

Fought Spreading Fire

HOUSE HEAVILY DAMAGED — Pitt County firemen battle a blaze last night that caused heavy damage to the home of Grover Smith located on rural road 1789 near Black Jack. According to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, the fire was discovered in the rear of the home. No one was at home when the fire started, it was reported. Black Jack firemen were first on the scene and found the fire had spread into the attic portion of the wood frame house. Gardnersville firemen were also called for assistance. Damages were estimated to be approximately $15,000. The owner was listed as Charlie Williams. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Cautious Reaction To Annexation Plan

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Local industry leaders offered cautious reactions to the city's proposed plan of annexation for the industrial region north of Greenville.

While several plant officials indicated that they needed time to study and evaluate the annexation proposal, others expressed their disappointment at the city's action.

City Manager Jim Caldwell reported Wednesday that the city was preparing, at the direction of the City Council, an annexation proposal for consideration by the Greenville governing body at the March Council session.

Caldwell cited the need for operating and capital improvement revenue as the reason behind the annexation consideration, reporting that the annexed area would provide some $750,000 in tax revenue.

G. Henry Leslie, plant manager at Burroughs Wellcome Co., related that "any position the company would take would be a position of the board" regarding the inclusion of company property in the annexation projections.

Leslie added, however, that "as plant manager, it distresses me to think of the pyramid of taxes" involved.

"Originally, when we came to Greenville, there was no indication of the possibility of annexation...mentioned at any time," the plant official stated.

Leslie said that he knew "nothing of it until now" and reported that his first contact with the city regarding the annexation plan took place Wednesday.

"We will have to consult with our legal department and board of directors before the company takes an official position," he remarked.

Howard Moe, Continer Corp. plant manager, said that he was "disappointed, personally, that this could happen" and he noted that plant officials would have to "sit down and look at it and see what effect it will have."

Moe said he did not think the city "is that hard pressed" and he contended that the annexation action would affect the amount of money spent by the manufacturing community on local items. He added that if major increases are imposed upon industry,

"you have to cut back somewhere else" to balance the figures.

Moe said the proposal "just doesn't make sense."

J. Melvin Moore, vice president of Fieldcrest Mills here, reported that he did not have a reaction to the plan "at this point because I don't know what it would cost."

Moore said he had not had the opportunity to evaluate the proposal.

The president of Grady-White Boats, Eddie Smith, indicated that he was "gathering the facts of the matter" and "basically taking it under advisement because I just heard about it today (Wednesday)."

Joe Gantz, general manager of Empire Brushes also said his company was studying the proposal and had no comment at this time.

Reese Hart, executive director of the Pitt County Development Commission, pointed out, "We are being very, very diligent in looking at all of the numbers involved in the annexation."

Hart said that his office "has been in touch with almost every segment of the community, both Greenville and Pitt County, and there is very little positive reaction to the city's proposed annexation."

The spokesman said that if the annexation matter had surfaced "two or three years ago, I know one of the industries that expanded would have expanded somewhere else."

Mentioning inventory taxes that would be imposed, Hart observed, "When we start looking at our deficiencies, not only Greenville and Pitt County but the state as a whole, we've got the prospect of competing with states (for new industry) that do not have these kinds of situations." He related that several states impose a ten-year moratorium on taxes against new industry.

Local attorney W. W. Speight, who has served as the legal counsel for Greenville Industries since its inception, said today, "I know these excellent industries that came here did not know and were not told that they would be annexed and have to pay taxes to the city, in addition to paying for services that Greenville Utilities renders to them."

Speight, pointing out that the industries pay for all the services they receive from the city, noted that they also contract for their fire protection services with Staton House Fire Department and arrange for their own garbage service.

The attorney said that the profit that is made by GUC in (Continued on page 12)

State Dept. Critical Of Rights Abuses By Israel

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is criticizing human rights policies of some of the United States' staunchest allies, including Israel, which is said to use "extreme physical and psychological pressure" in interrogating prisoners in its occupied lands.

In a report released today, the department said the Israelis run a model democracy in their own territory, but not in occupied Arab lands.

"There are documented reports of the use of extreme physical and psychological pressures during interrogation, and instances of brutality by individual interrogators cannot be ruled out," the report said. It also cited instances where Israeli troops used excessive force against Arab demonstrators and destroyed the homes of Arabs suspected of complicity with terrorists.

The criticism of Israel was mild, however, in comparison to evaluations of authoritarian regimes like the Philippines. The government of President Ferdinand Marcos was accused of torturing political prisoners and of corruption so pervasive as to hamper aid to the poor.

Some of the nations most often criticized for repression, including South Africa, Chile, Uganda and Cambodia, were not evaluated in the 426-page report, which covers only the 105 nations that receive U.S. arms or economic assistance.

Congress requires the reports under a 1976 amendment to the foreign aid law, supposedly to help in allocating American aid. The reports were completed last week and furnished to Congress and the countries involved.

State Department officials, speaking privately, have indicated that they consider the reports to be an unnecessary irritant in foreign relations because many nations consider it arrogant of the United States to evaluate human rights in other lands.

Several countries, including Brazil and El Salvador, told the United States in 1977 that they would do without American aid rather than submit to the evaluations.

Already this year, Cyprus has protested that the department whitewashed Turkish human rights violations in the occupied section of the island to pave the way for renewed military aid to Turkey.

There is no necessary connection between the human rights evaluations and the levels of American aid in the Carter administration's foreign aid budget proposal, details of which will be released later this month.

Informed sources have said that of all the countries criticized, only Nicaragua was cut off from all military sales.

Syrians Press Attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Syrian peacekeepers battled Christian regular forces near Beirut today, carrying their first major confrontation since the end of the Lebanese civil war into a third straight day.

The fighting, touched off by a dispute over a Syrian checkpoint, raged in a torrential rainstorm.

Syrian troops and armor also clashed in running battles with militiamen from Christian political parties' private armies along the mid-city line separating the Moslem and Christian sectors.

In one such clash, witnesses said six Syrian soldiers were burned to death when their armored personnel carrier was set ablaze by an armor piercing rocket near the Christian residential area of Ein el Rumanneh.

A ring of Syrian tanks and rocket launchers pounded a beleaguered 600-man garrison at the Lebanese army's Fayadiyah Barracks three miles east of Beirut, where the confrontation erupted Tuesday.

"There was a lull part of the night, but all hell broke loose again at daybreak," a Lebanese woman trapped in a basement near the barracks reported by telephone.

Informed sources said the garrison commander, Col. Abtoine Barakat, gave the Syrians a 24-hour ultimatum to lift the siege or face a counterattack by his predominantly Christian force.

Barakat's warning that his troops will "move from defense to offense" was interpreted by observers as a sign he may attempt a breakthrough because his own ammunition and food supplies may be running low.

Christian spokesmen said casualties on both sides were heavy as the Syrians blasted positions manned by the rightist militiamen at three low-income Christian residential areas.

Police Doubtful Over Admission Of Stranglings

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A religious part-time actor first described by police as "just another nut" has been arrested for investigation of the murders of 12 women, the victims of the Hillside Strangler.

Police said Ned Terrence York, 37, was arrested Wednesday after telephoning police and claiming responsibility for the killings in a lengthy, rambling call.

But police Cmdr. William Booth refused to call York's statements a confession, saying the man was "probably suffering from exhaustion." Booth said officers had serious doubts about his story.

Immediately after York's arrest, officers said he was incoherent, prompting Booth to speculate that York's arrest "is rapidly developing into nothing."

"This is a real no-story deal," another officer said at the time. "It looks like just another nut."

"But then he began to talk," said Lt. Dan Cooke, a public information officer for the department.

The Associated Press learned from one police source that York told officers he had known the ninth woman strangled since September, Kristina Weckler, and provided "enough information so that we couldn't afford to let him go."

Officers said that arresting York for investigation of murder was the only way they could hold him long enough to check out his claims.

Police cautioned reporters against high expectations. "I don't want everybody to think this case has been solved," Assistant Police Chief Daryl Gates said.

Cooke said that if police did not have enough evidence to charge York formally by Friday, he probably would be released.

Almost a dozen other men have been held for questioning about the stranglings but were not booked in connection with the slayings.

So far we've turned up no one who does woodburning for customers. If any of our readers can offer suggestions, we'll be glad to pass them along.

T SHIRTS

July 18 I sent $5.25 to The Shirt Factory in New York City for two tee shirts, a Size S Farrah Fawcett and a Size 12 Donnie and Marie. The order was placed on a blank clipped from a newspaper. I have my canceled check with Glen Co. Mail Inc. stamped on the back, but no shirts. I have written, but received no answer. V. M.

We requested a copy of your canceled check, which we sent to The Shirt Factory, along with a letter asking that the shirts be mailed to you right away.

The company quickly replied that their records show that your order was processed and shipped to its mailer, the Glen Company. It was assumed lost in transit, the customer service representative said, and she requested that you tell her once again the sizes and styles of shirts you ordered. You did this and now report that you have your tee shirts.

Guidelines for naming recreation and parks facilities in the City of Greenville were presented Wednesday night to members of the Greenville Parks and Recreation Commission.

The draft, presented by Dan Earnhardt, chairman of the committee to study naming guidelines, encompasses a framework of criteria that, once adopted, will provide a standard for giving names to city owned recreation areas or buildings.

Commission members accepted the presented draft, which will now go the route of a public hearing before final action is taken to adopt the guidelines as official.

Commission Chairman Dr. Edgar Hooks explained it is the commission's desire to give the public an opportunity to know the criteria of the guidelines and to provide input before a final vote is taken.

A public hearing on the draft will be held at the next regular meeting of the commission, to be held on Wednesday, March 8.

Basic criteria proposed in the draft includes — Naming of sites or facilities shall be the function of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission;

— The name of a living person shall not be used for a site or facility except under special circumstances to include — (a) When a site is donated by an individual in its entirety; (b) When 50 per cent or more of the total cost of a facility has been donated by an individual or group;

(c) When a provision (for naming) has been made on a deed and such provision is accepted by the commission.

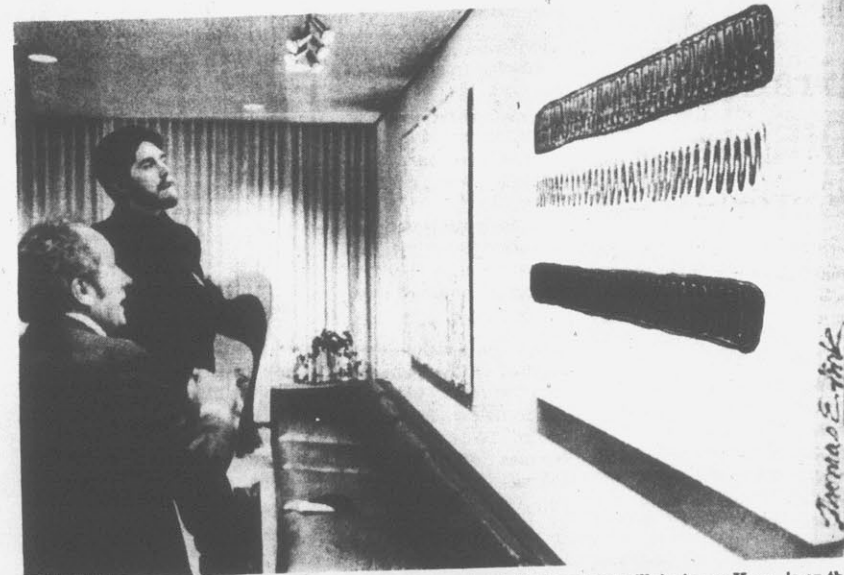

Another criteria incorporated into the draft provides that in general, priority in naming sites will be given to geographical locations, geological features, or tie-in to names of historical significance.

A provision is also included that will give the commission "authority to enter into a written agreement with a civic group or other organization that a facility or site will be named for that group in return for agreed upon sponsorship, maintenance and improvement of that site or facility. This particular guideline also provides that the commission will be authorized to change the name of the site or facility in the event that the agreement is terminated by the group or organization. The word "terminated" as used here would cover the failure of the group or organization to abide by the terms of the written agreement.

WINSTON-SALEM — Aaron Karp, Greenville artist and director of the Wellington B. Gray Gallery, Jenkins Fine Arts Center, East Carolina University, is one of three top award winners in the R. J. Reynolds Industries North Carolina Artists Competition.

Winners were announced Wednesday night at an Artists Collection Reception held in the new Reynolds Industries World Headquarters Building in Winston-Salem.

Top award of $1,500 went to Thomas Link, a Durham artist, for an acrylic painting entitled "Les feux d'Artifice."

Karp, a new member of the ECU School of Art faculty, was awarded the $1,000 second place prize for his large acrylic painting, "First Bloom."

Third place of $500 went to artist Shun Endo of Wilmington for an untitled silkscreen.

Prize money awarded the artists is in addition to the purchase price for the art work at the time it was selected for the permanent collection to be housed in the new headquarters building.

Portions of the art purchased by Reynolds for this collection will be selected for a traveling show to be shown throughout North Carolina and in other parts of the U.S. "as a representative collection of the high quality arts flourishing in North Carolina," according to Charles B. Wade, building committee chairman for the new building.

The collection of 139 works in various media was chosen from 4,000 entries submitted by North Carolina artists in eight separate North Carolina locations.

