Coal Strike Negotiations Are Again Near Collapse

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Efforts to negotiate an end to the 80-day-old coal strike appear once again on the verge of collapse with the coal industry rejecting the United Mine Workers' "bottom-line" contract proposal as unfit for a nationwide agreement.

The Bituminous Coal Operators Association said early today it remained ready to resume talks with the union, but declared that in view of the UMW's bargaining position, more negotiations "hardly seemed fruitful."

The main industry bargaining group issued its statement several hours before Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and White House officials were scheduled to meet in an early-morning session "to determine a future course of action."

The administration has been laying the groundwork for "definitive" action to end the walkout before it causes serious economic damage.

Wednesday night, administration officials said privately the outlook for the talks was not promising.

Meanwhile, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., today appealed to the coal operators to accept the agreement already reached by the independent Pittsburg and Midway Coal Mining Co. as the basis for an industrywide settlement.

"I understand the union has indicated a willingness to accept it," said Byrd.

Byrd repeatedly referred to the Taft-Hartley Act as "a last resort."

"I would prefer that the government continue to try to bring about a negotiated settlement," he said.

Byrd said that if President Carter sends legislation to Congress to deal with what the senator called "a growing crisis," he would use his position to get swift congressional action. Byrd declined to suggest what he thought should be included in any legislative solution. Federal seizure of the coal mines or binding arbitration are most frequently mentioned as possible legislation solutions.

As efforts to negotiate a settlement continued, the effects of the strike mounted. New electricity cutbacks were implemented in Indiana, and Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton warned that 135,000 people would be out of work soon if voluntary conservation measures do not work.

In Indiana, National Guardsmen carried unloaded M-16 rifles and ammunition as they took up stations at key highway intersections to ensure the movement of coal convoys.

Misdemeanor charges were filed in Hocking County, Utah, against two men in connection with vandalism at the Tuffant Mining Co. strip mine near Logan. An estimated 200 miners gathered near the non-union mine Monday night to shut it down. Two small trailers were set afire and the mine office trailer exploded.

Marshall announced earlier Wednesday he was making one last stab at helping to negotiate a settlement before the Carter administration stepped in to end the dispute.

"If this doesn't work, there are no happy solutions," he declared.

Several hours later, the labor secretary said in an ambiguous statement that top BCOA bargainers "declined to respond" to the union's contract offer, almost identical to a tentative agreement between the UMW and the Pittsburg & Midway Coal Mining Co.

Industry also "declined my invitation to participate in face-to-face negotiations with the UMW," he said.

The UMW bargaining council voted during the day to make the terms of the agreement with Pittsburg & Midway the pattern for an industrywide settlement, saying it would accept only minor changes. One union source said the 25-13 vote meant the terms of the pact were the bargaining council's "bottom-line" for settling the strike.

But the industry said: "...A settlement with one small surface mining company in the Midwest could not establish a pattern...which ignores the declining productivity and wildcat strike problems of the Eastern producers."

Coal Deliveries To Needy Areas Are Being Held Up

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

Limited supplies, bad weather and uncertain security are among the problems keeping the nation's railroads from delivering coal to areas hardest hit by the 80-day-old United Mine Workers' strike, railroad officials say.

Some coal is being produced by Western mines that are having problems shipping it east because of the weather and threats of destruction of railroad equipment. It is not clear exactly how much coal is available. Emergency shipments of coal could reach 200,000 to 300,000 tons a week, Department of Energy spokesman Frank Kelly said Wednesday.

"It could possibly go higher than 300,000 tons a week if they had the hopper cars, unit trains and engines available," he said. Unit trains are trains made up for shipment to only one point.

The Association of American Railroads says nationwide coal shipments have slowed to about 3 million tons a week, compared to 12 million tons a year ago.

Coal shortages have forced supply cutbacks by electric utilities across the Midwest.

Indiana state officials say about 350 National Guardsmen activated last week to protect coal truck convoys may be deactivated. But 300 other National Guardsmen carrying unloaded M-16 rifles and ammunition stood guard at key intersections to ensure the movement of coal today.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. begins mandatory cutbacks Friday of electric power to industrial users.

The Indiana Employment Security Division on Wednesday reported energy-related layoffs around the state rose to 3,400, up 500 from Tuesday.

Burlington Northern Inc. shipped 80,000 tons of emergency supplies of coal in the past week to four utility plants in the Midwest.

But the Chessie System, the largest coal hauling railroad, based in Baltimore, said its shipments from non-union mines in Kentucky have been hampered by eight dynamiting incidents since the strike began.

"We have every available man out for security. Basically we're getting the job (of coal hauling) done, but for security reasons, I can't be more specific than that," said spokesman Tom Johnson.

The Norfolk & Western Railroad has delayed since last week a small shipment of coal to the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. near Columbus, Ohio.

"We didn't feel there was sufficient security to bring the shipment in," said rail spokesman Lewis Phelps.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad reports that tons of coal in eastern Kentucky are sitting at non-union mines because coal has frozen in 1,400 of its 3,400 hopper cars and put them out of service.

The process of thawing out the cars at their destinations, unloading them and returning them to Kentucky for their next load is taking two to three times longer than normal, said Charles Castner, a spokesman.

Orders Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Fugitive Joan Little has been ordered returned to North Carolina to finish serving a jail term there — a fate she says she looks forward to less than dying.

Miss Little and her attorney, William Kunstler, were to appear in a Brooklyn court today for an extradition hearing. Gov. Hugh Carey ordered the extradition on Wednesday.

Kunstler said he would fight extradition of Miss Little, who has said she would "rather die" than return to North Carolina.

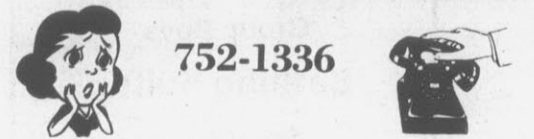

Miss Little currently is free on bail, and Kunstler has been unavailable to comment on her plans or whereabouts. She was arrested as a fugitive in New York City in December, two months after her escape from a state prison in Raleigh, N.C., where she was serving a 7-to 10-year prison term for breaking and entering.

Miss Little, a black, was found innocent of murdering a white Beaufort County, N.C., jailer whom she said tried to force her to perform a sexual act in her cell.

Miss Little, who also faces assault and reckless endangerment charges in New York in connection with her capture, was released on $51,000 bail on Jan. 31, and her attorneys said she then began looking for work.

I ordered $490.63 worth of dental equipment from Vitredent Marketing Corporation in White Plains, N. Y. several months ago. Well prior to the six-months deadline, I sent the equipment back with the understanding that I would get a full refund. I have written and called and written and called with no results — only the acknowledgement that the money is owed me and a lot of unfulfilled promises.

Hotline called the Vitredent Corporation and talked to someone who promised to look into your account and call us back. He did call later and confirmed that the money is owed you. He asked if the refund could be sent in three monthly payments. We told him that if this were unsatisfactory with you, we would call him back; if not, that he should mail the first one-third the same day or the next day. This he apparently did, as you report that you received a check for $163.55 very soon afterwards.

Landau said that you are owed an apology, that the company's moving from the West to the East Coast should not have caused the long delay you experienced.

Soft Reply To Sadat Anger Over Cypriots

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) —

President Spyros Kyprianou said today he understood the "justifiable psychological state" which led the president of Egypt to sever diplomatic relations with Cyprus after the Larnaca airport shootout between Cypriot forces and Egyptian commandos.

Kyprianou said in a statement he wished to "overlook the insulting and abusive language" used against him by President Anwar Sadat because it wasn't proper for heads of state to exchange insults and abuse.

Sadat made an emotional speech to Egyptian troops

Wednesday after funeral services for 15 commandos killed in the attempt to rescue 11 Arab hostages and capture two gunmen aboard a commandeered DC-8 at the airport. He called Kyprianou a "dwarf" and said he was withdrawing recognition of Kyprianou as president of Cyprus.

The Egyptian Foreign Ministry summoned the Cypriot ambassador Wednesday and told him to close his embassy in Cairo and the consulate in Alexandria and leave along with his staff and other representatives of the Nicosia government.

"I appreciate and absolutely respect President Sadat's strong feelings," Kyprianou said. "His present justifiable psychological state provides, I believe, an explanation for the Egyptian president's decision."

"I wish to reassure Mr. Sadat that I shall make every effort for the restoration of relations between our two governments, and the warming up of the brotherly feelings that always linked our two peoples. I appeal to him to respond to my constructive intentions, to the mutual benefit of our two countries."

Kyprianou repeated his contention that Cyprus did not consent to the Egyptian action at Larnaca.

"On the contrary, in all our contacts we made it abundantly clear to the Egyptian representatives that we banned any action by the armed (Egyptian) group which had arrived at Larnaca without our consent."

Bloodmobile In City Tomorrow

The Bloodmobile will be in Greenville on Friday for a blood drive at the Moose Lodge.

The visit is being sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees, according to project chairman Bull Ritter, who noted that local Girl Scouts are also helping to promote the drive.

Ritter said that the Jaycees are encouraging participation from area residents and the chapter is also hoping to have a large turnout of members for the donation effort.

The Jaycees have set a goal of 200 pints, the chairman reported, which is slightly above the set quota for the visit.

Hours for the visit will be from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Plans A Special Agent

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt, saying he was concerned about the costs of cigarette smuggling to other states, announced plans today to step up North Carolina's cooperation with the tobacco tax investigations of other states.

Hunt said he was instructing the Crime Control and Public Safety department to assign "a special, high-level agent" to work solely on cigarette smuggling investigations.

"No North Carolina law is being violated by cigarette smugglers, but we want to cooperate fully with the law enforcement officers of other states whose tax laws are being broken," Hunt said at his weekly news conference.

A number of high-cigarette tax states in the north, particularly New York, contend they are losing millions of dollars a year in tax revenues because of smuggling operations. Cigarette smugglers can legally buy large quantities of cigarettes in North Carolina — where the tax is only two cents a pack — and resell them illegally at a large profit in high-tax states.

County Schools Checking Roads For Reopening

Schools in Greenville reopened today while those in Pitt County remained closed following the snowfall Tuesday night.

Ott Alford, superintendent of the county schools, said a decision would be made late this afternoon on whether to re-open schools on Friday.

"We have our transportation people checking out road conditions throughout the county," Alford commented. "As of now (11 a.m.), there's still some bad road conditions in the area from Sharp Point on down to Oakley."

This includes the upper part of the county and covers in general the Stokes, Bethel, Belvoir and Faulkland communities. There's also some isolated instances of bad road conditions in the Grimesland area.

Planning-Zoning Board Bypassed About Annexation

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A member of the Planning and Zoning Commission last night questioned why the planning board was bypassed in the city's study of the industrial area as a possible annexation move.

Bill Heymann, who serves on the Joint City-County board, commented during the regular meeting that he was surprised to hear that the city is considering the annexation and "we were bypassed completely without being notified."

John Schofield, Community Development director, informed Heymann that when the preliminary draft of the annexation plan was given to the City Council, the staff asked the Council "how they wanted to handle it."

Schofield said that the Council indicated "they would handle it themselves." The staff member added, "That's the way it has been."

Commission member Mrs. Ruth Trevathan pointed out that the planning board usually considers annexation requests. Normally, recommendations are forwarded to the Council regarding annexation.

City Manager Jim Caldwell, who told the board that no final decision has been reached on the matter, noted that the planning board still might receive the annexation proposal.

"At this point, what can we do?" Heymann observed. Board member E. E. Howell said he felt the Council would have discussed it with the commission, but he added, "I think it got blown out of proportion."

Schofield explained that statutes are well defined as to what can be done. He pointed out that it was made "quite evident" at Wednesday morning's meeting on the annexation proposal that the city is still a long way from finalizing the matter.

Schofield said the Council adopted a notice of intent to annex the property and scheduled a public hearing for March 21. Since the action was taken on the public hearing, he added, a new map has been discussed.

The CD director reported that in order for the Council to consider the new map on the annexation, the original intent to annex would have to be rescinded and a new hearing scheduled.

Mayor Percy Cox said yesterday morning that the Council would have to call for a special meeting if any changes are made in the annexation plan.

In business on the board agenda, approval was given to the preliminary plat of Carriage House Apartments, Section II, located east of NC 43 and west of Oakmont Square Apartments.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday reported that the property, zoned for R-6 (residential) usage, is located just outside the corporate limits. He said that three entrances to the site are indicated on the plans.

Albert Smith, a resident of the area, expressed concern about the storm sewer and cited the problem of water backing up in the ditch. He asked for some relief from the water.

Holliday said that the plan called for runoff from the property to be handled by a ditch and he noted that he would be in favor of improvements to the ditch. Holliday said he assumed it was the responsibility of the adjoining property owners to clear the ditch.

The ditch is located on the property line, it was explained. Commission members also discussed the location of highway cuts into the property and questioned whether they would be placed directly across the highway from other cuts. Holliday said he did not think the cuts were opposite existing entrances.

The board also approved the preliminary plat of Country Squire Estates located north of NC 33, south of Great Swamp canal one mile east of Green Street.

Holliday said that the property, zoned RA-20, is also located outside the city limits. The Council has scheduled a public hearing to consider rezoning the property from RA-20 to R-6.

The city engineer said he feels there is a need for this type of single family development in the area.

After some concern was raised regarding the proposed designation of recreation property on the south side of the highway, which would have necessitated crossing the road to utilize the recreation area.

Candidate Davis Visits Greenville

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Lawrence Davis who is running for U.S. Senator in the May primary stopped in Greenville for a short visit yesterday amid his week-long campaign which he said took him from "Murphy to Manteo."

A two-term N.C. Senator, elected in 1974 and 1976, the Democrat calls Forsyth County his home. He was also elected to the N.C. House of Representatives in 1970 and 1972.

In an interview yesterday, Davis said that his major concern is inflation and finding a means to stop it. He added that inflation, caused by deficit spending at the national level, is "taking away the purchasing power of the dollar." The average person's "take-home pay will be much less than it would in 1973."

As chairman of the Senate Base Budget Committee, Davis introduced legislation which was "instrumental in cutting over $60 million of expenses from the state budget." It is this kind of improvement which he wishes to see at the federal level.

By cutting this money from the state budget, Davis said that Gov. Hunt's reading program became a reality "without tax increases."

According to Davis, the federal deficit for this year's budget is $60.8 billion. "That deficit is of such proportion that it is hard to imagine." He noted that if a person spent $175,000 per day since the time of Christ, it would not equal that amount.

