model cabinets in August under contract to the local assembler of Sony television sets. The firm now produces about 35 cabinets a day, which the production chief at the assembly plant said are as good as those from its three other, larger suppliers.

Workers in Sison's plant, a cement-block building behind a park that used to be a cemetery, wear T-shirts with "Woodshaper" written across the back.
A sander has no legs. A varnisher is mute because he has no palate. The finishing supervisor, who mixes the varnishing compound and paints portraits with his feet in his off-time, has arms that dangle uselessly, withered from infancy by polio.

Most of the workers have never held a steady job before, having lived off able-bodied relatives. Three have college degrees but couldn't find work because of their infirmities.

Their starting salary is $1.33 a day, the minimum wage set by the government, plus 40 cents daily in non-taxable allowances. Four of the workers sleep on their work benches.

Troubled Mozambique Experiments With Marxism

(Editors: In the following dispatch, UPI special correspondent Tony Avirgon reports on his recent 3,500-mile trip through Mozambique during which he filed the first eyewitness accounts by a western correspondent of a Rhodesian attack on Mozambique and was among the first westerners to visit a Marxist re-education camp.)

By TONY AVIRGON
MAPUTO, Mozambique (UPI) — Two and a half years after independence, Marxist Mozambique remains beset with enormous economic and military problems. Troops from neighboring white-ruled Rhodesia regularly cross the vulnerable 800-mile border to blast national guerrilla targets deep inside Mozambique. The country's fledgling 20,000-strong army remains powerless to intervene. Following a bitter war of independence ending 500 years of colonial rule, 200,000 white Portuguese fled Mozambique. The Portuguese ran all the large estates — and all industry, civil service and business. The economy today is a shambles.

Ironically, it is Mozambique's other white neighbor and major enemy, South Africa, that keeps the Marxist state financially afloat. It offers employment to Mozambicans in its gold and diamond mines. But there are signs that some of Mozambique's problems may have bottomed out. Other nations have begun to realize that a unique experiment in the Third World is underway in Mozambique. As the Portuguese withdrew after a 13-year civil war, Frelimo (Front for the Liberation of Mozambique) grabbed absolute power on June 25, 1975.

As a minority group, its hold on the country was tenuous. It attracted open hostility both from its near-by white neighbors and from many western countries such as the United States.

Mozambique's birth pains were so severe, it was predicted the country's dapper 44-year-old president, Samora Machel, a former hospital orderly, would not be able to keep it together.

But he has forged one of the most disciplined countries in Africa and begun an experiment in African Marxism. He says Mozambique, population 10 million, will have a nonracist, nontribal and self-reliant society.

Many observers in the country say the degree of mobilization and national purpose he has attained in a little over two years may be more durable than any similar experiment ever undertaken in Africa.

There is no freedom of speech, no anti-Frelimo or other party politics. But there has been no government interference with religion, which is predominantly Roman Catholic.

Earlier this year, Machel signed a treaty of friendship with the Soviet Union. He currently is working hard to improve his sometimes strained ties with Peking.

Long a friend of the Scandinavian countries, he has even begun to win grudging respect from the United States and the rest of Western Europe.

America's U.N. Ambassador, Andrew Young, was visibly impressed during a visit to Maputo in 1977 and during a recent meeting in New York. Machel urged President Carter to improve ties.

Machel has often wavered between being an idealogue and a pragmatist.

As an idealogue, he slammed his border shut with Rhodesia and lost nearly $200 million annually in transit fees for Rhodesian goods.

Now, at the border with Rhodesia, the road that once bustled with Rhodesian tourists bound for Mozambique's Indian Ocean beaches is deserted.

At the Machipanda post, only occasional refugees cross from Rhodesia. Elsewhere, black guerrillas slip into Rhodesia and Rhodesian troops cross into Mozambique on punitive raids virtually at will.