Jurors for selecting the works to be purchased for the collection were Moussa M. Domit, director of the N. C. Museum of Art, Raleigh; Lida Lowrey, director of Piedmont Craftsmen, Inc., Winston-Salem; Ted Potter, director of the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, Winston-Salem; and William K. Grand Officers Visit Grifton Chapter Saturday

GRIFTON — Members of Grifton Chapter No. 134, Order of Eastern Star, hosted the official visit of Mrs. Glen Whitfield Garner, Worthy Grand Matron, and Dr. L. D. Pruett, Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Saturday evening.

Prior to the meeting, a buffet dinner honoring the guests was given in the Grifton Masonic Lodge dining hall, which was decorated using the Worthy Grand Matron's theme "Along Nature's Trail" and colors.

John Glenn, Worthy Patron of Grifton Chapter, served as master of ceremonies. Wilbur Murphy gave the invocation and Worthy Matron Louise J. McCotter gave the welcome. The response was by Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall Moore, Grand Organist.

The tables were decorated with red hearts and centered with a gold candle entwined with a red heart. The head table was centered with a five branched silver candelabra holding gold tapers and adorned with miniature violet corsages interspersed with gold.

Mrs. Edna Murphy introduced distinguished guests and special music was presented by Mrs. Troy Jackson. Recognition was given E. F. Albrighton, Past Master of Grifton Masonic Lodge No. 243, and his wife, Carol Lynn, by Worthy Patron Glenn.

A gift from the Grifton Chapter was given to Mrs. Garner by Mrs. Glenn and the Worthy Grand Patron's gift was presented by Glenn. Mrs. Inez Sumrell presented a chapter gift to Mrs. Mamie Dodd Jackson, Grand Electa of the Grand Chapter, and Mrs. Wesley Creech, District Deputy Grand Matron of the Seventh District, was remembered with a gift by Mrs. Ella Hoffman.

The dinner was directed by Mrs. Christine Jackson, Mrs. Elizabeth Hart and Mrs. Jewel Johnson, assisted by Mrs. Helen Speight and Mrs. Heber Wade.

Following the dinner, guests and members assembled in the lodge room. The chapter was opened in ritualistic form by Mrs. McCotter.

Introductions were accorded the Worthy Grands, Associate

Grand Matron Margaret S. Dixon and Associate Grand Patron Ray Smith, Past Grand Matron and Patron Marise Conyers and J. Hilton Forbes, Grand Chaplain William Simpson, Grand Marshal Effie Johnson, Grand Organist Elizabeth Moore, Grand Adah Doris Whitfield Moseley, Grand Ruth Pauline Mitchell.

Grand Esther Sue M. Evans, Grand Martha Lillian S. Carroll, Grand Electa Mamie Dodd Jackson, Grand Sentinel John Sparger, Grand Representatives Doris Nobles, Dorothy Stewart, Clara S. Barwick, Jewell Pruett, Lillian Davis, Toni McCanter, Mary Hunt, Aline Rackley, Nolan Garner, Clifton Philpaw and Jim Dixon.

District Deputy Grand Matrons Florence Philpaw, Fourth District, Helen O'Neal, Sixth District, Jean Creech, Seventh District, and Elizabeth Simeone, Ninth District, and District Deputy Grand Patrons Thomas Beachman, Fourth District, and Joseph Jackson, Seventh District. Also introduced and recognized were Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons from visiting chapters and past Worthy Matrons and Patrons present.

Special music was presented by Joe Ray, soloist, of Ayden Chapter, accompanied by Elizabeth Moore, pianist. Gifts from the chapter were presented to Ray and Mrs. Lena Langston, pianist for the evening, by Mrs. Glenn. Honorary memberships in the Grifton Chapter were presented to the Worthy Grands by Jean Creech and Glenn.

Following the official greetings and speeches by the Worthy Grands, a poem dedicated to them was given by Mrs. McCotter.

Mrs. Richard Nelson and Mrs. James Daniels poured punch at a reception which followed the meeting. Cake squares were served by Mrs. Edward Hart.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I've always been a firm believer that weather has an effect on your personality.

Little things. Like once when it rained for five days in a row, I ran away and joined a convent. Another time during a full moon, I cleaned behind my stove and the family had to put me under sedation.

I've lived in the Midwest long enough to know that when the winter comes there's more to worry about than the chill factor. Too much togetherness makes a family strange.

I wish I could explain their actions, but I can't. For some strange reason, the moment the temperature goes down to zero or below, the kids will make an attempt to heat the out-of-doors by leaving the doors ajar. Not wide open, mind you, but just enough to suck out all the heat from the house and cause the plants to die and the furnace motor to burn out.

Cold weather, especially snow, tends to limit children's activities. They can't go to school in it, take out the garbage in it, go to the dentist in it, or shovel the driveway in it. They can, however, ski in it, sled in it, ice skate in it, roll in it, and eat it.

There's another phenomenon with cold weather that I can't explain. The changing clothes syndrome. It's the old "feed a cold, starve a fever, clothe a bad day" logic.

I've seen a child's bedroom at the end of a cold day that looks like a laundromat during a fire drill. Thermal underwear distinguished only by two holes where the feet come out, chairs and beds draped with skirts and trousers, jackets over doorknobs, mis-mated gloves and hats that no one has ever seen before.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Haynie of Rt. 5, Greenville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Debra Kay, to Stanley Owen Setters Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Owen Setters Jr. of Dover, N. J. The wedding will take place in the fall.

New Meat Book Is Worthwhile

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

It is, to coin a spelling, a Blochbuster, one of the most important food books of recent memory.

"The Meat Board Meat Book," by Barbara Bloch, with the National Live Stock and Meat Board, should be required reading in any household concerned with good value, good taste and safety.

In most households, meat accounts for the largest part of the food budget. Yet, hundreds of consumers remain confused by names of cuts and what types of recipes they are appropriate for.

Storage is another problem: How long can you safely hold cooked, ground meat in the refrigerator? The freezer? How should you wrap it?

What is safe storage time for frozen meat that has been thawed and cooked? Can you refreeze it safely?

How can you identify misleading advertising? Or rip-off artists among merchants who sell in bulk to retail customers?

All these questions and hundreds more about buying, storing, cooking, carving, seasoning and health and nutrition are answered in straightforward language.

Color illustrations show exactly what each cut looks like. They are accompanied by descriptions, recommended cooking methods and a variety of names recommended by the meat industry.

Until a few years ago, many meat cuts had confusing names — some regional, some local, some simply the whim of a meat market manager.

The meat book's author is a teacher, lecturer, wife and mother with a healthy interest in consumerism.

It shows in such statements as:

- "Research equipment before you buy." Spend an afternoon window shopping in appliance, department and hardware stores and specialty shops to "get a good overview of what is available, how well it is made and what it costs."
- Ask friends and acquaintances who enjoy cooking what they find the most helpful — and why.
- If you buy a slow cooker, choose one with heat coils on the bottom and around the sides for even cooking. The first time you use it, test the food with a thermometer to make sure it reaches 125 degrees Fahrenheit within three hours and rises quickly thereafter to 165 degrees. If not, return the cooker — because it isn't heating fast enough to prevent bacterial growth.
- Knife blades can be dulled or chipped by electrical or mechanical sharpeners that often shorten the life of the knife by wearing the blade away too much.
- Overcooked pot roasts will fall apart when carved no matter how good your carving knife.
- Well-seared oven roasts can be hard to carve because of that luscious brown crust.

County-Wide System In Sight

Pitt County is moving toward a county wide water system.

The County Commissioners last week approved applying to the Farmers Home Administration for funding of the county system.

The county will be asking for a $2.62 million grant and a $2.62 million loan for the system. A grant of $1.37 million from the State Clean Water Bond funds has already been approved. Also being looked into is funding from the Coastal Plains Regional Commission.

The plan is to finance a $6.63 million system which would reach a potential 2,750 customers. Of these it is projected that 2,200 would use the service. There would be four 200,000 gallon elevated tanks and nine deep wells. One million feet of six-inch pipe would be required and 510,00 feet of four-inch main.

The system would serve areas not now served by municipal or rural systems and revenues would repay the loans and the operating costs.

It appears that construction of the rural water system is feasible once the loans and grants are approved. The water system will be helpful to rural residents.

N.C. Coastline Ideal For Smugglers

If there was any question that North Carolina has become a major site for smuggling in marijuana, it is dispelled by recent seizures on our coast.

This week agents raided a shrimp boat and other vessels carrying an estimated 20 tons of Columbian marijuana. Value of the contraband was placed at $16 million at the street sale level.

There have been other seizures in recent months — one of 12 tons and another of six tons. Twenty-two tons were captured in 1976.

With its many coves, creeks and secluded areas the state's coast makes an inviting area for smugglers to operate. That fact will mean our coastal waters will have to be carefully patrolled.

THIS AFTERNOON

Ports Gain Arab Shipping

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — North Carolina is making a strong bid to keep some of those Petrodollars at home.

Oil-rich Arabian nations have been to blame for much of the unbalancing of the trade business for America. Now sultans and shahs are seeking ways to spend some of their money. Recent stories have detailed banking activities in Georgia, natural gas deals in Louisiana, and land deals elsewhere in the nation including South Carolina.

For this state, the ports at Morehead City and Wilmington seem to have caught the fancy of Arabians.

From apples to military to mobile homes destined for a desert oasis location, the activity is an indication of the growing importance of shipping to business in North Carolina.

Arya National Shipping Lines Co. of Iran has relocated its headquarters from New York to Wilmington, where some 100 containers will be moved out every three weeks. By June, the Iranian shipments should reach 100 containers per week. Much of the cargo is for the Iranian government. Estimates are this activity alone will boost ports business by over 25 per cent.

New Residents

Location of the shipping line in Wilmington also means some new residents for that port city: three officers representing the Iranian army and navy and some eight shipping company executives and their families are moving in.

This winter approximately five million pounds of apples have been shipped. The apples came from North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and Indiana. Getting into such large shipments of apples will mean increased business later as contacts are made with similar suppliers and purchasers.

Hundreds of mobile homes have been shipped to the middle east, with more expected for shipment later this year.

William M. A. Greene of Spooner's Creek is the new director of the State Ports Authority, named to the post last September. A retired rear admiral, Greene says he "sought this appointment aggressively because I am confident that in the position of executive director... I can best serve the economic growth of North Carolina."

"My goal is to make the ports of Morehead City and Wilmington together realize their full potential and compete with our sister states in world trade."

NOBLITT

Studies are now underway to make sure this state is competitive with other port locations in rates, and better in serving shippers and visiting ships.

At a recent meeting of the Coastal Plains World Trade Association at Greenville, Greene said, "I want to assure this group that generating world trade is foremost in the minds of our board of directors... we intend to make the ports competitive..."

Programs

Ports staffers are already moving ahead with programs to get new ideas and suggestions from business and organizations who should be interested in the ports, and a public relations effort is underway to inform Tar Heels of just how valuable the ports are—and can be.

That potential will cost, Greene says. A five-year plan is being drawn up to spur rapid growth of the ports—if the money is available. "We will prove to the legislature spending money will bring money. It is a good return for the investment... more profit from shipping contracts, and promote economic growth to the ports and the inland," Greene says.

Greene is a native of North Carolina, and attended Brevard Junior College and East Carolina where he received a degree in business. Before retiring from the Navy, he saw service in a variety of positions, including administering supply programs, publishing the U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings, and directing the Navy recruiting program when the all-volunteer program was launched.

Step Toward Freedom

LEXINGTON, Ky. — This wandering correspondent turned up in Kentucky last week, on the same day the Kentucky House of Representatives voted to legalize Laetrile. You could travel a long way and not see a more absorbing demonstration of the democratic process in action.

The proceedings were covered by the educational television channel, KET, and broadcast in their entirety at 11 o'clock that night. The speakers at Frankfort weren't quite as articulate as the actors on "I, Claudius", but what the legislature debate lacked in stagecraft it made up for in old-fashioned integrity. This is one of the lovely things about state legislatures: If you listen, you hear the people talking.

It would have been wonderfully useful if the nation's medical establishment could have watched the televised debate. It would have been even better if some of Commissioner Donald Kennedy's minions at the Food and Drug Administration could have listened in. These holy-toity fellows could use a little humility. They might have found it at Frankfort.

The bill passed the Kentucky House by the crushing margin of 79-14. That vote ought to tell the doctors something. And it was not as if the establishment's position went unheard.

Opponents of the bill argued, for example, that Laetrile is "dangerous". Proponents simply did not believe it — and the proponents are clearly right. The contention that Laetrile is dangerous because apricot kernels contain cyanide recalls the contention twenty years ago that sodium fluoride is dangerous because it goes into rat poison. There is no evidence that Laetrile is any more dangerous than other drugs, and it probably is safer to have around the house than aspirin.

Opponents also argued that to make Laetrile legally available would lure cancer victims into accepting treatment by quackery instead of treatment by chemotherapy, radiation and surgery. The proponents responded by pointing to the terms of the bill: Every patient would be required to sign a form acknowledging that he has been informed that the drug's worth has not been scientifically established.

The Kentucky legislators understood precisely what is involved in this controversy. It is not the efficacy of Laetrile, but the freedom of the individual. In the whole of the debate, not a single speaker argued that Laetrile has value in the treatment of cancer. What they argued was the right of a cancer victim, having tried every conventional form of treatment without success, to obtain possible relief from a drug "that just might help".

Under the surface of the debate, one sensed a deep vein of resentment. The state's legislative research service had conducted interim hearings on the legalization proposal. The FDA sent a representative to testify against the bill. But the federal spokesman "just snickered at us", said Representative Ronald Cyrus of Flatwoods. "He sat in the back of the room and snickered and talked."