"People just can't understand these numbers. We automatically devalue the dollar" by developing such a deficit, he added.

He also noted that the general public has a tendency to blame increased prices on individual merchants and businesses. "As the value of the dollar goes down, everyone must raise their prices."

Instead of blaming private businesses, Davis said "the fault

Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Sunday

WILSON — The First Christian Church here was the setting for the wedding Sunday afternoon of Miss Dalen Sautter Bottoms and David Webster Nichols Jr. Dr. Allan Sharp officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Donahue Bottoms are parents of the bride. Mr. Nichols is the son of Mrs. Hazel R. Brown of Greenville, and the late Mr. David Nichols.

Wedding music was presented by Lester Southern, organist, and Matthew Dean Bottoms, brother of the bride, trumpeter.

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor length chantilly lace gown fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a Victorian neckline with a standing ruffle and long tapered sleeves forming a point over the hand. Tiered ruffles adorned the skirt and bordered the hemline which extended into a chapel sweep.

The bride wore a fingertip length mantilla bordered with chantilly lace. She carried a Bible covered in white bridal satin and lace centered with a white cymbidium orchid and lilies-of-the-valley. The Bible was carried by the bride's mother at her wedding.

Mrs. Michael Moody of Wilson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donahue Bottoms Jr. of Ayden, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Bobby Crawford of Winterville, sister of the bridegroom.

They wore gowns of white tulle styled with a jewel neckline, natural fitted waist and long chiffon sleeves trimmed around the cuffs and waist with white lace inserted with red velvet ribbon. The gowns, fashioned by the bride's mother, were accented in back with a wide red velvet bow with floor length streamers. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of red and white carnations, red roses, white snowdrift pom poms and baby's breath with red streamers. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of all red carnations and roses accented with baby's breath and red streamers.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Sally Wiggins Granger, cousin of the bride, Miss Jan Miles and Miss Gail Windham of Wilson, Miss Michelle Crawford, niece of the bridegroom, of Winterville, Mrs. Kenneth Evans and Miss Robin Ray of Greenville, Mrs. Alexander A. Diffe Jr. of Elizabeth City, and Mrs. Edward Matyas of Binghamton, N. Y., cousins of the bride. They wore long gowns in mixed spring colors and each carried a long-stemmed red rose.

Larry Parker of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Donahue Bottoms Jr. of Ayden, brother of the bride, Clifton Nichols of Tarboro, cousin of the bridegroom, and Gordon Edwards.

Mrs. Nichols is a graduate of Ralph L. Fike High School, East

MRS. DAVID WEBSTER NICHOLS JR.

Carolina University, and Mitchell's Hair Styling Academy. Her husband graduated from Belvoir-Falkland High School and the N. C. State Highway Patrol School, Raleigh, and attended ECU. He is employed at communications supervisor with the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the couple will live in Greenville.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church parlor. Guests were greeted by Judge and Mrs. Allen Harrell and Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Davis in the foyer.

The refreshment table was covered with a re-embroidered white lace cloth centered with white gladioli, daisies, pom poms and baby's breath accented with red roses and red carnations flanked by three branch silver candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Serving were Mrs. L. Alton Daniels and Mrs. Reece W. Bottoms of Raleigh, and Mrs. Stanley Woods of Binghamton, N. Y., aunts of the bride, Mrs. Effie Hollomon and Mrs. Dean Sullivan of Wilson, great aunts of the bride, Mrs. Jesse Luper, Mrs. Ann Amerson, Mrs. Marie Rose, Mrs. Robert Goudy, Mrs. L. P. Boole and Mrs. George Winbon, all of Wilson.

Mrs. Ronnie Boykin assisted with the rice bags.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Riley, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Approximately 50 guests attended a wedding brunch honoring the bridal couple, members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Riley.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Riley, Miss Sallie W. Granger and Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Moody of Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander A. Diffe Jr. of Elizabeth City.

Upon arrival, the bride-elect was presented a corsage of red carnations and baby's breath.

On Saturday evening following the rehearsal, the bridegroom's

Departing Priest Entertained

On Sunday evening, Father H. Charles Mulholland was honored at a dinner and reception in the St. Gabriel's School Hall sponsored by the Women's Club of the church.

Father Mulholland is leaving St. Gabriel's where he has been pastor for 10 years. After a short stay in Washington, D. C., he will be assigned to a new pastorate in Washington.

Honored guests at the dinner, a 'Charlie Roast', were Mayor and Mrs. Percy Cox, the Rev. and Mrs. William Hadden, the Rev. and Mrs. Dan Earnhardt, the Rev. Graham Nahouse, Father Paul Byron, Mrs. George Gorham, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barnes, D. D. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reddick and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Jacobson. Jacobson served as roastmaster.

Approximately 300 guests attended the dinner and reception.

Father William Elsesser, the new pastor of St. Gabriel's, was a guest at the dinner.

Mrs. Lisa Kannen was chairperson of the event and Mrs. Sally Ebron and Tom Kelly headed food preparation. Milton Jenkins presented Father Mulholland with gifts from his friends and parishioners.

Mrs. Camille Archie and Mrs. Joanne Newton were in charge of decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Allen presided at the guest register. Allen also took photographs for a commemorative book.

The bride wore a pale green street length dress and carried yellow roses.

The candles were lighted by Amy Buckland, daughter of the bridegroom, and Montie Graham, son of the bride.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Leola Downing of Elizabethtown, grandmother of the bride, served the wedding cake and Mrs. Louise Hensley, sister of the bridegroom, poured punch.

The bride teaches in the Greensboro City Schools and the bridegroom is employed by NCB there. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Buckland of Burlington.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A male reader wishes to be heard.

"I wish to comment on a column you had a few weeks ago where you accused husbands of apathy toward a wife's problem of what to fix for dinner. Your exact words were: 'I don't know of a woman alive who has not begged her husband for suggestions for dinner.' I don't know of a husband alive who has not constantly ordered, 'I don't care.'"

He continues, "Perhaps the main reason 'I don't care' is consistently ordered may be seen in the following exchange:

Wife: Honey, what would you like for dinner tonight?

Husband: I don't care.

Wife: Please don't say that.

Help me decide what to fix.

Husband: All right . . . how about spaghetti?

Wife: No, I'm really not in the mood for spaghetti. I'd rather have something more meaty.

Husband: Okay, how about a pot roast?

Wife: We can't I'm saving our last roast for day after tomorrow. It's too big for the two of us and we'll have someone in.

Husband: Well then, why don't you just fry up some chicken?

Wife: We don't have any. I took those last two fryers to the church potluck last Sunday.

Husband: If we don't have anything, let's just go out for dinner.

Wife: You know we can't afford it. We've gone out too much lately. Besides, my hair is a mess and I don't have a thing to wear.

Husband: What do we have then?

Wife: I could thaw out some hamburger and fix your favorite casserole. Would you like that?

Husband: I don't care."

Author's Postscript: If the writer had taken his vignette one step farther, we would have the wife thawing the hamburger and serving his favorite casserole.

He would look at it and observe. "Is this the casserole with the imported eagle eggs, $35 worth of shrimp and clams, the secret sauce that takes 12 hours to prepare and marinate and can only be served during a full moon?" (His wife nods enthusiastically.) I had it for lunch. "Why didn't you tell me?" "I don't care."

A Mountain Manager's Job Is Risky

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer

KIRKWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Dick Reuter has been caught in a big avalanche or two and was nearly killed in a 50-foot fall from a chairlift tower. He's hunted, trapped, logged, dynamited, surveyed, showshoed and skied all over the rugged central and northern Sierra Nevada dividing California and Nevada.

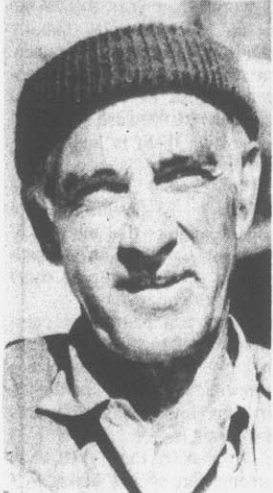

And though Reuter, 54, doesn't like the fact he's been banged around in the process — he lost a rib and part of a lung, broke his shoulder and was chilled on uncounched mountaintops — he's philosophical.

"That's part of the hazard," said the lean, plain-speaking Reuter. "When you're in this kind of business there are risks. If you don't want to do this kind of stuff, don't get into it."

Reuter is mountain manager at the Kirkwood Meadows ski resort.

"There's no use kidding you, I'm not the man I used to be," he said. But he pointed to his head and added, "A lot of it's up here. You can do a ... lot if you're determined."

Co-workers, most of them younger, will attest to that. Reuter, who patrols the big area on skis to check for avalanche hazards, often leaves them huffing and puffing.

DICK REUTER

During the 1930s drought in the Midwest, Reuter moved with his family to Oroville, Calif., from Nebraska. After military service in Europe during World War II, he returned to Northern California and a life working in the woods.

He took on other work, too, like snow surveys for the California Water Resources Department. That meant treks of 10 days or so, skiing 20 miles a day, to measure snowpack. Helicopters are used for most of that work now.

And at one point Reuter ran a little rope tow for skiers.

In 1955, Reuter started ski patrol work during winters at Squaw Valley. Then in 1962, he went to work full time for the ski resort there. He moved to Kirkwood five years ago.

In the mid-1950s, when skiing was just becoming popular, Reuter and a few others were among the first to try avalanche control by blasting dangerous areas with dynamite, or ski-checking — actually skiing over the hazard areas to start the avalanches.

Reuter once went for a ride on a big avalanche that could have buried him, but instead threw him out to safety.

"It was real challenging," he said. "We were conscious of the danger but it's just like in the war — you think it's going to happen to someone else."

Big strides in avalanche control have been made since then "but they don't have it all down yet," he said.

"I've seen the whole thing (ski resort development) almost from the start," he said. "I've seen a lot of things happen. I've seen the equipment become a lot safer."

Along the way, he has learned how to direct "the work that has to be done on the mountain — the stuff that makes a place like this tick," Reuter said.

No Real Dangerous Conditions

The city school system has been hit with another long list of building code discrepancies and violations, this time concerning the Rose High School building.

The results of a Feb. 6 inspection were submitted to the board Monday by Chief Building Inspector Alton Warren.

It concerned the board that some of the discrepancies, such as no hot water in the teacher's bathroom, were of long standing and had not been cited before in previous inspections.

Be that as it may, the list of discrepancies submitted by the building inspector was long, even if they didn't indicate real dangerous conditions.

Given the problems at Third Street School, which were found by the building inspector and have since been corrected, the most recent findings at Rose do not inspire confidence that proper maintenance is being carried out.

The school system administration should make certain that maintenance problems in the buildings are being reported as they develop. Then it should be determined that the problems are corrected promptly by maintenance personnel.

West May Awake To Being Outgunned

This country, burned by the Vietnam war, seems to have wrapped itself up in a feeling that we can survive with less defense spending and a military based on volunteers.

The British government is warning, however that the Soviet Union is building up its military more rapidly than the NATO allies, of which the U.S. is an important part.

It is not surprising that the Soviet communist society is putting more into the military than capitalist nations. In a totally controlled economy that is not difficult to do.

It is disturbing to us that soon the western world could awake to find itself outgunned.

THIS AFTERNOON

Growth Despite Inflation

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Year after year, the pronouncements from state government officials maintain record growth in economic and industrial development.

New records are repeatedly heralded, and the dollar figures pumped from the computers to back that up.

Yet little mention is made of inflation. That devastating fact of life is familiar to all of us. Our checkbooks proclaim that a dollar today is not worth nearly as much as it was.

In light of that, how does North Carolina's industrial growth track record look.

We asked the experts at the Department of Commerce to do some computing on that question.

And while, the adjusted figures take some of the glory out of the growth records, they nonetheless show a pattern of steady if not spectacular growth.

One dismaying element, however, is that while the investments in industrial plants and equipment tracked an upward curve; the new payrolls added leave something to be desired.

Figuring

First, the formulas: a 1972 dollar was considered as the base—one buck worth one buck. The index by 1977 was up to $1.43; tracking backward to 1968, the index was $.83. Those bases are established for a particular set of circumstances—building and land costs and machinery, and not the overall consumer index. The overall index has been different, as illustrated later.

So how does the 1977 record stack up? North Carolina scored investments in new or expanded industrial plants and equipment totalling $1.45 billion. In 1972 dollars, that new record is still a record; over a billion ($1,011,296,000).

Last year's record which topped a billion for the first time actually falls short: $736.8 million in 1972 uninflated dollars.

Ten years ago, the state recorded $574.8 million in new plants. Ceased in the 1972 level, that would have been $690.9 million. On the adjusted table, investments rose in 1969, then went up and down slightly (remaining still in the $700 million range) until the record year just ended. Adjusted dollars jumped from $736.8 million in 1976 to the billion-plus level in 1977.

NOBLITT

But what about the record $217.7 million payroll added in 1977? Not very well, the figures show. The same index as applied to plant investments pulls that down to $151.8 million—just a few dollars more than five years ago.

Using the federally established consumer price index makes matters even more unbalanced as to payrolls. That index is based on a 1968 dollar, and hiked upward to $1.84 in 1977.

New payrolls in 1968 totalled $153.2 million. The 1977 payroll then becomes $118.3 million; less than 10 years ago.

New Jobs

But that isn't totally fair either since there were more new jobs added in 1968 than in 1977: 31,297 compared to 26,699. So, using the index figures for the federal consumer price inflation the comparison per new job added comes out this way—$4,912 per job in 1968 to $4,482 last year. Actual inflated payroll dollars per job last year equalled $8,184.

What does it all mean? Mostly, say Commerce spokesmen, that various ways of figuring statistics produce varying results. The real measure, they say, is in what kinds of jobs and plants, are coming to North Carolina.

Payroll and investment figures are altered considerably by the shift from labor intensive industries such as textiles, apparel, furniture; and toward more sophisticated chemical, electronics, and computer functions.

Results of that shift now taking place will be reflected in future reports.

Hope For The Epileptic

WASHINGTON — There is good news for the nation's two million epileptics — and some bad news also. The good news is that at long last, sodium valproate is about to become available to them. The bad news is that for a little while, at least, needless suffering will continue.