Mozambique's fledgling army is unable to police the frontier. Its troops are under strict orders not to approach no-man's land.

But Mozambique's fragile economy remains totally dependent on South Africa for its survival and, as pragmatist, Machel admitted, "There is no economic entity known as Mozambique."

"We are only a transit point for neighboring countries. We must now wage a war to create a Mozambican economy and then we will be able to make decisions about who we want to have trade relations with and who we don't."

In the interim, the bulk of the traffic handled at Mozambique's two major ports, Maputo and Beira, is South African.

Up to 80 percent of the country's foreign earnings are from gold bullion earned by the 60,000 Mozambicans working in South African mines.

It is easier to reach Mozambique from the South African city of Johannesburg than any place else. There is a nightly train service between Johannesburg and Maputo and telex and telephone communications are easiest to South Africa.

As the Portuguese fled, the economy all but collapsed. Sugar production fell 50 percent while cotton fell 80 percent.

Mozambique used to be the world's largest cashew nut producer, but between 1974 and 1976 production fell by 75 percent as the Portuguese exodus gathered momentum.

Various sections of the economy, however, are beginning to pick up as the government organizes the former Portuguese estates into huge state-run farms and reactivates closed businesses. At the Companhia Vidreira glass factory near Maputo, production has risen 50 percent over pre-independence levels though management was slashed from 77 to 13 persons.

Officials admit the factory is an exception in a generally gloomy picture but use it as an example to show that workers themselves are capable of managing industries in line with Frelimo's Marxist philosophy.

Workers committees now run most factories, farms, hotels and restaurants.

If the economy remains an embarrassment, Machel's major ongoing headache is his army's inability to control or even blunt the Rhodesian raids into his country to smash guerrilla encampments.

The army is still in transition from a bush guerrilla outfit to a standing force capable of conventional warfare.

Following the friendship treaty, it was expected the Soviets would quickly re-arm and retrain the army. But it is still without heat-seeking missiles to bring down Rhodesian aircraft, without a fixed-wing air force or even helicopter borne troops.

"The Mozambicans do not have the money to buy these weapons," a Western diplomat said, "and the Russians never give anything away. They sell arms."

Phone Calls Made Easier For Disabled

By LANCE J. HERDEGEN
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — To get the latest weather report, or help, or talk to a friend, you can reach a telephone.

But dialing or using a Touch-tone instrument often is not easy for preschoolers, persons with learning disabilities, the mentally retarded and some stroke victims, says Ruth B. Leff, a speech pathologist.

"You have no idea how important it is to be able to use a telephone," Mrs. Leff said in an interview, "not only for emergencies but for social contacts and self-dignity."

She became aware of the problem while working in the Milwaukee public school system. Now she has invented and patented a device called Dial-a-Phone that allows callers to dial or punch a telephone using color and number matching combinations.

She said most children and adults can learn to use the device in as little as 15 seconds, or at the most 15 minutes. She demonstrated this during a test involving mildly mentally retarded children at St. Coletta's School in Jefferson.

Mrs. Leff successfully used her system on 25 students while teachers at St. Coletta's used their own methods on 25 other students.

Mrs. Leff said she chalked up 24 successes while the other teachers had only nine. She then was successful in teaching 14 of the other 16 students the St. Coletta's teachers couldn't train.

Her invention is sold by Instructo Corp., a McGraw-Hill subsidiary in Paoli, Pa. The price: $4.95 per kit. Mrs. Leff gets a 10-cent royalty on each kit.

The kit includes a numbered disc to be placed over the dial of the telephone and a cardboard sleeve with a window in which a cardboard strip with the numbers to be dialed is inserted.

"The window allows a person to see only one number or one color at a time," she said. "You don't have to know the numbers or colors, only match one shape to another or one shade to another."

The third element is a special telephone book with one number per page and one drawing of such items as a key.

"That will show the person using the telephone that if he needed help with his key, that is the number to use," she said.