The debate closed with a short, stunning speech by

Chief of Police George Clark, today called attention to a city ordinance prohibiting citizens from allowing dogs to run at large within the corporate limits and declaring that the law would be enforced along strict lines from now on.

"We have had numerous complaints regarding dogs running at large and since the statute is on our books we will strive to carry out the law as intended," Chief Clark added.

Miss Kate Lewis' class at East Carolina Teachers College in Crafts for the Grammar Grades, one of the Public Schools Art classes, yesterday paid a visit to Smithfield, to the pottery just outside the town.

The class had been studying pottery making and has been experimenting with clay found in this section.

Since the majority of the class had not had an opportunity to observe the process of making pottery, Miss Lewis arranged for them to visit the Smithfield business.

At the pottery, the group had a chance to watch the potter working with the slop and shaping the one type of thing he was making on Tuesday, a kind of pitcher or small pot. They were especially interested in the potters wheel.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Disposing Of Limousines

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration isn't forgetting its "war on limousines." The White House motor pool is trading in cars that waste fuel for a fleet of smaller vehicles, including Detroit's newest subcompact sedan.

When President Carter was inaugurated, he inherited 29 Chrysler Newport sedans used to ferry senior presidential aides to and from work. The Newports, with 400 cubic inch V-8 engines, were rated by the Environmental Protection Agency as getting 13 miles per gallon of gasoline in combined city-highway driving.

The president ordered his kinsman and chief staff economist, Hugh Carter Jr., to end portal-to-portal chauffeured service for White House assistants. Moreover, the younger Carter was directed to trim the size of the fleet.

Ferry service was ended for all except Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's assistant for national security affairs. The exception was dictated largely by security considerations, according to the White House.

Hugh Carter Jr., who has worked hard earning the nickname "Cousin Cheap," reduced the fleet of 29 chauffeured Newports to 14 and slashed the rest of the White House fleet, which includes trucks, vans and messenger cars, from 27 to 14.

The presidential cousin thus exceeded his own announced goal of trimming the fleet to 35 vehicles of all types. It's down to 28.

For an encore, Hugh Carter is in the process of trading in the Newports for Dodge Diplomats equipped with 225 cubic inch six-cylinder engines that the EPA figures are good for 19 miles to the gallon.

Moreover, three Plymouth Volare messenger vehicles, EPA rated at 17 miles per gallon, are being traded in for Plymouth Horizon subcompacts, which are just now finding their way into dealer showrooms. The Horizon rating is 26 miles per gallon.

In an interview, the younger Carter said the moves were in keeping with an executive order of last July in which the president called for an average 18-mpg minimum for passenger cars in government service and a fleet average of 20.

Carter said all major American manufacturers were approached about equipping the White House and that Chrysler Corp. "showed the most interest."

The government pays Chrysler an annual lease fee of $900 per vehicle, regardless of type or size. Repairs are made under warranty in the service shops of area dealers.

Many a motorist might covet a similar deal. Chrysler presumably finds publicity value in outfitting the White House with its products.

The presidential "war on gobbledygook" also continues, with mixed results.

Take the U.S. Information Agency, now being reorganized as the International Communication Agency. As part of the transformation, bureaucrats decided to change the name of the old International Press Service, which runs much like a news organization, to Printed Acquisitions and Programs.

When employees complained this would spell PAP, hardly a fortunate acronym for an organization dealing with news, some great thinkers developed an alternate designation: Print, Production and Procurement.

When the uranium-laden Soviet spy satellite flared across the skies of western Canada at a pre-dawn hour last month, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin did not hear about it first from his employers in Moscow.

A phone call from Brzezinski brought the envoy the news. Woke him up, in fact.

Other Editors Say Taxpayer Revolt

(The Wilson Times)

The prospect of a taxpayers' revolution in America is beginning to receive public attention as an alternative to present directions in government.

Perhaps the most outspoken suggestion of such a move as the best hope of stopping a rush to bankruptcy has been put forth by a leading North Carolina executive. The article appeared in Bill Noblitt's column of January 30.

Noblitt quoted John G. Medlin, Jr. president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, headquartered at Winston-Salem. He believes present conditions hold "some of the same distasteful human circumstances which inspired a rebellion 200 years ago and which gave birth to this Republic. Therein lies the hope that the administration, the Congress, or more likely, the American people will soon act to reverse the disturbing and hazardous trends in their government's policies and practices."

Medlin concludes that "government leaders in representative democracies are unlikely to make the unpopular and courageous decisions necessary to balance budgets without persistent prodding from the voters."

The remarks were made in December to the Rotary Club of Winston-Salem. The North Carolina Citizens Association, an organization of the state's top level business and civic leaders, reprinted the speech in full in the January issue of We the People of North Carolina magazine.

Editorially the magazine had excited hopes of a balanced federal budget but it "now seems certain that lovely vision is nothing more than just another fiscal mirage."

Medlin's comments, the editorial noted, suggested that the best hope for a halt to our mad rush to national bankruptcy rests in a revolt by the younger American generation grown increasingly conservative in economic matters as it matures.

"That is an encouraging thought. For it is that very age group which stands to suffer so grievously from the consequences of 40 years of governmental fiscal follies."

"What is the legacy to this generation from those policies? A staggering burden of monstrous Social Security taxes, the inheritance of that Himalayan national debt and the annual interest of billions upon it, dismaying prospect of continued yearly inflation, the pernicious fantasy, fostered by the politicians upon so many people that a fat little man in a red suit really does bring gifts down the chimney on Christmas Eve."

Strength For Today

FACING FACTS

When the boy Beethoven first played before Mozart, the most celebrated composer of his day, the latter was convinced that he was listening to a genius. At ten Beethoven went on his first concert tour, and at fourteen he conducted the orchestra at an opera.

But it was not long before the shadow of a great affliction began to fall across his path. Little by little, his hearing became dulled, and when he reached the height of his fame, he could not hear a single note of the gorgeous music he had written. Sometimes he would bend close to the piano, trying to catch the now faint sounds of his masterpieces. He died at fifty-seven, murmuring with indescribable pathos, "I shall hear again in heaven."

An affliction is always hard to bear. Yet some of the world's greatest figures have borne severe handicaps. These people became great because they refused to allow these misfortunes to destroy their gifts and their happiness.

The Asterisks Carry A Story

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that we have absorbed the good news of a continued decline in the jobless rate, to 6.3 percent in January, we can reflect on the meaning of the asterisks, figuratively speaking.

Asterisks always contain a story, and sometimes a lesson as well, and in reference to unemployment the lesson is this:

That jobless rate which most of us watch like our own weight is not a count or a reading; it is a calculation at best, but more accurately expressed, it is an estimate.

To accept it as a precise percentage of the total count of idle members of the labor force is to tolerate the butcher resting his thumb on the scale while quoting a price for hamburger.

On this statistical indicator, as on others, Uncle

Sam rests a heavy hand on the scales, as Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics, revealed in material prepared for Congress.

"It should be noted," he said, "that the January figures from the household survey (one of two surveys conducted as a base for the numbers) are not strictly comparable with prior months."

Why? Because of an increase in the sample and "some improvements in the estimation procedures." And because "we have introduced a procedural improvement in the current method."

The changes announced a month earlier, in January, were of even more substance. These modifications, you may recall, were for the month of December, when the jobless rate diverged from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent.

Well, not really. It is true that the December rate was 6.4 percent, the commissioner said, but the drop was more modest, from 6.7 percent, not from 6.9 percent.

But hadn't the commissioner announced a month earlier that the jobless rate was indeed 6.9 percent? Yes, but that was before the statistics were improved. Under the improvement, November was lowered to 6.7.

There is little unusual in revising the figures in later months. It's done every year. Every year the figures for the previous year are reviewed and often changed.

But in this case, said Shiskin, the bureau and the country were very fortunate because, "through a combination of fortuitous circumstances," the recalculations were ready earlier than expected.

Thus goes the explanation for what appeared to be an almost incredible drop in unemployment for December, from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent. The previous month's figure was inaccurate; it was corrected.

A procedural change also was made in selecting an earlier week in the month for the household survey, which helps determine who is employed, who unemployed.

As the commissioner explained, this deviation from the monthly routine is an annual December event, "because of difficulties in finding people at home in the period just before Christmas."

All these changes seemingly were made according to recognized statistical procedures. No, they were not the result of hanky-panky; the commissioner's professional integrity is unquestioned.

Panama Canal Treaty Debate Off To Slow Start

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With a flurry of parliamentary maneuvering and a torrent of rhetoric — but only a handful of members on the floor for much of the opening round — the Panama Canal debate is underway in the Senate.

More than 30 senators were on the floor for the start of what one senator called the "most intensive foreign policy debate" since the Vietnam War.

But, as the speeches wore on, the number of senators on the floor dwindled to fewer than 10, not an unusual number.

For the first time ever, the American people could hear live radio broadcast of Senate proceedings as National Public Radio broadcast the debate.

The first session lasted six hours, as supporters and opponents of the treaties stated arguments, grown familiar over the last year, for and against the two treaties.

The debate began Wednesday with the Senate's two most skilled parliamentarians, Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., and Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., establishing ground rules for the debate and future maneuvering by both sides.

Allen said that while he and other opponents have no plans to seek unnecessary delays, there are "dozens of substantive amendments" the opponents will present.

Noting that the proceedings were being broadcast, Byrd urged senators to attend the debate so that a lot of time would not be "chewed up" with quorum calls, the usual device for killing time while senators who want to speak get to the floor. Byrd said that he and Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had agreed they would object to committee meetings during the canal debate. Senate rules require that committees have permission to hold hearings while the Senate is in session.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev.,

contended that approving the treaties would amount to knocking under to blackmail by Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos, an argument that was challenged by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"I support the treaties for just the opposite reason," said Church. "They guarantee that we will have the use and security of the canal. That is not a geneflection in front of Omar Torrijos, who will not even be in charge of Panama in the year 2000," when Panama would take control under the treaties.

Sen. Robert Griffin, D-Mich., charged the treaties were "ridicled with ambiguities." But Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said he thought they were "the best solution that could be negotiated." Both agreements need a two-thirds majority to be approved. Most recent polls note that opponents are about three votes shy of the 34 needed to insure the treaties' demise.

One of the opponents' frequent spokesmen, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, in a nationally televised "fire-side chat" Wednesday night, said Carter had "left the mistaken impression... that the canal was somehow forced on Panama."

Survey For City Sewers Is Scheduled

Within the next few weeks Sloan Construction Company employees will be in the Greenville area conducting a Sewer System Evaluation Survey, according to Wadie D. Lewis, Superintendent of Water and Sewer at Greenville Utilities Commission.

Lewis said that these men will be easily noticed in their orange uniforms and in Sloan Company trucks. They are "fully qualified in the SSES methods and their concern is to prevent any damage to public or private properties, injury to any person, or disruption of traffic in each area under study."

He added that there may be some occasions when access to private property will be necessary, but every effort will be made to prevent any damage. "In addition, there may be times when these crews must obtain field data during late night or early morning hours," noted Lewis.

"In order to locate exact sources of inflow leaks into our sewer system, it will be necessary to perform smoke testing on some lines." This is performed by blowing low pressure smoke into the lines and then noting where it escapes.

Smoke may often be seen in storm drains, gutters, or vent pipes on the roof, indicating where repairs and corrections must be made.

"The smoke that will be used is odorless, nontoxic, and harmless to all," added Lewis.

"The cooperation of all citizens in Greenville will be appreciated."

In a brief address to guests attending the reception, company president J. Paul Sticht called on businesses to support the arts. "Business is one of the few institutions on which the arts can call for support these days. There are less and less of the large fortunes and private foundations the arts used to rely on. If corporations do not fill the void created by the loss of traditional sources of support, the arts may well be dominated by government."

To be eligible, a child must be five years of age on or before Oct. 16, 1978. Applications may be obtained from the Grifton School Office or by calling 524-5141.

Free Concert In Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — "The Bridge," a contemporary Christian band, will be in concert at 8 p.m. tonight at the Martin Community College auditorium.

There is no admission charge for the concert and the public is invited to attend.

The band consists of six musicians and two female vocalists. Their music ranges from folk to rock and includes progressive country music.

Ipock Commends Betrayed By Police Record

Bill Ipock, president of The Happy Stores here, commended the Greenville Police and Pitt County Sheriff's Department for prompt action in making an arrest following Wednesday night's armed robbery at one of the Happy Stores.

Ipock recalled that four robberies had occurred at his businesses in the last four years and "in all occasions, the people involved have been caught."

He added that the city police, "based on the restraints they are under and their tight budgets, are doing an excellent job."

According to Ipock, the North Carolina Association of Convenience Stores was instrumental in getting legislation passed in the last session of the General Assembly that makes a seven year prison sentence mandatory for armed robbery convictions in the state.

Ipock, who serves as president of the association, said that feels the new law is helping to deter armed robbery instances.

No Charges In Car-Collision

Cars driven by Lillian Gardner Horton of Fountain and Robert Leonard Martin of 304 King George Rd. collided about 11:50 a.m. yesterday on Arlington Boulevard, 200 feet South of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, according to Greenville police.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage from the collision at $225 to the Horton car and $350 to the Martin vehicle.