The story is of concern not only to the victims of epilepsy but to the general public also. Boiled down, this is the essence of the charge: Because of the super-timidity of the Food and Drug Administration, valuable new drugs regularly are delayed for months or years in reaching the market; and in the specific case of sodium valproate, a needless delay was the result not merely of timidity but of incompetence as well. Sodium valproate (valproic acid, or VPA) has been in use outside the United States for at least ten years. Discovered in 1881, the drug was licensed in France in 1967 as an anticonvulsant. Several hundred thousand patients now are benefiting from the drug around the world — but they are not yet benefiting from it here in the United States.

Not a single expert has questioned the drug's safety. Neither do the experts question the drug's efficacy. More than 200 published studies have attested its therapeutic effect. The drug is especially useful in petit mal seizures, but it appears to work successfully in other forms of epilepsy also.

In 1967, the French developer and patent holder, Labaz, approached ten American manufacturers with a view toward reaching a license agreement. Nine of them declined, and it is hard to fault them for begging off: There never will be much of a market for sodium valproate; the staggering costs of winning FDA approval for a new drug operate as a grave deterrent to applying in the first place.

In December, 1974, Abbott Laboratories agreed to undertake the project. It took almost three years, until September of 1977, for Abbott to put together a new drug application. Under FDA rules, at least two scientifically acceptable studies must support contentions of efficacy. Abbott was able to produce one, known as the 1972 Suzuki study in Japan, but the literature turned up nothing else quite suited to the FDA's rigid demands.

In August of 1976, however, two leading neurologists began a double-blind study of petit mal victims at the University of Virginia medical center. More prestigious auspices could not be asked. Dr. J. Kiffin Penry is director of the neurological disorders pro-

Aid In A Long Layoff

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration wants most of its job training and public service employment money to help those out of work for long periods of time.

The program, sent to Congress on Wednesday, would authorize $11.4 billion to provide jobs and training for more than four million Americans.

It would reduce aid to those who are laid off but are likely to be rehired in an improving economy.

The money, for a 12-month period beginning Oct. 1, would represent a $1.8 billion increase over current spending.

Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., chairman of the House employment opportunities subcommittee, called the proposed changes confusing. He asked whether the plan really simplified or further complicated the federal jobs subsidy program.

To help the long-term unemployed, Carter would train 800,000 people who cannot find jobs even when the economy is healthy.

The program aims to reduce the hiring of middle-income people by hundreds of cities and states which have used the workers to supplement basic services, such as fire and police protection.

Carter would continue for at least another year the 725,000 public service jobs initially paid for under emergency economic programs. But after September 1980, he would guarantee only 100,000 such jobs, concentrating them in high unemployment areas.

Carter would limit income from publicly subsidized jobs to $10,000, require that more go to the poor and place an 18-month ceiling on the time one could hold such employment.

The administration also would spend $400 million to help local business and labor councils to devise on-the-job training and hiring programs for young people.

Carter noted that "even while unemployment was falling to 4 percent among white males above the age of 20, it was rising from 35 to 38 percent among black teenagers."

40 Years Ago Today

February 23, 1938

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today tentative state flue-cured tobacco acreage allotments under soil conservation payments will be made to growers this year.

The allotments are independent of the marketing quotas which will be established for the tobacco if growers approve the March 12 referendum. The marketing quotas will be expressed in pounds.

For North Carolina the acreage allotments are between 572,000 and 580,000.

The regular Wednesday morning City Police court was dispensed with today when it was discovered that there were no cases on the docket ready for trial.

Chief George Clark declared things had been quiet this week. The arrest of two little boys for the theft of a bicycle being the only thing in the past day or two.

The two were taken to police headquarters for questioning regarding the theft.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Preoccupied By Panama

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The confusion among the President's men when the national coal strike unexpectedly landed in their laps can be traced to neglect of a foresighted warning voiced over lunch in the White House Mess 10 months earlier.

Presidential aide Landon Butler told a luncheon companion in April that severe labor troubles would face the nation's coalfields by early winter; therefore, we must have advance contingency planning to handle it. That was the last word about coal at the White House until the strike came Dec. 6. While in charge of labor problems at the White House, the hard-working Butler has been almost totally occupied trying to get the Panama Canal treaties ratified.

So intense was White House preoccupation with the canal that no thought of what a prolonged coal strike could do to the country penetrated the presidential consciousness.

So concerned were the Carter men with the political catastrophe of losing the canal treaties in the Senate that they totally ignored the political opportunity offered by the coal strike.

While failing to make long-term contingency plans for the predictable coal emergency, the Carter White House also seemed crippled over moving quickly for short-term gains. Until Mr. Carter finally bared his teeth last Monday to force the coal mine owners to the Oval Office, his conduct betrayed a costly lack of appreciation of presidential power and an unseemly fear of failure. Herein lies much of what ails Jimmy Carter's presidency.

Having provided no advance planning on coal, the White House had no ready answer for pleas from coal state members of Congress as the strike dragged on. Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, a courtly Senate veteran of two decades, tried in his polite but persistent way to convince the President of the necessity for intervention.

But Randolph and other coal state lawmakers found the White House focused on Panama, far from the coalfields. "Why not?" one presidential adviser asked us. "If we lose the treaty, we're down the drain — finished. We have been spending all our time on Panama, and rightly so. The whole administration is at stake."

Moreover, the White House was relying for advice primarily on Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall, a University of Texas professor just one year ago with no experience in big-time labor negotiations. Marshall not only urged the President to stay out but warned that coal miners probably would not obey a Taft Hartley back-to-work order from Mr. Carter. The Carter team, after recent setbacks measurably less self-confident than a year ago, wanted no test of Marshall's prediction.

This was followed by an ostrich-like period of pretending the crisis was not brewing. Pressure escalated from Congress, including two formal letters to the President from the Ohio delegation begging for intervention.

On Feb. 10, as it became apparent that the bargaining council of the United Mine Workers (UMW) would reject the negotiated settlement, Marshall tried to justify his position to the Senate-House Economic Committee by contending "you have to demonstrate national emergency" to invoke Taft-Hartley. "Turning out the lights in Ohio . . ." asked Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio. "That is not a national emergency," shot back Marshall. In response to Brown's question about Wright-Patterson Air Base in Dayton, Marshall said that too was "a local question."

But when the UMW's bargaining council overwhelmingly rejected the settlement Feb. 12, even Marshall conceded the President must act. Landon Butler and his boss, top presidential aide Hamilton Jordan, momentarily put Panama aside and devised a call from Mr. Carter for bargaining at the White House. So low had respect for the President's power slipped by now, however, that the coal operators responded with a rude rejection.

What came next was a tactical exercise of presidential power for the first time in the coal crisis. While Sen. Randolph was soft-soaping the coal operators to be reasonable, the White House

Strength For Today

AN OLD ALIBI

In the latter nineteenth century a great railway tycoon instructed one of his political lobbyists to pay a bribe to a judge. "If you have to pay money to have the right thing done," wrote the tycoon, "it is only just and fair to do so."

Many men who were building the great industrial empires of that day were so filled with a sense of the magnitude and importance of their tasks that they felt that almost anything was justified in getting these tasks accomplished.

But does the end ever justify the means? From the beginning of time great men have been claiming that it does. Yet as we look back over history we can see that often the greatest crimes were perpetrated by people who wanted to get good things done by wrong means.

Experience has demonstrated that when immoral means are used to achieve high moral ends, the ends themselves are inevitably corrupted and become no better than the means used to achieve them.

Opening Jobs To N.C. Women

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Next month North Carolina will be on its way to more than doubling the size of a highly specialized segment of its labor force.

Supported by a $523,000 federal grant, 80 women will begin classes soon that will teach them to be carpenters, masons and welders. The program is designed to help poor women break into high-paying "non-traditional" careers, but officials at the state Council on the Status of Women figure they're doing the state's construction industry a favor too.

"There are strict new minority hiring guidelines now for construction companies with federal contracts," explained Miriam Dorsey, executive director of the council, which designed the program and won the Department of Labor grant.

"The companies are getting worried about this thing, because they can't find women who are trained," she said.

But the principal object of the program is to provide job training for women on welfare or unemployed. "This is a real exciting thing for me," said Ms. Dorsey, "because so many people say women can't do construction work. The fact is that they can. I wouldn't want to do it myself, but if anyone else wants to, that's great."

Edwina White, who is coordinating the program for the council, said recruitment to fill the 80 positions has "been really great." "We had 150 who responded to advertisements for the welding, and we only have 18 positions for that," she said. "If the demand is that great, we may have to see if we can trade off some of the other positions for more welding."

The welding classes will be taught at Southeast Community College in Columbus County. Another 30 women will learn carpentry at the Anson Technical Institute in Anson County, and the remaining 32 spots in the program will be divided between light carpentry and masonry classes at Pamlico Technical Institute in Pamlico County.

The women will be paid $2.65 an hour for the 35 hours they spend each week in class, plus up to $15 a week for child care and transportation expenses.

Class work will last six months, Ms. White said, after which the women will spend another six months in on-the-job training, subsidized at the rate of $1.50 an hour by the grant.

Ms. White said the council had made sure that jobs could be found for the participants before it went ahead with the program, and construction industry advice had been sought in development of the courses.

She added that the council had been looking for women actively engaged in construction work to use as speakers at special seminars in which the women will be given help in learning self-confidence and how to apply for a job.

"We've been scouring the state for women that are in the building trades," she said. "There aren't many of them. We can't find any welders. I'd say we'll at least be doubling the number with this program."

There's A Preventive For Loss Of Topsoil

SEVERE EROSION at the edge of this field located one mile west of Winterville was caused by a two-inch rainfall.

A grassed field border would control this problem.

Soil Conservation Service
The nation — including North Carolina — is losing soil from its vital cropland at an "unacceptable" rate, results of a survey by the USDA-Soil Conservation Service reveal.

USDA Assistant Secretary M. Rupert Cutler, who is in charge of conservation, research and education for the Department, said the national rate of nine tons per acre per year is nearly twice the rate considered permissible, and said conservation programs must be applied to bring the soil loss under control.

"Had there been no soil conservation on the land," the assistant secretary added, "the loss would have reached an estimated 3.8 billion tons rather than the 1975 figure of 2.8 billion. But even the lower figure is too much."

The Middle Atlantic region, including North Carolina, had losses well above the national average, with 14 tons per acre per year, according to SCS State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh. The study examined erosion from water action in 18 water resource regions. The high mark was in the Lower Mississippi region, with 23 tons lost, while the most favorable was a reading of just one ton per acre per year in the California region.

The Tennessee region had a high mark of 19 tons and the

Seniors Club Meeting Held

Town and Country Senior Citizens Club held its regular meeting Feb. 16 at the St. Paul's Episcopal Church Fellowship Hall.

The Rev. Adrian Brown led the group in devotion and Mrs. Sarah Ashton presided at the business meeting.

It was noted that members will attend a luncheon Feb. 21 at the Bonanza Steak House.

Dr. Lawrence Brewster introduced the speaker, James Plantania from the North Carolina Department of Human Resources.

Refreshments were served by Elizabeth Savage, the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Lofquist, Merle Austin, Kathleen Woolard, and Dr. Mildred Southwick.

South Atlantic-Gulf region was close behind with 18. The Upper Mississippi had a more favorable loss figure than the Middle Atlantic, with only 10 tons per acre lost each year, and the Ohio region came in with nine tons.

"Since we have proven conservation measures that will control erosion," Jesse Hicks added, "all of these figures are too high. We can improve on our showing if we just determine that we will reduce our loss of soil."

Erosion control technical assistance, like all programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is available from Soil Conservation Service offices in every county in North Carolina to everyone, without regard to race, creed, color, sex, or national origin.

threatened them with a tough presidential speech over national television that very night. They quickly capitulated.

But the dramatic impact of Mr. Carter's muscling was softened by the impression that he had been dragged into action kicking and screaming. In April 1984, with public confidence in his four-month-old presidency flagging, Lyndon Johnson revived it by exuberantly leaping into a railroad strike and settling it. In February 1978 Jimmy Carter failed to perceive a similar opportunity.

Mr. Carter's handling of the coal strike, therefore, illuminates internal complaints about the way his White House functions. At first failing to anticipate a national crisis, the President and his men next missed a chance to build public confidence. Since Mr. Carter himself feels the republic can ill afford another failed President, this transcends even the economic hardship of not enough coal.

bott immediately filed with the FDA. This was on Sept. 22 of last year. The FDA's Neurologic Drugs Advisory Committee reviewed the application and on Oct. 12 unanimously recommended approval.

Then it all bogged down, and that is the moral of this story. It is the very nature of bureaucracy, in any situation of potential liability or controversy, to hunker down in the prairie dog tunnels of delay. The FDA staff, in a maddening display of bureaucratic expertise, rejected the Penry-Dreifuss study despite the unanimous approval of the advisory committee. In the judgment of an independent reviewing committee, created by the Epilepsy Foundation of America, the FDA staff didn't understand epilepsy and didn't know how to evaluate the data.

In a press conference in Washington on Feb. 9, a spokesman for the Epilepsy Foundation charged flatly that further delays in the introduction of sodium valproate "would constitute callous negligence". Perhaps this pressure helped, for last week brought hints and indications that approval will be granted as soon as a labeling agreement can be reached. Abbott Laboratories can supply pharmacies within four to six weeks after a green light is flashed.

For epilepsy victims, the story offers timely hope, but it ought to prompt renewed soul-searching on the whole business of FDA's power over new drugs. My thought is to strip the FDA of authority to pronounce upon efficacy, and to leave that judgment to doctors, to patients, and to the marketplace at large.

Planning-Zoning...

tion site, board members approved the plat contingent upon Council rezoning of the property and with the understanding that the property owner will set aside the required 1.6 acres for recreation on the north side.

The final plat of Wilcar Division, Section I, located between US 13 and the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and north of property owned by the state Department of Transportation, was approved.

Eight lots are designated for development on the tract, according to Holliday, which is zoned for Highway Commercial usage.

A motion was approved stipulating that the board will not consider preliminary and final plats at the same meeting. It was also agreed that if no changes from preliminary plats are submitted in the final documents, a representative of the property owners would not have to appear at the meeting on the final plat consideration.

The Greenville planning board, after discussing a request by Collice Moore for rezoning approximately 8.7 acres at the northwest corner of Stantonburg Road and Memorial Drive from Medical Arts to Shopping Center, automatically tabled the request for 30 days.