Betrayed By Handcuffs

SONORA, Calif. (AP) — When the sheriff's office began getting calls about a man in handcuffs calmly waiting for a plane in the airport lobby, deputies knew just who it was — an escaped prisoner who had decided things were better in custody.

According to Tuolumne County Sheriff's Deputy Jay Coats, prisoner Ed Bigelow, 26, of New York had jumped from the back door of a taxiing plane that was to take him and five other prisoners to California Medical Facility at Vacaville for diagnostic studies.

The plane took off before anyone noticed Bigelow missing, Coats said.

But Bigelow, handcuffed to a chain around his waist, became soaked in the rain and soon decided he had been better off inside the dry plane, Coats said. He walked back to the airport and asked about getting to Vacaville on a commercial flight.

By then, the pilot of the plane had noticed a passenger was missing and had alerted sheriff's officers here. Deputies also received calls about the handcuffed man waiting for a plane.

Bigelow, convicted of burglarizing the Sonora city hall, was taken back into custody to await another flight.

Children Giving PTA Program

Students of South Greenville School will demonstrate their physical education training and skills during a PTA meeting in the school auditorium tonight at 7:30.

Miss Faye Manning will be demonstrating with children of Grades Kindergarten through Sixth participating. All parents are urged to attend.

A Confederate Widow Dies

AUTRYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The widow of a Confederate soldier who was serving under Gen. Robert E. Lee when he surrendered at Appomattox died Tuesday. Rita Butler Murray would have been 92 on Feb. 24.

According to papers held by her only surviving nephew, Murray Bullard of Autryville, Mrs. Murray was married to Dr. W. W. Murray when she was 29 and he was 60. The marriage took place on Sept. 4, 1917.

Dr. Murray was 17 years old at the time of Lee's surrender. He served as a surgeon in the Spanish American war and died in the 1930s.

DEAR ABBY: One year after Roy and I were married, his father, a 68-year-old widower, came to visit us for "a few months." That was three years ago, and he's still here. He's a nice enough person, but Roy and I have no privacy in this one-bedroom apartment. Dad sleeps on a sofa bed in the living room and comes with us wherever we go. I'm 30 now and Roy is 32, and we want a baby, but until his father leaves it's out of the question.

Dad has three other children (all married) who have invited him to live with them, but he prefers living with us because we live in California and the others live in New Jersey. He's in good health for his age, but all he does is eat, sleep, read and watch daytime TV. (We can't watch TV after 10 p.m. so he can sleep.)

Forget about letting Dad live alone. His family wouldn't hear of it.

I hate to complain to Roy because he's such a sweet guy and thinks it's his moral obligation to look after his father. But I just want to be alone with my husband, Abby. Am I being selfish? Our marriage is beginning to suffer from this arrangement? Is there a solution?

THREE IS A CROWD

DEAR THREE: Yes. Tell your husband that it's time for "Dad" to divide his time among the other children. You are not selfish; it's a matter of survival. And if your husband is the "sweet guy" you say he is, he'll see it your way.

DEAR ABBY: Am I wrong for objecting to the following idea? My daughter-in-law wants to give a baby shower for her niece, who has been living in Alaska for two years. This niece is 14-years-old and is not married.

My daughter-in-law says her niece's school chums OWE her that. She says nobody has to know that the girl is not married.

Maybe I'm old-fashioned but it looks like greed to me, and I can't see where anybody "owes" this kid anything. I realize this girl is in a tough spot, but I just don't feel like going along with this kind of shower.

If you say I'm wrong, I'll send something for the baby.

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: The only reason to send a gift is because you WANT to. It's not "wrong" to send a gift under any circumstances, but nobody "owes" anybody anything.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and Peter, the man I'm engaged to, is 32. I love him very much and he says he loves me, and I guess he does, but I don't know why.

Peter is an engineer and he's had a very good education. I never went beyond the seventh grade. When we are with his friends, I'm always afraid I'll say the wrong thing, then everybody will know how dumb I am and Peter will be ashamed of me.

He says I am fine and I shouldn't worry about what to say, but by the end of the evening I'm so nervous and tied up in knots that I'm trembling. How can I get over this feeling? Folks tell me I'm pretty, but that's not enough. Can you help me?

SICK WITH FRIGHT

DEAR SICK: If you can write, you can read. And if you can read, you can learn. Read your newspaper and keep up with the current events. That's a beginning. And don't be afraid to speak up.

If Peter were "ashamed" of you, he wouldn't introduce you to his friends. Even with your limited education, you are probably a lot brighter than you think you are. Look into taking some classes in adult education. It will do wonders for your confidence.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Akron Abortion Ordinance Intended As 'Model'

Arrest Man In Armed Robbery

The investigation of an armed robbery last night at The Happy Store on Pictolus Highway near Greenville led to the arrest of a 21-year-old Greenville man.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that Greenville Police stopped a car here shortly after the robbery incident and notified the Sheriff's Department. Deputies charged Louis Hilton Carlton of 703 E. Fourth Street with the armed robbery.

Sheriff Tyson said that the store operator, Greg Martin, told officers that a white male entered the store, made the butt of a pistol in his pocket visible to the operator, and demanded the cash drawer from the register.

The sheriff said the operator reported that the money tray from the cash register, containing approximately $100 in cash, was taken. Martin told investigating officers that the robber left the area in a red automobile, headed north on Ramshorn Road.

According to Sheriff Tyson, someone at the store told deputies that a rag covered the license plate of the fleeing vehicle.

Officers recovered $88 in currency cash and a cash tray and confiscated a hand gun and red

Pinto automobile, the sheriff reported.

Carlton was placed in Pitt County Jail under $50,000 bond, Sheriff Tyson said.

He reported that the store operator was not hurt in the incident, which took place around 8:30 p.m.

By NANCY VARLEY

Associated Press Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A woman shall be shown that the fetus growing inside her can squint, frown, swallow and make a fist. She shall be told that aborting that fetus may make her feel depressed and suicidal.

These are among detailed provisions of a proposed abortion ordinance now under consideration by a committee of the Akron City Council. The ordinance would regulate three abortion clinics and a fourth family clinic that sometimes performs abortions. There were 5,574 abortions performed at those facilities last year.

The proposed ordinance, written by an anti-abortion coalition called Citizens for Informed Consent, also dictates how the remains of an aborted fetus would be disposed of, requiring they be taken to a licensed funeral director.

Public hearings on the ordinance last week included testimony from supporters, who say it would serve as a model for other cities, and opponents, who say it demeans and aims to intimidate women.

Robert Goehler, chairman of the city council's health and safety committee, said a recommendation on the ordinance to the full council would come before the end of February.

Details of the proposed ordinance include: —Any woman seeking an abortion would have to give 24-hour notice of the operation either to the father of the fetus or, if she is younger than 18, to her parents. A girl younger than 15 must have the written consent of her parents.

—Abortions would be prohibited after 22 weeks of pregnancy except to save a woman's life.

The presence of two physicians would be required if the fetus might survive — one to perform the abortion, the second to care for the fetus.

—A woman seeking an abortion would have to be informed "that her unborn child can squint, frown, swallow, move the tongue, make a fist and is sensitive to touch, if more than nine weeks have elapsed since the time of conception...

—That abortion is a surgical procedure which can result in serious complications, including...sterility, miscarriage and prematurity in subsequent pregnancies, and even death...

—That abortion may leave essentially unaffected or may worsen any existing psychological problem she may have, and can result in severe emotional disturbances, including depression and suicide."

Moore Leaves Medical School

ECU News Bureau

Charles Moore has resigned as assistant dean for planning and development at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Moore, who had been with the medical school since 1975, has accepted a position as administrative vice president in charge of hospitals with General Health Services, Culver City, Calif. GHS owns and contracts to operate hospitals in the west and south.

"I deeply regret that Mr. Moore will no longer be associated with us. He was instrumental in developing new grant proposals and establishing support for the school on a national level," said Dr. William E. Laupus, dean of the School of Medicine.

Death Cause Unknown In Hazing Of Student

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The exact cause of the death of Nathaniel Swinson, a 20-year-old North Carolina Central University student who died after a fraternity hazing episode, is still not known, according to Durham Chief of Detectives Talmadge Lassiter.

Medical examiners told his investigators that Swinson had "excess fluid around his heart." Lassiter said detectives are investigating to find out if "it was a violent death...and if so, who was responsible."

School physician S.E. Harrell described Swinson as "a big healthy fellow, 200 pounds." School officials say the junior from Kinston collapsed while running early last Sunday during a fraternity initiation rite. He died six hours later.

North Carolina Central Vice Chancellor James F. Blue said the school is conducting its own probe "to bring to light as much as we can."

Blue said the national fraternnity chapter involved, Omega Psi Phi, was suspended twice in recent years for allegedly brutal hazing practices, and finally had its charter revoked in March 1976.

The revocation came, Blue said, after several pledges allegedly were forced to ingest large amounts of water, endure hair pulling and kicking, and participate in long runs.

The chapter later was reorganized and received a new charter from the national fraternity.

Two students, Edmond Purdie and Kenneth Koonce, told police Swinson was among 15 pledges who were required to do exercises and run four miles Saturday night. After resting half an hour, they said, the pledges began running short dashes about 3 a.m.

The students said Swinson was sweating heavily at the end of the four-mile run and claimed to have fallen into a ditch. He collapsed when he began the wind sprints.

He was taken to an apartment where he was placed in a tub of hot salt water and given a glass of salt water at his request, they said. He was wrapped in several blankets and later he asked to be taken to a hospital.

On the way, the students said, he drank a bottle of apple juice, became dizzy and couldn't hold up his head.

Highways Said 'Wearing Out'

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one-fifth of the nation's interstate highway system needs resurfacing or other major repairs, a congressman says.

Rep. Sam M. Gibbons, D-Fla., cited a Federal Highway Administration study that concluded major work is needed on 8,000 miles of the 38,000-mile system open to traffic.

Gibbons, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee's oversight subcommittee, said Wednesday that $19 billion may be needed for repair and rehabilitation through 1995.

"The finest part of our road network, the interstate system, is wearing out faster than anyone expected," Gibbons said.

"This is the system that was designed for a life expectancy of 20 years. Yet, according to a General Accounting Office report issued last year, the interstate is wearing out 50 percent faster than it can be replaced."

The projected cost of the interstate system when it started in 1957 was $37.5 billion. Some $63.7 billion has been spent so far and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams estimates the cost will go to $104.3 billion when the road network is completed — anywhere from 1987 to the year 2000.

Farewell Dinner

A limited number of tickets are still available for the farewell dinner for Father H. Charles Mulholland, pastor of St. Gabriel's Church.

Father Mulholland is being transferred, after having spent 10 years in Greenville.

Danny Jacobson, president of WOOW Radio, will be master of ceremonies at a "Charlie Roast" to be held at St. Gabriel's Hall Sunday, Feb. 19, at 4 p.m. A roast beef dinner will be served. Reservations may be made by calling Catholic Social Services, 752-7912, weekdays between 10 a.m. and noon, or WOOW, 758-1171.

After the dinner, a reception will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the school hall. Because of seating limitations, children cannot be accommodated at the dinner, but, along with the general public, are invited to attend the open house in the evening.

RELIEF ENDS

Israel Urges Lobbying Against Egypt Arms Sale

By The Associated Press
Israel called on its American friends to lobby against U.S. arms sales to Egypt as the Carter administration planned a more active role in the search for Arab-Israeli peace as a result of President Anwar Sadat's visit to Washington.

Deputy Defense Minister Mordechai Zippori told the Knesset, Israel's parliament, that Israel would "mobilize all our friends" in America to block the sale of jet fighters and other weapons requested by Sadat during his six-day stay in the United States.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin, on a fund-raising visit to Switzerland, said American arms sales to Egypt would be a "very negative development in the Middle East peace process."

Sadat left Washington for Europe Wednesday night with high praise and a hug from President Carter but no public pledge of arms support. Officials said it would take Carter about two weeks to decide what to do about Sadat's request for weapons. Meanwhile, he called the Egyptian president "a great man" and "the world's foremost peacemaker" as he bade him farewell.

Sadat asked Carter for 120 F-5Es, a short-range jet fighter, and expressed interest in more advanced F-15s and F-16s, a U.S. official reported.

"The best bet is that he'll get some F-5Es," said the official. He said he doubted Congress would approve supplying Egypt with the more advanced planes. Sadat said the United States had moved from the status of "go-between" in the Egyptian-Israeli peace negotiations to "complete partnership." Agreeing, one U.S. official in Washington said, "We are going to try to move things along more actively in the future."

Alfred L. Atherton Jr., the assistant secretary of state for the Middle East, was to meet today in New York with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, who will visit Washington next week. Atherton is to return to the Middle East soon and shuttle between Cairo and Jerusalem to try to get the peace negotiations going again.

Carter invited a small group of American Jewish leaders to a "very private dinner" tonight to explain U.S. policy in the Middle East.

The Egyptian president flew off to meetings with leaders in Britain, France, West Germany, Austria, Italy and Romania to argue his case for the complete withdrawal and recognition of Palestinian self-determination which Israel refuses to concede.

The White House reiterated its opposition to Israeli settlements in the occupied territories with a statement which said: "Further settlement activity would be inconsistent with the effort to reach a peace settlement." It added that "the United States will remain faithful to its historic commitments to the security of Israel."

Meanwhile, the Israeli state radio reported Wednesday that settlers were preparing to move into one of three new settlements the Israeli government approved some time ago for the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

District Meet Slated Feb. 21

Flue-cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, the grower organization which administers the price support program for flue-cured tobacco, will hold its 20th annual district meeting for North Carolina growers in District Six.

District Six includes the following flue-cured counties in the Eastern Belt of North Carolina: Beaufort, Bertie, Carteret, Craven, Dare, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pitt, Tyrrell, and Washington.

James T. Hill Jr. of Kinston, director from District Six, and Fred G. Bond, general manager, jointly announced that the meeting will be held in the Moose Lodge, Greenville, on Feb. 21 at 6 p.m. with a complimentary supper. Reservations for supper must be made at the County Farm Bureau Office by Feb. 15.

The Co-op's operational report for the calendar year will be given. In addition, reports will be given by representatives of Tobacco Associates, Inc.; Tobacco Growers' Information Committee; USDA-AMS Inspection (Grading) Service; and other allied organizations and agencies. Ample time will be provided for discussion.

A brief business session will be held immediately following the regular meeting for the purpose of electing Advisory Committee members for the coming year.

Attending the national conference from Pitt Tech were Joseph Downing, Assistant Dean for Curricular Programs, Sam Arnett, instructor in the Architectural Drafting Department, and Mark King, Energy Program Coordinator.

According to Arnett, the conference was primarily a series of presentations of papers on viable alternatives to present patterns of energy use. Areas of interest discussed at the meeting included conservation in heating buildings, commercial and industrial uses, transportation, and development of new sources of energy.

Representatives from various governmental agencies were present to share with conference participants the current status of energy legislation and possible future activities.

John F. O'Leary, Deputy Secretary, Department of Energy opened the proceedings by giving a prognosis of the future of this nation if sufficient steps are not taken to curb energy usage. He gave a brief synopsis of the alternatives available to the U.S. in 1985, utilizing the traditional fuels and the impact shortages will have on the economy. His main point was that the U.S. does not have sufficient domestic oil and will not be able to afford importation of over 50 percent of its fuel at two or three times today's costs. He also said that nuclear energy

Airs Report On Finances

Joseph Williams, president of Tobacco Associates Inc., reported the organization's financial condition for 1977.

Williams reported total revenues of $607,952, total expenses of $783,999, current assets of $835,403, net fixed assets of $13,607, and total assets of $849,010.

He said that $439,000 of the budget will be spent for foreign market development and promotional programs will continue in Austria, Egypt, Jordan, Libya, Saudia Arabia, Syria, Taiwan and Thailand.

Funds will be appropriated to scientific tobacco research and cancer research, he mentioned, and additional exploratory programs will be undertaken in Eastern Europe and Central Africa.

Tobacco Associates, promotional organization for flue-cured tobacco, is financed by grower assessments in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, and Florida, as well as by contributions from leaf dealers, warehousemen, bankers, merchants, and fertilizer manufacturers.

Symphony Debut At JFK Center

RALEIGH — An announcement has been made that the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra will make its Washington debut at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts on April 28.

The N. C. Symphony in March, 1977, made its New York debut at Carnegie Hall.

is not presently an option, that coal production is half of what it was 10 years ago and that gas reserves are limited and supply is unreliable.

The information presented by the conference speakers was quite often on results of actual tests of conservation technology. Modification of existing structures and equipment, alternate fuels, legal considerations and economic factors were also discussed.

Pitt Technical Institute representatives learned that several governmental agencies are actively involved in energy research, such as NASA, U.S. Air Force, and of course, the Department of Energy. The Community Services Agency sponsors many programs promoting energy conservation and some of these were described by Richard Saul, assistant director.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped into a steady decline today, giving back some of its gains of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which rose 14.05 Tuesday and Wednesday, retreated 4.07 to 778.59 by noon-time today.

Declines outpaced advances by a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that the market's recent rally had begun to taper off in late trading Wednesday.

They also said traders might have been disappointed by reports that efforts by Senate conferees to break a deadlock over natural gas pricing had stalled.

The natural-gas impasse has been a major source of delay in reaching agreement on an energy bill.

Texas Instruments fell 2% to 67 1/4. A Wall Street Journal article discussed disappointment over the company's recent quarterly earnings report.

Deere & Co., the most active NYSE issue, dropped 1/4 to 24 1/4. A 213,800-share block traded at that price.

The Big Board's composite common-stock index lost .23 to 50.12. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .19 at 123.96.

Volume on the NYSE slowed to 7.67 million shares as of noon-time, against 9.06 million at the same point at the same point Wednesday.

DA Cleared In 'Assault' Case

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
NEW BERN — District Attorney Eli Bloom was found not guilty of assault charges in Craven County District Court today.

Bloom had been charged with assault in connection with an Apr. 4, 1977 incident by Mrs. Hazel Jones of New Bern. The assault warrant was issued Jan. 28, 1978.

Mrs. Jones alleged that Bloom had grabbed her and attempted to strike her in a corridor in the Craven County Courthouse.

Judge George Bason, Chief District Judge in Wake County, who presided at the session this morning, said the state did not prove its case "beyond a reasonable doubt." Mrs. Jones was the only witness for the state tendered by William Griffin, District Attorney for the Second District, who prosecuted the case.

Ivey Lynn Rawls, Craven County Tax Collector, testifying for the defense, told the court she heard a commotion outside the door of the tax office. She said, upon going to investigate, she saw Mrs. Jones grab Bloom by the arm and saw Bloom pull away.

Bloom, who testified in his own defense, said Mrs. Jones approached him, grabbed his arm and that he pulled away from her. He said he did not strike her.

Other witnesses who testified on behalf of Bloom included Assistant District Attorney Tom Haigwood and Superior Court Judge Elwood S. Peel, who were with Bloom in the hallway at the time of the incident. There also were a number of character witnesses.

Obituaries

SNOW HILL — Funeral services for Mr. Wilbert Lee Meeks, who died Sunday as the result of a car wreck, will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at Joyner's Mortuary Chapel in Farmville by the Rev. Will Harris. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Mr. Meeks was born and reared in Coila, Miss. He attended the Black Hawk High School in Carrollton County, Miss. and was a member of the Shady Grove Baptist Church there. He had been a Greene County resident for 10 years.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Dora Lee Gardner Meeks of the home; a son, Sammy Lee Meeks of Rt. 1, Snow Hill; his mother, Mrs. Nevecia Jackson Meeks of Coila, Miss.; four brothers, Lawrence Meeks of Greenwood, Miss., Robert Lewis Meeks of Brandon, Miss., and David Earl Meeks and Hansvrough Meeks, both of Coila, Miss.; and two sisters, Miss Jessie Mae Meeks of Chicago, Ill. and Miss Doris Meeks of Coila, Miss.

The body will be at Joyner's Mortuary after 5 p. m. today. Family visitation will be this evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. The family will assemble at Rt. 1, Snow Hill.

Homecoming Queen Chosen

Miss Teresa Jo Hedgepeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hedgepeth, was named the 1977-78 Homecoming Queen at Greenville Christian Academy during half time of their varsity game against Martin Academy on Feb. 7.

Miss Hedgepeth is a Junior at G.C.A. Teresa Woodard, a Junior also, was named first runner-up, and Lisa James was chosen second runner-up. Honorable mention was given to Jackie Bryant, Melanie Bunch, Amanda Haddock, Debra Haddock, and Diane Shackelford.

Law enforcement protection is provided in the industrial segment by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, Speight said.

The president of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, Charles Burnette Jr., reported that he was "not fully familiar with the details of the plan" and he asserted that the chamber's position "is that I feel a study of the situation is needed."

Burnette said he planned to appoint "four good people to sit down with the city, county, industry and maybe go to Raleigh, to talk with the development group there, to get all sides of the situation."

Tommy Edwards, chairman of the chamber's economic and industrial development division, said he was not in a position to give an opinion on the matter without further research and study.

Nab Suspect In Robbery

D.J. Whichard Jr., 411 Elm St., was robbed yesterday shortly before 11 a. m. as he came out of Wachovia Bank here. A suspect was picked up by Greenville police about 10 minutes later.

Whichard reported to police that a young man bumped into him, said "excuse me" and kept running. When he got into his car he found that the bank bag in his overcoat pocket was missing.

Hopkins was charged with larceny. Police Chief Glenn Cannon said.

Bucs Host Monarchs

The East Carolina wrestling team hopes to end a two-match losing streak Friday night when the Pirates host Old Dominion.

The match will start at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates have now dropped two straight matches to Atlantic Coast Conference rival N.C. State and are 2-6 overall this season. East Carolina defeated Old Dominion, 37-4, last year and leads the series, 8-1-2.

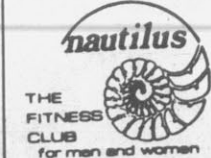

"Old Dominion is a young team with a lot of talent, especially in the lower weight classes," said ECU Coach Bill Hill. "I hope the team will be able to bounce back after our two losses to N.C. State. We're hungry for a win."

Following the Old Dominion match, the Pirates host North Carolina next Thursday.

Rose Hosts Wrestling Sectionals

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

While Rose High School's basketball team heads down the home stretch of the cage season, the Rampant wrestlers are taking aim on the sectional title, which will be contested Friday and Saturday.

The Sectional meet, which will attract 21 teams from Raleigh eastward, will select three wrestlers in each class, plus a couple of wild card selections for next week's Regionals, to be held in Cary. Winners there will advance to the state meet the following week.

Rose High's basketballers, after getting knocked off first place by Bertie Tuesday night, have a crucial game with Northern Nash Friday night, a "must win" if there ever was one for the Rampants. A defeat would send them down into third place in the league, while a win would just about assure them of a second place finish unless one of next week's opponents, Wilson on Tuesday, or Northeastern on Friday, pull another upset.

In addition to the wrestling and basketball, some members of the swim team will be at the Atlantic Seaboard meet at East Carolina Saturday.

Weight-ins for Friday's first round of the sectionals, will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. in Elm Street Gym. Preliminary rounds will be held, starting at 12 noon in the Rose gym, with the quarter-finals at 6 p.m. Friday.

Saturday, weigh-ins will be held from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m., with the semifinals at 2 p.m. Consolation matches will be at 6 p.m., with the final starting at 7:30 p.m.

The wild card spots, which will rotate yearly from sectional to sectional to insure 16 advances to the regionals, will be in the 119-pound and 155-pound class here. In those classes, the top four wrestlers will advance.

Rose Coach Ron Williams feels that his Rampants should have a fairly good shot at winning the overall championship for the section, but pointed out that the sectionals are more of an individual effort than a team effort.

Conley is the defending champion, but will be hurt by not having wrestlers in all classes. Plymouth, which finished second last year, will also be a strong competitor for the title along with the Rampants, who finished third last year.

Teams coming in include Ahsoskie, Broughton, Cape Hatteras, Conley, Enloe, Farmville Central, Wilson, Governor Morehead, Edenton, Manteo, North Pitt, Northeastern, Northern Nash, Plymouth, Rocky Mount, Rose, Sanderson, Southern Nash, Tarboro, Washington and Williamston.

Williams was able to list those he feels will be the top competitors in each of the weight classes.

The 100-pound bracket will probably see Conley's Gary Harris top seeded, but stiff competition will come from Rose's Cliff Whitchard and Farmville's Joe Ebron.

At 107, James Cherry of Rose appears to be the top competitor. Conley's Alton Crandall will be favored at 115, but Williams notes that Plymouth is strong at this weight.

Jesse Baker of Rose will probably be favored, but will get strong competition from Sanderson's Brown, who handed Baker his only loss of the year. David Newton of Farmville is also expected to be a strong competitor.

At 129, Williams sees a stiff battle with a lot of good wrestlers. Horace Williams of Farmville may be the top seed, with Holmes of Governor Morehead and Glenn Chesson of Plymouth strong.

Marvin Hardy of Conley will be the top seed at 141, with Roger Chesson of Plymouth, Richardson of Northern Nash, and Bernard Paige of Rose adding to the strong field.

At 135, Jones of Rocky Mount returns to defend his title, but Ronald Harris of Conley could take the title.

"There are not a lot of impressive wrestlers at 148," Williams said. William Small of Conley along with Alfred O'Neal of Rose could finish high.

Mike Manning of North Pitt seems to be the strongest at 158, along with Charles Hanson of Conley, Mark Shank of Rose and David Battle of Rocky Mount.

Nathaniel Sessions of Northern Nash appears tops at 170.

Raymond Wooten of Rose may be top seeded at 188, but Plymouth's Blount has beaten him, and William Maye of Farmville will be strong also.

Plymouth's Moseby may be the best at 198, but will get strong competition from Miltakis of Broughton and Ron Butler of Rose.

Daniels of Southern Nash,

Gurnest Brown of Wilson, and Simmons of Cape Hatteras should be the top people in the heavyweight division.

A final pre-sectional look at area wrestlers with winning records, based on the class they participated in most of the time follows. Wrestlers may not necessarily wrestle in these classes in the sectionals.

Lance Timmons Looks For High State Finish

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

With the important Atlantic Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championships this weekend, Rose High School's Lance Timmons is looking forward to the stiff competition to give him a chance to set his sights on a high State Championship finish this year.

Timmons, a senior on the Rampant tanker team, will be among those Rampants competing in the East Carolina University-sponsored event Saturday, but he has his eyes on a weekend still a month away, when the state titles are put on the line.

"I can't really say how I would stack up now (in state competition). I guess I'm about average for this time of year. But I hope to place high when we go to the state meet. I feel that I have a chance to finish in the top three in both of my events," Timmons said.