The rezoning, it was explained, would shift the Medical Arts zoning line and allow for the developer to locate his entire shopping complex in the Shopping Center zone. Current zoning places one of the proposed sections of the complex in the medical zone.

Moore, explaining that the tract of land is bisected by the two zones, reported that the rezoning would only allow him to move the development back and would not give him any additional shopping center square footage. The move does add one tier of parking to the plans.

Schofield said that his concern was that the plan under the rezoning proposal would physically separate the complex from the parking area and require that two streets be crossed in order to get to the complex. He added that the new plan did provide better access to the internal area of the development.

Moore said the purpose of the requested action was to provide a more desirable internal flow.

Howell noted that the developer was asking to move the buildings back and put parking on the front rather than at the rear of the property as proposed originally.

Mrs. Trevathan contended that if Moore is granted the CS zoning, other property owners in the area will ask to change their zones from medical usage to commercial.

Moore agreed to leave two lots adjacent to the Moye property on Stantonburg Road under Medical Arts zoning. The remaining property borders on tracts owned by the county, he said.

The board recommended to the City Council that the request of Carroll & Associates for rezoning approximately 34.5 acres on both sides of Arlington Boulevard between Evans Street and Seaboard Coast Line Railroad be approved. The petitioner is seeking rezoning from RA-20 to Shopping Center and Office and Institutional.

Schofield said that the request involves tracts of 6.2 acres and 2.5 acres for Shopping Center designation as well as 8.4 acres and 17.4 acres designated for Office and Institutional.

The request of Allen-White Inc. for rezoning approximately 4.6 acres, involving the Ramada Inn site, on Greenville Boulevard from Shopping Center to Highway Commercial was also recommended to the Council.

A special use permit was issued for the construction of the Ramada Inn, it was explained, and the developers are seeking to rezone the present site, plus an additional 50 feet of property in order to expand the facility. The zoning would be contiguous to commercial zoning on the rear.

In other business, the city board approved the final plat of Fulford Subdivision, Section I, with the stipulation that the property line of one of the two lots be made flush with the adjoining church property line.

Approval was also given for the final plat of Orchard Hill Subdivision, Section I, located on the west side of Hooker Road, and the revised preliminary plat of Medical Shopping Village, showing curb and gutter, was approved.

The erosion and sediment control plan for University Medical Park was approved with recommendations offered by the Soil Conservation Service.

Commissioners scheduled a workshop for March 1 to discuss a study prepared by the staff on the area bounded by Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, Memorial Drive, Green Mill Run and the 264 Bypass. The workshop will be held at 9 p.m. following work session on other matters.

The planning staff was asked to make a study of the zoning in the area.

Award Goes To Ayden Native

JACKSON — A native of Ayden now employed as Superintendent of Schools in Northampton County has been named the recipient of one of the highest awards given by the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers.

GEO. S. STANCIL

George Stancil, the son of Sarah and Wiley Stancil of Rt. 1, Ayden, was presented the award for dedicated service to children and youth through "activities and efforts to embrace the objects of the PTA." Making the presentation to Stancil was District XI PTA Chairman Edward L. Dickens of Nash County. Cited as "Outstanding Educator" for 1977, Stancil was selected for his performance as Northampton County Schools Superintendent, a position he has held since last June. A former Superintendent of Schools in Gates County, he is a 1957 graduate of Ayden High School and a 1963 graduate of East Carolina University where he earned his B.S. in education, his M.A.E., and later his Sixth Year Certificate in administration.

In accepting the award, Stancil challenged the membership of PTAs everywhere to continue their fights on behalf of better public education and added, "because you can really make things happen."

Stancil is married to the former Brownie Harrington of Ayden.

List 4 Collisions In City Yesterday

An estimated $2,100 property damage resulted from a series of four collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 10:05 p.m. collision on Third Street, 45 feet East of the Evans Street intersection involving a car driven by Sabra Jean Mason of Route 1, Beaufort.

According to investigators, the Mason car ran off the street and collided with the side of the Minges Building, backed up and struck the side of the building a second time.

Officers, who charged Miss Mason with careless and reckless driving, estimated damage to the car at $700 and set damage to the building at $25.

Albert Boyce Quinn Jr., of Kinston was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 9:35 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 100 feet South of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Police said the Quinn car collided with an auto operated by Barbara Ballenger Bower of Ayden, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Quinn car and $200 damage to the Bower auto.

A 9:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Cotanche Street and Reade Circle involved cars driven by James Allen Gorham of Route 1, Fountain and Susan Pale Whittington of 304 Lindell Rd.

Damage from the collision was set at $250 to the Gorham car and $150 to the Whittington vehicle.

Cars driven by Anita Reeves Desoto of 611 East 11th St. and Sylvester Dixon of 702 West Fifth St. collided about 2:23 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Cadillac Streets, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Desoto car and $100 damage to the Dixon vehicle.

Investigators charged Dixon with failing to yield the right of way in connection with the collision.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts: A hysterical woman called the police to tell them that she had just been raped by her husband.

She was told that it wasn't possible for a man to rape his own wife.

She then explained he had held a knife to her stomach and forced her to have sex with him. (I'm omitting a few details which are too horrible to put in a letter.)

The police then told her that, according to law, it was a "domestic matter" involving a man and his wife—not a case of rape.

The woman then said that they had never been married, they were just living together, so actually he WASN'T HER HUSBAND!

She was then told, "Common law marriage" is recognized in this state, so as far as the law is concerned he IS your HUSBAND."

End of conversation.
My question: What kind of justice is this?
THE WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Apparently, this kind of "justice" is still "in." And for an excellent book that deals critically with our legal system, I highly recommend "Injustice For All," by Anne Strick. It's published by Putnam and is well worth reading.

DEAR ABBY: I met a gal in a bar. (I'll call her Kit.) She was really pretty, only 19, and she sure had a rough life and a lot of bum breaks. She even confessed she had hustled for a while, but she said that was in the past and now she had a respectable job as a waitress. Well, I started liking her a lot even though she seemed to have a lot of crummy friends.

One day Kit called me at work and told me she had been beaten up and robbed. She asked me to come to her place and bring her some money to pay her bills.

When I saw her, she sure was a mess. She said a guy she had never seen before used a passkey to get into her flat. He beat her up and took all her savings, which is about $300.

I took Kit to the hospital emergency room, and they fixed her up. (She told them she fell down some stairs!) I wanted to report it to the police, but Kit wouldn't let me. I gave her $200 to pay her bills.

Now I am wondering why she didn't want to report the robbery to the police. What do you think?
PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Maybe she didn't want to report the robbery because there wasn't any robbery.

DEAR ABBY: I have a slight problem. The company I work for has instructed me to answer the telephone as follows: "Thank you for calling the Blankety Blank Company; may I help you?"

It seems to me that the "Thank you for calling the Blankety Blank Company" should be at the end of the conversation. If I am wrong, please tell me. I keep getting cut off in the middle of my greeting because most people think they have a wrong number.
WORKING GIRL

DEAR GIRL: I think you're right. Tell your bosses that your callers are confused by the "reverse English," that the first thing a customer wants to know when he calls is if he has the right number. If you want to thank him for calling the blankety blank company, do it when you say goodbye.

Burglar Was Surprised, But Made Escape

AYDEN — A burglar was surprised at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of near Ayden mid-afternoon Wednesday, and escaped with at least one firearm.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Mrs. Janet Johnson discovered an intruder in the Johnson home on N. C. 11 when she returned to her home at 3 p.m. According to the sheriff, the man, wearing a ski-mask, was in the act of breaking into a rifle cabinet. He had already broken into a gun cabinet and had a pistol, which he drew on Mrs. Johnson before running out the house.

The man, who Mrs. Johnson said she believes is white, got into a red car parked down the road and drove off. The Sheriff's Office is continuing an investigation of the burglary.

Senate Trial Vote Seen No Indicator

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The outcome of the Senate's first procedural vote on the Panama Canal treaties gives no sure indication whether the pacts eventually will be approved or rejected.

By a vote of 67-30, the Senate agreed to stick to its plan of considering the treaty to insure the waterway's neutrality before dealing with the proposal to actually hand the Canal Zone over to Panama.

clues.
Sens. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said their votes for Allen's motion should not be taken as a sign they will support the treaty opponents in the final voting.

"In no way should my vote be taken as anything more than supporting Sen. Allen's motion," said Ford, one of the undecideds. "I will continue considering every amendment to these treaties, vote by vote."
The leadership of both parties opposed Allen's move.

More debate is expected this week, with no votes planned until next week when efforts to amend the treaties will begin.

The bipartisan leadership has lined up overwhelming support for amending the neutrality pact to include guarantees of the United States' right to intervene militarily to keep the canal open while also spelling of his chances of blocking ratification of the treaties. "I feel possibly some 65 senators, or so, are committed to vote for these treaties," he told his colleagues. Sixty-seven are needed for ratification.

The vote occurred shortly after the Senate concluded a record 14 hours of closed-door debate on allegations that Panamanian officials, including Gen. Omar Torrijos, the nation's ruler, were involved in drug trafficking.

There was widespread agreement that few if any votes were changed by the evidence presented during the closed session.
Allen took a pessimistic view of his chances of blocking ratification of the treaties. "I feel possibly some 65 senators, or so, are committed to vote for these treaties," he told his colleagues. Sixty-seven are needed for ratification.

Decided By Big Reward

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The man who tipped federal agents to an alleged six-ton marijuana smuggling scheme he had been asked to join testified Wednesday he delayed turning informant for several weeks because "I hadn't decided which side I was going to work for."

Testimony continues today in the trial of 18 men charged with conspiring to smuggle the six tons from the freighter Sea Crust to the North Carolina coast aboard a trawler captained by C. Wade Bailey of Wrightsville Beach.

Bailey, who earlier had testified that old high school classmates had recruited him to bring the marijuana ashore, said Wednesday that the promise of a reward finally prompted him to tip off the government.

Bailey said he was told he would be entitled to 25 percent of all confiscated property from the operation, including the rusting Sea Crust and several automobiles.

He also said he collected $43,000 from the alleged conspirators in advance of the Nov. 22 seizure of the marijuana and the arrests.

In addition to all that, Bailey stands to collect between $10,000 and $50,000 as a reward for information that led to the seizure on Dec. 9 of 11 tons of marijuana, another small freighter and other property.

Fifteen defendants are to stand trial in that case starting March 6, and Bailey will be a key witness then too.

U.S. Customs Service agent John M. Dolan testified Wednesday he didn't know Bailey had been paid the $43,000 until several weeks after the arrests. He said he never asked to see the money or have it turned over as evidence because he didn't consider it important.

But the agent did say he had advised Bailey to demand payment in advance because "people in this business don't do business on credit."

But Bailey testified he told Dolan immediately in November when he received the money from two of the defendants, but "Mr. Dolan said he didn't want to know anything about it. He didn't want to know the exact figure."

NEW YORK (AP) — Reports of losses by Chrysler Corp. helped keep the stock market in retreat today. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had lost ground in each of the past nine sessions and closed Wednesday at a 34-month low, slipped another 3.99 to 745.06 by noon-time today. Declines outnumbered advances by a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. A major contributor to the Dow's decline was Chrysler Corp., which fell 1 to 11 1/4 in active trading. The company reported a $49.7 million loss for the fourth quarter of last year, and said it expected to show a loss for the current quarter as well. Brokers also noted general concern over the 80-day-old coal strike and accumulating signals that the economy got off to a sluggish start in the new year. In addition, it was evident that traders were disappointed over the market's showing Wednesday, when an early attempt at a rally attracted little support and the Dow finished with a fractional loss.

lies squarely with a government that forces us to tighten our economic belts, but refuses to tighten its own. Davis added that there is "no single area of spending that can be eliminated to solve the federal spending problem, but there are many areas of excessive spending." In his opinion, there is a lot of federal "fat" that needs to be trimmed off the budget.

Chairman of the Senate Local Government Committee, Davis said that his other two main concerns are welfare reform and unemployment. He noted that both of these, if improved, would help to lessen the federal budget. "People that are able to work should be required to do so."

On unemployment, Davis said that "a long-term solution to unemployment must be a top priority in government. No one wants a hand-out; what every person wants is an opportunity to achieve and make a living. I will work to provide opportunities through public service jobs, and more importantly through incentive programs for private industry."

Davis, 40, was born in Winston-Salem. He is married to the former Sandra Holderness of Greensboro, and they have four children. A member of the North Carolina and American Bar Associations, Davis attended Reynolds High School, Princeton University, Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Duke Law School, and George Washington University. He served in the United States Army from 1963-1965 and received an honorable discharge as Captain. Davis is also a Deacon and Sunday school teacher at Knollwood Baptist Church in Winston-Salem.

Mack, Gray Lead Bucs Past Spiders

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RICHMOND, Va. — It was supposed to be a night when support for fired Richmond coach Carl Sloan was to be expressed. A large crowd was to be in attendance, emotions were to be running high, and banners were to be waved condemning those who had deposed the Spider coach at the end of his four-year contract. Instead, it turned into another banner night for Oliver Mack as he led the East Carolina Pirates to a 71-53 romp past the Spiders, who lost their 13th game over the last 14 and their 21st in 25 outings this year. The crowd didn't show up. The attendance was listed as a generous 4,000 in the 9,200-seat Robins Center. It wasn't as vocal as it could have been, and only two banners were seen during the night. Emotions were flat, for the Spiders anyway.

Mack, who closed to within 29 points of the East Carolina single season scoring mark of 662, pushed through 33 points in the game to be the high scorer. He canned 15 of 24 field goals and all three of his free throw attempts. But for him, it proved to be a bad night, as he was charged with six turnovers. The Pirates, behind him, were able to move out into the lead for good after the first five minutes and they slowly built their lead throughout most of the game. After gaining an 18-point spread just before the half, the Bucs saw that drop down to ten five minutes into the second half, and then to nine ten minutes into the half. But the Pirates turned in eight unanswered points over the next minute and a half, and went to a delay during the final seven minutes of the game. "We had real good intensity in the first half," Coach Larry Gillman said. "It was not our best half of the year, however. "Mack showed his class again, and we shot pretty well. We had a three or four minute period there where they came back on us, but I thought we held our poise well. We executed the things we wanted to do." Gillman expressed surprise that Richmond played the Pirates in a man-to-man defense as much as it did. "We've been executing against the man very well lately." The Pirates, meanwhile, went back and forth from zone to man. J. D. Harrison surprised me with his shooting when we went to the zone there one time, but we managed to shut him off too."

The big man of the Spiders, Mike Perry, finished the game with just 13 points, on six of 15 field goals, and Gillman lauded the defensive play of Herb Gray on him. "It was just outstanding," the coach pointed out. "Since their inside game is so weak, we were able to drop off and do a lot of helping out." Gillman added that it was good to beat a team that had beaten his team earlier. "No one has been able to beat us twice this year," he pointed out. "The odd thing about it is that most of the time, we've lost at home and won on the road. I don't know why, but we seem to be playing better on the road." The Pirates have won five of their last six games, and have not lost on the road for the last four games.

Gillman said the Pirates slowed down the ball in the final seven minutes after twice drawing charging fouls. "Richmond was also in a foul situation that would send us to the foul line right away, so it appeared to be the best thing to do." Richmond was able to cut the lead back from 17 to 11 again, but the Pirates finally pulled away again, outshooting the Spiders, ten to four over the final three minutes.

East Carolina had an excellent shooting night, hitting 60.8 per cent of its shots, including 63.6 per cent in the second half. Richmond, at the same time, made only 36.4 per cent from the floor. The Pirates also held a rebounding edge, 36-30. Gray and Kyle Powers, who played all but four minutes for Herb Krusen, each pulled off seven rebounds to lead the Pirates. Miller Butler had seven for Richmond.

"Kyle came in and did a real good job. He seemed to be doing everything we wanted of him, so we just never made a change," Gillman said. Gray, however, was the only other Pirate in double figures, hitting 19 points. He was also credited with two blocked shots and three steals.

Besides Perry's 13, J.D. Harrison had 12 for Richmond. The game was close only for the opening minutes. Richmond took the opening lead, but the Pirates got it at 5-4. Butler put Richmond back up, 8-7, with 15:01 left, but Mack hit a jumper with 14:30 left for a 9-8 Pirate lead, and the Bucs were never caught again.

During the next few minutes, the Pirates outthrew Richmond, 20-7, running their lead to 29-15 with 6:46 left in the half. That margin eventually reached 18, at 38-20, as Mack hit a three-point play and Roger Carr made two free throws. Richmond got the final basket of the half, however, to trail, 38-22.

The Spiders then came out hot in the opening minutes of the second half, and had a string of eight straight points that cut the lead down to 44-34 with 14:44 left. Finally, Perry hit at the 10:54 mark to lower the lead to 51-42. But Gray drove in for a basket, Mack hit two jumpers and Carr tossed back a missed shot with nine minutes left for a 59-42 lead and that clinched it.

Richmond cut it back to 61-59 as the Pirates made several mistakes, including two charges, but two free throws by Carr, and three Mack baskets in the final minute ran it out to the 18-point spread. East Carolina, now 9-15, travels to Macon, Ga., on Saturday to meet the Mercer Bears. They close the season next Wednesday at Virginia Tech.

Snow Delays Tournaments

All area basketball tournament action from last night was postponed due to the snow in the state.

Most is scheduled to be resumed tonight.

Rose High School's game with Northern Nash, scheduled for last night, will now be played Friday night at Northern Nash. The winner of that game will meet the Rocky Mount-Bertie winner for the Division I title. Both finalists, however, will advance to the first round of the 4-A playoffs.

The District 3-A Tournament at Ayden-Grifton will resume tonight with Washington meeting Greene Central in a girls' game, and Tarboro taking on Ayden-Grifton in a boys' game.

The original Thursday schedule of C.B. Aycock's girls meeting Plymouth and Conley's boys taking on Roanoke Rapids will be played Friday, and the semifinals will be on Saturday. The regular Monday semifinals and Tuesday finals will then be back on schedule.

In 2-A play, the Roanoke girls are to be at Dixon High School in Holly Ridge tonight to meet Southwest Onslow, in a game postponed from Wednesday night. Thursday was originally an open date.

In 1-A, Mattamuskeet will visit Jamesville in a game now set for 6 p.m. Thursday was originally to be an open date in this tournament also.

In independent school play, Martin Academy's girls will meet Lawrence Academy tonight. That game, too, was postponed from Wednesday night.

State Out To Clinch Third

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's shooting game seems to have gone into hibernation, right when the Wolfpack needs it most. State meets North Carolina tonight in a game that determines whether the Wolfpack has to share third place in the final Atlantic Coast Conference regular season standings with Wake Forest.

"I'm concerned," said coach Norm Sloan, whose charges now enjoy a 6-4 ACC record. Wake Forest, now fourth in the ACC, stands 5-6 after losing to Maryland Wednesday night.

The two teams play their final games against each other Saturday, so if State loses tonight, a loss to Wake would mean a third-place deadlock at 6-6. A victory over North Carolina, on the other hand, would clinch third for state.

But the Wolfpack has been shooting in the mid-30 per centiles from the floor in its past three games, and Sloan says his team will have to shake it off quickly.

"We've been getting good shots, the kind we want to take and normally hit," he said. "We got 'em against Notre Dame and just couldn't seem to get them down. And the only thing I can say is that we're gonna continue to take them and hope they fall."

Tony Warren, Hawkeye Whitney and Kenny Matthews have all fallen on hard times in recent weeks.

"It's primarily a mental thing, not just for Tony or Hawkeye or Kenny, but for the whole team," said teammate Craig Davis. "Early in the season, we were working together. But we're not doing that nearly as well now, as we showed only too well against Notre Dame."

Trying to force shots and tough zone defenses are also part of the problem, Davis said, but he added that the North Carolina rivalry might provide enough emotional energy to fuel a comeback.

"We've got the horses, guys that can put the ball in the hole," he said. "Get 'em psyched up in a game like the Carolina game and everything else can quickly be blocked out of their minds."

Twelve Area Matmen Seek State Titles

Twelve area wrestlers will take part in the state high school tournament which starts Friday in Winston-Salem.

Two of the group will be carrying regional titles into the state meet. Rose High School's Cliff Whichard won the 98-pound championship at the Cary Regional, while Farmville Central's Horace Williams took the crown at 126.

Rose will have five wrestlers in the state meet, while Conley has four. Farmville Central, North Pitt and Williamston each advanced one wrestler.

From Rose, wrestlers include Whichard, 105-pounder James Cherry; 119-pounder Jesse Baker; 185-pounder Raymond Wooten; and 195-pound Ron Butler.

Conley representatives include Gary Harris at 98 pounds, Alton Crandall at 112; Marvin Hardy at 138 and Charles Hanson at 155. North Pitt will send 167-pounder Sammy Mayo, while Williamston's entry is 185-pounder Warren Lamb.

Conley finished fourth in the regional after a third-place finish in the sectionals. Rose, the sectional winner, came in seventh in the regionals.

Frederick To Duke

DURHAM — Duke University has announced it has signed Ron Frederick to a grant-in-aid for football.

Frederick was a member of last year's East Carolina University football team, playing the split end position as a second-stringer. He caught five passes for 61 yards as a freshman this past season.

The Goldsboro native will sit out the coming year, and be eligible for the 1979 season. He was earlier quoted as saying he wanted to play for a team more pass-oriented. Earlier, it had been expected that he would transfer to Wake Forest.

Pirates Open Spring Drills Saturday

Jim Kyle

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Despite the snow, it's football time again.
East Carolina University will open spring practice Saturday, Coach Pat Dye has announced.
The Pirates will practice for one week prior to the spring break (March 4-12), and then return to finish up their allotted 20 days of work by April 1, when the annual spring game will be held.

"We'll use the week off to do a lot of evaluating," Dye said.
The spring will be used to mold the team into a solid, fundamental team, the coach pointed out.
"We have so many people with experience returning that we haven't had in the past. We're going to look at a few things offensively and defensively. But we'll spend the most time on fundamentals and techniques. We're going to be teaching a lot of football with not as much game scrimmages as in the past.

"If we can be a good, solid, sound fundamental football team, blocking and tackling, and have the oneness and togetherness that a good team has, then I feel that the 'want-to' will take care of itself," Dye said.

Offensively, Dye feels that the Pirates can start the drills with someone with starting experience at every position except split end. Billy Ray Washington and Mike Chapman, who have experience, will be there, however. Ron Frederick, who has the most experience, chose to transfer out of East Carolina.

Steve Greer, Tony Tripp, Ernie Saltmarsh and Henry Trevathan.
Theodore Sutton and Perry Allred return at fullback along with walkon Wayne Banks. Doug Banks and Collins will also see work here.
On defense, only three of the top 22 players were seniors last season, leaving a lot of experience and talent to choose from.
"We have three ends we know can play—Fred Chavis, Zack Valentine and John Morris. We need a fourth or fifth man."

At the tackle slot, D.T. Joyner returns, but will not appear in spring drills due to wrestling. Others back include Wayne Poole, Woodrow Stevenson, and Vance Tingler.
Noah Clark will probably be moved to nose guard since Oliver Felton is questionable due to the battle of the books.
Tommy Summer and Mike Brewington saw a great deal of action in the linebacking spots and head the list there. Others include Jeffrey Warren, walkon Chuck Jackson, Mike Painter, Craig Vosler, and Greg Pabers.
Charlie Carter and Willie Holley return at the corners, with James Freer and Thomas McLaurin backing them up. Ruffin McNeill, Gerald Hall and Bill Pinkney will work at strong safety, with Hall and Wayne Perry at free safety.
Rodney Allen returns to handle the punting, and Bill Lamm is the top prospect to handle the placekicking.
"Gene Winters, our kick snapper, will miss the spring, along with freshman fullback Andray Ray (and Joyner)."
Dye said the spring game would probably be held in the afternoon because of the stadium construction.

AYDEN-GRIFTON'S VICTORY over North Lenoir in the finals of the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament Friday night was a real eye-opener for many observers. It showed not only that the Hawks can be beaten, but that the Chargers are a force to be reckoned with in this week's district tournament being held at Ayden-Grifton.

The Chargers took advantage of a North Lenoir cold spell to come from 16 points down in regulation and then put the Hawks away in overtime for a 74-70 victory.

While the big guns for Ayden-Grifton were forward Frankie Dail and center James Leggett (20 and 23 points), as usual, two other players were instrumental in helping the Chargers achieve the upset.

Reserve forward David Smith came in at a guard spot and provided an instant spark. Smith, who hasn't seen an abundance of action this season, made several steals, grabbed some key rebounds and scored six points in helping the Chargers rally. His assist to Leggett set up the basket that put the game into overtime.

It was Sheldon McCarter, who scored 13 points in the game, who hit six foul shots in the overtime period that helped the Chargers stay ahead, despite a heavy charge by the Hawks.

In addition to his obvious elation with just getting the victory, Ayden-Grifton coach Bob Murphrey had to be encouraged by the play of his backcourt men. One of Ayden-Grifton's big problems this season has been the inability of its guards to get into the pattern and contribute. They are improving in this respect, however, and by virtue of this, the Chargers could be a big factor in the tournament. Remember, it was Ayden-Grifton which knocked Washington out of the district tournament last year.

D. H. CONLEY has had plenty of time to prepare for Friday night's tournament game against Roanoke Rapids. The Vikings, who were seeded second in the ECC tourney, were defeated in the first round of the event by North Pitt last Tuesday.

Sickness has been a problem for coach Shelly Marsh's team recently, and 6-10 center Al Tyson was a notable absence in the North Pitt game. He was home with the flu.

The Vikes have had a lot of time to get well, however, and a lot of time to prepare for the district tournament. So they should be in good shape when they enter competition on Friday night.

NORTH PITT'S LOSS to Ayden-Grifton in the ECC's semi-finals Thursday night had to be one of the most disappointing ever for Panther coach Cobb Deans.

Fighting to reach the finals and cop a spot in the district tournament, the Panthers played an excellent game and had a nine-point lead in the third quarter.

But North Pitt couldn't stop the stronger Chargers from staging a comeback and a last-second 30-footer by North Pitt fell off the rim and allowed Ayden-Grifton to escape with a 43-42 victory.

Deans was obviously disappointed. His Panthers have been surprising this year, despite rebuilding. They defeated Conley and Ayden-Grifton twice each.

Deans said the team is young, however, and will be back next year. "Most of these guys will be back, and they want to work hard, so I'm looking forward to next season already," he said.

Duke Wins; Deacons Fall To Maryland

By The Associated Press
North Carolina's Tar Heels are still operating at less than full strength as they face a challenging game with North Carolina State in Raleigh in the only Atlantic Coast Conference action tonight.

Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith late Wednesday declared star forward Mike O'Koren "95 percent out" of the game against N.C. State. Smith said O'Koren still limps when he runs. O'Koren is also questionable for Saturday's game against Duke.

And star All-America guard Phil Ford is "50-50" for the game. Smith said. Ford practiced Wednesday for the first time since injuring his left wrist against Virginia Saturday.

Will Stay At Furman

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Three more assistant football coaches have decided to stay at Furman University rather than follow departed head coach Art Baker to The Citadel.

New Paladin head coach Dick Sheridan said Wednesday Eric Hyman, Eddie Williamson and Bobby Johnson had informed him they would remain on the Furman coaching staff.

Tuesday, assistants Steve Robertson and Jimmy Satterfield also told Sheridan, an assistant coach under Baker, that they would continue at Furman.

Hyman, in his sixth year at Furman, will continue to work with the defensive line and will be directly under Robertson, the Paladins' defensive coordinator. Johnson, beginning his third year at Furman, will coach the secondary.

Williamson, starting his second year with the Paladins, will coach the linemen under offensive coordinator Satterfield.

There have been 79 World Series games played in New York's Yankee Stadium.

North Carolina also will be without the services of starting center Rich Yonaker and backup center Geff Crompton for this game. Yonaker had knee surgery last week for torn cartilage and Crompton has been declared ineligible by the NCAA for North Carolina's regular-season games.

Ford is North Carolina's leading scorer with a 20.3 average, and also tops the team in assists with 16.3.

"This would be a very difficult game even if we had all of our players," said Smith. "We had everyone for our first two games with State and both were very close. Now we have to play in Raleigh where we lost last year."

The benched players will be especially missed against N.C. State, because Smith feels rebounding will be a key to the game.

"State dominated the backboard against Clemson last Saturday night," Smith said. "We must out-rebound State or at least stay even with them on the backboards if we hope to win."

Injuries Could Hurt Tar Heels

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The North Carolina Tar Heels seem to have a power shortage just when they need a spark.