Timmons got into swimming some ten years ago, when his mother asked him if he might be interested in it. "I was seven years old at the time and I wasn't doing anything else, so I said okay. I've been swimming ever since," he said.

Early in his swimming career, Timmons admitted that he felt that it was somewhat "of a drag." But he added, "I enjoy the competition now."

While his best stroke used to be the backstroke, he concentrates on the freestyle now. "I guess I've just faded out of the backstroke. I also swim the individual medley sometimes, but mostly just the freestyle and the relays."

Timmons's best time in the 50-yard freestyle is "around 23.6," and about 50.6 in the 100. "I really like to swim the 200 free, but I haven't been able to because of its proximity to the relay. I really think I'm better in the 200 than the 50. I never could really turn over that fast. The 200 gives me more time to work up speed."

In the Atlantic Seaboard, however, Timmons will swim in the 50, the 100 and in the freestyle relay.

Aside from swimming, Timmons says that he really doesn't have any particular activities he enjoys. "Between swimming and my studies, I don't have a lot of extra time."

He does get some extra time in the summer, when he swims with the Greenville Swim Club. "Swimming (with the club) helps to keep me in shape. But with only one big meet at the end of the summer, and just the one big meet at the end of the winter season (the state meet), you don't have to stay up all the time. And I get about a week or two off between seasons."

Timmons hopes to join the East Carolina University swim team next fall, but hasn't made his post-college plans yet. Last year, he finished fourth in the 100-yard freestyle and fifth in the 100-yard backstroke in the state ranks. This year, back in the 100 free and in the 50 free for the first time, he hopes for an even higher finish.

FARMVILLE CENTRAL WRESTLING coach Linwood Woodard credits his team's depth with its surprising victory over defending champion D. H. Conley in the Eastern Carolina Conference wrestling tournament last Saturday.

The Jaguars' 165 points gave them the championship and ended Conley's three-year domination of ECC wrestling. The Vikings finished second with 148 points.

"We thought we might have a chance going into the tournament, just because of our overall depth," according to Woodard. "We had 11 wrestlers in the finals and they (Conley) had eight. We actually won it in the semi-finals." The Jags won 11 semi-final matches.

Of the 11 Farmville wrestlers in the championship round, five won their weight classes. The Vikings took six titles, but Farmville's six second-place finishes to just two for Conley provided the victory.

Woodard credited a trio of surprise Jaguar victories in the semi-finals with making the difference in the match. "Woody Edwards (158 pounds) beat a guy who had beaten him twice (David Shelton of Southern Nash), Sammy Brown (170) defeated Sammy Mayo (NP) after he had lost to him during the season, and Ronnie Locust (heavyweight) beat the boy from North Pitt (Eddie Cox)."

IN ADDITION to the championship, Farmville's Horace Williams, who won the title at 135 pounds, was named the meet's outstanding wrestler. "Horace wrestled well in the semi-finals. He got a superior decision over the guy from North Pitt (Donald Manning) and he pinned Willie Moore (Conley) in the finals." Woodard said Williams had beaten Moore during the regular season, but had not pinned him.

"Horace is wrestling real well at this time, and hopefully, he will continue in the sectionals" this weekend at Rose.

Woodard said Conley has some outstanding wrestlers and will do well in the sectionals, regionals and state meet.

"But I'm happy for our kids because they worked hard all year and it paid off for them."

ACC Basketball Notebook

Recent trends in the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring race indicate that Wake Forest's Rod Griffin will be able to hold off the challenges of Duke's Jim Spanarkel and Carolina's Phil Ford to win the league's scoring title.

For the past five years, a forward has been the top scorer in the league — State's David Thompson and Kenny Carr have taken the last five titles. That would give Griffin, who currently leads with a 21.1 points per game average, the advantage over second-place Spanarkel (20.1) and third-place Ford (19.9), both guards.

Phil Ford withstood the discomfort of a painful hip pointer to play against Virginia Tech Saturday night, and the feat kept alive his record of having never missed a game for the Tar Heels. The senior has now played in 115 Tar Heel games, second only to John Kuester's 121. With seven regular-season games remaining, including last night's Maryland game, Ford seems to be a cinch to break Kuester's mark.

Another Tar Heel, forward Mike O'Koren, also has a streak going, a hot shooting streak in his past few ballgames. Prior to the Maryland contest, O'Koren had hit 26 of 30 attempts over a span of four games. The 6-7 sophomore, who is leading the ACC with a 64.3 percentage, hit 86.7 in those four outings.

It was just a year ago that Philadelphia prep star Eugene Banks announced that he would attend Duke University and Blue Devil fans began to talk about national rankings and championship years.

It hasn't taken too long for things to begin to materialize. The Blue Devils have been ranked as high as seventh nationally this season and still have an outside chance at the ACC crown. Duke is also a young team, and has a big future ahead of it.

Williamson, Smith Return, Bring NBA Victories Along With Them

By The Associated Press

John Williamson and Robert Smith are back with their former teams and the Indiana Pacers and Atlanta Hawks paid the price Wednesday night.

Williamson, reacquired from Indiana last week, scored 38 points in leading the New Jersey Nets to a 140-138 overtime victory over the Indiana. Smith, who rejoined Denver earlier in the day thanks to a special ruling by National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien, scored seven points in the final period to help the Nuggets defeat Atlanta 114-109.

Elsewhere, the Washington Bullets downed the Seattle SuperSonics 106-100, the Philadelphia 76ers trimmed the New Orleans Jazz 117-104, the Kansas City Kings shaded the Boston Celtics 104-100, the Milwaukee Bucks nipped the Buffalo Braves 104-103, the Los Angeles Lakers turned back the Detroit Pistons 105-95 and the Houston Rockets beat the Chicago Bulls 105-101.

Nuggets 114, Hawks 109

David Thompson, with only nine points in the first three periods, scored 12 in the final quarter after Denver blew a 14-point lead. Smith, a rookie guard, was reactivated earlier in the day to replace Brian

Taylor, who jumped the team, and the freshman responded with his best game of the season.

Dan Issel led the Nuggets with 28 points while John Drew had 30 for Atlanta.

"I thought Robert Smith did a great job for us," said Coach Larry Brown. "He was kind of down when we had to let him go, but he's a super kid and he wants to play badly."

Bullets 106, Sonics 100

Elvin Hayes and Joe Pace dominated the inside game in the fourth quarter as Washington snapped a four-game losing streak. After the Sonics wiped out an 11-point Washington advantage, Hayes went to work, scoring six of his game-high 25 points in the last 2½ minutes. Pace, who finished with 13 points, scored eight in the final quarter. Gus Williams topped Seattle with 21.

76ers 117, Jazz 104

Julius Erving's 23 points led four other teammates in double figures as Philadelphia won the for the 15th time in their last 19 games. It was the second straight loss for the Jazz after winning 10 in a row. Henry Bibby scored 20 points, Doug Collins 18, George McGinnis 17 and Lloyd Free 11 for the 76ers.

Kings 104, Celtics 100

Ron Boone scored 22 points and Lucius Allen hit two free throws with nine seconds remaining after Boston cut a 94-85 deficit to 102-100 with 14 seconds left.

FORD FAIRMONT IS AMERICA'S BEST SELLING NEW CAR IN HISTORY.

VIRGINIA-CAROLINA OWNERS TELL YOU WHY.

Joseph White, Chester, Va.
"I like the Fairmont's style and I like its handling. But the mileage is what I bought the car for."

Michael Knowles, Motoaca, Va.
"We have three children and it's a good sized car for us. Gas mileage has been real good."

Gladys Edwards, Greenville, N.C.
"I saw it on the lot and I liked it. And when I tried it, I said, this is it. I'm buying gas a lot less often now."

James Zieg, Goldsboro, N.C.
"It's got about 90% of the space of the large station wagon that I had before. And it cost a great deal less."

In its first 40 days, the new Ford Fairmont took off at an even faster sales pace than the original Mustang. Virginia and Carolina owners can tell you why.

They were first attracted to Fairmont by its excellent fuel economy. And when they drove one, they were thoroughly impressed with its roominess, its handling and ride.

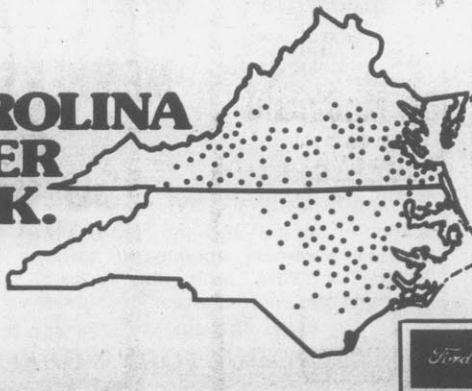

And they were completely sold by the Fairmont's clean, good looks and the lowest sticker price of any mid-size car in America.

Come drive one for yourself. You'll see why so many people are sold on the new Ford Fairmont.

Gillman Tells Offense, Defense Plays

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the second part of a two-part response by East Carolina Coach Larry Gillman to recent rumors and criticism of his basketball program. During the past few weeks, rumors have flown, including those that the coach will be released at the end of the season.)

Probably the greatest criticism that has been heaped on the Pirate basketball team so far is the apparent lack of defense. Coach Gillman was asked his philosophy of defense, and to explain the complex system he is trying to install.

"We don't want the other teams to have time to go to a pattern offense," Gillman said. "We want to be aggressive, and force people to the baseline, get them out of their offensive pattern and tempo. We don't want the forwards to get the ball inside, but in the corners where we can double team them, and rotate and cut off the inside passes. A rotating pressure defense is probably the best name for it," he added.

"This requires a lot of running and jumping, and maybe we don't have the personnel to do this right now. It's difficult to understand, and it's hard to put in something that you haven't had before, but we've had moments when we've done it real well."

Gillman said that he didn't like the zone defense, despite having used it a great deal this year. "We've played it from a lack of depth and because we are not ready to go pressure defense for long periods of time. Of course, the trend is to mix it up and not play one type too long."

Asked if the team had the quickness to perform in this type of defense, Gillman said that some members do and some don't. "Some of them who don't really have the quickness can make it up with intelligence. In the Georgia Southern game, for instance, we created a number of turnovers with our pressure to get easy baskets."

"But it's hard for a young group to jell and get it all together, and maybe I've expected too much from both them and myself," he said.

Offensively, the Pirates' aim is to score as much as possible, and to run whenever they can. "I think the first half of the William & Mary game here was the best we've played all year on offense. We were getting the rebounds, getting the ball out and doing the things that I want to get done. I'm very, very happy with the way we've run the last break this year."

"But," he added, "the key to it all is rebounding, and we haven't been a real strong rebounding team. And we've played some very overpowering board teams. This makes a difference."

The coach was asked to define the duties of his assistants, who do no coaching at all.

"I take the wins and the losses," Gillman said. "My assistants' duties lie in scouting and recruiting at this time. These duties may change in the future. But right now, we need more quality players, so my assistants must concentrate on trying to get the type players we need, and not on coaching duties."

Gillman pointed out that the Pirates currently have only 11 players on grant, and the NCAA allows a total of 15. "With the losses we will have, plus what we already have, we'll try to bring in five this fall."

There have also been rumors that the coach lacks personal coaching experience, and that his background lies mostly in recruiting.

"Last year, San Francisco didn't need anyone. They had what they needed, so I spent a lot of time on the court with the players. I feel no one can be the perfect coach. No one is infallible and no one has all the answers."

"I've gotten off to a bad start, but I think our players have been up against some teams that were better personnel wise, and they've stayed with them for a good while."

"I think I'm fortunate to have worked under some of the people I've been an assistant for. I really don't feel that you can coach on the college level unless you've worked for two or three good coaches."

Harry Truman once said, "If you can't take the heat, get out of the kitchen." Does Gillman feel he's getting "heat" from the fans, students and the administration?

"I don't think I'm getting that much heat. I'm getting some. I'll admit. But I have a three-year contract and I expect to fulfill it. With that time, I think I can build a top 20-type team, just as I said when I came here. When you are 5-14, heat is normal."

"I coach because I love basketball and I love the kids. If the time comes when the kids don't want me, then I wouldn't want to be involved any longer. But despite the record, I think there is a lot of feeling between the staff and the players. That doesn't get the 'W's', but I hope that we can finish with our heads up."

If he had to do it all over again, Gillman said that he would change some things. "I have a lot of hindsight now. I'm still not as familiar with the area and the people as I would like to be, and I hope the feeling is mutual."

"I wouldn't have oversold the team like I did, and I think that's probably the biggest fault. If the public feels that I've deceived them, then I apologize. But I deeply feel that this team was and is still capable of beating anyone it plays."

Gillman feels that there is still support for the program. "There will be support no matter who sits in this chair. We have our fair-weather fans too."

"But next year, the fans are not going to have Gillman doing a whole lot of talking. They are just going to have to come out and judge the team by how it performs. People heard what I said last spring, and some of them agreed with me and some of them laughed, but that's okay, too. Some of them will keep coming back and some will wait until we prove something first," he said.

"This year has been a learning experience, a learning experience for everyone. I just wish it had been more fun. I just hope that everyone has grown up a little, and that includes not only the team, but myself as well."

"This year has been a year of coming together. We do have a lot of players back from last year's 10-18 team, and I think we've added some quality players to it. But there is still a transition to make, and it's still a time of getting it all together."

"I'm disappointed, of course, but I'd like to think that two or three years from now, we can look back on it and see how we've improved."