Playing tonight against North Carolina State and then again Saturday against Duke, injuries have short-circuited the nation's eighth-ranked team in the most crucial part of their Atlantic Coast Conference schedule.

They have already lost starting center Rich Yonaker to injury and backup center Geff Crompton to ineligibility. Now forward Mike O'Koren is "extremely doubtful" for the last two games of the regular season and Phil Ford is "50-50."

"This would be a very difficult game even if we had all our players healthy," says North Carolina Coach Dean Smith as he looks forward with apprehension to tonight's game with North Carolina State. "We had everyone for our first two games with State and both were close. Now we have to play at Raleigh, where we lost last year."

Ford, North Carolina's sparkplug all season, hurt his wrist in a game with Virginia last weekend. But it is the loss of people like Yonaker and O'Koren that will especially hurt the Tar Heels, points out Smith.

The biggest game of the week for North Carolina, however, will be played in Chapel Hill on Saturday. No matter what the Tar Heels do tonight, they must beat Duke to win the ACC's regular-season title.

Duke made that circumstance a reality by beating

In Wednesday night conference action, Duke's Blue Devils triumphed over the Clemson Tigers, 78-62, and Maryland notched a 91-89 victory over Wake Forest. And in a nonconference game, Virginia romped to a 91-70 victory over Tulane.

The victory was Duke's 20th of the season against five defeats and marked the first time since 1966 the Blue Devils have accomplished 20 regular season victories. The victory also gave Duke an 8-3 conference record and a chance to win the regular season race if it can beat North Carolina Saturday.

Maryland got 27 points from freshman Al King, who also pulled down 13 rebounds, in the victory over Wake Forest. The Terps, 3-8 in the ACC and 14-11 overall, pulled out the victory in spite of 29 turnovers.

Maryland's Ernest Graham put it away with a 25-foot jump shot with three seconds remaining.

Freshman guard Lee Raker poured in 18 points to lead Virginia and he had 17-point help from another freshman, Jeff Lamp.

Clemson 78-62 Wednesday night.

Elsewhere, No. 7 DePaul whipped the Air Force Academy 54-41; No. 16 Detroit walloped St. Francis (Pa.) 121-89; 17th-ranked Syracuse edged Niagara 70-69 and No. 18 Georgetown nipped George Washington 78-77 in overtime.

Jim Spanarkel scored 22 points and Mike Gminski 21 to lead Duke past Clemson for the Blue Devils' 20th victory of the season. The Blue Devils took a 43-23 halftime lead behind freshman Eugene Banks' 14 first-half points and it was enough of a cushion to withstand a late rally by the Tigers.

Center Dave Corzine scored 18 points and Joe Ponsotto 11 to power DePaul over Air Force. The victory was the 10th straight for the Blue Demons and their 23rd in 25 games this season.

John Long scored 29 points and grabbed eight rebounds and Terry Tyler contributed 24 points and 11 rebounds as Detroit defeated St. Francis.

Marty Byrnes hit a layup with 18 seconds left to lead Syracuse over Niagara. Roosevelt Bouie blocked a jump shot attempt by Garry Jordan with five seconds left to end Niagara's hopes for an upset.

Steve Martin made two free throws with 37 seconds remaining in overtime to boost Georgetown over George Washington. Georgetown guard Craig Escherick put the Hoyas into the overtime period with a spectacular 40-foot desperation bomb with one second left in regulation time.

Portland Bench Key To Comeback Victory

By The Associated Press
The Washington Bullets had Portland's Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas in foul trouble and were up by 12 points.

So you can forgive Washington Coach Dick Motta if he seems especially dejected by Portland's 105-97 National Basketball Association victory.

"Portland's bench was the difference," Motta moaned. "When Walton and Lucas got in foul trouble, they had someone else to call on. That's why they're on top."

It was Lloyd Neal and Tom Owens who came off the bench Wednesday night, combining for 27 points and leading the Blazers to their come-from-behind victory.

game into the extra session when he hit two free throws with no time remaining on the clock.

Pacers 99, Nuggets 96
Ron Behagen scored 21 points, including 11 in the final quarter, as Indiana overcame a 40-point performance by Denver's Dan Issel and edged the Nuggets. Issel had the ball stolen from him by Indiana's Ricky Sobers with 16 seconds remaining in the game and Denver trailing by just two points.

Jazz 116, Warriors 91
Center Rich Kelley scored 27 points and grabbed 21 rebounds as New Orleans snapped an eight-game losing streak. Leonard "Truck" Robinson added 25 points and 18 rebounds for the Jazz.

Sonics 94, Nets 83
Gus Williams scored 31 points and added 10 steals to lead Seattle past New Jersey. Williams scored 19 of his points in the second half, including 10 straight in the fourth quarter.

Hawks 107, Suns 95
John Drew pumped in 34 points and held Phoenix rookie Walter Davis to 16 points, eight below his average, as Atlanta topped the Suns. The Hawks outscored Phoenix 29-18 in the third quarter and the game was never close after that.

Pistons 119, Rockets 106
A fourth-period surge, led by Bob Lanier and Chris Ford, enabled Detroit to hold off Houston. Ford scored 12 points and Lanier 11 in the final period to help stave off a Rockets' rally.

Kings 127, Lakers 122
Five points by Scott Wedman in overtime paced Kansas City to victory. The Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had sent the

Probe Likely To Include All Of NCAA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public Congressional hearings into intercollegiate athletics beginning next week will center on the enforcement practices of the National Collegiate Athletic Association but most likely will expand to include a probe of the entire organization.

The House subcommittee on oversight and investigation, under the chairmanship of Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., began its study last fall shortly after the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, was penalized by the NCAA for alleged illegal practices. The public hearings are expected to continue through March and April as the committee attempts to decide whether the NCAA violates antitrust laws, whether penalties assessed against member colleges—and their coaches and are fair and whether the association provides due process in its investigations and penalties.

The NCAA, the major governing body of intercollegiate athletics, grew out of a meeting in 1905 between a small group of colleges and President Theodore Roosevelt for the purpose of reforming the rules of football.

The NCAA has 844 members, of which 736 are educational institutions, including 718 four-year colleges or universities. Most of the others are athletic conferences.

NCAA member institutions own athletic facilities valued at more than $5 billion, according to projected published figures. They employ tens of thousands of coaches, administrators and other athletic department personnel.

The NCAA policy is formulated by a number of committees that meet throughout the year. Legislation is enacted at the annual convention, generally held in January — the last was held a month ago in Atlanta. A number of ongoing services in support of the goals voted by the members are provided by a full-time NCAA staff of about 65, headquartered in Shawnee Mission, Kan., with Walter Byers as executive director.

The governing body and final authority of the NCAA is its annual convention, at which each of the 718 active members and 67 allied members are entitled to one voting delegate. The 18-member NCAA Council, elected at the convention, is responsible for general policy between conventions.

Among its various duties, the NCAA is responsible for interpretation and enforcement of legislation enacted by the membership.

Thirty years ago, the membership passed a "sanity code" and six years later created what now is the enforcement division, responsible for enforcing NCAA rules and regulations, investigating possible violations and prosecuting alleged violators before the committee on infractions and the NCAA Council, the adjudicating and appellate bodies.

The enforcement staff of 12 now includes eight full-time enforcement representatives. Six have been added since 1974 in an effort to beef up and speed up the enforcement process, and see that it is applied evenly.

"It's conceivable that some violations previously were not investigated until they became so old it didn't seem productive to investigate," said Tom Hansen, an NCAA assistant executive director. "Now, I think everyone feels the manpower is there and doing the job."

The staff makes preliminary investigation of all suspected infractions culled from tips, reports by individuals and institutions, newspaper and magazine articles, spinoffs from other investigations and various other sources. If it decides an official inquiry is warranted, the institution involved is notified and asked to cooperate in a full investigation.

The staff investigates and prosecutes during a hearing before the five-man Committee on Infractions, which rules on each charge and imposes the sanctions it deems appropriate.

The NCAA Council hears appeals and may accept the committee's findings and penalties or alter either or both.

In most cases the council upholds the Committee on Infractions, which currently includes chairman Arthur Reynolds, dean of the graduate school at the University of Northern Colorado; Dr. John Sawyer, professor of mathematics and computer science at Wake Forest University; Henry Cross, professor at law at the University of Texas; William Matthews Jr., professor of law at the University of Kentucky and Charles Alan Wright, professor of law at the University of Texas.

The NCAA has been taken to court numerous times — sometimes by individuals, other times by member institutions — in cases arising from recruiting and eligibility infractions. It has lost frequently in local courts, but never has lost in the final determination of a case involving recruiting violations or illegal payments to athletes — a record the NCAA is extremely proud of and which it displayed on page one of its convention newsletter last month.

Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers was the starting pitcher in both the 1977 All-Star game and the first World Series contest against the Yankees.

FORD FAIRMONT IS AMERICA'S BEST SELLING NEW CAR IN HISTORY.

VIRGINIA-CAROLINA OWNERS TELL YOU WHY.

Joseph White, Chester, Va.
"I like the Fairmont's style and I like its handling. But the mileage is what I bought the car for."

Michael Knowles, Motoaca, Va.
"We have three children and it's a good sized car for us. Gas mileage has been real good."

Gladys Edwards, Greenville, N.C.
"I saw it on the lot and I liked it. And when I tried it, I said, this is it. I'm buying gas a lot less often now."

James Zieg, Goldsboro, N.C.
"It's got about 90% of the space of the large station wagon that I had before. And it cost a great deal less."

In its first 40 days, the new Ford Fairmont took off at an even faster sales pace than the original Mustang. Virginia and Carolina owners can tell you why.

They were first attracted to Fairmont by its excellent fuel economy. And when they drove one, they were thoroughly impressed with its roominess, its handling and ride.

And they were completely sold by the Fairmont's clean, good looks and the lowest sticker price of any mid-size car in America.

FBI Probing 'Payoff' To Rep. Flood

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Newly released documents show Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., took an interest in State Department contracts granted to a foundation head who allegedly paid Flood $50,000 for his influence.

It was also disclosed Wednesday that the FBI is examining the contracts in what appears to be a widening investigation into allegations of influence-peddling and obstruction of justice by Flood, a senior House Democrat.

The latest investigation involves $16.6 million in contracts granted by the Agency for International Development, without competitive bidding, to Airie Foundation and an arm of George Washington University, both groups headed by a Dr. Murdock Head.

Former Flood aide Stephen B. Elko has told federal prosecutors that between 1971 and 1974 Head paid $50,000 to Flood, $18,000 to Elko and $10,000 to former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La. Flood, Passman and Head have denied the accusation.

Elko turned state's evidence after being sentenced to three years in prison for taking payoffs. He is considered a key witness in several investigations, including a probe of Flood and Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa.

News accounts dating back to 1975 had stated that Passman, then head of the House subcommittee handling AID's budget, pressured the agency to keep money flowing to Head's organizations. Wednesday a new document surfaced showing Flood also took an interest in Head's contracts.

The letter, released by AID under the Freedom of Information Act, was dated June 25, 1973, from then-AID Administrator John A. Hannah to Passman.

"In recent conversations you indicated that Congressman Flood had inquired of you as to the status of the Airie Foundation projects," it said. "You can assure Congressman Flood that all of these projects will be funded through to their conclusion."

Flood has declined to respond to Elko's allegations, except to issue a blanket denial.

Passman, who has retired, said he is too sick to answer questions about the matter except to deny taking money from Head.

James Sharp, an attorney for Head, said Wednesday that Head never gave anything of value to Passman or Flood. He said neither the FBI nor the Justice Department has contacted Head about the matter.

According to former AID officials and to the newly released documents, Passman made repeated calls to AID officials on behalf of Head's projects in the early 1970s.

One AID official, Jarold A. Kieffer, resigned in 1975, complaining of improper influence by Passman. He said he was asked for his resignation when he refused to drop his objections to granting Head a new $5 million contract.

Kieffer's bosses at the time say his resignation was unrelated to Head's projects.

Head's work for AID involved birth control — producing films and training materials, conducting seminars for Latin American leaders and publishing a multilingual magazine. Their quality has drawn mixed reviews, including high praise for some of the films.

However, the General Accounting Office said in 1976 that Head's organization showed "repeated apparent non-compliance" with terms of its agreement.

More recently, AID officials allowed a Head contract to lapse on grounds that the work was not needed.

AID is negotiating with Head over nearly $400,000 in what the agency said were possible excess charges for films and seminars.

Kieffer, head of AID's population control projects, described pressure by Passman to fund a $5 million project Head was pushing in late 1974, even though other population projects were being reduced by Passman's subcommittee. A $2 million version of the project was approved more than a year after his resignation.

Kieffer's immediate superior, AID Assistant Administrator John A. Murphy, wrote to him on Nov. 21, 1974, saying: "My conclusion is that, with some restructuring and additional budgetary justification, the proposal merits funding commencing in FY 1975." Fiscal year 1975 was then nearly six months old.

Kieffer says he took Murphy's memo as an order to grant the new contract. He protested on Nov. 25 about what he called improper congressional influence.

Kieffer said Murphy had told him earlier of "congressional intervention."

"As you have related to me, a powerful congressman has directly and secretly demanded that you arrange for AID to make a large grant from this year's scarce funds to finance the...proposal," the memo said.

"Moreover, as you related it to me, the congressman couched his demands in coercive terms that relate directly to his...role in arranging possible increases or decreases in AID and population program funding actions by the House Appropriations Committee.

"You indicated that the point of his offer was that he could work out appropriation increases for the population program...Some things are just wrong, and his coercion and demands in this case are wrong," Kieffer said.

The memo did not mention Passman by name, but Kieffer confirmed in a telephone interview Wednesday that he was referring to Passman.

Kieffer resigned two months after writing that memo, saying he was asked to step down because he opposed further contracts for Airie. Murphy and former AID Administrator Daniel Parker both dispute that.

Murphy said Kieffer was asked to resign for other rea-

Litter Piling Up In City

NEW YORK (AP) — In the throes of the winter of '78, the city is quietly setting a new trivia record every day — most consecutive days without street cleaning.

Wednesday was the 41st day since the streets were free enough of snow to allow the Sanitation Department to use its big brooms on any of the 12,221 curb miles of pavement that are mechanically cleaned.

Forty-one days and counting, with no end in sight.

Like Joe DiMaggio toward the end of his 56-game consecutive hitting streak, each day that the Traffic Department bats out another notice suspending alternate-side parking rules the old record falls.