Some questions answered. But the biggest one may still remain ahead: Will Gillman continue as East Carolina's coach after the final game on March 1?

That question will be answered in about three weeks.

You Never Can Tell About What Will Happen In The ACC Race

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

One thing you can tell about the Atlantic Coast Conference is... you can never tell about the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The most unpredictable of basketball leagues, the ACC lived up to its zany reputation Wednesday night when two of its ranked members were defeated within the conference and a third almost lost its footing.

Duke surprised 13th-ranked Virginia 100-75, Clemson shocked 14th-ranked Wake Forest 91-81 and Maryland threw a scare into No. 7 North Carolina before succumbing 66-64.

"I was glad to see us break out shooting," said Duke Coach Bill Foster after watching his Blue Devils make 61 percent of their floor shots. "I can't say an awful lot. We did it all."

So did Clemson, apparently. The Tigers made the league's other Bill Foster happy.

"I thought the seniors really did a job for us," said the Tiger coach, especially impressed with Jimmy Howell's 12 rebounds. "But we still have a way to go. I hope this will help to build our confidence more."

North Carolina just got by with the help of its notorious Four Corner Offense, which Phil Ford directed for the last 14 minutes, and Al Wood's field goal with 35 seconds left.

Elsewhere in college basketball, No. 8 Kansas routed Missouri 72-52, 15th-ranked Illinois State stopped Western Illinois 97-79 and No. 19 Nebraska whipped Kansas State 63-50.

Three other games involving ranked teams weren't played because of bad weather conditions — Holy Cross at No. 4 Notre Dame, CCNY at No. 17 Detroit and Boston College at No. 20 Providence.

Billy Lewis scored 29 points, 22 in the first half, to propel Illinois State over Western Illinois for its 20th victory of the season. Illinois State, which has lost only twice, led 49-36 at halftime and never led by less than 12 points during the second half.

Carl McPipe scored 21 points and collected 11 rebounds to pace Nebraska over Kansas State. The Huskers, a surprising second to Kansas in the Big Eight standings, boosted their conference mark to 8-2 and their overall record to 19-3.

In other games, Kurt Kanskie's jumper with one second left led La Salle to a 64-62 victory over American University; Larry Harris scored 27 points as Pitt trimmed West Virginia 87-76; Rick Swing's 26 points led The Citadel to an 85-82 decision over Furman; Wayne Abrams' jump shot with four seconds remaining provided Southern Illinois with a 60-58 triumph over St. Louis University and Dave Broadus fired in 18 points as Drexel upset St. Joseph's 88-77.

Also, Archie Aldridge had 23 points as Miami of Ohio beat Bowling Green 68-54; Dave Montgomery and Ron Carter triggered a 10-point burst to lead VMI over Richmond 66-51; Dick Miller's 21 points powered Toledo over Eastern Michigan 78-72; a 20-point performance by Tim Claxton helped Temple defeat Penn State 74-64 and Rod Curry came off the bench to score 22 points and lead Western Michigan over Ball State 74-63.

Pace Defeated In Girls' Game

Pace Academy's girls bowed to Tarboro-Edgemont Academy last night, 31-18.

Kim Edmondson led Tarboro-Edgemont with 13 points, and was the lone scorer in double figures.

Hawaii's Aloha Stadium will host the 1980 Pro Bowl Game on Jan. 27.

Farmville Splits Two

SNOW HILL — Snow Hill and Farmville Middle School split a pair of basketball games yesterday.

Snow Hill won the girls' game, 34-28.

In the boys' game, Farmville gained a 42-40 victory. The win came when Ricky Dixon hit a jumper from the top of the key with one second showing.

Reggie Fields led Farmville with 15 points, while J. Ray had 11 for Snow Hill.

ECU Receives Grant To Monitor Pamlico

ECU News Bureau
East Carolina University has received a $28,000 grant from Texasgulf, Inc. to monitor the ecological effects of Texasgulf's phosphate mining operation on the Pamlico River estuary.

The funds will enable ECU to continue to staff the Pamlico Estuarine Laboratory near Aurora in Beaufort County where water samples are analyzed for phosphorus and other nutrients.

The purpose of the study, according to Dr. William Queen, Director of the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources, is to detect and assess any changes in water quality that may occur in the vicinity of the Texasgulf site.

Advise Early Application

The local Social Security Office is encouraging working people who face a long-term disability to apply promptly for social security benefits.

Social security pays monthly disability benefits to workers under 65 and their dependents if the worker has worked long and recently enough in jobs covered by social security in cases where the worker is disabled and not expected to be able to do any substantial work for a year or more.

Payments generally start with the sixth full month of disability, but the Social Security Office stresses that people in this category should not wait that long to apply.

Back payments can be made for up to 12 months before the month of application. About eight per cent of the people getting social security disability benefits have missed out on some payments because the applications were submitted at a late date.

Persons with further questions on this are to call the Social Security Office, telephone 756-2368.

ONE CANDIDATE
DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syrians took part in a one-candidate referendum Wednesday to re-elect President Hafez Assad to a second seven-year term starting March 12.

PACT SIGNED FOR WATER STUDY . . . Brooks Whitehurst (left), engineering service manager for Texasgulf, Inc. of Aurora and Dr. William Queen, director of the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources, sign agreement to continue monitoring water quality of Pamlico River estuary. (ECU News Bureau Photo)

He said that previous tests conducted over the past 14 years have shown that the Texasgulf operation has not adversely affected water quality and aquatic life.

ECU took over the operation of the Pamlico lab in January of 1975. Prior to that the lab, which contains an assortment of scientific monitoring apparatus, had been used by North Carolina State University.

"We are very pleased with this arrangement," Queen said.

"It has provided our investigators with the opportunity to study the ecological processes of the river. This opportunity would not have existed if it were not for Texasgulf's support."

Texasgulf mines phosphate ore from the lowlands along the Pamlico River and converts it into a fertilizer material. The phosphate deposits, estimated to be more than 15 million years old, are among the largest in the nation. The company owns or leases about 50,000 acres of land in Beaufort County.

Since 1964, Texasgulf has funded over $500,000 in research on the water quality of the Pamlico

River. The study has made possible the collection of a great quantity of data on the environment of the Pamlico River Watershed.

Brooks Whitehurst, engineering service manager for Texasgulf, said the studies have generated reliable hard evidence which can be used to draw significant scientific conclusions about the ecological effects of phosphate mining.

"We're not dealing with hypotheses," he said. "We're talking about answers that can be supported with data taken from the system."

Lab operations are directed by ECU's Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources. The lab also serves as a base for other state and federally funded projects being conducted by ECU faculty in the departments of biology, chemistry and geology.

Marking Emancipation Proclamation

The Pitt County Branch of the NAACP will hold an Emancipation Proclamation celebration titled "New Horizon" this weekend.

Keynote speakers for the weekend will be Dudley Flood of the State Department of Public Instruction and Dr. Grady Davis of Shaw University. The theme is "New Day Begun."

Saturday from 8:45 a. m. to noon a Youth Workshop will be held at Cornerstone Baptist Church, corner of Railroad and 13th Streets. Topics for discussion will be students' rights and responsibilities; youth in politics; and the church, youth and drugs.

An adult workshop will be held from 1 to 3 p. m. at Cornerstone, also, with topics including adults and community involvement; employment and drugs; and politics and church involvement.

Consultants for both workshops will be the Rev. Denison D. Garrett Jr., Mrs. Eve Rogers, Dr. Don Ensley, Don Phillips, John May Jr., the Rev. John H. Taylor III, Dr. D.

D. Gross, and Dan Kelly.

A banquet will be held at the Ramada Inn at 7 p. m. with Dudley Flood as the speaker. The first 175 persons to buy tickets will be accommodated. Tickets are $8.50 each.

Flood is Assistant Superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction. He was principal of Bethel Union School in Pitt County from 1967-70 and got his Master's degree at East Carolina University. He had received his A. B. degree from N. C. Central in Durham and also studied at Elizabeth City State University. He is now engaged in doctoral studies at Duke University.

After leaving Pitt County, he served as director of the Division of Human Relations of the Department of Public Instruction before becoming Assistant Superintendent.

Sunday at 7 p. m. there will be a public meeting at York Memorial A. M. E. Zion Methodist Church on Albemarle Avenue, with Dr. Grady D.

Davis Sr. as speaker.

Dr. Davis is professor of behavioral science at Shaw University and pastor of Union Baptist Church, Durham. He was appointed by Gov. James E. Holshouser as a member of the N. C. Parole Commission. He and his wife and five children were chosen as Raleigh's "Black Family of the Year" in 1959.

He earned his A. B. degree from Shaw University; his Master of Divinity from Andover-Newton Theological School in Massachusetts and his Ph. D. in psychology of religion in Boston.

Art Teachers At Workshop

ECU News Bureau

Twenty eastern North Carolina art teachers participated in a recent art workshop at East Carolina University.

The workshop, designed to improve teaching skills of elementary and secondary school art teachers, was sponsored by the ECU School of Art's education department and the Northeast Regional Education Center of the N.C. Dept. of Public Instruction.

Workshop sessions stressed new approaches to the use of scrap materials in art classes, as well as new uses for standard art materials and recent developments in methods of art instruction.

Specific sessions included printing, picture-making and activities with paper. Instruction was provided by ECU faculty members Joe Buske, Tom Evans, Iradj Rowshan-Araghi, Phil Phillips and William Holley.

Participating teachers also toured ECU's new art facilities in the Leo Jenkins Fine Arts Center and viewed the current exhibition in the Center's Wellington B. Gray Gallery.

Tour guides were students from the ECU chapter of the National Art Education Association.

Participants from the area include:

MARTIN COUNTY, Martin County Schools: Dorothy Ann Cherry and Lucia Peel.

PITT COUNTY, Pitt County Schools: Raye Bartlett, Sharon Brewer, Annette Williams Brooks, Marsha Hemby, Carol Hodges, Rudolph Hofheinz, Freddy Outterbridge, Betsy Reid, Joanne Robertson and Mary Waters.

Hearings Set For Vocational Program

RALEIGH — Three public hearings on the 1979 State Plan for Vocational Education on the secondary and post-secondary levels will be held this month in Kinston, Asheville, and Greensboro.

The hearings will be held from 4-6 p.m. and 7:30-9 p.m. in Lenoir Community College auditorium at Kinston on Feb. 9, in the Asheville High School auditorium on Feb. 14, and in Carver Hall at the A & T State University at Greensboro on Feb. 15.

Conducted by the State Board of Education, the three hearings are in compliance with the Educational Amendments of 1976.

The hearings provide an opportunity for citizens of the state to express views on the goals which should be adopted in the annual program plan, the programs to be offered under the plan, the allocation of responsibility for programs among the various levels of education and among the various institutions of the state, and the allocation of local, state, and federal resources to meet those goals.

Principal's List — Lena Bowen, Renee Croom, Sandy Dawson, Lisa Harris, Michael House, Tina Woodall, Twanda Daniels, Doris Harris, Veronica Jones, Pamela Pilgreen, Wendy Cox, Eric Garis, Eric Edwards, Angela Bowen, and Jim Nichols.

American Agriculture Movement Official Policy Statement

WE, THE DULY CONSTITUTED DELEGATES OF THE VARIOUS STATES, SITTING IN CONCERT, DO HEREBY REITERATE THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM PRINCIPALS.

1. 100% of parity for all domestic and foreign used and/or consumed agricultural products.
2. All agricultural products produced for national or international food reserve shall be contracted at 100% of parity.
3. Creation of an entity or structure compiled of agricultural producers to devise and approve policies that affect agriculture.
4. Imports of all agricultural products which are domestically produced must be stopped until 100% of parity is reached: thereafter imports must be limited to the amount that the American producers cannot supply.
5. All announcements pertaining to any agricultural producing cycle shall be made far enough in advance that the producer will have adequate time to make needed adjustments in his operations.

THE ABOVE 5 POINTS NURTURED THIS MOVEMENT FROM THE BEGINNING AND HAS CONTINUED TO BE THE RALLY POINT THAT HAS PULLED THE GRASS ROOTS FARMERS OF THIS NATION TOGETHER AS NEVER BEFORE. WE HAVE NOT OFFICIALLY VARIED FROM THESE POINTS FROM THE BEGINNING AND ARE NOT WITH THIS SUBMISSION — VARYING OUR ORIGINAL POSITION. FOLLOWING IS AN OFFICIAL POLICY STATEMENT OF AMERICAN AGRICULTURAL MOVEMENT:

We, of the AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT recognizing the economic plight of the nation as a whole and of the farm sector in particular, do hereby respectfully demand of Congress, legislation consistent with the following:

I. 100% parity for all agricultural products at the marketplace. Such product pricing shall be tied to law.

Parity is not a revolutionary concept. It merely means equivalent buying power for the family farmer who, in the final analysis, is the source of wealth in this country.

100% of parity is not a handout. It is an investment, for without it, the family farm system of agriculture in this country will disappear and the ultimate cost to society will be immeasurable. It allows the producer to keep pace with his cost of production.

II. All strategic reserves for national or international purposes shall be purchased at 100% parity.

III. An entity or structure of grower-producer representation shall be set up within the Department of Agriculture which consists of a grower-producer elected from each state. Qualified grower-producers shall be the qualified voters in such elections.

The duties of the Board shall be clearly defined. It shall review import-export policy and trade agreements and make recommendations for policy adjustments where applicable.