In the 41 days, alternate-side rules have been suspended 35 times — or every day except Sundays when there are no rules to suspend anyway. On 23 days there has been either a limited or full snow emergency in effect.

The previous record for suspensions of alternate-side-of-the-street parking rules was set last winter when the total was 32, and those were not all consecutive.

'Mr. Cholesterol' Has To Avoid Weight-Loss

BROTHER DOMINIC—It's a miracle indeed, says comedian Jack Eagle, who has made more money playing a friar in a Xerox commercial than any other role in his show business career. (AP Laserphoto)

SEATTLE (AP) — Mr. Cholesterol is paid to stay fat. But actor-comedian Jack Eagle says the 210-pound weight required in his contract with Fleischmann Margarine is one of the few drawbacks in a booming career in television commercials.

The contract says Eagle, who stands 5-foot-4, must stay between 200 and 220 pounds for three years. As "Mr. Cholesterol," Eagle conveys what Fleischmann wants consumers to think it is what will happen if they try other margarines.

They try other margarines. Eagle is also "Brother Dominic" for Xerox, a little monk whose abbot gives him a seemingly impossible copying task. A Xerox machine floats down from above, and the abbot looks to the heavens, exclaiming, "It's a miracle!"

But that commercial, too, presents a small problem.

"It's a little tough on my son, who is 9 years old," he said. "People ask him what his father does for a living and the kid answers: He's a monk." In an interview, Eagle said commercials in the last two years have earned more money for him than all his previous work in show business.

"Frankly, I never made as much money in my life," said Eagle, who is in his late 40s.

Eagle said his weight worries him, but not desperately. "I keep in fairly good shape and I have a good philosophical base. But eventually I'll have to lose weight. I know that," he said.

He got his start in show business at the age of 15 as a trumpet player. "People used to say I was a funny trumpet player. Now they say I play trumpet funny."

He started doing commercials about 15 years ago. "At that time the agencies didn't like to send out comics, because people weren't using them. But I got a Robert Hall commercial. Did a great job for them, didn't I? They're now at that big pipe rack in the sky," he said.

Eagle does other commercials — "I was the guy O.J. (Simpson) jumped over in the Hertz commercial, and I was a perfect face for Gillette's Trac II, in addition to the Xerox thing" — but Brother Dominic has the impact.

Eagle remembers appearing at a hotel in his friar's robes when some people arguing at a meeting asked him for a few inspirational words.

"I told them 100 years from now nobody would ever know they ever had that meeting. They realized that, thanked me and compromised."

Casual Look In Fall's Forecast

NEW YORK (UPI) — While most people are still in winter boots, the footwear industry is thinking of fall 1978.

The Footwear Council, a trade group, predicts casual country looks for men, women and children. A spokeswoman says dress shoes, especially for women, will take a back-seat to sporty, unisex styles.

The silhouettes to watch in women's dress shoes will be the "baby doll" look, worn with rolled down ankle socks, and closed back, open toe pumps, particularly in fabric for evening wear.

The council said the slip-on will remain the top dress shoe for men, and chocolate and wine, the leading fashion colors.

Second Opinion Idea Is Nixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — An executive of the American Medical Association opposes patients obtaining a second medical opinion, as has been widely suggested to reduce unnecessary surgery and lower medical bills.

Dr. James Sammons, executive vice president of the Chicago-based AMA, told a Redbook magazine reporter: "I'm against them (second opinions) because the patient's right of choice is lost. He (the patient) tends to assume the second opinion is more intelligent than the first one."

Sammons was interviewed for an article in the February issue advising women how to communicate better with their doctors.

Poe's House To Be Spruced Up

BALTIMORE (AP) — After years of neglect, the Edgar Allan Poe House is about to be spruced up.

Jeff Jerome, curator at the Poe House, said the city's Office of Historical and Architectural Preservation had given the Edgar Allan Poe Society $15,000 toward renovation of the house, where Poe lived from 1832 to 1835.

"In addition, the Maryland Historical Trust just recently donated $10,000 toward the renovations," Jerome said.

The renovation project will specifically include water-proofing the two-story structure.

Fire Dept. Concerned Over Annexation Proposal

FIRE DEPARTMENT CONCERNED — The Staton House fire department, just off N.C. 11, would lose funds from industrial plants if the proposed city annexation plans are carried out. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The annexation by the city of the industrial area north of the river would hurt the operation of the volunteer fire department that now provides fire protection for several of the plants, according to county Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner.

Joyner said that Staton House Fire Department receives some $15,000 of its $25,000 operating budget from the industrial segment through contracts for fire protection services and loss of the funds would "hurt considerably."

He explained that the industrial fire protection arrangement began with Burroughs Wellcome Co. approximately one year after the firm located here. Burroughs Wellcome helped Staton House purchase additional equipment to meet industrial protection needs and then contracted with the department for those services.

Staton House, which has the largest service district among the volunteer units, negotiated a 30-year loan with Farmers Home Administration for $122,219.85 and recently built a new facility and purchased a 1,000 gallons-per-minute pumper "especially for industry service," Joyner pointed out.

The department has geared its operations to serve the industry, he added, and currently operates seven pieces of equipment, including three pumps, three water wagons and an equipment truck, out of the new facility.

All of the industrial firms except Grady-White Boats, Fieldcrest Mills, Empire Brushes, and Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., as well as the Sheltered Workshop, now have contracts with Staton House for fire protection, he reported. Joyner said that if the annexation takes place, Staton House "will be able to continue" but would face problems in meeting operating budget needs.

In addition to the $15,000 in total contributions received during the year from industry, Joyner added, the county gave the department $3,000. The re-

Holding Luau In An Icy Setting

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A scene more familiar to the sands of Waikiki will be staged on the ice of frozen Whitefish Bay in Michigan's Upper Peninsula this weekend.

The student chapter of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers at Lake Superior State College is holding its third annual Siberian Luau on the frozen bay.

The annual outdoor frolic demonstrates that "we don't give a damn about winter," club president Dave Monroe said.

The luau, complete with a roast pig, is scheduled to start at noon Friday and ends Saturday night.

The 130-pound pig will be roasted over a huge bonfire aided by a reflectorized heat shield designed by the young engineers for the occasion.

The following area chairmen of the Pitt County Heart Association were named Wednesday by President Robert Thurber.

department. Fire Chief Darrell Williams observed that "Staton House and industry grew up together." Mentioning the new station and truck, Williams said that "if it weren't for industry, we wouldn't need it."

The fire chief said the department budget would be cut if the annexation takes place and Staton House would probably have to implement a yearly assessment system for residents in the service area in order to operate. Currently, the department assesses property owners in the district approximately every three years using a formula involving so much per structure.

Staton House has a volunteer force of some 40 men, it was explained. In addition to the new facility operated across from Empire Brushes, a second station is located on State Road 1514.

Williams expressed his concern regarding the annexation proposals in letters to Mayor Percy Cox and to members of the City Council.

In writing to Cox, the fire chief said that Staton House is concerned about the future of the fire department, but he added, "We are concerned most about what is this going to do to the industrial plants in this area as far as their growth and if other plants will come in to this area."

Williams pointed out, "There have been years when some of these plants' business was not what it was expected to be and these companies could not give the fire department a large contribution for fire protection; however, we furnished them protection. If they were having to pay city taxes during those years, it might have meant that they would have had to close their doors."

He urged the mayor and council members to reconsider the proposed annexation and "not take this area into the city."

According to Joyner, an average of ten fire calls per year are received from the industrial area. He added that his office has provided assistance to the plants in organizing fire teams and classes are held at the various facilities on fire safety and protection measures.

Noting the city's announcement that it is looking at the total area around Greenville as far as future annexation considerations are concerned, Joyner mentioned that the Eastern Pines Fire Department, which serves Brook Valley and the Cherry Oaks areas, and Red Oak Fire Department, serving Red Oak and Lawson's Trailer Court area, would be affected.

He said that Eastern Pines, with a $13,000 annual budget, received a 30-year FHA loan of $50,000 for its new building in upgrading the department. Eastern Pines now has three trucks in operation to serve the residential areas.

Joyner noted that Red Oak is expecting word any day on its application to FHA for a $24,500 loan to be used for the purchase of a new truck. Red Oak, which enlarged its facility during the past year, operates on a $9,000 budget.

Two Members Of Council At Special School

Judy Greene and Charles Vincent, freshmen members of the City Council, recently attended a special school for newly elected mayors and council members at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill.

The school, jointly sponsored by the Institute of Government and the North Carolina League of Municipalities, was taught Feb. 14-16.

Topics discussed during the session included: the city as a corporate body, functions and organization of cities, intergovernmental relations, the governing body at work, property tax, municipal revenues, expenditures and debt, municipal budgeting, city planning, purchasing and contracting, solid waste collection and disposal, local improvement financing and policies, municipal law enforcement, personnel policies and practices, and street construction and maintenance.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A considerable number of problems are likely to arise, but you have the cleverness to work these matters out sensibly and intelligently. Avoid working to absurd lengths on any situation that arises for it could interfere with right decisions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get down to business and finish projects you have prolonged for too long. Don't let a troubled co-worker hamper you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't even think about recreation until your work is done. Think of a new way to please loved one. Show more gumption, too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can easily improve the situation at home provided you use reason. Security is most important now. Strive for more goodwill in the outside world, also. Handle business affairs wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your own affairs settled before you think of helping friends and relatives. You have to be extra careful in motion of any kind. Take no chances where health is concerned.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.

When it appears that the fate of your contract depends on a finesse, your immediate reaction should be to try to avoid taking it. Watch South's technique in declaring six spades on this hand from a rubber bridge game.

The bidding was exemplary. Despite his five-card major suit, South's hand was balanced and his opening two no trump bid was an accurate description of his holding. North checked for a possible 4-4 major fit by employing the Major Convention. When South showed a spade suit, North jumped over game to indicate his slam aspirations, at the same time denying a first-round control in a side suit, and South had no hesitation about accepting his partner's invitation.

West led his top heart, and when dummy came down, it seemed that declarer would have to take the club finesse for his contract. However, South proved that appearances can be deceptive.

With only four trumps missing, declarer realized that he might be able to avoid the finesse if West held a singleton ace of trumps. After stripping the red suits, declarer could present West with the lead and force him to either return a club or concede a ruff-suff.

The danger with his line was that a defender might be short in hearts, so the diamonds had to be eliminated first. Declarer won the jack of hearts, cashed the ace of diamonds and discarded two hearts from dummy on the queen-jack of diamonds. Then he cashed the queen of hearts. When both defenders followed to the second heart, declarer continued with the ace of hearts. When West produced a third heart, declarer took the precaution of ruffing with the eight of spades. When East could not overruff, the situation had improved.

Declarer continued with a low trump to the nine. West won the ace, but he was trapped. If he returned a heart, declarer would ruff in dummy and discard the queen of clubs. If he returned a club, it would be into the teeth of declarer's ace-queen tenace. Either way, the slam was home.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" # PBS To Test The International Field

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Most public affairs shows of public TV stations deal purely with local or regional issues. Come March 1, though, those shows may get the international look.

For two months, Public Broadcasting Service outlets will get an experimental "feed" of overseas news reports each weekday for inclusion, if they choose, in their own public affairs programs.

PBS says it and the European Broadcasting Union, composed of Western European broadcast organizations, have agreed to exchange each other's news and feature reports from March 1 through April 30.

The exchange is underwritten for PBS stations by a $23,300 grant from the German Marshall Fund in Washington, D.C., PBS says.

The swap of foreign and U.S. reports is an outgrowth of an existing domestic exchange program involving only PBS stations, according to Chloe Aaron, senior vice president of programs for PBS.

The domestic system, she says, began nine months ago "when we heard from small stations who were doing local news show but lacked money for what you'd call magazine-type material."

"So we contacted every station in the system doing a local news show" — she said it came to about 28 of PBS' 200-plus stations — "and invited their representatives to Washington."

"We told them to bring along the best stuff they were doing locally and said, 'Let's all look at it and see if there is some possibility of an exchange.' It was really that simple."

"We spent two days looking at segments from San Francisco, Los Angeles and so forth, and saw there was a lot of good material out there that had more than just local interest."

And so, she said, a domestic exchange system was created, with each station in the exchange contributing money to help defray its costs.

Under the new international system set up with the European Broadcasting Union, she said, PBS stations will get EBU's material free during the two-month trial period for use in their local shows.

She said PBS already has hired a producer-editor and sent her to London "to look at the EBU material, pick the best 10 or 15 minutes, then feed it over here and see if anyone picks it up."

She said she won't know until March 1, when the exchange begins, if the overseas reports mainly will involve breaking news or feature stories.

But since the three commercial networks usually air breaking news from overseas, she added, what PBS stations get "probably will be feature stuff that wouldn't get picked up otherwise."

At the end of the two-month trial period, she said, PBS will make an interim report on the quality of the overseas reports and how many PBS stations used it in their locally produced public affairs shows.

Today's Cryptquip clue: N equals Y

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Snow Cover Will Linger

By The Associated Press

The National Weather Service says Wednesday's big snow will continue for the next three days to be a plague or a treat, depending on whether it's decorating your yard or drifting over your driveway.

Temperatures are expected to remain cold enough for at least that long to keep the stuff from melting, which probably means trouble in areas where high winds are whipping it into drifts.

Wednesday's storm coated the state from the mountains to the Outer Banks with accumulations that ranged from four to eight inches. Only southern portions of the state were excluded from the general blanketing.

Schools were closed all over the state Wednesday, and many were expected to remain that way until the weekend. Travelers advisories remained in effect over much of the northern part of the state Wednesday afternoon.

Two deaths were blamed on the snow. Two children died early Wednesday morning when the car in which they were riding plunged off a snow-covered bridge into a creek in Beaufort County near Aurora.

The victims were identified as Joseph Christopher Peele, 12, of Washington, N.C. and Felicia Moore, 4, of Aurora.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cold weather is forecast today for most of the country. Milder weather is expected in the West and snow is due for the St. Lawrence Valley. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Travelers advisories were in effect in North Carolina today not only for the mountains, where they frequently are imposed because of snow and ice, but on the Outer Banks as well. Motorists on the Outer Banks were cautioned to watch for icy roads.

Meanwhile, more snow was indicated for the mountains where accumulations were expected to range from one to three inches in the northwest section and around an inch in the central and southern mountains.