If necessary, the Board shall formulate a system of controls on a commodity basis. The three basic control mechanisms shall be:

Quota Marketing Control
Acreage Production Control
Import Control

Commodity groups shall have the option to choose their control method by referendum. The existing machinery of the ASCS shall be used to implement the control system chosen.

IV. Immediate import restrictions shall be placed on all agricultural products which are currently depressing domestic markets below parity levels.

The Board shall have immediate access to all import and export information including the most current supply and demand projections for all countries with which we trade. With this information the Board shall determine commodity needs and thereby initiate the selected controls on domestic production.

The Board shall also have the power to bargain with potential customers for overseas sales or trade.

V. All announcements pertaining to any agricultural producing cycle shall be made far enough in advance that the producer will have adequate time to make needed adjustments in his operations.

The AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT believes these demands to be in keeping with the original intent of the Department of Agriculture's founders.

The AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT further believes that the implementation of these 5 points would have a positive impact on the following:

1. Unemployment — we will recreate purchasing power in the agriculture sector.

Agriculture directly or indirectly consumes a large part of our Nation's manufactured goods. When we can buy, labor can build.

2. Balance of Trade — Agricultural products make up a large portion of our export market. At 100% parity for exports our trade deficit would be reduced by several billion dollars.

3. National Budget Deficit — By putting people to work and at the same time putting net return in agriculture, added revenue to the national treasury is inevitable.

The AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT, respectfully requests Congress to immediately draw upon its vast and competent resources of knowledge and manpower to draft legislation implementing these requests. We offer our services in any way that may be helpful.

We strongly urge that you fully accept the great responsibility you share with us and respond accordingly.

Respectfully
J.C. Galloway,
N.C. Delegate
AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT

ADDENDUM POSITION STATEMENT NUMBER ONE (1)

In the event these policy statements do not produce a law addressing itself to the 5 points by planting time for the 1978 harvest and no direct relief is provided by the administration or Congress, the following provision shall be effective:

Grower-producers following the recommendation of AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT for reduction of normal croplands shall be reimbursed by the U.S. Treasury for their loss of production.

Add-a-Gold Bead...

... The Gift of Love that grows with the years

"The Story of the GOLD BEAD"

It all began with one gold bead on a chain... the beginning of a necklace which was to be cherished through the years. Then, as other beads were added, the necklace grew in beauty and value, until at last the chain was full... lovely and sentimental.

On The Downtown Mall

the recommended guidelines directs that the changing of a name of a site or facility is the prerogative of the commission. This will take place only after a scheduled and advertised public hearing, and when it is the judgement of the commission that current names are deemed by the commission to be inappropriate or ineffectual. Any change of name will have to conform to the guidelines set forth for an original naming of a site or facility.

In addition to criteria applicable to naming sites and facilities, the draft guideline also contains provisions for honorary recognition of individual or group contributions, and for identifying permanent equipment. These are:

— Appropriate plaques from the City of Greenville will be used to recognize individuals or groups who contribute significantly toward the acquisition of a facility or site, or for outstanding service to the recreational needs of the citizens of Greenville; and — Any plaques and markers used, for example, on permanent equipment (i.e. benches, fountains, score boards) at any site or facility will be first approved by the commission before authorization is granted for their use. The commission will have the right to approve the style, handling and posting of such markers. This includes use of slogans or advertising matter.

Currently, more than a dozen parks and facilities in the City of Greenville are part of the Recreation Department or are under the department's jurisdiction. These are: West Greenville (old Eppes property) Field and Gym; Guy Smith Stadium; South Greenville Park (and gym); Evans Park; Elm Street Park; Elm Street Gym; Town Commons; Green Springs Park; Jaycee Park; Peppermint Park; Sullivan Field; Meadowbrook Park; and the 346 acre property north of the Tar River. Of this group, the Guy Smith Stadium was named for an individual in accordance with terms specified in a deed, and Sullivan Field (a baseball field at Evans Park) was named in honor of a retired recreation person.

Director Boyd Lee informed commission members that application had been submitted for one of nine CETA grants of $105,000 each to be awarded to the State of North Carolina. The grant money is being funded through President Carter's Young Adult Conservation Corps program, and will provide summer work for ten young adults young people between the ages of 16 and 23 at a minimum wage for a 40 hour week period.

In addition to providing salary money, the $105,000 grant includes funds for purchase of equipment to be used in conjunction with the ten jobs.

"We can only be hopeful," Lee noted, "as there's considerable competition for these grants, and only nine towns in all the state can be approved." Lee said he did not know the specific criteria that would guide selection of the towns to receive the grants, but determinants did include the purpose of the use of the money, the location, and similar factors.

In the event Greenville is awarded this grant, Lee indicated it would be used to further clearing work in the 346 acre tract of land across the river.

In other matters, Lee reported that:

— Construction work on the joint Library-Recreation Center has been delayed due to weather, but that expectations are that work will be completed in time to permit a move into the new building about the first of March.

— Supt. of City Schools Glenn Cox has notified that Feb. 27 is the target date to complete the move of the Extended School Program from the Senior Citizen Center at Fourth and Green Streets. "Once the building is available to us," Lee commented, "our plans are to make the second floor the center for all our arts and crafts activities. This will give us a place to conduct these programs on a five-day basis and will also permit us to increase the scope of our offerings."

— Reported that damage to recreational facilities as a result of the recent wind storms amounted to approximately $4,000— which, Lee noted "is not covered under the type of insurance we have." Damage was mostly to fences, with one light pole cracked that will have to be replaced.

A new Coordinator of Programs for Special Populations has been hired. Bill Twine, a graduate of East Carolina University, replaces Alice Keene, who recently resigned this position to work for the county schools. Twine, who earlier worked on a temporary basis with Ms. Keene in this program, comes to Greenville from the Ayden Recreation Department.

Lee introduced two additional ECU recreation interns— Debra Eller and Jeff Stone.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Rev. George Revix of Wilson will be guest speaker at Reids Chapel Missionary Baptist Church in Fountain Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The Senior Ushers will be in charge of the program. The public is invited.

PWP Has Chapter Meeting On Friday

Greenville Chapter No. 1058 of Parents Without Partners Inc. will hold its general chapter meeting at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Robert Burger, Professor of Anthropology at East Carolina University, will speak on "Divorce in Other Cultures." He will compare the various degrees of acceptance of divorce in other parts of the world.

Prospective members are invited. Babysitting is provided.

Dance-A-Thon Aids Campaign

Five participants with exceptional stamina brought in nearly $200 for the Easter Sale campaign in the Big WOOW Easter Seal Disco Dance-A Thon held at the Thursday Club downtown.

Pansy Jones, Debra Lorenzetti, Robin Muzzarelli, Mari Carroll, and Christie Parkin, all of Greenville, each danced a total of ten hours to make the substantial contribution possible.

Jeff French of WOOW Radio Station hosted the event, playing disco music throughout the day and into the evening from his own "Sunshine" program.

Money raised from the event will be used to purchase medical equipment, to implement recreation programs, and to provide transportation for handicapped persons in the local area who are in need of such services.

Eastern PTA Meets Tonight

The Eastern Elementary PTA will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room.

Clarence Gray will speak on the school's accreditation. All parents are urged to attend.

To be eligible for PWP, one must be the parent of a living child and be single by reason of death, divorce, separation, or never having been married. Further information may be made by calling 752-1674 or 758-9954 evenings.

"Honor Thy Partner," by Jeff Rubens, won the Third Bols Bridge Tips Competition. Rubens has furnished some additional hands to illustrate his theme.

Not everyone will agree with South's decision to re-spond two hearts with his distributional hand containing no ace and only one working king. A one no trump response would have led to the same final contract, except that North would have been declarer.

West led his fourth-best club, and to East, the defense seemed simple. He won the ace of clubs and shifted to his singleton diamond. Declarer covered with the eight and West made what, to him, was the obvious play—the ten of diamonds. West hoped that East had started with a doubleton diamond and either the king of trumps or ace of spades, in which case West had to duck the first diamond to defeat the contract.

The rest was easy. Declarer won the king of diamonds, drew trumps and forced out the ace of spades. Since West could not regain the lead to cash his diamonds, declarer discarded three diamonds on dummy's spades and lost only one trick in each side suit to make his contract.

East tried to advance theories about why West should have won the ace of diamonds and returned the suit, but he failed to convince anyone at the table. The fact is that it was East who posed an insoluble problem for his partner.

Notice what a difference it would have made had East cashed the ace of spades at trick two and then shifted to a diamond. Now there is no reason for West to duck the ace of diamonds, since the spade suit is established for discards and declarer's trump suit must be solid. So a diamond ruff becomes the only hope for the defense.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deal opening leaders!" FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get involved in some new and artistic or romantic activities which bring you a better understanding of conditions about you and loved ones. Build a happier and more effective existence for yourself. Reconcile whatever differences of opinion you have had.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have visions as to the future and can make the right arrangements for a happier and more productive life. Avoid unnecessary expenditure of money. Take time to be with good friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are inspired now to make the future more pleasant and affluent, so carry through with ideas. Don't confide in others. Spend more time with loved ones and increase happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be with good friends and talk the future over with them and have a good time. Be sure to finish important work at hand.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you apply yourself you can make much progress where career affairs are concerned. Put your finest talents to work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get out to new activities that can prove very profitable for you in the future. New ideas can help you to grow appreciably. Avoid one who is out to con you in some way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle responsibilities wisely now and gain greater profits and prestige. Show true devotion to a loved one and get fine results. Happiness is yours for the making.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Consider every angle of what is expected of you by partners and cooperate with them for good results. Be alert to some public activity that could be beneficial to you. Be clever with money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put that plan in motion that will help you accomplish more, increase production in business endeavors, but talk it over first with partners. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get into more active recreations during spare time. A loved one is most devoted now, so make the most of this. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to improve home conditions by going along with the ideas of those who dwell with you. Extend invitations to close friends. Keep yourself in good physical trim.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Schedule your time and activities well so that you speed up production and get co-workers to cooperate. Save fun activities for later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study financial situation to determine which way to improve it. Talk over with an expert a new investment that could bring you big benefits.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of ideas and will pioneer in dormant lines of expression that could prove most profitable. Your progeny will want to be on his or her own early in life but will keep returning home from time to time. Teach early to complete whatever has once been started or else there will be little success in this chart.

MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting of the Arts Department of the Greenville Woman's Club, scheduled to meet at the home of Mrs. W.E. Roseveare, has been postponed until Friday, Feb. 17, at 3 p.m.

Nature Events At Fort Macon

FORT MACON STATE PARK — Two of the continuing events for nature lovers are being held on Friday and Saturday this week at the seaside Fort Macon State Park near Atlantic Beach.

For both events, participants are to report to the fort entrance prior to the listed time. Warm clothing and sensible shoes are advised. The events are:

— Friday, Feb. 10, 9 a.m. — Bird walk, led by interpreter John Fussell.

— Saturday, Feb. 11, 9 a.m. — Nature walk, led by a staff park member.

There is no admission charge for these nature outings, and persons of all ages are invited.

Mustang II And Pinto Sale

1978 Ford Mustang II

Stock no. 4196. Light chamols. 4 speed, carpeting, sound insulation package, tach and gauges, lockable glove box, 4 cylinder overhead cam engine. WSW tires, power rack and pinion steering, power front disc brakes, exterior accent group, tinted glass.

EPA Rating 23 MPG City
33 MPG Highway
26 MPG Combination

The Mustang II Legend! There once was a car that was the best seller in its class. And you know what? It still is. It's called Mustang II. And it has been a leader since the day it was born. Why? Mustang II's 2.3 litre 2V overhead cam 4 cylinder engine is a major factor. We like to think of it as our "perfect blend".

1978 Ford Pinto

Stock no. 4014. White. 2 door sedan. Select shift cruise-o-matic, WSW tires, air, tinted glass, vinyl body side moldings, full wheel covers, power front disc brakes, cut pile carpeting, all vinyl interior, rack and pinion steering.

Over the last five years, there have been more Pintos sold in America than any other small car (under 100" wheelbase). This may be because Pinto offers sub-compact buyers the features that are right for their needs, and for 1978, Pinto is even more right.

Suspect Naval Academy Has Russian Flu Outbreak

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — In the East Coast's first suspected outbreak of Russian flu, three-quarters of the midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy have reported to sick call in the past week with symptoms that doctors say fit the pattern of the contagious viral illness.

In addition to more than 3,000 midshipmen here, several hundred people in the Washington area have come down with flu symptoms that hospital officials here say are "very likely" typings of A-USSR-77, the formal name for the Russian strain.

The only cases of Russian flu that have been confirmed in the United States this season, all since last month, have been in Wyoming, Colorado and Michigan. The Colorado outbreak involved cadets at the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs and recruits at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

All classes and military training at the Air Force Academy were suspended this week due to the outbreak, which since early last week has afflicted up to 70 percent of the 4,300 cadets there.

Only two cases were reported in Michigan, involving a 19-year-old student and a 20-year-old factory worker.

Medical authorities here are awaiting the results of blood tests, due by Friday, before confirming this new outbreak as Russian flu. But "the chances are pretty good, based on the symptoms and the age group affected," Dr. James Hodges, chief medical officer at the Naval Academy, said Wednesday.

A spokesman at Children's Hospital National Medical Center in Washington said that after taking virus samples from two outpatients, "we are 99 percent sure they have the Russian flu."

Hodges said the first flu cases at the academy were reported Jan. 31, "and just about everyone will have it before it is over."