East of the mountains, there was a chance of some light snow across the Piedmont and northern tier of counties to the Outer Banks. Temperatures hovered around the freezing point over the state Wednesday as heavy snow fell, for a change, over a wide eastern area. The Raleigh area counted six inches of snow and on the Outer Banks, Cape Hatteras, with just under four and a half inches, recorded its heaviest snowfall since 1960 when eight and a half inches fell.

Temperatures generally climbed no higher than the 30s Wednesday and they dropped to the teens over much of the state this morning. The Raleigh-Durham Airport weather office recorded a new low for the date — seven degrees. Other lows included Asheville and Rocky Mount 12, Greensboro 14, Charlotte and Elizabeth City 19, and Wilmington 21.

The forecast called for clearing and cold tonight, and partly cloudy and warmer Friday.

Moving Nearer ECU Selection

The East Carolina University Board of Trustees is expected to meet "in the next week or two" to consider recommendations from a search committee selecting candidates to be the next chancellor of the university, Troy Pate of Goldsboro said Wednesday.

Pate, chairman of the ECU board and chairman of the search committee, said "naturally, this means we're getting down to the conclusion of our search."

According to Pate, the selection process is "going real good. We still feel like we are on our schedule," which he termed, "a very demanding schedule."

Pate indicated that the schedule "calls for submitting two names to (University of North Carolina) Pres. (William) Friday on or about March 1.

"We'll have a board of trustees meeting in the next week or two to make our recommendations to them," Pate added. "Basically," he added, "we're down below six," possible candidates.

The 14-member committee met yesterday on the ECU campus. Pate said the group is reviewing comments from ECU administrators and student leaders who met recently with the remaining candidates.

He explained that Friday will recommend one of the selection committees nominees to the UNC Board of Governors for appointment as chancellor of the school.

The new chancellor will replace Dr. Leo Jenkins who has been at ECU for 30 years — 18 of them as president and chancellor. Jenkins will retire July 1.

Jenkins, in the past, has indicated an interest in working with Gov. Jim Hunt's administration after his retirement. He said he may meet with Hunt within the next month to talk over future plans, but emphasized, "I'm in no great rush."

Gary Pearce, Hunt's press secretary said the governor would like to have Jenkins in the administration where his "experience and all the talents he's got," could be best used.

Activities Mark Week

Occupational Education Week at Wellcome Middle School was celebrated in several ways.

Occupational teachers, Thomas Council and Delores Little said they felt the main items of the week were a field trip, teacher passes, and Career Day. Career Club members were allowed to tour the entire facilities of Pitt Technical Institute.

They visited the different areas and asked questions. Also, this week occupational classes honored the teachers with engraved wood hall passes in the shape of a wildcat head, the school mascot. The week was concluded with Career Day on Friday.

Career Day was called "a big success" through the efforts of local businessmen and businesswomen. It was a day in which students were allowed to ask questions of businesses about their various jobs.

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter finally has Congress' permission to halt production of the B-1 bomber, signaling the possible end of the U.S. manned bomber era.

The House on Wednesday reversed its earlier refusal to give up the last two B-1s scheduled for production and gave final approval by a vote of 234-182 to Carter's request not to spend $462 million to build them.

Congress had already endorsed Carter's fundamental decision not to replace the present B-52 strategic bomber with the B-1 but rather develop unmanned cruise missiles to deliver nuclear bombs on to enemy targets.

Defense Secretary Harold S. Brown testified at congressional hearings that the B-52s will continue flying into the mid-1980s but said he is unsure whether America will continue using manned bombers beyond that.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. argued to the House Wednesday that "it is totally senseless" to spend money for two more B-1s when the whole project is being halted.

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the manned B-1 bomber is no longer needed because the United States now relies on nuclear missiles to deter atomic war with the Soviets.

"Both countries have far more than is needed to obliterate each other. B-1 or no B-1," Mahon said. "Let's put it to bed."

The bomber's supporters argued it should be kept alive at least until a new U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreement is reached and demonstrates the plane is no longer needed.

The supporters also argued it will cost almost as much to terminate B-1 contracts as to build the additional planes.

Mahon's appropriations committee said, however, that the two planes would have cost $1.16 billion against $698 million in termination costs, for a $462 million savings.

Congress already had appropriated money for the two planes before agreeing to halt the entire program, and its new budget law requires the president to get Congress' approval

U.S. Now Leaning To Ian Smith's Solution

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of hostility toward white Rhodesia's efforts to find an internal solution to its racial problems, the United States is edging closer to accepting Prime Minister Ian Smith's plan.

Rhodesia announced last week an agreement between Smith and three black moderate leaders on a formula for transferring power from Smith's white supremacist government to Rhodesia's black majority.

Britain, the former colonial power in Rhodesia, and the United States have been promoting a rival settlement plan under which Smith would surrender power to the British, who would then arrange for elections within six months.

But the administration on Wednesday called Smith's latest efforts a "step in the right direction," a sharp turnabout from more than six months of uninterrupted administration hostility.

The internal settlement plan announced by Rhodesia calls for a transition to black majority rule with no British role and with whites retaining certain privileges for a temporary period.

In a move one U.S. official attributed to "incompetence," the State Department initially denounced the accord. But it then retreated to a position of neutrality.

On Wednesday, the department went still further by conceding that the agreement had some merit.

"The movement reported in Salisbury is a significant step in the right direction," department spokesman Hodding Carter III said.

The statement appeared to reflect the U.S. desire to reserve Anglo-American unity on the Rhodesian issue.

The British government, under pressure from conservative elements sympathetic to Smith, also has indicated that the Salisbury agreement represents an important step forward.

The U.S. statement contradicted remarks by Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, who has denounced the agreement as a recipe for black civil war in Rhodesia.

Young is concerned that the Patriotic Front, which is waging an externally based guerrilla war against the Smith regime, will refuse to accept any solution acceptable to the Smith government.

In the past, the Carter administration also has insisted that any lasting settlement must involve participation by the Patriotic Front, but it appears to have backed away from this position. Spokesman Carter said Wednesday that the United States is only interested in a settlement that is fair to all parties.

The State Department spokesman said the United States would reserve a final judgment on the plan until all details become known.

Rule-Of-Thumb In Serving Wine

NEW YORK (UPI) — How do you determine the amount of wine you serve to your guests? According to wine expert Italo Folanari-Ruffino, the rule of thumb is one-half bottle of wine or 12 ounces per person for dinner for a two or three course meal. If you are serving two wines, figure six ounces of each per person. Add another half bottle per person if wine is the aperitif.

Don't overlook smaller and larger bottles. Wine usually comes in 25-ounce fifths, 6.5-ounce splits, 12-ounce half bottles and 51.2-ounce magnums. A split of Chianti, for instance, would be ample for dinner for one and a magnum more convenient for larger groups.

The Charleston, S.C. museum, the first museum in America, was organized in 1773.

North Ireland Terror Groups Get PLO Arms

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—The Roman Catholic guerrillas in Northern Ireland have received new weapons from the Palestine Liberation Organization, an authoritative security source says.

Among the weapons are half a dozen American M60 machine guns and explosives, the source told The Associated Press.

The source declined to be identified or give many details. But it is known that the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing has received at least one shipment of arms from the PLO in recent months.

Five tons of PLO hardware — mortars, rocket launchers, automatic weapons and explosives — were intercepted in Belgium last November. The arms were hidden in electrical transformers en route from Cyprus to the Irish Republic.

"The IRA have plenty of weapons," the security source reported, "although we've captured a lot of their arms including American Armatite rifles."

The Provisionals, fighting a guerrilla war to end British rule of Northern Ireland and unite the Protestant-dominated province with the Catholic-dominated republic to the south, are known to have had links with the Palestinians since 1970. Palestinians have trained Irish guerrillas in Lebanon and Libya, intelligence sources say.

Security chiefs believe the Provisionals plan to step up the campaign they launched before Christmas against the members of the predominantly Protestant police force and Ulster Defense Regiment, the province's 8,000-member national guard.

The guerrillas feel this would provoke Protestants extremists into revenge attacks on the Catholic population, the Catholics would turn to the IRA for protection, and the increase in bloodshed would result in new pressure from the British public on the British government to pull out of Northern Ireland.

Some Protestants are demanding retaliation for the IRA firebomb attack last Friday on a crowded Belfast hotel dining room in which 12 Protestants were burned to death. But the backlash has not developed — yet.

"It's also essential for the IRA to counter their loss of support among Catholics," the security source said.

That dwindling support was eroded further by the hotel bombing, in which the IRA admitted for the first time that it had killed "innocent people." Even the guerrillas' political front, Sinn Fein, condemned the bombing.

The Provisionals unleashed their new campaign two months ago after being severely mauled by security forces. They have regrouped into tight cells, difficult to penetrate.

The source estimated the Provisionals now number no more than 100 hard-core gunmen and bombers in Belfast, plus a few score operating in the rest of the province and along the border.

Security commanders plan to zero in on the IRA's so-called

"godfathers," the shadowy veterans who mastermind the terror campaign.

Towns Share Public Housing Problems

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer
MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Three north-central New Jersey towns may be showing how regional cooperation can relieve the economic problems of the nation's thousands of small, suburban public housing authorities.

More than two-thirds of the nation's 2,807 local housing authorities serve smaller suburban communities. One of the earliest discoveries these smaller towns have made is that, economically speaking, smallness is often no virtue in running public housing.

Two years ago, Morristown's small suburban neighbors, Boonton and Dover, saw their combined 131 units of public housing badly deteriorating because the cost of maintenance was almost prohibitive. With limited resources, they couldn't hire their own maintenance staff and had to rely on costly, outside private maintenance firms.

The mostly elderly residents complained that repairs often took weeks.

Morristown, meanwhile, had 10 full-time persons on its maintenance staff, but lacked other social and occupancy services that it wanted to provide residents of its 400 units of public housing.

The solution, in hindsight, was obvious — cooperation, pooling of resources and skills among the three small housing authorities. It is an answer the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has urged on all small housing authorities for at least the past two years.

But in practice, there were huge obstacles, the largest being that suburban authorities across the country tend to guard jealously their local autonomy.

"The process of getting local housing commissioners to sit down and talk was very time consuming and difficult," says Garland Allen, who is monitoring the progress of the Morristown-Boonton-Dover venture for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In fact, it took a $285,000 HUD contract and heavy involvement by New Jersey state housing officials to overcome local fears that cooperation with outside authorities would mean being engulfed by a regional bureaucratic Frankenstein.

"You need a catalyst to get public housing authorities to cooperate because they have to give up some autonomy. But what I see in New Jersey is unique and promising," says Allen.

"What we're hoping is that when the demonstration project is over, we'll be able to document it so it will be duplicated elsewhere," says Martha Lamar, who is monitoring the program for the New Jersey state government.

HUD has spent $1.5 million over the past two years on pilot projects to help foster regional cooperation among several other smaller housing authorities. One project, encompassing 13 small housing authorities in Florida, was abandoned after local authorities failed to cooperate sufficiently.

More limited projects in Greensboro, N.C., Roanoke and Chowan, N.C., Wilmington, Del., Decatur and DeKalb County, Ga., Prince Georges County, Md., Fresno and Santa Clara, Calif., and Joliet, Ill., are continuing and are still being evaluated by HUD officials. Most often, those projects involve sharing computer facilities or training and sharing new staff among groups of small housing authorities.

Local housing commissioner Willard Hedden of Dover confesses that "Boonton and Dover were worried about autonomy," but he and others involved are enthusiastic about the results of the New Jersey public housing merger.

Under the scheme, the local housing authorities retained much of their original autonomy, but they jointly hired full-time professionals to handle occupancy and social service problems, and are pooling a full-time maintenance staff.

Karen Taggart, who works for the Dover housing authority, says maintenance costs have gone down 66-70 per cent as a result. Residents are happier because the maintenance crew is on 24-hour call and response time is now days rather than weeks.

Phyllis Lemkau-Welch, the occupancy expert now employed by the three authorities, says she has made a thorough assessment of the residents' abilities to pay rent. Most pay 25 per cent of their gross adjusted income — usually consisting of pensions, Social Security or other government benefits.

While her assessments frequently meant that some residents who weren't paying their fair share now are forced to, she says, "the average person doesn't mind if he or she knows his neighbor also is."

And by pooling resources and hiring social worker Kathy Marek, the three authorities are providing residents with social services that seemed too expensive before the regional venture. The authorities now provide family counseling, help in referring residents to social agencies, occupant orientation and home health service.

"We're getting what we ask," says 73-year-old Lawrence Keenan, a Morristown public housing resident. "If anyone is sick there's assistance right away."

Henry W. Block

If you qualify for the short form, we charge a very low price. The simpler the return, the less we charge. That's Reason No. 2 why you should let us do your taxes.

Publishes Sting Study

ECU News Bureau
Dr. Donald R. Hoffman, associate professor of pathology at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, has published results of a research project dealing with human allergic reactions to yellow jacket stings.

The article, "Allergens in Hymenoptera Venom and Identification of Some of the Enzymes and Demonstration of Multiple Allergens in Yellow Jacket Venom", appears in the February issue of the Annals of Allergy.

Hoffman, who is allergic to yellow jacket stings himself, developed laboratory diagnostic tests for yellow jacket allergies and then studied the reactions of people allergic to the stings.

His research concludes that there are four or five proteins in yellow jacket venom which cause allergic reactions to stings. Individuals may be allergic to one or more of the proteins.

Hoffman has conducted similar research with bee stings.

Bakerman Will Lead Seminar

ECU News Bureau
More than 45 pathologists and clinical chemists representing 22 states and Canada will attend a seminar, "A Review of Clinical Chemistry for Practicing Pathologists and Clinical Chemists", March 2-6 in Greenville.

The seminar is sponsored by the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Conducting the seminar will be Dr. Seymour Bakerman, chairman of the department, and Drs. Joseph Litten and Donald Hoffman, pathology professors. Bakerman has taught the course at medical centers across the United States since 1974.

The seminar surveys medical laboratory concepts and interpretation of laboratory data.

Dairymen Will Meet March 1

The 27th Annual Dairymen's Conference will be held March 1 and 2 at the McKimmon Center, N.C. State University, in Raleigh.

Registration will begin at 8:30 p.m. on March 1 with the morning program beginning at 9:30 p.m.

The program deals with topics such as milk pricing, milking efficiency, calf raising, milk residues, and production testing. The conference will conclude with a complimentary lunch and the presentation of awards including the 1978 Distinguished Dairymen Award.
